Kennedy Names Negro To Post In Administration

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy today gave to a Negro crusader for civil rights, Robert C. Weaver, the high-level job of directing the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency. The appointment of Weaver to the topmost position ever held by a Negro in the executive branch of the government was announced by Kennedy at a news conference. Weaver was at his side on the sun-bathed patio of the Kennedy home. Weaver, 51, now is vice chairman of New York City's housing and redevelopment board. Long a civil rights champion, he is chairman of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He has a doctor of philosophy degree from Harvard. In response to a question, Weaver said he favors the idea of "open occupancy" and non-discrimination in housing. He made that reply when asked whether he favors a requirement that to be eligible for FHA insurance homes should carry no restriction against sale to Negroes. Weaver said he did not care to go into detail on that now, but went on to say he is against any discrimination in housing. Another question was what Weaver thought would be the reaction of Southern Democrats to his appointment as boss of the federal housing program. With a smile, he called that a premature inquiry. It will cost Weaver $1,500 in salary reduction to take over direction of the federal housing program. His New York position pays $22,500 annually compared with $21,000 in the new position. Kennedy also said at the news conference that he has offered a federal job to Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the late president, but that Roosevelt informed him that he has other obligations. Kennedy asked Roosevelt to think it over and confer with him again in New York next week. Kennedy refused to say whether he is considering Georgia's Gov. Ernest Vandiver for secretary of the Army or some other position in the new administration. The president-elect said he has a policy of not commenting on possible appointments in advance of their announcement. The president-elect vigorously defended his reported choice of Harvard Dean McGeorge Bundy, a Republican, for the assignment of his special assistant on national security matters. Gov. Foster Furcolo of Massachusetts said Friday that Bundy is completely unqualified for such a job. The governor added that it is incredible that Kennedy would consider making such an appointment. Kennedy noted that Bundy ran unsuccessfully against Furcolo for the Massachusetts governorship in 1958. Alluding to this, and to the fact that Bundy is a Republican, Kennedy said he has attempted to select men for jobs on a basis of disregarding whether they supported him politically. In announcing Weaver's selection for the housing job, Kennedy called it the U.S. government's

Belgium's Strikers 'Mourn' Parade In Virtual Silence For 'Martyr' In Friday's Violence

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Carrying black-bordered flags, about 2,000 grim strikers paraded through the main streets of Brussels today. Strike leaders called it a "mourners' demonstration" for Francois van der Strappen, 30, who was killed in Friday's fighting between state police and demonstrators in the worst outbreak of violence during the 12-day-old strike. The marchers shouted no slogans and ignored the police for the first time since the demonstrations began in the Belgian capital. There were no incidents. There were parades also in Antwerp, Liege and other main cities. In Liege trees were felled across some roads, cutting trolley cables. Electricity was cut in one Liege district during the night when supply lines were disconnected. A few stores were stoned, and on the railroad, a power supply was blown by a dynamite charge. In Liege also an Italian citizen was arrested after a gun was fired at an oil truck. In Antwerp police kept pickets away from department stores, which worked under police protection. In Brussels, King Baudouin saw Public Work Minister Ormer Van Audenhove, a Conservative Liberal, and the minister of public administration, Pierre Harmel, a Socialist Christian. A heavy truck moving Brussels newspapers to Liege was stopped at Liege and two-thirds of the newspapers were burned. The Socialist Metal Workers Trade Union called all metal workers to a general strike for Tuesday. The largest metallurgical plants in the south are already on strike. Police say the man who shot Van der Strappen came to the aid of a policeman who was being mauled by demonstrators. The Socialist Workers Party blamed Premier Gaston Eyskens for Van der Strappen's death in an apparent attempt to give their campaign a martyr. As Belgians uneasily awaited the new year, fearing it would bring new violence, informants said Eyskens plans to talk to the nation by radio and television, perhaps tonight. Nearly 2,000 strikers today began a march through the streets of Brussels. As they moved off from Socialist party headquarters, a union official told them: "Make this a silent demonstration. Perhaps silence will do more than shouts, slogans and broken windows." The strikes and violence which have raged for 12 days throughout Belgium showed signs of easing during the holiday, but the grave political differences remain as large as ever. The first week of the new year brings several events officials fear could spark new violence.

Laos Govm't Reports Invasion By Red North Vietnam Troops

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Premier Boune Oum's pro-Western government said today northeast Laos had been invaded by seven Red North Vietnamese battalions supported by artillery and that the town of Nonget was under attack. (The Soviet news agency Tass, in a dispatch from Hanoi, quoted the North Viet Nam Foreign Ministry as terming the invasion report "absolutely false" and an attempt to camouflage "the intervention of American imperialists" in Laos. (Tass quoted paratroop Capt. Kong Le, leftist leader in Laos as threatening to call in "volunteer units from Afro-Asian countries" if "intervention" by the United States, South Viet Nam and Thailand does not cease.) Prince Boun's office said his Southeast Asian kingdom, which the United States supports with military and financial aid, reserves the right to appeal to friendly countries "if the invasion is not halted. Word of the attack came in intelligence reports from the commander of the mountainous second military region, the government said. (In New York, United Nations officials said the Laotian delegate, Siskou Na Champhasak, called on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld to discuss the situation. U.N. spokesmen said no request was made for U.N. intervention. (In Singapore, a British diplomatic source said information received there did not indicate any invasion of Laos had taken place. "Our information indicates these reports should be discounted," Western military observers in Vientiane expressed surprise at the urgency of a communique issued by the premier's office and said it indicated the situation was serious. Reinforcements were being rushed to the invaded area, the communique said. The United States has poured $300 million in military aid into Laos in five years. The Soviet Union is airdropping military supplies to leftist forces led by paratroop Capt. Kong Le. Premier Boun's arch foe who was driven from Vientiane Dec. 15. Leftist Pathet Lao troops, another faction in the six-year-old Laotian war, have been supplied by Red North Viet Nam. Western military experts in Vientiane said there have been unconfirmed reports for two or three weeks that four and possibly five Vietminh battalions were operating along the mountainous northeast Laotian border. But reports from this area — Xonkhouang province — have not always been entirely correct due to poor communications, military experts said. North Viet Nam radio in Hanoi broadcast a denial that an invasion had begun. Earlier this month, Radio Hanoi made an unusual broadcast announcing that two Vietnamese battalions deserted to Laos and asked Laos to disarm them. Observers viewed this as possibly a North Viet Nam scheme to send guerrillas into Laos and clear itself in advance of responsibility.

Cubans Told Castro Given Warning Of U.S. Attack

HAVANA (AP) — Pro-government newspapers declared today Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime has been informed U. S. Marines will invade Cuba before Jan. 18. Both the semi-official Revolution and the government owned El Mundo said "reliable sources" had told the government of an invasion plan which they reported was arranged by the Pentagon and the Central Intelligence Agency. They added that it has already been approved by President Eisenhower, who will be succeeded by President-elect John F. Kennedy Jan. 20. Foreign Minister Raul Roa was reported to have left for New York Friday night on an urgent mission to denounce the alleged plot before the United Nations. Shortly before the newspapers appeared, the government suspended regulations that long have allowed American tourists to enter Cuba easily. In almost identical language, Revolution and El Mundo said Cuba will live "under imminent danger of U. S. attack in coming days." They charged the Eisenhower government will take advantage of the change in administration to bring off the invasion and thus present Kennedy a war situation before the incoming president can do anything to stop it. The papers said these developments support the invasion warning. Peru broke relations with Cuba Friday night. Uruguay said it is considering a similar break. Venezuela announced it will not recognize the new Cuban ambassador. The U. S. Embassy has called in all U. S. residents of Havana to give them "very important news." This apparently alluded to a notice sent out Friday by the embassy to representatives of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. Some of its members and supporters are touring Cuba, and an embassy spokesman said U. S. officials would be available at 10 a. m. this morning to answer their questions—and present the U. S. side — on Cuban-American relations. The new invasion scare appeared to derive principally from a story by the government news agency, Prensa Latina, from Montevideo. The dispatch from the Uruguayan capital quoted "a well informed source" as saying the U. S. State Department had sent a secret message to Latin-American governments expressing U. S. preoccupation at the reported installation of missile bases in Cuba and advising that the United States will intervene in Cuba with troops. The purpose of the purported message, Prensa Latina said, was to convince Latin-American nations that multilateral intervention would be preferable to action by the United States alone. The Cabinet decided in a marathon session that the Foreign Ministry will determine in the future what tourists from the United States may enter the country without visas. Cubans must have visas to enter the United States. The cabinet said its action in ordering Americans screened was taken because of the U.S. refusal to grant Cubans free entry.

Newest Polaris Sub Is Armed, Sails To Sea

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP)—The nuclear-powered and nuclear-armed submarine Patrick Henry is sliding silently beneath the surface of the Atlantic Ocean today, ready to launch her powerful Polaris missiles at any aggressor. The big sub was sent to sea on a war-ready basis Friday, joining her sister sub, the George Washington, and doubling this nation's striking power from undersea launching sites. Both the Patrick Henry and the George Washington carry 16 Polaris missiles with hydrogen bomb warheads. The Navy plans eventually to have 43 other Polaris missile submarines on underwater patrols around the world. The Patrick Henry is under the command of Capt. Harold Shear, a native of Shelter Island, N. Y., and a 1942 graduate of the Naval Academy.

Breathing Fire After Brief Lull

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — Mt. Etna, Europe's biggest volcano, breathing fire after a three-month lull, today hurled red hot rocks and ashes 600 feet into the air with explosions at the rate of one a minute. Lava rolled down the north of the 10,750-foot volcano but the nearest farms and villages were miles away and in no immediate danger.

County's Tobacco Yield Set Record

Pitt County's 1960 tobacco yield-per-acre figures are the highest on record, according to the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office. ASC figures show Pitt farmers turned out 2,020 pounds per acre to top the previous high of 1921 in 1958. The county's total poundage was recorded as 50,224,178 pounds produced on a total allotment of 24,858.41 acres. The 1960 yield figure soared above Pitt's 1959 production average. A year ago the average pounds per acre was recorded as 1,500. Other average yields for the past six years are: 1957—1,538 pounds; 1956—1,839 pounds; and 1955—1,701 pounds. A breakdown by Pitt's 22 ACS communities showed 13 of the 22 produced above 2,000 pounds per acre for the 1960 crop. The highest community average yield was 2,228 pounds per acre posted in Winterville. That community has a total allotment of 1,069.3 acres and produced a total 2,383,071 pounds. FBI Director Is Principal Target

CHICAGO (AP) — Delegates from throughout the country held the first of three weekend sessions in a neighborhood meeting hall Friday night in what has been branded by the FBI as a Communist-directed youth movement. Flashing credentials at a guard's door, the delegates—most of them under 28—gathered at an unassuming hall above a bowling alley on the Northwest Side. Estimates of the number attending ranged from 30 to 75. Newsmen were barred. Pickets, who identified themselves as members of the Fighting American Nationalists, marched outside watched by police. In a keynote speech released to the press, Mrs. Alva Buxenbaum, 23, of Philadelphia, heaped scorn on FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and called on the youth of the nation to ignore his charges of Communist direction. "We welcome participation by anyone, regardless of whether they are Democrats, Communists or Republicans if they are favorable to the purposes for which the conference was called," she said. Earlier this month, Hoover announced that the conference would be held in Chicago under auspices of the Communist party in an attempt to revive its American youth movement. He described Mortimer Daniel Rubin, 29, of New York City, one of the organizers, as the man with full responsibility for youth affairs of the national Communist party. Mrs. Buxenbaum said in her address that the movement grew out of the Southern sit-ins protesting racial segregation. "An ever growing number of youth, Negro and white, have been raising their voices, demanding a brighter future for all young people," she asserted.

