President Signs Bill Extending Jobless Relief Kennedy Breaks Bad Budget News; Red Ink Financing Expectable For 2 Years

President Signs Bill Extending Jobless Relief

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today signed legislation providing additional unemployment insurance payments for as much as 13 weeks for jobless workers who have exhausted their benefits. Payments now can start in 15 days.

The measure had been tagged the "No. 1 bill, for quickest action, of the Kennedy administration. It was the first specific anti-recession measure enacted by the new Congress. Legislative action was completed Wednesday.

The administration estimates the benefits may go to some three million persons and amount in all to nearly $1 billion during the two-year authorized life of the program.

Persons who exhaust their basic benefits under the state-federal unemployment insurance system during the two years starting last July 1 are eligible to benefit from the new law.

The actual total of payments under the bill will depend on the course of the national economy during the coming months—on how many long-term unemployed there are.

It provides additional payments up to one-half the duration of the original benefits. This provision sets the maximum at 13 weeks, the longest basic state program is for 26 weeks.

The unemployment compensation payments are made by the states. The federal government will, however, turn over to the states the money needed for extended payments.

With the aim of getting the money back for the U. S. Treasury, the bill provides for a special 4 of one per cent increase in the payroll tax paid by employers. This will be effective on wages paid during the two years starting next Jan. 1.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy broke the bad budget news to Congress today—two years of red ink financing for an apparent combined deficit of $5 billion, sending the national debt to new records.

In a special budget message, Kennedy discarded as "over-optimistic" the January estimates of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who forecast a slim $80 million surplus this year and a $1.5 surplus in fiscal 1962, starting July 1.

There is no surplus in the inherited Eisenhower budget for 1961, Kennedy advised Congress. It is "over $2 billion" out of balance, he said. The actual estimate is $2.2 billion. It means the debt limit must be raised again, the President said.

The surplus heralded for fiscal 1962 has become a $1.8 billion deficit on the civilian side alone, Kennedy announced. He said the Eisenhower administration, which never admitted there was a recession, based its revenue estimate on "a much rosier economy."

Officials said Kennedy's military program, plus revised estimates of the cost of defense programs, will send the total 1962 deficit beyond $3 billion and swell the public debt by mid-1962 to a record of about $290 billion.

Nowhere in this message was there the slightest indication of a possible temporary tax cut to offset the business slump.

As Eisenhower had done, Kennedy asked a $843 million postal rate increase to eliminate the Post Office deficit.

The President's defense program is due to reach Congress next week. Today's 6,000-word message dealt only with civilian matters. Many paragraphs were devoted to documenting Kennedy's pledge—made in his State of the Union message—that his program would not unbalance the budget "of and by themselves."

But the totals didn't mean much with the military proposals still to be heard.

Administration men explained the two-part budget message in this way: Kennedy wanted to show Congress and the country that his civilian programs were not budget-busters, that he has real respect for prudent budgeting. But defense needs get overriding priority, and national security programs won't be cut to fit budget ceilings—as many Democrats claimed was done in the Eisenhower administration.

The biggest increases from Eisenhower's budget asked by Kennedy were these: Agriculture Department, $478 million more; Commerce Department, $48 million; aid to education, $50 million; aid to children of the jobless, $215 million; temporary jobless pay, $440 million; space projects, $85 million.

Today's message was so skimpy on details that newsmen had to draw on other sources—administration aides and Democratic leaders in Congress—to discover many of the fiscal facts which the message itself merely implied.

Congress therefore got no explicit statement from the White House on the actual estimated 1962 deficit, on the new estimates of 1961 income and outgo, on the actual appropriation requests (as distinguished from planned spending), or on the outlook for the federal debt. However, the figures were clearly implied and provided on a non-attribution basis by responsible officials.

Kennedy announced the federal debt "will exceed $285 billion on June 30." That is the date on which the present temporary ceiling of $293-billion reverts to the permanent ceiling level of $285 billion.

As Eisenhower did annually, Kennedy asked for another debt ceiling increase before June 30. The specific request, he said, will be delayed until May.

From administration officials who met newsmen at a not-for-quotation White House briefing it was learned that the debt will reach about $287 billion by June 30, the fiscal year-end.

That exceeds the record mid-year debt level reached in 1960, $286 billion. In mid-1962 still another record will be set; the debt by then will stand at about $290 billion.

The same sources provided this new breakdown of fiscal 1961 income and outgo, not disclosed in the message: spending, $80.7 billion; receipts, $78.5 billion. That compared with Eisenhower's January estimates of $79 billion and $79 billion respectively.

Parachuted

GHEAT, N.Y. (AP)—Lts. Wendell W. Smiley of Greenville, N.C., and James N. Knoblauch of Cheney, Kans., parachuted to safety Thursday when a T-33 jet crashed near here.

The men, who said they were on a training mission, walked to a nearby farmhouse and called for help. The plane was based at Westover AFB, Mass., and the fliers assigned to the 76th Fighter Interceptor Squadron.

The plane was flying at 30,000 feet, the men said, when the engine died and they were unable to restart it. They said the jet had sufficient fuel.

$175.5 Million Headache Builds Up In Assembly

RALEIGH (AP)—A budget headache totaling about $175.5 million has built up for the legislature in four weeks of budget hearings.

The committee has been asked to approve this much above the amount recommended in the state budget for the next biennium.

The latest requests, totaling $3.4 million, came Thursday from the State Board of Health, Department of Conservation and Development, the Water Resources Department, and Supreme and Superior courts.

U.S. Preparing For Intervention In Laos While Awaiting Soviet Reply

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy looked hopefully to Soviet Premier Khrushchev today to call a halt to the Soviet-backed rebel offensive in Laos and avert mounting danger of a U.S.-Soviet military showdown in Southeast Asia.

But behind-the-scenes preparations were reported continuing here and at far-flung U.S. military bases for greater intervention on the side of the pro-Western Laotian government if hopes for a negotiated settlement collapse in the next few days.

The United States has obligations under the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) to deal with aggression in Laos. Kennedy told a news conference Thursday night "and no one should doubt our resolution on this point."

Kennedy expressed confidence that the country would back his decisions, made in concert with the SEATO allies, to act if necessary. He declared "every American will want his country to honor its obligations to the point that freedom and security of the free world and ourselves may be achieved."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is flying to Bangkok, Thailand, today for a crucial meeting of SEATO foreign ministers at which allied plans for forceful action are expected to be developed.

Kennedy declared a three-point U.S. policy on the Laotian crisis, softly phrased warning that Soviet-backed military attacks "must end if peace is to be achieved in Southeast Asia."

