Tar Heels Pay General Salute To Armed Forces

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS North Carolinians observed Armed Forces Day with celebrations today ranging from the anniversary of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence to the centennial of the Civil War. It was the second day of Raleigh's two-day commemoration of North Carolina's entry into the Civil War. Charlotte Mayor Stan R. Brookshire has proclaimed it Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence Day and V. McNitt, historian from Southbridge, Mass., will speak tonight on the authenticity of the declaration—on May 20, 1775, some 14 months before the U.S. Declaration of Independence. Elsewhere in the state, Armed Forces Day celebrations conformed more to the characteristic salute to the nation's military forces. Asheville's celebration included open houses at Army and Navy reserve centers. The Winston-Salem program included military exhibits and demonstrations, featuring a team of Army skydivers parachuting from helicopters. Ft. Bragg's open house included special displays and a firepower demonstration. At Pope Air Force Base, adjacent to Ft. Bragg, transport aircraft were displayed. The traditions of the Old Confederacy merged with the sponsor of the modern military at Raleigh. The celebration included a big military parade and a gala Confederate ball. The parade, which included units from all branches of the armed forces, was scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. The ball, with many guests in the costumes of the ante bellum South, is to be held tonight. The festival, which began Friday, is geared to raise sufficient funds to enable the state's Civil War Centennial Commission to carry out a four-year program in observance of the 100th anniversary of the Civil War. Festival patrons, who paid $100 a couple to participate in the two-day event, were guests Friday at a Governor's Mansion reception.

ECC Alumni Ass'n Installs Fodie Hodges As President

Fodie H. Hodges, principal of the Harvey Junior High School at Kinross, was installed today as president of the East Carolina College Alumni Association. He succeeds Z.W. Frazelle of Kenansville, president for the past two years. Induction into office of President Hodges and other recently elected officers of the Alumni Association took place today at a business meeting of the organization in the Austin building on the campus. Seven new district directors of the association were announced at the meeting. All will hold office during 1961-1963. The business meeting was a major event of 1961 Alumni Day on the campus. Former students at the college including representatives of the first class to be graduated, that of 1911, were present for morning and afternoon programs planned in their honor. Many will remain at the college for graduation exercises Sunday, May 21, at 6 p.m. in the college stadium. Alumni President Hodges, a graduate of East Carolina in 1939, later returned to the college for graduate study and received the master's degree in school administration in 1949. He has been engaged in educational work in Eastern North Carolina for a number of years. Before assuming his present duties in Kinross, he was principal of the Chicod school in Pitt County. Other new officers of the Alumni Association are: Mrs. E.S. Simpson of Smithfield, vice president, and Mrs. Ruth Garner, members of the staff of the Dean of Women at East Carolina, secretary-treasurer. New district directors announced today are: Fred H. Martin of Asheville, Loomis McGlohon of Charlotte, Eugene H. Stallings of Louisville, E. Milton Foley of Greenville, Mrs. William Vail Gaylord (Beulah White) of Manteo, Riddick Revell of Fayetteville, and Gordon W. Poindexter, Jr., of Richmond, Va. Other events of Alumni Day included the Fiftieth Anniversary reunion of the Class of 1911 and reunions of nine other classes; the annual alumni luncheon, at which Pitt County Senator Robert Lee Humber and East Carolina President Leo W. Jenkins were principal speakers; and a tea for alumni and other guests at the home of President and Mrs. Jenkins.

Governor Agrees Referee Mars Hill School Dispute

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford has agreed to referee the Mars Hill School dispute on the condition that his decision be accepted as final. The governor said Friday he would send an aide to Madison County "to reduce this understanding to writing." In a statement, the governor added, "And I will take action after this has been done satisfactorily." Meanwhile, parents and teachers both appeared enthusiastic when the governor made his announcement and said they would be willing to abide by his decision. Sanford held two preliminary conferences Thursday with opposing sides in the ruckus which erupted when the Mars Hill School Committee fired Principal Ralph E. Neill Jr. After a wave of protest by parents and teachers, virtually all the students boycotted the school for several days. Sanford Thursday urged an end to the strike and more than 500 of the school's 900 pupils were back in class Friday. The conferences were with Zeno Ponder, a Madison County politician and a member of the Madison Board of Education who has backed the school committee in its action, and Dr. Otis Duck and other members of a school patrons committee which has protested Neill's firing. Dr. Duck said, "We are unanimously in favor of relying on the judgment of the governor and we have absolute confidence in his ability to handle this situation." Ponder was quoted as saying, "I appreciate the help of the governor and I have asked him to do this because of my overwhelming desire to protect the interests of the children and promote quality education in Mars Hill. I pledge 100 per cent cooperation with Gov. Sanford. Of course, I cannot speak for the Mars Hill School Committee nor for the school board, but I will summon all my energies toward obtaining their consent and cooperation." Some 30 of the school's 35 faculty members have signed a statement they would quit after this semester unless Neill and all of them were given contracts. The teachers decided to go along with the governor.

Alabama Mob Attacks Bus 'Freedom Riders'

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A mob of white men and women attacked a group of racially mixed "Freedom Riders" today when the segregation-testing group arrived here from Birmingham. Women jeered "get those niggers" as the white men started beating the Negro students who got off the bus. One group of white men threw a Negro to the ground and started pummeling him. The Negroes managed finally to get away and ran from the Greyhound bus station with the white crowd in pursuit. No uniformed police were visible as the fight started. The bus reached here earlier than expected. The Negroes sought refuge behind an iron railing after the bus arrived at the station in downtown Montgomery. But the white crowd jumped the railing and started first shoving, then beating the Negroes. One Negro girl wept uncontrollably as the violence grew. At one time, 10 or 15 white persons were beating one Negro as he struggled on the ground. Police arrived about 10 minutes after the fighting broke out. The riders returned to the station area a few minutes later—bloody and beaten. All of the battered riders ap-

DETROIT (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower and Walter P. Reuther told Cuba Premier Fidel Castro today they would raise funds to provide 500 tractors for Cuba if Castro released 1,200 prisoners captured in the April invasion of the island. United Auto Workers Union headquarters announced that a cable making the offer to Castro was cabled the premier. It was signed by Mrs. Roosevelt, Dr. Eisenhower, who is president of Johns Hopkins University, and Reuther, who is president of UAW. The announcement did not say which of the three initiated the proposal. Reuther said, "If we get an affirmative response from Dr. Castro as we sincerely hope we will, Mrs. Roosevelt, Dr. Eisenhower and I will take immediate steps to establish a national committee to raise the necessary funds and work out arrangements for receiving contributions."

ROK President Heeds Appeal To Remain In Office

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Bowling to pleas of rebel generals, President Yun Po-sun today withdrew his one-day resignation to give South Korea's new military regime constitutional status. The elder statesman, 63, announced he had agreed to stay on as the civilian figurehead chief-of-state to avoid "international repercussions." Foreign diplomats are accredited to the president and U. S. officials take view that Yun remaining in office would make recognition of the new regime automatic. The president announced withdrawal of his resignation at a news conference flanked by the two top leaders of the ruling junta—Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young who named himself premier and defense minister earlier in the day, and Maj. Gen. Pak Jung-hi. Gen. Chang, 38, in taking over as premier named a 15-man cabinet—all military men. The presence of the revolutionary leaders at his side did not stop Yun from expressing regrets about the revolt that overthrew the elected government. The military coup d'etat seems to give the people many encouraging hopes for the future although it was quite regrettable and I wish it had never occurred in this country," he said. And he warned that he would resign again if the new regime takes a direction of which he disapproves. In lightning raids during the night South Korea's military rulers jailed members of deposed Premier John M. Chang's cabinet and generals who refused to back Tuesday's coup. The ousted premier, 61, reportedly talked himself out of arrest. He defied military police trying to take him to prison and demanded they produce a warrant signed by junta leader, Gen. Chang. U.S. Gen. Carter Magruder, the supreme United Nations commander in Korea, reportedly has demanded that South Korean military units which defied him in overthrowing the elected government return immediately to their positions. An authoritative source also disclosed Magruder has insisted that South Korea's new military leaders restore to their posts a number of top generals purged by the ruling military junta—officers that they be replaced with generals acceptable to him. Sources close to Magruder said the U.N. command feels that while use of troops in the successful coup did not weaken South Korea's defenses against the Communist North it undermined the authority the U.N. command has exercised since the start of the Korean War in 1950.

