Do you gain any real comfort from that old cliché about dark clouds having silver linings? Who can peel a cloud to find its happy lining? But frustration has been a blessing to many men. It has driven self-centered souls to seek a new fulcrum for life. It has brought men to God... acknowledging human failure... seeking divine strength. And as they have found in the Church comfort and courage they have learned anew the spiritual meaning of defeat and victory. The One that this world crucified is King of kings. Beyond a cross and a crown of thorns our greatest aspirations await us. Copyright 1961, Keister Adv. Service, Strasburg, Va.

Frustration and Faith. THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH. Do you gain any real comfort from that old cliché about dark clouds having silver linings? All About Town With Anne Keziah

A noon wedding has been planned by Louise Cheatham and Lee Johnson. The nuptials will take place in St. Paul's Episcopal Church on June 3. Lou attended St. Mary's Junior College in Raleigh and is a graduate of the University of North Carolina with a degree in elementary education. Lee is a Duke graduate who is associated with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith in Wilson where the couple will live after their June wedding.

Former Greenville residents Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Honeycutt (Minnie and K.), who live in Melbourne, Fla., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gidley through the Easter holidays. Minnie and K. now retired, are former owners of the Greenville Floral Company, now under the management of the Gidleys.

Here last weekend for the dedication of the Hooker Memorial Christian Church were the parents of the Rev. and Mrs. H. Thomas Money. The Rev. Mr. Money's mother, Mrs. Ethel H. Money, was present as well as Mrs. Money's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Silverman, all of Louisville, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Dal Cox are visiting with their daughter and her family, Master Sgt. and Mrs. Ray Davis, who live in Ocean-side Calif. The Coxes, who flew to California, made their first Jet flight. Mrs. Davis is the former Ann Cox of Greenville.

Mrs. G. H. Pittman of Falkland will begin the first leg of a trip to Europe to visit her son and his family when she boards a plane at the Raleigh-Durham Airport. On Tuesday she will leave New York on a Jet by way of London for Sembach, Germany, where she will meet her son, Col. G. H. Pittman, who is stationed with the Air Force there. They will later go to Paris where Mrs. Pittman will meet a cousin, Mrs. Elba Cotton Wesson of Tucson, Ariz., formerly of "Cotton Dale," who will be vacationing there. Trips also have been planned to Switzerland, Spain, Italy and other countries before she returns home in June or July.

Col Pittman, a West Point graduate, has recently been promoted to the rank of Colonel. He is married and the father of two children, Teresa and George Henry III. He will have served 20 years with the Air Force in June.

As expected, last night's fourth staging of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical "South Pacific" at East Carolina College was again a complete sellout.

The elaborately produced musical show, which earned through public acclaim an additional performance tonight, won the enthusiasm of theatergoers on campus, in and around Greenville and in other areas.

The nightly rush to McGinnis Auditorium—site of the play—attested the growing popularity of the college's production. Each evening by 7:30 the auditorium's 763 seats were filled with patrons awaiting the 8 o'clock curtain time.

Tonight marks the extra and final staging of this spring's addition to the eight-year string of musical show productions. Tickets were reserved until 4 p.m. for ECC students. Thereafter, tickets remaining were to go on sale at the McGinnis box-office at 6 o'clock.

Probably the outstanding single performance in the two-act, 23-scene show is that of Peter Juhl of Groton, Conn., who handles quite professionally and effectively the acting and singing role of Frenchman Emile de Beque.

A Thursday patron remarked Juhl's treatment of "Some Enchanted Evening" was reminiscent of Ezio Pinza's "South Pacific" roles on Broadway where the show claimed its fame. Another said: "He sounds more like Pinza than Pinza did."

Other jewels in the crowning achievement in the eight-year series are the performances of Betsy Hancock of Scotland Neck as Ensign Nellie Forbush; Robert Korngay of Richlands as Seabee Luther Billis; Marilyn Singleton of Laurinburg as Bloody Mary; and Robert Christesen of Washington, D. C. as Lt. Joseph Cable.

Area theatergoers who missed the five-day stand because of limited seats were left out of a real treat.

It would be almost certain that another week of the show would play before overflow crowds nightly; however, the cast is comprised of students; the orchestra and directing personnel of students, faculty and townspeople. They have other chores to consider.

And there's the matter of financing. Director Don Hayes, who conducts a fine ECC orchestral performance, says royalties for another week would be "exorbitant." A hasty telephone call Thursday to New York was necessary to allow tonight's final performance.

Immediately after the curtain falls tonight, Hayes says, the Student Government Association—sponsor of the series—and directors of the show "will begin to deliberate about what to present next year."

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. K. B. Pace, charter member of the Athenaeum Book Club, the Cosmos Book Club was organized in October 1949.

The name Cosmos means flower of learning and with this title the club's purpose is to promote culture and learning.

The club's programs vary, with each hostess being responsible for their speaker. Needy families are helped at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Charter members of the club are Mrs. Quinn Bostic, Mrs. Robert Campbell, Mrs. W. J. Davenport Jr., Mrs. I. J. Edwards Jr., Mrs. Dale Gidley, Mrs. C. W. Howard Jr., Mrs. Sidney Johnson, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell Jr., Mrs. George Martin Jr., Mrs. E. E. Rawl Jr., Mrs. W. M. Scales Jr., Mrs. James J. Smith, Mrs. Joseph Smith Jr., and Mrs. R. E. Wase Jr.

Officers of the club are Mrs. Quinn Bostic, president; Mrs. Richard Gaylord, vice president; Mrs. George Martin Jr., secretary; Mrs. George Lautares, treasurer; and Mrs. James Smith, librarian.

Socials are given at Christmas and a Husband Party comes in the Spring which is usually a dinner party.

Cosmos Club members are Mrs. Quinn Bostic, Mrs. D. R. Calloway, Mrs. W. J. Davenport Jr., Mrs. S. W. Dunn Jr., Mrs. C. H. Edwards Jr., Mrs. I. J. Edwards Jr., Mrs. G. R. Garrett, Mrs. R. M. Aquanymphs To Present Show Couple Wed In Private Ceremony

The Aquanymphs, organization of women students at East Carolina College, will present "Journey to a Paradise Isle" Wednesday March 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium on the campus. A swimming spectacular, the show will include a romantic story, popular music, and a colorful setting.

The public is invited to attend the entertainment. There is no admission charge.

Using song titles, the Aquanymphs will guide the audience on a tour of mystic places, beginning with "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "Ball Hall," takes them past an island where they see the "Pirates." Then the tide rushes in with "Ebb Tide."

Scenery for the production was designed by Brenda K. Nunnery of Jacksonville. Jessie L. Dvinnoff of Philadelphia, Pa., is director of choreography for the show. Mavis Mitchell, advisor to the Aquanymphs, and Gay Hogan, both faculty members of the college Health and Physical Education Department, assisted the student swimmers in staging "Journey to a Paradise Isle."

Bonnie L. Curran of Oxford will be featured singer. Assisting the Aquanymphs in the production will be three swimmers from the college faculty, Ralph Steel, Dr. Robert Haubrich, and Dr. Glen Reeder.

Members of the Aquanymphs who will take part in "Journey to a Paradise Isle" are Becky Wayne of Rt. 1, New Bern; Lillian Carole Savage of Havelock; Ann Peaden of Greenville; Diane Willis of Atlantic;

Virginia Ann Green of Greenville; Edith Ann Cates of Rt. 3, Tarboro; Arlene Rhodes of Graham; Margaret Ellen Minson of Groton, Conn.; Sandra L. Snyder of Winston-Salem; and Mary Janice Edwards of Smithfield.

Mrs. Louis B. Adams, Jr.

In a private ceremony, the marriage of Miss Carol Riddle and Louis B. Adams Jr. was solemnized on Friday, March 24, 1961 at 4:30 p.m. in the Memorial Baptist Church Parlor with the Rev. Percy B. Upchurch officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Riddle and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Adams.

The bride wore a powder blue suit with matching accessories and cymbidium orchids.

Miss Carol Cassick served as maid of honor and Mr. Billy Mille served as best man.

The bride is a 1960 graduate of J. H. Rose High School and is now attending Greenville School of Commerce.

The groom is a 1956 graduate of Bailey High School in Bailey, N. C., served in the U. S. Air Force and is now attending Greenville School of Commerce.

For the honeymoon the couple left from the church to unannounced points.

WHAT MAKES ONE ROOM 'JUST ANOTHER ROOM' WHILE ANOTHER BRINGS YOU ENDLESS PRIDE?

To a Japanese, if it isn't beautiful, it isn't practical. For deeply ingrained in Japan's culture is the attitude that beauty is as urgent a human need as food, shelter and sleep. To them no corner is too small to be beautified.

