

Federal Judge Dismisses Large Segment Of Justice Dept. Rioting Complaints

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A federal judge today dismissed a Justice Department race rioting complaint against the Birmingham, Ala., police department and one of three Ku Klux Klan organizations.

The ruling came shortly after the Justice Department rested its case in an injunction suit against police in Birmingham and Montgomery and three Klan factions growing out of recent "Freedom Rider" mob violence.

U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. refused to throw out the complaint against the Montgomery police and the other two KKK organizations, and four individuals.

He dismissed the complaint against the Federated Ku Klux Klan Inc., and Lester C. Hawkins of Montgomery, identified by the Justice Department as one of its officers.

During the second day of testimony before U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. three witnesses refused to answer some of the questions put to them. They pleaded the Fifth Amendment, saying answers might tend to incriminate them.

One was cited for contempt after he refused, for a while, to tell the judge who advised him to use the Fifth Amendment plea.

Charles D. Prince, district manager of the Southern Bell Telephone Co., was the final witness on the second day. A government attorney had started to ask for records of any phone calls between Anniston and a Klan leader when the judge recessed for the night.

Testimony so far has shown that biracial groups of Freedom

Riders met with violence in Anniston and Birmingham on May 14 and in Montgomery on May 20. Also in Montgomery Tuesday the Alabama Court of Appeals upheld the conviction of 12 Negroes arrested in a series of sit-ins, ruling that a merchant can serve which customers he sees fit.

Ten Negro students were fined $100 and costs each and sentenced to 30 days in jail under a city ordinance which makes it unlawful to remain on the property of another after being warned to leave.

Two Negro leaders, the Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth and the Rev. Charles Billups were convicted of organizing the sit-in demonstrations.

Elsewhere, eight more integrationists arrived at Jackson, Miss., and followed their predecessors to jail as the Freedom Rider movement continued.

The riders jailed Tuesday—five white and three Negroes—rode a train instead of a bus and were arrested when they tried to use white facilities at the railroad station in Jackson.

In Miami, 25 Negro teenage boys in an impromptu swim-in at an undesignated beach drew a crowd of 300 shouting, shouting Memorial Day bathers and boaters. Police brought the situation under control and prevented any outbreak of violence.

Kennedys Given Warm Welcome By De Gaulle And French People

PARIS (AP)—After a 101-gun salute and a warm welcome from the people of Paris, President Kennedy began his first European venture in summit diplomacy at a conference with French President Charles de Gaulle.

The streets of the French capital, brilliant with red, white and blue flags against the soft green foliage of spring, wore a gay and festive air. But the political atmosphere was grimmer.

On Saturday, Kennedy will meet Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna, Austria, under the threat of a new Berlin crisis later this year.

Kennedy and De Gaulle opened their policy talks 45 minutes before lunch in Elysee Palace and to continue this afternoon. Their concern with a new Berlin move by Khrushchev was a major subject for discussion.

Kennedy on his arrival publicly assured De Gaulle that their own talks in his view are as important as his meeting with the Soviet premier.

The young American leader called on De Gaulle, senior statesman of the Western Bloc, just two hours after his jet airliner landed at Orly Airport. He had flown from New York in 6 hours and 51 minutes.

De Gaulle, 70, greeted Kennedy, 44, with obvious warmth in his handshake. In his resonant, rolling French he told Kennedy: "You are most welcome to France." He spoke of the "difficult circumstances in which the world finds itself and which weigh upon our two countries to concert their actions."

Speaking without notes, as did De Gaulle, Kennedy delivered in response a brief prepared statement calling for greater Western unity and strength.

the airport arrival with military band and honor guard, the two chiefs headed a motorcade into the city, through the spacious Place de la Concorde and back across the Seine River to the Quai D'Orsay, the Foreign Ministry building where state visitors are housed.

In the heart of the city Kennedy was given the traditional 101-gun salute for a visiting chief of state. As he drove through the avenues with De Gaulle he was cheered and applauded as was the First Lady.

"I have neither held nor planned any talks that are more important," said Kennedy in obvious answer to critics who felt he should have deferred his meeting with Khrushchev so as not to detract from the importance of his talks with the French president.

"Our common goals," said Kennedy in his brief arrival speech at Orly Airport, "are greater Western unity and strength—the preservation of freedom—and the day when France will never again be a beachhead for war but a fountainhead of peace.

"I come not merely because of the past but because of future associations in the defense of freedom everywhere," the President continued. "Once again France under a great captain is the central figure of the common effort."

Kennedy saluted France as "our oldest friend" and "since before my nation's birth the wellspring of Western philosophy and ideas."

"But I am here to pay tribute to France, not for her past glory but for her present greatness," Kennedy declared.

The 70-year-old French president shook his 44-year-old guest's hand with warm cordiality and said "we have never known Americans other than as allies and friends."

De Gaulle's statement was translated into English and Kennedy's into French.

Mrs. Kennedy followed her husband from the giant jet airliner. She was welcomed by Mme. de Gaulle.

The presidential plane came down from a thinly overcast sky, and a brisk damp wind rippled the flags at Orly Field, carrying a promise of rain later in the day. But the scene was resplendent, in the great tradition of this city of gaiety and pageantry.

Employment Rise Expected Prevail Into Mid-July

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department reported today that a gradual employment pickup begun in March is expected to continue at least to mid-July.

The department's Bureau of Employment Security said its May survey of labor market trends show that employers in about two-thirds of the nation's 150 major industrial centers expect further slight seasonal employment gains into mid-summer.

The May job totals were due to be released in mid-afternoon. A further rise in employment, and decline in unemployment, were expected. Farm employment, kept down by heavy spring rains, is due to show some increase. Unemployment normally drops by over 250,000 from April.

The Employment Security Bureau's report indicated that job recovery is moving along faster than it did after the 1958 recession.

The bureau said unemployment has been declining in practically all major job areas, with the improvement in 10 of them sufficient to warrant promotion to more favorable ratings.

Five such areas have been shifted from the rating of 6 to 9 per cent of work force unemployed to the 3 to 6 per cent category. These areas were San Francisco-Oakland, Calif.; New Haven, Conn.; Fort Wayne, Ind.; Indianapolis, Ind.; and Steubenville-Weirton, Ohio-W.Va.

Five other areas were moved to lesser degrees of substantial unemployment ratings. The Utica-Rome, N.Y., area changed from the 9 to 12 per cent group to the 9 to 9 per cent group.

Two steel centers—Lorain-Elyria and Youngstown-Warren, both in Ohio—auto center, Flint, Mich., and one heavy metal-working center, Erie, Pa., moved to the 9 to 12 per cent group from the "worst" category of 12 per cent or more unemployment.

Renewed hiring in key durable goods industries, including auto and steel plants, contributed to the recent job improvement, along with seasonal gains in construction and other outdoor activities.

Baltimore, Chicago, Youngstown-Warren, and San Francisco-Oakland are areas which the bureau mentioned as expected to benefit from payroll increases.

$1 Million Plan To Aid Talented Child 'Approved'

RALEIGH (AP)—The House Education Committee reported favorably today on a bill to set up a million dollar program for educating "exceptionally talented children."

However, another bill to allow use of more advanced textbooks as companions to the basic texts in some public school courses was reported unfavorably by an 8-7 vote.

Dr. approved was a measure to establish five days of paid sick leave annually for public school teachers and principals. This bill, along with the measure for education of talented children, was referred to the appropriations committee.

Dr. C. D. Killian of Western Carolina College spoke in favor of the talented children bill. He said it represented results of a two-year study by a nine-member subcommittee.

Dr. Killian said he believed 3 to 5 per cent of public school children would meet the specifications of the program which include a group intelligence quotient of 115 or higher; majority of A and B grades normal or better than normal social and emotional adjustment; achievement at least two grades above the norm of the local administrative unit; and recommendation of the teacher and principal.

Rep. Roger Kiser of Scotland opposed both the textbook measure and the sick leave bill. He said he felt if the State Board of Education wanted "further laxity" in its textbook provisions it would have asked for it.

On the sick leave bill, Kiser, a teacher for 40 years, said he believes the state now has a very good system. Teachers may now get up to 20 days of annual sick leave, in the discretion of their superintendent, but for each day must pay $3 to a substitute teacher. They keep the difference in their pay, which Kiser said for a $400-a-month teacher would be $12 a day.

Crippled Airliner With 104 Aboard Is Safely Landed

SHANNON, Ireland (AP)—A crippled American airliner with 104 persons aboard—mostly women and children—today limped hundreds of miles over the Atlantic to a smooth landing here.

The Superconstellation ferrying U.S. military personnel and their families from Germany to McGuire Air Force Base, N. J., was forced to turn back two hours after leaving Shannon when one of its four propellers ran wild and the pilot could not feather it.

One of the aircraft escorting President Kennedy to Europe offered assistance but was not needed. A Pan American airliner in the vicinity shepherded the crippled plane to safety.

Forty children were among the 95 passengers aboard the airliner, 20 of them babies in arms.

Heart Specialist Academy Member

BELMONT, Mass. (AP)—Dr. Paul Dudley White says he hopes his election to membership in the Soviet Academy of Medical Sciences will help to increase communication between doctors of East and West.

The world famous heart specialist, who was a consultant when former President Dwight D. Eisenhower suffered his attack, said Tuesday night that better relations among doctors could help achieve better relations between nations.

