Clio Members Hear Paper Charter Member Wrote

"Changes in Washington" was the subject of a paper written by Mrs. Jack Spain and read by Mrs. W. S. Bost to the Clio Book Club Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Spain is a charter member of the club and was its first president. She attends the meetings when she is in Greenville but resides in Washington most of the time where her husband is secretary to Senator Sam J. Ervin Jr. of North Carolina.

"Our Nation's Capital that supremely sensitive political city, feels a pricking of the hair and a tingling of the fingertips," stated Mrs. Spain in the opening paragraph of her paper. She quoted some of the columnists: "Politics is once again an exciting affair. A revitalized atmosphere prevails; there is a feeling of purposeful movement in the air, of self confidence, of a 'do something attitude'; a zestful approach to government is everywhere apparent."

She spoke of the informality of the new president as refreshing, but maintaining the essential dignity of his office; of the changes made in the White House by Mrs. Kennedy and many other interesting features of the new administration.

Cooking Is Fun

IRISH SODA BREAD
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1-3 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup each currants and seedless raisins (rinsed in hot water and drained)
1 tablespoon caraway seeds
1/2 cup buttermilk

Sift together the flour, baking soda, salt and sugar. Cut in the butter until particles are about the size of small peas. Stir in currants, raisins and caraway seeds. Add buttermilk; mix in with a fork just until dry ingredients are moistened. (Mixture will look like baking powder biscuit dough.) Turn into buttered round layer-cake pan (8 by 1 1/4 or 1 1/2 inches); pat out so dough is smooth and even. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven 45 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean and top is lightly browned. Turn out on wire rack; turn right side up; cool. Serve in wedges or slices with or without butter.

CAULIFLOWER WITH CAPER SAUCE
1 large head cauliflower
2 teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons each butter and flour
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon mustard
Pepper

2 to 3 tablespoons drained capers
Trim cauliflower and wash in cold water. Boil whole gently in 1-inch boiling water with 1 teaspoon of the salt, uncovered, 5 minutes. Cover and continue cooking over low heat until top is tender—about 20 minutes. Meanwhile melt butter in a saucepan over low heat; stir in flour. Add milk, remaining 1 teaspoon salt, mustard and pepper to taste. Cook and stir constantly until thickened. Add capers. Place cauliflower in serving dish; some of the sauce may be poured over the top so it dribbles down sides, and remaining sauce served separately. Makes 6 servings.

OVEN POTATOES
4 medium-sized potatoes (about 1 1/4 pounds)
2 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon butter
Paprika

Pare potatoes and cut in half crosswise; place close together (but do not overlap) in a baking pan into which they just fit. Add water to bottom of pan. Cover tightly with pan lid or foil. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 30 minutes. Remove cover. Spread potatoes with soft butter; sprinkle with paprika. Continue baking, uncovered, 15 minutes or until soft through. Makes 4 servings.

When mounting new window Then the putty will stick to the window frame, rather than to the panes, dip the putty knife into a solution of soap or detergent suds. blade of the knife.

Furniture Makes A Room

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

YOU CAN BUILD an entire room around one good piece of furniture, says decorator Trudy Wilkinson.

"An old piece of furniture or an antique can mix very well with contemporary furniture," she says. "It is like introducing an old friend to your new home. A room that is strictly contemporary usually is too impersonal. The old piece you buy or inherit can mellow a room."

Mrs. Wilkinson has wedded old and new furniture for many of her clients.

"In one instance we spent one-third of the entire decorating budget on one fine French Provincial commode. It carries the room, although we cut costs by using inexpensive cottons."

Color also helps in a low-budget decorating plan, she points out. "Your favorite color can dominate a room, balanced off with tints of the same color, if you like monochromatic schemes. Or you can mix strong colors."

"Red felt draperies help liven a room; they look important but are inexpensive and easy to make," she says, pointing out that she decorated a budget room for a young girl using a green on white printed linen with red felt draperies at windows, using the same linen print on the sofa and two arm chairs, with red felt cushions on the couch.

A bachelor's apartment decorated by Mrs. Wilkinson has walls of charcoal gray and white ticking, draperies of the same and a bed covered in red velvet. She likes to hang fabric on the wall.

"It looks better and the tacked area can be covered with braid," she says.

An added advantage in hanging it is that it can be taken off when you move.

Other tips she suggests:

Baby Shoes Grow, Wash Like Baby

When baby needs new shoes, why not buy a pair which can grow with him by means of adjustable back lacings?

These soft, comfortable shoes—suitable for infants from one month to two years—come in a choice of fast-color, machine-washable fabrics and glove-type leather. If sudsed often, they will be hygienic enough to nibble!

A practical idea for summer decorating is to use colorful beach towels as washable bedspreads.

W.S.C.S. Have District Meet

The New Bern District meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service was held in Centenary Methodist Church in New Bern April 20. Mrs. Albert Venter presided. The theme for the day was "The Faith That Compels Us." Dr. A. J. Hobbs, District Superintendent, gave the devotional emphasizing that some of the most important characteristics of life are those unseen, that must be accepted by faith. Greetings were offered by Mrs. Guy Hamilton, president of the Centenary Woman's Society of Christian Service and by Rev. J. W. Lineberger, pastor. Guests were recognized by Mrs. W. C. Chadwick of New Bern.

Reports were given by District officers and the History of the group was given by Mrs. L. A. Green, Oriental, and Mrs. J. L. Smith, Havelock. Mrs. C. H. Boyd, Conference Secretary of Promotion, directed a look toward the future. She declared as one challenge the fact that less than 50% of the Methodist women of N. C. belong to the Woman's Society.

A life membership was presented to Mrs. Jennie Aldridge of Oriental for many years of devoted service to the Woman's Society.

Mrs. T. S. Newbold, Conference Secretary of Christian Social Relations, delivered the address. She emphasized that each person must recognize Jesus as Lord of his life before the great number of unsolved problems of this era can be helped. "It seems our foreign mission need turns out to be a home mission problem — The Christianizing of our land," she stated. "Wherever Jesus is not Lord, there is our mission," she added. She closed with the idea that the factor that unifies our world is religion. "Our mission field begins here in New Bern and goes around the world," she concluded.

During the pledge service, the five subdistrict leaders pledged $16,800 in behalf of their 4,357 members in the district to the conference program for the coming year.

The memorial service was led by Mrs. W. B. Rouse, New Bern. Mrs. Herbert Beaman, Chairman of the Nominating committee, presented the nominations for new district officers. They were elected as follows: Recording Secretary, Mrs. J. L. Peterson; Secretary of Children's Work, Mrs. T. Marvin Vick; Secretary of Literature and Publications, Mrs. Frank Griffin; Secretary of Missionary Education and Service, Mrs. L. C. Swink; Secretary of Promotion, Mrs. J. H. Major Step On Court Reform Bill Overwhelming acceptance by the House of Representatives of a compromise court reform bill represents a major step forward in a field that has long been in need of legislative action.

Having passed two readings in the House, the bill was slated for its third reading today which would be a mere formality before the measure is passed on to the Senate. There it will be subjected to a crucial test and perhaps defeat at the hands of a group headed by Sen. Lindsay Warren of Beaufort.

In the past two sessions of the legislature there have been sharp divisions in both houses of the General Assembly over proposed court reform measures. During the 1959 session this division prevented any legislation in this field from being enacted and the legislature adjourned without taking any definite steps to bring about court reform.

For the sake of the people of the state and our system of courts, it is to be hoped that the same thing will not happen in the 1961 General Assembly. North Carolina's courts are in dire need of reform and streamlining. The hodgepodge of lower courts across the state will continue to become more confused unless the legislature takes definite action. From top to bottom the judicial system will become more disorganized during a period in which better organization and more uniformity is needed in the court system.

The compromise bill hammered out by the House and given overwhelming approval by its members is a genuine compromise bill that offers a major stride forward in improving the court system of the state. While it may not entirely satisfy either side on the court reform issue, it does offer a logical and workable approach to the problem North Carolina faces and its provisions will go a long way toward improving the courts.

Furthermore, since it is in the form of a constitutional amendment, it will be subject to approval by the voters of the state before it becomes effective.

We trust that in the Senate, as was the case in the House, there will be a general recognition of the urgent need for a court reform measure to be passed by this session of the legislature. In the interest of North Carolina and its people, the Senate should exert every possible effort to give approval to a court reform measure that will be acceptable not only to its own majority, but one which can also be accepted by a majority of the members of the House.

Through hard work and putting this urgent need of the state paramount, the House has effected a good compromise on court reform legislation. If the Senate does less it will not, in our opinion, be keeping faith with the citizens of North Carolina.

This Week May Be Significant

By LYNN NISBET
CRUCIAL. This eleventh week of the 1961 session of the General Assembly may be the most significant of all the weeks since the Legislature convened on February 8.

Last week saw substantial progress in areas of important legislation, following two months of relative non-productive activity. A recognizable start was made in the areas of congressional redistricting, improvement in courts, and small loan regulation. These were the items considered before the session convened as vitally important, second only to the question of money to pay the costs of the expanded program of service recommended by Governor Sanford.

Many off-side observers predicted that these issues might take more time and occasion more bitterness in legislative fights than the money item. Developments to date have justified this pre-session appraisal.

It is true that the money bills, appropriations and tax levies, are far from complete. That is traditional. Through the years the final reports of the money committees have not been ratified until very near the end of the session. The difference between this and prior Legislatures is that this time there is hanging over the General Assembly a sort of Damocles sword threat respecting congressional redistricting, plus popular demand for improvement in small loan regulation and in judicial procedure at levels below the Superior Courts.

LITTLE PEOPLE — Even the most casual observer can see that in all these issues there is the age-long conflict between the rights of the little people as contrasted with privileges of the big people. Nearly every tax bill proposed gives the big folks an edge. The same kind of cursory observation indicates that the little people stand to derive far greater relative benefits, when total tax payments and public services are compared.

For example, the yield last year from income taxes—paid chiefly by what might be termed the big folks, was almost double the yield from the general sales tax—paid largely by the little folks. All the receipts from both these and other sources of revenue went into a common general fund to support the schools and the health and welfare programs—from which the little folks derived major benefit.

That would seem to justify extending the sales tax to items not presently taxed in order to see that every citizen bears his rightful part of the total tax burden. The gimmick involved in that concept is that the little fellow already is paying his full share, because the concession and rental charges collected by the big folks from the "non-taxed" little people includes the taxes which the landlord or business operators does not pay out of his own pocket, but collects from his tenants or concessionaires or the public.

It is an intricately mixed-up and inter-related situation, for the proper solution of which legislators are entitled to help and sympathy. The same thing goes for court revision, designed chiefly to help the little fellow, and for small loan regulation designed to protect the borrower from exorbitant charges.

OVER-EMPHASIS—The historic record will show that all recent Governors of North Carolina have emphasized the needs of the little people—the rank and file of citizenship. Governor Kerr Scott believed that the high school program has been channeled too much for the main thoroughfares, and he sponsored a program for development of county and community roads, manifesting indifferent concern for the welfare of industry as such.

Governor William Ustead initiated a program for industrial development, which he was not able to reason of health to effectuate. Governor Luther Hodges adopted the idea and further expanded to the point where North Carolina moved in front ranks of all the states in that area.

Scott, Ustead and Hodges did not ignore the public education system, but put it in lower than top place. Governor Sanford had put it at top of the list, and given emphasis almost to the point of ignoring other state needs.

BACK-UP—That gets us back to where we started this column—that crucial week of the 1961 Legislature. The Sanford program for at least $70 million more money for public schools was recommended by the joint appropriations committee last week. Effort to get the finance committee to knock out the proposed tax on foods and prescription medicines failed. Neither action was final or conclusive, but considered together they mean that this week—which is half gone—and next week may determine pretty definitely what course the General Assembly will take with respect to tax levies and educational appropriations.

