Chimp - Manned Space Capsule Is Successfully Launched By U.S.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States successfully rocketed a chimpanzee-manned space capsule more than 100 miles into space today and dropped it in the Atlantic Ocean 420 miles down range. There was no immediate report on whether the chimp survived. The capsule overshot its intended target by 130 miles, indicating that the Redstone booster rocket had not performed as planned. Ships, planes and helicopters raced to attempt recovery of the one-ton space chamber and its passenger, a 37 1/4-pound male primate designated simply No. 65. The majority of the recovery forces were stationed in the intended impact area 290 miles down range. But other craft were placed on both near and far sides of the mark in case the capsule missed it. There was no immediate word on how near the bell-shaped cap-

Two Convicted In Grimesland Arrest Dispute

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer GRIMESLAND — Two Grimesland men last night appealed judgments of guilty by Municipal Judge T. R. Rouse Jr. and Police Chief Jessie Mack Bunting, who may be fired today, denied he had ever overstepped his authority. Lawrence Elks and John C. Hodges, both found guilty by Judge Rouse of appearing on the streets here Saturday in a drunk condition, appealed the local court's ruling. Judge Rouse taxed each of the men with cost of court ($11.50) and stipulated that each should "go to Sunday School every Sunday for six weeks."

Republicans Launch Effort To Slow Kennedy Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any chance President Kennedy may have had for a congressional honeymoon vanished today as Republicans maneuvered to slow down a program he said was needed to reverse an economic downturn. With some conservative exceptions, Democrats called Kennedy's State of the Union message a realistic challenge to the American people to face up to their problems at home and abroad. Influential Republicans took sharp issue with the President's contention that the U.S. economy was in serious trouble and needed immediate corrective measures. Other GOP members objected strenuously to what they called Kennedy's "downgrading" of America's position in the world. Others accused the President of injecting partisanship into the blueprint he drew for the critical days he saw ahead. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Senate GOP leader, signalled a slowdown by calling for extensive committee hearings on most of the proposals Kennedy said he would submit to Congress in the next two weeks. Dirksen said that if they could Republicans would see that there would be "no ill-digested stuff rushed through Congress."

Officials at Sheppard Memorial Library this morning, according to Miss Elizabeth Copeland, librarian. Ayden's quota was $700, so the community slightly passed its goal. The Ayden Town Board, at its January 10 meeting, agreed to appropriate $200 towards the project as part of Ayden's quota, the remaining $500 came from other sources in the community. Almost all communities participating in the drive have now successfully completed their quotas.

County-Wide Training School Planned By Firemen's Ass'n

STOKES — A county wide training school for all Pitt fire departments was planned last night by the Pitt Firemen's Association Board of Directors. Meeting in its quarterly meeting as guests of the Carolina Township fire department in Stokes, more than 80 firemen from all parts of Pitt were represented. Delton E. Perry, of Bethel, president of the Association presided. He announced that a special committee, had been appointed by the board of directors to set up a fire training program for Pitt Fire Departments. Roy Hardee, of the Greenville fire department, is chairman of the steering committee. Serving on the fire training committee are Lloyd Worthington of Winterville; Curtis Flanagan of Farmville, Larry Tetterton of Grimesland and Ed Hemmings of Station-House fire department. The group will map plans for the training session, which will be open to all departments in the county in addition to members of the Pitt Firemen's Association. The next quarterly meeting of the Association will be held with the Simpson Fire Department as host for a dutch supper on the first Monday night in April. Time 7:30. Station-House fire department will be host for the annual meeting in July. President Perry reported that membership dues for joining the Pitt Association will remain at $1.00 per member and yearly dues of $5.00; or as set by the directors will be charged each member department thereafter. Only two organized fire departments in Pitt County have not yet joined the Association. Perry pointed out. They are Grifton and Fountain. A number of interested groups from various Pitt Communities attended the meeting and discussed various methods of setting up and insuring units which are now operating or being formed. Curtis Flanagan, secretary of the North Carolina Firemen's Association cited the growth of new fire departments in North Carolina in the past three years. Flanagan said records show that now there are more than 15,000 firemen in the state and during the past three years a new department was formed on the average of one each 11 days. Of this number more than 90 per cent of the total departments are volunteer "just like you fellows here", Flanagan pointed out. "The day will come when every foot of North Carolina is protected by a Fire Department and we here in Pitt County have great room for growth. We need at least seven more departments in Pitt in order to provide the protection which is needed." Roy Hardee, Vice President of the Association reported that during the time the Pitt Firemen's Association had been formed five new departments had been organized. In addition several others are in the formative stages and will shortly be ready for operation. He pointed out the great need for departments in the Bell-Arthur-Ballards Cross Roads section; Belvoir-Falkland; Chicod School area and Black Jack section. Plans have previously been announced by the Greenville Volunteer fire department to place a rural truck in service around the Greenville area. Action is expected shortly on plans for that rural truck. Departments organized in the past two years include: Station-House Grimesland, Carolina Township; Simpson and Eastern Pines. In addition Grimesland is now adding a rural department to its new town organization. In addition to the planned Greenville Volunteer Rural department plans are underway in the Paeolus section; Belvoir-Falkland areas. President Perry said that once a workable plan is mapped out by the Pitt Firemen's Association for financial support from the County he had assurance that the County Commissioners would cooperate in any way possible. Discussion came after it was noted that many other counties are now giving monthly support to organized departments. Counties in this area include, Greene, Wayne, Nash-Edgecombe and others. The Counties give each department meeting certain, requirements a fixed sum each year to help expand and carry on its operations. Both new and old departments should take a close look at their public relations and strive to see that news stories be phoned

Admiral, Rebel Portuguese Confer

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—A U. S. admiral met Portuguese rebel Capt. Henrique Galvao at sea today in a conference that could mean swift freedom for the nearly 600 passengers aboard the captive liner Santa Maria. Atlantic Fleet headquarters in Norfolk, Va., announced the rendezvous of Rear Adm. Allen E. Smith Jr., and Galvao who seized the $16.6 million ship Jan. 22. Smith, the Navy's Caribbean commander, sped out from Recife at daybreak aboard the U. S. destroyer Gearing to a point about 35 miles offshore where Galvao waited for the inauguration today of a new Brazilian president who has informally offered him and the ship safe haven. The Navy announced the admiral went aboard the Santa Maria at 6:50 a. m. This conformed to original plans. It was reported here Monday night that Galvao had asked that the meeting be held on the destroyer. The Gearing hailed about 500 yards from the Santa Maria and Smith and his party, including two American diplomats posted in Brazil, made the crossing in a motor whaleboat. A Recife tug carried 61 newsmen to the area, but was requested by the Navy to keep some distance away so as not to impede the Navy's operations. The U. S. destroyer Damato was also on hand and two others, the destroyers Wilson and Vogelgesang, were expected to join forces with her and the Gearing. From the Santa Maria, Galvao messaged a Brazilian friend that he hoped to enter Recife today. The rebel leader's message was directed to Gov. Carlos Lacerda of Guanabara State who is in Brasilia, Brazil's new capital. There President-elect Janio Quadros was taking over Brazil's government from the administration of President Juscelino Kubitschek, who had threatened to return the liner to its owners, the Portuguese Colonial Navigation Co. "I hope to enter Recife on the same solemn day that Brazil initiates a new era headed by your admirable and honored President," Galvao said. Lacerda earlier told newsmen in Brasilia he expected Galvao would be given 24 hours to depart the passengers, refuel and depart again for the high seas if he seeks asylum, Lacerda said. It will be granted, but the ship probably would then be returned to its owners. The liner Vera Cruz, a sister ship of the Santa Maria, decided to bypass Recife on her voyage back to Lisbon from Rio de Janeiro. It was announced the ship, carrying a security guard of Portuguese secret police, will head for Lisbon directly from Salvador, 400 miles down the coast from Recife. Smith-Galvao meeting came 55 miles southeast of Recife and about 35 miles off the Brazilian bulge below this city. The admiral's mission was to arrange release of the passengers, about two score of them Americans, caught up in the seafaring political intrigue. The Navy wanted a landing at Recife so the passengers would not have to undergo a risky transfer at sea. From a U. S. Navy plane I watched Smith's destroyer approach the rendezvous. The Santa Maria was steaming slowly northward at five knots. Both vessels halted their engines when they were a bit more than a quarter mile apart. The decks of the Santa Maria appeared deserted except for a few persons who might have been crew members in the aft section.

THE KARLSRUH CHORALE, shown above, will appear in concert at East Carolina College Thursday, Feb. 2, at 8:15 p.m. in the Wright auditorium. The program is offered as an attraction of the college Entertainment Series. Currently in its second season of touring, the Choral is greeted with both popular and critical acclaim by all who heard its initial tour last season. The vocal ensemble joins Edmond Karlsruh, bass-baritone, in an evening of music designed to please an audience of varied musical tastes. Great masterpieces for male chorus are featured as well as many special arrangements by Charles Touchette, made especially for this group of singers. Each member of the ensemble is a competent professional soloist in his own right, with an extensive professional background. Together they offer the precision and smoothness of a small ensemble, coupled with the capacity for the full, rich sounds found only in the realm of the male chorus.

Kennedy Message Given Acclaim In West Europe

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—President Kennedy's State of the Union message won wide acclaim in newspapers of Western Europe today. It even received a kind of pat on the back in Moscow, where newspapers published up to a half page of excerpts, including Kennedy's outline of areas where U.S. and Soviet interests conflict. No Moscow paper gave any reaction or comment to the speech, but the range of excerpts they published were remarkable. As expected, they included in detail the President's views on the internal U.S. situation, the dollar problem, the recession and school shortages, as well as his appeal to the Soviet Union for scientific cooperation in outer space. But they also included such items not normally found in Soviet papers as Kennedy's declaration that "we must never forget our hopes for the ultimate freedom and welfare of the eastern European peoples" and his declaration that neither the Soviet Union nor Communist China has yielded their ambitions for world domination. AP Chief of Bureau Preston Grover cabled from Moscow that such statements were likely to provoke strong reaction in Soviet circles. In general, the Western press expressed the view that the speech had cleared the international air and might serve to rouse the United States from a long sleep. The London Daily Express headline — "Wake up, Americans!" — was typical. The independent Die Welt of Hamburg, West Germany commented: "The things Americans were told yesterday about their economy, the dollar, unemployment, and lack of scientific education will produce some 'grave head-shaking.' "But they will also be able to breathe with relief. Finally they were told how things stand. And since they are realists, they will shift into faster gear." Rome's independent Il Tempo declared that "under the guidance of the most typical representative of the young generation, the United States has passed from defensive and passive resistance to the offensive." In Paris, the leftist Combat described the speech as a rude awakening for Americans but said Kennedy's aim was to move the country into action "without panic and without fear." Other comment: Some West Berlin newspapers were concerned over Kennedy's omission of any reference to continuing East-West tension in the former German capital city. Britain's conservative Daily Mail compared Kennedy to Sir Winston Churchill because both, the newspaper said, were not afraid to tell the people the truth.

