A Dress Turns Inside Out

COUNTRY GIRL SWITCHES TO CITY SLICKER.

If your wardrobe has its reverses you are probably better off. For the new idea in stretching it twice as far is to include dresses that turn inside out to reveal an entirely different personality.
 The situation is ideal for the city slicker who packs herself off (but lightly) to the country. It also has its benefits for the country cousin who must whisk to the big town for some important shopping. Typical is the one dress above shown twice. At left it is as rural as a hoedown with its calico side out and with wide straw hat and tote bag. Same girl is in same dress at right but this time its city slicker side is up. The black and white pin stripe print is as urbane as uptown. Coats have long had a reverse side to double their lives. Their buttoned down the front character makes them easier to turn inside out. Thus it is no coincidence that reversible dresses are also coat style.

ALL-STAR TEAM

Saw some pint-sized Mickey Mantles out practicing the other day. Reminded me that, before long, it'll be Little League time, when almost every sprout on the block turns into a junior-sized candidate for Cooperstown Hall of Fame.

The sight of your favorite youngster whamming his first hit or making a sensational catch—aren't those sights worth seeing again? So why not see them in colorful movies that are a cinch to make with the Brownie 8 Movie Camera, $2.75. Lowest priced of any Kodak movie camera, this made-for-action model scores again on quality.

No waste motion getting ready to shoot. The easy-to-set exposure dial gets the lens ready in a hurry. Just dial the right light condition, sight through the enclosed telescopic viewfinder, press the shutter release and you're making movies through a fast f2.7 lens that focuses on everything from a few feet all the way to Yankee Stadium.

Economical to use with low-cost 8mm Kodachrome film. Economical to own, too. Only $26.95. Together, the Brownie 8 Movie Camera, f2.7 and Kodachrome film make an all-star team that's hard to beat, even in the high-priced league.

But drop in and let us show you—before the first big game. —(Adv.)

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN Sappho, the Greek poetess, is said to have called the rose, "the queen of flowers." They have come down through history and have lost none of their beauty and fragrance that inspired this ancient poetess to give them such a title.

This favorite flower has many that do not care for its beauty and fragrance. These are the bugs and diseases that find it palatable and good, roosting places. And nothing that grows in the garden looks any more pitiful than a rose whose owner is lax in caring for them.

In the established rose garden, neglect and unclean practice are the chief causes of unthrifty and dying plants. Maintaining a rose garden is no hit and miss proposition. Daily or at least weekly inspection of plants for diseases and insects in their incipient stages is very important.

When flower buds first show use commercial fertilizer (8-8-8 or 5-10-5) 1 pound to 100 sq. ft. If you can get it, use rotted manure 2 to 3 inches thick around each plant. Even with this, feed each 4 week with the commercial fertilizer. Continue until the last of July or August 1st. Keep weeds down by using mulch of pinetags, ground tobacco stems, ground corn cobs, etc.

When pruning cut back to eye (making slanting cut). Cut should be about 3-16 inch above eye. To keep plant open, cut to an outside eye or bud. Use sharp tools, for ragged torn cuts invite diseases.

In watering roses do not use hose with nozzle. Let the water run slowly, place end of hose on a small board. In this way the water will soak in and not wash soil. Splattering water spreads black spot. So using nozzle on hose should be cut.

Here are a few diseases and insects that attack roses and some suggested controls. Do not waste spray on infected leaves—pick them off and burn them. Spray with one of the following fungicides:

Black Spot — Fermate (ferbam 75 per cent) or Orthocide (captan 50 per cent) 3 teaspoons to 1 gallon of water at 7-10 days intervals, depending on the weather. During rainy spells spray 2 times a week.

Powdery Mildew — Wettable sulphur 2 tablespoons to 1 gallon of water — Do not use when weather is real hot and temperature is around 90 degrees or over.

Aphids — Malathion 50 per cent E.C. 2 teaspoons to 1 gallon of water, or Malathion 25 per cent wettable powder 2 tablespoons to 1 gallon of water, or Black Leaf 40 per cent, 1 1/2 teaspoons to one gallon of water. Repeat as needed.

New Officers Are Elected

Greenville Women of the Moose, Chapter 1308, elected officers for the coming year last night. They will be installed next Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Rachel Hobgood was elected new Senior Regent, succeeding Emily Johnston who will fill the role of Junior Graduate Regent. Mrs. Hobgood has been serving as Junior Regent during the past term.

Elected to the post of Junior Regent was Ruby Presser. Molly Harris was chosen as Chaplain for the coming term and Margaret Cannon, Recorder.

The incoming Senior Regent announced her selections last night for appointive officers. They are: Irene Hart, Guide; Peggy Sawyer, Ass't Guide; Winnie Bright, Argus; Carolyn Morton, Sentinel; Etta Bloom, pianist.

The outgoing Senior Regent, presiding for the last meeting in her term of office, thanked Chapter members, officers and chairmen for their cooperation, interest and services during the past year.

Members reminded of a party the Chapter is giving Saturday night for Women of the Moose, and their escorts. A cocktail hour, beginning at 7:30, will precede a buffet supper, entertainment and a dance.

Chapter Night proceedings were highlighted with enrollment of three new members: Margaret Kelly, Sylvia Blizard and Terry Patrick. Chapter Night hostess was Nita Rowland, Chairman of the Academy of Friendship Refreshments followed the meeting.

Helpful aid in spraying program is a magnifying glass to use in detection of insects and diseases in primary stages.

There are mixtures of fungicides and insecticides ready for use on market. These are handy for home gardener (does away with mixing) and having to have quite a few fungicides and insecticides on hand.

Handle all spray materials with caution. Read and follow directions printed on containers.

For Youngsters

Sudsy water provides the setting for small boat sailing. Cut a rubber tire in half the long way and fill the hollow section with water and a handful of soap or detergent.

Young sailors will have fun whipping up convincing "white caps" and racing their paper or plastic boats along the waterway.

Rice won't stick to the bottom of the pan if you boil it in an aluminum strainer.

The rice will be fluffier cooked this way, and the pan will be easier to wash with hot soap or detergent suds.

Representing A Good Day's Work

This has been a fruitful week of accomplishment for the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

Preliminary budget-trimming is well underway; and another forward-looking step, that of naming a long-range planning committee has been realized.

No one will shrug off the budget-planning process as a routine matter. There seems no limit to the desired, hoped for and basic needs as compared with harsh realities of what can be afforded.

It is gratifying to know the Commissioners' preliminary budget allows for adding employees to meet growth needs, and salary increases both necessary and desirable. We hope both features remain.

County business is a growing business, and it is big business. Pitt budget requests total in the neighborhood of $1,630,000. Not only is it necessary to meet immediate needs, but to plan for the immediate future and the more distant future.