Public Sentiment And U.S. Policy Changing

How much does public opinion have to do with the shaping of foreign policy of the nation?

Normally one thinks of foreign policy as being shaped by the President, the Secretary of State and other key advisers in the administration who are experts on international affairs. In a large measure this is certainly the case. But there are times, it seems to us, when the weight of public opinion on a particular phase of international relations goes a long way toward shaping U.S. foreign policy.

A case in point is the present situation between the United States and Cuba. During the period since Castro came to power in Cuba and began his verbal attacks upon the United States, there has been a growing resentment on the part of the average American toward the Cuban dictator and the communist dominated regime he heads in Cuba. At the outset of Castro's blasts at the United States, there seemed to be the public as well as the official feeling that the United States should sit back and let the new dictator run his course of denouncing the United States. There was the feeling that in a relative short time his tactics and his regime would fall under their own weight in Cuba.

In recent months public sentiment—and apparently official policy as well—has changed. There is considerably less patience on the part of the average American for the verbal abuse to which Castro is subjecting the United States. There is growing concern over the build-up of a communist arsenal less than 100 miles off the U.S. mainland. There is greater sentiment on the part of the public for the United States to put a stop to Castro rather than waiting for the people of Cuba to rise up against him.

A year ago the American people would have reacted coolly to the proposal that the CIA assist in training anti-Castro Cubans and aiding them in launching an invasion of their own country. Today, in contrast, there are people who seriously question whether the United States did as much as it should have in supporting the invasion of Cuba by rebels intent on overthrowing Castro. Direct intervention by the United States in Cuba—a question that apparently had little public support in the United States 12 months ago—has many advocates among rank and file citizens today.

Final decision on the course the United States will follow in its relationship with Cuba will be determined by top administration officials; but it would be surprising indeed if final decisions are not influenced by the sentiment being expressed by the American public.

CIA Inspires Finger-Pointing

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — The finger points at the Central Intelligence Agency as a big factor in two American disasters within less than a year: The Cuban invasion and the U2 spy planes.

Bit by bit the CIA, most hush-hush of all government agencies and therefore the one about which the public knows the least, is being criticized. The result will be a good look at its operations.

President Kennedy took the initiative in this by appointing Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former Army chief of staff, to head a study of intelligence and guerrilla warfare tactics.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is reported to believe—and to have told Kennedy so—the Cuban disaster shows there should be a division of responsibility in the CIA.

This means separating its gathering of information — it's the American super-spy agency — from any part in carrying out the actions based on the information it collects.

Last May 1, just 15 days before President Eisenhower was to have had his summit meeting in Paris with Premier Khrushchev, the CIA sent the U2 spy plane over Russia where it was shot down.

The result: 1. American spying was revealed to the world at the worst possible time—when Eisenhower and Khrushchev were to meet in search of peaceful solutions.

2. The subsequent revelation that this was only the latest in a series of spy flights humiliated Khrushchev since the others had been successful.

3. The humiliated Khrushchev reacted as might have been predicted. He burst into international rage and indignation, called off the summit meeting, and insulted Eisenhower.

Although the U2 program in general had been approved by Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, apparently the CIA did not consult with them about the timing of the specific flight that ran into trouble in that very delicate period.

It shouldn't have required much astuteness to figure out beforehand that if the plane was caught and brought down it would give the Russians enormous anti-American propaganda at the worst possible time—just before the summit.

As for Cuba — the CIA reportedly was up to its neck in the invasion.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, leader of the Senate Democrats, called Monday night for prompt and thorough overhaul of U. S. intelligence machinery.

Late Monday one of the highest officials in the Kennedy administration acknowledged this country had helped to train and equip the Cuban exiles who hit the Cuban beaches last week.

He also admitted there was considerable miscalculation both by the Cuban underground and U. S. intelligence on two points:

1. Whether there would be extensive anti-Castro reaction inside Cuba when the landings were made. There wasn't.

2. The extent to which the Communists already had supplied Castro with arms. It turned out to be much greater than expected.

There have been various reports that the CIO helped in training the rebels and in providing overly optimistic appraisals on the degree of anti-Castro feeling in Cuba, a factor of real significance in deciding whether to invade.

Rome Gallery Interested

The Greenville Art Center has been lifted to higher ranks of the kind.

The reason—a request from a Rome gallery for two copies of the catalogue of the opening exhibition of "Old Masters" last May. Director of the gallery, Prof. Giulio Ansaldo said "These catalogues are very necessary to our Art Library."

The Professor Ansaldo was writing from the P. Accademia Dei Virtuosi Al Pantheon in Rome, Italy, to request the catalogue of the exhibition "Paintings from Cozzarelli to Ingres."

To make a long story short, Hostess Barbara Batchelor said the catalogues were on the way.

To refresh the minds of readers, the catalogue dealt with the 30 paintings lent by outstanding art dealers of New York City, for the opening of the Greenville Art Center at its gallery on Evans Street.

The former Flanagan home was purchased to provide a permanent home for the center. Some of those famous artists featured at the exhibition — which, incidentally, attracted thousands from this part of the state—were Albert Bouts, Titian, Titian, Van Dyck, Frans Hals, Guido Reni, and even Gilbert Stuart.

Those were just a few. And it was a rare instance that such paintings were temporarily in this part of the state.

What a change occurred afterwards. The halls were besieged with modern art, cubism, abstract, portraits.

Of course, some of that has provided a continuation of the art growth provided for those who attended the first exhibition and who have continued to patronize the gallery.

Now there is an exhibition by members of the East Carolina art faculty, and some of that is certainly worth viewing. The carvings and figures lend a special attraction, along with a three-part series which give the viewer a wishful and practical impression of the resistance movement in Norway during World War II. Dr. Bruce Carter is the artist.

And there is also a circus—a complete model of the famous Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey production. (Stankys Circus.)

So you can see that things have changed—what those walls must have seen and thought.

The Public Forum

To the Editor:

I am collecting and editing, for purpose of publication by the North Carolina Department of Archives and History, the letters and papers of Thomas J. Jarvis. Jarvis was legislator, governor, ambassador, senator, and founder of East Carolina College.

Jarvis moved to Greenville in 1872 and resided there for the rest of his life, dying in 1915. Would you please run in your paper some kind of notice that I am seeking letters to and from him, and that I would like to hear from anyone who knows the whereabouts of any one or more letters to or from Jarvis. If they are of any significance whatever, they should be included in my volumes of the Jarvis papers. This means, of course, that I would only like to copy these letters.

Very truly yours,

Policy Needs Action

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

President Kennedy, in asserting a positive Cuba policy, has given hope to the peoples of the world who seek freedom. He said that Cuba would not be abandoned to Communism. Now this policy needs to be implemented. Just saying something is not sufficient; we need to be willing and able to back our position by whatever force is required. Otherwise, we shall be in a worse position than ever. The United States dares not let Khrushchev call our bluff; it must, in fact, not be a bluff.

The Cuban situation requires review. For months, the Senate Internal Security Sub-committee has been holding executive session hearings on various aspects of the Cuban problem. These hearings are held sub rosa for reasons which, to me, do not appear very sensible. Before this Committee have already appeared two of our Ambassadors to Cuba: Arthur Gardner and Earl E. T. Smith; an American Ambassador to Mexico, Robert Hill and a former Ambassador to Brazil, Edward Pawley. Their testimony clearly pronounced Fidel Castro a Communist and an enemy of the United States.

Some of the testimony indicated that the intelligence was available prior to Castro's revolution and during its early days which indicated beyond a doubt that this is a Communist movement and always was. There has been testimony to show that the evaluation of data by so-called experts on the Fourth Floor of the State Department was very, very wrong when it reached the Fifth Floor of the State Department where the great men sit, and that it was even more incorrect when it reached the White House.

Certainly, it is the business of the CIA to engage in espionage. This Agency should have known all about Castro, his brother, his organization, his association with Soviet Russia, etc. What the CIA reported to the State Department and to President Eisenhower, I do not know. But it is obvious from the position adopted by the Eisenhower Administration as regards Batista and Castro, that neither the President nor the Secretary of State could have been equating and accurately informed. The present failure in Cuba requires a study of CIA methods.

President Kennedy came upon this situation during the Presidential campaign. His attitude was straight-forward and correct but it was very widely criticized and unfortunately he moved away from his positive position by avoiding the subject. His reference to Cuba in his Inaugural Address was correct from the standpoint of every event that has since occurred.

However, during his first months as President, he was obviously diverted from an original purpose by so-called experts and specialists who advised and still advise that the United States must subordinate itself to the Organization of American States, a body which has been trembling lest Soviet Russia bomb some places. To this cowardice, President Kennedy has now replied:

"Should it ever appear that the inter-American doctrine of non-interference merely conceals or excuses a policy of non-action; if the nations of this hemisphere should fail to meet their commitments against outside Communist penetration, then I want it clearly understood that this Government will not hesitate in meeting its primary obligations, which are the security of our nation."

This is a clarifying statement. If the OAS is to shake and tremble before Khrushchev's threats, the Organization might as well die, and very quickly. At any rate, the statement quoted above is a challenge, as strong and as pertinent as the Monroe Doctrine.

Now, something needs to be done. Words have no value unless they are backed by deeds. If Castro has MIGs, we should give the rebels everything they need. But even more important, it is necessary for the United States to blockade Cuba. It is ridiculous for this country to supply Castro with beef and medicines. Patriotic Cubans will (Continued on page five)

Bigger Farm Market This Year

By ELMER ROESSNER
The farm market this year will be much bigger than it was last year, more than a half a billion dollars bigger.

The fact that there are fewer families living on true farms than previously supposed, and the fact that the family farm will eventually diminish (as reported here yesterday) do not affect the bigness of the market. However, these facts are changing the nature of the market.

They mean that it will absorb more giant machines and fewer small ones, more planes and fewer wheelbarrows; more chemicals and fewer household furnishings.

The farm market will be good for two reasons: 1. The expanding population and rising level of urban income means that there will be more demand for farm products.

2. The Administration's farm program is planned to pump $2 billion more into farm income. The farmers' net income this year is estimated at $12.2 billion, which is $600,000,000 over the 1960 take.

Now that is a very attractive figure, and it will cover a lot of purchases of family cars, clothing, furniture, furnishings, travel and stocks, in addition to direct savings.

Another significant is the total of marketing receipts, expected to be $39 billion, about $1 billion more than in 1960 and the highest in history, topping even the fat year of 1958.

The $39 billion includes the $12.2 billion expected net, plus $26.8 billion in production expenses. The latter includes chemicals, equipment, amortization of buildings and machinery, labor and services.

That is the true measure of the total farm market. And it means $1 billion more in potential sales as compared with last year.

INFLUENCES BUYING ATTITUDES
Furthermore, widely disseminated predictions that farm income will rise this year and equally well — disseminated announcements that the Kennedy Administration is going to take care of the farmers is already changing farm buying attitudes. Although the peak inflow of farm income does not begin until late summer and reaches a maximum in the fall, there has been a noticeable improvement in farm purchases. Farm planning is traditionally done in the winter months, when there is less crop activity, but plans are not put into effect until cash — or good hopes of cash — rolls in.

However, it is not too late for sellers to cultivate this market. Many companies are re-examining this market and re-evaluating their products in the light of prospective demand.

Two factors are under constant consideration: 1. The farmer is conservative. The kind of hoopla that will sell soap and toothpaste in the city won't sell tractors or fertilizers to the farmer.

2. The farmer is thrifty. The difference between gross and net income has traditionally been narrow. Farmers no less than any other group want more for their dollar. Savings, more productivity for the dollar and proven economy are sound selling themes.

