Spirit Of Cordiality Marks Opening Of Vienna Talks

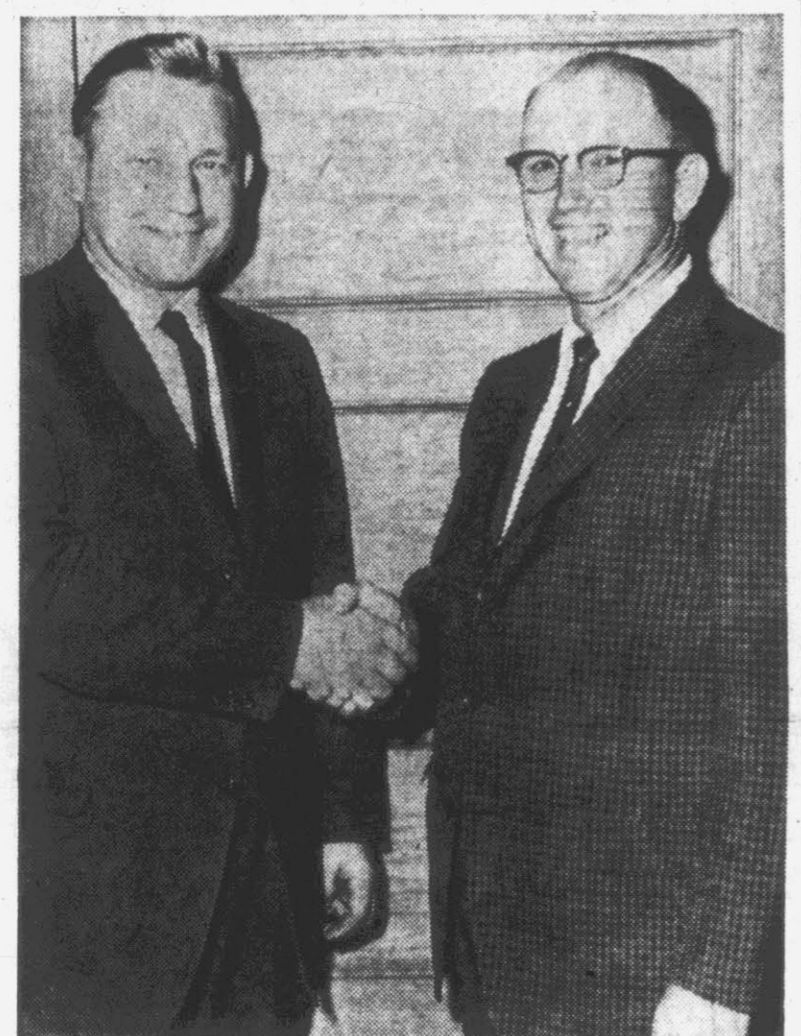

VIENNA (AP)—The Kennedy-Khrushchev summit meeting began today in a spirit of cordiality defying a rainy Vienna day. Soviet Premier Khrushchev went to the U.S. embassy residence for the first day's talks. They began with a 75-minute lunch where toasts were exchanged in friendly terms.

der to promote better international understanding. Aides expected the President to warn Khrushchev against the new dangers revolving around any war crisis over Berlin, and to urge Soviet concessions in the field of disarmament. Talks between the two leaders began two hours after Kennedy arrived. Khrushchev called at the U.S. embassy residence at 12:45 p.m. Kennedy met him on the steps. They shook hands, posing for photographers.

run throughout the afternoon. Khrushchev will be host at the Soviet Embassy residence Sunday. U.S. officials said the talks would range over all cold war issues, with special attention to West Berlin, the nuclear test ban talks at Geneva, disarmament and Laos. Kennedy has made no secret of his intention to make as clear as possible to Khrushchev that one of the great dangers of war lies in miscalculation. By that Kennedy means Khrushchev might touch off a nuclear conflict by underestimating the determination of the West to protect its rights in disputed positions — notably West Berlin.

any operation the Soviets did not like. One of Kennedy's prime aims is to get across to Khrushchev that if he wants any nuclear test ban or disarmament he must drop the "troika" formula and agree to inspection provisions which would minimize the dangers of cheating. After Kennedy met Khrushchev on the steps the two men went directly into a small parlor called the music room. They sat down in chairs placed side by side. Their advisors circled out on either hand. These included Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. The two leaders chatted in a friendly, relaxed way while photographers took photographs for about two minutes. The youthful U.S. President and French President Charles de Gaulle in Paris agreed that the Western allies must stand firm in their commitment to defend West Berlin against any Soviet attempt to take over. Kennedy was expected to warn Khrushchev against the dangers of war should the Soviet chief force a new Berlin crisis — as he has indicated he will do late this year. Before leaving Paris Kennedy openly said his meetings with De Gaulle enabled him to confront Khrushchev "with more confidence." The millionaire's son and the former coal miner were to get together by luncheon for their first meeting. Kennedy's plane landed at 9:50 a.m. The President called the big two conference a "most important meeting in an effort to improve the prospects for more general understanding and peace."

Pitt Hires New Health Director

Pitt County Friday hired a new director for the county public health department. Dr. John M. Futrell, 37-year-old Guilford County native, signed an agreement with the county to begin his position here July 1. The county will pay Futrell a salary of $13,000 annually. The agreement says pay increases "will be subject to performance and clearance with the Merit System Council." Futrell, nephew of K.T. Futrell of Pitt County and former superintendent of the county department of public welfare, was recommended by state health officials and was hired after interviews with members of the county Board of Health and the Board of County Commissioners. The new director succeeds Dr. Georgia V. Mills whose services as head of the public health department were terminated April 1. Since Dr. Mills left the department Chairman of the Commissioners Robert G. Little and other members of the Commissioners and the Board of Health had been contacting and interviewing prospective directors.

Days In Bed, His Nights In Iron Lung; Graduates

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Billy Browne spends his days in bed and his nights in an iron lung, but he didn't let that stop him from graduating into high school Friday. Billy, who is 14, graduated from a school he had never attended. His classmates joined him for a party sponsored by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Book Is Returned 129 Years Late

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—A book was returned to the public library Friday—129 years overdue. John M. Bullard reported he found it in the library of Mrs. Bullard's great grandfather, Henry H. Crapo. Crapo was town clerk here then. He later moved to Michigan and was governor there. The book was volume one of John Winthrop's "History of New England from 1630 to 1649." City Librarian James E. Henley computed the overdue penalty at $750, but cancelled it. "It's a dreadfully dull book," he said.

Prisoner Deal Reply Is Awaited

DETROIT (AP)—Fidel Castro, who has been silent on his two-week-old offer to exchange 1,200 prisoners now in Cuban jails for 500 Americans, has been given until Wednesday to make a reply to an American group willing to provide the tractors. Tractors for Freedom, a group dedicated to securing the release of prisoners taken in the recent abortive Cuban invasion, cabled the Cuban premier Friday night inviting action on his May 17 offer and saying it was ready to cooperate. The group expressed trust that Castro would accept its offer to furnish the tractors. At the same time it said the free world would interpret a "failure to respond affirmatively" as a retraction by Castro of his own offer. Signing the cable were Eleanor Roosevelt, honorary chairman of the committee; Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University; President Walter P. Reuther of the United Auto Workers, and Detroit banker Joseph M. Dodge, committee treasurer. The committee told Castro it could not proceed further now without his confirmation. The total would include 450 general-purpose farm tractors with discs, plows and harrows and 50 heavy-duty farm tractors with tank-type tracks and weighing from 4 1/2 to 9 tons. The committee said it understood that for every 100 tractors delivered Castro would release 100 prisoners. The group did not say what its next step would be if Castro fails to meet what apparently is its deadline. Castro was asked to provide a list of the names of the prisoners he is prepared to release.

Suicide Verdict In Man's Death

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey ruled "suicide" in the shotgun death of a Route 1, Robersonville, man found dead in the yard of his home about 11 a.m. yesterday. James E. Little, 44, was found with a shotgun wound in his chest, lying in the yard beside the house, by his wife when she returned home. A 16 gauge shotgun, the death weapon, was found near the body. According to investigators, the suicide occurred sometime between 9:30 and 11 a.m. They explained that Mrs. Little had left the home about 9:30 to attend to several errands. She returned to find her husband dead. Officers said Little had reportedly been depressed for the past few days, but gave no reason for his action, aside from that. The Little home is about 4 miles west of Stokes, Coroner Harvey said.

Receipts Match Tax Estimates

RALEIGH (AP)—Revenue Commissioner William Johnson has reported that the latest tax receipt figures indicate collections are keeping pace with estimates as the fiscal year nears its end. However, Johnson said he was "a little bit disturbed" about a slight dip in sales and use tax collections last month as compared to May, 1960. Johnson listed collections for May and for the first 11 months of this fiscal year Friday in his monthly revenue report to Gov. Sanford. Johnson, noting that sales tax receipts were down 3.43 per cent last month from May, 1960, said they "haven't suffered quite as much relatively as in some other county."

Padgett of Gastonia. Charged with attempt to evade part of income tax are Arthur E. Black and Gladys B. Black of Thomasville, Ben W. Land of Roanoke Rapids, and Dr. John R. Wheelock of Reidsville. Carl E. Gaddy Jr., of Raleigh is charged with failure to file income tax returns.

