Selective Boost In N. C. Taxes To Be Proposed

RALEIGH (AP) — Tobacco and soft drink tax proposals may be introduced in the General Assembly this week by lawmakers opposed to Gov. Sanford's plan to place levies on food and drugs. Legislators sampled grass roots opinion over the weekend on the governor's controversial tax recommendations to finance his $70 million school improvement program. The tone of this local reaction may emerge during the week when the Joint Finance Committee resumes consideration of the Sanford proposals. However, Republican legislators, 15 in the House and two in the Senate, and several Democratic lawmakers already have indicated an intention to send in bills placing taxes on tobacco products and soft drinks. The state Republican Party issued a newsletter Sunday terming the governor's proposals to place the 3 per cent sales tax on food and drug items unjust. Democratic Rep. Roger Kiser of Scotland, who sounded out constituents on the tax plan over the weekend, said people in his area were "leaning very strongly" toward a tobacco tax in preference to a food tax. The Senate presiding officer, Lt. Gov. H. Clloyd Philpott, said, "I've heard several rumors that bills will be introduced to place a tax on tobacco and soft drinks." He said such measures should be introduced as soon as possible to enable the Finance Committee to begin studying them. Rep. J. Shelton Wicker of Lee, a finance co-chairman, said about 45 per cent of the people he talked to were opposed to a food and drug tax and another 20 per cent were against any tax boost at all. The Republican newsletter said, "It is unjust to place the burden of this program on those least able to bear it. There is no sound reason to tax milk and bread while placing no further tax on such products as alcohol, tobacco and soft drinks." More opposition came from Dunn officials against Sanford's proposal to remove from the sales tax exemptions list items bought by municipalities. City Manager A. B. Uzelle Jr. urged that the State League of Municipalities take strong action to prevent passage of the proposal. Uzelle said such a levy would cost Dunn taxpayers an additional $3,360 and would necessitate a boost in the community's property tax rate. The state Young Democratic Club's executive committee offered somewhat lukewarm support to the food tax proposal at an educational rally over the weekend. It passed a resolution calling for a study of other tax possibilities but ending with the statement, "If a sales tax on food is necessary, the assembly should enact it to pay for the educational program which it said should be given priority. Strong support came from the State Federation of the Blind's legislative committee which agreed to discontinue a 3-year-old fight for a sales tax exemption on articles bought by blind merchants.

TEMPERATURES will average 2 to 5 degrees above normal for next five days. Somewhat cooler Tuesday, warmer Thursday and cooler again Friday. Showers Thursday and Saturday will average about three-fourths of an inch.

American Soldier Of Fortune Buried In Cuba; Firing Squad Toll Now 599

HAVANA (AP) — William A. Morgan, American soldier of fortune who fell from national hero to traitor in the eyes of the Fidel Castro regime, was buried Sunday in a crypt beside the Cuban major executed with him. Friends of Morgan's Cuban wife attended the rites in Colon Cemetery and a Catholic priest officiated. Mrs. Morgan, in hiding to escape captivity, did not attend the funeral. She and 10 others were convicted of treason along with her husband last week, and she was declared a fugitive. The five-man court at La Cabaña Fortress sentenced Morgan and Maj. Jesus Carreras to 15 years in prison after he had Saturday after convicting them of aiding anti-Castro rebels in the mountains. A firing squad shot them in a dry moat outside the ancient fortress a few hours later. The military tribunal acquitted three of the defendants, Saturday, gave Morgan's former driver 15 years in prison after he had turned state's evidence, and ordered seven defendants to 30-year jail terms. Luis Carro, the Cuban lawyer who defended Morgan, described the final moments before Morgan and Carreras became the 598th and 599th unofficially listed victims of revolutionary firing squads. Morgan wore his military boots and faced death calmly, Carro said. Witnesses told the lawyer that Morgan joked with his executioners and embraced the soldier in charge. Carro said he telephoned Morgan's mother, Loretta, in Toledo but "she was so upset she couldn't finish the conversation." The mother had appealed to Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos for mercy. He ignored the request. Morgan, 32, from Toledo, Ohio, got a dishonorable discharge from a U.S. paratrooper unit in Japan in 1957, joined Castro's revolution and after the overthrow of Dictator Fulgencio Batista stayed in Cuba. Two years later he lost his American citizenship for fighting in a foreign army. But at the time he was enjoying a hero's stature for helping to decoy a group of anti-Castro plotters into a trap. Later he was demoted to running a government frog farm. He told newsmen last fall that he was a staunch anti-Communist and didn't know how long he would last in his job.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Civil Aeronautics Board Examiner James Keith recommended today that Piedmont Air Lines be allowed to extend its service north to Baltimore and south to Atlanta and to expand its north-south operations to serve Wilson-Greenville and other Eastern North Carolina points. These were among six operational changes which Keith proposed for Piedmont. For Eastern North Carolina the expansion would be along the lines urged for some time by Sen. B. Everett Jordan (D-N.C.) who has complained that lack of adequate air service was crippling the section's economy. Wilson-Greenville would, under Keith's proposal, be an alternate intermediate point to Kinston on a five year trial. It was understood that this means every other flight on the route would land at Wilson-Greenville with the alternate flight to go to Kinston. North-south operations through Eastern North Carolina would be split into two legs. One leg would come south from Washington through Fredericksburg and Richmond, Va., to Rocky Mount, Goldsboro, Fayetteville and Florence, S. C. to Atlanta. The other would come south from Washington to Newport News and to Norfolk, thence to Elizabeth City, Wilson-Greenville, Jacksonville-Camp Lejeune, Wilmington, Myrtle Beach to Florence, N.C., alternate points Goldsboro, N.C., and Kinston, intermediate points Rocky Mount, N.C., Richmond, Va., and Fredericksburg, Va., and Staunton, Va., the intermediate points Roanoke, Va., Blacksburg-Radford - Pulaski, Va., Bristol - Kingsport - Johnson City, Tenn., Asheville, N.C., and terminal point, Atlanta, Ga., with skip-stop privileges. A new route segment between Charlotte, W.Va., the intermediate points Bristol-Kingsport-Johnson City, Asheville, and terminal point, Atlanta. A new route segment between terminal point Atlanta, the intermediate points Augusta, Ga., Columbia, S.C., and Florence, S.C., and (A) beyond Florence the intermediate points, Lumberton, N.C., Jacksonville — Camp Lejeune, N.C., alternate points Goldsboro, N.C., and Kinston, intermediate points Rocky Mount, N.C., Richmond, Va., and Fredericksburg, Va., and Washington, D.C. Also to extend from Knoxville, Tenn., to the new terminal point, Nashville, Tenn., as follows: 1. Add Salisbury, Md., as an intermediate point on segment between Hickory and Winston - Salem; 2. Add Wilson-Greenville, N.C., as alternate intermediate point to Kinston; 3. To add Lumberton, N.C., as alternate intermediate point to Fayetteville, N.C.; 4. Add Florence and Myrtle Beach as intermediate points between Charlotte and Wilmington.

Federation Plan Backed For Congo

Anti-Red Leaders Agree To Semi-Independent Status Under Kasavubu

TANANARIVE, Malagasy Republic (AP)—Anti-Communist political leaders of the Congo have agreed to replace their centrally controlled parliamentary government by a federation of semi-independent states headed by Joseph Kasavubu. The action of the political conference which ended Sunday, raised hopes in Leopoldville that the way had been opened to an eventual end to the chaos and warfare that has plagued the Central African territory since it won independence from Belgium last summer. The conference's final communiqué made no mention of pro-Communist Antoine Gizenga, whose forces control the eastern provinces of Oriental and Kivu. He was the only major leader absent from the talks. Kasavubu told newsmen that if Gizenga refuses to go along with the conference decision, he will be declared an outlaw. Presumably military measures then would be taken to supplant him. Diplomats at the United Nations were not available for comment Sunday night. Pravda, the Soviet Communist party organ, termed the conference decisions a colonialist plan to break up the Congo. "The Congo is a single country and it has one legal government," said Pravda. The Soviet bloc recognizes Gizenga's regime as the only legal Congo government. Kasavubu, who has been the central government president in Leopoldville and the only Congolese authority recognized by the U.N., messaged U.N. headquarters in New York to ask for recognition of the new setup and continued economic assistance. He said partial union has been achieved and the danger of civil war averted. His cable to Frederick H. Boland, assembly president, and Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld repeated the conference's earlier demand for cancellation of the Security Council resolution of Feb. 21, which authorized U.N. troops in the Congo to use force if necessary to prevent civil war. "There is no reason for them (the resolutions) to be executed now," Kasavubu's message said. "The conference agreed that technical and financial assistance needed by the Congo can be made by the United Nations as an intermediary but without prerogatives of our sovereignty." Kasavubu announced a delegation of officials would go to New York to tell the General Assembly about the conference decisions. Moise Tshombe, president of Katanga Province and the man who dominated the week-long talks, declared: "We have settled our affairs among ourselves and now it is necessary that both the East and the West leave us in peace. The conference agreed on a two-level central-coordinating regime to replace Kasavubu's central government in Leopoldville. Leopoldville is to become a federal district like Washington, D.C. The higher organization will be a council of state, in which Kasavubu and the heads of the Congo states will set general foreign and domestic policy. A coordinating council will serve as an executive body to carry out the council of state's decisions. The conference also ratified the month-old military pact in which Kasavubu, Tshombe and Albert Kalonji of South Kasai agreed to a united front against "communism in the Congo." The name of the new confederation and the number and boundaries of the states will be discussed at another meeting in Bakwanga, capital of South Kasai Province, in about two weeks. A third conference is to follow at Elizabethville, capital of Katanga.

Sanford Opines His Tax Proposals Still Soundest Way To Raise Money

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford said his tax proposals are the soundest way to raise the money for his program of quality education. "I'm not trying to cram anything down their throats," he said. "I'm not trying to cram anything down the peoples' throats." A reporter asked the governor to define what he means by "quality education." "It's the kind of education that enables every child to develop fully all the talents he has," answered Sanford. He said he does not think children generally are getting that kind of education now. Sanford said that Navy Adm. Hyman Rickover, who spoke here Saturday night on education, told him he had "found in North Carolina the finest spirit of doing something about education of any where in the country." Announces Step To Join Program

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford took steps today to see that North Carolina participates fully in President Kennedy's program for promoting economic development of depressed areas. He announced appointment of George M. Stephens Jr., now an advanced planning engineer for the State Highway Department, as a special representative "to work in the national administration on depressed area programs affecting North Carolina." The governor also said he was reappointing George L. Simpson Jr. of Chapel Hill as the governor's special representative to the Conference of the Governor's Committee on Underdeveloped Areas of the Appalachian Area. Sanford asserted that certain areas of the state have a vast potential for growth but have not kept up with other sections of the state. He said these include sections Eastern, Western and North-western North Carolina. Kennedy's program to build up the economy of depressed areas is still pending in Congress. Sanford said, "If we are going to pick up the economic life of these areas—with or without federal aid—we need to get on with area development." The governor said that his administration is ready to move forward as a full partner with President Kennedy's administration in combating the recession, and especially in the long-range programs for improving the economic status of such chronically depressed areas as the Appalachian region.

