Commissioners Draw Near End Of Preliminary Study Of Budget

Reviews Completed On All Aspects Except Debt Service And Schools

Pitt County's Commissioners last night drew a little closer to the end of their preliminary 1961-62 county budget study.

The five-man board, in session with county auditor H. Reginald Gray, completed its preliminary study of the requested expenditures on all county funds except debt service and the largest schools.

Major indicated changes from a year ago were five new jobs in the county's welfare department, two new cars for the health department sanitarians and a special appropriation of $5,000 for administration of the surplus food program during fiscal 1961-62.

In addition to the major single items, the board indicated salary raises almost across the board. The raises average around $20 per month per employe.

The two new cars, estimated by the commissioners to cost about $3,400, were justified by the board on the grounds that the sanitarians drive enough miles in a year to save the county money through purchase of an economy car.

Only Robert L. Martin of Bethel disagreed with adding the two vehicles to the county pool.

Gray told the commissioners he estimated about $5,000 would finance distribution of the surplus food program for the year.

He said he based his figure on the actual cost of administration of the program to date, including transportation at the commodities from Raleigh and Butler.

Tentative figures for various departments that emerged last night included:

Welfare Administration—$120,763; Health Department—$113,920; Mental Health—$43,715; Outside Poor and Relief—$66,655; Aid to the Blind—$13,346; Aid to Dependent Children—$23,400; Aid to Permanently and Totally Disabled—$23,616; Old Age Assistance—$46,818; and Dog Fund—$13,915.

Minor revisions in the General Fund raised the preliminary figure from $410,581 to $411,101. Through last night the commissioners had tentatively set $983,118 in appropriations with still study of the debt service fund and the schools request remaining.

The debt service fund will require about $122,315 and the school request is around $623,000.

Ask Explaining Of Fellowship

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities, getting the jump on another House group, today subpoenaed officials of the National Science Foundation for questioning of award of a fellowship to a student convicted of contempt of Congress.

The action left the House Space Committee, which had invited foundation officials to appear before it this morning, cooling its heels without any witnesses.

Chairman Overton Brooks, D-La., of the Space Committee said Dr. Alan T. Waterman, director of the foundation, had telephoned him to say he had been subpoenaed by the Committee on Un-American Activities.

"I told him to respond to the subpoena and to come here when he was finished," Brooks told his committee.

The graduate student involved, Edward Yellin, was questioned by a subcommittee on Un-American Activities in 1958 in Gary, Ind. He refused to answer when asked whether he was a Communist.

He was cited and in 1960 was convicted of contempt of Congress.

Too Soon To Know How Local School Affected

City and county school superintendents J.H. Rose and D.H. Conley stated today that they don't know exactly what the $460 million school budget will mean to local educators until the State Board of Education has met and interpreted the law.

Rose stated that the state board will meet in July and it will be the latter part of July or the first of August before the local system will know its share of the budget. All allocations probably will be made by the state board at that time.

Conley said that he didn't have details enough for specific figures on teacher salaries and other appropriations yet, but they will come after the state board interprets the new law at its meeting.

However, it is likely that the city and county will gain additional teachers as a result of the

Sanford Predicts Assembly Programs Will Gain, Not Lose Votes For Lawmakers

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Terry Sanford predicted today legislators who supported his school program and his companion food tax measure would gain rather than lose votes in elections.

He called the 1961 General Assembly "the finest, most conscientious most productive legislature in this century."

Questions at Sanford's weekly news conference today revolved around the school program, enacted by the General Assembly Wednesday, and around the probe into the college-basketball game-fixing scandal.

The governor said he and other authorities had not worked out details of the investigation but he issued a warning that it would drive big-time gamblers and brokers from the state.

Sanford was asked to comment on whether he feels he had given undue emphasis to his school program at the expense of other legislative matters.

He said, "I enjoy reading comments that to effect more than I would have enjoyed reading, 'well the old boy's school program failed'."

Sanford said he had no apologies to make for his actions during the legislative session which is expected to end Saturday. He told newsmen he took a stand on all important bills.

He added, "The Assembly has no apologies to make either, but they haven't been perfect, but then neither have the editorial writers."

Sanford said he is not afraid of any political implications of the legislature's enactment of his food tax proposal. He labeled as "irresponsible" those lawmakers who voted against any tax proposals.

Regarding the Basketball investigation, Sanford said it looked as if Solicitor Lester Chalmers of Raleigh would do the prosecuting throughout the state.

However, the governor added, plans have not been confirmed regarding the handling of the legal aspects.

The General Assembly is considering a bill which would authorize use of $50,000 in contingency and emergency fund money to handle expenses incurred by investigators.

Chalmers has been working with the State Bureau of Investigation since the scandal broke this spring.

Sanford said the disclosures were something he didn't bargain for when he took office but "now it's our duty and responsibility to clean this thing up."

Stringent Small Loan Bill Looms

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill to slap stringent regulations on North Carolina's small loan firms was on the House calendar for debate today amid prospects it might be enacted.

The House Wednesday rebuffed Rep. Roland Braswell of Wayne in his attempt to get the House to refuse to concur with Senate amendments to the House-passed bill.

Braswell introduced the original bill, which contained higher rate schedules and other provisions that were much less strict than the amended Senate version.

The measure would clamp down on interest and insurance charges made by small lenders.

In asking that the House refuse to concur with the Senate amendments, Braswell said he wanted the bill turned over to a conference committee to iron out differences between the two bodies.

House Speaker Joseph Hunt told the members, "There have been more personalities injected into this thing than any other issue. I've gotten to the point. I look under the bed at night."

Under the amended bill, loan firms could charge $19 on $100 for 12 months, $36 for $200 and $51 for $300. The Braswell bill proposed rates of $24, $44 and $60, respectively.

Bonn Disregards Red Warnings

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany will disregard warnings from Communist East Germany and go ahead with "day of German unity" rallies Saturday along the border between the two countries, the government said today.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said no attention will be paid to a demand from East German Interior Minister Karl Maron that the rallies be banned.

Each year West Germany celebrates "Unity Day" on the anniversary of the 1953 uprising in East Germany against the Communist regime. The purpose is to dramatize West Germany's hope that the two parts of the country will one day be reunited.

The Communists have not even complained that it was provoked by supply flights of U. S. planes over their territory, as they did at Padong.

Harriman said: "The Soviet Union has been almost daily supplying the forces of the rebels, through Xieng Khouang by an airlift which originates in North Viet Nam."

Harriman's speech was a reply to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who blamed the United States and pro-Western troops for earlier violations of the Laotian cease-fire proclaimed last month.

4500 Pitt Voters Eligible For Saturday's School Bond Election

Forty-five hundred registered voters from Greenville and Pitt County are eligible to cast ballots in the Saturday bond election to decide the fate of a proposed Pitt County Industrial School.

The 4,500 registration includes both city and county figures in the special registration, which was necessary in order to vote in this special bond election.

Polls will be open from 6:30 a. m. until 6:30 p. m. at regular polling places.

The issue involves the approval or disapproval of a $395,000 bond issue for the establishment of an industrial school in Pitt County.

Superintendent of County Schools D.H. Conley stated today, in urging registered voters to vote, "This school will supplement public education in a way that is very much needed at this time, and it's been something we've been trying to achieve through the years."

He continued, "If we don't support it now, it's not likely to be offered in a long, long time. The opportunity is here and we might as well take it. I hope the people will support it."

Pitt was the 29th and last local to be approved for the establishment of such a school, for an indefinite length of time. Forty-two other requests for industrial schools were turned down at the same time the local request was granted.

An industrial school would permit high school graduates and others qualifying who do not desire further academic training, to prepare for a career of specialized training in various technical fields. Training from such a school would result in higher wages for skilled workers. Sen. Robert Lee Humber of Pitt County has stated previously. It would also encourage students and residents to remain in Pitt County and work here.

The county will provide the site and the building, and will pay about 10 percent of the annual operating cost of the school. The state will furnish the machinery and equipment, and will pay about 90 percent of the annual operating cost.

Following is a list of precincts and polling places for Saturday's election:

Arthur, Arthur School Building; Ayden, Ayden City Hall; Belvoir, Belvoir School Building; Bethel, Bethel City Hall; Carolina, Stokes School Building; Chicod No. one, Barber Shop; Black Jack; Chicod No. two, Filling Station, McGowan's X Roads; Chicod No. three, Filling Station; Venters Store; Falkland, Falkland City Hall; Fountain, Fountain City Hall; Greenville No. one, Farmer's Warehouse; Greenville No. two, County Court House; Greenville No. three, Third Street School; Greenville No. four, West End Fire Station; Greenville No. five, Keel's Warehouse; Greenville No. six, Fifth Street Fire Station; Greenville No. seven, Elm Street Park; Greenville No. eight, Rotary Building.

Grifton, Grifton City Hall; Grimesland No. one, Grimesland City Hall; Grimesland No. two, Simpson Community Building; Fictolus, Fictolus School Building; Swift Creek, Old Timothy Church Building; Winterville, Winterville City Hall.

Castro Demands $28 Million Worth Of Tractors For 1,167 Prisoners

HAVANA (AP) — The U.S. tractor-for-prisoners team heads for Washington today after hearing Fidel Castro's latest demand—$28 million worth of farm-type tractors in exchange for 1,167 captive invaders.

This amounts to about $24,000 per prisoner.

The unofficial, four-man negotiation panel said it made no commitments to the Cuban prime minister; that it intended to lay the demand before the Tractors-for-Freedom Committee headed by Eleanor Roosevelt.

Whether the committee, in its drive for public subscriptions, could raise the kind of money involved in Castro's demand was uncertain. Other leaders of the drive, besides Mrs. Roosevelt, are Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers and Dr. Milton Eisenhower.

The campaign for funds results from Castro's offer of $17 million for the Cuban prime minister; that it intended to lay the demand before the Tractors-for-Freedom Committee headed by Eleanor Roosevelt.

Whether the committee, in its drive for public subscriptions, could raise the kind of money involved in Castro's demand was uncertain. Other leaders of the drive, besides Mrs. Roosevelt, are Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers and Dr. Milton Eisenhower.

The Cuban leader indicated he would be agreeable to receiving 1,000 tractors one-half the size of the heavy models first demanded.

The monetary value was a stiff price in terms of the committee's earlier thinking. The fund raisers had been talking about raising $2.5 million or so to buy 500 of the smaller types of tractors which they said should meet Castro's agricultural needs.

Small, general purpose farm tractors sell at from $3,500 to $6,000 in the United States. At such rates, the $28 million figure set by Castro would purchase 4,700 to 8,000 tractors.

Castro also reduced somewhat the number of captives he said he could liberate upon receipt of the tractors. The original figure given the committee was 1,214. Castro said this is now down to 1,167 due to some deaths, special trials he plans for some prisoners and other reasons.

Cuba's boss said he really would prefer to trade freedom of his captives for freedom of 1,200 persons in jail in the United States, Spain and some Latin American countries.

Asked if he had a specific list of the 1,200 prisoners abroad whom he wants liberated, Castro replied he had "no list, but we know there are many prisoners there because they are patriots."

As for the tractor deal, he said: "It's going well. It all depends on them (the American Committee) now."

New Sales Tax Is Now Law; Will Be Felt In 2 Weeks

RALEIGH (AP) — The household budget of Tar Heel families will increase in little more than two weeks under a 3 per cent sales tax enacted into law Wednesday.

The food tax, major item in the Sanford administration's $65.5 billion revenue bill to finance school improvements, goes into effect July 1, the start of the next biennium.

The House gave final approval to the bill Wednesday after rejecting two amendments by Rep. Byrd Satterfield of Person to limit the 3 per cent tax on food purchases.

Meanwhile, the billion dollar appropriations bill for the 1961-63 period was enacted into law as the House approved some minor, technical amendments by the Senate.

The action paved the way for Gov. Sanford to carry out his quality education program in the schools.

Satterfield's first amendment would have exempted milk and bread for at least the first year of the biennium. His second would have provided that the tax on bread and milk be discontinued if revenues for the first year of the biennium amounted to $343 million or more.

Other major amounts which the tax bill will produce include: $3.8 million by increasing the whisky tax from 10 to 12 per cent, $3.8 million from the 1 per cent tax on mill and farm machinery, parts and accessories, with a maximum of $60 for a single item; and $2.6 million from a tax on motor vehicles and airplanes, with a $120 limit on a single item. The latter tax would be 1 per cent for the first fiscal year, and 1 1/2 per cent thereafter.

Documents Bore Top Secret Label

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — A document, purported to be a top secret U.S. intelligence report on the disposition of West German army units was published today by the newspaper Cumhuriyet.

The editors said they received the document labeled "USAFE daily intelligence report—secret" from a source in Rome who signed himself "W. S." USAFE is the abbreviation for U.S. Armed Forces Europe.

"We have received previous documents of this sort from the same source," the paper said in a front-page article. "We decided to send these to the appropriate authorities."

However, the editors of the influential Turkish paper said that earlier this week they learned that the London Daily Herald carried an article about receiving similar U.S. documents and this "led us to decide to reveal our own experience in this matter."

The document printed today listed West German army units, their numerical strength and their placement. The Herald said its documents purported to give political and military intelligence reports on U.S. allies.

U.S. officials said privately the document appeared to be a plant aimed at creating an impression of lax U.S. intelligence and stirring up anti-American propaganda by depicting the United States as spying on its allies.

Publisher Said Kennedy Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert McKinley, editor and publisher of the Santa Fe New Mexican, is President Kennedy's choice for ambassador to Switzerland.

The nomination, made public Wednesday, is subject to Senate confirmation.

McKinley, 50, is a former assistant secretary of the interior and has served in the past as U.S. representative to the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna.

budget's allocation of funds to hire 1,400 more teachers. Rose said the city already has three extra teachers and possibly will gain six or seven more.

Conley said the provision for new teachers "may help us some. I would estimate." The Senate passed the bill on Tuesday, and the House acted yesterday to pass the bill into law. Under the bill, $70 million more will be provided for teacher pay than during the present biennium. Generally, the increase sets a teacher pay scale of $3,600 to $5,600. Present pay scale ranges are $2,956 to $4,356.

Other appropriations in the budget provide for increased support for libraries and extra clerical help for school administrators. The percentage increase probably would not be the same for every teacher and school employe.

Greenville Physician Wins Doctor Of The Year Honor

Dr. Andrew A. Best, Greenville physician, Wednesday received the "Doctor of the Year" award at the annual convention in Greensboro of the Old North State Medical Society.

Dr. Best, a Greenville practitioner since 1953, was cited for outstanding service to the society and to the medical profession. The award is the top recognition presented by the state's Negro medical society to its members.

Also receiving a top award was Dr. R.A. Hawkins of Charlotte who was presented the "Dentist of the Year" award by the Old North State Dental Society, holding its convention jointly with the medical society and the Old North State Pharmaceutical Society.

Dr. Best has gained local and statewide recognition for his work in establishing the N.C. Joint Council on Health and Citizenship—an outgrowth of a program instituted by the local doctor in the Greenville and Pitt County schools. The health improvement program was begun in Pitt County in 1957 and was aimed primarily at seeking to reduce the large number of illegitimate births recorded in Pitt.

In 1957, Pitt County Health Department statistics showed 385 Negro illegitimate births in the county the year before. After Dr. Best's program was initiated, the figures released in 1958, 1959 and 1960 showed the total figure dwindling from 305, to 316, to 274, respectively.

Dr. Best, a native of Kingston, currently maintains his office of practice on Cadillac Street in Greenville.

The eighth of 11 children, he is still a bachelor and resides at 1208 W. 4th St., in Greenville.

Redistricting Law Due Today

RALEIGH (AP) — The House was expected today to enact a congressional redistricting bill placing Republican Congressman Charles R. Jonas and Democratic Rep. Paul Kitchin in the same district.

The House approved the measure on second reading Wednesday 74-41. The bill was carried over until today when Rep. Paul Wallace of Montgomery objected to immediate third reading.

Under the bill, Jonas and Kitchin will be pitted against each other in the 1962 general election for the Eighth District seat unless one retires or is defeated in a primary.

The Jonas-Kitchin proposal was one of several redistricting bills offered this session. North Carolina loses one of its 12 congressional seats on the basis of the 1960 federal census.

Democrats from the Piedmont, picking up the keynote sounded at committee hearings, warned of political effects from an attempt to defeat Jonas, the state's lone Republican congressman.

They termed the measure inequitable from a population standpoint in comparison with the various other districts.

The House tabled two other amendments. Rep. Carson Gregory of Harnett wanted to take his county from the Third District and restore it to the seventh. James D. Speed of Franklin sought to remove his county from the proposed Second District and put it back into the fourth.

Harriman Charges North Viet Nam Troops In Laos Campaign

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

GENEVA (AP) — U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman today charged that two companies of troops from Communist North Viet Nam took part in the successful attack on Padong in Laos.

In a speech at the international conference on Laos Harriman said nothing about today's attacks by pro-Communist rebel forces in Laos, which military men judged more important than the attack on Padong on June 1. The West boycotted the conference five days because of its anger about Padong.

The latest attacks took two villages near the narrow waist of Laos and threatened to split the forces of the royal Laotian government into two segments.

Although a spokesman for Harriman minimized the importance of these attacks, military men considered them even more flagrant violations of the cease-fire.

The Communists have not even complained that it was provoked by supply flights of U. S. planes over their territory, as they did at Padong.

