Morning Rites Unite Couple

FARMVILLE—Miss Agnes Virginia Quinerly and William Cabot Monk were married at the Farmville Christian Church Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Jack Daniell officiated at the single ceremony held in a nuptial setting of white mums and pom-poms, fern and candles. Only members of their immediate families were present.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Francis Marion Davis of Farmville and the late John Kilpatrick Quinerly. The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Coy Monk of Farmville.

An organ prelude by Mrs. Henrietta Moye Williamson included Schubert's "Serenade," "The Evening Star" by Wagner, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" by and red. She carried a bouquet of pink roses tied with pink satin ribbon.

The mother of the bride wore a sylvan green silk alpaca dress and green velvet hat. Her corsage featured a cypripedium orchid.

Albert Coy Monk Jr., brother of the groom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, the couple left for a wedding trip in the South. For traveling, the bride changed to a hyacinth blue costume suit with matching hat and heaven blue accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from the bridal bouquet.

The new Mrs. Monk was graduated from Salem college, Winston-Salem, and attended East Carolina College. Her husband is a graduate of Woodberry Forest School and the University of North Carolina. At UNC he became a member of Phi Delta Theta social fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa national honorary scholastic fraternity. He is vice president of A. C. Monk and Company, Inc., in Farmville.

The couple will make their home at 301 West Church St., Farmville.

Money Saved From Do-It-Yourself Project

Mrs. Grover Horton in Franklin County recently saved her family some money by reupholstering a platform rocker herself. She added extra padding, retied the springs, and added extra webbing across the back before upholstering it.

Mrs. Frances Fuller, assistant home economics agent, says they also covered a matching foot stool—all for the cost of $5.50. Mrs. Horton says her chair is more comfortable now than when new.

Study Unit

"Do you have a good desk and chair of comfortable height which is suitable for a study area?" Miss Maude Middleton, assistant home economics agent in Mecklenburg County, gave information to her 4-H girls on requirements for a good study desk.

Miss Middleton showed the girls accessories to use in the study unit. They included a study lamp of the correct height with the right sized bulb, a peg board and a felt bulletin board, a blotter, trash cans, pencil holder, drawer divider, and book ends—all of which could be made at home.

HD Women Assist With Community Work

In making preparations for a tuberculosis clinic in Rowan County, the county health department expressed a need for 25 capes and 25 skirts to be used for X-ray during the clinic.

Miss Edith Hinshaw, home economics agent, reports Mrs. J. E. Bane, community service chairman, and her local club members made some of the garments. Mrs. Carl Julian and Mrs. Frank Cline also assisted with the work. All the garments have been made and have been sent to the health department for the clinic.

Believes in Planning Ahead

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Plummer of Hoke County believe in planning ahead for best results. They were making plans to build a new home and needed assistance in planning for the location.

Mrs. Mary Lou Roman, assistant home economics agent in Hoke County, says the Plummers have decided on the location of the house on the lot, made plans for driveways, and have a tentative plan for placing of shrubs.

Emphasizes Safety Program

Husbands of Home Demonstration Club members and other interested citizens were kept busy recently in Washington County during the bicycle rodeo. This climaxed the bicycle safety program sponsored by the Cool Spring Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Frances Darden, home economics agent, says the rodeo was held after an extensive study of safety rules, bicycle parts, and rules for riding a bicycle. Mr. Carl Stedley reports, "At the rodeo all types of rules were observed and bicycles were inspected for proper equipment and condition. We had 66 riders to pass the test."

Plans Food and Nutrition Program

Miss Emmie Lou Teal, assistant home economics agent in New Hanover County, is making plans for 4-H girls enrolled in the food preparation project. In teaching the girls how to keep records, they were requested to keep a record of foods eaten by their families and foods they did not like. They also kept records on other problems relating to nutrition and health.

Miss Teal will use this material in planning her program to fit the needs of the girls.

Consider Room In Selecting Furniture

The size and shape of a room often determines what type of furniture will be placed in it. This is particularly true when dual purpose sleep sitting equipment (sofa beds, studio couches, love seats or chair beds) will be part of the overall furnishing scheme. If the room is large enough, extra-length sofa beds, even sectionals, will create a striking effect.

For safety reasons, enclose your Christmas candles in hurricane lamps—perhaps a ceramic snowman, angel, or Santa to hold the candle inside the clear glass chimney.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

hazard gardening is usually the result of poor planning and lack of physical ability to take care of the run away of judgment that springtime enthusiasm often causes.

In looking back, see if the heavy crop of weeds you were heir to the past year wasn't because of bad planning, and not enough strength to contend with your over planted garden area.

If your plants were plagued by insects and diseases to a greater extent than they have in the past, the causes may have been poor equipment, poor judgment or slowness as to keep a spray program.

Did you give your plants an adequate diet to insure healthy plants and blooms? Plants don't like to be overfed or underfed. The types of plants you ended up with at summer's close provided

Sawyer-Lujan Wed In California

SAN JOSE, Calif.—In the Los Lujan and Randal Lee Sawyer Altos Methodist Community were united in marriage, Church Dec. 11, Miss Emily F. Miss Lujan, the daughter of

Mrs. Randal Lee Sawyer

Mr. and Mrs. David R. Lujan of Los Angeles, was given in marriage by her father, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest A. Sawyer of Winterville, N. C. are parents of the bridegroom.

Conducting the double ring vow exchange was the Rev. Charles W. Cox, the rites witnessed by some 75 wedding guests.

The bride wore a full length gown of white net covered with an apron of lace, the bodice also of lace defined with wrist length sleeves and Sabrina neckline.

From a Victorian cap of lace and net sprinkled with sequins and pearls, flowed her veiling, shoulder blade length. A single orchid atop a prayer book formed the bride's bouquet.

The maid of honor, Miss Loretta Clausman, donned a frock of aqua chiffon, designed with matching jacket, the puffed sleeves, elbow length. She added a bouquet of white carnations, white gloves and a matching bow headpiece adorned with net veiling.

The dresses worn by the bridesmaids were the same, but in different shades, and all accessorized like the honor maid's.

Miss Victoria Acosta was in lavender, Miss Joan Wadhams in dusty blue and Miss Toyna Evans, Santa Clara, in rose.

Robert L. Dorman, Moffett Field, was best man and guests were seated by Wayne R. Good, also stationed at Moffett.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lee Larsen of San Jose were hosts for the reception.

Mrs. Sawyer is a graduate of Fremont High School and her husband, who attended Ayden High School in Ayden, N. C., received his diploma while serving four years with the U. S. Navy.

Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer are now residing in San Jose.

Slim Pants... Figuratively

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

How do you figure in the skinny pants fad which is now moving into the holiday season?

If you figure badly, that is, if you are a mass of rolls and bumps you had better stick to skirts.

Even if you are trim enough to slither into these tight-fitting pants, you will be wise to firm the flesh first with proper undergarments.

Because chic hostess pants fit so snugly they look painted on without a little control underneath.

A panty brief or panty girdle will be enough for a slim girl. But if more support is required front, back and side panels offer excellent shape control.

The girth of the thigh and taper of trousers should determine the length of the girdle. All flesh that needs control should be girdle-covered.

And don't fall into the trap of a loose-fitting top. Instead of concealing a figure fault, it emphasizes it. Even though you wear a tank top with your slim jims, you should have a neat bosom line.

A bra with straps set wide at the shoulders should give you the proper style. If you choose a clinging jersey top, you may also need a long line bra to keep the bulge from developing at the midriff.

No matter what combination of skinny pants and top you wear, the over-all picture should be a lifted, rounded bustline with streamlined hips and thighs.

Both fabrics and hues in holiday fashions enhance a good figure, embarrass a bad one. Polished cottons, velveteens, felts and wool knits come in vivid mix-and-match combinations.

Besides red and green, traditional Christmas colors, there are orange shades and some wonderful tropical hues, shocking pinks, Mediterranean blues, vivid island yellows.

These colors are available also in charming hostess gowns that double as evening dresses.

Wonderful for the girl who can't or shouldn't wear those skinny pants.

Soften Dark Dresses With Washable Trim

Quaint as a dachshund are the dark, warm winter frocks for little school girls. Bearing in mind their hard use, most of the fabrics are sudable—as are the trimmings which perk up muted colors.

White set-in dummies outlined in colorist strips of peasant embroidery enliven a severely plain dress. Rick-rack often outlines neck, wrist, and hems. White blouses with tiny puff sleeves add to the demure simplicity of dark washable wool or cotton jumpers.

No Easy Term For Terry Sanford

Next week the new administration of Terry Sanford will take over the executive branch of government in North Carolina. Before Sanford and his administrative staff are four years in which North Carolina will face one of the most challenging periods in its history.

As Sanford takes over the mantle of Chief Executive from Gov. Luther H. Hodges, he will be following in that role a man who has proved to be one of the most progressive governors North Carolina has had. He will also be following a man who has served in the governor's office longer than any governor in modern times, and therefore has been able to amass a greater record of progress.

In the field of economic development, Gov. Hodges has given North Carolina a boost unequalled during the administration of any other governor. As Sanford moves into the office, he will be faced with the problem of keeping the economic progress of the state moving at the pace set by Hodges. The outgoing governor has expressed confidence that North Carolina's economic growth will accelerate in the future.

High Rating For N. C. Policies

By LYNN NISBET DEVELOPMENT — Each one of the 50 American States, as well as the territorial possessions of Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, has one or more official government agencies charged with responsibility for stimulating economic development.

There is wide diversity in methods used, types of organizations, and amounts of money spent; but there is manifest singleness of purpose in the main objective — the raising of per capita income and standard of living.

That is the conclusion reached by the School of Business Administration of the University at Chapel Hill based on a survey made at request of the North Carolina Commission on Reorganization of State Government. The report, released last week, is wholly statistical and includes no recommendations or suggestions, as do most of the reorganization commission reports.

