

Two Men Charged With Bombing Communications Facilities; Admit 'Plot'

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Investigators say an ex-builder and a young mining engineer have admitted the $850,000-bombing of three Utah-Nevada communication facilities three weeks ago to publicize an anti-big business "American Republican Army."

Police of Ensenada, Mexico, a port city 75 miles south of here, arrested bearded Bernard Jerome Brous, 51, and handsome Dale Chris Jensen, 23, U.S. citizens. Saturday night aboard Brous' yacht laden with arms—machine guns, rifles and ammunition.

Sunday night Mexican authorities brought the two men to the border at Tijuana and turned them over to the FBI. Agents took them before a San Diego U.S. commissioner, who ordered them held under $100,000 bail each and set arraignment for Tuesday.

Both said they knew nothing of the bombings. Mrs. Brous told newsmen she thought the explosives on the yacht were to be used in hunting sunken treasure off Peru. Bortoli said he was a guest for skin-diving.

Mexican authorities said Brous and Jensen admitted blowing up the two microwave towers and a relay station early on Sunday May 28. The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. estimated the damage at about $850,000.

Brous told a U.S. newsmen he masterminded the sabotage. Jensen told Mexican police he blew up the three installations and was paid by Brous to do it. He said Brous was in Ensenada at the time.

A copyright story in the San Diego Union quoted the two as saying the sabotage was in behalf of the "American Republican Army."

A Mexican official said Brous told him the army was intended to fight what Brous termed official corruption in the American system, including the FBI and big business.

The Union's interview was written by Robert L. Curry, editor and publisher of the Redondo Beach, Calif., South Bay Daily Breeze, who was vacationing in Ensenada.

Curry said Brous represented himself as head of the American Republican Army and said it will gain political power "by political, not violent means."

We planned blowing up the communication equipment as a spectacular effort to bring notice to the organization," Brous said. Brous told Curry that "hate for the privately owned utility companies" was one reason for the bombings. Another was to produce a "scare" to bring nationwide recognition of his group.

Brous described it as "like the John Birch Society but more active." Brous said he's non-Communist but supports nationalization of public utilities. He claimed his group is suing the telephone company for $4.7 million.

The communications towers were sky links in nationwide communications. They handled telephone and telegraph circuits for public use and circuits used in U.S. defense operations.

Located in the desert, the stations are automatic and normally unmanned. They are part of AT&T's system of relaying signals by line of sight. The blasts caused only minor disruption of military circuits because equipment automatically switched messages to another system.

FBI agents in Las Vegas, Nev., Sunday filed a complaint charging Brous, Jensen and other unknown persons with conspiracy between May 1 and May 28 to commit sabotage by blowing up and destroying the microwave station at Wendover, Nev.

The others blown up were at Knolls, Utah, and Cedar Mountain, Utah. Ensenada police said they went aboard the 42-foot ketch, the Monsoon, at 6 p.m. Saturday on a tip that heavily armed persons were living aboard.

Detective Emilio Mendez said Brous stood on deck with an M2 rifle in his hand, a pistol in his belt and two hand grenades on a table beside him. The four policemen disarmed him.

They arrested Brous and his wife, then the other two men when they appeared 2 1/2 hours later, Jensen carrying a bag with two hand grenades in it.

Mendez said the yacht's arsenal included two 50-caliber machine guns, three carbines, three rifles, a shotgun and 1,500 rounds of 22-millimeter and 30-caliber ammunition.

Also, he said, there were a "bundle" of TNT, "a great big bomb," and two two-way radios. At the Ensenada police station Mrs. Brous' face was bloody. She told police she had fallen down a flight of stairs.

Alfredo Trullio Mier, consultant to the Mexican federal district attorney, said Brous told him it cost $600 to blow up the stations and that he had spent $6,000 on the arsenal.

Brous told Mier he had sent 19,000 letters from various Mexican towns to U.S. people, including President Kennedy, Eleanor Roosevelt and newspaper editors and publishers, urging sympathy for the "American Republican Army."

In San Diego Brous and Jensen were taken before Betty Marshall Graydon, U.S. commissioner. Brous, who has long, wavy hair, a graying beard and a droopy mustache, wore a blue denim yachting suit with two stars on his cap.

MASSAPEQUA PARK, N.Y. (AP)—Bernard J. Brous wore a big cowboy hat, boots and sometimes carried a gun in a holster. But he parlayed a $40,000 inheritance into a spectacular fortune in Long Island's postwar building boom.

That was the way friends and relatives on Long Island remembered the 51-year-old man accused in the bombing of three Utah-Nevada communications facilities.

A cousin, Morty Brous of Atlantic Beach, also added this pointed observation in referring to Brous' early life: "He was mad at people in general."

Brous' unusual career began in 1927 when he was 17. "His mother had died and he wasn't able to get along with the woman his father then married," said Morty Brous. "He ran away from New York City and rode the undersides of freight trains for three years. He was a real hobo."

Brous returned to New York in 1930 and began years of drifting. "He couldn't seem to find himself," his cousin explained. "But in 1945 Brous' father died and he inherited $40,000 which he used to enter the home building business."

Pitt Votes Bonds For Industrial Training School By Wide Margin

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County voted Saturday approved by a large majority issuance of $395,000 in bonds to finance construction of a technical training center. An official canvass of Saturday's returns this morning showed 2,712 voters favored establishment of the educational center. Only 386 voted against the bond issue.

The Pitt Board of Commissioners, shortly before 11 a.m. today, certified the election returns with a resolution that allows the county board of education to proceed with plans to erect the school on a site it selects. The commissioners, meeting with Chairman of the Elections Board D.S. Spain and Pitt's 25 poll holders, voted on a motion

Little said of the approved school: "I believe the people of Pitt County will be mighty happy about this. To me, it's one of the greatest things that has ever happened to Pitt County."

An official county showed a total of 4,657 Pitt Countians registered to vote in the election. The total of 3,998 effective ballots cast represented 66.5 per cent of the voters registered for the special election. The training center approved Saturday is the 20th and last school to be allocated by the state. It will be operated as a part of the state school system. State funds will provide instructors and equipment while the county will be obligated to provide money for secretarial and janitorial services. An approx-

Recall Brous As 'Mad At People'

After two successful years, he bought a tract of land at Massapequa Park and built a 3,000-home development, second only in size on Long Island to Levittown. He also built a palatial home for himself at Kings Point and began moving up in top political circles on Long Island.

"He was a character," District Court Judge Edwin R. Lynde recalled. "He always wore a big cowboy hat and boots and sometimes carried a gun in his holster."

In 1944, Brous' wife, Celia, divorced him, charging inadequate support of herself and their two children, Ronnie, then 14, and Howard, then 9.

Brous suddenly left Long Island in 1955 and vanished completely. "We didn't hear a word from him in all these years," one friend said.

Long Maritime Strike Is Being Freely Predicted

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators in the maritime strike which has paralyzed segments of the nation's merchant fleet were further apart today following heated charges of attempted bribery and divisive tactics.

There were predictions on both sides that the strike, which began last Thursday midnight, would be a long one. More than 100 ships have been immobilized in the nation's ports.

The attempted bribery charge was made Sunday by Jesse M. Calhoun, chairman of the National Committee for Maritime Bargaining, a group representing several unions.

Calhoun charged that the American Merchant Marine Institute had attempted to "bribe us by offering a substantial economic package if we will drop the runaway-flag issue from our demands." He said he had called upon a congressional committee to investigate.

The accusation was denied by Ralph E. Casey, president of the Merchant Marine Institute. He accused Calhoun of "lying in his teeth," and said he also would welcome a congressional investigation.

The "runaway-flag" issue is a main obstacle to a settlement. It involves American-owned ships which sail under foreign flags. The unions want the right to organize the crews on these ships. They contend that American seamen are being deprived of jobs by the practice of hiring foreign crews on the vessels.

Wage scales on such ships are lower than on American-flag vessels. The companies insist the practice is necessary in order to compete with foreign vessels. Wage demands for American-flag ship crews are a relatively minor issue in the strike.

National Maritime Union President Joseph Curran said his union of 37,000 members was willing to negotiate with the companies directly if the companies would make a "positive response to our economic proposals."

Casey said no. His organization and the Tanker Labor Service Committee are representing the companies in the talks. Altogether, 85,000 crewmen, seven unions and almost 1,000 passengers, freight and oil vessels are involved in the dispute. Many ships are at sea and won't be hit by the strike until they reach a United States port.

Rival Princes Of Laos Disagreeing

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—The three rival princes of Laos began negotiations for a coalition government today and promptly disagreed.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, the self-styled nationalist who is the Communists' candidate to head a "national union" regime, announced that Prince Boun Oum, the conservative premier of the Western-backed royal government in Vientiane, plans to retire from politics.

A spokesman for Boun Oum denied the retirement report, saying, "Prince Souvanna Phouma failed to understand the prince's intentions." He added that "until now there has been no question" of Boun Oum's willingness to abandon power.

Concerning Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, the deputy premier and real power of the Vientiane government, Souvanna said, "I will not admit the military into the government." He hinted that if Gen. Phoumi remained in politics, he would have to leave the army.

Souvanna's statement indicated that if he heads the coalition government as expected, representatives of the conservative, pro-Western factions in Laos will take a back seat to Souvanna and his half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong, the chief of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

The princes set a three-day limit on their session and said they would only work out general principles and policies, leaving the details to the East-West conference in Geneva and their own lesser-rank delegations meeting in Laos in the rebel-held jungle town of Ban Namone.

That procedure indicated that formation of a coalition regime is a long way off. "We all agree that Laos should be neutral, sovereign and independent," Souvanna Phouma said. Formation of a national union regime made up of all the Southeast Asia kingdoms' warring factions would enable the country to send a single delegation to the Geneva conference, which is bogged down by Communist refusal to expand the powers of the International Control Commission in Laos so that it can check on continuing Pathet Lao attacks in violation of the cease-fire.

A coalition government presumably would result in a quick end to military activity, and the Geneva conference then could get on with its main task—creation of procedures to keep Laos peaceful, independent and neutral until the princes end their meeting and report to the Geneva meeting, that conference is expected to mark time.

Hodges Avers U.S. Growth Too Slow

NAGS HEAD, N.C. (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said here today that although the recession has passed, the growth rate of the United States is disturbingly low.

Hodges, former governor of North Carolina, in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual convention of the North Carolina Seedmen's Association said, "We must face the truth that for the last several years the growth rate of the United States has been disturbingly low."

"Through recession and recovery alike there has been a widening spread between the nation's output and its productive capabilities. And there has been growing unemployment. Jobs simply have not been reappearing the way they once did when the business cycle was on the upswing."

Hodges reviewed the increase of gross national product of the United States from 1947 through 1960 and said it lagged far behind many industrialized nations, especially those of Western Europe.

The commerce secretary also compared unemployment figures here with those of Western Europe, saying that in spite of recovery from the recession the nation still has an unemployment rate of 6 percent. "The point is," Hodges said, "that despite this present encouraging recovery, we are still a long way from achieving our goals of a vigorous, healthy economy which can grow in keeping with its potential and support, at full employment levels."

In reviewing the steps the Kennedy administration has taken to bolster the economy, Hodges called the area-redevelopment program passed by Congress in April "the most significant step ever taken by the federal government to deal with the problem of structural unemployment—the displacement of workers that stems from technological change, industrial migration and shifts in the relative importance of industries."