As a corollary: Farmers are not yokels and probably never were. They are shrewd, analytical businessmen. In fact, farming is increasingly becoming more of a business and less of a way of life.

Offers, sales pitches and advertising made with those facts in mind will do most to make sales in this rising market.

NEW NONFARM PRODUCT: FISH FLOUR
Fish flour may be a means to provide underprivileged peoples of the world with higher protein diets, it was disclosed at a recent United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization meeting in Rome. Fish flour added to bread in Peru was well accepted by children, though not by adults, it was reported. Fish flour is also being made in Morocco and, when enough pepper is added, is accepted by inland people who never saw a fish.

Fish flour consists of pulverized dried fish.

'Antigone' Provides Firsts For Audience

When Jean Anouilh's translation of Sophocles' Greek tragedy, "Antigone," opens in McGinnis Auditorium on May 10, many "firsts" will be introduced to Playhouse audiences.

It is the usual procedure for the East Carolina Playhouse and the Greenville Little Theatre to join forces in the spring and present one of Shakespeare's plays in the Sylvan Theatre on the campus. This spring, in place of the usual Shakespearean play, the Playhouse is producing for the first time on the East Carolina College campus a Greek play, "Antigone" was written by Sophocles about 442 B.C. and in 1943 Jean Anouilh, France's greatest living playwright, translated the theme, which was already basically universal in scope, into a modern language play just as powerful as the original of Sophocles. Anouilh's play was written for modern dress and scenery, but the Playhouse will combine Greek visual presentation with the modern language of Anouilh. This is probably the first time that such a combination has been carried out. Claude Garren is director. He will be remembered for his acting and directing with the Greenville Little Theatre and for his association with "The Lost Colony" and "The Third Frontier." He was also technical director and lighting director for "Separate Tables."

Ralph Rives, as one of the Chorus, will be making his first appearance as an actor since his return to East Carolina College as a member of the faculty. Lois Garren and H.D. Rowe play the leading roles of Antigone and Creon; Tommy Hull portrays the other Chorus; and Charlotte Donat will be the Nurse. The three guards will be portrayed by Ray Tolley, Claude Taylor, and Jimmy Roberts; Sanford Peele and Sue Taylor will play the roles of Haemon and Ismene; and others will be

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Sellers of new homes say that prospective purchasers are as interested in possible workshop locations as when the do-it-yourself boom was at its height.

Probably the best location for a home workshop is in the basement. Not only is there an almost unlimited amount of space available, but the usual concrete floor makes a stable base for power tool stands. This prevents the floor vibration that inevitably occurs when large power tools are operated on an upper floor. It is also possible to enclose a basement room in such a manner that the amount of noise which penetrates upstairs is minimized. A prime factor in the isolation of such noise is the installation of acoustical ceiling tiles. Even the ordinary ceiling tiles absorb a certain amount of the sound that moves upward when a machine is in operation.

Thousands of new homes, however, have no basements. A home owner can, in that event, place his workshop in a utility room if there is extra space; in an attic, if there is one; or in the garage, if there is one and if it is large enough. Putting the shop in the garage is becoming increasingly popular. Because it helps to sell a house, many builders are adding a little more room in the garage so that a workshop will be practical. In some areas of the country, heat in the garage is a necessity if the workshop is to be used all year 'round. But the chances are that most garages in those sections would be equipped with heat, workshop or not. Where there are exceptions, there are many types of space heaters, electric and gas, that can be utilized.

A garage workshop has another advantage: the fact that there usually is open studding, to which shelves can be easily attached. The studs also serve as an excellent place for perforated hardboard. A 4 by 7 piece of this type of hardboard, equipped with special hooks, can be used effectively for hanging many small tools.

Handymen who work with large pieces of lumber and—or plywood can build a kind of hanging shelf from the garage ceiling for storing the material. And, as with a basement, a workshop usually has a concrete floor, with its natural advantage for large power tools.

Teachers Of Singing To Meet On Friday

The Eastern Division of the North Carolina Chapter of the National Association of Teachers of Singing will meet in New Bern Friday. The program for the day has been announced by Dan E. Vornholt of the East Carolina College music faculty and Catherine Latta of New Bern, co-chairmen.

Registration of delegates will begin at Christ Episcopal Church at 4:00 p.m. Geraldine Cate of St. Mary's College, Raleigh, president of the chapter, will speak at the afternoon session on "Standards of Expressive English Diction."

Following a dinner at the Queen Anne Hotel at 6:00 p.m., Dr. Carl T. Hjortsvang of the East Carolina music faculty will discuss ways in which vocal training can be given in the volunteer church choir.

A recital and talk on "Russian Solo Songs and Opera Arias" presented by Arvida Snopceks of New Bern will close the program.

MISSILE RANGE

LONDON (AP) — The Ministry of Defense said Tuesday U.S. Army missile units in Germany will use a range in the Hebrides, off Scotland, for practice firing this summer. The British army will provide some equipment and support personnel.

President Kennedy will be forced at some time during his Administration to take a stand against Soviet Russia. In effect, Presidents Truman and Eisenhower have postponed the inevitable day which now faces President Kennedy. He has too little time because history does not wait for human decision. Its chain of circumstance can only be broken by violence.

THE HAUNTED STARS

EDMOND HAMILTON

From the novel published by Torquell Books; © 1959 by Edmond Hamilton; distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 16

Are they outside, somewhere in nowhere, watching us in the gloom while the galaxy spins flickering around?

He would carry these thoughts with him into sleep, and in his dreams he would see the great abyss in which they travelled as a place haunted by all those very men who had died here in battle long ago, the men who never saw the sun again. And they were not alone, those shades. The enemy was still there, a darksome presence hovering always just beyond the edge of sight. In his dreams he would know that they were there, he could feel the coldness of them, the immense power, but he could never see them.

He was sure, in his dreams, that they saw him.

He would try to run from them in the nothingness, but there was nothing to tell him whether he moved or not. Motion was a mockery, like time. He would try to hide from them but there was no place to hide. He would feel them gathering about him, he would hear them whispering. He would draw himself into a tight-curved huddle with his arms around his head, but it was no use, their eyes peered and their voices whispered and then the last horrible knowledge would come to him that they were not outside at all not outside of him but inside of him, moving stealthily along the corridors of his brain, rustling, poking, prying, questioning.

That was when somebody would shake him brutally awake and tell him to shut up.

The dream did not, fortunately, reach this ultimate point too often. Reichler was not impressed. "We all have the same knowledge of the Ur-men and the war they fought," he said. "We've all done the same sort of speculation on the nature of the enemy. We are all here scared to death of the same thing—the Unknown—and we're all subject to the same physical and mental effects of this unnatural environment. I don't see how we could possibly avoid sharing the same hallucinations to a very considerable degree."

Logical, Fairlie thought. Quite logical. And probably quite true.

But—

He discussed the dreams with Christensen once.

"I hope the doctor is right," Christensen said. "Because what I feel when they come near me, when they examine my mind, turning my thoughts over one by one—" He paused. "What I feel is power, and not human power, and I would rather think that it is an illusory sensation caused by some sort of physical stimulus."

"Yes," said Fairlie. "So would I."

"I imagine we'll know for sure pretty soon."

Fairlie looked at him. "How?"

"When we leave this—this ultra-dimension, get back into normal space and time, land on a solid physical world. If the hallucinations stop—well, then, that's all they were. But if the effect goes with us after the stimuli are gone—"

Fairlie shivered. "Damn it," he said. "I wish you hadn't brought that up."

He had been looking forward with such longing to the day Christensen spoke of. He had almost ceased to care what they found on the third world of Altair just so long as they found it and there was air to breathe and solid ground underfoot.

Now he was not so sure.

Altair blazed in the void ahead of them, a great yellowish-white diamond turning, turning, shooting fire from every facet as it turned. Fairlie looked at it through the shielded port. He had no words. He did not even have any thoughts. He was drowned in splendor.

The ship moved in toward the sun.

A planet came spinning through the field of light. At first it was only a tiny fleck of brightness but it leaped and grew at fantastic speed, first to a ball and then to a sphere that continued to grow and change, taking on new colors, showing at last the dim outlines of continents and seas, a haze of sky, the upper surfaces of cloudmasses blinding bright.

Ryn, the third world of Altair. Ryn, the world of my forefathers, Fairlie thought, and what will it be like, this homecoming after thirty thousand years?

The planet became a disc, filling the whole port.

Fairlie looked over at Christensen and smiled. "We made it." The bones of Christensen's face stood out, with the pale skin stretched over them. He looked a hundred years old, sitting there watching this alien world swing toward them in its orbit around an alien sun. Allen, and yet not alien.

Christensen said, "Yes, we made it."

"And I haven't had any more nightmares. Have you?"

"Not those particular ones. No."

The effect had not followed them out of hyperspace. Fairlie had slept in peace, unharmed and unpursued. Everybody else had, too, and he was sure now that Reichler's diagnosis of shared hallucination had been correct. Morale had shot up astonishingly with the return to normal space. The ship stirred and muttered, taking the feel of gravity, fighting against it. Fairlie glanced again at Christensen, this time anxiously.

"I know landing isn't supposed to be as rugged as taking off but it feels as though it could get rough even so. Hadn't you better lie down?"

Christensen's gaze was fixed on Ryn, on the face of a new world. "No," he said.

"At least let the doctor give you

Jackie Brushing Up On Her Tennis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Kennedy is brushing up on her tennis so she can provide tougher opposition for the President next time they play.

Mrs. Kennedy played tennis Monday afternoon with a Washington area professional on the White House tennis court. Her press aide, Miss Pamela Turnure said Mrs. Kennedy was "picking up a few pointers."

"I've come a long way to see this, Fairlie. I won't be coming this way again. I don't want a shot."

The disc widened and ceased to be. Now there was a surface, wrinkled, humped, shaded in green, in gray and brown and sand-color.

Second Nuclear Sub In Scotland

HOLY LOCH, Scotland (AP)—A second Polaris-firing atomic submarine of the U.S. fleet, the George Washington, sailed into Holy Loch Tuesday night and tied up alongside the tender Proteus.

Two men and two girls in two canoes attempted an anti-nuclear demonstration but were warded off by Scottish sea police who arrested them.

The George Washington replaced the Patrick Henry which is now on cruise.

CANCER CRUSADE REPORTS from Grifton and Ayden were made this week by Robert Wheeler and Harry Jarvis to E. M. Baldree, board member of the Pitt County Unit of the American Cancer Society. Grifton Chairman Wheeler (extreme right) said he expects to be able to turn in about $400. Jarvis (standing), who directed the Crusade in Ayden, turned in $604.88 collected by his workers in Ayden.

Quickie Marriage Bill Sent To House

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill aimed at halting quickie marriages of teen-agers who fail to have permission of their elders won Senate approval Tuesday and was sent to the House.

A compromise amendment offered by Sen. N. Elton Aydtlett of Pasquotank eased passage of the measure on third reading. A flurry of debate had preceded second-reading approval Thursday.

The original bill, introduced by Sen. Ed Clark of Bladen, would have required that all persons wait 24 hours to get a marriage license in North Carolina.

Under Aydtlett's amendment, a 24-hour wait would be required only for persons under 21 years of age who do not have approval in writing from parents or guardians.

Aydtlett, who strongly opposed the measure in debate Thursday, said he had been severely chastized since by his wife and the Pasquotank County Ministerial Association.

Meanwhile, Sen. Luther Hamilton of Carteret introduced a bill which would protect dry communities in a county that votes wet from becoming the location of an ABC liquor store. His measure would leave the way open for the community to ask for a store later if it desired.

Rep. Ed Kemp of Guilford offered a bill to speed election returns. Precinct officials would be required to telephone vote results to the county board of elections as soon as the count is completed on election night. These results would then be made available to press, radio and television.

