At Commission Meeting

NEW INDUSTRY HUNTER IN PITT COUNTY . . . Dr. Green (center) welcomed by Chairman Bloxam (left) and Sen. Humber.

Industry Data To Be Told Throughout Pitt County

By HENRY HOWARD Dr. Sylvester Green, new executive director of the Pitt County Development Commission, last night heralded an educational program on the county level for the county industry-hunting organization. Appearing at his first regular commission meeting as its director, Dr. Green said: "Many people living within the county do not know exactly what Pitt County has to offer. Our job is to tell them." The new director, replacing L. A. Weston, who officially vacated the post last September, told the commissioners the educational program is a need of the county organization that has become apparent to him during his three days here. "Dr. Green said: 'I am trying to formulate an educational program that will include preparing a general mailing list for Pitt County of people we could circulate with information on Pitt County.' He pointed out, 'There is a large supply of information in the office. . . and we plan to make it available to Pitt County citizens.' In acquainting himself with the county, and the county with him, Dr. Green proposed 'to spend about half my time in the office (in the Edwards Building) and the other half on the road - in Pitt County.' He told the group, 'I have had a busy and happy three days here. I have never been anywhere where people were any more gracious and kind. It's a great feeling to be here.' Optimistic "I hope we can tell Pitt County citizens about our program," Dr. Green said and added he was optimistic that the commission can develop "a great program of planned progress." Commissioner Robert L. Humber, Pitt County senator and instrumental in bringing Dr. Green to the county commission, told the group a proposed industrial school for Pitt County may be approved by the State Board of Education in February. Sen. Humber lauded "fine response to the idea over the county" and said the application for the proposed school may be submitted to state authorities next week. The commission has already (in November) gone on record endorsing the tentative project that would cost around $300,000. Under the state's program, the school building would be supplied by the county while equipment and instruction would be financed by the state. Janitorial and secretarial employees would also be county responsibility. Three-Fold Purpose The Pitt senator said the State Board is prepared to receive our application and we could not ask for a more cordial feeling there." The state body must approve a school for Pitt County before official local action can proceed. Sen. Humber cited a three-fold purpose of the school's location here: 1. To supply existing needs of industries already located in Pitt County. 2. To provide assurance that incoming industry can readily obtain an adequate supply of trained, skilled labor. 3. To provide an opportunity for "those gifted high school graduates who don't want an academic education to equip themselves" for a profession. He predicted the school would "enrich the economy of Pitt County and make it stronger." Sen. Humber also reported on a Raleigh meeting last week attended by leading utilities officials, representatives of the state Conservation and Development department, and others. He said the meeting featured discussion of the possibility of creating an area development organization in some 20 Eastern N. C. counties, including Pitt. He quoted Bill Henderson, C. and D. head, as saying a prime assignment of the state body is to build Eastern North Carolina. Commissioner Chairman L. P. Bloxam reported "interesting prospects" for the county are being contacted and one may soon announce a decision on establishing a new plant. He said, "Pitt County is at the top of this prospect's list." The only action taken by the commission last night was the unanimous decision to relocate the site of the group's regular meetings. The commission accepted the invitation of Wachovia Bank to meet in the third-floor Community Room, the site of last night's session.

Kennedy, Eisenhower Discuss Latest Developments At Meet

Capital Squares Away For Inaugurating A President

By ARTHUR EDSON WASHINGTON (AP)—The capital squared away today for John F. Kennedy's presidential inauguration—one of the biggest in history. Every plane, train and bus fetched in politicians, celebrities, school children, brass bands and ordinary precinct-run Democrats eager to whoop it up over regaining control of the White House. All were here for a solemn occasion that lasts but a moment. Around 12:30 p.m. Friday, Kennedy takes the simple oath, and as he does the awesome responsibility for leading this country in the challenging days ahead quietly shifts to him. Rarely has there been such an all-star cast. Kennedy is here, Harry Truman is here, Dwight Eisenhower is here, Herbert Hoover was expected late today. For a short time Friday four men who have taken this high oath will be together at the Capitol—two Democrats, two Republicans—who by their very presence are an excellent illustration of democracy at work. Only one chilly note threatens to mar the festivities. The weather man is sticking by his prediction that the thermometer will hover around freezing and that there will be a brisk wind. Those who are at the Capitol, and those who line Pennsylvania Avenue for the parade that follows, are in for a frigid afternoon. But today the emphasis is nearly all on celebrating. Kennedy will drop by a reception for governors late this afternoon, take in a couple of private receptions, go to a special inauguration concert of the National Symphony and wind up the evening at a Democratic gala in the National Guard Armory. Led by Frank Sinatra, an all-star cast has been lined up to entertain those who contribute $100 apiece for the big party fund-raising affair. Performers to appear tonight are Harry Belafonte, Gene Kelly, Jimmy Durante, Nat King Cole, Leonard Bernstein, Ethel Merman, Louis Prima, Keely Smith, Mahalia Jackson and on and on, with a special mention for Ella Fitzgerald. She's coming all the way from Australia. Peter Lawford, film star married to Kennedy's sister, estimates that at going television rates the entertainment would cost $488,000. Instead, most of the artists are donating their services.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and President-elect John F. Kennedy canvassed the nation's major problems in a White House conference today lasting more than two hours. When he came out of the conference, Kennedy told reporters that he and three of his top appointees had had "the opportunity to get the thinking of the President and the responsible officers of the government on some of the major problems facing the United States." Kennedy, bronzed and smiling, was asked how he feels with his inauguration as president scheduled Friday. "Interested," Kennedy replied with a broad grin. A joint statement issued by the press secretaries of the outgoing and incoming presidents said that world areas discussed at the conference included the Far East, Africa, Western Europe and the Caribbean. Eisenhower and Kennedy met alone first in the President's office. Then they met in the Cabinet Room with the incoming and outgoing secretaries of state, Treasury and defense for continuation of their discussions. The statement said that during their discussions, the president-elect and the incoming Cabinet members "were brought up to date on a number of matters affecting the security of the United States." It was the second time Eisenhower and Kennedy had met for pre-inaugural discussion. They conferred for nearly three hours Dec. 6. Today's meeting lasted about three hours and 15 minutes. Kennedy told newsmen the two conferences will make the transition from a Republican to a Democratic administration easier. Kennedy was reminded that Eisenhower had said Wednesday that the transition was going smoothly, Kennedy agreed. Among the problems touched upon today, Kennedy said, was the outflow of gold. He said this was touched on briefly. Kennedy said, in reply to a question, that the talks were virtually restricted to foreign affairs as distinguished from domestic problems. He said that Eisenhower and his associates had offered to continue to help in any way they could after leaving office, if the new administration had any questions they could answer. He indicated, in reply to a question, that there had been no discussion of any specific mission Eisenhower might undertake for him after returning to private life. On the ride from his Georgetown home to the White House, Kennedy moved without a police escort. Few of those on the streets were aware he was passing by. In contrast to the first Eisenhower-Kennedy conference Dec. 6, there was no ceremonial welcome. On the earlier occasion Eisenhower greeted Kennedy on the front steps of the White House after Kennedy had ridden through an honor guard of servicemen. Today the small Kennedy motorcade arrived without fanfare. There was a small crowd at the gate. The White House grounds were virtually deserted except for the newsmen. The roles of the principals in this meeting will be reversed Friday. It will be President Kennedy and private citizen Eisenhower.

Castro Gov't Is Holding Six American Adventurers

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's government announced today it is holding six Americans accused of sailing to Cuba Jan. 7 to join counter-revolutionary forces here. The announcement said all six were seized in Havana the day after they made a pact in Florida with a Castro foe, former Sen. Rolando Masferrer, to join other dissidents trying to overthrow Castro's regime. Several Americans were executed by Castro firing squads last year after they were captured with "invasion" groups in Cuba. The announcement identified the six as George R. Beck, 24, Norton, Mass.; Tommy L. Baker, 28, Dothan, Ala.; Donald Joe Green, 28, Clover, S.C.; James E. Beane, 34, Cedar Falls, N.C.; Alfred Eugene Gibson, Durham, N.C.; and Leonard Louis Schmidt, 21, Chicago. The account said the six sailed from Marathon Key, Fla., with a refueling stop at Key West Jan. 6 after undergoing training at Masferrer's anti-Castro training camp in Florida. Castro's Cabinet needed the United States with a series of new decrees. In a session lasting until after midnight, the cabinet:

- 1. Ordered all Cubans and foreigners employed on the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo and living outside the base to get special work permits from the Cuban government. 2. Ordered all other persons entering the base—meaning Cubans trading with it—to get special permits. 3. Ordered drastic changes in the Spanish-American War Monument in Havana. 4. Ordered dissolution of the Cuban-American Cultural Institute, charging it has been converted into a propaganda outlet for the State Department. Nearly 4,000 Cuban nationals work at the base. The new law indicated that one aim of the regime was to get its hands on all dollars paid by the base to Cubans. It said that applications for permits to work on the base must be accompanied by a declaration of income. The eagle atop the Spanish-American War Monument was ordered replaced by a dove of peace, the decree saying that the eagle was a "tragic symbol of aggression, vassalage and exploitation." Military firing squads executed three members of the Cuban Electrical Union Wednesday as Castro pressed his purge of opponents in the ranks of labor. The three men shot in the dry grassy most of ancient La Habana fortress were accused of sabotaging electrical equipment last November, when the capital was partially blacked out by bomb blasts. The three electrical workers raised the unofficial total of executions to 584 since Castro took over power on New Year's Day of 1959.

Deserter Appears At 'Wrong Time'

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—"He sure showed up at the wrong time," was the comment today from a lawyer assisting a woman whose husband deserted her 12 years ago leaving her to raise their four small children. Attorney Jack Klass said the news that David Tilden Driver, now 51, was an inmate in the Illinois State Prison at Joliet, came just a few days before a hearing before a Social Security Board. He said Mrs. Driver, 45, had her husband declared legally dead in 1957 and now was attempting to collect her Social Security benefits. Lexington Police Chief V. G. Price said Wednesday that Driver is in the Vandallia prison serving five months for vagrancy under the name of Joseph T. Williams. The chief said Driver admitted his true identity to Warden Dale Williams. Klass said Driver was last seen by his family in 1949, although his wife received two cards from him just before Christmas, then nothing. "Mrs. Driver almost starved to death with four small children to support," said Klass. Klass quoted Mrs. Driver as saying her husband was a good provider before he left. Mrs. Driver kept up a diligent search for her husband throughout the years. Chief Price said when she learned of his whereabouts, she swore out a warrant charging him with non-support and abandonment. Just how Driver was located in prison is not clear, although it apparently came through a fingerprint check with the FBI in Washington. Chief Price said Driver was charged with misdemeanors several times before he disappeared, and each time pleaded his own case. The chief said "Driver liked to write letters. He corresponded with the king and queen of England." The chief said after Driver disappeared, there were rumors that he had been slain and buried in the city incinerator, rumors he said, the police discounted. The Driver children are David Jr., 20, who is in the Navy; William, 17, Vickie, 15; and Raeford, 14.

Backs Policy To Defend Formosa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of State-designate Chester Bowles told Senate senators today the United States is "going to defend Formosa at whatever the cost and whatever the risks." Bowles also testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he not only opposes recognition of Red China as things now stand, but also sees no possibility that the United States would meet the terms the Communists would demand for such recognition. The committee began its hearing on his upcoming nomination in a packed committee room. Scores stood outside unable to get in. Under questioning by Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., Bowles said Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung has imposed the condition that Formosa, Nationalist Chinese stronghold, must be a part of Communist China. In addition, Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai made clear in an interview with writer Edgar Snow that there can be no discussion with the United States until it accepts as a fact that Formosa is part of mainland China. "Obviously we won't do that," Bowles said.

Moving Prisoners Into Newest Unit

JACKSON, N.C. (AP) — Today was moving in day for the Odom Prison, newest unit in North Carolina's far-flung prison system. Plans called for moving 81 close custody prisoners into the new unit—located on the banks of the Roanoke River about five miles from Jackson. Some 30 of the prisoners were transferred from the Nash County Prison Camp near Nashville, 12 from the Currituck County camp, 30 from the Washington County camp and 9 from the Polk County unit. Prison department plans call for moving all close custody prisoners that are now at road camps into the new prison where they will engage in farm operations and be guarded by guards mounted on horses and equipped with security dogs. So, later, close custody men will be moved from the Haywood, Jackson, Yancey, Avery and Ashe camps into Odom, which has a capacity of about 300. At present, the prison system has about 200 close custody convicts in prison road camps. The Prisons Department announced several months ago that upon completion of the Odom prison it would move close custody convicts there — where they can be guarded more closely and will be less likely to escape than from road gangs. The new prison, on a 2,000-acre tract across the river from the Big Caledonia Prison Farm, was built almost entirely by prison labor.

Robert A. Allen, assistant prison director in charge of field units, said "We have a program started down there on a very limited basis for guards to use both security dogs and horses." He said several dogs—German shepherds — have completed a training program—in which they were taught to protect their guards from attack. He said the prison already has six horses for guards and eventually will have 14. Plans are to have about 12 dogs when the program is in full operation. Allen said the new prison unit personnel now totals about 50 men. He said the Prison Department figures less personnel will be required to keep the convicts at Odom than were required in the prison road camps. He said the classification of the Nash County Camp near Nashville is being changed. It has been used for close custody white convicts, and in the future it will be a minimum custody unit for Negro misdemeanants.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Weather Bureau today predicted snow here for inauguration eve but said it should end during the night with no accumulation to mar Friday's ceremonies. The forecast for Friday said it will be windy and cold with variable cloudiness and a high temperature of about 35 degrees.

One Track Star Catches Another

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — James T. Joyner, 37, of Plymouth bolted across a field while being questioned about a burglary. Police had stopped his car. Chester A. Wilson, 34, a Wash-tenaw County sheriff's deputy, gave chase and collared Joyner after a dash of nearly a mile through underbrush. "I don't know how you caught me," gasped Joyner. "I was a track star in Tennessee," Wilson replied. "Let's go to jail."