Rusk Says Free World Must Arm To Meet Red Aggressors At All Levels

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today the free world must arm to meet Communist aggression at every level from the thermonuclear holocaust to assassination in the jungle.

Rusk opened the administration's argument for a $4.8-billion foreign aid program by telling the Senate Foreign Relations Committee: "We can afford to do what has to be done."

If the United States fails to undertake a sufficient effort, Rusk said, it must expect the failure of other nations to meet the demands of their people for a better life and from many of these nations an inevitable collapse.

In order to testify before the Senate group, Rusk delayed his departure for Paris to join President Kennedy in conversations with French President Charles de Gaulle.

Heading County Battleship Drive

Dave Mosier has been appointed admiral of the fleet for Pitt County to organize a fund raising campaign which will help bring the battleship "North Carolina" to Wilmington.

Plans are to raise $250,000 throughout the state to pay expense of bringing the big World War II battleship to Wilmington and outfitting a permanent anchorage for it. Hugh Morton of Wilmington is state chairman of the fund drive.

Mosier said a $100 contribution will entitle anyone to become an admiral of the fleet. Such contributors will receive a certificate and lifetime free admission to the battleship memorial. Persons contributing $5 will receive a ticket good for five admissions. The ticket will expire Jan. 1, 1965.

Mosier said contributions from Pitt County can be sent to "Battleship" P. O. Box 898, Greenville.

Mosier, himself is a commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve. During World War II he participated in three engagements in the Pacific where the aircraft carrier to which he was assigned operated with the U. S. S. North Carolina. He is now news director and promotion manager with WNCN.

To Return?

RALEIGH (AP)—Sponsors of a plan that would have the General Assembly come back in special session this fall to deal with the tough problem of congressional redistricting prepared to submit it to the General Assembly today.

Rep. Pat Taylor of Anson, a leader in the special session drive, said a resolution would be introduced by Rep. J. Paul Wallace of Montgomery and that it would bear the signature "of at least 36 members" of the House.

"I expect constantly to turn to the subject of the quality of our administrators," Fulbright said in his statement. "Apparently we have retained military forces for the kinds of battles that are not fought," Fulbright said of the military assistance program. "We have trained individuals who have not had the will to protect their freedom."

Fulbright applauded the long-term approach advocated by the President and said he hoped by the time the Kennedy administration has served its first term "we may be able to point to some states as irrefutable bastions of freedom in South Asia, the Middle East, Africa and Latin America."

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., a member of Fulbright's committee said Kennedy's request will be sharply trimmed by Congress. "More money is not the crying need," Aiken said in an interview. "What the program needs is well-qualified, well-trained personnel to administer it without better administration; more money will only make its operation worse. I'm for giving whatever can be used—effectively and handsomely."

Fulbright said he hoped the committee could complete hearings during the next two weeks to the Senate can complete action by the end of June.

Eppes High Graduates Its Largest Class In History

Greenville's C. M. Eppes High School last night awarded diplomas to 83 graduating seniors—the largest graduating class in the school's history.

Dr. E. B. Aycock, chairman of the Greenville City School Board, handed the seniors diplomas and congratulations as they filed across the stage in the Eppes gymnasium. Assistant Principal A. E. Murrell, pinch hitting for Principal W. H. Davenport who was unable to attend, read the list of 83 names to climax the Eppes commencement exercises.

Greenville schools Supt. J. H. Rose, in a brief address to the seniors, congratulated them and urged them toward higher goals. He said, "The time is not far off when there will be only three classes of people: the skilled workman, those in military service and those on federal government relief rolls."

Rose urged the Eppes graduating class to "discover a real purpose in life and rely on God to help you find it." He said, "Don't leave God out of it."

Student speakers, Edward Thomas Love and Lillie Pearl Hardy, spoke on the national and international aspects of the "new era." Both accentuated various chasms with which the world is constantly faced.

Love discussed the national aspect of what he called "a world marked by many changes." He challenged his classmates to be prepared for new developments.

Miss Hardy spoke on the worldwide aspects of the "new era." She described the United States as the "custodian of freedom" and said, "We are looking forward to the day when the whole world can point with pride to our way of life."

The Eppes band played "Pomp and Circumstance" as the seniors filed into the filled gymnasium. During the program, the student musicians rendered "William Tell Overture" before closing the graduation exercises with the National Anthem.

The school's Mixed Chorus sang "Emite Spiritum Tuum" by Schustky, a capella and then "One Melodius Song" with piano accompaniment.

Paul Reginald Mann rendered the program's invocation.

Grifton Board Votes Buy Land

GRIFTON—Grifton town officials, in a special meeting last night, took the first step in carrying out plans for water and sewer projects, approved in a May 1 bond election. They voted to buy a piece of property slated for the new well location.

The property is located on Dupont Street, in the northwest part of town. Owned by J. P. Quinerly of Grifton, the lot is 100 by 100 feet. Other plans for the site will be announced later.

Voters have approved a $130,000 sewerage bond issue and a $105,000 water bond issue in the May election. The State Stream and Sanitation Commission granted Grifton temporary permission to continue using its present plant until November 1, 1964. By that date, the new sewage plant must be completed and in operation, according to requirements by the commission.

Accuse Russians Of 'Roadblock'

GENEVA (AP)—Britain formally accused the Soviet Union today of blocking the Geneva negotiations to halt the nuclear armaments race.

Sir Michael Wright, British delegate to the deadlocked three-power test ban talks, expressed "intense regret" of the British government over the Soviet attitude in the negotiations.

He severely criticized the Soviet delegate, Semyon K. Tsarapkin, for rejecting out-of-hand a Western compromise proposal, presented Monday, to the lower the number of inspections on the site of suspicious earth tremors in the Soviet Union.

Bloodmobile Wraps Up Fiscal Year June 12-13

The Pitt County Bloodmobile Program will close its current fiscal year here with a two-day visit on June 12 and June 13.

At that time, the bloodmobile will be stationed at the Greenville Moose Lodge, from 12 noon until 6 p.m. on Monday, June 12, and from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 13. The quota for two days is 240 pints of blood.

It is hoped that the visit will bring more than the quota since Pitt County is some 500 pints of blood behind in its needs for this year.

Kenneth Whitchard, in charge of the blood program for Pitt County, said that so far Pitt County has withdrawn 1,649 pints of blood from the bank, while people here have given only 1,095 pints of blood.

Memorial Holiday Traffic Deaths Top 450 Toll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Observance of the four-day Memorial Day holiday cost the nation a toll of more than 450 lives in traffic accidents, the worst highway record for any Memorial holiday in history.

Late reports pushed the total of traffic fatalities far above the previous record of 413 for a 102-hour Memorial holiday. The former record was set in 1957.

Only three states, Hawaii, Delaware and Rhode Island and the District of Columbia went through the four-day period—Saturday through Tuesday—without a single traffic death.

California, Michigan and Illinois topped the list of states with each reporting more than 30 highway deaths.

The only extended spring or summer holiday traffic death toll to exceed the total this Memorial Day was the 491 recorded during the 102-hour Fourth-of-July observance in 1950.

Actor Improves After Operations

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP)—Actor Jeff Chandler continues to improve after two emergency operations for internal bleeding, hospital attendants report.

Chandler, 42, underwent surgery May 13 for a slipped spinal disc. Complications developed 10 days later and his condition became critical from an internal hemorrhage.

He rallied after surgery to repair an artery, but last Saturday a second such operation became necessary. Since then the hospital has reported slow but steady improvement.

Wreckage Hints Airliner Blew Up, Killing 61

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Plane wreckage in scraps no larger than a square yard washed ashore today, leading investigators to believe a violent explosion wrecked the Dutch-Venezuelan airliner that crashed Tuesday, killing all 61 aboard.

Pieces of metal, wood and material were found as the tide brought them in. They gave no clue about the cause of the presumed explosion or the crash.

Members of a Dutch and Portuguese inquiry commission are at the crash site along with technical experts who arrived from Amsterdam today.

The four-engine jet crashed on a storm-swept Atlantic beach early Tuesday soon after taking off from Lisbon for the Azores. The plane had come from Rome and Madrid, leased by the Venezuelan airline Viasa from KLM.

Worthwhile Permissive Measure

Permissive legislation to allow counties of North Carolina to operate 12-month school terms if they wish is, we believe, positive legislation that should receive approval by the legislature.

The measure introduced by Rep. Glenn Hawfield of Union County has been passed by the House and is now being considered by the Senate. It provides that counties who wish to tax themselves for a 12-month school year be allowed to do so.

Admittedly it is not likely that many of North Carolina's 100 counties will immediately abandon the present 9-month school year for a year-round program with three months financed wholly out of county funds. Nevertheless there may be a few counties in the state in which the school year may be extended beyond the 9-month program under the proposed legislation. And there may be a number of counties in the state that in the next few years may want to try an extension of the school year on a limited basis.

Under the proposed legislation no county would be forced to extend its school year beyond the present

9-month program that is carried out on a state-wide basis. If the proposal now before the Senate finally becomes law, however, each county would have the option of extending its school year at its own expense.

The measure, in our opinion, is in keeping with the effort to enrich the program of public education in North Carolina. It is also in keeping with the oft-heard suggestion that local governments as well as the state government should put forth more effort on behalf of public education. As permissive legislation the bill introduced by Rep. Hawfield has sufficient merit to warrant its passage by the legislature.