Hodges pointed out that among the 114 areas which will be eligible $300 million in loans, administered by his department over a four-year period, are the North Carolina areas of Fayetteville, Winston, Lumberton and Wilson.

Hoface Godfrey, administrator of the Commodity Stabilization Service was also to speak.

Republicans Are Predicting 'End'

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)—Tar Heel Republicans see actions by the 1961 Legislature in congressional redistricting and finances "will mark the end of one-party rule in North Carolina."

In a newsletter released Sunday from state GOP headquarters here, the Republicans continued their attack on the Democratic-controlled General Assembly.

It said, "The 1961 General Assembly's greatest shame lies in the redistricting of congressmen." The Legislature last week enacted a bill putting Republican Charles R. Jonas and Democrat A. Paul Kitchin in the same congressional district.

The law was required by 1960 census figures which trimmed one member of the state's 12-man delegation to Congress.

It called the newly created Jonas-Kitchin district, "a political monster stretching from the mountains of the West to within a few miles of the Raleigh Democratic stronghold."

The GOP headquarters labeled the 1961 Assembly "the most spendthrift on record" and called its enactment of a 3 per cent tax on food a "tax on poverty."

The assembly enacted Gov. Sanford's multi-million dollar school improvement program and passed into law a revenue measure which is expected to bring in an additional $65.5 million during the 1961-63 biennium.

The newsletter said the General Assembly's Republicans supported better education but proposed taxes on tobacco and other luxuries to finance it. It noted that all but one of the assembly's 17 Republicans voted against the food tax plan.

Early Warning 'Eye' For Alaska

CLEAR, Alaska (AP)—Uncle Sam will focus his second big Ballistic Missile Early Warning System eye at the Soviet Union from this remote point in interior Alaska July 1.

The Clear BMEWS station is the second warning site built by the United States as a defense against a surprise missile attack from the Soviet Union, the Air Force said Sunday.

Miss Fern Lorraine Highsmith of Hampton, Va., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Nathan Highsmith Sr. of Fort Knox, Ky. and Greenville, and Richard Carlton Leonard of Greenville, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gurnie Leonard of Erwin, were married June 18 in the Hickory Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Bethel.

The Rev. Willis W. Wilson performed the double ring ceremony before an altar of pink and white summer flowers, palms, and pink cathedral candles.

Miss Barbara Faircloth of Fredericksburg, Va. played the wedding music. Miss Dee Ann Dorsett of Winston-Salem sang "The Song of Ruth," "Through The Years," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white nylon organza and Chantilly lace, fashioned with scoop neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. The bouffant chapel train skirt featured a deep pointed hem of Chantilly lace edged in irridescent and seed pearls. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was arranged with a lace tulle of seed pearls and irridescent. She wore a star-like-shaped diamond pendant necklace, gift of the bridegroom, and carried a lace bridal fan of miniature roses and stephanotis, centered with a white orchid.

Miss Lexine Rollins of Washington, D. C. served as her cousin's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Leonard of Erwin, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. John W. Beachum of Springfield, Va. They wore street-length gowns of silk organza in tones of pink, fashioned in princess styling with unpressed box pleats, matching butterfly silk organza caps and carried colonial bouquets of pink daisies.

Junior bridesmaid was Miss Cynthia Manning of Bethel, cousin of the bride. She wore a pink silk organza gown and carried a colonial bouquet of pink daisies.

Little Miss Leah Ruth Harp of Erwin, niece of the bridegroom, served as flower girl and wore a pink silk organza dress. She carried a basket of rose petals. Mr. Leonard served as his son's best man. Groomsmen were A. C. Hinton Jr. of Portsmouth, Va., Jerry Leon Stewart of Sanford, Floyd Matthews of Bismarck, N. D. and Greenville, and Robert D. Warren of Benson.

The candles were lighted by Samuel Nathan Highsmith Jr. and John Whitehurst Highsmith, junior groomsmen, brothers of the bride. Mrs. Highsmith, mother of the bride, wore an imported blue linen sheath dress, trimmed with French reemboledered alencon lace, with matching accessories and a corsage of white cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Leonard, mother of the bridegroom, selected a taupe lace sheath dress, fashioned with a side drape. She wore beige accessories and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Richard Carlton Leonard

Mrs. James O. Whichard acted as mistress of ceremonies.

Reception

A reception was held at Sweet Gum Grove community building. Mrs. Jerry Leon Stewart of Sanford and Miss Virginia Helen Roll of Dumfries, Va. served.

Miss M. Margarette Wiggs of Hampton, Va. was in charge of the bride's book. The bride chose for traveling a turquoise silk and white lace dress with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage lifted from the bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard are graduates of East Carolina College, both having received the Master of Arts degrees in science. Mr. Leonard was a member of Chi Beta Phi honorary scientific fraternity, Phi Sigma Pi fraternity and recipient of a graduate assistantship in science and the outstanding student teacher award. Mrs. Leonard was a member of Chi Beta Phi, recipient of a graduate assistantship in science, and is listed in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities."

Stout-Dixon Marriage Is Solemnized

Mrs. Hal Vincent Stout

FARMVILLE—In a ceremony of beauty and dignity, Miss Julia Carolyn Dixon became the bride of Hal Vincent Stout in the Presbyterian Church of Farmville on Saturday, June 17, at four o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. W. D. Morton, pastor of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Arthur Dixon of Ayden. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Clarence Stout of Star.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mr. Clifton Ralph Mills, organist, and Mrs. William C. Nelson, vocalist, who sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" by Stults, "Whither Thou Goest" by Singer, "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte was sung as the benediction. Traditional marches were played as the processional and recessional.

The ceremony was held in a setting enhanced by palms, emerald green and plumosa. Tall baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums and four seven-branched candelabra holding cathedral candles flanked the altar. Single lighted candles stood on either side of the prieu dieu on which the couple knelt for the benediction.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of white silk organza featuring long sleeves ending in calla points at the wrists and a modified sabrina neckline. The fitted bodice was accented with appliqued flowers and seed pearls at the neckline and waist. Her tiered veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of sequins and pearls.

She carried a book showered with Stephanotis and centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Ralph Tyson of Greenville was her sister's matron of honor. She was gowned in a street length dress of sky-blue chiffon, styled with cummerbund, lace bodice, and rounded neckline. Her headpiece was a gently ruffled off-the-face band made from the same fabric as her gown. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow gozsa chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaids were Misses Connie Lou Sutton and Betty Jane Nichols, both of Hampton, Va. They wore identical dresses of lemon drop yellow fashioned like that of the honor attendant's. They wore matching headbands, and their bouquets were also of gozsa chrysanthemums.

Little Miss Catherine Jones of Rustburg, Va. was flower girl. She wore a short white dress fully pleated with high yoke, and carried a basket of yellow pom poms. Master Van Carl Tucker of Grifton, ring bearer, carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

The groom was attended by his father as best man. Ushers were Bill Hardee, Capron, Va.; Cecil Stout, Falls Church, Va.; Nell Stout, Wilmington, N. C.; and Archie Stout, Star, N. C., brothers of the groom.

Mrs. Nixon, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a lace dress of Nile green, with which she wore white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Stout, mother of the groom, wore summer blue, with white accessories, and her corsage was also of yellow roses.

The bride is a graduate of the Belvoir-Falkland High School and East Carolina College. For the past year she has held a position on the faculty of Franklin High School, Franklin, Va.

The groom is a graduate of Star High School and East Carolina College, from which he holds a Bachelor of Science and Master's degree. He is employed as a teacher and assistant principal of South Hampton High School, Courtland, Va., where the couple will reside.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the social hall of the church. Mr. and Mrs. Burwell Dixon greeted guests and introduced them to the receiving line. Mrs. William Nelson presided over the bride's book and Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon directed guests to the appointed table, which was covered with a green cloth overlaid with white. A crystal pedestal container filled with white snapdragons and baby's breath formed the centerpiece. Three branched candelabra stood on either side. Mrs. G. L. Tucker poured punch. Misses Joyce Jenkins and Betty Jean Mobley assisted in serving the guests. Bridal squares, mints and nuts. Goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard

Jones. For a wedding trip to Florida the bride changed into a black and white summer ensemble. With this she wore matching accessories and the orchid lifted from her prayer book.

Pre-Rehearsal Dinner
On Friday evening Mrs. Glendel Tucker and Mrs. Tom Gower entertained at a buffet dinner honoring the Stout-Dixon wedding party at the Gower home in Grifton.

Guests were greeted on the front lawn where tomato juice cocktails were served, and an informal social hour was enjoyed. Following this, guests were invited into the dining room where the table was covered with a pink cloth and centered with an artistic arrangement of hydrangeas and dahlias in complementing shades. Included in the menu were: ham, pickled beet slices, garden peas, potato salad molded into the shape of a three-tiered wedding cake, hot rolls, iced tea, and individual cocanut, cream-filled cakes.

Cake-Cutting
Following the rehearsal of the Stout-Dixon wedding, Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon and Mr. and Mrs. Burwell Dixon entertained at a cake-cutting at the home of the former in Simpson.

The hosts greeted guests and invited them into the dining room where the table was covered with ivory lace over white. A crystal vase holding white lilies centered the table and crystal candelholders stood on either side.

After the bridal couple had cut the first slice, Mrs. John Dixon served the three-tiered wedding cake while from the other end of the table Mrs. Burwell Dixon poured punch. Guests were invited to serve themselves bridal mints and nuts.

The bridal couple-elect presented their attendants with gifts of sterling.

SCHOOL ANNEX CONVERT-ED—Just one more fish fry and the Shiloh Home Demonstration club members in Camden County may get out of debt. Mrs. Mamie Sawyer, home economics agent, says club members converted an old school annex into a community building.

With one more supper they will probably finish paying for the improvement completed in the kitchen, club room and outside. Then they will start on the fourth stage of improvements—the dining room and auditorium.

LIGHTING DEMONSTRATION PRODUCES RESULTS—Over 100 good certified reading lamps have been made at workshops in Alexander County. According to Mrs. Agnes Watts, home economics agent, more families will have better lights in their homes for reading or studying.

Due to a recent demonstration at Home Demonstration club meetings, more of the homemakers have become interested in lighting and wiring.

USE PRINCIPLES TAUGHT AT WORKSHOP—Mrs. Frank Turner, Norwood, Rt. 1, has wasted little time in putting into practice principles learned at a clothing construction workshop. Mrs. Rebecca Mooney, assistant home economics agent in Stanly County says Mrs. Turner is now applying the principle of understitching to the garments she makes since finding such a difference in the total appearance of the garment.

GOOD QUALITY FURNITURE STRESSED—Mrs. Frank Brown of Watauga County believes in buying good quality furniture. She buys unfinished chairs which she refinishes and then weaves in the bottoms.

Miss Jean Childers, home economics agent, says Mrs. Brown has given eight chairs as wedding gifts. She also instructs other club members at special workshops in refinishing and weaving chair bottoms.

KITCHEN PLANNING—Home Demonstration Club women have been studying kitchen planning in Wayne County. Miss Nancy Lewis, home economics agent, discussed basic types of kitchens and showed plans for three different types of work centers.

