Food Is Going To School Children

WASHINGTON (AP) — George McGovern, director of the Food for Peace program, Friday announced the United States will provide daily food for a year for 500,000 school children in the state of Madras, India.

NEW YORK (AP)—The creeping paralysis of a major maritime strike spread its seaports around the nation today as federal mediators pleaded for a full resumption of peace talks.

Major snarls to a settlement are a shippers' claim that the striking unions threatened to price the industry out of existence, and industry demands for the right to organize "foreign-flag" shipping.

With White House intervention to head off the walkout a failure, pickets in New York, New Jersey, Louisiana, Texas and Massachusetts and other shipping areas marched at piers to halt work.

Violence flared. Three men were injured in a fight Friday when Teraco refinery workers near Camden, N.J., tried to cross a picket line set up by the National Maritime Union. Four persons were arrested.

Federal officials intensified efforts to get the seven unions representing 85,000 seamen and the bulk of the nation's shipping operators back to the bargaining table.

They worked amid reports that the American Merchant Marine Institute might ask President Kennedy to bring the Taft-Hartley Act to bear with an 80-day injunction so that shipping would be resumed while negotiations continue.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, here since Thursday under direct orders of the President, withdrew Friday night from active participation in mediating the nation-wide strike after urging the parties to resume negotiations.

Goldberg made his request shortly after Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers International Union, predicted that there will be an important "break" soon toward settling the walkout.

One negotiating session between the American Merchant Marine Institute and the National Maritime Union was set for today.

Goldberg, who cancelled a trip to Europe, which he had scheduled for today, held a news conference Friday at which he said: "I have been in touch with the President of the United States concerning the maritime situation, and have given him a full report about the situation. The administration views with grave concern the strike under way involving the maritime industry."

He described the maritime industry as "an important, vital" one and said "the nation can ill afford a shutdown of this kind." The effects of the strike have been slow to show up.

Only six ships were tied up in New York Friday. In San Francisco, no vessels were scheduled to sail and there was no immediate way of measuring the scope of the walkout.

Seven ships were being picketed in New Orleans, and other ports reported similar situations. Union leaders said the number of vessels affected would mount over the weekend.

The first major passenger liners that might be snarled in the walkout are the United States and the Constitution, scheduled to arrive here Wednesday.

Tankers figure as the big economic worry of the strike. However, the oil industry said the long negotiations prior to the walkout gave them ample time to meet the strike with full storage tanks.

Sources in the petroleum industry said there was a 40-day supply of stocks on the Eastern seaboard. Four big companies—Esso, Socony, Mobil, Sun, and Atlantic—are operating their tankers with crews whose unions are not involved in the strike.

The main obstacle in the dispute is the union's demand to be given the right to bargain for crews of American-owned ships that are registered under foreign flags—so-called runaway ships. There are about 450 of these, mostly tankers.

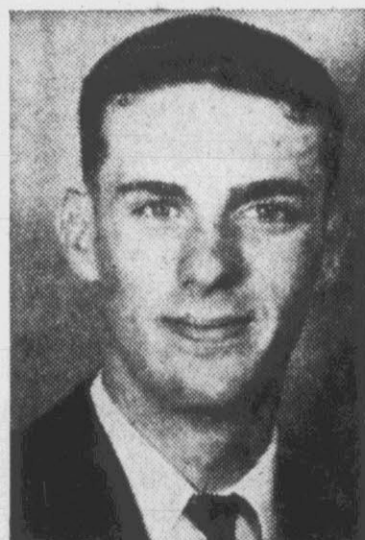

Three Pitt County high school youths, representing Greenville American Legion Post 39, are scheduled to leave tomorrow for the week-long Boys State, conducted annually on the University of North Carolina campus in Chapel Hill.

Sent to the annual government-training event by American Legion posts throughout the state, a host of Tar Heel teenage boys will gather on the campus for registration at the Institute of Government between 2 and 5 p.m. Boys State adjourns Sunday morning, June 24.

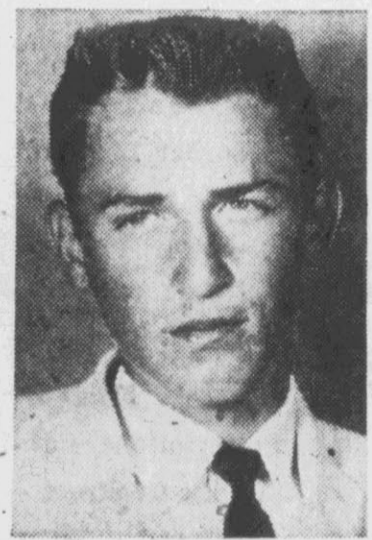

Representing Post 39 will be Nile Dail, 18-year-old Grimesland High School rising senior; Alfred Gold, 17-year-old rising senior at Winterville High; and Melvin Nelson, 16, rising senior at Belvoir-Falkland High School.

A fourth representative from Post 39, Billy Neal James of Greenville, a rising senior at Junius H. Rose High, was obliged to cancel his trip to Boys State because of "circumstance beyond his control," according to Post 39 Commander Ernest L. Avery. James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. James of 402 Library St., Greenville.

Dail, the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hart, Rte. 2, Greenville, was the Pitt County Health King for 1961. Treasurer of the Grimesland High Beta Club, young Dail is a member of the Future Farmers of American and the 4-H Club. He was secretary of his sophomore class and is a letterman in both baseball and basketball at the Grimesland school.

Big Problem Of N.C. Legislature Are Largely Met

RALEIGH (AP) — This is the day North Carolina's General Assembly had planned to adjourn. As far as major issues are concerned the lawmakers could very well go home today as they intended. The big problems were disposed of this week in the busiest, most hectic period during the 1961 session.

A glut of lesser statewide measures and a host of local bills will delay sine die adjournment until around the middle of next week. But most of the sound and fury is over.

Lt. Gov. H. Cloyd Philpott is expected to turn over the Senate chair to President Pro Tem Lunsford Crew of Halifax when the assembly reconvenes Monday night.

Philpott, who predicted the Legislature could adjourn by Wednesday, is leaving as planned to accompany Gov. Sanford to the National Governors' Conference at Honolulu, Hawaii.

During the week the General Assembly disposed of such giant problems as taxes, spending, Congressional redistricting, small loans regulation and others.

Gov. Sanford got virtually everything he asked for on the top issues of spending as the General Assembly approved appropriations measures totaling nearly $1.2 billion and a $65.5 million tax increase to help finance it.

School spending for the biennium will total about $460 million for an increase of about $90 million over the present biennium, and school teachers will receive record pay raises averaging about 22 per cent.

The major provision in the tax measure places the 3 per cent sales tax on food. Grocery buyers will start paying it July 1. Amid gloomy predictions from Piedmont area legislators, the House completed action on

Assembly Enacts Small Loan Bill

RALEIGH (AP) — In accepting the report of a conference committee Friday, the General Assembly enacted a small loan regulation bill and resolved one of the thorniest controversies of the 1961 session.

The compromised version of two more extreme small loan proposals won unanimous approval in the House but ran into halfhearted opposition in the Senate. Several senators said they preferred a stricter bill approved by their House, but would agree to support the compromise because it was better than nothing.

Sen. Jennings King, who led the fight for strict regulation and low rates, said, "I'm going to support this not because we have a good bill, but because I am impelled to do so by necessity."

Neither King nor Rep. Roland Braswell of Wayne, sponsor of a less strict House small loans bill, were on the House-Senate Conference Committee called Thursday to resolve the differences in the two proposals.

The compromised version set interest rates at $20 a year on a $100 loan, $38 for a $200 loan and $53 for a $300 loan. It authorized the State Banking Commission to reduce the rates should it deem them too high.

DEADLY 'CEASEFIRE' ALGIERS (AP) — Since the French cease fire on May 20 in the Algerian rebellion, 304 persons have been killed and 531 wounded, a French government official said Saturday.

