Sanford Plan Calls For Lifting Sales Tax Exemptions

Pitt Lawmakers Voice Approval

By HENRY HOWARD

Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County's triple delegation to the General Assembly today expressed support of Gov. Sanford's proposed school revenue-raising program that features a three per cent food tax.

Sen. Robert L. Humber termed Sanford's proposal "a courageous approach to North Carolina's greatest problem."

Rep. Frank M. Wooten said he felt "it's the only fair method for everyone to participate if we are going to have this education money (funds to finance the governor's school enrichment program)."

Rep. Clifton W. Everett said, "If you accept the premise that the educational program should be carried out, I think the source of tax he (Sanford) has suggested is probably the most equitable and just source of revenue that could be found."

Humber praised Sanford for "fulfilling his campaign commitments to the people with unflinching fidelity."

"He has invited all the people to have a part in implementing the program of providing North Carolina with adequate educational facilities," he said.

Wooten said Sanford's broadened sales tax proposal "is along the lines we had in mind." He said, "It's about what we expected."

Wooten was admittedly not well-pleased with the governor's proposal to submit the broadened sales tax program to a vote of the people next fall.

"If it's defeated," he questioned, "where will we be then?" He said responsibility for finding sources of revenue should rest with the legislature. "The legislators," he said, "are representatives of the people."

Likes Referendum

Humber took a different position of the referendum proposal. He praised Sanford for desiring "a vote of the people to show their faith in the educational program."

He said the referendum would represent an opportunity for a "new generation" to affirm its faith in the fundamental principle of state-supported education. Humber pointed out a previous generation had voted to incorporate the principle.

Everett, in appraising the sales tax proposal, said an "across-the-board sales tax is the most equitable solution to the problem of raising the funds." He said, "It would be unfair to make special segments of the economy bear the burden along." Everybody should share in this.

Surplus Unnecessary

Wooten pointed to a $3.5 million surplus in Sanford's plan as unnecessary. "It's against surplus since it provides an opportunity for dissipation of public funds," he said.

He also professed some disagreement with the tax on industrial machines and farm supplies. "It would be better if we taxed neither," he said, but added, "If we are going to tax one we should tax both."

Wooten cautioned that the proposed one per cent levy on mill machines may prove "a detriment to our industrial development program."

Humber observed that the idea of taxing the production phases in addition to the consumer phase is "a deviation from North Carolina's fundamental fiscal policy" practiced in this state for years.

More Troops For UN Congo Duty

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Reinforcement for the United Nations garrison began arriving in Leopoldville today after Sudanese U.N. soldiers in a humiliating defeat were forced out of the vital port of Matadi by the Congolese army.

Arrival of the troops coincided with Sudan's announcement that it is withdrawing its 400 men from the U.N. force in the Congo. Sudanese President Ibrahim Abboud accused the U.N. Command of carelessly deploying the Sudanese contingent at Matadi and failing to provide proper reinforcements for the outnumbered garrison.

The United Nations is trying to negotiate its way back into the port city down the Congo River, and the reinforcements bolstered its negotiating position.

Emergency arrangements were made to airlift 600 soldiers from Tunisia to the Congo Wednesday. A U.N. spokesman said the vanguard of 3,000 soldiers India is sending probably will arrive within a week.

The United Nations called up its reinforcements after a week-end of bitter street fighting between U.N. and Congolese soldiers in Matadi ended with the surrender of the 135-man Sudanese garrison.

A U.N. spokesman reiterated the U.N. intention to put its soldiers back into Matadi as soon as a cease-fire hush over the key port while negotiations proceeded for the return of the U.N. forces. The Congolese defiantly demanded that they be consulted

Work Is Begun On 1,521-Foot High WITN Television Tower

GRIFTON—A giant television tower 1,521 feet high will be erected here by Television Station WITN to replace the present 819-foot tower, and will become the tallest man-made structure in North Carolina.

Work started today at the transmitter site, according to spokesmen of WITN. The new structure will afford improved television reception to over one million people in eastern North Carolina, with the grade B service area extended 38 percent in area and over 26 percent in population.

The tower will be approximately 47 feet taller than the Empire State Building and about three times as tall as the Washington Monument. It will be designed to withstand hurricane winds of 175 miles per hour, with over 650,000 pounds of steel required for its completion.

The construction permit for the tower and facilities was granted by the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D.C. on Feb. 24. Completion of the new equipment will be in late summer of this year. Construction will start on the foundations in about 30 days and on raising the new tower in about 60 to 90 days.

The General Electric Company of Syracuse, New York is prime contractor, with the Dresser-Ideco Company of Columbus, Ohio builder of the world's tallest structures. Sub-contractors for the tower, Meriwether Lewis of Kingston is civil engineer and Harles and Edwards of Rocky Mount are architects for the addition that will be required for the present transmitter building. Already at work—making soil borings and foundation investigations necessary for the design and construction of the new tower are Froehling and Robertson, Inc. of Raleigh.

In addition to the new tower, General Electric Company will install a complete new transmission station, including the latest 50 KW transmitter with transmission line and the latest super antenna. The present transmitter will be retained as an auxiliary unit.

WITN recently installed an auxiliary power generator at both the transmitter in Grifton and the studio at Washington for use when the power company has technical troubles.

A two-man elevator also will be installed to take workmen to the top of the new tower to service the equipment.

The old tower has been in use since the station went on the air in 1955.

RALEIGH (AP) — A tax increase on whisky and removal of sales tax exemptions, were recommended Monday night by Gov. Terry Sanford to finance a "mighty crusade" for public school improvements.

Sanford outlined his tax program to a joint House - Senate session.

The governor proposed that the whisky tax be increased to 12 per cent from the present 10 per cent. This would bring in $3 million during the next biennium. Elimination of exemptions, including food, from the 3 per cent sales tax would produce $83 million.

Sanford proposed that $70 million be used to carry out his school improvement program. He suggested that the remaining $13 million be earmarked for state-supported colleges and universities, mental hospitals, secondary road construction, and unspecified agencies.

The governor recommended that the new tax schedule be made effective July 1, with the people to vote next fall on whether to continue it after July 1, 1963.

Sanford called his tax proposals "the most difficult decision that I have had to make since assuming the office of governor, and, perhaps, the most difficult of my term of office."

The governor's recommendations caught some observers by surprise. There had been speculation that he would recommend a tobacco tax and a possible increase of a half per cent of 1 per cent in the sales tax.

Sanford told the legislature he had rejected a tax increase on beer and wine, taxes on soft drinks, tobacco products, real estate and other property, and suggestions that the income tax schedule be revised.

Commissioners Hear Views On Reapportionment

Pitt County's three legislators yesterday told the county commissioners Pitt and several other counties are engaged in an "uphill fight" in what they termed the most important issue facing the General Assembly—legislative reapportionment.

Meeting with the county board at its afternoon session, Sen. Robert L. Humber and Reps. Frank M. Wooten and Clifton W. Everett explained their respective positions on the reapportionment issue.

Wooten said Pitt's legislative trio is among a group of lawmakers seeking support for a plan that would maintain the present 50 senatorial districts as they are and maybe add a few senators.

He said the plan would include raising the membership of the House to 150 instead of the 120 established in 1910.

Wooten said the plan was aimed at reflecting two principles in representation—geographical area and population. Under the existing system both the House and Senate reflect population; however, each county, regardless of population, has at least one representative in the House.

All three Pitt legislators maintained Pitt is large enough to retain its three representatives. Legislation already introduced in Raleigh would result in Pitt losing one of its representatives and being combined with two other counties—Edgecombe and Halifax—into one senatorial district with two senators.

A U. N. spokesman warned that "if the United Nations fail to get back by peaceful means, it is empowered to use force as a last resort if necessary."

Five men of a Danish supply unit were the only U. N. personnel remaining in Matadi following the surrender and evacuation of the 135-man Sudanese garrison and a nine-member Canadian communications unit Sunday. The withdrawal came after more than 24 hours of battle in which two Sudanese were killed and 13 wounded. Twelve Sudanese were missing.

The withdrawal of the Sudanese, announced on the eve of re-emption of the U. N. General Assembly's 15th session, dealt a blow to Dag Hammarskjold.

The secretary-general has been making strenuous efforts to build up the U. N. Congo forces and appeared making some progress, with India offering 3,000 combat troops.

Abboud, in pulling out his Sudanese contingent, charged "United Nations decisions were vague, weak and helped to spread disorder."

Amid the continuing military and political confusion, the U. N. headquarters reported one success. It said the emergency airlift of food to hundreds of thousands of refugees in South Kasai Province had cut the famine death rate 75 per cent and the worst was over.

Part Of Nuclear Device Remains

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A portion of a nuclear device is still imbedded in the ground near here where a B52 Air Force bomber crashed Jan. 25.

In a statement today, Col. Osce W. Jones, commander of the 4241st Strategic Wing at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, said "All but one inert portion of the weapon has been recovered. The remaining portion is not explosive and there is absolutely no danger from it."

The big bomber carried two nuclear devices when it crashed. One was recovered near the scene, and the second went down with the plane. Col. Jones said the portion of the nuclear device still missing was on the plane when it crashed.

Since the crash, Air Force spokesmen have said both weapons were recovered. Today's announcement, it said, was "to amplify" the original report.

Heavy equipment has been used at the crash scene in efforts to recover all parts of the plane. The digging reportedly has gone down 40 feet.

Three crewmen were killed when the plane crashed. The plane was part of the 4241st wing.

Naval Units Not Needed By UN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States called off the sending of a naval task force to the Congo area today after being informed that the United Nations did not need the force.

The Navy announced that the four ships which had been heading toward the Congo since Monday were turned around the morning because "their presence is not required by the U. N. in Congo waters."

Sanford recommended that the $83 million which his tax proposals would produce be apportioned as follows: $70 million to the State Board of Education for schools; $3 million for colleges and universities; $500,000 for mental hospitals; $2 million for public welfare; $4 million for secondary roads, and $3.5 million for "other agencies and institutions, plus a reasonable margin for a reserve."

The governor said he will submit a bill to place the sales tax at 3 per cent across the board, except to put only a per cent tax on farm and industrial items and equipment used in production, and 2 per cent on motor vehicles, with the present top limitations. He said his bill would not tax items such as farm products sold for further processing and substitute gasoline and gasoline already taxed.

The governor noted there was widespread sentiment against a special tax on tobacco "and frankly I do not fully understand the sentiment."

"The most logical explanation I have heard," he said, "is that North Carolina is the leading tobacco producer and the leading manufacturer, and our leaders of the industry have the burden of fighting such taxes in other states, where, in many instances, they have been levied in unfair amounts."

He told the lawmakers he had taken a careful look at the tax on whisky, beer and wine. The latter two, he said, "are already taxed at a rate which appears to me to be as high as reasonably consistent with our regulatory responsibilities."

To make the tax on whisky too high, he explained, "would be self-defeating and therefore ought to be avoided." He added he was convinced the tax increase he was proposing on whisky "would not reach the point of diminishing returns."

Removal of sales tax exemptions would mean household food would be taxed, Sanford said he was "well aware of the hardships of paying tax on necessary items by those whose income is so low that every penny counts. But I am also aware of the greater hardship placed upon the children of these same people by inadequate school opportunities."

Generally, the reaction to the governor's tax proposals was mixed. Some comment included: Sen. J. Spencer Bell, Mecklenburg; "I think this proposal is the fairest. . . that has been suggested. When you combine this with the federal income tax, I think it necessary to remove the exemptions and place the sales tax across the board."

Rep. William Osteen, Guilford; "Putting the burden on an increase in the across-the-board sales tax is hitting the people in too vital a spot."

Sen. Claude Currie, Durham, said the proposal to submit the taxes to a vote of the people is "something new and if defeated would leave us in a very unhappy position."

