Bloxam Explains Safety Measure In Placing Poles Down Middle Of Elm St.

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor

Safety is the main reason utilities poles are being installed down the center of the improved Elm St. Utilities Director Leonard Bloxam told commission members last night. He said the city had decided to use the full 100 foot right of way in front of Rose High School. This was done to afford a 12 foot median strip separating the dual lanes. Bloxam said city officials had conferred with the State Highway Commission in designing the new street. They recommended the median strip for the safety of school children who will walk across the street. Since this 12-foot median strip, along with four adequate traffic lanes and parking lanes took the entire 100 feet of right-of-way—there was no room left along the side for the poles, the director explained. He indicated there had been calls from citizens suggesting that the system should go underground. "It was never intended to put the distribution system underground," he stated. Cost of such a project would be prohibitive, he continued, since the line is a main feeder across town. Another problem to be considered was adequate street light in front of the high school. Bloxam said the poles in the median strip would mean that street lights could be center mounted. If the poles were alongside of the street additional poles would have to be installed on the opposite side for street lighting purposes. "It looks like the dickens now, I'll be the first to admit," Bloxam continued. However, he said, he had seen similar installations in Charlotte and other cities. "After you get the median strip built up and shrubbery and grass, it doesn't look anywhere near as bad as it does now," he declared. "I believe this. If the citizens will be patient with us I think they will be surprised at the improvement we will make." Sewer Plant Inspected Bloxam also reported that the sewage disposal plant and interceptor line have been inspected by Federal authorities and found satisfactory to this point. He reported the purchase of a Falcon from Jenkins Motor Co. as a replacement vehicle. The price was $1,275. A second bid received was $1,333.94 for a Corvair from White Chevrolet Co. The commission last night adopted a new water rate schedule primarily affecting the tap on fees. A three fourth inch tap fee was set at $75, raised from $65. One inch water tap was raised from $75 to $100, one and a half inch tap was raised from $125 to $300 and two inch tap was raised from $325 to $600. Taps larger than two inch will be the cost of labor and material plus ten percent. These new rates will be doubled when the tap is made outside the city limits. Director Bloxam explained that the tapping fees are merely a break even affair for the Utilities Commission. Sewer tap fees remain the same — $65 within the city limits and $130 out of town. The water rates remain essentially the same with the exception of an additional category. The first 400 cubic feet per month will cost the minimum bill of $1.50. The next 2,000 cubic feet will cost 20 cents per 100 cubic feet. The next 10,000 cubic feet will cost 15 cents per 100 cubic feet and the next 10,000 feet will cost 10 per 100 cubic feet. Water consumption in excess of 22,400 cubic feet is to cost 8 cents per 100 cubic feet. Previously the 20,000 cubic feet in excess of 2,400 had been sold for 10 cents per 100 cubic feet.

Bloodmobile Visit Fell 20 Pints Shy

A total of 220 pints of blood was collected by the bloodmobile during its two-day visit here this week. The total was just 20 pints short of the quota of 240 pints. Bloodmobile officials were particularly pleased that 113 pints were given as replacements for blood used by Pitt Countians in various hospitals. This collection is the best that the chapter has ever had on replacements, it was reported. In all, 262 people appeared to give blood, but 42 were rejected for various reasons. The following organizations contributed to the bloodmobile: Greenville Moose Lodge, 24; Lions Club, 20; V.F.W. Auxiliary, 20; Women of the Moose, 18; Voice of America, 20; Winterville, 10; Jaycees, nine; Pilot Club, three; Greenville Service League, 13; Fieldcrest Mills, four; City Union Usher Board, one; American Legion, nine; Civitan Club, one; Selective Service, one; Kiwanis Club, seven; Optimist Club, two; Greenville Newcomers Club, eight; Jay-C-Ettes, eight; Greenville Street Dept., 17; Eppes High School, three; Rotary Club, two; State Highway Dept., three. Leftists Protest Adlai's Arrival

By MAX HARRELSON SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Chilean Communists unleashed an open attack on the United States today as Adlai E. Stevenson conferred with high government officials about a program to raise Latin-American living standards. Following up the smashing of windows in the U.S. Information Agency by a handful of leftists Tuesday night, the Communist newspaper El Siglo called for more demonstrations and demanded that President Kennedy's special representative go home. El Siglo said Stevenson was one of the authors of the ill-fated April invasion of Cuba. It carried a front-page story and pictures of the Santiago demonstrators as well as the editorial attacking Stevenson. In the most hostile incident so far of Stevenson's South American tour, about 30 demonstrators paraded through the streets of Santiago, chanting "Cuba si, Yanqui no." They rushed the USIA office, shattering plate glass windows with long poles. The lone policeman on duty arrested one demonstrator, but the rest escaped, leaving behind a banner saying "Go home." The demonstrators were Communists. Otherwise, Stevenson's reception was warm and friendly. Crowds of several hundred greeted him at the airport and at the hotel where he is staying in the heart of Santiago.

Wooten's Bill For Realignment Clears Hurdle RALEIGH (AP)—A bill offering a new approach to the problem of legislative reapportionment and redistricting was approved Tuesday by the House Senatorial Districts Committee. The measure, introduced by Rep. Frank Wooten of Pitt, would amend the state constitution to increase the House membership from 120 to 150 and the Senate from 50 to 60. If approved by the Legislature, the proposal would have to be submitted to a vote of the people. Under the measure, no county could ever have more than two senators. The state's two largest counties, Mecklenburg and Forsyth, would be given seven House members each. Mecklenburg, Forsyth and Guilford would get two senators each. Meanwhile, calendar committees were appointed in both houses as the drive pushed on toward final adjournment Saturday. Calendar committees are customarily named in the closing days of the session to handle the functions of regular committees in considering bills. Rep. A. A. Zillioff of Vance was named chairman of the House Calendar Committee and Sen. Lunsford Crew of Halifax will head the Senate group. Sen. Wills Hancock introduced a bill dealing with the issue of Senate representation. The measure would require the renegotiation of early in 1964 of rotation agreements under which counties take turns in electing senators to which their district is entitled. The Senate Insurance Committee approved a House-passed bill that would allow the setting up of a safe driver reward plan. Sen. Tom White of Lenoir introduced a bill that would authorize the employment of special personnel to investigate and prosecute persons accused of bribery attempts and the "fixing" of athletic contests. The Senate and House passed a resolution inviting President Kennedy to take part in dedication of Bennett House near Durham.

Grifton Board Tentatively Approves $65,000 Budget

GRIFTON—A tentative budget of $65,000 for 1961-62 was approved by the Grifton Town Board last night, representing an $10,500 increase over last year's budget of $54,500. Included in the budget were an increase in the tax from $1.60 to $1.70 per $100 valuation, salary increases for some town employees and increases in water and sewer rates. The tax increase of 10 cents per $100 valuation was recommended by Mayor Wiley Gaskins and approved by members of the board, meeting in regular session. Mayor Gaskins also recommended increases in water and sewer rates as follows: Water rates are to increase from $2.50 to $3.50 per month for people living inside the city limits; and a 50 percent increase above the town rate, for those customers living outside the city limits. The increase for the latter would amount to $5.25 per month, compared to the $4 per month people have been paying. Town Clerk

Joyce McCoy explained. The sewer rate will increase 50 cents to $1.00 per month per customer. The above rate increases were approved by the Town Board members, who specified that rate increases in the water program will stand until a metered system comes into use. Increases in salaries were recommended by Mayor Gaskins and approved by the board as follows: Louis Dixon, utilities, increase of two cents per hour; William Phillips, utilities, increase of five cents per hour; Morris Wall, utilities, increase of $2.50 per week; Edward Earl Hudson, Police Department, $2.50 per week; Chief of Police Luther Lewis, increase of $2.50 per week; Town Clerk Joyce McCoy, increase of four dollars per week; Mrs. Hazel Bright, librarian, increase of $10 per month; A. M. Hooper, parttime, granted a $10 traveling expense per month; Judge of Recorder's Court, increase of $15 per month.

The salary increases will become effective as of July 1, this year. The budget had included an appropriation of $750 for the Grifton Public Library, but Town Board members increased this appropriation to $850 after hearing a request from the Library Committee. It was noted that the library appropriation for the past year, which was its first year of operation on the town budget, was $600. The Library Committee appeared at the meeting and asked that their budget be increased to $828. The board granted the request plus added funds, making the appropriation $850. The General Fund, which includes such items as administration, general government, police and fire departments, recreation and street work, amounted to some $34,550 in the new budget, compared to an appropriation of $29,700 last year. Street Maintenance and Construction of Powell Bill funds in the new budget was $5,000, compared to $4,500 for last year. Operating Expense for the Water Department will be the same as it was last year, $4,200. Capital Expenditures, water department, increased from $1,800 for last year to $4,500 in the new budget. Another increase was noted in the Debt Service Expense, which includes bond interest, retirement and handling charges, from $14,300 last year to $16,750 for this year. The increase mainly is due to the recently approved bond issue for water and sewer projects in Grifton. Mrs. McCoy explained the actual increase is more than appears in the figures for Debt Service Increase, since a $3,000 note included in the 1960-61 budget has been paid and will not recur this year. Anticipated revenues total $65,000, based on the $1.70 tax rate and other items. In other business, members learned the Recorder's Court balance for May was $465.57. The library reported 568 books issued during May. The Police Department reported 17 arrests, and 17 found guilty in courts.

Grim Prospect As Peace Talks Fold

By ANDREW BOROWIEC EVIAN-LES-BAINS, France (AP)—Indefinite adjournment of the French-Algerian peace talks raised the grim prospect today of increased bloodshed in Algeria. The first solid effort to end the 6½-year war in the North African territory broke down Tuesday when the French delegation called for a "reflection period" of 10 to 15 days, apparently hoping that the exiled rebel regime in Tunis would ease its tough, no-compromise stand. No date was set for the talks to resume. The impression after three weeks of tense, strenuous meetings was that the negotiations were not likely to resume in the foreseeable future. Louis Joxe, French minister for Algerian affairs, heading the French negotiators, indicated his government had enough of the rebel insistence on getting all their demands and their refusal to even open an avenue to compromise. Joxe said the risk of continuing the talks in the prevailing atmosphere "was too great." It was useless, he said, "to clash all the time, to continue the sterile encounters."

The rebels moved promptly to reap benefits from world opinion because France had broken off the talks. Rebel spokesman Redha Malek said the French delegation had refused to set an eight-day limit on the adjournment or to meet today or Thursday with the rebels to consider ways of easing the deadlock. "Draw your own conclusions," Malek told newsmen. Joxe said among the "essential problems" on which the two delegations were far apart were a cease-fire in Algeria, the future of Algeria's European minority and the future of the Sahara and its oil riches. The French announced May 20, at the start of the talks, that they were halting offensive operations in Algeria and appealed to the rebels to join in a truce. The rebels replied that a truce could result only from a political agreement and stepped up terrorist attacks. Joxe said the French would maintain a team at Evian and the rebels would do likewise at Geneva, across the French-Swiss border, that informal contacts could continue.

The Justice Department gave no details about the information Scarbeck was charged with passing to foreign agents. There were indications the information was of a political rather than a military nature. I do not think the case would have gone to the Justice Department if U.S. security had not been involved." If convicted, Scarbeck faces a

Classic Overtones Cloaking Scarbeck Spy Case

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR. WASHINGTON (AP)—Overtones of a classic spy thriller cloak the case of an American Foreign Service officer charged with giving U.S. secrets to Communist Poland. A blonde Polish spy was reported to have lured Irvin Chambers Scarbeck, 41, bespectacled father of four, into turning over classified information to Communist agents while he served in the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw. Scarbeck was held in jail after bond was set at $50,000. He was arrested Tuesday by FBI agents on a Washington Street.

The complaint filed by the Justice Department before U.S. Commissioner Sam Wretling said Scarbeck admitted communicating to Polish agents information that was classified "as affecting the security of the United States." The State Department, citing his "service, loyalty and devotion to duty," had given him a meritorious service award for his work in 1957 while supervising the department's exchange program in San Francisco. Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told reporters, "I understand the root of the possible maximum sentence of 10 years in prison, a $10,000 fine, or both. Scarbeck had been assigned to the Warsaw embassy for 2½ years. His duties largely involved the housekeeping chores of running the establishment, but he had some access to classified material. Reassigned to Naples, Italy, Scarbeck was with his family on leave in Dusseldorf, Germany last week when he was summoned to Washington. Upon arrival last Saturday, he was handed an order suspending him from the Foreign Service.

Negotiators May Leave Cuba Tomorrow Without Swapping Farm Tractors

By LEWIS GULICK HAVANA (AP)—U.S. negotiators announced today they will leave Cuba Thursday whether or not they get a tractors-for-prisoners agreement with Prime Minister Fidel Castro—and indications were they will not. A spokesman made the announcement while the four-man American team sat cooling its heels in a Havana hotel, awaiting another meeting with Cuban officials. It still was unclear whether they would get to see Castro personally. The group had expected to meet with the Cuban chief of state. He was reported to have returned to Havana from eastern Cuba Tuesday night. The four non-government U.S. technical experts arrived Tuesday to work out an swap of 500 tractors for the 1,214 Cuban invasion prisoners Castro holds. In a two-hour meeting Tuesday, Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos stuck to Castro's terms which are unacceptable to the American negotiators. A spokesman for the U.S. group, Duane T. Greathouse, said arrangements were being made to fly back to Washington Thursday no matter what happens in talks today. He said the team will report promptly in Washington to its parent Tractors for Freedom Committee of prominent U.S. citizens who are raising funds for the tractors. The committee heads are Eleanor Roosevelt, Walter P. Reuther and Dr. Milton Eisenhower. The Castro provision on an exchange of prisoners for tractors—an idea which Castro himself first advanced—was spelled out in firm tones in today's Havana newspapers, which are government-controlled. Dorticos was reported to have stuck to Castro's demand for heavy tractors, of the kind used for big construction jobs ranging from roads to airfields. The U.S. team is offering smaller tractors for farm work, not the big ones. Dorticos also was cited as ruling out the exchange for tractors of three of his prize prisoners captured in the invasion of April 17 that was crushed. These are Manuel Artime, the invasion leader; Jose San Roman, one of the battalion commanders, and Rafael Bolivar Fuentes. The Havana radio reported that the three men will be freed only in a man-for-man exchange for Francisco (The Hook) Molina, Alibon Campos and Henry Winston. Molina is a Cuban citizen awaiting sentencing in New York for the slaying of a 9-year-old girl during a political scuffle among pro- and anti-Castro Cubans. Campos is a Puerto Rican nationalist leader who has been in jail for several years, and Henry Winston is a U.S. Communist party figure. The U.S. negotiators made it plain they were not authorized to discuss a political prisoner exchange. This would require action by the U.S. government. Reporter Robert Boyd of the Miami Herald, who came here with the negotiators, said in a copyright dispatch to the Knight newspapers that the fate of 1,214 Cuban prisoners hung on a possible meeting between Castro and the four U.S. tractor experts. He said the outcome was clouded, however, by the new demand thrown up by President Dorticos. Canadian Press correspondent

Jack Best said Greathouse described the sessions with Cuban officials as "good discussions and cordial meetings." The Americans' mission is to work out technical details of the exchange of tractors for the exiled Cuban foes of Castro seized in last April's invasion that sputtered and died on Cuba's southern beaches. It was Castro who made the offhand suggestion that he would be willing to trade the prisoners for 500 tractors. Since then his terms have suffered. Cuba now wants 500 heavy duty tractors of the type used in construction and large earth-moving projects. The Americans have offered 500 lighter tractors suitable only for farm work. An hour after their arrival, the Americans met some of the prisoners on an inspection of the Eastern Havana Naval Hospital. Some of the captives are held there. Tad Szulc of the New York Times said the Americans discussed the tractor transaction with a commission of 10 prisoners. These were the captives sent by Castro to the United States last month to initiate the negotiations. The Americans met for 2½ hours with Dorticos. One of the visitors, Roy Bainer, chairman of the agricultural engineering department of the University of California, said the meeting with the president was "very pleasant and quite frank and cordial." Late in the afternoon the Americans conferred for three hours with representatives of the Agrarian Reform Institute, which supervises Cuban agriculture and the nation's nationalized farm lands.

N.C. Billion-Dollar Budget Awaits Final House Action

Late Bulletin RALEIGH (AP) — The House today passed into law, by an 86-31 vote on third reading, the $65.5 million package of new taxes, including the three per cent sales tax on food. Two amendments by Rep. Byrd Satterfield of Person, intended to exempt milk and bread from the sales tax if revenues were sufficient from other sources to keep the budget in balance, were tabled. Satterfield then voted for the bill itself.

RALEIGH (AP) — Only House concurrence in some technical amendments remains for the billion dollar general appropriations bill, containing Gov. Sanford's quality education program, to become law. There was no opposition Tuesday as the Senate passed the bill by voice vote. The measure, approved by the House last Thursday, appropriates funds for state institutions, agencies and departments during the 1961-63 biennium. Under the bill, $70 million more will go for teacher pay than is being paid this biennium. The increase sets a teacher pay scale of $3,600-$5,600. Present ranges are $2,956-$4,556. The budget calls for spending $460 million for the public schools. This includes a 21.8 per cent pay raise for teachers. Funds to hire 1,400 additional teachers, increase support for libraries, and extra clerical help for school administrators.