Laos Gov't Says Six Red Battalions Crossed Border

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The government charged today six new battalions of troops from Communist North Viet Nam have attacked across the border into Laos. The United States sent 15 helicopters to help Laotian government forces.

Three battalions are assaulting Kam Keut, 40 miles north of Thakhek in southeast Laos, a government spokesman said.

The pro-Western government reportedly has charged North Vietnamese troops were taking part in the fighting but never offered conclusive proof. On Jan. 29, Cabinet Minister Nhouy Abhay admitted government charges of North Vietnamese intervention were partly propaganda-inspired by a "fear that we could be invaded one day in force."

Western military observers agree, however, on the validity of government charges that Vietnamese technicians, artillerymen and combat specialists are supporting the Pathet Lao rebel movement much in the same manner the United States is backing the royal army.

The U.S. Embassy announced today 15 helicopters from the U.S. 7th Fleet have arrived in Thailand en route to the U.S. mission supporting the beleaguered government army commanded by Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

The delivery, which brings the number of American-operated helicopters here to 20, is expected hourly at bases in southern Laos. The decision to quadruple the helicopter strength coincided with President Kennedy's statement on American aims in Laos.

Knows 'No Other Way' To Pay Cost

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford declared Thursday night "I honestly know of no other way" to finance his $106 million school improvement program except a revenue plan which includes a tax on food.

In a "report to the people," Sanford said "No one is going to go hungry because of this tax. But the children of North Carolina will go hungry for quality education if we do not enact this program for better schools."

His address was delivered over a statewide network of television stations.

Sanford said "I am not proposing a program for taxpayers or anyone else, which does not entail sacrifices. Sacrifices beyond taxes will be required of us all. And by all, I mean citizens, teachers, parents and children, too."

The governor proposed to the legislature March 6 a tax hike on whisky and removal of sales tax exemptions to finance his huge school improvement program.

This would place a tax on food and medicine.

Sixth Candidate For City Council

J. T. Williams yesterday afternoon filed as a candidate for City Council in the May 2 election.

Williams, who is in the plumbing and trailer home businesses, is making his first try for public office.

The candidate brings to six the number of persons who have announced for the City Council race. Only one of the present councilmen, Dr. M. W. Aldridge, has announced that he would seek reelection.

The other candidates would be newcomers to the City Council. They are: H. H. Duncan, Richard Powell, James W. Lee and Dr. Ralph Brimley.

A present member of the council, Charles M. King, has filed as a candidate for mayor. He opposes Mayor S. Eugene West who will be seeking re-election.

Bill Aimed At Single Shot Vote

RALEIGH (AP)—A bill aimed at halting the practice of "single shot" voting was introduced in the House today.

Rep. Stedman H. Hines of Guilford introduced the bill which would amend a law already on the books that applies only to primary elections in 21 counties. Hines' bill would make the act apply statewide to both primaries and general elections.

Single shot voting comes in when several persons are to be elected to a board—such as a city council. A group of voters might decide to vote for only one candidate instead of the full number of positions to be filled.

The bill provides that a ballot would not be counted if the voter marked his ballot for fewer candidates than the number of posts to be filled.

Rep. John McLaughlin of Iredell introduced a bill to extend to weight station operators the sick leave benefits and $40 monthly subsistence allowance provided for certain Highway Patrol members. The bill also would give the subsistence allowance to the director and assistant director of the license and theft enforcement division of the Motor Vehicles Department, and to inspectors in that division.

General Support For Laos Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's statement on seeking a peaceful solution to the Laos crisis has drawn bipartisan support from Senate leaders.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Democratic leader, said Kennedy indicated quite clearly in his news conference statement that the "situation which confronts us and our friends in Laos is extremely delicate, very grave and potentially dangerous. I am sure the American people will support the President in his efforts to reach an honorable settlement of the highly explosive situation."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican leader, said Kennedy gave "a good factual explanation of the situation in terms of opposing forces, leadership difficulties and aggression with outside direction."

Monday Starts Grifton Filing

GRIFTON—Filing time for candidates for public office in Grifton will open at 9 a.m. Monday, it was announced today.

Posts open for election this year include the mayorship, judgeship and offices of two commissioners. At the present time, W. A. Gaskins is mayor and J. A. Rogers is judge of Recorder's Court. The commissioners' posts of Paul Whitley and W. D. Casey are open for election.

Two-Thirds Of Major Industrial Areas Feel Unemployment

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today that a record two-thirds of all the major industrial areas in the nation are now experiencing substantial unemployment.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said 25 more such areas have been added to the list of labor markets in which 6 per cent of the local work force is without jobs.

The additions include such large centers as Chicago, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, San Francisco-Oakland, Seattle, Syracuse, New Orleans, Miami and Boston.

At the same time the Labor Department's latest survey of job conditions in 150 major industrial areas showed that employers expect a hiring pickup from now to mid-May. The rise was forecast to be largely seasonal but to produce gains somewhat larger than in the corresponding months of the 1958 recession.

This was the one bright spot in the otherwise gloomy spring outlook. Employers in 9 out of 10 of the areas expect at least some job gains between March and May.

Seeks Stiffer Penalty For Prison Smuggling

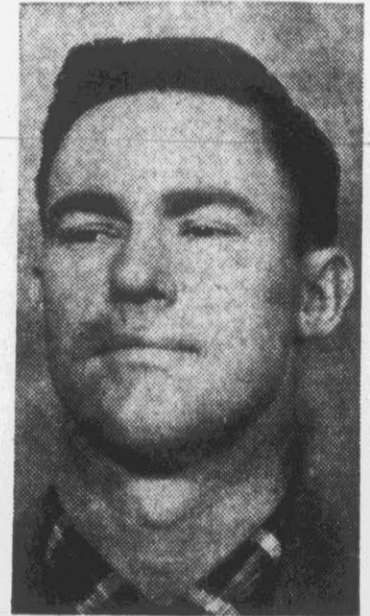

RALEIGH (AP)—Legislation to stiffen the punishment of persons who attempt to smuggle weapons, intoxicants or drugs into prisons was introduced in the Senate today.

Sen. Sam J. Burrow of Randolph, who sent up the bill, said it was requested by the Prisons Department and resulted from a recent incident in which a prisoner's sister was accused of smuggling a pistol into Central Prison here.

Burrow said that after Mrs. Marjorie Warren of Atlanta was arrested, officers found out that the most she could be charged with is a misdemeanor, which carries a maximum of two years in prison.

Burrow was joined by Sens. Luther Hamilton of Carteret and N. Elton Aydt of Pasquotank in sponsoring the bill which would make the offense a felony, punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

The bill would make it a felony to furnish inmates of any charitable or penal institution, weapons, intoxicants, narcotics, barbiturate or stimulant drugs.