Czech Diplomat's Spy Case Reaches UN Secretary

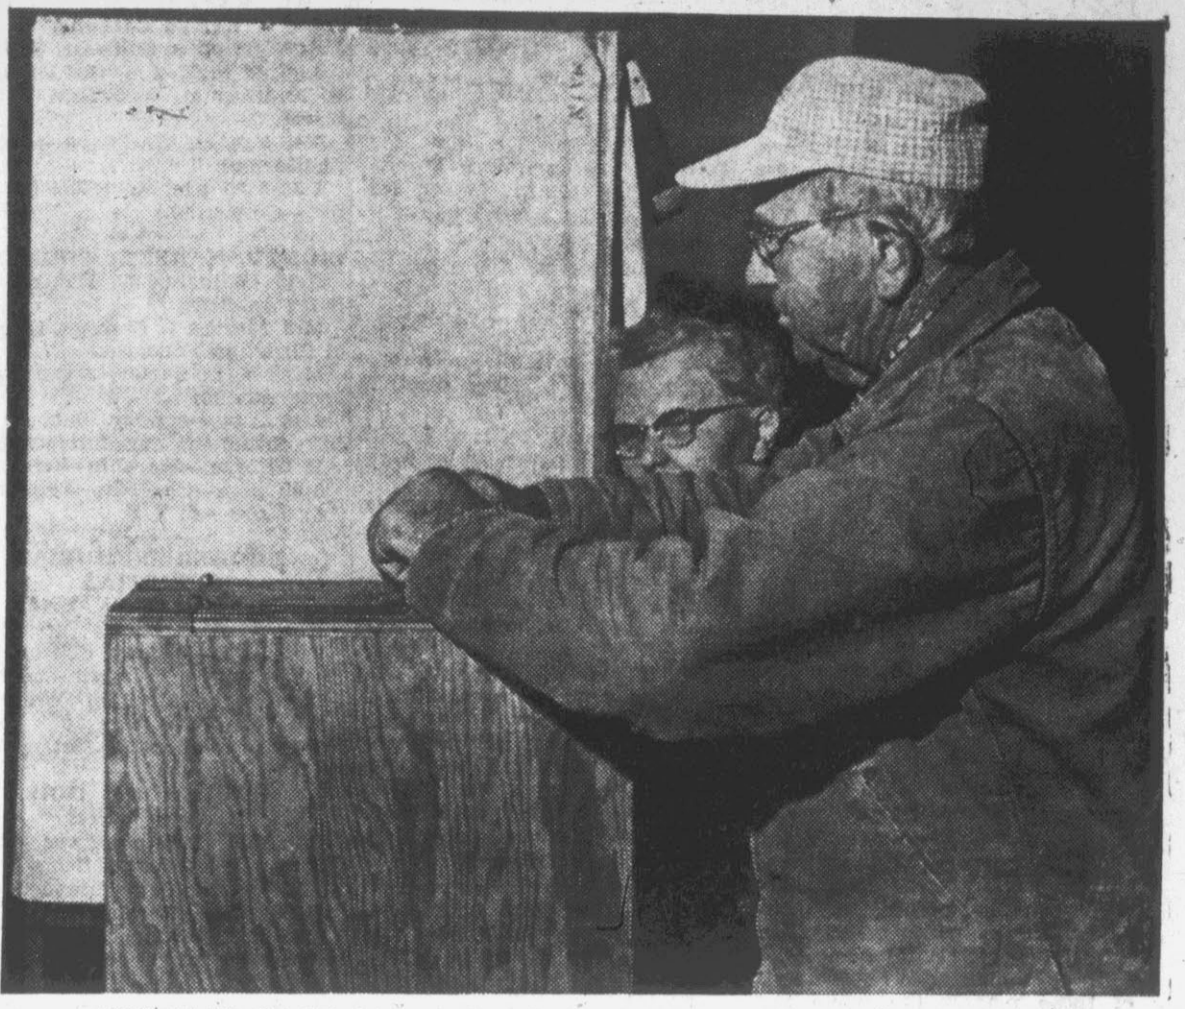

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. spy charges against a handsome Czech diplomat and his counter-claim that American intelligence tried to hire him landed on U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's desk today.

Central figure in the drama is Miroslav Navalac, 39, No. 3 man in the Czech U.N. mission. He declared he will ignore U.S. demands that he leave the country until he gets instructions from his government.

A U.N. spokesman said Hammarskjöld is studying a U.S. request that Navalac be expelled on grounds he had been collecting information from an American government worker for almost a year.

Also before the secretary-general was a protest from the Czech U.N. mission claiming U.S. agents had dangled promises of unlimited wealth before Navalac if he would become a spy for the United States.

Looking Forward To The Future

Voting in the $395,000 industrial school bond election as of noon today was comparatively light, according to a spot check around Pitt County.

Arrest 17 Riders In Disturbances

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Police arrested 17 persons for breach of the peace in disturbances that erupted, without injury, at three points along 24 "Freedom Riders" forays in North Florida.

Bus trips by racial integration-testing groups also produced five arrests in Mississippi. A Freedom Ride leadership delegation conferred in Washington with Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, reportedly to seek help in preventing further arrests.

Police in Tallahassee, Florida's capital, collared 10 hunger-striking clergymen, including seven white men, after the 10 defied an order to disperse Friday at Tallahassee Airport.

Two Negroes and a white man were arrested at Ocala after a bus station scuffle with two unidentified white men, who were not arrested.

At St. Petersburg, a white truck driver was taken into custody after he and a St. Petersburg Negro preacher exchanged heated words at a bus depot where the Negro went to welcome Freedom Riders who traveled there from Jacksonville. The group arrested at Tallahassee included two rabbis, five white ministers and three Negro ministers. All were jailed in lieu of posting $500 bond each on charges of unlawful assembly. Jailed also were two Tallahassee Negroes and a white man on charges of failing to leave the scene.

The Rev. Charles Hunter of Tallahassee provided bail Friday night. The 10 Freedom Riders went on a hunger strike a day before in protest to being denied food at the airport restaurant. In jail, they ate their first meal since breakfast Thursday.

Meanwhile, Freedom Riders were served almost without incident at lunch counters in Tampa, St. Petersburg and Gainesville. Jackson, Miss., officials raised to 116 their total of arrests of Freedom Riders when five of the integration-testers alighted from a bus that brought them from Nashville, Tenn. The five riders were charged with breach of the peace when they failed to comply immediately with a police captain's order to move on.

Nine leaders in the Freedom Riders movement conferred in Washington with Robert Kennedy, reportedly to seek help in halting arrests of the demonstrators against segregation.

Raleigh Editor Is Nominated As USIA Advisor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jonathan Worth Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, has been nominated by President Kennedy to the U.S. Advisory Commission on Information.

The President also said Friday he had nominated James Leonard Reinsch, Atlanta, radio and television executive, to the commission. The advisory group assists in policy information for the U.S. Information Agency in its presentation of the image of the United States abroad.

Daniels, administrative assistant to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt from 1943 to 1945, has served on a number of federal boards. He has been editor of the News and Observer since 1941 and began his career there nearly 40 years ago. Members of the commission or Information serve without pay.

Britain Giving Islands Freedom LONDON (AP) — Britain announced today it will hand over independence to its 12 Caribbean island territories next May 31. The date was fixed in the 17-day talks called to write a constitution for the West Indian Federation which wound up here Friday night.

Details of the constitution, under which the federation's 3,000,000 people will be governed, will be presented to Parliament next week. The Colonial Office said the May 31 date is subject to acceptance by West Indies Island legislatures of the constitution.

Officers Elected By County YDC

W.F. Tyson of Stokes was elected president of the Pitt County County Young Democrats Club at the organization's annual meeting last night, replacing Bill McLaughlin of Ayden as the YDC head.

Mrs. Claude Harris of Greenville was named vice president of the group, replacing Mrs. Ed Warren of Falkland. Newly elected secretary is David Reede; while treasurer for the group is Eric Wheeler, both of Greenville. They replace outgoing secretary Charles Alfred Forbes of Stokes, and treasurer, Mrs. Finner Allen of Winterville.

The election of officers was held at Harry Silman's camp on Contentnea Creek. Rep. Herbert C. Bonner was a guest at the supper and talked to the young Democrats about the Democratic Party, and the Kennedy Administration accomplishments since taking office in January.

He said a meeting was arranged with Navalac last Tuesday at the Gripsholm Restaurant in New York. The meeting was attended by special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Lt. Col. Franksek Tisler, military attaché at the Czech Embassy in Washington who defected in 1959 and was granted asylum in the United States.

White said the agents were present to discuss with Navalac his alleged interest in remaining here. "During the course of this meeting," White said, "it became unmistakably clear that Navalac's motivations and intentions were not genuine and were highly suspect."

Navalac gave a sharply different version of the rendezvous. Sipping a martini in the U.N.'s south lounge he told reporters this story. Last Tuesday he was lunching with an unidentified American friend at the Gripsholm when three men entered, one of whom he recognized as Tisler.

First Church of Christ, Scientist

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the subject of the Lesson-Scripture to be read Sunday at Christian Science churches.

The superiority of divine law over the laws of matter will be emphasized. Included in the Bible readings is the account in John (6) of how Christ Jesus walked on the sea to join his disciples in their ship.

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read (p. 273): "God never ordained a material law to annul the spiritual law, if there were such a material law, it would oppose the supremacy of Spirit, God, and impugn the wisdom of the creator. Jesus walked on the waves, fed the multitude, healed the sick, and raised the dead in direct opposition to material laws."

The Golden Text is from Revelation (11): "We give thee thanks, O Lord Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou has taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned."

An important new function of air conditioning is cooling the many tubes in electronic brains, which do not operate properly if overheated.

SWING LOW

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor in the world for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

This is life! On top of the world . . . then lost in the depths.

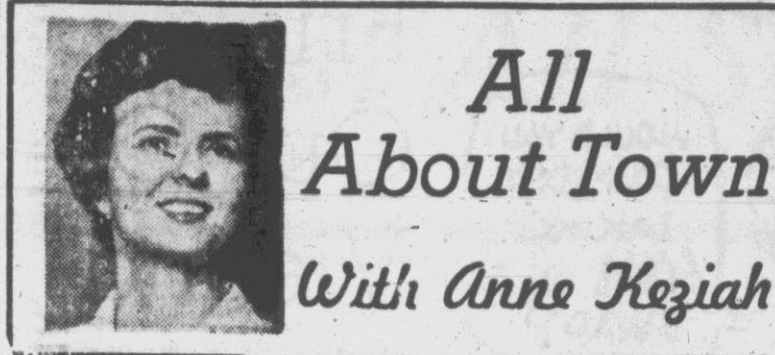

For a child it can be exciting sport. For a grownup it is bitter reality.

No other resource in life is better geared to this frightening swing than religion. For centuries it has provided purpose for our summits, and courage for our valleys.

Don't let some imagined sense of the inevitable chain you to the pendulum of fate. The Church, its message rooted in the life of Jesus Christ, offers all men a Faith for climax . . . and for crisis.

Attend church next Sunday. Let the love of God invade your defeats . . . add opportunity to your victories.

Wall Painting Tip

Paint won't cling to greasy walls, and besides nobody wants to paint over dirt.

If your walls are going to be painted, make sure that the painter's estimate includes a preliminary washing—which should be done under your personal supervision. Or any do-it-yourself-er can do the wall-washing with warm soap or detergent suds, washing from the floor upwards.