First Federal Savings & Loan Assets See 17 Per Cent Rise

Total assets of First Federal Savings and Loan Association at the end of 1960 have increased 17 percent over the previous year and now stand at $9,785,500.57, it was reported to shareholders by Clarence B. Twigwell, executive vice president, at the 24th annual shareholders meeting last night. Twigwell described 1960 as a record breaking year. Judge Dink James, president, acting as chairman of the annual meeting and said the biggest achievement of 1960 was the opening of the association's first branch office in Ayden. The branch was opened to meet needs of the Ayden community. Response of the city has been good, Judge James said, and officers of the association are very pleased with the progress made. Judge James also stated he would like to mention with pride that during the 24 years of the association, no homes of any borrowers had been re-possessed. In the institution's Annual Report, Twigwell said the year was marked by record gains in savers and savings with many individuals and families stepping up their savings program. "In part because of caution, and also they have developed systematic savings habits which reflect turn of many families to the old fashion virtue of savings," he reported. "The high-savings level, coupled with ever-increasing repayments on outstanding mortgages assures an ample supply of home mortgage money for home buyers in 1961," he said. Twigwell listed highlights of First Federal Savings and Loan Association's operation as follows: (1) Net savings increased by $1,307,000 or 16 percent boosted total savings capital to $9,285,068.56 at year's end. (2) Savers increased by 752 or 20 percent, and the total savings account holders stand at 4,358. (3) Dividends paid to savers totaled to $322,166.00, which is the largest amount of dividends ever paid. (4) The dollar volume of the home mortgage loans increased to $8,370,642.22 at year's end, or 15 percent. (5) The association loaned approximately $2,300,000 to families in the community to build or purchase homes in 1960. Directors whose term expired Wednesday night and were re-elected for a three year period were Dr. M. B. Massey, Dink James, and Roscoe L. King. At the Board of Directors meeting immediately following the shareholders meeting, the following officers were re-elected for the coming year: Judge Dink James, president; J. A. Collins, Sr., vice president; C. B. Twigwell, executive vice president and secretary; Alle F. Whitehurst, treasurer; and Roscoe L. King, loan officer.

Growth Of Girl Scouting In Greenville Has Been Great

COURT OF AWARDS . . . awards are a big part of Girl Scouting.

CAMP SITES . . . at Camp Hardee for Girl Scouts on the Pamlico River.

The Girl Scouts in the United States are observing the years 1960-1963 as the Birthday Years Trail. Their motto is "To Honor The Past—Serve The Future."

Juliette Lowe, founder of Girl Scouting, was born on October 31, 1860, and on March 12, 1912 she founded Scouting. The years 1960-1963 will be celebrated in honor of her 100th birthday and the 50th anniversary of Girl Scouts in 1962.

In 1920 Miss Ernestine Forbes and Miss Novella Moyer organized a group of Girl Scouts in Greenville Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. Howard McGinnis, and Mrs. E. F. Arnold in 1931 formed another troop under the leadership of Miss Jeanette Whedmore and Miss Inez VanDyke.

Girl Scouting in Greenville has advanced from the first troop of 35 girls to 800 girls, both white and Negro, and 50 adult leaders.

The "Green Light" issue of December 17, 1937 states that a Girl Scout organization was started under the leadership of Miss Evelyn Rogers of the high school faculty and Mrs. Herman Chase, an instructor at East Carolina College.

Miss Virginia Boerger of Duluth, Minn., a high school faculty member, organized Troop No. 1 in 1938.

In 1940 a Girl Scout cabin was used and called the "Little House" on East 14th Street Ext. The house had a library, kitchen, sleeping facilities and a large meeting and game room. Mr. J. H. Rose spearheaded this project. It was used for several years. The house still stands on the present site and is now used as a private residence.

Girl Scout Council Organized

The first Girl Scout Council was organized in 1940. The chairman was Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, as commissioner. Serving with her were Dr. S. M. Crisp, Mrs. E. L. Henderson, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, Miss Helen Gaskins, Mr. J. J. White, Dr. R. S. Boyd, Mrs. E. F. Duke, Mrs. R. C. Rankin, Mrs. Fred Blank, Mr. J. B. James and Mrs. H. H. Duncan.

The Greenville Girl Scout Council, Inc., was formed under the direction of J. B. James. Miss Florence Lanning was selected as the first full time Executive Secretary in which capacity she served until December of 1941.

Mrs. J. D. Collins Jr. of Macon, Ga. acted as secretary until 1942, when Miss Jane McConnell of Clarksville, Ga. became the Executive Secretary and the first director of Camp Hardee, which had been built and operated for the first time the summer of June 1942.

Camp Hardee Acquired

The formal dedication of Camp Hardee, whose acreage was bought through the generosity of a group of Greenville citizens, and whose buildings were made possible by the $10,000 memorial gift of Henry Hardee on June 27, 1942. The site was named Camp Hardee and is a memorial to Hardee's parents, Epenetus and Serena Nelson Hardee.

The Greenville Rotary Club offered the use of the second floor of the Rotary Building to the Girl Scouts. They have also been instrumental in the success of Camp Hardee and other organizations have been helpful with the campership each summer.

Several persons have served in the capacity of director of Camp Hardee. They are Mrs. Jane T. Uzzle, Mrs. Katherine Adams, Mrs. E. L. Henderson, and most recently, Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, who served from 1952-1959.

The first commissioner of the Greenville Girl Scouts was Mrs.

B. Kittrell, followed by Mrs. E. L. Henderson, Mrs. W. P. Moore, Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, Mrs. J. E. Long, Mrs. B. B. Sugg Jr., Mrs. Charles White, and Mrs. W. M. Reading.

In January of 1942, the Curved Bar, the highest award in Girl Scouting, was presented for the first time in Greenville to Dorothy Nell Henderson, Eleanor James, and Kathryn VanNorwick.

Pitt County had two representatives Shirley Harrell and Noel Lang, selected to attend the annual Senior Roundup held in Colorado Springs, Colo. in July 1958.

Coastal Carolina Council

The move toward the consolidation of small councils began a few years ago. Throughout the United States, the trend was to combine the lone troops and small area councils into large regional ones. The old Pitt Council was invited to join an area that would include 20 counties extending from Wilmington to Martin County and west to include Wayne County.

This area is now served by a district advisor, Mrs. Elizabeth Lindley, who is under the direction of the main office of the Coastal Carolina Council in Goldsboro. She works professionally with the leaders and all volunteers in District 7 and is the camp director of Camp Hardee.

The Board of Directors, which administers the business of scouting throughout Coastal Carolina, meets monthly. The president of the board is Mrs. Richard Neely of New Bern. Mrs. William Reading of Greenville is the second vice-president.

Each district is represented by a district chairman with this district represented by Mrs. John Behr. Mrs. Joe Miller represents the neighborhood on the nominating committee for Coastal Carolina. The information and decisions of the board are passed from the district chairman to the neighborhood chairman.

In District 7, there are three neighborhoods represented. These neighborhood chairmen take the information they have obtained from the district chairman to the neighborhood meetings which

For many years an annual Girl Scout Banquet was held. Later this became an annual tea held each year at the Rotary Building. The tea will be held this year on Sunday, January 29.
Over a period of years the Girl Scouts have gradually progressed with the help and hard work of many interested persons and organizations to help make Scouting what it is today in Greenville.

John F. Kennedy's Cabinet Wives: Nation's Proud Women

Ethel Kennedy: 'Miss Perpetual Animation of 1960'

AP Newsfeatures

At 32, Ethel Kennedy looks more like a college freshman than the mother of seven children.

The brunette wife of the new attorney-general, Robert F. Kennedy, is petite and very vivacious. In fact, photographers who were with her during her campaign efforts for her brother-in-law, John F. Kennedy, dubbed her informally "Miss Perpetual Animation of 1960."

She shepherds a happy, lively equally animated crew of four boys and three girls: Kathleen, 9; Joseph Patrick, 7; Bobby, 5; David, 4; Michael, 1½; and Kerry, a girl, 1.

The former Ethel Skakel, Mrs. Kennedy was born in Chicago in 1928 and grew up in Greenwich, Conn. She was graduated from the College of the Sacred Heart in Manhattanville, N. Y. While she was a freshman there in 1945 she met Bob Kennedy when both were skiing at Mount Tremblant in Canada. After college, she says the "just sort of played around for a year." She taught hockey at a girls' school but says it was "hardly worth mentioning." She and Bob were married in 1950. They have a home at Cape Cod, Mass., with the rest of the Kennedy clan.

While in Washington, they live at Hickory Hill, an historic 100-year-old estate at nearby McLean, Va. The house, owned by Bob's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, is said to have been a temporary headquarters of Gen. George B. McClellan during the Civil War.

Hickory Hill is a big green-shuttered white brick house of modified Georgian architecture surrounded by several acres, of gently rolling countryside that seems filled with children, dogs, ponies and horses.

When her husband was chief counsel for the Senate rackets investigating committee, Ethel was the most faithful attendant at the hearings. "I like to see Bobby in action," she said then.

Any Changes? Asked if she thought the new appointment as attorney general for her husband would make any change in their lives, Ethel quips: "Well, for the last six months it has been pretty strenuous." (Bob was campaign manager for his brother, and Ethel went on campaign trips with the Kennedy women).

Young Mrs. Kennedy adds that being part of the official life would "perhaps make a few changes, but I think we'd be more interested in Bobby's work."

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

About now, you must be longing for a flower or two to lend a bit of color to the inside of your house—not store bought flowers but something from your garden. But the tight budded plants seem so unpromising as you look out at them from your windows. The firethorn and holly still have an abundance of berries but you had enough of them last month. You want some hint of spring to tide you over these cold days.

For a touch of yellow, one of the warmest of nature colors, go out into your garden or yard and cut off a dozen or more snips from the forsythia. If you have a pussy willow, bring a bunch of it in also. They will look good mixed in with forsythia.

Flowering quince is another spring time favorite that can be carried into a preview of spring.

If you haven't had too much whiteness lately, spirea thunbergii with its sprays of small star-like flowers should be a welcome sight.

If it's a touch of fragrance you want, winter honeysuckle will give you that, but the flowers aren't very showy.

The pinkish lavender flowers of the red bud will blend with the spirea or look well in a vase by itself.

Apple, pear will force better later on but try and see if you can't wake up the pink and white flowers now.

Peach is one of the best for forcing because everyone likes its beautiful pink flowers.

Cherry is also a useful plant for out of season indoor blooming.

Magnolia is a subject for later forcing—put this down on your list and try it about late February or early March.

Put the stems in water in your favorite indoor containers and they should bloom naturally, but if you want to hurry them, put them in a tub in the basement of any other indoor convenient place. Spray the branches with hot water several times a day. After they start blooming, put them where they can finish their work.

Don't go through this winter hungry for a touch of beauty and fragrance. All you need is a few bundled up trips to your garden with your clippers and a basket. The fresh air will do you good and you may discover some new beauty in the twigs and limbs of your sleeping shrubs. And this premature pruning will not rob your plant of next spring's color. Just don't take all your sprigs from the same bush—only here and there.