With every promise of future growth for Pitt County it becomes increasingly important that prospects of what that growth entails be known so that preparatory groundwork can be made in advance.

Impromptu and hastily contrived solutions to unexpected needs can be both expensive and unsatisfactory. Hence, we have a committee of seventeen men with varied backgrounds and abilities to consider needs of the future.

Before this committee sits down together, we can already sketch a number of future problems they are apt to become involved in, sooner or later.

The shadow of the need for more and better county office quarters has already been cast; the only question is whether this can be properly classified as an item for present or future planning.

The same question of immediacy can be raised on the County Home. There are people working now toward a more satisfactory establishment. Still, it is certain that much remains to be done just to get the new project off the ground.

It's a sure bet that the Court House and the County Jail are going to figure in the planning committee's future.

And how many Pitt Countians have given thought to probabilities our newly-expanded hospital may be operating at capacity within two years? No one is going to be long content when it again reaches the point of waiting lists and priorities; yet, its growth and Pitt County's growth in repute as a medical center all point to that eventuality arising in the foreseeable future.

There are many other facets of the planning necessary to meet eventual needs. Those cited here are only the most obvious.

Pitt County government has been blessed over the years with a record of able men and selfless service. The effort and time members of our Boards of Commissioners have devoted to the cause of good government is a matter for which Pitt Countian should be most grateful.

The work of administering county government invites a lot of complaints and criticisms, rarely brings a word of thanks or praise.

Today we would commend the present Board for its foresight in appointing a long-range planning committee. It was a good day's work.

Confusing The Popular Mind

By LYNN NISBET

SURPLUS — Through all the years since the executive budget act was adopted for control of State finances there has been confusion in popular mind about the technical meaning of such terms as "surplus," "cash balance," "credit balance" and "carry over."

And ever since special accounting brackets were set up for the general fund, the highway fund, the agricultural fund and numerous other special funds, there has been charge and counter-charge of diversion — the use of money belonging to one special fund for purposes outside the particular scope of its activity.

There was a time when the agriculture fund had more money than was immediately needed for activities of that department — and at least one big building at State College was paid for out of the special fund. Then there came the time when highway revenue was coming in faster than had been anticipated, and several million dollars were diverted by specific legislative act to general fund purposes. In desperation the General Assembly of 1931 relieved the State general fund of responsibility for operating the State prison system, and at the same time relieved the 100 counties of maintaining public roads. State and county prison units, and obligation for construction and maintenance of all public roads, was transferred to the highway fund. The parole commission being a logical adjunct of the prison system, cost of its operation was also put upon the highway fund.

Although the probation commission is actually an arm of the judiciary, rather than prison administration, the cost of that agency was tacked on to the highway fund.

ALIMONY — Four years ago control and supervision of prisons, parole and probation was divorced from the highway commission — but the divorce decree carried substantial alimony. All the costs of parole and probation activity and about 85 per cent of prison cost was charged against the highway fund. This meant that some $12.5 million dollars of highway money was diverted to non-highway purposes. And all along the fees charged for inspection of gasoline, amounting to some four million dollars a year was going into the general fund.

When Governor Hodges sponsored the prison divorce he made clear that while alimony was necessary for a while, it was his idea that ultimately the prisons and related agencies should be supported out of general fund revenue, leaving the gasoline tax money for highways.

There always has been and always will be some "twilight zones" because source and use of tax money by State government cannot be broken down into exactly appropriate brackets. For example, nobody has protested the general sales tax collected on automobiles, tires and other accessories, going into the general fund account. Although it requires no great accounting skill to determine that this money is available only because of highways.

CURRENT — For about 40 years the highway fund was in better condition, with respect to immediate demands upon it, than was the general fund. Within the past decade the trend has been reversed and road building and maintenance has been handicapped by inadequate funds. The time has come for a clearer definition of the purposes of the funds, and for closer adherence to these basic purposes.

TERMINOLOGY — Latest reports indicate a "surplus" in the general fund for this and the next biennium of some $20 million dollars. Governor Sanford announced his purpose to apply this money to building secondary roads. While accurate as to meaning the terminology was technically unfortunate. The Governor did not suggest using any general fund money for highways. His suggestion was to apply that $20 million surplus to the payment of items which properly belong in the general fund account, thereby releasing a comparable amount of highway money which had been diverted and making it available for road work.

There is some sentiment for abolishing all special funds and establishing just one State account into which all fees, taxes and other revenue collected by the State should be pooled, and out of which the costs for all services should be paid. Major opinion seems to favor the maintenance and integrity of separate funds, with highway tax revenue going to roads, special fees collected by agriculture, banking, insurance, wildlife and other agencies, going chiefly to the promotion of these interests.

The proposal by Governor Sanford to use the general fund surplus for general fund purposes, and thus release highway money for roads, is in keeping with that policy. His suggestion that the general fund surplus be used for secondary roads was short cut and perhaps unfortunate play on the meaning of words. Unless and until a single fund for all State money is adopted, it makes no sense to use highway gasoline money for public schools than to use a food tax for building highways.

Lyndon Johnson Is Kept On Run

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson has become the ice-cream man of the Kennedy administration.

He travels into all kinds of neighborhoods, spreading good cheer. Busy, busy, busy. That was his life until he became vice president last January.

He wanted to be busy. He wanted to run things. And, as boss of the Senate Democrats, Johnson had a job made to order for him.

He stayed busy for years running the Senate. Then, suddenly, when he became vice president, he had to take a back seat.

He had a boss now, Kennedy, who was younger, and stronger-willed, and had beaten him for the presidency. And Kennedy left no doubt who was No. 1 man.

And even in the Senate there was a new boss: Mike Mansfield of Montana, majority leader of the Democrats.

Johnson couldn't, if he wanted to, push Mansfield around, or interfere, or kibitz, without an explosion.

Yet Johnson, full of fierce energy, was — like a lot of politicians — full of ego.

How to make the best use of him? This was a problem for Kennedy. What would you have done if you were Kennedy? Probably what he did. It was a natural.

He found a way to keep Johnson happy while making use of him. He kept him busy.

Although Johnson had a severe heart attack in 1955, just a few weeks before President Eisenhower had him, he's been hitting a startling pace for months.

Then there was a lull, right after Kennedy and Johnson took office Jan. 20, when the vice president, with nothing much to do, seemed in total eclipse.

It didn't last long. Kennedy sent him on a 13,000-mile tour of Africa and Europe as a goodwill spreader.

In May he sent him on a 29,000-mile journey through Southeast Asia and the Middle East to spread more of the same.

And, since his return toward the end of May, Johnson has been in a dizzy spin of speech-making and reporting on his latest trip abroad.

For example: On the day he returned, May 24, he reported to Kennedy and then held a news conference for some public reporting.

