Senate Committee Okays Luther Hodges For Post Of Commerce Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Commerce Committee today unanimously endorsed former North Carolina Gov. Luther H. Hodges for secretary of commerce in the Kennedy administration.

The informal action came after Hodges in an appearance before the committee had pledged that one of his chief aims will be to stimulate foreign trade. The formal nomination is to go to the Senate after the new administration takes office Friday.

The former North Carolina governor also said at a hearing on his selection for the Cabinet post that he hopes it will be possible to step up the nation's rate of economic growth.

However, he said he does not believe an annual growth rate of 5 per cent, the goal set in the Democratic platform, can be achieved immediately because of what he termed the current economic readjustment.

Hodges, at 62 the oldest Cabinet member picked by President-elect John F. Kennedy, was warmly endorsed at the outset of the hearing by North Carolina's two Democratic senators, Sam J. Ervin Jr. and B. Everett Jordan.

The secretary-designate was a North Carolina industrialist before he got into politics.

Ervin said he has known Hodges since they were students together at the University of North Carolina and declared, "I know nothing of him except what is good."

"I don't think there is a man in the United States who is more ideally qualified for the post for which he has been selected," Ervin said.

Ervin said Hodges has had vast business and political experience. "I know he will do a fine job for the nation," he added.

Jordan called Hodges unusually qualified for the post of commerce secretary, adding the former governor possesses extraordinary energy and ability.

"As governor of North Carolina, he became known throughout the country and the world as a business man's governor," Jordan said. He also said North Carolina enjoyed unprecedented growth during Hodges' governorship.

Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., said he couldn't refrain from asking if Hodges "is the fellow who moved our cotton mills to North Carolina."

Amid the laughter that almost drowned out the answer, Jordan said that Hodges had "provided the climate that made them want to move."

There was no advance indication of any opposition among committee members to Hodges for the Cabinet post.

In response to a question by Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel, R-Kan., Hodges said that he hopes to increase U.S. exports both to help close the gap in the international balance of payments and to strengthen the domestic economy.

He outlined no specific measures, but he mentioned that one aim would be to make U.S. industry more competitive in world markets.

Schoeppel said the Democratic platform spoke of providing government aid for communities and industries hard hit by imports and asked Hodges if he had any idea which industries would be immediately involved in such a program.

Hodges replied that he couldn't discuss at this time which industries might be involved, but he told Schoeppel that "I associate myself with the general principle" set for in the Democratic platform.

Schoeppel quoted President-elect Kennedy as saying in a campaign speech in New Hampshire, "We shall protect our textile and shoe industries."

Referring to Hodges as an expert on the textile industry, Schoeppel asked him if he would care to say what measures he would recommend to protect the industry.

"I would not at this time," replied Hodges, a former textile executive who in 1943 became a vice president of Marshall Field and Co.

President Feels Preserving Of Peace His Greatest Achievement

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he considers the greatest achievement of his eight years in office was the preservation of peace in an era when weakness would almost certainly have brought disastrous war.

Eisenhower gave this appraisal in his last presidential news conference, attended by 280 reporters who crowded into the ornate Indian Treaty Room of the old State Department Building.

The 70-year-old soldier-president dealt quickly, smilingly and emphatically with questions concerned with foreign and domestic problems. He spoke most feelingly when asked what he considered his most satisfying achievement and most heartbreaking failure.

His great disappointment, Eisenhower said, was that the nation could not be brought to the place where it could be said that peace with justice was in sight.

As for achievements, Eisenhower went on, the eight years spanned a period in which the Russians achieved the hydrogen bomb, built an arsenal of nuclear weapons, and supported the warlike threats of the Red Chinese—a period in which this country was fighting a war in Korea and there was grave danger it would spread.

This government showed the understanding, firmness and willingness to take risks in support of policies which prevented the great war from coming, the President said.

Had there been weakness in that time, Eisenhower continued, he is convinced there would have been a war that would have been disastrous to all the earth.

After this grave speech — the longest of the news conference—Eisenhower suddenly grinned and said that Nov. 8 was another great disappointment.

Apart from this rueful comment, and despite the many prodding questions, Eisenhower declined to give his version of what went wrong in the presidential election which cost the Republican party control of the White House.

But his comments were not completely free from political implications as he gave these replies to the cross-fire of questions:

THE FUTURE — The greatest problem facing President-elect John F. Kennedy when he takes office Friday will be that of dealing with the intransigent and unreasonable attitude of the Communist powers.

The basic difficulty will be in keeping this country strong and firm, and yet conciliatory, in trying to meet the Soviet attitude, Eisenhower said.

ECONOMIC POLICY — The President slapped at the proposal of Kennedy's economic task force that federal spending be boosted by $3 billion to $5 billion to combat recession and unemployment.

Eisenhower said he is no economic prophet, but he believes the economy will be swinging upward gradually but steadily, and will provide more government revenues than it is now generating.

Public works and other spending programs generally don't take effect until 18 months after they are started—by which time the boom usually has begun again, Eisenhower said. But the billions of dollars spent, seem to stay forever in the public debt, he added.

TRANSITION—Eisenhower said he definitely believes there should be changes in the constitutional provisions for election and inauguration, although not necessarily the shorter transition period which many have advocated.

The new president should have at least 80 days in office before presenting to Congress his own budget, economic report and legislative program, Eisenhower said. He said he was not ready now to make specific recommendations, but would have more to say about this subject later.

Now the outgoing president presents the program of the outgoing administration to Congress, and the incoming president faces a period in which he has responsibility without having had opportunity to prepare and lay down a program, Eisenhower said.

The news conference was the 193rd held by Eisenhower, in Washington; Gettysburg, Pa.; Augusta, Ga., and elsewhere. The last one in Washington was on Sept. 7, although he met reporters in Augusta on Nov. 16 to announce government moves to curb the balance-of-payments deficit.

The President looked hale and fresh. He smiled frequently, but occasionally gave tart answers to questions which might have been answered sentimentally if he had chosen to do so.

He dealt almost brusquely with a question as to whether he felt his own participation in the presidential campaign had been vigorous enough and had started early enough, and whether he felt the "great debates" damaged the cause of the Republican nominee, Vice President Richard M Nixon.

Eisenhower said his advice was not asked on the debates, and that as for his own campaign efforts, he carried out the exact schedule asked of him by the campaign committee.

Eisenhower said he would be pleased if congressional efforts were successful to restore to him the rank of five-star general which he resigned when he became president.

This would be merely a title without extra pay in addition to his presidential pension, Eisenhower said, but it would give him a title of his own and would be satisfying in view of his 40 years of military service.

Eisenhower chuckled when queried whether he had arrived at a final decision on whether he approves of the Constitutional Amendment limiting a president to two terms in office.

It's a funny thing, he observed, that ever since the election Republicans have been asking him the same question.

He said he had been inclined to dislike the third-term prohibition at first, but recognizes that without it the danger always would exist of perpetuating a dynasty in the White House. On balance, he said, he now believes that the limitation is a pretty good thing.

Threat To Berlin Again Sounded

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev has hurled a new threat to sign a separate peace treaty with the East German Communist regime in a move to end Western occupation of West Berlin.

The Soviet premier says the Big Three powers' position in West Berlin is "especially vulnerable."

Khrushchev's fresh threat was made in a speech delivered to party leaders in Moscow Jan. 6 and published in the current issue of the magazine Kommunist.

His speech constituted an interpretation of the declaration adopted at the Communist party summit conference in Moscow last fall.

Ranging across the field of foreign policy, he divided wars into three classes and said the world Communist movement fully supports those of the third class—"sacred" wars of national liberation. As examples, he cited the Algerian rebellion and Fidel Castro's revolution.

But it is to communism's advantage, he said, to avoid total first class wars of the total thermonuclear variety and second-class "brush fire" wars such as the Indochina fighting of 1953-54 and the British-French action in the Suez in 1956. He made no mention of the current fighting in Laos.

The Soviet leader confidently predicted that a victory for world communism "is not far off." He said this could be achieved without war. But he warned that war will come if the capitalist nations try to resist communism's victory—a victory he said is "inevitable by the laws of historical development."

A production victory over the United States, he said, will be a factor in bringing about the triumph of world communism.

Khrushchev held firmly to previous Soviet policy toward West Berlin and once again denounced what he called "renascent West German militarism."

"The position of the U. S. A., Britain and France has proved to be especially vulnerable in West Berlin," he said. "These powers still try to cling to the old positions, but they cannot fail to realize that the occupation regime in that city will end sooner or later.

"It is necessary to continue, step by step, to bring aggressive-minded imperialists to their senses, to compel them to reckon with the real situation. And if they balk, we shall take resolute measures. We shall sign a peace treaty with the (East) German Democratic Republic, for we are fully determined to conclude a German peace treaty, at long last, in order to pull out the thorn that the occupation regime in West Berlin is."

The Soviet premier once more voiced his support for a policy of peaceful coexistence, which he said "facilitates the activities of the Communist party and other progressive organizations of the working class in the capitalist countries."

"The policy of peaceful coexistence," he continued, "is thus, so far as its social content is concerned, a form of intense economic, political and ideological struggle between the proletariat and the aggressive forces of imperialism in the world arena."

President's Last News Session Is One Of His Best

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower smiled, waved, raised his arms in the double-V for victory gesture, and disappeared through the door.

It was his last news conference as President of the United States.

And it was one of his best, a moving, meaningful final appearance before one of the biggest galleries of correspondents in all the eight years they have been gathering to question him.

In his physical appearance he looked trim, ruddy, radiantly healthy.

In manner he was resolute, concise, authoritative. Only once or twice did he pause to reach for a word.

In mood he ranged from sly, dry wit to the deepest seriousness. His mobile face reflected a broad spectrum of feelings.

Never, through all the long years, did he look more like the President.

He said, at the outset, that he had no "earth shoking" news. He had come to the high-vaulted conference room to say goodbye.

Then he said one man in the room had attended every conference, at home and abroad, in the eight years and had been of "invaluable" assistance. He asked Jack Romagna, the official transcriber, to stand up. (Romagna was the shorthand stenographer for Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, as well.)

The mood of the conference, naturally, was strongly tinged with reminiscence. The correspondents led him back to his first news conference. They asked him, in effect, what he thought of them, now that it was all over, and whether he thought reporters had been fair to him.

The sly, almost elfin expression came into his eyes when he said, "I don't see what the reporters could do to a president."

But when he talked about the cold war, what he called the "intransigence" of the Russians, and the problems of government, the fun faded from his expression. He became grave, emphatic.

Council Talks Relisting Names Of Voters In Books

City councilmen last night discussed plans for copying registration books in proper alphabetical order to speed up voting in the upcoming Urban Renewal-Public Housing referendum and the spring elections.

Mayor S. Eugene West instructed City Manager Leonard Bloxam to obtain a ruling from the state attorney general on the legality of transferring the names to new books and rearrange them alphabetically.

The matter will be slated for official action at the next regular council meeting Feb. 2.

The City Council has considered a new registration for some time. However, Mayor West said a new registration might prove too confusing with the controversial referendum coming up.

Mayor West also threw out the idea of operating city elections at the same eight polling places used in county elections. He noted that the cost of conducting elections under this plan would be about three times greater than as at present.

Now two polling places are used for municipal elections one at the main fire station and the other at the county court house. Thus most voters must go to one voting place for county elections and another for city elections.

In last night's discussions, the mayor pointed out that even though the new books would be used when voters appear at the polls, the old books could be kept for reference in case a name was issed in copying.

Rearranging the registration books would speed up the process of finding voters names on voting days.

Councilmen were briefed on progress of plans for street paving, Carver Library building and air conditioning of Sheppard Memorial Library, the city court room and the fire department living quarters. Bonds were voted in a bond election for these projects. They are scheduled for inclusion on the agenda at the Feb. 2 City Council meeting.

House Demos Endorse Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats at a harmonious caucus today approved an increase in Rules Committee membership to break a coalition's grip on that committee.

They shouted approval of a resolution by Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas to increase the membership to 15 from 12, with 10 Democrats and 5 Republicans.

There was no roll-call vote.

Rules Chairman Howard W. Smith of Virginia told the caucus he would call a committee meeting to act on the increase as soon as the committee is formally created, probably next week.

It was one of the briefest caucuses in party history, lasting only about 15 minutes.

The action, subject to House approval probably next week, represented an initial victory for Rayburn in his drive to crack the Rules Committee control held in the past by a coalition of four Repunlicans and two Southern Democrats.

Northern Democrats had predicted in advance that the caucus would approve the change.

They were less confident about how the plan will fare on the House floor, where Republicans and Southern Democrats have combined in the past to have a dominant voice in the House.

The final outcome could have a great bearing on the success of President-elect John F. Kennedy's legislative program.

President Urges Stability In Final Official Farewell

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, in a sentimental presidential farewell, has asked for stability at home and voiced hope for the achievement of freedom for all who yearn for it in a troubled world.

To President-elect John F. Kennedy, he extended the wish for prosperous journeying through his years as chief executive.

Eisenhower spoke to the American people Tuesday night from his office which already is emptied of personal mementoes and relics of eight years in the White House. Friday he begins a new career as private citizen.

In the message carried over major radio and television networks, the President expressed regret that "so much remains to be done."

The old soldier said it is with a "definite sense of disappointment" that he lays down his responsibilities in the search for a workable disarmament plan. He described this as a continuing imperative.

Eisenhower said he wished he could say that lasting peace is in sight, but it is not, adding "crises there will continue to be."

Looking into the years ahead, the President said America is pre-eminent in the world today, "the strongest, the most influential and most productive nation in the world."

But he warned: "As we peer into society's future, we—you and I, and our government—must avoid the impulse to live only for today, plundering, for our own ease and convenience, the precious resources of tomorrow."

Eisenhower said the threat of communism promises to be of "indefinite duration."

To meet the danger successfully, he said, there is need for prolonged sacrifice "with liberty the stake."

"Only thus shall we remain, despite every provocation, on our chartered course toward permanent peace and human betterment."

Vital in keeping the peace, he said, is America's military might. "Our arms," he said, "must be mighty, ready for instant action, so that no potential aggressor may be tempted to risk his own destruction."

Eisenhower said that until recently, American industry, given sufficient time, could improvise a national defense structure. No longer, he said, can the United States risk emergency conversion to arms production — an armaments industry of vast proportions has to be available on a permanent basis.

Three and a half million men and women are directly engaged in defense, he said, and more is spent on military security each year than the net income of all U.S. corporations.

"An immense military establishment and a large arms industry is new in the American experience," he said.

"The total influence—economic, political, even spiritual—is felt in every city, every state house, every office of the federal government. We recognize the imperative need for this development.

"Yet we must not fail to comprehend its grave implications. Our toil, resources and livelihood are all involved; so is the very structure of our society."

He thanked his fellow Americans for the opportunities they had given him for public service in war and peace.

"I trust that in that service you will find some things worthy; as for the rest of it, I know you will find ways to improve performance in the future," he said.

It was toward the end of his farewell that Eisenhower seemed to come close to revealing his feelings. He removed his glasses, blinked several times and added that on Friday noon he would become a private citizen.

"I'm proud to do so," he said. 'I look forward to it. Thank you and good night."

Can't Understand His Invitation

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A 53-year-old truck driver who didn't have much interest in politics has been invited to attend the inauguration of President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Pierce Woods, father of seven children, expressed puzzlement over the engraved invitation he received Tuesday. He said he didn't take part in political campaigning—nor did he vote in the November elections. "I got to the polls too late," said the Negro.

Plant Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wrightsville Beach, N. C. today was selected as the site for the government's East Coast plant for converting sea water to fresh.

Selection of the North Carolina site was announced by Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton on the basis of recommendations of a special site selection board.

Seven cities on the East Coast had been under consideration in the final round of study for a site. The demonstration plant is to use a freezing process to convert sea water to fresh at a rate of 250,000 gallons a day.

The other cities were Portsmouth, N. H.; Long Island, N. Y.; Cape May, N. J.; Virginia Beach, Va.; and Port Orange and Key West, Fla.

The plant will be one of five which the government plans to demonstrate five processes for conversion of sea water and brackish water to fresh.

Warns Of Effort To Tax Tobacco May Lie Ahead

RALEIGH (AP)—The president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau warned Tuesday that a possible attempt to levy a tobacco tax in North Carolia is one of the problems farmers must face this year.

B. C. Mangum of Rougemont told the Wake County Farm Bureau to oppose any attempts to levy a tobacco tax. He said legislative committees are being formed by farm groups to help persuade members of the General Assembly to oppose such a tax.

Some legislators say new sources of revenue will be needed to finance a $106 million public school improvement program backed by Gov. Terry Sanford.

Mangum told the group, "Every day somebody comes to me and says that 'so-and-so' is for the tobacco tax. Odds don't worry me. We can beat this thing if we take an interest in it."

Laos' Defenders Taking To Jungle

THA THOM, Laos (AP)—Pro-Communist rebels bore down on two key government positions in south central Laos today, and the outnumbered defenders prepared to take to the jungle for guerilla operations.

"The Reds are coming—there is no question about it," said Maj. Phong Kave, commander of the undersized battalion at Tha Thom.

"We are reverting back to guerrilla warfare," said Col. Kham Khong at Paksane.

Swarming through the jungles, two rebel columns struck out across the narrow waist of this tiny Buddhist kingdom.

