REPRESENTED AT TRUSTEE-LIBRARIAN INSTITUTE held here at Sheppard Memorial Library today were James D. Blount, guest speaker of Rockingham; Miss Evelyn Mullen of the U. S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare; Reginald Gray, panel member, Pitt County auditor; Miss Elaine Von Oesen of the N. C. State Library in Raleigh; and George H. Esser Jr., assistant director, Institute of Government, Chapel Hill. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Education Board Presents Case To Committee

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Board of Education's plea for an additional $69 million for school improvements during the next biennium rests with the Legislature's Joint Appropriations Committee.

Library Trustees' Selling Role Cited

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer

It is the responsibility of library trustees to sell the library to the public and to city and county officials, James D. Blount of Rockingham told those assembled here today for a Trustee-Librarian Institute.

that would like to give memorial gifts if the opportunity were provided," he said. Following his address, a panel consisting of five members continued the discussion.

Kennedy Sends Congress Save-The-Cities Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today sent to Congress a $3.25 billion "save-the-cities" housing program, to be run by a proposed new cabinet-rank department of housing and urban affairs.

Members of the board stated their case before the committee Wednesday. When they had completed, no one challenged their request for the extra funds. There were few questions from the committee members.

Blount stressed the importance of selecting good trustees, who are intensely interested in the library and willing to work for its support.

Why did he include a call for a statewide referendum? "I think this is an unusual situation because it involves a very major tax step," he replied.

Russians Orbit Dog In 'Space Ship' And Announce Safe Return To Earth

MOSCOW (AP) — A five-ton space ship with a dog aboard was launched into orbit today and landed safely, the Soviet government announced.

The extra money would provide more than 2,900 additional teachers during the biennium. "Where will you find 1,400 new teachers a year?" asked Rep. Thomas Woodard of Wilson, co-chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

Enumerating pointers in presenting a successful budget to the governing body of a town or county, Blount said usually it is best that a trustee is appointed by the library board to present the budget personally.

He also reminded trustees not to overlook the possibility of private support and gifts. "There are families in every community boards before filling out the blanks. The first shipment, 16 carloads, is due at Butler March 15. It will be distributed from Butler and Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford has urged Tar Heel counties to take advantage of the federal surplus food distribution program for North Carolina's needy.

The counties which participate will be responsible for transporting the food to their areas, providing storage and distributing it, Carson Baines of Guilford County questioned the proposed method of storage and distribution.

He said that the main object of this effort was a further improvement of space-vehicle design and of life support equipment.

Dr. Georgia V. Mills, Pitt County's public health director who resigned Feb. 6, has accepted a position as assistant health director of the Forsyth County Health Department.

Dr. Mills will become the Piedmont county's first full-time assistant director. She will succeed a part-time assistant who has already resigned but has agreed to remain in his position until we have a full-time assistant," Dr. Rousseau said.

Ward said the liquor found in the truck was still warm, indicating it had recently been run off.

Truckload Of Bootleg Seized

Pitt ABC officers assisted Greene County deputies in seizing one of the largest illegal liquor hauls of recent times last night.

Her resignation, submitted to the Pitt Board of Health at a stormy meeting here Feb. 6 becomes effective May 31. However, April 1 has been mentioned as a starting date for her new position provided Pitt County secures a new health director by that date.

Forsyth County health officials told the Daily Reflector today the board of health there offered Dr. Mills the position following a meeting Monday.

Arrested as driver of the truck was Thomas Lee Tatum, 20-year-old Negro of Rt. 6, Greenville. He was placed in jail in Kinston under $1,000 bond.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson today faced the first big test of his U. N. career as he tried to persuade the Soviets to drop their demand for a disarmament debate at the current assembly session.

He said April 1 "has been mentioned as a date but we're not sure at this point when Dr. Mills will be able to begin her duties here. We wrote her to come as soon as possible."

Want Change In Location Bridge

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C. (AP)—Directors of the Greater Morehead City Chamber of Commerce have called for a change in the location of the proposed Beaufort-Morehead City bridge.

But a U. S. spokesman indicated the Soviets were insisting on a full assembly debate on Premier Khrushchev's call for total disarmament.

Forsyth's county commissioners have agreed to pay Dr. Mills a salary of around $11,000 annually, Dr. Rousseau indicated.

Dr. Mills will become the Piedmont county's first full-time assistant director. She will succeed a part-time assistant who has already resigned but has agreed to remain in his position until we have a full-time assistant," Dr. Rousseau said.

Execution Stays Granted 2 Men

RALEIGH (AP) — Two men scheduled to die in the gas chamber this month have been granted stays of execution by the State Supreme Court.

To win the Soviets away from this declared stand would boost U. S. prestige in the 99-nation forum and strengthen Stevenson's hand in future international exchanges.

Dr. Mills will be able to begin her duties here. We wrote her to come as soon as possible."

The meeting, scheduled to begin at 8 p. m., will be held in the Council Chamber on the second floor of the City Hall.

AYDEN—The Ayden Woman's Club program was on "Local Scholarships" at their March general meeting. The N.C.F.W.C. sponsors three scholarships for local seniors each year in music, art, and academics.

Three qualified senior girls are competing through the efforts of Mrs. W. Ormond, Mrs. E. W. Eichorn, both Woman's Club members, and Mrs. C. C. Little, Ayden High School scholarship advisor.

All three of these girls are seniors of Ayden High School. They have all been honor students, are active in school clubs, sports, etc., are active in their local churches and church organizations, and participate in many community activities.

District 15 of the N.C.W.C.F. will present the local club's contestants on the TV show "Hospitality House" (WTTN) Saturday at 9 a.m. for preliminary judging.

Mrs. Evans Is Aries Speaker

Mrs. R. H. Evans spoke at the Aries Book Club, when they met with Mrs. Virginia Pierce Basnight Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Derrick, the president, presided at the business meeting and welcomed the following guests: Mrs. John Clark, Mrs. Roy Coburn, Mrs. J. Bryan Brown and Mrs. R. H. Evans. The following slate of officers for the incoming year were presented and approved: president, Mrs. Carl Pierce, Jr.; vice-president, Mrs. Virginia Pierce Basnight; treasurer, Mrs. Thomas J. Haigwood; secretary, Mrs. Gretchen Willard Goodwin.

Mrs. Basnight had as her guest speaker Mrs. R. H. Evans. Mrs. Evans reviewed the religious book entitled "A Woman Wants God" by Mary Lou Lacy. In this book Mrs. Lacy records many of her own searchings in the perpetual activity that makes a woman's world, and she writes of that world with humor and great understanding.

Mrs. Evans, in expressing Mrs. Lacy's book, said that this is a book to inspire a woman to that deep, strengthening faith that grows with every year until, in love and beauty, it spills over on everyone around her. That this is a world of endless opportunity, where a child's question can lead to great truth and the smallest gesture can bring joy. It is in this world and in her own heart that woman must find God. And she can find him only through complete dedication. "Leave you, have I, any right at all to expect to have God if we want let him have us?"

During the social hour the members and guests were invited into the dining room where Mrs. Clark Coburn served a sweet course and coffee from an appointed table.

Dance Honors Gritton Team

GRITTON—Friday night is the big night for Gritton's basketball players and all others who have supported the teams this season; the recognition dance given by parents and patrons is scheduled for 8 to 11:30 in the old school gym.

The decorations and refreshment committees report their preparations are nearly completed, specialty dances are planned, and girls are pressing their party dresses for the semi-formal affair.

A king and queen for the dance will be presented mid-way through the evening by Principal Ed Bright, who is coach of the girls varsity team. He is the only person who will know in advance of the presentation just who the king and queen will be, as he will tabulate the ballots cast by the team members this week.

Invitations to the dance have been sent to all the varsity and junior varsity players and coaches, scorekeepers, timekeepers, managers, cheerleaders, and refreshment stand workers as a "thank-you" from the town for their fine work during the basketball season.

No Longer In Realm Of The Abstract

North Carolina's enthusiasm for better schools as outlined by Gov. Sanford can be better evaluated in the weeks to come as the people of the state count the cost of the proposed program in terms normally better understood than mere figures with dollar marks in front of them.

In two heated party primaries the people of the state indicated their support of Gov. Sanford's school improvement program by giving him the greatest number of votes in a campaign in which education was the paramount issue. Since the primaries almost a year ago public sentiment has appeared to be increasingly in favor of the governor's program enriching public education of North Carolina.

Through it all, cost figures of the proposed school improvement program were talked of in terms of millions of dollars, and although the sum sounded high, the predominant opinion appeared to be, "It's worth that much and more. We need it."

Now Gov. Sanford has spelled out those cost figures in different terms and public reaction is reflecting less unanimity of opinion on the issue of great educational strides.

On Monday evening Gov. Sanford spelled out the cost in terms of a three per cent sales tax on food and every other item that heretofore has been exempt from the state's sales tax law. This caused the public to look on the cost of the school proposals not in terms of millions of dollars, but in terms of adding three per cent to the food cost of each family; in terms of adding three per cent to the cost of medicines and other "necessities" as well as to the cost of other items that previously have been exempt from sales tax.

It also raised the questions of whether the amount of money proposed to be spent on schools would raise school standards to the level anticipated; whether there were means to more effectively spend funds already being provided for public schools.

And naturally the governor's proposals for raising the necessary additional revenues brought questions about other tax sources that had been considered and discarded by the governor and his revenue experts before he made public his views.

The basic question now is this:

Will the people be as enthusiastic about improving now that they can directly relate the cost to their own pocketbooks instead of looking upon the cost to the state in terms of abstract millions?

There is also the question of whether most of the people favor the broadest possible base for additional tax revenues, or special levies on specific items in order to create the illusion that someone else is footing the cost of school improvements?

North Carolina under no circumstance should undertake in the next biennium to spend more on improving its public schools than it can effectively benefit from. Neither should the state attempt to spend on school improvement more than it can afford regardless of the sources from which the revenues may come.

At the same time, the people in counting the cost in more personal terms cannot escape the fact that North Carolina desperately needs many improvements in its public school system. The relative position of North Carolina to other states in the future will depend heavily upon what the state does now to improve the educational opportunities offered its young people.

What had formerly been looked upon as a problem of school needs vs dollars now becomes a struggle between school needs and individuals' pocketbooks.

Which will the people of North Carolina favor?

