County Commissioners Adopt Budget Of $1,765,439

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer Pitt County's tax rate inched upward to $1.25 per $100 valuation yesterday as the County Commissioners adopted a two-cent increase and a fiscal 1961-62 budget of $1,765,439.

According to Chairman of the Commissioners Robert G. Little the board had tentatively held the rate constant at $1.23 in earlier preliminary budget study sessions. Saturday's bond election vote, however, prompted the two-cent hike, Little said. The additional two-cent levy will raise approximately $15,200 in ad valorem revenue to pay interest that will come due on the $395,000 in bonds before fiscal 1962-63.

Working with a 1961 tax assessment valuation of $85,530,000 the commissioners counted an estimated $31,000 more in ad valorem revenue because of the increased valuation. Last year's valuation for tax purposes was approximately $83,176,000. The $1,765,439 represents a fiscal year well above the county's budget for fiscal 1960-61. For the fiscal year ending June 30, the commissioners appropriated $1,655,148, increased by $130,000, the county's budget includes funds for 10 new employees, two new vehicles, administration of the surplus foods program, revaluation due in 1965 and payment of interest on the industrial school bonds.

In addition to the new additions to the budget, the commissioners granted salary raises for county employees that ranged almost across the board. No pay increases were included in the 1960-61 list of appropriations. General Fund spending for fiscal 1961-62 was approved at $408,341 compared with $364,172 a year ago. Included in added General Fund appropriations are funds for two more tax department employees, a secretary for the county Social Security program, at least two more deputies for the Sheriff's Department and chairs for the Grand Jury Room.

As in the past, a lion's share of Pitt's appropriations will go to the county schools system. However, the new request—approved unaltered by the commissioners—of $621,946.17 dipped below last year's school grant of $632,608.85. A drop of $33,000 in the capital improvements appropriation more than offset a current expense budget rise. Of the $621,946.17, a total of $146,000 of county-wide school funds is slated for transfer to the Greenville School District, leaving $475,946.17 for current and calendar year expenses in the county school system during fiscal 1961-62.

Of that total, $358,946.17 was appropriated for current expense. The capital outlay budget was approved at $117,000 for the county schools. The commissioners agreed to pay the share of the budget set aside for revaluation that comes due in Pitt County in 1965. Two cents of the $1.25 rate was earmarked for revaluation, adding $15,791.41 to the $7,872 collected for that purpose this fiscal year. Estimates for the cost of the 1965 operation have run around $75,000 to $85,000. Revaluation is required and calendared by state law. Distribution of the new tax rate among the various funds to provide ad valorem revenues—the bulk of county operating income—is being computed by County Auditor H. Reginald Gray.

Other increases in the new budget include hikes in the Hospital Fund, Welfare Administration, Outside Poor and Relief, Health Department, Debt Service and Development Commission. Reductions were affected in the budgets for Mental Health, the County Home and Old Age Assistance. Fluctuations in the other funds are minor. Ad valorem revenue from the new rate is estimated at around $950,000. Income from the county's ABC stores was estimated at around $130,000. Prior year taxes, fees and miscellaneous revenues will be depended upon to provide the bulk of the remaining estimated revenue. Fiscal 1961-62 appropriations for various departments (with last year's figures in parentheses) include: General Fund—$408,341 ($364,172); Revaluation—$15,791.41 ($7,872); Hospital Fund—$42,528.75 ($29,930.99); Industrial Development—$25,446.45 ($22,817).

County Home—$30,022 ($31,193.34); Outside Poor and Relief—$66,655 ($61,004.99); Aid to Blind—$13,346 ($12,870); Aid to Dependent Children—$23,400 ($24,843.55); Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled—$23,616 ($23,990.90); Welfare Administration—$120,763.36 ($93,988.02); Old Age Assistance—$46,818 ($47,820.54); Health Department—$131,619.96 ($151,516); Mental Health—$43,715 ($49,210); Dog Fund—$13,918 ($13,773); Debt Service—$137,515.34 ($123,201.73); Schools, current expense—$454,946.17 ($431,674.97); capital outlay—$167,000 ($200,033.88).