J. T. WILLIAMS

Holiness Church. Williams has taught the Adult Bible Class for approximately seven years. He is chairman of the church's fund-raising campaign to finance a new church building. He is also a member of the church's building committee.

Williams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Williams of Greenville. He is married to the former Virginia Speight and the couple has two boys. They live at 1801 Fairview Way in Englewood.

'South Pacific' Held Over One Day: Cast Plays To Overflow Audience

With an estimated 1,000 people turned away from the box office last night, the East Carolina College production of "South Pacific" will go on stage for an additional performance Saturday.

College officials announced today the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical will be held over an extra day since McGinnis Auditorium's 763 seats have been insufficient to seat would-be theatergoers who have been turned away at the door.

The ECC administration said tickets will be held for the college's students until 4 p.m. Saturday. After that hour, the tickets will be available to townspeople and others desiring to view the 23-scene musical's final performance. Tickets will go on sale at the McGinnis box office at 6 p.m.

Crowds that have flocked to McGinnis Auditorium since the show's opening performance Tuesday indicate "South Pacific" is the most outstanding in an eight-year musical series staged by East Carolina each spring since 1952. Last night's performance, as on the previous two nights, saw a capacity audience with at least 100 persons standing throughout the entire performance.

Officials reported today persons desiring to see the show have telephoned the college from points as far distant as Maryland, Georgia, Asheville and Connecticut. Sponsored by the ECC Student Government Association, the show was cast and produced by East Carolina students and personnel. A special telephone call to New York last night cleared the way—royalty-wise—for Saturday's extra staging of the musical made famous on Broadway.

Johl Has Leading Role
Peter R. Johl of Trails Corner, Groton, Conn., is participating actively during the present school year in both musical and dramatic events at East Carolina College, where he is enrolled as a student in the department of music. Johl played the leading role of Bob, a fascinating tramp, when the Menotti opera was staged at the college January 20 by the East Carolina Opera Theatre, organization of student singers sponsored by the department of music.

Last December Johl had the leading role of Thomas Mendip in Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not For Burning," produced by the East Carolina Playhouse, college dramatic club. He also appeared as soloist in the annual pre-Christmas performance at East Carolina College of Handel's "The Messiah."

Before entering East Carolina College last fall, the student actor-musician received training in the American Theatre Wing and the Juilliard School of Music.

From 1954 to 1959 he played more than a dozen roles in musical comedy stock companies in Hyannis, Mass., Cleveland, Kansas City, Toronto, and North Tonawanda, N. Y. In 1959-1960 he toured with the Grass Roots Opera Company.

He has had experience as stage manager in productions at Syracuse and Rochester, N. Y., and elsewhere, and is a member of Actors' Equity Association and Screen Actors' Guild.

At East Carolina College Johl is studying voice under Dan E. Vornholt of the department of music. He plans to teach music after his graduation.

Johl is the son of the late Col. and Mrs. Max G. Johl of Trails Corner, Groton, Conn.

To Speak At "Y" Hut
Rev. Kenneth K. Marshall, minister of Universalist churches in Duplin and Lenoir Counties, will speak to the new Greenville Unitarian Universalist Fellowship at the "Y" Hut on the East Carolina College Campus at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The subject will be "The Task of Today's Religious Liberals in the Face of Authoritarianism." Visitors are welcome.

Morey Amsterdam To Be At Festival

WILMINGTON — Morey Amsterdam—comedian, actor, song-writer, gag writer and author—will be master of ceremonies for the coronation pageants at the 1961 North Carolina Azalea Festival in Wilmington.

Morey will be featured at both the Friday and Saturday evening pageants on April 7 and 8. The Festival emce was born in Chicago and his family moved to San Francisco when he was 4 boy. He attended school in California and studied at the University of California.

He has appeared in top night clubs and theaters in the United States and Europe and goes to England twice a year for TV appearances.

In addition to his acting career, he has written hit songs ("Why O Why Did I Ever Leave Wyoming?") and a book ("Keep Laughing").

His gag writing assignments have included material for such stars as Will Rogers, Bob Benchly, Fannie Brice, Frank Morgan, Jack Benny, Bob Hope and Milton Berle.

Morey is a veteran TV performer. He first appeared on TV in an experimental program in 1939 and his many appearances since then have included featured parts on "Gunsmoke," "Have Gun Will Travel," "December Bride" and "O. Henry Playhouse."

He is billed as the most frequent guest on the Garry Moore show and has been a frequent guest on the Jack Paar, Perry Como and Ed Sullivan shows.

This June he will start filming a new TV series which will co-star Morey and Dick Van Dyke. The show, produced by Danny Thomas, is tentatively called "Two Loves Have I."

Morey will be accompanied to Wilmington by his wife Kay. She is a former New York model and now is an interior decorator.

Azaleas To Be In Full Bloom
A magnificent display of azaleas throughout coastal Southeastern North Carolina is expected Easter weekend.

"Already the flowers are beginning to bloom and by next weekend they should reach a peak," said Alex Bogie, manager of Orton Plantation.

Bogie, a veteran of more than 25 years of flower growing, anticipates one of the best displays of azaleas ever. "The conditions are just right for an excellent show of azaleas," he said.

At Greenfield Lake in Wilmington, azalea buds are already beginning to burst open along the five miles of lake shore drive. At Orton, site of one of the most colorful flower displays in the nation, the blooming of the azaleas will climax an exciting show of spring flowers.

"Once the azaleas reach full bloom, we will have a peak display for three weeks or more," Bogie pointed out that in the past, some of the azaleas have bloomed before others. "But this year it looks as if the azaleas are all going to pop out about the same time," he said. "For this reason I expect one of the finest displays in 25 years."

During the past week the pansies and daffodils have been a riot of color. The white flowering peach is in full bloom, and the pink peach is beginning to blossom.

The sweet smell of yellow jasmine has turned Orton Plantation into a virtual garden of perfume. "The jasmine is always popular with visitors because of its perfume-like smell," Bogie said.

Throughout Southeastern North Carolina there is still a colorful display of camellias. They began blooming about two weeks ago.

"This time last winter we still had snow on the ground," Bogie recalled. "But this winter has been nothing like the one we had last year. This has been a very good winter for the flowers because the coldest weather came at a time when everything was dormant."

He explained that there had been just enough cool weather this spring to prevent premature blooming of some of the flowers. "I can't recall a time when conditions were more favorable for an excellent display of azaleas than this coming weekend," he concluded.

