A Pitt County native, James began his law practice in Greenville following his graduation from the University of North Carolina School of Law. He is currently associated with the James and Hile legal firm here.

He is one of the founders of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association here and has held the position of president of that organization since its origin in 1937.

To Parade

Greenville's two National Guard units are scheduled to "move out" early tomorrow for participation in the Raleigh inauguration ceremonies for Governor-elect Terry Sanford.

Guard spokesmen said today a total of some 85 local Guardsmen will participate. Both batteries, A and B, of the 4th Howitzer Battalion stationed here will join forces with other NG units around the state to take part in tomorrow's inaugural parade.

Battery A is scheduled to send 40 men. Battery B has 43 lined up and ready to go. The units' personnel will assemble at the local armory on Evans St. around 5:30 a.m. tomorrow.

All men will be in full dress and will be bearing rifles with bayonets.

Nuclear Reactor Blows Up Killing 3; Building 'Hot'

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — A new-style nuclear reactor blew up Tuesday night, killed three men and touched off a high level of deadly radiation in a building at one of America's major atomic testing stations.

The Atomic Energy Commission quickly sealed off the area and said there was no danger to other parts of the station or Idaho Falls, a city of 34,000 persons 40 miles away.

But the building itself was so "radioactively hot" that only one of the three bodies could be recovered in the first nine hours after the blast.

A team of radiological experts, eerily looking in their baggy white suits with heavy protective shoes, gloves and mask, shuttled in and out of the building to inspect damage and test the radiation.

They went in one at a time and could stay only minutes. The AEC said it would send airplanes aloft to check the level and direction of radiation. A southwest wind, however, was blowing at the time and would take any radiation over barren wastelands away from populated areas.

The three victims, identified only as an Air Force man and two Army men, were operating the reactor known as "Stationary Low Power Reactor No. 1." It is a prototype of a small mobile reactor being developed for use by the Army in remote areas.

The accident occurred at 9:30 p.m. The three men killed were the only ones in the building. At least 60 are on duty there in the daytime.

It was the first fatal accident in 11 years of operation at the National Reactor Testing Station, a major AEC installation.

It may be weeks before the AEC knows exactly what happened. But a spokesman said it apparently was a chemical explosion.

About 4,500 permanent employees work at the station west of here and the AEC said it planned no changes in their schedules today.

The engine for America's first atomic submarine was developed at the site and tests are now being conducted there on a variety of projects, including the power plant for an atomic airplane.

The radiological crew members placed together this picture of the explosion:

The experimental reactor, being developed as a portable source of electric power and heat for the armed forces, apparently "blew its top."

The reactor and the boiling water in which it is immersed are housed in a metal shell which was not penetrated. This is capped by a metal cover through which fuel and control rods run to reach the enriched uranium core of the reactor.

The reactor is housed in the basement, where the explosion apparently occurred. The blast did not appear to have penetrated

Diplomatic Relations With Castro Cuba Are Broken Off By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has broken U.S. diplomatic relations with Fidel Castro's Cuban regime, declaring "the limit has now been reached . . . to what the United States in self respect can endure."

The President said "our sympathy goes out to the people of Cuba now suffering under the yoke of a dictator."

The White House announcement of the break-off Tuesday night marked rock bottom in a downward plunge of U.S.-Cuban relations that started soon after Castro's capture of power two years ago. Castro's anti-United States attacks and his surge to the Communist camp have mounted over the months.

The bearded Cuban leader reacted to Eisenhower's statement by saying, "We are alert." He called his Cabinet into emergency session, then sent a note to the U.S. Embassy guaranteeing safety of all remaining Americans.

A State Department spokesman said the break did not affect the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay in Cuba. Castro has made threats against the base. The United States says it holds an unlimited, no-time-limit lease on the installation.

Eisenhower served notice last Nov. 1 that the United States "will take whatever steps may be appropriate to defend the base."

President-elect John F. Kennedy declined comment on the diplomatic break. He was given advance word on the president's action.

The end to U.S.-Cuban relations had been long expected. Yet it was dramatic. The break cut Washington-Havana ties for the first time since America's fighting men had freed Cuba from Spain at the turn of the century.

The last straw snapping Washington's forbearance policy was Castro's demand, delivered to the U.S. Embassy in Havana early Tuesday that all but 11 of the U.S. diplomats get out of Cuba within 48 hours.

American authorities from Eisenhower down saw this as a calculated insult. They figured the U.S. Embassy could hardly operate with only 11 men—fewer than the number of guards alone need-

Public Hearing Thursday Night Will Pose Major Test For Urban Renewal

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Urban Renewal will face a major test tomorrow night as the City Council holds a public hearing at 8 o'clock in the City Hall court room.

Specifically, Urban Renewal will not be the issue, however. The hearing was called by the City Council on the question of whether or not the city should establish a Public Housing Authority.

It is possible that the proposed

Urban Renewal project might not be attainable without some public housing. A survey by William I. Cochran, executive director of the Urban Renewal Commission, showed that more standard housing than private enterprise had indicated a willingness to provide would be necessary for the slum clearance project.

Thus on Dec. 9, the Urban Renewal Commission requested the City Council to immediately establish a Public Housing Authority.

Gay Atmosphere For Inauguration

RALEIGH (AP)—Youthful Terry Sanford spent his final day as a private citizen today brushing up on the ritual connected with his inauguration Thursday as North Carolina's governor.

Meanwhile, Sanford's staffers and state workers continued preparing the Capital city for the whirl of social and official functions which begin tonight and end Thursday.

When all is over, Sanford officially and formally will have succeeded outgoing Gov. Luther H. Hodges as Tar Heel chief executive. Hodges then will move on to Washington as secretary of commerce in President-elect John Kennedy's cabinet.

A holiday atmosphere pervaded historic Fayetteville Street today. A reviewing stand, bleachers and red, white and blue bunting were put up to convert Raleigh's main street into the official parade route.

Today's events included formal opening of a special exhibit featuring gowns of past first ladies of the state at the Hall of History reception at the State Art Museum was scheduled for members of the General Assembly. Later tonight comes the traditional Inaugural Ball, a white tie and tail affair for Sanford and other dignitaries.

The main pomp and pageantry associated with the changing of the guard comes Thursday.

At noon, Sanford will take the oath of office in the main ceremony at Raleigh's Memorial Auditorium at the far end of Fayetteville Street. Then he delivers his inaugural address.

Thursday morning full military honors will be rendered Hodges and his wife at the Governor's Mansion and a long escort parade will accompany Hodges and Sanford and other members of the inaugural party from the mansion to the auditorium.

After the inaugural address, Sanford will move to the reviewing stand and watch the long, inaugural parade up Fayetteville Street.

Then comes a brief ceremony at the Capitol, during which Hodges will give Sanford the Great Seal of the State. Later Hodges will entertain Sanford and inaugural dignitaries at a special luncheon.

In addition to Sanford and Hodges, Lieutenant Gov.-elect H. Cloyd Philpott, members of the Council of State and Atty. Gen. Wade Brulson will participate in the inaugural ceremonies.

Out-of-state dignitaries include U.S. Atty. Gen.-designate Robert F. Kennedy, President-elect Kennedy's brother, South Carolina Gov. Ernest Hollings and Virginia Gov. Lindsay Almond.

J. M. Butterworth Appointed Fill Out Term As Bethel Mayor

BETHEL—Former treasurer of the Bethel Board of Aldermen, J. M. Butterworth, was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Clifton W. Everett as mayor.

Everett submitted his resignation in order to take his post as recently elected representative to the North Carolina General Assembly.

J. R. Cullifer was selected to replace Butterworth as treasurer on the Board of Aldermen. The board appointed S. C. Ives, cashier of a Bethel bank, to fill the vacancy caused by Butterworth's appointment as mayor.

Butterworth, before his appointment last night, was serving his fourth year as an alderman and was treasurer of the town board. He will remain in office until about July 1. Election of the mayorship will take place this spring.

In the merchantile business in Bethel, Butterworth is married to the former Frances Manning. Their three children are Cotten, M. Butterworth, and Joe Jr., 4. He last night to fill the unexpired term of Clifton W. Everett as mayor.

Everett served in the U.S. Navy with active duty overseas for two years. He returned to the United States and completed his service assignment by teaching navigation for the Navy at the University of Notre Dame for one year. He is a native of Baltimore, Md.

Everett was elected to serve as representative to the N.C. General Assembly in the November elections. He was completing a two-year term as mayor. Prior to his election as mayor of Bethel, Everett had served as town attorney for many years.

Other business taken up by the town Board at last night's meeting was the official renewal of the town's contract with Virginia Power and Light Co. for 30 years.

MAYOR BUTTERWORTH

Pitt Commissioners Conclude Meet With Routine Reports

Pitt County's Board of Commissioners yesterday afternoon granted permission for a minor structural revision in the County Office Building and heard routine reports in winding up its regular January meeting.

The office change proposed for the offices of the Farmers Home Administration, will be undertaken pending approval for funds from the federal government. The project involves no county expense.

Ben White of the county FHA branch, said the operation will involve the removing of one partition to enlarge the FHA reception office, one of four offices occupied by the agency.

The commissioners granted permission on the condition a qualified architect approves the project. The architect's approval was required to insure against creation of overall structural defects by the change in the old hospital building.

In other action, the board "reluctantly declined" a donation to the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association on the grounds that it felt the association could have been more cooperative with county agencies.

The association requested a donation of $250—the same amount contributed by the county last year.

Discussion showed the board may reconsider the donation at a later date, pending further developments.

Reports heard by the board included:

A report on the final expenses of the county garage from the County Board of Education. Total cost, including land, equipment and paving, was reported as $61,639.96.

A report from H. R. Gray, county auditor, that $350,000 in county funds had been invested for 90 days in U.S. Treasury Notes at slightly above 2 per cent interest. Gray also reported $198,000 in hospital funds invested. He said the hospital funds would earn a total of $7,000 during the investment period.

A Development Commission report showed the county industry-hunting agency had a balance of slightly more than $8,000 after November expense.

Concerning the investments, Gray told the commissioners county investment annually earns about three to four cents of the tax rate.

The board approved payment of its 1961 service fees to the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners. The association, this year, will supply the board with weekly Legislative Bulletins reporting the action of the state's General Assembly to convene soon. The fees total $399.

The commissioners approved payment of the final $1,400 for the Stokes-Peterson High School agriculture teacher's home built in 1947. Funds for the payment will come from that school district's debt service budget.

Dr. Robert Lee Humber, State Senator, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Credit Women's Breakfast Club held last night.

Dr. Humber spoke on "Unlocking the Future by Writing It Right" and "The Credit Bureau."