THE NEW FACE OF BANKING

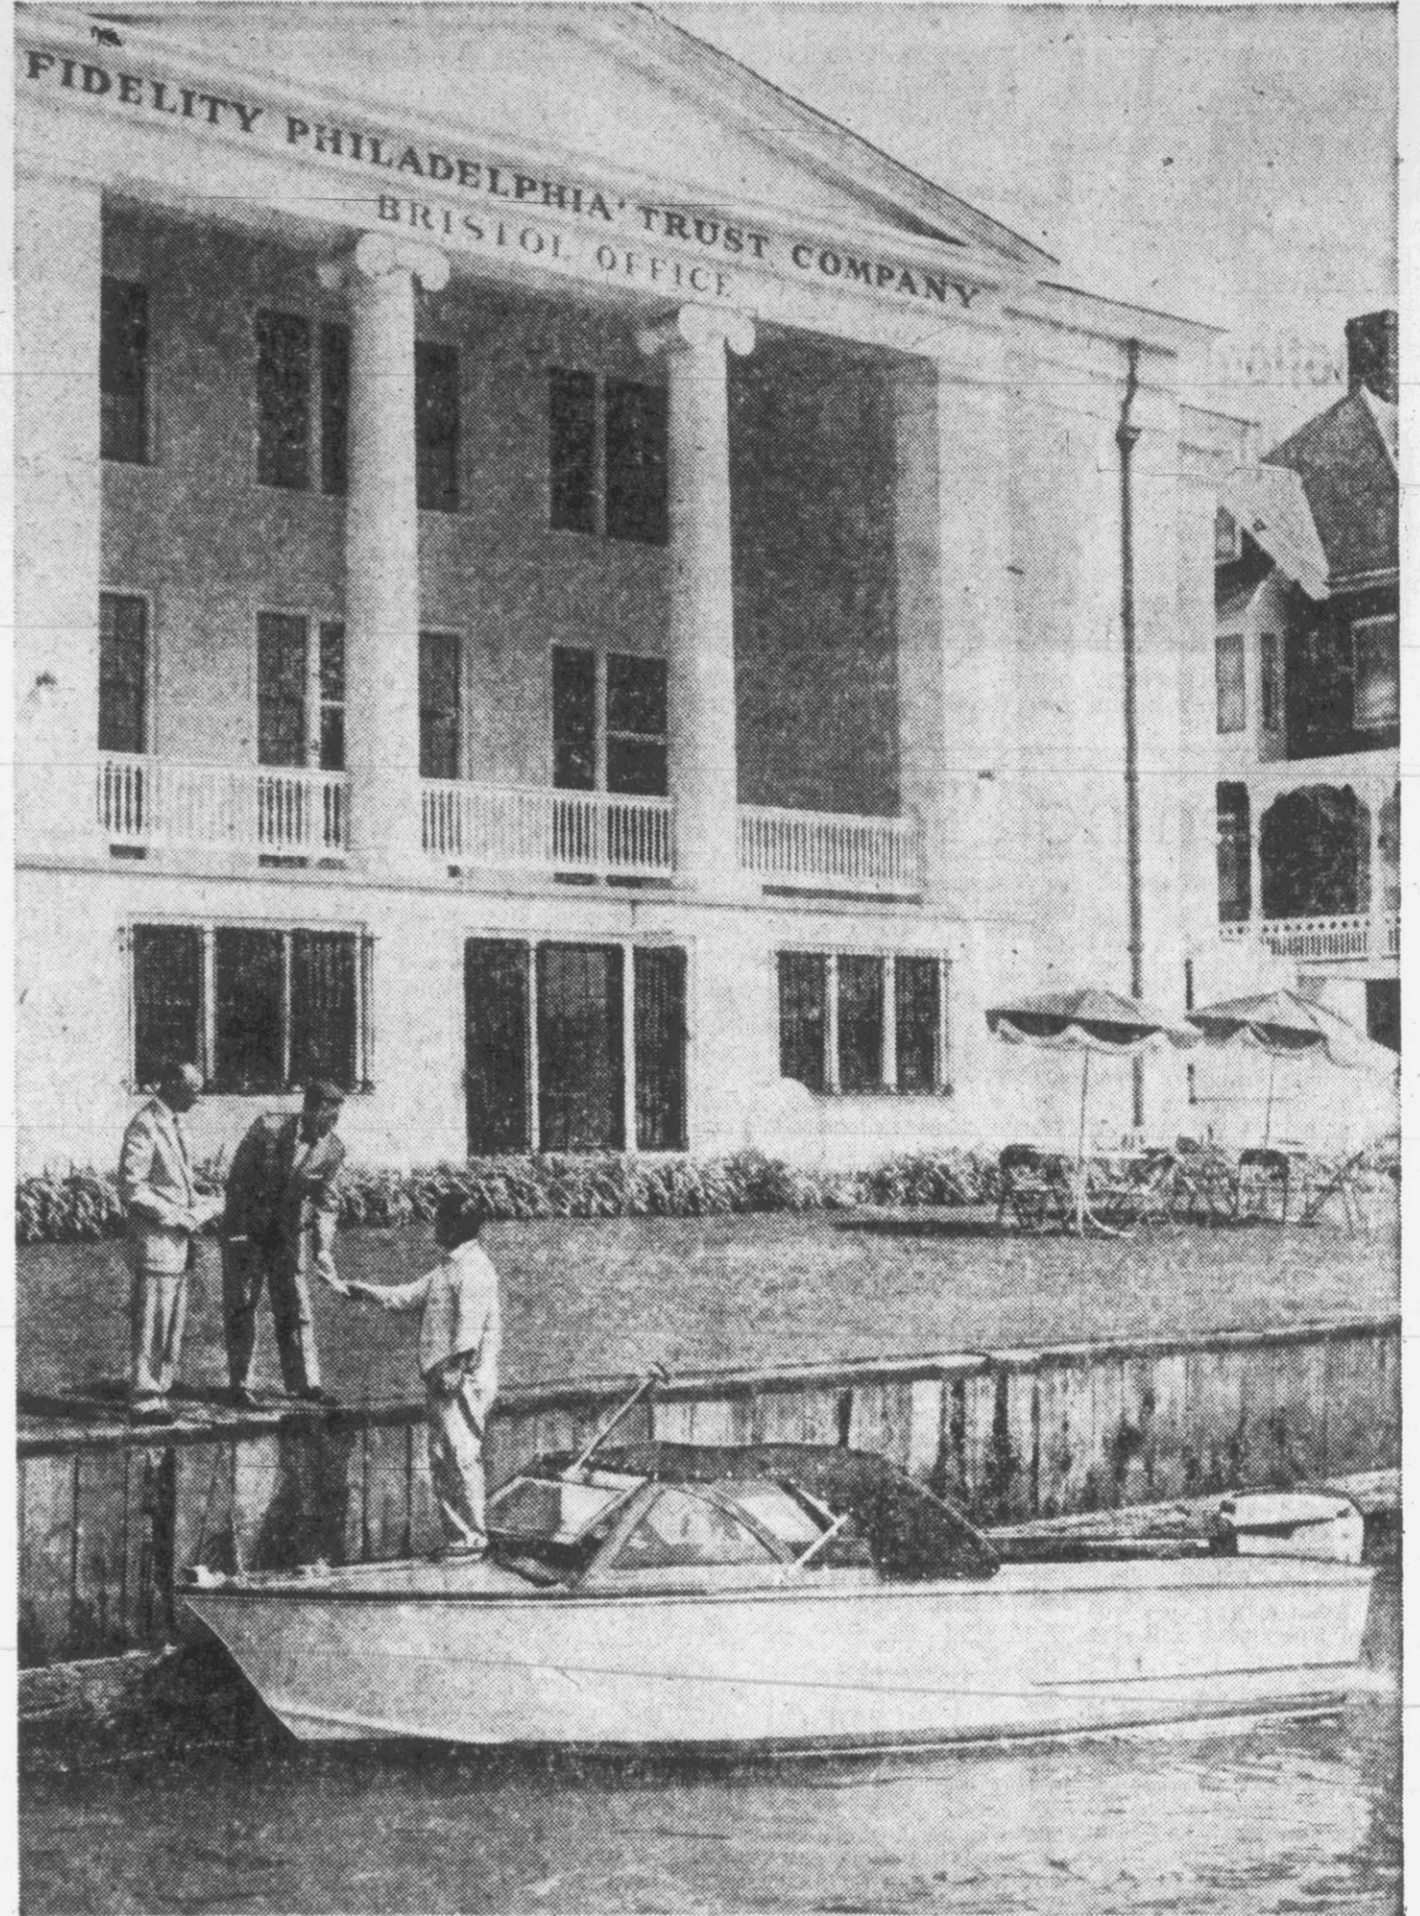

Remember when the local bank was a grim, forbidding structure with a classical facade, and—probably because of this cold exterior appearance—the banker himself a stolid unapproachable figure?

All this has changed. Today's banks are shiny attractive buildings with colorful decor, luminous ceilings, murals, verdant displays of greenery, and recorded music.

There has been a change in services too. The modern commercial bank is a veritable "supermarket of finance" that offers anywhere from 20 to 70 different services, ranging from the ordinary checking and saving accounts, loans, safe deposit boxes and estate planning to selling airline and theater tickets, and bulk storage of such valuables as silverware, paintings and antiques.

With everyone in a hurry these days, many banks are tailoring their services appropriately. There are drive-in windows for car owners and walk-up sidewalk windows for mothers with baby carriages. Some banks even provide "fly-in" and "yacht-in" facilities and a Connecticut bank makes it possible to "bank by video." There are banks too that have turned over their floorspace to dog shows, fashion shows, and motorboat shows.

Here are some of the "new faces" of banking.

Seafaring savers can make a deposit with ease at this river-front bank in Bristol, Pa.

TV auto teller allows remote control banking as demonstrated at this Bridgeport, Conn., bank. Customer, in car, can see, talk and do business with bank teller who may be at his counter two, three, or four blocks away.

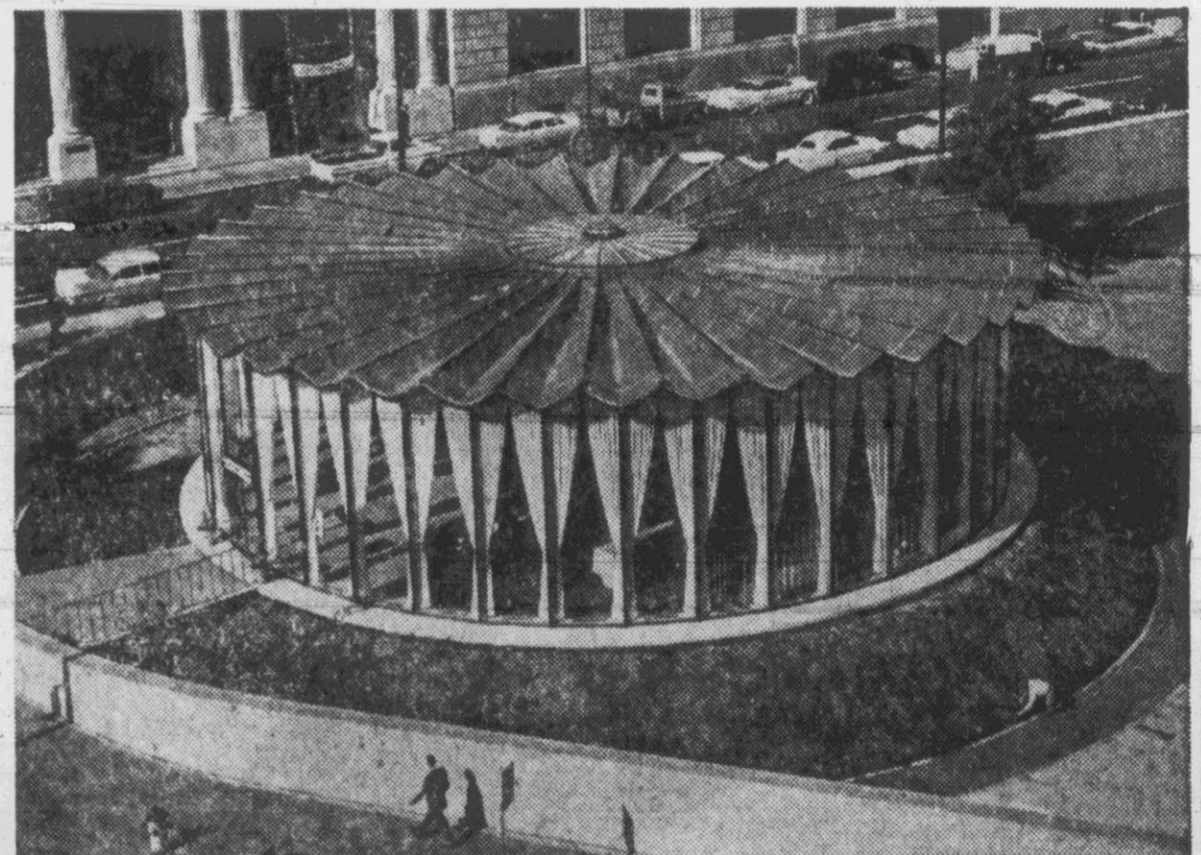

To accommodate sports car and small car drivers, this bank at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., built special elevated ramp at one of its drive-in windows.

First National Bank of Cedar Lake, Ind., boasts fly-in banking. City airport is nearby and planes can taxi right up to the bank.

Fashion shows help attract the ladies to banks. This one was staged in the Manhattan Savings Bank in New York.

New circular bank of American Trust Company in San Francisco is typical of trend away from traditional bank architecture. Its walls are of clear plate glass.

Promotion For Winterville Man

PHILADELPHIA — Dr. Robert Bruce Nye, a native of Winterville, N.C., has been promoted from assistant dean to associate dean of Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia.

Dr. Nye attended the University of North Carolina from 1921 to 1923 and attended the U.N.C. School of Medicine from 1923 to 1925. At that time, the university's school of medicine offered only a two year course in medicine. Dr. Nye completed his medical education at the Jefferson Medical College.

A cardiologist, or heart specialist, Dr. Nye has been connected with Jefferson since his graduation, except for the year of 1938, which was spent in graduate work in cardiology at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, and during World War II when he served in the Army Medical Corps.

He has been assistant visiting physician at the Jefferson Medical Center since 1940, assistant professor since 1947 and assistant dean since 1950. He is past president of the Jefferson Medical College Alumni Association and is a member of eight scientific societies.

Checking Up On Harvard Men

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—The federal government figures it will be worth $425,000 to find out how Harvard boys become men.

It's part of a study by the National Institute of Health on the psychological growth of normal young men. Other studies among youth not going to college, will add further information.

Dr. Stanley H. King, director of the study project at Harvard, explains there is a gap in records on the psychological development of young men from late adolescence to early adulthood.

A four-year study of 289 Harvard men will cover intellectual, social and emotional angles — anything from voting to dating habits. A quarter of the current freshman class, chosen at random, are already under study.

Varying tests and questionnaires will be given to selected student groups — ranging from paper and pencil answers to questions to the so-called Rorschach ink-blot psychological studies.

Imagination-testing will be applied to all 289 students.

The Big Get Bigger In U. S. Banking World

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The big keep getting bigger in the banking field. They have to grow as the economy grows and particularly as their biggest customers, the giant corporations, grow with increasing needs for funds.

But also banks in financial centers have had to grow to keep up with the Joneses in their own banking business. The postwar years have seen sharp changes in customer demands, in competition with other lending and saving institutions, in the size of loans, in trust activity.

Much of the banking growth has been through internal efforts but much of it in the last seven years has been due to a wave of mergers aimed at making large banks bigger and in spreading their activities into fields new to some of them.

The latest proposal is a merger of two big New York banks, the Manufacturers Trust and the Hanover Bank. If the plan goes through, the resulting giant would be the third largest in New York City and the fourth biggest in the nation.

California's Bank of America with $12 billion in resources is the nation's largest. In 1946 its assets were $5.4 billion.

Manufacturers Trust, now New York's fifth largest, has $4.4 billion, against $2.2 billion in 1946. The Hanover Bank, the city's eighth largest, has $2.1 billion, against $1.5 billion in 1946.

They report combined assets, if they merge, would be more than $6 billion.

Helping Hand Has Other Side

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A helping hand turned into the long arm of the law for one Toledo motorist.

Police Sgt. Robert Loutz saw the motorist pushing a stalled car to the curb and offered assistance. Then he noticed the license plate was that of a car stolen a few minutes earlier. The young man who had been pushing the vehicle was charged with auto theft.

Divided A Prison Recipe By 640

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — W. M. Woody, a guard at the state prison, commented on the fine taste of cookies made by penitentiary cooks. His wife asked for the recipe. He told her it was 600 pounds of flour, four cases of eggs, three cans of lard, 20 gallons of milk and so on. Later his wife surprised him by presenting him some of the cookies. She explained she figured out the recipe by dividing it by 640.

SHAREHOLDERS

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Robert O. Allen told officers he had an excuse for stealing a bottle of scotch from a Tucson drug store.

Allen, 54, was quoted as saying: "Things were put on earth to be divided, equally and I was just taking my share."

The song "Dixie" was composed by Dan Emmett in 1859 for a minstrel show.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

William Gunnarson, a young California lawyer, is relating the difficulties in which he entangled himself as the court-appointed defender of a youthful nurse, Ella Barker, who is in jail on a stolen property charge. She sold a dealer, Hector Broadman, a valuable ring, and he reported the transaction in accordance with police regulations. The ring was identified as a piece of loot in a series of burglaries on homes whose owners were at the hospital, either as patients or visitors. As a nurse aware of the respective families going and coming, Ella could have tipped off marauders, and police suspicions of her were strengthened by her refusal to explain how she got the ring and their subsequent discovery of a stolen watch in her home.

ring. Broadman was a friend of his, and I thought he'd probably tell him."
"How would Broadman know where you got the ring?"
"He knew that Larry gave you the ring?"
"After I told him, he must have."
We sat and looked at each other.
"You think Larry killed Broadman, don't you?" the girl said.
"Or had him killed."

I got in touch with Detective-Lieutenant Wills and a Deputy District Attorney named Joe Reach. We convened with Ella Barker in the interrogation room on the first floor of the courthouse. Ella went through her story again. It was recorded on steno type and wire.

There were some quite honest people who make poor witnesses because they can't tell the same story twice with any degree of conviction. Ella's story hadn't been too plausible in the first place.