Marines And Navy Alerted For Possible Dominican Crisis

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Combat-equipped Marines began loading aboard the amphibious assault ship Boxer here today as the Navy appeared to be stepping up its precautionary moves as a result of the crisis in the Dominican Republic. The Marines began loading aboard the converted aircraft carrier at 9 a.m. and their equipment was scheduled to go aboard later, indicating the ship might leave early next week. At the same time, the LST Wood County pulled into Morehead City, N.C., where more Marines and equipment were loaded. Trains, described as being loaded with mechanized equipment, moved into the North Carolina port from Camp Lejeune. Other LSTS and attack cargo ships were reported in the area also waiting to be loaded. State Department press officer Lincoln White said use of U.S. forces in the Caribbean country was not planned now. But he did not rule out the possibility of such action later if American lives were endangered. According to latest reports reaching officials in Washington, the 3,200 Americans in the island were still unharmed. These military movements during the night made obvious that there was a considerable alert of Navy and Marine forces on the East Coast and in the Caribbean Sea. The aircraft carrier Shangri-La put out to sea at Jacksonville, Fla., under a "general alert" condition. Its decks were jammed with jet fighters. A Navy spokesman said it was ordered to sea "to be ready in the event of an emergency." At Camp Lejeune, N.C., a Marine spokesman said units of the 2nd Marine Division were undergoing "a test of our ability to move out rapidly." The Greensboro Daily News, quoting reliable sources, had reported that Marine units along the coast were being loaded aboard carriers to take position in the Caribbean off the Dominican Republic's coast. At Providence, R.I., television stations interrupted programs to notify the crews of the fleet of Caloosahatchee and Allagash to return to their ships at once. The Navy said later the crews were called back because the ships had received orders to get under way for "routine fueling operations." In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said there would be other ship movements, but he and other officials declined to discuss any specific military movements. Another Pentagon source pointed out that since last year the United States has kept a 2,000-man battalion landing team of the 2nd Marine Division afloat in the Caribbean, ready for immediate action. This source also noted that the U.S.S. Northampton, flagship of the U.S. 2nd Fleet, put out to sea from Norfolk, Va., Wednesday. He said the aircraft carrier Intrepid sailed Thursday from Norfolk. In Washington, available State Department officials said they knew of no department request to the military to alert forces for use in the Dominican Republic. However, it appeared obvious that contingency plans were ready for evacuation of Americans should their lives become endangered. Meanwhile, reports reaching Washington indicated a purge may be under way on the island in the wake of Tuesday night's assassination of dictator Rafael L. Trujillo. These reports also indicated that some anti-Trujillo elements may be in control of areas outside Ciudad Trujillo, the Dominican capital. U.S. policy makers were concerned lest Trujillo's successor mold a ruthless regime which is anti-American — and pro-Moscow, with or without help from Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. The United States asked the Organization of American States Friday to send a watchdog committee to the Caribbean country quickly in an effort to stem extreme repressive measures there. After a hurriedly called emergency meeting, the chairman of the Sanctions Committee, Panamanian Ambassador Augusto Guillermo Arango, said the committee had discussed the Dominican situation and planned to meet again early next week. Reports arriving in Washington through channels other than news dispatches, while still sketchy and not fully verified, paint a grim picture. It is generally one of a brutal drive by the ruling Trujillo group to knock out any suspected opponents in an attempt to reconsolidate power in the aftermath of Tuesday's assassination. The accounts tell of arrests, murders and tortures. One report states that the wife of Trujillo's alleged assassin, former Brig. Gen. Juan Tomas Diaz, has been killed and his son put to torture. Gen. Tomas Diaz, described as pro-American in his youth, has not yet been captured by the Trujillo group. While Ciudad Trujillo was outwardly quiet, troops have been seen leaving the capital for undisclosed destinations. This had led to speculation that anti-Trujillo forces could be holding forth at some places in the country, per-

Judge's Decrees Pondered By Police, Freedom Riders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Police and leaders of "freedom ride" groups today pondered a federal judge's stern series of warnings aimed at stopping the most recent racial challenge in Alabama and the violence that came with it. U.S. District Court Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr., issued a series of sweeping decrees which: —Ordered the riders to stop their racial challenge in Alabama until further notice. —Put Montgomery police and a former reserve policeman under no-bus-violence injunctions, with indefinite jail terms as the penalty for violation. —Left in effect, pending further court action, a restraining order which prohibits the Ku Klux Klan and three individuals from further violence against the riders or other interstate bus passengers. Meanwhile, another group of integrationists tried a new tactic on state racial laws at Jackson, Miss. They were peaceful—but unsuccessful. Thirteen riders arrived at Jackson Friday on two Trailways buses. While Negroes in the groups went into the white waiting room, the whites went into the Negro waiting room. All 13 were arrested for breaching the peace. They brought to 65 the number arrested at Jackson since the rides began last week. Immediately after issuing his ruling Johnson said: "I want to make it abundantly clear that this injunction and restraining order will be enforced. If there are any such incidents as this (mob violence) again, I am going to put some Klansmen, some city officials, some city policemen and some Negro preachers in the federal penitentiary." "Those who sponsor, finance and encourage groups to come into this area with the knowledge that such publicized trips will foment violence," the judge said, "are just as effective in causing an obstruction" to interstate travel as the mobs themselves. One of Johnson's orders was a restraint against the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and three other "freedom ride" organizations as well as five Negro leaders and "all persons acting in concert with them." In New York, a spokesman for CORE said it will appeal the order to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. And a Justice Department

Cobb Hints At Own Candidacy

RALEIGH (AP)—State Republican Chairman William Cobb Morgan has hinted he plans to step down in February and run for Congress in 1962. Cobb, reached at Washington where he is attending a GOP fund-raising dinner, told the News and Observer of Raleigh Friday night it is a "definite possibility" he will try for Congress. The decision was based on a new congressional redistricting measure now being considered by the General Assembly. It would place Burke, Cobb's home county in a district with Democratic Rep. Basil Whitener. The bill, already passed by the Senate, would trim one man from the state's delegation by placing Congressman A. Paul Kitchin and Charles R. Jonas in the same district. Jonas is the state's only GOP congressman. Cobb's two-year term as State Republican chairman runs until next February.

Officers said the Matthews car was headed East on Dickinson Ave., and struck a vehicle driven by Mrs. Joyce Harmon of Route 2, Greenville, headed West, which allegedly made a left turn into the path of the Matthews vehicle. Damage to the Harmon auto was estimated to be about $300 while an estimated $100 damage was caused to the Matthews car. Only minor damage resulted to the front of the store. Both drivers were charged by police. Mrs. Harmon for making an improper left turn, and Matthews for having improper equipment (brakes) on his car. No one was injured.

Use One Stocking To Wash Another

What better time than a spring dance to make a grand appearance in festive gold glitter hosiery? Since your supply of this luxury is probably limited, it should be protected by special washing care.
One good way is to encase such soiled hose in an old nylon stocking which serves as a protective "bag" during laundering. Thus, you can suds and rinse your glitter stockings safely—without danger of snagging or running their golden glamour.
Bull-in, non-skid plastic soles are a wonderful convenience on children's sleepers. And they're as easy to launder as the garment itself—in a washer full of soap or detergent suds.

HOME DECORATING TODAY

By MRS. R. W. DAVENPORT
A COLOR SCHEME . . . FROM A PAINTING
A favorite painting is an excellent source for your new decorating scheme, if you like the painting, you like the colors and the mood they suggest. The artist has already selected your color scheme. Let the color used most in the painting be your background color—the walls and the floor. The color next important in the painting might be the color for your sofa or a pair of chairs. The bright accent color of the painting should be your accent color—accessories, pillows, ash trays, lamp shade trim or perhaps the color of the flowers or fruit or vegetables you will use to decorate your room.
That painting was done by an artist who is an expert with the color wheel. You can't possibly go wrong.
Study the pictures or paintings you have, choose one you love best of all and begin your room. You will be delighted with the results.
Have I made it so easy you won't need us at the Home Furniture to help you? If not, we are there, and willing and ready to help you in anyway.—(Adv.)

Postive Step In Ending Deadlock

Mayor Charles M. King is to be commended for his tie-breaking vote cast Thursday night along with the votes of Councilmen Aldridge and Brimley to authorize application for funds with which the local housing authority may carry out its study to determine whether or not there is a need for public housing in Greenville.

When the matter of the application for study funds first came to the Council two weeks ago, Mayor King declined to cast a vote, and the matter hung with a two-two tie vote. At that time he said he wanted more time to study the matter before voting on it. In the two-week period the Mayor decided to vote in favor of the action which paves the way for a study of housing needs by the housing authority. By his vote Thursday evening, Mayor King has taken a positive step toward implementing the will of the majority of the people as expressed in the referendum on the questions of public housing and urban renewal on May 2. While we commend Mayor King on this positive stand he has now taken on the matter of a study of the housing needs of the city, we at the same time question his decision to call for the resignation of the five members who make up the Housing Authority.

It is understandable that Mayor King objected to appointment of a Housing Authority by former Mayor West, in the interim period between the referendum on the questions and the time King himself officially became mayor. Even so, at the Council meeting at which the present members of the Housing Authority were appointed, Mayor King indicated his approval of the men appointed to the authority with the statement that if he had known who the people were he would have agreed to their appointment to the authority.

C. W. Howard, Jr., Dr. G. Earl Trevathan, Joseph Steelman, Dr. Andrew Best and James E. Sutton are, in our opinion, conscientious, dedicated citizens who will make a careful and objective study of the housing needs of the city and report their findings in an unbiased manner to the City Council. We feel the city is fortunate in having five men of their calibre who are willing to place themselves in a controversial position by accepting the difficult assignment as members of the local Housing Authority. Regardless of what their findings may eventually show, we are confident they will give every consideration to every divergent viewpoint among the citizenry in connection with their study and whatever report they would make to the Council will not reflect merely the viewpoint of any one group, segment or faction among the citizens of Greenville, but rather a thorough evaluation of the housing situation within the city.