Nearest approach to recommendation came in the factual findings that advancement of a high standard of living in a state depends upon strengthening of the economy at community level; and that the quality of industry attracted by tax concessions and other special privileges has not been of high grade.

COMBINED — North Carolina is one of 22 states which has all State supported efforts for economic development, including planning and travel, consolidation in one agency, the Department of Conservation and Development. Eleven states have some type of separate economic (industrial) development agency; 13 have independent planning activities and 16 have special tourist development agencies.

The study disclosed wide diversity of activities and budget allocations within the total framework of "development". That makes exact comparison difficult.

SIXTH PLACE — It is interesting to note that North Carolina is in sixth place in the list of budgeted tax funds for both economic development and travel promotion. Kentucky tops the list for economic or industrial development with $965,000. Florida comes second with $796,000; New York reports $765,500; Louisiana $500,000; Arkansas $476,000, and North Carolina $442,000.

These comparisons are not entirely accurate, because of the discrepancies in items included. Even more confusing is the table on "summary of Total Funds Budgeted by State Economic Development, Tourist Development and Planning Agencies, Fiscal 1960-61." Nevada is way ahead in that table, because it includes $10 million for capital improvements.

IMPOSSIBLE — An ancient axiom has it that "comparisons are odious." Review of this survey of State planning and development programs, as well as numerous other attempts at comparing North Carolina budgeting for public services, indicates they also are utterly impossible.

TOTAL PROMOTION — Another factor that cannot be overlooked is that State budgeted tax money represents a very small part of the total spending for promoting industrial and tourist business. In nearly every instance private funds, provided by chambers of commerce and trade associations, exceed public funds for promotion.

Inescapable conclusion from the survey report is that North Carolinians must spend more money to attract new business, and the most attractive and least expensive avenue for development is in promotion of the travel business.

While Sanford has set this as one of the goals of his administration, chances are he will not be able to devote as much time and attention to this particular facet of state-wide development as did Gov. Hodges.

Sanford, on the other hand, has chosen public education as the field in which he feels greatest progress must be made during the four years he holds office. There can be no escaping the fact, however, that progress in this field will to some extent be governed by the continued economic progress of the state.

More than any recent governor also, Gov. Hodges brought about a thorough face-lifting of the administrative branch of the state's government. He streamlined many departmental functions, set the state's business operations on a more business-like basis and instituted changes that were not altogether popular among many groups of the state.

During the Hodges administration the line has been fairly well held against tax increases in North Carolina, and here again Sanford's job might be made more difficult than otherwise would be the case. The program outlined by the incoming governor calls for expanding public services, and this will necessitate greater revenues.

Most of the act of the new governor during the next four years will be compared with those of his immediate predecessor. In the case of Gov. Hodges, Terry Sanford must follow a governor who has achieved a remarkable record of progress for the state, and at the same time has given the administration a conservative appearance in many ways.

The next four years hold for North Carolina many serious challenges which must be faced forthrightly both by Terry Sanford and by the people of the state. It is not likely to be an easy time for either.

Personal Stake For Texas Team

By EDMOND LEBRETON WASHINGTON (AP) — John F. Kennedy's Texas team should have an early chance to show whether it can line up Southern lawmakers for the president-elect's program as effectively as it kept Southern political leaders behind his candidacy.

When Kennedy talked about his legislative program, with the vice president-elect, Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) and House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) at his side, he mentioned first a Social Security-based health care program for the aged.

This is the legislation killed this year in the House Ways and Means Committee headed by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, (D-Ark.) and the Senate Finance Committee headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, (D-Va.) Southern voters figured heavily in the committee decisions.

Backers of the kind of bill Kennedy favors contended — and many sideliners agreed with them — that if such legislation had ever reached the floor of the House and Senate with committee approval both chambers would have passed it.

To redeem its campaign pledges, the incoming administration must lead another try. The coming struggle affords a second test of Kennedy's major strategic decision — to offer the vice presidential nomination to Johnson, his great convention rival for the presidency, and not to write the South out of his calculations.

In terms of the election, the decision has been proven inspired. Johnson, and Johnson's redoubtable manager, Speaker Rayburn, certainly helped Texas and the majority of the South in the regular Democratic fold. The vote turned out so close, even electorally, that if Kennedy had lost just two states rated in advance as most doubtful, Texas and North Carolina, he would have lacked an electoral majority.

But the chances are that Kennedy, a long-range planner, was looking beyond the election when he made his dramatic bid to the Senate majority leader.

Suppose he had offered Johnson no balm after beating him for the presidential nomination, but had been elected anyhow. He would then have had to deal with a Congress whose two top Democrats, loyal party men to be

Psychology Helps Diets

NEW YORK (AP) — Psychology can be a helpful buddy in dieting to lose weight, researchers said today.

The psychological aids could be such steps as: Preparing the next meal right after you've eaten—then you won't nibble.

Eating specific foods in specific places of the house. Or going to the trouble of putting on some certain type of clothing before eating.

Lifting a forkful of food only when your mouth is empty.

Holding forkfuls of food for a while between plate and eager teeth—or chewing food longer.

Psychologically, they said, eating involves a whole chain of events or stimuli, usually performed in a pretty fixed routine.

While the chain of events varies with individuals, a typical chain is going to the store, selecting and paying for food, carting it home, preparing it, setting the table, sitting down to the table, and so forth.

The idea is to lengthen the chain of events.

The longer the chain is, the weaker are its effects, said

Charles B. Ferster, Ph.D., John I. Nurnberger, M.D., and Eugene E. Levitt of the psychiatry department, Indiana University School of Medicine.

Eating too much is largely a habit, they told the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Psychological principles can help develop self-control, which is different from will power, they said.

They took a dim view of hopes that simply telling people about bad consequences of over-eating can be effective.

You can't learn to shoot golf in the 80s just by reading about golf, they pointed out.

For all dieters, they suggested: Establish a ritual of three meals a day, with perhaps a light snack such as milk and crackers at bedtime.

Control the time of meals rigidly.

When the urge to eat wells up, do something in which eating isn't feasible—take a walk, go to a movie, ride a bus, or lay a cement sidewalk.

Keep food in relatively inaccessible places.

Avoid crash diets. Eat a balanced diet. Too much of one food probably will increase the inclination to eat other foods.

World Bank — $22,688,000

This is not an exact figure in that World Bank funds contain other than American dollars. It is only estimated that 48 per cent of their moneys are dollars.

Since 1956, the bank has loaned $193.1 million for foreign steel improvements; 48 per cent of this would be the American portion.

International Finance Corporation — $2,698,000

This organization has loaned $7,293,000 for foreign steel build-up. Approximately 37 per cent of their funds is American dollars.

Export-Import Bank — $189,100,000

This figure does not include 1959. What statistics department advised that the '59 tabulation is not available and could be calculated only after 12 hours of research.

International Cooperation Administration — $7,049,120

This is also little more than a derived figure because ICA does not break down loans according to specific purpose.

To determine exactly what portion of their funds were used to promote steel plants, one would have to examine their 1200 projects undertaken between '56 and '59. ICA funds definitely used for steel plant build-up are reflected in the total figure. Other of their loans which may or may not have a specific purpose in the steel industry are listed under such general categories as: (not included in the total) General industry improvements (of all industries) $120,000; General industry development, $1,789,000; Small and medium industry development (of all industries) $2,750,000; General industry expansion, $4,624,000; Industries — general — long-term loans, $3,611,000; Development of selected industries, $399,000; and so on for 30 pages.

Unless one examines the individual loans, you cannot determine what portion went to the steel industry. These figures do not include 1960; they are not available at present.

The total is $2,088,123,120. Unfortunately, (as I said) this is not an accurate figure nor could an accurate tabulation be made without a great deal of research. Also, it does not reflect other factors such as investment by private banks, investment by American corporations, or American industry.

From this report by a competent research man, I take it that nobody knows precisely how much we gave away with regard to steel and what effect our efforts in this direction to

Foreign Steel Outlays

By GEORGE E. SKOLSKY Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

To fill out my knowledge on steel, the question I asked is: "What is the amount of money the U. S. has spent on the building up of steel plants in other countries since 1939?"

The researcher put on the job reports: The question is much more complex than I realized because no such study has been undertaken by the Department of Commerce, the Department of State, or to their knowledge, any other organization. Some years ago, the Business and Defense Services Administration of the Department of Commerce undertook an extensive four-month survey of direct financial assistance to foreign iron and steel industries by the U. S. Government and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (World Bank) for the years 1940-1956. This figure, which is included in my final tabulation, is the only concrete figure available. The other numbers listed below are often little more than educated guesses, as I will explain.

Presently those firms which invest American moneys abroad in the general category of steel are the World Bank, Export-Import Bank, Development Loan Fund, International Finance Corporation, and International Cooperation Administration. To date the Development Loan Fund has not spent moneys for building or expanding steel plants; however, they expect to complete negotiations for a $250,000,000 Turkish steel plant before the end of the year.

The following is a breakdown of the amounts of money each has spent for "building up of steel plants since 1939": Department of Commerce Survey — $796,588,000

Export Gold, Know-How, Jobs

By ELMER ROESSNER Industries have been exporting jobs and exporting gold. Now the steel industry is considering projects that involve exports of jobs, gold and American know-how as well.

When an American company sets up a manufacturing unit abroad, or when it buys foreign-made components that could be made in the United States, it is said to be exporting jobs. It reduces possible employment in the U. S. and increases it abroad.

When an American company invests in a plant abroad, it exports gold, in effect. The American money paid for land, materials, etc., can be converted into foreign claims for gold.

And when an American company plans to incorporate American techniques into foreign production, it may be said to be exporting American know-how.

THE STEEL HIGERA

Now the steel industry is studying possibilities of exporting jobs, gold and know-how all at once. By moving part of the American steel industry to foreign countries, it may be able to gain more profits.

