Lee Speaks To Chatham Club

Mr. Herbert White Lee was the guest speaker for the Chatham Book Club when it met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Luther H. Bowling.

Mr. Lee discussed Capitalism, Socialism and Communism, the three most prevalent economic systems existing in the world today.

He described Capitalism as the competitive, free-thinker system which has produced the rugged individualism which Americans pride themselves.

In appraising Socialism, he cited the Socialist slogan: "Every man gives according to his ability and receives according to his needs."

He pointed to England, Sweden and Norway as examples of evolutionary or parliamentary socialism.

"Today our country is rapidly moving into Evolutionary Socialism," stated the speaker.

Last, he traced revolutionary Socialism of Karl Marx, known to us as Communism. "The aim of the Communists is the overthrow of Capitalism by continued revolution in one country after another until all countries are communistic," stated Mr. Lee.

Mrs. Bowling served the club members and her guest a salad plate with coffee.

Following the social hour, Mrs. A. C. Ruffin, president, conducted a routine business session. She read the new committees for 1961-62.

Mrs. Carl Adams, chairman of the program committee for the coming year, made a brief report.

Following the exchange of books, the meeting was adjourned to meet May 16 with Mrs. Percy B. Upchurch.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

As soon as nature brings back the flowers and leaves on the plants, it wakes up countless hungry pests and sets them to work destroying her handiwork. And the gardener finds himself in the middle of this somewhat puzzling picture. For it will be his spray gun and materials that will see the plants of his garden and grounds get safely through the growing season.

To know each bug that he has to contend with would take a lot of knowing and isn't at all necessary. He should concentrate on the signs of damage and the time each season he can expect these signs. Here a garden diary is of importance. If the gardener knows such and such a sign will appear on his leaves, twigs and the trunks of his trees at a date noted in such a diary, he can be ready and have his plants sprayed prior to the assault of the pests. In this way, he prevents much damage of leaf and flower.

You can divide the enemies of the garden into two classes: those that work above the ground and those that work under ground. In the above ground group, you find the chewing insect, the sucking insect, and the borers. The chewing insects eat holes in leaves or some part of leaf tissue. They also eat flowers and fruits of plants. The control of this type of pest is best done by a spray material that leaves a residue on leaves, twigs and flowers. Wettable powder offers the best for this kind of spraying. Lead Arsenate, Malathion, D.D.T. are about the best kinds to use. In spraying, be sure to cover completely the foliage and let spray material run into the crevices of bark.

The sucking insects cause foliage to become yellowish, grayish and stippled and off-color. Other symptoms are distorted leaves and stunted growth. The sucking insects can be controlled by a spray that kills on contact. Both emulsified concentrates and wettable powders can be used as contact sprays. Black Leaf 40, Matathion, D.D.T., Lindane, Pyrethrum, Aramite and Kelthane are good contact sprays. The last two listed (Aramite and Kelthane) are miticides and are very effective against spider mites. Aramite should not be used on food crops. Kelthane can be used on food crops. Spray underside of leaf and be sure you hit the pests. While scale insects are best controlled by Volck or similar spray, you can get them in the crawler stage by the use of a contact spray such as Malathion. As the use of D.D.T. as a spray often allows the build up of a mite problem, a miticide should be added to the mixture.

Borers work in the stems and main trunks of trees and shrubs. Borers in trees can be controlled by spraying D.D.T. on trunk. This should control the borer in the egg stage. When evidences of borers are seen on main trunk—sawdust at base of tree and etc., inject Bortex or Carbon bisulphide in tunnel and plug opening with putty or clay. Handle this material (Carbon Bisulphide) carefully and heed all warnings.

On peach trees, sawdust like trunk and lower limbs with D.D.T. (50% Wettable Powder) about first week of July and repeat in August (1-10) and September (1-10).

Among the underground pests, root aphids are one of the hardest to control. Plants look sickly, yellowing and wilting. Ants have a hand in the aphids success. They cart them around for their own benefit. Sprinkle Chlordane 5% around area to control ants. Make slight depressions around plant and pour Lindane or Black Leaf 40 in depressions to take care of aphids.

Nematodes cause a great deal of damage to plants. They are very fond of Jap. Holly. Sickly sparse foliaged plants often indicate Nematodes. But a microscopic examination should be done to confirm or deny their presence before treatment. Nematog can be used safely around certain plants. Read the directions on container as to the method of treatment and find out if the plant you want to treat will stand the treatment with this product. Under ground pests with the exception of Nematodes can usually be controlled by using Chlordane, Lindane and Dieldrin.

The gardener should always respect the spray materials he has to handle. They are poisonous and can react as violently against the user as they do against the pests he is trying to do away with. material and jelly-like exudatin of gum indicate borers. Spray

Use Hands To Wash Face

A teenager with troubled skin sometimes notices an improvement when she uses her hands, rather than a washcloth, to apply soapsuds to her face and neck.

Once used, a washcloth can be germ-laden, and thus may re-infect problem skin. At least three thorough applications of lather, followed by rinses, are beneficial to problem and perfect skin alike.

O. Warren, Mrs. E. B. Whichard, the prize winners, and two special guests, Mrs. Winston Cargile and Mrs. James E. Gray.

Chef's Cap Denotes Rank, Cleanliness

The tall white hat which identifies a fine chef dates all the way back to 1566, when the King of France recognized and franchised the cooks' union.

Besides having this traditional meaning, the hat is also functional, since its band absorbs perspiration and its puffy top allows air to circulate. The choice of washable white denotes cleanliness—an essential attribute of chef and kitchen alike.

Greenville Has Made The Decision

Greenville citizens spoke out clearly Tuesday in issuing a positive mandate to city officials to follow through with the proposed urban renewal slum clearance and public housing programs that are under consideration in Greenville.

Although the referendum held on the two questions is not in a strict sense legally binding upon the incoming administration of the city, it clearly shows that a majority of Greenville's voters favor the programs. Therefore it puts the administration under a moral obligation to carry out the wishes of the majority as expressed at the polls. The fact that the matter was referred to the citizens as a whole for a decision makes it incumbent upon city officials to implement the decision that has now been rendered by the voters.

It is true that the issue proved to be one of the most controversial public questions ever to face the citizens of Greenville. As such it may have left some superficial scars upon the community. Now that the issue has been settled in the democratic fashion at the ballot box, however, it is to be hoped that the people of the community will band together to move forward with the program to build a better community of Greenville.

The programs offer a sound, practical and workable solution to the urgent problems of slum clearance and redevelopment in Greenville. Through them the city can achieve better living conditions for many of its people, enhance the economic potential of Greenville through making possible the expansion of the business district, and making the city more attractive for future development, thus improving the job opportunities for those who live here. They will, in short, make Greenville a better community in which to live and in which to make a living.

The decision rendered by the voters of Greenville Tuesday is another historic milestone in the progress of this city. It is one which will stand the city and its people in good stead in the years ahead. There is much work and planning yet to be done before programs will be a reality here, but the necessary work should be carried out with all deliberate speed by the Redevelopment Commission, the City Council and the Housing Authority.

Greenville has taken a major step forward with the endorsement of these programs by the voters, and it must not falter in carrying out the expressed wishes of the citizens.

Close Study Of Revenue Trends

By LYNN NISBET

REVENUE—Legislators have been analyzing the report of the Department of Revenue on Tax collections for April and for the first ten months of the current fiscal year, with a view to determining economic trends and whether it would be safe to raise the estimates of revenue for the next two years as basis for a tax bill. The study does not afford much comfort for those who think the estimates can be upped. Neither does it justify the expressed fears of others that the economy is declining to the danger point.

The fact that income tax collections for April amounted to just a little more than one-third of the receipts from this source the previous April, is easily explained and is offset by the fact that for the ten months of the fiscal year income tax receipts were up more than $10 million. April of 1960 got credit for nearly all the income taxes due for the year 1959. The withholding plan went into effect January 1, 1960, and since then there has been no accumulated payments of consequence. For the ten months period the income tax receipts were in line with estimates made during the 1959 Legislature.

The sales and use tax receipts for April were up about three quarters of a million dollars over the previous April, due in part to an early Easter shopping season. Sales taxes paid into the state treasury reflect business done the preceding month. For the ten months sales tax yield was up less than two million dollars.

Gasoline taxes showed a substantial increase in April, and for the year, but other sources of highway revenue — license plates, etc., showed a drop for April although slight gains for the year.

BALANCE — Considering the April and the ten month figures together it appears that the budget makers in 1959 were pretty accurate in their estimates, and that the budget makers for 1961 would permit in estimating future tax yields. There is small probability that the biennial revenue act will be approved before the report for May receipts is in hand. There are a lot of "ifs" in current speculation.

If the May receipts are substantially above last May, bringing in the 11 months of the fiscal year above expectations, the budget makers may feel justified in upping estimates for the next biennium, certainly a good many legislators and representatives of taxpaying industry are hoping that will happen.

TIME — Membership of the money committees is roughly divided into groups which for lack of better designation are called conservative and liberal. The conservatives insist upon going slow, giving careful study to the actual need for requested appropriations and to the impact of proposed taxes. The liberals are ready to go ahead and approve the administration requests for funds and levy taxes to provide the money.

Division is pretty equal in both groups, but presently the liberals appear to have a majority in the joint appropriations committee, while the conservatives have enough strength in the finance committee to block precipitate action. They were able, for example, to block the administration effort last week to turn the revenue bills over to a joint subcommittee — as had been done with the appropriations bill.

LOBBYISTS — This situation offers a fertile field for the lobbyist—and they are cultivating it diligently. The term "lobbyist" embraces a lot of people not generally thought of in that connection. It includes everybody with active interest in legislation, appropriation or tax levy, government reorganization and what have you.

