Becoming A City Of Colored Lights

Greenville is becoming a land of twinkling, glittering, multicolored, flood lighted homes this week. One by one local families are draping strings of Christmas lights along the eaves of their homes, around window frames, on bushes, trees and doors. Even front lawn lamp posts, which at other times of the year serve only to give light, are equipped with red or blue globes and festooned with sprays of holly or pine or cedar, perhaps tied together with a red ribbon. Various displays are appearing on the front lawns, now brown due to the winter's cold. Manger scenes or Santa and his reindeer stand out in the glaring light of flood lamps. Peeking through picture windows are brightly lighted Christmas trees. They stand ready for St. Nick's visit, only four days away. Some of the houses glow in a soft blue as the home owners create a serene effect which brings to mind the solemn religious nature of Christ's birthday. Others point up the gayness of the yuletide season, with its goodwill toward men, by using the many colored lights in their decorating scheme. It's Christmas. And the city's houses, no matter how large or small, all show it with holiday decorations.

Man-In-Space Capsule Returned For Study After 16-Minute Rocket Ride

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A U.S. man-in-space capsule was returned here today after a successful 16-minute, 4,000-mile-an-hour rocket ride. Scientists began an examination to determine how well it survived the flight. If the study shows that the one-ton space craft came through Monday's jarring trip as planned, the United States will have taken a big step toward launching a man on a short space ride, possibly within four months. A helicopter transferred the bell-shaped space chamber to the Cape from the aircraft carrier Valley Forge which steamed within a few hundred yards of this test center. The helicopter was the same which plucked the capsule from the water 235 miles down range and deposited it on the flight deck of the Valley Forge. Newsmen were given a close look at the capsule, which appeared to have sustained little damage from the Redstone-boosted rocket trip that took it 135 miles into space. The white letters "United States" on the side of the capsule were slightly scorched by the 600-degree heat which built up on the surface during re-entry to the earth's atmosphere and one of three panes of glass on a small side port hole was broken. Otherwise, officials said it was in excellent condition. A bright flashing light designed to aid recovery still winked atop the nine-foot-tall chamber. The helicopter was piloted by Lt. Wayne Koons of Lyons, Kan. Copilot was Capt. Allen K. Daniel Jr. of Greenville, Miss. They are members of Marine Air Group 262, Jacksonville, N.C. An 83-foot Redstone missile boosted the space chamber aloft. A parachute eased its descent. After officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration gave the capsule a thorough going over here, it will be sent to McDonnell Aircraft Corp., St. Louis, Mo., for additional study. McDonnell made the capsule.

It's Now Official---John Kennedy Is Elected New President Of The U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's official now. John F. Kennedy has been elected president. The voting on Nov. 8 helped determine the outcome, but Kennedy was not elected then according to the Constitution. That was done Monday by the 327 members of the Electoral College. These largely unknown men, who don't even appear on the ballot in many states, met in state capitols from Maine to Hawaii. As expected they generally cast their state's electoral votes for the man who had won a plurality of the vote in the state. After the electors completed their ancient ritual, Kennedy had 300 electoral votes and Vice President Richard M. Nixon 219. Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., got 15. Needed to win: 269. Hawaii's three votes were still up in the air because a partial recount there has switched the state back to the Kennedy column by 83 votes. A full recount has been ordered in the island state. Both the Republican and Democratic electors in Hawaii cast their three votes, hoping it can be decided by Jan. 6 which candidate had won the state. That is the date when Congress in joint session will officially count the electoral votes. Since the Hawaiian votes can't affect the result, it is possible Congress will simply disregard them. Electors are considered to be under a moral obligation to vote for the candidate who wins their state—but no law says he must do so. In fact one jumped the traces. Though Nixon carried Oklahoma, elector Henry D. Irwin of Bartlesville insisted on voting for Byrd for president and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., for vice president. And Byrd collected 14 more votes from electors in Mississippi and Alabama who ran as unpledged to any candidate. These 14 voted for Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S. C., for vice president. The southerners had tried to persuade other electors to go along with their revolt against the major parties, but got no takers except Irwin. They had hoped to prevent Kennedy's getting a clear majority of the electoral vote, which would have thrown the presidential election into the House of Representatives. The fact that electors are not legally obliged to vote for the winning candidate in their state is one of the things most criticized about the cumbersome Electoral College system. There have been a number of suggestions for reforming the system, but it has been defended as being better than the suggested alternatives. Every close election brings new outcries against the Electoral College.

Salvation Army Plans To Help 200 Families Some Families Still Need Help

Final details were all but complete today for the Salvation Army's annual Christmas activity of spreading Yuletide food, toys, and spirit among needy families in the area. Capt. Earl Reagan said today the Salvation Army has listed around 300 families who will need help this Christmas. He anticipates the local office will aid some 270 of these families after a check with the Pitt County Welfare Department. Capt. Reagan said he plans to check his list with the local public welfare agency's families to allow the Christmas aid to be spread as far as possible through avoiding duplication. The Salvation Army here helped around 200 families last Christmas. The families will receive complete Christmas dinners along with staple groceries and toys, car and fruit for the youngsters. The operation will begin Friday morning, according to Reagan. He said the Salvation Army will notify each of the 300 families by letter of Christmas plans for them. The call for last-minute aid for needy families went out today from the Pitt County Welfare Department. Supt. J. S. Grimes reported the agency's Christmas aid drive "has gone along nicely but, as always, there are some families left over." Grimes said his staff, as in past years, will be available to accept cash donations to purchase and deliver baskets of Christmas food to the families. He estimated some 300 families may be left after organizations and agencies have completed their plans for spreading Christmas cheer among needy Pitt Countians. Grimes said local grocery stores will again prepare special baskets for purchase through the public welfare agency. Last year's last-minute food basket drive netted more than $500, Grimes noted. "So far, in this particular category," he said, "we are practically at zero." Donors may phone the department at PL 8-2188.

Naval Court Of Inquiry Is Called On Carrier's Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—A Naval Court of Inquiry is being convened immediately to investigate the disastrous fire that killed 46 persons aboard the huge aircraft carrier Constellation, the Navy announced today. A spokesman said the three members of the court and a counsel and assistant counsel already were on their way here. The inquiry will open immediately on their arrival. The senior member of the court will be Vice Adm. Bernard L. Austin, president of the Naval War College at Newport, R.I. Rear Adm. Kenmore M. McManes, commandant of the 6th Naval District, with headquarters in Charleston, S.C., and Rear Adm. Floyd B. Schultz, assistant chief of the Bureau of Ships in Washington, are the other members. Navy Secretary William B. Franke also flew here today from Washington to make a personal inspection of the damaged vessel and then talk with survivors. Damage to the mammoth carrier, under construction in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, was estimated by the Navy at $75 million. All of the loss will be borne by the Navy. A spokesman for the Navy said the work was being done by civilian workers paid by the Navy and working under Navy supervision. No insurance was carried on the ship. The Navy set the death toll in the blaze Monday at 46 although police earlier had said it might reach 56. Police had listed 10 workmen missing in addition to the known 46 dead. However, Navy authorities said 10 of those who perished had not yet been identified and they apparently were being erroneously listed as missing. The Navy said a search of the carrier's fire-blackened passages was all but ended. The fire, which raged out of control most of Monday and into the night, crippled the world's largest aircraft carrier afloat, and struck a serious blow at America's defense plans. Naval authorities in Washington said they had counted on having the Constellation ready for use as an attack carrier by mid-1961. Only a ship of its general size can handle adequate numbers of the heavy jet planes the Navy uses for its striking arm. Rear Adm. Schuyler Pyne, commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, in which the Constellation was berthed, estimated that the fire set back completion of the ship by about a year. He estimated the damage at $75 million. The Constellation, launched Oct. 8, was scheduled for commissioning sometime in March. Its total cost was about $250 million. It was the second major disaster to hit Brooklyn in three days. Last Friday a United Airlines DC8 jet and a TWA Super Constellation collided in the New York area, killing at least 135 persons. The jet slammed into a Brooklyn residential area, killing 84 in the plane and 5 on the ground. Two more are still missing. The Navy said firmly, however, that there was "nothing suspicious" about the carrier blaze. It started this way: A small hoisting truck sheared off a plug on a 500-gallon tank of jet fuel. The fluid flowed down a bomb elevator and into a well in which a welder was at work. The resulting fire took a frightful human toll. In addition to the dead, at least 150 were burned or otherwise injured in the steel-jacketed furnace that was the Constellation. Forty-three were hospitalized. All the dead were part of a 4,000-man civilian work force. A small Navy crew suffered no fatalities. The fire, which seemed controllable for a short time, spread to different decks as the flaming fuel poured from one compartment to another and set ablaze wooden scaffolding, plywood interior work cases of paint, and other inflammable materials.

Kennedy To Push Congress On Domestic Legislation

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy said today he will urge Congress to act speedily on medical care for the aged and aid to education, housing and areas of chronic unemployment. Kennedy also told a news conference that he wants early action on increasing the present minimum wage of $1 an hour. The President-elect had at his press for the news conference Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson, House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, and Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, slated to succeed Johnson as Senate Democratic leader. Kennedy announced that he has appointed Johnson chairman of the Advisory Council on Space Exploration Problems. Johnson also will take over the chairmanship of the government's Committee on Contract Compliance—a unit set up by President Eisenhower to prevent race discrimination on work done by private contractors for the government. Vice President Richard M. Nixon now is chairman of that committee. Kennedy said the talks with the legislative leaders had been "very successful" and that there is "general agreement among all of us on what should be done."