Pless, Bell Endorsed For U. S. Judgeships

WASHINGTON (AP)—N.C. Superior Court Judge J. Will Pless Jr. and State Sen. J. Spencer Bell have been recommended for appointment to the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals. President Kennedy signed a bill Friday which created 73 new federal judgeships, two of them on the 4th Circuit Court which serves North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland. The legislation also gives North Carolina three more federal District Court judges. Both Sens. Sam J. Ervin and B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., made public letters to the President making recommendations for one 4th Circuit Court judgeship expected to be filled by a North Carolinian. Ervin recommended Pless of Marion, N.C., and Jordan recommended either Pless or Sen. Bell, of Charlotte. Earlier, Ervin and Jordan recommended these North Carolinians as the state's new district judges: Eastern district, John Larkins, former state Democratic chairman; Middle district, Malcolm B. Seawell, former state attorney general; Western district, J. B. Craven, Superior Court Judge from Morganton. Sen. Ervin wrote Kennedy that "Judge Pless has served with rare distinction as a judge of the Superior Court of North Carolina for 32 consecutive years, and by reason of his judicial experience and temperament is ideally suited to serve on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 4th Circuit." In his letter, Sen. Jordan described Bell as one of the outstanding lawyers in the state and is highly regarded and recommended by members of his profession. The senator said Pless is rated by his fellow judges and lawyers as being one of the outstanding judges in the state. "Both of these men," Jordan continued, "are good Democrats of the highest character and I leave it to your good judgment to select the one you feel is best qualified to serve as judge of the 4th Circuit Court."

Castro Sending 'Committee' To Arrange Ransom

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—A committee of prisoners captured in the recent invasion of Cuba will be sent to the United States Sunday to arrange for the ransom of their companions, Prime Minister Fidel Castro said today. Castro, speaking on television from Havana, said the 1,200 prisoners captured in the April 17 attack would be exchanged in increasing order of importance for 500 bulldozers. The Cuban prime minister said he had reports that the United States was considering dealing through the Red Cross, but that this was not necessary. "We don't need intermediaries," he said, adding, "Mr. Kennedy now has the floor." When he made the disclosure, Castro had been in the midst of a speech to Cuban government officials, foreign diplomats and unionists. They were attending a meeting to celebrate his winning of the Lenin Peace Prize. He also startled his audience when he said the Cuban navy had evidence that a launch that disappeared May 6 with a loss of 17 lives had been sunk by "a submarine of the Central Intelligence Agency." "It is, of course, difficult to prove, but our conclusion was that our vessel was sunk by an 'Anpenetrating torpedo,' Castro said. He added that prior to the disappearance of the launch—the R43—the navy had received an SOS saying, "They sank us, they sank us." After repeating his proposal to trade prisoners for bulldozers as compensation for the damage caused by the invasion forces," Castro asked his audience whether he had its approval. The crowd cheered noisily. Castro also offered to trade the leader of the invasion forces—Capt. Manuel Artime—for Francisco (The Hook) Molina, a Cuban now awaiting sentence in New York City on a second degree murder conviction. Molina was convicted of slaying 9-year-old Magdalena Urdaneta of Venezuela during a gun-battle between pro and anti-Castro elements in a Manhattan restaurant. The Molina case has been widely played up in Cuba as a politically inspired judicial decision based on U. S. hatred of Castro. The prime minister said the most important prisoners now in Cuba would be returned last, but only after he had received the last lot of bulldozers. Besides Artime, Castro is holding Jose Mirro Torra, son of Jose Mirro Cardona, who is head of the anti-Castro revolutionary council, and Carlos Varona, son of Antonio Varona, who is another exile leader.

Cautiously View Vienna Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of Congress are keeping their fingers crossed about the outcome of the forthcoming meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Beneath the expressions of support for Kennedy and the generally cautious optimism reflected in comment, there is a core of uneasiness about what might happen at Vienna. This seems to be based primarily on the unpredictability of Khrushchev and his demonstrated ability to make propaganda out of almost any occasion. Nobody has forgotten his breakup of the Paris conference a year ago nor his abusive treatment of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Some Republicans obviously wonder how Kennedy would cope with some similar incidents. Most Democrats think he will be able to take care of himself. In this connection, Rep. Thomas M. Pelly, R-Wash., said Democratic leaders ought to try to persuade Kennedy to call off the conference. "We should not send an apprentice president to deal with a wily, seasoned, world-wide leader like Khrushchev," Pelly said in a statement. On the other hand, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, said he isn't worried about Kennedy's being able to hold his own. "The President is well-informed, unemotional and firm," Humphrey said. "He will give a good account of himself under any circumstances." But among both Democrats and Republicans there was the feeling that Kennedy is going into the talks at a disadvantage because of the Soviet man-in-space accomplishment, the Cuban invasion disaster and the situation in Laos. Gloomily, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said that Khrushchev "seems to have most of the marbles." Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois observed that "Khrushchev is rather arrogant" at this point. Dirksen cautioned Kennedy against any "placatory attitude on any-

Vaudeville Star Joe Howard Dies Giving 'Benefit'

CHICAGO (AP)—Joe Howard, 79, vaudeville star who wrote more than 500 songs including "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now" died on the stage of the Civic Opera House Friday night while doing a benefit performance. The famous song and dance man, who made his home in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., had just finished singing an encore featuring some of his hits when he was stricken. The curtain closed and some in the audience were unaware the collapse was not part of the act. But his wife, Miriam, and a number of doctors in the audience rushed back stage where he was pronounced dead. Death came in the city where Howard wrote many of his songs hits and musical comedies in the early 1900s. Mrs. Howard remarked later "what a glorious way to die—in the town where he first made it big."

Manila Heavily Damaged By Fire

fire, the worst to hit Manila in 50 years, razed more than four blocks of the city's market district today, injuring scores of persons and causing more than $50 million property damage. The fire raged for 12 hours and left 9,000 persons homeless in the commercial district of Binondo, heart of Manila's Chinatown. Businessmen hard hit by the fire included textile retailers and wholesalers. More than 200 persons were arrested for looting and police said they suspected arson as the cause of the fire.

Council Meeting Set For Tuesday

A special session of the City Council has been set for Tuesday night at 8 o'clock to consider the Public Housing Authority's request for approval of a resolution, Mayor Charles M. King said today. The meeting will be held in the council chambers at City Hall. Approval of the resolution would allow the Authority to make application to the Federal Government for a preliminary loan to carry on its work.

Angrily Denies Joint Chiefs Planned Cuban Fiasco

EDITOR'S NOTE—What role, if any, the Joint Chiefs of Staff played in planning the ill-starred Cuban invasion is subject of capital speculation and closed sessions by a Senate subcommittee. While the full story has not been aired publicly, a Navy officer told Ben Price, an Associated Press military affairs writer, that he was "sick" of efforts to pin the blame on the military. This angry, unidentified Navy officer presents a defense of the military in the following article. By BEM PRICE WASHINGTON (AP)—A Navy officer, angered by efforts to blame top military men for the Cuban debacle, said today, "no military man in his right mind would have approved the plans that were carried out." The officer, who cannot be identified, is well acquainted with the Navy's member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Adm. Arleigh Burke. In general, the officer's opinion coincided with that reportedly expressed recently by former Pres-

All About Town With Anne Keziah

The LPGA touring troupe of Betsy Rawl and Judy Kimball played a nine hole golf match against Harriett White and Harold Thomas at the Greenville Country Club yesterday.

Betsy Rawl, who has been a professional golf player for 10 years, was playing with Judy Kimball, a newcomer, who turned pro last year.

Harriett White of Greenville, who recently won the Greenville Ladies Invitational Golf Tournament, played with Harold Thomas, Greenville Country Club pro.