The foreign market for American steel is shrinking. Efforts have been made to reverse the trend, but they have run up against the fact that foreign producers, without America's vaunted automation, can still produce steel cheaper.

Now the industry, thwarted in sending steel products abroad, is considering sending production abroad.

By establishing plants abroad where cheaper foreign labor is available, and by applying American technology, steel companies can produce steel at costs low enough to compete with foreign mills.

There are no sharply defined villains in this situation. If the steel industry exports dollars, jobs and technology, it is acting within its rights and is violating no laws. It may have to take these steps to preserve its income or to avert the loss of markets abroad. Nor are the unions the villains. They have legal rights to demand higher wages, and if higher wages result in the employment of fewer Michigans and more Belgians, that's a risk they have to take.

But some place along the line the interests of the consumer and the taxpayer have been run over.

GOVERNMENT CHALLENGES ONLY FEW MERGERS Urged to merge? You're probably safe. As of March, 1960, only 2 per cent of the mergers involving the nation's 300 largest manufacturers had been challenged by the governments, according to the National Industrial Conference Board.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube is considering several similar arrangements abroad, with bids from French and Belgian companies to participate in a new integrated mill on the Ghent Canal in Belgium.

Allegheny Ludlum Steel is preparing to participate in the building of a new mill in that country. Jones & Laughlin is studying a possible overseas venture. And soon the larger giants in the industry may be participating in projects to establish mills abroad to operate under advanced American technology.

There are no sharply defined villains in this situation. If the

House Democrat Caucus Is Likely To Shelve Changes

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—A caucus of House Democrats next Monday is expected to shelve or ignore demands of liberal members for a change in House rules in the new Congress.

All the signs pointed today to a harmonious meeting at which the subject of breaking the Rules Committee's hold on legislation may not even come up.

"I look for a harmonious caucus and a harmonious opening day session next Tuesday," said Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., who helped draft the caucus notices sent to all 262 House Democrats.

The notices said the caucus would consider selection of a Democratic candidate for speaker, candidates for elective officers, and candidates for vacancies on the Ways and Means Committee. Significantly, perhaps they omitted reference to consideration of "any other business"—standard language on previous notices.

Cannon questioned claims of some members that the notices as sent out precluded consideration of proposals to change the rules.

It was reported reliably that the wording of the notices was approved by Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas and Majority Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, who are slated to retain those posts in the new House.

Cannon said that if anyone wanted to bring up the matter of changing the rules it would be in order after all other business was disposed of. But he said he doubted that it would happen.

Both Rayburn and McCormack are at their homes. If a battle over the rules was in prospect, associates pointed out, the two leaders would be on hand in Washington to lay the groundwork for it.

Liberals who have unsuccessfully sought rules changes in the past apparently have formed no organization for another try this year. Many of them want to break the power of the Rules Committee coalition to bottle up bills. The conservative coalition is composed of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

Rayburn's associates represent him as being anxious to avoid a fight at the outset of the new session, especially a fight that might be lost.

Should the Rules Committee toss roadblocks in the path of legislation later, they claimed, the chances of breaking the committee's stranglehold would be better after John F. Kennedy has taken hold as president.

Until Kennedy is president and his legislative program runs into trouble in the Rules Committee, they reasoned, the new president would be presumptuous to try to intervene in the internal affairs of the House. Later in the session, he could justify such intervention in the interest of his legislative program.

The present attitude of Democratic strategists with regard to changing the rules seems to be to withhold their fire until their program is in danger, and then to cut loose with everything they can muster, including the backing of the new president.

Hawaii Recount Puts State In Kennedy Ranks

WASHINGTON (AP)—An official recount in Hawaii has tipped the newest state to President-elect John F. Kennedy by 115 votes.

That gives Kennedy 303 electoral votes to 219 for Vice President Richard M. Nixon; 269 were needed to win. Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., got 15.

With Hawaii's new totals, announced Wednesday more than seven weeks after the election, the final national popular vote goes like this:

Kennedy 34,221,531.
Nixon 34,108,474.

Plurality for Kennedy: 113,057 out of a total vote of 68,332,778. Other candidates got a total of 502,773, so that Kennedy's total still is less than a majority of all the popular votes.

Nixon at first had been listed as the winner in Hawaii by 141 votes. But Democrats gained a recount of all its precincts by citing errors in the certified returns.

With Hawaii finally settled, Kennedy carried 23 states; Nixon carried 26. Mississippi's eight unpledged votes went to Byrd, who also received six electoral votes from Alabama and one from Oklahoma.

The Electoral College voted on Dec. 19, making Kennedy's election official. The result will be presented to Congress Jan. 6.

Both Republican and Democratic Hawaiian electors cast votes Dec. 19, since the outcome was still up in the air. Now, after some legal paperwork, Hawaii's Democratic votes will be the ones that count.

'Making Friends' Keynotes Hunt's Politics

By MARVIN SYKES
Greensboro Record Staff Writer
Written for The Associated Press
GREENSBORO (AP)—"When Clyde R. Hoey ran for Governor, I felt like getting out and pitching for him" — that's how politics "got hold of" Joseph Marvin Hunt Jr. of Guilford County, the man who will be banging the gavel Feb. 8 in the State House of Representatives.

But it was in 1952 that he learned, "Guilford County is as big as Texas when you're campaigning." He said he "measured it by foot" that year when he hit every nook and corner of the county with his quiet-spoken bid for ballots—and twice got over, through error or enthusiasm, into Randolph and Alamance counties seeking votes.

His philosophy of life is simple. He doesn't worry about two days in the week — yesterday and tomorrow. He concentrates on today. That doesn't mean, he'd be the first to add, that he doesn't plan for tomorrow. Rather, he doesn't let it worry him.

He fought in a 1957 battle to increase the 9.2 per cent raise proposed for teachers. And won. He was chairman of the House Committee on Conservation and Development and sought to put emphasis on industry going to the rural counties to give them a balanced economy.

1928 as a business administration major. That year, without continuing his schooling, he began an insurance career which took him into agency work then with Pilot Life Insurance Co. until 1933. In 1933 he joined Wimblish Insurance Agency where he has been 27 years. He is married to the former Grace Boren of Greensboro, to whom he gives credit for "any success I've had." The Hunts have two children.

He's been pitching since that day in 1936. The hardest time for himself was in 1952 when he won election to the 1953 House.

The most recent and closest was this past November when aroused Republicans swarmed and stung in Guilford.

Pitching, to Joe Hunt, is making friends. "To have friends you've got to be one," he says. Pitching to him means leg work, hand work, and head work — seeing individuals and talking about the issues to them, not in a speech.

The new speaker-to-be is not strong on making speeches, and wasn't on a debating team in school or college. He's not a lawyer in the lawmaking body, but a business man—an insurance man vice president of Wimblish Insurance Agency, and post president of Greensboro Assn. of Insurance Agents.

The 1952 campaign, he recalled, was the most strenuous and the most enjoyable of all the campaigns he faced.

Hunt formed many friendships in that primary effort — friendships which he has held through in alternate-year returns to Raleigh in 1955, 1957 and 1959.

So strong were his friendships that he had the speakership in the bag soon after he announced interest in the office. His boys are planning a caucus Jan. 4 to assure his election as speaker.

Hunt has a blunt sense of humor — his face wears a frown until it breaks down suddenly into a smile — and he enjoys hearing or bringing — as a city boy. He is a native of Greensboro, born Oct. 19, 1906, and raised in the shadow of Woman's College. He went to the school, now Curry, run by the college until the sixth grade, then to city schools. He attended Riverside Military Academy and Duke University, in the class of Canadian Publishers See Threat By U. S.

OTTAWA (AP)—When a Canadian reads a magazine, odds are that it's a U. S. publication and the chances are that he enjoys it.

most of its costs absorbed by the parent publication and can pick up Canadian advertising at rates that Canadian periodicals cannot match.

But these days applauding with nationalistic zeal arguments backing the view that in some instances American periodicals chip away at the Canadian's identity and his country's independence.

The Canadian government last September appointed a board of inquiry, a royal commission, to investigate complaints that Canadian publishers are being driven to the wall, and to take a look at the periodicals industry generally.

Canadian publishers say a major threat to their existence comes from American publishers who put out Canadian editions of their magazines—editions that carry Canadian advertising or accept it for that part of the press run which flows into Canada.

After it completes public hearings in January, it will report to the government, with recommendations.

INSPIRED BY RAIN — Sculptor Georg Brandes, apparently inspired by rain, created this group. He is a resident of Hamburg, north German port with almost constant cover of gray skies. An old proverb says people of Hamburg are born with umbrellas.

Raced His Car 5 Miles On Track In Front Of Train

DECATUR, Ga. (AP)—A daring young man who drove his car five miles down a railroad track, over trestles and a bridge right in front of a fast freight train, will spend the next six months safely in jail.

George J. Broom, 18, also had words of praise for the young daredevil's skill in negotiating the track and trestles in the early morning darkness without a mishap. With Broom's train whistling impatiently behind.

But DeKalb County Judge Oscar Mitchell was not so impressed. "When I asked him what was his excuse he just said he was guilty and didn't have an excuse," the judge commented in passing sentence Wednesday.

Offers To Make Her Check Good

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A New Jersey grandfather has offered to make good the $45 hot check written by a San Antonio woman on a Christmas Eve to buy food for her children.

Fred Kassouf, of Saddle Brook, N.J., said in a letter addressed to the county jail that Mrs. Lee Golding, 36, could have committed a bigger crime than to forge a check to buy food for her children.

LADY in the MARKET BY FRANCES V. RUMMEL

From the novel "Aunt Jane McPhipps and Her Baby Blue Chips," published by Prentice-Hall, Inc. © 1960 by Frances V. Rummel. Distributed by King Features.

