Gov. Sanford Is Again Going To The People For Their Support

This Time, It's Not For Election But For His Public School Program

RALEIGH (AP)—For the fourth time in less than a year, Gov. Sanford is going to the people to win support. This time, however, it's not for election but for his public school improvement program.

After a hectic weekend which included stops at Charlotte, Greensboro, Sanford and Chapel Hill, the governor will begin another week of speech making to night with an appearance at Goldsboro.

He goes to the Wayne County seat for an education speech and a question-and-answer session which will be broadcast across the state via radio.

The high point of the week's campaign will come Thursday night when Sanford delivers a "report to the people" on a statewide television hook-up.

The governor is seeking legislative enactment of his $70 million school program plus extension of the sales tax to now exempt items such as food and drugs to finance the bulk of it.

Over the weekend, Sanford plugged for the program at his visits to Greensboro during ceremonies inaugurating Dr. Samuel D. Proctor as president of A & T College; at Sanford during that city's Progress Day; and at Chapel Hill during the annual meeting of the State Association of Certified Public Accountants.

An aide, Tom Lambeth, read a speech prepared by Sanford to an audience at Lenoir celebrating the 100th anniversary of the raising of the Confederate flag over North Carolina.

At Greensboro, Sanford said, "We will have to provide the money and people get mighty emotional about paying money. But there is no other path to progress, and I have faith our people will insist that they be allowed to pay the price to achieve quality in our schools."

Sanford goes to Rowland in Robeson County Tuesday evening to speak to the School Masters Club. Before his statewide address Thursday, he will speak to the Future Farmers of America banquet at Coats High School.

Sanford holds his weekly news conference this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Gromyko Expected Open New Congo Debate With Charges Of 'Conspiracy'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was expected to open a new debate on the Congo today in the U.N. General Assembly with charges that Belgium, Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu are conspiring to dismember the chaotic central African territory.

Gromyko's newest target was the decision by Kasavubu and all other Congo political leaders except Soviet-backed Antoine Gizenga to jettison the unworkable federal government plan left by Belgium and replace it with a confederation of semi-independent states.

Some observers expected Gromyko would pick up Ghana President Kwame Nkrumah's argument that Kasavubu, in accepting the presidency of the proposed confederation, had quit the presidency of the republic and had lost his right to U.N. recognition as the Congo's chief of state.

Hammarskjold was reported to have asked Rajeshwar Dayal of India to continue as head of the U.N. operation in the Congo despite the Kasavubu government's repeated demands for his recall.

Kasavubu accused Dayal of bias toward the late Patrice Lumumba and toward Gizenga after Lumumba's death.

New York Herald Tribune correspondent Marguerite Higgins reported from Leopoldville Sunday that, according to high sources, Hammarskjold is continuing Dayal in the Congo post because the secretary-general "fears to offend Dayal's countryman and boss, Prime Minister Nehru of India."

Miss Higgins reported that "the high-handedness, arrogance, even contempt with which Dayal treated the Kasavubu regime would give ground for fury on the part of any government." She added that Dayal's temporary replacement, Mekki Abbas of the Sudan, "has done much to ease the explosive situation created by Dayal's aloofness from the Congo's leaders." Dayal is now at U.N. headquarters reporting on the Congo operation.

Hammarskjold was said to have Ceylon's promise of 800 to 1,000 troops for the U.N. force in the Congo which, with the combat battalion now being sent by India, would build the depleted force to a strength of more than 20,000 men. The secretary-general hopes to increase the force to a total of 25,000 troops.

Hammarskjold also scheduled a meeting today with his advisory Congo committee to choose a commission of jurists to investigate the death of Lumumba, slain in Katanga Province after Kasavubu sent him there as a prisoner last January.

Reports from the Congo said the U.N. force and Gizenga's Stanleyville regime had launched a joint operation by 150 Malayan troops and 50 Congolese soldiers to try to mop up roaming bands of pagan fanatics known as "leopard men" terrorizing whites and the Congolese population in sections of Kivu Province.

The joint force was organized at the U.N. base at Kindu for a 200-mile drive against the terrorists operating around Kasongo. About 30 whites in the area are believed to be virtually at the mercy of the fanatics, whose professed aim is to kill all whites.

Gizenga also was reported in Leopoldville to be working toward conciliation with Kasavubu despite his face-saving rejection of the confederation plan.

AP correspondent Peter Grose reported that reassembly of the Congo Parliament is becoming increasingly favored in Leopoldville as a step in the transformation for the constitutional setup from a centrally controlled republic to a confederation.

contact man he knew only as "Nikki" demanded details of submarine warfare research from the Portland base where Houghton worked.

When he failed to show up for a meeting, Houghton said, two men came to his house and beat him savagely. They threatened next time to get his mistress and codefendant, Ethel Elizabeth Gee, 46, also an employe at the Portland base.

The others accused are Gordon A. Lonsdale, 37; Peter Kroger, 50, and his wife, Helen, 47. The FBI has identified the Krogers as Morris and Lola Cohen, American citizens who formerly lived in New York.

Houghton said he stalled off the ring from time to time by giving them pamphlets and papers they could have obtained in ordinary publications. But when they threatened Miss Gee, he said, "I regarded that as most serious."

Asked just who the men were, Houghton said: "I did not know who they were but I had every suspicion that they were the East-ern bloc—Czechs, Poles, Russians."

Houghton and Miss Gee are accused of giving documents on antisubmarine warfare as well as a plan of Britain's first atomic submarine, the Dreadnought, to Lonsdale who in turn gave them to the Krogers. Police found a radio transmitter in the Kroger home and said it was beamed on Moscow.

The defendant said the ring wanted details of homing torpedoes and a device ships trail to mislead submarine torpedo crews.

"I said I couldn't get it," that "it was not there. Actually, I did not attempt to," Houghton said.

Both Mrs. Kay Gable and the baby, delivered by Caesarean section, were reported in good condition at Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital.

at about 12:46 a.m. and the first alarm for the fire was sounded only minutes later from Box 126 at the intersection of Dickinson and Manhattan Aves. Two additional alarms were turned in, the chief said, to call all off-duty firemen and volunteers to the scene.

Firemen who responded on the first alarm said the blaze had broken through the roof of the tin-frame structure by the time they arrived on the scene. Lt. T. E. Gladson, who was operating the radio-equipped patrol car and who first saw the blaze, said that the fire was blazing through the roof of the center portion of the tin structure when he first sighted the fire.

Chief Gardner said firefighters had the blaze "under complete control" within 20-30 minutes after they arrived at the scene. He explained that the fire "never was out of control to a great extent." He said near-by houses were not endangered by the blaze, and "the wind was in our favor" by blowing the heat from the blaze toward a vacant lot beside the storage building.

Fire officers said five trucks responded to the call and reported that 3,550 feet of hose was used in battling the blaze. They added that all trucks had returned to the station by 3:10 a.m.

Chief Gardner and other fire officers praised the local Salvation Army for their aid in supplying refreshments to the firefighters who battled the blaze.

Officials this morning who have been investigating the blaze, said no cause for the fire has been found. They noted that the fire apparently originated in the center portion of the structure.

Owner of the building, R. R. Forrest, said the destroyed building was valued at about $15,000 and stated the loss was covered by insurance. He noted that the building was being used as a storage house for sweet potatoes, potato grading machinery and equipment, and clothing.

He explained the loss of the contents would amount to several thousands dollars, noting that there were at least $2,000 worth of potato baskets alone stored in the structure.

Forrest said the blaze might have started from an electrical shortage. He explained that the blaze, "seems to have started in the center of the building," and noted the electrical switch boxes were located in that area.

Firemen reported at least four firefighters received injuries ranging from an injured knee to one fire officer losing his voice.

Beating, Threats Told In Spy Case

LONDON (AP)—A royal navy clerk told a jury today he photographed secret plans of a nuclear submarine after Communist hoodlums beat him and threatened his mistress.

Henry F. Houghton, 55, one of five defendants charged with leaking secrets to the Russians, claimed he deliberately took the photographs out of focus so they would be useless to his tormentors.

The submarine is the Dreadnought, built by the British with American knowhow. Its reactor is of the type installed in the American Skipjack class.

Houghton testified his troubles started in February 1958 when a

Minor Injuries In 2 Local Wrecks

The occupants of two vehicles demolished in two separate wrecks Saturday night received only minor injuries, according to investigating Highway Patrolmen.

Patrolman D. L. Minshew of Farmville said James Earl Lofton, 24-year-old Negro of Route 1, Greenville was treated for minor injuries after his car rounded a curve, traveled for 495 feet out of control and crashed into a tobacco barn about one-half mile South of Ballards Cross Roads.

