All About Town

With Anne Keziah

East Carolina faculty members who represented the college in Lexington, Ky., May 11-13 at the annual conference of the Southern Association on Children Under Six are Annie Mae Murray, director of the Kindergarten, and Ruth Lambie, director of the Nursery School. Miss Lambie appeared on the program Thursday as director of a group discussion of "What is Quality in Education?"

Ginger Melton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Melton, was a weekend guest for the May Day activities on the Meredith College campus in Raleigh last weekend.

Announcement was made today of the engagement of Evelyn Joyner of Courtland, Va., and Charles Ballance of Greenville. Charles an East Carolina graduate, is now on the faculty of Southampton High School, and Evelyn is a sophomore at Madison College, in Harrisonburg.

A Peace College girl, Karen Halthcock of Raleigh, and Gene Miller, a junior at East Carolina, will be married in Raleigh August 26. Following their wedding, they will make their home in Greenville while Gene completes his degree.

Announcement is made today of the forthcoming nuptials of Betty Lane Evans and Ted Bisette of Spring Hope to be held July 1 in the Red Oak Christian Church. Betty Lane and Ted became acquainted when she was Miss North Carolina appearing at the Nash County Harvest Festival in Nashville in 1958, after which a romance blossomed. It was difficult for them to find time for dating since Betty Lane's duties kept her on the go, but Ted accompanied her on several of her appearances. The couple will make their home in Spring Hope where Ted is in business with his father.

August 13 is the date set for the wedding of Sylvia Vick, East Carolina student, and Fred Robertson, Fred, an ECO graduate, is a photographer associated with Photo Arts Studio. The studio is where the romance began when Sylvia was having a picture made for a school play.

Mrs. Charles Davis of Cary came Thursday for several parties honoring her daughter, Della Davis, who will marry Bryce Cummings the last of this month.

John Larkins of Trenton, recently nominated by North Carolina's two senators, Sam Ervin and B. Everett Jordan, as a Federal District Judge and a Democratic candidate for Governor in last year's primary, visited his daughter, Mrs. James Hudson Bearden, and husband Wednesday at their home, 810 College View Apartments.

The Greenville Garden Club History

The Greenville Garden Club is the oldest in Greenville and was organized in 1925 in the garden of Mrs. E. W. Harvey who served as its first president. Mrs. Harvey is the only surviving member of the original seven charter members, who included Mrs. Will Hooker, Mrs. H. E. Austin, Mrs. W. H. Woolard, Mrs. E. B. Allsbrook, Mrs. J. N. Hart, and Mrs. Key Brown.

The name, the colors (green and yellow), and the flower (yellow daffodil) were chosen then and are still retained by the club. The object or purpose of the club expressed in its constitution: "The object of the Club shall be to encourage beauty in everyday living, through home and community gardening; to aid in the promotion and conservation of natural resources; to encourage civic beauty and roadside beautification; to cooperate with other organizations that further the interests of Horticulture and Conservation."

The club is a department of the Woman's Club of Greenville and was affiliated with the Garden Clubs of North Carolina in 1939.

There are now 71 members. Mrs. P. E. Wells has served as president for the past three years. Other officers who have served with her are Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., Mrs. J. Vance Perkins, Mrs. Tige Gardner, Mrs. Ralph Brimley, Mrs. H. G. Williams, Mrs. Stanley Daughtridge, Mrs. Linwood Worthington, and Mrs. H. P. Miltstead.

New officers installed Friday include Mrs. H. P. Miltstead, president, Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., vice president, Mrs. J. A. Piver recording secretary, Mrs. H. G. Williams, corresponding secretary, Mrs. N. F. Merritt, treasurer, and Mrs. W. C. Hollowell, reporter.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, who served as president for many years, was the first woman in Greenville to complete all five courses in nationally accredited flower show schools. Mrs. Sam Mitchell, a past president and past district president, has completed these five courses and is now a "student judge." She is the only member of any garden club of Greenville to serve in a state office.

For many years the main beautification project has been the beautification of the grounds of Sheppard Memorial Library. In 1954 the Greenville Garden Club, in response to a request from the Library Board began a long range planning for the needed improvement of the grounds of Sheppard Memorial Library. At that time 160 choice shrubs and 10 shade trees were planted, following the plans of a Richmond, Va. landscape architect secured by the Garden Club. Much additional planting has been done since. The club held the first shrubbery sales in Greenville as part of their money raising for this project.

The southwest corner of the grounds was set aside as a special garden and designated a Memorial Garden. Progress on the Memorial Garden has been slow because of delay in preliminary work needed to be done by the city. The club, however, has funds put aside for plantings.

A permanent committee was set up for this project and consists of Mrs. H. R. Rogers, Mrs. P. E. Wells, Mrs. Ralph Garrett Sr., Mrs. Sam Mitchell, and Mrs. H. L. Rivers.

For this beautification project the Greenville Garden Club won the Powell Award in 1957 from the Garden Club of North Carolina.

During the early days of the club many dogwood trees were planted on Fourth and Fifth Sts. by Garden Club members. The Cedar trees at the entrance to Greenwood Cemetery and roses in the cemetery were planted, and the square in front of the Judson Blount home (at Fifth and Elizabeth Sts.) was planted with evergreens and juniper bushes.

Plantings have also been done by the Greenville Garden Club at the Recreation Center at Elm St. Park.

The club has made regular contributions to the state and national Garden Club projects (Tryon Palace Gardens, Elizabethan Gardens, the Permanent Home of the National Federation of Garden Clubs at St. Louis, Mo.).

Members have done work in Garden Therapy with patients in the County Home, in the hospital, and in the jails.

For the past two years the chief money making project has been the fashion show, luncheon and card tournament held in the spring. Shrubbery sales, Christmas bazaars that featured dried and evergreen arrangements have been held.

Smith-Hardee Speak Vows

The marriage of Miss Bonnie Lane Hardee and Lester Eugene Smith was solemnized on Sunday at Chapman's Methodist Church. The Rev. A. C. Ragan officiated using the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Ray Hardee, Route 2, Greenville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Smith of Route 2, Ayden. The candlelight ceremony was performed before a background of greenery with floor baskets of white gladiolus and chrysanthemums. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Grady Smith, pianist, and Mr. Bobby Wilson, cousin of the bride, soloist, sang "Because," "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer" for the benediction. Traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin. Her shoulder length veil was attached to a bridal cap of lace. She carried a bouquet of feathered carnations centered with an orchid shimmered with stephanotis and satin ribbons.

Mrs. Lester Eugene Smith

Miss Judith Hardee was her sister's maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a street length dress of pink lace and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Donnie Allen Dixon of Greenville was the bridegroom's best man. Ushers were Wiley Ray Hardee Jr., brother of the bride, and Jasper Donald Hudson of Grimesland.

Mrs. Hardee, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of pale green silk linen embroidered in white with white accessories. Her dress was accented with a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Smith, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of gold silk linen with matching accessories. Her outfit also was accented with a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. W. G. Leggett, grandmother of the bride, chose a beige floral silk dress with beige accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow carnations.

Following the ceremony, the couple received at the church.

Mrs. Smith attended Chocod High School and East Carolina College and is now employed as bookkeeper with the First National Bank in Ayden. Mr. Smith attended Chocod High School and is now affiliated with the Tucker Bros. Service Center in Grifton. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in Grifton.

Increasingly Heavy Responsibility

When one considers the rate of growth enjoyed by East Carolina College in recent years, it is not surprising that the 1961 graduating class at the institution will number approximately 1,000 students, a new record for the college.

At the same time, one who has watched the growth of East Carolina over a period of time cannot lose sight of the fact that it was a relatively few years ago that the total enrollment at ECC first topped the 1,000 mark. Now, with an enrollment of almost 5,000 students, it may be expected that graduating classes of 1,000 or more will become the rule rather than the exception at East Carolina.

The number of graduates at the college this year is another indication of the contribution ECC is making to higher education in North Carolina. It is also an indication of the contribution the college is making in other fields as well, through the graduates that it sends into all parts of North Carolina each year. Included in the 1961 graduating class at ECC a week from Sunday will be more potential teachers than in the graduating class of any other college or university in the state.

Here again is an indication of the importance of East Carolina College, not only to one section of the state, but to North Carolina as a whole. As the fourth largest institution of higher learning in North Carolina, East Carolina is having thrust upon it an increasingly heavy responsibility in the field of higher education. It is, at the same time, growing each year in the significance of its contribution to North Carolina.

Although many people in this and other sections of the state who have followed ECC's progress over the years still look upon it as a "little school", the college has long since advanced beyond the stage where it can accurately be regarded as such. And those who still regard it as a sectional institution in the state-supported system of colleges also need to raise their sights to a more realistic level. Students from all parts of North Carolina will be included among the 1,000 graduates at East Carolina College this year. And these 1,000 graduates will scatter into all sections of the state to work after they receive their diplomas.

The size of the graduating class at East Carolina College this year further supports the oft-heard assertion that the potential contribution the institution can make to building a better North Carolina is limited only by the facilities with which it is provided to meet the demands being made upon it.

Discrimination In Compensation

By LYNN NISBET

DISCRIMINATION? — Protest against singling out certain groups of State employees for special compensation in a recent bill is being heard in the Senate. The bill, which would provide for a 10 percent increase in the salaries of certain State employees, has been referred to the Senate State Government committee. Under consideration was Senator Jordan's bill adding specified hazardous jobs to the special plan which the highway patrol has had since 1953. The additional jobs included wildlife protectors, mine inspectors, criminal investigators in arson cases, and several others.

