President Submits $80.9 Billion 'Farewell Budget'

Table with 2 columns: Category (Income, Expenses, Surplus) and values for 1961 and 1962.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS For fiscal year ending June 30: 1961 1962

By FRANK CORMIER WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today sent Congress an $80.9 billion farewell budget calling for a $1.5 billion surplus dependent on the will of Congress, John F. Kennedy and fate. To finance the projected surplus for the 1962 fiscal year that begins July 1, Eisenhower would increase federal fees and taxes on all those who mail letters, travel in airplanes or use the nation's highways.

Most of his action proposals were retractions, but the 1,040-page budget book did include these ideas which he formally suggested for the first time: The possible creation of a high-prestige White House job, perhaps carrying the title first secretary of the government. The post would be filled by a presidential appointee who would outrank Cabinet members and act as a sort of assistant president both at home and abroad. The establishment of a new Cabinet-level department of transportation plus an efficiency-promoting office of executive management within the White House organization.

Eisenhower commended these suggestions to President-elect Kennedy and the Congress without advancing specific legislation. On the facts and figures side, Eisenhower forecast federal spending of $80,865,000,000 in fiscal 1962 and revenues of $82,333,000,000.

Under the Eisenhower plan, the prospects of achieving a precarious fiscal 1961 surplus hinge on a quick business turnaround and the voting of higher postal rates by April 1.

Radar Tower In Ocean Wrecked

NEW YORK (AP) — The body of a man in a life jacket was plucked from the sea today, presumably one of 28 men missing after an Air Force radar tower collapsed in a storm.

The vessel, the "Talk-17," a Navy ship that supplied the tower, was only 12 miles away when it received the "May Day" or SOS.

For 10 suspenseful minutes, the ship—fighting high winds and 35-foot waves—maintained radar and radio contact with the doomed tower. Suddenly, the tower's radar image disappeared.

There were two life boats at the tower and searchers hope survivors were able to escape. The aircraft carrier Wasp, accompanied by two destroyers, was about 80 miles from the scene.

The big flattop took charge of rescue attempts as Coast Guard cutters and other ships joined the search.

Two Coast Guard planes and helicopters from the Wasp managed to take to the air early today when visibility — diminished by driving snow and sleet—lifted somewhat and snow turned to rain.

But flares dropped into dark storm-tossed waves showed only a few traces of the $20-million tower. The Wasp reported finding "a large amount of debris" about nine miles from the tower site.

Ironically, the tower was under repair because of another storm — Hurricane Donna — when tragedy struck. The hurricane last September had severely damaged the 3,000-ton tower, forcing the Air Force to evacuate most of the 90-man complement.

But for that, the tragedy could have been worse. Only the small Air Force and workman contingent remained.

Research and development programs of all kinds, but mostly military, up $70 million to $9.4 billion. Included is $1 billion for basic research.

Foreign aid up $250 million to $3.6 billion. Including requests for 1962 and future years, the total comes to $4 billion. This involves $1.8 billion in military aid.

Space exploration up $195 million to $965 million. Agricultural programs up $165 million, mostly for price supports, to $5.1 billion.

Health, education and welfare activities up $300 million to $4 billion.

The biggest spending cut in fiscal 1962, apart from the one that would result from higher postal rates, was foreseen in interest charges on the national debt. Because rates have dropped, the debt has fallen very slightly, interest costs are estimated at $8.6 billion—down $400 million.

Eisenhower said that by June 30, 1962, the debt should be down to $283.4 billion, compared with the present $290 billion. However, he said Congress once again will have to vote a temporary increase in the permanent $285 billion debt limit. A temporary boost to $293 billion expires June 30.

In making his surprise suggestion of a super-level White House post, Eisenhower said: "I have reached the conclusion that serious attention should be given to providing in the president's office an official ranking higher than Cabinet members, possibly with the title of first secretary of the government, to assist the president in consulting with the departments on the formulation of national security objectives, in coordinating international programs, and in representing the president at meetings with foreign officials above the rank of foreign minister and below the rank of head of state."

As for a department of transportation, he said it "should be established so as to bring together at Cabinet level the presently fragmented federal functions regarding transportation activities." Kennedy has talked about a new department of urban affairs that would encompass transportation, housing and other metropolitan problems.

In calling for a higher gasoline tax, Eisenhower said this would make it possible to finish building 41,000 miles of interstate super-highways by 1972.

Castro Turns Big Force Of Militia On Rebel Bands

HAVANA (AP)—Between 10,000 and 15,000 militiamen, unleashed by Prime Minister Fidel Castro in a major offensive, have surrounded growing rebel bands operating in the rugged Escambray Mountains of south central Cuba, according to reliable reports.

It could not be determined if the offensive was part of a nationwide drive to fulfill Castro's pledge to wipe out all rebel activity in Cuba this year, or merely a one-shot attack to clean up an area troublesome to Castro since he took power. One of the hundreds of civilians evacuated from the mountains in Las Villas Province said the militiamen were shelling an area where the rebels were believed concentrated and would move in after the mortar and artillery bombardment.

Castro claimed last fall that all rebel activity in the mountains was smashed. There have been persistent — but unconfirmed — reports that 300 to 1,000 insurgents continued to operate in the jungle-like area under the command of ex-army Maj. Evello Duque and former Capt. Ramon Perez.

There was no official word on the reported offensive. Military headquarters in Cienfuegos, in the mountain foothills, indicated an offensive was under way but referred all questions to Havana headquarters.

It was unofficially reported that 70 to 90 persons were seized in Cienfuegos on charges of links with rebel activity. Hundreds of peasants in the area were reported evacuated.

Castro's troops reportedly are commanded by Maj. Dermidio Escalona, recently transferred to Las Villas after commanding the army in westernmost Pinar del Rio Province.

In Havana, the Castro regime continued its crackdown on alleged counter-revolutionaries. Thirty-three men, one of them a North American, were sentenced to prison terms of 9 to 30 years on charges they were involved in various plots against the government.

The North American, identified only as Robert John Gentile, was sentenced to 30 years on charges he plotted to kidnap Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos. Two American newsmen were arrested and held six hours Sunday. They were Richard Valeriani of The Associated Press and James Wallace of the Wall Street Journal. Both were released after questioning and after they signed statements that "no charges (against them) existed." Valeriani said his questioners seemed to be interested mainly in American politics.

Authorities at first told Valeriani and Wallace they would be expelled but later said they could remain in Cuba. Labor unrest appeared to have spread to the Bus Drivers Union, less than 48 hours after Castro's 1½-hour speech Friday demanding that workers close ranks behind the revolution.

The bus drivers, once strong Castro backers, reportedly complained about compulsory contributions to a food fund for the militiamen and cuts in pay and privileges.

After 58 hours of continuous "disc-jockeying," local radio station announcer Jimmy Newman ended WOOW's Announce-a-thon last night at 12 o'clock. Contributions well surpassed $1,000.

Newman had begun the program at 2 p.m. Friday, after saying that he would stay on the air until a stated amount of donations had been reached.

Station manager Marty Sullivan said, "I would like to thank Jimmy for his effort on behalf of the New March of Dimes. There are few things that are ever done in the spirit of Jimmy's drive for funds. But most of all, my sincere thanks to those who gave both time and money to such an overwhelming success."

Newman received calls from Jack McGee, state representative for the National Foundation, and Governor Terry Sanford. "I am delighted at the reports from my friends down there on the remarkable job you are doing. I am happy to take this opportunity to commend you for fine work. People all over the state are working, but I am sure that no one is working any harder than you are."

Newman told the Daily Reflector before signing off, "It was a strain, but it was worth every minute and every second. It was fun and I only wish that I had the stamina to continue and raise more money for this worthy cause. I would like to thank the Governor, Mayor Eugene West, Police Department, members of the Angel Flight and Jack McGee for their help."

Green Assuming Duties Today

Dr. C. Sylvester Green, new executive director of the Pitt County Development Commission, arrived here yesterday and assumed the duties of his new post this morning.

The Kentucky native who has spent much of his life in North Carolina succeeds L. A. Weston, the commission's economic consultant whose services were terminated last September.

Dr. Green was chosen director of the commission at a November session of the county's industry-hunting organization.

Following his selection, the new director made a two-week visit to Pitt County in December. He will now move his family to 423 S. Greene St. here.

Dr. Green comes to his new post from William Jewell College at Liberty, Mo., where he had served that institution as vice president in charge of public relations since July 1958.

He is scheduled to make his first appearance as director when the development body holds its regular January meeting in the Community Room of Wachovia Bank Wednesday night.

Wednesday's meeting has been transferred to the local bank since the courthouse is currently being used for the county's annual tax listing.

Georgia U. Campus Quiet As Negro Students Return

By PERRY MULLEN ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Two young Negroes returned in peace today to classes at the University of Georgia which suspended them last Wednesday night after campus riots following their admission under a federal court order.

Charlayne A. Hunter, 18, and Hamilton E. Holmes, 19, first Negroes ever to be admitted to the 175-year-old university, came back in a cold drizzling rain from their homes in Atlanta under another federal order forbidding the university from again suspending or expelling them if disorders again erupt.

There were no resumption of last week's demonstrations. Miss Hunter stepped from a white car which had cautiously circled the block several times. She entered her dormitory at 8:05 a.m. Five white men in plain clothes who accompanied her kept a close watch on the area. The watch disclosed only the normal traffic of any college campus.

Holmes walked into his classroom at 8:45 a.m., accompanied by three white men. He entered a Holmes walked into his classroom at 8:45 a.m., accompanied by three white men. He entered a different building from that where Miss Hunter was in class.

