Conference On Laos Held Up By Early Disagreement

By CARL HARTMAN GENEVA (AP) — Foreign ministers of Britain and the Soviet Union failed today to agree on arrangements for a 14-nation parley on the future of Laos and decided to postpone formal opening of the conference. It had been scheduled to start today.

Britain and the Soviet Union—cochairs of the conference—were unable to reach an agreement on which delegation should represent Laos at the table. The United States had refused to sit down for the talks unless this question was settled.

The United States had accepted a report from the truce commission in Laos that a cease-fire was claimed last week, however, the Vientiane government and the rebels have been unable to agree even on a place to meet to discuss formation of a coalition.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk met with Lord Home and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville to discuss developments. Rusk was to meet later today with Gromyko, co-chairman of the conference with Lord Home.

Johnson Sees Accord On Hiking S. Viet Nam Help

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said today he had reached complete agreement with President Ngo Dinh Diem on how the United States can help South Viet Nam meet growing Communist guerrilla attacks.

The program includes increasing the 150,000-man Vietnamese army and bolstering it and civil defense forces with additional U. S. military advisers.

Johnson refused at a news conference to discuss figures or costs. But earlier it was reported the United States was prepared to offer Diem $40 million more a year in arms aid to increase his army 20,000 men.

Johnson met with Diem for nearly three hours this morning. He then went before the National Assembly to pledge U. S. support in helping this pro-Western Asian ally carry the load of an additional defense burden to combat Communist subversion.

you to develop an agreed solution to the problem of additional burdens of defense," he told the legislators.

This meant that the United States would step up its defense support program, which totals $160 million in the current fiscal year. But no specific amount was mentioned pending further negotiations.

Johnson also gave assurances that President Kennedy is ready to help South Viet Nam move forward to meet the needs of its 22.6 million people in education, rural development, new industry and long-range economic progress.

The U.S. aid program would also: Help to increase South Viet Nam's regular military forces of 150,000 by a substantial number—20,000 more men is the figure previously mentioned.

Assist in equipping and training the 50,000-man civil guard force.

Give technical help in improving the self-defense corps, a village militia of volunteers to defend against surprise Communist guerrilla raids. The United States is expected to increase its military advisory group in South Viet Nam from the present 650 officers and men to about 1,650. Sources said additions would include ranger units, experts in counter-guerrilla warfare.

Johnson told the assembly the United States has "growing faith in the strength you can build here."

"We want to work beside you in the great works of the future for your people," he said. "We will stand with you because of our respect, affection and trust for you. But in the highest sense we will stand with you because of our profound sense of responsibility to the cause of universal freedom."

Johnson predicted the Free World, with the great strength at its command, will eventually triumph over the Communist offensive.

Calling attention to Diem's reelection to a second five-year term last month by a 60 to 80 per cent vote, Johnson said communism has no mandate in South Viet Nam.

Howard said he plans to call a meeting of the authority for Monday night at which time organizational procedures will be carried out.

The two groups discussed the possibility of asking a special council session to consider this since the city can receive credit for certain municipal projects which have already been carried out in the area.

This includes approximately $68,000 spent on improving First St. and $23,000 now being spent by the Utilities to install a new outfall line.

The time limit for receiving credit for the First St. work is nearing, commissioners were told.

The federal government will pay two-thirds of the redevelopment costs with the city to pay one-third. However, the city can receive credit on its portion of the costs for street and other improvement projects in the area. It is through this means that First St. can be credited.

A letter from Chairman Cavendish was read into the commission's minutes last night explaining expenditures. The letter had been sent to the Housing and Home Finance Agency office in Atlanta.

Extremists Call For New Strike ALGIERS (AP)—European extremists today spread word calling for a general strike in Algiers Saturday—anniversary of a coup d'etat in 1958—and the government countered with orders for troops to shoot to maintain order.

Further Plans In Urban Renewal Awaits Council

Planning for the Shore Drive Redevelopment area can resume when the City Council authorizes the city's newly-appointed Public Housing Authority to make application for a Federal local housing study.

Members of the Public Housing Authority were told this last night when they sat in on the regular monthly meeting of the Redevelopment Commission.

Commission Director William I. Cochran told the group that the urban renewal work is stymied at this stage. He said he had asked the Housing and Home Finance Agency office in Atlanta if the commission could begin first appraisals of property in the Shore Drive area. They had replied that the city could not until the Housing Authority makes its application.

The Public Housing Authority must receive approval of the City Council before it can make this application. Charles Howard, chairman of the authority, told the group.

Pitt Cropland Drenched By Heavy Downpours

RAIN-DRENCHED CROPLANDS . . . This corn field between Greenville and Farmville was typical of Pitt County's crop acres as the rains again fell yesterday.

Another 1.27 Inches Of Rain Here Yesterday

STREET FLOODS—Fourteenth St. was flooded yesterday as more rains fell in this area. Greenville Utilities reported that 1.27 inches fell during the 24-hour period ending at midnight last night. The Tar River stood at 10.5 feet this morning and was rising. High temperature yesterday was 82 degrees and the low was 66 degrees.

Degree Of Farm Loss Due Rains Is Undetermined

Pitt County Agent S. C. Winchester said today the county's farmers cannot yet determine what degree of damage will result from this week's heavy rainfalls that have drenched Pitt.

He said it may be Monday or Tuesday before the status of the county's rich 25,000-acre tobacco crop in its early field stage will be known.

"There have been isolated cases where replanting has been determined as necessary," the agent said, but advised uncertain farmers to watch the crop closely over the weekend in order to determine whether replanting will be necessary.

Pitt's lowland corn crop, much of it already planted and up, may have to be replanted, Winchester said. "Where water has stood above the young plants for 24 hours or more, replanting will almost certainly be required," he said.

He added, however, that areas where the rainfall had left that much water standing for a full day or more were confined to the extreme lowlands of the county.

Voter-Registration Begins Tomorrow On Bond Issue

Saturday will be the first day registration books are open for the special registration required for voting on the issuance of $395,000 school building bonds for an industrial school for Pitt County.

The election will take place Saturday, June 17. Registration books will be open on the following Saturdays at regular polling places: May 13, May 20, May 27, and June 3.

All eligible voters must register again before voting in this election. Prior registrations will not count in this special election on issuing bonds for the industrial training school to be located in Pitt County.

In addition to the above Saturdays, on all other days between May 13 and June 3, inclusive, except Sundays and legal holidays, registration books will be open at homes of registrars.

Registration books will be open at the following polling places between the hours of 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. on the Saturdays designated above, May 13, May 20, May 27 and June 3. The district, registrar and polling places are:

$289,000 Paid Pitt Farmers In Grain Program

Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office manager Wayne L. Wang reported today a total of $289,000 has been paid 1,101 Pitt farmers participating in the federal emergency feed grain program.

Wang said farmers who sign up now will be paid the same day they sign up.

He pointed out the $289,000 represents less than half the total payment to be received by the farmers who have placed a total of 18,440 acres of corn in the program. Total payment will reach approximately $625,000, Wang said.

Pitt's participation, he said, represents about 41 per cent of the county's farms and some 25 per cent of Pitt's base corn acreage.

He pointed out the feed grain program is regarded by Congress as a "pilot operation." "Washington is watching the program closely," he said, "to determine whether further similar farm legislation is necessary and would be accepted."

avor throwing two Democrats into a contest, as would occur under the bill introduced by Kemp. It would put in the same district veteran Reps. Harold Cooley and L. H. Fountain, both of whom have built up valuable seniority in Congress.

The legislature has the task of reapportioning districts because of population shifts shown in the 1960 Census, which forces North Carolina to lose one congressman.

Lot Is Re-Zoned By City Council

The City Council last night approved rezoning of a small strip of property in southwest Greenville for commercial use.

Voting on a motion by Councilman M. W. Aldridge, the council unanimously approved rezoning a Sunset Ave. lot to be used for construction of a motel.

The rezoned area is bounded on the east by Sunset Ave. and on all other sides by property that was commercially-zoned several years ago.

Its size is 37.5 feet by 100 feet. City Manager L. P. Bloxam told the councilmen the property was included in rezoning intentions in 1956 but was apparently omitted from commercial zoning by an oversight in the description of the approved commercial zone.

No opponents of the proposed rezoning, recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission, appeared at the meeting that lasted only 12 minutes.

Immediately following adjournment, however, Mrs. Clinton Prewett appeared to request explanation of the rezoning proposal.

Newly-elected Councilman Jim Lee seconded the motion Aldridge offered after a brief discussion of the rezoning proposal.

Redistricting Points To Whitener-Jonas Match

RALEIGH (AP) — Democratic matchmakers agreed Thursday night that Democrat Basil Whitener likely will be called upon to slug it out with Republican Charles R. Jonas in the 1962 congressional elections.

The House Congressional Districts Committee held its first gloves-off session to grapple with the problem of rearranging the counties in the present 12 districts so as to come up with 11—and from the start put things on a frankly partisan basis.

Rep. Ed Kemp of Guilford, committee chairman, suggested the group should have a starting point, and Rep. Roger Jackson of Hertford supplied it.

"I'll take a shot," Jackson said. "I think we ought to put Mr. Jonas against somebody so he'll have plenty of work to do in the next election. We can go from there."