Loan Approved To Build Another 500-Capacity Dorm At East Carolina

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor

Approval of a $25,000 federal loan to finance a 500 capacity men's dormitory at East Carolina College was announced today by Pres. Leo W. Jenkins.

He said the information was received from Sen. Sam Ervin, Sen. B. Everett Jordan and Rep. Herbert C. Bonner.

Architectural work on the dormitory, which will be located on the south portion of campus between Tenth and 14th Sts., is underway. College vice president F. D. Duncan said it is anticipated that the plans will be completed by the first of May. Bids would be taken and contracts let the first of June. Construction on the giant dormitory would begin in June with completion anticipated by the fall of 1962.

The new dormitory will be built along with two other 500 man dorms becoming the third giant structure to be built on the south section of the campus.

Total cost of the new structure will be $1,250,000. However, the college has half that amount on hand as the result of a bond issue authorized by the 1959 State Legislature.

Duncan said the new dorm will conform with the architecture of the present two structures. A new concept of dormitory construction will be used however. He said exterior corridors are to be used with outside entrances leading into four room suites. Baths will be included in each of the suites. Thus eight students will be accommodated in each suite.

The college now has a request for a fourth 500 man dormitory for this section of the campus before the State Legislature. The request won the approval of the Advisory Budget Commission. It calls for a state appropriation to finance half the cost of a fourth men's dorm with a federal loan to finance the other half.

If the fourth dorm is approved, more than 2,000 men students would be housed on the south campus. As it is, today's announcement assures housing facilities for over 1,500 men students.

Construction of the first of the two men's dorms now located on the south campus was begun in the fall of 1957 and it was completed in the spring of 1959.

Since completion of the second 500 man dormitory, all men students have been housed on the south campus and all the dormitories on the old campus have been converted to quarters for women students.

The Advisory Budget Commission has also recommended funds for replacement of Wilson Hall. This old dormitory would be torn down and replaced with a 400 person structure which would double the present capacity.

Both this proposed dorm for women and funds for the fourth men's dorm will have to be approved by the State Legislature which is now in session.

Amendment On Outlays In School Districts Studied

Board of Education at their meeting yesterday.

Superintendent of County Schools D. H. Conley said the board gave consideration to a requested amendment to Senate Bill 394, enacted by the 1951 General Assembly, which would permit districts that desire to do so to provide additional capital outlay funds up to 20 cents, in lieu of the present 10 cents.

Districts are being contacted in regard to their feelings on this matter, Conley said.

Superintendent of City Schools J. H. Rose appeared to discuss the prospect of a joint meeting of the city and county boards of education. The Greenville School Board has previously expressed a desire to meet with the county board to discuss district lines.

County board members yesterday decided to hold the meeting after they hear from New York bond attorneys on an amendment to the present law. The board has corresponded with the firm relative to extending Cleveland County Act, to permit changes in bond district lines.

Winterville Board

The Winterville School Board notified the county board that they have approved school boundary lines, dividing the Arthur district between Winterville and Farmville districts, subject to approval from the Farmville board.

W. A. Forbes, chairman of the Winterville School Board, said in a letter that the Winterville board had met in February to discuss procedures to follow in combining the Arthur district with Winterville and Farmville school districts, since there is no longer a school in the Arthur district.

The boundaries as given in the letter are as follows: Commencing at Adams bridge to the Greene County line, following Little Contentnea Creek in a northerly direction to the Norfolk and Southern Railroad trestle, thence following said railroad in an easterly direction to Bell Arthur city limits, thence continuing around the city limits in a northerly direction to the highway leading to Young's Store and continuing on said highway to Young's Store, thence right on the Standonbury road to Dr. Paul Jones' pond, thence in a northerly direction including Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith's

Whedbee, Bloom Are First To File

Municipal Court Judge Charles H. Whedbee and Solicitor Eli Bloom yesterday became the first candidates to file for the May 2 municipal election.

The two candidates, both of whom have held their jobs for a number of years, paid their filing fees at the City Clerk's office yesterday afternoon.

Voters will be electing a judge and solicitor as well as four councilmen and a mayor in the upcoming election. As yet, no one has filed for the four positions open on the council or for mayor.

Charles Harry Whedbee was born in Greenville, the son of the late Superior Court Judge Harry W. Whedbee and the late Sallie Lipscomb Whedbee.

He attended Greenville Grammar School and Greenville High School. He did his undergraduate and law work at the University of North Carolina, finishing in 1932. He was a member of Sigma Nu social fraternity at the University.

Judge Whedbee was licensed to practice law in North Carolina in 1932 and has been engaged in the general practice of law in Greenville since that time. He was solicitor of County Court for 12 years. He was elected judge of Municipal Records Court in 1951.

Eli Bloom is a past member of the board of governors of the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic. He is a trustee of the Moose Lodge, past master of Greenville Lodge 284, AF and AM, a 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner. He is a Municipal Records Court in 1951.

Lombardo Dance Band Plays Engagement In Greenville

"We like our visits to Greenville very much. There's a warmly receptive atmosphere here." The speaker was Guy Lombardo in behalf of himself and his touring band. The place was the Greenville Moose Temple where the world-famous Lombardo musical group played a one-night stand last night. It was Lombardo's first stop on his annual spring tour after a kick-off appearance in Baltimore recently. The famous veteran showman and his mates filled the Moose auditorium for nearly four hours with "the sweetest music this side of Heaven" much to the delight of some 325 Greenvilleites. Lombardo presented a smooth variety of music that ranged from fox trot to cha-cha. A vocal soloist and trio accompanied several numbers. At one point perennial emcee at the Moose Lodge El Bloom strode to the public address system's mike and asked the dancing crowd, "Is Lombardo still kicking around here?" He got a resounding wave of "Yea" with an accompanying round of applause. A local radio station aired a 30-minute segment of the Lombardo rhythms at 10 o'clock.

Lombardo led off the broadcast with his traditional 'Auld Lang Syne.' During not infrequent intermission, Lombardo was busily signing autographs for his patrons and chatting with the dancers. From here, Lombardo's spring tour takes him through a two-day engagement in Fayetteville, then Atlanta before many appearances in Florida. On the swing back north, the troupe's itinerary will carry it up the Mississippi Valley to Chicago before the tour ends in New York in April. Lombardo plays regularly there throughout the summer.

LOMBARDO WAS BUSY... signing autographs frequently. Here he signs a souvenir program for Mrs. Betty Howard and Buddy Muray.

Service League Has Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Greenville Service League was held at the Recreation Building Monday morning with Mrs. D. C. Wade Jr., president, presiding. She led in unison the Service League prayer of Christian Service. As the hospital Coffee Shop recently completed 10 years of service to the hospital patients and visitors, Mrs. Wade presented a short background of the Coffee Shop. The members gave a rising vote of thanks to Mrs. J. T. Little, Coffee Shop chairman, and her committee comprised of Mrs. E. H. Williford, Mrs. E. C. Wilkerson, Mrs. Jesse Moye, Mrs. Charles Wilkerson, and Mrs. Floyd Hendrix. Various reports were heard from committee chairmen following roll call and secretary's report by Mrs. N. C. Pierce and treasurer's report by Mrs. Charles Wilkerson. Mrs. Earl Trevathan, finance chairman, reported a most successful bridge tournament in February and thanked all who helped. She especially thanked Mrs. Dwight Garrett for the use of her home. Mrs. Frank Longino, Bloodmobile chairman, expressed appreciation to members who cooperated to make the February 23 visit of the Bloodmobile a success. She secured volunteers to assist with the coming visit of the Bloodmobile on April 7.

NEW 4-H PROJECT OFFERED TO CLUB MEMBERS — When a young person selects a career, one of the major decisions of life is being made. This selection is usually made with only meager knowledge of employment opportunities. Mrs. Betty Parrott, assistant home economics agent in Greenville County, says this is the reason a project has been originated to create an awareness of career opportunities for boys and girls. One of the requirements is to interview four people with different occupations and write a story comparing the results of the interviews. RECEIVES OUTSTANDING AWARD — At the annual 4-H Club achievement day held in Macon County, Sue Crawford was awarded a $25 Savings Bond as the outstanding 4-H Club girl. Sue is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Crawford of Holly Springs community. "Sue is only a freshman at Franklin High School but has served as president of her community 4-H Club and county council, been a teacher in a local leadership camp and has completed projects in frozen foods, leadership, clothing, gardening, canning, foods, and health," reports Mrs. Ruth Patton, assistant home economics agent of Columbia and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Combs of Creswell and studied features of dish washers, special lighting, automatic washers and dryers, dimmer switches, colored appliances, and ceiling heaters and lights. On the farm of Gordon Hopkins, they studied outdoor lighting and electric fences. The 4-H'ers toured the homes of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Simmons (Continued on page three)

THE DANCERS APPLAUD—When the Guy Lombardo band signed off with "Auld Lang Syne" at the close of Monday night's Moose Lodge dance, a generous wave of applause filled the auditorium. Despite its being a "for members only" event, the lodge restricted attendance to permit greater use of the dance floor. Despite this, well over 300 persons were in attendance.

Anti-Integration Talk Session Was Cancelled

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Sponsors of a meeting to organize opposition to the Catholic church's plan to pave the way toward integrated parochial schools canceled Monday night "because of outside influences."

However, about 20 of them held an informal session. Afterward they said the original plans were not for a protest meeting, and that they would now take other approaches within the framework of the church.

Their spokesman, who declined to be identified by name, did not say what these other approaches might be, nor what outside interests caused cancellation. They decided to call another meeting, at a time and place to be arranged.

Bishop Paul J. Hallinan of the Charleston Diocese, which is all of South Carolina, had warned in advance that "Catholics who take part in meetings called to oppose the teaching of the church do so in contempt of the church's authority. These few Catholics who persist in acting against the church's teaching cannot expect that their membership in the church will indefinitely remain unchanged."

The original intention was for a meeting in Baruch Auditorium, part of the Medical College of South Carolina here, to discuss the bishop's pastoral letter of Feb. 19. The letter did not propose immediate integration, but was to prepare Catholics for it. The letter, read in all Roman Catholic churches in South Carolina, said, "Catholic pupils, regardless of color, will be admitted to Catholic schools as soon as they can be done with safety to the children and the schools."

Organizers of the protest meeting decided to cancel it late Monday and kept telephone lines busy that evening informing fellow Catholics. But about 100 persons who hadn't been notified in time appeared at the auditorium and found a sign "meeting canceled" tacked to the door. It was not learned who had put up the sign.

However, 20 minutes later, an official of the college ordered the auditorium opened, and about 20 persons held an informal meeting. They issued this statement: "This (original meeting) was not intended to be a protest meeting. We later felt that the meeting could not be conducted as origi-

Says Cold War A Religious War

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The cold war struggle between East and West, says Evangelist Billy Graham, is essentially a religious conflict and the West may lose "because the Communists are out-dedicating us."

The "baptism struggle" is a conflict of ideas — a battle of the mind, Graham told a Greater Miami Crusade audience Monday night.

"It is a struggle between two philosophies. One of them says: 'There is no God and there is no such thing as moral law.' The other says, 'There is a God and we live in a moral universe.'"

A crowd of 11,500 turned out for the second rally in this "Pleasure Capital of America." Sunday's meeting drew 15,090 to the 16,000-capacity Miami Beach Convention Hall.

The customary urging at the conclusion of the service for persons to become followers of Jesus drew 244 from their seats. On Sunday, 457 responded.

Graham told his listeners they were looking in vain for happiness and peace amid the glitter of the gold coast.

"I live in Vero Beach," Graham said, "and I can watch the people on the way down to Miami. I also see them on the way back, and they have the same empty expressions as when they were en route to this pleasure capital."

Americans, Graham said, "are living in the most affluent society in history. And yet we have more boredom per square inch in America than any other nation."