Just by using color, you may have a million dollar look on a penny-wise budget. By changing the color, your room will take on an entirely new life. Try a color scheme the Japanese might choose. Their color families all share the common quality of being dark while also being rich. They use all colors that look well with combination with natural materials: wood, reed, straw, bamboo, growing plants. None would look out of place or clash outdoors in a garden. When you bring things together that are to exist together and be seen together, they must help each other.

Let the Home Furniture Store help you to make your room one even a Japanese would think beautiful.—(Adv.)

Reds Given Choice Of War Or Talk

President Kennedy, in the first major international crisis to develop during his administration, has acted to show the Soviets and the world that the United States does not intend to stand by meekly and allow areas to be swallowed up by communist forces.

In his statement on Laos, the President has made it clear that the United States will not back down from its commitments to insure the independence of that small nation in Southeast Asia. He likewise made it clear that it is the hope of the United States that the communist attacks on the Laos government will cease and a peaceful settlement can be reached at the conference table.

While the President made no threats against the Soviets, his carefully worded statement left no doubt that he would support the use of force if necessary to prevent Laos from falling into communist hands.

While few Americans like to consider the possibilities of another Korean-like war in the Far East, the position President Kennedy has taken in the present crisis should serve to show the Soviets that the new President does not intend to hand over Free World territory to communism by default. It likewise should show the Soviets that there is now in the White House a man who is willing to move offensively before an international situation deteriorates beyond the point of recovery.

The position taken by President Kennedy in this situation may be a preview of a new kind of "brinkmanship" which the new Chief of Staff of the United States is willing to practice to thwart communist aggression. The position he has taken indicates to enemies and allies alike that the United States intends to fulfill its commitments to weak nations in all parts of the world.

All things considered, this latest statement by the President, coupled with obvious military moves in the event they are needed, has lessened rather than increased the possibility of armed conflict involving American personnel. It has increased appreciably the chances of the Laotian question being settled at the conference table rather than on the battlefield. It has likewise brought about a situation in which the Soviets will have to re-evaluate the willingness of the United States to meet force with force in any area of the globe.

The President has made clear the alternatives in settling the problem in Laos. The Soviets must make the choice between the battlefield and the conference table . . . and there is good reason to believe they will choose the latter.

Some Contrast In Hodges' Talk

By LYNN NISBET

STAR—The star actor at the Citizens Association dinner here the other night was Luther Hodges, secretary of commerce and former Governor. He wasn't billed as the star. In fact his name did not appear in any advance publicity, which did play up big the appearance of Frederick R. Kappel, president of American Telephone and Telegraph Company, who made the principal address.

Hodges came to receive the Certificate of Distinguished Citizenship, awarded each year by the Citizens Association to some outstanding North Carolinian. The name of the recipient is always kept secret until the award is made at the annual dinner. Enough information had leaked out to assure a good attendance of Hodges' friends among the approximate 500 dinner guests.

CONTRAST—There was recognizable contrast in the speeches made by Kappel, who was presented as the head of the biggest corporation in the world, and by Hodges, who was presented as a member of the Kennedy cabinet. And close observers noted some contrast in the attitude of Secretary of Commerce Hodges and that of Governor Hodges. The cabinet member put more emphasis on the responsibility of government to take the lead in economic development and scientific research. The corporation president accepted for private enterprise the primary responsibility for such projects. There was agreement that cooperation between government and private business is absolutely essential to survival. The difference was in the degree or ratio of primary obligation.

PROPHETIC—Kappel did not waste much time reviewing the progress in communication and the contribution his company and its auxiliary affiliates had made. He assumed the role of a prophet rather than a historian. He predicted that within a very few years any person anywhere will be able to "tune in" and talk to almost any person anywhere else in America—and both parties to the conversation will be able to see as well as hear the party on the other end. And his vision was not limited to America or to the earth. He envisaged the conquest of outer space in the communication circuit, and pledged the resources of his gigantic corporation to aid in this conquest. He said his folks are willing to take the lead in research and development and to make their findings available to government.

MIDDLEMEN—Between the positions taken by Kappel and Hodges came two distinguished North Carolinians who bridged the gap. Governor Terry Sanford, who succeeded Hodges as chief executive, presented Kappel. Spencer Love, head man in the far flung Burlington Industries textile empire, presented the award to Secretary Hodges. What they said was of equal significance with what the main speakers said, but it lacked the news appeal. Presentation of the Citizenship award to Hodges capped the big headlines in North Carolina newspapers and radio announcements. The Kappel speech got priority treatment in newspapers outside of North Carolina. Sanford and Love were mentioned in nearly all of the news stories, but at secondary level, both in and out of the state.

DIVERSITY—One of the most interesting things about the Judiciary committees of the General Assembly is the diversity of subject matter in bills referred to them. Consider one House committee meeting which was admittedly much duller than average.

The issues discussed included the propriety, or lack of it, of mentioning in open court the fact that a defendant in an automobile accident damage suit was covered by insurance; a brief discussion of the controversy between Certified Public Accountants and just plain Public Accountants as to rights for making out tax returns, etc.; discussion of whether or not the sheriff of Guilford county should be absolved from accountability for damages done to automobiles removed from the Greensboro-High Point airport for violation of parking restrictions at the airport; and whether all licensed dentists or only members of the N.C. Dental Society should have a vote in nominating members of the dental licensing board.

All of these matters, and a great many more, must be "covered" by legislative regulations, as to committee handling. And the Judiciary committees have the dual role of responsibility for most of the highly important legislative proposals dealing with basic rights of the people and a sort of "trash box" dumping place for everything the presiding officers do not know where else to send.

SHIFTING PAGES—The policy of working shifts for pages, which has been invoked more this session than ever before, occasions frequent complaint on part of legislators and others who depend upon the pages for running errands. Just about the time the pages learn where members are seated and how to carry bills and messages, a new bunch of pages is brought in. This policy allows many more boys and girls to get the experience of serving, but it undoubtedly handicaps efficient operation of the General Assembly.

Fitting Tribute To Our Greatest Asset

The "Salute to East Carolina College" to be staged here next month under the auspices of the Greenville Jaycees and with the cooperation of other organizations, is a fitting tribute to the college and what it means to this community.

There is no getting around the fact that East Carolina College is probably the greatest asset Greenville and Pitt County have. Neither is there any doubt that many communities of North Carolina would put up literally millions of dollars to relocate East Carolina College in their respective areas if that were possible. They not only recognize what a college like East Carolina means to an area and a community, but they also look with envy upon those relatively few communities of the state which are fortunate enough to be the location of major institutions of higher learning.

The special salute to East Carolina College will serve to reiterate the awareness Greenville has of the benefit East Carolina College is to the area. It will also serve to show those directly affiliated with the college and those in other parts of the state that Greenville is proud indeed of the important service East Carolina is rendering to the state.

The histories of Greenville and East Carolina College for more than 50 years have been identified closely. What affected East Carolina for better or worse also affected Greenville, and vice versa. The future of the institution and the city are likewise bound together.

In saluting East Carolina College, Greenville is saluting the institution which has played a vital role in making the city what it is today . . . and what it will be in the tomorrows of the future.

Three Problems In Saving Laos

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has three gigantic problems in trying to save Laos—an unproductive country of 90,000 square miles and two million easy going people—from communism.

In his news conference statement on Laos Thursday night he avoided a shrill note. But two problems, the immediate ones, are danger-loaded. The third, long range and simple-looking, is just as baffling.

1. How peacefully to get the rebels, Red-led and Red-supported to stop trying to take over the country by force. Kennedy has called on Russia, which is giving supplies to the rebels, to agree to a cease-fire.

2. What if this fails? Use force, which would be mainly American force, to stop the rebels? It could be another Korea, but worse—a war with Red China or Russia, or both.

3. Suppose a showdown is averted now and Kennedy gets what he says he wants: A neutral Laos "tied to no outside power." How can it be saved from a Red-takeover eventually anyway, from inside if not outside?

Laos borders on two Communist countries: Red China and Red North Viet Nam. China stayed out of the Korean war until Gen. Douglas MacArthur took his forces close to the Red Chinese-North Korean border.

Laos has four non-Communist neighbors. It is therefore a key place in Southeast Asia. Once Laos goes, the pressure will begin on the neighbors.

Unless the Reds are stopped in Laos, they will take it as a sign of American weakness and push ahead to the next stop. But even if there is a truce and Laos becomes neutral, then what? It can't stay neutral. That's simple. The United States and the Communists will both be busy in Laos trying to influence it in one way or another. This struggle would go on for years.

Since 1954 this country has poured $314 million into Laos. But—and it's a very important but—85 per cent of that money went into the Laotian army, the police force, and financial support of the Laotian civil budget.

The army is equipped, trained, paid and even fed by this country. Laos earns only a tiny fraction of its own expenses. Its exports in 1960 totaled only $1.6 million while its national deficit was $33 million. It would need outside help even if there were no East-West contest over it.

