The City Council this afternoon called for a recount of the urban renewal and public housing and the mayor's race.

The recount was requested on a 3-2 vote as the council canvassed the votes at noon today.

Wesley Harvey made the motion. "I would like to ask that there be a recount mainly to determine whether there was a human error," Harvey said. "I don't want a recount for myself."

Harvey himself missed reelection by only 13 votes. S. Eugene West was defeated for mayor by Charles M. King. The majority was 23 votes.

West said at the outset of today's meeting that he did not desire a recount. He said he was satisfied with the way the count turned out.

West and W. S. Stafford voted against the motion calling for the recount. Harvey, Dr. M. W. Aldridge and Charles King voted in favor.

King also offered a motion that the city revert on the public housing and urban renewal issues. He described the issues as confused in yesterday's referendum.

The motion died for lack of a second.

count of the votes. The citizens of Greenville have expressed their wishes in the mayor's race as well as the urban redevelopment and the public housing issues.

"My feeling, as it has always been, is that the wishes of the majority of the people of Greenville be carried out, for only in this way can we have a democratic city government.

"I would like to express my appreciation to the citizens of Greenville for the support they have given me during my eight years as a city official of Greenville."

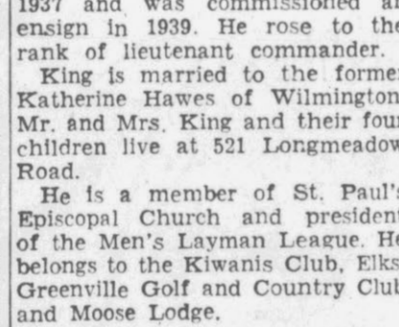

King, when reached by telephone this morning, said he would comment later.

King started off ahead in the vote counting from the very first, according to unofficial tabulations. And although his slim lead was narrowed even more as the counting progressed, he was never headed by West.

Greenville Native Greenville's new mayor was born and reared here, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. W. King. His father served as sheriff of Pitt County for 18 years. King attended Greenville city schools, East Carolina College and Duke University. He joined the Naval Air Corps as an aviation cadet in 1937 and was commissioned an ensign in 1939. He rose to the rank of lieutenant commander.

King is married to the former Katherine Hayes of Wilmington. Mr. and Mrs. King and their four children live at 521 Longmeadow Road.

He is a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church and president of the Men's Layman League. He belongs to the Kiwanis Club, Elks, Greenville Golf and Country Club and Moose Lodge.

Missionary Says Hatred Flaring

LONDON (AP)—A British missionary says a "spirit of hatred" is burning in Angola, with thousands being slaughtered and mutilated in racial strife sweeping the Portuguese West African territory.

The Rev. Clifford J. Parsons, who spent 20 years in Angola, told a British Baptist convention Tuesday night that Portuguese security forces and Africans were both perpetrating atrocities on a vast scale.

Informants said Blake was born in Rotterdam, the Netherlands, and entered the British diplomatic service after World War II navy service. He was vice consul in Seoul when captured by the Communists during the Korean War in 1950 and spent three years in an internment camp. The informants said Blake and other internees were subjected to Communist attempts at brainwashing.

Blake was freed in 1953 and reentered government service. The informants said he became a British intelligence agent, studied Russian and appeared to be a keen — but anti-Communist — student of Soviet affairs.

He is married to a British woman and has three children. At the time of his arrest three weeks ago he was attending the school of Arabic studies in Beirut, Lebanon. The school is run by the British foreign office.

Peele Elected Fountain Mayor

FOUNTAIN — Fountain voters yesterday elected J. L. Peele to a two-year term as mayor in an election that drew votes for a total of 22 candidates.

Seventeen of the candidates were named on write-in ballots. Peele, who was unopposed for mayor on the April 25 candidates' filing deadline, polled 132 votes from the 169 Fountain citizens who voted yesterday. W. W. Walker received 28 write-in votes and Mayor J. M. Horton's name was written on one ballot.

Taking the three commissioner posts at stake were E. E. Ellis, W. C. Redick and Carter G. Smith. Ellis led the field with 120 votes, Redick had 112 and Smith polled 101. The other candidate who filed for commissioner, M. W. Owens, drew 89 votes. Redick and Smith were incumbents.

Sixteen write-in candidates for commissioner drew a total of 58 votes. Leading that group were I. J. Edwards with 11 votes, J. E. Owens with 10 and Linwood C. Owens with nine. Walker, Peele's leading opposition for mayor, also received a write-in vote for commissioner.

The new mayor and the three commissioners are scheduled to be sworn in at the Town Hall at noon Monday. They will assume their duties at the Town Commissioners' regular May meeting Tuesday night.

Adlai Warns Of Setbacks In UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States will suffer "more and more adverse votes" in the United Nations from now on, Adlai E. Stevenson predicted Tuesday night.

The U.S. chief delegate said that with nearly half the world organization's 99 members from Africa and Asia "the West will no longer dominate."

"These are perilous times as we pass on to the period in which the centers of gravity in the world are no longer in the West; they are moving East," Stevenson told a New York dinner of the conference group of U.S. National Organizations of the United Nations.

Loss of the pro-Western voting majority may encourage neo-isolationism among U.S. citizens, Stevenson warned. He called on Americans to resist any such tendency.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C. Temperatures will average a few degrees below normal and rainfall will measure around one-half inch Thursday through Monday. Cool most of period with no large day to day temperature changes indicated. Showers, Friday and possibly again Monday.

O.G. Spell Is Elected New Farmville Mayor

FARMVILLE—Highest vote totals in Farmville's municipal elections here yesterday went to former mayor O. G. Spell in the mayor's race and to a political newcomer, Sam Wainwright, in the commissioners' battle.

Spell led Frank K. Allen by 62 votes at the final count last night. The third candidate, Will E. Joyner, was 93 votes behind Allen.

Spell's total of 466 and Allen's 404 indicated the possibility of a runoff election for the town's mayorship. Joyner garnered 311 votes. Allen said this morning he is considering the possibility of calling for a runoff. He is allowed five days.

Wainwright led a field of 11 candidates for commissioner. Among the top five were four men in their first political ventures. Wainwright drew 864 votes. Dr. S. H. Aycock polled 731, Tommy Lang 695, Oliver Murphrey 657, and Joseph D. Joyner 601. Murphrey was the only successful incumbent.

Two more incumbent commissioners, Howard Moyer and W. C. Wooten, placed sixth and seventh in the commissioners' balloting with totals of 523 and 463, respectively.

Other candidates and their respective vote totals were: Mrs. Frances Joyner Harper, 387; C. B. Mashburn Jr., 383; Robert Joyner, 264; and Jack Allen, 91.

Figures were tabulated as unofficial totals by the poll holders. The final tally is scheduled for presentation to a Thursday night meeting of the Town Board of Commissioners for certification. Elected officials will take office on July 1.

The leader in the mayor's race, Spell, served as Farmville's mayor before Mayor Charles S. Edwards unseated him three terms ago. Edwards declined to seek reelection this year. Spell is also a former commissioner.

His closest challenger, Allen, is a local farm equipment dealer and has served as a member of the Town Board of Commissioners.

Urban Renewal and public housing received the blessings of Greenville's voters yesterday after perhaps the most bitterly fought local issue of the century.

Citizens gave a 102-vote majority to the urban renewal program with 1,974 voting in favor of it and 1,872 opposing.

An even greater majority of 391 was given to the creation of a public housing authority. There were 1,989 ballots cast in favor and 1,598 against.

A majority of the winning candidates had indicated during the political campaign that they would support the outcome of the referendum.

The program's strongest advocate, Mayor S. Eugene West, met defeat at the polls yesterday. Charles M. King, who defeated West, has said he would carry out the program in accordance with the wishes of the citizens of Greenville.

Dr. M. W. Aldridge and Dr. Ralph Brimley, two council winners, have also indicated they would support the urban renewal — public housing program if it were approved by the people.

James W. Lee and Ford McGowan, who round out the new council, have advertised that they support neighborhood conservation, a plan offered by property owners in lieu of urban renewal public housing.

The big slum clearance program received approval of the voters in the face of an unprecedented campaign against it. Advertising was first sponsored by a group known as the Greenville Property Owners Association and later by the Association for Better Citizenship and Home Government.

Citizens, however, gave a favorable vote specifically to urban redevelopment and slum clearance of the Shore Drive Area.

The Shore Drive project area at present embraces more than 70 acres of mostly slum housing north of the Tar River. It is bounded on the west by the ACL tracks and on the east by a stream beyond Side Street.

Planners envision an extension of the downtown commercial section into much of project area. Planning was still preliminary when the referendum was called.

Statewide interest in the local fight developed and news wire services and newspapers with broad circulation areas carried articles on the impending referendum.

Though most nearby municipalities of comparable size already have some public housing, Greenville is the first city in this section of the state to hold a referendum on the question of Urban Renewal.

Friday May See Shepard In Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. will have to wait at least until Friday to become the first American shot into space, a top project Mercury official reported today.

Walter Williams, project operations director, confirmed reports that the shot-postponed Tuesday — cannot be attempted again until Friday.

"It will take that long before we can have the Redstone booster rocket ready to go again," Williams said, explaining that it is a complicated process to drain off the tons of fuel that were pumped into the vehicle and check it to make certain all systems are functioning properly.

When the first effort to launch the rocket was postponed Tuesday because of bad weather, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced only that there would be at least a 48-hour delay, with a possibility of a firing on Thursday.

Williams said the weather outlook is good for Friday. He said that if the launching broadcast a general cease-fire order effective at 8 a.m. and called on the Western-backed government of Premier Boun Oum to join promptly in negotiations for an armistice.

Rebel broadcasts over North Viet Nam's Radio Hanoi, quoted by Peiping Radio, said the cease-fire order was issued to both the Pathet Lao forces fighting for years to take over the Indochinese kingdom for the Communists and the allied troops loyal to paratroop Capt. Kong Lo, whose coup last summer briefly put Prince Souvanna Phouma in power.

The broadcasts made no mention of cease-fire negotiations which reportedly began Tuesday in the no-man's land some 45 miles north of Vientiane between an officer of Boun Oum's army and military representatives of the Pathet Lao.

British Official Sentenced To 42 Years For Espionage Role

LONDON (AP)—George Blake, a British government official, was sentenced to 42 years in prison today for spying for the Soviet Union for nearly a decade.

It was the stiffest sentence ever handed down in Britain in peacetime for spying. Atomic spy Klaus Fuchs was sentenced to 14 years and was released in 1959 after serving nine years.

Blake, 38, pleaded guilty. The nature of his government job and the information he passed was not disclosed for security reasons.

The presiding lord chief justice, Lord Parker, said the information communicated, though not of a scientific nature, was clearly of the utmost importance to the Soviet Union and "rendered completely useless."

The judge did not spell out the meaning of "this country's ef-orts." Court reports speculated that it concerned British security measures against Soviet espionage.

Aity. Gen. Reginald Manningham-Buller told the court that Blake's crime was "even graver" than those of the two Britons, two Americans and a Russian convicted in March of passing British navy submarine and underwater defense secrets to Moscow.

Manningham-Buller said, however, that Blake's job "fortunately did not give him any access to information relating to secret weapons or atomic or nuclear weapons, but he has nevertheless done most serious damage to the interests of this country."

Justice Parker noted that Blake is "a British subject, albeit let me add not by birth." He did not disclose the defendant's birthplace.

"Your case is akin to treason," the judge declared.

Curator Of State Art Museum Is Speaker

Dr. Charles Stanford, Curator of Education for the North Carolina Art Museum, delivered an illustrated lecture at a meeting of the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women Monday evening in the Alumni Building.

Mrs. D. S. Spain introduced the speaker and recognized Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, director of the Art Center in Greenville, who was present at the meeting.

Dr. Stanford told the members and visitors of the Branch about the Kress collection, which consists of 68 paintings and two pieces of sculpture and is worth two and a half million dollars. One picture alone, a Giotto, was considered by the Kress gift in 1960. Before the Kress gift was received, the museum ranked fifteenth in the nation; and it may be assumed that its rank is higher now. Dr. Stanford paid tribute to Dr. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, who has worked so zealously to obtain this gift for the museum. Visitors at the museum range from medieval scholars to school children. When the museum had its fifth birthday last month, Dr. Stanford invited some medieval scholars who were attending a conference at Chapel Hill. They were astonished to find such an excellent exhibit.

Dr. Stanford showed a number of slides of paintings in the museum. They included the Peruzzi altarpiece, Giotto's, Betlicelli's pictures from the schools of Siena and Bologna, Renaissance portraits, and many more.