The once common idea that a lobbyist is a sort of devil with horns and a forked tail dedicated to the purpose of gyping the public out of special advantages for his particular business, no longer prevails.

Sure, there are lobbyists whose function is to see that their group is not discriminated against in tax levies—and maybe try to get favorable discrimination for their clients. They represent a small segment of the overall lobbying fraternity.

Chief of the lobbyist tribe is former Senator William Copeland, paid by the State to help put across the particular program favored by the Governor. Working closely with him on the team are members of executive office staff, and numerous State officials and employees—also paid out of tax money collected from the people.

Among the lobbyists are judges and solicitors, preachers and school teachers, doctors and lawyers, most of whom clothe lobbying activities under the mantle of devoted public service. Most of them bitterly resent the lobbyist tribe, although they openly interview legislators and solicit support for their ideas, and sometimes more diligently and obnoxiously than the registered representatives of private business. The office dictionary defines a lobbyist as a person who seeks to influence legislation by personal contact, and makes no distinction among the interests or ideas represented.

There were two basic mistakes on Cuba:

1. The aides upon whom he had to depend in the Cuban affair did a sloppy, poorly thought-out and miserably executed job.

2. Kennedy himself did nothing to prepare public opinion for the Cuban operation, which was a drastic step in American foreign policy.

He could have given an explanation on TV, but he didn't. He could have done more at his news conferences, but he didn't do that, either.

He did issue a lengthy, so-called "white paper" denouncing Communist influence in Cuba.

Trade Fair May Well Surprise Tar Heels

North Carolina's international trade fair next fall may do a great deal to stimulate trade and purchases between various North Carolina manufacturing concerns although its primary aim is to attract new orders from out-of-state and overseas sources.

It is not unlikely that many Tar Heels as well as representatives from other states and nations will be surprised at the variety of products—all manufactured in North Carolina—that are displayed and offered for sale at the trade fair. Some of the manufacturers of the state are likely to find that supplies they have been purchasing from other states are available from firms right here in North Carolina.

The international trade fair will provide an excellent opportunity to exhibit the broad variety of items which are produced in North Carolina. And while purchasers from other states and other nations are shopping for good buys produced in North Carolina, Tar Heel manufacturers might likewise be shopping for home-grown products of North Carolina's expanding industrial system.

As the director of the Department of Conservation and Development Skipper Bowles has said, the purpose of the fair is to sell something. Tar Heel manufacturers might find it profitable to sell to each other at the same time they are selling to visitors from other states and nations.

President Needs Public Support

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, winner of the presidency by the smallest popular vote in history, is still going through his trial period.

By his own actions he has added to his problem and made it extra painful. He must do two things, both intimately related, to succeed:

1. He must, because of the narrow election margin, win broad popular support and confidence.

2. To win it, he must make decisions which are right in the decisions that they succeed and have public approval.

After only three months in office, with his popularity mounting, he permitted the Cuban invasion which became a disaster. It shook confidence in his judgment. A president so new in office can't afford many big mistakes. The Cuban affair was a big one.

Now he must overcome this setback and, as a result of it, work even harder at winning confidence in himself. This makes his total job that much tougher.

There were two basic mistakes on Cuba:

1. The aides upon whom he had to depend in the Cuban affair did a sloppy, poorly thought-out and miserably executed job.

2. Kennedy himself did nothing to prepare public opinion for the Cuban operation, which was a drastic step in American foreign policy.

He could have given an explanation on TV, but he didn't. He could have done more at his news conferences, but he didn't do that, either.

He did issue a lengthy, so-called "white paper" denouncing Communist influence in Cuba.

This was good for specialists but probably too long and detailed for most newspaper readers.

The whole bungled Cuban adventure raised a natural question: If a relatively small matter like this can be so thoroughly botched up, what can we expect in a critical situation with a first-rate power like Russia?

The simple fact was the United States was involved. The Kennedy administration even made hash in its explanations of what went wrong.

The administration has never made a public explanation. Various members of it gave various explanations which not only could not be attributed to them directly but in some instances contradicted one another.

While Kennedy takes full responsibility for the fiasco, it is known he's thoroughly angry at some of his key men who gave him bad advice.

But, since he seems to have no intention of revealing any more than is already known, and what is known is confusing, he will have to bear full responsibility.

Most likely this one episode by itself will recede in public memory and, by careful leadership in the months ahead, Kennedy may come out of this without bad damage.

Even so, he now has to be extra careful about every move he makes, at home or abroad.

If his popularity dips because of lessened confidence in him, his troubles with Congress will multiply until his leadership at home is truly jeopardized.

If he makes any more mistakes in foreign affairs the American allies' confidence will be shaken and the self-confidence of communism in dealing with him will be infinitely, perhaps even dangerously, increased.

Public Forum

To The Editor:

I should like to commend you on your thoughtful and timely editorial, "Just to Set the Record Straight," which appeared a week ago.

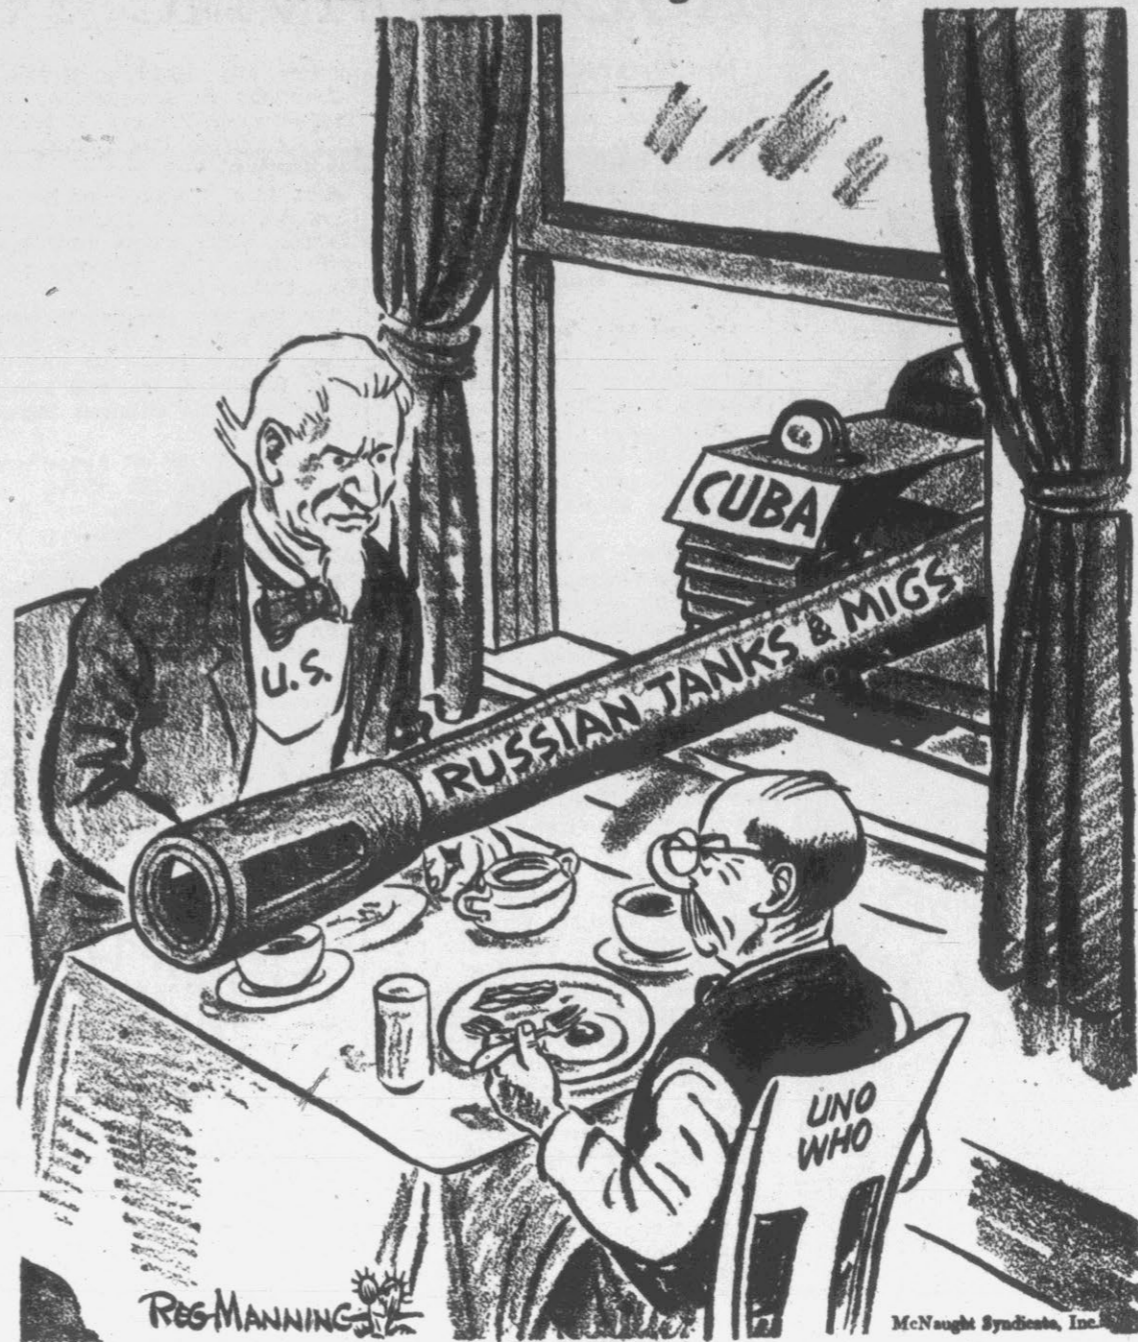

In one paragraph it was suggested that the federal government subsidizes railroads and airline operations. That the airlines are subsidized is obvious; in one postwar year they received more from the government for moving four per cent of the mail than the rails did for moving the other ninety-six per cent. In Washington, D. C., the bills for money-losing National Airport are picked up by the taxpayers; the railroads, for the use of Union Station, pay $1800 a day—yes, each day—in taxes. Fantastic amounts of public funds have been spent on the St. Lawrence Seaway; and an unprecedented program of highway construction will benefit trucks and buses. I believe you will find no federal subsidy of the railroads, which not only constitute the only form of transportation to build and maintain its own roadway, but then must pay exorbitant taxes on every inch of property involved. Several cities have subsidized commuter service, realizing the strangulation that results when every one drives to work in his own car. But I am aware of no assistance from the federal governments since the land grants and the special rates and privileges offered by the rails to the government have repaid that investment more than nine times!

