

Aerial Disaster Probe Is Begun By Investigators

NEW YORK (AP)—An imposing team of aviation investigators today began meshing their findings in an intense effort to fix the cause of the world's worst plane disaster. The inquiry brought into action the largest group of Civil Aeronautics Board experts ever assembled. They met in the federal building at Idlewild Airport to share notes, after a night of labor combing through wreckage, radio communication records and other material hunting a clue to Friday's double airliner tragedy. Two incoming planes, one a jet, collided above the city and plunged down, killing at least 136 persons, 127 of them aboard the planes. As the crash detectives gathered, G. Joseph Minetti, of the CAB board, said the probes are working in separate groups on every aspect of the accident — "operations, structure, human factors, power plant and weather study groups."

Yuletide Welfare Drive Is Moving

The Pitt County Welfare Department's annual drive to help needy families for Christmas "is moving along very well," according to Mrs. Elizabeth Avery who is in charge of the drive. Mrs. Avery said yesterday around 160 names of needy families have been furnished to county organizations and individuals. The local department expects to handle names of more than 400 families before next Tuesday. Mrs. Avery said the towns of Bethel, Winterville, Ayden and Farmville have requested lists of families living in the respective communities. She said Greenville organizations and individuals have been "very helpful."

Air Force Transport Plane Crashes Into Heart Of Munich; 50 To 60 Said Dead

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — A U.S. Air Force transport plane carrying American students home for Christmas plunged into the heart of Munich today. Police said 50 to 60 persons perished. At least 30 Christmas shoppers in the busy streets of this ancient Bavarian capital suffered critical injuries in the fiery crash. Police expressed belief that all 20 persons aboard the plane, perhaps 35 persons on a crowded streetcar struck by the plunging plane, and 10 or 15 persons on the streets perished. The two-engine plane dove on the city four minutes after the take off from Munich-Reim Airport. Flying at low altitude and already burning, it knocked off a church steeple and then crashed into a packed streetcar. Air Force headquarters in London said American students from the U.S. University of Maryland at Munich were believed among those killed. A spokesman said the students would have been dependents of U.S. military personnel stationed in England. The plane carried seven crew members and 13 passengers. An Air Force spokesman in Washington said the plane was attached to the 3rd Air Force and had just taken off for home base at Nordholt, England. There was no word to indicate there were any survivors among those aboard the plane. The Air Force gave the impression that it believed all had perished. German police were unable to say how many persons aboard the streetcar or strolling through the streets this pre-Christmas afternoon were hit. A 60-year-old woman who was standing before the door of her house in Bayer Street as the plane crashed, said: "I thought it was an atom bomb which somebody had thrown on our city. There was a terrible explosion and the street was immediately a sea of flames. I will never forget it. Panic broke out on the street. Men and women poured from the nearby houses, screaming and yelling and crying. It was chaos."

Munich time. A shopowner near the crash scene said: "The big plane came down like a wartime German dive bomber. It made a horrible, whining noise. We all dashed for shelter. Then came an explosion which threw us against the wall. "We ran outside. There was a burning mass of plane and street car. "People living in the neighborhood of the crash scene rushed to the rescue of those injured, laying moaning in the street. Firefighters and Red Cross ambulances arrived with sirens wailing. It was a terrible inferno." The parish priest of St. Paul's, Father Karl Froelich, 54, said: "It was terrible. The burning plane flew very low. It was visible losing height. It shaved off the steeple and then plunged into a streetcar jammed with passengers." Other witnesses said they saw the plane disintegrate upon impact. "The fuselage burst like an exploding shell," said Miss Maria Tauber, 32, who saw the tragedy from St. Paul's main gate. The nearby Spatenbrau beerhall, where the U.S. Army stores furniture, caught fire. Windows were smashed and doors ripped from their hinges by the plane's explosion.

Lie Test Expert Reports Payton Deception Attempt

RALEIGH (AP) — Union leader Boyd Payton's dramatic decision to submit to a lie detector test in his long battle to free himself from a six to 10 year prison term. It was revealed Friday that Payton failed the test he hoped would show he was innocent of complicity in a conspiracy to dynamite facilities of a struck Henderson cotton mill. The lie detection examiner reported to Paroles Board Chairman Johnson Matthews that Payton was "attempting deception" in some of his answers. Cleve Backster, New York lie detector expert who administered the test Thursday, said he felt Payton "had definite knowledge of and did directly or indirectly authorize the specific acts outlined in the conspiracy charge against him."

Banks Will Serve On December 24

Local banks have obtained permission to render limited banking service on December 24, according to an announcement today by the Greenville Merchant's Association. The announcement noted Gov. Luther Hodges proclaimed December 24 as a banking holiday, with provisions that banks could obtain special permission to remain open. Permission was granted, and the banks will render limited service which will include furnishing change, cashing checks, accepting deposits and verifying checks.

Kennedy Picks Postmaster General; Cabinet Complete

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy today completed his Cabinet — by announcing the selection of J. Edward Day, Los Angeles insurance executive, as postmaster general. As with the other nine members of the new administration Cabinet, Day was at Kennedy's side when the president-elect made the announcement at his ocean-front home. Day, 46, is a Democrat and once was a law partner of Adlai Stevenson, who will be ambassador to the United Nations in the Kennedy administration. Kennedy's Cabinet is described by his aides as the youngest in the 20th Century. The average age of the 10 members is 47. The aides said they had done no research on the age of Cabinets prior to 1900. Standing in warm sunshine on the patio of his home, Kennedy spoke of Day as a man who has had a distinguished career in both government and business. Day now is executive vice president of the Prudential Insurance Co., in charge of Western operations. He was a Stevenson law partner in 1945-49. When Stevenson became governor of Illinois, Day served as Illinois insurance commissioner from 1950 to 1953. Day flew to Palm Beach from Washington with the president-elect Friday night. Kennedy also announced appointment of W. H. Brawley, chief clerk of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, as deputy postmaster general. Brawley, 43, is a native of Chester, S. C. He came to Washington in 1941 to work with the Office of Price Administration. He later worked in the office of Sen. Oliver D. Johnston, D-S.C., chairman of the Senate Post Office Committee. On the committee since 1949, Brawley has worked under both Republican and Democratic chairmen. But he has been active in Democratic party affairs, serving as assistant campaign manager in 1956 for Democratic presidential candidate Stevenson. Kennedy announced earlier this week that he had first offered the post of postmaster general to Rep. William L. Dawson, Chicago Negro congressman. The president-elect said Dawson, a Democrat, turned down the job, saying he feels he can be of greater service to the new administration by remaining in the House because of his 18 years of service there. Day's selection had been indicated since Friday morning when he traveled to Washington from the West Coast at Kennedy's request. In addition to Day, the Kennedy Cabinet members, in the order of their selection starting Dec. 1, are: Secretary of health, education and welfare — Connecticut Gov. Abraham Ribicoff, 50. Secretary of commerce — North Carolina Gov. Luther H. Hodges, 62. Secretary of the interior — Rep. Stewart L. Udall, D-Ariz., 40. Secretary of state — Dean Rusk, head of the Rockefeller Foundation, 51. Secretary of defense — Robert S. McNamara, president of the Ford Motor Co., 44. Secretary of labor — Arthur J. Goldberg, AFL-CIO special counsel, 52. Secretary of Agriculture — Minnesota Gov. Orville L. Freeman, 42. Secretary of the treasury — Douglas Dillon, under secretary of state in the outgoing Eisenhower administration, 51. Attorney general — Robert F. Kennedy, brother of the president-elect, 35. Kennedy said he would have a statement Sunday on the appointment of the treasurer of the United States, a job below Cabinet level. This appointment is expected to go to Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, Democratic national committeewoman for California.

NATO 'Summit' Session Is Sought

PARIS (AP) — West Germany's defense minister today called on the Western government leaders to meet at a summit conference next spring to devise an agreed policy for NATO defense. Franz Josef Strauss made his proposal in response to the U.S. recommendation that NATO be armed with a new force of rocket-carrying nuclear subs and Polaris missiles. The West German defense minister said the meeting of chiefs of government was necessary to make the principal decisions in a new NATO nuclear policy. The meeting would take the place of the normal spring ministerial meeting of NATO, scheduled in Oslo. Strauss did not, however, specify that Oslo should be the site of the meeting. The defense chiefs of the 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance conferred on ways of countering growing Russian threats. The summit session, if accepted, would offer the NATO allies their first full opportunity to meet and talk with U.S. President-elect John F. Kennedy. Strauss spoke out strongly against the idea of a "fortress United States." He said this was technically possible but would be politically dangerous for Western Europe. This was taken as a response to suggestions in the past few days by U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter that the U.S. might redeploy some of its troops to help ease the U.S. dollar drain. The Herter statement was widely interpreted here as prefacing an actual withdrawal of some troops, with more possibly in the offing. Strauss said any withdrawal of the U.S. from Europe would be a step back to outdated military colonialism of the past. This would spread fear in Europe and open the door for more Soviet threats and belligerency, if not worse. The future military posture of the alliance was considered in the light of Friday's proposal by U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter that a massive force of Polaris missiles be readied off Europe's shores. Herter proposed the alliance finance 100 Polaris missiles to be bolstered by five U. S. nuclear submarines carrying 16 Polaris missiles each. He suggested this added force might allow the withdrawal of some American troops from Europe without weakening NATO. Although the United States would control the nuclear warheads, the missile force is intended to be under NATO control. The discussion of the Polaris was renewed by the defense chiefs at the second day of NATO's annual top-level review. The day began with a disquieting intelligence estimate of Soviet strength read by French Gen. Andre Beaufre, chairman of the top-level French - English-American standing group that makes NATO military policy. Although the report was delivered behind locked doors and is classified, informed sources said its substance gave no reason for Western complacency.

Holiday Plans

The Daily Reflector will observe Saturday, Christmas Eve, as a holiday and no paper will be published that day. The newspaper's annual Christmas greeting edition will be published as the regular Friday edition. Publication will be resumed with the Monday, December 26, edition. Advertising copy for Dec. 26th's paper should be submitted not later than noon, Friday.

DECEMBER PARADE

Market Street! Just a handful of shopping days before Christmas! The best-organized parade of the year!

Every marcher has been summoned by advertisements... inspired by the joy of giving. Each has a destination, an objective, a mission.

But never confuse the December parade with the real dedication of Christmas.

What every soul needs is not displayed in windows. And Christmas means nothing unless it means: ALL WE REALLY NEED... GOD HAS GIVEN!

In the church of your choice, dedicate your life anew to the Christ Child.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH! The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values.

Rose High Events

By CRAIG WORTHINGTON

Rose High's Mixed Chorus will present its annual Christmas concert tomorrow at 3:00 in the school gymnasium.