Prefer Waiting To See The Bill

By LYNN NISBET

REACTION—Reaction of nearly all the lobbyists, a majority of business men interviewed and a large number of legislators to Governor Sanford's second budget measure has been: "Let's wait until we see his bill."

The reason for that attitude is that Governor Sanford in one sentence recommended removal of all exemptions from the present general sales tax of 3 per cent. In other sentences he proposes specific exemption of products of the farm sold for further processing and subsequent taxation, gasoline already taxed by another method, and presumably alcoholic beverages also taxed by another method; and a sales tax of only 1 per cent on the farm and industrial group of items and equipment used in production; and increase from 1 per cent to 2 per cent on motor vehicles with the present top limitation of $80 per sale.

Practical effect of that provision is that purchasers of automobiles at less than $4,000 will have their sales taxes doubled, while purchases above $4,000 will have no tax increase. Also, there is room for wide diversity of interpretation of what may be included in items and equipment used in production, and products "of the farm" sold for further processing and subsequent taxation.

Some of the legislators see in these general provisions room for favoritism for truckers, and line owners, commercial forestry and lumbermen. There also is room for diversity in statutory or administrative rulings about whether air-conditioning, radio, spare tires, etc., are included in the purchase price of an automobile, or if because they are billed separately they constitute separate "items." So the smart fellows are waiting to see the text of the proposed tax collecting statute before expressing opinion on the total program.

PLEBISCITE—A unique suggestion in the Governor's message is that the tax program which he proposes be enacted by the present General Assembly to become effective July 1, 1961, and that the proposition be submitted to vote of the people "next fall" to determine whether this tax and level of support shall be continued after July 1, 1963. Some legislators were not sure whether the suggestion is for a special election "next fall" (1961) or at the time of the regular general election next year (1962) when members of the General Assembly will be up for election. Majority opinion is the nominating primaries next spring will serve as a fairly adequate "election" on popularity of the laws enacted by this General Assembly.

The verdict then will be rendered not on the general administration program, but on the effect of laws enacted by this Assembly. The suggested submission to the people of the tax bills is new, and few people think the issue will be submitted simply and directly. It will be submitted in the candidacies of prospective members for the next Legislature, and that will be settled mainly in the spring primaries.

There have been numerous instances of tax levies being submitted to vote of the people. Nearly always the question is presented before the tax is levied. The idea of an "election" on continuing an entire fiscal program after it has been in effect, and without specific issues such as so much tax for a library or a playground or a supplemental teacher salary schedule, is something new.

One significant sentence bearing on the probable "election" date is found near the end of the speech. Governor Sanford said that in submitting the issue to the people the Legislature would not be passing the buck, and added: "I have faith in the vision of our people. If you will do this, I will join with you THIS FALL in carrying our crusade to every county in the state."

CONSTITUTION — There are other reasons for expecting a general election to be called for the fall of 1961. Also certainly there will be several constitutional amendments submitted by this Legislature for approval of the voters. Such of these as affect representation in the General Assembly or the Congress must be ratified before the 1962 spring primaries if they are to be effective in the 1963 sessions. Such amendments as affect the courts need to be ratified before January 1, 1962, or at least a year will be lost before the proposed improvements can be effected.

There may be still other reasons for a special general election later this year, one being the section in Article I of the State Constitution, known as the "Declaration of Rights," that "For redress of grievances and for amending and strengthening the laws, elections should be often held."

It is axiomatic in practical political circles that organizational workers must be kept busy if they are to remain efficient. It is also recognized by practical politicians that particular programs have better chance of approval if submitted at different times from the election of constitutional officers. That is why the Scott road bonds were submitted at a special time, and why the constitutional amendments effectuating the Pearsall Plan for public schools and changing date for convening of the General Assembly were submitted at an election in September instead of waiting for the regular election in November in 1956.

An interesting thought is that the Sanford tax program and the several court reform and redistricting programs may vie for priority of attention in a special election this fall to such extent that none of them will get the serious consideration they all deserve.

Need Of UN Police Force Stressed Anew

Conditions that have developed in the Congo in the past week offer another good example of the need for a permanent United Nations police force under direct control of the U.N. rather than individual nations.

At a time when efforts are being made to strengthen U.N. personnel in the Congo to avoid all-out conflict, some of the nations which have supplied troops to the U.N. command are calling their personnel home.

Some 400 Sudanese troops involved last week in the clash with Congolese soldiers are being called back home. Another 800 Moroccan troops reportedly refused to go to Leopoldville and are also returning home.

So long as individual nations have direct control over troops they supply to a U.N. military action, it is going to be extremely difficult to effectively carry out comprehensive operations. Particularly is this true in a situation such as the Congo where the procedure will be tedious and extended over a long period of months. Consideration should again be given by the members of the United Nations to the establishment of a permanent international police force under direct control of the U.N. to cope with serious trouble spots throughout the world.

Kennedy Enjoys Luxury Of Time

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — By an accident of history President Kennedy inherited the luxury of time, and he's using it.

Unlike his three predecessors in the White House he didn't have to cope with an immediate and overwhelming crisis when he took office.

Thus he had time to take care of his problems at home before having to plunge into the long-range crisis of our time-dealing with Russia.

Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower all had instant crises on their hands when they were sworn in.

Roosevelt had to tackle the depression. Truman had to bring World War II to a successful conclusion. Eisenhower had to settle the Korean War.

True, when Kennedy became president he faced a shambles in the Congo and serious trouble in Laos. He still does.

But there was no instant and gigantic problem in front of him, as there was for the others.

Thus, he was able, as a new man, to take his time in preparing to talk with the Russians on disarmament.

And any immediate problem of a conference with Premier Khrushchev was out of the question — and Khrushchev knew it — until he had time to get his thinking and his house in order.

Meanwhile he is using every minute of his time to get a host of domestic problems out of the way before Khrushchev needs all his attention.

This explains the rapid-fire volley of messages and programs with which he has been bombarding Congress.

Congress will be working on Kennedy's proposals. He'll need more time for the necessary in-fighting — putting pressure on individual members of Congress — to vote his way.

This inheritance of time gives him the chance to get the bulk of his first year's work — the work that has to be done at home — before moving into the foreign field in person.

It is notable that neither Kennedy nor his secretary of state, Dean Rusk, has yet made any profound announcements of foreign affairs.

The big statements in that field will come later, as the need for his fullest attention to Congress begins to recede.

He cannot, of course, avoid being haunted by the possibility of a Communist victory in Laos or some sudden development which would prove a disaster for the West in the Congo.

But at the moment he seems to be trying to handle those problems — through his aides — the work that has to be done at home — before moving into the immediate domestic tasks.

Quote...

Lyndon Johnson remarked in Paris the other day that having a son gave Mr. Kennedy one more stake in maintaining the peace. You don't have to be a family man to abhor war, or to appreciate the blessings of tranquility. But a couple of youngsters around the house — even around the White House — are a pointed reminder that what this generation does or doesn't do may have a profound effect upon the next. — N.Y. Impressions Of America

What image does the Englishman have of the average American?

Well, the American is loud and boisterous. He invariably wears sunglasses, day and night. He probably carries a camera. He probably smokes a cigar, an expensive item and only for the man of substantial means in England.

Encouraged by a favorable rate of exchange, he throws pound notes around freely. And the American's home town is overrun by the underworld, to the Englishman. There are gang wars and bombings.

To the eastern North Carolinian, who toils all day in the field with his tractor, this typical American is a dream character.

But the Englishman, he is very real. We have that on the word of Ivor Preece, an English engineer now working in Tarboro with a plastics firm and living in Rocky Mount.

Preece spoke to local Jaycees on Jaycees International, an organization for improving relations between countries through the world Jaycees clubs.

Preece told the local club that the English have strong views on Americans. The United States soldiers, who have been in England now since 1941, created their impression. Tourists who have flocked to the country since World War II helped confirm it.

It's all been tied together by the British newspapers and by American films.

Preece painted a picture of a soldier away from home for the first time. He doesn't want to be in a strange country to begin with. So he buys some cigars, exchanges his money for pounds and has a big time.

The American tourist is worse.

"He seems to have a very loud voice," Preece said. "He is very proud of being an American and wants everybody to know it. The tourist is having a ball so we naturally assume that Americans are like that all the time."

"In short he appears to us as a Texan does to you."

Films shown in England are American to a great extent and thus the British get the impression of "Errol Flynn winning the war singlehandedly."

English newspapers "believe sensationalism sells them better," Preece told the Jaycees. They are devoted to gang warfare in New York, bomb throwings, racial discrimination in the south.

"The Little Rock situation, by the way gentlemen, was headline news throughout Europe," Preece said.

The point of his talk was this, the speaker concluded. If two countries as alike as England and United States could misunderstand each other to this extent "then the misunderstanding of America in other countries of the world must be tremendous."

Opinions In Brief

"No matter what governmental programs are aimed at unemployment and growth, no real progress can be made toward solving these problems unless investment increases in the private businesses of America. The wages, salaries and profits of private business must support all governmental activity, obviously, for the government has no source of money but the taxes on the private economy." — Petaluma (Calif.) Argus-Courier.

"The National Wildlife Federation finally has come up with a situation where the male can thumb his vest with pride. Women fishermen, statistics show, are 50 per cent more likely to be arrested for fishing without a license." — Roseburg (Ore.) News-Review.

"I am satisfied that we are less convinced by what we hear than by what we see." — Herodotus.

Other Editors Saying Bonner Could Solve It

(Goldboro News-Argus) Our political Fixer offers a novel, yet somewhat logical, plan to solve the problem of North Carolina losing a congressional district. Fixit's idea if executed would add population to districts which need it to come closer to the average population per district over the nation.

More to the point it would prevent any incumbent Congressmen from having to fight it out in a new district for keeping their job.

The plan would require a lot of doing. It also would require the cooperation and agreement of North Carolina's senior Representative, Herbert Bonner.

Fixit's please — everybody strategem would go like this:

Best informed politicians in Bonner's First District have long been saying that he was of a mind to retire at the end of this term and to take things a bit easier. His district population-wise could be carved up, dismembered and added to other districts and other districts given some more people which they need to get a higher rank toward a national district average.

The Beauty of Fixit's idea is to have Mr. Bonner (described by Newsweek when he went to interview President Kennedy as "the venerable") step into a major Federal appointment. It would be one which would not require as much strain or energy as does serving as a Congressman. Fixit suggests the Maritime Commission. Bonner's long chairmanship of the House committee with responsibility in this field would give him unexcelled background for such a new post for his talents.

