Small UN Force Retreats After Congo Port Battle

By PATRICK MASSEY LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Wary U. N. soldiers laid down their arms and withdrew from the key Congo port of Matadi after 24 hours of bitter street fighting with Congolese soldiers, a U. N. spokesman reported today.

There, the U. N. supply operation would be gravely endangered. Trouble blew up in the hillside town 60 miles up the Congo River when Congolese units erected road blocks to impede the movement of U. N. personnel. Two helicopters also were seized as they touched down at nearby Boma. That was on Friday.

control unit still is operating in the port and the Congolese have pledged not to interfere with U. N. stores stacked in Matadi's dockside warehouses. (Canadian army officials in Ottawa said they had learned that eight of the nine Canadians at the radio station had reached Leopoldville "relatively unharmed.") The fate of the ninth Canadian was not known.

Others present were Kasavubu, his premier, Joseph Ileo; President Moise Tshombe of Katanga; Albert Kalonji, leader of the "Mining State," he has proclaimed in South Kasai Province; Jean Bolikongo of Equatorial Province; and Barthelemy Mukenge of North Kasai.

Pitt Board Approves New Industrial Training School

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer Pitt County's commissioners today unanimously approved establishment of a $360,000 industrial training school for the county. Voting on a motion by Commissioner J. Vance Perkins of Greenville, the board approved the school and instructed County Attorney W. W. Speight to proceed with preliminaries to issuing county-wide bonds to finance the project.

Humber expressed appreciation on the county's behalf to Dr. Carroll and to Wade Martin who heads the State Board's department of vocational education. Humber described the approval of the school for Pitt as a means of "fortifying the economy of the area."

A building site for the school—recommended by State officials to be at least 25 acres—must be decided upon, Humber said the State board recommended the school be placed near Greenville.

Commissioners Consider Enlarging Sheriff's Dept.

Pitt County's commissioners this morning moved to open the way through legislation to a larger county Sheriff's Department. After hearing comments from Walter B. Jones and Curtis H. Flanagan of Farmville, the five-man board voted to request the county's representatives to the General Assembly now in session to secure legislation that would allow a larger number of deputies.

showed larger Sheriff's staffs serving populations smaller than Pitt's 70,000. Jones, a former Pitt County representative to the House, told the commissioners he was appearing at the request of law enforcement officers and citizens "from throughout the county."

State Sees Revenue Up Over 1960

RALEIGH (AP)—Thanks largely to the withholding plan of collecting income taxes, North Carolina's tax revenues in February showed a big increase over the same month a year ago. Revenue Commissioner W. A. Johnson reported to Gov. Sanford today that the state's collections for the month totaled $53.3 million as compared with $42.9 million in February, 1960.

General fund collections altogether totaled $30.6 million as compared with $20.4 million. The big jump in income tax collections resulting from the withholding and declaration of income payments was largely responsible.

Collision Fatal To Blounts Creek Man Over Weekend

Death resulted for a Blounts Creek man when the pick-up truck in which he was riding and a tractor-trailer collided about eight miles west of Aurora Saturday afternoon.

Jenkins received injuries in the crash and was taken to a hospital by the Washington Rescue Squad. Foreman was not injured.

Police at Charlotte were investigating the fatal shooting of John Maronie. Detectives said Maronie apparently shot himself while examining a pistol. He was alone at the time.

Whichard Is Club Speaker

The Cosmos Book Club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Vance Harrington as hostess.

The home was decorated with arrangements of pink and red camellias.

The hostess served a dessert course, with nuts and coffee, assisted by Mrs. W. M. Scales, Jr. and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell Jr.

Mr. David J. Whichard II, introduced as guest speaker, spoke on Urban Renewal.

In the preliminary planning, a 74-acre area is under consideration, but this is subject to revision by the committee. The government is committed to spend $48,000. The area must be marketable in three years—must have resale value after it is developed. Finally, available housing must be supplied for moved-out families. Public Housing is probably the answer; but these problems should be resolved before any more money is spent, he said.

Mr. Whichard continued by explaining how Urban Renewal works. The Redevelopment Commission plans in detail which property will be acquired and the most feasible method of changing it. There must be a public hearing on these plans with costs submitted. The plan may be revised and submitted to the City Planning and Zoning Commission where it is studied, returned, thence to the City Council with a public hearing, and then comes the final disposition of the plan. If the plan is approved, an application is made to the Federal Renewal Commission for aid to carry out the program. The city plans and pays one third of the cost with the government paying two thirds.

In the work stage, if a price cannot be agreed upon for acquisition of property, can be taken to court with the city paying court costs. The area to be redeveloped would have streets improved, utilities installed and property sold to private individuals on a bid basis. All property would be sold except that retained for public use. Public Housing could be the key to the whole plan. Five member committee would be appointed to determine if there is a need for such. If so, they would recommend a long term loan for a specific number of units, and 40-year bonds would be issued with the Federal government guarantee. Eligibility for occupancy would be determined locally under the Federal Housing Act. The tenants would pay no more than 20% of their incomes as rent, and the rent on such units would be 20% lower than standard housing in the community. For each public housing unit, a substandard unit would be destroyed or improved.

A question period followed Mr. Whichard's talk.

During a short business meeting presided over by Mrs. Quinn Bostic, the club voted to make donations to both the Heart and Cancer Crusades.

An acknowledgement was received of the contribution to the new Pitt County Bookmobile.

Charge Women In Escape Plot

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Two young white women have been charged with smuggling hacksaw blades to four federal prisoners in a futile escape plan.

The FBI arrested the pair Sunday on federal charges of violating the escape and rescue statute. Donald Roney, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, identified them as 21-year-old Sue Yvonne Allen Pearson, also known as Bonnie Sue Allen, and 17-year-old Katherine Goodman Jordan, both residents of a trailer camp near here.

U.S. Commissioner C. Boyce Sink set bond at $500 apiece for their appearance in U.S. District Court.

The four prisoners included Gerald C. Graves, 31, of Flint, Mich., who is charged with the $5,443 robbery of the Welcome branch of the Lexington State Branch on Jan. 14. Others are Rufus Lee Bellomy and Harry Smith, being held on charges of interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle, and Arthur Herbert Ransom, being held on a counterfeit charge.

The prisoners were confined in the Stanly County Jail at Albemarle on Feb. 23 when the young women smuggled two hacksaw blades to them, the federal complaint alleges.

Tunisian Exile Expects Failure

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Exiled Tunisian opposition leader Salah Ben Youssef predicted today failure for Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba's attempts to mediate a settlement of the Algerian conflict.

"I disagree with Bourguiba's proposals for independence on the installment plan and I insist on complete independence for Algeria," Ben Youssef said.

4-H Clubs Had Start On Agricultural Note

(Editor's Note: Following is the first in a series during National 4-H Club Week, March 4 - 11. Jimmy Dilda of the Farmville Senior 4-H Club tells the origin of the 4-H Club, as well as explaining their projects.)

By JIMMY DILDA
 Farmville Senior 4-H Club

In the 4-H Club, boys and girls organize into groups with skilled leaders who help them to learn, work, plan, and play together.

A member of the 4-H Club has the opportunity to give demonstrations on local, county, district, and maybe state or national levels. These demonstrations, plus the records of various projects that a 4-H'er carries, help to build leadership and to develop poise and self-confidence. Each member is prepared physically, mentally and spiritually to become the leaders of tomorrow.

The 4-H Club motto is: "To Make The Best Better". A member learns never to give up or to be satisfied with what he is doing or has done. He strives to improve.

First 4-H Club
 The first 4-H Club originated from a corn club that was started by a group of boys and their agriculture teacher. Later, tomato clubs were started for the girls. Gradually the two merged and formed the present day 4-H Club. Today 4-H Clubs may be found in every state and many foreign countries.

A 4-H'er learns by doing. He has the opportunity to better himself, his family and his community by carrying a variety of projects and keeping careful, accurate records.

Examples are as follows:
 Gardening — here the boy or girl bears the responsibility of producing fresh fruits and vegetables for the family; Food Preparation — the 4-H girl learns how to cook and prepare flavorful and nutritious meals; Soil Conservation — 4-H'ers are taught the best methods of soil care and conservation; learning how to restore soil and resources and how to manage soil properly for the good of all; Safety — boys and girls learn to practice good safety habits; Field Crops — the 4-H'er puts into practice the best and most modern methods of planting, cultivating and harvesting such crops as corn, cotton, tobacco, peanuts, soybeans, wheat and oats; Livestock — each 4-H member owns and cares for a pig, bee, cow, dairy, cow, or sheep. He learns and practices proper breeding, feeding, marketing methods; Clothing — the girls learn to sew, cut out patterns, make aprons and dresses, and many other clothing articles which improve the wardrobe. In addition to any project a 4-H'er carries, he also carries the health project. These are only a few of the activities that a 4-H Club member may engage in to better himself and prepare for the future.

Wants Ethics Written As Law

BOSTON (AP)—Gov. John A. Volpe wants the Massachusetts Legislature to write into law a declaration "that public office not be used for personal gain."

That's part of the preamble to Volpe's code of ethics for state government — a proposal which would give Massachusetts the nation's most comprehensive state conflict of interest law.

He proposed a commission on conflicts of interest—in effect, a five-man conscience for state government.

It would include a clergyman, a Supreme or Superior Court Justice or former justice and at least one additional attorney.

The commission would set standards to guard against actual or potential conflicts of interest, enforce the code of ethics, and advise state officials "faced with resolving difficult and close decisions of propriety."

A few critics of the governor's plan already are objecting, with a familiar theme: "You can't legislate morality."

Volpe's code of ethics was the first special message the Republican governor presented personally to the Democratic legislature.

Now the governor is taking his case to the people. He has said the public must take a big share of the blame for abuses in government. "The evils that have developed in political affairs do no more than reflect in great measure the moral corruption of the people," Volpe said in a Worcester speech.

To Elect Officers
 Annual election of officers will be conducted at the stated meeting of Greenville Chapter No. 149, Order of the Eastern Star to be held at the Masonic Temple in Greenville at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. Other important business will also be considered at this meeting. The Worthy Matron urges all members to be present.

Israel Bond Sale Sees Big Start

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A record opening sale encouraged the Israel bond organization today in its quest for $80-million financial support in 1961 for Israel's development.

Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz of New York City said cash and pledges totaled $18,465,000 at the end of a conference which inaugurated this year's drive. The old record was $16 million set in 1957.

Samuel Rothberg of Peoria, Ill. conference chairman, pledged Sunday that the current campaign will bring Israel bond subscriptions to a 10-year total of $500 million by April 20, Israel's 13th birthday.

Idea Of Area Airport Still 'Alive'

The area approach to new airport facilities is still very much alive in some parts of Eastern North Carolina in spite of the unsuccessful efforts of Pitt and other counties a few years ago to bring about such a facility in the central part of Eastern North Carolina.