Our Communications Must Be Protected

Destruction of three microwave and cable relay stations vital to the nation's civil defense communications system should be a matter of grave concern to every American regardless of whether the explosions were the work of crackpots or saboteurs.

The incidents point up the fact that under existing security conditions, the stations—and perhaps others like them—could be put out of operation by subversive elements at a given time. If such a move were to coincide with a surprise attack upon the United States, the civil defense organization and perhaps the military defense organization of the country might be completely disrupted at a moment when it was most needed.

It is important that authorities exert every effort to determine the persons responsible for the destruction of the communication facilities. It is equally important, however, that a security system be worked out whereby a similar incident in the future will be impossible. The nation will gain little if it learns who planned and carried out the destruction of the stations if it does not make sure that these or other stations cannot be destroyed by unknown persons at some future date when the life or death of many people might depend upon the proper functioning of the equipment in the stations.

State, federal and military personnel is at present engaged in the investigation of the bombings of these communication centers. It is to be hoped that a simultaneous effort is being made by other responsible officials to plug the gaping loophole in the nation's security which was brought to light by these bombings. The elaborate communications network which has been established for defense use in case of a national emergency will not be worth anything to the nation or to the people if it does not function at the moment it is needed.

Find Salvation In Food Stamps

By BURL OSBORNE
WELCH, W. Va. (AP)—Needy persons in Southern West Virginia are holding their heads higher today, armed with a more dignified—if not yet proven—way of accepting federal aid to feed their families.

The first of eight pilot food stamp programs, using a form of currency that will buy only food, began Monday in McDowell County in the heart of the soft coal country.

The food coupons replaced handouts of surplus food commodities which more than half the county's population had been receiving. Most of the needy are coal miners, displaced by mechanization.

First to receive stamps in Welch was a family of 15, which had been without a steady income for more than a year. Al-derson Muncy, 47, an unemployed miner, said he managed to feed his family by gardening, a few odd jobs and standing in a monthly line to receive surplus food.

Dressed in khaki work clothes, Muncy, restlessly awaited Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Gov. W.W. Barron, who gave him the stamps.

Muncy ran his hand along a receding hairline. "It's been pretty rough the last couple of years," he said.

Since his family has no income at all, Muncy paid nothing for the $95 worth of stamps given them to last a month. "Yes, sir, this will help," he grinned.

Gardening has been a mainstay of the family's economy, his wife said, but the dry and cold growing season is hurting crops of beans, beets, onions, lettuce, cabbage and peppers.

"And that frost the other night settled it for the tomatoes," Mrs. Muncy said.

There had been no meat on the Muncy table for the past two weeks, then, the children were treated to salt bacon for breakfast. The 13 children range in age from 17 months to 13 years.

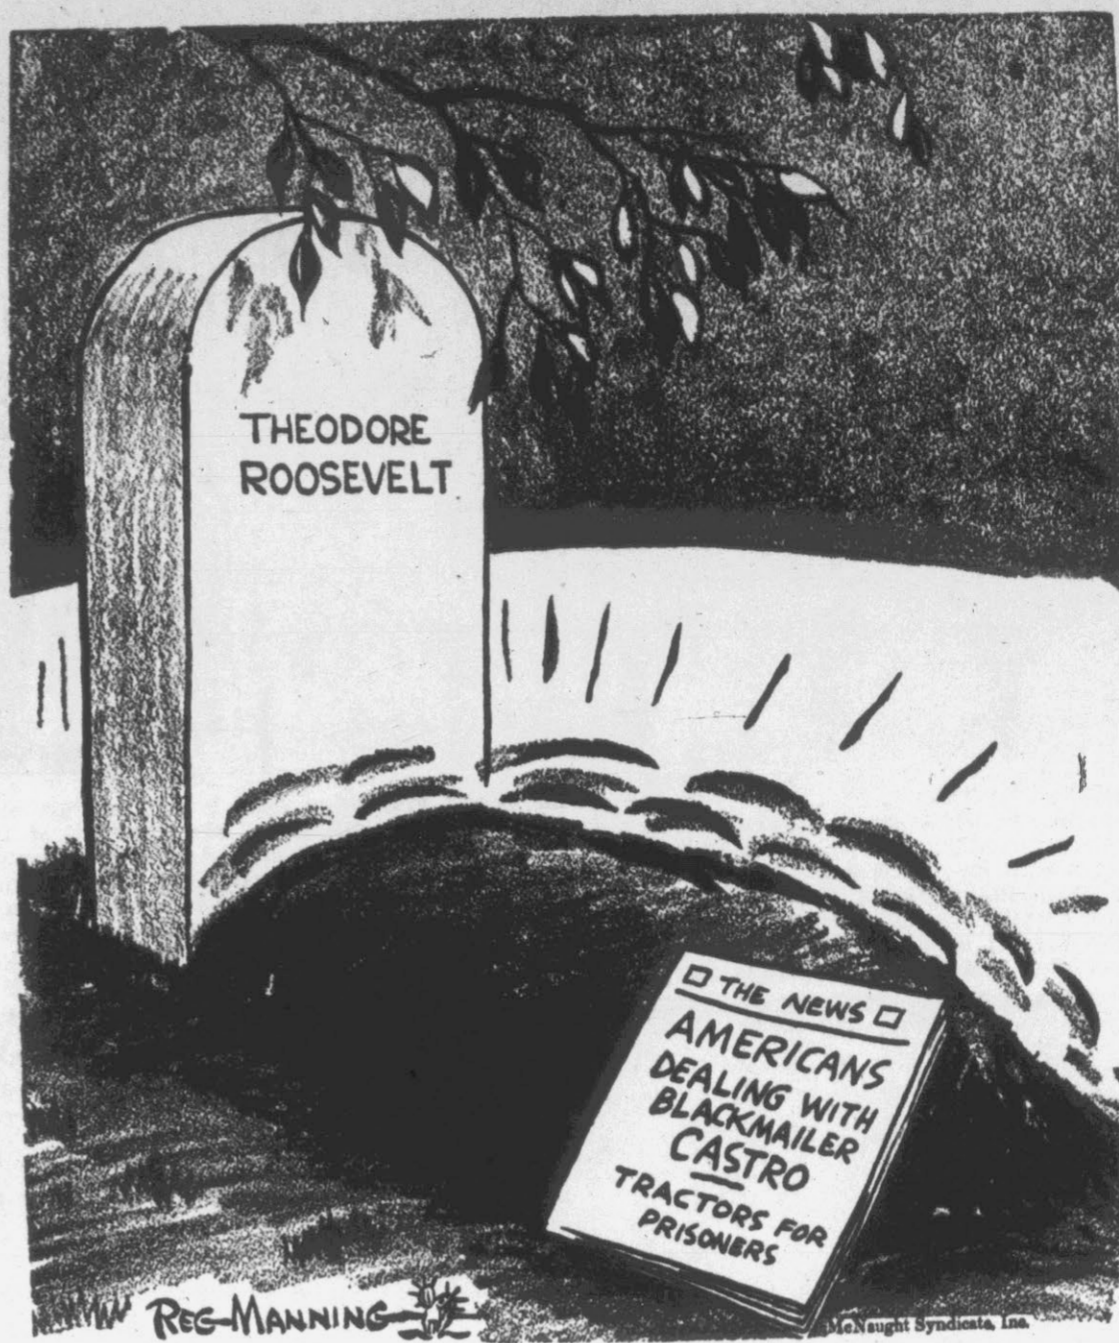

Second in the stamp line were Mrs. Elbert Hale and her eight boys. She and her husband live conviction. When we find that something, then a certain conformity is required. There is a wide difference of opinion in the Christian Church as to what this conformity should consist of. Is it to be complete and unquestioning? Is it to be taken with discrimination? These are questions which every individual has to answer for himself.

God's truth is so immeasurable that we have to look at it from as many viewpoints as possible. Discrimination is necessary, reason has its place in religion, there must be a certain conformity to some kind of authority. We must each settle this between ourselves and God.

But we must conform to something, else we are derelicts tossed on a raging sea.

Turning Over

By PATRICIA MOORE

Inspires Same Thoughts

It is—just in case you hadn't realized—the time of year for graduations from high school and college. Today we are more concerned with the high school graduation, referred to as the "crossroads" by adults and students alike.

On Monday evening, two student speakers, chosen by the faculty, addressed the audience during Rose High's annual class and awards night.

Marie Gibbs probably expressed the thoughts of other students when she said that "We begin to sadly realize that this part of our lives is over." And she took the opportunity to thank "you all" on behalf of the senior class, for all help and encouragement from parents, teachers and friends.

She concluded that graduation is not the end... it is the beginning.

Craig Worthington followed with another slant on graduation. "The world is waiting to grasp us," he stated. He warned seniors that many have made plans for college or work, but not for themselves.

He described the diploma as a key, "a key which will admit us to many doors heretofore closed to us."

If you can remember backwards to your graduation, you may recall thinking some of these thoughts yourselves. Or you may remember someone else's thinking them and expressing them. You might say they are universal.

And they are much more true than those seniors might now realize.

There are many aspects to graduation from high school, some leading to immediate responsibilities and some leading to college and a slight interlude before the real responsibilities of a job and home set in.