Prison guards and highway construction and maintenance workers were not included. It was stated that prison officials did not want to jeopardize their overall program by actively supporting inclusion of personnel in this bill. Director Bill Babcock pointed out that the work of construction and maintenance forces is extremely hazardous—and that right of way frequently got shot at.

John McDevitt, personnel director, was asked for a statement. He said he could put the philosophy of the Personnel Council in very few words. The Council will support any bill that affords equal treatment of all employees for comparable injury, but would not be happy with a measure that selected small specified groups for preferential treatment.

Sen. Tom Clayton of Jackson said the selective plan reminded of wartime army practices. Army men were awarded extra pay when flying combat missions, but infantrymen in foxholes got nothing extra. "I was a foot soldier and was wounded twice," he said, "so I know about the hazards involved."

The bill is now in hands of subcommittee for working out details and perhaps expanding its coverage.

CHERRY POINT — Weather forced cancellation of air show planned at Cherry Point for members of the General Assembly and some 20,000 other visitors in observance of the 50th anniversary of naval aviation. The legislators, however, got a much kick as the school boys clamoring in and out of big military planes and listening to the deafening roar of jets warming up for the takeoff. Disappointment was keener for the other guests, especially the young boys, because the legislators got an excellent free lunch and were guests at a social affair at the officers club.

And they were royally fed on Johnston county ham, eggs and grits at Smithfield on the way home. The supper was prepared and served in the National Guard armory by the local National Guard contingent, with the Smithfield Chamber of Commerce as official host. The Smithfield Herald had put out a special edition for the occasion, in which it was noted that the only other time the General Assembly had visited Smithfield was in 1779, when the meeting place was temporarily moved from the capitol at New Bern under threat of attack by British soldiers.

The historic sketch notes that Smithfield was just two years old in 1779, had very few people, and was described by one of the legislators at the time as "a rascally hole for such a meeting."

In a short time the town grew into an important river port, being at the head of navigation on the Neuse river. It has been a long time since boats came that far up, but rail and highway transportation made Smithfield an important trade center for a wide area. Present population is nearly 10,000.

Place mats on the table featured Bentonville battleground, and in his presentation of Speaker Joe Hunt, Roy Coats got in a plug for the requested appropriation to improve the battleground as a historic site.

ALUMNI — Several members of the legislative party formed a very loose "alumni association". They were with the Legislature on its visit to Cherry Point in 1951, when one of the jet planes just disintegrated in mid air in full view of all the spectators. It was a horrifying experience, and comment by the alumni was that it would never be forgotten.

Members of the 1961 party who also were there in 1951 included William Copeland, Joe Eagles, Bunn Frink, Wills Hancock, Ralph Scott, Adam Whitely, Burr Brock, Roger Kiser, Dwight Quinn, Raynor Woodard, Jim Vogler, Ray Byerly and Claude Lewis. A number of the ladies this year recalled the horror of the 1951 experience, and probably other men were on both trips.

Senator Brock recalls that he was standing with Governor Scott when the commanding general of the post, whose name he has forgotten, came up and told the Governor it would be necessary to put all newsmen in the group under restraint until facts incident to the tragedy could be determined. Brock said that as was the whole affair both he and Governor Scott got a big kick out of having some of the newsmen who had pestered them arrested.

WIDE OPEN—There was no restraining or restriction imposed this week. The entire base was wide open to all comers, even the camera men. Major Gorman, who was the guide for the group said that last year on armed services day he was in Japan—and everything was wide open there.

Another Milestone In The Reflector's Growth

The Daily Reflector reached another milestone during the month of April when for the first time its average daily paid circulation for the month exceeded the 9,000 mark.

Since the first of April last year the daily paid circulation of The Reflector has grown from approximately 7,800 to the daily average last month of 9,023. This means, of course, that The Daily Reflector each day is going into some 1,200 more homes in Pitt and adjacent counties than was the case a year ago. It also means that 1,200 more families are daily depending upon The Reflector to bring them reports of the happenings in their respective communities, throughout Pitt County, the state, the nation and the world. It also means that these 1,200 additional families are reading daily the messages of advertisers that appear in this newspaper.

It is gratifying to us that the number of daily readers of The Reflector continues to grow. At the same time it serves as a constant reminder that a newspaper, in order to fulfill its purpose of service to its readers must day in and day out provide its readers with an accurate, thorough and unbiased coverage of news. At the same time the community newspaper has the obligation to present a well-informed, clear and forceful editorial opinion on matters of importance to the people of its area.

These things The Reflector has endeavored to do since its beginning 79 years ago with just a few hundred readers. These same goals are still our daily guides now that The Reflector has a circulation of more than 9,000, and they will continue to be our guides day-by-day in the future.

NATO's Stand Is Not So Clear

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — It sounds bigger and better than it says.

Fifteen NATO allies—including the United States—met two days in Oslo and then issued a statement which has been variously interpreted as vowing to meet the Communist push around the world.

It said the partners "reaffirmed their resolve to meet the challenge" of the Communist bloc's attempt to extend its domination "over an ever-increasing area." Read it fast and it sounds rough and rugged. But meet the Communist challenge how and where? That's the key question. But the statement was blank on an answer.

Since the Allies avoided being specific, the Russians can conclude they were too unsure and divided to get down to cases. Thus the Communists, whom the statement obviously intended to impress, probably were left unimpressed.

The foreign ministers of NATO—whose military forces were created to defend western Europe—certainly didn't say anywhere in the communique they would try to stop communism anywhere outside Europe by force.

They were a little more specific when they talked of economic aid to areas outside Europe. Here their statement said: "They gladly accept" the challenge of helping the less developed areas of the world to raise their social and material standards.

One point the Allies were so clear and forceful the Russians could not misunderstand their language. This was their pledge to defend West Berlin against any Russian efforts to seal it off from the West. Yet, even though their language was clear, the Soviets still may doubt the Allies in a showdown actually would risk war over Berlin which, while linked to the West, is still 100 miles inside Communist East Germany.

The Western partners seem to be expecting pressure soon from Premier Khrushchev against the city. If the test comes and they back down it will make their alliance a joke.

Except for the British-French-Israeli attack on Egypt in 1956—which the United States told them to call off in a hurry—the Allies haven't shown any eagerness to risk a war outside Europe for a long time.

In 1954, for instance, when the North Viet Nam Communists smashed the French in Indochina, the Allies not only didn't dash in to bail out the French but let half of Indochina fall to the Communists.

True, the United States stood firmly by its promise to defend Formosa against Red China invasion, but it has backed away from getting directly involved militarily in Laos which, in a matter of time, also probably will fall to communism.

It still isn't clear whether this country or its allies in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization will intervene directly to save South Viet Nam from the Communist guerrillas who are chopping it up now.

As this is written in the spring of 1961 it isn't at all clear where the NATO allies, together or in part, would be willing to stick their necks out by stepping in directly to stop a Communist take-over.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

A FACTOR OF MERCY

Someone spoke recently of a woman who puts bells on her pains.

You have seen such a person. Some people have the character and courage to endure the hard situations of life in silence. Some people make more fuss over a pin prick than others do over a major accident. There is a definite type of psychiatric person who likes nothing so much as to sit around and talk about former illnesses and present pains. And this person is not always a woman. Men can sometimes put bells on their pains and keep them ringing as loud and constantly as can the most neurotic variety of women.

Hard as it is to face the fact, we have to admit that pain is one of God's great factors of mercy. Suppose we had no pain. Some of the most disastrous diseases get beyond the possibility of treatment or surgery because no pain has been involved. God gives us the sharp discomfort of pain to call our attention to something which decidedly needs our attention. Pain is a function of life and a very necessary and merciful function.

But when people decorate their pains with bells and run up flags signifying to all and sundry that they are in misery and need sympathy, then that person is really sick — not just sick in body but above all sick in mind.

The radiant New Testament statement on this situation is: "He endured as seeing him who is invisible."

Motorists You've Met

A young man we know had reached a most satisfying point in life this week (Thursday, to be specific) when he presented the last payment on his car.

He was finished. Through. He had a good car and it was all paid for. It's needless to rant and rave on about all his good feelings.

During his thinking about his good fortune, it began to rain. And the car had a flat tire in the country, to celebrate it all.

Speaking of cars and such, there all sorts of drivers in this world. If you drive a lot, you probably have a few special thoughts about certain types of drivers. We have a few thoughts about some out on the highway.

There's the window arm driver—you can spot him a mile off down the highway, because he resists that left arm on the left window. And he drives provokingly slowly. Usually about 30 miles per hour, 35 is his maximum.

Behind him is at least one pickup truck which is slightly wobbly and wouldn't risk passing a caterpillar on the road. He stays close behind the window driver. He obviously likes company, even on the highway.

Then there is the driver who maintains a constant speed. We mean constant on the highway and continuing through town. You are probably very familiar with this driver (he gets the nomination for the most provoking in our book). When you slow down to 35 to go through a town (there's a policeman who you know it) he whizzes around you at at least 40, past the corner where the policeman usually is (but isn't this day) and out onto the highway. . . . Where he continues to drive at the same speed and not a fraction more. And, if by some chance, he gets behind the window driver—with the pickup truck following, he stays close behind at 30.

On you go, down the highway. Naturally there is a speed demon, of whom we have not accorded his proper attention. He had to get around every and anything in the road. Often he comes out of nowhere, has no idea of what a yellow line means and has a frightening disrespect for school buses, as well as lines of traffic.

This driver will go around three or four cars at a time, narrowly miss an oncoming vehicle and repeat the experience again and again.

Or turn off at the first dirt road. There is another very harrowing experience, and that is to be passed by a bus which you will not see again unless you are on it.