The double-barrelled attack scattered government forces massing at Paksane, 90 miles northeast of Vientiane, and this forward outpost 40 miles to the north. The rebel advance spelled doom, at least for the present, to government plans to mount an attack from Paksane and Tha Thom on the rebel-held Plaine des Jarres and Xieng Khouang Province to the north and northeast.

Col. Khan, who was to have led the offensive from Paksane, said his defense forces for the entire area totalled two battalions, half of them in Tha Thom and the other half scattered through the mountains. He had only 70 men in Paksane itself Tuesday.

On the western front government forces were meeting with more success.

The capture of Vang Vieng, on the road to Luang Prabang, the royal seat 140 miles north of Vientiane, cleared the way for a flanking movement against the Plaine des Jarres.

Rebel commander Kong Le offered only token resistance in Vang Vieng. His forces pulled back to guard the plateau, which is the rebel's important air and communications area.

Dr. Minges New Chief Of Staff At Hospital

Dr. Ray D. Minges, a surgeon and active participant in civic affairs, has been named chief of staff at Pitt Memorial Hospital, it was announced today by C. D. Ward, hospital administrator.

Appointments of staff officers and the executive committee were approved last night at a meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Dr. E. W. Monroe was appointed assistant chief and Dr. G. E. Trevathan was selected to serve as secretary-treasurer of the hospital staff. Serving on the executive committee for the coming year are Dr. S. E. Coffman, Dr. Frank H. Longino and Dr. C. F. Irons, in addition to Dr. Minges, Dr. Monroe and Dr. Trevathan, Ward announced.

The officers were nominated and elected by the medical staff of the hospital and were approved by the trustees. All regular committee and service appointments for the year have been made, Ward said.

The former chief of staff was Dr. Irons, with Dr. F. B. Haar as assistant chief and Dr. Monroe as secretary-treasurer.

Approval of the above officers was the focal point of the meeting of the Board of Trustees of Pitt Memorial Hospital last night, Ward said.

Dr. Minges, a graduate of Greenville High School, is a native of Greenville and the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Minges. He received his B. S. degree from Davidson College and completed requirements for the M.D. degree at the Medical College of Virginia.

He then entered the U.S. Army serving as commanding officer of the 248th medical detachment with the rank of captain during World War II. He was stationed in Alaska. Upon his release from the service, Dr. Minges took his surgical training in Richmond, Va.

In 1953 he returned to Greenville and set up practice here. He is married to the former Virginia Waring of Richmond, and they have five children. The Minges reside at 150 Longmeadow Rd.

Dr. Minges has served as immediate past president of the Exchange Club; past president of the United Fund; immediate past president of the Pitt County Mental Health Association; vice president of the State Mental Health Association. A member of the First Presbyterian Church, he is a past chairman of the Board of Deacons.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average 7 to 10 degrees below normal Thursday through Monday, turning decidedly cooler Friday and continuing cold through weekend. Precipitation will average less than a half inch, with chance of showers Thursday night and again about Monday.

Air Mail Sees Rapid Delivery

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — An air mail letter, posted at 3:15 p.m., Monday in Limerick, Ireland, was delivered here at 2:45 p.m., Tuesday.

Postmaster C. Edwin Graves personally delivered the letter to Mrs. William M. Bigelow after post office employes called his attention to the recent postmark.

Graves said the letter was flown to the United States by a jet airplane and apparently made all the connections at the right time.

Home Savings And Loan Ass'n Declares Its Biggest Dividend

The Home Savings and Loan Association of Greenville last night at its 55th annual stockholders meeting re-elected its board of directors and officers and reported the largest annual dividend ever paid by the local financial institution.

In his annual report to the stockholders, Executive Vice President H. W. Lee reported the association paid a total of $243,032.77 to stockholders in the form of dividends.

Re-elected to the board were K. W. Cobb, D. A. Evans, J. S. Ficklen Jr., C. Heber Forbes, R. M. Garrett Jr., H. W. Lee, James T. Little, W. W. Speight, W. H. Taft, and N. O. VanNortwick Jr.

Re-elected officers of the association are C. Heber Forbes, president; James T. Little, vice-president; H. W. Lee, executive vice-president and secretary; Mary H. Seymour, treasurer; and W. W. Speight, attorney.

Lee, in his report, said:

"We continued to grow in assets, although the amount of growth was not as great as in 1959. Our assets increased during the year by $311,000 which brought our total assets to $7,469,832, or 4.3 per cent above our asset figure at the beginning of the year.

"Savings shares increased by $554,893.13 during the year which is $58,500 more than during 1959, or an increase of nine per cent over our savings shares a year ago.

"In spite of the slack in building, the association made 177 loans, representing an investment of $1,332,023.58. In 1959, we made 193 loans representing an investment of $1,208,000. From these figures it is apparent we made more loans in 1959 but invested more money in loans during 1960."

Lee reported the association's gross income for the year totaled $392,828.86, an increase of $48,000 over last year. He said, "After deducting operating expenses of $77,540.75 and interest on advances from the Federal Home Loan Bank of $20,389.35, a net income remained of $294,898.76.

"From this amount," he pointed out, "a total of $243,032.77 was paid to our stockholders in the form of dividends, which, incidentally, is the biggest annual dividend ever paid by this association."

Lee said the remainder after dividends, $52,805, was transferred to the reserve accounts of the association. At the year's end he said, the firm's total reserves amounted to $492,543.25. The reserve figure, he said, represents 7.5 per cent of the association's total withdrawable savings.

The secretary continued, "I am happy . . . to say that our association is in very good shape. Our liquidity ratio is now 8.6 per cent which is about average for an association of our size.

"Our reserves at 7.5 per cent, represent a figure well above average for associations of our size in this state. Our line of credit at the Federal Home Loan Bank extends to above $2 million; but we have on our books only $300,000 in borrowed money, a figure less than what is experienced by most associations our size."

W.W. Speight Is Club Speaker

Mr. W. W. Speight, Pitt County Attorney, was guest speaker at the bi-monthly meeting of the Thetis Book Club Tuesday.

Mr. Speight spoke briefly on domestic relations and civil court procedure. He stated that a Committee on Legislation and Law Reform, on which he is serving, is now among other projects, attempting to establish District Courts other than Superior Courts in the state for the purpose of trying domestic relations cases and other civil matters.

Residence laws and various grounds for divorce in this state were explained, as well as custody rights. The new law as pertaining to property rights of the husband and wife, which came into effect as of July, 1960, was also discussed.

A lively question and answer period followed.

Mrs. B. Marshall Whitehurst, president, presided over a short business session after which books were exchanged and refreshments served.

The club met at the home of Mrs. Guy McClanahan in Dunn Apartments.

Mrs. Douglas Daily gave the history of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. Mrs. Dink James told of the developments of the life of the Souther Presbyterian Church since 1861.

After concluding the program, the meeting was dismissed.

Italian Spring And Summer Fashion Shown

By PATRICIA GREEN
Associated Press Fashion Writer

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Controversial Roberto Capucci raised a furor at the Italian fashion openings Tuesday night, but Simonetta took most of the bows with an idea she carried over from fall.

With the Big Four of Roman couture all showing their new collections, it was the biggest day of the Florence showings of spring and summer fashions.

Simonetta stuck to her "boyish look" — rounded, parenthesis-shaped sleeves, slightly arched at the shoulders, that were engineered on loose, sometimes bias-cut coats and on rather high-waisted swagger suits.

The collection brought unanimous, foot-stomping approval from buyers and press. The audience loved the full, arched-sleeve coats and dandified, turn-of-the-century suits, all with round glass buttons that looked like giant marbles.

Simonetta's long and short evening clothes had rounded necklines and arched sleeves cut short. There were both bright colors and black.

Simonetta outshone her competitor husband, Fabiani. He, too, stuck to a theme of last season, wide, kimono sleeves on loose coats. Some beautifully shaped dresses — sleeveless, collarless, and with a soft, flaring chemise line — were under the coats.

Capucci came later in the evening. Buyers and press were sharply divided over whether his clothes were dreams or nightmares. But the audience liked his dramatic evening clothes and gave him an ovation for effort.

Capucci did 1930 costumes in murky colored crepes that dripped with bias cutting. Heads were banded, with tulle bows to complete the flashback look.

Some bright ideas looked fresh. A new, parachute-like silk made billowing coats over matching dresses. Colors were yellow, mauve, shrimp pink, and mint green in polka dots. Sleeveless, reversible coats in two-tone silks and cottons went over chemise dresses. Beads that looked like big jelly beans made buttons and belts on dresses and edged suit jackets.

After the fuss over Capucci, Irene Galitzine's collection was mild but well executed.

Loose coats had flange shoulders and mandarin collars that stood away from the neck. Buttons were dispensed with, adding to the clean line. Galitzine used oyster white, lime green, geranium pink and navy houndstooth check wools.

Suits were collarless and buttonless, with hip length jackets and slightly hered skirts. There was a lot of spongy lightweight tweed, and for detailing, fringed edging of the fabric.

Evening brought on some one-shouldered dresses, floor-length but slit up one side to show a knee-length underskirt.

Clifton Britton Lost Colony Director Speaks To Book Club

THE LECTOR BOOK CLUB . . . met yesterday at the home of Mrs. E. S. Flanagan on Eastern Street. Pictured from left to right are Mrs. Powell Speight, president; Mrs. Herbert Hadley, program chairman; Mr. Clifton Britton, director of "The Lost Colony," guest speaker, and the hostess, Mrs. Flanagan.

Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. E. S. Flanagan entertained members of the Lector Book Club at her home.

The president, Mrs. Powell Speight, welcomed the following guests: Mrs. Charles Gaskins, Mrs. Walter Harrington, Mrs. W. G. Norman, Mrs. Max Minges, Mrs. Ray Minges, and Mr. Clifton Britton.

Upon arrival, the guests were served a dessert course with coffee.

The president presided over a short business session, after which the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Herbert Hadley, program chairman, who introduced Mr. Clifton Britton, guest speaker for the afternoon.

Mr. Britton took his listeners behind the stage of "The Lost Colony" production of which he is the director and told about some of the famous alumni, such as Andy Griffith, Ainsley Pryor, Julia Meade, B. G. Armstrong, Bob Carroll, etc. He related many of the humorous events which have occurred in connection with the rehearsals and performances of the play.

He discussed briefly his philosophy of working with young people as a teacher of dramatics and director of the Gold Masquers at the Goldsboro High School.

Mr. Britton closed by relating several humorous incidents he experienced while studying dramatics in Hollywood and while traveling around the country making speeches to various groups.

The librarian distributed the books, after which the meeting adjourned.

Dr. Bessie McNiel Is A.A.U.W. Speaker

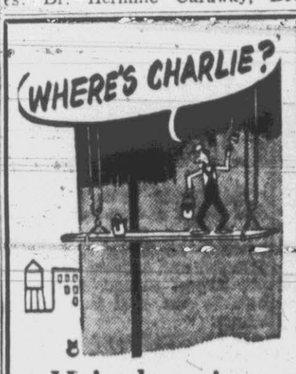

At a meeting of the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women at the Alumni Building on Monday evening, Dr. Bessie McNiel, Director of the Home Economics Department, gave an illustrated lecture on the Congo.

Dr. McNiel showed slides of scenes and persons she had photographed during her visit to the Congo in the summer of 1959.

The pictures were mainly of the School of Home Economics in Lodja, homes and a church in Kindu, and a resort area in Bukawe. These places were east of Leopoldville in the Belgian Congo.

Dr. McNiel said that she wanted to give a different view of the Congo from that obtained by reading or hearing the news about it. She illustrated her point by showing slides of schools, churches, a hospital, a resort, and neat residences with happy families. Several slides showed pictures of the wedding of one of the graduates of the School of Home Economics. Others shwed an art exhibit.

During the social hour refreshments were served by the hostesses: Dr. Hermine Caraway, Dr. Kathleen Dunlop, Miss Mary C. Brogdon, Dr. Rachel Kilpatrick, Miss Lois Grigsby, and Miss Louise Williams.

Mamie Is Looking Forward To Being Housewife Again

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—"The general and I feel like children just released from school," wrote the First Lady shortly before her husband stepped out of office to retire to their country home.

That was 164 years ago, and the President's wife was Martha Washington.

But you can almost hear Mamie Eisenhower saying it, as she and the general prepare to leave Washington for their 500-acre farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

It's the first home they've ever owned, and Mrs. Eisenhower probably is eager to trade the responsibilities that go with running the 107-room White House for the joys of puttering around her own house. "I've been supremely happy as a housewife," she has said—and she wants to be one again.

She will be something more than that however, from a historic point of view. At 64 Mamie Eisenhower will be the youngest of four living former First Ladies, sharing the distinction with Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Harry Truman.

The oldest is Edith Bolling Balt Wilson, now 88, who still lives in Washington in the 26-room house her husband bought in 1921 when he left the White House. He died there three years later.

A large-woman who likes somewhat elaborate clothes, Mrs. Wilson comes out of seclusion rarely these days except for ceremonial occasions. She plans to attend the inauguration Friday.

Not long ago she turned up at the debut Mamie Eisenhower gave for her two nieces. Mrs. Wilson was observed standing in quiet meditation beneath a portrait of her late husband hanging over the fireplace in the Red Room.

The next oldest former First Lady maintains a schedule that would exhaust a woman half her age. At 76, Eleanor Roosevelt is still a dynamo of activity.

She travels extensively, makes innumerable speeches, writes a daily newspaper column and monthly magazine feature, lectures on international relations, appears on radio and television, answers a steady stream of mail with meticulous care and works hard for her favorite causes, particularly the American Association for the United Nations and the Democratic party.

As she once explained it: "You see, I have nothing to do but work. I have no family responsibilities and no professional career. I can take on anything that comes along and seems worthwhile."

She spends her summers mostly at the family home in Hyde Park, N.Y., and her winters in a New York apartment. Sometimes she makes disparaging remarks about her memory, but she never forgets a birthday or anniversary of her large family of children, grandchildren, great grandchildren.

Also family-minded is Bess Truman, now living quietly with the former president in their rambling home in Independence, Mo. She runs the household, shops, plays bridge with her friends. Occasionally they come to New York to visit their daughter Margaret, her husband Clifton Daniel, and their two young sons.

Now 75, Mrs. Truman has avoided publicity perhaps more than any other First Lady in recent years. She once said that good health and a well developed sense of human are the greatest assets for a president's wife.

Other First Ladies undoubtedly concur.

News From Robersonville

Mrs. N. E. Bellflower spent a few days last week with her father, Eli Roberson, of Robersonville, who had a heart attack while visiting relatives in Elon College and was rushed to a Burlington hospital.

Mrs. Walter Swindell attended a workshop on January 12 in the Beaufort, Hyde, Martin (BHM) Regional Library in Washington. Her grandson, John Tyler, Jr. and Miss Mariam Bunting met her in Washington that evening and took her to Robersonville.

J. W. Taylor returned Saturday from the Greensburg, Ky. tobacco market.

Hostess to Bridge Club

Wednesday evening when Mrs. J. W. Taylor, Jr., entertained Our Bridge Club, her home on Grimes Street was decorated with greenery and a pink floral arrangement.

After the arrival of the last member the group drew for partners then took their places at the designated table.

Soft drinks and cheese crackers were served during the game. After the fourth progression the players, Mesdames Leonard T. Harvey, Wiley B. Rogerson, J. E. Mullen, James O. Warren, Larry Barnhill, Beaman Whichard, Wilson Wynne and Garland Warren, tallied their scores. Mrs. W. B. Rogerson was high and Mrs. Mullen was second. Each received a nice prize.

The hostess served apple pie a la mode and hot coffee to her guests.

Major Benjamin May Chapter D.A.R. Meet At Chapter House

FARMVILLE — The January meeting of the Major Benjamin May chapter, D.A.R., was held Saturday in the chapter house with Mrs. P. M. Murphrey, Miss Tabitha M. DeVisconti, Mrs. W. C. Holston and Mrs. Augustus Rogers as hostesses.

Miss Elizabeth Lang, regent, presided over the meeting, which was opened with the D.A.R. ritual, the American's creed, pledge of allegiance and "The Star Spangled Banner."

A meditation was given by the chaplain, Mrs. G. Alex Rouse. A comparison of Christian and non-Christian nations was made, and embodied in the thought for the New Year was an answer to pessimism and despair in the declaration, "God is not dead, nor will He sleep!"

The regent read excerpts from the president general's New Year message and called attention to the January issue of the D.A.R. magazine, which features North Carolina.

Mrs. J. O. Pollard, treasurer, gave a report for the year and received commendation from the regent and members for her outstanding work in this regard over a long period of years.

Mrs. John B. Wright, secretary, read the minutes, and reports were given by Mrs. Robert Fennell, of Greenville, national defense chairman, and Mrs. Ellen Lewis Carroll, membership chairman.

The regent made announcements regarding a tour of Tryon Palace and a luncheon to be given this month honoring Good Citizen award winners of District 8. The chairman of this committee, Mrs. S. H. Aycock, and the chapter's winners, Misses Noel Lang, of the Farmville high school, and Beverly Lang, of Walstonburgh high, will be in attendance.

Communications were read from Cherry Point and Oteen expressing appreciation for Christmas cheer provided veterans by the chapter.

Miss DeVisconti, treasurer of Queen Anne chapter, D.A.C., thanked members for their efforts in serving a luncheon, and Mrs. J. I. Morgan made brief complimentary remarks also in this connection.