If Laos were neutralized, neither the West nor East would permit the other to build up the country's military forces. It wouldn't need much of an army, anyway, if it were truly neutralized.

But the West and communism would compete with each other to help the Laotians in other fields and try to influence them, openly or otherwise. Thus the contest between East and West, without war would be unending.

One thing is sure: In our time real peace is unlikely in Southeast Asia. Anyone who understands communism, and has watched Red China, knows it won't stop trying to gobble not only southeast Asia but all Asia.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS HOPE OR DECLINE

The mortgage—an interesting document but for the most part a sad one. It depends, however, on whether the mortgage represents hope or failure. Many times it represents hope—in fact it does so probably in an overwhelming majority of cases. Two young people starting out want to build a home. They cannot possibly raise immediately the money necessary for the building of that home. They buy the home, therefore, subject to a mortgage and this they amortize by payments over a stated number of years. This represents hope. In all the field of investment there is nothing so profitable as the purchase of a home which the buyer himself occupies. Here we see the mortgage as a sign of hope and expectation.

But, sometimes the mortgage is a sign of failure. A person has started to slip, slip, slip, and at last a mortgage is clapped on property to try to forestall further financial slipping. This is the mortgage in its saddest aspect.

There are always two sides to every human problem, the happy side and the sad or sinister side. The mortgage ought to be—and in most cases is—a challenge, a spur, an ambition to be fulfilled. It is the symbol of hope, the growing family, the vision of better things. We need to snap to solemn attention if it is anything else.

Traffic Injuries Mount

Things just go, on getting worse as far as traffic injuries in North Carolina go. Figures released by the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles show that there were more than four times as many injuries in 1960 than in 1940.

The 1940 injuries for the state were 5,298 and in 1960 there were 26,953. Of course, there were many more miles driven last year than 20 years ago which would account for much of the increase.

However, the jump in traffic deaths has not been nearly so dramatic. In 1940 there were 991 traffic fatalities in the state while in 1960 there were 1,216. Strangely enough there were more traffic fatalities in 1941 than there were in 1960. In fact, the record for the 20 year period was set that year when 1,289 persons died on the highways.

There was a drop off in fatalities during the war years thusly: 1942, 842; 1943, 684; 1944, 658; 1945, 732. Highway deaths went right back up in 1946 to 1,028. For 1947, '48, '49, '50 fatalities stayed below 1,000. In 1951 the number went to 1,071 and deaths have stayed above 1,000 since with the exception of 1954 when they dropped to 991.

Injuries during the 20 year period hit a low point of 3,181 in 1943. From then on it was almost a steady increase reaching the figure of 12,352 in 1950; 17,875 in 1955; 19,061 in 1957; 21,412 in 1958; 24,802 in 1959 and 26,953 in 1960.

If there is anything to the power of suggestion, travelers on the "Pleasure Route" will soon be the happiest folks in the world.

As they travel this north-south route, motorists will be confronted with a smiling moon face marker adorned with the words "Pleasure Route."

Promoters hope that travelers will be so happy along this route, what with some promotion by businesses along the way, that they will tell their friends and they, too, will follow the smiling sign.

Such plans were laid out by officials from a promotion association who met with local individuals here this week. The Pleasure Route now follows U.S. 13 which, of course, passes directly on a north-south course through Pitt County.

However, promoters said they will not necessarily follow U.S. 13 from its present dead end at Goldsboro if it goes toward New Orleans as has been proposed. They say the Pleasure Route will probably go to Clinton and then follow U.S. 701 on south.

But, they pointed out, all plans so far are tentative and they are open to suggestions.

Hit At Weak Points

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The Soviet strategy is to hit at the West, spot by spot, country by country. During this year, Red China and Soviet Russia have attacked three spots, Cuba, Congo and Laos. This is a beginning. Unless American policy firms up, before the year is over, the West will be attacked in Brazil and Panama as well as in Nepal and perhaps Kashmir. It is an imperialist movement for world conquest.

The Soviet Universal State strikes wherever there is weakness. Its principal function is the eventual weakening of the United States until this country cannot afford to withstand Soviet pressure upon it. It is a brilliant strategy and thus far has been surprisingly successful. With France absorbed in the Algerian situation and weakened by it, no great Power remains on the continent of Europe to resist Soviet pressures. Great Britain, which once was a bulwark of strength, has only recently recovered from economic weakness and is not prepared to do more than support American policy wherever it can.

Great Britain is troubled considerably by its Commonwealth members of which are no longer willing to follow a foreign policy designed at 10 Downing Street. India pursues its own course; South Africa has withdrawn from the Commonwealth; Canada is beset by an irrational nationalism; Australia and New Zealand have no stomach for another war against an Oriental people. It is British policy to accommodate itself to Red China in the hope of lessening tension in Asia, but sooner or later, such countries as Afghanistan, Pakistan and India will feel the squeeze of Russian and Chinese nationalisms. Australia and New Zealand have no stomach for another war against an Oriental people. It is British policy to accommodate itself to Red China in the hope of lessening tension in Asia, but sooner or later, such countries as Afghanistan, Pakistan and India will feel the squeeze of Russian and Chinese nationalisms.

Laos is an example of what is happening—Laos rather than the Congo. This is a small area cut out of what used to be French Indo-China. This French colony is now divided into four nations: North Viet Nam, South Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia. Laos is a slice that lies between Viet Nam and Thailand and therefore it is very important because if Laos should become Communist, both Cambodia and Thailand would be in peril. It would mean that Communist power would come to the Ganges, the Irrawaddy and Burma would be in immediate danger.

The United States spent hundreds of millions of dollars to strengthen Laos, but what has been necessary since 1945, in Asia, has been to recognize reality, namely that Red China is an enemy of the United States and seeks to destroy this country in accordance with the teachings of Marxism-Leninism. The easiest way to damage the United States is completely to isolate this country, to cut off its trade, its associations with other nations.

The northern boundary of Laos is Red China, the old province of Yunnan, now called Kumin. This province contains many non-Chinese peoples, particularly aboriginal tribes which regard the Chinese as enemies. There are also Burmese peoples in this region and Khmers who are unrelated to the Chinese. In recent years, leftovers of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist armies have settled on the Burmese frontier and make forays into Yunnan. Nevertheless, the Chinese Communists have succeeded in assisting Communist armies in Laos. Some of it has been done by air-lift in direct violation of decisions of the United Nations. The theory that a way to peace can be found by admitting Red China into the United Nations is negated by their conduct in Laos where they are continuing to pursue the fundamental strategy of the Soviet Universal State which is to take over pieces of the Earth, wherever there is softness or wherever the Western powers retreat before their threats.

The strong stand that Secretary of State Dean Rusk is taking on the Laos question is therefore fully justified. One may ask why insist on Soviet Russia acting properly in Laos, while we have passed over so many incidents in other places. A stand must be made somewhere against the growth of universal Com-

Other Editors Saying More, Not Less

(The Raleigh News and Observer)

Automation, reports a Congressman who is also a member of the Steelworkers Union, will eliminate four million jobs in the next five years.

This gentleman, in a report to President Kennedy, was speaking chiefly of office and clerical workers. Undoubtedly, however, "labor saving devices" are just that. He wants a further study of the matter. It might be useful but his complaint is at least as old as that of the "loom busters" who resented the elimination of hand looms nearly two hundred years ago. Many printers were sure that the typewriter machine would end the hope of workers in the printing trades. The fact is that in both these fields jobs have multiplied.

Of course, the problems presented by automation are serious. It is also serious that many feel that America today cannot produce at costs which compete with other nations in the free world. This country has got to produce more for less if it is to maintain its leadership in business and industry. The way to that is what we now rather shame - facedly speak of as "American know-how." And in the days of our pride in that phase it meant using American ingenuity to produce more, better, cheaper. From that ingenuity, we were able to raise American living standards to the highest point in the world and in history. We are not going to keep those standards high by putting a penalty on ingenuity which is the parent of automation.

The only way we are going to have more jobs or more of anything is to produce more. Of course, there might be more jobs if we let several men do what one man with proper equipment can accomplish. That would mean less goods and higher prices. It would mean that America could not keep pace with other nations which are too effectively competing with us now.

The problem is not making things less efficiently. The problem for all is making more efficiently. Such change will cause pain to some. Public provision should be made to give them greater protections in change—and training for change, too. Any proposal, however, which would put brakes on ingenuity in getting-tasks accomplished with less human labor would be one to slow down America's progress at a time when other nations are blowing hard on the back of our necks.

Some Rambling Business Notes

By ELMER ROESSNER,

Some rambling notes by a rambling business reporter: Tenderloin steak isn't so expensive after all. I recently paid 53 cents for a four-ounce package of "Genoa salami." This happened in a supermarket where, as everybody knows, they sell for less. That figures out to $2.12 a pound. The store also had packages of bologna at only 33 cents a four-ounce package, or $1.32 a pound.