Minshew valued the 1955 model car at $350 and said the force of impact demolished the vehicle.

He noted that the auto was suspended in the side of the barn about six feet off the ground, with its wheels sticking in the side of the structure.

He noted that the side of the barn was also destroyed.

A passenger in the vehicle, James Earl Crandall, 22-year-old Negro, address not given, was also treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for injuries received in the mishap, then released.

Loften was charged with reckless driving, the officer noted. The collision occurred about 10:30 p.m.

An hour later, a vehicle being driven by Bobby R. Lewis, 24, of 410 North Greene St. went out of control on the County Home Road, (rural paved road number 1725) ran through the intersection of that road and N.C. 43 at Bells Fork, officers reported. The car then hit a ditch, traveled for 66 feet in the air, then hit the ground and traveled for another 100 feet before coming to rest on its top beside the road.

Patrolman J. B. Surles, said the vehicle traveled for a total of 505 feet out of control and overturned several times.

Surles said Lewis was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital where he was treated for minor injuries, then released.

Lewis was charged with speeding in excess of 75 miles per hour, and reckless driving, following the investigation of the mishap, Surles reported.

The demolished car was valued at $300.

Heavy Loss Reported In Greenville Feed Mill Building Fire On Sunday

Greenville firemen worked for several hours early yesterday morning before completely extinguishing a blaze which caused over $15,000 damage by destroying the old Greenville Feed Mill building at the intersection of Broad St. and Watagua Ave.

Chief George W. Gardner said the blaze was discovered by a Police Department patrol car

Heath-Mills Wedding Solemnized

In a candlelight ceremony Miss Barbara Ann Mills and James Earl Heath were united in marriage Sunday afternoon in Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church with the Rev. Henry Melvin, pastor of the bride, performing the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated in southern smilax, huckleberry, emerald and other bridal greenery. Arrangements of white gladioli, lilies and snapdragons, flanked by seven-branched candelabra holding cathedral candles, formed the setting for the wedding ceremony. A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Paul Braxton, organist, and Mr. James Stocks, soloist. Mr. Stocks' selections included "Whither Thou Goest" by Singer, "With This Ring" by Sacco, and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. As the couple knelt for prayer, Mr. Stocks sang the chorus from "Seal Us O Holy Spirit" by Meredith. The traditional wedding marches by Wagner and Mendelssohn were used as the processional and recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original peau-de-sole princess gown designed and made by her grandmother, Mrs. E. C. Davenport of Winterville. Her gown was designed with a close fitted bodice and short sleeves. The shallow, rounded neckline was re-embroidered with hand-clipped Chantilly lace jeweled with crystals and seed pearls. The full skirt, ending in a full cathedral train, was re-embroidered with sequined lace appliques and was enhanced by twirled peau-de-sole roses extending down each side.

Her mantilla veil of silk illusion was full length and edged in lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of bride's roses, stephanotis and white cymbidium orchids.

Miss Mary Jo Mills, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of spring green, mist taffeta, with princess styling and soft twirled roses on the back. With this she wore a large matching picture hat and short white gloves. She carried a cascade bouquet of spring flowers in varied hues with yellow predominating.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jessie Ellis, Tarboro; Miss Deborah Mills, Greenville; and Miss Marilyn Heath, Grimesland. They were dressed as the honor attendant and carried similar bouquets.

Serving as honorary bridesmaids were Miss Rachel Stox, Winterville; Miss Nadine Garris, Belyoir; and Mrs. Jack Horton, Washington. They were dressed in moss green cotton with white lace cummerbund and white gloves. With this they wore white feathered carnation corsages.

James Dalton Heath served his son as best man. Ushers were Samuel W. Heath, Grimesland; Hugh W. Mills Jr., Greenville; E. C. Davenport, Winterville; and Donald Ray Heath, Grimesland.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Mills chose a mint green dress of lace and chiffon over crystal-ette with matching accessories and yellow cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Heath chose a sheath dress of beige lace over green satin with beige accessories and green cymbidium orchids.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh W. Mills, is a graduate of Grimesland High School and East Carolina College with a B. S. degree in Business Education.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dalton Heath, is a graduate of Grimesland High School and attended East Carolina College. He is now in business with his father.

For her wedding trip, Mrs. Heath selected a costume dress of beige linen with satin trim, matching hat, and bone accessories. She wore the orchids lifted from her bridal bouquet. Following their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Heath will be at home in Grimesland.

church parlor, which was decorated in all white. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Roger Stox and Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Heath and were then presented to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Buck who introduced them to the receiving line, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Heath, the bride and groom, and the bride's attendants. Mrs. M. A. Woodard invited the guests to the reception table which was lovely with its covering of white bridal satin and arrangement of all white flowers flanked by tall white candles in crystal holders. At one end of the table a crystal punch bowl, encircled with bridal greenery and orange blossoms, was placed and guests helped themselves to choice tidbits. Serving punch was Mrs. Christine Mills. She was assisted by the honorary bridesmaids, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Davenport presided at the guest register and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Boyd directed the guests to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Averette who said the good-byes.

A wedding breakfast was given Sunday at 12:30 p.m. by Mr. and Mrs. Roger Stox and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Davenport at the Cinderella Restaurant honoring the Heath-Mills bridal party and out-of-town guests. The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of white carnations and white pom poms. A three course meal was served.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dalton Heath entertained the Heath-Mills wedding party and out-of-town guests at a cake cutting at their home following the rehearsal Saturday night. The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of white carnations flanked by candles in crystal candleholders. White wedding bells decorated each corner of the table which was covered with a white damask tablecloth. Mrs. Hugh Mills served cake and Mrs. Dalton Heath poured punch. Party mints and salted nuts were served.

at the Greenville Micos Lodge the sophomore class of RHS presented its annual dance for the entire school. Richard Taft, class president, welcomed the audience to the dance. At the beginning of the floor show which centered around the theme, "Around the World," the girls' trio composed of Anna White, Pat Carter, and Martha Henderson set the mood by singing the title song, "Around the World." Tom Duncan, pilot, took the entire group on a thrilling world flight. Before leaving the country, he took a look right here in North Carolina by hearing Ruthie Johnson and Ann Nichols sing "I Like Tarheel Music." Then off across the ocean Pilot Tom went to Ireland where Mike Posey sang an Irish ballad. Two leprechauns, Ann Carol Guise and Frances Harvey, did a routine for Tom. In Scotland, Donna Gammon, dressed in typical kilt and Scotish attire, sang two songs and did a delightful Highland fling. The girls' trio in England came out as "typical teenagers" and sang "Young and Foolish." As Pilot Tom took out across the English Channel, he just happened to see the great swimmer, Florence Chadwick, ably portrayed by Tommy Brown. In Vienna young composer Jake Gaskins presented one of his own original piano compositions. Then on to the "City of Lights," Paris, where street dancers Martha Hoot, Barbara Minges, Diana Hodges, Doris Phillips, Joyce Masten, and Jane McGlohon presented a dance to the tune "Volare." In Italy a comical fashion show was presented by Olivia Bland, announcer, and Paula Pollard, Joy Morrill, and Kay Berry. The syndicate working of Mr. Big, Nikita Capone, (Tom Campbell) thrilled the audience as Pilot Tom went to Russia. Other parts were played by Gayle Hunning, Ruthie Johnson, Alen Van-

Diye, and Richard Taft. In Hawaii, Sugar Lips, Swivel Hips Brown and his Hawaiian Hayshakers, Doug Johnston, Richard Taft, and Tommy Brown presented a hula. Donna Whitley and Gayle Hunning, two Alaskans, displayed through dance and song the close ties which exist now between Alaska and the United States. As Pilot Tom was about to complete his trip around the world, we saw Betsy Coughlan and Sally Willis, two ambitious travelers hitchhiking from Mexico. As the grand finale, the entire cast capped off a delightful floor show by singing "It's a Big, Wide Wonderful World." The sophomores should be praised for their splendid work in making such a highly successful dance, "Around the World." Congratulations to Rose High's Science Fair winners! Special credit goes to outstanding "scientists" Kathryn Winchester, Melvin Hoot, Anne Daniels and Jake Gaskins who captured first place in the three categories. And may we also congratulate the Science Club officers and members who planned the successful fair. Peter Hunt, president; Mike Martin, vice-president; Sara Collier Webb, secretary; and Esther Johnson, treasurer, lead the club. Mr. James D. Nicholson, who advises the Science Club, headed the complete plans for the event. Thanks again to everyone who helped to make the event such a great success. It was a wonderful achievement for our science department as well as for our entire school.