The three couples had been staying in a luxurious eight-room chalet. They apparently were preparing for a getaway as police closed in.

Temperatures remained high today in the weather picture, with scattered showers likely throughout the day, the weatherman said.

The temperature here Monday reached 85 degrees for the second straight day. Kent Glisson of the Greenville Utilities Plant said, The low for Monday was 67 degrees. Temperatures today remain at 68 degrees, at both the 4 and 8 a.m. readings at the utilities plant.

Presidential Order Marks First Move In Civil Rights

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy—in his first action in the civil rights field—has moved to end job discrimination by the government and companies having federal contracts.

His executive order may be the first of a number of steps in this field. Kennedy told a news conference last week the administration was making a study "of where the federal government might justifiably place its power and influence to expand civil rights."

One step under consideration, he said, was an order to withhold federal funds from schools that discriminate against pupils on the grounds of race, religion or national origin.

The order Monday night—effective in 30 days—consolidated two existing government committees into a single Presidential Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity headed by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Kennedy's order provides stiff penalties for violations, including possible cancellation of government contracts. It also calls for an exhaustive survey of government hiring and firing practices.

Administration officials say the order is the strongest issued by any president in the field of job discrimination. They say it both provides new sanctions against discrimination and makes it possible to use old powers more effectively.

Reaction came promptly from Capitol Hill. "This development is excellent as far as it goes," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. "But it fails to provide for legislation which is the only real way to give a committee like this the money and the backing it needs to do the job."

"There is no substitute for the President's request for legislation until he asks for it. I cannot see the needed results," Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said the order was a step by Kennedy toward fulfilling his campaign pledge to use the powers of the presidency to implement civil rights.

"This explains, in part, why no reference was made to civil rights in the 16 priority matters drawn up for congressional action," Mansfield said.

The President, in his statement, said he has "dedicated my administration to the cause of equal opportunity in employment by the government or its contractors."

"Through this vastly strengthened machinery," he added, "I intend to insure that Americans of all colors and beliefs will have equal access to employment within the government, and with those who do business with the government."

The new committee replaces two which existed in the Eisenhower administration — one on government contracts headed by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and one on government employment policy.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg will serve as vice chairman of the committee. Other members included: the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, the secretary of commerce, the attorney general, secretary of defense, the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force, the administrator of general services, the chairman of the Civil Service Commission, and the administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Johnson, who has been criticized by some of his fellow Southerners for supporting Kennedy's civil rights policies, said he believes most Americans "are fair minded and recognize the principle that people are entitled to employment according to their ability."

"In most cases," he added, "we believe and hope the situation can be straightened out through persuasion and through appeals to decency and to good will. This is not a persecuting committee. We are acting to unify rather than divide our government."

Johnson was reported to have played a large part in drafting the executive order.

French Police Arrest Group Said Involved In Kidnap Case

ANNECY France (AP)—Police said today that a former paratrooper and an accomplice with a police record have confessed to the kidnaping last year of a 4-year-old auto heir Eric Peugeot.

After questioning the pair for 48 hours, police said they admitted participating in the kidnaping last April 12 which netted 50 million francs—$100,000 — ransom. The blond youngster of auto magnate Roland Peugeot was returned unharmed.

The two men who were reported to have confessed were identified as Roland de Beaufort, also known as Raymond Roland, and Pierre Larcher, known in some quarters of Paris as "Handsome Serge."

They were picked up two days ago along with another man and three women, including a Danish beauty queen and a Eurasian strip tease artist. All had been on a ski vacation at Megeve.

The Eurasian — whose father was American and mother Japanese — was identified only as Mitsouko.

The three couples had been staying in a luxurious eight-room chalet. They apparently were preparing for a getaway as police closed in.

One couple seized was about to speed off in a blue American-made sports car. A new black sedan was stopped in a nearby town and the other two couples were picked up.

De Beaufort was identified as a 24-year-old ex-paratrooper who has been spending large sums although he had no visible means of support. He maintained an apartment in Paris and made frequent weekend trips to Copenhagen with his fiancée Lise Bodin, the Danish beauty queen who was questioned with him.

Larcher, wanted by police in Paris for extortion and for assault and battery, was well known in the Montmartre and Montparnasse night life districts of Paris.

They were the only members of the skiing party reported by the police to have confessed any connection with the Peugeot affair.

The Peugeot boy was kidnaped from a playground just outside Paris from under the eyes of a chauffeur and nurse. A ransom note was found in a sandpile.

The Peugeot family made a rendezvous with the kidnapers after receiving mysterious telephone calls. On paying the ransom the Peugeot family sought to discourage further police investigation of the case and it dropped from public notice months ago.

Ironically the Peugeot family was on a ski vacation in Megeve at the same time, staying not far from the villa where the six were installed.

De Beaufort had admitted that the typewriter on which the ransom notes were written had once belonged to him. But he claimed that he had sold the machine.

Police did not immediately disclose the roles that De Beaufort and Larcher admitted playing in the kidnaping. However, they reported that De Beaufort was the man who received the briefcase stuffed with ransom money from Roland Peugeot.

Police said a tip from the Paris underworld caused them to shadow De Beaufort, Larcher and their four companions in the large Alpine chalet named "Les Six Enfants" (The Six Children).

Mrs. Lydia Booth, assistant home economics agent in Nash County, says Linda wants to add a bookcase, window seat, and a display shelf and cabinet built around her bedroom window.

Colors have been planned for her curtains, cornice boards, and bedspread.

ACCESSORIES ADD TO 4-HERS ROOM — With a little ingenuity, attractive accessories can be made from discarded. Cheryl Huneycutt of Locust took a look around the house and found two large drums. They were no longer suitable since both ends were open.

Miss Peggy Burke, assistant home economics agent in Stanly County, says Cheryl needed some more storage space for her bedroom so she decided to make two hassocks from the drums. She put a bottom in the drums and put on a removable top.

BEGINS GARDENING PROJECT — Phyllis Lane of Stokes County, has already begun to work on her 4-H gardening record. Mrs. Maxine Tingle, assistant home economics agent, says Phyllis and her father are building cold frames to begin early vegetable plants.

Mrs. Tingle says Phyllis is planning to have early plants so she can sell them at local stores.

Florida Warmth Rivals Tarheelia

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Weather Bureau predicted another day of summer weather for Florida's Gulf Coast today—the type that has brought record-shattering temperatures to Tampa, St. Petersburg and Sarasota.

The temperature reached 88 at Sarasota and St. Petersburg Monday, one degree under readings in the two cities on Saturday and Sunday. Tampa had a maximum of 86 degrees after two consecutive days of 88-degree weather.

At St. Petersburg, heat, drought and seasonal population increase produced a city ban on lawn sprinkling.

Shouldn't Hesitate To Be Forceful

The State Stream Sanitation Committee's decision to combine diplomacy with tough talk in an effort to get cities to comply with stream pollution abatement programs may serve a useful purpose in bringing around those communities which have been negligent in getting their programs underway.

After a reasonable trial period of this policy, however, the Committee should have the backing of state officials in taking more drastic action to bring about compliance with anti-pollution regulations.

According to the committee, about 95 per cent of the municipalities and industries affected by the stream clean-up effort have complied voluntarily with pollution abatement regulations. Apparently the other five per cent, for various reasons, have not made what is considered due effort to shoulder their respective share of the total burden of cleaning up the streams and rivers of the state.

North Carolina is blessed with an abundant water supply, and in its rivers and streams it has one of its greatest natural assets. Properly protected from pollution, these rivers and streams will continue to be an asset to the state for generations to come. But in such a program, a very small percentage of communities and industries, by their failure to comply with regulations, can thwart the effort of the majority to maintain clean, unpolluted streams and rivers in the state. Heavy pollution at any point on a river or stream will have its affect far downstream from the point where the pollution actually begins.

North Carolina can ill afford to let a relatively few communities and industries place in jeopardy the future of many miles of a river or stream because they do not respond either to diplomacy or tough talk on the part of the Stream Sanitation Committee. It is not fair to areas downstream from those points where pollution takes place, and neither is it fair to the area through which the stream flows, or the state as a whole, to permit such a situation to come about.

For too many years North Carolina has allowed its rivers to be used as unrestricted dumping grounds for all kinds of refuse. Because of this attitude, many rivers and streams have suffered severe if not permanent damage. With greater industrialization, unrestricted pollution of rivers—even in isolated areas—eventually would make them liabilities rather than assets. Such has been the experience in many other states, and it could be the case in North Carolina unless the stream sanitation program is effectively carried out.

If the policy of voluntary cooperation on the part of reluctant communities does not prove successful within a reasonable length of time, the Stream Sanitation Committee should not hesitate to adopt a more forceful policy toward negligent municipalities.

Re-Districting Plans To Date

By LYNN NISBET

RE-DISTRICTING — The bill introduced last Friday by Senator Claude Currie of Durham for redistricting the state for seats in the State Senate would leave the total number of senators at the present 50, would reduce the number of districts from 33 to 32, and would provide two senators each for Forsyth, Guilford and Mecklenburg.

The proposed new allocation alleviates wide discrepancies in representation in many instances, but does not cure the disease. The range of population per senator still spreads from 148,418 in Cumberland county to 51,615 in the far western five county district embracing Cherokee, Clay, Macon and Swain.

Even if the Legislature goes along with the two-senators-for-most-populous-counties-which presently appears doubtful, each of the Forsyth men would speak for 94,714 citizens, the Guilford men would represent 123,260 people and the Mecklenburgers would have a constituency load of 136,055 each.

No bill has yet been introduced for redistricting for seats in the Congress. Half a dozen or more variations are expected, and there will be a number of other arrangements suggested, either in separate bills or by amendments, for the senatorial allocations.

Study of the line up proposed in the Currie bill when superimposed upon a map of the state shows less than usual "gerrymandering" and awkward districting to protect incumbents. At the same time, the arrangements are quite obviously designed to get as much political support as possible from representatives of little counties. There is basic objection among most small county folks to the idea of letting any county have more than one senator, but the counties which are not directly affected in their own representation are less disturbed than those which lose voting strength.

POLITICS — It is quite evident that sponsors for the redistricting bill were conscious of the political power of the small counties. The two extreme east and west districts have the smallest ratio of population—the first with 57,529 people per senator, the 32nd with 51,615. But these districts have three votes in the present Senate and 13 votes in the House. Stated another way the 13 counties in these two districts have 3.7 per cent of the total population of the state, but 6 per cent of the voting strength in the Senate and more than 10 per cent of the votes in the House. They would retain the same voting strength under the new plan, although several counties in other districts would lose relative position. For example, Edgecombe, Halifax and Pitt counties presently have one full senator each. Under the new plan the three counties would share two senators.

The district heretofore comprised of Franklin, Nash and Wilson with two senators would have Greene added. Likewise the district in which Anson, Stanly and Union have shared two senators would have Cabarrus added. Even with these changes the ratio of representation for the senators will be less than average, and far less than that of some of the big counties.

BAISIS — The Currie bill to considerable degree recognizes the dual impact of area and population. In both congressional and senatorial redistricting the lawmakers are keeping in mind that both factors must be considered. Adequate representation does depend entirely upon the number of people in the district, not upon the area involved. It depends upon ease of communication and contact between the representative and his constituency; and that in turn depends upon roads, telephone and mail service and many other factors.

DEMOCRATS — Bert Bennett, Democratic state chairman; and Monroe Redden and Lamar Gudder, the young men chosen by the top officials to handle the annual money-raising Jefferson-Jackson dinner, have several questions to answer about the affair.

Only two things seem fairly certain at this time. The dinner will be staged in Raleigh on Saturday night, April 15, and Speaker (Mr. Sam) Rayburn will deliver the main address. Whether the dinner will be held in the Hotel Sir Walter, as has been the custom, where not more than 550 or 600 guests can be accommodated, or at some other place—probably the State Fair arena—where more than 1,000 can be fed.