The approach now being made by Bertie, Hertford and Northampton Counties apparently is on a much more limited basis than was the effort in which Pitt was involved, but for the three counties involved it represents an ambitious and worthwhile undertaking.

Await Leaders For Opposition

By LYNN NISBET LEADERSHIP—A big question as the General Assembly of 1961 moves into its fifth full week of activity is who will emerge as the recognized leaders of the contrasting or opposing groups.

At the beginning of every legislative session the presiding officers appoint committees and designate the chairmen. The named chairman are presumably the qualified leaders. It does not always work out that way.

A few illustrations out of the many that could be cited will serve to prove the point. In 1931 Edwin B. Jeffress of Guilford had a minor position on the House roads committee—but he emerged as the strong man in that group and became first chairman of the combined State Highway and Public Works Commission, after the prison department was consolidated with highways.

Angus D. MacLean had secondary committee assignment on the finance committees in the 1931 House and the 1933 Senate, and he more than any other person is credited with transferring the tax burden for public schools from ad valorem property levies to the sales tax.

A freshman Representative from Forsyth county named Ralph McDonald had a low place on the House finance committee in 1935—but his activities, aided and abetted by Willie Lee Lumpkin, put him in position to be a serious threat to the entrenched conservative powers in the gubernatorial race of 1936.

INHERENT—It is axiomatic that real leaders are born, not made, although circumstances and conditions contribute materially to their development as recognized leaders. In that connection a wisecrack by the late Marvin Nash, several times legislator from Richmond county and later a prominent attorney at High Point, is pertinent.

Someone was complaining in 1925 and 1927 that the Legislature lacked leadership. "That just ain't so," said Mr. Nash. "There are plenty of willing leaders—50 in the Senate and 120 in the House. What we need is 'followership'—the willingness of legislators to go along with basic ideas and programs."

Although that was a facetious quip, it has a lot of common sense.

CURRENT Analysis of the capacities and the qualifications of many of the committee chairmen in the current General Assembly indicates that they have varying degrees of proven capacity for real leadership, the ability to handle controversial bills in committees and on the open floor of the legislative sessions.

Opinion widely prevails among off-side observers that many chairmen will need material help from committee members to get their bills enacted into law. Some of the chairmen just don't have the ability or the knack to pilot the legislation for which they have major responsibility. So it will not be at all surprising if some heretofore unknown and unrecognized persons emerge as accepted leaders of opposing factions.

One thing seems to be certain. Unlike the situation that prevailed in the 20's when Marvin Nash said there were 170 prospective and eager leaders, majority of the membership in the 1961 Legislature is wisely looking for leadership—for somebody with courage and capability to say "come on, let's go." To date no such person has appeared.

LEGISLATIVE—We are talking here about recognized leadership among the rank and file of members of the General Assembly. There is almost universal recognition of Governor Terry Sanford as a forceful leader, who knows where he wants to go and he wants to get to his goal. It is conceded that Lieutenant Governor Cloyd Philpott, as President of the Senate, and Joe Hunt as Speaker of the House are in full sympathy with the Sanford program. To date, after 60 days of the Sanford administration and more than four weeks of the legislative session, there is no indication as to who will be the recognized leaders for or against the administration program on the floors of the House and Senate.

Main reason for that is the Governor has not yet announced the details of his program. His second budget message, scheduled for presentation Monday night, March 6, is expected to clarify this point. Very soon after that lines will be formed and legislators will be staked out. Committee chairmen may be expected, though not necessarily required, to go along with the administration policies. It will not be at all surprising to long time observers of legislative process if the real leaders for or against the program emerge from down the list in ranks of committee members. And it will not surprise some of these old-timers if opponents of the administration program show more skill and competence than his supporters.

The important fact to be remembered is that up to now nobody has come out of the 1961 General Assembly with the qualifications and recognized capacity of real leadership.

As well as the citizens of Northampton, Bertie and Hertford will recognize the genuine advantages a joint air facility offers to their area.

Eastern Carolina, with its predominant rural population, obviously cannot take the one-community approach to developing adequate air facilities if it expects to be successful. At the same time, the area must recognize the need for air facilities and improved air service if it is not to be left behind transportation progress being made by other sections of North Carolina. The cooperative approach by several communities and counties is the only logical, long-range method of solving this problem faced by this section of the state.

Perhaps the efforts now being made in Bertie, Hertford and Northampton Counties will re-kindle interest in joint air facilities among other counties of Eastern North Carolina.

County Must Consider Future 'Total Voice'

Rearrangement of representation in North Carolina's General Assembly must be considered on a broad basis with a view to the total representation of the various counties and areas of the state in both houses of the legislature.

Although the legislature in the final analysis may adopt separate measures for redistricting Senate representation and reapportioning House representation, the measures should be considered as a package rather than as individual and unrelated pieces of legislation.

There are a number of proposals now in the making for solving the problem of representation in the state's General Assembly. Some of these proposals involve redistricting for the 50 Senate seats, others involve only reapportionment of the 120 House seats, and still others approach the matter from the broader viewpoint with consideration for the seats in both the House and the Senate.

In fairness to all of the counties of the state, it seems to us that a realistic approach to overall representation in the legislature must reflect the individual county's representation in both houses. If this is to be accomplished, redistricting of Senate seats and reapportionment of House representation cannot be considered separate and apart from each other.

When it considers its total voice in legislative affairs, a county obviously must view the relative voice it has in each of the two houses of our General Assembly. It cannot take the position that its representation in the House has no relationship to its representation in the Senate.

Too much emphasis, we think, has been given to the approach that so far as the state and its individual counties are concerned, redistricting of Senate seats and reapportionment of House seats are two separate problems.

Redistricting of the Senate and reapportionment of the House are part of the total problem of the representation each county of the state will have in the legislature. In the interest of the individual counties as well as the state as a whole, an approach involving the seats in both houses should be taken by the legislature.

Dangers In New Interest Policy

By RALPH ROBEY One of the early pronouncements of President Kennedy was that short term interest rates should be reduced. At the time this was widely regarded as impractical, but the Federal Reserve System has now changed its policy to meet this aim of the President.

During the Second World War and for several years thereafter the price of government bonds was pegged by the Federal Reserve. This was done by the Reserve banks standing ready to buy any amount of such obligations offered to them. The argument used to support this policy was that it saved the government money on the carrying charges of the borrowing and debt. And there is no doubt that it did hold down the carrying charges, but what was saved in this category was offset many times by what the public lost through inflation.

Finally, in 1951 the famous Treasury accord was agreed to and under this the Federal Reserve System was permitted to stop pegging government bonds. At the time the present chairman of the Federal Reserve board of governors, William Martin, Jr., was in the Treasury Department and he has been generally credited with working out the accord. Since then the policy has been to buy long term Treasury obligations only to prevent a disorderly market. Otherwise the Reserve System has limited itself, with only one or two exceptions, to short term Treasury paper. This has come to be known as the "bills usually" policy.

There is one more important historical fact that needs mention before explaining the change just made by the Reserve authorities.

In the spring of 1960 our commercial banking system was running with deficient reserves of about $500 million. This was covered by redemptions at the Reserve banks. The result was relatively high interest rates, both on long and short term. Without announcement or explanation the Federal Reserve gradually began to buy short term Treasury paper in the market. The effect of such purchases is to give the member commercial banks more reserves. Another effect is to reduce the yield on such short term paper.

This policy was continued until the commercial banks had free reserves of over $200 million (reserves requirements also were changed) and the rate on Treasury bills was reduced by almost one half. One result of this was that this brought our short term rates so much below

Representative Republic

Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

This is a representative republic, controlled by a written Constitution and by Acts of Congress as interpreted by the Supreme Court. By a representative republic is meant a government chosen by the people at elections for specific terms of office and with limited responsibility. Under the American Constitution, these limitations are stated in very general terms, but as the economic and political life of the country has grown increasingly complex, laws have had to be passed which in 1787 would not have been thought necessary and the Constitution has been modified to meet these new conditions. This particularly applies to matters of inter-state commerce, of public welfare and of the general defense.

When Theodore Roosevelt and Robert La Follette favored the Referendum and Recall, they were regarded as wild radicals. Today, both these ideas are recommended by men and women who regard themselves as conservatives. They agitate for direct action against the Congress, the Court and other government officials with whose views and actions they disagree. This would be the Referendum and Recall. It would bring us closer to a democracy than to a republic.

The dissatisfaction with the Court arises from the "Communist decisions" and from the Brown Decision which dealt with the question of segregation.

The principal objection to many of the recent decisions of the Court is that they are, in reality acts of legislation, the Court assuming a function to which it is not designated. One of my correspondents writes: "But we cannot lie down and die, as the men in Korea had to do, while we are betrayed by our own government. If there are men in our judiciary, government, education, etc., an infimum, betraying us, it is our duty to expose them and get rid of them before they succeed in destroying our country. These all sound like platitudes—that's how platitudes are born."

This is a profound emotional response to a grave sense of injustice. There is too great a tendency to call everything crackpot which is not currently fashionable. The fact is that over the country, groups are organizing themselves in opposition to what they regard as a negation of the American philosophy of government. There are, for instance, about 100 conservative clubs on campuses and the number is increasing. "Young Americans for Freedom" is an exciting youth body, outspokenly conservative. "The John Birch Society" consists of adults, organized all over the country, to advocate special causes such as the impeachment of Chief Justice Earl Warren. They publish a magazine, "American Opinion."

The principal conservative publication is the "National Review," the circulation of which increases although it does not receive much advertising from business firms. This weekly publication has gathered together a group of brilliant writers, mindful of the "New Republic" in the days of Walter Lippmann and Herbert Croly. Russell Kirk in Chicago, edits a quarterly, the "University Bookman," which is conservative and intellectual.

In addition to these publications are numerous pamphlets, newsletters, opinion circulators of every type of thought, some of which need to be taken seriously by the student of politics and social conditions, and others, of course, must be pushed aside because they represent blatant opportunism. But even the latter are interesting because one wonders where the support comes from. The "hate" sheets are particularly shocking and the question is who puts up the money for untruthful statements and miserable distortions. Yet, even such publications give evidence of depth of discontent and discouragement, not among the economically unfortunate, but among all classes, particularly the professionals, physicians, dentists, lawyers.

Tariff Exemption Cut A Gesture

By ELMER ROESSNER Very little gold will be saved by President Kennedy's proposal to reduce tariff exemptions from $500 to $100 on purchases made by American tourists.

The facts are these: The average traveler, after paying fares and the cost of tourist living abroad, has little left for buying articles to bring home. In fact, a rising number of travelers haven't got the ready cash for the trip in the first place and resort to "pay later" plans to get to European resorts.

Of today's tourists, only 15 per cent use the full exemption; 82 per cent don't spend even $200 on purchases abroad. Many items tourists buy would not be dutiable anyway. Antiques, original works of recognized artists and books more than 20 years old are exempt. Many others are taxed lightly. Art reproductions of all kinds are taxed only 10 per cent. Foreign cars are taxed only 8.5 per cent, and a car bought new in Europe is a used car by the time it is offloaded at an American port.