Miss Lewis says, "A high percentage of our women have been busy remodeling their kitchens but can incorporate some minor details which will make kitchen work easier."

MODERN METHODS OF DRESSMAKING—Clothing leaders in Montgomery County are teaching their club members up-to-date methods of clothing construction this month," reports Mrs. Martha Harris, home economics agent.

"They are stressing importance of accurate markings and seam allowances, demonstrating how to put in sleeves for a professional look, how to make belts and cover buttons, and discussing how to sew on wash and wear synthetics.

Pierce H. D. Club Meets

The Pierce Home Demonstration Club met at the club house Thursday. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Stamey Worthington. Roll was called by Mrs. Heber Cannon, secretary, and the minutes were read and approved.

Mrs. Ed Humbles gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Ed Humbles, Mrs. Joe Sunrrell and Mrs. Heber Cox were appointed to look out for the officers for the coming year.

The Pierce club will have a recreational meeting July 1 at 7:30. Mrs. Stamey Worthington served for refreshments a one dish meal, cheese and corn skillet dinner.

Elizabeth Arden

Advises Young Girls

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

One of the world's best known beauty authorities, Elizabeth Arden, advises young girls that the best time to nip beauty problems is during the budding years.

A beautician more than three decades, she still maintains her own chic looks and youthful figure.

"Most older women who have beauty ills neglected their youthful opportunities to erase the first signs of body fatigue," she points out.

Typical young figure problems involve poor posture, heavy hips and thighs. The hours spent leaning over books are a partial cause. Active participation in the wrong kind of school sports, such as hockey, tends to build heavy leg muscles and solidify excess weight," she says.

Her Maine Chance beauty resort in Arizona and Maine have been visited mainly by the over-30 set including some of the world-great names like Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower.

But in summer Miss Arden devotes her Maine resort to vacationing school girls of college age. The average girl torn from pizza pies, chocolate sundaes and soda pop is likely to lose about 3 inches and from 5 to 10 pounds if she sticks to the beauty program, says Miss Arden.

"Once a school girl realizes that she may not be a wallflower at the school dances again next year, she is willing to go along with her diet and exercise. The improvement is so good sometimes that a girl is likely to cry when her time is up," she says.

The laziest school girls become energetic when they begin a diet of healthful foods, Miss Arden says.

"Most school menus overemphasize starches, underplay fresh fruit and vegetables," she points out. "So the majority of the girls go on a reducing diet. Desserts are included which don't add an ounce. Apricot whip, grape fluff, lime buttermilk sherbet, and even chocolate souffle are prepared by low-calorie recipes.

Girls get a program of regular exercise tailored to their individual needs. Thirty specialists advise on the program.

"Swimming, archery and canoeing are also wonderful for the feminine figure, Miss Arden says, and tennis is ideal for the girl who wants a more active sport.

Hose (Sudsable) For The "Boys"

Here's something that men have stolen from women: 100% ribbed nylon support hose that look just like regular socks but serve to ease leg fatigue. These hose have horizontal ribbing to support the instep and shin, vertical ribbing for the back of the ankle and calf.

A wise wife might teach her husband to launder his own socks but this isn't really necessary because these support hose can be safely sudsed in a washing machine—if encased in a mesh or net bag.

Cue for testing new shoes at home: wear a pair of clean socks over the shoes. Then if you want to return them, the soles will still be immaculate.

Long Lasting Shine For All Floors

It's a liquid floor finish with the same chemical "Acrylic" used in the new auto finishes to eliminate waxing. New Seal Gloss gives a high gloss finish and does not yellow. Ends water spotting and is slip resistant. Also resists scuffing and lasts for months. Use easy to apply Seal Gloss on vinyl, linoleum, asphalt, terrazzo, and wood for beautiful, clear floors.

An Outsider Would Cheer Us On

To an interested non-resident of Pitt County, Saturday's bond election would hold great significance.

It requires no great imagination to picture this spectator composing a letter addressed to all Pitt Countyans. Nor does it call for special insight to set down here some of the thoughts this letter-writer would convey.

For instance, he would first undoubtedly say: "Congratulations to all of you for the very strong support given a bond issue which will bring an industrial training school to your area."

"The very one-sided margin of approval demonstrates how strongly you feel about the future of your county and that you are willing to pay no small price to insure that future holds a bright promise."

Our imaginary letter-writer conceivably might go further, in saying,

"I wish now such an industrial training school was available for my county, but there had to be a limit on the number and we awoke too late to realization of the importance such a facility would hold."

"The necessity of industrial training in predominantly agricultural areas has been shown time and again when our industry-hunters approached prospects. Always they would ask how many skilled laborers were available for their particular line of manufacture or processing. We could not give them what they needed. You, in effect, are now able to say 'Tell us what you need and we will provide.'

"I have often thought Eastern Carolina must offer a greater promise of employment opportunity to its young people or they will go elsewhere. In terms of employment, our small businesses and industries, our farms and related enterprises, have all reached a sort of saturation point. We need more industries and businesses to keep our young people home; for if they leave us we have no future. The future is theirs, not ours."

"This industrial training school you are going to have adds one more facet to the good things Pitt County can claim. The college, a major teacher-producing institution and growing in a variety of fields in education and service; that School of Nursing, plus a modern hospital and related health services combine to give you claim to title of 'Medical Center of Eastern North Carolina'; and this new school you will have gives you a distinct edge toward leadership in industrial development."

Our mythical correspondent might go on and on in this vein (he is a very enthusiastic sort of person), and even suggest that people in Pitt's seven neighboring counties will more than ever want to share in the good things our citizens have provided or brought into this county.

But his letter would not be complete without a closing salute to those who led the way into making Saturday's bond election possible. We will include those thoughts because they echo our own, and properly belong in any summation of Saturday's story.

"My admiration for the quality of leadership displayed in bringing about your new training school should be evident in this letter. You can be justly proud of the men who serve you in the General Assembly, your Commissioners, school boards, town boards, the many businesses associations and other organizations who worked to make it all possible."

"I look forward to seeing their work and your good judgment and foresight bear early fruit."

"Very sincerely, ? ? ? ?"

We couldn't decipher the signature of our imaginary well-wisher, but it is nonessential. His views and The Reflector's are so strikingly similar that there must be an alter ego in the plot.

Date Of A Bond Vote Left Open

By LYNN NISBET

ELECTION — The bond act passed the other day authorizes the Governor to call an election sometime during the year 1961 on the question of whether all or any part of the $47,500,000 in capital improvement bonds should be issued. The date of the election is left to the Governor, but it is provided that in event other bonds are proposed they may be voted upon at the same time. There has arisen question whether the bond election would be considered a "general" or a "special" election. If it is a general election then all the constitutional amendments submitted by the General Assembly will have to be voted upon. There is technical difference between the election to be held this fall and the one on constitutional amendments held in 1956. Then the election was called for a day certain by legislative act and was designated a general election.

It is recalled that a great deal of work on constitutional revision went down the drain in 1934, because of court ruling that the prohibition election in 1933 was the "first general election" after the General Assembly had submitted the amendments, and that failure to vote upon them meant they could not be voted upon at the regular election in 1934.

The language of the 1961 bond act leaves the exact status of the election in doubt. The situation can be cured by a legislative act fixing the date and designating it a regular election—or a special election, as might be desired. Otherwise an advisory opinion by the Supreme Court may be sought to determine whether the amendments must be submitted this fall.

SPECIAL—Of more interest is the probability that a special session of the Legislature might be called this fall to act on matching federal aid funds for roads and schools, and for consideration of a report by the commission to study senatorial redistricting.

The most interesting prospect in event a special session is held is possibility of reopening the matter of congressional redistricting. The constitutional provision for a special session is found in the executive, rather than the legislative, article and reads: "The Governor shall have power on extraordinary occasions, and by and with the advice of the Council of State, to convene the General Assembly in extra session by his proclamation, stating therein the purpose of purposes for which they are thus convened."

Once in session, however, the Legislature is not limited by the executive statement of purposes, and may consider any matter it wishes. Historic record is that nearly every extra session has gone far beyond the stated purposes, often hardly considering them at all. Outstanding exception is the 1956 extra session when by agreement among members action was restricted exclusively to school matters.

Governor Sanford has indicated positive displeasure at failure of the regular session to deal adequately with senatorial districts. He apparently is not highly pleased with the congressional districts worked out, but is willing to accept it. Reaction of the people and the press has been much stronger against the congressional districts than the senatorial. Discrepancy in sizes of the district and the obvious gerrymandering have been subjected to both serious criticism and ridicule—and ridicule is a very powerful weapon.

STUDY—The bill which was enacted has such crazy quilt splintered as Davidson and Nash counties in one district, Lincoln and Lee counties in another, and population differentials ranging from 277,000 to 487,000. This bill was introduced in the Senate on a Wednesday, briefly considered by a committee on Thursday, and passed in the Senate on Friday. Its progress through the House was somewhat more leisurely and during its two weeks there several public hearings were accorded. It is significant that at no time did anybody other than members of the committee have a kind word to say for the bill.

Opponents pleaded with logic for longer study and more careful consideration. Then they begged, almost abjectly kneeling, for mercy by giving time for review and attempt at working out some better arrangement. They quickly voted down requests that the matter go over to a special session.

If the furor back home continues as it has raged for the past week, and as legislators are subjected to realization of what they have done to the concept of equitable representation, sentiment for review of the act may grow stronger. And a special session, for whatever purpose called, would be free to repeal the districting act—or any other—and start over.

It makes sense to consider senatorial and congressional districting together, because the purpose of both is to afford fair and equitable representation to all the people.

Giving Ground But No Defeats

By RALPH ROBEY

New Frontier legislation continues to have rather rough going in the Congress. Up to this time there has been no real defeat of a Kennedy proposal, but he has had to give ground in order to get some of his ideas passed, and there is much reason to believe that this will continue true.

The increase in minimum wages was the best example of compromise. It finally passed but was far short of what the Administration wanted, and to get even this much it was necessary to use ruthless political pressures. As many persons have pointed out, this measure, although tagged as an anti-recession move, will increase unemployment.

In contrast, the Aid to Depressed Areas bill went through without difficulty in the form requested. The same was true in the extension of unemployment aid and dependent children aid. But that is all of the New Frontier legislation that has been passed by the Congress. The remainder of the program is still being debated by one house or the other, and in some instances even the hearings have not been completed.

Aid to Education has passed the Senate, and it is expected that the House will pass a much less generous bill.

The omnibus Housing bill has been debated and passed by the Senate, and has been reported to the House. How much trouble the measure will run into in the House is still an open question, but it is to be hoped that significant changes will be made in that body.

Social Security changes have passed the House, and the Senate is still holding hearings and will not get to debate for some time.

A Feed Grains bill and extension of the Sugar Act have passed both Houses, but the over-all farm program is bogged down in hearings in both sides of the Congress.

Highway Financing has passed the House, but has not yet been taken up by the Senate. Water Pollution also has passed the House and has been reported to the Senate.

The Mutual Security measure, which would increase the amount for the coming year and authorize direct borrowing from the U.S. Treasury for the next five years, is the subject of hearings by the Senate and so far has not been considered by the House.