The following members were elected to represent the chapter at the State meeting to be held in Asheville March 8-10: the regent, Miss DeVisconti, Mrs. Henrietta M. Williamson, Mrs. C. R. Townsend, Mrs. R. T. Williams and Mrs. Spruill Spain of Greenville. Alternates: Mrs. M. P. Hoot, Mrs. E. L. Baker and Mrs. S. T White of Greenville, Mrs. John B. Wright, Mrs. M. V. Jones and Mrs W. C. Murray.

A study of "American Indians" was developed by Miss Tabitha M. DeVisconti, state department chairman, D.A.R., in an enlightening and comprehensive talk directed towards presenting the opportunity afforded the Daughters in the support of the proposed educational program of the national society, which will enable the Indian to take his rightful place in the pattern of American life.

Miss DeVisconti described conditions on the various reservations brought about by impoverishment through hostile legislation, failure of the national government to live up to treaties and decades of neglect. She told of Indian schools and pointed out the basic need for scholarships with books and clothing next in line.

The speaker listed tobacco, the canoe, snowshoes and other important contributions made by the Indian to American life and described many of his customs, arts and crafts which have been adopted and used in its enrichment. Outlining circumstances leading up to the formation of the National Congress of American Indians, she pointed out many of its achievements. She closed with the statement that the plight of the Indians in this country is a challenge to every American.

Prior to adjournment, the regent extended a cordial welcome to Mrs. Frank Parker of Macclesfield, Miss Mamie Davis, Mrs. J. I. Morgan, Miss Bettie Joyner and Mrs. L. E. Turnage, guests of the hostesses.

Ice cream, pound cake, nuts and coffee were served during the social hour.

Pyracantha berries were in floor baskets and were used together with magnolia leaves and green candles on the colonial mantels as decorations. An arrangement of red carnations graced the speaker's table.

Kennedy Holding Manhattan Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy ducked away from the pre-inaugural hubbub in Washington for a round of Manhattan conferences today—and a session with his tailor.

Kennedy arranged a late morning meeting with Puerto Rico's Governor Luis Munoz Marin. He may confer during the afternoon with Hugh Gaitskell, leader of Britain's Labor party. Aides indicated he will receive other callers at his Carlyle Hotel suite.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, said tailor Sam Harris plans to visit the suite sometime during the day for a final fitting of the stripped trousers and cutaway coat the president-elect will wear at his inauguration in Washington Friday noon.

Kennedy arrived in New York from Washington shortly after midnight. He travled aboard a chartered commercial plane because the Kennedy family's private two-engine Convair had been dispatched to Palm Beach, Fla., to bring his wife to Washington.

Mrs. Kennedy, scheduled to arrive in the capital in the afternoon, has been recuperating in Florida since the caesarean birth of a son last Nov. 25.

Kennedy intends to fly back to Washington tonight and probably will attend another of the many pre-inaugural private parties being held there.

He went to two in the capital Tuesday night, a few hours after arriving from Palm Beach.

The first was at the Georgetown home of his sister and brother-in-law, the Stephen Smiths. He spent about an hour and 40 minutes there among some of the high officials of the new administration, capital society leaders and stage and screen personalities.

Then he went on to a downtown hotel for a 15-minute stay at a party given by an old friend, Bart Lytton, chairman of the California Democratic finance committee.

At that affair Kennedy was mobbed by well-wishers and cheered when he was warmly praised in a toast offered by George Jessel, of Hollywood and Broadway.

Responding briefly, Kennedy said he hopes the new administration will be able "to strengthen our country," and that the people of the nation will enjoy prosperity and good health.

Twelve Named To Head Cancer Unit's Program

Twelve persons from over Pitt County were named yesterday as community chairmen for the Pitt County American Cancer Society unit's memorial program.

The 12, named by Mrs. C. L. Lupton, Memorial Program chairman for the county included: Mrs. Dawson Jefferson of Farmville, Mrs. Adrian Gardner of Fountain, Mrs. Ronald Riddick of Bethel, Mrs. Harold L. Watson of Stokes, Mrs. Cecil J. Satterthwaite of Pactolus. Also named were: Mrs. Elmore Hodges of Grimesland, Mrs. Gentry Porter of Simpson, Mrs. Keith Brunson of the Chicod School community, Mrs. Thurman Williams of Grifton, Mrs. Barrett Sumrell of Ayden, Mrs. Roger Story of Winterville and Mrs. Lupton for Greenville.

According to Mrs. Lupton, the Memorial program of the American Cancer Society "is designated to give friends and relatives an opportunity to do honor to their loved ones and to strike back at the disease of cancer at the same time. Memorial gifts received by the Pitt Unit," Mrs. Lupton explained, "not only are made in remembrance of those who have died, but are made in the name of the living members of the family or friends in honor of birthdays, anniversaries and other important events."

Mrs. Lupton urged the citizens of the county to "support your memorial program" and concluded by saying the American Cancer Society is "in business to go out of business," by stopping cancer.

Big Embezzlement Upsets Economy

SHELDON, Iowa (AP) — The economy of this small town in northwest Iowa was in a state of confusion today as the result of a $2-million embezzlement from the Sheldon National Bank.

There were payrolls to be met, outstanding checks that seemed sure to encounter trouble, citizens without funds and local business records in financial disarray.

In jail, beyond the reach of persons seeking public answers to the questions of how and why it all happened, was Burnice Geiger, 58, daughter of the bank president.

The U.S. district attorney's office in Sioux City said Mrs. Geiger — a director and assistant cashier of the bank—admitted the embezzlement. A prominent citizen, she was known for her charitable works.

Her father, W.P. Iverson, 83, president of the bank for 45 years, could only say: "I'm all choked up."

The bank was closed for liquidation by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. after a routine audit by federal bank examiners turned up the shortage Monday night.

Officials of the FDIC were checking the records of deposits which were insured up to $10,000 each. The bank's last statement on Dec. 31 listed total assets at $1,995,000. The embezzlements were estimated at $2,126,859.

The sentiments among businessmen was summarized by the comment of one: "We've heard the boom, now we're waiting for the echo."

The manager of a big soybean processing company which distributes products in the Midwest said that his company has "outstanding checks all over the country."

The only financial institution remaining in Sheldon, the Security State Bank, was deluged with requests for aid in solving money needs.

Townspeople had great difficulty believing Mrs. Geiger embezzled the bank funds. Many whom she had personally aided refused to credit the report.

Mrs. Geiger was held at Sioux City on a charge of embezzlement for a grand jury set to convene there Jan. 30. She waived a hearing and did not immediately make bail set at $10,000.

Youngsters Help In Palsy Drive

Enough adults were not available so the kids helped last night.

And they're scheduled to be canvassing again tonight as part of this week's local segment of the "53 Minute March on Cerebral Palsy."

Mrs. Donna Tabar, Greenville chairman for the drive that closes Friday, said today Mrs. T. H. Evans a volunteer worker, escorted five children on a canvassing tour in the Library and Eastern St. area last night that netted the drive some $35.

The city chairman said the five children and possibly more would cover the Colonial Heights area early tonight. Aiding Mrs. Evans and the kids is Mrs. Raymond Carrow.

Mrs. Tabar said efforts to secure enough adult canvassers failed and "the kids were tickled to death to have the opportunity."

She said preliminary reports indicate around $100 has been collected through yesterday, but noted the reports are incomplete. Final reports, the chairman said, should be known by sometime Saturday.

Last year's cerebral palsy drive here netted some $300, Mrs. Tabar said. This year's goal is $1,000.

Grifton Chief Cites Weather

GRIFTON—Chief Luther Lewis reported a very quiet weekend for Grifton police. He couldn't recall a single arrest.

Lewis attributed the good behavior of citizens to the inclement weather, which apparently kept them inside and out of trouble.

Bath sponges exist mostly in the waters of the Mediterranean, off the coast of Florida and off the Bahamas.

Faculties Hear Taped Lecture

BELVOIR—The faculties of the Belvoir-Falkland Schools yesterday heard a tape recording by Dr. Mildred A. Dawson, author of a newly-adopted English language arts text book for N. C. schools.

At the third of four professional meetings during the year, the local group of instructors heard Dr. Dawson stress "a wealth of knowledge and an abundant background" as prerequisites for effective writing and speaking.

In the tape, Dr. Dawson pointed out students should "know how to study before entering the seventh grade." On English grammar, the author-educator said: "Slow learners can't really begin to grasp principles of grammar until the ninth grade age."

Yesterday's meeting was held at the Belvoir-Falkland High School here after school hours.

Boy Injured As Jeep Overturns

A 16-year-old boy received minor injuries yesterday afternoon when the jeep in which he was riding overturned at the intersection of Elm St. and Fern Drive.

Police listed the injured youth as Bill White of 304 Harding St. Officers said he received a sprained ankle and bruises. Two other passengers in the vehicle were not injured.

Driver of the vehicle was identified as Gordon Aycock, 16, of Longmeadow Road. He was charged with careless and reckless driving following investigation of the mishap.

No damage was listed by investigators in the 4:58 p.m. wreck.

HONEYMOON IN SPAIN

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Princess Astrid of Norway and her commoner bridegroom Johan Martin Ferner arrived by plane from Paris Tuesday for honeymooning in southern Spain.

No Plowing Of Sidewalk Areas

AYDEN—Residents of Ayden have been reminded to comply with an ordinance which requires that the sidewalk area shall not be plowed, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor pointed out yesterday.

Paylor said in recent days, town officials have noticed several locations where this ordinance has been violated due to gardening which begins about this time of the year.

Even though there may not be a sidewalk, the city still regards a portion of roadside property as the sidewalk area, so specified in the town ordinance. Plowing this area often causes dirt to spill over the concrete curb and impedes flow of water. It also inconveniences pedestrian walking.

Paylor said, "We hope that people will cooperate."

Urge Extra Care In Brush Fires

STOKES—Residents of Stokes have been urged to be more careful about brush fires by the Stokes Fire Department.

Since weather has been sunny and warm, many citizens have been cleaning yards and burning trash. Last week, two brush fires brought out the Stokes Fire Department. Chief W. F. Roebuck said one of the fires threatened a tobacco barn, but firemen saved the building.

Nixon Packs For Quick Departure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon packed today for his departure from Washington with the assurances of GOP colleagues that future national service awaits him.

Nixon was said by aides to be undecided yet on which of several offers he will accept from law firms in California.

The Nixon home in a fashionable Washington residential district is up for sale. Whether his two daughters will remain in school here until June hasn't been decided.

Several of his Republican senatorial colleagues told Nixon Tuesday that though he may be leaving office Friday because of his narrow defeat in the presidential race, they expect him to be back in harness again.

Nixon is regarded as one of the likely contenders for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination. He has indicated he does not plan to run in 1962 for any California office.

Nixon touched off a 75-minute series of tributes—including some from Democrats—when he said goodby to the Senate Tuesday.

The vice president left behind a gift of two three-minute glass sand timers. He said subsequent presiding officers could juggle them to enforce the three-minute rule on speakers in what the Senate knows as its "morning hour."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois praised Nixon as "one of the most distinguished vice presidents of this country."

Nixon sat quietly, twisting a ball of paper in his hand as others joined in tributes.

Masonic Lodge Installs Officers

GRIFTON—Among new officers installed this month to head the Grifton Masonic Lodge, No. 243, was H. L. Gray, who will serve as chaplain.

Other officers, previously announced, include A. M. Lewis, master; E. L. Sutton, senior warden; R. H. Seaborn, junior warden; W. C. Murphy, treasurer; C. B. Eubanks, secretary; James Hudson, senior deacon; E. L. Fleming, junior deacon; M. C. Batten, tiler; W. W. Mitchell, senior steward; Bill Futch, junior steward.

There are 128 members of the lodge.

Political Slogan No Longer Fits

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP)—A presidential campaign slogan once suggested that a chicken in every pot helped make for a contented household.

Now comes word from the Charleston field office of the U.S. Department of Commerce that commercial hatcheries in the South produced enough broilers in 1959 to put nearly 30 chickens in every pot.

A Review Of Whole Tax Structure

It is a foregone conclusion that North Carolina will launch an intensive search for more state revenues during the legislative session which convenes next month.

There seems little question that the program which Gov. Sanford will present to the legislature will require more revenues during the next biennium than can reasonably be expected from current tax levies even if the state's economy continues its accelerated rate of growth.

It is also reasonable to assume that the total program which Gov. Sanford presents will be modified and altered to some degree by the General Assembly before final appropriations are made for the next biennium. In spite of this factor, every indication points to the fact that the legislature will have to explore two avenues in an effort to provide more state revenues during the coming biennium.

One avenue is through increasing current tax levies in order that they will provide a greater flow of dollars into state coffers. The other will be the avenue which will lead to new sources of state income . . . new forms of taxes on items which are not now subject to direct taxation.

Since the legislature faces this problem, it appears to us logical that it carefully review the total tax structure of North Carolina rather than merely jumping at this item or that which will produce a greater volume of revenue. While it may consider special taxes on specific items as new sources of revenue, it should at the same time carefully evaluate existing state tax laws for loopholes through which appreciable revenue might now be escaping.

The new administration and the new legislature have before them a difficult and far-reaching problem as it considers ways and means of increasing state revenues. It is a problem that should be considered thoroughly from every standpoint, without haste and with a view to making whatever adjustments are necessary fair and equitable for the entire state as a whole.

Sanford Acts In Careful Manner

By LYNN NISBET

CAREFUL — After two weeks in office, during which time he has held two news conferences, made half a dozen speeches, and traveled thousands of miles to confer with national and state leaders, Governor Terry Sanford is still moving cautiously and carefully, rather than in daredevil fashion, to get his administration program underway.

The heart of that program is quality education. To get quality education the State and every community must put forth greater effort. He expects local communities to assume a larger share of the total cost, but he made it clear at his full-dress news conference that his first objective is to get the State to do its full part. After that he will challenge communities to do their part.

This policy was indirectly enunciated when he was asked if he would support the "incentive plan" for local cooperation suggested by the study committee two years ago. He isn't sure he likes the particular plan. It tended to put responsibility for initiative on the local units. The State would meet on some matching basis the proffer of local support. Governor Sanford indicated he would reverse the order, first raising State standards and then challenging communities to improve upon them.

RE-ORGANIZATION — During his several campaigns Sanford proposed reorganization of the C&D and Highway Departments. He is under pressure to announce his plans. In these areas he also is moving cautiously, waiting for more information about how the agencies can best serve the people of the state in their respective fields.

Almost certainly there will be a re-shuffling of emphasis in C&D in order to give more attention to problems other than industrial development. Whether that will call for splitting up the department into two independent sections — one devoted to conservation, the other to development, will depend upon studies and surveys now underway.

Just as certainly there will be a new highway set up, with more than seven commissioners, in order to give the people closer contact with responsible authority in highway matters. How many commissioners and just how allocated, and whether "head man" will be a chairman or a director, has not been determined.

TIME — It is not likely that any of these basic reorganization plans will become effective before July 1. But legislation authorizing them may be enacted by the 1961 General Assembly —which most observers now think will run well into June. So there may be time for both study and legislation before July 1.

Most of the administrative appointments and the shuffling of committee responsibility within departments will not require legislative sanction. Changes in C&D directorship, revenue commissioner, the department of administration — including, purchase and contract, came under this classification. In "Skipper" Bowles, C&D, and Bill White P&C, the Governor has brought in two young and vigorous men of expensive business activities who are making very substantial sacrifice in personal income to serve the State. He told newsmen the other day they were here in dual capacity—to do a job, and to analyze what that and other positions in State government need. His own later decision will be based largely upon the recommendations of men like Bowles and White who have been on the job, rather than by legislators or other inexperienced "study commissions."

TRADITIONAL — In this approach Governor Sanford is more nearly following the historic and traditional policy than inaugurating a "new day." It is recalled that considerable study by folks who knew the field was made before the Motor Vehicles Department was divorced from the Revenue Department, and the Teachers and State Employees Retirement System was set up in 1941; the correctional and mental hospitals consolidated under central boards in 1943; the Wildlife Resources Commission formed out of C&D in 1947—and other reorganizations. Most of these studies were conducted through several administrations.

More changes were made during the Hodges regime than under any other Governor, including change in convening date of the General Assembly, and most of them were based on comparatively short studies by groups appointed by the Governor; and recommendations were approved by the Governor before being submitted to the Legislature. That tended to discount the idea of "independent" thinking.

The Sanford approach is more direct — to have the men who are on the job suggest improvements in procedure. Basic changes still must be approved by the General Assembly before they can be put into effect. That may have some influence on Governor Sanford's cautious attitude. It is no secret that some legislators, several of whom will be back in 1961, resented the pressure from the Governor's office in behalf of quickly conceived programs. Head men in some agencies appeared before legislative committees opposing proposals for change.

The Sanford plan appears to be to have the agency heads recommend needed changes — and support their recommendations by facts rather than opinion.

Pitt Organization Has Again Active Director

With the arrival of Dr. Sylvester Green in Pitt County to assume his duties as executive director of the county's Development Commission, the county-wide organization again has an active director after a lapse of several months.

Dr. Green brings to his now post in Pitt County a broad background of experience in many development activities in North Carolina and other states. Undoubtedly he already has many ideas that will be put to use as he seeks to spearhead economic development efforts of the county. Even so, economic development for a county, or even a small community, cannot be looked upon as a one-man job.