By ROGER BABSON BABSON PARK, Mass. — It has long been thought by scientists that the sun should some day give us free power. Unfortunately the clouds and storms have prevented this. Furthermore, nations in different latitudes would get different amounts of sun power, and all latitudes would get varying power according to the time of year. HARNESSING POWER OF GRAVITY

I again call readers' attention to the work which the Gravity Research Foundation, of New Boston, N.H., is doing in fundamental physics. By giving grants to colleges the Foundation hopes to interest students in harnessing gravity to supply free power anywhere in small units. But first it must discover a partial insulator, or absorber, of gravity. The Foundation now has the world's best files on gravity and is giving $1000 annual awards for the best original essays upon the subject. These essays average over eighty a year and come from the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, and other countries.

DISCOVERIES IN SPACE EXPLORATION While the Defense Department of the United States, Russia, Great Britain, and other countries have been spending billions on missiles, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company has been making some very important experiments. By the use of microwaves and other processes they have succeeded in sending signals through space hundreds of miles above the earth. With power waves "bounced" from one orbiting object, or man-made satellite, to another.

These experiments have aroused in me a great interest in "space travel." I am not interested in having men go to the moon or having the military attack any enemy from a hundred or more miles up in the air. I, however, am greatly interested in the work of the Telephone Company. This will first be used in sending messages and television waves. I earnestly watch the newspapers each day for such "Space News."

POWERFUL ELECTRIC WAVES SHOWERING THE EARTH The next step will be to capture and harness the electric waves which are coming toward us every hour of every day. They cannot be shut off by clouds or storms; they fall upon all nations equally. Their power, all of which now goes to waste, is terrific. I believe that the Telephone and electric utilities will combine to concentrate these waves over a nation and give each free power. This would be better and cheaper than the use of uranium. My use of the words "free power" refers only to the generation of electric power. Distribution systems will continue to be needed. Hence I am more bullish on an electric power company securities because they may have no generating costs.

I forecast that each of the five largest countries in the United Nations will have its own "transformers" in the sky securing electricity from the radiation off the thousands of galaxies in the sky. For years the astronomers have known of these galaxies and of the electrical rays they are emitting; but their intensity has been known only since the "Space Age" discoveries and measurements.

I understand that the future space program will now be under the personal attention of Vice President Lyndon Johnson. He says we may expect the landing of a planetary spacecraft in 1962; and in 1963 the safe landing of certain instruments on the moon. Our "Midas" under the direction of Dr. Werner von Braun, now of the Huntsville Center, could be depended upon to make more new and important discoveries.

These governmental developments will primarily be to warn us of what the Russians, or other potential enemies, may be doing as well as to give us knowledge of impending hurricanes and other destructive forces. Although paid for by us, they will be given freely to all nations. The next step will be the study of these electrical currents which will finally be harnessed to give each nation free power. This would do much to hasten world peace.

Home-Use For Peace Corps Is Considered

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says the Peace Corps he has proposed may serve on the home front as well as abroad.

"One of the matters which we are now studying," Kennedy said, "is how we could use Americans who desire to serve in our own country—sum areas, in education and retraining and all the rest.

"We are now attempting to see how we can use this reservoir of talent and desire here in our own country as well as abroad."

The President's comments were recorded at the White House during a television discussion with Eleanor Roosevelt. The program was televised Sunday.

Overseas reaction to the peace corps idea varied. In many regions with low living standards, there was pleasure at the President's proposal.

Mrs. Roosevelt suggested during the discussion that some corps members might work in depressed areas in the United States. "That's right," Kennedy replied.

R. Sargent Shriver, the President's brother-in-law who was appointed director of the Peace Corps Saturday, also appeared on the TV program. He said proposals to have Peace Corps members work in settlement houses as part of their training for overseas service was being discussed.

Other corps officials said no decision had been made on the suggestion, one of many being considered.

Shriver said he wanted every American who desires to serve in the corps to have a chance to volunteer. Kennedy has said he hopes to have 500 to 1,000 young men and women in service around the world by the end of the year.

Mrs. Roosevelt called the response to the Peace Corps idea phenomenal.

Kennedy said the response was overwhelming. He added, "I think that we have really thousands and hundreds of thousands of people in this country who want a chance to be of service to the country and to the causes with which we are associated."

Volunteers will serve two or three years without pay, except for living allowances and perhaps a severance allotment. They will go to countries where they are needed and wanted and work particularly on teaching, health and agriculture.

Kennedy spoke of young men and women in the corps, but he added he hoped later it would cover every age group.

Shriver said the corps wanted to "get away promptly" because many of the young people who might be interested will be graduating in May and June and will have made other commitments by fall.

Shriver's group has recommended that service in the Peace Corps not be considered exemption from military service. However, he said, he would hope it might be considered as a reason for deferment.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., told a reporter he was working with the administration on legislation to set up the Peace Corps on a permanent basis.

Overseas reaction included this comment from an educator in Nigeria—where only 15 per cent of the population is literate: "Teachers, and more teachers is what we need most urgently. If America can supply some through its Peace Corps scheme we are wide open to consider any plan which has no strings attached."

Hong Kong's Communist T. Kung Pao said the United States conceived the corps as "an aggressive weapon, to infiltrate and win control over underdeveloped countries."

There was almost complete approval in Pakistan. In India, a spokesman said the idea was "revolutionary and idealistic."

In Britain, Lord Hinchinbrooke, a right-wing Tory, thought the naive, Jo Grimond, Liberal party leader, thought the scheme splendid.

Liz Taylor Said 'Improved' Following Restless Night

LONDON (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor had a restless night but she showed slight improvement this morning in her desperate fight against pneumonia, her doctors reported.

"There is a slight improvement in Miss Taylor's condition, but she is not out of danger yet," said a bulletin from the team of six doctors attending the Hollywood star.

Dr. Carl Heinz Goldman, Miss Taylor's personal physician, said she would be in the London Clinic for at least another 10 days and "she will need a long time to recuperate, perhaps a year."

The prospect of such a long period away from the cameras raised another big question mark over the future of the multimillion dollar epic "Cleopatra," in which Miss Taylor was to play the title role.

But Dr. Goldman said Miss Taylor "has tremendous fighting powers and I feel certain she will pull through."

Dr. Goldman said the tube inserted in the star's throat to help her breathing had made her restless.

"Dr. Middleton Price, the breathing expert, was with her all night," he reported.

"Cleopatra" was scheduled to start rolling again next month after long delays due to earlier illnesses of Miss Taylor. The delays are estimated to have cost more than $1 million so far.

Spyros Skouras, head of 20th Century-Fox, said in New York he was waiting for the outcome of Miss Taylor's latest illness before deciding what to do about the film. Earlier he had said he didn't care how long he had to delay, he would not replace Miss Taylor in the starring role.

The 29-year-old beauty was rushed to the exclusive London clinic by ambulance Saturday night with staphylococcus pneumonia. An emergency tracheotomy was performed, placing a thin tube into her windpipe to ease her breathing.

Miss Taylor was given one hour to live at one point, said her husband, Eddie Fisher, 31.

"I think she has turned the corner now and is fighting back," said the singer, weary from his long vigil at her bedside. Dr. Goldman reported that she was conscious but could not talk because of the tube in her throat.

An electronic lung machine was rushed 60 miles from an out-of-town hospital Sunday when Miss Taylor's breathing began to slacken.

The "Barnet ventilator," named for the hospital in Hertfordshire where it was invented, is a small square box that synchronizes artificial breathing with a patient's own natural breathing rate.

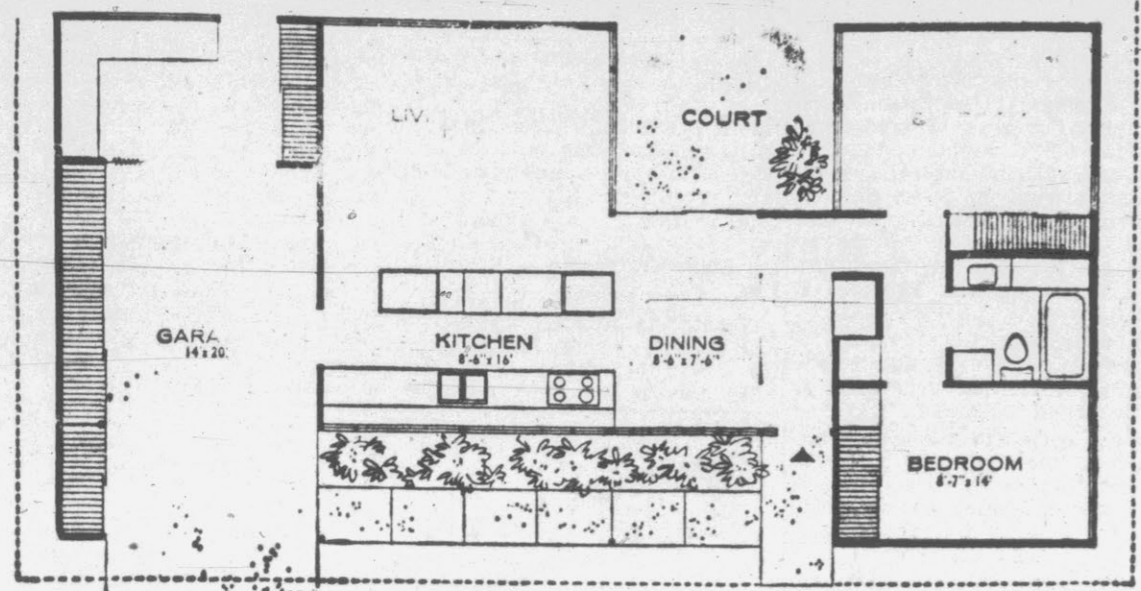

Within an hour after the Barnet machine went to work, Miss Taylor had improved enough to be moved back to her own private room.

Her parents came to see her late Sunday. Another visitor was Joseph Mankiewicz, the director who replaced Reuben Mamoulian for the making of "Cleopatra."

Miss Taylor came to Britain last fall for the filming of "Cleopatra" but became ill four days after shooting was to start on Oct. 14. She was in and out of the hospital twice with ailments variously reported as a tooth infection, a virus condition and meningitis, an inflammation of the membrane around the brain.

RETIREMENT HOME: Here is an artist's conception and a basic floor plan of the model home for the aged designed by architect Robert B. Waring, under the sponsorship of the American Association of Retired Persons and the Douglas Fir Plywood Association. It was displayed at the recent White House Conference on Aging.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Surveys to determine what the nation's elder citizens want in the way of housing are nothing new. But an on-the-spot survey, made in a house built for that very purpose, is a bit different.