As president of the investment club, Jane McPhipps felt an ir- resistible yearning to share with her sisters the munificence of Can- adian Countess. This was a stock one had to be an insider to know. Yet she was pledged to secrecy by Wally Gogins. But did he still hold her to her pledge? Mr. Pe- try was surely not a threat these days. Finally, telephoning Wally, she told him of the new club and invited him to come address the group and let the girls know about Countess.

written that once in her notebook too, she remembered. As a matter of fact, however, Canadian Countess was not quite on schedule. When Jane bought at 25 cents a share, Wally had said the Countess would be $1 by sum- mer, but with summer in full bloom, she had reached only 50 cents. Of course, there was a sound explanation and, Jane be- lieved, a wise one. "We have slowed the price down to build carefully," Wally explained. "Things were too hot, going up too fast. We want a solid company, not a flash in the pan."

The meeting was to be in a show- place inhabited by one of the sis- ters, a Mrs. Blaise d'Argent. Her home was an authentic reproduc- tion of a French villa, with gar- dens only slightly less formal than those of the Palace of Versailles. After Jane called the meeting to order, Mrs. Hayden-Critchfield collected everybody's check for 125, Mrs. Spalding read the minutes of the last meeting, and the reports got underway. For all of half an hour, Attorney-at-law Gertrude Green was not to know what a mess she had let herself in for. Nor were the girls to appreciate how omniscient Mrs. Stephens had been in insisting they have her counsel. Meantime, it was enough to get used to their forbidding meeting place.

May Ask 'Equal Time' For Evening News Sessions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., said today if John F. Kennedy uses White House news conferences for "propaganda" purposes Republicans may ask for equal air time. Kuchel, the assistant Senate Republican leader, said in an interview that Kennedy's plans to hold evening news conferences on live television indicate the Democ- rats may be planning "dramatic shows."

law would not cover Kennedy un- til such a time as he might an- nounce he is a candidate for re- election. Kuchel said he had in mind speculative reports that Kennedy might call a prime hour television conference to discuss a single sub- ject—possibly some controversial matter before Congress—and lim- it reporters' questions to that sub- ject. Kennedy's press secretary, Pi- erre Salinger, said at Palm Beach Tuesday that the new adminis- tration will ask the networks from time to time to carry evening presidential news conferences live but the networks will be free to carry any or all other presiden-

Approve Working Out Ocracoke Ferry Plans

RALEIGH (AP) — Highway Di- rector W. F. Babcock and Chief Engineer C. W. Lee have been given the go-ahead to work out de- tails for minimum level ferry ser- vice linking Ocracoke Island to the mainland. The State Highway Commission, reversing an earlier decision, au- thorized the step Wednesday when it learned Gov. Hodges has al- located $375,000 from surplus high- way funds to finance the project. The commission, called into a special meeting by Chairman J. Melville Broughton Jr., adopted a policy statement which would provide for tolls on the Ocracoke ferry service. Commissioner James H. Mason of Laurinburg, an opponent to the ferry proposal discussed at a Dec. 7 commission meeting, said the new plan is acceptable. He said the rejected proposal would have meant a million dollar operation. Chairman Broughton said Gov. elect Terry Sanford, in talks with Gov. Hodges, has given assurance that he "is willing to back the (Ocracoke) ferry service and will go along with the concept of tolls." The $375,000 for the ferry ser- vice was part of $1,075,000 in high- way surplus fund allocations an- nounced by the governor. Other items included: $350,000 for public access and service roads in the state; $250,000 for secondary road projects over the state; $50,000 to widen and resur- face several secondary roads and replace two sub-standard bridges on roads to a new consolidated high school in Rowan County; and $50,000 for access roads in the Kerr Reservoir Park. The commission left some unan- swered questions on the Ocracoke ferry matter. For one, it did not resolve whether the state will buy the Sea Level ferry put into operation by the Terry brothers. It has not operated since Hurricane Donna closed its channels. It also left open whether the ferry would land at Atlantic on the mainland, or be shifted to Cedar Island to shorten the run. Babcock and Lee will report plans for the ferry operation to a later meeting of the commission.

Older Actresses Are Finding Steady Jobs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP TV-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Although the younger crop of glamorous actresses complain that few of their number are able to nail down steady jobs in television series, many of the older women are making out just fine. For instance, there's Frances Bavier in "The Andy Griffiths Show," Marian Lorne of "The Garry Moore Show," Verna Felton in "Pete and Gladys"; and the stars of "Bringing Up Buddy"—Enid Markey and Doro Merande, both on the long side of 35.

he'll play Prince Charming when Shari Lewis and her puppets, Lamb Chop and Charlie Horse, visit his show Jan. 12. And on Shirley Temple's network, too. The replacement for that deo- rant commercial which last year featured the perspiration problems of marble statues is a tasteful, timely and effective, "Thriller" occasionally comes up with a better-than-average script, but generally the hour-long show is a disappointment. This week's story was just plain silly. That Las Vegas story on the most re- cent Hitchcock half-hour was over before the first shoe, much less the second, was dropped. But Rod Cameron makes a dandy villain. Danny Thomas will pinch-hit for convalescing Red Skelton on Jan- 10 with routines from his night- club act.

with an icicle, Mrs. Stephens con- fessed her continuing disappoint- ment that her list for Mr. Petry had been outperformed. "I had been too conventional, too defensive," she addressed Jane directly. "To- day I present a stock that is un- usually aggressive," she smiled, "but it is so brilliantly managed and its prospects are so thrilling, that I know it will intrigue us all. In brief," Mrs. Stephens said, "pausing for full effect, "this is like being offered American Tele- phone at 3 cents a share in 1912." Then she dropped her bomb. "The name of the stock is Canadian Countess. Some of you may re- member Wallace Gogins."

Murmurs from the group began to ebb and flow in waves of as- tonishment. Smiling her surprise, Mrs. Stephens paused. Then two- or maybe it was three—voices spoke up in unison. "I already have Canadian Countess," the voices said. And they didn't sound like pleased voices. Quickly the murmurs swelled into an angered crescendo. Whatever it is human beings say when they are out- raged, the mutterings of the Golden Girls bust as from a bunch of lady firecrackers set off by one match.

Jane spoke up. "Do you know," she asked, "whether the board of directors and the president own any shares in their own com- pany? I think practical manage- ment a wonderful idea." Mrs. Spalding was prepared. All told, management owned 60,000 shares of the 600,000 shares outstanding. Jane nodded contentedly. Obvi- ously, enlightened management. "How much," asked Mrs. Stephens, "does the company give to research and development?" At this moment Mrs. Hayden- Critchfield, sniggering, returned to the group. Her call had got her husband out of bed. His only ad- vice had been: "Get the girls to wear hats. And remember, San Francisco's women are the best dressed in the world!" The president gave the meeting back to Helen Spalding, and the girls voted to buy two shares of Union Automation at the next day's market price.

Added Charges For Alleged Plan Bomb Kennedy

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Additional charges will be filed today against Richard Pav- lick, facing federal prosecution for planning to bomb President- elect John F. Kennedy. Palm Beach County Solicitor Joel Daves said county charges were contemplated as a precau- tionary measure to hold Pavlick in Belmont, N. H., sex-postal clerk wins freedom in federal courts. Daves made his announcement after conferring with federal pro- secutors. He said he will charge Pavlick, 73, with possessing dynamite with intent to harm persons or property, and with failing to get a license to carry the explo- sives. Pavlick was arrested Dec. 10. He told officers he planned to blow up Kennedy and himself be- cause "Kennedy money bought the election." Several dynamite sticks and detonating apparatus were found in the ex-mental patient's effects.

CONGO AID SOUGHT

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. (AP) —The World Council of Churches, at a meeting of its division of inter-church aid and service to refugees, issued an appeal for a million dollars for projects to aid the Congo.

DUKE DRILLS FOR COTTON BOWL GAME—The Duke Blue Devils work out in San Antonio in preparation for their Cotton Bowl clash with Arkansas in Dallas on Jan. 2.

D-Day Starts In Raleigh

Today is D-Day for Raleigh and sport fans of the South. D stands for Dixieland and the 1960 Dixie Classic, with fireworks aplenty.

Through the years, the classic has gained about as much appeal and thump with the Southland reader as "Gone With The Wind".

The thing about this three-day barrage of basketball giants is that the South has reversed the outcome from the celebrated movie picture. (The North won that one).

In 11 years, no outside team has been able to grab the title away from Tobacco Road. The odds and power charts predict a continued domination by The Big Four.

Case Inventor Of Tournament

A silver-head fellow named Everett Case conceived the Classic way back in 1949. He's also known, besides an investor of tournaments, as a pretty crafty coach at N. C. State.

When the tournament first began, tickets were available by the dozens. Today, the classic is the nation's fattest draw attendance-wise in the holiday tournament field.

Inventor Case and his once-beaten Wolfpack rate only fourth among the field (according to odd-makers) but don't count the Pack hoopmakers short on their home court.

Duke Is Tourney Favorite

Undefeated Duke is still the number one choice. The Blue Devils are nationally ranked and bring a balanced club into combat, including sophomore star Art Heyman.

Hot-and-cold Carolina will line up for the count hoping to restore some early season confidence. York Larese and Doug Moe carry the Tar Heels but it will take more than two to tango in this circle of giants.

Wake Forest, unranked nationally, is the defending champion and could easily take the cake. Injury-riddled, the Deacs lost a couple early in the season but bounced back to spank Maryland and State—handing both clubs their first losses of the year. A trio such as Lee Chappel, Billy Packer and Allie Hart is hard to touch.

Thumbnails On Outsiders

Below is a thumbnail sketch on the outside teams: VILLANOVA—Has been in-an-out but buried such teams as Princeton (75-46) and Fordham (92-54). Club has height in 6-9 Tom Hoover and has seven lettermen.

MARQUETTE — First appearance in Classic. Team is tall and has good scoring punch. Knocked off Illinois in big victory.