The second time around, told in surges of hysterical assurance with stretches of dismal self-doubt in between, it sounded like something she was making up as she went along. Wills and Reach didn't believe her.

Wills kept bringing up the name of Gus Donato, trying to make her admit that she knew him. Reach didn't believe her.

Wills kept bringing up the name of Gus Donato, trying to make her admit that she knew him. Reach kept insisting that she had been fully aware of Gaines's activities, and probably accessory to them.

"What's this about a blonde woman?" Wills put in. "This one you said you saw at Gaines's place in the canyon."
"I saw her, all right," Ella said. "Can you describe her?"
She looked around the circle of male faces, half despairing.

"I said can you describe her?"
"Give her a chance to collect her thoughts, Lieutenant."

Wills turned on me. "You don't have to think to describe a subject, not if you're telling the truth."
"Why would I lie about her?" Ella said.

"Just in case she never existed, for instance. If she existed, describe her to us."
"I'm trying to. She was very good-looking. Not so fresh, if you know what I mean, and not a natural blonde. I don't think, but very good-looking. You ever go to the movies?"

"What's that got to do with it?"
"You ever see this new actress they have, name of Holly May. The woman looked like her."
Wills and Reach exchanged incredulous glances. Reach said: "What would a movie actress be doing with riffraff like him?"

"I didn't say it was her. I said it looked like her."
"You're certain she existed?"
I got angry at this point, told Ella to say no more, and left the room. Wills and Reach followed me into the anteroom.

"You're making a mistake Gunnarson," the Lieutenant said. "This is a murder case now. That little client of yours is dipping her toolies into very hot water."
"She's coming you," Reach said. "You just haven't got the humility to admit it."

I was blind mad by this time, loaded with hot and cold running adrenalin. I turned on my heel and walked out. Neither of them followed me this time.

The public telephone booth in the corridor stopped me like a sentry box. I stepped inside and phoned home.

"I knew it was you," Sally said, "as soon as I heard the phone ring. Now do you believe in ESP?"
"If you're so strong on extra-sensory perception, what am I calling about?"
"Don't tell me you're not coming home for dinner?"
I sidestepped that question. "You go to a lot of movies. Did you ever hear of an actress named Holly May?"
"Naturally I have. Everybody has."
"I haven't."
"That's because you're fixated on your work. If you took me to the movies more often, you'd know what's going on in the world. Not that she's in the movies any more. She decided to get out of the rat-race before it wrecked her emotional health. That's a direct quote. She told me herself."
"You know Holly May?"
"I met her."
"Why didn't you tell me?"
"I tried to last night but you weren't listening. I ran into her in the clinic Monday afternoon. She wanted to know what time it was, and I told her. Then I asked her if she wasn't Holly May. She admitted that she was, but she said she's trying to stay as incognito as possible."
"What's she doing in town?"
"I gather she's living quietly here with her husband. I only talked to her for a couple of minutes, and then Dr. Trench took me. Dr. Trench said I was in wonderful shape for a woman in her fifth month."
"Good. Did she mention her husband's name?"
"No, but I read it in the columns last summer when she got married. I think she married a Canadian oilman. Why?"
"Nothing special. Her name came up. I had no idea that she was living in town."
"A lot of people live here that you never hear about." Sally's voice changed gears, with a faint ominous clank. "There is, for instance, the unknown housewife whose specialty is leg of lamb. You will be home for dinner, won't you?"
"As soon as I can make it. Keep it warm."
"But you can't keep a leg of lamb warm. It dries out."
"I enjoy it that way. Like pemmican."
Sally hung up, and there I was again with the adrenalin singing in my veins. I decided to walk it off. Something that was not ESP pushed me down the long slope of Main Street to the lower town.

Science At Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Science this week looks at katydid with accents; sailing in space, and a mystery about forest and prairie fires:

Animal Talk
A new long-playing record for scientists has tuned in on katydids with Northern and Southern accents; toadfish growling when an intruder comes along; the grunt of a grouper fish, and the trill of a tree frog, plus many other attractions.

The record and a book, "Animal Sounds and Communications," issued by the American Institute of Biological Sciences, are the latest aid in research to understand how animals and insects really communicate. Their talk concerns mating, availability of food, danger warnings, and other signals.

Sailing in Space

The pressure of sunlight affects the orbit of Echo I, the big balloon satellite launched to explore future means of communications. This fact confirms the feasibility of another idea; that a satellite could be equipped with a huge sail, made of similar aluminized fabric, so it could be maneuvered by sunlight pressure much like an ordinary sailboat responds to wind pressure, report scientists of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory.
Earlier, they had worked out means of keeping a sail open and maneuvering it in relation to the sun and gravitation forces, acting on an idea advanced by Dr. Richard L. Garwin of Columbia University.

Housewifely Tip
Scientists were looking for some method of storing uranium in small, water-tight containers with lock-on lids.
The containers had to be small and water-tight. Too much uranium in one pot could create dangers and they should not ever spill.
A housewife-employee solved their problem, suggesting they use a type of pressure cooker, says a release from the Aerojet-General Corp.'s nucleonics plant, Azusa, Calif.
Fire Effects
Forest and prairie fires cause intense-heat, as everyone knows.

But the temperature an inch or so below the surface of the ground can be changed very little, or not at all, University of Wisconsin botanists report from studies using special thermometers.
This explains why seeds existing just below the surface can be little affected, and then take over in the re-growth after a fire. The knowledge can be helpful in intentional burning and control of various areas to promote game preserves for forms of wildlife, by encouraging the kind of plants and cover they prefer, say Richard Vogl and Prof. John T. Curtis.

3,610,007 Now In U.S. Colleges

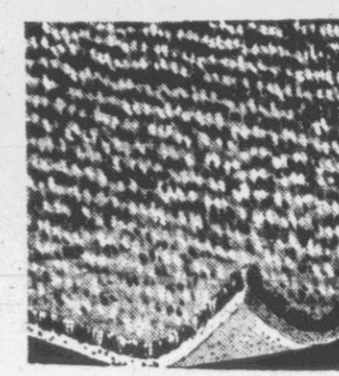

MAXTON, N.C. — Presbyterian Junior College has from the Office of Education, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, a completed report on fall enrollment of full and part-time students reported by the Nation's colleges and universities. At the beginning of the 1960-61 scholastic year enrollment reached the all-time high of 3,610,007. The 1960 fall enrollment exceeds the 3,402,297 enrollment of 1959 by 8.1 per cent. This was the ninth consecutive year that a rise was reported in fall enrollments.

The number of students enrolled in college for the first time rose to 929,823, a jump of 12.4 percent over the fall of 1959.
The 1960 fall enrollees included 2,270,640 men and 1,339,367 women compared with 2,173,797 men and 1,228,500 women in the fall of 1959. The percentage increase for men was 4.5; for women it was 9.0.
Of the first time enrollees this fall 542,774 were men and 387,049, or 41.6 percent, were women. In the fall of 1959, 490,822 of the new enrollees were men and 338,347, or 40.7 percent, were women.

The survey includes only degree-credit students—those whose current program consists principally or wholly of work leading toward a bachelor's degree or higher. Reported enrollments include both resident and extension degree-credit students, full and part-time, studying either in the day or in the evening.

Sophomores Make Top Grade In SC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A lot of Southern Conference basketball coaches may be disappointed at the way things have gone so far this season, but most of them would be a lot worse off if it weren't for a host of talented sophomores.
Of the nine teams in the circuit, only The Citadel and Virginia Military Institute have no sophomores in their starting lineup and only VMI doesn't depend to any extent on sophomore bench strength.

Davidson Plays Eight Grid Tilts

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP) — Athletic Director Tom Scott has announced an eight-game football schedule for Davidson College next fall.
He said Wednesday the Wildcats would play five games with Southern Conference teams.
The 1961 schedule:
Sept. 16—Catawba at Charlotte (N); 23—at Furman; 30—at The Citadel.
Oct. 7—Open; 14—Presbyterian; 21—Virginia Military; 28—at Richmond.
Nov. 4—at William and Mary; 11—Wofford.

Palmer Shoots 72 In Crosby Event

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Bing Crosby's $50,000 golf extravaganza opened today over three courses by this seaside Monterey Peninsula with the forecast calling for fair weather.
That promised low scores expected to beat Billy Casper's 277 of 1958, the record for a 72-hole Crosby event.
Veteran Jimmy Demaret showed Crosby how the game should be played Wednesday at Cypress Point. He toured the par 72 layout in 66 strokes including a hole-in-one on the 255-yard 7th.
Just like in the movies, Jackie Burke and Jug McSpaden were passing by and the former asked, "How are you hitting them, old man?"
Demaret replied, "Pretty good, watch this one," and hit his tee shot with a No. 5 iron into the hole.
Byron Nelson and Burke each carded four-under-par 68 at Cypress while Jim Ferree matched Demaret's 66. Bob Goalby, winner of the Los Angeles Open, wound up with a two-under-par 70 at Pebble Beach.
Crosby's format combines two tournaments in one, pro-amateur and individual pro competition. The pros are paired with amateur golfers from the fields of entertainment, sports, business and the professions.
Pros shoot for a top prize of $5,300 plus what they win in the pro-amateur competition where the pro on the winning team collects $3,000.
Each team will play each of the three courses — Cypress Point, Monterey Peninsula and Pebble Beach—the first three days. The leaders, 60 professionals and 40 pro-amateur teams, play their final 18 holes Sunday at Pebble Beach in the nationally televised windup.
Arnold Palmer, golfer of the year for 1960, shot par 72 over Pebble Beach Wednesday while Frank Stranahan carded a 68 in the same foursome.
Defending champion Ken Venturi has been on hand all week shooting practice rounds. Venturi won last year's event with a 286, shooting the final round in a gale.

Brocklin Embarks On Grid Coaching Career

By JIM KLOBUCHAR
MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — The restless Dutchman embarked today on a new career as head coach of the Minnesota Vikings, bringing with him the prestige of a great quarterback and the prospect of fireworks.
Norm Van Brocklin, named to direct the fledgling National Football League club Wednesday under a three-year contract, made no pledges of radical offenses or forecasts of quick success.
But he made this point: "We'll use the orthodox T formation with most of the variations. You can bet, too, that we'll throw that football plenty if we have to."
None of that throwing will be by Van Brocklin, for 12 years one of the premier marksmen in the NFL and the guiding hand last season behind the Philadelphia Eagles' ascent to the league championship.
Van Brocklin, 34, is through as an active player, "with no regrets," he said. He starred for nine years with the Rams, quit, abandoned retirement plans to join Philadelphia and quit again rather than be a playing assistant coach.
Vikings' owners were aglow over the acquisition of Van Brocklin. They needed a man of national stature to lend his reputation to their inaugural year in the competitive jungle of the NFL. They also needed the savvy of a NFL vet to help them pick the

Tar Heels Clench State To Stretch Win Streak To 10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The red-hot North Carolina basketball team takes a 13-day semester holiday from the courts, and Coach Frank McGuire hopes the Tar Heels come back as strong as they finished.
The sixth-ranked Tar Heels won their 10th straight game Wednesday night, rolling over North Carolina State in impressive fashion, 97-86. The victory gave North Carolina a 5-0 Atlantic Coast Conference record, the same as idle Duke.
In the only other action, Maryland edged Navy 63-62 in a non-conference contest. No other games are scheduled this week until Saturday, when N.C. State plays at Maryland and George Washington is at Virginia.
North Carolina, which led N.C. State by as much as 36 points, rolled up its biggest victory margin over the archrivals since McGuire took over as coach.
Once again it was York Larese and Doug Moe who sparked the Tar Heels. The fancy-dan pair scored 27 points apiece in leading North Carolina to its 12th win in 14 games.
North Carolina hit 53.5 per cent of its shots, a blistering 66.7 per cent in the last half. The Tar Heels are now idle for semester exams until Jan. 31 when they play Clemson.
N.C. State, playing before 12,000 fans on its home court at Raleigh, lost its fifth game against nine wins. In the ACC, Coach Everett Case's club is 2-4.
Stan Niewierowski's 14 points led N.C. State. The Wolfpack played without sophomore starter John Pungier, who suffered an eye injury in last Saturday's game at Wake Forest.
A 6-foot-6 sophomore, Jerry Greenspan, scored seven of Maryland's last nine points — including what proved to be the winning foul shot. Navy had led the Terps most of the game until Maryland began to move with about nine minutes left.
Bruce Kelleher led Maryland's scoring with 17 points and Bob MacDonald added 14. The win gave Maryland a 9-5 record.
College Scoring Title Is Close
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Only four-tenths of a point separate Frank Burgess of Gonzaga, Tom Stith of St. Bonaventure and Tom Chilton of East Tennessee State in the battle for the national scoring title among major college basketball players.
Statistics from the National Collegiate Service Bureau today show Burgess the half-season leader with a 30.67 average, Stith second with 30.64 and Chilton on their heels with 30.3.
Burgess, in 15 games through Jan. 17, scored 460 points. Stith, runnerup last year to scoring champ Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati, has hit for 429 in 14 starts. Chilton has accumulated 363 in 12 games.
Jerry Lucas of Ohio State remains the field goal percentage leader with 639 per cent to 638 for Seton Hall's Hank Gunter. Chilton moved past the Ohio State All-American and took the rebound lead with a 202 recovery percentage to 200 for Lucas. Al Butler of Niagara leads the free throw shooters with 919 percentage on 34 out of 37 attempts.
Hoyt Brawner is in his 13th season as the University of Denver basketball coach.

North Carolina can boast of some mighty good bird dogs. Their fame has spread far and wide and if there is a Hall of Fame for canines a certain one by the name of Ram should get a prominent niche.

Seems that Ram and boss were bird hunting along a railroad track when Ram came to a classic point like he would on a covey of twenty birds. Later it was found that Ram was pointing at a piece of soiled paper which turned out to be a menu from a dining car. Top item on the menu in big letters was the dinner special: QUAIL ON TOAST.

Wildlife Week Set For March

The national wildlife federation has begun distributing to state and local chairmen in all states kits for the 1961 observance of National Wildlife Week, scheduled for the period March 19-25.

The program, directed by Russell J. Neugebauer, was first proclaimed in 1938 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and always coincides with the first day of spring.

Themes for National Wildlife week this year is: "Multiple Use—Balanced Conservation Planning for the Future."

Again serving as national honorary chairman of the observance is Walt Disney, widely-known producer of "True Life Adventure" nature films and other movies.

Wildlife Stamps In Mail

Sheets of 1961 Wildlife Conservation Stamps recently went into the mails for distribution all over the continent to persons interested in nature.