We hope this will help boost the sale of safety belts, which most law enforcement officers heartily endorse as a safety feature.

Other Editors Saying Censorship Not Needed

(Burlington Times-News)

Following a conference with newspaper editors Tuesday President Kennedy agreed that censorship of newspapers, or other information media, by the government or self-restraint is not needed at the present time for security reasons.

The President was convinced that he should reverse an earlier position that such procedure should be followed, referring particularly to United States-Soviet Union relations.

In a speech to the American Newspaper Publishers Association 10 days ago, Kennedy called for some form of self-censorship in face of the Communist threat to the nation's security.

He said the press should "heed the duty of self-restraint" in a time of peril.

Representatives of the press asked Kennedy to clarify his speech. He conferred with them for more than an hour Tuesday.

After the conference, a spokesman for the press, Felix R. McKnight, said "The President assured the group that the administration intends to continue its policy of free access to the news and that no form of restriction is contemplated or suggested."

McKnight is president of the Society and executive editor of the Dallas Times Herald. In response to questions, he gave newsmen some idea of the views expressed by the press representatives in the conference with Kennedy.

McKnight said he did not believe the world situation had reached the point where it was necessary to set up machinery to censor information that appears in newspapers.

Would it be necessary for the press to set up some kind of self-censorship if the government does not establish censorship machinery?

"Not at this time," McKnight replied.

He said also there was no need now for additional self-restraint on the part of newspaper editors. "I think there is already one," he continued. "Any responsible editor faces that same news judgment every day."

McKnight said only "a declaration of national emergency or something of that kind" would make it necessary to create machinery to censor news.

It is questionable to argue that censorship of the "factual news" is preferable in any case. If "secrecy" tends to confuse the intelligence standpoint between nations, it spurs the activities of secret agents, or spies, to redouble their efforts to find out. They will succeed, if delayed, and this approach is applicable to any country interested in keeping abreast of what another is doing.

For years, the focus has been drawn primarily on the activities of the United States and the Soviet Union because of the "cold war" between them.

No Time Now To Divide

By GEORGE E. BOK-SLOKY

Copyright, 1961, New Features Syndicate, Inc.

This country is in trouble. Its great men have come to the support of President Kennedy without pausing. Former President's Herbert Hoover and Dwight D. Eisenhower, former Vice-President, Rockefeller, former General Douglas MacArthur, and the entire Republican leadership stand behind the President as firmly as any Democrat. But not "The Democrats," a publication issued by the Democratic National Committee, in its May 4th issue, it raises the question of FDR's "100 Days," as controversial a subject as can be conceived. The Republicans, except a few liberal ones, regard the list of 16 bills which this publication offers as a measure of Roosevelt's genius, as prolonging the Depression, forcing us into World War II to end employment and wrecking the capitalist system.

It is not necessary to discuss these bills now. Some of them are law of the land; some have been thrown out by the Supreme Court; some have been abandoned or revised. What is the advantage of raising these issues now? Furthermore, why talk of 12 years of "do-nothing" Republican Administrations? The phrase "do-nothing," invented by Harry Truman, cannot truthfully be applied to the Harding, Coolidge, or Hoover Administrations.

It is no advantage to President Kennedy to antagonize the Republicans by this type of shoddy propaganda which the country could afford as a luxury of freedom in better days. There can be no criticism of a political party praising itself and all its works. There must be freedom to criticize any group any propaganda agency, which disregards the seriousness of the times—and stimulates antagonism toward President Kennedy on such a remote issue as whether Franklin D. Roosevelt was a more able President than Calvin Coolidge or Herbert Hoover.

Who but the objective historian, who can write as vividly of Genghis Khan as of Baboet, really cares? We face our own times. Neither Hoover nor Franklin D. Roosevelt faced the fact that 35 Americans are in prison in the Havana area, to say nothing of the Americans held prisoner in Red China. They did not face the necessity of making the decision as to whether we would make war on Cuba, or in Laos, or in South Vietnam, or in the Congo or where. Herbert Hoover would be the last man to compare his problems with those that face President Kennedy, several of which must lead to war. Hoover is too big a man not to take an objective view of an historic situation.

Most press agents for the Democratic National Committee speak of the Hoover Administration as "do-nothing." Even Harry Truman would not do that.

I am not writing in defense of Herbert Hoover. He does not need defending. My point is that we need a serious approach to current problems and when it becomes necessary to criticize President Kennedy's conduct of foreign policy and activities, it should be done with objectivity, so as not to give aid and comfort to the enemy. There is no sense in being anti-Communist and at the same time handing Khrushchev the material he requires for his malcontent propaganda against this nation. What have we done about American newspaper folk who have either been arrested or are in hiding in foreign embassies? They are Robert Berle of the Associated Press; J. Mallin of Time; Harold K. Mills of the Associated Press; Martha Houtman of the UPI; George Kaufman of the Associated Press; Robert Perez of Mutual Broadcasting; and Ruby Hart Phillips of The New York Times. What do we do about such incidents which, for some reason or other, are not even reported when they occur? Granted that it is difficult to realize that they are at war with Soviet Russia, a war that is unorthodox in its immediate manifestations but nevertheless is war. One evidence is that seven American newspapermen have either been arrested or have taken refuge in foreign embassies and we ig-

Home Improvement Shark's Bite

By ELMER ROESSNER

Worst of the termites digging into the pocketbooks of home owners this time of year is the home-improvement shark.

He gnaws at his victims' self-respect and integrity as well as their pocketbooks.

This is how he works: He approaches a home owner and suggests a patio, a garage extension to accommodate his 1961 car, a playroom, or some other improvement.

"Gee," says the home owner, "I'm over extended now. I have a tough time paying current bills."

"I can help you," says the slicker. "I've helped other people like you. You need a new black-top driveway. My company will put it in for you for $500. You take out a home-improvement loan for $750. That will give you $250 to pay off your bills, and you have three years to pay off the new loan!"

NECK IN NOOSE
"Templing." So the home owner signs the papers. The swindler arranges the loan, gives the home owner $250, less as many dollars in fees, he can con, and subcontractors the job of building a new driveway to a small contractor for $300.

The home owner gets almost $250. The contractor gets $300, the slicker gets $200 and the home owner is left with a debt of $750, plus interest, fees and bites that will cost him almost $30 a month for the next three years.

The home owner has been taken for 200 plus interest. The ratio varies. More often the sucker gets less. The promoter primarily on the activities of the United States and the Soviet Union because of the "cold war" between them.

COMPROMISE
One of the sneakiest things about this kind of operation is that the victim is fairly well boxed in. If he shows signs of complaining that he has been gouged—which he has—the pro-motor, if he's still around, will remind him that he is equally guilty. The home owner signed a false application, he probably signed a false certificate of completion of the work. And in many states his offense—perjury—carries heavier penalties than those for false representation.

In the end, the victim is taken for his money, he has exposed himself to blackmail, and he had developed strong doubts about his own integrity.

In extreme cases, a slicker, for $200, will ruin a man. There is one other common, springtime gyp worth warning against before we leave the subject: the silverware swindle. The operator offers one place setting of silver to the household, either on the pretense that the home owner has won a prize, or that it is an advertising sample offered at a low price. The victim is asked to sign a receipt and pay a few cents for some sort of charge.

The "receipt" is actually an order for a 12-piece silverware set on installment payments totaling several hundred dollars, and negotiable promises to pay. To save money: deal only with companies known to you; never sign anything without reading it.

East Carolina Baseballers Host Wake Forest Tonight

By LEONARD LAO
Reflector Sports Writer

The Demon Deacons of Wake Forest College invade Greenville's Guy Smith Stadium tonight to lock horns with the Pirates of East Carolina. The contest will be a return match between the two clubs, after the Deacons shellacked the Bucs 13-0 at Winston-Salem in the worst EC defeat this season.

East Carolina coach Jim Malory will send his ace, Larry Crayton, to the mound against the Deacons. The speedy left-hander is the owner of a 7-1 record this season, and has won 23 games since donning an East Carolina baseball uniform while losing only 4.

Crayton has been an All-Conference and All-State choice for the past two seasons at EC, and there is no reason to think that he will not repeat the honors again this year. In his last outing, the Greensboro native struck out seventeen batters, walked only one, and gave up only four hits in a 4-2 win over Catawba College.

Along with the presence of a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference team at the game tonight, there will be an extra added attraction in store for the Pirate followers. The first presentation of the Roy Tripp Memorial Trophy for the outstanding baseball player on the East Carolina team will take place under the lights of Guy Smith Stadium.

The late Roy Tripp was a great contributor to East Carolina baseball for many years. In 1957, '58, and '59, he solely sponsored the East Carolina-Wake Forest game, then last year he was the co-sponsor with the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Greenville. The players on the team vote for the teammate they think best deserves the trophy.

The Pirates, who were scheduled to battle the Elon Christians under the lights of Guy Smith Stadium last night, were rained out, and were in the warm-up stage of meeting the Burlington team this morning when this story went to press. Coach Malory said last night that he would send his ace right-hander, Nathan Greene to the hill against the Christians.

The Wake Forest game closes out the regular season schedule for the Bucs, but Pirate fans should be looking for the locals to be attending the N.A.I.A. playoffs this year.

PIRATE ACE . . . Larry Crayton will go to the mound tonight to battle the Wake Forest batters in a night contest at Guy Smith Stadium. The stocky left-hander has compiled a 7-1 record so far this season and hopes to win number eight in the season finale for the Bucs.

Spahn Gains Fourth Win Of Season; Needs Eight

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The magic number now is "8" for Warren Spahn.