Creole Chicken The Easy Way

MODERN CREOLE CHICKEN, with the sauce made with an envelope of tomato soup mix plus green pepper, onion and other good seasonings.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
This chicken dish has a good deal to recommend it.
First, it's made on top of the range—always pleasant for summer cooking.
We find it reheats well, so if you want to cook it in the cool of the morning, or even the day before it is to be served, you'll have a main-course on hand that's ready for family or company.
Its flavor is a popular one—it has a creole-type sauce. But this sauce has 1961 overtones because it's prepared with this year's new tomato soup mix.
Serve the chicken with rice or pasta. Add a salad of crisp young greens, sliced cucumbers and radishes dressed with a last-minute mixture of oil, vinegar, prepared mustard, salt and freshly-ground pepper.
For a quickly made dessert, offer individual sponge-cake shells—bought or homemade and freezer-stored—with fresh strawberries and whipped cream. Even the cream may be fixed ahead: whip it, sweeten it and flavor it with vanilla, then store it in individual portion servings in your freezer. Remove the cream from the freezer just before serving dessert; it will thaw rapidly and be fluffy.
1961 CREOLE CHICKEN
1 large broiler-fryer
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 medium-size onion (minced)
1 small green pepper coarsely chopped
1 clove garlic (crushed)

1 1/2 cups cold water
1 envelope (2 1/4 ounces) tomato soup mix
1 bay leaf
1/2 teaspoon oregano
Few drops tabasco sauce
Have chicken cut in 10 or 12 pieces; wash and dry; sprinkle with salt and pepper. In a large skillet or Dutch oven, brown chicken in hot olive oil; push to one side. Add onion, green pepper and garlic; cook lightly. In a saucepan (1 quart) stir water into soup mix; add 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, bay leaf, oregano and tabasco; stirring constantly, bring to a boil. Pour soup mixture over chicken; simmer, covered, for 30 to 40 minutes or until chicken is tender. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

Grass is the thing we strive and hope for in our lawn areas. But we sometimes are disappointed and the places where grass never seems to have a chance and where we don't want it—that's where it grows and thrives.

So we find it in the cracks of our sidewalks and popping up in asphalt paved areas. And to get rid of it, we have been fighting all the time. We dig it out of the cracks. We scrape it off the blacktop but it is soon back again.

But chemicals can control Bermuda and its tougher cousin, nut grass in paved areas. This problem not only confronts the gardener but also the merchant and others that have asphalt parking lots.

Dowpon (Dalaphon) will take care of the Bermuda problem and 2,4-D should knock off nut grass.

In fighting either nutgrass or wayward Bermuda, the gardener should have the proper equipment. The best sprayer for this type of grass control is the 3 gallon sprayer. This sprayer comes equipped with a regular nozzle that sprays a wide area. This is all right for use on parking lots or on asphalt driveways or walks. But along the curb or sidewalk where you don't want to kill back far into the lawn area, Tee-jet nozzle should be used. This nozzle with tip N8003E will cut a line almost as fine as a pencil.

Suggested control for asphalt driveways, asphalt walks and asphalt parking lots are as follows: For Nutgrass, use 2,4-D about 1 ounce per gallon of water. Use 3 gallon sprayer with regular nozzle. Wet foliage until it starts to run off. Repeat if initial spraying does not take care of problem. Usually 2 or 3 sprayings are needed to control Nutgrass. If Nutgrass isn't too numerous, put some of the above mixture in a bucket and using old mop or rag on a stick, dab it on Nutgrass. Do all spraying with 2,4-D or like material when there is no wind. Keep away from ornamentals, vegetables, and etc.

For control of Bermuda in asphalt driveway and walks, use 3 gallon sprayer with regular nozzle—3 and one third ounces of Dowpon (Dalaphon) to each gallon of water—3 gallon sprayer when full takes 10 ounces of Dowpon. Spray foliage until it is wet thoroughly and use same precautions for the above.

For use as an edging agent along sidewalk or curb, use the same mixture as above (3 and one third ounces of Dowpon to gallon of water). But for the fine edging job, use the Tee-jet nozzle Tip 8002E on sprayer. You will have to get extra fittings for this nozzle if used on conventional sprayer. But the cost is small and you will save the cost in the spray materials saved by using this type nozzle and tip. Spray right along curb or sidewalk about one inch back into grass area. You will get a killed area of about 1 and a half to 2 inches (if your hand is steady). While this method isn't as pleasing as the edging done with hoe, it will save time. And some may not want the brown area along their sidewalk or curb but to those who wouldn't let this trouble them, here is the answer to your edging problem.

The gardener should have one sprayer that he uses for herbicides alone. He should paint it yellow or red to make sure he doesn't fill it with spray material to use on ornamentals.

Weiner Roast Held At Park

The Modern Woodmen of America Junior Camp No. 1885 held its monthly meeting Monday night at Elm Street Park with a weiner roast and handicraft work by the members.

First prize for handicraft went to Nancy Wilson, second prize, Marty Garner, and third prize, Landy Spain. Winning entries will be on display.

The next meeting will be an ice cream party July 10 at the home of the local Junior Director, Larry Stox.

Experts Advise Suds For African Violets

To display the full beauty of African violets, their leaves must be free of dust and debris. Wash each leaf gently with warm soapsuds, using a soft sponge or wad of cotton, and rinse with warm water.

Then keep the plants out of sunshine until the leaves are completely dry. This "grooming" advice comes from the Indiana State African Violet Society.

If you have any doubt about the shrink-resistance of a fabric, it's worthwhile to pre-wash it in convenient lengths before sewing.

Just make sure that you put it into your washing machine in sensible quantities, so as not to impede efficient suds action.

Chairmen Of Jay-C-Ette Committees Announced

The Greenville Jay-C-Ettes held their monthly dinner meeting at the Woman's Club Wednesday at 7 p.m.

They had the 1961 Pitt County Easter Seal Crippled Child, Lou Ella Daniels, and her mother, Mrs. Frank Daniels, as guests. Mrs. Sue Heath, Mrs. Dickie Caines and Mrs. Gretchen Cochran were also welcomed as visitors.

After dinner, Mary Windle, president, presented these committees chairmen and members:

Telephone Committee — Mrs. Katherine-Raney, chairman, Mrs. Sue Bailey, Mrs. Lola Simonowich, Mrs. Ruby Harrison, Mrs. Beverly Haynes, Mrs. June Cozart and Mrs. Belle Boykin.

Membership Committee — Mrs. Jean Taylor, chairman, Mrs. Barbara Foley and Mrs. Peggy Moore. Scrapbook — Mrs. Ann Harper. Publicity — Mrs. Mary Alice Hendrix.

Yearbook — Mrs. Ann Clark, chairman, Mrs. Virginia Morgan, Bloodmobile — Mrs. Martha Coffman and By-Laws — Mrs. Margaret Brown, chairman, Mrs. Dot Smith.

Awards — Mrs. Jane Laughinghouse, chairman, Mrs. Phoebe Dail.

Flower, Card and Visitation — Mrs. Margaret Hardee, chairman, Mrs. Ruth Beddingfield.

The group voted to send three crippled children to camp and to supplement their camp wardrobe. Mrs. Peggy Moore and Mrs. Mary Alice Hendrix will help with this.

They also voted to have a short program at the conclusion of each dinner meeting. Mrs. Martha Coffman and Mrs. Ann Clark will help Mrs. Janice Hasty plan these programs.

Mrs. Windle read a letter of appreciation from the Pitt County Crippled Children's Association for the club's help in making the Lily Tag Sale a success. She also announced a membership drive which will last from July to September.

This month the Jay-C-Ettes provided transportation for a crippled child to Duke Hospital for treatment. Mrs. Martha Coffman and Mrs. Ann Clark will serve cookies and milk at the crippled children's clinic the last of July.

Mrs. Barbara Foley won the attendance prize.

Soon A Necessary Accomplishment

Increasingly, it's a "small world" . . . but in many ways the people are far apart.

Take the language barrier: Our presidents and vice presidents, special ambassadors and representatives, diplomats and private citizens are all coming into greater contact with people abroad.

It is almost a general rule that our chiefs of state and their official travelers abroad are familiar only with the English language. This is fine in English-speaking lands, but it is far from satisfactory when national spokesmen—or our private citizens—must deal with those who have another language.

True, our professional foreign service people abroad are frequently familiar with the language of their assigned posts; and we have many translators available to serve where needed. But this is not ideally adequate. Something is missing.

We recall when the President and Mrs. Kennedy visited France, Mrs. Kennedy immediately became one of the most popular guests that country had known.

No Verdict 'Til Results Known

By LYNN NISBET
EVALUATION — During the closing days of the 1961 General Assembly and for some weeks thereafter a popular pastime of legislators, newsmen and others who have followed the course of events closely for the past five months will be review of accomplishments and placement of credit of blame for them.

This reporter joins the rest of the pack in making his own evaluation. Verdict is withheld on whether most legislation was good or bad waiting for experience to prove its wisdom. Despite the fact that members of the 1961 Legislature have worked harder for longer hours, and engaged in less than usual frivolity or horseplay, there is doubt whether their efforts have been as well directed or accomplished as much as might have been desired. In some instances the mountain was in travail and brought forth a mouse.

Many people doubt that accomplishments in court reform, congressional redistricting, small loan regulation and other measures justify the time and energy put into the fabrication of the bills. Outstanding achievement was the passage of budget bill calling for expenditure of a billion and a half dollars during the next two years — and enactment of revenue bills to provide the money, more than a billion which will come from State collected taxes.

LEADERSHIP — From beginning of the session until now there have been complaints about lack of recognized leadership. The complaints are hardly justified, although it is true that this session has not developed much individual leadership. Lindsay Warren, veteran statesman and senator from the second district, maintains the title he earned years ago as a recognized leader.

There were others on both sides of the capital who demonstrated capacity for leadership, but in some crucial instances they failed to get the "fellowship" necessary to prove their potency. One reason for that was the fact that combinations of leaders changed from time to time, and men who fought valiantly side by side on some issues were bitter opponents on others.

SUPER SALESMAN — Without accepted leadership, and with such leaders as were recognized in particular controversies, being regarded as not close to the administration, how did Governor Sanford get through so much of his program? The answer to that question would seem to be that Terry Sanford is a master salesman for his ideas — and an expert in public relations. The very audacity of his program shocked many who were disposed to be unfriendly to it into a state of numbness, and while they were in shock he began a selling job on them—legislators and the folks back home. And he drafted on his "faculty" members of his election campaign organizations, officials of the Democratic party, and a great many private citizens whose emotions were aroused in behalf of "quality" education — without much knowledge of what constituted that quality.

Certainly, the Governor exerted the pressure of his office to get votes for his ideas. Sure, he and his aides used some force and threats, and indulged in legalized bribery by exchanging patronage for votes. That is common traditional practice, and is as much a part of democratic government as is the privilege of individual suffrage.

It is significant that force and threats and patronage — bribery was less obvious during this session than in any recent Legislature. SUASION — Governor Sanford has used to greater degree than his recent predecessors the art of moral suasion. He has "sold" legislators on the merits of his program. Majority of those who voted for his bills did not do so because of promises or threats, but because they had been convinced that it was the right thing to do.

Men who swore early in the session they would stay here until Christmas before they'd vote for a sales tax on table foods were found in the front ranks of food tax advocates three months later. Many of these men are not the kind who can be bought or threatened. Their minds were changed by the most astute salesmanship campaign ever conducted by a chief executive of North Carolina.

Governor Sanford was as skillful in handling matters other than his quality education program. He did not officially inject the power of his office into issues of redistricting, small loan regulation and similar important measures. But around the breakfast table and over coffee cups in tete-a-tete conferences he persuaded members that they should take this or that position.

The Governor did not get everything he originally asked for in appropriations or taxes, in court reform or government reorganization. But when the final record of the 1961 General Assembly is written it probably will show that he accomplished more of his original aims than has any recent Governor — and with less public show of force.

The Best Of The High School Players Here

Fresh on the heels of collegiate baseball excitement, area fans are due for a treat this week when the best high school players from a host of North Carolina cities and towns gather to play an all-star East-West series.

Some of the youngsters will be coming considerable distance to participate in the second such competition to be held in Greenville. Local sponsors, the Greenville Lions Club, found their first all-star game so well-received that a second such event was inevitable.

This year's program differs from the first in that a best-two-of-three series will be played. A purely benefit project, all proceeds go to the Lions Cottage at Boys' Home, Lake Waccamaw.

Aside from being a worthy benefit, the East-West games bring together the best high school players in the state to exhibit their wares. We count ourselves fortunate they will gather here.

Less Prompt In Injury Reports

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's aides have been less prompt with news about his back injury—described as not serious—than President Eisenhower's staff was with information about his truly serious illness.

You might get the impression—listening to Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger—that news just travels slower in White House circles these days. But one thing is sure. Salinger is either a lot more tardy in learning what happens to his boss—or in telling the press about it—than was ever the case with James Hagerity, who was Eisenhower's press secretary.

As a result, Salinger Tuesday got into one of the hottest news conferences he's had since taking over as Kennedy's press secretary. According to the White House, Kennedy hurt his back May 15 while in Canada turning a spadeful of earth during a ceremony. With an aching back he went to Europe for separate talks with British Prime Minister Macmillan, French President de Gaulle, and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

But it wasn't until June 8, two days after Kennedy's return from Europe, that Salinger revealed the President had suffered the injury. By this time Kennedy had been in pain three weeks. Why had the news been bottled up that long? Salinger put the responsibility on the President and said Kennedy hadn't even mentioned it to his personal staff.

Yet Salinger said Kennedy had been on crutches two days at his Hyannis Port, Mass., home before leaving May 30 for Europe. This raised an immediate question: Didn't Kennedy's staff know about this? If not, where was the staff?

While Salinger insisted the back injury wasn't serious—and wasn't at all related to previous back injuries which required three operations—the long delay in letting it be known gave it importance.

When Salinger finally made the news known June 8 he did so by opening his conference with the announcement that "The President will appear today using crutches."

Once Kennedy did appear on crutches, of course, the news of

Favors Spoiled Spouses

NEW YORK (AP)—Ireland's leading actress suggested today U.S. wives would enjoy life more if they spent more time spoiling their husbands instead of nagging them — or competing with them.

"The Irish woman takes it for granted that it's a man's world," said Siobhan McKenna, who has red hair, green eyes—and a serene temper. "When I married, my grandmother told me, 'Marriage is a partnership. As in all partnerships, sometimes one must give in—and it might as well be the woman."

"Irish women do—and I think they're the happier for it." Ireland has one of the world's lowest divorce rates, and Miss McKenna believes one reason is the people there have a more realistic idea about the role of the sexes.

"They set out with the idea that men and women are incompatible," she said, "but through love and affection they accept this incompatibility and make the best of it."

"So the first time they disagree, they don't rush off to a divorce court. They accept the fact they are different. They expect to disagree."

What is the biggest mistake U.S. wives make? "It's their not accepting a man as he is," said Siobhan firmly. "That is a mistake."

"You can't really change people, and you shouldn't really want to. Advice is one thing. But nagging merely drives a man to be more what he is."

"Sometimes, too, women here are too ambitious for their husbands. They drive them to work too hard. Then, when they've made all this money, it's too late for love."

"Mind you, I think Irish husbands might work a little harder. But they work to live, not live to work."

Miss McKenna is married to actor Dennis O'Dea and has a 12-year-old son. Although she has an outside career herself, she feels "the best life for a woman really" is one in which she concentrates on her marriage and home.

Miss McKenna recently completed the role of the Virgin Mary in MGM's $10-million-plus film, "King of Kings." She is expected now over the prospect of starring in "Playboy," the first movie in many years to be made in Ireland with an all-Irish cast and financed by Irish capital.

If he can get away with that, why not the kid imitate him and her too, and get their names printed daily and favorably in the gossip columns? You and I can cite dozens of examples of the advertising of the immoral and the indecent to prove that such qualities pay while honest virtue is its own reward and gets you nowhere. So, I'll go back to my murdered son, "Have Gun - Will Murder."

Other Editors Saying . . . Castro Characteristic (Henderson Dispatch) Fidel Castro is hedging on his original offer to liberate 1,200 "freedom fighter" prisoners he is holding in exchange for five hundred tractors from the United States. In that attitude he is exemplifying a characteristic of communists generally. Once there is a disposition to meet them half way, they often supplement their offer in an effort to gain additional concessions and advantages. It is neither new nor surprising.

Added now to the offer to free the prisoners in return for the tractors, Castro wants political prisoners held by the United States, Puerto Rico, Nicaragua and Guatemala to be released to Cuba. He didn't say it, but it would be true to his pattern of operations if some of them were stood before firing squads if he should regain possession of them.

So it seems that when there is readiness here to meet the terms, the price is promptly increased. There is no assurance but that if these new terms were met further strings would be tied to the deal.

The eager beavers in the United States who jumped into the deal are learning, as they should have known already, how untrustworthy communists are. This is further evidence that they cannot be depended upon in negotiations for whatever purpose.

The whole project was unfortunate. It means no good for the United States, but merely a further loss of face, in that steps is being allowed to call the signals and is making the mighty giant of the north dance to his tunes. That is humiliating to Americans and debases them in the eyes of the world—friend and foe alike.

Every possible sympathy is extended to the twelve hundred men held captive by the Cuban communist regime. Their release is greatly to be desired. But you can't deal with gangsters on an honest basis.

By ELMER ROESSNER Here's a secret: Many business owners and top executives are hopeful that Congress will approve the Kennedy request for a crackdown on expense account spending.

In fact, if companies and employees are denied tax deductions for luxury entertainment, business may benefit more than the government.

The Administration proposes that deductions for theaters, night clubs, sports events, yachts, fishing lodges, country clubs and junkies to the Bahamas be forbidden. It would also limit spending for yachts, autos, hotel suites, company autos and other luxuries usually stated to be essential to making sales or creating other taxable income.

In Washington, many corporations are going through the motions of protesting these limitations. American free enterprise cannot continue to flourish if business cannot woo customers with whiskey, women and filet mignons.

Secretly, many are hoping they lose their fight. Take corporation XXX. It spends $1 million a year entertaining visiting customers and clients in New York. Officials of companies with whom they do business visit New York and expect XXX to make hotel reservations, provide tickets for hit musicals, get dance floor seats at swank night clubs, and, in many cases, provide even more entertainment.

An employee of one advertising agency, who was charged with arranging these things for out-of-town visitors, once told me he felt like a flunkie.

And XXX corporation does this because YZY corporation does it and because the ZZZ company does too.

Theoretically, the money spent for this kind of pleasure is an investment in continuing business. Actually, it is money kicked back to customers. Theoretically, the investment is money that comes out of essential operating expenses. Actually, it comes out of profits.

APPLIES TO FRINGES, TOO If none of the companies offered this kind of business banking, few if any would have to lower prices. Their net income would therefore increase.

Choice In The Matter

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I fear that I contribute to juvenile delinquency. I look at T.V. murders whenever I have any time for such things. T.V., to me, is fun, relaxation, amusement. If I want to be educated, I prefer a carefully written book or monograph. Most of the learning I find on T.V. adds to juvenile confusion. The debates among politicians and the question and answer programs are too trifling. Give me "Perry Mason" who wins every case by violating the rules of evidence. Or give me "Gunsmoke" where murder is the theme. What puzzles me is why these men do not marry their women.