The 1961 stamps, lithographed in six colors, depict 36 species of birds, mammals, fish, reptiles, and plants. They feature scenes with real-life settings and are suitable for use on correspondence, mounted decorations and in album collections.

No Toll Charge For Bear

Toll collectors on the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge, between Pennsylvania and New Jersey, had a treat about 6 a. m. one day recently when a large black bear crossed the bridge. At the time there was no traffic on the bridge. But they didn't collect any toll.

A Michigan youth recently found a wood duck frozen in a small pond near his home. Chopping the bird loose, the boy took "Woody" home and nursed him back to health. But it was too late for the duck to fly south on his own. Arrangements were made for "Woody" to get a 600-mile-an-hour hitch hike ride south by jet. Return reservations were not involved. This is a story with a point: A conservation officer approached a man who was illegally hunting too near a farm house. On investigation, he learned the man was a non-resident without hunting license. The gunner claimed he was shooting rabbits, then a meadowlark. Finally, the hunter's dog came and held a perfect point as the officer located eight quail hidden under the spare tire of his truck. His fine was $25 and loss of the illegal game.

Louisville Handed Second Loss, 84-77

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer
North Carolina's Tar Heels, once a good basketball team going somewhere, suddenly have become a great one going nowhere since the NCAA lowered its probationary boom nine days ago.

In four games since the penalty for recruiting violations was imposed in Pittsburgh, Jan. 10, the Tar Heels have whipped four straight Atlantic Coast Conference foes, boosted their winning streak to ten, their national ranking to sixth, and their season record to a tidy 12-2.

Wednesday night's game was the most impressive of all—a 97-66 route of arch-rival N.C. State at Raleigh. With All-America candidates York Larese and Doug Moe each scoring 27 points, the Tar Heels hit 66.7 per cent from the field in the second half, 53.5 for the game, and rolled to a 38 point lead at one stage.

Burgin Xavier of Ohio (10-3) handed Louisville its second straight loss after 13 season-opening victories, 84-77; West Virginia (11-3) beat Pitt for the 12th time in their last 13 meetings, 73-68; and one and two point decisions were plentiful in other games on the Wednesday night program. Pitt (6-7) held West Virginia sophomore Rod Thorn to eight points but veteran Lee Patton took charge for the Mountaineers, controlling the play and scoring 19.

Maryland took a 63-62 thriller from Navy; Army edged Williams 60-58; Hank Whitney's two free throws and another by John Placek gave Iowa State a 71-70 decision over Drake; Penn scored a 63-62 upset triumph over Villanova; and Wyoming, winning its fourth straight after a woeful start, nipped Air Force 61-60 in overtime.

Niagara (7-2) handed Syracuse (1-9) its eighth straight defeat 97-77, and Colgate broke a 7-game losing streak, 67-57 over Columbia.

New Cruiser For '61 Status Seeker

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—If you have $66,000 left over after the Christmas bills are paid, the National Boat Show has just the item for you—a super duper 47-foot cruiser that sleeps six. You want status? Seek no more.

If you can manage $295, you might be interested in a 5-foot ice boat that skims along at 45 miles an hour, unless you head too far south or come upon a covey of skaters.

If you are in luck until spring, come along to the Coliseum anyhow. The pamphlets are keen, and you meet the nicest people.

There is this man in a dark suit who stands inside a booth and invites people to get into his boat. "Get in. Try it yourself. It can't sink."

The boat is firmly anchored on the ground, but the would-be sailors get a kick out of a simulated boat ride with the help of a movie screen.

"That gadget on the right regulates the speed," the man said. "The wheel works like an automobile wheel. Look straight ahead and pay attention to what you hear."

There is a whirring noise, like a motor starting, and the film comes alive. You can just see the front of the boat on the screen, ducking from left to right as the wheel is manipulated.

"Open her up," comes out of a speaker hooked to the sound track. "Watch out. Take it easy." There is another boat coming right at you on the screen. It looks like a head-on collision. A the last moment, a flip of the wheel saves the day.

Down the homestretch with only one old row boat in the way. The fishermen are waving you away but the wheel doesn't work and you swerve close to them before you manage to slip past.

Finally, after a bouncing sally through the open bay, the boat slips into its dock and the lights flash off.

When you get your ground legs back again, you might want to stop by another of the 445 exhibits of boats, motors and marine accessories for one of the fastest growing sports. Joe Choate, manager of the show and secretary of the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, will quote you figures to show 8,025,000 boats were used by 40,125,000 people in 1960.

Bruins Back In Action Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Lenoir Rhyne puts its 13-2 basketball record on the line tonight, playing Belmont Abbey at Hickory.

The game will pit the North State Conference's No. 2 ranked team, Lenoir Rhyne, against the non conference Crusaders. Belmont Abbey is ranked 7th among the nation's small colleges basketball teams this week by the Associated Press and Lenoir Rhyne is three notches below at 20th. The battle is the only game involving a North State Conference team.

Catawba withstood a Western Carolina rally Wednesday night to down the Catamounts 65-69 in a conference game. Catawba, which evened its North State record at 4-4 led by 18 points at the half. Western Carolina is now 3-6 in conference play.

Hal Johnson, Catawba freshman scored 18 points to lead the Indians. High for WCC was Mel Gibson with 18.

Smith Sixth In League Scoring

GREENSBORO (AP) — Jack Boyd, an Atlantic Christian College senior who transferred from Duke University, is the North State Conference's No. 1 scorer in the season's first compilation of individual statistics.

Boyd, a forward for Coach Jack McComas, is rolling along at a 20.9 average for the 10 games played by his team.

S. J. (Jug) Irvin, another transfer cager, is second to Boyd with a 20.8 average for Elon's Christians.

Rick Howe of Appalachian is No. 3 on a 16.9 average. Ken Smith of Elon is fourth at 16.5. Don Lineberry of Guilford fifth at 16.2 and Don Smith of East Carolina sixth at 16.1.

Irvin tops the conference in total points with 317 for 16 games. Jerry Fritz, another Atlantic Christian player, is the most accurate shooter from the floor. He has hit 69 of 116 shots for a 59.4 per cent mark. Howe is the No. 1 man at the free throw line, having hit 49 of 52 attempts for 94.2 per cent. Howe also is the rebound leader, averaging 13.8 per game with a total of 165 for the season.

St. Louis Stuns Celtics Again

BOSTON (AP) — While the coaches wrestled over a microphone, brash rookie Len Wilkens helped the feared St. Louis forecourt stun Boston's champions for the third straight time.

Egg throwing preceded a plea by Celtics Coach Red Auerbach over the public address microphone just before the half Wednesday night. Rival pilot Paul Seymour literally pulled the plug on Red.

Afterward both were sorry a few fans had spoiled the game with an occasional egg.

Auerbach was the more sorry. His NBA champs lost 125-114.

The only cheering thought Auerbach had was that Philadelphia dropped the doubleheader opener 129-118 to Syracuse even though Wilt Chamberlain tossed in 48 points. Thus the Celts maintained a three game Eastern Division lead.

Detroit whipped Cincinnati, minus Oscar Robertson, for the eighth time 144-128 in other league action.

Senior Golfers Reach Quarters

BELLEAIR, Fla. (AP)—A left-hander from Detroit and a former champion from Tampa went up against big odds today in quarterfinal matches of the American Seniors Golf Tournament.

George Hagarty squeaked into the round of eight with a 1-up victory over George Hardy of Evansville, Ill., Wednesday to keep alive his hopes of becoming the first left-handed champion of the annual event.

George Edmondson, 1949 winner, also got into the quarterfinals with a 1-up decision over Malcolm Thorp of Orlando, Fla.

Others still in the running for top honors in the 27th annual event include M. S. Lindgrove, Morristown, N. J.; Bruce A. Coffin, Marblehead Neck, Mass.; Jack Russell, Clearwater; Richard W. Guelich Jr., Kenmore N. Y.; Dick Owen, Dunedin; and W. E. Norvell, Signal Mountain, Tenn.

For Thrills And Chills Try Riding 'Jeepney' In Manila

JEEPNEYS: Old U.S. Armed Forces jeeps, converted into small buses, swarm over a Manila street. Called "jeepneys," they are a chief form of commuter transport in the Philippines capital.

By M.P. SARMIENTO
MANILA (AP)—There's no such thing in Manila as a 7:15 bus to catch on the way to the office. Nor is there a 5:15 for the home-ward trip.

Just go to the nearest street corner. There's always a ride to be had there—provided you're not the complaining type.

Frequently, it's get aboard and hang on. There's no telling when you'll get to where you're going or whether you'll get there at all. And, worse still, there's no guarantee you'll be in one piece when you do arrive.

Surprising thing about it all, though, is that after riding in such hectic pace and fashion all these years you've not a scratch or a bone broken.

Which points up Manila's public transportation system as probably being one of the most reckless, undisciplined and irresponsible in the world.

Buses and "Jeepneys" make up the system. The latter are U. S. Armed Forces World War II jeeps converted to hold eight passengers behind the driver and two more alongside him.

Jeepneys far outnumber buses in Manila. Figures compiled by the Manila Traffic Bureau for the first six months of 1960 show they total 13,330.

Both bus and jeepney are assigned specific routes in the city by the Public Service Commission under what are called "certificates of public convenience."

Among other things, operators are authorized by these certificates to charge a minimum fare of ten centavos (five cents) and provide such improvements on their vehicles as would enhance the convenience and comfort of riding.

Mere words. To Jeepney operators especially, profit comes first. Improvements second and public convenience last, as a general rule.

Woefully undermanned, PSC enforcement of the terms of the certificates is indifferent. Operators couldn't care less and are willing to discourage such enforcement.

Improvements cost money, and after all, the contraption is still in good running condition.

Take the bus stops erected by the city's civic organizations at street corners designated by the Police Department. To Jeepney, and occasionally bus, drivers they are mere structures along the route they ply, ignored and even resented.

They are made use of only when a traffic policeman is around. Most of the time, passengers are picked up or let off right in the middle of the road.

If life in the city is hectic, it's probably made doubly so with every ride in one of Manila's speeding buses or Jeepneys. An American old-timer and ex-cop-poke from Manila once said he was glad he was always up to date in his insurance payments or he wouldn't have had the courage to ride on Manila's Jeepneys.

"It was always 'Hi-yo, jeepney, away' with me everytime I went to work in the morning," he complained.

The poor riding public has no other choice but to take a taxi or walk. Manila has neither street-cars nor a subway system.

Swedish Actress Says Sex For Export Only

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ingrid Thulin, first of the Ingmar Bergman troupe to be imported by Hollywood, is a golden-haired beauty with some startling views on sex and Sweden, violence and Hollywood.

"This is all to the good. She speaks her mind. She is gorgeous. She can act up a storm. Hollywood needs her. But does she need Hollywood?"

"I don't know if I like it here," she said. "I go to work in the dark. I come home in the dark. In Sweden I work at the studio from 9 to 5. That is more sensible."

"I don't know if I like California because I haven't seen much of it."

Miss Thulin was Bergman's leading lady in "Wild Strawberries," "The Magician" and "Brink of Life." MGM brought her here to star in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." Like it or no, she may be seeing much of California in the future. She has more films to do for MGM and is signed for five with the Mirisch Co.

She is living at the Bel-Air Hotel with husband Harry Schein, a young businessman who remarked that "in Sweden Ingrid is paid less as an actress than my secretary."

On a rare day off from shooting, Miss Thulin talked on such matters as:

Americans—"I have never met such friendly, cheerful people. Here, courtesy is a way of life."

Swedish vs. American films — "You have violence, we have sex. I think I like the sex in films better."

"The sex is put in strictly for the export trade. It isn't for the Swedes; they are bored with sex."

"There is a lot of nude bathing in Swedish films for the South American market and other places that like to see it. No, I have never done it; they know I won't."

Sanctuary Isn't Open To Graham

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham has been denied the use of Bok Singing Tower for sunrise services Easter morning because of "the hubbub and confusion" likely to occur.

"The whole spirit of the sanctuary would change if we had to face the paraphernalia of performance," the son of the builder of the tower said. "It was established as a haven for those seeking solitude."

Graham, conducting a three-month crusade in Florida, said at Miami he was amazed at the action.

"Very few places have been denied us," the evangelist said. "We have conducted services in some of the world's most famous and sacred grounds."

Justice C. Bok of Philadelphia, secretary-treasurer of the American Foundation which operates the sanctuary, said, "We doubt that this sort of thing brings God any closer."

It was a reference to "the flashlight bulbs and those who use them, the apparatus of television, the police escorts to open lanes for the speaker to come and go, necessary hubbub and confusion."

Graham accepted an invitation from the Polk County Centennial Association to deliver an Easter sermon at the sanctuary, located in the heart of Florida's citrus belt and visited by thousands each year.

Bok wrote the association saying the services would have to be held elsewhere.

The late Edward Bok, a Philadelphia publisher, built the 240-foot tower which houses carillon bells on an 80-acre tract atop a hill near Lake Wales. It is said to be Florida's highest point in elevation. He deeded and dedicated the holdings to "the American people" in 1929.

Graham said other arrangements would be made for the Easter services. Centennial officials indicated Peace River Park at Bartow would be the site.

Three Paintings Are Given Art Center By N. Y. Patron

STILL LIFE—DRIFTWOOD AND CANDLE . . . a painting of oil on masonite is one of three paintings given to the Greenville Art Center by Mrs. April Ruth Akston of New York. The artist is Claude Lepape, a French contemporary painter. Value of the three works of art is nearly $1,500. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Three paintings by contemporary European artists have been presented to the Greenville Art Center by a New York art patron. It was announced this week by Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, director of the center.

The paintings include an oil on cardboard entitled "Fantasy" by Remy Lochner, an Austrian painter, an oil on masonite entitled "Still Life—Driftwood and Candle Snuffer" by Claude Lepape, a French painter; and a water color by Fabrizio Clerici, Italian, entitled "Clowns at Rest."

Value of the paintings, according to a certificated evaluation received with the three paintings, is nearly $1,500. Mrs. Moore said. The benefactor is Mrs. April Akston of Park Avenue, New York City, who gave the paintings through the Hammer Galleries of New York City. The paintings were sent to the Greenville Art Center upon the suggestion of Robert Lee Humber of Greenville.

Mrs. Akston's only requirement of the local art center is that it show the three paintings for a period of three years, at the expiration of which time they can be sold if desired. It should be noted that the Hammer Galleries are one of the most respected art firms of New York City not only selling paintings, but owning a collection of Old Masters which has been shown in the N. C. Museum of Art in Raleigh.