FDR Memorial Design Is Chosen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight concrete slabs that look like towering bookends jutting in a rough circle. That's the design picked for the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Memorial. But the choice may run into controversy in Washington, which likes its memorials with a figure of the hero sitting, standing, or perched on a horse. Francis Biddle, chairman of the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Memorial Commission, announced Friday that a jury of five had picked the design by two New York architects, William F. Pedersen and Bradford S. Tilney. The jury, headed by Pietro Belluschi, dean of the School of Architecture at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was not unanimous, and the design still must win approval from the National Capital Planning Commission, the Fine Arts Commission, the National Capital Parks Commission, and Congress. The slabs of the Franklin Roosevelt Memorial would vary in height up to 156 feet. They would be hollow and from 8 to 12 inches thick. The words of Roosevelt would be inscribed across the slabs. The commission said the memorial would cost $4,254,366 and take a year to build. It would be located between the Jefferson and Lincoln memorials.

Satellite Burned In Atmosphere

HANSCOM FIELD, Mass. (AP) — The National Space Surveillance Control Center says the Air Force Satellite Discoverer 17 burned up in the atmosphere Wednesday. The center said Friday the satellite apparently was consumed between its 720th and 725th revolutions. That left 34 objects in orbit around the earth, including one Soviet and 16 U. S. satellites. Discoverer 17 was launched Nov. 12 from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

Barnhill Is Installed As District Kiwanis Governor

Greenville's John T. Barnhill was installed 1961 governor of the Carolinas District of Kiwanis International at ceremonies here last night. Barnhill, Greenville farm implement dealer and past president of the local Kiwanis Club, became the first Greenvilleite to serve as the two-state district's governor. He was installed by outgoing Governor Carl Hyatt of Asheville who presented him with his district governor's pin. Hyatt also presented the local club the banner designating it as the home club of the district governor. The local Kiwanians will retain the banner through 1961, the period of Barnhill's service. Barnhill was elected governor of the district, embracing North and South Carolina, at the district convention in Raleigh last October. J. Ed. Waldrop, a past president of the local club, served as toastmaster for the evening's program that saw a number of the members wives attending. District Secretary - Treasurer Herbert W. Hennig presented the past governor's pin to Hyatt and presented a list of accomplishments during the Asheville resident's tenure. Following Hennig's remarks, Barnhill made his acceptance address and expressed gratitude for his election, predicting "another successful year" for the Carolinas District. Local Kiwanis President Charles P. Gaskins said the club received telegrams of congratulations from the Greenville Merchants Association and the Chamber of Commerce. Eight more well-wishing wires were received from Kiwanis Clubs in the Seventh Division of which the Greenville club is a member. A total of around 100 members, guests and wives attended last night's installation ceremonies.

Peru May Trigger Anti-Castro Acts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS cite "destruction of the legally constituted authority of public powers, those of the Catholic Church and of the armed forces" was ordered to get out of Peru as soon as possible and take with him all other members of his staff. Peruvian Prime Minister Pedro Beltran's newspaper La Prensa said that Cuba had been spending $20,000 a month in Peru to foment a pro-Castro revolution. Opposition against Castro was reported hardening inside Cuba itself. A clandestine radio Friday night denounced his regime in a broadcast the announcer said was coming from "somewhere in the free territory of Cuba." Underground sources had put out word of the impending broadcast and it came on right on schedule at 9 p. m. with a 15-minute-long manifesto calling for "unity in the struggle for freedom." Fidel Castro showed no outward concern. The prime minister planned a big New Year's supper dance and invited thousands of foreigners — including about 400 Americans — to see the "glorious achievements" of his revolution. The midnight celebration will be held in Camp Libertad — the suburban Havana military outpost from where two years ago on New Year's Day deposed dictator Fulgencio Batista fled into exile. Peru broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba in a move that diplomats say may trigger off a mass move by Latin American governments to isolate the Fidel Castro regime. Growing anger among leaders of hemispheric neighbors was evident over the activities of Cuban agents charged with spreading revolutionary propaganda among the masses. Uruguayan President Benito Marrone told an interviewer Friday night that his government would discuss the Cuban ambassador in Montevideo and cut all ties with Havana. There was speculation among diplomats in Lima that Columbia, Venezuela and Chile may follow suit and freeze out Castro agents. A petition was being circulated in Panama appealing to President Roberto Chiari to break diplomatic and trade relations with Cuba. Five other Latin American countries — Guatemala, Haiti, Nicaragua, Paraguay and the Dominican Republic — have withdrawn their top diplomats from Havana. The Peruvian government accused the Cuban Embassy with "evident interference" in Peru's internal affairs by handing out Communist revolutionary propaganda among other acts. In one of the strongest denunciations of Castro's regime by a South American government, Peru declared, "The foreign affairs policy of the current Cuban government violates all standards of international law." Havana was charged with subsidizing subversive agents to in-

City Tags Going On Sale Tuesday

Some 6,800 city license tags will go on sale in the Municipal building Tuesday. The 1961 slogan will be the same as in past years, "Home of East Carolina College." City Clerk William Moore said, "I would like for citizens within the city limits to buy as early as possible, to avoid the rush at the end of the period of purchasing." He said buying the tags would be more convenient if the purchaser had the registration card, from which all needed information can be obtained. If purchasing for someone else, Moore said one should know the name of the automobile owner, the address and make and model of the automobile. The cost is $1 per tag. Every resident of the city of Greenville who owns a vehicle, including automobile or truck, is supposed to buy city license tags. Moore added sales conclude Feb. 15, the same date which concludes sale of state license tags. Those who do not obtain the tags will be cited to court and subjected to the jurisdiction of the court. Last year, 6,295 city tags were sold in Greenville, Moore said.

Jessie McLawhorn, Ruth Tucker, Judy Corbett Are Married

A ceremony Friday night at Winterville Free Will Baptist Church united in marriage Miss Jessie Lucile McLawhorn and Joe Cephus Best. The Rev. Adam Scott performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie E. McLawhorn of Ayden and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. W. T. Best and the late Mr. Best of Grantham.

Music was presented by Mrs. J. T. Beddard Jr., pianist, and Dwayne Scott, soloist. The selections were "Whither Thou Goest," "Because," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her uncle, Odell McLawhorn, the bride wore a gown of brocade. Fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, the skirt flared with soft pleats at center sections of the back and ended with a small train. The jacket featured a pointed stand-up collar and the sleeves extended to points and buttoned at the wrists. The fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls and sequins, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered carnation, Lilies of the Valley, and pom-poms, with satin streamers.

Miss Carolyn Miller of Richfield was maid of honor. She wore a red satin dress which featured a portrait neckline on an empire lace bodice, with matching bandeau and a fitted veil of velvet and net. She carried a cascade bouquet of red and white carnations tied with green satin and backed with French ivy.

Bridesmaids dressed similar to the maid of honor in green satin dresses and matching headpieces, were Miss Agnes Wooten of Kinston, and Miss Linda Outlaw of Vienna, Virginia. They carried bouquets similar to that of the maid of honor.

The flower girls wore identical dresses featuring green lace bodices with satin skirts. The flower girls were Miss Emy Lou Wilson of Ayden, and Miss Kathy McLawhorn of Ayden, cousins of the bride. They carried arm baskets tied with red and green satin and filled with carnation petals.

Seth Best, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers for the wedding ceremony were Nelson Best of Leland and Gordon Best of Grantham, also brothers of the bridegroom. Charlie Byrd of Mt. Olive, and Ray Mazingo of Grantham, cousins of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a champagne brocade dress with matching accessories and her corsage was of yellow carnations.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a blue dress with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, the couple received in the vestibule of the church. Mrs. Best was graduated from East Carolina College in the fall with a B.S. degree in Home Economics. Mr. Best was also graduated in the fall with a B.S. degree in Physical Education from East Carolina College. He is now employed with the Kinston City Schools.

For traveling the bride wore a blue suit with matching accessories. The couple will be at home at 507 Marilyn Drive, Kinston, N. C.

Cake Cutting

A cake cutting was held at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the rehearsal. The attendants were presented gifts from the bride and groom. Wedding cake, punch, nuts, and mints were served to thirty guests.

Showers

The bride was entertained with a floating shower in the Winterville Community Building by Mrs. Odell McLawhorn, Mrs. Mitchell McLawhorn, and Mrs. Linwood Wilson. The bride's table was covered with a yellow linen cloth. The centerpiece was yellow mums with bridal appointments.

The bride was also entertained in Garrett Dormitory by Miss Carolyn Miller, Miss Agnes Wooten, and Miss Linda Outlaw.

Mrs. Kermit Neal Sigmon

GRIMESLAND—The marriage of Miss Ruth Lois Tucker and Kermit Neal Sigmon was solemnized on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock at the Proctor Memorial Christian Church in Grimesland. Rev. F. T. Riley Jr. officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Alfred H. Tucker of Grimesland and the late Mr. Tucker. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Glenn Sigmon of Iron Station.

Mrs. Paul Majette Jr., organist, and Mrs. Alison Hearne Moss, soloist, presented the wedding music. Mrs. Moss sang "O Perfect Love" and "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Alfred Hugh Tucker, wore a wedding gown of white peau de soie extending into a chapel train, fashioned with a scooped neckline, and long sleeves with calla points. The gown was designed with a cummerbund embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. Her two-tiered veil was topped by a pillbox headpiece of pearls embroidered. She carried a white prayer book, topped with a white orchid, and baby roses with ribbon streamers.

Miss Lula Rose Tucker, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her dress was of white, silver embroidered brocade. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty Roses.

Bridesmaids were Misses Gladys Henries of Lowland, Brenda Sigmon, Iron Station, and Mrs. Warren Spring of Morehead City. They wore dresses similar to the honor attendant's, and carried bouquets of American Beauty Roses.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers were W. R. Doser of Belmont, Harold Bynum of Davidson College and Pete Tripp of Maury.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Tucker chose a mauve lace dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Sigmon, wore an aqua lace dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white roses with silver trim.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina College and did graduate work at the University of North Carolina. Mrs. Sigmon teaches in the Charlotte City School System. The bridegroom is a graduate of Appalachian State Teachers College where he was a member of the Student Government and Who's Who. He received his graduate degree from the University of North Carolina, and at present teaches math and physics at South Mecklenburg High School in Charlotte.

For a wedding trip the newlyweds are staying at "The Cloister", Sea Island, Ga. Upon their return they will be at home in Charlotte at 4132 Craig Ave.

Cake Cutting

Following the Sigmon-Tucker rehearsal on Monday night, members of the wedding party, out-of-town guests, and friends were entertained at a cake cutting at the home of Mrs. Helen Sermons at 304 Student Street.