Presumably a young fellow becomes a juvenile delinquent because, being bored with virtue, he watches T.V. and becomes vicious. But we had bad boys and bad girls long before there was any such thing as T.V. Jessie James and Gyp the Blood lived before T.V. It is too easy to jump to conclusions about what drives the young to kin and even to murder. We now have a whipping boy, T.V. Nobody, however, is corrupted by any one medium.

For instance, there seems to be a fashion these days for children to sue parents for money the parents earned or own. It seemed to have started with a young lady who went after her grandmother and it goes the rounds like any other fashion. I have not seen this violation of the Ten Commandments on T.V. but it occurs in life quite often. I was told recently that a Mother, coming home at a late hour saw her very juvenile daughter, dressed to kill and going out where the young lady was going to and received an impolite reply.

What does a parent do under such circumstances? When I was a child, there was no doubt about it. The parent would seize the child, put it across a knee and give it a thorough spanking. If that is as much effort for the parent, it is certain that the child will grow up not only as a juvenile delinquent but as an adult delinquent. Parents who cater to childish impudence help to manufacture more juvenile delinquents than all the murders on T.V.

Besides, if children look at the murders whose fault is it? The parents who says that he cannot refuse his child the wish to spend hours watching nonsense on T.V. is really not a parent. Such a person is little more than a legal guardian scared of his wards. The child, who may be bored with T.V. will look nevertheless to establish beyond question who is the boss.

Children who sue parents or grandparents for money which the children did not earn by their own work violate Natural Law and therefore should have no place in any court. It is part of our present duty to persecute parents and to withdraw from parents the right to protect children from corrupting materialism.

In my opinion, the gossip columnists do more evil than the murders in T.V. When young people equate divorce as equal to marriage when they regard it as the acme of success to be mentioned in such a column, however disagreeably; when they hire press agents to give them a bad name as long as the name is spelled correctly—then morality disappears and an entire nation suffers from a rupture. I recall reading one such document and could not discover in it a single name noted for service to the country, for contribution to civilization, or to fine and cultured living. The principal item dealt with a man who is openly living with a woman to whom he is not married.

If he can get away with that, why not the kid imitate him and her too, and get their names printed daily and favorably in the gossip columns? You and I can cite dozens of examples of the advertising of the immoral and the indecent to prove that such qualities pay while honest virtue is its own reward and gets you nowhere. So, I'll go back to my murdered son, "Have Gun - Will Murder."

Quote . . . "With all the growth in peacetime budgets brought on by the cold war, still the per capita national debt is lower than it was in 1945 when Japan surrendered." — Greensboro Daily News.

Maker insists Potion Will Cure Drunkenness Maurice Van Dyne, who has been accused by the Federal Trade Commission of misrepresenting his "Soborin" as a five-day cure for alcoholism, has denied all the Federal Trade Commission charges.

The Brooklyn entrepreneur insisted his product is not represented as a cure, but as a relief from drunkenness. He also said the "aversion treatment" does break the desire to drink alcohol. The FTC said Soborin contains ipecac, a regurgitant.

However, this column's original suggestion still seems valid. It is to gather 100 boozers in Washington, give them Soborin for five days according to the directions on the bottle, and then see if they have broken the alcohol habit. But science will probably be shoved aside for legalisms, and Van Dyne's fate will depend on the wording of his advertisements, the wording on the bottle, and the wording of the statutes.

Private Swimming Pool Requires Planning

BACKYARD LUXURY . . . Home swimming pools are reaching new heights of popularity but the potential builder is well advised to investigate the installation and maintenance requirements before turning the first shovelful of dirt.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Before you plunge financially into a backyard swimming pool, be sure to acquaint yourself with the requirements of installation and maintenance. It could save you a lot of headaches.

The popularity of the swimming pool has ushered in a new set of municipal codes. Boards of health in all 50 states have set rigid requirements for community pools, those used by three or more families.

These pools must be equipped with scum gutters, skimmers, a main drain and water purification. Some states require special low voltage lighting as a safety measure against electrical shocks. All communities require a backwash. Where there are no sewers, a dry-well must be built. Where there are sewers, a direct connection is mandatory. Filtration is based on a six to eight-hour cycle.

Many communities have codes relating the swimming pool to the property line. A recent survey shows the smallest set back allowed in the nation is three feet, although some vary to 20 feet with the average about 18. A majority of communities require submission of plot and pool plans in advance of installation.

Residential pools are not governed by filtration codes. Most pool owners just follow the recommendations for good sanitation suggested by experts. They say the pool should be turned over once every 22 hours, although some exceptions require a 17 to 16 hour filtration cycle.

Most local laws require that pools be enclosed by fences of a type and height that discourages children and animals. Some communities require a four-foot chain link fence, although one township requires a six-foot fence.

Once you decide you can meet the standards and can afford the maintenance of a pool, you are ready to go ahead with your plans.

Take your choice of cement, fiber glass or vinyl liner pools, and remember—the cost of your pool installation is only the beginning. It costs money to maintain them. One manufacturer is touting a do-it-yourself pool kit (12 by 24) which can be installed with a filter over a weekend.

The initial cost of a fiber glass pool is higher than most pools but it is also deterrent and does not require painting. Cement pools must be painted, patched and drained every year at a cost of about $250.

Vinyl liners must be replaced about every 5 to 10 years at a cost of about $250.

In northern sections of the country, swimming pool use has increased to six months with the new vinyl inflatable pool houses and pool heaters. Sales figures indicate that 60 per cent of all swimming pools are sold in the north-east.

Student Artist's Prints Displayed

Prints by Lawrence M. Blizard of Whiteville are now being exhibited in the Kate Lewis Gallery, Rawl building, at East Carolina College. The art show, sponsored by the college department of art as one of a series of student exhibitions scheduled for the 1961 summer session, is open to the public.

Blizard is a junior at East Carolina, where he is majoring in art. He has studied print making at the college under Dr. Bruce Carter and plans to continue his work in this field of art and in painting after his graduation.

Blizard is a member of the art staff of the East Carolina College literary magazine, "The Rebel." The Spring, 1961 issue of the magazine carried among its illustrations a "Civil War Series" by the student artist.

At East Carolina his name has appeared on both the College Honor Roll and the Dean's List of Superior Students. In extracurricular activities he is a member of the college band and of Phi Sigma Pi, national honorary fraternity for men in education.

Blizard is the son of L. R. Blizard, 110 W. Frink St., Whiteville.

"ONE, WHY NOT MORE?"—"We thought as long as we'd killed one, we might as well keep on," says George Ronald York, 18, left, as buddy James Douglas Latham, 19, and Sheriff Fay Gillette, rear, look on at Salt Lake City. The two teen-agers are in custody for a series of seven killings in five states. But the first victim—the "death" that started it all—didn't die. He survived with critical head injuries. French Continue Cease-Fire Plan

PARIS (AP)—France decided today to continue its unilateral cease-fire in Algeria despite an increase in rebel hit-and-run attacks and suspension of peace talks.

France's half-million-man army in Algeria was ordered on May 20 to limit action to self-defense. That was the day peace talks with rebel leaders began in Evian les Bains.

Rebel leaders refused to order their forces to cease fire, charging the French acted unilaterally to gain a propaganda advantage.

There has been a marked increase in terrorist attacks since May 20 although Algerian rebel military action has continued on a low scale.

The peace talks were suspended indefinitely by France Tuesday, with the suggestion they resume after a 10-15 day cooling off period.

There had been speculation France would order its army to resume normal offensive operations, but after a Cabinet meeting today, the government announced the May 20 order will remain in effect. It was pointed out terms of the order remain valid—French troops are permitted to reply to rebel fire and pursue terrorist attacks.

A Cabinet spokesman gave no details on the deadlocked peace talks.

Mrs. Kennedy Flies Homeward

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy flew homeward today, leaving her Greek hosts hopeful that her week-long vacation in this country will give its tourist trade a boost.

The 31-year-old wife of the American President—after a morning swim—left for New York aboard a commercial airliner which made a special stop in Athens to pick up her party of nine.

Prime Minister Constantine Caramanlis and his wife, who were Mrs. Kennedy's hosts here, went to the airport to bid her farewell. Mrs. Kennedy, suntanned and all smiles, thanked them for their hospitality as a small crowd of curious airport employees, passengers and newsmen applauded. Mrs. Kennedy was wearing a light aquamarine coat and had black accessories.

Before leaving, Mrs. Kennedy told Greek friends she would like to bring her two small children here for a vacation next summer.

After seven days in Greece, including a yachting tour of picturesque islands in the Aegean Sea, Mrs. Kennedy "has been delighted with it," her social secretary Letitia Baldrige reported.

Greenville Elks Mark Flag Day

FLAG DAY SERVICES . . . Dr. James Butler and Elks Exalted Ruler John Collins.

"We in America have never been accustomed to making peace with bandits," Dr. James Butler of East Carolina College told a Flag Day gathering at the Greenville Elks Lodge yesterday.

"We offer no bribes when we know our cause is just," he continued. "We are still the land of the free and the home of the brave."

He referred to Fidel Castro who "sends us running" to see how many tractors can be offered as ransom.

Dr. Butler quoted verses from the National Anthem and said, "These stirring words have been an inspiration to countless millions who have dreamed of freedom."

Says Police Owe Public Courtesy

TONAWANDA, N. Y. (AP) — "City of Tonawanda police, Lt. Smith. May I help you?" This is the friendly greeting everyone receives when they call police headquarters here, since Chief James G. Oldenburg had a telephone company customer service consultant instruct his men in good telephone manners.

"I think it's important," the chief explains. "A modern-day police outfit does a lot of business by phone. And the public is entitled to courtesy."

A Genial Castro Talks Five Hours To U.S. Newsmen

For First Time, He Feels Needed

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — "I am your mother," said the voice over the phone from Virginia. "I want you to come home to me."

This weekend Jimmy Parker, 15, will rejoin the mother he hasn't seen since he was three months old.

The story begins in 1946 in Jersey City, N.J., when Mrs. Bess Barmore found herself a widow with four children. There wasn't enough income to keep the family together. Tearfully Mrs. Barmore let her children become wards of the Welfare Department.

A retired engineer, John Parker, took in Jimmy, who was related to Mrs. Parker. Jimmy adopted the name Parker and the family moved overseas to Scotland. There in 1957, tragedy struck again. Jimmy's foster father died and Jimmy found himself in a Scottish orphanage.

A kindly U.S. Air Force major and his wife took Jimmy from the orphanage and later came here, with their foster son, to Seymour Johnson Air Force Base near here. But Jimmy wasn't happy. He moved from one foster home to another, meanwhile urging Clerk of Court C. Loren Derr to help him find his mother.

Derr's efforts culminated in the phone call this week from Mrs. Bess Barmore Howell of Arlington, Va. Mrs. Howell is now married to an Arlington carpenter. And she has already found her other three children and they are with her.

Jimmy himself is nervous. A tall, slender youth with blue eyes and light brown hair, he is described by friends as a "very fine boy."

But he needs to be needed, his friends say. And now he has that feeling of being needed, for the first time.

By LEWIS GULICK
HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro wound up 5 1/2 hours of talk with American newsmen early today, then arranged to take them on a "personal tour of the battleground where his troops repulsed the April 17 invasion."

Honest-Lookers Can Be Deceptive

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mrs. Esther Jones of Pittsburgh has learned that kind-looking people aren't always honest.

She was in a store burdened down with a number of small packages. A man she described as kind-looking approached and said: "What you need is to put all your packages in one big shopping bag."

The man went away and came back with a bag. Mrs. Jones gave him the packages and he promptly walked away and never returned. The packages contained two pairs of shoes, a skirt and other wearing apparel.

Virginia May Buy Part Of Maryland

MOUNT VERNON, Va. (AP) — Virginia may buy a piece of Maryland.

Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. made the suggestion to protect the view from Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington. The purchase could prevent the Washington Suburban Sanitation Commission from building a sewer plant on the north bank of the Potomac river.

Ocean City, Md., becomes the second largest city in Maryland during the summer. The popular Atlantic resort's permanent population of 965 swells to 125,000 on some July and August weekends.

Move To Drop The 'T' Beaten Again

GUTTENBERG, Iowa (AP) — Residents once again have decided to leave the extra "T" in the community's name, even though the German printing inventor for whom it is named spelled it Gutenberg.

The story is that a draftsman, a century ago, misspelled the name in drawing the original town plat. Those who advocated the change cited tradition and the possible distinction of being the only town in the world to honor the printer. Opponents said letterheads — and habits — would have to be changed.

The special election, paid for by the Guttenberg Rotary Club, resulted in a 208-166 vote against the change. In 1949, the proposal was defeated 127-88.

ord for news conferences with two sessions in a 10-hour span. The occasion was the visit of eight American newsmen and photographers covering the tractor-for-prisoners negotiations.

The leftist leader invited the correspondents to take up permanent reportorial duties in Havana. This was a big switch from the days following the invasion when American newsmen were arrested or took refuge in embassies.

Castro surprised the visiting reporters by calling them to his office quarters in the Agrarian Reform Institute on short notice Wednesday afternoon after his session with the American technical team on the tractor proposal.

Relaxed and in good humor, Castro replied at length to all questions put to him. It was his first such meeting with newsmen in many months.

Castro lounged amid a circle of reporters in his usual olive green army fatigue uniform. He sucked on a cigar stub but never quite got it lit during the 2 1/4 hours of the first news conference.

The Cuban leader spoke fairly rapidly in Spanish. Two volunteer interpreters tried to keep going at the same time, correcting each other occasionally.

And what did Castro talk about? Almost everything, including: President Kennedy—He has no intention of meeting Kennedy at this time, but he held open the possibility of a meeting later should U.S.-Cuban tensions ease. (There have been no overtures for such a meeting from Washington).

U.S.-Cuban Negotiations — It's up to the United States, not Cuba, to make the initiative on any negotiations to reconcile differences because Cuba is what Castro termed the offended party.

U.S. Prestige—Latin Americans are becoming increasingly hostile toward the United States. Cuban Socialism—"The (Cuban) revolution is socialist. The state is not. It has the same organization as before the revolution began."

Sightless Vendor Had Eyes Opened

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Sightless Richard Gaynor had his eyes opened in one respect. 'Cordial Welcome' Noted By New City Manager

LOUIS SCHEIPERS, JR. . . Greenville's City Manager

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The People of Greenville have been "most cordial," according to Greenville's new City Manager Louis Scheipers, who has spent the majority of the time since coming here, meeting townspeople and learning how the city is run.

Scheipers, a native of Florence, Mass., took up his official duties here June 5, after leaving Southern Pines. Scheipers has served as city manager of Southern Pines since 1956.

The former "yankee" moved to North Carolina with his family in 1934 while a freshman in high school, then graduated from Stanton Military Academy at Stanton, Virginia, before majoring in Political Science at the University of North Carolina.

In 1941 Scheipers entered the U.S. Air Force and after his cadet training became a navigator with an Air-Sea Rescue group working in the Caribbean Theater.

Near the end of the war, Scheipers reflected, many B-29 "superfortresses" being test-flown, went down in the Gulf of Mexico. He was a member of the rescue group that aided these downed flyers.

In 1946, after being discharged a second lieutenant, Scheipers returned to civilian life, and to Massachusetts, as manager of a retail tobacco firm owned by his father. He remained there for five years, then returned to North Carolina and for two years, was office manager of a furniture manufacturing firm near Southern Pines.

In 1953, Scheipers accepted an office to become assistant city manager of the Sandhills Resort town and three years later, was appointed as City Manager.

While serving as city manager for the famous Moore County resort, he attended several schools on public administration offered by the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill, and has completed a finance school and tax collectors school.

The city official was a member of the Presbyterian Church in Southern Pines, where he served as a Deacon, and was a member of the Elks Lodge there.

Scheipers, explaining that both he and his wife "like Greenville," emphasized that they have "never been so cordially welcomed anywhere in our lives" as they were when they arrived here. "Everyone has tried to make us feel at home," he commented.

So far, the newcomer has spent at least a half-day with each city department head, touring the department's facilities, meeting the men in the department, and seeing how the division operates.

As city manager, Scheipers is charged with the general administration of the city, including the police and Fire Departments, the Public Works Commission and the Recreation Commission.

The new city "boss," in reporting on his visits to the various city departments, said the organizations were "well organized, very well equipped, . . . and very cordial."

Comparing his duties here with those in Southern Pines, Scheipers explained that the duties are practically the same, with one major exception. In the Sandhills town, the utilities department was under the control of the city government, while here in Greenville, it is controlled by a separate commission with a separate head.

RECORDS, RECORDS, RECORDS! . . . Seeing how they are kept.

Scheipers will use the office formerly occupied by the Mayor, on the first floor of City Hall. The quarters will be set up similar to the offices of the director of utilities, with a glass partition for a secretary. Until other arrangements can be completed, the office will be shared with the mayor.

Scheipers said he considers it a "real challenge" to be city manager here. Greenville is a growing city, he explained, and commented that through more orderly growth, the city will become an even better place in which to live.

Scheipers married the former Eleanor Grover of Southern Pines, and they have five children, two girls and three boys.

"Little did we dream last fall we would be living here in less than a year," Scheipers said. He made the statement when he explained that his oldest daughter, who is 19, will begin her second year at East Carolina College when school opens in the fall.

Other than his work, which he considers as a hobby, Scheipers enjoys playing golf. He is quick to admit that his game is, "in excess of 100" though.

Benson Songfest Set For June 24

BENSON, N. C. (AP)—Benson's annual Singing Convention, which bulges this town's population from 2,500 to 40,000 or 50,000, has been set for June 24-25. Sponsors expect more than 75 gospel singing groups from all parts of the Southeast.

The convention, held in Benson's Singing Grove, is primarily a religious gathering. Convention chairman C. M. Blackman said 16 cups and two trophies will be awarded. The convention dates back more than 20 years.

FUND DRIVE STARTED
PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—Princeton Theological Seminary has announced a drive for an $18½ million development fund for expanding its facilities and strengthening its faculty, beginning with the Presbyterian institution's 150th anniversary celebration in 1962.