Teeing off at 2 o'clock, the match was viewed by approximately 200 spectators.

Multi-colored lights play on a spray in the center of Wright Circle these nights. The newly installed fountain is part of the renovation of Wright Circle on the campus of East Carolina College.

The eight foot spray slowly changes colors from blue to green to red to orange. The changing lights are in the center with blue lights on the outside which are constant.

I would recommend a trip through the campus at night to view the beautiful fountain which truly adds to the beauty of the campus.

CHOOSE YOUR COLOR SCHEME FROM THE FLOWERS

Pick your favorite flower, study it carefully. What percentage of the flower is green? How much of it is another color? How about the violet? About 80 percent of a clump would be green, leaves and stem, 15 percent purple and five percent white. A room 80 percent green, 15 percent purple and five percent white would be truly beautiful. It would be about the same if you choose a pink rose, or a red, or yellow. Now think of a Tallman rose—the background color green with accents of red and yellow. How about the bachelor button, blue and green with a touch of red? Choose your favorite flower, and copy the flower in coloring for your color scheme. Water Hazards With Summertime

The coming of hot weather to Eastern North Carolina means the peak season has arrived for boating, swimming, fishing and other water sports that have become so much a part of summer recreation in this part of the state.

It is also the season when farm ponds that have largely been ignored through the summer months suddenly take on a magic attraction for youngsters seeking a cool spot to gain relief from the summer's heat.

Unfortunately, summer is the time of year when drownings and other water accidents are all too frequent in this section of the state. In spite of the precautions which are required by officials and those taken by individuals, the summer toll of lives due to water accidents has steadily climbed in this part of the state in recent years.

This year there are more farm ponds than there were a year ago. There are more boats along the coast and on the inland waters. More people will be spending weekend outings along the water, enjoying the water sports. And unless extreme care is exercised, the number of drownings and other water accidents this summer will exceed those of the past year.

Water safety has become a matter of state-wide concern and well it should in view of the toll that has been taken in recent years. Greater emphasis is being put on boating safety, teaching youngsters and adults alike how to swim and how to exercise reasonable care when around the water.

In spite of the collective effort being put forth, the primary responsibility for water safety still rests with the individual family. The youngsters must be carefully taught to have as much respect for the water as they have love for it. The person who gets a thrill from a fast ride in a boat must be aware that the responsibility for the safety of others is upon his shoulders. Water sports offer plenty of excitement in the summer ahead, but along with the fun, water safety must be the concern of each individual who participates in the fun.

Humans Equated With Bulldozers, Tractors

Fidel Castro has now taken the position that prisoners of his dictator state in Cuba are not just prisoners, but rather hostages to be offered for ransom to the United States or perhaps any other nation of the free world.

Castro's proposal that the United States give him 500 bulldozers in exchange for 1,000 prisoners claimed to have been captured in the recent invasion attempt in Cuba is a modern application of the ancient practice of pirates and warlords.

The sympathy of the American people are with those unfortunate political prisoners who have fallen into Castro's hands. The American people also are full of sympathy for the uncounted thousands of individuals who are held as slave laborers in Siberia and the millions throughout the world who are virtual prisoners behind the iron curtain of communism. Even if it were possible to purchase the freedom of these people with material things alone, the free world would only be equipping the international gangsters of communism to crush the free world and what it stands for.

In the free world which recognizes the dignity and freedom of the individual, the value of a human life cannot be equated in terms of bulldozers, tractors, ships, or any other man-made commodity. Such is not the case under communist dictatorships where individuals are of value only so long as they serve the purpose of the state.

After the United States turns down the offer made by Castro—either by a statement or by completely ignoring it—it would not be surprising to see the Cuban dictator turn slave trader by offering to exchange some of his prisoners with other communist countries for machinery or supplies which he needs.

While the Castro offer directed to the United States was probably extended for propaganda purposes rather than in any hope that it might be accepted, it may well backfire on the Cuban leader in this hemisphere and throughout the world.

So Much Room For Disagreeing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The irony in a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting is that they can't possibly settle their most unsettling difference.

And if that's the way it is, Khrushchev will hardly try to demolish Kennedy as he did former President Eisenhower a year ago in Paris after the American U2 flight over the Soviet Union.

But it's going to be Khrushchev and not Kennedy who can afford to be cocky. All the recent setbacks have been on the American side, not on the Soviet Union's.

The Communist overrunning of Laos, for instance, the ridiculous American-backed invasion of Cuba, one of the biggest pieces of nonsense in the 20th Century.

And only this week the South Korean army, much to America's distaste, threw out the American-backed government for being corrupt.

The only saving grace here is that the new military regime says it's anti-Communist. And maybe it is.

But Korea can't stand too much of this instability—only a year ago the population tossed out American-backed President Syngman Rhee for tyranny—without encouraging Communist subversion from within if not attack from without.

And the Kennedy administration, even in the Western Hemisphere, is braced for more Castros and more Cubas.

If Kennedy knows that, then Khrushchev probably knows it better. This puts him in a position to high-hat the President a bit.

And if he does, it won't do American prestige, already badly dented and punctured this past year any good.

Strength For Today

There is little we can do about it. He will speak to whom He pleases in his own good time: to his priests, ministers and rabbis, to laymen, and to those who are truly his servants. Through long experience the Church has plenty of evidence that this is so, and the Church is very conservative about the matter. It wants to be sure that the voice that comes is the genuine voice of God, and does not merely seem to be his voice. But when He speaks, as to little Samuel, we shall never be mistaken. The Almighty lets us know in his own good time, and in his own way.

Names To Be Explored

A recent article in these pages emphasized the significance of names of towns. It discussed where particular names came from in the first place and how specific locations became associated with the names.

Another publication we've seen recently has to do with attempting to explain the real meanings of persons' surnames. Most dictionaries include an alphabetical list of given names and their "definitions."

Some business firms have found the magic touch by conducting a modest amount of research and then furnishing their customers with costly illustrations of their names.

As a matter of fact, the art of exploring names consumes a considerable amount of some folks' time. And when firms gain the reputation of being a "reliable outfit to furnish the authentic coat of arms," their activities are well worth the effort—at least to themselves.

But to us, sometimes it seems that the leisurely study of common everyday names—that can't be bought—is most interesting.

By reading bits of this and that, hearing fragments of idle conversation, and using good common sense, it's absolutely amazing how many names can be traced to logical beginnings.

For instance, we were doing just about as little as we could the other day when we stumbled onto a tale about how the name of a very popular commodity came about.

We say it's a popular commodity. Well, as a matter of fact, we know quite well what it is, in spite of the fact that we have limited actual contact with it.

The story, as we heard it, goes like this: In the old days, when King Henry (the eighth, it seems) was the English ruler and was all-powerful with his Divine Right to bestow kingship upon his choice, elaborate and lucid feasts were the order of the day.

Well, one day he found himself confronted with a rare and new delicacy "brought to His Majesty, the King" by peasants from surrounding countryside.

The illustrious king could learn of no fitting name for such a tasty delicacy and, thus, began to inquire of his royal subjects of the wonderful gourmet's origin.

It was a steak, he was told, cut from the finest loin of the finest young steer.

Well, old King Henry was so carried away, he immediately called for another. When it was brought before his table, he deftly drew his sword, leveled it broadside on the slab of the slab of prize beef and yelled: "I hereby do dub thee for now and evermore, Sir Loin."

So, what happens? And sure enough for "evermore?" We long for King Henry's Sirloin Steak.

See how interesting names can be? "This bit of wisdom can be appreciated by anyone who has had anything to do with legal documents: 'The big print giveth... the fine print taketh away.'" —Flemingsburg (Ky.) Times-Democrat.

"The proper time to bridle your tongue is when it is rearing to go." —Elbertson (Ga.) Star.

Washington, are a little after the fact. It is too bad that Governor Hodges did not voice his view sometime during the nearly eight years he held office, for as ex-officio chairman of the university board of trustees the Governor is in a position to influence the conduct of the university in sports matters.