The superb southpaw of the Milwaukee Braves needs just eight more victories to hit the charmed 300 goal after collecting his fourth of the season with a 5-4 decision at San Francisco Friday night.

This one was nothing like the no-hitter he spun against the Giants two weeks ago, but his eight-hit job was good enough to shave San Francisco's National League lead to mere percentage points over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2.

Pittsburgh ended Cincinnati's winning streak at nine games, beating the Reds 8-5 on a pinch-homer by Dick Stuart, and the St. Louis Cardinals extended Philadelphia's losing slump through 10 games with a 5-1 victory over the last place Phillies.

In the American League, right-hander Frank Lary was up to his old tricks and added a new one. He padded his career record over New York to 25-8 with a tie-breaking home run in the ninth inning that gave the Detroit Tigers a 4-3 victory and a 3 1/2-game lead over the second place Yankees. Baltimore defeated Cleveland 4-2, the Chicago White Sox edged Kansas City 2-1, Minnesota edged the Los Angeles Angels 5-4 and Boston defeated Washington 2-1.

The Giants got to Spahn (4-2) quickly this time, scoring in the first inning on singles by Jim Davenport and Felipe Alou. But the Braves, once more over .500 and within 2 1/2 games of the top, got to Sad Sam Jones (3-2) first, scoring twice in the first inning on Hank Aaron's home run, Lee Maye and Ed Matthews also homered for Milwaukee, with Matthews' solo shot winning it in the ninth.

Spahn, who also beat Jones in the no-hitter, walked two and struck out but one. Orlando Cepeda's home run leading off the ninth made it close, but Spahn was pretty much in command—four times working out of jams by getting the Giants to tap back to the mound.

Southpaw Sandy Koufax had a no-hitter for six innings against the Cubs, struck out 11 and had a shut out for eight innings, but then needed relief help from Dick Farrell before nailing his third victory for the Dodgers. Billy Williams doubled leading off the seventh for the Cubs' first hit, but Sandy then struck out the side, whiffing Ernie Banks, Ron Santo and Mel Roach.

Santo led off the ninth with a triple and was forced home by Koufax' third walk of the inning.

Farrell gave up an RBI single to Bob Will before getting Don Zimmerman for the final out.

Wally Moon drove in two runs for the Dodgers, one with a first-inning single and the other with his 10th home run, tops in the NL, as Don Cardwell lost his second against three victories.

Stuart's pinch homer was a three-run shot in the fifth off losing reliever Marshall Bridges (0-1) of the Reds. Rocky Nelson also hit a three-run homer for the Pirates, who blew a 5-2 lead before Bobby Shantz came on and won his first in the NL with four-innings of two-hit, shutout relief. Hal Bevan and Frank Robinson homered for the Reds off Buc starter Wilmer Mizell.

The Cards broke up a scoreless duel between Ernie Broglio and the Phil's John Buzhardt (0-3) with three runs in the sixth. Daryl Spencer's two-run single clinched it. Broglio, winning his second in a row, gave up nine hits, but had a shut out until the seventh. Then Pancho Herrera homered for the Phils, who hadn't scored in 15 innings and now are tagged with their longest slump since 1956. Don Landrum hit an inside the park homer for St. Louis, scampering around while center fielder Tony Gonzalez waited for the ball to bounce off a scoreboard catwalk.

Track Records Being Challenged In Fresno Relays

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) —Runners challenge records from the opening to the closing events this afternoon and tonight in the 35th annual West Coast Relays.

The opener finds the University of Oregon four-mile relay team challenging the American record of 16 minutes 50.4 seconds set this year by Western Michigan. Dyrrol Burleson, the second American to run a mile in less than four minutes, anchors the Webfoots.

In the finale, the University of Southern California could shatter the national collegiate record since the Trojans already have done a 3:07.6 compared with the listed mark of 3:09.1 set by Texas in 1958.

Competing in Ratcliffe Stadium will be a field of 1,816 ranging from grammar school boys to world champions. The entry list contains six present or former world record holders, seven Olympic medal winners, 16 present and former NCAA and AAU champions and 1 Olympic competitor representing half a dozen countries.

Racer Bettenhausen Dies In Speedway Test Crash

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Tony Bettenhausen, 44, whose greatest ambition was to win the richest of all auto races, died because a nickel's worth of wire broke on a car he was testing for a friend at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Bettenhausen was killed instantly when the roaring racer hurtled into a wall and burst into flames Friday.

Speedway officials said the cause of his death was a cotter-pin worth about five cents. The sheared pin let a bolt fall, and when the idol of American auto speed fans stepped on the brakes, the axle twisted, flinging the car into the outside retaining wall on the northwest turn.

Bettenhausen, of Tinley Park, Ill., was dead when guards fought their way through horrified fans to where the smashed car hung wrapped in wire atop the wall.

It was his 29th wreck in a race car. The first was in his first race at Chicago 23 years ago. In 29 of those crashes he was upside down.

The stocky little Dutchman's death came while his own car, with which he hoped to break records at today's time trials for the 500-mile Memorial Day race was sitting in a speedway garage.

He was testing a car for his long-time friend Paul Russo of Fortville, Ind. He had turned in several laps at 145 miles an hour in the car, the Stearly Special, and had slowed down as though he planned to come into the pits. A few hours before, Bettenhaus-en had expressed confidence in getting the pole position—a prize for the fastest qualifier on the first day of trials—for his 17th try at winning the 500. He also believed he would turn the first 160 m.p.h. lap ever recorded at the speedway.

"Tony said he had a good car this year and could realize his ambition of finally winning the 500," said a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Pat Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill. Only Wednesday, Tony had turned in a 149.245 lap—the fastest ever recorded in traffic on the 2 1/2-mile brick and asphalt track.

His death was the 53rd at the Indianapolis "brickyard," opened in 1909 as a dirt track. He was the 30th driver killed. The toll includes 14 mechanics and 9 spectators.

Bettenhausen was born in Tinley Park, where he farmed 600 acres of corn and soybean land with his two teen-age sons, Gary, 19, and Merle 17. He also is survived by his wife, Valerie, and two daughters, Susan, 15, and Tony Lee, 9. The entire family had planned to attend qualifications at the track today.

Bettenhausen drove like there was no tomorrow when in a race car and was one of the winningest drivers on the U. S. auto club circuit.

Twice he was national big car champion. He won 21 championship races of 100 miles each—more than any man who ever raced.

Souchak On His Way To Adding $7,000 Prize

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Massive Mike Souchak, who celebrated his 34th birthday here Wednesday, was well on his way to a $7,000 prize today as the $40,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament wheeled into its third round.

The muscular belter from Grosinger, N. Y., toured the par 70, 7,041-yard Colonial course in regulation figures Friday and grasped a two-stroke lead over a class field bewitched by high winds and hard greens.

Souchak, who won here in 1956, captured the 36-hole lead with a one-under-par total of 139.

Nipping at his heels at 141 were the first-round leader, Kel Nagle, along with powerful Arnold Palmer and Bill Casper, the chunky Texan from Apple Valley, Calif.

Nagle, who tied the competitive scoring record of 65 Thursday, encountered various golfing ills and soared to a 76 Friday.

Palmer struggled in with a 73 to go with his opening 68.

In a strong challenging position at 142 were Gene Littler, who also equaled par Friday and two 71 shooters, Doug Ford and Ernie Vossler.

One stroke back was aging Ben Hogan, who usually plays this course like he owns it and would be a six-time champion if he copped the 1961 crown.

Among Colonial's victims Friday were National Amateur champion Deane Beman, who blew to a 79 after opening with a 68, and Tommy Bolt, who skyrocketed from a 72 to a 78.

Gary Player, who has tagged the circuit gold mine for $47,796 in official earnings, had little to say after tacking a 75 to his opening-round 74.

Hurler Cautious In Facing Yanks

NEW YORK (AP) — Yankee-filler Frank Lary admitted today he takes a lot more care against the American League champions than he does against the also-rans.

"But," said the Detroit Tigers right-hander "that goes for the other pitchers in the league, too. I try not to be any different against the Yanks but I guess I am."

Lary beat the Yanks for the 25th time in his career Friday night, 4-3, to lengthen the Tigers' lead over the Yanks to 3 1/2 games—and it was a cliff-hanger all the way. Just as in nine of their other 18 triumphs, they had to come from behind.

It was Lary, himself, who produced the winning run, a homer into the left field seats in the ninth inning. That broke a 3-all tie. Jim Coates, third Yankee pitcher, was the victim.

"I got a fast ball, said Lary matter-of-factly. As far as I can remember, it was the first home run I've ever hit off the Yanks. I remember I hit a triple of Ryne Duren a couple of years ago.

"Even though I've won a lot of games against the Yanks, I always find them tough. Last night was no different."

Terps Bid For Sixth Straight

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The Maryland Terrapins seek their 6th straight Atlantic Coast Conference outdoor track crown today and the extent of their victory margin seems to be the only item in doubt.

Maryland virtually assured itself of another title Friday when it qualified 24 men out of a possible 60 in preliminaries for 10 of the meet's 15 events.

With the team championship all but conceded, heavy interest has developed in several of the individual contests. Duke's Dick Gesswein is favored to win the shot put from defending champion Nick Kovalakides of Maryland in a close duel which could produce a new conference record.

The Terps' magnificent dashmen will fight among themselves in the 220 and 440. Maryland qualified four of the six starters in both those events.

The Terps' potential double winners include Kovalakides who qualified in the shot put, discus and javelin; Bill Johnson, the defending champion in both hurdles events; Jonas Stiegler in the 220 and 440; and Chris Stauffer in the 220 and 440.