Hostesses were the bride's aunts, Mrs. Mildred Gibson, Mrs. Billy Whitley, Mrs. Wyatt Tucker, Mrs. Burney Tucker, Mrs. Belvin Tucker and Mrs. Sermons.

Reception

The bride's mother, Mrs. Alfred Hugh Tucker, assisted by Mrs. Pete Tripp, sister of the bride, entertained at a reception following the Sigmon-Tucker wedding.

Home Decorating Today

By Mrs. R. W. Davenport
Happy New Year!

The new year is a new beginning. If your home is not satisfying to you, if there is something you have been putting off that you have planned to do, let's begin now.

The Christmas rush is over. The personnel at the Home Furniture Store now has plenty of time to give you special help. The decorator will go into your home and help you rearrange your furniture, help you to decide what pieces are needed and how to use what you have to the best advantage.

Start the new year right. Plan to make your best room better. Keep the old comfort. Your room may be like an old pair of shoes—comfortable but "down at the heels." It might surprise you to know how little it would cost to get that fresh new look.

Call the Home Furniture Store and let us help you to make your best room better and improve them all.

Our best wishes for the happiest and most prosperous new year ever.—(Adv.)

The marriage of Miss Judith Arlene Corbett, daughter of Mrs. Arlene Teel, to Mr. Donald Jay Sheppard, son of Mrs. Ruby Lynn Sheppard of New York, N. Y., was solemnized at 5 o'clock Dec. 27 in St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Jonn W. Drake Jr. officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with red poinsettias and holly. The altar flowers were white carnations and snapdragons.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Paul Braxton, organist, played and Miss Rosemary Swisher of Wilmington and E. C. C. sang "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Traditional wedding marches were used.

Given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Marvin C. Buck, the bride was attired in a Bettinae-Dan Original gown of white de-lustered satin of Empire style with sweetheart neckline outlined with handmade satin roses, showered with seed pearls. The long sleeves tapered to a point and was fastened with tiny satin buttons. The back bodice, fastened with satin lowered buttons extending to a point below the waist, which was outlined with large satin roses. From this point, soft pleats formed a short chapel train. Below the hemline, a ruffle fell from the petticoat.

Her elbow length veil of illusion was attached to a hat of handmade satin roses, showered with pearls. She wore an heirloom bracelet of white gold set with amethyst stones. She carried a white prayer book, tied with white satin ribbons and feathered carnations and topped with a white orchid.

Miss Lois McLean of Raeford and E. C. C. was maid of honor, and Miss Martha Corbett, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore red velvet dresses with scalloped neckline and three-quarter sleeves, with bouffant skirts. Each wore red poinsettia hats with red circular veils and carried cascade bouquets of white carnations and English Ivy and tied with red velvet ribbons.

For the reception, Miss Swisher, organist, wore a green velvet sheath with three-quarter sleeves. Her hat was a white poinsettia with white circular veil. Her corsage was white feathered carnations with green velvet leaves.

Mr. William Michael Nobles of Portsmouth, Va. served as best man. Ushers were Mr. Sidney M. Moye of Fort Bragg and Mr. W. G. Norman Jr.

The bride is a recent graduate of E. C. C. and a member of Tri-Sigma Sorority.

The bridegroom is a graduate of McBurney School of New York, N. Y.

For a honeymoon in New York, the bride wore a two-piece dress of gold wool with matching hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was the white orchid lifted from her prayer book.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride and groom will be at home in Charlotte at 4132 Craig Ave.

Social Notes

News was received in Greenville yesterday of the death of Dr. George Holliday McLeod of Florence, S. C. and New York, N. Y. who was killed accidentally hunting in South Carolina. Dr. Holliday's mother, Mrs. James C. McLeod of Florence, S. C., has been a frequent visitor of Mrs. Reid Perkins.

All About Town With Anne Keziah

A local visitor in Greenville Wednesday was the well-known stage and television personality, Andy Griffith. He paid a brief visit with Judge and Mrs. Charles Whedbee, friends of long standing. They became acquainted when the Griffiths were members of "The Lost Colony" cast and the Whedbees were frequent Nags Head visitors. Andy was on his way to his home on Roanoke Island.

Miss Mary Alys Voorhees of Chapel Hill, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore here this week, was introduced to friends from Greenville and Kinston at an informal buffet last night. An open house in Kinston was on the agenda for Friday night, and was also attended by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wang of Wright Road.

Greenville will be represented at the Governor's Inaugural Ball by petite Lois Sermons, who will participate in all the Inaugural functions as a sponsor. Lois has selected a formal white satin gown as her attire, for the Ball to be held in Memorial Auditorium, Raleigh, Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. She has chosen as her escort Craig Worthington of Winterville. Craig is known through his many readers as the Daily Reflector's Rose High School Columnist. Craig will wear white tie and tails as he escorts Lois at the Ball. She is the daughter of Mrs. Ernestine K. Sermons of Greenville and Wayland Sermons of Washington.

Here is some information I will pass along about the attire required for the Governor's Inaugural Ball. Those participating in the Grand March, the Governor and his wife, the Lieutenant-Governor and wife, the Council of State and wives, will be required to wear white tie and tails or long dresses. Those who will attend the dance can wear tuxedos and short dressy dresses or tails and long dresses if they desire. Formal wear will be required to be admitted to the dance floor.

Sponsors for the Ball are selected by members of the Legislature and Council of State, each elected official being given the privilege of inviting one girl.

The Doug Staffords entertained at dinner Wednesday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. Henry Turnage, newlyweds of Hookerton. Guests gathered at the Stafford home on Library Street.

While downtown yesterday, saw a former Greenville girl, Mrs. C. D. Ziegler, who will be remembered as Janet Watson. The Zieglers make their home in Gainesville, Fla. and have been visiting with Janet's mother, Mrs. T. M. Watson.

New Year's Day will be celebrated at the Reid Perkins home with an open house from 5:30-7:00 p.m. honoring Walter and Patsy Perkins. Receiving with the Perkins will be their daughter and son-in-law, The Rev. and Mrs. Ed Sharp of Beaufort. Mrs. Sharp is the former Virginia Perkins.

The Stuart Shims have returned after spending the holidays with Stuart's parents in Charleston, W. Va. They were glad to get back to Greenville after driving on icy roads for several days.

We Should Put First Things First

For the moment at least the tail seem to be wagging the dog in considerations of Greenville's proposed Urban Renewal project.

Emphasis of discussion of the proposed project has shifted from the overall urban renewal program itself to the matter of public housing which may or may not be necessary to Greenville's continuing its urban renewal planning.

Next Thursday night Greenville's City Council will hold a public hearing on the matter of establishing a local housing authority. It seems to us the most logical step at this point is for the City Council to authorize a housing authority for the city and instruct that authority to make a careful study of the housing needs in connection with the urban renewal project and determine how these needs can be met.

Such action on the part of the City Council would not commit the city to any public housing program. It would, however, designate a specific committee of local citizens to conduct the necessary study. In its study of the problem the housing authority would determine to what extent private enterprise could meet the housing needs brought about by the urban renewal program and to what extent, if any, public housing would be needed in connection with the program.

A housing authority would be made up of local citizens and the authority itself could take no final action in connection with establishing public housing without approval of the City Council. Thus the Council would still retain the final say in the matter.

The proposed urban renewal program offers important possibilities for Greenville, both in terms of making a better, more attractive community, and in ridding the city of some of its poorest housing conditions. The overall program is of sufficient importance to all of the citizens of the city to justify the Council's establishing a housing authority to further implement work that is necessary to continuing with the proposed urban renewal program.

The fact that the Council can establish a local public housing authority to study the matter without committing itself to a public housing program for the city is important in the considerations at this point. We trust the citizens of the city as well as members of the city's governing board will give careful consideration to such a course of action between now and the time of the public hearing next Thursday night.

The Significant Days Coming Up

By LYNN NISBET
NEW YEAR—The year 1961, ushering in the second decade of the last half of the Twentieth Century will begin next Sunday. For all practical business and political purposes it will begin next Tuesday. Since New Year Day falls on Sunday, the holiday observance will be deferred until Monday, and business as normal will resume Tuesday. Except that this time it will not be normal, certainly not in the area of politics and government.

There are occasions which loom big in the perspective of history some of which trained observers can sense significance in advance. In State government one such significant occasion was the inauguration of Charles Brantley Aycock as Governor in 1901. Another was the inauguration of W. Kerr Scott in 1949. Of comparable or greater significance is the inauguration of Terry Sanford as Governor next week.

At national level the significant occasions have been the inauguration of Franklin Roosevelt as President in 1933, Dwight Eisenhower in 1953 and John F. Kennedy next month. These administration changes, state and national, were ushered in with cliché slogans, such as "Equality of Opportunity," "Let us make Fresh Air," "New Deal," "World Peace," "New Day" and "New Frontiers." Such claims are common to all changes in administrative control, but on these occasions sensitive observers recognized that the political atmosphere was pregnant with potentials that gave meaning to the words far above the average.

History has confirmed this perceptive understanding of situations for all the years which have gone. That confirmation justifies expectation that the 1961 incidents also will prove to be very significant.

JIG-SAW — Interest is enhanced by the jig-saw puzzle timing of the forthcoming events. Aycock and Scott came into the office of Governor at the same time—giving or taking a day or two—that the new General Assembly convened, during the first week in January. Roosevelt took office as President on the same day the Congress convened, on March 4. Due to constitutional amendments, Eisenhower took office as President nearly three weeks after the Congress had been organized. Kennedy will do the same thing, because the Congress convenes on January 3 and the President will not be inaugurated until January 20.

In North Carolina the precedence is reversed. Sanford will be inaugurated as Governor on January 5, but the General Assembly will not convene until February 8, almost five weeks later. It will be the first time in history that a newly elected Governor assumes office when the General Assembly was not in session; and the second time a newly elected President takes office after Congress has been in session for three weeks or so. The possibilities are interesting, and could be embarrassing. It is presumed, on basis of past experience, that although Eisenhower will be President for two weeks after the congress convenes, President-elect Kennedy will be able to get through what legislation he requests before taking over the office of President.

In North Carolina, Governor Sanford will be in office as chief executive nearly five weeks before the Legislature convenes. He will be bound by existing laws in setting up machinery for his administration. He has already suggested a number of changes he proposes to make, and has indicated he will put them into effect as soon as he becomes Governor.

POST-FACTO — Almost every session of the General Assembly enacts post-facto laws validating acts of local government officials — including marriage ceremonies performed by justices of the peace after their commissions had expired. None of these acts have been challenged in the courts, and until so challenged and outlawed by judicial decision the acts are assumed to be legal.

So far as your reporter can ascertain, no significant legislation has been required to validate "illegal" acts of the chief executive or any high ranking constitutional official. It would seem to be fair to conclude that if the General Assembly can validate acts of municipal and township officials, taken without adequate legal authority at the time, it can validate similar acts taken by the Governor.

NEW DAY — The point here is that the widely proclaimed New Day of the Sanford Administration may entail some entire new procedure in relations between the executive and legislative branches of government, with the judicial branch sitting ready to umpire any material differences. In North Carolina the judiciary is a real third branch of State government. Judges are elected by the same people who elect the executive and legislative offices. For that reason North Carolina courts have not been subjected to the criticism leveled at Federal courts that they are subservient to the appointive power of the executive.