President Kennedy most likely would give a careful ear to suggestions that his friend, Mr. Bonner, needed to ease up a bit but had experience and background which would make his services most valuable in a Federal post. Bonner as of this writing probably is closer to Mr. Kennedy than any other House member from North Carolina. Bonner voted with the Democrats and Speaker Sam Rayburn to add members to the rules committee. All other North Carolina Democrats voted against the proposal. Speaker Rayburn carried his point by a bare five votes.

So Speaker Rayburn might be amenable to helping Bonner, if he really wishes to ease up a bit, to step into some place which would not be as demanding.

But Mr. Fixit, let it be said, isn't hatching up a scheme to get rid of Bonner or the First District. He's just joining the speculation of how North Carolina can solve its problem of eliminating a congressional district with as little trouble as possible.

Disciplining Needs Know-How

By ELMER ROESSNER

With the rise in unemployment, many employers tighten up on discipline. When there are unemployed available, management is inclined to demand that those who have jobs follow the rules. In fact, some employers may now be tempted to use the rules to force the resignation of men and women who were tolerated during tight labor markets.

However, where there are union contracts, discipline must be applied with care. Contracts usually provide for arbitration and arbitrators seldom look upon offenses as gravely as employers. Furthermore, union officers have devised ingenious defenses.

One company fired a man for intoxication. His union brought it to arbitration. The union attorney argued that since this was a first complaint, the penalty was unduly severe.

"But he has been drunk on the job many times before!" the employer said.

"CONDONED"

"Was he disciplined?" the attorney asked.

"No," said the employer. "Then you have condoned his drinking," the attorney said. "You don't suddenly make drinking a firing offense."

The arbitrator agreed. The union offered a compromise; it would agree to the man's being fired with severance pay, but not without.

A somewhat similar case was cited by Richard L. Schiffer in the American Management Association's magazine, "Personnel."

One Steve ducked out of a plant for a quick stop of Java at a nearby luncheonette. He was fired for leaving the job without permission, and without punching out, evidence that he intended to cheat the company.

Again the union protested that this was a first offense. Management countered by producing a record showing Steve had broken almost every rule. It had been keeping tabs on him.

"Aha!" said the shop steward. "A secret file — one more bit of evidence that you were discriminating against Steve." The arbitrator ruled that Steve's break for coffee was a first offense and cut the penalty to two weeks' suspension.

"DOUBLE JEOPARDY"

Another pitfall is that most arbitrators hold a man cannot be subjected to double jeopardy. Management has a reasonable time to decide on a penalty. Mr. Schiffer pointed out, but once it imposes a penalty it may not increase it.

He cited the case of a man sent home for three days because he was caught drinking on the job. When the company reviewed the case and found previous offenses, it fired the man. The arbitrator ruled it could have fired the man on the spot, but not having done so, could not fire him later.

Almost all personnel counselors make the point that rules must be reasonable and that, if not in a union contract, the union must be notified.

The Industrial Relations News adds these bits of advice: Recognize contemporary customs; do not require workers to report infractions by others; or permit snitching to foremen. Don't make rules offend; say "unlawful possession of company property" instead of "stealing." Make sure everybody knows all the rules.

Resist the temptation to make exceptions, because that opens the way to the charge of

Simple Look At Subject

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The report comes out of Los Angeles that the Plasterers Local No. 2 has turned down a 12½ cents an hour pay boost in order to "support President Kennedy's plea to hold the line against inflation." As novel as this sounds, it makes very good sense because if there is no work, there is no income and despite evening that apologists and propagandists say, prices are too high. And a plasterer knows, as well as anyone else, that higher and higher wages are not an answer unless the money is good. It is possible to pay a man a million dollars an hour, if the million dollars is only worth one dollar in the store. That is its own true value — its exchangeability for goods, services or taxes.

Money is not worth its face value. It is worth what is accepted. In international trade this produces the business known as exchange or valuta, that is, the difference in the value of currency as it fluctuates on markets. Why should it fluctuate? Because of acceptability. For instance, the American dollar is not worth 100 cents in Canada. If you want 100 cents worth of something, it is necessary to pay more than 100 cents. A pound sterling when I was a boy was said to be worth $5.00, probably $4.85 to be exact. Today, that same pound sterling is worth $2.80. Thus, a British pound can buy fewer dollars than it used to.

In the domestic economy, we have not yet reached the day when we buy and sell quarters, dimes and pennies, but there are many parts of the world where the money-changers sit in their stalls and meet the day's yag or do better depending upon the market.

The Los Angeles plasterers face another situation, namely, that as prices go up substitutes are offered. The substitutes may be better or worse but they are never the same nor do they require the same kind or same amount of labor. Substitutes in building materials are numerous and, houses today are thrown together of materials which seem to have no substance, but they do stand up and their defenders say that actually they are stronger. They do not, however, give the impression of substance.

A man can only really have what he can afford and if home-building becomes too costly, the possibility of the possibility of "do it yourself" which is socially very unsound because it throws people out of work in an economy where unemployment can become a major disaster.

This then is the nub of the problem. Many industries are beginning to feel the pinch of high prices, less costly substitutes, imported items and "do it yourself" operations. Newspapers, women's magazines and television have increased the amount of space devoted to "do it yourself" instruction.

It is true that in the good, old days mother spun and weaved and sewed and everything was home-made that could be, and father sawed and hammered and plastered and built and the neighbors came along to give a helping hand. But in those days, it was not socially necessary to keep 60,000,000 adults at work for a wage which would not only support families but provide the leisure time for children to go to school to at least 16 years of age without earning a living. In some places, the law puts this figure at 18, which means that the wage-earners in the family are reduced in number no matter how many mouths have to be filled.

When But Chapman, president of Plasterers Local No. 2, said, "we feel our present wages are sufficient," he uttered a slogan which both labor and management must take seriously. A halt must be called to the rise in wages and prices and consequent unemployment. So-called Social Security is no substitute for a job, nor is dependence upon government a moral equivalent of personal dignity and self-respect.

It is therefore necessary to face this problem honestly and

Reluctantly Turned To Distributing Districts

By LYNN NISBET, Reflector Bureau

RALEIGH — The House and Senate committees on congressional redistricting met jointly Wednesday and faced up reluctantly to the problem of distributing representation among eleven congressmen instead of the present twelve.

Chairman Sen. Robert Morgan and Rep. Ed Kemp emphasized that while advice, information and suggestions would be welcomed from any source the responsibility for doing the job cannot be avoided by the committees first and then by the legislative members as a whole. The chairmen asked that each member study the problem from statewide viewpoint, not just in relation to his own district.

Sen. Warren disappointed some big county representatives delighted the small districts with his statement that there is no statute, Federal or State, requiring congressional districts to be equal in population. He noted that there are districts now with less than 200,000 people and with more than 1,000,000. The present range in North Carolina is from 253,511 in the first district to 487,159 in the sixth. The only constitutional or statutory provisions about the formation of districts is that counties composing them must be contiguous.

The chairmen joined in the announced decision that no sitting member of Congress will be invited to appear, but any of them asking to be heard will be welcomed.

The wistful hope voiced by one committeeman that Congress might enlarge its membership to the point that North Carolina could retain 12 seats was dashed by Sen. Lindsay Warren, veteran of many congressional and State legislative sessions. He stated chances for any increase in total membership at less than one in 10,000—except possibly adding three members to take care of the new States added to the Union since the 435 maximum limit was Whether all public hearings will be held in Raleigh or at other points throughout the state has not been determined. The chairmen have indicated that if other points are selected they will be chosen on basis of regional convenience and without regard to present district lines.

Next meeting of the committee will be held on Wednesday, March 15, at which time it is hoped to have something more definite to present as basis for discussion.

Elizabeth Taylor Much Improved

LONDON (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor felt so much better today that she needed her doctors to let her leave the hospital.

"Her doctors took this as an excellent sign," said one of her close friends at the London Clinic.

"She's virtually off the danger list," said the film beauty's personal physician, Dr. C. H. Goldman, "and will probably be taken off it tonight."

"She complains about being in some pain," he added.

This was also looked on as a good sign that her reactions were returning to normal.

Goldman said the stricken star—making steady progress in her fight against pneumonia in both lungs—may be able to leave the hospital in "about two weeks."

Encouraged by her progress, Miss Taylor's physicians stopped feeding her through a vein in her ankle.

She was still unable to eat, however, and this morning was being fed through a "gastric tube" in her nose.

Dr. Goldman said the star's condition is so much better that she also is having much less oxygen than before. She began breathing Wednesday without the aid of the electronic lung that had synchronized the flow of oxygen with her own breathing.

Panhellenic Council To Sponsor Musical Show

With a cast of 201 sorority members, the spectacular "Broadway in the Spring" will be presented at East Carolina College Friday, at 7:30 p.m. in the Austin auditorium.

Sponsored by the Panhellenic Council, which is composed of 20 representatives from each sorority and which coordinates the work of the social sororities, the musical production will be open to the public with a small admission fee. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the Chapel Fund at the college.

With eight East Carolina College sororities participating, the "Broadway in the Spring" skit production, a take-off on musical Broadway performances, will include the musical hits "Can Can,"

"South Pacific," "Carousel," "Pajama Game," and "Lil' Abner." The Ghostville Hit Parade, take-off on TV Lucky Strike Hit Parade, will also include "Fashions of the Century," "Memories of Broadway" will conclude the spectacular performance with a finale of eight sorority groups.

Karen McLawhorn, junior student at East Carolina, from Vancouver, is the writer of the coordinating skits. She is also helping design the setting for the show.

Chairman of the production committee, Sara Smiley of Greenville, states, "Everyone is enjoying working on the production. It looks like an evening of delightful musical entertainment," she said.

Religious Liberals Planning Form Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship

Munroe Husbands, Fellowship Director for the American Unitarian Association, presented an address Wednesday evening on "Who are these Unitarians and Universalists?"

In his talk he pointed out that religious liberals feel that the actual practice of brotherhood is more important than what an individual believes theologically. Husbands ended his address by quoting from the Statements of Purpose of the American Unitarian Association:

"Unitarian churches are dedicated to the progressive transformation and ennoblement of individual and social life, through religion, in accordance with the advancing knowledge and the growing vision of mankind. Bound by this common purpose, and committed to freedom of belief, Unitarians hold in unity of spirit a diversity of convictions."

