

More Tax Plans Continue To Bob Up In Assembly As 'Alternatives'

Now Eleven Tax Bills Proposed; Organized Labor Offers $81 Million Plan

RALEIGH (AP)—Tax proposals continue to bob up right and left in the wave of sentiment against Gov. Sanford's proposals to place a sales tax on food and medicine.

Three more tax bills were introduced in the General Assembly Tuesday, making 11 since March 6 when Sanford recommended a tax increase on whisky and removal of sales tax exemptions to finance his $100 million school improvement program.

The North Carolina AFL-CIO Tuesday proposed an alternative tax plan which would produce $81 million during the next biennium for the schools and other agencies.

Organized labor told the legislature's Joint Finance Committee it is solidly in favor of Sanford's school program but is opposed to financing it by taxing food and medicine.

"It is ironical to propose the use of a bad tax to accomplish the good ends of the governor's program," the union said in a statement which was read by Millard Barbee, president of the state AFL-CIO.

Rep. H. P. Taylor Jr. of Anson wanted to know what Barbee's decision would be if it came to a choice between the school program and a sales tax on food and medicine. Barbee replied he would take the school program with the tax.

The AFL-CIO tax proposal called for: taxes on cigarettes and other tobacco products to raise $30 million during the next biennium; increases in beer, wine and whisky taxes to produce $12 million; a tax increase on autos and airplanes from 1 to 2 per cent with the $80 maximum payment eliminated, to raise $14 million; a 1 per cent tax on mill machinery, supplies and accessories to raise $4 million; and temporary increases in corporate and individual income taxes to raise $21 million.

Meanwhile, Rep. W. Brantley Womble of Wake offered a tax bill Tuesday which would increase the sales tax generally from 3 to 4 per cent and retain all of the present sales tax exemptions. It would raise approximately $55 million during the biennium.

The other two new tax bills were offered by Republicans in the House. One would tax tobacco products a total of about $30 million during the biennium. The other would levy a tax on soft drinks, a proposal which would bring in about $21 million. The Republicans said the two bills, plus others offered last week, would produce $75 million during 1961-63.

Gets 5 Years In 25 Cent Robbery

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—As penalty for a 25-cent robbery a Dallas youth must serve five years in prison.

Dist. Judge J. Frank Wilson pronounced the sentence Tuesday for John D. Collins, 17, identified as leader of a gang which terrorized children on school yards.

A school official said 12 youngsters were robbed of small change at Sequoia Junior High School last Sept. 28.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Temperatures will average slightly below normal for the next five days. Cooler Thursday. Warmer toward end of period. Occasional rain, mostly Friday and Saturday, will average three-quarters of an inch or more.

Experience Shows Little Good In Increased Hard Liquor Tax

By LYNN NISBET Reflector Bureau Assn. Afternoon Dailies

RALEIGH—Taxes on alcoholic beverages yielded to the general fund account of North Carolina in the last fiscal year $13,695,818. The Sanford administration revenue bills would increase the tax on hard liquors from the present 10 per cent to 12 per cent and make no change in the present levy on beer and wines. This plan is expected to yield an additional $3,000,000 or a little more.

The Republican proposal is to increase the hard liquor tax to 13 per cent and raise taxes on beer and wine. They estimate an additional yield of $6,946,000. Both the administration and the Republican estimates are based on the same total volume of alcoholic beverages being sold in 1961-63 as was sold in 1959-60. The experience record in Virginia tends to discount the pros-

3 Candidates File For Council Race

Ford McGowan, B. Brooks Beddingfield and C. W. Harvey Jr. this morning filed as candidates by City Council.

The election is to be held May 2 and filing deadline is April 1 Saturday.

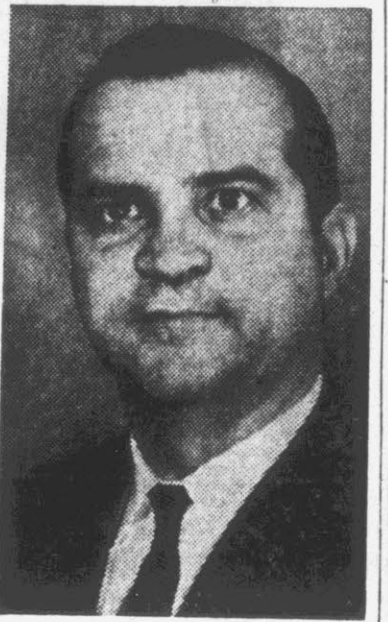

The three join Dr. M. W. Aldridge, James W. Lee, Richard Powell, H. H. Duncan, J. T. Williams and Dr. Ralph Brimley in the race for the four seats open on the council.

Harvey and Aldridge are seeking re-election while the other candidates are seeking election to the council for the first time. Mayor S. Eugene West has announced as a candidate for reelection. He is opposed by Charles M. King, a present council member.

With Harvey entering the race today, only Councilman W. S. Stafford has yet to announce his intentions for the upcoming election.

More Criticism Of County Home

The Pitt County Grand Jury has again rapped the Pitt County Home.

In its report to this week's session of Pitt Superior Court the Grand Jury said it visited the county home Monday and found that "none of the repairs recommended as emergency actions in the report of Jan. 31 has been accomplished."

In its January report, the Grand Jury cited the front porch and some of the floors "in a dangerous state of repairs. It further reported some interior plastering was coming loose, the kitchen stove needed "major repair" or replacement, "many windows are worn beyond repair and require replacement," and the roof on the "lard house is rusted out and requires repair."

This week's Grand Jury report added: "There are only sufficient sheets for inmates to give each bed one clean sheet per week. This is an unsanitary condition and creates an obnoxious odor in the rooms."

County Home Superintendent Horace Hardee reported this morning four dozen new sheets and two dozen pillow cases will be purchased for the county home today. Currently, inmates total 29.

He also said new cypress lumber is being prepared for a complete new floor for the building's front porch. The electric kitchen stove, he said, has already been repaired.

Hardee also said he plans to install some new windows at the county home this week—maybe today.

Another spot cited by the Grand Jury was: "The nurse on duty reports that she has no facilities for sterilizing hypodermic needles."

Hardee said today sterilizing equipment for the needles has been obtained and is available at the county home.

The Grand Jury said it inspected the county home Monday in accordance with recommendations included in the January Grand Jury report.

In its recommendations this week, the group called for another inspection of the county facility by the entire body of the jury at its next meeting to determine whether the corrections recommended are made.

It called on the county commissioners, requesting the repairs to the county home, "listed as emergency action in the previous Grand Jury report, be expedited."

Wiley Gaskins Is First Grafton Candidate Filing

GRIFTON—Wiley A. Gaskins, mayor of Grifton, yesterday became the first candidate to file for election here. He paid his filing fee at the town office yesterday afternoon.

Mayor Gaskins stated, "I formally declare myself a candidate for the office of Mayor of Grifton, in the election to be held May 1. It has been my privilege to serve two terms in this office, and I hope this service has been acceptable to our citizens."

Gaskins previously served three terms (three years) on the Town Board in the 1940's, in addition to his services as mayor.

He noted that in the May 1 elections, town officials will submit for the voters approval water and sewer bonds in the amount of $235,000. "Offering this issue has not been a quick decision by the town officials," Gaskins said, "just a realistic look at hard cold facts."

"I would consider the three high points in my two terms as Mayor as having our town operate on a sound financial basis within our budget, having a part in bringing new industry to Grifton and having the complete cooperation of all Town Commissioners and Town Employees," he said.

This year a resolution was adopted by Grifton commissioners to extend the terms of the mayor and judge to two years instead of the present one year. The resolution will go before the N.C. General Assembly for approval before becoming law.

Filing time for candidates for public office in Grifton opened Monday of this week.

McGowan is a past commander of the Pitt County American Legion Post 39. He was in the Jaycees for approximately 10 years serving as vice president for one year.

The candidate is presently a member of the Greenville Recreation Commission. He assisted in organizing Greenville Little League and has coached and participated in both Little League and Pony League. He helped coach the American Legion Junior Baseball team last year.

For the past five years he has been president of the Rose High Booster Club. He is president of the Pitt American Legion Fair Association and a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Moose Lodge and the Elks Lodge.

McGowan is vice president and general manager of Eastern Lumber and Supply Co. and an officer

He is a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

McGowan is married to the former Ella Frances Viola. They have two sons and live at 1607 S. Elm St.

McGowan is running for political office for the first time.

B. Brooks Beddingfield is a native of Clayton and graduated from Clayton High School. He attended East Carolina College and during this time received an appointment to the Merchant Marine Academy in Kingsport, Long Island. Following this he served three years in service, being stationed in Korea.

In 1948, Beddingfield entered the University of North Carolina School of Pharmacy, receiving his B. S. degree in pharmacy in 1952.

In 1954 he entered business in Greenville opening Beddingfield Pharmacy on Five Points.

Beddingfield is a past president of the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce. He also has served as vice president of the Jaycees and is currently a member of its board of directors. He is the Eleventh District Project Coordinator of Religious Activities Affairs on the Jaycees. In 1956 he served as chairman of the Greenville Clean-Up Campaign.

Beddingfield is on the board of directors of the Pitt County Cancer Society and on the board of directors of the East Carolina Touchdown Club. He is a member of the National Association of Retail Druggists and the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association. He is a member of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Beddingfield is married to the former Ruth Lewis Harrell of Pinetops. They have a five-year-old daughter and reside at 202 Lewis St. He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

No Definite Stand Made By SEATO

Ministers Fail To Spell Out What Alliance Will Do If Reds Push Attack

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Apparently swayed by anticipations of Soviet peace moves, the SEATO foreign ministers today adopted a compromise resolution that spelled out what the alliance will do if the Communists continue their military drive in Laos.

The eight-nation council of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization unanimously declared that if the British proposal for a cease-fire and peace (negotiations falls "and there continues to be an active (Communist) military attempt to obtain control of Laos, members of SEATO are prepared, within the terms of the treaty, to take whatever action may be appropriate in the circumstances."

The resolution appeared to represent a defeat for the American effort to put over a tough declaration that would warn the Soviet Union that SEATO troops would fight if peace negotiations fail.

The compromise apparently resulted from the sharp opposition of French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, who argued in the closed sessions that the proposed American draft would antagonize the Soviets while there was a prospect they would accept the Western proposals for a cease-fire in Laos. Couve de Murville told newsmen he was "very pleased" with the resolution.

Although a U.S. spokesman said "we consider it a strong resolution," U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk at a subsequent news conference did nothing to dispel the prevalent belief that the American delegation was disappointed.

Foreign Minister Thanat Khotman of Thailand told his news conference that SEATO is waiting for the Soviet reply to the cease-fire proposal and that no action of any sort will be considered until the reply is received and studied.

The ministers' declaration put full blame for the fighting in Laos on rebel elements "who are continuing to be supplied and assisted by Communist powers in flagrant disregard" of the 1954 Geneva armistice that ended the Indochina war.

Five File For Farmville Posts

FARMVILLE—The field of candidates seeking seats on the Farmville Board of Commissioners doubled Monday and Tuesday as five more candidates paid their filing fees.

Entering the race that will see five commissioners elected here May 2 were Joseph D. Joyner, Tommy Lang, Robert Joyner, Dr. S. H. Aycock Jr. and Sam Walnwright.

The five new candidates join three incumbent commissioners—Oliver Murphree, Howard Moyer and W. C. "Lum" Wooten — and two newcomers to political circles—B. Mashburn Jr. and Mrs. Frances Joyner Harper—in seeking seats on Farmville's five-member board.

Mrs. Harper, who announced her candidacy two weeks ago, is the first woman to seek an elective office in Farmville elections.

Three men are seeking Farmville's mayorship. Commissioner W. E. Joyner, former mayor O. G. Spell and farm machinery dealer Frank K. Allen are candidates. Succeeded Mayor Charles S. Edwards who has announced he will not seek re-election.

Voter registration begins here April 8 and the registration books will be open at the Haywood Smith Fire Station for the following two Saturdays—April 15 and 22.

Filing deadlines for candidates for mayor and commissioner are 10 days prior to the May 2 municipal election.

Kennedy Offers 25-Year Home Improvement Loans To Avoid Federal Handout

By FRANK CORMIER WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today proposed government insurance of 25-year home improvement loans as a new way of rebuilding rundown neighborhoods without federal handouts.

This was the surprise item in a $3.2-billion housing bill which Kennedy sent to Congress.

Also called for were steps-up in low-cost public housing, urban renewal and housing for the elderly, plus experimental 40-year, non-downpayment FHA mortgages for families of moderate income.

Most of the items were spelled out in Kennedy's special housing message to Congress on March 9. However, only a vague hint was given them of the far-reaching character of the improvement loan proposal.

The 25-year loan would carry a maximum interest rate of 6 per cent and could total up to $10,000 per family living unit. Present improvement loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration run for only five years, carry a rate of 9 per cent and are subject to $3,500 ceiling.

Improvement funds could be advanced in the form of first or second mortgages or other types of loans and would be available in all sections, although basic terms would be the same everywhere.

Officials are hopeful that if Congress approves, the program will become the major weapon in attacking urban blight, without federal subsidy.

Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver, in a memo to Kennedy, said: "We sorely lack today the financing devices that are needed to support and encourage the upgrading of good homes and neighborhoods to preserve our cities and protect the living standards of our people."

Weaver said the entire housing bill emphasizes "the improvement of our existing housing supply instead of relying primarily on new housing construction for better homes, as we have been doing."

Kennedy's special message put no price tag on the total housing program. Weaver said the bill calls for new spending authority of $3.19 billion. Of that amount, $1.05 billion would be spent by June 30, 1965, and $311 million in the 1962 fiscal year which begins

July 1. All these outlays would be in addition to those already authorized. The amount previously authorized for fiscal 1962 is $728 million.

The biggest new item would be $2.5 billion in authority to commit federal funds for urban renewal projects. The commitments would extend over four years but actual spending would continue for 10 years or longer.