Portrait Exhibit Opens Wednesday

Will known portrait painter George Pearsall Hearne and seven of her adult students will be featured in an exhibit of realistic art, opening at the Greenville Art Center at 10 a.m. Wednesday. Among the portraits being exhibited by Mrs. Hearne are prominent Greenville citizens, as well as a few from out-of-town. Mrs. Hearne is no newcomer to the local art gallery; she has been exhibiting here since the 1930's and was the first local artist to be featured at a one-man show at the Greenville WPA Art Gallery, in 1939. Portraits of Greenville subjects who may be viewed in the new exhibit include "Judge Dink James," "Bee Moss," "W. C. Craven," "Mr. Ficklen Arthur," "Mrs. Gus Forbes, Sr.," "Mrs. Frank Wilson," "Mr. Louis Gaylord, Sr.," "Mrs. Leon Redditt," "Mrs. Myra Ficklen" and "Mr. Herbert Waldrop." Dr. Charles Ashford of New Bern and "Capt. Leon B. Redditt" of Baltimore are also subjects. Students of Mrs. Hearne exhibiting will include Miss Faye Jones, winner of two citations in a national high school exhibition in New York; Mrs. B. B. Subb, Jr.; and Mrs. Herbert White Lee, all of Greenville. From Robersonville, Mrs. Larry Barnhill, Mrs. H. H. Pope, Mrs. B. A. Rogers and Mrs. Reta Boone, also students of Mrs. Hearne, will be featured in the exhibit. Work by the students, like Mrs. Hearne, will be traditional and realistic. Still life is a popular subject.

All Mrs. Hearne's work will be in oils. A professional artist for many years, Mrs. Hearne's chief interest is portrait painting, though she enjoys landscape and still life subjects. She has resided in Greenville since 1926, painting and teaching private art. A native of Red Springs, Mrs. Hearne was graduated from Flora MacDonald College where she studied art. After attending Washington College in Washington, D.C., she studied for two years at the Art Student's League in New York City under Robert Henri, William Chase and Kenneth Hayes Miller. Following a lapse of several years, she studied again at the League, this time with Richard Lahey and Leon Kroll. Mrs. Hearne resides at 310 W. Third St. and maintains a studio in her home. The current exhibit will continue through February 24.

In 1939, and 1940 her work was accepted in the N.C. Artist's Exhibition in Raleigh. Galleries in New York, Norfolk and Charlotte have displayed her landscapes, still lifes and portraits. Her commissioned portraits are located throughout the country—there are five hung at East Carolina College and five at Flora MacDonald College. Former pupils who have become professional artists or art teachers include Miss Lenna Rose, who teaches art in the Winston-Salem public schools, and Joe Stell, who was featured in the recent "Young Artists of Eastern North Carolina" at the Greenville Art Center. Still designs sets and lighting for a theater in New York City. Mrs. Hearne resides at 310 W. Third St. and maintains a studio in her home. The current exhibit will continue through February 24.

Study Course Is Planned By PTA

FALKLAND — A Parent-Teacher Association study course on "Quality Education" is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday at the school building here.

Teachers and Executive Committee members have formulated questions to be answered by the two-day study course.

- Discussed will be the following topics:
1. Homework and the degree of responsibility parents should assume.
 2. Physical condition of the child and how it affects his learning.
 3. Testing and how much emphasis should be placed on key tests.
 4. Special education and how acute is the need.
 5. Helping the child realize his need for education.
 6. Trends in education.

Pitt County supervisors Mrs. Edna E. Baker and Arthur S. Alford will serve the course as moderators. The two sessions will last from 7:30 until 9:30 with a brief intermission at 8:30.

Slight Oversight By The Muralist

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A mural depicting the cabin home of Solomon Juneau, founder of Milwaukee, has been seen by thousands of persons since the work was completed in the Milwaukee Auditorium in 1944. But not until recently did anyone notice that muralist Thorsten Linberg placed the cabin on the west side of the Milwaukee River, instead of the east side where it really was. An amateur historian pointed out the error to officials.

Gets Final Lick At Georgia Quail

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Before heading out to California to play golf, outdoorsman Dwight D. Eisenhower today was getting in some final licks on Georgia's quail population. Except for hunting and bridge partners, Eisenhower continued in virtual seclusion on the Mildstone plantation as guest of his former Treasury secretary, George M. Humphrey. Eisenhower has spent more than a week in Georgia, unwinding the tension of his two terms in the White House. He and Humphrey shot their daily limit of quail Monday, spending nearly seven hours in the field. The former president plans to fly back home to Gettysburg, Pa., Thursday to pick up Mrs. Eisenhower and proceed to California.

Killed On Way To Traffic Court

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—Two high school boys were excused from classes Monday to attend a traffic court hearing. A few hours later one was dead and one hospitalized with critical injuries when their car crashed. Lloyd R. Hogan, 16, died a few hours after the auto went out of control on a curve, hit an embankment and flipped on its top. Don Russell, 16, who police said was the driver, was critically injured. Officers said Russell was to appear in court to answer a charge of making an improper turn. Hogan was to have been a witness. The deepest man has gone in the world's seas is 35,880 feet. This was accomplished in the United States Navy's bathyscap "Trieste."

An Unhappy Precedent Could Result

House Speaker Sam Rayburn's plan to enlarge the House Rules Committee and shift its balance of power brings back memories of the effort of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt to enlarge the U.S. Supreme Court when he found the court declaring many programs of his New Deal unconstitutional.

In the case of Speaker Rayburn and the rules committee, the enlargement of the committee and the change in its balance of power is seen as essential to getting parts of President Kennedy's New Frontier program to the floor of the House.

Although the late President Roosevelt was unsuccessful in getting sufficient backing to change the Supreme Court, it is a foregone conclusion that Speaker Rayburn has sufficient backing in the House to have the Rules Committee changed to his liking.

By adding two liberal Democrats to the committee—presumably committed to backing President Kennedy's program—and one Republican, there would be assurance that proposals by the President would be cleared for House action by the Rules Committee by at least an 8-7 vote.

This admitted stacking of the Rules Committee, however, may set a precedent which in the future will cause considerable trouble in the House. With its unique powers, the Rules Committee can more effectively bottle up legislation than other committees of the House. On the other hand, other committees can also deal devastating blows to legislation which does not find favor with them. If other committees of the House subsequently prove difficult hurdles for parts of the Kennedy program, will they likewise be altered to assure favorable committee action on bills to implement the program?

It is true that the President's program deserves consideration by membership of the House, but it is also true that our democratic government is built upon a system of checks and balances. The committees of the two houses of Congress provide a part of these checks and balances within the legislative branch of government. It would be just as ridiculous, we believe, to set up machinery by which any administration program would receive approval of all House committees as it would be to eliminate these committees which resolve a large volume of the legislative work.

While we can sympathize with Speaker Rayburn's reasons for wanting the control of the Rules Committee in the hands of liberal members of the House, we question the long-range wisdom of adopting what might become a policy of deliberately stacking specific committees of the House to assure predetermined results in consideration of legislation.

Satisfaction Aplenty In Having 'Company'

Editorial writers find some comfort in realization that weather forecasters can also be in error.

We read with some trepidation that Saturday evening and perhaps Sunday would be marked by more sleet and probably snow . . . both of which are unwelcome visitors in this neck of the woods.

The earlier warnings were tempered as the fateful weekend drew nearer, but sleet and snow remained a possible scourge.

Saturday night was nigh cloudless, and Sunday continued fair and bright. Nor was there an ominous look in Monday's skies . . . heartening, you'll agree.

We don't look for an explanation as to how the forecast turned into a boo-boo; there is satisfaction aplenty in that there was no snow.

Editorial writers in assaying the future are blessed with much the same tools weather forecasters utilize: experience, a knowledge of factors involved, an awareness of history and events that preceded and followed so-called turning points.

You might say we and the weatherman are kin, in that when we are right—we are very right—and when we are wrong—we are very wrong (but there are explanations for that, too).

An Old Struggle Begins Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — That ancient struggle between a president and Congress—sometimes allied over, sometimes quietly sullen, sometimes raw and bleeding—began anew Monday.

Like windswept Robert Frost's poem, President Kennedy's tidy inaugural address was the disciplined expression of a spirit which showed itself both human and humane.

Much that he said Kennedy can carry out on his own through the powers of the presidency.

But on the broad meat-and-potatoes level of government there is much he can't do without the help of Congress which must give approval for both spending money and starting programs.

So in his State of the Union message Kennedy had to come face to face for the first time as president with a Congress where he himself served 14 years.

Because he knows it well he knows the endless struggle to get action on what he wants. Congress can be led easily only in moments of frightening emergency, like war or depression.

Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower could bear witness to this.

True, Congress is run by Kennedy's own Democrats because they outnumber the Republicans. But the real control is in the hands of the conservatives of both parties, as it has been for years.

Their policy is to move slowly, if at all. Eisenhower learned that. But he was a conservative, too, and it is one reason he and Congress got along so well. Kennedy, despite his talk of new frontiers, may turn out to be no boat-rocker, either. He indicated at his news conference last week he intends to keep hands off the inner workings of Congress. This may be taken to mean he will avoid interfering publicly.

But he also knows that unless he and his team pull the strings behind the scenes his programs will die in the cradle.

Since the war this country has gone through two phases. It is not clear yet whether the years ahead will be a third one or a continuation of an old one.

The first was the postwar Truman phase which lasted eight

The Public Forum

TO THE EDITOR:

After reading and hearing about the recent open meeting, I had received the impression that those who favored urban renewal were against motherhood and the American flag. In the calm that followed the storm, I believe we are looking at this problem with less emotionalism and more objectivity. Local governments have in the past accepted federal aid for such worthy projects as hospitals, highways, conservation, and educational projects. I dare say, we here in Greenville are very proud of some of the results.

Let us all as citizens resolve to inform ourselves about urban renewal. Let us forget our individual interests; take pride in our city, and work always to improve it.

Sincerely,
Patricia Adams

Strength For Today

EASIER TO DO RIGHT

The way of the transgressor is hard.

Hard first of all on the transgressor himself. No one works harder, or sacrifices more, or takes more risks than does the criminal in pursuit of ill-gotten gains. Half of this energy and intensity expended on the fulfilling of an honest job would result in a satisfactory income for life, and peace of mind as well. The way of the transgressor is hard, but it is the transgressor himself who makes it so.