MARYLAND—Has youthful surprises in this edition. Good on boards with 6-7 Bob MacDonald. Only loss has been to Wake Forest.

WYOMING—The weakling of the tournament. But holds wins over Baylor and Oregon. Meets Duke in first game and is unlikely pick for the top spot.

Oilers Sign Up Pass Receiver

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Houston Oilers of the American Football League today held a 1961 contract with Ken Gregory, college football's leading pass receiver.

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—A low gross 73 over the Pinehurst Country Club No. 3 course Wednesday won the third annual Donald J. Ross father-son golf championship for Brig. Gen. Jamie Gough and his son, Jamie III.

The father-son duo from Alexandria, Va. had a 38-35—75 over the par 71 course. Runnerup was the team of J. R. Leach and son Johnny of Troy, who had a 74.

Harold Thomas and son Bobby of Greenville, N. C. shot a 39-35—74 for top honors in the pro-son division.

The father-son team of Bruce Spottswood and father, H. N. Spottswood, of Washington, D. C., was low net winner. They had a gross 79 for a net 68.

Catcher Traded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators today traded catcher Haywood Sullivan to Kansas City for pitcher Marty Kutyna and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Kutyna, 28, appeared in 51 games for Kansas City last season and posted a 3-2 win-loss record. He is a 28-year-old Philadelphia had a 1960 earned run average of 3.92. His 1959 record with Portland was 14-10.

Sullivan, 30, recently purchased from the minors by Washington, batted .161 last season with the Boston Red Sox.

Big Four Choice To Win Dixie Openers

RALEIGH (AP) — Whistles blow in Reynolds Coliseum this afternoon to set in motion the 12th annual Dixie Basketball Classic.

North Carolina and Maryland (2 p.m.), and North Carolina State and Villanova (4 p.m.) make up the afternoon card.

Games tonight will match Wake Forest against Marquette, and Duke with Wyoming.

The unbeaten Blue Devils, sixth ranked in the current Associated Press poll, rate as strong contenders. A definite threat is N.C. State, 10th ranked in the national ratings, which will be on its home court in the Coliseum.

The event pairs teams of the North Carolina Big Four with inter-sectional visitors. Thus far, no outsider has won the title, although a number have reached the finals.

Villanova, with a 4-2 record, is considered one of the strongest outside teams in this year's field. Marquette has a 5-2 mark, and also is a team to watch.

Wake Forest is defending champion in the Classic. The Deacons, sparked by big man Len Chappell defeated N.C. State and Maryland on their home courts in the same week earlier this season. They are expected to defend their Classic crown spiritedly.

One of the brightest individual stars likely will be Hubie White of Villanova. The 6-3 forward is averaging 26.3 points for the Wildcats in six games this season.

Moore Blasts Ingo's Ability

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Archie Moore, the unrooked light-heavyweight champion, says Ingemar Johansson never could fight a lick and probably will be cringing when he gets in the ring again with Floyd Patterson.

Nevertheless, Moore says, Johansson should at least start talking a good fight to try to beef up the gate for his third heavy-weight title fight with Patterson at Miami in March.

"After studying this individual," Moore told Examiner Columnist Mel Durslag, "I have come to fear for the gate. Ordinarily, I only fear for gates in which I am participating. But, from just an artistic standpoint, Johansson worries me because his verbal form has been most unsatisfactory."

Reminded that Johansson was knocked cold by Patterson their last time out, Archie said: "All the more reason he should come back talking."

"What should he say?" Archie said. "He can say he slipped on a banana peel, just as long as he says something."

Of the Swede's chances, Archie said: "I would say conservatively that Johansson won't ooze confidence. He will probably come into the ring cringing. That left hook that Patterson delivered the last time will leave Ingemar with a lifetime memory."

"Can Johansson fight?" Archie was asked. "Not a lick," said Moore. "He couldn't fight before, either, but he could talk a good fight. Now that he's silent, he's got nothing going for him."

Seven ACC Teams Are Active Today

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Seven of eight Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams dive head-first into post-Christmas tournament competition today.

One of the group, South Carolina, successfully survived its initial tournament warfare, beating Louisiana Tech 72-66 in Wednesday night's first round of the Gulf States Classic at Shreveport, La. That was the only game scheduled involving an ACC team.

Clemson is the only team not entered in a tournament. But the Tigers, who are 2-6 over-all, won't be idle. Coach Press Maravich's crew plays Texas in Houston tonight. Friday night, Clemson meets Rice, also in Houston.

Five of the conference teams begin firing in the always rugged three-day Dixie Basketball Classic, which makes its 12th bow in Raleigh, N.C.

Leading the way will be Duke's unbeaten Blue Devils (7-0), who are ranked sixth nationally by The Associated Press. Duke's first round foe is Wyoming (3-3) at 9 p.m. (EST).

North Carolina State, ranked 10th in the nation, takes a 6-1 mark against Villanova (4-2) at 4 p.m. In the 2 p.m. opener, Maryland (5-1) battles North Carolina (4-2) in the only all-ACC first-round game.

Rounding out the program, defending champion Wake Forest (5-2) plays Marquette (5-2) at 7:30 p.m.

Virginia (0-7), hoping to chalk up its first basketball victory of the season before the new year, plays William and Mary in the first round of the Richmond, Va., Invitational.

South Carolina will play Centenary in the second round of the Gulf States event.

The Gamecocks were down six points at the half, but finally took the lead from Louisiana Tech at 66-64 with 1:58 left in the game. The win gave South Carolina a 4-3 record.

Art Whisman's 22 points led South Carolina's scoring, and Scotty Ward added 19 more.

SPORT SLANTS..... by Pap'

Alvin Dark agreed to the trade that sent Johnny Antonelli to the Cleveland Indians only after he had talked with the veteran southpaw and was convinced that he no longer wished to pitch for the San Francisco Giants. Antonelli indicated that we would like to pitch for his former teammate with the Giants but he was determined to be traded, preferably to an eastern American League team so that he could be close to Rochester where he owns and operates a tire business. Johnny had little enthusiasm for the Giants' move from New York to San Francisco in 1958 and his attitude didn't improve despite two good seasons on the Coast.

Antonelli fell into disfavor with the Giants because he openly criticized Candlestick Park and feuded with several San Francisco sports writers. After winning 19 games for San Francisco in 1959, he slipped badly last season and posted a 6-7 record and an earned-run average of 3.75. He finished only one of his 10 starts last season and wound up doing relief work. Four of his six victories came in relief chores.

"Antonelli's record last season was a disappointment to the Giants," said Frank Lane, general manager of the Indians, "but I have learned from sources close to the ball club that he is physically sound and capable of doing much better. He was simply in a bad frame of mind with the Giants. I certainly expect Antonelli to be a regular starter for Cleveland and to win anywhere from 12 to 20 games. The change of scenery may be just the thing he needs to find himself. Besides, he can take some of the pressure off the young pitchers on the club."

There is some extra satisfaction for Lane in making the trade for the 30-year-old hurler because the Yankees made a strong bid to get him.

Celtics Pelted With Eggs By Fans

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Bob Cousy and others of the Boston Celtics, angry over being pelted with eggs by St. Louis Hawk fans, predict that Boston partisans will retaliate.

Celtic Coach Red Auerbach

nodded agreement to Cousy's prediction.

The Hawks beat Boston 105-99 Wednesday night, the first time in three meetings they have been able to accomplish the feat. And St. Louis fans apparently expected another disappointing evening and came armed.

During a time out late in the fourth quarter, eggs started raining down on the Boston players. The floor had to be mopped and Frank Ramsey was boosted up to wipe off a backboard.

Auerbach told The Associated Press that as he was walking off the floor at the end of the game, a spectator dashed up to within five feet of him and whacked him squarely in the forehead with an egg.

The Boston coach had a red mark where he said the blow struck.

"This is a bush town and you can quote me," Auerbach said. "You know darn well that fans get excited during the game. But if they bring eggs in, they bring 'em to throw. They're not going to take 'em home."

The fiery coach asserted that "they ought to arrest people who do things like this and charge them with peace disturbance."

"When you play here you have to run a gauntlet (of fans) that throws programs and other things before you get off the floor."

Another victim of the eggings, Tom Heinsohn, said "I felt like jumping into the crowd but there were women and children in it."

Bob Cousy said soberly: "The trouble with things like this is that the people in Boston will read about it and they will come armed too. Incidents like this are progressive and ought to be nipped in the bud."

Kiel Auditorium had a capacity crowd of 10,428 Wednesday night and as usual the fans screamed and howled whenever Auerbach stood up. Before the egg throwing, a fan hurled a bag of peanuts at the Boston coach. Officials pleaded with the crowd over the public address system not to throw things on the floor, citing dangers to the players on both teams. But little heed was paid to the pleas.

The next St. Louis appearance in Boston is Jan. 18.

SKINNER WAS BUSY

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Bob Skinner sent word that he would be late reporting for his winter job in the circulation department of the Evening Tribune. He couldn't get away from his other job, playing left field with the Pittsburgh Pirates in the World Series.

Eddie Arcaro, Willie Shoemaker, Bill Hartack and Milo Vainencia, four riders who have won the Kentucky Derby at least once, have ridden at San Juan's El Comandante race track.

Gator Bowl Coaches Studying Defenses

By F.T. MACFEELEY
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The coaches of offense-minded Baylor and Florida are thinking a lot about defense as the time approaches for their meeting in the 16th annual Gator Bowl football game Saturday.

"We haven't played a team that puts on as much pressure as Baylor does," said Coach Ray Graves of Florida. "We made a lot of defensive improvement as the season went along but we haven't played against an offense of this type."

Coach John Bridgers of Baylor uses professional-type formations he learned as an assistant coach with the Baltimore Colts. Usually an end splits off from the rest of the line and one of the halfbacks lines up wide on the opposite side.