Under the direction of Mrs. Earl Beach, the group will open with "Adoramus Te, Christe" (Palestina) followed by "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel" (Arr. by Goodwin).

Sally Willis will accompany on the bell lyre soloist Lois Buck in "Christmas Lullaby" (Warren).

Soloists Anne Nichols, Bobby Hardee and Marvin Buck will each sing one verse of "O Holy Night" (Adam), after which the entire chorus will present "As It Fell Upon a Night" (K. Davis).

Soloists Ed Peaden, Henry Hoell, Jimmy Dall, and Bernard Willis will render "Gesu Bambino" (Yon). The chorus "Gloria in Excelsis Deo," an old French carol, will precede "Silent Night" (Gruber), which the quartet, Janice Waters, Sandra Vincent, Myrtle Moon Bilbro, and Donna Gammon will give. Linda Ferris will provide a violin obbligato.

The chorus will then sing "What Child Is This?" and "We Three Kings" (Hopkins). Martha Henderson, Anna White, and Pat Carter will sing as a trio "Noel" (Brett).

After "Joy to the World" (Handel), the group, along with any in the audience who wish to join with them, will sing "Hallelujah Chorus" (Handel).

Roy Carawan will serve as the reader for the program, while Jan Coward, Annette Stokes, Alice Cannon, and Henry Hoell will read the parts of the angels, Mary, and Herod, respectively.

Ruth Clark and Brenda Thigpen will accompany the mixed chorus on two pianos.

The program will consist of the reading of the Christmas story with musical background provided by the chorus, soloists, trios, and the quartet.

Clubs Have Joint Meeting

Junior FHA Party

Members of the Junior Future Homemakers of America are planning a party for several elderly people who are cared for by welfare, but who would enjoy meeting new friends of their own age. The group will entertain these specially-invited guests this Tuesday afternoon after school in the home economics lab.

Under the direction of Mrs. Grace Carraway, adviser, a steering committee including Susan Laughler, Pat Worsley, Anne Harrel, and Linda Hollowell has handled all of the details of the undertaking.

The group plans to provide transportation for their guests and will serve homemade refreshments and remember them with a Christmas gift.

Committee chairmen include Franklin Jolly, Judy Pressor, Barbara Minges, Lynn Dodson, Joan Briley, Betty Crawford, Sue Proctor, Gayle Humming, Barbara Baker, Allene Squires, Janice Williams Eunice Roper, Anna Overton, Ida Lynn Evans, Doris Phillips, and Betty Coughlan.

Senior FHA Plans

This morning, the members of the Senior Future Homemakers of America went to the Pitt County home to help the residents there celebrate Christmas.

The group took small decorated bags with gifts and favors. In addition, they sang Christmas carols as they decorated Christmas trees with ornaments which they had made.

Peace Contest

Last Monday evening, Pat Worsley and Richard Atkinson won first places in their respective divisions of the Peace Oratorical Contest sponsored by the local Optimist Club.

The two winners received gold medals. Robert B. Starling, adviser to the Rose High National Forensic League chapter, worked with these two and the other students who participated.

Toy Drive

Members of the UCYM met at St. James Methodist Church Wednesday night in order to plan their annual collection of toys for the needy. These toys were turned over to the fire department, through the help of the Salvation Army, to be mended.

Representatives from all of the local youth groups worked for nearly three hours collecting toys from every section of Greenville. Hot chocolate and doughnuts awaited the collectors when they returned to the church with their loads.

The collection was termed a great success by the UCYM president, Myrtle Moon Bilbro.

Marshals

Rose High's senior Marshals will serve at the glee club concert Sunday afternoon. Miss F. Estelle Greene, math instructor, advises this group.

Marshals this year include Melinda Coleman and Ben White, co-chiefs; Donna Day Blasette, Betsy Bryant, Ruth Clark, Jean Crawford, Marie Gibbs, Steve Humbert, Sara Collier Webb, Kathryn Winchester, and Craig Worthington. Linda Gaskins and Mary Lou Berry, who no longer attend Rose High, were included in last year's list.

Debate Tournament

Rose High's NFL chapter will sponsor a debate tournament at the school Saturday, January 7. Ten schools have tentatively decided to send representatives.

The teams will debate 7 minutes with 4 minute rebuttals on the query: Resolved that the voting age should be lowered to 18. Rose High already has two complete teams and is trying to add the third.

Newcomers Have Christmas Party

The Newcomers Club met Thursday morning at the country home of Mrs. W. Clyde Hollowell. The lower floor of the home was thrown ensuite for the occasion and appointed throughout with the use of the traditional green and red as the Christmas season decor.

The center of interest was an original modernistic latticed flat wall Christmas tree of green and silver foil and green bells under which guests placed their gift exchange packages.

Following a greeting and welcome by the hostess president, three progressions of bridge and canasta were enjoyed by the guests at the six tables at play. Gifts for scoring in bridge were presented to Mrs. Walter Thompson, Mrs. Edward Barnhill and to Mrs. R. L. Jordan for bridge, and for canasta, to Mrs. Hollowell and Mrs. W. E. Roseveare. Door prizes was presented to Mrs. Douglas Bunting.

A delightful covered dish luncheon was arranged and served buffet style from the dinette, with guests finding their places again in the card rooms. During the lunch hour, with Mrs. Lacy Harrell assisting the gifts were exchanged, opened and admired. Special guests recognized included Mrs. J. C. Hood, Kinston, mother of the hostess, Mrs. Carol Whichard, Robersonville, Mrs. Helene Higgs Kirkpatrick, and Mrs. W.C. Harris.

Several tables remained for continued card play into the afternoon.

As guests were bid goodbye, the hostess presented each with a gift package of her pecans.

Coffee Honors Miss Corbett

Mrs. Judy Corbett, bride-elect, was honored by Mrs. Reid Perkins at a coffee Tuesday.

Upon arrival, Miss Corbett was given a corsage of white narcissus and silver medallion.

Guests were greeted at the door by Miss Corbett and Mrs. Perkins. Decorations in the home were of the Christmas motif. Of focal interest in the living room was the arrangement of green and gold used on the mantel.

In the dining room the table centerpiece was of silver and red poinsettias.

Mrs. Arlene Teel, mother of the bride, poured coffee.

The hostess presented Miss Corbett with a gift of silver.

Mrs. Coffman Is Club Hostess

The Pickwick Book Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. E. Coffman in Brookgreen.

Mrs. Coffman introduced Dr. Robert Kramer of East Carolina College, who spoke to the group on the geography of North Carolina.

Dr. Kramer, began by showing the relation of North Carolina to the rest of the world. He illustrated his talk with slides concerned with the population, major industry, out-of-state passenger car traffic flow and flue cured tobacco in the state. These included color slides of scenes from the mountains to the coast. Dr. Kramer brought his talk closer home by giving members illustrated maps of Pitt County showing elevation and of Greenville's land uses in homes and commercially.

Mrs. Harry Allen, president, welcomed guests, Mrs. Les Morton and Mrs. Hartwell Campbell, and thanked Dr. Kramer for presenting the program. During the short business meeting, Mrs. Allen and the social committee discussed plans for the Christmas party to be given on Dec. 30. A letter was read from Mr. W. H. Davenport concerning the Negro Bookmobile. A motion was made and passed to send a donation for this cause.

Mrs. Coffman served iced pineapple cake, nuts and coffee to members and guests. Christmas match box favors were given members.

Following the distribution of books the meeting was adjourned.

News From Ayden

Mrs. M. J. A. Johnson spent the week in Havelock.

Mr. and Mrs. Corey Garris spent Sunday in Raleigh with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Moore and Paula.

Mr. Levi Tripp has returned home from Chapel Hill where he has been a patient in the hospital there.

Key Baldee of Dunn spent the weekend here with his parents.

Mr. Lester Garris is a patient in Lenor Memorial Hospital, Kinston.

Mrs. Clifton Gray of Wheat Swamp is visiting Mr. and Mrs.

Coffee Honors Bride-Elect

Martha Ann Branch, bride-elect of December 26th, was entertained Wednesday evening at a Coffee Hour given by Mrs. Hugh Hardee Jr., Mrs. Eugene Hardee and Mrs. Hugh Hardee Sr. at the home of the latter.

Christmas decorations were carried out throughout the home.

Miss Branch was presented with a corsage upon arrival.

Following several games, refreshments were served by the hostesses and a gift of linen was presented to the guest of honor.

Goodbyes were said by Mrs. Hugh Hardee Jr.

Cook extra asparagus stalks; marinate in olive oil, lemon juice, salt and pepper in the refrigerator. Serve with romaine and hard-cooked egg (sliced) for a delicious appetizer.

Entertains Bridge Club

Tuesday night at her home on Terrace Drive, Mrs. Leslie Stocks entertained members of her bridge club at their Christmas party.

The home was festive with seasonal decorations.

Mrs. Raymond Cox and Wilbur Dunn received the high and second high prizes.

A sweet course was served to the following: Mesdames Dunn, Cox, "Mae" Edwards, Joe Tripp, Tucker Tripp, Chester Hart, Clarence Hart and Bob Bateman.

Moose Buffet

The menu for Sunday's Moose Lodge buffet will be baked fresh ham, roast beef, fried fish, slaw, lima beans, creamed potatoes, chicken salad, french fried potatoes, pickles, olives, relish, celery hearts, radishes, cheese, hush-puppies, rolls, french bread, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee, chocolate pudding. Movies will be shown for the children.

Personals

Mrs. Ethel L. Williams will leave Monday for California to spend the holidays with her daughter, Patsy Baker, at 5043 Laurel Canyon, North Hollywood, Calif.

Misses Ann Moore, Anne Evans and Mary May will arrive home today from Salem College to spend the holidays with their parents.

Crisply-cooked crumbled bacon scattered over spinach, snap beans or sweet potatoes gives these vegetables a lift.

Shopping For A Child Requires Preparation

Christmas shopping for a child? Make sure you know his interests before you set out, or you're apt to end up making a return trip to the store for something more down his line.

"Put yourself in the place of the child," says Dr. Mary Moffitt, associate professor of child development at Queens College. "That's a good rule when adults go Christmas shopping for children's toys."

The best source for the shopper acquainting himself with a child's interests is the youngster's parents, advises Dr. Moffitt, an advisor to Toy Guidance Council. "Toys are literally tools of child development. A wise choice of playthings can give the child not only his happiest hours but long lasting dividends of educational benefit."

Least reliable source of information is memory. Dr. Moffitt says. "Even grownups who see children every day often find it difficult to keep up with their broadening interest and aptitudes."