If the site is moved from the hotel, the price of tickets probably will be reduced from the standard $50 a plate, to $25 or less. Some of the leaders think the total take will be more, as well as permitting a larger audience to hear the speeches.

The other side of the argument is that many Democrats have come to regard this annual dinner as social highlight of the year, and they relish the high-brow atmosphere around the hotel. It will be almost impossible to serve a hot plate dinner, with salad and dessert, at the fairgrounds. That would almost have to be barbecue or some type of coldplate menu.

It might be more democratic and more typical of North Carolina, but the fact remains that a lot of members of the Democratic party are sort of snobbish rather than purely democratic in social tastes, and this group will not be attracted by an outside meeting.

Ethics Simply Cannot Be A Matter Of Law

We note with disgruntlement the inclination of some men in high places to make ethics a matter of law.

The most recent instance involves Governor John A. Volpe, who wants the Massachusetts legislature to write into law a declaration "that public office not be used for personal gain." That's part of the preamble to Volpe's code of ethics for state government.

Our dismay lies in the concept that there must be law to determine what is ethical and what is not; that the conforming to moral principles today is so dubious they must be delineated and codified as well as enforceable.

Are then, American ideals of right and wrong so feebly imbedded?

Certainly, we read of instances wherein men in government, business, finance and service have demonstrated qualities distasteful in individuals. But we should regard their shortcomings as those of individuals, not of society as a whole.

Failure of individuals to conform to standards of conduct should be grounds for dismissal by their superiors. The ignoring of this duty is an indictment of those in authority.

To legislate conscience is, in effect, to do away with conscience; for a conscience is something imbedded in the individual in early childhood fostered through years of growth and maturity when it in turn becomes the mentor of newcomers to the world scene. With a "code" at hand, who needs a conscience?

For every instance of unethical conduct called to our attention, there are a multitude of people who do heed the voice of conscience. Trouble is, when people talk about ethics, their indignation over a few "trees" blots out seeing the forest.

Pres. Kennedy Riding A Lamb

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy warned in his inaugural address that people riding tigers wind up inside. He has been riding a lamb himself.

It was a time of raw nerves when Eisenhower took office. There was frustration over the Korean War, anger over the advance of communism which had taken China, suspicion and division from McCarthyism and open brawling between President Harry S. Truman and the Republicans.

Eisenhower restored some national calmness. His greatest contribution may have been his avoidance of name-calling, personal attacks and the appearance of exasperation.

His continued popularity showed the country appreciated calmness and wanted to keep it. It was a lesson the politicians could not overlook.

It was no wonder that in the 1960 campaign Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon kept their efforts on a fairly high plane. The one who tried otherwise might have been swamped in the returns.

Many voters, consciously or not, may have picked Kennedy because, except for his Catholicism he was a noncontroversial figure while Nixon had been in controversy most of his political life. Kennedy is continuing what he did in the campaign: presenting calmness. He is handing Congress controversial programs while remaining noncontroversial himself.

By avoiding harshness, he has deprived his opponents of ammunition. He has concentrated all arguments on the issues without letting them get tangled in personalities.

In the meantime he is getting across to the public, which can put big pressure on Congress, a sense of his calm self. For him so far the reaction has been extremely good.

He has done it by opening himself and the White House to public view under the most favorable circumstances.

Kennedy's televised news conferences, always handled easily, are one instrument for providing a view of a man who has things under control.

He has used other means to show himself a relaxed, friendly, down-to-earth man very much on the job and very busy. For example: Letting photographers snap him in his office on the phone, or conferring with his top officials, or taking a few minutes out to negotiate with his daughter, Caroline, or lead her off to bed.

The White House has been opened up, more than Eisenhower ever opened it, with stories of how late Kennedy works, of how well-informed he is on national dilemmas; stories of the (Continued on page five)

Friend, you are insane? Not a gambler in a thousand comes off with a profit over any considerable period of time. To be sure, someone occasionally breaks the bank. Nine hundred and ninety-nine other times the bank breaks him. The gamblers call their victims suckers and pigeons. If you get mixed up in that, deal you need expect no pity if you lose your shirt—which you certainly will; if not now, then eventually.

Gamblers should not be punished. They should be arrested, their possessions put in escrow, and they themselves sent to a mental institution until they get their heads shrunk.

Treat them gently. They're sick — really sick.

Subject: "The Rebel," East Carolina College's literary magazine.

It seems that anyone with an interest in the college and any leanings toward liberal arts would want to read this magazine, which in this issue has accomplished something polished, sophisticated and reflective of the present thinking of the college.

The three most outstanding features of this magazine are the interview with Jonathan Daniels, an editorial by Editor Roy Manning on "A Word Said," and an article on William Faulkner by Junius Grimes III.

Jonathan Daniels has come forward with something to say about East Carolina College and its role: about politics; philosophy (to some extent); and segregation. You can read through the lines in places. But he has something concrete to say to a college, and coming from a man of his standing, it is admirable that "The Rebel" was able to get such an interview, well conducted, obviously, and well developed.

Daniels advises the populus of East Carolina College to "Let's get going. Don't be afraid of ideas. And go back to the beginning, the one thing that can be most important at East Carolina is that it be a center of ideas, and welcome for ideas, in the region it serves. I like to see North Carolina when it's stirred up. When it's sitting on its seat and just looking over the end of the fishing pole, we're in a bad way. When people are debating and discussing and disagreeing, North Carolina is in a healthy state."

The editorial on "A Word Said," spurred East Carolina and the people of eastern Carolina on to develop what they have started from a rich heritage. This college senior has written an editorial well, and has presented a true challenge to his readers. The challenge is that East Carolina College could be recognized as a focal point of cultural activity in this part of the state.

As a matter of fact, this has been discussed here before, and is a partial reality. But Editor Martin says it should be more of a community effort, more of a reality; and that awareness of the heritage of Eastern North Carolina could help bring it about.

If others at the college follow his example and challenge, this "movement" might actually accomplish the first step of the challenge.

And the third high point of the magazine, the William Faulkner piece. The author Grimes obviously had read and read Faulkner, which is an accomplishment in itself.

This culture they are talking about at the college has already been started for some time. It shows in a magazine such as this.

Other Editors Saying Opinions The Cow Is In The Corn In Brief

(Burlington Daily Times-News)

Only the law of supply and demand can bring economic balance to the "farm problem."

There is a vast over-production, encouraged by the rampage of socialism in the United States. The city breadwinner and housewife, who may not know a tetter from a whifflefish, can't afford to ignore the Administration's new farm proposals. There is a big price tag on them in taxes, and still more big price tags to be attached to family purchases of meat, poultry and dairy products.

For city folks who thought the plan didn't concern them, it goes like this. Corn price supports would be raised from $1.06 per bushel last year to $1.20. Soy beans would go from $1.85 to $2.30. Other feed and grain crops would be treated similarly.

To be eligible for the higher support prices and land retirement payments, a farmer would have to plant 20 per cent less. This is "voluntary." The farmer who volunteers would be guaranteed the support price. The farmer who didn't would have to sell at the open market, and the Government would be in a position to sell from its $4 billion farm surplus enough to drive him to ruin by shattering the market level.

So few farmers could do anything but "volunteer" to go along with the acreage cut. Their alternative is possible ruin at the hands of the supposed guardians of the farmer's interest — the Department of Agriculture.

City people would get their lumps a little later. The ranchers, stockmen, poultrymen and dairymen would all be forced to pay higher prices for the feed that becomes meat and dairy products.

And ultimately, this bill for the new agriculture program will be passed along to everyone who eats. And, as usual, to everyone who pays taxes.

President Kennedy's own task forces warned against the folly of this approach, but was ignored. The largest organization of farmers warns against it. The meat packers warn against it.

Now it's up to the voters to set up a howl and tell their Congressmen how they feel. Time is short because this year's program must be shaped before all the fields are planted, and Spring is near.

Trouble is, after a majority of the voters send their representatives to legislative bodies they promptly forget them—and more trouble is, when their representatives reach their official stations, too often. They promptly forget the prime interest of those who sent them there. Write your Congressman. He will listen!

Industrial progress is never a one-way street. Invariably as old jobs are wiped out new job opportunities are created, but unless employers are free to search out and create these new job opportunities through development of cost-saving techniques and new processes our whole economic system is apt to sputter along at only half the speed it is capable of developing." — Fort Lauderdale (Fla.) "When you are reminded to keep your head up, be careful to keep your nose on a real friendly level." — Bartow (Ga.) Herald.

"The pinch of competition has probably done more for scholarship than all the federal aid Congress has been asked to provide." — Charleston (W.Va.) Daily Mail.

"Khrushchev moves with the comforting knowledge that the new African nations are scared witless by his tactics. He hopes the same will be true of the U.S. and its allies. Doubtless there are great and ominous risks in opposing his demands, but the risks are not comparable to those of giving in. President Kennedy's sure, clear recognition of this fact is heartening." — Charlotte News.

"The day may come when nobody thinks of retiring from work until he has reached the century mark. Exaggerated? Well, who in our grandfathers' time could have believed that anybody could manage to survive heart ailments, continue to be President of the United States, play golf and be insulted by Khrushchev without keeling over?"

Strangest Kind Of A Recession

By ELMER ROESSNER

This is a recession. The President says so. Even Republicans say so.

But it is still one of the strangest recessions the country has ever experienced.

Unemployment is high. Depressed areas are many. Total personal income is down, although less than 0.002 per cent from December to January.

And strangely: In the week ended Feb. 18, total U.S. department store sales were 7 per cent above the corresponding week a year ago. New York Federal Reserve reports department store sales were 24 per cent higher; sales in the Lexington, Ky., metropolitan area were 47 per cent higher; and in Spokane, 79 per cent higher. However, they were down 44 per cent in New Orleans. Early Mardi Gras.

LIVING COSTS The consumers' price index fell in February for the first time in many months, but farm prices rose 1 per cent from mid-January to mid-February. Stock prices in February rose for the fourth consecutive month.

Factory workers' spendable earnings were steady and buying power was virtually unchanged between December and January, the Bureau of Labor Statistics found.

Corporate profits were higher in January than a year ago. The wholesale price index rose from 119.5 in December to 119.8 in January.

AUTO SALES RISING General Motors announced that Chevrolet passenger and truck sales in February were more than 10 per cent above sales in January.

Construction of retail food stores this year will top 1960 by most of Western Europe, although the forces making for growth are less vigorous than a year ago and a few soft spots have appeared. Last year, growth was rapid in practically every country. Total output in the Common Market rose by an estimated 7 per cent. But 1960 also provided some signs that the boom was leveling out.

Demands in some areas have become less pressing. The downturn in American business and the introduction of the compact cars are cutting into demand for European exports. . . On the other hand, investment continues at a vigorous pace throughout Europe.

RECAP: This is a very real recession for the man out of a job, for the retailer whose sales are down, for the manufacturer whose plant is operating part time. But in other areas, this recession continues to be curious indeed, with many prices, stocks and indexes going on up. It looks as if the country has been healed.

EUROPE'S BOOM SEEN LEVELING The Chase Manhattan Bank's report on Western Europe says: "Business remains strong in most of Western Europe, although the forces making for growth are less vigorous than a year ago and a few soft spots have appeared. Last year, growth was rapid in practically every country. Total output in the Common Market rose by an estimated 7 per cent. But 1960 also provided some signs that the boom was leveling out."

SEMINAR CRUISES MAY NOT BE TAX DEDUCTIBLE Tax Court decision casts doubt on the deductibility of costs of seagoing seminars. A doctor signed up for a cruise from New York to Venice that featured a medical seminar by five Duke University professors. He attended six or seven lectures and discussions lasting less than an hour on the 15-day cruise. He deducted $1,881.86 as a business expense. The Tax Court, however, ruled (Hoover 35, TC No. 60) that the doctor could deduct only $232, the approximate cost of a similar course at a landbound university.