Move To Let Legislators Set Own Pay Is Scuttled

WASHINGTON (AP)—Japanese Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda received a ceremonial welcome to Washington today and almost immediately opened three days of important conferences with President Kennedy. The pro-Western Japanese leader flew in from Los Angeles aboard the President's official plane. He was greeted at the airport by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, with full military honors.

Accompanied by Rusk, he led a motorcade along the Potomac River and through Pennsylvania Avenue to the government's guest house diagonally across the street from the White House. Within minutes he crossed that street to begin the series of conferences. Rusk told newsmen after the initial conference that there was a general review of the world situation but no technical questions regarding trade and textiles were discussed.

The President and Ikeda, he said, had a very interesting and important talk which covered Kennedy's meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev and the Chinese Communist situation. Ikeda broke Japanese tradition by bringing his wife along on the official visit. The vice president expressed the hope that by working together, "We can enhance the prospect for greater levels of prosperity for both nations" and "promote among the nations of the world intelligent commerce and mutual understanding."

Military Needs Worry Strikers

NEW YORK (AP)—Unions in the national maritime strike, already in stormy seas in negotiations with company representatives, now are finding rough waters in relations with each other. Important military cargoes appeared today as a dividing element as the paralyzing walkout increased its grip on the nation's shipping as well as industrial concerns ashore. Slightly more than 100 ships—about one tenth of the nation's merchant fleet—lay immobilized in more than 30 ports on the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coasts as the strike entered its fifth day without indications of an early settlement.

Air-Conditioning Of Library Soon Ready For Use

Members of the Sheppard Memorial Library Board were told last night that air conditioning on the main floor of the library will be ready to be turned on by the end of this week. Utilities Director L.P. Bloxam and Phil Moore of Coastal Refrigeration Co., of Greenville appeared as special guests at the regular meeting held at the library. They explained the process of installing the new heating and cooling plant at the library and told the board approximately when the work will be completed. Coastal Refrigeration holds the contract for the work, which will total some $14,000. In addition to completing work on the main floor by the end of this week, Moore and Bloxam told the board that workmen would get to the second floor next week and that the heating process would be completed later.

Castro Offered 500 Farm Tractors As Full Ransom

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—Cuba's Fidel Castro has until noon Friday to decide whether he'll accept 500 farm-type tractors as full ransom for 1,214 April invasion prisoners. Otherwise, any deal is off. That was the Tractors-for-Freedom Committee's answer Monday night to the Cuban prime minister's revised demand for $28-million worth of tractors, if he doesn't get the 500 heavy-duty types he says he had in mind originally.

In a take-it-or-leave-it cable, the committee told Castro it was prepared to ship only agricultural tractors and only 500 of them "for the two-fold humanitarian purpose" of freeing prisoners and helping Cubans win higher living standards. Castro broached the tractors for prisoners deal in a television speech May 17. With White House approval, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, Eleanor Roosevelt and Walter P. Reuther formed a co-chairmen Tractors-for-Freedom Committee to raise money for 500 tractors. Dr. Eisenhower is an educator and a brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Mrs. Roosevelt is the widow of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Reuther is president of the United Auto Workers Union. Castro told a team of four American technicians—the committee sent to negotiate last week that he had in mind heavy-duty bulldozer-type tractors when he mentioned 500 in his speech. He said Cuba wanted $28 million for indemnification, in tractors or otherwise.

Disagreements On Disarmament Expected Early

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union may run head-on into disagreement today as they go into the second round of talks aimed at reopening disarmament negotiations. The problem is who should be invited to the conference, tentatively scheduled to open July 31. That's the chief issue expected to be taken up by John H. McCloy, President Kennedy's adviser on disarmament, and Valerin A. Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister.