During the business session Dr. Kathleen Stokes, the president of the Branch, gave a report on the state convention which was held in Charlotte on April 28 and 29. The following members of the Greenville branch attended the convention: Dr. Kathleen Stokes, Mrs. Robert Lee Humber, Mrs. D. S. Spain, Dr. Kathleen Dunlop and Dr. Elizabeth Utterback. Two members of the branch are state chairmen of committees: Mrs. Robert Lee Humber is chairman of the Building Fund Committee, and Dr. Kathleen Dunlop is chairman of the Committee on Social and Economic Issues.

Dr. Kathleen Dunlop was elected as president of the branch. Dr. Hermine Carraway was elected recording secretary, and Mrs. Robert W. Fennell was elected vice president.

During the social hour, refreshments were served by the hostesses: Mrs. Robert W. Fennell, Mrs. C. A. Bowen, Mrs. W. Clyde Hollowell, Miss Christine Johnson, Dr. Kathleen Stokes, and Miss Alice Wooten.

Classical Ballet Presented In Conjunction With Festival

Monday evening Greenville was offered its first dance program in connection with the annual Fine Arts Festival. It was a program of classical ballet presented by students of Romona Van Nortwick School of Dance and her assistant teacher, Kitty Forbes, and the Marie Wallace School of Dance, and interpretive dances by students of Miss Lorraine Graff of the East Carolina College Physical Education Department.

The program offered a variety of trained dancers from tiny ballerinas called "Shy Little Violets", truly looking like little flowers dancing, to the Bohemian Folk Dance, the always popular Polka.

Outstanding was Beth Moye, the Prima Ballerina of two numbers; one Les Patineurs (The Skaters) whose colorful red and white costumes added much to the number and the other a Ballet "Waltz Music" (from Gounod's Opera "Faust") with sparkling blue costumes. Miss Moye is talented and shows promise of becoming a true ballerina.

Solo parts were by Barbara Keck in a Mazurka (Chopin's Les Syphilides) and Margaret Miller in a Waltz (Chopin's Valse). A favorite of the audience and one professionally and effectively done with the use of a large silk scarf and the use of lighting was Soaring (Schumann) with graceful Dolly Overton as soloist.

The program concluded with two modern dance numbers by students of Miss Lorraine Graff. A modern dance by La Verne Coughlan and Mrs. Margaret Lao was an original to the "On The Tail" movement from the Grand Canyon Suite. This dance was part of their final for course in modern dance at East Carolina College.

Smoothly done was a waltz and Cha Cha by Mr. Ronny Cox and Miss Mary Mumford.

C.W.B.C. Has Study Course

Miss Clara Seago was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Credit Women's Breakfast Club held last night.

Miss Seago, project chairman, taught the first lesson in the study course, "Career Advancement in the Rocket Age - Rocket Age Equipment."

Miss Seago stated, "The development of machines that will do more work more accurately, more rapidly, has gone at such a fast pace that it staggers the imagination of those except the very young. Electric typewriters, photocopy, adding, change-making, bookkeeping, folding, stuffing and mailing machines, elevator and open-shelf files have all contributed to the comfort and efficiency of credit work."

She further noted, "Machines may have replaced some people in jobs, but they have also opened many new and better jobs. Mental flexibility and eager-mindedness which are supposedly youthful characteristics are found in abundance in mature people, who thereby seem to be ageless. The secret of eternal youth is primarily, an open mind."

She continued, one noteworthy characteristic of all people connected with the electronic field is ebullient confidence in the continuing supremacy of human beings. They know that the most important factor in working with advanced machines is know-how and ever improved human accuracy.

It was announced that Miss Joyce Paramore will represent the local CWBC at the State Convention to be held in Asheville May 21-23. Miss Paramore was recently elected chairman of the attendance award for the state organization.

Plans were made to hold the annual picnic of the club at the home of Mrs. Emma Lee Schmidt here in Greenville. The July meeting will be held at the Cinderella Restaurant on July 11.

A Broader Pitt Need To Be Filled

Appointment of a special committee to study the problem of obtaining a nursing home for Pitt County is a positive step on the part of the County Commissioners toward a solution to a problem that has faced the county for years.

Although the county has operated a county home for many years, this has filled only a portion of the need, and it is becoming increasingly obvious that the present county home will soon have to be replaced if it is to be adequate even for the purpose for which it was originally intended. It is in keeping with the best interest of the county and its people that the Commissioner have named a special committee to look into the problem.

The problem, of course, is not unique to Pitt. Many counties throughout the state have, over a period of years ceased to operate county homes, and many of them have provided nursing homes that could fill a much broader need for their respective counties. It would be well, we think, for the special committee appointed this week to determine how other counties solved their problems and study carefully the methods by which Pitt may solve its problem.

If, through the effort of the county government, a nursing home can be established in Pitt County, it will fill a need that has become more pressing in recent years, and one which will become even more acute in years to come.

The Commissioners are to be commended for the

Political Eyes Looking To '63

By LYNN NISBET

EARLY BIRDS — Half a dozen or more members of the 1961 House of Representatives are either very active or admittedly willing candidates for Speaker of the 1963 House. Traditionally, the position next time will be filled by a member from the eastern part of the state. There are more experienced men from that area than from the western half, and no lack of competent material from which to choose. Many folks think it is too early for positive announcements and active campaigning, with so much important business of the current session still not much beyond planning stage. The real fights over money and redistricting have not reached peak in committees, and the floor scraps are still ahead. These are the occasions which test the capacity for leadership.

Some of the self-anointed political prophets and would-be king makers are speculating on who will be Governor Sanford's choice for the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1964. That is really "early-birding" or if the purpose is to embarrass him and deflate his influence in the present session of the General Assembly.

One thing is certain: If Terry Sanford is smart enough to pick his successor, he is too smart to give any indication of choice until his administration program is much further along — most likely not until after his second Legislature.

CANDIDATES — It is common knowledge that Lieutenant Governor Cloyd Philpott, presiding officer in the Senate, and Speaker Joe Hunt of the House both have their eyes on the big chair in the southwest corner of the capitol. Only a dumb amateur in politics would express preference between these two, when both are essential to putting through a program in which he is vitally interested. It would be almost as foolish for the Governor to give any indication of preference for some other candidate over the presiding officers. Whatever else might be said about Terry Sanford, he has proven that he is not amateurish in politics.

Lately the names of Bert Bennett and Bill Stator have been injected into advance predictions about the Governor's race next time, along with several other names who had prominent part in the nomination and election of Terry Sanford. He needs their continuing support for his program, and he is not dumb enough to jeopardize or forfeit it by picking any one as the "crown prince" at this stage.

Furthermore, if he has already picked the man he would like to have follow him in the highest office in the state, announcement of that choice now might well prove to be the kiss of death. North Carolinians have never tolerated political bossism, and they are not ready to accept it now.

It would appear that the "dope" stories, put out under the guise of news, purporting to name the Governor's preference for a successor are designed mainly to embarrass him and his friends, rather than to promote good government.

WEAPON — The most effective weapon a Governor can have in promoting his aims is his power of appointment. Perhaps the second most potent is promise of support in the primary for nomination to high office. Governor Sanford is running true to form in seeking authority to appoint as many persons to prestige or salaried positions as possible — and to withhold appointments to the latest possible date. He has been authorized to name 28 members of the C&D board, 19 members of the highway commission, four additional special judges, and a flock of less important boards and commissions, in addition to established boards. Except where emergency conditions require earlier action, these appointments will not be made until after the Legislature adjourns.

HOPE — The lure of appointment as a means of getting support for the administration program recalls the old rhyme of anonymous origin: "Men paint Hope as an angel in thin clothes— But 'tis not so. Hope is a bundle of hay at the donkey's nose— To make him go."

positive step they have taken toward finding a solution to the problem, and we trust they will continue their efforts until the problem is resolved in a sound, practical manner.

Cuban Dictatorship Is Now Openly Declared

Fidel Castro has thrown off the thin veil of democracy which he has held over his dictatorship of Cuba and has boldly declared that Cuba is a communist state that has no need now for elections and therefore will have no elections in the future.

The dictator has likewise taken the traditional step of communism in nationalizing church schools and ordering the expulsion of all priests who are not of Cuban origin. In short his communist dictatorship has now openly declared itself and has moved to bring even churches under its control.

While the huge May Day celebration in Havana was used by Castro as an occasion to denounce the United States in fiery oratory, it is not unlikely that Castro's other statements will cause adverse reaction among other Latin American nations. There may be in some of the Latin American nations a latent fear of the "American imperialism" of which Castro spoke; but there is in the same nations an even greater fear of communist tyranny.

The fact that Castro has squarely placed his country in the communist sphere of nations and has shown he intends to follow the traditional communist line is not likely to stimulate support for his regime in other Latin countries. In a very real sense it makes Cuba openly an even greater threat to the other nations of the Western Hemisphere individually and collectively.

The manner in which the United States and other nations of the Western Hemisphere face this new challenge is important to all of the free world.

Unhappy Choice On Laos Policy

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy faces a tormented choice in Laos. Act to save it from the Communist-led guerrillas? Or let it go down the drain?

If the United States intervenes, Kennedy can't possibly predict the outcome. It would be a brush-fire war which could become a big one, with Red China moving in.

If nothing is done, Laos is surely lost. But that's not all. If the United States holds back, the Red's to grab for the rest of Southeast Asia.

This country has an alliance to protect the area—SEATO, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization—with seven other countries. They are Britain, France, the Philippines, Thailand, Pakistan, Australia and New Zealand.

There is no sign of enthusiasm in this country for getting American men involved in war on the continent of Asia.

But if Americans don't want to go in, the United States can hardly expect the British, French, Australians, New Zealanders or the people of the Philippines to send in men.

Not one of them is on the continent of Asia. Only two of the eight allies are: Pakistan, which is separated from Laos by Burma, and Thailand, which is Laos' next-door neighbor.

Yet, if the alliance fails to act, it is weakened and American prestige suffers in all South-east Asia.

If Laos goes to the Communists, because of the failure of SEATO to act, the will of Thailand to resist Communist pressure is diminished. It would probably be pressured fast.

Thailand is on one side of Laos. On the other is South Viet Nam where Communist guerrillas from the north already have the country wholly.

Kennedy himself is skeptical South Viet Nam can be saved. Since the Communists think time is on their side, they don't have to smash Thailand and

PLACE OF MINORITIES

Minorities often seem despised in the eyes of men but we can be sure that they are often beloved in the eyes of God.

Practically every great moral and spiritual movement recorded in the Bible began as a minority movement. The patriarch Abraham, unable to endure the idolatry which prevailed in Ur of Chaldees, went out seeking a new faith and a new country. Jacob and his family went down into Egypt to live first as a privileged minority and later as a hated minority. All through the Old Testament the prophets represent a minority point of view.

When we come to the New Testament we find Christianity emerging as decidedly a minority movement. The little holy Scenes of springtime... a bird on either side of the sign over the Ayden Fire Department.

Birds chirping away merrily, with pieces of twigs giving away the secret of the location of two happy little homes.

Now, the question is, how long will they be there? And just down the street, the interference of winter in Ayden, with mounds of snow-like ice from a freezer company.

In Griffin, thoughts were turning to the world of fishing. What do you fish with? Anything I can get... Just like to fish.

Have you ever seen a catfish? Yes, of course I have seen a catfish (I can't remember it, but hate for the man to know it). Well, what was he fishing with? What kind of fish pole was he using? (Caught anyway... who ever thought of such).

A cat fishing! Spring is the time for many things. This spring will be long remembered for more than the above usual things. There is that Russian cosmonaut who there is about to be an American astronaut. These things are more than spring, but they will make this spring long remembered.

When that Navy man rises into the air and comes to rest eventually in the waters of the Atlantic, it will not feel like spring in any way. The water will be cold. Huge ships will rush to pick him up, as well as the bell-shaped capsule that will carry him into space. Spring will be forgotten then.

But it would be nice, perhaps, if he had a fishing pole himself to take his mind off things until those boats get there.

Other Editors Saying International Trade Fair

(Rocky Mount Telegram) North Carolina can be justly proud of its successful efforts to open the first state-sponsored International Trade Fair next October. It is an event that has drawn praise from President Kennedy who has been invited to come to the state and help open the event. Said Kennedy in a delighted North Carolina is taking this initiative. He added the hope that other states would follow the lead of the Tar Heel state.

The event won't be just another exposition. It will be designed to show people from all over the world North Carolina's manufactured goods and the international trade potential of the state. The fair meets with the policy of the U. S. administration in encouraging the sale of American goods abroad, tourist travel and the strengthening of the economy of the U. S.

A kick-off dinner scheduled for Tuesday will be attended by some 5,400 of the nation's leading industrialists who will hear Gov. Sanford address the group on the purpose and goals of the fair. The presence of these businessmen and economic leaders gives some indication of the importance attached to this project.