In a candlelight ceremony, Miss Ethel Nadine Garris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Garris of Greenville, became the bride of William Lee Buck, son of Mr. John L. Buck of Greenville and the late Mrs. Buck, Sunday, June 11, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. Matthew Knight of Greenville officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Vows were exchanged before an altar flanked with four seven-branched candelabras. Two tall baskets of white gladioli and pom-poms interspersed with feverfew were used on either side of the altar, with floor arrangements of ferns. Fews were marked with white satin ribbons.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Kenneth Jackson, pianist, and Miss Joyce Lee Jackson, vocalist, who sang "Because," "Whither Thou Goest," and "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction. Traditional wedding marches by Lohengrin and Mendelssohn were used.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin, which featured a basque bodice with traditional long sleeves and a portrait neckline embroidered in pearls and iridescent sequins.

Her two-tiered, finger-tip veil of illusion was attached to a Juliet cap of lace, pleated tulle, and pearls. She carried a white lace covered Bible topped with a purple orchid and white carnations with ribbon streamers extending from the center. The bride wore a string of pearls and pearl earrings.

Mrs. Delano E. Russell of Greenville was matron of honor. She wore a mint green brocade nylon over taffeta dress, styled with a scooped neckline and tiny shoulder straps. A full gathered skirt accented the costume. She carried a basket bouquet filled with yellow chrysanthemums, white feverfew, baby's breath and green fern. The basket was trimmed with green taffeta and net, featuring pastel colored streamers. Her headpiece featured a large rosette. She wore green shoes and white wrist-length gloves.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Garland Buck of Greenville, Mrs. Edward Allen of Raleigh, and Mrs. O. C. Haddock of Greenville, all sisters of the bride. Their dresses and headpieces were of blue, yellow and lavender, and styled similar to that of the honor attendants.

They carried basket bouquets trimmed in material to match their dresses. They wore white shoes and wrist-length gloves.

Little Miss Rose Allen of Raleigh, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a yellow nylon and taffeta dress with white wrist-length gloves. She wore a yellow rosette headpiece and carried a white flower basket filled with pink rose petals, tied with white taffeta ribbons.

She scattered rose petals in the path of the bride.

Little Miss Kay Buck of Greenville, niece of the bride, and Master Curtis Teel of Greenville, nephew of the bridegroom, served as ringbearers. She wore a green dress and headpiece, identical to that of the flower girl, and white tulle over taffeta dress and dark trousers. They each carried white heart-shaped satin pillows with ribbon streamers extending from the center.

John L. Buck, father of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Garland Buck of Greenville, brother-in-law of the bride; Franklin Garris of Greenville, brother of the bride; Delano E. Russell of Greenville; and Charles Buck of Newport News, Va., brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Garris chose for her daughter's wedding a powder blue nylon lace over taffeta sheath dress and white accessories. Her costume was complemented with a pink cymbidium orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple received in the vestibule of the church.

Mrs. Buck is a graduate of Belvoir-Falkland High School and plans to further her education in the fall.

Mr. Buck graduated from Grimesland High School and is presently employed at the Greenville Utilities Commission.

The couple plans to reside at Route 4, Greenville, after a wedding.

No Longer Anxious To Make Deal

The affable front Fidel Castro displayed for U.S. newsmen and visiting trader dealers obviously bore no relation to his thinking on the initial proposal to trade humans for machinery.

Terms laid down for release of 1,167 pawns captured in the abortive invasion attempt would indicate the Cuban regime does not really want acceptance of Castro's casual comment that inspired formation of a Tractors-for-Freedom Committee.

To set a price of $28 million worth of tractors (plus shipping costs, did he say?) for release of 1,167 prisoners, is unreasonable and may be presumed to have been so intended. Certainly the Castro government was given a black eye by suggestion of holding prisoners for ransom, and the act of freeing those men on payment of any sum would have been another blow at the facade of morality they claim.

By demanding a near-impossible amount of money the Committee must raise from private sources, it appears Fidel and Co. have been forced into retreat. Again, this can do their cause no good in the eyes of admirers, neutrals, nor critics.

The Tractors-for-Freedom Committee had handicaps aplenty before having its hopes jolted during the recent negotiations. National organizations relying on public contributions for their success, could not hope to function without a basis of thousands of working units scattered in every city and town; even with such a framework, twenty-eight millions of dollars is impossible for many groups of long standing to achieve.

The propriety of such a committee, in dealing with a foreign government, is also open to question. Nor has the idea of paying ransom money to Castro gripped the imagination of the bulk of American people. There would be, we suspect, more interest in public contributions to financing another expedition by Cuban patriots against their hated regime in Havana

Sanford's Call For Suggestions

By LYNN NISBET
COOPERATION — On Wednesday of this week Governor Terry Sanford sent to county Democratic chairmen and distributed among members of the General Assembly a list of several hundred appointments he must make this year. The list included names of incumbent members of the various boards and commissions and designated those whose terms expire this year. He asked for recommendations for these positions.

At his news conference Thursday morning the Governor unveiled a program to expand and develop agricultural opportunities in North Carolina, which had been worked out by the N. C. Board of Farm Organizations and Agricultural Agencies. In presenting that program the Governor said his concept of progress in North Carolina called for collateral development of agricultural, educational, industrial and all other resources. He pledged full support of his office in all such endeavors.

At that same news conference Governor Sanford endorsed the pending proposals to give members of the Council of State expense allowances for travel and subsistence to be spent at their discretion, rather than limiting these high elective officers to the per diem allowances of State employees and requiring itemized accounting of every dime spent.

This is not a direct quote, but it is the essence of what he said. "I see no reason why these men, elected by all the people in the same way the Governor is elected, should be put under the thumb of the Governor with respect to their necessary official expenses. The fact that the people elected them indicates they can be trusted with a few dollars of expense money. Especially since constitutional limitations prevent any increase in their salaries—comparable to increases provided by legislative act for most other officials and employees of the State."

CONTRAST — Governor Sanford did not by implication or indirection say anything that could be construed as criticism of his predecessors. Yet there is striking contrast in all these matters with the attitude of former Governor Hodges.

Officials of the Democratic party organization, and to less degree members of the General Assembly, openly resented the fact that Governor Hodges seldom consulted them—or even advised them—about appointments which he was required to make. He was charged by speakers in a conference of Democratic chairman with completely ignoring the organization and appointing many "mavericks" to places of honor and emolument.

It is common knowledge that Governor William Umstead began his administration with heavy emphasis on industrial development, and that Governor Hodges, both during the time he filled out the Umstead term in the four years of his own, increased that emphasis on industry. It is no secret that relations between Governor Hodges and Commissioner of Agriculture Ballentine and other agricultural leaders often were strained because the farm folks felt their interests were being sidetracked.

All those familiar with conditions around capitol square knew that relations between Governor Hodges and members of the Council of State were less cordial and friendly than had been the case for many years. There was no open break. (Nearest approach to the same when functions long performed by the State Auditor were transferred to the Department of Administration, and Auditor Henry Bridges' office was moved out of the capitol.) Feeling was prevalent among Council of State members that the Governor's office was trying to take over control of their departments. Whether soundly or not, that feeling did not contribute to cordiality.

RESPONSIBILITY — In his request for suggestions about appointments and policy Governor Sanford has made it clear he has no idea of surrendering the authority and responsibility inherent in his office. He will make the appointments and he will determine the policy of his administration. He will demand recognition as head of State government, regardless of how many other officials may have been elected. The main difference between his approach and that of the previous Governor is that he very subtly emphasizes responsibility rather than authority. Maybe a distinction rather than a difference, but it is important in maintaining cordial relations with all departments and divisions of government, and especially with the Democratic party organization throughout the state.

REBUILDING — There is recognized immediate need for rebuilding the Democratic party organization. One question that bothers some loyal Democrats is whether the party organization can be restored to a place of dominance and control of State government without at the same time building a more or less personal "machine" to direct its activities. Fear has been openly expressed that Sanford — Bennett — Hyde team might be headed in that direction.

The fear has not been entirely dispelled, but obviously it is lessened by developments of the past week — full cooperation with all segments of the economy for total development; recognition of the local Democratic organization, and acceptance of the inherent rights of other elected statewide officials to a degree of independence in the conduct of their departments.

Our Congratulations To An Honored Citizen

It is a notable occasion for any community to claim a citizen who earns a statewide distinction; and Greenvilleites who know, or know of, Dr. Andrew A. Best are very much aware the Old North State Medical Society could not have chosen a more fitting recipient of their Doctor of The Year award.

The Daily Reflector has, in its regular pursuit of reporting the news, followed the course of Dr. Best's work to instill lessons of health, hygiene and citizenship among pupils in city and county schools. His work in the field was watched by many, and when it became clear this was no passing fancy of the doctor, the demand for just such a program as he was carrying out became widespread. Eventually, it is hoped, the work begun here in Pitt County will reach all over the state . . . and perhaps beyond.

This phase of his professional work would alone suffice to bring him the well-deserved tribute bestowed by the medical society. But there are a considerable number of people in Greenville who know Dr. Best lives the role of good citizenship to the hilt.

His generosity in the giving of time and labors to community efforts are well known and appreciated by those who share a common interest in building a better Greenville and a better Pitt County. The most recent of his "extracurricular" activities was acceptance of appointment to the city's new Housing Authority.

A native of Kinston, and coming here about eight years ago, the doctor has proven a most valuable addition to Greenville. One could say with good cause that Kinston's loss was our gain.

The Reflector adds its own congratulations to those the Doctor of The Year has already received, and we wish him well for the future.