Tax revision hearings on President Kennedy's program have been held by the House Ways and Means Committee, but no bill has been reported out and it is believed that nothing even resembling the Administration plans will be agreed to by the committee.

This is not the entire New Frontier program, of course, but it is enough to show that the Congress obviously is in no hurry, and it is of interest to speculate on why this is true. Three points are worthy of mention:

First, recovery definitely is under way. Even the Administration now admits this. Second, while this Senate is no more conservative than the last, the House is appreciably more opposed to so-called "liberal" moves. It is true that party discipline in the House leaves much to be desired, among both the Republicans and the Democrats, but there still is enough conservative thinking to prevent too much really wild legislation getting passed.

Third, we already have a federal deficit of about $2 billion facing us for the fiscal year ending next June 30, and probably at least twice that for the following year. Even for belief that the House will pass a means of curing a recession, these should be sufficient.

But it will be many weeks before this Congress adjourns, and those who oppose the New Frontier proposals must not let up in continuing to make their views known.

Strength For Today

By EARL DOUGLASS

JUDGEMENT DAY — The Bible teaches that eventually there will be a Day of Judgement. At that time the nations of the world will be gathered together — a multitude so great that no man can number them. Then will the good be separated from the evil. Then will God's records and works be made to triumph.

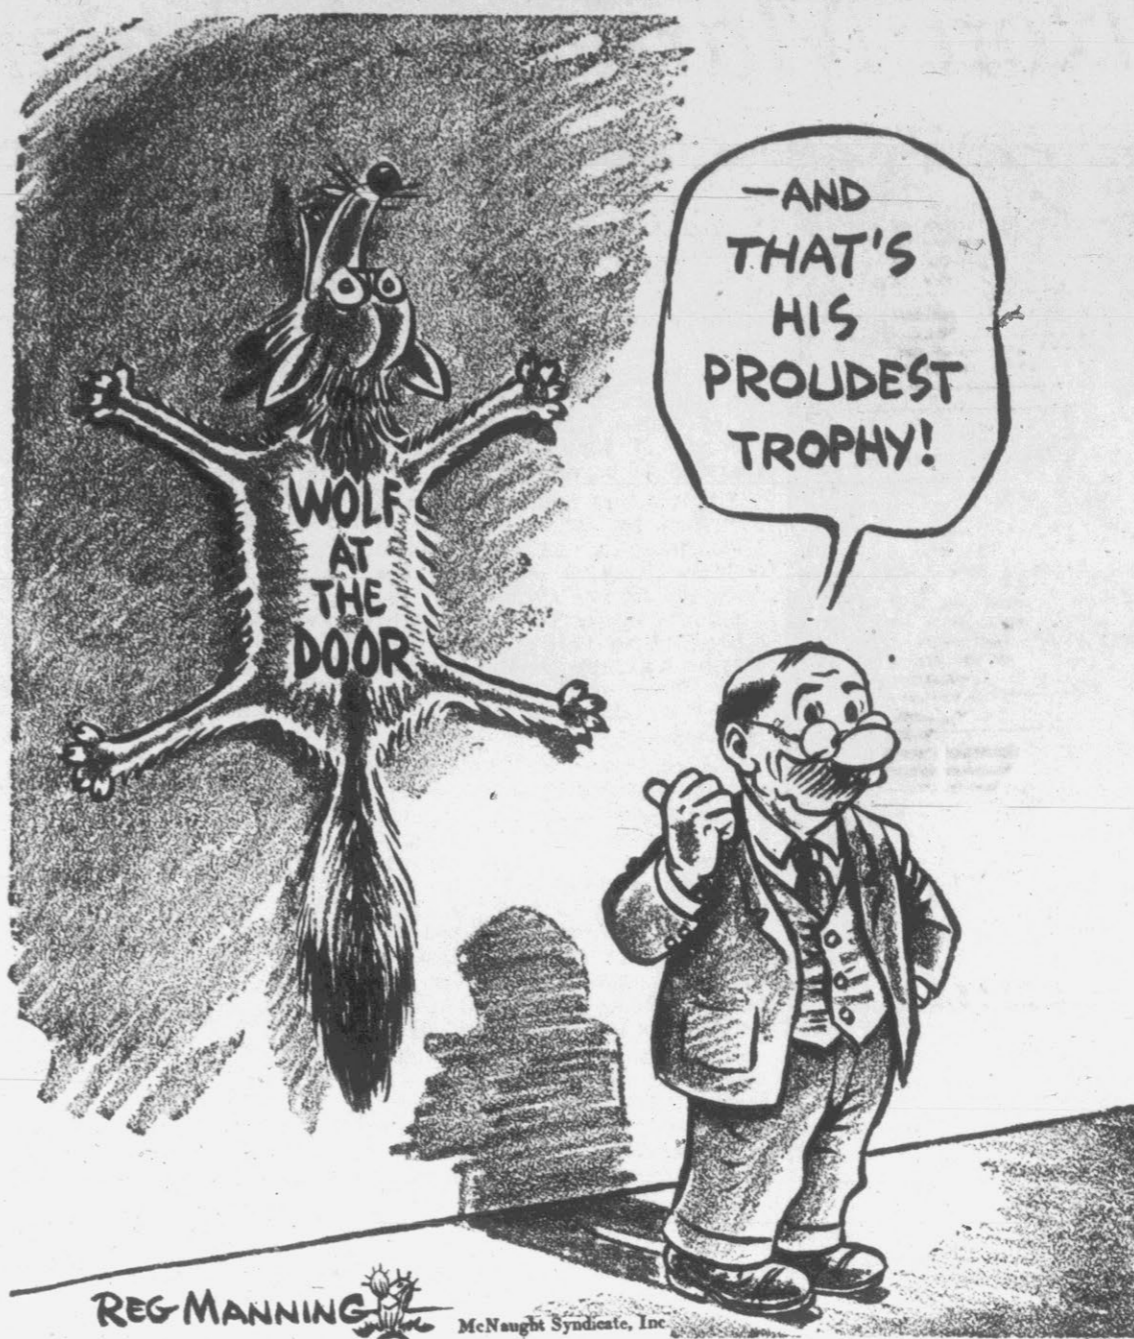

Yet much as we may believe in an ultimate Day of Judgement we never really live our lives as if we should until we realize that every day is a Judgement Day for us. There must be a final tallying up of the accounts of our lives after death, but surely there have to be tens of thousands of accountings before that time. Is our life going forward in the right direction? Do we have an ideal — or ideals — worth seeking after? Have we been faithful to our trusts, both great and small? Are we living just for what we can get out of life, or are we living to its full and putting back more than we take out? Are we forgiving or are we hostile and vengeful? Are we jealous and envious?

Or to look on the positive side—are we giving our lives to the cultivation of our spiritual life? Are we giving our children a fair deal in this regard? Are we aiming for high ends which have about them cosmic and eternal significance?

The Day of Judgement? It is here right now.

A Proper Balance Sheet

What is the United States, as a going concern, worth?

Governments employ primitive methods of accountancy with the result that we are in the red when actually we are in the black or vice versa. The Treasury of the United States could not file a statement of assets which would be accepted by the Securities and Exchange Commission or the New York Stock Exchange, or any bank.

Representative Charles E. Bennett of Florida has introduced a Bill (H.R. 902) in the House of Representatives which would require the government of the United States to employ correct accounting methods. The

Other Editors Saying Despite Foreign Aid

(Henderson Dispatch)

It's well enough that Adlai Stevenson visit South American capitals as a good will ambassador for the United States, provided he does not promise to give away everything the United States has. His conferences with heads of state in the Latin American republics—so-called—should clear the atmosphere, assuming that he sizes up the situation adequately and without pressure when he returns for fabulous handouts to friend and foe alike. And the United States does have some enemies south of the Equator, believe it or not.

Two years ago when a devastating earthquake struck a large portion of Chile, American millions in high figures was poured into that country freely and without strings in an effort to relieve sufferers and to assist in rehabilitation. Yet when Stevenson arrived in Santiago, the capital, he was greeted with an outburst of insults and actual violence, and the demand that he go back home. The fact that Stevenson was not harmed personally or in danger of his life, as Vice-President Nixon was three years ago when he went to South America, is beside the point. Nor can the rioting be passed off by attributing it to communists. It was there just the same.

In Moscow the other day, Khrushchev danced and joked with President Sukarno of Indonesia on the latter's visit to the fountainhead of communism. Inference was that the two leaders were buddies in viewpoint and objective. That, too, on the part of a government chief present Secretary of the Treasury cannot use the plea of ignorance—Douglas Dillon is a banker, the son of a banker and well-trained. He must know that the government of the United States cannot produce an accurate or even an honest balance sheet — one that the Internal Revenue Service would accept from a citizen.

Congressman Bennett's Bill is a first step in the direction of preparing a proper balance sheet. Its preamble reads:

"To establish an immediate program to aid in reducing the public debt by providing that certain receipts from the sale of capital assets of the Government shall be used for such purpose."

from Southeast Asia whose regime has received some three to four hundred millions of American foreign aid funds.

What then, is the moral of these incidents on opposite sides of the world among people of a common mind and purpose? Is it not that our money is going down the drain in so far as is concerned the intent behind the generosity so lavishly manifested? Americans may never know what Stevenson has promised the South Americans until the gates of the Treasury are flung wide to them and the cash begins to roll out.

Except in a few instances, the tide of communism in Europe and the Middle East has not been halted. Startling gains have been made by the Moscow bloc in many directions. But our substance continues to be offered, accepted and squandered, with the ultimate admonition to "Go home, Yankee." There is persistent talk of a policy of sending more good money after bad. Our own resources and reserves are dwindling, but government officials, including the President, continue to demand even larger sums than ever before to continue the process.

Regardless of our liberality we are making few, if any, fast friends. No one knows for sure whether even France and Britain, despite sweet words of harmony, would stick by us if the chips were down, even after the billions they have received to bolster their post-war economy. In a back-to-the-wall showdown would we be able financially even to defend ourselves? It's a good question.

Actually the bookkeeping system used by the Treasury includes no capital assets. If the United States sells a building, it does not dispose of a capital asset; it sells its property like a housewife sells old clothes to a junkman. She puts the money in her pocket and spends it. But she has made no record of a capital sale or of a profit or loss.

Representative Bennett's Bill reads:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that in order to establish an immediate program to aid in reducing the public debt, all receipts covered into the Treasury for deposit in the general fund and resulting from the sale (after the date of the enactment of this Act) of any property of the Federal Government which is considered a capital asset under proper accounting procedure shall be deposited into a special account which shall be established on the books of the Treasury. The Secretary of the Treasury shall from time to time utilize the money in such special account for the payment at maturity or the redemption or purchase before maturity of obligations of the United States which are included in the public debt of the United States. All obligations of the United States paid, redeemed, or purchased with money out of such special account shall be canceled and retired and shall not be reissued. All money deposited in the special account is hereby appropriated and shall be available for expenditure for the purpose of the Act."

Proper accounting would probably establish that the United States has a secured indebtedness, parts of which could be wiped off without lessening the value of the dollar. Our government is enormously rich in assets. In 1959, the United States owned 1,837,762,560 acres of public domain. The Federal Government owns 369,995 buildings which are valued at $17,523,994,000. This valuation is an estimate, as no accounting survey has ever been made.