Likewise, Governor Sanford's remarks at a press conference to the effect that de-emphasis should be carefully considered will be of slight avail if he does not follow them up at trustee meetings and with the use of his influence with the university's friends and alumni.

In sum, there is a limit to the doctrine of collective responsibility. Somewhere the dodging has to stop. Sports Illustrated made the point well in a recent editorial, answering an NCAA official who claimed basketball scandals did not originate within the college walls but merely reflect "the poor moral climate of our times."

As Sports Illustrated says, this is the sickest kind of evasion. If the moral climate is "poor," perhaps it is because too few people in positions of leadership and responsibility assume the onus and risk of leading. Sports Illustrated observes: "Policies which gave birth to the scandals did originate within the college walls. As for the moral climate of our time—since when have college presidents not had the responsibility to better it?"

And it might be added, since when have not only college presidents and university trustees not also had the responsibility to better it? Monday is the time.

Whole Blame Is His?

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The assumption of many students of American politics is that the President, being the chief executive officer of the United States, who with the Vice-President, is the only nationally elected official, is alone responsible for the conduct of government.

The Founding Fathers had a difficult time getting around the fact that they could not provide for a king in the Constitution. No principal European country, at that time, was without a monarch. Also at the time of the founding of the United States, the office of Prime Minister had not yet developed so that the Head of State was excluded from all executive and administrative functions. George III continued to interfere in the function of the government and Louis XVI had not yet been decapitated.

Upon the President were heaped the responsibilities of the Head of State and those of a Prime Minister. The experiment was a very successful one until the government became so complicated that in some instances the President could not know what was happening in some agencies until he read about it in the newspapers.

For the President then to assume total responsibility for all the activities of government is an absurdity. Even in the conduct of foreign affairs, there are so many agencies that the President may or may not know, in advance, how each is carrying out his policies.

The State Department is, of course, the central agency of government dealing with foreign relations. But then there is the CIA, an extraordinarily complicated mechanism in charge of espionage, counter-espionage and paramilitary activities (cloak and dagger stuff). Then there is the ICA which distributes the aid we give to foreign countries and in this category there are several other agencies, some strictly American, some international with Americans in charge, using principally American money. The American Ambassador to the United Nations must be considered in the development of foreign policy as he has a day-by-day relationship to it.

It is impossible for the President of the United States to assume personal responsibility for everything men, engaged in the conduct of foreign policy, do. Before he can assume such responsibility, he must have the power to hire and fire every person engaged in handling foreign relations. In the first place, many important officials who hold such offices must be confirmed by the Senate, which can be a limitation upon the President. Then, the Foreign Service employees are part of the Civil Service and can be dismissed for cause, or removed within the status that they had attained. In some instances, this is a wholesome provision, developing a career service of experts; in other instances it acts as an umbrella for the inefficient, the doctrinaire, the blabbermouth.

The President's authority thus is limited by law and by practice and while the Boss is always responsible for the entire works, he must not, in a political situation, act as an umbrella for those who should be separated from government because of their errors.

Constitutionally, it is possible to say that the sole responsibility for executive and administrative act of government rests upon the President, but what of such agencies as TVA or the FCC or the ICC or the World Bank? The Hoover Reports have established beyond doubt the inability of any one man to monitor the whole of the American government or any large part of it.

The people are, of course, not concerned with the details of structure; they look at the facade and blame a President for the whole works. Not since Woodrow Wilson's time has a President had a taut, working Administration. The gargantuan characteristics of administration appeared during World War I and have been growing since. Roosevelt increased the physical size of the Executive branch of government as a phase of his solution of the Depression and finally to supply the needs of

Financing Small Business Pays

By ELMER ROESSNER
Financing small business is good business.

The Small Business Investment Act of 1958 offered certain advantages to corporations organized to finance small businesses through long-term loans or equity capital, that is, by buying stock. Since then, more than 200 such corporations have been set up, with capital of almost $200 million.

In addition, the Small Business Administration, which administers the program, has given tentative approval to about 130 more corporations and about 70 more applications are under study.

Of the first 200 corporations, 24 have gone public, that is, they have offered their stock to the general public. Stock in the rest is held by private investors and banks. Many banks have formed their own small business investment companies.

DOUBLE IN VALUE
The 24 investment corporations that went public had original capitalizations totaling $127,600,000. Today their stock value is around $300 million. The corporations have more than doubled the value of stockholders' investments.

The most recent company to be formed is the First Small Business Investment Company of New Jersey. Its offering of 300,000 shares at $12.50 a share was oversubscribed twice—which shows how investors regard this type of investment.

The Small Business Investment Act was fathered in the Eisenhower Administration, but the Kennedy Administration is attempting to increase its effectiveness.

Phil David Fine, a Boston lawyer and friend of the Kennedys, has been named deputy administrator of the Small Business Administration and chief of its investment division. He is engaged in a drive to increase the number of investment companies and to make small businesses more aware of this source of private capital.

"Small businesses are the backbone of the American economy," he told me. "Census figures show that of the 4,700,000 businesses in the United States, 4,465,000 meet the Small Business Administration's definition of 'small.'"

BANKS LIKE SYSTEM
"If we keep small businesses supplied with capital for expansion, we will strengthen the economy for all business."

Banks like the new investment companies. Banks cannot invest in the stock of corporations, but their small business subsidiaries, under the act of 1958, may. Thus banks through such subsidiaries, can participate more in their local economies and help overcome the idea that banking organizations are only for big business. Furthermore, prosperous small businesses make good customers for other banking services—and there is always hope that a small business will become big.

The Small Business Administration will lend part of the capital for formation of an investment company, providing it is secured. Of the $200 million available for lending, the SBA has put up about $22 million.

The small business investment companies are permitted to borrow $4 for reinvestment in small businesses for every $1 in capital, while other investment companies are allowed to borrow only 50 cents to $1 for every $1 in capital.

The SBA continues to make direct loans to sound small businesses when other sources of capital are not available.

THREE INVENTIONS BROUGHT WOMEN INTO BUSINESS
Three inventions of the 1870's, the typewriter, the telephone and the electric light bulb, are responsible for women entering the business world, according to Robert J. Duffy, president of his New York office planning and designing firm. There were only seven women stenographers in the early 1870's, but their number increased with typewriter and today there are 2,500,000. The telephone required more women for switchboards and answering, and electrically lighted streets and conveyances made it possible for women to return home safely after sundown, Mr. Duffy observed.

