Unfold Story Of Soviet Spy Nest

Estimate $1,150 Damages Caused In 3-Car Wreck

LONDON (AP) — A Scotland Yard detective testified today a trusted British civil servant ex-claimed, "I have been a bloody fool" when he was caught slipping royal navy secrets to a Soviet agent posing as a U.S. Naval attaché.

watching Miss Gee hand Lonsdale a shopping basket holding two parcels. The parcels, Smith said, contained four pamphlets relating underwater weapons tests and a can packed with film of 212 pages from the highly secret royal navy book "Particulars of War Vessels," supposedly accessible only to trusted navy men and civil servants.

An estimated $1,150 damage resulted from a three-car wreck at the intersection of Fourth St. and Rotary Ave. yesterday about 3:40 p.m., investigators reported.

Deadlock Expected In Debate On Congo Chaos

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Lack of Soviet-U.S. agreement dimmed prospects today for any decisive U.N. Security Council action to ease the crisis in the Congo.

head of the Soviet U.N. delegation. Zorin commented that he did not see any indication that the United States was seriously changing its position on the Congo. A spokesman for the Soviet delegation said the new Kennedy administration "has not brought a new approach."

Pentagon View On Missile Gap Modified By President Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said today he sincerely believes America's ability to maintain its position in the world will be severely tested in the next four years.

Asked if he might want to cut taxes to stimulate the economy, Kennedy said he once voted in 1958 against an anti-recession tax cut in March but voted for one in June.

N.C. General Assembly Is Formally Convened Today

RALEIGH (AP) — Faced, as usual, with a host of perplexing problems to be argued out during the next several months, North Carolina's General Assembly convened at noon today for its 1961 session.

Sen. W. Lunsford Crew of Halifax was nominated president pro tem to preside over the Senate in the absence of Lt. Gov. H. Cloyd Philpott.

Gov. Sanford has proposed a $106 million improvement program for the public schools during the next biennium.

The President added that it is hoped a preliminary study could be completed by Feb. 20. He said he hopes this country is "completely secure" as to the missile situation, but the answer is not yet clear.

Kennedy also mentioned Laos in connection with relations with the Soviet Union. A spokesman, recalling the release of two U.S. fliers who had been held in Russia for seven months, asked what steps the President expects to be taken before a possible summit meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

New Storms For Snowbound Seaboard, Impact Growing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A mountain of snow blanketed almost all the Eastern seaboard today and new storms closed hundreds of schools and brought traffic to a standstill.

In Washington, D.C., the capital's snow-a-week schedule was right on time with a fall unofficially reported at 3 to 5 inches.

Some snow was forecast for New York City as the gigantic task of getting the city back to normal operations moved forward in the wake of last week's snowfall of more than 17 inches.

Committee OKs Rob't Weaver

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee on an 11-4 vote today approved Robert C. Weaver, New York Negro, to be the government's housing administrator.

He was quizzed all afternoon about his loyalty, his views on whether federal housing programs should be used to enforce residential integration, and his experience in previous housing posts.

MAYOR CHARLES EDWARDS

Farmville Native Married In Morning Ceremony Saturday

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Anne Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Richardson Sr. of New Brunswick, N. J., to Lt. Melvin Wilbur Rollins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rollins of Farmville, took place Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in Sacred Heart Church, New Brunswick. The Rev. Arthur Derrig, C. P., cousin of the bride, officiated. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Robert McCormick of West Point, N. Y.

Mr. Richardson gave his daughter in marriage. The bride wore a gown of ivory peau de soie, with bodice, long pointed sleeves, and insets of hand-run slenon lace. Her bouffant veil was of imported illusion attached to a crown of peau de soie. She carried a bouquet of philonopsis and stephanotis.

Miss Helen Louise Richardson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was also attended by her two other sisters, Mrs. Thomas Raymond Cotter of Springfield, Va., and Miss Jeanne Richardson, Mrs. Hugh Maxton Craig of Charlotte, sister of the groom, was another attendant. A niece, Christine Cotter, was flower girl. The bridesmaids wore dresses of rose-berry silk organza and carried bouquets of lilacs. The flower girl wore embroidered white organza over soft pink.

Lt. Carroll Allen of Farmville and Cannon Air Force Base, New Mexico, was best man. The ushers were Lt. David Wentworth of Orange, Calif., Jack Rollins, brother of the groom, E. Alton Dunn of North Brunswick, and Harry and William Richardson, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Rollins was graduated from New Brunswick High School and has an A. B. degree from Rosemont College, where she majored in elementary education. She was a teacher in Livingston School, New Brunswick.

Lt. Rollins is a graduate of Farmville High School, Sullivan's Preparatory School and the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. He is presently stationed at Fort Bragg, where the couple will make their home.

Following the wedding, the bride's parents entertained for 300 at a reception in the ballroom of the Roger Smith Hotel.

Local people attending the wedding and reception were Mrs. Rollins, the groom's mother, Jack Rollins, his brother, Carroll Allen, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Rollins and Mr. and Mrs. Elbert C. Holmes.

Why They Volunteer

By LYDIA BICKFORD AP Newsfeature Writer

Plan a mass meeting of all the women volunteers in the United States and you'd have to rent several hundred football stadiums. You'd find enough talent, too, to run a king-size corporation — and still have ability left over. You can find women who fill every post from switchboard operator to chairman of the board.

Women talk, walk, plan, collect, create, cook, implore, phone, write, enlist, solicit for hundreds of causes that couldn't exist without their efforts.

Is volunteering a satisfying way of life for the bazaar chairman, the door bell ringer, the hospital worker, the poster designer, the ticket seller?

For some it's therapy, for others creativity, or the feeling of being needed. But for a much smaller number it's a seemingly endless round of frenzied and inconclusive activity.

Why They Do It

Women workers point out what they like about volunteer work: "There's its flexibility. 'If the children have mumps, I don't feel guilty about canceling. I couldn't do that with a paid job,'" explains one woman.

Others like the freedom of choice "which I wouldn't get if I worked for a pay check. I can select the agencies in which I'm most interested."

They like to feel their voluntary activities are not conflicting with their husbands' careers. "If I'd kept on with my work as a fashion designer, I know my husband would have subconsciously resented my success. He has to be top dog to be happy."

Picking to Fit Talents

Sometimes women who have never held jobs discover hidden abilities. These are the superb home managers who become volunteer chairmen, organizers and planners; the born clubwomen.

Other women given to self-scrutiny volunteer only where they can use their talents. "I'm a former social worker. I'd rather volunteer in a counseling agency and be in the environment where I belong — than do odd jobs any untrained woman can do."

Perhaps the strongest sense of satisfaction comes to women who have a binding emotional tie with the agency for which they work. A mother whose child is retarded throws herself heart and soul into the cause of retarded children, and will work tirelessly for their help.

When Volunteers Are Unhappy

But what about the worker who feels herself on a treadmill? One woman, for example, is on the board of the Woman's Club, which means she attends two meetings a month; she models, prepares a dessert and arranges for delivery of 100 card tables for the annual fashion show; drags her protesting husband to three covered dish suppers annually; attends meetings for explorations into the needs of the community's senior citizens; performs liaison with county and state clubs.

She is also a member of the volunteer committee for mental health, for which she spends an hour a day at the telephone trying to recruit volunteers for work at the state hospital.

She is on the speakers' bureau of an anti-highway organization, although she hates to make speeches; makes door-to-door forays to raise money for it; keeps a clipping scrapbook for the group.

She is room mother for her daughter's class, works with the Junior Museum helping set up exhibits. When the local hospital has a fair to finance a new wing, she makes five pounds of potato salad and four quarts of chili.

Soft Sell Victim

How did this ball of activity ever get rolling?

"I guess I'm a victim of the soft sell," she says. "Everybody tells you the job means no work at all—which is a laugh.

a meeting seems to be the chairman's solution for anything, no matter how trivial. People get way off the point, get very emotional, and hours go by. And nothing has been settled."

To such harried do-gooders, women who are able to keep their volunteer work within reasonable bounds have advice.

"Walk with caution before saying yes," says one lady of experience. "I try to find out exactly what the work entails — meetings how often, how long, and what for. Telephoning, the same. How much help I can count on if it's a big planning job. Most of all, do I feel this organization is necessary? Is it doing a job? Or does it seem like made work?"

Men Are Conservative Buyers

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Men are always saying it's a woman's world.

The truth is, says Emanuel Demby, president of Motivation Research Associates, a double standard flourishes today that's loaded in favor of women.

Our culture, he explains, permits women fuller freedom in expressing their own images through the way they dress and behave socially. Men are hemmed in by certain standards of conformity created by films, television, radio, magazines and contemporary literature.

Demby uncovered the double standard during research for an over-all psychological and sociological exploration of anxiety and tensions among men. Part of the study has just been completed.

An illustration of the double standard lies in the sexes' psychology of shopping, Demby points out. "Men will buy because they need something; women because they want to feel like something." It works like this:

The weather turns hot and a man needs a sports shirt. So he buys one—or about 80 per cent of the time. Demby found, he has his wife do it.

But a woman shops ahead for herself, in anticipation. She buys with the view in mind of what kind of person she will look like at a certain place—a demure matron at an afternoon function, a seductive siren at an evening party.

But a man feels he's subject to criticism if he doesn't dress or act the way he thinks he's expected to—according to his position. Subconsciously, he believes he's expected not to relax the standards set for his type of work.

The main reason shopping is foisted off onto the little lady is that a man would rather not suffer the anxiety of being seen selecting from the wide range of apparel—and the self concepts they represent—available on a counter. He would possibly be most attracted to a resplendent red and yellow plaid, but he wouldn't want anyone to see him buy it because he doubts it's the sort of shirt a big corporation executive would be expected to wear.

Research by Demby's staff of psychologists shows that sport shirt colors and patterns are an accurate barometer of a man's self-concept. Sexually secure and masculine men — and Demby found through cross-section sampling that this takes in 65 per cent of American men—wear what he has dubbed the market center shirt—the middle range in color and pattern, neither exhibitionistic nor overly conservative. Less secure and boastfully masculine men—25 per cent—and sexually "hidden" and hostile men—10 per cent—tend toward loud, offbeat styles.

Expressway Is Not For The Blind

When the gavels banged down today in the House and Senate in Raleigh, it marked the beginning of an historic session of the North Carolina legislature.

It will be a spectacular session for sure. There will be fireworks aplenty, bitter debates and at times high tension. But these will not be the measure of the historic value of this 1961 General Assembly. The evaluation must be made after next summer when the legislators have left their sweltering quarters in Raleigh, scattered back across the state and view from a distance the net result of the session.

The task which lies before these 170 men and women in Raleigh is by no means easy. North Carolina stands today at a crossroads in its progress. One alternative is the road conceived in horse-and-buggy times, the road of plodding easily along, heading toward the goal, but giving no thought to whether everybody else gets there first.

The other is more like the modern expressway, more costly, more complicated, and indeed more hazardous to those who would travel it. And yet it is the route a state must take if it is to keep pace with the progress of the times; if it is not to handicap its people in the immediate future and make an almost impossible situation for its citizens a generation from now.

To be sure, the expressway offers greater danger. Speed increases the chance of error, and the greater the speed the more serious the repercussions from the error. The expressway is not for the blind who rush headlong, failing to keep proper lookout, failing to be aware of the danger signs which might flash by.

And yet it is the route to opportunity. It is the route that is most rewarding to those who have the courage and the common sense to travel it successfully.