It seems that sometimes, as if warding off these responsibilities, some high school students have to inject a little "fun" or pranks. Such as installing "property for sale" signs on a high school campus, or other forms of so-called fun. These things are commonplace, statewide, nationwide and not confined to any one school.

But to the teachers and principals who have prodded and trained and hoped, graduation should be a culmination of joys. This last prank may prove to be a disappointment to those people, a little barb more painful than a slap in the face.

The academic story is the same at Carolina. National and international scholarly and professional organizations come to the Chapel Hill campus for their leaders. Three Rhodes scholars have gone from Carolina during the past decade. The UNC press turns out books which win national acclaim. Medical research done in the University School of Medicine has eased suffering, saved lives.

All those things make up the college and the university. The importance of those things is what led University President William C. Friday and Chancellor John T. Caldwell and William B. Aycock to take their drastic moves against the evils which had grown up around big-time basketball.

It is important to think back over those big and important and little-remembered things of our campuses. The remembering shows us so clearly why the past decade has had to do what they did to big-time basketball.

Had you remembered, for example, that State College has on her campus the first nuclear reactor to be devoted to the exclusive peace-time development of the atom? That is a real first, a real All-America development. Yet it is the kind of thing we are prone to forget at the same time that we remember the score of last year's big basketball game.

There has been much talk about the scholarships used to lure basketball players to our colleges. But had you forgotten the Morehead Scholarships at Carolina and the Talent for Service Scholarships at State? The boys who get them may play football or basketball—but they get the scholarships because of their academic achievements in high school.

Many people who are so upset over the death of the Dixie Classic might be surprised to hear that hybrid corn developed at State College now adds $25,000,000 annually to the farm income of North Carolina. Or that tobacco disease control measures developed at State College save our growers $20,000,000 yearly, or that weed control measures save the farmers $10,000,000 each year. Such things aren't dramatic—but they are important.

It is easy to forget that as many people went to Reynolds Coliseum this year to hear a symphony orchestra as ever went there to see a basketball game. That symphony orchestra was brought here by the Friends of the College, a unique group composed of college and towns people.

March Of The Muslim

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The Negro explosion of 1961 is so different from other similar incidents that it requires special study. Dr. C. Eric Lincoln, a Negro Clergyman and professor of philosophy, has done a very thorough sociological study of the Black Muslims, the followers of Elijah Muhammad. The Nation of Islam grows by leaps and bounds among Negroes in the United States.

Dr. Lincoln is a Christian but he approaches the anti-Christian Muslim movement with scholarly objectivity in his book, "The Black Muslims in America." He became interested in the subject when a student gave him a term paper which contained the following:

"The Christian religion is incompatible with the Negro's aspirations for dignity and equality in America. It has hindered where it might have helped; it has been evasive when it was morally bound to be forthright; it has separated believers on the basis of color although it has declared its mission to be a universal brotherhood under Jesus Christ. Christian love is the white man's love for himself and for his race. For the man who is not white, Islam is the hope for justice and equality in the world we must build tomorrow."

The Nation of Islam is attacking our civilization at its very heart. It teaches hate, not love. It teaches that the Black man is superior to the White man. It does not fuss with definitions; white is white and those who are not white are some degree of black. They want no mingling of races, no assimilation, no intermarriage. As Minister Malcolm X, a powerful leader of this movement, said:

"We are never aggressors. We will not attack anyone. We strive for peaceful relationships with everyone. BUT — (we attack our people) if anyone attacks you, lay down your life! Every Muslim is to fight never to initiate a fight. Respect another man's rights whether he is white, black, brown, yellow or what-not! Respect him as a man. Do unto others as you would have them do unto you! Never be the aggressor, never look for trouble. But if any man molests you, may Allah bless you!"

Dr. Lincoln's book is one to read because we so-called Whites sit in false security, hardly understanding or even knowing what goes on about us. The Black Muslims in the United States have been encouraged by the rise of the independent African nations who come to sit in the United Nations, the equals of the British, the French, the Russians, and the Americans. One vote is assigned to each of these countries and one vote goes to Ghana and Guinea and Mali and even Chad.

While Reverend Martin Luther King preached the Tolstoyan doctrine of non-resistance, the Black Muslims teach total separation. The Nation of Islam is a moral society which could accomplish a great deal for the Negroes of this country.

Dr. Lincoln makes the bold assertion that the Black Muslims are not an isolated phenomenon. He says:

"New York City alone, a score or more organizations operate in the name of black solidarity. Their central theme is always the glorification of black civilization and the deprecation of the white man's culture, which, whenever it has been adopted by the black man, has reduced him to impotence and ignominy."

This is not unusual. Each separated group regards itself as superior to all other peoples. It would seem as though every race of man is God's chosen people. Each race has its own mythology and its own tradition and its own, apart addition to human culture as the supreme contribution of man. This is not unusual. Dr. Lincoln says of this:

"A defensive kind of black nationalism finds occasional expression in the quarrels of Negro children everywhere. 'Black is honest,' they cry out, and, 'The blacker the berry, the sweeter the juice.' Even the Negro churches are often tinged with nationalism. An obscure African slave who rescued the Prophet Jeremiah from a (Continued on Page 5)

Rumors Spread On Redistricting

By LYNN NISBET
REDISTRICTING — The matter has not been settled, but majority opinion of legislators and observers is that the congressional redistricting bill which passed the Senate will be approved by the House, putting Rep. Paul Kitchin of the present 8th district and Rep. Charles Raper Jonas of the present 10th in a new district.

Running from Lincoln through Mecklenburg, Union, Anson and taking off into the Sandhills ending with Lee county, the new district on the map looks like a away-back duck, or an old-fashioned sail ship, or a salamander lizard. At that, it isn't as cockeyed in geographic lines as the present 8th district.

Earlier bills designed to pit Republican Jonas against an incumbent Democrat placed him in a new district. Eastern legislators under recognized leadership of Sen. Lindsay Warren apparently did not care much about who was in the new district, just so Jonas was forced to contend with an incumbent Democrat.

Rumor has it that the switch from Whitener to Kitchin as his opponent was made at the insistence of Speaker Sam Rayburn of the National House of Representatives. Just why "Mr. Sam" should inject his influence into North Carolina legislation—if he did—is not explained by those who say they know where of they speak.

To further enliven the spread of rumors, comes Republican State Chairman William E. Cobb, with the statement that "Republicans are saying that next to Congressman Charles Raper Jonas, their greatest asset is Sen. Lindsay Warren of Beaufort."

APPOINTMENTS — One of the biggest jobs facing Governor Sanford between now and July 1 is the appointment of several dozen major policy making boards and commissions. In many respects the most important — and bothersome — item in this category is selection of members of the highway commission. At his insistence membership on the commission was increased from seven to 17 with a full-time chairman as chief administrative officer. The act does not specifically require one commissioner from each of the 14 engineering divisions, but it is commonly understood that policy will be followed with the extra commissioners assigned particular duties on statewide basis.

It was further believed at the time Merrill Evans was named as chairman of the existing seven-member commission that he would be continued as full-time chairman of the enlarged group after July 1. Except for Chairman Evans there is very little certainty about who will be named on the new body. One thing is certain — Governor Sanford is being pressured in behalf of certain individuals, but much heavier pressure is being put on him for recognition of specific areas. There is "demand" for two commissioners from the area west of Asheville, for at least one from the extreme northwestern corner of the state, two from the lower Cape Fear Valley (Wilmington area), and at least one besides the chairman from the northeast corner (Albemarle area). Then, of course, the heavily populated and traveled mid-state area must be (?) recognized, and almost every county wants a commissioner.

BALANCE — The big problem is to maintain equitable balance between needs of primary super highways and of local farm to market roads, both as to degree of statewide control and as to allocation of total highway funds to the main purposes.

From inception of the big state highway program in 1921 until the depression years of the early 1930's the State commission had little control over county or local roads. From 1931 until 1941 there was fair division of interest. Nothing much could be done in any roads during the war years — 1941 to 1945. From 1945 to 1950 there was fairly even division, with some favoritism to primary highways.

During the Scott administration from 1949 to 1953 emphasis was on county and local roads, and primary highways were accorded secondary consideration.

Came then the interstate system and the requirement for larger part of State road funds to be allocated to match Federal money for the super highways. Governor Unstead sought to solve this problem by increasing highway commission membership. One effect of that was to increase the concept of 14 distinct little kingdoms within the statewide empire. Governor Hodges met that problem by reducing commission membership to seven, and ignoring county or division lines.

That policy was met with general popular dissatisfaction, so Governor Sanford is going back to the largest commission in history with a sought-after balance between primary through highways and more attention to local needs — with suggestions for more money for both phases of construction and maintenance.

Governor Sanford has sponsored legislation giving him the right to appoint more members of more commissions than any other Governor. No other of these commissions has as much popular interest as the highway group.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
CONFORMITY
To what extent should a Christian, in order to be a good Christian, conform to authority? Authority is, of course, the basic problem in Christian theology. What authority do we have for this belief or that? Church, Bible, creeds, human experience — all these have in them a certain authority. The person who says that he recognizes no spiritual or ecclesiastical authority but just goes along doing the best he can and trying to put into practice the Sermon On The Mount may indeed be an honest person and a good person, but he is a mistaken person. He must recognize some spiritual authority. For him, and for all of us, there must be something upon which to build conviction. When we find that something, then a certain conformity is required. There is a wide difference of opinion in the Christian Church as to what this conformity should consist of. Is it to be complete and unquestioning? Is it to be taken with discrimination? These are questions which every individual has to answer for himself. God's truth is so immeasurable that we have to look at it from as many viewpoints as possible. Discrimination is necessary, reason has its place in religion, there must be a certain conformity to some kind of authority. We must each settle this between ourselves and God. But we must conform to something, else we are derelicts tossed on a raging sea.