All of these possibilities of development into action would seem to justify prediction that January of 1961 may be one of the most important and significant months in the history of North Carolina and the United States. And for all practical purposes January 3 rather than January 1 will be "New Year Day."

Congo Trouble Linked With Belgian Unrest

It seems incredible that the government of Belgium, which so recently found itself deeply involved in the unrest and conflict of its former colony of the Congo, today finds itself facing in its homeland general strikes and demonstrations that border on a violent revolution.

While the situations in Belgium and the Congo are far apart, both in geography and in their reasons for coming into being, they are closely tied together. Because of the loss of its wealthy Congo colony, the government of Belgium has deemed it necessary to propose a sweeping austerity program. Under it taxes would be increased and social welfare programs of the government would be severely restricted.

Announcement of the proposed austerity program has brought about severe protests from many Belgians who are demanding not only that these new policies not be put into effect, but that the government which proposed them be repudiated.

In a nutshell it seems to be a case of the government's seeking to spend only that which it can afford, and a portion of the population demanding the government keep spending at its present rate in spite of the fact that one of its primary sources of revenue was cut off when the Congo was given its independence.

The situation is an indication that widespread civil unrest arises not only in emerging nations, but can also happen in older, well established nations when emergency situations demand abrupt and sweeping changes of government policies.

It May Be Cold But Never Dull

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rest of this winter may be cold but it won't be dull. The Eisenhower administration is departing in a whisper, like others before it, it's in a taste of the brawls ahead on domestic problems alone. Kennedy's overseas problems are endless.

Besides having to deal with Premier Khrushchev personally — either face to face at the summit or through letters and public statements — Kennedy must cope with the Red Chinese who, as they become stronger, will make more trouble.

How is he going to keep South-east Asia from falling to communism in an area where Red China is the dominant force? That problem will stick with him through the four years of his presidency or eight if he wins a second term, unless communism in the meantime takes over.

The shooting in Laos alone, with help from Soviet Russia and the Red Chinese, could embroil this country in another Korea unless Kennedy finds a way to prevail peacefully or wash his hands of Laos altogether.

Africa is not only one of Kennedy's most special problems, but one of his biggest: How to keep the newly independent nations from giving their allegiance to communism. A whole continent could be lost.

And disarmament? Neither President Truman nor Eisenhower could come to terms with Russia on this one. So now it's staring at Kennedy, crying for solutions. At the moment, none is in sight.

To complicate things for him, France has just had its third atomic test explosion and should soon be able to join the atomic club whose only members now are the United States, Russia and Britain.

FACING A NEW YEAR
Strength for the day, strength for the week, strength for the year — and all the years which lie ahead. Tomorrow we shall begin a new experience. We shall enter a new year. Our feet will be set in pathways unknown to us before.

from his hands. As we have had occasion to remind ourselves so often, the future is His and therefore the future is safe. We Christians believe that in the presence of Jesus Christ, in the abundance of his grace, in the power of his love, we have something which will give us strength for the day, strength for the week, strength for the year and all the future. Think of what life would be like if we had to face its circumstances without his assurance. Let us resolve in the next year to use whatever religious faith we have. God is not interested in the amount of faith we possess but in its vitality. "If ye had faith as a grain of mustard seed," were his words,

Concluding A Good Year

The more dogged amongst us may be looking back on the year with glum satisfaction that "Well, we got through another one."

Or they may count their blessings in terms of what didn't happen in the way of man-made and natural cataclysms. This is a sad thing, because 1960 was a good year for nearly everybody regardless of an occasional setback.

Just count how many more friendships you've to your credit this year as against those of 1959, and even the most dispirited will agree this has been a very good twelve months.

During the recent Yuletide, on wending my way home each evening, there was a special treat in the sight of a truly splendid Christmas tree framed by a picture window.

I couldn't see the tip-top of the silvered tree, but imagine it brushed the ceiling. It was beautifully proportioned, and full, and lavishly ornamented. With brightly colored lights, it could only draw appreciative glances. In brief, I could recall having seen nothing like it in past years.

Presumably it was removed sometime Wednesday or Thursday, because I missed it Thursday evening when driving by. The preceding evening my car took a different route home.

Since then I've wondered how and where the proud owners will find its equal next Christmas.

Oh, it was dismantled and burned the day after Christmas; and order was restored in the living room.

The writer is one of those who sat through the "Ben Hur campaign"; and I honestly don't know what can be added to the honors and plaudits accorded by professional movie viewers.

Other Editors Saying ... For Faster Ferry

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

If and when the State Highway Department finds a way to restore auto ferry service between Ocracoke and the Carteret mainland, there is a way to cut one-fourth off the time of the trip.

The fabulous Taylor brothers, who are natives of Sea Level, had the ferry especially built for the run. It must have cost approximately $250,000. Local pride in their own Sea Level gave the ferry its name. Nearest point they could bring the ferry to the mainland to Sea Level, picturesque Carteret fishing village, was Atlantic, down Highway 74 a stone's throw.

But old salts and competent men of the sea tell us there is a shorter and better way from the mainland to Ocracoke. They say that the ferry can find anchorage at Cedar Island and a shorter and deeper channel across the sound to Ocracoke. Cedar Island is at the terminus of U.S. 70 and is a dozen or so miles from Atlantic.

The Ferry Sea Level required four hours with good luck to make the run from Atlantic to Ocracoke or vice versa. Much of the route between the two villages was through channels where the ferry was scraping bottom. It was not unusual for the boat to run aground, or get snagged, on a protruding sand bar and have to take a half hour or so churning and pulling to free herself.

A source we believe to be as well informed as any says that there would be no bottom dragging on a route from Cedar Island to Ocracoke. "It was the home village pride of the Taylors that put the mainland slip at Atlantic," this source says.

Not only would the channel from Cedar Island be deeper but it would be shorter by 10 to 12 miles and would result in making it possible for the run to be made in three instead of four hours.

The Saturday Evening Post recently gave national publicity in a feature on our Outer Banks to the Ocracoke-Carteret ferry. Publicity for the Hatteras National Seashore for use next year lists the ferry.

The Taylor brothers are at the end of their rope in operating the ferry. Castro's expropriations have hit them hard, reliable sources say. They plan to sell the ferry if North Carolina does not take it over. The State Highway Commission voted against buying the ferry when the matter first was presented. Such wide and general dissatisfaction with the vote followed that hope is now held some plan may be worked out to insure the ferry will be operating when the tourist season opens in the spring.

Not Quite So Kind To Retailers

By ELMER ROESSNER

The 1961 calendar will not be as kind to retailers as was the calendar for 1960, when only one holiday other than Thanksgiving divided a week. This year there will be four others. Split weeks cut retail sales, because so many people take the holiday and the first half of the week off, or the holiday and the last half of the week.

However, Easter will fall on April 2, which is ideal for fashion merchandisers. If it falls earlier, cold weather cuts sales, and if it falls much later, women lose interest in spring fashions. Easter can occur between March 22 and April 25, and many apparel businesses find that sales are best when it comes in the first two weeks of April. In 1960, it was on April 17.

Merchants seeking a comparison can go back in their records to 1956, when Easter was on April 1.

The holidays splitting weeks in 1961 will be Washington's Birthday, on Wednesday, February 22; Memorial Day, on Tuesday, May 30; the Fourth of July, on a Tuesday, and Columbus Day, October 1 on a Thursday.

Labor Day will be on September 4, one day earlier than in 1960.

Veterans' Day, November 11, will be on a Saturday. Christmas will be on a Monday, as will New Year's Day, 1962. Since New Year's Eve falls on a Sunday, this will slow down the festivities of the more religious, although many will pop their corks on the previous Saturday night.

There will be two great boons to business: Since July 4 falls on a Tuesday, many people will start their vacations on the previous Friday, June 30, and won't appear back in urbus until September 5, the day after Labor Day. This will make a 66-day summer vacation span, the same as in 1960—a great benefit to the resort and travel industry as well as to suppliers of summer wear.

The other boon will be the traditional shopping period between Thanksgiving and Christmas. This year there will be 26 shopping days between Thurs-

Probably the best commentary of all came from some known in the office who remarked that despite Ben Hur's length it only dragged during the intermission.

The truth of that is praise aplenty for any performance; for most of us have tried to sit out a one-hour show, or a 90-minute show, and it seemed to last for ages.

Ben Hur, in retrospect, seemed relatively short. The credit for its uniformly high rating among reviewers must go to the people responsible for presenting a taut, well-edited epic.

Whereas nearly four hours of movie is too much for the ordinary mortal, it can be enjoyed if the viewer's interest is not allowed to lapse.

I'm told the movie-makers are unleashing several such lengthy films on the world... and it figures they are dubious gambles. A story with the background, popular appeal and characters as Ben Hur is a rarity.

Opinions In Brief

"Next month we will have three ex-presidents, Herbert Hoover, Harry Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower—all put out to pasture, with little or no positions of importance in the operation of our country. Only in America could a thing like this happen where three men, who were capable enough to rise to the highest post in the land, be suddenly reduced to Mr. Average Citizen." —Owingsville (Ky.) Bath Co. News-Outlet.

"Our countrymen may be less addicted to handouts than we supposed. Chamber of Commerce of the United States reports that U.S. voters approved more than a billion dollars in school bond issues in the first nine months of this year, a third more than in the same period of 1959." —Redwood Falls (Minn.) Gazette.

"For generations, U.S. citizens have generally accepted the idea education is free in the nation. This is usually acceptable up to a higher education level. From that point on—from the time a student enters college, or is ready to enter college, he certainly finds the free aspect of education has gone with the wind." —Powell (Wyo.) Tribune.

"The new President will need to face many reorganizations of departments, but none is as important as the restudy of the personnel of the State Department and of other departments which deal with foreign relations. For some months these departments have been infiltrated and infested with unsatisfactory personnel. It is not so much a matter of the 'Ugly American,' as it is that the information which comes to a President is too often inadequate or even incorrect and that the day-by-day actions and decisions which cumulatively become policy before a President can act, are not always beneficial to the United States.

Change In The Wind

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The year, 1961, brings in a new President, with some new faces in his Administration and some very old ones. Some of the new faces give hope of a rationalization of the structure and policy of government; some of the old faces are not a little frightening because they were among the authors of the errors which have brought upon us many of our present difficulties. But men do grow older and they do mature and those who blundered may have learned that doctrinaire assumptions are neither facts nor policies.

One of the principal assumptions of Franklin D. Roosevelt, based upon nothing more realistic than "hunch," was that he, of all men, could win Stalin over to his conception of democracy and Christian virtue. However, Stalin was a Marxist and was unaffected by Roosevelt's blandishments any more than Khrushchev was influenced by the spirit of Camp David or Tito by the vast extravaganzas which we showered upon him. Whether we shall have to go through another experiment at the conversion of Khrushchev by those who are to have a voice in the formation of policy during the Kennedy Administration, I cannot, of course, know. Some of those appointed to try their hand at it, particularly those who had been associated with the Roosevelt or Truman Administrations who are being resurrected from the oblivion which was their meet. However, some of them may redeem themselves, for there is nothing like a sinner who is given a second chance.