The legislators now gathered in Raleigh will determine in the course of the next several months which of these roads North Carolina will travel. More than that, the legislators will determine in what manner the state will pursue the course it chooses to follow.

Will the legislature choose for the state to travel the horse-and-buggy road? If so, will they decide upon horse-and-buggy speed for improving North Carolina, or after having chosen this course will they designate a speed greater than the road can handle? Will they choose the expressway? And if they do, will they prescribe due caution, or throw caution to the wind?

The future progress of North Carolina and the future welfare of its people is directly tied to the answers which are provided by the 1961 General Assembly.

Factual Reports As To Progress

By LYNN NISBET

PROGRESS — There is so much optimism in reports of boosters and so much pessimism among those who cannot see how the people can pay for the things that we the people need, it is encouraging once in awhile to get factual reports of progress. As this is being written, your reporter has spread out on his desk three communications from people concerned with widely divergent, but vitally important, phases of progressive development. Each of these phases embraces a lot more than can be covered in the special reports on specific achievements. This is taken from one day's mail. Tomorrow and next day emphasis may be on some other facets of the total problem.

EDUCATION — On top of the stack of mail, as it was opened, is a news story and cover letter from Mrs. Lillian Hirt, director of publicity for Western Carolina College at Cullowhee, dealing with the "pilot" program operated for specially gifted children by Dr. Carl D. Killian, head of the college department of education and psychology. In 1958 Dr. Killian started a class of 29 fifth-graders, selected from all over the state as specially bright kids.

The experiment justified an anonymous gift of $10,000 to continue the program. The next year there was a gift of $18,500. For this year there is available $70,000 from two of the Reynolds' foundations. The "pilot" project begun in 1958 with 29 fifth grade pupils goes into its fourth year with twelve groups of specially talented children up to high school level, with still practically no tax money involved.

Meanwhile, public consciousness was aroused to the point that Governor Hodges appointed a committee to study the problem of the gifted pupil. Dr. Killian headed that committee and his report will be presented to the General Assembly shortly after it convenes.

HIGHWAYS — Next letter in the day's mail deals with just one phase of highway progress, as the first dealt with just one angle of the education problem. Mrs. Alice Strickland, secretary of the South Eastern North Carolina Beach Association, writes that she has talked with a lot of people in coastal Carolina who have expressed willingness to "temporarily abandon the pleasure of local differences" and work together for promotion of highway development along the coast that will take advantage of the anticipated traffic imposed on these roads by opening up of the Chesapeake bridge-tunnel project in 1964. That represents progress with a capital "P".

It is common knowledge that one reason for retarded development of the sparsely settled coastal and mountain sections of North Carolina, as contrasted with the economic progress in the densely populated central part of the state, has been lack of cooperation among the several communities.

HOSPITALS — The next letter in the file of correspondence is a semi-confidential report of progress made by Roy Pursler, general manager of the State mental hospital system, to his board. Before going into detail report of progress by institutions, Pursler makes two general observations. First is that morale among patients and attendants is at an all time high. Next is that collections from families of patients able to pay, from Social Security and other government agencies, are "improving." That means a larger share of the burden of caring for patients in the mental hospitals is being shifted from taxpayers to relatives of the patients who are able to pay and to other sources of income.

That, too, represents progress in that it leaves more money to take care of patients who have no resources other than public State tax money.

BREAKDOWN — Pursler then goes into a detail report of facilities available and contemplated at the several institutions under supervision of the State Hospitals Board of Control, with special emphasis on progress within the past two years. The report is gratifying in most instances, but it has discordant notes—such as the instance where 200 beds had been specified and the money available permitted only 140. But—that is 140 more hospital beds than were in use two years ago. So that, too, represents progress—even though at slower rate than hoped for.

SUMMARY — These three communications, each dealing with only one segment in the complicated educational, health and social policy of North Carolina, serve to pinpoint the basic problem facing the General Assembly in these areas. Just how much of total State revenue should be devoted to education, and what part of that total should be dedicated to average, below average and above average in IQ rating of pupils is a serious question. Just how total available money for health should be divided between mental and physical needs is a real problem. Whether highway funds should be used to serve presently determined needs or for potential development of areas not now served by adequate roads is an economic question of significance.

Decisions on these points will largely control the balanced progress of North Carolina. But, the gist of all the reports that whether balanced or not, North Carolina is on the progressive path.

Joint Responsibility To The Townspeople

The hassel over dismissal of Grimesland's Police Chief is subsiding now, but the circumstances which surrounded the incident should prove a lesson not only to Grimesland but to other communities which have watched from the sidelines.

In spite of whatever other considerations might have entered into the Grimesland board's decision to dismiss the town's police chief, we believe most people who have followed the incident will look upon the arrest of the three men immediately before the controversy became public as the incident which precipitated what has since transpired.

Certainly one cannot discount the assertions by Grimesland officials that the matter of continuing the employment of the chief had been under consideration for some time before the three arrests were made. Even so, there remains the question of whether the police chief would have been dismissed at this particular time had not the arrests taken place. At the same time the public probably will remember that the Grimesland court found the three men guilty of the charges which the police chief brought against them.

The turnover of police chiefs in Grimesland cannot be looked upon as a joke. Nor could a similar situation in any other community. Law enforcement is the responsibility of the local government and a responsibility that must be shouldered in the interest of the community as a whole.

The law enforcer's duty is culminated in preserving the peace and where necessary making arrests in order to carry out that duty. It is up to the local courts system to determine the guilt or non-guilt and act accordingly.

We suggest that rather than undermining the authority and respect due its policemen, town officials everywhere—and their law enforcement agencies—have an obligation to each other.

Jointly they have a responsibility to the people, and where either fails, it is the townspeople who suffer most.

Rusk Wants No Limelight Role

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new secretary of state, Dean Rusk, is a technician and neither an actor nor a politician.

This tall, round-faced, scholarly looking man, who will be 52 Thursday, is unsensational in voice and statements. He gives the impression that whenever this government has anything important to announce in foreign affairs it will be President Kennedy who does it, not Rusk.

It wasn't that way with John Foster Dulles, President Dwight D. Eisenhower's first secretary of state who died in 1959.

Dulles was both a bit of an actor and a politician, a secretary who made flamboyant statements which got into headlines but often never panned out. You'd never swim a lot of diplomatic channels before finding two men more unlike than Rusk and Dulles at their first news conferences.

Rusk held his first State Department news conference Monday. For all the solid news involved Rusk could have done without the meeting with the press. He apparently called it to get across the idea that he'll try to be helpful in getting out news. But he also said that whenever he thinks the good of the country requires it, he'll clam up.

This was a frank promise of what to expect. It was in keeping with a statement he made before taking office — that he wants more State Department candor.

Rusk had no solutions for anything and, like Kennedy, warned against expecting quick ones. Dulles was a lawyer who could use the language precisely as it suited him to get the effect he wanted.

Rusk gives the impression of a man who uses the language not for effect but for caution. Dulles broke all records for travel by a secretary of state. He was endlessly on the move as if he felt a job couldn't be well done unless he did it. Rusk isn't likely to do so much running around since he believes strongly in depending on a trained diplomatic corps.

He has written that the secretary of state must be the central figure in developing foreign policy. But this doesn't mean he will seek the headlines himself.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

LET THEM WIN THEIR SPURS

When word was brought to King Edward III of England that his son, Prince Edward, was in great danger at the Battle of Crecy, the king inquired, "Is my son killed?" "No, sire, please God," was the reply. "Is he wounded?" "No, sire," "Is he thrown to the ground?" "No, sire, but he is in great danger. I will send no aid. Let the boy win his spurs; for I wish if God so order it, that the honor of victory shall be his." From that time on the "Black Prince," as Prince Edward was called from the color of his armor, became a name of renown throughout Europe.

Few people can let the kids take it. They must send help.

They must ease them along. "I don't want my son to go through the sacrifice I endured in my childhood and youth."

But bless you, that is the thing which made you the successful person you are. You were not borne up by eagles wings or angels wings. You did not even climb a ladder. You scaled the side of a precipice — and the result was strength and increased daring.

We never make life better for ourselves or for our loved ones by making it too easy. There is nothing the matter with comfort, provided it is not put first in life. The first thing of importance in life is discipline, which involves learning through difficulty.

Have the courage to let youth endure those trials which will produce maturity.

Groundhog Is Unreliable

Granted, it probably takes an authority to discuss the subject properly, but we were just wondering what happened to old Groundhog last Thursday.

While the "official watchers" of the little animal said he poked his nose into a sunshiny morning and was frightened back into his burrow by his own shadow, it would have been well-nigh impossible for our groundhog around here to have seen his shadow.

In this area it was overcast on Groundhog Day. Because of that we had begun to anticipate what is indicated by the traditional "Groundhog Weather-vane."

According to our information the groundhog's failure to see his shadow on the day he emerges from winter-long hibernation indicates that he is pleased and will remain outside until another winter.

On the other hand, if he does see his shadow he quickly retreats into his chambers, to sleep through at least six more weeks of cold, rainy (or snowy) weather.

Like we said at the outset, it probably takes an authority to explain such a thing, but we were beginning to wonder if the groundhog around here really did fall to see his shadow.

Something seems to be amiss. Maybe we don't even have a qualified groundhog around here.

This week the Boy Scouts of America — some 5 million of them—are celebrating the 51st anniversary of the organization's founding in 1910.

According to BSA figures, the scouting program has affected the lives of over 33 million boys and men since its origin.

The program's organization has become an integral part of the everyday lives of members of Cub Scout packs, Boy Scout troops, and Explorer posts around the nation.

Since 1910, scouting has spread into the lives of a high percentage of American boys. Many have been directed along paths they otherwise may not have followed.

Feb. 7 through 14 has been set aside as Boy Scout Week.

Persons who appreciate the existence of such a program perhaps should make a special effort to express that appreciation. This week provides a good opportunity to give scouting a pat on the back.

Other Editors Saying Big Sum Is Needed

(Washington Daily News)

A study group in North Carolina has reported that the state needs right now the sum of $240 million for school building needs. It says that the state might be expected in time to furnish $140 million of the amount with the various counties furnishing the other $100 million.

No one needs to be told that this is a huge amount. When we talk in terms of our school building needs, by practical necessity we must also think in terms of spending any monies made available for the purpose.

In North Carolina today the sum of $240 million could not be spent wisely and efficiently within the space of a year. We doubt that this huge amount could be spent in the four years of the Terry Sanford administration.

What we ought to determine is a priority in needs, and those having the very top priority ought to come first. Many counties are suffering from a lack of classroom space. Makeshift rooms ought to be discarded as soon as possible. Every child in North Carolina ought to have the privilege of sitting in a room well heated, well lighted, and well ventilated. And every child ought to have a right to sit in a classroom which is comfortable in every way.

We are strong for building classrooms ahead of everything else in the building field. We suspect that many counties should wait on state money until such a time where all other counties have adequate classroom facilities. But practical politics being what they are, we suspect that the old theory of "give them all something" will be strong when it comes time to vote on a statewide school bond issue. After all, passage of the issue is major problem, and counties which might expect nothing from a school bond issue certainly are not going to be very enthusiastic about supporting such an issue.

Governor Sanford has suggested that the first statewide school bond issue ought to be in the range of about 50 million dollars. That, too, is a large amount, and it is not going to be a case of asking for a bond issue and being sure that one will pass. It is going to take a lot of work to pass a $50 million bond issue for school building purposes.