The school budget represents a 27.7 increase in spending over the current biennium which ends June 30. Other major provisions in the spending bill: Higher education: $56 million, an increase of 26.8 per cent over this biennium. Public welfare: State spending of $26.7 million in a total program of more than $130 million in federal, state and local funds. Highways: $285.4 million in state funds. Employee salary: A 5 per cent pay raise for 30,000 state employees other than educational personnel. Defense Department Asked To Justify Military Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department was asked today to justify military aid to economically underdeveloped nations. In essence, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., asked Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to say whether rifles and tanks would stave off communism more easily in these nations than food and jobs. McNamara was asked specifically to compare effects of aid given to Pakistan, a heavy recipient of U.S. arms, and to India, which has received only economic aid from the United States. McNamara said he would send Fulbright the conclusions reached in a series of classified studies. Fulbright's request was made at a hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which he heads, on the $1.89-billion military aid portion of the administration's $4.8-billion foreign aid request. In a related development, the Commerce Department reported that foreign aid outlays increased last year from $3.9 billion to $4.5 billion, reversing a two-year downward trend. Fulbright said in an interview that despite the foreign aid program's revamping, its projects "follow too closely the old patterns of the past." He said that his administration should be directed to the application of more selective and discerning aid. Fulbright said that passage of the President's program in anything like the amounts he asked "will require one of the toughest fights of the year." He added that Kennedy and his administration will have to give strong support to the measure on both sides of the Capitol. An appeal was made by Sen.

Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., to direct foreign aid only to nations which will undertake meaningful political and economic reform. Humphrey, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said that both Congress and the American people "are sick and tired of foreign aid going to governments that are unresponsive to human need, unwilling to bring about social reform." In his statement prepared for delivery in the Senate, Humphrey served notice "I shall not support any aid program to any developing nation which will have the effect of perpetuating corrupt, reactionary, greedy and oppressive governments." Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., already has questioned the advisability of continued assistance to South Korea, where a military junta has taken over. Others on the committee have raised critical questions on the advisability of helping other nations where military aid might serve to perpetuate undemocratic regimes.

Two Negroes Jailed On Assault Charges

FARMVILLE — Two young Farmville Negroes are being held in the Pitt County Jail on charges of rape and attempted rape in connection with a Friday night incident in Farmville. E.L. Keel, one of the officers investigating the case, said James May, Jr., 17 and Lester Bryant Fields, 22, were taken to custody Saturday, May on charges of attempted rape, and Fields for rape and breaking and entering. Fields allegedly entered a window of a house in which Evelyn Tuten, 67-year-old Negro and Ester Davis, 57-year-old Negro, were sleeping. He then opened the front door, Keel reported, and let May in. Fields allegedly raped the Davises woman on the bed in which the two women were sleeping, while May stood by. Fields was unsuccessful in his purported attack on the Tuten woman. The incident occurred about 11 p.m. Friday, Keel stated. Police Chief J.A. Gregory said the two men were hunted after the incident was reported, with May being taken into custody about 10 a.m. Saturday. Fields was arrested about 4 p.m. The two defendants were given a preliminary hearing on the charges Monday. Chief Gregory explained, and were placed in the Pitt County jail after probable cause was found in the case. Bond for May was set at $1,000 while Fields' bond was set at $2,000. Officers quoted the men as saying they were not together before the incident took place. Keel explained that Fields broke into the house and let May in when May came to the door.

Med Students Marry In Atlanta ++ Calendar Of Events ++

ATLANTA, Ga.—Miss Betty Sue Greene of Pavo, Ga. became the bride of Henry Lee Stewart of Greenville, N. C. on Wednesday, June 7, in Wieuca Road Baptist Church at 11 a. m. Dr. James Thomas Ford officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Harris Greene of Pavo. Mr. Stewart's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Leiland Stewart of Greenville, N. C.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Clyde Harling, organist.

The church was decorated with a large central arrangement of white gladioli and majestic daisies was flanked by jade foliage trees. On either side of the central arrangement were tiered candelabra holding white candles. Framing the wedding party were two white urns of jade foliage.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Ballerina gown of white organdy over taffeta. The close-fitting bodice was fashioned with a scoop neckline and cap sleeves, trimmed with Chantilly lace. The belle skirt was accented with Chantilly lace caught at the backwaist by organdy roses. The short veil was attached to a braided organdy and pearl coronet. The bride wore an heirloom lavalliere of platinum set with a sapphire, diamond and pearl, a wedding gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Wendell Gunn, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown identical to the bride's, except in pale pink with matching pink headpiece. She carried a corsage which was a ruffled lily cascade with accent of white alba lilies.

Robert Brooke Stewart, the bridegroom's brother of Greenville, N. C., was best man. Ushers were Harris Dewey Greene, brother of the bride, of Pavo, and Robert D. McCellian, Cleveland, Ohio.

The bride's mother wore a dress of light pink cotton with entre deux lace, elbow length puff sleeves and matching accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a light aqua cotton dress with tucks and entre deux lace, and white accessories. She added a corsage of aqua and white carnations to her costume.

For travel, the bride selected a blue shantung costume suit and a matching pillbox hat.

The bride graduated from the University of North Carolina on June 5, and will enter Medical School at the University in September. The bridegroom graduated from Duke University on June 5 and in September will enter Duke Medical School. He will be associated with Duke Hospital during the summer months.

Long - Ayers Vows Spoken

ROBERSONVILLE—The marriage of Miss Reta Vick Ayers and James Arvestus Long was solemnized in the First Christian Church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 4th, with the Reverend Wilbur T. Wallace officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ayers of Robersonville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lillian R. Long of Williamston.

Mrs. Wiley B. Rogerson, organist, presented a program of nuptial music including the traditional wedding marches, Miss Norma Williams, the vocalist, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length dress of white dotted organdy over taffeta designed with a bateau neckline, an empress waistline and a flared skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion flowed from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid and white satin streamers.

Mrs. Benny Haislip was her sister's only attendant. Her blue chiffon dress was fashioned with a cowl neckline and a gathered skirt. A veil was attached to her tiara style white straw hat. She carried a nosegay of white carnations.

Gene Long and Bobby Ayers served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Ayers chose a dress of lavender silk shantung with a matching jacket and white accessories. She wore a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Long's sheer navy blue dress was complimented with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride changed to a white pique dress with matching accessories and she wore the orchid lifted from her Bible. After a trip to Henderson, Richmond and Norfolk, the young couple will make their home on Academy Street, Robersonville.

Mrs. Long, a graduate of R.H.S., is employed as a bookkeeper at the H and H Gas Company. The bridegroom was graduated from the Williamston High School and is currently associated with his father in the contract painting business.

Aux. Receives Two Awards

The Greenville unit of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars of North Carolina received first place award for its work with Caswell Training School at the 29th Annual Department Convention held in Durham June 9-11.

The recognition was gained from the auxiliary's sponsorship of a party dance, fulfillment of requests from Caswell for various supplies, contribution of gifts and personal visits made to the school. Mrs. J. A. Joyner Jr. is the local chairman of the Caswell School committee.

The third place award was also received for the auxiliary's work in the Gold Star program. Mrs. Ruth Garner heads the local Gold Star committee.

Mrs. L. E. Meeks, president, and Mrs. C. B. West Jr. and Mrs. Ralph Bailey, serving as delegates, represented the auxiliary at the convention. Mrs. Lissie Harris, Mrs. J. A. Joyner Jr. and Mrs. H. L. Vincent also attended the convention.

E. J. Cassick of the Post was installed as senior vice-commander of the Second District. The District includes the Posts in Greenville, Washington, Kinston, Farmville, Pink Hill and Goldsboro. He was recognized also as an all-state quartermaster. In addition to Cassick, other Greenville Post members attending the Convention, were Joe Saad, commander of the local Post, J. A. Joyner and L. E. Meeks.

The auxiliary received citations of merit in membership and for 100% of participation in all phases of VFW work.

Mrs. Dorothy Hunter of High Point was installed as president of the Department of North Carolina for the coming year, and Mr. Dewey Beauchamp of Asheville was installed as commander of the North Carolina Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Bryant and children of Richmond, Va. spent the weekend in Grimesland where they attended the Riley-Whitchard wedding.

October Wedding Planned

MISS ANNA KAY MILLS . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Mills of Greenville, Route 3, who announce her engagement to Clarence E. Mills of Ayden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Mills. The wedding is planned for October 8.

D. A. R. Has As Guest Speaker Mrs. Pollard

FARMVILLE — Bringing to a close DAR assemblies, prior to disbanding for the summer months, was the June meeting of the Major Benjamin May Chapter, held Saturday, with Mrs. J. O. Pollard, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. C. Pollard, of Norfolk, and Mrs. C. H. Mozingo as hostesses.

Quantities of magnolias and greenery were used on colonial mantels and in floor baskets, and arrangements of sweetpeas graced the speaker's and auxiliary tables. The meditation period, conducted by the chaplain, Mrs. G. Alex Rouse, had as its theme 'Faith, the Connecting Link Between Man and the Eternal' and as its Scriptural base Hebrews 10:38.

The regent, Miss Elizabeth Lang, led the chapter in the Pledge of Allegiance and the American's Creed, spoke briefly of the meaning of Flag Day and appointed Miss Tabitha Devisconti to secure cooperation of business firms in its proper observance this month. Miss Lang extended a cordial welcome to Mrs. Frank L. Davison, of Greenville, as a new member, to Junior members present, Misses Betsy King and Henri Perle Johnson, and to the special guests.

Mrs. Pollard, treasurer, gave a report which included a recent gift of $500 to the Chapter House maintenance fund. Mrs. M. V. Jones of the yearbook committee, spoke briefly of the work to be done during the summer. The usual collection of Buffalo nickels for the American Indian work was taken by Miss DeVisconti.

Mrs. Pollard introduced her sister-in-law and guest speaker, Mrs. W. A. Pollard Jr., who presented a music program, reading excerpts from a paper, 'America Sings As History Is Made,' prepared by Mrs. Chester A. Roush, West Virginia State Chairman of American Music, DAR.

The speaker was assisted by Mrs. Bernice Turnage, Mrs. Tommy ullock and Mrs. J. M. Dantell, who sang patriotic selections in solo or trio arrangement, which were connected with wars fought by Americans, and written either as war songs or considered noteworthy for their popularity during those periods. Mrs. M. V. Jones served as accompanist and played instrumental numbers.

Mrs. Pollard quoted from a notation found in Columbus' Journal, 'The Pinta leads the procession and her crew is singing the Te Deum. The crew of the Santa Maria and the Nina now join in the solemn chant and many of the rough sailors must brush tears from their eyes' in pointing out that the songs of the New World present a picture of America's development as a nation and are an important part of its heritage.

The speaker reviewed incidents relative to composition of many favorite patriotic songs and gave brief sketches of the composers.

Emphasizing the fact that 'in World War I the power of song was first deliberately enlisted in accomplishing the huge task of helping expand the fighting forces and to inspire the people to give generous financial support to the government' Mrs. Pollard chose as illustration: 'Over There,' 'Goodbye, Broadway, Hello France,' 'Keep the Home Fires Burning' and 'Smiles.'

Bringing memories to listeners were favorites of World War II: 'God Bless America,' 'White Christmas,' 'White Cliffs of Dover' and 'I'll Be Home For Christmas.'

Korean War—'May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You,' 'Goodnight Irene' and 'If I Loved You.'

The program was concluded with a spirited and moving rendition of 'America, Our Heritage.'

Special guests were: Mrs. Clarence Moyer of Maury, Mrs. Z. M. Whitehurst, Mrs. Edward May, Miss Susan Pollard, Mrs. Allen C. Lee, Mrs. B. S. Smith Jr., Mrs. John Ervin Wilkerson, and program participants, Mrs. Pollard, Mrs. Turnage, Mrs. Bullock and Mrs. Daniell.

Following adjournment, a social hour was enjoyed. The refreshment table was spread with an imported cloth of cutwork and embroidery and centered with an arrangement of magnolias. The regent served fruit punch from a crystal bowl. Other refreshments consisted of ham biscuits, party sandwiches, cheese wafers, nuts and decorated cakes.

Job Hunting Tips

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer Young people who seek jobs after graduation from high school may be in for a shock. They may have to change to impress a prospective employer.

One father says that even a summer job is too much for his darling daughter. She has threatened to quit the job before it has begun if he doesn't drive her to work because she doesn't like buses. A pampered type should be left in the nest rather than be allowed to become a bother to a boss.

Many eager graduates are felled in their quest for work, however, because of their appearance when meeting an employer-to-be for the first time.

How To Dress A simple tailored dress or suit is always correct attire. Flouncy, ruffled dresses are in poor taste. Decollete styles or sweater ensembles may make an interviewer wary. He may reason that this sort of dress would distract male employees.

Beige, navy blue, and summer pastels are more acceptable colors than white or the new 'hot' colors best left in the wardrobe until after you have clinched the job.

Be Conservative Dark shoes are preferred footwear for job seekers. Whether pointed or round toe the heel should be medium height. Avoid the two-and-a-half-inch dress heel, a favorite of party-going teen agers, also toeless shoes or sandals. Wear stockings no matter how tan your legs are.

A small handbag is best on this occasion to avoid the temptation of loading it. Put in only the things that are absolutely necessary. If a potential employer glimpses a loaded handbag, he may figure that he would have a clutterer on his hands. Should you wear jewelry? If jewelry is suitable to your clothes and type, it may enhance your costume. But a rhinestone necklace has no place in daywear. A little girl looks ridiculous in large, chunky dramatic pieces of jewelry. Simple tailored gold jewelry, a strand or two of pearls or conservative string of beads flattering to your costume is ideal. Slim gold or silver bangle bracelets and a class ring are other good choices. Chandelier-style earrings, flashy rings and bracelets are hideous in the daylight.

Best Face Forward Makeup should look natural no matter how you achieve your flattering look. Your foundation cream should blend into your skin, lipstick should be blotted carefully. Use a light shade of nail polish, preferably no darker than a watermelon pink if you use a polish at all.

Hair can sell you short. Men are more hair conscious than you would imagine. Be sure your tresses are shampooed clean before you set it. Long, stringy hair could indicate that you are careless just as sausage-curl hair may give the impression that you are a little too fussy.

Answer the interviewer's questions with deliberation. Be brief and don't digress from what is asked. Cotton blazer jackets with metallic buttons will be popular for men again this fall. Navy blue, wine, and gray are favorite colors.

Today's Menu

- FRENCH-TOASTED CHEESE SANDWICHES 6 slices bread 3 sandwich-size slices cheddar cheese 1 large egg 2 tablespoons milk 3 tablespoons butter Make 3 sandwiches of the bread and cheese. Beat egg slightly; add milk and beat to combine. Dip sandwiches in egg mixture. Melt half the butter in a 9- or 10-inch skillet; add the sandwiches, cutting one in half so it will fit in. Brown slowly; turn and brown other sides of sandwich slowly in remaining butter. Cut the 2 whole sandwiches in half. Makes 2 or 3 servings.

SMORGASBORD SUPPER

- Nice to serve on the porch and let the family help themselves. Smoked Fish Marinated Herring Cold Meats Assorted Cheese Potato Salad with Lettuce and Sliced Tomatoes Sweet Pickles Danish Cucumbers Beverage

DANISH CUCUMBERS

- 2 medium-size cucumbers 1 teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons sugar 1/4 cup distilled white vinegar Pare cucumbers with swivel-blade vegetable peeler; cut off ends. With same peeler cut paper-thin crosswise slices; there should be 1 1/2 cups. Mix cucumbers with remaining ingredients; cover and refrigerate for an hour or two; drain. Garnish with pimiento shapes and minced parsley or chopped chives if desired. Makes 6 servings if used as relish.

Mighty Proud Of Baseball Champs

We're all proud of the new NAIA champions at East Carolina College.

Some evidence of that pride was manifested Monday when collegians and Greenville people gathered for a big Welcome Home rally. Not everybody who wanted to attend, could.

The ECC baseball team showed off our college at its best; and in so doing won admiration of their tournament rivals and warm approval of Sioux City baseball fans.

They play a good brand of ball in the North State Conference, and it showed in the national tournament. The North State champions overshadowed play of the entire event. This is expected of champions.

Of course, all teams playing at Sioux City were champions and only one among them could emerge as "best"; but the "best" added honor to their glory in earning the Sportsmanship award.

The title of Champion is a passing thing, but the tribute implied in a sportsmanship award is of a lasting nature to the thirteen young athletes who played the game in a manner to bring honor to themselves, their mentors and their college.

We of the Daily Reflector could not guess that in sending a sports writer to accompany the ECC team our writer would have such a story of accomplishment to report to the home folks. Our satisfaction must be apparent to all in the extensive coverage, in words and pictures, given the very happy occasion.

Our warmest congratulations to the East Carolina baseball team and to their coaches.

Peace Corps Is Going To Be Closely Watched

The Peace Corps idea appears now to be hitting its stride.