One wonders when the government will see the need for fair play in the field of transportation. I argue not for federal aid for the rails; I would much prefer to see each mode of transport pay its own way. But a scant two years ago, Congress passed — over the President's veto — a bill granting some 400 million dollars to the airline industry.

Old-Fashioned Cleanup

A never-ending source of amazement is what can be turned up by a good, old-fashioned cleaning.

And in this particular instance, the old-fashioned cleaning involved a desk of ours. We call it old-fashioned because it's been so long since the last one.

Anyhow, we took a few minutes yesterday to attempt to dig down to the flat desk top once again. (It had been so long, we had forgotten what color the desk top really was. And it took quite a while to find out.)

We started out with the enthusiasm of a crusader. Undaunted by the stacks of this and that we gradually decreased the volume.

Nearly an hour and three full trash baskets later, we had everything in order again. We figured it would last at least a day.

But we mentioned something about how a general cleanup can produce amazement. This one was no exception.

At the very bottom of the tallest stack, we found the longest item.

It was the item that had disappeared more than a year ago. Practically everybody in the building had been blamed for its theft.

"Not so," everybody had said as we had eyed them suspiciously. There had been one thing for sure, we reluctantly remembered yesterday, we had always been so dead sure we hadn't misplaced the item.

The elusive rape-calling was a January, 1960, issue of the local telephone directory. It had disappeared approximately one month after its receipt by us.

And telephone directories up here have a way of disappearing. Nobody seems to be able to keep one very long. In fact, somebody up here the other day said newfiles must have some kind of repelling force against phone books.

That may be. In fact, it often seems a sure bet. But yesterday, we were amazed to find our directory buried underneath old newspapers, clippings, letters, etc.

We had not repelled it. We told ourselves we just hid it from the thieves.

Speaking of telephone directories, this business of lost phone books is apparently at an end around here.

Since three days ago, for some reason or another, every phone book in the newsroom has been securely fastened to some object.

Most of them have been bound with heavy cord so that they cannot be carried away from the immediate premises.

We joined the reform movement to save telephone directories from capture. Only we had another thing in mind as we tied our book to a 10-penny nail. We were saving ours from another paper grave.

Hitler Ideals Live On

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It is unbelievable but it is true that there is such an organ as "The American Party World Union of Free Enterprise National Socialists." Its headquarters is in Arlington, Virginia and its commander is Lincoln Rockwell. This party has a program which seems to be a hodge-podge of conflicting ideas; nevertheless, this paragraph makes it clear that Rockwell admires Hitler, which is surprising in an American.

"We believe that Adolf Hitler was the gift of an inscrutable Providence to a world on the brink of Jewish-Bolshevik catastrophe, and that only the blazing spirit of this heroic man could give us the strength and inspiration to rise, like the early Christians, from the depths of persecution and hatred, to bring the world a new birth of radiant idealism, realistic peace, international order, and social justice for all men."

The seven articles of the program are described as "fundamental, absolute, and timeless Truth."

Most of the concepts in Commander Lincoln Rockwell's program originated in Houston Stewart Chamberlain's "The Foundations of the Nineteenth Century," although I do not know whether Rockwell has seen this amazing attempt to establish a theory of Nordic supremacy.

The significance of Nazism in the United States is that it is one of a large number of mass movements on the extreme Right, none of which is, of itself important, but all of which added together represent a ground-swell of opposition to Liberalism. This opposition cannot be ignored. While some of these movements seem to be without sanity, those who join them are often very sincere Americans who are dissatisfied with current conditions and who find themselves frustrated in any attempt to hold back the tides of Socialism.

Yet Rockwell is a Socialist, a National Socialist, and he expresses his Socialism in these words:

"We believe that no man is entitled to the services and products of the labor of his fellow men, unless he contributes at least an equal amount of goods or services of his own production or invention. We believe that the contribution by a member of society of nothing else but the tokens called 'money' is a fraud upon his fellows, and does not excuse a man capable of honest work of his responsibility to produce his share."

This is definitely anti-capitalist. It is as strong in its opposition to capitalism as anything written by Karl Marx. In a word, instead of dividends, rents and included. All that may be measured for reward is production of goods or services. And presumably, as there is to be no private capital, everything will be government owned. In fact, the first sentence of the program reads:

"We believe that an honest man can never be happy in a naked scramble for material gain and comfort, without any goal which he believes is greater than himself, and for which he is willing to sacrifice his own egotism."

The American Nazi are, of course, violently anti-Semitic. The development of Marxism is attributed to Jews, although both Stalin and Khrushchev have, at times, been anti-Semitic. Rockwell sets forth his purpose as follows:

"... we announce our purpose to be nothing less than a worldwide effort to free humanity from Jewish domination and subversion in all their forms, and the creation of the idealistic, racially realistic, socially progressive, international world order which we must have, if we are to remain masters of our planet."

"To this world-wide goal, we solemnly pledge our lives."

Jews are to be killed; all debts from non-Jews to Jews are to be cancelled and an International Jew Control Authority (like Eichmann's) is to be established; "... to protect the rare honest Jews from the wrath of the

Other Editors Saying What To Do In Cuba

(Henderson Dispatch)

From the President on down to the humblest citizen, the problem is as to what is best to do in Cuba. Mr. Kennedy would like to know and is reaching his brain in search of the answer as to what the country ought to do for its own self-defense and for the preservation of liberty in the free world.

Communism is making certain and rapid gains in various parts of the earth today. Cuba is but one trouble spot. The tiny state of Laos is half way around the world but constitutes a thorn in the side of democratic nations. Its importance lies in the fact that its possible loss would be another gain for communism and a further hedging in of liberty-loving people.

When he spoke before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington the night of April 22, Secretary of State Rusk made the statement that a cease-fire would probably be signed as to Laos in the next forty-eight hours. Nearly a week and a half has passed since then, and that has not been arranged.

Not only that, but the communists are stalling for time and along with such tactics are continuing to advance into territory of the free western government.

As a result, the free world is debating whether to intervene with men and weapons.

Turnoff continues in Africa, including France's Algerian crisis, which, however, appears nearing a solution.

As to Cuba, the United States could intervene directly, which would be a last resort and both unwise and unlikely. It could arm Cuban patriots and lend aid to them. Or it could let the situation rock along in the hope that conditions would right themselves.

The latter is almost entirely improbable. Instead of that it would continue to worsen under such a policy. To send American forces into action would probably arouse the fire of other Latin American nations. Aid to Cubans who are willing to fight for the liberty of their country is the only other alternative, and even that would be fraught with dangers.

The United States a long time ago missed the boat as to Cuba. The embargo and breaking of relations with Castro would have been more helpful if done in the early months after he took over and began to show every indication of communist affiliations. The longer he is left to his way the worse will become, the greater the menace to this country, and the more certain that Soviet Russia will move in to consolidate its gains and to set up a base of operations under our very nose.

Whatever course of action may be decided upon will carry the potential of trouble for this country. Whatever is done will irritate Moscow the more and stimulate greater action from that source in moving into this hemisphere.

When it is determined what should be done for the best interests of the United States and for the free world should have been taken home safely after the show. The orchestra leader asked one of the musicians to take her home. Instead, he parked the car. She threatened to walk home, whereupon the musician abruptly started the car without putting on his lights and backed into the main highway. Another car crashed into them and injured the girl.

Upholding her contention the injury arose "out of and in the course of employment," the Division of Workmen's Compensation admitted that "deviations were made from the usual route to her home, but in our opinion she was unable to avoid these deviations." She was compensated to a new dye?

Most observers agree that the courts tended to interpret the law largely in favor of the workmen. But as years went on, and industry became more complicated, so did judicial decisions.

F. W. Braun, vice president of Employers Mutual, of Wausau, Wis., has compiled details on some of the stranger cases.

In one, a singer agreed to appear with a Rhode Island dance band provided she would be taken home safely after the show. The orchestra leader asked one of the musicians to take her home. Instead, he parked the car. She threatened to walk home, whereupon the musician abruptly started the car without putting on his lights and backed into the main highway. Another car crashed into them and injured the girl.

Upholding her contention the injury arose "out of and in the course of employment," the Division of Workmen's Compensation admitted that "deviations were made from the usual route to her home, but in our opinion she was unable to avoid these deviations." She was compensated to a new dye?

A WINK—AND A SPINE INJURY
Employers Mutual recently received a report that an employee had suffered an eye injury. Next came word the patient had received treatment for a back injury, with no mention of an eye. An inquiry resulted in this explanation: "Mr. T. splashed paint thinner into his right eye. The paint caused involuntary blinking of the eyelid, giving the appearance of a wink."

"As the victim entered our office to report the injury, a young lady there — secretly in love with the man — misinterpreted the blinking. Casting all dignity aside, she leaped and embraced him passionately on the spot. Mr. T., pretty much on the shy side, resisted strongly and in the struggle his spine was wrenched."