Party Honors Bridal Couple

Mrs. David Parker entertained Monday night honoring Miss Peggy Brady and John Barwick, whose marriage will take place on Sunday afternoon in the Grifton

Methodist Church at four o'clock. In the hall yellow daffodils and other spring flowers were used for decorations. The mantel in the living room held an arrangement of white pom poms and white candles in silver candelabra.

The guests' table was marked with a miniature bride and groom and tallies for the guests were of the bridal motif. Eight tables were in play during the evening. As guests arrived they were presented to the guests of honor. Miss Brady wore for the occasion an embroidered-cotton satin in dusty pink and a corsage of white carnations, a gift from the hostess.

At the refreshment hour, Mrs. Parker was assisted by Mrs. Ray Powell and Mrs. Sam Barwick, mother of the bridegroom-elect, in serving ice cream, bridal squares, salted nuts and coffee.

During the games Mrs. Mark Phillips and Dr. W. E. Rasberry were high scorers, and were presented gifts, as were Mrs. Kenneth Talton and Mr. Phillips for consolation. The gift to the honorees was crystal in their chosen pattern.

Making up the tables were Miss Brady, Mr. Barwick, Dr. and Mrs. Rasberry, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Talton, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Don Casey, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Paget, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John Glenn, Mrs. Richard Whitt, Mrs. W. ### Feted On Birthday

Susan Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Braxton Bowen, was feted on the occasion of her eighth birthday when her parents entertained Thursday afternoon at the Bowen home on Charlotte Street.

After a period of games, refreshments were served from card tables which were centered with Easter rabbits arranged in nests of green with colored jelly beans. Hamburgers with iced drinks were served and later the birthday cake, which was decorated in pink with eight lighted candles, was cut and served with ice cream at the dessert hour.

Each guest was given as a favor a plastic candy-filled Easter bunny. Guests for the party were Angella Thaxton, Beth Gnagey, Olivia Reeves, Laura Kilpatrick, Debbie Branscome, Debbie Leonard, Helen Skelton, Carolyn Hudson, Dianne January, Jo Ann Paul and Jimmie Bowen, young brother of the guest of honor.

Buffet Supper

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Spellman were hosts on Saturday night at a buffet supper and bridge party at their home in Pine Villa.

Spring flowers decorated the home for the occasion and on arrival a ham supper was served buffet style.

During the play period after supper, Mrs. Wayne Branscome and Mr. Richard Cavanaugh were high scorers and received the awards. Other players were Mrs. Cavanaugh, Mr. Branscome, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. George Dedrick, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Gay Gnagey.

Entertains Dance Pupils

Chuck Shearon entertained informally on Saturday at noon in the first of a series of parties in which he is entertaining members of his dance classes. The youngsters were received at 1 o'clock at his home on Dawson Road and were served hot dogs and iced drinks after a brief play period.

Diced fresh cranberries added to muffin or hot bread mixtures provide tasty variations to the regular bread offerings.

Reviews And Reflections

By JIM POINDEXTER

No sooner is the New English Bible out than there is a hassle over it.

In fact, trouble began brewing some time ago, and it's not about the quality of the translation either.

Instead, it's a controversy about who has the right to sell and print the work, Oxford and Cambridge Presses claim that they do, since they paid for the translating. However, Eyre and Spottiswoode, another publishing firm, insists that as the "Queen's printer" it has a traditional right to publish any "authorized" Bible.

The courts will probably have to settle this point, but Oxford and Cambridge are standing firm with the claim that nobody has authorized the new Bible as the official version for any purpose. Presumably Parliament and the Queen would have to do that.

Shakespeare On TV

As competition for horse opera, several American TV stations have been running, of all things, serialized Shakespeare. Called "Age of Kings," this British-made serial consists of the historical plays which cover the reigns of Richard II, Henry IV, V, and VI, and Richard III.

The series has run for some four months in New York and Washington in weekly one-hour installments to an audience of more than 500 thousand.

We'd very much like to see a local station try it. The sponsor up North has been Standard Oil.

Ugly Americans

Several weeks ago, the New York Times, in commenting upon the make-up of President Kennedy's Peace Corp, had this to say: "There will be no 'ugly Americans' among them, nor will they come like Communist agents by stealth and subterfuge."

We will certainly agree that there is nothing stealthy about the Corps thus far, but let's hope that the Times is wrong on the point of beauty.

After all, the "ugly American" in the novel by that name was the only character among our chaps in the foreign country where he was stationed who got anything at all useful done.

Book Salesmen?

Recently Neil J. Smelser, a sociologist, has come out with a new theory concerning book distribution. It involves what he calls "book leaders" and "chain of recommendations" and may be simply explained as the belief that books are sold because influential people advise their friends to read them and not mainly because they are nationally advertised.

According to Dr. Smelser, "book leaders" are "probably gregarious, highly educated women" who are active in many clubs and organizations. He thinks publishers' representatives should call upon such women and try to get them interested in their products.

Therefore, if at a cocktail party the most dynamic lady there subtly suggests that all the guests should read a certain item, everyone should beware. She might be merely huckstering.

Devoting Efforts To Middle East Church

On March 25, members of the Seventh-day Adventist church in Greenville and elsewhere will concentrate their giving in an endeavor to take the gospel back where it started — Jerusalem. Special study has been given the needs of the Middle East during the last three months, and as a result, funds will go to help build an Adventist church in the ancient city.

Also scheduled to receive a portion of the day's special offering will be the church's orphanage in Cairo. Twenty-seven orphans are being cared for at the present time. There are many more who need such a Christian home, but facilities will not permit. Consequently expansion plans are on the drawing board, reports W. H. Waters, superintendent of the Adventist Sabbath School here.

Another portion of Saturday's special offering will provide industrial equipment for the denomination's Middle East College in Beirut, Lebanon. Supt. Waters pointed out that the majority of the students at the college meet their educational expenses through work supplied by the college. Present work possibilities include the farm, college store, and woodworking shop.

Experience for students in industries like this, the superintendent explained, is in keeping with the denomination's belief that a balanced education must include the mind, the heart (or spirit), and the hand.

Nine Pupils On Principal's List

AYDEN — Principal of Ayden High School E. F. Johnson today announced nine students were included on the Principal's List for the fourth marking period. No students were included on the Honor Roll.

The Principal's List consisted of Ted Noris, Connie Coward and Vickie Hardee, seniors; Barbara York, junior; Laura Worthington, Denny Eichorn and Floyd Wiggins, sophomores; and Lorena Moseley and Nina Jane McLawn, freshmen.

Requirements for the list are A on half or more of the subjects with no less than B on any subject and honor or satisfactory on conduct.