The study was conducted only a few blocks from the White House in Washington. There on a downtown lot, a two-bedroom house was built especially for evaluation by the White House Conference on Aging. Designed by architect Robert B. Waring to include many special features considered desirable for families of any age and essential to those past 60, the house was completely furnished, decorated and landscaped. The entire project was under the direction of the American Association of Retired Persons, with half-a-million membership, and the Douglas Fir Plywood Association.

Three thousand delegates from every state and United States possession carefully looked over the house and then answered a lengthy questionnaire designed to determine the likes and dislikes of the elder citizens. There were some interesting results.

Told that this special house would cost between $10,000 and $12,000, including land, only 10 per cent of the delegates said their down payment would have to be less than $1,000. Thirty six per cent said they could make a down payment of up to $3,000. And 46 per cent said they could pay more than $3,000.

The design of the house, contemporary with a heavy influence from Japanese architecture, features an interior courtyard that helps to avoid the boxy appearance of many small houses. A high, beamed ceiling gives an airy feeling to the otherwise small rooms in the living area. While the house leans more heavily toward modern design than traditional, an effort was made to avoid clashing with what is considered the conservative tastes of most senior citizens. Eighty one per cent of the delegates called the design very good and 19 per cent thought it fair.

A bath tub was considered essential by 81 per cent of the delegates, with 59 per cent in favor of a shower as well as a tub. Only 19 per cent thought a shower alone was adequate.

Forty per cent said they would be willing to spend about $500 extra for a fireplace. Seventy eight per cent thought the size of the rooms about right. Twenty two per cent thought them too small.

Most of the senior delegates want more than a house. They are interested in available facilities in the area. For instance, 66 per cent considered it essential that there be nearby medical clinics or offices, 31 per cent considered them desirable and one per cent thought this was not important.

And, in case you are wondering, only 5 per cent considered nearby shuffleboard courts important, although 43 per cent wouldn't mind having them. The rest weren't interested.

Even Sea Lions Have Problems

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—Despite their ferocious-sounding name, sea lions are gentle creatures.

But they do have their problems. That probably is why skindiver Robert Evans of Alameda, Calif., is nursing a 14-stitch gash in his leg after an encounter near Monterey's Fishermen's Wharf, says Dr. Robert T. Orr of San Francisco's Steinhardt Aquarium.

The sea lion that attacked Evans, grabbed him by the leg and pulled him 50 feet to the bottom of the ocean is probably psychotic, Dr. Orr said. Evans saved himself by kicking his rubber flipper into the animal's eyes.

"There are mentally deranged sea lions, just as there are mentally deranged humans," Dr. Orr explained.

Such movements are usually not reported because they really do not make news unless they coalesce and nominate someone for the Presidency, as the Hillman faction of the labor movement built up the personality of Fiorello La Guardia or as the Left Wing of the New Deal came into power during Franklin D. Roosevelt's second term. It is difficult to report a silence or a resentment or an irritation. Yet out of such emotions come all popular responses to government.

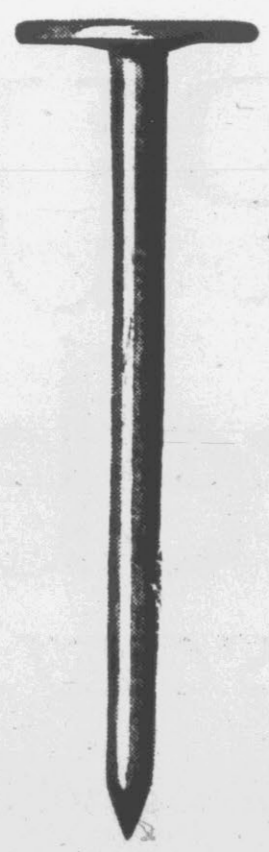

Conservatives are so varied in their ideas and their intensity that they have produced no national leader, such as Robert A. Taft was. Senator Barry Goldwater is a rallying point. Politically, conservatism cannot be limited to Republicans, since the center of such thinking is undoubtedly in the South, and in this country a political grouping must be around a party and a new political party can only come into existence with an affirmative program.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dynas®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation No. At all drug counters.

Microwaves Mean Business Horizons

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Bouncing phone calls off space balloons, throwing a railroad switch miles away, or beaming data between computers far apart, is done with tiny radio waves.

These and many other uses of microwaves are opening up fast now for all kinds of private business. A race is on among electronic equipment makers for the growing market.

The microwave industry already had been booming while sales were mostly limited to government defense and space projects and to the communications industry.

Equipment makers say annual sales are around $2 billion and just hitting their stride in the earthbound phase of the business. Space balloons or satellites could increase microwave usage and range many fold, both for public or private communication.

Private business got a go-ahead signal last fall when the Federal Communications Commission relaxed licensing of microwave systems.

"Microwaves will grow along with communication, automation, computers and central data processing," says Henry Feldman, head of PXR Inc., which began turning out equipment and testing instruments in 1944 in Woodside, N. Y. It expanded its plant in 1959 and again in 1960 and now is doubling its present size.

"Microwaves are a growing factor in those twins of modern business, communication and control, whether reporting a hotbox on a rail car or turning a valve in an oil refinery," he adds. His firm specializes in precision devices to tell just what microwaves are doing as they vibrate a billion times a second.

In the field of space both American Telephone & Telegraph and Radio Corporation of America are offering their own projects to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

These involve either a string of satellites to be used in turn by ground stations as they pass by, or a few that are stationary in the sense of orbiting at the same speed at which the earth moves. At present the balloon Echo I is being used for transcontinental conversations.

On the earth about 30 per cent of cross country phone calls already travel by microwave repeaters.

And Western Union is putting millions of dollars into a system of reflector towers that can carry 2.4 million words a minute in either direction.

The microwave, on frequencies of 1,000 to 20,000 megacycles, takes a very narrow beam that can be aimed precisely at small targets. Speech is imposed upon "carrier" waves flashed like light from one reflector tower to the next. At their destination the beams are reconverted into speech. Thousands of microwave messages can be carried in the space allotted to an ordinary radio channel.

Private businesses using the system are railroads, pipelines, utilities, turnpikes (for traffic

Choice Of Ogo, Ego And Pogo

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Initial contracts have been awarded for a series of geophysical satellites with the unusual names of OGO, EGO and POGO. First launchings are scheduled for 1963.

OGO — for orbiting geophysical observatory — is the overall name of the program whose 1,000-pound satellites will measure various space properties. EGO—eccentric geophysical observatory — will study these properties in a wide, swinging orbit ranging from 170 to 70,000 miles above the earth's surface. POGO — polar orbiting geophysical observatory — will take readings chiefly in the unexplored regions around the north and south poles.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Several companies have begun design studies for a nuclear-powered global range rocket called SLAM, capable of hitting targets anywhere in the world from mobile U.S. launching sites. SLAM, not expected to be ready for several years, would carry multiple hydrogen warheads at supersonic speed. It would be able to maneuver in space to avoid enemy defense measures and could approach targets from several different altitudes and directions.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Columnist R.G. Miller, who writes about Oklahoma's scenic spots, admits he had a red face recently. He received a letter asking where "Recognition Monument and Park" was located. And, one of the men honored is R. G. Miller.

This Time, General Grant Is Invited To Pay South A Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again, Gen. U.S. Grant is moving South.

The Grant headed below the Mason-Dixon Line this year is Maj. Gen. U.S. Grant III, grandson of the Civil War Union general of the same name who later became president of the United States.

The present-day Grant is going South invited.

He heads the 25-member Civil War Centennial Commission created by Congress to commemorate the 1861-65 events of the Civil War. As such, Grant received an invitation from the South Carolina Assembly to participate at the April 12 reenactment of the attack on Ft. Sumter, Charleston, S.C., where the war exploded in 1861.

In accepting, Grant said: "I regard my visit to Ft. Sumter and may work for the centennial as an inherited obligation."

Grant considers the commemoration of the Civil War as not a celebration, but as a marking of a terrific struggle "out of which the united country was produced."

At 80, he is tall and erect as a West Point cadet, white haired, with dignified and gentle manner.

As old as he is, Grant generally drives his own car around the country, making speeches about the Civil War commemoration.

His activities this year began Jan. 8 with special ceremonies at his grandfather's tomb in New York City. Still to come as definite engagements are Pensacola, Fla.; Des Moines Iowa; Ft. Sumter; Galena, Ill., April 29 for the U.S. Grant Pilgrimage for Boy Scouts of Winchester, Va.; Fontana, N.C., and Wilkes-Barre, Pa. He's been a patriotic and civic worker for years; having served as president of the American planning and Civil Association, of the National Council on Historic Sites and Buildings and various other historical societies and patriotic organizations.

He was born in Chicago on a national holiday — July 4, 1881 — the son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Frederick D. Grant.

He was graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in 1903 in the class with Gen. Douglas MacArthur. MacArthur stood first in the class and was first captain. Grant stood sixth and was adjutant of the cadet corps, a post held in 1829 by a Virginian who gained fame in the Civil War on the Confederate side — Robert E. Lee.

Grant was married in 1907 to Edith Root, whose father, Elihu Root, was then secretary of state. He was in the Cuban pacification of 1906, the Vera Cruz expedition of 1914, on the Mexican border in 1913-17, on the Supreme War Council, Versailles, France, 1918-19, and with the American Commission to negotiate peace in Paris in 1919. From 1942 to 1944 he was chief of the protection branch, office of Civilian Defense. He retired from the Army in 1945 and from 1946 to 1951 was vice president of the George Washington University here.

He and his wife, who is confined to their home by illness, live in a comfortable, rambling frame house on a hill in Clinton, N.Y. They have three married daughters and 11 grandchildren.

Cincy Best Bet To Stop Buckeyes

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

If any team has a chance of knocking off champion Ohio State in the National Collegiate (NCAA) basketball tournament, it may be a neighbor—red-hot Cincinnati.

Ohio State has a 28-game winning streak going, counting five at the end of last season. Cincinnati, recovering from the loss by graduation of Oscar (Big O) Robertson, has won 18 straight and acts as if it has no idea of quitting.

Both the Ohio teams clinched undisputed conference championships over the weekend, officially qualifying for spots in the NCAA championships. The draw puts them in opposite brackets. If they keep winning their streaks won't collide until the tournament final at Kansas City March 25.

The fields for the two big post-season events—the NCAA, the official college title tournament, and the National Invitation opening March 16 at Madison Square Garden—are almost but not quite complete.

At least seven and possibly eight teams are yet to be determined for the sprawling NCAA, which gets its regional eliminations under way March 14. Three teams are yet to be officially chosen for the 12-team NIT.

In the NCAA, playoffs are necessary to resolve ties in three conferences — the Southeastern, Ohio Valley and Skyline — while incomplete schedules still determine the issue in the Border and West Coast Athletic conferences. The NCAA also has spots for two and possibly three teams to be selected at large.