What are the goals of the fair? As Gov. Sanford indicated, we are going to see what we can do for the country through the exchange of trade, ideas and good will. Those items are important in themselves. While minor in itself, the state leaders also believe it will be an important step in the right direction toward solution of the problem of the gold imbalance.

And of course it is hoped the fair will set the pattern for selling American goods will abroad. The event will fall on Oct. 12, which happens to be Columbus Day, and as the governor pointed out, the state is inviting many friends from overseas to rediscover America and North Carolina.

To give an idea of the extent of this fair project, it might be mentioned that industrial, commercial and governmental leaders from Europe, Latin America and the Orient are being invited to come to North Carolina for this big occasion. With an eye on furthering our own industrial potential, Tar Heel leaders are frankly looking to this fair as an opportunity to make sales and take orders for quality North Carolina goods which will be on exhibit.

It is another example of Tar Heel enterprise and initiative. Other states will follow our pioneering example. If Gov. Sanford and Secretary of Commerce Hodges are proud of this project, they have every reason to be. All citizens of the state can look forward with interest to this fine event.

Twice the price — and you should get capital gains treatment.

That's not all. Of course, it never works out to this simple blueprint. Prentice-Hall adds, "In actual practice (a) You get $25,000 down, which the church finances by using corporate cash. (b) You will be paid $100,000 a year for six years. The church will pay money from earnings only no earnings, no money. It will keep $25,000 as a service charge. (c) $25,000 as a security interest in the business; if you're not paid for two years running, let's say, you can reclaim ownership of the business. (d) Finally, the church hires you; under a management contract, at your old salary, to run the business.

BEWARES — Are there any dangers? Yes, when details get out of line. But carefully planned deals of this sort are getting through the courts, as two recent cases prove (Union Ban. 7 AFTR 2nd 503; Hawley, TC Memo 1961-38).

The principal flaw is in making the scheme too life — say the purchase price is so high the earnings probably won't meet it... Another flaw is retaining too much control: your management contract should not be too stiff and it's better to set the employment period somewhat shorter than the payments will last.

Change Due To Fright?

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Lester I. Bowman, Chairman of the School Board of Petersburg, Virginia, asked a very interesting question: "While Russia has caused us embarrassment by putting into orbit the first sputnik and hurling man safely into space, these outstanding accomplishments should not overwhelm or discourage us. But in our fright over these events, should we tear our Constitution asunder and totally change our American way of life? Must the individual become a small pawn in the big hand of the State?"

The issue raised here is whether our representative republic can survive the pressure of science, technology and international politics. The answer to this question will be determined by history.

Already a vast change has occurred in the structure of American life by the rapid shift from the compromises of a representative republic to a democracy by pressure groups.

Most Americans are not conscious of this alteration in the structure of American government or how rapid it has been. In fact, the word, democracy, is used to describe the American form of government despite the impediments of the Constitution which were designed to prevent us from becoming a democracy. More and more institutions come into existence which establish democratic forms, mostly consisting of pressure groups which means that decisions are made not by deliberative action but as responses to immediate popular demands.

Those who hope to keep the United States a representative republic often advocate specific measures which eliminate the checks and balances designed to prevent us from becoming a democracy. A younger generation grows up which has never known that we are not a democracy or who can define a democracy. They respond to the word as though it were a mark of political superiority. They are not taught at school what they should know, namely, that no government on the face of the Earth is a democracy and that no such government could flourish under present conditions.

Our problem then is whether we can, under the pressure of events, continue to be a representative republic, with the freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution. The greatest luxury of American life has been the extensive liberties of the individual; his right to form the pattern of his own life, to hold to his own views and to pursue them into action, taking personal responsibility for his conduct. It has been this which explains the individual independence from governmental authority, the subjection of government to the choice of the people, and the vast and rapid development of the private sector for production and distribution.

Can all this survive another war or even the preparation for war? Can American industry survive the restrictions upon it during war? Can American industry survive the requirements of over-building of industrial establishments for war preparation, and then the reduction of the use of such plant and equipment during a period between wars?

Is it possible for the United States to act with efficient speed in an emergency? President de Gaulle was able to handle a very difficult situation in four days; the United States has not even been able to formulate a workable Cuba policy in two years. Are we too over-organized for swift action? Are there too many committees, boards, departments to be consulted? Does Congress hold up the President or does information come up to the top too slowly, so that a President of the United States is inadequately informed until the action taken no longer serves? Certainly, neither President Eisenhower nor President Kennedy was properly and swiftly informed regarding Castro. How long does it take for an Ambassador's report to move from his Embassy through

When we come to the New Testament we find Christianity emerging as decidedly a minority movement. The little holy group composed of Elizabeth and Zachariah, Joseph and Mary, Simeon and Anna were guardians of a spirituality that was fast departing out of the life of a nation. Jesus and His disciples were a little handful of truth-bearers amid a vast ocean of error. The Book of Acts tells how the followers whom Jesus left to carry on His work went out into a pagan and hostile world, apparently, to attempt the impossible.

True Christians are a minority. God's great spiritual movements are advanced by minorities, usually hated minorities. God is not interested in numbers but in sincerity. There can be, and sometimes are, evil minorities, but almost always the beloved of God are few in a world order which either neglects or outrages the things of God.

So, Prentice-Hall advises, "Sell your business to a church and let it pay out of profits."

It offers this example: "The business is incorporated and throws off (pays) $125,000 yearly, but that's only $65,500 after tax. Say five times earnings is a fair price. A normal purchaser would pay only $327,500 for the stock (5 times $65,500)."

"But a church? Assuming no outside factors to chill the deal, it should be willing to pay $25,000 (5 times $125,000), since it pays no tax on the earnings.

Sell Out To Church, And Profit

By ELMER ROESSNER
Churches eventually may own a large share of business in the United States — just as they do in some foreign countries — if businessmen take the advice of Prentice-Hall's newsletter, "Information."

Under present tax laws, it points out, a church can afford to pay twice as much for a business as any other buyer.

In 1950, Congress closed a famous loophole: the tax exemption on profits of corporations owned by charity and educational institutions. But it exempted churches in the change.

So, Prentice-Hall advises, "Sell your business to a church and let it pay out of profits."

It offers this example: "The business is incorporated and throws off (pays) $125,000 yearly, but that's only $65,500 after tax. Say five times earnings is a fair price. A normal purchaser would pay only $327,500 for the stock (5 times $65,500)."

THE HAUNTED STARS

by EDMOND HAMILTON

CHAPTER 22

When Christensen slept in the small sickbay, Fairlie and Raab took turns watching him. Reicher refused to say how bad the heart attack was. He didn't know yet. Fairlie thought it was bad enough.

DeWitt did not come near the sickbay until nearly dawn. Then he glanced in only for a moment and was gone again. Fairlie got the impression that DeWitt was hurrying to get something done before Christensen could come around and stop him. He considered trying to stop DeWitt himself and gave it up because DeWitt was manifestly impossible. DeWitt was subordinate only to Christensen and Fairlie was subordinate to practically everybody.

There was nothing to do but wait.

Fairlie slept a little. Sometime around daybreak Raab woke him. "Christensen wants you. And me, but not Winstedt."

When they came into the sickbay Reicher said, "Don't stay long. He went out and Christensen looked up at them. His glance was clear now and when he spoke his voice was weak.

"He did not waste any time. Reicher won't tell me how long I've got, but it doesn't matter as at the crack of dawn," said the man in the Communications room. "One of 'em just called in a few minutes ago—pilot said he'd spotted something. He was going to make sure and then come back. DeWitt went out of here so fast you could hear thunder. I expect he's waiting for the 'copter."

Fairlie went outside. He stood for a moment, dazzled by the yellowish-diamond glare of rising Alair. The early morning sky was pale brass, not copper yet. The scintillating blaze of it flooded the world, and dark and big against that sky stood DeWitt, his back to the ship, peering toward the distant forest.

DeWitt turned when Fairlie came up to him. He said curtly, "I'm not officially in command."

"I've heard," said Fairlie.

DeWitt looked at him. "What did Christensen tell you?" He uttered a snorting sound. "I can imagine. He was trying to set you and Raab against me, wasn't he? Listen, Fairlie. You're under my orders now. You remember that. Fairlie had always thought that silence was the best way when you were dealing with belligerence. But now something surprised him, something hot and furious that came up inside him and would not be silenced.

"I didn't ask in on all this, DeWitt," he said savagely. "I was pulled into it without my knowledge or consent, if you remember. You needed me, and you gave me no say about it. All right—"

He felt himself trembling a little in his anger and that was a feeling he had had too often in these last hours.

"All right, I did what you wanted me to, do, I cracked the Vanrynn language. More by luck than skill, I'll admit. But I did it. If I hadn't you wouldn't be here, none of us would. Christensen all this, and I am not a corporal being ordered around by a colonel."

He was shaking with anger and he thought that he must present a slightly ridiculous figure but DeWitt did not seem to find him so. DeWitt gave him a hard look, a coldly appraising look. Then he turned abruptly around and away from Fairlie, as the drone of a motor came through the sunrise. The helicopter came in low over the distant forests, like an ungainly bird. It touched down and the pilot—it was young Smith, the rocket flight-technician—came toward them fast.

"Well?" said DeWitt.

Smith nodded vigorously. "I spotted them. A man and a woman, heading northeast. Can't be any doubt it's the same ones."

A man and a woman, Thrayn and Aral, Fairlie could see again the finely modelled face and hear the silvery voice that was so like the voice of the long-dead woman who had sung to stars.

"They took cover the minute they saw me, but a little too late," Smith was saying. "I charted their location, and then used the auto-mapping cameras on the way back."

"Thank God somebody knows his job," grunted DeWitt. "Let's get those maps processed fast."

Later, in the ship, Fairlie looked with the others at the photographs that had been pieced together and lay on a table, a slightly fuzzy panorama of forest and hill and mountain. A long, sharp black arrow had been drawn across the fuzziness, pointing away from the blank black place that was the plain of the ship.

An arrow pointing to—what? Fairlie wondered.

DeWitt spoke crisply. He had a look of tough confidence now. "The Vanrynn—some of them at least—are out there somewhere."

His hand smacked the map where the arrow pointed. "That man and woman are walking so 'can't be too far."

Thomason frowned. "There's nothing like a city showing on these photos."

"Which only means it must be a little beyond the area that Smith mapped," DeWitt said. "But it can't be too far beyond. And we're going to find it." His eyes swept their faces. "We'll go in two traces, and the other two can go along with us the first couple of days to carry extra fuel, Personnel—Raab, Fairlie, Winstedt, Smith, Hasulian and two drivers, besides myself, in the advance party. Thomason will command here in my absence."

Thomason nodded without enthusiasm and asked, "What about weapons?"

"Damn little," DeWitt said. "There wouldn't have been any. But I managed to smuggle a few guns and a few hundred rounds aboard."

Raab said, "I'd like to be explicit. What, exactly, is our party after?"

"I'll tell you, exactly," said DeWitt in a flat voice. "We're after what we found in Gassendi, only more. We're after any Vanrynn technologies and artifacts that can make our country strong against its enemies. Before those enemies destroy us. Is that explicit enough?"

Nobody made an answer. DeWitt added, "We are not after abuse scientific data, measurements of magnetic field, interesting geological theories, and the sort of thing that would make fine prestige papers at the next convention of the Association for the Advancement of Science. All that can come later."

Raab was not at all crushed. He said, "This talk of guns—I protest that that's the worst possible way to learn things from people."

"Oh, hell, do you suppose I don't know that," DeWitt snapped. "Give me credit for a little sense. The guns, and damn few of them there are, are for Thomason's protection here." He looked at his watch. "I suggest that we get busy. I expect to get under way tomorrow, early."

The past opens up to the men from Earth as "The Haunted Stars" continues tomorrow.

channels until it reaches the President? And what happens if there is a conflict of view between an Ambassador and a CIA operative?

President Kennedy gallantly assumes full responsibility for the Cuban fiasco. But such gallantry is neither correct nor necessary! Whereas the President is responsible for the entire Executive Branch of government, obviously no man can manage all the departments, boards, bureaus, and administrations of a sprawling, improperly organized government which needs bringing together into tighter operating effectiveness. If this country ever finds that it cannot move, that it is being defeated by incompetence and slowness, it will undoubtedly be due to the fact that having developed an unmanageable bureaucracy during World War II, nothing has been done to reorganize it and to make it suitable for swift decisions and action.

Raiding Homes In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Thousands of armed police and plain clothesmen swept through South African cities and Negro townships Tuesday night, raiding the homes of whites and non-whites.

Purpose of the raid, one of the biggest in South Africa's history, apparently was to forestall nationwide strikes and protest demonstrations threatened by the non-white majority to coincide with proclamation of the new republic of South Africa May 31.