Safety, of course, should be a prime consideration in selecting toys. In the case of pre-school children, this is of special importance. The baby and the toddler must have toys that are safe for sucking, that are light in weight with smooth edges and no small parts which might loosen and be swallowed. Many makers of toys for young children identify their safety points on packages or tags. At any age level, thought should be given to how the child will use the toy.

Balance in the selection of toys is a point grownups often lose sight of, Dr. Moffitt says. Children need a balanced variety of play activity just as they need daily food with the proper balance of nutrients.

When fresh apricots are in the market, poach them in a sugar syrup. They're delightful served with soft custard.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere appreciation for the many kindnesses expressed to me during my recent illness at Duke Hospital. The many visits, cards and gifts were appreciated.

Farsighted In Their Joint Project

A unique undertaking by leaders of Rocky Mount in the interest of boosting the economy of that community should commend itself to people of other communities throughout Eastern North Carolina.

The Rocky Mount project to which we refer is the effort now in progress to raise approximately $150,000 that will enable the city to attract an industry which will employ some 200 Negroes. The money is being acquired through the sale of stock to local citizens in Rocky Mount.

White and Negro leaders in Rocky Mount have endorsed the undertaking and more than 100 volunteers have participated in developing the effort since it was proposed several months ago.

If an industry which employs 200 Negroes could be acquired by any community in Eastern North Carolina, it would have a significant impact upon the economy of that community. A large per centage of Negroes in Rocky Mount and most other cities of this area depend heavily on seasonal employment for their livelihood. Were it not for tobacco processing and allied activities, construction work and farm activities, even the seasonal employment opportunities would be considerably less than they now are. By acquiring an industry which would employ a large number of Negroes on a year-round basis, a community of this area would be providing at least a partial solution to one of its economic problems.

While most communities of this section of the state have put forth efforts to create new jobs for its people by attracting new industries, the effort now being made in Rocky Mount is unique in that it is seeking a plant to use primarily Negro employment. It is also unique in that a strong bi-racial effort is being made in conjunction with the effort to acquire such an industry.

The progress which Rocky Mount makes in this current undertaking will be watched with interest by other cities in Eastern North Carolina. If the effort is successful—and Rocky Mount leaders appear confident it will be—it may set a pattern which other cities in this area can follow in seeking a better balanced economy and greater job opportunities for all their citizens.

Air Safety Progress Must Match Growth

The tragic air disaster over New York yesterday served to point up again in horrible terms the fact that some basic deficiencies remain to be corrected in spite of the tremendous strides made in commercial aviation.

Mid-air collisions—even in bad weather—would seem remote possibilities with all the modern equipment and traffic control methods that are employed in commercial aviation today. Yet such a collision caused the disaster.

Concentrated air traffic over heavily populated areas raises again a problem that has been pointed out many times without a satisfactory solution being found for it.

The air age in this country has reached the stage of maturity in which safeguards should prevent accidents such as that which occurred yesterday over New York. Great strides of progress in air safety have been made it is true, but it is apparent that much more needs to be done and done quickly in this field.

We are confident that airline officials and federal agencies will carefully investigate and seek to evaluate the mechanical or human failures which were contributing factors in one of the worst air disasters in the history of this country. We are also confident that some effort will be made to prevent future accidents of similar nature. Even so, it is evident that with constantly expanding use of air transportation throughout the nation a major break-through for safer air travel is imperative.

Traditional rate of progress in better air safety does not seem to be sufficient for the rapidly increasing use of this mode of transportation. There must be more effort in this direction and better safety devices and methods to reduce the toll in lives and property in air disasters.

The World That Kennedy Inherits

WASHINGTON (AP) — In his inaugural address on Jan. 20, 1961, the new president, Dwight D. Eisenhower, spoke of "this century of trial."

It has been more than a century of trial. It has been a century of fantastic changes and of challenges without precedent, even in Eisenhower's eight years in the White House.

No one has more reason for concern about them than President-elect John F. Kennedy, since he must face both the changes and the challenges. Just to note a few, in the first 60 years of this century:

The rise of communism in Asia and Africa, the disappearance of almost all the monarchies, the emergence of dozens of new nations from colonialism in Asia and Africa, the changing concept of war to missiles with hydrogen warheads that can be fired across oceans or from under them.

This is the world Kennedy inherits and must cope with.

The changes came in a rush in Eisenhower's prominent years.

As Allied commander in Europe in World War II he could have smashed Nazi Germany in a couple of weeks if he had had an atomic bomb. But he didn't.

Yet within a few weeks after Germany gave in the United States developed enough atomic bombs—two of them—to end the war with Japan. At war's end this country was the richest and, thanks to the bombs, the most powerful.

Most of the rest of the world was broke and prostrate. Yet, by the time Eisenhower took office in 1953 America's complete dominance had started fading.

The Soviet Union by then not only had developed its own atomic bomb, ending America's even look up into the heavens. There are fewer still who think in terms of the vastness which the starry heavens disclose. We look down to the earth. We observe life around about us and go along day by day as if we were talking to our fellows. But too seldom do our eyes turn upward. Too seldom do we think of ourselves and our problems in terms of loftiness—in terms of the stars.

Let us live our lives not in a corner but in the vastness of a God-created universe. Let us think of ourselves as children of that God who made both us and the starry heavens. We are part of that grandeur. Let us live up to our destiny. Let us strive to "Go, and catch a falling star."

A Pre-Christmas Night

An evening errand awoke me to realization that Pitt Countians were enjoying a "typically" perfect pre-Christmas night.

Oh you could tell it was the Yule season, all right. There were lights in windows, fronts of houses imaginatively adorned with lights, Santa Clauses, nativity scenes and even reindeer—all gloriously jumbled up.

Floodlights, red lights, green lights and yellow lights. . . and so much blue!

Once, the Christmas colors were red, green and white. Now it's a rainbow affair.

Here and there a Christmas tree, glittering bright, could be seen through windows.

To top it off, he night was black and cold with stars shining cold and brilliant from on high.

I half-expected to encounter lantern-bearing caroleers making their rounds; that's how much Christmas there was in the air.

Still, it felt good to be back inside where there was soft light and warm. Tinging cold and Christmas "go together"; but make my cold weather in small portions, please.

I was more than mildly interested when word was out that a program of instruction in stringed instruments would be made available to school youngsters.

Being an old violin man, the natural impulse was to sagely nod and tell someone that "it's about time."

My teacher told me the violin was the most difficult of all to master. He may have been salving my feelings at the time; but my own sense of "mastery" was slight, and came late in the game. It isn't for someone with a built-in lazy-bone.

When I look back on the literally thousands of hours spent striving with the violin, and how foreign it would feel in my hands today, well it makes me wonder.

I've sometimes wondered how my parents stood up so well to the scrapings, sawdaws and disharmony produced over so long a time. Because strings require a touch acquired only with years of work. And, as my teacher was wont to quote "if I miss practice one day, I know it; if I miss practice two days, my family knows it; if I miss practice for a week, everyone knows."

Still there were compensations. . . small triumphs, being paid for playing (as contrasted with payment for not playing). And the experience left me with an appreciation and love of music that is "in my bones," as the saying goes.

The strings call for work, endurance, patience and dedication. Their reward varies with the individual.

Other Editors Saying Ocracoke Ferry Vote

(Goldensboro News-Argus)

The vote of the State Highway Commission against continuing an auto ferry from Ocracoke to the Carteret County mainland is short-sighted. It is a vote against the best interests. This includes the best interests of the Land of the Sky, the Piedmont, and Central North Carolina.

For that Ocracoke-Carteret ferry is no local ferry. It is the scape route, the builder and promoter route for the Hatteras National Seashore Park. This newest and strangest and most romantic, historic and picturesque of national recreation areas cannot serve the nation and the state, it cannot be the tourist builder it should without that ferry. For without the Ocracoke-Carteret ferry the hundreds of thousands of visitors who annually come to refresh body, mind and soul at strange Hatteras Seashore Park must backtrack their routes. What tourist, in this impatient day, is willing to retrace his steps along a route over which he passed a few hours or a day or so apart?

Highway Commissioner Mason entirely misses the point when he says that Ocracoke has only 600 people and the state provides a ferry for so few. This honorable board member should extend his acquaintance with what the Hatteras Seashore and the beach country and the tourist business can do toward progress for our beloved state.

We particularly were disappointed to find Publisher Robert Bunnelle of Asheville listed as

Opinions In Brief

Use Christmas Seals

Predicting Record Yule Sales

By ELMER ROESSNER

This is to predict that retail sales this Christmas shopping season will top totals of 1959 and set a new high mark.

The margin will be small. But it will be again, despite the present talk about recession, depression or which party do you belong to?

There is no statistical table showing Christmas season sales from year to year. The nearest thing to it is the Department of Commerce series on total retail sales by months. While most Christmas sales take place between Thanksgiving and Christmas Eve the sales in December prove an approximate total for the traditional sales period.

Total sales in December, 1959, were $21,454,000,000. That was REACH $2 BILLION. There are two reasons for being sure that mark will be bettered this year.

One is that prices are somewhat higher. If consumers buy no more than the same number of toys, salad bowls and milk coats as last year, the season's total is certain to be higher because a little bit more has been added to the price of each of those, and to millions of other items.

But there is an even more salient reason. That is that despite the recession, dip, slump, depression—or whatever is the proper name for the screwy situation we are passing through now—income keeps increasing. As has been said here before, this is the most utterly mad decline in American economics because almost every type of income keeps on going up.

Total personal income has been running at a rate of $2 billion a year higher than in 1959. And in all the confusion persisting in the world of economics, one relationship continues. That is that spending has an inexorable relation to income. So, since income is rising, so will Christmas spending go up.

SALES HOLDING UP This phenomenon has been evident all year: While some economists have been crying halloo about the fox of recession, and while employment has been weakening, income and consumer spending have been rising. Nutty, but true.

Department store sales have run 1 per cent above a year ago in the first 11 months of the year according to Federal Reserve figures. This tabulation roughly parallels total retail sales.

December sales got off to a slow start because of the mild weather in most parts of the country. Then they were set back by this week's storms from Texas to Maine. Nevertheless,

Money In Our Morale

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The argument is that in peacetime a soldier or a civilian employee of the United States, sent overseas, must have his family with him and must have cushy inducements or he will not serve his country. The assumption is that only during a fighting war need a sacrifice be made; that if Americans are stationed in West Germany, Africa, Japan or anywhere else when fighting is actually not taking place, the inducement should be that they will live better than they ever lived before. Otherwise, their morale will be low.

If this is a correct statement of the attitude of American personnel in government service, then we are licked worse than we know. In the circumstances of modern war we cannot limit our overseas personnel to periods when an enemy is actually attacking us. Soviet Russia is making permanent war against us. The attacks are made in various places and are of diverse natures, requiring large numbers of experts to handle the problems that arise from the attacks.