Weaver said this would "make it possible for our cities and urban areas to plan and develop their growth over a reasonably long period, instead of a year-to-year basis."

Congress never has authorized urban renewal commitments for more than two years in advance.

The proposed 40-year loans for moderate income families would represent a broadening of the present program available only to those displaced by urban renewal projects or other government action.

Kennedy would make such loans available, on an experimental basis, to all those who can't afford regular FHA mortgages but earn too much to be eligible for public housing.

The program initially would be authorized for two years expiring July 1, 1963.

The 40-year loan would carry the regular FHA maximum interest rate of 5 1/2 per cent and would be available for housing on sale or rent. Mortgages would be subject to a ceiling ranging, on a single family house, from $9,000 to $15,000—depending on local building costs.

To entice private lenders into the program, FHA would have authority to pay off defaulted loans in cash.

Other items in the bill would provide: Extension of the regular FHA mortgage insurance program until Oct. 1, 1965, considerably longer than Congress ever voted in the past.

Extension of the regular home improvement loan program for two years until Oct. 1, 1963. 100,000 additional public housing units.

Sift Wreckage In Which 52 Killed

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP)—Czech investigators arrived today to sift the wreckage of a four-engine Czech airliner that crashed and killed 52 persons Tuesday night. There were no survivors.

The plane was carrying Soviet, Czech and Bulgarian technicians to Africa, Karl Stekl, assistant Czech transport minister, reported on arrival. No Western passengers were aboard, he added.

The big four-engine turbo-prop Lyushin 18 plunged into an open field Tuesday night near the village of Ruesselbach, 30 miles north of Nuernberg. Local police hinted at the possibility of sabotage, capital of the West African Mali Republic, carried 44 passengers and a crew of eight. It had taken off from Prague with the first stop scheduled in Zurich.

Recovered from the wreckage were a Soviet passport, several books in the Russian language and one handbook on bridge building. Police said they could not confirm reports the plane was carrying a load of Communist-bloc experts to Africa.

A police spokesman said he believed most of those aboard the plane were Czech nationals.

U.S. Army investigators helped German police in sifting the wreckage, littered over a wide area.

As dawn broke, rescue workers were still trying to recover bodies. Police said several children appeared to be among the first 25 recovered.

Some eyewitnesses said the plane exploded in the air. Others claimed the burning plane glided down as if turning an emergency landing and the explosion occurred after the crash.

Plan For Kiwanis Club In Winterville

Thirty-eight persons — most of them from Winterville—met here yesterday in continued efforts to organize a Kiwanis Club in Winterville.

Through yesterday's meeting a total of 15 men—10 short of the 25 required for application for a Kiwanis Club charter—had banded together as prospective members of the sought Winterville organization.

Sponsored by the Greenville Kiwanis Club, the Winterville group said it expects to obtain enough additional members to file its charter application sometime in April.

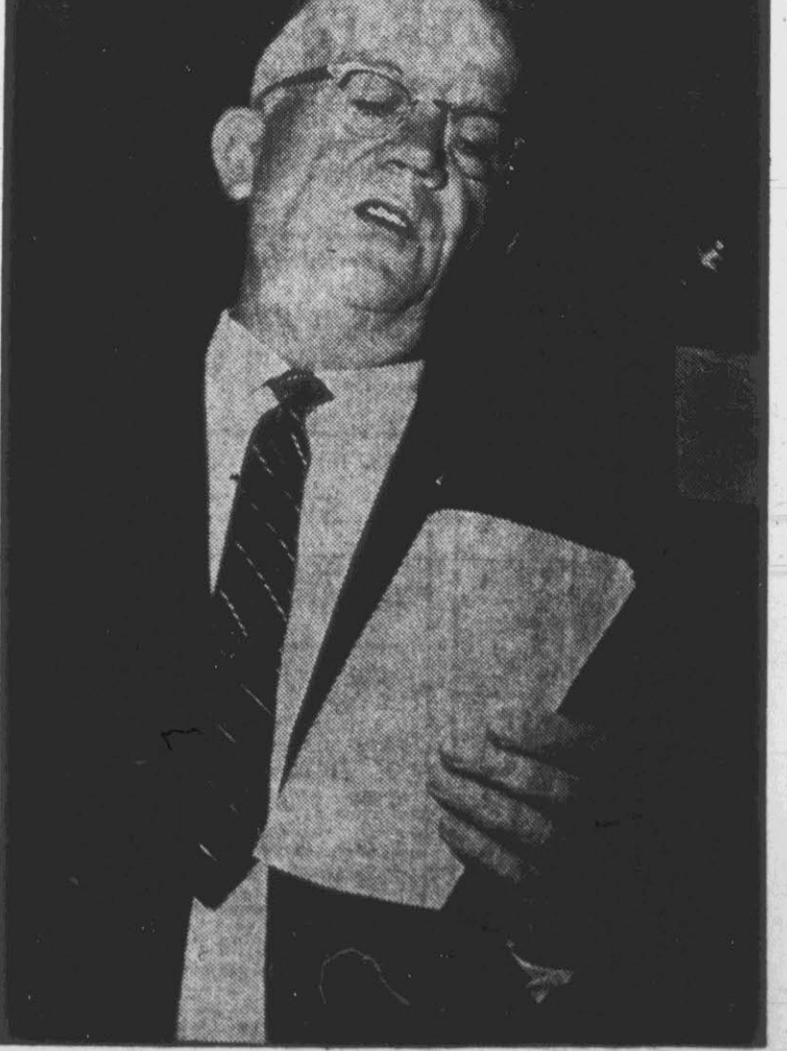

Yesterday's meeting, the second of its kind, was attended by John T. Barnhill of Greenville, Carolina District governor; Rex Best of Stantonsburg, District chairman for new club-building; and Herman Duncan, Greenville Kiwanis Club chairman of new club-building.

The Winterville group elected as its temporary president W. E. "Red" Forbes and as its temporary secretary William May.

When organized the Winterville club will become the third Kiwanis group in Pitt County and the 125th affiliate with Kiwanis International in the Carolinas District.

It will mark the second civic club for Winterville and the first that includes weekly meetings on its schedule. Currently, the only civic club in Winterville is the Winterville Baritan Club that meets monthly.

Fraternity Housemother's Duties Enjoyable Calendar Of Events

By LEWIS LATHAM
East Carolina College News Bureau Staff Writer

How would you like to be a fraternity housemother? Problems? Worries? No, not according to five ladies who are presently housemothers of social fraternities at East Carolina College.

The identical response of each of the five when referring to her position was "I just love it."

"As housemothers, the ladies serve as second mothers for the boys when they are away from home and staying in fraternity houses. They are there to give counsel, discipline, just as a mother would, and to serve as chaperones during parties and social events that the fraternity may have."

"I like being a housemother very much, and I think the harmony and fellowship derived from being a fraternity member is very beneficial to the boys throughout their college years and in later life," stated Sierra Nu fraternities Mrs. J. F. Thienen, former Dean of Women at Chowan College.

In all of the fraternity houses the housemothers have the best of living quarters. "We treat our housemothers with the same respect we treat our mothers and we want them to have the best," stated Lambda Chi. Interfraternity member, Emanuel Katias of Virginia Beach, Va.

Siema Phi Epsilon housemother, Mrs. Carrie Anderson of Jamesville, noted that, "Although I haven't been a housemother long, I can already see that there are a lot of misconceptions about fraternities in general. I find the boys are very cute and always conduct themselves as gentlemen. They are definitely not any 'wildier' than non-fraternity men."

Although none of the fraternities serve meals at the fraternity houses, they have all kept their housemothers in mind and provided completely equipped kitchens for the housemothers' use.

"I wouldn't do anything else," said Mrs. F. B. Harris, housemother for Theta Chi fraternity in reference to her position. "The boys are so nice. When I had to go to the hospital one night when my daughter's child was born, ten of my boys came over to keep me company."

Members of the fraternity are required to keep the house in order. It is not the housemother's job to keep the fraternity house clean, but she occasionally has to nudge the boys so they will do the job.

Lambda Chi Alpha's Mrs. Helen McAndrews said: "I treat the boys with a great deal of respect and they in turn return it." The former Sio Restaurant hostess also added, "It's a big job being a mother to 40 or 50 boys, but I love it."

Fraternity housemothers deserve a lot of credit for they are the ones who have 40 or 50 boys to look after instead of two or three.

"If all fraternity members were like my boys, I'm sure every woman would like to be a housemother," voiced Mrs. Delphia Corbett of Greenville, of Pi Kappa Alpha, first fraternity on campus to have a housemother.

It seems evident that being a fraternity housemother can be very rewarding. Ladies, don't give up! There are still fraternities on campus that may need a housemother soon, and you may be the lucky one.

Sweet Gum H.D. Club Has Meet

Mrs. W. C. Hollowell gave the demonstration on "Care of Floors" when the Sweet Gum Grove Home Demonstration Club held its monthly meeting in the Community Building. She demonstrated to the group the different tools used to clean, wax and polish floors of all kinds. She gave tips on the things to look for and beware of in the products used on floors.

Mrs. Howard Briley gave a report on health and Mrs. Eric Whichard reported on current fashion trends while Mrs. W. C. Hollowell gave the report on home beautification. She suggested the members have a plant exchange at the next meeting.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Sam Alexander. Following the business session, Mrs. J. C. Meeks and Mrs. Margaret Tetterton served the 12 members refreshments.

Forget Worries In Adopting Baby

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—"Should we try to adopt a baby? If we do, how do we know it will work out all right? What if it should turn out to be a mistake?"
Millions of childless American couples ask themselves those questions.
Many have asked my wife, Frances, and me these same questions since we adopted a 5-week-old daughter, Tracy Ann, nearly eight years ago.
Our answer invariably is: "Don't worry about it being a mistake. If you have an urge to adopt a child, the biggest mistake you can make is to delay or dawdle. The sooner you set about making an adoption, the more years you'll have to enjoy the child."
People who have never adopted a child have some weird ideas on this subject.
For example, they often mistakenly praise you by saying, "That's a wonderful thing you're doing—to take a strange infant into your home and treat it as your own."
Actually, of course, it's just the other way around. It is the child that is doing you a favor by widening and deepening your life with a new sense of fulfillment.
Others ask dubiously, "Do you ever really quite get to think of an adopted child as your own flesh and blood?"

The answer to this is, "Yes, but it does take time." In our own case it took a full 24 hours.
Since then we have been blindly and positively and overwhelmingly certain Tracy Ann is our very own daughter in every way.
That is the greatest miracle of adoption. You don't wonder or doubt afterward. You are wonderfully, wonderfully sure you have done the right thing. You might kind of wish you had done it earlier except for one thing—if you had you might have missed getting the perfect child you now have.
"But aren't you afraid you might get a child with latent defects?" some people inquire.
Well, so far as I know every child born since the beginning of time had latent defects of some kind—of body, mind or temperament, which show up sooner or later. That's no sound reason either for fearing to have a child, or to adopt one.
Look at the world of grownups around you. Do you know of a single one without a defect, large or small? But most of them still find life worth living.
As a matter of fact when we got Tracy Ann, her defects were pretty obvious. She couldn't stand up, speak a word of English or even write her own name. All she did was lie in her crib all day kicking her chubby feet in the air, making odd noises and waiting for someone to do something for her.
At the age of 8 she has outgrown these early defects, and acquired others which in time we feel she will outgrow too.
The truth is that those we love endeavor themselves to us almost as much by their small defects as by their shining virtues. And children do a wonderful service for adults. By letting us care for them they tend to cure us of our own defects of selfishness and blind preoccupation with our own interests. They keep our world bright and young.
Living itself is a gamble, and if you want a child and can't have one, the best gamble you can take is to adopt one.
It isn't too big a gamble. Of the scores of parents I know who have adopted children, I have yet to meet one who regretted it.

Special Dump Is Ready For Ayden

AYDEN — A special place for dumping trash at the city dump has been set up for people who dispose of garbage after closing hours, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said yesterday.
The section is located in a roped off area and has been prepared for the convenience of citizens who use the dumping grounds after closing hours.
Paylor noted that the town officials had worked out the special section after some residents had used the city dump at will.
"We hope that the people will use the new facility in the manner prescribed," Paylor said. He noted that the motor grader could easily move trash from the special section to another part of the grounds, thus keeping the special section open.

Proposal Provides A Needed Check

The legislative proposal introduced by Sen. Robert Lee Humber of Pitt to limit each county to not more than one Senate seat offers at least a partial solution to retaining a reasonable balance of legislative representation among the large and small counties of North Carolina.

Lawmakers Are Dedicated Body

By AURORA DOLLEY
(With explicit instructions from Boss Lynn Nisbet for a "true confession" type of column with the personal observations of a rookie reporter covering her first legislature, here is the truth, the whole truth—or as much of the latter as space permits.)

OBSESSION—During the past two months, as I have watched the North Carolina General Assembly at work, "covering" the sessions, attending as many committee meetings as possible (observing several committees which meet at the same time in different buildings becomes a bit difficult and unkind to shoe leather), and trying to keep pace with the general public among legislators, I have become almost obsessed with the fact that so much of the lawmakers' hard work here at the Capital City is neither known nor appreciated—or even berated—by their fellow Tar Heels.

Making the daily rounds of my "beat," watching your Senators and Representatives closely, and observing first-hand proof that the majority of them devote seemingly ceaseless time and effort in serving those who have elected them and what they feel to be the best interests of their state, I feel sickened by much of the apathy doled out in return by the general public.

True, many of us rise to arms at the thought of any legislation touching the nerve leading to our pocketbooks, and then belt our lawmakers with loud criticism. However, the sad but true fact is that too often only war or taxes can arouse interest in legislation.

If any reporter could be graphic enough to picture the behind-the-scenes combination we witness, devotion to purpose and sweat of persistence; and if any newspaper had space enough to relay such stories, North Carolinians would surely discard school-day notions that the legislative process is a chapter in a history book divorced from the average citizen's future consideration.