Duke's Gesswein, leading as a result of the preliminaries in the shot put and discus throw, is another potential double champion.

Makes Bid For Boxing's Bigtime

NEW YORK (AP) — Young Jose Gonzalez of Puerto Rico makes his bid for boxing's big time tonight in a television fight against welterweight contender Charley Scott of Philadelphia.

The 21-year-old Puerto Rican middleweight, a pro only 25 months, nevertheless has been made the 13-10 favorite for the 10-rounder (ABC TV, 9 p.m., EST) at St. Nicholas Arena.

An aggressive batterer with not too hard a punch, Gonzalez has won five of his last six fights in fattening his record to 17-4-1.

Scott, 24, desperately needs a victory to stay among the welterweight contenders. Once the No. 1 welterweight contender, he now ranks ninth.

Conceding weight to most of his opponents, Charley has lost four of his last five fights. He probably will weigh 148 to Jose's 155. His record is 26-15-0.

Colavito Joins Fray And Gets Ejected

NEW YORK (AP) — "What would you do if you saw a guy hitting your father?" asked Rocky Colavito today.

"Well, I did it. I went after him."

The Detroit Tigers' outfielder rushed into the stands at Yankee Stadium Friday night after the eighth inning when he saw his father, Rocco Sr., in a scrap just behind the visiting dugout.

"It was pretty mixed up," said Colavito. "At the time I didn't know what was going on, just that my father was in a fight. He's 60 years old and I'm not going to let anyone hit him."

For his efforts, Colavito was ejected from the game and Manager Bob Scheffing said he would play under protest. As it turned out the Tigers won 4-3, and the protest wasn't needed.

"I found later that some drunk was annoying my wife," said Colavito. "When the fight started, my brother, Dom, who also was there, tried to step in.

"When I ran up, three guys were holding Dom. If he had been able to get away I would have bet on him."

Colavito, a native New Yorker, always has a big crowd of his pals on hand when he plays in the stadium.

"I had 27 guests last night," he announced.

Trainer Jack Homel, along with teammates Bill Bruton, Dick Brown and Jim Bunning started into the fray, but they were sidetracked before they waded in.

"I don't think there were any punches thrown," said Rocky, "but I'm not even sure of that. They threw the guy out who was making the remarks."

Rocky's father refused to press charges.

MOTHER'S DAY, MAY 14, 1961

A Sincere 'Thank You' to Mothers of All Our Carriers!

ON MOTHER'S DAY, newspaperboys everywhere are paying a well-deserved tribute to "Mom" both as a devoted parent, and as a valued advisor in their first business adventure—a neighborhood newspaper route!

WE WISH to add our own special word of thanks and appreciation to the mothers of all our carrier-salesmen, for the constant aid and encouragement they are giving their sons, in helping the boys make their routes pay and GROW.

WE SHARE each mother's pride in her son's progress as a popular and enterprising young businessman, and we assure her of our sincere desire to help make his newspaper route a most profitable experience, and a sure stepping stone to success in life.

Found Bootleg In Parked Car

A deputy sheriff checked a parked car at Fleming and Boyd Ave. yesterday and found eight half gallon jars of non-tax-paid whiskey.

The cache was found by Deputy Loyd Manning. Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said the car was taken into custody and stored. Officers are looking for its owner.

Ninety-nine Mothers Featured In Service

Ninety-nine mothers for the fifth consecutive year will sing "The Ninety and Nine" at the Mother's Day Sunday night service at Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church at 8 o'clock.

This feature was begun five years ago by the pastor, Rev. Henry Melvin, and has grown in interest each year.

Eleven mothers of the congregation serve as hostesses and invite eight other mothers as their guests. Mrs. Eugene Averette, Mrs. E. C. Davenport, Mrs. Thomas Langston, Mrs. H. F. Lawson, Mrs. Floyd Mills, Mrs. W. J. McLawhorn, Mrs. Edward L. Stokes, Mrs. Roger Stox, Mrs. Burney Tucker, Mrs. Belvin Tucker and Mrs. Pearl Worthington are the hostesses for this year's service.

The chancel choir will sing several appropriate Mother's Day numbers and the pastor's message will be from the subject "What Makes A Mother?"

Brush Fire Hits Hollywood Hills

By BOB BARNES

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Fire swept through the scenic, brush-covered Hollywood Hills with explosive fury Friday night, leaving many homes destroyed or damaged.

The flames, pushed by gusts up to 40 m.p.h., blackened more than 1,000 acres before fire fighters got the upper hand. There were no reports of serious injuries.

Scores of residents were evacuated from the elevated residential district a mile or so from Hollywood and Sunset boulevards.

All of the homes burned or threatened were on hillsides near Griffith Park Observatory. Among those lost was novelist Aldous Huxley's.

At daybreak, 450 firemen renewed their assault against the blaze, hopeful of controlling it if the winds stay down. "But the winds usually pick up in the morning. However, we don't think the winds will be as bad as they were last night."

Pitt Firemen To Gather Monday

Pitt County Firemen wishing to attend a fire school being held in Greenville May 15-22 are requested to meet at the Central Fire Station in Greenville at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

According to officers of the Pitt County Firemen's Association, which is sponsoring the fire training course, firemen are asked to meet at the central station instead of the Fire Department drill tower as previously requested, due to the uncertainty of the weather.

Greenville fire department training officers will act as instructors during the course.

Eighth St. Christian Announcements

"The Supreme Role" will be the topic of the sermon given by the Rev. W. J. Hadden Jr. at the 11 o'clock worship service this Sunday, Mother's Day. Mrs. H. L. Carter has selected for the choir to sing, "Carol of the Mother," by Justin G. Lovelace. Martha Bradner will be the soloist.

Eighth Street Church is happy to announce that there has been a total of $138,294 in pledges received on their goal of $150,000 for the building fund. There are still a number of members to be contacted, yet.

This is the weekend of the Junior-Senior outings. Therefore, only the Chi-Rho group will meet this Sunday night at 5 p.m.

Ceramics Class Registration Set

Registration for an eight-week session of ceramics classes to be held at the Greenville Art Center this summer may be made by contacting the center before May 23. Mrs. Bernard Jackson will conduct classes each Tuesday, from 2 until 4 p.m., and each Wednesday, from 8 until 10 p.m., for the period May 23—July 11.

A registration fee and a lab fee will be charged.

Funeral Monday For Mrs. M. D. Horton

FARMVILLE—Helen Atkinson Horton, 79, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital, Greenville, Saturday morning following a short illness.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 3:30 p.m. at the Farmville Methodist Church by the pastor, the Rev. Allan C. Lee. Interment will follow in the Forest Hill Cemetery in Farmville. The body will be taken from the home to the church one hour prior to the service.

Mrs. Horton was a lifelong resident of Farmville, a member of the Farmville Methodist Church. She was active in all phases of church work, a member of the Constitutional Chapter of D.A.R. of Washington, D. C., the U.D.C. of the Washington, D. C. chapter.

She was first married to Samuel A. Watkins who died in 1907. In 1929 she married Mac D. Horton who died in 1933. Mrs. Horton was engaged in farming.

Surviving is one son, Bert Watkins of Farmville.

Lutheran Church Announcements

Our Redeemer congregation will observe tomorrow along with 11,000 other Lutheran congregations in the United States the 44th anniversary of Lutheran World Action. Mrs. Lauritz Larsen, widow of one of the founders of the National Lutheran Council which sponsors Lutheran World Action, will speak to the congregation in connection with the observance of the anniversary of this worldwide relief agency. Goal for Lutheran World Action this year is $4,178,000.

Lions' Annual Broom Sale On Monday

The Greenville Lions Club will hold its annual Broom Sale for the blind Monday night, starting at 7 p.m., according to James I. Gilliland, chairman of the sale.

Included in the sale are regular flat brooms, round brooms, and whisk brooms.

Lion's officers explained that these high-quality brooms are made by the Industries for the Blind, Inc. of Greensboro, who employ approximately 67 blind and visually handicapped persons.

The proceeds from the sale will go to aid blind persons in this area.

According to Gilliland, teams have been organized to cover the city on a door to door basis; but due to the growth of Greenville some persons who desire to purchase brooms might be missed. To prevent missing any home there will be five radio-equipped cars throughout the city that will be able to deliver a broom to your home within a few minutes," the project chairman explained.

"To make use of this special service," Gilliland explained, "you should call Plaza 2-3115, and a broom will be delivered."

Prices for the brooms will be $1.50 each for the flat and round brooms, and 75-cents each for the whisk brooms.

HOME DECORATING TODAY

By MRS. R. W. DAVENPORT

HAPPY MOTHER'S DAY As a mother, have you done all that you could to make a home and be a mother the children will want to come home to? Is the home as clean and attractive as you can possibly have it? Is the welcome mat out for our children's friends?

Let us always remember that our home is a reflection of us. One can walk in a home and in a minute they can tell the kind of mother who lives there. It has been said that a father can support a family, but it's the mother who makes a house a home.

Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home. While you little ones are in the cradle, pledge to them and yourself that you will strive to make a home and be a mother that they will not only want to come home for Christmas, Thanksgiving, Mother's Day—those duty bound days—but often.

The Home Furniture Store wishes each of you and yours the happiest Mother's Day ever.

Lunch Menus City School

Wednesday—stew beef with potatoes and onions, string beans, sliced tomatoes, biscuits and butter, fruit cup, milk.

Thursday—oven-fried chicken, potato salad, mustard greens, pickle relish, corn bread and butter, Jello with whipped topping, milk.