That night he made a speech to the National Committee for Children and Youth. The next day he provided a fill-in for Kennedy's cabinet and, later the same day, for 57 senators.

At a big news conference May 26 he revealed that in Hong Kong he bought 82 shirts (4 pieces) for "those who traveled to Asia with him. On June 3 an aide denied Johnson had just bought a house here for $265,000 and said the cost was under $200,000.

On June 5 Johnson gave the House Foreign Affairs Committee such a hearty report on his trip that members called it thrilling, brilliant, wonderful.

One member even called him "the wonder boy of the age." Meanwhile: He addressed the graduating class at his alma mater, Southeast Texas State College; the senior class at Eastern Kentucky State College; and the graduating class at Gallaudet, the world's only college for the deaf.

On June 6 Johnson reportedly wowed the advertising council with the same meet-the-folks technique he had used in Asia. And Wednesday he gave the West Point graduating class a pep talk.

Whether or not Johnson accomplished anything on his journeys abroad remains to be seen. But if Kennedy was looking for a salesman, he found him.

can catch only a small amount, of the universal truth about God. God is the Creator, God is the Sustainer of the Universe. But most important of all, God is in our hearts. We do not know much about God. Certainly we do not know the whole truth about God, for such truth is too big for our minds. But we do know that God exists. We do have a revelation about Him suited to our minds and our environment here on this planet.

The responsibility laid upon us is that we take what we know about God and put this at the center of our lives. If we do this we will have done enough — in fact, we will have done that all which God requires in order that we come into the fullness of His purpose for us.

WE NEED TO PONDER
Where is God? Almost every parent has heard this query from a child. And incidentally it is the question which philosophers through the ages have been asking also. Where is God?

You may say that He is in heaven, but where is heaven? In all these matters we are, of course, dealing with realities too great for the human mind to compass. Eternity has no geography. Heaven probably exists apart from time and space. Try to think of something which has no geographical reality and does not exist in time and space. There you have a poser indeed.

The truth of the matter is that these little minds of ours

Labor's Painful Lesson

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The high tariff was a capitalistic device to build the new and infant industries of the United States. It was Alexander Hamilton, back in the days when George Washington was President, who wrote a report on manufacturers that laid the foundation for our national economic policies. The tariff was not devised only to bring money into the Treasury but even more to protect the industries from being drowned in a sea of imports.

In recent years, American management has sought foreign markets and has even exported capital and machinery abroad. However, the worker cannot export his job. He either works here or he is out of a job. This has given concern to many labor union officers who see their industries destroyed by the course of events. The tariff on the glass industry has since 1948 been cut from 60 per cent to 14.8 per cent with the result that the plate glass in the United States is undersold by European and Japanese producers who have gained about one-third of the domestic market.

Enoch R. Rust, International Second Vice President of the United Glass and Ceramic Workers, quotes the interesting statement of Rene Lambert, a Belgian producer of sheet glass: "American companies, not knowing when the strikes were going to be settled, placed orders and covered their requirements for an indefinite period with the foreign manufacturers and, consequently, imports continued at higher than normal level during the first nine months of 1960."

From the labor union standpoint this interferes with the union's ability to strike and therefore with its very existence. Of this Rust says: "When men hit the streets, they hope to win their fight because the struck company or industry can no longer turn out the goods they had been producing. Retail customers can't buy. Industrial customers can't buy and face the possibility of having to shut down their plants. And so they put pressure on the owners to meet workers' demands."

When, however, the goods can be picked up in Belgium or Japan per cent less than the American price, the strike in the United States becomes purposeless because the goods can be obtained elsewhere. From the standpoint of the labor union, the imported goods become a strike breaker.

This raises a great many questions of union membership, the standard of living of American workers, the sociological problems of unemployment or partial unemployment and so on. Some doubt the intensity of unemployment because they discount the factor of partial employment which can disturb the economics of a family as much as full employment.

According to Rust:
"Last year, 7,000,000 boxes of sheet glass were imported into the United States. That's the equivalent of 3,700,000 hours of lost work for American glass workers and approximately equal to the annual production of three United States sheet glass plants."

"Or to put it another way, if that sheet glass had been made in the United States, 1,900 sheet glass workers would have been employed to make it."
This is the gist of our present industrial problem. The economist wonders how a creditor nation can limit the import of goods from countries which seek dollars to pay their debts, whereas the American worker is beginning to wonder how he is to hold his job in competition with lower wages. To this query, he must add the factor of taxes.

This question cannot be solved by political argument because in a free country, the unemployed worker has a vote the same as the employed worker. He will not long tolerate conditions which produce unemployment. His family budget is based upon annual employment for at least forty hours a week. In the 1920's Soviet Russia solved such problems by liquidation but in this (Continued on page five)

Window-Shopping Sport

NEW YORK (AP)—Are you looking for a new hobby? Why not take up window shopping?

It is the most inexpensive hobby in the world. All you need to enjoy it are a pair of legs and a city to walk in. As the forest is a great window to the wonderful world of nature, so is the city a great window to the marvelous and intricate world of man.

A walk in the woods calms and soothes the human spirit, but a stroll through the city ignites and bestirs the human mind. It awakens in one a recognition of the tremendous complexity of civilization.

Look in the store windows of a single business block in any city of America and you can find displayed more gimcracks, tomfoolery and treasure than ever a pirate looted from a galleon sailing the fabled Spanish Main.

Some people window shop purely to find what they want. The real sport of window shopping, however, consists in gazing at things that other people may feel they need but you don't want and really wouldn't know what to do with if they came as a gift.

There are many ways to play the game of window shopping, but it is probably best played alone. No two people, however matched in taste, like to stand and stare for the same length of time at the same window.

You make up your own rules as you go along. One way is to start out with a mythical bankroll and see how long it takes you to spend it by mentally buying the gadgets in the windows.

There was a time when you could start out, say with a non-existent $100,000, and you'd have to walk two miles before you spent it.

Not any more. Today even a thrifty and bargain-seeking window shopper can set out with a million-dollar grubstake in his head and find it all gone in a block and a half in mid-Manhattan.

You buy a sports car here, a fur coat there, pause to purchase a yacht, a painting by Cezanne, and a diamond necklace or so, and long before your legs are weary you find yourself stone broke.

All you really need to enjoy the great sport of window shopping, wherever you walk, is an inquiring mind. You come back from such a jaunt healthier in body, richer in mind, and no poorer at all in pocketbook.

One of the nicest things about window shopping is that when you buy a yacht you don't have to pay the crew to staff it or pay the bills to store it in the winter. You merely sail it across serene seas in the eternal summer in your head.

We are dealing concretely with people who work for the Soviet Union and who want to overthrow the U. S. Government for the purpose of substituting that of the Soviet Union, our self-sworn enemy and would-be vanquisher.