The other members of the all-Democrat committee murmured agreement. No one seemed to favor throwing two Democrats into a contest, as would occur under the bill introduced by Kemp. It would put in the same district veteran Reps. Harold Cooley and L. H. Fountain, both of whom have built up valuable seniority in Congress.

The legislature has the task of reapportioning districts because of population shifts shown in the 1960 Census, which forces North Carolina to lose one congressman.

The biggest problem Thursday night, once the group agreed on a premise, was how to arrange the district in which Jonas and Whitener would meet.

House Approval Indicated Over Enlarging SHP

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill, that seems assured of House approval, to add 100 men to the ranks of the State Highway Patrol was introduced in the General Assembly today.

The bill, sent forward in the House by Rep. Sam Whitehurst of Craven, bore the signatures of 67 of the House's total membership of 120.

The measure was the outgrowth of a fely legislation, particularly some of the debate heard Tuesday when the House voted 58 to 55 to kill a bill to require annual mechanical inspection of motor vehicles.

Some opponents of the measure argued that putting more patrolmen on the highways would be a more effective safety measure than inspection.

Whitehurst estimated that cost of paying and equipping the additional patrolmen would amount to $1,354,000 for the biennium. The new men would run the patrol's strength above 700.

In the Senate today, a bill for study commission on the insurance industry was put in by Sen. N. Elton Aydtell of Pasquotank.

The five-member commission, appointed by the governor, would prepare a report for the 1963 legislature. An appropriation of $10,000 from the contingency and emergency fund would support the study.

Aydtell also sent up a bill, signed by several other senators, to remove an exemption from a 1 per cent premium tax on fire insurance policies adopted by the 1959 legislature. Aydtell said it was aimed at greater uniformity by taking out the exemption for policies on property in unprotected areas.

Southern Illinois Flood 'Disaster'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Southern Illinois river towns battled the worst floods in 20 years today in the most serious overflows across Midwestern valley lowlands in six states.

Fifteen counties in Illinois, all in the southern region, have been listed as disaster areas. But Gov. Otto Kerner has appealed to the Office of Civil Defense to declare 53 counties, covering most of the southern half of the state, a major disaster area.

Find Man Dead Of Bullet Wound

A 59-year-old Greenville man was found dead in his apartment on West Fourth St. about 3:30 p.m. yesterday, Greenville police said, the victim of a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Detectives said Robert Arthur Smith, 700 West Fourth St., was found by a neighbor, about 3:36 p.m. They reported he was slumped over in a rocking chair in his bedroom, with a bullet wound in his head.

The wound was apparently self-inflicted, investigators said, from a 22 caliber rifle.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey ruled the death was suicide. He estimated that Smith had been dead from two to four hours before the body was discovered.

He had been suffering from a sinus condition and had been sick for about a week, Harvey said.

A native of Greenville, Smith had been an auto salesman for the past 20 years.

Extremists Call For New Strike

ALGIERS (AP)—European extremists today spread word calling for a general strike in Algiers Saturday—anniversary of a coup d'etat in 1958—and the government countered with orders for troops to shoot to maintain order.

French authorities, alarmed by the rising tension in Moslem and European quarters, appealed to the populace to spare the city a disaster.

Informants said European extremists plan to set fire to the Casbah, attack Moslems and Moslem housing areas in order to provoke Moslem rioting and thus compromise the government's Algerian policies.

On the surface, all was calm today.

Rose Unanimously Re-Elected Superintendent City Schools

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer Members of the Greenville City School Board last night moved to settle an account with W. G. Dunn, contractor, concerning the Rose High School gym and terrace floor and unanimously re-elected J. H. Rose as superintendent.

Other school personnel and staff were approved for next year, including the reappointment of Mrs. Ellet Carroll, director of instruction, who has served five years in this capacity.

returning to full time teaching duties.

Regarding settlement of the account with Dunn, board members approved a motion to pay W. G. Dunn, contractor, the sum of $1,000 for the high school gym floor and the terrace floor and if Dunn accepts this offer, the Greenville School Board will assume the responsibility of replacing defective flooring and release Dunn from his bond.

The board has never accepted a portion of the terrace floor in the hall, which is defective, Rose said, though the architect has approved the gym floor and one portion of the terrace hall floor. The defective portion is located in the south wing.

The school board had held back $2,500 on the floor and the $1,000 would seek to settle the general contract. The high school was constructed in 1957. Dunn did not appear to discuss the matter with the board at its meeting at the city schools office last night.

Personnel Re-election of Rose as superintendent was the first order of business and was unanimous. He has served as superintendent of Greenville schools for 41 years, having previously served as principal of Greenville High School, which has since been named for him.

Charles Ross was named to replace Miss Stancill as principal of Third Street School, Superintendent Rose told the board members that Miss Stancill was "one of the best principals anywhere" but that she wanted to devote her time to full time teaching.

Ross is now a sixth grade teacher at Elmhurst School and holds a Master's Degree and a principal's certificate.

Couple Mature Enough To Marry

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
What does Mother's Day mean to pretty Jane Smith, 17, one of thousands of Jane Smiths who are teenage mothers?
"It's about the only thing that matters to me now," she says, "being a mother makes everything worthwhile, but it saddens me too, because I'll never be able to give her what she needs."
The little girl is one year old, and there will be another baby this summer.
"You ought to be in pictures," people told the blue-eyed, black-haired, Dresden-doll type when she was 15. But Jane wanted only to marry a 19-year-old boy who worked at the local hash house. She had threatened to run away, so finally her family relented. Jane left high school in her freshman year and married the boy.
"People don't understand why I did it," says Jane, her eyes filling with tears. "I wanted my own home. My stepmother was good to me, but it wasn't enough."

The couple moved into a furnished room — "we thought it would be until we could afford our own apartment" — but then came a series of unfortunate events. The boy lost his automobile license for speeding, then his job. He found another job close to home, and promised to find an apartment. He did. Then came a television set, furniture, a new car when his license was renewed. They were going to have a baby.
"Those two months of happiness were wonderful," says Jane, "but when I found out Johnny was in trouble with the cash register at his job. He went to jail."
Jane went back to her loving parents. But Johnny was paroled and begged Jane to go back to him. She did "because of the baby."
"We quarrel constantly, but I keep thinking it is because of the way we live, and if things could be different, like other people . . ."
They are back in the furnished room living on unemployment insurance. "He works long enough to get it again, but he picks companies each time that have seasonal layoffs."
"Jane loves the baby but doesn't seem to realize the responsibilities of motherhood," her stepmother says. "They take the child out at night to parties and movies in all kinds of weather. She eats when they eat, sleeps late."
Jane's explanation is that their surroundings are so dreary that she doesn't want to see them. She closes her eyes to reality.

"When you get in a rut like this, there doesn't seem to be any way out," she says, "sometimes I pretend that it isn't really happening this way. But I'm young, so maybe some day we'll have what we want."
Not all teen-age marriages work out this way. But when young people are as immature as Jane and Johnny, early marriage is likely to be a mistake.

Tip For Hikers

Those experienced outdoorsmen in the Appalachian Trail Conference recommend wearing wool socks, because wool both absorbs excessive moisture and reduces friction—two major foot problems for hikers.
They advise carrying enough pairs for plenty of changes—and washing soiled socks in soap or detergent suds each night.

Hose Sponge

A synthetic sponge which screws on to a garden hose makes it easier than ever to suds your car, boat, windows, lawn furniture, garden equipment, and many other outdoor items.
Besides saving the effort of hauling pails of water, this inexpensive sponge lets you stop and start the water flow automatically by fingertip touch on its valve.

Dr. Green Is Pickwick Speaker

Dr. C. Sylvester Green, Executive Director of the Pitt County Development Commission, gave an informative talk Tuesday afternoon to members of the Pickwick Book Club.
Preceding the program, the hostess, Mrs. David J. Whichard, assisted by little Jordy Whichard, served fudge cake with whipped cream and a fruit punch to the members and guests. Dr. and Mrs. Green, Mrs. J. B. Spilman, Mrs. N. O. VanNortwick, Mrs. Thomas Money, and Mrs. J. B. Spilman Jr.

In explaining the intricacies of the Development Commission, Dr. Green said that the purpose of the Commission was designed to improve the educational and cultural life of the community and to enhance the social and economic value of the community.

Dr. Green gave 13 points as a criteria for an area to be selected as a location for a new industry. They are:

- Nearness to raw materials and markets, availability of suppliers and subcontractors, trained labor, adequate supplies of utilities, waste disposal, adequate transportation, plant sites, experiences of industries already located, tax situation, local attitudes relative to labor and labor organizations, policies and practices of companies, and local co-operation in providing needed information, livability of community in relation to housing and recreation, schools and churches, and tone of local politics.

A question and answer period followed with members being enlightened on how Greenville and Pitt County rated on these points. Members were reminded to vote for the bond issue on a Trade Education Center.

Following the program Mrs. Harry Allen, president, conducted a short business session. Members voted to send a contribution to the Greenville P-T-A. for the summer kindergarten program.