It is a formation well suited to passing and Baylor throws more than most college teams. The Bears have two quarterbacks who can do it in Ronnie Stanley, Southwest Conference leader in passing and total offense, and Bobby Ply, who blossomed late in the season and is scheduled to start against Florida.

While Florida is working on defense against passing, Baylor's Bridgers is training his Bears to halt Florida's hard running backs and ball-control tactics.

Baylor scheduled its final work-out today. The Bears haven't practiced the day before any game during the season.

Florida planned to practice on Dupont High School field this afternoon and will work out briefly Friday in the Gator Bowl.

LA, Houston Gain Top Team Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven players from the Los Angeles Chargers and Houston Oilers who met Sunday in the American Football League title playoff at Houston were named on the 22-member offensive and defensive teams.

The All-Stars were selected for the Associated Press by a board of sports writers and sportscasters.

Jack Kemp, Los Angeles quarterback, headed the offensive list along with halfback Paul Lowe and tackle Ron Mix. Back Dick Harris of Los Angeles was placed on the defensive squad.

Catawba, Elon Lose In Tourney

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP)—Camp Lejeune moved into the championship second round of its annual Holiday Basketball Tournament today thanks to a strong second half surge which subdued Catawba 79-68.

The Marines were down 46-41 at the half in Wednesday night's opening round game, but with Jack Sullivan leading the way, outscored the North Carolina school 38-22 in the final 20 minutes.

In other first-round games, Carson-Newman (Tenn.) whipped Concord (W.Va.) 82-52, Pikeville, Ky. upended Elon 89-66 and Baltimore stopped Georgia Southern 75-62.

Fairings in the winners bracket here Pikeville playing Baltimore and Carson-Newman tacking the rugged host Marines, both tonight. In afternoon consolation games, Concord meets Catawba and Elon takes on Georgia Southern.

Sullivan scored 38 points for Camp Lejeune. Horace Medford led Catawba with 21, including a hit first half that kept the Indians in the game.

Pikeville's Dennis Butcher, a 6-foot-3 guard, hit for 32 points in his team's victory. He was aided by Paul Setser, who had 23. Ken Smith's 18 points led Elon. Pikeville's win was its sixth in seven games.

Bill Frantz led Baltimore's balanced scoring with 24 points.

The final round of the tournament is scheduled Friday.

Strong Running Attack Features East's Offense

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A powerful running attack features the East offense for Saturday's East-West Shrine charity football game as coach Milt Bruhn's forces figure to stick to the ground.

Three members of his starting offensive backfield were No. 1 draft choices of National Football League teams and four other members of his 24-man squad were top picks.

Indicating the strategy will be keyed to the running game, Bruhn named Ohio State's Tom Matte as the starting quarterback. Matte gained more note as a runner than as a passer.

At the halfbacks are Herb Adlerley of Michigan State, the No. 1 choice of Green Bay, and Tom Mason, the choice of Minnesota's Vikings and the first pick of the entire draft.

Wisconsin's Tom Wiesner drew the assignment at fullback.

Pointing up the prominence of talent on the East squad, Bernie Casey of Bowling Green, a No. 1 choice of the San Francisco 49ers, will be the replacement at both halfback spots.

"Wouldn't a coach love to have a squad like this for a regular season?" enthused Bruhn.

Bob Scheffing, new manager of the Detroit Tigers, got his start in the major leagues when the Chicago Cubs drafted him from Rochester, N. Y., after the 1940 season.

Brocklin May Be New Eagle Coach

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Now that the National Football League draft is over the big questions are:

Who will replace Buck Shaw as head coach of the world champion Philadelphia Eagles?

Who will succeed Jim Lee Howell of the New York Giants?

Can the NFL overcome a six weeks start the American Football League had in beating the bushes and signing players which the new league drafted late in November and early December?

Both Shaw and Howell have retired.

The Eagles are expected to announce their new coach next week but they would not shed any light as to whom it would be.

It could be quarterback Norm Van Brocklin, who repeated he was retiring as an active player after the Eagles won the NFL title Monday.

As for the Giants' picture, New York newspapers insist that Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi will replace Howell. They speculate that Al Sherman, Howell's No. 1 assistant this year, may wind up as head coach either at Philadelphia or with the new Minnesota Vikings. However, if the Giants do not get Lombardi, Sherman would be a cinch to replace Howell.

Meanwhile, most NFL officials and coaches had left here to begin the task of signing the 280 players from 130 schools drafted in the long two-day session.

Adlai Stevenson Facing Major Issues In United Nations Post

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson faces a host of issues capable of producing king-size headaches when he takes over Jan. 20 as chief U. S. spokesman here.

The main spotlight undoubtedly will be trained on Stevenson when the U. N. General Assembly resumes its 15th session March 7.

But he will be on the U. N. scene well in advance of that date. Most diplomats expect the Security Council will be called into session on the unresolved Congo crisis before the assembly resumes. Stevenson, as chief U. S. delegate, will be his country's representative on the 11-nation council.

Some of his problems will stem from the new situation caused by recently expanded U. N. membership, coming mostly from newly independent African nations.

The United States can no longer count on automatic majority support for its proposals. The new nations, along with other members of the Asian-African bloc, have demonstrated their ability to block assembly action. They do not form a common front on all issues, but when they do the Western powers cannot marshal majority support.

It is no secret that the U. S. position on the colonialism issue caused resentment among the new member nations in the assembly session recently recessed.

Some members of the U. S. delegation, aware of the feeling among the Asians and Africans, were lirked over orders from Washington to abstain on the resolution urging independence for colonial territories.

The United States was under strong pressure from Britain not to vote for the colonialism resolution. The Western powers look heart in the fact that the Soviet draft declaration sought by Premier Khrushchev failed to pass. But the Western delegates heard speaker after speaker from the Asian-African nations congratulate the Soviet Union for putting

Historic Pants Are In Museum

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP)—A pair of pants worn by Gen. Mark Clark during a spy mission in North Africa during World War II now occupy a prominent spot in the new museum at The Citadel here.

Gen. Clark, now president of the college, had been put ashore to confer with French officials near Algiers. In trying to launch a rubber boat for the return to an off-shore submarine, Clark lost his trousers.

Robert D. Murphy, a State Department official, recovered the pants and later returned them to Clark. With Clark on the spy mission was Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, now chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

The Fair Labor Standards Act, passed in 1938, set the minimum wage level at 40 cents an hour.

Sharecropper In Tent Is Target

SOMERVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—An evicted Negro sharecropper, asleep in a tent in this racially tense county's "tent city," was wounded early today by a shot from a passing car, Negro leaders said.

Sheriff C. E. Pattat could not be reached for an investigation and unavailable for an indefinite period.

The Rev. June Dowdy, a vice president of the Fayette County Civic and Welfare League, said Early B. Williams was wounded "in the fat part of his lower right arm."

Dowdy said Williams was sleeping in a tent located close by the rural road. The wounded man was taken to a Memphis hospital by auto.

It was the first reported instance of violence in the long simmering controversy that has gripped this rural county since the Negro league began its drive to register Negro voters last spring. The "tent city" is a collection of tents erected on a Negro leader's farm.

Eight families have set up housekeeping in the tents, so far. Whites contend the Negroes are being displaced by farm mechanization and that voter registration has nothing to do with it. They call "tent city" a propaganda move by Negro groups.

The justice department recently filed suit against 18 residents and a bank charging conspiracy to deprive Negroes of the right to vote. A federal judge in Memphis has denied a government plea for a temporary injunction that would bar eviction of Negro tenants until the trial is held.

The 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals sitting in Cincinnati will hear a government appeal from that ruling today.

Hospitalization Costs Will Rise

GEARHART, Ore. (AP)—You can look for the cost of hospitalization to go up in the years ahead, says the director of the National Hospital Association.

Dr. Edwin L. Crosby told an Oregon hospital group convention that for the past five years hospital costs have gone up 5 per cent a year. This just reflects general trends and is likely to continue, he said.

Dr. Crosby said that in the past decade the cost of educating a child in school has gone up 200 per cent while cost of caring for a patient in a hospital has gone up 100 per cent.

Tampa Burglars Net N eat $400,000 From Vault

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A key combination, timetable and teamwork formed the ingredients for Florida's biggest burglary—a neat $400,000 theft from the vault of an armored car service.

Police and FBI agents were still trying to fit the pieces together today, more than 50 hours after thieves carted away the loot in 19 moneybags.

The vault contained an estimated $1 million in cash and checks. All of the sacks containing coins were left behind.

Investigators agreed that the theft could have been executed only with knowledge or actual aid provided by an employe or former employe.

Detective Inspector O. C. Beynon said officers questioned more than 20 persons and that others would be called in. No arrests have been made.

"It was definitely an inside job," E. A. Rasdale, president of the firm, said. "They knew what they were doing and timed the whole thing just right."

All of the loss, the firm's first theft in its 23 years of operation, was insured.

Authorities pieced the burglary together like this:

The intruders—at least two and perhaps as many as four—entered the company's one-story building a few minutes after midnight Tuesday. They used a key to open the front door.

An alarm sounded at a burglar protective agency several blocks away when the door opened. One of the men followed the password procedure used by employes when entering and leaving the building at night. He telephoned the agency and gave a name and code number.

It took the operator six minutes to determine that the name and number failed to match those on file with the agency. Police arrived at the scene three minutes after the operator called them.

The act began and ended during a 30-minute interval between the departure of one armored car from the building and scheduled arrival of another.

Police found the building deserted and the vault locked when they arrived. Before fleeing, a burglar set the vault's time-lock so that the door couldn't be opened for 72 hours.

"They would have taken it all," Rasdale said, "but they were on a rigid time schedule."