Honored On Birthday

Edmond Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Edwards, celebrated his sixth birthday Saturday afternoon with a party at the Community Building.

A white birthday cake trimmed in red and green with six candles centered with a covered wagon decorated with spring flowers streamers and balloons.

Several games were played by the group and at the conclusion of the games, guests sang "Happy Birthday."

Mrs. Edwards assisted by Mrs. David Owens, Mrs. Lenwood Owens, and Mrs. Alan Parker served individual cup cakes, ice cream, potato chips, and drinks. Each child was given a hat, balloon, sucker, and bubble gum as favors, after which the honoree opened his gifts.

Guests included the following: Clark Owens, Lemie Owens, Debbie Pittman, Kim Parker, Paul Parker, Danna Joyner, Robbie Bell, Leonard Bradshaw, Hope McKeel, Coleen McKeel, Sandra Bryant, Jimmy Rose, Bennie Thompson, Darlene Thompson, Ed Everette, Nancy Smith, Gregg Mangum, and Charles Edwards.

The committee members are: John Behr, chairman; Mrs. U. W. Fetsch, secretary; Tolson Willis Jr., treasurer; Mrs. H. E. Billica, religious education director; Dr. George Pasti Jr. and H. D. Rowe. Persons interested in learning more about the group are urged to contact the committee members.

The first fellowship meeting will be held on Sunday, March 19, at 8 p.m. in the "X" Hut on the East Carolina College campus. The public is cordially invited to attend.

PTA Meets

Parents and interested friends throughout the community are invited to attend the Thursday night meeting of the Fountain Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association when Arthur Alford, Education Supervisor of Pitt County Schools, will lead a discussion relative to the status of our school for the year 1961-62.

An executive meeting is planned prior to the regular PTA meeting. PTA officers, members of the school committee, and Principal William C. Wiggins will meet in the office at 7:00 p.m. The regular meeting will convene at 7:30 o'clock in the school auditorium.

Near-Tragedy In Comic Diving Act

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—A comic diving act was disrupted by a near-tragedy during a circus performance Wednesday night.

Three professional divers were injured, none critically, when a 39,000 gallon tank filled with 10 feet of water burst as one performer dove into it.

The other two, climbing to the 20-foot diving platform, fell to the arena floor. The crowd watched horror-stricken.

Injured were Gary Gaines, 38, of Trenton, N. J., who was diving; Athas Darigo, 32, Miami, Fla.; and Hartley French, 31, North Miami Beach, Fla.

Gaines and French suffered chest and rib injuries, Darigo had a leg and arm injured.

PAUL HORGAN'S GREAT HISTORICAL NOVEL
A DISTANT TRUMPET

CHAPTER 11
 When the month of June arrived Lieutenant Hazard had a significant conversation with his commanding officer.
 "Sir, it seems that plans for my wedding have been settled, if I can obtain leave to go to Buffalo."
 "Thunder," said Major Prescott. "What is that going to mean? Do you plan to return here afterward?"
 Matthew was astonished at any other assumption.
 "Why, certainly, sir. I never thought of..." He paused and his face flushed and he said, "Unless, sir, for some reason, you'd prefer to have me transfer."
 "No, Matthew, I would not want you to transfer. It just seemed to me that perhaps — there might be a dozen reasons for not wanting to bring your bride out here."
 He looked at Matthew with kindness and also with direct eloquence. They both knew what he was talking about. Neither intended to speak of it. What hovered between them was the image, the meaning of Kitty Mainwaring. She meant more than she had any right to mean in the life of a small garrison. Major Prescott was not at all certain how far matters had gone. Mrs. Prescott may have had clearer notions of all that, but he was reluctant even to probe for her opinion in so delicate a matter.

 If the young officer facing him in the headquarters office at Fort Delivery chose to take him into his confidence, he would accept the confidence with good faith. But Matthew showed no more inclination now than ever of making plain a situation which everyone at the post had conspired to ignore.
 "Sir," said Matthew, "Laura knows all I could write her about Fort Delivery. I don't think she will be surprised by any of the living conditions she will find here."
 "It is always hard to visualize the real state of affairs when you're far away from it."

 "Yes, sir."
 "How long will you need?"
 "I'd say six weeks, sir."
 "Does anybody else know you plan to go?"
 "I believe the Grays know I have been hoping to go. And the Mainwaring's, too."
 "Mrs. Mainwaring knows?"
 "Matthew frowned. "Yes, sir." Major Prescott took up a fresh cigar and lighted it.
 "I'll trust you to know what you're doing, then, Matt. You may have leave, but I won't conceal from you that it would be awkward and probably dangerous, if you should arrange for a transfer of station while you're away. We've just gotten ourselves into good shape here after months of working together. I can't spare you, or Gray, or Mainwaring, or a single one of our soldiers. You can imagine how long it would take to work somebody else in to take anybody's place. So if you think you can handle all the private aspects of this big change you're going to make in your life, you come on back here as ordered, you hear?"

 "Yes, sir."
 "Put in your papers. I'll approve them."
 "Thank you, sir."
 "Buffalo, eh? The Greenleafs, isn't it? He's in command at Fort Porter, I believe."
 "Yes, sir."
 "Yes, Poor fellow. He might have gone far in the Army. Huntleigh Greenleaf has never had a day's real soldiering. I don't happen to have ever met him, but we've all heard of him. — You know his wife?"
 "Of course, sir."
 "I hear she takes a very strong position, at times. Rather high style, isn't it, at the Greenleafs?"
 "Oh, yes, sir."
 Hiram Hyde Prescott suddenly stood up and put out his hand to Matthew. They shook hands. Matthew wanted more than anything in the world to make a father out of Major Prescott for five minutes, to tell him what he must of what troubled him; but instead, he saluted and left the office.
 In order to bear herself at all,

Kitty Mainwaring had to pretend that "she was leaving him" instead of the other way round. When Matthew told her his request for leave was granted, and that the commanding officer had emphasized that he was not to arrange for any transfer to another post while away on leave, she laughed in her highest and most breathless voice, putting her hands to her cheeks, and said, "I am not to be spared even that."
 "What do you mean, even that?" asked Matthew grimly.
 "I mean, having you bring your wife back here, where I'll have to see her day after day, and see you with her, and know that I must love her, and be nice to her, and keep up this miserable false effect of nothing in front of all the others."
 "It won't be exactly easy for me, remember."
 "You! It will mean nothing to you. None of it has. Well, if it is any comfort to you, I decided long ago that it has all been a mistake, and the sooner it is forgotten, the better."
 But her eyes looked like coals in dark smudges of ash, and he lowered his face away from her in pity, not to see the suffering she could not conceal. For the thousandth time he bitterly rebuked his own nature, and longed for the peace of Laura's love, where again he could feel himself at one with his own honor.

 "Kitty, I have told you I am sorry."
 "Oh, sorry," she hissed in a whisper. "How cruel and concealed is a man. He takes another life and changes it forever, and then when he is through with it, he lets it go, and says he is sorry, and that is the end for him. But not for her!"
 Her pretenses left her and she put her face into her tense, bony little hands and wept.
 They both knew that she had never rested until she had known him as her lover. But the convention now required by her was that overpowering her he had cruelly shaped her weakness to his desire. He could only leave her pride, and agree, as Teddy Mainwaring had long ago in another event come to agree, that she had been "taken advantage of."
 She knew shame for herself, for Matthew, and for Teddy Mainwaring.
 Teddy had once made a storm over her making a set of curtains for Matthew's quarters. It was a storm he could afford to indulge, for he was certain there was no real occasion to be jealous over the curtains.
 But when by her behavior, over-casual and lolling about the house like the very image of a suddenly satisfied and single-minded wife who never mentioned their neighbor, Teddy was brought soul-wrenching suspicions, he could not dare to utter them for fear they might be too true. He was too weak to risk the fact. If what he suspected were true, what must he do? Kill Lieutenant Hazard? Kill her? Kill himself? All sorts of witless splendors in folly occurred to him as he imagined what must follow disclosure. But he knew he would never be equal to them. He became the complaisant husband who must never risk doubts not because he trusted his wife but because he did not dare not to.

Newspaper Saw Unexpected Use
 INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It's a moot question whether the pen is mightier than the sword, but a newspaper comes in handy at times.
 James Prenatt, 25, told police a car pulled beside him early Tuesday, and one of the two men inside ordered him to hand over his billfold at gunpoint.
 Prenatt said he hurled a newspaper at the car and it sped away.
BREAK FOR MOTORISTS
 WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) — Motorists in this western Pennsylvania town have found one bright side to the unusually cold winter there — free parking. Burgess Raynor Carroll reports parking meters frequently have been inoperative due to freezing.

Kennedy Voices Hope Factions Won't Kill School Aid

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says the Constitution bars federal loans to private secondary schools on any cross-board basis. And he hopes advocates of such aid will desist lest the administration's education bill be killed.

Taking fresh issue with critics, the President sounded that appeal and expressed his views on the legal issues at a news conference Wednesday—even as word came from Congress about plans to press for loans to these schools.

Kennedy previously had asserted that he also believes outright grants to non-public secondary schools would be unconstitutional.

At the session with 350 newsmen, Kennedy dealt at great length with the administration's controversial $3.2 billion bill to provide federal grants to public schools, scholarships to college students and loans to colleges. It calls for neither grants nor loans to parochial and private schools.

But the conference questions and answers also ranged into the international field and touched on other domestic matters.

For example, Kennedy said he would like to see an easing of what he called Communist China's belligerent attitude and harsh attacks on the United States.

"But," he added, "we are not prepared to surrender in order today to help deal with a polio outbreak among Cubans.

The President cited this as underscoring that while this country has differences with the Castro regime, it has none with the people of Cuba.

"Rather, we desire the closest, harmonious and friendly ties with them," Kennedy added.

As for the controversy over the administration aid-for-education bill, Kennedy said that while he personally believes that across-the-board loans to private schools would be as unconstitutional as out-right grants, he also believes the question of such loans is open to debate. He said anew he is convinced there is no room for debate regarding grants to non-public secondary schools.

But in discussing the loan issue, the President said: If Congress and congressmen wish to address themselves to the problem of loans, "I am hopeful that it will be considered as a separate matter."

Some Congress members and spokesmen for the nation's Roman Catholic bishops—representing Kennedy's church—have declared the administration bill should be amended to provide for low-interest, long-term loans to private schools.

"My judgment has been," Kennedy said, "that across-the-board loans are unconstitutional."