Miss Hunter and Holmes were driven to Athens, starting before dawn, by their attorney, Donald L. Hollowell, and the Rev. Samuel W. Williams, president of the Atlanta branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Upon arrival in Athens, they transferred to other cars. An armed prowler created excitement Sunday night when he appeared at a dormitory and told a guard he was looking for the Negro girl enrolled in the school. Police were told he drew a gun when asked to identify himself, relieved the guard of his gun and fled. The incident occurred about 9:30 p.m.

U.S. Dist. Judge W.A. Boothe ordered the two re-admitted and enjoined school and state officials from again removing them on the ground that unruly demonstrations endanger their personal safety.

Earlier the jurist barred state officials from cutting off funds for the university as required by state law for integrated schools.

Hours in advance of the re-entry of the two students state police in the area were re-inforced by patrolmen from other sections. Eighty state troopers were reported ed on hand for the new effort to integrate the university which has 7,500 white students. The campus, spread over several thousand acres, was under constant watch by Georgia Bureau of Investigation agents cruising in unmarked cars. FBI agents were on hand to check on any violation of federal law. City and county authorities warned that law violators would get immediate prosecution.

Sheriff Tommy Huff of Clarke County issued an appeal for everyone to stay away from possible trouble areas. An 2:30 p.m. curfew for coeds was ordered by school officials. Spectators at Wednesday night's rock-throwing included a number of girl students.

University officials and students said they believe a hard core of 15 or 20 segregationist students sparked the disorder. A dozen identified with the riotous action have been suspended.

Decision On County's Office Space Needs Is Largely Up To The People

(Editor's Note: Final article in a five-part series.) By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer

"Whatever course Pitt County follows in seeking to increase office facilities for its agencies—if an increase is needed—must be directed by those individuals for whom the county government exists, the people of Pitt County."

This statement, one of several made recently by persons interested in county affairs, emphasizes a fundamental principle of democratic government—government of, by and for the people.

Pitt County, generally described by its native sons as a progressive county, is faced with the inevitable problem of running out of space for the efficient operation of its multi-phase business.

And Pitt County is not by itself. Many more of North Carolina's 100 political divisions have been confronted with the issue. While the problem is always basically the same, county approaches to it vary.

Among Eastern Tar Heel counties faced with space shortages recently have been Wayne and Craven Counties. Both have reacted, but differently.

Craven, a county of some 10,000 less people than Pitt, renovated its existing courthouse to make space already provided more attractive and usable. Pitt undertook a similar project in the late 1940's.

Wayne, a larger county than Pitt by around 10,000 inhabitants, added a wing to its courthouse. Pitt's established leaders recognize the emergence of the space shortage problem. Opinions as to the current seriousness of the problem vary, but most attention has been directed toward the courthouse and the old hospital, known as the County Office Building.

Most officials and other observers agree the problem of exhausting storage and working space in these two buildings is certain to grow more acute as the years pass. They further agree that some plan for the county's physical future—at least a tentative proposal—should be sought in the near future.

Officials and citizens have seen the county's business expand by leaps and bounds during the years. They have watched a steady exodus from the courthouse during the last 15 years. Prior to that the county's government center was adequate to house most county agencies under one roof.

No clues have been uncovered to indicate that Pitt's growth will cease or that the county's daily routine will not continue to expand to embrace more people with more services.

None of the county's citizenry are more aware of the problem than the employees who inhabit the offices and the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

Officially, the duty of initiating action to remedy county problems rests with the five commissioners. Under the law, these men are the representatives of the people, elected by the people.

The commissioners, however, are only the leaders of the people. Their primary task is to help the county's citizens realize their desires.

A question of office space expansion would almost certainly involve the ever-present question of a bond issue. The commissioners are admittedly hesitant to even discuss creating county debts that may not have a majority of popular support.

That is where the people enter prominently into the picture. The commissioners and other officials welcome expressed attitudes and opinions of the county's taxpayers and citizens to help direct any course of action.

Pitt County opened a bond-financed hospital with the onset of the 1950's. A second bond issue, scheduled for final retirement in 1969, of $675,000 was approved by popular vote to finance a new wing currently under construction.

A major question in the minds of Pitt's governmental leaders, when confronted with the problem of diminishing office space, is: "How can we do it? Is the county ready for another bond issue?"

The answer can come only from the people, who would be burdened with payment of the bonds.

Pitt's real estate holdings to house its daily business and service operations represent a sizable investment. In actual dollars and cents, the county has sunk around a half-million in combined original costs of six office buildings over a period of 60 years. Since values during those years have varied greatly, the estimated combined value of that property has risen appreciably.

Recent official audit reports point to a sound fiscal policy upon which the county operates. The periodic surveys say Pitt's financial health is "excellent."

A haunting question for the county commissioners, however, is: "Are we healthy enough . . . to stand another bond issue?"

This question, too, should be answered by the county's populace the commissioners seem to feel.

John F. Kennedy's Cabinet Wives: Nation's Proud Women

"Behind every great man," the old adage goes, "stands a woman." President-elect John F. Kennedy's new cabinet brings a number of new faces—and some familiar ones—into the inner circle. Most of them already are fairly well known, from past business or government connections.

But what of their wives? How do they feel about the sudden thrust into Washington prominence? What are their backgrounds, their hopes, their feelings?

Associated Press writers have talked with each of them, and now bring you intimate portraits of the new cabinet wives.

lived in Scarsdale, a suburb of New York City, since Rusk became president of the Rockefeller Foundation nine years ago. for something "a little different."

She Married Her Teacher

NO NONSENSE . . . Mrs. Dean Rusk impressed her political science teacher and won his heart

AP Newsfeatures

Attractive, blue-eyed Virginia Rusk is the friendly, unassuming kind of woman who makes you immediately feel at ease. And her feeling of affection and pride in her family is contagious. Modestly, she'd rather talk about her husband than herself. Of the next secretary of state, Dean Rusk, she says:

"He's easy going, but I can flare up, especially with the children now and then."

She seems the most understanding of wives as she explains that she's tolerant about all the time he gives to a job. "He feels free to come and go as he needs."

But you can tell, from the sensible yet flattering way she draws her brown hair back into a flat bun, that there's no nonsense about her.

She was born Virginia Foiese in Boston in 1915 (the date doesn't bother me a bit"). She was taken to Seattle as a baby and grew up there. Her father, now semi-retired and living in Berkeley, Calif., was active in waterfront labor relations for management in Seattle.

On a scholarship she attended Mills College, a girls' school in Oakland, Calif., majoring in both geography and history. One of her professors was a young, prematurely balding Rhodes Scholar named Dean Rusk. She was an excellent student in his political science class, and his appreciation grew from academic to personal. A year after her 1936 graduation they were married.

Rusk continued at Mills ("People used to commiserate with him for teaching in a girls' school, but he enjoyed it very much," she says, until he was called into service in December, 1940. That was soon after their first child was born.

The complete family now includes David, 20, who is majoring in economics at the University of California; Richard (Richie) 14, Peggy 11.

Mrs. Rusk made a home in Washington when her husband returned from military duty in the China-Burma-India theater and entered government service in the State and War departments. Now she again faces the task of finding a house in the capital.

"I have no idea where we will live," she says cheerfully. "And I don't know what we will do with the Scarsdale house." They've

Bostic-Sugg Furniture Company Buyers Attending Furniture Show

Jesse R. Laughinghouse and Billy B. Laughinghouse of Bostic-Sugg Furniture Co., Inc., 569 S. Evans St., Greenville, N. C., are attending the Southern Furniture and Rug Market in High Point, N. C., this week.

At the Southern Furniture and Rug Market in High Point retailers buy merchandise in depth for the selling seasons ahead. The interest of homemakers in furniture in the South is at an all-time peak, according to trade statistics.

It was pointed out the Southern Furniture Exposition Building contains about 14 acres of furniture exhibits. More than 400 of the prime sources of supply, which attract furniture buyers from every state and several foreign countries, are in the exposition, which is open only to retail furniture merchants. The exhibits parade the full talents of designers and manufacturers with styles including Classic, Contemporary, Modern,

Traditional, and Foreign derivation.

Manufacturers have made important contributions to the refinement of furniture for the American Consumer. Fabrics include luscious quilts, solid colors, and prints. One hundred per cent nylon will be used extensively. Colors will be sharp with greys coming in to blend with the popular blues and greens. Bright red, yellow and purple are among favorite colors. Painted colors will also be seen, particularly on accent pieces. Stress has been put on the important development of fine finishes where the true values have been brought out in the woods to give added warmth and charm.

The Winter Southern Furniture and Rug Market, which attracts thousands of buyers from the Southeast, fills the role of primary source of supply for the area as well as for the national market. —(Adv.)

One Difference In Their Approach

Gov. Sanford's approach to meeting the needs of public education in North Carolina—with both the state and local governments participating—is much the same as the plan offered by Gov. Hodges as he sought more local participation in school financing two years ago.

There is one important difference in the two approaches which Gov. Sanford has been careful to point out and which may spell the difference in the manner in which his program is received by the people of North Carolina.

Gov. Sanford has asserted that the state level of government must lead the way for improving schools—increase its efforts—and provide incentives for local governments to join in the undertaking.

Correctly or not, it was a widely held opinion two years ago that a similar school improvement program proposed by Gov. Hodges would shift a part of the burden for the support of public education from the state level of government to the local level. It was quickly pointed out that while many local governments might be able to do more toward providing for their educational needs, the financial pressure on local governments is as great if not greater than that on the state governments, and therefore local governments should not be expected to carry a higher share of the total load.

