Beauty Tricks From Vicki Trickett

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The key to your personality and popularity could be a beauty asset that you are ignoring, says pretty brown-eyed screen actress Vicki Trickett.

"Learn to lift your eyebrows for more expression. Make your hair a frame for your face. And don't forget, a pretty smile is one of the best assets a girl can have."

Vicki's charm is punctuated by two dimples. "If you depend on artificial beauty aids to give you glamor, you'll be lost without them," she says. "Pamper your own beauty assets and they'll be there when you want to call them into play. And you won't be tempted to try to look like someone else, always fatal to a girl's individuality."

Her smile has literally been her fortune. In Omaha, jobs between college classes included modeling for photography and fashion shows and appearing on more than 400 local television commercials. She was discovered by her smile—at a horse show in Phoenix, Ariz., by Tab Hunter, who suggested she go to Hollywood. She has been in two movies, "Pepe" and "Gidget Goes Hawaiian."

Vicki's beauty prescription includes lots of exercise. She swims, plays water skis, and plays basketball.

One of her hobbies is cooking but she is plagued by boys who've discovered her cooking, which is tough on the budget. But she tells this to them when they call, "If you want a steak, you'd better bring it with you."

At 20, Vicki regrets she didn't finish college. After attending high school in Kansas City where she was born, she went a year to the University of Omaha.

"I've been meaning to get back to it. It might take five years to get a degree, but it would be worth it. I'd major in psychology. It would come in handy whether I stayed in Hollywood, or got married."

With Farm Women

OLD MACHINE CONVERTED INTO TABLE. How would you like to have a new table for your home at little expense? Mrs. Fred Snow, Dobson, Rt. 2, has converted an old sewing machine into a table.

Miss Ella Hampton, assistant home economics agent in Surry County, says Mrs. Snow cleaned the machine base and made a birch top for the table. She is doing a second machine base so she will have a pair of tables to use in her birch paneled den.

NEW SPRING OUTFITS. Home Demonstration Club members in Lincoln County have found they can save money by making their clothes.

According to Mrs. Charlotte Rumley, home economics agent, the women wore dresses they had made to their club meetings. They reported having saved from $3 to $36 by making their own outfits.

32.20 and a day's work. Mrs. Grover Horton of Franklin County has a new chair. Mrs. Horton recently found an old chair and tore it apart. She put in extra springs, padding and webbing, and reupholstered it for $32.20.

Mrs. Frances Fuller, assistant home economics agent, says Mrs. Horton now has a new looking channel back chair.

CONSTRUCTION OF WINDOW CURTAINS. "Homemakers in Montgomery County have been busy learning to make different types of window curtains," reports Mrs. Martha Harris, home economics agent.

"Eighteen club women attended a workshop and made tier curtains, ruffled curtains, and lined draperies. Now these women will be able to teach others in their community how to make curtains."

CLUB PRESIDENT MAKES HATS. Mrs. R. L. Searle, Wire Grass Club president in Carteret County, is teaching club women in her county the "tricks of the trade" in hat making. Mrs. Floy Garner, home economics agent, says Mrs. Searle studied millinery for two years and makes an excellent teacher for the women.

Mrs. Foster Morris, who is a clothing leader, is attending workshops with Mrs. Searle so she can learn techniques involved in hat making and then help teach at the workshops.

SEWING MACHINE ATTACHMENTS. Do you use your sewing machine attachments? Mrs. Nell Garrison, home economics agent in Henderson County, found her club women were not using their attachments regularly. "You should use your attachments," said Mrs. Garrison, "because you have invested your money in them. They will save time and energy. They also will help your garments have a more finished look."

The club women carried their attachments to the club meetings and learned how to use them.

Mrs. Corey Is Club Hostess

Mrs. Levy Corey was hostess to the Semi-Cent Book Club Tuesday night at her home on Eastern Street.

Mrs. Norman Little, president, welcomed the guests and presided over the business meeting. She read a list of the new officers for the coming year: president, Mrs. Norman Little; vice president, Mrs. Charles Hudson; secretary, Mrs. Harry Douglas; treasurer, Mrs. Leslie Garner.

The members voted to give a donation to the P.-T.-A. summer kindergarten.

Mrs. Corey served strawberry shortcake to members and her guest, Mrs. Charlie Bynum.

Books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

Red Banks HD Club Meets

Fifteen members were present for the May meeting of the Red Banks H. D. Club. One new member, Mrs. R. H. Heath Jr., was added.

Mrs. Karl Hardee opened the meeting and Mrs. R. H. Heath Jr. played for the singing of "Holy, Holy, Holy." Mrs. Hugh Hardee Jr., vice president, gave a personal 23rd Psalm, each verse being applied to one's self. Mrs. Albert Bell, president of County Council, was a visitor.

Mrs. S. B. Tucker, treasurer, was instructed to buy a new garbage can, and new rulings were made.

Persons using the building are expected to dispose of their own trash:

1. Always bring a container for such.

Mrs. Glenn Hardee was made chairman for clean-up day to be held soon.

Mrs. S. B. Tucker, health leader, paid $5.00 toward the Cancer Fund. Mrs. R. H. Heath Jr. was appointed "Arts and Crafts" leader, to take Mrs. Oia Kittrell's place.

Mrs. Mavis Johnson gave the demonstration "Know the Facts of Table Setting" for all occasions. Many helpful points were brought out on this subject.

Members were reminded of the recreation and picnic meeting to be held on June 16 at 7 o'clock.

The hostesses, Mrs. Glenn Hardee, served delightful refreshments. Mrs. Worth B. Hardee won the door prize.

Benefit Dance To Be Held

The Moose Lodge will hold their regular club dance Saturday at the lodge at 9 p.m., with proceeds going to the Pitt County Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Advance tickets will be available at Biggs Drug Store. This is the last fund raising event of this year for the society. The "Highlighters" will provide music for the evening.

Recent Bridal Couple Honored

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Johnson were honored at a buffet supper Saturday night given by Mr. and Mrs. Richard V. Haar and Mrs. F. B. Haar at the Richard Haars' home.

Upon arrival the honoree was presented a corsage of pink peonies. The guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Haar and Mrs. F. B. Haar.

Guests were served tomato juice cocktails and hors d'oeuvres and then shown to the dining room. The table was centered with an arrangement of pink roses. Throughout the home pink peonies were used in arrangements.

The hostesses presented Mr. and Mrs. Johnson with a gift of brass.

4-H Show Winners Named

A singing act of three selections won first prizes for Jackie Moye of the Fountain 4-H Club in the 4-H Club Talent Show, held at the Agriculture Building last night.

Second place was taken by Wilma Tyson, who performed a singing and dancing act to "Down on the Farm" and third place was won by Goldie Worthington of Winterville-Greenville Club who did a pantomime of "A Guy Is a Guy."

Honorable mention went to two other acts, including Jewell Perkins of Stokes who performed a pantomime, "Puppy Love" and to a group from the Grimesland Club singing "I Believe" accompanied by Mrs. Clara Carr. The group consisted of Lou Anna Haddock, Connie Hardee, Shirley Buck and Linda Morgan.

Cash prizes were awarded the first, second and third place winners. Judges were Willie Pate and Mrs. Ronnie Vansant. Seventeen acts were in the show.

The other entries included a pantomime of "Yakety-Yak" by Dianne Whitehurst, Elaine Buck, Shirley Meeks, Jeanette Farmer, Ellen Baker of Falkland singing "Let There Be You"; Gayle Little of the Red Oak community on the piano with "Elliot's Glide"; Linda Sue Sutton of the Red Oak Community Club with a piano selection of "Enchanted"; Cathy Watson of the Stokes Club singing "Now Is the Hour"; Anne Brewer of the Belvoir Club playing the cord organ with selection of

"Farewell to Thee" and "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Cathy Watson of Stokes with piano selections of "Exodus" and "Asia Minor"; Marilyn Hardison of the Stokes Club singing "Me and My Teddy Bear"; Jewell Perkins of Stokes on the piano with "Sabre Dance"; Linda Smith, Judy Jones and Merlene with a dance to "Caroline in the Morn-

Some TV Shows Given A 'Pat' By FCC Chairman

NEW YORK (AP) — In his strongly-worded speech the new chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, Newton N. Minow, lambasted television programming, deploring the "relentless search for the highest rating and the lowest common denominator."

Although he struck at the "proposition" of situation comedies, action-adventure, quiz and variety programs, Minow last week did pat a few shows on the head. Among them were "CBS Reports" and NBC's "The Nation's Future," both public affairs programs which he called "marvelously informative."

Ironically, neither "CBS Reports" nor "The Nation's Future" has found a steady sponsor. Last month, the network offered its "CBS Reports" on Carl Sandburg at Gettysburg to 200 affiliated TV stations. The program was broadcast by 114.

"The Nation's Future" is available to all 197 of NBC's affiliated stations. At last count, 97 were putting the program on the air.

Sponsored programs, where an advertiser orders up a specific lineup of stations, do considerably better. CBS' Doug Edwards With the News program has a lineup of about 185 stations. NBC's Huntley-Brinkley Report reaches 161 TV stations.

Obviously, one of the big problems in uplifting TV is to find a way to persuade the local TV stations to use some of the better-grade unsponsored — thus unprofitable — material available.

And after that, there's the problem of wooing the public away from the westerns, private eyes and old movies.

"Whispering Smith," NBC's new Western series, made its debut Monday night with a switch: The heavy was a woman. Of course there was also the usual number of fast draws and baring; Terry Smith, Robert Halstead, Mike Mills and Jim Edwards of Chicod doing three short skits; Brenda Stocks and Diane Dixon of Chicod doing a pop to "Blue Moon."

Lily Harper, assistant home economics agent, and Ronnie Tharrington, assistant farm agent, are advisors to the 4-H Clubs of Pitt County.

room brawls, but the high spot came when the vengeful mother horsewhipped the son she trained to be a killer.

Audie Murphy, the World War II hero, stars as the soft-voiced lawman of the title, and singer Guy Mitchell plays his pal.