He noted that some laws have been enacted authorizing loans to non-public schools on a restricted basis, but never on a wide open basis. He conceded then that this leaves the legal issue open for debate.

A reporter asked Kennedy to "assess the possible damage" the issues of religion and segregation could do to the administration education bill now pending in Congress.

He replied these issues have contributed to blocking congressional action on aid for education bills in past years, and as a consequence no legislation was enacted.

"Obviously it is going to be a difficult matter to secure passage of legislation this year," Kennedy said in appealing for separate consideration of any move to provide loans.

But Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., announced he intends to offer a loan-authorizing amendment to the administration bill. He said his proposal will call for $350 million in such loans over the three-year period of the administration program.

Clark said he disagrees that loans to private secondary schools would be unconstitutional.

Just Suspicious Over Simplicity

RALEIGH—Rep. Mack Isaac of Avery county introduced a little bill the other day affecting the appointment of precinct registrars and judges of election (poll holders) by county boards of elections. It was a very short and very simple little bill. All it did was to change the word "may" in the present law to the word "shall" requiring county boards to appoint judges from a list of three or more names submitted by the party chairman in the county.

The word "judges" in the caption of the bill caught Speaker Joe Hunt napping and he assigned the bill to the committee on Courts and Judicial Districts, rather than to the committee on elections.

Rep. Isaac explained that the mandatory provision is not needed in perhaps 95 of the 100 counties, but he wants to clear the record in five or six counties where the present discretion is abused.

Every member of the committee, including such stalwart Democratic partisans as Bunn Frink of Brunswick, John Kerr of Warren and Frank Wooten of Pitt, favored the "principle" of the bill. But because it was sponsored by a Republican, some of the Democratic lawyers were suspicious.

Result of haggling over fine distinction of meaning between such words as "may," "must" and "shall" was to have a motion made by Democrat Frink withdrawn and the measure sent to a subcommittee.

Duke Will Admit Negro Students

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Duke University is opening its doors to its first Negro students. Trustees have decided to admit qualified applicants, without regard to race, creed or national origin, to the graduate and professional schools beginning with the next school year on Sept. 1, 1961.

The trustees Wednesday also awarded contracts for a new $1.6 million Law School building, expected to be completed by July, 1962. It will house the Law School, the World Rule of Law Center, and offices of "Law and Contemporary Problems," a quarterly journal published by the Law School.

Dr. J. Deryl Hart was named president of the university, a position he will hold until a successor to the resigned president, Dr. Hollis Edens, is named. The trustees named Dr. Hart as president retroactive to last July 1, when he was appointed president pro-tem. A presidential selection committee named last year will continue functioning.

Even The River Will Be Green On St. Pat's Day

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Even the Savannah River will be wearing green on St. Patrick's Day if Tom Woolley's idea works.

Woolley, food and beverage manager of a Savannah hotel, proposes to dye the river green for Savannah's annual St. Patrick's Day parade March 17.

He said he will run a test today to determine how much dye would be needed and what it would cost. City officials cautiously agreed to help determine if the plan is feasible.

Woolley proposes to use a strong dye known as fluorescein, which is commonly used to test sewerage systems. A county health department spokesman said the substance is not toxic, is water soluble and would have no permanent effect on anything it touches.

Awarded Trip To Omaha Meeting

Annie Mae Murray, kindergarten supervisor and member of the education department at East Carolina College, has been awarded a trip to Omaha, Nebraska, April 2-7. She will attend the Study Conference of the Association for Childhood Education, International.

The award, given by the North Carolina Kindergarten Association, was granted to Miss Murray in appreciation for ten years of service to schools for young children in the state. While in Omaha, she will serve as hostess and participate in the program of a study group on "Today's Child—Tomorrow's World."

Ancient Craft Of Glass-Blowing Is Kept Alive; Automation Is No Worry

By WILSON MORGAN, Durham Staff Writer
 Written for The Associated Press
 DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Modern-day industrialization has caused many of man's ancient crafts and ways of doing things either to become virtually nonexistent or to become modified into something entirely different from the original, but his same era of industrialization seems to have given a kind of rebirth to the ancient craft of glassblowing.

This is evidenced by the important service being rendered to industry's research by Tony Zurek, a craftsman of the ancient art who works at the new Chemstrand Research Center, Inc., six miles southeast of Durham, itself a result of the new industrialization trend of the South. Glassblowing dates back thousands of years, but Zurek's plying of the craft is with quite a different purpose from those glassblowers of old.

While the shaping and designing of glass used to be performed, for the most part, as an art for the creation largely of decorative objects, Tony Zurek has made an art of supplying the special needs in glass for industrial research. Although he uses many of the techniques which have been in use for centuries, both his methods and products are much broader in scope.

Glassblowing, as such, actually is only one phase of Zurek's work.

He also does hand-tooling of glass, fitting and treating for strength. Probably the most important aspect of his work in the way of service, to Chemstrand, however, is the considerable amount of original designing he does for researchers who know what they need, but who have few if any ideas on how to produce the items.

"Often about all I have is a description of what the new part is supposed to do and perhaps where it will fit in with existing equipment," Zurek explained. "This, of course means that not only must he be a whiz at creative planning and crafting, but also that he has at least some sort of working knowledge of such things as chemistry, physics, thermodynamics and geometry.

never cause his career to become a thing of the past, as has harness making. "There are more glassblowers or craftsmen in this country now than ever," Zurek observed, "and there is more for them to do because of the new demands created for them by industrial research."

Even so, what with this increase both in number and demand, it last report there still were only some 540 registered professional and amateur glassblowers, known as the American Scientific Glassblowers Association. Zurek, of course, is one of the association's seven members in North Carolina.

A sharp eye and a keen sense of touch are essential as he molds and creates modern "works of art" for research. In spite of the factory-made joints and glass tubing he uses for his own designs and the most convenient equipment in his handy workshop, a visitor can tell at a glance that his craft is the same one described in references to mankind's early history.

Working with glass in much the same way it was done centuries ago in order to create special equipment for a new, ultra-modern science research laboratory, Tony Zurek and his craft clearly serve as an excellent example of how ways of the past still can help make things of the future possible.

Medals Will Be Given March 18

CHAPEL HILL — Accounting medals to four outstanding students of North Carolina colleges and universities, including East Carolina College in Greenville, will be given at a dinner here March 18.

Richard K. Worsley of Greenville, secretary-treasurer of the State Board of Certified Public Accountant Examiners will be among four board members presenting the CPA certificates to candidates.

Included among the 40 candidates for CPA certificates is Norwood Pipkin Whitehurst of Greenville.

Pitt Students On Honor Roll

CHAPEL HILL — Two Pitt County students were included on the General College Honor Roll of the University of North Carolina for the fall semester, it was announced today.

The students, including 140 freshmen and sophomores, received grades of B or higher and were enrolled for a minimum of 15 semester hours.

They were Richard Forde of Winterville and Donald Whitney Needham of Greenville.

Diplomats Hope Kennedy Scored With Hospitality

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. strategists held cautious hopes today that President Kennedy made a diplomatic gain with his special hospitality toward Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah.

Kennedy personally went to the airport Wednesday for the first time to welcome a foreign VIP — and it was Nkrumah who got this red carpet treatment.

During 1½ hours at the White House, Kennedy talked to Nkrumah about world affairs and showed him the living quarters of the executive mansion, where he introduced Mrs. Kennedy and daughter Caroline.

Nkrumah left Washington later in the evening aboard a U. S. military transport plane for New York. From there he planned to fly today to the British Commonwealth prime ministers meeting in London.

Hopeful signs were seen here both in Nkrumah's apparent pleasure at his reception and in the views he has expressed during his U. S. stay this time, more moderate than when he attended the U. N. General Assembly session in New York last fall. Then Secretary of State Christian A. Herter pictured the African leader as leaning toward the Communists.

While U. S. foreign policy makers are still cool to some of Nkrumah's proposals, they view with general approval his desire for support of the United Nations, strengthening U. N. forces in the Congo, keeping the cold war out of the Congo and use of troops from uncommitted nations as the U. N. military garrison there.

Kennedy told newsmen he had reminded Nkrumah that the United States, itself born of revolution, is anxious that other nations determine their own future.

Kennedy said America wants Africans to live in freedom, and the United States is anxious "for peace in Africa so that people in Africa can develop their resources."

Nkrumah supported part of Kennedy's theme, saying "I think anti-colonialism was invented by the United States of America."

Questioned by reporters, the African president who once lived in America as a student, denied being pro-Communist.

"Be careful, don't equate communism or being Communist with African nationalism," he said.

From Community 4-H Clubs come the advantages of giving demonstrations yourself, sharing your friendship with others, helping to overcome the fear of public speaking and gaining confidence and poise. It also better prepares you for life.

In joining the 4-H Club, we are striving to become better citizens by learning to mix with other boys and girls, learning good health habits, and above all sharing what we learn with others.

At our meetings we learn how to make articles of craft such as lamps, wallets, book-ends, etc.

We participated in having a booth at the Pitt County Fair one year. From projects such as this, we learn to think for ourselves and arrange our own materials. We also had fun while doing these booths.

One advantage of a Community 4-H Club is that all the members live in the same neighborhood. Therefore, they feel free to join the club and participate in all its activities.

But all this would not be available if it were not for our county agents and adult leaders. We look to them for guidance at all times.

Garner Rallies Into Semifinals

Winston-Salem (AP) — First round play continues here tonight to provide semifinals opponents for Garner and North Wilkes in the State Class 2-A high school basketball tournament.

Scotland Neck plays Southern Alamance at 7:30 p.m. and Franklin meets Wallace at 9 to complete first-round eliminations.

Garner scored 53-44 over North Davidson in Wednesday night's first game, and North Wilkes ousted Bladenboro 69-42 in the second.

For North Wilkes, the victory over Bladenboro was comparatively easy. Kelly Taylor, with 23 points, paced the taller Wilkes county team. Joe Davis topped Bladenboro with 15 points.

8 of its first 15 games, and Vanderbilt meet on the University of Tennessee's neutral court at Knoxville in a play-off to determine the team to host the Southeastern Conference which will send into the NCAA tournament.

The winner will advance to the semifinals of the NCAA regional tournament at Louisville March 17 to play the eventual winner of a first-round clash March 14 between Morehead's Ohio Valley Conference play-off champs and an at-large team, either Xavier of Ohio or Chicago Loyola. It could bring together the SEC designate and Ohio State's mighty Buckeyes who also will play in the Midwest regional the 17th and 18th.