SCOUT NOTES

A "Water Safety Training Session" for scouts and explorers who will serve as instructors in the schools during April and May is scheduled for Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in Greenville Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The regular Pitt Scout District Committee meeting will be held Monday at 7:45 p.m. in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The Pitt District Committee has decided to present an award to the best pack, best troop and best explorer post in the district during 1961.

The committee has established a rating chart that will be printed and circulated every three months.

NCEA Urged Give Support To Sanford's Education Program

ASHEVILLE (AP)—The North Carolina Education Association was told Thursday night that Gov. Sanford cannot carry the burden of pushing his $106 million education program to enactment alone. Dr. Charles F. Carroll of Raleigh, state superintendent of education, told the North Carolina Education Association, "He (Sanford) is very definitely confronted with opposition and obstacles (and) x x x if we, through inertia or indifference, hold back and fail to give the governor the best support . . . we and not the governor will have to bear the onus of any failure or defeat."

Dr. Carroll spoke at the opening session of the 77th annual North Carolina Education Association Convention here. Two general sessions are scheduled today and tonight and Lt. Gov. H. Cloyd Philpott will speak at tonight's meeting. The proposed $106 million education improvement program.

Red Oak Christian Announcements

Palm Sunday services will begin with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Flowers will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Leon Singleton and Mrs. Earline Coghill and Gwynn Coghill.

At the morning worship service the Rev. Howard James will preach on "What We Believe About Baptism." The Sanctuary Choir anthem will be "Blessed Is The King" by Peterson.

A service of Christian Baptism will be held at 7 p.m. Sunday night in the Sanctuary.

Sanctuary Choir rehearsal will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. A reception honoring all new members who have come in since July, 1960, will be held Thursday, March 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the Red Oak Community Building. R. E. Squires, chairman of the Membership and Evangelism Committee, which sponsors the event, urges the total membership of Red Oak Christian Church to be present to welcome the new members and to attend the Candlelight Communion in the Sanctuary at 8 p.m. following the reception.

An Easter Sunrise Service is being planned for 5:45 a.m. on April 2. The public is cordially invited to attend.

There are 1,755 English language daily newspapers in the United States with a combined circulation of 58,299,723.

Dr. Carroll said, "must be accompanied by a determination on our part that the children of North Carolina are going to be better educated as a result of this financial investment."

Dr. Carroll explained that some members of the General Assembly, although genuinely sympathetic to Sanford's program, want assurances that the money will be spent both profitably and productively.

Dr. Douglas M. Branch of Raleigh, general secretary-treasurer of the Baptist State Convention also spoke at Thursday's session. He said understanding needs to be taught in the field of race relations.

Americans cannot quarrel and fight in the private of their own backyard, and continue to win friends, he said. Dr. Branch added: "We cannot win others with diplomatic smiles abroad and pious statements from Washington when we scowl and frown at our domestic citizens of color."

Automation Itself Is An Industry

There are fears evident in the nation today that continued automation of industrial and business functions will seriously sap the purchasing power of individual workers and undermine the nation's economic future by creating a huge permanent pool of unemployed.

It is natural that such fears be present in an economy in which machines have taken over more and more of the jobs formerly done by people. It is also natural that such fears are heightened in a period in which general economic conditions have caused the level of unemployment to rise.

In the long run, however, the fear should not be of automation, but rather the lack of it which would prevent the United States' retaining its relative position in productive power and the accompanying standard of living among the nations of the world.

There is no question about the assertion that automation has permanently eliminated literally thousands of jobs in business and industry. Neither is there any question about the assertion that continued progress in the field of automation will eliminate thousands of jobs that today are done by individual workers.

At the same time, we should not fail to realize that automation itself is becoming an increasingly important industry in the nation's economy. As it continues to grow it will require many thousands of new workers, technicians, scientists and others of various employment classification to keep pace with demands on the industry. It will lead to the creation of other allied industries that in turn will require many employees.

It is true that automation as we know it today is changing the complexion of business and industrial operations from what they were a decade ago. But it is bringing about the change in much the same way that the industrial revolution brought about changes many decades ago. Powered machines took over many of the jobs done by men, but in turn many new jobs for men were created . . . and they were jobs which required greater skill, jobs that could turn out greater production, and therefore jobs that were worth more money to the individual workers.

A period of adjustment is required, but there is no reason to believe the vital economy of the nation cannot successfully make the adjustment. There is no reason to believe that broad new fields will not be opened up as automation takes its toll of jobs in the more conventional business and industrial operations.

Looking back over the years, few if any people would assert that the industrial revolution should have been stopped because it caused a temporary displacement of individuals from the ranks of gainfully employed. Looking to the future, there seems to be no more reason for trying to stem the tide toward automation.

Man has long since learned to adjust himself to a changing environment . . . and improve his status by doing so.

Each Request Should Be Weighed On Merit

For the most part now, legislators have behind them the official hearing of requests from state departments, agencies and institutions for funds over and above those recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission.

Now they face the task of considering the additional requests which total some $112 million above the amount initially recommended by the Commission.

There is no doubt that the members of the Joint Appropriations Committee will do a pruning job on the requests before any of them are honored. How much pruning they will do and how much in additional state expenditures they will approve remains to be seen. At the outset of their considerations, however, the committee members should resolve they will weigh each request on the basis of its individual merit.

It is the job of the appropriations committee, after all, to determine what is reasonably needed in the next biennium to carry on the work of the various departments and institutions of the state. It is the job of the committee to decide how much money is needed and how that money will be spent.

We trust the Joint Appropriations Committee will not approach the problem with the preconceived idea that it will grant approval for only so much additional money above the Budget Commission's recommendation. It should first evaluate the needs carefully and determine what will be necessary to fill those needs. It would be a mistake for the committee to decide in advance the state can need only a particular amount.

Foreign Aid In Confused State

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the name of tidiness and more mileage, President Kennedy has proposed Wednesday that all foreign aid except the military kind — which would be handled by the Defense Department — be put under one agency.

And he proposed to Congress that the administrator of this agency should report directly to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the President.

Rusk would coordinate with the economic aid the military assistance administered by the Defense Department. As an example of what Kennedy was talking about, here's what he said:

"I propose that our separate and often confusing aid programs be integrated into a single administration embracing the present Washington and field operations of:

"The International Cooperation Administration the successor to the agency which handled the Marshall Plan and all its technical assistance, Point Four and other programs; the Development Loan Fund; the food for peace program in its relations with other countries, while also recognizing its essential role in our farm economy; the local lending activities of the Export-Import Bank; the Peace Corps, recognizing its distinctive contribution beyond the area of economic development; the donation of non-agricultural surpluses from other national stockpiles of excess commodities or equipment; all other related staff and program services now provided by the Department of State as well as ICA."