OBSERVATION—As I have watched the "freshmen" lawmakers hurl themselves into the machinery of the legislative mill, earnestly consult oldtimers, laboriously study material new to them, spend long hours at their desks in the Capitol, and wade under shelves of research volumes, I could not help inwardly revolting at the sneering tone with which the label "politician" is often pasted on these statesmen.

Yes, I am even at odds with Webster's, which defines a politician as "one addicted to politics," and I am sure that the author of this sarcastic terminology, like too many of us Tar Heels, surely must never have seen many of the older legislators who come to Raleigh from all points in North Carolina, veterans who no longer sprint from committee meeting to committee meeting in such a sprightly step, but who, after a long day's work, may still paddle around in rain to continue their search for information to support a thankless theory.

Realizing full well that my accuracy may be interpreted by Doubling Thomases as maudlin sentiment, I cannot help but wish that more people could be here with the reporters to see the "actors" whose voices are not always strong enough to resound clearly in the Halls of the Senate and House, but whose thoughts still travel widely over the state; men whose failing sight fails to stop their pouring over columns of figures they have compiled from investigation; experienced men whose experience has taught them that experience is but a foundation for more work; and, yes, even a few whose fingers may tremble from infirmity but whose minds continue to operate with smooth precision.

THORNS—Quirks in human nature, more specifically in the legislators at hand, are a source of irritation to a reporter with a job to do and never enough time to do it.

Try to get a random sampling of the lawmakers' views on crucial legislation, for example, and you'll invariably run into: (1) the "cagy" individual, who coyly avoids giving his opinion—if he has already reached a decision, he seems afraid to see it in print for fear it won't make everybody happy—and he's right; (2) the "undecided" fellow who doesn't agree that even the fact he hasn't yet reached a final decision should interest his home town fans, who could then let him know how they feel; (3) the "ham," who seldom approaches reporters with news of any significance, but seeks newshounds out to give news even for the chief of himself—his sterling toothpick engraved with his nickname, or a three-quarter inch scar he got on his elbow when, at the tender age of ten, he fell down two steps.

But, to brighten any reporter's day are the majority of legislators, who cordially explain their current thinking, give their credit or prefer or seek neither for what they consider duty—seeing that the press receives information to relay to the people back home.

MISCONCEPTION—Visitors who watch a daily session of the General Assembly—and only a pitifully small proportion ever stay even for the entire meeting—usually leave with the misconception that the flowery introduction of visitors, the flowing oratory on sometimes inconsequential topics, those humorous and facetious comments on grave legislation, and the erstwhile confusion which may annoy, that all these things constitute the whole or major portion of the General Assembly's activity.

A novice, too, I was disappointed at first in the daily sessions, being ignorant of the total significance of the initial days of "getting acquainted," and I knew little of the importance of committee work, where each bill stays twice as long as in the hasty, sometimes mauling, floor action.

A reporter knows, too, of the hours necessarily spent in exchanging opinions, airing views, and formulating new ideas—and he sees this being accomplished almost around the clock, in groups of Assemblymen gathered in hotel lobbies, on street corners, in the Capitol rotunda, and at breakfast, lunch, dinner, or coffee breaks.

And this reporter wishes the "addiction" of the legislators to politics were more contagious.

smaller counties of the state, for when it was introduced by the Pitt Senator, it carried the signatures of 20 other members of the Senate. It reflects a feeling shared by many legislators that representation in both houses of the General Assembly should not come under the complete domination of the larger counties of the state.

The other proposal already introduced for redistricting senate representation would take a senator from three widely scattered sections of the state and give one additional senator each to Mecklenburg, Forsyth and Guilford Counties. Thus these three largest counties of the state would have two Senate seats each in addition to the 12 House seats these three counties would have under the House reapportionment bill that already has been approved by the House.

Sen. Humber's proposal would require a constitutional amendment specifying that no county would have more than one seat in the Senate. It is similar to a measure passed by the legislature in 1953, but rejected by the voters of the state in 1954 when the proposed constitutional amendment was submitted in a referendum.

The proposal has considerable merit and deserves the careful consideration of members of the legislature and citizens of the state. While it may be termed by some a new approach to setting up Senate districts, perhaps more realistically it provides the machinery whereby the tradition that no county has more than one seat in the Senate will be retained. It provides a needed check to assure that the 50 Senate seats will reflect reasonable representation—area wise as well as population wise—from the counties of the state as a whole.

Jumped To Conclusion Without All The Facts

Gov. Sanford and his Director of Purchase and Contracts William White have indicated by their statements of recent days that the fact the state received identical bids from firms on sugar, salt and bread is prima facie evidence of collusions and price-fixing by firms which sell such products to the state.

Not only have the governor and his Purchase and Contract Director made the charges, they have added in effect that there can be no doubt the charges are true.

While we believe every effort should be made to put an end to any price-fixing that may be involved in state purchases, we question the wisdom of top state officials jumping to such a conclusion without a more thorough investigation than so far is apparent.

We seriously question the position taken by Gov. Sanford and Mr. White who appear to us to have set themselves up as accusers, prosecutors and jurors and have declared firms guilty of their charges without a trial.

As an attorney, Gov. Sanford probably would seriously object to one of his clients being subjected to such treatment by a make-shift kangaroo court. As governor of North Carolina he has the obligation to see that the state's interests are protected. He likewise has the obligation to see that his administration does not engage in fanatic witch-hunting, leveling blanket indictments and pronouncements of guilt against various business groups without affording the accused "their day in court".

One Stops Short Of Major War

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—The cool wind blowing toward the hot Laotian jungles—the Russians are talking peace—will be in line with an international habit if peace really comes.

In every major U.S.-Communist crisis since World War II, when one side got tough and the other got tough or tougher, one of them stopped short of that next step which would have meant world war.

It happened in Greece and Turkey, with Berlin, with Korea, with Hungary, with Lebanon and with Formosa.

President Kennedy, fed up with the increasingly successful efforts of the Soviet-backed rebels in Laos to take over the country, called on Russia to back down and arrange a cease-fire.

Monday Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, contrary to his unsmiling custom, came away smiling from a talk with Kennedy and said the Russians wanted a cease fire, too, and an international conference on Laos.

He left out a key factor: When the longer the Russians stall on a cease fire, the more time the Reds have for taking over more of Laos. But Gromyko seemed to be saying "hold your horses" to the President.

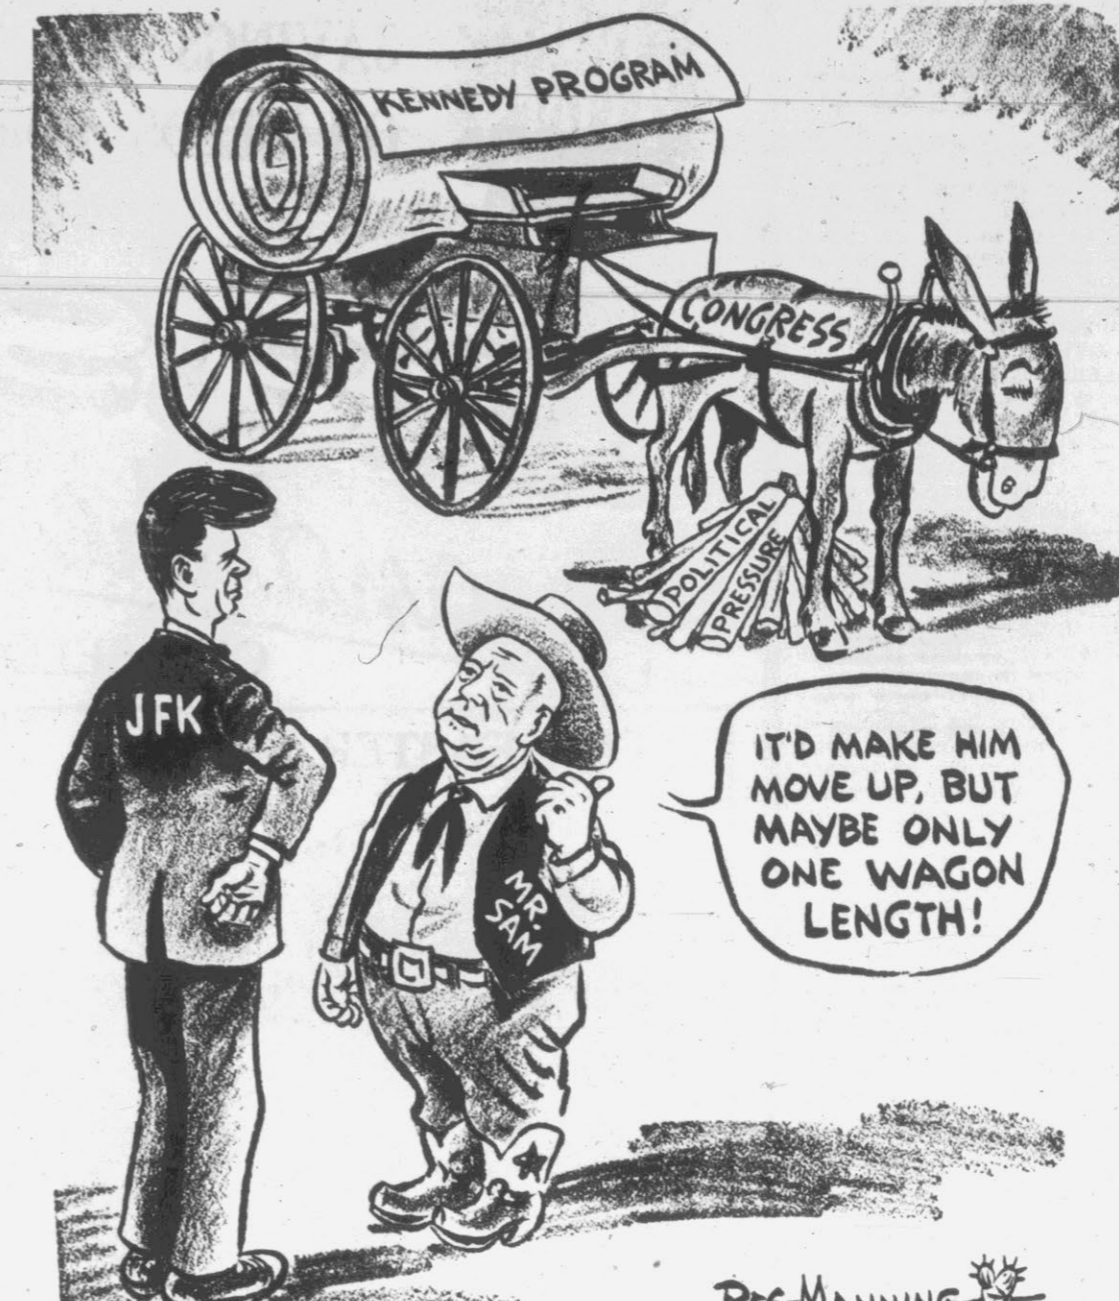

Kennedy has managed to convey the idea to the Russians that he won't wait indefinitely for a cease fire before taking action.

The Russians tried their luck in Laos—and did pretty well since the rebels now hold a good chunk of the country—but apparently in the face of Kennedy's determination don't want to push their luck too hard.

After World War II Stalin put the heat on Greece and Turkey. Then President Truman stepped in, proclaimed the so-called Truman Doctrine, promised aid to the two countries, and Russia backed off.

The next test came in 1948

A Fire Under Him?

Remote Links To Easter

Mention of the Easter season brings thoughts on such subjects as Easter eggs and Easter Island, in addition to the ever-present Easter itself and the Easter parade (of fashion).

Easter Island has no direct relationship to the term Easter, but nevertheless is linked in name at least.

But, of course, Easter eggs are very much related to the Easter season. In origin they are more related to the religious aspect than generally realized.

The "old" definition of Easter eggs described them as eggs boiled hard and stained red or some other color to symbolize the Saviour's resurrection. In some cases, eggs were even gilded in the effort.

The custom of Easter eggs exists in this country without a religious emphasis. In some other countries, Easter eggs or egg shaped structures made of card or sugar, have been used as a means of sending presents to friends. This is customary to some extent in France and in England.

The practice seems to be of pre-Christian origin, somehow related originally with the New Year, when that was reckoned from the vernal equinox.

As for Easter Island, it is a "Bali Ha'i" of the Pacific Ocean. The island is small, about 45 miles in area, and located some 2,000 miles west of Chile (and is a possession of Chile).

The mysterious and romantic attraction about Easter Island is the strange existence of numerous stone monuments, which appear to be man-made in some past time. Figures resemble human and animal figures.

Myths exist as to how the stone monuments got there, who put them on that lonely, small island out in the Pacific, whether it was some forgotten tribe of people or cast-offs.

At any rate they are there. By the fact of association of ideas, the Easter season is as good a time as any to wonder about Easter Island and to tell its story.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
WATCH THAT CIVILIZATION
In 1787 Gibbon completed his famous work, "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

This work has become famous largely because of the analysis which Gibbon made as to why the fall of Rome took place. He attributed it to five causes: 1. The rapid increase of divorce; the undermining of the dignity and sanctity of the home, which is the basis of human society. 2. Higher and higher taxes and the spending of public monies for free bread, and circuses for the populace. 3. The mad chase for pleasure, sports becoming every year more exciting and more brutal. 4. The building of gigantic armaments when the real enemy was within the decadence of the people. 5. The decay of religion—faith fading into mere form, losing touch with life and becoming impotent to warn and guide the people.

Within the past half-century an Italian historian, named Ferrero, has written a book called "Ancient Rome and Modern America." He shows how strikingly our civilization resembles the ancient civilization of Rome.

Let us not think that our marvelous civilization is either fool proof or inviolate. The same things can topple us over which toppled over the glories of past ages. We may at this very hour be cherishing forces within our social, economic, political, and spiritual life which may wreck us as surely as mistakes and wrongdoings wrecked Rome almost fifteen hundred years ago.