Five Plead Innocent Today As Britain Opens Spy Trial

LONDON (AP)—An American couple and three others charged with stealing naval secrets and passing them on to the Soviets pleaded innocent today at the opening of Britain's biggest spy trial since atom spy Klaus Fuchs was convicted a decade ago. The famed main courtroom of the Old Bailey—where Fuchs was found guilty of giving the Soviet Union the keys to the atomic bomb—was filled as the case opened before Lord Parker, the chief justice. The accused are: Gordon A. Lonsdale, 37, company director holding a Canadian passport but believed by the government to be a Russian. Peter John Kroger, 50, book-seller, and his wife, Helen, 47, who the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation says are Morris Cohen and his wife, Lola, American citizens and former residents of New York City. Harry Frederick Houghton, 55, and his fiancée, Ethel Elizabeth Gee, 46, both British civil servants. The government claims they stole secrets from the British navy's underwater weapons base at Portland—where Miss Gee worked—and passed them to Moscow over a high-speed radio transmitter hidden in the Krogers' home. Among the secrets which came into their hands, the prosecution claims were drawings of Dreadnought, the British nuclear submarine based on designs supplied by the United States. The attorney general, Sir Reginald Manningham-Buller, headed the prosecution. The government contends that Houghton and Miss Gee passed secret information to Lonsdale who relayed it to the ring's communication center—the

Not Ready

Where would Piedmont flights land to serve Wilson-Greenville? Counsel for the group W. W. Speight said today when informed of the CAB examiners recommendation that this hasn't been worked out. Plans are to build an airport between the two cities. However, to take care of flights right away plans will have to be worked out between Greenville, Wilson and the airline, Speight stated. Almost certainly the Pitt-Greenville airport facilities or the Wilson airport facilities would be used until a permanent airport could be built. Speight, who was counsel along with W. H. Watson, expressed delight at the CAB examiner's decision.

Took Cold Swim To See Tourney

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Ronnie Robinson, 17, wanted to watch his team play in the state high school basketball tourney at Knoxville today but was 50 cents shy of the fare on a special student bus. So when a buddy bet the Donelson High School senior 50 cents he wouldn't "swim Mill Creek right now," Ronnie stripped to his shorts, plunged in the chilly stream and swam over and back. Ronnie, shivering, collected his half dollar, dressed, and raced to the school where he plunked down his $6.50 fare minutes before reservations closed.

Roanoke Island Body Requested

WASHINGTON (AP)—For years North Carolinians have talked about ways to gain national recognition for Roanoke Island and the first English colony that disappeared after its establishment in 1587. Now, a resolution has been offered in Congress calling for presidential appointment of a five-member Roanoke Island Memorial Commission "whose duty it shall be to formulate a proposal which will enable this country to commemorate in a fitting manner the episode of its spiritual birth." The resolution was introduced in the House by Rep. Herbert C. Bonner and in the Senate by Sens. Sam Ervin and B. Everett Jordan. The resolution calls for a study to determine "in what manner the religious, political, cultural, social and economic life of Tudor England, which initiated the drama of English colonization on American soil, can be portrayed in its true historical significance... for instruction and inspiration of generations to come." The five-member commission would report its recommendations to Congress for a memorial worthy of the enduring importance of this event, which led to the founding of the United States.

No Contact With Venus Rocket

MOSCOW (AP)—No one knows where the Soviet Venus rocket is or whether contact will be established with it again. The Venusnik blasted off Feb. 12, then disappeared Feb. 27. Tass, the Soviet news agency, had said that the scientists would try to re-establish radio contact. There has been no word that they have made any progress.

Policeman Shoots Man Interfering In Arrest

AYDEN—A Negro man was shot in the leg Sunday night after reportedly interfering with the arrest of a Negro woman and pulling a knife on an officer. Chief of Police William D. Brooks said today. Brooks said the Negro officer, Herbert Gardner of Ayden, shot Otis Williams of 1111 Williams St. Ayden, following a warning about the knife from an assisting officer, Edward Hudson-Sr. Brooks added that Williams reportedly struck Gardner with his fist. The bullet wound was superficial, Brooks said, located in the calf of Williams' right leg. Williams is now in Pitt Memorial Hospital. The shooting incident occurred after Gardner attempted to arrest Lena Champion of Rt. 2, Ayden, at C. C. Fleming's Cafe in South Ayden. The woman, charged with disorderly conduct, has been released from the Ayden jail under $50 bond. She is to stand trial in Ayden this afternoon, Brooks said. When Officers Gardner and Hudson tried to take the Champion woman to police headquarters, Williams allegedly interfered. He struck Gardner in the face with his fist, Brooks reported, and then pulled the knife. Williams is charged with assault with a deadly weapon, resisting arrest, threatening an officer of the law, assaulting an officer with hands and fist, and disorderly conduct. Upon his release from the hospital, Brooks said he will be placed under $600 bond and his hearing is set for March 20 in Ayden Recorder's Court. Brooks noted that Gardner, a veteran officer-off-the-law, was walking patrol Sunday night, and Hudson, on car patrol, was called in to take the Champion woman to the police station.

Cotillion Season Climaxed At Spring Ball

Last Friday evening members of the Jr. Cotillion were entertained by their directors, Mrs. N. O. Van Nortwick, Jr., and Mrs. Wiley D. Forbes, at their Spring Ball. Dancing was enjoyed to the music of the Melodaires Combo.

The ballroom of the Moose Lodge was a vision of a Spring Garden, having been decorated in keeping with the occasion.

The highlight of the affair was the crowning of the Queens and Kings, who had been elected by the children themselves.

Mr. Ed Rawl, Jr., introduced the reigning Queens and Kings who were, Miss Nancy Harrington and Charles Bissette, Ninth grade and Miss Joannie Evans and Graham Quinn, eighth grade. Their newly elected Nobility were announced. The winners being Miss Barbara Vick and Jimmy Ashby with Miss Donna Roberson, Maid of honor from the eighth grade and Miss Marjorie Clark and Barr Coleman from the seventh grade. They were then crowned by their predecessors, Miss Joannie Evans, at this time, sang "Thank Heaven for Little Girls."

The Marshalls, high school students who help with each Cotillion, were introduced. Miss Melinda Coleman, a Marshall of four years, was remembered with a bouquet of American beauty roses.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses from an appointed table covered with a white and pink net cloth. Centered by a seventeen branch white candelabra with pastel tapers and spring flowers. Fruit punch, nuts, sandwiches and cookies were served.

During the evening guests were entertained by Miss Donna Forbes, who sang "April Showers" and "Five Foot Two".

Goodbyes were said by the hostesses.

Mrs. Cox Is Club Speaker

Mrs. Marie B. Cox, local florist, gave a talk on plants and flowers at the Sapho Book Club luncheon Tuesday, at the home of Mrs. J. C. Galloway on River Drive.

Mrs. Galloway and Mrs. Larry Averette were co-hostesses to the book club luncheon, the guests and members were shown to appointed tables centered with spring flowers and green candles carrying out the St. Patrick's day colors.

A 3 course luncheon was served, after which Mrs. Averette introduced Mrs. Cox as guest speaker. Mrs. Cox gave detailed instructions on how to take care of indoor plants, and stressing the fact, that plants need plenty sun, light and proper soil. She also suggested when you want to use plants in a room, and there is not enough light, artificial plants and flowers can be used effectively. The members were told how to take care of fresh flowers, for instance, she said never put fresh flowers in cold water, always use warm water and splice ends so water can go up in the stem, such as roses. Flowers with the woody type stem, such as Chrysanthemums you beat the end of the stem slightly so the water can go up in the stem and keep the moisture, so as to keep fresher longer. She also showed different type arrangements of flowers.

After Mrs. Cox's talk, a short business session was held. The new slate of officers were read for the coming year which were: Mrs. Eugene Ward, Pres.; Mrs. Worth Baker, vice president; Mrs. J. C. Galloway, recording secretary; Mrs. Boyd Cox, corresponding secretary, and reporter; Mrs. Stanley Hathaway, treasurer; Mrs. Bill Smith, custodian. After which an invitation was accepted to have lunch with Mrs. J. B. Spillman, sponsor, of the Sapho Book Club, at her home Tuesday, March 14th. Books were then exchanged and meeting adjourned.

"How Can Paint Stains Be Removed?"

—Miss J. T. R.

Dear Miss J.T.R.: Do-it-yourself is a lot of fun, but it can be disastrous to a cherished fabric. So often fresh paint seems to hunt a place to splatter you just where everyone will notice it. There is many a slip with a brush that slips. There are two basic types of paint, oil base and water base. Each stain should be treated immediately. Oil base paint stains can be removed in most cases if the garment is cleaned and "spotted" soon after staining. Not more than 48 to 72 hours should elapse before such stains are treated. Water base paints are those which are so popular indoors. These stains may be removed, too, if treated promptly. The manufacturers claim that water-base paints will become water-fast in from 3 to 30 days.

Whether the fabric is washable or drycleanable, a paint stain should be treated with carbon tetrachloride as soon as possible. Carbon tetrachloride is non-flammable, but is highly toxic. It should be used only in a well-ventilated area. Removal of paint stains is one of the special skills of the "spotter" at your drycleaner's. He not only has the skill and the equipment to do the work properly, but he knows fabrics and dyes and their reaction to paint-removal agents. This is necessary for satisfactory paint-removal. Above all, whether you attempt paint removal yourself or ask your drycleaner to do it—don't wait. Have the work done at once for proper results.—(Adv.)