Remember? When first broached there was a spontaneous wave of enthusiasm greeting the proposal. There followed another wave of pooh-poohing from skeptical sources who could see only a recruiting of babes-in-the-woods or Ugly Americans who had not yet reached full growth.

But the orderly procedure of testing eager applicants, and steps to recruit mature, skilled specialists and workers into the Corps has raised its status to respectable heights.

Natural enthusiasm and excitement—surrounding the novel plan of sending volunteers abroad to help backward areas—would fittingly be accompanied by a spirit of haste. (For there is so much to be done, the need is so obvious, imaginative persons find it easy to overlook preparations required and the training and the organizing.)

So it is all the more satisfying to learn from on-the-scene reports that Peace Corps organizers do feel a sense of urgency but, to borrow a phrase, are proceeding with "all deliberate speed".

The eyes of the world will be watching the first American volunteers abroad; and their severest critics, those at home, will also be watching. The first mishap is certain to draw quicker attention and greater censure at home than it will likely receive anywhere else in the world.

The basic idea of the Peace Corps is good; but its members are going to be working under extremely close surveillance at home. This can be good, too.

JFK Would Be An 'Oldtimer'

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Kennedy serves two terms, he'll look like an oldtimer in world affairs when he leaves the White House in January 1969.

The reasons: 1. At 44 he is now 23 years younger than any of 10 major world leaders. 2. By 1969 most of them probably will be out of the picture. At the moment none of them shows signs of weakening, politically or physically.

But the three youngest are already 67, or 23 years older than Kennedy: Russia's Premier Khrushchev, Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan and Red China's boss, Mao Tse-tung. If Kennedy and these three hang on till January 1969, then Kennedy will be close to 54, Khrushchev and Macmillan will be nearing 75, and the Red Chinese leader will have reached 75.

The oldest world leader now, West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer, at 85 is 41 years older than the President. By American inauguration day, Jan. 20, 1969, he'd be 93.

Here, in the descending order of their years, are the other six leaders with their present age and, in parentheses, their age on the day Kennedy would finish a second term, if they're still around:

Chiang Kai-shek, boss of Nationalist China on Formosa, 73 (81). Antonio Salazar, dictator of Portugal, 72 (79). India's Prime Minister Nehru, 71 (79). France's President de Gaulle, 70 (78). Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, 69 (78). Francisco Franco, dictator of Spain, 68 (76).

These next eight years will take a toll in men and no doubt make a change in nations. In eight years Red China probably will have nuclear bombs. Up till now the Chinese Communists, lacking the power with which the United States protects Chiang on Formosa, have limited themselves to nuisance bombardments of offshore islands—no real danger to Formosa 110 miles away.

But once they get nuclear destruction, the picture in Asia will change, the threats to Formosa should become more fierce. Dictator Salazar of Portugal looked solid in his job for so long as he lived. Then natives in the Portuguese African colony of Angola began storming for freedom, killing as they went and being killed.

"In the central place of your heart there is a recording chamber; so long as it receives messages of beauty, hope, cheer and courage, you are young. When the wires are all down, and your heart is covered with the snow of pessimism and the ice of cynicism, then—and only then—are you grown old."—General Douglas MacArthur.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS LOOK ALIVE!

A friend of mine who teaches in college told me that he grew very tired one semester of looking day after day at the blank, expressionless, apathetic faces of the students in an early morning class. At their last class meeting, he electrified them by saying, "There will be no final examination in this course. Last night I put all your names in a hat. The first man I drew out will receive an A for the course; all the rest of you get F!" For a moment or two he looked with considerable pleasure at the expressions of amazement, hope, concern, protest, and anger that confronted him. Then he said, quietly, "I don't really mean that, of course, but just once this semester I wanted to see you all looking as if you were alive."

What kind of a face do you carry around with you? We cannot do much about how handsome or homely we are, but we can control how alive we look. Next time you are with a group of people, observe how few of them are showing any life or alertness in their features. Glance at yourself in a mirror. When others are talking, do you look as if you had gone away and merely left your body there?

Life is short enough as it is—don't spend most of your looking as if you were already dead!

Oh, Say Can You See - ?

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Colloquialisms In Use

Many colloquialisms crop up in Eastern North Carolina which seldom are heard elsewhere. Some of these words are used, so frequently that they become accepted by us as good usage.

Boot, referring to the trunk of a car, is one such although this particular word, I understand, comes to us through the British. It is strange that it should be used here and has never found favor in other parts of the United States.

Anyway such words often cause newspaper folks to scratch their heads as they try to decide whether to use them or not.

A few months back, just such a problem arose in the Reflector's newsroom. The word in question was "stomp" used in connection with an assault case. In this case the defendant was accused of knocking someone to the ground and stomping him.

Well the dictionary says that stomp is a dialectic term. What we really mean when we use it is "stamp". We considered this around the newsroom but somehow, stamp sounded more like the man was mailing a letter. Finally we decided to heck with the proper word, and we sent the story on through using stomp.

Other Editors Saying Loss Of Confidence

(Washington Daily News) It is no wonder that so many Americans are losing confidence in the ability of the United States Supreme court.

We are not speaking of decisions made by that body which have become known as quasi-legislative either. We are now referring to a recent decision in which the highest court in this land by a five to four decision dealt a severe blow to communism.

We are happy that such a close decision went in favor of Americans. We shudder to think what might happen in this country had the five to four decision been the other way.

In this decision the high court ruled that the 1950 Subversive act is constitutional, and that communists must register with the Justice department, listing officers, members, and giving a financial accounting. The other part of the decision upheld the Smith act passed in 1940 which makes it a crime for a citizen to belong to any organization which advocates overthrow of our government by force and violence.

Yet four members of the high court argued that neither of these acts is constitutional. Had there been just one more member of the high court of the same opinion, then instead of ruling these two acts constitutional, they would have been ruled to be unconstitutional. As a result communism in this country would today be free to organize, work, and make plans to overthrow this very constitution under which they were seeking protection.

Communists only need this American constitution to protect them while they are scheming to destroy the very instrument protecting them at any given time. They are not interested at all in constitutional government. Yet it causes us to want to bow down in shame to think that four members of the Supreme court voted to make these purely American acts unconstitutional.

We are not surprised at the fact that a former staunch Southerner, Hugo Black, is among the dissenters. We are surprised that Chief Justice Earl Warren joined him. The other two dissenters are William O. Douglas and William Brennan.

It does not take an American with a legal brain to see what could happen if men like Messrs. Black, Warren, Douglas, and Brennan had their way. This is a matter of constitutional survival. This is a matter of human dignity and freedom and the right to pursue happiness.

To be a communist means that a man does advocate violent overthrow of our government. To be an American means that we love our democratic form of government. There is no constitutional compromise between the two.

If a communist is allowed to use the American constitution to pursue his own devilish ends, then one day we might not have a democratic constitution at all. What the law is and what is practical, just, and American might be different things in the eyes of some jurists. But in the eyes of true Americans, the recent five-four decision is a dramatic victory for America. And those four who see otherwise are out of tune with the American heritage.

Our faith in dialectic terms has been vindicated. An Associated Press article recently appeared concerning a man accused of killing his wife near Bakersfield, Calif. The article said a witness testified the man was seen to "choke and stomp" his wife.

So, chalk one up for Eastern North Carolina.

Howls have arisen recently because of the utilities poles which have been planted squarely in the middle of Elm St. It appears that these poles will carry the wires which now run along the side of the street.

Your columnist answered the phone the other day and the lady at the other end let it be known that she didn't think the new arrangement looked nice at all.

Of course, the appearance of the street will be improved as the street work progresses. The poles will be in the center islands separating the dual lanes.

But I don't know. Utilities poles in the middle of the street don't exactly appeal to my esthetic sense, such as it is, either. At any rate, I'll reserve judgment until the project is completed. By that time, of course, it'll be too late.

Fight Not Yet Ended

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

After 11 years, Justice Felix Frankfurter's settled the fact that the Communist Party is illegitimate in the United States. The decision upholds the Subversive Activities Control Act of 1950. When the Subversive Activities Control Board's order is fulfilled the position of the Communist Party and of an individual Communist will indeed be altered. Many sanctions will be applied against Communists, such as they will be ineligible for government employment, they will be unable to hold or receive an American passport; they will not be permitted to work in defense facilities or receive defense information. If they send any propaganda through the mails, they will have to mark it "Communist Propaganda."

In a word, the law not only outlaws the Communist Party but it makes of the individual Communist a pariah. While the Frankfurter decision upholds the law per se, it does not go into each detail of sanction. What the Communist lawyers face then is the problem of how to prevent this order from becoming final.

Under Supreme Court rules, the Communist Party has 25 days from June 5 to petition for a re-hearing. Now we come in for red-tape complications. If the Court is in session on June 30, the period when application for a stay may be applied for, the petition for a stay operates as an automatic stay of judgment and there will be six months or more delay before the Internal Security Law can become operative. If the Court is in summer recess on June 30, a motion for a re-hearing, no matter where filed, will not operate as an automatic stay. The Board's order then becomes final as soon as the Court issues its judgment and awards the case to the Circuit Court, which in normal course will be early in July.

The lawyers for the Communist Party have to decide what to do with their members from the drastic sanctions of this law. Gus Hall, the leader of the Communist Party, said that the Frankfurter decision requires the Communist Party to commit suicide. He announced that the Party would soon ask for a stay and a re-hearing.

It is to be presumed that a 5-4 decision would continue against the Communists. Chief Justice Earl Warren voted in favor of the Communist Party. If Gus Hall's decision to petition for a re-hearing and stay is carried out shortly, it means that the Communist Party intends to maneuver the situation so that its leaders will have an opportunity to defy the Supreme Court and risk arrest for contempt. At issue immediately would be the registration of the Party and the filing of membership lists with the Attorney-General. The Communists admit guilt by regarding the filing of lists as being stool pigeons.

From a tactical standpoint, the Communists would prefer a stay so that they might have an opportunity to organize fascist doctrine liberals to demand that the Communists be given equality with Republicans or Democrats. This would be of tremendous agitational value. During the Cold War, the Communists have lacked a cause as no one could support Khrushchev's imperialism. The Frankfurter decision gives them a cause.

The Communist Party if it petitions for a stay immediately, will not have too much time for martyrdom, but if the Supreme Court sits until July 10, the matter can be heard and decided finally.

The Communist Party might take advantage of one more technicality. If the Supreme Court should recess before June 30, the Communist Party might, between the date of the recess of the Court and June 30, find a Justice who would be willing to frustrate the action of the Court's majority by acting unilaterally to grant a stay pending a decision for a re-hearing. It is difficult to believe that any Justice would do that

Union Stock-Buying Faces Curb

By ELMER ROESSNER

Demands may rise for a law prohibiting unions and their trust funds from buying stock in corporations with which they have labor contracts.

A number of years ago I pointed out that the Steelworkers Union, using its reserves and the normal savings of members, could acquire operating control of U. S. Steel in five years or so and a clear majority control in ten. However, the union had other fish to clean and nothing was done in that direction.

Now Michael J. Quill, head of the Transport Workers Union of New York, has announced that his union hopes to acquire $1 million of the Fifth Avenue Coach Lines, Inc. stock through investment of union funds and stock purchases by union members. His men man the company's buses.

The stock paid $1 per share last year, but none so far this year. It closed the day Mr. Quill made his announcement at $20.50 a share, which means that $1 million would buy about 50,000 shares of the total of 862,575. That many shares would give the union a powerful voice in the corporation. Larger corporations have been controlled with fewer shares.

PRINCIPLES INVOLVED Mr. Quill is an honorable man, so it may be assumed that his union's purchase of a share of the corporation would be for the benefit of employees, the public and other stockholders.

But suppose this sets a pattern for other unions. Let's imagine the Brightening Workers Union has a contract with United Brighteners, a company with $10,000,000 in outstanding stock. And let's suppose that the union, using leverage and other funds, and the savings of members, buys $5,500,000 worth of the outstanding stock.

Considerably less stock would give the union operating control, but a $5,500,000 interest, which would give it undisputed control. In either event, the union elects a majority of the directors.

PLOT THICKENS Now, imagine that the company is making $1,000,000 this year. The union demands a share of this—a large share—say through a 30-hour week, longer vacations and substantial pay increases. This will absorb the $1,000,000 profits. Money that other stockholders thought they had coming to them would be siphoned off to pay the union stockholders.

It may be argued that in other cases management has siphoned off possible profits for its own advantage. Corporations have paid fantastic fees to insiders, corporations have hired directors' relatives at fat salaries, they have bought worthless properties from directors at enormous prices, and they have diverted earnings from stockholders to directors and their friends and relatives in a thousand other ways.

But these genteel lookings have resulted in a number of laws in many states and Federal securities regulations make top management largely—though not completely—responsible for their financial actions.

So will it probably be with unions. If Mr. Quill, the Steelworkers or any other union succeeds in gaining control of any public held corporation, there is likely to be a legislative reaction. Just as present laws prohibit corporation officials from negotiating deals that give themselves undue shares of potential earnings, so may new laws prevent union stockholders from benefiting themselves at the expense of owners of other shares.

WHEELED SHOPPING BAGS HELD LIABLE FOR TAX

A new product is a plastic shopping bag mounted on four wheels. The bag has loops for handles and an outside pocket with a zipper closure. For light shopping, the housewife may fold up and fasten the lower half of the bag, using the top as a handbag. Taxable? You bet, says the Internal Revenue Service. The law imposes a tax on "knitting bags, suitable for use as purses or handbags." (Rev. Rul. 61-108.)

Johnson Speaks To Ayden Rotary

AYDEN—Ideas and experiences in experimental farming were related to members of the Ayden Rotary Club Friday by L. B. Johnson, Jr., of Farmville.

The club met at the Community Building, with President Wayland McGlohon presiding.

Johnson has done some experimental work in agriculture and once visited Cuba, where he raised tobacco to study what effects the soil had on tobacco. He also described conditions in Cuba.

J.R. Taylor, in charge of the program for the evening, presented Johnson.

Visiting Rotarians were Alton Johnson and Dr. Fred Irons of Greenville. J. Bruce Eure, district governor of District 773, made an unofficial visit to the club Friday.

The club will hold its family cookout in July at Camp Centennial on Cententree Creek near Ayden. The date for the cookout will be announced later.

Board Moves To Close Out Contract

AYDEN—Mayor S.F. Peterson and Town Manager Cleveland Paylor were authorized by Town Board members Monday night to proceed in closing out the sewage disposal contract.

The action was taken at the board's regular monthly meeting. The contract concerning the sewage disposal plant had been approved previously.

The present closing out action concerns the contract for the collector lines, outfalls and lift stations, Paylor said. Work on Ayden's new plant and facilities was begun in 1957 and cost about $375,000.

Paylor noted that he and the mayor would conclude the project as soon as it is feasible.

During the meeting, Vice Recorder of Recorder's Court R.L. Davis administered oaths of office to Mayor S.F. Peterson for three years; and to Commissioners Harry Mumford, Norman Dail and Edison Gibson for two-year terms. Those town officials were re-elected in the May elections. Other commissioners serving at the present time are Robert Harris and J.W. James.

Mayor Peterson's term was extended to three years, instead of the customary two, in action by the Town Board which later was referred to the General Assembly.

In 1964 the mayor's term will return to the two-year period, with the balancing process worked out.

In other action, members received and accepted a paving petition from residents of Eighth Street who want the block from Washington Avenue to Snow Hill Street paved.

It was agreed that the town will purchase a 10,000 gallon underground storage tank to be used for its gasoline requirements. At the May meeting, the board agreed that bids would be received on an underground tank of sufficient size to hold a tank wagon of gasoline. Purchase of a gasoline tank wagon lots would be more advantageous in affecting a better price, Paylor previously stated.

The proposed routing of Highway 313 through Ayden, following the same route as the present Highway 11, was endorsed unanimously by members of the board.

TV Reviving Dignity Of 'Saccharine' Organ Music

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Radio soap operas which invariably used organ music for their background gave the instrument some of its saccharine reputation. Now television is helping restore the organ to its deserved high place.

TV daytime serials still rely on the organ to provide dramatic accents and over-all atmosphere. But nowadays the music is much more sophisticated. Billy Nalle, the organist on the "Young Dr. Malone" series on NBC, plays jazz for the show's music, improvising and weaving themes together as the action proceeds.

Nalle, who is also a pianist, disagrees with the widely held belief that background music is good only when it isn't really noticed.

"That usually means that the music is too pale to have meaning, and it is not performing its function of hyping emotions," Nalle said. "Good background music is like the frame of a picture—it should set off the whole thing. Even though it is not what you came to see, it can make the picture a lot more interesting."

Nalle broke the organ taboo on television. He played a jazz background on a CBS "Suspense" show in 1953 — long before the dramatic "Peter Gunn" theme music was even dreamed about.

The most interesting part of Tuesday night's "TV Guide Awards Show" on NBC was the result of the voting by readers on their favorite shows and performers. Presumably the most dedicated of TV viewers were the ones who cast their ballots in the magazine's poll. There were eight categories of shows.

"Sing Along With Mitch" won as the best musical or variety show. NBC's election night coverage and its nightly Humley-Brinkley news report were tops in their current events categories.