We believe Dr. Green will furnish energetic and experienced leadership to development efforts in the county, but the degree of success which is achieved will depend to a great extent upon the coodinated effort which is put forth by individual development groups throughout the county working with the county-wide organization.

Pitt County has many natural assets which affords it a huge potential for future economic development. Already a solid foundation has been established here not only for greater progress in terms of industrial development, but likewise for further development in agriculture, education, medical facilities and other phases which go to make up a broad scope of development of the county as a whole.

The realization of this potential is something which will not come overnight. Neither will it come if the county and its people adopt a passive attitude toward it. Continuing effort is essential to the realization of the potential; and the effort of many people in the various communities of the county will be required.

It is our hope that under the capable leadership of Dr. Green the overall development effort of Pitt County will be more closely coordinated and intensified. It is our belief that through such an effort Pitt will be able to realize progress in many fields that will bring important benefits to the county and its people.

Showing Rise Of U.S. Costs

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — This gives a picture of how government expenses have gone up, particularly military expenses.

In 1950 President Truman sent his last budget te Congress before the Korean War started. It called for a total of only $42.5 billion for all government expenses. Out of the total, he said, the military needed only $13.5 billion.

Came the war. Expenses soared. The war ended over six years ago. But increased government responsibilities have kept expenses high. And military expenses, because of the intense contest with communism, have mounted.

In his budget message to Congress Monday President Eisenhower asked almost $81 billion —nearly double the $42.5 billion Truman requested to cover all government spending.

And — whereas Truman asked for only $13.5 for the military, out of his total budget of $42.5 billion, Eisenhower requests $42.9 billion for the armed forces, more than Truman asked for the whole government in 1950.

But Eisenhower's budget—for the fiscal year beginning July 1 and ending June 30, 1962—will be both a memory piece and a yardstick.

In figuring a budget every agency of government has to estimate how much it will need to run another year. All these figures are reviewed and reviewed in an effort to keep them down.

This all takes a lot of time and doing, so much that the Eisenhower administration began putting together last fall the budget Eisenhower turned over to Congress Monday.

Obviously President-elect John F. Kennedy won't have time all for this. He won't submit his own budget until this time next year. But this year his administration will have spending ideas different from Eisenhower's.

Since Kennedy's ideas on what needs to be done—expressed in the campaign—go beyond anything Eisenhower had in mind in his budget, Kennedy probably will want to spend more than Eisenhower allowed for.

He'll run into a lot of criticism and heckling on this. His critics will use Eisenhower's budget estimates as a yardstick for measuring Kennedy's programs.

Still, Eisenhower was dealing in optimism in telling Congress he thought that he had figured things so closely that the government should wind up in the black.

While he suggested spending about $81 billion, he thought government income, from taxes and other revenue, would be even larger and that the country would wind up with a surplus of about $1.5 billion.

But this was optimism based on the hope that there would be a surplus only if the country became more prosperous and Congress increased postal rates and the gasoline tax and step up a new tax on jet fuel. Maybe it would, but its inclinations run the other way.

Strength For Today

AWAKE

What does our nation stand for? This is a more important question than we may consider at first thought. For we can be sure that just as individuals bear witness to the circles in which they move, so nations stand for something and bear witness, either good or bad witness, to the world. James Russell Lowell put in beautiful and succinct language when he said:

"Our country hath a gospel of her own
To preach and practice before
all the world—
The freedom and divinity of man,
The glorious claims of human brotherhood,
And the soul's fealty to none
but God."

We may well be alarmed at the state of world affairs today. We are in greater danger of destruction, and perhaps ruin, than any generation has been in recent times.

Therefore let us remember that,

"Our country hath a gospel of
her own
To preach and practice before
all the world."

Let us stop worrying and begin working. Let us stop playing and begin praying. You and I are part of a vast army of well disposed persons who can hold the world for stability and peace against disaster.

Since this is the most alarming age mankind has confronted, you and I have to bestir ourselves lest we, and our loved ones, and our world be destroyed.

Camera Showed Strain

Whether it was there, or not, the camera showed a sort of glassy-eyed expression on the face of the radio announcer who worked 58 hours straight. . . . for a Cause.

On looking at the picture there was no question as to who had been going without sleep.

The writer recalls one occasion when he was caught up by a web of circumstances and deadlines wherein he too worked through two days and nights with no sleep. When the job was finished, my sense of accomplishment was dulled by an ache at the base of the skull, a pair of glaring eyes set in a face whose skin felt drawn tight; the thought of food was unwelcome and even faintly nauseous; every move was slowed, reactions numbed, and I recall feeling hallucinations were only a step away.

Being considerably younger, then, the symptons were gone after one night's sleep.

From Berlin. . Free Berlin. . the mails bring us a special edition of the Berliner Illustrirte. Two hundred thousand copies were mailed to Americans as a message of friendship and a pledge in the cause of liberty.

I wish they had sent sixty million copies, so everyone could read it. The publication (Life-size) captures in picture and story the pride of West Berliners in their freedom, the determination they shall not bow, the cognizance of the role a tiny garrison of American soldiers are playing, their trust in America's awareness of the stakes involved.

Berliner Illustrirte (deliberately misspelled, it should beIllustrierte) was seized by the Nazis when Hitler came into power and the publication turned into a propaganda organ. The magazine died with the Nazi machine. Now it is revived, and because the last number of the B. It conveys a sort of "As I was saying" atmosphere.

The cover picture is of one John F. Kennedy, whose name is familiar to most of us.

There has been an addition to our household, and not without misgivings.

It is a small-type dog whose age is best counted in terms of weeks.

Our youngsters fell in love with a litter and had to settle for one "sample." The lucky pup was promptly named Tricks, which does not fit, for he's so plump that merely standing on four feet is an accomplishment.

Monday night's sleep was broken by persistent yapping and crying; he demonstrated he was not housebroken; the family dog takes a very dim view of the new arrival; he's going to be underfoot for weeks to come.

But the grownups are already resigned to the fact that "Tricks" has found a home.

A Decision To Face

(Washington Daily News)

When the next session of the North Carolina General Assembly gets around to the job of reapportionment in the legislature, there is every likelihood that some rather spirited argument will take place.

Any time a county stands to lose a legislator, that county is not going to be happy about it. Of course, the counties which stand to gain a legislator will push for the reapportionment with vigor.

Here in Eastern North Carolina we are given to understand that if and when legislative changes are made, Pitt and Johnston counties will each lose one legislator, while Onslow and Cumberland counties will each gain one.

The presence of Camp Lejeune in Onslow county and Fort Bragg in Cumberand county gives these two counties a population and economic boost that most other counties do not enjoy.

Pitt and Johnston Counties, now with two legislators each, will not want changes. If each loses one of its two legislators, then it means losing a certain amount of prestige and power in the General assembly.

In Western North Carolina, Buncombe county would lose one legislator and Mecklenburg county would gain one. And if this takes place it would mean that Mecklenburg would have five legislators in the legislature.

The matter of making the constitutional changes is not an easy task. But a decision must be made. When it is made it is our hope that no changes will be made which will allow any county in North Carolina to have more than one senator. With only 50 members now in the State senate, it is not unreasonable to feel that state senatorial districts are proper and that regardless of population no county ought to have more than one senator.

Factors other than population alone enter the picture. Geography ought to play at least a part in the deliberations leading to the ultimate decision. Here in our own Second Senatorial district, embracing seven counties, we have two senators. In the Second district there are many varied interests to serve. There are agriculture, fishing, hunting, industry, and many others. A public servant can serve a hundred thousand people allied into one group just as he can serve a thousand of the same group. But when it comes to serving people spread out over a large territory where interests are varied, then many more difficulties arise.

We have every confidence that when the legislature gets around to the job at hand, that it will face up to the task well and that a decision based on fairness and justice will come out.

We believe we have an excellent legislature this time, and while there are many big decisions to make, we believe the members will face up to their responsibilities with sincerity and dedication.

Tax Instructions For The Jury?

By ELMER ROESSNER

A question that continually plagues litigants, especially defendants, is whether judges should tell juries whether their award will be subject to taxes and at what rates.

In most cases involving personal or property injury, or loss of earning power, awards are tax free. That is because the law assumes that an award is simply restoring to the plaintiff the cash equivalent of what was lost or taken away.

Despite what observers and even litigants may think or know, there is not supposed to be a gain in such cases. The law merely makes the plaintiff financially whole again.

WHAT DO JURORS KNOW?

Some jurors know this. Others do not. Lawyers have told me about cases in which obviously excessive awards have been given. Jurors have later explained privately, "We wanted to make sure the plaintiff had plenty left to pay taxes with."

In a property damage case, most jurors probably realize that there is no tax on amounts awarded. In direct compensation for personal injuries, somewhat fewer know the tax treatment. But, lawyers tell me, in cases involving loss of future earnings jurors more often than not imagine that the plaintiff must pay taxes.

In a hypothetical case, a jury may feel that an injured man will lose $10,000 a year in salary for the next ten years. But some jurors will incorrectly suppose that the plaintiff will be assessed Social Security and income taxes on this substitute for salary, and make the award $250,000 instead of $200,000.

But in actual fact, even an award of $200,000 would be excessive because if the plaintiff were able to get that much in salary in the next ten years, he would have a take-home pay of something in the neighborhood of only $165,00.

In some states, judges are forbidden to instruct juries about the tax treatment of verdicts. In other states, the question is not resolved.

However, a recent ruling of the U.S. Second Circuit Court gives the judge the option. The issue came up when a railroad worker sued to collect damages for injuries suffered on the job. (McWeeney, 282 F. 2d 34, 6 AFTR 2nd 5817, cert. den.)

The Court ruled that the judge does not have to tell the jury about the tax consequence of its verdict, but indicated the Court would not upset the verdict because he doesn't. On the matter of McWeeney's loss of take-home pay, the Court found that the judge did not have to explain the difference between total pay and take-home pay. However, the language of the decision indicated that in most cases he should not explain, not because the jury should be kept in ignorance, but because of the many variables. These variables might include changes in tax status by additions to family, deaths and births.

In commenting, Prentice-Hall said, "Any excessive compensation because of failure to deduct taxes merely balances out two damage-decreasers plaintiffs always suffer: inflation and attorneys' fees."

This decision is not binding on other courts, but it may influence them.

Popular On His Leaving

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

President Eisenhower has been, in many ways, a fortunate man. Throughout his Presidency, the people had a large measure of confidence in his moral qualities. He was, however, not given a Congress of his own party, not since the 83rd Congress. His authority within his own party was never challenged, yet rarely exerted. His only real quarrel was over Senator Joseph McCarthy whom he managed to reduce from a leading national figure to a disciplined Senator who felt himself betrayed by his party and even his friends and died of it.

The principal positive achievement of the Eisenhower Administration was that he managed to maintain the peace. But the price has been so enormous that one might almost say that his was a peace at any price. It was during his eight years that Soviet Russia achieved victory after insult in many areas. Nevertheless, this did not impair Eisenhower's personal popularity; in fact, every insult hurled at him in South America where Vice President Nixon was abused, in Tokyo where Red China provoked demonstrations against the President, at the Paris Conference where Eisenhower was treated with malicious shamelessness, in the United Nations where Khrushchev hurled boorish imprecations at him — all these and more won him an increasing measure of sympathy within the United States.

Outside the United States, however, American prestige suffered because many nations believed that the United States accepted the insults of Castro and the proddings of Nehru, Tito and Nasser since we had become afraid of Soviet Russia. And in international relations, the country that is afraid is regarded as already defeated. This is particularly true of the patience the Eisenhower Administration showed to Castro.

The Sherman Adams affair left Eisenhower's reputation untouched. Presidents Grant, Harding and Truman suffered popular displeasure for similar escapades, greater or lesser in degree. But Eisenhower's reputation remained untarnished.

It is true that his golf playing became a national joke but not more than Theodore Roosevelt's strenuous life or Herbert Hoover's handball court or Franklin D. Roosevelt's swimming pool. It was generally assumed that the President required exercise but no one could quite understand how he managed to get all his work done, if he did.

It was also recognized that President Eisenhower did not understand all the complexities of our government because he had been in the Army, out of the country, for so many years. It was, however, accepted that for this very reason, he knew how to delegate authority and responsibility.

During the life-time of John Foster Dulles, it was generally assumed that he managed our foreign affairs without much consultation either at the White House or the State Department. He laid down policy and acted on it and the President did not seem, in his press conferences and elsewhere, to know too much about it. After Dulles died, Eisenhower managed his own foreign policy which often brought him criticism.

Similarly, in the Treasury, his first Secretary, George Humphrey, was believed to be a great authority on money; he had long managed and financed big business and it was not expected that the President would offer him too many objections. Subsequently, this post was taken by Robert Anderson of Ventures, Ltd., a Canadian mining and oil enterprise. He also has been regarded as a man who understands money and therefore, the President, who has no proficiency in economics, did not interfere much with the Treasury.

President Eisenhower, having been accustomed all his life to staff work, in the Army, found it not too difficult to organize the White House and the Cabinet in the same manner. The fact that our structure of government was differently design-

Breathing Spell In Foreign Policy Needed By Kennedy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The incoming Kennedy administration needs a foreign policy breathing spell of several months after inauguration to get its policies in shape for major negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Well-informed diplomats believe President-elect John F. Kennedy and his secretary of state-designate, Dean Rusk, will seek to avoid any important new foreign commitments or proposals until next spring or summer.

Meantime Kennedy and Rusk will have to deal with crises as they arise. The most urgent of these at present is the civil war in Laos where both the United States and the Soviet Union are involved through aid to the contending factions.

The breathing spell, as the diplomats see it, will be a period of intensive policy review in Washington and probably top-level Allied consultation. There is some speculation that after a period of months Kennedy might be interested in arranging a completely informal, brief, talk with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Certainly, it is believed here, Kennedy would want to meet with Allied leaders briefly and informally before any get-together with Khrushchev. There also is speculation that perhaps in the spring he would undertake a flying visit to Europe to see such men as British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, French President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany.

Kennedy has been in frequent touch with Rusk, whose headquarters are in the State Department. Their conferences are understood to have been primarily concerned with developments in Laos, Cuba, and other trouble spots and with the selection of chief officials for the State Department.

One early move which the experts consider probable is the recall from Moscow of Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson for consultation. Kennedy is sure to be under steady pressure from Khrushchev to say whether he would eventually be willing to have a summit conference.

His inauguration speech Friday and his first news conference next Wednesday will be carefully examined abroad not only in the Soviet Union but in Allied and neutral countries for indications of his intentions.

While Khrushchev has made a number of statements since November asserting a desire for better relations with the United States once President Eisenhower has left the White House, officials here see no basis at all for believing that he is planning to make concessions in the interest of East-West agreements.

Will Settle For $2.5 Millions

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Producer Dick Powell reportedly is agreeable to a $2.5-million property settlement and his actress-wife, June Allyson, is suing him for divorce—alleging mental cruelty.

The suit was filed Tuesday by attorney Jerry Giesler, who said property settlement papers were signed last Dec. 30 in Europe. Powell said in London he is flying home. He is not contesting the divorce.

The couple's separation was announced earlier this month by Giesler. They have been married 15 years. They separated in 1957 but were reconciled within 30 days. Powell is 56, Miss Allyson 37.

Inaugural Parade Has Plenty Of Horseflesh

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everything seems about ready for John F. Kennedy's big presidential inauguration Friday, including 275 horses, 22 mules and 1 burro.

This livestock statistic was hurled out today by a breathless inaugural committee.

Many of its earlier tidbits dealt with the latest formidable weapons the armed forces will display, and with the electronic gadgetry aimed at keeping the parade on time.

But in news release No. 185, issued today, the committee did a complete about face.

"In no other parade," the committee proudly reported, "have there been so many horses."

This seems surprising since horses were standard presidential locomotion in the old days and Warren G. Harding was the first to forsake them and ride to his inauguration in an automobile.

But admittedly 275 add up to a lot of horseflesh, and of course the Army is prepared. Two horse ambulances, each with a veterinarian and an assistant, will be parked along the parade route to assist any beast needing first aid.

The mules wear miniature fezzes between their ears. Their sponsors are the Colorado Springs, Colo., Al Kaly Temple of Shriners. The burro, symbol of the Democratic party, will pull a miniature float preceding the mule train.

The U.S. Park Police horse-mounted troop has been drilling for the parade with workouts in beautiful Rock Creek Park here. As they drill, a loud recording of crowd noises is played so that the horses will feel right at home in the racket as they prance down Pennsylvania Avenue.

Officials of the inaugural committee, when you can coax them to stand still long enough to answer a question, say this is going to be the liveliest inauguration yet—as well as the best horsed.

What started out as one inaugural ball Friday night has now branched out into five. Two more were added Tuesday, which will give us dancers room for whirling, or watching, away in four hotel ballrooms and the National Guard Armory.

No one seems to have paused long enough to count the tickets sold, but the figure usually used is 25,000, a fair-sized crowd when you remember that the cheapest ticket costs $25 and that a box seating eight brings in $320.

In case the whole inaugural picture is beginning to get a little blurred for you, let's give a quick chronological rundown.

The big doings really begin late this afternoon with a reception for distinguished ladies.

At 6 o'clock tonight a reception will be held for Vice President-elect and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson. After this, a loyal, untiring party member can either attend a dance given by the Young Democrats or a pre-inaugural review, featuring military bands and drill teams.

Thursday will bring a reception for governors, followed by an inaugural concert and the big Democratic gala, featuring Hollywood and New York stars.