The first meeting Monday was restricted to putting out feelers and to restating positions. McCloy stressed the purposes of the U.S.-Soviet meeting is to establish the "framework and background" of the disarmament conference. Zorin made it clear that he wants to talk about "substance." U.S. sources said that what Zorin meant by "substance" is the agenda of the conference, including such Soviet demands as the merger of the nuclear test ban issue into the broader question of disarmament, and inevitably, Moscow's insistence on veto power over any actions.

The Soviets proposed that five Communist, five Western and five neutral nations should be invited. The United States contends that the number of neutrals should be two. A curtain of secrecy, thicker than usual, covered the initial meeting. Both U.S. and Soviet spokesmen refused to go beyond the joint communique which said only the two delegations opened an exchange of views on disarmament. Zorin is understood to have requested the news blackout and McCloy agreed. The prospect of making headway in any new round of talks seems dim in view of the stalemate at the Geneva conference on a nuclear testing ban.

Three Of Mars Hill Committee Have Resigned

MARS HILL, N.C. (AP)—Three members of the five-man Mars Hill School Committee have resigned. Chairman D. M. Robinson, Paul Gills and Oscar Anderson Jr. confirmed Monday that they had sent letters of resignation to School Supt. Fred Anderson, secretary of the Madison Board of Education. None would give a reason for the action. Eugene Reese and Brown Ammons, other committee members, declined to comment. The step was the latest in the Mars Hill school controversy that flared up several weeks ago when a majority of the committee had declined to recommend that Principal Ralph Neill Jr. be rehired. Gov. Terry Sanford recommended that Neill be given a contract for next year.

Court Refuses Review Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday refused to reconsider its decision that upheld the "knowing membership" clause of the Smith Anti-Communist Act. The decision was announced on June 5. Reconsideration was asked by attorneys for Julius Irving Scales, who was convicted under this clause and faces six years imprisonment. Scales at one time was chairman of a Communist Party district embracing the Carolinas. The clause makes it a crime to be a member of the Communist Party while having knowledge that it advocates violent overthrow of the government.

Rayburn Opines Prospects Poor

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn today described as not very good the prospect for passage of President Kennedy's aid-to-education program in this session of Congress. He also said there is a country-wide campaign against the administration's foreign aid program, but said he believes Congress in the end will decide "we need it." Rayburn talked with newsmen following the weekly conference of Democratic legislative leaders with Kennedy.

Parliament Of Congo To Meet

(AP)—The rival Congo regimes of President Joseph Kasavubu and Antoine Gizenga announced agreement today that the Congo Parliament would reconvene on June 25 at Lovanium University, on the heights outside Leopoldville, in an effort to form a unified government. The delegates from the rival Leopoldville and Stanleyville regimes, holding planning sessions here, agreed that all Congolese should deposit their arms in a U.N.-guarded warehouse during the forthcoming session of Parliament. The representatives also agreed that all members of Parliament would be housed at Lovanium during the session and they would be allowed no contact with the outside world. In a joint communique the two delegations asked the United Nations to use its good offices to persuade the secessionist regime in Katanga Province to participate in the Parliament, whose aim is to unify the Congo, end strife and put the country back on the road to becoming a real nation.

Space Capsule Acquired Shine

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP)—Discoverer XXV's capsule "looked like a big brass door knob somebody had shined for hours," to the three U.S. Air Force pararescuemen who recovered it. "I still can't believe it has happened, after all the waiting and waiting," said Sgt. William V. Vargas, 30, one of the recovery team. Vargas, of Detroit, Mich., and his teammates leaped into the Pacific from 1,000 feet to recover the data-filled capsule Sunday. They were returned to Pearl Harbor Monday night aboard the destroyer Radford, after being plucked from a bobbing raft which they had kept an all-night vigil with the capsule. It was the first time the Air Force used pararescuemen—paratroopers who turn skydivers when they hit the water—to retrieve a Discoverer capsule. It was the fifth re-entry package recovered in the Discoverer series. The capsule, sealed in a canister, was put aboard a C130 cargo plane and flown to Sunnyvale, Calif., for examination by space scientists. The other parachuting skydivers were Sgt. Ray E. McClure, 31, Mount Sterling, Ky., and Sgt. Monte M. Vigare, the jumpmaster, North Hollywood, Calif.