If public education in North Carolina is to be brought to the higher level that is needed, a great deal must be done both at the local and state level for our school systems. A great deal must be done in the way of new construction, increasing teacher salaries, reducing the number of students in each class, improving curriculums in many schools and a host of other things.

All of these cost money. And yet all of these things, and more, are needed to provide better public school education for the youth of the state.

Obviously most local governments will be more inclined to do more to help their own school systems if they feel that greater effort is being put forth at the state level at the same time. If the state falters in the school improvement program, some local governments will forge ahead anyway. But for the most part history has shown that too many local governments follow the lead of the state in public education. They fail to assume the initiative themselves.

Gov. Sanford's proposal that both state and local governments move forward together in improving public education in North Carolina is one which should have the backing of most of the people of the state. Obviously it is the approach through which the most possible good can be done for North Carolina's schools and its young people.

In general terms it will ask local governments to do more toward improving schools as the state government likewise put forth a more aggressive effort in this direction. That, we believe, is the kind of program the people of the state can and will support.

To Palm Beach On Quick Notice

By LYNN NISBET

QUICK ACTION — At about 5:30 Wednesday afternoon your reporter was getting ready to close the office for the day, leisurely planning the routine for Thursday. The telephone rang, and Governor Sanford's office advised that a seat was available on a private plane to Palm Beach next morning, where he had a conference with President-elect Kennedy. All other plans were shifted and the invitation accepted.

It was a memorable trip. The craft was a Burlington Industries plane the "Gulfstream", powered by Rolls-Royce propeller motors, under command of Capt. Shelby Maxwell, with Dick Vaughan as co-pilot. Also aboard was Mrs. Spencer Love, wife of the Burlington Industries board chairman, enroute to Palm Beach to spend some time at the winter home and visit the children who are in school there. She was a most gracious hostess.

Capt. Maxwell announced at take-off that air distance to Palm Beach is 680 miles, we would fly at approximately 18,000 feet altitude at a speed that would put us on the ground in two hours and 13 minutes. Because he had to make a partial instrument landing, he apologized for over-time. We were in the air two hours and 14 minutes—a little better than five in a minute.

The "Gulfstream" is the first plane of comparable size originally designed and built for executive use. Most of the executive-type craft has been converted from regular passenger service. Burlington has several of that type, but the Gulfstream is the flagship of the fleet.

WEATHER—We left Raleigh-Durham in perfect weather, bright sun and near freezing temperature. We flew above such clouds as developed and could not see much of the land. The captain told us when we were passing almost directly over Cape Canaveral, but by then the clouds were closing in and being more than three miles up laymen in the plane could not see clearly the launching pads and other facilities pointed out. We were just glad that no missiles were being flung around in the area at that time.

We landed at the airport in West Palm Beach under low hanging clouds, which later produced rain. The sun broke through the clouds for a few minutes around noon, and the Palm Beach folks asked our party to stick around — it was the first sunshine they had seen in more than a week.

RECEPTION — It was quite evident in the reception accorded Governor Sanford's party by Kennedy staff and by the corps of newsmen assigned to cover the President-elect, that Governor Sanford rates above the average State executive in the Kennedy set-up. A staff car met us at the airport, drove Governor Sanford directly to the Kennedy home, dropping other members of the party at the news headquarters at Palm Beach Towers hotel. The 80 minute conference between Kennedy and Sanford was private, but Sanford later met about 40 reporters for a news conference at the hotel.

At that news session Governor Sanford learned for the first time that former Governor Luther Hodges was in Palm Beach. (He had cut short a yacht trip as guest of Charles F. Johnson, Asheville business man and sportsman. Sanford wanted to pay his respects to the former Governor and upcoming secretary of commerce, so we drove down to the docks and checked the "South Seas" yacht Johnson, Hodges et al. were out fishing.)

GUARDED — The other members of the Governor's party did not get into the Kennedy home at the north end of the island, but a staff member got us into the yard. There were half a dozen or more "workmen" around the place, putting up with plants and water hose, checking gravel on driveways, and similar tasks. Everyone of them was a high paid secret service operative. Traffic along the street was heavy — and slow. The divers all wanted to see as much as they could of the premises — which was the world in a matter of minutes.

The Sanford visit and news conference got good play in North Carolina, and to less degree throughout the country. The Tarheel Governor frankly answered many questions, skillfully parried others that were obviously loaded. He said his main purpose in seeking the conference with Kennedy was to get more North Carolinians in policy-making places in the national administration, particularly in the field of agriculture. He said they talked about a lot of other things — but did not mention racial problems.

The North Carolina folks present were surprised to see Governor Terry Sanford smoking a great big cigar — one of the very few times they had seen him smoke anything. He said later he was using the "smoke stick" just for a "prop" — it was easier to look at than to answer questions about personalities discussed with the President-elect.

New Grain Facility To Affect Our Economy

The new FCX feed mill and grain storage facilities to be built at Farmville should bring far-reaching economic benefits not only to the community in which it is located but to a broad area of Pitt County and Eastern North Carolina.

With storage facilities for some 300,000 bushels of grain, the huge facility will represent another major step toward resolving what has been cited as one of the major agricultural needs of this section . . . more storage space for grain. The location of the new plant in Farmville will offer farmers of a large area a new and continuing market for corn and other grain. The presence of the new market in turn should result in increased corn production throughout this area.

Members of the Farmville Economic Council and others of the Farmville community who have worked so diligently over a period of years to attract this new facility are to be commended on their efforts. Although plans for beginning construction of the new facility were delayed for some two years, plans now call for completion of the installations by early fall of this year.

The fact that the feed mill and storage facilities will initially employ some 25 people gives another boost to the economic growth of Farmville which has been significant in recent years with the addition of several industrial plants. Of even greater significance, perhaps, is the impact the new plant will have upon agriculture of the area. It is another example of how industrial development and further agricultural development in this Eastern section of North Carolina can move forward hand-in-hand for the benefit of the section as a whole.

Some Factors That Encourage

By RALPH ROBNEY
There are several favorable elements on the business scene and they deserve careful consideration in arriving at a conclusion on the trend for the next year. Here are some of these encouraging factors.

Government spending will increase at all levels. With total outlays already amounting to some $140 billion, which is one-third of our national income, a further increase is unfortunate, but it is politically inevitable and it would have taken place regardless of the outcome of the election.

Personal income in November failed to show an increase for the first time in 1960, but at just under $410 billion it is obvious that we have no basic shortage or purchasing power. Inventories have been reduced in some lines below reasonable working levels and we shall see the start of rebuilding before many months.

Housing starts will be up a shade in 1961 and so will construction as a whole. Farm income was better than anticipated in 1960 and it is expected to show a slight further rise in 1961.

The long-awaited rise in steel production will get under way shortly after the first of the year. It will not be spectacular, but it will be a positive factor on the upside. Business investment in plant and equipment will be down but, according to the latest survey, the decline will be amazingly small.

The Federal Reserve System will continue to provide plentiful reserves to commercial banks. Interest rates will remain low and expansion of loans will depend primarily upon internal ratios within the banking system, not upon reserves as such.

they are strong enough to offset the unfavorable elements, which we listed earlier, is another question.

But, it is worth noting that even those who believe the decline will go on for some six months do not anticipate a sharp drop. In their opinion this will be one of the mildest recessions in history.

It also should be mentioned that businessmen as a group are not really pessimistic. They are worried over many things — inadequate profits, the severity of competition, taxation, labor monopoly power, and so on — but many of them believe that their sales will be higher in 1961 than they were in 1960.

We personally have no means for pin-pointing a business turn — either up or down. The predictions that the upturn will come in July are based upon nothing more than the average recession in terms of months. Such calendar projections may prove correct, but if so it is a matter of accident.

One conclusion appears clear and not subject to serious question. This is that we shall not experience either a sharp upturn nor a sharp downturn during 1961. The wise course for business management, therefore, is to work on the assumption that the volume of sales will be up by a large margin, and it may be down slightly. This is a wise policy because it always is easier to step up business than to curtail it.

For what it is worth, my personal belief — which is perhaps a better word — is that we shall see an upturn in the near future, and we feel quite confident that the final quarter of 1961 will be above that of 1960.

Quote . . .
"To be blunt, the illiterate and untrained mind is incapable of grasping the ideological, social and economic complexities of today. One might as well expect a comprehension of calculus from a person unable to count."

Plans For The Rookie Goalie

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Impeachment Not Easy

Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Now along comes a very sure person, Robert Welch, of the John Birch Society of Massachusetts, who wishes to impeach Earl Warren, Chief Justice of the United States. One may disagree with, dislike, oppose Earl Warren, but impeachment is another matter. It involves a bill of particulars, specific charges, subject to evidence and analysis. Welch does not provide that. He says:

"We believe that the impeachment of Warren would dramatize and crystallize the whole basic question of whether the United States remains an independent republic, or gradually becomes transformed into a province of the world-wide Soviet system."

But this is not the issue at all. This is a private opinion, not a fact. What is necessary is to indict Earl Warren for high crimes and misdemeanors that will stand up in a trial. Thus far, only one President of the United States has been impeached, and unsuccessfully, and no

Chief Justice of the United States has been impeached. That does not mean that none ever should be. It does, however, mean that this is not a simple process for indicating opposition. Under our system, it is extremely difficult. Robert Welch thinks otherwise:

"We further believe that it is entirely possible to bring about that impeachment in the present House of Representatives, through insistent enough demand by the American people if even one-half of the known present conservative leaders will give their energetic support to this undertaking."