"It is essential to know the eight parts of speech," he stated. "These parts of speech are used throughout the world."

The ability of putting words together was stressed by Humber. "When putting words together, as used in a letter or speech, it is important to keep our minds from becoming confused and usage of our words in the right case."

"The English language is so vast and rich that words do not have to be repeated. Two things that help make a good letter are neatness and simplicity," he commented.

Credit Bureau
"Credit is a great instrument in the development of society. Credit is based on confidence and installment buying is encouraged in America," noted Humber.

In the Credit Department, the setting and adopting of the Credit policy is usually accomplished by the credit sales manager working closely with the owner or manager of the firm. The details of following the policy are usually carried out by members of the staff in the credit department. There are, in general, two broad classifications of credit policies: a "firm" or conservative policy and a "liberal" policy.

The following plans were outlined by the club, as sponsors, for the March of Dimes Campaign that will be held this month. An "Announce-a-Thon" by Jimmie Newman starting January 13, Roadblock, Jim Harris; Mother's March Mrs. Lacy Harrell; Coffee Day, Dr. Kenneth L. Quiggins; Blue Crutch, Valinda Whichard; Mailers, members of the CWBC; and a March-a-Thon, ROTC of East Carolina College.

Special called meetings of the club will be held January 10 and January 17. The meeting on the 17th will be held at Planter's National Bank at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Annette Chauncey, Guilford Worsley and Dr. Humber were recognized as special guests of the club.

Getaway Car And Clothes Of Bank Robber Are Found

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Officers have found the getaway car and the clothing, but the tall, thin man who robbed a bank here of $1,450 Tuesday has eluded them so far.

"We are still pursuing a lot of leads," Donald Roney, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, said today. "But we haven't got him yet."

The gunman, wearing dark glasses, a dark raincoat buttoned up tight, and a hat pulled low, robbed the Park Road Shopping Center branch of the First Union National Bank. Many of the 15 to 20 customers were unaware that a holdup was in progress.

"He came to my desk in the front of the bank and asked about a loan," said manager John B. Roberts. "I reached into my desk drawer for the forms and when I looked up he was holding a small automatic pistol."

The gunman told Roberts to go to one of the four female tellers on duty and get the money.

"He said if I made any outcry, he would shoot me or one of the girls," Roberts said.

Roberts chose the station of Mrs. Velma Wall, a teller who is the wife of Mecklenburg County Police Sgt. John K. Wall.

"Don't panic," Roberts warned as another teller, Mrs. Harriet Stowe, noticed his actions and realized what was happening.

The gunman left within three or four minutes. Mrs. Wall immediately called her husband and police sped toward the scene, along with FBI agents, within minutes.

Two hours later, officers found an abandoned car, fitting the description of the getaway car. It had been left in a fashionable residential area of Charlotte.

The car—which had been reported stolen earlier in the day from a Huntersville man who had stayed overnight with his ill father at a hospital here—contained a raincoat, dark glasses and hat such as the robber wore.

Bank Merger Is Effective Today

The merger of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company and the Commercial National Bank of Kinston became effective today.

The addition of Commercial National's five offices in Kinston, Morehead City and Sea Level means more complete statewide coverage for Wachovia customers here, J. H. Waldrop, senior vice president, said, and gives the bank 73 offices in 28 cities and towns from the mountains to the coast.

Kinston is a trading center for a prosperous agricultural area of eastern North Carolina and its bright-leaf tobacco market is one of the four largest in the world.

Morehead City, one of North Carolina's major state ports, is also a popular resort center, and the Sea Level Office serves one of the state's leading commercial fishing areas.

Joe Hunt To Be Tapped House Speaker Today

RALEIGH (AP) — Democrats in the State House of Representatives today were to clear the groundwork in preparation for the convening Feb. 8 of the 1961 General Assembly.

At a caucus scheduled for 5:30 p.m., they were to nominate Guilford County Rep. Joe Hunt of Greensboro House speaker and pick a principal clerk, reading clerk and sergeant at arms.

This would enable Hunt to name his committee chairman before the formal opening of the Legislature and grease the skids for serious legislation early in the session.

Expected were all House Democrats except Brunswick County's S. Bunn Frink, who was in Florida.

Those nominated at the caucus will be up for election during the opening House session Feb. 8.

Hunt, the only man in the running for the speakership, expected the caucus to be brief.

Also in town today were members of the State Democratic Executive Committee, who were to meet earlier in the afternoon and pick a successor to Paul H. Thompson as national committee man.

Thompson, who announced his resignation so he could devote more time to his business and family, will be replaced by Henry Hall Wilson of Monroe, the man recommended by Gov.-elect Sanford.

The Executive Committee has powers only to nominate a successor to Thompson. Final action must wait until the next state Democratic convention.

Ayden Tag Sales Begun Tuesday

AYDEN—City tag sales in Ayden on Tuesday, the first day of sales, totaled about 50 up to 2 p.m.

Wife Moved Into Second Account

DENVER (AP) — This is about a Denver man who, like so many husbands, has a joint checking account with his wife at the bank. Only for poker winnings and similar windfalls.

One day a vice president called him into his office and showed him a check written on the separate account and signed with the man's name. The signature was almost identical — but not quite — to the man's own handwriting. But the man said he'd be glad to approve it. He recognized the handwriting. It was his wife's.

Rodanthe Prepares For Old Christmas

RODANTHE, N.C. (AP) — Old Neal, the daughter of John Herbert, keeper of Old Buck and a retired Coast Guardsman, Mrs. of a 300-year-old drum and a Herbert, his wife, is one of the oyster roasts will mark the celebration of Old Christmas Friday at this Outer Banks village.

The formal observance of Old Christmas comes Thursday, but those in charge of arrangements pushed the date back to Friday to enable former Rodanthe residents, now living out of town to return for the celebration.

In most areas of the world which observe Old Christmas, the festivities and holiday occur Jan. 6, the date of Epiphany or 12th Night.

Why Rodanthe observes Old Christmas formally the day before is still up for speculation. The natives don't know and have stopped trying to find out.

Researchers believe it may be because 11 days were lost when Great Britain and her colonies adopted the present calendar in 1753.

Old Buck, "the wild bull of Cape Hatteras Woods," will make his annual appearance during the festivities and this year will be sporting a new set of horns sent down by an interested New Yorker.

Miss of ceremonies at the minstrel will be Mrs. Janzania O'Neal.

A raven is always kept in the Tower of London. The tradition stems from Charles II, who predicted England would fall if ravens ever left the Tower.

Three At Large In 2 Jailbreaks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One youth was hospitalized with buckshot wounds, another was back behind bars and three were still at large today as a result of two prison breaks Tuesday in North Carolina.

Guard Jerry Walters shot and stopped one of two young convicts who broke from a road gang working near Lillington out of the Sanford County unit. The other kept running.

Three 18-year-old prisoners fled a work gang near Franklinton, but one was recaptured hours later at Lenoir County and returned to the Vance County Prison Camp for youthful offenders.

Jimmie Lee Jones, 21, of Pink Hill suffered buckshot wounds in his back and neck when he bolted from Walters' gang. He was transferred to the Central Prison Hospital in Raleigh, and was listed in good condition.

His companion, Franklin Yates Byrd, 21, of Clayton kept running and eluded a hastily summoned posse Tuesday night.

The three Vance County inmates suddenly ran into woods while working on a road several miles east of Franklinton.

Prisons Director George Randall said Guard Kenneth B. Hill was fired for what he called major custodial negligence. Randall said Hill had not placed the convicts in proper position for guarding and had failed to fire at them.

Recaptured shortly afterwards was Walter Ray Cox of Rt. 2, Star.

Still at large were Daniel E. Garner of Winston-Salem and Walter E. Moore of Metter, Ga.

Jones was serving three to five years for breaking and entering. He had been in prison since Nov. 4, Byrd, who entered prison Sept. 2, was serving eight months for car theft and carrying a concealed weapon and 1½ more years for two previous escapes.

Garner was in for five to 15 years for armed robbery; Cox for 18 to 36 months for larceny and receiving and Moore three to five years for breaking, entering and larceny.

Not Falkland

The Fountain elementary school has decreased in enrollment over a period of years to the point that by the end of this year, the school probably will lose one teacher, becoming a six-teacher school.

A story reporting the Pitt County School board meeting in Tuesday's edition of the Daily Reflector erroneously stated that the Falkland elementary school would lose a teacher.

The Daily Reflector regrets the error was made.

LAOTIAN REFUGEES ON THE MOVE—Young and adult refugees fled from the fighting area into Vientiane, Laos' administrative capital, during last month's battling between rightist and leftwing forces. The rightwingers later drove the leftists out of the city. This week, many residents who could afford to do so were leaving Vientiane in view of government reports of Communist gains over the weekend. (AP Wirephoto)

Ports Authority Will Try Raise Its Own Money

RALEIGH (AP) — The Ports Authority will try a friendly law suit to see whether it can finance a $14.5 million expansion program with its own revenue bonds.

Members said they felt the revenue bond approach would be "the fastest possible way" to raise money for new ports facilities.

The authority also voted to channel into the state treasury $100,000 of the $153,000 it has cleared this year from its ports operations.

Authority Chairman John M. Reeves said the state ports are crowded and losing business each day they go without expanded facilities.

If the $14.5 million program were to be financed through a statewide bond referendum, he said, an extra year would be required for action by the General Assembly and Tar Heel citizens in a bond referendum.

He said, "If the Supreme Court rules we can't finance the program without revenue bonds, we will then go to the public."

Reeves said the Legislature several years ago authorized the authority to issue its own bonds. However, investment bankers and attorneys have recommended that the agency go to court to clear up legal questions.

The state can use the $100,000 turned over by the authority however it wishes, but it is expected to apply the money to a $7.5 million bond issue floated in 1949 to finance ports construction.

The court action would decide these two questions:

1. Will the revenue bonds constitute an official debt of the state or just an obligation of the Ports Authority? Law forbids incurring a state debt without a vote of the people.

2. Must the authority pay off the 1949 state bond issue before it can issue its own bonds?

Hefty Sitter Is Lifted Off Perch

Break In Relations With Cuba Was Long In Coming But Felt Inevitable

By HAROLD K. MILKS

HAVANA (AP) — The break in diplomatic relations between the United States and Fidel Castro's Cuba was long in coming but many here for a long time believed it was inevitable.

Observers said it appeared the bearded revolutionary had no intention of getting along with Washington almost from the time he came out of the hills of eastern Cuba to take power two years ago.

Why Castro took this aggressive stand is disputed here. But a majority of foreign diplomats in Havana agree that the Castro regime never opened the way for normal diplomatic relations with the United States.