Even worse than the suffering which evil brings upon the evil doer is the suffering it brings upon innocent persons. Almost every day the newspapers report that a drunken driver has killed someone. Hundreds of brave police officers are killed each year as criminals murder, usually in connection with other crimes.

But we all have enough evil within us and practice enough evil continually, that we know—or ought to know—the futility of such procedure and the excessive cost involved. Jealousy is certainly a sin. The Bible describes it as a vehement flame. Envy can eat out the last vestige of one's happiness. Unbridled anger often involves highly respectable people in sordid crime. The man who is cheating in his bookkeeping and betting his stolen dollars on a horse race worries more over his speculations than he can ever rejoice over the winning of a huge bet.

Righteousness leads men into ways of peace. Evil leads them in the ways of suffering—hard, hard, hard.

Some Speculative Notes

We noticed a peculiar fish at a certain restaurant recently—swimming in an aquarium, that is.

At first, the fish appeared to be dead. Then "it" began to move around a wheel, which was moving in a circle. Then it settled down again, as if quite weak. In the first place, we thought it was a peculiar looking fish, and in the second place, we wondered if the fish was really ailing, or had it learned to perform for people?

It might be dangerous for us to discuss animals, which seem to have become a rather delicate matter for the press of late. Or so with the royal family of England. Such as the tiger hunt, during which Prince Philip shot and killed, to wit, one authentic tiger.

Like somebody said, what if the tiger had been stalking the royal family and it, instead, had been harmed? And since when was killing wild game such a torrid subject? For sport, that is.

What about people who catch fish for sport?

That seems to be among the "conversation" pieces lately. There is another, which crops up at intervals: Premium stamps. (There are several types of these stamps, of course.)

One person we know keeps saving for a particular item in the catalogues but each time he reaches his goal, the quota of requirements goes up. No telling how long this has been going on, but he is still doggedly determined to acquire this item via the stamps.

(And we certainly wish him good luck.)

Another subject which pops up ever so often is books.

We noticed that Prof. Davenport of the Epes High School spearheaded a drive in Greenville to raise this community's portion towards a second bookmobile. Instead of raising the quota of $1,800, Professor Davenport went beyond that for $2,400.

The course of history moves through the same devious channels century after century, civilization after civilization.

Personalities result in addition to the famous names of written records, leaders appear at different spots on the face of the globe, tyranny changes geographical borders, undeveloped lands open new horizons for exploration and exploitation.

But throughout it all the same forces which plagued the simple society of the caveman and the classical cultures of Athens and Rome still roam the earth in search of the next victim.

Plato was one of the philosophers whose wisdom has extended through the ages. He was one of the gifted men who are able to look at human behavior from the aloofness of objectivity. He saw not personalities, but the natural human reaction to given amounts of ignorance, freedom, tyranny, reward, moral fiber and opportunity. Change one of these factors slightly, and the course of society is altered.

From an excellent vantage point in one of the more famous, if cruel and oppressive, civilizations built by men, Plato wrote particularly well of the creation of a dictator. He knew every social gear, every greedy pulley, each rung of self-claim which went into the construction of a tyrant and he recognized the pattern as one suitable to every endeavor, every society and all levels of sophistication.

"The people's champion," wrote the Greek student of men, finding himself in full control of the mob, may not scruple to shed his brother's blood; dragging him before a tribunal with the usual charges, he may foully murder him, blotting out a man's life."

One of the first requirements of a successful tyrant, Plato's writings reveal, is the creation of a tremendous bodyguard, for one of his first reactions to victory is a feeling of insecurity. Next, he "makes large promises to the public, sets about the reber of debtors and the distribution of land to the people and to his supporters."

Finally, having defaulted on his promises and honor, he resorts to creating one crisis after another in an attempt to keep the minds of his subjects off his own shortcomings. His last step of desperation before rejection is to turn to a foreign power for solace and aid. Whether his bid is accepted or ignored, his popularity is then in its desecency.

There are modern examples cut from Plato's pattern in varying stages of the evolution of a tyrant. It is comforting to those who must share the same short period of time with them to know their demise is as certain as the setting sun.

Like A Stone Thrown In A Pond

By ELMER ROESSNER

The new Teamsters Union contract going into effect in 13 Midwestern states on Wednesday will have effects similar to those of a heavy stone thrown in a very large pond.

The new contract provides that 200,000 employees of 7,000 trucking companies will get wage and benefit increases of 42 cents an hour over the next three years. Of this, 28 cents will be in cash and 14 cents in benefits.

The first effect will be to make this the standard minimum of all teamster contracts negotiated this year.

The Midwest contract covers teamsters employed in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Ohio, Wisconsin and Kentucky.

The contract will serve as a model in negotiations in New England, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Upstate New York, Pittsburgh and on the West Coast, where contracts come up for renewal within the next four months. A three-year contract covering metropolitan New York signed last September provides for only a 28-cent increase, but the total went in to effect immediately.

Later in the year, the terms will become minimum demands for contracts in other sections of the country.

The 42-cent increase is actually not the maximum, since many trucking operations must be carried on at overtime rates, double-time rates and under some conditions, at double-double-time rates.

The second effect of the new contract will be to increase truckers' rates in the Midwest and, as new agreements go into effect, in other areas. New York rates are already being pushed up and are expected to go higher.

The third effect will be to bring about increases in prices of a large part of the price of almost all products. The cost of

Opinions In Brief

Gold In Our Future

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

What President Kennedy said at his first press conference about gold is correct but should he have said it? It would seem to me that a statement on gold should be sudden, without warning so that the speculators have no impetus to drive up the price. Much of our troubles arise from the speculative activities on the London market.

The United States purchases gold at $35 an ounce. The price Friday on the London market was $35.43 an ounce. The speculative price is as high as over $40 an ounce.

Gold these days is mined principally in South Africa and Soviet Russia. There is small mining in the United States, Canada and elsewhere but these account for so little that they need not enter into any calculation. The South African gold is extremely important and the American companies interested in the mineral have made huge investments in South African mines. However, as the speculative price of gold is higher than the American price, little, if any, of the South African product has, in recent months, come to this country. It is consumed mostly by European banks and individuals. Also, the Japanese have been buying gold.

The United States needs gold to provide a 25 per cent coverage for its currency. It has recently been losing gold too rapidly and in too great quantities for economic safety. There are, of course, those who do not believe in a gold basis for money and who do believe in fiat money despite the frightful experience of other countries with inflationary procedures. One cannot argue with such persons because they refuse to recognize what has been true since ancient Egypt and Babylon that the human race traditionally and historically recognizes money as good when backed by gold and inadequate when not backed by gold.

In the United States, there has often been some opposition to gold. Probably the most effective of the anti-gold movements was the Populist Party which developed in the Middle West in opposition to Wall Street. The principal proponent of Populism was William Jennings Bryan, who ran on the Democratic ticket for President three times and was defeated. He wanted the ratio of silver to gold to be 16 to one and his effort was popularly called "The Free Silver Movement." The Western farmer wanted what he called cheap money to move his crops, but cheap money could not have developed American industry which was borrowing money all over the world to get going. In 1890, a new process was developed for the processing of gold which made the mineral more accessible. Between the Administrations of William McKinley and Franklin D. Roosevelt, the United States remained on the gold standard and American money was sound and hard. Franklin D. Roosevelt went off the gold standard and the Supreme Court upheld him in the Gold Repeal Joint Resolution decision.

Nevertheless, the United States developed into the largest possessor of gold, holding a hoard of $24,500,000,000 at one time. This has now deteriorated into about $17,000,000,000 which is inadequate. The problem is to restore the American gold hoard to at least $18,000,000,000 to protect the dollar, to bring back to the United States about $20,000,000,000 of "hot money"—money out of circulation now resting in many parts of the world and to restore respect for our currency universally. This will not be achieved by a Task Force of a lot of professors who do not understand the operations of money markets. One such professor wrote me that nobody needs actual currency to move money from the United States to some other country because letters of credit and such devices move money, but the professor apparently did not understand the nature of "hot money," of untaxed money, of bootleggers and heroin dealers who apparently do not understand the nature of the tax heavens and what they do to American currency.

These are matters that the President must deal with if our gold is to be recaptured or if

Peiping Offers Big Sugar Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — In what may be the start of a new Red Chinese trade offensive in Southeast Asia, Peiping quietly has offered to sell 30,000 tons of Cuban sugar to Burma at an undisclosed price.

U.S. officials, reporting this today, said Red China also has shipped more than 100,000 tons of rice to Cuba, 15,000 tons of rice to Guinea in North Africa and the equivalent of more than $20 million in foodstuffs, mainly rice, to Ceylon.

Thus, China would be exporting food although it has reported its harvests have been struck by the greatest natural calamities in a century.

U.S. experts closely following Chinese Communist affairs say that, so far, there has been no evidence of mass famine on the Chinese mainland although there are signs of localized scarcities, particularly in South China.

In offering sugar to Burma, it was noted here that Communist China was moving into competition with both Indonesia and the Philippines.

Last year Communist China agreed to take 1 million tons of sugar from Cuba. Trade sources suspected that it would not be long before some of this sugar was dumped on the world market.

New NASA Chief Said Able And Dynamic; Organizer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — James Webb, the new chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, is an attorney with a penchant for planning and organization.

He goes at it with a pace that is breathtaking. "Very able and very dynamic," says Dean McGee, president of Kerr-McGee Oil Industries, Inc., of his former assistant.

Webb, 54, a native of Granville County, North Carolina, joined Kerr-McGee as a director and assistant to the president in 1958.

He has been responsible for planning and organization inside the firm which has holdings in oil and uranium.

Sen. Robert Kerr, D-Okla., is a partner in the Kerr-McGee firm and chairman of the Senate Space Committee.

Webb's activities outside Kerr-McGee have reflected what McGee terms "a real zeal for training people for public service."

Webb was an organizer and trustee of the Frontiers of Science Foundation of Oklahoma—an organization to promote scientific study and research.

Since he moved to Washington a year ago, Webb has served as president of Educational Services Inc., of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. This organization promotes the study of physics.

As if these tasks wouldn't tie a man down, Webb has served as a director of the McDonnell Aircraft Co. of St. Louis and as a member of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's foreign aid advisory committee.

Webb claims no "great experience in the space field," but his experience in government began after graduation from the University of North Carolina.

He served as a Marine Corps aviator in the early 1930s and then as secretary to North Carolina Congressman Edward Pou.

After eight years as an official with the Sperry Gyroscope Co., he returned to Washington as executive assistant to the undersecretary of the Treasury.

Former President Harry S. Truman promoted Webb to be his budget director in 1946, and Webb wound up his tour with the Truman administration as an undersecretary of state.