Just last week the Senate approved this country's joining OECD — Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development — a 20-nation group.

Through it this country and its friends and allies can work out their own economic and trade problems while sharing in aid to the underdeveloped nations.

The United States and its European allies have been spending about $7 billion a year to help the world's needy nations, with the American share being more than half. The Communists spend about $715 million a year.

Meanwhile, there was the problem, growing through the years, of scattered control over American efforts in the foreign field.

Last February a Senate subcommittee staff report complained of the Washington "flop-up factor." The result of the growth of so-called inter-agency coordinating committees.

These committees give dozens of departments and offices a hand in making policy. The report deplored the dilution of the secretary of state's responsibilities.

No Literal Translations

Somebody has said that students of foreign language — at least those students who are required, for graduation reasons, to sample some foreign lingo — almost unanimously embark upon their studies with "the wrong attitude."

In fact, somebody else has said that students in America who study the techniques of the English language often have the same disposition toward the Mother Tongue.

But back to foreign tongues. The so-called wrong attitude has been blamed largely on the fact that students believe they may learn the nouns and verbs along with proper grammatical construction and "have it made."

An advanced student of the French language was relating his speech blunders on a recent Paris trip. "They could scarcely understand me and I positively could not understand what the average Frenchman said."

The reason, he said, was the abundant use of what are called idiomatic expressions. (One "scholar" around here has told us they are more properly called "idiotic" expressions.)

Whatever they are called, they are indeed very real to most any of the thousands of languages. This advanced French student could bear this out.

He claimed a "considerable French vocabulary" and a "rather thorough knowledge of grammatical construction" but a "quite limited reservoir of the countless idioms used by the French."

His knowledge of French, he said, served to leave him confused in conversation where the lack of it would have left him ignorant — only slightly worse, he said.

The idioms he was talking about take on peculiar meanings when translated literally. A well-known example is the French expression: "Comment allez-vous?" that means, of course,

"How are you?" Translated literally, however, the phrase means "How do you go?"

There are countless others that comprise a large percentage of French conversation.

But, don't slander the French. We've got them too. And ours are just as countless.

Take a look at these: "I've been under the weather." A foreigner may well wonder how in the world you could be anywhere else.

"The more the merrier . . . He'd just wonder, 'What in the world . . ."

And how about that one: "What in the world." He wouldn't even know enough about that to use it as an exclamation.

He'd also wonder how American people go about "making friends with him" or "building fires."

A travel tip to aspiring language connoisseurs from our French student: "Better know them idioms."

"Our idea of unbearable perfection would be living in a house that is kept slicked up for guests all the time." — Cincinnati Enquirer.

"We have arrived at some sort of new milestone when, as in Sunday's Chattanooga Times, an item about a new satellite being lost in space is relegated to four paragraphs under a small headline on page 13." — Oak Ridge (Tenn.) Oak Ridger.

"Personal income declined in February for the fourth consecutive month. However, it was still above the February, 1960 level. And unemployment is still heavy and threatens to be a chronic problem for the next 20 years."

But in the aggregate, prospects for a general upturn soon are bright.

Not For Youth Alone

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The idea of a Peace Corps is premised on the assumption that the United States has something to contribute to the lives of other peoples. Digging ditches is not precisely a very valuable contribution, nor is it of tremendous significance that an athlete comes among people who are runners because they have no vehicles to carry them.

However, there is a part of the American population that is experienced, competent and able. They have experience because they have devoted about 40 years of their lives to some particular operation; they are competent because they have been continuously retained in their field; they are still able because in our country men are not retired from their work because they are sick or feeble, or incompetent, but arbitrarily at a specific age either to satisfy a legislative dictum or to fulfill the requirements of an insurance contract.

For instance, there are thousands of men who have served in the Army, Navy, and Air Force for long periods who are required to retire by law. Usually, these are highly trained and skilled human beings. Why not put these in the Peace Corps rather than out to pasture as is done nowadays?

Many men and women are forced to retire at the ages of 62 or 65 because that is the pension fund arrangement. This group includes successful businessmen, engineers, scientists, university professors and almost every kind of person you can think of. These people have needed skills, particular abilities which no eager beaver just out of college can have because he has not lived long enough or benefited by so extensive an experience. When to the enthusiasm of youth is added the experience of age, a task has a chance of being successful.

Why not mobilize these older men and women to be a Peace Corps in countries that need experts more than they need enthusiasm? Why not send over age doctors into areas that could benefit by skilled physicians and surgeons? Why not send engineers into countries that need bridges or dams or irrigation? Why not send over age professors to teach in universities which are short of adequate faculty?

This appears to be more practical than to send teams of very young, very enthusiastic, and very inexperienced boys and girls into difficult countries where one word can do more mischief than a hundred cannons. The missionaries sent to various countries from the United States were much like the proposed Peace Corps, except that those who went into backward countries expected to spend all their lives there. They devoted themselves unstintingly and permanently to their particular tasks. There was not talk about a two year term or a three year term.

They came to stay.

Most Protestant missionaries were married; the Catholic priests and nuns, of course, were not married, but they too remained at their stations permanently, and if there is a fascination for the United States anywhere in the non-Communist world, it is due more to missionaries than to government officials and businessmen. The Peace Corps, it is to be assumed, is being mobilized to win friends for the United States. If it is to do that, its work must be useful and its personnel must be appreciated. There is a vast experience on this subject, going back to the 1830's. The remark: "The fact is that long before we became a world leader, the United States was a favorably regarded nation. It is hard to think of Saudi Arabia kicking us out of Bahrain and becoming a neutral, but that is happening now because the weak and backward countries wonder whether we are strong and forward. They have witnessed the great United States knuckling under to small countries and its knuckling under has never been regarded as a respect for the rights of mankind, but as weakness and uncertainty. No truly great country would permit Castro, for instance, to act as he has toward the United States. The result of weakness is neutralism." (Continued on page six)

Other Editors Saying A Test Of Nerve

(The Charlotte News)

The General Assembly now has a highway safety bill in the hopper giving legislators a chance to come to terms with the long, long need in North Carolina for effective law. The details of the bill are not so important as the principles which include mechanical inspection by licensed garages, scientific tests for drunken driving, and automatic suspension of licenses for extraordinary violations of speed limits.

Past history is not encouraging. As North Carolina's highway death tolls have mounted, the General Assembly has merely hidden from the figures. Weird positions have emerged — such as the argument that in effect it's no work while the country is in a 50 mile per hour compulsory vehicle inspection when fast new cars will account for others. Or that medically-endorsed tests for alcohol content in the blood are fallacious, when every legislator knows that the present system of human testimony is even more fallacious because of its subjective.