After he flew to the United States early in 1959, Castro is said to have expressed resentment to intimates over his failure to meet either President Eisenhower or Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. He expected Eisenhower and Herter to make overtures to him, telling his associates he could not seek such meetings himself and "still face my people."

Nearly a year after this visit, two American reporters were booted out of Cuba after reporting Castro had expressed willingness to meet Eisenhower or Herter in the interests of peace.

Claim Deliberate Lies About Laos

MOSCOW (AP) — Izvestia represented the Eisenhower administration Tuesday night as deliberately lying about Communist intervention in Laos.

The government newspaper said word that Communist forces had invaded Laos was a Washington invention "so false and clumsy that America's allies, especially Britain, refuse to support it."

Hollywood's Time Of Decision Draws Near

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Will 1961 be the year of decision for Hollywood and its apparent determination to make movies more adult than ever?

High industry sources talk officially in cliché-coated denials. But unofficially they are seriously worried about charges of the Roman Catholic bishops and influential Protestant and Jewish clergymen.

One top studio executive sees 1961 as the most critical period in Hollywood since the early 1930s when the Fatty Arbuckle scandal almost killed off the then infant industry.

"The shock appeal of such raw films as 'Butterfield 8' and 'The Apartment' have brought millions at the boxoffice, and now we have 'Lolita' with us," he says.

The producer isn't against sex per se but believes that Hollywood has ill-timed its accent on adultery, homosexuality, dope and other frank screen themes.

"These are adult themes, but go to a movie house and try to find adults. The theaters are filled with impressionable teen-agers. They're the bulk of the audience."

The executive started in the business as a theater owner and recounts a personal experience.

"My theater did a nice business on family pictures such as 'Andy Hardy' and the like. Then one day we got greedy and bought a shocking exploitation picture on marijuana. It did double the business our family pictures had done, so we booked more of the same.

"I didn't take long for the shock appeal to wear off. Business dropped to nothing. Even worse, our cashier quit because her pastor had asked her to. We soon found that it became a major crisis just to hire a popcorn girl. Nice girls just didn't want to work for us."

"Finally, we lost so much money that we boarded up the theater—and last I heard it was still boarded up."

"Hollywood," says another executive, "is a cash register factory, not an art museum. We only give the public what it wants. If our pictures aren't good for kids, then it's up to the parents to keep their kids away from them."

Four Collisions Here Yesterday

An estimated $680 damage was reported by Greenville Police in four collisions investigated here yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Harding Past of 610 Elm St. was charged with failure to keep a proper lookout while backing following a collision in front of her home at 10:45 a.m.

Officers said the Past vehicle was struck by a car driven by Helen M. Hahn, 1105 Ragsdale Road, as it was backing from the driveway.

Damage to the Hahn car was set at $150 while damage to the Past car was placed at $100.

An estimated $200 damage was done to a car operated by Harvey Dean Bullock, 17, of 300 Elizabeth St. when it was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Ray E. Jones, 22, of Route 6, Statesville, on 10th St. in front of Umstead Hall at ECC.

Both drivers were charged by officers; Bullock with improper passing and Jones with failure to give a turn signal.

Damage to the Jones car was set at $30. No injuries were reported.

Cars driven by Ruby Boyd Hodges, Route 1, Greenville and Major Flemming, 50-year-old Negro of Route 1, Ayden, collided yesterday about 10:50 p.m. at the intersection of Pitt and Brown Sts., causing an estimated $75 damage to the Flemming auto, and about $50 damage to the Hodges car.

Following investigation of the wreck, Mrs. Hodges was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

No charges were placed when vehicles operated by Harold E. Aldin, 41, of 2308 E. Third St. and Fred A. Worthington, 40, of Route 1, Winterville collided on Evans St. near the intersection of Third St. at 5:58 p.m.

Damage to the Aldin car was placed at $30 while damage to the Worthington truck was set at $40.

Freezing Cold In Much Of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Freezing weather prevailed in the major part of the country today but a warming trend was indicated over most of the chilled areas.

Below zero temperatures were reported in only a few spots outside the mountain areas as the warmer air spread into the Rocky Mountain region and headed eastward.

The mercury dropped to only 11 above in International Falls, Minn., after a couple of mornings of 30 below readings. At Fraser, in the Colorado Rockies, the low was -19 but in Madison, Wis., the mercury climbed from -4 to 5 above during the early morning.

Some areas in Montana reported above freezing marks.

The below freezing belt covered all sections except the extreme southern part of the country, along the Pacific and along the Atlantic Coast as far north as Virginia.

Light snow and snow flurries fell during the night and morning in the Great Lakes region, eastern parts of the Ohio Valley and the northern Appalachians.

Snow squalls hit western and central New York, with heavy falls in some areas. Six inches was reported in Hamburg, a village south of Buffalo, which reported three inches. A heavy blanket covered a 30-mile stretch from Depew, near Buffalo, to Leroy.

The speed on the New York Thruway from the normal 60 to 35 m.p.h.

Realistic Vote Part Of Training

SHAKER HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — Youngsters at Woodbury Junior High School are given a chance to participate in a realistic election as part of their citizenship training.

Dr. Donald A. Wesley of the Social Studies Department explained in a recent issue of the Ohio Education Association's magazine that there is a residence requirement (a month) for new students, permanent registration to vote during all three years of attendance, voting booths furnished by the city, student election workers and close adherence to adult voting procedures.

Eager, But His Query Put Off

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The City Council was considering proposed changes in regulations on bee keeping when Mayor Don Hummel asked if there were "any questions about the birds and bees?"

James Kirk's hand went up. "Later," said the mayor.

Kirk is the only bachelor on the Council.

An Open Letter To The City Council

Subject: Urban Renewal and Public Housing
From: Mrs. J. E. Nobles, Sr.

Dear Boys:

I am a seventy-four year old widow who owns her home in the Shore Drive Project who has reason to believe that her house is going to be condemned and sold at public auction to some private citizen in order that he may go into private business.

I just don't feel that this is right and feel compelled to tell you so publicly. To me such action goes one step beyond socialism or communism in that the condemned property is taken by the government and then sold to another individual.

I further read in the local paper a statement allegedly made by Mayor West to the effect that this Urban Renewal and Public Housing program had to be rushed through before more opposition is formed. If Mayor West's program will not stand public inspection or if he feels that this or any other program should be passed without giving the voters of this city an opportunity to express their approval or disapproval, I sincerely feel that he should not hold public office in this country.

I understand also that Mayor West is in the construction business and that the P.S. West Construction Co. builds buildings of the type that it is said will be constructed in the condemned area. If this be true certainly Mayor West would stand to gain financially if this project goes through and his company should receive the contract to construct some of these buildings. Now, if all this is true, doesn't Mayor West have a conflict of interest in this matter and shouldn't he be requested not to vote on matters concerning it? Think twice, Boys.

So much for Mayor West. Dr. Aldridge, you are a fine local dentist and, as all good medical men, you oppose socialized medicine at every opportunity. How could one possibly oppose socialized medicine and promote socialized housing or socialized development of business property at the same time? I don't think you will. Surely, you will be the first to see the folly of such thinking.

So much for Dr. Aldridge. Now, just a short word to Wesley Harvey, Mr. Stafford and Charlie King. You three have been in Greenville a long time. Charlie and Wesley were born here and Mr. Stafford has been here many years. I just don't know what to say to you. If you allow Greenville to be run by socialistic ideas, condemnation without justification, and undemocratic tactics we will be in one pretty bad fix. Some will feel the effects immediately as I will, but let all be well aware of the fact that they, too, will be victims sooner or later.

Sincerely,
Argen Nobles
(Mrs. J. E., Sr.)

P.S. I have so many things on my mind lately, I almost forgot to tell you that I don't believe that it is in the best interest of the city to appoint city officials or people who have been here only a short time to the various special boards and committees and please, please help us to keep our local ministers whose churches are not involved in this project out of politics.

Young men, if I have offended you, I have failed; but if I have stimulated your thinking I will have accomplished my purpose — and remember what young Andy Jackson said, "What's right is the law."

Castro said he could not have made this overture because it would have been misunderstood as a sign of weakness on his part. Veteran reporters interpreted this as a sign Castro wanted relations with the United States only on his own terms—if at all.

Castro's seizure of the billion-dollar American investment in Cuba was pushed vigorously, accompanied by violent propaganda blasts at American "monopolists" and "economic imperialism". Attempts by the U.S. government to discuss compensation were brushed aside or ignored.

U.S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal

—a veteran career diplomat with a reputation for getting along with Latin American leaders—found himself completely stymied.

It took Bonsal months to arrange a meeting with Castro in an effort to smooth relations—and then nothing came of it.

When anti-Castro activity broke out in Havana, the rift in U.S.-Cuban relations grew into a wide breach.

For most of 1960 the United States and Cuba had diplomatic relations in name only.

Castro officials repeatedly disregarded normal diplomatic practices. Several American Embassy officials, normally given diplomatic immunity, were arrested. Castro blamed the United States for the bad relations, charging Washington committed repeated aggression against Cuba and supported anti-Castro forces.

The United States said Castro was at fault, claiming he and his regime were engaging in an anti-American propaganda campaign that shamed the German experts of Hitler's day and were systematically driving American interests out of Cuba.

Repeatedly during the last 12 months, one crisis after another threatened a rupture of relations.

Winterville 64 Chicod 58

WINTERVILLE—Coach Blaine Moye's Wolves unleashed a hot-shooting quint in the second half to overtake Chicod and post a 64-58 victory, thus sweeping a Pitt County doubleheader—the girls winning 63-28.

Hot-handed James Braxton poured in 18 points, most of them coming in the second, to trigger the Winterville come-from-behind victory.

The Wolves were down by 13 points at one time in the third period but a perked up defense plus some hot shooting zoomed Winterville in front late in the final period.

Winterville ripped the nets for 39 points in the final half while Chicod hit only 24.

Steve Worthington, with 13, and Bobby Hobgood, with 12, joined Braxton in the scoring act.

Ray Fornes kept his 20 plus average intact with a 23 point effort. Bobby Elks followed with 12.

The host girls remained undefeated in league competition by starting fast and coasting to a 63-28 win in the opener.

Carolyn Barnes contributed 36 points and her running mate, Carolyn Carter, had 16.

Mary Louis Hudson had 13 for Chicod.

Farmville 61 Grimesland 58

GRIMESLAND—Farmville's Red Devils started to roll in the final half of their Pitt County struggle with Grimesland and went on to chalk up a 61-58 victory—their first of the season.