'Sister City' Program Hailed As Big Success

WASHINGTON (AP)—The "Sister City" program and its surprising success in promoting good will across the oceans was the central theme of the World Conference of Local Governments, opening today.

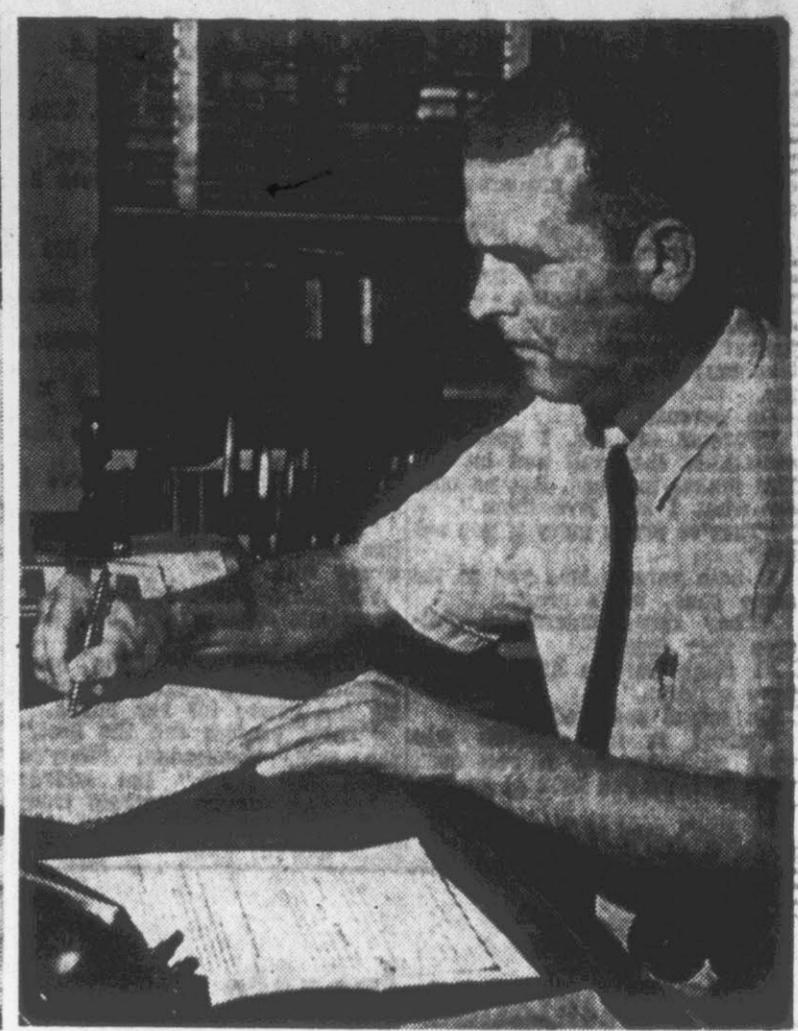

Some 800 mayors, lord mayors, burgomasters and other senior city officials from 51 nations met in the State Department's luxurious new building for the five-day conference, the first held in the United States.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was among today's scheduled speakers. The former President's call in 1957 for a massive people-to-people exchange gave impetus to the sister-city idea.

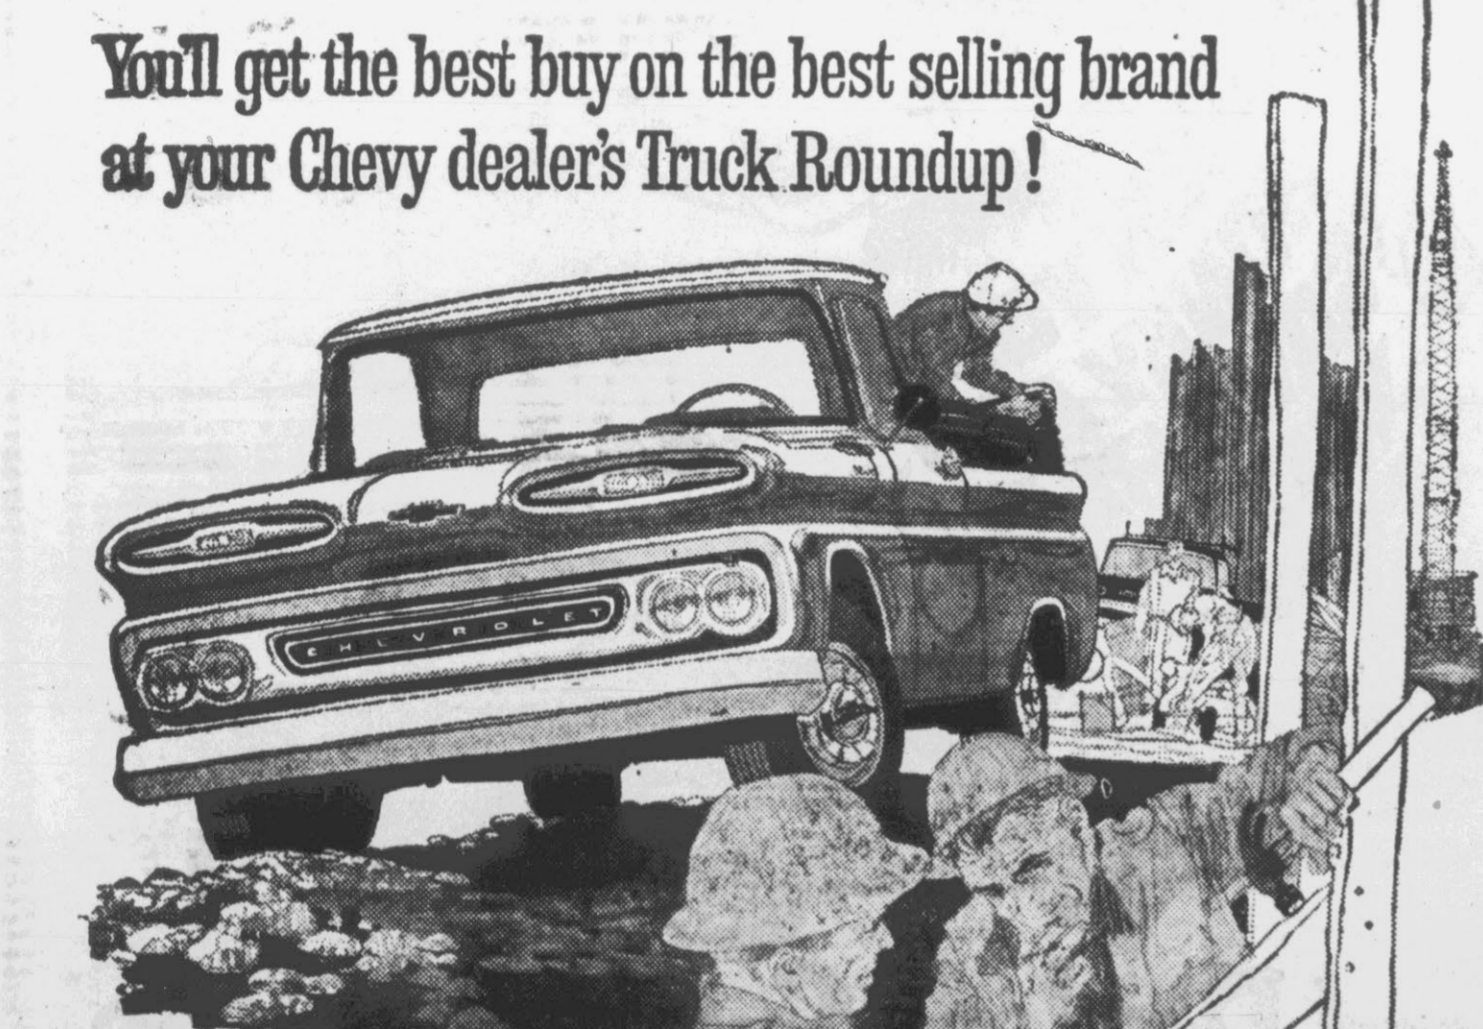

President Kennedy was invited to speak, but officers of the International Union of Local Authorities (IULA), the sponsor organization, said the White House had sent word Kennedy probably would not appear because of his back ailment.

Parents 'Nutty' But Also Loved

VALLEY STREAM, N.Y. (AP)—They yell, they're pretty nutty. But they're loved—a few samples of what some third graders think about their parents.

The 8-year-olds at Brooklyn Avenue School in the Long Island community were asked by their teacher, Annette Higgins, to write anonymously their views on three topics: Parents; School and teachers; Why people should like me.

On parents:

"Parents are ok. I guess but sometimes they yell and hit and that makes me mad. But no matter what I still love them."

"They're pretty nutty if you ask me."

If both parents love you at the same time, that's great."

"They don't understand children very much."

"I think parents are lucky to have children."

On school and teachers:

"School is for children who want to learn. But if you don't want to learn you have to go anyway."

"I didn't used to like school but I like it now."

"My teacher is very nice. I like her perfume."

"If I never went to school I would be stupid but I would be happy."

On themselves:

"A lot of people like me but I don't know why."

"I try my best but still some people do not like me."

"I guess people like me because I am very nice."

"They like me because I am good-looking."

"I don't expect everyone to like me."

"My friends like me because I am not a big shot."

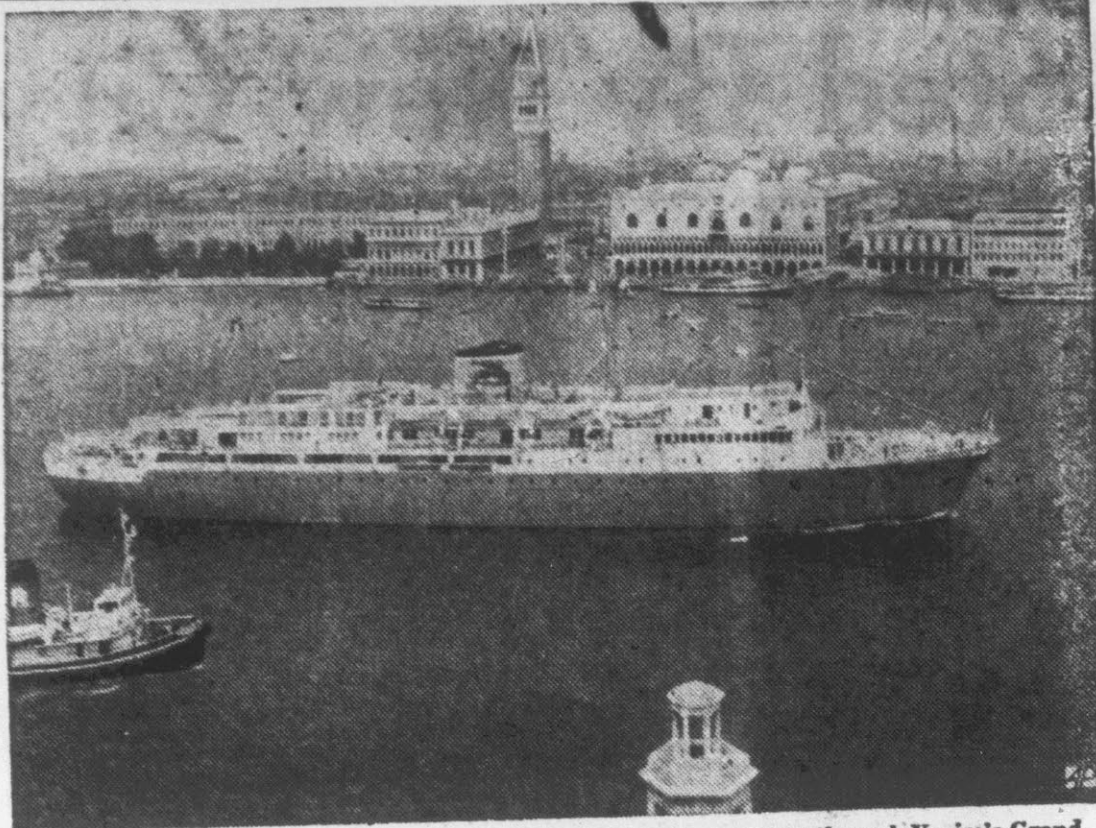

"I like me and people should like me. I don't see anything wrong with me."

The class which turned in the appraisals consists of 17 boys and 16 girls.

Mrs. Higgins, who has been teaching for four years, had nothing but praise for her pupils.

"Third graders are the best," she said, Wednesday. "they're quick and sharp."

"You can see the progress from one day to the next" and "I love them like my own."

Rabbi Cites The 'Positive Image' On A Freedom Bus

By MERCER BAILEY
Associated Press Staff Writer
ABOARD A FREEDOM RIDER BUS IN 'DIXIE' (AP)—"We speak of something as an image of America. Little Rock was one. And Birmingham. And Montgomery."

"Well, this — these 18 men of God. — This is an image of America. A positive image."

Thus, did Rabbi Walter Plaut describe the "Freedom Ride" he and 17 other ministers and rabbis are taking through the South-land to test segregation in interstate bus travel.

This is the first time rabbis have participated in a Freedom Ride sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE). Plaut and three other rabbis are among the group which spent about 10 hours in Sumter, S.C., Wednesday before continuing toward Tallahassee, Fla., via Savannah, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla.

Seven white and seven Negro protestant ministers complete this particular segment of a larger group which left the nation's capital Monday.

Plaut, who came to this country as a 17-year-old in 1937 to escape the persecution of Jews in Hitler's Germany, is rabbi of Temple Emanuel, Great Neck, L. I., N.Y. This is not the first time that he has participated in a battle against racial segregation.

Asylum Granted Soviet Engineer

LONDON (AP) — Britain has granted political asylum to a Soviet water purification engineer who came to Western Europe on a UNESCO study grant.

He is Oleg Lenchevsky, 46, unofficially identified as senior research officer of the water supply institute in Moscow. Reports said he telephoned his wife in Moscow he did not want to return because of "intolerance and antireligion" in the Soviet Union.

Nigeria Declines To Join Union

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Nigeria declined Wednesday night to join the Union of African States formed by Ghana, Guinea and Mali. Nigeria is the most populous African nation with an estimated 35.3 million population.

Information Minister T.O.S. Benson said such a political union now would not be expedient. He re-emphasized Nigeria's policy of non-alignment.

IRISH LUTHERANS

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Lutherans now have their own church building in the capital of the Irish republic for the first time in nearly a century. They have acquired St. Finian's Church here, which they had leased from Anglicans for 99 years.

Freedom Riders Uninterrupted

LEAD FREEDOM RIDERS CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP)—A party of seven Northern Freedom Riders left Charleston quietly today enroute to Savannah, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla. Only half a dozen persons, all whites, were in the bus station when the first riders left this morning. Only two officers were present. A dozen white passengers also were aboard the bus. The riders were refused restaurant service in two small South Carolina towns yesterday, but encountered no difficulty in the Charleston bus terminal. Two buses brought 14 of the challengers to Charleston Wednesday from Wilmington, N. C. A third bus carried 18 white and Negro churchmen from Raleigh, N. C., to Sumter, S. C. where it halted for a church service. This group then proceeded at midnight for Savannah, Ga., en route to Tallahassee, Fla. The 18 clergymen were refused lunch counter service at a motel cafe Wednesday on the outskirts of Sumter. They later ate at a Negro cafe. The first group of freedom riders arriving in Charleston from Wilmington reported no difficulty enroute. Members of the party spent Wednesday afternoon visiting sites in historic Charleston, including the old Slave Market. A second group of seven coming from Wilmington several hours later reported two members ran into trouble at Conway, S. C. Mrs. Dupree C. White, 40, New York City Negro, said a white man walked behind the depot lunch counter, grabbed a long-blade knife and ordered her and a companion to leave. She said a waitress refused them service. Mrs. Laura Randall, 25, New York white woman making her first freedom ride, said she thought the man worked at the lunch counter and had been chopping food beneath the counter. She said he gestured with his knife but she did not view his action as a threat to attack them. Mrs. Randall said the trip so far had been almost a complete success. The travelers experienced some rudeness, but she said police are upholding the law. Her husband, Francis B. Randall, 29, history teacher at Columbia University, was among the seven on the first bus to arrive in Charleston. The Charleston bus depot was desegregated three months ago. A white and Negro soldier sat together at the bus depot's lunch counter talking as the second group of freedom riders entered. The white and Negro riders were served together at the Charleston lunch counter without incident. Two dozen or more white passengers in the station paid little attention to the crusading visitors. A dozen officers were on hand when the first bus arrived, but the only police in evidence when the second bus came in were Chief of Police William F. Kelly, two white officers and a Negro detective. J. Arthur Brown, Charleston real estate man and president of the South Carolina chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, greeted the visitors and arranged overnight accommodations for them in Negro homes. The two groups spending the night in Charleston arranged to take separate buses to Savannah and Jacksonville today. There was a possibility they would join forces in Jacksonville if they decide to continue the trip to other Florida cities. They plan to spend tonight in Jacksonville. The bus with the clergymen arrived in Savannah at 3:45 a.m. and departed 12 minutes later without incident after the riders used the same sanitary facilities, and were served at a snack bar by a white waitress.