At its initial meeting the present Housing Authority adopted a resolution in which it expressed the desire and intention to work with and for the city administration and the people-at-large of the city of Greenville. The same resolution contained the Authority's "unqualified pledge" that "our conclusions, recommendations and actions shall always be associated with the utmost logic and sincerity;" and "that the work of this agency shall never be influenced by such forces as coercion, malice or selfish purpose."

The fact that there has been a transition in the city's administration since these men were appointed to the Housing Authority does not compromise the pledge they have made to make an honest and conscientious study of the housing needs of the city.

We applaud Mayor King's decision to allow the Housing Authority to carry out its study of the housing needs of the city; but frankly we feel the present Housing Authority should remain in office and carry out its duties in keeping with the pledge it has made to the citizens of Greenville.

Big Rush After The Long Delay

By LYNN NISBET
REDISTRICTING — The first public hearing on the matter of congressional redistricting, known for several years to be a serious problem for this General Assembly, came on the 9th legislative day and more than three and a half months after the first bill on the subject was introduced.

The hearing conducted by the House committee under chairmanship of Rep. Ed Kemp of Guilford ostensibly was on SB 353, commonly known as the "Jonas-Kitchin Bill" because it puts Republican Congressman Jonas of the 10th district (Lincoln county) in a new 8th district with Democrat Paul Kitchin of the present 8th (Anson). It soon developed, however, that members of the committee as well as visiting citizens who had asked to be heard demanded opportunity to discuss the whole problem.

First of all there was expressed resentment of the undue haste with which SB 353 had been handled. It was introduced on Wednesday, May 24, given favorable report by the Senate committee on Thursday and passed second reading in the Senate on Friday and third reading Monday.

Rep. Pat Taylor of Anson led the in-committee fight on undue haste. It appeared for a few minutes that he and Chairman Kemp might seriously clash on the question of whether the chairman or the committee should prescribe rules and allot time for hearing citizens. That hazard was avoided when the chairman said another opportunity would be given for public hearing and Kemp and Taylor apologized to each other for what might have seemed, but not intended, rudeness. Nobody was mad. And nobody was very happy about the whole business.

SCOPE — It quickly developed that while many of the Eastern legislators are concerned chiefly with avoiding district lines that would put two Democrats on a new district, the Piedmont spokesmen are concerned with the total impact of redistricting upon the whole state. They contended for district lines that would recognize economic and social affinities rather than maintaining the supremacy of sparsely populated eastern areas.

Davidson county folk for example, emphasized that they have nothing in common with Nash, home of the congressman in whose district they would be placed by SB 353. Wilkes county spokesmen said they have little in common with Granville. Guilford folks conceded that none of the redistricting proposals affects them, since the 4-county — Durham, Orange, Alamance, Guilford — district is now disturbed. But they have seen Republican strength increase in their areas during recent years partly because of Democratic discrimination against them. Another factor was the coming in of many industrialists from the north and midwest who had the Republican complex.

MECKLENBURG — John Warren, chairman of the Mecklenburg Democratic committee, was the star performer at the hearing. He pleaded guilty to the charge he had heard that "Mecklenburg created this problem." Reference was to the fact that the majority given James Mecklenburg county assured his election.

He disagreed with Charlie Mauze of Davidson and Tom Hoyle of Guilford on one point. He said the "schizophrenic" vote in Mecklenburg did not come from people who had moved in. It resulted from action policies of the Democratic party among homefolks.

Let some others might not know what the big word means (Your reporter didn't till he looked it up) the dictionary definition of schizophrenia is: "A type of psychosis characterized by loss of contact with environment and by disintegration of personality."

WARNING — Without exception the Piedmonters warned that punitive action taken by the presently powerful eastern group against the more populous areas would react against them by getting more Republicans in the Congress rather than less. It has been further pointed out that the decline in state population which resulted in loss of a seat in the Congress occurred in the section that is now trying to penalize the progressive section for gaining population. There is nothing new or surprising in this situation. It is historically true that no group has ever voluntarily surrendered political power. The reason for that was pretty well summed up the other day when an experienced observer of politics quipped that "human nature was made before the constitution was written."

MORE HEARING — In face of the almost frantic rush for adjournment of the Legislature under administration pressure, the House committee has scheduled another hearing on the redistricting matter for next Tuesday morning, June 6, in the high-way building auditorium. There was suggestion that still other opportunities might be given for the citizens of the state to express their views. The argument that these hearings more properly should have been held in March than in June does not depreciate the right of citizens to be heard on matters affecting their welfare. On that point Chairman Ed Kemp and the House committee is showing more consideration for the rank and file of citizenship than did Chairman Robert Morgan and the Senate committee. Even if they don't get anything else, the people at least can feel they have had a day in court.

New Responsibilities For Our New Graduates

Record graduating classes from J. H. Rose High School and C. M. Eppes High School in Greenville this year evidences another milestone in the growth of the city's school system.

The 215 seniors who received their high school diplomas this week—132 from Rose High and 83 from Eppes—represented the largest graduating classes in the history of the two schools. And aside from numbers, the scholastic records achieved by the members of these two graduating classes reflects credit not only upon the students themselves, but also upon the faculties and staffs which are responsible for the operations of the local school system.

It is also a tribute, we think, to the students and teachers that some $22,000 in scholarships for future studies were awarded to members of the graduating classes.

Now that their 12 years of public school are behind them, these young graduates will face new problems, more important decisions and greater responsibilities than have ever before confronted them. The guidance and instruction they have had during their years in the public schools will in a large measure determine how they cope with the new situations they will face.

For many of the graduates there are still years of schooling ahead before they lay aside their formal education for other pursuits. For others in this year's graduating class commencement night marked the end of formal education, and they will now seek their place in this or some other community.

Whatever their future undertakings, we wish for them every success. In the hands of many of them, in all probability, the future of this city will come to rest a few years from now.

Just One More Time

The following parable has been printed and reprinted any number of times. You may have missed it before, so it's being passed on.

I've had a yellowed clipping in my desk drawer for maybe a month, and it reports (author unknown) that the source of the story is also unknown. It goes like this —

A young man lived with his parents in a public housing development near a big city. He attended the public schools and ate surplus foods each day under the public school lunch program. He entered the Army, and when he was discharged retained his National Service Life Insurance. He enrolled in the state land-grant university, working part-time at the state capital to supplement his G.I. education check.

Upon graduation he married a Public Health nurse and bought a home with an FHA loan, then obtained RFC financing to go into business.

A baby was born in the city hospital. One day the young man bought a small ranch with the aid of the Veterans' program, and obtained emergency feed from the government. Later he put part of his land in the soil bank and the payments helped pay for his ranch.

Later he installed his father and mother on the small ranch where they lived contentedly on their Social Security and Old Age Assistance checks. REA lines supplied electricity, the government helped clear some of the land, and the county agent showed the young man how to terrace it. Then the government came back to help him build a fish pond.

All through his life this man read books from the public library and his bank account was insured by an agency of the government. The child grew up, and entered public school, ate under the lunch program, rode the public school bus, swam in the municipal pool and joined the FFA.

The man owned an automobile which he drove on public highways. He signed a petition seeking federal assistance in developing an industrial project to help the economy of his area. He was a leader in a move to get a new federal building, and went to Washington to ask the government to build a great power dam so the area could get "cheap" electricity. And he also arranged to get special tax write-off benefits for his business.

This man finally became politically conscious, and one day he sat down and wrote a letter to his Congressman.

He said, "I wish to protest these excessive governmental expenditures and high taxes. I believe in rugged individualism. I think people should stand on their own feet without expecting handouts."

That's all.

Quote

"It is a questionable exercise of governmental authority, to say the least, to tell a private employer whom he can and cannot hire, whether the qualification involves union membership, color, religion or age. And when it comes to enforcement, who is to determine whether a man is rejected because of the church he attends, the country of his origin, the years he has attained, or because he is personally unsatisfactory for quite sufficient reasons." — The Wheeling Intelligencer.

Virtue Of The Dollar

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Congressman Abraham Multer has written to me about his bill to withdraw the present twenty-five per cent gold coverage of the dollar. Modestly he says: "I am prepared to concede that we may be wrong. I will not concede, however, that all of the people who approve the principle proposed by H.R. 6900, are anything but good Americans, who have the interest of their country at heart. This goes for the President's Task Force on the Economic Situation and Balance of Payments, headed by Allan Sproul, former president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York; the vast majority of the members of the Committee for Economic Development's Research and Policy Committee, headed by T. V. Houser, former chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; John J. McCloy, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank; Henry C. Alexander, chairman of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company; Roy L. Reierson, senior vice president and chief economist of the Bankers Trust Company; and many other respected businessmen."

The question is not whether these men are good Americans. It would be a task to define a good American and then to fine-comb careers and reputations to decide whether these gentlemen belong to the noble category of good Americans or whether they are motivated by self-interest or whether they are pursuing an economic dogma which accepts fiat money. Also men may have "the interest of their country at heart" and be utterly confused and damaging.

Therefore, I for one, must ignore the list of names which Congressman Multer presents as an ad hominem argument. However, the Congressman does raise a question in his letter which deserves serious consideration. He says:

"... your Federal Reserve note (most of our currency) is guaranteed not only by the surplus and assets of our Federal Reserve Banks (they are all owned by the United States Government) but, in addition, are backed by every dollar of assets of the United States Government. Those assets are many times more than enough to meet all the obligations of the Federal Reserve Banks. The twenty-five per cent gold reserve is not needed to make up any possible deficit."