Grimesland's hot-and-cold club rallied for a 29-26 halftime lead but faltered in the final half under the hot performance of senior J. Y. Monk.

Monk, playing his first game of the season, added the needed scoring punch to Farmville's attack with 20 points. Reason was a close second with 17.

Lindsey Hardee led the scoring parade for Grimesland with 26. Carlton Hardee netted 14.

The Farmville girls racked up their first win at the expense of Grimesland by the tune of 34-20.

The punchless Grimesland attack could never muster any sort of attack with their biggest quarter being a six-point second period.

Betty Morgan fired in 17 of Grimesland's 20 points. Williams was high for Farmville with 14.

Grimesland will meet Bath Friday night here.

Grifton 48 Ayden 43

GRIFTON—Grifton blew an early lead here last night but finished strong with a fourth quarter barrage of baskets to nose once-beaten Ayden, 48-43, in a Pitt County tussle.

Center Billy Mahler pumped in 24 points and grabbed a large share of rebounds as Grifton won their eighth straight and edged closer to league-leading Bethel.

The victory was the sixth for Grifton in seven starts within the conference. They are 10-1 over-all.

With a 16-point third quarter spurt, Ayden cut the lead to 36-35. Mahler and Alan Jackson, who finished with 11 points, paced the final quarter attack.

William Edwards dumped in 12 points for the losers and Clem McLamhorn netted 11.

John Smith and Jane Mewborn—Grifton's one-two scoring punch—collaborated in the evening's opener to smash Ayden's lasses, 54-41.

Smith, with 30 points, and Mewborn, with 18, warmed up in the second period after trailing 14-13 in the first quarter.

Harris was tops for Ayden with 33 points.

Carolina Yankees Pace College Basketball Scene

By DON WEISS

Art Heyman, one New Yorker who Frank McGuire couldn't nail, continues to drive Duke's Blue Devils to a solid national rating while establishing himself as one of the top sophomores of the new college basketball season.

The 28 points represented a record for the new Greensboro, N.C., Coliseum and earned Heyman an award as the game's outstanding player.

Coincidentally, one of Heyman's Rockville Center neighbors—soph John Pungor of North Carolina State—played a key role in Tuesday night's college activity that also saw Vanderbilt stretch its two-season win streak to 11. Virginia Tech established itself as the team to beat in the West Virginia-dominated Southern Conference, and touted Georgia Tech right itself just in time for the start of the Southeastern Conference season.

Pungor, who broke into North Carolina State's starting lineup last week, scored 25 points—19 in the first half—as the Wolfpack routed Virginia 94-71 in an Atlantic Coast Conference test. Vanderbilt, with an 80-57 romp over Sewanee, and 6-foot-6 Chris Smith fired 19 points and grabbed 26 rebounds as VPI made it 3-0 in Southern Conference doings, 73-63 over The Citadel. The Citadel game whipped West Virginia, which has monopolized the conference championships for years. In another Southern conference game, Jerry Smith's 24 points led Furman (8-2) over William and Mary 78-56.

Georgia Tech, runner-up to Auburn for the SEC title last year with most of its top team intact, squared its record at 5-5 with an 85-65 whipping of South Carolina behind a 27-point burst by Roger Kaiser.

In opening firing in the Southwest Conference race, Texas A&M got 29 points and 13 rebounds from Carroll Broussard in an 82-69 triumph over TCU; and Del Ray Mounts triggered Texas Tech from a 13-point deficit to a 70-68 upset of SMU, first Tech victory over the Mustangs in 13 years. Mounts had 21 points, 12 in the second half rally.

Temple (10-1) made it eight in a row, 101-69 over Scranton, behind Bruce Drysdale's 31 points, and Fred Moses had 31 points and Larry Jones—28 as Oklahoma City (7-4) thumped West Texas State 89-74.

Frank Burgess of Gonzaga, the Nation's No. 1 scorer with a 32-point average, managed only 17 in a 72-63 victory over Whitworth, and Houston, with Ted Luckenbill scoring 23, downed Lamar Tech 100-73.

Santa Clara (9-4) thrashed College of the Pacific 71-33 in a West Coast Athletic Conference game, and Stanford handed Fordham (3-6) its fourth straight loss on a West Coast jaunt, 59-44.

Pfeiffer Upsets AC Five, 71-69

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Newcomer Pfeiffer, in its first season in the North State Conference, pulled the rug from under Atlantic Christian's championship aspirations 71-69 Tuesday night.

It was the only conference game scheduled, but in an outside game, Carson - Newman of Tennessee edged by Western Carolina 62-58. Tonight, Guilford plays Appalachian in the only game scheduled. The Apps are No. 2 in the conference (3-0) and can move into a tie for the lead by beating Guilford (0-8).

Bob Frank scored 21 points and Hal McManus 20 for Pfeiffer. The win was Pfeiffer's second in nine conference games and the loss ACC's first in three loop starts. Dick Knox scored 23 points to lead Atlantic Christian. The losers were in front 36-28 in the half, but fell under Pfeiffer's hot second half.

Western Carolina's record dipped to 3-8 with the loss to Carson - Newman. The Catamounts were in front by six points at the half, but Carson-Newman took the lead in the final 10 minutes.

Celtics Battle For 102-96 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia Warriors may have Wilt Chamberlain, but you just can't take it away from Boston's old pro Bob Cousey and his junior helpers Tom Heinsohn and Bill Russell.

This trio of Celtics battered down a big Los Angeles Laker lead Tuesday night and helped bring the Celtics to a 102-96 victory. The victory kept Boston ahead of Philadelphia in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

The Warriors, helped by Chamberlain's nine points in overtime and 46 overall, defeated Detroit 128-125 before the Syracuse Stars ended a three-game losing string in beating New York 129-104 in a Madison Square Garden doubleheader in New York.

Studley Named New Cincy Coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — Chuck Studley, bright young football coach who guided the 1960 University of Massachusetts squad to their best mark in 28 years, has changed to the University of Cincinnati.

Studley, 31, was given a three-year contract by Cincinnati directors Tuesday after Athletic Director George Smith and President Walter Langsam backed him for the job of head football coach.

In Studley's first year with the Massachusetts Redmen, the team picked up a 7-2 mark and a share of the Yankee Conference championship.

A Lot Of Chit-Chat

A long period of frustration finally came to an end Monday in Duke's 7-6 upset of Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl. Durham people were beginning to believe some sort of jinx was riding over the head of their athletic teams.

Past Duke performances against Carolina was enough to worry supporters but appearances on television had been even more humiliating for Blue Devil followers.

One might say all this trouble started with Carolina. In 1959, the Tar Heels dipped Duke with a 50-0 football setback before a nation-wide television audience.

The Carolina people were shouting again this fall after their heroes bashed the bowl-bound Dukes with a 7-6 upset. A TV show—with UCLA as the main character—two weeks later saw the Dukes unrooted again.

It looked as if it was beginning to rub off on the basketball team Saturday night when Carolina trimmed Duke in the Dixie Classic finals.

The victory in the Cotton Bowl enabled Duke fans to show face again . . . even put them in a happier mood. Being an upset, it will help salt some of the wounds but then Bubus and McGuire come face-to-face at least two more times this fall . . .

ECC Back In Action Saturday

East Carolina's basketball team swings back into competition Saturday against Elon in Burlington.

Looking strong on paper—but paper is only so thick—East Carolina lost two conference starts before the holidays. Coach Earl Smith hopes his club has settled down and worked some of the kinks out of its offense.

Speaking of settling down, two Pirate basketballers took the word to heart. Guards Lacy West and Cotton Clayton—both sophomores—entered wedlock over the holidays. They are now settled.

Possible Changes For Tar Heels, WF

Things to look for department: Don't be surprised if Wake Forest guard Billy Packer rides the bench for the Deacs.

Bones McKinney has made it clear that he isn't pleased with all those 30 foot-shots fired by the junior showman. He wants his club to steer its offense to the inside stuff with such big men as Bill Hull, Len Chapell, and Jerry Steele capable of putting it through the hoop.

The Wake coach is pleased with Kinston guard Alley Hart. A starter for the first time this season—his senior year, Hart has been one of the clubs top scorers.

Look for Larry Brown to replace Don Walsh in Carolina's starting five. A sophomore, Brown led the freshman team in scoring last fall. McGuire realizes the potential of Brown but has been breaking in the pint-size and cocky New Yorker gradually. "He is a good scorer, quick and hustles," says McGuire, "but did you ever count the mistakes he makes?"

Look for State to be among the favorites when Atlantic Coast Conference tournament rolls around. Case's Pack is scrappy and needs only experience to reach the level of Carolina and Duke.

Robinson Demands High For Title Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, who always allots part of his pre-fight training to sparring with promoters on money matters, is back at the old stand

Sugar Ray said today he is willing to meet Gene Fullmer for the fourth time for the National Boxing Association version of the world middleweight championship but that he wants a "reasonable" share of the television profits.

The target date for the fight is Feb. 25 in Las Vegas. Robinson and the promoters, as might be expected, differ on what constitutes a reasonable share of the Top Brass Meet Expansion Plans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Financing a pension plan is the No. 1 problem for National Football League players assembling here today for their first full scale association meeting.

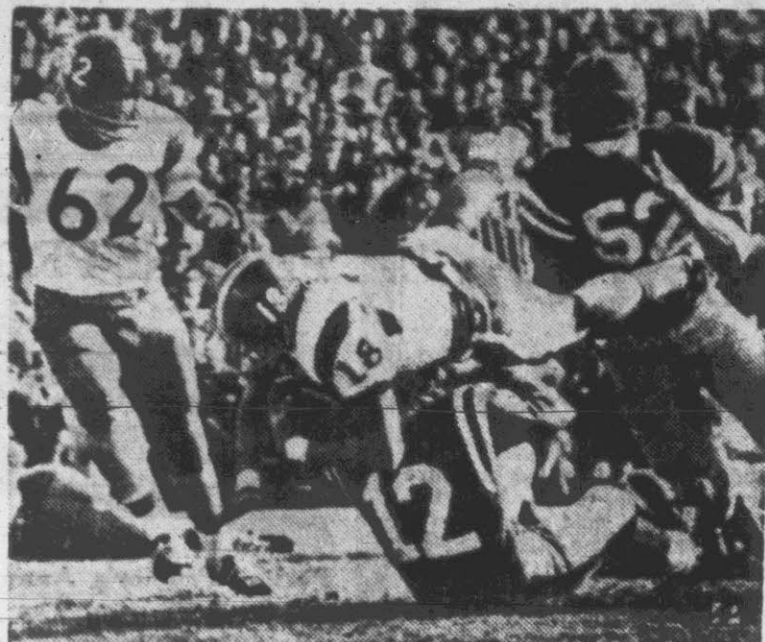

An informal golf tournament on the Hollywood Beach course was a frolicsome prelude to business sessions of the 75 athletes.