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The cut flower garden should not be put in the main garden area. As the flowers are to be used for indoor decorative purposes, no definite design in laying out the cutting garden is needed. Ease of operation is of prime importance in this type of gardening. Pick a well drained sunny spot outside of your main garden or a like spot in your vegetable garden. These flowers can be planted in rows like your vegetables. However, the cutting garden area should consist of two parts — one for annuals and biennials and the other for perennials. As annuals have to be planted every year and biennials every two years, putting them in with the perennials that last for some time would mean disturbing the perennials every year.

Use flowers of all three types that will give you cut flowers from early spring to late-frost. Color choice is an individual thing but it is best to try and cover nearly as possible some of each color. You will want warm color such as yellows, oranges, and reds for colder days — blues, purples and etc. for the warm days—and white for fillers in spring, summer and fall.

In preparing such an area, cut in some peat moss, shredded cow manure or 8-8-8 fertilizer. Work this in well. The finished area should be an inch or two above surrounding ground level.

When your plants are growing well, try to feed them by foliar feeding. This type of feeding allows the plant to make use of the plant food at once. There are several such types of fertilizers on the market. RAPID GRO is one of them.

Following are a few plants that should give you cut flowers from frost to frost:

WHITES — Tulip, pansy, arabis, lily of the valley, phlox, lily, zinnia, carnation, cosmos, asters, chrysanthemum, dahlia.

BLUE TO LAVENDER — Tulip, primrose, lupine, delphinium, baccharis, button, aster, echinops.

PINK TO RED — Peony, tulip, sweet william, hollyhock, columbine, salvia, aster chrysanthemum.

CREAM, YELLOW, BRONZE & BROWN — Daffodil, calendula, pansy, marigold, zinnia, nasturtium, rudbeckia, galliardia, chrysanthemum.

This is by no means a complete list but it will do as a starter. You will note that there are bulbs as well as other plants in this list. Cultural practices will differ.

Queen of Hearts Dance

A Queen of Hearts Dance will be held at the Chicod High School on March 15 from 7:30 p.m.-10:30 p.m. The dance sponsored by the sophomore class will be semi-formal. Admission will be charged.

The meeting was concluded with the serving of refreshments which consisted of sandwiches, date squares, Brownies and iced drinks.

Hostess to Book Club
Mrs. D. O. Speir was hostess to the Round Dozen Book Club at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. Jasper Smith, on York Street in Rocky Mount.

On arrival, members and invited guests were served fruit juice cocktails by the hostess, her mother, and Mrs. T. R. Andrews Jr.

The house was decorated throughout with camellias and other early spring flowers.

A luncheon and dessert were served.

After the distribution of books, Mrs. W. Harold Stator, president, presided at a business meeting. The members then adjourned to the Daughtridge Paint and Wallpaper Shop where Mrs. Mary Young Daughtridge conducted a tour of the shop and spoke briefly on the principals of interior decorating.

Clean - Up Plans Made

The Red Oak Home Demonstration Club made plans for Spring Clean-Up at their meeting on Wednesday, March 14, beginning at 2:00 p.m. This decision was an outgrowth of the demonstration on "Floors and Their Care" given by Mrs. J. T. Manning, Jr., Club Home Management Leader. She explained the correct tools to work with and the correct procedure to follow to protect floors and keep them clean and neat.

The meeting was held in the Red Oak Community Building which was decorated throughout with arrangements of Spring Jonquils. Mrs. Charles Jackson, president, presided and Mrs. Carl Crawford read the minutes and called the roll. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Joe Joyner, Sr.

The group made plans to participate in the Cancer Education Program to help arouse interest in the community so that each person will have a Cancer check-up during the year. This is vitally important so that Cancer might be detected in its early state.

Mrs. Carl Crawford gave a Foods Report.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Thurman Page and Mrs. Joe Sutton.

An Awareness Of Crowded Dockets

North Carolina's legislators obviously recognize the need for doing something to relieve the overcrowded dockets of Superior Courts throughout the state. With a minimum of discussion and debate, they have enacted into law a measure giving Gov. Sanford the power to appoint four additional special Superior Court judges.

This action by the legislature and its implementation by the governor will provide some relief for the crowded court docket. But a continuation of this approach to dealing with North Carolina's court system—appointing new judges at specific levels—will not get to the root of the problem of the state's court system.

The legislature during this session should adopt a realistic court reform measure to cope with the problems that have arisen in our court system. Unless reform and reorganization is effected orderly over a period of years, there will continue to be a need for more and more special judges to cope with the crowded dockets. More and more lower courts will spring up under the loose system now in effect and instead of becoming more streamlined, the system of courts will continue to become more confused.

We have no objection to the appointment of the four special judges authorized by the General Assembly last week, but a continuation of this approach to our court problems is no substitute for sweeping reform measures that are so badly needed.

Two years ago the legislature debated long and bitterly court reform measures that were proposed, but because of sharp lines of division over the proposals, the legislature adjourned without enacting a constructive program to bring about reform. This year similar lines are being drawn in the legislature in support of two major court reform measures. It would be a severe blow for the state as a whole if the end result this year proves the same as that of two years ago when no constructive step was taken by the legislature to cope with the serious court problem the state faces.

North Carolina needs a comprehensive court reform program that can practically be put into motion over a period of years. It is the responsibility of the elected representatives in Raleigh to see that such a program is adopted and put into motion as quickly as possible. The mere appointment of more Superior Court judges does not provide an adequate solution to the problem.

Big Questions In Fall Voting

By LYNN NISBET
BIG QUESTION—More questions are being asked about the proposed election this fall on the tax levies sponsored by Governor Sanford and incorporated in bills introduced in the House and Senate Thursday than about the taxes themselves.

It is inherent in the concept of our type of government that one General Assembly or one Congress cannot bind another. That has been demonstrated many times when one Legislature would revise tax levies, change organizational structure of State departments, terminate tenure of officers authorized by prior sessions, et cetera.

Belief prevails that Governor Sanford plans to ask repeal or revision of the 1957 act establishing the present highway commission, members of which have been appointed for longer terms than the past administration endured. It has been reported with respect to the C&D and other boards, and may be again.

It also is inherent in our philosophy of government that bond issues voted by the people, or enacted by the Legislature, are continuing and that taxes to refund them cannot be rescinded. Special tax levies for libraries, playgrounds and other services, voted by the people under legislative authorization continue until voted out by the same voters who put them in.

Never before has there been an attempt by one General Assembly to impose its will upon the next with respect to the general revenue act levying taxes in favor of support of the public schools, the higher educational institutions and general government services.

The revenue bills introduced by Sen. Thomas J. White of Lenoir and Rep. Shelton Wicker of Lee, chairmen of the finance committees in their respective branches of the Legislature, purport to do just that.

HOG-TIED—The election provisions in these bills would completely ham-string and hog-tie (to use the vernacular of this area) the 1963 General Assembly from making any changes in the tax laws.

The bills provide that if a majority of the people in the special election this fall vote in favor of continuation "then this Act shall remain in full force and effect on and after July 1, 1963." If a majority of those voting on the continuation of the 1961 act, then the provisions of the revenue act as they existed prior to July 1, 1961, shall from and after July 1, 1963, be in full force and effect.

If that provision should be sustained by the courts as constitutional and binding no candidate for the General Assembly in 1962 or for Governor in 1964 could advocate any change in the 1961 revenue enactments.

Whether intended or not, the phraseology of these bills would limit any future progress of North Carolina to the laws enacted in 1961, or maybe even to the laws enacted in 1959, and prior sessions.

If the vote of the people should be construed as more controlling than legislative action, it would take another general election to make any change in the tax bills enacted by any future Legislature.

Many people think that there should be annual sessions, rather than biennial, of the General Assembly for enacting appropriation and tax bills. Experience has proven that it is difficult to project estimates of needs and potential revenue as much as 24 to 30 months in advance. The election proposals in the current bills would freeze the tax levies and by unavoidable appropriation and tax bills. Experience has proven that it is difficult to project estimates of needs and potential revenue as much as 24 to 30 months in advance.

REPRESENTATIVE — From beginning of its history as a State the people of North Carolina have reserved the right to vote on constitutional changes and for many years they have had the right to vote on bond issues and other public debts, above and beyond the ordinary governmental services. All through the years they have left to their elected representatives in the General Assembly the privilege and responsibility of levying taxes to support day-by-day governmental services.

Majority opinion of those whom your reporter has contacted favors continuing this policy. Even some who think the 1961 proposals dig too deeply into the resources of the citizens do not like the idea of "freezing" tax levies at the 1961 or prior level.

On the surface an election on current appropriations seems democratic and fair. Back of that, however, is the basic idea that the form of government we have is representative rather than purely democratic, and that we have traditionally passed along to elected representatives the responsibility for legislation, both in regulatory and taxation areas. Except for basic ideas represented in constitutional provisions the people of North Carolina have been willing to let their elected representatives deal with current problems.

The issue has not been raised before, but might be now, whether a popular vote can supersede legislative discretion with respect to levying taxes for current operations. And, if an election is ruled to be controlling on one tax or appropriation bill, does that imply necessity for election on all kindred bills? If so, what is the need for a General Assembly?

Most Comprehensive Paving Project In City

The awarding of contracts for almost seven miles of street paving in Greenville represents one of the most comprehensive steps ever taken by the city to eliminate dirt streets which are both a considerable inconvenience to many citizens and a costly maintenance item in the city budget.

Coupled with the street work are contracts for the laying of 4.3 miles of sidewalks in the areas of various schools in the city. This undertaking marks a major step toward providing safer facilities for youngsters walking back and forth to school most of the year.

Greenville's Mayor and City Councilmen are to be commended for the forward-looking leadership they have provided in proposing and planning these projects, and indeed the citizens of the city are to be commended for endorsing the bond issues which makes them possible. In spite of the fact that the projects involve a considerable amount of money, they represent the kind of long-range planning and programming which not only makes for a better community, but which likewise sets the state for more economical municipal government operations in the future.

By eliminating 6.9 miles of dirt streets in this one undertaking, Greenville's city government will eliminate the year-to-year cost of maintaining those dirt streets in the future. It will cost something to maintain the paved streets in the future, but maintenance cost of paved streets is far less than for dirt streets. It will cost something, too, to maintain the additional miles of sidewalks, but the cost will be insignificant compared with the traffic hazard that is eliminated by providing sidewalks for school kids.

These projects represent another step of far-reaching progress in which the city as a whole can take justifiable pride.

Expanding Of Jobless Relief

By RALPH ROBEY
Again we are in the process of extending unemployment compensation. This was at the top of the list of President Kennedy's anti-recession proposals, and it will be the first one enacted. But the bill has been significantly changed from that recommended by the President.