Webb, a Presbyterian, is married to the former Patsy Douglas. They have two children, Sarah and James.

Soviets Allowed To Send Divers

LONDON (AP)—The Admiralty gave the Soviets the go-ahead Monday to send divers down to a trawler lost with its crew of 20 in a storm three days ago off the Shetland Islands.

A naval spokesman denied a report published in a London newspaper that the Admiralty would send frogmen down to check the trawler's radar as a possible spy ship in the Soviet fishing fleets.

Rayburn - Smith Struggle For Power Gripping House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Still hardly believing it, the House of Representatives set itself today to watch an open power struggle between Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., and Rep. Howard W. Smith, R-Va.

The clash of wills between "Mr. Sam," "79," and "The Judge," two days short of 78, has been in the making for weeks. The success of President Kennedy's legislative program may be deeply involved with Rayburn's success in efforts to enlarge the Rules Committee that Smith heads. A victory for Rayburn would break the hold of a Republican-Southern Democrat coalition on the committee. Knowing all this, the seniority-loving House still wasn't prepared psychologically for a showdown certain to leave one or the other of its self-spoken elders badly bruised. Both the principals have a marked preference for matters arranged quietly in leisurely private talks.

True to form, Rayburn and Smith negotiated through intermediaries right up to the eleventh hour.

Rayburn has been in the House 47 years, Smith 30. Even yielding 17 years, Smith ranks among the dozen seniors of the House.

Rayburn has the enormous prestige of the speakership. Before his present term is over he will have served as speaker twice as long as any other man. His nearest rival was Henry Clay.

Smith is the acknowledged leader of the Southern conservative Democrats in the House and has done as much as any man to give that outnumbered group an influence in national affairs.

Smith is a banker, lawyer, former judge. He lives in a 160-year-old house and represents a slice of Virginia's aristocratic hunt country. President Kennedy has leased an estate in Smith's congressional district, near Middleburg.

Smith glories in the label of conservative and makes no bones about using his chairmanship to fight legislation of which he disapproves — "My people did not send me to Congress to be a traffic cop."

Rayburn, son of a Confederate cavalryman, raises beef cattle on a modest Texas spread near Bonham. Smith has dairy herds on his Virginia farm.

Rayburn helped Franklin D. Roosevelt pass some of the New Deal's legislation, especially bills creating regulatory agencies. Smith was one of the lawmakers Roosevelt tried, unsuccessfully, to defeat.

Oscar Fever Seen In Hollywood's Actions

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Strange things are happening in Hollywood at this time of year.

The studios are giving away free movie tickets. Months-old movies are turning up in first-run theaters. Stars considered unapproachable are out cutting ribbons and doing anything to get themselves in print.

The cause for this strange behavior? Oscar fever, which infects the community every year at this time.

Ballots for the major Academy awards will be mailed to voters this week. That means the fever will be reaching its primary, or nomination, stage. The peak will come in March, when final balloting takes place.

These are times that gladden the hearts of all trade paper ad salesmen. Every morning when readers open the daily Variety or Hollywood Reporter, they are greeted with little reminders—at approximately $300 a page.

There is Alfred Hitchcock's pudgy figure reminding folks not to forget "Psycho." Academy members are urged to call up for free tickets to "Spartacus." There is Shirley Jones in a slip to recall her work as Lulu in "Elmer Gantry."

"Oscar-wise ..." begins the daily ad for "The Apartment." Read what the critics said about Greer Garson in "Sunrise at Campobello." Here are two pages with 100 quotes about "The Alamo." And don't forget Milton Berle in "Let's Make Love."

This cannonading continues for weeks, with a vast expenditure. Estimates of an Academy campaign for a single picture range from $10,000 to $35,000.

How is an Oscar campaign run? The obvious devices are the trade paper ads. Other means:

1. Secure a list of Academy members — the academy won't give it out, but lists are bootlegged. Invite them to special screenings.

2. Arrange for a picture to be reshown at a local theater.

3. Place posters around the studio to remind loyal employees.

4. Keep the stars in the public eye via press and TV.

Why all the effort and expense to court Oscar? Much of it is to save egos. But hard economics figure in the campaigns, too. A rule of thumb says that an Academy Award can increase a film's earnings from a half-million to a million, according to films.

May Have Cut Spy Drama To Avoid Soviet Friction

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' abrupt cancellation of Circle Theatre's "The Spy Next Door," the fiction-based-on-fact drama originally scheduled for Wednesday night, may relate to an incident which took place almost two and one-half years ago.

On Sept. 25, 1958, CBS' Playhouse 90 presented a drama called "The Plot to Kill Stalin." In it, a character named Khrushchev was giving preventing an aide from saving the ailing Soviet premier medicine needed to save his life.

A few days later, Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov called a Washington news conference at which he announced he had lodged an official protest about the show and called the program "a filthy slander." He also said that he expected the U.S. government to take steps to prevent such "anti-Soviet" attacks.

The cancelled Circle Theatre program written by Jerry Ross, was proclaimed to be frankly fiction, but based on cases of Soviet espionage uncovered in this country. With a modest improvement in the climate surrounding U.S. Soviet relationships, evidenced by release of the Rosenberg files, it would not be surprising if CBS took the drastic step to avoid any possible diplomatic repercussions now.

However, the situation highlights another one of those insoluble headaches brought about by the very popularity of television: a fast-growing shortage of potential villains.

During the last war, motion pictures and radio (TV was not in the picture then) were able to go all out making our enemies, German and Japan, the black hats in their espionage and adventure stories, and nobody minded how dark they were painted. However, in the delicate cold-war situation, it apparently is unwise to point a dramatic finger directly at a real nation. Maybe the writers will have to call it Country X. And there's always Ruritania.

CBS will soon face another delicate situation. On Feb. 18, its Show of the Month will present a live dramatization called "The Lincoln Murder Case," based on a book called "Web of Conspiracy" by Theodore Roscoe. The treatment strongly intimates that a member of Lincoln's Cabinet was either part of a plot to slay the Civil War president or knew about it but did nothing to stop it. And it names names.

Life Term, Plus 643 Years Given

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A carpenter's helper faces a life term, plus 643 years in prison, after pleading guilty to 13 charges resulting from a summer crime spree.

James Edward Hill, 19, pleaded guilty Monday to crimes ranging from rape to theft of clothes and was sentenced to 641 years plus life. Friday he pleaded guilty to carrying a pistol and threatening a policeman and got two one-year sentences.

Hill dressed as a woman when he committed the crimes, he said. Hill was arrested Sept. 7 after he was wounded in a gun fight with police. He was dressed in a cocktail dress, high heels and beige gloves at the time.

District Judge Ed Duggan sentenced the ex-convict to six 99-year terms for two rapes, a robbery and three burglaries. He got a life term for another rape, 12 years for burglary and two 10-year terms for car theft and theft of clothes.

Duggan ruled that all except the life term can be served at the same time, so under Texas law Hill could be eligible for parole in about 16 years.

Five Children Died In Blaze

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Five children died in a blaze that began after one of them decided to build a fire in an unused heater.

That was the conclusion drawn by firemen Monday night after the bodies of the Negro children were found in the shell of their three-room dwelling.

Chief fire inspector R. C. Talley said Fred T. Gilmore, 35, a construction laborer, and Norma Jean Jones, 26, said they were parents of the children. They identified the victims as Fred T. Jones, 6; Roosevelt Jones, 4; Michael Jones 3; Preswood Edward Jones, 1 and Norma Jean Jones, 5 months.

Both parents were away from home when the blaze occurred.

Raised $25,413 In Big Telethon

WASHINGTON, N.C. — The 19-hour Telethon aired over TV station WTTN here, Saturday and Sunday, netted $25,413.89 in contributions to the New March of Dimes.

With 25 Eastern counties participating, Onslow led the field with contributions of $3,850.58. Craven and Beaufort followed in that order. Pitt County contributions totaled $1,087.79.

The 43-member station staff was augmented by approximately 150 volunteers who racked up an estimated 1,000 hours working as announcers, cameramen, directors, waitresses, hostesses, telephone operators, tabulators, errand-runners and all-around handymen. Many stayed on the job throughout the 19-hour stretch.

Jack McGee, State Representative of the National Foundation, was high in his praise of the many groups who made the telethon a success.

Captain Ed Schultz of the Cherry Point Marine Station, Captain John Lapard of the Camp Lejeune Marines, and Captain Jerald Holland of the Seymour-Johnson Air Station, were responsible for the personnel from their respective stations who were before and behind the cameras throughout the project.

Foot Policemen To Have Radios

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's capital plans to equip some of its foot policemen with two-way radios.

Bids will be asked on 10 or more sets. The equipment will consist of two small units to be attached to a patrolman's belt and weighing no more than two pounds. Congress has appropriated $11,300 for the experiment.

new gold is to be brought in. To announce a fixed date when the problem will be dealt with is to stimulate speculation, to raise the price of gold in the London market which means that more gold will seep out of the United States. The best way to handle a sensitive commodity like gold is to be absolutely silent about it — but absolutely.

Bill Otte Leads Bucs To 72-70 Victory And Second Place In NS

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina struck Appalachian with an offensive blitz, bottled up two of the North State Conference's top scorers, and moved into a second-place tie with a 72-70 spine-tingling win here last night.

The Bucs, with height working in their favor, survived the rough work under the boards in the early minutes and made rebounding pay off like the New York blue chip stock in turning back the visiting Mountaineers.

It was 12:48 left in the first half when Charlie Lewis sank a free throw putting the Pirates ahead for the first time, 15-14.

However, if the Bucs were looking for a late Christmas present they were sniffing in the wrong hornet's nest. Appalachian, with some brilliant outside shooting by Don King and Harold Oetting, zoomed ahead 25-19—the biggest lead in the first half.

Working with some stop-the-guns defensive tactics, East Carolina started its offensive to rolling and Charlie Lewis tied the game at 27-27 on a fast-break snowbird.

Lewis pumped in an outside jump shot with 5:16 showing and it was 29-27 East Carolina.

After swapping baskets for the next four minutes, Don Smith, senior forward, hit on three quick jump shots and Bill Otte added a two-pointer to enable EC to retire with a 43-38 bulge at halftime.

All in all, fans were on the edge of their seats during the first 20 minutes with the score being tied a total of 12 times.

East Carolina's biggest lead of the night came after the second half tip when Otte hit a jump shot making it 45-38.

The Apps, playing with Don King on the bench due to foul trouble, scored seven quick points and it was 45-41.

The lead was tied three more times—at 47-47, 49-49, and 51-51—before field goals by Otte and Cotton Clayton made it 55-51 with 12:34 left to play.

About as sharp as a tack offensively, Appalachian was able to cut the gap to one point several times but could never knot it again or move ahead.