President Takes Brief Cruise On The Potomac

WASHINGTON (AP)—A surprise cruise on the Potomac took President Kennedy out of the White House for the first time since Monday, breaking his routine of work and treatment of his injured back. Kennedy will take some more time off tonight to welcome his wife back from Europe. Without advance word, Kennedy slipped out of the White House at sunset Wednesday and motored to the Navy Gun Factory where he boarded the Patrick J., one of the boats used by the First Family. Kennedy and his companions—his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Smith; Harvard classmate Rep. Torbert McDonald of Mass., and New York advertising man R. LeMoine Billings—had dinner aboard. After a leisurely cruise of about 2 hours and 20 minutes they docked in Washington at 10:05 p.m. There were sprinkles of rain along the way. He has been using crutches but White House news secretary Pierre Salinger, who disclosed the boat ride, said Kennedy evidently had no trouble boarding the Patrick J. The President will see his wife for the first time tonight since he left London June 5 at the end of his Paris-Vienna-London conferences. She went on to Greece on a sightseeing trip. Mrs. Kennedy, who didn't learn the extent of her husband's ailment until she read of it in the papers at Athens, is scheduled to land at 11 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time. She will fly down from New York in the Kennedy family plane, the Caroline, immediately after crossing the Atlantic by commercial aircraft. Salinger said the President remarked casually to Mrs. Kennedy just before they parted in London that his back was bothering him. He strained it while shoveling dirt during a tree planting ceremony in Canada. When she learned three days later that he had kept a painful back strain to himself, Salinger said, the First Lady sent a message saying she wanted to come to worry and to continue her vacation. BOLT KILLS GOLFER PALATKA, Fla. (AP)—Lightning struck a golf foursome, killing one of them. Paul Allano, 44, a restaurant manager, was killed Wednesday. The other three golfers were stunned but not seriously hurt. Button Gwinnett was one of Georgia's three signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Stevenson Moving On To Bolivia Today

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson carries President Kennedy's alliance for progress plan today to Bolivia, a nation troubled by the ills the program is designed to cure. Stevenson, touring Latin America as Kennedy's personal representative, has been watching the situation in Bolivia for the past week. Observers believe President Victor Paz Estenssoro is in the midst of the last crisis for his administration. That if he survives his hold will be secure. He imposed a state of siege last week and accused the Communists of plotting to overthrow him. But Bolivia is poor, and much of the trouble has been laid to unrest among workers. Despite the question mark hanging over the Bolivian regime, Stevenson decided to visit La Paz to discuss plans for the meeting in Uruguay next month of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council, at which Kennedy hopes to secure adoption of his plan to improve the lot of the Latin-American people.

Says Alcoholism Is Communicable

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Alcoholism is not hereditary but it is communicable, says Dr. Marvin A. Block, chairman of the American Medical Association's committee on alcoholism. He said 30 percent of all alcoholics have had alcoholic parents. "Alcoholism produces the kind of tension in a home that is apt to drive the children to alcoholism later in life," he said.

Sentenced Youth To Barber Shop

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—When an 18-year-old appeared in city court to answer charges of conjoining, City Judge James B. McKenna said he didn't like the boy's unruly looks. When the lad's mother said she was broke, the judge took up a collection and sentenced the youth to a barber's chair.

Determined, She Missed No Days

AUGUSTA, Kan. (AP)—Lots of girls have finished eight grades of school and only missed one day of school. But Kathy MacKay did it despite being stricken by crippling polio. She had to undergo surgery three times during summer vacations and has worn a leg brace periodically during the past five years. She finished the eighth this year at the Richland Community school.

Long Names Only Half The Story

WASHINGTON (AP)—Drug industry paperwork is almost as staggering as the names of the newest drugs. Take corticosteroid, a drug used in the battle against arthritis. The Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association figures type-written step-by-step details for the 5,200 analytical tests of corticosteroid require about 1,000 feet of paper.

An Old Truth Lives 390 Years

OLEAN, N. Y. (AP)—A phrase found in a 390-year-old science book at the St. Bonaventure University library is as appropriate today as it was in 1571. In a treatise on alchemy, written by Gratiol and printed in Baise appeared a motto of 16th Century chemists: "At nature's boundaries, science begins experiments."

Federal Govm't Entry Into Prince Edward County Case Turned Down

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The federal government's historic bid to intervene in the Prince Edward County school case has been rejected on grounds it "will unduly delay and prejudice" the rights of both sides in the drawn-out court battle over the country's integration-closed public schools.

With those words, U.S. Dist. Judge Oren R. Lewis Wednesday turned down the April 26 request by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy that the federal government be allowed to enter the 10-year-old case as a plaintiff. The government normally enters a racial case as a "friend of the court."

Kennedy had contended federal intervention was necessary "to prevent the circumvention and nullification" of the court's school desegregation order that led Prince Edward to close its public schools in 1959.

Justice Department officials in Washington declined comment until they could study the court's opinion. Kennedy was in New York City to speak to a meeting of state attorneys general.

Prince Edward County, one of the original localities named in the U.S. Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision, has two years and the county governing body has refused to appropriate funds for next year.

Some 1,450 white children have been educated in private segregated schools financed mostly by county and state tuition grants. Most of the 1,700 school-age Negroes have gone without formal education.

In his intervention move in April, Kennedy had asked the court to prohibit Virginia from spending money to maintain public schools anywhere in the state as long as those in Prince Edward County remained closed.

"Such relief, if granted, would be unnecessarily punitive, in that it would require the closing of most, if not all, of the free public schools in Virginia," said Judge Lewis. "Whether the means, if legal, justify the end is questionable, to say the least."

The judge noted that the government in presenting its case had argued it did not intend to force the closing of all the state's public schools but refused to delete the request from its plea.

Lewis said he was forced to conclude that government intervention would bring a request for an order that would jeopardize the education of several hundred thousand Virginia children who have no responsibility whatsoever for the closing of public schools in Prince Edward County.

In addition, the judge said the intervention bid would seem to be "contrary to the intent of Congress" since several bills were now in Congress to grant the attorney general the right to intervene in such suits.

Judge Lewis also pointed out the federal government made no move to intervene as a plaintiff in school cases in Little Rock and New Orleans even though "open defiance of federal court orders was obvious. In Virginia, this complex problem has been and is being solved in a lawful and proper manner through the courts. There has been no known defiance of this court's orders by either the state of Virginia or the county of Prince Edward."

At the same time, the judge turned down a move by the state to dismiss a broadened suit by attorneys for the Negro plaintiffs seeking to question the constitutionality of the tuition grants and the state law under which the schools were closed. A pre-trial hearing, if necessary, and the filing of briefs in the broadened suit were set for next month.

Five Lives Saved In Three Days

ATLANTIC BEACH, N.C. (AP) — Lifeguards and police here saved five lives in three days.

Three young men caught in an undertow Monday between Sportsman's Pier and the beach were rescued and taken to Morehead City Hospital. They were E. L. Coble of Greensboro, Donald Collier of Rocky Mount and Billy Skiles, a Marine stationed at Cherry Point. Rescued Saturday were Kay Kelly, 17, of Raleigh and an unidentified boy. Lifeguardsmen said the bathers were swimming outside the lifeguard-protected roped-off area.

Offer Workshop In Theatre Arts

For the benefit of teachers of the elementary grades in public schools, the East Carolina College department of art will open next Monday, June 19, a workshop in Theater Arts. The course of study will continue through June 30.

Emphasis in the workshop will be placed upon masks, marionettes, puppets, puppet theaters, and plays for the puppet theater. Dr. Wellington B. Gray, director of the college department of art and of the workshop has announced. These aspects of the theater arts are included in elementary school work in the state.

During the workshop, Dr. Gray said, puppets will be made and costumed, a theater designed and constructed, and a play written and produced. Children attending a summer Kindergarten workshop at the college will be guests at the production.

The workshop in Theater Arts for the Elementary School is being offered at the college this summer for the second consecutive year. Work is on the senior-graduate level, and classes meet three hours a day. Those who complete requirements will receive three quarter hours of college credit, which may be applied for certification on the renewal of teaching certificates.

Thomas Mims of the art faculty will be associated with Dr. Gray in conducting the workshop.

Como's Replacement Is Certainly A 'Change'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—One thing you can say for Perry Como's summer replacement: It sure is a change from the usual Wednesday night variety hour on NBC.

Wednesday night's premier program of "Mystery Theater" was, in fact, a neat and meticulous demonstration of a clever and comparatively non-violent way to rob a bank.

Perry's substitutes are British films edited down to an hour's length.

Judging from the first film sample, this promises to be a rather diverting series. And although most English movies we see on TV look as though they were made on a dark night in an unlighted cellar, this one was quite easy to follow without eyestrain.

"The professionals" told how a gang of thieves broke into an underground bank vault and took the equivalent of $250,000 before they got caught. The bad guys dug their way in from a convenient sewer, a rather familiar method. However, the British crooks used hand tools on the job and every one knows that American criminals always use power equipment, so it couldn't be criticized as a real blueprint for crime.

If evening television is such attention-getting, engrossing entertainment, how come so many of the late-model TV receiving sets have built-in, automatic turnoffs which make it possible to fall asleep without wasting too much electricity or burning too many tubes?

The syndicated late-evening "PM" series starring Mike Wallace, designed to provide some fresh competition for late movies and Jack Paar Show, got off to a rather limping start this week. ABC, reported to be interested in picking up the series for its network come fall, said they had turned the taped series down.

After weeks of thought, CBS has finally come up with a title for the Gertrude Berg comedy series which will make its debut this fall: "Mrs. G. Goes to College." The series started out as "Mother Was a Freshman," was changed to "The Freshman," but lately has been identified by the name which the public will undoubtedly use anyway, The Gertrude Berg Show.

NBC will run a repeat broad-

Oil Furnace For Local Post Office

Construction work going on at the Third Street side of the Greenville Post Office involves installation of the oil heating plant for the Post Office.

It was announced in April that improvements would be made at the local post office, including a new oil burner, fuel tank and oil-fired water heater. The oil heating system will replace coal heat. Postmaster J. Knott Proctor said it will take approximately 10 days to complete the present work.

So far, no further word has been heard on air conditioning for the local post office. U. S. Representative Herbert Bonner notified The Daily Reflector in April that the post office would be air conditioned in the near future.

Flew The Union Jack By Mistake

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—Someone suggested to the recently appointed Chamber of Commerce secretary, Otis Rightmyer, that the flag should be displayed Wednesday—Flag Day.

Rightmyer went to the darkened basement of the chamber building and produced a flag. He dutifully placed it on display.

A passerby promptly informed him that the unfurled banner was the Union Jack — standard of Great Britain.

After replacing the flag with the U.S. standard, Rightmyer explained "You can't really say it was a mistake. After all the Soo has been under three flags (the French, British and U.S.) in its 800 years."

Telecast Will Feature College NAIA Champions

Recommended tonight: CBS reports, 10-11 (Eastern Standard Time) — repeat of the excellent documentary, "The Year of the Polaris"; Close-Up, ABC, 10-30-11—"Our Durable Diplomats," a study of two young couples in the government's foreign service.

East Carolina College's baseball team, the 1961 national champions of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, will be featured in a special television program by Station WNCT on June 18, at 4 p.m.

East Carolina President Leo W. Jenkins, opening the telecast with Father's Day greetings, will recognize married players on the baseball team who are fathers. He will also read congratulatory messages from Governor Terry Sanford, U. S. Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr., Representative Herbert C. Bonner and others.

Dr. Jenkins will also present Larry Crayton, Greensboro southpaw, who received the most valuable player award of the recent NAIA tournament in Sioux City, Iowa.

Baseball Coach Jim Mallory will review the national tournament and introduce players on the championship team. Cecil Heath, director of sports promotion at the college, will provide the narration for tournament pictures and movies of the homecoming reception given the team by the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce and the East Carolina Student Government Association.

'Cotton' Clayton Signs Baltimore Oriole Contract

SIGNS CONTRACT . . . East Carolina basketball and baseball star, Lawrence "Cotton" Clayton signed a professional bonus baseball contract with the Baltimore Orioles yesterday.

Lawrence "Cotton" Clayton, basketball and baseball star at East Carolina College for the past two seasons, put his signature on a bonus baseball contract with the Baltimore Orioles yesterday.

The Zeb Vance native played varsity baseball for the Pirates for the first time this spring, and was the leading hitter on East Carolina's NAIA championship club, batting close to the 400 mark.

Bucs. In the finals against Sacramento State College, Clayton went four for four at the plate and drove in six of thirteen Pirate runs.

Greenville Legion Team Wins Fourth Straight

Greenville won its fourth straight American Legion Junior baseball game last night, defeating Ahoskie on the latter's diamond by a 9-2 score.

The win for the Post 39 club makes it four against only one loss, and that was in the season opener against Rocky Mount by a 3-1 margin.

James Braxton, the tall right-hander from Winterville, was the winning pitcher for the Greenville team. Braxton went 6 1-3 innings before being relieved in the seventh by Sawyer, who finished the contest for the winners.

Braxton started off with a bang, striking out the side in the first inning, but as the game wore on, Braxton began to tire, and Coach Bud Phillips took him out in the seventh.

After the score was tied, 1-1, in the third frame, Greenville began to open up, scoring two in the third, one in the fourth, one

South Carolina Grid Card Set

COLUMBIA (AP)—The University of South Carolina announced today a 26-game basketball schedule for 1961-62.

Coach Bob Stevens will lose only Ronnie Johnson, by graduation, from last season's squad.

The schedule: Dec. 2, at Lenoir Rhyne; 4, Tennessee; 8, Virginia; 13, Duke; 15, at DePaul; 18, at Michigan State; 20, at Michigan; 27-29, Gulf South Tournament in Shreveport, La.

Jan. 3, Georgia; 6, at Maryland; 8, at Virginia; 10, at Furman; 13, N.C. State; 15, at North Carolina; 30, at Duke.

Feb. 2, Wake Forest; 6, Clemson; 9, Maryland; 13, at Furman; 16, N.C. State at Charlotte; 17, North Carolina at Charlotte; 20, at Clemson; 24, at Wake Forest.

Outfielder Leon Wagner of the Los Angeles Angels hit 20 home runs in 1960. Sixteen were hit for Rochester and four for St. Louis.

Frank Lary, Whitey Ford 'Winningest'

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer Right-hander Frank Lary and southpaw Whitey Ford are the winningest pitchers of the moment in the majors, and it's no coincidence that the Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees have joined Cleveland under a blanket at the head of the American League race.

as the Yankees knocked off the Indians 11-5 at Cleveland Wednesday night. That left Detroit and Cleveland tied for first place, both one game ahead of the third place Yankees.

Washington defeated Baltimore 5-1, edging within one game of the fourth-place Orioles, and Kansas City rocked Minnesota 9-2. The Chicago White Sox, winning six in a row, put away their second tonight double-header sweep over Los Angeles in two nights, beating the Angels 4-1 and 9-6.

Dick Donovan (3-5) won his third in a row with a six-hitter. Steve Barber (7-5) was the loser. Kansas City was shut out on two hits for 7 1-3 innings by Camilo Pascual, but broke loose for eight runs in the eighth. Jerry Walker (3-3) won it in relief. Pascual was the loser.

Johnny James (0-2) was the loser. Larsen then saved the second game for Frank Baumann (5-6) after the Angels broke loose for five runs in the eighth inning and another in the ninth on Steve Bilko's homer. The Sox tagged loser Ron Meoller (2-5) for seven runs in the first inning.

Little Leaguer Dies Of Injury

COCOA, Fla. (AP)—A Little League baseball player died after being struck in the neck by a pitched ball.

The accident occurred in the third inning of a game Wednesday night while Burmit Estes, 12, was catching for the Moose Lodge team. The ball bounced off home plate and hit him in the neck between the chest protector and face mask.

In the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers jumped back into first place by a half-game by whipping the Chicago Cubs 7-0. Pittsburgh dropped Cincinnati 5-4, and San Francisco defeated Milwaukee 11-2. The St. Louis-Philadelphia game was rained out.

A two-run homer by Billy Bruton wrapped it up for the Tigers as they scored three in the fourth inning against the Red Sox and loser Billy Muffett (2-6). Lary (10-3), had a three-hit shutout until the eighth, when Boston scored on four singles and a sacrifice fly by Frank Malzone.

Ray Herbert and Don Larsen, two right-handers acquired from Kansas City Saturday, wrapped up the White Sox's sweep. Herbert (4-6), won the opener with a three-hitter.

All-Stars Arrive With Bats, Balls, Gloves And Hope

By LEONARD LAO
Reflector Sports Writer

The members of the East and West All-Stars arrived in Greenville yesterday, bringing with them their bats, balls, gloves, and high hopes.

Both teams have had a chance to work out since arriving yesterday, but the rains fell this morning, prohibiting a second workout.

East coaches, Jim Horne of Rocky Mount, and Tommy Lewis of Massey Hill, are confident that this year's teams are even better than last year's. West coaches, Jack Block of Kernersville and Carl Bolck of West Mecklenburg, also agree on that subject.

The second annual East-West games, which are being sponsored by the Lions Club, will get underway tomorrow night under the lights of Guy Smith Stadium. One game is scheduled for tomorrow night, with a twin-bill on tap for Saturday evening. The reason for three games, according to Co-Chairmen Jim Taylor and East Carolina baseball coach Jim Malory, is so that all the people of Pitt County will get a chance to see these all-stars play at least once. Last year, there was only one game, and many baseball fans missed the action for varied reasons.

Starting time for Friday's game is 7:30 p.m., with Saturday's set for 7:00 with the last game to follow at 9:00.

A brief sketch of the West team shows that, of the pitchers, Jerry Maye, Ervin Byrd, Wayne Carlyle, and Steve Fulp had perfect record when their recommendations came in. Maye and Byrd wound up the season with perfect slates.

The catchers are all outstanding. Jerry Morris has been an All-State American Legion catcher for two years, and has hit .387 for three seasons of Legion play. He was hitting at a .445 clip when his recommendation came in.

Arnold Chamberlain was also hitting .400 as was Ronnie Watson of Kernersville. Watson is an outfielder and catcher.

Martin Smith of Asheboro was hitting in excess of .400 with the remainder of the squad hitting well over the .300 mark. Dave Morgan of Greensboro was well over .300 when his recommendation was sent in, and he is a long ball hitter. Al Barnette, of Myers Park High in Charlotte, wound up hitting .388, including five home runs, four triples, and four doubles.

Jerry Maye played first base for Grainger's Western Conference winners, winning nine and losing none, while hitting well over the .300 clip. Maye, Hawkins, and Hovis were all outstanding in American Legion ball in the west last summer. Hovis has a no-hitter to his credit this year.

George Lance and Barry Moore are rated highly by the pro scouts who have seen them work this season. Lance has three no-hitters to his credit in high school.

Another outstanding outfielder, and a recent addition to the West club is Richard Kemp of High Point. Kemp carried a .400 batting average this past season in 4A ball.

EAST-WEST ALL-STARS . . . arrive on the campus of East Carolina College yesterday, where they will sleep in between playing games in the Guy Smith Stadium field. The all-stars are the best baseball players that the state has to offer, and there should be some good baseball played by them on Friday and Saturday nights.

Southern Cal Is NCAA Favorite

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The University of Southern California rates a solid favorite to win the NCAA Track and Field Championship Friday and Saturday and Coach Jess Mortensen is not crying wolf.

"I think," he said today, "that it will take 50 points to win the team title and I don't see why we can't score that many points."