As suggested by the President the period of unemployment payments should be extended by 13 weeks up to a maximum of 39 weeks. Some states now provide for 26 weeks, some less, and a few for a longer period. The goal is to get all states to increase the period to 39 weeks during the present period of high unemployment, but there is no actual requirement of this. This part of the President's recommendation has been accepted.

Such payments, according to the President, were to be taken from the general funds of the Treasury and would be replaced by increasing the base upon which the unemployment tax is calculated from $3,000 to $4,800. The Ways and Means Committee refused to accept this and proposed instead that the tax be increased for 1962 and 1963, and that when the House has approved. This is the significant change made in the Kennedy proposal.

Arguments made before the Ways and Means Committee were impressive and sound. To have lifted the base upon which the tax is calculated would have meant a permanent increase in the burden of this tax. In addition about half of the states would have required legislation before they could participate, and such a rise in the base would upset the experience rating tax schedules in all states.

The official estimate of the cost of this program is $1 billion. The tax upon business for 1962 and 1963 will be 3 1/2 percent on each covered worker's first $3,000 of wages. And since the extension of the payments cost the state nothing, it must be assumed that all of them will participate.

It will be recalled that President Eisenhower also put through an extension of unemployment compensation in the last recession. But there was a vast difference between that and the one now being enacted. Under the Eisenhower plan a state could borrow money from the federal government for extending such payments. This meant that the states were under an obligation to pay back the loan. Since most of the states are hard pressed for funds to meet their other outlays, few of them were interested in such loans, and the unemployed got relatively little additional help. It should also be added that the program, granting the states repay the loans, cost the federal government nothing.

THE END OF TRUE RELIGION
A religious article which I read recently referred to a type of person for whom the cross is a flag, not a rudder. The meaning is obvious. This person holds high the cross of Christ as a symbol of sacrifice. He claims that Christ's death thereon brings about the forgiveness of his sins and his reconciliation to God.

But it never occurs to this type of person to carry the Man of Nazareth and his teachings over into the realm of business. People for whom the cross is a flag not a rudder fail to make their Christianity work in marriage and in the home. They speak volubly of their own Christian faith, but very few of

Admission Of Red China

Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Each year when the General Assembly of the United Nations meets, Soviet Russia more or less strenuously proposes to have Red China seated in the United Nations. The United States always opposes this effort — also more or less strenuously depending upon the state of affairs.

It has not always been clear that Soviet Russia really desired its great ally to sit in this international council, particularly in recent years when Red China has become a competitor rather than a collaborator of the Kremlin for leadership in the growing Soviet Universal State.

At any rate, the years have passed and Red China has not been admitted. The first nation to wage war against the United Nations has no place within the United Nations. The incongruity seems clear to all who believe in world order.

Nevertheless, Great Britain, on the plea of realism, favors the admission of Red China. The British are obsessed with the notion that they can achieve a split between Red China and Soviet Russia. The basis for their assumption is the growing antagonism between the two countries, an antagonism which is ideological within the Communist faith but which does not include the prospect of the Marxist-Leninist Revolution being made to fall in the interest of colonialists and capitalists.

There is another factor in the British anxiety to recognize Red China and that is the prospect of trade. China was, once upon a time, one of Great Britain's best customers. The ports of Hongkong, Shanghai, Tientsin and along the Yangtze River, Kiukiang and Hankow, were British dominated. The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank dominated the economic life of China. Jardine Matheson, one of the greatest trading firms in the world, was the principal industrial, mercantile and shipping business in the Far East. The British-American Tobacco Company supplied a nation with cigarettes when that became the national substitute for opium.

It was good to be a Britisher in China in the good old days. It meant power, authority and money. It meant being supported by the mightiest navy on Earth. It meant being part of an elite.

Then came 1925. It was the year of the great anti-British boycott which started because a Sikh policeman shot a Chinese worker. That was the excuse just as every great historic event has an excuse and a reality. What actually had happened was that the Kuomintang, the Nationalist Party of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, had formed an alliance with Soviet Russia. The Russians sent about 100 advisors and technicians to Canton to help Sun. At the head of them were Michael Borodin and General Galens-Bluecher. Borodin worked directly under Karl Radek in the Third International. He was a lawyer from Chicago, brilliant in his ability to carry out a program among people whom he hardly knew.

Dr. Sun died on March 12, 1925, but that did not affect the situation. The Revolutionary Army led by Chiang Kai-shek and General Galens-Bluecher marched up the Yangtze Valley. Meanwhile, Borodin built the boycott movement against the British, a movement which so completely disturbed China that it broke down resistance to anything that the combination of the Kuomintang and the Communists tried to do. Li Lih-san, a Communist labor leader, arranged for strikes in factories all over the country. Chen Tu-hsiu, who was then the leader of the Communist Party, worked in the open against the British.

Not only was the boycott effective but the British lost most of their concessions in China. For a short time thereafter the British regained some of their trade but in 1931, Japan made war upon China, a war which continued until 1945, when China, exhausted, mistreated by her allies, betrayed by her friends, had to continue battling against the Chinese Communists who, with the assistance of Soviet Russia, used the war to build their strength.

There is no basis for assuming that the British can regain this (Continued on page five)

Basic Factors Ignored

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Each week some new proposition comes from the White House promising to reduce unemployment. These vary all the way from paying veterans' insurance money in advance of dates down to increasing the minimum wage. To my mind none of them are of any real value. The first suggestion would put more money into circulation immediately, but would reduce the amount available later. As to increasing the minimum wage, this will cause merchants and others to reduce the number of their employees so that the higher wage will not cost them more in total. This will result in increasing unemployment without increasing total purchasing power.

PURCHASING POWER VS UNEMPLOYMENT

When discussing these two factors, it is much like asking which came first, — the hen or the egg? Each is dependent on the other; but in most cases increased purchasing must come before increased employment, and I think President Kennedy believes this in his heart. Hence, the soundest, cheapest, and quickest method of increasing purchasing is to increase advertising.

Advertising appropriations are now "upside down." Merchants advertise most when they have plenty of money, which usually means when business is good and there is full employment. Then, when business slows up and unemployment develops, these merchants reduce their advertising. This is why I say that the present advertising policy is "cockeyed." It may help the temporary profits of the merchant, but it is not for the nation's best interests; it is not economically sound. This especially applies to newspaper advertising, although it also may include radio, TV, and mail-order advertising. Furthermore, Congress would surely be increasing unemployment by increasing postage rates.

GOVERNMENT SHOULD SOMETIMES SUBSIDIZE ADVERTISING

Think what would happen to employment if all advertising should suddenly be stopped? Such an action would create a national panic. Half the people unemployed. Certainly the government would be as justified in subsidizing merchants selling certain products as in subsidizing farmers living in certain states. These merchants are doing as much for the nation as the farmers. In fact, the farmers are dependent upon the merchants to sell their farm products. No one of us goes to the farmer direct to buy wheat, corn, potatoes, tobacco, barley, or any product of the farm.

I would advise against permitting the government to change advertising rates; but suggest allowing certain temporary payments to newspapers and broadcasters for increasing the advertising space or time devoted to promoting the sale of products which require much labor — the percent of subsidy depends upon the amount of unemployment involved.

RUSSIA AND "FULL EMPLOYMENT"

President Kennedy cannot, or at least will not, go to Russia to seek disarmament while there is a large amount of unemployment in the United States. To make any satisfactory deal with Russia to reduce the "cold war," the President needs to have full employment here at home. Yes, he should actually have a shortage of workers in order that those workers then discharged by plants now making missiles, rockets, and other weapons will be able quickly to get jobs in peace industries.

Some of President Kennedy's suggestions will help the unemployment situation in a small way, but his ideas will not come near providing "full employment." Only advertising — natural or subsidized — will accomplish this. Subsidizing advertising to reduce unemployment is something which I would like personally to help with. Secretary of Defense McNamara should immediately operate a new division to study this problem which I am today urging in this column.

Other Editors Saying Questions Answered

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

Governor Sanford, joined by state officials who had helped, conferred at the Mansion in Raleigh with editors on the plan he recommended for raising school quality. These questions and answers are based on that conference.

Q. Does the plan provide for the program of United Forces for Education backed by thousands of citizens in the cooperating organizations?

A. It does. Governor Sanford suggested that removal of the 40-odd sales tax exemptions would provide $83 million, with $70 million for education for the full budget of the State Board of Education. The Budget Commission previously had recommended an additional $38 for schools. This sum is about what it takes "just to stand still" in the schools as enrollment increases. But with the Governor's enrichment plans, real progress can be made in adding quality and depth.

Q. If the state gets millions from Federal Aid bills now in Congress, how would this affect the state education appropriation?

A. Sanford favors use of any Federal funds for school construction, none for salaries of teachers. The state cannot wait for possible Federal aid. It must plan now. It is proposed later to decide the size of the bond issue to be submitted in the Fall for vote by the people, this issue for building school facilities. It could be reduced in any amount provided by the United States.

Q. What of the decision to remove sales tax exemptions on foods?

A. That was a hard one. Sanford admitted it. But there had been loopholes with so many exemptions through which tax money was not reaching the state. And the state previously had had a sales tax on foods. It was removed when during flush times this source of revenue was not needed, and partially because the then governor wanted it to help his candidacy for the Senate.

Q. Do other states with the sales tax have the tax on food?

A. More than 20 of the 34 states with sales tax include food in the tax. If there are no exemptions there is no way of checking to see that the tax is reported on all sales.

Q. What about teachers' salaries under the recommendations?

A. And would be raised about 15 percent, but there would be no cross the boards plan. The Board of Education recommends a starting salary for qualified teachers of $3,500 and advancing to approximately $5,600. North Carolina has been at the bottom of the states in failure to raise teacher pay.

Q. What is it about a vote on the plan?

A. The Assembly would enact the plan effective July 1. It would be set up for two years. In the Fall the people would decide at the polls if they were willing for the sake of their children to continue it. Sanford sees this plan as the best one to arouse the people to demand and cooperate in getting better schools. He insists that money alone is not enough. It requires the heart and mind of the people and an insistence on quality education.

Long-Time Unemployment Issue

By ELMER ROESSNER

The unemployment problem will remain with us even after the economy snaps out of the present recession. It will plague us for the next decade and perhaps longer.

One blunt fact is that more people are pouring into the labor force than can be absorbed at our present rate of economic growth.