In the Ivy League, Penn may have caught Princeton's league champs looking ahead to their NCAA Eastern regional meeting with George Washington in New Boston 136, Syracuse 127.

York next Tuesday, Penn, with Sid Amira scoring 23 points and Bob Mikvy 21, crushed the Tigers, 88-63 to clinch second place.

Greg Heath's tip-in with two seconds left gave Brown a 79-77 triumph over Dartmouth and enabled the Bruins to share third place with Yale, which was upset by Harvard 67-63. Cornell, winding up with a 14-10 record, went out of the league and established a school single-game mark by crushing Syracuse 107-79.

Sugg Winner In Eastern Playoffs

Trenton—H. B. Sugg High of Farmville roared from behind in the second half here last night and posted an 85-59 victory over Perry High of Roseboro in the State Class 2-A Eastern district tournament.

The Lions moved into the Friday night semi-finals against the winner of the Beaufort-Dunn game tonight.

The Pitt County club was a slow starter, trailing throughout the first half, but stormed from behind in the third quarter on the shooting of Roosevelt Taft and Marvin Langley.

Coach Jerry Evans' club switched the nets for 30 points in the third quarter and added 26 more in the final period.

Langley was high man for the winners with 29 points and Taft had 24.

James Mave and Jimmy Smith, with 11 points each, dominated the boards for Sugg. The other starter, Edward Pitt, stopped Roseboro's high scoring Tee Hogan with only 10 points.

McCovey Blames Eating For Poor Batting Mark

By JACK STEVENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Willie McCovey feels he ate himself out of a job after 1959 when he won rookie-of-the-year honors with the San Francisco Giants.

"I went to two and three banquets a week after that first season," he says. "And I really put on weight."

"After I had a bad year last season, I wasn't invited to so many dinners so I had a chance to keep my weight down. Even if I had been invited to a lot of them, I wouldn't have gone."

Willie, 23, showed he'd learned the eating lesson when he checked into the Giants spring training camp at 202 pounds compared with 220 a year ago. He's been impressive at bat these days, belting balls over both the right and left field fences.

"I feel 100 per cent better this spring," he said. "I'm not sluggish and can run with ease. That extra work hurt my legs and I had a pulled muscle last spring. My right knee had been operated on the year before and I think all the weight made it hurt. Now I'm working out without even a wrap on the knee and it feels good."

The 6-foot-4, left-handed hitting first baseman broke in with a bang on reporting to the Giants in mid-1959. He finished with a .354 average and 13 home runs in 52 games.

Last spring the sophomore jinx hit him and he couldn't hit the ball with any authority.

In an attempt to get him back on the beam, the Giants sent him to their Tacoma farm of the Pacific Coast League temporarily. He didn't do much better on his return, finishing with a .238 average and 13 home runs in 101 games.

Sanford's R. D. Carson scored 36 points to pace the victory, 25 of them coming in the first half. Bethel's Al Capps scored 23.

The first game on Wednesday night's card was a sizzler. Mount Airy had to come from behind in the final minutes to eliminate the stubborn Durham club. In the final three minutes, Jimmy Sessoms, Johnny Yokely and Tommy White began hitting and carried Mount Airy to a 41-40 lead and the defending champions never trailed again.

Sessoms was high scorer with 19 points, Yokely had 17. Doug Fowler was high for Durham Northern with 16.

In the last 20 years the Giants have finished in the National League's first division nine times.

MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM—Co-favorites Bethel and Pantego were as listless as the crowd last night but still overpowered a couple of questionable opponents to reach the semi-finals Friday night.

Defending district title-holder Pantego bombed Murfreesboro, 69-46, and Bethel dipped Chowan 58-32.

Two games tonight will complete the first round of the district Class A tournament and determine Bethel's and Pantego's challengers in the semifinals.

West Bertie, beaten only twice in regular season play, will be favored to knock off Chicod tonight in an 8:30 match and become Pantego's opponent.

Knapp, holder of a 19-3 record, gets the nod over Martin County champion Oak City in the first game tonight, starting at 7:00.

CAROLINA-bound Ray Respass delivered only when necessary in last night's first game as Pantego's once-beaten Warriors swept past a puzzled Murfreesboro outfit, 69-40.

Respass, considered the top college prospect in the state, fired away only 17 times, hitting on 13 of them, but was credited with a number of assists.

The highly-touted star added two free throws to his total for 28 points—an average night for the lanky senior.

Three other Warrior starters

Bradford Linton, Howard Bryan and Billy Rose—hit in double figures. Linton had 12 points while the latter two had 10 each.

The game was never in doubt with Respass and company moving away at the outset, leading 19-8 after one period. The lead was stretched to 18 points by halftime, 39-21.

Edwin Parkin tossed in 12 points and Benja Brown had 11 for the losers.

Respass and Matt Hudson did a seaman's job off the backboards, limiting the shorter Red Devils to only one shot per trip.

BETHEL'S GANG lost little time in salting away its 58-32 opening victory, scoring a bucket five of the first six times it had the ball, against a weak Chowan outfit.

Coach Walter Latham, aware of his club's letdown after a quick and unchallenged lead, substituted freely in the second period and final half.

The win came with little difficulty, but even so, the Indians looked ragged at times.

Senior sparkplug Harvey Lewis guided the triumph with 16 points—most of them coming off the fast break or driving layups.

Guard Don Dewar keynoted the victory with a long jumper after Bethel received the opening tip-off. The junior backcourt operator hit 10 points before retiring.

Freshman Tex Everett and reserve Jesse Thomas were next in the scoring line with eight points each.

Jimmy Turner, who hit nine straight free throws, was high man for the losers with 11 points. The losers tallied only 11 field goals all night.

For the Indians, it was victory number 28 against two defeats.

Cupit Making Bid For Masters

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Jackie Cupit, a young Texan making only his fifth start as a pro in the $20,000 Pensacola Open golf tournament today, is making a strong bid for an invitation to the Masters tournament.

The former University of Houston golf star from Longview, Tex., is in third place in point totals in a race for two special bids to the Masters, to be held at Augusta, Ga. April 6-9.

Cupit has played in only four of the nine PGA tournaments this year. Yet, with 67 points, he ranks close behind Gardner Dickinson, with 71½, and Bill Collins, with 71, in the race for the two invitations.

Many of the top pros will be invited to the Masters without having to worry about the point totals. They will be selected on the basis of other performances.

But for those left out, the race is keen for the two bids.

Cupit, only 23, has finished among the top 10 in his four meets. With the Pensacola Open and two later tournaments counting in the competition for the two Masters bids, he has a good chance of grabbing one of them.

Others in the race include Mason Rudolph with 63½ points; Davey Hill, 61, and Al Geiberger, 49.

Big money winner Arnold Palmer was tagged as the favorite to hold his title in the 72-hole meet here. In practice rounds the past two days he shot an eight under par 64 and a 69.

Another strong contender was Doug Sanders, winner of the greater New Orleans meet Sunday.

Sanford's R. D. Carson scored 36 points to pace the victory, 25 of them coming in the first half. Bethel's Al Capps scored 23.

Liston Anxious For Title Bout

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Sonny Liston, the No. 1 ranked heavyweight contender, said today he is willing to fight either Floyd Patterson or Ingemar Johansson for nothing as long as the title is at stake.

"From the way Cus D'Amato (Patterson's manager) talks, I guess I'll never get Patterson," said the 27-year-old Philadelphia heavyweight after he had knocked out Howard King of Reno in 53 seconds of the third round Wednesday night at the Miami Beach Auditorium.

"Johansson, I don't know about him," Liston said. "When he didn't have the title he said he would fight me. When he won it he wouldn't fight me. I don't know how he would feel if he wins this time."

Liston, winner of 32 of 33 pro fights and 25 in a row, predicted that Patterson would knock out Johansson inside of five rounds when they meet Monday night for the third time.

Liston, about 10 pounds over his normal weight at 219½ pounds, dropped the 204-pound King for a count of nine in the second. He floored him in the 10-count in the third with a right to the head. It was Liston's first fight in six months.

Mt. Airy, Sanford Win 3-A Openers

ENKA, N.C. (AP)—With 48-game winner Mount Airy already in the semifinals, first-round play continues here tonight in the Class 3-A high school basketball tournament. Unbeaten Kinston appears the top eastern threat.

Mount Airy, after its third straight title, had to come from behind Wednesday night to whip Northern Durham 56-44 and advance to the semifinals. Sanford ran away from Bethel 72-56 in the other first-round game.

Tonight's action to complete the first round sends Kinston against Dallas at 7 p.m. and Clinton against Reynolds of Asheville at 9. The Kinston-Dallas winner goes on to play Mount Airy in the semis Friday night, with the Clinton-Reynolds winner taking on equally tough Sanford.

Sanford's R. D. Carson scored 36 points to pace the victory, 25 of them coming in the first half. Bethel's Al Capps scored 23.

Traynham Holds One Stroke Lead

AIKEN, S.C. (AP)—Amateur Dillard Traynham of Greenville, S.C., fashioned a four-under par-66 Wednesday despite treacherous winds and rains, to take a single-stroke lead in the annual Tri-States Open golf tournament.

Nine players matched par 70. Pro Aubrey Apple of Greensboro, with a 67, was second.

Harold Kneec of Aiken, who won the inaugural Midland Valley Open here Tuesday, toured the course in 68, and Frank Stone of Charlotte, had 69.

The 6-hole event winding up today, pays $1,000 and entry fees to pro leaders. Today's field totaled 90, a reduction of 85.

Others who had par 70 Wednesday to stay in the running were Mack Briggs, York; Avery Beck, Kinston, N.C.; Bill Christian, Aiken; Lawrence Cook, Wilmington, N.C.; Al Smith, Danville, Va.; Clark Williamson, Augusta, Ga.; Pete Webb, Shelby, N.C.; Gene Hamm, Durham, N.C., and Sam Marsh, Greenville.

Ingo Finishes Heavy Work For Championship Battle

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ingemar Johansson has his "hammer of Thor" right and Floyd Patterson has his "automatic hook," but both fighters believe a fundamental punch—the left jab—will be the key to victory Monday night.

The big Swedish ex-champion has ended his sparring practice with his trusty right and his not so reliable left. The next time he tries to unload either hand on a man it will be against Patterson, the heavyweight champion, at Miami Beach's Convention Hall Monday night in their third title fight.