How should such activity be defined? We are not presuming to speak for the Court here, (Continued on page five) labeling of party literature as Communist propaganda; also, registered members could be barred from Government or defense jobs. The validity of these consequences, however, can be tested in further Court cases.

And Justice Harlan's majority ruling still does not make Communist party membership of itself a crime, but only active membership knowingly advocating the violent overthrow of the Government. In fact, in a third case on the same day a conviction was reversed for insufficient evidence on just those charges.

We mention these points to indicate that the Court rulings are careful and considered, rather than broadsides against political liberty or even the Communist party. What has the Court actually said?

It has said in effect that the Communist party is an arm of the Soviet Union and is to be treated accordingly. It is only acknowledging the truth to label the party as such. If that turns out to mean members can't hold defense or Government jobs, we can restrain our tears.

No one has a Constitutional right to a Government job or any other kind of job, and it would seem an elementary precaution to try to keep Communists, of all people, out of Government and defense jobs. Would that the nation had been more successful in that respect in the past.

The Court has further said that active knowing advocacy of Government overthrow is a crime. Here it seems to us revealing to consider what kind of overthrow is involved. We are not dealing with some old-fashioned anarchist fringe, nor with some screwball neo-Nazi "party" with no foreign base.

Some of the dissenting justices, and others outside the Court, all this represents a break with tradition and a borrowing from totalitarian philosophy. It is argued, for example, that the Fifth Amendment ban on self-incrimination is violated by requiring registration of membership, since a Communist party member could then be prosecuted in the wake of the disclosure of membership. And it is argued that the possibility of criminal prosecution of political-party members violates the First Amendment's protection of free speech and assembly.

But, to be technical about it for a moment, Justice Frankfurter's majority ruling did not confront the consequences of registration. Under the law the Government can try not only to compel registration and disclosure of membership but also financial inspection and the disclosure of membership. And it is argued that the possibility of criminal prosecution of political-party members violates the First Amendment's protection of free speech and assembly.

Other Editors Saying Adhering To The Enemy

(Wall Street Journal)

Some say that two Supreme Court decisions on the U. S. Communist party this week jeopardize the American tradition of political liberty. But with all due respect to the reasoning of the dissenting justices, we believe it far-fetched to find such a threat in these rulings.

In one case the Court majority upheld the registration section of the Internal Security Act, under which the Government can require the party to register with it as a "Communist-action" organization, meaning one substantially directed by a foreign government controlling the world Communist movement.

In the other case the majority upheld the Constitutionality of the Smith Act provision making it a crime to be an active member of a party advocating the violent overthrow of the U. S. Government.

To some of the dissenting justices, and others outside the Court, all this represents a break with tradition and a borrowing from totalitarian philosophy. # Where Living Costs Run High

By ELMER ROESSNER

Some of the new African nations are the costliest places in the world to live, judging from the latest government schedules of per diem allowances.

Daily allowances are $28 in the Republic of Chad, the Republic of Dahomey, and Mali. They are $26 in the Central African Republic. But the highest living in the world appears to be in the Virgin Islands (formerly America's poorhouse) from December to April, when the official allowance is $30 a day.

Lowest rates are $6, applying in Afghanistan outside of Kabul, Burma outside Mandalay and Rangoon, Indonesia and Poland.

These government allowances are accepted by the Internal Revenue Service in substantiation of travel and business expenses of employees. For the complete list, send 20 cents to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D.C., and ask for Internal Revenue Bulletin, No. 1961-21.

OTHER CURIOUS ITEMS
Here are still more curious and useful bits of business news: Foreign car manufacturers are not surrendering the American market. A new model Austin Healy Sprite, called the cheapest true sports car ever being introduced and Volkswagen is stepping up its promotions.

The American exhibit at the Paris Trade Fair is said to have heightened French housewives' interest in frozen poultry, concentrated orange juice, precooked rice, instant nonfat dry milk, cakes mixes and other lazy products.

A Government best-seller is "Recreational Boating Guide," 40 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D.C.

"THE POWER TO TAX"
Since Michigan increased liquor taxes, the state lost $22 million in revenue and in one year Federal agents raided more stills than in six other northern states combined. After refusing to work Saturday afternoon, Manchester, England, dock workers demanded $3.20 in "disappointment money" because the work was not offered them on Sunday.

CAN EMPLOYEES BE TOO HEALTHY?
While most employers are worrying about the costs of carrying sick workers, Dr. Lawrence Hinkle, Associate Professor of Clinical Medicine at Cornell, suggests the well ones may be the worst liability.

People who enjoy conspicuous good health, he said, tend to be those who are concerned primarily with their own comfort and security. They won't let circumstances or people bother them, he found, because they are too busy concentrating on selfish goals. It is among the least healthy group, his studies indicated, that there are more strivers, those with strong creative urges and deep concern for others.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Ecclesiastes 1:12; 12; II Timothy 4:6-8

The writer of Ecclesiastes, thought to be Solomon, tells us that he, "the preacher," was once "king over Israel in Jerusalem." He exhorts young people to turn to God "before the evil days come."—Ecclesiastes 1:12; 12-1.

He cites the miseries of old age, when the legs shall tremble, the teeth fall out, the eyes be darkened. Death to him means "mourners in the streets." Man's whole purpose is to obey God's commandments.—Ecclesiastes 12.

St. Paul, writing after Christ brought the message of love to man, presents a more optimistic, happy picture, even though he is in prison under death sentence. "I am... ready to be offered," he writes.—II Timothy 4:6.

"I have fought a good fight... I have kept the faith: Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord... shall give me."—Timothy 4:7, 8. GOLDEN TEXT—II Timothy 4:7.

Two Views of Life THE THINGS TWO FAMOUS MEN FOUND WORTHWHILE IN LIFE

Scripture—Ecclesiastes 1:12; 12; II Timothy 4:6-8.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. IN THIS lesson we try to discover and compare how two men feel about the meaning of life and death. The two men are St. Paul and the writer of Ecclesiastes, who is held by most authorities to be Solomon. (He says he has been king of Israel and that he always seeks after wisdom.) St. Paul represents the New Testament view, after Christ's coming, while "the preacher" of Ecclesiastes personifies the best of Old Testament religion. The difference is subtle, but powerful. Ecclesiastes' preacher comes to the conclusion that the important thing in life is fearing God, and acting accordingly. In the Old Testament God is primarily a stern judge, ant joy it implies. Into Paul's world has come the redeeming grace of positive love, brought and taught by Christ. This love is returned by Paul, not only to Christ, but to his fellow men who "also love (God's) appearing." This difference pervades their outlook. The preacher warns of a gloomy future, of old age or doom, when "the keepers of the house" (perhaps an old man's legs) "shall tremble" and "the grinders" (teeth) "cease because they are few, and those that look out of the windows" (eyes) "be darkened." With death, for him, come mourners. Paul, on the other hand, looks upon his death as an offering to God. With it come not mourn-