The National Invitation selectors are expected to announce a couple of picks today. One certainly is Bradley, the defending NIT champion which was knocked out of a possible tie for the Missouri Valley Conference title Saturday when beaten by St. Louis 70-63. The Skyline Conference runner-up either Utah or Colorado State, will get one of the bids with the 12th one going to Tennessee State, Duquesne or Holy Cross.

Already in the NIT are Memphis State, Providence, DePaul, Detroit, Army, Miami (Fla.), Dayton, Temple and Niagara.

The NIT must wait until next Saturday for its Skyline representative. That's when Utah and Colorado State meet at Provo, Utah in a playoff for the conference crown and attendant NCAA berth. Colorado State forced the playoff by upsetting Utah Saturday night 50-49.

Eastern Kentucky's 67-54 upset of Morehead tossed the Ohio Valley race into a three-way snarl which must be unraveled by a playoff. Eastern and Morehead play again tonight, the winner meeting Western Kentucky Wednesday for the championship.

Kentucky and Vanderbilt clash Thursday night at Knoxville to determine which carries the Southeastern Conference banner into the NCAA. They tied for second place behind Mississippi State, which is passing up the tournament because of an unwritten state law against competition with Negroes.

Loyola can clinch the West Coast Athletic Conference title by beating Pepperdine Tuesday. New Mexico State can tie Arizona State for the Border Conference crown by beating Hardin-Simmons tonight.

Ohio State won the Big Ten championship by beating Michigan State 91-83 while its chief challenger, Iowa, fell before Indiana 78-69. The Buckeyes have only one more game—at Illinois Saturday. If they win as expected, they will become one of the rare teams to go through a regular campaign without a blemish.

North Carolina did it in 1957 and went on to win the NCAA. Cincinnati's 18th straight victory was Marshall 69-57 and this also was the team's 23rd victory in 26 games.

There were at least 20 surprise additions to the NCAA list over the weekend, both the result of tournament wins. George Washington, a team which had a 6-16 regular season record, climaxed a 3-game sweep through the Southern Conference tournament by beating William & Mary in the final 93-82. Wake Forest, beaten 10 times, routed Duke 96-81 for the Atlantic Coast Conference title.

Princeton gained an NCAA tournament berth by beating Harvard 71-59, thus clinching the Ivy League championship. Southern California won the Big Five by thumping Stanford 79-61 while UCLA upset Washington 84-68.

Ten places in the NCAA had been filled previously — five by conference championships and five through selection at large.

The conference champions are Kansas State (Big Eight), Ohio U. (Mid-American), St. Joseph's of Pennsylvania (Middle Atlantic), Texas Tech (Southwest) and Rhode Island (Yankee).

The at-large teams picked were St. Bonaventure, St. John's, Hous-

Sanders Winner In Open Tourney

By ED TUNSTALL
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Doug Sanders, despite an often-criticized swing, a set of woods "not worth $7.50" and a 15-month victory drought, popped up among golf's leading money winners today after winning the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Open invitational tournament.

Sanders, 27, a Georgian by birth who lives in Florida and plays out of Ojai, Calif., employed his abbreviated, staccato swing to near perfection for a four-round total of 272—good enough for a five-stroke buge.

Gay Brewer Jr., of Crystal River, Fla., who had his troubles on the final day, and Mac Main of Danville, Va., who didn't have any, tied for the runnerup spot at 277.

South Africa's Gary Player and Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., trailed at 280 with tournament favorite Arnold Palmer of Miami, Fla., heading a group at 283.

The winner's check of $4,300 was welcomed in the Sanders household, the first Sanders has won since December 1959. Not that the Sanders' bankroll is depleted—no, indeed. The jackpot hike his 1961 earnings to $13,594, second only to Palmer and Player.

Sanders had four rounds of 68-75-69-70 for a total only two away from the tournament record set last year by Dow Finsterwald.

Palmer, finishing out of the top five for the first time this year when he has played the full 72 holes, just couldn't fathom the course that stretches 6,569 yards. Main, yet to win a nickel in off-

Fullmer Batters Sugar Ray; Gunning For Pender

By PATRICK MCULTY
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—NBA middleweight champion — Gene Fullmer's one good eye was fixed firmly today on Paul Pender's limited version of the 160-pound crown.

Sugar Ray Robinson, his 21-year-career perhaps finished by Fullmer in their nationally televised Donnybrook, was glumly considering his future.

Fullmer, his left eye closed tight by a Robinson right, said before leaving for his Utah mink ranch: "I'd like to fight Pender and clear up the muddled middleweight picture. The division should have an undisputed champion."

Norman Rothschild, a co-promoter of Saturday's bloody brawl, said there was a good chance of a Fullmer-Pender title fight in June at the Las Vegas convention center where Fullmer whipped Robinson in their fourth meeting Saturday night.

Mary Jensen, Fullmer's manager, said his champion would agree to meet Pender anywhere except New York and Massachusetts, where the Boston Irishman is recognized as champion.

Jensen said Pender would have to agree to the challenge's end of the purse because: "We don't need him. He needs us."

The Robinson camp was bitterly critical of the battle which destroyed the 40-year-old ex-champion's hopes of regaining the crown for an unprecedented sixth time.

They objected especially to the third round, when Fullmer bombed a dazed and hurt Robinson for several seconds after the bell.

Robinson had gotten in trouble when he tried to beat Fullmer to the punch, but fired late. Fullmer sent him reeling into the ropes from a looping overhand right.

The muscular Mormon was all over Robinson and clubbed the battered ex-champ 22 times before the bell sounded. He then slammed at Robinson, battered and helpless against the ropes, until Robinson's manager, George Gainford, jumped into the ring with two seconds and rescued their man.

The rugged champion set a furious, wild-swinging pace — but Robinson rallied after his third-round beating and finished the nationally televised 15-rounder slamming toe-to-toe.

The cards gave Fullmer the decision unanimously, but the ring announcement was misundstood at ringside. For a few chaotic moments, some thought Robinson had won.

The battle was a rich pay day for both fighters. There was a $140,000 gate and $150,000 television money. Fullmer got 40 per cent of the gate and $60,000 of the TV money. Robinson got 25 per cent of the gate and $30,000 television money.

Len, Heyman Pace All-Tourney

RALEIGH (AP)—Len Chappel of Wake Forest and Art Heyman of Duke were as impressive as the polls as they were on the basketball court.

Each was a unanimous choice of 49 Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association members for the all-tournament team selected after the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament here Saturday night.

Chappel, who scored 67 points in the two games Wake Forest played in winning the championships, is the only repeater from last year's team.

Billy Packer of Wake Forest, Johnny Frye of Duke and Art Whisman of South Carolina were other first team selections.

The second team: Bill Stasiulis, Maryland; Scot Ward, South Carolina; David Wiedeman, Wake Forest; Carol Youngkin, Duke, and Chippy Paterson, Clemson.

Newberry Edges Bears For Berth

SALISBURY N.C. (AP)—The Newberry Indians, who couldn't beat Lenoir Rhyne in two regular season basketball games and were headed for defeat a third time, finally caught up when the chips were down.

As a result, the Indians will represent NIAA District 26 in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tournament at Kansas City. Thirty-two teams will play for the national title.

Newberry beat Lenoir Rhyne 70-65 here Saturday night after trailing through the first half, and by 31-35 at halftime.

The Indians caught up at 46-46, and took the lead for good at 56-54, with John Bouknight and Bill Musgrave scoring 26 points in the second half.

In the final seconds, two free throws by Bill Scarry and one by Carl Short lifted Newberry to victory. Short led the Indians with 22.

Lenoir Rhyne's Jerry Wells was ejected from the game in the last minutes after a brief melee in which fans and players alike rushed on the court. Wells passed Lenoir Rhyne with 22 points.

During the regular season, the Bears beat Newberry by 50-47 and 94-87.

Newberry's victory gave the Indians a 23-7 record. Lenoir Rhyne finished with a 23-8 record.

New Setup For ACC Scheduling

RALEIGH (AP)—Atlantic Coast Conference basketball seasons beginning with the 1962-63 season may be played only on Mondays and Saturdays.

The league's coaches met here Saturday and made preparations for a new scheduling plan to be made final during the spring meeting of the ACC. At that time the coaches will develop the 1962-63 slate.

The plan, proposed by Maryland Coach Bud Millikan, would organize the conference into four two-team units for scheduling purposes. Maryland and Virginia would be one group, Clemson and South Carolina another and the North Carolina teams, Duke, N.C. State, Wake Forest and North Carolina would be split into two more units.

In an example, Maryland and Virginia would travel to Clemson and South Carolina for Saturday games. After resting Sunday, they would swap opponents Monday.

BLUE DEVIL ON THE MOVE—Carroll Youngkin (23) of Duke gets away a hook shot that found the mark in Saturday's ACC finals. Defending Youngkin is WP's Len Chappell.

Ken McBride, pitcher with the Lost Angeles Angels, pitched a no-hit game in 1956 while hurling for Greensboro of the Carolina League.

ling third quarter, Washington's lead was an 11 point one, 53-42.

Greenville came roaring out in the fourth stanza to cut the Pam Pack lead to six. Knowles hit a field goal, followed by a free throw by Washington's Francis to cut the lead to 54-44. A pair of baskets by Alan MacArthur and James dwindled the Pam Pack margin to 54-48 with 6:35 left in the contest. After exchanging several baskets, reserve guard Allan Boyer pumped in two charity tosses and Sam Grimes added a field goal to give the winners a ten point advantage again at 62-52 with 4:25 left.

The Pam Pack managed to keep their ten point lead until reserve forward Jack Foley hit a pair of field goals for the Phantoms to cut the lead to 68-62 with one minute, thirty-five seconds remaining. Another basket by MacArthur made it 68-64 with fifty seconds left, but a pair of free throws by Boyer led the victory for the Pam Pack with only 35 seconds left in the contest, making the score 70-64. Two foul shots were added by Foley in the closing seconds, but they were in vain.

THE PAM PACK hit on 27 of 63 shots from the floor for 43.5 per cent. Greenville also made 27 field goals, but lost the game at the foul line, converting only 12 of 20 compared to Washington's 16 for 33.

James led the Phantom scoring with 18 points. He was followed by Andersen with 14 and MacArthur and Knowles with 10 each.

Trailing Francis in the Pam Pack scoring column were Grimes with 14 and Winfield with 12.

Bob Stevens, the South Carolina coach, may have come up with a new psychological approach with his rash predictions. He said his club would beat both Carolina and State and they did. Clemson coach Press Maravich says he has tried every approach with little success. "There's no defense for height", says the towel-chewing coach.

A big change in South Carolina sports was Clemson's Frank Howard cheering for the Gamecocks against State. Sitting close to Mrs. Stevens, wife of the Gamecock coach, Howard explained it this way, "She wanted to win so bad and was cheering so hard I had to help her".

HUGE NEW TIRE PLANT MAKES POSSIBLE

THE GENERAL

JET-AIR

the first premium-quality General Tire in the low-price field!