At noon Friday comes the point of this whole business: that solemn moment when John F. Kennedy is sworn in as president. Then the parade down Pennsylvania Avenue, with the widely scattered balls at night.

Incidentally, if some indefatigable character wished to take his wife to each attraction, and wanted the best seats everywhere he would have to come well fortified with the green stuff.

His bill for tickets alone would come to $416.

ed did not seem to trouble him. What actually did develop during this Administration is that much authority was delegated and this seemed to please the President who believed that this country really needed two Presidents, or two Vice Presidents. What he had in mind was a Head of State and a Prime Minister. Our Constitution has not provided for that.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The coffee break, which has spread to most legitimate businesses, apparently has penetrated the other kind, too.

The clerk of a cleaning shop reported that a young man walked into the store, helped himself to a cup of coffee from a pot, then sat on a stool next to an unlocked safe and chatted amiably. After he left, the clerk discovered that $72 was missing from the safe.

Clippings Tell Story Of War

PISCATAWAY, N. J. (AP) - Carefully pasted in an oversized scrapbook belonging to 13 year-old William Seifert are 2,500 newspaper headlines and photographs, telling the day-by-day story of World War II.

Seifert was 10 when he began his hobby in 1939. Since then he has managed to record somewhere in his collection a newspaper clipping about every major campaign, but he's not completely satisfied. "The Italian and Sicilian campaigns are not as well represented as they could be," says Seifert, an electronics designer. So he continues looking for old newspapers.

Drill Team Will Aid Fund With 'Marchathon'

To raise funds for the March of Dimes campaign here, East Carolina College's Honorary Drill Team of Air Force ROTC Detachment 600 will for the second consecutive year stage a Marchathon in downtown Greenville.

The event will begin promptly at 9 a.m. Saturday, January 21, on Third Street in front of the Pitt County Courthouse.

Following the pattern established last year, 21 AF ROTC cadets will march continuously as long as contributions continue to be made. Drill team members hope to top their twelve-hour performance of last year and to encourage a sizeable contribution from spectators to the local March of Dimes drive.

Cadet Major Walter T. Worthington of La Grange will command the group as it executes various drill movements throughout the day. The 21 members of the Honorary Drill Team who will take part in maneuvers volunteered for duty in the Marchathon. Cadets will march in full uniform and will carry M-1 rifles.

Members of Angel Flight will be on hand to collect contributions to the March of Dimes campaign. During the day they will serve coffee, sandwiches, and doughnuts to the marching cadets. Angel Flight, co-educational auxiliary group to the Arnold Air Society, AF ROTC, includes 21 women students at East Carolina College as members.

Last year's Marchathon by the East Carolina Honorary Drill Team created considerable local interest. Saturday's event is expected to be a major event of the day in Greenville.

Postal Receipts Show An Increase

GRIFTON — Grifton postal receipts showed a 15.3 percent increase in the quarter Oct. 15-Jan. 6 for this year over last year, Acting Postmaster Mac Mumford said yesterday. Receipts for the entire year showed an increase over least year, he added.

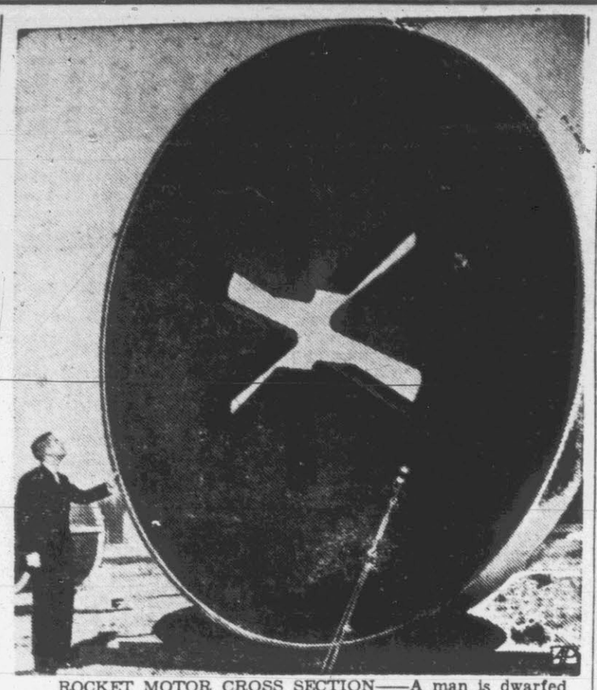

The yearly increase was about 10.5 percent, with total receipts for 1960 at $19,565.84 compared to 1959 receipts which were $17,695.65, Mumford said.

The receipts for the quarter which just ended were $5,652.13, he said.

Making Use Of Good Weather

AYDEN — Ayden street crews this week are taking advantage of good weather to patch streets and clean out ditches, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said yesterday.

Estimate $675,000 Fire Loss For Pier

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—The Navy says preliminary estimates indicate that Monday's fire at a pier here resulted in damages of $675,000. Six men are still missing.

Damages to the pier itself were put at $350,000 and the Navy said equipment on the pier that was lost was valued at $325,000.

Navy frogmen are to continue probing the Cooper River around the pier today trying to locate the bodies of the six, who apparently died in the spectacular blaze.

Three of the missing men were Naval personnel. They were identified as Lt. (j.g.) R. A. Horvath of Chicago, assistant officer in charge of the facility; Storekeeper 2.C. Jimmie Ronald Craft of Winnsboro, S.C., and Fireman John Robert Barrett of Flint, Mich.

Three civilian employes also were missing. They were Andrew Popivichak Jr., A. C. Sims and J. Dennis, all of Charleston.

The fire broke out on the 250-foot pier in the Cooper River used by the Navy as a de-arming pier to demagnetize ships for use in magnetic mine fields.

A strong sea breeze fanned the flames, which swept across the T-shaped open pier. A 50-foot fireboat and a 40-foot motor launch sank during the fire, which sent smoke billowing into the sky.

Frogmen began searching for the missing men Tuesday, but were hindered by strong tides, wreckage and the threat of sulphuric acid drums found on the river's bottom.

A spokesman at the Naval Hospital said all of the injured were improving except Samuel W. Bates, a civilian, and his condition was listed as still satisfactory. The other three injured, Gary E. McGinnis, 18; James J. Basely, 37, and Harold W. Hall, 17, along with Bates were fished from the Cooper River during the fire. Bates was the only civilian injured.

Charges Murder In 12 Deaths

BEDFORD, Que., (AP)—Crown prosecutor Claude Noiseux said he will charge Abel Vosburgh, 63, with murder today in the death of his wife and 11 children, whose bodies were found in their burned shanty home Dec. 29.

A coroner's jury Tuesday night found Vosburgh, sole survivor of the fire, criminally responsible. As a crowd of 300 persons milled around outside the hearing room, Vosburgh denied he caused the fire and kept his family from escaping.

Vosburgh, an unemployed laborer, testified the flames awoke him and that he called to his wife, whom police said was dead before the fire started. Vosburgh said he then ran to a water pump outside their home in the village of Noyon, 35 miles south of Montreal.

Vosburgh testified he heard his wife shout "Richard," the name of a dead child, as he ran.

"Did you hold the door closed?" prosecutor Noiseux asked.

"No sir, I did not," Vosburgh replied.

Commenting that the fire spread rapidly, Noiseux asked, "Was it that bad because you spread oil on the floor?"

"No sir," Vosburgh replied again. He told police earlier a stove exploded, sending a sheet of flame through the wooden house.

Vosburgh denied he ever beat his 43-year-old wife. One of the four Vosburgh children away from home when the fire broke out, Irving, 18, testified his mother and father fought "about once a month" and that his father broke his mother's ribs during a fight four years ago. He also testified his father threatened to kill his mother, "but I don't know if he meant it."

Stokes Acquires New Fire Horn

STOKES — A new fire horn, Stokes' first, was installed yesterday at the Roebuck and Parker Service Statiin here, Fire Chief W. F. Roebuck announced.

The horn is similar to the one used in Greenville and makes a horn sound rather than a whistle sound, Chief Roebuck said. The horn can be heard for approximately seven miles under ideal conditions.

The control valve for the horn is located on the outside of the building so that anyone can turn in an alarm when necessary.

Many Russians Looking To Kennedy For Easing Strain

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—The inauguration of President-elect John F. Kennedy will be welcomed by the many Russians who are fatigued and frightened by the hard feelings between Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower.

The Soviets tend, naturally, to lay all the blame on Eisenhower for the end of the seemingly friendly relationship that blossomed at the President's Camp David in 1959, only to be blasted apart a few months later by a combination of events, including the U2 plane incident.

Whatever may have been the political or military factors that halted Khrushchev's move toward warmer relations, the summit conference breakup last May and the resultant worsening of relations caused only dismay among rank and file Soviet citizens.

It is a rare Soviet citizen these days who does not express hope that relations with Kennedy will be better—and immediately.

Immediately after Kennedy's election, Khrushchev made a pitch for happier days with a message to the president-elect saying he hoped Soviet-U.S. relations would return to the path followed during the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt. On New Year's Eve Khrushchev warmly toasted America and offered to put aside old memories in the interest of better relations.

Last November, Khrushchev won a battle at the Communist summit conference in Moscow for the Socialist world's approval of his efforts toward a reconciliation with the United States. But on no front has the Soviet premier shown the slightest sign of retreat as a friendly gesture toward Kennedy.

Khrushchev has set a relatively fast timetable for his work with Kennedy. He said late last year he wanted the troublesome question of a divided Germany settled before the end of 1961.

He declared he is not prepared to wait until September, when West Germany elects a new Parliament, and Tuesday he hurled a new threat to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany. Once more he made clear that his goal is unchanged, to get the Western Allies out of Berlin.

Sanford Joining Inaugural Affair

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Sanford was in Washington today ready to begin a three-day whirl of social and official events which will end Friday in the inauguration of President - elect John F. Kennedy.

Sanford will be in Philadelphia Saturday and New York City Sunday. In Philadelphia, he will receive an industrial award on behalf of the state. In New York, he will appear on a national telecast with three other governors.

Tonight Sanford will attend a reception honoring Vice President-elect Lyndon Johnson.

Sanford and former Gov. Hodges will be honored at a late morning coffee hour Thursday. That afternoon Sanford will attend a reception in honor of the nation's 50 governors. Thursday evening the North Carolina Democratic Club of Washington will honor Sanford.

The newly inaugurated governor then will move on to the Washington Armory to attend the Democratic Gala, an all - star talent show arranged by Frank Sinatra and geared to raise money for the party.

After a breakfast with North Carolina Democrats Friday, Sanford will watch the actual inauguration ceremony scheduled for noon. Friday night he will attend the Inaugural Ball at the Armory.

The television program, originating in the ABC studios, will include Sanford, Vermont Gov. Keyser, Minnesota Gov. Anderson and Indiana Gov. Welsh.

Would Abolish JPs, Constables

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The offices of justice of the peace and constable are "antiquated, out of date and should be abolished," says Superior Court Judge Hamilton Hobgood.

He said here Tuesday that the General Assembly should begin next month planning for a statewide referendum to decide whether the two offices should be abolished.

Judge Hobgood currently is holding a term of criminal court here.

The jurist said he had received a lot of complaints in Eastern North Carolina about operation of justice of the peace courts, mostly relating to speed traps set up by constables.

"The only qualification required for appointment or election as justice of the peace," Judge Hobgood said, "is that the candidate be 21 years of age and of good character."

He also urged a system of courts inferior to the Superior Court, and a statewide system of domestic relations court which would be in conjunction with the superior courts.

News Seeker Is Involved In Some

GRIFTON — A reporter who came to Grifton to get the news made some himself yesterday—though not on purpose.

Don Wrenn of Kinston, employe for the Kinston Daily Free Press, was an innocent bystander.

The story goes like this, according to Grifton Police Chief Luther Lewis: John Thomas Tilly of Trenton, employe of the Department of Conservation and Development, had parked his pickup truck beside Wrenn's car on Grifton's Queen Street. Backing out of the diagonal parking space, Tilly's vehicle struck the left rear fender of Wrenn's automobile, Chief Lewis related.

Damage was very slight, about $12 to $15 to Wrenn's auto and about $5 to the pickup driven by Tilly. No charges were made.

Lumumba Is Moved To Katanga Province Jail

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The Katanga government announced today that deposed Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba and two close associates had been transferred to a jail in Katanga Province becuse their army confinement near Leopoldville was not considered secure.

Swedish U.N. troops at the Elisabethville airport when the fiery ex-premier arrived Tuesday said European-officered units of the Katanga police beat the three prisoners unmercifully. Lumumba was reported badly bruised.

The Katanga government — headed by an arch enemy of Lumumba, Provincial President Moise Tshombe—said the captives were taken to a place outside Elisabethville.

A Swedish source said they were in jail at Jadotville, about 60 miles from Elisabethville.

Lumumba has been held at the military camp at Thysville, 80 miles southwest of Leopoldville, the Congo capital, but was freed briefly there Friday when some of the garrison rioted over pay. The ex-premier did not get away from the camp, but rumors that he was free set off a panic among anti-Lumumba Belgians and Congolese in Leopoldville.

A Katanga government communique said Congo President Joseph Kasavubu had requested Lumumba's transfer because "the Thysville prison did not offer sufficient guarantees."

Swedish U.N. troops on guard at Elisabethville airport when Lumumba arrived said he and two other prisoners with him got "a terrific beating" from Katanga police at the airort. The other two prisoners were the youth minister in Lumumba's Cabinet, Maurice Mpolo, and the vice president of the Congo Senate, Joseph Okito.

"It was sickening," one of the soldiers said.

"I had to turn away," said an airport official. "It was too much for me to watch."

Lumumba and his companions reportedly groaned while the assault was taking place but did not protest or ask for mercy. The ex-premier was reported severely bruised.

Wife No. 5 Says Threats Involved

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Wife No. 5 claims that wife No. 4 used threats to force Mickey Rooney into a support agreement.

The actor's present wife, Barbara, in an affidavit filed Tuesday, said Rooney agreed to pay $1,750 monthly to Elaine Mahnken Rooney—wife No. 4—only after Elaine threatened to destroy Barbara's good name and Mickey's career.

Elaine has sued Rooney for $36,432 she says he owes in back support installments. Rooney has counter-sued, asking Elaine to show cause why his payments should not be reduced to $150 monthly.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

William Gunnarson, a young California lawyer, is relating the difficulties in which he entangled himself as the court-appointed defender of a youthful nurse. Ella Barker, who is in jail on a stolen-property charge. She sold a dealer, Hector Broadman, a valuable ring, and he reported the transaction in accordance with police regulations. The ring was identified as a piece of loot in a series of burglaries in homes whose owners were at the hospital, either as patients or visitors. As a nurse aware of the respective families' goings and comings, Ella could have tipped off marauders, and police suspicions of her were strengthened by her refusal to explain how she got the ring and their subsequent discovery of a stolen watch in her home.

Ella is no more communicative to Gunnarson than to police. But his interest in her has been aroused, and he is willing to believe that she is covering up for a gang because of fear. This belief is heightened when a fatal attack is made on Hector Broadman.

CHAPTER 4

I took a cab back to the courthouse, eager to question Ella Barker again. But she wasn't so eager to be questioned.

The girl didn't raise her head when the matron let me into the visitors' room. She sat with her thin arms resting on the edge of the table—a hunched and drooping figure like a bird which despaired of liberation.

I sat down across the table from her. "Hector Broadman is dead. Murdered."

Her dark lashed curtained her eyes, and she wouldn't look up.

"You knew Broadman, didn't you?"

"I had him for a patient."

"What was the matter with him?"

"He had a growth removed—a benign growth. That was way last summer."

"Since you've seen him since?"

"I went out with him once," she said in her steady monotone. "He took a liking to me, I guess."

"What did you and Broadman talk about?"

"Him, mostly. He was an older man, a widower. Him and his first wife lost everything they had in the Depression."

"He had more than one wife?"

"I didn't say that." She looked up for the first time. Her eyes were startled. "If you think I'd marry a fat old bald-headed man like Mr. Broadman, you've got another think coming. Not that I couldn't have."

"You mean he proposed? The first night?"

She hesitated. "I saw him a couple of times after that. You might say I took pity on him."

"Where did he propose to you?"

"In his car. He'd had a couple of drinks, over at—" Her lips froze in an opened position for an instant, then came together tightly.

"Over where?"

"All over," she said. "He took me for a drive. Around town. Up in the hills."

"To meet his friends?"

"He didn't have any friends," she answered, too quickly.

"Where did he have those drinks the night he proposed? At his house?"

"He didn't have a house. He ate in restaurants and slept in his store. I told him he couldn't expect a girl to share that kind of life with him. So he offered to move into my flat, furnish it for me."

"That was generous of him."

"Yeah, wasn't it?" A smile pinched her mouth. "He had it all figured out. I guess I wasn't very nice to him, that last night. He took it hard." Her smile had turned slightly cruel.

"Where did you say he had those drinks?"

"I didn't say."

"He must have been a very good friend. He gave you a platinum watch."

She sat up straight, neck taut, as if I'd tied a noose there and sprung a trap. "He certainly did not."

"Who did? The watch was found in your apartment today."

She bit her lower lip. "It wasn't Hector Broadman gave me the watch," she said. "I didn't know it was stolen. When a fellow gives a girl a watch or a ring, she doesn't think of it being stolen."