The House received a bill which would require that notice of liens be entered on the certificate of title to a motor vehicle. Rep. Leonard Lloyd of Graham, who sponsored the measure, said this would protect purchasers of second hand cars by giving them notice of any liens on the vehicle.

The House Penal Institutions Committee approved a bill aimed at expanding the Prison Department's work release program. It would permit prisoners committed under the work release plan to be housed with other prisoners in minimum security prison camps, rather than separately.

Expansion of the program has been hampered because of the restriction, said Prisons Director George Randall.

"It is the firm intention of OCDM, under the direction of President Kennedy, to bring home to the American people their spiritual obligation to prepare for survival and to aid in the survival of others. Operation Alert 1961 should assume a new dimension in our thinking. It is more than a training exercise for preparing the civilian population for self-protective measures during emergencies. It is a challenge to all of us to support the peace-preserving efforts of the President by demonstrating that we are strengthening our home front."

The alert exercise will begin April 26 with two days of increased readiness buildup, leading on April 28 to a mock enemy attack, Conelrad drill, simulated warning of attack and the sounding of public sirens in many areas. Traffic will be halted briefly and people in some States will be directed to take cover. Key personnel in some State governments will move to emergency relocation sites. Many industrial firms will conduct their own disaster preparedness drills.

COUNTING BIRDS
CONYERS, Ga. (AP)—A monk in the Trappist monastery here has counted 182 species of birds during his bird watching. He reports that about 200 species appear each year in this rural area about 30 miles east of Atlanta and the bird watchers have recorded 460 species either living in or flying over Georgia.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Barbara Abegsen, 16 months old, fell 20 feet to the sidewalk from a third-floor apartment but is reported in fair condition.

The child was unconscious when picked up Tuesday but apparently no bones were broken.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "How often do you brush your teeth?" a newsman asked 42 southern California dentists at their annual meeting.

The answers: 21 claimed three times daily, 6 said four times a day, 2 said five times, 1 said six, 6 said two and 1 said once.

The dentist who brushes six times a day boasted that he hadn't had a cavity since 1947.

Nationwide CD Exercise Slated To Start Today

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—Operation Alert 1961, the eighth annual civil defense training exercise for improving the Nation's nonmilitary defense, will be held from April 26 to 30.

Nationwide survival and recovery actions to deal with "enemy attack" will be tested under the leadership of Frank B. Ellis, new Director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization.

Director Ellis revealed that this year's Conelrad Radio Alert drill, scheduled for 30 minutes starting at 4 p.m. (EAST) on April 28, will be "the biggest emergency broadcast exercise ever observed on the North American continent."

All television and radio broadcast stations will leave the air. Radio broadcast stations authorized for Conelrad programming will return to the air almost immediately to carry messages from Federal, State and local officials stressing public preparedness against attack.

RADIO NETS participating on a voluntary basis will include those of police and fire departments, highway departments, railroads, taxis, industries, amateurs and conservation departments. Aviation and marine radios and international radio message services will be the only hand cars by giving them notice of any liens on the vehicle.

The OCDM Director stressed that this annual exercise has no connection with current world conditions, but added:

"It is the firm intention of OCDM, under the direction of President Kennedy, to bring home to the American people their spiritual obligation to prepare for survival and to aid in the survival of others. Operation Alert 1961 should assume a new dimension in our thinking. It is more than a training exercise for preparing the civilian population for self-protective measures during emergencies. West Virginia Area Is First To Be Trying Emergency Food Stamp Plan

WELCH, W.Va. (AP) — McDowell County, a rough and rugged section of southernmost West Virginia which has become the symbolic depressed area, today becomes the first guinea pig in President Kennedy's emergency food stamp program.

Penny-pinched adults march past Gov. W. W. Barron to sign their names and tell what they're earning — if anything. Then government agencies will decide how much free food each family head receives.

It's part of an experimental program Kennedy launched to try to give needy persons a better balanced diet.

Here's the way it works: Those taking part in the program will be required to buy stamps in the amount they normally spend on food. Then they get additional stamps free.

Someone in the plan who makes a fair living will get only a few free stamps. Someone earning a pittance gets more stamps. Someone without any income gets enough stamps free to permit him to feed his family a nutritional diet.

The federal government will buy back the stamps from the grocer. The food stamp experiment also will be tried in seven other hard-pressed communities — Franklin County, Ill.; Floyd County, Ky.; Detroit, Mich.; the Virginia-Hibbing-Neshawauk communities in northern Minnesota; Silver Bow County, Mont.; San Miguel County, N.M., and Fayette County, Pa.

The actual distribution of food stamps gets under way in June. The eight-county trial, affecting 300,000 to 350,000 persons, is calculated to cost the government $50 million the first year. If it proves successful and is put to use in most states, it probably will add $400 million to the annual costs.

Kennedy, when he was waging his life-and-death primary campaign in West Virginia last spring, made much of McDowell County. He pointed to it through out the summer and early fall as an area that needed immediate attention. McDowell, bordering on Virginia, was a rich, reckless land when coal mining was booming. Everybody had a buck. Tomorrow was some time off. No worry about that.

Then automation came, and coal miners were furloughed by the thousands. The hilly terrain offers virtually nothing else as a substitute.

In 1950 the county had nearly 100,000 persons. By 1960 nearly a third of them had left. Of those remaining, the Department of Public Assistance reported last April 1 that 40,000 were eligible for free food.

They are a people completely perplexed by the industrial development that has laid waste their jobs. They aren't ignorant of their facts of life—they just cannot understand why there no longer is the comparative need for coal that there used to be. Stoutly they're refusing to leave. It'll come back, they say. "That's all I know. What else can I do?"

Truman Pledges Support Action

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman Tuesday pledged his support to President Kennedy after being briefed on the world's trouble spots. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson came from Washington at Kennedy's request to discuss past, present and future action with Truman. Neither Johnson nor Truman would disclose details of their conference.

Ten-Year-Old To Become Mother

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A 10-year-old Negro girl has entered City Hospital to await the birth of a baby expected next month. The child, identified on hospital records as Dolores Smith, is married to an 18-year-old farm laborer, relatives said. They live in Mason, a rural west Tennessee area. The youngest mother on record was an Argentine girl who gave birth to twins when she was 7.

TB Association Holding Annual Meet Tomorrow

The annual meeting of the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association is scheduled to get underway tomorrow for a two-day session in Morehead City.

Pitt County TB Association Executive Director Mrs. Milton V. Clarke will be among representatives from 96 local TB associations across North Carolina who will attend the meeting.

Following a business session, National TB Association President Herbert C. DeYoung of Chicago will deliver the opening address.

Another feature of the meeting will be a discussion of "Mobilizing to Eradicate Deficiencies in TB Control Programs" by Duke Medical School professor Dr. David T. Smith. Dr. Smith's address will come at 2:45 p.m. tomorrow.

The Carteret County TB Association will act as host for the meeting that is expected to draw more than 200 Tar Heel TB workers.

Dentists Report Tooth-Brushing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "How often do you brush your teeth?" a newsman asked 42 southern California dentists at their annual meeting.

The answers: 21 claimed three times daily, 6 said four times a day, 2 said five times, 1 said six, 6 said two and 1 said once.

The dentist who brushes six times a day boasted that he hadn't had a cavity since 1947.

No Fractures In Three-Floor Fall

The child was unconscious when picked up Tuesday but apparently no bones were broken.

All They Left Was A Deep Hole

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — All that was left was a hole in the ground when thieves finished working out on a producing oil well near Skiatook.

V. A. Darnell, Tulsa, said he discovered all the well's $4,000 worth of equipment gone late Monday when he visited his 20-acre lease.

Counting Birds

CONYERS, Ga. (AP)—A monk in the Trappist monastery here has counted 182 species of birds during his bird watching. He reports that about 200 species appear each year in this rural area about 30 miles east of Atlanta and the bird watchers have recorded 460 species either living in or flying over Georgia.

Issue Of Daylight Saving Is Raised

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Should North Carolina switch to daylight savings time for the late spring, summer and early fall months as provided for in a bill pending in the General Assembly?

Citizens from throughout the state voted by nine to seven for a "no" answer to that question in an Associated Press poll. Twenty per cent of these questioned indicated it didn't matter.

Rep. Stedman Hines of Guilford introduced the bill last week. It follows the route of industrial Piedmont - supported bills in recent sessions of the Legislature, it will be beaten down by lawmakers from eastern North Carolina.

If the measure goes through, North Carolinians next Sunday will run their clocks up one hour. The purpose is to gain an extra hour of daylight after workers leave their jobs at the end of the day.

This would be effective, under Rep. Hines' bill, through the last Sunday in October.

The AP poll took in, at random, persons of varied occupations - from farmers and policemen to educators.

Most of the farmers were indifferent to the bill; some decidedly opposed it, and a few favored it.

Sam Lattimore, a Shelby cotton grower, said daylight savings time "upsets terribly" the work on farms, because "We work by the sun. Field hands in this area knock off for lunch when they hear the noon whistles and if they're blowing an hour earlier, it gets us off schedule."

Clifton Horn, a Goldsboro farmer, saw advantages in the bill. But he said he felt farmers would not be affected.

"We start and stop by the sun no matter how the clock reads," he said.

R. N. Linville, an Oak Ridge beef farmer, echoed Horn's opinion. "I get up when the sun comes up, regardless," he said. "It might help the person who goes to work at 8 p.m."

Housewife, Mrs. Kenneth L. Griffin of near Gastonia said, "We are having a vegetable garden this year. I've always wanted one, and an extra hour in the afternoon to work would really be nice."

Bill LeGrand, Shelby textile executive, said: "From a practical standpoint, we would have an hour more contact with New York sales offices, which are on daylight savings time."

(New York switches to daylight savings time annually for the warm months.)
B. L. Brooks, a Greensboro policeman, said, "It's a good thing. The extra hour in the evening gives you more time when you have a cookout or lawn party."

C. W. Twiford, principal of Goldsboro High School, said it would be "very fine" for the schools. "Students seem to do their best work in the earlier hours and this would add approximately one hour to this good work. Also, it would add an extra hour of daylight for added recreation."

But Malcolm Brown, superintendent of Shelby Schools, said the extra light hour may mean less studying by the students.

"The students don't begin studying until dark, generally, and with daylight saving it would be 9 p.m. before we realized it. And it's almost too late to study then. I'd rather have it like it is now."

Mrs. Harvey Smith, a Charlotte housewife, said, "I'm not for it. It messes things up. I just had a new baby and it might mess my schedule all up."

Another housewife, Mrs. Dennis E. Daye of Greensboro said, "I'm for it. From my husband's standpoint, he would have more time to work in the yard; I would have more time to help him."

Mrs. Kitty Davenport of Charlotte said, "I don't like to change back and forth."

Miles Allen, operator of a downtown Gastonia restaurant, said "I believe that to most people it would be better to have daylight savings time."

Alaska Highways Pose Major Job

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Alaska highway work under contract for this summer or on which bids have been asked, cover 390 miles of roads and 12 bridges.

In all, 31 federal highway aid projects are involved and the total cost approximates $14 million. T. D. Sherard, director of the state highways division, said.

Just No Time To Plan On Family

HONOLULU (AP)—Japanese singer Chemi Eri says she's too busy with her career to plan on a family "for another two or three years."

Mrs. Eri, 24, is in Honolulu for performances during the cherry blossom festival, one of Hawaii's most elaborate annual celebrations sponsored by the Japanese community.

She told newsmen her film, television, radio, stage and recording career leaves no time for motherhood.

Health, Education Are Unanswered Problems In Congo

EDITOR'S NOTE—Beyond the Congo's political troubles are enormous problems in such fundamental matters as health and education. John A. Kennedy, publisher and editor in chief of the Sioux Falls Argus-Leader, and Mrs. Kennedy just concluded a stay in the country which they visited before, in 1959. This is the first of three articles about conditions they found on those trips.