UN General Assembly Defeats Call For Algeria Referendum

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly sought to close shop today after defeating a call for a U. N. referendum in Algeria and shelving rival East-West disarmament proposals. The assembly still had to vote on the Congo crisis before recessing until March 7. Assembly attempts to reach a Congo vote Monday night bogged down when India's V. K. Krishna Menon talked until 1:45 a. m., delivering a two-hour review of the whole issue. Weary delegates decided to hold up balloting until the morning session. Highlight of the debate Monday night was a warning from Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold that he might seek power to withdraw the U. N. force if civil war erupts in the chaotic young African nation. If such a conflict developed while U. N. troops were still in the Congo, he said, the international force could not take sides or remain passive. "Were a situation of the kind I have described to develop, I would have to put to the Security Council the question whether the United Nations force should not withdraw," he said. Awaiting assembly action were two rival Congo resolutions. One sponsored by the United States and Britain calls on Ham-

Attractive Rooms On A Low Budget

Does a low budget for furniture mean an unattractive room? Not at all. Manufacturers, aware that many, if not most people, have to watch where their dollars go, have devised furniture that is the latest word and style, yet priced within reason. Dual purpose pieces, particularly, are made with beauty and the budget in mind. Charming sofa beds, studio couches and the many other convertible types, come in an entire array of styles from French provincial to Contemporary and are upholstered in all types of materials and fabrics including leathers, plastics, metallics, and cloths. Combination coverings are also proving increasingly popular for the sporty touch. The long attractive sectional sofas, with one section a dual purpose unit, add a classy touch to many living rooms. Regardless of the type or style most dual purpose contain a comfortable sleeping surface that appears like magic with a push of a pedal or the twist of the wrist.

Is $75 per day a high fee for a safari to Africa? It doesn't seem so much when you consider that the average luxury safari includes refinements such as the use of a portable canvas bathtub, and having hunting clothes laundered daily.

Christmas Program Is Presented To H.D. Club

BETHEL—A Christmas tea was given in the home of Mrs. F. C. James Wednesday when the Bethel Home Demonstration Club met for their December meeting.

Members were greeted by Mrs. F. C. James and directed to place their gifts under the lighted Christmas tree.

Decorations carried out the Christmas motif throughout the home.

Mrs. Dennis Hardy, president, gave the welcome and read a Christmas story entitled "A Letter to Virginia". She expressed the hope that people would have more faith in Christ and let the Christmas spirit carry them through the Christmas season.

Mrs. W. C. Whitehurst led in the singing of carols.

Mrs. Sue May, Home Economics Agent, gave the demonstration, emphasizing the fact that our decorations should stand for something in our family relations. She explained what Holly, Ring, red berries, Santa, and the tree meant in the Christmas spirit. She emphasized that traditions strengthen family ties.

Mrs. R. B. Edmondson invited members and guests into the dining room where the table was covered with a white imported cut-work cloth over pink and centered with an arrangement of pink flowers surrounded by white and silver Christmas bells, flanked by silver candelabras holding burning pink candles. Refreshments were assortive sandwiches, cookies, cheese, straws, nuts, candies, hot d ovals and spiced tea were served buffet style.

Mrs. R. B. Edmondson, Mrs. R. R. Whitehurst, Mrs. R. R. James and Mrs. J. A. Edmondson were in charge of the arrangements.

The high lights for the occasion were the playing of games, singing carols, gathering around the Christmas tree and receiving the gifts.

Team cooked prunes with fresh orange sections for breakfast fruit.

Semi-Centi Book Club Has Meeting

The importance of family traditions at Christmas was the theme of a program given by Mrs. L. H. Garner for the Semi-Centi Book Club at her home recently. The season becomes dearer to each member of the family if it can be remembered by special family customs, she said. These customs may be unique as a tree decorated entirely by cookies made by mother or traditions borrowed from other countries. Mrs. Garner showed several scenes of customs in other countries: the Yule log, which is burned in Czechoslovakia on Christmas morning; the Nativity scene, which is nearly the entire decoration of Mexican homes. This is due partly to the lack of fir trees there and partly because other decorations come from pagans. Mrs. Garner said. The pinata game is played by Mexican children. The pinata is a jar filled with goodies and hung by a cord from a tree, she explained. Each child is blindfolded and given an opportunity to break the pinata. The child who breaks it is the hero and each child shares in the candies. The Advent wreath is a tradition of Norway and is being enjoyed by more Americans each year. This wreath is made of sprayed greenery, cones and berries, or other materials. Four candles are placed in the wreath. The father lights the first candle on the Sunday nearest Nov. 30. The mother lights the first two candles the next Sunday. The third Sunday, the oldest child lights three candles, and on Christmas Day the youngest child lights all four candles, Mrs. Garner related. Each time a happy, simple family program is enjoyed in celebration of Christ's birth. Mrs. Garner had Mrs. Frank Hill and Mrs. Don Carson as her guests. Members of the club brought gifts for Cherry Hospital in Goldsboro.

Shower Honors Bride-Elect

Miss Iona Jones, bride-elect of December 31, was entertained at a kitchen shower recently by Mrs. Clarence Johnson and Miss Naomi Gibbs. The party was given at the home of Mrs. Johnson on North Overlook Drive. The honoree wore a navy wool sheath and was presented a corsage of yellow roses and mums upon arrival. The guests were greeted at the door by the hostesses and the honoree, and were seated in the living room. Various games were played after which the honoree opened her gifts. The hostesses directed the guests to the den where they were served. A centerpiece of mums and yellow roses arranged in a skillet adorned the table which was covered with a green checked tablecloth. Miniature sandwiches, hors d'oeuvres, spiced cookies, and coffee were enjoyed. Your youngsters will like chocolate pudding topped with banana. For a pretty effect run the sharp tines of a fork lengthwise down the peeled banana and then slice. Dip the banana slices in orange or other citrus juice so they won't discolor.

A Wider Use Of Educational TV

Greenville School Board's proposal concerning greater utilization of television for educational purposes in public schools throughout North Carolina deserves the careful consideration of state education officials.

In its action last week the Greenville School Board suggested the state explore the possibility of making educational television available to all schools in North Carolina.

Experiments in educational television in public schools of North Carolina have been carried out on a limited basis for several years now. For the most part the results of this program have been highly favorable. Without question the program as it is now constituted has met with sufficient success to merit careful consideration of a broader program both in terms of subject matter and likewise in terms of the number of schools that have access to the program.

As pointed out at the meeting of the Greenville School Board, many public schools of the state face severe problems in securing teachers for languages and in some of the fields of science. It has also been pointed out that the growing demand of students for instruction in these subjects, together with the inadequate number of qualified people in this field going into teaching, suggests a more severe shortage in qualified instructors in the future.

The idea behind the proposal of the Greenville School Board is not to replace any classroom teachers now or in the future, but rather to provide via the medium of television courses of instruction in specific subjects which otherwise would not be available to students in many schools throughout North Carolina. Such a program of television instruction could vastly improve the curriculum of many of the smaller schools throughout the state, and at the same time ease the impact of teacher shortages in even the largest school systems of North Carolina.

Through the use of commercial telecasting facilities, educational television—in terms of actual subject instruction—has been used on a rather broad scale in North Carolina. We agree with the local board, however, in the opinion that the time has come for a more careful consideration of a state-wide system of educational television exclusively for the benefit of the public schools.

Enrollment in North Carolina's public schools is growing rapidly with each passing year. The demand for better instruction and a more diversified course of study, particularly in the smaller schools is increasing with good reason. While there may be some easing of the teacher shortage in a few fields, there are a number of fields in which the shortage of teachers is expected to become more critical rather than improve in the next decade.

These and many other factors commend the proposal of the Greenville School Board to state educational officials who are responsible for overall planning for public education in North Carolina.

1959 Assembly Still With Us?

By LYNN NISBET
GENERAL ASSEMBLY—Who constitutes the membership of the current General Assembly of North Carolina? More important question, is there a General Assembly of North Carolina right now?

These questions arise from apparently conflicting provisions of the Constitution, and the different interpretations placed upon these provisions by eminent lawyers. And, the questions arise because of the anomalous situation of a new Governor being inaugurated before the newly elected Legislature convenes.

It was stated in this column a few days ago that on the night of the pre-inaugural ball, the day before the new Governor would take the oath of office, that members of the 1959 General Assembly would still be in office, with Addison Hewlett as Speaker of House. A very learned lawyer and former high State official telephoned a protest. He cited Sec. 25, Article II, of the State Constitution which says that "the terms of office for Senators and members of the House of Representatives shall commence at the time of their election." And he argued that since the election process had been completed, from the precinct ballot box through the county and State boards of elections canvasses, the members certified in that process constitute the current Legislature. He would be right, except for two other provisions of the same Constitution.

There is Sec. 24, of Article II, which says "Each member of the General Assembly, before taking his seat, shall take an oath or affirmation that he will support the Constitution and laws of the United States, and the Constitution of the State of North Carolina, and will faithfully discharge his duty as a member of the Senate or the House of Representatives."

CONTROLLING — Perhaps the controlling constitutional provision is found in Sec. 2, of that same Article II, which says "The Senate and House of Representatives shall meet biennially on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in February next after their election, unless a different day shall be provided by law; and when assembled shall be denominated the General Assembly."

No different day having been set, and other provisions for calling a special session not having been used, the General Assembly of 1961 will convene on February 8. Until that date the only General Assembly, if there is one in existence, is that of 1959.