A Repetition Of Soviet Demands

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's 1958 and 1959 and 1960 all over again.

The world for months to come will go through a repetition of Premier Khrushchev's demands, first made in 1958 and continued on and off ever since, for a settlement on West Berlin.

He started this on Thanksgiving Day, 1958, and grew uglier about it as the weeks melted into 1959. West Berlin, whose ties are with West Germany, lies 110 miles inside Communist East Germany.

All the supply routes from the West to Berlin go through East Germany. Khrushchev threatened to turn control of these routes — now handed by the Russians — over to the East Germans.

He threatened war if — once the East Germans had control and they tried to shut off the supply routes — the West battered its way in. And he set a six-month deadline for a settlement.

What he really did was bulldoze his way through—because otherwise there was always the danger of catastrophe — to a meeting with President Eisenhower at Camp David in the fall of 1959.

The two men discussed Berlin. As a result the United States, Britain and France agreed to a summit conference with Khrushchev in the spring of 1960. His rough talk quieted down.

Then, two weeks before the summit, the Russians shot down an American U2 spyplane over their territory. Because of this Khrushchev wrecked the summit meeting in Paris, insulted Eisenhower.

So there was no Berlin settlement. But instead of resuming his threats, Khrushchev said he'd hold off until he could meet with Eisenhower's successor.

Then, he did with President means "less." A minister is a person who makes himself of no consequence in order that he may be helpful to others.

The first tent in the philosophy of the world is, "Look out for Number One." The basic principle in Christian living is, "Whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister. . . for the Son of man came not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give his life a ransom for many." (Matt. 23:12)

We have come to associate the word minister with ordained clergymen. As a matter of fact, every Christian believer is expected to be a minister. The word minister comes from the Latin word "minor" which Kennedy two weeks ago in Vienna. They, too, discussed Berlin. But from the accounts both gave afterward, neither yielded an inch.

Then last Sunday Khrushchev issued a statement outlining Russian demands for a settlement on the city. They were essentially the same as those he made on that Thanksgiving Day in 1958.

On that day he called for the Allies to get their troops out of Berlin. The Allies always have contended those troops are there by right of agreements made during World II. Khrushchev says all that is outdated now.

Now, just as in the past, Khrushchev says Russia would go to the help of the Communist East Germans if the Allies tried to force their way through to the city over East German restrictions.

It's almost 31 months since that Thanksgiving Day declaration. But Thursday, in a "fire-side chat" beamed at the Russian people but meant for the world, he went over the same ground.

And Thursday, just as he did before, he set a six-month deadline. He didn't quite make it that brutal. He put it this way: There must be a settlement before the end of 1961, which happens to be about six months away.

This time the fire he's building may not be extinguished so easily as it was in 1958 when Eisenhower agreed to meet him. Khrushchev already has met with Kennedy and is beginning to sound as tough as he did before.

Perhaps he has in mind another summit conference. If so, he has not flatly mentioned it. Perhaps he will later. Still, he can't go on talking endlessly about a Berlin settlement and do nothing about it without sounding like a bluffer.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
MINISTERS ALL

A contention arose one day among the disciples of Jesus as to which of them was the greatest. The Master rebuked them, saying that this spirit should not prevail among them. "But whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister. . . for the Son of man came not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give his life a ransom for many." (Matt. 23:12)

We have come to associate the word minister with ordained clergymen. As a matter of fact, every Christian believer is expected to be a minister. The word minister comes from the Latin word "minor" which

Adhering To The Pipe

Being numbered among those who profess to be pipe-smokers, we naturally perked up our ears (actually, it was a "blinking of the eyes") at a note we read recently that sought to describe pipe-smokers.

The clan of smokers that burn their tobacco in "leetle bowls with stems hooked on," the note said, can be sort of "psycho-analyzed by the very fact that they adhere to pipe-smoking."

At that, we took particular notice. We're always interested in finding out what kind of folks we are, you know.

Well, the writer says he believes pipe-smokers smoke pipes rather than other forms of tobacco-consumption (consumption, that's a good word for it) because they're introverts.

"They're sorta withdrawn from society in general," he says, "cause they just sit around with their lips tightly pursed and take 'short, leetle puffs from their leetle round 'baccy bowls.'"

At first, we became a "leetle" worried "bout being a pipe-smoking introvert. We never like to consider ourselves the type that likes to cringe quietly into the background, now do we? Well, at least, I don't.

But, like we said, we were worried slightly at the very first. So we did the usual with our worries. We have a way of taking our troubles home to cool the warmth of the hearth.

So I says to the B. H. "Honey, guess what?" "Course she couldn't guess, so I explained what I'd learned that day. (She always told me I'd learn something every day.)"

She raised a quizzical brow at me when I told her how much of an introvert I was turning out to be.

"That so?" she said, quite unperturbed. "Well, it's news to me."

That ended that. And I adhere to the pipe in spite of the psychoanalyst.

In browsing through yesterday's editorial page, we noticed one of our cohorts up here came through with a plug for "Beowulf."

It was refreshing indeed to meet again that courageous warrior of them golden, olden days who used to thrill the pure life out of us English III (or was it IV) students in high school.

We never ceased to marvel at the incredible strength of ole Beowulf (we always associated the Danish gentleman's courage with that of some splendid-sized wolf or something) as he tracked down Grendel and his man and "done 'em in" so deftly.

Beowulf's courage and inhuman stamina, while legendary, were held up in the epic narrative as shining examples of what men would in reality possess themselves — if they could.

But, try as they may, they've never yet been able to swing it. In today's literature, and we use the term loosely, there are examples of extreme capabilities that can be vaguely related to the meaning to the ancient Danes of Beowulf's prowess.

The trouble is: Who wants to kill Grendel and his ma anymore? We still like ole Beowulf.

Quote . . .

"A fellow who sips Brazilian coffee from an English cup while sitting on Danish furniture after coming home in a German car from an Italian movie — and writes his Congressman with a Japanese ballpoint pen demanding he do something about all the gold that's leaving the country, is the definition of an American." Wall Street Journal.

Fruits Out Of Vienna

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It becomes more clear every day that Khrushchev regarded his Vienna meeting with President Kennedy as a means for starting trouble. Although Kennedy did come away from Vienna in a somber mood, his address to the American people gave the impression that conditions are not as bad as they looked. Actually, they are worse. Khrushchev has used Vienna as a platform to stage a war—hot or cold, as you choose—to destroy Germany and he has again issued a six-month ultimatum. Khrushchev beyond doubt faces many difficult political problems within the Communist bloc. The cleavage between Soviet Russia and Red China has become a reality and is due to a fundamental difference in view of the essential meaning of Marxism-Leninism. Red China is orthodox in its attitude. Soviet Russia may be said to be rightist deviationist.

Khrushchev's theory that Communism can conquer the world without war, through propaganda, infiltration, corruption and by other means, is logical. Mao Tze-tung, on the other hand, could make good use of a war. He would give him an opportunity to move farther into South-east Asia and he might even test his strength in Japan. Khrushchev is a very practical man who came up through the party organization; Mao Tze-tung was a professor of philosophy in Peking University and is given to theorizing on the nature of war. Khrushchev, if his hands were free, would probably try to make a deal, using Great Britain as an honest broker; Mao Tze-tung does not need a deal to exalt his estate, trusting rather to the fecundity of his people and their mobility in Asia. Khrushchev would lose the opportunity to consolidate Soviet Russia's forces should a war occur; Mao Tze-tung does not seek to consolidate his power but rather he aims to expand his territory and his influence.

Among dictators, the task is not only to hold on to one's position but also to hold on to one's authority. The Communist Party has been a cabal of dictators, each one of whom struts in his own area. Khrushchev can bang his shoe on a table in the United Nations, but he is very polite in party convalesces and in conversation with other rulers of Communist countries. He is even polite to Tito of Yugoslavia who is utterly independent of Kremlin authority but who regards himself as a Communist and seeks to be so regarded by other Communists. So Hoxha of Albania, small as his country is, by-passes Soviet Russia and forms an alliance with Red China. Red China itself sends missionaries to every country in Asia, Africa and Latin America to form a union of pigmented peoples. Ultimately, Soviet Russia will be the principal European nation in a welter of colored Communists.

This then is Khrushchev's problem and he does not know how to handle it. Should he move to the West, he may have to move to Communist uprising against him in which Mao Tze-tung and Enver Hoxha would oppose him. Tito would join such an opposition and even contest its leadership with Mao. The Russians would have to compromise with West Germany to hold their place in Europe.

If on the other hand, Khrushchev decides that the only course left to him is to accept Mao Tze-tung's leadership, it undoubtedly means war with the West. Mao would force Russia to fight the Western powers while the Chinese Communists waited for Soviet Russia to grow weaker. Then they would come in on the kill. It would be a small matter to roll 100,000,000 Chinese into Siberia and Turkestan and thus force upon Wlita a problem which he would have no way of handling.

It is with this dilemma in sight that Khrushchev seeks to squeeze another victory out of the West. His assumption is that a victorious leader continues to have strength and power. His greatest victory can be the possession of Berlin which could force West Germany to fight force. West Germany to fight force. (Continued on Page 6)

Good New Ideas For Management

By ELMER ROESSNER
Good business depends on good ideas, and here are some ideas that have been proved good, or can be:

Consider group travel insurance. If your company's executives and representatives travel much, group rates can be cheaper than reimbursing employees for trip-trip insurance. Group insurance can provide uniform protection on all means of travel and eliminate the possibility that an employee may forget or not have time to buy a policy. Your insurance broker can supply details.