This raises the question of what are the assets of the United States. Our budget does not include them. Our Treasury's annual reports do not include the assets. Our federal bookkeeping system is based on the simplest method of accountancy, namely income and outgo, much like a housewife handling a check-book. No business could survive such accounting methods.

The assets of the United States Government are enormous and could if properly audited and accounted for, provide ample coverage for the American dollar. This government owns, for example, an enormous quantity of real estate, some of it of great value. No accounts are kept of these assets. They are rather dealt with only on the basis of erection and maintenance expenditures. The United States Government owns more than half a hundred corporations, some of which could, by proper accounting, be established as profitable. They are either assets or liabilities. These corporations also own other properties, as for instance, TVA. They are carried on the books as decisions of Congress rather than as assets or liabilities.

If Congressman Multer means that the American dollar should be protected by the assets of the United States Government, then he has to arrange that our federal bookkeeping system be revised. That would be an extremely constructive measure. It might prove embarrassing to some officials who dislike auditing as the devil hates holy water, but it might even encourage the sale of some government assets, the funds to be used to reduce the national debt.

I fear that the legislator is emotional about the virtue of the dollar. He says:

Other Editors Saying Highway Blight

(The Wilson Times)

Secretary of Commerce, Luther H. Hodges, speaking at the dedication of the Hildebrand-Marion link of interstate highway 40, gave a big boost to billboard control on interstate highways.

The federal government has a bonus arrangement for states that comply with efforts to control billboards on the highways. The real bonus comes in preserving the beauty of the countryside. In fact the federal government should not have to pay a premium for the states to prevent loading the highways with signs.

North Carolina is now looking for money to build roads. It is one of the main topics of the legislature right now. The government is offering a bonus of an extra one half of one per cent of the total highway cost to the states cooperating with the billboard control plan.

The plan expires in June, but the President has asked for an extension, as well as an increase in the payment to one per cent of the cost, or doubling the bonus.

Billboards can be put up but they must comply with the regulations that require certain distances from the highway and regulate the size. As former Governor Hodges said in his address, "Billboards have a way of multiplying and when they do they can turn a perfectly beautiful stretch of road into a causeway of commercial blight."

The nation is trying to attract tourist trade. Sufficient signs will be allowed to give directions, to point out places of interest and to give information that tourists need as to where road accommodations are available and the like. But you have noticed, that if one sign is put up on a highway, others follow as thick as they can be placed.

Grouping seems to be the more effective way of billboard advertising.

The legislature voted down the federal bonus at the last session and this legislature does not appear inclined to pass enabling legislation.

Now Governor Hodges had a veiled cure that would not be desirable. We are for voluntary regulation. If this does not come "the federal government may adopt more direct means of control, or charge the billboard owners for the benefits they are receiving." Mr. Hodges said. This would be compulsory regulation, and as desirable as is highway protection and beautification we hope it is not forced upon us.

It is also hard to understand the attitude of the legislature. We know that the billboard boys are hard at work. But they are not being eliminated entirely from the highways. They are not to be allowed to abuse the highways. The right of ways would be protected and the signs put back a specified distance from the road.

Try to recall the turnpikes you have been on, or the parkways. You do not remember a labyrinth of highway signs. You do recall well kept parkways, green grass, trees, accommodations wisely spaced and beauty as you ride along.

All this North Carolina should want for the highways. And with the billboard control comes money for building the highways. As it is the federal government pays so much toward building federal roads, and the states so much. From the state amount comes the bonus.

As our Secretary of Commerce said, "We hope that all, or at least a majority of the states, including North Carolina, will take advantage of the federal law."

Hodges Says R&D 'Our Secret'

By ELMER ROESSNER
Research and development is the most important weapon in long-term efforts of American business to increase its share of foreign markets, according to Luther H. Hodges, the Kennedy Secretary of Commerce.

R&D, the business shorthand for the process of devising better techniques and products, is, he said, "our only hope — our only way to maintain our high standard of living" in the face of rising world competition.

The Secretary, a genial mixture of politician, businessman and North Carolina gentleman, is realistic in recognizing the difficulties of the United States in the world market at present. While he has been stressing the need for salesmanship to sell American products abroad, he told me in an interview that he knew that was not the complete answer, although it was an important part.

He conceded that the high level of American wages made it difficult to compete in many foreign markets. "We can't compete with the cheap, mass-produced items," he said. "But we can compete with our specialties, with quality and with different and more advanced products."

He was ready with examples. On his recent trip to Europe, he said, he was surprised to see American steel being used in a Mercedes Benz auto factory. "They told me they could buy German steel cheaper, but they could not get the very fine steel required for certain operations except in the United States," he said.

OTHER EXAMPLES

He said he discovered German companies using American machine tools. Manufacturers explained they could get better tools in Germany, but they could get the U. S. tools immediately on order. And he said, American coal was being sold in Germany at less than German coal could be dug there, because mechanized coal mining here was cheaper than German methods.

"We are in a tough, challenging situation," he said. "But I believe a great opportunity for selling exports lies ahead. To realize this opportunity, we must produce better goods, provide faster deliveries, and then sell our products."

He pointed out that he was asking Congress for an Assistant Secretary for Science and Technology, to increase and coordinate American industry's effort to speed R&D.

As a Cabinet member, Secretary Hodges said he realized the importance of stopping and reversing the flow of American gold reserves abroad. The first three steps, he said, were:

1. Sell more American goods abroad.
2. Increase foreign spending here by travelers.
3. Bring in more foreign capital by the encouragement of more investment in the United States.

To implement the first step, he pointed out, Congress has instituted a "mother hen" program, whereby leading corporations in manufacturing centers are being urged to encourage smaller manufacturers to develop the export market, and to help the small producers with paper work, suggestions and guidance.

"I shocked me to learn that of 300,000 manufacturers in the United States less than 4 per cent are engaged in exports," he said. "Of a gross national product of $503 billion last year, only $19.5 billion was exported."

POSSIBLY SIGNIFICANT BUSINESS NEWS ITEMS

The world (outside of the Soviet bloc) had a pretty good walnut crop last year, the Forest and Agricultural Services reports. A National Industrial Conference Board survey shows that business is losing interest in surveys of employees' attitudes unless they are ready to do something about them. Company cafeterias, which usually lose money, are giving way to coin-operated food-vending machines, which can show a profit. A hollow steel tube with an outside diameter of 00073 of an inch has been made in England. A slightly larger tube is used for artificial insemination of bees.

No New Insight On U. S. Policy

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, to no one's surprise, so far in his Paris visit has given no new insights into his thinking on foreign policy. He wasn't expecting to. Nor is he likely to in his remaining talks with President De Gaulle or later, in Vienna, in his meetings with Premier Khrushchev.

His meeting with De Gaulle has been given far more attention for what they did and where they went than for anything they said — which, apparently, hasn't been much.

They went through all the ceremonial fo-fo-de-rol which has become customary when one head of state visits another. Exposure to crowds, airport bands, wreath-laying, grave-side bands, banquets, speeches.

In a short visit like Kennedy's, with a man he had never conferred with before, all the time spent on pomp and circumstance might have been much more profitably used in conversation between the two men.

What Kennedy has told De Gaulle so far as is known — and why there's nothing new in it — can be summed up like this:

1. He pledged America to stand with the NATO allies, particularly France and West Germany against any Communist attempt to take it over or shut it off from the West.

Jim Bunning Emerges As Detroit 'Stopper' When Going Gets Rough

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Bunning, the lean right-hander who has had trouble getting started, suddenly has popped up as a stopper for the Detroit Tigers in the American League pennant chase.

After losing four of his first six decisions, spread over 10 starts, Bunning now has won two in a row and both have put an end to Detroit skids. Fact is, the Tigers have won just three of their last nine games, and Bunning has collected two of the victories.

He squared his record at 4-4 with a four-hitter for his first shutout of the season Friday night, getting home run help from Rocky Colavito and Al Kaline for a 2-0 decision over the Minnesota Twins.

It was the first victory in four games for the Tigers and retained their two-game lead over the second place Cleveland Indians, who defeated the Los Angeles Angels 6-4. Third place New York, four games back, beat the Chicago White Sox 6-2. Boston knocked off Baltimore 4-2 and Washington walloped Kansas City 12-4.

Bunning allowed nothing but singles, two by Zoilo Versalles, and struck out six. He didn't run into trouble until the ninth, when the Twins loaded the bases with one out on Bunning's lone walk a hit and an error. Bunning then ended it by getting Dan Dobbek to hit into a double play.

Colavito's homer, his 13th, beat southpaw Jack Kralick (4-3) in the second inning. Kaline's sixth-inning shot was his fourth—all in four consecutive games against the Twins, who now have lost 11 of 12 and six in a row while plunging from a second place tie to eighth.

Johnny Romano cracked a 4-4 tie for the Indians with a two-run homer in the eighth off Johnny James (0-1). Woody Held also homered for the Indians, who blew a 4-0 lead. Frank Funk (7-3) was the winner.

The Yankees also relied on home runs, with Yogi Berra belting a pair of solo shots and Roger Maris crashing a two-run homer as southpaw Whitey Ford (7-2) beat the White Sox. Ford blanked the last place Sox on five hits after Al Smith hit a two-run homer in the first inning. Cal McLish (2-6) was the loser, dropping his fifth in a row when Maris' 13th homer broke a 2-2 tie in the third.

Vic Wertz and right-hander Don Schwall combined to beat the Orioles with Wertz' two-run homer in the ninth. Billy Hoef (1-1) was the loser for the Birds, who had tied it with a ninth-inning run on a triple by Ron Hansen and a two-out single by Whitey Herzog. Schwall allowed seven hits and walked four, but he struck out five.