Don't those three words really carry the full meaning of Mother's Day? Month in, month out, Mom gives a full share of love and devotion. Takes the time and effort to turn her affection into reality. Maybe she'd rather go to a show than wash dishes, rather read a good book than dust. But she doesn't.
So why not put a little give and take into Mother's Day yourself?
First, take plenty of pictures of her. Not only Mom in the kitchen to take pictures indoors or out, black-and-white or color, using popular 127 film. Mom just looks through the eye-level viewfinder, shoots—and she's got a picture. She'll like the attractive two-tone styling of the camera, too.

Now Teen-Agers Go To Europe Patrick-Tripp Speak Vows

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Time was when teen-agers could see Europe only through history books, unless they were well-heeled. But in recent years summer student tours have made it possible for thousands of young people to see Europe on a budget. Baby sitting earnings can do it. Should you feel guilty though, if you don't spend the entire time abroad soaking up culture? It's a thought that bothers many girls, and one of the best known travel advisers to young girls, Lucie Lee Kinsolving, answers the question:

"American girls are early for fun and late for cultural activities when we go on tour. But why not? You can't see a city in a museum, anyway. I give my culture tour in the morning, and the girls have the rest of the day to do as they please," she explains.

Guide Doesn't Overprotect
World-traveling Miss Lucie, as she is known to the teen-agers she has accompanied abroad for 25 years, was born in Brazil, the daughter of an Episcopalian bishop. She got used to travel early—on muleback to the missions with her father. She has worked with Dr. Grenfeld's mission for fishermen in Labrador. In between summer tours for the House of Travel, she teaches nursing arts and heads up 400 volunteers at a New York hospital.

"She isn't overprotective of the 16 to 20 teen-agers she accompanies on tour, but she knows the pitfalls as well as the pleasures of travel. Here are some pointers:

"It is best that girls go off in fours to see a city when not accompanied by their tour leader. "American girls have good table manners and try to be courteous. But they are too NOISY. European men do not understand this freedom. They think if has other meanings.

"Our girls are too casual. Europeans do not understand our relaxed manners: why we say 'hi' when they bow.

"Some customs are bothersome, so it is best not to walk alone. Italian men pinch girls even on the street, and they do not understand we resent it."

A bird's-eye view of Europe is best on the first trip, she explains. "But you should consider the countries you would enjoy seeing, if you'd invest your money wisely," she says.

What They Bring Back
If you have a little money to spend after your tour fees are paid, better prepare Mom for the worst, Miss Lucie says.

"A typical American girl buys WILD clothes when she goes abroad. She'll bring back tyrolean and gondoler hats, gay colored dirtds. One girl tried to bring a lemming home from Norway. She'd named it after a prince she met abroad. Another girl pleaded to bring home a lawn."

Does she approve of dates? "Why not, if the young man is known to the tour leader," she says. "and even then, he will no doubt try to impress my old gray head with his genuine intentions, like 'could you suggest something lovely that I can buy for my sister?'"

Flirting Doesn't Hurt
One of her girls had a tendency to be a little too romantic, she says. When reminded that she had said she was in love with four different men on the trip, she explained that "to love a man for two weeks is a long time."

"That these harmless flirtations didn't scar her permanently," Miss Lucie emphasizes, "is evident in her happy marriage and six children."

'Apron Squad'
Though flowers and candy are lovely to receive, an incapacitated homemaker will appreciate even more such practical gifts as prepared food which is ready to serve, and housekeeping assistance.

"That's why a very understanding English vicar has formed an 'apron squad' which helps sick parishioners by doing their laundry, washing their dishes, and cleaning their houses.

Marshmallows kept in the bread box will stay fresh for a long time because they absorb moisture from the bread.

John Clark Is Chicora Speaker

The Chicora Book Club met in the garden of Mrs. Charles White with Mrs. Charles White, Jr. as hostess Tuesday afternoon. Guests were Mrs. Robert Abbott, Mrs. David Evans, Jr., Mrs. Paul Reinarta, Jr., Mrs. Ed Vaughn, Mrs. Guy Smith, Jr., and Miss Lou Cheatham.

The speaker for the afternoon was Mr. John Clark, Jr. who spoke on local television station and his experiences in the diplomatic courier service. While on the first topic he read several humorous letters which viewers had written to the television station. To the question of why some T.V. "Specials" are not carried, he replied that either clients do not order them or the sponsors do not "buy" the area. Talking briefly about his experiences in the diplomatic courier service, he said that although it appears interesting and glamorous, actually it is a "dead street".

Assisted by her mother, Mrs. John Adams, Mrs. White served refreshments on the lawn. Then Mrs. Clarence Tugwell, president, called the business meeting to order. Mrs. John Farley, president elect, read a list of the newly appointed committee chairmen: social chairman, Mrs. John Messick; scrapbook chair: an, Mrs. George Coffman; special projects chairman, Mrs. Luther Lanier. A report of the program for the coming year was given by Mrs. Roger Mann, Program chairman. The meeting was adjourned.

There Must Be Job Opportunities

High schools throughout Eastern North Carolina will be graduating youngsters by the hundreds in the next few weeks, and each of the young graduates will receive sound counselling and good advice in commencement speeches and from their older friends.

There may be a ready answer for one of the foremost questions in the minds of many of these youngsters who do not plan to go to college after they finish high school.

That question is: where do I get a job? North Carolina, and particularly the Eastern section of the state, for many years have been exporting a good many of its young high school graduates to other sections because of the lack of job opportunities for these youngsters. From each high school graduating class in North Carolina this year there will be a number of boys and girls who will be looking for jobs rather than looking forward to going to college in the fall.

Some of them will be fortunate enough to find the kind of job they want in their own communities. Others will be fortunate enough to find a job at home.

Impediments To Early Adjourning

By LYNN NISBET
ADJOURNMENT? — As the 1961 General Assembly nears the end of its 13th full week, more than three months from convening date, and full grown leaves and rising thermometers herald the approach of summer, members are turning their thoughts to adjournment. The tentative date of June 15 may be regarded more as wishful thinking than genuine hope.

The 1959 session convened on February 4 and adjourned on June 20. The current session convened on February 8, four days later than its predecessor, and is not as far along with its big job as was the previous session at comparable time.

Adjournment on June 20 two years ago was made possible by the debacle in the prolonged constitutional revision fight, which included court reform and senatorial redistricting. These controversial issues were separated this time, and a modified compromise court reform bill has been enacted.

Legislative apportionment is further complicated this year by reason of necessity for congressional redistricting. There is presently little prospect of early agreement on this matter. The difference between the issue of redistricting now and court reform two years ago is that this one must be settled before 1962 — or everyone of the state's eleven representatives in the Congress will have to run in a state-wide primary and election.

Solution cannot be decided unless it should be postponed, carry it over for consideration at a special session later in the year. There are several reasons why an extra session might be desirable for this purpose — as well as to consider a bond issue for State aid in school building construction.

FEDERAL — The necessity for a school building and issue depends upon what the Congress may do with respect to Federal aid for education. And, the redistricting problem might be solved if the Congress — a very big if — should enlarge membership of the national House of Representatives to the extent that North Carolina might not have to reduce its contingent. Other advantages for considering redistricting in an extra session are that it would remove the issue from influence of ill-will generated over finances and similar programs, and afford time for undivided attention.

MONEY, TOO — Another impediment to early adjournment is the status of the money bills. On the surface, these bills appear to be in good shape. The joint appropriations subcommittee has voted to go along all the way — or almost all the way — with Governor Sanford's program for even though it may not be exactly the kind of employment they had in mind. Many others, however, will find it necessary to go to other towns or other sections in quest of employment.

Most communities in Eastern Carolina recognize the existence of this problem. Some of these have taken positive steps to create better employment opportunities for young people. In most cases, however, the community has largely failed to provide job opportunities in sufficient numbers for the youngsters who are seeking permanent employment each year.

The fact that such a situation exists over a broad area of North Carolina emphasizes the fact this section needs to give greater attention to its economic development . . . to the attraction of industries which provide job opportunities, to the creation of more home-grown business which will offer chances for youngsters to remain in their native communities to earn a living for themselves and for the families they will eventually have.

The greatest asset any community, or section has is its young people. The communities of Eastern North Carolina have long since recognized the value of providing these youngsters with good basic educations in the public schools. They should also recognize the value of providing sufficient job opportunities to enable these youngsters to help develop the economic potential of the area once their school days are over.

Huge U.S. Gamble Is Seemingly Paying Off

The open manner in which the United States conducted its first manned space flight obviously is of grave concern to the Soviets even though their propagandists have gone to great lengths to belittle the achievement.

This is indicated by the fact that just this week the Soviets made a particular point of asserting that their first manned space flight was not cloaked in secrecy. Certainly their assertion that such was the case does not remove the fact that the flight was not acknowledged by Moscow until after its completion, and even then there was some question of exactly when and where the flight took place.

It appears clear that the public manner in which the U.S. test was conducted has put the Soviet propagandists on the defensive. And this in turn suggests that Soviet leaders may be fearful that the manner in which the U.S. conducted its test may have greater impact around the world than the more advanced feat which the Soviets accomplished some 23 days prior to Cmdr. Shepard's flight.

The United States took a huge gamble with its first manned space flight, but it seems clear that the gamble has paid off in boosting American prestige. It has paid off to the extent that the Soviets are now trying to create the impression that their manned space flight was carried out in full view of the world, just as the U.S. flight was.