It was 61-60 with 7:03 left and the free throws by Lonnie Thomas made it 65-64 with 5:18 showing.

A steal by Oetting and a driving lay-up by Thomas left the scoreboard with a bright 71-70 with 1:42 left.

In the last minute Bill Otte, the freshman center, was fouled twice and made good on the final shot for EC's final point.

The Apps, who lost Saturday night in overtime to Belmont Abbey, had three chances to go ahead but failed each time. A final shot by Rick Howe hit the rim and bounced high into the air as the buzzer sounded.

Big Bill Otte was like a wild animal under the boards and took charge at both ends. His splendid rebound work along with some keen outside shooting stood out in the victory.

Otte, looking better each game, scored 23 points for high honors for East Carolina.

East Carolina used a specially-designed defense in hopes of stopping the Apps one-two punch of Rick Howe and Don King.

Clayton and Lewis stuck with Howe and King man-for-man while the other three Pirate starters stifled the Apps with a skin-tight zone.

King, hitting most of his shots from 20-30 feet out, rang up 18 points in the defeat. Howe was stopped with six.

The victory left both teams with a 9-3 conference record, second to Lenoir Rhyne. The Apps, topped in three of their last five games, meet Atlantic Christian tonight and run into Lenoir Rhyne Saturday night in Hickory.

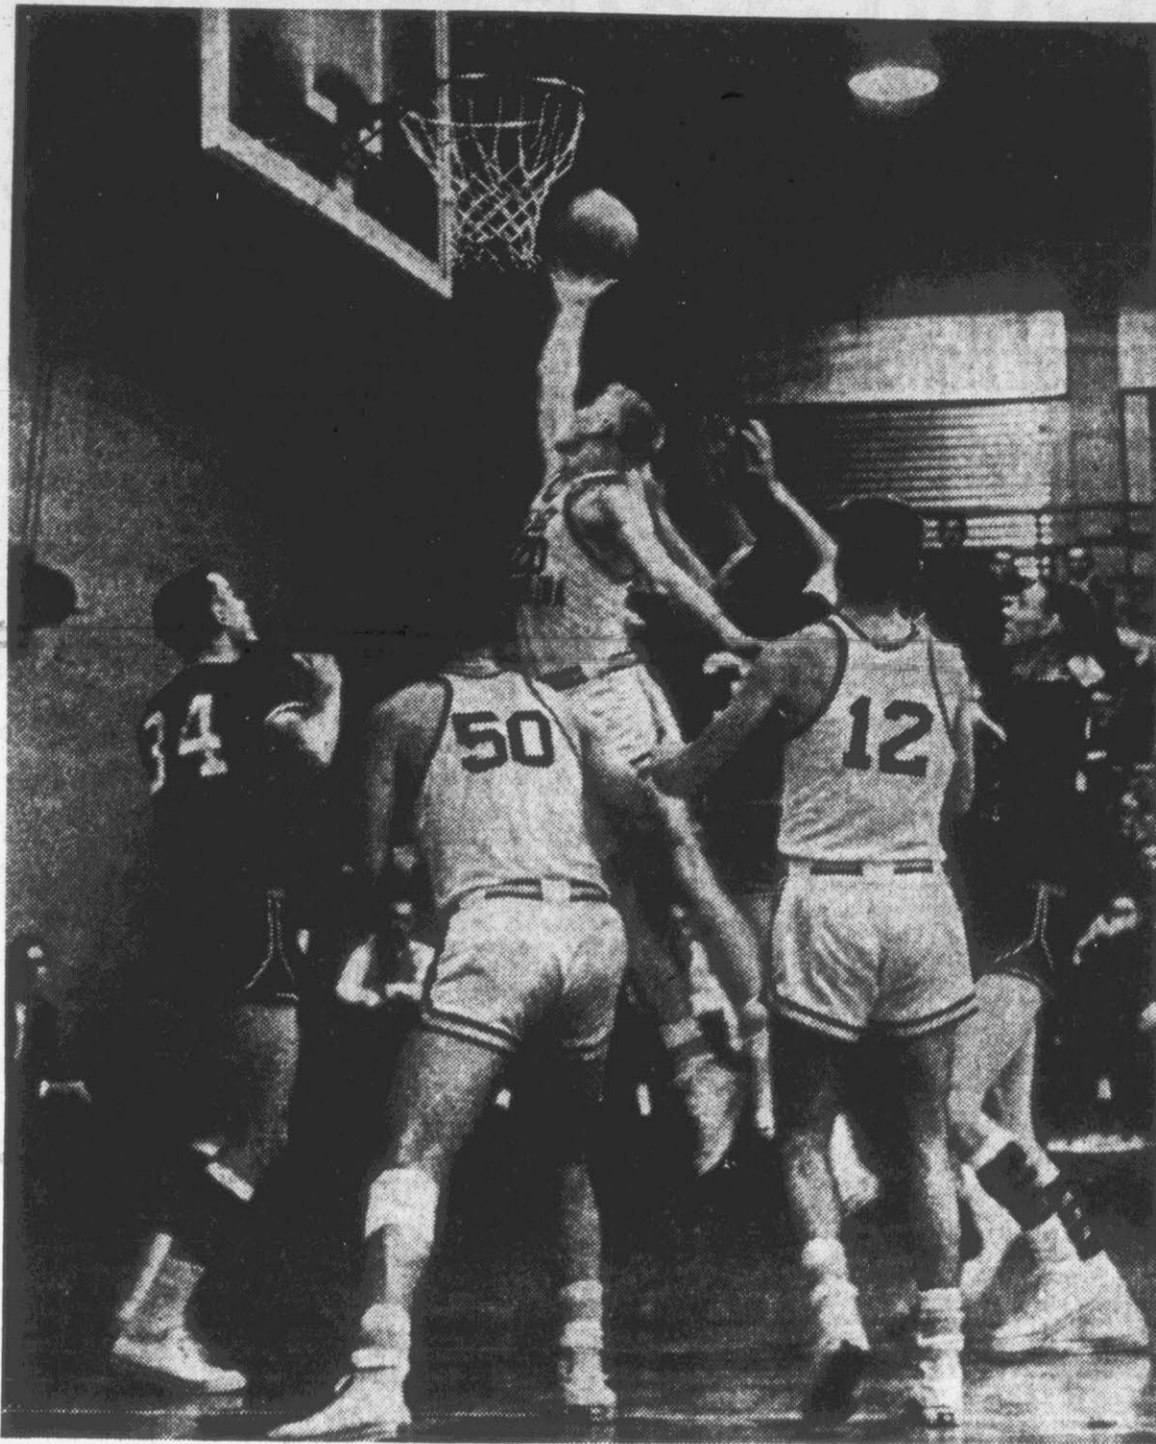

East Carolina is idle until Friday when it meets Atlantic Christian in Memorial Gymnasium.

In other North State action last night, Lenoir Rhyne overcame lowly Guilford, 108-82, and Elon bested Pfeiffer 63-62. Emil Dixon, with 27 points, led the Lenoir Rhyne victory and Ken Smith, with 22, was high for the winning Christians.

Three League Games Head Pitt County Slate Tonight

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor

Pitt County, coated with snow this past weekend, was in no mood to nurse high school travelers from one school to another.

Thus, basketball action within the county was at a standstill, with five games being postponed.

Tonight, action starts rocking-and-rolling again with six games on tap, three being conference affairs.

Considering the fustest and bestest first it looks like a walk-away for Bethel in a meeting with Grimesland. The Indians, walking a straight line toward an undefeated season, bombed Coach Sam Reece's club with a 64-47 setback last Tuesday and the Bulldogs, pulling an Houdini act over a neighborhood of Hardees—Carlton, Curtis, Linsey, and Lewis. Of the four Linsey is the potent one and ranks with the best in the conference.

Chicod and Ayden, still hot under the collar from their last Tuesday night down-to-the-wire meeting, match talent again, this time in Ayden.

Ayden won Tuesday's match by a 70-66 and the two teams go into the contest tied for fourth place. The Tornadoes bank on the rebound power of William Edwards, Ted Norris, and Clem McGlohan as their biggest asset.

Chicod, with high-scoring Ray Fornes, likes to rely on balance in each department. With no exceptional height in its lineup, Coach Bob Howell's crew has been able to scrap for some unexpected victories.

Stokes-Pactolus almost saw its losing string broken last week, losing a one-pointer to Farmville. Tonight, the Blue Jays get another shot at breaking the string and who could be the victim? That's right, Farmville.

With J. Y. Monk nursing a football injury, Farmville is only a so-so club. With him at full strength, the Red Devils have proven themselves hard to deal with.

In non-county tussles, Belvoir-Falkland is host to Bath and Winterville entertains Beargrass. Grifton, second place in the boys division, hits the road for a short jaunt to Vanceboro.

With action resuming and only five more playing dates, excluding tonight and postponed games, Winterville finds itself as the hottest club in the league.

The Wolves have disposed of four straight conference opponents, bouncing to third place with a 7-4 tally sheet.

Gubner May Be Next Shot Champ

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary Gubner, a 255-pound 18-year-old New York University freshman, may be the next of America's wonder weightmen to throw the shot 60 feet.

Gubner, facing his second major indoor test of the season, threw the 16-pound iron ball 58 feet, 4 inches at the Boston AA games last week.

No freshman ever had equaled the performance with the single exception of Southern California's Dallas Long.

Gubner isn't bragging about something he hasn't achieved yet but he has set his sights on a 60-plus toss to join the select company of Parry O'Brien, Long, Dave Davis, Ken Bantum and Co.

Palmer Hopes To Open Campaign

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, who launched his great 1960 campaign here, leads a small army of golfers Wednesday into the 90-hole, $50,000 Palm Springs Classic.

A picked field of 128 professionals, each accompanied by three amateurs, for a total of 512 players, spreads out over the vast desert country on four courses for the first four rounds. The final round of the second annual classic will be played Sunday on a fifth course.

Bermuda Dunes, Indian Wells, Thunderbird and Eldorado are the sites of the first four rounds of pro-amateur competition. Tamarrisk Country Club, the official headquarters of the tournament, is the setting for the windup with the low 60 professionals competing.

Last year Palmer won the five-round classic and $12,000. He had scores of 67-73-67-66 and wound up with a six-under-par 65 for a total score of 338.

Second at 341 was Fred Hawkins and veteran Johnny Palmer, no relation to Arnold. Bob Goalby tied for third at 342.

Palmer went on to win almost everything in sight, including the United States Open, the Masters and more than $80,000.

Much the same cast of stars of tournament golf is here again. Invited were the winners of the 1961 tournament swing thus far in California — Goalby at Los Angeles, Bob Rosburg at the Bing Crosby Tournament, Gary Player at San Francisco Sunday and Arnold Palmer at San Diego.