This bill merely cuts through some red tape which heretofore has caused many patients to have to spend a night or two in jail. If it passes the legislature, and it should pass, then in the future mental patients can be on their way to an institution and treatment within a matter of a few hours after the case is diagnosed.

We must keep our jails for those who are charged with criminal offenses. And we must not allow, in this decent society, persons mentally deranged to be placed in the same category as criminals.

Other Editors Saying... Forward-Looking Bills

(Washington Daily News)
State Representatives John Umstead and Wayland Sprull have introduced a bill into the General Assembly in the effort to do something about the nasty business of holding mentally deranged persons in jail pending their admittance into a mental institution.

If this bill is passed, two doctors unrelated to the patient, can sign an affidavit signifying that the person needs mental care in an institution, and that person must be admitted immediately.

The bill is certainly a forward-looking piece of legislation. It is long overdue. There is just one drawback to it. Regardless of how nasty it might seem to imprison a mentally deranged person, the fact remains that all too often mental institutions are running over to the brim and there just is not enough space to take care of those needing to go.

North Carolina must take a long and sincere look at this matter of care of mental patients. These people have no lobbies, have no one except their own families asking for help, have no direct influence, and thus they, in a real sense, are at the mercy of the state.

We have seen mental patients placed in jail until some disposition could be made of them. Jails are for criminals, and a mental patient is not classified as a criminal particularly if no crime has been committed.

These mental patients deserve all the humane consideration this or any other state can give them. They are at the mercy of the world in a real sense, and except for the terrific love of their own families, who is there to help these unfortunate people except the state.

No man in North Carolina has fought the battle for the mentally deficient people with more vigor and dedication than Mr. Umstead. He deserves tremendous credit for his fight. He will never get it from those for whom he has done so much because they are not mentally capable of expressing their thanks. But the others of us in North Carolina know what both he and Mr. Sprull have done in this regard. And while this is not a two-man battle, it is one which has been waged by few persons for the benefit of many.

We do not know how much chance this bill has of passing. Offhand, we'd say that most legislators will readily favor it because it is a problem which needs humane attention now.

While there will be no lobbyists favoring the bill, there will also be none opposing it.

This bill merely cuts through some red tape which heretofore has caused many patients to have to spend a night or two in jail. Communication Via 'Grapevine'

By ELMER ROESSNER
Despite the increase in intercoms, house organs, loud-speaker systems, company bulletins and supervisor-to-employees systems, the grapevine is still an important factor in employee communication.

Every announcement put out by management is competing with the old mouth-to-ear news system. Sometimes it wins; sometimes it loses.

Management experts agree that no executive can dismiss the grapevine as a tangle of washroom chat. The grapevine has always existed, before any plant or office began operation; it continues to function despite the most thorough and most modern means of communication between management and workers, and it's a good guess it will continue in the age of automation. Robots in completely automated factories will whisper to one another. "You don't know where you heard it, but now you know that management is cutting the cutting oil and our work will be harder."

MANY RELY ON GRAPEVINE
Some interesting facts have been added to the grapevine function by Eugene Walton in the current issue of the American Management Association's "Personnel" Walton is a management analyst for communications.

He reported on a study in which a random sample of employees was asked through what channel they expected to hear about an important change in operations. Answers in percentages were:

- Grapevine 38
- Supervisor 27
- Official memo 17
- House organ 7
- Other 11

In answer to another question,

22 percent said the grapevine was right less than half the time, 50 percent said it was right half the time, and 28 percent said it was more often right than wrong.

However, when questioned about recent announcements, those who said they got their first information from official bulletins out-numbered those who said they had their first information off the vine.

COMPETITION FOR ATTENTION
Walton concluded that management must recognize the fact that the grapevine is a potent contender for attention when "hot" information was to be released, and that its speed must be recognized.

"The company that wants to be sure its employees get all the facts and get them straight had best see to it that its formal communications channels are all

Solid Basis In Laos

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
The question might be asked why the President chooses to make his stand at Laos against Communist aggression, rather than in the Congo or Cuba. The answer is that while Cuba would be easier, a demarche on that country would involve us in difficulties with the Organization of American States at this time; a military support of one faction or another in the Congo might lead to a breakdown of relations with other new African nations most of which are undecided as to whose money to take.

Laos, however, is a clean-cut legalistic position, based on our support of SEATO to which we are bound by Treaty. The South East Asian Treaty Organization was formed by the United States. In accordance with the agreements reached at the Manila and Bangkok Conferences in 1954 and 1955, the freedom of Cambodia, Laos and South Vietnam was guaranteed by SEATO. The Conferences were attended by Britain, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Pakistan, Thailand and France.

Here then is a positive commitment. The fact that Russia agreed to the general settlement of the Indo-China question does not matter as much as that at Manila and Bangkok, the United States made a pledge and undertook a responsibility.

The South East Asian Defense Treaty was agreed to in September 1954 at Manila in the Philippines, Article 4 Section b of this treaty declares:

"(b) If in the opinion of any of the parties the inviolability of the integrity of the territory or the sovereignty or political independence of any party in the treaty area or of any other State or territory to which the provisions of paragraph (a) of this Article extend from time to time is threatened in any way other than by armed attack, or is affected or threatened by any fact or situation which might endanger the peace of the area, the parties shall consult immediately in order to agree on the measures which should be taken for the common defense."

There can be no question but that this clause makes us directly into the Laos situation. Geography determines that.

A protocol added to the Treaty spells out our responsibilities in connection with Laos:

"The parties to the South treaty unanimously designate for the purposes of Article 4 of the treaty the territory of Cambodia, Laos and the free territory under the jurisdiction of the State of Vietnam."

Further, the Pacific Charter was formulated. This Charter stated in its fourth article:

"... as decreed in the South East Asia collective defence treaty, they are determined to prevent or counter by appropriate means any attempt in the treaty area to subvert freedom or to destroy their sovereignty or territorial integrity."

Thus here is a clear case, whereas in the Congo, from a legalistic standpoint, we can only act on behalf of the United Nations and therefore could be involved in the absurd strategy of the Korean War which was fought without a military objective against an enemy which was given a sanctuary that our troops could not enter. In a word, under the United Nations, defeat is assured.

If our stand were taken in Cuba, which it will have to be ultimately, the United States might risk an antagonistic majority in the General Assembly of the United Nations and in the Organization of American States.

It does not really matter what we make our stand as long as we make one. Since 1945, the United States has pursued a policy of attempting to talk a war out of existence. During the whole of this long period, Soviet Russia and Red China have made enormous gains in Asia, Africa and Latin America. The United States has made progress nowhere. It has been a weak policy, frightfully costly in the wealth of this nation and sapping the vital energy of the American people. The so-called Cold War has been a continuous war by other means than shot and shell.

President Kennedy has made the first real stand against the enemy in this Cold War since the Berlin Airlift. In this posture, he has the support of both Republicans and Democrats that he is supported by the entire American people, except those who are voluntary servants of Soviet policy.

Holy Week Services Being Held At Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church

Rev. H. M. McLamb preached last night in Holy Week services at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church on the subject "The Name of Jesus." He used as a text, "There is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved."
"This is the name that has brought salvation to us and as Christians it is our privilege to proclaim it in every area of our lives," said the Rev. Mr. McLamb. He discussed proclaiming this name through preaching, teaching, conversation, daily contacts.

Town Says 'No' To Federal Aid

ITALY, Tex. (AP)—Residents of tornado-battered Italy, a central Texas town of 1,200, said no thanks Tuesday to an offer of federal aid.
The twister struck Sunday night, inflicting losses estimated by city officials at $750,000. Not a business house in town escaped damage.
Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex., offered to seek federal disaster relief if the city council wanted it. In reply the council sent Teague this telegram, drafted by editor Russell Bryant of the Italy News: "City council authorizes me to thank you for offer of federal disaster funds. We feel the federal treasury is in worse shape than Italy and suggest that any allocation set up for Italy be applied to the national debt."

Eighty-five volunteers representing eleven Pitt County communities last night attended their final formal briefing for April's Cancer Crusade.

The group, comprising officers of the Pitt County unit of the American Cancer Society, chairmen and co-chairmen and workers, were guests of the sponsoring Greenville Moose Lodge at supper, which was followed by a series of reports and an instructional period.
Crusade Chairman Roscoe King called on various project chairmen to summarize their programs as planned to date.
Over-all planning for April's Cancer Crusade sets aside the first week to business and industrial solicitation, the second to residential visits, the third and fourth weeks to a series of fund-raising projects.

Principal speaker of the evening was Mrs. Ruel Tyson, East Carolina Field Consultant for the N.C. Division of the ACS who reviewed the general program of research, education and service of the American Cancer Society, and the role of the individual Crusader. Her discussion was augmented with two films prepared by the National Division of the ACS.
Mrs. Tyson put special emphasis on the element of personal contact as a means of spreading general knowledge on preventative measures and recognition of cancer's danger signals. She said high incidence of cancer deaths could be appreciatively reduced if all people were made sufficiently aware of the importance of regular physical examinations and prompt heading of danger signals.
Crusade kits were distributed to the chairmen and co-chairmen. Communities represented at last night's meeting were: Ayden, Bethel, Black Jack, Farmville, Fountain, Greenville, Grimesland, Simpson, Stokes, Stokestown and Winterville.
The supper was served by Women of the Moose.

Ballpark Plans Told To Rotary

AYDEN — At the Ayden Rotary meeting on Friday night, Gwynn Merritt, incoming president, presented a program on the district conference held recently in Kingston.
Bob Elwanger and Jerry Britt, guests of Tom Wheelers, represented the Ayden Jaycees in explaining their current project of constructing a Little League baseball park on the elementary school grounds. They asked the cooperation of the Rotary Club and asked for a contribution towards the project. The matter was referred to the Board of Directors for action.
Special guests for the evening were members of the Greenville Rotary Club George Coffman Junius Rose and Dr. Fred Irons. Wayland McGlohon, club president, presided at the meeting.

Hedy Agrees To Suit Settlement

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Hedy Lamarr agreed Tuesday to a $3,500 settlement of a $100,000 injury suit after concluding, "I can't fight an insurance company."
Miss Lamarr brought the action on behalf of her son, John A. Loder, 14, injured Dec. 9, 1958, when his bicycle collided with a car driven by Frank J. Burnell. The boy is Miss Lamarr's son by her marriage to John Loder.
Miss Lamarr, who said the boy's hearing has been impaired since the accident, charged Burnell with negligence.

Spring Holidays

East Carolina College students are busy with last-minute academic chores before leaving the campus Thursday afternoon, March 30, for Easter holidays. Only a handful of students will remain at the college during the four-day vacation period.
Classes will be resumed Tuesday, April 4, at 8:00 a.m. Business and administrative offices will be closed on Easter Monday.

State Has Two Million Drivers

RALEIGH—North Carolina has two million licensed drivers and just about as many registered motor vehicles, according to a summary prepared by the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

The agency said its 1960 tally of registrations showed the state with a grand total of 1,907,938 vehicles of all kinds—including 21 engine-driven wheel chairs operated by disabled persons under special licensing arrangements.

Passenger cars, of course, easily made up the biggest single classification with 1,390,461, agency officials said. Trucks numbered 323,742, trailer, 126,974, buses (including 11,209 school buses) 14,782, motorcycles 6,214 and dealers 53,794.

The 1960 count put North Carolina 13th from the top in national vehicle registration. California is first.
Pitt County registration (cars and trucks only) were listed at 23,648 vehicles.

Among many East African tribes, which prize cattle highly, the highest compliment a swain can pay to his maiden is to imply that she is bovine.

Town Meeting Said Like Collective Farm Meeting

NORTH KINGSTOWN, R.I. (AP)—An American town meeting, a Soviet collective farm gathering—pretty much the same thing, says newsman Wladimir Ozerov of Moscow.

Ozerov, who represents the Soviet news agency Tass in New York, was one of 15 foreign newsmen who sat in on the North Kingstown town meeting Tuesday night.

"Everyone having a voice—that's the way it is with the collective farm," he said. "Every collective farm has its own budget, an estimate of what will be the harvest, what the farmers will get in wheat, money. It is all discussed at a general meeting."

"Decisions are then made by a popular vote, just as here."
About 500 taxpayers jammed into the junior high school and approved a budget at a three-hour meeting spiced with some hot discussions and a few laughs.

A Czech and a Pole compared notes and decided it was much the same in their countries.
"Exactly the same as in some of the smaller communities around Prague," said Alexander Zemanek of the Czechoslovak News Agency.

Wladyslaw Pawlak of the Polish radio network agreed things were not much different from proceedings in small towns back home. He pointed to two or three perennial objectors and said: "That, too, is normal. We have such individuals."

The newsmen, members of the Foreign Press Association, attended the meeting under the sponsorship of the World Affairs Council and the Providence Journal-Bulletin.

North Kingstown, first settled 1641, incorporated 33 years later.

is about 16 miles south of Providence on Narragansett Bay. A town of 44 square miles, it had a population of 18,226 in last a federal census and a 1950 tax rate of $29.50 per $1,000 of valuation. The newsmen, introduced after the meeting ended, were applauded by the taxpayers.

Bob Hope Wins Tax Case Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bob Hope has won a battle with federal income tax officials in connection with a $100,000 donation to his private charity—the Bob and Dolores Hope Foundation.
The government contended the money from a book on the comedian's life, should be taxed as income.

Tuesday a federal judge ruled in Hope's favor after the comedian's wife, Dolores, testified that the foundation was set up to aid handicapped and needy children.

Liz Taylor Has Plans For Rest

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—To Elizabeth Taylor, returning home after a bout with double pneumonia in London, California never looked better. The Californians who welcomed her at the airport Tuesday enthusiastically returned the compliment. "Never more beautiful," said one writer. "Radiant," wrote another. It was cool and cloudy when the plane landed after the flight from New York. But as the actress—sitting in a wheelchair—was being carried down the ramp, the clouds parted and a warm sun prevailed. Miss Taylor blinked happily. "I'm so glad to be home and see all this sunshine," she said. "Now I know I can get lots of rest and get my health back."