SEAFOOD COOKERY - Home Demonstration Club women in Bladen County have been studying seafood cookery recently, reports Miss Fleta Harrelson, home economics agent. Mrs. Norman Butler and Mrs. Earnest Singletary prepared shrimp creole, oyster noodle casserole, and shrimp in tomato aspic at a meeting of the Knoxville club. They stressed the nutritious value of seafoods and the use of them in planning family meals. HOME CARE OF THE SICK - Nearly every family has an illness sometime. Much worry and confusion can be avoided if some member of the family has the know-how and skill to give simple home nursing care to the sick. Mrs. Lois Hall, assistant home economics agent in Martin County, recently gave a demonstration for her 4-H girls on home nursing. She told them how to choose a room for the sick, how to make a newspaper bag, to take temperature, to make a bed table, and how to serve meals to the patient. BUSINESS EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW - Home management leaders in Durham County recently presented a demonstration at their club meetings on "Business Every Woman Should Know." Miss Martha B. Edmondson, home economics agent, says the women discussed how to conduct family business at the bank, post office, and court house, in case of an emergency. USE OF CASSEROLE DISHES - Do you know how to make quick casserole dishes? Home Demonstration Club women in Davidson County are learning to make casseroles using canned and frozen foods with left-overs. Mrs. Martha B. Thompson, home economics agent, showed five casseroles featuring one with rice and left-over meat, plus the use of other commonly used canned and frozen products. She pointed out that this was a new way to get family members to eat their green and yellow vegetables plus their protein rich foods. FAMILY ROOMS - Club women in Washington County have become conscious of their lack of storage space since studying family rooms and seeing slides on the different kinds of storage that can be built in. Mrs. Frances Darden, home economics agent, says Mrs. W.B. Warrington of Cool Spring Club, is now in the process of planning to build a family room and wants to add plenty of storage space. REARRANGES FURNITURE - Men, beware! The Home Demonstration Club women in Madison County are getting ready to rearrange their furniture. Mrs. Ethel Wallin, home economics agent, says the club women in the Mars

Hill club discussed the arrangement of furnishings and each woman planned a new arrangement for one room in her home. Mrs. Jeter Robinson said that changing the furniture around could make it more convenient for family living and would also relieve the monotony - especially in the winter months.

No Hesitance Now On Hiking Taxes

In sharp contrast with the legislature of two years ago, members of the 1961 General Assembly show no fear of introducing measures to increase taxes of the people of the state.

It is, perhaps, a reflection of the feeling of the majority of the people of North Carolina. It is not that the people of the state are anxious to assume a heavier tax load, but rather that they are anxious for a better education system in the state and are willing to pay for it.

Two years ago there developed in the legislature a determined opinion that no new taxes should be added to the state's tax structure. Former Gov. Hodges took that position for his administration and it was upheld by the majority of the legislature. In lieu of new tax sources or higher rates, the governor recommended and received approval for taking advantage of a $27 million revenue windfall by adopting the withholding plan for collecting personal income taxes.

This year there seems no question of whether taxes are to be increased. The only questions center around what forms the increases will take, where they will be levied and how they will be collected. Such thinking is reflected not only in statements by the administration and legislators, but also in statements of numerous citizens who have commented on tax proposals made so far.

Where hold-the-line thinking held sway on the issue of new taxes when the legislature convened two years ago, the go-forward thinking apparently is in comfortable control of the situation today. Needs of the state are being recognized, and along with this recognition there is the realistic approach that new goals for the state cannot be reached unless the people of the state are willing to pay for them.

The change of attitude on the part of the legislature—and apparently on the part of people in general in the state—in the past two years represents a drastic departure from the traditional conception that it was unpopular to propose higher taxes.

Spring Has Not Been Late--For A Change

The calendar says Spring officially arrives today, but looking back over the past few weeks in Pitt County, one wonders if the calendar isn't running late this year.

Flowers are blooming on every hand, trees are putting forth new buds, azaleas are blooming profusely, and the sputter of lawn mowers is no longer unique in the neighborhoods.

In contrast with the past couple of years, Pitt County has missed a March snow, although most people in the county have been keeping their fingers crossed during the unseasonably warm weather that came in late February and has lingered since.

With Spring officially here, perhaps now we can uncross those fingers and relax to enjoy the balmy weather without fearing each night will bring a killing frost or the cloud banks might hold a trace of snow in place of warm rain.

Certainly 1961 has brought to Pitt County the nicest late-winter weather in several years. In part at least it made up for the bitter cold that gripped the county during parts of December and January. It was a pleasant respite from the lingering bitter weather that has held on too long in recent years.

This year at least, the calendar and the weather have truly brought Spring to Pitt County on time.

Continuity Has Been A Factor

By LYNN NISBET
BASIC CONTINUITY — The strength of North Carolina's government has been its basic continuity through the years, despite the changing of administrative policies. Governors come and go, and each has his peculiar idea about organization of state agencies. And yet the overall program of growth and progress does not falter.

Consider the highway commission. Governor Gardner consolidated his administration with highways, abolished county road commissions and assumed State responsibility for maintaining all public roads and prison camps. A quarter century later Governor Hodges returned to the separate status, with a separate board of control, but with highways still paying a large part of prison costs. Now Governor Sanford proposes to complete the separation and relieve the highway fund of most of the cost of prison operation.

Meantime, the structure of the highway commission has undergone numerous changes. The first highway commission had very little authority and less money. It was a six-man group appointed by Governor Locke Craig in 1915. A 1919 act reduced the commission to three men and a chairman, and Governor Bickett put Frank Page at its head. This commission still had little real power and scant money.

Came 1921, the first statewide bond act for $50 million and an authoritative commission of nine men and a chairman, Governor Morrison continued Frank Page as chairman and, pursuant to the statute, appointed six Democrats and three Republicans on the commission. The ten men were selected from the then 10 congressional districts.

VARIATIONS — Governor McLean continued the Morrison structure, with some personnel changes, and encouraged more money for public roads. In his second legislature Governor Max Gardner has the commission reduced again to six members and a chairman, and this structure was continued by Governor Ehringhaus.

Governor Hoey in 1937 first established the division system for appointing commissioners, increasing the number to 10 and setting up special highway divisions. This plan was maintained, with frequent changes in personnel, through the administrations of Governors Broughton, Cherry and Scott. Governor Scott considered but abandoned the idea of increasing the membership on the commission to handle his 200 million secondary road program.

Governor McLean got through the 1953 Legislature an increase from 10 to 14 districts with a commissioner each. From beginning of the division set-up in 1937 through 1952 there had been progressive disposition for each division to be a sort of independent entity, over which the resident commissioner had substantial control.

Governor Hodges sponsored, and the 1957 General Assembly enacted, a return to the seven-member board, without geographic or division residential requirements, which had prevailed in the Gardner and Ehringhaus regimes—but with one important distinction. Instead of one member of the commission designated as chairman being the chief administrative officer, the Hodges concept called for a seven-man board to make policy only, and an appointed director of highways to be the responsible administrator.

There have been numerous complaints that this set up removed road administration too far from the people, that citizens felt they had no point of contact, and that the social service phase of roads had been entirely sacrificed to cold-blooded economic and engineering "efficiency."

NEXT MOVE—Governor Sanford indicated many times during his primary and general election campaigns that he would propose still another reorganization plan for the highway commission, the intent and purpose of which would be to restore closer contact between the people and responsible highway officials. Although the 1961 General Assembly is going into its seventh week, no bill has been offered effectuating these suggestions. It is universally believed that some highway reorganization measure will be offered by the Governor.

Roads and schools are the two government services that affect nearly everybody and they are inter-related in the popular mind. Governor Sanford has put all his blue chips on his school program, and feeling prevails that some trading may be in prospect on highway policy to get legislative support for the educational program.

CONTINUING — Getting back to the original premise of basic continuity in State government programs, it is both surprising and gratifying to note how consistent progress has been, despite the frequent personnel and organizational structure changes in highway administration.

This recalls the statement made several years ago by State Treasurer Edwin Gill that "in North Carolina good government is a habit."

New Perspective On Nation Needs

By RALPH ROBEY

Among the hundreds of appointments that President Kennedy has made is a new Council of Economic Advisers. This council was established by the Employment Act of 1946 and consists of three members. The new appointees are Walter W. Heller, chairman, Kermit Gordon, and James Tobin. All are academic economists, as were the members under President Eisenhower, and none of them has a reputation as a conservative.

The council made its first public statement on March 6 before the Joint Economic Committee. Dr. Heller acted as spokesman but emphasized that he was speaking for the council as a whole. The statement was 56 pages long, not counting two lengthy supplements. The explanation of the presentation plan was that "an administration has been organized which looks at our economic problems in a new perspective."