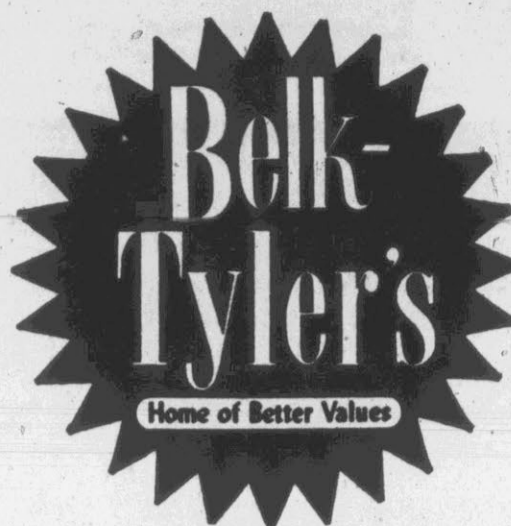

"The Valiant Years," based on Sir Winston Churchill's memoirs, winds up with the June 11 program. David Nelson of "Ozzie and Harriet" gets married May 20 to actress June Blair.

Dave Garroway returned to his show Monday, with a brief and serious thank-you for the thousands of messages he received on the death of his wife.

Recommended tonight: "Emmy Awards" Show, NBC, 10-11:30 (Eastern Daylight Time) — with Dick Powell and Joey Bishop as hosts.

No Reason To Look For A Panacea

An early summit meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev is to be hoped for not because it will produce any panacea for the world's problems, but rather that it may bring about an easing of international tension in several sections of the world.

With the experts viewing current chances of an early meeting between the two leaders on about a 60-40 basis, it is certainly too early to say what form the summit conference may take if it actually materializes. The scope of conversations between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev may be extremely formal and limited, or they may be more informal and cover a broad range of international problems.

The American people should be aware that the international situation at the moment does not put the United States in the position to demand of Khrushchev a meeting on international matters. Events in Laos in recent months have gone decidedly in favor of the communists and the United States has not yet been able to bring about the creation of the neutralist government of which Kennedy spoke some months ago. That entire tiny Asian nation is in immediate danger of coming under communist domination.

Within the past month the United States has suffered a serious set-back because of the ill-fated invasion of Cuba designed to bring about the downfall of Castro. This has affected the position of the United States in international affairs.

In the space race, the United States recouped some lost prestige by the flight of astronaut Shepard, but the fact remains that this recent space success of the United States did not match up to the feat of actual manned orbit which was accomplished earlier by the Soviets.

It would be a mistake, therefore, to expect that Premier Khrushchev will be anxious to meet with President Kennedy on whatever terms are set forth by the United States. At the same time it would be a mistake for President Kennedy to agree to a meeting with Khrushchev on Khrushchev's terms alone. It should not be surprising if Khrushchev is difficult to deal with in arranging such a meeting in spite of earlier indications by the Soviet Premier that he would like to meet face-to-face with President Kennedy.

Summit conferences in the past, for the most part, have served to ease international tensions at least on a temporary basis. That was not the case a year ago when Khrushchev refused to confer with President Eisenhower because of the U2 incident, but since then a new President of the United States has been named.

We view the prospect of an early meeting between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev as an opportunity to iron out at least some of the minor sources of international tension. As such it could be profitable both to the United States, the Soviet Union and the world as a whole. To anticipate that the conference would produce sweeping removal of most sources of international tension, however, would be a grave mistake on the part of the American people and the people of the free world.

Law Heeded On Many Elections

By LYNN NISBET
ELECTIONS — While North Carolinians, including members of the General Assembly who have taken specific oaths to support it, often do not comply with requirements of the State constitution. There is one item, however, which most communities observe meticulously. That is the admonition that "for redress of grievances, and for amending and strengthening the laws, elections should be often held."

Next to attending conventions the great American pastime is holding elections. The fact that many times only a minority percentage of the citizenship participates in the elections does not change the basic fact that the election was held and every citizen could have participated.

Federal and State constitutions require that elections be held every two years for members of the Congress and the General Assembly, and every four years for a President and Governor and other officers. More often than not statutory provisions for nominating candidates call for one or more primary elections. Then there are statutory requirements for elections of municipal officials, for special bond issues and tax levies, for legalizing sale of alcoholic beverages and numerous other governmental activities. It is a rare year when the big cities and counties in North Carolina do not have from two to half a dozen elections.

Take Raleigh and Wake county for example. There was a city primary for members of the council on April 18, an election on May 2. Already scheduled is a county-wide election on library bonds on June 6. In the making, though not yet ordered, is an election on additional taxes for local supplements in public schools. And probably a state-wide bond election for school house construction.

DEMOCRACY — The frequent elections is a concession to the idea of pure democracy as contrasted with the representative republican form of government. And as elections become more frequent and an increasing number direct vote of the people for solution, it is natural that effort should be made to make voting easier. Along with decline in the idea of responsible representative government and the trend toward popular majority vote on nearly all matters, has come deterioration in the concept of State sovereignty.

Several bills acted upon by the current Legislature emphasize citizenship in the United States or in a voting precinct, rather than citizenship in the State of North Carolina, as qualification for voting.

The original concept was that the United States was a union of sovereign independent States, and no one could be a voting citizen in the United States without being a voting citizen in one of the States. The original concept also was that each State should have two seats in the United States Senate, regardless of population, and these Senators were representative of the State, not the individual citizens. The provision was that Senators were elected by the Legislature or appointed by the Governor.

Subsequently by statute the plan of electing Presidential electors by name and charging them with responsibility for choosing a President and Vice President was changed and the names of the Presidential candidates were placed on the ballot for popular election.

CHANGED CONCEPT — The idea that citizenship in the United States is different from and perhaps more important than citizenship in any State found expression in several bills before the present Legislature.

One was to amend the Federal Constitution so that residents of the District of Columbia could vote for President and Vice President. Another would amend the State Constitution so that newcomers into the state might vote for President and Vice President after 30 days residence here instead of the one year required for general suffrage. Opposition to these bills was based largely on the belief that they represented first steps toward full voting privileges for everybody with less restrictions as to residence than had been the rule. Considered along with the recognized trend toward more Federal control of all elections, these innovations mean decreasing influence of State governments as such.

Although in some ways other proposed changes in the election laws might strengthen State control, the long range effect of proposals to shorten the time in which a second primary might be called to facilitate permanent loose-leaf registration and to promote the use of voting machines, will be to make voting easier for the average citizen.

Advocates of the proposals contend that if voting is made easier a larger percentage of the citizens will participate in elections, and that is a highly desirable result.

If A Choice Must Be Made, De-Emphasize

Gov. Sanford's assertion that serious consideration be given to possible de-emphasis of big-time basketball by branches of the Consolidated University is certain to bring stiff protests from basketball fans throughout North Carolina.

By and large, however, basketball fans are more disturbed than other citizens about the involvement of players of North Carolina colleges in the bribe scandal that is currently unfolding. If the choice eventually must be made between de-emphasizing big-time basketball in the schools of the state or continuing big-time basketball controlled by the gambling syndicates, the majority of the basketball fans will choose the former.

The game fixing which has been exposed by investigations in recent weeks has not helped collegiate basketball anywhere in the nation. It has cast a long shadow over the sport which has enjoyed fantastic popularity growth in recent years. At the same time the scandals have cast a shadow over every institution which has had one or more players involved in the bribery.

Certainly college and sports officials everywhere must give careful consideration to effective means of insulating amateur sports events from the influence of racketeers and game-fixers. If de-emphasis of big-time collegiate athletics is the only means by which that can be accomplished, then we believe even the most avid fans will agree with the choice. At the outset of such considerations the institutions themselves must carefully evaluate the relative value they have placed upon athletics as a part of their school program, and the emphasis they have placed upon producing winning teams with star players.

If point-shaving and game throwing for pay are a product of the system that has produced big-time collegiate athletics, it is essential that the system be changed.

Changes Seen In Summity Ideas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Time and events in a disorderly world denied the ideas of President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk about summity and travel.

Just a few months ago Kennedy indicated a meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev—who insulted President Eisenhower in Paris just a year ago Tuesday—was a long way off.

Now the American and Russian governments are dicker over bringing Kennedy and Khrushchev together in the near future.

Rusk was not only cautious about summit get-togethers for a President but even about travel for a secretary of state. Rusk, remembering that John Foster Dulles was the most traveled secretary in history, told a news conference March 9:

"I personally have felt my time can be spent to best advantage in Washington."

But in the two months since then he has attended four international conferences outside this country.

The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization worried about the increasing Communist takeover in Laos, in Bangkok, Thailand; the Central Treaty Organization worried about the possibility of revolution in Iran, in Ankara, Turkey; the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (anxious to mend its differences and show Russia a stiff lip) in Oslo, Norway; and now in Geneva, Switzerland, for a 14-nation conference on setting up a neutral government in Laos.

Unusual Tale Of A Voter

In looking back on the recent municipal elections around the county and state and anticipating future ones, we remembered what we considered a quite unusual story.

It was a tale this particular voter told us soon after the local election. And it struck us as rather strange. Strange because it afforded this voter a different approach at explaining his losing ballot.

While many persons apparently never admit they have voted for a losing candidate, this particular one was more than willing to admit defeat for his ballot.

But he was completely unconcerned about losing. Why? The candidates in whom he had REALLY placed his faith had emerged victorious. Only the ones he had VOTED for were defeated.

Confusing? Not really. At least not after you've heard his explanation of his wild ballotting.

He said he reasoned like this: The men he voted for, he said, "didn't have a chance of winning anyhow because if they had, I wouldn't have voted for them."

On the other hand, he explained, the winning candidates were going to win anyway "so they didn't even need my vote." The winners, he said, were the ones he'd wanted to win all the time.

"I gave my votes to them, not because I'd like to see them win, but because they're nice people and good friends of mine," he said.

At least this one person was honest about it.

A quick weekend jaunt to the coast has cost us slightly.

Of course, cost of such trips can usually be precalculated and minimized to a certain degree. But, as often happens, some items of expense are just unforeseeable. And we're not necessarily talking about expense in strict monetary terms.

We're talking about sunburn. And even that can be precalculated when planning a trip to the beach.

But how about a sunburned scalp? We usually think we have enough hair on top to ward off the burning rays of Old Sol.

This time we weren't so lucky. We simply forgot about that haircut last Friday. And with haircut prices rising constantly, we always get clipped dangerously close to the quick.

The price we paid for such a thinly-hatched roof was a very sun-sore dome.

But even then, we were not aware of the damage until that nylon-bristled brush hit the flat-top Monday morning.

Several of our Eastern legislators realize the potential dangers. But their voice is not being heard clearly by so many casual Democrats over the state.

If Mr. Jonas is the Republican gubernatorial nominee in 1964, it will be the job of the Democrats in Eastern North Carolina to get out the heavy vote to offset the GOP expected majority West of Raleigh. It could prove to be a most difficult job.