Drink Costs 7c, Or $10,399.52

By ELMER ROESSNER
Gladdis A. Pomfrit, saleswoman for the Outan Dover Co., took Eugene Stirling, purchasing agent for the White Co., to the Greenwich Tavern and bought him a Sazarak cocktail for $1. Stirling, in the resulting glow, signed an order for $100,000 worth of dovers, which would mean a profit of $20,000 to the Outan company.

est and, perhaps, profit for businessmen are: "The New Millionaires and How They Made Their Fortunes," by the editors of the Wall Street Journal. This book is just what the title states. However, each method the 14 cited tried has already been used, so if you want to get rich, you'll have to devise a fifteenth way. (Bernard Geis, New York, $4.95.) "How to Get Rich in Real Estate," by Robert W. Kent. One theme: you don't need much to parlay a real estate fortune. "Of the last 100 properties my students have bought in the past two years, I know of only four where they put more than $1,500 down." Kent says he ran $3,000 into $268,523.80 in one deal. (By Prentice-Hall, $4.95.) "Optimum Use of Engineering Talent," case studies of various experiences by many authors; declared to be the first comprehensive analysis of the management of engineers. (American Management Assn., 1515 Broadway, New York 28, at $9.)

But that's another column. HOW MUCH A $1 DRINK? The question now, however, is how much did the drink cost? If salesman Pomfrit bought the drink out of his own pocket, and if he is in the 20 per cent income tax bracket, then the drink cost him $1.25. He would have had to earn $1.25 to have $1 left after taxes. If Pomfrit was in the 40 per cent bracket, which is more likely, then he would have had to earn $1.67 to have $1 after taxes to pay for the cocktail. Wait a minute! Pomfrit is on an expense account. So the drink costs him exactly $0.01. But it costs the company $1. Or does it? If the company is in the surplus tax bracket, and if there

Dampness, Misery In Castro's Most Famous Prison

EDITOR'S NOTE — AP correspondent Robert Berrellez during two years in Cuba became a sort of authority on Fidel Castro's most famous prison, La Cabana. He wound up there as a prisoner, but finally was released to return to the United States. Here is his description of this prison whose name strikes terror in many Cuban hearts.

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
NEW YORK (AP)—A popular Spanish dish is paella—a concoction of rice, chicken, seafood, paprika and other things that defies the martini in the number of ways it can be made. In Havana's La Cabana Prison, the inmates—I among them—jokingly referred to the diet of rice and black beans as paella a La Cabana. This, however, was a sort of long-playing paella that went on for every one of the miserable 25 days of my detention. Once in a while, a shred of beef or ham somehow would find its way into the mixture. The food was the most palatable of the conditions at the ancient fortress prison. Filth, dampness, cold and forbiddingly grim surroundings were the lot of the 1,800 in Cabana with me.

La Cabana—literally the Cabin—was built by Spanish colonialists in 1610. It stands imposingly on a bluff on the eastern edge of the channel that leads from the Florida Straits into Havana Bay. Part of the fortress still wears a row of ancient cannon. Here and there along the wall and elsewhere around the fortress are Fidel's Castro's Czech and Russian .50 calibre anti-aircraft guns. The original fortress occupies a walnut-shaped area, roughly a quarter mile at its waist, in the northwest corner of a much larger military establishment that was built later.

I know La Cabana well. My first assignment after reaching Havana in mid-January 1959 was to go to the prison to interview Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, accused by Fidel Castro of more than 100 murders. He was executed the same month. I went there many times thereafter to interview other so-called war criminals and had no difficulties coming and going. There was no suggestion then that my career as a correspondent in Havana was to end with detention in the same prison. The original fortress is surrounded by deep, dry, grassy moats. Traffic feeds over-narrow bridges, some covered. The prison itself is a tiny triangular space in one corner of the original fort. Deep vaults apparently used by the Spanish military to store food and wine were converted into prison cells much later. The vaults run under nearly six feet of porous concrete. I was told this was intended to let rain water seep through the walls slowly. The ever present breeze from the ocean about a mile away combines with the damp walls to create a primitive air conditioning. The prison is cool in the steamy tropical daytime heat, and intensely cold at night. Vaulted cells are built into an E-shaped wall that forms two sides of the triangle. One unnumbered cell is a well equipped barber shop. Next to cell No. 22 is the first steel-barred gate. Just beyond another cell is the prison administrative office. Next to it, and nearest the heavily guarded main gate, is death row.

This once was the prison chapel. In Castro's time, the chapel pews, altered and an imposing image of Our Lady of Charity, Cuba's patron saint, were removed. The death row cells sit far in the back of the former chapel. The front of it, when I saw it last month, had been converted into a separate detention pen for rebel army officers. The rest of the space in the triangle is a concrete patio. Prisoners do their washing. The yard is laced with clotheslines and poles. Within the last year, the patio was split in half by a wire fence, along which runs a long wooden bench, to permit visitors to see prisoners. But prison visits had been prohibited to inmates since last March. Under the patio are newly reopened, dark and filthy dungeons. These were closed early in 1959 by Castro's first prison commandant, Capt. Manolo Fernandez. They were reopened May 10. According to many long-time prisoners, the worst prison chief was an American, Capt. Herman Marks, Castro's chief executioner until he defected last year. Marks, I was told, initiated the prison searches during which inmates were forced out of their cells naked, made to stand in the patio to undergo humiliating prongs by guards armed with bayoneted rifles. These have been discontinued.

Marks now is in New York under arrest. He faces possible deportation on charges of entering the United States illegally. From the back end of the cells, and through a double set of bars, we could peer into the grassy moats. One part of the moats, not visible from the cells, is used for executions. There was no firing squad activity during my stay there, I was told, however, the shots and screams could be heard clearly in the cells.

More Secondary Road Money

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's secondary road construction program stands to get $19 million more during the next biennium under a proposal made Monday by Gov. Sanford.

The governor announced that estimates of general fund collections for this fiscal year had been increased by $12 million. Coupled with this, estimates of general fund revenue for the next biennium have been upped by $8 million, making a total of $20 million.

Sanford recommended that $19 million be used to halt diversion of highway funds to other state agencies and thereby free an equivalent amount to build farm-to-market roads.

Highway Commission Chairman Merrill Evans said the $19 million extra money would pave an estimated 1,100 to 1,200 miles of secondary roads during the 1961-63 biennium. The original highway budget contemplated only 200 to 300 miles of paving and stabilization.

The current estimate on general fund receipts for this fiscal year, Sanford said, is $322 million, $12 million above estimates made last fall when the advisory budget commission prepared the proposed budget for the 1961-63 biennium.

Sanford said the new estimate "shows that the North Carolina economy is continuing strong and steady."

'Ready To Go' On Moon Shot

PARIS (AP)—America is set to build a space vehicle to carry a man around the moon, George M. Bunker, president of the Martin Corp., said Tuesday.

Bunker told a news conference at the Paris International Air Show that preliminary studies for such a craft now are complete, "and we are ready to start immediately on its construction."

Martin is one of the three firms engaged in Project Apollo under the National Aeronautic and Space Administration to put a man around the moon. Bunker predicted that NASA will put a three-man reconnaissance team around the moon by 1965.

House Committee To Hear Redistricting Arguments

RALEIGH (AP)—A House committee will hear arguments Thursday for and against a Senate-passed bill to place Republican Congressman Charles R. Jonas and Democrat Paul Kitchin in the same congressional district.

Rep. Ed Kemp of Guilford, chairman of the House Congressional Districts Committee, said that requests for the public hearing had come from Yadkin, Davie,

Young Bride Not Told Marriage Would Be Brief

REDLANDS, Calif. (AP)—Nancy Fortune 17, a bride of 10 days, is dead. She never knew her marriage to her childhood sweetheart, Dwight Twomey, was doomed. Their wedding was planned for years, as they grew up together in nearby Riverside. But Dwight was called for military service, and they decided to wait until he was free.

Twomey went to Okinawa for 13 months, with the Marines. In that time Nancy fell ill. She was brought to Community Hospital here, and Dwight, 19, came home.

They were married last week at the hospital's chapel, in the presence of the family and a few friends. Nancy went back to her hospital bed for more treatment, cheered by dreams of her life with Dwight.

Her husband and relatives knew she hoped in vain. But Nancy never learned that she had leukemia, which took her life Monday night.

Delaware AVOIDS Holiday Losses

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—The state of Delaware went through the Memorial Day weekend without a single fatal traffic accident, officials reported today.

State police had announced in advance—they would use every available man, use radar and patrol the highways with aircraft to stop speeding.

Davidson, Anson, Montgomery, Moore and Guilford counties.

The Guilford lawmaker said a number of Moore County citizens wanted the committee to hold a hearing in their county. He explained that time would not permit this.

Meanwhile, an amended bill to increase the cost of hunting and fishing licenses is headed back to the floor of the House where it was killed last week and revived.