Public Law 86-707 sets forth in great detail all that is to be allowed civilian employees of our government abroad. Let me cite a few items:

"A post allowance to offset the difference between the cost of living at the post of assignment of the employee in a foreign area and the cost of living in Washington, District of Columbia."

"A transfer allowance for extraordinary, necessary, and reasonable expenses, not otherwise compensated for, incurred by an employee incident to establishing himself at any post of assignment in a foreign area or at a post of assignment in the United States between assignments to posts in foreign areas."

"A separate maintenance allowance to assist an employee who is compelled, by reason of dangerous, notably unhealthful, or excessively adverse living conditions at his post of assignment in a foreign area or for the convenience of the Government, to meet the additional expense of maintaining, elsewhere than at such post, his wife or his dependents, or both."

For the children, this is done: "The travel expenses of dependents of an employee to and from a school in the United States to obtain an American secondary or undergraduate college education, not to exceed one trip each way for each dependent for the purpose of obtaining each type of education."

I only cite these items as examples of what the United States does for its employees. There is much more. All of this involves the export of dollars and, as it has worked out, of gold, to foreign countries. The greatest item in our balance of payments which goes against us is the cost of maintaining Americans abroad on an American standard of living whether the country can afford it or not. Cutting out the foreign items sold in a PX will not alter the situation too much, although it may help.

What will make the difference is an analysis of how many persons, military and civilian, the United States employs abroad and what they actually do that is of value. If this force can be cut by a third or a half it would make an enormous difference in our national bookkeeping. We shall be required to cut our overseas expenditure until we have a substantial surplus. This is the most severe problem that faces this nation.

For instance, what has been the actual propaganda value of some of our agencies in many foreign countries? HAS anyone ever made an evaluation of them and of the work they do and what they have actually accomplished in not to exceed perhaps a new President will have a new look at all this. If having enormous personnel at each embassy, labor experts and cultural experts and propagandists brings us nothing but neutralism or enmity, why not save the cost?

It ought to be a top undertaking of the new Administration to make a study of the work that is being done overseas. Vice President Nixon announced during the campaign that he would put all Cold War projects in a new office under Henry Cabot Lodge. It was a good (Continued on page six)

Wilson Ends Phant Win Streak, 61-51

A guy name Joe—not an ordinary Joe—brought misery to Greenville's Phantoms last night and kicked off the yuletide season for the loer cagers on a score.

Joe Davis, stocky cager who plays the hard-core football player, shot 27 points, breaking a three game Wilson losing streak, and leading a 61-51 Cyclone victory over Greenville.

A slow starter, the Wilson sharp-shooter did most of his gunning in the final half as the visitors overcame Greenville's early lead late in the third period and stifled several mild upsurges in the final period.

Field goals in the first period were about as rare as a 1961 penny. The Phants hit a couple of two-pointers just before the buzzer and held a 9-6 lead in the low-scoring period.

A good scoring effort by Layne Jorgensen in the second period enabled the Phants to build their lead to five points—23-23—at intermission.

Wilson started to whittle the Greenville lead in the third quarter and drew even at 33—all with three minutes left. A two pointer by Davis put them ahead 37-25 and Greenville couldn't buy a basket for almost three minutes.

The Phants had their scoring problems again early in the final period and Wilson pushed its lead to 10 points.

Several times, Greenville was able to cut it to five but never could muster enough scoring punch to press the visitors in the final minutes of action.

Layne Jorgensen hit 12 points for Greenville and Kroghie Andersen, and Alan McArthur had 10 each.

The defeat left the Phants with a 2-2 over-all mark. They swing into conference action following the Christmas holidays.

Coach Bud Phillip's junior varsity blew a 10 point lead in the third quarter of the opener but roared back to dump Wilson 55-46 for its second win without defeat.

Kenny Joyner led the victory with 17 points. Shackelford was high for Wilson with 12 points.

Rodriguez Clashes With Griffith
NEW YORK (AP)—A probable shot at the world welterweight title will be on the line tonight at Madison Square Garden when unbeaten Luis Rodriguez from Cuba and Emile Griffith, Virgin Islands-born New Yorker, clash in a 10-round nationally televised fight.

The bout, scheduled for 10 p.m. with ABC handling the televising, is billed as an elimination scrap for the 147-pound crown held by Benny (Kid) Paret. The winner may be matched with Paret early next year.

Rodriguez, 23, is undefeated in 33 bouts with two others listed as "no contest."

Tar Heels Drop Second In Row, Deacons Win Third

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina's Tar Heels will be trying to regain a measure of the prestige they enjoyed before their last two basketball games when they collide with Kansas tonight.

Kansas State edged North Carolina 77-69 in an overtime game at Manhattan, Kan., Friday night. Kentucky first knocked the props from beneath the fifth ranked Tar Heels, 70-65, Tuesday night.

The lead changed nine times and the score was tied six times in the frantic second half.

The story of the game, perhaps, was in the field goal percentages, where the Wildcats had a slight edge. State hit on 39 per cent of its shots, and North Carolina 36 per cent.

The Tar Heels, now with a 2-2 record, will have their hands full again tonight. Kansas clubbed Michigan State 93-69 in the other half of the doubleheader at Manhattan, Kan., Friday night.

The Cavaliers had pulled ahead 66-61 when Chappell and Billy Packer went to work to cut the margin. The Deacons finally pulled even at 75-75, and Packer made good on a three-point play to send them ahead to stay.

Virginia was led by Tony Laquintano with 25 points.

Wake Forest, which now has a 4-2 record, hoped tonight to put the first blemish on Maryland's 5-0 record. The Deacons upset previously unbeaten and 10th ranked N.C. State 68-67 Wednesday night.

Packers Choice To Clinch Title

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
Green Bay was a 10-point favorite to defeat the Rams at Los Angeles today and clinch the Western Conference championship in the National Football League.

But all the packers needed was a tie.

Only a loss could keep Green Bay (7-4) from a Dec. 26 meeting with the Eastern champion Eagles at Philadelphia. And even that might only change the date because the Packers could draw a share or three-way playoff in the West.

Five Sunday games remain on the NFL's final weekend schedule and here's what they mean:

Baltimore (6-5) at San Francisco—If the Packers lose, a share of first place for the winner. Otherwise, at least a share of second.

Detroit (6-5) at Chicago (5-5-1)—If the Packers lose, a share of first place if the Lions win. Otherwise, a share of second for a Lions victory and a certain berth in the NFL runner-up bowl, Jan. 7 at Miami.

Pittsburgh (5-5-1) at St. Louis (5-5-1)—Fourth place in the East for the winner.

Philadelphia (9-2) at Washington (1-8-2)—Nothing.

The Lions, if tied with either San Francisco or Baltimore, get the Miami bid because they hold a 34-14 point edge in a seasonal split with the 49ers and a 2-0 games won edge over the Colts.

A two-way first-place tie in the West forces the title game back to Jan. 1, a three-way finish makes it Jan. 8.

Sunday's favorites are the Colts (by 5 points), the Lions (by 4), the Browns (by 1), the Cardinals (by 1) and the Eagles (by 7).

PREP SCORES

Tarboro 55 Robersonville 50

ROBERSONVILLE—Bill Bailey of Tarboro and Robersonville's Bonnie Stevenson waged a one-man scoring duel here last night. The Rams' lofty center won out but Tarboro finished on top of the score sheet, 55-50.

load for their respective teams but smooth-working Billy Frewer slipped in with 11 points to give Tarboro a 55-50 uphill victory.

Stevenson finished with 23 points and Bailey had 22 for Tarboro. The Rams, without scoring leader Tommy Ward, played 40 minutes to the vest all the way and were out front 22-21 at halftime. A 17-point surge by Tarboro in the third period gave the Tigers a two point spread going into the final period.

Coach Bob Lee had to use his high-scoring center sparingly in the second half after Stevenson was in foul trouble early in the game. The Tarboro junior varsity won a 41-38 decision in the opener. The losers converted only seven of 29 free throws.

Robersonville plays at Beargrass in a conference game Tuesday night.

Ayden 79 Stokes-Pactolus 30

STOKES—Stokes-Pactolus received another lesson in the finer arts of basketball here last night. This time Ayden was the instructor and drilled the Blue Jays with a 79-30 setback.

The host girls beginning to jell won their second straight in the opener by turning back Ayden in a 41-37 thriller.

After a sluggish first period, Ayden's starting five of William Edwards, Clem McLawhorn, Ted Norris, Dinky Mills and Tommy Dunn ripped Stokes-Pactolus' defense to ribbons with a barrage of field goals.

Winning coach Stuart Tripp got an opportunity to turn his reserves loose in the second half of the county tussle.

The winners tallied 27 and 24 points in the final two quarters last night, the reserves taking full credit for the final period assault.

Center Ted Norris had 17 points for top honors and Tommy Dunn had 14. J. Whitehurst, with six, was high for the losers.

Lillian Crisp scored 27 points to pace the Jays' second straight victory. Andrea Harris had the same number for Ayden.

The victory in the nightcap elevated Ayden's season mark to 4-1 and 3-1 in league play.

Grimesland 44 Belvoir-Falkland 39

BELVOIR—Lindsay Hardee scored four of Grimesland's five points in an overtime here last night, leading the Panthers to a 44-39 win over Belvoir-Falkland.

The high-scoring Grimesland forward was cramped in the scoring column during the regulation game by the air-tight defensive job of Harold Harris. But Harris fouled out late in the game and Hardee poured in four quick points after the game had ended in a 39-39 knot.

Coach Dan Wooten's Eagles were unable to score in the extra period of play.

Although Lindsay regained his scoring touch late in the game, he placed second to Lewis Hardee in the scoring totals. The latter had 16 points while Lindsay netted 14.

Joe Jenkins was high man for the losers with 11 points. Harris hit the basket for 10 points before fouling out.

Coach Ed Warren's lassies waltzed to a 62-49 victory with an evenly-balanced scoring attack in the night's opening contest.

Mary Pollard, with 20 points, Carolyn Harris, with 17, and Phyllis Nichols, with 12, gave B-F an offensive punch in the first half that produced a 32-19 lead, enabling Warren to test his reserves in the final half.

Betty Morgan of Grimesland drew individual honors for the night with 33 points.

Bethel 76 Chicod 41

BETHEL—Bethel's "Untouchables" turned what was supposed to be a close game into a romp midway the second period here last night and went on to crush Chicod 76-41 and remain undefeated in conference competition.

Even without starter Don Dewar—out with an ankle injury—the Indians' quick-breaking attack and savage work on both boards left Chicod without a hope before intermission.

Bethel warmed up its machine in the first stanza. The best Chicod could do was 11 in the first three periods.