Friday—salmon salad on lettuce, potato chips, half deviled egg sandwich, crackers, pickle rings, chilled grapefruit and pineapple cup, milk.

Tickets Arrive For Production

Tickets for a Broadway-type stage production, sponsored by the Greenville Optimist Club, have arrived and are on sale today.

Optimist President Walter R. Whitehurst said yesterday advance tickets for "The Helpmate," billed as a "hilarious, mirthful comedy," can be bought from any member of the local Optimist Club.

They are also on sale, Whitehurst said at Biggs Drug Store, Bissett's Drug Store, Hollowell's Drug Store and the Appliance Mart.

The comedy, produced by Variety Productions, Inc. of Houston, Tex., will be staged in East Carolina College's Austin Auditorium May 22 at 8 p.m.

Geography Frat Elects Officers

Joseph W. Hollingsworth of Roanoke Rapids will act as president of the East Carolina College chapter of Gamma Theta Upsilon, international honorary geography fraternity, during the 1961-1962 school year. A sophomore at East Carolina, Hollingsworth is majoring in geography at the college.

Other officers who will head activities of the organization during the coming school year are: Gary J. Dowsy of Manteo, vice president; Brenda A. Little of Ayden, treasurer; and D. Ross Thomas of Asheville, secretary.

First Church of Christ, Scientist

The immortal status of the children of God will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in a Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Mortals and Immortals."

Scriptural selections will include the following from Romans (8): "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God. The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God."

A correlative passage to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 519): "Human capacity is slow to discern and to grasp God's creation and the divine power and presence which go with it, demonstrating its spiritual origin. Mortals can never know the infinite, until they throw off the old man and reach the spiritual image and likeness."

Seven presidents of the United States were born in Ohio: Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Harrison, McKinley, Taft and Harding.

Jenkins Speaks To ECC Seniors

Many recent developments at East Carolina College give this year's graduates reason to be proud of their alma mater," President Leo W. Jenkins told seniors at their class banquet Friday, May 12, in the college dining hall.

Addressing approximately 600 seniors and their guests, he outlined some noteworthy achievements of the college in its "quest for excellence."

Dempsey Williams of Fayetteville, senior class president, acted as master of ceremonies. The program included presentation of awards to outstanding seniors, a humorous talk by Principal Sam Bundy of the Farmville schools, and the presentation of a gift to the college from seniors.

In seeking for academic excellence, President Jenkins said, the college now requires that those wishing to study for the master's degree must pass the Graduate Record Examination. Those wishing to enter the college as freshmen, he added, must pass Scholastic Aptitude Tests. A higher academic standing than in previous years is now required for remaining in college, he said. The number of high school honor students seeking admission to East Carolina, he stated, is increasing.

Next year's faculty, he said, will add to the already highly competent teaching staff two Professors in residence — Francis Speight, noted artist, and Martin Mallman, well-known composer of music.

The present faculty, he said, is producing work of high quality in literature and in research. Among examples, he cited Ovid Williams' "Pierces' 'On a Lonesome Porch,'" nationally acclaimed novel and winner of the Sir Walter Raleigh Award in this state, and "Henslowe's Diary," published by the Cambridge University Press in England with introduction and notes by Dr. Robert T. Rickert of East Carolina and R.A. Foakes, British scholar.

Dr. Jenkins commended East Carolina's newest student publication, the literary magazine "The Rebel," which he said has received praise in North Carolina newspapers and from eminent literary men in the state.

As examples of outstanding work in the department of music he cited the spring production of "South Pacific," which played for five nights to capacity audiences, and the concert in Asheville by the East Carolina Concert Band, chosen to perform at auditions covering an eleven-state area.

In athletics, Dr. Jenkins pointed out, East Carolina has won this year in the North State Conference the golf championship, the singles and doubles tennis championships, and the baseball championship.

In behalf of the senior class, Mr. Williams presented to Dr. Jenkins checks for the purchase of display cases for the Joyner Memorial Library and for a new gymnasium, when it is erected in the future at the college.

Awards to seniors with superior records in the departments of instruction were received by Travis L. Herring, Seven Springs, and Agnes F. Rhue, Swansboro, mathematics; Mary Janice Edwards, Smithfield, and Henry C. Vansant, Greenville, Health and physical education; Dennis P. Lynch, Fayetteville, and Wesley Mearle Meekins, Manteo, geography; Cynthia Parker, Stokes, and Tommy Heath, Randleman, foreign languages; Peggy Wynne, Franklinton, and Betty Jean Mobley, Winterville, education; Miner K. Brotherton, Greenville, and Mary Rebecca Hill, Kinston, science; Luther Gillon, Kannapolis, and Ann Darden, Williamston, music; Mikki C. ## Sokolsky Col.

(Continued from Page 4) note the fact. The silence on this subject is appalling but it is characteristic of this war that we should not raise our voices in protest or that we should take no action. The reason is, of course, that this war is on multiple fronts and nobody knows where to strike or where we will be struck.

It is in such a period that pettiness must give way to objectivity. There is too much to lose in the shilly-shally of political press-agentry.

Thanks...

I wish to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to those who supported me in the recent city election.

Sincerely,

Ford McGowan

Pitt's New Bookmobile Sees Its Program Grow

The new Pitt County bookmobile is experiencing a rapid growth in its program, evident in an increased circulation.

Circulation of books the first three weeks of operation was 1,100 books. For the month of April, a total of 5,066 books were circulated throughout the county.

Miss Mary Hawkins, formerly associated with Dr. Andrew Best's health education program, is heading the organizational stages and operation of the bookmobile as librarian. Her assistant is Miss Evelyn Mobley.

Miss Hawkins has found, in her first months of operation, cooperation from everyone. And she has found that hers is a public relations job that is continuing beyond the first rounds of organizing her schedule. The bookmobile was purchased and placed into operation this year, following a county-wide fund raising campaign, which included Greenville, to serve Negro children and adults previously without this library service.

Books circulated by the bookmobile are free to the public, except for charges for lost or damaged books.

Now that the bookmobile is nearing completion of its first trial schedule, the program is ready to enter its second stage. Books have been circulated on a two-week basis, but if the number of patrons increases much more books may be circulated on a three-week basis.

Service will continue during the summer months, with a new schedule and new patrons being added to the list of those already on the schedule. New persons and communities who want to be added to the bookmobile schedule may contact Miss Hawkins at the nearest stop in their community. In this way, the librarian will know the exact location of the new stop.

Or the librarian may be reached through letter or telephone in care of the Sheppard Memorial Library, Greenville.

Usually bookmobile stops are made where the service will be the most people the most good. There are a few isolated stops where good reading patrons live, Miss Hawkins commented.

Public Relations

All along the route, the bookmobile becomes known for the first time to some and better acquainted with others. Miss Hawkins said that even though the bookmobile does not always travel the main highways, it is being promoted. Many people do not know there is a bookmobile, so that when they or their neighbors see it, new interest is being created. The bookmobile travels some 55 to 60 miles daily on its winding route.

Books Read

Miss Hawkins has observed that the adult population along the route prefers books of a general type, on farming and home activities. The greatest demand is for books on Negro history and religion—there is more demand than supply.

Many parents are now seeking to acquaint their children with books, since the children are beginning school next fall. Though the children can't read, they can look at the pictures.

A number of the adult readers who enjoy reading can't read as much as they like due to failing eyesight. These readers may take a book for two weeks and then renew it, since they have to read more slowly.

Miss Hawkins observed that they always express appreciation for being able to read. Teachers seem very pleased with the operation of the bookmobile, which is making books available to some who have not had access. The bookmobile circulates among schools in the county, as well as making com-community and individual stops.

Teachers have been able to increase their reading assignments for pupils with the availability of more books, Miss Hawkins said. And the students enjoy reading, too!

In the matter of reading selection, often the librarian is left to decide what book a patron will read. Sometimes notes are left—pinned to a bush or a porch rail—asking that the librarian leave a book of her choice to be read. This, of course, requires considerable insight and tact on the part of the librarian.

Most of the people feel that it is an honor to have the bookmobile stop at their particular house or store. Often there is a lunch prepared, and hospitality always prevails.

The end result is that Miss Hawkins enjoys her work, and the people she works with. Home Demonstration Club members, particularly, have helped circulate books among those patrons who can't always be at the stopping point. School principals and teachers, who helped in the organizational phases, are commended by Miss Hawkins.

She has carried her job as a bookmobile librarian into her own community, where library books are kept for those who wish to read them. Here, her mother helps to circulate the books among those who live near Grimesland.

The Hobby Of Genealogy Takes Years Of Searching For Clues

Mrs. L. Soderberg's hobby, genealogy, has involved her in a 30-year search for a family Bible.

Recently, Mrs. Soderberg ran an ad in The Daily Reflector requesting information in the following manner: "Wanted—Bible: Willis Randolph—Va. to N.C. about 1789 Extensive landholder—d. after 1829. Four sons and three daughters. Gave land to East Coneta Creek Baptist Church, 1789. Does anyone know of, or have possession of the family Bible with its records? Would like to see."

Mrs. Soderberg believes the Bible she is searching for is related to one found belonging to Jesse Randolph, brother of James Randolph. Through a line of descendants, Jesse and James are believed related to Willis Randolph, as all had the same grandfather.

By finding the family Bible with all its records, Mrs. Soderberg hopes to prove that Willis Randolph who moved to Pitt County from Virginia was the same Willis Randolph whose family lived in Norfolk County, Virginia. This information will help in tracing a family tree, which is the meaning of genealogy.