When we look at the most populous counties in the state, counties which send more money in to the state in taxes than they get back in funds from the state, we recognize the problem immediately. The voters in these counties are going to be reluctant to vote for a bond issue.

Here in this Pamlico area, we are told that for every dollar we pay in state taxes, we get three back. That picture shows that we are not as developed economically as many of the Piedmont counties in this state.

We need school buildings in the state. The people of the state must be sold on that idea. A bond issue will not only be a means of acquiring the needed facilities, but it should also prove an interesting and informative method of acquainting our people statewide on the real school needs.

New Advertising Contest Rules

By ELMER ROESSNER

If you are a contest fan, those "reasonable facsimiles" may become easier to draw.

And if you are a promoter of advertising contests, you'd better ask the Fraud and Mailability Division, Post Office Department, Washington 25, D.C., for a copy of its proposed new rules for merchandising promotion contests in which the mails are used.

The use of contests to promote or sell goods has been steadily increasing over the years and there may be a sharp increase this year because there is always a rise when sales decline. Contests are usually one of the surest-fire, bang-bang ways of forcing increases in sales known to advertising men. STARTED UNDER SUMMER-FIELD

Don't get the idea that new rules for advertising contests have anything to do with the New Frontier. Almost six months ago, President Eisenhower's Postmaster General, Arthur Summerfield, initiated a restudy of postal rules on contests on the theory that contest promoters had outsmarted—or at least had out-grown—previous strictures.

The F&M division has been working on the problem and has proposed new rules. Changes largely concern "consideration" and "chance."

On the first point, the rules would require considerable simplicity in making "reasonable facsimiles" or the box top, trademark or whatever is required to accompany an answer. This proposal grows out of the suspicion that some facsimiles are so difficult to make that the contestant is forced to go out and buy a box of the product. And when that happens a consideration is involved.

The proposed regulations would also require that if a facsimile is specified, that the thing to be copied must be fully reproduced along with the announcement of the contest. In other words, Geraldine need not have to go to the public library or a local store to make a "reasonable facsimile" or the trademark on a jar of Drippes Treacle.

Another proposal provides that, unless a contest is limited to people already subscribing to the periodical, contestants cannot be required to buy copies of the periodical, or to make other purchases or considerations.

Another proposal would forbid contests in which participation is free, but in which extra prizes are awarded on proof of purchase, such as sending in box tops, labels, coupons or other chits.

The new rules would forbid contests in which something other than skill is involved. The proposal says: "Chance may occur, for example, because of the application of undisclosed rules or standards of judging, the arbitrary of the rules to fully and accurately describe the standards to be employed in judging the contest or because the nature of the entry is such as to provide no genuine basis from which to make a selection according to

Piracy On Big Scale

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The United States has sent hundreds of millions of dollars to rehabilitate Italy and Italy is now one of the more prosperous countries in Europe. However, the Italians forget whence came their redemption. This was brought out startlingly by Lyman C. Duncan, of the Lederle Laboratories which manufacture pharmaceuticals and spend huge sums on research.

"While Italian names are prominent in every other field of science there has not been a single medical product of any consequence coming out of Italy since that law (Mussolini's withdrawal of patent protection for pharmaceuticals) was abrogated.

Then he told his tale of woe: "When we bring out a new product in this country or when a new product comes out in Germany, Switzerland or anywhere else, these people simply have someone pick up the product, fly it to Italy, and they start duplicating it.

"Now, they use other devices means of getting it a little earlier so they can also try to have it on the market at the same time, and they are absolutely immune from any kind of suit."

Naturally, it is less expensive to pirate than to do research; it is less costly to steal than to buy, unless you get caught — and the Italian, in his own country, cannot get caught according to their law. What he does is legitimate in Italy.

Italians, in fact, go about their trickeries openly. "Chemical Engineering News" published an advertisement which is a stimulant to corruption. It reads:

"Processes Wanted. Foreign manufacturer seeks information or consulting services for production of antibiotics, vitamins, steroids and pharmaceutical chemicals by microbiological and synthetic organic techniques. Products will be sold only in foreign countries where patents do not apply. All replies held in strictest confidence. Unusually attractive compensation. Write to representative presently in U.S.A., Dr. Angelo Mancuso, 15 Bergen Boulevard, Fairview, New Jersey."

The interesting fact about Fairview, New Jersey, is that it is close to the Lederle, the Merck, the Squibb and other pharmaceutical manufacturers. It would be a simple matter for a chemist to sell a process that cost several million dollars on research and the chemical could come out in Italy about the same time that it does here.

The significance of this testimony before the Senate Subcommittee on Antitrust and Monopoly is that more and more American industries are becoming conscious about how the American businessman and the American worker are being trimmed. The palliatives for taking care of the unemployed do not at all meet the problem of unemployment. The foreign producers, spending nothing on research, nothing on plant operation, paying low wages, can afford to make and dump the product in the American market at a low price.

A worker, in this country, who receives, let us say $84 a week and who has a take-home pay of, let us say, $60 a week, taking all deductions into consideration, cannot compete with a worker who gets $14 a week in the same industry in a foreign country. He cannot compete with the products of that alien worker in the American market.

The other night, I asked Henry Hazlitt, a leading American economist and an exponent of the free market, where on earth there is a free market today. Quite truthfully, he had to say: "Nowhere!" That makes all classical arguments about the free market futile because one deals with realities. While the United States removes protection for industry, every other country continues its protection against imports; quotas have been established, particularly American products at the same time that the United States pours huge sums into these various countries in the form of economic and military aid.

The problem of unemployment must be dealt with objectively and systematically. There are (Continued on page five)

Pitt Memorial Hospital Marks Tenth Anniversary

LARGER KITCHEN FACILITIES . . . will be available now. The large kettles and an oven, used in feeding large numbers, are visible here.

NEW WING . . . of Pitt County Memorial Hospital has just been completed, there will be 200 beds for patients. (Reflector Staff Photo)

By PATRICIA MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

Today marks the 10th anniversary of Pitt Memorial Hospital. Ten years after its construction, at the present site on the Falkland highway, the hospital has admitted some 56,500 patients, and has almost doubled its personnel.

When present construction is completed, the hospital will have a capacity of 200 beds, C.D. Ward, hospital administrator since 1942, said.

This is a far cry from the first hospital in Pitt County, which was located at the present Agriculture Building site on Johnston Street—and offered about 42 beds to the sick.

Construction work now going on is expected to be completed about June.

In addition to the extra bed space, Pitt Memorial Hospital will have three major operating rooms, four minor operating rooms and its first dental operating room, only for complicated cases. A new emergency wing has been completed and includes two large treatment rooms with two treatment tables in each room; three observation beds; and three X-Ray rooms, including two diagnostic rooms and one deep therapy room.

Ward noted that the Laboratory is being doubled in size, and the administrative wing already has been enlarged.

Other planned improvements, which will be in evidence when work is finished are piped in oxygen in the new wing, as well as in the original building; air conditioning throughout the hospital; larger kitchen and dining facilities in the basement and new wing; an additional boiler, with all boilers using fuel oil and or natural gas rather than coal; an additional elevator; a larger stand-by emergency generator; a recovery room.

Also, a retiring room, or small chapel, which will be equipped by the Greenville Service League in conjunction with the Greenville Ministerial Association; an enlarged coffee shop; physical therapy department; modern nurses call system, with an inter-communications speaker at the head of each bed, connected to the telephone in the nurses' station; additional parking facilities.

As for the adequacy of the hospital, Pitt Memorial Hospital is reputed to be one of the best equipped in the state and one of the largest east of Raleigh.

But it seems there will always be room for more improvements.

Even with almost doubled hospital bed space, the national average indicates there could be more. The national average is 4.2 beds per 1,000 population; the population of Pitt County is 69,000. Under the Hill-Burton plan, the county would be eligible one day for 300 beds.

Original Hospital
Pitt County's first hospital was organized and operated as Pitt Community Hospital about 1923, as a private enterprise. This method of operation continued until 1936, when a non-profit association rented the building and equipment under the name of Pitt General Hospital.

Doctors of the Pitt Community Clinic occupied the offices on the first floor of the building. By 1940, however, the non-profit organization bought the building and equipment.

From a capacity of about 42 beds in the Pitt Community Hospital, Pitt General Hospital added a wing, bringing the total to 55 beds. Further renovation yielded 72 beds.

Need was shown in the mid 1940s for added hospital facilities for the county. By 1946 and 1947, a group of interested citizens held several meetings and appealed to the Pitt County commissioners to call for a bond election to finance the county's part of building a hospital, in conjunction with the Hill-Burton Hospital Plan under the N. C. Medical Care Commission and the Federal Services.

Land Given
This provided the county with state and federal help. The land for the new Pitt Memorial Hospital was given by the family of the late Jesse Rountree Moye. It consisted of 17 and a half acres something like 300 persons.

Cost of the original Pitt Memorial Hospital was $1,440,000, with the county paying 39.1 per cent or $563,000; the state, 27.6 per cent, or $397,000; and the federal government, 33.3 per cent, or $480,000. In addition to the original cost above, a nurses home was built at a cost of $135,000.

This hospital provided 130 beds, two major operating rooms, three minor operating rooms, two delivery rooms and two small treatment rooms.

Present expansion is obvious. With the added bed space and other facilities, new personnel will be added through the years. From a staff of 101, figures have grown to 185, and one day, in the projected future, the staff will be something like 300 persons.

Figures of Growth
The following figures indicate the growth of the hospital here:

In 1951, 4,537 patients were admitted, compared to 7,221 in 1970. In 1951, 22,220 total days of care were reported, compared to 64,444 in 1960. The average patient's 10 years ago total of 110, compared to 1960's 9.93.

Charity days, in 1951, were 3,247, compared to 1960's 9,931. Laboratory test totals have grown from 17,601 in 1951 to 44,911 in 1960. Operations also have increased, from 1,729 in 1951 to 2,858 in 1960. Increases have also shown up in the total births: 541 in 1951, compared to 879 in 1960.

Membership Is Discussion Topic

"How To Be a Better Member," by Horace Coon, was the topic discussed by Miss Clara Seago at the monthly meeting of the Credit Women's Breakfast Club held last night.

"When you joined the human race you automatically became a member of something. You did not know then what you were getting yourself in for, but you were a member of some kind of a group: first your family, then your neighborhood and after that your play group," stated Miss Seago.

"We join clubs which we think will do us some good, which will help us to get ahead, to meet people, or which will teach us something. We have aims we want to achieve. We find that these aims cannot be realized if we work alone," commented Miss Seago.

Other topics discussed by Miss Seago included, committees, chairmanship, conventions, planning programs and publicity.

The birthday celebration of the club will be held March 16 at the Moose Lodge.

Mrs. Martha Mills was elected as recording secretary for the remainder of the year.

Boy Scout Week Proclaimed Here

Greenville Mayor E. Eugene West has signed a proclamation designating Feb. 7 to 13 as Boy Scout Week in the city.

The special week-long celebration has been arranged on a nation-wide basis to commemorate the 51st anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America.

In signing the proclamation, Mayor West said: "I do urge our citizens to recognize and support the unselfish patriotic service rendered to our community by the volunteer leaders who give generously of their time, their efforts, and their energy to the benefit of the youth of our community."

Weather Delays Street Projects

AYDEN—Because of bad weather, street projects have come to a standstill. Town Manager Cleveland Paylor reported this week.