By JOHN A. KENNEDY
LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (AP)—When the Belgians pulled out of the Congo last July, there was not a single medical doctor in this vast country.

And only 50 students are now in the new medical college at Lovanium University here as the only pipeline to supply Congolese health supervision in the future.

This medical-health picture perhaps dramatically points up the problems of the Congo—and for that matter similar difficulties already present or certain to be encountered in the emerging African nations today.

Experts say the people just can't all go back to the sorcerers and witch doctors of the past—though these mysticists still prevail in a large part of the uncivilized areas of the bush and jungle.

On independence day, there were 761 Belgian doctors. After the uprisings, only 150 remained and those were mostly in the big cities—to care for 13,000,000 Congolese and 4,000,000 more in Belgian-administered Ruanaa and Urundi.

The departing medics took with them the technicians, X-ray and laboratory experts, leaving only a very few to help man the hospitals and dispensaries.

Under Belgian rule, according to Dr. M. Bellerive, senior U.N. medical consultant who had visited the Congo several times before as World Health Organization expert, medical care of Africans in hospitals and dispensaries had been perhaps the best and most complete of any nation in black Africa.

With the aid of hurriedly recruited Red Cross teams, the U.N. chief has been able only to partially reorganize the nation's health setup.

Dr. Bellerive's most optimistic guess is that it will take at least 15 years before the Congolese can get along without foreign doctors—if then.

Through the Red Cross, Dr. Bellerive tried to get 130 doctors immediately. Of this number, 72 have arrived. In addition to physicians, public health advisory teams were assigned to each of the six provinces consisting of a doctor, one sanitary engineer, and a public health expert.

The Belgians fortunately had medical stores which they believed adequate for 1½ years in the event the Congo was cut off by another world war. The first six months since July drew heavily on this stock but Dr. Bellerive says they are not too desperate on this score at present.

"The big problem today," the WHO chief said, "is what can we do in the future because the Red Cross doctors are planning to leave in June?"

The United Nations already has sent 61 medical assistants to France who have been accepted at schools with the understanding that in addition to the three years in these institutions, the students at the same time will make up their deficiencies in the basic sciences.

By comparative training, they could rank between an interne and a graduate nurse.

If they do not pass the French medical exams—which are tough—they will be returned to the Congo as super medical assistants. The first reports from five French universities are quite good. It is the hope of Dr. Bellerive to send 20 more medical assistants to school this year. The World Health Organization is picking up the tab. They also have worked out a full program for public health doctors with about 1,000 students.

Some Swiss medical schools also are training Africans but the small supply of medical assistants here are so badly needed to help to at least partially preserve the Congo's health that it will be difficult to let them leave the country.

In three years this group of Congolese will form the backbone of their country's health service and will be augmented by graduates from the relatively newly formed medical school at Leopoldville—Louvain University.

Dr. Bellerive reported considerable difficulty in the packing of doctors after they arrive.

Kivu, from where most of the Belgians were chased when the tribes rose against their former colonial masters, first said "no" to the proffered medical teams.

In April they cabled the United Nations in Leopoldville for 10 doctors including surgeons and specialists.

There has been some difficulty in obtaining full cooperation with native officials by U.N. heads. A few doctors were roughed up a bit but Bellerive feels his operations are beginning to work more smoothly.

The lack of medically trained Congolese has presented the most serious problem to the U.N. health authorities. They can not find trained medical experts to suggest as commissioners of health.

Under the Belgians, both the national and provincial posts of this type were occupied by top medical men—non-native.

U.S. Cheered By Revolt Collapse

WASHINGTON (AP)—The collapse of the Algerian revolt obviously cheered official Washington.

Neither the White House nor the State Department issued any formal comment Tuesday night. But Secretary of State Dean Rusk said: "It is always a great help to the free world to see France strong and unified."

Rusk spoke to newsmen before taking off for the Central Treaty Organization meeting in Ankara, Turkey. The organization is an alliance of Britain, Turkey, Iran and Pakistan.

The United States supported French President Charles de Gaulle all the way.

President Kennedy had offered him any assistance he might want in squashing the revolt.

The State Department also had warned the insurgent French generals not to attempt to move into Tunisia or Morocco to attack Algerian Moslem leaders based there.

Officials here privately expressed their hopes that De Gaulle now can move along in his quest for a settlement of the Algerian crisis.

Some authorities said his success in smashing the uprising would strengthen his hand in arranging the settlement.

U.S. officials believe such a settlement would allow France to play a more effective role in building the defenses of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, thus insuring France's position as one of the cornerstones of NATO.

The bulk of France's military power has been tied down in Algeria for six years, trying to keep peace and protect France's settlers.

Some Celebrities Dislike Selecting Own Epitaph

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It has been one of my lucky fortunes to meet and interview many of the celebrities of our time. The question I've asked them they disliked most was, "If something happened to you, what would be your own choice of your epitaph?" Most of the celebrities I've presented this question to have politely ducked it. Girls in particular are reluctant to be committed by an answer. A girl at her best picks her own idea of her renown and the last thing she would like to have to state would be her choice of the words on her tomb. In this respect famous men are like famous women. They hesitate to face their disappearance from a world they have enjoyed to meet a reward they undoubtedly have earned but have no appetite to pursue alone. And so they stumble and cavil about the epitaphs they would choose. But here are a few honest answers I remember: Comedian Morey Amsterdam—"He was a nice guy." One of the wealthy Whitney scions: "He loved his country." And Bob Mitchum of Hollywood: "I was interrupted." When I told Bob Hope about Mitchum's choice of an epitaph he laughed and declined to give one of his own. The other question which I have asked many celebrities and found it does interest them and they are quite willing to answer is this: "If you had to summarize the meaning of life in one word that expressed your own attitude toward living, what would it be?" While this may be a sophomoric query—and it is—there is no other question I have asked of people that is more spontaneously evocative of reply. Gary Cooper said "Sincerity," and Myrna Loy said "Love." Bob Hope said "Applause," and for that I respected him utterly, because he is a professional. One thing you do discover about our country when you ask a person, whether he is a celebrity or not, what his synonym for life is—most people are optimistic. They believe in this world. The words that to most people most meaningfully stand for life are love, happiness, and hope. My personal choice would be "hunger." The one I like best, however, was volunteered by a news friend of 30 years. Life, he said is "sweet-sorrow."

ment of hypertension, a problem which brought him to the clinic earlier this year. A clinic spokesman said Hemingway apparently came alone from his Idaho home. He was checked in at St. Mary's hospital.

Charge Interpol Refusing Search

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The World Jewish Congress charged Tuesday that Interpol—the international criminal police organization—has refused to try to track down Nazis accused of crimes against humanity. The congress submitted a complaint to a council of nongovernmental organizations which hears statements and makes them a part of the records of the U.N. Economic and Social Council. Dr. Maurice L. Perle, international affairs chief of the congress, coupled his complaint with the charge that governments were refusing to extradite war criminals on the grounds that they are political refugees.

Greenville's Challenge UNDER NEIGHBORHOOD CONSERVATION

Our nation's $220 billion investment in housing is deteriorating—almost unchecked—at an alarming rate. Our city is plagued by slums, blight and unfit housing. These conditions must be eliminated directly, swiftly and equitably by our system of free enterprise, if our tax base is to be salvaged and our American living standards maintained.

Deterioration didn't happen overnight. We can't solve the problem in a day; but action must begin now, for these rundown sections of our cities are the costly breeding grounds for crime, juvenile delinquency, fire and disease.

The task may appear tremendous—but it is not insurmountable. And costs of correction rise with each additional day of neglect. With a modest—yet bold—beginning, the cancerous process of deterioration can be stemmed and then overcome.

A comprehensive plan of action, Neighborhood Conservation, has brought progress to many cities. Courage, plus the careful application of a proven program, can reverse the harmful trend and launch urban America on the path toward a revived economy and a better life.

COOPERATIVE PROGRAM

Neighborhood Conservation is against just one thing—bad neighborhood conditions. Therefore, it will appeal to all citizens. Home owners, financing institutions, the real estate and building industries, all will be willing to cooperate in such an unselfish program, the only aim of which is to better living conditions within our city.

Local civic organizations have a big role in the program. Their support of the program, and the public information work they can perform are essential tools in building neighborhood interest and enthusiasm.

The cooperation of home owners to meet adequate modern housing standards established by our local ordinances is another example of the teamwork necessary to make the program a success.

EQUITABLE PROGRAM

Every interest involved in Neighborhood Conservation must be dealt with equitably if the program is to be a success. All must share equally in the problems—and in the results. If the program is ably administered, there will be no cause for any one group to claim unfair treatment.

The home owner is the direct beneficiary of rehabilitated property. He pays for the improvements, and prolongs the life of his investment. The ownership of property is a privilege. With every privilege goes a responsibility. He must be assured that his property will not be demolished if it can be rehabilitated.

Neighborhood Conservation Will Do The Job

Deacons Halt East Carolina Win Streak

WINSTON-SALEM—The Demon Deacons of Wake Forest put an end to East Carolina's six-game winning streak yesterday, stopping the Bucs on the W-F diamond by a 13-0 score. Bob Muller, pitching his most brilliant game of the season, threw a blanket over the Pirate hitters, who have been nothing short of sensational this spring, to only three hits in going the route in the nine-inning affair. The stocky lefthander struck out 11 Pirate batsmen and issued only four walks in the non-conference contest. While Muller was stopping the EC hitters cold, the Deacon stickmen were wasting no time in building up a comfortable lead. The Wake Forest batters equalled their number of hits at 13. Roger Coon, who is the leading hitter in the Atlantic Coast Conference, led the winners at the plate with three hits in five trips to the plate. The right-handed hitter drove in four Deacon runs and scored two more himself. Three Pirate hurlers could not stop the Deacon hitting attack. Starter Dan Rouse, a football quarterback in the fall months, was sent to the showers in the fifth, when the Bucs faced a 7-0 deficit. Earl Boykin replaced Rouse, but he, too, had trouble. W-F lapped Boykin for five more runs in the sixth. The big righthander was pushed out in the eighth and replaced by Harold Brown, a lefty, who gave up one more tally to the Deacons in the eighth frame. Muller, who also had a great day at the plate with four hits in five trips, led off the fourth with a single. An error, a walk, and a hit batsman produced one run. Then a two-run single by first sacker, Paul Wilner gave the Deacs a big margin. Wilner then stole second. Coon singled to put runners on first and third. A wild pitch and a single scored two more runs before Rouse could put out the fire. In the eighth inning uprising, leftfielder Jay Franklin led off with an infield single, and then stole second. After Wilner was tagged out, Coon singled to score Franklin, then he, too, stole second. A walk, followed by an error and a double by Deacon catcher Pat Williams produced another pair of tallies. Williams, whose double was the only extra base blow of the day, moved to third on an infield grounder, then scored when Bob Covington singled. For the Bucs, it was a dismal day at the plate to follow one such as Monday's 17 hit and 19 run assault over Catawba. Centerfielder Wally Cockrell and second sacker Spencer Gaylord were the only two EC batters to gain hits off Muller. Cockrell singled twice and Gaylord once. The Pirates went after High Point College today in a doubleheader on the Panther diamond to complete their six-game road trip. EC mentor Jim Mallory was expected to start Larry Crayton, winner of four Pirate games to date, in the opener, and Lacy West, in 1-0, in the nightcap.