Now is the time to quit taking the election of a Democratic governor for granted. Mr. Jonas is no political freak. He is a strong candidate, be that candidacy for congressman or governor.

The Democrats, if they play hide and seek too long, or if they are indifferent, or if they take things for granted, might be in for a bitter awakening one day in 1964.

Other Editors Saying In Terms '64 Races

(Washington Daily News) The political pot is already beginning to show some signs of heat in North Carolina. Several Democrats have been prominently mentioned as candidates for governor. Among them are Cloyd Philpott, Joe Hunt, Spencer Bell, Bert Bennett, Bill Staton, and Basil Whitener.

As time goes on, more and more names will be floated into the political air to see how the public reacts. The name of Beverly Lake is still being mentioned occasionally. Some people say that by 1964 the state will be threadbare over the matter of taxes that the people will be ready to turn to a staunch conservative such as Dr. Lake.

That is speculation now, and no one can say what the picture will be in 1964. There is talk that Governor Sanford has picked this man or that man as his successor. That is idle gossip, too, because Mr. Sanford would hardly commit himself to any candidate this early in his administration.

But we cannot escape one or two important facts. The first is that there is no shortage of potential candidates among the Democratic forces in North Carolina. A dozen names could be mentioned easily right now, and each of those listed probably would be receptive to the nomination.

But another cloud looms heavy on the horizon. And if the Democrats of North Carolina do not play their cards wisely, then great sorrow could prevail within the party.

The Republicans have a man of demonstrated ability and a man who has proved that he can get the votes on election day. Charles Jonas, congressman from North Carolina's Tenth district, is being mentioned more and more as a possible candidate for governor in 1964. Mr. Jonas is a Republican.

Here in Eastern North Carolina, we all too often take it for granted that since we are so strongly Democratic that the election of a Republican governor is impossible. But let us take a good look.

Last year when Terry Sanford had as his opponent Robert Gavin, the area West of Raleigh went Republican then. Governor Sanford won by the smallest margin of any Democrat governor in our lifetime. And when we consider that Robert Gavin was hardly known when he announced his candidacy, that he had never demonstrated any vote getting ability, and that the Republican party itself had several other candidates who might have done better, the very picture should cause great concern to the true Democrats of North Carolina.

Charles R. Jonas would be a strong candidate. Make no mistake about that fact. Whether he would run or not remains to be seen. But if the Republicans of North Carolina persuade him to get into the race, then the Democrats certainly will have their work cut out for them.

Several of our Eastern legislators realize the potential dangers. But their voice is not being heard clearly by so many casual Democrats over the state.

If Mr. Jonas is the Republican gubernatorial nominee in 1964, it will be the job of the Democrats in Eastern North Carolina to get out the heavy vote to offset the GOP expected majority West of Raleigh. It could prove to be a most difficult job.

Now is the time to quit taking the election of a Democratic governor for granted. Mr. Jonas is no political freak. He is a strong candidate, be that candidacy for congressman or governor.

The Democrats, if they play hide and seek too long, or if they are indifferent, or if they take things for granted, might be in for a bitter awakening one day in 1964.

Public Forum

TO THE EDITOR— I should like to express my complete agreement with the views of Mrs. Janet Petterson whose letter concerning neighborhood conservation appeared in the Public Forum of Friday's paper.

Property owners favoring this form of slum clearance program have now an excellent opportunity to demonstrate to the people of Greenville how effectively this plan can work. There are other areas of our city, besides the one being considered for urban renewal which could benefit from such a program.

Surely the supporters of neighborhood conservation have not lost interest in the future of Greenville after the counting of the ballots in the recent straw vote. There is ample room here for both programs.

Very truly yours, Jean Lowry

Some More 'Beware's' For Buyer

By ELMER ROESSNER
Here are three beware's, two for travelers and one for hi-fi and other electronic kit purchasers:

1. If traveling abroad this summer, when buying items which you are not taking with you, insist that the seller send them to you direct.

If you don't, the seller may simply turn them over to a customs broker, who dispatches the goods to an American customs broker.

If you have included the articles in your quota of duty-free goods, you will have to furnish the receiving broker with proof of this, which may mean one or two trips to his office. Furthermore, you will have to pay the broker a fee, and pay for having the goods sent from customs to your address.

Is advising direct shipments, preferably through mail if light enough. I am not undercutting any free-enterprise American customs brokers. Most of them would rather not be bothered by these small-change transactions.

THE HONG KONG TRAP
2. If you visit Hong Kong, don't buy anything to take or send home unless the seller gives you a certificate of origin declaring that the item was not made in Communist China, and have American consular authorities inspect the certificate to make sure it is valid.

Without a valid certificate, the goods can't be imported into this country.

In a current case, an American traveler sent some dress material to her daughter. The traveler bought it at a mill where she saw similar textiles being made. Woven into the selvaige was a statement that it had been made in Hong Kong. But the Federal Reserve, which has charge of such matters, refused to let the daughter receive the goods. However, it sent the traveler an application for an export license, and she is re-exporting the fabric to a friend in England.

But if you haven't got a friend in England, better not buy anything in Hong Kong without a certificate of origin. Or, better yet, buy in Tokyo or Bangkok instead, where the red tape is thinner.

Empire Born Of Marx

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

For years, those who have studied Marxism and its Leninist development in Russia, have been calling attention to the fact that nothing less than the conquest of the entire Earth would satisfy the Marxist principle. This has been as clear as day since 1847. It is referred to in Communist literature as the inevitable historic clash between a new dynamic civilization and a decaying civilization which has served its purpose and is no longer needed.

Those who are unwilling to learn have asked those who for 40 years now have been warning against the menace, to refrain from exaggeration. In 1871, when the Russian Revolution occurred, there were a few who recognized the peril of the Bolshevik advance, but to most they were a fanatical band of incompetents, who would shortly fall. How incorrect this judgment was is evident today from the single fact that Soviet Russia is successfully building an enormous and incongruous empire and that only the United States has the power, if not the ability, to withstand the strength of the Soviet Universal State.

Soviet Russia is the first European country since 1961 to challenge the authority of the United States in the Western Hemisphere. The first effort was that of Napoleon III to put Maximilian of Austria on the throne of Mexico. The United States could do nothing about this because it was engaged in the War Between the States, but as soon as that war was over, the Monroe Doctrine was asserted; the Mexican rebel, Juarez, was given adequate support; Maximilian was dethroned and that was the end of a European effort to place itself in an imperial position in the Western Hemisphere.

What has happened in 1961? Soviet Russia has established a Marxist fortress in Cuba, controlled by an obvious paranoic who was actually put into power by our own State Department despite the available evidence that Fidel, his brother, Raul, and many of their associates were known to have had Communist affiliation. But Cuba is not alone. British Guiana, Venezuela, Ecuador, Panama, and possibly Brazil are being ripe for Communist revolutions. And it is in the face of such conditions that the State Department involves this country in a quarrel with the Dominican Republic which could be needed in our defense at any moment. More mistakes of policy have been made during the past 30 years than seems possible.

Even Canada, with which we have had cordial relations since the War of 1812, has been discovering our weaknesses and has become tolerant of anti-American propaganda. In fact, Canada is strengthening Cuba by trading with Cuba, there being no visible guarantee that some of the goods sent is not of American origin. Canada is also trading with Red China in opposition to our and their interest. The relations between the United States and Canada should have been such that the two countries stand together, at least, on the Cuban issue.

The question arises as to what we shall accomplish with the Organization of American States-OAS is a substitute for the Monroe Doctrine. It places upon the Latin American nations the responsibilities which formerly the United States assumed. Among these is the obligation to keep Europe and Asia out of the American Hemisphere. The question that arises now is whether Soviet Russia is establishing Cuba as part of a colonial empire or a satellite or a segment of the Soviet Universal State. And must the United States accept this violation of the Monroe Doctrine?

The assumption that Cuba is today governed by Fidel Castro, as a dictator, is nonsense. Cuba is governed as East Germany is as a fungary is all so-called Republics are, from the Kremlin. The country is full of Chinese Communists and Czechoslovakian Communists who are the effective rulers of the land. This is the technique that Soviet Russia has employed in every country that it has conquered. The so-called Peo-

Pentagon Chiefs Out Of Cuban Debate

Editor's Note: Why the silence at the Pentagon in the wake of the Cuban invasion? When will the joint chiefs be given an opportunity to tell their side of the story on the invasion failure? Fred S. Hoffman, Defense Department spokesman, covers these points in the following article.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — With blame for the Cuban invasion debacle starting to point more directly at them, the military chiefs have been barred by top-side orders from entering any kind of public defense or explanation.

This, on top of other recent actions muzzling the admirals and generals, has created resentment among some officers at the Pentagon who view the enforced silence on Cuba as setting up the military as a possible scapegoat. However, an appearance before a Senate Latin-American Affairs subcommittee later this week or early next week will give Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, an opportunity to present a case for the JCS.

Although military leaders are limited in what they can say publicly, these restrictions do not apply to appearances before congressional groups. If a congressman asks a question, he expects a military man to reply with reasonable frankness.

In the wake of the Cuban fiasco, the Central Intelligence Agency, the State Department, the White House staff and the joint chiefs have been criticized in varying degrees.

By means of "background briefings"—that is, informal news conferences and talks with reporters in which the source is not identified to readers—partisans of various U.S. officials and agencies involved have aired their viewpoints. They have said, in effect, "It wasn't us—it was the other guy."

Not so the joint chiefs. Besides Lemnitzer, this highest military body includes Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, and Gen. George H. Decker, Army chief of staff. Gen. David M. Shoup, Marine commandant, also sits with the joint chiefs when corps matters are involved.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has passed the word that the Pentagon isn't going to get into the debate over who's to blame for the failure in Cuba.

This, officials said, is in line with McNamara's orders against public statements by military men on policy matters. They said it also takes account of President Kennedy's statement accepting responsibility for U.S. actions figuring in the disaster, met by anti-Castro rebels on the beaches of Cuba.

Lemnitzer and Burke have come in for most of the criticism of the joint chiefs' role in the Cuban affair.

During the weekend, it was reported that Kennedy's confidence in the joint chiefs has been shaken severely. It was said, as it has been before, that Lemnitzer and Burke had given Kennedy a signed opinion that the Cuban operation made sense militarily.

The public is invited to attend and view the MACH II F-105 THUNDERCHIEF as well as 12 other combat ready aircraft. Along with the Air Force, the U.S. Marines and Army will have some of their latest defensive equipment available for the visitors to view.