Husband Eddie Fisher pushed the wheelchair to a waiting limousine. The couple plans to spend a few days in Beverly Hills, then go to Palm Springs for a long stay. "I'm just going to sit in the sun for a few months," Miss Taylor said.

Holiday Monday For Town Office

GRIFTON — Easter Monday will be observed as an official holiday this year by employees in the Griffon Town Office, town clerk, Mrs. Joyce McCoy, said yesterday. The town office will reopen Tuesday at its regular time. Usually town employees have New Year's Day as a holiday, but they voted to work on New Year's and observe Easter Monday as a holiday this year. Man lives longer than any other mammal. The elephant has the second longest life.

Street Project Completed By Ayden Workmen

AYDEN—Town Manager Cleveland Taylor this week announced the completion of the Venter Street improvements, and said workmen are currently engaged in making repairs at the cemetery. Widening of the much travelled Venter Street has resulted in 10 more feet in road space than before, including five added feet on each side. The project involved moving telephone poles and water meters. Venter Street provides access to the western part of town from Kinston, as well as access to the down town area. Repairs are being made at the cemetery, where Easter Sunrise services will be held this year. Ordinarily the services are held at the Jaycee Park. Work on a perimeter road has been temporarily halted, following wet weather, Taylor noted, discussing another project.

Focus On Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Alertness in your sleep, the allergy to old dust, tooth decay and teen-age drinking are subjects with a focus on health: SLEEP ALERT Part of your thinking brain may be wide awake, while you're asleep. British researchers ordered a group of sleep volunteers to raise their hands whenever they heard their own names. Then a tape recording of 56 names in random order was played. The volunteers fell asleep listening to the recording, but many awoke with automatic hand movements when their names came up on the record. Some subjects, told to listen for a name other than their own, also awoke when the chosen name was called out, singing it out from the other names in their sleep. DUST TO OLD DUST It's the old dust' around the house that sets allergy sufferers to sneezing, sneezing and itching, a chemist says. House dust breaks down with time into the irritating products that cause the trouble. Fresh dust doesn't have the same effect, suggests Dr. Arthur Lietze of Oregon State College. It's also likely that food allergies are based on digested products of the food, not on the food itself, he told the American Chemical Society. TOO MUCH, TOO SOON Teen-age alcoholics: Where do they come from? A Boston study of 20 teen-age problem drinkers found these facts: Almost all the fathers and some of the mothers were alcoholics. Often the father had deserted, leaving the family nearly destitute. The pattern of excessive drinking was apparent before puberty. Most of the alcohol was stolen. Outstanding personality traits: Hostility, depression, impulsiveness and sexual confusion. FEEL GOOD FAST Worried? Feeling low? Have a good bracing medical checkup. Regular checkups, besides being a good way to prevent trouble, make you feel healthy as well, a British doctor suggests. Few of us—even the healthiest in mind and body—come out of a good medical examination without a feeling of elation, he says. Reason: We've been assured that our body's complex parts are intact and functioning well. "For we so frequently harbor fear—varying in intensity from a stified, nagging doubt to a positive phobia—that all is not well," says Dr. George Day. "Fear is humanity's commonest disease." TOOTH DECAY With fluoride dentifrices, good brushing technique and the amount of time the teeth are exposed to the dentifrice are factors in how effective they will be in preventing tooth decay, researchers report. In addition, brushing with fluoride dentifrices will enhance the efficiency of fluorides applied to your teeth by a dentist, a recent dental research meeting was told.

Book Identifies Trees Of N.C.

RALEIGH—Ever wondered how you can identify the many different species of trees growing in the more than 20 million acres of North Carolina woodlands? If you have, you can make your task easy by getting a copy of the booklet titled "Common Forest Trees of North Carolina—How To Know Them." The book, well illustrated and containing 88 pages of pictures and information about trees common to North Carolina, costs 15 cents per copy and may be obtained by sending this amount in coin to the Public Information Office, Department of Conservation and Development, Raleigh, North Carolina. It is sent postpaid. Now in its ninth edition, this book, first compiled by the late J.S. Holmes, North Carolina's first State forester, and revised from time to time, has proven to be very popular with students as well as adults, interesting in learning more about the different species of trees growing in this State.

Attended Recent District Meet

FARMVILLE — Among the Farmville delegation, numbering 13 Key members and two advisers, attending the recent annual convention of Key Clubs of the Carolinas district, held in Columbia, S.C., were: Nassif Cannon Jr., lieutenant-governor of the seventh district, who responded to greetings from Columbia's Mayor Lester L. Bates; Bobby Bass, sponsored by the Farmville Key clubbers who was among candidates for the office of district treasurer; and Sam D. Bundy, Farmville school principal, past president of the Carolinas district and a member of the district Key Club committee. Senator J. Strom Thurmond was guest speaker at the district governor's banquet. Included in the Farmville delegation were: Adviser Allen Benfield and Key clubbers Alex Corbett, John Mewborn, Rex Hodges, Todd Holmes, Ben Moore, Billy Walker, Chester Outland, Eddie Thomas, Moses Moye, Dean Oglesby and Bobby Fiser.

Mass Service For Dead Family

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Mass services will be held here Friday for the 12 members of one family who died when a pre-dawn fire destroyed their home in the nearby Dotsonville community. The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Alex Whitehead, their nine children and Mrs. Whitehead's father, Albert Gibbs, who lived with the Whiteheads. The children ranged in age from 13 years to nine months.

Took Close Look At Airport Art

ATLANTA (AP)—Mayor William Hartsfield, 71, climbed a 30-foot ladder Tuesday for a close look at the Atlanta airport's $30,000 worth of dangling mobile sculpture and pronounced it "high art." Although admitting some people wouldn't like it, the mayor said, "nothing is as controversial as progress." He also confessed the impressionistic work hanging from the lobby ceiling of the new $18-million terminal building looked like falling leaves to him. At least, Hartsfield said, the Atlanta terminal will be able to boast that its mobile is the only one of its kind.

Little Chance Of Getting Away With Bank Robbery

Fear 15 Traffic Deaths For N.C.

CHARLOTTE — The N. C. State Motor Club estimates that at least 15 persons will die in traffic accidents on North Carolina highways during the Easter weekend. Highway fatalities for the holiday period will be counted from 6 p.m. Friday through midnight Monday. The state's Easter traffic toll last year added up to 12 killed and 335 injured in 594 accidents.

Of the 619 driver violations reported, the leading causes of accidents were speeding, failure to yield right of way, following too closely, driving under the influence of alcohol and driving on the wrong side of the road other than in passing.

North Carolina's highway deaths for the first three months of this year are running neck and neck with the pace set in 1960, when the traffic toll reached 1,220, second highest on record. It was exceeded only in 1941, when 1,289 persons were killed.

Thomas B. Watkins, president of the motor club, urged drivers to heed the rules of the road and exercise courtesy and caution in an all-out effort of cooperation in Gov. Sanford's new highway safety program to reduce the state's highway slaughter by at least 100 victims this year.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — If you're thinking about robbing a North Carolina bank, forget it and go on relief. There's a better chance of getting a relief check than getting away with bank robbery.

North Carolina has had its share of bank robberies — 40 since Jan. 30, 1947. Only six cases are unsolved. And of all the persons who went on trial charged with bank robbery in North Carolina, only one got off. That's a hard record to beat.

"The best way to stamp out bank robbery is to make certain every bank robber is convicted," says Donald Rooney, special agent in charge of the FBI's Charlotte office which oversees all of North Carolina and a part of South Carolina.

Most of these robbers are amateurs, according to Rooney. "We want to convince them they can't get away with it," he says.

Still North Carolina banks get robbed, the robbers get caught and convicted, and generally all or most of the loot is recovered.

The hackneyed announcement, "This is a stickup," he resounded in banks in every section of the state. Bank bandits have flocked to North Carolina, not only from surrounding states, but seemingly from the four points of the compass.

After a lull in 1960 when only two banks were robbed, 1961 is off to a fast start.

The three robberies which occurred this year apparently were the work of amateurs.

A tall man wearing a raincoat got $1,450 from the Park Road branch of the Union National Bank in Charlotte, Jan. 3. On Jan. 14, two men took $5,443 from the Welcome branch of the Lexington State Bank, and on March 21, a short, scar-faced bandit with a crooked nose, took $3,644 from the Marion Bank & Trust Co.

Of the 63 banks robbed since early 1947, there have been arrests and convictions in all but six cases. These are listed as unsolved.

In one other case, a man was arrested and acquitted, the only such outcome in the history of North Carolina bank robbery trials.

Three men now are awaiting trial in connection with the Welcome robbery.

The total haul from the 63 robberies was $796,848. Of this, about $542,920 was recovered.

In North Carolina, all but two banks are covered by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. This means that every account insured up to $10,000 each against such crimes as robbery, theft or embezzlement. Embezzlers, incidentally, cause banks more worry and less than robberies.

At one time, North Carolina was considered the bank-robber's state in the nation, according to Walter Anderson, head of the State Bureau of Investigation.

From July, 1948, to Nov. 30, 1949, the state had 11 bank robberies. This figure long ago was outstripped by North Carolina itself and other states.

Anderson also called the Scottish Bank at Pembroke "the nation's most robbed bank" at that time. The small bank suffered four hold-ups in the 18-month period.

But the oft-robbed little bank got tired of it all and hired a bank guard. On March 21, 1949, two gunmen entered the bank. The new bank guard shot one through the chest. Two others involved soon were arrested.

This ended the easy reputation of the bank. One of the robbers later remarked: "Dammit, I didn't even get my hands on the money."

Branches of the First Citizens Bank of Smithfield also rank high among oft-robbed institutions. The branch at Anger has had three hold-ups, and branches at Burgaw, Garner, Ft. Bragg and Raleigh each has been robbed once.

Each when a bandit eludes police, he never knows when he'll be arrested. William R. Barkley of Winston-Salem held up three employees of the Commercial Bank of Stokesdale on March 1, 1949, and escaped with about $800.

J. O. Richardson, one of the bank's tellers, visited Winston-Salem six weeks later. As he walked along a main street, he saw Barkley approaching. Richardson grabbed him. Barkley broke away, but was captured in a vacant lot nearby.

At that time, many Forsyth County men were growing beards for the county's centennial celebration. Barkley, who got six years in prison as a result of the chance meeting with the teller, told Judge Johnson J. Hayes that if he had grown a beard, the cashier would never have recognized him.

If robbing a bank presents a challenge to some men, it also presents a challenge to police to catch them.

Rooney warns would-be bank robbers that when they rob a bank they immediately bring out a "maximum law enforcement effort in the area."

"I send every agent I can to a robbed bank," he says. "I often go myself."

City and county police, sheriff's officers and the Highway Patrol quickly join in. From then on, it's only a matter of time before the robber is captured.

Farmville C-of-C Adds Members

FARMVILLE — Louis N. Williams, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has announced the recent addition of four new members: Jack McDavid, civil engineer; C. E. Mashburn, Plumbing & Heating; Dr. Thomas H. Patterson, and H.G. Chesson, representative of Home Security Life Insurance.

This brings membership in the local business group to 102.

Donate Overtime To Family's Need

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Firemen in this Michigan Upper Peninsula city have launched a memorial fund for the widow and four children of a colleague who died fighting a blaze Saturday.

Firemen promised to donate their overtime pay to a fund for the family of Frederick (Pat) Fournier, 31.

PAUL HORGAN'S GREAT HISTORICAL NOVEL A DISTANT TRUMPET

CHAPTER 28

Before daylight the search party for Kitty Mainwaring assembled at the corral and saddled up. Matthew Hazard spoke to Colonel Prescott.

"Sir, Joe Dummy wants to try something."

"He thinks we ought to search the upper ends of the gullies where the rock steps kept us from riding further yesterday."

"If we couldn't get up, how could she?"

"I know, sir. But he thinks she might have come into one of the gullies from the other end."

"We'll do it, of course. But why would she still be there?"

It was an appalling inquiry, and the colonel abruptly turned away, gave the signal to mount, and led the party out northwestward.

Daylight was over them when they came riding around the northern curve of the basin. They were approaching the first of the gullies by the flank, and soon they entered it from its upper trough, where long ago it took its beginnings from rain runoff. They saw the scout Joe Dummy dismount and walk ahead of them and they yielded to his natural authority in that wilderness. In a long slow walk during which he examined every rock and shadow, every sweep of sand, every ragged bush or overhanging cypress, he brought them to the top step of the rocky flight which broke the gully, as it broke the next three to the west. He had found nothing.

"We'll try the next one," said the colonel.

"What can we do, what can we do?" asked Teddy Mainwaring more of himself than of any of the others.

They knew how his belly must be stretched hollow with concern, and how through his scattered thoughts must drift views of the future which twisted his pale, full face with pain.

Once again Joe Dummy, at the next gully, began his examination of the earth. They penetrated the draw to a distance of a few hundred yards when he arrested his slow tread and looked intently upon an object which lay against a rock twenty paces ahead.

As they looked, it moved.

Joe Dummy spread them all to a halt behind him with his hand. They were facing a large lion-colored animal with scowling, cat's face and bared cutlass-like teeth. It was a puma. The animal raised his heavy head and flared a great paw to show his claws, and tried to rise in defense and preparation for attack. But he was wounded. Blood showed in a drying seep at his left shoulder.

"Great Scot," said the colonel, "someone shot him."

Joe turned to nod yes, yes, and then he pointed past the cat along the gully, and they saw a trail of dried blood on the exposed rocks and wind-cleaned sand. The wounded cat had come from deeper in the draw. They must go past him.

The colonel drew his revolver and advanced a few paces, rocking his weapon and raising it for the aim. The puma made a warning cry and threw himself up against the rock behind and took up a tense position as if ready to spar. His whitish breast and belly were exposed. Pain made him snarl with a riplike sound. Colonel Prescott shot him in the heart. He fell magnificently inert with his eyes open and still and his mouth relaxed in what looked like a witty smile.