In General Tire's 40 years experience in building premium tires, none has been so phenomenally successful as the Dual 90—built with Nygen Cord, twin treads and Odessa rubber.

With our available production facilities, we have never been able to meet the tremendous demand for this remarkable tire.

Retaining the basic advantages of The Dual 90—long mileage and extra safe performance—and bringing them to the low-price field became our great objective.

This required building a huge, ultra-modern tire plant. After nearly two years of planning and construction, this is now a reality.

Our tremendously expanded production facilities are being devoted to producing the new General Jet-Air, with Nygen Cord and the extra-safe, long mileage two-tread design proved so successful in the Dual 90—America's most wanted top-quality premium tire.

See your General Tire Dealer for his special introductory offer on the new Jet-Air!

Stronger-than-steel NYGEN CORD

Nygen is the most indestructible tire material known—a real premium-tire safety feature of the Jet-Air. Nygen is high-speed impact resistant, heat dissipating.

Softer, tougher ODESSA RUBBER

You get bump-absorbing, luxury softness and penny-pinching mileage costs with General's exclusive Odessa Rubber—a chamois-soft, rhino-tough formula so superior it was awarded a U. S. patent.

safer, road-gripping TWIN-TREADS

You get the extra traction of two treads, not one. Load is shared, mileage increased. Braking is more efficient—wet or dry. Noticeably more stable, especially on curves.

GENERAL'S DOUBLE GUARANTEE

Your Jet-Air Nygen investment is protected all the way—to the last extra mile. You get a warranty (1) of materials and workmanship for the life of the tire and (2) 27-month guarantee against all normal driving hazards!

YOUR GENERAL TIRE DEALER MAKES THIS SENSATIONAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER!

The new Jet-Air is priced to bring General Tire quality within the reach of every car owner.

Your Dealer is prepared to go all-out for volume sales. You have always wanted the protection and peace of mind of premium quality. This is your chance!

He needs hundreds of new customers NOW. Hundreds of new friends for the greatest tire value in many years.

To get them quickly, he is making this sensational introductory offer for a limited time only:

While his initial factory shipment of Jet-Air tires lasts, he will redeem the coupons here at the rate of one $5.00 coupon for each tire purchased—for cash or on easy credit terms!

PAUL HORGAN'S GREAT HISTORICAL NOVEL A DISTANT TRUMPET

CHAPTER 8 The next morning the commanding officer sent for Lieutenant Hazard.

"Now at last he's going to give me the troop!" said Matthew to himself. But when he stood in the headquarters office he was not so sure.

Lieutenant Mainwaring let him stand for a moment while he continued to lean over some papers on his roll-top desk which stood in a corner and thus gave the back of his user to the room. Presently, with an unconvincing start as a man emerging from deep concentration, he turned to see Matthew, and then swung about in his high-backed swivel chair.

"Well, Hazard," he said. "Good morning. I won't keep you. I just wanted to let you know that on thinking it over, I believe it best for me to retain permanent command of the troop. I will also keep the first platoon, but will delegate Sergeant Fry to act as platoon commander. I have assigned the second platoon to you, as of today. Good luck with it, and don't hesitate to bring your problems to me."

"Yes, sir," said Matthew. Mainwaring gazed at him. What was there about Hazard which led to perhaps married females to put themselves out making curtains for him? Whatever it was, Mainwaring did not like it, he feared it, and deviously he must express his feeling.

"Thanks, my lad," said Mainwaring, nodding genially in dismissal. He had proved how strong he was in his weakness.

In the following days Matthew entered upon his duties with the second platoon. He had twenty-seven men who ranged in age from nineteen to the mid-forties. Joe Dummy was attached to the second platoon as scout.

Matthew drilled his platoon separately whenever possible. He believed in daily drill and the men obeyed him with some hidden flicker of smartness and pride as he put them through their evolutions across the bare, dust-dusted parade ground.

He carried with him something of the flourish of the military academy. He was one used to walking beneath plumes. His figure was agent of an inner smartness of spirit; and that spirit was proud not only of itself but also of the purpose for which it had been called. At drill Matthew was impersonal, sharp, demanding; he saw every man at every second, or so the troopers believed. His eye was like an eagle's.

At the corral, Matthew gave his men the school of the horse. He was a good rider, though not a spectacular one. He began with instructions on care of the horse, and the platoon spent hours grooming their animals, rehearsing treatments for various sicknesses and injuries, and feeling their way to identify with them. He made them repeat almost endlessly the acts of bridling, saddling, mounting, dismounting, unsaddling, unbridling, riding bareback, making the mount lie down and rise. Such exercises were performed to by the first platoon, as prescribed by regulations. But the style and energy with which Matthew pursued work made his sub-command, when compared to the other platoon, seem like an independent unit. Its tone and spirit improved daily, the incidence of sickness among its troopers fell sharply, and Doctor Gray found reason to worry.

"I hesitate to speak to the young man about it," he said to his wife, "for fear of depressing his impulses toward hard work. But while it improves his own platoon, he breaks the unity of the troop, and in the long run this may be more dangerous than letting both platoons drift along at the common level allowed by that incomparable ass in the headquarters office."

"Cedric. You must not shout! I am not shouting. I am being as murderously calm as a man can be who sees other men being mishandled."

"You are shouting inside. It is bad for you." "I'm damned if I'll give Hazard even an oblique hint of advice. He just proves my case for me that troops under hard work are healthier than troops with time to think up ailments."

Kitty Mainwaring invited Matthew to supper perhaps more often than before, just to prove that she could dominate the feeling that troubled her.

Matthew wondered what made her so excitable during those evenings. Her natural animation was noticeably increased. She began to dress up more than usual. She made Ted tell all his stories, and she laughed so at them that she had to touch away tears with her lace handkerchief.

Great ladies, she had heard, were given to outrageous remarks and gestures at times. She risked one now.

"Mr. Hazard," she said, half-closing her eyes to give humorous shrewdness to her prettiest expression, "everybody, simply everybody, is wondering why such an eligible young man as yourself is not married."

Some pulse sounded in her voice which betrayed to her own ear, if not to Ted's or Matthew's, a troubled want that underlay the idea of Matthew and marriage.

"Now, Kit," said her husband. "Nobody ever ought to ask a fellow that. Look at him. He don't like it, and I don't blame him."

Matthew had his head down, and his black look shone forth at her. The power of spirit behind pierced her. Her heart hurried itself. What a fool she was to risk bringing up the subject. But with men at her supper table leagued against her in her inquiry, she lifted her head higher and said, "You must have been told all your life that you're handsome. You have a safe and solid career ahead of you. Plenty of girls would."

"I am engaged," said Matthew flatly. "Oh." She caught her breath with more than dramatic effect: the news was full of chagrin for her. She hated the woman who had betrothed him. "When was it announced?" She had asked him the one question which must rob his news of some of its point.

"It is not exactly announced, yet," he replied. "We will be married next year."

"But you are waiting? You are both waiting?" Her tone asked why. By following rapidly upon her advantages, she made less experienced people, like Matthew, say what she would hear, whether they wanted to speak or not.

"Miss Greenleaf's family thought it wiser to let me serve a year out here alone, at first, I agreed."

"Greenleaf!" she said. "The Colonel Greenleafs?" He nodded. "Teddy, we met them once, you remember? They came to Monroe on an inspection—My oh my," she added, bridling on her chair with mock elegance, "You are marrying into society, I must say."

Her spirits were suddenly high for if he had a year to wait, and if he spent it at this post where she was, who knew what might not come to pass, with a slightly older, still pretty, selfless and devoted woman at hand to perform for him those small attentions which he would miss if he ever became accustomed to them?

She knew how to be a perfect darling. He would see. She savored these reflections, which appeared in complete detail before her private vision, with no sense of the infidelity to her marriage which they must imply. She felt no loss of virtue. Her cheeks were rosy. Her eyes danced.

What she felt was reflected in her face. Ted stared at her. Sometimes he did not know her at all, he thought. He looked at Mr. Hazard, who saw nothing. (To Be Continued Tomorrow)

Twins Celebrate 95th Birthdays

South African Premier Is Facing Band Of 'Accusers'

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—Like a defendant in court, Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd of South Africa faces this week a band of accusers convinced his white supremacy policy sullies their multiracial club—the commonwealth of nations led by Britain.

Verwoerd is applying for South Africa's readmission into the club. It lost its membership when it cut its direct ties to Britain and became a republic.

Some of his fellow-prisoners among them African and Asian rulers who now outnumber white rulers in the commonwealth, want Verwoerd to modify the rock-like rules of the South African apartheid (racial separation) state.

Yet, inevitably the spotlight seems certain to be focused on the South African controversy with its overtones of black-white conflict and its symbolism of a continent in turmoil.

If Verwoerd scorns the demands of the anti-apartheid men, as seems certain, they may withhold their needed consent for South Africa's continued membership. Verwoerd has warned he will not be "insulted, degraded, humiliated" and he will not ask twice for admission.

This would be a bitter blow for British Prime Minister Macmillan, who has been quietly urging his colleagues to avoid a showdown.

Macmillan thinks a virtual expulsion of South Africa would leave its nonwhites helpless and would expose the commonwealth itself to new shocks.

been urging Verwoerd to play it cool in dealing with his critics. He feels that Verwoerd, by using his talents as a former professor of psychology, can cool the passions of men like President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana and the Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaya.

The Commonwealth evolved from Britain's oldtime empire is an association of like-minded states spanning five continents and taking in 550 million nonwhites, 90 million whites.

The informal, private meeting of government chiefs will be no occasion for binding decisions on great world issues. The aim rather will be to widen areas of understanding so as to enhance their collective influence.

The 'Rifleman' Will Pick Up Tomahawk

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Chuck Connors is laying down his rifle for a tomahawk.

After playing "The Rifleman" with huge success on TV for three years, the towering ex-ballplayer is going to star in "Geronimo" for a feature movie. He'll play the big chief.

How come? "I've been wanting to do a movie," he explained. "I've had some offers, but they always wanted me to play the same kind of character as Lucas McCain (the rifleman). So I turned the pictures down, including 'The Alamo.' People see me for free every week as Lucas. Why would they pay to see me in the same type of role?"

"When the idea to play Geronimo came along, I jumped at it. The role is a complete reverse: I won't even look the same. Instead of a fair-skinned blond, I'll be dark-skinned with black hair."

The "Geronimo" project could bode well for the movie industry. It is being made by the same bright fellows who pushed "The Rifleman" into TV's top ranks. Connors' partners are Jules Levy, Arthur Gardner and Arnold Laven, who will direct the film. United Artists will release.

This is one of the rare times that a TV outfit has gone into movie production. The feature will be filmed in Mexico at a cost of $750,000. If it succeeds, the way might be paved for more TV concerns to help supply the product-starved movie market.

The project is not to be confused with "Geronimo" which was made by Paramount 20 years ago. J. Carroll Nash play the Indian chief in that one—and he's still doing the Redskin bit, on TV's "Guestward Ho."