The House Wildlife Resources Committee Tuesday approved revised increases for hunting and fishing licenses. The bill is designed to boost revenues of the State Wildlife Resources Commission by more than $600,000 for the next biennium.

The committee also approved the following increases:

Non-resident hunting licenses from $15.75 to $20; combination resident hunting and fishing licenses from $15.75 to $20; non-resident hunting and fishing license from $5.25 to $6.25; non-resident fishing license from $6.10 to $8.25; on-resident five-day fishing license from $2.65 to $3.75; non-resident one-day fishing license from $1.10 to $1.65; state resident one-day fishing licenses from 60 to 85 cents; and trout licenses from $2.10 to $3.25.

Also proposed in the amended bill was a new five-day non-resident hunting license to cost $15.75.

Other legislative developments Tuesday included:

Toe-Writer Is Straight-A Pupil

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Joe Rowe, who writes with his toes, because polio crippled his arms when he was 5, graduates this week from high school with a straight A average.

Joe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Rowe. He sleeps in an iron lung and uses a portable respirator during the day. He did all of his school work, including his exams, at home.

Mrs. Rowe went to school once a week to turn in Joe's home work and collect the next week's assignments.

The House and Senate received bills to provide a special program in the public schools for the education of exceptionally talented children.

Sen. Max Thomas of Union introduced a bill that would affect bids on state purchases. It would allow the State Board of Award to ignore low bids from foreign firms in favor of higher bids from Tar Heel firms when it appeared to the board this "would be to the best interests of the state of North Carolina."

The House approved a Senate-passed bill which would amend the State Constitution to reduce the time in which persons must have lived in the state before being allowed to vote for president and vice president.

Little TV For Chinese Masses

HONG KONG (AP)— Official Communist reports say Communist China has a total of only 20,000 television sets among its 650 million population.

More than 10,000 of the sets are within the vicinity of Peiping, Red China's capital and show window of its industrial and cultural progress.

Hong Kong's official Communist newspaper Ta Kung Pao quoted the price of television sets in Communist China at about $250 each. The monthly income of a city worker on the mainland, as far as it can be ascertained here, averages less than $15.

The paper said most of the sets were bought by collective bodies such as communes. Educational and political programs seem to take up much of the daily three-hour viewing time.

After 3 Days, He Punched Him

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)— Manuel Arias, 36, appeared in court Tuesday, charged with simple assault.

He had punched an unidentified neighbor in the nose. Arias testified that his neighbor and a friend had been playing the guitar and singing for three days. "I don't blame you," said Judge Lawrence Lang in finding Arias innocent. "I couldn't have put up with it that long, myself."

Toy-Like, Cheap Pistols Involved In Frequent Crimes

By HERBERT JOHNSON
The Greenville Piedmont Writer for The Associated Press
GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)— A tavern argument boils until it ends with the flat, toy-like crack of a little .22 caliber revolver.

Two police officers shake down a drunk at 3 a.m. on a street corner and one of them gingerly unloads a plastic-handled little pistol taken from the prisoner's pocket.

A detective focuses his identification camera on a trigger that has just tripped a fatal .22 caliber bullet in a bedroom domestic squabble.

In each case, death or its potential has been bought for less than $15 and three more almost identical pistols have been confiscated — added to a staggering collection.

More than half of the pistols confiscated by law enforcement officers in the Greenville area for the last several years have been foreign made weapons of .22 caliber, sold by mail order and across the counter in the $12 to $15 price range.

Most of them are made in Germany. They are no thing of beauty for collectors. For the most part, they are rather crudely milled steel with a black finish and fitted with ivory colored plastic butt plates. They fire .22 short cartridges, the cheapest firearm ammunition made.

Within the last two months Greenville city police have seized 21 pistols that figured in various crimes — or which merely were being carried in violation of the law. Thirteen of those pistols were almost identical — cheap little mail order revolvers made in Germany and sold new for less than $15.

From the first of January, 1960, until now — not quite 17 months — 40 persons have died of gunshot wounds in Greenville County. The records of Coroner George W. McCoy show that nine of them, almost one out of four, were slain by $12.95 foreign-made .22 caliber pistols imported for the most part from Germany.

Early this year, City Clerk and Treasurer B. F. Dillard disposed of approximately 300 pistols confiscated by Greenville police. More than half of them were almost exactly alike — the familiar foreign made little revolvers.

"If we had enough men and enough time," one police official said, "We could shake down enough honky-tonks in one night to start an arsenal with those things."

Greenville's two top lawmen, Police Chief P. P. Oakes and Sheriff J. R. Martin, are in strong agreement that the little guns have overnight become one of their worst problems.

"I am alarmed that there are so many of them in this county," Sheriff Martin said.

"They are cheap and easy to get," Chief Oakes sighed, "but they are just as deadly as a .38 or .45 maybe more so."

Both Martin and Oakes expressed opinions that South Carolina needs some tightening up of state laws relating to firearms. And they both believe firearms regulations should be uniform among the states.

By strict letter of the law in South Carolina, no pistol can be bought or sold. But the law is so obviously ridiculous in most opinion that it is not enforced.

There are further complications. In South Carolina, it is legal to have a pistol in an automobile if the weapon is shut up in the glove compartment. In North Carolina, it's illegal to have a pistol in the glove compartment, but perfectly legal to carry it openly on the car seat. That, however, is against the law in South Carolina.

No official knows how many $12.95 imported .22 caliber pistols there are in Greenville County. But no one doubts that there are thousands of them.

It is, of course, illegal to carry a pistol about one's person in this state unless one is a commissioned officer of the law.

But, as one police officer said, "How do you enforce it? How do you go about searching people just because there's a chance they might be carrying a pistol?"

The result is that charges of carrying a deadly weapon are brought as a rule only in cases where arrests were made in connection with some other offense — or only after carrying of the weapon got into the stable door category behind a missing horse.

Jacqueline Kennedy Is Big Star Attraction In France

By FRANCES LEWINE
PARIS (AP) — The French today welcomed Jacqueline Kennedy as one of their own after seeing and hearing America's French-speaking First Lady on television. Everything from what the Kennedys will eat to what they wear is interesting to the people of Paris.

Two New Stars Added To Hollywood's Golden Dozen

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Golden Dozen has lost two of its members, but two new stars have come up to keep it a glittering twelve.

Three years ago, this writer pointed out that there was a round dozen of film stars who virtually ruled the film industry by their ability to write their own tickets in deals. They were: Marlon Brando, William Holden, Gary Cooper, Burt Lancaster, Tony Curtis, Gregory Peck, Kirk Douglas, Frank Sinatra, Clark Gable, James Stewart, Cary Grant, John Wayne.

Today, Gable and Cooper are gone. Though their box-office draw was off from their prime years, both were drawing top money when they died. Gable was paid $750,000 for "The Misfits," plus $48,000 weekly overtime for three weeks. Cooper did "The Naked Edge" for $275,000 plus half the profits.

Neither Gable nor Cooper will ever be replaced. But the tides of film fortunes have provided two new members to again make it the Golden Dozen.

They are: Jack Lemmon, Rock Hudson.

Hudson would have made it to the top ranks sooner, except for his restricting contract with Universal; now he is more able to cash in on his vast popularity. Lemmon, long Hollywood's most underrated actor, established himself with "Some Like It Hot" and "The Apartment."

The industry situation has not changed with regard to the Golden Dozen. I pointed out in 1958 that the 12 men were the real stars, film companies have to make concessions that would have been unheard of in the era when the Cohsens, Mayers and Zanucks were absolute monarchs. Nearly all of the actors have their own companies with which their studios must deal, usually as partner. And often a silent partner, at that.

We have seen Universal and Paramount stand by as Kirk Douglas and Marlon Brando spent millions making and remaking "Spartacus" and "One-Eyed Jacks."

The production picture is further complicated by the fact that many of the Golden Dozen choose to work less often. Most are millionaires and don't need the jobs. They prefer to do only those films that excite them.

No one begrudges the stars earning their worth, which is considerable. But many observers see the growing danger of relying on a tight group of stars, some of them mature men with declining draw. The need for new stars is greater than ever, but little is being done about it.

There is one hopeful development: the return of the female star. A few actresses have grown in importance to threaten the moneymaking abilities of the 12 males. They are led by Doris Day, Elizabeth Taylor, Debbie Reynolds, Shirley MacLaine and Marilyn Monroe. More power to you, girls.

On the eve of their arrival, a half-hour filmed program on the government-operated television network Tuesday night showed the Kennedys at the White House.

In a 15-minute interview, entirely in French, Mrs. Kennedy showed the French she speaks their language with charm and fluency. She spent a year as a student at the Sorbonne in Paris and last visited here in 1959.

The TV show, made a few weeks ago in Washington, showed Mrs. Kennedy in a relaxed setting on the White House south lawn and the President in his office.

Mrs. Kennedy not only took the French on a picture tour of the White House but pointed out that many things there were bought in France or came as gifts from their country.

For France's first lady, Mrs. Charles de Gaulle, Mrs. Kennedy selected a watercolor of a French street scene by the American artist Maurice Prendergast, who studied and painted in Paris. Prendergast is one of Mrs. Kennedy's favorite artists.

The Kennedys will occupy the royal apartments in the Quai d'Orsay which were used by King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola of Belgium during their state visit here last week.

Mrs. Kennedy brought an all-American wardrobe, most of it by her official designer, Oleg Cassini of New York.