People born under the sign of Taurus must be unlucky. I have tried almost all of the crabgrass killers and still have the finest crop of crabgrass on my block.

If I were hiring someone, I'd question the candidate about jobs he had held for only one or two months, then check those employers. They might not have so much information on the applicant's abilities, but they would be much franker in giving their opinion.

THE NOTE OF HONESTY

The name of a friend of mine is frequently given as a reference because he has such a great heart. He always cites some very minor shortcoming, such as "Jones was not one of our best spellers," or "Jones was a little too aggressive in defending his own ideas in staff meetings." This made effusive praises of other points actually seem credible.

An ad in the New York Journal of Commerce read: LIQUOR COMPANY. Will represent in the state of Washington. Full time or part. Active in recent campaign. Have good connections. Resident of Olympia, the Capital.

Would a company that doesn't know the difference between "capitol" and "capital" know the difference between "whisky" and "whiskey"? John S. Thome, vice president of Sun Chemical Co., predicts industry will spend $26 billion (sic) a year on packaging by 1970. In other words, ultimate consumers will be paying $26 billion a year for packages they can't resist. One of these days some genius is going to bring back the old cracker barrel.

"BY A NOBLEMAN IN THE COUNTRY"

My favorite Worcestershire sauce, complying with the law, states on the label: "Prepared from soy, anchovies, onions, eschalots, tamarinds, garlic, vinegar, water, sugar salt, spices and flavoring."

Get that: they put in soy, anchovies, onions, eschalots, tamarinds, garlic, salt and spices—and then they flavor it!

The Japanese are now raising mink. Farms there had 34,000 animals by the end of 1960. Because 8 per cent of a mink's diet is fish or animal meat, several whaling companies have started mink farms. The animals can convert surplus whale meat into pelts. One farm reports it costs an average of $19.17 a pelt, which appears to be cheaper than United States costs.

A cute promotional gimmick to increase the sale of staples and stationery is a booklet telling how to make toys, playthings, gifts and household articles out of paper, remnants, buttons, cardboard, etc., with staplers. For a free copy, write Bostitch, 2021 Briggs Dr., East Greenwich, R. I.

Billboards may become a new medium for selling fine houses. In Winston-Salem, N.C., Jack Thrift, transferred to Atlanta, had a 24-sheet billboard put up in a good location and sold his house in 11 days. In Portland, Ore., A.L. Platten, transferred to Los Angeles, sold his house in a short time with a single billboard. His cost for layout, production and board rental was $145.

Washington Owner Must Change Player Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall has warned George Preston Marshall, owner of the all-white Washington Redskins professional football team, that he will be expected to hire Negro players if the team is to play in the new District Stadium.

Marshall countered immediately that he would be glad to discuss the matter any time.

Udall, in a letter to Marshall Friday said the football owner is in for "a moral argument with the President and the administration" — and even possible criminal prosecution — if his team practices discrimination.

Udall, himself a professional football fan, wrote Marshall after issuing a new National Park Service rule to prohibit discrimination by teams using the $20-million stadium. It is being built by the District of Columbia Army Board on land leased from the Park Service.

Marshall didn't say he would hire a Negro player before moving into the stadium in October. What he said was: "I obey the laws. If they change them I'll abide by them. I didn't know the government had the right to tell the showman how to cast the play."

"I would consider it a great honor to meet with and discuss this with the President of the United States and would be very appreciative if Mr. Udall would arrange such a meeting."

"Yes, I'd like to debate that kid. I could handle him with words. I used to be able to handle his old man (Joseph P. Kennedy, whom Marshall said he knew in Boston when the Redskins played before 1937)."

Asked if he planned to try out any Negro players for next season, Marshall said: "Our roster is closed. The draft is over."

The Redskins owner left the door slightly ajar by saying he might add players of "recognized ability."

A Negro has never played for the Redskins. But, Marshall said, "We have had a Samoan, a Hawaiian, Indians and a Cuban in the past. All the other teams we play have Negroes; does it matter which team has the Negroes?"

Udall told Marshall that the Interior Department, which will run the stadium through the Washington Army Board, is changing its regulations "to harmonize our contract policies with the general anti-discrimination policy enunciated by the President a few days ago."

Ohio State, Cincinnati Meet In Finals Tonight

By SKIPPER PATRICK
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Ohio State's fearsome Buckeyes and Cincinnati's classy Bearcats, rated the nation's No. 1 and No. 2 teams, meet in their first basketball game in 39 years tonight.

The prize will be the National Collegiate (NCAA) championship — the second straight for Ohio State if the Buckeyes win.

It will be the first time in 23 NCAA tournaments that two teams from the same state have been paired for the championship.

Ohio State is favored to win. The Ohio State-Cincinnati game will start at 10 p.m. (EST). Utah and St. Joseph's (Pa.) will meet for third place.

Coach Fred Taylor's machine-like Buckeyes warmed up for the defense of their national crown by outclassing St. Joseph's 95-65 in Friday night's semifinals before a capacity crowd of 10,700 in Municipal Auditorium.

It was the 32nd consecutive victory for Ohio State, one of the longest unbeaten streaks in collegiate basketball history.

Cincinnati had almost as easy a romp, making the Utah Redmen its 21st consecutive victim 82-67. Taylor said he knew Cincinnati has a fine team with real balance and that he will have to play our very best to beat them."

Ed Jucker, completing his first season as head coach at Cincinnati, said his team is conceding Ohio State "absolutely nothing."

Jerry Lucas, Ohio State's All-

America, played a superb game against St. Joseph's. The 6-9 junior from Middletown, Ohio, scored 29 points, making 10 of 11 field goal attempts and nine of 10 free throws. He also was the No. 1 rebounder with 13 captures.

The Buckeyes hit 33 of 60 shots for 63.3 per cent. St. Joseph's, could hit only 28.9 per cent, 22 of 76.

Cincinnati was on the warm side from the field, too. The Bearcats made 30 of 59 shots for 50.8 per cent compared to Utah's 27 of 67 for 40.3 per cent.

Both games were settled in the first half. Ohio State rolled up a 45-23 advantage the first 20 minutes with Lucas pacing the attack with 14 points.

Cincinnati cracked Utah's zone defense and led 35-20 at the intermission. Paul Houge, 6-9 junior, scored 21 points in the Bearcats' attack that had four players finishing in double figures.

Ohio State and Cincinnati have met six times before, but not since 1922. Ohio State won four of the games, Cincinnati two.

Mantle Off To Fast Start

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees has a 526 exhibition batting average, 13 hits in his last 17 trips to the plate—and a reliable crystal ball.

Mantle, who stroked a pair of doubles and two singles in a 13-6 rout of the Chicago White Sox Friday, said at the time he signed his contract: "I don't remember when I've felt better at this game. I ought to have my best year."

The American League's highest salaried player at $75,000 is proving an accurate prophet. Besides his batting mark, Mantle has hit five homers and driven in 13 runs. He has compiled a startling .765 batting average in the last four games.

The last time the 29-year-old switch-hitting outfielder had an outstanding exhibition record was in 1956, the year he went on to hit a league-leading .353 during the regular season and topped the AL in homers (52) and RBI (130). The Boston Red Sox ran their pre-season record to 9-3—the best among American League clubs—with an 8-4 triumph over Cleveland, and Pittsburgh remained on top the National League standings by beating Kansas City 8-5 for a 12-3 log.

In other games, Baltimore made Minnesota its seventh straight victim with a 5-1 night game win. St. Louis edged Milwaukee 4-3. Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 7-3, the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Detroit 3-2 in 10 innings, Washington-defeated the Dodgers' B team 5-4 in 11 innings, San Francisco outlasted the Chicago Cubs 13-12 and Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League whipped the Los Angeles Angels 9-6.

Mantle, who knocked in one run with his four hits, was ably supported by Hector Lopez, who drove in three runs, and Bobby Richardson, Deron Johnson and Roger Maris, who each accounted for two. Juan Pizarro started for the White Sox and gave up five runs in two innings.

The Red Sox scored four runs in the seventh inning to beat the Indians with Frank Malzone pacing the offensive with a homer and triple. Boston's Bill Monbouquette allowed only one run and six hits in a six-inning workout.

Kansas City's Don Larsen walked two men in the 11th, then served a homer to Smoky Burgess for the Pirates victory. Burgess also drove in two runs with a second-inning double, while Rocky Nelson contributed a homer to the Pittsburgh attack.

Gene Stephens hit two doubles to pace Baltimore's seven-hit attack against the Twins.

NIT Finals Set For Afternoon

NEW YORK (AP)—A carefree and often careless Providence College basketball team meets its opposite number, St. Louis University, today in the final of the 24th National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

In sharp contrast to the helter-skelter passing and scoring that has marked the Friars' progress to the final for the second straight year, the St. Louis Billikens handle the ball so carefully they sometimes seem hesitant to let go a shot.