The Trojans already have won the title 21 times in the 40-year history of the meet, and Mortensen has piloted the team to six crowns in his 10 years on the job.

Even with the loss of Rex Cawley, who pulled a leg muscle Tuesday and probably will have to scratch, the Trojans will have a hard time losing.

Mortensen has two defending champions on hand and a flock of other talented performers who are certain point-scorers. Dallas Long, who won the shot put with a meet record 61-9 last year should improve on that.

Luther Hayes of the Trojans also set a meet record last year with a 50-11 1/2 hop, step and jump, already has done 51-9 1/4 this year.

John Thomas of Boston University, whose 7-3 1/4 still stands as the official world record, appears to be the class of the high jump again.

Other favorites include Ben McRae of Michigan in the 120-yard hurdles, Rex Stucker of Kansas State in the 440-yard hurdles, Frank Budd of Villanova in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, John Macy of Houston in the 3-mile, Karl Johnson of Arizona in the discus, Chuck Wilkinson of Redlands in javelin, Stan Doten of Harvard in the hammer throw and Darrell Horn of Oregon State in the broad jump and Norm Hoffman of Oregon State in the 3,000 meter steeplechase.

Defending champion Kansas along with Oregon, San Joaquin State, UCLA, Villanova, Michigan and Oregon State also have strong squads.

Thomas Easily Gains 2nd Round

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Bobby Thomas, the defending champion from Greenville, N.C., takes on fellow Tar Heel Billy Hall of Lexington today in the second round of match play in the Carolina Golf Association's Junior Tournament at Finley Golf Course here.

Medalist Jim Gerring of Union S.C. meanwhile, plays Jackie Shuford of Lincolnton in a second-round match. Larry Seward of Laurens, S.C., who lost a playoff for the medal, also moved into the second round and will tackle Larry Brown of Fort Mill, S.C.

Thomas, who was exempt from qualifying, stalked by his first round opponent Wednesday, outlasted John L. Chambers of Fort Mill 3 and 2. Gerring had a little more trouble, downing Charles Pinwall of Winston-Salem 2 and 1.

Seward easily won his first match, spanking Russell Taylor of Roxboro 4 and 3.

The 32-man championship field was trimmed in half after Wednesday's round.

Defending champion Sam Kitchin of Clinton, N.C., won his first match in the Pee Wee Division, defeating John Gregory of Florence, S.C., 3 and 2.

LITTLE LEAGUE

In Little League action yesterday, the Greenville Tobacco Company defeated the Elks, 4-2, on the eight-hit pitching of Donnie Rhodes. Rhodes walked two and struck out seven in gaining the win.

Milton Hadley, the losing pitcher, blasted a solo homer in the fourth inning. He also had a single in the sixth frame. Russell Fleming and Dave Fowler both had two hits for the Elks.

Mack Simpson had two hits for the winners, but the big blow was a three run triple by Rhodes, the winning pitcher, in the fourth frame.

Hadley gave up five hits, walked seven and struck out three for the losers.

Elks 000 110-2 8
G.T.C. 000 31x-4 5

Ten-year-old Billy Taylor hurled a no-hitter yesterday for the Exchange Club, but it wasn't enough as Security Life won its second game of the season, downing the Exchange team by a 4-3 score.

The big factor in the win was that Taylor gave up 15 free passes to Security Life batters. Taylor struck out six.

Bobby Puryear allowed only two hits in chalking up the win for Security Life. He struck out eight and walked six batters. The only two hits off Puryear came off the bats of Gary Bostic and Ray Edwards.

Second place Kiwanis Club dropped the Optimists yesterday in North State League action, while Coca-Cola fell before the Lions.

In a pitchers duel, James Manning of the Kiwanis Club and R. L. Willoughby and Howard Aycock of the Optimists would allow neither team more than three hits, but the Kiwanis pushed across six big runs to take a 6-0 win.

Leading the winners at the plate with one single each were Garland Dunn, Ronnie Nett and Manning. Getting hits off winner Manning were Bruce Jackson, Aycock

May Head Probe Of Athletic Fixes

RALEIGH (AP) — District Solicitor Lester Chalmers reportedly will head a statewide probe into big-time gambling and its tie-in with North Carolina collegiate athletics.

A bill authorizing up to $50,000 in state funds to finance the probe was approved Wednesday by the Senate Calendar Committee.

Gov. Sanford issued a statement supporting the measure. He said "I am particularly interested in prosecuting the fixers and the hoodlums who are responsible for this corruption."

Chalmers has been conducting a probe which has involved some basketball players from North Carolina State and the University of North Carolina. They have either been charged with accepting bribes to fix games, or with contacting players for gamblers.

Harriet White Loses At Raleigh

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Women's Amateur golf Championship moved into the semifinals today with defending champion Marge Burns of Greensboro meeting Pam Barnett of Charlotte.

Medalist Clara Jane Mosack of Charlotte was matched against Louise Pike, a math teacher from Wilson.

Miss Burns, seeking her seventh state title, defeated Biddy Westcott of Raleigh 3 and 2. The other quarterfinal matches also ended in a 3 and 2 score.

Miss Mosack won over her tournament roommate, Mary Emma Manley of Asheville. Miss Pike eliminated Billie Miller of Mt. Airy, and Miss Barnett defeated Harriet White of Greenville.

Keeps Winning

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — Ralph Morrow, Oklahoma City stationed in Scotland, tromped through the rain and wind today and defeated Raymond Munro, Scot internationalist, in the fourth round of the British Amateur Golf Tourney. Morrow won 2 and 1.

Another fourth round winner was Joe Carr, the Irishman who is seeking a fourth British Amateur title. He eliminated Laurie Ranells of England, 3 and 1.

Rallies Win For Two CL Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eighth inning rallies brought victories for front-running Wilson and Winston-Salem in Carolina League games Wednesday night.

Wilson scored two runs in the eighth to edge Durham 5-4. The defeat dropped the Bulls into a tie with Burlington for third place.

Winston-Salem scored four runs in the eighth for a 4-3 victory over Raleigh. A long double by Dean Robbins drove in the tying and winning runs.

Chuck Reidell banged two home runs to bring Greensboro a 5-2 victory over Burlington.

Tonight's games: Winston-Salem at Durham, Greensboro at Raleigh and Wilson at Burlington.

Administration Officials Think Deal Can Save Lives

BY JACK BELL
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Kennedy administration officials believe the tractors for prisoners trade—whether it succeeds or fails—may save the lives of 1,200 Cuban invasion captives. —Nobility in Washington feels safe in predicting what action Prime Minister Fidel Castro will take next. But high government officials said today the belief here is that Castro cannot afford now to wheel out his firing squads. All the evidence adds up to a world-wide propaganda licking for Castro as a result of his offer to trade the prisoners for 500 tractors. Administration officials feel the whole affair has been particularly effective in unmasking in Latin America Castro's pose as a benefactor of the downtrodden. Castro's offer appears to have embarrassed the Communists at a time when they were exploiting the failure of the American-approved invasion. It may have contributed to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's description of Castro as unstable, and not a Communist in the Soviet leader's recent talks with Kennedy in Vienna. Kennedy was said by close associates to have foreseen the possibilities of a propaganda coup when he took a hand in forming the Tractors for Freedom Committee, whose representatives are negotiating with the Castro government. Beyond this, however, Kennedy was credited with believing from the beginning that the Castro offer might provide the opportunity to marshal world opinion to the point where the dictator could not afford to liquidate his enemies. Any order of the Cuban leader for mass executions is seen here as likely to start the wheels moving toward eventual cooperative inter-American action against his regime. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., kicked up a new row in the Senate over the matter Wednesday when he said U.N. Ambassador Adlai E.

Stevenson was largely responsible for a decision denying U.S. air cover to invasion forces. Scott said he understood Stevenson made a midnight flight to Washington to protest against any American military support for the invaders, then at sea. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., replied that this account was "largely, if not entirely, fictional." Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., interjected a demand that the person who called off the plan for American air cover be revealed. "I am not convinced that it was President Kennedy," Goldwater said. "I am convinced it was someone else who would bow their knee to the enemy." In New York City, a spokesman for the U.S. mission to the United Nations issued this statement: "Governor Stevenson did not at any time either in person or by telephone discuss the matter of air cover for the Cuban invasion with President Kennedy. The charge is totally false and irresponsible." "It should be a matter of concern to all Americans that such a charge, the truth or falsity of which could easily be established, should be made at a time when Governor Stevenson is involved in an important mission abroad on behalf of the U.S. government." Stevenson is on a goodwill tour of South American nations. Clark expressed the view that the Cuban invasion plan was hatched by the Central Intelligence Agency and discussed with the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the previous Republican administration, but vetoed at least temporarily by then President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Scott said he had been authorized by "sources very close to the former president and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon to say that there had been no final decision on any invasion plan made by the Eisenhower administration."

Gower Champion Given All Kinds Of Attention

By BOB THOMAS
 AP Movie-TV Writer
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Funny thing happened to Gower Champion the other night at a big Hollywood party. "He was lionized and sought after," reports Marge Champion, "and I enjoyed it immensely. So did he." While the Champions have always been popular with the Hollywood set, they now evoke that unmistakable respect that is accorded success. Gower's success was known to everyone at the party—directing two smash Broadway hits in a row: "Bye Bye Birdie" and "Carnival." He nearly lost his health doing it. The Champs were spending a quiet day at their hillside house when I dropped in. Quiet days are the only kind Gower is allowed right now. He is under doctor's orders to relax following his collapse a few weeks ago. "I had an ulcer," he said, grimacing. "Cornny, isn't it?" Gower had spent 10 intensive weeks getting "Carnival" to New York, then flew to San Francisco to drill the road company of "Bye, Bye, Birdie." He passed out in the midst of rehearsals. Rest, said the doctor, and resting Gower is. "I won't go back to work until August, when I start preparing the film version of 'Bye, Bye, Birdie,'" he said. Meanwhile he is learning to live with his ulcer. "The doctor said it was only 10 per cent smoking and overwork," Gower explained. "The other 90 per cent is mental, and that is something I've got to work on. I get enveloped in my work, and I can't understand why things go wrong."

Liner's Captain Is Found Dead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Crewmen missed the staff captain of the luxury liner Matsonia as it headed to sea, bound for Honolulu. They checked his cabin—and found Capt. Vernon Johnson, 47, shot to death. The Matsonia returned to Los Angeles harbor Wednesday. Police, called by Coast Guard officials, said Johnson had apparently taken his own life. Johnson's body was returned by water taxi and the Matsonia, carrying 671 vacation-bound passengers, resumed its voyage. Johnson's position on the Matsonia compares to that of a Navy ship's executive officer. He was from Junction City, Ore., and had been a Matson lines officer since 1941. Matson officials said they knew of no motive for the officer's death. No notes were found.

Wildlife Refuge Plans Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Establishment of a 16,214-acre Cedar Island National Wildlife Refuge in Currituck County, N.C., has been approved by the Migratory Bird Conservation Commission, the Interior Department said today. The Cedar Island Refuge was selected for its great potential as a waterfowl area, the department said. Development will be concerned with conversion of large areas of needle-rush to more productive marsh and aquatic vegetation. The developed refuge will provide protection and improved habitat for puddle ducks, diving ducks and Canada geese. It will also be a demonstration area to develop management techniques.

DONALD BARR CHIDSEY'S New Historical Entertainment THE WICKEDEST PILGRIM

CHAPTER 23
For the most part, Sal Boyd found that the forest was flooded with undergrowth and offered few glades such as would be found in a European wood. However, there were some of these, and the one with the running birds was the largest.

Sal came upon it dramatically, surprising them.
There were eight or ten. They had been pecking at something, and when they heard him they raised their heads at once, a startling display of red.

They were the most fantastic creatures Sal ever had seen. They had long legs, tiny white and red heads, black backs and breasts, tails of a metallic brown. They were somewhat like guinea fowl, but much larger and heavier. Not just in size, but in the gleam of his wide chest, his huge spreading tail, his floppy, dew-lapp'd wattles—but all of the hens as well greeted Sal raucously. They thrust out their heads toward him, stretching their necks, and they made a guttural turk-turk-turk. This was not a constant and then, before he could recover, they ran away.

They did not flap their wings, but with their long, gawky legs they were most marvelously fast. Sal chased them only a short distance. He did not even catch sight of them again. No guinea hen, no bird Sal ever had heard of, could run as rapidly as that. Even if he had been free of heavy back and breastplates Sal could not hope to get near enough for a shot.

He paused, panting. He was weaker than he had thought, and his knees wobbled. He would walk at a sedate pace back to the clearing, he decided. His first patrol was finished, his first tour.

When he heard the shot he jerked to attention, his eyes throbbing. It had come from a short distance ahead, the direction of the clearing. Armor and all, he ran that way.

There was another shot, and then another.
Had the savages somehow slipped past him, for all his watchfulness? Had he failed on this his first assignment? He was sobbing as he ran.

Then he saw the birds again. They were running toward him with the speed of wind; and he realized what had happened. The turk-turks, being like all birds stupid, had burst into the clearing. Some of the men—they all had muskets within reach—had known the same thought as Sal, and had acted upon it more quickly.

The turk-turks swerved when they saw Sal again, but he was given a second chance, and this one he seized. He went to one knee, and put the musket stock to his shoulder, pressing his right cheek against it. He did not turn his head away, as he'd been taught to do. If there was a flareback he would lose at least his eyebrows, quite possibly his sight. He took that risk, for the sake of the scurvy patients. His head low, he sighted along the top of the barrel, and pulled the trigger.

The birds vanished—all save one, the biggest, the cock, which pitched forward in a swirl of feathers and now lay still. It did not even squawk when Sal wrung its neck. After which he was surrounded by his fellow settlers, who had come on the run.
The rest of the day was less exhilarating. They had scarcely blocked out the foundation of the Common House near the shore, and Sal had completed his second scouting trip and was preparing to climb the hill with Captain Standish, when the rain that had been threatening all morning started to fall. It was bitterly cold. Each drop stung. The wind rose. Stolidly they ignored this, for a while. But the rain was turning to snow, and the air grew colder and darker. They made themselves a few small conical shelters of tree branches and turf and tried to sit it out.

This was no use. All of them, like Sal himself, already were weakened from the hardships of the past six weeks; and in the middle of the afternoon, convinced that they would not be able to get anything more done that day, they returned to the Mayflower.

They were greeted with reproaches. The wind having been off the land, the shots had been heard by such strangers and saints as remained aboard, including all of the women. The ship's longboat was elsewhere, in search of firewood, and there was nothing those in the Mayflower could do but wait, trembling with anxiety, straining their eyes for a signal that never came.

They wept when the shallow scraped alongside, and some of the women went so far as to kiss their husbands. At the same time, they scolded them.
It fetched a lump to Sal Boyd's throat, and he was not verbally dexterous when Priscilla accosted him.

She did not actually touch him, though she waved her hands before him as though she would have liked to.

"I—I'm happy that you are not hurt,"

"Well," said Sal, the loud, "well, so am I."

The turk-turk bird, delighting them, in part softened the reproaches. Sal was a considerable hero; and they cheered him—albeit soberly—when he proposed that all of the cooked fowl should be given to the patients in sick bay.

There followed a weary time, a dreary time, and hard. Cirled by an immensity of water and wilderness, their world was a small one—the Mayflower and the miserable beginnings of a settlement.

Between these was about a mile and a half, for the ship could not get closer, and a good part of the men's time was spent in traversing this gap. The hardest work a little while ago had been waiting; now it was rowing. Though they left a "guard of honor" on shore every night, most of the workers at first went back to the ship at sundown. In addition, all their supplies must be landed.

There were times when because of high wind and rough water all communication was suspended for hours on end, even for a day or two at a time.

The patients in sick bay increased in number, and their ailment was more severe than ever. This was not simple scurvy, though the sufferers showed most of the symptoms. It was something more complicated, and more terrible. The settlers called it The Sickness.

Elder Martin, that frangible man, died early, to be followed in a few days by his wife, Rose Standish was stricken. Only the children seemed immune to a scourge that smote men and women without discrimination. Three of the four mates tossed in fever, as did Sal's friend, the cook, and Webster, the gunner. Sal regarded Priscilla Mullins with anxiety. Her face was ashen, her eyes dull, the backs of her hands gleamed with perspiration. She did not take to her bunk, as perhaps she should have done, for both her father and mother were in grave condition.

One day when Sal Boyd left the Mayflower and went ashore, he hid his weapon under some leaves and climbed a tree.

He was careful about this, because the gun was a good one, being indeed Captain Standish's own snaphance. He would not prop it against the tree, and that for two reasons. It was loaded, and there was always a chance that when he came down he might slip and set off the thing, killing himself or at the least wasting a full charge and scaring game away.

Also, though the gun was clean and the powder and shot in it had been well rammed down, Sal feared that its uncovered presence might warn away casual animals. He was out for a deer, nothing less; and while he had no reason to think that a deer could smell a musket, still there was no use taking chances.

He saw at once, and even before he got to the top, that his direction was right and that the wind had not shifted. The tree was oak, and despite the recent rains and the fact that it was in an exposed position and stood taller than its neighbors, it retained, in February, some of its leaves, as an oak will.

Well, he must get down. There was stalking to be thought of. He went slowly, thoughtfully, limb by limb, until he had reached the bottom branch, on which he sat, hanging his legs over the side.

He looked down to pick a place to jump—and he froze in horror, the spit of his mouth going dry. Directly beneath him stood a savage.

"All of Sal's muscle tugged at him to jump to earth and run back to New Plymouth, shouting an alarm. He did nothing." Continue the story here tomorrow.

Reaffirm Policy Of Impartiality

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Wednesday reaffirmed a policy of strict impartiality and neutrality in the dispute between the Netherlands and Indonesia over the ownership of West New Guinea.

State Department press officer Lincoln White spelled out the U.S. policy when asked to comment on a statement by Foreign Minister Subandrio of Indonesia that U.S. official circles would have no objection to seeing the sovereignty of West New Guinea transferred from the Dutch to Indonesia.