Another blunt fact is that economic growth, under present conceptions, involves more automation which, in turn, reduces the ratio of job opportunities. There is no formula to measure automation's effect on job totals. Some say automation creates more potential employment than it destroys. But the volume of unemployment during the last 20 years, during which there were the greatest rises in automation, casts doubt on that theory.

RISE IN JOB CANDIDATES

But even if there were no increase in automation, the rising size of the labor force would present-terrible economic problems.

The civilian labor force in February was estimated by the Department of Labor at 70,360,000. In February, 1960, it was 68,449,000. That means the labor force rose 1,911,000 in a year — almost 160,000 a month.

In other words, to prevent unemployment rising above its current total of 5,705,000, the highest number since the summer of 1941, the economy has to generate 160,000 new jobs a month.

In some months, that will be easy. When factories increase production in the spring, when farm-labor requirements rise, when the summer industries begin to pick up, such gains will be easy. But that many new jobs, month after month, will be difficult.

RISE WILL CONTINUE

Worse, the rate of increase will grow in the years ahead.

If we assume that the increase in the last year was largely persons in the 18-to-20 age bracket; they were drawn from the baby crops of 1940-42. In those years, births average about 2,500,000.

In 1946-48, the average number of births was above 3,500,000 a year. That indicates that the rate of increase of the labor force in the next few years will be much greater. To keep all new workers gainfully employed, the economy will have to create more than 2,500,000 jobs in each of the next few years.

The number of births rose after 1948, passing the 4,000,000 mark in 1954, and continuing to rise since. The number of people added to the labor force can be expected to increase accordingly.

To make matters worse, medical advances are reducing the number of people leaving the working force because of illness or death.

Thus, the economy seems to be in a vise. At one jaw, the number of people in the labor force is being increased by the births and longevity; at the other jaw, the number of job opportunities are being held steady, if not actually reduced, by automation.

SHORT AND SIGNIFICANT GLIMPSES OF BUSINESS

After 2,000 years, the sunken bathtub is coming back, the Tile Council of America reports. . . . The S. S. Coral Sea is about to land almost 5,000,000 pounds of frozen Australian beef on the East U. S. Coast. . . . Thailand's peanut crop is setting a new record this year. . . . Dun's Review reports that Americans are spending $30 billion a year on health and medical products.

"Double-digit prices" — That is 44 cents, 77 cents, 88 cents are being used by many retailers who find them as effective promotionally as the old 95 cents and 98 cents.

Another New Testament, In Modern English; 13 Years In The Writing

LONDON (AP)—A New Testament in modern English, 13 years in the writing, went on sale today. Known as "The New English Bible: New Testament," it strips away the language of the King James and earlier English versions. It is the first revision in English since 1881.

And for the first time in British history, all the major churches in Britain, except in the Roman Catholic, joined in the revision. Prof. Charles Dodd, director of the project, says the original Greek and Hebrew have been translated into "English which is as clear and natural as the subject matter will allow."

Here is a comparison: Authorized version of the Lord's Prayer: "Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name.

"Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven."
 "Give us this day our daily bread."
 "And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors."
 "And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: for Thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen."

New English Bible:
 "Our Father in heaven,
 "Thy name be hallowed;
 "Thy kingdom come,
 "Thy will be done,
 "On earth as in heaven.
 "Give us today our daily bread.
 "Forgive us the wrong we have done.
 "As we have forgiven those who have wronged us.
 "And do not bring us to the test.

 "But save us from the evil one."
 The revision was suggested in 1946 by the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland. It said the church's work was hindered by the archaic language of the Bible.

A joint committee was formed in 1947 to direct the new translation. All the responsibilities of publication were entrusted jointly to the university presses of Oxford and Cambridge, which bear the whole cost and own the copyright.

The joint committee is composed of representatives of the Church of England, the Church of Scotland, the Methodist Church, the Congregational Union, the Baptist Union, the Presbyterian Church of England, the Church in Wales, the Church of Ireland, and the Society of Friends (Quakers). Also represented are the British and Foreign Bible Society and the National Bible Society of Scotland.

The publishers in a joint statement said that the revised version of 1961 made as few alterations as possible. The wording of the changes was limited as far as possible to the language of the King James and earlier English versions.

"Today, that language is even more archaic and less generally understood, because the rate of change in English usage has accelerated in the past 80 years."

"In that time, textual criticism has advanced, and earlier manuscripts and other sources of evidence have come to light."

The text in the New English Bible runs on as in a normal book, with the verse divisions as used in the authorized version confined to such examples as the Lord's Prayer and the Beatitudes. For purposes of reference, the old verse numbers are placed on the margin.

The joint committee still is at work on the translation of the Old Testament and the Apocrypha.

A separate American edition was published simultaneously for sale in the United States. It is identical in text to the British Edition.

Expects Crisis Later This Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—West Berlin's Mayor Willy Brandt says he is "inclined to believe there will be no new Berlin crisis within the next few months" but adds "perhaps later this year."

Brandt is expected to talk about this and other European defense matters when he meets President Kennedy this afternoon at the White House.

Over the weekend Brandt talked with Kennedy's defense aides. They included Walt W. Rostow, deputy special assistant for security affairs, and Paul Nitze, assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs.

Brandt made his assessment of the West Berlin situation Sunday in a television interview (NBC-Meet the Press).

He also pledged there would be no change in his country's foreign policy if his Social Democratic party should win the coming elections.

"Friendship with the United States will remain the cornerstone of our policy, and membership in the Western community an unchangeable part of it," Brandt said.

Brandt said he does not think it a good idea to place West Berlin under United Nations responsibility.

Barnhill Makes Official Visit

John T. Barnhill of Greenville, governor of the Carolina District of Kiwanis International, Friday night paid his official visit to the Greenville Kiwanis Club at the club's weekly meeting.

Friday's visit by the governor was to an inter-club meeting that saw representatives from Kiwanis Clubs in Farmville, Stanfordsburg, Kinston, Washington and Jacksonville.

Speaking to the joint meeting, Gov. Barnhill urged Kiwanians to help in efforts to develop "responsible people."

He deplored the "lack of morality on the part of so many of our folks. He said, "The best way to play on Khrushchev's team is just to sit still and do nothing."

Barnhill attacked excessive government taxation. "Government has overdrawn on the courtesy of the American people," he said and expressed opposition to "excessive taxation" as a trend toward socialism.

The governor, a member of the Greenville club, was introduced by local Kiwanian Ed. Waldrop, who managed Barnhill's successful campaign for the district governorship last fall.

Greenville club Pres. W. O. Moore presided at the session that saw some 100 Kiwanians attending.

Johnny Hudson, sports editor of the Daily Reflector, was inducted into the Greenville club.

Guests included Foster Eubanks, David Evans Jr., and Miss Irene Harrington who will represent the Greenville Kiwanis Club in the coming "Miss Greenville" pageant.

Extent Of Automation On Future Farms Unrealized

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Automation is winning a firm place in the vocabulary of today's farmer. It helps him lick problems of operation costs. With it he can coax more out of acreage that may be restricted in size by government controls. Or it can let him buy and cultivate another 40 and still keep the whole thing a family farm.

Automated gadgets are also prime factors in the struggles of the farm equipment industry with its earnings problems, often acute in recent years.

Sales of automated farm machinery should show a gain of 5 to 8 per cent this year over last, if increased production of this form of equipment is any indication. Makers of automatic equipment to be fitted into farm machinery report their orders are climbing steadily.

Automation is used in its broad sense of mechanical operation or control of farm machinery. Example: Combines designed to perform a variety of chores. Automation doesn't mean that the farmer himself isn't very much in the picture.

Based on his orders from farm equipment makers, Steven P. J. Wood, president of Warner Electric Brake & Clutch Co., Beloit, Wis., says this should be a banner year. He estimates that the average farmer already has an investment of $50,000 per worker in farm machinery.

Warner's sales to makers of combines increased by 850 per cent between 1953 and 1960. And Wood says that this year one manufacturer is equipping 60 per cent of his combines with automatic electric clutches, compared with 40 per cent last year.

Makers of farm equipment agree that the mechanization trend is growing. Among the many, such firms as International Harvester, Deere, J. I. Case, Massey-Ferguson, Ford's Tractor & Implement Division, stress the highly mechanized devices.

New combines, for example, are used to harvest many different types of crops in addition to wheat, and now vie with the corn picker.

A high degree of mechanization is found in the field hay pelleting. This cuts and compresses hay into 1 1/2 inch cubes at a rate of 4 1/2 tons hourly.

Also there's a seeder that digs holes, plants seeds, spreads fertilizer, fills the holes and tamps the dirt automatically.

The latest automation drive is in the field of materials handling, such as the hay stacker and various types of barn equipment, and also in machinery to handle animals.

Ahead in farm automation, Wood says, are such developments as these now on the drawing boards:

An automated barn. Here electronic equipment will guide a cow to her stall, milk her, keep records on feed and production, release the animal and then clean the equipment.

Televized control of tractors. One man will operate several tractors in the fields from one control tower.

Forage handling. Atomic energy devices will dry and pelletize forage in one minute.

If all these goodies come to pass, the next great movement may be: Away from the cities and the suburbs—and back to the Farm.

Gross Farm Cash Income For N.C. Hit Record High

RALEIGH — North Carolina farmers realized a record high gross cash income of $1,089 million from marketings of agricultural commodities and from government payments in 1960, according to the North Carolina Crop Reporting Service.

This total is 11 percent above gross cash income of $979 million in 1959 and exceeds by more than 4 percent the previous record of $1,044 million received in 1958. The 11 percent increase in total cash receipts was due primarily to larger receipts from tobacco, corn, peanuts, broilers, dairy products, hogs, and eggs. Receipts from cattle and cotton were smaller than the preceding year.

In terms of percentage increase in total cash receipts, the 11 percent gain in North Carolina during 1960, as compared with 1959, led all important agricultural states of the nation. Cash receipts from farm marketings for the country as a whole in 1960 were 2 percent greater than in 1959.

Giving these hard-pressed persons additional unemployment compensation payments will be of help to them, but it will not solve their basic problem. The only real solution is to find them jobs—not necessarily the same kind if jobs they had before, but at least work which will give them an income upon which they may live.

The Kennedy Administration claims that it is primarily interested in creating these additional jobs. By and large, however, about all it has had to offer in this direction is increased government spending, and that is not the fundamental answer.