"All right," said the colonel. "Get along."

They moved around and beyond the great lion and came toward a bend in the draw, before they came around it, the colonel halted the party, and said, "You people stay here. I will go forward with Joe." He looked severely at Teddy, and they all knew what the colonel thought to find if there was a chance of finding it, he must spare someone the first sight of it unprepared. While they waited, he walked on around the bend with Joe Dummy.

Kitty, like all the women, had been armed with a pistol. If she had come here and had met the puma she had shot at him. If she had done so, why had they not heard the shot? But they knew that if they had been miles away at the other end of the basin they could not have heard. And of course someone else might have come upon the puma and wounded him. The puma had dragged himself, leaving a trail of blood, from a spot around the bend which, from where they waited, they could not see.

"Why do they take so long to come back?" asked Teddy.

Nobody answered him.

The fact was, Colonel Prescott and Joe Dummy, having found what all expected they might find a little time in making it less hideous to look upon, the better to spare Teddy Mainwaring what he would have to see.

Jessica Prescott, like everyone else, must speak of it. She said to Hiram, almost as though musing: "Poor, poor child. At least the essential part of her at least knows peace. I've been wondering for weeks. She has not been herself. Or perhaps she was more — too much more — herself than ever. She was so ready to have her feelings hurt, and she couldn't keep out of the way of feeling sorry for herself."

"Who knows why? I have ideas, but I shan't say them. But she seemed to beg everyone to pay attention to her. I've seen that in children. They will need something so much they will go to any lengths to get attention. They will make everyone sorry for them. They will show us: they will run away. Maybe they will get lost. Maybe they will get killed, and then — oh, and then — how sorry everyone will be for the way they acted."

"Poor Kitty. Maybe she had to go off and make her little sensation and get us all worried and make us go to every kind of trouble to find her — and save her and bring her back and prove that we love her — and then, suddenly, everything went too far, and turned real, and — and the end!"

"Yes, the end," said Hiram. "Poor Ted. We must have him in for meals until he feels like being by himself," she said.

"There's a risk," said the colonel.

"Yes, I know. But that can be managed, too. I can have the Hazards take him on now and then, and in time he'll be weaned. If only a commander could always pick everyone to serve with him, musket Colonel Prescott.

"Hiram. Yes. Do you know? Why wasn't I more kind to her? Kitty. Not kind. More with her in feeling? I wish. Oh, I don't know. Perhaps I could have helped."

"I don't know how."

"Neither do I. But there was probably a way. How little we ever give ourselves, really."

"Jess."

In another house, peace came to someone else. It was Laura in her first intimate contact with death, she felt that the life that was taken was purified of all things. Laura knew pity and mercy for the woman who had come close to destroying all that she cherished. She resolved never to speak to Matthew of Kitty's revelation. She vowed to put it from her mind whenever it should find its way there. From the horror of Kitty's death she took refuge in her husband and her son in renewed love.

Kitty was buried in the cemetery southeast of the post. Corporal Rainey sounded taps over her small mound after the commanding officer read aloud the prayers for the dead.

When the wind would come up at night, Teddy would lie awake, and think of how it blew across the earth vault of Kitty's grave, and he would see the sand taken off the small mound and blown away, and how in time there would be no sign of it left; and the image of this gave him his most forlorn sense of loneliness. Often he would lie awake until daylight, he who had always slept like an old dog, shapeless and content. So much was different now, perhaps he would be someone else, himself.

"He saw that someone was moving quietly through the camp among the sleeping troopers, bending over them once by one — ..." The story continues tomorrow.

'Shots' Follow Fever Outbreak

CHICAGO (AP)—An emergency medical team began administering immunization shots to about 1,000 residents of a West Side neighborhood Monday night after health officials learned that eight children from the area were being tested for typhoid fever.

Dr. Samuel L. Andelman, city health commissioner, said the eight children are in Cook County Hospital suffering from mild fevers of unknown origin. Dr. Andelman said one doctor believes one of the children has symptoms pointing to typhoid fever. However, he added, the diagnosis of typhoid was not definite.

Another 5-Year Delay In Anti-Missile Defense Seen

Candidate Had 5 Hear His Speech

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Harry Diehl, one of 71 candidates for the U.S. Senate, hired the 4,200-seat city auditorium Tuesday night and spoke to a crowd of five, all stagehands.

Diehl, a Republican, said some of the seats would have been filled but three other candidates failed to show up. He said he had commitments from John Tower, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and interim Sen. William A. Blakley that they would send representatives.

Diehl and 70 others will be on the ballot in the special election April 4 to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's decision not to ask funds to start limited production of the Nike Zeus apparently means the United States will be without an anti-missile defense for at least five more years.

However, there's still a chance that congressional supporters of the Nike Zeus may get some production money into the defense appropriations bill this year.

The anti-missile has some strong rooters on Capitol Hill. One of them, Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., said, "We have already lost too much valuable lead time over the Communists in development and production of this important weapons system."

Omission of any Nike Zeus production funds from the revised defense budget Kennedy sent to Congress Tuesday came as a shock to the Army. Some of its officials had hoped to get about $100 million to start turning out long lead items, mostly radar and computer parts.

Kennedy said nothing at all about the Nike Zeus, but a high administration official said the anti-missile system has not advanced to the point where it can be said with assurance that it should be put into production.

This was the position maintained by the Eisenhower administration and Dr. Herbert F. York, Pentagon director of research and engineering under that administration. Although York is being replaced, his views apparently carry weight with the Kennedy administration, too.

Army officials felt things were going their way when the Joint Chiefs of Staff, for the first time, recommended this year a start on limited production.

Under the Eisenhower administration's farewell military budget — the one Kennedy revised — the Nike Zeus was down for about $250 million more to complete its test program. Since Kennedy didn't mention it, Army officials are assuming it stands — and they take some comfort from this.

So far, since 1957, the Army has spent about $750 million on research and development of the Nike Zeus, the only U. S. anti-missile missile system beyond the drawing board stage.

Army officials estimate it would cost about $9 billion to install enough Nike Zeus launching complexes to protect key strategic bases and centers of industry and population.

Unless the Kennedy administration undergoes a change of heart, the Army will have to wait at least another year before any production money is included in the next regular budget — and there is no assurance it will be then.

Since the Army claims it could deploy some Nike Zeus batteries four years after a go-ahead on long lead production, this means a defense against Soviet missiles would be in place.

until 1966 at the earliest — before a defense against Soviet missiles would be in place.

Served As Judge In State Contest

Dr. Robert Carter of East Carolina College was among solo and concert piano judges in the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs annual State Contest held March 18 at Lenoir Rhyne College in Hickory.

There were 30 contestants, chosen by judges in the recent area festivals across the state. Scholarships and awards will be presented at the State Convention in Asheville on May 5 and 6, and winners will perform on the convention program.

Hell, Michigan Is On The Map

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Highway Department shows the tiny community of Hell on its official maps this year for the first time.

"We decided to put Hell on the map because so many persons wrote asking where it was and how they could get there," said Commissioner John C. Mackie II's about 15 miles southwest of Howell in southeastern Michigan.

The department also recommended motorists visit Paradise, about 50 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie.

Caroline Kennedy Is A Telephone Addict

By FRANCES LEWINE PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Caroline Kennedy, the President's 8-year old daughter, has telephoned her grandfather says. She likes to pick a White House phone and say, "I want to speak to grandpa"—and it works. What's more, he says Caroline is quite a talker, on the telephone and off. She proved that herself as she arrived in Palm Beach Monday night with her mother, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, her infant brother, John Jr., two Kennedy cousins and the family's pet dog, a Welsh terrier named Charlie, for an Easter holiday. Caroline, swept into the arms of grandfather Joseph R. Kennedy, the ex-ambassador to England, had lots to say, including an elaborate explanation of why she hadn't come in a helicopter. "It doesn't fly all the way to Palm Beach, you know," she told her grandfather knowingly. "It just goes to Middleburg." Caroline has been making helicopter flights with President and Mrs. Kennedy to their Virginia hunt country estate in Middleburg, Va., some 45 miles from Washington. Ex-ambassador Kennedy, whose oceanfront home here has been a gathering place for the family for many years, was the official greeter of the arriving members of the clan. Chatting with reporters while he waited, grandfather Kennedy told how Caroline likes to call on the phone from the White House and apparently has no trouble doing it on her own. One day recently, he said, Caroline called, chatted elaborately and then asked the President, "Do you want to speak to grandpa?" In the midst of their talk grandfather Kennedy said the President suddenly declared, "Caroline, what are you doing?" While her father talked, Caroline had picked up another phone and put through a call to a family friend in Palm Beach, Mrs. Charles Wrightsman, grandfather Kennedy reported with a fond smile.

Seeks Job After Robbery 'Fling'

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—After a brief but spectacular fling at bank robbery, Eugene Snyder, 33, is back home looking for work. Snyder last month robbed the Flagler Savings and Loan Association of $4,667. A day later he brought back all the money, except for $23 which he said he spent on groceries for his family. He said he was desperate over unemployment. U.S. Dist. judge Emmett C. Choat Monday put Snyder on five years probation—with a proviso that Snyder attend church regularly. Lao villagers believe sickness is caused by the departure of one of the 32 souls inhabiting their bodies.

Play Tarboro Here Thursday

Phants Find Hurler In 9-1 Defeat

GREENVILLE'S PHANTOMS lost their opening baseball game here yesterday afternoon but at the same time uncovered a young pitcher that may play a leading role in the rush for the Northeastern Conference title.

Wilson slugged the locals 9-1 but Bernie Morris, the third Phant hurler, blanked the productive Cyclones over the final three innings to slip into the number two pitching choice on the club behind ace Larry Roberts.

Greenville opens its conference slate here on Thursday against Tarboro with Roberts scheduled to toe the rubber. Morris, a fireman in demand yesterday, may again keep the bullpen active.

STARTER ED SMOOT never had a chance and reliever Denzie Hardee was able to hang around only a short time as Wilson pricked the defense for nine runs in the first four innings.

Carlton Barnes and sophomore H.P. Rogers greeted Smoot in the initial frame with back-to-back hits, Rogers' blast being a run-scoring double. Ken Boykin lofted a long fly to center and Rogers moved to third base. He scored on Don Ferrell's infield out.

Greenville retaliated with its only run of the evening in the bottom half of the inning and, oddly enough, it came without a hit.

Kenny Joyner walked to start the frame and later scored when Beland muffed Larry Roberts' long fly to right field.

THE VISITORS chased Smoot in the second inning by bunting three walks, an error, and a single for two runs.

Barnes unloaded his second hit—a single—off Smoot's delirious drive in the first run. The other one scored on an outfield error.

Hardee's opening pitching assignment with the varsity was a short one. The little red-head was wild as a jack-rabbit in the third inning and three runs scored before he settled down.

Bobby Langley and Ferrell rapped singles in the innings but two walks and a couple of hit batsmen put Hardee in hot water.

In the fourth, Wilson touched Hardee for a couple more insurance runs on three hits and a walk.

Ferrell slammed a single into left field, scoring a couple of runs. Boykin poundtd a double prior to Ferrell's blow and Rogers singled.

Morris, taking the mound with nothing to lose, mowed the Cyclones down with only a single safety in the final three innings.

Boykin singled in the sixth but was erased from the base paths on a double play by first sacker Rodney Knowles.

The only other Cyclone to reach base was Barnes who was safe on an error in the fifth.

Morris fanned three and didn't yield any walks in his impressive stint.

GREENVILLE WAS absolutely punchless to the offerings of southpaw Bobby Langley who dished out only two hits. Spencer Harrington spoiled the no-hit bid in the fifth with a clean single and Leon Williamson doubled in the seventh.

Wake Forest Starts Nine Game Southern Tour Today

Wake Forest, currently the hottest baseball team in the Atlantic Coast Conference, begins a nine-game southern tour today with a game against Georgia Southern at Statesboro, Ga.

On the tour, Coach Jack Stallings' Demon Deacons, 5-0 so far in the season, will play one game in Georgia, six in Florida and two in South Carolina.

The hit-happy Demon Deacons collected 17 hits off of three Colby pitchers, several of the blows going to extra bases. Roger Coon drove in three runs with a fourth-inning triple and Bobby Robinson knocked a three-run homer in the eighth inning. Jack Karcher, who came on in relief in the fifth inning, was the winning pitcher.

Duke lost to Florida State 4-0, and Maryland bowed to Dartmouth 12-5.

Today's schedule: Wake Forest at Georgia Southern, Duke at Florida State and North Carolina State host to Colby.

North Carolina had to come frof behind and then stave off a ninth-inning uprising to even its two-game series with Connecticut. The Tar Heels were trailing 2-0 before tying it with a two-run fourth inning and going ahead with another score in the fifth.

Heel pitcher, had to call on ace Nick Warren for help in the ninth. Murr, after two singles and a walk, gave up two singles and a walk. The rally died when Connecticut's Tom Kopp flied out to the left field fence.

For the second time in two days, Duke outbit Florida State, 6-5 Tuesday, but also for the second time in two days the Blue Devils were defeated by the Seminoles in Florida State's invitational tournament. Two of the five hits which Blue Devil losing pitcher Ron Kalish gave up were home runs.

Maryland's downfall was a Dartmouth player named Mike Nyquist. He hit a three-run homer in the third inning and then knocked a solo home run in the sixth. Nyquist also drove in one more run, for a total of five. The Terps' George Klinedinst and Larry Kupper each drove in two runs.

Clinic Opens For The Kids

Those closely connected with golf believe a youngster learning the game early has a better than average chance of reaching success, both as a golfer and in society. Yet, many claim the opportunity of learning the game isn't afforded the brash youngster.

Simon Moye and Harold Thomas of Greenville launched their fourth golf clinic for the kids (and women) this weekend and they openly invite the public to take full advantage.