That "new perspective" has been made relatively clear by other members of the Administration. It is that we never had a full recovery from the 1958 recession, that for the past ten months we have been in another downturn—the fourth since World War II—and that the growth rate of the nation is much too slow, that we have a basic unemployment problem, and that there is pressure on our international balance of payments. Many statistics and arguments were presented to support these contentions, some of these were impressive, and some were far-fetched.

"Nothing of Significance" — One of the impressive arguments was that since 1955-57 we have not been investing enough in plant and equipment and as a result the age of our capital plant has been increasing. We all know that is true and that something should be done about it. But the council offers nothing of significance in the way of a solution. There is no mention of the inadequacy of present depreciation laws and regulations, of the heavy squeeze on profits, of the present burdensome tax rates on both business and individuals, of the monopoly power of labor union leaders which forces up the costs of production, of the inadequate volume of savings for venture capital purposes, or of the increasing difficulty for American businesses to meet foreign competition.

An example of the far-fetched arguments is found in connection with the recently persistent rise in unemployment. The fact is that in each of the post-war recovery periods the volume of unemployment has been higher as a per cent of the labor force than in the preceding upswing. The usual explanation of this has been a change in the structure of our labor force—a larger percentage of young workers and of the unskilled. The council says this is not true—that the increase has been simply the result of inadequate demand.

Plotting the Upswing — In replies to questions by members of the Joint Economic Committee, Dr. Heller made it clear that he thinks the program which has been presented by President Kennedy will be sufficient to bring us out of the current downturn but that the upswing probably will not start until after the middle of the year. Secretary of the Treasury Dillon believes we shall have an improvement before the middle (Continued on page five)

The Public Forum

TO THE EDITOR: As physician to the County Home for the past several years I should like to write a few words in support of the new Superintendent, Mr. Horace Hardee. The recent over-publicized though unproven episode of suspected food contamination at the Home was most unfortunate. Mr. Hardee has assumed his new post only recently, since the first of the year and there is already apparent an improvement in all phases of the running of the Home. Through his efforts there has not only been a general clean-up and the addition of such material assets as new mattresses, curtains, wheel chairs, etc., but more important he has brought a feeling of genuine interest in the welfare of each resident. With Mr. Hardee's willingness to serve plus the continued support of Mr. Alton Gardner, the County Commissioner in charge of the Home, and a moderate increase in available funds for repairs and hiring of more personnel the Pitt County Home should continue to improve in all directions. Strength For Today

EARL L. DOUGLASS PRAYER AND WORK An acquaintance of mine who likes to try to justify his own lack of religious faith by underlining the account of his disappointments that of others was arguing recently about the ineffectiveness of prayer. Like many such demonstrations, his case was built on the personal experiences of long ago, when he had prayed for this or that but never received it. One thing that struck me about his account of his disappointments was that the things he had prayed for were things that he was probably better off without. I am sure that very often God in his wisdom is too good to us to grant those petitions which we in our ignorance have made, unconscious that the seeming advantages we have sought would in reality turn against us. But even more strongly I was struck by the fact that this man's notion of prayer seemed to be an entirely passive one. He didn't have a goal, he had hoped God would deliver; he certainly had not intended to fetch them himself. Small wonder his wishes were not fulfilled. We can expect something of God only if He can expect something of us. Most often, perhaps, we need to ask Him for strength and courage to accomplish something; and there are many who have personally experienced the fulfillment of that prayer. "Whatsoever we beg of God, let us also work for it." Or, as the Master himself said: "I must work, while it is day; the night cometh when no man can work." (John 9:4)

Where People Are 'Surplus'.

It was at the Teheran Conference (1943) that Stalin first met Roosevelt and Churchill together. Churchill had been to Russia earlier and he met the Georgian; however, to Roosevelt he was not known. It is clear from what is available about Teheran that it was at this meeting that Roosevelt agreed to give to Stalin a large part of Europe and Asia. Although the Yalta Conference occurred after Teheran, the Yalta Papers have been published by the State Department but Teheran is still supposed to be secret.

Recently, it was stated and denied that General Eisenhower, when he left the White House, took the Teheran Papers with him. Eisenhower said that he had not done so. Those papers, in no manner, are the property of Eisenhower. They are State Department documents, still secret, and General Eisenhower, as a private citizen, has no more right to them than you or I. His denial must be taken on its face and it must be assumed that all those documents are in their proper place in the State Department archives and that they will one day be published.

However, it needs to be noted that they cannot be destroyed because the British and Russians have these Teheran Papers and some, if not all of them, have been seen by private persons in this country and elsewhere. The only purpose for suppressing them would be to save the reputations of the persons who attended this conference. Congress has authorized their publication; nevertheless, they have been suppressed. From the standpoint of history, nobody's reputation can ever be saved by violating documents because the historian ultimately gets at the facts.

Until the Teheran Papers are published completely, most of the judgements of the American people on the relations between the United States and Soviet Russia will be based on lack of accurate information.

There must be a purpose in suppressing these documents. Is it to save the reputations of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill? Is it to prove that in their various public statements and books, these statesmen told the truth? Is it to save the reputation of General George Marshall? If those in charge of such matters have no reason for suppressing the truth why do they do it?

The public official who set up the Teheran Conference was Averell Harriman, presently President Kennedy's roving Ambassador. Harriman has matured considerably since his early days in public life. He knows what happened at Teheran and undoubtedly has kept notes or a diary or he may even have copies of some documents. Harriman is one of the few top men alive to tell the tale. The American people have the right to know what happened at this conference that changed the world and that laid down principles and agreements over which the Cold War has been continuous since 1945.

The Cold War has three sides: our side, the Russian side, and the neutral side. Our side is that we believe that we know and we state it to be that at Potsdam, Soviet Russia agreed to conditions of conquest which the Russians have violated. Their side, we do not know and cannot know until we have before us the Teheran Papers which, if published in full, will give us the agreements and understandings among Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin. In a word, are the Russians bluffing or were promises made to them which have not been lived up to, or are we complaining about acts of aggression on the part of Soviet Russia to which we agreed when the war was still on?

To understand the character of the Cold War and the Russian insistence that it be prolonged, even against their interests, one is forced to believe that there must be a reason for their attitude. That reason is to be found in the Teheran Papers. As one reads the Yalta Papers, it becomes clear that Yalta was an prolongation and a correction of Teheran. But what happened at Potsdam, where Harry Truman, unfamiliar with both the Teheran and Yalta Conferences, was confronted by prior agreements? He never agreed to a Summit Conference after that. President Eisenhower went to one Summit Conference and came off with little benefit and at the second one he was abused and belittled. What cards does Khrushchev hold that he dared to humiliate the President of the United States? I think the answer will be found in the Teheran Papers.

Other Editors Saying Not Bureaucrats Alone

(Henderson Dispatch)

President Kennedy wants Congress to surrender more of its prerogatives and transfer them, perhaps without recourse, to Washington bureaucrats. That's the impression that grows out of the suggestion sent to Capitol Hill in the form of a new farm bill.

It would probably be a good idea to allow the farmers greater choice in setting up regulations governing their activities. But an important aspect of the proposed change would be the degree of authority delegated to the Secretary of Agriculture. They had a fill of that sort of authority in the adamant attitude assumed by former Secretary Benson, whose idea of administering the law they did not like. There is no assurance that the new secretary would be much better if allowed the free rein to establish practices and procedures of his own design.

Unquestionably agriculture needs strengthening if it is to continue as the backbone of the national economy. Moreover, changes may be needed. But Congress would do well to retain such authority as it has over Federal agencies. While it is true that the Kennedy plan would leave the lawmakers the function of vetoing programs it did not like, the difficulty of withdrawing such powers from government departments after it is once shifted is well known. Such changes as may be necessary in the farm program, or in any other Federal activity, should be made by Congress, and that authority ought never to be surrendered by delegating it to a few policy makers who would assume that they had the green light to go as far as they chose.

Surpluses which exist will be sharply curtailed in some instances, such as food supplies, for example, under the new process of making distributions of free commodities at home and abroad. That threat to markets available to farmers would thus be diminished, if not removed completely, and a firmer market established.

Shaping of the nation's farm policy ought not to be left to the bureaucrats alone. The farmers would not wish it that way. The President may have been sold a bill of goods in this instance.

Airline Rate War Will Be Brief

By ELMER ROESSNER

Current transatlantic air freight rates expire April 9. Members of the International Air Transport Association were unable to reach an agreement on new rates in Paris. Now airlines are announcing new low rates, one line promises cuts up to 65 per cent in some categories.