Apparently, Welch has no conception of the procedure involved in an impeachment. The Constitution makes provision for it in Article I, Section 2, Clause 5, which reads: "This House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other officers; and shall have the sole power of impeachment." And in Article I, Section 3, Clause 6, which reads: "The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside: And no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two thirds of the members present."

Certainly in the present composition of our Congress, there is no possibility that the time will be allotted by the leadership of either party for such an impeachment. For what would have to be proved? The indictment could not show that the Chief Justice's views were unpleasant, for there are eight other Justices who could have voted him down. It would have to be shown that he was corrupt, that he accepted bribes, that he was subversive, that his conduct was obnoxious to the United States and the Court.

No matter what can be said of Earl Warren, it cannot be said that he has been corrupt, which means accepting bribes, or that he has been subversive, which means, in this context, that he is engaged in transactions that damage the United States in the interest of a foreign foe. No bill of particulars can be brought forth to prove such charges. Therefore to talk of impeachment is nonsense.

I call attention to this not because it is of any significance of itself, but because conservatives need to use common sense in their agitation. There are things to be said and to be done but these need to be focused on ideas, not on impractical proposals to impeach the Chief Justice because there is disagreement about his views or to discover an invisible government which has controlled all the administrations from Herbert Hoover to John Kennedy. It is nonsense. Why not impeach the entire Court and get over and done with it?

The conservatives of this country are numerous but not always coherent. Unless they find intelligent leadership that relates what they do and say to the realities of American life, they will make no greater progress in the new Democratic Administration than was made in the old-Eisenhower Administration. American conservatives need a program and less talk.

One of the first points of a conservative program must be that the United States cannot tolerate the cost of unemployment or racial or creedal battles while this country is engaged in a life-struggle against the Soviet Universal State. And the one absolute essential is that the American dollar should again become hard money, well secured and safe. The conservatives need to decide whether they prefer to fight against Communism or against each other.

Other Editors Saying Added To The Federal List

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
Federal courts have proved once again they are in control of the integration movement which got under way by order of the U.S. Supreme Court back in 1954. Georgia is the latest victim of the courts, and the swift manner in which federal judges dealt with the situation should be cause for concern among any other states thinking of resisting integration.

Georgia was regarded as one of the staunchest segregation leaders in the South. Yet, after a series of court actions, the state government found itself in an untenable position, despite a state law that provides for closing of the state university to prevent integration. From all this, we must gather that federal courts have authority to run roughshod over state legislatures, governors and educational systems.

And a look at the record of the federal judicial system during these intermittent skirmishes since 1954 shows that Georgia has no recourse. The state has lost the racial battle and the ancient university at Athens will now have Negroes as students for the first time in its history. The action was amazingly swift, reaching its conclusion far swifter than that in Little Rock.

While Georgia has complied, without bloodshed and violence, with the federal orders, and has recognized the "law" of the land, there must be some misgivings among those involved in the Georgia case, misgivings about the unchecked power exhibited thus far by federal courts from the lowest rung all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

This misgiving is justified when one realizes the Georgia legislature was not even allowed to voice authority over how it could spend school funds. This example came in the statute providing the governor with power to cut off funds to any school that had to integrate. A federal order enjoined the state government from closing the school through the use of this state law, and as far as the Georgia integration fight was concerned, that was that. Governor Ernest Vandiver protested the sweeping nature "of these orders attempting to take over the state legislative and executive processes."

In the future, any state, city or locality wishing to oppose forced integration of public schools will have to embark on strategy far different from any tried thus far in the Southern states. A successive string of failures attests to the determination and awesome power now being wielded by federal courts and judges.

Luckily, Consumers Are Saving

By ELMER ROESSNER
In the current curious recession, both personal income and personal expenditures have kept rising. But spending would have risen even more if it were not for the fact that consumers have been saving more.

Personal savings during the third quarter of 1960 were at an annual rate of $29.2 billion, the highest ever. And they were probably even higher during the fourth quarter.

Savings are worth more than they have been in most of the last 25 years because interest rates are higher. That prompts many consumers to save instead of spend.

And because savings institutions can get higher rates for the money they lend, they are eager to amass as much as possible for lending.

BANKS FOR MONEY
Bank interest rates, as even the kids in school saving plans now know, are higher than they have been through most of the last 25 years. And savings and loan associations, especially in those states where they are able to obtain high interest rates on mortgages, are offering even higher rates.

And in addition, they are throwing in more gifts than the pitchmen used to do at the old country fairs. Remember when they'd offer a Kewpie doll to everybody who would take three or more chances on the wheel of fortune?

No bisque dolls today! A California S&L association offers an electric percolator plus 4 1/2 per cent for deposits of $1,500 or more. Another offers sterling silver, salt and pepper shakers and the same rate for deposits of $1,000 and up.

Other "free gifts" — the Federal Trade Commission is napping for deposits offered by California S&L associations include candied fruit, cooking utensils, electric blankets, watches and ovenware sets.

LOTTERIES, TOO

Illinois S&L companies offer cameras, lighters, clocks, handbags and serving carts. A New York association is offering "100 per cent genuine" china.

United Savings & Loan of Chicago, is offering a chance on a free trip to Hawaii (on United Air Lines, hatch) and Sterling Savings and Loan, of La Habra, Calif., is offering a free trip via Pan American to Brazil and "1,001 fabulous prizes," which should cause investors to look up "fabulous" in the dictionary.

Sterling's ad in The New York Times depicts a space rocket, which ought to make Pan Am a bit uneasy. Banks, generally offering slighter interest rates, have been competing in the presents field. A Philadelphia bank offers $1 certificates for "new savings" accounts of $10 or more; a South Carolina bank gives free $2 deposits to each baby born in its area; and other banks offer appliances and other durables to those who start new

Safest Bets Of Today

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—With the new administration coming into office, the wise investor will play safe. If J.F.K. takes his father's advice, investors should have nothing to fear; but if he takes the advice of "wild-eyed" college professors we may have much to fear.

IMPORTANCE OF SECURITY
Bonds of a company are always safer than the stocks of the same company; but stocks of some companies are safer than the bonds of other companies. Hence, readers cannot feel safe by just buying either stocks or bonds. Everything in the world is good and/or bad. No one rule will apply to all persons or to all classes of investments or real estate.

It is also wise to consider the relative prices of bonds before you buy them. The average price of good bonds has varied to yield between a high of 4 1/2 per cent in 1960 and a low near 3 per cent in 1946. This means that bonds were highest priced in 1946 and lowest in 1960. Hence, this is a good time to buy good bonds, although they are a little higher than a year ago. There are three different groups of bonds, although they are a little higher than a year ago. There are three different groups of bonds, arranged in the order of their safety, as follows:

1. U. S. Government Bonds. These are mostly held by banks. Although very safe, they do not yield very high interest; yet this interest is taxable for individuals. The short maturities yield the least, while the long maturities yield the most. If you want them as a reserve for "quick money", buy the short maturities; but if you want them for income, buy the long maturities.

2. Tax-exempt Municipal Bonds. There are two kinds: (1) the fixed-interest municipals issued by cities, towns, counties, and states. I suggest that you avoid bonds of big cities. Buy the bonds of medium-sized cities in the interior of the United States.

The capital cities of interior states should be the safest of all, and carry a fair yield. All these are non-taxable for federal tax purposes. You can also buy (2) non-taxable "revenue bonds," but the interest on these is not guaranteed. Most turnpike bonds are in this latter class. So long as the turnpikes are used sufficiently, the "tolls" pay the interest; but if the tolls are not sufficient, full interest is not paid. This explains why turnpike revenue bonds yield higher than straight municipals.

3. Corporate Mortgage Bonds and Debentures. Bonds of corporations are also of different kinds, but all are taxable as to interest. To readers of this column I recommend the mortgage bonds of public utility companies, such as the company to which you pay your light and power bill. The sale of electricity is constantly increasing and — though subject to rate regulation — these companies have a monopoly. They are also freest from union labor interference.

Most industrial bonds should be good provided they are not subordinated to bank loans or other indebtedness. Income bonds may be good speculations following a drastic reorganization. Debenture bonds are unsecured and hence often not suitable for small investors, unless accompanied with attractive conversion privileges. The El Paso Natural Gas 5 1/4's due in 1977 are a favorite of mine; yielding about 4 1/2 per cent. I do not like railroad bonds or bonds of manufacturing companies subject to competition.

For 62 years my family has been helping investors to conserve their savings and secure reasonable capital gains. For 40 years I have been writing this weekly column. The great lesson which I have learned is the importance of diversification. Hence, why not buy some short-term government bonds to turn quickly into cash in an emergency; plus some public utility mortgage bonds for good income; plus some tax-free municipals to save income taxes; plus a few convertible bonds as a speculation?

Most important of all, train yourself to develop patience, the ability to wait for the big market moves in bonds, stocks, and real estate. Patience, diversification, and compound interest are the big necessities for making a fortune.