Propaganda, Or Nat'l Security?

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara seems to be getting his concern for security confused with propaganda.

McNamara, as civilian head of the armed forces, is wrestling with the same dual responsibility which beset his predecessor in the Eisenhower administration. How to keep the country as fully informed as possible without revealing vital military secrets to the Russians.

But a defense secretary also has a third responsibility: Not to leak the public.

Last April McNamara, behind closed doors, testified before the Senate Armed Services Committee. He spoke in great detail on the problems from a prepared statement.

His security experts in the Pentagon made public some parts of it after culling out orders which they thought should not be revealed.

Then when he appeared before the committee he made additional statements under questioning. Wednesday the committee released some of the statements.

They showed: McNamara experts of it after culling out or pressed shock that his security experts had released so much of his original testimony.

"It seems to me," he said, "that we were releasing far more information than would have been appropriate, considering the damaging effect of our security from the release of the information that was proposed."

In asking security experts' reasons for releasing parts of his testimony which he thought should be kept secret, McNamara said he found that many of the items previously had been discussed in public.

"Why," McNamara asked the committee, "should we tell our faith often takes the form of a feeling that God is remote, unknowable, beyond our power to comprehend — an aloof, distant deity."

But Jesus Himself, the Son of God, has told us that this is not so. Through Jesus we can know God, even as we can often recognize a father if we know his son. Jesus has promised us this: "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father."

The record of Jesus' life on earth is before us all: a life of teaching, healing, helping, and saving — a record of loving kindness to men. It is this loving Son who said, "Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me."

Now, since this event, whenever I see the son, I think of his father, and recall how much alike they are. And I think also of how important that father-son relationship is to all Christians. One common weakness in

One Such Is Sufficient

Neither thumb is green. And for those inclined to think the writer has ten thumbs, none is green.

Dirty, perhaps . . . but not green. Two weeks ago, maybe longer, on the basis of planting two short rows of asparagus seed I dreamed of becoming the Asparagus King within our urban borders; and perhaps of all the county. (One meets few people in a lifetime who plant asparagus.)

But the days have passed with no sprouts sprouting . . . and oh, how those rows have been watched!

Not knowing anything about asparagus (is the plural "asparagi"?) except that it pleases the tastebuds, is a handicap, too.

One might assume two weeks is ample time for a seed to decide life was worth living, send out roots and a tender tendrill to peek at the outside world. Beans do. Squash do. But asparagus? To them was given a choice spot of good black earth, well worked, spaded, raked. My unprofessional eye told me the patch was capable of growing anything. Weeds and grass seed to flourish there.

Maybe they are sensitive, shy, reluctant. But I give my asparagus (asparagi?) another week before calling the whole thing off and sow grass seed. I can always use grass.

It gets pretty discouraging to have someone ask "and what do you have planted in that bed?" and on reciting the story of fading hopes to hear consoling comments, or worse, ill-concealed boasting of their radishes.

But all is not gloom on the growing front.

If my efforts toward pleasing the inner man come to naught, the Missus is scoring big in another department . . . roses.

In the early days of spring-time she was wont to bring home (with the groceries) an occasional rose bush, and cheerfully directed its setting out in accord with some undisclosed plan she had in mind.

This week brought forth the first few blooms; all perfect, and of a very dark red rose with the fragrance of a rose. (Blooms so beautiful, reeking with dusts and sprays are disenchanted, aren't they?)

There are other buds soon to open.

Years ago we tried roses, but a late and unexpected freeze spoiled an ambitious planting. Now this small success has stirred talk of more and more.

Things grow for the Missus. So maybe it's just as well there is no surfeit of green thumbs in any family. One can get too much of a good thing . . . like rain, even.

Survey After Survey

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I don't know whether you like to fill in a lot of questionnaires, but I am not a character in the United States Treasury as a self-employed person. Whenever I have to employ someone I find that I am often asked to pay not for ability but for time which is worthless. I recall an ancient ditty, sung perhaps by the Negro Bert Williams in my childhood, which contained the lines:

If time was money
I'd be a millionaire
I've got time, honey
And lots of it to spare.
The trouble with most folks these days is that they have too much time and want to be paid for it. In fact, some people want to be paid for being alive which is no fault of mine and when I have to pay taxes to keep them going, I feel like a philanthropist, except I can't afford it.

What the self-employed businessman suffers from most is questionnaires, forms and all sorts of papers he has to make out to keep the bureaucracy going. The bureaucrats dislike the self-employed small businessman and load him down with all kinds of bookkeeping and paper work which has no value and could be done once a year or maybe once in a lifetime. For the bureaucrats it is easier to deal with a big corporation which can afford to hire a mass of clerks and a battery of computers to do all the work required to keep the bureaucrats at work.

A friend of mine sent me a copy of a letter which he had sent to the New York Telephone Company. Apparently the FCC wants to make a survey of telephone services. Of course, they can get all the information they want from the Telephone Company. All they need to do is to look at their various contracts for services. But that is too easy. What fun would there be in being an inspector if nobody was bothered?

But my friend is a tough guy. He had once been a fighter; has an excellent war record; is still an excellent wrestler and he hates bureaucrats. So he declined to be pleasant to a survey team which did not throw the team out of the window or submit them to judo or fence with them. He merely told them to go to the Devil which is a good place for survey teams to go. He wrote a letter to the Telephone Company which contains these two paragraphs:

"If, as explained to me by the survey team which came during a very busy office hour period, they picked this office by lot or chance, then there are hundreds of thousands of other offices available to study. I would suggest, however, that by arrangement, the surveys or inventories be done at night or on holidays so as not to cost the subscriber valuable time."

"I belong to the vast majority of small businessmen who desire to be left alone in accordance with the free enterprise system and do not want controls, inspections, surveys, inventories or studies, perhaps at my expense (through taxes) by the federal or state government."

Oh! Dear me! Why not live and let live? The bureaucrats need something to do, particularly in the busy which fears to do its principal business which is to supervise radio and television. If they monkey too much with that, how will they get jobs after they leave low-paid government service? We should be fair and let them occupy themselves counting telephones discovering why it is impossible to see the Astronaut do anything without constant being interrupted by some dames singing dull and tiresome jingles which we have heard time and time again. The FCC does not care about this."

Bureaucracy can become a disease because these people need something to do, it is like cutting out paper dolls or building houses of tooth-picks. Maybe it is cheaper at that, because if we fire bureaucrats, we increase unemployment and taxes will be higher. If the bureaucrats would twiddle their (Continued on Page 5)

To the Editor:

The citizens of North Carolina recently witnessed an extraordinary political battle which took place in Greenville. Astonishing amounts of energy and money were poured into an effort to promote a program of neighborhood conservation.

Through the widespread use of advertising during the campaign the people of Greenville became thoroughly acquainted with the broad and noble aims of neighborhood conservation. The city-wide improvements which can be brought about by a neighborhood conservation program are commendable aims for any community. It would seem safe to assume that practically all citizens within a community would agree that such improvement and progress are desirable goals.

In the recent referendum which was held in Greenville a program of urban renewal won approval from a majority of the voters. The impression has been created, however, that acceptance of urban renewal by a majority of the voters indicates at the same time, disapproval of neighborhood conservation by a majority of the voters. This is indeed, extremely puzzling. It does not seem logical to assume that the majority of the citizens of Greenville were indicating an objection to the goals of neighborhood conservation by accepting urban renewal. On the contrary, the voters' acceptance of urban renewal in the face of strong and organized opposition would seem to indicate their very deep desires to improve Greenville.

I am not alone in my fervent hope that the strong body of loyal citizens who have recently been so outspoken in their promotion of neighborhood conservation, will not give up the fight for achievement of their high ideals. Many of us hope that a relatively small section of Greenville, a strong neighborhood conservation program will, at the same time, be employed to upgrade the entire city. We also hope that the recent strong proponents of neighborhood conservation will continue to direct their prodigious pre-election amounts of energy and money toward future improvements in keeping with the fine goals of neighborhood conservation. We feel that the people of Greenville have evidenced their willingness to stand firmly behind these dedicated citizens should they choose to prove their sincerity by continuing their struggle for community improvement.

Pattern Of Gyms To Beware Of

By ELMER ROESSNER
Writing an article on spring gyms yesterday was interrupted by the door chiming. At the door was a man of about 30, about five feet six, with scrawny eyebrows, a pen-line moustache and a pointed chin. He wore a black suit flecked with grey; his hair was straight and black; he had long earlobes and had a birthmark on his left cheek. He spoke with a southern European accent which I'd better not specify lest I, too, become untouchable.

I noted these things carefully because I intend to report them to the Better Business Bureau. His company, he said, was introducing a new kind of siding in the neighborhood and wanted to have a job to show off. It would be happy to do my house free.

"Free?" I asked.
FREE, PLUS A PROFIT
Well, he said, it's this way. The company charges you $300, but you get back $25 for every sale it makes in the neighborhood, and so you could actually have a free job and make a couple of hundred dollars on top of that.

"Give me a contract like that and I'll sign it," I said.

He gave me a paper. He became nervous and perspired; this sale was becoming too easy.