City workmen have been working on cleaning the area adjacent to and north of the sewage disposal plant here.

Workmen had been ready to begin widening of Vinters Street, a much traveled road, when the recent bad weather set in. Already trees and water meters had been moved. Paylor said that crews are ready to complete the project at the first sign of good weather.

(Continued from page four) many causes for unemployment in the United States. For some of them there may be no solution. As, for instance, the question might be asked, do we really need a work force of 65,000,000 or over? And if not, what is to be done about those who are unemployed? One might ask whether it is economically or socially sound for married women to work in factories while their children are uncared for? There are many questions to be asked, the answers to which cannot come off the top of the head. President Kennedy can get the answers. There are men in this country with vast experience in making jobs.

EXPECTS BALANCING

MANILA (AP)—President Carlos P. Garcia has submitted a record budget to Congress but contends it will be balanced. Total spending would come close to $700 million, about $50 million above the current budget.

THE FERGUSON AFFAIR

CHAPTER 22

"Were you here when they took your sister away in the ambulance?" I asked Arcadia Torres.

"I saw them," she replied.

"Was she alive then?"

"I thought she was alive."

"Who called the ambulance?"

"The policeman."

"Sergeant Granada?"

She nodded.

"What was Granada doing here?"

"He wanted to talk to her about Gus."

"How do you know?"

"She told me. He sent her a message, by the corner grocery. But when he got here, she was out, lying on the bed. He went in and found her."

"Did you see them together?"

"After he called the ambulance, I did."

"And she was alive then?"

"She was breathing, I think. But she wouldn't wake up."

"Was she afraid of Granada?"

"I don't know. She was afraid of a lot of things."

Tony Padilla spoke sharply to her. "Answer the question!"

She gave her head a violent shake which left it tilted on her neck away from me. She answered Padilla in Spanish.

"What does she say, Tony?"

"She doesn't want to talk to you any more, Mr. Gunnarson. When a bad thing like this happens they turn against people, you know, people from uptown. Maybe if you let me talk to her?"

"Go ahead, I'll wait in the car."

I smoked a couple of cigarettes and watched the daylight dying on Pelly Street. Dark boys in twos and threes were prowling the sidewalk. The neon signs of the bars and cafes hung like ignis fatuus on the twilight. Jukebox music reached my ears like distant battlecries and lamentations.

Padilla emerged from the alley. His movements were furtive, like a dog's that has been kicked. He looked up and down the street, pretending for an instant that he couldn't see me.

I got out of the car. "Did she do any more talking to you?"

"Yeah." He moved uneasily on his toes, his left shoulder slightly raised. "I don't get it. She says it was Holly May that Secundina was scared of."

"Did she name her?"

"She didn't have to. It was her, all right. Secundina saw her with Gaines and Gus Donato the night before last, the night she disappeared. They had a refer party up in the mountains."

"Where in the mountains?"

"Arcadia doesn't know that she only knows what Secundina told her. Gus had marijuana contacts and he provided the weed. Secundina went along for the ride. It was quite a party, the way she told it to her sister. Holly was picking fights with people, yelling that she was the greatest actress in the world. Gus made a play for her, and Secundina stepped in, and Holly broke off the end of a bottle and went for her. I don't get it. She never acted like that on liquor."

Padilla dropped his protective left shoulder and stood back on his heels.

"Was Holly smoking marijuana?"

"She was certainly high on something."

"It changes people sometimes, Tony. It acts like a trigger on unstable people."

"Yeah, I know."

"I want you to think about this, Tony. Could you be mistaken about Granada?"

"Yeah," he answered slowly. "I could be mistaken. I could be wrong about anybody, I guess. I'm sorry if I gave you a bum steer."

I didn't answer him. I was so tired.

"I got carried away, maybe, too many things at once. I get these days when my whole damn life rears up on its hind legs and smacks me."

He threw a short left hook at an invisible opponent. His fist completed its arc at the side of his own jaw. He half turned toward the alley.

"Where are you off to, Tony? Shouldn't you be getting back to work?"

"Arcadia wants me to stay with her. She put Torres in the clinic for nonsupport. Now she's scared to be alone herself. She thinks maybe she's getting susto."

"What is susto?"

"Bad sickness. The doctor says it's psychological, like. My mother says it's from an evil spirit."

"Which do you say?"

"I dunno. They taught in high school there was no such thing as evil spirits. But I dunno."

I had a secretary check old telephone books for the names mentioned in the newspaper clipping which was in Larry Gaines's old wallet.

"I believe I've located the place you're looking for," she told me. "It's a small city called Mountain Grove, inland from here about sixty miles, in the Valley. More than half of the names check out, and I have their addresses for you."

She handed me a carefully typed list. There were street and telephone numbers for six of the names, including an Adelaide Haines who lived on Canal Street. I felt a rush of satisfaction. I had been needing it.

"No Dotery?" I said, and spelled out the name for her.

"No. It was an old telephone book, though, that they had at the answering service. While I was there, incidentally, some man called for you, Colonel Ferguson. He wants you to come out to his house, he said. He intimated that it was very urgent."

"How long ago was this?"

"Twenty minutes or so."

The floodlights were burning outside Ferguson's house when I arrived, throwing long shadows along the cliff and up the driveway. A dusty late-model car stood in the turnaround. I thought I knew it, and looked in. It was a rented car, according to the registration slip. A light hat with a sunburst band lay on the front seat.

When Ferguson opened the door, the short and passionate man from Miami was standing close to his elbow. He said to Ferguson: "Who did you say this is?"

"Mr. Gunnarson, my local attorney. This is Mrs. Salaman, Mr. Gunnarson."

"I know him."

"That's right," Salaman said. "At the Poothill Club, in the parking lot. Why didn't you tell me you were Ferguson's lawyer? We could of got things settled there and then." He smiled without showing his teeth.

Ferguson looked drained and miserable. "Let's not stand around in doorways, gentlemen."

We followed him into the big room that overlooked the ocean. Salaman took up a position in the middle of the room, like a proprietor. The swelling in his arm pit was quite prominent in the light, radiating wrinkles across his sabbardine jacket.

"What is this all about?" I said.

He nodded—peremptorily at Ferguson. "Tell him."

Ferguson said in a husky voice: "Mr. Salaman is a businessman from Florida. He claims that my wife owes him a good deal of money."

"Claims is not the word. She owes it and she's going to pay it."

"But my wife isn't here. I told you I have no idea where she is."

"Don't give me that." Salaman wagged his head with sad tolerance. "You know where she is, you'll tell me. If you don't, we'll run her down. We got an organization behind us. But that would be doing it the hard way."

Salaman wants money, or else: "Your little doll won't be making no more movies, Colonel. Maybe horror movies." Continue the story tomorrow.

Emotional Problems In Schools To Be Discussed

WILSON — Teachers from the area will gather here Friday to discuss classroom emotional problems with the nation's top expert on the subject, Dr. Arthur T. Jersild, Professor of Education at Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City.

About 600 teachers are expected to attend the two session workshop which is being sponsored by the Wilson County Medical Health Association.

One session will be held at Charles L. Coon Junior High School here Friday afternoon at 3:45 p.m. The other session will be held at Darden High School here Friday night at 8 p.m.

Dr. Jersild will lecture at both sessions and will then be available to answer questions put to him at discussion periods following the lectures.

Dr. Jersild has recently authored a book on the subject, "When Teachers Face Themselves." This publication is being followed up with current research on the way in which personal emotional concerns influence a teacher's life and work.

Mrs. J. C. Eagles, Jr., President of the Wilson County Mental Health Association, said today that Friday's workshop is the second in a series dealing with emotional problems in the schools. The first was held last September and dealt specifically with the emotional problems of students.

Dr. Joseph L. Campbell, Director of the Wilson County Health Department and Acting Director of the Wilson County Mental Health Clinic, will preside at the afternoon session. Dr. Jack Wilkerson of Stantonburg, Vice-President of the Wilson County Mental Health Association, will preside at the evening session Friday night.

Buy Gold Mine In Recession Move

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—One Phoenix union local has developed its own anti-recession program.

About 100 members of The Setters Local 4 bought a gold mine near Bumblebee, about 50 miles north of here. About 40 of them are unemployed.

"The men are thinking they might as well work the mine themselves until things pick up," said Howard Reidy, union business agent.

Old Theater Is Not Yet 'Dead'

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — The marquee sign on the Park Theater, Worcester's last neighborhood movie house, which supposedly closed forever Sunday night, proved to have been prophetic.

"Let No Man Write My epitaph," the sign read.

Tuesday four business men bought all the assets of the 22-year-old theater from owner Kenneth Forkey of Laconia, N. H., with a view to reopening it.

'Removed' Arm That Offended

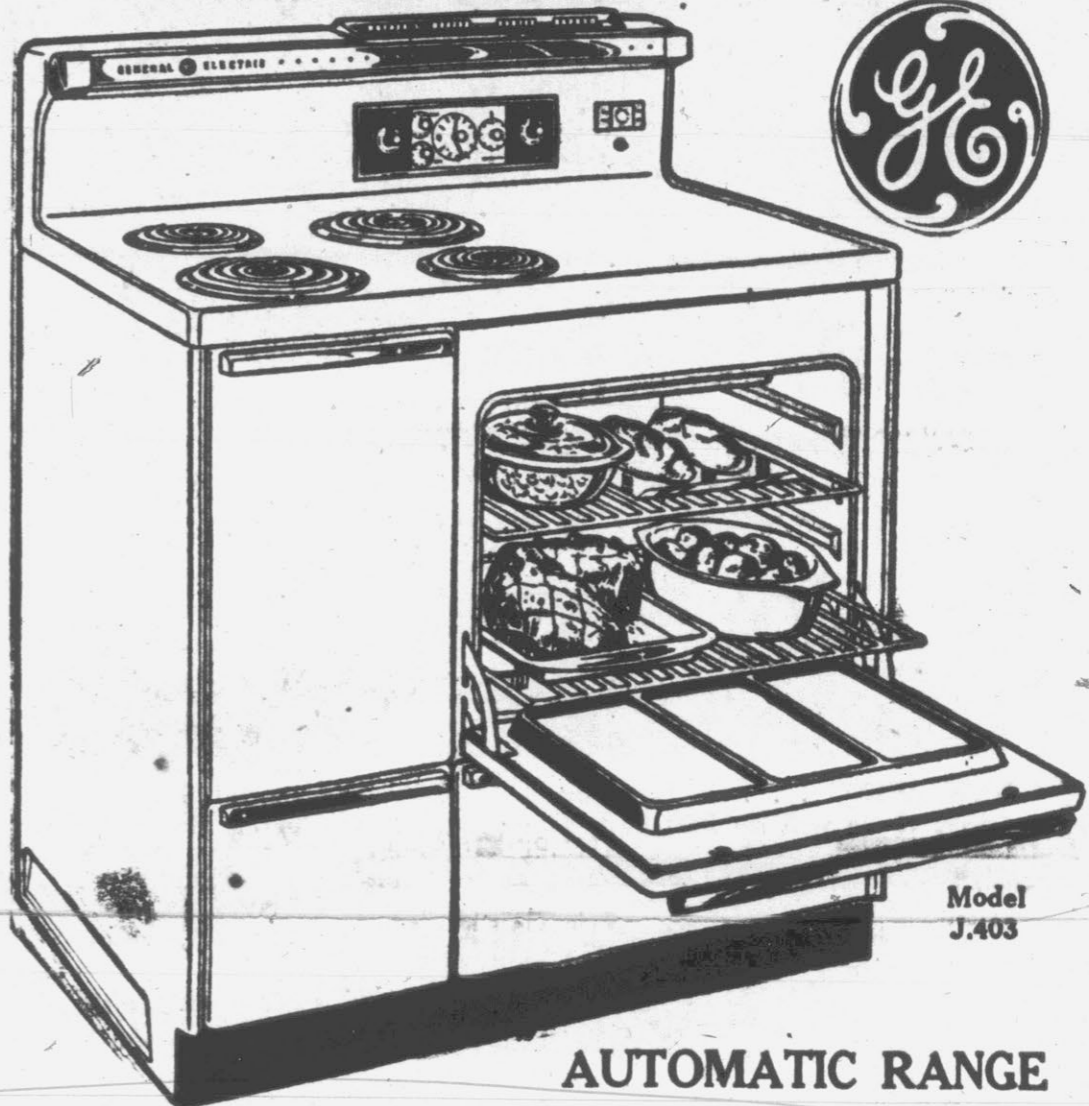

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A man who said he let a freight train run over his right arm after drug addict James Homer Morrison was killed in a holdup, was indicted for murder Tuesday.