Tribesmen Attack Hospital In Congo, Fire On UN Soldiers

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo provincial capital controlled by Baluba warriors attacked a hospital at Luena and severely wounded a Belgian doctor, the United Nations reported today. The U.N. command said Congolese also opened fire on Moroccan soldiers of the United Nations stationed in the same Katanga town. The Moroccans returned fire but no casualties were reported. Both attacks took place Sunday. White refugees fleeing from race violence waged by the Lumumbists in Kivu Province have been pouring into a refuge set up by the United Nations at Goma. The U.N. command today was trying to obtain the release of six American missionaries and their families who were arrested while trying to get out of Kivu. White refugees said the missionaries, their wives and 17 children—29 persons in all—were seized by Congolese troops while trying to cross the Ruzizi River into the Belgian trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi Saturday. The Americans reportedly were grouped at the frontier bridge leading to the Ruanda town of Shanquou, put in Congolese army trucks, and driven to Bukavu, the provincial capital controlled by followers of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba. (The missionaries apparently are members of the Berean Mission, an interdenominational group with headquarters in St. Louis. Mrs. C. Reuben Lindquist, wife of the Berean president, said in St. Louis the group has 13 adults and 16 children, in the Congo or Ruanda-Urundi. (In Wheaton, Ill., an official of the Conservative Baptist Foreign Missions Board said a member of his group, Dr. R. H. Bothwell, had arranged for the Berean missionaries to leave Kivu. The only families known to have been in the party, he said, were the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Hurlburt of Wheaton, Ill., and the Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Handyside of Webster, N.Y. Others known to be in Kivu, he said, are Dr. Bothwell; the Rev. and Mrs. James Kruehner, who have no permanent U.S. address; the Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Kile of Grenada, Minn.; the Rev. and Mrs. William Battishall of Warren, Mich.; and Ruth Uhlinger of Mentone, Calif.) Congolese troops refused to recognize the group's passes, other refugees said. In north Katanga Province Swedish U.N. guards fought off Baluba tribesmen attacking a train near the town of Bukama Sunday. Three Swedes were wounded and several tribesmen were reported killed. A U.N. spokesman said 120 Swedish soldiers aboard the train were moving from Elisabethville, capital of Katanga, to Kamina, in Kasai Province, to relieve U.N. Moroccan troops on another train that was attacked by the Balubas last week. The relief train finally reached the Moroccans, the U.N. spokesman said, and the Swedes provided covering fire as the Moroccans switched trains. The U.N. Command announced it would not officially answer a demand from the Congo's foreign minister, Justin Bomboko, that the Indian head of the U.N. Congo operation, Rajeshwar Dayal, be removed. Bomboko, in a letter Saturday denounced the entire U.N. operation in the Congo and charged Dayal showed partiality to factions backing Lumumba.

Sanford Cites NC Opportunity

DURHAM (AP)—If North Carolina "can keep on the move," Gov. Terry Sanford told about 200 Young Democrats here Saturday night, "there's no limit to how far we will go in industry, education, farming and any other thing we set our minds to." He said the state "now has the opportunity to move into the main stream of organizations such as this," referring to the YDC. The group held its installation ceremonies, with Samuel Johnson becoming president, an office Sanford held years ago in his climb to the governorship. Ralph Potter was installed secretary and Fred Davis treasurer. Other officers installed were Charles Kivett and Lou Constantinou, national committeeman and committeewoman; the state vice presidents—Keith Moore and Janice Hardison, Eastern District; Fred Sigmon Jr. and Marguerite Dowdy, Western District; Charles Hobson and Irene Dobson, Middle District; and Charles Smith, president of college YDCs. Smith, a Western Carolina student, also was named the collegiate Young Democrat of the year.

$5.3 Billions Proposed For Veterans Programs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower proposed to Congress today that $5.3 billion be spent for veterans programs in the year beginning July 1. That would be an increase of $69 million over his recommendation for this fiscal year. The President said expenditures for pensions will increase during the 1962-fiscal year and will continue to increase for many years under laws now in effect. "An increasing proportion of the total expenditures of the Veterans Administration is attributable to disabilities, diseases, or deaths not related to military service," Eisenhower said in his budget message. "The trend raises serious questions about the further expansion of veterans programs, particularly since veterans, their dependents, and survivors of veterans, total about 80 million people or over two-fifths of our total population." "The improvement in recent years of general welfare programs, for which veterans as well as others are eligible, coupled with the improvements in veterans programs, has reduced the justification for providing additional special benefits to veterans on the basis of non-service-connected factors. "Any further expansion of non-service-connected benefits would create serious inequalities and threaten between veterans and others in our population." The budget proposes expenditure of about $1 billion for hospital and medical care, an increase of $43 million over the current fiscal year. It also contemplates another $75 million annual phase of the 12-year $900 million hospital modernization program initiated last year with $77,913,000 actually proposed for expenditure to use up a saving of $2,913,000 effected this year. This program would include $112 million for construction of a 500-bed general hospital at Charleston, S.C. to replace an existing hospital. The President recommended discontinuance on July 25 of the program under which home loan guarantee is extended to World War II veterans. Though Congress last year extended this program until July 25, 1962, Eisenhower said the need of such loan guarantee assistance is no longer required to help World War II veterans in readjustment to civilian life 15 years after the end of that war. He renewed a recommendation for vocational rehabilitation benefits for peacetime servicemen having substantial service-connected disabilities. BIRTHDAY GREETINGS OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The state of Oklahoma got one birthday card on its 35th birthday last Nov. 16. It was from Duane Zappa of Minneapolis, Oklahoma Secretary of State Bill Christian was so moved, he wrote a letter to the Minnesota man thanking him for remembering.

Crowd Turns On 'Nazi' Pickets Outside Movie

BOSTON (AP)—An angry crowd estimated by police at 10,000, hurling eggs and tomatoes Sunday ripped a swastika off George Lincoln Rockwell, self-styled "feuhrer" of the American Nazi Party, and routed an attempt by him and four "storm troopers" to picket a downtown movie. In Chicago, a group of pickets wearing armbands and calling themselves the Fighting American Nationalists were escorted away from a Loop theater by police after scuffling with patrons. Police dispersed a crowd estimated at 200. Both theaters were showing the same film, "Exodus," a story of the Jewish migration to Israel and the establishment of the Jewish state. Rockwell, of Arlington, Va., and his companions, were led away through a side door of the theater, taken to a police station in protective custody and later placed aboard a New York-bound plane. No charges were placed against them. At Boothbay Harbor, Maine, old-time vaudeville and radio comedian George R. "Doc" Rockwell, a close friend of the late Fred Allen, identified the American Nazi leader as his son, a former Maine artist and publisher.

Play At Western Carolina Tonight

Lenoir Rhyne Dumps ECC, 92-65

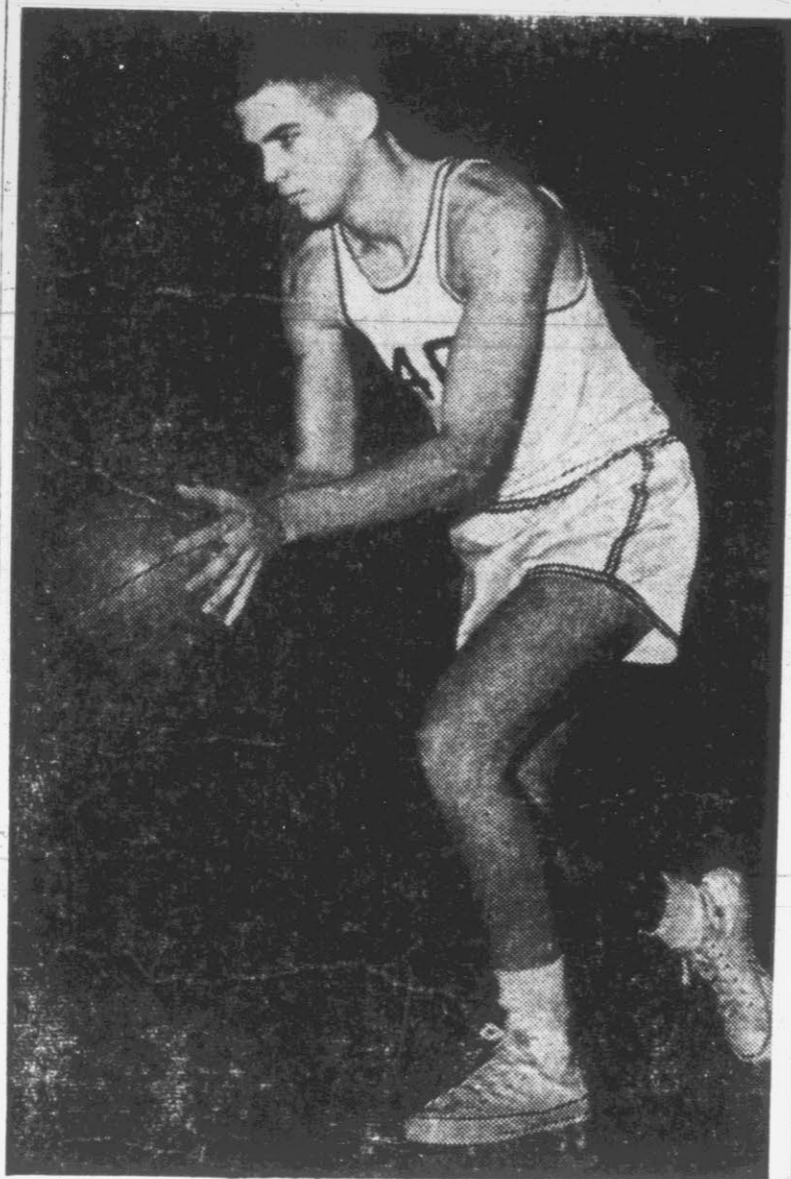

HICKORY, N. C.—Lenoir Rhyne's sophomore-studded lineup arose to the occasion here Saturday night and dumped East Carolina with relatively little pain, 92-65, for its ninth straight win.