"Macbeth," an NBC Hall of Fame special, was chosen as the best dramatic program of the season. CBS' "The Andy Griffith Show" was picked by the public as its favorite new series, while CBS' "Perry Mason" and its star, Raymond Burr, were declared the favorite series and the favorite male star. Carol Burnett, of CBS' "Garry Moore Show," was voted the favorite female star.

The program wasted little time passing out the awards, and most of the 60 minutes was devoted to a series of rather uninspired sketches gently kidding—as usual — television ratings, commercials, cue cards, Westerns and private eyes.

Parents Killed; Children Injured

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP)—A car and a truck collided head-on on U.S. 29-A just south of here late Tuesday, killing a man and his wife and injuring two of their children.

Dead are Ray Adam Coxe and his wife, Lucille, both 45, of Dallas.

Judy Coxe, 11, suffered multiple injuries, including a collapsed lung. Her condition was said to be serious. Garry Michael Coxe, 7, suffered a broken leg and head injuries.

Hospital attendants said a third child, Terese Lucille Coxe, 8-months, was not injured.

State Highway Patrolman J. B. Kuykendall said the truck was driven by Bruno Vecarci, 31, of Providence, R. I. He was not injured. The patrolman said late Tuesday night that no charges had been placed in the accident.

Police chief Clinton Anderson told newsmen late Tuesday: "we don't consider her a runaway and we're not out looking for her."

The slender teen-ager dropped from sight Monday after leaving a note that she was "going away for a few days to think things over."

She was to be interviewed by a juvenile officer regarding an escapade with two other young girls last Sunday.

Police who arrested the trio said Cheryl's companions were drunk.

Cheryl had been a ward of Juvenile Court since the 1958 knife slaying of her mother's boy friend Johnny Stompanato.

Cheryl Crane Is Still Missing

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Cheryl Crane is still missing. But authorities expressed little serious concern today, even though Lana Turner's 17-year-old daughter had been gone three days.

Grifton's Street Lights Turned On

GRIFTON — Grifton's new mercury street lights were scheduled for operation last night, it was announced.

The old lights had been removed and the new ones, with new wiring, had been installed as of yesterday afternoon. About nine new lights were approved for the main street in action by the Grifton Town Board some time ago.

New poles for the lights were erected several weeks ago.

CHAPTER 22

They talked for three days before they upped Mayflower's anchor.

Sal Boyd never ceased to marvel at these discussions, which were almost as religious as they were political. They appeared to be an essential part of what the saints called the Discipline, or the Holy Discipline. Every man must be permitted to talk as often and as long as he pleased. They were forever saying that everything was in God's hands, yet they would debate all day and half the night, to rise the next morning and start debating all over again.

The children of course were kept apart from these meetings, which had about them very little order and no ceremony at all but a great deal of dignity because of the earnestness with which they were conducted; and the women prudently stayed away; but every grown man, even though a servant, was heard whenever he wished to hold forth on any subject whatever.

It seemed to Sal contrary to nature that human beings might presume to govern themselves. Quite possibly it was sacrilegious. If all things really were in God's hands, why not let them stay there? And it was a prodigious waste of time. For Sal had noted that no matter how many voices had been raised in passionate discourse and no matter how many hours had been spent in wrangling, the decision always concurred with the thoughts of a small group consisting of Elder Brewster, Governor Carver—they had elected this old man their governor, on what authority Sal Boyd couldn't see—and William Bradford, with, increasingly, that sly little London tailor, Isaac Allerton.

William Mullins, a man who without hesitation cast his voice with those of Carver, Bradford, Brewster, Allerton. There was a great show of fairness, but Sal noted that these men always won.

So it was that after three days of conversational preparation, and a great deal of prayer, Mayflower, towing the shallop, started west.

A freak wind denied them entrance into Thievish Harbor that night, which they spent in the open bay, but they did get in the next morning.

Unfortunately it was the Lord's Day, so they could do nothing. Thievish Harbor was largely shallow. Mayflower could not venture far in, and she was anchored a good mile and a half from the place where it had been proposed that they settle, just off Clarke's Island.

The prospect was gloomy, yet not as bleak as the one they had left. The trees here were taller and straighter, and there were more of them: pine, walnut, birch, beech, oak, hazel, ash. There was even sassafras, which might fetch a good price back home.

From a distance Sal could see that the soil was darker, less gritty. He could see, too, from time to time, the smoke of a fire. These fires were far inland. Near the shore there was no sign of life save birds, waterfowl which, happily, were numerous.

Sawn Matthews ranged alongside of him, similarly staring. "I wouldn't go ashore here if you was to hand me the whole land on a golden platter."

"Now there," said Sal, "is where you and me are different." Then he said: "Look, Sal, this is hard for me to believe. Do you really mean to stay here with these gawks?" "I guess I've got to. I don't know what'd happen to them if I didn't. They haven't got sense enough to come in out of the rain, by themselves."

"What the Hell do you care what happens to them?" Sal did not answer, and after a while Sawm went away.

For three days then there were parties of exploration. They touched at various points, often disappearing into the forest. One, in the ship's longboat, under the command of Captain Jones himself, went for some distance up a little river they named the Jones River. Mostly, however, the parties concentrated on two different spots.

One of these was a fairly clear place, a beach featured by a huge light-colored boulder, a notable landmark in this wilderness, which while by no means as flat and sandy as Cape Cod, was not stony.

The longboat would ground just short of that boulder. The shallop could not reach it at all. The other possible site was Clarke's Island nearby. The island would provide better protection against the sudden Indian attack that was in everybody's mind. On the other hand, the place behind the boulder already was more than half cleared, and it had that hill and that stream. An enormous amount of work would be needed even to clear Clarke's Island, and it was by no means certain that water would be found there.

The place behind the boulder finally was agreed upon, and yet another landing party was organized that night, the party that would really start the work of establishing New Plymouth.

They landed near the big rock, the keel grating bottom before the nose nudged the bank. They tumbled out, in no special order, an informal and rather boisterous landing; they turned to wave to those still aboard Mayflower, and then they went violently to work. They sniffed no flowers and sought no stones, nor did they pace the ground, but pitched right in.

It was different with Salathiel Boyd, as with Miles Standish. No ax or auger was handed to them. They had their guns, and they were to patrol the neighborhood, watching for signs of Indians.

While the others laid out a foundation for the Common House, the first building that they would construct, Captain Standish, it had been agreed, should climb to the top of the hill and survey as much of the surrounding countryside as he could see from there, being especially alert for signs of smoke, and Sal Boyd should scout the outer edges of the forest against the chance that savages were concealed there.

"If they slaughter me I'll try to yell first, so's you can get away," he had said. Yet he was by no means jocular when he went into the forest. It gave him a creepy feeling, tickling and chilling the back of his neck, the back of his head. Peril he had faced many a time in the past, when with cutlass or cudgel he had leaped from ship to ship; but peril in a yammering crowd was one thing, while peril faced alone, amid an eerie silence, peril that you couldn't see, was something else.

This was not like the neat parkish woods of England. It was a tangle of undergrowth almost tropical in its lushness, which made walking no stroll. Sal, a city man, a mariner, was not skilled at this manner of progress. Leaves crisped and twigs cracked under his feet. Once a hare scuttled away from a point almost directly between his feet, causing him to jump. Even so, he might have killed the thing, had he not feared that the sound of a shot at this stage of the work would cause alarm and even a panic among the men in the clearing. There would be time enough for bagging game later, when they'd all grown used to the feel of this place. He stumbled on, musket at the alert.

Hares abounded, each of them with that maddening trick of waiting until it was all but stepped upon before making a scramble for different cover. There were many birds and squirrels, and unexpectedly they looked fat. Sal had no doubt that there were wolves in America, and he had heard it said that there were lions as well, and possibly tigers. This did not disconcert him. He wore a helmet, also heavy back- and breastplates. The gun might fail to work, as guns so often did, but at his left side hung a sword, at his right a dagger.

Twice he caught the flash of a flag and heard the wallop. He would have risked a shot, chancing consternation in the clearing, but each time the deer was too far away; he could not expect to kill with this clumsy weapon at a greater distance than fifty or sixty yards. It was a pity. Those poor scurvy patients in sick bay would have been stirred simply to smelt venison.

Tomorrow, Sal Boyd discovers the most fantastic creatures he has ever seen.

Potato Digging Begins This Week

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. (AP)—Full-scale potato digging is expected to start this week in Pasquotank County.

Migrant workers to harvest the 4,000-acre crop have been moving into the area several days. Sheriff W. L. Thompson said two special deputies are working nights visiting the scattered labor camps.

U.S. Gold Picture Up; Britain's Down

By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK (AP)—The gold barometer currently is registering better weather for the U.S. dollar—and stormy prospects for the English pound.

But financial observers stress that the change is in the weather, always a temporary thing financially, and not in the long-term climate.

That is, they expect the British to ride out the buffeting of the pound by the current squall line of international currency turmoil. And they warn that the dollar's troubles of last fall could return, unless the nation's fundamental and still continuing financial problems are solved.

The current situation is pleasant enough for the U.S. dollar. The outflow of gold which reached a climax last October with a sharp but short rise in the world price for gold has been brought to a halt. And the most recent statement shows that the U.S. gold hoard actually increased by $17.4 million in the week ended June 7. This was the largest gain for any week in 3 1/2 years. This cut the outflow of gold for the year to date to $339 million.

The net outflow of gold between last July 1 and Feb. 21, when the steady loss came to a halt, was $2 billion. The price of gold, which rose on the London free market to nearly $41 an ounce in October, is now down to just above $35.06. This is less than it costs to buy it from the U.S. Treasury at $35 and transport it there.

During the gold rush of last year, 26 countries bought gold from the United States. Great Britain bought $700 million worth in the last half of 1960 and $150 million in the first three months of 1961, the most of any nation. But the flow apparently has been reversed in recent weeks.

Foreign-owned short-term funds which had been flowing into London because interest rates were high there have been withdrawn because rates have fallen. So British reserves of gold and dollars have been falling and the pound has been weak on foreign-exchange markets.

Wall Street figures that London may have been selling gold here to get the dollars she needs.

The abortive run on the dollar last fall followed rumors that the United States might devalue it by raising the official price of gold above $35 an ounce. The rumors fed on a three-year deficit in overseas payments which had led to a steady loss of U.S. gold.

The deficit was caused by the greater outflow of dollars abroad for imports, foreign aid, military bases, private investment, tourist travel than was returned by the sale of exports, returns on overseas investments and on various services.

The run on the dollar halted after both the Eisenhower and the Kennedy administrations vowed to protect the dollar and to keep the price of gold at the present level.

Badge Collection Has Wide Variety

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Don Rosen has a collection of more than 200 policemen's badges from all parts of the world. They include:

A hand-made, 125-year-old shield from the Buffalo Police Department, a 3-inch by 5-inch badge from the constabulary in Bristol, England, and badges formerly worn by officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Scotland Yard and Sing Sing Prison.

Four countries and more than 25 states are represented in the collection. By law, anyone under Portugal's flag is Portuguese, whatever his racial stock.

READY! Newspaper Advertising Readers Are Ready To Buy!
Newspaper readers are attracted to your advertising because it interests them. They are more apt to be live, "ready-to-buy" prospects than is the case with readers and viewers of other advertising media. Live prospects are easier to sell. They actually shop the newspaper ads—they want to be sold, and are looking for information to help make a buying decision. Take housewives, for example—research* proves that 75% of them check the ads in the daily newspaper before making their main shopping trips of the week. It's that kind of readiness on the part of newspaper readers that can mean ready sales for you!

Freedom Riders Leave Wilmington; Riding South To Charleston Today

By CHARLES L. WEST
WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Fourteen white and Negro "freedom riders" split into groups of seven today to continue their assault - by - bus on segregation in Dixie.

The first group was to depart this morning by scheduled public (Greyhound) bus for Charleston with the second group traveling the same route a few hours later, also by scheduled bus.

All intend to spend the night in Charleston and resume their journey to Jacksonville, Fla., Thursday morning. They are not passing through Alabama or Mississippi where riots and arrests met other "freedom riders" before them.

The inter-racial group, sponsored by the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE), is testing whether Negroes can use the same facilities as white passengers in interstate travel.

A second group of riders, composed of four Jewish rabbis, eight white protestant ministers and six Negro ministers, spent the night in Raleigh.

"As interstate passengers, we have a Supreme Court verdict saying this is our right," said the Rev. Gordon D. Negen, 29-year-old white minister from New York who is participating in the ride.

Ralph Diamond, 36, a tall muscular Negro who is leading the riders, said "we just thought it would be wiser" to split into two groups for the trip from Wilmington to Charleston, through a portion of South Carolina where segregation feeling is high.

"We have several tests we want to conduct," Diamond continued, "and thought it would be better to do it in small groups."

The "freedom riders" passed quietly through Virginia and North Carolina Tuesday, the first day of their trip from Washington.

"We have been treated with utmost courtesy," the Rev. Mr. Negen said. "The nearest thing to an accident was here in Wilmington. And it wasn't an accident, just crowds of whites and police outside the station."

County Solicitor (Prosecutor) John M. Walker had advised residents of Wilmington in advance of this "freedom ride," and said in a public letter:

"I beg all of our citizens and lawful visitors to keep our personal and public conduct above reproach during these unwarranted invasions of our area."

To backstop Walker's plea, Wilmington Police Chief J. J. Padrick had a force of about 10 uniformed officers at the bus terminal when the "freedom riders" arrived in late afternoon. Stationed out of sight were several state highway patrol cars, keeping in touch with the situation through the city police's elaborate mobile communications truck, parked across from the terminal.

But the officers weren't needed. The "freedom riders" got off the bus, entered the terminal restaurant, bought refreshments and then left by taxi for a Negro hotel, where both white and Negro riders spent the night. Police patrolled the area through the night.

"We have felt that because of the lack of incidents our trip has been very successful so far," said the Rev. Mr. Negen, pastor of Manhattan Christian Reformed Church.

"We don't want to provoke antagonism unnecessarily, but it is good moral support to let the people here know we are behind them." He said the riders were trained by CORE before undertaking the trip. "They emphasized how we should not act," the white minister continued. "Not loud, no violence... we will not fight back."

The Rev. Mr. Negen and other members of the group said they were not seeking publicity and wanted no trouble, although they were willing to face trouble if it came.

They were asked how they felt about the risk to which they were exposing fellow passengers - not connected with the freedom riders - on public busses they take. None seemed particularly concerned about this.

"There clearly is risk to other passengers," said James O'Conner, 31-year-old white teacher at Barnard College in New York. "But you have to take some risk. Because the bus is a public conveyance, other passengers will be involved."

Benny Winston, 42-year-old Negro of New York City, added, "If there is no violence, no one will get hurt."

The Rev. Robert J. Stone, white minister and pastor of Adams-Parkhurst Presbyterian Church in New York City, was spokesman for the group that stayed in Raleigh. He said his party also encountered no incidents from Washington to Raleigh. The party stayed at Shaw University, a Negro institution in Raleigh.

Eased Pain Of Cancer Victim

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Johnnie Dougherty went to bed Tuesday night with a smile on his face and without his usual sedative.

Perhaps the pleasure he derived from his visit to the Philadelphia Zoo eased temporarily the pain the 4-year-old cancer victim has known for several months.

To visit the zoo has been Johnnie's only wish since last December. Tuesday it came true because his many friends wanted it that way.

An ambulance brought Johnnie who has had his left leg amputated and has lost the sight of his left eye, from his suburban Ridley Township home to the zoo.

The boy, who realizes he is seriously ill but has not been told he has cancer and may not have long to live, was moved into a wheelchair and taken slowly around the special section for children.

His widowed mother, Elizabeth Dougherty, was at his side.

Johnnie was especially pleased when attendants placed a baby lion on his wheelchair and allowed him to feed the animal milk from a baby's bottle.

"He loved that," Mrs. Dougherty said.

But when he spotted two big lions apparently fighting, he told his mother he wanted to move on quickly.

"He was really happy," said Mrs. Dougherty after it was all over. "He said he loved it. He didn't talk much. He was so busy watching."

"When we got home he was playing and eating a little better. I didn't have to give him a sedative."

"It makes your heart feel good to see how he was smiling. I'd love to take him again if he'd improve just a little bit."

Selective Service Will Call 100,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service System Tuesday estimated the draft call for the next fiscal year at 100,000 men.

The agency told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee that originally it had expected to draft 110,000 young men, up to the age limit of 26 years, during the fiscal year ending June 30.

'This Is Your Life' Not To Feature Ralph Edwards

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When Ralph Edwards does his final "This Is Your Life" show next month, the subject will not be Ralph Edwards.

"I have a simple way to prevent it," says Edwards. "I have told my staff the day after it happens, they're all fired."

June 18 will bring the end of an 11-year history (two on radio, nine on TV), of "This Is Your Life." I called on Ralph in his luxurious Hollywood Boulevard office for a pre-mortem talk.

"Naturally I'm sorry it's going off," he remarked. "I can't quite understand why NBC is dropping it; the network still has to pay us for one more season under the contract."

"But we're not standing still here. We'll still have 16 half-hours of shows on the networks—'Truth Or Consequences,' 'It Could Be You' and 'About Faces' in the daytime. And now 'It Could Be You' will also be going into the nighttime spot vacated by 'This Is Your Life.'"