Briefly summarizing, the situation seems to be that the terms of Senators and Representatives begin with their election, but they cannot take their seats until they have taken the prescribed oath and until both the Senate and the House convene with a majority of sworn members present, there cannot be a designated General Assembly.

JUDICIAL — In checking the Constitution about the General Assembly your reporter ran into some other interesting provisions. There is no time limit on legislative membership, except that they must be elected every two years. Justices of the Supreme Court and Judges of the Superior Courts "shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, as is provided for the election of members of the General Assembly. They shall hold their offices for eight years." Nothing is said about the time when tenure begins. By custom and tradition judges take office on the first day of January after their election, and their terms end at midnight of December 31, eight years later. There is no provision with respect to legislative and judicial officers that they shall hold over until their successors are "qualified."

NO PROBLEM — There is no problem with respect to the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General and members of the Council of State. There is specific provision that they hold office until their successors have been sworn in. It would seem that a similar provision should apply to legislative and judicial personnel. This situation points up need for constitutional revision other than in the areas of court procedure and legislative apportionment, the two items which have occupied most attention in recent sessions of the General Assembly.

MEANTIME—The immediate question is whether North Carolina now has a three-way government, or if all of the legislative branch and a part of the judicial is missing, because of constitutional provisions about when terms begin, and no specific provisions about when they end. And no provision for carry-over until successors are qualified.

The Legislature has no power except when it is in session. If a special session should be called it would apply only to those members elected for the 1961 session. But until the 1961 General Assembly convenes, the 1959 Legislature is in office—unless the thesis is accepted that as of now the State of North Carolina has no legislative branch in its tri-partite system.

Navy Should Quickly Probe Great Fire Loss

The Navy should not hold back as it launches an inquiry into the devastating loss aboard the world's largest aircraft carrier Constellation nearing completion in New York.

Already authorities apparently have established the cause of the terrible fire, but it seems incredible that a blaze should spread so quickly through the gigantic steel structure of the ship.

Normally one thinks of a ship of this kind as virtually fire-proof so far as its structure and interior are concerned. Certainly in a ship that cost some $250 million every precaution should be taken to see that fire hazards are eliminated even in the construction.

In its inquiry into the loss—both in property and the heavy toll of life—the Navy should carefully evaluate the situation which made possible the spread of the fire throughout the ship. It should also determine new safety precautions which can be taken to prevent similar losses in the future.

Responsibility Will Be Jack's

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — In a very acute sense President-elect John F. Kennedy will be his brother's keeper.

He must take unique responsibility for what is or isn't done by his brother, Robert, whom he put in his Cabinet as attorney general.

While all presidents bear ultimate responsibility for their Cabinet members, each in the past to some extent could dissociate himself when a Cabinet member goofed.

President Truman, for example, in 1952 sacked his attorney general, J. Howard McGrath, for firing Newbold Morris whom Truman had asked to investigate government corruption.

But no other president has had his brother in the Cabinet. Thus, each could argue he didn't know beforehand what a Cabinet member was up to.

The new president can't take that kind of an out in the case of his brother and for a reason that goes beyond mere blood ties.

The Kennedys are extremely close, constantly consult each other, and reportedly, think pretty much alike.

So it can be assumed that when the new attorney general does or does not take a major action it is because the president is not only fully aware of his decision and approves, but wants it that way.

This close relationship is perhaps the best argument the brothers can make to critics of Robert's appointment to such high office.

He acts vigorously, it will antagonize Southern whites, particularly in Congress where the new president will need all the votes he can get for his legislative program.

If the Justice Department drags its feet on civil rights it will antagonize Negroes and liberals who helped elect the new president.

It's a delicate problem and just because it is — either way it goes — the new president will almost certainly be held more responsible than his brother because it can be assumed Robert on a question as important as this acted under John's say-so.

Since Robert Kennedy worked tirelessly to make his brother president, it can be taken for granted he will work just as hard to make his presidency a success.

Robert Kennedy is credited with being tough, quick and shrewd. He's a good politician, as he demonstrated by managing his brother's presidential campaign.

As for judgment on strictly legal problems — he can get all the advice he might need from lawyers in the Justice Department. It swarms with them.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
TRUE WEALTH

John Ruskin once remarked that there is no wealth but life. He declared that a country is rich which nourishes the greatest number of noble and happy human beings. Also he said, that the only rich man is one who having developed his powers to the utmost has also "the widest helpful influence, both personal and by means of his possessions, over the lives of others."

Our generation is the richest generation in human history. There are all too many poverty-stricken people amongst us, yet compared with other ages our age is fabulously wealthy. And we are a generation which thinks a great deal about wealth. Is it not time that we asked ourselves what wealth really is? Is it a large bank balance? Is it vastness of property interests? Is it a matter of stocks and bonds?

Every prominent thinker the world has ever known and every sensible man and woman today repudiates such an idea of wealth. Wealth does not consist in the things which we possess but in the things which possess us. True wealth is a matter of the inner heart. No matter what external conditions may indicate, the only truly rich person is the person whose heart is undefiled, whose motives are pure, whose aspirations are high, whose spirit is self effacing.

Material values have their place but their place can never rightfully be first place. Moral and spiritual values come first and must remain first.

On The Yuletide Front

Christmas: the annual festival of the Christian church commemorating the birth of Jesus, celebrated on December 25; Dec. 25, Christmas day, now generally observed as an occasion for gifts, greetings, etc.

That is from a new dictionary, just out—apparently it is the modern definition of Christmas, now generally observed as an occasion for gifts, etc.

Now, Virginia, we all know what Christmas is. Merry Christmas.

Continuing in the "spirit" of Christmas, we would like to know who put the mistletoe up in the entrance to our new room to our composing room—a very strategic place for all commuting.

And from our foreign news department (courtesy of Stuart Savage) we have "rescued" the following: American-style parking tickets have been introduced this year in London. Ten hours after the plan went into action, traffic wardens had ticketed 344 drivers in the West End, cleared the streets of double parkers and eliminated traffic jams. But motorists complained bitterly. Said one: "I accepted American hot dogs, I accepted American iced tea. But this, this I most certainly do not accept."

Also, in Appleton, Wisconsin, a man was fined $15 for speeding, even though he explained that he had just bought two hot pizza pies and was hurrying to get them home before they cooled.

One of the most unusual requests from a youngster to Santa we have heard—ever—is for a certain type of soft drink machine.

Other Editors Saying Hodges & Export Problem

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
Gov. Hodges has not said a great deal about what his plans are concerning his new duties as Secretary of Commerce in the Democratic administration, but one can be sure he expects to devote a great deal of effort to improving the American economy. Promotion of U.S. exports heads his list of things to do when he goes to Washington.

After a lengthy conference with the present Secretary of Commerce, Fred Mueller, Hodges explained that they had discussed the organization and philosophy of the department and not such issues as the recent slowdown in business. The Tar Heel governor has been cautious in his public statements about the current business situation. There has been a little bit of easing off the last few months, he admitted, and that he looked for an upturn in the spring because business usually expands at that time of year.

But Hodges does stress the importance of continuing the government's year-old drive to boost U. S. exports. "We can redouble our efforts toward international trade, more exports and more tourism to this country," he said. Foreign sales of goods and visits to this country by foreigners both help to bring back American dollars and reduce the now large deficit in the country's international accounts.

The major thing will be the matter of international trade. Hodges has no special measures to pep up business and has no specific tax proposals in mind. A program to help depressed areas, one of the campaign promises of the Democrats, would be run by his department. Hodges prefers trade rather than aid, because trade brings people together. He is not against aid, as such, however.

Anyone familiar with Hodges knows there will be a new bustle and hustle in the Commerce Department. If there are problems to be solved, Hodges will certainly attack them. There are ways and means of improving the U. S. economic situation overseas, Hodges will certainly exploit these angles, too. And if there is an answer to economic ills now besetting certain domestic areas, we are fairly sure the new secretary will try to find the answer.

One dissident voice has been noted concerning the appointment of Hodges, James Carey, czar of the International Union of Electrical Workers, doesn't like Hodges, nor does he like the new Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara. In Hodges' case, Carey boasted that he would exert pressure on the Senate to deny confirmation. He pointed out that he was responsible for Senate failure to confirm Adm. Lewis Strauss as Commerce Secretary.

His reason for opposing Hodges was the latter's "yielding to business interests, while his toughness has been against the wage earner of North Carolina." Whatever that means. In McNamara's case a more stupid reason could not exist: "Mainly because we just don't know him." That's why Carey opposes the new defense chief. Somehow we have a feeling that Carey's "influence" on the Senate has just ended.

Here's Why Air Fares To Rise

By ELMER ROESSNER
The long, downward course of air passenger rates may be near an end. From now on fares will rise.

The airlines have done a remarkable job reducing fares over the last three decades. Planes and accommodations have constantly been improved while rates have constantly been lowered. This has been because airlines loved the public or wanted to encourage thrift; it has been because of their life-and-death struggle with trains and buses.

Nor is it because the airlines have taken the cream of the travel dollar away from competitors that they are now about to nudge fares higher. The basic reason is that they are up against rising costs of doing business.

CATALOGUE OF HIGHER CHARGES
Here is a rundown of reasons why plane-flying must cost more soon:

Capital costs: It is true that jet planes largely offset higher costs with large capacity, quicker turn-arounds and more economical maintenance. But they also require higher capital investment, and capital costs money. Witness the difficulty Howard Hughes has been having raising money for TWA's jet fleet. And plane riders should not snicker at any airline's financial troubles because they, in the end, will meet the bills.