Watch your tongue in discussing former or present employees. A Los Angeles executive was being sued for $900,000 slander damage because the executives were alleged to have told a client an employee was given a leave of absence because he was "edgy, tyrannical in the office and hard to deal with."

SELL BOTH UP AND DOWN
Use your shoe elevator, if you have, to push sales. A Jacksonville, Fla., furniture store finds that lamps, mirrors and other small pieces used decoratively in elevators sell fast. Sell Biblical flowers. Many people will buy certain flowers, pansies, shrubs and trees mentioned in the Bible. There's an excellent, beautifully illustrated roundup of these in the June-July "Natural History" magazine published by the American Museum of Natural History, New York 24, at 50 cents.

Learn about inventions available for manufacture by asking the nearest Small Business Administration office, or SBA, Washington 25, D. C., for its Products List Circular. The current issue describes 143 inventions available for development and distribution through purchase, licensing or other agreement. And if you have an invention that can be profitably manufactured, ask the SBA to list it.

EASING RECRUITMENT PROBLEMS
Give new employees a break when hiring them for eventual work at a distant plant or office. The Internal Revenue Service has held that the cost of moving an old employee is tax deductible, but that a new employee must pay income taxes on the money the company spends to move him to the new job. Recently a company hired a man in Washington, D. C., and worked him for five weeks in its office there, then moved him to its plant at Burbank, Calif. The Tax Court ruled the $1,680 moving costs were not income. Ask your tax lawyer to look up "Cavanaugh, 36 TC No. 32."

Make your show windows sell harder. Some tips on how to do it can be found in "Small Marketers Aid No. 63, Making the Most of Your Show Windows," free for writing the SBA, Washington 25, D. C.

Avoid unnecessary taxation when giving or bequeathing money and property. Send 25 cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C., for "A Guide to Federal Estate and Gift Taxation," a summary of important laws and regulations on the subject.

Consider small concessionaires, if your establishment has room for them: cigarette and candy vending machines, photo portrait machines, coffee vendors, rides, etc. They brighten life in plants and attract customers to retail establishments, often yielding very high returns per square foot. One of the newest, a cotton candyman, yields $100 or more per square foot a year.

IT PAYS TO GIVE CUSTOMER HER MONEY'S WORTH
Michigan's sausage law is the most strict in the nation and perhaps the world, the "Kentucky Grocer" reports. It allows only skeletal meats, no organ meats and a minimum of fats and fillers.

"It must make sausage taste better." The magazine comments. "Michigan has the highest per capita consumption of sausage in the United States."

79 NOT TOO OLD FOR YOUNG IDEAS
Ben Gerimah, 79, shines shoes in front of the New York Light-house for the Blind, proffers customers an electric razor so they can shave themselves while getting shoes shined.

West All-Stars Come From Behind For 6-5 Victory

By LEONARD LAO
Reflector Sports Writer

GUY SMITH STADIUM—The West All-Stars came from behind in the late stages of the game last night to gain a 6-5 win over the East All-Stars in the opening contest of a three-game series which will be completed tonight with a twinbill on tap.

Trailing 5-0 going into the seventh inning, the West team came alive. With Billy Wynne of Winterville on the mound for the East stars, the first two West batters were retired in routine fashion. But Wynne hit a wild streak, and walked the bases full.

After issuing free passes to Gary Black of Garinger, Dave Morgan of Greensboro, and Dick Newsum of Winston-Salem, Wynne hit the next batter, Travis Ashby of Walkertown, to force in the first West run of the evening. Roger Hedgecock then singled with the bases loaded, and that was all for Wynne, who was relieved by Doug Barnes of Luccama.

The first man to face Barnes, Jerry Kirkman of West Mecklenburg, got on base on an infield error with the fifth West run of the game crossing the plate to tie the score.

The winners pushed across their game-winning tally in the eighth inning. Martin Smith of Asheboro got things started when he beat out a perfect bunt down the third base line. Chamberlain forced Martin out at second, but was safe at first to prevent a double play. It was at this point that Black, who was the leading hitter for the West All-Stars, got his second hit of the night, a single moving Chamberlain around to third. Catcher Dave Morgan followed, looping a pop fly to short left field. It was caught by shortstop, Ronnie Jackson of Rocky Mount, who immediately let go with a perfect throw to home plate which discouraged any intentions Chamberlain may have about tagging up.

Newsum, who had just entered the game in the seventh inning, came through with the big blow for the victorious West team, doubling off the left-center wall to score Chamberlain easily from third with the winning run.

The East All-Stars had jumped onto starting pitcher Ronnie Hovis of the West in the first inning for three runs. Verilyn Bunce of Steadman led off the first frame with a single to left. After an infield out that moved Bunce to second, Hovis, of Cherryville, walked Ken Boykin of Wilson.

Bonnie Stephenson of Roberstonville smashed a one-base hit to score Bunce from second and moved Boykin to third. Toby Sandlin followed with another single, scoring Boykin, and that was all for Hovis. He was relieved by Jerry Maye of Garinger. The third East run of the initial inning crossed the plate on a fielder's choice.

The losers added another pair of runs in the fifth frame off

Ervin Byrd of Greensboro, who had relieved Maye in the fourth. Wayne Townsend of Rowland drew a free pass to get things started, and he was followed by a single off the bat of Carlton Barnes, the starting shortstop from Wilson. Another free pass to Harper Ruff of Oxford loaded the bases and Byrd was in trouble.

The Greensboro hurler retired Stephenson on an infield automatic out, then forced Sandlin out at the plate. Then Sterling Coward of Wilmington beat out an infield hit to score Townsend from third. A walk to Frank Perkinson forced another run across the plate before Byrd forced Terry Newell of Rocky Mount to ground out to short to retire the side.

Both teams used four pitchers in the opening game. The West sent Hovis, Maye, Byrd, and Joe White of Winston-Salem to the mound. White, who struck out seven in the three innings he worked, was credited with the win. White failed to give up a single base hit in his three frame workout.

The East squad sent Caulder, Larry Whitley of Middlesex, Wynne, and Barnes to the hill. Whitley struck out seven batters in his three inning stint, from the fourth to the seventh. Barnes was credited with the loss.

The two teams square off again tonight in a doubleheader, the first game beginning at 7:00 p.m.

Top Crews Meet For Rowing Title

By MURRAY ROSE

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Unbeaten navy, Cornell, California's defenders and Washington figured to battle it out among themselves for the Intercollegiate Rowing Association Championship today.

The Big Four was expected to romp away from the other nine crews in the record field of 13 for the 3-mile varsity classic on Onondaga Lake. Navy (5-0), with No. 6 oarsman Joe Baldwin recovered from stomach cramps, rated a shade over Cornell (2-1), California (5-1) and Washington's senior-dominated Huskies (3-1).

This climax contest naturally captured most of the spotlight. But the experts had something else to watch with considerable interest. This was the freshman 2-miler which opened the three-race program.

The freshmen of 1961 will be the seniors of 1964 and that's an Olympic year. Today's frosh could very well form the nucleus of the American Olympic eight at Tokyo. For Navy, it carried special significance.

It was a Navy crew which started Uncle Sam off to eight straight victories in the Olympic eight and it was a Navy crew that suffered the end of the streak with a defeat at Lake Albano in Italy last summer.

The Navy Plebes, second to Syracuse by a half-second in the Eastern sprints last month, were rated with Syracuse, unbeaten Washington and Cornell as the top four in the 12-crew frosh opener.

Kenneth Beaman and Richard Jackson led the Elks at the plate, both getting singles.

Beaman was charged with the loss, going the distance and giving up 11 hits.

Billy Calloway and Simpson led the Tobs at the plate with two hits each. Johnnie Speight chipped in with a two-run double for the winners.

The winners took a 2-0 lead in the second inning, and increased their lead to 5-1 in the last frame.

A Coca-Cola rally fell one run short in the last inning, trying to win his own game with a two run homer. Taylor gave up only three hits in the loss.

Tigers Shelled Out For Freehan

DETROIT (AP) — Bonus baby Bill Freehan was a player the Detroit Tigers had to sign out of sheer necessity—and apparently they had him wrapped up for five years.

Having lost several good players from Michigan in the past few years, the Tigers could have lost considerable prestige if Freehan had gone to any other major league club. He was the top baseball prospect in the state.

"We've had our eyes on him since he was 14," said Vice President Jimmy Campbell, head of the Tigers' minor league operation.

The Tigers, a pioneer in the bonus baby race, shelled out their highest bonus—about $100,000—to sign Freehan Friday off the University of Michigan campus.

Outfielder Ken Hunt of the Los Angeles Angels hit 23 home runs for Richmond in the International League last season.

Should Be Lew Who Signs Lease On Coliseum

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When the Los Angeles Dodgers renewed their lease on the Coliseum this season, maybe they should have cleared the deal with Lew Burdette. He pitches there like he owns the joint.

The 34-year-old Milwaukee right-hander has been involved in 10 decisions in the oddly shaped arena, and has won nine of them—the last nine.

He scored his latest success Friday night, picking up the 150th victory of his National League career with a five-hitter as the Braves knocked the Dodgers out of first place by beating them out.

Burdette himself accounted for the first Milwaukee run with a homer, and therein lies another phase of his peculiarly successful adventures here. Burdette has hit only 10 home runs in his entire major league career, and this was his sixth at the Coliseum.

Another Lew Krause Has Come Through For The A's

By ED WILKS

It was late September, 1931, and the Philadelphia Athletics, having already wrapped up a straight American League pennant, turned to kid pitchers while going the big three of the staff, Lefty Grove, George Earnshaw and Rube Walberg, a rest before the World Series.