"Our picture will take the Indian's viewpoint," said Connors. "We won't show the white men as villains, but by the time of the final chase, I hope the audience will be pulling for the Indians."

'Do Wash and Wear' Garments Stay Fresh Longer?

Dear Mrs. A. L. O.: Simply because "wash and wear" garments may not wrinkle or wilt quickly does not mean that they are clean. They can be a health hazard to you and your family. You know the bacteria count on any surface, including clothing, multiplies rapidly. Its growth depends upon the region in which you live and the time of year. Bacteria count is lower in January and February and abnormally high in the warm months of June, July and August. Because some garments may be washed and worn without the finish appearing too wrinkled, we may put off a thorough cleansing. Yet these garments require sterile cleansing, just as any others do. I suggest that you owe it to yourself and your family to employ a professional who is expert in the sterile cleansing of garments to free them of bacteria which, many times, may be of a contagious nature. There is a further reason to place "wash and wear" garments in the hands of a professional frequently. It is easy to offend through the neglect or inadequate cleansing of garments. All the "health soap" you can use on your skin will not overcome the offense which neglected clothing offers. Your best friends may not tell you, Mrs. A. L. O., but The Fabric Doctor feels he owes it to you to mention it.—(Adv.)

Tobacco Tips By S. J. WEKAS Pitt County Tobacco Agent. Tobacco plant beds are the natural feeding grounds of several species of insects. To bring plants successfully through the critical plant bed stage of tobacco production, the grower must always be on his guard. Control of damaging insects results in a more perfect plant at transplanting time.

Changing Basis Of 4-H Club Program Is New Development

4-H Leadership Development NS The most significant change in 4-H Club work since its beginning here in North Carolina, more than 50 years ago, is the plan to organize North Carolina's vast 4-H Program around the 4-H Community Clubs guided by local volunteer 4-H leaders. This change to emphasis on adult leaders in the 4-H Program is a result of many changes which are taking place in the various communities of the State. Urban centers are overflowing farmland. The population and age groups of the community are changing rapidly, and there is a lack of time and facility available for conducting 4-H Club meetings as they are presently organized. Increasing interest of parents and the general public in the 4-H Program demands an opportunity for a larger number of boys and girls to participate and receive 4-H training.

Good Crop Insurance In The Use Of Treated Seed

RALEIGH — Some of the best crop insurance for growers is in the use of treated seed, says W. W. Allen, grain section marketing specialist with the markets division of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture. "Stronger stands, larger yields and better quality crops are a greater certainty with treatment," Allen says. "The cost is small and it does not have to pay off but once to prove its value." The specialist points out that the practice of seed treatment, with soybeans for instance, increases the viability as much as 15 to 20 per cent as well as making them more resistant to disease which might occur under adverse planting conditions. Conditions under which treatment are definitely recommended by Allen are (1) when seed are damaged—seed light in weight, damaged by disease or injured by weather, harvesting or improper storage will be protected by proper treatment against disease organisms on the seed or in the soil; (2) when soil is cold and wet—delayed germination of seeds under these conditions subject them to molds and other diseases; (3) when soil is dry—here again, long dormancy of seed subject them to diseases that thrive in dry soil; and (4) under favorable growing conditions, seed treatment further increases viability of the seed, insuring strong, healthy growth.

Urges Attending District Session

FARMVILLE — District Six Stabilization Director W. A. Allen today urged members of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp. to attend Wednesday's District Six meeting near Kinross. The third annual session of the corporation is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. at Contentment High School located between Grifton and Kinross on NC Highway 11. Allen said one of the highlights of the meeting will be a color movie entitled "It's Not All Smoke." He said the film was prepared during the 1960 marketing season and demonstrates how Stabilization handles the tobacco it receives from grower-members. Main feature of the meeting's business session, Allen pointed out, will be the election of a new director to succeed him for a three-year term. Stabilization's Advisory Committee will also be elected. Allen urged: "Every grower should take advantage of the opportunity to attend and participate in the meeting." He said Wednesday's session will be the only meeting of its kind in the district during 1961.

Mule Power Is Thing Of Past

APEX — Mule power is a thing of the past on the Oker Richardson farm. "Although he used a tractor to break his land, Richardson cultivated with mules," says M. W. Asgrew, Negro, assistant agent in Wake County. "Then his supply of family labor decreased, and he had to do something about it." Fortunately, Richardson was in shape to solve the problem. Richardson had been raising feeder pigs commercially for several years, and he had done well with them. When the time came to invest $3,000 in a new tractor and equipment, he was ready. "The thing behind it all was good farm management," says Asgrew.

Swine Program: Good Investment

BETHEL — "What is more sound investment than a well-managed and operated swine operation?" The question comes from Delton Perry, feed and grain operator of Bethel. "Perry says that with his customers who are interested in a brood sow-pig program, he wouldn't hesitate to guarantee that the producers will receive at least $100 per brood sow for labor and facilities—if a good management program is followed," says Baxter Dean of Greenville, Extension area marketing agent. Dean says much interest is being shown by producers in getting into sow-feeder pig enterprises.

BACKACHE & NERVE TENSION

SECONDARY TO KIDNEY IRRITATION Thousands are now discovering how much stronger and better they can feel by combating ordinary kidney or bladder irritations. These irritations often occur after 35, and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent urinating or itching urination both day and night. ORTIZ usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating urines in urines, acid urines and by giving bladder relief. Safe for young or old. Get ORTIZ at drugstore. Feel better fast.

Boys and girls who participate in the Community 4-H Program will benefit in that they will receive a far greater amount of individual time and attention. Currently, about one out of five of the rural boys and girls in North Carolina between the ages of 10 and 20 are enrolled in the 4-H Program. It is the hope and the objective with the completion of the community, organization and the securing and training of adequate leaders that every boy and girl in North Carolina between the ages of 10 and 20 may participate in the 4-H Program and share in its teachings of training youth in the art of better living.

Believes It Pays To Wait Awhile GREENSBORO — It pays to grow heifers well, says Ralph Ralph Cummings, Guilford County dairyman. "Ralph now has his heifers freshening at about 30 months old," says M. H. Montgomery, assistant county agent. "He definitely believes it pays to wait this long on heifers." Cummings feels that the heifers will produce enough extra milk in the first lactation to pay for a wait of four to five months longer to breed them than that of the average dairyman. "Ralph thinks his heifers will have to make at least 10,000 pounds of milk on the first lactation to stay in his herd," says Montgomery.

SCS Meeting Is Slated In Tarboro

Arch J. Flanagan, chairman of the Pitt County Soil Conservation Service board of supervisors, announced today a meeting has been called for Wednesday to discuss progress and proposals for the Conecote Creek Watershed. The meeting is set for 10 a.m. in the Agricultural Building in Tarboro. Flanagan urged Pitt citizens interested in the SCS project to attend the meeting. The Conecote Creek project is one of several SCS planned practices underway in the four county Coastal Plain SCS District. In addition to Pitt County, Edgecombe, Martin and Greene Counties are included in the district.

Stored Tobacco Shrinks In Value

RALEIGH — After flue-cured tobacco has been in storage for 3½ to four years, it reaches a diminishing point in value. Flue-cured Stabilization Corporation has found that after 2½ to three years, the total cost of the leaf becomes greater than the current market value. One reason is insects—cigarette

Officers Named By Crop Ass'n

RALEIGH — V. V. Secret of Monroe will head the N. C. Crop Improvement Association for the next two years. Secret, who heads Secret Seed Company at Monroe, was elected recently at a meeting of the association here. He has been on the board of directors for ten years. Other officers are Curtis Martin of Bethel, head of M and W Seed Company — vice president; Mrs. Moretta D. Edgerton of Raleigh, an employee of the association — secretary-treasurer. Dr. John C. Rice of Raleigh, director of the association, said the by-laws of the association were changed to allow election of officers for two years, instead of one. New directors elected are Perry Plemmons of Waynesville, for the mountain area; Joe Moss of Youngsville for the Piedmont; Stanley Cross of Wilmington, representing the seed trade; Dr. John Greene of Laurinburg, member-at-large. Directors re-elected are W. A. Broome of Aurora; Ed Mann of Washington, N.C.; O.Z. Morgan of Shelby; Hubert Patterson of China Grove; L.M. Dilday of Belhaven; Secret and Martin. F.W. McLaughlin is assistant director of the association. Marvin J. Godfrey is research assistant.

N.C. Butterfat Records Broken

GOLDSBORO — Two registered Holsteins at Cherry Hospital, Goldsboro, have shattered all-time state butterfat production records. North State Ame Bell produced 21,110 pounds of milk and 754 pounds of butterfat in a 305-day lactation on Dairy Herd Improvement Registry Test. A three-year-old, she's a daughter of Butterfield Aristocrat Ideal. North State Fisher Piebe produced 17,940 pounds of milk and 528 pounds of butterfat. A daughter of U S S H Ignatius Fisher Monarch, she shattered the record for 15-year-olds on DHR test. The records were supervised by dairy experts at N.C. State College.

Production Adjustment Is Part Of Farm Program

Production adjustment is a definite part of any Conservation Program, according to J. Lyman Edwards, Chairman of the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Adjustment of crop production through quota programs is just as much a part of conservation as rebuilding pasture or farming on the contour, says Edwards. He explains: "Soil fertility used in the production of farm commodities for which there is no market, wastes that fertility just as much as though it were being washed or blown away. Adjusting the acreage in such crops to a production in line with market demand is using the soil for the good of the people who depend on the soil, both the farmer and the consumer." Edwards further says that if land taken out of production to get the desired balance is put into a conserving use, "both the farmer and the consumer stand to gain." The farmer "is improving his land for future production and the consumer is assured of soil reserves" to meet future increased demands for food production. Production of most crops requires an extensive outlay for the plant foods—nitrogen, phosphate, and potash. In addition, small amounts of magnesium, iron, boron, zinc, copper, and manganese are needed. "That means," says Edwards, "that in addition to the labor, use of machinery, moisture and seed, this much fertilizer is lost in every unit of the crop produced in excess of what can be sold or used." The same principle

DOW SOIL FUMIGANTS make the difference!

Preplant treatment with Dow Soil Fumigants can result in a 25% to 100% increase in yield plus higher quality tobacco. Every dollar you spend on Dow soil fumigants to protect your tobacco crop can return up to five dollars in extra profit! Telone® fumigant is the most effective, most economical soil fumigant you can use to control meadow (or lesion) nematodes and cyst-forming nematodes. Telone goes farther, requires fewer refill trips. And, it's clean and clear, won't clog spray nozzles. If stinging or stunting nematodes are present in your soil, use Dowfume® W-85, the high-strength ethylene dibromide soil fumigant. Either Telone or Dowfume W-85 will control root-knot nematodes. Your nearby Dow dealer is listed below. He can tell you how, when, and where to apply the right Dow soil fumigant to ensure a healthy profit from your next tobacco crop. See him today!