Airport fees: The costs of maintaining airports are rising with higher wage scales and thicker ice on the tarmac. London Airport landing fees are scheduled to rise a third on April 1 to meet higher costs there. Higher fees will be charged at many other world airports. And the increases have to be tucked into the price of tickets. Set down at Idlewild Airport, New York, lately? Those magnificent buildings and sweeping vistas did not grow. They are being paid for by plane passengers.

That's true of expanding airports around the world. Competition: The old-fashioned idea is that competition reduces prices. But in the modern economy, competition increases prices, as can be shown by countless examples. One example is in international airlines. When the airlines of one country want to serve a second country, the second country usually demands that it have rights to serve the first country, too.

Coming into American airports now are about twice as many foreign lines as traffic warrants. Because an American line wants to fly to Fiddlesan, Fiddlesan wants to fly a route to the United States—and if it hasn't got an airline, it rents planes and hires pilots. So a double, two-way service results and the rates have to be raised to keep the double services solvent.

International passenger rates are much higher than domestic rates, partly for that reason and partly because of the international cartel, which fixes air rates.

A score of new nations have been formed in the last few years, and each will soon be organizing its own airline and demanding exchange routes with the United States and other nations. The cost of keeping those duplicatin and largely unnece-

Powers Story Lingers

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

In the Jefferson Book Store in New York City, it is possible to buy Soviet Booklet No. 76 which is a formal document setting forth the "Indictment, Evidence, Speeches and Verdict in the Case of Francis G. Powers." The object of this pamphlet circulated in the United States, printed in English, is to set forth the correctness of Soviet Russia and the wickedness of the United States in the U-2 incident.

The first paragraph of this pamphlet reads: "On May 1st, 1960, an American Lockheed U-1 military reconnaissance plane intruded into the air space of the Soviet Union. At a time when American bombers carrying atom and hydrogen bombs are in the air on round-the-clock patrol flights, the incursion of a military plane into the air space of the Soviet Union might have easily been taken to be the beginning of an armed attack. Therefore, on that day the world was placed on the brink of war."

As a matter of fact, this statement is strictly untrue because the United States had been flying over Soviet Russia and photographing that country for a long time and had penetrated Soviet defenses. Soviet Russia was conscious of this before the U-2 incident. The Powers trial forced Soviet Russia to admit:

"The Military Collegium of the U.S.S.R. Supreme Court established the fact that aggressive espionage flights are undertaken along the borders and over the territory of the Soviet Union by the United States Central Intelligence Agency with the knowledge and sanction of the Government and President of the United States."

"The trial showed that these spy-flights would have been impossible had the United States not employed for aggressive purposes military bases and airfields on the territory of states bordering on the Soviet Union. This includes the territory of Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and Norway."

In the indictment of Francis G. Powers, the Soviet Government admits that these flights have been continuous:

"During Eisenhower's term as President of the United States, i.e., beginning with January 1953, the Soviet Union has made several protests to the U. S. Government against the incursion of American planes inside the frontiers of the U.S.S.R."

"In assessing these incursions the Soviet Government pointed out that 'these violations of the frontiers of the Soviet Union by American military aircraft are in pursuance of definite assignments of the American military command'."

"The planes smashed the Iron Curtain and made Soviet secrecy valueless. Soviet Russia maintains espionage forces in the United States and they are constantly being caught. Some are placed under arrest; some are deported. Some Americans were shocked that their own country was actually not more efficient in its national defense. The pro-Russians, of course, bleated that we had violated Russian rights although they are silent when Russian spies are caught in this country or they organize a committee to defend the Russian spy."

It is difficult to understand Powers' conduct in this case. Others have been engaged for their country in matters involving espionage. Usually when caught, they attempt to commit suicide. According to this Russian pamphlet, Powers did an awful lot of talking for a man engaged in professional espionage.

The Powers case is not yet completed. We have not heard the whole American story. If the United States has actually finished the photographing of Soviet Russia and other secret areas of the world, a wonderful feat has been accomplished by our intelligence forces and the men engaged in it should be praised. Two can play at espionage and we have been led to believe that the men in the Kremlin are so much smarter than our men. If we have smart men, too, let's give them a gold medal for it.

Optimist President Walter Whitehurst welcomed members and guests to the second annual affair and the Rev. Tom Money, Optimist vice president, offered the invocation. Following the dinner, Pres. Whitehurst invited guests and members to remain for A scrapbook of clippings of the year's work was presented to Merchants Association President Herbert M. Wilkerson at the meeting of the association's Board of Directors last night.

Past President B. D. Johnston presented the book to Wilkerson as an expression of the Board's appreciation for his work as president this year.

The directors voted to co-sponsor the Business Management Institute with the Greenville Chamber of Commerce which will be held each Thursday from January 24 through March 14.

A copy of the lease for office space to be rented in a new building to be constructed on West Fifth St. across from the City Hall Parking Lot was also reviewed and signed at the meeting.

It was announced that ballots for the election of directors of the association will be mailed to the membership following Christmas. A fellowship hour was held immediately following the business session. Guests for the meeting included City Manager Leonard P. Bloxam and Past Presidents of the Association H. L. Ormond, D. J. ## Romulo Advises Can't Afford To Lose A Friend

CHARLOTTE (AP)—"These are such perilous times you cannot afford to lose a single friend, no matter how small, how poor or how weak."

Gen. Carlos Romulo, Philippine ambassador to the United States, also told the Charlotte Textile Club Monday that invisibles may decide the power struggle between communism and democracy. He said the invisibles are friendship for the United States and world respect for its position.

He said that prior to World War II, it was felt in Asia and Africa that the West was invincible in technology and invulnerable in arms. "It is a truth you must face: That thought is gone, finished," he said.

The ambassador received a standing ovation from the textileists when he asked: "Of what avail are your textile profits, or the magnitude of the American civilization if in the end you are nothing but the slaves of communism?"

The two towers of the famous Chartres Cathedral are topped by totally dissimilar spires—one Romanesque and one Gothic. The cathedral was built during the 12th and 13th centuries.

Hit-Run Charge Follows Accident

Jack Tyndall Williams, 19, of Route 1, Vanceboro, was arrested yesterday on charges of hit and run driving, while two passengers in his car were charged with aiding and abetting hit and run driving following a collision near the intersection of 14th and Charles Sts.

Investigating officers said the car driven by Williams allegedly struck a car parked on a drive-in grill parking lot and owned by Curtis Joyner, 35, of 2533 South Dickinson Ave. Damage to the parked vehicle was set at $50.

With Williams was the owner of the auto, Billy Lee White, 22, of Route 3, Greenville and Curtis Manning Tingen, 19, of Route 1, Vanceboro. Both White and Tingen were charged with aiding and abetting the hit and run. Damage to the White vehicle was set at $35.

No injuries were reported. Iroquois Indians carried miniature canoes as amulets to keep from drowning.

MOSCOW (AP)—Ernesto Guevara, Cuba's ultraleft economic boss, left Moscow today, his pockets lined with Soviet promises of greatly increased economic aid and trade.

Western diplomats said the promises to Guevara represent the deepest Soviet penetration to date in Latin America. In return he signed a declaration of complete support for the Communist bloc in its economic and political war with the United States and its allies.

A final communique said the Russians will build an oil refinery in Cuba, construct an iron and steel mill and power plants. Technicians will go to Cuba to aid in exploration for iron and minerals.

The Soviet Union also announced it will buy 2.7 million tons of Cuban sugar if the United States continues its refusal to buy from Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime. The price to be paid was not announced.

In Havana Castro announced the Communist bloc had pledged to buy four million tons of sugar in 1961 at 4 cents a pound—nearly a cent above the world price—if the United States refused to buy Cuban sugar. Previous Communist sugar purchases have been at the world price. Castro said the Soviet Union would take 2.7 million tons, Communist China 1 million, and other Communist nations the remaining 300,000 tons.

The new trade pact is an expansion of one signed in Havana Feb. 13 which started Soviet oil flowing to Cuba in return for 1.7 million tons of sugar.

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Navy divers removed the body of 44-year-old L. H. Marshburn from his submerged station wagon in the Inland Waterway Monday. Marshburn, of Carolina Beach, had been missing since Dec. 8.

Charleston, S.C., Navy divers were called after paint matching Marshburn's station wagon was found on a warning light at a bridge spanning the Inland Waterway between Wilmington and Carolina Beach and on U.S. 421. The body was positively identified, Sheriff Marion Mills said. He added that an autopsy was planned. Marshburn, assistant sales manager of Tidewater Gas Co., had been missing since attending a meeting in Wilmington the night of Dec. 8.

Poll In Favor Of Jan. 4 Caucus

RALEIGH (AP)—Encouraged by results of a mail poll, Reps. Herbert Hardy of Greene and H. Clifton Blue of Moore are moving ahead with plans to hold a caucus of Democratic House members here on Jan. 4.

In letters to the 106 House Democrats, Hardy and Blue said 90 of 97 replying to the poll favored the Jan. 4 caucus. One of the other seven replying said anything would be fine, and one was undecided. Only five were opposed.

The 1961 General Assembly convenes on Wednesday, Feb. 8. The early caucus would permit a fast start, by nominating a speaker and other officers.

They asked the Democratic House members to meet in the Hall of the House at 5:30 p.m. Jan. 4, the eve of the inauguration of Gov.-elect Terry Sanford.

Third State To OK Amendment

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—New Jersey has become the third state in the country to ratify a proposed amendment to the U. S. Constitution giving residents of Washington, D. C., the right to vote in presidential elections.