The looks like a rate war, doesn't it? Prediction: In a matter of days, perhaps even hours, I.A.T.A. members will agree to continue present rates until new meetings can fix new rates. Electric razor boom: Watch electric take a bigger share of the razor business. A new medical study finds that safety razors are more harmful to the skin than electric razors, removing from four to fifteen times more tissue cells than the 110-volters. While the study was submitted only to a medical journal, the electric shaving people will make sure most men hear about it.

RISE IN CAR SALES Auto logjam breaking: The rise in auto sales is continuing into March and, with better weather, may swell exceptionally in April. One reason: as employment picks up, more workers will need auto transportation. Another: there are some rare bargains on the market now as dealers scramble for funds to pay off winter's bills.

Instant spelling coming: Coming to market is a series of LP records to teach children second through seventh grade how to spell. Records will give harassed parents more time to watch television.

More strike insurance: Some kinds of companies can get strike insurance, others can't. But insistent demands of those not yet insurable is inducing underwriters to devise new coverage. Coming soon will be insurance against losses by strikes of truckers.

ATTACK ON TAX-HAVENS Tax loopholes will be shrunk: Both Congressmen and Treasury officials are working on plans to overcome effects of foreign tax havens. New laws and regulations are in planning to prevent taxpayers from salting income in tax-free harbors abroad. One reason: to reduce the dollar imbalance by bringing in funds held abroad. Another: to increase revenues for Administration projects. Note: The Ingemar Johansson tax case, by putting a spotlight on an ocean-size loophole, will speed Congressional action.

Rise in opposition to duty-exemption coming: Chief complainant about proposed cuts from $500 to $100 in tourists exemption from U.S. duties is Canada. Tourists' happiest duties are propogandizing and lobbying against the cut, pointing out few tourists buy more than $100 abroad.

More ad-agency switches: Corporations changing advertising agencies have been bringing recently—and the number will grow. One reason is that corporation executives have been blaming recent drops in sales on their advertising, instead of on the recession or themselves. To save face, they

Florida Holds Promise

By ROGER BASSON
BASSON PARK, MASS.—As I write this column, thousands of farmers and their wives in the snow-packed Central West are insisting they will never spend another winter on the farm. They are agreeing to spend their winters in California or Florida, and are trying to decide which it will be. Here is a brief, but impartial, answer.

WHAT ABOUT CALIFORNIA? Although I have spent 35 winters in Florida and expect to do so for the remainder of my life, I often wish I had been born in California! It is a wonderful state, with tropical climate in the south, snow in the north, and any climate between these which anyone could wish. It has a long coastline, a desert interior, and great mountains. The only out is Los Angeles, with its crowded population, terrific transportation problem, its "smog," etc.

California is also rich in natural resources, with mineral resources excepted of coal. It has great waterfalls which supply electricity to all the homes; it furnishes natural gas which heats most of the homes; but its great abundance of oil of good quality, and this has been a tremendous asset to the state industrially, besides paying for roads, state buildings, and other public improvements. All of these come after the discovery of gold in 1849, which sparked the "gold rush" and resulted in the building of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads.

IS IT TOO LATE TO MOVE TO CALIFORNIA? As I think of the farmer and his wife in Nebraska, I wonder whether all these natural resources will be of any help to them? For the businessman with money, who can purchase large acreage for an extensive cattle ranch or orange and other fruit groves, there is still an opportunity for health, power, and prosperity in California. Few investment bargains, however, exist at the moment; although they will appear again when the next depression comes. A large amount of money is borrowed on California enterprises, and most of these mortgages are held by one or two great California banks which could be very tough if the tide turned against them.

For the farmer and his wife in moderate circumstances who want only a winter home or place to retire to—California may not be the state. Prices are high, and there is a shortage of houses in most sections. If you have friends living in some small California city—preferably near the coast—and they know of some reasonably priced home, it might be well to go out and look it over. California in general, however, is a place for big business rather than for retired farmers.

WHAT ABOUT FLORIDA? Outside of sunshine and a fair rainfall, Florida has only a few natural advantages. It has no coal; no waterpower; no natural gas, except that being brought in by pipeline; and, most important of all, Florida has not yet discovered oil. Some years ago oil was found in South Florida around the town of Sunnland and a few wells nearby were drilled and produced oil. This caused the great Florida oil boom. Nearly all the large oil companies sent representatives to get leases and do exploration work. Many of these companies spent millions of dollars drilling for oil, but not one drop of commercial oil or gas did they find. Very few wells have gone below the 10,000-foot limit, and very little "off shore" drilling has been done.

Small industries are starting up in Florida, using electricity. Orlando and Tampa and Tampa are rapidly becoming industrialized, while Jacksonville is a great jobbing center. Florida is a state of small homes; in fact, just now there is a surplus of small houses. Therefore, for farmers of the Central West and the East who want a winter home free from snow, or for retired families who would get a check from the north every month, I surely advise one of the small cities of Florida. Perhaps it would be cheaper to buy a house already built than to buy a vacant lot. But I do not advise buying a Florida home without seeing the actual property. There surely is a surplus of models and subdivisions.

must switch to agencies promising new action to stir sales.

OLD PROMOTER TURNS TO GREENBACKER FIELDS The Old Promoter was in today with an oral prospectus of a new venture. He's organizing Slums, Inc., selling shares at $10 each.

"Fastest profits in the world," he assured me, twirling his gold-headed cane. "House & Home magazine reports that slum owners in Milwaukee urban renewal project got 2.89 times their investment."

"Before selling their properties, the average return to 48 slum owners was 19.8 per cent a year. Eleven owners averaged more than 25 per cent return for nine years. Renting and selling slum properties is obviously one of the most profitable operations possible today. Our company will buy up slums, jack up the rents and, when the cities move in, sell out at more money than you can make running a crap game. How many shares, Elmer?"

Cardinal Vows Church Will Not Bow To 'Caesars' Of Communist Poland

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN
 WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Hurling defiance at the Polish Communist regime, Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński pledged Sunday that the Roman Catholic Church will not bend to the Red "Caesars" in the mounting church-state struggle.

"I tell you Caesars that you will bow to your God and you will serve only him and no one else," the Polish primate declared. "Satan is mighty but man will not bow his head before him."

The cardinal's voice boomed through the high-voiced Church of the Visitation as he declared that state-sponsored youth groups characterized by "atheization, indifference, rationalism, etc." show the Communist rulers are persecuting the church.

"It is so easily said that there is no struggle against religion," Cardinal Wyszyński said. "And what is this? What can one call this?"

Wladyslaw Gomulka, Poland's Communist party chief, had charged Saturday that the Vatican is trying to provoke "persecution and martyrdom" in Poland and is sacrificing the Polish hierarchy in its fight against communism. Gomulka denied any persecution of the church.

The cardinal said that instead of anti-Communist directives, the Vatican's constant instruction was that "Poland acts on its own."

Cardinal Wyszyński said that during his conversations with Pope John XXIII, the late Pope Pius XII and other church leaders in Rome "not once has an attempt been made to give me any instructions whatsoever on how the Polish bishops should conduct church affairs in Poland."

A Vatican radio broadcast Sunday joined in the cardinal's charge of persecution. It said Gomulka has made "a grave attack against the Catholic Church in Poland" while directing his words against the Vatican. The broadcast accused Gomulka of standard Communist tactics in seeking to divide the church in Poland from the papacy.

Cardinal Wyszyński's Passion Sunday sermon denounced a recent Polish film about medieval nuns possessed by demons as anti-religious propaganda and "a dirty glove" slapped against the church's face.

He also criticized the Communist emphasis on production programs, saying: "Man is not made just to be a consumer animal, man is called to something higher."

Cardinal Wyszyński, now 60, became primate in 1948. He was jailed shortly after becoming a cardinal in 1953, during the Stalinist era. He was released from detention three years later, during the upheaval that brought Gomulka to power.

The two men negotiated an uneasy truce that allowed priests to give religious instruction in state schools. The Communist party adopted a school reform program early this year, apparently aiming to end such instruction by 1963.

The Vatican recently granted Cardinal Wyszyński special powers to tighten clerical discipline as resistance to the Red regime slackened in largely Catholic Poland.

mutual understanding of the positions and attitudes of both governments and may facilitate the consideration of outstanding problems."

What they talked about was described as "a variety of subjects of mutual interest," but it was learned that the major emphasis was on the Laotian crisis.

Other subjects reportedly included the Congo, Berlin, United Nations problems and disarmament.

The Geneva conference on a nuclear test ban which resumes Tuesday also may have been mentioned.

Rusk is believed to have made it very clear to Gromyko, and thus to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, that the United States has no intention of allowing beleaguered Laos to be taken over by Communist rebels.

The United States has several times expressed deep concern over a Communist air lift of arms to pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels, which threatens to lead to an arms race on both sides.