"It was a dirty trick to play on you," I said. "Do you want to tell me all about it, Ella? It's nearly suppertime, and they'll be inviting me out of here pretty soon. If you wait until tomorrow or the next day, it may be too late."

"Too late?" she said behind her hand.

"Too late for you. You have a chance to help the police put their hands on Broadman's killer. I strongly advise you to take it. If you don't and he's caught without your help, it won't be good for our side."

"What did he do to Hector Broadman?"

"Bashed in his head. You don't want to sit here and let him get away."

She fingered her own dark head. She was so preoccupied with the image in her mind that she rumpled her hair and failed to smooth it down.

"You don't want it to happen to you, I know. Doesn't that go for other people, too?"

"His name is Larry Gaines," she said. "He's a lifeguard at the Foothill Club."

Ella had had enough of her lies. She told me the short and not so simple story of her affair with Larry Gaines.

She had met him through Hector Broadman. Broadman had taken her to Larry's place the second time they were out together. Apparently he didn't feel up to entertaining her all by himself. Larry was different—so different that she couldn't understand how he and Broadman happened to be friends. He was good-looking, and polite, and only a few years older than herself. He lived in a house in a canyon outside the city limits.

It was an exciting evening, sitting between two men in Larry's little hohse, drinking the Turkish coffee which Larry made, and listening to good records on his hi-fi. Comparing the two, she made up her mind that Hector Broadman was not for her.

The second evening the trio spent together, she began to dream that possibly Larry might be. He let her know that he liked her, in so many ways. They had a serious talk about life, for example, and he was very interested in her opinions. Broadman nursed a bottle in a corner.

That night she broke with Broadman. She hated men who drank, anyway. Larry waited four days—the longest four days of Ella's life—and then he phoned her.

He went right on calling her just about every night of the week. He wanted to marry her, he said, but he had so little to offer her. They both knew in the long run a man with his brains and personality was bound to make his mark. But that took time, or a lucky break. While he was waiting for one, his salary at the club was barely enough to support him, even with tips added in. Those wealthy people at the Foothill Club were so tight, he said, you had to use a chisel to pry a thin dime off their palms.

He wanted money of his own, he said, and he had a plan for getting it. If it worked, they could marry before the year was out and live in comfort for the rest of their lives. But he was going to need her help in carrying out the plan. He needed someone in the hospital to supply him with the names of new patients, especially weel-heeled ones in private suites.

"Did you help him, Ella?"

She shook her head emphatically. "I certainly did not."

"He gave them to me before I broke off with him. I guess he thought I would change my mind. But after I found out about him, I didn't want any part of him or his plans. A nurse who would take advantage of her patients like that should have her uniform torn right off her back."

"But you didn't tell the police about his plans."

"I just couldn't." She hung her head. "I was stuck on him, I guess, for a long time after I broke with him. Larry was my first real crush. It made me do crazy things. Like last week —" She interrupted herself again.

Another Step To Help Halt Flow Of Dollars

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The average American, who hasn't held any gold coin or gold certificates since 1934, may be surprised to learn some of his neighbors do own gold—and just been told to get rid of it.

Where did they get it? Where do they keep it? And why do they want it instead of dollars they could spend at home?

Until President Eisenhower ordered them to stop buying and owning it abroad, they could legally buy gold bars in Canada, on the London free gold market, in Zurich, Switzerland, or in West Gerfany, France, the Netherlands and other European countries where buying and holding gold is regulated but not forbidden as it has been in the United States since 1934.

More often than not Americans paid more for their gold than the official U. S. price of $35 an ounce.

The Americans who bought gold had to keep it outside the United States because of our laws restricting most buying and owning of gold to use in industry and the arts. Americans could leave their gold with the Canadian banks that sold it to them, or in the care of European banks or gold brokers. In the case of the Swiss banks, their accounts could have the added secrecy of being known only by a number, rather than by the holder's name.

Why did they want gold? They couldn't bring it home. It cost them storage charges, while their dollars would have brought them interest if lent or profits if put in successful business enterprises.

Some probably bought gold in the belief that the official price would go up eventually and they would make a profit. Repeated denials by U. S. authorities that the price would be changed didn't budge some gold holders from this belief.

Many with business operations overseas found gold handy during the frequent currency crises in other lands in the postwar years. The metal was more stable and always acceptable. And often the local currencies fluctuated widely in relation to the U. S. dollar and sometimes couldn't be exchanged for it at all.

In recent months gold buying has been spurred by the repeated rumors that the steady loss of gold by the U. S. Treasury in the last three years might weaken the dollar's status and thus could lead to raising the official price.

The loss of gold has come about because for three years the American government and citizens have been sending more dollars abroad than they've been getting back. Foreign countries with surplus dollars have turned some of them into gold at the U. S. Treasury.

The Treasury, backed by most banking officials here and abroad, denies the dollar is in any danger or that devaluation through raising the price of gold is likely or necessary, or desireable.

The presidential order forbidding U. S. citizens to own gold abroad is a step to help halt the outflow of gold. In coincides with uncertainty as to how much spending the new Congress may authorize, and whether a big deficit could lower further the purchasing power of the dollar, and make devaluation a possibility, even if an improbability.

Consultants Will Map Drive Plans

RALEIGH (AP)—A 20-member consultant group will be named to draw plans for a Baptist State Convention campaign to raise $45 million for North Carolina's seven Baptist colleges.

A special convention session to consider the plans will be held May 4 in Greensboro.

The convention's General Board ended a two-day meeting here Tuesday after setting the date of the special session and authorizing creation of the consultant group.

The group will work with the convention's College Advance Committee in drafting plans for the campaign. The Consultant Committee will consist of two persons from each of the 10 convention regions.

It will be named Feb. 7 by the General Board's Executive Committee.

His Child Bride Not Returning

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Jose M. Moreno, 65, says he and his bride of 15 have separated after 12 days of marriage.

"She called me and told me she wasn't coming back," Moreno said Tuesday night.

He said he came home Friday to find his wife, the former Maria Diana Candia, missing.

Moreno, who owns a small grocery, said the trouble started four days after the Jan. 6 marriage when the bride's father brought his family of nine "temporarily" into Moreno's four-room home.

"Thursday, I asked him to move," Moreno said, "because the house wasn't big enough for us."

Moreno said he thinks the bride's father is "pressuring" her.

ON THE HOUSE

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—That long-awaited television event finally happened Tuesday night: The housewife picked the pile of clothes washed by brand X instead of the sponsor's washday product. But it was only done in the spirit of fun in the course of a slight, depressingly unoriginal revue hung on the well-explored theme of conformity.

As is usual when a TV show decides to be satiric, the most fertile field proved to be television itself. This was even more noticeable than usual on NBC's "Everybody's Doin' It."

Right after Art Carney, Alice Ghostley and the others kidded a number of familiar commercials, the sponsor's real message came up: A bowler knocked a pin wearing a wristwatch into a tub of water. This was just a little bit funnier than the sketches, although designed to sell wrist watches.

In addition to Madison Avenue and TV commercials, the satiric treatment was applied to Loretta Young and her famous entrance, "The Untouchables," TV's desire not to offend and the beat generation. None of this was up to the standards of last season's Carney shows, more's the pity.

The imminent return to the channels of the Great Cleason is causing a flurry at CBS. After a dry run of his new panel show earlier this week Jackie stormily announced he wanted bigger names among his game players.

Originally chosen were Johnny Carson, Pat Carroll, Arthur Treacher and Patricia Cutts—at least two of whom are veterans of the panel show business. Carson recently proved an ingratiating and funny substitute for Tom Poston on "To Tell the Truth," and Pat Carroll in her pre-skinny days was such an asset to a panel show that the sponsor, maker of a diet aid, brought her back on the show after an initial decision that her decided curves were a poor advertisement.

Maybe the panel proved too funny for Jackie's delicate ego.

Anyway, the maestro is planning a busy couple of days. He plans to tape two shows Thursday, another two on Friday—and then insists on a live show for the debut Friday night.

Recommended tonight: "The Prisoner of Zenda," CBS, 8:30-10 EST—Show of the Month adaptation of Anthony Hope's mythical kingdom classic, with Christopher Plummer, Farley Granger and Inger Stevens.

At Last, One Housewife Did Prefer 'Brand X'

By ANDY LANG

AP Newsfeatures

When it comes time to sell, quite a few homeowners are under the impression they can arrange better deals than professionals.

Sometimes they can. But more often than not, they can sell their houses faster and with more financial benefits to themselves, even allowing for commissions, if they utilize the services of real estate organizations.

Anyone who is successful in the business of selling houses knows how many pitfalls there are in the path of a completed sale. In this connection, we thought you would be interested in an article in the November issue of an industry publication, the National Association of Home Builders Journal. Titled "Little Things Make a Big Difference," the article lists 30 reasons why a real estate salesman may miss out on a sale even though he is selling a good house at a reasonable price.

For instance, to make a good impression on a prospective buyer, it is considered important that the salesman avoid "hand pumping," "shoe tapping" and "wiggle judging." We all know what hand pumpers and shoe tappers are, but do you know what a wiggle judger is? It's a man who lets "a tight skirt or well-turned calf throw him off the track." As author Ted Pollock, a marketing consultant puts it, "if your message isn't worth YOUR complete attention, certainly it isn't worth your prospect's."

To sell a house, you have to be polite. But not too polite. The advice here is that there are situations "in which a salesman must unbend a little if a buyer is to feel comfortable in his presence."

Also, you mustn't talk too much or too fast or have too many "uhs" and "ehs" between phrases. And while jokes are fine in their place, use them sparingly and with considerable caution. Don't exaggerate (it says there) and don't poke your finger to emphasize every point.

Since the very first impression a prospect forms depends on what he sees, a detailed check list is given for the seller's appearance. His hair should be cut and neatly combed. He should be freshly shaved, his tie should be knotted neatly, his shirt should be clean, his jacket collar should show about half-an-inch of shirt collar and his jacket sleeves should be cut to expose about half-an-inch of the shirt cuffs. His nails should be cleaned and trimmed, his shoes shined and his trousers neatly creased.

Women, as well as men, sell houses. Wouldn't they have a puzzling time trying to pass some of those appearance tests?

King Goes With Kids To School

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—When 11-year-old Arnold Engman of Des Moines and his 6-year-old brother Joseph are at school, their dog King thinks he should be there, too.

Fact is, the dog's attachment to the school and the boys is so well known by the school faculty that the last time report cards were distributed, King got one, too.

He got good marks for almost everything except respecting authority.

Canvassing the County . . . .

Reports drifting to this desk indicate a lot of interest being generated in Bethel's John Smith. A senior, Smith has been one of the top scorers for Coach Walter Latham's near-invincible five.

East Carolina coaches Earl Smith and Wendell Carr saw him perform against Winterville. Both liked what they saw . . . .

Letters At The Citadel

Tommy Edwards, Ayden native, lettered this past football season at The Citadel. A junior and former star under Ayden coach Stuart Tripp, Edwards was a regular at fullback for the Bulldogs.

Edwards comes from a football-minded family. His brother, William, was All-Conference quarterback for league champion Ayden this past fall. Hal Edwards, his father and service station operator in Ayden, played his football at Duke University . . .

Belvoir-Falkland has run into a stone wall in its bid to finish above .500 in the Pitt County race this fall.

The Eagles of Dan Wooten recently lost their top rebounder Harold Harris with a broken arm. Harris will be out for the rest of the season and Wooten is finding it hard to replace him.

One Of Bethel's Best

Thomas Whitehurst, owner-operator of two local drive-ins, is a Bethel native and member of the only basketball state championship team to come out of Pitt County (1948).

He is impressed with the Bethel edition of 1960-61. "They have looked mighty good and it will take a good club to beat them," he remarked. According to Whitehurst, it is one of the best Bethel teams floored by Latham. And that takes in a lot of good basketball . . . .

Victory For S-P Would Be Sweet

Grimesland's new basketball coach, Sammy Reece, played football at Wake Forest before entering the coaching field. He has been working on his M.A. at East Carolina College . . . .

A victory for Stokes-Pactolus' boys would be sweeter than the South winning the Civil War. The Blue-Jays have lost 33 straight games over a two year span.

When and if they upset an over-confident opponent one of these nights watch for the fireworks to start popping . . .

Walter Jones, Jr., native of Farmville and a standout guard for the Red Devils in the 1959 tournament, is one of the top scorers this season for Hargrove Military Academy in Virginia . . .

And they're still talking about the wreaths hanging around the Ayden school this past fall. The wreaths, indicating moments of sorrow, came after Ayden lost its first football game to Warsaw in the state playoffs . . .

Elias Takes New Virginia Post

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) —Bill Elias takes over today as the new head football coach at the University of Virginia—without any idea of how long he'll last but with confidence he can lift the Cavaliers from the depths of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"They say it just can't be done," Elias said Tuesday of the possibility of reforming the team that has lost its last 28 games and tied the national major college record for successive defeats.

"Like the idiot I am," he added, "I think I'll try it."

Thus, the 36-year - old Elias brings to Virginia the same cockiness he took to George Washington a year ago. Without any visible means of improvement, he turned the Colonials' 1-8 record of 1959 into a 5-3-1 slate for the 1960 season and was named Southern Conference coach of the year.

Neither Elias nor the university disclosed salary terms, though Elias said "the money factor had something to do" with his decision to take the Virginia job. Both said his appointment is "without a terminal date."

Elias, a former Maryland quarterback, succeeds Dick Voris as football coach. Voris quit last month after he failed to get a vote of confidence from the university Board of Visitors. Voris' teams won only one of 30 games in his three-year tenure.

ELIZABETH CITY — Elizabeth City is winless within the Northeastern Conference—but the Yellow Jackets gave Greenville the scare of its life last night before falling 63-50.

The outside jump shooting of Junior Alan McArthur plus some extraordinary rebounding by center John Bynum gave Greenville a plus for their performance.

The victory was especially sweet for Coach Bo Farley who was badly dejected after Roanoke Rapids shattered Greenville last Friday night.

The victory, the fifth of the season, pushed Greenville into third place with a 3-2 league log.

In other conference games, Kinston crushed New Bern 72-42 and Jacksonville turned back Washington 49-35.

The Jackets took the lead in the first quarter and held it until 1:43 left when a three-point play by McArthur put Greenville in front 14-12. By the end of the period it was 16-13.

Elizabeth City battled back in the second quarter, largely on the shooting of Smith, with 17 points to go ahead at half time 30-28.

With senior John Bynum finding the range, the Phants hit their stride in the second half with a 19-point third quarter scoring spree and 16 more in the final eight minutes.

Bynum, finishing with 17 points, scored 13 in the second half. Most of his buckets came from close up with several being follow-ups from misguided attempts.

Layne Jorgensen and McArthur kept Greenville in contention during the first half with 10 points each. McArthur added five in the last half for 15 points and Jorgensen finished with 14.

The game was actually decided off the boards where Greenville had a large advantage. Billy James, who scored only six points, did a tremendous job off the boards.

The unpredictable Phantoms tackle conference leader and undefeated Kinston on the Red Devils' home court Friday night. It will be their first meeting of the season.

In the junior varsity game, Rodney Knowles totaled 17 points in leading Greenville to a one-sided 68-32 victory.

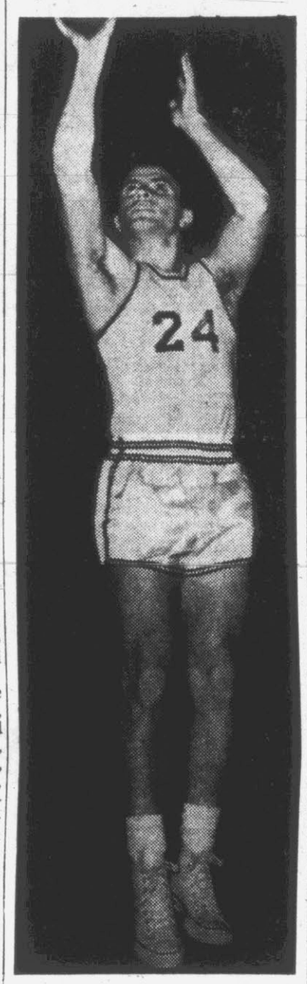

Kenny Joyner and Kenneth Allen had 13 each for the once-beaten baby Phants.

Wall, Venturi Are Defending Champions In Crosby Tourney

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) —Art Wall captured the 1959 Crosby Golf Tournament in near perfect weather and the same conditions could exist this week for the $50,000 event.

"You'll see some low scores if this weather keeps up," Wall said after a practice round over the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course. "The weather makes quite a difference here."

Although he didn't keep formal score, Wall said he was a few strokes under par for 18 holes.

Ken Venturi of San Francisco battled rain and blustering winds on his final 18 holes last year and won the 72-hole tournament with a score of 286. Wall won the year before with 279.

"I wouldn't want to guess what it would take to win this time," Art said. "So much depends on the weather."

After winning the Crosby in 1959, Wall went on to become the golfer-of-the-year. He hopes this one can get him off to another good start.

Art Doering, the veteran from Pittsburgh, paced qualifiers Tuesday who battled for the last 18 places in the field of 150 pros and 150 amateurs who start the tournament Thursday. Doering fired a 3-under-par 69 on the Pebble Beach course.

The pros pair with the amateurs for tournament play with two divisions—the pro-amateur and the pro individuals.