House Drives To Clear Calendar

RALEIGH (AP)—The House held long sessions Monday afternoon and night as it cleared away a pile of bills in the drive for adjournment about Wednesday. The Senate, its calendar far shorter than the House, held its usual Monday night session. There was no debate as the House passed a bill to increase the strength of the Highway Patrol by 15 men during the next biennium. The patrol now has a force of 607 men. Total cost of the new patrolmen for the biennium was placed at $270,000, with $110,000 to come from surplus patrol budget money. The original bill, carrying the signatures of 67 House members, called for an additional 100 patrolmen at a cost of $1.3 million. This was reduced to 15 by the House Appropriations Committee. Meanwhile, the House passed by 75-30 a constitutional amendment that would allow the Legislature to set a uniform schedule of classifications and exemptions on property for tax purposes by the counties. The measure now goes to the Senate. The tax rate on property would remain at the discretion of county commissioners. If approved by the Senate, the amendment will have to be voted on by the people. The House also passed a bill aimed at restricting driving privileges of youngsters between 16 and 18. It would have required probationary licenses for those between 16 and 18 convicted of speeding 70 miles an hour or more points under the state's point system of keeping tabs of traffic violations.

Redistricting Study Is Killed

RALEIGH (AP)—An administration-sponsored bill to study the question of Senate redistricting has gone down the legislative drain. The Senate voted 27-18 Monday night to kill the resolution that would have created a commission to study redistricting. Then it applied the "clinch" to the measure. This is a legislative maneuver which makes it necessary to have a two-thirds vote of the body to reconsider the bill.

Needle-In-A-Haystack Hunt Netted Saboteurs

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The FBI says a needle-in-the-haystack search led to the arrest in a Mexican harbor of two men accused of blasting three communications towers last month. In jail here are Bernard Jerome Brous, 51, leader of what he called "the American Republican Army," and his lieutenant, Dale Chris Jensen, 23. They were turned over to the federal officials at the border Sunday by Mexican police who arrested them aboard an arms-laden yacht at Ensenada Saturday night. FBI officials in Los Angeles Monday told this story of tracing the men: Before and after the three American Telephone & Telegraph Co. towers in Nevada and Utah were blasted May 28, crank letters telling of a grudge against the company were mailed to various U.S. newspapers. Some asked for recruits in Brous' so-called army which may have consisted just of Brous and Jensen—and were signed "John Brown of Harpers Ferry" (Like the John Brown hanged for the pre-Civil War raid at Harpers Ferry, Va., Bous is bearded.) The letters were postmarked Los Angeles, and the search centered here. Agents traced them to Brous, who had been living in the harbor city of Wilmington under the name of Robert Hill (How he was traced wasn't disclosed). "It was a needle-in-the-haystack search," said Los Angeles special agent in charge William G. Simon. "We learned he had purchased a 47-foot yacht, armed it heavily and departed with his wife, Minnie, and Jensen, for Ensenada." Simon said. He said FBI agents arranged with Mexican authorities to arrest the men Saturday. Brous told Mexican authorities he devised the plot to blast the unmanned towers as a part of a movement against big business. He said Jensen, a miner from Reno, Nev., did the job. The two men were arraigned here Monday on conspiracy charges. Held for questioning are Brous' wife, who is 40, and Robert Gerald Bortell, 28, a Reno, Nev., gambler dealer, who were aboard the yacht Monsoon when the two alleged plotters were seized.