Yanks Are Getting Enough Runs, But Opposition Is Getting More

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer When the New York Yankees can't win with hot bats, there has to be something wrong. And there is. The starting pitchers are shaky and the bullpen is bare. The defending American League champs now have scored seven runs in each of two consecutive games—but they've lost them both, barely holding on to second place after three times blowing leads in a 9-7 loss at Cleveland Friday night. The Indians sewed it up with a five-run eighth inning against three Yankee relievers. Manager Ralph Houk hasn't had a complete game from his staff in 13 starts. And the bullpen group has lost four while the Yanks have dropped eight of their last 11 decisions since holding a share of first place with the Detroit Tigers two weeks ago. Detroit, idled by cold weather at Boston, regained a five-game bulge as the Yankees lost their third in a row Friday night. Cleveland and the Minnesota Twins, who walloped Kansas' A's 11-1, remained in a tie for third place, also five games behind Detroit and within .004 percentage points of New York. Baltimore defeated Washington 4-2, and the Los Angeles Angels, after losing seven straight, swept a two-night doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 4-3 and 5-3. In the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat San Francisco 8-7 and shaved the Giants' lead to two games. Cincinnati took over second place by beating Milwaukee 3-2 after Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh 4-1. Chicago's Cubs beat St. Louis 1-0. The Yankees backed starter Bob Turley and Luis Arroyo, the first of the relievers, with home runs by Roger Maris, Yogi Berra and Hector Lopez at Cleveland and had a 7-4 lead going into the eighth. Then the Indians came up with four consecutive hits, the fourth a tying two-run single by Chuck Essegian off losing reliever Tex Clevenger (3-2). The deciding run was forced home when Jim Coates hit Woody Held with a pitch with the bases loaded. Vic Power, who had three of Cleveland's 15 hits, closed the scoring by stealing home—his first steal of the season—as the Indians beat the Yanks for the first time in 13 decisions going back to last July 10. Barry Latham (3-0) won it in relief. The Twins blasted Kansas City's winning streak at five games as Dan Dobbek belted a pair of home runs, the first a grand slam that wrapped it up in a six-run third inning against Ed Rakow (0-1). Don Mincher also homered for the Twins while southpaw Jack Kralick won his fourth, against one defeat, with a seven-hit job. Baltimore, after losing five in a row, replaced Kansas City in fifth place while ending the Senators' winning streak at five. The Birds did it with a three-run eighth inning—and they got 'em all without a hit, scoring the three on six walks by loser Tor Sturdivant (2-3) and relievers Dave Sisler and Marty Kutyna. Hoyt Wilhelm (5-1) won it with two hitless innings of relief. The Angels won the opener on home runs by Steve Biko and Gene Leek, with Leek's shot breaking a 3-3 tie in the sixth against reliever Russ Kemmerer (0-2). Right-hander Jerry Casale, who had lost 12 in a row, three this year, was the winner. Ryne Duren, once the Yankees' bullpen pride, saved both games for the Angels, who took the nightcap on Earl Averill's two-run homer in the third off Bob Shaw (3-2). Duren pitched 1-2-3 innings of hitless relief in the opener, then nailed the second game for Ken McBride (3-2) with two innings of no-hit, shutout relief.

Shoemaker Gains 'Charmed Circle'

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Willie Shoemaker, five times national riding champion and only 29, has joined the select circle of jockeys who have ridden 4,000 winners. Shoemaker booted home Guanteeya in Friday's third race at Hollywood Park. It was the 4,000th time a Shoemaker mount was first across the wire. Willie and Johnny Longden, Eddie Arcaro and England's Sir Gordon Richards now constitute the top four riders in thoroughbred racing. Longden, who has ridden 5,511 winners, is 54. Sir Gordon, who has retired, has 4,870. Arcaro, with 4,690, is 45.

Moose, Coca-Cola Win Big In Little League Contests

MOOSE WIN The Moose yesterday used a four-run fourth inning to pull ahead and a four-run fifth to pull out of reach of Security Life as they downed their Tar Heel League opponents, 12-8, at Guy Smith Stadium yesterday. Security Life pulled into a 3-2 advantage after two innings, before the Moose knotted the score at 4-4 in the third. That set the stage for the Moose's consecutive four-run uprisings. Security Life nearly matched the first Moose outburst, picking up three markers of their own in their half of the fourth. But the Moose fifth put the game out of reach for Security. The Moose hit safely six times but took advantage of eight walks and 10 Security errors for their 12 runs. Score by innings: Jockey Jimmy Sellers equaled Bill Hartack's 1957 riding record at Hialeah last winter by taking six stakes races.

COKE ROMPS Coca-Cola exploded for 10 runs in the first inning, added five more in the second, and coasted to a 17-8 North State League victory of last season's pennant-winning Optimists at Em St. Park yesterday. Taylor slammed a three-run homer for Coke in the second frame that ran his team's margin to 15-1. The Optimists could pick up only one marker until the fifth when they rallied for four. They added three more in the last inning but Coke's lead was too great. Merritt received credit for the Coke victory while the Optimists' Aycock was charged with the loss. Coca-Cola used its nine hits and eight free passes issued by Optimist pitching to pile up the highest run total of the young Little League season. Score by innings: Optimist 0-10 0-4-8 6-4 Coca-Cola 10-15 1-0-17 9-2

Altman Pitches Duke To Title And NCAA Berth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Don Altman, better known as a football quarterback than as the line baseball pitcher he is, pitched Duke to the 1961 Atlantic Coast Conference baseball championship and a berth in the NCAA regional tournament. Displaying the control which ranks him among the best in the conference, Altman gave up only seven hits as he hurled the Blue Devils to a 5-1 victory over Virginia Friday, his sixth win of the season against two losses. The junior righthander from Freeport, Pa., fanned five and did not issue a single base on balls, stretching his record to 12 walks in 64 2-3 innings. The victory gave Duke an 11-3 ACC record, to 10-4 for runner-up North Carolina, Virginia, which also lost to Richmond 7-3 Friday, wound up in seventh place with a 4-9 league record and 7-11 overall. Altman also figured in both of Duke's scoring innings against Virginia. In the fourth inning he walked, to score on Ronnie Davis' three-run homer. And in the fifth inning, Altman singled, to score on Wes Fader's two-run homer. Duke will represent the ACC in the NCAA regional tournament at Gastonia, N.C., June 1-3, and Florida State has been chosen as the at-large entry. West Virginia, Richmond and Furman are still in the running for the Southern Conference title and a berth in the tournament. It may be a three-team tournament. The Southeastern Conference normally participates, but Louisiana State, the SEC champion refused because of a policy of non-participation in athletic events which involve Negro athletes. The SEC berth was then offered to the University of Florida, which turned it down. No Negroes will be playing at Gastonia, but the winner there will participate in the NCAA finals scheduled for June 9-15 in Omaha, Neb.

Wilson scored an unearned run in the 11th for his triumph over the Caps. The slugger match was featured by two grand slam homers, one by Wilson's Joe McCabe, the other by Raleigh's Ken Orbsen. Reliever Benny de la Cruz was made a starter and pitched Greensboro to a six-hit triumph. All the winners' seven runs were knocked in by Chuck Reifel and Bob Kaczynski. Each hit homers.

Warns New York City Will Feel Expense Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposed government crackdown on expense account living, says a New York restaurant operator, might turn midtown Manhattan into a distressed area.

The threat that free spenders may use tax-deductible expense accounts already has chased many of them from lavish restaurants and bars, Vincent Sardi Jr. said Friday.

The effects won't be limited to New York City if Congress follows President Kennedy's recommendation and sets tax limits for expense account dining, dining and entertaining, Sardi said.

"This will kill convention business in cities like Chicago, New Orleans, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Miami," Sardi told the House Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., asked "Are you suggesting midtown Manhattan may become a distressed area that would have to seek aid under this legislation we have just passed, and have its people retained for different jobs elsewhere?"

"That may sound like an exaggeration, but it really isn't," replied Sardi.

Sardi said setting a $4 to $7 limit on business entertainment meals and ruling out tax deductions on food and drink items not directly related to a business deal were going too far.

There may be abuses, he said, but "you wouldn't fight juvenile delinquency, for example, by abolishing children."

"The only way we could adjust to these artificial, unreasonable limitations is to cut help and look for a faster turnover," Sardi said. "For every dollar the government gains in increased taxes, restaurant workers would lose $2 or $3 in wages."

Sardi, and a number of other witnesses opposing Kennedy's tax proposals, argued that the present law permitting "ordinary and necessary" expenses is adequate if enforced.

The witnesses contended businessmen should not be deprived unduly of discretion as to what is necessary.

If goodwill entertaining is banned, Sardi said, it could have wide results.

"Legitimate theater would be ruined," he said. "If you want to be nice to a businessman, you can't give him $10. That would be not only bad taste but practically illegal. But you can send him tickets to a show or take him to dinner."

SCA President Installed Friday

By CRAIG WORTHINGTON

Billy Neal James was installed as President of the Student Cooperative Association yesterday by Orren E. Dowd, principal.

After Erskine Duff, president, called the meeting to order, Tom Irons gave a short devotional. Johnny Reynolds, outgoing treasurer, presented his report for the year.

Janice Laughter's secretary's report was actually a resume of this year's council work. She mentioned the following projects or activities: selling plastic bookcovers, distributing "Power" devotionals to homerooms, sponsoring delegates to both district and state conventions, and the mock national election.

Also included in her report were the Honor Code and Loyalty Day assemblies, Tripp Week, holding an election for the Azalea princess, selecting three delegates to the Civitan conference this summer, and helping to sponsor a student exchange student, Svend Erik Plum.