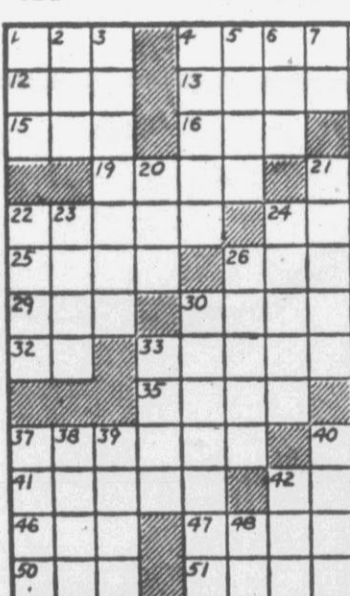

"U.S. policy toward resolution of the West New Guinea dispute has been to urge both sides impartially to resolve the matter peacefully," White said.

"We would have no objection to any solution acceptable to both Indonesia and the Netherlands government."

The Republic of Liberia, presently celebrating 114 years of independence, ranks among the world's leading maritime nations and has the world's largest tanker fleet.

Steel Industry Worry Is Over Higher Prices

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel industry has more to worry about today than just the impact of summer heat and lethargy on its fledgling recovery.

Its bookkeeping departments are saying that steel prices have to rise because costs are going up, especially after a wage hike coming in October.

But its sales departments are busy handling a wave of price cutting.

New orders make production prospects for August look pretty good, but July seems sure to slump as usual.

Foreign steel imports are a thorn in the side.

Domestic customers are demanding concessions and shopping around until they get them. And the recent increase in new orders for the steel mills hasn't changed this noticeably.

As if all this isn't confusing enough, Washington rumbles with vague threats of investigating any concerted price hiking moves. A number of steel executives have been stressing the pressure for higher prices. The talk coincided with a pickup in output after a long period of operating at half of capacity.

Steel management says the price is needed to offset the scheduled increase in labor costs. But customers point out that wages went up last December, too, and prices didn't—steel demand and output were slim then, and competition keen.

The price rise, top executives stress, is also needed to combat thin profit margins, so that the industry will have funds for plant improvements, and expansion when needed.

But while all the talk has been going on, price cutting has been spreading among some steel products.

Two weeks ago quotations were slashed on stainless steel. Then the cost of pipes used by oil companies was cut. Now some companies are dropping their price lists on bars used to reinforce concrete. They say they must meet the lower prices of imports.

An increasing competition in a number of steel products.

These above board instances of price cutting following a period of unpublicized price shading of another sort. Customers have been getting some steel products below list prices of the major companies by shopping around—whether from small domestic mills eager to get or maintain full production, or from the foreign mills that can

Treasure Chest Found By Boys

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP)—A group of boys playing near the Mississippi River bank retrieved a small chest floating on the water and threw it on to the bank.

The impact split the box open and a stream of silver coins spilled out—touching off a crowd of treasure-seekers armed with picks and shovels to the spot on banks at Natchez Under the Hill.

The youngsters sold most of the spilled coins—mostly silver dimes and half-dimes dating from 1848-1860. Collectors could not estimate their total value or collector's worth.

Oppose Catching Sharks, Stingray

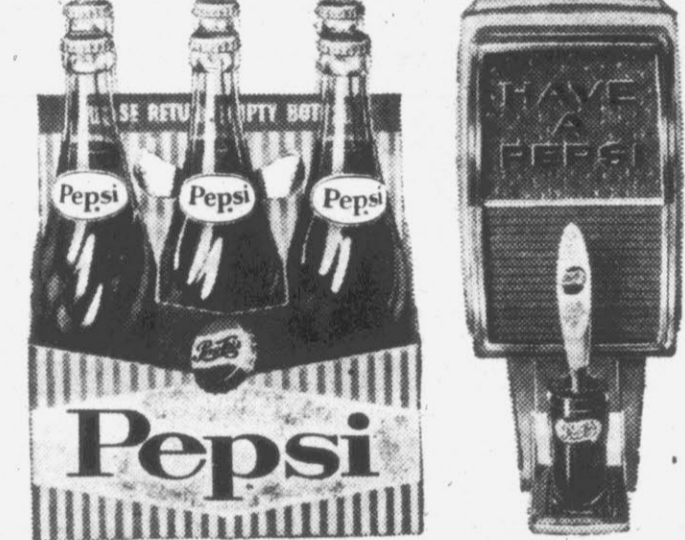

LAUDERDALE - BY THE SEA, Fla. (AP)—The town council has voted to outlaw fishing for sharks, barracuda or sting rays.

"The sight of them being caught frightens tourists and makes them believe our waters are infested with dangerous fish," Mayor G. H. Colnot said Wednesday.

Ray Norton, president of the Broward Anglers Club, called the new ordinance "asinine."

He wondered how anglers could notify the sharks, barracuda and rays not to bite when lines are thrown out.

Recalls Old Days On The River

By R. ROY JOHNSON
Daily Roanoke-Chowan
News Writer

Written for The Associated Press
AHOSKIE, N.C. (AP) — "Sometimes I go into the woods . . . look there . . . think of the old days . . . wish I were back on the banks of the Roanoke River. . . . Then I hear a noise in the leaves behind me. I know what it is. My wife has sent the boy to look out after me."
Noah Smallwood, born and raised in Bertie County's fabled Indian Woods, now at 81 years of age, is recalling the days when as a young man, he was steamboating on the rowdy Roanoke River.
He, claiming remote Tuscarora Indian ancestry, was one of about six Negroes who did the heavy work on the old Haven Belle in 1904-5 as she put out from Edenton on the Albemarle Sound for three round trips each week as far up the muddy Roanoke as the water would take her. This was always as far as Bull Hill in Northampton County and sometimes to the falls at Weldon in Halifax.

powerful. He constantly toyed with his black-jack, ever ready to crush the will of those who stood in his way.
There were those who at times did stand in his way and they were the log rafters, those river men who constantly sent rafts down stream enroute to the sawmill heading in the path of the Haven Belle.
The Captain was especially vehement in spouting his fury when the meeting came at a point where trees jungle-like hugged the banks of the already narrow way.
A voice at times rose from the deck. "Look Cap'n, there comes a raft!"
"Dal blast 'er, let 'er come on!" cracked the reply from the wheel house.
Shortly before a head-on crash, the Captain would ring the boat heavy with fertilizer and farm supplies, down to one bell, and Engineer Brewer would cut her to a drifting snail pace.

Two bells and a jingle. The "dasher wheel" churned foam, blasted great whirls. The Haven Belle's bow rose from the water and leaped atop the fore logs. The hemp rope holding them snapped and the old boat churned through several raft sections like an ice breaker.
The men soon won a battle over the fuming captain. They substituted a heavy chain for the hemp on their fore raft section.
That day the Captain drove the Haven Belle upon the raft so rigged it didn't give. He was nearly as badly stuck as the rabbit to the tar baby. He rang three bells and two jingles, calling for reverse.
When Tillery returned to Williamston, the mill folks said 'he move to outlaw blunt ended rafts got a full head of steam.

The "Round Robin" raft now became the custom on the river. Men drew several sections into a large circle and "turned them loose" to make their own way to the mill. These rafts would roll their way downstream turning as they skirted the river bank or contacted obstructions.
Captain Tillery met the "Round Robin" with one bell, slowly, until the boat's bow went "boom"; then signaled two bells and a jingle for normal running. The "Round Robin" spun to one side.
Now, only the whims of the river, the freshets and the treacherous eddies, remained great enough to challenge Captain Tillery, the old "man" of the Roanoke.
The Negroes did things pretty much the way they liked. They built those cypress bark huts travelers saw at several landings, along the way. The men were happy to sleep in them rather than on bunks in the Haven Belle's hold.

The old man recalls tussles with the treacherous river eddies. The Fryling Pan, five miles upstream from Williamston, "took the Haven Belle one night and carried her to the Martin County side and drowed her under trees. Limbs raked of bags of guano so fast they sound edlike shot hitting the water.
Speaking of those eddies known to carry men in small boats to their deaths, Noah said Slade's Eddy three miles down from Hamilton and Luke's Eddy off Indian Woods are "tankers" while the Fryling Pan is "just the captain of them all."
A short while after Noah left the river, Luke's Eddy swallowed four men in one gulp.

Again Fails Halt State Purchase

RALEIGH (AP) — A Nash County senator sought unsuccessfully Wednesday to halt the state purchase of the Raleigh Farmers Market for $500,000.
"I cannot see us buying 14 wholesale houses, a cafe and a barber shop," said Sen. Dallas Alford, the Farmers Market is housed on the 18-acre layout north of Raleigh.
The Senate beat down by voice vote Alford's amendment to delete the item from a $7 million appropriations bill for capital improvements.
In other developments during a busy legislative day:
Reps. Sneed High and John Henley of Cumberland introduced a bill that would allow members of the Council of State and the attorney general a $2,000 a year in-state travel allowance.
The Senate enacted bills (1) increasing the charges for hunting and fishing licenses, and (2) amending the state's urban redevelopment law so as to permit the redevelopment of blighted areas as well as residential areas.
The Senate approved transfer of $600,000 from the highway fund to the general fund to permit the State Prison Department to construct a hospital at Central Prison.
The Senate defeated a bill which would have provided state aid for the North Carolina Ballet Society. A constitutional amendment setting up a line of succession to the governorship was passed by the Senate.
Sen. Cutlar Moore of Robeson announced his resignation. The Robeson County Democratic Executive committee selected Hector McLean, Lumberton bank president, to succeed him.

Fifteen Attending ECC Instruction Workshop

Fifteen teachers in North Carolina, Florida, Georgia, and Kentucky schools or colleges are now participating in a workshop on Improvement of Instruction in Secretarial Science at East Carolina College.
The workshop is sponsored by the East Carolina College School of Business as a special event of its summer program of instruction. Dr. James L. White, faculty member of the School of Business, is director.
The two-week course of study, ending June 16, offers work on the graduate level and has been planned to provide an opportunity for shorthand teachers to acquaint themselves with new and improved methods of teaching Gregg shorthand simplified. Emphasis is placed on the preparation of materials for use in the classroom.
Lectures, demonstrations, discussions, film showing, and exhibitions of teaching materials are included on the workshop program.
Attending the workshop are Barbara Mitchell, Kinston teacher in Atlanta, Ga.; schools; Mrs. Jean Rouse Hardy, Rt. 2, La Grange; Mrs. Celia H. Willis, High School, New Bern; Shirley

R. Fisher, Clarkton High School, Bladenboro; Mrs. Ruth A. Blair, Forest Lake Academy, Maitland, Florida; Alton W. Payne, Central High School, Elizabeth City; Gyn-del Garnett, High School, Dixon, Kentucky;
Mrs. Patricia L. Wells, High School, Stedman; Mrs. Jarrahee H. Bailey, High School, Plymouth; Mrs. Josephine S. Nixon Family Is Moving Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Richard M. Nixon family is moving from Washington, D.C. to Los Angeles today.
The 1960 Republican presidential candidate, his wife Patricia, and teen-age daughters Julie and Tricia, are due at Los Angeles International Airport by jetliner this evening.
With them will be Checkers, their cocker spaniel, and two cats.
The Nixons have rented film producer Walter Wanger's Brentwood District home pending construction of a new one of their own in Beverly Hills. Their household effects, including mementoes of Nixon's foreign travels, will follow the family by moving van.
Mrs. Nixon and the children remained in the East until the girls finished out the school year. Nixon had been staying in a hotel while here.
Contrary to popular notion, Australians do not speak Cockney. The Australian invented his slang out of time and circumstance in his own country.

Ordered To Leave Himalayan Peaks

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—Sir Edmund Hillary, 41, is walking back to Katmandu, under doctor's orders never to return to the extreme Himalayan heights where he won fame.
Hillary suffered a mild cerebral stroke last month while in camp at 19,500 feet on Mt. Makalu. Doctors with the party, which had tried unsuccessfully to climb the 27,790-foot peak without oxygen equipment, sent Hillary to a lower elevation. Since then the New Zealander has been ordered to remain below 16,000 feet.

Ants Disrupted Traffic Signal

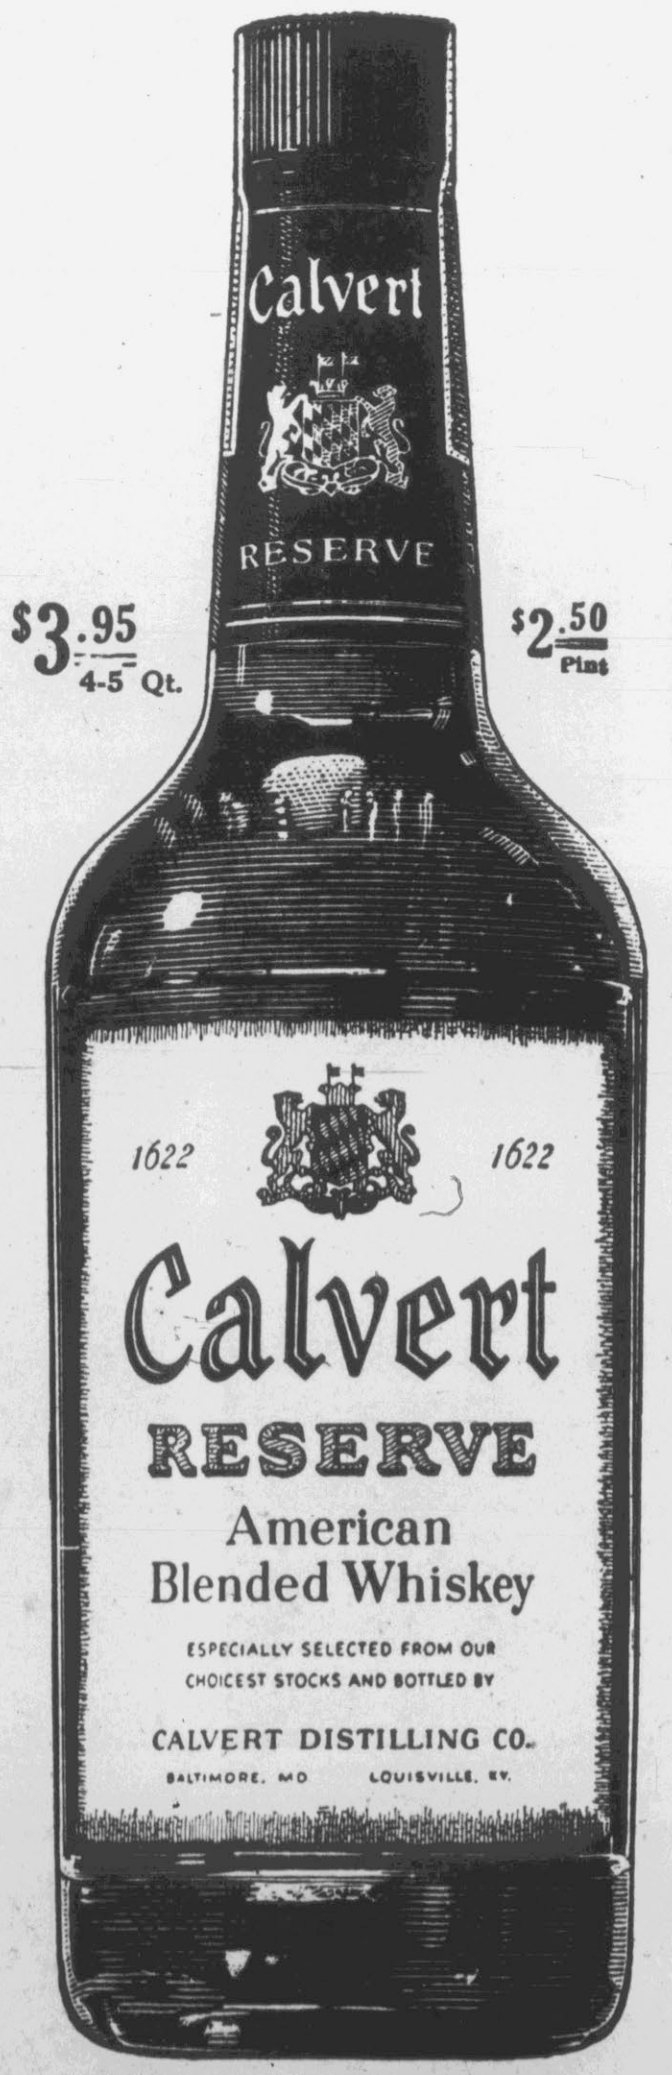

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A busy intersection's traffic signal went on the blink for nearly four hours—ants found the wiring tasty.
Electronics Technician Bob Ogan explained: The insects apparently found a certain type of wiring insulation to their liking. They ate it off. Then some ants bridged between the wires and the metal control box case, shorting the signal.

NAVAL RESEARCH LABORATORY

UNCLE SAM'S WONDER HOUSE OF SCIENCE

By Frank Carey
AP Science Writer

CAMPUS-LIKE. The Naval Research Laboratory's many low buildings arranged around a central mall bear a striking resemblance to a college campus.

A few miles from the heart of Washington lies one of the world's great scientific research centers—the birthplace of some of the true marvels of the technical age.

It's the U. S. Naval Research Laboratory, whose activities literally extend from the depths of the ocean to the far reaches of space.

It was here that radar and sonar were born. But the Laboratory's achievements embrace many more things—in a range that runs the scientific gamut from special paints and rain repellants to important and promising research towards the objective of harnessing the H-bomb reaction for peacetime electrical power.

The Laboratory, conceived almost 40 years ago as a result of a suggestion by Thomas A. Edison, has grown from four buildings and a staff of about 100 to its present strength of more than 90 buildings and a staff of more than 3,000.

Much of its work today is strictly hush-hush, and its activities range far from headquarters itself.

For example, NRL is now building a 600-foot radio telescope near Sugar Grove, W. Va., as the heavy artillery of a program aimed at determining the dimensions of the universe.

An NRL product—the Vanguard 1 satellite—not only was one of the pioneers of the American space program, but it's still in orbit around the earth.

Experimental area of the Laboratory's nuclear reactor research facility. At far end of area is the reactor shield which contains beam ports. These are openings through which neutrons can pass for experimental purposes.