Public bookkeeping generally is shamefully kept. For instance, the City of New York is now going through a disgraceful scandal over its school property. (Continued on page 8)

Prices Affect Us All

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—First let me say that farm prices affect everyone, not simply the farmer. They affect every consumer who reads this column. We all have to eat; and indirectly we pay what the farmer gets for his crops.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY'S REPORT TO THE NATION — As I have time to reflect upon President Kennedy's recent radio-TV report on his meeting with Mr. Khrushchev, it boils down to this,—Mr. Khrushchev does not want war and is willing to cooperate on negotiations for disarmament, but he feels that Communism will gradually sweep over the world and will win without war. Of course, President Kennedy in a manful manner said "We will not allow this." There it ended in a peaceful tie.

After he talked with Macmillan in London, they concluded that the only way to stop this Communist "glacier" would be by providing the backward nations with something better than Khrushchev could offer. Furthermore, to be effective, we must not only do it as free nations, but do it first, with the United States carrying the burden of the load.

WHAT THE BACKWARD NATIONS NEED

President Kennedy refers to the need for education, new industries, more healthful living conditions, and food; but this is looking ahead ten or more years. The people in these poor countries which Communism plans to take over, one by one, cannot wait for food. Therefore, the fight between Communism and freedom will depend largely upon which side will first supply these poor people with food and the ability to immediately raise crops.

In short, it seems that this cold war will be fought by farm products rather than by missiles, submarines, or men. It further seems that Congress will heartily back this new program. Most Congressmen are glad to help the farmers, and all Congressmen know that American mothers would rather be taxed more than send their sons to fight in guerrilla warfare.

FARM PROSPERITY AND PROSPERITY

A study of economic history shows that general prosperity (including stock prices) is basically determined by the condition of the farmers. The farmers' prosperity is usually determined by the price which they receive for their crops,— provided the weather is normal. This means that a greater demand for farm products should mean higher prices and greater prosperity for all.

Farm prosperity benefits the railroads, the harvester companies, and a host of other industries. From the time the farmer plows his ground until he reaps his crop, he is spending money. The higher the prices he receives, the more the farmer spends to the benefit of all concerned. Even the weather is not the factor it used to be, due to the use of improved seeds and methods of cultivation.

FARM PROBLEM TAKES A NEW TURN

Up to the present time, the discussions in Congress as to how best to aid the farmer have been very controversial. The Congressmen from the Central West have fought for greater appropriations for the farmer; while the Congressmen from the East, the section which pays most of the taxes, have fought for some more realistic plan. President Kennedy has heretofore proposed. Now, if the President carries out his program to help these poor nations, the farm problem will become a national affair and be classified under Defense.

Therefore, let me summarize: (1) President Kennedy has been told by Khrushchev that Communism will win by helping the poor nations and by using guerrilla warfare when necessary. (2) The immediate help which the poor nations need is food and the ability to grow crops on their own soil. (3) This means that the side which will be the one which acts first. Mr. Khrushchev as a dictator can act quickly, while President Kennedy will be handicapped by committees, politics, and Congress. (Continued on page five)

A Shortage Of Skilled Personnel

By ELMER ROESSNER

Despite the threat of chronic unemployment in many areas in the United States, a shortage of skilled personnel is building, according to the researches of Robert Kaye, a New York employment consultant.

"If you employ one person or 1,000, you are heading into a stringency period," he declared. "The coming shortage of personnel is developing in big and little jobs that require good aptitudes, education, skills and experience."

Relatively few will be filled from the large numbers of unemployed who are dramatized in headlines. Many of these are unemployable under today's demanding specifications.

The hard-core of the unemployed consists of the unskilled, the semi-skilled and those unqualified for the very jobs that are most eager to fill.

There will be more raiding of top employees, warned Mr. Kaye, who is editor of the Employment Agency Newsletter. "All employers are going to lose some important cogs in their organizations—people who will be difficult or impossible to replace. "Ahead is a new kind of competition for qualified workers at every level, from top to bottom. There's a growing personnel rivalry as a consequence of new efforts to build up staffs."

Government plans will intensify this competition for the truly able, he said. "Not only will the government, with installations throughout the world, syphon off much of the personnel you are looking for, but its thousands of contractors will also be sponging up the best parts of the labor market for exciting new jobs—and some still to be created."

"Not only technicians will be lured into new jobs and novel occupations, but every type of office worker, staff and line, will be needed, for the New Frontier is paved with multiple memos and data-processed surveys with end."

PEACE CORPS EFFECTS — Other observers have warned that the Peace Corps may skim off the best of the young people, since it appeals to the imaginative, the creative and the dedicated. Furthermore, it is assumed that the Corps will take only those with top educational backgrounds, in good health and with tested, stable personalities.

"Under the pretense of helping to relieve unemployment, the Peace Corps will take those who would be readily employed in business anyhow, leaving for business many unemployables and dull, deficient personalities," one employer commented.

Another personnel expert — a "head hunter" — that is, one who seeks out top executives for platooning by other companies—said that the shortage of top executive talent is worsening. However, this expert said that the fault was largely with hiring companies. These are so concerned with employing geniuses with magic touches that they are "little interested in merely talented experts."

At a recent corporation meeting, the president pounded the table and declared, "We need half a dozen $50,000-a-year men!" Because the profits were low, his directors looked at him in shocked askance. "Who will work for us for $10,000 a year," the president added quickly, with a slight blush.

IBM DECLARES IT EXPORTS NO JOBS

In this column on May 12, "The American Management Review" was quoted as saying, in an article by John P. Maggard, "International Business Machines, with 10 plants in Europe, is now feeding office equipment into the domestic market from overseas factories."

Not so, declares J. R. Opel, director of communications for IBM. "Production in IBM World Trade Corporation plants abroad is for our overseas markets and we do not import office equipment for sale here. Any implication that this company is responsible for 'exporting jobs' is completely false. As a matter of fact, exports of equipment produced in IBM plants in the U.S. are responsible for many production jobs."

Flooding Rains In Texas Joined By Tornado; Several Funnels Are Seen

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — A tornado whirled from leaden skies during 10 inches of rain Sunday night, injuring five persons and destroying two units of a public housing project.

Elsewhere in Texas, floods from prolonged heavy rains drove several hundred people from their homes.

"It's a mess out there," a policeman said as he watched several ambulances stall in flooded streets.

Gas mains broke. Power lines snapped. Telephones went dead. But there was no fire. Nor was there a dollar estimate of damage from the tornado that hit hardest at the Island City Homes addition southwest of the business section of this port and resort city of 67,175.

All through south and central Texas, heavy rains were reported which sent rivers and creeks rampaging and contributed to 20 deaths over the weekend.

Fifty miles southwest of here and also on the Gulf of Mexico, another tornado touched at Freeport but did only slight damage. Other funnel clouds were sighted at Corpus Christi, Victoria and Robstown.

Inland at the Texas capital, 350 persons were forced from low lying homes at Austin before waters began receding after nine inches of rain. The Colorado River flowing through the city was controlled by a chain of lakes, but considerable flooding of low lands resulted downstream.

Blanca Herrera, 45, drowned when a flooded creek washed her car from a San Antonio bridge. Fifteen persons had formed a human chain in the rolling water to reach her stalled station wagon. She and six others were saved, but she returned to retrieve her coat and drowned.

Far to the northwest, the south plains town of Littlefield near the New Mexico border had two inches of rain and hail in 15 minutes, fanned by hurricane-force winds of 75 miles per hour.

The Rio Grande churned to ward a 30 foot crest at Laredo, highest since the disastrous flood along the Mexican border seven years ago. The crest would be eight feet below the International Bridge that replaced one washed away in 1954. Upstream, the river returned to about normal flow at Eagle Pass and Del Rio.

Elsewhere, a Canadian cold front edged along the northern tier of the nation and extended down through the northern Rockies and eastward across the upper Great Lakes. Several thunderstorms occurred along the frontal boundary.

Temperatures generally were in the 60s over much of the nation from the Rockies eastward with the exception of a few scattered 50-degree readings. Readings were higher along the Gulf Coast and parts of southern Florida.

Pre-dawn temperatures ranged from the low 80s in eastern Washington to around the 100-degree mark in the desert Southwest.

(Continued from page four) and abused. Repairs are rare. Let us have a look at this from the standpoint of accountancy. These school buildings are worth about $1,500,000. If two percent were set aside each year for repairs and reconditioning, it would mean that the city would have to provide $30,000,000 for that purpose annually. The city has never done that. It has made repairs when it has been required to make repairs. It has patched up holes and covered up decay. No accountancy system has ever determined the value of this real estate; no depreciation fund is set aside; no contingency fund exists.

Government has become too big for this sort of free and easy accounting either nationally or locally. We need to know where we stand.

Hurricane-Spotting Space Satellite Will Be Launched

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Weather scientists plan to launch a hurricane-hunting Tiro satellite this summer in a continuing quest for better detection and eventual mastery of the destructive storms.

From its vantage point 400 miles above the earth, weathermen hope the satellite will photograph the entire gusty life of at least one hurricane from its innocent beginning until it blows itself out.

The drum-shaped vehicle will carry two television cameras to relay thousands of pictures to ground stations. It will be equipped with infrared sensors to record the temperature of the earth, clouds and oceans below and to measure the heat balance between the earth and the sun. Heat from the sun is the prime force which makes the atmosphere circulate, thus causing our weather.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration hopes to send Tiro III aloft aboard a Thor-Delta rocket in July.

The hurricane season officially opened June 15. Few hurricanes form in the Caribbean or Gulf of Mexico in June or July. They usually become more numerous in August, with the peak season reached in September and early October.

If the weather-eye satellite spots a hurricane far offshore, an effort may be made by the National Hurricane Research Project to send a portion of it with silver iodide—which normally is used in seeding clouds in an effort to bring rain to drought-stricken areas.

Carl Reber, director of research flight facilities in Miami, said that if the experiment is made it will not be "with any idea of destroying or changing the path of a hurricane."

"We would be interested in seeing whatever changes take place," Reber said, adding that tests would be on a limited basis and conducted only on a storm far at sea.

Thousands of cloud cover pictures received from two previous Tiro satellites have produced what the Weather Bureau believes are possible clues to the birth of a hurricane.

These pictures repeatedly have shown small circular cloud formations known as convection cells. These cells, about 50 miles in diameter, correspond roughly to the size of a hurricane "eye" and its enveloping circle of clouds.

Weather researchers have noted the cells are weak in the embryonic stage and that at this point means might be devised for breaking up a brewing storm or changing its course away from land areas.

Funeral Today For Actor Jeff Chandler

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jeff Chandler had been gravely ill for weeks but Hollywood still found it difficult to believe today that the rugged movie hero was dead at the age of 42.

"We all thought he was getting better," said a close friend. "Just a few days ago he was griping. That's always a sure sign of recovery."

"I just can't believe it," said another friend, actor Tony Curtis. Chandler died Saturday of a generalized blood infection complicated by pneumonia. The complications developed after relatively "minor" surgery was performed May 13 to correct a slipped spinal disc.

Chandler suffered internal hemorrhages and infections following the surgery. He was given 55 pints of blood by transfusion during one emergency operation for a ruptured artery which lasted 7½ hours.