Children To Eat 500-Pound Cake

BOSTON (AP)—President Kennedy's birthday cake, all 500 pounds of it, will be eaten today. The huge cake, which went untouched at Monday night's $100-a-plate dinner, was moved intact to Nazareth Child Care Center after the big affair in Commonwealth Armory.

All day Tuesday the tempting mountain was on display at the center. The Catholic nuns in charge of the children said many of the children were away for Memorial Day and "we'll have an ice cream and cake party for everybody tomorrow."

Cincinnati Moves Toward National League Pinnacle

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer It was a long climb back to the top, but the Cincinnati Reds finally made it, rocketing out of the cellar by winning 20 of their last 26 games for a share of the National League lead in what amounts to a three-way jam with San Francisco and Los Angeles.

scoring after third baseman Jim Davenport of the Giants dropped a pop up with two out in the ninth—that handed it to the Reds. The Giants just missed with four runs in the ninth, three on homers by Charlie Hiller, Noble Landrith and pinch-hitter Willie Mays, who had been rested by Manager Al Dark. Rookie Jim Maloney (2-2) was the winner, and hit one of the Reds' three home runs. Sam Jones (4-4) lost his third in a row as a starter.

ing Stan Musial to line out. It was the third straight success for the Dodgers. Ron Santo's two-run double won the opener for the Cubs, and right-hander Don Cardwell (4-2) then blanked the champs on seven hits in the nightcap as the champs lost their fifth in a row. The Cubs, after losing seven straight, beat southpaw Wilmer Mizell (4-2) and right-hander Bob Friend (5-6), collecting 25 hits in the two games and hitting two homers in each. Dick Ellsworth (2-3) was the first-game winner. Mizell had beaten the Cubs 14 times in 15 decisions going back to 1958. Friend now has lost six in a row as a starter, giving up 10 hits and six runs in four innings in this one.

The Dodgers, who have played four more games than the Reds and Giants, winning two and losing two, crept under the blanket that covers the leaders by beating the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 in a night game.

The Reds then made it five straight with a sweep of the three-game set by scoring four runs in the third against Juan Marchal (2-2) in the second game. Bob Purkey, making his first relief appearance of the season, saved it for lefty Jim O'Toole (5-4) in the ninth. The Giants now have lost three in a row and six straight at home.

Consecutive doubles by Jim Gilliam and Willie Davis and an error by Card catcher Hal Smith brought the Dodgers from behind with two runs in the seventh. Right-hander Stan Williams (4-3) and reliever Larry Sherry held the Cards to three hits, one a homer by Curt Flood. The Cards had two on with one out in the ninth when Sherry saved it by striking out Ken Boyer and get-Pittsburgh's defending champs stayed in fourth place, 3½ games behind, after dropping a pair to the Chicago Cubs 5-3 and 10-0. And fifth place Milwaukee remained at 500, 4½ games behind, after splitting a doubleheader at Philadelphia. The Braves won the opener 3-1, but the last place Phils bounced back for an 11-4 romp in the nightcap.

In the American League, Detroit's lead was shaved to 2½ games when the Tigers split with Kansas City, winning 5-3 before the A's made off with a 9-3 decision. Second place Cleveland beat Minnesota twice, 4-3 and 7-5; Baltimore moved into third by defeating the Chicago White Sox 6-0 and 2-1; New York defeated Boston 12-3, and Washington belted the Los Angeles Angels 5-1.

The Reds and Giants slugged seven home runs in the opener, but it was an unearned run—

Texan A.J. Foyt Takes Victory Indianapolis 500 Race Classic

By DALE BURGESS Associated Press Sports Writer INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Texan A. J. Foyt, who sits mightily tall in a race car seat, won't know until tonight's victory dinner how much he won Tuesday by capturing the golden anniversary 500-mile auto race in a record 139.131 miles an hour.

What he does know is that the $100,000 or so almost slipped through his fingers in a ferocious, contested race that knocked out 21 of the 33 starting cars. And it wasn't until Tuesday night that he learned he had set a record instead of an almost. This because of a breakdown in the timing.

It was a three-car race in the last stages among Foyt, 26, Houston, Tex.; Eddie Sachs, Center Valley, Pa., and 1959 winner Roger Ward. It finally was decided in the pits.

Foyt made his third and supposedly last pit stop for tires and fuel, but the connection on the pressure fueling system wouldn't work. His crew borrowed a refueling rig from Len Sutton's pit and called Foyt back in for an extra stop.

Meanwhile, Sachs was flying and looked like a sure winner after failing to finish in four previous starts. Then his right rear tire wore ragged and he had to stop for a new one with only three laps—7½ miles—to go.

Foyt passed Sachs as the Pennsylvania was gunning his car out of the pits. The handsome Texan beat Eddie to the finish line by 8½ seconds. With four pit stops apiece, Sachs spent 82½ths seconds longer off the track.

Foyt drove the Indianapolis Bobs Special, Sachs the Long Beach, Calif., Dean Special. Ward, having handling trouble combined four-hitter by Skinny Brown and Hoyt Wilhelm.

It was the third shutout for Barber, 22, tops in the majors at the moment, and gave him a 7-3 record, tying Detroit's Frank Lary (7-2) for the most victories in the majors this season. Brown, 36, and Wilhelm, 37, have won five each with Wilhelm nailing his eighth save.

These three pitchers have been in on all but seven of the Birds' 25 victories this season and have been responsible for 10 of Baltimore's last 12 in a surge from sixth place.

GOING UP!

George Davies, a 6-foot-3, 190-pound sophomore at Oklahoma State, is the new pole vault king.

On his third attempt to create a new world record in the Big Eight championships at Boulder, Colo., Davies cleared the bar at 15 feet, 10½ inches to top the old mark of 15-9½ set by Olympic Champion Don Bragg in the final Olympic trials at Palo Alto, Calif., last summer.

Before Davies could go on with his bid to become the first 16-foot pole vaulter, the officials took over to check, survey and measure to make certain that everything would be in order for world record approval. When they got around to raising the bar to 16 feet it was discovered the standards had been brought in from the field house to place under the standards and when they finally set the stage for an attempt at 16-1½, almost an hour had passed.

And there will be another day for the 20-year-old Davies. A day when conditions will be right and he will clear the long-awaited 16-foot mark. Even as a schoolboy in Phoenix, Ariz., Davies vaulted 13 feet, 10½ inches for a national school record. His improvement under Coach Ralph Higgins has been steady. Last February, in a dual meet with Nebraska, George cleared 15 feet for the first time. He has time in his favor for few great pole vaulters reach their peak before the mid-twenties. Bragg didn't come into his own until he had completed his varsity career at Villanova. With the world record already in his possession, Davies should have the confidence to clear the 16-foot barrier.

On his third attempt to create a new world record in the Big Eight championships at Boulder, Colo., Davies cleared the bar at 15 feet, 10½ inches to top the old mark of 15-9½ set by Olympic Champion Don Bragg in the final Olympic trials at Palo Alto, Calif., last summer.

Before Davies could go on with his bid to become the first 16-foot pole vaulter, the officials took over to check, survey and measure to make certain that everything would be in order for world record approval. When they got around to raising the bar to 16 feet it was discovered the standards had been brought in from the field house to place under the standards and when they finally set the stage for an attempt at 16-1½, almost an hour had passed.

And there will be another day for the 20-year-old Davies. A day when conditions will be right and he will clear the long-awaited 16-foot mark. Even as a schoolboy in Phoenix, Ariz., Davies vaulted 13 feet, 10½ inches for a national school record. His improvement under Coach Ralph Higgins has been steady. Last February, in a dual meet with Nebraska, George cleared 15 feet for the first time. He has time in his favor for few great pole vaulters reach their peak before the mid-twenties. Bragg didn't come into his own until he had completed his varsity career at Villanova. With the world record already in his possession, Davies should have the confidence to clear the 16-foot barrier.

George Davies, a 6-foot-3, 190-pound sophomore at Oklahoma State, is the new pole vault king.

Baltimore Moves Behind Strength Of Three Hurlers

combined four-hitter by Skinny Brown and Hoyt Wilhelm.

It was the third shutout for Barber, 22, tops in the majors at the moment, and gave him a 7-3 record, tying Detroit's Frank Lary (7-2) for the most victories in the majors this season.

These three pitchers have been in on all but seven of the Birds' 25 victories this season and have been responsible for 10 of Baltimore's last 12 in a surge from sixth place.

A pinch single by Don Dillard broke a tie and won the first game for the Indians against Camilo Pascual (4-5). Wynn Hawkins and winning reliever Frank Funk (6-3) stopped Lennie Green's hitting streak at 24 games—longest in the majors in two years.

In the National League, Cincinnati tied San Francisco for first by taking two from the Giants, 7-6 and 6-4. The Los Angeles Dodgers made it a virtual three-way jam by beating St. Louis 5-3, Chicago's Cubs won two at Pittsburgh, 5-3 and 10-0, and Milwaukee split at Philadelphia. The Braves won 3-1, then lost 11-4.

Barber walked six and struck out three while blanking the White Sox on three singles for his fifth success in the last six decisions. The Orioles, who have blanked the Red Sox on three hits over the last six innings, with Stafford (4-2), the winner, retiring all 12 men he faced. Gene Conley (2-4) was the loser, giving up four homers, the fourth by Yogi Berra.