"The shock so unnerved Mr. T. that when he arrived at the doctor's office he forgot all about his sore eye, but he did have his back treated."

OLD COLLEGE GAME RECOGNIZED

One claim had as much to do with college athletics as it did with workmen's compensation. The Colorado Industrial Commission ruled in 1951 a football player was entitled to workmen's compensation. This particular football player, who had a $50 a month job, free meals, and a free room at Denver University, was in effect hired to play football and was entitled to workmen's compensation for a back injury received during spring practice.

One safety specialist on a big dam construction project was confronted with what appeared to be a serious internal injury case. A worker had fallen from a scaffolding and, in addition to being in great pain, was unable to speak. An ambulance was called and the man was rushed to the nearest hospital. Before reaching the hospital someone had the presence of mind to give the agonized victim a piece of paper and a pencil with the hope he could help them diagnose his injury.

He did in three succinct words: "Swallowed my stuff." Got compensation, too!

Titan Launched From Its Hole

VANDEMBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force has launched its first Titan missile from underground—a step it terms a milestone in making the United States too powerful to attack.

The Titan, this country's biggest missile, soared over the Pacific Wednesday. Then, far at sea and high in the cloudless sky, it was purposely destroyed.

Southeast Urged Buildup Resources

CLINTON, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Sanford has called on southeastern North Carolina to better develop and to better utilize "its great wealth of human and natural resources."

Sanford told an industrial development conference here Wednesday the southeastern area is blessed with great forests, rivers and rich soil.

Representatives from 20 southeastern counties attended the conference sponsored by the State Department of conservation and development.

Suspect Russian Offer Of Arms

LONDON (AP)—A Ghanaian military mission's visit to Moscow aroused speculation in London Wednesday that the Soviet Union may offer arms and other defense aid to the West African republic.

The Soviets have been making a big play for the friendship of President Kwame Nkrumah's regime. Ghanaian forces still are trained, equipped and commanded by the British.

The test was to see if Titans could be fired safely from silos or hardened sites. The Air Force technology for so-called bomb-proof launching pads on bomb-proof bases. Then, with a thunderous roar, the 98-foot, two-stage Titan rose from the 146-foot-deep hole. It climbed out of sight and was blown up when it was about 40 miles at sea by a radio impulse from the base.

Preston Named To Play His 'Music Man' Role

By BOB THOMAS AP Movie-TV Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Prof. Harold Hill has set up shop out Burbank way, and the trombones and cornets are selling at a fast clip. Prof. Hill also is known to millions as Robert Preston, and the two seem inseparable. Preston is now hard at work doing the film version of "Music Man," which he created on Broadway. Strangely, he was no show-in to make the movie. "I'm sure some of the studio minds would have preferred to cast Fabian in the role," commented one wry observer. Happily, wiser heads prevailed, they being those of "Music Man's" creator, Meredith Willson, and director of the stage and screen versions, Morton DaCosta. Preston is among those who believe they made a right decision. "If you're going to do the film version of 'Music Man,' you get the best Harold Hill. At this late date, there's nobody who can do it better than I can. The role is a part of me, and I'm a part of the role. You can't pick that up overnight." Warner Brothers is going all-out to make "Music Man" the best. The bill for production will reportedly come to $5 million, including a cool million for the rights. Filming started early this month and will continue through August. "That's a long schedule, but I've had longer," Preston remarked. "I used to work on the De Mille pictures at Paramount. I was under contract and they weren't paying me much. So they'd send me up to Utah or someplace with the second unit to shoot the action stuff. "I'd be up there two or three months before coming back to join the better-paid actors in shooting the main part of the picture."

RUNWAY KIDS

Nixon Breaking Political Silence

NEW YORK (AP)—For Richard M. Nixon, the long period of self-imposed political silence is over. The man who came so close to the presidency has embarked on a week-long political tour. Before it is finished, he will visit New York; Chicago; Des Moines, Iowa, Detroit, and Columbus, Ohio. Nixon came here Wednesday night from Washington—Mrs. Nixon and the girls are remaining in the capital until school is out—for a series of private appointments. Among those whom he will see are former President Herbert Hoover and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Tonight Nixon is the honored guest at a dinner given by Gardner Cowles, editor and publisher of Look magazine and president of the Des Moines Register and Tribune. The Cowles dinner, to which business and civic leaders are invited, is off the record. Undoubtedly Nixon will say privately many of the things he will soon be saying publicly. After his narrow loss in the election, Nixon decided to avoid criticism of President Kennedy during his first 100 days. Now the 100 days are over, and Nixon has accepted invitations to address four Republican rallies in four different states. Although Nixon hasn't said specifically where he will attack, he's expected to strike out at Kennedy's domestic proposals, but to withhold his fire on foreign affairs. Meet To Stress Logging Safety

RALEIGH — Promotion of safer working conditions and practices in the logging industry will be the subject of a special session of the 31st Annual Statewide Industrial Safety Conference to be held in Durham, May 11. Chairman of the special session on "Logging, Pulpwood and Saw Logs" will be Billy Creel, safety director of the North Carolina Department of Labor. The session on logging will be held at 2:15 p.m. May 11, in the Central Civic Center on Foster Street. The logging group will hear addresses by William Maughan, president of the N. C. Forestry Association, and W. L. Beasley, Jr., president of the Eastern N. C. Lumber Manufacturers Association. Lloyd Hinson and Gordon Smith, safety engineers with the Bituminous Casualty Company, will give an illustrated report on "Recommended Logging Safety Practices." Charles Wright, safety engineer for American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, will present an illustrated lecture on "Specific Pulp Wood Logging Conditions." A half-hour question and answer period will give persons attending a chance to "stump the experts."

Dies Of Cancer After Release From Red China

MANILA (AP)—Robert E. McCann, American businessman held prisoner in Red China for 10 years on espionage charges, died today of cancer, almost a month after gaining his freedom. He was 60 years old. McCann died at Clark Air Force Base hospital north of Manila, where he was brought the day after crossing the Chinese border into Hong Kong on a stretcher April 6. A businessman in China for 25 years, McCann had stayed on in Tientsin after the Communists took over that North China city. He was arrested in 1951 and sentenced that June 14 to 15 years in jail. In March the Communists announced he was seriously ill with cancer and invited his wife to visit him. During her visit in early April the Reds released him, "in the spirit of humanitarianism," they said. McCann was almost unconscious when he was carried across the border into Hong Kong, and doctors who examined him there said he had not long to live.

GHANA IS CANDIDATE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Ghana Tuesday announced its candidacy for a seat on the 11-nation U. N. Security Council. Ghana Ambassador Alex Quaison-Sackey wrote other chief delegates that his country has the British Commonwealth's support to succeed Ceylon on the council for a two-year term starting next Jan. 1.

Science At Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A benefit from games, freedom-loving fish, and germs that like radiation are on the week's science agenda: Dividend from Games In table tennis, a little ball can travel at speeds estimated up to 100 miles an hour or more. Skilled players rely on concentrated watching and trained reflexes to make their return shots. "There is no time for the brain to give an order," Dr. Andrew Gal, a tournament player who was born in Hungary, writes in Medical Tribune. As a dividend from this kind of sport, the reflexive or automatic response could be useful in everyday life, he says. For example, a good player is apt to be quicker and more assured in meeting a sudden crisis while driving an automobile. Fish Story Aquariums sometimes display sawfish with their peculiar bills, but no swordfish. "Nobody has ever been able to keep a swordfish in captivity," says the Marine Studios at St. Augustine, Fla. They and their close cousins are hefty fighters who keep struggling to the end against capture. Even if captured quickly, this type of fish keeps struggling and thrashing until it builds up in its blood such a concentration of metabolic wastes that it would not likely live long. Tranquillizers or other drugs might keep them asleep until they reached an aquarium, but whether these fishes would accept captivity "is another question, so far unanswered." Radiation Resistance Germs that laugh at radiation are being studied for clues to the mechanism of radiation resistance and how to protect other living things from deadly rays. These germs turned up in 1955 during tests aimed at preserving meat and other foods by ionizing radiation. Some bits of meat still spoiled, and were found to harbor the resistant bacteria. The germs were able to survive 10,000 times as much radiation as a human being can. They don't cause any disease, and are easily killed by heat. The germs now have been found to be a new, distinct species, and tentatively have been named Micrococcus radiodurans, says Dr. A. W. Anderson, bacteriologist at Oregon State University.

versity. Bee Secrets Long-term studies, abetted now by accurate new measuring instruments, are getting to the core of some bee secrets. Colonies of honey bees can keep the temperature of their cluster within pretty narrow limits, despite wide swings of temperature outside the hive. "The bees avoid high temperature by fanning with their wings, and evaporation of water," says a study in Science. Heat control at low temperature depends partly at least on expansion or contraction of the cluster, with each bee producing some body heat. To what extent the bees increase heat production is still not certain.

Plan Social Reform Goal For Foreign Aid

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration is planning to use its proposed new long-term foreign aid program to promote "social reform" and narrow the gap between rich and poor in the world's underdeveloped countries.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk says the carrying out of such reforms will mean sacrifice on the part of recipient nations and they may be reluctant to take the necessary "radical and difficult steps" unless the United States can assure them of long-term assistance.

In a speech to the United States Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night Rusk called for steady and quiet support from the nation for President Kennedy's projected foreign aid operation. It now depends on congressional action on Kennedy's request to make funds for foreign aid loans available over a five-year period.

Foreign aid programs of the past have, for the most part, been dependent on annual appropriation by Congress. This limited the extent of commitments which the United States could make to other countries.