Who shall "bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil" (Ecclesiastes 12:14). This preacher is reminiscent of the righteous, but joyless, Puritan fathers. Contrast the tone of the passage by Paul in his second letter to Timothy. Paul writes, as if we were, from under the executioner's sword—and he knows that his death is sure and imminent. He is far closer to death than the Old Testament "preacher," yet he is happier. Like the preacher, he is concerned with his responsibility to live a righteous life. Yet there is something more in Paul's view, something which makes his philosophy more profound, and raises it to the radiers, but celebrants; he will have "a crown of righteousness." Furthermore, Paul seems sure of himself, of his past and of the goodness of his future. His is a voice of faith rather than of admonition. There is a note of weariness in the words of both speakers. The preacher's weariness is one of sophistication—one which has seen and known everything and accounts it all to no avail other than to keep God's commandments. Paul's weariness, however, is one of a good job well done. He believes that "the whole duty of man" is more outgoing than keeping the letter of God's commandments, for he exhorts Timothy to "preach the word," to spread God's commandments.

TV Series Cutting Off Plot, Life Lines

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP TV—Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP)—In the uncertain world of television, it is the usual practice to wind up a series merely by stooping—no last gathering up of loose ends, no farewell scenes. Often this is a bit mystifying to the viewer because it is also network practice never to announce the demise of one series, but merely to herald the birth of a new one. This system is handy because sometimes a discarded series suddenly pops back onto the screen again. This season, for instance, two did just that—"Happy" and "One Happy Family"—and they were able to pick up where they had suddenly left off with no trouble at all. Producers of ABC's "Guestward Ho," however, are cutting all their plot- and life-lines with the final program of the season (except, of course, for the inevitable re-runs). In the June 23 show, the young married city couple give up trying to run a dude ranch, the situation which was supposed to produce the laughs. Saddled by debt, they return to New York where our hero has a job waiting in an advertising agency. Obviously "Guestward Ho" can never come back now. Nobody ever writes TV situation comedy series about Madison Avenue: That is a subject for variety show sketches. Remember Lynn Dollar, the blonde girl who calmly shepherded nervous contestants around the stage in the hey-day of "The $64,000 Question?" Lynn left the program for mmootherhood before the quiz show roof fell in, and later resumed her TV career as a weather-girl on New York station WNBC. Now Lynn is busy working behind the scenes and behind the cameras. She has teamed up with an actress-singer named Narissa Nickel. They run a counselling service called Career Coordinators and their job is to launch ambitious performers on theatrical careers.

ENGLISH FARM FAMILY McGraw-Hill, 1952, 14 min., sr, color—In viewing the daily life of a manager of a dairy farm in Oxfordshire and his family, an understanding is obtained of scientific farming in England and the effect of new national conditions on British home life. Fishing offers sport to the expert or amateur. There is even a plainly marked fishing hole for children with a flair for independence. (Continued from page four) country it is not possible to liquidate workers because they object to unemployment. In fact, the Soviet labor union is an instrument of the government and the Communist Party, and therefore exists more to discipline the worker rather than to defend him. This then is our most serious domestic problem we face and it does not seem possible that it can be solved without protecting American prices within the United States. On the other hand, this country has made numerous commitments against a high protective tariff. Here is an obvious conflict between a social and a political solution to a very serious economic problem.

Pied Piper Of The 30s Amazed By Reception

By BOB THOMAS
ANNAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—Can B. G. make it with another generation?
You'd think so, watching Benny Goodman swing out at Disneyland. Such excitement hasn't been seen since the '30s, when the famed pied piper led America into a whole new world of music.
"It's amazing," says Benny, obviously pleased with this new turn in his long career.

He recently organized a big band composed of a few oldtimers but mostly young musicians. The first date was Disneyland over Memorial Day weekend, the first booking of a name attraction at the park.

The results were sensational. Crowds packed 20 deep before the bandstand and couples were jitterbugging — not rocking, not rolling — jitterbugging.

One of the amazed observers was Walt Disney himself. He told me: "Benny said it was just like the old days. His manager kept looking at his watch and warning Benny that he was going over time. 'Don't worry—I'll pay for it,' Benny said, and he played 30 minutes longer."

B. G. was back on the bandstand last weekend, and I came on a sentimental journey to catch his music. It was indeed like the old days. Benny played the licorice stick with the same facile style, and the crowd cheered every solo.

Still youthful at 52, Benny bounced and grinned as he lead the numbers. They were strictly vintage stuff—"Sing, Sing, Sing," "Jumping at the Woodside," "And The Angels Sing," "One O'Clock Jump," etc. The youngsters ate it up. And for us ex-rug cutters—wow!

President Is Following His Doctor's Orders

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy, just like any other good patient, today minded doctor's orders and gave a heated salt water swimming pool his No. 1 priority.

Kennedy's personal physician, Dr. Janet Travell, has prescribed plenty of swimming in warm water for the President's aching back.

An excellent swimmer since boyhood, Kennedy found the pool Kennedy flew here from Washington Thursday afternoon within 15 minutes.

Now Sees Hope Of Disarmament

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said Thursday he considers some progress in disarmament possible now that President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev have met.

"I am now confident that in the next few years controlled disarmament can come about," the chancellor said in a speech. "We must be firm and move ahead in unity with the free peoples of the West."

Painter Learns By Riding Broncs

OJINAGA, Mexico (AP)—Hugh Cabot of the Boston Cabots has been painting cowboys and their mounts for several years.

Cabot has lived in Fort Stockton and Marfa, Tex., since the Korean War, and more lately in Taos, N.M.
The other day he decided a man cannot really draw bucking broncs until he rides one. So Cabot entered a bronc riding competition here this month.

The result: A special award for effort and two broken ribs.
"I also gained a greater understanding of broncs," the painter said. "Also a greater respect for them."

Head Of State Wears Cassock

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Fulbert Youlou of the republic of Congo (Brazzaville) wore the black wool cassock of the Roman Catholic priest as he arrived here Thursday on an official visit.

Youlou was ordained a priest in 1946, and served as a parish priest until 1955, when he became interested in politics. Two years later he was elected to the Congo Assembly. He still likes to be called Abbe Youlou, although the church no longer permits him to officiate at its rites.

NEEDED IT BAD
CHICAGO (AP)—Everett Jackson, 25, a truck driver seized following the $1,000 holdup of a YMCA hotel Thursday, told police he had never done such a thing before, but added: "I needed $111 in a hurry to pay my income tax."