If Kennedy should want to revamp the makeup of the joint chiefs, he has a ready opportunity to do so in at least two billets—Burke's third two-year term is due to expire in August and White's current term in July. Adm. James Russell, presently vice chief of naval operations, is being mentioned as a possible successor to Burke. Gen. Curtis Lemay, now vice chief of staff for the Air Force, is believed in line to succeed White.

Lemnitzer, an Army general, began his term as chairman of the joint chiefs only last September. At that time, Decker succeeded Lemnitzer as Army chief of staff. Shoup became Marine commandant in January 1960.

ple's Republics are socialist states, in transition, supervised by the Kremlin until they become Soviet republics.

Whether the OAS is capable of meeting such a situation is questionable. The OAS has thus far shown an inability to live up to the Caracas Agreement because those who govern the Latin American states are afraid of student mobs and similar mass uprisings and therefore, while supporting the United States in principle, dare do nothing about such support.

Symphony Plans Calendar Is Changed By New Generation

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Something has happened to the calendar in the last generation.

It has changed, the days don't mean what they used to.

In our well-ordered yesterdays, each day had a separate purpose and its own identity. You did certain things on certain days and the week wore a seemingly endless pattern of certainty and security.

Every day then had its own special character, but the week-end days were especially notable.

Sunday, for example, was the day you put on your best clothes, went to church, ate a fried chicken dinner at 2 p.m., took a nap, then spent the evening gossiping on the front porch and eating ice cream.

Questions of national principle as well as family policy—and who would win in the National League, the Giants or Cincinnati—were ironed out in these front porch discussions in the darkening summer twilight. The front porch then was the forum of America, and especially on Sunday evenings.

Sunday, however, no longer is quite the day it used to be, is it? Golf and television and the motor car have rather changed the Sabbath, and one wonders sometimes whether it is altogether for the better.

But the greatest change in the week's calendar has happened to Saturday and Friday.

Not so many years ago Saturday was the day of the week one spelled in capital letters.

Work ended at noon or 1 p.m. at the latest, and from then on Saturday was sheer magic.

Saturday was payday. Saturday was the day when no family, that held its head up in the neighborhood and had a feeling of local responsibility, failed to leave a series of rings in the bathtub.

Saturday was the day for haircuts, the kids in the afternoon and the grownups in the early evening.

Saturday was one long spurge of excitement, from the noon whistle until they rolled up the town sidewalks—along about midnight. It was the night of romance and adventure, when a younger fellow set out not knowing whether he would find love or a black eye.

All that is changed. Something happened to Saturday. Its magic has gone. People get paid on Friday now, and start the weekend sooner. Many stay home on Saturday night because they are tired and want to rest up for the fun of Sunday.

Yep, the week's calendar has been turned topsy-turvy in many ways.

But one day never changes. That is Monday, the day of inescapable responsibility. Nothing, one feels, will ever change the nature of Monday, the day when the alarm clock clangs again and civilization returns to its remorseless anvil.

Horsepower Matches Weight

NEW YORK (AP)—The automotive industry has reached a long-sought goal—an engine which will deliver one horsepower for each pound of its own weight.

A California engineering company, says Steelways magazine, has unveiled a 175-pound engine which generates 175 horsepower. The American Iron and Steel Institute publication says the secret of the four-cylinder engine is an engine block assembly made of thin stainless steel sheet.

The engine will be tested in sports and racing cars and boats.

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — An airlift helps provide instructors for Ohio State University's branch campus at Lima.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Burglars looting coin boxes in a laundromat made so much noise they awakened a man living upstairs.

Thinking the burglars were late customers, the man called them on the laundromat pay phone and said:

"If you people don't stop making so much noise, I'm going to call the police."

Assembly Action Influenced By Non-Voting Members

By AURORA DOLLEY

RALEIGH — Most legislators vote on practically every measure coming before them. But there are a few members of the General Assembly who, for one reason or another, deliberately fail to vote, even on some of the more important or controversial issues of legislation.

But even though this group is small, the fact is that in recent instances in both the Senate and House, this small group of non-voters could have changed the final outcome of certain bills or amendments to pending legislation, so close was the tallied vote.

In the House, for instance, proposed annual auto inspection was defeated by just three votes, but four representatives who were present failed to vote at all. And in the Senate, an amendment which would have, in effect, weakened a measure designed to strengthen the present point system for motorists failed by two votes, while twice the number (four) of men were present but neglected to vote.

Most of the lawmakers themselves are highly critical of this practice of a few of their colleagues.

Many are openly scornful of the ones who deliberately absent themselves from the floor to answer a phone call at just the moment a vote is being taken.

At times, however, the non-voter manager—to slip away unnoticed, or the fact that he may fall to stand up on either the "ayes" or "nays" is noticed perhaps only by a few of the lawmakers around him.

Herter Confers With Italians

ROME (AP) — Former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter conferred with Italian officials Monday on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Herter, co-chairman of the U.S. Citizens Commission to NATO, later flew to Paris for similar meetings with French officials.

on an issue and then vote", Jordan declares. Nash's Sen. Dal Alford agrees with Sen. Jordan, but adds that if a legislator should feel that he was involved personally and could not make an impartial decision—and this instance would be rare, he says—then he might not vote, but he should publicly disqualify himself in the voting and explain his reason for so doing.

"A man should face the issue", Sen. Alford states.

Sen. Robert Lee Humber of Pitt feels that "It is the obligation of every man in the General Assembly to vote on every measure proposed."

With this, Sen. J.C. Eagles Jr. of Wilson is in total agreement. Calling it hypocrisy for a man to walk out on a vote, Sen. Lunsford Crew of Halifax emphatically says he thinks a legislator ought to vote on every issue before him.

In his characteristically tart manner, Carteret's Sen. Luther Hamilton says "There is something decidedly lacking in a man who deliberately fails to vote; the person who has the capacity for making up his mind and doesn't have the conviction to vote, isn't representing his people."

One of the men who failed to take a stand on the proposed auto inspection measure admitted that he had "swapped votes" with someone else, agreeing not to vote on one measure in return for a similar favor on another bill.

He defended his actions, saying that it had been for the best interests of his county.

One reason many legislators are scornful of the practice of not voting on controversial issues is that political suicide by their vote if it is not the "popular" thing to do, they naturally resent colleague's taking the "easy" way as the case may be, are risking

SAC Pilots Declared To Be 'Best In The Business'

ARMED FORCES DAY SPEAKER . . . Maj. Whitney is welcomed to joint Rotary-Optimist meeting by Optimist President Whitehurst (left) and Rotary President Wagner.

An Air Force major last night described pilots in the Strategic Air Command as "the best in the business" as he spoke to a joint meeting of the Greenville Rotary and Optimists Clubs in observance of Armed Forces Day.

Maj. Truxton S. Whitney of Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in Goldsboro was obtained by the two clubs to speak to the joint meeting. The major spoke briefly and presented a movie showing a typical B-52 jet bomber—called a "Buzz Saw"—on a routine, 24-hour SAC mission.

Prior to the 28-minute movie, Maj. Whitney told the Rotarians and Optimists SAC had its beginning in 1946. The command has, since that time, updated itself to help answer current world problems.

He said Seymour Johnson is the only military installation in the world with three separate commands. In addition to SAC a Tactical Air Command wing and a ground alert command is stationed at the Goldsboro base.

The 40-year-old Air Force veteran described SAC's mission: "To destroy the capability and the will of any enemy to wage war."

He said SAC, TAC and the ground alert operation, in cooperation with the missile program, serve as "the greatest deterrent force known to man."

The major, who has completed more than 19 years of military service, described pilots of the B-52's as "men who have made peace their profession." He compared their dedication to the task of preserving world peace with the dedication of Japanese suicide pilots during World War II. "Their job is to protect this country against attack at the cost of life itself," he said.

Ty Wagner, president of the Rotary Club, presided over the joint dinner meeting. He introduced Optimist President Walter R. Whitehurst who introduced attending Optimist members.

TWO-HEADED CABBAGE—Noel Lee of Rt. 3, Washington, found this cabbage with a developing head underground in his garden. The plant had a fully developed head above ground. The hidden head was nestled among the roots of the vegetable. Lee, who lives in the Pactolus community, said it was the first time he had heard of such a plant.

FAMILY WOUND
NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Patrolman Albert Edwards felt a sharp pain in his leg when he stepped out of the police car. His wife had left a needle in his trousers after sewing up a small rip. The needle broke as he tried to remove it, and he was admitted to Memorial Hospital.

5,000 Watts of Power

Speaker

Rep. Herbert C. Bonner is scheduled to speak to Greenville American Legion Post 39's annual Memorial Day services May 28, it was announced today by Post Commander Ernest L. Avery.

Avery said he learned last night Bonner had accepted an invitation extended by the post to speak at the 2 p.m. Memorial Day services to be held at Greenwood Cemetery.

The post commander said complete details of this year's version of the annual Sunday ceremonies will be announced soon.

The post conducts the Memorial Day services each year in memory of and to honor Americans killed in past United States wars.

Passage Hinges On A Majority

Approval or rejection of a $395,000 bond issue to build an industrial training school in Pitt County will be decided by a majority of the registered voters, County Attorney W. W. Speight said today.

The statute is very clear that a majority of those voting will decide the issue, Speight stated. The law provides that it is a majority of those who vote, not those who register, who will decide the results of the election.

Failure to exercise the right of voting following registration will not be counted as a vote against the issue.

The election will take place on Saturday, June 17. Registration books are open at regular polling places on Saturday, May 20; Saturday, May 27; and Saturday, June 3. On all other days between May 13 and June 3, inclusive, except Sundays and legal holidays registration books will be open at homes of registrars.

Commencement Will Also Have Lawn Concert

Four student members of the East Carolina College Concert Band have been honored by an invitation to act as guest conductors at the annual outdoor program of the ensemble. The program will take place Sunday afternoon, May 21 at 2:30 on the campus quadrangle.

Presented as an event of Commencement weekend at the college, the concert will honor the Class of 1961 and visitors on the campus.

Fourteen senior members of the band will receive during the afternoon's program awards recognizing their four years of service in the organization.

With Herbert L. Carter, director of bands at the college as conductor, the Concert Band will present a program of popular music, including marches, hit tunes from musical comedy, novelty numbers, and other light and tuneful selections.

"The Bugler's Holiday" by Leroy Anderson will be played by a trumpet trio. Members of the group are J. Thomas Spry of Winston-Salem, James Burns of Sumter, S.C., and Rebekah Crouch of Drake's Branch, Va.