Other qualifiers Tuesday include Tommy Aaron, Gainsville, Ga., Milon Marusic, St. Louis, and Bill Ezinicki, North Redding, Mass., all 71; Fred Wampler, St. Louis, 72; Tom Talkington, Ypsilanti, Mich., and Houston LeClair, Birmingham, Ala., 73; Phil Wiechman, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Peter Mazur, Montauk, N.Y., 74.

The 18th spot will be decided today in a sudden death playoff between 11 golfers who deadlocked at 75.

SCORING WITH MARINES

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP)—Jack Sullivan, 6-foot-4 forward who led the nation's college basketball scores four seasons ago at Mount St. Mary's with 1,070 points, hasn't lost his scoring touch. The former U. S. Olympic cager scored 102 points in two successive games for the Camp Lejeune Marine team.

Sports In Brief

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The Helen Lee Doherty Women's Amateur Golf Tournament gets under way today with no one favored to lift the crown Marlene Streit has worn two years.

The Toronto golfer and 89 rivals faced an 18-hole medal round which will pare the field down to 32 for match play ending Sunday.

Mrs. Streit tees off at noon with Barbara Williams, a Californian who is among the defending champion's top rivals.

Match play starts Thursday.

BELLEAIR, Fla. (AP) — More than 180 amateur golfers, all 55 or older, moved into the second round of match play today in the 27th annual American Seniors Golf Tournament.

Egon Quittner of Rydale, Pa., lost 1-up to C.D. McAllister of Orlando Tuesday in the first round of the championship flight.

The tournament, being played on the par-71 Belleview Biltmore course near Clearwater, will continue through Saturday.

Comedalist Jack Russell of Clearwater, beat William H. Diddel of Naples 1-up when a 45-foot wedge shot dropped into the cup on the 18th green.

Dick Owen, comedalist from Dunedin, defeated Robert Bell of Worthington, Ohio, 5 and 4.

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — The National Basketball Association, following the lead of big league baseball, has expanded to 10 teams with the addition of Chicago and Pittsburgh. But NBA President Maurice Podoloff is taking nothing for granted as far as the situation in Pittsburgh is concerned.

"I'm going to Pittsburgh on Monday to finalize all the details," said Podoloff today. "They told us they are in. Now, we want to see how ready they are to go."

The Pittsburgh entry is backed by John Harris, an ice show impressario. Harris is also the head of the Pittsburgh ice hockey club which returns to the American League next season.

"I can't see how Harris will be able to handle all these things," a leading NBA official told The Associated Press. "He has no organization set up yet and he'll have to move fast in so many directions." The official refused to be identified.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) —If the 1960 NASCAR Rookie of the Year follows in the footsteps of the 1959 winner, the name David Pearson will be prominently mentioned in stock car racing before long.

The 1959 rookie, Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., went on to become the second leading driver on the late model stock car racing circuit in 1960.

Pearson was 23rd in his rookie year. His "charger" type of driving brought him to the attention of NASCAR officials, who made the Rookie of the Year selection with the help of racing reporters.

One of his best showings was in the World 600 at Charlotte. Running second when his generator broke, he wired it on with a coat hanger and although he had to make six pit stops in the last 150 miles he finished 10th.

The 26-year-old Pearson does auto body work in his home town of Spartanburg, S.C. He is married and the father of two children.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Houston Sports Association bought the American Association franchise here Tuesday night—clearing the biggest obstacle between Houston and major league baseball.

An official of HSA said a big factor in the purchase was an agreement between the Minneapolis-St. Paul entry in the American League and the American Association.

The official, who asked his name not be used, said the estimated $100,000 indemnity the Houston Buffs get from Minneapolis-St. Paul owner Calvin Griffith's payment to the league helped sway the Buffs into selling its franchise to the HSA.

The HSA holds a National League franchise for Houston in 1962.

The purchase price was not disclosed, but estimates put it near $400,000.

Moore Can Save Title With Schoeppner Bout

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore can save his light heavyweight title in New York by boxing Erich Schoeppner of Germany March 21 in Madison Square Garden.

The 175-pound king, stripped of his title by the National Boxing Association, was reported Tuesday night to have agreed to defend against the German challenger. Melvin Krulewitch, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, said at the New York Boxing Writers dinner that Archie was ready to fight Schoeppner.

Dave Ott of Cleveland, president of the National Boxing Association, said it would recognize the winner of a Harold Johnson-Jesse Bowdry bout in Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 7 as the champion.

"We have a tentative agreement, not yet fully confirmed, for Moore to box Schoeppner in the Garden March 20 or 21," said Krulewitch. "Moore would receive 50 per cent of the gate and 67½ per cent of the ancillary rights. The movie rights in Germany would go to Schoeppner, 90 per cent to 10 per cent for Moore. Schoeppner would receive 20 per cent of the gate and 15 per cent of the anchillary rights.

Krulewitch said the agreements were reached Tuesday afternoon when he locked the managers and lawyers of both fighters in his office. However, the matter of getting the Garden for the dates had not been cleared.

Ott said both Johnson and Bowdry had posted $5,000 forfeits guaranteeing that the winner of their Miami Beach bout would meet an opponent designated as the No. 1 contender within 90 days of their Feb. 7 match.

Floyd Patterson, first man to regain the world heavyweight title, accepted the Edward J. Neil plaque as Fighter of the Year for 1960 and said he would try hard to live up to it by defending successfully against ex-champ Ingemar Johansson March 13 at Miami Beach, Fla.

Johansson, Neil winner in 1959, said he expected to win back the title in the rubber match. "I am going to be in good shape," he said. "I know Floyd will be in good shape, too. Let's see which one is best the third time."

Ned Brown, veteran boxing writer, received the James J. Walker award for "long and meritorious service to boxing."

Punger Not In Action Tonite

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An accidental bump on the eye will keep North Carolina State's budding sophomore, John Punger, from action tonight in the Wolfpack's Atlantic Coast Conference battle with North Carolina.

The 6-foot-4, 200 pounder from Rockville Centre, N.Y., had broken into N.C. State's starting five during the Dixie Classic. He has scored 83 points.

Punger was struck in the eye during Saturday's game with Wake Forest at Winston - Salem. He has remained hospitalized there. Doctors said Punger should be past the danger period today, but will not play for a week or 10 days. Fears of blood clots between the eye's cornea and iris forced doctors to keep him hospitalized.

Russ Marvel, a 6-foot-6 letterman junior from Gary, Ind., is expected to take Punger's place tonight.

The only other game has Navy at Maryland in a non-league tilt. No games were scheduled Tuesday night, and after tonight all are idle until Saturday.

North Carolina will be after its fifth straight ACC win, and third in succession on the road. The Tar Heels, who have won nine straight games and are ranked sixth nationally, are 11-2 over-all.

N.C. State, feanwhile, is 2-3 and 9-4 and currently tied with Maryland for fourth place.

No Action In North State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Western Carolina plays at Catawba tonight in the only North State Conference basketball action scheduled.

All teams were idle Tuesday night. Belmont Abbey plays at Lenoir Rhyne Thursday night in the only other game for conference teams until Saturday night.

Catawba takes a 3-4 conference record and 7-8 over-all mark into the game. WCC is 3-5 and 4-12.

George J. Kolowich Jr. of the Denver Truckers quintet, is president of the National Industrial Basketball League for the second season.

Chicod 59 Stokes-Pactolus 51

STOKES——Versatile Chicod ran and shot an early 30-point lead here last night and turned it over to reserves in the final period to trim Stokes-Pactolus, 59-51.

Scoring for the winners was evenly distributed. Ephraigm Smith, Raymond Fornes and Billy Elks popped away with 13 points each.

Carroll Fleming of the Blue Jays finished in a rush to lead the losers' attack with 21 points Billy Roebuck had 15.

The 51 points accumulated by Stokes-Pactolus was their high since the Christmas holidays The defeat was their 15th straight.

After a half that produced only 13 points, the visiting Chicod girls put out an extra effort in the final half to topple Stokes-Pactolus 29-17 in the preliminary game.

Pansy Jones, Chicod forward, scored 18 points in the slow-down game, pacing the victory. Mary Louis Hudson had nine.

Dale Coward scored seven for the Blue Jays.

Belvoir-Falkland 50 Ayden 49

BELVOIR——Joe Jenkins converted one of two free throw attempts here last night after the game had officially ended to give small but slick Belvoir-Falkland a 50-49 upset over Ayden.

Jenkins, who scored 17 points during the combat, pushed off a hurried shot just seconds before the final buzzer . . . the shot was missed but Jenkins was fouled in the process.

With tension at a high pitch, Jenkins missed the first charity attempt but dropped the second through the nets and pinned the second straight loss on Ayden.

The Eagles, able to win only one game since the holiday break, lost little time in warning Ayden of the danger ahead, surging to a 12-7 first quarter lead.

It was 32-31 after three quarters and the Eagles, thanks to Jenkins' free toss, were able to match Ayden point for point in the final quarter.

Ted Norris and William Edwards had 13 points each for Ayden. Roy Smith was second high for B-F with 13.

The host girls rushed to a 13-2 first quarter lead and cruised to a 47-39 triumph in the evening's opener.

Mary PoHard's 16 points led Ed Warren's charges to their seventh win in nine conference starts Phyllis Nichols had 14.

Harris of Ayden was tops for the game with 25 points.

Bethel 77 Bath 51

BATH——Ambitious Bethel stepped outside the county last night but the change didn't affect the Indians. Led by brilliant John Smith, Bethel rushed to a 77-51 win over Bath.

Smith, slithering and twisting through the Bath defenders, scored 13 points in the first half shoot-'em-up and added 12 in the final for 25 points.

Tex Everett, the lanky freshman with considerable talent, took charge of the boards for Bethel and pushed in 16 points to boot.

Harvey Lewis, with 14, and Don Dewar, with 10, were also in double figures.

The Bethel girls usually on the winning side of the fence, were sidetracked by Bath 60-41 for their fourth loss of the season.

Carolyn Manning pumped in 24 points and Janet Cobb had 13 but it didn't compare with Bath's one-two scoring punch of Cox and Christman who totaled 45 points between them.

In the nightcap, Bethel scored 40 points in the first half to sail home with an easy win, their 15th of the season.

Groat Speaks

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Dick Groat, captain of the world baseball champion Pittsburgh Pirates, will be the principal speaker here Monday night, Jan. 30.

About 600 persons are expected for the banquet, which will pay tribute to championship athletic teams and individuals of the area. The Gastonia Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the banquet, hopes to make it an annual affair.

Star Tatnall of Philadelphia is captain of the Yale squash team.

Notre Dame Pulls Upset . . . .

DePaul Bows From Undefeated Ranks

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The home court advantage, important in basketball, has chopped DePaul's Blue Demons off the major undefeated list, leaving only Ohio State.

Notre Dame's Irish spilled DePaul's unbeaten string at 12 Tuesday night, 61-58.

John Tully wast riggerman for the Irish, hitting two quick field goals as part of an 8-0 burst that shattered a 42-all tie with about 8 minutes remaining.

DePaul, ranked seventh in the new Associated Press poll, thus suffered the road-game pitfall that had struck Bradley, Louisville and Vanderbilt from the unbeaten ranks last week.

Ohio State's beat-'em Bucks won their last 17 games including 12 straight this year as they rumble toward defense of their NCAA championship.

Cincinnati (12-3) stretched its winning streak to seven, 64-53 over Duquesne; Detroit won its 10th in 15 tries, 71-57 over Dayton; Auburn (8-2) whipped Florida State 74-67; Memphis State (12-1) routed Louisiana College 96-39; and Western Kentucky fattened its Ohio Valley Conference lead, 88-75 over Tennessee Tech in other major games.

Little Howie Carl hit 16 points for DePaul, but Notre Dame had little trouble with sophomore M. C. Thompson, who had scored 24 points when the Demons ended Louisville's 13-game streak last Saturday. Thompson scored only five points and hit just one field goal.

Sophomore Tom Thacker and Paul Hoguee ach scored 16 points for Cincinnati's Bearcats, who are improving with every game under new coach Ed Jucker. Another sophomore, Dale Heidotting, scored seven points in the closing minutes to put it away after he replaced Bob Wiesenhahn, who was put out for fighting with Duquesne's Clyde Arnold.

Dayton, now 9-3, held Detroit ace Dave Debusschere to eight points but the Titans' Charlie filled in with 23 and Detroit won handily. Dayton, led by Gary Roggenburk's 15 points, hit only 24 percent of its shots.

Jimmy Fibbe scored 17 points and Porter Gilbert 16 for Auburn, which held Florida State scoreless for 7½ minutes while bouncing into an 11-0 lead. Memphis State, beaten only by West Virginia in the Sugar Bowl final, spedt o its 29th consecutive home triumph with Skip Wolfe getting 19 points, Wayne Yates 18, and Lowery Kirk and Frank Snyder 17 apiece.

Western Kentucky built a 10-point halftime lead anl rolled to its 14th straight Ohio Valley Conference victory. Charlie Osborne and Bobby Rascoe each had 24 points for Western while Don Gorin had 21 for Tennessee Tech.

Virginia Military hit 33 of 38 free throw attempts for the difference in a 93-77 Southern Conference victory over George Washington. Neither will worry the league leaders. VMI has a 2-6 Conference mark and is 3-10 overall. G-W now 2-3 in the league, lost its eighth in 11 games.

OUR NEW FIRST LADY

Jacqueline at 5, with mother, Mrs. John V. Bouvier (now Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss) when they won prize in family class at Easthampton, N. Y., horse show.

As First Lady, Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy expects to spend a great deal of time with her children, newborn John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Jr., and Caroline, 3, to make up for the fact that the busy President can't give them all the time he'd like.

Her plans include a new nursery which the two youngsters will share. Baby John will have the same nurse, Luella Hennessey, who took care of Caroline. But Mrs. Kennedy has no intention of leaving the children mostly in the care of nurses or the Secret Service. She recalls a happy childhood, and intends that her children will be happy too.

Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy was born July 28, 1929, in Southampton on Long Island. Her father was the late John V. Bouvier, a New York stockbroker. Her mother, the former Janet Lee, is now Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, of McLean, Va.

After attending private schools, she was called "the most beautiful debutante of the year" when she came out in Newport, R. I., and New York in 1948. She went to Vassar two years, spent her junior year in Paris, and was graduated from George Washington University in Washington, D. C.

Her only job was as an inquiring photographer for the Washington Times-Herald. She worked for about a year, then quit to marry U. S. Senator John Kennedy, whom she met at a Washington party. Their wedding in Newport, R. I., on Sept. 12, 1953, was a social event.

At 31, Jacqueline Kennedy is the nation's third youngest First Lady. Julia Gardiner was only 24 when she entered the Executive Mansion as the second wife of John Tyler in 1844. Frances Folsom was 22 when she married Grover Cleveland in the White House in 1886.

Jacqueline as radiant bride. Her wedding to U. S. Senator John Kennedy Sept. 12, 1953, was social event.

While her husband campaigns, Mrs. Kennedy sits at home typing column called "Candidate's Wife." It was distributed by Democratic National Committee.

Jacqueline, at time she was inquiring photographer on the old Washington Times-Herald, gets ready to snap picture of Dale Chestnut, a co-worker, as she feeds goldfish atop newspaper's pressroom. Pool in which they are standing was intended to cool room. Employes planted the fish.

Jacqueline takes last minute looks at stage where her husband was about to start TV debate with Vice President Richard Nixon.

Crowd greets Sen. Kennedy and wife as they pass through Wall Street area in New York. It was one of her few campaign appearances with husband.

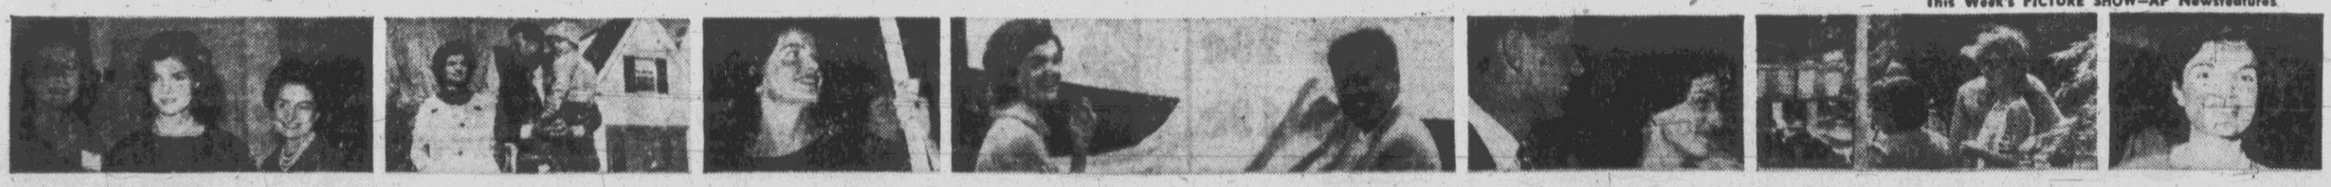

The Kennedys, Jack, Jacqueline and Caroline, 3, are shown in their home in Georgetown, suburb of nation's capital, while taping a television program which appeared last September.

New member of the family. President-elect John F. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy look proudly at their infant son, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Jr.

Reports Greater Russian Effort In Education

RALEIGH (AP) — A youthful educator picked to head the Army in President-elect John F. Kennedy's administration says the Soviet Union is making greater efforts than this country in the field of higher education.

The real contest of the future, said Elvis J. Stahr Jr. to a Raleigh Executives Club meeting Tuesday night, will be a "battle of brains rather than of bombs."