Rusk argued that in helping countries which are trying to build their economies from the ground up the annual appropriations system no longer is adequate.

quoting Rusk, "not because we wish to interfere, not because we wish to dictate, but simply because we wish our aid to be effective." Rusk avoided in his speech any discussion of current crises, as in Laos. The administration, however, has been distressed by the fact that the armies on the side of the pro-Western Laotian government have not fought so well as those on the Communist side. In the State Department many officials believe one reason is a lack of social reform in Laos. Rusk declared that "a vibrant society is not subject to subversion—determined defense is easier when there is something to defend." He did not relate this comment to any country. He said one of the great difficulties has learned, Rusk said, that "assistance is not likely to achieve its purposes if it is unconcerned with social objectives, if it merely serves to enrich the rich, and perpetuate the gap between rich and poor that breeds discontent and revolt.

"The impoverished of centuries are awakening to the knowledge that a better life can be theirs. Social justice is an imperative of the 1960s. The fostering of social justice must, therefore, be a major objective of our aid programs

Circle K Holds Its Ladies Night Event

The Circle K Club of East Carolina College held its annual Ladies Night meeting Tuesday. Circle K is a men's organization sponsored by the Greenville Kiwanis Club. Members are chosen who show above average ability in leadership, citizenship, and scholarship.
Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina College, guest speaker for the occasion, chose as his topic, "The Maximum Citizen." Dr. Jenkins enlightened the club on three types of citizens: the minimum citizen, who gets by with the least he can do; the average citizen, who is just one of the masses; and the maximum citizen, who does what he can to help himself and others by thinking, working and playing.

Rusk Warns Of Trouble In Laos

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators say Secretary of State Dean Rusk has told them that the United States suffered a disaster in the unsuccessful Cuban invasion, and trouble may still lie ahead in Laos.
Rusk briefed the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and 33 invited senators for two hours Wednesday behind closed doors. The gist of what he said was conveyed to newsmen later by the committee chairman, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark.
Fulbright said Rusk "makes no bones about the unsuccessful exile invasion of Cuba being a disaster" or about reverses he said were suffered at the hands of the Communists in Laos.
Rusk was reported hopeful that the present unofficial cease-fire in Laos could be developed into an official one.
"But he said that that doesn't mean the end of difficulties. In the setting up of a cease-fire and negotiations on a new government," Fulbright said.
Fulbright said Rusk disclosed that "one emissary" of the rebellious generals appeared at the U.S. consulate in Algiers with a request for some kind of aid, but his request was rebuffed as fantastic.
Military Drill Show For Guests
WASHINGTON (AP)—Dinner guests at the White House bundled themselves in coats and stoles Wednesday night as President and Mrs. Kennedy moved everybody outdoors for the after-dinner entertainment.
They ventured into the chill night—the temperature hovered around 52—as the White House staged a military drill show to entertain visiting President and Mrs. Bourguiba of Tunisia.
Entertaining the 90 guests under floodlights on the south lawn marked a departure from the usual musicale in the comfortable east ballroom.
The guests, fortified with a banquet featuring roast lamb and champagne, paused to collect coats and fur wraps before heading outdoors.
This was the Kennedy's first formal state dinner in honor of a visiting chief of state.

Royal Suite To House Kennedys

PARIS (AP) — President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy will stay in the "royal apartments" of the French foreign ministry on the Quai D'Orsay when they visit France May 31-June 2, French sources said Wednesday.
The suite is usually given to illustrious guests. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Premier Khrushchev and the late King George VI have stayed there.

Phantoms Top Elizabeth City, 7-4, In Conference Play

The Rose High Phantoms defeated Elizabeth City 7-4 in a conference baseball game yesterday in Elizabeth City.

Greenville began its winning seven-run battle in the first inning when James, the Phantoms shortstop, took base after being hit by the pitcher. James then went on for the first run before the inning was over.

In the third inning Elizabeth City still had not scored when a three-base hit by Brock started the second run for the Phantoms. Elizabeth City rallied for two runs in the fourth. One by Smith and another by Sawyer tied the score.

Greenville came to bat in the sixth with the score still 2-2, to deal a death blow to the Elizabeth City club.

Joyner, first man at bat, got a one-base hit that eventually led to a run when Smoot slammed a home run at the Elizabeth City players.

Then Harrington, Williamson, and Knowles followed with runs to bring the score to a 7-2 tilt at the end of the sixth inning.

Elizabeth City rallied in the seventh but could not break the Greenville lead. Flowers and Boyer both got runs for Elizabeth City and the game ended with Greenville leading 7-4.

Yesterday's defeat by the Phantoms marked Elizabeth City's first loss this season. The win gives Greenville a 4-2 conference standing.

Coach Phillips commented this morning, "Yesterday we hit the ball. That was what won the game. Harrington and Morris combined also gave us pretty good pitching effort in this game."

The Greenville club will travel to Kinston tomorrow for a non-conference game there.

Time Trials For Rebel 300 Start

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — Time trials start at Darlington Raceway this afternoon for coveted posts in the starting lineup of Saturday's $50,000 Rebel 300 convertible stock car race.

The first 10 places will be filled today, with defending champion Joe Weatherly of Norfolk, Va., and two-time winner Glen (Fireball) Roberts of Daytona Beach favored for the two front-row positions.

Weatherly and Roberts are racing under the standard 3 of Bud Moore of Spartanburg, and each will be driving a Pontiac.

Weatherly himself has picked Curtis Turner of Charlotte and Banjo Matthews of Asheville as the men most likely to get the two front-row starting berths. Both will drive Fords.

Tests at high speed under simulated race conditions continued this morning before the 1 p.m. qualifying run for drivers who have never raced the Darlington Raceway oval.

East Carolina Defeats Elon For Ninth Straight

No Pushovers In League's Cellar

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer Those new American League clubs, the Washington Senators and Los Angeles Angels, are at the bottom of the heap as expected, but try telling Detroit and Baltimore that they're a couple of pasties.

The Senators turned on the Tigers Wednesday night for a 5-4 victory. That gave the New York Yankees a share of the lead with Detroit after the defending champs whipped the Minnesota Twins 7-3.

And the Angels knocked the Orioles out of a chance to tie for third with a 7-6 job on the Birds, coming from behind on two-out home runs by Ted Kluszewski and Earl Averill in the ninth inning.

Cleveland defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-3; and Kansas City beat Boston 9-8 in 10 innings.

In the National League, Milwaukee's Warren Spahn followed up his no-hitter of last Friday with a two-hit, 4-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers, and San Francisco regained first place by rapping Chicago's Cubs 6-4. St. Louis spilled Pittsburgh to second place, 3-1, and Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia 9-3.

The Senators did it the hard way, coming from behind and then breaking a 3-3 tie on Dale Long's two-run double in the sixth off Frank Lary, who had won eight straight, four this season. Rookie Joe McClain won his third, although needing Dave Siler's relief.

The Angels came from five runs behind against the Orioles, who scored all their runs on two homers by Jim Gentile and a solo shot by Whitey Herzog. Klu started the winning rally with his sixth home run, off losing reliever Skinny Brown (0-1). Tex Clevenger won his second in relief.

Oriole starter Chuck Estrada left the game after being struck above the right ankle by Ken Aspromonte's fifth-inning line drive. And the Angels lost shortstop Ken Hamlin, who was carried off on a stretcher after colliding with Ken Hunt while chasing a fly in the ninth.

The Yankees scored three unearned runs in the fourth off Pete Ramos (2-1), then beat the Cuban right-hander with another unearned run in a four-run seventh. Hector Lopez' single drove in the clincher and Roger Maris capped the inning with a three-run homer. Bob Turley (3-1), was the winner.

A pinch single by Bob Hale broke it up for the Indians after a two-out double by Johnny Romano in the ninth. The White Sox tied it 3-all in their ninth before reliever Frank Funk cut them down for his second victory. Gerry Staley was the loser in relief.

The A's blew an 8-0 lead when the Red Sox scored twice in the seventh and then ganged up on Ray Herbert for six in the ninth that tied it. Kansas City finally nailed it when Andy Carey doubled in the 10th and Jerry Lumpe singled off reliever Mike Fornieles (0-1). Don Larsen was the winner.

Wright And Rawls Lead Women Pros SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — Mickey Wright and Betsy Rawls lead 28 women professionals who will team with men amateurs in best ball foursomes today, a curtain raiser for the Betsy Rawls Peach Blossom Women's Open. The ninth annual golf tournament starts Friday at the Spartanburg Country Club.

The 54-hole championship event will pay $6,500 in prize money. Twenty nine professionals and two amateurs are entered.

Miss Wright, on the strength of her Titleholders victory, at Augusta, and Miss Rawls are co-favorites. But veteran Patty Berg, playing top notch golf since she recovered from a foot operation, is not to be counted out.

Miss Berg was only a stroke behind Miss Wright in the Titleholders last week.

Three Featured In Carolina Loop Play Wednesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Burlington's Al Eisele, Greensboro's Dennis Corti and Winston-Salem's Bill Halter were names that made news in the Carolina League Wednesday night.

Eisele allowed only four hits and struck out seven in pitching Burlington to an 8-1 victory over Raleigh. For the second straight night, Burlington had a big inning, exploding for five runs in the third inning.

A two-run triple by Halter with two out in the ninth gave Winston-Salem an 8-7 victory over Durham. Five of Durham's runs were scored on errors.

Corti banged a two-run homer in the first inning and Greensboro's Yanks went on to grab a 7-4 victory over Wilson. The defeat knocked the Tobs into a first place tie with Winston-Salem and Burlington.

Tonight's games: Wilson at Winston-Salem. Raleigh at Durham and Greensboro at Burlington.

had this season. The score was tied following the first and third innings, but the Bucs pushed across three big runs in the fourth to clinch the victory.

After East Carolina scored a single run in its half of the first frame, the losers fought right back with a tally of their own.

After a scoreless second stanza on the part of both clubs, the Bucs pushed across another run in the third, but once again the Christians tied the count at 2-2.