I asked Ralph to pick the five most memorable of his shows and he replied thusly (not necessarily in order):

1. Dr. Laurence C. Jones, the "Little Professor of Piney Woods," for whom viewers contribute a million dollars to endow his school for Negroes in Mississippi.

2. Lillian Roth, whom "the American public gave a helping hand" in her fight with alcoholism.

3. Darlene Miller, oldest of five Iowa orphans who stuck together after their parents died. Ralph remembers her because she got stuck on the freeway and arrived three minutes before the show was over.

4. Lowell Thomas, whose caustic comments provided front-page publicity and "the most humorous show ever on TV"

5. "At least 100 of the 400 people we've done, a great cross-section of the American People."

House Says No To Tobacco Tax

RALEIGH — The House has voiced disapproval of a proposed tax on tobacco in a 2-1 vote.

Considered by many as an alternate to a food tax as a possible source of additional revenue for the educational program, the proposal was made by Rep. Buck Harris of Wake.

A motion to table the suggested tobacco tax — to kill it, in effect — was made by Beaufort Rep. Wayland Sermons.

Lengthy opposition was made by Durham's Rep. Eugene Brooks III, who defended tobacco as the product that has "made us great—brought us up to where we are in the state."

Brooks said that he "couldn't see taxing the greatest industry we've got."

Final vote was 77 in favor of tabling the motion—in favor of not taxing tobacco, actually, and 42 against the motion — presumably in favor of the tax.

Criticizes NSC For Announcing Death Estimates

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Gov. John N. Dempsey Tuesday criticized the National Safety Council for its public predictions of holiday traffic death tolls.

The governor said the predictions either leave motorists unconcerned or create a feeling of anxiety or nervousness in drivers. "I for one don't want any anxious, nervous drivers on our highways, especially during a holiday when traffic is exceptionally heavy," Dempsey said.

The governor, also, disapproves of the manner in which the estimates are later interpreted.

"What should be our reaction if the death toll was 34 fewer than the 436 predicted over such a holiday," he asked.

"Will we rejoice that 34 lives were saved and only 402 persons were killed? This is a natural reaction when a performance is better than anticipated."

Unplowed Land, Residues Good Land-Saving Practice

Can corn and soy beans be planted without first turn-plowing the land? "Yes," says J. D. Adams, conservation farmer living in Grindie Creek watershed. "I tried corn side by side in one field and the corn is six inches taller where I didn't plow."

Adams continued, "The soybeans I planted in disked land all came up in three days and the soybeans I planted on the same day in land I had broken are still not all up."

The idea of not turn-plowing land came as a result of John Adams' request for farm planning assistance from the Coastal Plain Soil Conservation District.

He made the request when he began negotiations to purchase additional land. He applied to FHA for financial assistance to purchase this acreage and to carry out needed soil and water conservation work.

FHA Supervisor Sen White and Work Unit Conservationist Roy Beck visited Adams' farm on March 29. While walking over the plowed fields, Beck kept pointing out the need to leave all of last year's corn stalks, soybean straw and other crop residue on the soil surface rather than burying it six inches deep by plowing.

At that time Adams had about half his fields broken. The recent rains had crusted the plowed ground. Fields not yet plowed were soft and the top soil was loose.

Beck suggested that, when Adams started plowing under the corn stalks on one unplowed field, he leave about an acre unplowed. He suggested that Adams just double-disk the soil and plant the whole field in the same way.

On April 21, Adams broke half the three-acre field and smoothed it with a drag harrow. He tandem-harrowed the other half twice, smoothing it with a two-by-six plank dragged behind the harrow during the second time over.

Adams planted the entire field in corn the same day. He used about 300 pounds 5-10-10 fertilizer per acre. According to Adams, the corn came up more quickly and more evenly in the unplowed land.

Then the rains came. Adams was able to cultivate his field on June 2, Adams says. "The crop residue on the unplowed land gave very little trouble, but I do have a few more cockleburrs on that side."

Since not plowing for the corn had saved at least one third on his land preparation costs, Adams decided to try both methods for soybeans. He planted both fields June 5. In three days, the beans came up evenly where the land had just been disked. Adams calls the stand "sort of ragged" where the land was turn plowed.

According to Adams, it's the management of moisture that makes the difference. "When you plow, you let the top dry out, then turn that dry soil under and let the upturned soil dry out. Then you plant your seed in dry soil and hope for a good soaking rain. If a hard rain comes, the soil washed, then dries to a hard crust," he explains.

"Where I didn't plow, the soil held its moisture under all that crop residue. My corn and beans sprouted right away. And the hard rains didn't wash and crust the soil."

NEW YORK (AP) — Sophia Loren has a two-word recipe for avoiding nervous tension: "Please yourself."

The onetime waif of Naples in less than a decade worked her way up from modeling to become one of the world's busiest as well as most beautiful actresses.

Sophia took me to lunch the other day during a break in the task of dubbing in English dialogue for her 30th film.

"I have the philosophy of a peasant," she said. "Take it easy—everything is going to be all right."

Lunching with Miss Loren is more of a treat than going to see her in a movie.

Sophia showed up in a pink sheath dress. Her enormous green eyes, flecked with gold, gave her a strange look—as if she were half-panther, half-gazelle.

Gazing out a 48th floor window at all the new buildings rising in mid-Manhattan she exclaimed: "It must get tired—holding up so many, many tall buildings. Aren't you afraid some day it will all sink?"

Walters fluttered up, cooling solicitously in several languages.

"I love to eat," said Sophia.

"It's my only pleasure while working. I like any food that is spicy and full of sauce."

Chattering charmingly, she went from an aperitif through a small plate of sliced tongue and ham, a dish of kidney stew, potatoes and vegetables, two glasses of red wine, two bread rolls, then wound up with a big slice of cake topped with whipped cream.

She is a tall girl with a lot of lovely body to fuel, and so far she doesn't have to worry about gaining weight. It's a real pleasure to eat with a woman like that particularly if you go as a guest.

"There are some people who add up their calories as they eat," she murmured. "I prefer to add up the number of dishes."

Sophia doesn't feel that success has changed her much since the childhood days when she felt herself to be a thin and gawky ugly duckling. She is poised, friendly, and completely self-possessed.

"I'm very strong. I have always tried to keep myself as naive and innocent as possible," she said.

"But I like to work hard, and don't believe in drifting. I never liked to be taken by the routine of life or to become tense and nervous.

"It is a hard thing to do, but I try to look at things in a relaxed way."

"I think you get tense only by doing things you don't really want to do. So I please myself. I do only the things that please and interest me. Why not? When I get tired, I'll stop."

Science At Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A supposed scientific adventure into eugenics, a remarkable talk about satellite, reams of science fiction, and an assassin bug are subjects for science at work: Science Fiction?

Supposing it is 1975, and supposing since 1946 the Russians have been embarked on a super-secret Project G—a project aimed at developing supermen and superwomen.

This is the theme of a science fiction thriller written for the Bulletin of the American Institute of Biological Sciences by R. A. McConnell of the University of Pittsburgh.

Supposing since 1946 the Russians each year had chosen 1,000 women of superior scientific aptitude and physical stamina—and these women conceived children by artificial insemination with sperm from men of similar attributes. Then supposing the offspring were mated with similar offspring. What would such an adventure into eugenics prove?

"Remove from history 1,000 great names in science, 1,000 in philosophy and religion, 1,000 more in the arts, and the rest of us would still be Bronze Age savages," McConnell says.

And if the Russians did try to breed a human elite, by 1975 you could reasonably suppose that they would need little more time before they would be able to speed up the evolutionary process so that 50,000 years of development would take place in the span of a lifetime, McConnell writes.

Remember? Three years ago the United States threw up a puny challenge to the Soviet Sputniks, a grapefruit-sized satellite called Vanguard I.

Using solar power it is still transmitting radio signals and possibly will for hundreds of years. By now it has orbited the earth nearly 12,000 times, covering more than 409 billion miles.

So far it has helped scientists learn: That the earth is slightly pear-shaped. That the light from the sun has enough pressure to modify the path of a satellite in orbit. That sunlight can be converted to electricity for radio power. That the gravity of the sun and the moon affect a satellite's orbit around the earth.

Reading Material
If you set out to scan the 60 million pages of technical literature produced in the world last year alone, it would take you 463 years.

And think about this: Each 24 hours the world's scientists produce enough technical papers to fill seven sets of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

And if that isn't frightening enough, every ten years the amount of technical literature in existence doubles, writes Lawrence Ross in a Georgia Tech publication, Research Engineer. Masked Bedbug Hunters

It is masked and it hunts bedbugs and it is called the masked bedbug hunter, one of a group of assassin bugs that live off other insects.

The assassin bugs live all over the Americas, but mostly south of the New York — Denver latitude. Most of them live on the blood of other insects.

Curiously the masked bedbug hunter looks like a bit of lint when it is still young, thanks to the fact that dust and fibers stick to its body. You'd hardly notice it unless it moved, says a report on assassin bugs prepared by the Smithsonian Institution.

Correll And Gosden Starting New Career

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Amos 'n' Andy may have retired, but the longtime team of Correll and Gosden is carrying on.

The boys are starting a whole new career—in whiteface, so to speak.

"We even had to join the Screen Actors Guild for the first time," says Freeman Gosden, who played Amos and the Kingfish.

Charles Correll, the deep-voiced Andy, couldn't make it to lunch. His partner explained: "Charlie just got back from trying to see 20 countries in 26 days. He's resting up."

Gosden has enough enthusiasm for both of them, and he was excited about their new venture. They are playing the voices of a new TV cartoon series, "Calvin and Colonel."

"I play a Southern colonel," said Gosden. "That comes easy to me since I was born in the South (Richmond) and my father fought in the Civil War with Mosby's raiders. Charlie's family was originally from the South. He plays a bear—a lazy bear with an eye for females; I'm a fox. They're both Southern, but not colored."

This is the first time in 45 years that Correll and Gosden haven't played in blackface—vocally or otherwise. Both started in minstrel shows in the South. They met and joined forces in Durham, N.C., in 1919. The next year they did their first broadcast in New Orleans. They began their "Sam 'n' Henry" series in Chicago in 1926 and switched to "Amos 'n' Andy" two years later.

"A 'n' A" ended 32 years on radio last November. "They just couldn't afford our show any more," said Gosden. "We were the last of the big-name shows to go."

"People have asked us if we don't miss the glamor of it. We never had the glamor. We worked the same as if we worked for a steel company. We went to the studio on schedule, did our work and left. We were the only stars who weren't recognized."

Fears, Tensions Lead To Disease

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Fears, threats and tensions can lead to diseases of all kinds, says the president of the American Neurological Association.
Dr. Harold G. Wolff, who is also a professor of neurology at the Cornell University Medical College, said Monday overwhelming evidence has been gathered during 30 years of studies to show that nearly all disease involves the nervous system.

He told the annual meeting of the neurological association that researchers believe even such diseases as measles, whooping cough and colds have a psychosomatic basis.
Wolff said research indicates that hypochondriacs, persons with morbid anxieties about their health, actually seem more prone to disease than those with less anxiety about their health.

Quality-Raising Tests Adopted

In order to improve the quality of graduate work at East Carolina, the Policies Committee of the College and the Board of Trustees have just approved a testing program which is expected to result in improvement of the type of work done and a more selective list of students studying toward the master's degree, President Leo W. Jenkins has announced.

According to the new academic regulations, all students who wish to do graduate work toward a degree must complete successfully a standardized graduate examination before they matriculate.

After completion of one quarter of graduate work, students will be required to pass the Graduate Record Examination in order to be admitted as candidates for the master's degree. The requirement "that graduate students should pass these two tests," President Jenkins stated, "is another step in upgrading the graduate program at East Carolina."

East-West All-Stars Begin Arriving This Afternoon

By LEONARD LAO Reflector Sports Writer

Some fifty of the top high school baseball players in the state of North Carolina were scheduled to arrive in Greenville this afternoon at 2 o'clock to prepare for the Second Annual East-West All-Star Baseball games...

Mr. Jim Taylor of Greenville and Jim Mallory, coach of East Carolina's National Baseball Champions, are co-chairmen of the affair...

The All-Star games will be sponsored by the Greenville Lions Club, with all proceeds from the games going to Boys Home...

Admission prices for the three games will be $1.00 for each contest, or a three game ticket may be purchased for only $2.00 in advance...

There is one game scheduled for Friday night, to begin at 7:30 p.m. On Saturday night, there are two games on tap...

Mallory, who is one who can pick his baseball players with great success, is very excited about this year's games...

Here are the rosters for the East-West All-Star games:

Table listing players for the EAST All-Star team, including Pitchers, Catchers, Infielders, and Outfielders.

Table listing players for the WEST All-Star team, including Pitchers, Catchers, Infielders, and Outfielders.

Frank Robinson is a 'complete' ball player... He has already hit more home runs than any other right-handed hitter as a Red...

Yanks Back In Third Place Because They Can't Crumble 'Upper Crust'

The New York Yankees can pulverize the basement bunch and hold their own against the guys in the middle, but they still can't make the upper crust clubs crumble...

The Yankees, included in the upper crust of the standings with Cleveland and Detroit, are 8-8 against the second division - Baltimore, Washington and Boston...

Tribe, and Bubba Phillips homered leading off a two-run second. Jim Perry (5-4) won his third in a row, although needing relief help in the ninth from Frank Funk...

then clinched it with a two-run single when they scored four in the seventh and beat Norm Bass (4-4). Ray Moore (4-2) was the winner in relief.

150 Against 'Monster' In National Open Play

The principal changes in the course have been the elimination of seven traps, mostly in the target areas and some changes to greens. Golf architect Robert Trent Jones estimates it is 1 1/2 to 2 strokes a round easier unless the rough is allowed to grow deep at some danger spots.

The monster was the name given the Oakland Hills course in 1951, when Ben Hogan won here. It has stuck to golf-wise persons the contest isn't so much among the 150 players, survivors of an original field of more than 2,400...

Boycott Of Track Meet Results In Suspensions

HOUSTON (AP) - Eight members of the Texas Southern University track team have drawn temporary suspensions from Amateur Athletic Union competition because they withdrew from the track Meet of Champions.

"Segregation was not an issue," Bob Goehrs, chairman of the Gulf AAU registration committee, said. "Those eight boys entered the meet, and we're not only concerned with the fact that they did not appear to fulfill their commitment..."

Gus Pulls 'Boo-Boo' But Can Ignore It

BALTIMORE (AP) - Baseball players are happy when they win - no matter what happens on the field. Gus Triandos proved the point Tuesday night.

The big Oriole catcher worries when he doesn't hit. And he's sensitive to boos from fans who apparently expect him to hit a home run every time at the plate.

Executive Battling Old Status Symbol

B. FRANK WHITE
The Executive Desk . . .

DALLAS (AP) — B. Frank White is campaigning against the grand old status symbol—the executive desk.

"It seems," he says, "that desks are provided for executives according to their positions—the larger the job, the larger the desk."

And, as head of the Internal Revenue Service for a five-state region, White is entitled to a pretty big one.

But, after conducting a time-motion study of his own work, he decided that it had to go.

"I spent 60 to 65 percent of my time conferring with people, 30 percent reading and 5 to 10 percent signing my name," he says.

"It was obvious the desk served no purpose in conferences except to impress the visitor."

"It was equally apparent that the only comfortable way to read at a desk was to pull out a bottom drawer and lean back with my feet up."

So White's office now resembles a comfortable, well-decorated living room, complete with sectional sofa, coffee table, paintings and lamps.

In one corner is a comfortable chair for reading and a foot-rest and lamp.

Almost hidden is a stool and a tilted writing surface on which he signs letters.

"I tried to decorate my office in the same informal way that I would want my home," he says.

White feels the typical executive has a double standard in the way his home and office are decorated.

"He would never think of putting brown, over-stuffed leather furniture in his home because it is so cold and formal. Nor would he ever remain seated behind a desk to greet a visitor."

"But this is the way things are done in a business office," White says his new furnishings are a great help in communicating with visitors.

"I tried to do away with three sources of tension—harsh lights, harsh surfaces and the harsh sound of the telephone," he says.

His own telephone is tucked away in a movable portion of the wall.

White feels many executives can profit by a close look at what they are trying to accomplish in the light of their equipment and the atmosphere in which they spend a large part of their time.

"People must be relaxed in order to do better work," he says.

He passes along his ideas on efficiency to the revenue service employees under him.

"The same need for analysis goes for paper work, too," he says.

"Here in the internal revenue, we spend time looking for short cuts, questioning the need for new and old reports and analyzing our work flow."

"Each task must be justified in terms of necessity."

"These factors are all wrapped up in this business of achieving full potential in both human resources and office facilities."

Miller Gives Impetus To Nixon Governor Prospects

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — National Chairman William E. Miller has added some heat to the fire Republicans seem to be building to get Richard M. Nixon into the 1962 California governor's race.

Miller tossed off the "personal guess" Tuesday that when the time comes the former vice president will decide he is the only man who can save the sagging California GOP by running against Democratic Gov. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown.