Piano Enjoying Major Comeback

CHICAGO (AP) — Everybody it seems is learning to play the piano.

The American Music Conference says there are more than 12,000,000 pianos in the United States, an increase of about 60 per cent during the past 20 years.

Marion Egbert, an educational consultant, says new teaching methods that emphasize enjoyment while learning are attracting scores of youngsters to the piano.

AMC says some 300,000 piano instructors are engaged in teaching more than four million school-age youngsters.

The Salt Lake City mansion of the Mormon leader, Brigham Young, has been restored and is being opened to the public.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market maintained a higher edge early this afternoon despite some sharp profit taking. Trading was heavy.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .40 at 241.40 with industrials up .70, rails up .60 and utilities down .20. Gains of key stocks were mainly fractional but here and there some of the pivotal issues jumped more than a point. Small losers crept into the list at an increasing rate.

Steels turned mixed after an early advance. Motors kept most of their slightly higher trend, Tobaccos, nonferrous metals and rails was higher on balance. Utilities and chemicals were off.

Texaco, Eastman Kodak and General Electric gained a point each. Slight losses were shown by American Telephone, DuPont, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Chesapeake & Ohio and Johnson & Johnson. Polaroid dropped more than 3/4. Texas Instruments and Litton Industries dropped 1 each. Brunswick and International Business Machines added about 2.

Volume for the first two hours was 2.17 million shares compared with 2.25 million Friday.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.33 at 672.90.

Corporate bonds were irregularly higher in heavy trading. U.S. governments edged higher in quiet dealings.

Crash Of Air Force Tanker Kills Crew Of 9

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — An Air Force KB50 refueling airplane crashed just short of a Biggs Air Force Base runway Sunday night, killing all nine men aboard.

The six-engine craft crashed with a tremendous explosion in an unpopulated area two to three miles northeast of a runway at the base.

"It was the most sickening thing I ever saw," said one rescue worker at the scene.

The plane was one of six returning from a routine refueling mission in the Pacific.

The wreckage was scattered over a half mile area.

An official Air Force inquiry was started to determine why the airplane crashed. The Air Force withheld the names of the seven crew members and two maintenance men on the plane.

Base officials said the pilot had asked the Biggs tower for landing instructions just prior to the crash. The pilot reported no trouble.

A red flash was seen by one witness 30 miles away from the crash site, eight miles northeast of El Paso and near the New Mexico-Texas line.

The plane was assigned to the 431st Air Refueling Squadron at Biggs and was based there as a tenant craft attached to the Tactical Air Command. The KB50 is a modification of the B29 of World War II fame. It is used for refueling of jet fighters attached to the TAC.

The plane had stopped at McClellan Air Force Base near San Francisco before starting the return trip to Biggs.

A crew of six normally is assigned to the KB50, and there was no immediate reason given as to why more men were aboard the plane. All of the victims were from Biggs.

Dr. Jacobson To Speak At Center

Dr. Leon Jacobson, assistant professor in the East Carolina College Art Department, will speak on "Contrasts Between Objective and Non-Objective Art Theory" at the Greenville Art Center Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Dr. Jacobson is a graphic artist, book illustrator, and writer on art. His latest article, "Art as Experience and American Visual Art Today" was published in the December 1960 issue of the "Journal of Aesthetics and Art Criticism."

Dr. Jacobson has been chosen by the E.C.C. art department to lead a group on an art tour of Europe this summer.

He holds the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Southern California.

The Jacobson talk is the first of two on art appreciation, which will be held at the art center this month. On March 21, Wesley Crawley, also of the college faculty, will speak on "Sculpture in the Garden."

Sanford Unveils Program Tonight

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Sanford is scheduled to take his battle for public school improvements to the General Assembly tonight and launch what will become a major controversy of the 1961 session.

"The fight will be on as of tonight," said Rep. J. Shelton Wicker, of Lee County. Wicker is chairman of the House Finance Committee.

Lobby groups and others opposed to tax increases are poised to move into the fray as soon as Sanford tips his hand and recommends new revenue sources to finance his school program.

There have been reports that the governor may suggest a 1 to 2 cent tax on tobacco products and a one-half cent boost in the 3 per cent sales tax.

Sanford's $108 million education improvement program is about $70 million shy of fulfillment in the budget bills now before the legislature.

President B. C. Mangum of the North Carolina Farm Bureau has spoken out against any tobacco tax. The North Carolina Merchants Association has begun to protest any sales tax boost.

The state's growers, on the other hand, prefer an increase in the sales tax without elimination of the present exemption of food items.

Wicker said he has heard mixed reaction to the tax rumors from legislators. He said they would be some lawmakers who will try to defeat the governor's proposals.

Sanford's legislative aide, former state Sen. J. William Copeland of Murfreesboro, was optimistic as to the program's chances.

"I think this General Assembly wants to implement the governor's program for schools. So far as the situation looks at this time, a tax increase will be required and I believe they will go along with it."

Another legislative highlight this week will come Tuesday when the House will be scheduled to consider approval of a bill making North Carolina the 23rd state to ratify the 23rd amendment to the U.S. Constitution giving District of Columbia residents the right to vote in presidential elections.

Claude M. Hamrick of Winston-Salem is expected to take his seat this week to succeed Rep. Fleetus L. Gobble, 70-year-old legislative veteran who died of a heart attack last week.

Hamrick, 34, was named Saturday by the Forsyth County Democratic Executive Committee to succeed Gobble.

Chicago Cleans Up Storm Debris

CHICAGO (AP) — Utility and city crews labored along barricaded streets today to clear debris from a tornado that cut a twisting 5 1/2-mile swath through Chicago's South Side at dusk Saturday.

The twister struck without warning, leaving one dead and 93 injured. Property damage was estimated at $5 million.

Three elementary schools were closed for repairs. At least 25 buildings have been labeled unsafe for electrical service by George Ramsey, city building commissioner. He said nine would be demolished.

Ramsey said at least 3,000 structures were damaged, about 75 so severely they could not be occupied.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said the tornado touched down initially near 91st Street and Western Avenue, then took an erratic course northeast across a residential and shopping area then into Lake Michigan.

It collapsed store fronts, tossed autos about, uprooted trees, shook houses from their foundations, sent rooftops spinning, and spread glass and masonry in the streets. Wires were felled, plunging the area into darkness.

The twister's path, about 300 yards wide, was traced by a tornado expert at the University of Chicago, in an aerial survey.

The injured were taken to 10 hospitals. At least 75 were treated in emergency rooms and released.

Rites Tuesday For Mrs. C. L. Perkins

Mrs. Lennie Perkins, 68, wife of Church L. Perkins, died in Brown Nursing Home in Enfield at 8:10 Sunday night following several months of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 by her pastor, the Rev. Howard McLamb, assisted by the Rev. A. Hartwell Campbell. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mrs. Perkins, a native of Pitt County, lived in Ayden prior to her marriage in 1916. She was a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Surviving are her husband; a son, C. L. Perkins Jr. of the home; and a sister, Mrs. S. E. Harrington of Grifton.

Leaving Tuesday For Funeral Services

R. Virgil Rohrbough, Superintendent of the West Virginia Schools since 1956, suffered a heart attack while attending the West Virginia basketball game in Richmond Saturday night, and died early this morning. He was the brother of Mrs. Frank Steinbeck of Greenville.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Steinbeck will leave for Weston, West Virginia early Tuesday morning.

Kennedy Asks Funds For War On Crime

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today asked Congress to give the Justice Department an extra $1,158,000 to step up its drive against organized crime and racketeering and to intensify the fight on juvenile delinquency.

The money was requested for use during the fiscal year starting next July 1.

The White House said that $540,000 of the total request was to permit the Justice Department's criminal division to engage additional attorneys for the drive against crime and racketeering. This would be in addition to the $15,120,000 originally requested for general law activities of the Justice Department.

Kennedy requested an increase of $618,000 for the Bureau of Prisons to expand the fight on juvenile delinquency. The original request for that bureau's general activities was $46 million.

"The prime objective of this effort," the White House said, "will be to help juvenile and youthful offenders about to be released from federal institutions to return to normal community life."

"Emphasis will be placed on vocational training, counseling and job placement. Juvenile and youthful offenders in federal institutions now number 5,000 and the number is increasing annually. A great step forward in combating juvenile delinquency can be achieved through successful re-education and reeducation of this most vulnerable group."

Marilyn Leaves Hospital Care

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Marilyn Monroe was home at her East 57th Street apartment today after almost a month of hospitalization for "a rest and a checkup."

She was beaming when she walked out of the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center Sunday and announced, "I feel wonderful." She said she had no immediate plans—just more rest at home.

Miss Monroe appeared a bit startled when she was confronted at the hospital entrance by a crowd of about 300 fans and 50 reporters and photographers.

She declined to talk about her plans, but she reportedly is scheduled to begin work soon on a TV production of W. Somerset Maugham's "Rain" at a salary of $125,000.

Theater Guild Flies To Spain

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifty-four members of the Theater Guild's American Repertory Company left by plane Sunday night for Spain where they begin a tour of 24 cities in 17 countries.

The group, which includes Helen Hayes, Lief Erickson, June Havoc and Helen Menken, is traveling under auspices of the U. S. State Department.

Conduct Code Support Grows

LONDON (AP) — Support grew today for drafting a code of conduct outlawing racial discrimination in the British Commonwealth.

Suggestions along that line were put forward as a way to compromise the major problem—race relations—that confronts the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference starting here Wednesday.

Logger Severely Wounded By Axe In An Affray

FARMVILLE — A 48-year-old Farmville Negro logger was described as in "serious condition" today after suffering an axe wound in his head in a fray here last night.

Farmville Police Chief J. A. Gregory said the man, James Dupree, was rushed to Pitt County Memorial Hospital after he had been cut severely with the axe.

The chief said two more Negro men involved in the "tussle over the axe" had been booked on assault charges.

Grey Bridges, about 55, allegedly inflicted the wound, Gregory said. Bridges was charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

The third man, Laudie Bell Phelps, 50, was charged with engaging in an affray and aiding and abetting in assault.

Chief Gregory said investigation indicated Dupree was wounded by Bridges as he (Dupree) was seeking to intervene in a struggle over the axe between Bridges and Phelps.

Temperatures In The 80s Over Eastern N. C.

Unseasonably high temperatures have prevailed in this area for the past few days, with Sunday's high reaching 85 degrees.

Today probably will be at least as high, as the noon temperature was 83 degrees. Kent Gilson of the Greenville Utilities Plant reported. Today's low was 67 degrees at 4 a.m., compared to Sunday's low of 64.

The spring weather is a marked contrast to last year's weather of ice and snow, at approximately the same time of the year.

The Tar River level has continued to fall and today stood at 10.4 feet, Gilson said. No rainfall has been recorded in the past 24 hours.