The U.S. position is that a truly neutral government should be established in Laos.

After Gromyko left, Rusk called in British ambassador Sir Harold Caccia and French Ambassador Yve Alphonse, presumably to give them a report.

Rusk and Gromyko exchanged pleasantries before and after the session and outwardly at least the atmosphere seemed cordial.

No Promising Signs Follow Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—No indications of progress toward ending the Laotian crisis have stemmed from a lengthy U.S.-Soviet conference on cold war issues that threaten to become hot.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko restated in detail the U.S. and Soviet positions during an extraordinary five-hour conference Saturday.

The two, accompanied by top advisers, began talking over lunch at the State Department at 1 p.m. and did not part until dusk.

A joint statement, couched in very general terms, said only that they hoped their "open and frank discussion" will lead to a better understanding of the positions and attitudes of both governments and may facilitate the consideration of outstanding problems."

Girl Scout Story Told Kiwanians

FARMVILLE—Kiwanians were given an opportunity to learn more regarding the Girl Scouts and their activities, and the local troop representatives found an additional way in which to celebrate Girl Scout Week in a program presented at the Farmville Kiwanis Club's weekly meeting.

Miss Gina Allen, presented by Dr. Tom Patterson, recounted the story of the founding and progress of Scout group nationally, and told of the organization of the local Girl Scouts in 1946.

Mrs. Edgar Barrett, a Girl Scout leader for the past 15 years, spoke of the accomplishments locally, and of the hut constructed some 10 years ago, which has "served a great need as a center since."

Miss Noe Lang showed the slides of a trip made to a Scout's camp last summer.

Linda Chesson and Sue Flake, Keyettes, were also guests of the Kiwanians.

Hunt Is On For The Unlicensed

FARMVILLE — Harold Allred, town clerk, has announced that his office is checking county tax records in an effort to find the 200 motorists missing from the 1,100-name list last year, who have not as yet bought 1961 town license tags for autos and trucks.

A town ordinance requires owners to purchase and display these license numbers on their vehicles.

"Why Did My Draperies Fade Along The Folds?"
 —Mrs. A.H.R.

Dear Mrs. A.H.R.:

You mention that sunlight did not strike your drapes, yet they faded along the folds. Mrs. A.H.R., you are the victim of "fade fading," sometimes termed "gas fading." Before you say that you do not use gas in your home let me explain that fume or "gas" fading can occur from heat or oil from electricity, when hot metal is in contact with air. This color change may occur while your drapes are hanging or while they are stored. Garments may fade the same way, mostly over the shoulders, down the length of the sleeves or in lengthwise streaks along the sides of skirts or trousers.

Fume fading results from any type of flame or heat which causes the nitrogen in the atmosphere to unite with oxygen forming the oxides of nitrogen. The fading takes place slowly but is hastened by anything which leaves the fabric in an acid condition, such as sulphur fumes, perspiration or anti-perspirants. It is most noticeable in fabrics which have been hanging for any length of time. That is why you noticed it in your drapes.

You can best control fume fading by protecting fabrics from deodorants and anti-perspirants and by hanging fabrics in a garment bag or in a closet away from a chimney. Your window drapes simply have to take their chances.

Speaking of color a change in color preferences occurred during the last half of 1958. The California Ink Co., Color-trend Report, based an actual sale of colorants through 12,000 retail paint stores, points out a decided shift to stronger colors, with certain lively blues, rusty corals and sandy beiges gaining popularity. The trend is away from light pastels and off-whites, in the purchase of paints by consumers. This may signify a shift in color tastes in general. Look for it in the fabrics you purchase.—(Adv.)

Civitans Going To Zonal Meet

Five members of the Greenville Civitan Club are scheduled to attend Wednesday the final Civitan Zone 14 meeting of the current year when representatives from 10 clubs will gather in New Bern to honor the "Civitan of the Year for Zone 14."

Local president Dr. Kenneth Quiggins, Dr. George Douglas, R. H. Lloyd, Jim Rodgers and Bill Taylor are scheduled to represent the Greenville club at Wednesday's New Bern meeting.

In addition to Civitan Clubs from Greenville and Grifton, representatives are expected to attend from the remaining eight clubs in the zone — Adamsville, Goldsboro, Havelock, Kinston, Morehead City, New Bern, Vanceboro and Washington.

Registration of attending Civitans and their wives and guests is set to begin at 6:30 p.m. Dinner will begin at 7 o'clock and will be followed by the zone's business session.

In addition to announcing the zone's "Civitan of the Year," the business session will select a member of the zone as a candidate for lieutenant governor of Zone 14. The meeting's nominee will be submitted to the N. C. District Convention in High Point in May when new district officers will be elected.

New officers will assume their duties on the club, zone and district levels on July 1—the beginning of the Civitan year.

Rotarians Heard Foreign Student

FARMVILLE—Guest speaker at the Rotary Club this week was Hugh Motlaugh of Iran, a graduate student at East Carolina College, who is majoring in psychology.

Dr. James Butler, Assistant Director of Foundation and Alumni Affairs, presented the foreign student.

Speaking on international relations, the Iranian, who has been away from his country for the past four years, emphasized the barriers to world peace and understanding among nations and the products, oil, tobacco, wheat and rice, on which his country's economy is based.

The Rev. Allen Lee was winner of the punctuality prize given by J. Irvin Morgan.

Other special guests were W. R. Duke, Pat Bundy, Pennell Burnette, Tommy Lang and J. T. Nolen.

The club's Boy Scout committee met afterwards with Scout leaders for a renewal of charter.

As to how the long-term growth rate of the nation is to be stepped up, the report of the council is extremely hazy. At no place is it stated that this can be accomplished only by increased government spending, but by reading between the lines this is the clear implication. And there is no question that the members of the council have no fear of an expansion of government activities and powers.

Not Welcomed By Yanks

MIAMI (AP)—The growing feud between the New York Yankees and George Weiss, long-time general manager of the club, assumed larger proportions last week when owners of the team indicated the new National League team in New York would not be welcome tenants at Yankee Stadium if their own field isn't ready for the 1962 season.

Weiss became president of New York's new National League team last week with a salary estimated at $75,000 annually. He also receives a pension and deferred salary previously earned from the Yankees estimated at $35,000 for the next five years. He was retired when the club returned Casey Stengel.

Dan Topping and Del Webb, Yankee co-owners, held a press conference Sunday.

Topping said that he and Webb waived territorial rights today in order to allow the new National League team to play in the Polo Grounds, old home of the Giants, until they got their own ball park. "Neither directly nor indirectly have they approached us about a lease at the Stadium," said Webb. "We're assuming they're not interested."

The city is building an $18,000,000 stadium in Flushing Meadows, Queens, for the new team headed by Weiss.

The Yankee owners didn't say so directly, but indicated strongly the team would not be welcome if Flushing Stadium isn't ready by April 1962 when the team begins play in the National League.

"If their new stadium isn't ready, I'd suggest they try to get the Polo Grounds first," said Webb. "I would be surprised if Weiss asked to be allowed to play in our stadium after the way he attacked the idea the past two years while he was our general manager."

Asked whether the Yankees would make an issue over Weiss accepting the New York presidency while still collecting from the Yankees, Topping said "absolutely not," and they couldn't care less.

"If there's a question of Weiss receiving payments from us while also drawing salary on his new job, that's something Commissioner Ford Frick will have to decide. We have no further interest in the matter," Topping said.

Bob Goalby Has 65 On Final Round For Win

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Before he teed off for the final round of the $20,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament, Bob Goalby remarked casually: "I have a feeling I'm going to pick up $2,800 today."

It was an optimistic statement. Although the tall, dark and handsome 30-year-old pro playing out of Crystal River, Fla., was leading at the three-quarter mark Sunday with a 196 total, nearly a dozen players were breathing down his neck from a distance of five strokes or less.

It looked a little too optimistic when Ted Kroll, who started the day one stroke behind Goalby, caught up with him on the fourth hole.

But starting on the eighth, Goalby got down to business. He birdied eight straight holes. The streak ended with a par on the 18th, and his 35-30-65 over the 6,296-yard par 36-35-71 Pasadena course gave him a four round total of 261 and victory by three strokes.

Kroll wound up in second spot with 264. Gary Player placed third with 266.

Goalby set a course record of 62 in his second round. His 261 was the lowest four round total for an official PGA co-sponsored tournament.

ACC Cagers Post 97-77 Win

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—It's a generally accepted fact in basketball that a good team which has been playing together will beat a hastily collected group of all-stars most of the time.

Nationally-ranked Duke — with an assist from N.C. State's Bob DiStefano — proved it here Saturday night. The Atlantic Coast Conference All-Stars drubbed the Southern Conference All-Stars 97-77 in a charity game the sponsoring Richmond Civitan Club says it will continue on an annual basis.