Point starters and a reserve finished in double figures for the winners: Harvey Lewis had 19 for the league pace-setters and reserve Jimmy Lewis followed suit with 15.

Others in the double digits were John Smith, with 14, and Tex Everett and Herman Daniels, who had 13 each.

Ephraim Smith was high man for Chicod's outclassed club, hitting 28 points. All-County Ray Fornes was slowed down with only nine points.

In the opener, Bethel turned a two point first quarter lead into a nine point spread by halftime and coasted in with a 46-22 victory.

Carolyn Manning netted 29 points for the winners and Pansy Jones was high for Chicod with 11.

The Department of Interior has made its annual fish and game fund allotments to the states, and North Carolina was given $300,355.23 for its game program and $94,573.35 for its fish program.

The money is derived from a tax on the sale of hunting and fishing equipment, and is distributed to the states in a ratio to the number of hunting and fishing licenses sold. The game money comes from an 11 per cent tax on sporting guns and ammunition (it's included in the retail price of your gun and ammo and the manufacturer pays it to the government) and the fish restoration funds come from a 10 per cent tax on fishing equipment.

The funds are awarded to the states on a 3-to-1 basis, the state paying 25 per cent of its projects. The state will submit a proposal to the Department of Interior, carry out the project with its own funds, then be reimbursed by Interior up to 75 per cent.

Most of North Carolina's federal funds go into salaries of its game and fish biologists, refuge managers, project leaders, etc. These men, however, are considered state employees.

The Dingell-Johnson Act supplies the fish money and the Pittman-Robinson Act the game money.

Don't Shoot In Nests

Local squirrel, corn, and possum hunters can avoid mixing with the law if they avoid shooting into squirrel nests in pursuit of game.

Clyde P. Patton, executive director of the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission states that reports of hunters shooting into squirrel nests has made necessary a crackdown on this type of violation.

Patton said that the Wildlife Commission regulation prohibiting shooting into squirrel nests is statewide, and was made to protect squirrels primarily, but coons and possums frequently take refuge in squirrel nests when being pursued.

Lot Of Back Trouble

And the story is told of three North Carolinians who tied into a sassy blue marlin off Cape Hatteras this fall. Henry Harris hooked the fish and fought it for 30 minutes. Since he occasionally has back trouble, Harris turned the rod over to Ben Willis. But Willis has a history of back trouble, so he handed the rod to Leon Lentz in about 10 minutes. Lentz, sound as a rock, gave the marlin quite a battle but lost the 90-pounder within gaffing distance of the boat. It was not enough that Lentz then had to listen to opprobrium from his two fishing companions. He had to go home to bed and stay there for several days. Diagnosis was back trouble.

It would take a husky angler to carry his Florida limits of fish very far. An individual can take (legally) a total daily creel of 90 fresh water game fish: 35 panfish, 10 bass, 15 pickerel and 30 white bass. The possession limit is double these numbers.

THE THREE HUNTERS—Rose High students Tom Arthur, Roger Collins and Gordon Aycock show results of their hunting excursion Tuesday afternoon. The trio did their hunting in Pitt County.

Young Driver Held For Grand Jury In Traffic Death

Seventeen-year-old J.C. Hester, Negro of Fountain, was placed under a $1,000 bond last night after a coroner's jury recommended he be held for grand jury action in the traffic death of a Route 4 Greenville man, Jimmie Spain.

Pitt County coroner E.W. Harvey said Spain died December 13 of injuries received November 23 when his car collided with a vehicle operated by Hester, at the intersection of N.C. 43 and N.C. 11-U.S. 13.

At the inquest last night, Mrs. Raymond R. Webb of Bell Arthur, who told she was headed North on U.S. 13 toward Bethel, said, "What I saw was the car (Spain's) twirling around. . . the light was on green." She noted that as the car spun around following the collision, the light on U.S. 13 turned to caution, then to red. She said she stopped for the red light, then turned right and stopped at the scene of the wreck, and saw Spain down beside his car.

She said she was traveling about 25-30 miles per hour as she approached the intersection and stated "it was foggy." Mrs. Webb told the inquest that as she saw the car spinning around she commented to her nephew who was riding with her in the car, "I don't know who was in front of us but they certainly had a green light."

When District Solicitor Robert D. Rouse of Farmville asked Mrs. Webb if the light was green before the collision she answered, "Yes siree."

Thomas Smith, Jr., 16, of Fountain, a passenger in the Hester auto told the jury that as they approached the intersection from some distance away, he saw the light was green but noted he did not know what color the light was when the Hester car went through. Jimmy Knight of Route 3, Greenville who was one of the first persons at the scene of the wreck said he was approaching the intersection from the West, headed East toward Greenville, N.C. 43. He stated he had a red light and when he reached the intersection he stopped, then proceeded across when the light turned green.

As he started across, he stated he saw the Spain car, then "noticed a man falling out, bent double." He added that as he did not notice anyone else at the scene except a "girl on the other side of the car," and added some "headlights pulled in behind me."

Patrolman J.B. Surles, the first officer on the scene, then took the stand and noted that Hester said the light was red as he approached the intersection, he slowed down, then proceeded on across as the light changed to green. Surles added that Hester said he had been traveling about 30-35 miles per hour but slowed down to about 30 miles per hour when he noticed the red light. As the light turned green, he proceeded across the intersection at the same speed.

Patrolman H.R. Winslow took the stand and told that Hester said the light turned green when he was approximately 100-150 feet from the intersection.

Following other witnesses, Hester said he was headed East, toward Greenville and saw the light was red. He slowed down but "before I got there" the light turned green. "The next thing I knew I was getting out of the car," he stated. He pointed out he did not see any other cars near the intersection on either road, and said he never came to a complete stop at the intersection, but said the light was green for the N.C. 43 traffic.

J.G. Porter, traffic and sign supervisor for the State Highway Commission in the area explained the operations of the traffic lights at the intersection at the inquest.

He stated the lights on U. S. 13 remained green until a vehicle crossed the detector on N.C. 43 or West Fifth St., at which time the lights on U.S. 13 changed to caution, then to red. If only one vehicle crossed the detector on N.C. 43, the light will remain green only 12 seconds but he added, a continuous flow of traffic on the N.C. 43-West Fifth St. road would hold the green light for 25-30 seconds before turning red again.

He noted that the green light on U.S. 13 would be held for a minimum of 25 seconds before changing, and said the caution lights would be held for four to five seconds before either light changed to red. He also noted the detectors are 50 feet from the traffic lights.

Coroner Harvey, who said Spain's death resulted from internal bleeding, kidney injuries and other complications resulting from the accident, explained that Hester was charged by P.H. Winslow with failing to stop for a stop light after the accident and before Spain's death.

Service Pins Presented To City Utilities Employees

AT GREENVILLE UTILITIES DINNER . . . service pins representing 700 years are presented to employees. (Photo by Lee Rowland)

Service pins representing 700 years of employment were presented to Greenville Utilities Commission employees at their annual Christmas party last night.

The pins, authorized for the first time this year, were given to the employees by Utilities Chairman Charles Horne.

There were three 35 year pins presented. They went to Assistant Sup't. Larry Brown, Paul Fyfe and Sidney E. Briley. Thirty year pins went to William E. Hill, Robert I. Hill and Wilburn E. Small. Twenty-five year pins were awarded to N. A. Roebuck, Kelly R. Rowe and Clarence W. Willard and 20 year pins went to Leon H. Jones, Irving A. Roberson, Sidney R. Spain and James L. Whichard.

Chairman Horne expressed thanks to the employees on behalf of the commission members.

Mayor S. Eugene West complimented the employees for making the Utilities one of the most successful industries of the city.

Supt. Leonard Bloxam was master of ceremonies for the program. He presented the "Dixiecrats," a barbershop quartet who entertained the gathering.

The dinner was held at the Moose auditorium.

Guests included: Councilmen Charles King, Wesley Harvey and their wives; Mayor and Mrs. S. Eugene West; Commissioners Ed Waldrop, B. B. Sugg, K. B. Pace and their wives and Chairman Charles Horne and Mrs. Horne.

Other employees receiving pins last night included: 15 years, R. Carl Abee, Vernice L. Baker, Lector M. Bullock, Jesse M. Fleming, Wilford P. Gibson, Henry Heath, Marvin James, Johnnie L. Parkerson, Lloyd S. Vincent.

Priest Installed As Local Pastor

The Reverend Stephen Sullivan was installed as pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church in Greenville last night.

Acting in behalf of Bishop Vincent S. Waters, of the diocese of Raleigh, Monsignor Edward Gilbert read Father Sullivan's letter of appointment and turned over to him the keys of the church . . . his symbol of authority.

Monsignor Gilbert, Dean of the Goldsboro District, congratulated the Greenville parish on the appointment of Father Sullivan, noting he was "well known and held in the highest esteem" throughout the diocese.

A number of priests from surrounding communities attended the brief ceremony. Among them were Fathers Philip O'Mara of Goldsboro, Arthur Duncan of Dunn, Gerald Ryan (C. P.) of Washington, Fred Koch of Newton Grove, Howard Childron (C. P.) and Maurice Tew (C. P.) of St. Gabriel's Church in Greenville.

Four Collisions In City Are Reported

Over $1,800 damage was reported by Greenville police in four collisions investigated by local officers, two Thursday, and two this morning.

Heaviest damage resulted today when a car operated by Miss Marjorie Meeks, 20, of 100 Cotontea St. collided with a truck owned by Lawrence C. Howie, 201 Vance St. which was parked at his residence.

Officers said damage to the truck totaled $600 while damage to the Meeks car was set at $200.

Miss Meeks was charged with having improper equipment, to wit fog and ice on her windshield. Police noted Miss Meeks was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for cuts to her lips, and released. The accident occurred at 8:05 a.m.

Thursday, an estimated $500 damage resulted to a car operated by Mrs. Estelle S. Thigpen of Williamston when it collided with a car driven by Walter E. Flanagan, 62-year-old Negro of 1026 W. Fifth St. at the intersection of Fourth and Pitt.

Damage to the Flanagan car was set at $150. Mrs. Thigpen was charged with failure to yield the right of way in the 12:57 p.m. collision.

Thomas M. Howard, 21 of New Port, was charged with operating without a license and operating the wrong way on a one-way street following a collision at the intersection of Fifth and Pitt Sts. Thursday at 8:50 p.m.

Investigators said the Howard car collided with a car driven by James Davis, address not given, causing an estimated $150 damage to the Davis vehicle. Damage to the Howard auto was set at $100.

Garland Eugene Harris, 24 of Route 4, Greenville was charged with passing at an intersection following a collision at the intersection of Fifth and Nash Sts. today at 8:57 a.m.