The Internal Revenue Service has warned taxpayers not to rely on advertisements assuring pleasure cruises that all themselves professional seminars.

What Makes News?

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

When journalistic highbrows get together some of the shop-talk gravitates about the very old question as to what is news? It used to be, in this country, that folks were interested in what went on about them, their marriages, their friends, lost and found, crooks, political and just plain and such stirring items. Then we all became educated and took to dealing with things significant like Cuba and the Congo and what Nasser said to Khrushchev. In fact, all of a sudden the country got so full of experts that all President Kennedy needed to do was play golf at Palm Beach and professors just fitted into jobs in Washington. So instead of patronage going to deserving Democrats, it went to relieve the universities of surplus faculty.

The human heart, however, still responds to joy and laughter and sorrow and suffering and therefore when a little girl, only four years old, is raped and abused and beaten and killed by a drunkard, an entire nation is moved. The story is sordid. The pictures are revolting. The description of the man is degrading. But were it not for the excitement of newspapers and television, this miserable creature might still be moving about killing other little girls.

Perhaps a picture of "Soapy" Williams talking to Kasavubu is less sordid than the shocking tale of a wanton murder of a child by a degenerate, but this is news and very important news, while "Soapy" is only a problem.

And when one thinks of such an item and it makes him a little emotional and raises his blood pressure, it comes to him that we only spend $14,000,000 a year for research about the heart and blood pressure. In these days of easy billions, why is there so little for something so important?

Even with such a small amount available for research, so much is being done. It used to be that a fellow had trouble with his heart, he was an invalid. He sat in a chair waiting to die. He was afraid to move too much, to walk, to get excited, to take trips. He probably died from boredom.

Today one lives through a coronary, doing what he used to do, but just a little bit more sensibly. He does not eat as much and he chooses his food with just a bit more delicacy. It used to be that I could consume any quantity of food, of any richness. But what did it prove? It seems to me now that it only proved that I could do it without bursting my trousers just as a weight lifter can lift heavy weights without falling down.

So I weighed 234 pounds, smoked about 20 cigars a day, slept only five hours a day and went everywhere, saw everything and when it was all over, I had to count calories. So today I weigh 148 pounds, smoke nothing at all, sleep on and off as fatigue gets me, read more, work harder at essentials than ever before. The only thing that happened was that I cut the essentials, the time wasting, health-wasting activities that bring no rewards. I never felt better since my boyhood, and I have also had an operation for a small, localized cancer.

Of course, there are folks who like to be sick and there are other folks who are ashamed to be sick. Both types are irrational. Reason dictates that we face the facts of life and do the best we can. The doctors who are doing heart research and dietary research are infinitely more important to us than politicians and movie stars and similar celebrities. They are making it possible for us to live longer and in better spirits and to continue to be useful.

The day may come when nobody thinks of retiring from work until he has reached the century mark. Exaggerated? Well, who in our grandfathers' time could have believed that anybody could manage to survive heart ailments, continue to be President of the United States, play golf and be insulted by Khrushchev without keeling over?

So if the ghost of Lumumba bores you and the stony face of Gromyko annoys you, and you (Continued on Page 5)

Phone Company Goal Near Done

Carolina Telephone is completing an installation of equipment here to improve Greenville's long distance service. Local telephone Manager Frank Harrington said today that an $8,600 project now underway will provide additional facilities for testing long distance circuits. Harrington said that the rapid growth of Greenville in recent years has brought about increased long distance usage and has taxed the capacity of present equipment. Telephones in the Greenville area have increased from about 4,700 to over 9,200 in the past ten years. "The construction program here is in keeping with Carolina Telephone's plans to provide for the full telephone needs of the communities it serves," he pointed out. Harrington said the new improvement and expansion was engineered to meet today's needs and also to allow for telephone growth in the future.

Counted Vote By Kerosene Lamp

POMEROY, Ohio (AP) — Poll workers in a Meigs County precinct will remember the 1960 presidential election as the last one in which they had to count votes by kerosene lamp. For as long as anyone could remember, an abandoned one-room school house was the voting place because of its central location. It had been used only twice a year as a polling place since 1926. Now, a new township hall several miles to the north will be used. One who doesn't mind leaving the electric light-less school building is Mrs. Orville Rhodes, presiding judge. It was her job to get the old building cleaned up for use at each election.

The suit says that under an agreement signed June 5, 1956, Ramrod lent Fisher's services to RKO for "Bundle of Joy" on condition that the movie not be televised for five years. Last November and December, the complaint adds, the defendants broadcast the film in violation of the agreement.

Airlift And Sealift Shortages Hurt U. S. Capability

Editor's Note: Bem Price, a veteran Associated Press writer, specializes in military affairs.

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ability of the United States to intervene quickly and effectively in brushfire war appears to be in serious doubt because of airlift and sealift shortages.

This harsh fact came to light Monday night after a Pentagon source disclosed the contents of the limited war requirements study completed earlier this year just prior to the inauguration of President Kennedy. In his State of the Union message on Jan. 30 Kennedy said he had directed prompt action to increase U. S. airlift capacity.

Checking the requirements study with other Pentagon sources these figures emerged:

The Air Force has fewer than half the planes needed to fly a full division of 17,000 men to a combat area and sustain it in action there for 30 days.

The Navy has barely enough troop ships operating in the Atlantic to sealift half a Marine division.

If hard pressed in the Pacific, however, the Navy could muster enough transports to move one reinforced Marine division—20,000 men.

In brief, though the United States has seven combat-ready divisions—four Army and three Marine—it does not have the ability now to put them into the field swiftly.

To make up its deficit in airlift and sealift, the President would have to commandeer some U. S. commercial aircraft and ships in a fast-developing emergency.

An alternative insofar as shipping is concerned would be to dip into the World War II mothball fleet, but this would require time. Furthermore, the Navy would have to use reservists to man these ships.

The limited war study was predicted on a hypothetical requirement: What would it take to put an airborne division and an infantry division in the field and sustain both in combat for 60 days?

Under the plan the airborne division would be lifted with a basic 30-day supply and would be followed by sea by the infantry division.

To meet this two-division requirement and that of their support troops—80,000 men in all—the Pentagon study estimated slightly more than 1,000 transport aircraft would be necessary plus 26 troop transports and assorted support vessels.

The United States now has about 450 transport aircraft available for strategic airlift while the Navy has only 11 troop transports on active sea routes.

While the shortage of aircraft has been fairly well publicized, almost nothing has been known of the Navy's plight.

The stark picture of the Navy situation began to unfold shortly after the State Department disclosed Monday that a Navy task force on a good-will mission to South Africa had been ordered to stand off the Congo coastline.

The task force, carrying 500 Marines, was directed to proceed toward the Congolese port of Maladi which was seized by Congolese troops Sunday after a sharp battle with United Nations forces.

Within hours after the State Department disclosure Adm. Robert L. Dennison, Atlantic Fleet commander, said in Norfolk, Va., that his force was incapable of carrying its full Marine expeditionary force.

His comments apparently meant that his Atlantic Fleet would have a tough time meeting even very limited commitments in more than one area.

The Navy is now reduced to 115 amphibious warfare ships compared to about 250 in use during the Korean War. This force includes 40 cargo and troop ships, 3 small aircraft carriers converted for use by helicopter, 27 landing ships dock—for the transport of these are of World War II vintage and in the slow, 12 to 15-knot class. The Navy has only seven troop transports on regular routes in the Pacific, four in the Atlantic.

By MRS. ALBERT BELL
Adult leader, Bell Community 4-H Club

4-H work makes happier families, sounder rural communities, and better farms and homes. In short, it builds the finest type of American citizenship, and this type of citizenship is one of the vital influences in our country.

4-H Clubs for rural youth can be successful only if there is an adult man or woman who serves as a 4-H leader.

When the broad importance of 4-H work is considered, the leader carries much responsibility. The leader is responsible to the club members—and the community—for the success of the club, and he (or she) also represents the Extension Service. It is an honor and a privilege for a man or woman to be chosen as a leader of a 4-H Club. The first step in the training of rural youth through 4-H Club work is for the leaders of 4-H Clubs to have standards and to live them, and they will build soundly and along the lines people think of as being wholesome, constructive, and worthy of approval.

4-H Club work becomes part of the lives of rural young people while their minds are still plastic; gives them guidance when they need it; teaches them some of the inspiring things in agriculture and farm home life, and gives them a vision of its possibilities as a life work. It develops self-reliance, ambition, and aggressiveness. It fosters individual ownership, a love of nature and the open country—applies business methods to farming and encourages industry and thrift.

A successful 4-H Club leader helps rural boys and girls understand and appreciate their own homes and environment, and most important of all, no 4-H leader needs to work alone. He (or she) feels free to call on the County Extension Agents, parents, neighbors, older 4-H Club members, business and professional men and women, to mention only a few sources of assistance, when help is needed.

Phillip Brooks has said, "He who helps a child helps humanity with a distinctness, with an immediateness, which no other help given to human creatures in any other stage of their human life can possibly give again."

I am a 4-H leader because I like young people and have a sincere desire to be of service to them. It may take several years for me to see any of the tangible results of my leadership. I may never see any. Yet I can be assured that my efforts have been of some worth. Some of the results of my efforts may show up later in the careers which the members choose, the attitude towards the community, the kind of homes they build.

I meditate on the words of R.L. Sharpe and all of the hours I have invested in leading youth are GOLDEN DREAMS:

"Isn't it strange that princes and kings
And clowns that caper in sawdust rings,
And common folks like you and me
Are builders for eternity?"

And to each is given a bag of tools,
A shapeless mass and a book of rules,
And each must make ere life is flown,
A stumbling block or a stepping stone."

Siren To Sound Weather Alert

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—With the tornado season at hand, the director of civil defense here issued a reminder Monday that the scream of sirens may signal nature's own air raid.

John P. Somers said the Weather Bureau can set off the system of air raid sirens in the case of extraordinary weather alerts.

"You might check a radio for confirmation, but if you're outside, get inside," Somers said.

Frat Sets Mark As Kite-Fliers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Somebody must have told the boys of Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity at Indiana University to go fly a kite.

They have flown their kite 600 feet high. And they plan to keep it up there to set an endurance record for any other fraternity to shoot at.

There are 98.1 males to every 100 females in the United States.

REV. A. B. DAWSEY, of Winterville, N. C., will serve as evangelist for revival services beginning Friday night at the Black Jack Pentecostal Free Will Baptist Church. Services will begin each evening at 7:30 through March 19. The pastor, Rev. D. E. Smith, extends an invitation to the public to attend.

District Class A Tourney Opens At EC Tomorrow

MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM—Eight basketball teams from Eastern North Carolina toss their hats in the ring starting tomorrow with hopes of earning the right to advance to the state Class A tournament.

County champions from some six conferences—and runner-ups in two cases—set up shop tomorrow night for the four day district tournament in East Carolina's Memorial Gymnasium.

Early indications point to a Saturday night showdown between Pantego (25-1) of Beaufort County and Bethel (27-2), the Pitt County kingpin. The two Class A powers were placed in opposite brackets and are favored to reach the finals.

Given the best chance of applying the shaft to one of the favorites are West Bertie (20-2), representing Bertie County, and Knapp (19-3), winners of the Currituck County crown.

Others in the eight-team field are Murfreesboro (8-9), Chicod (16-10), Chowan (8-17), and Oak City (12-11).

The tournament gets underway tomorrow night with both the favorites, Bethel and Pan-

Ingo Sets Final Work For Title Bout Wednesday

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Ingemar Johansson's private countdown had reached two today, meaning that Wednesday will be his final workout for his quest against heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in Miami Beach Monday night.