In addition to providing a source of later-life income, the players intend to see what can be done about extending their association to the Chicago Bears. The association claims 100 per cent membership on the rosters of all other clubs in the league.

Bill Howton, Dallas pass receiver who heads the players group, expressed hopes that new sources of income for the association pension fund will come out of a conference here with Pete Rozelle, league president.

Los Angeles Press Blasts Minnesota

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Minnesota is the slowest team the Big Ten has sent to the Rose Bowl in the last 15 years, a Los Angeles sports columnist said today.

Another columnist said the Big Ten would have been better off if it had sent Iowa.

Mel Durslag of the Examiner had this comment on the Gophers' 17-7 loss to Washington: "Washington Minnesota clomp ponderously about the grass last Monday, you had trouble envisioning this group as the top-ranked collegiate team in America."

"Some of its backers insisted lamely that the Gophers at the start merely got left in their holes, but it's an immutable fact that even when they got to running they didn't show enough speed to catch a porcupine."

"Of all the Big Ten teams we have seen in the bowl the last 15 years, Minnesota is easily the slowest afoot. And if this club was able to take the measure this season of its Midwestern kin, you pause to worry about the future of the Big Ten."

Sports editor Paul Zimmerman of the Times wrote: "This department was castigated by Gopher grads for our temerity in suggesting the AAUW (Athletic Association of Western Universities) could do better in inviting the (Iowa) Hawkeyes—If they must turn to the Big Ten."

"After what happened in the Rose Bowl, it hardly can be denied that Iowa could have made a better game of it. For example, if it was not until the final quarter that the Minnesotas completed a pass. That is, to their own man."

"All things considered, much-maligned Western football came out of the bowl game smelling like a Rose, Washington's impressive win wasn't the only thing. Duke's victory in the Cotton Bowl, after (suffering) a sound thrashing by UCLA, 27 to 6, didn't hurt matters."

NBA Reserve Clause At State In Molinas Case

NEW YORK (AP)—The unique case of Jack Molinas vs. the National Basketball Association came up in federal court today with the NBA's reserve clause at stake.

The case is a $3,000,000 antitrust action brought by Molinas against the NBA.

It was six years ago that Molinas, then 21, was barred from the NBA for betting on his own team, the Fort Wayne (now Detroit) Pistons.

"I'm ready for the trial," said Molinas. "I think I have a very good chance of winning."

Molinas, who played for Columbia University, pleaded in his defense that he bet only on his team to win. He admitted he won about $400 and that he paid taxes on the winnings.

Molinas, now a lawyer, wants the NBA ban lifted and is asking $3,000,000 in damages. He has charged NBA President Maurice Podoloff and the eight teams in the league with acting in restraint of trade, a violation of the antitrust law.

Molinas claims that because of the reserve clause, he is prohibited from dealing with any other team than the Pistons, and that he is being boycotted and blacklisted in the NBA.

"We haven't denied him a living in any other league," said Podoloff, pointing out that Molinas now is player-coach of Hazelton in the Eastern League. Molinas, in fact, is the leading scorer in the league with an average of 37.4 points per game.

Should Molinas win, the NBA reserve clause would be meaningless. Any attempt to settle with him out of court, officials feel, would only encourage other players who have been barred to follow suit.

"We can show tremendous damages here," said Jack Weinberg, Molinas' attorney. "Lots of basketball players are waiting on this trial."

The only other known antitrust action in sports which went to trial was Bill Radovich vs. the National Football League. Radovich jumped from the Detroit Lions of the NFL to the Los Angeles Rams of the newly formed All-America Conference after the war.

Later, he tried to get back to the NFL, but found he was barred not only there, but with San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League.

Duke, State Roll To Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"These kids won't give up," Coach Vic Bubus of Duke had said.

Maybe the eighth r Devils even gained return from their initial setback. They rolled to a 78-63 win over Navy Tuesday night at Greensboro.

The youthful Bubus, in his second year at Duke, had made the statement about his team's fortitude following a close 76-71 loss to North Carolina's sixth ranked Tar Heels in the finals last Saturday of the Dixie Basketball Classic.

North Carolina State, leaving Anton Muhlbauser and Russ Marvell home to study, still had too much for Virginia, whipping the hapless Cavaliers 94-71 in the night's only Atlantic Coast Conference game.

Art Heyman continued his sensational scoring, throwing in 28 points—including seven straight in the waning minutes—as Duke won its 10th game against a lone setback. The sophomore whiz has a 23.5 point-per-game average.

Big Carroll Youngkin kicked in 19 points for the Dukes, who led Navy 40-27 at the half. A crowd of 5,123 turned out in Greensboro for the non-conference bout.

N.C. State, which is 9-2 on the year and 2-1 in the ACC, got a 25 point effort from a 6-foot-5 sophomore, John Pungler. He hit for 19 before the half, and spent most of the final 20 minutes on the bench with the Wolfpack regulars. N.C. State hit 47.4 per cent of its shots from the floor.

The Virginia attack was led, as usual, by Tony Laquintano, the ACC's No. 2 scorer. He had 24 points, but most of them came in the last half against N.C. State's subs. Virginia is 0-4 and 1-9 on the year.

A 14-point last half bulge enabled Georgia Tech to pull away from South Carolina. The Gamecocks were down only 37-31 at the half, but couldn't keep pace with Tech's Roger Kaiser, who had 27 points.

Ronnie Johnson put forth a 20 point effort for South Carolina, but couldn't keep the Gamecocks from losing No. 4 in 10 starts.

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Both Senior Bowl coaches apparently are thinking in terms of strong passing attacks as they prepare for the all-star football game here Saturday.

Indications are the starting quarterback roles have been won by Norman Sneed of Wake Forest and Dick Norman of Stanford, two of the leading passers in the nation this season.

The South squad's Sneed ranked second nationally, completing 123 of 259 attempts for 1,676 yards. The Washington Redskins picked him in the first round of the recent pro draft and promptly signed him to a contract.

Norman, directing the "first backfield unit in the North drills, connected on 95 of 201 passes during the season to increase his three-year totals to 323 completions in 597 attempts for 3,737 yards and 18 touchdowns.

Alternating with Sneed were Howard Dyer of VMI and Phil Nugent of Tulane. Norman will share the North quarterbacking with Bob Hivner, a star in Washington's Rose Bowl victory over Minnesota Monday.

LADY in the MARKET

BY FRANCES V. RUMMELL

From the novel "Aunt Jane McPhipps and Her Baby Blue Chips," published by Prentice-Hall, Inc. © 1960 by Frances V. Rummell. Distributed by King Features

CHAPTER 22

Sitting in Jane McPhipps' kitchen, Al Bonelli commented, "My portfolio doesn't exactly suit me. It's not diversified enough. I've got only one stock. I've got to adopt a new strategy."

Jane poured him a cup of coffee while he lighted a fresh cigar. Al had taken to cigars almost exclusively now, had traded his old brown sedan for a red one two years younger, and was spending his lunch hours in a broker's office watching the board — on the theory that a man with ten shares of Lone Star Electronics had to keep in touch.

Jane smiled. "You'd better leave your strategy up to Lone Star. But right now my strategy is to sell something in order to eat."

He pulled at his lower lip, finally said, "How's your Canadian Countess? How about selling some of that?"

"Oh, no," said Jane. "It's getting riper and riper." True, she told herself, in a manner of speaking.

"Then sell a few shares of Tenspins." As he knew, Amalgamated Tenspins had gone from 25 to 80, at which point—weeks ago, now it had split three for one—to give Jane 300 shares instead of 100. And Rosemarie thirty for her ten. Since then, the price had been stuck at 30.

"You're right," Jane nodded in agreement.

"You see," said Al didactically, "it's resting after so much activity." With the passion of the convert he dearly loved explaining things to Jane. He leaned forward and lowered his voice. "I heard about a little honey down on Montgomery Street today. A boatload of stock. Not a word, now Rose is coming any minute."

To Jane's surprise, Al and Rosemarie had still not told each other about their separate stock purchases. Having hit the jackpot himself, he had by now comfortably centered his old ambivalence about the stock market itself on the idea of women in the market. It was no fit place for a woman, particularly his wife, who was bound to get skewered.

It was largely because of Al's attitude about women in the market that Jane had not yet shot off her rocket by telling him about the Countess. To tell the truth, she said to herself, weighing the finer points, she was a trifle uneasy about what he might do, for she well remembered his longing "to swab the decks with Wally" if anything went wrong.

But Al's mind this evening was on her welfare, her sale of stock, and on the painting of the carousell, which had been sent by August Ernst the evening before. Having admired it once, he got up out of his chair in the kitchen and went into the living room to examine it.

"Really beautiful," he said. "I want to meet this gent some day. I really do. He must be quite a man." He turned, looked Jane full in the eyes, and added grinning, "He'd better be."

With perfect candor Jane replied, "You will like him. He will like you."

Rosemarie came in shaking her head unhappily. "Eleanor's not herself," she whispered. "You'll see. She's coming in a minute."

"Maybe she needs a party," said Al.

Jane was concerned. She, too, had noticed Eleanor's mood. "The child has no spirit," she said. "We had a little chat last night."

Al went on doggedly. "We've got to buck her up. A party would do it. With cioppino."

While Jane and Rosemarie prepared the dinner Eleanor came in and sat on a kitchen stool. She was wearing her treader pants this evening, and while she looked 18 in the face and figure, her eyes were those of a troubled woman.

"Aunt Jane," she asked, "could I please have a glass of milk? I'm starving. I forgot to get any food, really."

Jane poured her a full glass and patted her on the cheek.

Al said, "We're just going over plans for a big party. You can bring as many men as you want—Professor Petry, old Wally, your principal, anybody." He turned to Jane. "I think it would be nice to have Mr. Ernst. I'd like to feed that man."

"Who's Mr. Ernst?" Eleanor and Rosemarie asked the question at the same instant. Eleanor was eying Jane over the edge of her glass.

Al told Jane, "Let me tell 'em." He walked into the living room, took down the carousell, brought it up on top of the refrigerator.

"Mr. Ernst just gave this to Aunt Jane," he said brusquely. "Now that's enough for you two for now. She'll keep us posted."

"But that's heavenly!" exclaimed Rosemarie. "Of course Mr. Ernst must come."

Jane, furious with herself, was blushing beet red. Finally she said, "You're all terribly sweet. But now this time, really."

Al turned to Eleanor. "How many will it be? Let's not have any pipsqueak of a party."