The nationally televised (NBC-TV) final at 4 p.m. (EST) will be preceded by the third-place playoff between Holy Cross and Dayton, the beaten semifinalists.

St. Louis coach John Benington insists his boys aren't unduly cautious about shooting. They'll take the first good shot they see instead of waiting for a perfect opening, he says. But it has to be a good one.

But the Bills' forte is a tight, aggressive man-to-man defense that pays off in intercepted passes and makes the most of mistakes by their opponents.

Providence usually makes some mistakes. Coach Joe Mullane admits that and hopes his boys won't make too many. But the Friars run and shoot a lot and they play an unorthodox style both on offense and defense that can give any team trouble.

The presence of 6-10 Jim Hadnot at center gives Providence a height advantage up front. But so far Hadnot hasn't played a very important role in the Friar victory.

Indians Could Be Club To Challenge Yankees

By JACK STEVENSON
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Cleveland's Indians this year could be the team they hoped to be in 1960 before injuries hexed the club.

Gone is General Manager Frank Lane, the trader who exchanged managers with Detroit late in the season, and brought the veteran Jimmy Dykes in to pilot the club.

Gone also is outfielder Harvey Kuenn, the final Indian traded by Lane, who exchanged him for left-handed pitcher Johnny Antonelli and outfielder Willie Kirkland of the San Francisco Giants.

Appraising his club, Dykes declared, "We have a good front line but we need bench strength and relief pitchers."

Cleveland could be the club to challenge the New York Yankees for the American League pennant, but there can be no repetition of the injuries that shelved shortstop Woodie Held, second baseman Johnny Temple and pitcher Gary Bell among others.

Held and Temple report themselves in top shape this spring and Bell has thrown some good innings in exhibition outings.

The man with his fingers crossed in Dykes. He can virtually name his opening day batting order, but there's a big drop between his first and second lines.

Temple leads off followed by the dependable Tito Francona manning left field, Jimmy Piersall patrolling center with Kirkland in right and batting clean-up.

Held plays shortstop with Vic Power at first base and John Romano expected to catch 135 games this campaign. Bubba Phillips at third base will bat eighth.

Temple was expected to form the double play combination with Held, but admits, "We're virtually strangers. I was hurt half the season and he was hurt the other half."

Right-hander Jim Perry won 18 games as the ace of the pitching staff last season and aims for 20 this campaign. Antonelli says he's happy to be away from San Francisco, and he could come back to win 15 or 20.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant figures this to be his make or break season after a 9-8 mark a year ago and Barry Latman hopes to avoid his usual slow season start.

Weber Holding To Golf Lead

NEW ORLEANS La. (AP) — The love affair's all over, as medalist Ron Weber put it, in the Western Amateur golf tournament with the 16 survivors of a bulky field meeting today in noggin-to-noggin match play.

Weber, 21, a slim collegian from Bayside, Calif., sliced par by three strokes for a 68 Friday and a four-round total of 278, six strokes under par for the 72 holes of qualifying over the 6,505 New Orleans Country Club course.

Weber and his 15 cohorts at the start of today's two 18-hole match play rounds were the survivors of the 139-man field that opened the 59th staging of the prized Western Wednesday.

The notables missing included two-time Western winner Dr. Ed Updegrave of Tucson, Ariz., former titleholder and one-time Walker Cup team member Dale Morey, 1960 Western junior champion Labron Harris of Stillwater, Okla., and NCAA champion Dick Crawford.

Behind Weber in the fight for the tournament's medal came long-knocking Dudley Wyson of McKinney, Tex., a 282, smooth-swinging Richard Canon of San Angelo, Tex., at 283, and a stroke behind followed Mexican amateur Juan Estrada and tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio.

Weber's opponent in the first-round morning match was Carl Lohren of Silver Springs, Md., a former U. of Maryland player who had a qualifying 289.

Joel Goldstrand of Worthington, Minn., a teammate of Weber's on the NCAA championship University of Houston team, and Ed Brantly of Signal Mountain, Tenn., collected holes-in-one Friday. Goldstrand was among the 16 match players today but Brantly missed the cut by one stroke at 294.

Three South Carolina pitchers held Georgia Southern to four hits and three runs. The Gamecocks scored four in the second to wrap up the game.

Second sacker Pete Ayoub knocked out three hits in four tries to lead Clemson in its unsuccessful effort at The Citadel. Dick Jones of The Citadel blasted out a 340-foot home run in going three for five in the 12-hit attack that downed Clemson.

Indians Trip EC Golfers, 7-2

WILLIAMSBURG — The East Carolina golf team met defeat at the hands of the Southern Conference's William and Mary yesterday on the Williamsburg course, 7-2. It was the first outing for the Pirate linksters, who are the defending North State Conference Champions.

Winkie Kasey, a newcomer to the EC golf squad, was the medalist for the rainy afternoon, shooting a low 71 score for the match to account for the Pirates' only score.

In the first flight, the Indians' Mance and Ingram tied for the low score with 72 each. East Carolina's Archie Clark was close behind with a 73.

The two teams meet again on April 21st on the Greenville course. The Pirate golfers travel to nearby Wilson, N.C., on Monday afternoon for a tri-match with Atlantic Christian and Elon. This match should prove to be a hot one. Atlantic Christian has a four-point lead over the Bucs, while Elon is coached by George Tucker, who was at the helm when East Carolina won the conference crown last year.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — With 22 players bunched within seven strokes, first money in the $25,000 Sunshine Open golf tournament was anybody's prize at the event moved into the third round today.

Jay Hebert, who had a 66 to lead at the end of the first round, tied a 66 Friday for a 10-under-par total of 134 to retain his slim margin, with Julius Boros and Gay Brewer Jr., breathing down his neck, each with 135.

Bob Brue was alone at 136. Gary Player at 137 and Arnold Palmer at 138.

Brewer turned in the best round of the tournament to date Friday with 31-34-65 over the 16,632 yard par 36-36 — 72 Baysboro course. The tall young pro hit 14 greens

Meeting Called To Make Plans

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP) — President John Moss has called a meeting of the Class D Western Carolina League for Monday night to formulate plans for the circuit's second year of operation.

He said Friday the meeting probably would be in Charlotte, and as things now stand prospects are for a six-team league this summer.

At the present, Moss said, Shelby, Statesville, Salisbury, Lexington, and Newton have working agreements lined up or have prospects of lining them up. These cities, he added, appear ready for another season.

Gastonia appears the most unlikely starter for 1961 among the eight teams that competed in 1960. Also listed by Moss as possible dropouts were Hickory and Rutherford County.

Moss said as things now stand a six-team league appears most likely in 1961. He termed a High Point-Thomasville entry as a mild possibility.

Kent State Tries Carolina Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kent State of Ohio, finding Atlantic Coast Conference baseball teams rugged foes, tries its hand at North Carolina today in one of three non-conference games scheduled.

In other action, Clemson is at The Citadel and South Carolina entertains Georgia Southern.

Wake Forest whipped Kent State 8-3 Friday to sweep a three-game series with the Ohio team. In other games, South Carolina belted Georgia Southern 6-3 and The Citadel upended the ACC's Clemson, 6-4.

Boye Cox, Bob Hodges and Pat McDowell pitched a combined six-hitter to give Wake Forest its win. McDowell, who gave up all three Kent runs, doubled in three scores himself in a four-run seventh-inning rally.

Three South Carolina pitchers held Georgia Southern to four hits and three runs. The Gamecocks scored four in the second to wrap up the game.

Second sacker Pete Ayoub knocked out three hits in four tries to lead Clemson in its unsuccessful effort at The Citadel. Dick Jones of The Citadel blasted out a 340-foot home run in going three for five in the 12-hit attack that downed Clemson.

Apps Lead State Wrestling Play

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP)—Appalachian of Boone takes a four-point lead today's final rounds of the North Carolina wrestling tournament hoping for its fifth straight championship.

The Boone team scored 11 points in Friday's wrestling for a four-point lead over Thomasville, Asheville, New Bern and Charlotte Myers Park, all with seven points.

Wilkes Central and Burlington followed with 6 points each. Greensboro, Goldsboro and Elkin had 4, Southwest 3, Salisbury, High Point, Greenville and Beaver Creek 2, and Lexington, Page of Greensboro, Jacksonville and Marion 1 each.

Weber's opponent in the first-round morning match was Carl Lohren of Silver Springs, Md., a former U. of Maryland player who had a qualifying 289.

Joel Goldstrand of Worthington, Minn., a teammate of Weber's on the NCAA championship University of Houston team, and Ed Brantly of Signal Mountain, Tenn., collected holes-in-one Friday. Goldstrand was among the 16 match players today but Brantly missed the cut by one stroke at 294.

Three South Carolina pitchers held Georgia Southern to four hits and three runs. The Gamecocks scored four in the second to wrap up the game.