Bass Still Debating Over Choice Of Pro Grid Team

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor
Glenn Bass, the footballer that made his name at East Carolina College, could probably be induced to cast his lot with most any pro team just for the sake of playing. He loves it that much.

Yet, the soft-spoken Wilson native, who still looks the part of a college sophomore, is preparing to enter the pay-for-play ranks with a business-like attitude.

Faced with a choice of matriculating to the West Coast and the Los Angeles Chargers of the fledgling American Football League or staying closer at home with the St. Louis Cardinals of the well-established National League, Glenn is weighing the offers with deep consideration. "I just want to play football," says Glenn of his future association with the "big boys." But, as he explains, it will be a career for some time and his final decision may rest on which side of the fence the grass is greener.

Besides Los Angeles and St. Louis, Bass has been courted by representatives of the Canadian League. But, without surprise, Glenn is strictly an American and the native soil will be where he exhibits his football skills.

Two brief years of college stardom carries Bass into the pro ranks with high recommendations. His 800 plus yards rushing Conference and last season, ending in 1959 led the North State despite an injury, he helped pace ECC to a 7-3 record—its best since 1953.

For the past two seasons, Glenn was on the All-Conference list and only an injury his final year deprived him of All-American.

The pros kept an eye on his lightning speed during the past fall but it was a post-season game in Tucson, Arizona that brought the bird dogs rushing to acquire his skills.

Playing for the small college All-Americans against the larger colleges' honor roll, Bass was named the "Outstanding Back." He was an offensive starter but after the first quarter played both ways, missing only one offensive play.

His merits for the game went something like this: (1) caught five passes for 65 yards, (2) returned a kick-off 66 yards, (3) on eight carries picked up 40 of the total 70 yards rushing for the small college stars, and (4) intercepted two passes.

At the present time, Glenn has a verbal agreement with St. Louis. The Cards, hoping to come up with some young blood to revive their stock, feel the fleet Bass might be an asset in playing opposite standout Sonny Randall.

"They've been real nice to me," says Bass of both LA and St. Louis. "Since James (Speight) has signed with Baltimore, it would be nice to be playing against him in the National League." Bass and Speight were halfback partners in the 1959 East Carolina eleven.

The way things stack up right now, LA has produced the best offer by a couple of grand. Additional word from St. Louis is expected in the next two weeks.

Regardless of the team Bass selects, it will be summer before the actual inking of the pact takes place. Glenn has another year of baseball eligibility remaining and he plans to fulfill it.

He is a shortstop for Coach Jim Mallory's North State diamond champs.

Kentucky, Indiana, And Louisville Fall

Ohio State Is Still Rocking Along

By HUGH-FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

College basketball coaches usually can come up with ways and means of stopping one big star, but what are you going to do about a whole team of them? That's the dilemma faced by Ohio State's rivals. Chances are they could devise a defense to stop tall Jerry Lucas, just as Minnesota stalled Indiana's big Walt Bellamy Monday night. But, that still would leave four teammates, plus some subs, to be accounted for.

While Indiana, Kentucky and Louisville, all highly regarded teams, were going down, Lucas and his Buckeye teammates went rocking along to their 15th victory of the season and their 20th straight over a two-year span. Wisconsin was the victim, 100-68.

The measure of Ohio State's all-around skill was reflected in a 50.7 per cent shooting average for the team—39 field goals on 77 attempts. Lucas made 19 points, Larry Siegfried 18, John Havlicek 15 and Mel Nowell 14. Even when Ohio Coach Fred Taylor benched his regulars late in the first half and again with nine minutes to go in the second Wisconsin could not gain.

Lucas was stopped just short of a Big Ten record when he missed a free throw after hitting 27 at 53-31 managed to take the lead at 53-31.

Jerry's 1960 Olympic teammate, Bellamy, didn't get the same kind of help as Minnesota. Wisconsin was the victim, 100-68. The measure of Ohio State's all-around skill was reflected in a 50.7 per cent shooting average for the team—39 field goals on 77 at-the ball to him often enough on offense and he scored only 15 points.

Minnesota's aggressive play under the boards probably was the deciding factor. Two sophomores, Tom McGrann and Jay Kessler, with Dick Erickson simply out-fought the Indiana players for the rebound in the second half and the Gophers, after taking the lead at 53-31 managed to take the lead at 53-31.

Ohio State was left as the only Big Ten team unbeaten in conference play while Indiana slipped to 2-1 in the standing.

Illinois, a Big Ten team that follows the theory of trying to out-run and outshoot the opposition, chalked up its second conference victory 93-92 over Michigan State on Bill Small's basket with 21 seconds to go.

Miami of Florida checked Louisville, ranked seventh nationally in the current poll, 71-69 in a thriller, coming from nine points behind to win on Bruce Applegate last-minute shot. Georgia Tech upset Kentucky 62-60 and Kansas State gained a tie with Kansas for the Big Eight Conference lead with a 72-70 decision over Iowa State.

Georgia Tech's Roger Kaiser put on a tremendous one-man show as he led the Engineers to their first conference victory and virtually wrecked Kentucky's hope of winning the SEC title. Held to one field goal in the first half, Kaiser scored 18 points in the second half and capped the climax with a leaping one-hand shot for the winning basket.

Kansas State, ranked No. 10 nationally, also gained a last-gasp decision, winning on Al Peithman's 25-foot jump shot with 28 seconds to go. The only other top ten team in action Monday night, St. John's (N.Y.) had to come from far back early in the game but gained an 84-75 decision over Creighton without too much difficulty.

In other major conference games, Florida won its fifth straight in the Southeastern—a record for the school—by beating Alabama 52-50; West Virginia won down Furman in a high-scoring Southern Conference affair to gain a 96-87 decision and Richmond trimmed Davidson 83-78 in another Southern Conference game.

Great Honor To Manage Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "Anytime a person is connected with a baseball club so highly recognized it is a truly great honor."

Manager Danny Murtaugh made that comment Monday night upon learning his Pittsburgh Pirates had been named the Team of the Year for 1960 by sports writers and broadcasters participating in the annual Associated Press year-end poll.

The Pirates, who won the National League pennant and then defeated the New York Yankees in the World Series, received 239 points in the voting. The Philadelphia Eagles, National Football League champions, placed second with 130 points. The U.S. Olympic hockey team was third with 91 points.

Murtaugh, the National League Manager of the Year, said he was thrilled at the Pirates' latest honor and added: "If I had voted, I would have had to cast my ballot for the Pirates, also."

Murtaugh said the reason for his vote would have been the late-inning rallies the Pirates staged to win many games which established them as a "truly remarkable ball club."

The smiling Irishman, who lives in Chester, Pa., near Philadelphia, said he was happy about the Eagles' finishing second and also noted their come-from-behind finishes during the past season.

"I'm an Eagle fan," Murtaugh said. "It is amazing how the Eagles were to football what we were to baseball. It is quite an honor for Pennsylvania to be represented by two teams such as the Eagles and the Pirates."

Asked if he presently held any ideas concerning future honors for himself and the Pirates, Murtaugh replied: "Right now I'm just thinking about getting ready for next season."

Other teams which had more than 20 points were, in the order of their selection: Ohio State, basketball; Boston Celtics, basketball; University of Washington, football; U.S. Olympic basketball; and University of Minnesota, football.

Seven AC Teams In Action Tonite

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The logjam at the top of the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball standings should begin to disintegrate before the week is out.

Fourth-ranked Duke and fifth-ranked North Carolina currently are atop the conference ladder, both unbeaten against ACC foes. Come Saturday night, however, they'll decide for the present which will be the ACC's No. 1 team. They play on Duke's home court at Durham, N.C.

Before the Tar Heels visit Duke, however, they must get by Clemson (1-5 in the ACC and 6-11 overall) tonight and tough Maryland (3-3 and 10-5) on Thursday night. Duke's only pre-showdown test is tonight, at last-place South Carolina (0-5 and 6-8).

All the teams but Maryland see action tonight. In other games North Carolina State (3-5 and 10-6) plays Virginia (1-7 and 2-14) at Greensboro and, in a non-league bout, Wake Forest (7-1 and 11-5) entertains St. Joseph's (Pa.) in Winston-Salem, N.C.

No games were scheduled Monday night involving conference teams.

Duke will take the conference's best record and highest national ranking to South Carolina. The Blue Devils, 6-0 in the conference and 14-1 over-all, passed North Carolina in The Associated Press' ratings this week.

The Tar Heels, meanwhile, put their 10 game winning streak on the line when Clemson visits Chapel Hill, North Carolina hasn't played since pounding N.C. State 97-66 on Jan. 18.

Wake Forest, third in the conference with a 7-1 record, tries to improve its over-all 11-5 slate tonight against St. Joseph's. Jack Ramsey, coach of the St. Joe team (12-4 on the season) said he had not seen Wake Forest play except on television. But, Ramsey said, "They were impressive from (6-8) Len Chappell down to (5-10) Billy Packer."

Player Top Money Winner On Tour

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Gary Player, 25-year-old South Africa professional, moved up to top spot this week in the Professional Golfers Association's money rankings.

Official figures released from the association's headquarters, show Player has won a total of $12,700 so far this season.

Runner-up on the list is Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla., whose total this season is $8,800. Bob Rosburg of Overland Park, Kan., is third with winnings of $7,800 and Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., fourth with $6,300.

Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., last year's undisputed money king with more than $80,000 in winnings, ranks fifth this week with $6,100.

Catlin Honored In Race Banquet

CHARLOTTE (AP)— Russ Catlin, publicity director at the Darlington, S.C., Raceway, was honored here Monday night as the person who contributed the most to motorsports writing in 1960.

The Carolina Motorsport Writers Association also honored Herman Hickman of the Winston-Salem Journal as "writer of the year" in auto racing. Bob Talbert of the Columbia, S.C., State won first places in feature and news categories.

Bob Montgomery of WGBB, Greensboro, was named sportscaster of the year.

ON DEFENSE—Don Smith (24), EC's senior forward, hustles out to pick up Appalachian's Jim Kinney on defense. EC won the North State game, 72-70.

Duke Moves To 4th In AP Poll; Carolina 5th

For the seventh straight week Ohio State tops the nation's college basketball teams with a perfect score in the weekly Associated Press ranking poll.

The unbeaten Buckeyes, who crushed Purdue 92-62 last week in the game that was expected to be a deciding factor in the Big Ten race, drew the unanimous vote of the 36-member AP panel of sports writers and broadcasters. They received the maximum of 360 points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis.

St. Bonaventure and Bradley, due to settle their second-place argument in a head-to-head meeting in New York's Madison Square Garden Thursday, continued their close race for the runner-up spot. St. Bonaventure received 22 second-place votes and nine for third to collect 305 points. Bradley collected 281 points with 11 votes for second and 22 for third.