She set her glass on the table and held her hands to her face. "I don't know. I guess nobody."

"Well—how about—about Petry?"

"No—no. Just nobody." Then she looked at him defiantly. "I'd have Wally if I knew where he was. You don't like him but I don't care." Bursting into tears, she slipped off the stool and ran out the door.

"Oh, hell," Al said softly. Rosemarie could only splutter. "Don't blame Al, dear," said Jane. "It's all my fault, from the very beginning." Jane didn't go on to explain, perhaps because they already knew what she meant. At least, she told herself, surely such behavior on Eleanor's part does bespeak volumes. Eleanor was in love with Wally.

Rosemarie didn't want to ask the question, but she had to. "Where is Wally?"

Jane answered as lightly as she could. "Out of town, dear. Out of town on a business trip. But he'll be back."

They all fell silent.

In twenty minutes, outwardly revived, Eleanor reappeared, kissed Al affectionately on the forehead and told him, "I hate you, you big lug. Go ahead with your party. I'll have Phil Petry."

Well, thought Jane, maybe Eleanor did mean it. Women in love were sometimes defiant.

They all decided to have the cioppino dinner the following Sunday night, and Al appointed a committee to help with preparations—reserving for himself the skilled part of the cookery. "We'll have only fresh fish from the sea," he said grandly.

Consequently, early Saturday morning, calling on Brawny Tony down at Fisherman's Wharf, Jane bought fresh halibut, prawns, clams, oysters, and tiny California shrimp and then rushed home to help Rosemarie chop up the chard. Al made the tomato sauce, in a ten-quart marmite, which was enough cioppino for the U.S. fleet, and into the marmite Al tenderly dribbled the chard, some red peppers and a soupcon of practically every herb on the place—thyme, oregano, basil, rosemary, marjoram.

"We'll taste it about six o'clock tonight," he promised them.

At six o'clock Jane ran over to help pass judgment. Al smelled, tasted, gave everybody a taste, solemnly added more oregano and basil, tasted again.

"Now!" said Rosemarie. "The wine!"

"Oh, no, no," Al was appalled. "Tomorrow, about the time old Petry shows up, we put in one quart of red wine. Not an instant before."

"And then the fish," said Rosemarie.

If only, Jane thought, we can get through the evening without mentioning stocks. And if only Phil Petry is sporting enough not to speak of the Countess.

"Wally acted foolishly in selling the stock to me, and I acted foolishly in buying," Jane must confess, and then make a decision. Continue the story here tomorrow.

Desire For Clean Ballast Termed 'Possible Cause'

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A shipping company official said the desire of Capt. Carl Snyder for clean ballast was a possible cause for the break-up of the tanker Pine Ridge.

Capt. James M. McKeever, port captain in Philadelphia for Keystone Shipping Co., said Snyder's desire for clean cargo tanks made him push the ship's hull beyond acceptable limits of stress during a severe storm. He testified Tuesday at a Coast Guard inquiry.

The Pine Ridge broke in two Dec. 21, 125 miles off Cape Hatteras, N.C., with the loss of seven men, including Capt. Snyder.

McKeever showed the board an operating manual and a special slide rule with which the master of a tanker could calculate how much stress the ballast in his ship is putting on the hull.

When the Pine Ridge left New York for Corpus Christi, Texas, the ballast pattern was proper, the witness said. But when the tanker hit heavy weather on the second day of the trip, Capt. Snyder ordered more ballast pumped into the cargo tanks to lower the ship in the water.

McKeever said he assumed Snyder adopted an unusual ballast pattern for his ship because he wanted clean ballast in his tanks. The ship would have to have some ballast to negotiate into the Corpus Christi channel, McKeever said, and Coast Guard regulations forbid dumping oil-contaminated ballast in territorial waters of the United States.

Also testifying Tuesday was James T. Van Natta of Glensville, Pa., a maintenance and repair inspector for Keystone. He said he supervised extensive repairs and overhaul to the Pine Ridge at Savannah, Ga., from Oct. 20 to Nov. 8.

The Pine Ridge had all the leaks in the cargo tank bulkheads repaired, Van Natta said. He considered the vessel in good, seaworthy condition after the yard work.

Ear-Piercing Is Now Modernized

RED BANK, N. J. (AP)—The age-old practice of piercing earlobes for earrings is being modernized, according to Jeweler Paul Seldin.

The old method was to force a probe through the flesh to a cork held on the other side of the lobe. But this painful system has been replaced by a spring-loaded device which, Seldin says, "permits greater accuracy and doesn't hurt a bit."

Through the centuries people have had their ears pierced for a number of reasons—to improve eyesight, guarantee good hearing, and ward off the evil eye. But the best reason, Seldin said, is insurance. "If you buy a pair of earrings for $1000, you don't want them to fall off."

Shoeshine Business Is Growing

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The "once-lowlow shoeshine business" is rising into money these days.
Increasing polish sales could be traced to more elbow grease at home as families pare budgets in uncertain times. But much could be due to hard competition causing manufacturers to scramble for the home market with new ideas in polishes and easier applications.
Sales volume has risen from $30 million a year at the end of World War II to more than $85 million a year now.

New ideas aimed at beefing up this market include spray-on or aerosol jobs, flow-on polishes using the principle of the fountain pen, and pastes without the usual odor associated with freshly shined shoes.

Also there are electric polishing machines for home or public places to renew the glow and make people appearance-conscious. In recent years new ingredients or combinations have been aimed at increasing the shine, treating the leather, restoring color and gloss to worn and scuffed shoes, lengthening the duration of the shine.

The first modern polishes were of the solvent type, with beeswax and paraffin as the main solids, diluted with turpentine.
World War II saw U.S. servicemen discovering what an Australian-born paste did in giving a high glow and restored color to scuffed shoes.

Manufacturers say sales today divide into three main areas with pastes first, followed closely by dye-type liquids and by creams and trailed by whites. There are also suede cleaners, leather renewers, oils and greases, impregnated cloths, shoemaker's wax and saddle soap cleaners.

S. C. Johnson & Son, Racine, Wis., maker of wax, has just entered the field with three liquid polishes and one compact paste kit. The liquids come in plastic squeeze bottles which work like a fountain pen when turned upside down.

One of the established leaders in the field, the Esquire division of Knomark, Inc., reports its sales jumped 22 per cent in the last three months after introduction of its odorless paste polish. Some of the sales, it says, may be due to women who have been using it to stain unfinished furniture.

Like the American division of the Australian-born Kiwi, Esquire has made its major growth here since World War II with an emphasis on high gloss. Esquire now gets 44 per cent of its sales in food stores, where it says women make 75 per cent of the shoe polish purchases.

Among other makers are Griffin, Shinola, 2-in-1, Bixby's jet oil, Dress Parade, and Whittemore Brothers.

This being an age of research into who does what, a survey of home habits was inevitable.
One manufacturer says it found that in the strongholds of togetherness the polishing chore is divided fairly equally, but with children doing a bit more sprucing up than do fathers, and mothers taking on about one-fourth of the total job.

Men are said to prefer paste polish while women are the best market for liquid polishes. Older people are reported as the lookout for products and techniques that call for the least bending.

Restaurant For A Jobless Chef

By MILTON MARMOR
LONDON (AP) — It isn't often that a smart new restaurant is opened to provide a job for a cook—but then the case of Kou Teh-Lou was an exception.

To begin with, Kou was one of China's great chefs.
Then, he became the chef in the Communist Chinese embassy in London, a post he held from 1954 until last Feb. 26 when he defected and sought freedom in the West.

The British government gave him refuge and thereby scored a major culinary victory in the East-West struggle.

But Kou was left without a job.
So the anti-Communist Chinese of London, led by former Nationalist ambassador D. Chen Yao-Sheng, got together with a syndicate which operates some of the leading Chinese restaurants in London.

The club has a nominal membership fee yet runs on lush, luxury lines.
It also has something you can't get in the average Chinese restaurant—real Chinese food.

The delicacies are flown in from the Far East and, if you order well in advance, you can sit down to shark's fin soup, Pekin duck and other dishes with the sauces that bring back memories of youth to old Far East hands.

Head chef Kou, a charming, jolly sort, is beginning to feel at home in his new surroundings.
But there's the sadness of the East behind the eternal smile. His family is still in Peking.

"Cooking is all that is left for me," he said through an interpreter, for his English is still almost nil. "My wife and two sons are in Peking. I write to them. But I never get a reply."
"I hated Communism especially having to go to self-criticism sessions. They even wanted me to say I was a bad cook."

The Church of St. Paul Shipwrecked in Valletta on the island of Malta preserves a relic venerated as a bone from the apostle's right arm.

Nobody Tried Find 1860 Compromise, So They Fought

Editor's Note — Ordinarily in the United States, a political convention gives opposing faction a chance to blow off steam. Instead of this, the 1860 Democratic convention built up an unendurable pressure. In the second of four articles, a famous historian explains why this exception to the rule prepared the path to war.

By BRUCE CATTON

Written for The Associated Press. Compromise is an unpopular word. It seems to mean that you are rather wishy-washy—you don't have the courage of your convictions, you won't dig in your heels for a final stand.

But we do need to remember that compromise is what enables democracy to work. It enables us to face up to questions which, left to themselves, would become explosive.

In 1860 nobody tried to find a compromise over the slavery issue—nobody seemed willing even to talk over the possibility of a compromise—and there was no compromise.

The Democrats, holding their convention in Charleston, S. C., promptly got into a dog-fight that wrecked the party beyond repair.

Here was the party that offered the brightest hope for a solution, simply because it was the one truly national party at that time. It was strong in the North and the South alike; it embraced all shades of feeling in regard to slavery, and its leading candidate for the nomination, Sen. Stephen A. Douglas, of Illinois, was eagerly trying to find a middle-of-the-road approach.

Douglas had the strange notion that the country had important things to do and that it ought to get on with the job without wasting all of its energies in the argument over slavery; he said quite frankly that he himself did not care whether slavery was voted up or down, just as long as it was somehow disposed of.

That was exactly Sen. Douglas's problem. He wanted a compromise approach at a time when nobody wanted to compromise. He was in an old-fashioned political fight, involving nothing much hotter than a struggle for party control; but he was also caught up in the fact that too many people had taken extreme positions and refused to hear any talk of compromise. Consider what the senator from Illinois was up against.

Leaders from the cotton South wanted a flat declaration, in the party platform and from the lips of the candidate, in favor of the extreme pro-slavery position—slavery was untouchable, and the question of restraining or modifying the institution in any way must not even be discussed.