Second sacker Pete Ayoub knocked out three hits in four tries to lead Clemson in its unsuccessful effort at The Citadel. Dick Jones of The Citadel blasted out a 340-foot home run in going three for five in the 12-hit attack that downed Clemson.

Speed Against Stretch Running

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) — Bruton Smith, manager of the new Concord Speedway, is being attacked on all sides over a scheduled 100-mile stock race at the Concord track Easter Sunday.

Friday, Smith received a letter from two ministers' associations criticizing "misuse of the most sacred and climatic day of the Christian year." The letter was sent by the Concord Ministers Association and the Cabarrus County Ministers Association.

The associations called on "individual members of churches in Cabarrus County to search their consciences in this matter, and to make their objections known to racing authorities."

They also protested practice runs which will be held at the speedway on Good Friday, Mar. 31.

The 100-mile will be sanctioned by the United States Auto Club, and NASCAR has threatened not to give its drivers permission to drive in the race since Concord has long been known as NASCAR territory.

Rawls Captures Two Stroke Lead

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Betty Rawls holds a two-stroke lead at the halfway point today of the $7,500 Bradenton Women's Open golf tournament.

Miss Rawls, president of the Ladies Professional Golf Association, fired a sparkling one over men's par 72 on the 6,332-yard DeSoto Lakes course Friday for a 36-hole total of 148.

With Mary Lena Faulk, she became the first woman to break men's par on the back nine with 35.

Miss Faulk was in a three-way tie with Marilyn Smith and Mickey Wright with 150. Miss Wright, the first day leader, shot a 77 Friday while Faulk and Smith had 73.

Fish Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., led amateurs with 154. She was in eighth place.

Smith Brothers Take Command

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Charlie and Dave Smith of Gastonia, N.C., were in command of the 16th annual Azalea Amateur golf tournament at the half-way point today.

Charlie, recently named Carolina "Goifer of the Year," came through with a one-under-par 70 Friday to bring his 36 hole total to 141.

His brother Dave, was two strokes back in second place after firing a second round of 73.

One stroke back at 144 was Jim my Palliam of COLUMBIA.

Pre-tourney favorite, Billy Joe Patton of Morganon, N.C., was fourth with 146.

Charlie Smith was the only player out of the field of 180 to beat par Friday. High winds swelled many scores.

When Tom Morgan, Los Angeles Angels' pitcher, lived in El Monte, Calif., his home was on a street called Baseball Avenue.

Five Wrecks Investigated By City Police Yesterday

Damage estimated at over $1,300 resulted in five collisions investigated by Greenville police yesterday, officers reported.

Investigators said a car being driven by Mavis Adams Hardee of 2530 Sunset Ave. was heavily damaged when the vehicle ran into the side of the North Carolina Employment Security Commission office building on Cotanche St. about 7:05 last night.

Police quoted the driver of the car as saying she started the vehicle, then her foot slipped off the brake and onto the accelerator. The car was parked in the parking lot beside the office building, officers noted.

Damage to the car was placed at $500 while damage to the building was not determined.

Police said investigation of the mishap is continuing.

An estimated $475 damage resulted when cars, operated by Joseph Conrad Dudley of 1115 Ragdale Road, and William Pace Fuller, 1015 East Wright Road, collided in front of the Fuller residence at 2:50 p.m. yesterday.

Officers, who made no charges in the collision, set damage to the Fuller car at $75 while estimating damage to the Dudley vehicle at $400.

In a third collision, Frank Owens Brannon, 48, of Route 1, Greenville, was charged with failure to keep a proper lookout while backing following a collision at the intersection of Seventh and Cotanche Sts. at 1:10 p.m.

Police said the Brannon car collided with an auto being driven by Douglas Randolph Baker, 25, of Bell Arthur, causing an estimated $150 damage to the Baker car.

Damage to the Brannon vehicle was set at $200.

No charges were placed in the collision of three vehicles at Riggs House Restaurant on Dickinson Ave. about 3:50 a.m. today, police said.

Officers noted James Randolph Crawford of Farmville was parked in the lot. A second vehicle was allegedly parked too close to his vehicle for him to get out, so he attempted to push the vehicle.

Police quoted the driver of the car, owned by Phillip S. Stocks, 17, of Route 2, Aiken, back on for him to move.

The Stocks car rolled back and struck a third vehicle parked in the lot, owned by Harry L. Carter, 33, of Greensboro.

Damage to the Stocks vehicle was set at $100 while damage to the Carter vehicle was placed at $15.

Investigators said no damage was done to the Crawford car.

Police said no charges were made when a truck being operated by Jeff David Dertion, 28, of Newbern was involved in a collision with a car operated by Ellen Gibson Ross, 2505 Memorial Drive, on Washington St. near the intersection of Fourth.

Damage to the truck was placed at $10 while damage to the car was estimated to be about $150.

The collision occurred at 4:05 p.m., police noted.

Praise Humber's School Efforts

Pitt Sen. Robert Lee Humber has received an official pat on the back for his efforts in landing an industrial training school for Pitt County.

The county commissioners unanimously approved a resolution lauding the county senator's diligence, persistence and persuasiveness "convincing the State Board of Education in February that Pitt was in need of such a school."

Introduced by commissioner J. Vance Perkins and drafted by county attorney W. W. Speight, the resolution "expresses to him (Sen. Humber) the gratitude of all the people of Pitt County for his achievement of this worthwhile goal."

The document praised the lawmaker for devoting "a great amount of time and effort." It said, "Senator Humber has diligently pursued Pitt County's request for the selection of Pitt County to establish an Industrial Education Center."

The resolution lauded Humber for spending "his own time and sacrificing both in time and experience to conduct surveys, prepare statistics and otherwise fulfill the requirements of the State Board of Education."

The State Board in a February meeting allocated to Pitt the 20th and last industrial school authorized by the State. At the same meeting, 42 more applicants were rejected because the number of authorized schools was exhausted.

With its announcement, the State group indicated Pitt's application was superior to those submitted by other counties competing for the allocation. It was understood the Board considered the Humber-conducted labor survey of Pitt feature of the county's application.

Optimists Plan Founders Day

Greenville's Optimist Club has planned its annual Founders Day observance for Monday night at 6:45 at the Silo Restaurant here.

Optimist Carl Knott, chairman of the observance program committee, said today Monday's program will include a special ceremony honoring the first president of the three-year-old club—M. E. "Red" Cavendish.

Final details of the anniversary program, Knott said, will be completed sometime today.

The local Optimist group—most recent newcomer to Greenville civic club circles—officially received its charter March 30, 1959. Its membership currently stands at 27—seven more than a year ago.

Sponsored by Optimist clubs in Rocky Mount and Wilson, the local group is a chapter of Optimist International—the fourth largest civic organization.

Pitt Democratic Committee Is Meeting Today

The Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee was scheduled to meet here at 12:30 p.m. today to map plans for raising Pitt's share of Democratic funds being sought through North Carolina's Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner.

New Pitt Chairman J. Henry Harrell, elected last month, said yesterday he had called the meeting of the county's 23 Democratic precinct chairmen to consider ways and means to assure state party heads that Pitt will be adequately represented at the April 15 Raleigh dinner.

Being promoted as the biggest ever, this year's Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner has been moved from the traditional site in Raleigh's Hotel Sir Walter to the Reynolds Coliseum on the N.C. State College campus in Raleigh.

Pitt will be responsible for raising its share by selling at least a minimum number of tickets. Funds raised by the dinner will be used by the state party to help pay a $50,000 loan secured recently to catch up North Carolina's share of a large post-campaign debt hanging over the national Democratic organization.

HOLY WEEK SERVICES SET FOR FARMVILLE

The Ministerial Alliance of Farmville will hold its Holy Week service at the Macedonia Baptist Church March 27 through April 2. Services are scheduled each evening at 8 o'clock with sunrise service Easter Sunday morning at 5 a.m.

Plans Require Big Financing For Small Club

By PATRICIA MOORE AYDEN—The Ayden Jaycees this week announced plans which call for big financing, for a small club.

The project will cost over $5,000, Jaycee President Tom Wheelless said. When completed, the facilities will be such that county tournaments could be played in Ayden.

The facilities will include the Little League Park, to be built to the desired dimensions of the Little League Association, complete with first-class playing field, lights, bleachers, dugouts, press box, scoreboard and a grass infield. Everything will be removable except the bleachers, Wheelless said. The fence, which will consist of panels, will be removable and after seasons, it will be disassembled, repaired and stored. The grounds will be used by the elementary school when not in use by the Little League. Wheelless pointed out.

Upon completion, the park will be turned over to the Ayden Recreation Department, and the facilities will become a part of the recreation department, including maintenance.