Laos Princes Unlikely Find Solution

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—The three Laotian princes interrupted their conference today because one of them was ill, but their chief aides met in an effort to iron out some of the differences between the warring factions. A spokesman said Prince Souvanna Phouma was suffering from a "slight indisposition" but was expected to be recovered by Wednesday. The working committee was made up of Quinlan Pholsena, representing Souvanna Phouma; Gen. Phoumi Nosavan from the pro-Western royal government in Vientiane and Phoumi Vongvichit of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels. Pro-Western Laotians expressed doubts that the conference of rival princes would be able to agree on a coalition government for their strife-torn Asian kingdom. "The disagreement is very deep," said a spokesman for the Vientiane group. "I don't have much hope of success. If the talks break down, war will start again in Laos." The conference, now in its second day, apparently was snagged over Prince Souvanna Phouma's demand that Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, strongman of the pro-Western royal government in Vientiane get out of the army if he wants to have a post in any government of national unity. Souvanna Phouma, the self-styled neutralist expected to head any coalition formed, said he wants no military men in his regime. He indicated he might accept Phoumi if the general gives up command of the 23,000 American-equipped royal troops who constitute his main strength. Phoumi—whose army seized the capital of Vientiane last year and drove Souvanna Phouma, then premier, into exile—showed no indication of complying with Souvanna's condition. A spokesman for Phoumi said he had "no hope" that the Zurich talks would be successful. The aim of the Zurich negotiations is to lay down general principles for a coalition made up of Souvanna's neutralists, the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels headed by Prince Souphanouvong and the conservative royal government in Vientiane. The East-West conference on Laos in Geneva is marking time to see if the three factions can agree. Souvanna Phouma and Souphanouvong opened the conference with a move to oust Prince Boun Oum, premier of the Vientiane government, from Laotian politics. There were indications Boun Oum might comply. A spokesman said: "The premier will leave if his departure can bring national reconciliation." Boun Oum himself told newsmen: "I am tired, I am a quiet person. I want to live in peace." Other conservative leaders vowed they would continue the fight for effective representation in any coalition government. But most of them admitted the chances for national unity were bleak.

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A Navy installation at Harvey Point, N.C., originally designed to handle the Navy's P6M jet Seastar, will be reopened July 1 as a testing center for classified material, a Fifth Naval District spokesman said today. The base, closed for nearly two years after the Navy abandoned its jet seaplane program, will be staffed primarily by civilian personnel, the spokesman said. All branches of the services will use the facility, however. The 1,200-acre site, on which $12 million in construction had been completed, is 10 miles south of Hertford on the Perquimans River. Estimated cost of construction, for which bids will close June 27, is between $100,000 and $250,000, the spokesman reported. Some construction will be started this summer. The testing and evaluation unit moving into Harvey Point will be completed, is 10 miles south of Hertford on the Perquimans River.

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Charlotte's gasoline war brought a dip in regular gas prices to 13¢ Monday amid indications that the end may be in sight. One distributor said the war had reached a point at which wholesalers were giving the gasoline to the retailers—and paying some of the 11½ cents a gallon federal and state taxes. Some distributors said they would "just close up and go fishing if the price drops any lower." Oil company officials declined comment, but several service station operators said "the word had been passed" to return to normal prices in the morning. The regular standard brands normally sell for 31.9.

For a honeymoon down South the bride chose a beige sheath dress with white accessories. She wore the orchid lifted from her prayer book. The couple will reside in Norfolk, Virginia.

The table was overlaid with a white table cloth, centered with white tulle tied with extending white satin, the length of the table. Lilies-of-the-valley were placed along the setting and on each place card. A bridal bouquet of baby gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley were placed at the couple's table.

Baldree-Chauncey Speak Vows

The marriage of Miss Linda Lorraine Chauncey and Mr. Nelson Isaac Baldree was solemnized Sunday afternoon at 5:30 at the Grifton Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Gibbons Chauncey of Grifton, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Colon Baldree Sr. of Ayden.