Part Of Embezzled Sums Invested In Chemical Firm

SHELDON, Iowa (AP)—Part of the assets held by Burnice Iverson Geiger, 58, who had admitted a $2-million bank embezzlement here, went into the purchase of 130,000 shares of Northern Biochemical Corp. of Sheldon, officials of that company said today.

This fledgling industry, organized about a year ago to deal in the manufacture and sale of special animal feeds, started with $8,000 but is now capitalized at $500,000. Mrs. Geiger, assistant cashier of the Sheldon National Bank until it collapsed Tuesday, had held a controlling interest in the chemical firm.

Records indicate that in the early months of the corporation outstanding shares totaled only about 200,000 and . . . Geiger held 65 per cent. The firm also has two subsidiaries.

Six From Pitt Will Be Marching Tomorrow

Complaints

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviets claimed today that American warships or planes harassed four more of their merchant vessels in the Atlantic Ocean and the Red China seas in the past four days.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, listed these incidents: Jan. 16—Two amphibians "piratically buzzed" the Dubossary in the Atlantic; Jan. 17—The Destroyer 897 (Allen M. Summer) came close to the Fryazine in the Red Sea and asked the ship's name; Jan. 18—The same destroyer, with its guns trained, maneuvered for 15 minutes near the tanker Iryaslav in the Red Sea.

The Soviets have made such charges repeatedly. The Americans say their ships and aircraft are only making the identification customary for ships and planes at sea.

Big Salute Given Lyndon Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson had the biggest reception of his political career Wednesday night—and he shook hands in double-time to keep up with it.

Thousands jammed the street outside and the corridors of the Statler-Hilton Hotel in a teeming crush to get to a big Texas wingding—the biggest thing so far in preinaugural partying.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn and the Texas State Society of Washington invited 6,000 guests at $5 apiece to the affair.

President-elect John F. Kennedy got the party off to a good start with a 2-minute stunt in the receiving line.

In the lineup were incoming Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, ex-President Harry Truman, his wife, Bees, and daughter, Margaret Truman Daniel.

Rusk was summarily ordered to move along by a policeman on receiving line duty who didn't recognize him. He got a shove as well, but took it all with a quiet smile.

Johnson shook hands for almost 2 1/2 hours, perspiring but game and smiling to the end.

The party spread over the first floor and featured 16 bars and 9 buffet tables serving Texas roast beef sandwiches.

"It's a crime," one woman said as she watched Johnson using a hand-over-hand technique to speed up the line of hand-shakers.

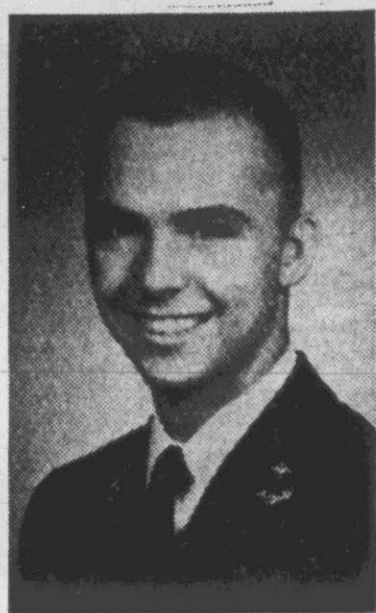

Toward the end Johnson propelled the line forward in double time, using both hands and virtually pulling people past him. No one seemed to mind in the friendly atmosphere.

Quite A Contrast In Two New England Inaugurations

CALVIN COOLIDGE
Cost: A Nickel

By JOE FOUNTAIN
(Written for The Associated Press)

The Process of installing John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts in the White House will contrast strongly with ceremonies that went with the first inauguration of another New Englander, Calvin Coolidge.

Inauguration day for Kennedy is expected to cost several million dollars, with the federal government, Democratic committees, Washington businessmen and Kennedy himself picking up the tab.

The Coolidge inauguration in 1923 cost government and party precisely nothing and the only merchant in Plymouth, Vt., where Coolidge took the oath as president, wasn't even asked to contribute.

In fact, Coolidge, a thrifty New Englander, made the only expenditure — a nickel.

He spent that to buy a soft drink while awaiting completion of a long distance phone call from the Plymouth village store, the only telephone in the town.

At least seven mammoth events already are arranged for the Kennedy inauguration — among them receptions, the inaugural ball and, of course, a parade.

Nothing about the Senator's inauguration will be free except the actual swearing-in. They're even selling choice seats along the parade route from $3.00 to $10.00.

On the other hand, "Silent Cal" didn't have a parade when he was sworn into office as the 30th president by his father, Col. John Coolidge, in tiny Plymouth on Aug. 3, 1923, a few hours after Warren G. Harding died in California.

For one thing it was too early in the day — 2:47 a.m. — to be exact — and for another thing there weren't enough people around to line the two unpaved streets in Plymouth village.

There wasn't even a camera man around to record the event and only one newspaper reporter was on hand.

I know because I was the only newspaperman in the room when Coolidge swore to "protect and defend the Constitution of the United States . . ." I covered the story for The Associated Press.

None of the current niceties and frills accompanied the inauguration of Vermont-born Calvin Coolidge. They weren't required. The ceremony took less than 10 minutes.

Crowds were conspicuous by their absence but in the nearly four decades that have intervened since August 3, 1923, scores of persons have thought they witnessed the event.

In fact, these folks are becoming so numerous that the Coolidge porch — and the street in front of his father's home, would have had to been as large as the White House egg-rolling green to accommodate them all.

Actually only six persons, including Coolidge, were in the room when the oath was administered by his father, who, as a notary public, was "filling in" for the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

Four more persons saw the event from the porch through the screen door.

Coolidge's inauguration, unique in American history, was a pretty simple affair but most impressive for those of us grouped around the single lamp-lighted "sitting room" of the plain farmhouse.

Of the six persons in the room that hot, sultry August morning, I am the only survivor, although two of the four who watched from the porch also still are living.

Besides Coolidge, his father and myself the others were his wife, Mrs. Grace Coolidge; his secretary, Erwin C. Geiser; and U.S. Sen. Porter H. Dale.

Those who saw the ceremony from the porch were Herbert P. Thompson of Pittsfield, Mass., and Coolidge's chauffeur, Joseph McInerney of Washington, both still living; and L. L. Lane of Chester, Vt., and Dan Barney of Springfield, Vt., both now deceased.

No doubt Kennedy's inauguration and the fringe events connected with it will be gala and impressive.

But I question whether it will provide the stark drama of the event in tiny Plymouth nearly two score years ago, when another son of Massachusetts assumed the presidential mantle.

Maybe They Will Abandon Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Maybe June Allyson, 37, and Dick Powell, 56, will live happily ever, after all.

Maybe, said Powell, "if people will only leave us alone." "That's absolutely right," said June.

The movie couple talked to newsmen Wednesday outside their Beverly Hills home — a day after June filed suit for divorce and Powell flew home from Europe. They didn't say the divorce was off but Powell said: "I still love her, and I'm sure she still loves me."

The actor said, however, that he is moving to the couple's Newport

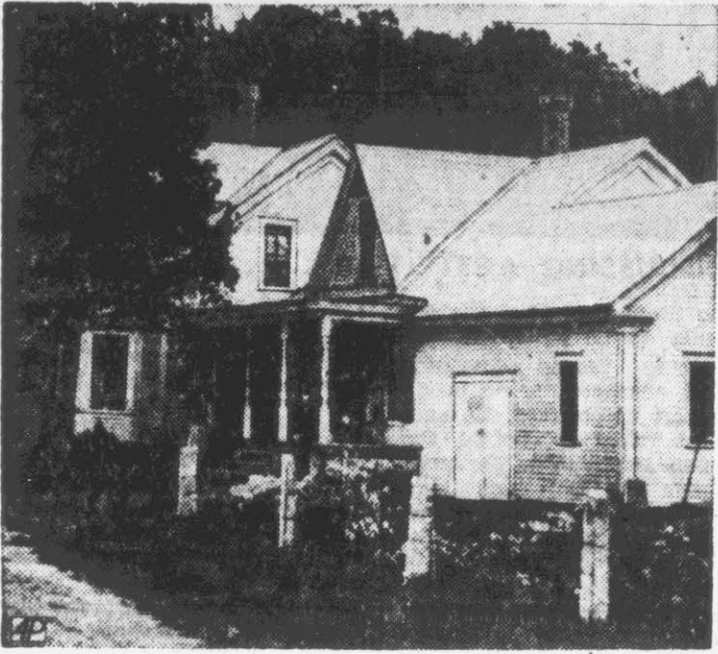

Beach home for a rest.

Miss Allyson would get $2.5 million under a property settlement submitted with divorce papers. They have been married 15 years.

PENDELTON, Ore. (AP) — Councilman Jack Stangier told the City Council he had heard reports he lived outside the city limits and thus was not eligible to be a member of the council.

The council ordered a survey, found the city limits ran through his living room and said that Stangier, indeed, was not eligible to be a member.

To Eisenhower, Promise Of Release From White House Means Freedom

By SAUL PETT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two weeks ago President Eisenhower was visited in the White House by his old army friend, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, now a corporate executive.

"Brad," the President of the United States asked, "how do you like your job on the outside?"

The word "outside" was given a special kind of emphasis, a yearning, an envy, a vicarious relish, the way a man in jail a long time asks about the world beyond the walls.

"Mr. President," said Gen. Bradley, "it's wonderful. Oh, there are still decisions to make, but I don't have to make them the day they're brought in. I can take several days or even weeks to make up my mind."

And the President said, marvelling, "that must be wonderful!"

The incident, aides and associates agree, is the best single mirror of Dwight D. Eisenhower's mood in the last days of his administration. He is about to close out a half century of public service and 20 years of awesome burden, and he can't wait. He has been counting the days.

He leaves with a variety of other emotions but the overriding one appears to approach relief. He hungers to relax and escape tension. He longs for the luxury denied him most of the past 20 years, of living without fear that a mistake could imperil a civilization of nation or army or single platoon of men.

He leaves with a conviction of having done his best, with pride in much of his record (fiscal policy, relative containment of the Soviets and no shooting war involving America) and a deep, abiding disappointment that in his eight years the world came no closer to real peace.

He leaves, too, with some sadness, with a feeling of inner sentimentality that he rarely shows in public.

He leaves with a private affection for the old house, to which he returned after two serious illnesses and a minor stroke, in which he and Mamie Eisenhower had the longest single stay in their 45 years of much traveled married life.

He leaves with a warm hope of privacy and a soaring expectation that he can now play golf without criticism. He leaves with two tiny ambitions, poignant in their smallness:

He would now like to be able to decide suddenly to go to a ball game without fuss, without galvanizing 50 people into action. He would like, too, to be able to wander through a super market without commotion and curious about supermarkets.

What will he miss most? He will miss, we are told, the fringe benefits of command and the presidential machinery of government, a top personal staff of 20 and scores of subordinates. After Friday, he will have only two or three people on his staff to call on for help.

He goes from a choice of airplanes (prop, jet or helicopter), trains, naval ships and cars to his Gettysburg farm, where the Eisenhowers have one car (a 1956 Chrysler limousine), one station wagon and two jeeps.

He goes from the immense power and prestige of the White House to a farm in Pennsylvania where, despite continuing fame and relative comfort, a man's ego will have to make its own private adjustment.

Slowly, day by day, the era called the "Eisenhower years" has been ticked off in a series of farewells. He has said goodbye personally to more than 1,000 people, government executives and their families who came in to shake his hand for the last time.

He has accepted innumerable resignations and responded with expressions of gratitude, which inevitably will be framed and hung by the owners as their golden link with history.

Slowly, it ends. Wednesday was Dwight Eisenhower's last presidential press conference (his 193rd). The day before was his last signing of a treaty (his 106th). The week before was his last cabinet meeting (his 227th). Ten days before that came the last of his big presidential decisions, to end diplomatic relations with Cuba.

Day by day, the physical White House has lost the personal touches of the outgoing first family and remains somewhat suspended impersonally until the new first family makes its tastes known.

Of their personal possessions, all that remains of the Eisenhowers' are their clothes. Tons of private papers and gifts and souvenirs have been moved by van to the museum and library in Abilene, Kan., or to their house at Gettysburg, the first home they ever owned.

From the presidential living quarters on the second floor of the White House, movers already have carried out their hi-fi set and electric organ, on which the first lady used to play. These were the only two large pieces of furniture that the Eisenhowers owned in the president's house. The rest belongs to the government.

Consider Buying I and In Liberia

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The purchase of 5,000 acres of Liberian land for American Negroes is contemplated by the executive board of the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Inc.

The Negro religious organization named a commission Wednesday to meet with Liberian officials March 14 to discuss the purchase.

Dr. J. H. Jackson of Chicago, president of the 5-million member convention, said the land would be divided into small farms and sold without profit to American Negroes in an effort to teach Liberian natives Christian living and modern farming methods.

Highball Helpful In Case Of Break

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A highball may be just the thing for someone recovering from a bone fracture, says a University of Kansas expert.

Dr. Leonard P. Peltier told a regional group of the American College of Surgeons Wednesday that alcohol helps prevent formation of dangerous fatty clots in the bloodstream.

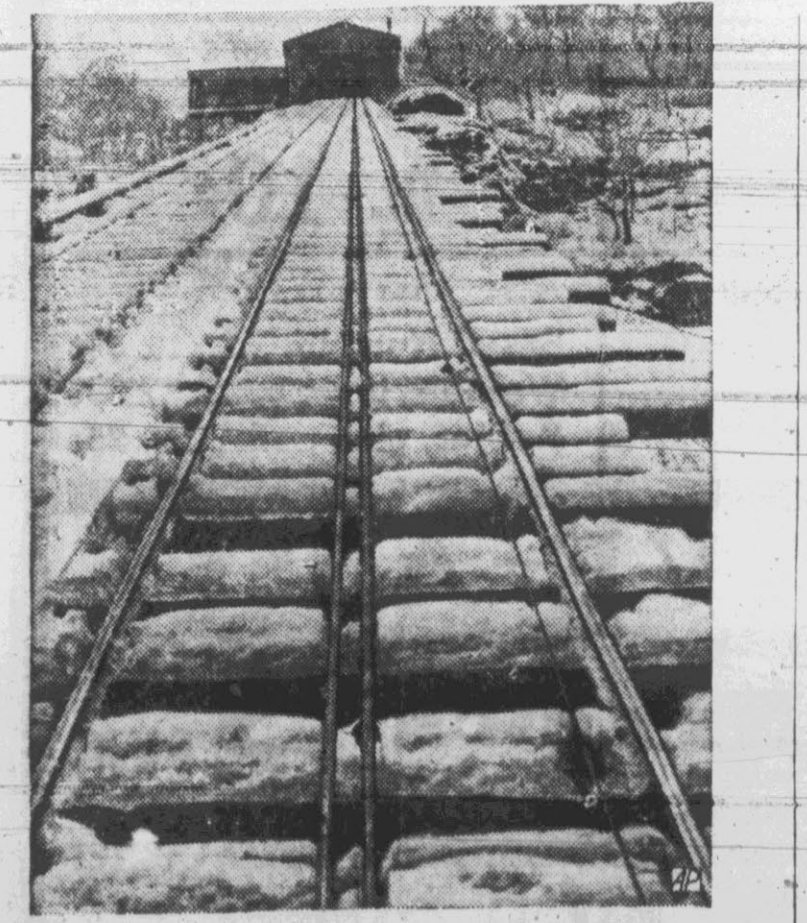

Such clots tend to form in fracture cases, explained Peltier, a professor of orthopedics.