The real solution is to be found through increased capital investment. To have that we must get tax rate reform and more incentive for savings and risk taking.

trade. Nevertheless, Hongkong, which Red China could have taken, remained a British port and its trade has been very valuable to those who engage in it. There are Brits who assume that there is still money to be made in Red China.

But that is no reason why the United States should change its attitude which is that if Red China comes in, the United States goes out. In fact, it is astonishing how many abstentions are counted each time this question comes to a vote—apparently many countries are ashamed to vote for it.

Plain Talk By Rickover On U. S. School Needs

By LYNN NISBET
Reflector Bureau, Ass'n Afternoon Dailies

RALEIGH—Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover pulled no punches in his indictment of the American educational system at the YDC educational rally here Saturday night. Prefacing his speech with the statement the views expressed were his personal opinions and did not necessarily represent those of other Navy personnel, he pictured this nation's loss of prestige by inadequacy in education.

We had become accustomed, he said, to thinking of ourselves as superior to all other countries. But, Europe, slowly moving towards economic unity, has built a mass production technology that begins to rival our own. Their success in creating a mass education system of high scholastic quality that is producing more professionals than our own raises questions of our alleged educational supremacy.

He was highly critical of the failure of our schools to recognize the need for basic education for the less talented, as well as the need for special training for the highly talented. And he insisted that a child's educational needs are the same whether he goes to school in a well-to-do suburb or city slum, in a backwoods village or an industrial center.

One of the principal faults is the American concept that educational standards should be localized, avoiding centralized "control" of education. Result is that high school diplomas have varying values, some none at all for college admissions, whereas the uniform system throughout Europe maintains surprisingly high educational standards.

The slogan that only the United States educates all children is perhaps the most detrimental illusion fostered by standpaters.

Driver Charged In Three-Vehicle Collision Here

James Alphonzo Murrey, Jr., 45, of Kinston, was charged with careless and reckless driving Thursday following a three-vehicle collision near the intersection of Dickinson Ave. and Ione Sts, which caused an estimated $2,000 damage.

Officers said the Murrey car struck a truck owned by Cox Armature Works, parked on the south side of Dickinson Ave., causing an estimated $1,000 to the vehicle.

The force of the impact knocked the parked truck into the rear of a third vehicle, a car owned by Coy Rogerson, Jr., 29 of 106 North Summit St., which was parked in front of the truck.

Officers set damage to the Rogerson car at $100. Damage to the Murrey car was estimated to be about $900.

Officers, who said no injuries resulted from the collision, quoted Murrey as saying he was looking at a building across the street (Dickinson Ave.) at the time he struck the parked truck.

Brush Off Bethel 65-59 In District Finals

'On To Durham' For Pantego

MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM — Bethel's Indians have a good idea of how I. Beverly Lake felt on election night.

A veteran Pantego outfit whipped up a second half rally and railroaded Bethel, 65-59, in the finals of the district tournament here Saturday night.

The Beaufort County Warriors rode the rebounding and shooting of extraordinary Ray Respass to their 29th victory—three coming in the tournament—and, at the same time, shattered Bethel's hopes of an eventual second state title.

31-30 with 3:10 showing. Text Everett dropped in a jump shot and added a couple of free throws to offset field goals by Billy Rose and Bradford Linton.

Bethel retired at halftime with a skimpy 35-34 lead.

SMITH, who hit only one field goal in the first half, opened the third quarter with a free throw, shooting Bethel ahead 36-34.

But Pantego's Respass took charge, hitting a free toss and following it with a field goal to give the Warriors the lead for the first time since the opening field goal, 37-36.

Another bucket by Matt Hudson and a charity toss by Respass made it 40-36.

Bethel rallied and tied it at 42-all with 4:33 left in the period. The two clubs swapped the lead for the next four minutes but a couple of quickies in the final minute found Pantego ahead 53-49 at the quarter's end.

The closest Bethel could come in the final period was three points. A two-pointer by Smith made it 58-55 but a missed free throw had the Pitt Countians fighting too heavier odds.

Smith and Herman Daniels fouled out in the final quarter but their departure had little say-so in the outcome.

Respass, doing a brilliant job rebounding and shooting, scored 29 points in leading his club to its second straight district title.

The lanky senior was charged with three fouls early in the first half but failed to accumulate any in the final two stanzas.

RESPASS' 29 points topped the scoring for both teams. Smith, the Bethel forward, had 19.

Others in double figures for the losers were Text Everett, with 12, and Harvey Lewis, with 13. Rose added 12 points to the Pantego total.

Table with columns: BETHEL, FG, FTM, A, F, TP. Rows: Smith, Daniels, Ayers, Lewis, Thomas, Everett, Dewar, H. Lewis, Totals.

Table with columns: PANTEGO, FG, FTM, A, F, TP. Rows: Respass, Lintn, Bryan, Durham, Hudson, Rose, Jones, Totals.

LEATHER - VOICED fans from both schools had plenty to shout about in the 32 minutes of "go-for-broke" basketball, the lead shifting hands a total of seven times.

It was simply a matter of Bethel dominating the first half and Pantego the final half, with the Warriors doing a little better job of the dominating O. C. Jones hit a two-pointer for Pantego, breaking the scoring ice, but seconds later John Smith was successful at the charity line and Bethel went ahead 3-2.

Pushed on by howling fans, the Indians were in complete control the rest of the first half, killing a late second quarter surge by Respass and company.

The biggest Bethel lead came early in the second quarter when Smith hit a couple of free throws for a 29-22 lead.

Prior to this, Bethel's margin had varied from three to six points.

Respass, who was in foul trouble early in the first half, hit two free throws to open the Pantego second quarter surge.

His ace shaved the lead to 61-59.

Slow Start Is Kinston Piffal

ENKA, N.C. (AP)—Mount Airy center Tommy White stands just 6-foot-4, but the bespectacled basketball star rebounds like a 7-footer and scores in two figures.

White pulled down 25 rebounds and scored 17 points Saturday night as the Granite Bears edged Kinston 57-54 for the state 3-A basketball championship.

It was the second straight night that White had grabbed 25 rebounds.

Besides winning the state title, the victory was Mount Airy's 50th in a row, and the Granite Bears snapped Kinston's 25-game victory streak.

The game was a replay of last year's 3-A title game, and Kinston had not lost since then.

Behind White in the scoring column was Tom Mattocks of Kinston with 16.

Mount Airy led 25-14 at the half, but the team got hot in the last two periods and had high scoring percentages.

Mount Airy had to fight off Kinston's full court press in the last quarter.

The Bears, leading 54-50 with three minutes to play, kept possession of the ball, forcing Kinston to foul, and Mount Airy's free throws opened a 7-point margin and gave the Bears the game.

Clinton won third place in the 3-A tournament with a 64-57 victory over Sanford.

Pantego Meets Boonville Wed.

East Carolina Stages Purple-Gold Game Saurday

East Carolina College puts the wraps on winter football drills Saturday afternoon with a Purple-Gold clash in College Stadium.

The Pirates, who dashed to a 7-3 record last season, including a season-closing win over U. of Richmond, have been undergoing grid work since January.

Several gaps—especially in the backfield—need to be filled and Coach Jack Boone and staff hope to have some idea of what to expect for the 1961 season.

No doubt they will have a better idea after the full-scale game Saturday afternoon.

Heading a short list of lettermen returning to the Buc fold is All-State tackle Clayton Piland and senior veteran and co-captain Chuck Gordon.

Others who earned a letter last season and are back for duty include quarterback Dan Rouse, tackle Vernon Davis, halfback Tommy Matthews, fullbacks Nick Hilgerl and Billy Strickland, and ends Bobby Bumgardner and Jones Lockerman.

Top prospects among the newcomers are end Richard Huneycutt, tackle Skipper Duke, and halfbacks Richard Jackson and Frank Galloway.

Tickets for the Saturday afternoon game may be picked up at the East Carolina College athletic department.

Basilo Pounds Jordan In Bout

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Carmen Basilio, who got past Don Jordan with "a much easier fight" than he expected, turned his sights today toward Boston and a middleweight title bout with Paul Pender.

Basilio, a former middleweight and welterweight king, used a right uppercut effectively Saturday night as he pounded out a unanimous, 10-round victory over Jordan, an ex-welter champion from Los Angeles.

Basilio is scheduled to meet Pender April 22 for the New York-Massachusetts version of the middleweight title.

Ohio State Is Still Picked To Regain Title

By DON WEISS Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson matches his speed and power against Ingemar Johansson's dynamic right tonight in a third title fight that figures to be as quick and explosive as their first two thrillers.

The New Yorker, heavier and broader around the shoulders than for the first two fights, is an overwhelming 4-1 choice to make it two straight over the dimpled-chinned Swede.

Practically no one expects this bout to go the distance in Convention Hall. The betting is even money that it won't go beyond six rounds 6-1 it won't go the full 15.

After smashing Illinois 95-66 last Saturday, the mighty Buckeyes of the Big Ten start defense of the national collegiate title they won so emphatically last year with the first perfect record of any major team since North Carolina in 1957.

To keep 'em company, the 12-team National Invitation Tournament begins at Madison Square Garden Thursday night with the first of six doubleheaders between then and championship day on March 25.

The eight survivors of the NCAA small college field gather in Evansville, Ind., for a three-day showdown Thursday, Friday and Saturday. And 32 select teams start week-long competition today in the NAIA tourney in Kansas City.

The $2,500 pro-am will be staged March 30, the day before the opening of the tournament.

Sixty-two of the nation's top professional golfers have signed up for this 14th annual tournament, and 85 amateurs have entered the pro-am event.

The others are Billy Maxwell, the 1955 winner; Art Wall Jr., 1959 winner; Jerry Barber, 1953 champion; Jimmy Clark, the 1952 winner; and Howie Johnson, who beat Arnold Palmer in a playoff in 1958.

Advise State Playoffs Restored

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The baseball committee of the 4-A Conference has recommended that playoffs be restored for 4-A high school teams.

The Board of Control of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association voted last December to discontinue baseball playoffs, starting this spring.

Then, representatives of 4-A schools were among the leaders in the move to discontinue the baseball playoffs.

The recommendation that they be restored for 4-A schools was made at the conference's meeting here Saturday. The recommendation was tentatively approved by the conference, pending results of a poll of school administrators to determine their views.

The conference agreed to complete its three-year contract for football playoffs, under which Eastern teams this year will get two of the four playoff places, and Central and Western one each.

In other action, the conference aired scheduling problems, particularly regarding the seven Charlotte area schools, Mecklenburg County School Superintendent Elmer Garinger has urged coaches in his system not to schedule games on school nights, except on Friday.