The clinic runs for a full month with classes being given to the ladies on Friday mornings and the children taking their swings on Saturday mornings.

Moye, a two-time club champion. Thomas and Thomas, the active Pro of the Greenville Golf and Country Club, feel they have achieved much in the past three years, with enrollment growing each spring.

Without doubt, golf is rapidly becoming the top participate sport in America and courses are beginning to show this. The clinic is one of a few made open to the public in this section of the state. It is a grand opportunity to get the kids off on the right foot.

Anyone wanting to sign up for the month's course should contact either Thomas or Moye this week

Plans For Club Championship

Plans for the annual staging of the Greenville Country Club championship were announced this week. The match play tournament starts April 12th and will run through May 31st. Golfers will again be divided into six flights, depending upon handicaps.

Dallas Clark, Rose High senior and member of the golf team, battled the course courageously last spring to upset the odds and win the title, ousting 1959 champion Bo Farley in the final round.

The competition for the 1961 trophy is expected to be keen again. Clark will be defending his title and Farley's aim will be to regain it.

Greenville golfers whose handicap are not up to date are asked to turn in their scores to the pro or at the pro shop

Signs With ECC

Tarboro football star Bill Bailey has signed with East Carolina College, Coach Jack Boone announced this week.

Bailey, a 6-0, 195 pound quarterback, led Tarboro to the Northeastern Conference football title this past fall, scoring 15 touchdowns.

He was an All-Conference selection both as a junior and senior and was named All-State this past fall.

Palmer, Sanders Share Top Money

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Doug Saunders had the strongest finish — a 6-under-par 66 — but he had to share top spot with Arnold Palmer in the 36-hole, $10,000 Seminole Golf Tournament.

Palmer matched Sanders' two-day total of 138 by shooting a 67 on the last 18 holes Tuesday. They each netted $900, but Palmer picked up $800 more as he and an amateur teammate edged out the pro-amateur field in a simultaneous tournament.

Tom Nieporte, first-day leader with a 69, dropped into a five-way deadlock for third place and $500 prize money.

Palmer's amateur partner was Gay F. Kammer of Grosse Pointe, Mich. Their best ball score was 65-61-126.

Time Moved Up

East Carolina College's scheduled baseball game with Washington and Lee Friday afternoon will start at 2:00, it has been announced.

The Bucs, winners of their opener, meet W & L here and then play three games at Camp Lejeune over the Easter holidays.

Veteran Nathan Green is expected to start for Coach Jim Mallory in Friday's game.

Robersonville Bumps S-P 23-1 In Opener

ROBERSONVILLE—Riding the one-hit pitching of righthanders Jimmy Rogers and David Wilson, Robersonville pinned Stokes-Pactolus with a lop-sided 23-1 defeat in the baseball opener for both schools yesterday.

Rogers, the starter, dished out a single to leadoff man Donnie Whitehurst in the first inning but the single never amounted to a scoring threat. The Rams piled up four runs in the first frame and scored almost at will throughout the contest which was called at the end of five innings because of rain.

Brown Keel crashed triples in the third and fourth innings to key big rallies while Bonnie Stevenson and Jimmy Britton homered. The latter hit a grand-slammer in the fifth while Stevenson's slash came with two mates on base.

Rogers also tripled in the seven-run fourth inning.

Johnny Keane, St. Louis Cardinal coach, formerly managed 17 years in the minor leagues. He's a former shortstop who played as high as Rochester, N. Y.

The two teams collide again in Stokes on Friday of this week.

Red Sox Expect Better Defense And Pitching

By JACK STEVENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—"I feel we'll be much improved over last year when we got off to a bad start. Our outfield defense is much better and that should help our pitching."

That's Manager Mike Higgins' appraisal of his Boston Red Sox, who finished seventh last season in the American League.

The club this spring appears younger and faster with the return of Jackie Jensen offsetting the retirement of Ted Williams.

Carl Yastrzemski, the $100,000 bonus rookie signed off the Notre Dame campus two years ago, takes over Williams' left field position.

Gary Geiger returns to center field after recovering from the collapsed lung that put him out of action last year.

Taking up where he left off before his one-year retirement in 1959, Jensen says, "It doesn't seem as if I'd missed that season."

Frank Malzone, an all-star performer, returns to third base with Don Buddin at shortstop.

Then Higgins runs into a problem. Pete Runnels won the American League batting title playing second base last year and 36-year-old Vic Wertz at first drove in 103 runs.

Defensively the infield failed to shine and Runnels says first base is his best position.

Chuck Schilling, a fine fielding second baseman, could shore up the defense. But then what happens to Runnels or Wertz?

Higgins takes the problem philosophically, saying, "Those things have a way of working themselves out. It's a long season, you know."

With right-handed hitting rookie Jim Pagliaroni available to spell southpaw swinging Russ Nixon, the catching appears improved.

Boston's hurling remains a question. Bill Monbouquette posted a 14-10 record to lead the starting staff last year.

Billy Muffett came up from Minneapolis to impress Higgins by finishing 6-4 in his first American League try. Ike Delock, Tom Brewer and Gene Conley, when he finishes basketball, all get a shot at the starting rotation.

Hal Kolstad, a right-hander who pitched for Minneapolis with a 10-11 mark in 1960, might stick with the varsity.

Still the most impressive rookie hurler has been Tracy Stallard, counted on to help Mike Fornieles in the relief department.

Red Still Feels He Can Help Cardinals

By JOE REICHLER ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)

A fellow asked Red Schoendienst what he was trying to prove.

"Is it the money?" the guy asked. "Is it your pride? You're 38. Only two years ago you were in a hospital battling tuberculosis.

You haven't played 50 full games in the last two years. You've put 19 years in the game. 16 at top speed in the big leagues. Don't you think you've had it?"

If the freckle-faced veteran, once the finest second baseman in the game, was annoyed by these blunt, searching questions, he gave no sign.

"I feel I haven't had it," he said today. "I think I can still play ball. I may not be able to play every day and I'm not as fast as I used to be, but I know I can help the Cardinals.

"I'm not out to prove anything. I just want to play ball. I made a good living doing it and I'm going to continue doing it as long as I think I can and others think I can be of help."

Schoendienst, a top star with the Cardinals from 1945 to 1956 before he was traded to the Giants, was invited to spring training at question. Bill Monbouquette posted a 14-10 record to lead the starting staff last year.

Hal Kolstad, a right-hander who pitched for Minneapolis with a 10-11 mark in 1960, might stick with the varsity.

Still the most impressive rookie hurler has been Tracy Stallard, counted on to help Mike Fornieles in the relief department.

"I don't think so," said Red. "I feel I could have done better had I played more. The manager just didn't have any confidence in me. He couldn't forget that I had been ill."

"I'm ready for the firing line. When the season opens, I'll be out there swinging."

Kucks Confident Of Better Year With Athletics

By ED WILKS WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)

Whatever went wrong with Johnny Kucks, who at 23 was an 18-game winner with the New York Yankees and clinched their 1956 World Series comeback?

Nothing went wrong, says the lean right-hander, but a few breaks, a little luck — and some better handling by ex-Kansas City manager Bob Elliott — would have helped.

"This isn't a rap on Elliott (since succeeded by Joe Gordon)," Kucks said today. "I'm not the kind of guy who does that. But how many innings did I pitch last year? It was 114, my lowest ever. Right from the start he slapped me in the bullpen and I don't know why. This club certainly didn't have that many starting pitchers.

"I'd be in the bullpen and he'd call me in for a couple of innings and I get the hell hit out of me. He never talked to me about it. When he wanted to find out about me, he asked my roommate and he found out I wanted to start. It was almost mid-season."

Kucks, now 27, had a 4-10 record last season, with a 2-10 record as a starting pitcher. In the past two years, since the trade that sent him to the A's, he's won 12, lost 21. A hero of the '56 World Series against the Dodgers, when he won the final game with a three-hit shutout, he won only 16 and lost 19 for the Yankees after that.

"There's nothing wrong with my arm," Kucks said. "I just haven't had any luck. No breaks. That's not an alibi. I don't care what anybody says, you've got to be lucky."

The word is out that the Yankees want Kucks back, but Frank Lane, new general manager of the A's, doesn't think they've offered enough. Kucks shrugs off the talk.

"I've found that the more you hear and see a player's name in trade talk, the less chance there is that the trade ever will be made," he said.

White Sox Pitching Looks Improved For 1961 Season

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox pitching staff, which cost the club the American League pennant last year according to Manager Al Lopez, is fast erasing the memory of the season's worst finish in 11 years as a major league skipper.

Southpaw Billy Pierce wiped out another blunk Tuesday in a 3-1 exhibition victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers as he limited the National Leagueers to two hits in a six-inning workout and became the fourth White Sox starter in succession to hurl low-hit ball.

Pierce's performance followed similar outings by Early Wynn, Frank Baumann and Herb Score — key members of the mound corps that also includes such proven holdovers as Bob Shaw, Turk Lown and Gerry Staley along with newcomers Cal McLish and Juan Pizarro.

The pitching must do it for the 1959 pennant-winners, says Lopez, who blames last year's third-place finish on the staff. "We led the league in batting, fielding and stolen bases," says the senior. "So it must have been the pitching."

The St. Louis Cardinals, who have lost ace right-hander Larry Jackson for at least a month with a fractured jaw, got a boost when replacement Al Cicotte combined with Art Kay and Mickey McDermott to shut out Milwaukee 1-0 on four hits.

Pittsburgh right-hander Bob Friend also turned in an outstanding job as he went the distance, scattering eight hits in a 9-2 triumph over the New York Yankees and gaining a measure of revenge for the two losses he suffered in last year's World Series.

In other games, San Francisco edged Boston 2-1, Minnesota nipped Philadelphia 3-2, Baltimore beat Kansas City 8-7 in 11 innings, Detroit defeated Cincinnati 7-5 and Washington whipped the Reds B team 5-3. The Cleveland-Los Angeles Angels game was rained out.

Roy Sievers drove in two White Sox runs and that was all Pierce and reliever Russ Kemmerer needed to snap the Dodgers' seven-game winning streak. Jim Gilliam accounted for the Los Angeles runs with a single in the seventh.

A single by Hal Smith, an error and Bill White's wind-blow double in the fifth brought across the game's only score as the Cards whipped the Braves with the unearned tally. Carl Willey and Don McMahon spun a six-hitter for Milwaukee.

Dick Stuart's homer with one aboard and Roberto Clemente's solo shot gave Friend the support he required while becoming the first Pirate pitcher to go the route. Roger Maris homered for the Yankees, mired in the exhibition cellar with a 6-13 record.

Home runs by Bob Schmidt and Felipe Alou backed Sam Jones' three-hit pitching in a seven-inning sting for the Giants' victory over the Red Sox. Harmon Killebrew's one-on-one round tripper in the ninth brought the Twins from behind against the Phils.

Ron Hansen's fourth single drove in the clincher for the Orioles in their extra-inning struggle

Banks Believes In Extra Work

By JACK STEVENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The exhibition game was over. The Chicago Cubs had won. But out came the batting cage and in stepped Ernie Banks who figured he needed a little extra work on his timing.

That extra work was trivial of the dedication the Cubs star puts into the game he terms "the best ever invented."

Voted the most valuable player in the National League in both 1958 and 1959, Ernie has hit 231 homers in a career dating back to 1953, more than any other major league shortstop.

Last season he hit 41 homers, but his average fell off to .271, well below his lifetime mark of .292.

"I was swinging at some bad balls so this spring I'm concentrating at swinging at only strikes," he explained.

Ernie works as hard or harder than the rookies in this camp where the emphasis is on youth. "We've got good spirit and it means a lot to a ball club regardless of where it finished the previous year," he declares.

Chicago opened its Cactus League exhibition campaign by winning a majority of the games. Ernie believes that even this early, that will help the team.

"You've got to have that spirit at the start of a season and winning the exhibition games helps to get it," is his philosophy.

The Cubs finished seventh last season and aim higher this time Banks says he is working on the double play, hitting behind the runner, following pop flies, base running — everything that will come up during the season.

Even though he plays in nearly all the spring games, he wants extra work, declaring, "You can always learn, no matter how long you have played in the majors."

Ingo Drops To 5th In Rankings

NEW YORK (AP)—Ring magazine today recognized Brazil's Eder Jofre as world bantamweight champion and dropped Sweden's Ingemar Johansson from second to fifth among the heavyweight contenders.

The undefeated Jofre also was named "boxer of the month" for his ninth round technical knockout of Italy's Piero Rollo in a title bout in Rio De Janeiro last Saturday night. The National Boxing Association had recognized Jofre as champion of the 118-pound class but Ring had rated the Brazilian and France's Alphonse Halimi as even and declared the title vacant.

The dispute arose when Mexico's Jose Becerra retired as champion and left the throne open. Johansson, knocked out in the sixth round by world champion Floyd Patterson, was demoted below Edie Maschen (No. 2), Portland, Ore. Zora Folley (No. 3) of Chandler, Ariz., and Henry Cooper (No. 4), the British and British Empire champion. Sonny Liston of Philadelphia still is the No. 1 contender.

Palmer Plays In Charlotte Match

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Four former Wake Forest golfers, headed by Arnold Palmer, will play an exhibition match here May 16 to establish a memorial scholarship at their alma mater.

Palmer, the reigning U.S. Open and Masters champion and top money winner ($87,050) on the pro circuit last year, will play with amateur Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, club pro Dick Tiddy of Durham, and Ronnie Thomas of Durham. The match will be played at the Charlotte Country Club.

Proceeds will go toward establishing a scholarship at Wake Forest in memory of Buddy Worham, who played on the Wake Forest team with Palmer and Tiddy and who was killed in an automobile wreck.

A LETTER TO PEANUT GROWERS

FROM DUPREE BROTHERS BELVOIR, N. C.

Dear Sirs:

We are now shelling seed peanuts for 1961 planting season. We are giving the same good service that we have given in the past. If you are not already one of our shelling customers we would be more than glad to add you to our list, by shelling your peanuts.