In the fourth, however, the Bucs, on only one hit, scored three tallies. Elon pitcher Ray Tilman hit a wild streak in which one Pirate run scored on a wild pitch. Cotton Clayton, EC right fielder, singled with runners on second and third to drive across the other two tallies.

The Pirates arose again in the first for two more runs off Tilman. Gary Pierce was hit by Tilman to lead off the inning, then a single by first baseman Jimmy Martin put runners on first and second. Pierce was forced out at third, but Martin advanced there to take his place on a single by catcher Charlie Johnson. Later, a fielder's choice scored Johnson with the Pirates' final run of the day.

In the second half of the doubleheader, Mallory planned to give the starting nod to Lacy West, who is the owner of a 2-0 record in his first season of baseball for the Bucs.

On Friday, the Pirates move to seem to stop the ever-advancing Bucs, who have all but clinched the North State Conference title for the third consecutive year.

Pirate Coach Jim Mallory will send his number two moundsman, Nathan Greene to the hill today in the first game of a twin-bill against the Bears of Lenoir Rhyne College at Hickory. Greene has posted a 3-0 record so far this spring, and the Monroe native will be seeking number four against the Bruins.

UNC Dismisses Moe For Not Reporting Bribe Offer

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—No change in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball setup appears likely to come out of the spring meeting here Friday.

The University of North Carolina proposal aimed at recognizing the regular season leader over a 14-game schedule as the champion is withering on the vine for lack of support.

The Tar Heel plan also would continue the post-season tournament and send the winner to the NCAA tourney. It would ban schools ineligible for NCAA play from the ACC tournament.

The measure requires a 6-2 voting margin to pass, but no such support appears shaping up for the plan.

The conference officially does not recognize a basketball champion, but the tournament winner is accepted as such and goes on to the NCAA event if eligible.

North Carolina withdrew from the conference tournament last season after the school received a year's probation from the NCAA for basketball recruiting irregularities and was declared ineligible for the national tournament.

A veteran ACC coach said that to deprive the post-season conference tournament of its championship status, unofficial though it might be, would be a mistake. He stated that the interest of the teams and spectators is built up over the season pointing to the tournament.

The fate of this proposal and several others was to be debated today at a series of closed committee meetings aimed at speeding the progress of the general session Friday morning.

Clemson has come forth with several propositions. These include:

Moving from April 1 to Dec. 7 the date for honoring the signing of football scholarships in the conference.

A minimum schedule of five conference football games a year with a school meeting each league rival at least once every three years. Presently, the minimum is six games with a full round robin of seven scheduled for next year.

A ban on play with outside organized basketball teams by conference players. Violation would make a player ineligible for competition at any conference school.

South Carolina would prohibit the signing of a high school basketball player to a grant-in-aid before the second Saturday in March but would retain the June 1 effective date for honoring such agreements.

Wake Forest wants rifle adopted as the 13th championship sport in the conference and has suggested the first annual tournament be held next March at Wake Forest.

The swimming Committee has recommended that the team championship be determined by adding the results of the individual championship meet to the standings over the regular dual meet season.

Commissioner Jim Weaver has proposed that the schools consider limiting the number of freshmen basketball and freshmen and varsity baseball games.

Before plunging into the business at hand, the conference held its first annual spring jamboree Wednesday at the Sedgefield Country Club. About 70 ACC officials, coaches, newsmen and guests were on hand for a day of golf and a barbeque dinner.

No Changes Seen Likely To Arise From ACC Meeting

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Basketball star Doug Moe, first cleared of wrongdoing by his student honor council, was dismissed from the University of North Carolina for not reporting bribe offers.

Moe, a star for the Tar Heels in three varsity years and a top prospect, was indefinitely suspended from school by Chancellor William B. Aycock, who said the Brooklyn, N.Y., native told him three times that he was not involved in the point-shaving basketball scandal, before admitting it.

The suspension could keep the 200-pound, 6-6 Moe out of a pro career. David Trager, owner of the New Chicago entry in the National Basketball Association which drafted Moe, said the NBA was to consider Moe's case on May 15.

Aycock said Moe admitted to him on April 24 that he accepted $75 from Aaron Wagman, a New York gambler who has been indicted in the latest point-fixing probe, at a meeting with Wagman in New York last fall.

The chancellor also said Moe admitted that Lou Brown, a sub player, had tried to bribe him on two occasions. Brown, of Jersey City, N. J., has been identified by New York District Attorney Frank Hogan as a contact man for Wagman with a number of college players involved in the widespread basketball fix scandal.

Brown, who left school on March 29, was a close buddy of Moe during their three years together here.

Moe's case was considered by the University's Men's Honor Council earlier Wednesday. The council, composed of representatives of various segments of the student body, had been asked to decide whether Moe was guilty of wrong-doing in the scandal. It decided he was not.

Several hours later Aycock announced in a statement that he was indefinitely suspending Moe, and that no application for re-admission would be considered from him before February, 1962.

Aycock said Moe assured him as late as March 22, while the New York probe was in full swing, that he was in no way involved. He also denied involvement in two later conferences, Friday said, although Hogan's representatives visited the campus to talk with the player.

The chancellor said that 10 days ago he again conferred with Moe and that the player, in answer to a specific question, admitted that he accepted Wagman's $75. He denied, however, that he ever agreed to shave points in a game.

Moe, who averaged 20.4 points per game for the Tar Heels last season, must leave the campus within 48 hours of the suspension. A senior, he could have graduated this year by making up some time in summer school.

Chancellor Aycock said Brown's withdrawal was "under other than honorable conditions." He said Brown was permitted to withdraw from school with the stipulation that he could not return without permission of the chancellor. He said the university could not discipline Brown at the time of his withdrawal.

Jamesville Loses To Robersonville

Robersonville rolled over their host, Jamesville, 10-0 yesterday in Martin County League baseball play.

The Robersonville club was led by its strong hurler Jimmy Rodgers who has pitched six victories this season. Rodgers has only been scored against once this year.

Tommy Ward drove in one run and Wayne Britton drove in two triples in the first inning to start Robersonville on the road to victory. The inning ended with Robersonville leading 4-0.

The next scoring play came in the third inning when Jimmy Cherry drove in two runs.

In the fifth inning Brown Keel slammed a two run homer across the field.

Ace mound man Rodgers was relieved by David Wilson.

In conference play Robersonville now stands tied with Beargrass at five and one.

Jamesville got two hits in the game.

SO MUCH THAT CAN'T BE COPIED

Bucket seats alone do not a sport car make. Even when they're as cozy as ours are. You also want (and darned well need, if you're after a fun-type car) things like efficiently eager steering. Steering like you get with Corvaire's rear-engine design.

You want traction that keeps your car firmly attached to the road all the time—around corners, through mudholes, everywhere. You want superlatively balanced braking. You want an amiably smooth, supple ride—like Corvaire's full independent suspension gives you.

As you might have guessed, you simply can't get these happy advantages in any other U.S. car. Only Corvaire. Anything that gives you less is just another social climber.

THE HAUNTED STARS

EDMOND HAMILTON

CHAPTER 23

They had been moving through the forest for three days, and the going had been easy. Too easy, Fairlie thought.

The sky had been heavily clouded ever since they started, and she was sure.

There were no animals of size. Birds were few, and silent. More surprising yet, there was almost no underbrush between the smooth boles of the trees, no clogging vines and creepers, no thickets of thorn and briar. It looked like a vast park.

"It's as though the common parasitic plants never developed here at all," Winstedt said, as the trac rolled down a shadowed, sloping glade.

"Maybe they were got rid of," said DeWitt.

Winstedt stared at him, a little vacantly. "Got rid of?"

"I should think," said DeWitt, "that a people who could fly the stars could have cleaned up their own world easily enough."

Fairlie had been looking back at the other trac, following them a hundred yards behind. Besides its driver, Hagulan was in it, and young Smith, and Raab. It was no accident, he was thinking, that he and Raab did not ride together. He turned again in his seat when DeWitt said that.

Fairlie said satirically, "The Vanryns, the super-scientists, is that it? The same ones who made those trails?"

"They had found trails in the forest, old and narrow and worn deep into the ground."

"Those trails don't prove a thing," DeWitt said.

"They're foot trails, for all the world like Indian trails," prodded Fairlie. "Super-scientists wouldn't be out footing it through the woods, would they?"

DeWitt made no answer to that, but his back was as uncompromising as a rock as he stared ahead. The trac rolled on down the easy slope, came to a shallow stream and forded it, and went on.

The sullen sky became duskier, and the damp air turned chill. In a grove of towering, shining boles whose foliage was so high above them that it was like a cathedral roof, DeWitt made the sign to halt for the night.

DeWitt, with the photo-maps spread across his knees, talked without looking at them.

"We'll base here temporarily and search till we find them. If we can't locate any Vanryn community, I'll call Thomason and have him send the skitterplanes to help. They must be somewhere in this area."

"And if they're not?" asked Raab.

DeWitt said, "We'll keep looking."

Fairlie felt depressed. The sky had darkened until its cloudcover was the color of corroded brass. The faces of the others had an odd look in that light. He was sick of their faces. He was tired of this whole expedition and he didn't give a damn if they never found the Vanryns. As soon as it was dark, he rolled up in his sleeping-bag.

Next morning the clouds persisted and the wind blew cooler and damper. They were morosely eating their breakfast out of tins when Winstedt suddenly dropped his tin. He said, incoherently, "Hey, look. Hey, look there."

The men started scrambling to their feet. Fairlie couldn't see what had started them but he got up and then he saw.

A hundred feet away in the dusky grove stood a man, looking in color. Her dark hair was bare and so were her arms and legs. She looked gravely and doubtfully at Fairlie from a distance, and said nothing.