This rules out the Tuesday night games and makes scheduling problems for other conference members.

A meeting of superintendents, principals and athletic directors was requested within the next month to explore the playoff and scheduling problems.

Patterson Heavy Betting Choice In Bout Tonight

Very little betting is reported.

The pick by the writer is Patterson within five rounds. The writer, like most of those who covered the first two upsets, is 0 for 2, on the two upsets. It may be a good sign for Ingo. Patterson, 26, was a 5-1 favorite the first time and Johansson, 28, a 3-2 choice the next time around. Both fights were in New York.

With interest picking up last day momentum, Bill Fugazy, president of the promoting Features Sports, Inc., believes the fight will draw some 12,000 fans to the 17,000-seat arena for gate of $550,000. Closed TV officials estimate up to a million fans can see the fight in theaters, arenas and on community antenna systems.

The champion was dethroned on a seven knockdown, third round technical knockout in his first fight with Johansson on June 26, 1959.

Then Patterson avenged that upset by blasting his playboy conqueror with a crunching left hook in the fifth round of their return on June 20, 1960.

But victory came to Patterson only after he had survived a stunning right hand blow high on the forehead that dazed him for seconds. Ingo's fatal error was in not following up the opening.

This third bout simply goes down to this: Can Johansson connect early with his fast, 10-1 right? If he doesn't it's almost a cinch he will be mowed down by the machine-gun bursts of the finely trained champion.

The big money for the fighters will come from the closed circuit telecasts, the movies and domestic (ABC) and foreign radio broadcasts. Theater TV is expected to bring in $3 million and could do $3½ million. Each fighter seems assured of at least $750,000 without counting the gate.

The gate should bring each about $100,000.

Johansson, who has been training at Palm Beach, arrived at the fight scene Sunday night. He is expected to weigh about 200 pounds at the weigh-in.

Patterson expected to weigh about 193 pounds, the heaviest of his career.

He's in the greatest shape ever," said trainer Dan Florio.

"Ingo is strong and ready," commented trainer Whitey Bimstein.

East Carolina Stages Purple-Gold Game Saurday

East Carolina College puts the wraps on winter football drills Saturday afternoon with a Purple-Gold clash in College Stadium.

The Pirates, who dashed to a 7-3 record last season, including a season-closing win over U. of Richmond, have been undergoing grid work since January.

Several gaps—especially in the backfield—need to be filled and Coach Jack Boone and staff hope to have some idea of what to expect for the 1961 season.

No doubt they will have a better idea after the full-scale game Saturday afternoon.

Heading a short list of lettermen returning to the Buc fold is All-State tackle Clayton Piland and senior veteran and co-captain Chuck Gordon.

Others who earned a letter last season and are back for duty include quarterback Dan Rouse, tackle Vernon Davis, halfback Tommy Matthews, fullbacks Nick Hilgerl and Billy Strickland, and ends Bobby Bumgardner and Jones Lockerman.

Top prospects among the newcomers are end Richard Huneycutt, tackle Skipper Duke, and halfbacks Richard Jackson and Frank Galloway.

Tickets for the Saturday afternoon game may be picked up at the East Carolina College athletic department.

Basilio Pounds Jordan In Bout

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Carmen Basilio, who got past Don Jordan with "a much easier fight" than he expected, turned his sights today toward Boston and a middleweight title bout with Paul Pender.

Basilio, a former middleweight and welterweight king, used a right uppercut effectively Saturday night as he pounded out a unanimous, 10-round victory over Jordan, an ex-welter champion from Los Angeles.

Basilio is scheduled to meet Pender April 22 for the New York-Massachusetts version of the middleweight title.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson matches his speed and power against Ingemar Johansson's dynamic right tonight in a third title fight that figures to be as quick and explosive as their first two thrillers.

The New Yorker, heavier and broader around the shoulders than for the first two fights, is an overwhelming 4-1 choice to make it two straight over the dimpled-chinned Swede.

Practically no one expects this bout to go the distance in Convention Hall. The betting is even money that it won't go beyond six rounds 6-1 it won't go the full 15.

After smashing Illinois 95-66 last Saturday, the mighty Buckeyes of the Big Ten start defense of the national collegiate title they won so emphatically last year with the first perfect record of any major team since North Carolina in 1957.

Naming of Xavier of Ohio, Seattle and Oregon to the last three at-large berths completed the 24-team field for the NCAA championship tournament, which has preliminary games Tuesday night and Wednesday before settling down to regional semifinal shuffling at Charlotte, N.C., Louisville, Lawrence, Kan., and Portland, Ore., this weekend.

To keep 'em company, the 12-team National Invitation Tournament begins at Madison Square Garden Thursday night with the first of six doubleheaders between then and championship day on March 25.

The eight survivors of the NCAA small college field gather in Evansville, Ind., for a three-day showdown Thursday, Friday and Saturday. And 32 select teams start week-long competition today in the NAIA tourney in Kansas City.

Ohio State, St. Joseph's (Pa.), Kentucky, Texas Tech, Cincinnati, Kansas State, Utah and Loyola of Los Angeles drew first round byes in the national championship, which begins Tuesday night with Rhode Washington vs. Princeton, Rhode Island vs. St. Bonaventure, and Wake Forest vs. St. John's in an eastern regional tripleheader at New York and with Ohio U. playing Louisville and Morehead meeting Xavier in a Mid-East regional doubleheader at Louisville.

St. Louis plays Miami (Fla.) and Holy Cross meets Detroit in Thursday's opening NIT program.

After last weekend's play, Wittenberg and South Dakota State have established themselves as possible favorites in the NCAA quarter-finals. South Dakota plays California Santa Barbara and Wittenberg meets Williams.

Westminster (Pa.) has been top seeded for the NAIA field, which includes defending champion Southwest Texas State. Eight first round games today and Tuesday set in motion the competition, which ends Saturday night.

Pro-Am Set For Azalea Tourney

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A pro-am tournament is scheduled for the first time this year as a preliminary to the 54-hole, $12,000 Azalea Invitation golf tournament.

The $2,500 pro-am will be staged March 30, the day before the opening of the tournament.

Sixty-two of the nation's top professional golfers have signed up for this 14th annual tournament, and 85 amateurs have entered the pro-am event.

The pro field already includes six former Azalea champions, including defending champion Tom Nieporte. The others are Billy Maxwell, the 1955 winner; Art Wall Jr., 1959 winner; Jerry Barber, 1953 champion; Jimmy Clark, the 1952 winner; and Howie Johnson, who beat Arnold Palmer in a playoff in 1958.

Advise State Playoffs Restored

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The baseball committee of the 4-A Conference has recommended that playoffs be restored for 4-A high school teams.

The Board of Control of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association voted last December to discontinue baseball playoffs, starting this spring.

Then, representatives of 4-A schools were among the leaders in the move to discontinue the baseball playoffs.

The recommendation that they be restored for 4-A schools was made at the conference's meeting here Saturday. The recommendation was tentatively approved by the conference, pending results of a poll of school administrators to determine their views.

The conference agreed to complete its three-year contract for football playoffs, under which Eastern teams this year will get two of the four playoff places, and Central and Western one each.

In other action, the conference aired scheduling problems, particularly regarding the seven Charlotte area schools, Mecklenburg County School Superintendent Elmer Garinger has urged coaches in his system not to schedule games on school nights, except on Friday.

This rules out the Tuesday night games and makes scheduling problems for other conference members.

A meeting of superintendents, principals and athletic directors was requested within the next month to explore the playoff and scheduling problems.

North Wilkes 2-A Class Champion
 WINSTON - SALEM (AP) — North Wilkes, runner-up for the state 2-A high school basketball title a year ago, went all the way this year and the clutch free throw shooting by Frank Myers played no small part.

North Wilkes beat Southern Alamance for the title here Saturday night. Two free throws by Myers with 15 seconds to play put the game out of reach of Southern Alamance.

In a semifinal game the day before, Myers hit two free throws to give his team the victory in overtime.

North Wilkes was paced by Kelly Taylor and Richard Miles with 10 points each. Southern Alamance's Howard Andrews was high scorer of the game with 19 points.

North Wilkes led by seven points before Southern cut the margin to three with 16 seconds left. Then, the free throws of Myers insured the victory for North Wilkes.

Garner took third place with a 52-42 victory over Franklin.

Larsen Impressive In Short Pitching Stint

By MIKE RATHET
 Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Larsen, the hard-throwing right-hander, made an impressive showing with a no-hit game in his exhibition season debut for the Kansas City A's.

Continuing his fine spring performances, the hurler who stunned the baseball world with his perfect game for the New York Yankees in the 1956 World Series worked three hitless innings Sunday in the A's 6-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Larsen, 31, gave up only one walk, and apparently has overcome the pitching defects that forced the A's to farm him to the minors during the 1960 campaign when he nosedived to a 1-10 record and a 5.36 earned run average.

The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates won their third in a row with a 6-2 triumph over Baltimore.

Wilmington Wins 4-A Title Again

By KEN ALYTA
 GREENSBORO (AP) — The firm of Brogden and Brogden (coach Leon and son Bill) has brought New Hanover High School of Wilmington its second successive state Class 4-A basketball title.

The Wildcats shook off pesky Myers Park of Charlotte with a 24-point last quarter here Saturday night to win the final game of the tournament going away 66-54.

It was the fifth championship in six years for coach Brogden and the sixth since the state tournament was begun in 1948.

Son Bill led the scoring with 20 points, 15 in the last half, to play the leading role in the taming of the Mustangs from Myers Park who held favored Wilmington even 42-42 through three quarters.

Brogden, a compact, six-foot, 150-pound senior, also played a leading role in last year's championship victory over Raleigh.

He hit seven of 13 shots against Myers Park, added 6 of 7 from the foul line and scooped up five rebounds.

Bobby Dubose had 15 points and Larry Graham 14 for Myers Park, which couldn't rebound with the Wildcats. Wilmington hit 23 of 41 shots and 20 of 24 free throws. Myers Park had 22 baskets in 48 shots and converted 10 of 15 free throws.

A crowd of 2,500 saw East Mecklenburg clinch third place over Gastonia 69-58 in a meeting of teams that tied for the regular season Western Conference crown.

A 22-point last quarter clinched it for the Eagles who had trailed 17-14 after one period. East led at the half 32-29 and 47-42 after three periods.