Women's Invitational Here Bringing Host Of Players To Friday's Tourney

By LEONARD LAO, Reflector Sports Writer. With 206 ladies from sixteen different cities and towns in eastern North Carolina flocking to Greenville Friday, one would think that a big fashion show was on tap, but one would be wrong. The host of fair damsels will be competing to our city to compete in the first Women's Invitational Golf Tournament to be held on and sponsored by the Greenville Golf and Country Club. Forty-six flights, with sixteen ladies in each, will begin teeing off at 8:45 a.m. The sixteen entries with the lowest handicap will make up the championship flight, and the next sixteen low handicappers will make up the first flight, and so on down to the forty-sixth flight. These ladies will compete in an 18 hole medalist tournament, with the three in each flight receiving a prize. Along with the 18 hole affair, there is also scheduled a nine hole tourney for the beginners. This nine hole affair will consist of those whose handicap is 50 or more, and will be known as the Handicap Tournament. Prizes, besides those for the flight winners, will be given to those with the longest and shortest drives on hole number nine, the shot closest to the pin on hole number three, and eleven door prizes. The awards are scheduled to be given out at 5:00 p.m. during a cocktail party, which closes out the festivities for the day. First prize for the flight winners will be either a golf bag or a golf cart. Second prize will be a number five wood, a wedge, or a pair of golf shoes. The third place winner in each flight will receive one-half dozen golf balls. A set of wood covers will go to the owners of the longest and shortest drives on number nine and the closest to the pin on number three. All of the prizes will have the same monetary value. An entrance fee of five dollars per participant will entitle them to the actual tournament, green fees, a lunch, and the cocktail party. Tournament chairman, Mrs. A. J. White, who introduced the idea for the affair, said, "We do not want to make any money from the tournament, as can be evidenced by the entry fee. Instead, we are doing it merely to associate with other ladies and just for the fun of it." Some of the added attractions of the tournament will be the assignment of different colors to individual participants from the same city. The cities or towns and their respective colors are: Camp Lejeune—beige, Cherry Point—red, Goldsboro—purple, Greenville—green, Jacksonville—chartrreuse, Kinston—turquoise, Nashville—lavender, New Bern—chocolate, Plymouth—pink, Rocky Mount—black, Smithfield—yellow, Tarboro—gold, Washington—navy blue, Williamston—gray, Wilson—light blue, and Windsor—dark green. Among the other extras available to entrants will be free booklets containing all the information concerning the tourney, brightly decorated match folders, free soft drinks, and, probably the biggest attraction of all, pink silk flags trimmed with black lace on all greens. Mrs. White, who has been the women's club champion of the Greenville Golf and Country Club for four out of the seven years, which she has been a member, is very optimistic concerning the success of the event. "There should be a lot of good golfers in the field. Several played in the state tournament three years ago in Asheville. At least thirty club champions will play," continued the tall brunette, "and several flight champions from this year's state tournament." In conclusion, Mrs. White said, "We hope to get something like this started all over the eastern part of the state, but we will consider it a success if we can simply promote good will." Other officers include: Assistant Chairmen, Mrs. Howard Waldrop and Mrs. Holly Van Dyke; Publicity Chairmen, Mrs. Ed Rawl Jr. and Mrs. Louise Picklen; Registrars, Mrs. Charles Gaskins, Mrs. Bill Davenport, Mrs. Wally Howard, Mrs. Ben Harrison, and Mrs. Ray MacKenzie; Social Chairman, Mrs. Bill Corbett Jr.; Assistant Social Chairman, Mrs. Sid Dunn; Hostesses, Mrs. Morris Brody, Mrs. Bob Lang, Mrs. Molt Massey Jr., Mrs. James H. Ward Jr., Mrs. Knott Proctor Jr., Mrs. Bill Jenkins, and Mrs. Judson Blount Jr.; Decorating Committee Chairman, Mrs. Charles Gaskins; Punch Servers, Mrs. Lee Hannah, Mrs. Ty Wagner, and Mrs. Reid Perkins; Officials, Howard Waldrop and Ed Rawl Jr.; Starters, Louis Clark, Bill Davenport, Bob Lee, and Connor Merritt; Scorers, Lucian Bryan, Mack Simpson; Pro and Marshal Harold Thomas; Club Manager Robert Elks.

Robert Coon Shapes Up As Record Hitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Wake Forest's Roger Coon continues his sensational hitting, he may set a conference record for runs batted in that will be hard to beat. Coon drove in four more Tuesday in Wake Forest's 13-0 victory over East Carolina, leaving him just five short of the Atlantic Coast Conference record of 34. And the 6-3, 200-pounder has 10 more games to play this season. Coon also took a 403 average into the game, and fattened it to .416 with his three singles. The victory was Wake Forest's 18th in 21 games this season. Bob Muller, who pitched a nifty three-hitter, picked up his fourth victory in five games. He fanned 11 batters. Wake Forest sees action again today, playing at Virginia Tech. That's the only game scheduled for ACC teams. Meanwhile, Clemson edged South Carolina 3-1 Tuesday to sink the Gamecocks deeper into the ACC cellar, and N.C. State grabbed a share of second place in the standings with a 3-1 victory over Duke. Both N.C. State and Wake Forest have 4-2 conference records, second only to North Carolina's 4-0 mark. Duke dropped from third to fourth and now has a 4-3 league record. Clemson now is 5-4 in the conference, and South Carolina is on the bottom with a 1-7 mark. South Carolina, which now has lost its last seven games, got eight hits to six for Clemson, but the Gamecocks left 13 runners stranded. The victory went to Damon Vincent, who now has a 4-1 record. The loss was charged to George Epps, now 0-2. Joel Gibson picked up his fourth victory in five games in pitching N.C. State to victory. He was in trouble only once, and that was in the last inning when he gave up a double and a single to account for Duke's only run. Ron Kalish took the loss, his third of the season. He's won two. Yoqi Berra has played in 69 World Series games, a record, for the Yankees since his first classic in 1947.

Shotputter Aims For Three Titles

DES MOINES, Iowa. (AP)—Baylor shotputter John Fry is shooting for a sweep of the three major Midwest relays titles in the 52nd running of the Drake Relays Friday and Saturday. Fry, whose all-time best is a toss of 59-10, won the Texas and Kansas crowns. If he captures the Drake title he will snuff a bid by Oklahoma's Mike Lindsay to join the select list of three-time winners in the Drake meet.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said today that while he agrees with his late predecessor, Bert Bell, that violence should not be featured on televised football games, he also believes the fans should know what's happening on the field.

Bel was adamant that player brawls should not be shown on television.

"I've talked to the network about this policy and told them to go ahead and exercise their judgment when these things occur," Rozelle said.

The 35-year-old commissioner is here for his league's annual meeting, which opens today.

Most Trading Success For Detroit

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — On the basis of early returns, the Detroit Tigers appear to have been the most successful in their various off-season player maneuvers.

The Tigers, off to a blazing start with eight in a row after dropping their first game, came out of winter deals with Milwaukee and others a first-string catcher in Dick Brown, a regular center fielder in Billy Bruton and two capable relief pitchers in Terry Fox and Jim Donohue.

Donohue also has a 1-0 record after three appearances. The Tigers grabbed Donohue from the Los Angeles Dodger organization in the regular minor league draft for $25,000. He had a 5-5 record in St. Paul last year.

The San Francisco-Cleveland deal has not paid any spectacular dividends for either side yet. Johnny Antonelli has an 0-1 record with no complete games to show in two starts for Cleveland.

With the exception of three and one-half years spent in the Armed Services, I have lived in the City and maintained a business here. For the past eight years it has been an honor, and I deem it a privilege, to serve on the City Council of Greenville. We all know that Greenville has grown extensively in the past few years. Growth such as this must of necessity be attributed to Progress since Growth and Progress do move hand in hand. Naturally, being a native of Greenville, it makes me doubly proud of the opportunity which has been mine to strive and work for this great forward movement during the past eight years, as I have served you on your City Council. Perhaps there have been times when questions have arisen for decision when my thinking and vote on the matter did not coincide with yours, but after much careful thought and consideration I voted for what I considered right and best for Greenville as a whole, both then and for the future progress of our City. Regardless of the outcome of the Straw Vote on Urban Renewal, you can be assured that I will abide by the wishes of the people on this matter. My primary purpose in asking for your support in the coming election is that I may continue to have the privilege of representing you and doing all in my power to help Greenville live up to its slogan, 'You'll Get More in Greenville.' Since our City has grown so large it will be almost impossible for me to personally contact each of you. If I should miss seeing you please accept this letter as my personal invitation to you for your vote and support May 2nd. Sincerely, Wesley Harvey"

Idea Of Using Force Against Castro Is In Background

What are the chances of the United States using military force against Fidel Castro's Cuban regime? John M. Hightower, veteran AP diplomatic affairs specialist, reports in the following dispatch that the employment of force as a last resort reportedly is one of several plans being considered for dealing with the Cuban crisis.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration is reported to be considering possible use of military force against the Castro regime in Cuba if other means eventually fail to put an end to the island's pro-Communist rule.

Employment of force as a last resort is said to be one of several plans under study here for dealing with the Cuban crisis. Others include the application of political and economic sanctions against Cuba through joint action with Latin American allies.

Some officials believe that as the situation develops following the unsuccessful rebel invasion last week, other American governments might ultimately be willing to participate even in military operations against Castro. The United States is trying to convince them through diplomatic consultation that Cuba as a Communist base is a threat to the entire Western Hemisphere.

None of the possible lines of anti-Castro actions under consideration by President Kennedy are near firm decision.

They include:

Naval blockade—In Kennedy's view this would be an act of war and probably not a very effective move since a blockade is aimed at strangling a nation slowly.

Economic embargo—A partial embargo already is in effect. The greatest single diplomatic disadvantage of a total embargo is that it would subject the United States to propaganda charges of starving the Cuban people. Cubans still can buy foodstuffs and medicines from the United States.

Another anti-Castro operation by Cuban refugees—some authorities think such an action might still be the way out for the United States if the operation could be properly organized and supported on a large scale.

Kennedy reportedly is pleased with the success he has thus far achieved in rallying bipartisan political support for a tough and determined U. S. anti-Castro policy.

The latest evidence of this support came Tuesday from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, a Republican party leader, who had just conferred with Kennedy for an hour.

"I think it is time for all Americans to stand united behind the President in support of whatever action becomes necessary to defend freedom," Rockefeller said.

Rockefeller expressed the view that the presence of Castro in Cuba, considered in the light of world developments generally, has threatened the security of the United States.

His view appeared to give fresh meaning to a statement which Kennedy made in a speech last Thursday to the American Society of Newspaper Editors. He said then that if the inter-American doctrine of non-interference in the internal affairs of another country became merely an excuse for lack of action, the United States government "will not hesitate" to protect the security "of our own nation."

Prior to his meeting with Rockefeller, Kennedy had conferred with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Eisenhower said the country should support the President, who has the responsibility for determining policy. Nixon, in advance of his White House call last week, also had spoken of supporting the President.

Words of backing also were relayed from former President Harry S. Truman, Eisenhower's Democratic predecessor, by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. After meeting with Truman in Kansas City Tuesday Johnson said Truman supports a "course of courage" in the handling of world crises.

In his talks with the leaders of both major political parties Kennedy is reported to have sought their advice on possible future U.S. actions toward Cuba. He also provided them with information on the collapse of the Cuban rebel assault.

The President also is understood to have discussed with them a number of other world trouble spots, including Laos and its Southeast Asian neighbor, Viet Nam.

There is increasing fear here that the imposition of a cease-fire in Laos—agreed to by Britain and the Soviet Union—will be followed by an increase in Communist pressures on the pro-Western government of South Viet Nam.

In fact, authorities here are deeply concerned about the outlook for both Laos and Viet Nam. Even with an end to the Laotian fighting, they expect the Communist rebels will use every device of political pressure and subversion to continue their campaign to take over the country.

While the search for a new anti-Castro strategy is occupying much time in the White House and State Department, indications are that Kennedy may be several weeks in coming to a decision on his next move.