Crayton Strikes Out 19 For Another NAIA Victory

By ROY MARTIN
Reflector Sports Writer
SIoux CITY, Iowa—Pint-sized Larry Crayton, hurling with one day's rest, struck out 19 batters here last night, setting a new NAIA record for strikeouts as the East Carolina Pirates rolled to their third straight NAIA tournament victory, 9-4, over Grambling College of Grambling, La.

Cheers, Congratulations For Bucs For Stellar Show

By ROY MARTIN
Reflector Sports Writer
SIoux CITY, Iowa—The men's dormitory at Morning Side College was in an uproar last night. The halls were filled with players congratulating players. Handshakes, slaps on the back and all of those receiving the congratulatory salutations were the Purple and Gold of the East Carolina Pirates.

The boys from Greenville and their coach were broad grins as they hashed and re-hashed the game which had just been concluded in Soos Stadium. In the center of the group, "replaying the game" the loudest, was a young pitcher who had just set a new NAIA tournament record by striking out 19 opposing batters. This young pitcher was Larry Crayton.

beat." Crayton, who pitched last night's game with only one day's rest, commented as to how he felt at the end of last night's contest, saying, "I was beat. But I have never been happier."

When East Carolina took the field in the bottom of the 9th inning, and as Crayton began striking out the last three Grambling batters—one by one—the lanky Pirate coach slowed his pacing and his facial expression was a wide grin.

When the final Grambling batter had gone down before the rapid-fire pitching of Crayton, Mallory appeared the most relieved man on earth.

Should East Carolina defeat the Indians tonight, they will move into the finals Saturday night against the winner of the Sacramento-Grambling game to be played at 6 p.m.

"I was raw courage at its best," declared Mallory. "We had a man pitching on one day's rest, and a pitcher playing left field. It was just raw courage."

Mallory had praise for the club which his charges had just sent to their first tournament defeat, 9-4. "People have no idea just what a tremendous ball club Grambling has. They have the highest team batting average in the nation. They have more stolen bases and have scored more runs than any other team in the nation. They are just tremendous."

Should the Bucs be defeated, they will still have a crack at the finals by a flip of a coin between the three remaining teams. The winner of the coin toss will receive a bye, while the other two teams will battle for the final spot.

As far as the national championship is concerned, and the chances for the Pirates to bring back to Greenville the coveted trophy, Crayton said, "I think our chances are really good. The boys are really up for it after this win, and I think we will be hard to

Danny Told'em It Would Happen

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When you look at the National League standings today, don't forget Danny Murtaugh told you so.

When East Carolina took the field in the bottom of the 9th inning, and as Crayton began striking out the last three Grambling batters—one by one—the lanky Pirate coach slowed his pacing and his facial expression was a wide grin.

Should the Bucs be defeated, they will still have a crack at the finals by a flip of a coin between the three remaining teams. The winner of the coin toss will receive a bye, while the other two teams will battle for the final spot.

Now he's beginning to relish one of his few public forecasts. Murtaugh was sitting in his dugout when his prediction occurred to him.

After all he did get the verdict over a plumpish Moore in a non-title ten in Rome last Oct. 29 and he has carefully scrutinized films of Archie's losing heavyweight title fights with Rocky Marciano and Floyd Patterson.

"I think I can," he said via an interpreter. "Maybe it will take me seven or eight rounds but I think I can stop him."

"A lotta people thought I was crazy," he said, "but I've been saying all along I thought there'd be six clubs in this thing. And I still think it's going to be a heluva race."

Murtaugh looked even more like a prophet Thursday night, when his Pirates knocked the Los Angeles Dodgers out of first place by beating them 4-2 on two-run homers by Bob Skinner and Bill Mazeroski.

The challenger is as optimistic as any husky, youngster of 26 should be at the prospect of fighting a guy 44, or more.

"The only reason I counted even two clubs out," Murtaugh said later, "was that I figured the Cubs and the Phillies were in the middle of a rebuilding program."

After all he did get the verdict over a plumpish Moore in a non-title ten in Rome last Oct. 29 and he has carefully scrutinized films of Archie's losing heavyweight title fights with Rocky Marciano and Floyd Patterson.

But the big question won't be answered by Giulio. It's all up to Archie. If old age doesn't catch up to him in one swoop—like it very well could—he's apt to blast the strong but light-powered Italian out of action in three rounds.

"Actually, you can't count anybody out because all those players who the Cubs or Phillies might just decide to have a good year all at once."

Just Like World Series Victory

BALTIMORE (AP)—It was like a World Series victory in June.

After all he did get the verdict over a plumpish Moore in a non-title ten in Rome last Oct. 29 and he has carefully scrutinized films of Archie's losing heavyweight title fights with Rocky Marciano and Floyd Patterson.

But the big question won't be answered by Giulio. It's all up to Archie. If old age doesn't catch up to him in one swoop—like it very well could—he's apt to blast the strong but light-powered Italian out of action in three rounds.

As soon as center fielder Bill Tuttle caught a fly ball for the final out, Minnesota infielders rushed to shake pitcher Chuck Stobbs' hand. Others poured from the dugout to join in the backslapping.

Shortstop Zorro Versalles tossed his glove into the air and headed into a happy dressing room — for a change.

Tuttle's catch Thursday night not only ended a bases-loaded threat by the Baltimore Orioles. It preserved a 3-1 Minnesota victory and ended a 13-game losing streak by the Twins.

Cleveland, Detroit Split Twin Bill In Close Games

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Cleveland Indians, their war whoop choked off by Detroit right-hander Frank Lary, and the second game Tigers still are just a half-game apart after splitting one-run decisions in as dandy a duel as you could want in their showdown for the American League lead.

Third-place New York also divided a twin-night pair and stayed three games back of Cleveland. The Yankees beat Kansas City 6-1, but the A's bounced back 9-6 in the second game. Minnesota finally shrugged off its losing streak at 13 games and escaped the cellar with a 3-1 victory at Baltimore. Boston beat Los Angeles 6-5 in the first game of a twin-night doubleheader, pushing the Angels back to the bottom.

The Cleveland protest came in the eighth. While Detroit Manager Bob Scheffing was arguing that Cleveland's Bob Hale should have been called out at first base, the Tigers caught Hale off base. The Indians protested on grounds that time was out while Scheffing was on the field.

The Injuns, once again sending up smoke signals to the bullpen for a saving relief job by Frank Funk, won their 10th in a row in the opener of the four-game series with a 1-0 victory in the first game of a twin-night doubleheader at Detroit Thursday night. But Lary, Detroit's ace, then became the first pitcher to win nine in the majors this season with a protested, 2-1 decision in the night-

Bill Skowron drove in four runs for the Yankees in the first game, two with an eighth-inning homer that gave New York 32 home runs, an AL record, for 17 consecutive games. Rookie Bill Stafford (3-2) won with a five-hitter against the A's and Norm Bass (4-3), Southpaw rookie Jim Archer (3-1) then ended the home run string and cut the Yankees' winning streak at six in the nightcap. The A's beat Danny McDevitt (1-2), coming from behind in a five-run third on a double by Hank Bauer and three consecutive triples, by Lee Posada, Norm Siebern and Joe Pignatano.