Eddie Walker had 19 points, and Jeff Thompson and Joe Halley 16 each for the Eagles. Bobby Edwards, a fine tournament player, led Gastonia with 21 and 6-7 John Dobbs hit 13.

Brogden and Jim Goodnight of Wilmington were named to the all-tournament team by sports reporters, along with Dubose of Myers Park, Joe Halley of East Mecklenburg and Richard Herring of Winston-Salem.

Bolt Winner In Pensacola Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Tommy Bolt is Pensacola Open Golf champion after one of the steady, best bear-down performances of his sometimes tempestuous career.

The Crystal River, Fla., veteran was only a stroke ahead Sunday at the start of the 72-hole tourney's last 18 holes. But he knocked in seven birdies for his best round — a 5-under-par 67 — and finished with a 13-under-par 275, good for $2,800.

Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa and Langhorne, Pa., turned in the day's best round, 65, and finished second two strokes behind Bolt for $1,900. He now tops professional golf money winners at $19,904. Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta had a 279 good for $1,400 and third place despite taking a triple bogey on one hole in his 70 round.

Mariene Bauer Hage, Mary Lena Faulk and Louise Suggs tied for second with 226.

Wang Says . . .

Grain Survey Successful

Pitt County's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee office reported today its portion of a nationwide feed grain survey was 90 per cent complete as of Friday morning.

Office Manager Wayne L. Wang commended Pitt County's farmers who have responded well to the survey. As of last Friday morning, 90 per cent of all farmers in the county had executed a survey report for their farms," he said.

He continued, "The survey is being conducted as an advance step for the Emergency Feed Grain Program that is now under discussion."

"In order that this program may go into operation this year, it is imperative that accurate information regarding the acreage history of corn, grain sorghums, barley and oats, as well as the acreage devoted to other crops and land uses, be obtained from every farm."

"It is, therefore, necessary that a survey be made for every farm. We urge the few remaining farmers to make plans to visit the ASC office and execute their feed grain survey report as soon as possible."

Cropland Sales

Wang today called Pitt County farmers' attention to an amendment recently released by new Commodity Stabilization Service administrator Horace D. Godfrey. The new amendment, Wang pointed out, affects changes in the basis for making farm allotment reconstitutions when cropland is sold for non-agricultural purposes.

He said the new rule provides:—when cropland is removed from agricultural production and (1) when the ownership of a tract of land is transferred from a parent farm, (2) the tract is to be used for non-agricultural purposes, and (3) the tract was not acquired under the right of eminent domain, the farm shall not be reconstituted provided:

—an agreement allowing the allotments to stay on the parent farm is signed by all interested persons, and the county (ASC) committee must be assured that such land will be devoted to non-agricultural purposes during the current year or the next succeeding year.

Wang urged land-sellers and purchasers affected by the change who desire further explanation of the amendment to contact the ASC office in Greenville.

Sled Rows

As tobacco planting time draws nearer, Wang called "special attention" to new regulations regarding sled rows in tobacco acreage this crop year.

He emphasized, "Planted sled rows are not eligible for deduction. Eligible sled rows may be deducted from the acreage provided they are at least one normal row in width and there is not more than one sled row for each four normal rows of tobacco."

"To qualify as an eligible sled row," he pointed out, "no crop may be planted in that row. If any crop is planted in the sled row it will be counted as tobacco."

Wang further noted that, even if tobacco is planted with other crops or idle land, "the entire acreage must be considered as tobacco." He said: "No credit for disposition of excess acreage may be given for any area not planted in tobacco unless the area destroyed is as wide as four normal rows. "Likewise," he said, "if a crop planted in a sled row is destroyed the area still would not be eligible for deduction and no disposition credit could be given."

ASC Conference

An N. C. State ASC Conference has been scheduled for Asheville April 4-6.

Members from Pitt County's program who are planning to attend include: J. Lyman Edwards, chairman of the Pitt ASC Committee; W. F. Tyson, committee vice chairman; Wang; Livingston Roberts, assistant office manager; and Kenneth Allen, Blanche Jones and Aileen Clark, ASC office staff members.

Attending the Asheville conference also will be U. S. Department of Agriculture officials from Washington, ASC officials from Raleigh and members of all ASC county offices throughout North Carolina.

The meeting will cover all phases of the ASC program and operations, as well as policies handed down from Washington and Raleigh levels.

Wang is on the program as one of the conference's featured speakers.

Low Quality Hay Imports Increase

RALEIGH — Poor-quality hay imports are on the increase with at least another month before pasture growth will begin to support North Carolina cattle.

W. E. Lane, head of the grain and hay section for the N. C. Department of Agriculture's markets division, reports that his specialists are finding many carloads of extremely poor-quality hay coming from out-of-state, to bolster this state's short hay crop of last year.

"In fact, milk check-payments to farmers in many areas have been lowered because the quality of hay has not been sufficiently high to keep milk production up, and farmers should be certain of a good quality hay before they start feeding it to their milking stocks," Lane said.

Double Average Peanut Yield

RALEIGH — When you can more-than-double the state average yield, that's "some peanuts!"

"You've got to follow recommended practices," say the two newest members of North Carolina's Two-Ton Peanut Club.

J.E. Dickens of Garysburg averaged 4,015 pounds on 1.8 acres. Charles W. Taylor of Jackson grew an average of 4,110 pounds on four acres.

Eight new members qualified for the club in 1960 joining the circle of seven already in. "Ten of the 15 are from Northampton County," says Astor Perry, Extension peanut specialist at N.C. State College. "But the only two-time member is Reubin L. Turner, also from Northampton."

Northampton growers average 2,043 pounds per acre last year—about 200 pounds more than the state average.

Others who joined the club in 1960 are: Hinton Britton of Pendleton, 4,194 pounds; W.J. Beal Jr. of Jackson, 4,130 pounds; S.Y. Daniel of Seaboard, 4,311 pounds; William E. Grass and weed control in cotton on many fields becomes a problem where control is attempted with hoe and plow. Pre-emergence treatment with herbicides will satisfactorily control early problem weeds in your cotton. However, in using herbicides you may follow certain important precautions.

Chemicals: Two chemicals are suggested for weed control in cotton—Duron and CIPC. Duron is sold as "Karmex DL" duron herbicide. CIPC is sold as "Chloro IPC Emulsifiable Concentrate."

Planting the cotton: Make every effort to plant a stand. Prepare a good seedbed. Use high quality, treated seed and place the fertilizer properly. The soil temperature should be at least 60 degrees F. at depths of 3 to 4 inches. Try to get a uniform stand of four to five plants per foot in 38 to 40 inch rows. This gives about 45,000 plants per acre. Cover cotton seed with 1/2 inch of soil before applying the herbicide.

If "chopping" becomes necessary, be sure to leave an adequate stand. Deep chopping after a pre-emergence spray application disturbs the soil and may lessen weed control.

How to Apply: Two methods of application are commonly used. The chemicals are either sprayed broadcast or in a band directly over the row. Which method you use depends on the results you want to get. The merits of these two methods are compared below.

Broadcast
Saves two to five cultivations. Reduces hoeing time 50 per cent or more. Uses more chemical than band method. Cost $3-40 gallons of water per acre.

Applied with modified boom sprayers.

Band
Saves one or two cultivations. Reduces hoeing time about 50 per cent. Uses less chemical than broadcast.

Uses 10-14 gallons of water per acre. Requires band application sprayer. Following a band application regular cultivation is necessary to control weeds between the treated bands. Where the broadcast method is used, normally no cultivation is necessary until the entire area must be worked. Flat, shallow cultivation (about 1/2 inch deep) usually prolongs some of the weed-control effects.

Rates of Application.
Application Rates of Pre-emergence Herbicides for Cotton:
Recommended Rates Per Acre
Chemical Commercial Preparation
CIPC, "Chloro IPC", broadcast 6 to 9 qts.; 14-in. band, 3 1/2 ft. rows, 2-3 quarts.
Cost of Chemicals: Duron will cost $4.25 to $6.75 per acre broadcast. If applied on a 14-inch band on 3 1/2 foot rows the cost will be $1.50 to $2.25 per acre. CIPC will cost $12.00-$18.00 per acre broadcast. Band treatment will cost $4.00-$5.00 per acre.

Soils differ in their productive capacity and in their fertility level. Careful attention should be given to the physical and chemical characteristics of the soil when selecting the rate and grade of fertilizer to be used. Soil test, crop performance history, and rainfall patterns are helpful in estimating the fertilizer and lime requirements for a specific field.

As a general practice tobacco should not be grown directly after a legume. This would make it difficult to predict the amount of nitrogen to apply as fertilizer. It is difficult to determine the amount of nitrogen that will be liberated from a legume residue in the soil.

The amount and form of organic matter, texture of the soil, and depth to the subsoil are important characteristics influencing the quantity of nitrogen required for best tobacco production. For sandy loam soils of average fertility the following quantities of nitrogen have generally been found adequate:

In fields with topsoil 12 inches or less in depth (depth of soil to clay) 30 to 40 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre.

When top soil is 12 to 18 inches in depth, 40 to 50 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre.

When the topsoil is 18 to 24 inches in depth 50 to 60 pounds of actual nitrogen is generally adequate.

O sandy soils that are more than 24 inches to the clay, 60 to 70 pounds of nitrogen may be necessary.

On the other hand, when tobacco is grown on heavy textured, very fertile soil, 20 to 30 pounds of nitrogen per acre will generally be sufficient.

The rates suggested above include nitrogen furnished by both preplant and side dressing fertilizer.

The information obtained from soil tests can be very helpful in determining the rate and analysis of fertilizer to use on a specific field for tobacco production. Observations that you have made when different rates and analysis of fertilizer were used on a specific field, are also important.

The important thing is to supply, as nearly as possible, the exact amount of fertilizer required for proper development of the tobacco plant.

"I CAN COUNT ON A COMPLETE STAND OF TOBACCO . . .

...with ISOTOX Transplanter Solution, where I used to lose on an average of 10% to 20% of my stand to wireworms and cutworms. ISOTOX costs me about $1 an acre, and returns from $100 to $300 an acre." Claud Angell of Broadway, North Carolina, knows what he's talking about. He's been growing tobacco for twenty-two years. ISOTOX Transplanter Solution combats wireworms and certain other soil insects by putting a protective zone around newly-set plants, allowing them to develop good root systems. This saves expensive replanting and results in earlier growth and increased yields of top-quality tobacco. ISOTOX Transplanter Solution is economical to use and it involves no extra work. You simply mix it with the transplanting water.