"But he got through that okay," said a friend. "All of us thought that anyone who could get

Eight Die When Two Cars Crash

APPOMATTOX, Va. (AP)—An automobile bearing a family of five on a Sunday outing and another with six teen-agers picnicking slammed together head-on near this historic village Sunday. Eight persons died.

Only three of the teen-agers survived the shattering collision which, police said, occurred as the youths' car tried to pass an auto on the rising slope of a two-lane highway and piled into another car at the crest of the hill.

Wiped out in the crash was the family of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hensley of Pamplin, Va. The Hensleys and their daughter Sheila, 7, were killed outright. Two step-daughters, Patricia White, 16, and Kaye White, 13, died within a few hours.

Two girls in the teen-agers' car, Jane Southall, 16, and her sister, Cornelia, 19, both of Farmville, Va., died instantly. A third youth, Edward Williams, 16, of Pamplin, died later in a Lynchburg hospital.

Injured and in fair condition were Penny Southall, 18, of Farmville, Gerald Prince, 19, and Roger Davis, 17, both of Pamplin.

Police said Price was the driver of one car and Mrs. Hensley the operator of the other.

For Most Part, Summer TV Is A Twice-Told Tale

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP-TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Book publishers have a category which they call "light summer reading." Perhaps as time goes on, television will be able to figure out some type of special light programs designed for warm weather viewing.

There is now the Ed Sullivan Show, a vaudeville which is not very demanding. There will be a couple of musical shows coming in, the Glenn Miller band being one of them, and at least two new whodunits bowing in too. But for the most part, summer in television is a long, twice-told tale.

Adlai Encounters A Difficult Role

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson today faced one of the most difficult parts of his South American mission as he began talks with President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra, an outspoken critic of the United States, and other Ecuadorean officials.

Along with the expected request for U.S. financial aid, Velasco Ibarra was certain to raise the burning local issue of Ecuador's border dispute with Peru.

A 1942 treaty awarded the major portion of the disputed Amazon headwaters area to Peru and designated the United States, Argentina, Brazil and Chile as guarantors. Velasco Ibarra after taking office said the treaty was invalid, claiming Ecuador had signed under duress, but four guarantors have refused to back him.

Velasco Ibarra also had expressed strong sympathy for Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba and has taken a determined stand against intervention of any kind in the affairs of other countries. A few hours before Stevenson arrived, Vice President Carlos Julio Arosemena and six legislators left to visit the Soviet Union.

Despite the political differences, Stevenson on his arrival from Peru Sunday got the most enthusiastic reception of his tour.

Revenooers Eye Gamblers, Too

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Revenooers, they're everywhere. Like at Harold's Gambling Club in Reno.

Lonnie Joe Chadwick had $18,000 in chips stacked on a blackjack table. As he sat and pondered, Internal Revenue agents seized his chips.

"I'll sue," cried Lonnie Joe.

"I've got nothing to lose," said Dalton Davis, head of Reno revenooers. "We've got the money."

"We won't cash 'em," Harold's shot back, "pending settlement of ownership," although the chips normally are cashable at any time.

The government earlier had filed a $100,000 levy with the club against Chadwick's reported winnings.

"Foul," said Harold's, adding, "with the wisdom of the ages, 'How do they know he'll finish ahead?'"

Moonshiners Are Becoming Mobile

CAIRO, Ga. (AP)—Moonshiners have taken to the road in this south Georgia area.

Grady County Sheriff James T. Hicks says their latest trick is to mount a still on a flat-bed truck and hook up to the gas and water lines of a farm home. It takes only a few seconds to unhook the connections and speed off.

Within the past few days, two mobile distilleries have been captured. One had a capacity of 200-300 gallons, carried its own mash, which was ready for cooking, and was mounted on the back of a two-ton truck.

The moonshiners hide their mobile equipment in nearby swamps during the daytime, the sheriff's office said.

FATHERS: FAMILY SECURITY CHECK-UP

Just as you need a physical check-up, you need a financial check-up... there is no obligation—except to those you love!

Every year, millions of fathers have health check-ups. Yet, millions of fathers don't check up on their family's financial health.

Metropolitan's Family Security Check-Up is a service which lets you do just that. It is a service which can bring you new information and correct mistakes.

service makes sense. Remember, Metropolitan is as local as Main Street—as close as your phone. Call your Metropolitan man today.

There is no obligation—except to those you love.

What you could lose without one

There are mistakes, oversights, gaps in the average man's financial security program. Too much of it is haphazard. Too much of it is left to chance. It lacks a plan. Or, too often, it simply falls behind the times.

For example, the Social Security law has been changed nine times since its inception. And the Social Security benefits your wife and children could get may not dovetail efficiently with your pension or insurance programs. Then too—you can unintentionally "disinherit" a child, in effect, if you have overlooked naming him among your beneficiaries.

More than an interview—a service

Metropolitan, the Company you look to for authoritative information on physical health, offers a way to check up on your family's financial health.

Metropolitan representatives have been trained in Metropolitan's own schools and are qualified by solid experience to bring you this Family Security Check-Up service. They are equipped with businesslike charts and tables that show you exactly where you stand.

Whether you need insurance or not, this

Family Security Check-Up

WHAT IT IS AND WHAT IT DOES FOR YOU

With the help of your Metropolitan man

1. You check the facts: your Social Security, your home, your life insurance, your pension plan, your savings and other assets. You may be surprised to learn how much you're worth.
2. You weigh your responsibilities: mortgage or rent payments, education, retirement, accident and sickness emergencies; how much it would cost your family to live without you.
3. You learn where you stand. You determine your weak and strong points... whether the provisions you have made for your family will do what you intend. You get the facts in front of you.
4. You plan for the future. Based on these facts, you decide what action, if any, may be needed to give you a family security plan, tailor-made to your own needs and ambitions—one which makes good sense for you.

"We are living in an era of great danger, of vast peril," intoned an intense preacher-physician in a speech to the Texas Legislature.

"The disease of communism is making fast, epidemic progress. We are confronted with the probability that within a generation it will have consumed the entire earth."

In South Carolina, a churchman thundered to an attentive gathering:

"God made the white man. God made the black man. Who made the mulatto? He is the work of Satan. You can't mistreat the Negro, but you can't allow him to be pushed on by godless communism to destroy our country."

At a rally in New York a frail-looking Negro in a pillbox hat shouted above his cheering, stamping audience of 5,000:

"I am here to teach you how to be free, yes free from the white man's yoke. We want unity of all darker people on the earth, then we will be masters of the United States and we are going to treat the white man the way he should be treated."

Alarms like this emanate from the far fringes of the body politic, mostly from the right, some from the left.

Why the intensified activity in recent years, especially by militants who ride to the battle cry of individualism and find comfort and purpose in such organizations as the John Birch Society?

Historically, whenever periods of sharp tension have gripped the country, extreme reactions of one type or another have resulted on the further shores of political life. If they have seldom shifted the center of gravity represented by the major parties, they've certainly produced much sound and fury.

At present, according to one study, there are about 1,000 voluntary organizations on the right alone busily plunging "their causes through literature, lectures, and the like."

Only about 5 per cent could be regarded as extremist. Their programs overlap on some principles differ on others. But the hard core has similarities which offer sociologists clues to the factors behind today's resurgent militancy.

They find two main ones:

1. The cold war and the advance of communism in the world.
2. Domestic stresses such as integration, high taxes, big capital and big labor.

The first affects all but the most apathetic American, though some see less immediate danger in communism's advances than others. The second affects a relative few strongly, but the more beleaguered a person feels under such pressures the more readily is he recruited to right-wing militancy.

Prof. L. M. Lipset, a Yale sociologist who has studied the phenomenon, explains:

"For the first time in our history, our country is taking some real and symbolical lickings."

"To a people educated from childhood that America is first and best and strongest and smartest, even a Russian victory in the Olympics is hard to swallow."

"We see these people who adhere to a political system we are convinced means their enslavement attracting followers throughout the world, making us take second place in space, embarrassing us at every turn."

"The reaction is to square your shoulders and say, 'What can I personally do about it?'"

Lipset says this accounts for easy recruitment by extremist groups—and also explains part of the immediate initial enthusiasm for President Kennedy's Peace Corps. Strong emotional reaction to Communist gains doesn't necessarily put a person in the camp of the conservative militants.

It takes other pressure to complete the job.

In analyzing the leadership of right-wing activist groups, Lipset says, he found a significant number of executives from middle-sized companies which represented the biggest firms in medium-sized communities.

Typical, he says, would be the head of such a company in perhaps a midwestern city of 100,000. "He's a self-made man, who built the business from scratch. And now that he's got it, he finds he cannot do with it what he wants," Lipset says.

"He meets pressure in every direction. The labor union takes an increasing amount in taxes, even the giant corporations apply pressure from the top."

"He feels his individual liberty is being abused, his free enterprise checked. He complains this is not the American way."

"Communism represents the ultimate in restriction of personal freedom. So it requires only a short step for this man to conclude a Communist conspiracy is working against him. Result: he joins the local action group to fight it."

Pronouncements of various rightist groups, often embody such attitudes.

Clarence Manion of South Bend, Ind., head of the Manion Forum, refers to labor union leaders as czars and inveighs against "the Marxist federal income tax."

The Rev. Joseph Fitzpatrick, S. J., head of the Sociology department at Fordham University, offers this picture of a representative conservative militant:

"You'll find he's a member of the upper middle class struggling to arrive at the top. But the forces holding him back are too big and well-organized."

"He's the one remaining unorganized American, convinced if everyone would go it alone, he could make it to the top."

Such men, says Father Fitzpatrick, recognize communism as the ultimate in organization—and line up on the extreme opposite side.

The Jesuit sociologist considers that this domestic pressure distinguishes today's militant anti-Communists from those of the McCarthy era. The late Wisconsin senator, Joseph R. McCarthy, and his followers, Father Fitzpatrick says, "were motivated by international setbacks. He set out to expose Communists, but opposition to big government or big labor was secondary."

Today's militants, on the other hand, emphasize advocacy of laissez faire government.

Robert Welch, founder and leader of the controversial John Birch Society, defines its chief aim: "To bring about a world in which there is more individual responsibility and less government."

"To accomplish those purposes," he has said, "obviously we've got to stop the Communists because they're increasingly trying to impose more government and less responsibility on everybody." But "our fighting the Communists—as important as it is and as much as it's occupying our time — is incidental to our basic purpose."

The best way to accomplish this, according to Welch and other militants, is to abandon our present form of government and return to a "constitutional republic" he claims our forefathers intended.

"A democracy is the worst of all forms of government and a constitutional republic is the best of all forms," Welch insists. In his "constitutional republic" things couldn't be changed "just on a sudden minority whim. There are protections for minorities, for traditions and customs . . ."

This fundamental objection to interference with individual liberty, as they define it, attracts flank militants of the far right: religious fundamentalists, irritated by the "social gospel" of some of their fellow churchmen, are sometimes found in this camp.

The American Council of Christian Laymen, for example, distributes a leaflet entitled, "Jesus: a Capitalist." It describes how "Jesus worked with his father in the construction business" at a time when "there was no labor union to meddle with prices and wages."

The Rev. Carl McIntire of the International Council of Christian Churches, a relatively small fundamentalist group, concentrates on accusing the major churches of Communist leanings in his weekly "Christian Beacon."