The President wants time to develop consultations with Latin American governments. He also wants to allow time for a study on why the Cuban rebel assault failed and how mistakes of that operation can be avoided in the future.

The attack on Cuba was carried out by refugees from Castro's rule. But officials here no longer try to make any secret of the fact that the Washington government approved the operation and had in fact provided training, funds and weapons to make the assault possible.

One evident result is that the Kennedy administration is now publicly committed to the overthrow of Castro's rule. In its view Cuba has become a part of the world-wide Communist machine for conducting attacks on non-Communist nations by means of propaganda, subversion, infiltration and other cold war tactics.

Interpreter Could Help Dean Martin

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A relaxed manner of performing is dandy. But Dean Martin is so darn relaxed, so lazy-mannered and sleepy-voiced that it sometimes is hard to understand him.

Tuesday night, during Martin's NBC special, there were moments when an interpreter would have helped.

Andy Griffith was one of Martin's guests. With Dino slurring his words, and Andy using his deepest Deep South dialect, it sometimes sounded as if they were speaking in strange, foreign tongues.

The program had one bright sketch idea—a burlesque of those old movies about the dramatic struggles for success by Tin-Pan-Alley composers, complete with all the cliches, even the inevitable splitup of the successful team over a girl.

The most unusual aspect of the rather long hour show, however, was a notable omission: no one made any jokes about Martin and alcohol. Maybe it's the beginning of a new era in Dean Martin's shows.

Tony Martin contributed a few songs and Tina Louise had a couple of numbers of her own but mostly provided a girl for the gentlemen to sing to.

As situation comedy goes, "The Tom Ewell Show" is one of the better ones. This largely is due to Ewell's own efforts. He is an adroit performer who handles comedy with delicate, skillful hands.

Tuesday night's show was typical of most of the series: a banal script about a do-it-yourself project that misfired. But Ewell made it a bright and engaging half hour.

Unfortunately, "The Tom Ewell Show" will be one of the season's casualties—a circumstance difficult to understand when one considers some of the shows which will be given another season on network schedules.

Trophy Awarded By Fraternity

Earl Hart of Vanceboro was awarded the "Brother of the Year" trophy of the East Carolina College Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, at the Spring Frolic of the fraternity held at the Farmville country club.

Hart was voted the honor by brothers of the chapter. The award was made by Hal Smith of Vanceboro, social committee chairman.

A graduate of Farm Life School in Vanceboro, Hart is now a senior at East Carolina, where he is majoring in the social studies and minoring in library science. He has served on the staffs of "The Rebel" and "The Buccaneer," student publications at the college.

For the campus radio service, he records a number of taped broadcasts sent to stations throughout North Carolina and is in charge of the recording studios in the Austin building. He participates also in the activities of the Canterbury Club for Episcopal students.

The fraternity has conducted service projects on the campus this year, including the "cleanup" following hurricane Donna and a benefit for the Crippled Children and Adults Society.

Recommended tonight: Perry Como Show, NBC, 9-10 (EST) with singer Jane Morgan and comic Alan King; Circle Theatre, CBS, 10-11—a dramatized documentary about civil defense.

Hopeful Fishery Troubles Ended

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—Fishing industry leaders hope that possible labor troubles in the Pacific Coast halibut fisheries are cleared up for the summer.

Only 38 per cent of the Washington State fishermen favored a strike ballot on the question of minimum prices, Homer Stevens, secretary of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, said.

The Alaska vote was 94 per cent in favor and British Columbia approved by 74.1 per cent, he said. But it had been agreed a two-thirds majority was needed in each area.

X-Ray Eyes Are Almost Amazing

BALTIMORE (AP)—A theatrical mentalist billed as a man "with x-ray eyes" wore adhesive tape and a black cloth to obscure his vision as he walked into a store for a demonstration.

Without hesitation, he approached a stranger in uniform and said, "Hello, officer. How are you?"

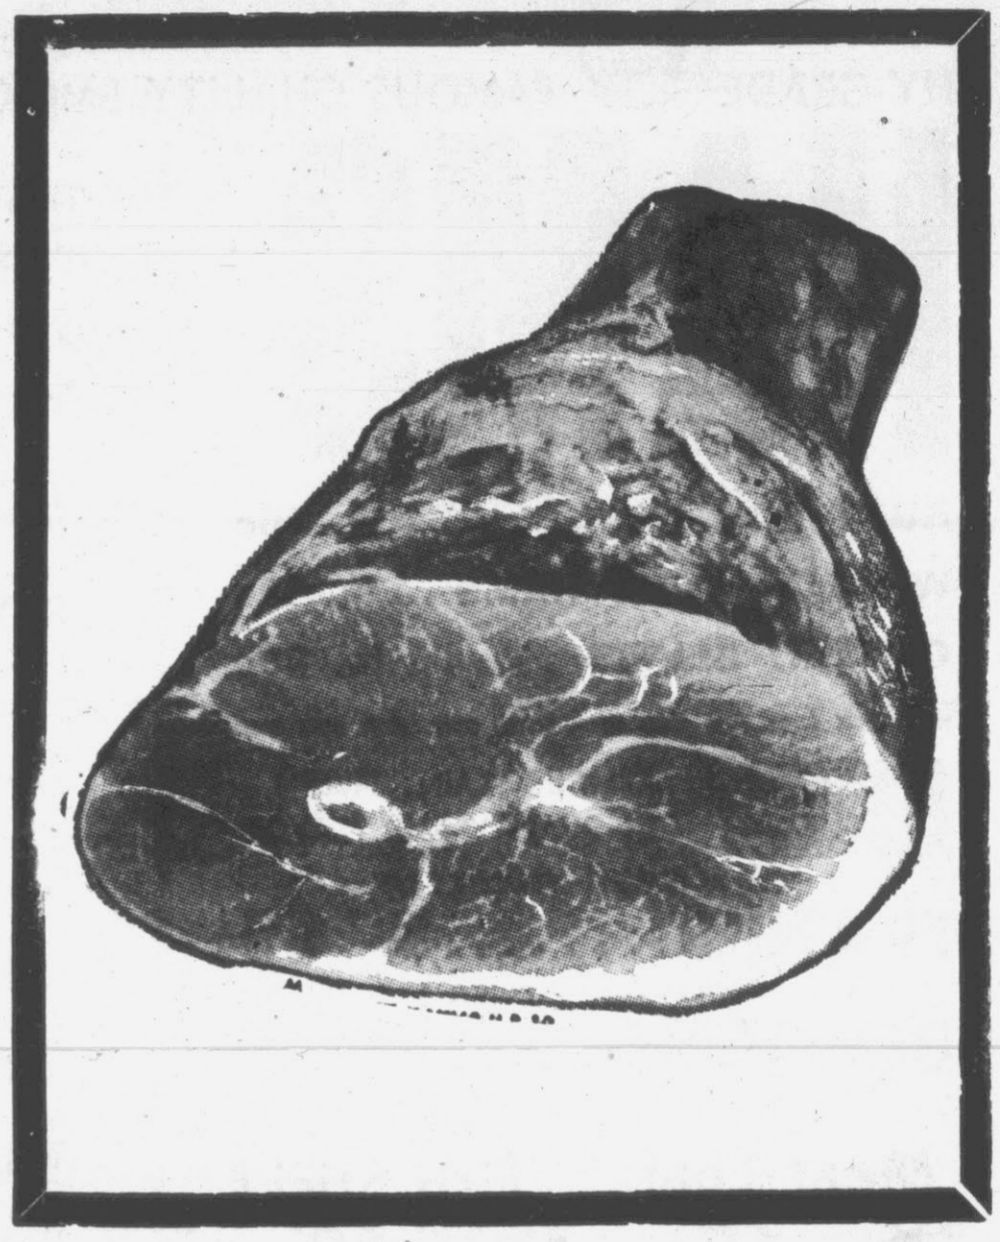

The performance would have been more astounding if the man in uniform had been a policeman instead of a soft drink truck driver.

Britain's Scilly Isles lie in the same latitude as frigid Newfoundland, but the warm Gulf Stream system gives them a climate which is subtropical.

Eichman Said 'Obsessed' With His Task

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann was obsessed with his task of destroying Jews and drove himself furiously from country to country in pursuit of it, evidence introduced today in his trial alleged.

"Eichmann was always active. He couldn't rest. He traveled constantly. He said the 'final solution' must be decisive because nobody knows how the war will end."

These were the words of a former colleague of Eichmann, a man now dead.

They were written by Rudolf Hoess, wartime commander of the great extermination camp at Auschwitz. He was executed in Poland in 1947.

The prosecution succeeded today in putting Hoess' notes into the record. It also introduced as evidence further details about Eichmann from S.S. Maj. Dieter Wisliceny, one of his former aides. Wisliceny also was executed after World War II.

In other developments today—Arguments broke out over the question of bringing a living witness to the trial—Dr. William Hoettl, former S.S. major, now living in Austria. He is liable to prosecution under an Israeli law that makes membership in the S.S. and other such Nazi organizations, a criminal offense. The question arose as to whether he could be granted safe conduct in Israel.

Testimony in an affidavit indicated that the "final solution of the Jewish problem"—total extermination—might have been attempted in Palestine as well as Europe, if Germany had won the war. The affidavit, from Wisliceny, described a meeting between Eichmann and the grand mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin el Hussein.

The name of another potential living witness, former S.S. Lt. Col. Walter Huppenkothen, also came into the hearing. The prosecution offered an affidavit from him and Dr. Robert Servatius, chief defense attorney, objected on the ground that Huppenkothen is alive. While the argument continued, Eichmann passed a note to Servatius and the attorney said, "The accused just tells me that Huppenkothen is in West Germany."

Servatius won a hotly disputed point regarding a signed photograph of Eichmann. The prosecution had attempted to put it in evidence two days ago. Beside the signature are the words, "S.S. Lt. Col. Adolf Eichmann, retired." Attorney General Gideon Hausner told the court investigation showed the photograph was a copy of one that had appeared in a German pictorial weekly.

Slowly over repeated objections by the defense—and some sharp questioning by the three Israeli judges—Hausner went on filling in the picture of Eichmann through written testimony of his former associates, Wisliceny and Hoess.

Wisliceny listed five primary reasons for what he called Eichmann's "success" in killing millions of Jews.

1. He had the "full confidence" of his superiors, Gestapo chiefs Heinrich Himmler, Reinhard Heydrich and Gen. Heinrich Mueller.

2. He had the power to overrule German authorities in local-

Ropp To Speak At AAUP Event

Dr. Theodore Ropp, professor of history at Duke University will be featured speaker at the annual spring dinner meeting of the East Carolina College Chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

The event will take place Friday, at 6:30 p.m. at St. James Methodist Church in Greenville. A large number of members of the AAUP and other interested people are expected to attend.

Dr. Ropp's talk will develop the topic "The College Professor—Professional and Citizen."

ties where the Jews were rounded up for deportation.

3. He was not hampered by the German Foreign Office. The affidavit said "the Foreign Office always obeyed."

4. The Nazi Transport Ministry always gave Eichmann priority in providing trains.

5. Aides of Eichmann were trained to obey his orders "blindly."

Servatius, objecting to the Wisliceny document, asked the permission of the court to read 10 lines from the statement which Hausner had not read.

In these, Wisliceny wrote: "I am ready and I wish to take part in the search for Eichmann. I would know him in any disguise. I am convinced I could trace him in a few weeks. Therefore, I propose that I be attached to an American Army unit with the special task of tracking him down."

Servatius has argued before that there was bad blood between Eichmann and Wisliceny and that Wisliceny's assessment of Eichmann was made "to save his own skin."

The attorney asked the judges to take these arguments into consideration in evaluating Wisliceny's words.