Police said the Harris car collided with a vehicle driven by David Allen Blake, 36-year-old Negro of Route 2, Greenville. Damage to the Blake auto was placed at $75, while damage to the Harris car was estimated to be about $150.

Minister Speaks At PTA Meeting

Rev. William Hadden, pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church, brought a Christmas message to parents and teachers attending the Agnes Fullilove P.T.A. Thursday night.

Christmas is a family holiday, he said, and there are three moods that should dominate our thinking during this season. They are the moods of expectancy, joy and worship.

The Rev. Mr. Hadden was introduced by Miss Agnes Fullilove, principal.

The school Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. Carolyn Horton, presented a program of special Christmas music. The group of parents and teachers joined the Glee Club in singing "Joy to the World" and "Silent Night" after which the Rev. Mr. Hadden concluded the program with prayer.

Christmas decorations in the auditorium featured a large Christmas tree. The classrooms also contained Christmas trees and decorations the children had made.

Junius H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville schools, reminded the group that local schools are fortunate not to have Christmas barred from the schools, as is the case in some areas. He asked students to remember safety during the holidays and to feed and protect the birds.

Mother Of Greenville Woman Died Friday

Mrs. Katie Jones Kennedy 85, mother of Mrs. Mable Mann of 107 Grande Ave. in Greenville, died at a nursing home at Elm City Friday morning following six months of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Sunday afternoon at one o'clock and burial will be in Pineview Cemetery in Rocky Mount. The Rev. Rashie Kennedy, pastor of Grace Free Will Baptist Church, assisted by the Rev. Ola Porter, Holiness minister of Winterville, will conduct the services.

Mrs. Kennedy spent her early life in the Tarboro community, and after her marriage to J. W. Kennedy she made her home in Laurel Hill. Mrs. Kennedy died in 1932. She had made her home with her daughter since 1958.

Surviving are the daughter; three grandchildren; four great grandchildren; and three brothers, J. C. and Berry Jones of Roanoke Rapids, and Mack Jones of Fresno, California.

GUEST SPEAKER
Dr. W. Burkette Raper, president of Mount Olive College in Mount Olive, will be guest speaker at the 11 o'clock service, Sunday morning at Bethany Free Will Baptist Church, Winterville.

Correction

Joe H. Goodson was elected president of the Pitt County Shrine Club, instead of P. L. Goodson as erroneously stated in yesterday's Daily Reflector.

Joe Goodson was installed . . . president in ceremonies held Thursday night at a local restaurant.

Other officers installed at the meeting were C. M. Respass, vice president, William Yost, secretary, and Kelly Row, treasurer. Ed Ricks is outgoing president.

The outgoing officers were thanked by the club members for their services during the past year.

Reedy Branch Choir To Present Cantata

The 28-voice Chancel Choir of Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church will sing "Night of Miracles," a cantata of the miraculous incarnation of Christ Sunday night at 7:30. The choir, under the direction of the pastor, Rev. Henry Melvin, and the youth of the church, under the direction of Mrs. W. C. Little, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Langston and Mrs. Belvin Tucker, presenting seven Nativity Scenes, combine to make for a most unusual musical and dramatic presentation of the Nativity. Mrs. James S. McCormick, Blaine Moyer, H. Burnice Smith and Jimmy Stocks will sing the soprano, tenor, bass and baritone solos respectively.

"The Gift and the Giver" will be the pastor's sermon topic at the 11 o'clock Sunday morning worship service with the choirs singing "O Holy Night" by Adams as the offertory anthem

Locally-Manufactured Products Shipped To All Corners Of Earth

HOGSHEADS OF GOLDEN WEED . . . here are being stacked at Ficklen Tobacco Co., Greenville, for shipment around the globe.

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

What are the destinations of products manufactured by Pitt County's relatively young and thriving family of industries?

A surprisingly varied group of manufacturing outfits, numbering around 20, ship products from the Pitt County area to virtually every corner of the earth.

Pitt's manufacturing family turns out consumer goods that range from jars of pickles in Ayden, to hogsheads of tobacco in Greenville, to boat trailers in Grifton, to small electrical wire in Farmville.

Markets for these products range from points in North Carolina, to Midwestern cities to the West Coast, to South America, Singapore, and Hong Kong.

Methods of shipping are about as varied as are the products and markets. Some of Pitt's manufacturers depend on rail and highway traffic for delivery of their products. Others lean entirely on motor freight transportation. Still others must keep close watch on schedules of the merchant marine for delivery of their goods to overseas ports and markets.

In Greenville, three major independent tobacco companies — E.B. Ficklen, Person - Garrett, and Greenville—ship their processed and packed hogsheads around the world. All three produce the huge containers of cured golden leaf predominantly for delivery to overseas customers.

Markets for the tobaccoists include such distant points as Saigon, Hong Kong, Norway, England, Ireland, Germany, Italy, and many more. Consequently, smokers in virtually every "tongue" become users of Pitt County bright leaf tobacco.

In addition to the tobacco industry, Greenville also harbors a boat-building firm, a branch plant of Union Carbide, a Fieldcrest Mills branch, and hosiery mill.

Grady and White (G & W) boats are made on Albemarle Ave. to fill specific orders and shipped via G & W's leased tractor-trailer units to dealers from Maine to Florida on the East Coast, as far west as St. Louis to Chicago and the Great Lakes region, and along the Gulf Coast as far west as New Orleans. G & W's overseas trade is still in the negotiation stages with New York City contacts.

Union Carbide's Greenville plant ships its dry cell batteries directly to the firm's warehouses spotted throughout the United States. In addition to state-side traffic, the local plant, exclusive manufacturer of Union Carbide's penlight battery, directs shipments to the New York City area for overseas customers. Manager Fred Englehard says correspondence shows the local plant's products are used in countries all over the globe.

Fieldcrest's plant in Greenville manufactures its goods for shipment in bulk to the firm's headquarters in North Carolina's Piedmont region. The city's hosiery mill handles its distribution through similar channels. From the respective headquarters the products are distributed both nationally and internationally.

Ayden's branch of Lutz and Schramm Co. pickle packers, ships its products via leased trucking to various dealers spotted all over the Eastern Seaboard and Midwest and to the firm's Pittsburgh warehouses. Truckloads of the processed cucumbers leave Ayden daily for Miami, Buffalo, New York, Baltimore, Augusta, Detroit, Cleveland, Knoxville, Louisville, Indianapolis, Chicago and other markets.

Overseas shipments are confined to orders filled for the federal government. Plant manager W.G. Griffith has heard of servicemen overseas enjoying pickles packed from the Ayden plant's vats.

Cox Trailers in Grifton supplies regular customers from Canada to Florida, from Baltimore and New England to Wichita, and from Chicago and the Great Lakes area to New Orleans. Mail orders from Puerto Rico and many European countries are filled by the Grifton boat-trailer manufacturing outfit. Fred Cox's firm maintains its own motor freight transportation system and its own warehouse system.

The Grifton Clothing Company, a recent expansion of a Philadelphia garment manufacturer, ships its jackets, trousers, and other garments directly to customers throughout the nation. According to manager Dan McLaughlin, the year-old Grifton plant ships its wares to 46 of the 48 states. Expansion to include all 50 is in the planning stage, he says.

In Farmville, A. C. Monk Tobacco Company, one of the world's largest independents, carries on an operation similar to the Greenville leaf firms. The Monk company sells its hogsheads to virtually every country in the world.

One of Pitt's largest industries, Formica Flakeboard, a division of American Cyanamid, turns out Formica's entire supply of the newly-developed construction board.

According to manager Tom Canning, the plant spreads its product via rail and truck as far west as Denver. Flakeboard's predominant market lies in the metropolitan area around New York City.

More than 60 per cent is distributed within a 500-mile radius of Farmville. In addition, Flakeboard goes to the Midwest and the Great Lakes area to the parent organization's warehouses and outlets.

Farmville's newest industry, Carolina Wire and Cable Company, spreads its wire products all over the eastern half of the nation. Some 60 per cent winds up on northern markets while the remaining 40 per cent supplies Dixie dealers.

The wire leaves Farmville on reels and spools of varying sizes via motor freight. Manager Robert Kemper says major uses of the wire include wiring for radios, electric blankets, generators, electric motors, and such manufactured articles.

In Bethel, the Diana Hosiery Mill turns out ladies hosiery to help supply a national retail chain. All products from the Bethel plant, says manager Andy Carrigan, are shipped to Liberty, N.C., where they are re-shipped to New York for distribution all over the country. All Bethel-made hose are sold stateside.

So the story goes, Pitt's industrial wheels turn out the varied products for national and international markets. The county's industries, like other counties' industries, have their own corner of the world's integrated industrial force.

FLASHLIGHT BATTERIES . . . here are being labeled by clerk for shipment to Denver from National Carbon Co. Crates in background are destined for ports abroad.

SHIPPING CLERK . . . binds boxes of spring jackets with steel bands for shipment to Seattle from Grifton Clothing Co.

AYDEN-PACKED PICKLES . . . are stacked neatly into transfer truck as shipping clerk (right) checks them out. Above shipment went to Miami.

FINISHED BOAT TRAILERS . . . stand ready for shipment at Cox Trailers of Grifton. Cox trailers are sold in markets all over the eastern half of the U.S. and abroad.

LEASED TRACTOR-TRAILER UNIT . . . undergoes loading of G&W cruisers at Greenville boat-building firm for delivery to Michigan dealers.

Life Or Death Test For Compulsory Auto Insurance

Aviation's Birthday Falls On Heels Of Air Disaster

KITTY HAWK, N.C. (AP)— Fifty-seven years ago today, at 10:37 a.m., Orville Wright made man's first flight in a heavier-than-air machine. It was a 12-second venture into the air just a few feet above the sand.

That flight was to be commemorated in ceremonies here today, and ironically, the observance takes place just 2 hours, almost to the minute, after the worst air disaster since that first powered flight.

It was at 10:33 a.m. Friday that two airliners collided over New York, killing 127 of the 128 people aboard the two planes, and seven on the ground. The Trans World Airlines plane involved in the crash originated its flight in Dayton, Ohio, hometown of the Wright Brothers.

North Carolina Gov. Luther Hodges and other state and federal officials were here to pay tribute to the Wright brothers—Wilbur and Orville—and to dedicate a $275,000 visitors' center and administration building at the Wright Brothers National Memorial.

Others on hand for the ceremony included Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, America's first military aviator and one who flew Orville Wright described in his diary some of the difficulty he had on that first flight.

"The course of the flight up and down was exceedingly erratic," he wrote. "The machine would rise suddenly to about 10 feet, and then as suddenly dart for the ground. A sudden dart when a little over a hundred feet from the end of the track, or a little over 120 feet from the point at which it rose into the air, ended the flight."