McIntire finds Communist influences galore in the National and World Council of Churches. Other groups devote their efforts specifically to Communist-hunting gnawing at America's vitals.

among the pulpits, notably the Church League of America and the Circuit Riders, Inc., which publishes bulky lists of clergymen of various denominations with names of organizations they have associated with, petition they may have signed, "plus hundreds of other pro-Communist enterprises."

And so these, and many other groups, today find their principal enemy in one source: communism.

Not primarily the communists that send guns to Laos and air rifles to Viet Nam, but a sinister conspiratorial communism and its "dupes" which they perceive specifically to Communist-hunting gnawing at America's vitals.

West Stars Take Two Of Three-Game Series Here

By LEONARD LAO

Reflector Sports Writer
GUY SMITH STADIUM—The West All-Stars, after taking a 6-5 win over the East high school stars on Friday night, split a doubleheader with the easterners Saturday night, winning the first game by a 6-4 margin and dropping the nightcap by a 9-7 score to capture the two-out-of-three series.

Jerry Mave, a southpaw from Garinger High School, got credit for the win in the Saturday night opener, handling the West mound chores for two and one-third innings. The losing pitcher was Ronnie Caulder of Laurel Hill.

The East-All Stars jumped out in the first inning with a one-run lead on a single by shortstop Carlton Barnes of Wilson and a double by Bonnie Stephanson of Robersonville, scoring Barnes from second.

The westerners tied the score at 1-1 in the second, then pushed another tally across in the third and were never headed after that.

Dave Morgan of Greensboro led off the second frame with a solo home run, clearing the left field fence with room to spare to knot the count. In the third inning, Travis Ashby of Walkertown got things started, drawing a base on balls off East pitcher, Caulder. Joe White, the West's starting pitcher, singled to move Ashby into scoring position. Another single, this one an infield hit by Martin Smith, shortstop from Asheboro, loaded the bases with only one out. Gary Black, Garinger second sacker, sent a sacrifice fly to left field, scoring Ashby from third.

The winners added another run in the fourth on four free passes to stretch the lead to 3-1.

Another solo homer in the fifth, this one by Jerry Morris of Kings Mountain gave the westerners another tally.

The East All-Stars, after giving up two more runs to the westerners in the top half of the sixth, fought back in their half of the same inning. Keith Sawyer, who was now handling the mound chores for the East stars, reached base on an error by West first baseman, Wayne Carlyle of Glenn. A walk moved Sawyer into scoring position, and

The East All-Stars, after giving up two more runs to the westerners in the top half of the sixth frame, fought back in their half of the same inning. Third baseman Toby Sandlin of Wilmington led off with a single. A free pass to Stephanson moved Sandlin to second, and Mickey Wade of Massey Hill singled him across the plate with the second East run of the night. Harper Ruff, a catcher from Oxford, reached first on a fielder's choice when Stephanson was cut off at the plate with the first out. A single by Sterling Coward, also of Wilmington, scored Wade from second, then Ruff scored from third on a wild pitch from Ronnie Hovis, who had relieved Mave after Coward's single.

The easterners had pushed across three runs, but it was two short of the number they needed to go ahead of the winners.

The leaders at the plate for the West All-Stars in the opener were Morgan with a pair of hits in four trips to the plate and three runs batted in, and Smith, also with two hits in four at-bats and one run batted in.

The East stars fought back in the second game, tallying all nine of their runs in the first three innings.

A pair of walks and a single accounted for two runs in the first frame. After Verilyn Bunce of Stedman and Barnes had drawn walks, Wade singled to score both baserunners.

The winners had their big inning in the second, pushing across five big runs with the help of four free passes and a West miscue. Getting the hits in the up-inning were Barnes and Sandlin.

In the East third, a single sandwiched between two West errors and a walk accounted for the final two East runs of the series. Getting the hit for the winners was Terry Newell of Rocky Mount.

The West stars tallied a pair of runs in the second, two more in the fifth, and came within a hair of pulling out their third win in the sixth inning.

David Kemp of High Point started things off with a single to left. After a strikeout by Ervin Byrd of Greensboro, Mave singled. Then two East miscues produced a pair of West runs and Don Dixon of Bessemer singled across the third of the inning and the seventh West run.

Indict Two More In Cage Scandals

NEW YORK (AP)—Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan announced today indictments against two more figures in the college basketball scandal, including a Boston gambler known as the "Bankroller," for five point-fixing deals last season.

Hogan said both men were fugitives and that the police had been asked to broadcast nationwide alarms for their arrest.

He identified them as Philip Lacort, 35, of Boston, and Joseph Green, 31, whose last known address was 2307 Tibout Ave., the Bronx.

Hogan said Lacort was well known in New England gambling circles and operated on the "syndicate level."

Olympics Body Is Planning '64 Games

ATHENS (AP)—The International Olympic Committee (IOC) convened today for three days of crucial meetings on the program of the 1964 games and the future of the committee itself in this cold war era.

IOC president, predicted "great success" for the gathering.

Forty-five members of the 67-member IOC are in Athens for the annual session, which could be one of the most important since revival of the Olympic Games in the last century.

Russia is seeking a drastic revision of the committee, claiming it should be "democratized."

Some IOC members, concerned at political attempts to use the games for propaganda purposes, are trying to revise some ceremonies to minimize nationalist aspects.

Before the meeting started, Brundage expressed optimism, saying discussions in preliminary meetings last week were in a "true sporting spirit."

Since last Thursday, the IOC executive board has been hearing the views of various international sports federations and national olympic committees.

The IOC faces a tough list of problems concerning both its own internal organization and 1964's summer games in Tokyo and winter games in Innsbruck, Austria.

Russia is demanding IOC membership for all presidents of international sports federations and national committees. Such a proposal, if adopted, would revolutionize the olympic committee from a body of 67 members chosen for life to a body of more than 200, with the majority ex officio members.

Western delegates claimed the Russians were seeking to pack the committee and destroy its independence.

But new ideas were coming not from the Russians alone. One proposal before the IOC would eliminate the raising of national flags and the playing of national anthems at ceremonies in which medals are presented to winners after each competition.

DONALD BARR CHIDSEY'S New Historical Entertainment THE WICKEDEST PILGRIM

CHAPTER 26 It was humiliating. The last of the Pilgrims' beer had been drunk more than a month ago, and they had been subsisting and even thriving, on spring water. They could hardly believe this themselves, and they could not explain it to the visitor, who clearly expected more cheer from Englishmen.

They did this, it could be with unbending eagerness. They brought biscuit, butter, cheese, even a pudding, even a piece of duck, which he wolfed, beaming. Afterward Samoset tried the Geneva water again.

and forth, delighted with the cloak. He might well have been, for it was meant for a king. Some time ago the settlers had decided that they would trim it with frogery and drape it across the shoulders of the first monarch they should meet among the American savages, as an opening move of conciliation. This trimming, this decoration, was yet another of the tasks that they had intended to do during the voyage, and that it was not done was due to the same reason of stowage: the coat had been in the place, the braid in another, where until well after the anchoring nobody could find it. Since then there had been no chance to work on the cloak, which remained bare.

Wholesale Booze Base Ambushed Hear Many Cases In Pitt County Court

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Officers lay in wait at an abandoned farmhouse near here late Friday night and Saturday and picked up 13 men as load after load of moonshine whisky was delivered. The crackdown on wholesalers of illicit whisky also resulted in two arrests in Ohio and 15 in South Carolina. The arrests climaxed a long undercover investigation which also resulted in confiscation of eight cars, a truck, and moonshine by the gallons. Federal whisky charges were filed against the defendants. Chief Henry Severs of the Mecklenburg County Alcoholic Beverage Control Board said that agents posed as local retailers to set the stage for the arrests. He borrowed the farmhouse near the South Carolina state line and for a period of time wholesalers in Ohio and South Carolina made deliveries there. "After the initial contact, our problem was not getting more whisky, but how to slow the shipments without arousing suspicion. We were running out of places to put it." At one time, the Ohio suppliers sent a load of more than 200 gallons to the undercover agents. When the county officers and agents of the federal Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division were ready to crack down, they put in more orders and waited for the arrival. About every four hours, a vehicle pulled in to unload and the agents closed in.

These shores. It might have been smallpox, with which the settlers were acquainted. They could not be sure of this from Samoset's description, but certainly it had not been their own waning sickness, being much more virulent. Up and down the coast and far inland as well it had struck, and tribe after tribe had been decimated, quartered, halved—even, like the Pokanokets, wiped out.

It had been worst of all here, at Patuxet. Samoset told them. Even the murderous Mohawks, who used to roam through this part of New England at will, no longer ventured so far east. It wasn't worth while to plunder a desolated land, and the Mohawks saw no reason to raid when there was no chance of tribute. Many of the tribes or sub-tribes, weakened to the point of helplessness, had combined with others, making free of one another's territory in a agonizing attempt to stay alive; but nobody would come here to Patuxet, to occupy the land that the Pokanokets had left, for they were afraid even to set foot upon it. The colonists believed that Samoset was trying to tell them that the surrounding savages thought this was the place where Death was buried. But lightly buried? The grave was not deep, and Death might rise from it at any time and ravage the land yet again. The surrounding Indians are ready to make bloody war on the invaders, the Pilgrims are going to find out quickly. Continue the story tomorrow.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Jerry Newton, 12, used his head to get his pop a Father's Day gift. His mother almost cried Saturday when she saw the haircut she thought he had paid $150 for. "Uh, I went to the barber school and got it for 75 cents," Jerry said. "Looks like he did it himself," said Jerry's older sister. Then Jerry confessed. He had cut his own hair and used the money to buy his father a gift—a shining can opener for Newton's fishing cabin.

LAUREL, Miss. (AP)—Round-the-clock work continued today to restore service of a 36-inch gas pipeline which exploded injuring 10 persons. The blast Sunday threw pieces of pipe 200 yards and ripped a hole in the ground 30 feet long and 20 feet deep. Fire destroyed one home and an auto and damaged another car as flames shot 1,000 feet into the air. For two hours a light rain sizzled around the crater like water spilled on a huge hotplate. Tomatoes were boiled and corn was withered in a nearby field. Despite the explosion, service on the Transcontinental Pipeline Co. line continued. Two other lines, one a 30-inch and another 36-inch, kept pumping eastward through the Centreville community about 14 miles west of Laurel. In Baton Rouge, La., E. E. Holden, division superintendent for Transcontinental, said the cause of the blast was undetermined. Of the 10 injured, only three remained in hospitals. J. A. Ezell, his wife, and a son, Steven, 2, suffered serious burns when the Ezell home was destroyed by fire.

PARKING PROMOTION

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The city government jumped on the sales promotion bandwagon when a new municipal parking ramp was opened. Two thousand helium-filled balloons were released, each carrying a tag good for two hours of free parking within 60 days.