"This is simply a promissory note you can discount at any bank," I said. "It says nothing here about $25 commissions, or any guarantee that you'll try to make any more sales." I said, "Wrong paper," he said. "I'll be back to the office and get the right one."

He hasn't come back nor will he. That's the pattern of a multitude of gyms today. New siding, new roof jobs, new painting and weatherproofing are offered on these terms, but the agreements, if they do say anything about commissions, offer no guarantees that any effort will be made to make more sales.

Furthermore, the agreements are negotiable. The gym doesn't have to put up one siding before he can sell the contract to a bank and the gull has to pay it out. The law doesn't care whether he got anything for his signature.

SEE YOUR LAWYER
To save money: never sign a contract of this kind without a lawyer's advice. Sure, he may charge you $25 or more. But that may be only 1 per cent of the money he saves you. And if the contract is really for a free job — mirabile dictu! — you can well afford the fee.

Other watch outs:
Contests: There are far more contests than the sleazy ones for lost. A familiar one is the phony radio contest. The phone rings and a voice asks if you can identify a song in the station MUMBL contest. You can; it's "Yankee Doodle." But whether you give that answer or say, "Massa's in de Col' Col' Grown," you get a check-like thing in the mail next day. It's a slip of paper saying it's good for $50 toward a bedroom set, a piano, a washer or an electric churn at a certain store — and so it is, because the prices have been raised $50 per item. Don't try to use the "check." Mail it to your Better Business Bureau with a statement of circumstances.

A variation of this contest idea: A doorstep salesman invites you to pick one out of 50 envelopes. You do, and the one you pick contains a similar check. You've won — and if you believe you've won, you've lost.

To save money: laugh at these contest mongers.

Aluminum windows: It's strange that aluminum screens and windows figure in so many sly swindles. They are fine products, which may be the reason the gypsters use them so often.

There are many variations. Sometimes aluminum windows are the bait in the "show case" racket described at the start of this article.

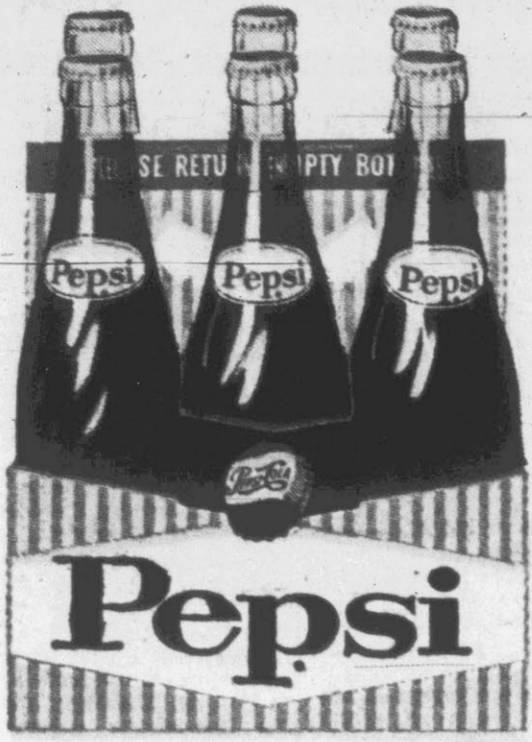

In another variation, the salesman offers a complete set at a high price; when the householders balk, the salesman cuts the price way down if the home owner will install them himself. If the latter agrees, when the windows arrive they do not fit and he has to pay double the amount to get correct sizes.

Another device is to offer windows at very low prices. The "order" the buyer signs is actually a promissory note that can be discounted at the local bank before any window is installed.