Space Streetcar

This is an artist's conception of a new-type, all-purpose earth-circling laboratory dubbed "streetcar" by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration which let contracts for construction of the "orbiting geophysical observatory." The nickname "streetcar" stems from the shape of NASA's first standardized satellite, which will be about 6 feet long by 3 feet square and equipped with 2 solar-energy-tapping paddlewheels, each 6 feet square. Tobacco Focus On Health Tips

By S. J. Weeks, Pitt County Tobacco Agent

An ample supply of good vigorous plants available for transplanting early in the season is a very important factor in producing a good tobacco crop. The need for successful growth of seedlings in the plant bed cannot be over emphasized.

By this time most farmers have already selected a plant bed site and the preparation of the seed bed has started. The small tobacco seed demand a seedbed fixed "just right". Special care at this point pays off handsomely later. After the soil is broken it should be disced, harrowed and raked until it is well pulverized, smooth and free of clods. The use of a tractor and other heavy equipment should be kept to a minimum to prevent packing of the soil. It is well to prepare the seedbed so that the center of the bed will be at least eight or ten inches higher than the edge of the bed. This will help prevent water from standing on the bed. A trench should be cut on all sides of the bed to facilitate better drainage.

Two pounds of 4-9-3 or 1 1/4 pound of 6-10-4 fertilizer applied to each square yard should be used when either methyl bromide or drench treatments have been used for weed and nematode control. Since this is an extremely high rate of application, it is very essential that the fertilizer be thoroughly mixed with the soil.

Nitrogen top dressing is recommended when plants are showing a definite yellow color due to nitrogen deficiency. Three to five pounds of nitrate of soda per 100 square yards is suggested to correct this deficiency. Too much nitrogen top dressing may harm the plants by causing them to be too tender at transplanting time.

A suggested seeding rate of 1-6 to 1-4 ounce per 100 square yards has proven to be satisfactory with many farmers. The exact seeding rate should be based on how well the bed is prepared and managed. A minimum of 28 x 24 threads per square inch should be used. Better grades of cover have 32 x 28 threads per square inch. The better grade of cover pays off in cold, windy, springs. The cover should not be held more than four to six inches above the ground. In 1960 plant beds covered with straw gave good results.

Remember that tobacco plants are started from very small seed. The young seedlings are subject to damage from many weather and soil conditions. Therefore, your plant beds need to be looked after and managed very carefully.

Polio Victim Is Not Forgotten

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Anne Compton was stricken with polio when she was a first grader. Now, after years of hospitals, including nine years in an iron lung, the plucky 18-year-old girl is home again.

Anne, who had paralytic polio, can move only her head and there is just a little feeling in her left arm and leg. Her body is small for 18.

But Anne's classmates have not forgotten her. Many of them now are going to college. During the Christmas holidays they stopped by to visit, and others still living in Charlotte pay daily calls.

Anne learned to write, grasping a pencil between her teeth. She completed the ninth grade at Vanderbilt University Hospital in Nashville, Tenn. But she has had no schooling in the past four years.

Every night a neighbor, Glen Coan, drops by and lifts Anne from her wheel chair to her bed. Mary Miller, a junior high English teacher, to help Anne with her reading.

Anne lives with her mother who works and during the day another neighbor, Mrs. W. C. Rankin, drops in to keep Anne company.

Anne's closest friend, Gretchen School, also makes a daily visit to tell Anne the news. She wheeled Anne downtown to do her Christmas shopping and on Christmas day, Gretchen opened Anne's gifts for her.

Unemployment In State Is Below National Level

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina unemployment, on the rise in recent months, remains below the national average.

Chairman Henry E. Kendall of the Employment Security Commission said Wednesday about 5.2 per cent of Tar Heel workers covered by unemployment insurance filed for jobless benefits during the week ended Dec. 10.

He said this compared with 6 per cent of the nation. For the week in question, Kendall said, about 45,000 North Carolina workers filed for jobless pay. This number, he noted, compared with 33,000, or 3.8 per cent of the insured job force, for the comparable week of 1959; and 40,000 or 4.6 per cent in 1958.

Kendall's report said $2,650,168 in jobless benefits was paid out in November. For the same month last year, the figure was $1,871,813. For the 12 months ended Nov. 30, the total was $34,557,160 — up from the $31,977,211 paid in the year ended Nov. 30, 1959.

GETTING THE GOAT

CORTEZ, Colo. (AP)—The Cortez Junior Chamber of Commerce put on a rather unusual membership campaign. Each member was asked to sign up two new members. Failure resulted in this penalty: He must keep and board a goat for two weeks.

Focus On Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A bath soon after surgery, adult histories of childhood ulcers, and the Dodge City Syndrome are topics this week of Focus on Health.

Dodge City Syndrome Television westerns have added at least one more hazard to modern life, the American Medical Association reports.

More and more young men are turning up with gunshot wounds in the leg and foot, accidentally self-inflicted while practicing the fast draw. The typical case of the fast draw syndrome is the young man "too slow on the draw and too fast with his trigger finger."

Doctors also call it the "Dodge City Syndrome." They point out that gun clubs have sprouted across the nation, dedicated to the fast draw. TV programs should go further with realism and show the maiming and invalidism as a warning to those who think violence is good, clean sport, the A.M.A. adds.

From Surgery to Bathtub

To get patients back to normal soon after surgery, doctors are now working at leaving wounds unbandaged and letting patients take baths and showers as soon as the day after their operations.

In a test of 100 patients, aged 2 to 78, handled in this way after surgery, St. Louis doctors find no adverse effects on the healing of clean, well-closed wounds.

Nurses aided patients in their first post-operative baths. No attempt was made to keep soap and water from the wound. Drying the wound was accomplished by blotting with a towel.

Childhood Ulcers

What happens to the adult who had a duodenal ulcer as a child? A Mayo Clinic study indicates that the child ulcer sufferer has a 50-50 chance of ulcer symptoms when he becomes an adult, or an adolescent. The Mayo study covered 44 childhood ulcer patients in a follow-up study at ages 15 to 37.

For Parents

A doctor's advice to parents perplexed by how to deal with their teen-aged offspring: "Don't ridicule or deprecate. The teen-ager worries enough about how talented, attractive or capable he is. Don't ignore or be indifferent. Be interested even if you have to work at it. Don't minimize or deride adolescent feelings or emotions. Point out realistic factors about them. Don't nag. Make a point firmly and clearly, then drop it. Couple liberty with responsibility."

Bob Hope Ends Christmas Tour

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bob Hope, just returned from his annual Christmas tour of overseas military bases, says the boys loved all of his girls and one of his gags. Hope and his troupe—including Zsa Zsa Gabor and Janis Paige—spent eight days in the Caribbean area and made a stop at the U. S. Navy base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

At Guantanamo, Hope said, "I told them: 'Here you don't have to say friend or foe, just reach out and feel their chn.'" Hope said. "They loved that one."

Use of the car should include its washing and polishing. A paragon when it comes to scoring afterward. Give the adolescent praise and reassurance, space and privacy. When you criticize, compliment too.

One Whiff, And Obviously No Pet

SALMON, Idaho (AP)—Peewee, deodorized pet skunk of Larry Bell, wandered away last week. The loss was reported over local radio station KSRA.

Ray Woods called the station Wednesday to report that a skunk had walked into the open back door of his home. The animal was so friendly and tame, Woods felt sure it must be Peewee.

The station notified Bell and he and his wife, Linda, went to the Woods home.

"That isn't Peewee," cried Linda when she saw the animal. Everyone fled, as it became obvious this skunk was a stranger. While the Woods' home was being aired out, the strange skunk stalked haughtily back into the woods.

Giving Up

OLDSMAR, Fla. (AP)—Bill Hendrix, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan's Southern-Northern knights for several years, is quitting the Klan because "I see no way to stop racial integration and it looks to me like the best thing to do is to accept it."

He told The Associated Press Wednesday night. "I cannot agree to go outside the law to maintain segregation."

The general contractor, twice an unsuccessful candidate for governor on a platform of segregation, said he would not "agree to such things as bombings and burning schools."

"But that's what the Klan is going to have to turn to unless it agrees to go along with the laws," he said.

METHODISTS TAXED

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Methodist Publishing house has to start paying taxes on its operations here, the Tennessee State Board of Equalization has ruled. The church publishing house has previously been tax-exempt.

Star Billing For Sen. Neuberger

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats are planning star billing for their new woman senator, Maurine B. Neuberger of Oregon.

For the first time the Senate now has women members of opposing parties and the Democrats don't want Mrs. Neuberger overshadowed by Republican Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

Mrs. Smith, first elected to the Senate in 1954, entrenched her position in the November balloting by proving herself the best vote-getter among Republican senatorial candidates.

Although the vote in her state was much smaller than in other areas, Mrs. Smith defeated a woman opponent, Lucia Cormier, by taking 61.6 per cent of the votes cast in the Maine Senate race.

Mrs. Neuberger, widow of the late Sen. Richard L. Neuberger, proved herself a real vote-getter, too. She bucked a tide that gave Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, 52.6 per cent of Oregon's vote.

Running both for the short term to finish out her husband's tenure this year and for a new six-year term, Mrs. Neuberger handily defeated Republican Elmo Smith. The woman candidate won the short term with 55.1 per cent of the total vote and the six-year term by 54.6 per cent.

Mrs. Neuberger's victory made her a member of the Senate on Nov. 9, the date the term of her appointive predecessor, Hall S. Lusk, expired.

Although she cannot be sworn in for the short term because it expires at noon Jan. 3 when the Senate meets, her pay and her seniority began in November.

Mrs. Neuberger thus will have first call on committee assignments over Sens. elect Lee Metcalf of Montana and Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island.

She also will outrank appointees named to fill the places of Sens. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, when they take office as president and vice president, as well as Wyoming's Democratic Gov. Joe Hickey. He said last week he would resign as governor and accept appointment by his Democratic successor to the Senate seat left vacant by the death of Wyoming's Republican Sen. elect Keith Thomson.

With this push friends think there is a chance Mrs. Neuberger might get one of a couple of coveted Democratic vacancies on the Foreign Relations Committee.