The 1927 Congress authorized construction of the Wright Brothers Memorial atop Kill Devil Hills, a large dune the brothers used in their glider experiments preceding the powered flight.

The National Park Service took over the memorial in 1933 and two years ago the Outer Banks area was designated a national seashore recreation area. The visitors' center is the latest Park Service project here. It displays momentos and exhibits of the experiments in flying.

Gov. Ryutaro Azuma of Tokyo, Japan, was to give 25 zelkova trees for planting in the area to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the first Japanese powered flight. In return for the zelkovas, Hodges is to send maple seedlings from North Carolina and pebbles from Kitty Hawk.

Doubts Propriety Of Keeping Teeth

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)— Clayton F. Holland testified Friday that his estranged wife wouldn't let him take his false teeth, some shirts and four shoes for the right foot from their home.

Holland appeared in court without his teeth.

Mrs. Holland, suing for divorce on grounds of general indignities, testified she kept the items because she refused to give her attorney for the family car.

"I might say," remarked Judge Ben Terte, "that it is a petty thing to refuse his teeth. I don't think any court will consider it any degree of propriety to refuse to give a man his teeth."

Mrs. Holland was granted $145 a month support pending outcome of the divorce suit.

The DNA chemical, found in the nucleus of cells, is believed by many scientists to be the chemical basis for heredity.

By BRYAN HANSLIP RALEIGH (AP)— The North Carolina compulsory auto liability insurance law, a mere youngster on the books, faces a life or death test in the 1961 General Assembly.

The law reaches its second anniversary Jan. 1. Unless the legislators act to keep it alive, it will expire next May 15.

Hostile forces, including insurance companies, are expected to wage an intensive campaign to make sure the law dies.

There will be plenty of friends in the fray for the law, which is designed to make sure that a motorist involved in a traffic accident can pay for the damage he causes.

Lt. Gov.-Elect H. Cloyd Philpott, who will preside in the Senate, says he has not changed his mind since he voted for the law as a House member in the 1957 legislature. "The principle of the thing

Bottom Will Fall Out On Monday

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)— C. W. Abrams, assistant superintendent of mails here, issued this Christmas mailing crowd forecast for the post office lobby.

Friday: "We can take care of them. They won't have to stand in line."

Saturday: "It will pick up considerably."

Sunday: "You won't be able to stir them with a stick."

Monday morning: "All heck will break loose."

Monday afternoon: "The bottom will fall out."

is good... if we need legislation to plug loopholes or strengthen it, then we ought to do that," he said.

Rep. Joe Hunt of Guilford, who has virtually a clear field for House speaker in 1961, is another who voted for compulsory insurance in 1957. Hunt said he favors the law, and feels the public does, too, but he added, "It's got to be dressed up a little."

Rep. Herbert Hardy of Greene, a co-sponsor of the law said he already is at work lining up legislative support for the coming fight. "We're going to fight to keep it in its present form with only those changes that will improve the law," he said.

Missing from the battle scene will be the man who played a big part in starting it all. Walter Jones of Farmville, former representative from Pitt County, had a key role in getting the compulsory insurance bill enacted. It passed the House by a close 5-1 vote.

Jones, a sponsor of the 1957 measure, said he saw the need for it as a recorder's court judge. People who suffered losses in traffic accidents often had no way to recover because the responsible motorist had no insurance and no financial resources, he explained.

Jones said he heartily favors an extension of the present law. "The public, as I find it, is very well pleased with the bill," he added.

One of the big objections insurance companies have to the law is the fact that it forces them to cover everybody—even the motorist with a proven record of bad driving.

A person who cannot get insurance through normal channels goes into the assigned risk pool, which numbered almost 190,000 in 1959.

Last December, an insurance industry request for an overall 19.9 per cent rate increase was rejected by Insurance Commissioner Charles F. Gold. When he also turned down a bid for a 9.5 per cent hike. The companies appealed to the courts where a decision is still pending.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt estimated that, prior to the law, about 35 per cent of the state's car owners had no liability insurance.

Now, he said, about 95 to 98 per cent of auto owners have coverage. If they fail to carry insurance, and they get caught, Scheidt's department can take away the vehicle license plates.

Losses paid out by insurance companies have risen from $19.5 million in 1956 to $37 million in 1959.

As an alternative to compulsory insurance, the insurance industry has offered this 3-point program:

1. Strengthen the 1953 Financial Responsibility Act. This requires posting of deposits by a motorist unable to meet claims from an accident.

2. Extend the auto liability policy, by law, to provide protection against uninsured motorists. Such coverage now is optional as a rider to a regular policy.

3. Increase emphasis on highway safety.

The companies have called this a constructive program which would provide better and broader protection for the responsible driver.

Insurance Commissioner Gold has a proposal he will ask the 1961 legislature to approve. It would create a "security fund" to protect persons with claims against motorists whose insurance companies become insolvent.

Gold's plan would be financed by requiring companies writing liability insurance to put one-half of one per cent of their premiums into the security fund. Gold said this would amount to about $650,000 or about 50 cents per policy.

There have been indications the proposal will be opposed by the industry.

Scheidt says it is his feeling that the public supports a program that has the basic objective of this law.

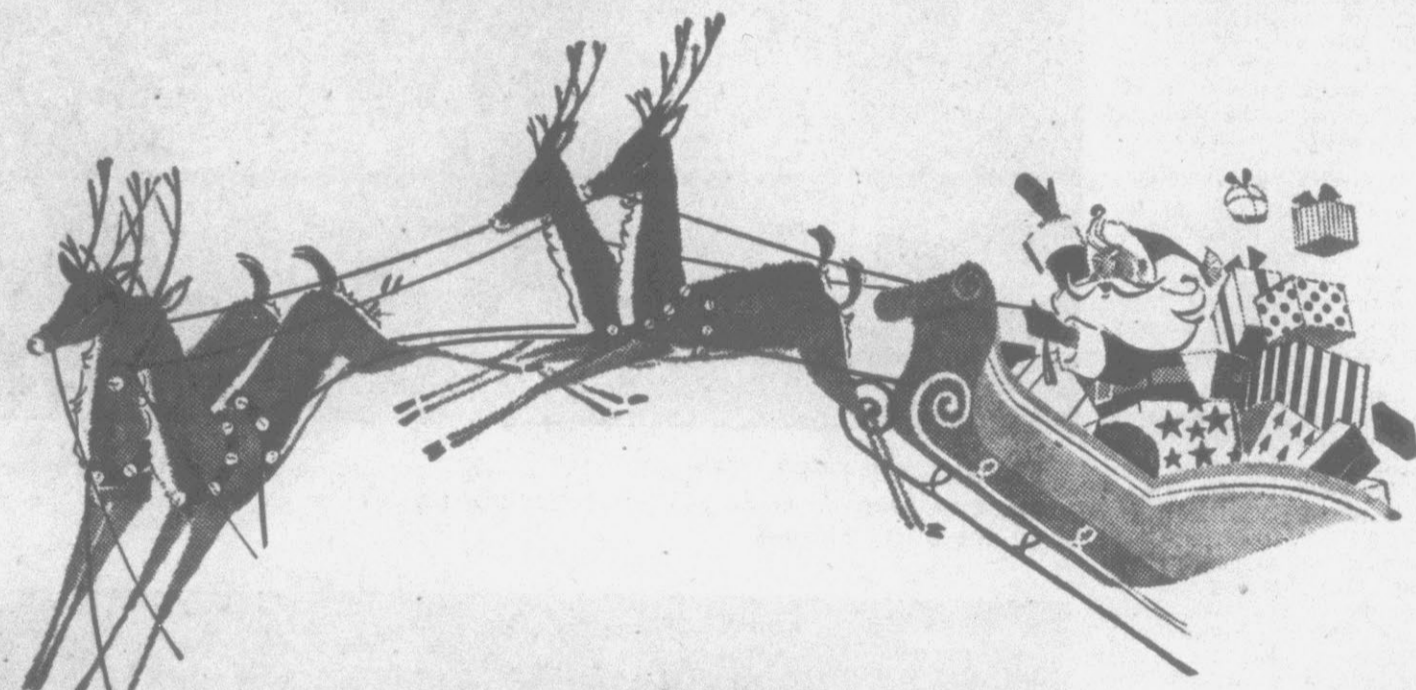

One change Scheidt will recommend would have vehicle license plates assigned to a car owner, rather than to the vehicle. The present practice of having the license plate follow the vehicle, Scheidt explained, causes confusion and can result in a $40 of coverage when there is no ownership.

The North Carolina Association of Insurance Agents has recommended that penalties be more severe for failure to carry liability insurance.

The law now provides the operator of a car without insurance a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $10 to $50.

Minimum coverage required by the law is $5,000 bodily injury limit payable to one person in a single accident; $10,000 limit per accident for personal injuries; and $3,000 limit payable for property damage in a single accident.

Gold has approved a provision that would allow car owners to insure themselves against bodily injury damage when hit by uninsured motorists, but the $3 additional coverage now is optional.

JOHNNY HADA PLENTY WAS A FINE BOY. TOO BAD HE HAD TO DIE AND LEAVE THIS LITTLE TYKE FATHERLESS.

-YES, B.O., AND IT'S ALSO TOO BAD THAT THE GIRL HE MARRIED WAS DOMINATED BY AN ALCOHOLIC MOTHER.

LITTLE BOY BEARD'S FAMILY TRAGEDY GROWS AS THE COOS

I NEVER MET JOHNNY'S LITTLE WIFE. WHAT'S SHE DOING NOW, MACY?

SHE'S SITTING IN A CELL AT HEADQUARTERS, WHERE SHE CONFESSED TO MURDERING HER OWN MOTHER.

OH, DEAR—OH, DEAR! WHATEVER WILL HAPPEN TO THIS POOR LITTLE CHILD.

YES, I'M MIGHTY INTERESTED IN KNOWING WHAT'S GOING TO HAPPEN TO MY SECOND COUSIN!

MEANWHILE

THAT'S WHAT WORRIES ME—WHAT IS GOING TO HAPPEN TO MY BABY?

MY POOR, DEAR LITTLE BABY?

AS YOUR ATTORNEY, FRESH, I ADVISE YOU TO FORGET THE BABY AND THINK OF YOUR OWN PLIGHT.

"YOUR BABY IS IN GOOD HANDS AT THE COUNTY NURSERY," SAYS THE ATTORNEY.

YES, JUST LIKE YOURS.

Miracle Of A Survivor In Disaster

By HAL MCCLURE

NEW YORK (AP) — A small red-haired boy, his body burned and broken, lies in a critical condition in a Brooklyn Hospital today. His parents stand by in prayerful vigil.