When arrested Jan. 23, Mickey Covington explained his action with a bible quotation: "If thy right hand offend thee, cut it off."

Nixon Advised To Run For Post

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., came to town with some advice for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon: Run for governor of California in 1962.
 "Historically, Dick Nixon needs high public office if he's thinking in terms of '64 or '68," said Goldwater.
 The senator's remarks were made at a news conference Tuesday. Of Nixon's prospects in a California gubernatorial race, he said:
 "He's the only Republican I can think of right now who could beat Gov. Brown. It's his duty to run."

Ted Kennedy New $1-A-Year-Man

BOSTON (AP) — Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, youngest brother of the President, has become a $1-a-year man in the office of the Suffolk County (Boston) district attorney.
 A graduate of the University of Virginia Law School, he was sworn in Tuesday as an assistant district attorney. The job carries an annual salary of $7,700. Kennedy sought to serve without pay but, since state law forbids this, he will receive a token salary of $1.

Some Say Anti-Trust Conspiracy Due Chaos

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — How did the "big anti-trust conspiracy" among most of the nation's makers of electrical equipment start? How did it spread? How did it work?

In corporate circles many claim it just grew naturally in an attempt to bring order out of a chaotic situation. The industry was plagued by frequent ups and downs, by price cutting in which only the big could survive, by inability of small companies to enter new fields.

So it turned to what similar companies often do in Europe, to what was done here during the depression under the NRA.

Once started, price fixing and market dividing kept on growing. The federal government says operations became almost perfect in the industry which averages $2 billion sales a year. Some executives borrowed methods very probably they had read in whoopis.

Fines for what the government calls a cynical and long-established violation of antitrust laws come to almost $2 million and more startling to many businessmen—seven of their colleagues are sentenced to jail for 30 days. The Justice Department scoffs at company pleas that the deals actually were good for both the makers of the big gadgets and the public and customers because market stability benefits all. The government says the customers—public and private—were faced with rigged bids to maintain or raise prices and give all hands a predetermined percentage of the business. Good for business maybe—but against the law.

Getting started was relatively simple, as shown in the statements by government and defense attorneys before Chief Judge J. Cullen Ganey in U. S. District Court.

In this specialized industry most executives know each other and meet frequently at conventions such as the completely above-board ones of the National Elec-

Prices were agreed upon and often business apportioned by seeing that companies took turns in making the best bid for a job. Sometimes rotation was made by frequent checking-of-market-conditions. Sometimes it was automatic, each taking its turn at a prearranged time. Sometimes it was geographic—areas set up in which specified companies rotated with the winning bids.

The government charged, and defense attorneys admitted, two types of meetings: the high level at which prices and shares of business were set; the low level, at which subordinates saw to the rotation of winning bids as market conditions determined. (Some companies say their very top men were unaware of the practice at all.)

The bubble burst when customers complaining that American bids over the years looked too much alike and were well above foreign bids for the same equipment.

Greenville used a one-point halftime lead as a springboard here last night and leaped to a 54-48 Northeastern Conference victory over Jacksonville.

The victory ballooned Greenville to fifth place in the conference, breaking a tie with the Cardinals.

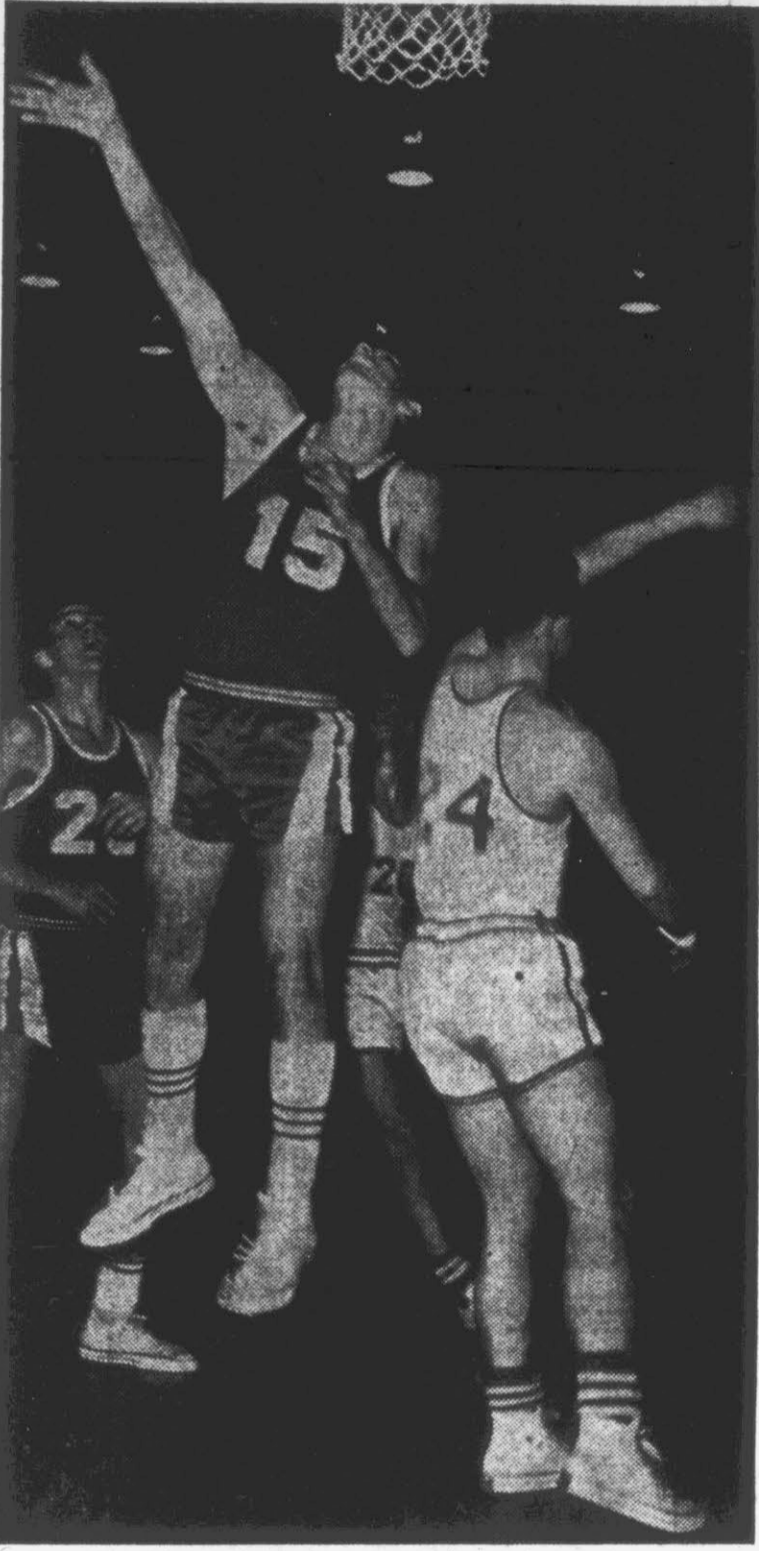

The Phantoms played the game much like the dreary winter weather — unpredictable but rough — but came out with its fourth conference win of the season against the same number of setbacks.

Coach Bo Farley's starters grabbed the lead early but had to scramble all the way before moving into a safe lead midway the final half.

Even in the late stages victory was in doubt when Jacksonville's caused the jittery locals some uneasy moments.

Greenville blew an early seven point lead when Jacksonville scored three baskets within a minute to cut the margin to 29-28 at halftime.

Bethel 95 Chicod 64

CHICOD—Stampering Bethel failed to slow down here last night in a Pitt County assault that turned back hopeful Chicod, 95-64.

Despite several first half Bethel scoring sprees, it was the second half before the roof was lifted from Coach Bob Howell's upset hopes.

Winning its 14th conference game and 20th of the season, Bethel bagged 44 points in the first half but needed a 32 point third period to assure the win.

Getting good scoring from Ephraim Smith and Ray Fornes, Chicod held on for one half, scoring 33 points.

Chicod's girls posted an upset in the opening, knocking Bethel from the second place perch with a shattering 40-37 setback.

Mary Louis Hudson was the shining star in the upset, scoring 31 points. Carolyn Manning was high for the losers with 17.

The locals built an early lead and survived Bethel's late charge for the victory.

Winterville 62 Farmville 39

WINTERVILLE—James Braxton, a six foot five inch center, led Winterville's Wolves to a 62-39 shelling over a punchless Farmville basketball team here last night.

Braxton spread his points out evenly throughout the contest as the Wolves closed their home season on a winning note.

But the preliminary contest between the school's girls' team will be the topic of conversation for a few days.

An overtime match saw the Winterville lassies squeak by the Red Devil girls, 46-45. The end of the regular time saw both teams locked at 43-43. Winterville forward Carolyn Barnes scored all three Wolverine points in the overtime period to cap the victory.

The Winterville star was the leading scorer in the contest with 22 points. Kay Allen led the Farmville lassies with 13 points, two of which were scored in the extra period.

In the boys' game, Winterville was down 11-8 at the end of the first period but bounced back with a 21-point second quarter and sailed in with its fifth straight win.

Alfred Gold was close behind Braxton in the scoring column with a total of 11 points.

Farmville, never able to click, shifted its lineup from time to time and Ben Moore finished with eight points for high honors.

Robersonville 44 Jamesville 29

JAMESVILLE—Host Jamesville went to pieces in the final quarter here last night, scoring only one point, and dropped a Martin County Conference game to Robersonville, 44-29.

Jamesville, running into a cold spell, could net only one point in the final period while the visiting Rams breezed in 16 big points, winning with room to spare.

Actually, the Rams' shooting per cent in the final period wasn't too high, hitting only two field goals, but they converted 12 free throws.

The Rams were slow starters with only two points in the first period but Jamesville was good for only six.

Jimmy Brown had 18 points in the victory while Askew led the losers with 13.

Jamesville's girls ran their unbeaten string to 17 in the opener, 63-55, but not before a rough skirmish.

The locals led the lead from the start but could never move into easy street, leading only 45-40 after three periods.

Scoring star Dianne Griffen tossed in a variety of shots in tallying 39 points, 20' coming in the first half. Ceelia Clark raked in 32 to pace the losers.