What is necessary is not so much a reformation of policy as a total reorganization of the personnel of the State Department, the searching out of black-mailable homosexuals in both the State Department and the Pentagon and their elimination at any cost, and the exposure of characters such as William Arthur Montenegro, by whatever name he goes.

And this brings me to the question of what will be done about William Arthur Montenegro, by whatever name he goes in the State Department. This man used the power of the government of the United States to make it possible for Fidel Castro to turn Cuba into a Soviet satellite just as the little I.P.R. experts in the various parts of the government were able in the Truman Administration to make it possible for those "agrarian reformers," the Chinese Communists, to take over the whole of China and lower the United States in the world. This country does not need to go through another period of wild-eyed world-changers.

I have been told that the Eastland Committee has been investigating William Arthur Montenegro, by whatever name he goes, for some months and that the committee possesses more information concerning him and his activities than I possess, although I doubt that, for I have the entire story. However, if the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee possesses such data, what is it waiting for? Is it waiting for the State Department to shift this man to some European country so he can get behind the Iron Curtain?

The new President will need to face many reorganizations of departments, but none is as important as the restudy of the personnel of the State Department and of other departments which deal with foreign relations. For some months these departments have been infiltrated and infested with unsatisfactory personnel. It is not so much a matter of the "Ugly American," as it is that the information which comes to a President is too often inadequate or even incorrect and that the day-by-day actions and decisions which cumulatively become policy before a President can act, are not always beneficial to the United States.

Tar Heels Top Villanova, 87-67

By JOHNNY HUDSON

Reflector Sports Editor
RALEIGH—University of North Carolina Tar Heels looked like a million dollars here Friday afternoon, pinning Villanova with a 87-67 setback to keep the Irish eyes of Coach Frank McGuire smiling.

"Fellows, I don't want this to be misinterpreted but to me Carolina looks like a pro team in physical makeup. They have maturity and show authority on the boards. It is just a good all-around ball club."

He added some special words for York Larese and Doug Moe, Carolina's All-American candidates. Of Larese he said, "Give him daylight and he will tear you up."

They got the lead down to 10 in the last half we would have been gone. We were tired. Gee, I have a big lead at halftime against a good team."

--And Duke Sweeps Over Marquette By 86-73

RALEIGH — Duke Coach Vic Bubas, the youngest brainwork in the Big Four, said little of his Duke Blue Devils as they raced through eight wins but number nine came last night a sweet 86-73 one over Marquette—and he was ready to answer all comers.

"We had the jitters several times but the way this game went you didn't have time to panic. You just looked ahead," he added.

RALEIGH — Showman Bones McKinney labeled himself "The Skinny Fox" here last night and predicted Wake Forest would be up for North Carolina State in the consolation title Saturday after the Deacs brushed past weak Wyoming, 87-66.

"You're never disappointed when you win," Bones asserted following the decisive victory, "but it's not like winning in the championship bracket."

Tangerine Bowl Triumph Is Won By The Citadel

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The Citadel of Citadel stormed Tennessee Tech's goal and stood fast against every assault for a 27-0 victory Friday night before 13,000 fans at the 15th annual Tangerine Bowl football game.

On what to expect for Saturday, Case predicted with a laugh his Pack and Wake Forest would meet again. "That is unless Wake Forest's feet fall out from under them."

Marquette, according to Case, has been the Cinderella team thus far. The State coach praised them as being a "well coordinated group of youngsters."

Citadel's charging line tore big holes for the Cadet ball carriers. It swamped many of the Eagles' offensive thrusts before they got into gear. The winners netted 241 yards rushing to 71 for Tennessee Tech.

Quarterback Jerry Nettles threw two touchdown passes among his eight completions of 14 attempts, gaining 137 yards.

Couple Launched Drive To Aid Blind Children

By ALAN CLINE
TOKYO (AP)—A young girl, sightless since birth, now sees. Other youngsters may get the glasses they need to end lives of darkness.

All this is coming about because an American couple wanted to give thanks for the recovery of their two babies who had been gravely ill.

Robert Nieman and his wife, Jacquelyn, decided to forego an exchange of Christmas presents and use the money to help a blind person.

Nieman estimates there are 600 blind children in Yokohama alone, 250 who might some day see if given help.

Nieman acts as council president with John Buey of Boston, director of the Far East network, serving as recorder and Gary Gentile, Bradford, Pa., as treasurer. Art Holland, San Diego, Calif., and John Purcell, Pottsville, Pa. are council members. Capt. Tsuyoshi Okada, an Army doctor from Keenesburg, Colo., acts as medical adviser.

Nieman is a 36-year-old civilian Army employe from Los Angeles. He began his search in nearby Yokohama because he knew that city as a soldier during the occupation.

He found Yoshiko Kagawa, 18, in a school for the blind. Cataracts had kept her in darkness since birth.

Operation expenses came to $110 and a Japanese eye specialist waived his fee.

Yoshiko saw objects for the first time this week and exclaimed to Nieman about flowers, "more beautiful than I ever expected."

She expressed amazement that an automobile is much bigger than she thought.

Princess Flying To Visit Ireland

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret left by plane today for a private 10-day visit to the Republic of Ireland with her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones. It is the first visit by British royalty to Ireland in 32 years.

The princess and her husband are to stay with the Countess of Rosse, Armstrong-Jones' mother, who lives in County Offaly.

Plenty of Irishmen still harbor a deep grudge against the British, and tight security precautions are being taken to protect Queen Elizabeth's younger sister. Extra police were on duty at Shannon Airport.

An active 11-year-old had undergone an unsuccessful operation to restore his sight. The boy's father, a laborer, had saved for years to get the necessary funds. It would mean more years of saving to provide another operation.

Nieman discussed the boy's problem and others with friends and coworkers. Four decided to sponsor individual cases. All wished to remain anonymous.

Other contributions began coming in so Nieman set up an organization called "Sight For Blind Children Fund Council."

The council has had 25 children examined at the Yokohama Medical College. The next steps are corrective—and costly.

A Japanese industrialist this week gave the group its biggest donation, 2 million yen—$5,555.

In addition, 25 picked detectives of Ireland's special branch have been briefed to guard the couple throughout their stay.

Guards also were posted along the route to Birr Castle in County Offaly. The castle is surrounded by 500 acres of parkland in the heart of Ireland with a waterfall, a golf course and a famous observatory.

Armstrong-Jones spent most of his childhood at the castle. Many of the 3,500 townsfolk of Birr recall the days when he used to help the local milkman.

Liquor Charges Face Two People Following Raid

County officers and local police arrested two Negroes last night on liquor charges following a raid on a house at 312 Boyd Ave.

Officers said Joe May, 43 of 312 Boyd Ave. was charged with illegal possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale when they found 20 pints of illegal booze in a trap in his house.

The second person charged was Nancy Boyd, 404 12th St. She was placed under a $200 bond on charges of possession non-tax-paid whiskey when officers found a pint of booze in her possession.

Officers, who said May was placed under a $500 bond, said he has a long record of arrests and convictions on liquor charges and pointed out that he served eight months on the roads last year for violating liquor laws.

Both are scheduled for trial January 9 in City Court.

Driver Charged After Collision

Rosser Lee Edwards, 57, of 2710 E. 10th St. was charged with passing at an intersection by Greenville officers following a collision at the intersection of 10th and Maple St. at 11:38 a.m.

Investigators said the Edwards car collided with a vehicle operated by Mrs. Keith Downing Cain, 651 East 10th St.

Damage to the Cain car was estimated to be about $25 while damage to the Edwards car was placed at $100.

No injuries were reported by police who said both cars were headed east on 10th when the collision occurred.

Rescued After Sand-Rock Slide

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP)—Donald Blake, 10, was rescued Friday after being trapped, almost out of sight, by a slide of sand and crushed rock in a quarry here today.

The rescue operation took about 45 minutes and involved about 100 men with shovels and three bulldozers. Dr. Leopold Goldberg said the lad was in a state of shock but would recover.

Shoe Thief Has All Left Shoes

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A St. Louis wholesaler shoe firm official reported to police Friday that a dozen sample cases containing 690 shoes worth $1,400 were stolen from his station wagon.

But, said Isadore Perlestein, they'll be worth something less than that to the thieves. All were for the left foot.

Children Presented A Special Program

The children's division of the Greenville Seventh-day Adventist Church presented a special program during the regular sabbath-school hour. Singing "I Will Wear A Crown In My Father's House," they placed their gifts on a tree. The youngest ones wore little robes and crown made for the occasion by the leaders and teachers of the children's division.

Mrs. R. R. Morrison, Mrs. W. H. Waters, Mrs. E. M. Tyson, and Mrs. F. G. Kite. The last sabbath of each quarter is regularly set aside for special offerings for foreign missions. The dollars pinned on the tree by the children and their parents will go to Inter-America, to help a boarding school in Puerto Rico and two hospitals, one in Nicaragua and one in British Guiana.

The festive spirit of the occasion was heightened by the successful completion of this congregation's goal in the nationwide fund-raising campaign which Adventists have conducted annually for more than half a century. The goal for the Greenville church was over $1,000. Pastor Howard V. Boling pointed out that only essential expenses—no salaries—are deducted in this campaign; and it has been estimated that 90 percent of the total raised goes directly to the world field for hospitals, clinics, sanitariums, dispensaries, disaster relief centers, schools and other missionary endeavors.

Boy Travels 400 Miles To Find His Missing Pet

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A boy travelled homeward today with his dog after traveling 400 miles to find the pet.

Alex Borsi, 13, of Jersey City, N. J., was given his fare by his father, Jenio, as a Christmas present so he could search for Wanderer, a pet which had been left with friends when the Borsi family moved from Buffalo.

After talking with police in suburban Tonawanda, Alex spent Thursday night on a table at police headquarters, with a patrolman's coat as a blanket.

Newspapers and radio stations told of the search, and Wanderer was located Friday morning.

Alex, a seventh-grader, said he was "very happy" about finding his pet. He said the dog would have a large back yard in which to run and "will make an excellent watch dog."

The Borsis are Hungarians who fled their country during the 1956 uprising.

NASA To Launch Experiments In Communications

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, under an order of President Eisenhower, will begin experiments leading to a commercial run communications network in the space age.

The worldwide network would use space satellites to transmit radio, telephone, television, and telegraph communications.

Eisenhower ordered NASA Friday to take the lead in research and development and to encourage private industry to contribute its resources to the project.

Dr. Hugh Dryden, deputy administrator of NASA, said the space agency would do research on three possible systems for the communications network.

He described the one system as a best bet: 25 to 40 satellites orbiting the earth at altitudes of 3,000 to 6,000 miles, each able to receive and transmit messages.

Dryden said the cost of that system had been estimated at $50 to 100 million. He said the first test satellite might go up in 1 1/2 to 2 years.

The festive spirit of the occasion was heightened by the successful completion of this congregation's goal in the nationwide fund-raising campaign which Adventists have conducted annually for more than half a century. The goal for the Greenville church was over $1,000. Pastor Howard V. Boling pointed out that only essential expenses—no salaries—are deducted in this campaign; and it has been estimated that 90 percent of the total raised goes directly to the world field for hospitals, clinics, sanitariums, dispensaries, disaster relief centers, schools and other missionary endeavors.