After Wednesday Ingo will just sit tight, girding his strength to regain the crown.

He made several things clear after Monday's workout, during which he again boxed a total of six rounds with three sparring partners.

Johansson said Patterson won't clip him with a left hook as he did in knocking Ingemar out in their second meeting last June. He said he was caught inexplicably motionless in midring, right hand raised in sort of a salute. It won't happen again, he promised.

He also declared his right hand will shoot out so fast that if he misses with it, Patterson won't have time to cross a left over it before he closes in.

Ingemar also confirmed what many thought they had noticed. He is fighting lower now.

"That way when a guy rushes you, you can withstand the charge, and not be carried backward," he explained.

The burly Swede said he had no apprehensions about being knocked cold again; that he has no mental block that would prevent him from turning loose with his right for fear of a quick reprisal.

Bradley Refuses NIT Bid

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Things are getting so gummed up in the late-hour drive to close the fields for the two major college basketball tournaments that even usually anxious coaches are saying "no" and conferences are having coin-flipping playoffs to determine where game playoffs will be staged.

Officials of the National Invitation Tournament are hectoring scanning the list of available for a replacement for a defending champion they thought they had signed, sealed, and delivered.

Tournament controllers of the NCAA championships are pulling over a 24-team lineup that is only two-thirds completed with the start of scrambling only a week away.

The NIT got a startling refusal Monday from defending champion Bradley, which said no, thanks, after a long meeting of school officials and a comment from Coach Ole Orsborn, to wit: "We aren't playing well enough to be a credit to the tournament."

High-ranked, nationally all season, and regular season play completed at 21-5, the NIT was figured ready to make Bradley top-seeded for defense of its championship in the Madison Square Garden tourney opening March 16.

With the Braves not interested, the NIT lineup stands at 11. Memphis State, Providence, DePaul, Detroit, Army, Miami of Florida, Dayton, Temple, Niagara, and Holy Cross, which accepted Monday, are definite. The 11th spot will go to the loser of the Colorado State-Utah clash for the Skyline Conference title and NCAA berth on Saturday. Who is No. 12? Maybe Duquesne, maybe LaSalle, maybe NYU—the NIT wasn't saying as of early today.

The NCAA lineup remains full of vacancies—with three at-large teams and five conference representatives still to be determined. Monday night, New Mexico State further scrambled the picture by beating Hardin-Simmons 88-72 and forcing a playoff with Arizona State U. for the Border Conference berth. They'll flip a coin to decide where and when the playoff will be held.

Work also began Monday night on unraveling the three-team tangle in the Ohio Valley Conference. Morehead of Kentucky, with Granby-Williams' 26 points helping overcome a 10-point halftime deficit, beat Eastern Kentucky 55-54. That eliminated Eastern but Morehead now advances to a showdown playoff with Western Kentucky at Louisville on Wednesday. That finally will decide what had wound up in a three-way tie on Saturday in the OVC.

Another NCAA berth could be determined tonight. Loyola of Los Angeles can become the West Coast Athletic Conference champ, undisputed, by licking Pepperdine. If Loyola loses, San Francisco (playing at Santa Clara) could still tie and there would have to be another playoff.

Fortunately, a couple games Monday night were played just for the spirit of the game—no tournament overtures, no if or maybe technicalities.

Louisville and Marquette, a pair of NCAA at-large teams, warmed up for next week's action with the Louisville Cardinals scoring a 75-50 romp. John Turner hit for 24 points as Louisville, now 19-7, broke a three-game losing streak. Don Kojis' 17 points were tops for Marquette, now 14-10.

In the Big Ten, Michigan State had five players in double figures, topped by Jack Lamers' 21, in a 74-64 upset of Iowa; Walt Bellamy scored 27 points and picked off a school record 28 rebounds in Indiana's 80-69 victory over Wisconsin; and John Tidwell closed his home Wolverine career with 24 points as Michigan upset Illinois 74-66.

Kansas (17-7) kept alive its chances of tying NCAA-bound Kansas State for the Big Eight title, running its record to 10-3 as Wayne Hightower hit 23 points and Bill Bridges 19 in an 85-75 decision over Iowa State. Joe Scott's school record 46 points featured Missouri's 97-76 rout of Nebraska, and Colorado handed Oklahoma its seventh straight loss, 52-45.

Ohio State Final Leader In AP Poll

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State is the undisputed national college basketball leader for the 1960-61 season, dominating The Associated Press poll as no other team has ever done.

The undefeated Buckeyes, with a 28-game winning streak dating back to the late stages of the previous campaign, were a unanimous choice today in the final standings.

This marked the 13th straight week they had been the solid choice of the special panel of sports writers and broadcasters. They led the poll every week—from the first to the last, an unprecedented achievement.

The season's race actually became one for second place and another Ohio team—Cincinnati—pulled that out with a great finishing try of its own.

The Cincinnati team closed its regular schedule on an 18-game winning streak which clinched the Missouri Valley championship from under the nose of Bradley.

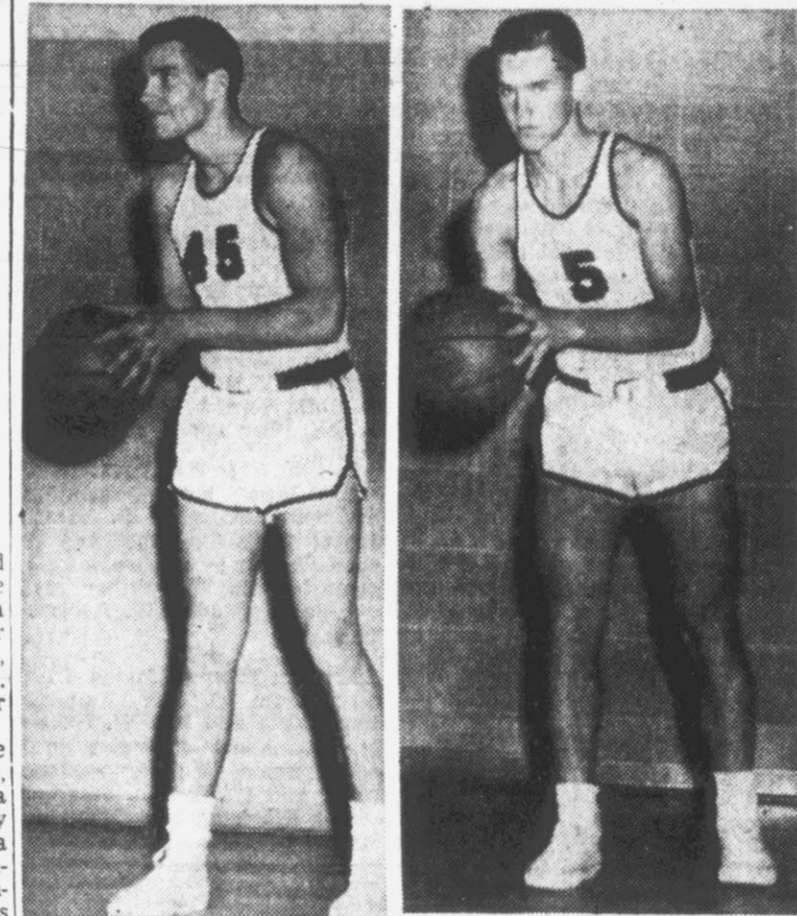

Cincinnati beat Marshall Saturday 69-57 while Bradley was losing to St. Louis 73-60.

St. Bonaventure, beaten by Duquesne in overtime, dropped to third place in the final standings, followed in order by Kansas State, North Carolina, Bradley, Southern California, Iowa, West Virginia and Duke.

The top ten with first place votes in parentheses and points on a 10-9-8, etc. basis:

1. Ohio State (36)	360
2. Cincinnati	313
3. St. Bonaventure	250
4. Kansas State	204
5. North Carolina	173
6. Bradley	132
7. Southern California	102
8. Iowa	95
9. West Virginia	66
10. Duke	64

Others receiving votes: Utah, Texas Tech, Niagara, Memphis State, Wake Forest, St. John's, St. Joseph's (Pa.), Drake, Holy Cross, Kentucky, Vanderbilt, Louisville, Mississippi State, UCLA, St. Louis, Indiana.

BETHEL THREATS—John Smith and Harvey Lewis, a couple of steady-shooting seniors, help Bethel launch its bid for a berth in the state tournament tomorrow night.

EC Soph Named Basketball Scores District Team

Cotton Clayton, East Carolina's sophomore guard, has been named on District 26's All-N.A.I.A. team for 1960-61.

Clayton was earlier named All-Conference in the North State for the second straight year.

Rick Howe of Appalachian and Carl Short of Newberry received a unanimous vote of the coaches and are honorary co-captains of the club.

Others named to the first team were Jerry Wells of Lenoir Rhyne and S. J. Irvin of Elon.

Don King of Appalachian led the voting on the second team, missing a first team slot by one vote.

Named to the second team along with King were Danny Doyle of Belmont Abbey, Ken Smith of Elon, Tommy Burton of Lenoir Rhyne and Jack Boyd of Atlantic Christian.

Williams Working With Red Sox Bat Problems

By JACK STEVENSON
SCOTTSDALE, ARIZ. (AP) — "There isn't a batter in baseball who can't improve," says Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox slugger-turned batting coach.

"Sure a fellow who hits .280 can improve to .300. He has to work at it. Understand how he should hit against certain pitchers. Know how to hit in certain situations. He remembers what happened last game, last week, last month and even last year. Know what to expect from each pitcher."

"If a batter is hitting a little too late, he should lighten up the bat. If he's hitting off his fists he should move back. Those are things all ball players know, but a lot don't do it."

As special batting coach, Ted keeps busy in the Bosox camp. Among other things, he works with the young hitters at the batting cage and in the special enclosure where a mechanical pitching machine fires the balls.

"I believe you don't look for flaws as such," said Williams. "You look for success or failure. A guy can have a lot of flaws as a hitter, but if he's successful, leave him alone. If he's unsuccessful, look for ways he can improve. Maybe I can come up with an idea for him. He tries it and if it doesn't work, we'll try something else."

Williams says the best way to hit is swing the shortest and quickest way. He demonstrated with his hands that a batter loses quickness when he holds the bat high as he waits for the ball, or sags and zags in his swing.

"In doing that you have to commit yourself too quickly," he explained. "The more time you have, the less chance you have of being fooled."

Manager Mike Higgins explains Williams' job as a general overseer of batters.

"It isn't a planned thing," he said. "He'll observe the batters. After the games start, if a fellow gets in a rut and Ted thinks he can help, he'll do it. There is no set way to help hitters. Each has his own style."

"I think he will help 'em mentally as much as anything else."

Wilt Already Has Broken 2 Records

NEW YORK (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia Warriors already has broken two National Basketball Association scoring records he set last year and by the time the regular season ends next Sunday he probably will be the first player in league history to go over the 3,000 mark.

Official league statistics released today showed Chamberlain with 2,917 points in 76 games for a 38.4 average. Elgin Baylor of the Los Angeles Lakers was far back in second place with 2,403 and an average of 34.8.

Chamberlain also has collected 2,068 rebounds, a league record. The Boston Celtics, who have clinched the Eastern Division title, did not have a player among the first 10 scoring leaders. Nor did they have a player among the top five field-goal percentage leaders.

A VISIT WITH THE ANGELS—Former President Eisenhower autographs the glove of first baseman Steve Biko, left, during a visit to the Los Angeles Angels' training camp at Palm Springs, Calif., where Eisenhower is on a golfing vacation. ## Defending Champs Do It Hard Way

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—The defending champions, James H. McAlvin of Lake Forest, Ill., and Thomas C. Robbins of Pinehurst, are doing it the hard way in their quest for another Pinehurst Senior Four-ball Invitational golf title. They were never ahead until the 18th hole in their quarterfinals victory Monday over Donald D. Cooke of Baltimore and Col. Arthur G. Desendorf of Washington, D.C. Robbins sank a 25-foot putt for a 1-up victory.