It was not known how many arrests were made, but the whole country swarmed with police. It was believed that one object was to determine the source of leaflets that have appeared calling on non-whites to stage three-day strikes at the end of May.

African as well as white police took part in the raids.

Senators From Small Counties Win Big Battle

RALEIGH—The small-county senators seem to have won a big battle.

Though a few of the senators from less-populated Tar Heel counties sided with their colleagues from the more crowded areas of the state, an attempt to let the people of North Carolina themselves decide an issue was voted down in the Senate.

The final Senate decision, to present to the people for approval or disapproval a one-senator limitation per county, was hotly contested by 18 state senators.

The defeated suggestion, to allow N.C. voters to choose between a one-senator and a two-senator per county limitation, had been introduced by Sen. Archie Davis of Forsyth.

Joining with Sen. Davis to present the unprecedented alternative choice to the voters for final decision were the following:

Sens. J. Spencer Bell of Mecklenburg; Sam Burrow of Randolph; Ed Clark of Bladen; Lunsford Crew of Halifax; Claude Currie of Durham; J. W. Hoyle of Lee; Hugh Humphrey of Guilford; John Jordan of Wake; Jennings King of Scotland; Hector McGeachy of Cumberland; Cutlar Moore of Robeson; Robert Morgan of Cleveland; Miles Rhyme of Gaston; Clyde Roberts of Madison; William Shuford of Catawba; James Strickleather of Buncombe; R. F. Van Landingham of Davidson.

Those favoring Sen. Davis' suggestion to submit both proposals to the people for a vote were not unanimous in their choice between the proposals. Some favored a one senator limitation for each county, some preferred two, and some went on record as wishing no constitutional limitation on the number of state senators.

Illustrated at the meeting were safety tips on swimming and boating, and simple rescue and survival methods. ## 'Good To Me'

RICHMONDVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—"Richmondville has been good to me," is banker Chauncey Winters' explanation for giving this Schoharie County village of 743 persons the equivalent of $402,500 in International Business Machine stocks.

Winters, a white-haired, bachelor, 68, is cashier and vice president of the Bank of Richmondville in this dairy-belt community located 40 miles west of Albany.

A sewer and water project built in 1955 still was awaiting a $300,000 bond issue and the village tax rate seemed about to double when Winters acted.

He asked Mayor George Davis: "How much do you need?"

Davis replied that $309,000 would pay the village's debts, including the sewer system bill.

"How about 450 shares of IBM stocks?" Winters countered.

He later "rounded" the figure to 500 shares, with a cash value of $357,000.

Last year Winters gave the village 100 shares of IBM, then valued at $45,200, to build a firehouse.

Minister Speaks To Rotary Club

AYDEN — The Ayden Rotary Club heard Rev. Bennie Pledger, local Rotarian, speak at their meeting this past Friday night at the Community Building.

The Rev. Mr. Pledger, pastor of the First Baptist Church, said his program was a challenge to laugh and love and to be lifted to happiness in life.

A serious mental state develops where a person is too serious, he said, too much about too many things.

Joe Sumrell was in charge of the program for the evening.

Several visitors attended the meeting, including Dr. Fred Irons of Greenville; Curt Cavileer, guest of Warren Kinlaw; and Ray Hentler, guest of Wes Gooding.

Lawmakers Appear Reluctant To Curb Student Vote Rights

By AURORA DOLLEY
Reflector Bureau
Assn. Afternoon Daily

RALEIGH — Legislative sentiment, as expressed in a House committee meeting, seems to favor loosening—instead of tightening—voting regulations for college students.

Though no final vote has been taken, many representatives expressed themselves as siding with college students and others appearing at a public hearing before the House Committee on Elections and Election Laws.

Pending legislation introduced by Sen. William B. Shuford of Catawba says that college students who do not intend to become permanent residents of the county in which the college is located cannot vote as residents of their college town.

College students, according to provisions stated in the bill, must be considered residents of that county or state in which their parents live.

Guilford's Rep. Ed Kemp pointed out that most city elections are held on week days, at which time it is difficult for students to leave college and go home to vote.

Rep. Kemp, who hurriedly left the committee meeting to catch a plane to fly back home to vote, said it seemed to him that the "purpose of democracy is to make it as easy as possible for everybody to vote."

Voting would be made more difficult for college students, the Guilford legislator said, if the legislature approved the Shuford bill.

Several other committee members pointed out that, although college students can vote absentee votes, this applies only to general elections; except for servicemen, there can be no absentee voting in primaries.

Absentee voting is not private, opposition to the Shuford bill stated.

"I am unalterably opposed to the bill," stated Orange County's Repp. John W. Umstead Jr.

Replying to charges made during the meeting that, by allowing college students to vote in local elections, the students would "take over" municipal government, the veteran Orange lawmaker commented:

"The people of Chapel Hill can protect themselves against the students, I think."

Several other representatives joined Repp. Kemp and Umstead in opposing the bill, saying they were of the opinion that "we already have too many restrictions against voting."

A Carolina law student, Bob Hoffman, maintained that the bill would require of college students something not required of anyone else, second sight.

Hoffman said that, under the bill, college students would have to know where they were going to be located after graduation; he said that, if they knew they were going to remain in the college town after graduation, they could vote there as a student.

Though it was pointed out that the voting restrictions had been protested by students from various Carolina colleges, only U.N.C. was represented in opposition to the proposed measure.

Officers Chosen By Saddle Club

Election of officers of the Greenville Saddle Club resulted in the selection of Charles E. Steinhilber Jr. as president.

Other officers elected were W. A. Forbes, vice president; Susan Willis, secretary; Mrs. Bruce Clark, treasurer; Brooke Stewart, publicity director and assistant secretary; Regan Jones, Coastal Plains Horse Show Circuit representative; Charles E. Steinhilber Jr., assistant Coastal Plains Horse Show Circuit representative.

Terms of the officers began May 1 and will end April 30, 1962.

The Greenville Saddle Club has asked that anyone interested in joining the club get in touch with one of the officers.

The club voted to loan their chain fence to the Williamston Saddle Club for their horse show which will be held on Sunday.

As a result of the April 16 horse show, the Saddle Club announced that the Greenville Rescue Squad made about $580 and the Station-House Fire Department made about $125.

Mom's Lawsuit Shocks Actress

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Ann Sothern, contending she has been generous in providing for her mother, says she is deeply shocked at a lawsuit her mother filed against her.

Annette Yde Lake, 76, is asking support of $1,200 monthly. Her suit, filed Tuesday, estimated the actress is worth $1 million with an income of $240,000 a year.

Miss Sothern, 49, said in a prepared statement that she stopped paying medical bills for her mother April 12—because her mother violated doctor's orders and moved to the home of another daughter.

An Active Season At Winterville High

By RALPH MILLS
WINTERVILLE—The Beta Club and the faculty presented the last year PTA programs. The candle-light installation of new members was the program of the Beta Club. Included were explanations of the creed and the Beta emblem. President Wilton McLawhorn lit the white candle "which denotes light, purity, and faith." Vice President Judy Lawrence lit the red candle "which denotes pure love and wisdom." Secretary Lorenza Stox lit the blue candle "which is indicative of truth, constancy, and fidelity." Treasurer Sandra Avery lit the black candle "which symbolizes the dignity, restraint, and seriousness which should attend our search for knowledge and truth."
Eleanor Hart, on the behalf of the other Beta members, lit the golden candle "which designates warmth, friendship, and faithfulness." The new members who were installed were Mavis Butts, Janie Lou Jackson, Mary Virginia Langston, Connie Jones, and Polly Ann Langley.
After the installation, President McLawhorn recognized the Beta parents who he said were responsible for the accomplishments of the Beta Club through their cooperation. The singing of the National Beta Club Song concluded the program.

PTA
The other PTA meeting was presented by the faculty in the form of a fashion show. Laughs were given at the models of the balloon dress, swim suit (natural waistline), bridesmaid's dress, the bridal dress, the black and white print dress (newspaper), and the box suit (box).
This fashion show was narrated by Mrs. Wesley Harvey, accompanied by Ralph Mills at the piano.

New officers of the PTA for the 1961-1962 session are president, Jack Thompson; vice president, Jarvis Allen; Mrs. O. D. Barnes, secretary; and Vernon Cox, treasurer. Miss Gaskins and Mrs. Crawford took the room count and Miss Brown's 9th grade class won the attendance prize.

FHA Officers
"Activity" is now the middle word for the FHA's. The 1961-1962 officers have been chosen. They are as follows: president, Eleanor Hart; vice president, La Vern Clayton; secretary (tie), Gladys Bowen and Jean Mayo; treasurer, Sandra McLawhorn; reporter, Mary Virginia Langston; historian, Lorraine Buck; parliamentarian, Winnifred Averett; song leader, Carole Porter; pianist, Sara Pat Olive; and photographer (tie), Nancy Branch and Cora Lynn Worthington. The ties will be voted on later.

During the recent season of Twirp Week, different girls of the FHA presented inspiring morning devotionals over the intercom system. There were several emphases: be good to teachers, do a good deed, etc.

The Twirp Week was climaxed with the annual Twirp Dance which was held at the Red Oak Community Building. Robin Fuschell, noted WHS student, presented for the first time his original poem about WHS. Mona Kerr spiced the program with the singing of "Loudy Too Dum" and Miss Rose Lindsay, public music student teacher, sang for the group of young people.

From
Perhaps the most glorious activities of the social year was highlighted recently in the Junior-Senior Prom which was held in the WHS Gym. All attending seniors certainly did appreciate the wonderful job that the Juniors did.

"A truly remarkable, wonderful performance" was given at the annual band concert. Bob Ellwanger led the band in playing of pieces from classics to every-day popular music. A hearty "merci" to our band.
The long-awaited annuals arrived at school recently soon after ter the seniors received their calling cards and invitations. The seniors have chosen the Rev. Milton Worthington, minister of the Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church, to be the baccalaureate speaker.

Activity has been created in the library since the Bible Club has been organized recently. The purpose of this club is to help the Christian members in the club and to help others at school to become acquainted with the Saviour of the World.

The club will meet in the library and also hold fellowship meetings in the homes of the members. Lorenza Stox is the president of this club; Dolly Ann Harris, vice president; and Wilton McLawhorn, secretary.
Different members of this club have the daily devotions which are now given over the intercom system. It has been said that this club will add to the Christian growth of the school.

The "shining light" of the musical year will shine on Friday night, May 5. The Music Festival will be given in the WHS Gym and will have several specialties that have never been given before. Miss Rose Lindsay, music student teacher, has been assisting Mrs. William May in the planning of this program.
The Winterville Searchlight will soon be in the hands of the students, according to editor Norma Worthington. The issue will feature a biographical sketch of the senior girl-of-the-month, Norma Worthington and the senior boy-of-the-month, Lorenza Stox.

The seniors are now taking a resting spell since both themes and bookkeeping practice sets are in.

Honor Students
Paul J. Clark, principal, announced the students who were listed on the honor roll and principal's list.

In order to placed on the honor roll, one must have an "A" average on all the academic subjects and with "H" on conduct. Those who were listed are: senior Eliza Olive; sophomores Janie Lou Jackson and Connie Jones; and freshman Ann Jackson.

In order to be placed on the principal's list, one must have an "A" average on at least half the academic subjects and with at least "H" on half the class conducts.

Those who were listed were: seniors Wilton McLawhorn, Lorenza Stox, and Ralph Mills; Juniors Alfred Gold and Judy Lawrence; sophomores Mary Virginia Langston and Polly Ann Langley; and freshmen Dickie Allen and Billy Crawford.

Bullfrog-Gigging Called 'Dastardly'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Bullfrog gigging is a dastardly way to take a croaker, says Assemblyman Jerome Waldie, a Democrat from Antioch in the frog-ridden Sacramento-San Joaquin delta country.

Waldie sought Tuesday to get the assembly's Fish and Game Committee to approve his bill legalizing slingshots as a more humane way of collecting bullfrogs than gigging, or spearing.

A motion to approve his bill died for lack of a second after the president of Pets and Pals, an Oakland organization, warned that children would use slingshots on birds and each other.

PULPIT TRADE
NEW YORK (AP) — Several clergymen of the Episcopal Church and the Church of England will switch pulpits for a year, beginning next fall, under an annual exchange program sponsored by the Anglican Communion.

Massive VOA Installation Projects Gain Momentum

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

Crews of two of the nation's largest electronics - construction companies have begun in earnest the two-year task of installing the world's largest radio transmitting facility in an approximate 18-mile triangle surrounding Greenville.

Construction supervisors and engineers have been on the scene now for several weeks, but, with the onset of drier weather in this flat, wet region, the massive installation project is daily gaining momentum.