Gimeno Surprise On Kramer's Net Tour

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—When Jack Kramer signed Andres Gimeno for his professional tennis circus last July, a lot of folks thought the money-man had lost his touch.

Here was a 22-year-old Spaniard, who never had won much of anything during a brief international career, being "thrown to the lions" the likes of Lew Hoad, Ken Rosewall and Pancho Gonzales.

"I wondered why Jack was signing me, too," Gimeno said today. "I always thought I might make a good player someday, but to be thrown in with that crowd did scare me."

Instead of being a whipping boy, though, Gimeno has played the other pros to a standstill. At the moment Alex Olmedo is leading the tour, but Gimeno is bunched with Gonzales and Hoad right behind him.

"I did get a break when the tour started out," said Gimeno. "We played most of our matches on clay, and I was used to it. The Americans and Australians were more used to grass."

Gimeno, who is handsome, slim and single, has played champion Gonzales twice on the tour—and beaten him twice.

"I shook all over when I first played him," said Gimeno, "but once the match started, it didn't bother me. Another thing that has helped—I start fast. Some of the top players like to take it easy at the start and fall behind."

Said Kramer: "I wasn't so dumb. I spotted Andres' potential in '58 in Wimbledon. Matter of fact, I saw him play only three or four games when I decided to go for him. He's the first of the crowd with a lot of potential but who isn't a big name. I think he might replace Gonzales some day."

Full Slate For North Staters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lenoir Rhyne, the North State Conference pace-setter, puts its 16 game winning streak on the line tonight, meeting non-league Belmont Abbey in Charlotte.

The game, which pits two of North Carolina's leading small college cage powers, will be the second between the two schools. Lenoir Rhyne won the previous encounter on a last-second goal, 65-64. Belmont Abbey takes a 12-5 record into the fray and Lenoir Rhyne, the North State's surprise team, is 20-2 over-all.

In other games tonight, all conference affairs, East Carolina (9-4 in the conference and 9-5 overall) plays at Catawba (8-5 and 13-9); High Point (7-6 and 7-9) is at Western Carolina (4-9 and 5-17) and Elon (9-5 and 14-9) visits Appalachian (9-5 and 13-7).

All conference teams were idle Tuesday night.

In a game involving independent Pembroke, Wofford College whipped the North Carolina team, 81-77, at Spartanburg, S.C.

Ask Nationally-Ranked Duke

'Pack Still Packing Big Punch

By DON WEISS Associated Press Sports Writer

Tobacco Road isn't winning championships with the monotony of his first decade at North Carolina State.

Third-ranked Duke became the latest victim of Case and the Wolfpack Tuesday night, falling to its first Atlantic Coast Conference defeat and only its second in 18 games—61-59 on sub Terry Litchfield's long jumper with two seconds left.

Hudgens scoring 25 points, went into a pressing zone, made up a 14-point deficit and beat Arkansas 72-66 for its sixth Southwest Conference victory in seven starts.

Bubas, Cameron To Speak Today

DURHAM (AP)— Duke basketball Coach Vic Bubas and Athletic Director Eddie Cameron were to appear today at a noon news luncheon here.

A spokesman at Duke said Cameron and Bubas would "review the season and answer questions."

Horror Movies Rule Choice Of Patterson

SPRING VALLEY, N.Y. (AP)— Floyd Patterson must prefer horror movies to happy endings.

Patterson, who plans to leave for a Florida camp next Tuesday, said he weighed 196 "about a week ago" when he last stepped on the scales.

Behind them comes N.C. State fourth member of the "Tobacco Road" quartet that has boomed North Carolina into the basketball capital of the South since shortly after Case came from Indiana in 1946 to take over the Wolfpack and raise college basketball interest to a fever pitch in the area.

Did Patterson expect to abandon his peek-a-boo style?

Patterson boxed four rounds Tuesday in training for his March 13 fight with the Swede in Miami Beach.

St. Joseph's (Pa.) gave scoring ace Jack Egan the night off but still crushed Elizabethtown 96-65 for a 15-4 record.

"The first fight is when I made the mistakes," explained Patterson to newsmen visiting his training quarters at a country club.

"I don't think so," he said. "Did you think I did in the work-out? I was trying different things. But in an actual fight, I would have my hands back up there."

St. Joseph's (Pa.) moved closer to a tournament berth. Texas Tech, with Harold

"I am not trying for any particular weight," he said. "Whatever comes is all right with me. I like to work with heavy sweat pants. Before other fights they were afraid I would take off too much weight so I boxed in trunks only. But this time I have weight to spare."

While State was showing it should still be reckoned with in the ACC tournament that determines the league's NCAA representative, Texas Tech, Princeton, Rhode Island, and Kentucky improved their conference ledgers and St. Joseph's (Pa.) moved closer to a tournament berth.

Grifton 78 Contentnea 51

GRIFTON—Billy Mahler and Alan Jackson triggered a smooth-working Grifton offensive machine here last night that manufactured a 78-51 non-conference win over Contentnea.

The Grifton girls tamed the visitors in the preliminary game, 78-51, thus sweeping both ends of the Tuesday night twinbill.

Mahler, controlling the backboards as well as taking his turn at shooting, completed the night with 26 points, eight more than Jackson who had 18. Tommy Riley was in double digits with 13.

Phillips led the losers with 23 and Baruch had 13.

Jane Mewborn poured in 27 points to give Grifton complete control in the opener. Greet added 24 and Smith had 14.

Lang was the top gunner for the game with 39 points.

The Bulldogs led all the way in both games and were never seriously threatened.

Ayden 91 Stokes-Pactolus 33

AYDEN—Coach Stuart Tripp emptied the bench early here last night as spunky Ayden whacked the daylighters out of winless Stokes-Pactolus, 91-33, in a Pitt County league game.

The home girls rallied in the last half to triumph 36-31 in the first game of the Tuesday night twinbill.

Clem McLawhorn and Ted Norris, a couple of tigers under the boards, boosted Ayden into a 17-5 first quarter lead and gave way to reserves midway the second period.

McLawhorn retired for the night with 17 points and Norris had 15. Barnhill tossed in 10 for the losers.

Andrea Harris scored all but eight of her team's points in leading the Tornados lassies to an uphill victory.

Harris' 28 points stood out as high for both teams. Lillian Crisp tossed in 14 for the losers, who led 20-18 at halftime.

New Champion Wants Shot At Archie Moore

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Harold Johnson is the new National Boxing Association world light heavyweight champion, but he still isn't quite happy.

"I don't feel like I'm the champ yet," the usually taciturn Philadelphia said in his dressing room Tuesday night after stopping young Jesse Bowdry of St. Louis in the ninth round to win the blessings of the NBA.

"When I beat the old man (Archie Moore) I'll get that feeling," Moore knocked out Johnson in the 14th round in Johnson's only other shot at the title. The NBA whisked the crown from Moore's furrowed brow when he took an indifferent attitude toward defending it.

The sharp-featured, muscled Johnson has been seeking a return bout since that 1954 kayo, with frustration piling on frustration. Tuesday night he put his frustration to work. Usually a cautious fighter, he suddenly turned tiger.

He put Bowdry on the canvas three times in a classic variety of poses, and after the third knockdown referee Cy Gottfried decided the wobbly, woozy, rubber-legged youth was in no condition to continue.

The end came in 45 seconds of the ninth round. The record crowd of 4,017 which paid a non-record $20,829.50 started whooping.

Johnson was an artist. Bowdry the tenacious bulldog making himself a difficult target. The first few rounds were uneventful.

Late in the sixth Bowdry landed a couple of good punches, suddenly became too brave. He drove in again, and was clipped by a left hook. He started to throw another punch, but suddenly fell apart in a delayed action fall. He took a count of nine.

With two seconds to go in the eighth a right and left combination dumped him in a jackknife pose. He was resting on the back of his neck when the gong sounded.

Johnson was a whirling pinwheel of action as the ninth opened. He threw punches from everywhere, with a solid left to the midsection the clincher. Bowdry went down for the final time, and would have been a sitting duck when he arose had not the referee intervened.

Irvin Takes NS Scoring Lead

GREENSBORO (AP) — S. J. (Jug) Irvin, Elon junior, takes over as the North State Conference's No. 1 scorer this week.

Irvin, with a 31-point performance against High Point a week ago, pushed his season average to 20.1 points per contest to displace Atlantic Christian's Jack Boyd.

Boyd, slipping into the No. 2 position this week, fell to 19.4. Ken Smith, Irvin's running mate with the Christians, moves into the No. 3 spot on a 17.3 figure, a jump ahead of Appalachian's Rick Howe at 17.0. Jerry Fritz of Atlantic Christian moves all the way from the 16th spot into the No. 5 position this week on a 16.3 average.

Car Theft Ring Found In Probe Of Bank Holdup

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A probe into a recent bank robbery at Welcome, N.C., led the FBI to place charges Tuesday against six Lexington men in an unusual auto theft ring.

Two of the six also face charges in the $3,433 holdup of a bank in nearby Welcome on Jan. 14.

Donald Roney, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, said information picked up in the bank robbery investigation led to uncovering the auto ring, which involved wrecked cars and transferred serial numbers.

Charged Tuesday in the auto ring were Hoyle Kenneth Justice, 27, also in custody in the bank robbery; Gerald Edward Stansel, 23, sought in the bank robbery; Woodrow McKay Shoaf, 37; Fred Max Leonard, 29; Robert Douglas Justice, 25, and Clifton Franklin Freddie, 30.

Roney said Shoaf, Leonard, Freddie and Robert Justice are charged with interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle. The others are charged with conspiracy to violate the stolen motor vehicle act.

Hearings are planned Friday for Shoaf, Leonard, Freddie and Robert Justice. They were arraigned Tuesday by U.S. Commissioner Boyce Sink in Lexington. Each man was placed under $5,000 bond pending the hearing.

The FBI said Hoyle Kenneth Justice, now being held in lieu of $25,000 bond at Winston-Salem in the bank robbery, admitted his part in the ring.

Roney said the men used parts from wrecked autos and those of similar makes to rebuild cars with a completely changed identity. Serial numbers of the wrecked cars were placed in the rebuilt cars.

The specific charges offered Tuesday involve the theft of a 1959 Pontiac in Danville, Va., last Oct. 11 and a 1959 Chevrolet in Danville on Jan. 3. The cars, the charges specify, were brought to Lexington and dismantled. They were reassembled, the FBI contends, and sold for as much as $2,200.

The FBI said the Chevrolet involved was sold in South Carolina and Hoyle Kenneth Justice was driving the Pontiac when picked up in the Welcome bank robbery.

Autos Properly 'Frozen Assets'

NEW YORK (AP) — If there ever was a frozen asset around here, it's the automobile.

Hundreds of thousands of them are entombed along the streets and parkways of New York City alone, not to mention the suburban areas. They're literally buried under mountains of snow.

If there should be another considerable snowfall soon, many of them probably won't be seen again until the Fourth of July. It's going to take a real summer thaw.

Some of the vehicles are miles from home—abandoned as drivers bogged down Friday night in the midst of the latest big storm to hit the metropolitan area.

Drivers and passengers in their cars very nearly froze, too, before they could reach the warmth and safety of private homes, bars and other places of refuge. Getting home after that was quite an ordeal, also.

Practically every conversation here goes something like this: "Hi John how are you how did you make out the other night gosh let me tell you what happened to me."