"Try to understand," said Fairlie. "We come from a very far star and world, but we are your kinsmen. Perhaps you still have memory of the time when the Vanryn conquered the stars?"

Thrayn said soberly, "We have that memory." He looked steadily at Fairlie and then he said, "You are our friends, you wish us well?"

"Yes."

"Then go away."

"But why?" Fairlie protested.

"We came here only to learn, we will harm no one."

"My people," Thrayn said slowly, "are afraid. And they are very angry with me and with Aral because our curiosity about your ship has now led you this way. They have made us come out to meet you, to tell you to leave Ryn."

"There's no reason to be afraid of us," Fairlie began.

But Thrayn interrupted. "It is not you they fear. It is the Llor'n."

The name rang and echoed like a bell-note in the momentary silence that followed. Fairlie stared and then, incomprehendingly, repeated it, "The Llor'n?"

"There was a war long ago," he could see the man's face. This was a young man, dark and handsome and strong-looking, with intelligent eyes.

Fairlie judged it best to stop, ten feet away from him. They looked at each other with mingled curiosity and wariness.

He was going to repeat his protestation of friendship when the other spoke, briefly and rapidly. Fairlie could not understand, and said so. The man repeated more slowly, and this time Fairlie got the meaning.

"Why have you followed us?"

"Followed you?" said Fairlie. Then he began to comprehend. He said, "You are Thrayn?"

"I am Thrayn."

"The woman, Aral, was with you the other night in the ruins."

Thrayn nodded curtly. "She is with me now." He glanced sideways.

Fairlie, looking that way, saw the woman standing farther back in the grove, beside a big tree whose massive trunk sheltered her in deeper shadow.

She did not wear a cloak now. She wore a tunic like Thrayn's, except that it was a paler green in color. Her dark hair was bare and so were her arms and legs. She looked gravely and doubtfully at Fairlie from a distance, and said nothing.

"Try to understand," said Fairlie. "We come from a very far star and world, but we are your kinsmen. Perhaps you still have memory of the time when the Vanryn conquered the stars?"

Thrayn said soberly, "We have that memory." He looked steadily at Fairlie and then he said, "You are our friends, you wish us well?"

"Yes."

"Then go away."

"But why?" Fairlie protested.

"We came here only to learn, we will harm no one."

"My people," Thrayn said slowly, "are afraid. And they are very angry with me and with Aral because our curiosity about your ship has now led you this way. They have made us come out to meet you, to tell you to leave Ryn."

"There's no reason to be afraid of us," Fairlie began.

But Thrayn interrupted. "It is not you they fear. It is the Llor'n."

The name rang and echoed like a bell-note in the momentary silence that followed. Fairlie stared and then, incomprehendingly, repeated it, "The Llor'n?"

"There was a war long ago,"

Thrayn said earnestly. "It was fought across the stars. And our ancestors lost that war."

Now Fairlie began to understand. "And the name of your enemies was, the Llor'n?"

Thrayn nodded. "Yes. They were very powerful, more powerful even than the Vanryns. They forced us back to Ryn. They destroyed our starport and our ships. And before they left they warned that if ever the Vanryn flew space again, total destruction would follow. That is why my people are afraid. Because a ship has come to Ryn and the prohibition of the Llor'n has been broken."

Fairlie flushed and felt like a fool as his earthly admiration for the unearthly woman showed clearly. Would she understand? The story continues here tomorrow.

South's Global Trading Booms

ATLANTA (AP) — International trading in the South is booming, with exports doubled and imports up 301 per cent during the last 15 years, the U. S. Department of Commerce reported today.

The customs districts of Maryland, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, Mobile, New Orleans, Sabine, Galveston, Laredo and El Paso exported goods worth $6.35 billion and had imports of $2.91 billion.

South Carolina led the nation with a rise of 781 per cent in international trade during the period. Sabine's total was up 202 per cent, Florida's 196 per cent, Galveston's 179 per cent, New Orleans' 168 per cent and Maryland 140 per cent.

Maryland, Virginia, Florida, Laredo, Mobile, Georgia, North Carolina, and El Paso could not stand the pace set by some other districts, and lost rank during the 15 years. But South Carolina jumped from 28th to 24th and Sabine edged from 21st to 20th.

The 1960 figures for the southern districts, listed in order of total trade, exports and imports, in millions were:

Galveston $2,192, $1,718, $474; New Orleans $2,138, $1,491, $646; Maryland $1,182, $567, $614; Virginia $1,051, $778, $273; Florida $734, $418, $315; Laredo $606, $514, $92; Sabine $336, $321, $15; Mobile $272, $152, $120; South Carolina $244, $122, $121; Georgia $234, $130, $184; North Carolina $173, $92, $80; El Paso $100, $45, $55.

Radio For Ayden Utilities, Public Works

AYDEN—A two-way radio system for the Department of Utilities and the Department of Public Works is being installed this week. Ayden Town Manager Cleveland Paylor has announced.

Three trucks and the manager's car will be equipped. The base station is the town hall, where signals will be sent out to an antenna on top of the town water tank.

The system will be placed into use as soon as final authorization is received from the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D.C., Paylor said.

The system will work this way: From the base station, which will be the town hall, signals will be sent to the water tank, which will hold the antenna on top of the tank. A transmitter will be located at the base of the water tank. Thus the signals will be remote controlled from the town office to the water tank.

He also noted the substantial savings in cost of operation and a more efficient operation are the two fundamentals which justify installation of the two-way radio system in the utilities and public works trucks. It is hoped that final authorization will come from the F. C. C. within 30 days. The radios will broadcast on 153.50 Mc., Paylor said.

Each truck will not only be able to receive messages from the base office, but the drivers will also be able to talk to one another as long as they are in range.

Last Rites Saturday For Butler Avery

Funeral services for Mr. Butler Avery, 57, will be held at the Wilkerson Chapel Saturday afternoon at 2:30 by the Rev. Bennie Pledger, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Ayden. Burial will be in the Winterville Cemetery. Mr. Avery died in a Miami, Florida hospital Tuesday afternoon following several days of illness.

Paratrooper Dies In Training Jump

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — A paratrooper was killed here Wednesday during a training jump.

An Army spokesman said today that a "parachute malfunction" caused the death of Pfc. Sydney E. Foster, 24, son of Mrs. Ethel Turner of Salem, Mass. He was a member of Company D 187th Airborne Infantry.

PLANNING ARMED FORCES DAY—Lt. Col. Joel G. Dobson, Commanding Officer of the Greenville Subsector Command, II U. S. Army Corps, James W. Boykin of the Greenville Jaycees, and Lts. Francis Thompson and Robert Burnell of the Second Airborne Battle Group, 504 Infantry, 82nd Airborne Division of Fort Bragg, are shown as they met to plan activities for the May 20 Armed Forces Day here. Theme for the program, "Power for Peace," will be demonstrated through a display of military equipment at the local Army Reserve building, and will include an open house at the reserve center with free coffee and donuts by the National Guard. Col. Dobson is area coordinator for the program, while Boykin is chairman of Armed Forces Day locally.

Grifton Band In Annual Spring Concert Friday

Baptists To Talk College Funds

GREENSBORO (AP) — A special Baptist State Convention opens here today to consider fund-raising programs for the convention's seven colleges in North Carolina. A series of proposals are expected to come before the special sessions in Greensboro's War Memorial Auditorium. About 2,000 Baptists are expected.

Originally the session was called to consider a proposal to raise $45 million over 10 years for the colleges. Later, however, 51 Baptist ministers offered as an alternate proposal a plan to bring the colleges about $3.3 million annually in additional funds during the next three years.

Although the special convention opens amid pleas for unity and harmony, indications are it will be a stormy session. Some Baptists, fearing a vote today could cause a serious split in their ranks, have indicated they feel it might be wise to shelve the proposals until the regular convention, scheduled here in November.

The plan to raise the $45 million was recommended by a committee of the Baptist State Convention. The funds, it suggested, should be raised separate from regular contribution programs of Baptists.

And, throwing another light on the problem, Campbell Junior College in Biles Creek — one of the seven Baptist schools — said Wednesday it might not be able to expand to a four-year school if the scaled down, $3.3 million program is adopted. Dr. Lester Campbell, president of the small college, wrote several Baptist leaders warning that the college may not be able to follow its timetable to expand with the alternate proposal.

Luxury Expense Account Examples Used To Tighten Strings On Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Armed with examples of expense accounts living at hunting lodges, beach cottages and desert resorts, Secretary of Treasury Douglas Dillon returns to Capitol Hill today to ask Congress to pull the tax strings tighter.

Members of the House Ways and Means Committee didn't get a chance to question Dillon Wednesday on President Kennedy's proposals for sterner treatment of business deductions for entertainment and travel.

But he left with them a study by the Internal Revenue Service of 38,000 returns on which travel and entertainment were claimed as business expenses.

It described, for instance, the luxurious hunting lodge maintained by a manufacturing company owned by only a few shareholders — "streams stocked with trout, small game raised by farmers and large deer population. Log maintained showing names and dates representatives of customers are entertained. Lodge also used for entertainment of key personnel of taxpayer."

In three years, the IRS allowed business deductions for the lodge totaling $187,417.

The IRS says that so long as the law reads as it does now, it has no choice but to allow such deductions. The administration is asking for a tightening of the rules on expense accounts, along with many other things, to bring in enough revenue to offset tax allowances it proposes for businesses who will invest in modern, competitive plants. The allowances for more productive facilities would cost about $1.7 billion a year in revenue.

Another of Dillon's examples concerns a father and son who are president and vice president of a taxpaying corporation. They belong to a club in which each member "is supposed to give a party once each year for the others."

The IRS said it couldn't prove the entertainment was non-deductible personal expense because the party-givers could always point to some guest who could help them in their business.