If you would like to see your peanuts shelled, you can call or write for an appointment, come and bring your peanuts and carry them back the same day.

We are shelling and treating peanuts this year for only $1.00 per bag. We also have Certified NC2 & 4X seed peanuts for sale.

It would pay you to talk with us before you buy.

Pay Hike For 30,000 State Employees Asked Assembly

RALEIGH (AP) — The legislature's Joint Appropriations Committee was asked Tuesday to approve a 15 per cent pay raise for some 30,000 state employees during the next biennium.

The State Employees Association requested the increase, which would cost about $30 million.

Clifton Beckwith, executive secretary of the association, said, "We think that 15 per cent is a fair relationship" to the 21 per cent pay raise proposed for school teachers.

Beckwith told the committee, "We don't have the popular appeal of education and we don't have the bargaining power. But we hope you will consider this request."

The association also wants a reduction in the work week for many employees; an increase in subsistence for certain employees from $12 to $15 a day; and an increase in mileage allowance to 10 cents a mile.

Beckwith said some state employees work more than 40 hours. Otis Banks of the State Highway and Prison Employees Association noted that some prison guards work 66 hours a week.

The appropriations committee also heard requests from the North Carolina Teachers Association, Asheville Orthopedic Hospital, the North Carolina Confederate Centennial Commission and Carolina Charter Tercentenary Commission.

The teachers association endorsed Gov. Sanford's tax program and called for improvements in teachers' salaries and working conditions.

Norman C. Larson, executive secretary of the centennial commission, requested $122,720 for the biennium.

The Tercentenary Commission asked for $194,990 to lay the groundwork for observing in 1963 the 300th anniversary of the granting of the Carolina Charter.

Asheville Orthopedic Hospital requested an increase of $50,000 in the state's grant to help the treatment of medically indigent crippled children.

Pres. Kennedy Keeping Up His Pressure On Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is reported keeping the telephone lines to the Capitol hot in a day-by-day attempt to drum up support in Congress for his New Frontier program.

Despite his deep involvement in such international crises as that in Laos, influential members of Congress have found that Kennedy is keeping close tabs on legislation as it moves through committees.

A case in point was the President's call Tuesday to Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., while the Senate Finance Committee was considering the administration's bill to extend the Sugar Act which expires Friday.

Kerr had been backing in committee an amendment by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., to give sugar beet growers in Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas about one-third of the 3.3-million-ton allotment taken away from Cuba.

As the bill stood, most of Cuba's allotment would go to Peru and Mexico in the Latin American area where Kennedy is courting better relations with the remainder going to the Philippines.

After the call, Kerr voted for the amendment which lost by a 11-5 count. He also joined with Anderson in the only two votes cast against the measure itself.

As the Kennedy operation unfolds, the President is taking over efforts to persuade his former colleagues to go along with his program.

Although he is ready with advice and counsel when senators ask for it, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson has refrained in most cases from attempts to whip up administration support. Senators learn directly from the White House, not through Johnson, what Kennedy wants.

Kennedy also is credited with approving in advance individual maneuvers by which the administration has narrowed its proposals somewhat in an attempt to consolidate support for more controversial items.

In this connection, Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., came up Tuesday with some revisions in the minimum wage bill which was passed by the House in a form not at all acceptable to the President.

McNamara's new proposals would take the minimum wage up to $1.25 in two steps, instead of the three proposed in the original administration bill. He moved to narrow coverage by excluding 300,000 of the 4.3 million new workers that would have been brought under its provisions.

The latter move seemed designed to satisfy Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., on the coverage issue. Instead of all stores in a chain being included, only those units which do more than $250,000 in annual business would be covered.

But this compromise failed to satisfy Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla. Monroney wants minimum coverage to include only companies with stores in more than one state. He is against any dollar volume criterion.

Since Monroney's amendment lost by 50-48 on a similar bill last year when Kennedy was one of the senators opposing it, there are indications that the President may have some more missionary work ahead of him on this issue.

To Be Ordained Sunday Evening

FARMVILLE — Ronald Nichols would take the minimum wage up to $1.25 in two steps, instead of the three proposed in the original administration bill. He moved to narrow coverage by excluding 300,000 of the 4.3 million new workers that would have been brought under its provisions.

Plan For Visit Of Bloodmobile

FARMVILLE—Frank Allen, who has been chosen head of the local committee to serve the Red Cross Bloodmobile at its semi-annual visit here April 6, has announced that headquarters will again be set up in the Methodist Church.

Beginning at noon, the Bloodmobile will be in operation until six o'clock.

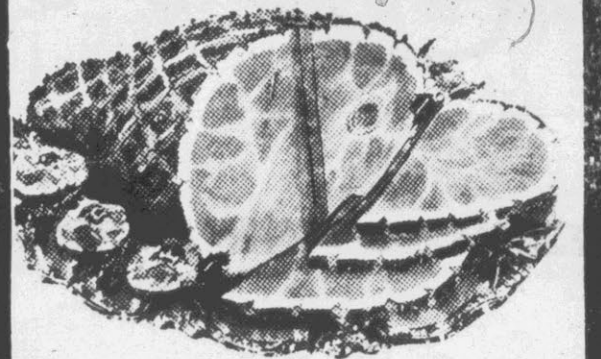

Forty-six local civic, patriotic, fraternal and religious organizations have been requested to provide helpers needed for the project.

Nothing To Do But Walk, And She Did

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — "The doctors said Charles was ready to come home," said Mrs. May Bowman, 46-year-old mountain mother.

"I didn't know what else to do." So she set out to walk 37 miles from her tenant farm home in Surry County to Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem and bring her 9-year-old son home.

She left home about 9 a.m. The day was overcast and walking wasn't too hard from a woman who farms to care for five children and an aging mother.

Ten hours later she had covered 27 miles when a neighbor saw her and gave her a lift the rest of the way.

"I had to get down to that hospital," Mrs. Bowman said. "He hadn't never been away from home that long. He might have been crying all night down there."

Charles, a tow-headed third grader, had measles when he was three and the childhood disease caused the muscles of one eye to contract, making him cross-eyed.

A welfare worker arranged for corrective surgery and the family took Charles to the hospital Sunday.

But Monday the doctors sent word to come and get Charles. He was too anemic and generally run down for an operation now. He would have to come back at another time.

Mrs. Bowman tried to call the welfare worker, but she wasn't in. She hiked along the narrow dirt road to her home, checking her neighbors, but nobody was going to Winston-Salem.

"There wasn't nothing to do but walk," she said. So she walked.

No Crime, But Must Confess He Told A Lie

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A man, whose name police want to remain anonymous, had a tough job on his hands today. Police said he will have to go around to several housewives and report to them that he told a lie.

Officers said the man visited several housewives in nearby Safe Harbor, Monday and told them there was a new ordinance forbidding the burning of trash, that over 200 persons were fined $25 each for violation.

He was quoted as telling the housewives that they should sign a contract with him to permit him to haul away their trash. Two women became curious, phoned police.

Officers said there was no such ordinance. They tracked the man down, but admitted they couldn't bring any charges against him because the only thing he had done was to tell lies.

Federal ownership comprises almost 77 million acres in the United States, or more than one-third of the country's land area.

Attended State Meet At Durham

FARMVILLE—Representing the local chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America at the recent state convention held in Durham were:

Bobby Flser, Van Lewis, Carey Gaynor, Kenneth Dilda, Jimmy Wooten, Henry Smity, Susu Dixon, Marion Allen, Rachel Case and Rebecca White. Mrs. S. H. Aycock, sponsor, and Dr. Aycock were also in attendance.

Marion Allen and Susu Dixon participated in the Talent Show in a comedy hit "It Don't Mean A Thing." Delegates heard speakers and attended meetings on various projects and contests.

The group is making plans to attend the national convention to be held in Washington, D.C., June 13-15.

Final Gap In Air Defense Network Is To Be Closed By SAGE On Saturday

By RALPH DIGHTON
SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — The final gap will be closed Saturday in the network of SAGE air defense centers guarding the nation against manned bomber attacks from three sides.

On that date, says Brig. Gen. Richard T. Kight, the United States will at last be able "to defend itself against a major assault by manned bombers from any likely direction."

However, he admitted the system is not an adequate defense against ballistic missiles.

Dedication of a multimillion-dollar radar and computer facility at Norton Air Force Base will plug a hole through which an enemy could have launched a critical blow, Gen. Kight said.

SAGE is the code name for more than 20 electronic nerve centers designed to spot hostile aircraft and hurl fighters and rockets against the attacking force.

This system stretches across the northern edge of the United States and down each coast.

There are no plans to defend the southern approaches to the United States because no large enemy force lies in that direction.

"Despite the attention being given intercontinental missiles," Gen. Kight said at a briefing Tuesday, "the SAGE system will be needed for 10 years—and then some. SAGE is not effective against ballistic missiles, true, but if we did not have it there would be a hole in our defenses which enemy bombers could penetrate with decisive force."

Kight, commanding officer at Norton, said SAGE is closely integrated with other warning networks, including radar stations in Greenland, England and Alaska.

Officials here acknowledge the SAGE center has two major weaknesses:

1. Its only link with other SAGE centers is by telephone lines, vulnerable both to sabotage and air attack.
2. Its delicate electronic gear, housed above ground, is not designed to withstand heavy bombardment.

CP&L Pioneers Plan To Gather

RALEIGH — Carolina Power & Light Company Pioneers, employees with 25 or more years of service with the company, will meet in Wilmington April 13-15.

Speaker for the annual get-together will be A. H. Ward of Aiken, S. C., for 38 years a teacher at Clemson College, past South Carolina department commander of the American Legion, wit and free enterprise philosopher and retired chamber of commerce executive.

Ward is a member of the South Carolina Chamber of Commerce Speakers' Bureau and has delivered more than 3,000 addresses during the past quarter-century.

CP&L President Louis V. Sutton will present Pioneer membership pins to three new members at the Wilmington meeting: A. R. Dunaway of Jacksonville and Mrs. Dorothy Watkins and J.W. Dickens of Wilmington.

About 70 Pioneers are expected to attend the Wilmington meeting at the Edgewater Club on Bogue Sound. Miss Mae Meredith of CP&L's Wilmington office and area Pioneer chairman will preside.

CP&L's total Pioneer membership, which covers a two-state service area, is 386. This corps of veteran employees represents well over 10,000 man-years of service with the company. Twenty-six new members will be initiated during annual meetings in April.

Estimated $400 Damage In Wreck At Intersection

An estimated $400 damage resulted to two cars which collided at the intersection of West-Fifth St. at N.C. 11-U.S. 13 about 12:45 p.m. yesterday.

Investigating patrolmen identified the drivers of the cars as Dr. Ralph Brimley of 404 Eastern St. and Mrs. Margaret Leggett of Bell Arthur.

The Brimley vehicle was traveling west on Fifth St. while the Leggett auto was headed south on N.C. 11 at the time the collision took place, officers said.

Damage to each car was set at about $200 each.

Both Dr. Brimley and Mrs. Leggett were charged with failure to stop for a stop light.

Officers noted Mrs. Brimley was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for injuries received in the wreck. The extent of her injuries were not known, the lawmen added.

Two Collisions Here Yesterday

An estimated $250 damage resulted to a truck being driven by Mrs. Daisy Cox Warren of Route 1, Stokes when the vehicle collided with a parked car on Fourth St. near the intersection of Holly—about 10:30 a.m. yesterday.

Investigators, who said no charges were made, reported the parked vehicle was owned by Ford McGowan, 34 of 607 South Elm St. Damage to the car was placed at $100.

No charges were made in the second collision investigated by police yesterday which occurred on East Fifth St. about 10:20 a.m.

Officers reported a car operated by Lloyd Wilson, 26 of 811 East Second St., Ayden collided with a parked car owned by Edward P. Wayne, 55 of Route 1, Greenville. Officers placed damage to the Wayne auto at $50 while they reported no damage resulted to the Wilson car.

Titan Rocket In Successful Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A successful 5,000-mile test flight of an operational prototype of the Titan missile has moved the big intercontinental-range weapon a step closer to combat-readiness.

The 98-foot bullet-shaped rocket struck a target in the Atlantic Tuesday night after a 30-minute, 17,000-mile-an-hour flight. The Air Force reported all test objectives were met.

Earlier in the day, a Mace-B guided missile lost power a few seconds after launch, crashed and exploded on an isolated tip of the Cape. The swept-wing rocket was taking off on the start of an 80-mile test.

few days many people have asked that I consider serving again. During the past eight years I have tried to serve Greenville and all the people without any special favoritism to any to the best of my ability and will continue to do so if elected again.

"Much has been said about Urban Renewal, I feel that it would be a great step forward for Greenville but since the people have asked that they be allowed to vote on the issue, I will certainly abide by their vote.

"I know that Greenville is on the move forward. Great progress has been made in the past few years and I am proud of any part of this progress that I have been able to contribute. I want to see this progress continue and will do all in my power to keep Greenville moving forward as she should."

Harvey is a veteran of eight years on the City Council. The candidate, 53 years old, is owner of Cold Storage, Inc. He is a native of Greenville and attended Duke University. Harvey served three and a half years in the army during World War II and prior to that he was connected with a coal and ice business locally. In 1946, he became an official of Cold Storage, Inc. He has served as president of the Merchants Association.

He is married to the former May Johnson Eure of Ayden and they have one daughter. They reside on E. Wright Road.

Harvey is chairman of the Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission and has been active in efforts to obtain air service. Recently a CAB examiner recommended that Earthworms are found in Australia, New Zealand and Burma that grow to a length of three feet.

Piedmont Airlines be allowed to serve Wilson-Greenville with north-south and east-west flights.

The two cities had entered a joint application for service.

Harvey is a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

Grover D. Manning Funeral Thursday

Mr. Grover D. Manning, 70, died suddenly at his home near Grimesland Tuesday morning at 9:45.