The Farm Scene

By S. C. WINCHESTER
Pitt County Agent

Grade A Management is the terminology given to top notch management of farm enterprises. This Grade A Management covers a multiplicity of good management features including the following and many others:

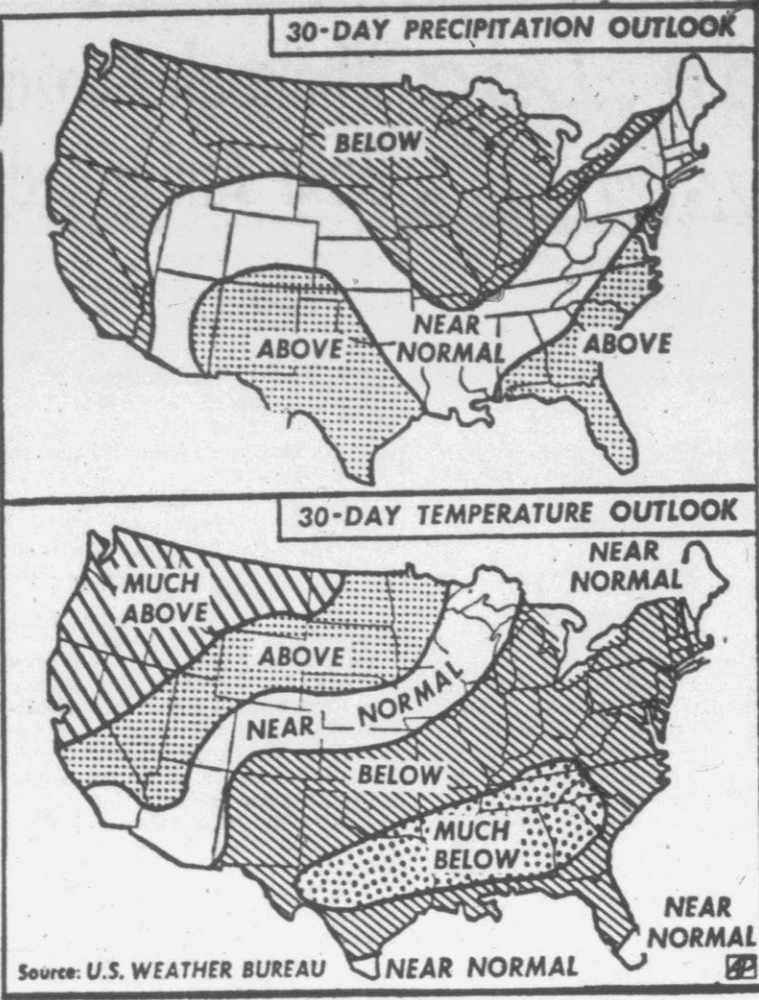

1. Soil Test — to determine first of all what a particular soil contains from the standpoint of plant foods, secondly to determine the soil needs for lime, and third to provide a basis for recommendation of applications of lime and fertilizer nutrients.
2. Adequate plant food — The Grade A Manager will provide adequate plant food for the crop being grown immediately and some extra to be sure there is plant food elements available to the point of slight luxury consumption at all times. The immediate return on the fertilizer investment is important, but the better farmers are interested in long returns over the years, therefore they will build a fertilizer reserve in the soil.
3. Placement — of fertilizer is important. To place fertilizer in the area of the soil where roots can do their most efficient feeding and not concentrated on the seed zone or in the area where transplants are placed where heavy concentrations of fertilizer elements could burn the young seedlings.
4. Variety — Select varieties for top quality — top yields — consumer preferences.
5. Stand — Secure good uniform stand. Many losses have been experienced by most growers resulting from poor stands.
6. Drainage — Most farm crops cannot produce to their maximum in a partially waterlogged soil. Many plants — corn, cotton, tobacco, Peas, and others, will send roots deep into well drained soils for optimum usage of a deep wide root zone area.
7. Pest Control — The American farmer has at least four major ills to face. Soil erosion, weeds, insects, diseases. Control these pests for top yields.
8. Harvesting — Marketing — Practice superior packaging, better displaying, proper grading, and orderly marketing for top prices for your product.
9. Timeliness — In all things from making plans for the years to the winding up of the years work and studying your records to see what and where improvements can be made.

The Grade "A" farm manager will be in business and making a large net return over the years whereas Grade B and C might be just hanging on. If a growers management grade is below this, possibly Grade D or E, he has two choices (1) improve his management, or (2) move to some other type operation.

An example of what Grade "A" management can mean in dollars could be taken from a swine feeding operation. Records indicate that with average management a grower could feed 100 hogs from 40 to 200 pounds on a feeding floor and repeat this three more times during a year. With an average feed conversion of 4 to 1 he could expect to have a labor income of $2,000.

With Grade "A" management he could expect a feed conversion of 2.5 to 1 and add $600 to the above figure.

With below average management you would expect a feed conversion of near 4.5 to 1 in which case you would deduct $600.00 from the $2,000.00. This shows a difference of $1,380.00 in favor of Grade "A" management in comparison to poor management.

Tobacco

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Each year the stored tobacco moth larvae causes considerable damage to stored tobacco on many farms throughout the country. Since sanitation is one of the best methods of controlling this pest the pack houses should be thoroughly cleaned before storing the 1961 crop of tobacco.

It is best to clean the pack house as soon as all tobacco of a current year is sold. However if you have not already cleaned your pack house, it should be cleaned immediately. When cleaning the pack house all scrap tobacco and refuse should be burned. All slats or boards tacked to the wall should be removed in the cleaning process.

If the pack house was cleaned in the fall and grain or fertilizer was stored in it during the winter and spring months it should be thoroughly cleaned again now before the 1961 crop is stored.

The walls and floors should be sprayed heavily with a 5 percent solution of DDT one month prior to storing of this year's crop. A 5 percent DDT solution can be made by mixing 2 quarts of 50 percent DDT with 5 gallons of water.

If the bulks of tobacco are covered with a good grade of plant bed cloth free from holes, you can expect some protection against this serious pest of cured tobacco. Some farmers have used plastic covers which were used when treating their plant beds with methyl bromide, to cover the bulked tobacco.

Each year the stored tobacco moth larvae causes considerable damage to stored tobacco on many farms throughout the

Counterfeit Tickets Help Set Off Excursion Riot

NEW YORK (AP)—What started as a Hudson River excursion by 3,000 Harlemites turned into a riot Sunday when 1,000 holders of counterfeit tickets showed up at the pier.

More than 60 persons fainted or were trampled in a rush to board the excursion boat, the Hudson Belle.

The trip upriver to Bear Mountain, was planned as an annual Father's Day event for the Negro residents of Harlem. At the scheduled hour of departure, 9 a.m., the 134th St. pier was swarming with people in a holiday mood.

Too many people, in fact. Among the 4,000 were the 1,000 unwitting holders of counterfeit tickets.

The Hudson Belle was still at the Wilson Line's pier in Jersey City, N.J., delayed by a 200-man picket line of the National Maritime Union.

When the Hudson Belle shoved off an hour late to pick up the excursionists in Manhattan, a picket boat tailed along, with 11 jeering seamen in the bow.

On the pier, the excursionists became increasingly excited as word spread among them that some were holders of bogus $3 tickets.

Police officers were on hand when the Hudson Belle dropped her gangplank. The throng surged forward and the rioting began. Nine persons were carried off to a hospital. At least 50 more were treated at the pier.

Small fires, apparently from cigarettes, began to smoulder on pier timbers. An additional 100 policemen were called in to aid in controlling the mob.

About 2,500 managed to fight their way aboard the rocking vessel. But Capt. George Barrey cancelled the trip and ordered them off. As they left, they hurled beer cans, bottles and insults at the pickets who backed their boat out of range.

Ten members of the National Maritime Union were arrested two blocks from the pier after a fight with two members of the Hudson Belle crew.

Police announced later they had arrested three youths they said admitted counterfeiting the 1,000 extra tickets.

The installation will be held during Post 39's regular monthly dinner meeting.

Greenville Masons Honor Widows And Past Masters In Sunday Affair

On Sunday afternoon, Greenville Lodge No. 284 honored Past Masters and Masonic widows at a party at the Masonic Temple. It was the first time the lodge had undertaken an event of this kind.

Guests were greeted at the door and shown into the dining room, where a short program was held. The Rev. Henry Melvin rendered several selections on the piano. The remainder of the program consisted of a prayer and several readings.

Widows were recognized and presented corsages by the Master, who also recognized Past masters and stated that the lodge was presenting certificates to the 27 living Past Masters. He then presented certificates to the 15 Past Masters who were present.

Following the benediction, refreshments were served. Mrs. George Smith, presiding over the refreshment table, poured punch. She was assisted in serving by several other members of the Eastern Star. The parlors, hall and dining room were decorated with a variety of summer flowers for the party.

Josh Cody Dies Of Heart Attack

MOUNT LAUREL, N.J. (AP) — Josh Cody, who served as head football and basketball coach at Clemson College during his 40-year career as coach and athletic administrator, died Sunday night of a heart attack. He was 69.

Death came to Cody, whose last post was athletic director at Temple University in Philadelphia, at the home of his son, Ernest. His widow, Elsa, found him slumped over on the steps of the son's home, which was adjacent to Cody's 100-acre farm in this small southern New Jersey community.

Cody, a native of Franklin, Tenn., was named Joshua Crittenden Cody at birth but everyone called him Josh. He came to Temple in 1940 as a line coach of the football team. He was appointed head basketball coach at Temple in 1942 and held that post until he became athletic director in 1952.

In June of 1959 Cody retired as athletic director at Temple at the age of 67. His retirement ended a career during which he held various posts at Mercer University, Vanderbilt, Clemson and the University of Florida in addition to Temple.

As a 220-pound tackle at Vanderbilt, he was considered one of the greatest linemen in the South. Three years he was named All-Southern tackle. In addition he starred in basketball, baseball and track.

Cody started his coaching career at Mercer University in Macon, Ga., in 1920 as coach of all sports and athletic director.

In 1923 Cody came back to Vanderbilt as head basketball and baseball coach and assistant in other sports. He left Vanderbilt in 1927 to take over as head football and basketball coach at Clemson.

After five years at Clemson, Cody returned to Vanderbilt in 1931 with the same duties he had during his first stay there. In 1936 he was named director of athletics and head football coach at the University of Florida and held this post until coming to Temple.

ECC Coed Dies Of Bullet Wound; Youth Is Charged

KERNERSVILLE (AP) — A 20-year-old East Carolina College student was killed by a .38 calibre bullet at a drive-in theatre here Saturday night.

The girl was identified as Sandra Louise Carter of Kernersville, Star Route. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Carter.

A 17-year-old youth, William Randolph Crawford of Winston-Salem, was being held Sunday without privilege of bond on a murder charge in connection with the death.

Crawford told officers he was toying with a .38 calibre pistol when he accidentally discharged while he and the girl were watching a movie at the Starlight Drive-In Theatre.

Attendees at the theatre concession stand said the youth rushed in and told them he had shot his date accidentally. The girl was dead on arrival at City Memorial Hospital in Winston-Salem.

Crawford was quoted as saying that he had done some target shooting earlier in the day and had only one bullet left which he was saving as a souvenir.

The attendants said the girl had come to the concession stand earlier and made a telephone call apparently to tell her family where she was.

Crawford told officers that earlier in the day he and Miss Carter along with a girl friend of hers, had bought ten shells for the pistol to do some target shooting. He said they used all but one of the shells, which he said, he wanted to keep as a souvenir.

After the target shooting, the two girls let Crawford out of Miss Carter's car at Kernersville. Miss Carter returned later and picked him up, Crawford said.

They went to the drive-in. He was playing with the gun, he said, with the last shell in it, when it fired.