Coordinated in a joint venture on the United States Information Agency's newest Voice of America project are two Texas construction outfits. Like Texas, they are massive organizations.

The Alpha Corporation, a branch of Collins Radio, and Continental Electronics Manufacturing Corporation, a subsidiary of Ling-Temco, pooled their resources to submit a low bid of $12,173,000 on the VOA project to be paid for out of a total appropriation of about $26 million.

Both firms have agreed upon an overall general manager and the job has been named: "Alpha-Continental Joint Venture."

The $12 million bid was accepted by USA and then amended to the tune of more than $5 million extra to allow the installation of government-owned electronic equipment under the same contract.

Alpha-Continental began moving its personnel into the construction area on the heels of completed land-clearing operations that involved wholesale removal of trees from some 6,000 acres of timberland in Pitt and Beaufort Counties. Site preparation, that also included preliminary construction of some 33 miles of roads within the three construction sites, lasted about a year.

The three sites - named A, B and C by VOA - include two 2,700-acre tracts for powerful transmitter installations. The third site, a 600-acre clearing, will contain the facility's "nerve center," the receiving station.

With the federal purchase of the 6,000 acres for the project, Pitt and Beaufort Counties saw real estate taxes on the lands vanish.

And the counties can expect no taxes from the $26 million federal investment.

But the construction itself is already bolstering the economy here. Other areas in North and South Carolina and Virginia are also feeling Uncle Sam's spending for the mammoth broadcasting facility.

Peak construction activity is expected by early August. By then, a $50,000 weekly payroll will be divided among some 500 workers.

In addition to wages, the USA project has required materials and services that have been bought and subcontracted by Alpha-Continental from vendors and contractors in three states.

Already, Alpha-Continental's list of subcontractors includes 30 firms in the three-state area. At least five of them are Greenville outfits.

Included are White Concrete, Chevrolet, Quality Oil Company, Home Builders Supply Company and Sumrell Construction Company, all of Greenville.

Other subcontractors hail from Charlotte, Greensboro, Raleigh, Concord, Winston-Salem, Columbia, New Bern, Wilmington, Salisbury and Kinston. Out-of-state firms include companies from Norfolk, Toano, and Smithfield, Va.; Beaufort, S. C.; Atlanta, Ga.; and Birmingham, Ala.

Others will be added as the project continues. Alpha-Continental has joined hands with its subcontractors in what is perhaps the largest construction project ever in this low-land section of North Carolina.

Details of the three-site project are stored at Site "C" in the contractor's main office. A total of 1,400 basic blueprints were drawn by the Austin Company of Cleveland, Ohio. Each of these has been elaborated on by countless shop drawings to explain about a year.

Materials required to construct the three major buildings - one in the center of each site - and the 387 steel towers that will hoist aloft a total of 93 antenna units are arriving at the three sites daily.

Steel for the towers and buildings is being bought and delivered from a Charlotte firm. A total of 702 tons of structural steel will be required. Reinforcement steel for the job amounts to 1,036 tons.

Upon completion of the project, 72 miles of transmission lines will criss-cross the 6,000 acres, channeling high-powered electrical currents into transmitters with a combined total power of 4.8 million watts. To elevate the transmission lines, a total of 3,760 poles will be erected.

In its early stages, construction work by Alpha-Continental has been primarily the laying of foundations for the main buildings and considerable amounts of engineering and survey work. Already the foundations have eaten up nearly 2,000 of 36,000 cubic yards of concrete called for in the specifications.

The construction schedule calls for structural steel on the buildings to begin going up in May. The first antenna tower will be erected in August.

A chart on the wall of the general superintendent's office marks the project's completion date as December, 1962.

An announcement from VOA Director Henry Loomis in January set the giant station's first on-the-air date at the same time.

General manager of the Alpha-Continental joint venture is M.O. Tidemann of Dallas, Tex. Tidemann was a mutual choice of the two cooperating construction companies.

On the site here are Harold E. Hatfield, general superintendent; Edgar Lucas, office manager; and Jerry Sutherland, project engineer. Scheduled to arrive next week is R. M. Pierce, project manager.

Keeping in close touch with the project are E. N. Anderson, a vice president of Alpha in charge of construction, and J. O. Weldon in a similar position with Continental.

Site superintendents on the job are W. W. Wilder at Site A, Leonard Thorpe at Site B and John Hoax at Site C.

The Alpha-Continental personnel, with the exception of Anderson and Weldon, will be residents of the Greenville area until the project is complete.

Hatfield, 56-year-old veteran of many construction projects, is a native of Indiana, but has adopted Texas. A Dallas resident, he has settled in a new trailer park on US 13-NC 11 about four miles north of Greenville. He brought a mobile home from Dallas and he and Mrs. Hatfield have set up housekeeping here for the duration of the VOA project.

Pierce, another Indiana native, has not yet picked his Pitt County residence but is scheduled to arrive early in May. Also a construction veteran, Pierce will come to the VOA project from Maine.

Lucas and his wife, Vicky, both of Ft. Worth, have settled in Greenville. With their two sons, aged 5 and 7, they are residing at 1911 E. Fourth St. Sutherland and his wife came to Pitt County from Maine and have settled at 1100 Charles St. in Greenville.

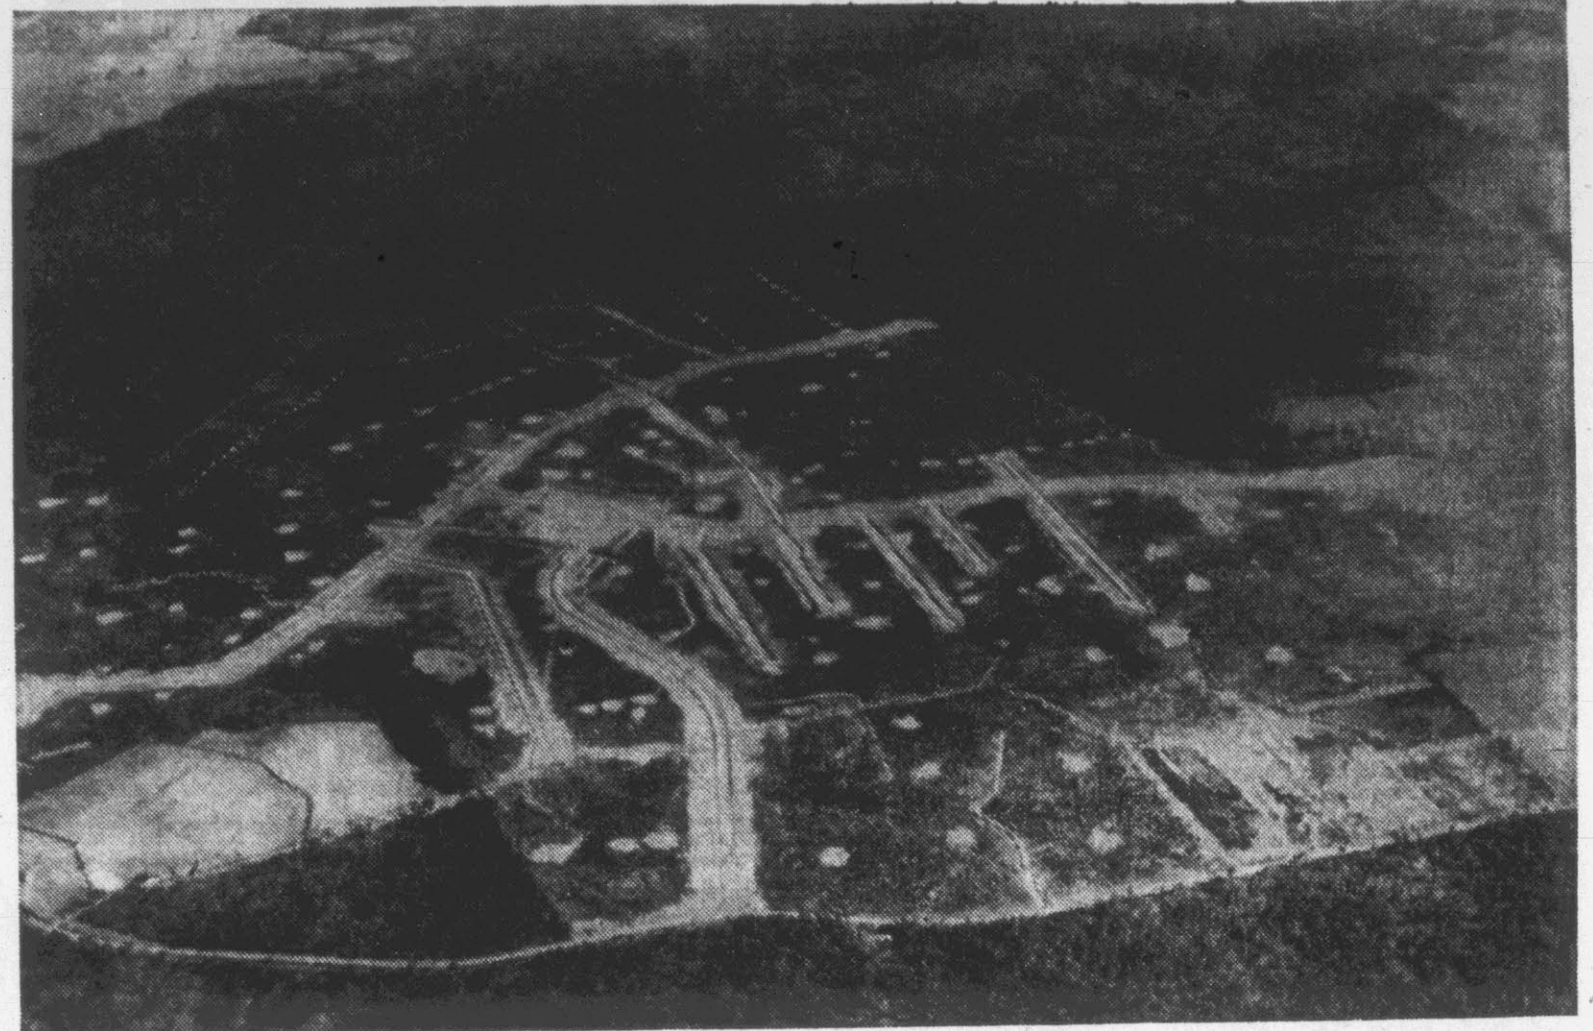

Upon completion, the huge radio broadcasting station - to be known as the Consolidated East Coast Facility - will assume its role in sending the "Voice of America" around the globe.

Transmitting various types of programs in 37 different languages, the station will replace obsolete VOA bases in New York and New Jersey.