Per custom, Ingo finished his boxing preparations early. He closed with a six round workout Wednesday against three sparring partners at Palm Beach. He will rest mostly until Monday to permit "strength to flow into my body and arms." It worked the first time when he dethroned Patterson in three rounds. In the return bout it wasn't effective as Floyd blitzed him in the fifth round with a thunderous left hook.

Patterson worked three rounds, looking impressive in the only round in which he tried, Wednesday. Today he was to end his sparring with another three round drill. Ingo appeared sharp in his final six rounds. Both have stated that the advantage will go to the one who mounts the attack first. And both said the left jab will be a vital factor.

"My style is adjustable," said Patterson today. "I'm trying to improve and develop every punch. I'm not concerned with my left hook. The hook is automatic with me like the right is for Ingemar. It acts on its own."

Johansson has displayed a stiff left jab in his workouts.

"I must use it more," said Ingo. "With it I was able to take charge in the first fight. In the second fight, Patterson used it to push me around. He had the offensive. It was a mistake for me. I didn't use my left enough. I will come to him. I will not wait."

Baseballers Open Exhibitions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates are one of four teams that open the 1961 exhibition season Friday. They meet the Cincinnati Reds at Tampa, while the Detroit Tigers face the Chicago White Sox at Sarasota. All clubs, including the Arizona and California trainees, are in action Saturday. The majors' unsigned list continues to dwindle. Pancho Herrera, who says "I no hit so many home runs, but I no strikeout so much either," arrived from Cuba, signed with the Philadelphia Phillies, and promptly belted two homers during drill.

Other homer-hitters Wednesday in squad games included Wally Moon of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Ozzie Virgil, Jake Wood and George Thomas of the Tigers, Del Rice of the Los Angeles Angels and Walt Dropo of the Baltimore Orioles.

Pitchers turning in top efforts included Roger Graig of the Dodgers, Art Ditmar and Ryne Duren of the Yankees and Bob Miller and Ray Sadecki of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Segregation Flares Again In Training

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The question of segregation among major league baseball players in Florida, apparently forgotten in the early days of spring training, flared anew Wednesday when Bill White of the St. Louis Cardinals claimed he was snubbed because he is a Negro.

Officials of the Cardinals and the New York Yankees, both of whom train here, quickly labeled the situation a misunderstanding. Wednesday night, the Chamber of Commerce issued a special "personal invitation" to all Negro players on both clubs to attend a breakfast it is sponsoring today.

White had said he and other Negro players were purposely omitted from the invitation list but Jim Toomey, public relations director of the Cardinals, answered that White was "all wrong."

The list, Toomey said, was composed at his direction only of players staying at the Cardinals' hotel (Vinyo Park) near the St. Petersburg Yacht Club where the breakfast was scheduled because the breakfast was convenient for them. He pointed out the list also excluded some white players, including Stan Musial.

Bob Fishel, the Yanks public relations man, said all members of the club were invited and added that he had told Elston Howard, Negro catcher, that he would be welcome to attend.

It could not be learned whether White, Howard or other Negro players of the two clubs would attend.

Lopez of the White Sox almost lost his second catcher this week. San Francisco Giant shortstop Eddie Brassoud pulled a groin muscle attempting a double play and outfielder Harvey Kuenn, one-time American League shortstop, suffered a muscle spasm in the right knee. Both will miss Saturday's exhibition opener with the

Wilmington Passes First 4-A Contest

By KEN ALTYA
GREENSBORO (AP) — Wilmington's defending champions and the East Mecklenburg Eagles have passed their first tests in the state 4-A high school basketball championship tournament.

Tonight, Durham and Winston-Salem Reynolds, rated two of the most dangerous challengers, played their first-round games.

Durham, winner of 18 out of 20 meets Gastonia, owner of a 15-6 record, at 7:30 o'clock. Reynolds, unbeaten in 19 games, plays Myers Park of Charlotte (14-8) in the 9 o'clock game. The winners will play at 9 p.m. Friday after Wilmington meets East Mecklenburg to open the semi-final round.

Wilmington polished off Salisbury 57-40 and East Mecklenburg ousted Greensboro 54-48 in last night's openers before a crowd of 1,000.

As one rival coach commented, "Wilmington isn't a physically impressive club—all they do is win games." The Wildcats didn't burn up the court last night, but they were good enough to roll over a Salisbury team that had stayed with them surprisingly well for three quarters after a slow start.

Ballhawk Billy Brogren, son of Wilmington Coach Leon Brogren, scored 13 points and took charge of the Wildcats' play, just as he has all season. He got 15 - point help from Jimmy Long and Jimmy Goodnight added a dozen.

Wiley Ruth and Gary Kepley each scored 12 for Salisbury. Wilmington led 16-7, 25-22 and 40-32 at the quarters.

The big East Mecklenburg team gave Greensboro a 41-15 beating on rebounds and that along with sharp foul shooting was the big difference.

The Whirlies led the Eagles 16-11 and 23-22 after the first two periods. The Mecklenburg entry forced ahead 38-36 at the three-quarter mark and, aided by a four - minute scoreless spell for Greensboro, pulled well ahead in the final period.

Slender Joe Hailey, 6-4, was the Eagle leader with 19 points and 17 rebounds. Eddie Walker, also 6-4, but a rugged 205 pounds, grabbed 15 rebounds and pumped in 12 points. Jeff Thompson had 13 points, including the team's last six in the closing minutes to keep Greensboro from catching up.

Ralph Lowe's 14 led Greensboro, which made 21 baskets against 17 for the Eagles. East Mecklenburg hit 20 of 28 foul shots against Greensboro, six of 11 efforts.

Teaching Machine Today More Than An Idle Dream

WASHINGTON (AP)—Suppose you could hook up a teaching machine to an electronic computer, plug in a student, and turn on a switch...

Taxes Going Up

RALEIGH — By way of the Public Administration Bulletin, published by the American Society for Public Administration, it is learned that every State in the Union except Kentucky, Mississippi and Virginia, will have tax levying sessions of their legislatures this year...

The student might be on his own, or working with a class. There might be a professor in the room, although this wouldn't be necessary. With a flick of a switch, the machine would begin to present the material on one of several small screens facing the student. On another screen, a professor's face is seen as he discusses the material with his voice coming from a recorded tape...

Dogs More Dangerous Than A Shark, Avers Girl Skin Diver

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — "The shark is a much maligned creature," said Judy Joye, one of America's top girl skin divers.

"Dogs are far more dangerous than sharks. You are much more likely to be bitten by a dog." To prove her point the intrepid Miss Joye, a glamorous brunette who doubles as a model and underwater stunt swimmer, hopes to become the first woman in history to hand-feed a shark for a television audience.

Her performance will be featured on "MarineLand Circus," an NBC-TV color program Sunday, April 2.

"So far as I know I'll not only be the first woman ever to try to hand-feed a shark — but the first woman ever to want to," she remarked blithely.

Judy, who has plunged to 130 feet and is one of the nation's few feminine welders on underwater salvage jobs, is full of facts and figures on shark lore.

A big danger, she said, is that some of the seven million U.S. skin divers have taken to trying to hitchhike rides on the backs of sharks, or playfully tweaking their tails.

"It has become a kind of sport with them. They have the idea sharks are tame," she said.

"They're not tame, and they don't like having their tails tweaked. They can be provoked to attack."

But Judy pointed out that in 1959 only 10 unprovoked shark attacks, resulting in three deaths, had been recorded in American waters. The world total for the same year: 36 unprovoked attacks, 13 deaths.

"Sharks always deserve the utmost respect," she said. "But they are basically scavengers who prefer DEAD or dying game, and don't like to attack anything that will put up a real fight — unless they are desperate."

"They are extremely curious and will follow a skin diver for a whole day just to see what he is doing. They don't have much else to do," she said.

"But if you ignore the shark, he'll usually ignore you."

What if he doesn't? Here are Miss Joye's tips to avoid troubles with sharks of all kinds:

"Try to look as much like a human being and as little like a fish as possible. The shark doesn't really like the taste of people. He prefers the taste of fish, which has been his diet for millions of years."

"If he bites you, it is probably in error — he has mistaken you for a fish."

"Therefore avoid swimming in cloudy water where the visibility is low."

"If a shark approaches too near, wave your arms and legs vigorously and yell. Pick up a couple of rocks and knock them together."

"Usually this sound will drive him away. Then head for shallow water. "If he still comes toward you and you can't make it to shore, swim straight toward him, yelling as loud as you can, and hit him on the nose, his most sensitive spot."

"Better use a rock if one is handy. His skin is tough, and if you strike him with your fist it is like hitting wet sandpaper."

"If he circles back to attack, dive to the bottom. Nine out of 10 times sharks attack on the surface."

"But 80 per cent of the time you can predict what sharks will do. The other 20 per cent — she left the thought unfinished."

Judy's final advice to skin divers:

"Let the shark alone. Don't try to joyride on his back. Don't tweak his tail. He simply doesn't like it. It insults his dignity."

Old Confederate Money Found In Perquimans Safe

HERTFORD, N.C. (AP) — For at least 25 years a knobby cast iron safe sat unopened in the lobby of the 229-year-old Perquimans County Courthouse here.

Workmen moved it to the stoop recently to put in a new floor during remodeling of the courthouse and the Perquimans County Historical Society became curious about its contents.

Locksmith Joe Sawyer from Elizabeth City managed to open the double-bar, key-type safe. Somebody had been saving his Confederate money.

Inside, the County Board of Commissioners found a 2½-inch packet of script issued by the State of North Carolina and by Perquimans County during the Civil War. The printed value of the bills ranged from 5 cents to $10.

"There was a considerable bundle of it," said editor Max Campbell of the Perquimans Weekly, who was present when commissioners examined the safe's contents. "It looked like it had been printed on newsprint. It was pretty flimsy and hasn't been counted yet."

Also inside the old safe, once used in the clerk of Superior Court office, was a pair of brass knuckles, court records from the early 1920s, a minute book of the county Democratic Executive Committee of the same period, three maps of drainage districts of the county, and a number of canceled checks of the 1918-1922 period drawn by then Clerk Charles E. Johnson.

The county commissioners, after a cursory inspection, authorized the historical society to take possession of the safe and catalog the contents for whatever historical value they may have.

Campbell guessed that the Confederate money may have been the personal property of Johnson and the brass knuckles probably were taken from a prisoner.