Children Presented A Special Program

The children's division of the Greenville Seventh-day Adventist Church presented a special program during the regular sabbath-school hour. Singing "I Will Wear A Crown In My Father's House," they placed their gifts on a tree. The youngest ones wore little robes and crown made for the occasion by the leaders and teachers of the children's division.

Mrs. R. R. Morrison, Mrs. W. H. Waters, Mrs. E. M. Tyson, and Mrs. F. G. Kite. The last sabbath of each quarter is regularly set aside for special offerings for foreign missions. The dollars pinned on the tree by the children and their parents will go to Inter-America, to help a boarding school in Puerto Rico and two hospitals, one in Nicaragua and one in British Guiana.

SEWER LINE PROGRESSES—A big crane has been evident at the foot of Evans and Washington Sts. on the river bank this week. It is at work on the sewer outfall line which will serve the city's sewage disposal plant, now under construction behind Greenwood Cemetery. The line will run from Memorial Drive to the plant site, the complete length of the city. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Bob Cummings Says Diet Behind Youthful Vitality

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Someone once accused Bob Cummings of taking 800 vitamin pills a day. "It's not true," quipped Bob, "I only take 693."

But all joking aside, Cummings' youthful vitality has long been the envy of other men of his vintage. And now he has revealed his health secrets in a new book called "Stay Young and Vital."

He doesn't give his exact age except to say that it's over 50. Milton Berle recalls that Cummings was his straight man in 1927 and comments: "He was no kid then."

Cummings says that one of the best ways to prevent a seedy look in middle age is to eat seeds. He munches on sesame and sunflower seeds between meals—also peanuts and almonds.

Other Cummings' health tips: Add powdered skim milk, wheat germ and brewer's yeast to food and drink.

Eat liver—either calf, beef or chicken—at least three times a week.

Eat fruit whole—skins and all. That excludes pineapple, he adds. Cummings says he is no health faddist now, but was once.

"Back in the days when I was Deanna Durbin's leading man years ago, my zeal surely exceeded my common sense. With another dedicated vegetarian I would march around the studio lot singing a devout vegetarian song which went like this:

"Roots, fruits and nuts, Muscle, speed and guts, We're the guys who eat no ham, We eat no beef, We eat no lamb— We're vegetarians! Rah! Rah! Rah!"

Boy Travels 400 Miles To Find His Missing Pet

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A boy travelled homeward today with his dog after traveling 400 miles to find the pet.

Alex Borsi, 13, of Jersey City, N. J., was given his fare by his father, Jenio, as a Christmas present so he could search for Wanderer, a pet which had been left with friends when the Borsi family moved from Buffalo.

After talking with police in suburban Tonawanda, Alex spent Thursday night on a table at police headquarters, with a patrolman's coat as a blanket.

Newspapers and radio stations told of the search, and Wanderer was located Friday morning.

Alex, a seventh-grader, said he was "very happy" about finding his pet. He said the dog would have a large back yard in which to run and "will make an excellent watch dog."

The Borsis are Hungarians who fled their country during the 1956 uprising.

NASA To Launch Experiments In Communications

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, under an order of President Eisenhower, will begin experiments leading to a commercial run communications network in the space age.

The worldwide network would use space satellites to transmit radio, telephone, television, and telegraph communications.

Eisenhower ordered NASA Friday to take the lead in research and development and to encourage private industry to contribute its resources to the project.

Dr. Hugh Dryden, deputy administrator of NASA, said the space agency would do research on three possible systems for the communications network.

He described the one system as a best bet: 25 to 40 satellites orbiting the earth at altitudes of 3,000 to 6,000 miles, each able to receive and transmit messages.

Dryden said the cost of that system had been estimated at $50 to 100 million. He said the first test satellite might go up in 1 1/2 to 2 years.

Politics Paced '60 Pitt Headlines

News story of the year for Pitt County? That's easy. It was politics far and away.

Never in its history had this county — and Eastern North Carolina — seen political figures of such stature as those who barnstormed here in this presidential election year.

In fact for the last 50 years or so, the election was over for heavily Democratic Eastern N. C. when the party primary votes were counted. But 1960 changed all that. Pitt Countians were disbelievers when the Reflector printed a tip that Kennedy might visit Greenville in his presidential campaign. But the scrap of information, dropped casually by a Kennedy aide, proved accurate. The man who was to be elected president of the United States in November did, indeed, come here on Sept. 17. He stepped from his plane to a rousing reception at the Pitt-Greenville Airport. From there he visited a tobacco warehouse and then he went to the college stadium for a short talk.

There was other political activity during the long campaign. For the first time in remembrance of most folks a headquarters in support of Republican candidate Richard Nixon for president and Robert Gavin for governor was opened in the Proctor Hotel lobby. Directly across the street the Democrats opened a Kennedy-Sanford headquarters — something else that isn't usually done.

There were frequent visits here by both Sanford and Gavin as they campaigned hard over the state. John Roosevelt, son of Franklin D., came here in support of Nixon. Other party workers, both Republican and Democrat — combed Eastern Carolina.

People in these parts are more accustomed to seeing their rootin'-tootin' politics in the Democratic Primary and there was quite a bit of that this year.

Up and coming Walter B. Jones of Farmville ran hard against First Congressional District Rep. Herbert C. Bonner of Washington, N. C. However, the veteran Congressman Bonner successfully defended his seat and won nomination in the spring primary. Bonner had no trouble with his Republican opponent, Zeno Radcliffe, in the general election.

As always, the weather made news during 1960. Heavy snows in March brought local life to a standstill for a time and brought immeasurable joy to the kids. Hurricane Donna roared almost directly across Pitt County the weekend before Kennedy's visit. It caused heavy damage to utilities lines, buildings and the area's bumper corn crop.

Tobacco wasn't affected by the storm, however, and the happy news of the year for the farmers was a good tobacco crop and high prices when the market opened. The good tobacco year offset the corn damage, so that, all in all 1960 could be classified as a prosperous year for Pitt County.

In colorful ceremonies, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, was installed as president of East Carolina College last May. He succeeded Dr. John D. Messick who resigned late in 1958.

Greenville's new art center opened on Evans St. after some hard work by many people. The multi-million dollar Voice of America project got under way in February and bids for the structures were let during the year.

Leonard Weston departed as Pitt County's economic consultant and Dr. Sylvester Green was hired in his place.

An experiment ended in 1960 when the Utilities Commission asked that Leonard Bloxam be relieved of his city manager duties and return to full time Utilities superintendent. As the new year began councilmen were looking for a new city manager.

East Carolina's nursing school got its start during the year and in Greenville Urban Renewal was boiling at year's end.

At Grifton a new garment plant was opened and Farmville moved into a new post office.

On the sports front, Rose High defeated Washington in football after many years of trying. Rose High also defeated Wilson, champions of a higher conference.

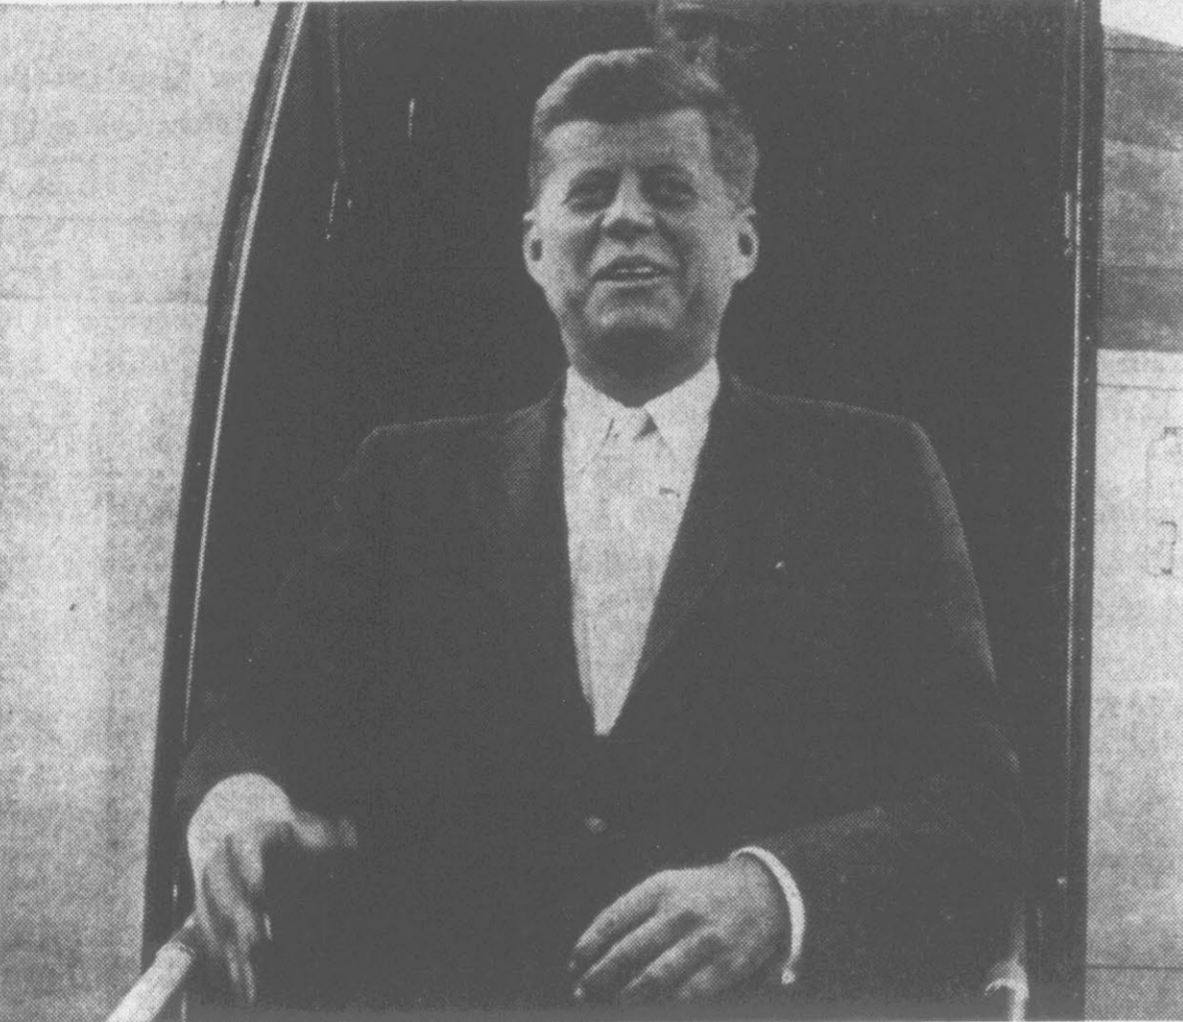

East Carolina pulled a big football upset by defeating University of Richmond of the Southern Conference.

The local college had hopes of Southern Conference membership dashed when the conference ruled that an applying school must be an NCAA member for two years before applying for conference membership.