Mauch Expects Improved Phils

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Gene Mauch, isn't content to wait until 1962 — when the league will add two new teams — for his Philadelphia Phillies to get out of the National League cellar.

Mauch thinks it'll happen this season. "Wherever 10 or 11 more victories will put us," is the way Mauch put it, "that's where we'll finish."

At that pace, provided last year's sixth and seventh place teams stand still, the Phillies will finish sixth. In last place for the third straight year, Philadelphia in 1960 was one game behind Chicago and eight behind Cincinnati.

"If we can complete a trade to acquire the one or two players we're looking for," said Mauch, "we won't be in bad shape. I'm convinced that even if we don't make a deal, our kids, with a year of experience under their belt, will win more games. There's talent on the club. It simply wasn't ready. I think the kids learned a great deal last year. The same goes for the manager. I believe it has more knowledge of the other clubs in the league as well as my own."

Shaw, Covington Holding Out For Better Pay Terms

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Baseball's contract disputes are becoming louder. Pitcher Bob Shaw fired a broadside at the Chicago White Sox Monday and the Milwaukee Braves sounded an ultimatum to outfielder Wes Covington.

Shaw told The Associated Press "If the White Sox don't want me, I don't want the White Sox—I've yielded as much as I intend to. I'm ready to be traded."

General Manager John McHale of the Braves said in response to Covington's rejection of the club's latest proposal. "He had his change. We've done our part."

McHale said Covington, 29, accompanied his latest refusal with a suggestion "nothing short of amazing."

"He not only wanted the same pay as for his poor 1960 campaign (.249 with 10 homers and 35 RBI) but said we could cut if he didn't have a good year. That's against baseball rules," McHale said.

Shaw, 27, who compiled an 18-4 regular-season record and won one World Series game for the 1959 American League champions slumped to 13-13 last year. He said, "Not only do I refuse to take a cut, I think I deserve a raise."

The right-hander said he is basing his holdout siege on two factors: he didn't get enough money after his big year in 1959, and he feels he deserves a raise on his prospective value to the club in 1961.

"I'm in good shape. I've been working out. I know I can win 18 games this year if they give me a chance. Feeling this way, I'd be foolish to cheapen myself by accepting their terms," which call for a 21 per cent cut according to Shaw.

At the training camps, many teams took the day off or held workouts instead of intra-squad games. Harmon Killebrew hit four out of the park—three in succession — during the Minnesota Twins' practice session.

Praise fell on a couple of young pitchers as Cincinnati Manager Fred Hutchinson took a good look at trade acquisition Joey Jay, while youngsters Al Pehaniak and Terry Fox drew plaudits after Detroit's workout.

Jay, touched for a run in the first inning, bore down. With Dave Stenhouse he limited the opposition to five hits in a six-inning intra-squad affair.

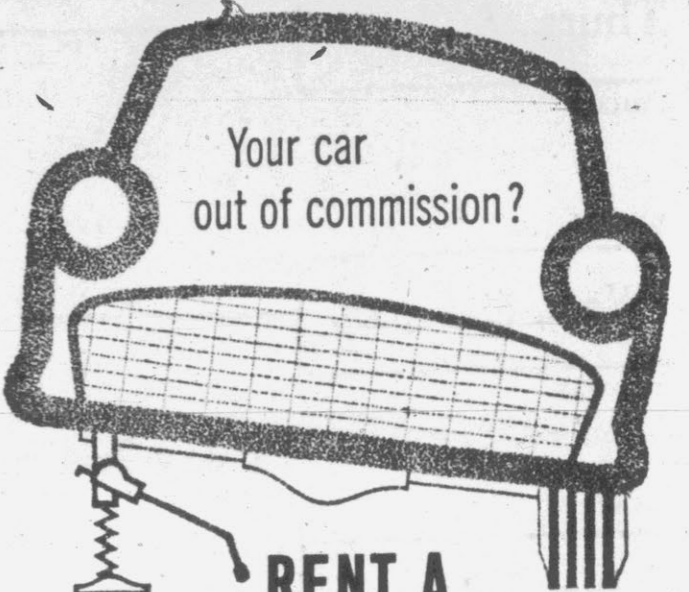

"Joe was loose, rehanged up well and was able to hum the fast ball when the occasion demanded," beamed Hutchinson.

Tiger Manager Bob Scheffing, a catcher in his playing days, caught right-hander Al Pehaniak, then remarked, "I like what I've seen of him so far. He has a great side-arm motion." Coach Tom Ferrick was just as enthusiastic about Terry Fox, citing his "good stuff."

PAUL HORGAN'S GREAT HISTORICAL NOVEL A DISTANT TRUMPET

CHAPTER 9

One evening Matthew was sitting on the threshold of his lopsided abode doorway watching the darkness draw over the world from the east.

He was tired, thinking of nothing and at peace. He had refused invitations to supper and had instead prepared his own meal, which he had devoured with relish after working in the sun all day building fortifications.

Suddenly from the direction of the arroyo behind the north line sounded the hornlike baying of a hound. It was the Mainwaring's greyhound. He barked in long, excited cadences. Something there disturbed the dog. Matthew went to investigate. He found Kitty Mainwaring standing at the edge of the arroyo, gazing below, wringing her hands above the deepening shadow of the bank.

"What is it?" asked Matthew, coming up beside her.

"Garibaldi has trapped something down there. I cannot make it out—some small creature near those clouds of earth. I am terrified it might be something that would harm him!"

Matthew scrambled down the bank and came up to the dog, which was dancing about in clamorous fury. Matthew tried to pull him away from a little heap of fallen clods, and as he did so, he saw a large white scorpion with its shelled tail quivering over its back. Matthew knew that its sting could be gravely troublesome to a man, and that it might prove fatal to a dog. He stoned it and broke it. The rock rolled away. Exuding its thick fluids of life, while its flexible horny scales slowly unfolded into inertness, the poisonous small creature died.

Matthew put the stone over the scorpion to make a grave and then let Garibaldi by his collar up the steep wall.

"Oh! whatever would I have done without you!" Kitty said, swaying a little toward Matthew, and laughing faintly at her weakness. "I was out for a little walk with my beautiful beastie here, and before I knew it, he was down the bank and attacking that thing! What eyes he has, to see it in the twilight. —Thank you, Matthew," she added, and her voice was close and shaken.

"You are most welcome ma'am."

He glanced toward his house as if to take his way there, but Kitty made no move to walk homeward, and out of politeness he stayed. It was most curious: whenever he had seen her lately, she had seemed tense, about what he could not imagine. Some inner excitement made her voice shake a little, and sound a little higher and louder than usual.

"He'll be all right," said Matthew, patting the tall greyhound on its narrow head. Garibaldi licked his hand and sat down like a heraldic supporter.

"He likes you," said Kitty. "He knows I like dogs."

"Oh, so do I. Do you like cats?"

"Oh, yes, cats are often very funny to watch."

"But you don't love them—I can see that. I always say I like cats, but I love dogs." Her voice was breathy. She looked at him and even in the falling evening he could see that her eyes shone with extra moisture. What in the world did she feel like weeping for, he wondered.

He could not know, she said to herself expertly, having rehearsed a hundred times the feelings that made a turmoil in her mind and heart, he could not know the burdens she had to bear. Her pride lay in ribbons, as she privately described its condition. Her husband, the commanding officer, had lately acted like a man either afraid or foolish: It was humiliating to lie beside him at night and be forced to reassure him a dozen times about his wisdom and strength of character.

And to think that she was facing, soon, what must amount to an eviction, when the Prescotts would arrive to take over Quarters 1—this was painful, and intruded between more pleasant thoughts at any time of day or night.

Worst of all was the trouble that beset her about Lieutenant Matthew Hazard. Her mind flooded hotly with different views in succession as she dwelled in thought upon him. He went his way, doing his work, thinking of his Laura Greenleaf, gaining the good respect of the men which her husband ought to hold and could not. So far as she knew, Matthew never gave her a thought. But at what he aroused in her she suffered hours of discontent and wonder.

What kind of woman was she, after all? If being a lady and preserving virtue went together, then was she no lady? She had allowed herself to be betrayed before her marriage. Must this haunt her all her life? She could remember the feelings of that time. They were brought alive in her again, now by this quiet and dedicated young man beside her in the dusk.

But when she showed him feeling which, coming from any pretty woman, any man would receive with interest, he simply did not recognize it. Laura Greenleaf! A fiery thread of feeling went through her. She could make him forget Laura Greenleaf!

She turned abruptly away from him and saw the first stars given light by the darkening east. She was flooded with a choking tenderness then, a feeling which seemed to resolve all her troubled interlacings of willful thoughts. She felt lovely and calm when she heard herself say, "Matthew aren't you lonely?"

With a smile in his voice he answered, "I certainly am, Mrs. Mainwaring."

She faced him in a swift attitude of yielding grace.

"Oh, why won't you call me Kitty! Lonely, lonely, I am dying of it, and yet here we are, the two of us. I think we are waiting for each other!"

Having said it at last, she was suddenly sick with fear. He was so amazed at what she meant, which at last he recognized, that he took a little step backward. His action was involuntary. It told her all—the worst — she had to know.

"Oh, no, Matthew," she said quickly. "I cannot imagine what made me say a thing like that!"

You must forget it. I am such a goose. I always have strong sympathies, and I suppose I felt too strongly how lonely you must be, thinking of your Miss Greenleaf so far away."

He was not deceived, but he was grateful for her desperate work of pride. He moved to help her up.

"Well, Kitty," he said gently. "I did not know it showed so plainly in me. I am thankful for your concern. Under other circumstances, it might make me forget myself."

"You would think of me in that way, Matthew?"

"Who knows?"

She leaned to stroke the dog beside her. When she spoke her voice was sad and full of courage for those to whom she could give it.

"I think it is best to admit how you feel. I can help you to overcome it. We all live very close to each other here, and also very far away from wholesome distractions. We must all put forth a little extra effort in keeping our promises to those we love. —We really should be going back. Thank you for rescuing us—" she laughed and patted Garibaldi. "I'll walk you home, Kitty," he said.

"But no gallantries," she said. "You must promise."

"I promise," he said, accepting the character she put upon him of the botheaded lover who must be guarded against. They walked on to headquarters where new occupants would soon live.

Spend Days On Free Haircuts

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — The usual day off for members of Barbers Local 619 is Monday—but not always.

Everett Schell told a union meeting that "for two cents" he'd help start a program of cutting children's hair free at the school and hospital for retarded children in nearby Selah.

Someone offered the two cents. Now, every sixth Monday, all 81 union members go to the institution to trim the hair of 200 children.

How to torture your wife

- STEP 1.
Tell your wife you don't need a checking account. (They're just for people who don't know how to handle money, and you are an inherent financial wizard.)
- STEP 2.
Handle the money and keep track of the bills yourself. (Cancelled checks are only for people with poor memories, and this certainly doesn't include you.)
- STEP 3.
Dole out only small amounts of "grocery money" to your wife. Make her ask for money frequently, so she knows you know she's extravagant. ("Do you think I'm made of money?" is a good line to use frequently.)
- STEP 4.
Let your wife participate in family finances by paying the bills, on foot, with good old hard cash. (You might give her a pair of rugged walking shoes for Christmas.)

Wife-torture should be as extinct as the dinosaur. The thing for managing money today is a checking account at Planters National. You save time and money, of course, and you'll discover your wife is a first-rate manager. You have a permanent record of how and where your money goes. And you spare yourself countless family arguments.