The measure introduced at Raleigh this week is based on hardheaded recommendations from the Highway Patrol and the Institute of Government. In place of state-run inspection lanes that kicked up such a political hullabaloo in the late Forties, the bill would have licensed garages. A similar system is now cutting traffic fatalities in Virginia, Pennsylvania and

New York; and with safety experts establishing beyond argument that 5 to 10 per cent of highway accidents arise from mechanical failures there's no excuse for the present lack of inspection.

Nor must sophistries stand in the way of chemical tests for drunkenness. While it's true that some hold their liquor better than others, supporters of the tests need not accept this as a reason for turning them down. Scientific tests do take the fact into account. Alcohol content found by test is not presented as evidence in itself. It is adjusted by carefully-compiled tables that take individual factors into account.

What of automatic license-suspension for speeds 15 miles an hour over posted limits? Well, in the first place a speed limit is a speed limit. If it is not to be enforced at one figure it ought to be raised to a figure at which it can be enforced. In the second place, it is clear that the "point system" now written into law isn't ridding the highways of dangerous, habitually speedy drivers. The 100 - odd drivers suspended since June, 1959 figure to one of every 25,000 drivers. Is the ratio of deadly, heavy-footed speedsters that low?

No less than the present search for a suitable tax program to rebuild North Carolina schools, the highway safety bill is a test of nerve for the General Assembly. Will it run or act?

Reedy Branch FWB Announcements Rev. Henry Melvin will bring the fourth message in the "Preaching Toward Easter" series Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church. The Palm Sunday sermon will be from the subject "This Is Your Hour" and the chancel choir will sing "The Palms."

"Face to Face" will be the pastor's subject Sunday night at the 7:30 service with the chancel choir singing with Jimmy Stocks as soloist. The Sunday School Council will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The chancel choir rehearsal will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. and the Pre-Easter Hour of Prayer for missions will be held Friday night at 7:30 under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliaries of the church. The local church will be host to the Second Union Meeting League Convention on Saturday night at 7:30 with a program based on the resurrection presented by the youth of the churches in the district.

MEETS WITH NEHRU NEW DELHI, India (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Averell Harriman talked privately with Prime Minister Nehru for more than two hours today, then told reporters he feels there is opportunity "for an even closer relationship than in the past" between Indian and the United States.

Laos Poses As Springboard For New Red Conquests

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many an American must be asking himself today, "Why should I care about Laos?"

The same question must have occurred to millions of people in other lands after President Kennedy's news conference Thursday night.

Laos, by anybody's standards, is a backward, landlocked nation of two million people. To most Americans it is 6,000 miles from nowhere.

As nations go, Laos can barely qualify as one. Most of its people are illiterate and some haven't the foggiest notion of nationalism. So why bother about it? So why should President Kennedy make it plain to the world that the United States would not idly stand by while the Communists overrun the place?

As a landlocked nation abutting Red China on its northern border, Laos is like a wedge. If the Communists can drive their wedge deep enough, the entire area is split apart.

Laos touches on four nations which are non-Communist—Cambodia, Burma, Thailand, and South Viet Nam.

A Communist Laos would provide an ideal springboard for any Red attempts to seize these nations and, ultimately, all of Southeast Asia piecemeal.

But the chain of events which the loss of Laos could entail does not stop there. The consequences are far broader—indeed, worldwide.

The fall of Southeast Asia would substantially outflank the subcontinent of India with its 400 million people, opening them to Communist blackmail on the north and east.

For the free world, vital strategic supplies—rubber, tin from Malaya, for example—would be gone.

Southeast Asia as a whole is a food surplus area even though vast sections are uninhabited. Communist control would give Red China room for expansion by its teeming millions and insure a greater food supply.

Much of the rice for other lands comes from here. This would be shut off.

By controlling Southeast Asia, the Communists would be a mere puddle jump from oil-rich Indonesia.

Further, Southeast Asia would sit like another wedge in the island chain which stretches from the Australian continent clear to Japan and which embraces the Philippines.

The process of piecemeal conquest could go on endlessly. The process would not necessarily have to be by overt action.

If the Communists could manage to seize only key areas in the chain, they would isolate the other nations that they would fall as victims of their own needs into the Soviet-China bloc.

And so, in the end, the question becomes: At what point does the United States draw a line and say the Communists can go no farther?

Obviously, just from a military standpoint, the matter of line-drawing becomes increasingly difficult as more nations fall, for the points at which the Communists can apply pressure increase.

Clearly President Kennedy believes that a line must be drawn.

Certainly, many military men, including former Army Chief of Staff Maxwell D. Taylor, have long asserted that they do not believe the Communists even contemplate a nuclear war, but think they can take over the free world bit by bit.

Many military men believe the Communist goal to be eventual isolation of the United States in a hostile world.

Now all of this does not mean that U.S. line-drawing in Laos would be simple. It could be bloody and long, ending in a stalemate precisely as the war in Korea did.

In the first place, the presence of U.S. troops along the Yalu River separating Manchuria from North Korea was a contributing factor in the Red Chinese decision to intervene in that war.

There is nothing to indicate the Chinese would be more amenable to the presence of American troops along their Laotian border.

Thus, the possibility of another clash between the United States and Red China is not too remote if this nation decides the line must be drawn now.

The United States is confronted with a hard choice from which there is seemingly no escape if it is to maintain its leadership in the free world.

President Kennedy, as his statement indicates, fully recognizes the dangers to this nation. He apparently feels that part of his job now is to make his fellow citizens recognize them.

May Be Nothing Left Of Estate

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Attorneys say there may be nothing left of the estate of novelist Theodore T. (Tom) Chamales when all the claims against it are satisfied.

Chamales' will was admitted to probate Wednesday.

Amount of the estate was not given.

Chamales, 36, was the author of "Go Naked in the World" and "Never So Few." He died in an apartment fire last year.

Bethany Church Announcements

"Christ Died For Us" is the title of the lesson for this Sunday's Sunday school session and Superintendent Bill McLawhorn invites all members to be present to study it. All persons without a regular church home are also welcome. We hope to keep our attendance high during the Spring and Summer months ahead.

The morning worship follows at 11:00. The pastor continues the series of Lenten-Easter sermons on the Saviour's last words from the cross. Sunday's sermon is "The Sixth Word: Completion" from John 19:30. Mr. Tommy Manning will be at the organ and Mrs. Clarissa May will sing "Were You There?"

Last Sunday morning the congregation voted to re-organize a League and that will begin this Sunday night at 6:15 with dinner served in the church educational building. The organizational meeting will follow at 6:35. Pastor Teasley will direct the organization. Anyone who desires to become a more effective church worker should plan to attend the League regularly. There are classes for all ages.