The State Senate passed the amendment 20-0 Monday. The State Assembly had passed the measure last month. It does not require the governor's signature.

The amendment would give the District of Columbia three votes in the Electoral College. Hawaii and Massachusetts approved the amendment before New Jersey. Ratification by 35 more states is required.

BY FRANCES V. RUMMELL

CHAPTER 10
Mr. Petry, who was redundant about few things, repeatedly told his girls, "Unless you know your broker personally, don't let him tell you what to buy. You tell him." On this subject, in fact, the teacher brimmed over with imperatives. "Nine hundred and ninety-nine out of a thousand brokers are conscientious and experienced men of good will," he said, leaving his fraternity wide and honorable quarter.

Jane listened carefully, gathered that it is this thousandth character who has dogs and cats to get rid of, or who "churns and twists" his clients. She hadn't known what his painful sounding verbs meant until Mr. Petry gave a few horrible examples of brokers' senseless trading in and out to add to their commissions.

So seldom was Mr. Petry given to such forcefulness that Jane couldn't cope with it. Her notebook meekly recorded, "You tell broker. Unless he's your husband, don't listen."

Mrs. Hope whispered to Jane, "My Mr. Evans is a doll. He calls me every day."

Mr. Petry didn't know it, and Jane had promised not to tell, but her teammate still traded steadily. Now, handing over a record book, she showed Jane how she had been in and out of fifteen stocks during the last three weeks. Since Mrs. Hope had a total of twenty-two, her list could not be considered dusty.

"Look," she nudged, as with one finger she underlined her latest transaction, "Mr. Evans took me in and out of this in two days!" Jane looked, saw the story on Texas Hot Air Generators. I couldn't resist the name of Texas! Mrs. Hope said. She had purchased 700 shares and had sold the whole works the next day. Her profit was $10.88, while Mr. Evans' was $149.66.

Another, Tarzan Timber, Mrs.

Hope bought and held three days. It gave her a nice profit of $453.35—that is, if you didn't count Mr. Evans' commission of $82.50. And Mrs. Hope didn't. Her emotions were not equipped to deal with figures. "Isn't it thrilling?" she gasped. "I adore taking a flyer!"

On a third transaction, Electric Eel, she took a loss of $189.71, by the side of Mr. Evans' gain of $81.04.

All told, while listening to Mr. Petry with one ear and Mrs. Hope with the other, Jane rapidly calculated that her madcap friend's last three flyers had netted her $274.52 and Mrs. Evans' $313.29, with his profit exceeding his client's by $38.77.

Jane could bear to see no more. She quietly closed Mrs. Hope's record book, and for her friend she prayed a silent prayer. Her teammate was behaving like a pressure cooker without a safety valve.

Somewhere between Mr. Petry's warning and Mrs. Hope's wheeling and dealing, Jane decided to take her stand. Apparently, selecting stocks was like being born and dying; it was something you had to do alone.

By this time, woefully confused by everybody else's method, she was ready to devise her own. As far as she knew, it was a wholly new way and about time. It was at least refreshing, she thought, and it might even teach the cold canyon of Wall Street a thing or two about purely esthetic pleasure.

Sitting down at her card table the next morning, Jane began by grouping the letters of the alphabet into three. Then she marked yellow work sheets "ABC," "DEF," and so on. But it was the next step—a crucial one—that showed her passion for perfection. For her entries into their proper alphabetical categories she fastidiously selected only those stocks whose names pleased her ear or kindled her sense of imagery. They had to do one or the other, and if they didn't, they were rejected like so many imposters.

On the "ABC" page, she selected Allied Magnolia and then smiled her satisfaction. "Magnolia" sounded like Miss America of the old-fashioned South and brought to mind pictures of glistening magnolias and frosty mint juleps. In fact, for all she knew about Allied Magnolia at that point, it could well have manufactured banjos.

Scrutinizing the B's one by one, she had to pass them over completely.

The C's were more rewarding—especially Cascade Timber, which sounded rippling, snow-capped, eternal.

Finally she had a preliminary list of 50 stocks that met her esthetic standard, and now she could no longer evade the second question: What did these companies with the alluring names do? What's more, how well did they do?

Jane picked up her Stock Guide for a look behind the name Allied Magnolia. This romantic, magnolia-laden company turned out to be, in reality, one of the nation's busiest manufacturers of cement products. But if Jane's gentle soul was dismayed, she was utterly crest-fallen to find that the jolly name of Happy Products actually stood for mining machinery. Stiffening her lip, she saw what she was up against: The business world was simply insensitive to the alchemy of words.

Next came her final test, as rigorous as the first was gentle. How did her candidates do? For two days, holding out against the lines of fine print, she combed and tabulated earnings reports in her Stock Guide. It was a dull, miserable, patience-taxing job.

She knew what she wanted—growth stocks only—of the type Mr. Petry would call "too aggressive for a widow." No sober-sided slow-movers for Jane. She had to think Big.

Unfortunately, however, Jane's creaky arithmetic proved a serious embarrassment to her research. She had loved to read about certain companies' percentage increases over the years—but she had forgotten how to figure percentages for herself. Thus, feeling unutterably stupid, Jane's exercise in stock selection ground to a dead-end halt. Leaving her work table to make a cup of tea, she tried to be patient until Al got home from work. Surely Al could teach her what she had to know.

That evening, with his usual gusto, Al threw himself into the problem of teaching his old teacher—and to their mutual delight they found that Jane's arithmetic came back fast.

The next evening, Al brought over a slide rule. "This," he informed her, "will be even better. Not necessary, but fun."

"My percentage gain," she told him, "must take off vertically and wobble not at all. Show me how to use it."

By the end of an hour Jane was setting up her problems with confidence and also flipping off percentages on the slide rule, which proved to be a fascinating gadget.

Finally, she pared away unmercifully, her slide rule within easy reach, at her preliminary list of fifty stocks with acceptable names. Most of them simply flunked her flight test; they either hadn't got off the ground or, after a wobbly start, had squibbed out and, from her viewpoint, died.

One stock survived, a stock so immature that it had not yet reached a grade of A, B, C or D in her Stock Guide. Actually, it was the handiwork of a group of scientists with an eye for profits, for the future, and for exciting application in fields not already plowed by competitors. And Jane, her screen-

Urged Consider ASC Loan Rates

Corn farmers throughout the state were urged today to keep in mind loan rates and availability of loans through their ASC office. In a statement issued today, ing done, collapsed into excited expectancy. (To Be Continued Tomorrow)

H. D. Godfrey, Administrative Officer for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, pointed out current prices for corn on most markets are below the applicable loan rate. With the support rate in this state of $1.15 per bushel, local market prices in some areas are as low as $1.00.

According to Godfrey, this is about the same picture that prevails during the height of the harvest season on most commodities under support. "That's why price support loans are made available to farmers—to permit farmers to store their grain instead of dumping it on the market as soon as it is harvested." ASC's price support program in general, in addition to providing for orderly marketing of grain, also provides a dollars and cents minimum or support price for certain grains. This "minimum price" enables farmers to know at the time of planting that they will at least get their cash investment out of the crop.

Hold Suspect In Safe Robberies

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—One man was arrested here Monday night and two others were being sought as suspects in connection with a series of safe robberies in several Southern states. Detective Chief J. E. Melvin said Wayne Howard Brooks, 29, of Gastonia was arrested in the Eagles Department Store. Two suspects waiting in a car outside fled when police approached. Officers gave chase and found the car abandoned about two blocks away. Melvin said the car contained all types of burglary tools. "It was a very clever operation," Melvin said. "They would take the lock out of a door and replace it with one of their own and lock themselves inside." He said Brooks had a walkie-talkie radio in his possession. A similar walkie-talkie was found in the 1960 model car registered in Brooks' name. The car also was equipped with a two-way police radio. Police recovered $3,185.53 on Brooks and in the car, the officer reported. He added the trio was suspected of taking more than $3,000 from a safe at Wright's clothing store in Raleigh over the weekend. Melvin said the men are wanted for questioning in West Palm Beach, Fla., and several cities in Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina. A search of the abandoned car disclosed two books containing information on how to get into various types of safes and vaults, the officer said. "These men," he added, "are suspected of pulling a safe job at a supermarket in Morgan City, Ala., in August in which $22,000 was stolen. We have reason to believe they might be wanted in Phoenix City, Ala." One of the policemen fired two or three shots at the fleeing suspects after they had jumped out of the car. "There was no evidence of blood, but one of them may have been hit as he was limping," Melvin said.

Thanks To The Boys At The Bar

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—The Nazareth Home for Boys in Leicester today receives a new TV set and a phonograph for Christmas—thanks to the boys at Joe Preston's bar. Last March, Joe, a former Marine sergeant painted his combat helmet bronze, set it up on the bar and put a sign over it reading: "Folks, help the kids for Christmas." Customers pitched pennies—and some silver and bills—into the helmet for the past nine months. Monday the take was counted at 19,329 pennies and $50.30 in bills and silver for a total of $243.58.

He Learns What 'Would Happen'

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A lanky, 17-year-old Tampa youth who telephoned a bomb scare message to an elementary school last month "just to see what would happen," found out when a judge sentenced him to two years in prison. David Warren Kitchen was sentenced Monday by criminal court judge L. A. Grayson. It is believed Kitchen is the first person to be sentenced under a new state law which makes bomb scare calls a felony with punishment up to 10 years in prison. Grayson, admitting the term was stiff, said if he let Kitchen go, others would "get the idea they can scare the fire out of their teachers by doing the same thing."