The voting was based on results of games through last Saturday.

The top 10, with first place votes in parentheses:

- 1. Ohio State (36) 360
- 2. St. Bonaventure 305
- 3. Bradley 281
- 4. Duke 210
- 5. North Carolina 203
- 6. Iowa 134
- 7. Louisville 125
- 8. Southern California 118
- 9. St. John's 48
- 10. Kansas State 39

Tech Tries To Gain Winning Momentum

By ED YOUNG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Virginia Tech's basketball team tries to regain winning momentum tonight in a game against The Citadel, tailor-made to show there's nothing ailing the Tech-men that home, sweet home won't cure.

The scrap at Blacksburg is a pivotal one in the Southern Conference, for the loser will be just about down for the 10-count in the three-way battle for the regular-season championship.

West Virginia, 8-1 in conference play, is first in the standings. The Citadel (6-2) is next, followed by Tech (5-2).

A cheery note for Tech Coach Chuck Noe is that his good big man, 6-6 Chris Smith, may be able to go full speed tonight for the first time in three weeks.

Smith sprained an ankle before the West Virginia game, then came down with flu, arising from a hospital bed to play at Wake Forest. He's averaging 20.2 points and 17 rebounds a game.

Noe says he has "utter respect" for The Citadel and its 22.1-average scorer, Gary Daniels — who lost earlier at home to Tech, 73-63.

"They've got confidence now and they'll be plenty tough," Noe says.

Careening West Virginia goes to Bluefield to defend its conference lead against improving VMI (2-6).

The Mountaineers cleared another high hurdle inside the league Monday night by whipping Furman (4-4), 96-87 at Greenville, where the Paladins had won eight in a row. A second-half surge won it for West Virginia, which got 22 points from Lee Patrone, 19 from Jim McCormick, Furman's Jerry Smith, however, topped everybody with 32 points.

Richmond (3-7), meantime, stayed off Davidson's comeback effort and shoved the Wildcats (1-6) deeper into the conference cellar with an 83-78 triumph on the Wildcat court Danny Higgins had 20 points to pace the Spiders. Bill Shinn led Davidson with 19.

Lakers Set Goal For Second Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Lakers, riding a four-game winning streak in the National Basketball Association, have their sights set on second place in the Western Division.

The Lakers edged Detroit 117-116 Monday night to move to within 1 1/2 games of the runner-up Pistons. In the night's only other action, the Cincinnati Royals kept pace with Los Angeles by whipping the Boston Celtics 116-88. The Royals, fourth in the West, remained 1 1/2 games behind the Lakers.

Jack Twyman clicked for 41 points and rookie Oscar Robertson, apparently recovered from a hip injury, added 32 in Cincinnati's romp over Boston's Eastern Division pace-setters.

Whittles Lead In Hockey Scoring

MONTREAL (AP) — Toronto's Frank Mahovlich has whittled Boston's boom Boom Geoffrion's once-commanding lead atop the National Hockey League scoring race to three points.

The 23-year-old left-winger collected five points—three of them goals—in four games last week to jump to second place from fourth a week ago, according to official league statistics released today.

He has a league-leading 40 goals in 50 games and 19 assists for 59 points.

Geoffrion has been forced to miss the Montreal Canadiens' last six games because of an injured knee, but still leads the race with 62 points on 27 goals and 35 as-

Maris Clams Up

NEW YORK (AP)—The case of Roger Maris is a puzzler. He hits 39 homers, drives in 112 runs, wins the Most Valuable Player award and what happens? Everybody asks, "Why did you slump?"

Maris was questioned about his second-half slump Monday when he signed his contract with the New York Yankees for an estimated $33,000 salary. The guesses were that he got $21,000 last year. "Estimated," you ask? Right. This is the informed guess of the baseball writers. Nobody knows the official figures except Maris, the Yanks and the Internal Revenue Service next year.

Maybe Roger will tell the Mrs. He wouldn't even hint to the writers. "If anybody asks me how much I'm going to get, they won't find out," he said at the opening of the news conference.

Maris had no alibis although he could have pointed to the rib injury that kept him out of the lineup from Aug. 14 to 31, except for a pinch-hitting appearance. In 1959 an appendectomy put him on the shelf and resulted in another talispin at Kansas City.

Joyce Ziske had her best year on the ladies' golf tour in 1960. She competed in 22 events and won $12,866.

Wilt Adds To Scoring Margin

NEW YORK (AP) — Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, Philadelphia's prolific point-maker, has ballooned his lead over runner-up Elgin Baylor to 115 points in the National Basketball Association scoring race.

The Warriors' tall star has scored 1,926 points in 52 games, according to league statistics released today, and is averaging 37.0 points a game. Baylor has tallied 1,811 for a 34.8 mark.

Injured Oscar Robertson holds third place with 1,499 points and a 30.0 average, but teammate Jack Twyman, in fourth place, is closing fast with 1,481 and a 25.5 average.

Joyce Ziske had her best year on the ladies' golf tour in 1960. She competed in 22 events and won $12,866.

CHAPTER 25

The hospital was a five-story brick building which stood in a quiet middle-class neighborhood. The quiet seemed oddly ominous to me. I couldn't help wondering if Larry Gaines had suborned other hospital employees after Ella Barker turned him down. There was something chilling about the idea of criminals infiltrating a hospital.

Perhaps the police had the same idea. There was a police car in the hospital parking lot. On my way to the morgue in the basement, I ran into Detective-Lieutenant Willis and Sergeant Granada, almost literally.

They were coming up the fire stairs with their heads thrust forward in identical attitudes. Willis stopped below me, with an impatient look as if I was deliberately blocking his way. "What brings you here?"

"The Broadman killing. Do you have a minute?"

"No. But what can I do for you?"

Granada came up past me without a word.

"I'm very much interested in the results of the autopsy on Broadman," I said. "Are they in?"

"Yeah, I just got a report from Dr. Simeon. Why are you so interested?"

"You know why I'm interested in Broadman. He seemed in fair shape at first. I can't understand why he died."

"He died of his injuries," Willis said shortly.

"What specific injuries did he have?"

I was watching Granada. If he heard what I said, or cared, he gave no sign. He put a cigarette in his mouth, lit it, and flicked the match downstairs.

"Broadman had head injuries," Willis was saying. "You get a delayed reaction with them sometimes."

"I see. Is it all right with you if I talk to the pathologist?"

"Go ahead, Dr. Simeon will tell you the same thing," Willis's voice was coldly polite. "Joe Reach mentioned you were going to take another crack at Barker."

"Miss Barker," I corrected him. "I had another interview with her this morning."

"Any result?"

"I'd prefer to discuss that in private."

Willis glanced down the empty stairs, then up to the landing where Granada was waiting. "This is private, isn't it?"

"Not private enough."

"Granada's my right-hand man."

"He isn't mine."

Willis gave me a dour look, but he called up the stairs of Granada: "I'll meet you outside, Pike."

Granada left, and Willis turned to me. "What's all the mystery about?"

"No mystery, Lieutenant, at least as far as I'm concerned. My client tells me Gaines is mixed up with a blonde woman."

"We got that from other sources. She knows who the blonde woman is?"

"No." I was hyperconscious of the line of truth that I was trying to straddle. "She doesn't. She only saw her once."

"And that's your special private information?"

"There's this," I produced my lone piece of evidence, the shark-skin wallet, and handed it to Willis.

He looked at it glumly. "What is this supposed to signify?"

"It belonged to Gaines. Ella Barker kept it as a memento."

"How touching," Willis flipped it open, and sniffed at it disparagingly. "It stinks of perfume. Did she give it to you?"

"I found it in her apartment. She told me where it was. The girl is doing her best to co-operate."

"She can do better than this. Did Joe Reach talk to you about a polygraph?"

"He mentioned it."

"Why dillydally around? People are dying."

"One of them died of a policeman's bullets. The other one died in a manner that's not yet established to my satisfaction."

"To your satisfaction. For Pete's sake, who do you think you are?"

"An attorney trying to protect a client from harassment."

Willis rounded his mouth and blew out a gust of air. "Words. Big empty words. That's all they are, and they make me sick. What the hell is this all about? Are you trying to stick a knife in Granada's back, or what?"

You chewed him out last night after the Donato shooting. Why?"

"That's between him and I. Not," he added, "that it's any big secret. It would have helped if Donato had lived to talk. He didn't, so that's that. Granada did his duty as he saw it."

"Do you always let him interpret his duties as he sees them?"

Willis said stubbornly: "Pike Granada is a good officer. I'd rather have a hood like Donato dead, ten times over, than him."

"Are you aware of his prior relations with Donato?"

"Yes, I'm aware of it," Willis said on a rising note. "Pike's lived here all his life, he knows everybody in town, it's one of his values to us."

"How well did he know Broadman?"

"Pretty well, he worked the pawnshop detail."

The sentence dwindled off. Willis's face took on the appearance of pitted silver. Then it darkened like silver tarnishing all in a moment. He said in his chest: "What is this?"

"Granada had his hands on Broadman yesterday. Broadman was in fair shape before that. After that he died, very suddenly."

"Donato killed Broadman, you know that?"

"Donato will never be able to deny it."

"I don't like this, Mr. Gunnarson. You're running loose at the mouth. Granada's one of my best men. What you're saying is libel."

"You're his superior. Who else would I communicate my suspicions to?"

"You better not take 'em anywhere else, that's for sure. You want my opinion, you've gone off the deep end. You ought to be more careful what you say."

"Can't you control Granada?"

I spoke the words in anger, and regretted them as soon as they were out.

Willis let out an inarticulate sound, and made a reflex motion, striking the wall with the back of his hand. He became aware of the wallet he was holding.

"Here. This is worthless."

Perhaps he meant to hand it to me, but it flew from his hand and slid down the iron stairs. I went after it, and he went up after ter Granada. The fire door closed behind him.

Dr. Simeon was a middle-aged man with traces of a dedicated look. His office was a corner room with small windows set high in the wall, and fluorescent lighting which was probably never turned off. Under it, the doctor was as pale as some of his own cadavers.

"The results of a head injury can be surprising," he said. "There's often a delayed reaction, as I've just been telling Lieutenant Willis. It results from hemorrhaging, and the formation of a blood clot."

"Did you find a blood clot?"

"No. I didn't. And there was no actual fracture of the skull." He raised a finicky, nicotine-stained hand and drummed a few dull bars on the front of his own skull. "As a matter of fact, I've been thinking of taking another whack at him."

"You mean you haven't done a complete post-mortem?"

"It was as complete as seemed called for. I found some cerebral hemorrhaging, probably enough to account for death." He was hedging.