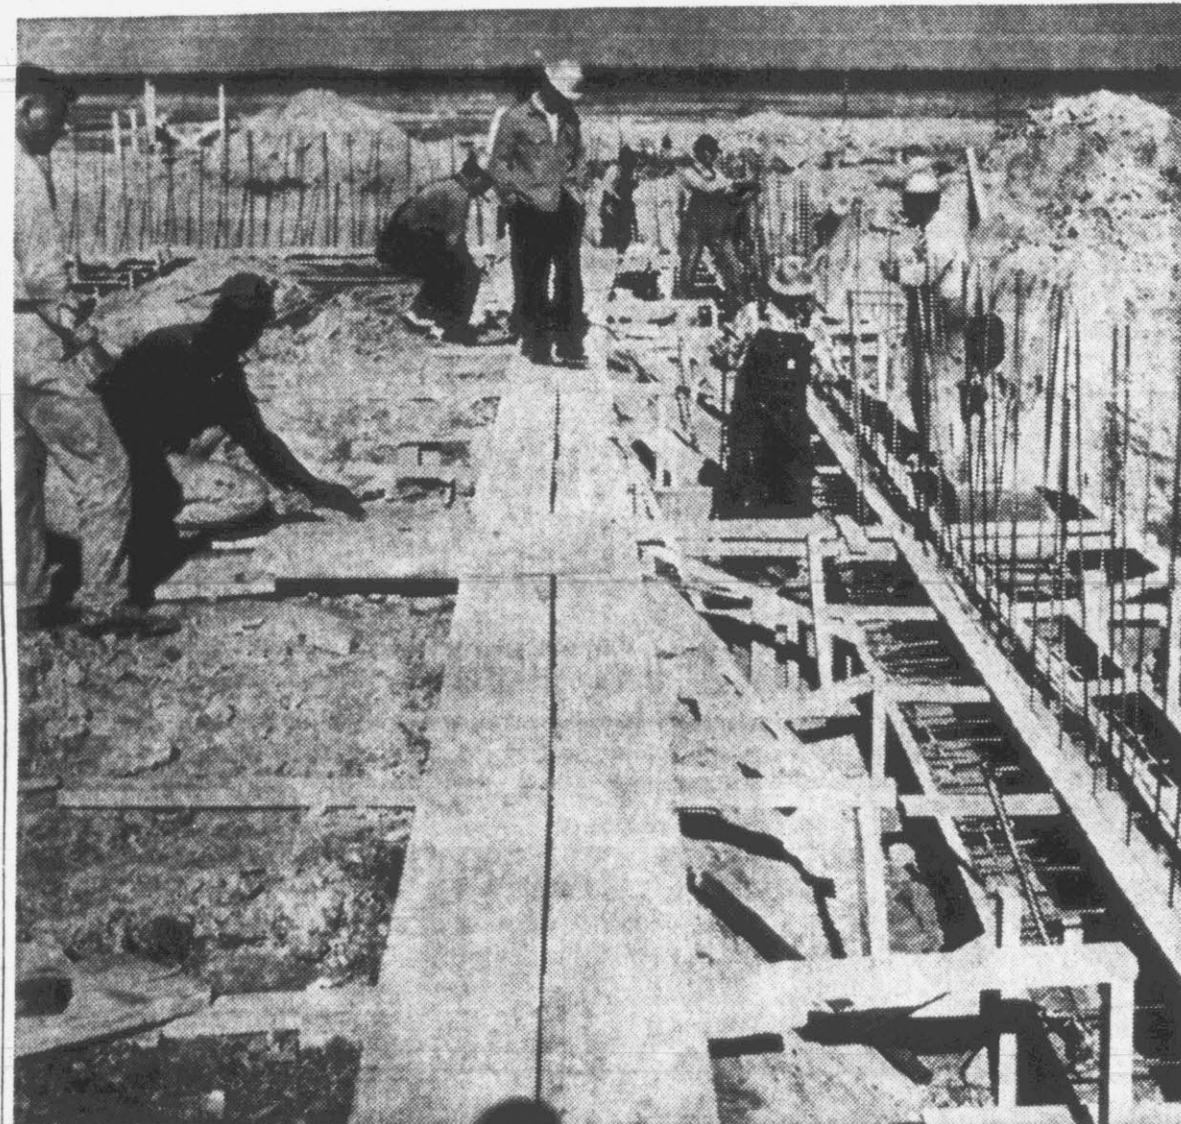

No programs will originate here. VOA's array of studios in Washington will produce the programs to be relayed to the complex receiving station here via long distance telephone facilities.

The receiving station, in turn, will relay the programs to the powerful transmitters.

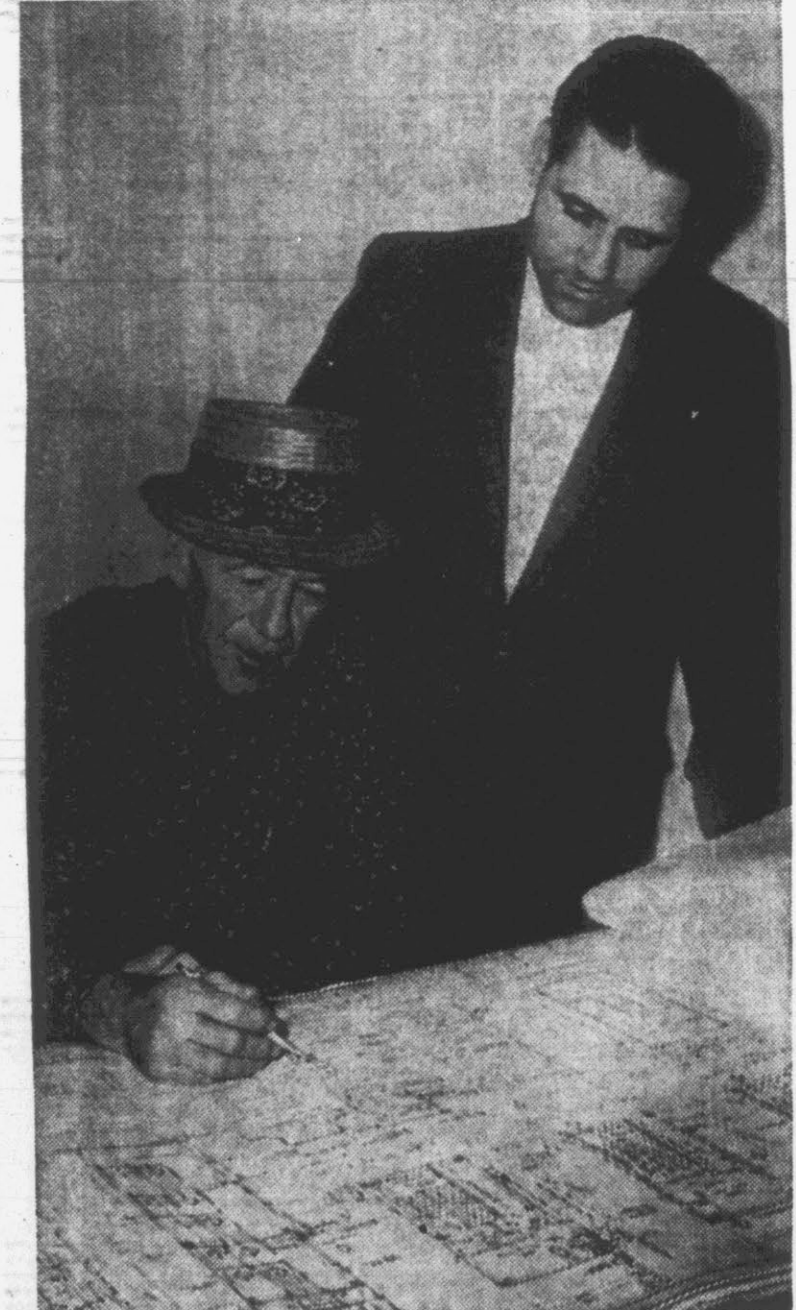

The receiving facility will be approximately eight miles west of Greenville, just south of NC Highway 43. One of the transmitting

Braves Need More Than Spahn

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Milwaukee Braves, who started the season looking for a relief man to complete a pitching staff headed by Warren Spahn, suddenly look in need of a staff for Spahn to head. If you think that's a gag, try using it to get a laugh out of Manager Charlie Dressen.

The Braves, starting behind right-handed ace Bob Buhl and Lew Nottet, have been banged for 16 home runs in a three-game skid after Spahn put them on top in the National League race with a no-hitter Friday night.

After a record tying, 13-home run battering in two games by San Francisco, the Los Angeles Dodgers picked up where the Giants left off against the Braves, walloping three homers Tuesday night for an 11-9 victory that plunged Milwaukee to fifth place.

Pittsburgh breezed into first place by whipping St. Louis 6-0 behind the six-hit pitching of Harvey Haddix after the Chicago Cubs had spilled San Francisco to second place by rapping the Giants 9-4. Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia 3-2 in the other NL game.

Detroit hung on to the American League lead with a 6-3 victory at Washington. The second-place New York Yankees defeated Minnesota 6-4 on Mickey Vernon's grand-slam homer in the 10th inning. Cleveland beat Chicago's White Sox 3-2 in 11 innings. Kansas City defeated Boston 7-4 and Baltimore clipped the Los Angeles Angels 7-6.

Frank Howard, John Roseboro and Tommy Davis homered for the Dodgers off Nottet and losing reliever Ken MacKenzie (0-1) at Milwaukee. But it was a six-run seventh inning—in which the Dodgers had just two hits, and neither a homer—that did the job and left the Braves' staff with a total of 32 runs allowed in three games.

A bunt single by Willie Davis started the Dodger outburst after the Braves had taken a 6-5 lead in the sixth. Three walks, an error, Charlie Neal's double and a wild pitch completed the Dodger comeback for a cushion that stood off a three-run Milwaukee rally in the eighth. Larry Sherry finally quieted the Braves, who counted six unearned runs on four Dodger errors, and saved the decision for Jim Golden (1-0).

Haddix, bouncing back from a bout with the flu, walked just one and struck out three for his first victory as the Pirates hung up their fifth success in the last six games. Ernie Broglio, who was 4-0 against the Buc while winning 21 last season, lost for the third time in four decisions.

Rocky Nelson and Roberto Clemente each drove in two runs, but the Buc got the only tally Haddix needed before Broglio faced the third man in the order. Bill Virdon lined a leadoff double in the first inning and scored on Dick Groat's single.

Rookie Billy Williams was 4-for-4 and drove in five runs for the Cubs, completing their scoring with his first home run—a bases-loaded shot in the second inning off reliever Ed Fisher. George Altman's one-on-one homer had triggered a five-run first against loser Jack Sanford (1-2).

Dor Cardwell, winning his third without a loss, blanked the Giants on two hits until the ninth. Then Willie McCovey's two-run homer gave San Francisco a share of another home run record—14 in three games.

The Reds bunched three of their four hits for all their runs in the fourth inning off Dallas Green (1-3)—who pitched perfect ball in five of his six frames.

Vada Pinson's first home run touched off the rally after Green had retired the first 10 he faced. A double by Gus Bell, Green's lone walk, an RBI single by Gordie Coleman and an error by Green did the damage. Rookie Ken Hunt won his second, pitching a three-hit shutout until the eighth when the Phils broke through on singles by John Callison, Tony Gonzalez and Clay Dalrymple.

Cus D'Amato Flatly Says Liston Bout Not Considered

NEW YORK (AP)—Cus D'Amato today supplied the answer to Sonny Liston's one-man campaign for a heavyweight title bout with champion Floyd Patterson.

"Liston is not included in Patterson's plans at all," snapped D'Amato, chief of the Patterson advisory staff, "not at all."

That brings up the question of how much D'Amato has to say about Patterson's professional activity. After Floyd took care of Insemar Johansson—less than eight weeks ago, he proclaimed himself a free man.

"I'm making my own decisions from now on," he said then. "D'Amato will remain my manager, but I will make the decisions."

If D'Amato is talking for Patterson, Liston will not be the only hopeful who will remain on the outside looking in.

"Patterson will not fight anyone this year who has a future," thundered D'Amato.

This presumably would rule out the likes of Britain's Henry Cooper who also thought he was near the head of the line.

D'Amato hinted that the tax situation has something to do with his decision to sidestep the headliners this year. Patterson made almost $1,000,000 in his last defense against Johansson. If he fights again this year, the purse will go almost completely for taxes. D'Amato figures there is no use fighting a tough opponent for practically nothing.

A rumor made the rounds Tuesday that Tom McNeeley of Boston, unbeaten in 23 bouts, would be Patterson's next opponent. Apparently he would qualify only if he didn't have a future.

"I really don't know him that well," said D'Amato. "I would have to investigate him. But if he has a future that would eliminate him. We have three opponents in mind for the September defense. All are Americans."

Baseballs Flying At Wrigley Field

Higgins To Again Talk To Jensen

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Wrigley Field holds less than 22,000 people, but it's beginning to look as though the outfield needs enlarging a lot more than the grandstands.

The Los Angeles Angels have played six games at the old Coast League park and the meager seating accommodations haven't been strained yet. But baseballs are flying out of the place in great volume.

Six more sailed out Tuesday night as the Baltimore Orioles moved over the .500 mark by defeating the Angels 7-6 before a small turnout of 6,664. Each side hit three homers, but the decisive shot was Jim Gentile's ninth-inning drive far over the right-field wall.

It was Gentile's fifth homer of the season. Gus Triandos hit his third for the Orioles and Jerry Adair got his second. For the Angels, Ted Kluszewski hit his fifth (No. 3 against Baltimore) and Leon Wagner and Earl Averill each hit his third.

When the artillery duel was over, the home run count at Wrigley Field had climbed to 15. Three less were hit at the nearby Coliseum in the Dodgers' first six games this season, although the Coliseum's celebrated left-field screen is 90 feet closer to home plate than the left-field wall at Wrigley.

Palmer, Player Shoot For Champions' Title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Two of professional golf's hottest campaigners, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, took aim today at one target they've missed—the $40,000 Tournament of Champions' title.

And also here is the incomparable Sam Snead, who has taken three shots at the $10,000 trophy and never come close.

The three are among the 26 pros who tee off Thursday in the ninth annual classic of the cactus country—72 holes over the par 36-35-72 Desert Inn Country Club course.

Each of the 26 has won a major PGA-sanctioned event during the past 12 months, else they would not be eligible to compete here.

Starting in 1956, the best Palmer has done is a tie for fifth place, achieved last year.

Player, South Africa's winner of the 1961 Masters over Arnold, wound up in 22nd place in 1959 and 1960.

With the exception of one, the winner each year is back again for another crack at the rich purse.

They are Jerry Barber, surprise winner a year ago; Gene Littler, who scored successively in 1955-56-57; Art Wall, Jr., in 1954; Mike Souchak, 1959, and Stan Leonard, 1958.