Right-hander Dick Donovan, after losing five in a row by one run, won his first with sudden support from the Senators. Their dozen runs off loser Bud Daley (4-6) and three relievers was one more than they scored in Donovan's five defeats. Dale Long drove in five runs, three with a homer.

The Davis Boys Are Twin Terrors Of Scrambling LA

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Davis boys, Tommy and Willie, aren't related, but they've been twin terrors for the Los Angeles Dodgers in that three-way scramble for the National League lead.

Since dipping to fourth place two weeks ago, Los Angeles has won 10 of 15 games—and in five of the last six victories, one or the other of the Davis boys has supplied the winning run, lifting the Dodgers into a virtual tie for first place.

They went to work in tandem and sent San Francisco sprawling Friday night when Willie's ninth-inning home run tied it 2-2 and Tommy broke it up with a grand slam in the 10th for a 6-2 victory.

That hosted the Dodgers past the Giants into second place, just .009 percentage points behind the Cincinnati Reds, who rallied for five runs in the ninth, but lost 7-6 to the Chicago Cubs.

Last place Philadelphia knocked off Pittsburgh 6-0 and St. Louis dropped Milwaukee 3-1.

The Dodgers, shut out on three hits for seven innings by Jack Sanford and reliever Bob Bolin, got their first run on a pinch homer by Ron Fairly in the eighth. Willie Davis' ninth home run opened in a frantic ninth, in which the Giants used five pitchers, before Willie Mays caught Duke Snider's liner for the third out with the bases loaded.

The Dodgers then loaded the bases again in the 10th, on a single by Jim Gilliam and two walks, one an intentional pass to Willie Davis. Bob Aspromonte hit into a force-out at the plate, but Tommy Davis then unloaded his ninth homer of the season, against loser Ed Fisher (0-1).

The Giants, now a half-game behind the Reds and Dodgers, scored on homers by Sanford and Jim Davenport off Roger Craig. Relievers Larry Sherry, Dick Farrell and Ron Perranoski then blanked San Francisco on two hits over the last 5-23 innings. Perranoski (3-0) was the winner, striking out two while facing just three men in the 10th.

Cincinnati scored the five in the ninth on a two-run homer by Gene Freese and a bases-loaded double by pinch-hitter Jerry Lynch, but the Cubs had gained their cushion in the top of the ninth on a sacrifice fly by Ernie Banks. The Chicago slugger hit in three runs, all on sacrifice flies. They were his first of the year, and tied a major league record for one game set in 1909 by Harry Steinfield of the Cubs. The only other major leaguer to do it was Bob Meusel of the New York Yankees in 1926.

Jack Curtis, a southpaw rookie, won his first in the majors, with Don Elston's relief in the ninth after blanking the Reds on four hits for seven innings. Bob Purkey (5-3) was the loser as the Reds' winning string ended at six games and the Cubs gained their first five-game streak in two seasons.

Right-hander John Buzhardt won his first against five defeats for the Phils by shutting out the Pirates on nine hits. The Phillies tagged Bob Friend (5-7) with his seventh straight defeat as a starter, collecting seven of their 12 hits off the right-handed veteran in 2-1-3 innings. Half of their hits were doubles.

The Cardinals took fifth place from the Braves, who now have lost four in a row, on the four-hit pitching of lefty Ray Sadecki (4-3) and a two-run homer by Ken Boyer in the sixth inning off Carl Willey (2-2). Ed Mathews homered for the Braves in the fourth inning, after striking out seven straight.

Challenger Ortega Gets Shot At Title Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mexico's Gaspar Ortega, a veteran of eight years as a pro and 82 prize fights, gets his first shot at a world title tonight when he meets welterweight champion Emile Griffith of New York.

They tangle over the 15-round route at the Olympic Auditorium, with a national television audience sitting in. Fight time is 9 p.m., Eastern Standard Time. The TV network is ABC, with southern California marked out.

Griffith, 22, a native of the Virgin Islands, figures to enter the ring a 2-1 favorite to retain the championship. It will be his first defense of the crown he won April 1 by flattening Benny (Kid) Faret of Cuba in 13 rounds in Miami Beach, Fla.

Co-promoters—Cal Eaton and George Parnassus expect some 7,500 fans to pay about $50,000. They will need this and more to come out ahead. The TV rights brought $60,000. But Griffith gets a guarantee of $50,000 and Ortega gets 20 per cent of the gate and TV money.

The Olympic also guaranteed Paret $10,000 and each fighter donates $5,000 to the ex-champion, all for waiving an immediate return match contract he had with Griffith.

Griffith captured the title in his 25th fight. He has lost but two decisions, one last year to Denny Meyer in Portland, Ore.

Griffith, who designs ladies hats as an off-ring occupation, has never been knocked out. Once, in a preliminary, was he floored but knocked this man out in the next round.

Teen-er League Debut Is Big One

Carolina Dairy made its Teen-er League season debut last night by taking a commanding 10-2 lead after five innings and downing State Bank, 13-7.

Hooks handled the bulk of the pitching chores for the Dairy, striking out 11 and walking only three in 5-2-3 innings. Williamson relieved him in the sixth and struck out the four State Bank batters he faced.

Deaton and Heath slammed home runs for the Dairy. Deaton's, a solo blast, came in the top of the seventh inning. Heath connected for the circuit with one man aboard in the sixth.

Other leading batsmen for Carolina Dairy were Fleming with two for four, Register with two for five and Ippock who batted in a pair of runs.

Cain led State Bank's plate barrage with a two-run homer in the third frame. He finished with three safeties in four trips. Jordan hit two for three and Avery and Hudson each had one hit.

Wilson Widens First Place Gap

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

League-leading Wilson widened its first place gap in the Carolina League Friday night by defeating Winston-Salem while Raleigh was edging Burlington.

The action left the Tobs 2 1/2 games ahead of Winston-Salem and Burlington who are tied for second.

Wilson topped Winston 11-10, Raleigh defeated Burlington 10-6 in 10 innings and last place Greensboro won its fifth in a row, edging Durham 5-4.

Tonight Winston-Salem is at Raleigh, Greensboro at Burlington and Wilson at Durham.

Pitcher Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves has a lifetime record of 51 shutouts.

Steals Home With Vital Run To Defeat Kinston

KINSTON — Winterville's Bob Hobgood stole home with the winning run here last night as Greenville's American Legion Juniors edged Kinston, 4-3, in an 11-inning practice game.

Hobgood had singled Tommy Riley of Griffon home for the go-ahead run in the top of the 11th. Billy Neal James then drew a walk before Hobgood made his theft of the winning tally.

Greenville, in its first game of the season, held a 2-0 lead after the top of the ninth. It was then that Kinston batters got Ben Monk of Farmville for two runs, knotting the count at 2-2.

The two teams played scoreless ball for the first extra frame before the Greenville Juniors picked up the lead and winning runs in the 11th. Kinston rallied for a single run in their half of the 11th on a long double by Tommy Matlocks. But Monk regained his composure to put out the first and tie down Greenville's season-opening victory.

Monk relieved James Braxton of Winterville in the seventh. Braxton, lanky right-hander, succeeded Williamston's Billy Wynne in the fourth.

The three Greenville hurlers limited Kinston's Juniors to six hits. Greenville gathered seven safeties in the 11-inning affair.

Coach Eub Phillips' charges play a return match with the Kinston club tonight at Guy Smith Stadium in Greenville under the lights at 8 p.m.

The Post 39 Juniors open League II season play in Rocky Mount against last year's league champs Monday night.

District NCAA Finals Tonight

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—Coach Ace Parker has chosen Butch Williams, a senior right-hander from Rockingham, N.C., to pitch for Duke against West Virginia tonight in the finals of the District 3 NCAA Baseball Tournament.

Tom Shafer, a junior right-hander from Morgantown, W. Va., appears to be Coach Vince Granell's choice to oppose Williams. Game time is 6:30 p.m., with a second game scheduled for 9 p.m. if needed.

Duke, unbeaten in this double-elimination tournament, needs only one victory to claim the title. West Virginia, which has lost once, would have to beat Duke twice to win.

West Virginia's Mountaineers, champions of the Southern Conference, eliminated Florida State Seminoles, the at-large entry, Friday night 4-3. FSU had beaten the Mountaineers 3-1 Thursday in the opening game of the three-team tournament, then the Seminoles lost to Atlantic Coast Conference champion Duke 7-2.

The winners represent the district in the NCAA's College World Series in Omaha, Neb., June 9-15.

The Mountaineers rallied for two runs in the ninth inning to eliminate Florida State trailing 3-2 and with two out. West Virginia tied the score on a single by Bob Peyton and won when Seminoles relief pitcher Jim Daniels tossed a wild pitch, bringing in another run.

The loss went to starter Jack Ross. Craig Mankin picked up the win.

LITTLE LEAGUE Pitt American Legion Nine Will Start Season Monday

By ROY MARTIN
Reflector Sports Writer

Pitt County's American Legion team opens its new season with Rocky Mount Monday night, and the term used by Coach Bud Phillips to describe the potential of his nine is "untried and untested."

Larry Roebuck provided the big blow for Security Life when he belted the ball out of the park in the top of the fourth inning with three of his mates aboard. Roebuck scored four runs himself and led Security batters with two hits.

Malcolm Williams led Moose stickmen with a double and a single in three at-bats. Billy Brown slammed a double for the Moose.

In going the distance, Dunn aided the Moose cause by issuing 11 free passes. He struck out seven.