Each of the students chosen because of talent to conduct the Concert Band Sunday will direct the ensemble in one selection. They are Leon Cole, Jr., of Columbus, Ga.,

Newton Jay Collins of Greenville, and Lyle Wilcox of Greenville, graduate students; and Edgar Williams of Wilmington, senior and past president of the band.

Recipients of awards will be Samuel Branson of Thomasville, Rose Marie Brinson of Wilmington, Steven L. Clements of Raleigh, Rebekah E. Crouch of Drake's Branch, Va., Luther Gil-son, Kannapolis.

Kenneth Ginn of Rt. 4, Goldsboro, Robert Korngay of Richlands, Patricia Laye of Belmont, Norman Stuart Patten of Mount Olive, Lamarr Hadley Preston, Wilson, J. Thomas Spry of Winston-Salem, Rosemary Swisher of Wilmington, Jerry Van Dyke of Belmont, and Edgar Williams of Wilmington.

Minor Blaze At College Reported

Greenville foremen were called to the Administration Building at East Carolina College this morning at 8:58 when a fire was reported on the second floor of the building.

Fire officers who responded to the call, said the blaze was confined to a second floor air conditioning room and was out when fire units arrived. They reported a motor on one of the units in the room developed a short circuit and caught fire.

Opposes Actress As Her Guardian

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ann Sothern's mother filed objections in Superior Court Monday to appointment of the actress as her guardian.

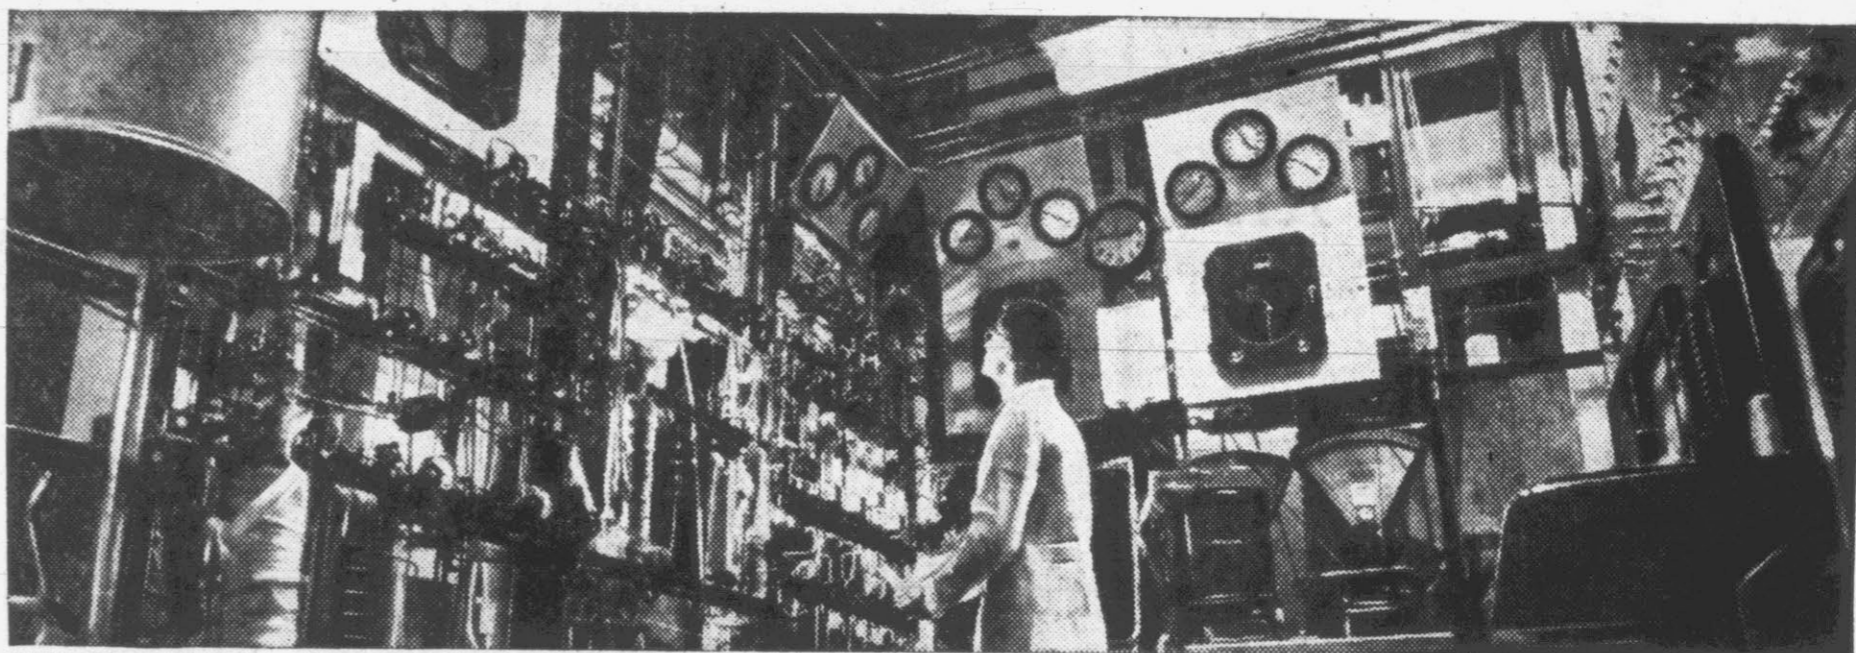

Annette Yde Lake, 76, declared

Miss Sothern has a conflict of interest because she is defendant in a suit for support brought by her mother. She also objected to appointment of another daughter, Marion Tetley, because she is employed by Miss Sothern, the petition said, and also would have a conflict of interest.

Mrs. Lake urged appointment of a third daughter, Bonnie L. Dickman, with whom she now resides. Mrs. Lake declared she felt Mrs. Dickman had more interest in her welfare than the other two daughters.

This is a "pilot plant" at Shell's Emeryville Research Center near San Francisco—one of many that help Shell scientists to find new and better ways of making gasoline.

BULLETIN:

Shell discloses the nine ingredients in today's Super Shell—and the remarkable things they do to give your car top performance

Super Shell gasoline, with 9 ingredients, is now at your dealer's. Today's formula contains cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate—a new, improved version of TCP. Read how this patented additive increases mileage, releases power, and helps your car give top performance.

TODAY, every Shell dealer in this area has remarkable Super Shell in his pumps. A notice on each Super Shell pump promises you that this gasoline will give your car top performance.

Shell's scientists want you to know about the nine ingredients which make this promise possible.

#1 is TCP for power, mileage and longer plug-life
Today's Super Shell now contains an even better version of this world-famous additive. Its chemical name is cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate. TCP* additive can give your car up to 15 per cent more power; up to 17 extra miles per tank-ful; and can make spark plugs last up to twice as long.

New TCP does this by neutralizing certain effects of combustion deposits. It is scientifically formulated to keep them from glowing when hot—a major cause of power loss. Also from diverting your spark—a major cause of "missing."

#2 is "cat-cracked" gasoline for power with a purr
This is petroleum that has actually cracked under 900-degree heat and catalytic action. Its heavier molecules have been shattered into livelier, lighter ones. The result is a super-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.

NOTE: "Cat-cracking" refers to the use of a catalyst—a chemical substance that can alter molecules without changing itself.

#3 is Alkylate, noted for knock control in hot engines
Jimmy Doolittle helped pioneer this high-octane ingredient for Shell aviation fuel.

Alkylate—which took the dream of 100-octane gasoline out of the lab and put it into the skies—is now in Super Shell. It controls knocking in hot engines at high speeds far better than anything else yet available.

NOTE: The engine in your car may frequently turn even faster than the engines of a DC-7 at cruising speed. Think of this next time you are passing on the highway.

#4 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks
You might think that two high-octane ingredients are enough for knock-free performance. But Shell's scientists have ears like musicians. So they insist on adding a special anti-knock mix. A mix, so effective, one teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating by five points.

This mix has the tricky job of regulating combustion so that Super Shell gives each piston a firm, even push—rather than a sharp blow which would cause a knock.

#5 is Butane for quick starts on cold mornings

Butane is so eager to get going that Shell keeps it under pressure 400 feet below ground to stop it from vaporizing by itself. Think what this extra volatility means in cold weather.

Your engine fires in seconds. There is less strain on your battery. And none on your patience. NOTE: Super Shell is primed with Butane all year round. In winter, Shell scientists simply increase the quick-start dose.

#6 is Pentane mix for fast warm-ups on cold days

Pentanes are made by tearing gasoline apart, much as you split kindling to start a log fire.

In this case, the "logs" are petroleum's heavier hydrocarbons. A special process transforms their molecules from slow-burning "logs" into the quicker-firing "kindling."

NET RESULT: Fast warm-up and top performance in a hurry.

#7 is an "anti-icer" to check cold-weather stalling

Super Shell's formula is adjusted up to eight times a year to beat the weather. For example, whenever the temperature is likely to be less than forty-five degrees, a carburetor anti-icer is added.

Why add anti-icer at forty-five degrees? Because, even then, frost can form in your carburetor just as it does in your refrigerator. It can stall your engine.

#8 is gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside

Even the purest gasoline can form gum when stored. This can clog carburetors and foul automatic chokes. But, with Super Shell, you needn't worry. A gum preventive does the trick.

It acts like a policeman controlling a mob. Regulates unstable elements to help keep them from clotting. No gum problems.

#9 is Platformate for extra energy, more mileage

It takes eight million dollars' worth of platinum catalyst for Shell to produce Platformate. But fortunately this precious stuff can be used over and over again.

The platinum re-forming process, which gives Platformate its odd name, converts petroleum into super-energy components—such as benzene, xylene and toluene.

These three alone release 11 per cent more energy per gallon than 100-octane gasoline. Energy that shows up as mileage.

Test Super Shell for yourself

Try Super Shell next time you fill up. You'll soon feel and hear a difference in the way your engine runs. That difference is top performance.

Sixty-Seven Are Stacked On Bed

WEATHERFORD, Okla. (AP)—Sixty-seven students at Southwestern Oklahoma State College stacked themselves on a standard dormitory single bed Monday night. "It's a world's bed-stacking record, and we challenge all comers," said Larry Spears, 18, a pharmacy major who with Allen Covalt, 20, a business administration major, promoted the stunt. "No one was injured," reported Robert Moore, proctor at Nef Hall, the dormitory launching pad of bed-stacking.