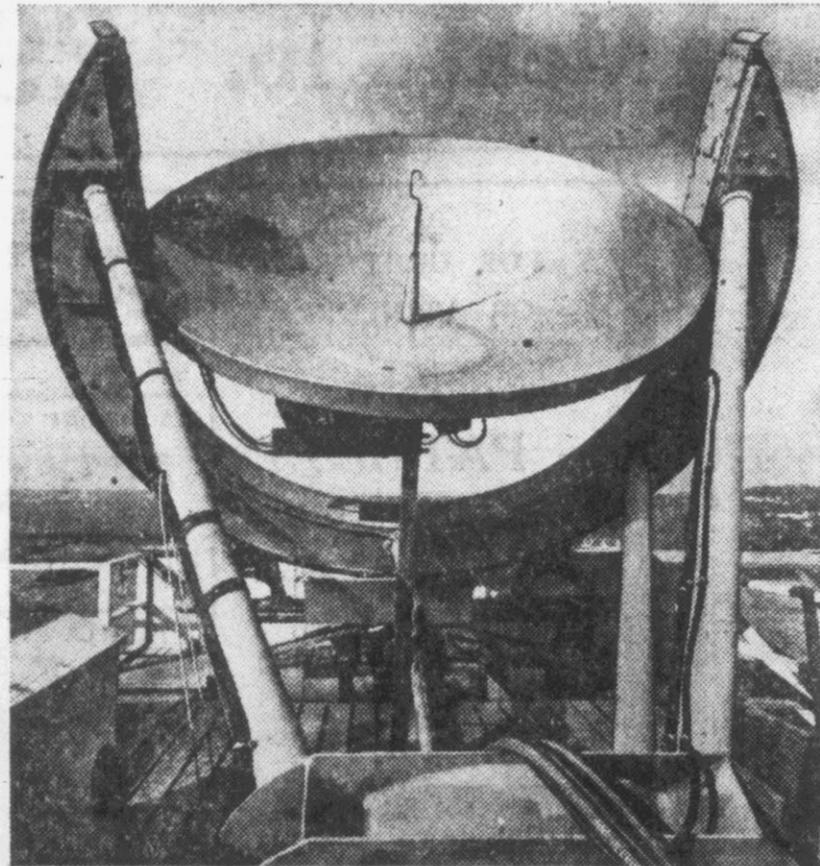

With use of pair of hand manipulators, scientist measures highly radioactive chemicals in "hot cell," a room shielded by heavy concrete which adjoins reactor pool.

Electronic technician works on an electronic instrument package which will be placed in the nose cone of a rocket for studies of air and ion composition of the upper atmosphere.

In electron tube shop, glass blower completes final seal on specifically designed electron tube on vertical lathe. He uses extremely hot oxygen-hydrogen flame.

This precision radio telescope, ten feet in diameter, is used for studies of moon, sun and planets. It has penetrated cloud layer which surrounds Venus and measured planet's thermal radiation.

Technicians load fuel elements into core of nuclear reactor, located in pool of water at bottom of trusswork attached to the overhead bridge. The overhead lights are reflected in the pool.

Physicist uses diffraction spectrometer in study of magnetic structure of manganese fluoride.

Technician processes cathode tube designed for electron emission studies. Tube is in final stages of cooling after having been baked in oven. It will be used in vacuum tube studies.

Provided Senate With An Example

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., told his colleagues Wednesday afternoon's session provided a perfect example of why the Senate should adapt a germaneness rule.

Such a rule would require that senators, in their speeches, stick to the business at hand. Under present rules, they may discuss anything.

The Pennsylvanian noted that the nomination of Joseph C. Swidler to the Federal Power Commission was taken up at 12:30 p.m. but that at 3:35 p.m. not one word had been said on it.

"I hope it may exasperate my colleagues so much they will support my rule to require germaneness in the Senate."

P.S.: Clark's speech, with interruptions, took 56 minutes.

Law Aimed At Slow Vote Count

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California has a new election law designed to eliminate slow ballot counting such as kept the outcome of the last presidential race in this state uncertain for days.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown signed legislation Wednesday which requires absentee ballots to be returned to county clerks three days before election. Under the old law, these ballots could be received up to six days after election.

Brown said slow counting of absentee ballots could have been serious if the nation were in a crisis.

Chilean Students Burn Ambassador's Car

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Several hundred pro-Castro students burned U.S. Ambassador Teodoro Moscoso's automobile Wednesday night at Caracas University while he was attending an exhibit.

Area Wonders At Yellow Rain

BOSTON (AP)—Yellow rain fell in scores of Massachusetts communities Wednesday.

It caused much wonderment and startled a few who were sure it was an atomic fallout.

The Audubon Society explained the 90-degree temperatures of Monday and Tuesday released pine tree pollen.

The rain washed it across the state.

Government officials charged the students acted on order of "well known leftist leaders." The Caracas press has accused university officials of being too lenient with Communists in the student body who staged a bloody uprising late last year.

Moscoso did not see the attack and discounted its significance, saying: "I must say that I feel this does not reflect the true feeling of the people of Venezuela."

A Puerto Rican, Moscoso was appointed ambassador to Caracas last March by President Kennedy in a move to improve U.S. relations with Latin America.

But even before his arrival recently, Moscoso had been the target of student demonstrations denouncing the U.S. role in the ill-fated invasion of Cuba by exiled opponents of Fidel Castro.

The students had been trying to get up a demonstration ever since Moscoso arrived in Caracas but had been thwarted by the vigilance of police, acting on orders of President Romulo Betancourt.

However, police traditionally stay off Venezuelan campuses unless invited to enter by school authorities, and Moscoso and his party went unguarded to see the exhibit at the school of architecture.

Moscoso waited in the office of Rafael Devenzi, the university president, while school authorities restored order.

Alejandro Oropeza Castillo, governor of the Caracas District, and scores of police arrived within minutes after the incident was reported but were not called into the campus.

Governor Oropeza accompanied Moscoso back to the U.S. Embassy.

The university was the center of an uprising that took 12 lives in seven violent days ending last Dec. 2. Communists among the students turned an unfinished pharmacy building into a fortress and gave up only after army tanks were sent to the campus.

At the time, the government charged the uprising was fomented by Communists who wanted to throw out Betancourt and install a regime modeled after Castro's in Cuba.

No Plan To Trim Staff At Geneva

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said Wednesday that there are no immediate plans to reduce the U.S. negotiating staff at the Geneva test ban talks.

Department spokesman Lincoln White was questioned about a New York Herald Tribune report that the Kennedy administration is now considering such a step.

White also said he did not know of any plans to recall Arthur Dean, chief U.S. negotiator at the Geneva conference.

and charged his accusers with McCarthyism.

Drops Business For Ministry

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Eleven years ago Jim Saxon's vending machine firm did $800,000 in business. Now it is a $3 million enterprise.

But Saxon, 31, is leaving the concern July 20 to begin three years study to become a Presbyterian minister. He will enroll at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va. His wife and six children will accompany him.

Jim's father, J. Herman Saxon, sells vending machines. Jim's firm, which operates and stocks the machines, will be taken over by his father.

The younger Saxon said he had been seriously considering the move for three years. "It got so I couldn't dismiss it anymore," he said.

Travel-Study Tour Of Southwest Is In Progress

Thirty-seven men and women from North Carolina, members of the East Carolina College's 1961 Summer Travel Tour of the Southwestern United States, are now participating in the thirty-day travel and study tour to include Arizona, New Mexico, and Texas. The tour will end here July 3.

Dr. Robert E. Cramer, Professor of Geography and Tour Director, stated that the students who are enrolled will receive 9 quarter hours of either undergraduate or graduate credit upon completion of the course assignments.

Travel is by chartered air-conditioned Trailways buses with stops scheduled at first-class hotels and motels. Stops along the route have been planned to give the travel-tourists a varied picture of geographical, agricultural, manufacturing, mining, marketing, and historical interest.

Included are the shrimp and oyster industry at Biloxi, Miss.; oil wells and refineries in Texas; copper mining and irrigation practices in Arizona; the Los Angeles Farmers Market; the Alamo; and the Hoover Dam.

Some of the highlights include New Orleans, a dude ranch in Texas, Carlsbad Caverns, Juarez, Grand Canyon, Boulder Dam, Las Vegas, Yosemite National Park, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Colorado Springs, St. Louis, Louisville, and the Smokies.

Worms Sold On Honor System

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A. C. Gandy sells fishing worms on the honor system.

He leaves boxes of worms on an outdoor table for the customers to serve themselves day or night and says the money is never short. Sometimes, he adds, it comes out a little extra.

"I'd just as soon do business with fishermen as anybody," he explained.

"You can trust every one of them—when it comes to bait."

NEW YORK (AP) — A selective advance among industrials kept the stock market slightly higher in moderate trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 at 2:48:40 with industrials up 90, rails off 20 and utilities off 20. Gains of fractions to about a point outnumbered losers in the same range.

Big Three motors, rubbers, most chemicals and some aircrafts and nonferrous metals helped keep the average on the upside. Utilities, tobacco and falls edged lower.

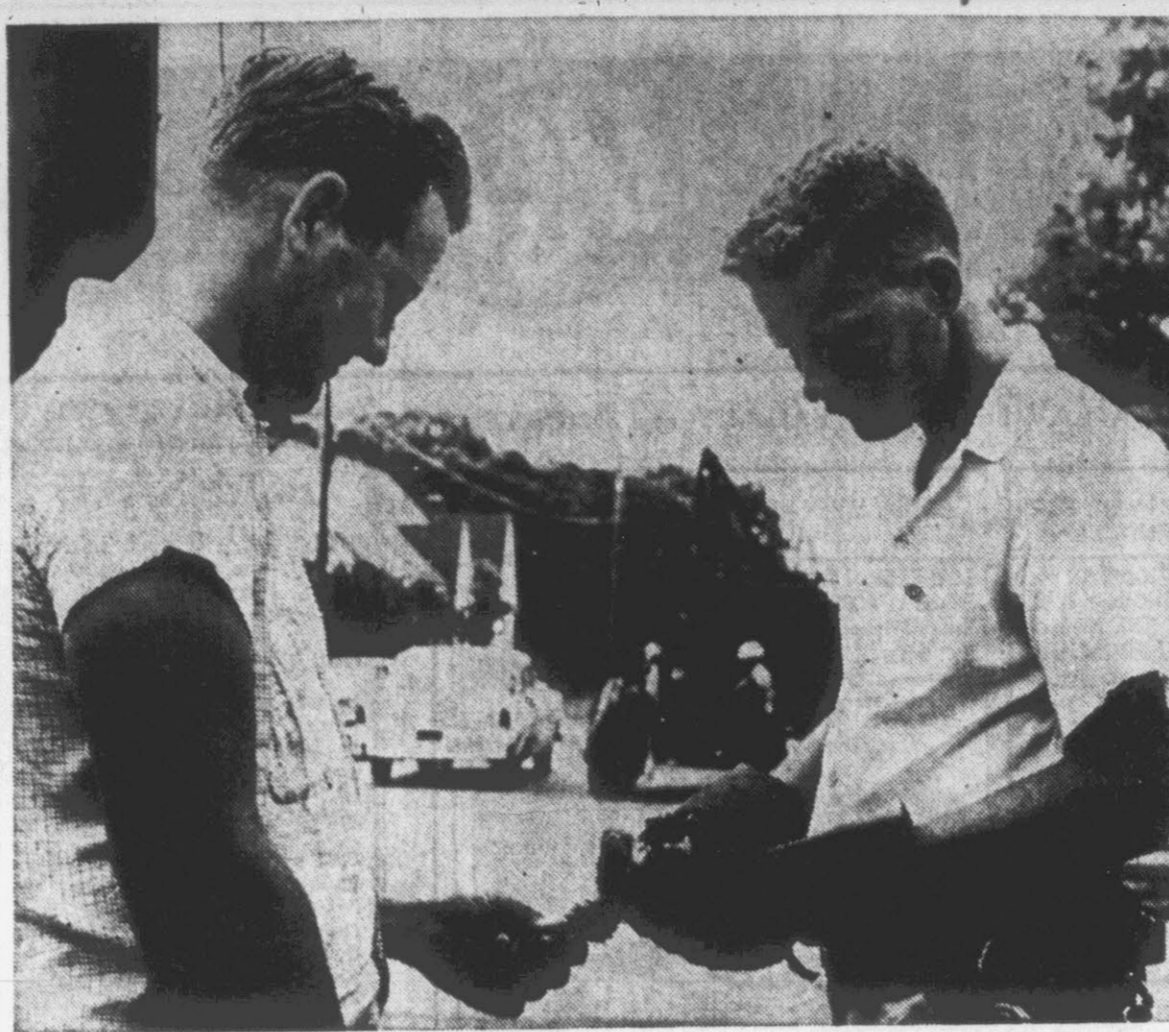

Chrysler, up a point, was the best of the motors. General Motors was firm and Ford rose a fraction.

Kellogg jumped about 2 points. J.W. Mays fell more than 3. International Business Machines spurred seven points.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 16 at 8:55.97. Corporate bonds were mixed. U. S. government bonds were slightly lower.

GUO EMPLOYEES . . . examine the body of "the culprit" which caused power failure in the eastern section of Greenville early this morning. The squirrel, according to Utilities Commission officials, caused a short circuit in wiring at the intersection of Fourth and Library Sts. about 5:30 a.m. Workmen were repairing the damage this morning. Fire-fighting units were called about 5:45, according to Fire Department officers, but they reported "no fire" at the scene.

Driver Charged In City Collision

Harold M. Goldstein, 31, of 1904 East Eighth St., was charged with failure to yield the right of way by Greenville police after his car collided with a second vehicle at the intersection of Chestnut St. and Raleigh Ave. yesterday.

Investigators said the Goldstein car collided with an auto operated by Willie MacDonald Manning, 25, of 2006 Chestnut St.

Time of the collision, which caused an estimated $400 damage to the Manning car, was reported by police as about 10:15 a.m.

Damage to the Goldstein vehicle was estimated to be about $250. No injuries were reported.

Politics Today At Girls State

GREENSBORO (AP) — Cathy Couble of Hickory was elected governor of the Tar Heel Girls State today. She was the candidate of the Nationalist party, opposing Gay Williams of Charlotte, Federalist choice.

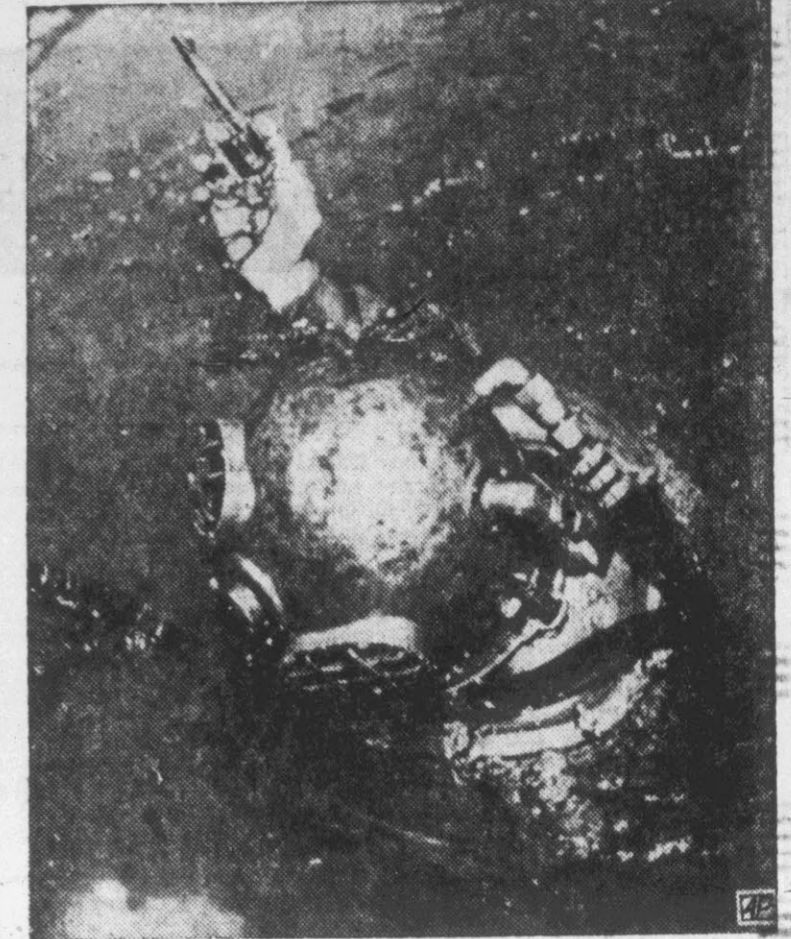

Wanda Moseley of Charlotte, was chosen lieutenant governor and Sheryl Scarborough of Charlotte chief justice, both of the Nationalist ticket.

After Wednesday's primary voting, Gay Williams of Charlotte emerged as candidate for governor on the Federalist ticket and Cathy Couble of Hickory will run on the Nationalist ballot.

Also nominated by the Federalist party were: Sherry Rudisill, Gastonia, lieutenant governor; Jean Cooley, Monroe, secretary of state; Betty Hobgood, Louisburg, chief justice; Carol Sheets, Greensboro, attorney general; and Anne Marie Osborne, Huntersville, speaker of House.

Also nominated by the Nationalists were: Wanda Moseley, Charlotte, lieutenant governor; Donna Bell, Morehead City, secretary of state; Sheryl Scarborough, Charlotte, chief justice; Judy Cubberly, Wilson, attorney general; and Joanna Barkalow, Raleigh, speaker of House.

Girls State, a citizenship training project, runs throughout the entire week.

GUN RECOVERED—James Boder, equipped with diving gear, comes up from the depths of the river at Chicago holding a pistol which he found on the river bottom. The weapon is believed to be the one used in the slaying of a Hammond, Ind., policeman. Search was directed to the site by Herbert Simon, 25, who, police said, admitted shooting Policeman Frank Dunn. Boder also recovered a bag containing a box of cartridges. (AP Wirephoto)

More Scattered Showers Ahead

Scattered showers and thunderstorms are on the weatherman's agenda for Greenville for today and Friday, with considerable cloudiness and not as warm weather.

Wednesday's high went up to 95 degrees but was not as hot as the city's seasonal high of 98 degrees on June 6, according to Joe Stoneham of the Greenville Utilities Plant. Wednesday's low was 70 degrees. At 4 a.m. today the temperature registered 77 degrees at the utilities plant, rising to 80 by 8 a.m., Stoneham reported.

The Tar River level was at 4.1 feet this morning, beginning to rise slightly. Winds registered five to 10 miles per hour.