Douglas and the Northern Democrats would accept nothing of the kind. They wanted a broad statement of the kind which ordinarily is dear to the politician's heart—something that would mean almost anything anyone wanted it to mean, on the ground that if this problem could just be sidetracked for a few years it would eventually come down to manageable proportions. Under pressure from Southern pro-slavery extremists, they were also under pressure from Northern anti-slavery extremists. Somewhere between the extremes, they believed, the coming election could be won.

Usually, in such a situation, a political convention blows off steam for a time and then works something out. This time that proved impossible. Instead of blowing off steam, this convention built up an unendurable pressure—and, in the end, broke squarely in half. The Northern half of the party nominated Sen. Douglas, and the Southern half nominated John C. Breckinridge of Kentucky. It immediately became obvious that as a result the Republicans were going to win the election.

The Republicans guided themselves accordingly. Convening in Chicago, they did not bother with much debate. Declaring flatly that slavery was wrong and must eventually go, they nominated Abraham Lincoln and set out, with immense singleness of purpose, to pick up the victory which the Democrats had dropped in their laps.

Now another party took form—the Constitutional Union party, which wanted to preserve the Union and nominated John Bell of Tennessee, with a platform calling simply for reverence to the Constitution and the federal union—a creed to which almost anybody could subscribe. And then the campaign got under way.

The campaign shed no light whatever, because nobody wanted to talk about the one shattering issue.

Lincoln refused to make any speeches at all, on the ground that his position already was clear. Bell upheld the Constitution and expressed the hope that brothers would not quarrel. Breckinridge defied anyone to show that he had ever said one word against the Union and then lapsed into a silence, as all-embracing as Lincoln's. Sen. Douglas did try to make a debate out of it; he made many speeches, the substance of them being that it would be absurd to break up the Union when there was more important work to do. Apparently, nobody paid much attention.

In any case, neither the political conventions nor the campaign brought any real discussion of the underlying issue. There were many speeches and editorials, most of them consisting simply of denunciations of the opposition. Political marching clubs were formed, to parade and cheer and make music. Nowhere in the record of that 1860 campaign can you find any real effort by anybody to bring the terrible problem out into the open and explore the possibilities of a settlement.

The Southern extremists said that if the anti-slavery crowd won the election the Southern states would secede; the Northern extremists said that this was nonsense—just empty talk raised for political effect. Lincoln kept silent. The Constitutional Union party deplored all of the angry talk, and Sen. Douglas—the only candidate who really got on the stump and tried to make a campaign of it—found that in the North he was running against Breckinridge.

In the end, of course, Lincoln was elected, with a solid electoral majority and a solid minority of the popular vote. But the trouble now was that this election, with everything that had gone before, had simply brought things to a head instead of providing a solution for anything.

Thursday: The fateful decision.

VFW Commander Favors A Stand

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—A firm U.S. stand on Laos and creation of a U.S. fleet in the Indian Ocean are advocated by Ted C. Connell, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Communist aggression in Laos cannot go unchallenged, he said in a statement Tuesday.

"We must recognize," said Connell, "that a vast power vacuum exists from Southeast Asia. If the free world and the U.S. do not take immediate steps to fill this vacuum, we can be sure that the forces of Communism will do so."

Fished $16,000 Out With A Wire

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP)—A thief with a way with a wire fished $16,000 out of a night deposit box at the Community National Bank branch in suburban Union Lake Village over the weekend.

Customers who use the night deposit box place their money and checks in special bags provided by the bank. Many are provided with a key to the deposit box.

Detective Sgt. Leo Hazen said the thief must have had a key. He rigged a wire net inside the slot. All those with keys to the box will be questioned, he said.

Received $9 Million By Error

DETROIT (AP)—Wayne County Clerk Edgar M. Branigan got a $9,900,001.80 check in the mail Tuesday, but it was a mistake.

A letter enclosed with the check indicated Gertrude Balogue of Phoenix, Ariz., meant to send a check for $180 for a copy of her divorce decree.

Somebody in the First National Bank of Arizona in Phoenix apparently pushed too many buttons. The check is being returned.

ROSE BOWER—Christian Dior spring hat is built up on back of the head like a huge full-blown rose. More roses line inside of parasol to complete roseate ensemble.

By FAGALY and SHORTEN

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Night people know a kinship rare to day people.

As our civilization grows more complex, more and more people have to work odd hours to keep it operating.

To the sailor at sea, the pilot in the air, the lifeguard at the beach, the professional athlete in the stadium, the lion tamer and the clown in the circus, Saturday and Sunday are just two more days in the week.

And to about one-sixth of America's laboring millions, duty begins after the sun goes down. They earn their paychecks in the dark.

They clean the offices, guard the streets, collect the garbage, keep the home fires burning while most of us sleep. They prepare our day for living while we slumber.

If you have never worked at night—if you have always worked a 9:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. day—you have missed a great adventure in living.

The advantage is comradeship on the job. You get the feeling of unity a platoon enjoys in war. There is a freemasonry that doesn't quite exist on a day job.

In the newspaper world the overnight tour-of-duty is known as "the lobster trick." No one knows for sure how the term originated. One theory is that it was coined by a forgotten ironic newswoman in the Gay Nineties who had to arrive at his desk at midnight when the playboys of that era were sitting down to their lobster and champagne.

But whoever works the lobster trick knows a joy foreign to the peasants prisoned by the sunbeam hours.

For three years long ago I worked from midnight until 8 o'clock in the morning, and never in my life since have I known quite the same sense of freedom.

Night brings a mystic union to those who work through it together.

er. They are knit by the bond of the unusual. They are separate from the rest of sleeping mankind. They are superior. They are alive and awake. They belong to each other. And they know it.

There is small tension and little hurry. The job is there to do, and there is leisure to do it well. No one leans over your shoulder. You are on your own. The big boss is at home adrift in drowse. The straw boss is just one of the boys. He has to be. Otherwise he would be impossibly lonely. No one likes to be lonely at night, even when he is working.

The night worker feels the pity of a king to a serf as he hands over the sovereignty of the office to the haggard, sleepy-eyed day worker who replaces him, the serf whose duty is just beginning.

The night worker has quelled one of mankind's oldest foes—the darkness. His duty behind him, he washes his face and hands, puts on his hat and coat and steps into the bright sunshine of the new day, as free and proud as a lark tilting at heaven.

He is different from other people.

Free After Long Support Dispute

WOODLAND, Calif., (AP)—Former Kansas farmer Fred Block, 67, who spent the last nine years in jail here rather than make child support payments to his wife, left rather reluctantly Tuesday.

Block hitched a ride to near Sacramento with a reporter, saying he is "getting out of the State of California."

"I may go back to Kansas," said.

But Superior Court Judge Chester C. McDonald made sure Block would return at least once by setting a Jan. 16 hearing on disposition of $1,100 in Social Security checks that accumulated while Block was in jail.

It has cost Yolo County $11,000 to keep Block in jail. The daughter for whom the original support payments were intended has grown up and married.

NEW YORK (AP)—Television grew up so fast it jumped in a little over a decade from infancy to giant size. In the process it almost overnight grew too big for its britches or, perhaps more accurately, its swaddling clothes.

Over the years, particularly in New York, the three networks have been trying to get television decently tailored—enough studios, stages and rehearsal space. The Hollywood TV facilities of network television have been magnificently expanded—one reason that it has looked as if Los Angeles would monopolize the production end of the industry as shows moved west.

In New York City where rents are high and space is at a premium, the networks have converted radio studios to TV by crowding in cameras and other cumbersome equipment. They have rented and bought theaters for the shows which use audiences. Rehearsals have been and are held in all sorts of places, from offices to rented banquet halls. Performers and crews have grumbled about the inconvenient, out-of-the-way locations of rehearsal facilities.

While the New York facilities are still inadequate, they are gradually getting better. Each network either leases or owns two or three theaters for its network variety and audience-participation shows—Perry Como's, Garry Moore's, Ed Sullivan's, "The Price Is Right," "What's My Line?" and the Johnny Carson Show, for instance.

NBC has two huge studios in Brooklyn which pretty well take care of their eastern-produced dramatic shows and specials. ABC has a center with five studios in midtown. CBS has augmented its headquarters studios with others in a remodeled meeting-hall building.

Now, however, CBS wants to bring under one roof seven studios and complete production facilities. If the plan goes through, the new building would be finished in 1964.

At least this indicates the CBS

It certainly sounded as if Art Linkletter, earnestly selling a fruit-drink every few minutes during NBC's Tournament of Roses Parade coverage, was suffering from a heavy head cold while talking about how vitamins stuffed and health-making the product was. . . . Next Sunday's Dinah Shore Show will not, after all, be a program she filmed last summer in Copenhagen but something new with Fabian and Wayne and Shuster. Could it be that big names win better ratings than travelogues? Incidentally, her substitutes last Sunday—George Gobel, Peggy Lee and Frankie Avalon—produced a bright, spirited and light-hearted hour of entertainment, the kind of show Dinah herself was turning in two seasons back.

Recommended tonight: Circle Theatre, CBS, 10-11, EST—"Black Market Babies," a dramatic look at the illegal adoption racket.

Order Enforcing Of 'Blue Laws'

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Starting next Sunday, the Mobile County grand jury has ordered arrest of any businessman who violates the state's Sunday closing law.

The law exempts drugstores, service stations, delicatessens and some other businesses. Some grocers have said this was not fair in view of the wide variety of items carried by some of the exempt businesses. The grocers said they plan to remain open as long as such businesses do.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The crisis in Laos is a domestic quarrel aggravated by extreme leftists and intervention by force wouldn't solve it, an Indian government spokesman says.

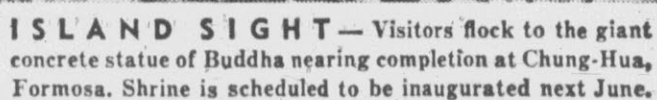

P. K. Nehru, commissioner general economic affairs for India, said Tuesday night in an interview that "much more can be accomplished in a peaceful discussion of the problems involved."

Nehru is a cousin of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India.

CLEMSON, S. C. (AP) — The Clemson College chemistry department has discovered a quick way to cool off hot peppers. It's called Capsaicin and has possibilities in medicines and food seasoning.

A college spokesman said Capsaicin needs just 24 hours to take the "hot" out of hot peppers. Formerly, it took two weeks.

Fog consists of a great swarm of minute drops of water suspended in the air. The droplets are so small it would take 7,000,000,000 of them to make one teaspoonful of water.

A Rare Kinship In The Night Workers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Night people know a kinship rare to day people.

As our civilization grows more complex, more and more people have to work odd hours to keep it operating.