UN Budget Wins Assembly Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly Budget Committee voted 54-9 Monday for a $72.9 million gross budget for 1961. It is nearly $10 million more than the 1960 figure. About $5 million in cash income will reduce the 1961 total. The Soviet Union, reiterating its insistence that $50 million is enough, voted against the budget. Only one of eight Americans now lives on a farm.

Buckeyes, Bradley Set Hot Pace With Victories

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jerry Lucas, Chet Walker, Tom Suth, Art Heyman, Dave DeBusschere and Doug Moe—without 'em six of the nation's top 11 teams might just be a bunch of guys.

Instead, these individuals have given Ohio State, Bradley, St. Bonaventure, Duke, Detroit and North Carolina a stronger hold in the latest Associated Press ranking of top teams with victories Monday night.

The current poll features 11 teams, with a tie for the No. 10 spot between North Carolina and North Carolina State.

Lucas scored 19 points, nine in a clinching spurt, for top-ranked Ohio State as the Buckeyes (5-0) beat Loyola of Chicago, 90-65. Walker's 29 helped Bradley batter down stubborn Idaho 97-68 while Suth also scored 29 in St. Bonaventure's easy 86-49 victory over Western Ontario. Bradley and the Bonnies are ranked 2-3 and both have 7-0 records.

Heyman got 23 points in seventh-ranked Duke's 61-48 victory over Georgia Tech and DeBusschere scored 27 as his Detroit Titans (No. 8) defeated Gonzaga 80-75. Moe's 26 helped North Carolina get the job done against Creighton 72-64.

Ohio State still got balanced scoring from the rest of its defending NCAA champions as Lucas sat out the last 11 minutes with four fouls. However his crucial nine-point spree came when the Bucks led the game on a 13-5 spurge during a 55-point second half. California (5-0) defeated Northwestern 62-40 in the first game of the Chicago Stadium twinbill. Loyola's loss was its first in six games.

Bradley won its 13th in a row over two seasons, and 40th straight at home, after shaking off Idaho's pesky zone defense in the second half. Walker sat out the last five minutes after a scuffle with Idaho's Ray Carolan. St. Bonaventure's victory on its home court at the Olean Armory court was its 95th in a row there.

Cincinnati, Bradley's chief competitor for Missouri Valley Conference honors, got 23 points from Bob Wiesenhahn and 21 from Paul Hogue in beating Nebraska 75-60. Bob Nordmann scored 15 points but a tenacious man-to-man defense did even more in St. Louis' 52-26 victory over San Jose State.

Ray Swain's field goal in the last few seconds was the clincher in Florida State's 65-64 victory over Clemson while Jan Loudermilk's two fouls in the final three minutes put Southern Methodist ahead to stay in a 68-60 decision of Minnesota.

Don Nelson scored 34 points as Iowa set a team scoring record in a 104-64 pasting of Arizona. Drake won its sixth straight, 75-54 over Wyoming and Vanderbilt did likewise, 80-76 over Texas Tech. Wichita

Elon Falls To Norfolk Quint

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Elon College fell to Norfolk William and Mary 64-62 in the only game Monday night involving a North State Conference basketball team.

The game was tied nine times and in the final nine minutes the two teams were never more than a point apart.

No other games are scheduled until next week as North State teams take a break for the Christmas holiday season.

Finley Aiming For Remainder Of KC Stock

CHICAGO (AP) — Insurance broker Charles Finley, who purchased 52 per cent of the Kansas City A's baseball club, now is aiming for 100 per cent ownership.

Finley, 42, put up $1,975,000 for controlling interest of the A's by purchasing the stock held in the estate of the late Arnold Johnson. Probate Judge Robert Dunne approved Finley's bid. Final court approval of the purchase is contingent on Finley being accepted by the American League.

Finley, who has been trying to buy a major league club for the last six years, is in position to purchase the remaining 48 per cent of the team's stock.

A Kansas City group, which was outbid by Finley for Johnson's stock, has options to purchase the minority holdings. This group, however, has said it would be willing to let Finley buy the 48 per cent providing he would keep the club in Kansas City for at least five years.

Finley, who says he wants to buy the remaining stock, estimated it would cost him an additional $1,925,000, making the total cost $3,900,000.

Finley said Joe Gordon definitely will remain as the club's field manager but added that he has given no consideration to Parke Carroll's job as general manager.

Finley, who says he will surround himself with the best baseball brains available, has his work cut out in trying to make the A's a winner. The A's have finished in the first division but once in the last 12 years, and that was fourth while in Philadelphia in 1952.

Heyman Spurs Duke Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sophomore Art Heyman, Duke's 6-foot-5 sharpshooter, is making his place in college basketball quickly.

The Rockville Centre, N.Y., native plunked in 23 points—including 10 in a five minute span at the game's end—as Duke won its sixth straight game, 61-48 from Georgia Tech.

All Atlantic Coast Conference teams in action Monday night played non-conference opposition. Elsewhere North Carolina pulled away in closing minutes to trip Creighton 72-64, and Clemson lost or a last minute goal to Florida State 65-64.

Winless Virginia (0-6 over all)

He again tonight against William and Mary of the Southern Conference in the only game Duke plays Florida in Jacksonville, Fla., and North Carolina State is at LaSalle in Wednesday night games.

Duke, ranked seventh in the nation in this week's Associated Press poll, has been getting a big push from Heyman. Since the sophomore was limited to 11 points in a two-point win over West Virginia, he has scored 23, 25 and 27.

After Tech had grabbed a 13-4 lead, Heyman sparked the ACC team to a 33-27 halftime margin. He also was Duke's most agile rebounder. Carroll Youngkin had 13 and Howard Hurt 10 points for

Duke.

North Carolina, which with N.C. State is tied for the 10th spot in this week's AP poll, broke away from stubborn Creighton with two free throws by Doug Moe with 1:20 left in the game.

Moe, who scored 26 points, put the Tar Heels in front 61-59. The North Carolinians, playing in Omaha, Neb., then counted 13 points to five for Creighton. Jim Hudock added 14 points and York Larese 13 for North Carolina.

The win gave North Carolina two wins in three games on a western swing and pushed the Tar Heels to 4-2 over-all.

Clemson was coasting along with a 10 point lead and less than five minutes to go, when Florida State's Seminoles went on the war path. Four Clemson passes fell into FSU hands and were turned into buckets, the final one being Ray Swain's game-winner with 25 seconds left.

Choppy Patterson, who scored 21 points to lead the Tigers, had a shot for Clemson in the closing seconds, but the 15-footer failed to find its mark. Ed Krajack added 19 points for Clemson.

The loss cut Clemson's record to 2-6 on the season.

Duke Seventh, UNC, N.C. State Tied For 10th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
College basketball's top 10 has 11 in the elite list today with the addition of unbeaten Auburn, Ohio State and Bradley still rule the roost.

How come 10 becomes 11 in The Associated Press' weekly rankings? The votes of the 36 sports writers and sportscasters in the national panel brought about a tie for 10th between North Carolina and North Carolina State.

The selectors picked the same 10 teams of a week ago, plus Auburn, although many of the teams were shifted. The poll was based on games played through Saturday night.

There were no changes in the first two spots. Ohio State's NCAA champions (4-0) were the unanimous choice of the 36 for first, and Bradley (6-0) was almost as solid for second.

Detroit (4-1), third a week ago, fell to eighth, and St. Bonaventure (6-0) moved up from sixth to third. Indiana (4-1) held firm in fourth place, but North Carolina (3-2), beaten by Kentucky and Kansas State, fell from fifth to a tie for 10th with NC State (5-1).

Louisville (8-0) jumped from ninth to fifth, and St. John's (4-0) advanced from seventh to sixth. Duke (5-0) also received a promotion, from eighth to seventh. Auburn (5-0) earned the ninth spot by beating Alabama 74-62 for the Birmingham Classic title. It was Auburn's 14th straight victory over a two-year span.

The leaders with won-lost records and first place votes in parentheses with points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis (records through games of Saturday, Dec. 17) are:

- 1. Ohio State (36) (4-0) 360
  - 2. Bradley (6-0) 321
  - 3. St. Bonaventure (6-0) 212
  - 4. Indiana (4-1) 204
  - 5. Louisville (8-0) 178
  - 6. St. John's (4-0) 140
  - 7. Duke (5-0) 135
  - 8. Detroit (4-1) 81
  - 9. Auburn (5-0) 68
  - 10. North Carolina (3-2) 39
  - (Tie) N. C. State (5-1) 39
- Others receiving votes included Kansas State 35, Providence 24, UCLA 18, Colorado 17, St. Louis 15, Vanderbilt 14, Utah 13, Wake Forest 11, Kansas and Drake 10 each, Memphis State 7, Kentucky 6, Purdue 4, Duquesne 3, Utah State 2, Marquette, Virginia Tech, Illinois, Iowa and Seton Hall, 1 each.

McPeak Named Head Coach Of Redskins

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Bill McPeak, at 34 the youngest head coach in the National Football League, has given himself a year to prod the drooping Washington Redskins out of their losing rut.

And he may be the kind of whip cracker who can do it—although no other Redskins coach in the past decade or more has been able to make the once proud team a winner.

To nobody's surprise, owner George Preston Marshall announced Monday that McPeak—veteran of 12 years in the NFL—was replacing Mike Nixon as field boss of the 'Skins.

Nixon was fired Sunday after Washington ended its most dismal season in 24 years—winning only one game while losing nine and tying two. In Nixon's two years as head coach the 'Skins won a grand total of four games.