Did It Again In 'Sudden Death'

SOUTHERN PINES (AP)—Al Smith of Danville, Va., who won the Carolinas Open golf title last year in a sudden death playoff, turned the trick again Tuesday to win the Dee Harris-Cushman golf tournament.

Smith shot a par five on the first extra hole to beat Gene Briggs of Raleigh, who had a bogey six. Both finished at 139 for the regulation 36 holes of the two-day tournament.

Each won $275 of the total purse of $2,270, but Smith took the trophy.

In last year's Carolinas Open, Smith beat Harold Kneece of Aiken in a playoff for the title. Kneece tied for second place in this tournament with Army Pvt. John Josephson of Ft. Jackson and Asheville. Each finished at 140 and each won $175.

Three players were tied at 141 and each picked up $100. They were Gene Hamm of Durham, Joe Zarhardt of Spartanburg and Charlie Prentice of Columbia.

Jim Higgins of Spartanburg and Al Goodrich of Goldsboro tied at 142 and each won $62.50.

Northwestern's Mike Stock was a workhorse against Notre Dame last season. He carried the football 25 times on rushes.

Home runs decided two of three games in the Carolina League Tuesday night.

Catcher Chuck Weatherspoon blasted two grand slam homers to give Wilson a 9-6 victory over Greensboro at Greensboro. Wilson was trailing 4-1 when Weatherspoon got his first roundtripper in the third. He duplicated the feat in the fourth.

Shortstop Rufus Anderson banged a home run over the left field wall in the last of the seventh to give Durham a 5-4 victory over Winston-Salem at Durham.

Anderson, who collected four for four, doubled across two runs in the fifth when Durham tied the score at 4-4.

Burlington exploded for seven runs in the seventh to score a 9-3 victory over Raleigh at Burlington. Raleigh was out front 3-2 when Burlington staged its big rally. The seven runs came on five walks, two infield hits and a double by Jim Card. Three pitchers saw action for Raleigh before the Indians were retired.

Tonight's games: Winston-Salem at Durham, Wilson at Greensboro and Raleigh at Burlington.

Nuclear Test-Ban Diplomats Ordered Back To Talk

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy intends to send his nuclear test ban negotiator back to Geneva in a few days with instructions to make another determined effort to reach agreement with the Soviet Union.

Informants said this effort will involve any new concessions by the United States and Britain. It will involve further patient exchanges with the Soviet delegation in the hope that the way can be opened for a treaty banning nuclear weapons testing.

The whole nuclear weapons testing issue was reviewed by Kennedy and top military and diplomatic officials at a meeting of the National Security Council at the White House late Tuesday. Arthur H. Dean, Kennedy's special ambassador at Geneva, and John J. McCloy, the President's disarmament adviser, participated.

Informants said Dean gave a full accounting of the Geneva negotiations since they were resumed March 21. Dean's report indicated that in one respect at least the Soviets had moved backward, away from progress toward an agreement.

But the President was described today as being determined that further efforts at negotiation should be made since he is not yet certain that the Soviets do not want a test ban treaty on terms which would be acceptable to the Western powers as well as to the U.S.S.R.

In this circumstance, officials said, there is no decision yet on whether or when the United States should resume testing of nuclear weapons. Nor is there any firmly fixed deadline so far as the United States is concerned for the talks at Geneva, assuming no progress is made.

Since the Geneva negotiations first began late in 1958, there has been an informal moratorium on all nuclear weapons testing by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

Dean is scheduled to rejoin the conference next week following further detailed conferences in the State Department and another meeting with the President. He returned to Washington last weekend.

A White House spokesman said following the 75-minute security session that the emphasis was on the Geneva talks.

Officials who attended the session were not listed. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara are regular members along with the President and vice president. It was announced that another council meeting will be held Friday.

Officials reported following the session that there was no change in Washington's attitude toward the Laotian crisis, Kennedy and his advisers are keeping in close touch with steps toward a ceasefire in the Laotian civil war.

The State Department reaffirmed that if a verified ceasefire is achieved the United States will go forward with plans to participate in a 14-nation conference called to work out a permanent political settlement for the Southeast Asian kingdom.

The obvious hope here is that a truce will now be speedily arranged subject to verification by an international control commission consisting of India, Canada and Poland.

Kennedy obviously is reluctant to permit the collapse of the nuclear test talks on which the world's disarmament hopes may partly depend. But he also may be uncertain about the impact on the Soviet position in those talks of the tensions created by the Washington-Moscow conflict arising from the Laotian and Cuban situations.

Washington authorities say it is quite evident that the highly irritated state of relations between the two powers is not at all that which the President had hoped for when he came into office a little more than three months ago.

When the United States and Britain rejoined the Soviet Union at the Geneva conference table six weeks ago they immediately offered some concessions in their proposals for a treaty providing a permanent nuclear weapons test ban and an inspection system to police it. The Soviets responded by criticizing or ignoring the various Western proposals and reasserting their own earlier positions. The talks have been under way developed during the 2 1/2 way.

U.S. Astronaut Apparently To Be Busier Than Gagarin

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—America's initial astronaut likely will top Yuri Gagarin in bringing home critical knowledge needed for man, the thinking machine, to wheel around in space.

Alan B. Shepard—if he makes the first flight—apparently will be far busier than the Soviet pilot was doing more tasks. Navy Comdr. Shepard has been selected for the job, but some change could disqualify him.

Detailed psychological, medical and technical knowledge is needed to write the book for man into space.

land for very detailed physical exams to see if there are any subtle changes in faculties or condition.

The following day he will file written reports and talk extensively with experts in various fields of the space project to supply all possible technical data.

Taped records of his bodily reactions, his conversation, and his performance will be brought to the island, including TV films of his face and instrument panel as he rode the capsule. That possibly could jog his memory for significant detail otherwise overlooked.

Later on, the astronaut will return to Cape Canaveral, and check out on a space flight simulator used in training him for his ride and space work. One result could be suggestions for improving the training system.

The goal is detailed knowledge "with which we can begin to design man into space vehicles, giving him highly useful functions or missions to perform," explains Dr. Robert B. Voas, psychologist who is the training officer for Project Mercury.

Motel Ass'n To Gather May 12

RALEIGH: In order to better serve North Carolina's rapidly growing travel industry, the North Carolina Motel Association will convene for its 8th annual convocation in Raleigh, May 12-13.

The two day affair will be held at the Plantation Inn — formerly Scandia Village. The basic purpose of this convention is to create an atmosphere of greater service among those who cater to the traveling public.

Jack Roberts, Raleigh, Convention Chairman, anticipates the largest attendance in the history of this organization. NCMA President Hayes Jones, Lexington, states: "This is an excellent opportunity for motels across our state to see how other progressive motellers operate and learn first hand what is being done to solve mutual problems."

Over 20 national exhibitors will be displaying new ideas and products, many of which will be shown for the first time. Panelists will discuss ideas pertinent to the motel industry. The agenda will include reports from officers and committee chairmen. This year's entertainment program features: a fashion show, dances and a tour of the Westinghouse plant. One of the three scheduled hospitality sessions will be held at headquarters motel by the Raleigh Motel Chapter, sponsors of the convention, Thursday night for the early arrivals.

This astronaut will have memory culled of every last tidbit of information on reactions and performance through verbal and written reports and tests. He will even re-live his flight the day after, seeing himself on TV film as he flew the capsule.

The Soviets have released only sparse details of Gagarin's experience, and perhaps did not arrange for as complete a harvest of information from it.

The U. S. pilot is being asked to control his capsule in flight to some extent, operate a periscope and radio, observe stars and clouds through a porthole, and conduct other tests.

Recording devices and his own impressions, will help show how much, if at all, weightlessness and increased gravity will affect human physical and psychological performances.

He will begin recording his observations and judgments soon after he boards a pick-up ship. That same day he files to quiet seclusion on Grand Bahama Is-

Ticket-Selling Favor Sets Up Sec. Udall As A Target

WASHINGTON (AP)—Political shellbursts are popping around the closely cropped head of Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall, the scrappiest member of the Kennedy Cabinet.

Udall stood admittedly embarrassed today by exposure of an effort of a friend—as a "personal favor"—to the secretary—to sell to representatives of the oil and gas industry tickets to a $100-a-plate May 27 dinner honoring President Kennedy.

Because his department administers industry programs, Udall said he was appalled, flustered and embarrassed when a letter written by J. K. Evans of the Asiatic Petroleum Co. came to his attention.

Evans said Udall was "a friend of long standing" and had asked him to help the Cabinet member dispose of a "very sizable quota" of tickets for the dinner to raise party funds and to observe Kennedy's birthday, which comes two days later.

Republicans who have been shooting at Udall almost since he took office in January, generally were content to let the Cabinet member extricate himself as best he could from this situation.

But Rep. William E. Miller of New York, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign, demanded that Kennedy fire Udall. Miller said the letter amounted to Udall's "black-jacking" of the oil and gas industry.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., put out a statement under the title of "Oops" in which he quoted from Kennedy's conflict of interest message and reproduced Evans' letter.

Udall conceded he had asked Evans to sell a few dinner tickets but denied categorically that he had suggested his friend solicit oil and gas industry officials. He said he told Evans to withdraw the letter.

Assistant White House news secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said he felt confident Kennedy had not been in touch with Udall about the letter.

Hatcher said "the president has made it clear that anyone attending such functions will not benefit by his attendance or be affected adversely by his absence." He said that as far as such dinners are concerned, "this is one way that political parties raise money."

Orren Beaty, Udall's assistant, meantime was busy explaining why he wrote a memo to Interior Department officials telling them to notify Lawrence O'Brien in the White House 48 hours ahead of any announcement of contract awards. O'Brien, one of President Kennedy's advisers, handles patronage matters.

Beaty said it was a "routine practice to notify the White House and interested members of Congress" when the department had some news it thought was worth cheering about. In his memo, Beaty said "the secretary has asked me to follow through on this."

In its "Battle Line" publication the Republican National Committee had cited Beaty's note as substantiating its charge that Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, was "careless with the truth" in saying that he knew nothing about a Feb. 28 memo to Cabinet members to play up Kennedy "vigorously" in their speeches.

Frederick G. Dutton, secretary to the Cabinet, acknowledged writing the Feb. 28 memo, but said it was abandoned because it piled up work on White House staff members and really wasn't needed.

Dutton said Kennedy was unaware of either his or Beaty's memo.

"Battle Line" appears to be grasping at straws," Beaty said. "I showed it to the secretary and there was no reaction."

But there was plenty of reaction when the Republicans found out about it and began firing at their favorite target, Udall.

Udall earlier had drawn some of his sharpest criticism from Republicans when he said planning for the ill-starred Cuban invasion began during the Eisenhower administration. Kennedy quickly issued a statement shouldering responsibility for the U.S. role.

Udall has been in and out of political hot water with about the same regularity as the geysers that spout in some of the national parks he oversees. A husky 180-pounder with a fighter's face, Udall walves finesse and punches the Republicans where it hurts. He drew bitter fire from them when he waded in personally and helped Kennedy win the fight to enlarge the House Rules Committee.

There were anguished Republican screams when he ordered filling of all Interior Department jobs above a certain level cleared through his office.

Udall's answer was the same in each case. It was politics and it was the way he played it. The Republicans had done the same thing when they held the White House, he said.

The interior secretary is thoroughly familiar with the ways and means of politics as demonstrated by his three successful races for the House seat he vacated to join the Cabinet. His brother, Morris K. Udall, Tuesday won a slim victory in a special election to fill the secretary's vacated House seat.

He was influenced by his father, Levi S. Udall, who was leader of the St. Johns Stake of the Mormon Church for many years before he became chief justice of the Arizona Supreme Court.

Udall, who neither smokes nor drinks, served two years as a missionary of the church after a tour of duty as an enlisted gunner in the 15th Air Force in Italy during World War II.

The Udalls are thick in Arizona. So many of them are judges and lawyers that court sessions have to be arranged carefully so a lawyer Udall won't be arguing a case before a judge Udall.

Business Teachers To Be At Summer Conference

Business teachers from the Southern and Eastern states of the nation will meet at East Carolina June 26-30 for a Gregg Methods Conference sponsored by the college School of Business and the Gregg Publishing Division of McGraw-Hill Book Company.

The conference at East Carolina is the first of the Gregg conferences to be held in the South and one of three to be staged in the United States during the summer of 1961. Others will take place at the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, and on the Chicago campus of Northwestern University.

Dr. James L. White of the East Carolina School of Business, chairman of the conference here, has announced that leading experts in the field of business education will appear as lecturers and teachers on the five-day program.