Another taxpayer was said to have traveled extensively: "A trip to Las Vegas, Nev., Havana, Cuba, or some other place has always been opportune to attend some New Year's Day bowl game or other affair, yet the trip was to see some concern about selling."

The beach house and boat maintained by a hosiery mill was worth $58,000 in two years in business deductions on the ground they were used to entertain business guests.

A mineral products company was allowed almost $60,000 deductions in three years on a summer home in Maine and residence in the Midwest. The principal stockholder and his wife, the IRS said, spend 2½ months each summer in Maine, entertain customers and their wives.

An elk hunting party for six and fishing trip in Canada for 11 were allowed as deductions by an oil refining company. Officers and managers of pipeline companies were entertained.

Many of the claims it does turn down, the IRS reported, are rejected not because they are illegal, but because taxpayers lack documentary proof. The service said this often happens when credit cards are used and the taxpayer has only an unitemized bill to show.

Said the service, with a slightly hurt tone, "Where the examining officer finds it necessary to ask the taxpayer questions regarding the nature of the claimed deductions, the taxpayer very frequently adopts a defensive attitude."

Two Cezannes In The White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two paintings by Paul Cezanne, "The Forest" and "House on the Marne," were hung Wednesday in the White House Green Room as part of Mrs. John F. Kennedy's plan for redecorating the executive mansion.

The paintings were among eight by Cezanne bequeathed to the United States by Charles A. Loeser, art connoisseur and collector who made his home in Florence, Italy.

All have been on loan to the National Gallery of Art. Now, the White House said, two at a time will be placed in the mansion and other six will remain at the gallery. They will be rotated periodically.

Lurking in the waters of the Great Barrier Reef, off Australia, are 100 species of shark. Eight are man-eaters.

Mapping Plans For Boys' State

RALEIGH — Plans are being made for 400 high school boys from throughout North Carolina to attend the 1961 session of the North Carolina American Legion Boys' State, Department Commander S. Marvin Burton, of Charlotte, announced.

W. W. Staton, of Sanford, heads The American Legion Committee which is working with the Institute of Government on plans for the week-long session, June 18th to 24th. Committee members are A. M. Scarborough, Greensboro; Bob Sox, Chapel Hill; Sam McKay, Jr., Gastonia; James E. Filippski, Greensboro; Dallas L. Alford, Jr., Rocky Mount; C. E. Jones, Pittsboro; Charles W. Daniel, Varina; and Robert R. Blackburn, High Point.

Burton pointed out that the Legion will sponsor 49 of these Boys' States this summer, plus a Boys' Nation consisting of two outstanding youths from each of the Boys' States who will study the operation of the federal government in much the same manner as the Boys' States delegates participate in training in state government.

At the 1961 North Carolina American Legion Boys' State, the Tar Heel youths will participate in the organization of political parties, campaigns, elections, and the enactment and enforcement of their own laws within a mythical 51st state.

Calico HD Club Holds Meeting

"Planning Busy Day Meals" was the demonstration given by Mrs. Rebecca Chapman, food leader, when the Calico Home Demonstration Club met at her home recently.

Five members reported purchasing more than 100 chicks each, all 12 members present reported that family gardens are outstanding in spite of unfortunate weather conditions.

One demonstration on furniture refinishing is in progress by Mrs. Lena Bell Chapman, with club members assisting with the work.

Mrs. Rebecca Chapman will exhibit an antique rocking chair in a store window exhibit during National Home Demonstration Week.

The club planned to place flowers in church and worship as a group at the Joe Branch Free Will Baptist Church on May 7.

Mrs. Estella Edwards, president of the club, presided at the meeting.

Get peanuts off to a good start ... kill growth-choking weeds with PREMERGE

Both weed and grass seedlings are readily controlled in peanuts with Premerge — and at low cost. A treatment with Premerge now gets plants off to a good start toward bigger yields, and reduces the need for early cultivations. This is especially important during wet springs when cultivation is difficult or impossible, and when there is greater danger of soil compaction. Premerge is a time-tested and proven farm herbicide. Get Premerge today for a better peanut crop!

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady. Supplies generally adequate, demand fair to good. Prices of producers for clean, ungraded eggs delivered nearby grading stations on a grade-yield basis, cases exchanged: Grade A large, whites 29 to 31½; medium, whites 24 to 25½; small, whites 20 to 21.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market overcame profit taking and churned higher early this afternoon in heavy trading. The Associated Press average of 30 stocks at noon was up .80 at 246.50 with industrials up 1.00, rails up 1.10 and utilities up 1.00. Gains of most key stocks were small, ranging from fractions to about a point and outnumbered losers in the same range. Some specially situated stocks advanced 2 or 3 points.

The tone was generally higher among tobacco, rubbers, drugs, rails, utilities and motors. Motors, oils and chemicals were mixed.

Magnavox spurted more than 3 points at the opening, then pared its best gain.

Certain-Teed rose 2-3-8.

Gains of about a point were made by Caterpillar, Martin Co. General Electric, American Smelting and Anaconda. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.56 at 601.46.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were strong.

'Play Day' Event Held At Elmhurst School Today

"Play Day," consisting of team games, relays and field events was held at Elmhurst School this morning under the direction of Miss Nell Stallings of the East Carolina Physical Education Department.

Some 605 students of the school participated in the event, according to Mrs. Helen Wolff, principal.

During the first period, students played team games which included Greek Dodge ball, kick ball, long base, volleyball and others. The second period, which featured relays, consisted of such games as bean bag, leap frog and Indian club. There also were the circle exchange relay and the broad step relay. Every student in school participated in the first two events, Mrs. Wolff said.

In the third period, the field events were held. Two students from each class participated in the field events of chinning, broad jump and dashes. There was a demonstration folk dance from the fifth grade taught by Miss Lillian Purvis and a demonstration of a rhythm band by Mrs. Carroll Smith's primary class.

The final relay during the fourth period of the event featured two students from each class who ran distances appropriate to their ages and experiences.

In the finale, which included all classes, students presented a figure and sang the school song. The blue team won the event of the day, Mrs. Wolff said. The school was divided in two groups, the blue team and the gold team.

Fourteen Entries In Talent Event

AYDEN—Fourteen entrants are on the program for the Talent Show to be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Ayden High School Auditorium.

The show is being sponsored by the Ayden Jaycees with cooperation from the Parent-Teacher Association. Cash prizes of $50 first place and $25 second place will be given.

The entrants include the following:

Teen-Tones, singing group from Rocky Mount; Donna Whitley, beatnik dancer of Greenville; Jazz Routine, football capers, of Grifton and Ayden; Julia Mac Edwards, tap dance, of Ayden; Frankie Lambe, acrobatic dancer of Greenville; Hazel Bachelor, baton twirler of Grifton.

Janet Edwards, "Jazz-It" of Ayden; Freddie Foster, song and dance, Chicoo Margaret Miller, dancer of Ayden; Deborah Hart, jazz dancer of Ayden; "Rock-a-Billies" combo group of Kenly; "The Runaway Hoboes," a comedy skit of Ayden (Suzanne Wilson and Bonnie Brown); "Dem Bedbugs," a comedy skit composed of Susie Hudson and Ella Carmichael of Ayden; Ann Staton Everette, song and dance, of Farmville.

Judges for the event are Mrs. Ruggie Gooding of Ayden, Don Hayes of East Carolina College in Greenville and Mrs. Sue Nobles of Ayden.

Prefers 'Young Adults' Title To 'Teen-Agers'

BETHEL—Rev. T. N. Cooper recently talked to Bethel Rotarians on teenagers as seen by Dr. Frank Howard Richardson, doctor-counselor and writer who founded the children's clinic in Black Mountain, N.C.

The Rev. Mr. Cooper, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church, was in charge of the program for the evening. He told Rotarians that "Dr. Richardson likes the term 'young adults' rather than teenagers as is pointed out in a recent book written by the physician."

In the book, Dr. Richardson listed 12 guides he considers helpful to young adults during the years between early adolescence and marriage, the Rev. Mr. Cooper said.

Some of these include: (1) You are very important. Don't underestimate your abilities. (2) Growing up is a tough job. Teenage years bring weighty problems. (3) Your parents are longing to help you succeed. You and your parents working together can be the greatest team the world has known. (4) Never let the good things of life take the place of the best. Standards you make today mold your life for tomorrow. (5) Blessed are they who hear the word of God and keep it. (6) Petting is an enemy of both dating enjoyment and popularity. (7) Going steady is not as good as it looks. It probably would prevent your selection of the best possible marriage partner. (8) Teenagers can be our best drivers. But owning a car may cost you your education. (9) You don't have to smoke or drink. Weigh the cost before you decide to do either. (10) Make friends with everyone you meet. Put yourself in the other person's place. (11)

Healing Service Planned Tonight

The Ministry of Christian healing will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The Rev. Richard N. Ottaway will present a meditation on, "Tabitha, rise," Acts 9:40. Hymns of healing will be sung by the congregation. The laying on of hands will be offered for those desiring this ministry.

These healing services regularly are a first Thursday monthly observance in St. Paul's Parish. People of this community are invited to be present. The prayers of faithful people are requested and the presence of all is desired.

Dallas Courts To Lose Informality

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—State courts in Dallas are going to lose their air of informality.

Henceforth, judges decided Wednesday, they will not call a lawyer by his first name during a trial. And lawyers must not lean on the judge's bench or engage him in a confidential manner; nor will newspapers be read or food eaten or feet propped on tables and chairs.

But veteran Criminal Dist. Judge Henry King balked at a requirement that spectators rise when the judge enters or leaves court. He said: "I'm not going to be bound by anything that requires people to stand. It would be embarrassing to me. Some folks are asking if we want them to get down on their knees too."