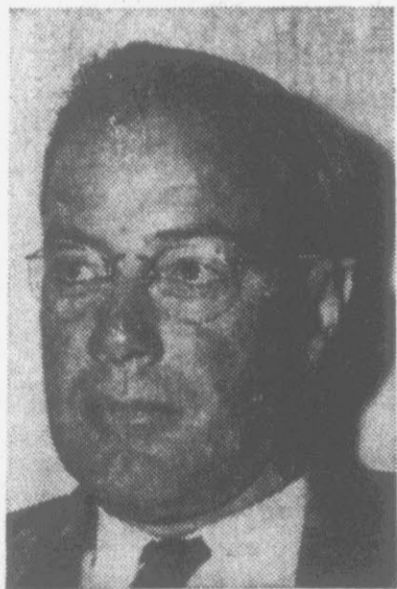

Bobby Thomas went to a National golf tournament in Illinois.

Fire of the year in Greenville was at Quinn-Millers which was heavily damaged.

An unsolved mystery at year's end was the attack on a woman in her home in Stokesstown. Mrs. Letha Bonner escaped, but her house was burned to the ground.

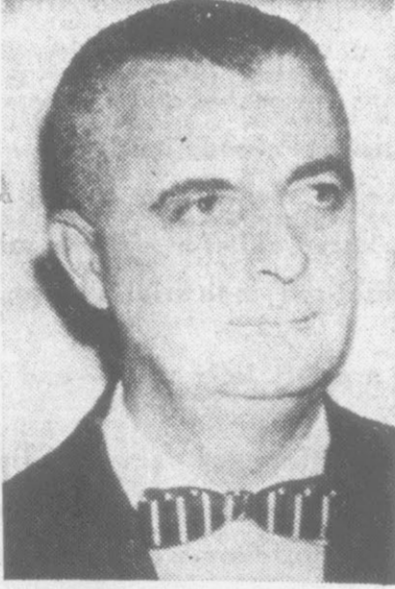

JOHN F. KENNEDY VISITS GREENVILLE . . . now president-elect, he became first nominee to campaign here in many years.

LEONARD WESTON . . . resigned as economic consultant.

Pre-Measurement Is Offered To Farmers

Farmers in Pitt County may have their allotted crops "laid off" for them before planting time again this year.

This service, called "pre-measurement," will be offered to all farmers who make a request and pay the cost, according to J. Lyman Edwards, chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Edwards pointed out some farmers, "through inadequate measurement on their own part or because of incorrect information on the acreage in permanent fields," plant either more or less than they are actually allowed by allotment.

In case of overplanting, the farmer experiences unnecessary expense in unused fertilizer, unused plants or seed, or treating of land that cannot be used.

In case of underplanting, the farmer stands to lose some of his "planting history" and he loses some of his income.

The premeasurement service may be requested, Edwards pointed out, through the local ASC office beginning Jan. 3 for all spring-planted crops. ASC will train and equip the reporters who perform the premeasurement work.

Under the plan, the farmer will be required to pay only the actual cost of the visit to his farm and the determination of acreage on his farm. The deposit to cover the actual cost of the work is made by the farmer at the time he makes application for premeasurement.

Pre-measured acreage figures will be accepted by ASC reporters as the "official" measured acreage provided the farmer plants the entire premeasured area and no more, and provided there was "no obvious error made in the premeasurement," Edwards said.

A later trip will be made to the farm to determine that these requirements have been met, Edwards pointed out, "but in most cases additional measurements will not be necessary."

According to the chairman, only a limited amount of premeasurement work can be done in the short time available, "so applications should be made early."

All farmers desiring premeasurement were advised by Edwards to visit the Pitt ASC office (Johnston St., Greenville) "as soon as possible after the opening date (Jan. 3)."

Sees Big Year Of Space News

LONDON (AP)—Britain's top space scientist said Friday night the Soviets already know how to land a working instrument-packed rocket on the moon.

Prof. Sir Alfred Charles Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank radio-telescope station, predicted the big space news of 1961 will be serious attempts by Americans or Russians to put a man into orbit around the earth.

"I also think," he told a TV audience, "that the Russians have the capacity to make a soft landing of working instruments on the lunar surface."

No 'Spirited' Jail Celebration

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Despite a spirited effort, there will be no spirited New Year's celebration in the Tarrant County jail.

Sheriff's officers Friday night were thrown into a tizzy when they learned two young boys had reported a rope dangling from the fifth floor of the jail.

At the end of the improvised rope—made of bedsheets, newspapers and other things—officers found this note:

"Tomorrow night bring fishing line and liquor."

Officers confiscated the rope.

Shoplifter Could Pay For Plenty

BALTIMORE (AP)—A woman accused Friday of shoplifting a 79-cent pair of gloves could have bought about 25,000 pairs.

Police said a store detective saw the 42-year-old woman steal the gloves and arrested her. While questioning the woman, police inspected her pocketbook and found little plastic bags of money inside the lining.

After an hour and 15 minutes of counting, they came up with $17,583 in cash and $2,000 in $100 bonds.

The woman said the money was life savings which her husband told her never to let out of sight. The store dropped charges.

Youth Shot By A Dog Friday

WEBSTER, Mass. (AP)—Neil Larini, 15, was shot by a dog Friday.

The youth's 12-gauge shotgun was leaning against a tree. His hand was above the muzzle. The dog's paw hit the trigger and the gun discharged.

Young Larini lost his little finger and part of the palm of his left hand.

Christmas Party Is Held

Miss Linda Ray was hostess at a Christmas party given at her home on Wildwood Dr. December 21.

Guests were greeted by the hostess, Miss Brenda Ray and Miss Julia Ray, sisters of the hostess.

Refreshments were served buffet style in the dining room. The appointed table was covered with an ecru-curt lace cloth. The room was decorated with traditional colors. Native greenery was used in a Christmas centerpiece, presented to the hostess by Mr. James Lester and Mrs. Corey Stokes.

Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ray.

Guests attending were Susan Bennett, Evelyn Twilley, Martha Gording, Kaye Williams, Gray Davenport, Jim Booth, John Barfield, John Ross, Monte Little, Billy Stokes, Marty Sumerell, Dottie Harris and Tommy McKay.

Miss Gagnon Honored

Miss Barbara Gagnon, bride-elect, was honored at a miscellaneous shower by Miss Francine Cannon at her home on December 22.

Christmas corsages were presented to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Edward Gagnon, by the hostess.

Miss Gagnon was remembered with a silver service platter, presented by Miss Cannon.

Bridal refreshments were served.

Vacation Plans Turn To Tragedy

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. (AP)—The gay vacation plans of the William H. Mullaney family turned into tragedy Friday when three members of the family were killed in a two-car accident that claimed seven lives.

William H. Mullaney Jr., 25; his wife, Elizabeth, 25; daughter, Kathleen, 3 months; and his son, William H. Mullaney III, 18 months were traveling on U. S. 70, 10 miles west of Alamogordo, when their car collided with another vehicle carrying six persons.

The crash on the rain-slick highway wiped out Mullaney's family only he remained alive and his condition was described as critical.

Four of the six occupants of the other car were killed. Dead are Albert E. Armijo, 19; Veronica Chavez, about 18; Bobby Brunselas, 18, and Eloy Chavez Jr., 20, the brother of Veronica, all from Alamogordo.

Two other Alamogordo youths were hospitalized, Joe Serna, 17, who was in critical condition, and Mickey Melendez, about 18, who was in fair condition.

The Mullaney, all of Arvada, Colo., were on their way to Silver City to visit William H. Mullaney Sr., publisher of the Silver City Enterprise.

Life insurance statisticians say the accident death rate at ages 65 and over has decreased from 224 per 100,000 in 1949 to 164 in 1958.

SURVIVING FATHER—Able Vosburgh, 63, the only occupant survivor of a fire which took the lives of his wife and 11 of his 14 children, is led away from one of his married daughters, Gladys. Vosburgh suffered shock and burns. The tragedy happened near Noyan, Que., 50 miles south of Montreal. (AP Wirephoto)

ATTENTION CITIZENS OF GREENVILLE

The following is a letter written by the United States Chamber of Commerce to all of its members. We feel that its content is of vital importance to you since we are at present considering an Urban Renewal and Federal Housing Program.

TO MEMBER CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY EXECUTIVES:

In a few days, the First Session of the 87th Congress will convene. The laws that come from this session can have far-reaching and continuing effects on the future course of our Nation and on the future courses of our individual lives.

This is in no case more true than in the field of community development and housing. Recent years have brought a proliferation of national government programs touching to the hearts of the country. This year will, in all likelihood, see a spate of proposals to further expand the national government's activities.

We are faced with a serious question: Do we want the hand of a national bureaucracy to shape the future physical patterns of our neighborhoods and our cities, or do we want to shape the future of our own communities ourselves?

This is NOT an academic question.

Let's look at a list of some of the present and proposed national government programs that hit at our homes and our communities. The list includes:

1. Formation of a cabinet level Department of Urban Affairs (proposed)
2. Increased grants for urban renewal (existing)
3. Additional subsidized housing for low-income families (existing)
4. Subsidies for middle-income housing (proposed)
5. Loans at less than market interest rates, for college housing (existing)
6. Subsidies for housing for the elderly (existing)
7. Grants for school construction (proposed)
8. Grants or loans for modernization of older hospitals (proposed)
9. Grants and loans for city planning and urban renewal project planning (existing)
10. Loans for water and sewer and other community facilities (existing)
11. Assistance (undefined) for air and water pollution control (proposed)
12. Subsidies for urban transit (proposed)
13. Increased aids for airports and airport terminal buildings (proposed)
14. Subsidized industrial development (proposed)

This is a pretty long array—and we may well ask, "How did all this happen?"

The straightforward answer is that too many of our elected representatives felt that the national government—not the people in cities and towns across the country, working with their local and state governments—was the best mechanism for attacking local problems.

The local people's side of the story has not been told adequately. And it's up to each of us to tell the men we sent to Washington that:

- We are taking measures to solve these problems in our own home towns and that we do not want national government programs.
- We shall soon be devoting greatly increased local energy and local resources to solving local problems.
- Coming years will see faster and more efficient local solutions to local problems, worked out by local people, than could ever be hoped for through a national bureaucratic system.

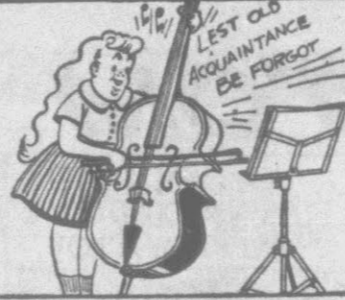

This is much more than a matter of tax money—although federal programs in these areas have reached multi-billion dollar proportions. It's a matter of principle, and a matter of our futures and our children's futures.

We here at the National Chamber urge you to join us in making the voice of reason heard—to send your views directly to the men who represent you in government, and to work through your local organizations, using the ideas contained in the National Chamber's COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT SERIES, to achieve growth and progress for your community.