The party's 1964 presidential nomination, puts it another way. He says that Nixon either will have to run for state office or bow out of politics.

Graham Is Ashamed Of America's Racial Role

DERBY, England (AP) — Billy Graham told a luncheon rally of factory workers today he is ashamed that Americans have taken part in Southern racial violence.

"I was born in the Deep South, where these latest race riots have broken out in Alabama," the American evangelist told workers at the Rolls Royce aircraft engine plant here.

"I am very deeply ashamed for the fact that my fellow-countrymen could do these things, and every decent American is ashamed with me."

Crusade headquarters also announced that, to date, 12,000 persons have accepted Graham's invitation to dedicate their lives to Christ.

More than a quarter of a million persons have heard sermons by Graham relayed by telephone to several hundred north of England communities, his headquarters announced today.

Recovering From Ten-Day Ordeal

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — Two half-starved, sunburned brothers are easing back onto normal diet after living on a life raft for 10 days on two cups of rain water and a fish.

Dr. L. M. Richards, 28, Limona, Fla., optometrist, said, "It was just by the grace of God" that he and his brother, Eric, 30, of Melbourne, Fla., were alive when rescued in the Gulf of Mexico.

The yacht All Alone spotted the brothers Tuesday and picked them up 90 miles southeast of Panama City. An Air Force helicopter took them to Tyndall Air Force Base hospital and the two later were transferred to a civilian hospital.

The Richards took off from Tampa June 3 in a single-engine plane for Guatemala. After landing at Cross City, Fla., to repair a fuel line, they took off on the New Orleans leg of their flight. Over the Gulf of Mexico the plane developed engine trouble and caught fire. The brothers ditched and launched a one-man life raft which had no food or water.

Firemen Called To Burning Nest

Firemen were called to 403 Jarvis St., yesterday about 4:59 p.m. when a squirrel's nest caught fire.

Fire officers explained the nest was in the wall of the dwelling, and reported that moderate damage resulted to the wall. No report was made as to the damage to the nest.

Cause of the fire was not listed by officers.

A prospective customer on a used car lot sometimes will give a tire an authoritative kick. Presumably, this is a testing method that will reveal the number of miles of service still in the tire. But the used car dealer can be fairly certain the tire-kicker knows very little about automobiles. The test is useless.

power for modern conveniences. Buyers want to know, therefore, whether the circuits will handle all appliances without the necessity of electrical additions at a later date. This asked 10 or 15 years ago.

In much the same way, years ago, home buyers would attempt to hide their lack of knowledge by conducting little tests intended to uncover poor quality but actually of no value.

Other frequent questions concern the waterproofing of the foundation, the distance between studs, the type of sheathing used and the plumbing and heating units. There is considerable interest in sound transmission between rooms. Siding and roof shingles also get attention. How often must the exterior be repainted with that particular kind of siding? And are the shingles of the type that will stay in place under high wind conditions?

Home buyers these days are far wiser. For one thing, many of them are buying a home for a second or third time. Experience has taught them what is important in a house and what isn't. For another, they have become educated to the importance of good construction by the increased reading material on this subject available to them in newspapers and magazines.

Builders have discovered that home shoppers ask knowledgeable questions that can not be dismissed with perfunctory answers. Sales representatives of the builders must really know what's in the house as well as how many rooms it has. Some builders have conducted regular training periods that the information is correct.

Local Woman Plans Tour Europe And U.S. To Attend Assemblies

Miss Alberta Manning, of Route 1, Box 24, Greenville, will be among the many persons who will travel the United States and Europe this summer to attend a series of assemblies of Jehovah's Witnesses. The first in this series will be held in Yankee Stadium in New York City, June 20-25. For ten consecutive weeks, a convention will begin in a major city, including Copenhagen, Denmark; Hamburg, Germany; London, England; Paris, France; and San Francisco, California.

The European trip since 1958 when 253,000 came from 122 lands to attend the "Divine Will International Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses," held in New York City. She said, "I became acquainted with many of our brothers from around the world. Now I expect to return the visit and see how they promote Bible educational work in other lands. As I travel from country to country, I plan to share in the ministry and encourage Bible study just as I do here in Greenville. Although I cannot speak any of the European languages, arrangements are being made for me to accompany some of the local Witnesses, and, of course, many of the Europeans speak English."

Far From Optimistic Over Small Loan Bill

RALEIGH.—The outlook for the small loan bill looks gloomy to many of the Senators favoring the version they have passed.

Many of those working hardest on the bill and working most closely with representatives in the House feel that the Senate amendments will not pass House scrutiny.

A conference committee is predicted by many, and the result could be a deadlock with no decision acceptable to both the Senate and House—or a possible delay in adjournment, which would not suit many, either.

Only two Senators were heard voicing disapproval of the rates agreed upon by the Senate. These provide for interest charges of $19 on the first $100 borrowed, $17 additional on the second hundred, and $15 more on the third hundred dollars. On each of the next hundred up to $600, an additional $8 would be charged in interest rates.

The subject of small loans, a subject bringing forth as much controversy and discussion as any other matter before this session of the General Assembly, became in its final stages in the Senate a question of who deserved protection—the borrower or the lender.

Sen. Cutlar Moore of Robeson and Sen. Luther Hamilton of Carteret seemed alone in fearing that the suggested interest rates approved by the Senate Banking Committee might not provide

By PIERCE LEHMBECK

NEW YORK (AP)—The second massive power failure in less than two years threw five square miles of midtown Manhattan into a 4½-hour chaos involving millions Tuesday. It was the hottest June 13th in the city's history.

From skyscraper peak to subway bottom—and in between—citizens of this always cramped metropolis were snarled in the vivid example of electricity's value to modern man.

Sen. Jennings King of Scotland countered with the charge that since 1953 the loan and insurance companies have combined to rob the people of North Carolina.

"I am concerned only with the welfare and protection of the small loan borrower; I am not interested in the protection of small loan companies," added Sen. King.

As for raising the interest charges for compromise with House members, Sen. King said that the Senate committee has already raised the rates as far as it can.

Sen. King, introducer of the Senate small loans bill, told colleagues that eleven other states have rates lower than the amended version of his bill now has.

The King bill was included in the House bill and goes under the name of the House bill—Braswell, for its Wayne County sponsor.

found themselves hopelessly tangled face-to-face as well.

In hospitals, some patients were caught on operating tables. Emergency generators were thrown into use and disaster averted.

The temperature had reached 96 degrees at mid-afternoon, a record for the date and the highest in two years. Throughout the city air conditioners droned by the hundreds of thousands.

But the Consolidated Edison Co., although reporting it had had the largest load in history from 3 to 4 p.m.—said overloading had not caused the power failure.

The company said the trouble appeared to have started when a circuit-breaker caught fire in a transformer at a substation on West 65th Street between Amsterdam and West End Avenues, where high voltage is reduced for distribution into the streets.

As a result, the company said, a breakdown also occurred at a substation on East 63rd Street and a substation in Long Island City, across the East River, which supplies power to Manhattan.

While they waited for power to return, the harried, sweating New Yorkers remembered with some anxiety that it had taken 8 to 12 hours to restore power in a similar blackout Aug. 17, 1959.

Workmen raced the setting sun to get the power back before dark came to the vast caverns of midtown Manhattan.

They succeeded first in restoring power on the East Side from 42nd to 77th streets, and between Broadway and Fifth Avenue below Central Park.

Later, power was restored in an irregular pattern on the West Side from 43rd to 71st streets. All power was back by 9:27 p.m., an hour after sunset.

A force of 3,500 policemen was ordered into the blacked-out area, supplemented by scores of civil defense workers. Motorists were warned to keep out. Searchlights were rushed to strategic intersections.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner was in Washington, attending the national mayors' conference, when the crisis struck. He kept in touch by telephone.

Only the alternating current was affected in the power failure. The flow of direct current was not impeded.

World-renowned hotels—the Astor on Times Square, the Park Sheraton on the West Side and the Waldorf-Astoria on the East Side—were without air conditioning and electric light.

Telephone service was continued throughout the area, through use of special equipment.

The Independent subway division, the city's newest and fastest, was knocked out for an hour above 42nd street. Tens of thousands of its rush hour passengers were stranded, many in tunnels beneath the East River.

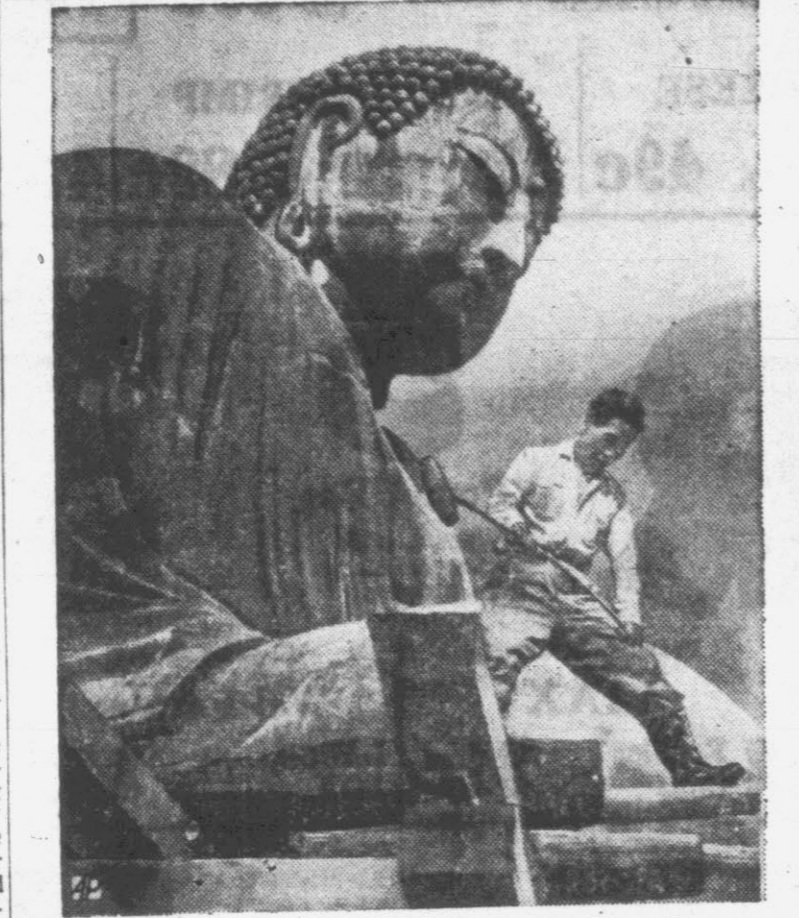

Fortunately, the electrified third rails stayed on, supplied by direct current, and the stranded travelers had lights and fans. Still, many fainted.

Because the automatic signals were out, a system of hand signals was devised in the darkened tunnels.

Thousands of the Independent subway riders hurried through teeming streets to stations of the BMT and IRT subways for roundabout routes home. These lines were taxed beyond capacity.

Railroad commuters were not affected, once they were able to struggle from the stricken area to Grand Central Terminal and Pennsylvania Station.

Police and emergency units rendered aid wherever it was needed. Eight persons, including two women, needed an administration of oxygen after they were trapped in an elevator for 90 minutes in the New York Coliseum.

SHORING UP—The base of the Buddha at Kamakura, Japan, is reinforced to make it earthquake proof. The statue was elevated for a steel and concrete foundation.

Principal Joins Faculty Of ECC

Lewis H. Swindell, Jr., principal of the John H. Small School in Washington, N. C., for the past several years, has joined the faculty of East Carolina College as associate professor in the department of education.

Mr. Swindell began work at the college this month and is teaching courses in education during the 1961 Summer School.

After graduation from Wake Forest College with the bachelor of science degree, he was awarded the master's degree at East Carolina in 1948, and is scheduled to receive the doctorate in education from the University of North Carolina in August.

Mr. Swindell's experience as a teacher and school administrator includes posts in Bolivia, Farmville, and Washington, N. C.

He is a past president of the Division of Principals of the North Carolina Education Association, and also of the North Carolina Department of Elementary School Principals. He is a member of the Advisory Committee of the State Curriculum Study and is editor of the North Carolina School Boards Bulletin and executive secretary of the North Carolina School Boards Association.

Postal Receipts Up 13.6 Per Cent Says Postmaster

A 13.6 percent increase in receipts for the 11th and 12th postal accounting periods in the fourth period this year has been reported by the local Post Office, through Postmaster J. Knott Proctor.

Receipts for the quarter so far this year are $41,814.75, compared to $36,796.53 for the same period last year. The 12th accounting period for this year ended May 26 and the postal fiscal year will end about June 23.

The increase in receipts is rated as a rather high one, according to postal officials.

Total mail volume for the period this year is 1,296,000 compared to 1,295,000 for the same period last year, which includes the 11th and 12th accounting periods. There are three accounting periods in this quarter.

Decorated Pilot Guilty Of Assault

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A former Air Force major who was personal pilot to Sir Winston Churchill and King George VI, was free under $1,500 bond today pending a probation report.

Woodrow W. Dickey pleaded guilty in court Tuesday to indecent assault on a teen-age youth. Six charges of crimes against nature were dropped.

Dickey, a contractor, was arrested in March with 17 other persons when police broke up a homosexual ring.

Dickey was assigned by the Air Force to pilot other European dignitaries such as Yugoslavia's King Peter II and Great Britain's Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander.

He received many decorations from foreign governments.

Clattering Dishes Annoy Eddie

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A strawberry blonde waitress sent a trayful of pans clattering to the floor during Eddie Fisher's closing night performance in Las Vegas.

The singer, annoyed, asked the waitress to be quiet. She replied by heckling him in a Cockney accent.

Finally Fisher caught on. He noticed that the seat he'd reserved for his wife, actress Elizabeth Taylor, was empty. He invited the waitress—Miss Taylor—to the stage to take a bow.

Bright opening number of Northwestern University's revue has the zing and gaiety of a Broadway musical.

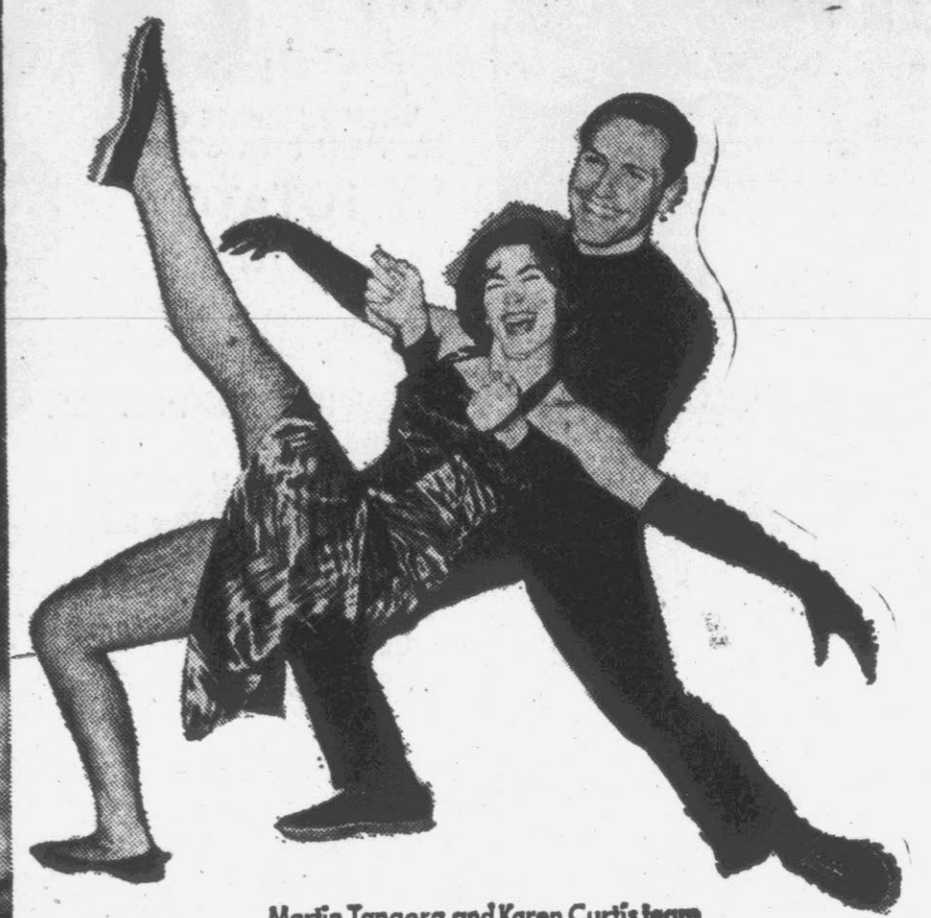

Every year since 1929, except during World War II, Northwestern University's students stage a musical revue. The sets, costumes and lighting, and even the gals, have a Broadway and Hollywood look.

This year's big Waa-Mu revue is "Don't Make a Scene." The production parodies events and personalities of the past and present. About 125 students take part in the 34 numbers, and 110 others work behind the scenes at make-up, stagehanding and wardrobe repair and altering.

The show's general manager, Joe W. Miller, proudly says there is hardly a major show on New York's Broadway that is not without a former Waa-Mu performer. Miller has been managing the shows since 1929.