If she should be chosen as a member of the Democratic calendar committee, which supervises Senate action on minor bills, she automatically would sit in as a member of the Democratic policy committee.

Mrs. Smith has worked her way into assignments on three major committees — Appropriations, Armed Services and Space. She also has been a Republican policy committee member.

Japanese Joining In A Happy Migration

TOKYO (AP)—More than 25 million Japanese are streaming home for New Year's in Asia's happiest mass migration.

Prosperity, time off and year-end bonuses estimated at more than a billion dollars are enabling more wage earners than ever before to join their families for the holiday, as important to Japan as Christmas is to the West.

The Japanese National Railways estimated 26.45 million would make the trek—almost a third of the population and 5 per cent over the 1959 record.

The travelers wear smiles and new clothes. In contrast to less fortunate migrants Asia has seen. Awaiting them were hours of standing in trains followed by happy feasts of pounded rice cakes (mochi), spiced wine (toso) and red beans, and New Year's Eve visits to hometown Shinto shrines and Buddhist temples. Then, jam-packed trains back to the cities next week.

Government offices closed Wednesday night for a week. It will be a time of debt-paying, family reunion, honoring of ancestors and praying for good times.

Most businesses will close their books on 1960 Saturday and shut down tight for at least three days.

Passengers for trains Friday were already lining up under big circus tents thrown up at the major stations of Tokyo and Osaka.

A railway spokesman said many trains had 250 per cent more people aboard than seats and "no-body can even walk through the aisles." Some dining and sleeping cars were replaced by high-capacity chair cars.

So far no mishaps were reported, but officials were fearful. "The operating congestion is terrible," said the spokesman.

Nuclear Blast Called 'Betrayal'

TOKYO (AP)—Japan has branded France's third nuclear test "a betrayal of the wishes of all peoples in the world."

The Foreign Ministry said that was the idea in an official Japanese protest handed to the French government in Paris over the Sahara nuclear test explosion.

The foreign office said the protest was delivered Wednesday by Ambassador Testuro Furukaki to vice director of the political bureau of the French Foreign Office.

Find Stolen Auto At Police Station

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—When Chattanooga police were asked to help find a car stolen in Nashville, they gave quick service. They found the car in front of the police station.

The car and four teen-age occupants had been brought to police headquarters for routine questioning a few minutes before.

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels and selected issues paced a vigorous but irregular stock market rally today. Trading was active early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks at noon was up .80 at 221.00 with the industrials up .70, rails up .60 and utilities up .50.

Steels were the surprise of the session as they suddenly rallied on no particular news.

Inaugural Parade To Have PT Boat

STUART, Fla. (AP)—A Navy PT boat, like the one that sank under John F. Kennedy in World War II action, is en route to Washington for Kennedy's presidential inaugural parade.

Seven enlisted men from the Navy's Mine Laboratory at Panama City are manning the 80-foot craft, built 17 years ago in the program to construct speedy torpedo boats for operations in the midst of enemy fleets.

Kennedy's Pacific wartime crew is scheduled to ride in the boat, to be hauled in the parade on a truck. The craft—No. 796—will be spruced up at Anacostia, D.C., Naval Station for the parade.

Father Of Keith D. Holmes Succumbs

Duayne M. Holmes, 75, father of Dr. Keith D. Holmes of East Carolina College, died Tuesday after an illness of two years. He had been a merchant in Cortland for 40 years.

Mr. Holmes was a member of the Homer Avenue Methodist church for many years and had held offices in that church. He also was a member of many local and national civic organizations, in which he also held offices.

Last Rites Friday For John G. Harris

Mr. John G. Harris, 70, died suddenly at his home near Winterville Wednesday morning at 1:30 following a heart attack.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p.m. at the Wilkerson Chapel by his pastor, the Rev. Henry Melvin, assisted by the Rev. R. B. Crawford, pastor of the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church. Burial will be in the Shivers Family Cemetery near the home.

Mr. Harris had spent all his life in the Winterville community and was a farmer. He was a member of the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church, the Mohican Tribe No. 56, Improved Order of Red Men, and the Junior Order.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary Shivers Harris; four sons: Raymond C. Harris of the home, John Jr., Kenneth, and Amos Guy Harris, all of Greenville; three daughters: Mrs. James W. Jenkins and Mrs. Holden Laughinghouse of Greenville and Mrs. Dorothy Williams of the home; 20 grandchildren; four brothers: George W. Harris of near Winterville, William Joe Harris of Greenville, Theodorus Harris of Beargrass, and Theodore Harris of Wilson; and a sister, Mrs. Donna Moore of Pinetops.

First Time Out, Drove Like 'Pro'

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—"He was driving fine and when I blew my siren, he pulled over like a pro," said State Highway Patrolman C. A. Ellis with a trace of amazement in his voice.

Ellis' remark referred to a three hour ride two young Greer brothers took Wednesday in their father's automobile.

The youngsters, one 13 and the other 7, drove as far as Spartanburg and were on their way back home when Ellis spotted them in Greenville.

Returning To His Newspaper Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—Herbert G. Klein, Vice President Richard M. Nixon's press secretary during the election campaign, will go back to his old job as editor of the San Diego Union.

"My basic decision has been to stay in the newspaper business," Klein said Wednesday, "and with this in mind I believe that the growing Copley organization, which has 15 newspapers, continues to offer me the best opportunity to follow through on many of the basic principles in which I believe."

Truman Writing A Textbook

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says he is writing a textbook about the president's role in government.

Truman told a meeting of the Society of Archivists Wednesday that he is writing a schoolbook but added wryly: "It may never come out." He did not elaborate.

Certain Taxes Are 'Released'

City councilmen released certain taxes from payment at a special meeting yesterday afternoon.

Included were poll taxes for servicemen who are exempt from this tax, property determined to be outside the city limits and some buildings which have been destroyed but were listed.

Traffic Toll

RALEIGH (AP)—The Motor Vehicles Department's tally of highway deaths and injuries for the 24 hours ending at 10 a.m. today:

Killed	2
Injured rural	24
Killed this year	1,187
Killed to date last year	1,190
Injured to Oct. 1, 1960	19,029
Injured to Oct. 1, 1959	17,678

past few days, Mrs. Wheeler took time out yesterday to give a few pointers to a young rider, Dale Steinmeyer. As soon as the spry little lady was introduced to the few onlookers at the small ring just east of Greenville on Cedar Lane, the expert horsewoman asked "Where's the girl?" then started giving tips on riding.

Mrs. Wheeler, a native of New Orleans, said she has been riding horses "on the plantation at home" since she could walk. She said she became interested in teaching riding and attended a French riding school where she received her formal schooling in the equestrian sport.

Saying she has lived in North Carolina "long enough to become the best kind of Tarheel," Mrs. Wheeler said she has done much show work, and started her professional teaching at the Biltmore Forest Riding School in the 1920's when her husband, Dr. Wheeler, was placed in charge of the Belmont Estate.

Nixon Will Miss Salute To Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon has turned down an invitation to participate in a "Tribute to a Patriot" TV show praising President Eisenhower.

Nixon's press secretary, Herbert G. Klein, said Wednesday night there were two reasons Nixon declined the invitation:

"The key time when they wanted him to tape a part of the program came when he had to be out of town.

"In addition he has adopted a policy not to go on television for a while. This is not permanent, but he thinks that in deference to Mr. Kennedy he should not for the time being do anything publicly in the way of television appearances, news conferences or the like. He has turned down other shows beside this one."

Klein added, "As for anything being done by himself and the President—of course he has saluted the President many times in the past and will do so many times in the future. It isn't necessary that he do it on any one particular TV show."

Republicans Plan Party For Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Capitol Hill Republicans are planning a big party for Vice President Richard M. Nixon Jan. 9—his 48th birthday anniversary.

"We just want to give him a pat on the back and give all Republicans a shot in the arm," Rep. James C. Auchincloss, R-N. J., said today.

Driver Charged After Collision

William D. Shiver, 40-year-old Negro of Atlanta, Ga. was charged with operating to the left of the center line yesterday following a collision at the intersection of ALBEMARLE AND GRANDE AVES. AT 2:40 P.M.

Investigators said the driver of the second auto was Jasper Earl James, 45, of Route 1, Greenville. Damage to the James auto was placed at $200 while damage to the Shiver's car was estimated to be about $100.

No one was injured in the collision it was reported.

While at Rollins, she operated a private riding school on the side, and her summers were spent at summer camps such as Camp Sequoia, giving riding instructions.

Mrs. Wheeler jokingly says she has been teaching 150 years and says she still gets much pleasure from teaching youngsters to ride.

The woman, who has always led an active life, has even found time in her "horse" activities to judge dog shows as a Cocker Spaniel judge.

Mrs. Wheeler, who gave up riding only five years ago, commented that "my children say my middle name is 'elbows.'" The title is an apt one for the expert emphasizes the correct position of the elbows almost incessantly, and her favorite comments as she observed a rider circling the ring is "watch that tow" and "watch those arms."

The equitation expert has written many articles on riding for national magazines, and is a storehouse of information on the subject, knowing not only what is the right thing to do but why.

The teacher says she gets the most pleasure from teaching children, because they are "so responsive ... and learn faster." She added that "boys are more interesting to teach than girls" because they learn quicker and are more interested in what they themselves are doing. Girls, she commented, are more interested in what the other person is doing.

As she re-entered the car to be driven away from the track, she commented, "Don't you know that horse is much prettier than this car ... and is much more fun to ride."

Moslems Again Demonstrate

ORAN, Algeria (AP)—Moslem nationalist demonstrations broke out anew in Oran today following an exchange of shots Wednesday night in which two Moslems were killed.

Two hundred Moslems gathered in a suburb and tried to march on a section where both Moslems and Europeans live. Police and Foreign Legionnaires turned most of them back without major incident. Some 20 arrests were made.