New School For Deaf Proposed

RALEIGH (AP)—A new Eastern North Carolina School for the Deaf would be located at Wilson under bills introduced in both houses of the General Assembly Monday night. The new institution would be housed in two buildings, which are no longer needed by the Eastern North Carolina Tuberculosis Sanatorium. The measure was introduced by Sen. Joe Eagles and Rep. Tom Woodard, both of Wilson County. Another new bill, tossed in by Rep. Steve Dolley of Gaston, would increase the penalty for safe-cracking. It would permit judges to sentence convicted safe-crackers to terms of 10 years to life. Present law calls for four months to 10-year terms. License application fees for registered nurses will be boosted from $15 to $20 and for practical nurses from $10 to $15 under a bill enacted by the House. The House also passed and sent to the Senate a bill which requires precinct election officials to report returns to the county elections board chairman as soon as the count is completed each election night. The measure was designed to speed up the collection of election returns by news media. The Senate approved and sent to the House a bill requiring private detectives to be licensed by the director of the State Bureau of Investigation.

Kappa Upsilon Gives Check To Society

CHECK IS PRESENTED . . . to the Pitt County Chapter of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults by Alton Cowan (second on right), president of the APO service fraternity at East Carolina College, to Dr. James Butler, a state officer, Mrs. David J. Whichard II, president of the Pitt Chapter, and Larry Averette (far right), treasurer of the Pitt chapter. (Reflector staff photo.)

A check for $100 was presented to the Pitt County Chapter of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults this week by Alton Cowan, president of Kappa Upsilon chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity, at East Carolina College. Accepting for the Pitt chapter of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults were Mrs. David J. Whichard II, president; Larry Averette, treasurer, and Dr. James Butler, vice president of the N. C. Society for Crippled Children and Adults and advisor to the E. C. C. organization. This was the second year that the service fraternity had presented a check to the Pitt chapter of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults. The local society sponsors the crippled children's clinic at the Pitt County Health Department and co-sponsors the speech and hearing clinic at East Carolina College each summer with the state society. It operates with the purpose of improving the health, welfare education, rehabilitation, employment, recreation facilities and opportunities for all crippled children and adults. Services include summer camping programs speech and hearing centers medical and surgical care, direct services, home physical therapy programs, hospital physical therapy programs, scholarships and educational grants, pre-school and homebound teaching, public information and education and contributions to research carried on by the National Society.

East Carolina College Alumni Day Program On May 20 Is Announced

Plans for Alumni Day at East Carolina College, Saturday, May 20, include a varied series of business and social events of interest to former students returning to the college.

Alumni activities Saturday will begin a weekend program honoring approximately 1,000 graduates in the Class of 1961; ten classes of past years holding reunions on the campus; and other alumni.

Commencement exercises Sunday afternoon, May 21, at 6 p.m. in the college stadium on the East Campus will climax the weekend program.

Governor Terry Sanford of North Carolina will make the Commencement Address Sunday Degrees will be conferred by President Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina.

Z. W. Frazelle of Kenansville, president of the East Carolina Alumni Association, has announced Saturday's events.

A coffee hour, with members of the Pitt County alumni chapter as hosts and hostesses, will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the Mamie E. Jenkins Alumni House.

Chief event of a business meeting of the Alumni Association at 10:30 a.m. in the Austin auditorium will be the installation of new officers and of directors of the thirteen districts of the organization.

Dr. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, senator to the N. C. General Assembly from Pitt County, will be principal speaker at the annual Alumni Luncheon at 12:30 p.m. in the South Dining Hall on the campus.

President Jenkins will welcome guests and discuss briefly recent progress and developments at the college.

J. Herbert Waldrop, of Greenville, chairman of the East Carolina Board of Trustees, will pay special tribute to the Golden Anniversary Class of 1911 and the Silver Anniversary Class of 1936, both holding reunions at the college during Alumni Day.

During the early afternoon, beginning at 2 p.m. in the Austin building the anniversary classes and eight other classes will meet for an hour of socializing and of renewing acquaintanceship with one another.

Classes holding reunions are those of 1911, 1916, 1921, 1926, 1931, 1936, 1941, 1946, 1951, and 1956. This year's graduates will also meet to plan their future association with the Alumni organization.

President and Mrs. Jenkins will entertain alumni and other guests at a tea at their home on East Fifth Street from 3 to 5 p.m.

Claim Diagnosis Done By Machine

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The University of Pennsylvania says it has developed a machine that may make possible the early diagnosis of multiple sclerosis.

Dr. Melvin W. Thorne, director of the university's multiple sclerosis clinic, said Monday the machine is a "flicker fusion" device which detects retinal abnormalities — an eye defect common to sclerosis patients — even before the disease becomes evident.

Dr. Thorne said that although multiple sclerosis has no known cure, the sooner it is detected the sooner effective steps can be taken to control it.

Gardening Holds Little Interest

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II is not interested in gardening—a fact that may upset many thousands of her gardening subjects.

Planting a tulip tree today in a ceremony at a British public school, she stood back with a smile and told onlookers: "I am not particularly renowned for my green fingers."

The point of view was confirmed by professional gardener Harry Ekphick, who for years has supplied flowers for Queen Mother Elizabeth.

"I'm afraid," he said, "that Queen Elizabeth is not very interested in gardening."

Textile Imports Termed A Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Are textile imports threatening the national security?

The Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization (OCDM) has been petitioned by textile industry organizations to make such a finding.

Specifically, the petition asks OCDM "to institute an investigation to require expedited submission of views, and at the earliest practical time to determine and advise the President that textiles and textile manufactures are being imported under such circumstances as to threaten to impair the national security."

President Kennedy said recently in outlining a 7-point program to government help to the industry that such a petition would be "carefully considered on its merits."

The petition said that because of excessive imports, the industry "is threatened with incapacity to meet projected national defense requirements."

The petition also said there would be an immediate increase in military requirements for textile products in event of an emergency, ranging from 10 times to as much as 50 times the rate at present.

"Military procurement represents only a portion of the demands that would be placed upon the textile industry in the event of an emergency," the petition said.

Deny Firing On Russian Vessel

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—The Dutch defense ministry Monday denied that a Dutch military plane fired on a Soviet whaling ship but said one plane during exercises fired rockets at "a great distance" from a busy North Sea shipping lane and "in a safe direction."

The Soviet Union in a note handed the Dutch Embassy in Moscow Sunday protested the "hostile and provocative action" of a Dutch warplane that "opened cannon fire on a Soviet whaling ship Friday and narrowly missed her with three shells."

Wanted To Buy Parking Ticket

TORRINGTON, Wyo. (AP) — The Torrington Police Department put on a vigorous campaign to have people pay overdue parking tickets.

After a thorough check of records, officers informed Teresa Romo he had no tickets and didn't owe a thing.

"Owe?" Romo responded. "I want to buy a parking ticket so I can park in Torrington all year."

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said today he knows of no instance where published information about the defense program has damaged national security.

Dirksen spoke out after Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., told the Senate Monday that it was "not inconceivable that we could destroy ourselves" by disclosing too many details of defense operations.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said in a separate interview he thinks that sometimes damaging information has become public. He said government officials and newsmen would have to share the blame in such cases.

"I think sometimes we in Congress push our military men too hard in questioning them about some aspects of the defense budget," he observed.

Russell said last week it was "absolutely ridiculous" to contend that the public has a right "to know the most highly secret of our defense plans."

He touched off a controversy when he added he had "almost unspoken contempt for any man in politics who would be frightened by newspapers telling him they would attack him because he was not giving them intimate details about defense planning."

James S. Pope, executive editor of the Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal and Louisville Times, promptly accused Russell in a telegram of "attempting to smear newspapers simply because military men have been careless with defense data." Pope is a former president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

editor of the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune, followed this up with a letter charging Russell with "extremely unfair and misleading statements." Newton is chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee of Sigma Delta Chi, a professional journalistic organization.

"In my nine years' work in national freedom of information and in behalf of the American people's right to know how their politicians spend their billions of tax funds," Newton said, "I have encountered not a single instance where an American newspaper knowingly printed a defense secret that gave comfort to the enemy."

"Also, I have encountered not a single instance wherein a newspaper threatened to attack a politician if he did not disclose intimate details about our defense planning."

Aides said Russell will not answer either Pope's telegram or Newton's letter.

The Georgia senator asked and got Senate passage by a voice vote Monday of a $12.5 billion defense authorization bill with the announcement that he was not going to divulge the numbers of missiles and aircraft to be purchased under its terms.

The measure now goes to the House, where the Armed Services Committee has approved it in slightly different form.

There was no comment by his colleagues when Russell told the senate: "It is the committee's hope that both the Congress and the executive branch will make a new start in their policies on publicizing the details of our defense program."

Russell said this was a subject or which it is difficult to find a satisfactory middle ground. He said it would be unreasonable to tell the Senate he could give no details at all on the bill's items.

"At the same time," he said, "I cannot believe that it is in the public interest to designate and publicize the purpose for which every dollar is spent by the Department of Defense. An unreasonable insistence on publication of such information adds substantially to the cost of our defense and, more seriously, it gives our potential enemies a tremendous advantage over us."

"It is not inconceivable that we could destroy ourselves by insisting upon a full exercise of the privilege of knowing the most intimate defense information."

As it passed the Senate, the bill followed the recommendations of the Kennedy administration with one exception, a $525 million addition for manned bombers.

Russell and Sens. John Stennis, D-Miss., Clair Engle, D-Calif., and Francis Case, R-S.D., said in debate the Armed Services Committee felt that missiles would not soon entirely replace piloted planes in the nation's defenses.

Engle said he was sorry President Kennedy had cut back the B70 bomber program but felt the committee action indicated it wanted this 2,000-mile an hour plane developed. The B70 was not included in the bill, since it is only in the development stage and the measure covered only items already in production.

THE GOOD INDEPENDENT BANK

The good independent local bank recognizes that the big difference between banks today is the way they treat the public.

The good independent local bank realizes that all banks can offer just about the same services, the same safety, the same convenience, as other banks.

The good independent local bank has about the same credit and lending standards as its competitors, stays open the same hours, and handles the same good United States currency.

But despite similarities, the good independent bank knows that all banks are far from alike. Its management knows the way it offers and expands its services can make one bank better than another in the public's eyes.

And, even where banks achieve close similarity in the services they offer, and the way they offer them, the good bank knows it also must plan its staff development so that there will be competent executives to take over and carry on the institution when its present good management reaches retirement time. Its management insists its staff members and junior officers take advantage of every possible means of enlarging their understanding of and education in banking and economics, and in management and public relations.