Janice reported that the council had also invited various faculty members to the meetings in order to give them a better picture of council work and had made a list of recommendations concerning projects around the school.

The following standing committee chairmen gave their annual reports: Traffic (Bill Wade), Orientation (Dallas Clark), Building and Improvement (Beverly Powell), Open Forum and Assembly (Myrtle Moon Bilyeu and Melinda Coleman), Citizenship (Donna Bisette), Judicial (Sara Collier Webb), Publicity (Betsy Bryant), and Welcome and Dance (Jean Crawford).

Erskine then presented to Svend Erik Plum, the school's exchange student from Copenhagen, Denmark, a plaque with the following engraving: "To Svend Erik Plum—Our international friend— from the Rose High Student Body, 1960-61."

Erskine explained that this was only a small token of the friendship and esteem which the students of Rose High feel for their first exchange student.

Svend, in response, told the students that "I wish I knew some way to express my appreciation for my year here. When I go home I shall carry a fine impression of the people of America. I've had the best experience of my whole life."

Erskine then expressed his own appreciation for the co-operation which he received this year in trying to carry out his purpose and objectives as council president.

Mr. Dowd remarked that "I want to pay tribute to Erskine and his administration for their fine job this year." He then administered the following oath of office to Billy Neal:

"I do solemnly affirm that I shall faithfully execute to the best of my ability the duties of the office of President of the Rose High Student Body to which I have been elected; to do all in my power to uphold the ideals of this organization and to promote higher standards of citizenship for Rose High School."

Billy Neal then installed the following officers with this same oath: Jimmy Jenkins, vice-president; Donna Whitley, secretary; Joe Waldrop, treasurer; and Nancy Harrington and Pat Worsley, roving representatives.

Each new officer received from the president his symbol of office—election rules (vice-president), minutes (secretary), accounts (treasurer), and an alphabetized list of the homerooms (roving representatives).

In his inaugural address, Billy Neal told the students that "In the coming year we shall face many challenges which we hope to meet with determination, courage, and foresight. Every year the SCA faces problems that were not faced by previous year's councils. As president of next year's SCA, I hope that we can combine our efforts to meet our challenges with the success of past councils."

He then announced the following standing committees: (chairmen first)

Traffic: Johnny Reynolds—Citizenship: Ann Hunt—Thereas Wilson and Joanne Crawford—Building and Improvement: Bill Wade—Dalton Owens and Barbara Minnes.

Welcome and Dance: Gigi Guice—Robert Johnston and Beverly Powell.

Open Forum and Assembly: Ross Clark—Martha Henderson and John Lansonche.

Orientation: Janice Laughter—

William Allen and Barbara Brooks. Eligibility: Elbert Felton—Joe Gaston.

Erskine then turned the program over to Dr. James Butler of East Carolina College, who presented a plaque to last year's "Tau", the high school annual, for receiving first place in the ECC Publications Conference.

George S. McRorie, adviser, and Jean Crawford and Emily Stencil, this year's co-editors, accepted the plaque for last year's staff—Jeanette Taylor and Vicki Avery, co-editors, and Bill Clapp and Carole Wilkerson, business managers.

Mr. Dowd then presented the following award:

—Certificate of Merit to Jimmy Eatman for the best feature story submitted to the ECC Publications Conference.

—Trophy to this year's golf team—Dallas Clark, Chappy Bradner, Rick Saue, Sonny Parkinson, and Jimmy Moye—for taking the mer, and helping to sponsor a student exchange student, Svend Erik Plum.

—Trophy to the junior varsity basketball team for their having won the conference title. Coach Bud Phillips received this award for the team.

—Trophy to the varsity cheerleaders for their having won the conference cheerleaders tournament this year. Melinda Coleman, head cheerleader, accepted this award.

Mrs. Vivian Beach, glee club director, led the group in singing "Alma Mater" after which Erskine adjourned the assembly.

SCOUT NOTES 'Hire Now' Plea Made By Mayor

DISTRICT MEET

The Pitt Scout District Committee meeting is scheduled for 7:45 p.m. Monday at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in Greenville.

All committee members have been urged to attend Monday's regular May meeting.

CAMP CHARLES

Registration is underway for Pitt District scouts who plan to attend Camp Charles near Bailey this summer.

Pitt District Executive Rudy Alexander claims: "It's the best bargain for a week of supervised and wholesome fun and activity."

Camp Charles, operated by the East Carolina Council, provides an opportunity for scouts in the council to spend a summer week where instructors in handicrafts, nature, aquatics, archery and other scout programs are available.

Alexander says he believes the Camp Charles program is the best investment for a boy's vacation since the cost is less than $30 a week and even less for the Pioneer Camp.

The Camp Charles schedule:

Regular Camp dates — first week, June 18-24; second week, June 25-July 1; third week, July 2-8; fourth week, July 9-15; fifth week, July 16-22; sixth week, July 23-29.

Pioneer Camp dates — seventh week, July 30-August 5; and eighth week, Aug. 6-12.

In addition, two weeks have been allowed for Junior Leaders Training Camp; June 4-10 and June 11-17.

Alexander has urged all scouts in the Pitt District who plan to attend Camp Charles this summer to make application immediately.

Oldest Woman's Organization Still Very Active

By ANNE KEZIAH Reflector Woman's Writer

In the year 1888 in Greenville The King's Daughters And Sons had its beginning, just two short years after the national organization in 1886.

After more than 70 years of service, Greenville's oldest woman's organization is as active as ever. Today their goal is to obtain a home for the aged, with progress being made on this. The King's Daughters and Sons has purchased a lot on Tenth Street Extension, with hopes of construction getting underway this year.

In the early years of the Circle church work was its main objective, but in more recent years they have undertaken community work, welfare work throughout Pitt County. For the past ten years its goal has been to acquire a home for the aged to be located in Greenville.

Money is realized from the making of pickles, vanilla, collecting and selling bottles. The group has two wheel chairs in use, calls are made to the sick, and books and magazines are given to the colored library.

Several years ago a Memorial Fund was established for the aged. The home will be open to anyone desiring care. Plans are to have a main building with a capacity for 20 patients with units to be built later as the need arises.

The home, to cost approximately $150,000, will be constructed with the help of interested citizens contributing.

The International Order of The King's Daughters And Sons was organized 75 years ago in New York City on January 13, 1886, by ten women of varying faiths, who saw a need of a sisterhood.

The organization whose purpose is "The Development of Spiritual Life And The Stimulation of Christian Activities," now encircles the globe.

Records which are kept in the Sheppard Memorial Library vault show the Greenville organization dates back to July 1888.

Mrs. Ada Cherry, now deceased, along with Mrs. A.L. Blow, first president of the local circle were instrumental in getting Mrs. Isabella Charles Davis of New York City, one of the ten organizers, to come to Greenville and help form the Greenville Circle. Meetings were first held in the First Presbyterian Church which was located at that time at Greene and Dickinson Avenue.

In 1920 a Junior Circle, The Stonewall Jackson Junior Circle, was formed under the leadership of Mrs. C.A. Bowen. The Circle was later taken over by Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell. The name was changed to the Hortense F. Moye Junior Circle in honor of the late Mrs. Hortense Moye who was twice State Branch President.

The Junior Circle is now a part of The Young Men and Women's Department and is called the Patient Circle No two with a membership of 12.

The second Tuesday in the month was the original meeting time, which has held true to form throughout the years. Meetings are held in the homes with Bible studies being conducted. To become a member all one has to do is have the desire to uphold their ideals.