A two-run homer by Billy Martin in the third inning off Jack Fisher (2-7) gave the Twins their second victory in the last 20 games. Jim Kaat (2-5) won it when reliever Chuck Stobbs, retired Jim Busby with the bases loaded in the ninth.

Collection Of Champions For Relays In Houston
HOUSTON (AP)—The Meet of Champions — a track meet with stars aplenty — puts several national and world records in danger today.
The long entry list includes five performers who have world records either in their pockets or pending certification. There are an even dozen Olympians from three countries and five collegiate champs entered.
The chances of breaking a world record are strong — especially in the pole vault where Don Bragg, the current champ, meets his heir apparent, George Davies, in their first showdown.
Bragg has his vault of 15 feet 9 1/4 inches in the book now. Davies, a sophomore at Oklahoma State, has a vault of 15 feet 10 1/4 inches pending.
Ralph Boston, the Tennessee State lad with a broad jump record of 27 feet 1-3 inch pending; John Thomas of Boston University, holder of the high jump record; and Don Styrton of Southern Illinois are the other record performers in the meet.

Afrikaners' Dream Realized, But Nightmare Nearby

EXPERIENCE TEACHES—Veteran coin collector Cecil Moore explains his collection of 1877 proof nickels to young Jim Hines at hobby exhibit in Orlando, Fla. Moore owns half of the two dozen U.S. proof nickels of that year known to be in existence.

EDITOR'S NOTE—The writer of this analysis was for three years chief of the AP bureau in South Africa. Later his coverage of the 1960 crisis in the Congo won the Pulitzer Prize for international reporting. He is now on a tour of Africa.

By LYNN HEINZERLING
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The Afrikaners have made their dream come true, but it would not take much to turn that dream into a nightmare. Today South Africa is on its own. Dr. Hendrik Verwoerd, the granite-like prime minister, heads a republic that has cut all its historic ties to Britain.

But much of the world condemns this government's treatment of 13 million nonwhites, distrusts its economic stability and has misgivings about its future.

In fact, a large segment of the outside world, including the Communist bloc and many nations of black Africa, are solemnly dedicated to its overthrow. Verwoerd's first utterance as prime minister of the republic recognized the creeping sense of isolation in South Africa.

"The republic of South Africa is the only sure and stable friend the Western nations have in Africa," he said.

To many it seems only historic justice that the Afrikaners, who outnumber the English-speaking whites of South Africa should achieve the completely independent republic the Dutch, German and French ancestors fought and died for.

But for others a republic founded by 3 million whites—without even consulting 11 million blacks, 1 1/2 million colored of mixed ancestry and 500,000 Indians, resident in the country but without political rights—is of questionable validity.

The Dutch settlers landed here more than three centuries ago. They and the industrially wise English pioneers who came in the early 19th Century with their descendants, have built the richest economy on the African continent. They have done it with the aid of cheap black and brown labor.

Verwoerd's theory of apartheid of separate development for the nonwhite population in reserves of Bantu homelands is raising increasing doubts among apprehensive whites in South Africa. Even in his own National party, Afrikaner intellectuals have expressed distaste for the rigid policy of color separation and called for some form of consultation and cooperation with responsible nonwhite leaders.

But the Nationalist government has refused to budge. Verwoerd holds that one concession will be the first step on the road to another Congo.

Nonwhite leaders know their most important weapon. It is the work stoppage, the stay-at-home as it is known here, where strikes by nonwhites are illegal. An effort to employ it at the end of May failed too bring about any serious dislocation of industry or business.

But it was far from a failure. The government knows that South Africa can not afford another Sharpeville. World reaction to the killing of 67 Africans there in March, 1960, made a deep impression here. It also scared the capital markets of the world. Reserves of gold and foreign assets have fallen to the lowest they have been since 1958.

The threat of a full-scale strike and possibly another Sharpeville, when the republic was proclaimed, threw the government into near panic. Police all over the country were mobilized. There was a partial army mobilization and some reservists were called up.

Meetings were banned for a week. Thousands of nonwhites were taken into temporary custody.

The result in frayed nerves and uncertainty was such that South African whites do not want to contemplate this as a permanent way of life.

I some dynamic leader threatened such a dislocation every month the new republic could have a full-scale crisis on its hands.

South Africa is often described as a police state. This is not true. Although free assembly is banned under the current emergency, there is no censorship of the press or outgoing dispatches. The courts are independent and highly respected. The Parliament is controlled by the Nationalists, but there is highly critical and vivid opposition to government policy.

Many of South Africa's cities and towns would fit easily into the U. S. Middle West. There is a good road system, and excellent internal airline and adequate railroad service.

There are excellent game reserves, parks, theaters, supermarkets and department stores.

But this is a white man's view of the country. For the black man it is a different proposition. He lives in segregated locations, in a shack on a white man's farm or in the mud hut of his ancestors in a reserve.

It is a deeply religious nation, but its whites believe, as their ancestors believed, that a non-white is inferior, destined to live apart.

Nonetheless a change in the atmosphere is becoming evident.

South Africans who a year ago would have followed Verwoerd's apartheid policy to the letter are having a second thought. Verwoerd has come under increasing pressure to consult with responsible representatives of the nonwhites. Members of his own party feel that if the pressures at home are not sufficient to persuade him economic pressure from abroad eventually will prevail.

Henry A. Fagan, one of the most respected of Afrikaners and former chief justice of South Africa, has urged consultation with nonwhite groups and an intensive study under government auspices of the question of political representation.

In a message to the nonwhites he said: "We shall eventually have to make friends and come to a peaceful understanding."

These are liberal sentiments in South Africa.

Church-State Struggle Facing Climax In July

By GEORGE BOUTWOOD

BERLIN (AP)—The struggle between the Protestant church and the Communist regime of East Germany will reach a new peak in July.

The church has scheduled its annual mass rally in divided Berlin for July 19-23 and the Communists are doing their utmost to wreck it.

Half a million of the church's members attended the rally, known as the Kirchentag, in Munich last year. An equally large turnout could be expected next month.

But the Communists have made it plain they will do all they can to prevent East German members getting to Berlin.

They may also interfere with free travel to surrounded Berlin by barring church leaders from West Germany coming by road or rail. They have done this before when meetings of which they disapproved were held in the divided city.

The struggle is over the unity of the Evangelical church. Groups of member churches are federated in one body which straddles the iron curtain. The biggest group, the Church of the Union, which formerly covered the area of Prussia, now stretches from the Oder River in the Communist East to the Rhine in the free West.