One of the kids was a 19-year-old right-hander named Lew Krause. Making his first start in the majors, he beat Boston 7-1 with a four-hitter.

Friday night the same Lew Krause, more nervous than he had been on that September afternoon 30 years ago, was in the stands as the A's, now in Kansas City and the second division, sent a $125,000 bonus pitcher to the mound for his first start.

The kid was an 18-year-old right-hander named Lew Krause Jr., and he pitched a three-hit shutout for a 4-0 victory over the Los Angeles Angels—in his first game as a pro.

Lew Jr. gave up nothing but singles. He walked five, but the A's backed him up with five double-plays, and he struck out six.

"I haven't slept for three nights," he admitted afterward, "but I'm going to sleep like a baby now. I've just had a thrill I never imagined could be true."

Lew Jr. gave up nothing but singles. He walked five, but the A's backed him up with five double-plays, and he struck out six.

Great it was, stealing the spot light from the pennant race as Detroit dropped New York out of first place, beating the Yankees 4-2, and climbed into a first place tie with Cleveland again. The Indians, sharing a one-game lead over third place New York, defeated Baltimore 3-1.

Boston whipped Washington 14-9, tying the Senators and Baltimore for fourth place. And Minnesota beat the Chicago White Sox, who had won seven in a row, 6-1.

In the National League, Cincinnati climbed on top by a half game with a 4-1 victory at Philadelphia while Milwaukee knocked Los Angeles to second by beating the Dodgers 2-1. The Chicago Cubs put San Francisco in third place, a game behind, with a 12-6 romp against the Giants. St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 5-2.

Young Krause went to work less than two weeks after graduating from Chester, Pa., high school. The Angels' three hits, by LeRoy Thomas, Steve Bilko and Ken Hamlin, came in the second, seventh and eighth innings. The A's scored the decisive run in Norm Siebert's double in the fourth. Ken McBride (5-5) was the loser as the Angels dropped their ninth in a row.

Detroit rapped eight hits, four by Billy Bruton, and was helped by five Yankee errors in beating Bill Stafford (4-3), who had won four in a row. It was only the third loss in 16 games for New York, and Bruton's single and Al Kaline's double put it away in the third inning. Phil Regan (7-2) was the winner. He allowed six hits, one a two-run homer by Bill Skowron in the fifth.

Southpaw Dick Stigman paired with reliever Barry Latham for a four-hitter for the Indians and singled home the winning run in the fifth off Oriole loser Chuck Estrada (4-5).

Eight runs in the fourth inning did it for the Red Sox and beat Tom Sturdivant (2-5). Carl Yastrzemski, with a two-run double, and Vic Wertz, with a two-run single, had the key hits in the rally. Fornieles (3-3) was the winner in relief. There were 26 walks in the game, four shy of the record.

Right-hander Pedro Ramos (4-3) after losing six in a row, beat the White Sox with eight innings of four-hit, shutout relief. Bob Allison drove in three runs for the Twins, and Jim Lemon and Harmon Killebrew homered. Don Larsen (2-1) was the loser for the Sox, who scored without a hit in the first off lefty Danny McDevitt.

Cardinals Plan Sign Crayton

GREENSBORO (AP)—Larry Crayton, star southpaw pitcher for the East Carolina College baseball team, expects to sign a bonus contract at his home here today with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The bonus reportedly exceeds $18,000.

Crayton was selected most valuable player in the small college NAIA tournament his team won last week at Sioux City, Iowa. His three-year ECC record was 25-4. He was 10-1 this year and had another year left of eligibility.

He expects to be sent to the Billings, Mont., team in the Class B Northwest League next week.

Southern Cal Is Still 'Shoo-In'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The preliminaries are over and nobody has changed his mind. He still looks like a shoo-in for Southern California's Trojans as the 41st annual NCAA Track and Field Meet winds up its two-day stand today on Franklin Field.

Coach Bill Bowerman of Oregon expressed the feelings of most coaches when he said after Friday's trials:

"We could lick 'em (Southern Cal) if they fought with broomsticks, but they won't. Why should they? They have the horses."

Southern Cal qualified eight men for today's finals and has potent point scorers in two of three events in which there were no trials scheduled. Bowerman's Oregon team has seven qualifiers as does Villanova's IC4A champions, strong team of the east.

IC4A has six men eligible for finals after Friday's 14 trials.

The Trojans' qualified Bruce Munn in the 220-yard dash. Bobby Staten in the 440-yard hurdles. Bob Pierce for the semifinals of the 120-yard high hurdles; Luther Hayes in both the broad jump and hop, step and jump. Dallas Long in the shotput. Bob Sbordone in the javelin and Bill Jackson in the hop, step and jump.

And if that's not enough, Bobby Avant and Jim Brewer are available for points in the high jump and pole vault — no trials were scheduled — finals today.

Although Southern California appears the class of the field teamwise, the meet is not without other stars. Villanova's Frank Budd and Harry Jerome of Oregon each won their heats in qualifying for the 100. The two sprinters — both have tied the world record of :09.3 — should have an interesting showdown. Budd also qualified for the 220 in :21.0, a fraction off the :20.9 qualifying time of teammate Paul Brayton.

Gets His Chance For Availability

NEW YORK (AP) — Dullo Nune, a 24-year-old Puerto Rican middleweight, tonight gets his chance for always being available. Because Nune stepped in as a sub at St. Nicholas Arena on two occasions and won both fights, he is getting a main event at Madison Square Garden with Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore., as his opponent.

Nune has a 20-3 record and Moyer 29-4.

Nune subbed on 24 hours notice at St. Nick's April 17 and beat Babe Simmons. Last November he saved another card when he stepped in at the last minute to take the place of Joey Archer against Bobby Pena. Nune also won that fight.

Moyer campaigned as a welter for some time but, after a defeat by Jorge Fernandez in April, decided he could not be strong even as a 155-pounder, eight over the welter limit. For his last bout, a KO over Willie Jennings, he weighed 164.

The 10-round match, scheduled for 9 p.m. (EST) will be carried on network (ABC) TV. Two judges and a referee will score it by rounds, using supplementary point system in case the rounds are even.

New 'Queen' Of State Amateurs

RALEIGH (AP) — The new queen of the state's amateur women golfers is Pam Barnett, 17-year-old Charlotte high school student.

Miss Barnett bested 147 other golfers, including seven-time champ Marge Burns of Greensboro, to win the match play tournament that ended here Friday.

She beat Clara Jane Mosack of Charlotte 5 and 3 in the final round after defeating Miss Burns in an extra hole in Thursday's semifinal round.

Basketball Scandal Has Reached Detroit Univ.

DETROIT (AP) — The spreading basketball scandals touched the Motor City when the University of Detroit announced dismissal of two star players Friday.

The school said the two, Charlie North and John Morgan, were dismissed "because of their admitted contacts with individuals involved in the nationwide basketball conspiracy."

The two Detroit names bring to 33 the number of players from 18 schools coast to coast involved in the scandal, which broke March 17. Since gamblers are hand-picked by the so-called point spread in basketball, the players allegedly have been approached about controlling the victory margin.

The very Rev. Laurence V. Britt, S. J., president of the university, said in a statement:

"It is the understanding of university officials that both players appeared voluntarily before the New York grand jury, at the request of the district attorney, and agreed to cooperate fully as witnesses. Further details are a matter of grand jury record and must await announcement by proper authorities."

A spokesman for Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said in New York there would be no immediate comment on the Detroit players.

North, 21, a 6-5 player who scored 458 points, an average of 17.6 per game, said "I wouldn't like to say anything because I'm just a witness before the grand jury."

Morgan, a junior this fall, also of Detroit and a former Detroit high school teammate of North, was Detroit's third highest scorer with 290 points for an 11.5 average. Both are Negroes.

The 6-6 Morgan could not be reached immediately.

Last American Entry Topples In British Tourney

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP)—Ralph Morrow, slim American airman from Oklahoma City defeated in the semifinals of the British Amateur Golf Tournament, watched the final today with the knowledge that his impressive play had sent his hopes of turning professional soaring sky high.

Morrow, 21-year-old lanky six-footer, lost on the home green to craggy Jimmy Walker of Scotland in the semifinals.

Walker plays Michael Bonallack, 26-year-old Englishman who works in his father's coach building firm, in the 36-hole final.

"Morrow is a fighter," Walker said. "He's a terrific swinger of the club and he's got the style and the temperament for pro golf."

Bonallack, a British Walker Cup player, defeated 21-year-old Martin Christmas 3 and 2 in the other semifinal.

Selective Service Is More Selective

SELECTIVE SERVICE . . . is getting more selective as time goes by. Mrs. Josie Evans, assistant in the local board office, looks over a registrant's file. (Reflector staff photo.)

By PATRICIA MOORE, Reflector Staff Writer

The Selective Service is getting more selective all the time. Physical and mental standards for young men entering the armed services of this country are higher than they have ever been before.

Standards and requirements of the services have become higher because of the type of men needed for the armed forces in the modern space age, as contrasted to the "gun toting" day.

To point out the increasing standards of the Selective Service, the 1960 Annual Report of the Director of Selective Service has stated that the preinduction examination rejection rate for 1960 was 45.4 percent, which is slightly lower than for the fiscal year 1959, yet higher than most previous years.

Raised mental standards seem to be the principal contributing factor to mounting rejections. In 1960, 45.2 percent of the preinduction rejects did not pass the Armed Forces mental tests. To compare with previous years, 47.7 percent in 1956; and 40 percent in 1954.

In spite of the machine age, large numbers of men are still needed as a defense for our country.