Morning Prayer is held daily in the Sanctuary at 9:00.

The Woman's Auxiliary is sponsoring a series of Pre-Easter services beginning Wednesday and continuing through Friday. Each service begins at 7:30 p.m. The pastor will speak on Wednesday; Mr. Roy Turnage, layman from Ayden, on Thursday; and the Reverend Walter Reynolds, former pastor of the church and now pastor of Hull Road Church at Snow Hill, on Friday. The public is invited.

Next Sunday, April 2, the congregation will return the Lenten banks which were distributed seven weeks ago. The goal for these self-denial offerings is $300.

GENEVA (AP)—The marathon three-power nuclear test ban talks are expected to carry on another week before the Soviets give any official response to the new Western plan to break the stalemate.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin so far has showed a distinct coolness to the joint U.S.-British compromise proposals but he said he would hear them out without saying an official word.

Tsarapkin was chairman of today's session—the 27th since the negotiations began 2½ years ago.

U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean has taken the initiative since resumption of the talks Monday after a three-month recess. Each day he discussed in detail another point in the program.

Western sources say it will take Dean at least eight more days to spell out the new Western proposals for a treaty banning testing of nuclear weapons.

Talking with newsmen outside the wood-paneled conference room of the Palace of Nations, Tsarapkin said he detected "a slight advance" in some aspects of the Western proposals. But he asserted that they contained "too many conditions, too many ifs."

The general belief is that the Soviet delegate is waiting for word from Moscow before taking a definite stand, leaving Premier Khrushchev room to maneuver on the Soviet position until the last minute.

"We are now in the position where we have to listen, listen to one American proposal after another," Tsarapkin said, adding he would have "nothing to say" in the conference until the Western proposals are completely unveiled.

While standing firm for writing into any treaty strict provisions for polling the ban on nuclear testing, the Western powers have made offers toward meeting previous Soviet demands.

They agreed to East-West parity in the control commission, complete partnership in testing programs for peaceful industrial purposes and seismic research and offered to scale down the number of permanent control posts on Soviet territory.

Dean made what he called a "New Frontier" offer Thursday in asking the Soviet Union to join the West in a program of harnessing nuclear power for major earth-moving projects to benefit all mankind.

The American depicted dramatic prospects of safeguarded explosions that could make deserts bloom by changing the courses of rivers, boost oil production, blast paths in mountains for highways and railway lines and create great new harbors.

Tsarapkin sat silent but afterwards told newsmen the Soviets "do not want any (nuclear) explosions at all."

"It is the Americans who want to make them," he continued. "If they do, of course, we want to look at the devices. We consider peaceful explosions something doubtful and we are not too happy to give our consent."

Mackinac Island Folks Fogged In For 3 Days

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP)—The Coast Guard watched for a break in the fog today so it could send a helicopter on a mercy mission to this isolated, weather-bound resort island.

Residents were out of bread, milk and produce and Dr. Joseph Solomon, the only physician on the island, said an elderly woman patient, Ella Chambers, 76, should be in a mainland hospital.

Fog has shrouded the island for three days.

The island — perched in the straits between Michigan's upper and lower peninsulas—has been cut off from the mainland by an early thaw. The ice bridge connecting the couple of miles of water from the island to Upper Michigan has crumbled, but there is still too much ice for boats to cross. The island's airfield is too muddy for planes to land.

A Coast Guard spokesman at Traverse City, Mich., said Lt. Cmdr. Lavine Hubert of Kalamazoo, Mich., would fly the helicopter to the island and survey the situation.

If it was felt she was needed, the icebreaker Mackinaw could be dispatched to clear a path to the mainland and take Mrs. Chambers ashore.

Dr. Solomon said Mrs. Chambers is suffering from glaucoma, an eye condition, and should be in a hospital. He said the situation was "urgent rather than an emergency" and that Mrs. Chambers was "fearful about flying" so he doubted she would be airlifted to the mainland.

Robert Doud, the island's mayor pro tem, said there are more than 600 permanent residents on the island. He said food is running low but declined to estimate how long supplies on hand will last.

Mail and other supplies have been piling up in St. Ignace, the nearest mainland city.

Supplies and mail normally are delivered across the ice by motor vehicles.

Going To Top For His Fawn

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A determined 8-year-old boy plans to write President Kennedy for help in getting his pet fawn back.

Susie, a deer who drinks soda pop and likes bacon and eggs for breakfast, was moved to the zoo Wednesday when the family couldn't get a menagerie license. Bobby Reed said he would ask the President's help in getting her back.

Helens HD Club Hears Discussion

A discussion on "Lining Up Your Figure" was presented to members of Helens Home Demonstration Club by Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, county Negro home economics agent, at their recent meeting.

Mrs. Maggie Strong was hostess for the day.

Mrs. Capehart stressed the use of good, well fitted foundation garments and correct posture, which includes sitting and standing erect. She said that by doing these things, women will be more attractive.

Mrs. Nettie Tyson, president, called the meeting to order by asking Mrs. Sudie White to lead the song of the month. Among reports given was one from Mrs. Dorothy Brooks on the workshop on remodeling furniture.

Mrs. Sarah Chapman was welcomed as a visitor for the day.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

MOM'S SO CONCERNED ABOUT POP OVER-EXERTING HIMSELF! IT'S REALLY TOUCHING!

BOWLING AGAIN! DON'T YOU KNOW YOU'RE TOO OLD FOR THAT STUFF? LIFTING THAT HEAVY BALL COULD GIVE YOU A HEART ATTACK! YOU CALL UP THE MEN AND TELL THEM TO PLAY WITHOUT YOU!

BUT COMES IT SPRING CLEANING SHE GIVES HIM ENOUGH WORK FOR THREE HEART ATTACKS!

HURRY AND BRING DOWN THE DOUBLE SPRING AND MATTRESS FROM THE ATTIC! THEN BRING UP THAT PECK FROM THE CELLAR! AFTER THAT—

Thank to GARY DRAKE, 564 W. 18th St., ALTON, ILL. 3-24

Counties Urged Unite Against Mental Illness

WILSON—Eastern North Carolina counties were urged here Wednesday to organize "quickly and strongly" to combat mental illness and to further a program to provide mental health for the area.

Bill Inspired By Identical Bids

The challenge was extended at a community mental health conference, sponsored by the N. C. Medical Society, by Dr. J. Wilbert Edgerston of Washington, D. C., consultant for the Mental Health Section of the U. S. Public Health Service.

A Wayne County native Dr. Edgerston was the principal speaker at the conference attended by some 300 leaders from eight counties in Eastern N. C.