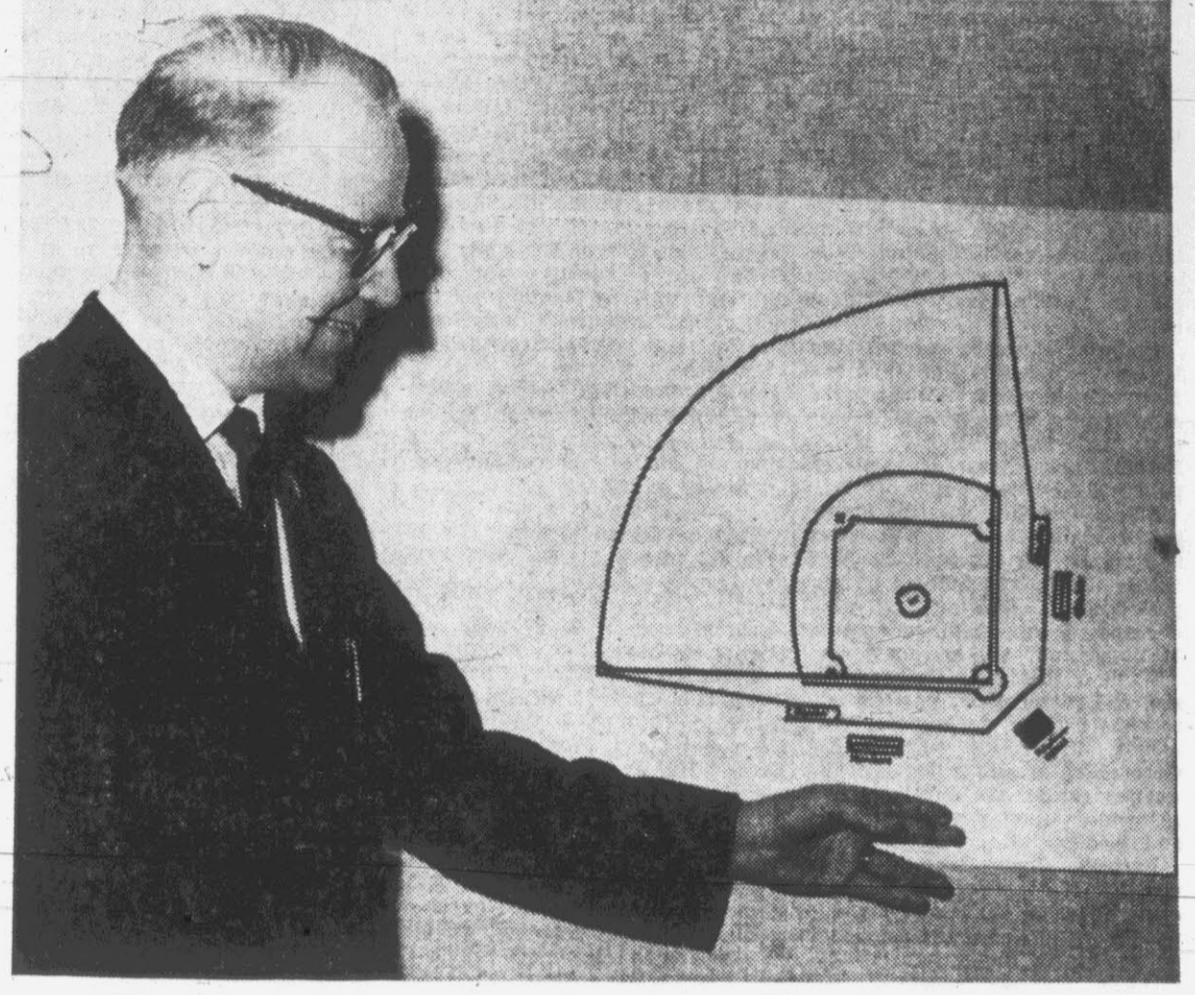

ry Britt with several assisting committees. One of these is the "Profit Making Committee" under the direction of Bill Stroud, which has developed plans for the talent show. Those interested in performing and competing for prizes may contact Stroud in Ayden.

Ads are being sold for the fence under Wheelless' direction. A committee has also been organized to present the project to other civic organizations as a project which will involve the entire town rather than one organization or group. Committee members include

Dream House For Home Ec Seniors

By SARAH H. KIRKPATRICK East Carolina College News Bureau Staff Writer Living in the spacious Adelaide

E. Bloxton Home Management House of the department of home economics at East Carolina College for 12 weeks is the "dream" of every senior home economics student. At present, eight students are learning at first hand the last-minute finishing touches of homemaking before stepping out on their own.

Dr. F. Bessie McNeil, director of the home economics department at the college, is advisor and lives with the students.

Norma G. Stewart of Broadway mentioned that the apartment girls were authorized to use one unit of equipment in the house section of the Home Management House.

VISIT DIRECTOR—Former students often return and reminisce memorable experiences with Dr. F. Bessie McNeil, director of the home economics department at East Carolina College, who is advisor and lives with the home economics students in the Adelaide E. Bloxton Home Management House on the campus. Dr. McNeil (seated left) is seen visiting with Peggy L. Lane of Gates (center), senior student who lived in the house during the fall quarter, and with Betty Rose Prazier of Henderson (seated on arm of chair), junior student who resided in the house during the winter quarter.

Meal planning, shopping, budgeting, cooking, cleaning, entertaining—all the varied activities of the home—keep the students busy and provide practical experience under expert direction.

An excursion to the breakfast room, where morning and noon meals are served, and the modern-equipped kitchen reveals the cook, Bobbie Jo Sutton of La Grange, and the assistant cook, Sandra R. Jenette of Swan Quarter, preparing menus.

Every girl should learn to cook," said Brenda R. Smith of Thomasville. "Not only do I enjoy cooking of meals, but it is also fun to try new recipes."

VARIED ACTIVITIES—Meal planning, shopping, budgeting, all the varied activities of the home, keep (left to right) Sylvia A. Freeman of Washington, Rachel Parker of Kingston, Sandra R. Jenette of Swan Quarter, and Bobbie Jo Sutton of LaGrange busy for the first six weeks of the spring quarter in the House Section of the Adelaide E. Bloxton Home Management House at East Carolina College.

HOME MANAGEMENT HOUSE—In memory of the late Mrs. Adelaide E. Bloxton, associated with the home economics department at East Carolina College for almost a quarter of a century, the Adelaide E. Bloxton Home Management House was built in 1953. The beloved Mrs. Bloxton was head of the department for seven years and founded the Home Management House on the campus.

Success Despite Loss Of An Arm

REIDSVILLE, N.C. (AP)—On 8, Argus had worked in two cotton an April afternoon in 1908. Argus mills, and at nine he was running Vernon Stoneman came face to a side in a spinning room and face with the prospects of remain-herding cows for Elmo Moricic's ing a cripple for the rest of his slaughter house here.

Argus' mother died in 1915 and he moved to Greensboro to work as a Western Union boy. Later educated and started him on the up-hill grade. In 1906 at age six, Stoneman came with his mother, his brother Alva and his sister Audrey to live in Reidsville. Less than two years later, while whiling away boyish hours with his friends trying to catch freight trains for short rides, young Argus missed his only and most disastrous leap—his arm was removed at the shoulder, leaving him a cripple.

TIME BUDGETED—Having budgeted their time properly, (left to right) Grace H. Whitman of Edenton, Brenda R. Smith of Thomasville, Norma G. Stewart of Broadway, and Patricia Swindell of Swan Quarter find time to glance at the magazine "Homes of Color" as well as to devote themselves to extracurricular activities of East Carolina College and to their household duties and studies. The home economics students are practicing classroom principles in the Apartment Section of the Adelaide E. Bloxton Home Management House at the present time.

In the next 17 years as an AP operator, Argus handled war stories in Winston-Salem, operated a telegraph key in Seattle, and when the terrifying teletype — automatic telegraphy — loomed on the horizon, he took inventory of his skimpy education.

Five years of grade school at best, he remembered. Heading the advice of his newspaper cronies, Argus set about making up for lost time and enrolled in the Seattle YMCA Night High School.

With high school credits earned, AP obligingly switched him to the night shift so he could attend the University of Washington.

Six years later, Argus graduated from the university — law school and was admitted to the Washington State Bar in January, 1930.

Still unsure of his new found profession, Argus kept his job with AP until 1934, and in the meantime married Virginia Burroughs, daughter of a Maryland lawyer.

In the years to follow, he built a highly successful general practice, and also took on corporation law and labor litigation. During World War II he was litigations officer for the Office of Price Administration.

business. However, he is still counselor for the Washington State Bar Association and a member of the American Bar Association.

Argus' pet hobby is mountain climbing, of all things, and he may be the only one-armed climber ever to scale Mount Rainier.

With success in hand, Stoneman has never forgotten friends of early years and frequently travels east to visit old friends here and hereabouts.

Music Director Is Appointed To Organizations

Director Earl E. Beach of the East Carolina College Department of Music has been appointed as a member of the Council on Cooperation and Teacher Education, an organization sponsored by the American Council on Education.