McPeak, former all-pro end with the Pittsburgh Steelers, was Nixon's top assistant before Marshall tapped him to undertake the job of rebuilding the club into a championship contender.

Marshall said McPeak was getting a one-year contract, at McPeak's request. Salary figures were not disclosed.

McPeak confirmed he had asked for a short term contract, saying, "I feel that I can prove myself in a year."

The mild-mannered Nixon hip nobody as too ... him ice a guy.

Marshall said that may be Nixon's greatest weakness.

Questioned by reporters, McPeak indicated he will demand an all-out effort from his players. "I won't say I will be tougher than Mike," he said, "but I will

Crop Of Rookies Head AFL Stats

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A spectacular crop of rookies, led by Abner Haynes of the Dallas Texans, won four individual statistics titles in their first year of play in the new American Football League.

Haynes, the galloping Negro star from North Texas State, won the coveted rushing title with 875 yards on 156 carries. He edged Paul Lowe of Los Angeles by only 20 yards.

In the scoring race, Denver halfback Gene Mingo, a rookie without college experience, edged old pro George Blanda of Houston. Mingo scored 123 points to 115 for Blanda.

Jack Spies, Dallas' rookie fullback from Texas Christian, scored 103 points for third place in rushing.

Paul Maguire, Los Angeles' rookie from the Citadel, won the punting title with an average of 40.5 yards.

Tuesday's Notebook . . .
Pro Harold Thomas of the Greenville Golf Course reports it has been a good winter thus far for local golfers. "Last week was kinda slow," says Thomas, "but it picked up over the weekend."

A lot of junior golfers have been playing at the course recently, preparing for the Donna Ross Tournament in Pinehurst next Tuesday. At least nine or ten youngsters from Greenville, headed by Bobby Thomas, are planning on entering, according to the Greenville pro. Others interested in making the trip should contact Thomas.

A father-son tournament will be held on the Pinehurst course Wednesday, December 28th.

De-emphasis On Prep Athletics

Tom Whitehurst claims he's the youngest coach in the Industrial League this winter. A former Bethel prep star and active as a player in the city league, Tom has retired to coaching The Jewel Box this season . . .

On the city league, Ike Riddick, the All-Conference guard for East Carolina College last winter, has joined forces with defending city champions, Carolina Dairy. His club is undefeated thus far this season . . .

The current cry is to take high school athletics away from the NCHSAA (North Carolina High School Athletic Association) and put it under control of the Superintendents. The whole idea is to de-emphasize the schoolboy activities.

The idea catches the fancy of many. And then instead of athletics, we can turn our children loose on the streets at night. Juvenile delinquency may pick up but at least we will have combated that terrible monster known as athletics . . .

Athletics Did These Some Good

Sports Illustrated's 1960 Silver Anniversary All-American has been announced and will appear in the December 26th issue.

All the men named recollect tremendously exciting moments on the football field and agree emphatically that the game was a part of their education, that "college football can be a healthy adjunct to shaping the whole man who is the goal of a liberal education", according to the magazine.

"Their lives bear out their opinions. Almost everyone of them gives far more of himself to his profession to a staggering variety of community service, then he gets back in money or honors. For most of them, responsibility became its own reward a long time ago. In an age characterized by Operators and Status Seekers they are a select group indeed" . . .

Four East Carolina starters are averaging in double figures after seven games. Don Smith tops the list with 15.9. Cotton Clayton is 15.3, Charlie Lewis 13.0, and Bill Otte 12.0. The other starter, Lacy West, is just shy of the mark with 9.7 . . .

Morris, Davidson Gain Grid Honors

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dennis Morris, Houston's middle line-backer, and Cotton Davidson, Dallas' quarterback, were selected as winners of the season's final weekly acclaim in the American Football League.

Sportswriters who cover AFL games voted Oiler Morris player-of-the-week on defense for his role in Houston's 37-21 victory over the Boston Patriots Sunday.

Davidson was honored by the sportswriters as the outstanding player on offense in the Texans' 24-7 triumph over the Buffalo Bills.

Morris blocked an extra-point attempt, grabbed a Boston fumble in the air and started Houston on the way to a touchdown. He was a stalwart in the Oilers' defense.

Davidson threw touchdown passes of 33 and 74 yards to pull Dallas from behind in the second half. He completed 18 of 37 passes for 334 yards.

William & Mary Meets U. Virginia Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
William and Mary's Jeff Cohen, whose basketball scoring spree aren't what they used to be, gets a chance tonight to improve his average when the Indians visit Virginia of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Cavaliers haven't won in six starts but their Tony Laquintano has piled up a respectable 23.0-point per game average—including a 41-point performance in West Virginia's 104-85 romp over Virginia last Saturday night.

Laquintano's average is better than Cohen's 21.3. The William and Mary ace picked up only 11 points Saturday as the Indians pulled out a 54-49 victory over Davidson. He got only 16 points last Wednesday against George Washington.

The only other Southern Conference action tonight finds The Citadel taking on Georgia Southern at Statesboro, Ga.

The Citadel's Charlie Madrazo, a substitute, led a second half uprising that took his team to an 82-72 win over Georgia Monday night.

The Bulldogs held a 39-32 half-time edge after dominating play and controlling the backboards in the opening period.

Then came Madrazo. He fired up The Citadel until Dick Jones sank the go-ahead basket with 12:07 left — a lead The Citadel never surrendered.

Gary Daniels boosted his conference scoring lead with a stellar 30-point job for The Citadel. He hit 13 of 19 field goal attempts and was the game's high scorer.

Another conference team, Richmond, went down 87-77 in an exhibition game with the New York A.C.

Suggest Banning Of Champs From Olympic Meets

CHICAGO (AP)—Banning Olympic champions from future games has been suggested by President Avery Brundage of the International Olympic Committee as an aid to competition.

Brundage said Monday that such a restriction might open the games to more people and lessen the chances of athletes "making a career out of sports."

The proposal, along with others aimed at protecting the amateur status of the games and reducing their size, Brundage said, will be discussed at "an extremely important" meeting of the committee in Athens next June.

"We have been talking about doing something about amateurism for a long time, but this time we will act," said Brundage, long-time champion of simon-pure athletics. He did not disclose the other proposals.

The 1964 games will be held in Tokyo, with the Winter Olympics that year in Innsbruck, Austria.

Of last summer's elaborate games in Rome, Brundage commented: "There was so much commotion after the games that we have sent a letter to all national committees warning against subsidized, training camps and such like as a means of building national prestige. That would be entirely contrary to the Olympic spirit."

"The games are too big and too expensive," continued Brundage. "There has been too much commercialization, and we are against that, too."

American Olympic officials, declining to be identified, said they do not believe Olympic champions will be barred as Brundage has suggested.

However, they said they feel such a rule would help the United States more than any other country because this country always has a large crop of new talent, while other countries rely on veterans for two and even three flings at the Olympics, held every four years.

Wilt Leading In Pro Scoring Race

NEW YORK (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain has slipped a bit in game average, but The Stilt of the Philadelphia Warriors still leads Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles in the National Basketball Association scoring race.

Chamberlain out-scored Baylor 132-105 in four games last week and official statistics to day showed he has a 36.9 average and a 51-point lead in total points. Baylor has a 34.1 average on 1,056 points for 31 games, one more than Chamberlain, who has scored 1,107.

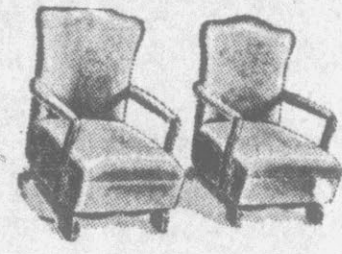

A week ago, Chamberlain had a 37.5 average and Baylor 35.2. Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati is third in scoring with 929.

Old Garage Transformed Into A New Orleans School

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—At 8:45 each morning, about 250 children line up to go to school in an old garage.

From all outside appearances, that is. Inside the concrete block and corrugated iron building—once an automobile engine rebuilding plant—the eight new classrooms of the St. Bernard Private School shine spotlessly.

Probably none of the children realize it, but they troop into something of an educational marvel.

Parents—determined their children would not attend integrated schools—transformed the huge hall in less than one month.

Banks of fluorescent lamps flooded the classrooms, each containing 35 desks in prim rows.

Decorated Christmas trees leaned precariously in corners. Santa Claus and holly wreaths lined the blackboards. Broadlined school notebooks lay on some of the desks with painfully formed ABCs on some.

An old-fashioned school bell called the children to attention. Tiny fingers pulled at zippers of leather jackets, and little shoes stuck against the new gray paint of the concrete corridors.

Supt. Joseph Davies of St. Bernard Parish schools displayed the classrooms eagerly.

"It's far from being a barn, isn't it?" he asked Associated Press newsmen.

Armand Duvio, a plumber by trade and a segregationist by choice, smiled broadly, his hands rammed deeper in his pockets. It was Duvio who fathered the school when William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19 were integrated Nov. 14 under federal court order.

"This wasn't any job by jack-leg carpenters, electricians or do-it-yourself painters," Davies said. "These were professional men, as good as any we would have hired had the job been on a contract basis."

Workmen on their own time—men whose children would have been forced to attend Frantz or McDonogh—did the work. The job is professional, no doubt about that.

Retired teachers or those who have teaching certificates and never taught, instruct the children. The supplies come from the state. Most of the food in the cafeteria is donated.

But this is only the beginning. Duvio hopes to have a cooperative school for 2,000 children ready by next September. It will be free, no tuition, no costs.