Duke Coach Vic Bubas was supposed to have a nine-man ACC club with four of his own Blue Devils — Howard Hurt, Doug Kistler, Carroll Youngkin and John Frye — on the roster.

South Carolina's Art Whisnand and Virginia's Tony Laquintano couldn't make it — but Bubas didn't need them. With his four Duke performers all scoring in double figures and DiStefano outdusting them with a 25-point spurge, the ACC all-stars won going away.

By contrast with the smooth-striking ACC offense built around the teamwork of the Blue Devil quartet, the Southern Conference presented a disorganized array of gunners and just one regular season backcourt performer, sophomore Danny Higgins of Richmond.

What Virginia Tech Coach Chuck Noe needed — besides a defense for DiStefano — was another backcourt man to set up his plays. His plans were doomed when West Virginia's Lee Patrone couldn't make the game because of illness in his family.

DiStefano manhandled the SC's two big men, Jeff Cohen of William and Mary and Chris Smith of Virginia Tech, on offense.

Behind DiStefano in ACC scoring were Hurt with 17, Youngkin with 16 and Kistler and Frye with 13 each. Clemson's Chippy Patterson had 7.

George Washington's Dick Markowitz led the SC All-Stars with 18 points, while Cohen had 14, Smith 13 and Bobby Ayersman of Virginia Tech 10. West Virginia's Jim Ritchie tallied 9. Furman's Tom Conard had 6. Higgins had 5 and Richmond's Tom Booker 2.

Yorky, Plum Cake, Black Darter and Vapor Whirl all scored the first stakes victories of their careers during the Hialeah meeting.

Mossi, Narleski Sharp In Tiger's Twinbill Sweep

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

Injury-plagued Don Mossi and Ray Narleski are reforming the relief pitching duo in the majors. The former bullpen specialists who made 82 appearances between them for pennant-winning Cleveland in 1954, then continued to toil spectacularly until traded to Detroit in 1958, picked up victories Sunday as the Tigers won a pair of exhibitions.

Mossi, who compiled a 9-8 record with a 3.47 earned run average although slowed by a sore arm in the 1960 campaign, hurled effectively for five innings and combined with Paul Foytack to six-hit Washington 14-1.

Narleski, sidelined for the entire season last year with a ruptured disc in his back, allowed three runs in his first inning before settling down for two stanzas of scoreless relief as the other half of the Tigers' squad edged Philadelphia 10-8.

In other games, St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 8-0. Kansas City blanked the Chicago White Sox 2-0. Cincinnati outlasted Milwaukee 13-10. Minnesota Twins bombed Los Angeles Dodgers 10-2. Cleveland beat San Francisco 15-9. Baltimore edged New York 7-6 and Chicago's Cubs split, defeating the Los Angeles Angels 10-8 while losing to Boston 6-3.

Charley Maxwell hit two homers and a double in Detroit's 16-hit outburst against the Senators while home runs by Larry Osborne and pinch hitter Bubba Morton in an 18-hit attack gave them their victory over the Phils. Tony Curry drove in five Philadelphia runs with three doubles. The Cards won it early, lacing

Pittsburgh starter Harvey Haddix for five first-inning runs on singles by Julian Javier, Bill White, Ken Boyer, and Stan Musial, a double by Daryl Spencer and two passed balls. Bob Gibson, Ron Kline and Lindy McDaniel blanked the world champions on seven hits — four by Bill Mazeroski.

Rookie Norm Bass started the string of shutout frames against the White Sox, pitching three-hit ball over five innings before Dick Wickersham and Dick Hall finished up. Andy Carey drove in one Kansas City run with a single. Frank Cipriani accounted for the other with a sacrifice fly.

Wally Post's third spring homer was the key shot of a six-run eighth as the Reds piled it on against the Braves after forging ahead with a seven-run second. Homers by Zorro Vazquez and Harmon Killebrew triggered the Twins' triumph over the Dodgers in a rain-shortened six-inning contest. Eight runs in the fourth inning — three on a homer by John Romano and another trio on Willie Kirkland's double — got the job done for the Indians against the Giants. Yogi Berra's throwing error allowed Gus Triandos to score with the clincher for Baltimore as the Yankees lost their eighth in nine games.

Danny Murphy's two-run homer in the ninth inning gave the Cubs their victory over the Angels, but the long ball cost them the Boston game with Jim Pagliaroni and Gary Geiger belting three-run circuit shots for the Red Sox.

More Witnesses In New Cage Scandal

By ED CORRIGAN Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Another parade of witnesses in the current college basketball scandal was scheduled to go before the district attorney's investigators today as the probe continued to widen.

"We will be questioning several players and others from various colleges under investigation," said a spokesman for the district attorney's office.

So far two Seton Hall players and one from the University of Connecticut have been accused of accepting bribes to hold down the point totals of two specific games.

The district attorney said Henry Gunter and Arthur Hicks, both 21, of Seton Hall, were paid $1,000 each for shavering their team's points in a game against Dayton in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 9.

The University of Connecticut player, so far unidentified, was paid $1,500 to hold down the score of his team in a game against Colgate, in Hamilton, N.Y., on March 1, the district attorney said.

Two accused fixers have been arrested. They are Aaron Wagman, 28, of New York, and Joseph Hacken, 41, also of New York. Both have previous gambling convictions.

Two assistant district attorneys — Alfred J. Scotti, head of the packets bureau, and Peter Andre-oli — head the investigation and apparently they want to give protection to the players questioned. They refused even to say where they would quiz today's witnesses.

This seems to be the wish of District Attorney Frank Hogan, who also handled the investigation in the 1951 scandal that involved 33 players from some of the top teams in the country.

Hogan, insiders say, felt he could have gotten more convictions in the 1951 case if there hadn't been so much publicity given to the players.

But John Nucatola, supervisor of the 600 eastern officials who work the college games, disagreed. He wanted names named, especially the schools under investigation.

"They say there are 15 or 20 schools involved," he said, "and they don't even pinpoint them geographically. Now people all over the country look at each college and ask: 'Was it this one?' and they look at each player and ask: 'Was it you?'"

Nucatola said one way to eliminate the fixers would be to stop giving out point spreads and odds on games.

"In Madison Square Garden I hear the gamblers squawk over referee's calls that an 8-year-old could have made. They squawk because the call goes against the point spread," he said. "I don't think we should service this group of people."

Beaufort Wins Class A Title Again

DURHAM (AP)—Beaufort is North Carolina's Class A high school basketball champion again. But the Seagoes were a most stilled in their drive for a third straight title by the sensational shooting of Boonville's Jay Martin.

Martin scored 36 points in Saturday night's finals to run his total to 101 for three tournament games.

In the last quarter, however, Beaufort's Hassell boys — Ray, Pud and Johnny — sparked a winning surge. Ray finished with 25 points and Pud had 22. Johnny scored just four points, but it was his goal that shot Beaufort ahead and sealed the verdict.

At one stage, Martin scored 14 straight points for Boonville, which was looking for its first state title.

Gary Martin scored 25 points to lead Red Oak to a 61-58 overtime victory over Colfax in the consolation game.

The two Martins, Jay of Boonville and Gary of Red Oak, and Pud Hassell of Beaufort were unanimous choices for the all-tournament team. Others on the 10-man squad were Ray Hassell of Beaufort, Pud's brother, Ray Respass of Pantego, Roger Reger and Walter Faulkner, both of Red Oak, Henry Arthur of North Brook, James Whitmire of Rosman, and Wayne Marshall of Colfax.

A cold snap and weekend rains put the damper on stock car racing in the Carolinas.

Two Sunday races — a 100-mile Grand National at Hillsboro and the Hickory Speedway's 1961 opener — were postponed. The Hillsboro event was reset for April 30, and the Hickory event is now scheduled for next Sunday.

The Detroit Red Wings have suffered only one losing hockey season at home in the last 12 years. In 1958-59 they won only 13 of 35 home games.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.
In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.
Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"
The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.
This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation #9.

BULLETIN:

Weird electron "pictures" help Shell scientists develop improved TCP for today's Super Shell —to give your car top performance

Read how electron diffraction revealed the inner secrets of the combustion deposits in your car's engine. How new, improved TCP was developed to neutralize these deposits, prolong spark-plug life, increase mileage—and release up to 15% more power.
Here's the full story of today's Super Shell—and the nine ingredients that give your car top performance.