"The safe had been sitting in the lobby for at least 25 years to my own knowledge," Campbell said. He theorized that the clerk had been given a new safe and had rolled the old one out into the lobby where it was left alone all through the years.

Earn Standing In Music Auditions

Two East Carolina College music students have achieved standing in the Student Auditions at Catawba College, Salisbury, conducted by the N. C. Federation of Music Clubs.

Tasker Polk of Warrenton was winner in piano, while Emily Vinson of Stedman was runner-up. Both students study with Dr. Robert Carter in Greenville.

As one of four winners in student auditions in three classifications, Polk is eligible to enter the Southeastern District Auditions in Jacksonville, Fla., at the University of Jacksonville on March 25.

FRENCH LEADS
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — More Virginia high school students study French than any other foreign language. The current tally is 23,624 studying French, 16,618 taking Spanish, 1,008 taking German and only 162 studying Russian.

Music, Lyrics Both By Richard Rodgers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — To the many who have wondered if Richard Rodgers could go it alone, I say yes.

That is my conclusion, based on a private hearing of the composer's first lyrics after a career of collaboration.

Following the death of his great partner, Oscar Hammerstein, there was much speculation over who would write the words for future Rodgers songs. Rodgers surprised everyone by announcing he wanted to try both departments himself.

His first assignment was to create three new songs for a third filming of "State Fair" by 20th Century-Fox. He and Oscar wrote the score for the second version in 1945. Producer Charles Brackett played for me the results of Rodgers' solo labors, marking their first exposure to an outsider.

We sat in a darkened projection room and let the songs, recorded in a New York studio with only a piano and soloist, sell themselves. They did.

The first was "More Than Just a Friend," which Arthur Godfrey will sing to Blue Boy, his prize hog. Written in mock sentimental style, it is an amusing piece with lines like "sweet hog of mine" and "you will always hear me call...soooooee."

Next came "It's the Little Things About Texas I Love." This was a rouser, akin to the title tune of "Oklahoma!"

The climax was "Willing and Eager," a love duet.

Brackett explained how the assignment came about:

"Richard Breen, the script writer, and I discussed the new songs with Oscar and Dick last year. At the time, Oscar seemed more like a man who was recovering from a serious illness, rather than one who was to die. After his death, Dick decided he would try writing alone. Naturally, I was delighted.

"When we went to the Rodgers apartment in New York to hear the songs, he was as nervous as he could be. He had a young singer named Florence Henderson to sing them, and he played the piano. I thought the songs were wonderful, and he seemed greatly relieved."

Four of the Rodgers-Hammerstein songs will be retained in the new film—"It Might As Well Be Spring," "It's a Grand Night for Singing," "That's for Me" and "Isn't It Kinda Fun."

Backgrounds for "State Fair" were shot in Texas last fall. Most of the film will be shot on the Fox lot, with Godfrey, Pat Boone and Bobby Darin set so far.

One-stop shopping at your Chevy dealer's makes choosing a new car easier than ever!

You get variety like this only at your Chevrolet dealer's. Elegant new Impalas, popular Bel Airs, budget-priced Biscaynes and six wonderful new Chevy wagons—all with a Jet-smooth ride you'd expect in more expensive makes. But that's just the beginning. There are also ten low, low-priced Chevy Corvairs for you to look over, plus the Corvette—America's only true sports car. What with this kind of choice—31 models in all—if you don't find the car you want at your Chevrolet dealer's, it probably just hasn't been built yet.

Three models—two Chevrolets designed especially for business use and the De Luxe Greenbrier—are not shown.

HEPTACHLOR
increases corn yields!

ALABAMA FARMER HARVESTS 60 BUSHELS PER ACRE MORE WITH HEPTACHLOR! Roy Snellgrove of Gordon, Alabama, had poor stands of corn because his fields were infested with corn billbugs. Using 2 lbs. of actual Heptachlor per acre he treated 30 acres and left a similar control plot untreated. Result: the 30 acres treated with Heptachlor yielded 100 bushels per acre. The untreated plot yielded only 40 bushels per acre. Says Snellgrove, "Now I plan to use Heptachlor on all my corn acreage!"

NORTH CAROLINIAN BOOSTS CORN INCOME $36.75 PER ACRE USING HEPTACHLOR! Dennis W. Simmons of Fairfield, North Carolina, treated part of his corn land with Heptachlor. Another portion of the same field was planted without Heptachlor. By actual plant count, the Heptachlor treated area produced a 38% better stand. Southern corn rootworms, wire worms, and billbugs were effectively controlled. The untreated area yielded 50 bushels per acre; the Heptachlor treated acreage: 85 bushels per acre for an increased yield of 35 bushels per acre!

These typical examples show how Heptachlor produces better corn yields, improved quality and more profits for you! Heptachlor kills corn damaging soil insects that cause poor germination, spotty stands and lodging. Your dealer can supply you with Heptachlor in easy-to-apply sprays and granules. Make your corn stand up and grow... get Heptachlor!

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved irregularly higher early this afternoon with turnover at the fastest clip this week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 10 at 238.80 with industrials up .70; rails up 10 and utilities up .30.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional. Some rose 1 or 2 points. Public dealing in lower-priced issues continued very active. Profits were taken in some of the recent favorites.

Among the market wheelhorses, steels improved as industry sentiment became more optimistic. Motors, rails, tobaccos, rails and drugs maintained an upside edge. Beckman Instruments and Polaroid ran up about 3 points. International Business Machines added 11. American Machine & Foundry lost 4. Universal Match and American Smelting rose more than 2 and gains of about 2 were made by Western Union and Youngstown Sheet. Most of the leading steel motors and oils rose fractionally.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 96 at 667.11. Corporate bonds were mixed in active trading. U.S. governments showed scant change in fairly active dealings.

Some Snow For N.C. Mountains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina's spring-like weather gave way today to falling temperatures and intermittent snow flurries in the mountains. Reports from the western part of the state indicated little of the snow was sticking. At Soco Gap two inches had accumulated and on towering Mt. Mitchell, less than an inch of snow was reported.

The Weather Bureau predicted for today falling temperatures, reaching lows tonight ranging from the 20s in the mountains to lower 30s elsewhere.

Only Wednesday, Tar Heels basked in spring-like weather. Highs reported included 73 in Asheville and Charlotte and 71 in Raleigh. However, a strong low pressure system developed over the central United States and pushed temperatures Wednesday night down to 28 at Asheville, 38 in Charlotte and 41 in Raleigh. Snow showers also were reported in the Asheville area.

Radio Station WMT reported that winds reached 50 to 70 miles per hour during the night at its Mt. Mitchell transmitter. The temperature there today was 8 degrees, compared with a high of 50 Wednesday.

Today's forecast called for windy and much colder weather. The winds will diminish tonight, but temperatures will stay low.

Illegitimacies Continue High During February

A total of 158 live births were recorded by the Pitt County Health Department during February according to the department's monthly vital statistics report.

Deaths recorded held to the normal percentage as compared to births as the department recorded 46 death certificates. A breakdown by race showed 77 white and 81 Negro births. Fifteen white and 31 Negro deaths comprised that total.

Of the total births figure, 27—more than 17 per cent—were illegitimate. Twenty-five of the births out of wedlock were Negroes.

Other statistics showed a total of three deaths under one year. One of these occurred under one month of age.

Cancer took a toll of five in Pitt County, the death column showed.

Two Injured, Damages High In 3-Vehicle Collision

Two persons were injured and an estimated $1,050 damage resulted in a three-vehicle collision at the intersection of Dickinson Ave. and Hooker Road about 1:53 p.m. yesterday.

Officers said a car being driven by Miss Jeannie Hope Loftin, 20, of Route 2, Ayden collided with a truck being operated by William Elwin Hardy, 35, of 105 Sivan Drive. The Loftin car was traveling east on Dickinson Ave. at the time while the Hardy truck was headed west.

As a result of the collision of those two vehicles, the Hardy truck toppled over and came to rest on the hood of a third vehicle which was stopped for the stop sign on Hooker Road.

Driver of that truck was listed as Billy Stewart Eason, 22, of Route 5, Kinston.

Damage to the car was set at $450 by officers who estimated damage to the Hardy truck to be about $500. Damage to the Eason truck was placed at $100.

Miss Loftin and a passenger in her car, Miss Donna Gaye Singleton, 16, of 2612 East 10th St. were treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for minor cuts and bruises and released.

Police charged Hardy with failure to yield the right of way after investigating the wreck.

In a second collision yesterday, Jimmy P. Campbell, 26, of Chocowinity was charged with making an improper turn when his car collided with a second vehicle at the intersection of 14th and Charles St. at 8:15 p.m.

Officers said the Campbell car collided with an auto being operated by Thomas J. Williams, 19, of Route 2, Robersonville.

Police said the Campbell auto was headed south on Charles St. and made a turn into the path of the north-bound Williams auto.

Officers, who set damage to the Campbell auto at $200 and placed damage to the Williams car at $300, said several passengers in the two cars were treated for minor bruises and cuts.

Stole Sprinkler To 'Inspire' Him

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Booked on suspicion of stealing a garden sprinkler, Robert "Bell" White, 42, explained to police: "I'm a songwriter, and I'm working on a song about rain. I need that sprinkler to spray water on the window and inspire me."

Fractures Show Love For Dog

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP)—Young Rickey Redden has a pair of plaster casts to prove his love for his dog, Rocky.

When he saw a heavy rail about to fall from a hayloft on the Redden farm, and the dog below, Rickey threw himself against the rail.

Both rail and boy fell 15 feet, and Rickey suffered fractures of both arms.

Rickey scampered away, uninjured.

Gone With Wind In Annoyance

NEW YORK (AP) — British actress Vivien Leigh came here by plane Wednesday night and was gone with the wind in annoyance.

The 47-year-old actress arrived en route to Atlanta, Ga., for the 21st anniversary of the premiere of the film "Gone With the Wind."

Miss Leigh, famed as the film's Scarlett O'Hara, was asked by a reporter what part she played.

"Have you seen the picture?" snapped the actress.

The reporter, who is regularly called on to cover the arrivals of all sorts of dignitaries from foreign potentates to underworld figures, confessed that he hadn't seen "Gone With the Wind."

"Since you are not informed," snapped the actress, "There is no sense in continuing."

Then she swept from the room much as Scarlett O'Hara might have done.