Members of the conference staff, Dr. White stated, will be Howard L. Newhouse, staff specialist, editor and business teacher, and Dr. Alan C. Lloyd, director of Instructional Service, both with Gregg Publishing Division of McGraw-Hill; and Dr. Gilbert Kahn, Jr., author and lecturer, East Side High School, Newark, N. J.

A classroom will be set up in the Wright auditorium on the campus here for daily instruction and for demonstrations of modern methods of teaching business. Topics will include shorthand and transcription, typewriting, bookkeeping, secretarial practice, and general business.

Business teachers may enroll for three quarter hours of graduate credit. They will attend all classes during the conference and remain on the campus through July 5 for additional assignments.

'Bad Time' For A Man In Space

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—A University of New Mexico meteoricist says today is a bad time to send a man into space.

Dr. Lincoln LaPaz said the Eta Aquarids meteor shower reaches its maximum today through Thursday and is active in the southeastern sky.

LaPaz added that it was unlikely that any meteorites would hit such a small object as the Mercury capsule, but, "the idea that while we are sending things heavenward, there are other things that come earthward," he said.

LaPaz said, "there could be a possible meeting of the two."

Cuba Presumed In Hurry To Claim Soviet Protection

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

The Castro regime—in which Fidel now seems more figurehead than ruler—probably rushed to proclaim itself part of the world Communist bloc in order to claim Soviet protection against any future U.S. moves.

President Kennedy has told the allies of the United States that Washington will intervene—going it alone if necessary—to prevent Communist penetration of the Western Hemisphere, regardless of the implicit perils.

The Havana government now says Cuba is a "Socialist" state in the Soviet sense of the word. The big question: How much is Premier Khrushchev willing to risk to protect a self-proclaimed Communist regime thousands of miles from world Communist frontiers?

Would Khrushchev risk starting

World War III in the Western Hemisphere?

A U. S. statement Tuesday, blasting Castro's regime as more Communist than the rest of the Iron Curtain satellites, may be a prelude to additional Washington moves against the Havana regime—perhaps to a total embargo on shipments of all goods to Cuba, perhaps also to bringing pressure on other members of the Organization of American States (OAS) to take action against Havana.

These moves would hurt the Havana government. The Soviet Union is not in a position to supply Cuba with all its food, medicine and other everyday needs. A break in relations with other Latin American states could deprive the Castristas of their nests of espionage, agitation and subversion throughout much of the Western Hemisphere. Some Latin-American governments, badgered beyond endurance by Castro agents, broke relations months ago, on their own.

But, by Castro's words, a Socialist—meaning Communist-ruled—state already exists in the Western Hemisphere.

Does President Kennedy's warning mean that should such pressures as an embargo and OAS action fail to jolt Havana, other steps will be taken?

Does it mean the United States will launch another blow, the next time far better prepared and supported than the feebly executted April landings, to topple the Havana regime?

If that comes to pass, what will be the Soviet response?

The bearded one and his cohorts seem to be buying safety in exchange for turning Cuba over to the Communist party, lock, stock and barrel. This has been one direct result of the ill-timed invasion.

Castro first began referring to Cuba as "Socialist"—meaning

Red-ruled—when invasion preparations were getting widespread publicity in the United States. He now has spelled out the whole thing in unmistakable terms: the Communists own him. He left little doubt he is their willing tool and creature.

From now on, it can be assumed, the Communist party will run the show in Havana, with Fidel as front man, useful for whipping up support from anti-Yankee fanatics and the unlettered masses. But the Communists, with an ear for Kremlin admonitions, are likely to be cautious. They are not likely to put Khrushchev in the uncomfortable position of having to make the terrible decision—war or peace.

If the party entrenches itself and withstands outside pressures, Fidel will be in danger. It is a matter of Communist history. The Communists regard the overthrow of the Batista regime in Cuba as the "national" revolution. It is a phase, according to their doctrine, through which such countries must pass.

Eventually, as has happened so many times before, the leaders of such "national" revolutions lose their usefulness, get in the way of the Communist party program and become nuisances. Then the party gets rid of them.

Strongly Support Sanford Tax Plan

RALEIGH (AP)—Two state senators have made it plain that they are strongly in favor of Gov. Terry Sanford's proposal to place the 3 per cent sales tax on food.

The Senate Finance Committee

Tuesday heard Sens. Dennis Cook of Caldwell and Luther Hamilton of Carteret speak out for the proposed tax on food.

The committee also heard Sen. Adam Whitley of Johnston argue equally as strong against a proposal by the governor to place a 1 per cent sales tax on seeds, feeds, fertilizer and insecticides used by farmers.

N.C. School Bus Rodeo In June

RALEIGH — Student school bus drivers, the very best the state can muster, will have a go next month at championship driving honors and $7400 in scholarship awards.

Both the Senate and the House finance committees continued to hear the various tax bills explained. There is no indication when the two groups will get around to deciding between the tax proposals.

Gov. Sanford has proposed a tax boost in liquor and elimination of sales tax exemptions to finance his $70 million school improvements program.

A boy and a girl driver will be crowned North Carolina's finest at the sixth annual rodeo for school bus drivers, scheduled for June 15-16 in Chapel Hill.

Whitley argued to the Senate committee that placing a sales tax on seeds, feeds, fertilizers and insecticides would cut more deeply into the farmers' "already slender resources."

Olis D. Griffin, director of the Motor Vehicle's Department's driver education and accident records division, will head up planning for this year's rodeo.

Sen. Cook told the committee that a tax on food would be "the fairest tax we could arrive at."

Griffin said the rugged driving event will attract 60 finalists, survivors of district competition throughout the state. The show-down contest at Chapel Hill will involve a full day of written work and one of actual driving over an intricate, obstacle-crammed range.

Sen. Cook told the committee that a tax on food would be "the fairest tax we could arrive at."

The annual rodeo is run off under the auspices of the Governor's Traffic Safety Council and has, according to Griffin, added greatly to the self-confidence, safety and efficiency of the young drivers who daily transport more than a half-million children to and from their classes.

He said such a tax "would be spread out over the greatest number of people."

TEAL TALE

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Harry Teal and his son, Tommy Teal, were sitting quietly in their living room when there was a commotion in the chimney. A wild duck dropped on the hearth—a teal, naturally, of the blue wing variety. They released it outside where two other teals were circling and calling.

Two Alcoholism Institutes Set

RALEIGH—Interviewers, counselors and supervisors of the N.C. Employment Security Commission in Eastern North Carolina will study the illness of alcoholism at two one-day institutes this week.

In addition to lectures on the nature and extent of alcoholism and attitudes toward the illness, the program will include discussions on counseling the alcoholic and how the problem can be handled by business and industries.

The first institute was held at the YMCA in Raleigh today, and the program will be repeated at the Rendezvous in Washington Thursday.

Program participants include Mrs. Anne Freeman of Raleigh and Ray Newman of Durham, counselors with the commission; and Dr. Norbert L. Kelly, associate director, and George H. Adams, educational director, N.C. Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program in Raleigh.

Dave Meharg of Wilmington, Delaware, counselor with the medical department of the Du Pont Company, will also participate.

Similar institutes will be held in Charlotte on May 16th and on May 19th in Asheville.

House OKs Stiffer Point System Rules

RALEIGH (AP)—A bill to stiffen the point system plan of dealing with habitual traffic law violators cleared a major hurdle Tuesday when it passed the House.

The measure, which now goes to the Senate, touched off a lengthy debate. The House tacked on an amendment under which motorists would not be charged with points for traffic violations committed outside North Carolina. It was offered Rep. Carson Gregory of Harnett.

Under the point system, motorists are assigned points by the State Motor Vehicles Department when they are convicted of traffic violations. The license of a motorist is suspended when he accumulates as many as 12 points in a two-year period.

The House passed the bill which would increase the number of points assigned for several traffic offenses.

Rep. James C. Davis of Rowan, who opposed the measure, told the House, "The Motor Vehicles Department is trying to get as many laws as it can to take drivers off the highways."

Meanwhile, a bill to place North Carolina on daylight saving time was killed by a House judiciary Committee.

The House brought back to life a "bullfrog bill" which had been buried last week by the Wildlife Resources Committee. The measure would allow the State Wildlife Commission to set time and bag limits on the taking of bullfrogs.

The House Appropriations Committee approved a bill to increase the subsistence allowance of legislators from $9 to $12 a day. The measure was offered by Rep. John Y. Jordan of Buncombe.

Can Expect To Divide $500,000

Pitt County farmers—1,011 of them—who are participating in the emergency feed grain program will divide more than $500,000, according to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office today.

Office manager Wayne L. Wang reported today the 1,011 farms had been signed up through yesterday. The total number of farms represented a total acreage of 16,832 placed under the feed grain program.

Total advance payments—less than half the ultimate total—amounted to $260,643.32 through yesterday's activity.

Wang said the county-wide participation to date is about 40 per cent and expressed hopes that figures would climb to above 50 per cent before sign-up is complete.

He urged farmers desiring to participate to visit the office on Johnston St. in Greenville early this month "to enable us to better organize our work." Actual sign-up deadline, he said, is June 1.

The program—under which the federal government issues payments to feed grain producers who agree not to produce specified segments of their normal grain output—is aimed at reducing the national grain surplus and thereby cutting the $1.5 billion that is paid annually to store the surplus.

A program on water safety will be the topic at the meeting of the Pitt County Safety Council tomorrow, according to program chairman O. E. Dowd.

In addition to the program, to be conducted by Dr. Ray Martinez, East Carolina College swimming instructor, officers for the coming year will be elected and the council-sponsored Vehicle Safety Check Lanes project will be discussed and plans presented.

Dr. Martinez, a former Red Cross Water Safety Representative, and coach of the twice-National Champion ECC Swimming Team, will talk to the council on safety in and around water. He will also present simple methods to render aid to a victim in distress.

World Affairs Institute Concluding Here Tonight

East Carolina College's Eighth Annual World Affairs Institute will close tonight with a panel discussion on "The United States and Africa." Speakers will be Christopher Bird, author, linguist, and business consultant; Gordon P. Hagberg, director of the Washington Office at the African-American Institute; and Dr. Guy B. Johnson, professor of sociology and anthropology at the University of North Carolina.

Tonight's meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium and will be open to the public.

The World Affairs Institute, an annual event on the campus, has this year concentrated attention on Africa. A series of eight lectures by authorities on various aspects of the continent has been in progress yesterday and this morning and this afternoon. Dr. George Pasti of the East Carolina department of social studies is director of the institute, which is being staged at the college through the cooperation of the Danforth Foundation Project at East Carolina.

Dr. R. Taylor Cole, James B. Duke professor of political science at Duke University, describing Nigeria as "still more of a geographical expression than a nation," discussed political developments there yesterday morning.

Nigeria, he said, is the key to Africa south of the Sahara. If successful, he stated, efforts there to establish a stable government will give hope to other areas also striving for political stability. Discussing the possibility of the development of a federal system there, he outlined forces tending to bring the country together as a unit.

Dr. Herbert Cummings, director of the Near East and African Division of the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, U. S. Department of State, spoke yesterday afternoon on "The Economics of Africa: Institutional Changes and U. S. Government Activities." The developing economy of the continent, he suggested, opens an optimistic opportunity for American investment there.

Last night's program presented Dr. Leonore M. Laan and Dr. Cole in a joint discussion on "Changing Africa." Dr. Laan's talk dealt with social and economic developments and their effects on the old order in Africa.

"Changes are going on faster in Africa than anywhere else," she said. "The people," she continued, "Whether they want to or not must go along with these changes."

She emphasized changes in the concept of land ownership and the development of a cash economy which have followed the settlement of Europeans in Africa; the consequent changes in the family and the tribal structure of society; and the problems brought on, particularly in East Africa, by a trek to the cities.

Africa, she said, is now stirred by new aspirations. Particularly, she explained, the African wishes to be treated with human dignity and to be recognized for equality with whites.

Dr. Cole discussed Communist penetration of Africa, with particular emphasis on Nigeria, Guinea, Mali, and Ghana. Hi Neighbor!

We're new in town, but we've been making cash loans to people in North Carolina for several years as N. C. Finance. We're a South-eastern company... with offices from Baltimore, Maryland to Barnwell, South Carolina. In neighboring Virginia, our name is Eastern Finance. We're proud to say that all of our offices have built the reputation that ours is a good, reliable firm.

We like to think of ourselves as financial advisors who help people needing assistance. We don't lend money to those who plan to live beyond their means... or who really shouldn't be borrowing.

We do help those who need cash and have a worthwhile purpose for borrowing. Not only do we try to offer cash, but we also try to assist with budgeting and financial suggestions.

We're here to stay! We want to become a part of the community and grow with it. We have great confidence in this City... and its future.

If we can help you, please phone or drop in to see us soon.