He has also been appointed as Chairman of the Study Committee for Organizational Purposes of the Music Educator National Conference. Serving with him will be Ralph E. Russ of the University of Southern California and Karl Ernst, Dean of Fine Arts at Alameda College in California.

Mr. Beach will be the only representative of a national music organization to serve on the Council on Cooperation and Teacher Education. A former president of the Southern Division of the Music Educators National Conference and a member of the Board of Directors, he will represent the National MENC in his new position.

Demonstration For Calico Club

Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, county Negro home economics agent, presented a demonstration on "Foundation Garments" at a meeting of the Calico Home Demonstration Club held at the home of the president, Mrs. Estella Edwards, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Nellie Laughinghouse was welcomed to the club as a new member. Garden reports and a report on the recently held banquet were given during the business session. Nine members of the club registered to attend the Annual State Council meeting, which was held Wednesday of this week.

Plans were made to hold another furniture refinishing workshop in the near future. Four pieces of furniture have been refinished as a result of the county refinishing workshop.

Ten members attended the meeting.

FLEXIBILITY!

The Daily Newspaper Is the Flexible Medium for Pinning Down Sales

Newspapers don't tie up the advertiser with rigid time schedules or space limitations that weaken the impact and effectiveness of his message. Newspapers offer creative and physical flexibility. An advertiser can use a two-page spread to tell a detailed story or he can use a smaller space to say what he wants in fewer words, depending on his budget and his strategy. The physical flexibility of newspapers means ads can be scheduled quickly to take care of sudden selling opportunities. The daily newspaper is flexible enough to fit any advertising strategy.

NOVEL GREAT HISTORICAL PAUL HORGANS A DISTANT TRUMPET

Going through the mail in the brightly lit room, Major Prescott attended first to War Department matter. What he read made him sit back and look out the window. He took a deep breath and said, "Well, and then again, 'Well, sir.'"

He then called his orderly in and said, "Colonel, hike over to the corral and send Lieutenant Hazard to me."

In a few minutes Matthew stood before the commanding officer. "Here you are, Matthew. You're a brevet first lieutenant now. Congratulations, my boy."

"Thank you, sir," said Matthew taking his papers. "Do I call you colonel now?"

"Well, yes," said the officer. They shook hands. Matthew asked, "Is there anything for Ted Mainwaring?"

"No, Matt, it was not justified. I'd better talk to Ted myself. Tell Laura, but have her keep it to herself till we can lift Kitty over the thing, if we have to."

"I have seen Kitty," said Mrs. Prescott. "You will never guess. She has taken charge of the celebration about the promotions."

"Thunder," said the colonel. "Yes, she came over to see me this afternoon, trembling, all pale green, and smiling, and I wanted to hush her in my arms, she looked so breakable. She said that as the Mainwarings are the only family that did not get promoted, she was the only wife who could be hostess at a party to celebrate."

None of the new rank could do it, she said, without seeming to congratulate themselves. So you see, she said, there's always some good in every situation because now she was left free to do the proper thing. It was trying "Oh, thunderation. What's she going to do?"

"Yes, as she is so really torn apart by this, she has to make a really grand gesture to prove that she isn't. You'll never believe it, but here it is—she's going to give a hunt breakfast."

"Now, Jess, talk sense." "I told you—I said to her, a hunt breakfast? But without a hunt, of course, I said. We shouldn't ride out here as if we were all at Fort Belvoir, Virginia. But she said how could there be a hunt breakfast without a hunt before it? This was just my point, but here it is—she's going to give us a hunt breakfast."

"Really, major—colonel," said Kitty. "I am sure my husband is prepared to obey you in all official matters, and I am mindful of my duty to you, also, but after all, I am only giving a party in the desert. Then we're return for a delicious breakfast, with every possible trimming." "In this heat? She wants to go to all that work?"

"I know, but she said I was not to say another word, her mind was made up, and if she wished to do this for her commanding officer, on such a wonderful occasion, and so on. She had tears in her eyes. So there you are. We hunt, then we feast."

"Have you accepted?" "Tentatively, but of course I said I must ask you."

"I'm afraid we cannot. There are very real objections, you know, military ones."

"Oh, Hiram, isn't it frightful how the Army keeps getting in our way?" "We're in the Army, after all."

"As I say," murmured Jessica with radiant illogic. "You've done enough on this. Jess, and thank you. I'll go see Kitty myself."

"You're going to regret it." "Since she knew the answer, he did not reply."

Kitty was hard at work, with Laura Hazard to help her, preparing for the hunt breakfast. She threw her arms around the colonel's neck and kissed him on the cheek, straining against him like an unwanted child. She was drawn with exertion. In a high-dry voice she exclaimed, "Congratulations, Colonel Hiram, we are all so proud of you!"

"Thanks, thanks, Kitty, my dear." "You aren't supposed to see what we're doing, yet, so please don't come in, there is so much to do, and we do so want to do it."

Laura Hazard, behind her, gave the colonel a powerful glance of helpless understanding. With the indulgent look of a husband doing a job under a wife's orders, Teddy Mainwaring appeared in the background, lugging a packing box which he was to set up as a sideboard.

The colonel said, "Maybe before we get too far along with this activity, I'd better bring up my objections to it, Kitty."

"Objections?" she said lightly, while the others, in the presence of a contest, grew still.

"Yes," said the colonel, "sorry as I am to say so, I have to say that it would be wiser not to give this entertainment which you have so thoughtfully planned."

"Really, major—colonel," said Kitty. "I am sure my husband is prepared to obey you in all official matters, and I am mindful of my duty to you, also, but after all, I am only giving a party in the desert. Then we're re-

"Yes, so long as your party is have nothing to say. But you want to take us out hunting beforehand, and there's the trouble."

"I must say I do not understand!" "But the others did, at once, and knew she was lying."

"Kitty," said the colonel, "if we do go, it can't be much fun. We'd all have to remain so close together, including the ladies, in case we flush an Apache instead of a rabbit. The country all around us is still potentially a very dangerous area. And I cannot see myself ordering out an escort to ride guard on us while we strain our eyes for rabbits."

She sank down on her doorstep and broke into tears. "My poor, miserable party," she sobbed, "when all I was trying to do was—"

Teddy gave the colonel a look of anguished appeal which said, "You have done this, can't you undo it?"

Colonel Prescott reviewed the consequences of his implied command to cancel the hunt. Days of hurt feelings, unnecessary politeness in that intimate community. Unspoken reproaches that would eat at the heart of mutual confidence. Time spent at restorative, sentimental labors that more profitably must go to acts of duty. He could not separate the personal from the official on a post like Fort Delivery.

With a cursing thought, he went and took Kitty by the shoulders and hauled her up to standing. He lifted her chin against her will and said, "All right, we hunt. But under these orders, which I mean strictly. We will remain closed up; the ladies will carry pistols; if game is sighted no one will dismount to fire even though this means luck instead of marksmanship; and we will be gone no longer than one hour. Is that understood?"

Everyone broke with relief. The family was one again. Promises, thanks, exaggerated delight. Kitty smiled through her abating breaths, and said, "I'm so ashamed, but I would have been simply killed—" and she turned to set her work going again. No longer an ogre, the colonel was allowed to go back up the line with his own thoughts, of which the uppermost was a question. Was he right or was he wrong to give in? The answer was not here, he thought, but out there, in the desert, and he would not know it until the hunt tomorrow.

Will Present Recital Monday

Mrs. Ingeborg Larsen Jarratt, soprano, will be presented by the East Carolina College department of music in a recital Monday, March 27, at 8:15 p.m. in the McGinnis Auditorium. Ruth Graber of the faculty pianist, will act as accompanist. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Jarratt is now doing graduate work in music at the college under the direction of Paul Hickfang of the faculty. An experienced musician, she is on leave of absence from positions in Massachusetts, including those of director of music at the Beaver Country Day School, preparatory school for girls, at Chestnut Hill; director of music and soloist at the First Baptist Church in Boston; conductor of the Newton Community chorus; and director of music for Belvoir Terrace, fine arts center, in Lenox.

At East Carolina this year she is section leader in the College Choir and served as assistant to Director Gordon Johnson during the recent tour of the organization.

City School Lunch Menus

Easter holidays begin at noon.

First Church of Christ, Scientist

The ever-availability of spiritual enlightenment will be emphasized at Christian Science churches Sunday. Scriptural selections to be read include the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Reality" will include this passage from Isaiah (9:2): "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light; they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this correlative passage will be read (546:24-26): "The great spiritual facts of being, like rays of light, shine in the darkness, though the darkness, comprehending them not, may deny their reality."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (97:11): "Light is sown for the righteous, and gladness for the upright in heart."

Eleven women of the church will open up their homes for Neighborhood Prayer Services on next Wednesday at announced times of the day.

The church sanctuary will be open Good Friday from 3:00 to 6:00 p.m. for special prayer and meditation.