The victory for the Bears avenged an earlier 90-67 drubbing by East Carolina—one of two defeats recorded on Lenoir Rhyne's season record.

The defeat left East Carolina with a 6-4 mark for the season as they prepared for another toughie Western Carolina, tonight in Cullowhee.

A gigantic sophomore, Jerry Wells, plugged the basket like a plumber in pacing the energetic Bears to victory.

Hooking with both hands, Wells showed the poise of a pro in scoring 34 points and leading a Lenoir Rhyne-dominated battle on the boards.

AVAILABLE FOR DUTY—Pete Hunt, a senior, is one of Greenville's top seven this season. He will be expected to see duty when the Phantoms meet Elizabeth City tomorrow night.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (AP)—Atlanta's Louise Suggs has captured the Sea Island Ladies Open Golf Tournament with a 54-hole total of 220.

Miss Suggs, beginning her 13th year as a pro, picked up $997.60 of the $6,000 prize money with her final round of 76.

Marlene Bauer Hage, of Del Ray Beach, Fla., soared to a dismal 79 to tie for second at 230 with Ruth Jensen of Seattle.

Defending champion Mickey Wright of Dallas, Tex., also shot a 76 and moved into a three-way tie at third place with Marilyn Smith of Jupiter, Fla., and Kathy Cornelius of Springfield, Ohio. They had totals of 231.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Murray Halberg, who should run in strange surroundings more often, today can claim an indoor world record in the two-mile event.

Halberg found himself in Portland Saturday night about to run on a board track for the first time in his life. He didn't have on his own shoes, his own long spikes being good only outdoors.

So the little New Zealander, who won the 5,000-meter race in the last Olympics, bore down. He won by 80 yards and clipped nearly 12 seconds from the recognized indoor two-mile mark.

The time was 8:34.3 minutes. The recognized mark was 8:46, set by Al Lawrence, an Australian, enrolled at Houston University, last year.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Baltimore's magnificent Johnny Unitas today was the conquering hero for the second straight year after passing and running the West to a 35-31 victory over the East in the 11th annual Pro Bowl.

A Memorial Coliseum crowd of 62,971, sweltering in summer-like weather Sunday, watched Unitas and Philadelphia's Norm Van Brocklin engaged in a savage quarterback duel in the traditional post-season game of National Football League All Stars.

Van Brocklin, who has announced his retirement, almost—but not quite—made his finale from a dozen years in the pro wars a glorious one. He passed for three touchdowns.

BOSTON (AP)—Paul Pender went into seclusion after making (1) a successful defense of his version of the world middleweight title and (2) a national television challenge of Gene Fullmer, but his manager had some choice words to say.

"He'd cut Fullmer to pieces," said crusty old Johnny Buckley, Pender's positive Fullmer is afraid of him.

From the Fullmer camp in West Jordan, Utah, came a conflicting report.

Mary Jensen, Fullmer's manager, said his bruising slugger would be "more than happy to fight Pender any place he's not recognized as champion."

He is recognized in Massachusetts, New York and Europe. Fullmer owns the National Boxing Association version of the crown. He is scheduled to defend against Sugar Ray Robinson Feb. 25.

"I want the winner of the Fullmer-Robinson fight," Pender said just after disposing of game young Terry Downes in seven rounds Saturday night. "I want that one real bad. I want to clear up this mess about the title."

COLUMBIA (AP)—The South Atlantic baseball league will open the 1961 season April 17.

This was decided Sunday at a meeting here of representatives of the eight teams in the Class A league.

The only general manager not attending was Phil Houser of the Charlotte team. He is ill.

The schedule will end Sept. 5, and will offer 140 games for each team.

Heaviest player in the National Hockey League is Elmer (Mouse) Vasko of the Chicago Black Hawks. He weighs 210 pounds.

A 6-5, 210 pounder, Wells scored 19 points in the first half in helping build a 41-32 padding at intermission.

The Bears, always hot on their home court, jumped into the lead on a jump shot by Tommy Burton and were never behind.

After seven minutes had elapsed, the Bruins pulled into a 14-6 lead. With less than five minutes remaining, LR continued to control play and led 35-21.

Paced by a couple of long-jumpers by Cotton Clayton, East Carolina hit one of their few hot streaks with 2-20 left and pulled to within six points, 35-29.

The bulky Wells took charge and made six straight points and the Bears built the lead back to nine points at halftime.

The tide failed to change in the second half and Lenoir Rhyne pumped in a steady flow of baskets to swamp East Carolina with its worst defeat of the season.

The Bucs swapped buckets with the host club for the first few minutes in the second half and pulled to within eight points, 57-49, with 11 minutes left to play.

Tommy Burton, a deadeye-Dick from the outside, hit a couple of long shots and LR went to outscore East Carolina 11-0 over a short span of time.

This along with Wells continued domination off the boards broke the game open and sent the Bruins home safely.

Emil Dixon, who also did a nifty job off the boards, chipped in with 21 points and Burton finished with 18.

In winning their ninth straight and eighth within the conference, Lenoir Rhyne shot at an unbeatable 62 percent from the floor.

East Carolina could hit on only 26-80 attempts for 32.5 percent. And the Bucs had trouble from the free throw line, cashing in on only 13 of 22 chances for 59.1 percent.

Cotton Clayton was top point maker for East Carolina with 16 points. Don Smith, the clubs top scorer, was held to 13.

The Bears used a 2-3 zone in curtailing East Carolina's high-scoring offensive attack. The Bucs had entered the games averaging almost 80 points per contest and leading the league in scoring.

Phantoms Bid For Third League Win Greenville's sometimes prolific and sometimes pathetic causers hit the road tomorrow in hopes of jumping back into the victory column against a winless Elizabeth City five.

The Phantoms were bumped 67-50 by Roanoke Rapids Friday night and Elizabeth City succumbed to New Bern 70-53.

Greenville, 2-2 in the conference, got good service from John Bynum against Roanoke Rapids but looked unstable as a formidable club.

Bynum, along with Layne Jorgensen, gives Coach Bo Emley a couple of big men under the buckets. Against height-shy Elizabeth City, the two should earn their keep.

Elizabeth City has suffered four straight defeats within the conference and on paper don't shape up to compare with the invading Phantoms.

The seafaring club was dumped by Kingston (71-49), Washington (49-31), Roanoke Rapids (84-45) and New Bern.

Greenville holds wins from New Bern (60-50) and Jacksonville (58-53) but was wrought by Tar Heels (53-11).

Ohio State, DePaul Only College Teams Unbeaten

By DON WEISS Associated Press Sports Writer There's a new Big O in college basketball these days—Ohio State's Buckeyes, who collectively are bent on dominating the game with ability, poise and consistency the way Oscar (Big O) Robertson did at Cincinnati the last three years.

Basketball hits the slack, mid-term exam period today with Ohio State's defending NCAA champions carrying a 12-0 season record, a nation-leading 17-game winning streak, a well-balanced attack led by All-America Jerry Lucas and clear cut ranking as the best team around.

Only Ohio State and unranked DePaul, now 11-0 with a 12-game winning streak, remain unbeaten among the major teams. Coach Ray Meyer's Demons, who passed a severe test by whipping previously unbeaten Louisville 78-70 Saturday, have a series of rugged road games coming up, starting Tuesday at Notre Dame. The Irish have a 22-game home court winning streak.

If Notre Dame can't manage it, DePaul has road dates against Indiana, Western Kentucky, Marquette, Providence and St. Bonaventure during the next month. Ohio State, with Lucas' ailing knee apparently almost recovered, stays within a Big Ten conference schedule the rest of the way—resuming Saturday against Minnesota. The Buckeyes, who got 30 points from Lucas in a 79-45 rout of Northwestern last Saturday, seem to be free of upset trouble until the middle of next month, when they have back-to-back road games at Iowa Feb. 18 and Indiana Feb. 20. Indiana was the only Big Ten team to beat Ohio State last year.

Iowa, ranked sixth nationally last week, is coming on—having won nine straight for an 11-1 season record. The Hawks have joined Bradley (13-1), St. Bonaventure (13-1) and beaten only by Ohio State, North Carolina (10-2), Duke (13-1) Kansas State (11-2), Louisville (13-1), Southern California (11-2), and Mississippi State (10-3) in the first tier of challengers to the Big O of the Big Ten.

Except for Bradley, Southern Cal and Duke, who take a two-week break during the exam period, each has a chance to improve its credentials during the next week.

Third-ranked St. Bonaventure, which rode Tom Stith's 46 points to an 88-68 rout of Niagara last Saturday, plays Canisius at Buffalo next Saturday. Fourth-ranked Louisville is at Xavier of Ohio Wednesday and home to Dayton in the national TV game Saturday afternoon. St. Johns, 10-2 after losing to St. Joseph's (Pa.) and beating St. Francis (NY) last week, is idle. But Iowa has a pair of Big Ten games—at home against Illinois tonight and at Purdue on Saturday.

North Carolina, which has boosted its winning streak to eight since the probationary action of the NCAA last week, is at Maryland tonight and at North Carolina State Wednesday. Kansas State, No. 9, plays Kansas for the Big Eight led Friday, after running its win string to ten, 69-57 over Oklahoma.

Mississippi State, which spilled previously unbeaten Vanderbilt, 74-65 last Saturday, gets a chance to further establish itself as the Southeastern Conference favorite with a pair of home games—Georgia Tech tonight and Mississippi Saturday.