The annual report states that "New tensions have and will continue to develop which make it a necessity that men of military age in the United States be trained to defend against and wage and survive an atomic or nuclear war. Even a war of this kind will still require large numbers of men in addition to electronic and nuclear machines."

The years of selecting young men in this country for military service has proved that it is not possible to maintain a voluntary armed forces of any great size. Hence, the Selective Service system procures for various services the number and kind of men they desire, so that their intake of personnel will be uniform and satisfactory.

However, it is not the purpose of the Selective Service just to induct men. The annual report takes the stand that the procurement of men should be accomplished with the least interruption to the educational, agricultural and industrial activities of the nation, and in a way that will assure the country's being economically, technically and scientifically in the best posture to survive an attack.

In other words, as well as "selecting" young men for the service, the Selective Service has the responsibility to maintain a civilian economy in proper balance through deferment and channeling so that the nation can maintain the homefront as well as the battleline.

Channeling is another means of Selective Service. The Selective Service channels registrants by means of deferring them from military training and service into many endeavors, occupations, skills, activities and the like, in the national interest.

For example, student deferments reduced what could have developed into more serious shortages in teaching, medicine, dentistry and every field requiring advanced study, during the 1950's.

In addition to selecting men for service and channeling necessary ones into special fields in the national interest, the Selective Service, with the cooperation of the Department of Defense, is now beginning to categorize examined registrants according to positive findings of usability.

The report has stated in connection with this and channeling: "Rather than reject men for military service and create in them an attitude that they are unfit to defend their country, it would be better to find them acceptable to the degree of their usefulness and call them to active duty at whatever functional level they possess, or offer them the alternate of working in essential civilian areas."

Keeping up with latest information, the Selective Service contacts each standby reservist every year and informs his armed force of any change in availability, address or physical status. In a review of files ordered by the State Director of Selective Service, the local board has been contacting every registrant born on or after August 3, 1922, to discern information concerning each one's occupation, marital status, address and number of children. Lists of these men and their birth dates appear frequently in the newspaper, when the local board cannot locate them themselves.

The annual report stated, in regard to Class IV-F, that some elements of the population think a person in Class IV-F might never have to serve his country, "that they have nothing to contribute to it militarily and that they are handicapped in their civilian careers. Yet, in an emergency, most of these men will and can serve effectively in the Armed Forces or in vital work otherwise."

The Selective Service and the Armed Forces are currently in the process of changing their procedures regarding classification and examining, respectively, to limit rejection of registrants and others "who are not found acceptable for military service under current medical, mental and moral standards." As a result of this change, future rejection and the Class

IV-F classification probably will be restricted to men found unlikely to qualify for military duty even in an emergency.

Thus the Selective Service is increasing its standards every day and placing each registrant where he can do the most good.

Railroads Helped In Development Of Pitt County

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

Railroads had a lot to do with the economic growth of Pitt County. As the rails reached out covering many miles, the small villages and towns through which they passed or touched on the fringes began to grow.

In 1832 the small crossroads town of Bethel felt the effects that the completion of the branch line of the Raleigh and Albemarle Railroad brought to that area. The area around the depot on Railroad Street became a business district. And Bethel experienced a surge economically it had never known before.

Some eight years later, on April 1, 1890, the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad (now the Atlantic Coast Line) reached Greenville on the north side of the Tar River. A temporary depot was put up on the Wilson property and called Riverton.

Winterville was a flag stop on this railroad and its coming caused the place to pick up in population and money wise.

Ayden also benefited from this extension of the Wilmington and Weldon Line. In fact, the town is largely a result of the coming of the railroad. When the line reached Grifton, the once sleepy village sprang to life and prospered.

With the completion of the line to Kinston and the building of a bridge across the river, a depot was put up in Greenville. Trains were put on a regular schedule and train time became quite an event here in Greenville. People got up early to see the train off and train arrival at night was largely attended.

In 1892 the Washington Branch Line from Parmele to Washington brought life to Stokes and a business boom to Pactolus. Four passenger trains, on what is now the Atlantic Coast Line, came to Greenville daily. They pulled into the depot that stood at Tenth Street and Dickinson Avenue. At one time these trains served Greenville and other places along the line: N. 72 which arrived here at 5 p.m., the S. 73 at 1 p.m., the N. 58 at 8:30 a.m. and the S. 59 at 6:30 p.m.

According to Mr. Jones, who sold tickets at the station, the fare back in 1916-17 seemed quite small when compared with any transportation cost of today. You could go to Winterville for 15 cents, to Ayden for a quarter and to Kinston for 62 cents.

In 1941 the passenger service was discontinued. The station was torn down a few years back. The freight station is still used by the Atlantic Coast Line. Four freight trains daily do the hauling of freight across and in the county every day but Sunday. Of the 5,572 miles in the Atlantic Coast Line system, just about 50 miles are in Pitt County. Mr. Fred Cargile of the A.C.L. says that the small place we know as House was once considered important enough in the system to have an agent of the company stationed there.

The other line that serves this county is the Norfolk and Southern which was completed to Greenville in 1907. Its passenger station stood on the spot now occupied by Gammon Supply Co. The freight station closely by was vacated in 1938 and is now occupied by the Royster Fertilizer Co. In its heyday, two through trains between Raleigh and Norfolk pulled into the Greenville Depot. There was also a local between Greenville and Raleigh. With the discontinuation of the passenger service, the old steam locomotives were replaced by Diesels. Mr. H. R. Phillips, the Norfolk and Southern agent says that there are about 35 miles on the main line serving the county, plus industrial sidings. Today, one local hauls freight between Greenville and Wilson. Four through freights pull through Greenville on their ways to Norfolk and Raleigh.

The East Carolina Railroad serves a small part of the county up near Farmville and Fountain.

This line is owned by the Atlantic Coast Line.

Both the Atlantic Coast Line and Norfolk and Southern served the county well. The trains pulled by their Diesels do an efficient clean job.

But with the coming of the Diesels and the going out of the steam locomotive, a lot of the "romance" went out of railroading. It is true no one misses the smoky houses and fires the old "iron horses" sometimes caused but there is something gone that will never be a part of the countryside again.

Gone is the sight of a train moving fast across the fields with its black plume of smoke flying over its cars. Gone is that once welcome break from hopping corn or cotton to lean on the hoe and wave to the engineer and watch the train weave its way on through the woods and out of sight. Gone also is the sight of it as it came on pass the crossing where you stood; its headlight shining out into the night; its firebox glowing — the fireman shoveling coal; the swinging, swaying of it going down the line, straining at the coupling, clicking of the wheels; and the red eye of the lantern on the caboose blinking back at you.

But the thing some will remember most is not what they saw but what they heard — the weird, lonely cry of its whistle on some late night hour. How it made the shivers run up and down your spine and your bed seemed safe and cozy. And you tensed yourself for each crossing call and counted them one by one until the last fair whistle came. As the night fell quiet again, you knew she was far away down the line.

-- And Why Didn't You Ever Marry?

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks an old maid gets tired of hearing: "Aunt Gertrude, why didn't you ever marry? Is it that you just hate men?"

"I told you not to mention her birthday. She's very, very sensitive about her age."

"Last year was Leap Year — and she's still in mourning."

"If you want to borrow money from her, tell her she doesn't look a day over 25. She eats up that kind of talk."

"She looks awfully depressed today. I guess she must have found another gray hair."

"I read somewhere that the reason girls become old maids is they're secretly afraid of men. What do you think about that, Gertrude?"

"Oh, I wouldn't exactly call her an old maid. For one thing, it makes her mad."

"They say she had a lot of chances to marry in her youth—but who's left to remember?"

"She has a wonderful apartment, but the only man whoever calls on her is Santa Claus—and he doesn't stay long."

"If you could just get a date for Gertrude, Jim, she'd have a lot more fun at the party."

"Well, I'm not going to invite any of the guys from my office. After all, what have I got against them?"

"This is the third cruise in 10 years she's taken to the Virgin Islands. Why doesn't she take a cruise to Alcatraz? The men there can't get away."

to baby-sit tonight, Jim. Gertrude had to go to the beauty parlor. What do you mean, what for?"

"You don't know how lucky you are, Gertrude—no problems with runny-nosed kids, no keeping supper waiting for a husband who half the times comes home late. You're free to do absolutely anything you want."

"I hear she'd marry her boss except for two things: his wife won't let him — and he doesn't want to anyway."