Security Life 301 404—12 5 2

Security Life got four-hit pitching from Billy Dunn yesterday as the squad picked up its first Tar Heel victory of the season by downing the Moose, 12-7, at Guy Smith Little League field.

tion squad, will take again the duties of first base, as will Paul Castelloe, a Winterville representative, take the responsibilities of centerfield. Other returnees include Tommy Riley of Griffon, who will be behind the plate, and James Braxton, a pitcher from Winterville. The only other regular back from last year's squad is Keith Sawyer. Sawyer, a Vanceboro native, has been selected to play in the East-West All-Star game which will be played in Greenville June 17.

Also in the pitching department, the Pitt County Legionnaires have the talents of another East-West All-Star performer, Billy Wynne of Williamston. In addition to Wynne and Braxton, Ben Monk of the Pitt County Champion Farmville Red Devils will be handling the mound chores throughout the coming season.

Not All Old Pros 'Just Fade Away'

DORADO BEACH, Puerto Rico. (AP)—Old golf pros don't die or fade away. They simply keep on beating their younger rivals.

If you have any doubt about that, just take a look at the score-board in the ninth annual Canada Cup matches where Sam Snead, 49 last week, and Jimmy Demaret, who was 51 a few days earlier, have combined to put the defending champion United States six strokes ahead of the best of the other 32 teams in the international field.

Snead has put together two consecutive 67s, also leads the individual race by four strokes over Ben Arda of the Philippines, with 134 to Arda's 138.

Snead has stomped through the heat and humidity of the first two days of the matches with a pair of rounds that has the United States holding a six-stroke cushion over Australia in the team title race 277 to 283. The Philippines is third at 288.

Of course, Demaret fits into the same category. Called off a Gulf of Mexico fishing trip to replace Arnold Palmer, U.S. open champion sidelined by PGA regulations, Jimmy has fired a 73-70 for a fifth-place tie at 143 with Kel Nagle of Australia.

Snead is followed by Arda, who fired his second straight 69 despite a second haunting eagle from his family that his wife was seriously ill in Manila with a heart condition. Third place is held by the lanky Al Balding of Canada at 139 with Peter Thomson of Australia, four-time British Open champ, fourth at 140 just ahead of Nagle and Demaret.

Betsy Rawls Could Coast Home After Rapid Start

By BARNEY BALLARD
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Most of the name players started so far back of Betsy Rawls today that the Charleston, S.C., professional could coast home with another Women's Western Open golf championship.

Championships are nothing new to the 33-year-old veteran, who won this tournament as far back as 1952 and repeated in 1959, the year she won nearly everything in sight.

Miss Rawls went into the championship flight today with an impressive 145 for the 36 holes of qualifying, five strokes under her nearest rivals. A respectable 76 Friday, one over par, was well over her sizzling 69 for the opening round Thursday, but she lost only one stroke to the field.

Marylyn Smith, French Lick, Ind., pro, and Mary Lena Faulk, who plays out of Thomasville, Ga., stood second in line with 150s.

Right behind them stood Mickey Wright, Dallas, Tex., swatter and one of the early tournament favorites. Her 74 Friday was the second best card of the day, one stroke behind Marilyn Smith.

At 153, Marlene Harge, Louise Suggs and Barbara Romack, all widely known on the pro circuit, ranked eight strokes back of the leader.

Mary Mills of Ocean Springs, Miss., and Barbara Fitton of Hamilton, Ohio, each turned in a 156 for the top amateur cards.

Doris Phillips of Belleville, Ill., was a stroke further back and Southern amateur champion Polly intersectional foes.

Merchants Urge Classic's Return

RALEIGH (AP)—The Raleigh Merchants Bureau is seeking to revive the Dixie Basketball Classic which has been discontinued as a result of the national gambling scandal.

In a letter to Gov. Sanford and officials of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, the bureau said:

"We urgently request that consideration be given to the reinstatement of the Dixie Classic, believing that other measures which you have taken will adequately correct the abuses which developed in the basketball program."

The letter, authorized by unanimous vote of the bureau's board of directors, carried the signature of Don Kimrey, bureau president.

The university, besides eliminating the Classic which is held here each year between Christmas and New Year's, placed strict limits on recruiting and scheduling and barred summer competition for its players.

The Classic had matched North Carolina, Duke, Wake Forest and North Carolina State against four intersectional foes.

Roadblock Solicitation For Leukemia Drive Here

A "roadblock" solicitation drive in behalf of ALSAC (Aiding Leukemia Stricken Children) will be instituted here Sunday by a group of volunteer workers.

"It is our hope," says ALSAC City Director George Saad, "that our work will help attain a world-wide benefit to humanity as did the work of the famous Dr. Salk."

ALSAC is the incorporated group working to build and maintain St. Jude's Hospital and Research Center at Memphis.

Designed for the care of leukemia-stricken children and the search for an eventual cure for a now hopeless disease.

Over 94 per cent of every dollar donated thus far has gone into leukemia research, according to the original initiator of St. Jude Hospital, entertainer Danny Thomas.

Sponsors of the local campaign, the Greenville Women of the Moose, are today holding a "tag sale" and tonight staging a benefit dance for Lodge members and their guest.

Sunday's roadblock plans call for collection points at West End Circle, at Fifth and Memorial Drive, at the Junction of Routes 43 and 264, and on Evans Street Extension of 264.

Saad, in explaining local participation in the ALSAC drive, says "this should put us in a better position to locate a child from this area, when necessary, in St. Jude Hospital."

This hospital for children will provide its services free of charge to all who are admitted. There are no bars to admittance on grounds of race or religion.

Volunteers who will participate in Sunday's roadblock, are Shep Allsbrook, Earl Alder, Jim Boykin, Andy Carrigan, Ernest Cassick.

Dan Gordon, Lyman Nethercutt, Joseph Saad, James L. Savage, Nicholas Simonowich, Jimmy Smith III, Robert L. Thompson, Lyle Wilcox and Ernie K. Willis.

"We don't measure them, for heaven's sake," said the principal, "but I don't want them coming to school in bikinis."

County Will Pay For Torn Pants

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Lucas County has decided to pay an attorney $10.95 for the pants he ripped on a chair in Common Pleas Court.

Prosecutor Harry Friberg says the county is not strictly liable for the damage to attorney Stephen A. Mack's pants, but the county should regard it as a moral debt.

"Not only did Mack suffer considerable embarrassment and mortification," the prosecutor ruled, "but he lost his client's case."

This paragraph does not deal with the economics of the dollar. It is Multer's response to the perfection of the American government which, while laudable, is ultra vires. The United States has defaulted on its obligation in the gold content of the dollar. The case went to the Supreme Court as Congressman Multer well knows.

There can be no sentiment about money. It is accepted because of confidence or coercion. It is rejected out of fear. It is not something to be loved for its own sake.

DuPont Impact Is Felt In Pitt County

ROUND-THE-CLOCK . . . One section of Kinston Plant's intricate Dacron-manufacturing apparatus goes full blast on through the night.

DU PONT'S KINSTON PLANT . . . Aerial photograph shows Eastern Carolina's largest industrial plant, covering 635 acres, that turns out Dacron.

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

A 10-year-old, $40 million synthetic fiber plant near Grifton has proved to be a powerful hypodermic for the economy for the Pitt County area and has paved the way for a revolution in the ready-to-wear fashions industry.

Named the Kinston Plant of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours corporation, the mammoth installation that sprawls over some 635 acres of northern Lenoir County was designed and constructed by Du Pont to produce a popular synthetic fiber that was only a tested idea in 1950. The Kinston plant, since March, 1953, has continuously produced the fiber—known by its trademark name, Dacron—that has grown in consumer popularity until it has approached the proverbial stage of having "a million and one" uses.

Products bought daily in Greenville, Pitt County, throughout the nation and around the world contain the "miracle fiber." Its uses range from delicate fabrics on racks of ready-to-wear shops to filling material in pillows and sleeping bags to heavy duty yarns woven into fire hoses and conveyor belts.

Large Payroll
Into the economy of the area the Kinston Plant's annual payroll injects approximately $12 million.

This payroll is divided among the plant's 2,000 employees, 739 of whom are Pitt County residents. And Pitt is strongly represented in the upper supervisory bracket of DuPont's Kinston staff.

Among Pitt County residents employed by Du Pont are three supervisors whose positions at least are in the upper echelon of the Kinston Plant's employee ladder. All three are Greenville residents.

HARRY BILLICA is research manager for fiber surfaces research in a special research section within the Kinston Plant. W. A. Wright serves as the plant's accounting superintendent and William Reading is maintenance works engineer.

From those posts near the top, Pitt is abundantly represented on each descending rung in the Kinston Plant's employee ladder. A king-sized share of the plant's payroll is brought home to Pitt each payday.

Pitt's representatives combine with other counties' personnel to adequately staff the plant that for several years enjoyed the distinction of being the only Dacron-producing plant in the world. Du Pont has since constructed an additional plant to produce the polyester fiber at Old Hickory, Tenn.

Products
The Kinston Plant boasts production of what it calls five "end products"—finished products ready to be utilized in manufacturing consumer and industrial goods.

Three of the five products are best-known to the average consumer: Dacron yarn, a continuous thread; Dacron tow, a large number of threads blended together like an untwisted rope; and Dacron staple, tow that is chopped into very short lengths. These three products are shipped to textile manufacturers who use them separately, interchangeably and in a multitude of varying combinations in the weaving of fabrics for consumer products.

The Kinston Plant supplies some 80 Tar Heel textile manufacturers with Dacron. Plant spokesmen think "it is significant that much of our Dacron is processed and converted into fabrics in North Carolina mills."

About half the Dacron turned out by the Kinston Plant is used by the Tar Heel textile industry. The two remaining Dacron products manufactured by the Kinston Plant's elaborate facilities are industrial yarn and a product called "Fiberfill."