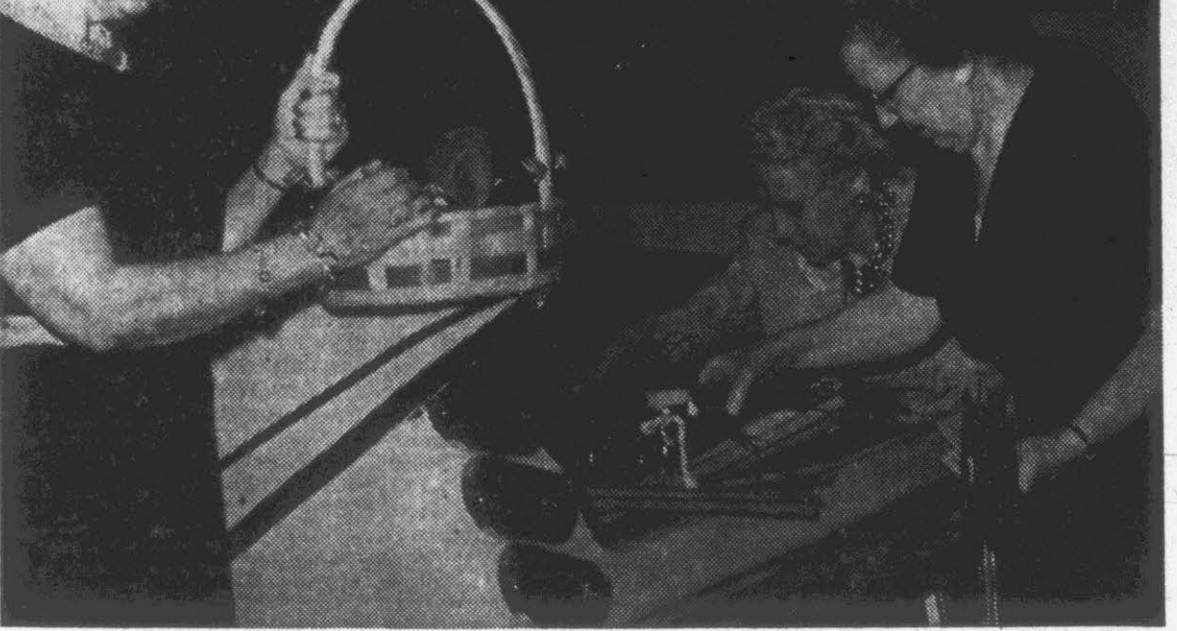

At present there are 68 members in The Greenville circles. The creed of The Patient Circle of The King's Daughters And Sons is "Look up and not down, Look forward and not back, Look out and not in, Lend a hand."

Reaped Multitude Of Rewards In Nine Years Of 4-H Club Work

BECKY'S LONG . . . time record book in Girl's Achievement, is a record of everything that she has done in club work.

By ROSALIE MOORE Reflector Staff Writer

Rebecca Parker, 20, of Benson is a junior at East Carolina College and has won a multitude of honors and awards during her nine years of 4-H Club work.

She is majoring in home economics and hopes to specialize in extension work after graduation.

What is Beck's secret of success in 4-H? Work. Hard work, has helped her achieve some of the top honors that club members can receive.

She has been in 4-H work for nine years, completing 91 projects in 16 different areas.

Some of these areas include: clothing; food preparation; better grooming; child care; safety; tree identification; crafts; and frozen foods.

Clothing has taken up most of her project activity, and she has completed about 410 articles of clothing and wearing apparel. "I started sewing very young under the direction of my mother. I learned the necessity of adult guidance, when sewing while mother was out of the house—I sewed my finger while making a jiffy doll dress," commented Becky.

When asked about her sewing machine, she replied, "It is all mine. I was able to buy it by going outside sewing."

"The article I treasure most is my sister's wedding gown, which I made when I was a junior in high school," she continued.

Becky recently finished the wedding gown that she made for her roommate, Sue Flowers, who will be married May 27. She also makes all of her clothes, with few exceptions, and designs quite a few of them.

Awards and Honors Received. Awards and honors that have been presented to Becky include: local; county; district; state; and national.

Local honors include: Junior

Dairy Foods Demonstration; health queens; exhibits; and officer in local club for six years.

County: dress revue; clothing; canning; dairy foods; food preparation; leadership; public speaking; offices held: song leader; vice-president; and pianist.

District: clothing; girl's home economics; sewing demonstration; dress revue; and girl's achievement.

State: clothing; sewing demonstration; achievement; 4-H Honor Club, Danforth Award; and delegate to National 4-H Conference, held in Washington, D.C., is the highest award that can be presented on the state level.

At the age of 18, Becky was chosen to represent the girls of North Carolina, at Danforth Leadership Training Camp in Muskegon, Mich.

Only one boy and girl are chosen in North Carolina, mainly on the basis of leadership, each year to attend camp.

Girls from all over the United States and foreign countries attend and are trained in mental, physical, social and religious areas.

She is on the 4-H Honor Club District Screening Committee for 1961.

Among her national honors, are: Clothing Achievement in 1959, "Report to the Nation"; Girl's Achievement, 1960.

In achievement, there are 12 (girls and boys) chosen as national winners. From those 12—a girl and boy are chosen as top club members in the nation.

Becky received a 24-piece set of sterling silver in a chest, awarded by the president of the United States, for the top award presented in Girl's Achievement.

She was also chosen to preside at the National 4-H Dress Revue. Scholarships were also awarded to the 12 top members in the nation. Becky has received two $400 scholarships from na-

No Glamor In A Civil War Prison

SEAMY SIDE OF WAR: This marble monument in Crown Hill Cemetery, Indianapolis, marks the common grave of 1,616 Confederate soldiers and sailors who died in prison.

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP).— The glamor and spectacle of conflict long past dominates the centennial observance of the Civil War.

But a simple marble monument at Crown Hill Cemetery in Indianapolis attests to the fact that all was not glamor and spectacle.

It marks the spot where 1,616 Confederate soldiers and sailors, their individual identities long ago, lie buried in a common grave. They died in the Union's Morton Prison.

In its way, Morton Prison was as infamous in the South as Andersonville was in the North.

Yet, former Confederate prisoners thought so highly of its first commander, Col. Richard Owen, that they and their friends subscribed funds for a memorial bust which still stands in the Indiana statehouse.

"For his courtesy and kindness . . ." it says.

Col. Owen commanded the prison only four months after it received its first shipment of 3,700 prisoners in February, 1862. Under a succession of unwilling commanders, who would rather have been in the field, the prison deteriorated.

Augustus M. Clark, a government medical inspector, looked over the camp in October, 1863 and called it "a disgrace, filthy in every respect; condition of men in barracks exceedingly foul; in hospital, miserable."

In justice to the commanders, who often had trouble getting adequate supplies, many of the prisoners were near death from wounds, disease and malnutrition when they reached the prison.

The last prisoners were released June 13, 1865 and the Indianapolis Journal reported:

"In tattered gray and butternut the poor fellows straggled down our streets in search of transportation to their homes. The departure of many of these has been delayed because they were in the hospital. As we saw them, haggard and pale, tottering along with their little poverty-stricken bundles, we felt sincerely sorry for them.

"In our heart there was no bitterness of feeling against them. They go back to a conquered country—to overgrown fields—to ruined villages—to homes, the chimneys of which only are left. . . War is a hard thing, and it leaves a black and damning trail."

Not a trace is left of Morton Prison, which used to be a mile and a half north of Indianapolis. Now the site is miles inside the city limits and covered with blocks of homes.

The dead prisoners were buried on what then was the west edge of the city, along White River, in Greulawn Cemetery.

Industry crowded into the area and all the remains that could be found were shoveled into 25 boxes and moved to Crown Hill in 1928. Wooden grave markers have been weathered black, long before.

A factory which makes chains now occupies the Greulawn Cemetery site.

Col. Owen, the commander the prisoners liked, himself was captured at Munfordville, Ky., in September, 1863. On hand was Southern Gen. Simon B. Buckner, who had once been a prisoner in Indianapolis, although he was permitted to stay in a hotel outside Morton Prison.

Buckner returned Col. Owen's sidearms and thanked him for his considerate treatment of his prisoners. The colonel was paroled and permitted to return to the North.

Books can be dangerous and so can the producers of books, besides being a rum lot who grow beards and wear berets.

This fact was dramatized for the lady in New York whose copy of Henry Miller's "Tropic of Cancer" was torn from her possession by a Customs official last October as she debarked from France.