Punctuation simply gets lost in the rush to tell—first.

One of the most critical areas in the city was on the Belt Parkway, a major three-lane thoroughfare which links the South and North Shores of Long Island through Brooklyn and Jueens.

More than 1,000 men, women and children got stuck in cars there Friday night.

Fleets of the cars are still there, although the parkway has been partially cleared for emergency traffic only. Snowplows just shoved them aside—as they did others elsewhere in the city—and then heaped even more snow on them.

One thing for sure, nobody is likely to steal any of them.

It would take a thief days to dig most of them out.

New Engine For Rocket Plane

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The next X15 rocket ship flight for Air Force Maj. Bob White—possibly next week—will be in a model with a powerful new engine.

White rehearsed for this role Tuesday by etching the rocket ship's new "hot nose" in an X15 with a small temporary power plant developing 16,000 pounds of thrust. He reached a speed of 2,712 M.P.H. during an 11-minute flight.

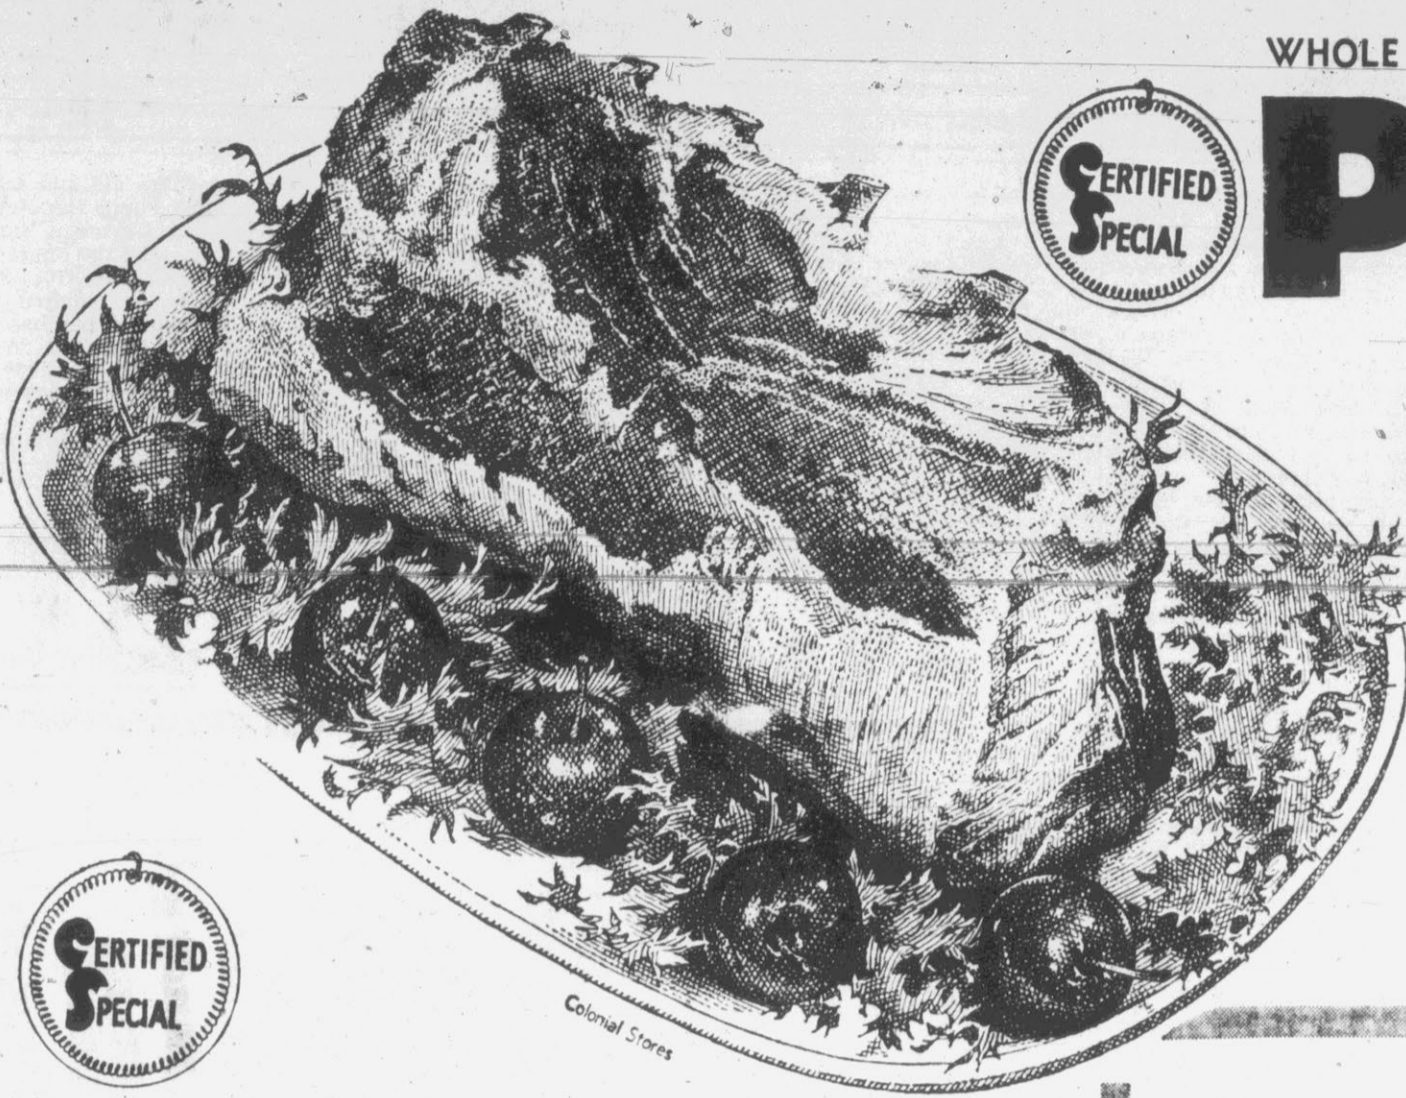

The more powerful model is designed eventually to rocket man from 50 to 100 miles at speeds of 4,000 M.P.H.

The X15's new rounded nose, replacing the earlier needle-like antenna, contains instruments to help the pilot re-enter the atmosphere at a safe angle.

LABOR LAW VIOLATORS TOKYO (AP)—Police Tuesday arrested four men for selling 90 girls into prostitution at resorts throughout Japan. The four were charged with violating labor standard and employment promotion laws.

A high-power rifle cartridge theoretically is one having a muzzle velocity of more than 2,000 feet per second.

One Night Included Two Quality Dramas

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—This dull and imitated television season has been notable to date for the paucity and shoddy quality of its dramatic offerings.

But Tuesday night things perked up considerably. There were two special dramatic programs, and each was excellent entertainment.

For this double helping, many thanks to NBC. First there was "Time Remembered," a 90-minute TV adaptation of a Broadway play by Jean Anouilh. It's plot in outline surely reads like a tragic psychiatric case history, but it was a lunatic and very funny comedy. (That is not redundant: I've been watching unfunny comedies for months.)

Then there was an hour-long playlet called "A String of Beads," based loosely on a Somerset Maugham short story, but actually a morality tale dressed in chic Park Avenue clothing. It will probably make young Jane Fonda, in her TV debut, the discovery of the year.

"Time Remembered," was wild, sophisticated, whimsical and based on a thoroughly macabre subject. The plot concerns the efforts of the Duchess of Port au Bronze to shock her son out of his long grief over the unfortunate death of his beloved. The lady, a famous ballerina, had swept Prince Albert off his feet, only to die three days later by accidentally strangling herself while making a particularly dramatic gesture with a scarf.

For two years, the disconsolate prince had withdrawn into his memories of lost love. Our play opened as his mother brought into his life Amanda, a happy, healthy little milliner who bears a great resemblance to the deceased.

Unfortunately, she was unable to impersonate the dancer successfully. For instance, she loathed champagne and had no taste for orchids, and as Prince Albert explained, he had never lived exclusively on these delicacies. "She nibbled orchids constantly," implied the duchess, "but only the tender heart. Of course, she discarded the tough outer petals."

But, of course, all ended happily, and the live and lively milliner won the prince in fairy tale fashion. It was a great cast, in which Dame Edith Evans, a magnificent duchess, and pert little Janet Munro as the girl, Christopher Plummer handles comedy adroitly although Tuesday night he had a tendency to sound and act like Edward Everett Horton, which is amusing but not quite the right note for a romantic hero.

"A String of Beads" was merely the story of a secretary who bought a $120 string of cultured pearls in an extravagant gesture and then found that what she had acquired by mistake was a string worth $60,000. The resulting situation—she wanted to keep the jewels—forced her to decide what she really wanted from life. Of course, it wasn't the beads at all, but the poor but young law student.

The rather soapy story was well-acted by Chester Morris and Louisa Horton, who played the girl's employers with problems of their own. But it was Jane Fonda who added the zest to the program. She is vivid, appealing and has a fresh distinctive personality of her very own.

All in all, it was a most pleasant evening. I wish we had them more often.

Recommended tonight: Steel Hour, CBS, 10-11 (EST)—"The Big Splash," a suspense tale with Arlene Francis and Jack Carson.

NOTICE OF RESALE OF REAL PROPERTY NORTH CAROLINA PITT COUNTY
Pursuant to the power and authority vested in the undersigned Commissioners by order of the Superior Court of Pitt County, duly signed and entered on the 9th day of December, 1960, and an order of resale thereof on the 27th day of January, 1961, by Honorable H. L. Lewis Jr., Assistant Clerk of said Court, and that certain special proceeding therein pending and entitled "In the Matter of Ralph Blount, Lula Mae Blount, Frances Moore, Agnes J. Miller, Raymond H. Joyner, Minnie Moore, Mary J. Albritton and husband, Jasper Albritton, William Earl Jones, Lottie Mae White and husband William White vs. Richard Blount, Johnny Joe Moore and Florence King," the undersigned Commissioners will on Monday, February 13, 1961, at 12:00 o'clock noon at the Courthouse door in Greenville, N. C., offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash, the bidding to begin at $2,780.00, the amount of the last bid, the following described real property, to-wit:

That certain tract or lot of land and the three (3) houses thereon lying and being in the Town of Winterville, Winterville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows: On the west side of the railroad and situated on the west side of Allen Edwards' lot and BEGINNING on the street at Allen Edwards' southwest corner, contains northwardly with Allen Edwards' line 70 yards to Allen Edwards' northwest corner; thence westwardly parallel with Toney Tyson Street to extend Mills St.; thence southwardly with Mills St. to Tyson St.; thence eastwardly with Tyson St. to the BEGINNING at Allen Edwards' corner, containing one-half (1/2) acre, more or less. Being the same property decided to Herman Moore by those deeds which are recorded in Book G-11 at pages 419 and 420 of the Pitt County Public Registry.

Sale will be made subject to confirmation by the Court and will remain open ten (10) days for raised bids, as required by law, and the proposed purchaser at the sale will be required to deposit with the Court ten (10%) per cent of his bid pending confirmation of sale.

This the 28th day of January, 1961. RALPH P. HARDEE, Commissioner, ROBERT BOOTH, Commissioner Feb. 1-4-8

Gives Up Driving Rights, To Walk

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A spry, gray-haired woman walked into the motor vehicle department office—and surrendered her driving license.

"I'd rather walk," said Eunice Cochran, 90. "The cars seem to come at you faster all the time."