The industrial yarn is a heavy duty synthetic fiber strand used by manufacturers who market fire hoses, fish nets, boat sails, conveyor belts and other such items.

Fiberfill is a filling material used to stuff pillows, sleeping bags and other related consumer goods.

Popularity
All five products of the Kinston Plant have wide distribution and enjoy universal acceptance by the consumer public.

Ready-to-wear dresses, suits, shirts, ties and countless other articles of clothing made with Dacron represent a highly successful category of consumer products. Characteristics of the synthetic fiber have won the approval of the buying public.

Many of the read-to-wear garments are manufactured in northern and other industries, but a large percentage of the fabrics used are woven by Tar Heel mills.

Production of Dacron is a continuous process and cannot be interrupted. Strong and consistent electrical currents are necessary for the operation and must not vary. For that reason, the Kinston Plant maintains its own electrical generators and ties in with a commercial utility firm only for emergency purposes.

An important addition to the Kinston Plant was announced in 1962. By summer, 1953, construction of a new $3 million research laboratory—specifically for researching Dacron—began.

The elaborate research center—separate from the plant's research section—was completed and went into operation a year later and is currently staffed with approximately 200 chemists, engineers and other technical personnel.

Its specific mission is to work both with current products and to develop new Dacron products and new uses for Dacron.

Social Security Is Reaching Many

By the end of 1960, more than 4,648 Pitt Countians were receiving old-age, survivors or disability insurance benefits provided under the Social Security Act of 1935.

Total payments to these people during last December amounted to $228,328, according to N. A. Avera, manager of the Rocky Mount Social Security District Office.

The figures he announced represent an increase in the number of Pitt County residents receiving benefits by about 13 per cent over December, 1959.

Nationally, almost 15 million people were receiving about a billion dollars a month in the benefits at the close of 1960. Many of these people were made eligible for benefits by the changes in the law made by the 1960 Congress.

Payments to a retired worker with no dependents receiving benefits averaged $70 last December. The averages for retired couples (both receiving benefits) and aged widows were $124 and $58, respectively.

Social Security marked its 25th birthday during 1960 and paid benefits for the 20th consecutive year. Changes in the law since 1935 have brought more than 90 per cent of U. S. citizens eligibility or potential eligibility for some form of Social Security benefits. Earnings will be reported to the Social Security accounts of more than 75 million workers this year.

Pitt County folks participate and share in this program along with the rest of the nation's population. The table shows the number and monthly amount of each type of benefit being paid in Pitt County as of Dec. 31, 1960—the date of the latest available figures.

British Take Their Homes Abroad On Economical Tours Of Continent

Tall, He Stays In 'Trouble'

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"I've managed to stay in trouble pretty good," grins Bruce Yarnell, the tallest singer on Broadway.

"When you're 6-foot-5 everybody wants to be a giant killer." There was the time a red-eyed redbird threatened to scalp him in the wilds of northern Canada.

En route to a busy first season on Broadway, Bruce crammed a lot of variety into his 25 years.

A Varied Career
Among his chores: bartender, commercial tuna fisherman, bouncer, investigator and ditch digger—for a movie studio in hometown Los Angeles.

Yarnell's first brush with adventure came at age 14—as a sort of deputy undercover agent for the FBI, keeping an eye on some suspected Communists.

Recruitment of the family by the FBI came about because Yarnell's father was a police officer. The parents were divorced, however, so the neighbors were unaware of clan dedication to law and order—three other relations are also policemen.

Began Singing Early
In school—he went to the same academy as the four Crosby boys—Bruce developed his vocal talents. From Gregorian chants, he moved on to a choir. Then at 18 he set up a private detective agency. His mother still runs it.

Quit First Role
Early this season Yarnell reached his goal of stage performance with a part in the musical "Camelot." With a long run assured, he quit in favor of a larger role in another musical, "The Happiest Girl in the World."

In it he enacts a general of ancient Greece who must rally troops to battle in the face of determined distaff effort to end war by boycotting romance for the duration.

Such fictional amorous dilemma pales for Yarnell alongside initial discovery of romance in real life.

"By the time I was 12—that's when I discovered girls—I was 6-foot-2," he says. "The girls didn't want anything to do with me. That was a terrible experience."

A Tall Ambition
Yarnell finally found the lady of his life. His wife, Frances Chadwick, is a former beauty contest winner. She stands 6-foot-2 without help of heels. They have two daughters, and dad is confident they will be just as tall.

"We're out to eliminate little people," Bruce says.

TWIST OF FATE
MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Police, using radar, arrested several motorists here recently. Among them was Reider Strand, whose first name is pronounced raydar.

LONDON (AP)—A new breed of British tourist is poring over road maps of continental Europe and counting his pounds as he plans his summer vacation.

Such, he and his ilk will begin crossing the channel in ever-growing numbers. And scant comfort it is to the Continent's hoteliers.

This newest set among the British motoring public are the autohomers—motorists who travel about in clever vehicles that combine transportation and living accommodations under the same expandable roof.

This all-in-one feature separates them from the trailer dwellers. And it threatens to revolutionize the holiday habits of thousands of Britons.

Caught on Quickly
Motoring organizations report that cross-Channel ferry bookings by autohomers are soaring.

Most of the work was servicing attorneys," Bruce says. "Some joker got a bit messy one day when I was serving a paper on him. I broke my hand on that assignment."

Later he signed on with a small traveling show, as baritone vocalist and emcee. While in the backwoods of British Columbia, an Indian, dissatisfied with the entertainment, vowed to get him.

"Fortunately the mounted police located the guy before there was any trouble," the singer recalls.

Eventually Yarnell worked his way to New York. His first job: throwing out uninvited guests at a New Year's Eve party given by Lee Strasberg, mentor of the renowned Actors Studio.

Night club engagements followed. Escorting several chorus girls home one night, Yarnell found himself embroiled with a teen-age pack that gave up when the cops arrived.

Britain these newcomers to the highways have been given a big boost because of an odd tax anomaly which classifies the autohome as a commercial vehicle and thus exempt from the 50 per cent purchase tax levied on private autos.

Because of this, prices range from around $2,240 to $3,360—about the same as a medium sized family auto.

More than a score of versions are now being offered in Britain. They are all mounted on standard light truck chassis produced by any of the big five British manufacturers.

Cleverly Designed
They are finding a ready market among traveling salesmen

THE AUTOHOME: INTERIOR
Lounge, Dinette, or Dormitory

The autohomes highlighted last year's London auto show. They quickly caught on in Britain, and increased export sales indicate a widening interest.

Spelling doom for the old type trailer homes, these motorized caravans present many advantages over their cumbersome two-piece counterparts.

They are more maneuverable, they cost half as much to ferry across the Channel, they do not need special winter storage since they convert into estate models or mini buses and they are not subject to speed restrictions.

In fact they offer all the advantages and none of the disadvantages of an outdoor life for the man with a limited vacation budget.

Versatile Vehicles
For just the price of the gasoline they open up the whole of Europe for family vacations with the added advantages of a weekend runabout for picnics, a normal touring vehicle, a beach party's changing room, a grandstand at a racetrack or a wayside hotel.

One uses a concertina-type transparent plastic "loft", another a fan-like section which opens like a book cover. Yet another has a variable roof which is raised on a system of hinges and telescopic rods.

In all models simple arrangement enables seats to be dropped down to form beds or settees around a table.

Cookers and even ovens are usually built into sink units which when not in use form plastic topped tables with cupboard space beneath.

Fringe Benefit
Partitioning inside provides a high degree of privacy, the parent's sleeping accommodation usually being toward the rear of the vehicle with one single berth at the front and "junior" bunk in the "loft."

Besides the obvious cost-cutting advantages of the family vacation on the road, many factory workers in Britain are netting extra incomes by running private mini bus services for their workmates on their way to and from the job.

With up to 10 passengers more than defraying running costs, a sizable profit margin remains for the operator.

Noted Playright George Kaufman Dies In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—George S. Kaufman, the playwright-producer who specialized in comedy but became known as Broadway's "gloomy dean," is dead at 71.

He died of a heart attack Friday at his Park Avenue apartment. He had been inactive about a year and a half due to a stroke.

Kaufman was one of the keenest wits and shrewdest businessmen Broadway had ever known, but in some ways he was an eccentric.

He was one of the greatest individualists in the theater—but preferred collaborating on plays to writing alone.

He was a man of immense sophistication, yet he had a rumpled look, hatless, his bushy hair unkempt. And as he walked the streets, he would often talk to himself and grimace.

Kaufman was among the theater's big money earners in his triple capacity as author, director and producer, and he shared two Pulitzer prizes for "Of Thee I Sing," 1931, and "You Can't Take It With You," 1937.

His reputation for gloominess came from the mournful way he would prow the rear of theaters on opening night or during out-of-town tryouts, mumbling and pulling at his hair.

The opening night of "The Solid Gold Cadillac," written by himself and Howard Teichmann in 1933, brought the usual wrinkles to Kaufman's brow. While waiting for the notices—which of course were complimentary—Teichmann tried to penetrate the gloom with, "Nice day!"

"It was a nice day when they burned Joan of Arc," came the dark reply.

While working on plays with other writers, he would invariably roam about the room, examining anything he happened to find with great care.

Edna Ferber, with whom Kaufman collaborated on "The Royal Family," 1927 hit about the Barrymores, once planted a note deep among some personal pa-

Reviews And Reflections

By JIM POINDEXTER

This is the season of beach-cottage reading during those few minutes between lunch and the afternoon nap.