"You're not satisfied that he died of his head injuries, are you?"

"Not entirely. I've seen people walking around with equally serious injuries."

"What killed him if they didn't? Was he strangled?"

"I've seen no indications to that effect. There are nearly always external marks, broke veins under outside, and nothing in the internal neck structures. I'm going to go into the thoracic cavity. I'll let you know if I discover anything there."

Gus Donato's widow has a story for Gunnarson: "I got a friend, a nurse's aide in emergency. She knows things the doctors never hear of." Continue the story tomorrow.

Grim Message Could Itself Provide A Lift

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The very grimness of President Kennedy's view of the state of the economy could give business a lift. This seeming paradox lies in the response that Wall Street and business planners often take to any indication that Washington is about to loosen further the government purse strings. And they figure that if the President thinks business is that bad at home and defense needs that urgent, he'll lend an ear to advocates of more spending. After their first reaction to the President's State of the Union message, stock traders might well take the view that certain industries are bound to be getting new orders soon, that new money will be finding its way into the pockets of the unemployed and others, that various other spending schemes will be pushed. Such programs usually take a time to be turned into actual money in the till, but the prospect of their approach could give a new outlook on business prospects to many who have been waiting to see just what the new administration would do.

President Kennedy says flatly we've been in a recession since mid 1960. And he thinks the recovery from the 1958 recession itself wasn't very convincing. All of which, he says, calls for government action which he'll spell out in coming days. At the same time, however, he pledges to keep the dollar sound. Just how he proposes to do both—push government pump priming and avoid further inflation—he promises to outline later. Business already had taken note of the sizable jump in government expenditures proposed in the 1962 fiscal budget offered by outgoing President Eisenhower. And businessmen are well aware that Kennedy's advisers are urging plans that would call for still larger spending. The Wall Street bulls have tentatively started pawing the ground. Businessmen—both Democrats and Republicans—could take the same attitude as to the probable effect on the economy of the State of the Union views. Democrats, along with most labor leaders, will say it's about time Washington admitted business conditions needed a helping hand, Republicans, although doubtless thinking the pump priming unnecessary, will see it as the latest means of inflation—the end result being business stimulation, however unhealthy. The conservative view of present business conditions differs materially from Kennedy's. It holds with President Eisenhower that most of the current troubles are due to cutbacks in inventories. It stresses that final demand is sustained—that is, consumption of goods is at about the same pace as this time last year. Factories and merchants just aren't laying in stocks.

Couldn't Stand Political Strain

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Attractive Lucille Lynn Alger was granted a divorce from Rep. Bruce Alger, R-Tex., Monday after testifying that she was "a political widow" who was "married to a briefcase." Mrs. Alger, 38, a former model, said she had received cruel and harsh treatment for the 42-year-old congressman. She told newsmen that one reason for the divorce was an attempt by Republicans to groom her husband for vice president. "Republican Party leaders didn't think I had enough education and family background to be a vice president's wife," she said. Alger, a Princeton graduate, is Texas' only GOP congressman. Attorneys said the settlement provides for Elizabeth Antoine, 62, of Dallas—Mrs. Alger's mother—to retain custody of the couple's three children.

Sick Leave Provisions Now Thirty Years Old

By NOEL YANCEY
RALEIGH (AP)—What sick leave provisions does North Carolina make for its workers when illness keeps them off the job? Virtually all state workers, except public school teachers, are covered by a sick leave regulation that has been in effect for more than 30 years.

Under this regulation, state workers get 10 days of sick leave a year—equal to two weeks work. Unused sick leave may be accumulated so that a state worker with many years' experience could be sick for extended periods without losing pay.

In addition to this sick leave provision, members of the State Highway Patrol are protected under a special state law for incapacity resulting from injury suffered in the line of duty.

Under this law, a patrolman is entitled to draw his full pay for the first year of such incapacity and half pay for a second year.

School teachers are not covered by the sick leave provisions for other state employees. Getting paid sick leave for the teachers is, and has been for several years, one of the goals of the United Forces for Education. However, the Legislature has always found other money needs for the schools more pressing.

Under present practice, when a teacher is absent due to illness, she pays a substitute at the rate of $8 a day. She keeps the difference between the $8 and her regular salary.

Local school boards are authorized to grant teachers sick leave on this basis up to 20 days. They may extend it for additional 20-day periods indefinitely in their discretion.

Indications are there is a wide variation in the policy of local boards on such extensions.

A. C. Dawson, controller of the State Board of Education, said he was under the impression that most local boards are fairly liberal, especially with teachers of long experience. He said he knew of cases where teachers had been kept on the payroll for an entire year—by paying the substitute $8 a day and keeping the difference.

Mrs. Ethel Perkins Edwards of the North Carolina Education Association, who is conducting a survey on the sick leave situation, said that most local school units reply to her questionnaire saying they place on limit on the length of time a teacher is kept on the payroll under the $8 a day substitute provision. Others limit it to 20 days while some say they continue it as long as they can obtain a substitute for $8.

A beginning school teacher with an A certificate is paid $16.10 a day. This would leave her $8.10 after she pays a substitute when she is sick. A class A teacher with 12 years' experience gets $22.65 a day and would have $14.65 left after paying her substitute.

The NCEA, with the backing of the United Forces, is campaigning for a system under which teachers would get fully paid sick leave for at least five days a year on a cumulative basis. This would mean that the state would pay the substitute for the first five days, and after that the teacher would pay. A. C. Dawson, executive secretary of the NCEA, said his surveys of teacher sentiment show only higher salaries and reduction of class size come ahead of sick leave among things they want to improve their lot.

"We say that teachers should not have to pay a substitute for the first days of absence due to illness," he continued. He added, "in most industries and businesses a person can be absent and not lose pay for the first day."

The five-day cumulative sick leave provision the NCEA is seeking, Dawson said, could not cost the state more than $1,600,000 a year. It would probably cost much less, he added, since many teachers would not be absent five days a year.

Dawson pointed out that there is a big difference in providing sick leave for teachers than for other state workers. When the teacher is sick, a substitute must be obtained. When another state worker is sick, it is seldom necessary to obtain a substitute. So sick leave for state workers costs nothing extra; for teachers it would cost extra.

Dr. Charles F. Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction, says that so far as he knows the State Board of Education has never requested an appropriation from the General Assembly to provide teachers with paid sick leave.

"So," he said, "the assumption is that the board has felt over the years that the present system suffices."

Asked his opinion, Dr. Carroll said, "Regular sick leave such as other state employees have would be better for teachers who are sick for a short period. For those with an extended illness, the present system would be better."

Woman Severely Injured In Claremont Firm Blaze

NEWTON, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Roscoe Pope, about 50, remained in critical condition at Catawba Hospital here today from injuries received when a two-story building burned at nearby Claremont. Seven persons were less seriously injured.

The Monday fire, which destroyed the building housing the Claremont Feed Mill and Monclair Furniture Co., left damages unofficially put at $150,000.

A part owner of the furniture company, Herman Carpenter, about 40, said he noticed the fire in the area of the building's furnace and sounded the alarm. He also received minor burns when he went into the building and carried Mrs. Pope out.

Newton, who received a broken leg, were operating sewing machines on the second floor for the furniture upholstery concern.

In all, about 30 or 12 people were in the building when the fire broke out. Most of them safely escaped.

Besides the two women and Carpenter, five volunteer firemen received minor burns.

Smyre's Garage, which was near the destroyed building, also was damaged by the flames. A sharp explosion was reported after the fire had gotten underway. Lane Miller, a volunteer fireman and town alderman, said the blast knocked out windows on the north side of the building and "the fire shot through the building then."

Farm Groups Are Urged Find Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) — An appeal for farm organizations to iron out differences on solutions for farm problems was voiced Monday night by Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina.

Sanford said opportunities in farming are being opened by "the dynamic program of agricultural research which we have on the local, state and national level."

Freeman is agriculture secretary in the administration of President Kennedy, and Murphy is under secretary. Murphy is a native of North Carolina.

Sanford said such cooperation is necessary to realize the opportunities ahead for agriculture.

"I believe we need an imaginative and optimistic approach which will come from fresh and forceful leadership, and I believe we have that leadership in Orville Freeman and Charles S. Murphy," the North Carolina governor declared.

Freeman is agriculture secretary in the administration of President Kennedy, and Murphy is under secretary. Murphy is a native of North Carolina.

Sanford said opportunities in farming are being opened by "the dynamic program of agricultural research which we have on the local, state and national level."

He added, "Research is our key to a better product for the public, a better life for our farmers, and a stronger economy for the nation. The opportunities opened up by research are unnumbered. We should be concerned to make the best of every one of them."

Sanford said such cooperation is necessary to realize the opportunities ahead for agriculture.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market met increasing resistance in its upward push early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks at noon was up 20 to 23 20 with industrials down 20, rails up 40 and utilities up 20.

Two Convicted — (Continued from page one) — the mayor scratched through his name and his wife signed the bonds.

The two youths, Bobbie Laughlinhouse and Thomas Earl Stocks, also had their cases called last night. Judge Rouse found both not guilty of "appearing in the Town Hall in a vulgar, boasting, and boisterous air using profane and insulting language" but warned each against further appearances in the local court.

Hodges and Lawrence Elks had their appeal bonds posted by Hodges' father and requested their cases go to "county court" for judgment. The cases cannot be appealed to Pitt County Recorder's Court. Appeals must go to Superior Court.

Russell Elks was involved in a June 20 arrest by Pitt County deputies and was convicted the following day in the county recorder's court of public drunkenness and possession of non-tax-paid whiskey.

Ennis, who is currently serving as Winterville's police chief, resigned June 21. He gave criticism by the townspeople as his reason for resigning. He said he had been criticized for failing to more quickly apprehend Elks on June 20.

Doctor Opening Office Tomorrow

Dr. Joseph Major Ward, a native of Greenville, will open his office here on Wednesday, located on the Falkland Highway across from Pitt Memorial Hospital.

For a number of years he maintained a general practice in Robersonville, where he had entered practice in January of 1959, before being called into active duty as it. (jg) in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

While in service, he was a medical officer in the U.S. Naval Hospital at Camp Lejeune for nine months. He then spent about a year with the First Marine Division in Korea, where he served as medical officer with an infantry battalion. Later he joined the staff of a medical company and became commanding officer for a short period.

In 1953, Dr. Ward returned to general practice in Robersonville and remained there through 1960.

A graduate of the Robersonville public schools, he entered the University of North Carolina in 1941 and graduated from the Duke University Medical School in 1947. He interned for one year at Martinsville General Hospital in Martinsville, Va. The next year, Dr. Ward served as pediatric resident at Rex Hospital in Raleigh.