Cordially yours,
James F. Steiner
Manager

A World Of Troubles Will Greet New Year

By JOHN O.B. WALLACE
 NEW YORK (AP)—Late tonight the hands of the clock will merge precisely. Midnight.
 Time, as measured by man, will die for a flashing instant. And instantly it will be reborn.
 The year 1960 ends; 1961 begins. But time, in this brief void, cannot be measured by man as he would measure a meadow—in rods. Nor as he would measure an ocean—in miles.
 Time, in this instant, is a heartbeat and can be found in the hearts of men—some heavy with anguish, some light with hope.
 Pope John XXIII, at his special New Year's audience for diplomats, spoke of the anxiety in his heart. But he also said he was searching on the dawn of this new year "to find in the uncertainty of an agitated world, some glimmer promising serenity."

 As the 79-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church spoke, there was anguish and strife on three continents.
 Despite the "little black spots" disturbing the horizon—the pontiff said he hoped 1961 would be a year "of spiritual renewal and of harmony between heaven and earth."
 As the old year came to a close, Pope John XXIII, at his special New Year's audience for diplomats, spoke of the anxiety in his in Laos. In Europe, it was rioting in Belgium. In Africa, it was war between opposing factions in the Congo, and racial tension further to the south.

 So, on the first day of the new year, the head of the world's peace organization, United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, will be flying to some of these trouble spots, seeking peace.
 Hammarskjöld will talk with Congo President Joseph Kasavubu in an effort to avoid possible civil war between followers of Kasavubu and his leading rival, Patrice Lumumba, former Congolese premier now imprisoned by Kasavubu's army.

 Then Hammarskjöld will journey to South Africa to discuss steps aimed at easing the tension caused by South Africa's racial segregation policies.
 Hammarskjöld also will visit Gamal Abdel Nasser, president of the United Arab Republic, and Prime Minister Nehru of India.
 The role of the United Nations meanwhile in New Zealand, a South Pacific nation always sensitive to events in Asia.
 In his New Year message, New Zealand Prime Minister Keith Holyoake said there were some hopeful signs for the future of the United Nations despite the 1960 attacks which threatened its existence.

 For New Zealand, as for all small countries, Holyoake said, attempts to undermine the strength and authority of the U.N. must cause the most serious concern.
 In Asia, Holyoake said, the most immediate danger was Laos—and the trouble there, the prime minister said, could present New Zealand with an important and difficult decision.
 On the home front, 1961 promised to be an eventful year for Americans.
 On Jan. 20, a new president, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, will assume the heavy cares of the most important public office in the free Western world.

LADY in the MARKET

BY FRANCES V. RUMMELL

From the novel "Aunt Jane McPhipps and Her Baby Blue China," published by Prentice-Hall, Inc. © 1960 by Frances V. Rummell. Distributed by King Features.

CHAPTER 19

As if to explain his high spirits that afternoon, August Ernst gestured toward his desk. There, in a litter of corrugated wrappings, Jane saw a gay, impressionistic watercolor of a carousel—and it was so lively that it seemed almost to make its own music.

Mr. Ernst beamed. "I saw it on the Riviera last month," he told her, "and was so taken with it I bought it on the spot. It just arrived."

"Oh, how nice it would be to travel!" Jane explained, then bit her lip in embarrassment. Naturally, as the wife of a well-to-do investment counselor, she had covered the earth liberally, and then some. That is, if Mr. Ernst had asked her. But he did not. Instead, he motioned her to a chair, smiled, "Your Louie star Electronics is doing very nicely. So is Amalgamated Tempus."

At this particular moment, Jane had things far more compelling to think about than her paper profits.

"Some time ago," she began, "a friend gave me the opportunity to buy into Canadian Countess."

Mr. Ernst suddenly looked as if he had a bone caught in his throat. "I assume," he eyed her cautiously, "that you checked into your friend's recommendation."

"Well, not exactly. The facts he gave me seemed to speak for themselves."

"Oh," said Mr. Ernst. Now moving to polish Wally's armor, Jane tried to ignore the grim edge in Mr. Ernst's tone. Taking her class notebook out of her purse, she began reading Wally's various notes about the Countess. She ended with, "We'll sell the place with diamonds before we'll let any shareholders get hurt."

Her listener was sternly unimpressed. "Two questions," he said brusquely. "First, how much did you buy? Second, where did you get that information?"

Jane told Mr. Ernst about her class, about the Golden Girls, Wally, Gertrude Green—everything. She added, "Right now there is some misunderstanding about the stock. It seems that you can't sell it."

There was a long silence. Jane finally added, not too brightly, "I guess you can't sell it because nobody wants to buy it."

Mr. Ernst held out his hand and kindly asked, "May I see the notebook you are referring to?"

She was only too proud to hand it over, and for long minutes the specific information it contained about the location of the property, the number of men already at work, the Canadian tycoon behind it, the coming mergers, and so on, Mr. Ernst asked, "Is this by chance your friend's writing?"

Jane nodded her assurance. "Would you mind telling me his name?"

"It's Wally Goggin."

Mr. Ernst's face was stony as a statue's. Yet when he spoke it was with surprising tenderness. "Canadian Countess," he began, "has caused considerable trouble for some months now. It's a company that started out all right but now exists largely in the minds of an unscrupulous ring of salesmen. Your friend, I'm sorry to say, has been one of the chief offenders. In any case, the stock is now utterly worthless."

Jane's eyes grew wider and wider in disbelief as Mr. Ernst talked.

"California's Blue Sky laws take care of such shady deals," he went on. "That is, if there's something specific in writing upon which to build a case. Young Wally Goggin's notes to you turn the trick."

If Jane no longer had any choice about surrendering her illusions about Wally, Mr. Ernst's genuine concern for her made the wrench less hurtful. Still, the irony of what she had done set all her nerves a quiver.

"To think," she gasped, "that I should be the one to furnish the evidence against poor Wally!"

Explaining that stock market racketeers, or "the boiler room boys," prey on the inexperienced and the gullible, Mr. Ernst emphasized, "They are careful to transact their business by word-of-mouth, and not to put anybody surrendering her illusions a hard time getting at them."

Humming Jane's notebook, he went on to explain that Wally's firm dealt in solid stocks as well as in malodorous ones, and this fact, he felt, was the Golden Girls' trump card.

"I feel," he said confidently, "that the firm will settle out of court. Otherwise, they would have to close their doors." Opining that Gertrude Green would be ecstatic to know that such notes existed and make a lawsuit a mere formality, Mr. Ernst paused thoughtfully and turned to study Jane.

With her head high but her head lowered, and her hands to her cheeks as if in thoughtfulness, Jane was unexpectedly feeling much more than she was thinking—and a little guiltily she realized that what she was feeling had little to do with Wally but everything to do with herself. And Mr. Ernst.

A shrewd and practical observer of human nature, Mr. Ernst was not quite finished with his questions, though he was clearly finished with Canadian Countess for the time being. Smiling broadly, he said, "May I ask you something on an entirely different subject? It comes from personal interest rather than plain curiosity."

Jane looked at him, dropped her hands, and smiled her assent.

Then Mr. Ernst shifted gears and changed his mind. "It's really not a question at all," he spoke softly, "but a comment."

After a long pause, he continued, and regret colored his words.

"Your husband—I do hope you'll not mind my liberties—I've learned that you loved him very much, and I've also learned that he was not an investment man." There was no reproach in his voice, only sorrow that she had found it necessary to have an excuse to come see him—any excuse at all.

Her gentle deception exposed, Jane looked at him and then away, her eyes moistening. All she could say was "Forgive me."

"Forgive you? You're wonderful!"

Suddenly wheeling his chair around, Mr. Ernst reached into the credenza, took out a bottle of port and two glasses, and his eyes were now merry. Holding the bottle high, he beamed, "Let's rev up our spirits! We have all sorts of reasons to celebrate!"

Her preposterous deception about Horace had both amused and intrigued him. He grinned. "Imagination is one of the most interesting things a pretty woman can have." He then kept her talking about herself.

She told about her teaching, her job hunting, and about trying to scale the matterhorn of the market—despite the brokers. Mr. Ernst shook his head at this. "Some of them provide the best argument I know," he admitted with sorrow, "for investors doing their own homework." When she finished with her story of the prize, and Mr. Petry's scolding, Mr. Ernst laughed so hard he got out of his chair and held his stomach. "You cannot escape me now," he said when she left. "I know too much about you!"

(To be continued tomorrow)

Experts Doubt Red China Crop Story

WASHINGTON (AP)—American experts believe Red China is trying to cover up mismanagement of its agriculture by claiming the worst weather in 100 years ruined much of the 1960 crops.

At the same time that the Chinese Communists have kept countless millions hungry under strict rationing, they have been sending sizable exports of food to the outside world, State Department analysts said Friday.

The Red shipments include large amounts to places like Cuba and Guinea where the aim is to promote communism, not economically sensible trade.

Peiping radio says wind, dust and a drought that almost dried up the Great Yellow River in 1960 affected 150 million acres of farmland, half of Communist China's total cultivated acreage.

U. S. authorities estimate that actually, the Reds' 1960 harvest roughly equaled that of the year before and was close to average. They admit China suffered some natural disasters, but doubt they were of the size proclaimed by Red propagandists.

They think the Peiping regime perhaps is trying to set the stage for another revision of its farm statistics.

Past Communist Chinese agricultural figures have proved phony on their face.

For example: for 1959, Peiping originally set a target of 525 million metric tons of grains. This was later chopped down to 275 million tons, which Peiping said was a 10 per cent boost over the previous year.

Following the 1959 season the regime then reported it had actually harvested 270 million tons—and declared it had exceeded the target, which it listed as 250 million tons.

No figures were publicly proclaimed for the 1960 grain harvest. It was said to be an increase of 10 per cent over the actual 1959 harvest which would make the goal 297 million tons for 1960.

According to U. S. estimates, the actual Red Chinese harvest for 1959 came to about 30 per cent less than what Peiping claimed, or about 190 million tons.

China is believed to be rationing both to make more efficient use of food supplies and as a method of control over the citizenry.

Washington officials have no reports of actual famine in Communist China, nor has Peiping claimed this.

Jarvis Memorial Announcements

Student Recognition Day will be observed by Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church on Sunday, while the students are home for the holidays. A special service will be held Sunday at 11 a.m. Those participating include Responsive Call to Worship by Clark Brewer; Litany of Prayer and Intercession, Godfrey Oakley Jr.; Scripture Reading, Melinda Coleman; Morning Prayer, Howard Garner; Duet, "Mary's Carol," by Bunny and Millie Overton; the anthem "A New Year's Carol," with solo by Anne Parkison; and talks by Madge Stancill, Joe Moyer Jr. and Charles Taft, Rev. H. M. McLamb, pastor, will recognize the students and lead them in an act of dedication.

Below is a list of the church's college students:

A New Year's Eve Communion Service will be held Saturday at 11 p.m.

The Lord's Supper will also be observed Sunday, January 1, at 9 a.m.

There will be no Communion Sunday at 11:00, as the Official Board has voted to devote the regular morning service to an observance of Student Recognition Day.

The pastor will start a series of Sunday night sermons on "The Holy Habits of the Christian Life" Sunday evening at 7:30. Sunday's subject will be "I Attend Church Regularly."

Special music will be provided this Sunday by a choir composed of members of Ada Cherry, Lydia Wooten and Wesley Philaetha classes.

The Sunday night services will be broadcast by radio station WGTC during January, February and March.

The public is cordially invited to all the services of this church.