One appropriate volume for such purposes, though it might keep the drowsiest awake, is Edward D. Radin's "Lizzie Borden: The Untold Story." Since the events recorded by Radin have been notorious since 1892 there may be those who will be reminded of them by the following jingle:

Lizzie Borden took an ax
And gave her mother forty whacks.
When she saw what she had done,
She gave her father forty—one.

It will be observed that the author of the above assumes Lizzie's guilt. So has practically everyone else from the day of the double murder down to the present, even though a jury acquitted her. Mr. Radin, however, thinks the jury was right, and he surveys all the evidence of the case in reaching his conclusion. He goes further than that, for he has his own notions about who the real criminal was. But to say more would remove the suspense from this most interesting real life whodunit.

Baleful Bauble

On a higher social level, Frances Mossiker in "The Queen's Necklace" presents the whole story of that infamous bauble which helped bring on the French Revolution. The necklace, which was purchased from the court jeweler, presumably for Marie Antoinette, never reached the Queen, according to her story. In fact, she disclaimed any knowledge of it whatsoever. Meanwhile, several famous people, including the Cardinal of Paris, through whose hands the necklace had passed, were involved. The thing is still missing, though Miss Mossiker, in this interesting book, has some ideas about what might have happened to it.

Oral History

A book of quite a different story is "Felix Frankfurter Reminiscences," edited by Harlan B. Phillips. This work, which was originally a series of tapes made by the Oral History Department of Columbia University, retains the charm and ease of good talk. In it Justice Frankfurter touches informally upon a great many important events and interesting people from Teddy Roosevelt to FDR, about whose personality, incidentally, he is quite reticent. It is hard to see how anyone interested in law, history, or any other facet of American life in this century could resist this fine work.

'Electras' Now Cleared Of Bugs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Lockheed Electra, victim of a tragic jinx a year ago, once again is operating without speed restrictions and is making a bid to regain public confidence.

The seven U. S. airlines using the turboprop airliner report that most all of their Electras have undergone structural modifications to eliminate the freakish flaw that caused the plane to shake itself to pieces.

Lockheed Aircraft Corp. says 144 Electras have been modified at its Burbank, Calif., plant. Only 21 remain to be worked over before all will be operating at normal cruising speed again—400 miles an hour.

On March 17, 1960, an Electra came apart in midair over Tell City, Ind., killing 63 persons. It was the third major air disaster in slightly more than a year involving the Electra. In all, 162 persons were killed.

TEAMWORK!

Newspaper Advertising Strengthens Any Sales Team

When more sales are the goal, newspaper advertising can add real power to your selling team. Newspapers take your advertising into nearly 9 out of 10 homes every day. People welcome newspaper advertising because from it they can get a complete sales story without irritating pressures. They can absorb what they want at their leisure... analyze it... return to it for reference. Surveys show people read newspaper ads as eagerly as they read the news. For women, the ads are the most interesting thing in the newspaper; for men, the ads rate second only to sports news.* Team up with the daily newspaper to make—or break—your sales goals.

Still A Gap Between Spending Plans, Money

By ROBERT A. WILLIS RALEIGH (AP)—The Legislature opened the throttel this week, but a few bumps showed up on the ever-shortening road toward adjournment.

Moreover, the group was told that the Highway Fund—supposedly enriched by $19 million in the shift of some budget items to the General Fund—has suffered from a loss in income from gasoline and other taxes...

It would lower rates on loans and rule out deferment and default charges. A related measure—the Senate-passed bill to limit the amount of insurance a small lender can sell to an amount no greater than that of the loan—will be voted on in the House Insurance Committee next week.

Buy Foundations of Lycra®

... but what on earth is Lycra?

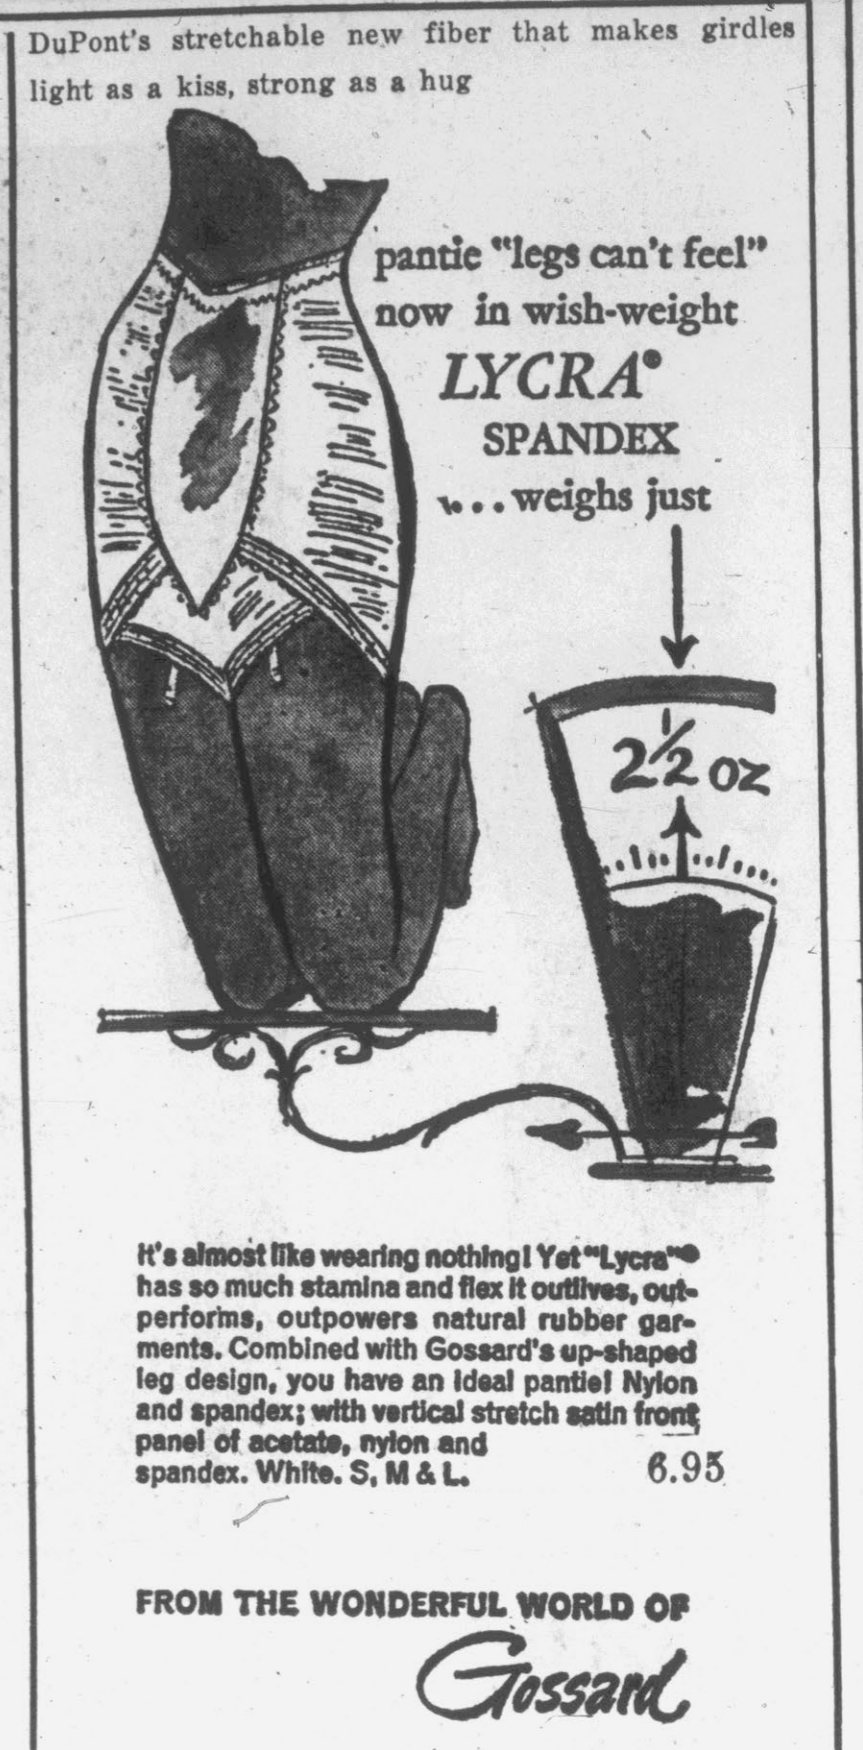

"Lycra" is a multifilament bundle joined together to form a monofilament yarn that stretches and snaps back into place like rubber. It is stronger and more durable than conventional elastic thread, weighs a third less, gives longer wear, and has from two to three times as much restraining power. As a result, it provides softer, lighter, and sheerer girdles with the kind of figure control heretofore confined to heavier, bulkier garments. It also makes possible girdles and brassieres that, with proper temperature controls, can be both machine-washed and machine-dried with complete safety.

Keeping cool is part of an attitude and to help that attitude Victor Lebow has designed a fabric called "WAFLERLITE" . . . that is, if you agree that 5 1/2 ounces is "water-lite."
The fabric is of 2-80's quality worsted (almost the finest that can be spun) and Dacron* polyester for retention and wrinkle-shedding. Different from most Dacron* blends, Lebow offers subtle Glen Plaids and Muted Plaids in completely new color tones: Aquamarine, Cameron, Dusty Blue, to name a few.

Apparel Uses

Men's wear was the first and is still one of the most important fields for use of "Dacron" Polyester fiber. But while it was limited to men's clothing only in the very early days of production. It is now found in apparel for every member of the family. From dainty lingerie and children's dresses, to sturdy suits and topcoats, from frilly blouses to warm, insulated underwear . . . Dacron brings its own special qualities to each.