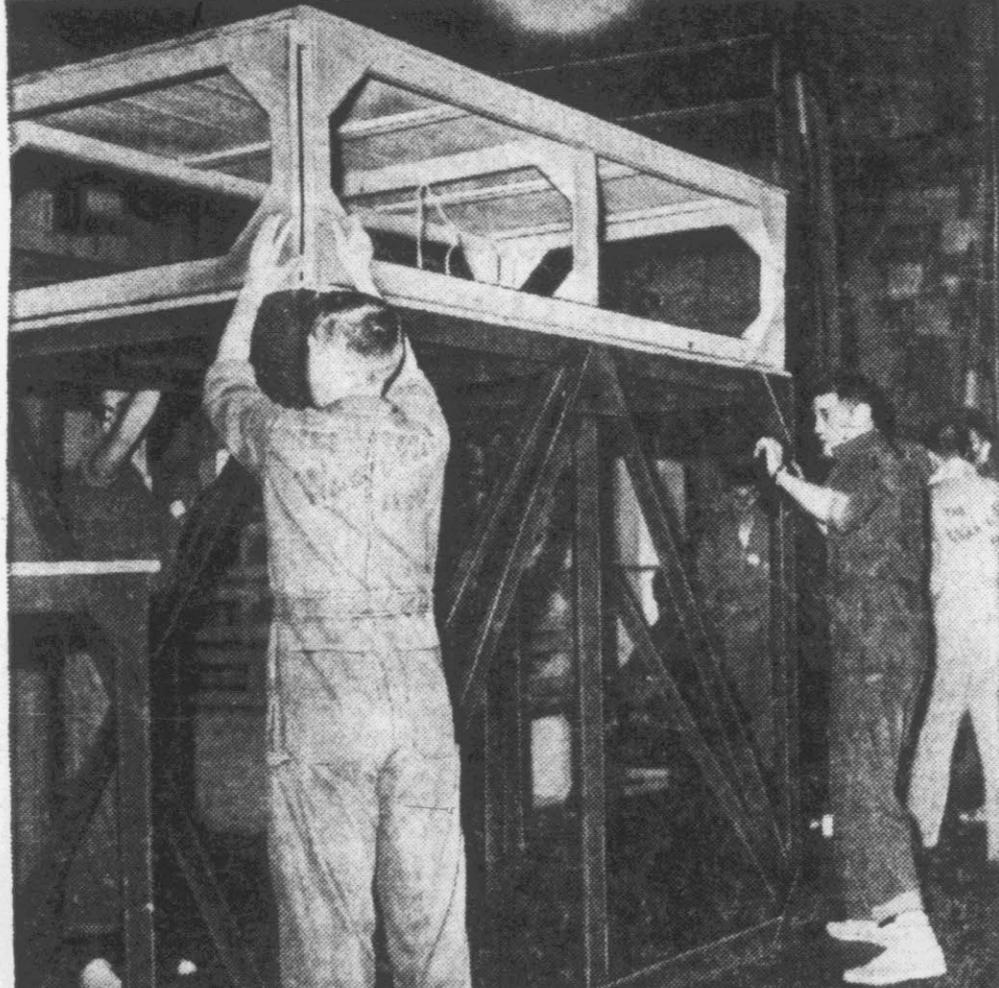

Among former Waa-Mu actors are Charles Heston, class of 1945; Nancy Dussault, 1956, starring with Phil Silvers in "Do Re Mi"; and Paul Lynde, 1948, who is starring in "Bye Bye Birdie" on Broadway.

The cast and producers say their production is "the best college show in America" — and here it is, on stage, and behind the scenes.

Martin Tangora and Karen Curtis team up in the "Gendarme Jazz" number.

"BEST COLLEGE SHOW in AMERICA"

Stagehands place props in position for another scene.

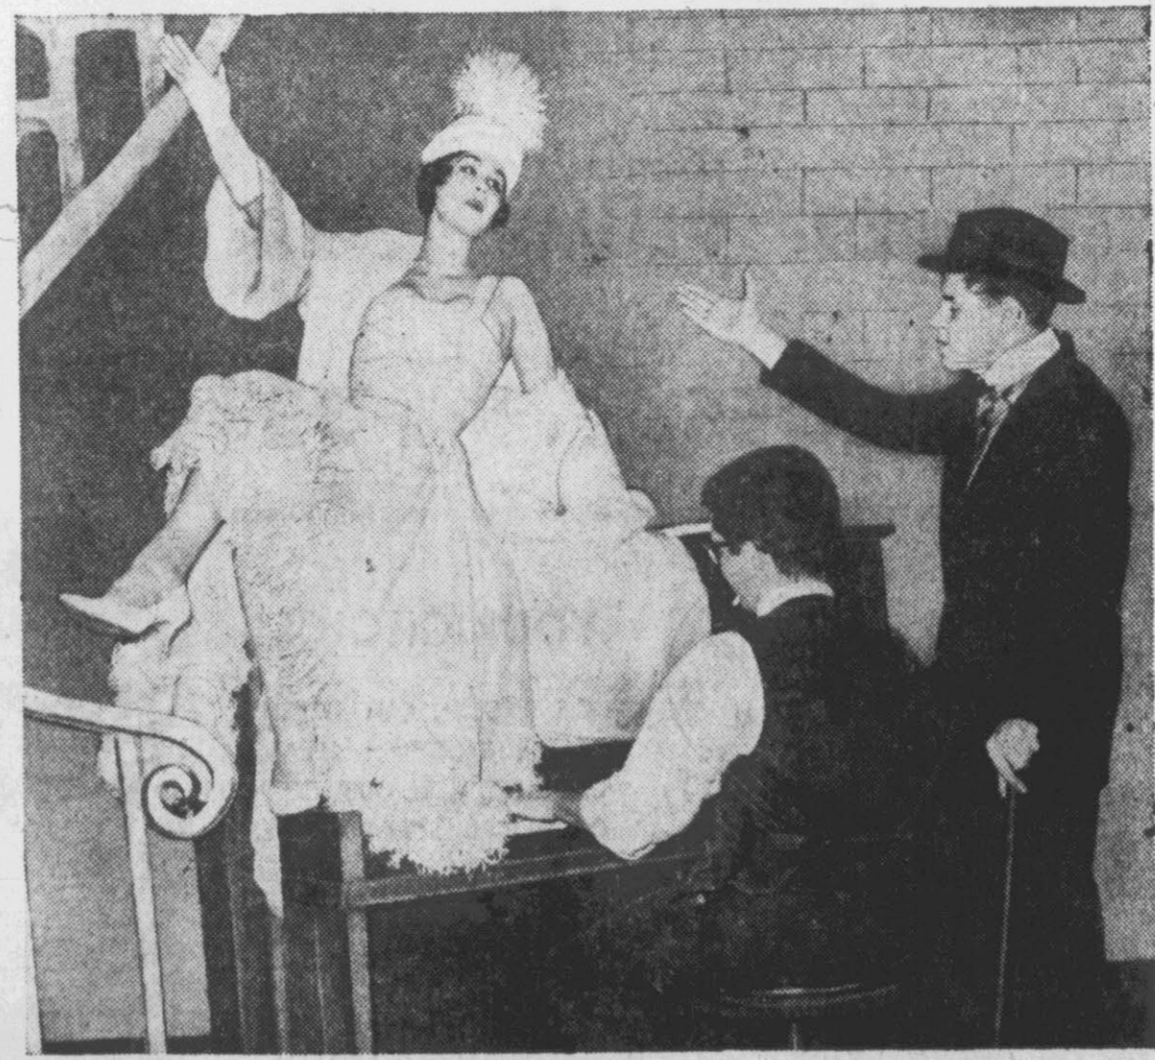

Joy Hawkins and Margaret Adams apply makeup as they prepare to make their entrance.

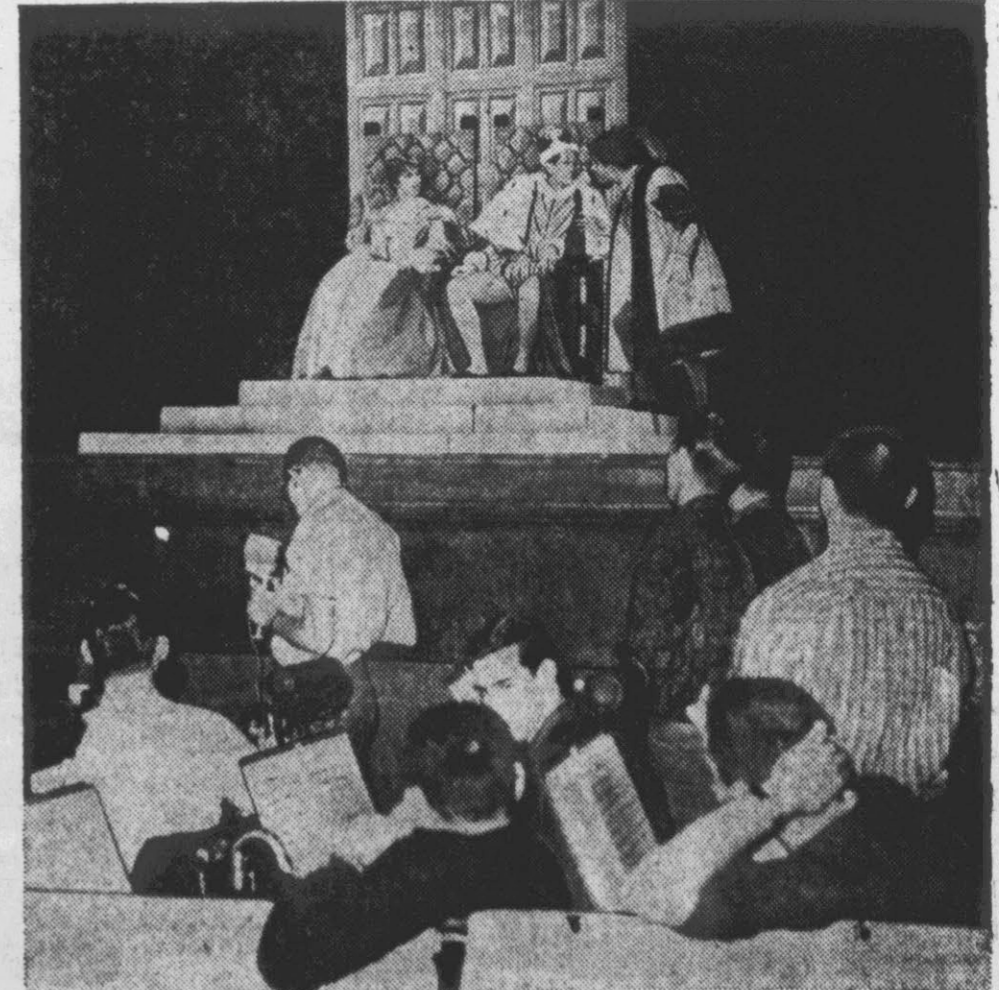

Student Carla Harms puts her studies aside for a while to help sew costumes for the play.

Princess Margaret and husband, Anthony, are parodied in play. Mary Bloomquist, as the princess, gets an assist to her chair from stagehand Kent Zimmerman, as Vance Jefferis, in role of Anthony, watches.

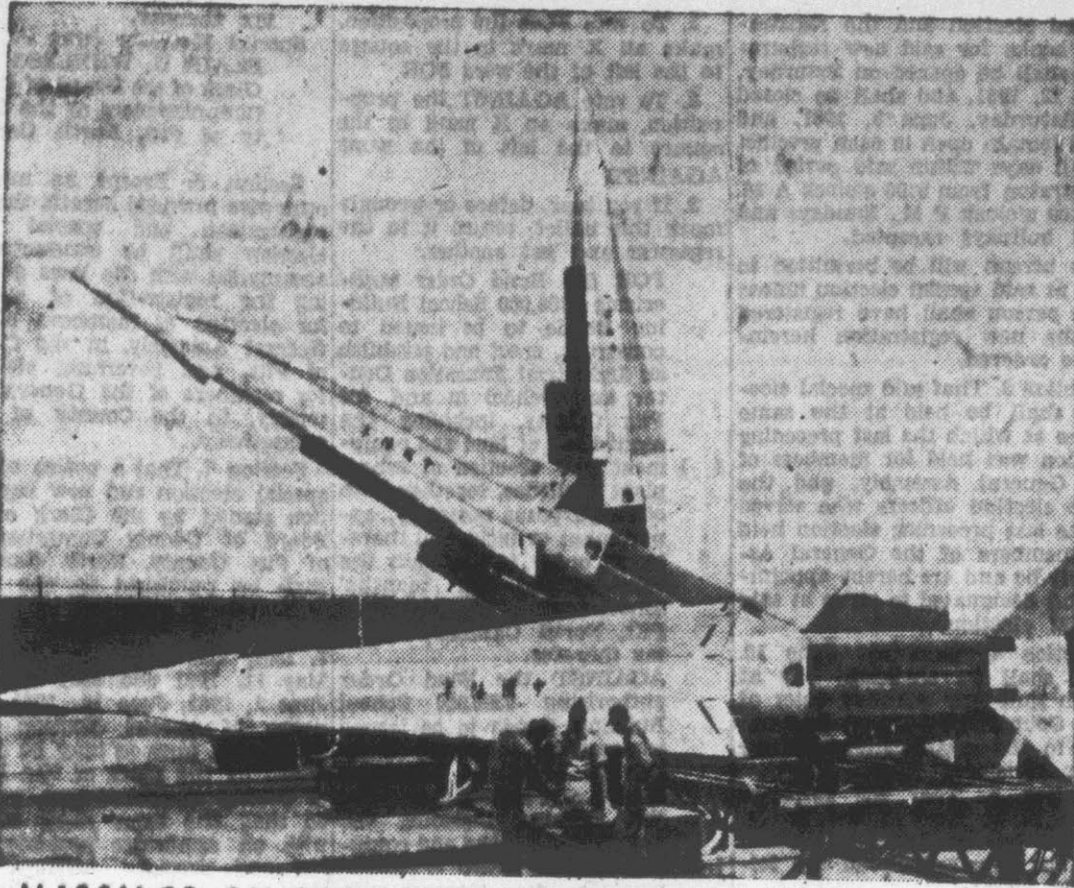

"Backstage Rhythm" is played by Karen Black, David Roberts and Michael Hilsenrad.

While musicians rest, elaborately-costumed trio act out scene from "Macbeth in Las Vegas," which predicts that the Nevada town will be turning to the classics for its spectacles.

Grim Facts And Statistics Only Part Of Tragedy Story

(Summer, more than any other season, is a time of highway peril. In this moving story, written by Pat Poston, Shelby Daily Star staff writer, a young widow tells of the heartbreak and tears that are always part of the fatality statistic, but a part seldom told. It's a story told in the wide eyes of a 3-year-old who asks, "Mommy, where's Daddy?")

By PAT POSTON
Shelby Daily Star Staff Writer
(Written For The Associated Press)

SHELBY, N. C. (AP)—The story, a brief one, of Arlen Alan Christopher's death in a highway accident four months ago, appeared in the Daily Star. It told of the collision of his car and a tractor-trailer on U.S. 29.

The story gave the grim facts, reports of investigating officers, witnesses, the who, what, when and where.

It couldn't tell the "why" or what effect one particular fraction of a second had on a family. It omitted the anguish of a young wife summoned to the door by a coroner and a deputy sheriff, who told her that her husband was dead.

It left out the bewilderment of a young son, fighting a daily battle with a heart condition, who still asks, after four months, "Mommy, where's daddy?"

"I didn't think it could ever happen to us," says Mrs. Christopher. "I still find it hard to believe that it happened."

The Christophers had been married about four years. He was an ornamental iron worker at Shelby Steel products. She worked as a secretary until quitting, before little Garry Lee was born nearly three years ago. He was born with a congenital heart defect that necessitates constant care and supervision.

"Arlen's main aim was to help Garry be a healthy baby," says Mrs. Christopher. "He was with him constantly when he was at home."

"We had felt that our own pleasures, such as vacations and holidays, could come later as she recalls. They had planned to have no more children until Garry was well.

A bright hope was that an operative process had been developed that could help Garry. He was to go to Durham for an examination by doctors in early February.

Christopher, on the day of his death, had been to see his mother and had talked with hope about Garry's future. He went to see a friend about Garry's future. He went to see a friend about borrowing a car for the Durham trip, and was coming home.

Then, in a fraction of a second, death. The coroner brought the news.

First, there was blinding grief. "I almost wished that I had been in the car and had been killed, too . . . Arlen had asked me several times to go with him," Mrs. Christopher remembers.

Later, came the realization that she must live for Garry's sake. Doctors in Durham have told her that an operation could help him gain weight, but could not cure him. They're postponing the operation in hopes another process will be developed that might help even more.

The decision to operate will be Mrs. Christopher's alone. "Garry's all I have now. I can't lose him, too."

She leads a lonely life now. She's rarely away from home except for a few hours at a time. She and Garry have moved to another home. There's no financial difficulty. They have Social Se-curly and VA checks. They're slowly rebuilding a new life, with new plans and hopes for the future.

Mrs. Christopher tells her story in the hope it may prevent the same pain and grief for another wife, mother, father, child.