He urged an ounce of whiskey every four hours for four or five days in fracture cases.

Washington Feels Sense Of Change

(Editors Note: Reiman Morin, twice a Pulitzer prizewinner and long observer of the political scene, has sniffed the air of the changing capital and gives his impressions in the following interpretive story.)

By RELMAN MORIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The atmosphere in Washington today is like that breathless moment in a theater when the curtain begins to rise on a great new drama. People do not know exactly what to expect, but they expect something, something new and very different. During his presidential campaign, John F. Kennedy promised to "get things moving." Whether the movement will be forward, sideways or a roller coaster of ups and downs, remains to be seen. Nevertheless, a sense of excitement, of some kind of moving already tingles in the capital. It is quite unlike the atmosphere in January, 1953, on the eve of Dwight D. Eisenhower's inauguration. There appears to be, for example, little or no hangover of campaign bitterness. The Republicans, noting Kennedy's razor-thin margin of victory, are chagrined but by no means downhearted. Some of them, while taking a wait-and-see position, grudgingly concede that Kennedy seems to be off to a good start. The "transfer of power" period seems to have gone off unusually well. In 1952, the transition between Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman was not a happy one. But when he was questioned about the Kennedy transition operation at his news conference

Wednesday, Eisenhower said: "I think it is going splendidly splendidly. As a matter of fact, there are no complaints on our part." Traditionally, an incoming president enjoys a honeymoon with Congress; a period when the legislators are disposed to be as generous with him as possible. Sooner or later, of course, it ends. Eight years ago at this time, the Washington wisecrack was: "When does the honeymoon begin?" Kennedy's nominations for his Cabinet and other top offices have had smooth sailing so far. But in 1953, one of Eisenhower's key nominations—Charles E. Wilson to be secretary of defense—was heading for a collision with the Senate Armed Forces Committee before an agreement was reached. It pivoted on the question of Wilson's stock holdings in General Motors and whether he would dispose of them. Kennedy has some advantages that Eisenhower did not enjoy. He has had 14 years in Congress and an even longer acquaintance with politics as such. Eisenhower, the soldier-turned-statesman, had none. Eisenhower had a shooting war on his hands, with Americans dying in Korea. Kennedy confronts critical situations in Cuba and Laos, but not outright war. In 1953, Americans assumed that the U.S. was the strongest military power in the world. Four years were to elapse before the first Sputnik went into orbit. Today, that assumption is open to challenge. So Kennedy probably can demand and get far greater sacrifices from the American people than would have been possible for Eisenhower. Eight years ago, this correspondent wrote: "The mood on Capitol Hill was like the weather—dark, rainy and foreboding. It contrasted beautifully with the sunshine and high spirits of Inauguration Day." Today, the prevailing feeling is that bright new horizons are about to open.

Stick Together In Hospital, Too

EHRRARDT, S.C. (AP) — The Babham family of Ehrhardt believes in doing things together. At one time recently, Mrs. H.M. Brabham was ill at her home. Daughter-in-law Katherine suffered a fall which put her to bed, and daughter Blanche was recuperating from an ear infection. Son Walker had just been dismissed from a hospital.

Dog Did It, Not Dsunken Driver

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP) — Leonard Griewank's dog got him into trouble but saved him from a drunk driving charge. Griewank was charged with driving while intoxicated after his car crashed into a utility pole. A witness, however, backed up Griewank's story that his dog jumped into his lap, causing him to lose control of his car. The charge was reduced to inattentive driving.

Will Open Bids On Burgaw Plant

RALEIGH (AP) — The Pender Industrial Council plans to open bids Jan. 26 for construction of a fruit and vegetable pre-cooling and packing plant at Burgaw. The council agreed to house the plant which will be operated by American Foods, Inc., of Miami Fla. The Florida firm hopes the building will be ready for the opening of the strawberry season in April.

Finds It Easier To Paint Horses

OLDWICK, N. J. (AP) — Horses are much easier to paint than society women, according to Artist Richard Stone Reeves. Reeves has done both, and horses always are "far less trouble" than his human subjects, he said. Reeves is one of America's top equine artists and has painted many famous horses both here and abroad, including Assault, Native Dancer, Citation and Stymie. Even horses can be difficult, Reeves said, but Stymie was not. "He always acted as if he knew exactly what I was doing—he was the most attentive and most regal subject I ever had," Reeves said.

Embarrassing For The Indians

SEATTLE (AP) — Mrs. Carol Parry, a Sioux working in the Seattle Indian Center, registers a mild complaint about TV westerns. "It isn't right that the Redskins are always the baddies," she told a reporter. "I have a 3-year-old son. He just lives these programs. And when they're over he runs through the house pointing his cap gun and shouting, 'Bang-bang! I'm killing Indians!'" "It can be very embarrassing when we have visitors."

Dr. Thomas Dooley Dies In Sleep, Ending A Brief, Dedicated Career

NEW YORK (AP) — Thomas Dooley, lion-hearted young doctor who battled disease in the Laos jungle even when he himself became ravaged by crippling cancer, died in his sleep Wednesday night at Memorial Hospital. Death came just one day after his 34th birthday. Dooley, brought to the hospital Dec. 27 wearing a brace from shoulder to hips, insisted he was going to continue his work if his "iron maiden" enabled him to get around — and characteristically added: "I am not going to quit. I will continue to guide and lead my hospitals until my back, my brain, my blood and my bones collapse." Dooley's dedication to relieving the plight of the underprivileged and ailing began seven years ago while he was a Navy doctor. He spent a year of premedical training at the University of Notre Dame before serving (1944-46) as a Navy medical corpsman attached to the Marines. Upon leaving service, he studied at the Sorbonne in Paris for a year. A native of St. Louis, in 1953 he was graduated from the St. Louis University School of Medicine. Dooley rejoined the Navy as a lieutenant (j.g.) and took his internship first at the Naval Hospital, Camp Pendleton, Calif., and then aboard the attack transport USS Montague. In 1954, at the end of the war in Indochina, his ship aided in evacuation of refugees from Communist North Viet Nam. Seeing—and feeling—the plight of the hundreds of disease-wracked inhabitants of the area made up Dooley's mind. He had no money. But he had a fighting heart, boundless energy and a burning zeal. After leaving the Navy in 1956 Dooley wrote a best-selling book, "Deliver Us From Evil." He used the book's proceeds, and supplies donated by pharmaceutical firms, to return to Laos with three former Navy buddies and set up a small hospital at Nam Tha. He brought in his medical supplies by train, plane, oxcart and dug-out canoe. For his work with the refugees, Dooley won the Legion of Merit, and was the youngest officer in the history of the Medical Corps to receive it. He also was awarded the National Order of Viet Nam, that nation's highest decoration. Dooley turned over his first small hospital in 1957 to the Laotian government. Then it was back to this country to raise more funds. He lectured and appeared on TV. In 1958, with Dr. Peter Comanduras, a Washington, D.C., physician, he founded MEDICO (Medical International Cooperation Organization), a nonprofit agency. Dooley had raised more money with another best-seller, "The Edge of Tomorrow" and returned to Laos to establish a hospital in the village of Moun Sing near the Chinese border. At first there were only mats for beds, but Dooley considered this his own hospital. It soon was handling 100 patients a day. It was back again to the United States for more lectures and fund-raising. In 1959 a $10,000 annual award Dooley received from an insurance firm went to another MEDICO hospital in Kenya. But that same year he learned that a tumor on his chest was malignant. A New York operation was termed successful and he went back overseas. Even though told by some doctors his cancer was arrested, he remarked to newsmen that his type of cancer was the fast-growing kind, but added: "I figure that what I have crammed into my life makes me really 65." He managed to get his own plane and flew back and forth directing the hospitals. An admittedly avid fund-raiser, he once wryly described himself as "begging, bunning, borrowing and, from time to time, just stealing a bit" for his and other MEDICO hospitals. Last November Dooley, in Hong Kong to discuss a new hospital program collapsed from sheer exhaustion. Came the brace and a diagnosis of "bony destruction to the vertebrae." After a funeral mass at St. Louis Cathedral, Dooley will be buried in Calvary Cemetery beside his father, Thomas A. Dooley Sr., and a brother, Earle, killed in Germany during World War II. Among survivors are his mother, Agnes, and two brothers, Malcolm, of Huntington, N.Y., and Edward, of Cleveland, Ohio. Dr. Dooley, semiconscious much of the time during his final hospital stay, was sufficiently alert on his last birthday to receive a visit from Francis Cardinal Spellman. About 60 billion eggs are used in the United States each year, most of them for children.

Pontiff Confers Red Hat On U.S. Prelate

By FRANK BRUTTO
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII today conferred the cardinal's red hat on Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis, Mo., and three other new princes of the Roman Catholic Church. The public consistory in St. Peter's Basilica, high point of four days of ceremony that swelled the College of Cardinals to 85 members, was attended by 29 previous cardinals, hundreds of bishops, archbishops and priests, and about 10,000 spectators. Cardinal Ritter was the first to get his hat. As he knelt before the papal throne and two attendants held the broad-brimmed hat or galero over his head, Pope John intoned: "For the praise of almighty God and the honor of the holy apostolic see, receive the red hat, the special badge of a cardinal's rank. By this you are to understand that you must show yourself fearless, even to the shedding of blood, in making our holy faith respected, in securing peace of Christian people, and by promoting the welfare of the Roman church. In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen." The same one-minute ceremony was performed in turn for the other new cardinals: Jose Humberto Quintero, archbishop of Caracas and Venezuela's first cardinal; Luis Concha Cordoba, archbishop of Bogota, Colombia, and Archbishop Giuseppe Ferretto, an Italian member of the Vatican Curia who is an expert on problems of the church in Latin America. The same red hat, or galero, was used for all four cardinals. Later in the day papal messengers were to deliver individual hats to each of the four prelates. The red-tasseled galero normally is never worn, but hangs in the cardinal's church and at his death is placed on his coffin while he lies in state.

Airborne Alert

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Strategic Air Command now has B52 bombers on an around-the-clock airborne alert in keeping, its commander says, with United States policy of preparedness to reduce to an absolute minimum time required to respond to an attack on the nation. Gen. Thomas S. Power, in announcing the airborne alert Wednesday, did not say how many bombers are in the air at any given time and SAC headquarters would neither confirm or deny the presence of nuclear weapons on the aircraft. "But we can say the training is conducted under the most realistic conditions possible," headquarters added. All combat ready crews are being utilized in the program that keeps each bomber in the air for a 24-hour period. Refueling is by KC-135 jet stratotankers. About two dozen bases scattered over the nation are being used.

N.C. Democrats Making Merry

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Carolina Democrats make merry at two parties today in a warm-up for Friday's inauguration of President-elect John F. Kennedy. A third is on tap Friday. Dr. John D. Robinson, who has served six times as a presidential elector, and Mrs. Robinson of Wallace, N.C., are hosts at the first get-together—a coffee hour. The event honors Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, who was inaugurated Jan. 5, and Mrs. Sanford, and the new governor's predecessor, Secretary of Commerce-designate Luther H. Hodges and Mrs. Hodges. The receiving line included all members of the state's congressional delegation. Dumbarton House, scene of the party, is the headquarters for the National Colonial Dames. Today's second event for the Carolinians is a reception for approximately 500 at the Capitol where the hosts are members of the North Carolina Democratic Club of Washington. Lawrence Redmond, formerly of Lumberton, N.C., is president of the group. On Friday, more than 1,300 persons from the state will be breakfast guest of eight hosts from Charlotte. Bert L. Bennett Jr. of Winston-Salem, chairman of the State Democratic Committee, said the event is to honor distinguished Carolinians working in Washington.

Delightful Adaptation Of Dashing Adventure Story

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody seems to ever write stories like "The Prisoner of Zenda" any more, full of dashing, nerveless heroes, beautiful princesses and lovely uniforms. But Sumner Locke Elliott's TV adaptation of the popular old mythical kingdom romance was a thoroughly delightful and entertaining 90 minutes on CBS Wednesday night. The adaptor and the performers invested the Anthony Hope tale of skulduggery in Ruritania with just the proper atmosphere—high adventure and romance played with just a suggestion of satire, all of which made the sword play, the poison wine and the sinister plotting great fun. Christopher Plummer was properly noble and brave as Rudolf Rassendyll, the king's English double and adequately weak and irresponsible as his majesty. Farley Granger and Philip Bosco were a pair of lovely villains, while Inger Stevens was all that someone named Princess Flavia should be. I guess we all had a future tear in our eyes when the English Rudolf turned back the country and his royal beloved to his royal double and sadly went home, with only a rose and his memories. The soap operas, the game shows and the reruns of old situation comedies will be brushed ruthlessly aside Friday as the presidential inauguration literally takes over the TV tube during the daylight hours. The three major networks will start reporting the big event at 11 a.m. Eastern Standard Time and continue on through the swearing-in ceremony and parade. That means it will be around 4 p.m. before things get back to the usual going-on. Then, at 11:15 p.m. all three will swing into their inaugural ball reports. CBS announced plans to convert its popular half-hour Western, "Gunsmoke," for years at the top of the popularity ratings, into an hour-long show next season. The idea, according to the network, is to give the program "greater scope." Recommended tonight: CBS Reports, 10-11 p.m.—A report on the congressional rules committee.