More than that, your Planters National checks give you prestige. You're a somebody—establishing good "bank standing" with one of Eastern Carolina's leading banks. And you have the satisfaction of instant recognition because both names and address are imprinted on every check. (This is a free service at Planters National, but it's worth a lot to you.)

If you've been torturing your wife . . . and yourself . . . by doing without a checking account, put an end to it this very day. See the folks at Planters National.

Peace Corps Youths Won't Avoid The Draft

By LOUIS G. PANOS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Draft-age young men who have military deferments won't lose them by serving in the Peace Corps. This is the opinion of Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, head of selective service.

Shriver said no exemptions from military service for peace corpsmen had been proposed and none had been requested. Of course, Shriver said, a young man couldn't return to the United States from Peace Corps service, become a beachcomber and expect to get deferment. And, he added, those who were deferred always would be subject to general mobilization, if it came.

Most college students and young men in certain special vocations get deferments from the draft. Shriver said the corps was anxious that after service abroad members of the corps would have good job prospects. He named four men to a corps career planning board to help develop job opportunities.

They are Ralph Lazarus, Cincinnati department store executive; Joseph Bieme, AFL-CIO vice president and president of the Communications Workers of America; Roger Jones, assistant secretary of state for administration and former chairman of the Civil Service Commission, and Dr. Benjamin C. Willis, general superintendent of schools of Chicago.

Working without pay, the board members will try to help Peace Corps veterans who have been abroad teaching and helping people of underdeveloped nations.

Fuller Named To Post In Ass'n

Dr. Frank G. Fuller, faculty member of the East Carolina College department of education, will serve for one year as president-elect and will then become president for one year of the North Carolina Personnel and Guidance Association.

He was chosen for the positions in an election conducted at the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the organization at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, during the past weekend.

Dr. Fuller will also serve as chairman of the Division of Guidance Supervisors and Counselor Educators of the organization.

A faculty member at East Carolina since 1949, Dr. Fuller has devoted a large part of his time to guidance and counseling work among students. He is now president of the Pitt County Mental Health Association and is a past president of the North Carolina Vocational Guidance Association. He holds the master's and the doctor's degrees in guidance from George Washington University.

Miller Selected To Direct Clinic At Rocky Mount

Thomas W. Miller, of the music faculty, has been selected to direct an all eastern district Junior High Clinic band at Rocky Mount High School Auditorium Saturday, March 11.

The clinic band is composed of one hundred outstanding instrumentalists from eighteen Junior High Bands in Eastern North Carolina and is the first such clinic band to be selected from the area.

The band will rehearse all day under Mr. Miller's direction and will present a concert 8:00 p.m. that evening at the high school. The program will include original band music and transcription of standard works.

Mr. Miller is director of the East Carolina Varsity Band, an organization of approximately 60 student musicians.

Got No Loot But Some Exercise

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Burglars who broke into a junior high school here didn't get any loot, but police say they got a lot of exercise.

Police said burglars removed a skylight and dropped into a rest-room, only to find an inside door locked. They crawled back out, scaled a porch, jumped to a gymnasium roof, forced open another skylight, climbed to a basketball backboard and dropped into the gym.

They didn't find anything worth stealing so they played basketball awhile and left.

PTA Board Will Meet Thursday

The Executive Board of the Parent-Teacher Association of Junius H. Rose High School will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the office of O.E. Dowd, principal.

Dr. Grover Everett, president of the association, will preside. All officers and committee chairmen are requested to be present, as this is the first executive session of the year.

POISON FUNGUS

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP)—Health officials said Monday they have received reports that bread fungus poisoning has killed 10 persons and left more than 100 critically ill in the neighboring village of Estacion Manuel, they said the fungus was traced to flour stocks at a village bakery.

MUNROE HUSBANDS, Fellowship Director for the American Unitarian Association, will give a public address on "Who are these Unitarians and Universalists?" at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday at Proctor Hotel. An open discussion period will follow. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Roughly 36 per cent of the Indian population of the United States lives in Oklahoma.

AFROTC Cadets Receive Medals For Achievement

Thirty-eight cadets of the Air Force ROTC at East Carolina College have received medals for achievement in Detachment 600 on the campus.

For their participation in the 1961 Marchathon staged by the East Carolina AF ROTC Honorary Drill Team Jan. 21 to raise funds for the local March of Dimes campaign, twenty cadets received the Outstanding Achievement Medal.

Presentation of the medals was made by Lt. Col. Norman F. Merritt, Jr., professor of air science.

Army Of Homeless To Be Found In Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—There is an army of homeless men here. Most don't even have pennies in their pockets. Many sleep these winter nights beneath bridges and in box cars.

The Oregon Public Welfare

GUESTS ON SUB RIDE
PANAMA (AP)—President Roberto F. Chiari of Panama went for a four-hour ride Monday in the U. S. Polaris submarine Theodore Roosevelt. Officers said it was the first time a foreign head of state has traveled aboard a U. S. nuclear submarine. With Chiari were Panamanian government leaders and officials from the Panama Canal Zone.

Commission says it cannot help, because its policy now forbids, as it has for 14 years, giving welfare aid to single, able-bodied men.

There have been other winters

like this for men with no homes, no jobs, but it seems particularly acute now, for there is heavy unemployment in Portland. How many of these men are there now? Hundreds, says James Guinan, a staff worker at the Stella Maris House, a community house operated by the Roman Catholic Church. Guinan told the welfare commission he found hundreds of men lining up each day for free meals at charity kitchens. In one small sampling of 30 men waiting to be fed, Guinan found 15 who had no place to sleep. Several told him they hadn't slept in a bed for several years.

Private charities here can provide only a few beds, Guinan said. Boxcars are a favorite sleeping place, he said. So is the damp ground beneath approaches to bridges that span the Willamette River. If a homeless man has a little money, Guinan said, he will often sleep in an all-night theater. One newsman found two men huddled out of the rain beneath a loading ramp at a warehouse. "We're waiting for the freight to Spokane," one said. "We're not tramps. We're from Minnesota and we're looking for work."

My cousin here is a construction worker and I'm a truck driver. Things are bad."

Welfare Administrator Jeanne Jewett said it is a problem for the entire state, for these men form a labor pool needed every year at harvest time. Commissioner Joseph E. Harvey Jr. said the commission will try to work out some kind of a program if the legislature will appropriate some money. Meanwhile, cold March rain continued to fall here.

Siege Of Nausea Followed Dinner

Two Pitt County commissioners, the county auditor and the sheriff were apparently well today after a siege of nausea last night that may be traced to their lunch yesterday at the county home.

Chairman of the Commissioners, Robert G. Little, Commissioner J. Vance Perkins, Auditor H. R. Gray, and Sheriff Ruel Tyson were reported ill last night.

The five-man board and several county department heads, as well as the county's three legislative representatives, were guests for lunch at the county home.

Dr. Georgia V. Mills, Pitt County health director, said today

Named Today

CHAPEL HILL — Winners of Morehead Scholarships to the University of North Carolina will be announced over statewide live television today from 5:30-6:30 p.m.

John Motley Morehead, founder of the scholarship fund, will personally present the awards during the program. Among television stations which will carry the program live is WNCN, Channel 9 of Greenville.

Last Rites Set For Mrs. Kate Jordan

POWELLVILLE — Mrs. Kate Jordan, 82, died Monday afternoon. Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. in Powellville Baptist Church by her pastor, Rev. Aubrey Sanders, assisted by Rev. K. E. Bryant and Rev. L. E. Dalley. Interment will follow in Christian Harbor Cemetery, Hertford County.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Dave Holloman of Powellville, Mrs. Claude Alligood of Greenville and Mrs. Louise McCuller of Grifton; one son, Dr. W. P. Jordan of Windsor; two sisters, Mrs. Lena Lee of Harrellsville, Mrs. Mamie Hogard of Ahoskie; one half-brother, Cecil Farless of Harrellsville; and 14 grandchildren.

She was a member of the Powellville Baptist Church, the Women's Missionary Society, the Women's Bible Class, the church choir and a charter member of the Powellville Woman's Club.

some of the food that was served the group yesterday has been sampled and carried to the State Health Department's laboratory for tests to determine any food infection.

She said yesterday's menu consisted of pork barbecue, fresh ham, stuffed sausage and back-bone, cole slaw, baked potatoes and collards; coconut cake, potato pie and a gelatin dessert; and corn break, milk and coffee.

When the department's investigation began, she pointed out, the only foods remaining to be sampled were the slaw and barbecue. Culture tests in Raleigh were underway today, she said, with results expected to be reported within 72 hours.

Dr. Mills said Sanitarian E. L. Kilpatrick investigated the food and carried the food samples to Raleigh early today.

She said foods suspected included the barbecue, slaw, coconut cake, potato pie and milk.

The health director said reports from all the persons in the group had not been received. The four men reported ill last night were back at their respective jobs today.

Dr. Mills said the food infection, if that was the cause of the illness, could have been "much more serious."

The mildness of the illness reported, she said, indicated the infection, if present, had just gotten started. "That may have been the reason some were more ill than others," she said.

A causative factor, she said, would not be known until a report from the culture tests is received.

Liz Taylor Feared In Midst Of Crisis

LONDON (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor's doctors called an urgent bedside conference this afternoon amid signs that the gravely ill actress may have taken a turn for the worse.

"Most of her doctors are inside with her," said a close friend at the hospital. "We are not sure what's happening, but things don't look good."

A spokesman for the star's personal physician, Dr. Carl Heinz Goldman, said:

"We can say nothing right now and we'll probably have nothing before 6 or 7 o'clock tonight (4 or 2 p.m. EST)."

Stricken by pneumonia, the 29-year-old film beauty had passed a fair night and a medical bulletin earlier said she was "breathing quietly and peacefully." It added that she was definitely improving "although the general situation remains grave."

Haggard from worry and lack of sleep, singer Eddie Fisher, 31, for the third night remained near his wife's bedside in the exclusive clinic in the heart of London. Two doctors were in the sickroom throughout the night.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Taylor, also spent the night at the clinic.

The actress was seen this morning by her full medical team of six doctors.

They issued this bulletin: "After a restless night with high temperatures her condition is definitely improving this morning and she is breathing quietly and peacefully although the general situation remains grave."

A second breathing expert, Dr. Robert Beaver, was called in to aid the actress, who underwent an emergency tracheotomy Saturday. A breathing tube inserted in her throat then and an electronic lung are helping keep her alive.

At one period Monday night Miss Taylor's strength ebbed, but she rallied after being given blood transfusions for her anemic condition.

An emergency shipment of an antitoxin to prevent the spread of the pneumonia infection was rushed by jetliner from the United States to aid the brunette beauty in her fight against pneumonia, complicated by anemia. But after its arrival, a medical spokesman said a new British gamma globulin—probably would be used instead.

Upon being questioned about his boating hobby, Lombardo noted his boats have "won all major events" including the Presidents Cup and Gold Cup races at least once.

He has also set speed records, including two in the Gold Cup race. The first, he said, was in 1948 when he set the since - broken straightaway record of 119.7 miles per hour, and a second which still stands, the fastest lap over the 15 mile course at 115 miles-per-hour. This lap record was set with his "Tempo 7".

Lombardo, who said he built a jet boat last year which blew up, and at present is making a new race boat, stated he keeps "a couple of sensible boats" at all times for the more sublime water sports.

... curiouser and curiouser, said Alice

You can go for days in one of our great cities without speaking to a living soul, if you wish. Modern man may peer into a little glass door in the automat, unlock it for a quarter and extract a chicken salad sandwich.

If he has no change, he may place a five dollar bill in one of the new folding money changer machines, and get back four ones and change for a dollar. If even that's too hard, he may buy a whole meal in a glass of Metrecal, drink it, and become smaller.

We lament this modern tendency which makes it so easy for man to go down the rabbit hole. We like to talk to folks, occasionally. Come by and tell us what you think of the world situation, or anything else!