Other major pairings tonight include Michigan at Michigan State, Northwestern at Minnesota, Wake Forest at Clemson, Vanderbilt at Mississippi, Toledo at Ohio U., The Citadel at Furman, Oklahoma State at Kansas, Oklahoma at Colorado, and Texas A&M at Texas.

Minor Alteration In New Grid Rules

By WHITNEY MARTIN Associated Press Sports Writer MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—College football, as far as the spectator is concerned, will look just the same in 1961 as it did in 1960.

The rule makers of the National Collegiate Athletic Association labored for three days, and at the conclusion of their annual meeting Sunday announced a minor alteration in the always controversial substitution rule.

That, and a toothless condemnation of sideline coaching, were virtually the products of prolonged discussion of a myriad of suggestions.

"The proposal for unlimited substitution was overwhelmingly defeated," said General Robert R. Neyland of Tennessee, committee chairman, adding that the group had no disposition to return to the two-platoon system.

The alteration in the "wild card" rule of the past season largely is for the benefit of coaches.

Last year a player could enter the game alone between downs as many times as desired without the entry being recorded against him. He was allowed only two recorded Wyoming 79, Brigham Young 71 a period, however, meaning entry as part of a group.

"Under the rule as we have altered it the first player of a group coming on the field is considered a wild card, and the entry is not charged to him," Neyland said.

"He must come on enough in advance of the others to make it obvious he is the wild card."

"A coach in doubt as to the eligibility of a player and who wants to send him in with a group can make him the first man on the field, and such an entry is not questioned."

The rules makers deplored sideline coaching and the calling of signals by substitutions, and rewrote the rule to clarify their opinion. The rules has no bite, however, the coaches being left

Palmer, the National Open and money-winning champion last year, agreed that the victory here Sunday took a lot of doing.

It took a 6-under-par 65 and a birdie 3 on the extra hole Sunday death playoff to down plucky Al Balding of Canada. I took an amazing 40-foot putt for an eagle and several other great shots to win the $2,800 first money.

Balding collected $1,900 plus $100 more when the tournament chairman, Tom Lanphier "accidentally" made the check out for $2,000.

Palmer, headed for the Big Crosby tournament with the winner's paycheck in his pocket from the $20,000 San Diego Open Tournament.

Put aside momentarily at least was the recollection of the terrible 12 he took on one hole in Los Angeles and the score that didn't even qualify him for the final two rounds.

have to worry about a thing. We'll look after your store for you. Hector, that's what we're for. Granada climbed out and said to Whitey: "I think I got him quieted down. Better get him to emergency in a hurry. His injuries may be worse than they look."

The crowd began to disperse, perhaps to avoid association with these sentiments. Granada raised his voice. "You people from the neighborhood, come into the store, please, all of you. Mr. Broadman has been assaulted, maybe robbed. Any information you can give us will be appreciated."

Reluctantly, in twos and threes, the people who had gathered moved into the front of the store. There were nearly twenty of them. They took up awkward positions on Broadman's collection of old furniture. Granada asked them questions while Wills prowled the store.

Broadman was trying to crawl under a Hollywood bed. It stood too close to the floor. He rooted at it with his damaged head. The ambulance men got hold of him with firm and gentle hands. He bucked like a wall-eyed bronco in their arms.

Granada was a powerful, bull-shouldered man. With his help Broadman was quickly subdued. They carried him out, still convulsive. A crowd gathered around the ambulance buzzing like flies at the sight of blood.

Broadman had lapsed into silence. Granada's voice went on in a calming rhythm. "You don't

I heard Broadman fired him." "People say a lot of things that are not true, Mr. Granada." Manuel put ironic emphasis on the "Mister."

An old-fashioned black iron safe squatted in one corner of the wire enclosure. An unmade cot was partly hidden by a huge old desk.

I stepped back from an open trap door through which a flight of wooden steps descended into watery yellow gloom. The telephone rang and Wills came up the steps three at a time and lifted the receiver.

"Too bad. You better send over the identification squad. Got that?" Wills hung up and said to Granada: "Broadman died on the way to the hospital."

Suffocated His Child In Mishap

ABLENE, Tex. (AP) — The death of a child has been blamed on a fatal heart attack suffered by his 400-pound father.

The bodies of Dr. William G. Buchanan, 31, a chiropractor, and his son, James Ross, 2, were found by Mrs. Buchanan Sunday.

A physician said Buchanan apparently suffered a heart attack during the night and rolled over on his son, suffocating the child.

Grateful, But Still Expensive

Birmingham man is grateful to the county for filling the gaping hole in his front yard — but he faces several hundred dollars in repairs to his house and yard.

After David Holland discovered the 6 by 4 foot hole next to his house riday he and his family spent an uneasy night. They were more uneasy Saturday when the hole was found to be 83 feet deep — filled mostly with water of an underground stream.

Jefferson County officers told Holland he would be responsible for street damage unless he permitted the hole to be filled immediately. Workmen poured about 425 yards of dirt, cinders and gravel into the 20-foot wide chasm.

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy takes time out today from consultations on appointees and speeches to write a letter to Billy Graham. Kennedy, who is scheduled to leave Palm Beach Tuesday afternoon to fly to Washington and New York for a round of activity in advance of his Friday inauguration, addressed more work today on the address he will deliver after taking the oath of office. With several more key positions to be filled before taking over the reins of government, the president-elect is spending considerable time in consultation regarding prospective appointees. Today he announced the appointment of a career government official, John M. Ledy, as assistant secretary of the Treasury for international affairs. Ledy, 46, has held State Department positions since 1941 and for the last two years has been assistant to Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon, who is secretary of the Treasury — will continue to be his chief. A native of Chicago, Ledy has a bachelor's degree from Georgetown University School of Foreign Service. He began his government career in 1934 with the Home Owners Loan Corporation. The president-elect's luncheon date with Graham was arranged. Kennedy's headquarters said, by Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., who also is invited. During the presidential campaign when Kennedy's Roman Catholicism was an issue, Graham did not publicly endorse either Kennedy or his Republican opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon. The evangelist gave a well-publicized invocation at a rally for the GOP candidate, a close friend. Over the weekend Kennedy announced these other selections: Elvis J. Stahr Jr., 44, president of West Virginia University, as secretary of the Army. This completed organization of the Pentagon high command under Robert S. McNamara, former president of the Ford Motor Co., as secretary of defense. Dr. Luther L. Terry of Rockville, Md., as surgeon general of the United States. Terry, 49, will head the Public Health Service. He now is assistant director of the National Heart Institute, one of the government's major medical research units, and is a member of the faculty of Johns Hopkins University Medical School. Former Rep. James M. Quigley, 42, Pennsylvania Democrat defeated for re-election last November, as assistant secretary of federal and state matters in the Health, Education and Welfare Department. Wilbur Cohen of Ann Arbor, Mich., as assistant secretary in that department for legislative matters. Cohen, 47, headed a Kennedy-appointed study group on Social Security matters. Alanson W. Willcox, 59, as general counsel of the same department. Willcox, whose home is in Washington, now is general counsel of the American Hospital Association. Robert J. Burkhardt, 44, of Titusville, N.J., as assistant postmaster general for facilities. Burkhardt is a former executive secretary to Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and has been director of the New Jersey Democratic Central Committee.

Red China came out in support of Cambodia's proposal for a 14-nation parley to seek an end to the Laotian conflict. Radio Beijing said Foreign Minister Chen Yi had asked Britain and the Soviet Union, co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina, to call such a session soon. Six top Laotian ambassadors were to fly to Luang Prabang today to brief King Savang Vatthana on international proposals to solve the crisis. One envoy said the government is ready to "accept international mediation at any time." The Peking broadcast accused the United States of actively supporting Premier Boum Ouin's pro-Western government and attempting to expand the civil war. Pravda, the Soviet newspaper, again voiced Soviet approval for an international conference and charged that another consignment of American planes, including jet fighters, is being readied in Thailand for transfer to the pro-Western Laotian government.

Narcotics Count Is Facing Pair
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former child star Jackie Coogan and a former striptease dancer will be charged today with narcotics law violations, the district attorney's office said. Coogan, 45, and Nona Carver, 40, were arrested with two others Jan. 7 when sheriff's deputies said they found enough marijuana in Coogan's Malibu home to make 200 cigarettes. Coogan denied knowledge of the narcotics.

Crew To Receive Flight Trophy
 EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The crew of a record-breaking B38 Hustler bomber will receive the 1961 Thompson Trophy, the Air Force says. The superionic, four-engine Convair turbojet streaked over the California-Arizona desert Saturday at an average speed of 1,294.73, nearly 100 miles per hour better than a record set two days earlier in another B38. Receiving the trophy given to military personnel for outstanding air speed achievements will be the pilot, Maj. Harold E. Confer, McCook, Nev.; Maj. Richard H. Weir, Pasadena, Calif.; and Capt. Howard S. Bialas, Birmingham, Ala. In Greek mythology, Echo was a nymph who grieved so over the failure of Narcissus to return her affection that she pined away until nothing was left but her voice. SCHOOL REUNION
 NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — About a year after the Glen McCaslin family moved here from Kent, Ohio, their daughter, Janet, came home from second grade and reported she was seated next to Bobby Stinson, whose family had lived across the street from the McCaslins in Kent. The remains of an earthen fort, affection that she pined away until nothing was left but her voice. Missouri's Van Meter State Park.

the electric lineman:

rough weather warrior

When winter weather is at its worst, the electric lineman must do his best — to keep essential electricity on the lines to you. Bad weather is bad news for your electric system, because sometimes it overcomes all the modern devices used to keep power flowing. That's when the electric lineman must put on his "climbers" and go up the poles to correct the trouble. He's your rough weather friend, working under tough conditions so you can have electricity at your command, night and day.

 BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Lockheed is claiming the world's largest private telephone system — 100,000 miles of leased lines expected to save the company $250,000 a year. The giant line with 21,727 phones was scheduled to go into operation today, connecting the firm's missile, aircraft, electronics, shipbuilding and space activities from Puget Sound in Washington to Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Laotian Rebels Take Key Staging Base From Govm't

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Rebel capture of the key staging base of Ta Vieng dealt a major blow over the weekend to government plans to attack Communist forces to the north. Soldiers and civilians began digging trenches in Vientiane and Luang Prabang as the new Red offensive posed a threat to both cities. Premier Boum Ouin struck back with the four T6 training planes received from the United States making rocket and machinegun attacks on the pro-Communist forces who drove 1,000 to 1,500 government troops from Ta Vieng Friday. The squadron reported destroying a rebel truck but heavy fog prevented determining other damage. Departure of some security police and troops from Vientiane southward to Savannakhet sparked rumors that the government was planning to evacuate the capital, but most officials denied any such move. Reports that the rebels were advancing on two important fronts caused apprehension in the vital government bases of Pakxane and Tha Thom and travelers said tense forces massed there last week for a drive to the north against Red-held Xieng Khouang Province appeared in a state of confusion. Ta Vieng and Tha Thom 14 miles eastward had been set up as staging areas for the promised government thrust against Xieng Khouang, the Plaine des Jarres, and its strategic air strip, which the rebels seized last month.

Pope, Cardinals Begin Secret Consistory Today

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII and members of the College of Cardinals met in secret consistory today to elevate Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis, Mo., and three other prelates to the Roman Catholic Church's princely ranks. Promptly at 9:30 a.m. the warm announcement of "excellent ones" — all out — was sounded, and the massive doors of the Vatican Palace's Consistorial Hall were closed on the pontiff and the cardinals in Rome. After the cardinals gave their assent to the Pope's nomination of the four prelates, papal messengers went out with the official "bulletin" notifying the four that they had been raised to the College of Cardinals. Cardinal Ritter received his big betto at the Pontifical North American College. Two Latin American archbishops elevated today — Jose Humberto Quintero of Caracas, Venezuela, and Luis Concha Cordoba of Bogota, Colombia — were notified at the Pontifical Latin American College. The fourth new cardinal is Msgr. Giuseppe Ferretto of the Vatican Curia, the secretary of the Pontifical Commission for Latin America. The secret meeting of the Pope and the previous cardinals was the first of four consistories being held this week for the elevation of the four prelates. At a semi-public consistory on Wednesday Pope John will give the new prelates their birettas, the square-shaped hats of office. The highlight will be a brilliant public consistory in St. Peter's Basilica Thursday, when the new cardinals receive their gaudy-brimmed red hats. At a final secret consistory Thursday the Pope will present their cardinal rings and titles to churches in Rome. Archbishop Ritter will receive title to St. Alphonsus, a century-old church recently designated a titular church. Elevation of the four new cardinals raised the record high of 85. It was the fourth consistory held by Pope John since he was elected pontiff Oct. 28, 1958. In all he has named 42 cardinals, plus three others named "in pectore" or secretly, whose identity the Pope has not yet made public.

ANCIENT FOREST

MANITOWOC, Wis. (AP)—Excavation of a gravel pit recently uncovered a forest of trees all lying in the same direction. University of Wisconsin scientists, estimating the wood was about 11,000 years old, believe one of the great glaciers that overspread Wisconsin buried the trees.

NEW YORK (AP)—Gold mining shares advanced in a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .20 to 228.10 with industrials up .10, rails off .10, and utilities up .30.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point, were the general rule for key stocks.

Gold shares rose in the wake of the government order prohibiting U.S. citizens from holding gold abroad. Investment in gold mining issues, however, remains legally available to those who are betting on an increase in the price of gold. Meanwhile, the price of bullion in the London market was off sharply.

The market as a whole was meeting upside resistance after three weeks of advance.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .12 at 633.53.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. governments were lower.

2-Car Collision Takes Five Lives

RAMSEUR, N.C. (AP)—A 16-year-old boy, turned down when he applied for a driver's license, was at the wheel of one of the cars in a two-car collision that took five lives near here Sunday.

Leroy Williams, Negro of Asheville, was one of the victims of the wreck.

The other dead were Miss Gaynell Hilley, 18, of Anderson, S.C., passenger in the other car; and Amos Gentry, 53; his wife, Besie; and Mrs. Viola Darden. The Gentry couple and Mrs. Darden all Negroes of Asheville, were riding in the car with Williams.

Mrs. Ruth Rice Hilley, 41, of Anderson, mother of the dead girl, was taken to Randolph County Hospital in serious condition, suffering from internal injuries and a possible skull fracture.

Patrolman I. L. Bolick said young Williams had in his wallet papers showing he had failed in efforts to get a driver's license. The officer said several broken liquor bottles were found in the car.

Mrs. Hilley and her daughter were on their way home from a trip to Durham to visit a relative in Duke Hospital. Mrs. Hilley was driving.

Patrolman Bolick said the mishap occurred on U.S. 64, wet from rain, about three miles east of Ramseur.

The car driven by Williams, Bolick related, was on the wrong side of the road on a sharp curve and smashed head-on into the other vehicle.

Probing Thefts Of Copper Wire

Local detectives said investigation is under way into the theft of a quantity of copper wire from the Greenville Utilities Commission plant on Third St.

According to investigators, the thefts have been taking place over a period of time, with the first reported about one year ago. Only a small amount of wire has been taken each time, police said, noting that the largest amount taken at any one time was just before Christmas when several "hands" of wire were removed.

Investigators explained that a "hand" is a small roll of wire carried on the utilities service trucks for their regular use.

No estimate of the value of the wire could be given, police said, due to the small amount taken each time.

Demos Start Week Of Hoopla Tonight

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP)—If ever there was a week for Democrats to celebrate, this is it. On Friday, one of their own, John F. Kennedy, will be inaugurated President, ending eight years of Republican federal rule.

And the Democrats mean to celebrate, starting tonight with a reception for one of their venerable leaders, House Speaker Sam Rayburn, 79.

The Republicans, however, won't be entirely left out in the cold. The soon-to-be "outs" cut into a week of partying for the new "ins" with a "Transition Ball" tonight in honor of the outgoing Eisenhower administration. What started out as a modest affair has gotten unexpected response from Republicans.

They hope to muster 15,000 to dance until midnight to a 13-piece orchestra.

Ball chairman Lyman Brownfield explains: "There are some people who have some reservations about attending certain functions this month, but do, nevertheless, want to take part in a ball to have fun and say goodbye to their many friends."

Texas, including Vice President-elect and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, are expected to dominate the Rayburn reception to which some 250 persons have been invited. Soft music and a sumptuous buffet will mark the party given by Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Boyd of McKinney, Tex.; for Rayburn and his two sisters, Mrs. W.A. Thomas of Dallas and Mrs. S.E. Bartley of Bonham, Tex.

Throughout the week, Washington will be on a party kick with scores of dances, receptions, dinners and private celebrations.

Kennedy himself is coming back from Palm Beach Tuesday and will put in an appearance at a party his sister, Jean Kennedy Smith, is giving for the cast of the inaugural gala.

The Gala is a star-studded evening of entertainment being produced by Frank Sinatra and Kennedy's brother-in-law, actor Peter Lawford. Top talent from Broadway and Hollywood, taking part in the event, will be guests of the Smiths, who have expanded the facilities of their small Georgetown home by setting up a heated tent in their garden.

Fashion experts are predicting Washington is in for a boom in elegant formal wear, sparked by Kennedy's decision to bring back the high silk hat for his inauguration. Capital shops are featuring formal clothes — their windows filled with ball gowns and formal dresses are pushing white ties and cutaways.

The governors of 44 states, American Samoa, Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, their wives and military aides will attend a special luncheon in the House Office Building Friday immediately following the swearing-in ceremonies.

Among the 200 to 250 guests at the luncheon will be former President and Mrs. Harry S. Truman, their daughter, Margaret, and her husband, Clifton Daniel.

Decision On . . .

The county's space problem, whether "dangerously near" or on the "comfortably distant horizon" — depending on the point of view — must eventually find solution, most observers agree.

On that indefinite horizon are problems that range from the "rubbing elbows" in the Clerk of Superior Court offices, to the safety valve distribution of heavy filing cabinets on the third floor of the old County Office Building, to the relative inconvenience of the expected more of the ABC board into the Edwards Building.

It is generally agreed that the office space issue is upcoming sooner or later. The agreement is based upon the assumption that the county will continue to grow and, therefore, demand new and expanded agencies and services.

It is also generally agreed that the county could not be wise to begin serious consideration of the not-too-distant future of the apparently inevitable problem.

But as the county's level-headed citizens realize at the outset, whatever step is taken must be paid for. It is that fact, observers say, that should prompt, unshy and serious consideration by citizens and officials alike.

The looming problem is multifold: Are some of the county offices "inadequate"? If so, which ones? Is it time for expansion? If so, how and where and how much? If needed, should it be directed toward consolidation or decentralization? Which is more economical and/or efficient? And so on.

Expressed opinions from interested Pitt Countians indicate a firm belief in straight answers to these questions . . . before any action is undertaken.

As one citizen put it: "We realize a space problem is approaching. Maybe it's already upon us. But how are we going to handle such a massive problem? It's a question for all the people of Pitt County."