Like Everything But His Words

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Men's Apparel Club of California likes everything about Jack Lemmon's clothes, but not everything he says about them. The club had just named the actor the best-dressed man in the movies Wednesday when he confided to news photographers that he himself designed the suit he was wearing. "No, no," groaned club president Allen Mathews. "Say you didn't." "But I did," insisted Lemmon. Mathews put his hands over his face. The whole idea of the award is to play up ready-made suits—not to get men to suit themselves.

Yale Man Hopes Advice Is Heeded

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cyrus R. Vance, selected by President-elect John F. Kennedy to be general counsel for the Defense Department, got a laugh from senators Wednesday because he is a Yale man. Noting that many of the other Kennedy Defense Department appointees are Harvard men, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., asked Vance, "Will they take the advice of a man from Yale?" "I hope so," Vance replied amid laughter at the Senate Armed Services Committee hearing on his designation.

Recognition For Space Scientists

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Two of the nation's leading space scientists Wednesday night received awards from the American Astronautical Society in recognition of outstanding contributions in the field of space research. Dr. Homer E. Newell, deputy director of space flight programs for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, received the society's 1960 space flight award. Brig. Gen. Don D. Flickinger, M.D., of the Air Force's Air Research and Development Command, received the Melbourne W. Boynton award for space medicine.

31-Year-Old Is Acting Governor

BOSTON (AP)—Kevin H. White, secretary of state only since 11 a.m. Wednesday, is Massachusetts' acting governor today. He's only 31. After administering the oath of office to White, Gov. John A. Volpe left for Washington for the presidential inaugural ceremonies. That left the reins with White, next in line of rank.

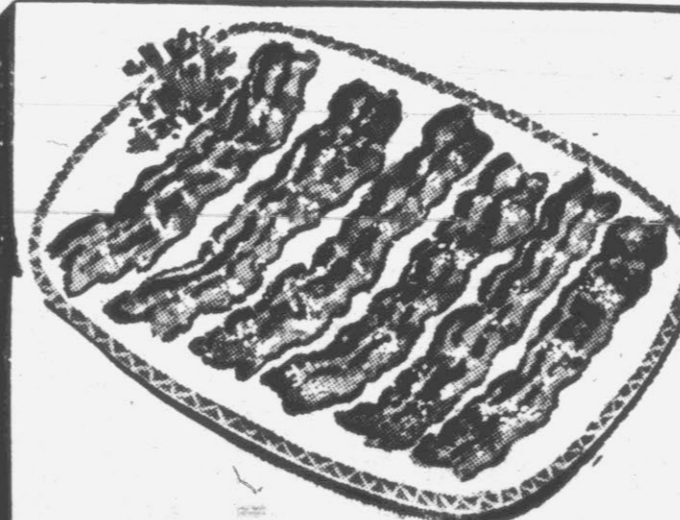

Affluent Tramps

CARPENTERIA, Calif. (AP) — Tramps are so affluent in this seaside community that they carry around electric blankets and plug the cords into outlets in empty buildings. The Santa Barbara County Building Department was informed of the cozy practice Tuesday.

This Could Have Been His Last Christmas

By HELEN ROSS
Hickory Daily Record

Written for The Associated Press
NEWTON, N. C. (AP)—This may have been the last Christmas Ricky Dean Reynolds' blond little brother Ricky had.

His parents are facing that hard possibility with hope in their hearts, a prayer on their lips and a faith that should move mountains.

Since he was born, Ricky Dean has lived with a heart defect. Without surgery he may live until he is nine years old.

He will be six Jan. 31.

If he has surgery, he has one chance in 10 to pull through the operation and become a normal person. Ricky may have the risky operation. If doctors decide his chances are one in 10 or more that he can survive, they will operate. If after a cardiac catheterization, they decide he can't make it through an operation, he will return to his home on Newton, Rt. 2, to spend whatever time remains for him here on this earth with his young parents, Ronald and Thelma Raybon, and his 18-month-old brother, Randy Dale.

So long has the little family lived with the shadow of death over the lively youngster, that the parents have developed a courage and outlook much more mature than their years. The father is 26; the mother 25.

"We both feel we must give Ricky every chance at life," Thelma Raybon said. "And even with the odds against him, we know we must give him this chance. We believe with all our hearts he'll come through it. He's got so much to go through, it's up to us to grit our teeth and bear it with him."

Ricky was to have had the heart catheterization Jan. 2, but when his parents took him to Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem, doctors sent him back home until later in the month, because he had a cold. They plan to do the catheterization Tuesday, and that day will decide if he should undergo surgery.

Ricky's condition is complicated by the fact that he also has very high blood pressure. His pressure, his mother said, is comparable to someone 60 or 70 years old.

Ricky knows he may have the operation. But he doesn't like to talk about it.

"It's hard to explain to a child his age," his mother said. "We've tried to teach him to have faith."

"He believes in God. We try to make him share our faith that he will get well and be like other children."

"But when he asks 'Why do I have to be like this? Why can't I be like Randy?', it's terribly hard to make him understand."

Ever since the heart defect was discovered, Ricky has been under constant doctor's care, with periodic checkups in Winston-Salem. His mother describes his condition as a "hole in his heart." On the records at the Catawba County Health Department, it is designated as an "interventricular septal defect."

When he was 3, Ricky underwent a cardiac catheterization and doctors said then he had less than one chance in 10 to survive surgery and advised strongly against it at his age. The young parents returned him to the hospital in July of this year and were told then if surgery were to be performed it should be done at that time.

But one doesn't decide a son's fate in a matter of moments.

The Raybons came back home to think and pray about it. They made their decision recently and were told then that surgery might not be practical now, but that another catheterization could be made to decide.

Doctors have told the Raybons that a case cannot be judged on the patient. It must be judged on statistics.

And statistics say Ricky may not pull through an operation. They say, too, that if he doesn't have the operation he won't live much longer.

"But Ricky has fooled them for so long. I think he will again," Mrs. Raybon said. "They didn't think he would live this long. He had a hernia operation when he was three, and came through it, although he was awfully sick. He had pneumonia and shouldn't have lived through that, as sick as he was, but he did.

"I think he will do the same thing now," she said quietly, but with determination ringing in her voice.

Ricky, his doctors say, is a little boy with too much life to give it up.

Meanwhile, he plays at home—really plays. He is much more active than his younger brother. His parents do not try to restrain him, but they guard him against contagious diseases and colds. When he wants to play, however, they let him play with all his might.

He's a husky youngster—weighs almost 40 pounds—and his blue eyes twinkle when he gets into normal little boy mischief at home.

Ricky got a Pekinese pup and a miniature service station he wanted most for Christmas, along with lots of other toys.

But the one thing most precious, Santa couldn't give him.

Perhaps his parents' faith and his own great will can do that for him.

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—Four of five Civil War generals from Lancaster came from one house. They were Maj. Gen. Thomas Ewing, Maj. Gen. Hugh Ewing, Brig. Gen. Charles Ewing—all brothers—and Gen. William T. Sherman, who was raised by the Ewing family.

The fifth was Bvt. Brig. Gen. J. A. Stafford. In addition, two other generals—Maj. Gen. Philemon Beecher and Brig. Gen. Samuel F. Macracken—lived within a block of the Ewing home but died before the war.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Rally hauled an irregular stock market to the upside on balance early this afternoon in heavy trading. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .50 to 230.10 with industrials down .20, rails up 1.10 and utilities up .30.

Continued excitement over Baltimore & Ohio stock, object of merger plans by both the Chesapeake & Ohio and the New York Central—continued the big feature of trading.

B&O opened higher and other rail shares followed suit, posting moderate gains for the most part. The rest of the list was ragged.

The over-all market seemed to be consolidating some of its gains of Wednesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .95 at 633.15.

Corporate bonds improved, U.S. governments showed no change. Dealings were quiet.

Rigid Security At Inauguration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Security precautions as rigid as any ever imposed in this security-conscious capital will be directed at thwarting any potential assassin in Friday's inaugural crowds.

About one million persons are expected. The total security force will top 5,000.

Secret Service agents will stand on every rooftop, peer down every manhole, and scan every human cluster along the inaugural route between the Capitol and the White House.

Other agents will be hidden beneath the special platforms on which the incoming president will stand at the Capitol where John F. Kennedy will take the oath and at the White House where he will watch the inaugural parade.

Scout Council Installs New President, Awards Made

KINSTON — Ralph Morris of New Bern was installed as president of the East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America, at the council's annual Recognition Banquet here last night attended by 440 council-seouters.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina College, was the featured speaker at the program that included presentation of the Silver Beaver Award, scouting's highest honor on the council level, to Dr. Harry Billica of Greenville. The high award, presented for "distinguished service to boyhood," also went to Marshall Brook Sr. of Bailey, J. W. Buckson of Vanceboro, W. R. Dixon of Wilson, Merle Edwards of Kinston, and Dr. Stratton Murrell of Jacksonville. The six outstanding scouters have an average service to scouting of 18 years.

Another Greenville man, Erskine Duff, was installed as second vice president of the council.

The President's Award, given for achievement in advancement, membership, leadership and training, was awarded to the Onslow District. The presentation was made by Penn T. Watson, Wilson, former council president, Dr. Tom Reid, chairman of the Onslow District and Joe Tyson, district scout executive, received the award on behalf of the district.

The Onslow District also won the attendance award. Ninety-eight adults from the district were present to receive the trophy presented by Erskine Duff, member of the Council Executive Board.

O. B. Roberts, scout executive, gave a brief report of the achievement of the council for 1960. He stated that the council had a 6.6 per cent growth in membership. The advancement program showed marked improvement, attendance at district and council events increased, and many improvements were made at the council camp.

Wallace Wood, deputy regional executive, installed the officers for 1961. They are Ralph Morris, New Bern, president; Bruce Riley, Wilson, 1st vice-president; Erskine Duff, Greenville, 2nd vice-president; Dr. Harry Billica, Greenville, commissioner; Douglas Tabb, Wilson, treasurer.

W. C. Chadwick, New Bern, former council president, presented Dr. Robert Gilbert, Kinston, Boy Scout statute for his "outstanding leadership as council president for the past two years."

The opening and closing ceremonies were written and directed by Helen McCraw, Kinston. Rev. Jesse Staton acted as narrator.

Fountain Meets Its $300 Goal For Bookmobile

A ninth community has completed its drive for solicitations for the Pitt County Bookmobile project, Miss Elizabeth Copeland, librarian at Sheppard Memorial Library, announced yesterday.

Three hundred dollars, the Fountain community's quota, was officially turned in to the bookmobile committee by Charles M. Sugg, principal of North Fountain Elementary School.

The following communities have submitted the following quotas to date: Farmville, $1,200; Winterville, $600; Grifton, Grimesland, Stokes and Fountain each $300; Elvovir and Falkland each $250; and Arthur, $200. This brings a total of $3,700 in contributions towards purchase of the $8,400 bookmobile.

However, $1,000 of the amount needed was already on hand when the drive began. Actually, half the needed amount has been raised, and other contributions have been made in the communities which have not officially turned in their quotas.

Port Briefly Closed By Chemical Hazard

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Coast Guard today re-opened the Port of Philadelphia which had been closed for seven hours as a precaution against fire after 7,000 gallons of a flammable chemical spilled into the Delaware River from a pipeline shattered by a ship.

Chief Petty Officer William Taylor announced the port was reopened at 4:30 a.m. after an inspection showed that most of the chemical, orthoxylylene, either evaporated, was absorbed by the water or went out with the tide.

He said, however, that Philadelphia fire officials reported there still was a concentration of the chemical in the areas of two piers here.

Smoking was prohibited in pier areas and vessels were asked to proceed with caution.

The SS Dorset, a 10,000-ton freighter carrying lumber from Vancouver, B.C., to Philadelphia, smashed into the pier and cut the pipeline while trying to dock in a strong tide Wednesday night.

The impact, which shattered a five-foot cement casing around the pipeline, left a two-foot hole in the bow of the ship. Mike Fakis, the ship's captain, and his crew of 35, walked off the ship without incident.

Coast Guard headquarters in Gloucester City, N.J., ordered all traffic halted in a 7 1/2-mile stretch of the river between the Walt Whitman Bridge and the Pennsylvania Railroad's Delair Bridge.

Precautions were taken to guard the USS Kitty Hawk, a super aircraft carrier, undergoing tests at the docks. The New York Shipbuilding Corp. in South Camden, N.J., and other waterfront industries doused acetylene torches and immediately ordered other fire prevention measures.

A fireboat poured thousands of gallons of water on the river surface to dilute the chemical which is used in the manufacture of paint and varnish. Firemen from Philadelphia, and Camden and Pennsauken, N.J., stood by the severed pipeline extends 1,500 feet from the pier to a group of tanks where the orthoxylylene is stored for the Allied Chemical Corp.

Port Briefly Closed By Chemical Hazard

Preparations for inaugural security began under Secret Service coordination soon after last November's election. While fewer than 200 Secret Service agents will be involved, they will get help from several thousand Washington police, hundreds of servicemen and a team of plainclothesmen from Washington and other cities.

The Secret Service is also counting on spectators to help protect Kennedy.

"If anyone in the crowd should make a threatening move," said Chief Inspector Michael Torina, "you can be sure someone nearby would have the courage and alertness to act."

The Secret Service credits a woman with deflecting the aim of Giuseppe Zangara when he tried to assassinate President-elect Franklin Roosevelt in 1938 in Miami. Zangara's shots went wild but Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago was mortally wounded in the fusillade.

Inauguration Day presents special problems for the Secret Service because the President is in the public view for a longer period than usual. Also, the event attracts extraordinary attention, and, by its nature, might prove the focal point for action by the violently disgruntled.

Suspect Arson In Asheville Fire

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — State Bureau of Investigation officers and Asheville police believe arson was involved in a fire that severely damaged a vacant home here Wednesday.

The fire occurred in a house where Mrs. C. W. Ramsey was found dead in a bathtub early on the morning of Feb. 17, 1956. Dr. P. R. Terry, then coroner, testified that the woman died of liquid in her lungs and that an attempt had been made to strangle or choke her.

The same night of the woman's death, 38-year-old Otis (Dutch) Taylor was shot and killed by Mrs. Ramsey's husband, then 72. Ramsey said he found Taylor ransacking the house, and shot in self-defense.

Ramsey was found innocent in 1956 on charges of first degree murder in the woman's death and in Taylor's death. Since the fire at the Ramsey home, Ramsey has not been located and is reported in Florida.

Capt. Tom Carland of the Asheville Fire Department said the fire had apparently been set in a dozen places. J. C. Fitzgerald, city fire chief, said damages would amount to at least $10,000. A team of FBI arson investigators also was looking into causes of the fire.