Stahr, 44-year-old president of West Virginia University, has been picked by Kennedy to be secretary of the Army.

Stahr warned that the United States must "double and redouble" its educational effort if only to maintain its security, freedom and progress, "much less to move to new frontiers."

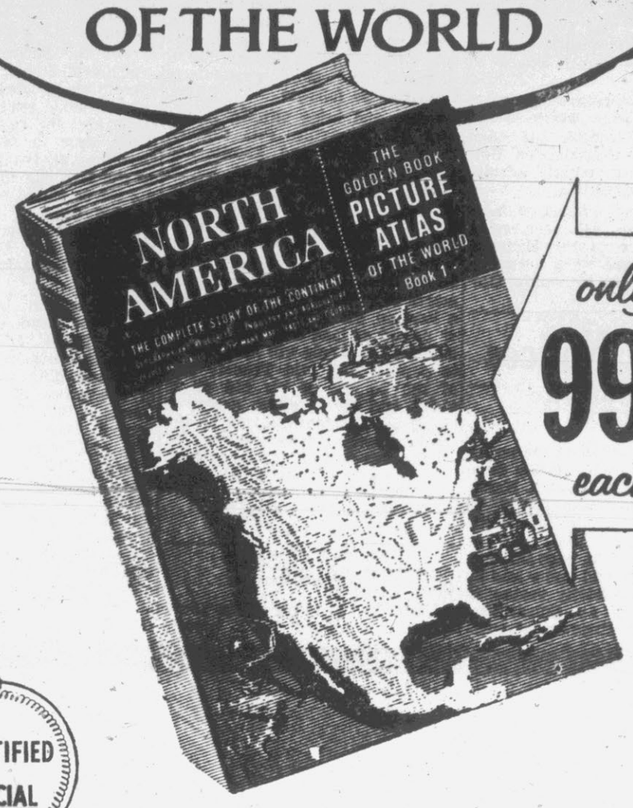

Stahr was to return to Washington today to continue his appearance before the Senate Armed Services Committee concerning confirmation of his appointment.

Seven presidents of the United States died in office.

One Word Of Advice As To Trouble Between Steel And Labor: Relax

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government task force assigned to study the steel industry's labor troubles came up today with one word of advice to the nation—relax.

The whole problem and its effects on the national economy are highly exaggerated, according to the surprising findings submitted by a staff headed by Prof. E. Robert Livernash of the Harvard Graduate School of Business.

Here are some of the task force's conclusions:

1. Actual adverse effects of steel strikes have not been of serious magnitude.

2. Neither have steel wage or price changes been serious in terms of the over-all economy, or in influencing other price and wage levels.

3. Little can be gained from changing the labor laws for dealing with national emergency strikes. Existing economic pressures are more effective persuaders. If the government has to get into a steel dispute, it should be on an informal basis at "truly critical stages."

4. Serious consideration should be given to advance arrangements so that in any future steel strike a few mills would be operated to insure enough steel for national defense needs.

The quicker everybody realizes how the steel labor problem has been exaggerated in the public mind, the study suggests, less attention will be paid the periodic steel labor bargaining, and probably fewer strikes will ensue.

Prof. Livernash told reporters he personally has great confidence in the future of collective bargaining in the steel industry. He said it already has reached a highly perfected and efficient state in dealing with daily mill problems.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, who ordered the 14-month study begun in the midst of the record 116-day steel strike in 1959, generally agreed with the report. The secretary has advocated a wider variety of governmental tools for dealing with national emergency strikes.

Mitchell said he hoped the "practical realities" expressed in the report will mean the industry and United Steelworkers Union will have to reckon "with a much more sophisticated public" in future bargaining.

The report suggests that while steel management and steel labor have spent much time and many press releases blaming each other for generating nationwide inflation, neither steel wage nor price changes have affected the economy significantly.

In the next few years, the report indicates, the union is going to have to accept smaller economic settlements and the industry the responsibility for workers losing their jobs permanently due to more efficient production methods.

"The core of the industrial relations problem in the steel industry," the study says, "is the shrinking work force required to produce enough steel to fill the industry's needs."

Report Militia Suffer Losses

HAVANA (AP) — Businessmen arriving from south central Cuba said Tuesday night 93 Castro militiamen have been killed in a major government offensive to wipe out insurgent bands.

The unconfirmed report said most of the casualties were in the vicinity of Trinidad, Las Villas Province town at the foothills of the rugged Escambray Mountains.

Nikita Wants To Curb Bootleggers

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has called for more stringent laws against Soviet bootleggers — especially those who steal state crops to make moonshine — and their customers.

The Communist party organ Pravda said the premier interrupted two Ukranian speakers during the Soviet Central Agricultural Session to denounce participants in the moonshine trade.

Accuses U.S. Of Intervention

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev in a statement published Tuesday accused the United States of taking measures for intervention in Laos to convert it into a SEATO (Southeast Asia Treaty Organization) base."

The Soviet news agency Tass said the statement was included in a message sent to Prince Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist Laotian premier who fled to Cambodia in mid-December.

For Once Lawrence Welk Is Speechless

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For once, Lawrence Welk was speechless.

We were lunching at the Brown Derby when Dot Record chief Randy Wood walked in bearing a gift. It was a handsomely framed gold record of "Calcutta," signifying the first time Welk had entered the charmed circle of million sellers.

The music man sputtered, grinned, then beamed. All he could manage to say was: "Congratulate me."

He recovered enough to explain his joy: "I've been trying for this ever since I started recording, back in 1928. I remember I paid $400 to a recording outfit for 2,000 or 3,000 records and we sold them ourselves when we played dates."

Early in the war, he almost caught fire with a record, but shortage of shellac nipped the hit in the bud. Even after he became a TV sensation, he couldn't get close to a million singles. How did he do it?

He pointed toward Wood, the young Tennesseean who branched out from a one-man operation to a multimillion-dollar enterprise.

"Randy called me at dinner one night and asked me to drop by his house," Welk related. "He played me a record of a number he wanted me to do. I tried to think of a way I could tell him I thought it was terrible and still not hurt his feelings."

Wood prevailed and Welk recorded "Last Date," a rumbling instrumental with the unmistakable thump of rock 'n' roll. It sold 300,000. Then came "Calcutta," with a beat that even Elvis could pulsate to. Wood predicts it will go two million. The "Calcutta' album is expected to hit 500,000.

He's still a bit dazed by it all.

"When I rode in the Hollywood Christmas parade, the teen-agers were yelling for me—imagine!" said Welk, who is more accustomed to adulation of the elders.

ARREST POLICEMEN

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Thirty Congolese policemen were arrested in the Leopoldville police camp Tuesday for agitating for more pay. Fifteen escaped before they could be taken out of the police camp.

Ancient Romans had corporation, mortgages, checking accounts, and interest-bearing savings accounts. Roman businessmen formed companies to handle government contracts for war materials during the Punic wars.

F. H. Weaver Is Named Secretary Of University

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A veteran educator has been named to the vacated post of secretary of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

He is Fred H. Weaver, who has been dean of student affairs at the university at Chapel Hill since 1946. He will take over as soon as he can be replaced at Chapel Hill.

The appointment, announced Tuesday by UNC President William C. Friday, was approved by the Executive Committee of the Consolidated University Board of Trustees.

The post of secretary has been vacant since Friday left it to become acting president and then president of the Consolidated University. The post entails administrative responsibilities.

Weaver, 45, was graduated from the university in 1937, received a master's degree from Harvard and has completed work toward a doctoral degree at Columbia University.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Rails and selected industrials paced a fairly sharp stock market rebound early this afternoon. Trading was lively.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.10 to 228.40, with industrials up 1.40, rails up 1.60 and utilities unchanged.

The advance more than wiped out Tuesday's mild "correction" of the 1961 rally.

Chemicals, steels, some autos and nonferrous metals joined in the rise. Rubbers were off. Farm implements were mixed. Electrical equipments eased.

While there was nothing outstanding in the news, brokers said the market may be anticipating once again bullish news emanating from the Kennedy administration when it takes office this week.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.39 to 632.25.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds advanced.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets firm. Supplies generally short, demand good. Prices paid producers for clean, unsized eggs, delivered nearby grading stations on a grade-yield basis, cases exchanged: grade A large, whites 37 to 38, mostly 38; medium, whites 32 to 34, mostly 33; small, whites 28 to 30, mostly 28.

Pitt Countians Leave For Inauguration

COFFEE DAY . . . for the New 1961 March of Dimes will be held tomorrow. Approximately 35 collectors, with "coffee day" written on them, have been distributed to places that sell coffee. For the coffee that is sold, instead of paying for it, the money will be given for the March of Dimes. Shown above is Miss Joan Pollard serving Mrs. Alta Briley.

A steady stream of travelers began to trickle out of Pitt County last night, bound for the gala festivities of the inauguration of John F. Kennedy, Democrat, as president.

From contacts made by The Daily Reflector, it seems that Pitt County, long recognized as a Democratic stronghold, will be well represented at the inauguration. Some make no bones about their glee in seeing a Democrat inaugurated as president, after eight years of Republican rule.

Numerous delegations will be traveling from Greenville, Bethel and Grifton. Representatives are also attending from other points in the county, including Farmville.

One party will consist of Arthur Tripp who left today, with J. B. Spilman, Jr., Dal Cox, and Glenn Jernigan, president of the Young Democrats Club at East Carolina College. Frank Wooten, local attorney, planned to leave this afternoon to attend the festivities.

State Senaor Rober Lee Humber and Mrs. Humber had tentative plans to attend, with Humber saying that "We have attended past inaugurations and look forward to attending the inauguration of a Democratic president with a great deal of pleasure."

Another Greenville party traveling to the inauguration will be Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Tripp and Mrs. Alton Clapp, who will make the trip by automobile. Mrs. Lucy Allen and Mrs. B. L. Tyson also were making the trip by automobile.

Captain S. H. Mitchell of the North Carolina Highway Patrol left last night by train. He will be serving in an official capacity at the inauguration.

From Bethel, a number of citizens are traveling to Washington. Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst Sr., Mrs. Fannie Bell House, Mrs. Frank Whitehurst, and Mrs. Carl Barbee are going, along with Mrs. Herbert Shelton of Conetoe, which is near Bethel.

Grifton will be well represented at inaugural activities with Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Bissette, Mrs. Thomas Gower, Mrs. Glendel Tucker, Sam E. Nelson, Wiley Gaskins, mayor of Grifton, and Patrolman Richard Tayloe, stationed in Grifton, on hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Morgan of Farmville are going, and so is another Farmville resident, Mrs. B. A. Turnage.

The rumor factory says that there may be others who are going, some probably will decide at the last minute to join the caravan heading for the 35th inauguration, which is supposed to be one of the biggest and best ever.

The remainder of Pitt County's 69,000 population will be in on the festivities, too, by all available radio and televisions.

Judge Kittrell Presents Safety Program At Club

AYDEN—Judge Leon Kittrell of Ayden Recorder's Court, a Rotarian, presented a program on traffic accidents and safety at Friday night's Rotary Club meeting, President Wayland McGlohon reported.

Judge Kittrell presented statistics on what the situation will be 10 years from now if the traffic fatalities continue at their present rate.

Among guests were Charlie McCullers of Kinston, a past district governor of the Rotary organization.

McGlohon presided at the meeting, held at the Ayden Community Building.

Day In Court For Governor's Son

BERLIN, Conn. (AP)—Michael Rockefeller, 22, son of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, has a date in court here Feb. 2 to answer a traffic charge.

Rockefeller's youngest son was arrested on the Berlin Turnpike by state police during a snowstorm Sunday night for driving 60 miles per hour in a 45 m.p.h. zone.

Rockefeller was charged with reckless driving and released an hour later when his family wired $100 bond.

Planning Salvage Grounded Vessel

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP)—Efforts will be made to salvage the 80-foot trawler Sara J. which is aground in the mouth of Oregon Inlet, the Coast Guard said Tuesday.

A Coast Guard spokesman reported Tuesday that one of four crew members taken from the fishing trawler Sunday said an attempt would be made to salvage the Sara J., valued at $100,000.

The ship, owned by Earl H. Holton of Vandemere, went aground Saturday night as she was going through the mouth of the inlet headed for open sea.

Eisenhower Predicts An Economic Recovery

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower predicted today that the faltering economy would advance soon into "a period of sound growth."

The President's annual economic report—his last major message to Congress—called for 14 pieces of legislation. None could be called an anti-recession measure.

Instead, Eisenhower urged on Congress these policies for sustained prosperity: Keep his new $81 billion budget in balance. Keep inflation under control.

In tone and content, the message was in sharp conflict with the most nearly comparable Democratic document, the Jan. 5 report of President-elect John F. Kennedy's economic task force.

The Democratic group called for emergency federal action extending unemployment compensation for workers who have exhausted their jobless pay, along with other programs boosting federal outlays by $3 billion to $5 billion in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Eisenhower conceded Congress should consider providing some supplement to jobless pay "in periods of especially high rates of unemployment." But his economic advisers told newsmen that the present rate—6.8 per cent—wasn't high enough to justify federal help.

The President's legislative wantlist was topped by a demand that 1962 appropriations "be held within the limits of expected revenues."

It then repeated all the tax proposals of Monday's budget message and other measures—most of them identical with last year's requests.

They included: postal rate increases to make the postal system self-supporting; removal of the 4¼ per cent interest ceiling on government bonds; additional legislation to assist chronically depressed areas; a "moderate" increase in the $1 minimum wage.

In all its 214-page length, the message never spoke of a recession, business dip, or downturn as marking the closing months of the Republican administration.

It referred to "moderate" late-1960 declines in production and employment as being mainly the result of industry's liquidation of an over-accumulation of inventories, and suggested that this may soon be stopped and inventory-buying resumed.

"An increase in general economic activity should not, accordingly, be long delayed," the President said.

Credit Women's Club Has Meet

A special called meeting of the Credit Women's Breakfast Club was held last night at Planter's National Bank.

"Unlocking the Future With Office Efficiency," study course of the club, was discussed by Mrs. Jean Clark, Miss Rosalie Moore and Miss Joyce Paramore.

A skit, "Unlocking the Future Through Parliamentary Know-how," was presented by members of the club. Members participating included: Mrs. Earline Coghill; Miss Alma Paramore; Mrs. Lillian Hawkins; Mrs. Martha Mills; Miss Ellen Maske; Mrs. Sally Broughton; Mrs. Mary Seymour; Miss Clara Seago; Miss Marguerite Rouse; and Mrs. Bonnie Singleton.

Mrs. Louise Carrigan, president of the club and City Chairman for the March of Dimes, gave a report of the progress of the campaign.

Find No Criminal Negligence Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — No criminal negligence was involved in the Thomas Hotel fire Jan. 6 which took 20 lives, a coroner's jury ruled Tuesday.

Ray Gorman, 61, in whose room the fire started, admitted he had been drinking just before the fire started, but he testified: "I'm on the wagon—for good."

CHECKING UP ON THE FLOOD—Three neighborhood children join Harlo McNeel, a resident of the Pierpont Beach, Calif., community near Ventura, as he inspects a flooded street where Pacific waves have flooded and damaged more than 30 homes in the past three days. The kids' lack of apparel is due, in part, to air temperatures in the 80s. (AP Wirephoto)

No Sign Of Life In Sunken Tower

NEW YORK (AP)—Daredevil skindivers plunged deep into the murky North Atlantic Tuesday night to penetrate—for short distances—the sunken Texas Tower radar station.

They found much debris, but no sign of life.

Further exploration of the storm-wrecked tower was held up until "hard hat" deep sea divers could stand by at the openings to assist divers using self-contained breathing units.

The skindivers descended 160 feet to the stricken station, which is apparently resting on the ocean floor at a 45-degree angle.

The Navy Tuesday reluctantly abandoned all hope of finding any of the tower occupants alive. Dead or missing are the 14 Air Force men and 14 civilian workers who were aboard the station when it collapsed Sunday night under pounding seas and gale-force winds.

Rescuers had been spurred by mysterious tapping sounds from the tower, indicating survivors might be trapped in watertight compartments.

"It is now a salvage operation," said Rear Adm. Allen M. Shinn, who directed the fruitless rescue attempt from aboard the aircraft carrier Wasp.

Cat In Well Took Lot Of Rescuing

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP)—A cat, a farmer, two helpers and a rescue squad played ding dong dell in a well near here today.

First the cat fell into the 35-foot dry well. Then Fred McClary, 72-year-old farmer of the Shady Grove section of Gaston County, went down for the cat.

McClary tied a rope around his waist and two companions lowered him. But they couldn't get him up. So the rescue squad from nearby Cleveland County was called. Squad members, led by Capt. Corbitt Nicholson, raced to the scene and pulled McClary to safety.

He held the cat, safe and sound

Blame 'Canned Heat' For Deaths

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Acting Coroner W. D. Vreeland said Tuesday that blood tests indicated a Negro mother and her daughter died last week after drinking a wood alcohol mixture called "canned heat."

Mrs. Alma Mae Bullard, 28, was found dead in Forsyth County jail on Jan. 13. Her mother, Mrs. Clara Eggleton, died Jan. 12. Authorities said indications were both women had been drinking canned heat for several weeks.

The coroner also said a blood analysis is expected shortly in the death of another Negro, James Lonnie McCoy, 32, who died Jan. 15. Dr. Vreeland said the wood alcohol mixture also may have caused his death.