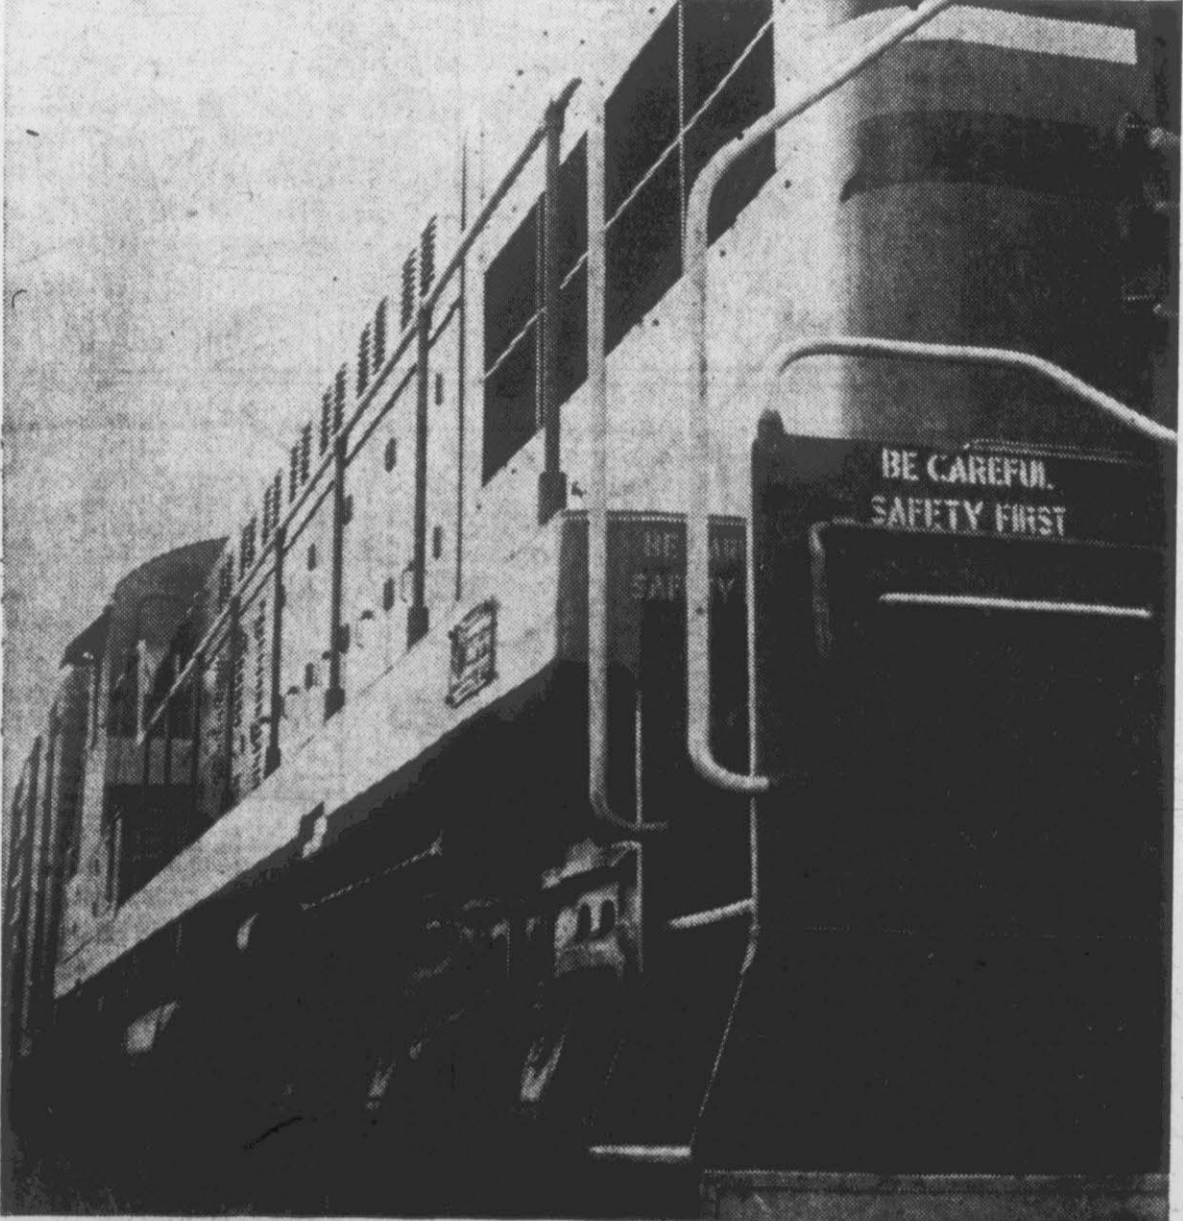

"How long is it you've been with the firm, Gertrude? Is it 15 or 20 years? My, you're getting to be a real fixture around here. You've become a kind of little mother to the other girls."

"Gee, Aunt Gertrude, don't you ever get tired of going home every night and cooking dinner just for yourself?"

Fears Dreaded 'Neutron Bomb' Development Ahead

By HARRY KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—A "death ray" bomb that would kill all life in its target area has been discussed as the weapon of the future. But just how far in the future is worrying at least one senator.

Dodd hinted the Russians could be secretly experimenting to develop the neutron bomb while the United States is honoring an atom-test moratorium. He put forward such a possibility as an argument for resuming tests.

When told of the two alternative versions, Dodd told newsmen—"You are not far off."

Dr. David R. Inglis of the AEC's Argonne National Laboratory, who suggested that a neutron bomb could be devised of a scaled-down A-bomb, said: "It is of dubious military value because many of its victims on the battlefield will be condemned to die of radion sickness on following days and can afford to be very brave in the meantime." Other scientists who saw the neutron bomb as a special nuclear reactor said the development of a mobile reactor hot enough to produce neutrons in quantities for use as a weapon would present great problems. But they said the idea is "conceptually possible."

Communist Cash, Followers Said Behind Plotting In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Communist cash and followers of slain Patrice Lumumba were behind a plot against President Joseph Kasavubu's government, informed sources said today.

Gen. Joseph Mobutu, the army commander, told reporters the plotters set next Wednesday as the day to strike. He said the plot involved poisoning or kidnapping government leaders.

It had been apparent in this capital of the troubled Congo that something was in the wind for the past five days.

REVEREND B. E. PLEDGER, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Ayden, is launching a summer series of sermons beginning June 18 through August 27. Morning sermons for each Sunday will deal with a study of the Ten Commandments, the evening sermon series, says the pastor, will deal with approaches to God to heal the minds and hearts as well as souls.

Police and paratroopers in trucks and jeeps have been cruising the streets, rounding up suspects and examining identity cards.

Last Tuesday they seized a young Indian diplomat, who later was released, and a Dutch radio reporter.

The foreign ministry official under arrest is Laszlo Marothy, a Hungarian who took part in the uprising against the Russians in his native land in 1956. He has been handling protocol and consular matters. Informed sources said leftist followers of the dead ex-Premier Lumumba had been working on the plot for a month.

The government, in rounding up the 40 soldiers, apparently believed that Lumumbist sentiment still is strong in the ill-disciplined central government army.

Mobutu charged that the plotters hoped to persuade disgruntled soldiers to mutiny and expected to enlist support of civil servants. There is much unrest among both elements because of irregular pay from the hard-pressed government. Civil servants have been staging wildcat strikes for a week.

Bride-To-Be Has Sage Advice

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—William Harvey Brown asked Mae Clark Sargent if she'd marry him and she said yes.

Brown, a widower, listed his age as 86 and Mrs. Sargent, a widow, gave hers as 83 on the marriage license they took out Friday. They said they'll be married soon.

Mrs. Sargent offered this advice as they took out the license: "Get married. But don't get married to just anyone."

Tiny Pension Is Being Increased

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP)—In its closing hours, the 100th Maine Legislature gave a $60 a month pension to an 88-year-old woman who claims to be the only living granddaughter of a Revolutionary War Soldier.

It isn't much—but it is more than double the $25 on which Mrs. Katie Libby of Charleston has been living since 1937.

How do you live on that amount? Mrs. Libby will tell you it isn't easy.

"If I weren't a prudent woman," she told a newsman, "I wouldn't have had enough to eat this past winter."

"But I really don't worry or feel alone because the Lord is with me and I put myself in his care."

Mrs. Libby lives alone in a nine-room farm house on 120 acres of land. Until a year or two ago she kept a cow and tilled a small garden.

Since then, the state pension—result of a few years' teaching experience in her youth—has been her only support, although a niece occasionally gives her some groceries.

She has refused state old age assistance because the state could put a lien on her property. Once Mrs. Libby had to mortgage the farm and she won't do it again.

Mrs. Libby said the Veterans Administration's records show that her grandfather, Thomas B. Lowell, enlisted in Col. John Brooks' Massachusetts regiment in 1781, took part in the Battle of King's Ferry and was discharged with a pension in 1783.

At the age of 80 Lowell married a woman of 28. They had four children, one of whom was Mrs. Libby's mother.

Bingo Becoming Craze In Britain

LONDON (AP)—Bingo threatens to sweep this nation, whose people already spend almost $2 billion a year on gambling.

"This is a social revolution," said Eric Morley, official of an organization that has introduced the game at 50 points across the country. "For one thing, it's the first recreation that women can go to alone."

Professional organizers got the game going on a bit-time basis under the government's general liberalization of the gaming laws.

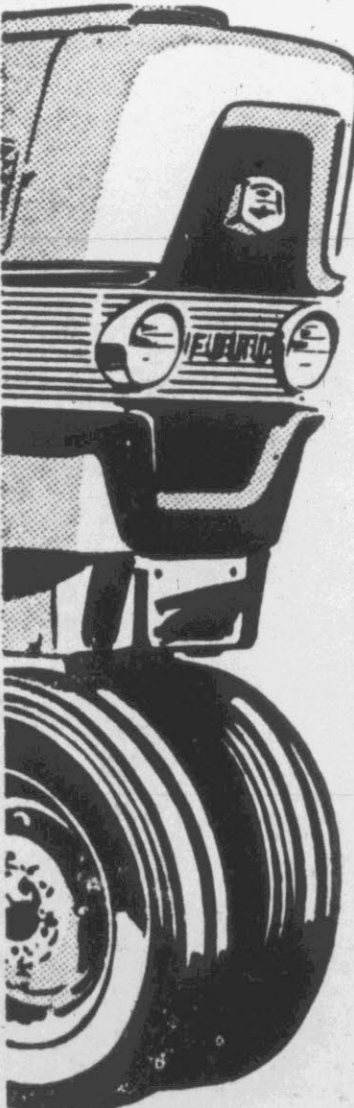

To play you have to be a member of the club sponsoring the game, or a bona fide guest.

The admission price is equivalent to 50 cents, and you pay the same amount for each game.

Mrs. Shirley Brotherton will collect current Census Bureau information the week of June 19 concerning national figures on employment and unemployment.