Mrs. Cochran, mother of a municipal judge, has been driving since 1915. She has never had an accident and only one citation—when she made an illegal U turn in 1933.

Mrs. Cochran said of driving: "It used to be a pleasure but not any more."

OUTLAW PRESS

COLOGNE, Germany (AP)—Four Communist newsmen were given prison sentences totaling 51 months Tuesday on charges of plotting against the West German state. The four published a weekly newspaper for the Communist party, outlawed in West Germany.

Tomorrow Only, Staff Director In Greenville, N. C. Will Show How To Save Hair And Stimulate Hair Growth

Thursday, Feb. 9, at the Proctor Hotel in Greenville, N. C., Staff Director, Mr. J. M. Botkins, will give free hair and scalp consultation between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. to hair worried men and women.

Before After Mr. T. A. Melton, Jr.

Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists, the oldest and largest organization of its kind, makes regular visits to Greenville throughout the year to assure you of success in a minimum period of time. Erickson is now in its eighth year. Last year alone, over one-quarter million Erickson home scalp applications were used.

Baldness is slow and gradual, even in the most common forms. The source of common causes are mistreatment and neglect.

If you now, or have in the past, noticed dandruff, itchy scalp, excessive oiliness or dryness, excessive hair fall or thinning at the temples or crown, you should see Mr. J. M. Botkins tomorrow. He will determine the results you can expect, how long you will have to use Erickson products, and how much the cost will be.

FREE CONSULTATION
There is absolutely no charge or obligation for your free hair and scalp consultation. The only obligation is to yourself to save your hair. You can easily follow this new modern method in the privacy of your home.

In a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss (a condition described as male pattern baldness), we know of no treatment including the Erickson treatment that is of value. None of the persons shown have male pattern baldness.

USERS HAVE SAID:
"Am very well pleased with treatments. . . . Bald spot is completely covered."
"My hair is coming in real good on the top and sides where it is thin."
"The treatment has eliminated the dandruff and the itching of the scalp."
"More than satisfactory."

Before After Mrs. Virginia Barnes

GUARANTEE SATISFACTION
You will be given a written guarantee by the Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists guaranteeing satisfaction with our products from beginning to end. So, why put off your hair problem any longer?

For your free hair and scalp consultation, go to the Proctor Hotel between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. on Feb. 9, in Greenville, N. C., and ask the room clerk for Mr. J. M. Botkins' room number, or call him. He does not make appointments, so come at your convenience. Consultations are given in private. You will not be embarrassed in any way.

EXCLUSIVE PAINT FRANCHISE

One of America's fastest growing paint firms, Mary Carter Paint Company, is offering exclusive single or multiple unit retail franchise to qualified individuals. Over 500 stores are already operating successfully in 35 states.

The success of our franchise is due largely to specific dealer advantages: No franchise fee - FREE delivery service - unlimited 50-50 co-op that is not predicated on the purchases - a skeleton stock inventory of only $5,450.00 is permitted - an exclusive franchise is granted - only 5% of your capital is in non-saleable inventory (fixtures, equipment) - there are no hidden costs. Your total investment including operating capital is as low as $6,500.00. A turnover of 8 to 10 times per year is average for our retail branches.

Our unique continuous FREE PAINT OFFER is a key factor in producing this exceptional volume. Consequently, immediate profits is commonplace with a Mary Carter franchise.

The promotional success of this advertising appeal enables you to operate a low overhead, cash, super-market-type operation. We share your advertising costs 50-50 based on what you want to spend - no tie in with purchases or percentage of sales.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market resumed its upward drive in heavy trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 50 at 254.80 with industrials up 1.10, rails up .30 and utilities up 1.00.

Gains of fractions to about a point among key stocks outnumbered losers as the list moved out of irregularity amid a series of trading waves.

Brokers said the chart action of a number of issues, combined with corporate news, gave incentive to traders.

Airlines, rails, nonferrous metals, tobacco, drugs, motors, chemicals, and aircraft were generally higher. Utilities, steel, and rubbers were mixed.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.48 to 645.42. Corporate and U.S. government bonds were irregular in quiet dealings.

Industrial Arts Conference Set

School administrators and high school teachers in North Carolina have been invited to attend the Third Annual Industrial Arts Conference, which will take place at East Carolina College Friday, February 10.

Discussion at the meeting will focus attention on the "Planning and Construction of School Shops for Industrial Arts."

Dr. Thomas J. Haigwood, associate professor of the industrial arts department at the college, is chairman of the meeting. It is the hope that the conference will answer some of the questions faced by school administrators as new industrial arts programs are initiated and as the offerings of existing programs are increased.

Child Swallowed Pills In Purse, They're Deadly

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — Four-year-old Patricia Poston died in a hospital here Tuesday night after having taken 20-25 phenobarbital tablets. Doctors had worked throughout the day to save the child and had considered her almost out of danger.

Acting Cleveland Coroner Bob Walker said that the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Poston, said the child apparently climbed onto a chair and took the tablets from the mother's pocketbook on a cabinet shelf. Walker said the mother had been taking the tablets for a nervous condition.

The parents said they believed that Patricia took the tablets about 9 a.m. and they first realized something was wrong when the child began staggering about an hour later. She was rushed to the Cleveland Memorial Hospital.

Walker said no inquest is planned.

A pathologist said the child took a dose of the compound which "would have been enough to kill an adult."

Now 239 Tags Sold In Grifton

GRIFTON — Grifton automobile tag sales yesterday were reported to number 239 by Town Clerk Joyce McCoy.

Police Chief Luther Lewis reminded residents of Grifton who own automobiles that the February 15 deadline for buying the tags is nearing. Those who fail to display their tags will be arrested after the deadline has passed, Lewis stated.

Charge Larceny Of Govm't Check

Greenville police, yesterday, arrested Samuel Short, 25-year-old Negro of 610 Hudson St. on charges of larceny of a government check.

Officers said Julius Murphy of 610-A Hudson St. reported yesterday the check, for $61.40, was taken from his mail box some time Monday.

Short allegedly gave the check to three Negro boys to cash for him. When the boys attempted to cash the check they were picked up by the police and led to officers to Short.

Bootleg Charge Facing Woman

Julia Daniels Worthing, 25-year-old Negro of 604 McKinley Ave., was arrested last night on charges of possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale when officers found three quarts of illegal booze in her house.

The woman was placed under a $200 bond for her appearance in city court.

Making the arrest were Pitt County ABC officers H.B. Lilley and Walter Taylor.

Optimists Hear Director Green

Dr. Sylvester Green, new executive director of the Pitt County Development Commission, told Greenville Optimists "progress is everybody's business" in an address here Monday night.

He posed the question: "What do you want for this community?"

Dr. Green told the Optimist group "crystallized progress" can be realized for a community through growth in civic facilities, culture and pride.

Growth in those areas, he said, requires "patience, ingenuity, understanding and energy." He said a coordinated effort in those directions would be required to "make the attractive community where people will enjoy living, where new business will want to locate."

Prior to Dr. Green's address, Optimist M. E. "Red" Cavendish won the weekly meeting's door prize. Club President Walter Whitehurst presided and announced next Monday's program would be presented by Tom Whitehurst and Bob Lee.

U.S. Listens To Mexico's Woes, Points To Own

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — After two days of listening to Mexico's troubles, U.S. delegates to an interparliamentary meeting here are pointing out that the Mexican senators and deputies opened the meeting, first such in history, by reciting their nation's economic and social woes. They urged the United States to cut tariffs, ease trade regulations, make loans, and help Mexico in other ways.

U.S. Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., called a meeting of the 21 other U.S. senators and representatives attending the meeting and urged them to take the offensive in a friendly way.

Mansfield suggested that they point out that the United States also has unemployment, a critical flow of dollars abroad and other major economic and social problems.

Legislators from both nations stressed the exchange of views has been completely amicable and highly successful.

Church Contests $260,000 Bequest

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Episcopal church has filed a suit here contesting a will by one of its longtime parishioners who bequeathed $260,000 to a catholic nursing home.

The petition filed Tuesday asserts that Mrs. Sylvia Ann Morgan, an Episcopalian for most of her active 93 years, "was not of sound mind" when she made out a new will after her conversion to catholicism and shortly before her death last Dec. 30.

She didn't leave the Episcopal church a dime, the petition said.

Plan Re-Writing Constitution

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — British and Southern Rhodesia political leaders today made preparations to draft a new constitution for this colony that will give Africans a stronger voice in Parliament.

The Southern Rhodesia Constitutional Conference wound up Tuesday after agreeing on changes to double the voting strength of Africans and grant local control of native affairs, previously controlled by the British government.

The British and Southern Rhodesia governments now will work out details of a draft constitution.

Nathan Leopold Weds Widow

NEW YORK (AP) — Nathan Leopold, paroled 1924 Chicago thrill killer of 14-year-old Franks, was married in Puerto Rico Sunday to a widow who owns a florist shop, New York newspapers reported today.

Leopold, now 57, works as an orderly for the Brethren Service Hospital at the inland Puerto Rican village of Castaner.

Leopold and Trudi Garcia de Quevedo were married by a judge at Castaner, the reports said.

Turkey To Cite Defensive Role

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — The Turkish government will tell the Soviet Union any NATO rocket bases built in Turkey will be purely defensive, according to sources close to the Foreign Ministry.

The Soviets complained to Turkey last week about Turkish press reports that such bases were planned.

Re-Scheduled Participating In Oratorical Contest Here

The basketball games between Greenville's Rose High School and Tarboro, which were postponed last week due to bad weather, will be played in the Rose High Gym Thursday afternoon.

According to Principal O. E. Dowd, the junior varsity game will begin at 4 p.m. while the varsity game is scheduled for 5 o'clock.

Dowd said the games were scheduled for the afternoon so students would not be required to be out on a school night or be out of class.

Ayden Police Announce Stolen Car Is Recovered

AYDEN — The Ayden Police Department announced recovery of a car stolen in Greenville yesterday, and reported that the Greenville Police Department had recovered an automobile stolen here this week.

Officer Ed Hudson of the Ayden department recovered the Greenville automobile. Police Chief W. D. Brooks said it is the second automobile Hudson has recovered in two weeks. In all, Ayden officers have recovered about five stolen cars since the first of the year.

The other automobile recovered in Greenville, belonged to Mrs. Bernice Braxton of First Street, Ayden. The automobile was taken about 7 p.m. Sunday from its parked position in front of the Ayden Free Will Baptist Church, Brooks said. Greenville police recovered it Tuesday morning in Greenville.

Investigation in the Ayden cases is continuing.

License Granted To Foundation

During January, licenses were granted by the State Board of Public Welfare to 13 organizations, including East Carolina College Education Foundation, to conduct fund-raising campaigns through public solicitations.

Solicitations will be used for the support of their programs. It was announced by Dr. Ellen Winston, commissioner.

The East Carolina College Educational Foundation is among 12 which received licenses and who have held licenses for previous solicitation periods.

Fell Seven Floors Into Snow Bank

NEW YORK (AP) — Nereida Rodriguez is one New Yorker who is grateful for last weekend's snowstorm.

Nereida, 16, fell seven stories from a kitchen window of her West 148th St. home Tuesday — and landed in a four-foot snow drift.

She was hospitalized with a possible spine fracture, possible rib fractures and a cut on her right leg.

Doctors said that if it hadn't been for the snow, she almost certainly would have been killed.