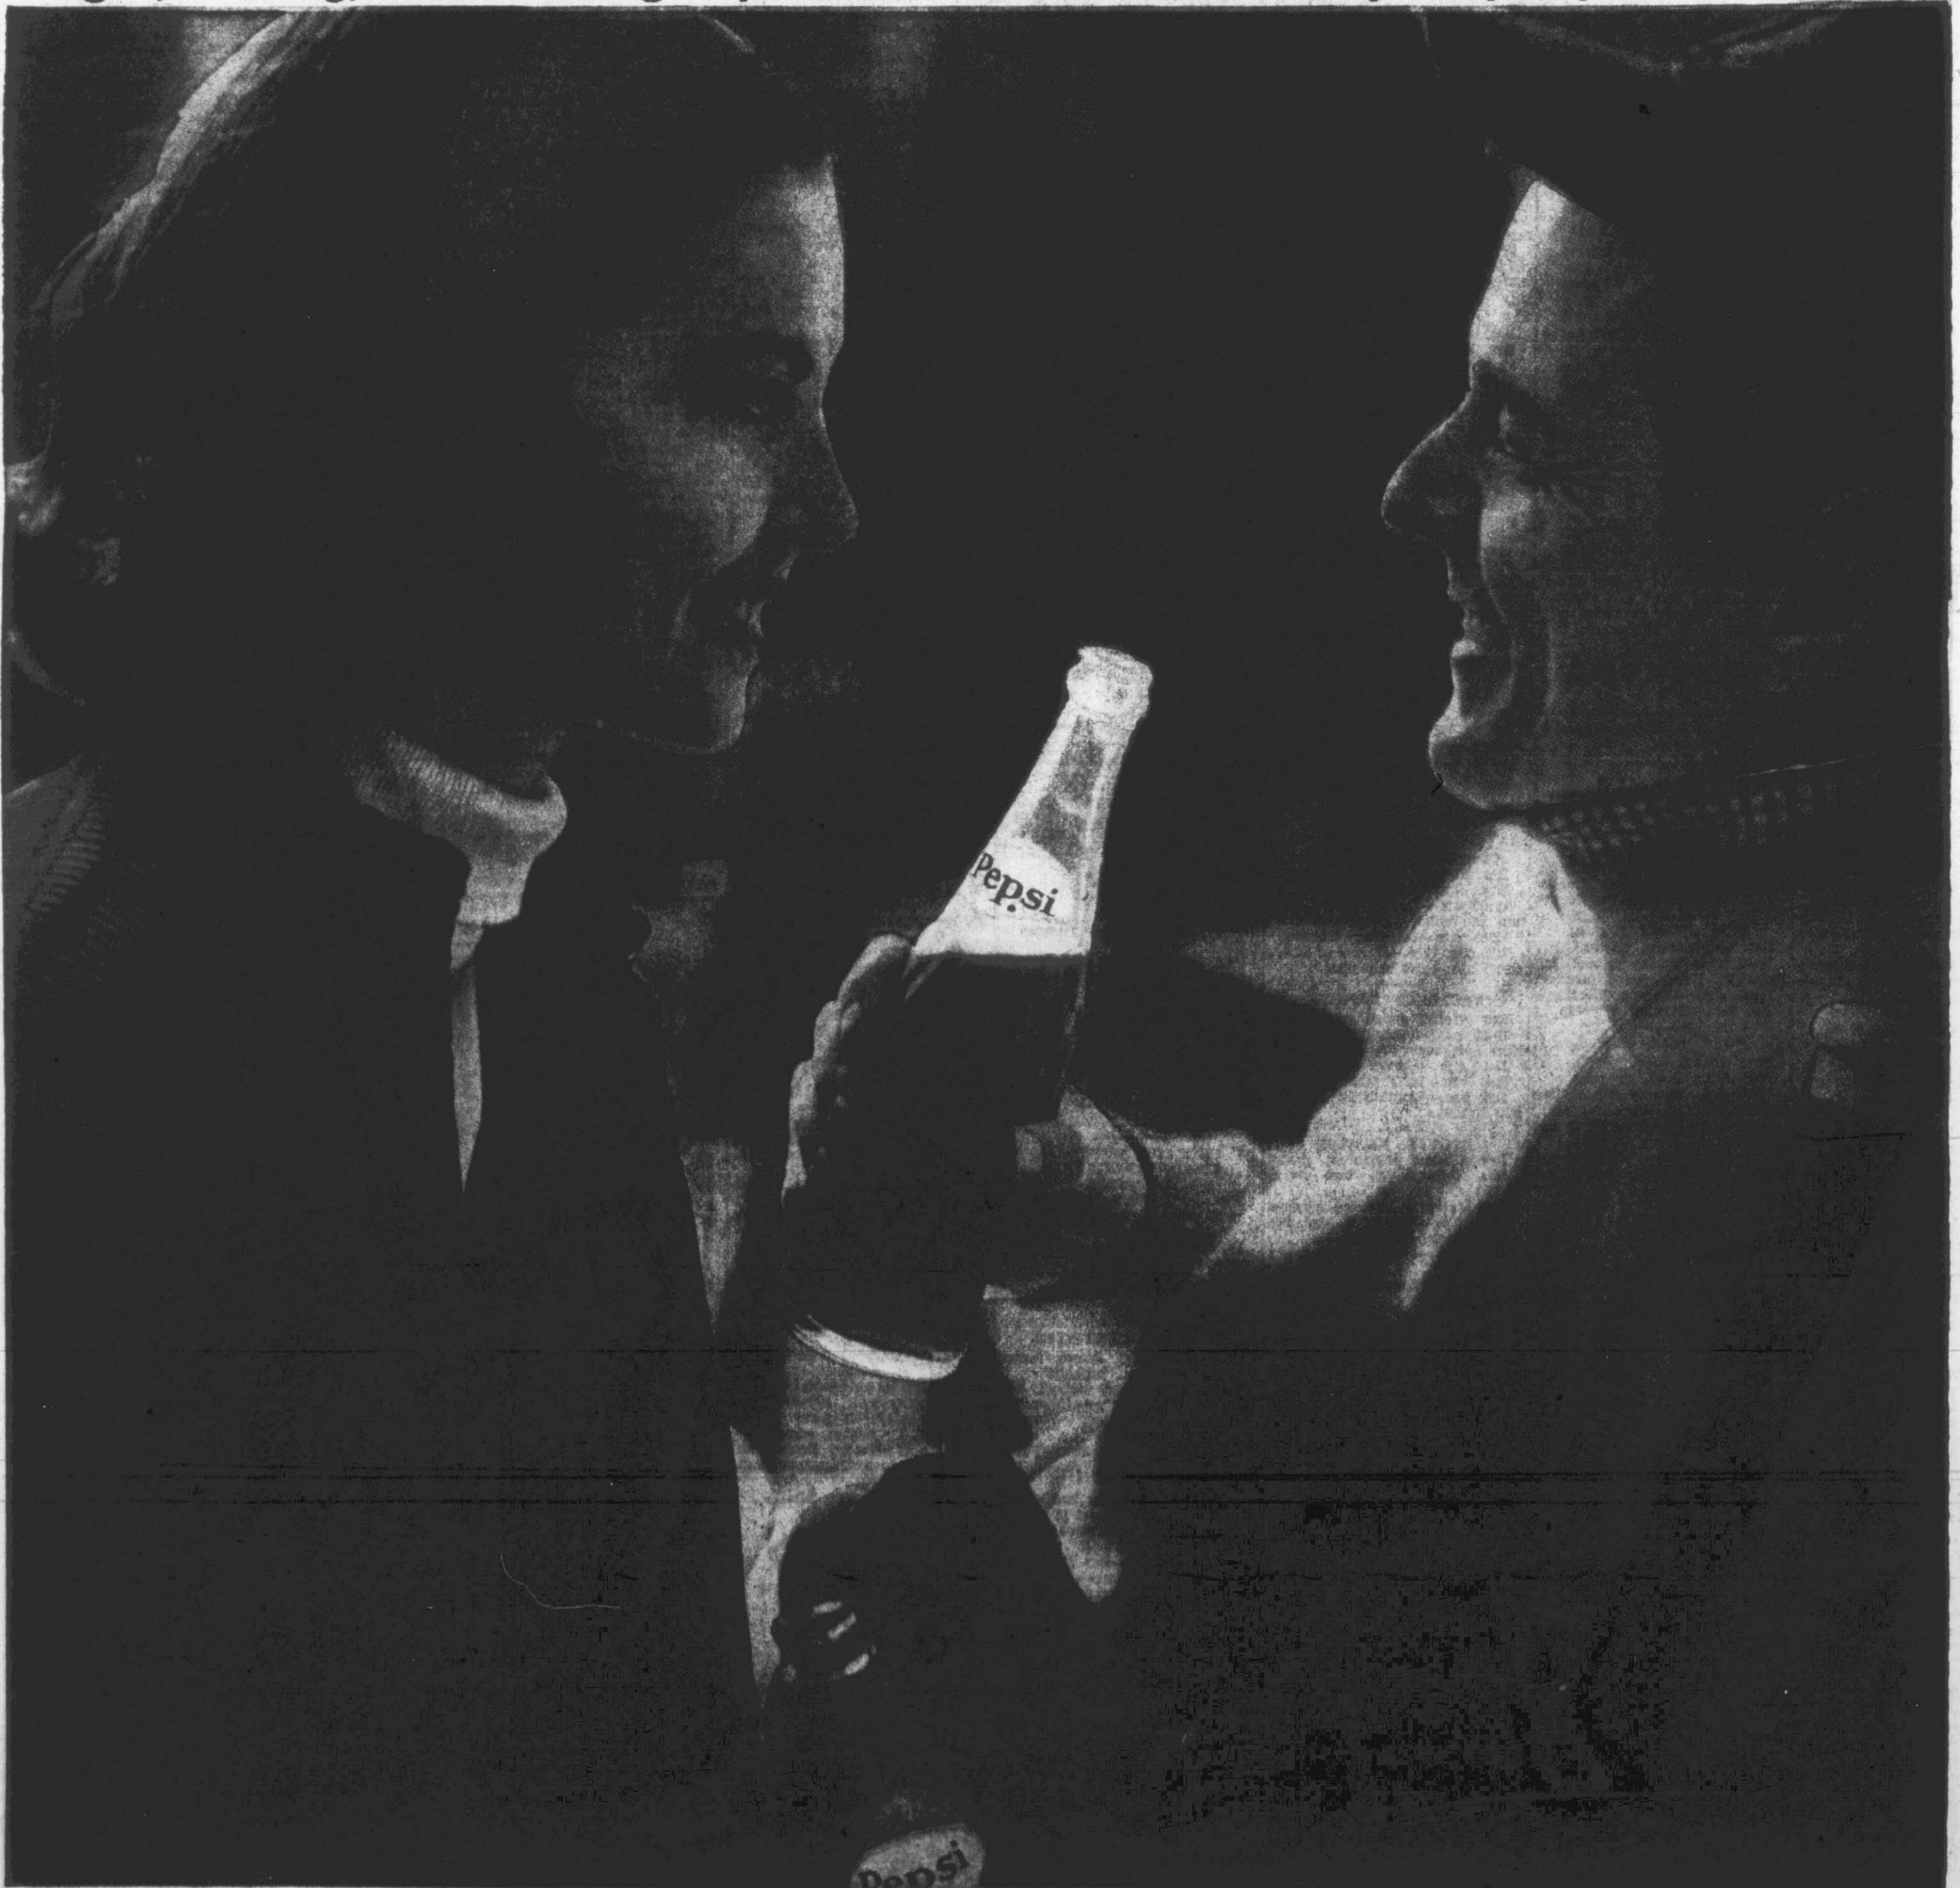

To save money: deal only with established local companies. But the worst racket of all is the home-improvement gyp. The sucker can lose his home, his job, his reputation. About that tomorrow.

Two Grand Slammers

Jim Gentile, Baltimore Orioles first baseman, is all smiles at the Twin Cities as he indicates with his fingers the nine runs batted in which he got against the Minnesota Twins. Gentile set a major league record with consecutive grand slam homers in his first two times at bat. He got eight rbi's with his homers and got another later in the game. Baltimore won 13-5. No Longer Tepid Tigers Embarking On Tour; Pennant Potential Test

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Detroit's no longer tepid Tigers, who have won eight out of nine on the road so far, start an 18-game tour with a 2½-game lead in the American League race tonight when they open a four-game series at New York against the second place Yankees.

If this grand circuit trip through the East and the Midlands en route to the West Coast is to test Detroit's pennant potential, an ingredient the Tigers haven't made pay off since 1945, they couldn't have picked a better place to start. The defending champion Yankees have won six in a row at home since an opening defeat by Minnesota.

In the National League, where

San Francisco leads Los Angeles by one game, the Giants open a brief home stand against Milwaukee and southpaw Warren Spahn. The last time Spahn (3-2) faced the Giants he pitched a no-hitter. Right-hander Sad Sam Jones (3-1) goes for San Francisco.

Right-hander Frank Lary (4-1) is manager Bob Scheffing's starting choice against the Yankees and right-hander Art Ditmar (2-1) Lary's magic against New York set up Detroit's seventh defeat in 25 games Thursday, however. Scheffing held back his ace, giving bullpen man Bill Fischer.

Lary's regular place in the rotation, and Washington belted the Tigers 9-4.

Baltimore got past Minnesota 2-1 in the only other game scheduled in the majors.

The Senators busted loose for six runs in the fifth inning at Detroit with Billy Klaus socking the second grand slam home run of his career. Gene Woodling and Dale Long also homered for the Senators.

Baltimore broke up a 2-2 tie at Minnesota with a five-run fifth, getting three on Jim Gentile's double. But it was a bases-loaded walk by reliever Paul Giel in the eighth that gave the Orioles the run they needed. Camilo Pascual (2-3) lost his third in a row. Steve Barber (4-2) won it, with relief help from Hoyt Wilhelm. Don Mincher homered for the Twins.

The Tigers, with No. 2 hitter Al Kaline (.333) out because of a pulled leg muscle Thursday have lost only two of their last nine games going into Yankee Stadium. They split a two-game series with the Yankees at Detroit, when New York halted the Tigers' winning string at eight games.

The Yankees are back from a 6-4 road trip. They lost three of their last four, and tumbled out of a first place tie with Detroit, but picked up bench strength in Bob Cerv and bullpen help in Tex Clevenger by way of a trade with the Los Angeles Angels.

Burlington Tops Greensboro 3-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Outstanding pitching highlighted games in the Carolina League Thursday night.

Three Burlington pitchers combined to hurl a two-hitter as the Indians defeated Greensboro 3-1 at Greensboro. Dick Beres, Bob Cashburn and Al Eisele put together the pitching effort.