To the sailor at sea, the pilot in the air, the lifeguard at the beach, the professional athlete in the stadium, the lion tamer and the clown in the circus, Saturday and Sunday are just two more days in the week.

And to about one-sixth of America's laboring millions, duty begins after the sun goes down. They earn their paychecks in the dark.

They clean the offices, guard the streets, collect the garbage, keep the home fires burning while most of us sleep. They prepare our day for living while we slumber.

If you have never worked at night—if you have always worked a 9:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. day—you have missed a great adventure in living.

The advantage is comradeship on the job. You get the feeling of unity a platoon enjoys in war. There is a freemasonry that doesn't quite exist on a day job.

In the newspaper world the overnight tour-of-duty is known as "the lobster trick." No one knows for sure how the term originated. One theory is that it was coined by a forgotten ironic newswoman in the Gay Nineties who had to arrive at his desk at midnight when the playboys of that era were sitting down to their lobster and champagne.

But whoever works the lobster trick knows a joy foreign to the peasants prisoned by the sunbeam hours.

For three years long ago I worked from midnight until 8 o'clock in the morning, and never in my life since have I known quite the same sense of freedom.

Night brings a mystic union to those who work through it together.

r. They are knit by the bond of the unusual. They are separate from the rest of sleeping mankind. They are superior. They are alive and awake. They belong to each other. And they know it.

There is small tension and little hurry. The job is there to do, and here is leisure to do it well. No one leans over your shoulder. You are on your own. The big boss is at home adrift in drowse. The straw boss is just one of the boys. He has to be. Otherwise he would be impossibly lonely. No one likes to be lonely at night, even when he is working.

Five Buildings In Newland Business District Burn

NEWLAND, N.C. (AP) — A raging midnight fire swept this small Western North Carolina town destroying five buildings. There were no injuries to the more than 100 firemen who fought the fire during sub-freezing weather.

Preliminary damage estimates placed the loss at more than a half-million dollars. The fire was controlled after four hours but firemen continued to pour water on the smoldering remains. Shifting winds and a temperature of 22 degrees hampered firemen, who came from Elizabethtown, Tenn., and Marion, Morganton, Blowing Rock and Greensboro, in North Carolina.

"It looks like a ghost town," said Sherman Pritchard, publisher of the weekly Avery County Journal.

Four buildings in one block and one building in an adjoining block were destroyed. Firemen said the fire apparently started in the Hughes Building and spread to the Lovett, Isaacs and Daniel-Vance buildings in the same block. Elevator-retail businesses in the four buildings were wiped out.

The fire jumped the street and destroyed the N. B. Smithey Department Store and Grocery, the town's largest retail concern, which also housed a television-radio repair shop.

Superior Rating Won By Local Nat'l Guard Battery

Battery A of the 4th Howitzer Battalion, one of two local N. C. National Guard units, announced today it received a rating of "superior" from its annual general inspection held Nov. 14.

Capt. Charles E. Camp, commanding officer of the unit, announced the top rating received from Gen. Capus Wayne, the state's top NG official.

Capt. Camp furnished a copy of the report of Maj. Laurence E. Squires, assistant army inspector general, who conducted the November inspection.

Maj. Squires' report stated Battery A's "moral of personnel indicated that prior training had been very effective. Training observed was properly conducted by well-informed instructors whose methods of instruction developed student participation to a very high degree."

"The storage and display of equipment of this unit was outstanding and indicated strong leadership by key personnel. Facilities were adequate and maintained in an outstanding manner."

Capt. Camp was "well pleased" with the rating and credited his administrative supply technician, Sgt. Mayo Allen, and the "overall attitude of our boys" with the "outstanding performance during IG (Inspection General)."

Farmville Board Forms A Special Committee

FARMVILLE — A new committee was formed last night at the January meeting of the Farmville Town Commissioners.

Named the Building and Insurance Committee, the new committee is designed to make recommendations to the board regarding future repairs or alterations to town buildings and changes in the present municipal insurance coverage.

Appointed by Mayor Charles S. Edwards to head the committee was Howard D. Moye, serving with Chairman Moye will be commissioners John D. Dixon and W. E. Joyner.

The board agreed to hold a special meeting Jan. 16 to further consider a total of 37 applications for a post on the Farmville police force.

The vacancy, currently filled on a temporary basis by I. R. Brown, was created by the Dec. 15 resignation of William Boyd who joined the department last fall. Brown's application for permanent employment with the local force will be considered with the remaining 36.

Farmville Street Supt. E. P. Freuler was granted a salary raise following a discussion by the commissioners of "the outstanding work Freuler has done" since succeeding temporary superintendent E. R. Garraway. Freuler's salary was boosted to $80 weekly, effective this month.

Back Of Belgian Strike 'Broken'

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Belgian government today appeared to have broken the back of the 16-day-old strike in Brussels. But the Socialist-led unions fought doggedly on in many parts of the country.

Union efforts to close the capital's department stores flopped badly this morning when determined policemen shooed away between 200 and 300 pickets.

The pickets—about 40 per cent of them women—walked meekly away. Postal deliveries also improved in the capital. Streetcars and buses seemed to be as plentiful as in normal times.

The Socialist newspaper "Le Peuple" claimed that 200,000 persons demonstrated throughout Belgium Tuesday against Prime Minister Gaston Eyskens' austerity program of higher taxes and lower social security benefits. The government estimated the total at 75,000, a figure given credence by the 9,000 turnout in Brussels.

With the government coalition parties—the Social Christians and Conservatives—backing him, the prime minister won four votes on various motions Tuesday in Parliament. Eyskens' backers considered them votes of confidence.

Antwerp, Belgium's biggest port, remained partially paralyzed but a department store strike fizzled there also. But in Soignies, near the southern industrial city of Charleroi, police with bayonets in their hands at Namur most stores remained shut and transport was at a near standstill.

Superior Rating In The Field, Too

Local National Guard unit, Battery A of the 4th Howitzer Battalion, today received official recognition of a "superior" rating from its field training performance last June.

Administrative Supply Technician, Sgt. Mayo Allen announced the gilt-edged certificate, "verified earlier reports we heard that we received the superior rating."

The certificate was awarded the local unit from the National Guard Bureau in Washington, D. C.

The "superior" rating stemmed from inspection of Battery A's performance during its annual summer camp at Ft. Bragg, N. C. last June 5-19.

Warn Neighbors Are Imperiled

BANGKOK (AP) — The SEATO Council today said continued Soviet and North Vietnamese aid to pro-Communist rebels in Laos will imperil the security of neighboring countries as well as threaten the integrity of Laos.

Ambassadors of the eight member nations of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization held their second meeting this week on the situation in the neighboring Indochina kingdom.

Decorations Will Be Taken Down

GRIFTON — Christmas decorations here will come down this week, providing the weather is good, Luther Lewis, police chief and utilities superintendent, said yesterday.

Lewis announced that, weather permitting, workmen probably will begin dismantling decorations on Thursday.

Burglar Stole Only A Look

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A burglar apparently stole only a look at a new exhibit when he broke into the Jacksonville Art Museum.

Director Russell Hicken said he found a note signed "A. Breaker and Enterer." It said: "I found the exhibits excellent and stimulating."

Slow Start For City Tag Sales

GRIFTON — Grifton city tags, which went on sale Monday in the town office, will remain on sale as long as state tags do. Town Clerk Joyce McCoy announced yesterday.

In the two days of tag sales, only 23 tags were bought by citizens of Grifton, Mrs. McCoy said. A total of 600 have been ordered for this year. Everyone living in the town limits and owning an automobile is supposed to buy a tag.

Last year, sales totaled 473. The tags, labeled "Grifton," are black with gold lettering. The cost is $1 each.

Mrs. McCoy urged those owning automobiles and living in the town limits to buy their tags early.

Last Rites Are Held For Andrew J. Moore

Funeral services for Mr. Andrew J. Moore, 80, were held at the Wilkerson Chapel Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 and burial was in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

The Rev. Howard McLamb, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, assisted by the Rev. John Drake, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, conducted the services. Practically the whole town was battling the blaze, many pitching in although not experienced as fire fighters.

The Newland blaze was one of a series that have struck North Carolina in recent weeks. On Dec. 21, a fire hit Charlotte, Bryson City and Mount Pleasant. Two downtown stores were damaged in the Charlotte blaze, $100,000 damages resulted when the Swain County High School at Bryson City was hit, and mechanics shop was destroyed in the Mount Pleasant flames.

The fire was discovered between 12:15 and 12:30 a.m. by Sheriff Fred Banner of Avery County who sounded the alarm.

A portion of the business section of the town was destroyed once before, when fire broke out in a cafe about 8:30 p.m. on the night of Jan. 9, 1941 and spread quickly to other buildings on the main street. That fire, brought under control within about two hours by firemen from Spruce Pine, Boone and Elizabethtown, burned over three blocks of Tilt Street. Buildings destroyed included the Masonic Hall, the Craver and C. L. Hughes stores, three cafes, a barber shop, Hughes Funeral Home and the Calloway store.

When members of the Avery County J.C. Fire Department realized the extent of the blaze, they issued calls for help. Fire units from Boone, Spruce Pine and Marion in North Carolina responded along with some equipment from just across the state line in Tennessee.

Snow fell during part of the blaze. Firemen pumped water from a nearby river to pour on the blaze.

The fire crept near some of the town's homes, but the blaze was under control before any homes were destroyed.

Most of the buildings were of either brick or masonry construction. However, by day break only a couple of fire-scarred walls remained.

Prichard said he seriously doubted that the people of Avery County had ever witnessed such a spectacle. He said flames leaped 100 to 150 feet into the air, and the wind hurled sparks all over the little town of about 750 persons.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. Pritchard said he was one of the first men to arrive when the alarm was sounded. He said he doubted if anyone had any ideas of the fire's origin.

Only a handful of items were saved from the buildings," Pritchard said. He added that three families occupied apartments in the burned buildings, but all escaped safely.

The fire jumped the street and destroyed the N. B. Smithey Department Store and Grocery, the town's largest retail concern, which also housed a television-radio repair shop.

The city's post office, a hardware, beauty shop, pool room, restaurant, movie house, variety store, Army-Navy specialty store and sandwich shop were destroyed in the one block.

Newland, the county seat of Avery County, sits snugly in the mountains, near the scenic Blue Ridge Parkway. It is located some 70 miles northeast of Asheville and about 8 miles from the Tennessee border.

Four buildings in one block and one building in an adjoining block were destroyed. Firemen said the fire apparently started in the Hughes Building and spread to the Lovett, Isaacs and Daniel-Vance buildings in the same block. Elevator-retail businesses in the four buildings were wiped out.