The Communist regime doesn't like this. It wants for East Germany a separate church leadership. So it is campaigning to split the church in two by obstructing unified meetings of members from East and West.

To justify their opposition the Communists have slapped a political label on the rally.

They claimed East Germans were being lured to West Berlin to become pawns in the cold war. They called the organizers "militarists and revenge seekers," claiming the Kirchentag was under the patronage of North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

So far the Communists have confiscated church papers announcing the date of the Kirchentag, vetoed meetings in East Berlin and warned East Germans not to try to get to West Berlin to take part.

The church has made one concession to this pressure. It has advised serving members of the West German armed forces not to come to Berlin to take part.

Debt Continues Climb, Another Spurt Likely

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Debt continues to mount, if jerkily. The recession slowed the increase of the total of private debt. But there's a good chance today that both public and private debt are ready for another spurt.

Since World War II, total debt and national income have kept pretty closely in step with each other—speeding up in boom times and slowing down in recessions—but over-all advancing steadily. This is particularly true of corporate and personal debt, and as long as it moves along in step with income, most people won't get too excited.

The total of public and private net debt stood at a record $883 billion at the start of the year, a gain of $37 billion in 12 months. The various forms of government owed $301 billion, corporations were in hock by $295 billion and individuals and unincorporated enterprises by $287 billion. All three types of debt had risen in 1960, although much of the year was a recession period.

The gross national product for the year—that is, the dollar total of goods and services produced—was $503.2 billion, a gain of $21.1 billion in the year. This, too, wasn't bad for a period called disappointing in terms of earlier predictions.

But the recession did slow the growth of corporate and individual debt, and the increase in gross national product, also.

Individuals continued to pull in their horns during the early months of 1961, a fairly rare occurrence since the end of the war. Installment debt totals fell in January, February and April, and had only a slight rise in March.

The total is now about level with last September, although still above a year ago.

The recession also slowed borrowing by corporations. Plans for expansion were pared. This cut down the need for funds for building plants or buying equipment.

Also, business drew back from building up stocks and tended to live off those on hand. The need for funds to carry inventories dropped way down.

Those two factors left many corporations in position to finance the ordinary operation of their business largely out of cash on hand.

But in all three sectors—government, corporate and individual—the signs today are for an increased borrowing pace.

Had High Score In Entrance Exam

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Officials at the all-white University of South Florida have declined comment on the application of a Negro youth who passed his college entrance examinations with a score of 492 out of a possible 495.

The youth, Ernest Boger, 16, graduated as valedictorian of his Blake High School class this month.

A school counselor, Walter Turner, said Boger received a scholarship to Fisk University, a Negro school at Nashville, Tenn., when he was only 14. However, he turned it down because of his age.

Since that time, Turner said, the youth has received offers of four other scholarships.

Turner said Boger wished to study chemical engineering at UAF, located at Tampa, because it would mean a large saving to his family.

Bulk Of Actor's Estate To Widow

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gary Cooper bequeathed the bulk of his estate, valued in excess of $1 million, to his widow Veronica. The actor also made provision for lifetime care for his mother.

The screen star died of cancer May 13. His will, filed for probate Thursday, made these other bequests:

Ten thousand dollars to the Motion Picture Relief Fund; $5,000 each to a brother, Arthur, of Indio, Calif., a nephew, Howard Cooper, and a niece, Georgia Burton of Marion, Ohio; and $1,000 to Our Lady of Gethsemane Abbey, Louisville, Ky.

Offer Reward For 3 Sea Lions

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—There's a $150 reward out—$50 per head—for the capture of three sea lions who fled the Ocean Pier.

The three were among five who arrived from California Wednesday to serve as tourist attractions. They slipped out of a special cage into the Atlantic Ocean Thursday.

READY!

Newspaper Advertising Readers Are Ready To Buy!

Newspaper readers are attracted to your advertising because it interests them. They are more apt to be live, "ready-to-buy" prospects than is the case with readers and viewers of other advertising media.

Live prospects are easier to sell. They actually shop the newspaper ads—they want to be sold, and are looking for information to help make a buying decision. Take housewives, for example—research* proves that 75% of them check the ads in the daily newspaper before making their main shopping trips of the week.

It's that kind of readiness on the part of newspaper readers that can mean ready sales for you!

Wooten Moves To Enlarge Houses In N.C. Assembly

A bill to enlarge the membership in both the House and Senate was introduced by Pitt Rep. Frank M. Wooten in the General Assembly Thursday.

Wooten's bill, signed by some 15 House members, would amend the State Constitution to increase the House membership from 120 to 150 and enlarge the Senate from 50 to 60 seats.

The Pitt representative's bill was viewed as another stab at solving the problem of legislative representation, undergoing shifting because of 1960 census figures that showed a shift in the population of the state.

Under the Wooten bill, no county would have more than two senators regardless of its population. It would leave the state's present senatorial districts intact.

Wooten said that in addition to those signing the bill, several others have agreed to support it.

Under the provision, Buncombe, Mecklenburg, Forsyth, Gaston and Wake Counties would be given two senators each instead of one.

The remaining five extra senators would be allocated as follows: 16th District (Alamance and Orange Counties) would have two senators instead of one; 10th District (Bladen, Brunswick, Columbus and Cumberland Counties) would have three senators instead of two; 28th District (Alexander, Burke and Caldwell Counties) would have two senators instead of one; and 32nd District (Haywood, Henderson, Jackson, Polk and Transylvania Counties) would elect two senators instead of one. Pitt, a single-county district, would retain its seat in the Senate.

Under the bill, Guilford and Mecklenburg Counties would have seven House members each; Forsyth and Wake, five each; Buncombe and Cumberland, four each; Durham and Gaston, three each; and Pitt, Alamance, Cabarrus, Catawba, Cleveland, Craven, Davidson, Halifax, Iredell, Johnston, Lenoir, Nash, New Hanover, Onslow, Randolph, Robeson, Rockingham, Rowan, Wayne and Wilson, all two each. Other counties would have one each.

Reveal Nasser Is Denounced By Soviet Premier

CAIRO (AP) — The newspaper Al Ahran reported today that Soviet Premier Khrushchev bitterly attacked President Nasser's suppression of communism in the United Arab Republic and predicted Nasser's downfall unless he embraces communism.

The report said Khrushchev on May 3 told a delegation from the U.A.R. National Assembly visiting Moscow: "If our people are living a better life than yours under the banner of communism, how can you declare you are against communism?"

"Your people will ask you to step aside and demand they handle their own affairs."

The Soviet press recently has been demanding that the communist party be allowed to operate in the U.A.R. It has been bitterly attacking — Nasser's government for jailing local Communists.