Beres was touched for two hits in six innings. Cashburn, who got credit for the victory, hurled one inning, with Eisele completing the final two innings.

Burlington got only four hits off Lou Konyha in 7 2-3 innings. Neil Sumner and Benny de LaCruz finished up with a hitless effort.

Winston-Salem blanked the Raleigh Caps 7-0 at Winston-Salem behind the six-hit pitching of Wilbur Wood. The Red Sox exploded for four runs in the fifth and added three more in the seventh.

Bob Paffell gave up six hits in pitching the Durham Bulls to a 6-3 victory over Wilson at Durham. Durham, trailing 3-0 put across four runs in the fourth and added one each in the sixth and seventh.

Tonight's games: Winston-Salem at Wilson. Burlington at Raleigh and Greensboro at Durham.

Top Scorer Is Found Ineligible

GREENSBORO (AP) — The North State Conference's leading basketball scorer last season, S. J. (Jug) Irvin of Elon, has been ruled ineligible.

Dr. C. R. Hinshaw of High Point, conference commissioner, said the ruling Thursday was based on evidence that Irvin was not graduated from Campbellville (Ky.) Junior College before transferring to Elon. The conference requires that a junior college transfer be a graduate.

Irvin scored 605 points last season, an average of 29.9 a game.

'Sure' Winners

DURHAM (AP)—The Atlantic Coast Conference track meet opens here today and the question is not will Maryland win, but by how much?

The Terps will be after their sixth straight title. Duke, South Carolina and North Carolina likely will battle it out for second place.

Maryland is favored in 10 of the 15 events and will have four defending champions in five events—Bill Johnson in the high and low hurdles, Nick Kovalakides in the javelin, Dick Estes in the high jump and Jonas Speigel in the 100.

A main threat to Kovalakides in the shot is Dick Gesswein who will attempt to break the conference mark of 54-2. Gesswein also is a strong pick in the discus.

Preliminaries were scheduled today with finals Saturday.

Ken Nagle Rocks Ft. Worth Course With 5 Under Par

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Mild-mannered Ken Nagle, in the midst of a money-winning drought, sported a substantial lead today as a star-studded field teed off in the second round of the $40,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

The jovial Australian rocked the challenging course on its heels Thursday with a sizzling five-under par 65 highlighted by a hole-in-one on the par 3 13th.

The sensational round left Nagle, 40, three shots ahead of veterans Arnold Palmer and Ben Hogan and National Amateur champion Deane Beman at 68. Hogan's two-under-par score opened his bid for a sixth, Colonial championship, worth $7,000 this year.

Another trio of veterans was grouped at 69, including former champion Mike Souchak, of Grosinger, N.Y., who was deadlocked with Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., and Billy Casper of Apple Valley, Calif.

Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla., was a stroke ahead of 11 players bunched at 71.

Nagle, who slapped a 2-iron in the 195-year-old 13th hole, was all smiles as he lerned his 65 the most sensational round of his career. The ace was the first in the 15-year history of the 72-hole tournament.

Player, the tour's leading money winner with $47,796.58 of official earnings, was in and out of traps all day and wound up nine shots back at 74.

Boros, the defending champion here, had an even more dismal day. After a birdie on the first hole, he went seven shots over par on the next five holes and eventually limped in with a 78.

Palmer, second among the gold winners with $38,385, was extremely pleased with his game after a miserable showing in the Tournament of Champions last week at Las Vegas.

He attributed a change in grip and a keener putting eye to his vast improvement.

Folley KO'd By New Contender

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Argentina's newest boxing hero, Alejandro Lavorante, spectacular knockout conqueror of third-ranked heavyweight Zora Folley, set his sight on a single target today.

As interpreted by his American manager, Pinky George, Lavorante said:

"We want Floyd Patterson."

It was only two minutes after the handsome 24-year-old Argentine had executed Folley in 35 seconds of the seventh round Thursday night, that George Parnassus had an announcement:

"I wired Patterson $350,000 to meet the winner of this fight. I am upping it to a minimum of $500,000 to meet Lavorante for the title here."

Deep in the cubicles of the Olympic Auditorium, a disconsolate Folley from Chandler, Ariz., had little to say. It was his second knockout loss in a row. Sonny Liston stopped him in three rounds several months ago.

Does Lavorante hit as hard as Liston?

"I wouldn't compare them," said Folley. He left it unclear but it appeared that he didn't want to downgrade Alejandro's hitting power.

Lavorante weighed 206 and Folley 200.

Represented On All-Star Squad

ROCKY MOUNT—Prep baseball stars from Vanceboro and Robersonville were included on a list of 25 high school players comprising the East All-Star squad, according to an announcement here today.

First baseman Ronnie Stephenson for the Robersonville Rams, and Vanceboro's ace pitcher Keith Sawyer were among those selected for the list.

Representing the Northeastern Conference in the all star squad are Amos Phillips of New Bern and Sidney Edwards of Roanoke Rapids. Phillips is an outfielder and Edwards handles the catcher's mit.

Also included in the group is Williamston hurler Billy Wynn.

Would Legalize Sports Practices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., has introduced a bill to legalize many present practices of professional football, baseball, hockey and basketball.

The measure, introduced Thursday, would declare the professional sports subject to antitrust laws but would not effect such established customs as player draft, assignment of contracts and territorial agreements.

Hart, a former director of the professional Detroit Lions football team and Detroit Tigers baseball team, said the bill was designed to end the possibility that these practices might be declared in violation of the antitrust laws.

Best Big Ten scrimmage run of 1960 was turned in by Iowa's Larry Ferguson against Ohio State. He went 91 yards.

Tar Heels Host Virginia Today In Vital Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Conference-leading North Carolina is host to seventh-place Virginia today for a doubleheader that could mean a lot to the title chances of North Carolina and Duke... and Wake Forest.

The Tar Heels, 1960 ACC baseball champions, take a 9-2 record into the doubleheader and their only other conference game remaining is next week with Wake Forest.

Duke, 10-3, has closed out its conference schedule except for a rain-out meeting with Virginia which hasn't yet been rescheduled.

First Day Sees 3 Top-Seeded Netters Fall

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The first day's action cut three of the top seeded players from the Atlantic Coast Conference Tennis Tournament in the two opening rounds.

Victims of the upsets were Virginia's Bruce Farrell, seeded No. 5, who fell to teammate Joe Scolnick; South Carolina's Bob Daniel, No. 6, a victim of Dud Felt; and N.C. State's Musher Saigal, defeated by Duke's Barkley French.

But the other five seeds came through in good form. Most impressive of the seeds was North Carolina's Bruce Sylvia, defending singles champ and No. 1 seed.

He dropped EKD Burbul in two love sets and then took Jim Hart of N.C. State 6-1, 6-1.

Other seeded players surviving the first two rounds were Dave Dickenson, Virginia, No. 2; Keith Stenceman, North Carolina, No. 3; Joe Gaston, Duke, No. 4; and Charles Shapiro, Maryland, No. 5.

The tournament continues today and Saturday.

Bill Mazeroski was the only second baseman to make more than 100 double plays in the National League last season. He was in on 127. Tony Taylor of the Phils was next with 87.

Speedway Luring 100,000 Crowd

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—A possibility of track records, two spectacular "rookies" and the constant threat of disaster will pull upwards of 100,000 speed buffs to the huge Indianapolis speedway Saturday for the opening session of time trials on the golden anniversary 500-mile race May 30.

It will be only the first of four qualifying days but the most popular because the faster driver-car combinations usually make the 10-mile runs as early as possible.

The first session also establishes the pole car, the inside starter in the three-car front row, regardless of later performances.

The 33 fastest qualifiers of 69 entrants will make up the 500 field.

They will be shooting at a record average of 149.056 miles an hour made last year by newcomer Jim Hurtubise of Lennox, Calif., who also set a one-lap record of 149.601. The entire 1960 field qualified at a record average of 144.070.

Jim Rathmann of Miami won last year's race with another record average of 138.767—illustrating the substantial difference between 10 miles and 500.

A rookie, the label attached to all newcomers to the Speedway regardless of other racing experience, has not won the Memorial Day classic since George Souders' 1927 victory.

It may be about time for another fresh face in the winners' circle and best prospects among the newcomers are Jack Brabham of Australia, world road racing champion the last two years, and Parnelli Jones of Torrance, Calif., champ of the Midwest high banks last year.

It's traditionally a Speedway veterans' race, however, and Saturday's main record challengers probably will be such old timers as Tony Bettenhausen, Tinley Park, Ill., who has been over 149 m.p.h. in practice; Jim Rathmann; Roger Ward of Indianapolis, the 1959 winner; Eddie Sachs, Center Valley, Pa.; A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., last year's USAC big car champion; Troy Ruttman, Dearborn, Mich., the youngest 500 winner in 1952 at the age of 22, and Don Branson, Champaign, Ill.

Record Menaced When He Runs

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Every time Dennis Johnson runs he has a chance to break the 13-year-old record in the 100-yard dash.

Saturday the fleet Jamaican from San Jose State College races over the same track where in 1948 Mel Patton of the University of Southern California established the oft-quoted 9.4-second standard for the century.

The hard packed clay of Ralcliffe Stadium has carried flying feet to 9.3 times on two other occasions in West Coast Relays. Leamon King of California did it in 1956 and Ray Norton of San Jose in 1959.

Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard's space flight.

Those are a few impressions gleaned from conversations with members of the United States men and women's basketball teams just returned from a tour of the Soviet Union.

The U.S. men won eight straight and the girls had a 4-4 record. Each team won another game in Stockholm on the way home.

"They seem to be improved, better than the team I played against in 1959," said Jim Francis, former Dartmouth ace who now plays with Akron, Ohio, of the NBL. "They are aggressive and strong rebounders."

"The fans treated us wonderfully well. We never were approached about our political views. They seemed to appreciate good basketball. Every game was a sellout except the ones we played in a big outdoor arena.

"We heard very little about the space shoot. It is difficult to get news over there. There were no details."

Coach Harley Redin of the girls' team, seven of whom played for him at Wayland Baptist College, Plainview, Tex., and won the AAU title, said the Soviet girls' team emphasized defense.

"They play man-to-man and switch," he said. "They wouldn't let you shoot but foul first. In international rules, just like boy's rules, nobody ever calls a foul on them. You just blast right over them. The men learned that quicker than the girls."

"We didn't run into any anti-American demonstrations. We were welcomed everywhere we went. We saw their spaceman at the first game in Moscow. He is a national hero with stamps commemorated to him, postcards and his picture on billboards."

All 12 members of the girls' team and their coach and chaperone returned Thursday night by plane. Five of the men, including All-America Jerry Lucas of Ohio State, plus their coach returned unexpectedly Wednesday night.

Five others were on the plane with the girls and two remained for further sightseeing in Stockholm.

No Nixon Limp, His Foot 'Asleep'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Richard M. Nixon limped off an airplane here Thursday and seemed surprised at reporters' inquiries.

"Limp? That's no limp. My foot fell asleep on the plane," smiled the former vice president. "But after the tournament, maybe I'd welcome a sore knee as an excuse."

He motored to Pebble Beach, where today he'll play in his first golf tournament, an invitational member-guest affair. He's paired with Charles de Young Thieriot, editor and publisher of the San Francisco Chronicle.

He has an 18 handicap.

Duke Golfers In Favorite Role

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Fifty-seven golfers from eight schools were scheduled to tee off today in the 8th annual Atlantic Coast Conference Golf tournament.

Duke, unbeaten in ACC dual meets and with seven lettermen back from last season, ruled a slight favorite for the team title.

Six golfers from each school will compete in the team division, but only the top four will count in the team scoring. All golfers, however, will be eligible for individual honors.

Eighteen holes of medal play will be held today and Saturday. This is the first time the tourney has been held outside of North Carolina.

Chemical "policeman" in today's Super Shell guards against gum-fouled carburetors —to give your car top performance

One special ingredient among the nine in today's Super Shell gasoline is a gum preventive.

Like a policeman dealing with a mob, it works to keep unstable elements from clotting together. Hence no gum problem. Result: top performance.

Imagine an ingredient so effective that only one thousandth of an ounce is enough to treat a gallon of gasoline.

This tiny drop is all today's Super Shell needs to stave off gum troubles that can hamper your car's performance.

Gum forms when even the purest gasolines are held in storage. Unstable elements in the fuel combine chemically with oxygen and with each other. The latter is what scientists call polymerization (a good thing if you want to make plastics, but not if you want top performance from your gasoline).

Shell tackles the situation with a special inhibitor that is designed to keep gum from forming.

Gum usually ends up on sensitive carburetor parts, where it can foul the automatic choke and raise hoh with a car's air-fuel mixture.

Too rich a mixture can waste gallons of gasoline. Too weak a mixture can burn valves. Either way, gum troubles cost money.

In extreme cases, gum can even stick your intake valves. This means a rough and noisy engine—lost power—and perhaps an expensive repair job.

To say that Super Shell's chemical "policeman" protects your pocketbook is an understatement.

How the "policeman" works Shell's special anti-gum ingredient is an oxidation inhibitor. It helps keep unstable elements in the gasoline from sticking together—just the way a skilled policeman prevents trouble by keeping a crowd from forming.

As a result your engine is cleaner—for maximum power, maximum mileage. All of which adds up to top performance.

This is just one of the special jobs done by the 9 ingredients in Super Shell to give your car top performance. You owe it to your car to learn what each of the others can do for you, too.

#2 is TCP for power, mileage and longer plug-life

Today's Super Shell now contains an even better version of this famous additive. Its name is cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate.

TCP additive can give your car up to 15 per cent more power; up to 17 extra miles per tankful; and can make spark plugs last up to twice as long.

New TCP does this by neutralizing certain effects of combustion deposits. It is scientifically formulated to keep them from glowing when hot—a major cause of power loss. Also from diverting your spark—a major cause of "missing."

#3 is "cat-cracked" gasoline for power with a purr

This is petroleum that has actually cracked under 900-degree heat and catalytic action. Its heavier molecules have been shattered into lighter ones.

The result is a super-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.

#5 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks

CHAPTER 30

The conquerors of space, Fairlie thought sourly. That's what we are. Only we don't look like it. We look like what we really are—a bunch of city-bred me-campers in woods and not liking it, and it makes not a bit of difference that the woods are a long, long way from Earth.

DeWitt folded up the photomap he had been studying. He said, "We should hit back country to-morrow. That checks with what Thrayn said, doesn't it?"

Fairlie nodded. "He said the Hall of Suns was up high."

"Good," said DeWitt. "By to-morrow night, we'll have it." In the firelight, his eyes were bright with secret triumph. He got to his feet and went away.

Raab looked after him, and said, "Christensen was right. He's a perfect example of the single-minded man. He believes he'll find things, because he wants to find them, no matter what reason says."

"I don't know," said Fairlie. "Does it ever occur to you that DeWitt has carried it off all the way on this thing, right from the first, despite all that reason said? He forced those generator-tests at any risk, and they worked. He insisted a ship could be built, and he schemed until it was built. And now we're here, he's found a clue to something. Suppose we're all wrong again, and he got hold of something big at the Hall of Suns?"

Raab stared at him, and said, "That's an uncomfortable thought. I've felt sure this trip was useless, that he couldn't find anything."

"But if he does?"

"If he finds powers or weapons beyond anything we know," Raab said slowly, "there's no doubt what he'll do. He'll take them triumphantly back to Earth for our people, and the first time he sees the enemy side hear about them, we'll have an explosion."

"Do we try to prevent that, if it looks like happening?" asked Fairlie.

In his mind he heard again Christensen's weak voice. "Try to hold him down."

Raab said unhappily, "I guess we'd have to try." He did not seem to want to talk about that possibility. He went and got his sleeping-bag and got into it. Most of the others were making their beds in or under the truss.

Fairlie remained, staring at the dying fire and thinking. Try to hold him down. And how would you hold down a man like DeWitt when he grabbed for the greatest power in the stars, if he actually got it into his hand?

He looked down at Thrayn and

Dr. Robert R. Haubrick, faculty member of the department of science at East Carolina College, is a contributor to the spring issue of "Animal Behaviour." The journal is the official publication of the Association for the Study of Animal Behaviour; is published in London, England; and is distributed internationally.

Conclusions reached are that there are definite signs of aggression in females of the species and that expression of this aggression is similar to that found in the peck order of chickens.

As assistant professor in the department of science, Dr. Haubrick has been a faculty member at East Carolina since 1957. He is a native of Claremont, N. H., and

Gets Extra Pay For Rocket Ride

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr. earned an extra $14.38 for riding a rocket into space last Friday.

As a commander on flying duty, Shepard is entitled to an extra $230 a month. He has to fly four hours a month for it.

His space voyage—302 miles down the Atlantic from Cape Canaveral, Fla.—took 15 minutes. Thus, he earned one-sixteenth of his flight pay for May, or $14.38.

Shepard gets no special compensation for serving as an astronaut. In a sense, he flew so fast Friday it cost him money.

Protest Passes Its Third Day

MARS HILL, N.C. (AP) — A virtual boycott of the white Mars Hill school passed its third day as mothers protested the firing of Ralph E. Neill Jr., long-time principal of the school.

Only 74 of the school's 950 pupils reported for classes Thursday. Wednesday only 98 reported and only 75 on Tuesday, first day of the boycott.

Mothers of children in the combination high school and grammar school began the boycott by marching to the school carrying banners and placards lettered with slogans against the local school board which had announced it would not renew Neill's contract.

The mothers march wound up in Marshall, the county seat with a noisy parade and a mass meeting with county school commission members at the courthouse. The commission thus far has not agreed to rescind the order dismissing Neill. The mothers charge that politics was behind the board's decision.

Thirty of the school's 35 teachers have said they will resign at the end of the school year in June unless Neill is reappointed.

60 — Girls — 60!

— Or so the minstrel show sign read on the tent. Of course, the sign was simply a come-on gadget. For there were never 60 girls. And most of them were no longer girls, anyway.

At any rate, we are using a come-on device, too — $500.00 in PRIZES! — So that you will read the story of the Bank of Crossroads. We are mailing it to you tonight.

Read this little pamphlet. (If you should not receive a copy, pick up one in our lobby.) Then write us what you think of Crossroads Bank's decision. You may win yourself some money.