But Hoess' notes ran along pretty much the same line. He said Eichmann always had "new plans" and "improvements" for the murder machine. He pictured the former S.S. officer as constantly on the move, and added "he was rarely in Berlin."

Walked Through Glass Window

COLUMBIA, Pa. (AP)—Gladys Graham had just finished transacting some business at the First Columbia National Bank Tuesday and started out what she thought was an open door.

The door turned out to be a large plate glass window. Mrs. Graham suffered lacerations of the nose, hands and left leg.

Math Club Installs New Officers, Gives Awards

The Maria D. Graham Mathematics Club, student organization at East Carolina College, has announced installation of new officers and presentation of awards to two outstanding members.

New officers were installed at the April meeting of the club, a banquet which rounded out activities of the organization for the present school year. Dean Robert L. Holt of East Carolina, speaker for the social event, related his remarks to various geometrical figures. He challenged members to strive for the ideal triangle, with the individual, his fellowman, and God making up the three parts. Dr. David Davis, director of the mathematics department, spoke on recent developments in mathematics.

Officers for the 1961-1962 school year who were installed at the banquet are Sylvia A. Wallace of Bath, president; W. Moye Waters, Jr., of Winterville and Donald R. O'Brien of Rt. 5, Oxford, vice presidents; Jackie C. Grady of Rt. 2, Selma, secretary-treasurer; Ann Green of Greenville and Cara Collier of Rt. 1, Linden, social chairmen; and Melba Rhue of Swansboro, reporter. John Davis and Mrs. Ellen Fleming will serve as faculty advisers.

Agnes Rhue, junior mathematics major from Swansboro, received the Maria D. Graham Award, which is presented each year to a student for excellence in mathematics and participation in the Mathematics Club. Miss Rhue has an all-A academic record in mathematics and has served as a club officer. Louise Williams of the mathematics faculty presented Miss Rhue with an engraved silver tray.

Barbara Moser of Julian, 1960-1961 president of the Mathematics Club, was recognized for her services to the organization and was given a framed photograph of herself which was used in a recent feature story about her published in a number of North Carolina newspapers.

Tips on sunburn, canker sores, and hair figure in medical news: Sun Bathing

You can get a worse sunburn in May than in August.

In North America, the sun's rays reach maximum intensity June 21. So the intensity is stronger in mid-May than late August. As for sunbathing in general, experts warn that chronic over-exposure to the sun is a major factor in producing skin cancer.

Canker Sores

Canker sores can frequently be prevented, or relieved, by eliminating certain foods from the diet, a medical team finds.

They learned some victims of canker sores were sensitive to foods containing citric acid, including citrus juices and chocolate, and other persons to acetic acid contained in vinegar, pickled foods and salads. An allergy may be responsible. Sensitivity tests can spot the offending food.

Tips on Hair

Many women complain their hair is falling out at excessive rate. One reason can be too much stretching and pulling on the hair for "high" or other fashionable coiffures, says a medical journal report.

An expert on cosmetics warns against using household detergents can irritate sensitive areas of the scalp, or cause damage to the eyes.

Jet Age Health

Modern man zips about at high speed from one climate to another in a few hours. Artificial light turns night into day. He moves through sudden changes of temperature, from air-conditioning to summer's broiling heat. A vacation can turn winter into spring. In all this, man is far removed from the environment in which he evolved, with its regularity of time, light, temperature, and geographical location.

Maybe such changes are producing some diseases of civilization, suggests Dr. Rene Dubos, Rockefeller Institute scientist. He urges a new approach in medical research to explore the effects of new forces, new substances, and new stimuli upon humans.

Dizzy Spells

Ultrasonic waves — pitched too high for human hearing — can offset overcome the dizzy spells which mark Meniere's disease, reports Dr. Frank Aitmann of New York City.

Meniere's disease is usually caused by a malfunction of the inner ear, and the remedy for the dizzy sensations is to destroy a certain part of the inner ear.

The ultrasonic waves do this without causing any loss in hearing ability, as does happen often in surgery, he reports. The ultrasonic technique rarely overcomes noises in the ear — another symptom of Meniere's disease — but neither does surgery.

Alaskans Prove Very Air-Minded

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Air-minded Alaskans fly a great deal and figures might seem to show that every person here flew south to Seattle once last year and returned.

Pan American World Airways reports its Boeing 707 intercontinental jets carried 24,000 passengers to and from Seattle the first year. Population of the Fairbanks area is only about 12,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — A continued stock market rally early this afternoon more than erased the remainder of the losses taken in the sharp Monday setback. Trading was heavy.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.30 at 243.50 with industrials up 1.70, rails up .70 and utilities up .90.

Key stocks throughout the list rose from fractions to well over a point. More volatile issues among electronics and other speculative fields ran up several points.

High-priced International Business Machines was a 10-point gainer.

Motors, oils, rails, utilities, chemicals and nonferrous metals were among the gainers.

Polaroid was up about half a dozen points, Varian Associates more than 3.

Gains of 2 points or better were made by Lionel, Magnavox, Zenith, Philadelphia & Reading, Brunswick, American Machine & Foundry and Tractor Supply.

American Tobacco fell around a point. Dupont and Goodyear were fractional losers.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.66 at 684.75. Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds advanced.

House Is Total Loss To Blaze

AYDEN—A house containing two apartments was a total loss as the result of a fire here Monday morning at 9:30, and another house nearby was damaged. Fire Chief Tillman Chauncey said.

Two families, identified as those of H. K. Blount and Laura Hardee, occupied the dwelling at 929 West Avenue, which was declared a complete loss, Chauncey reported.

A home next door occupied by Harvey and Estella Phillips and owned by Estella Phillips and Eva Mae Smith was scorched by the excessive heat, as well as having a small fire inside the home itself, Chauncey said.

No personal injuries resulted from the fire.

Cause of the fire is as yet undetermined. Both families at 929 West Avenue lost most of their personal effects and furniture, it was learned.

Members of the Ayden Volunteer Fire Department battled the blaze, which was the first major fire here since January.

Ayden Reservoir Is Reactivated

AYDEN—A reservoir has been reactivated here which will give Ayden an added storage capacity of 100,000 gallons of water.

Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said yesterday that the reservoir, located at the light plant site, had not been used for several years. After necessary repairs were made, the reservoir was again placed into use and will be available in case of an emergency situation.

Ayden's water tank has a 300,000 gallon capacity, which gives the town a total of 400,000 gallons of water storage capacity above ground, with the reservoir in use.

The course was taught by Dr. Sam T. White II of Greenville and was sponsored by the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Completing the course were: Walter Neison, Johnnie Parker, Billy Carraway, Kirby Letchworth, Rom Webber, S. C. Bradford, David Hodgwood, Glenn Price, R.B. Christman, George Rhodes, Tom Britt, M. O. Hall, Charles Joyner, Frank Baucom, William Lovelace, Rommie Mallison, William Wals-ton and James Speight.

Ayden Rotarians Hear Englehard

AYDEN—Local Rotarians heard a talk by Fred Englehard, manager of the Union Carbide Co., of Greenville, at their meeting on Friday night.

Englehard discussed portable energy, past projects and future prospects. The Union Carbide Company has plants at two other North Carolina sites, Asheboro and Charlotte.

Officers Chosen By Ayden JCs

AYDEN—Bill Stroud was elected president of the Ayden Junior Chamber of Commerce for 1961-62 at a meeting this week.

Other officers elected included J. W. Stocks, first vice president; Jerry Britt, second vice president; Mack Whitehurst, secretary; Jimmy Jenkins, treasurer; and Bill McLawhorn, state director.

Directors elected at the meeting were Marvin Baldree, Guy Corbett, J.D. Dennis and Floyd Rowe.

Announcement of the election of officers was made through outgoing president Tom Wheelers.

Scholarship For Farmville Youth

EVANSTON, Ill. — Announcement came today that Elbert Mayo III of Farmville, N.C. is among 24 high school students in North Carolina who have been awarded four-year merit scholarships to the colleges of their choice.

Mayo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Elbert Mayo Jr. of May Boulevard, Farmville. Currently he attends school in Asheville, N.C. where he is editor-in-chief of the school paper, "The Ashnoct"; president of the Asheville School Amateur Radio Club; and has contributed poems to the school literary magazine, "The Review."

Harvard College is the school of his choice. Mayo intends to major in astrophysics, planning a career in theoretical research in astronomy.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation is the sponsor of this four-year scholarship. Grants range from a minimum of $100 per year to the maximum of $1,500 per year. Most Merit Scholarships include a grant to the college the student attends.

About 1,000 high school seniors throughout the country were named recipients of the scholarships. Winners were chosen from 9,000 finalists who were selected after two tests.

Five honorary merit scholars from North Carolina also were named in the announcement.

Optimist Club ...

Pres. Whitehurst told the membership promotion of the project—a Broadway-type stage production called "Help Mate"—in the form of soliciting Greenville merchants for advertising in a souvenir program had netted the club over $1,000 to date.

He pointed out the current total is prior to ticket sales. Tickets, he said, will go on sale in East Carolina College's Austin Auditorium June 12.

Proceeds from the project will be used for Optimist-sponsored boys work and youth programs in Greenville.

Little Damage In Tuesday Fire

FIREMEN were called to 1300 Colonial Ave. yesterday about 3:10 p.m. when a storage house caught fire.

Officers, reporting Box 136 at the intersection of Colonial Ave. and Ford St. was turned in for the blaze, said no damage resulted. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Considering Of Tax Bills May Be Individually Or In 'Bundle'

RALEIGH (AP) — The legislature's joint Finance Committee was faced with this question today:

Will the bundle of tax bills in the legislature be turned over to a subcommittee for study or be considered separately by House and Senate committees?

Sen. Joe Eagles Jr. of Wilson predicted the group will vote to let the tax bills be considered separately by House and Senate committees.

An attempt was made Tuesday to turn the tax measures over to a subcommittee for study and recommendations to the full committee, but it was blocked by a group headed by Eagles and Sen. Max Thomas of Union.

Tempers flared during the tense debate. The meeting adjourned in a tangle of parliamentary maneuvering.

The joint committee avoided a showdown at the start of the meeting when Rep. Byrd Satterfield of Person said he would not press his motion to delete from Gov. Sanford's tax bill the proposal to place a sales tax on food and drugs.

However, Satterfield said he will offer his amendment to kill it at a later date. He reiterated that the proposed tax on food would be a tax on poverty.

When the committee wound up its tax hearings Tuesday, Rep. Grace T. Rodenbough of Stokes made a motion to send all the bills to a subcommittee. This touched off the debate.

A number of senators, led by Eagles and Thomas, opposed the motion. They asked that the committee split up so that the House and Senate committees might vote separately.

"I see no reason to say we need a subcommittee," Eagles declared. He noted that state statutes do not require or authorize the House and Senate finance committees to sit jointly in considering tax proposals.

Sen. Thomas White of Lenoir, Senate finance chairman, was balked in his efforts to get the joint committee to vote on Rep. Rodenbough's motion. He ruled out of order the substitute motion by Thomas to dissolve the joint committee, then reversed himself.

In the debate that followed, Rep. W. C. Harris told the committee he felt that many members were unprepared to vote. Motions to adjourn were twice placed before the committee and White ruled they were defeated.

A standing division was called for and the vote showed the adjournment motion carried by 39-36.

Coast Guard Has A Piece Of Boat

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Coast Guard has a good-sized chunk of a boat and a mystery—what vessel was it?

The piece of hull about five feet high and 12 feet long was picked up by the ocean-going tug Linden about 50 miles east-southeast of Cape Canaveral and brought to Jacksonville Tuesday.

The only boat reported missing recently is the 38-foot ketch Callisto III, last seen April 15 off Charleston, S.C.

It was described as having a gray hull.