The good independent bank knows there is more to banking than a building, tellers' windows, officers, desks and a strong vault. The building must offer a welcome, and not forbidding appearance. The tellers must be more than automatons shuffling stacks of money; they must be happy in their jobs, they should project a euphoric atmosphere across the counter to make their customers pleased to do business with the bank. The officers must reach out for every opportunity of personal service to depositors, borrowers, and the community, with true sense of appreciation of the privilege of serving their fellow man. The vault should say that behind all this is a dedication to protection of the trust each patron places in his bank.

The good independent local bank knows audit and control is not a routine function to be taken for granted and turned over blindly to some officer or advanced bookkeeper for whom the trust may be too great a temptation. Its management follows the principles of rotation of personnel who handle the accounts, dual control of critical procedures and competent audits at surprise times, preferably by outside auditors. It backs all this up with an oversize blanket bond, and with the $1,000,000 excess employee fidelity bond that is available to all banks today at so reasonable a price.

The good independent local bank knows selling is part of banking today, and that it must train its officers and staff so they are constantly alert to opportunities to add new customers and make new friends. Its management knows that the banks that add salesmanship to banking will leave behind those that sit back and wait for new business to come to them. It knows that successful selling even may be the price of survival.

The good independent local bank knows too that it owes to itself and the banking profession active participation in organized banking—the American Bankers Association, American Institute of Banking, the Independent Bankers Association, its state bank association, safe deposit organization, NABAC, the Association for Bank Audit, Control and Operation, et al., as well as its county groups, and its local clearing house.

The good local independent bank knows that it must justify its existence, that it can meet all competition because it is a better bank, and determined each day to become a still better bank. The more such good local banks there are, the greater is assurance that independent banking will continue to be a dominant characteristic of banking in the United States.

SHAVE AND A HAIRCUT

LIKE IN GRANDPA'S DAY

Sitting in the old barber chair, George Field, 70, reminisces on the past, as Vincent Sulfaro cuts his hair.

Barber Vincent Sulfaro has now what he's always wanted—his own old style country barber shop.

He spent 20 years dreaming and planning it, traveling up and down New England to collect the old items he needed to furnish it. Today, his shop in Randolph, Mass., resembles in every way the ones our grandfathers patronized some 50-odd years ago.

Inside are the green upholstered mohair chairs like the one in which grandpa dozed while having his whiskers trimmed, old hair tonic bottles glistening in their places on the shelves, brass spittoons, a 1906 cash register, kerosene lamps, a pot-bellied stove, and even an old hand-cranked telephone which Sulfaro fastened to the wall. And just as in grandpa's day, there is each customer's shaving mug in a rack, easily accessible to the tall and the short.

Outside the shop are two park benches for the customers to nap in the sun or read while they wait their turn for a haircut or a shave.

George Condon selects his mug as he gets ready to have Vincent Sulfaro, left, shave him.

Early model radio still works. Owner Sulfaro tunes in as George Field listens.

The old kerosene lamp is one of Sulfaro's prized possessions. He handles it carefully as he prepares to light it.

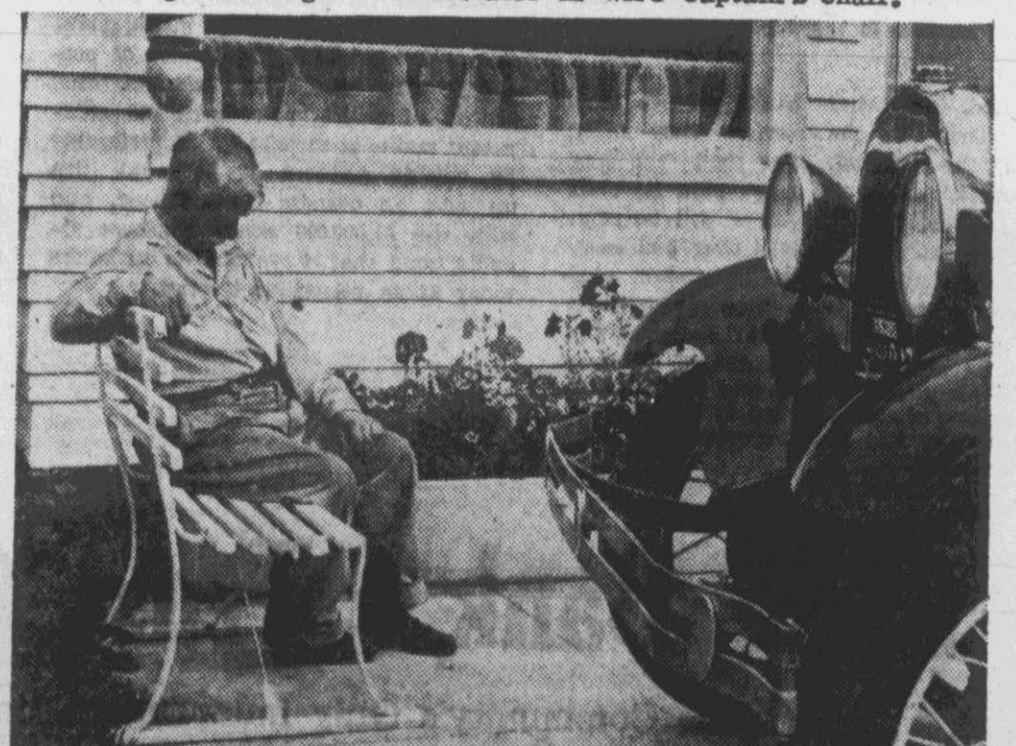

Shop owner Sulfaro shovels coal into potbellied stove as George Field gets comfortable in wire captain's chair.

Vincent Sulfaro checks his 1906 cash register as he prepares for busy day.

George Condon uses hand-cranked phone to make call.

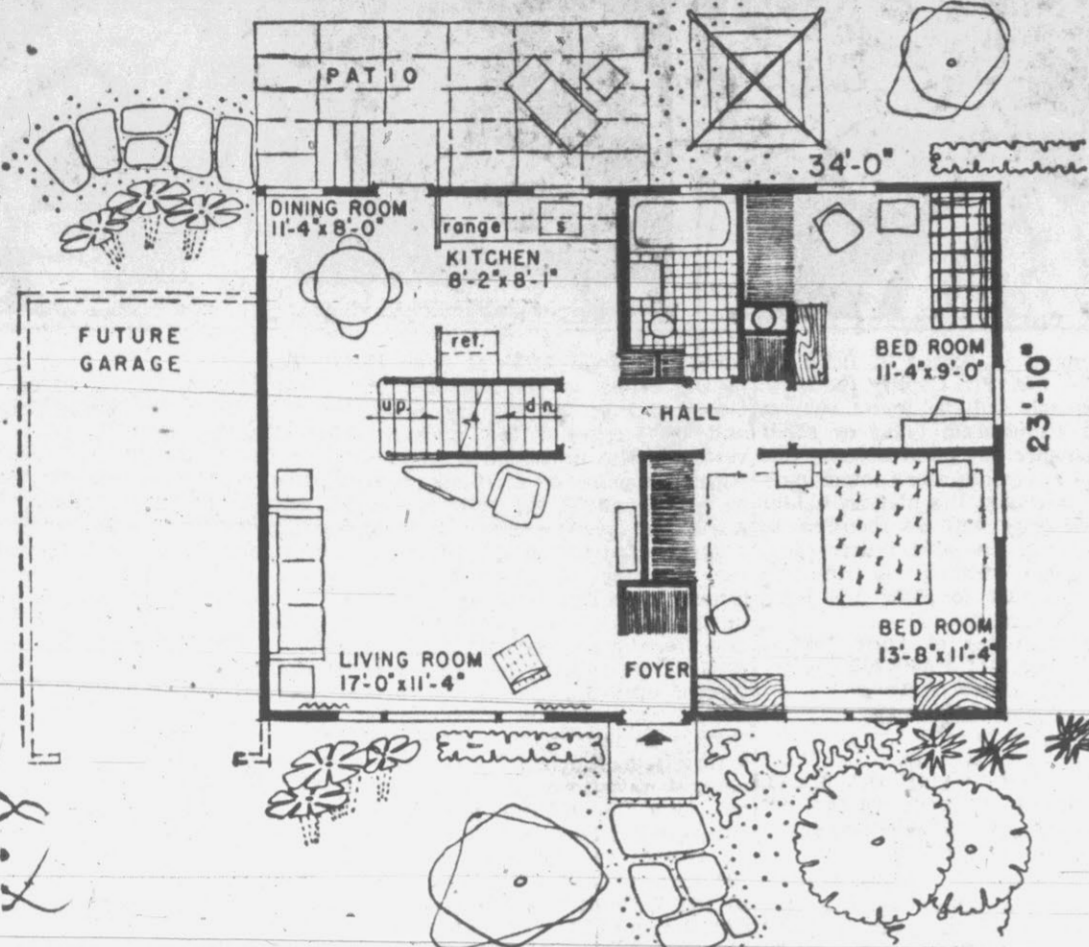

George Field naps on bench outside shop as he waits his turn.

S. Korea Coup Underlines Dissatisfaction

Editor's note: John Randolph went to South Korea in December 1950, when the Korean War was at its height. After the armistice he moved to the UP bureau in Tokyo, where he is now general executive coordinating AP operations in Asia. Randolph is now on home leave, and from the background of 10 1/2 years of close observation of events in Korea, he tells what lies behind the coup in South Korea.

ident Sygman Rhee's ironclad subordination of the armed forces to his civilian control. For seven years after the end of the Korean War Rhee kept his 500,000 troops—one of the largest standing armies in the world—eating peacefully out of his hand. It took only 13 months after he fell from power in a students' revolt last year for the soldiers to turn on his well-intentioned but weak successors.

American intervention has been dashed by confusion in Chang's government and among the politicians in Seoul. It was the American embassy's indication of loss of confidence in Rhee last year that clinched the students' revolt and sent the aged president into exile in Honolulu. The reasons for the coup are simple.

The bulk of the army's enlisted men are drawn from Korea's rice farms, where grinding poverty and depression have lingered for years. Their officers—an unusually large share of the nation's educated and talented young men—are drawn from the educated classes of the towns and Korea's old nobility and country gentry.

Tried and tempered in the sufferings of the Korean war, passionately patriotic, terribly underpaid, and unusually idealistic, many of the younger officers have dreamed of making over their country. Egypt's fiery Nasser and Pakistan's deliberate Ayub Khan have been their principal models. Korean farmers' hopes for reforms and price supports — high after the 1960 revolution — have

Optimism In Style For U.S. Business Circles

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Optimism is in style again today in business circles. It is running as high as pessimism was six months ago.