The result is a super-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.
NOTE: "Cat-cracking" refers to the use of a catalyst—a chemical substance that can alter molecules without changing itself.
#3 is Alkylate, noted for knock control in hot engines
Jimmy Doolittle helped pioneer this high-octane ingredient for Shell aviation fuel.
Alkylate—which took the dream of 100-octane gasoline out of the lab and put it into the skies—is now in Super Shell. It controls knocking in hot engines at high speeds far better than anything else available.
NOTE: Speaking of high speeds, car engines frequently turn even faster than the engines of a DC-7. Think of this next time you pass a car.
#4 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks
You might think that two high-octane ingredients are enough for knock-free performance. But Shell's scientists have ears like musicians.
They insist on adding a special anti-knock mix. A mix, so effective, one teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating by five points.
This mix has the tricky job of regulating combustion so that Super Shell gives each piston a firm, even push—rather than a sharp blow which would cause a knock.
#5 is Butane for quick starts on cold mornings
Butane is so eager to get going that Shell keeps it under pres-

The Farm Scene

The planting phase is the most important and the most expensive operation in the entire cotton production program.

A great deal of labor and capital is involved in getting ready to plant and the success of a cotton program depends on it. Many other important factors are inter-dependent upon planting.

Preparation of the soil, good seed, type and use of equipment, proper application, analysis and amounts of fertilizer, soil temperature, moisture conditions and depth of planting are some of the major factors directly related with planting.

All these steps are important and should be thought out and done properly if you want to start your cotton program right in 1961. All these items are discussed in detail in a pamphlet "Cotton Production in North Carolina" that is yours for the asking.

INSECT CONTROL — A new concept in cotton insect control has evolved from research studies conducted by North Carolina State College.

The new method is (1) more simple, (2) more effective and (3) more economical than previous programs. The adoption of this new program will insure the production of higher yields of cotton at lower cost and with less risk.

This insect control program is a planned program geared primarily to the control of the boll weevil and the fruiting cycle of the cotton plant. However, there are built in features which control other pests of cotton. Basically, the program is:

1. Make four applications of a recommended insecticide at five day intervals starting at the time the cotton has reached the eight leaf stage.
2. No control measures necessary during mid season unless five percent or more of squares are punctured by bollworm. If the bollworm problem is present, make one application of a recommended insecticide.

3. On July 24, resume applications at five day intervals until plants stop squaring.
4. Provide spider mite control throughout season by cultural methods of miticides.
5. Use broadcast application of all insecticides with boom-type sprayers or dusters. On dusters, use flat dust nozzles. Sprayer-booms should have cone-type nozzles spaced 20 inches apart on booms. The booms should be far enough above cotton plants so pattern will overlap before reaching plants.

Vegetable Ass'n Is Organized At Washington

WASHINGTON, N.C.—The Pamlico Quality Vegetable Association was organized here recently by farmers from Pitt and Beaufort Counties.

The expressed purpose of the new association is to "give farmers in this area an opportunity to compete on an organized basis with other areas," according to leaders in the organization. The action resulted from discussing present farming situations at three previous meetings of the vegetable advisory committee.

Washington Produce Company and C. and G. Produce Company are in joint agreement to become the marketing agencies for the association and handle vegetables for members of the association only. Anyone interested in becoming a member of the association may contact Ernest Gullifer, Pinetown; Carmer Wallace, Pinetown; or Bob Godley, Washington.

Poultry 'King' In Clay County

HAYESVILLE — Poultry was king indeed of Clay County agriculture in 1960.

County Agent R.G. Vick says that poultry and poultry products accounted for nearly $2.75 million of the county's $3.5 million in agricultural income last year.

"Dairying brought less than $300,000," says Vick, "but this was still almost twice the income from crops."

Poultry was responsible for nearly doubling agricultural income in Clay County in 1960 over 1959.

No Organics For Weed-Growers

RALEIGH — Many growers of flue-cured tobacco no longer fertilize plant beds with organic nitrogen.

"Organics such as cottonseed meal, sludge, tankage, dried blood and feather meal bring on green algae and slimy molds which favor damping off," warns Roy Bennett, Extension tobacco specialist at N. C. State College.

Bennett advises using nitrate of soda to topdress plant beds. If the plants are yellow, showing too little nitrogen, use some nitrate nitrogen (from nitrate of soda), he urges.

"Three to five pounds per 100 square yards of bed has been proven safe and sufficient to speed up plant growth," he says. "If more is needed, it's best to make two light applications seven to ten days apart, instead of one heavy application."

This year, it hasn't rained enough to wash away plant nutrients from the root zones, he says.

"Don't put too much nitrogen on the plants," he says. "An excess tends to produce plants that are too succulent or tender. They don't live well when transplanted."

Too much nitrogen (in organic fertilizers) may burn the roots of the plants, the stalks and the small leaves—resulting in loss of stand and increasing danger from damping off.

SON FOR GISELLE

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer-actress Gisele MacKenzie today is the mother of her first child, a 6-pound 7-ounce son.

The boy, born Sunday, was named MacKenzie Duffy. Miss MacKenzie, 33, is married to Bob Shuttleworth, her manager.

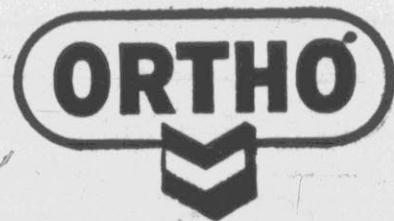

"I'VE HAD NO REPLANTING COSTS . . .

. . . and a 10 to 25 per cent increase in yield, since I've been using ISOTOX Transplanter Solution. I've been getting good stands, with no wireworm damage. These good first stands have made a higher yield worth at least $125 an acre more." Tobacco grower H. Palmer Sloan of Sanford, North Carolina, knows what he's talking about. He's been using ISOTOX Transplanter Solution for five years. ISOTOX Transplanter Solution combats wireworms and certain other soil insects by putting a protective zone around newly-set plants, allowing them to develop good root systems. This saves expensive replanting and results in earlier growth and increased yields of top-quality tobacco. ISOTOX Transplanter Solution involves no extra work. You simply mix it with the transplanting water, and it is so economical it costs less than 75¢ an acre to apply.

H. Palmer Sloan shows some of the top-quality ISOTOX-treated tobacco he has grown.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced sharply in very heavy trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.40 to 244.00 with industrials up 2.10, rails up .80 and utilities up .50. Advances of most key stocks were from fractions to a point. The averages were boosted by the breadth of the rise rather than by particularly big gains of component stocks.

Steels showed a mixed pattern. Motors advanced unambiguously but moderately.

An increase in durable goods orders was a very encouraging sign. Meanwhile, market technicians watched the rails to see whether their own advance would carry them above the June top in the Dow Jones average. The industrial section of this average was not far below an historic high.

Oils, airlines, tobacco and rubber joined in the rally. Chemicals were mostly higher despite a drop of more than 2 by DuPont. Drugs were off as they, among other products, came under federal investigation again.

If the rails rose above their June top it would be taken as a sign that they had "confirmed" the bullish trend of the industrials, according to Dow theory.

American Cyanamid jumped about 2 points. Revlon about 4. Ryan Aeronautical 2 1/2 and National Lead 3 1/2. Collins Radio lost more than 1 and Brunswick 2. Up around a point or more were General Motors, Western Union, Johns-Manville, Goodrich, Union Carbide, American Smelting and Texaco.

As the session wore on some prices slipped below their best levels.

Volume for the first two hours was 2.16 million shares compared with 2.21 Friday.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.25 to 678.73. The closing record high of 685.47 was made on Jan. 5, 1960.

The rail component of the Dow average at noon was up .94 to 145.61, just a shade below its June 10 top of 146.01 which was matched Feb. 28 but not exceeded.

Corporate bonds declined in fairly heavy dealings. U.S. government bonds were unchanged.

KIRK DOUGLAS THE INDIAN FIGHTER

Two Buildings Dedicated By Hooker Memorial Church

The church is a gate, through which the people go out to proclaim the gospel and Christianity. Dr. Riley B. Montgomery told those attending dedication services yesterday afternoon at Hooker Memorial Christian Church.

Dr. Montgomery, president of The College of the Bible in Lexington, Ky., had chosen as his topic "The House That Is a Gate." The church was not made to live for those who come, but for those who, by coming, are inspired to go out from the church and witness, "he continued.

At the morning worship service Sunday, Dr. Montgomery spoke on a related subject, "Our Living Witness." He said at that time that the congregation of any church must be the living witness for Christianity.

Approximately 350 persons attended the dedication of the two church buildings, one a fellowship hall which will be used for worship and other activities, and the other, an education building containing 13 classrooms. The site is located at 1111 Greenville Boulevard. Dedication services for the church buildings were conducted yesterday afternoon while the dedication of the people was conducted at the morning worship service.