The fact that there were three different Willis Randolphs who lived about the same time in Norfolk County, Virginia has clouded the question of which Willis Randolph came to Pitt County. Of these three, one Willis Randolph died in 1790, Mrs. Soderberg said, and he is eliminated from the possibilities. However, it is not known which of the two remaining Willis Randolphs came to Pitt, or if both perhaps came to North Carolina.

The fact that many families moved from Virginia to North Carolina has provided further obscurity.

There is a big "if" to this search. If Mrs. Soderberg can prove that the Willis Randolph who came to Pitt from Virginia was the same Willis R. who married Priscilla White of Virginia, then she will have a definite link with the family chain of Randolphs, of which she herself is a member.

The usefulness of a family Bible in the construction of a family tree and in the study of genealogy should not be underestimated.

In the old family Bibles were kept marriage records as well as birth and death certificates, family names and other vital statistics. Thus, the sought-after Bible could well provide the link needed in Mrs. Soderberg's search.

She pointed out that historical societies have asked people to have parts of their old family Bibles photostated, including the front of the Bible, which contains the date the Bible was published as well as the location, and the important family records.

Records contained in county courthouses, such as here in Pitt County, are of invaluable assistance in tracing family trees. Not only are records of marriages recorded, but transfer of land from one family member to another, or to a daughter or son-in-law, often help provide links in family trees or show the route to knowledge.

It was through a record that Mrs. Soderberg linked James and Jesse Randolph with Willis Randolph. She says she had not thought too much about connecting the families of Willis Randolph, and of Matthew Randolph (Matthew was father to James and Jesse) until she found a power of attorney at the courthouse here.

Jesse gave James Randolph power of attorney to act in his behalf in the inheritance of their grandfather, Thomas Randolph Norfolk who died in 1750. He had three sons, James, Thomas and Willis Randolph. Thomas had a son Matthew and Matthew had sons James and Jesse, as well as a daughter, Fannie, and possibly another son, George.

Willis had a son named Willis (the one who may have married Priscilla White) as well as another son, Willoughby and a daughter, Rachel Elizabeth.

One of the mysteries about

Willis Randolph II is the fact that he was an extensive landholder in Pitt County, though this land has not been sold extensively, records reveal.

Another clue in the searches of genealogy is old cemeteries. Here, family dates and names and histories are often provided. Mrs. Soderberg hopes eventually to investigate this possible link in her study of the Randolph family tree.

At present time, Mrs. Soderberg is helping two women check records of their families, and she has looked up "quite a few records for other people," Mrs. Soderberg, a member of the East Carolina College faculty, has lived in Greenville five years now. She works at her hobby during vacations only, unless there is an urgent request from someone.

She is a member of the daughters of the American Revolution, National Genealogical Society, the Tennessee Historical Society, among other things. She also subscribes to the magazines of several state historical societies.

Experts Believe Gagarin Did

Editor's Note—Ever since the Soviet Union reported that Yuri Gagarin had orbited the earth, there have been some doubters who refuse to accept the Soviet announcement as fact. This article gives the basis for their skepticism and presents also the view of others who see no reason for rejecting the Soviet version.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Writer NEW YORK (AP)—Did Yuri Gagarin really orbit the earth to become the world's first spaceman?

U.S. officials and scientists in the best position to know say they are sure he did, and on that basis President Kennedy cabled congratulations.

But skeptics raise a chorus of doubts, and cite numerous reasons.

Moscow itself could stifle all skepticism, by supplying records, witnesses, and details of the flight to the Federation Aeronautique Internationale (FAI) in Paris which authenticates aviation and space world records.

On April 12, Moscow wired the FAI the names of the pilot and spaceship, the Vostok, and said a space flight had been made. The telegram gave no other details but did say supporting evidence would be forwarded within the required time limit of two months and eight days, said an FAI official who asked not to be quoted by name.

But to have claims authenticated, say aviation experts, Moscow would have to describe the model and type of spacecraft, the engine or engines, special apparatus aboard, the landing controls and the date, time and place of lift-off and landing.

It is highly debatable whether Moscow, which always has kept such information secret, will put it on open record now.

The United States, the FAI official said, also quickly advised the flight of Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr. He said the FAI expects to receive the supporting data within the required time.

Shepard's flight was held open by, and Jacques Avez, FAI president, was a witness at Cape Canaveral.

The Soviet Union can claim world records for duration of manned orbital flight (1 hour and 23 minutes out of 10 total minutes from lift-off to landing); altitude (110 to 10 miles); and for the greatest mass (five tons) lifted into orbit.

The United States can claim records for altitude without earth orbit (115 miles) and for greatest mass lifted without earth orbit (3,000 pounds).

Well, did Gagarin go, or go when he's said to have gone?

Looking at all available information, including that from U.S. tracking stations, there's no doubt the flight was made, says James Webb, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Still doubters talk on such points as these:

1. The landing: Reports conflict whether Gagarin parachuted from his capsule, or landed inside the capsule. On Wednesday of this week he said he returned to earth in his spaceship. The landing spot is not pinpointed.

In a news conference several weeks ago, Gagarin did not clearly how he landed, saying only that the parachute technique is one of many landing techniques developed, and that the landing "demonstrated the success of all systems developed for the flight."

On April 24, Izvestia said he could land without leaving the cabin, or could catapult it by parachute at an altitude of 4.34 miles.

2. Some London newspapers carried stories suggesting Gagarin's flight was made several days before April 12. One, the Communist Daily Worker, said an astronaut had orbited the earth three times on April 7, and was under medical care.

But Dr. Hugh Dryden, NASA deputy director, said: "We would have known if they had put up a satellite (before April 12) and they did not."

Izvestia denied a report that Vladimir Ilyushin, son of the famous Soviet airplane designer, had been seriously injured in a space flight before April 12. It said he was in Hangchow, China, recovering from a serious leg injury incurred way back last June in an auto accident in Moscow.

3. Some say the Soviets would never talk about a dangerous flight while it was in progress, for fear of embarrassing failure, so Gagarin must have been back when he was reported to be in flight.

A counterargument is the Soviets would never gamble on being caught in a hoax which could be uncovered, especially through the U.S. tracking system, of which the Soviets are well aware. And their launches with dogs beforehand had given them confidence in recovering Gagarin.

4. Gagarin said he saw a beautiful view, and gave details. But a Soviet rocket chief, A. A. Blagoravov, at a space meeting in Italy, said Gagarin's ship had no porthole. Later, he retracted, saying the Soviets had several types of spaceships, and he wasn't sure which had been used.

In Washington when Sputnik I went up, Blagoravov made several statements about that satellite which conflicted with official Soviet reports. Gagarin said he had a porthole. Izvestia on April 24 said his ship had three portholes.

On this and other points, London observers commented: Some seeming contradictions may not be real, because Westerners often assume that any statement made is a final and definite Soviet version. But in the excitement, it's possible that the first Soviet accounts could contain errors, or that their scientists could misunderstand some information they were getting second-hand.

5. How could Gagarin's voice be heard all around the world, as one Moscow report said?

Soviet reports, say the New York Times, describe a radio-telephone system with two short-wave channels, with at least one of them being usable on "most" of the orbit. And Gagarin's words at times could have been tape-recorded, for play-back when he was within range of a Soviet ground station.

U.S. officials don't question the flight, apparently partly through data gathered by a far-flung tracking system, some of whose operations are still secret.

This includes a 3,000-mile-range radar in Turkey, and another and probably improved station in the Aleutian Islands.

Tracking could determine if and when a satellite, or missile, had gone up, without saying whether a man was inside. Other intelligence methods, perhaps by monitoring a spaceman's messages, or other intelligence sources not disclosed could supply the basis for the U.S. acknowledgment and the congratulations to Gagarin.

Received Fraternity Award

OUTSTANDING BROTHER AWARD . . . presented to Don Conley, member of ECC's Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, by alumnus counselor of the campus chapter, Fred Robertson (right).

East Carolina College's chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity Thursday night presented its first annual "Alumnus counselor Outstanding Brother Award" to a Greenville native.

Don Conley, son of Mr. and Mrs. D.H. Conley of Greenville, received the award from Pika Fred Robertson, alumnus counselor for the fraternity.

Conley, who is scheduled to receive a bachelor's degree in business administration in August, was selected on the basis of his "all-round ability in both fraternity and campus affairs," Robertson said.

The alumnus counselor, who selected Conley from six nominees, said the recipient met these requirements: participation in fraternity activities, participation in campus organizations and activities, favorable attitude toward the fraternity and contribution to both ECC and Pika.

Conley was initiated into the ECC chapter in February, 1959, and has served as secretary, vice president and summer correspondent for Pika. He has been active in ECC's Interfraternity Council, serving as president and vice president of that organization.

An ECC golf star, Conley is current co-captain of the Pirate golf squad and recently captured top honors in the North State Conference Golf Tournament for the second consecutive year.

Pitt Forest Service Ranger Tyson Retiring

After 19 years of service, Pitt County Forest Service Ranger N. S. Tyson will retire July 1.

Tyson has been associated with the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development in its Forests-Pre-Control Program since Aug. 15, 1942.

District Forester E.F. Corn of Rocky Mount says Tyson has been a "faithful employe and much progress has been made in reducing the number of forest fires in the county."

The N.C. Forest Service will continue a program of forest fire suppression, fire prevention, law enforcement and information and education in Pitt County after the forest ranger job is vacated by Tyson. In addition, the forest service program will be expanded in assisting woodland owners of Pitt County in the proper management of their forest stands, to assist the Soil Conservation Service in technical phases of the Small Watershed Program and to assist the County ASC Office in technical phases of ACP Forestry practices.