Price had been asked if he was afraid something might jinx his "bum" as he calls his lean 3-year-old colt. It was recalled that Tim Tam, the last previous horse with a chance to take the triple crown, broke down in the stretch in 1958 and finished second to Cavan.

Old Civil War Shell Was Potent

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—John Noe had used an old Civil War shell for a doorstop for 25 to 30 years. After reading about the finding of a similar shell still considered dangerous, Noe turned the shell over to police Monday. It had a pound of gunpowder in it. He says there is a second shell stored on his farm in the mountains and he plans to go there soon and get rid of it.

It meant something.
Sal was out from under the longboat a bit before dawn. He walked back and forth, trying to get warm. The wind was northwest, as usual. Mayflower was on the starboard tack, bowing along, every inch spread, the sails standing out dark gray and fat in the moonlight. For there was yet a moon—a wan, crescent in midsky, some seven hours high, its horns pointing due west.

Sal had never felt more wide awake. Walking with measured stride, as though he was a marcher in some solemn ceremonial procession, he went up to the poop deck, a tiny triangular place.
He was often up and about like this before first light, but ordinarily he used the occasion to take a walk in the waist, that being the only time a man could stretch his legs. This morning it was different. He didn't feel like walking. He felt like thinking about Priscilla.

The sky was dark, and the lemon-colored stars twitched out one by one, leaving only that silver of moon. The horizon was a smudge, very close. Below Sal Boyd the Mayflower's apple-cheeked bow rose and fell sighingly, suckingly, and with a sad hiss. There was a step behind him. He wheeled around.

"Is that you, Mistress Mullins?"
"Yes. Couldn't you sleep?"
"You must have no sins on your conscience, then?"
"I've got a few. But—what about you? Or did you want to be one of the first to see it?"
"See what?"
"Well, there's a chance—"
"You mean we've sighted land?"
"Not yet. But we're going to. Mighty soon."
"How do you know?"

Sal sighed, for he was weary of being deferred to as a seaman. "I can feel it in my bones," he said at last. "And—look at that moon up there. You see which way the horns are pointing, don't you?"

"Land ho! Land ho!"
They had reached America.

It was at first no more than a fuzziness, a thickening of the horizon, unreal, a thing that might disappear in a blink; and indeed there were many, Priscilla Mullins among them, who vowed that they could not see it at all and doubted that it was there—there, that is, for eyes strained from horizon-staring.

Salathiel Boyd never questioned it, nor did the mariners, the moon having pointed that way. Soon, when canvas had been raised for furling on the spars, and Mayflower had been put about so that the sea no longer spanked her bows, the ear confirmed the report of the eye.

Through air that was reluctantly lightening, a land breeze brought the bumble of surf in a rich sound, musical and beautiful to the man on shore, horrible to a man who is at sea.

They had been driving right toward those breakers, now disclosed. "It was the will of God that stopped us," Master Carver murmured.

That first shout had been a tocsin to turn them out of their blankets and tumble them upon the deck like dice tossed from a dice box. Almost before they fully realized what had happened Priscilla and Sal were inundated by would-be settlers, who climbed even to the prow deck, a place by day denied them.

They always had been a talking lot, not glum; but now they fairly chattered like magpies, and their eyes shone with eagerness; their mouths worked. Poor dried-up little pale men! Poor scrawny, homely, overworked women!

After sixty-five days of torture they would have cheered the appearance of anything solid, had it been but a pestilential swamp. Their hands trembled, and their nostrils, of course, they prayed, pouring forth their thanks; but just at first, for a little while, they only gazed, their hearts throbbing.

This was not permitted for very long. Christopher Jones, like a good master, was topside among the first; and from the poop, high above them, he shouted orders for all passengers to go below. This was to give his men a chance to take in canvas, a complicated process that might have been all but impossible while strangers and saints swarmed ant-like across the deck.

'Drunkometer' Well Supported

RALEIGH — Supporters of the proposed "drunkometer" bill are still a little dazed with its support in the Senate.

The controversial measure which would mean that a driver suspected of being intoxicated must submit to chemical or mechanical tests to establish the alcoholic content of his system or have his license suspended is making unexpected progress through the Senate.

Only sixteen Senators have voted against the measure so far, and some of these say that if they are successful in having amendments made, they will support the bill.

Leading the fight in the Senate against the measure is Dr. Dennis Cook, Caldwell dentist. Sen Cook objects, he says, to the mechanical features of the bill.

"A machine would not be fool-proof, and furthermore it would require training for a person to be a competent operator," he told Senate colleagues.

Dr. Cook also objected on the grounds of the "capacity of different individuals to absorb alcohol in the blood."

Sen. Jennings King of Scotland, who voted against the bill, explained that if it is amended so that a person who fails to undergo chemical tests cannot have his license suspended, he will support the measure.

Sen. Tom White of Lenoir, who voted against the bill, was able to have the bill amended so that the attorney of an accused motorist may see a record of the machine's "verdict."

Cures Of One Type Cancer Reported Caused By Drug

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Surgeon General Luther Terry says "We have experience with a drug which has almost certainly cured cancer in man."

He stressed, in an interview Tuesday night over radio station WWDC, that the drug cures only a type of cancer which affects pregnant women.

"This is a very exciting thing."

S. Africa Today A New Republic

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP)—South Africa became a republic today with the nation mobilized against demonstrations by the nonwhite majority of its people.

Church bells at midnight and cannon at daybreak heralded the birth of Africa's 22nd independent nation—and the only one still wholly ruled by whites.

Jubilant white throngs—mostly Afrikaners who long wanted a republic free of the 51-year rule under the British crown—braved rain for night-long revelry in this administrative capital.

As the republic was born the government claimed a "total collapse" of the three-day strike.

Police moved into the African townships with armored cars but claimed they were not responsible for the shootings.

Johannesburg's streets were nearly deserted. Hundreds in the nation's biggest city had stayed home earlier in the week, but today was a holiday for most people anyway.

Some Chinese merchants have kept their shops padlocked in silent protest against white supremacy rule.

Plan Wildlife Public Hearing

The Wildlife Resources Commission will hold a public hearing Thursday night to give sportsmen an opportunity to express their opinions regarding the 1961-1962 hunting and trapping regulations, according to J. O. Teel, Pitt County Wildlife Protector.

The meeting will be held in New Bern at the Craven County Court House at 7:30, he reported.

Up for consideration this year, Teel said, is a proposal that squirrel season be opened statewide October 16 and close January 1.

In addition, essentially the same season on bear, with few minor local exceptions, has been proposed, and the same dates would generally apply to deer, October 16-January 1.

"Request for consideration of an open season on antlerless deer in certain localities should be made to the Commission by August 11," Teel stated "so that public hearings on the subject can be held during the week of September 4."

Rabbit, quail and wild turkey seasons would, in most counties, run from November 23 to February 15, Teel continued.

Protector Teel concluded by explaining that, in general, the hunting and trapping regulations regarding the taking of game and fur-bearing animals would be about the same as for last season.

A spokesman for the National Institutes of Health, a division of the U.S. Public Health Service, said about half of the 60 women cancer patients treated with the chemical over a period of years had survived.

C.; seven grandchildren; 10 great grandchildren; a brother, L. P. Spurrier of Philadelphia, Pa.; and two sisters: Mrs. Harry Johnston of Wagram and Mrs. J. H. McClure of Charlotte.

Safety Check Lane Has Operated In Farmville

FARMVILLE — Safety Check Lane workers reported 480 vehicles were checked at the Pitt County Safety Council-sponsored Vehicle Safety Check station, operated on South Main Street last Thursday.

Safety Council officials, who worked closely with the Farmville Police Department, the State Highway Patrol, local auto dealers and the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company, said 43 vehicles checked were rejected, with 18 of them returning to be re-checked and received a safety-check sticker.

Patrolman D. L. Minshew, who assisted at the lane, reported that included in the 43 vehicles rejected were five faulty horns, 23 faulty lights, 30 defective turn signals, two improper exhausts and three inoperative windshield wipers.

Lane officials reported that the A. C. Monk Tobacco Company had all their trucks, cars, and all employees cars safety checked, as did the Garner Gas Company and

Urges Application For Connection

AYDEN—Residents here not already making use of the sanitary facilities provided by the town have been encouraged to make application for connection to the facilities, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said yesterday.

The Town Board set a deadline of July 15 for connection to the sanitary facilities. The deadline was set after the sewer facilities of Ayden were completed and tentatively accepted by town officials.

On the July 15 date, the ordinance requiring that connection be made will be enforced, Paylor noted. Applications to date have been a little slow.

Moving of utility poles is preparatory to widening of the street. In other street projects, the town is in the process of extending E. College Street into the new Sunrise Park subdivision. The town will extend the water main and sewer line down College Street in the same block, into the new subdivision.

Red Star, published by the Soviet Defense Ministry, said members of a collective farm near the landing place decided to plant trees there and build an asphalt path to the pillar. It said a Young Pioneer camp would be organized nearby.

Soviet authorities disclosed Gagarin's takeoff and landing points in a message for the records of the International Aeronautical Federation in Paris.

They said Gagarin took off at a so-called cosmodrome at Baikonur, in Western Siberia near Lake Aral.

Gagarin was boosted aloft, the message said, by a rocket with six engines developing a total of 20 million horsepower.