She has not yet recovered her boob, in spite of quires of legal briefs filled in her behalf. Fact is, the U.S. government considers Miller's book dirty and is sitting on it with its ponderous bulk to keep it from harming the New York lady and her friends and neighbors.

Reader's Progress. Quite aside from dirt, the dangers lurking within the covers of frivolous books were well known as early as 1579, when Stephen Gosson pithily summarized the steps by which the unwary reader may be destroyed. Beginning with poetry, he advances to piping, "from pyiping to playing, from play to pleasure, from pleasure to sloth, from sloth to sleep, from sleep to sinne, from sinne to death, from death to the Devil."

It's as simple as that, and anyone who is skeptical can consult the exalted authority of Plato, who banished the Poet from his ideal Republic on the grounds that he is both a liar and a subversive.

We were reminded of this the other day by an article in "The John Hopkins Magazine," in which the author, Richard Macksey, points out the facts mentioned above and asks the rather unusual question: "Is the Creative Artist good for the University?"

Chapel Hill. Professor John Ehle of UNC, a writer himself, thinks that he definitely is, and in an article in last Sunday's News and Observer entitled "What's Wrong with Chapel Hill?" deplored the lack of creative people at our University.

No doubt, there are some who, upon reading Ehle's outspoken article, unconsciously sided with Plato and concluded that the author's lack of piety merely proves that his is one creative mind too many already at Chapel Hill.

We disagree, dismiss Plato as an irresponsible poet himself, and feel that contact with real musicians, poets, and painters can only be good for students. Generally they need tuning up instead of down. Their problem is not that of being overstimulated but of not having anything at all to say.

Macksey reminds us of Roy Campbell's quatrain on this subject: You praise the firm restraint with which they write — I'm with you there of course: They use the snaffle and the curb all right, But where's the bloody horse? To be sure, the basic question of whether even a creative artist can give a student something to say remains open. Yet those who do have something to say deserve to be helped. More power, then, to Professor Ehle, who wears neither a beard nor a beret and who is no more subversive, we hope than Milton, Shelley, and Blake were.

Guest Review. This week's review examines a book of special interest in the Sanford era of North Carolina politics. The reviewer teaches history at ECC.

Charles Brantley Aycock. By Oliver H. Orr, Jr. (Chapel Hill: The University of North Carolina Press, 1961, Pp. x, 394, $7.50.) Many of us have anxiously awaited the long expected publication of Oliver Orr's biography of Charles B. Aycock, North Carolina's great "Educational Governor." It seems particularly appropriate that it should be published in the midst of another great education crusade.

Born in Wayne County in 1859, Aycock was educated at the University of North Carolina. He later studied law, set up practice in Goldsboro, and entered politics. By the 1890s Aycock was recognized as one of the foremost Democratic leaders of the state, and in 1900 he was chosen as the Democratic nominee for governor. Running on an incongruous platform of aid to education and disfranchisement of the Negro, Aycock won an overwhelming victory over his Republican opponent.

As governor, he carried on a gigantic crusade for education and he was successful in steering his educational program through the legislature. As primitive as his program seems today, it launched the state on a far-reaching program of educational improvement which attracted nationwide attention and firmly established him as one of the best known and most beloved of North Carolina's governors. Aycock's accomplishments were not limited to education, but extended to many other areas. Nevertheless, Professor Orr concludes that Aycock, although serving during the Progressive Era, ignored or openly opposed many of the progressive reforms of his day and consequently his name cannot take its place along side those of the great progressive governors of his time.

The author has written a very fine biography, sympathetic although not uncritical. It seems to this reviewer that perhaps the author could have more fully correlated Aycock's contributions to the over-all progressive movement in North Carolina. In spite of that, Orr has filled a major gap in the history of our state.

NAACP Blocks Minstrel Show

CHICAGO (AP) — The curtain failed to go up at Budlong Public School Friday for a minstrel show, bringing tears to a group of 60 youngsters made up in blackface for the performance.

"I canceled the show," Principal Wesley G. Thomson said.

Thomson said he canceled it after his superiors advised him a minstrel show might be offensive to Negroes. The show was in rehearsal for several weeks at the all-white school.

"I personally didn't see anything wrong with it," Thomson said. "The music is (Stephen) Foster's, American classics for scores of years."

"We changed some of the lyrics a bit. Where it said 'darkies,' for instance, I think it was changed to 'chillun.'"

An audience of about 400 parents and school children assembled at the school to watch the show. The performers were kindergarten and first grade pupils.

The Rev. S. S. Morris, Chicago president of the National Association of Colored People, said "We feel it (such shows) helps to perpetuate a racial stereotype that misrepresents the Negro. I'm surprised such a thing was even planned in Chicago."

Non-Smoking Day Is Proclaimed

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP) — The British Columbia government has proclaimed May 31 as "Non-smoking Day."

An order-in-council approved by the Cabinet headed by non-smoking Premier W. A. C. Bennett says people should be encouraged to refrain from smoking that day and "every day thereafter."

It would be in the interests of good health and "for the protection of our forests which form such a valuable asset," the order said.

The British Columbia Forest Service says careless smokers set 257 fires which burned over 5,000 acres and cost $150,000 to fight last year.

Jobless Benefits To Rising Number

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of idle workers drawing unemployment benefits is climbing back close to the record 3,422,300 of mid-February.

The Labor Department reported Friday the 11th weekly decline in benefit recipients under regular state programs. The number dropped by 115,100 to 2,494,900 during the week ended May 6.

But the number of beneficiaries under the federal government's temporary extended benefit plan rose during the safe week by 59,400 to 737,900. This total combined with the 2,494,900 recipients under regular programs adds up to 3,232,800 drawing benefits.

DONALD BARR CHIDSEY'S New Historical Entertainment THE WICKEDEST PILGRIM

CHAPTER I Sal Boyd was drunk. He slithered on a cobbles and belched indignantly. "Domme," he muttered; for though as a seafaring man he could curse in five languages, Dutch seemed the most appropriate here.

It was dark, and there was no moon about. A drizzle filmed the air like fog. The mud between paving stones was as stubborn as glue. Sal rose lumberously, for he was a large man, and when he struggled down to the quay it was as though he forced his way through hip-deep water.

He saw a boat and all but capsize it when he dropped in, rocking a series of wavelets across the Catwater. "That one, over there," he said to the boatman.

Sound, no church bells tolling in one, no ship's bells in the other. When the boatman ceased to row the only sound was a sad susurrance at the prow, and even this faded as they were gulped by the shadow of a ship. Softly, apologetically, they nudged by the shadow of a ship. Softly, apologetically, they nudged the larboard side, at the waist. Grasping the thwart, Sal Boyd rose. More by instinct than by sight or feel, his hands and then his feet found a ladder. He dropped a coin to the boatman.

"Look matey, could it be that you're off of—?" Sal swore as he climbed aboard. The deck was deserted and he had ceased.

It took Sal a long while to get to the mainmast, though it was only ten feet away. He was wary. Drunk, it was harder to walk a deck that was still than to walk one that rolled.

Somebody took his arm. Sober, he might have been startled, for he had heard no step. As it was concentrating on the mast, he turned himself impatiently, not thinking like a dog that has just emerged from water.

"Brother, can I help you?" "You can take your bloody hands away (that's what)." "Brother, if you'd only let me—"

He whirled and punched the man full in the face. Then he teetered, wincing his arms in order to regain his balance. As soon as he dared, he grasped his dagger, ready to draw, since he assumed that the other would return an attack. Nothing of the sort happened. The man turned away, sobbing, slumbering, and lurched into the shadow of the aftercastle.

RALEIGH (AP) — A brand new congressional redistricting plan, sponsored by easterners but having the lukewarm approval of others, is expected in the General Assembly next week.

It would match the state's only Republican congressman, Charles R. Jones of Lincolnton, against Democrat Paul Kitchin of Wadesboro should both seek re-election in 1962.

Last year's federal census decreed a reduction from 12 to 11 in the state's congressional delegation and the General Assembly has been wrestling with the delicate problem for three months.