The lad is the sole survivor of Friday's tragic airline collision. "We're grateful to the Almighty for this miraculous thing," said the boy's father, William S. Baltz.

Doctors believe that the youth, Stephen Baltz, 11, has a good chance for recovery, despite serious burns, a fracture of his left leg and the possibility he may have been injured internally by breathing flames.

For young Stephen the jet flight from Chicago had been his first airplane trip alone. He was flying to New York to join his mother and sister on a holiday visit with relatives.

Stephen's day started at 5:5 a. m. Friday when he awakened at his home in the Chicago suburb of Wilmette, Ill.

He ran in and shook his father awake. Baltz might have gone back to sleep, but he knew how excited his son was and how he was looking forward to the trip.

The lad had been ill and stayed home when his mother and sister flew to New York Wednesday.

Stephen didn't eat much for breakfast, said the family maid, Pearl Belue, known to the three Baltz children as "Lady Blue."

Then he got dressed up in a pretty gray suit and gray gloves and gray hat with a little feather in it," she added.

She told him he would be the handsomest man on the plane. "He liked that," she said.

CHAPTER 8

Jane disapproved of Mr. Petry's lecture the evening she brought Eleanor to class. His subject, "Buying for Income," dealt with the stable dividend blue chips, which he called "the widow's blessing."

Jane deliberately let her mind wander to the two heretics who had delighted her soul by demonstrating how higher-yielding companies concentrating on growth had consistently made more money for their stockholders than the stable highyield securities. What would Philip O. Petry say to that?

What he would say, this marked a milestone in Jane's research. With her pencil she had calculated how an investment in 100 shares of New Frontier Rocket Riders, purchased at $15 a share in 1954 had now grown to 350 shares worth $18,000—and well, that was the kind of thing that kept Jane at her books.

After class Mr. Petry sought out Eleanor, and while the two said good-by and walked off in one direction, Jane walked in another. Mr. Petry had offered to drive her home, but Jane said she needed exercise.

She also needed to think. She could just see Al's and Rosemarie's faces when she told them how frustrated and vexed she was. By the time she had reached her friends' door, however, she had undergone a change of heart, for now she could see the miscarriage of her plan as treating with promise for the future to say the least, when she would succeed in introducing Wally Googins to Eleanor. So swearing Al and Rosemarie to secrecy, she would up telling them everything. Al threw back his head and roared, "You are a no-good busybody!"

Rosemarie started choosing up sides. "I'm for Wally," she announced flatly, having met neither young man. "I want it to be Wally."

"Al snorted. 'You women! For Pete's sake they haven't even laid eyes on each other, and you're tuning up for the wedding!'"

His point was, he began plumping for Phil Petry. "He's at least a straight shooter. I don't like the smell of Wally's 'special situation.' I just hope he doesn't throw you a lure."

"Now don't," begged Jane. "do anything to prejudice the child against Wally."

Once home, Jane decided to wait up for Eleanor and finally, at one o'clock, Eleanor knocked softly at her door. Standing in the half-light of the doorway, her face was flushed with excitement.

"We went dancing at the Palace Corner!" she exclaimed. "It was divine. Saturday night," she went on, making no effort to sound casual. "Phil wants to take me to North Beach."

Jane couldn't resist smiling. "All this sounds like two young teachers doing lively professional research."

With more frequency, Jane turned her attention to her spare evenings to a question that had nagged her ever since she had taken up her study of the market. Specifically, she wanted to learn what Mr. Charles Dow had in mind when he invented his mysterious theory.

Dow was to the market as Einstein was to physics—and hadn't Einstein unlocked forces of unimaginable power? Maybe an understanding of the Dow Theory was all that was holding her back.

At her card table in the evenings, Jane began another siege of study—this time for Al too. He had amazed her by saying he wanted to know all about Dow.

At first Jane considered it a corking idea that Mr. Dow even as long ago as 1877, had tied the kite of the rail stock to the price averages of certain industrial stocks. Nodding her approval, she thought this showed remarkable insight. After all, if the economy is to prosper, goods have to be shipped. But it was the next thing that captivated her.

Now this was genius. It was the way these two averages sang together that gave the Dow theory its clarion cue to the market's immediate future. Singly, neither one meant anything; but together they outdid Nostradamus in their power to foretell.

Jane was so set up about all this that she should have let well enough alone and never opened her second book. For therein some authority showed that the only trouble with the Dow Theory was that practically none of its followers agreed with one another on what the averages were saying. One authority would call a certain cue a sure signal for a bear market, but another would see the same cue a rallying call for the bulls.

It was enough to give rise to the cruelest disillusionment, and for the first time Jane seriously questioned the power of knowledge over the market place. Even so, she could help viewing Dow's to lowers with kindly pity. Dow wasn't the only Great Man to leave a scholarly hassle behind him. Look at the mess Freud left behind.

Her own conclusion about the Dow theory she thought worth proposing as a graduate dissertation to the Harvard School of Business, for what was wrong became perfectly clear to her. All it needed was modernizing. The great man had thought his deep thoughts in an era of gaslight, slow freight and long before the days of piggy-back—not to mention swift technological change. What somebody ought to do, she thought, was to get the whole up-to-date story on the way goods are shipped today. Everybody knew the trucking industry was wrecking the rails. Why shouldn't trucking figure in? Charmed with her contribution, Jane's mind raced to include air freight and river barges, which the Dow theorists also too often ignored. Then for good measure she tossed in her imaginings about the magic of technology—which made dry clouds rain, salt water fresh, and night turn into day. And she idly guessed that such phenomena, in the market place, were not likely to be confined by anybody's theory.

For several days Jane couldn't bring herself to say anything to Al about the Dow Theory, but one evening Al banged on the kitchen wall, and she imagined the time had come.

Going next door to the Bonelli's she found Rosemarie doing her nails and Al gathering up office work he had been doing on the kitchen table. He got up and poured her a cup of coffee. Then he said, "All right, Aunt Jane. What's with Dow? Give."

"Oh, I've heard of Dow!" Rosemarie volunteered brightly. "Mr. Figbee, our floorwalker, watches something he calls 'Dow' all the time. You kind of keep score with it, or something. Don't you?"

Jane replied thoughtfully. "Keeping score" is close enough, really. Only it doesn't tell you what's going to happen until after it's happened. And then nobody agrees on what actually did happen." To her own amazement, she realized she was not exaggerating.

Rosemarie looked puzzled and Al looked disappointed. Finally he asked, "No good to you?" "No good," said Jane. She took a sip of coffee. "But I must say," she added cheerfully, "that the Dow is a marvelous example of the lengths grown men will go to keep themselves occupied."

Finally, back home, Jane took a sharp pencil and wrote a reminder in her notebook for a less busy day. "Update Dow."

ECC Faculty Members To Attend Conventions

A number of faculty members at East Carolina College will spend part of the Christmas holidays attending educational conventions in various parts of the country.

Dr. Audrey V. Dempsey of the college Business School will be in Chicago Dec. 26-29 for the annual meeting of Pi Omega Pi, national business fraternity, and the 1960 convention of the National Business Teachers Association. Dr. Dempsey has been a member of the National Council of Pi Omega Pi for ten years; has served as president of the national fraternity, and also as national editor, and national organizer.

Dr. Harley P. Milstead, director of the East Carolina department of geography, will attend the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, of which the Association of American Geographers is an affiliate, in New York City Dec. 26-30.

East Carolina professors who will attend the American Historical Association meeting in New York City Dec. 20-30 are Dr. Joseph Steelman, Dr. LaLa Steelman, Dr. Kathleen Stokes, Dr. Ruth M. Keesey, Dr. Hubert Coleman, and Dr. George Pasti.

Members of both the department of foreign languages and the department of English will participate in activities of the Modern Language Association at the 1960 convention of the organization in Philadelphia Dec. 27-29.

Representing the foreign languages department will be Dr. Sue Matz and Mrs. Louise Adams. Those attending from the department of English are Dr. Francis Adams, Dr. Rachel Kilpatrick, Dr. H. D. Rowe, Dr. Louise Greer, Dr. Frances Winkler, Dr. Norman Jarrard, and Dr. Grace Seiler.

Students In Annual Assembly

A Christmas message by East Carolina President Leo W. Jenkins and songs and instrumental selections by campus music organizations provided chief interest at the annual general assembly of students and faculty members which ushered in the beginning of Christmas holidays Friday at the college.

A capacity audience gathered in the Wright auditorium for the event, which closed a series of programs and social events held during the pre-holiday season.

Of special interest on the program was the performance by the 60-member College Choir of an original composition by Gordon Johnson of the music faculty, director of the choir. Mr. Johnson's anthem "If You Would Hear the Angels Sing" presented as soloists with the choir Robert C. Jolley of Goldsboro, baritone, and William A. Newbury of Rockingham, tenor. A seven-piece instrumental ensemble provided accompaniment.

The Christmas message, Dr. Jenkins told his audience, is the birth of Christ, which was "for all people." It is, he said, a reassuring message for all men, as they search for something to believe and for the answers to life.

Some seek these answers, he continued, in science, nationalism, humanism, Communism. The answers, however, he stated, are not to be found in -isms, in organizations, or in movements. They are to be found, he explained, in the message "I am the Light of the World" and in the joy and beauty which the birth of Jesus brought to mankind.

The chief elements of peaceful harmony in the world, Dr. Jenkins said, were found at the manger in Bethlehem—creation, in the birth itself; labor, in the Magi; intellect, in the Magi; and search for knowledge of the universe, in the star; and charity and homage, in the gifts offered to the Child.

James Speight of Kingston, president of the Student Government Association, extended good wishes for the holidays to the audience. He announced that contributions for a student-faculty project to help several needy families of the city during the Christmas season would be accepted at the door of the auditorium at the close of the program.

The East Carolina Concert Band, directed by Herbert L. Carter, opened Friday's program with a group of selections on Christmas themes. Mrs. Martha Bradner of Greenville appeared as soloist with the band in "Gesù Bambino."

Also participating in the program were the Women's Chorus, directed by Beatrice Chauncey; the Men's Glee Club, directed by Charles Stevens; the Chapel Choir, singing under the direction of Dr. Carl Hjortsvang; and the College Choir, directed by Gordon Johnson. Dan E. Vornholt of the faculty led the audience in group singing of Christmas Hymns. Betsy Hancock of Scotland Neck was soloist in "Silent Night," with humming accompaniment by the audience.

Among others taking part in the assembly program were Carl Stout of Rocky Mount, organist; Ardyth McCroskey of Badin, pianist; and Ruth Graber of the faculty, directing a choir of women's voices.

As the audience left the Wright auditorium, the Brass Choir of the college played Christmas music from the porch of Music Hall.