The demand for more assistance in forest management, good cutting practices, planting seedlings, eliminating undesirable hardwoods, marketing assistance, and in many other technical aspects of forestry is increasing in Pitt County.

When Tyson vacates the forest ranger job, a man will be hired who has had sufficient training to assist C and D foresters in providing forest management assistance to landowners and agricultural agencies in the County. The title of the new job will be "forestry aide."

Effective July 1, also, Ben Forrest will be promoted to full time employment as assistant forest ranger with primary duties in forest fire control. Duties and positions of other forest service employees in the county will remain the same.

Pitt Applicants

Any Pitt County resident, who is qualified, may apply for the forestry aide job by addressing a letter of application to E. F. Corn, District Forester, P.O. Box 88, Rocky Mount, before May 22.

The letter should state the applicant's educational background and work experience. Qualified applicants will be interviewed in Pitt County. If no local qualified applicant is available, a graduate of the University of Florida, Forest Ranger School will be employed to fill the new job.

To be qualified for the Forestry Aide job, a man must meet all the following requirements:

Qualifications

Must be between 21 and 45 years of age; must be of good character and pass a prescribed physical examination; must have a telephone if employed; cannot hold another job that pays a wage or salary if employed; must establish residence reasonably near the center of the county if employed.

Must have a working knowledge of simple surveying and mapping; must have knowledge of methods and techniques used in selecting trees to be cut after the prescription of a professional forester; must have ability to compute volume of standing trees, determine volume of cut timber and other forest products.

Must have knowledge of forest fire control measures; must have knowledge of the various equipment to be used in his assigned areas; ability to keep accurate field notes; ability to write reports dealing with all phases of forestry work in which he is engaged.

Ability to make talks on forestry to schools and other interested groups; ability to perform arduous physical labor for extended periods of time; must be a graduate of high school and graduate of a 12-month course in a forest ranger school.

Two years college may be substituted for the 12-month forest ranger school requirement if, through training and experience, the applicant is able to demonstrate his ability to satisfactorily perform all the duties listed above. The beginning salary for the forestry aide at present is $3,996 annually.

Home Ec Club Installs Officers

The new officers for the 1961-1962 term of the Home Economics Club at East Carolina College were installed at a recent meeting in the Flanagan Building on the college campus. Miss Betty Frazier of Rt. 4, Henderson will serve as president of the club.

A junior student at East Carolina with a major in home economics, Miss Frazier served as vice president of the Home Economics Club during the 1960-1961 term, and as president of Garrett Hall, dormitory for women. She is a member at large of the Student Government Association, and a member of the Alpha Delta Phi, social sorority of the college.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leon Frazier of Rt. 4, Henderson.

The purpose of the Home Economics Club is to place special emphasis upon the promotion of greater interest in the field of Home Economics, international fellowship, and the provision of means by which students may develop in leadership and initiative.

Other officers installed in addition to Miss Frazier are Audrey D. Holloman of Harrellsville, vice president; H. Sheron Keel of Robertsonville, secretary; and Annie Marie Riddick of Rt. 1, Hobbsville, treasurer.

Judith Ann Simpson of Rt. 1, Jamesville is the Home Economics Club reporter of the East Carolina, campus weekly student publication, while Brenda R. Smith of Thomasville serves as reporter of the Buccaneer, college year book.

Reviews And Reflections

By JIM POINDEXTER

There was a student riot at Harvard last week.

The reason for this unruly demonstration of hundreds of undergraduates was an administration decree that henceforth all Harvard diplomas will be written in English instead of the traditional Latin — which few Harvard men, even, can read these days.

The fracas was a good one triggered by an article (headlined in Latin, of course) in the college paper announcing the fulfilling. There was a speech to the crowd by a student dressed in a toga and a march upon the President's house to the accompaniment of shouts of "Latin, si Pusey, no!" The President was told that "Diplomas in English are as embarrassing as operas in English."

Poindexter

Dangers In English

The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, editorializing upon the event, sided with the students: "Once start using English on diplomas and there's no telling what consequences might start broadcasting ball-games in English. English might become the language of rock 'n' roll. English might even penetrate the Pentagon and its paperwork. What happens to our national security then?"

Meanwhile, in Chapel Hill the students opened the spring riot season by demonstrating over the dismissal of a favorite basketball player. Their diplomas have been in English for years.

Adventures

There are several signs of increasing interest among Americans in reading — even serious reading. One is the appearance in the "Saturday Evening Post" (circulation over six million) during the past year of a series of articles by distinguished thinkers on science, philosophy, and the arts called "Adventures of the Mind." Although begun with some skepticism by the editors, this series has been a hit with both readers and writers. No wonder the latter are pleased, since they make 25 hundred per article. As for the readers, their reactions to the rich diet have been enthusiastic, in spite of the fact that the "Post" traditionally has been strictly middle-brow in its slant.

Another encouraging sign is reflected in the current "Life," which reports a boom in the book trade. This has been partly caused by the availability of paperbacks to the casual shopper in supermarkets, drugstores, and wherever else anything is sold.

When one checks the quality of bestsellers over the past decade however, it becomes apparent that public taste is strange and unpredictable and not very discriminating. For example, in 1960, one of the most popular works was "Folk Medicine," the book which so badly inflated the blood pressure of the medical profession by prescribing horrid and vinegary as practically cure-all.

And, incidentally, Jean Kerr's "The Snake Has All the Lines," which we mentioned first last

THE HAUNTED STARS

EDMOND HAMILTON

From the novel published by Torquill Books; © 1960 by Edmond Hamilton; Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Partly because they were awestruck at the sight of the Hall of Suns, and partly because they were too tired to move, the Earthmen simply stood where they were and stared for the space of several minutes.

The icy gale that had sprung up began to make clear places in the sky for the sun to shine through, so that long slanting fingers of smoky light streaked and shifted over the mountains. One of them touched squarely on the Hall of Suns and woke a brilliant flash of pure gold from its highest pinnacle, and then moved on.

The top of the mountain had been levelled to make a massive pedestal, and after all these thousands of years the pedestal still held its burden proudly and with indomitable strength. The mountain had not changed much. But the building that crowned it had suffered.

Even at this distance and in that late and eerie light it was apparent that the massive domes of the Hall were shattered and its walls breached by the relentless weight of time. And still it was grand and beautiful, with its mighty approaches to it climbing in sweeping curves up the flanks of the mountain as though they were designed for whole populations to march upon abreast.

Fairlie looked at it, forgetting for the moment his chill discomfort and aware of a sudden stinging in his eyes, a mingling of pride and grief. It was as though the ruined monument to a long-lost glory belonged personally to him.

DeWitt was shaking Fairlie rudely by the arm. DeWitt had no time for poetic thoughts or unproductive emotions. He had Thravn in his other hand.

"Ask him," DeWitt said. "Are those approaches still intact? Can we get the traces up there? Is the building reasonably sound or must we be careful of collapse?"

Fairlie asked the questions.

Thravn shook his head. "I don't know. I can't tell you."

"He's lying," DeWitt said impatiently when Fairlie translated. He caught Thravn by the front of his borrowed windbreaker and shook him. He said to Thravn in English, "It won't do you one bit of good."

"Tell him," said Thravn to Fairlie, "that I never went any farther than this." His teeth rattled and he looked at DeWitt with vicious dislike.

Fairlie said sharply, "Let him go. He's never been in the place. He came this far and looked at it, but obviously he didn't have nerve enough to go on and actually climb the mountain."

DeWitt said, "Ask him why."

Fairlie asked.

Thravn said, "Because that is where the Liorn came. It was pleasant and exciting to stand here and see the Hall of Suns and dream of past glories, but that was enough for me. I had no wish to go closer."

DeWitt smiled briefly. "Tell him he's going now."

But Thravn had turned away and was standing with Aral, who kept her head averted from the distant Hall of Suns as though even the act of seeing it was enough to invite destruction. Thravn looked at Fairlie over her head.

"We've led you as far as we can. Now let us go."

Fairlie passed this on to DeWitt and added, "It's true, DeWitt. I don't see what more you can get out of them."

"Maybe nothing," said DeWitt, "or maybe everything. They know a lot about what went on here in the old days, from the legends and traditions. They can still help us if they can come free or get out of them."

"Maybe nothing," said DeWitt, "or maybe everything. They know a lot about what went on here in the old days, from the legends and traditions. They can still help us if they can come free or get out of them."

"He won't let you stay, he won't let anything delay him now. You'll be dragged, if necessary. Tell her, Thravn."

Thravn had fear in his own eyes but he looked at DeWitt's striding figure, then whispered urgently to Aral. Fairlie could guess what he was saying. We have to go but we'll get away as soon as we can, we'll slip away somehow.

Fairlie felt sorry for them and impatient with them and a little guilty about them, all at once. Yet he had told them the truth. Nothing was going to hold up DeWitt. Not now.

on his mountain, was like a gigantic fist-grabbing for the sky. It was the ultimate, frozen-forever expression of the Vanry pride and glory. It was not beautiful, but it was overpowering.

The fading light showed the massive curving roadways that swept up around the mountain. And it showed them worn and cracked and blocked with rocks, debris and mud. No vehicle could make it up there now.

"Here's where we walk some more," said Winsted in a dismal voice, as the traces stopped.

DeWitt was already out of the trace. His voice rang. "Make up your minds. Bring the radio, the few guns we have, as many rations as possible. And hurry, before it gets dark."

The men hurried, working silently but fast. The same fever that powerfully gripped DeWitt had touched them, and Fairlie felt it also. Then he looked at Thravn and Aral.

Aral's face was white with desperate terror as she looked up the side of the vast bulk. She said rapidly, "I will not go up there."