The critical second quarter of 1961 has crossed the halfway mark with most—but not all—of the basic factors in the economy behaving as hoped. First reports on April—which we were told was the month to watch—are coming in. And economists and politicians alike are reading all kinds of things into them. Such as:

The recession has bottomed out on schedule and recovery has started in due course—but slowly. Or, the rebound will be sharper than first expected—and faster than is usual after a mild recession such as the late one was. Or, the trend is upward but much of it is seasonal with the underlying strength probably there but still to be proved. Or, look at the soft spots: unemployment is high and sticky; home building lags in spite of easier money conditions; retail trade fell last month while production was rising; international tensions make many business operations uncertain.

But the optimists have it. And now they have some firm figures to toss at you, rather than just expectations and interpretations of signs.

The industrial production index rose 2.5 per cent in April to 105—with the 1957 average the base of 100. If the Federal Reserve Board still used the previous base of the 1947-49 average, the index would now be around 160. This measurement of activity in factories, mines and utilities gives our best picture of the economy outside the service and retail areas.

The government's Business Advisory Council thinks the index should rise to 110 in the final months of the year. The peak was 111 in January 1960.

The total dollar volume of all goods and services produced in the first three months of the year was at an annual rate of just under $500 billion, the low for the recession. The council expects this to rise to $520 billion by year's end.

Translating that into every day terms of business and consumer life, you can look for a greater total of personal income. And after taxes have been paid and the essentials of life purchased, many consumers will have more disposable income to spend on other than the bare necessities.

Already the average factory work week is lengthening as industrial output quickens. This means more take-home pay.

Gov't In Exile Scheduled 'Soon'

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Portuguese Gen. Humberto Delgado said Monday a government in exile will be set up soon in Europe or Africa with the aim of toppling Premier Antonio Salazar. Delgado declined to give details in an interview.

Political opponents of Salazar in Lisbon last week called for widespread constitutional changes to bring Portugal a more democratic government.

First Integration Steps Are Taken

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The first step has been taken toward transfer of 123 Negro pupils to white public high schools here in the fall.

School officials said Monday the 123 had completed application blanks under terms of a federal court order.

The court order requires school officials to act on the applications within 30 days.

Sentence Two In Furniture Fraud

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Two of seven McDowell County men pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court Monday in a furniture fraud case and were sentenced to 18 months in prison. Four received suspended sentences, and a warrant was issued for the seventh, who failed to appear for the trial. Roy E. Gurley, 22, and his brother, Howard, 30, received 18-month terms. Assistant U.S. Postal Inspector J. A. Callahan of Atlanta testified that the men would move into a town, pretend to start a legitimate business, and buy quantities of furniture on credit.

The furniture would be sold to surplus houses, at auctions, or other places where a quick turnover was assured, Callahan said.

He said it was impossible to determine the value of furniture obtained by the men, but that one lawyer was trying to collect on $100,000 worth taken on credit, and another lawyer was seeking payment for $35,000 worth.

The men were charged with obtaining merchandise by false pretense and using the mails to defraud.

John E. Gurley, brother of the men given 18 month sentences, did not appear for trial. Defense attorneys said they hoped to have him in court today.

Two other Gurley brothers,

James, 24, and Bobby, 29, along with R. G. Boone, 22, and J. P. Bruner, 34, received two-year suspended sentences and were fined $500.

Immune, By Now, To Bug-Teasing

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Sixth grade girls at Murlin Heights School are pretty much immune to teasing with bugs and such things.

Mrs. Clifford Shank's class has already dissected, studied and stuffed a squirrel, a duck and a goose and collected a multitude of formaldehyde-soaked specimens. And not a weak stomach—boy or girl—in the lot, teacher says.

Hacksaw Blades Found In Shoes

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—Albert Kostal concealed hacksaw blades in one of his shoes as he went to trial for murder Monday.

Four 6-inch blades were found during a routine check of his wearing apparel, Sheriff Art Wer-nuth said.

Kostal is on trial in district court for the slaying of Raymond Leley, a merchant policeman who interrupted a market robbery Dec. 9, 1956, at nearby Wheat Ridge.

Comic Peter Sellers Would Quit Acting

By RALMOND E. PALMER
AP Staff Writer
LONDON (AP)—Peter Sellers, one of Britain's brightest comedians, wants to give up acting for a place behind the cameras.

Sellers is a man who apparently has the success touch in the entertainment business.

At the end of last year he had five movies playing simultaneously in New York while another, made with Sophia Loren, "The Millionaire," was breaking records in Britain.

At the same time a recording with Sophia called "Goodness Gracious Me," was climbing up the hit parade. It was, incidentally, the first record either of them had made.

Despite such success, Sellers isn't satisfied. He doesn't seem to derive much pleasure from his achievements. He wants to give up acting as soon as he can—but it will likely be some time before he can do that, if he ever does.

His first step toward this goal was to direct himself in a movie called "Mr. Topaze," which he recently finished shooting.

He got the chance at directing by putting up collateral—"Which I am doing by appearing in the film," he says.

"But what I am really hoping for is that I will be able to achieve sufficient success as a director to give up acting entirely."

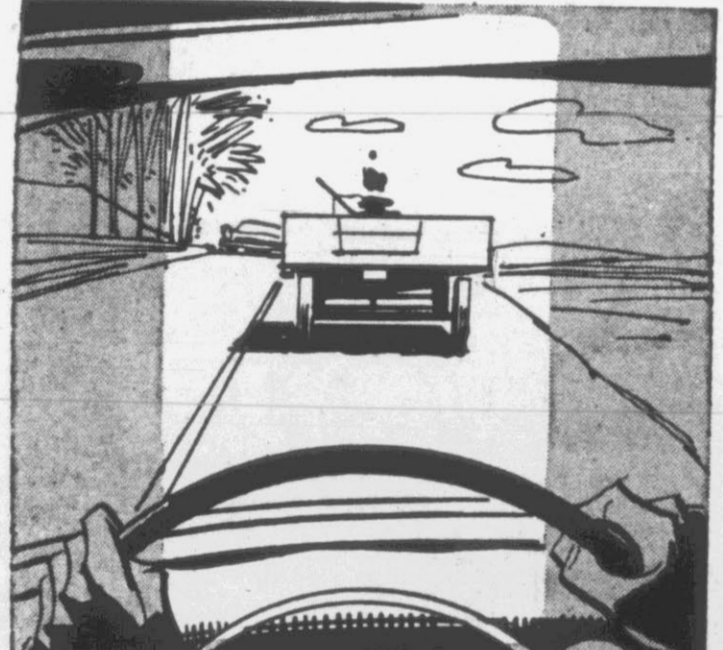

Sellers, who played three roles—a duchess, a grand-marshal, and a prime minister—in "The Mouse That Roared," made his biggest hit as Kite, the comic labor union official in "I'm All Right, Jack."

Whatever the part, it seizes Sellers to the point where, believing as he does in spiritualism, "one acts as an open wave-length and maybe something comes through."

The something that comes through more often than not delights both the critics and the moviegoers. The only person who seems to be disappointed by it is Sellers himself.

"I wince when I see myself on the screen," he says broodingly. "I'm such a dreadful, clumsy, hulking image. I say to myself: 'Why doesn't he get off, why doesn't he get off?'"

"I mean, I look such an idiot. Some fat awkward thing, dredged up from some third-rate drama company. I must stop thinking about it, otherwise I shan't be able to go on working."

Tobacco Industry To Honor Rolfe

JAMESTOWN, Va. (AP)—Pocahontas may have saved the life of Captain John Rolfe, but she married an Englishman named John Rolfe.

The romance of Rolfe and the Indian princess will play an important part in next year's commemoration here of the 350th anniversary of the American tobacco industry.

Rolfe planted and sold the first successful crop of tobacco at Jamestown in 1612, saving the colony from economic collapse. From the beginning, tobacco has grown into a $7 billion industry.

The anniversary will be staged May 16-19 by the Jamestown Foundation.

Tribal Powwow By 13 Maidens

CLEVELAND (AP)—Each evening, 13 maidens of the Navajo, Sioux, Chippewa and Creek Indian tribes gather to munch hamburgers and potato chips, listen to records, write letters and study their lessons.

Aided by the U. S. Bureau of Indian Affairs, the girls—have left their families in Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Wisconsin and South Dakota to seek education and employment in Cleveland. All live at the YWCA.

Biting Dogs Are Weather Tip-Off

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—A snow storm came as no surprise to Paul Arrington, acting safety assistant at the Wichita post office.

Arrington explains he knows from experience that dogs become friskier in unreasonably warm weather and just before a storm.

His weather tip-off came when five mail carriers reported being bitten or threatened by dogs a few days before the storm hit.

During the Ice Age the moose, caribou, musk oxen, mountain sheep, bear and wolverine came to America across the Bering land bridge.

READY!

Newspaper Advertising Readers Are Ready To Buy!

Newspaper readers are attracted to your advertising because it interests them. They are more apt to be live, "ready-to-buy" prospects than is the case with readers and viewers of other advertising media.

Live prospects are easier to sell. They actually shop the newspaper ads—they want to be sold, and are looking for information to help make a buying decision. Take housewives, for example—research* proves that 75% of them check the ads in the daily newspaper before making their main shopping trips of the week.

It's that kind of readiness on the part of newspaper readers that can mean ready sales for you!

'Quit Buying Teams': Hodges

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Quit buying teams." That was the advice given today by Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges after disclosure of basketball fix scandals in North Carolina.

Hodges is a former governor of the state and for six years was ex-officio chairman of the Consolidated University of North Carolina Board of Trustees. He also was a university athlete.

He made his recommendations today at a news conference when he was asked what he would do about the scandals.

Three members of the State College basketball team have been charged with accepting bribes to shave points or throw basketball games.

Boy Charged In Fatal Shooting

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Michael David Bonner, 15-year-old ninth grade student at a Wilmington junior high school, today was charged with first degree murder in the fatal stabbing of Nathan Horowitz, 33, also of Wilmington.

The Mason-Dixie line was laid out by two English surveyors, Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, between 1763 and 1767.

Detective Sgts. B. A. Flowers and N. J. Wolfe said they were called to the apartment that young Bonner and his mother shared here late Monday night. The officers said they found Horowitz with a 4-inch paring knife with a 4-inch paring knife Horowitz was dead on arrival at a Wilmington hospital.

Dedication Today