The brief story that told of the wreck that killed Arlen Christopher couldn't tell of the heartbreak of a young mother and a son who still asks, "Mother, where's daddy?"

Deputy Senses Foul Play In 58-Year-Old Death

PLYMOUTH, N. C. (AP)—Did Johnny Steeley drown or was he killed when he went swimming 58 years ago on a beach near here? "I believe he was murdered and that his body was buried," says Washington County Deputy Sheriff J. Walter Peal of Creswell, who is heading up an investigation.

On a warm day in 1903, Steeley, a youth, and two companions went to a sandy beach on the south shore of Albemarle Sound, about a mile and a half west of Sound Bridge. Steeley lived in the area.

Ten days ago a party of bathers from Elizabeth City visited the beach, the property of Hugh Patrick, and dug the skeleton of a non-adult male from the soil. "The last hurricane we had washed away a bank behind the beach," said Deputy Peal, "and I believe the body had been buried there."

Peal obtained most of the bones of the skeleton, but was told that members of the Elizabeth City party had taken the skull. He said the skull would be returned to him this weekend. "I understand there are signs of damage to the skull," Peal said.

The officer said he was told by Patrick that the bones were found at just about the spot where Steeley's clothes were found in 1903. The deputy said also that Patrick recalled that Steeley's two companions had returned home and reported that Steeley had drowned.

Deputy Peal said one of the companions has died but that the other lives in Portlock, Va. The deputy made no hint that he considered either of the long-ago companions guilty of crime.

But he said he planned, when he obtained the skull, to send the remains to a laboratory for examination.

Meanwhile, the officer has received a card from W. W. Swain in Washington, N.C., saying he was in the area at the time of the reported drowning and recalls some of the details. Peal said he would seek out Swain and question him.

Mark Twain Actor Says He'll Hang Up Mustache

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—After playing Mark Twain more than 1,860 times in 13 years, Hal Holbrook has decided to hang up his white wig and mustache for a while.

It isn't that the 36-year-old actor is weary of impersonating the famous American humorist at 70—a job he's done in 900 cities in 14 countries on three continents. He just feels it is time for a little change.

"I'm not giving up Mark Twain for good," he said. "Twain is something like a church to me—a place you go into that is very private, and you get a kind of sustenance from it."

"But if you stayed there all the time, it wouldn't be the same. You can even get used to a beautiful sunset if you see too many of them."

In a year or two he wants to make a worldwide tour in his depicting Twain as a lecturer. Meanwhile, he plans to appear in a play, help write a musical adaptation of Huckleberry Finn, and develop a new solo act built around another famous American—Abraham Lincoln.

Starting next Aug. 18 Holbrook will star in a contemporary drama by Karl Wittlinger, which racked up 7,000 performances in Europe.

"It is laid in a mental hospital," he said, "and concerns a German ex-soldier's search for identity and faith in the postwar world. It has only two actors—the patient, whom I play, plus an actor who plays the doctor and 11 other parts."

Holbrook is quite content to let someone else do the changing required to portray 12 persons. He has spent a great deal of his life merely making up for his Mark Twain impersonation.

"When I started the role originally as a 15-minute skit," he said. "I could get ready in five minutes. I slapped on a mustache and wig—even didn't bother to glue on the wig—put a couple of deep lines under my eyes and along my nose and that was about it."

"But the longer I played him the longer it took me to get ready. Now it takes me 3 1/2 hours, and I have spent as much as 5 1/2 hours in makeup for a TV appearance.

"The television camera is so inquisitive—and the illusion must be perfect, or you have nothing."

Organ Recital Is Set For Tonight

Church music by eminent composers for the organ will be featured in a recital tonight by Mrs. Eleanor Toll, faculty member of the East Carolina College department of music. The event will take place at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Methodist Church. The public is invited to attend.

The recital will be presented as a special event of a Church Music Workshop now in progress at the college under the direction of Dr. Carl T. Hjortsvang of the music faculty.

Mrs. Toll will include on her program works ranging from Palestrina, in the Sixteenth Century to modern composers for the organ.

Among selections will be "Grand Jeu" by Pierre Du Mage; J. S. Bach's "Fugue in E Flat"; "Cantabile" from the symphonic fantasy on the tune; "St. Patrick's Breastplate," by Joseph Clokey; and works by Buxtehude, Karg-Elert, Clarence Dickinson, and others.

He'll Have Order In His Classroom

MARSHFIELD, Mass. (AP)—It's a good guess that there'll be decorum and order in the classroom of Albert J. Sinuc takes over in September, even though it is his first teaching job. Sinuc, 42, of Brockton, got his teaching degree this week from Bridgewater State College. He decided to make teaching a second career—after retiring as a major following 21 years in the Marine Corps.

Rain Interrupted His Daily Routine

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Housewives, doing their washing in an automatic laundry, weren't too surprised to find a raincoat-clad mailman sitting in one of the waiting chairs during a summer thundershower. However, amazement and then smiles crossed their faces as the mailman went to the dryer, withdrew his uniform, took it to the restroom, put it on, and then went about his duties of delivering the mail.

Electric Rockets Geared For High-Speed Cruising

By RALPH DIGHTON
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Meet the electric rocket—a tiny power plant that some day may drive space ships of almost any size to the moon and the planets. The electric rocket probably will be the final and critical stage of the huge projects President Kennedy has ordered developed to take men to the moon and back in this decade. Eight companies and two government agencies gave technical papers on electric rockets Tuesday at one of the nation's top scientific conventions—the annual meeting of the Institute of Aerospace Sciences and the American Rocket Society.

Consensus of the papers is that the electric rocket works—under laboratory conditions. By the time large clusters of present-day intercontinental missiles are ready to boost big space ships beyond earth's gravitational pull—possibly in three to five years—electric rockets should be far enough advanced to take over the job of propulsion in space. Capt. Richard Hayes, an Air Force research expert assigned to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington, said in an interview: "This is an important field where the United States can force ahead of Russia in the space race."

Farm, Bank Group To Tour Southeast

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—More than 150 farm and bank leaders of five southeastern states will fly from here and Winston-Salem next Monday on a seven-day visit to Mississippi, Texas and Louisiana. Their mission will be to find success-proven ideas that can be applied in North Carolina and neighboring states to increase income of agriculture and business and improve the economy. Separate plans will leave Goldsboro and Winston-Salem and go to Columbus, Miss. The groups will be led by Dean Brooks James of the N.C. State College School of Agriculture and John P. Watlington Jr., president of Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. In its week-long travels the caravan will cover about 3,000 miles in visiting agricultural and business centers in Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

Neither the Soviet Union nor the United States has yet tested an electric rocket in space, but both are rushing research programs. Hayes said the U.S.S.R. plans a test flight later this year; America's target date is sometime next year. What's so special about electric rockets? In the language of the average motorist, they are designed to give more miles per gallon and much higher speed. But they are only good for cruising in high gear. They don't have enough power for the fast takeoff necessary to get into space. Electric rockets are comparatively small—about the size of a garbage can. Chemically fueled Atlas rockets tower 65 feet into the air. Electric rockets have a very small wallop—a fraction of a pound of thrust compared with the 360,000-pound thrust of an Atlas. They make up for this, however, by running continuously for hundreds of hours.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market recovered in dull trading early this afternoon as it posted a moderate gain.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 70 at 248.60 with industrials up 1.30, rails up 40 and utilities up 10.

Gains of fractions to a point or so outnumbered losers as the list staged a technical snapback from two sessions of sharp decline.

The trend was higher among metals, motors, chemicals, rails and tobacco. Coppers, drugs, aircrafts and farm implements were mixed.

A 2-point upswing by Du Pont helped buttress the averages. Gains of close to a point by Kennecott, U.S. Steel and Allied Chemical were also helpful in this respect.

Upjohn fell 14.

Zenith recouped another 4 points of recent losses. Beckman Instruments fell about 3.

Fractional gains were made by Big Three motors, Lorillard, U.S. Rubber, American Telephone, Royal Dutch and Philco.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.12 at 897.27. Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mixed.

Teenage Killers Head For Kansas

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Kansas officers assumed custody of two teen-agers today, heading them back to the hamlet of Sharon Springs to face trial for one of seven robbery-killings.

The youths, George R. York, 18, Jacksonville, Fla., and James D. Latham, 19, Mauriceville, Tex., waived extradition late Tuesday on a warrant accusing them of killing Otto Ziegler, 62, a railway roadmaster, near Wallace, Kan.

The teen-agers, both AWOL from an Army disciplinary unit at Fort Hood, Tex., have admitted a series of seven killings in five states. Officials of Utah and other states agreed at a conference to let Kansas take custody.

Both, and York especially, had expressed a preference for Florida, which wants them for the May 29 slayings of two Valdosta, Ga., women near Jacksonville — Althea Ottavio, 43, and Patricia Anne Hewitt, 25.

They also are wanted in Illinois, where two were killed June 8: Albert E. Reed, 25, Litchfield, Ill., and Martin Drenovac, 69, a Granite City service station operator.

Colorado wants them for the June 10 slaying of Rachel Marian Moyer, 18, near Craig, Tennessee. She was killed for the June 7 killing of John A. Whitaker, 71, a railroad porter, at Tollahoma.

Says He Would Keep Country Independent

By GEORGE SVERTSEN

GENEVA (AP) — Prince Souvanna Phouma, who wants to become premier of a neutral Laos, told the Geneva Indonesian conference today that if his country becomes completely independent it never will allow foreign troops or bases on its soil.

Souvanna, 60, came to Geneva with his half-brother Prince Phanouvong, leader of the Communist-backed Pathet Lao rebels.

The teen-agers, both AWOL from an Army disciplinary unit at Fort Hood, Tex., have admitted a series of seven killings in five states. Officials of Utah and other states agreed at a conference to let Kansas take custody.

Both, and York especially, had expressed a preference for Florida, which wants them for the May 29 slayings of two Valdosta, Ga., women near Jacksonville — Althea Ottavio, 43, and Patricia Anne Hewitt, 25.

Gov. Advises Rehiring Neill

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Sanford said Tuesday the reasons given by the Madison County Board of Education for dismissing Mars Hill School Principal Ralph Neill Jr. "are nebulous" and recommended that Neill be re-elected.

Sanford stepped into the school dispute and agreed to serve as referee after Neill's dismissal touched off a student boycott.

Sanford said Neill and members of the school faculty "must share a great deal of the responsibility for the student boycott."

Teachers and parents of the school children registered protests following Neill's dismissal. The student boycott, which lasted for more than a week, ended after Sanford agreed to move into the dispute.

Sanford recommended that in the future persons who protest action of the County Board of Education should confine their protests to "the appellate machinery provided by law."

President Kept Injury A Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today President Kennedy kept his back injury a secret from Mrs. Kennedy.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters he understood she first learned of it from stories in the newspapers while she was vacationing in Greece last week.

When Mrs. Kennedy found out, Salinger said, she sent a message to her husband saying she thought she should return to Washington to be with him. But Kennedy told her not to, he said.

Until she read of the back strain which caused the President to walk on crutches, Salinger said, "it is my belief that Mrs. Kennedy did not know anything about it."

The White House announced last Thursday that Kennedy had wrenched his back while on a state visit to Canada in May.

Kennedy had said nothing of it, and gave no evidence of the injury during his fast-paced trip to Europe early this month. Mrs. Kennedy accompanied him on that week-long journey.

The First Lady remained in London after Kennedy flew back to the United States on June 5. She left later for Athens, and has been cruising on the Aegean Sea and sightseeing among the historic places of ancient Greece.

Favorable OAS Report Forecast

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Investigators of the Organization of American States will return to Washington Thursday, indications are that their report will look favorably on welcoming the Dominican Republic back into the family of American nations.

The decision of the OAS subcommittee to leave after five days of intensive fact finding came as a general surprise. It had been understood the team would leave two representatives here to keep tabs on things while the other two returned to present a preliminary report to the OAS.

It was made clear, however, the group would hasten back for further investigation if necessary.

The four-man mission from Panama, Colombia, the United States and Uruguay was sent here after the assassination of dictator Rafael L. Trujillo, against whose regime the OAS last August voted diplomatic and economic sanctions for violation of civil rights at home and trying to get Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt assassinated.

The investigators interviewed government officials and political prisoners, looked over 14 persons held for complicity in Trujillo's slaying and generally observed the local situation.

Apparently they found the government house as much in order as could be expected after 31 years of dictatorial rule.

To Dedicate Office Building

RALEIGH (AP) — Dedication of its office building here was on the program for today's session of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina.

A mass rally celebrating the centennial of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., will be held tonight in Reynolds Coliseum.

More than 600 Presbyterian ministers and ruling elders from throughout the state are attending the three-day session.

Dr. Warner L. Hall, pastor of Crownant Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, was unanimously elected moderator at Tuesday's opening session to succeed J. B. Brewer of Rocky Mount.

The Rev. George L. Riddle of Cherryville was nominated moderator for 1962.

Brewer urged the delegates to forget the differences caused by the consolidation of Peace, Flora Macdonald and Presbyterian Junior Colleges into St. Andrews Presbyterian College at Laurinburg.

"We can't go back; we must go forward," Brewer said. "Failure in this experiment in Christian education must not happen."

Cutler Moore Is Quitting Senate

RALEIGH (AP) — Veteran State Sen. Cutler Moore of Robeson announced today he is resigning from the Senate. The Robeson County Democratic Executive Committee met this morning and named Hector McLean to succeed him.

Moore said his resignation will be effective Friday when McLean takes the oath of office.

"I'm just tired, that's all, and the important bills are through," said Moore when asked the reason for his resignation.

However, Moore is expected to become U.S. customs collector for the Port of Wilmington. He has been recommended for the post by the state's two U.S. senators.

President Kennedy has not yet acted on it.

Moore, who has served several terms in the General Assembly, is chairman of the Senate Road Committee, and steered a number of far-reaching highway safety proposals through the Senate.

McLean, 40, is son of the late Gov. Angus W. McLean. He is a lawyer and president of the Southern National Bank of Lumberton which his father founded. He announced in accepting the post that he will be a candidate for the 1963 Senate.

Tragedy's Toll Climbs To 35

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — Two more bodies were pulled from the wreckage of two commuter trains today, bringing the death toll from Tuesday's head-on collision to 35. At least 47 were injured, some critically.

Packed with home-bound commuters, the two trains collided just outside the rail terminal at nearby Esslingen. The German railway blamed the collision on the failure of one train, bound for Stuttgart, to heed a red signal.

The other train was en route to Goepplingen. Six children of U.S. servicemen, returning from school to their homes at Goepplingen, were on this train but all escaped unhurt, a U.S. Army spokesman reported.

The spokesman said as far as is known no U.S. citizens were among the victims.

The Army identified the six children as: Ida M. Ogilvie, 15, McKinney, Tex.; Marion Candelore, 17, Niles, Ohio; Reuel S. San Pedro, 15, Junction City, Kan.; Linda Juhas, 14, Weirton, W. Va.; Ruth A. Joiner, 16, Newcastle, Tex., and Penelope Biggs, 15, Philadelphia, Pa.

Moon Trip Would Cost $10 Billion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A government official says landing a manned spacecraft on the moon will cost about $10 billion — plus a lot of human lives.

Trevor Gardner, chairman of the Air Force Space Study Committee, told a science meeting Tuesday: "I'm sure we are going to kill a lot of men in this business. But it's like testing high speed aircraft in which men have died. The risks are here and they have to be faced."

Gardner, assistant secretary of the Air Force in 1955-56, also told a joint meeting of the Aerospace Sciences and the American Rocket Society: "I am sure we can win the race if we are prepared to pay the price."

Grifton Streets Being Patched

GRIFTON — Grifton streets are being patched this week by members of the Utilities Department.

Luther Lewis, superintendent, said yesterday there is an unexpected change in plans, workmen will be engaged in street patching today, he said. They started the project on Monday and continued Wednesday.

Members approved payment of the town's bills, Mrs. Hoell said.

The old board will hold a meeting complete their year's work. A special meeting will also be held on July 3, when the new board will meet for the first time.

Actor Files Suit Against Studio

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Screen star Tony Curtis filed suit against MGM studios Tuesday, asking release from a motion picture commitment or — if he is compelled to portray the role — $3 million in damages.

The complaint said he signed an agreement on Oct. 1, 1959, to play in a film titled "Lady L." Since then, the actor contended, the script was changed so that his role became less important and the story less similar to the novel on which it was based.

Two Collisions Investigated By Greenville Police

Two collisions were investigated in Greenville yesterday by police. Officers reported an estimated $200 damage resulted but no one was injured.

The most costly mishap occurred at the intersection of Greene and Martin Sts., when vehicles operated by Joe Ebron, 51-year-old Negro of 709 Factory St., and James Pinkney Jones, Jr., 36 of 1502 East Wright Road collided.

Damage to the vehicle operated by Ebron was placed at $40 while damage to the Jones car was set at $125.

Jones was charged with improper passing by investigators.

In the second mishap, cars driven by Ola Forbes, Jr., 23 of Falkland Highway, and J.G. Stokes, 71 of 1109 West Third St., collided at the intersection of Fourth and White Sts.

No charges were placed by officers who estimated damage to the Forbes auto at $30 and set damage to the Stokes car at $25.