"The State Legislature will allow us $367 for each child," said Duvio, whose daughter is in the first grade of the St. Bernard Private School. She had attended Frantz, where only eight white children now go to classes. One Negro girl is enrolled there.

"We'll take any child who has to attend an integrated school," he said. "Right now there are only two, but by next September there may be more and more schools integrated."

The St. Bernard School Board actually operates the school. The building itself is leased.

There were about 1,000 white children at Frantz and McDonogh. The 150 in kindergarten no longer attend school. St. Bernard public schools absorbed the rest.

"Negroes now have a choice of attending an integrated or segregated school," Duvio said. "Whites don't have that choice. But we're determined to see that they do have a choice."

Had To Padlock City Dump Gates

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Police have padlocked the gate to the city dump after people began digging to reach several truckloads of beer that had been dumped in a trench.

Three men were arrested Sunday when officers found the trunk of their car bulging with cans of the discarded beer.

But police puzzled over what charges might be filed against persons who helped themselves to something the original owner had thrown away.

The beer was good. There was speculation it was discarded because a malfunction in the brewery bottling process had caused some of the cans to be partially filled.

Vandals Smashed Collected Toys

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—There will be some empty stockings Christmas morning in Jacksonville because some vandals climbed the fence of a baseball park and smashed toys that had been collected for distribution to needy children.

Police said they caught 17-year-old William L. Daniels climbing out of the park but two other youths got away. Daniels Monday was fined $25 in municipal court on a charge of vandalism.

Reconditioned Toys Can Gladden Children's Hearts

Tenderfoot Santas can work toward their first-class badge with a brush and a little paint.

Look around the house for toys that you can live up with a coat of paint and either give to a child in a hospital or orphanage or pass down to one in the family.

Remember two things when choosing the paint: First, that it be non-toxic paint. This cannot be stressed too much, for children love to pop things into their mouths. By no means use regular house paint.

Secondly, keep in mind that youngsters love bright colors. Gay reds, yellows, greens and blues are their favorites.

Before painting, give the toys a soap and water scrubbing and let dry.

Wooden toys should be sanded to remove any highly glossy areas on the previously painted surface. If you plan to remove the old paint finish entirely, use paint or varnish remover. Then before applying your new top coat, give the wood a primer of enamel undercoat. If there are any cracks or them with water putty. Sand the repaired areas smooth with sandpaper.

Before repainting metal toys,

Radar Operator Warned Pilot In New York's Aerial Collision

NEW YORK (AP)—Moments before two airliners collided in snow-laden skies above New York City a radar operator at La Guardia Airport warned one of the pilots: "Unidentified target at 3 o'clock and about eight miles."

Then, seconds later, he warned again: "A target about two files off at 2 o'clock."

The pilot, Capt. David Wolman, acknowledged both times.

The radarman noted that both blips on his screen then seemed to merge and pursued a straight line a second blip fell off in "a slight right hook and disappeared."

What the operator apparently had seen on his screen—although he didn't know it at the time—was history's worst aviation disaster.

For the plane he had warned was a Trans World Airlines Constellation heading for La Guardia. The blip approaching the TWA propeller-driven craft at 3 o'clock or off his starboard wing, was a United Air Lines DC8 jet liner.

The merging of the blips—collision.

The jet, mortally wounded, crashed into a residential area in Brooklyn. The stricken TWA plane came down on Staten Island. The disaster last Friday took at least 135 lives of passengers and Brooklyn residents.

Gen. Elwood R. Quesada, Federal Aviation Agency administrator, said Monday in Washington that the jet was 11 miles from where it should have been when it collided with the TWA plane.

Quesada said he had informed President Eisenhower of this, adding that he also had told the President one of two electronic navigation aids aboard the DC8 was out of commission at the time.

Bagged Limit With One Shot

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—It took just one shot for Ernest Herbert, 10, to get his limit of two does.

Ernest, who lives at the Waco State Home for Boys, brought them down on an "operation orphan" deer hunt in Mason County.

Ernest fired at one doe and made a clean kill. The same bullet wounded a second doe in the head.

"When they put the dogs on the crippled animal, it swung back toward the youngster so close that he floored it with a rock and then dispatched it," game warden Gene Ashby said.

Since the "operation orphan" hunt started three weeks ago, 170 boys have bagged 216 does. The hunts were set up to harvest surplus does and to give the orphans practice in handling a rifle.

Police Will Sell Their Helicopter

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—State police are trying to unload one ever-so-slightly used helicopter.

Reason:

1. It's too small for rescue work.
2. Its usefulness in transportation (it's a two-seater) is limited.
3. Observation by the pilot is partially obscured.

"The biggest use," said state police director David Espie, "was getting the pilot used to it."

Baptism Of Fire For Huge Carrier Left It Scarred

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK (AP)—The smoke faded. The hissing steam was stilled. But the scars of violence remained on the mighty aircraft carrier Constellation, a warship that had its baptism of fire before it ever saw duty.

Through the night and into the early morning today a valiant and tireless brigade of firemen and rescue workers swarmed over the ship probing through the dark, smoky passages, skimming the last flashes of fire and searching for casualties.

Tall ladders, moving hoists and a maze of ropes and hoses formed a weird pattern against the dark, booming bulk of the huge vessel. In the glare of the shifting floodlights, the men were like urgent Lilliputians swarming over a prostrate hulk of a giant.

Stretcher-bearers over here, please," barked a loudspeaker, and the ship yielded up another of its mournful cargo.

The carrier had cradled death and had known destruction while it still lay majestic at the berth where it was built. The Constellation was a battle-marked veteran six months before it entered the fire.

The officers wore the strained but dogged look of men after battle. But the Navy, true to tradition, mustered its "carry on" grit. "I would like to emphasize that this ship will recover from her damage and will go to sea," said Adm. Schuyler N. Pyne, in charge of the Brooklyn Shipyard where the vessel, 90 per cent complete when the fire came, was moored.

The ship's newly assigned skipper, Capt. Thomas J. Walker, noted conjectures that the fire and death might cause "superstitions about the ship."

"I feel certain that this is not the case," he added. "The attitude of the crew is that she will be the finest ship afloat. Of this we are firmly resolved."

Adm. Pyne interjected, "This disaster can double that resolve."

Through the night the fight for the ship—and the civilian construction men who were aboard when the fire struck—was a stark tableau.

Army and Navy detachments worked with the approximately 400 firemen and police emergency groups aiding in the operation.

"Oxygen on the double," snapped a loudspeaker, part of a continuous din of emergency calls. Each time a victim was brought out it was a tiny vignette of tragedy against the huge, dark backdrop of the ship.

Lines of men, like pack trains, moved in and out of the area carrying equipment and aid materials on their shoulders.

Most of the dead were brought from the innards of the ship, trapped there by the fire that was concentrated originally on the main deck.

Some were drowned below in the torrent of water poured into the ship in fighting the flames. Others suffocated from smoke.

At the outset, the fire blocked the gangways leading to shore, and more than 3,000 construction workers were removed from the vessel by launch or crane lift from the flight deck above the fire.

Some dove into the icy waters of the East River and were picked up. But those below the fire were the crucial concern in the terrible drama.

Many of those—alive and dead—brought out of that area were taken through a hole cut through the 2½-inch steel plate on the ship's port side below the fire level.

Other holes were cut in the starboard side of the ship so that fire hoses could be lowered into the interior to put out fires and cool red-hot metal.

"It was so hot we couldn't get to it any other way," Pyne said.

The fire raged out of control about 12 hours. When it first started from a broken fuel tank, construction workers nearby grabbed fire extinguisher bottles and came close to preventing the ensuing disaster.

"We about had the fire out," said workman John Phelps, "when the bottle ran dry."

Authors Book On Life Of Late N.C. Educator

A former East Carolina College faculty member, Dr. William B. Gatewood, Jr., is the author of a book on the life of the late Eugene Clyde Brooks, which is being published Dec. 31 by the Duke University Press.

Brooks, one of North Carolina's towering educational figures, whose achievements were not limited to this field, is portrayed by the author as a man of wit, unusual charm, great persuasive powers and pronounced mental and physical vigor. The book is entitled "Eugene Clyde Brooks: Educator and Public Servant."

Seasonal Decline In N.C. Non-Farm Employment Seen

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina had 1,200,000 people working last month, not counting those in agriculture.

State Labor Commissioner Frank Crane reported today the total was 2,400 under the preceding month, because of normal seasonal declines in the tobacco, construction and service industries.

The employment figure was a gain of 4,600 over November in 1959.

Manufacturing jobs totaled 698,700 last month, an increase of 8,900 over October, and up 12,900 from November, 1959. Factory employment totaled 502,100, and was 11,300 under the October level, mostly because of seasonal changes. It was down 8,300 from November of last year.

Average hourly earnings of factory workers climbed one cent of $1.55 in November, due partly to scattered wage increases and partly to release of lower-paid seasonal workers. The average work week dropped from 40 to 39.7 hours, causing average weekly earnings to go down from $61.60 in October to $61.54 in November.

..... a Christmas Wish

It is a tribute to man's understanding that he is able to perceive a thread of everlasting truth running through the mosaic of Christmas celebration in our time.

For Christmas today means Wise Men, a Star, and the Babe in a manger, a red-nosed reindeer named Rudolph, gold, frankincense and myrrh, a round little man wearing a beard and a red suit, Yes Virginia There IS a Santa Claus, and voices caroling Hark The Herald Angels Sing.

And so, our Christmas wish is that it will be a happy time throughout this community, and that 1961 will bring progress and peace for us all.