Music was presented by Miss Sally Mewborn, vocalist, and Mrs. Bill Barbre, aunt of the bride, at the piano.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white silk organza with appliques of Chantilly lace, creating a pannier effect with Sabrina neckline embroidered with tiny seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The skirt, a bell-shaped, carriage back, held two cabbage roses at the waist, ending with a chapel train. She wore a Victoria pearl crown with a bouffant veil of French illusion and carried a bouquet of mixed bridal flowers centered with a white orchid.

The matron of honor was sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Mac Chauncey, of Jacksonville. She wore a maize silk organza dress with lace bodice and bouffant skirt, with a crushed cummerbund ending in panels in the back, and matching Juliette cap, and carried a bouquet of Shasta daisies, and yellow roses.

Pactolus Man Marries In Texas

LA MARQUE, Tex.—The ring belonging to her grandmother was used for the nuptial ceremony Saturday when Miss Diana Ruth Schulz of La Marque became the bride of J. Paul Davenport III of Pactolus, N. C.

The Rev. J. Mayer, chaplain at the University of Houston, read the ceremony at Trinity Lutheran Church in La Marque and music was provided by Mrs. Joe Hexl and Miss Kathy Anderson.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Esther Schulz of La Marque and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Davenport Jr. of Pactolus, N. C.

Given in marriage by her brother, Raymond Schulz, the bride wore a floor length satin gown with bodice of lace designed with a scalloped neckline and short sleeves.

The veil was of silk illusion and held in place by a tiara of seed pearls.

Her bouquet was of white roses centered with a yellow throated orchid and held by white satin streamers.

Her attendants included Mrs. C. R. Klacs Jr. of La Marque as matron of honor and Miss Carolyn Bridges of Houston, bridesmaid, and Miss Diana Meyer of La Marque, junior bridesmaid.

Their dresses were designed like that worn by the bride. They were of white dotted swiss over yellow taffeta and their headpieces were of yellow veiling.

They carried crescent bouquets of yellow roses.

The bridegroom was attended by his father as best man and groomsmen were Tom Farlow of Sanford, N. C. and Charles Davenport, brother of the bridegroom.

Guests were seated by John Schulz and Everett Grosbauer. A pink lace dress over taffeta was chosen by Mrs. Schulz. With it she wore white accessories. The mother of the bridegroom was gowned in aqua lace over taffeta with matching accessories. Both had corsages of white carnations.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The bride's table was laid with a cloth of white linen and held the three tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Members of the house party included Mrs. Luther Morgan, Miss Carol Maddox, Miss Frances Guest and Miss Linda Tefftost.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the bride was wearing a blue linen sheath with a reversible jacket and white accessories. Her corsage was a yellow throated orchid.

Mr. and Mrs. Davenport will make their home at Schertz.

She was graduated from La Marque High School and Sam Houston State College where she received bachelor of science degree. She is a teacher at Converse.

He received a bachelor of science degree from East Carolina College, Greenville, N. C., and is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. Presently he is stationed at Randolph Air Force Base.

Cake Cutting

Brides-Elect Honored At Tea

At the home of Mrs. Harold Forbes on the Falkland Highway Saturday afternoon, Miss Betty Lane Evans, Miss Jeanne Moye and Miss Margaret Ruffin, brides of June and July, and a recent bride, Mrs. J. Bryce Cummings Jr., were honored at a tea.

The honorees were presented corsages of gardenias and their mothers corsages of roses.

Greeting the guests at the front door was Mrs. Richard V. Haar. Mrs. Wilkie Carlos Burt introduced the guests to the receiving line composed of the brides.

Miss Camilla Henderson invited the callers into the dining room. The dining room table was covered with an imported cloth centered with an arrangement of baby's breath, pink and white roses in an antique crystal swan.

Miniature swans holding miniature arrangements tied with nylon net and ribbons pulled the large swan. These were flanked by burning white tapers in crystal holders.

Mrs. Amos Evans poured punch from a silver bowl.

Mrs. Tom Henderson, Mrs. Vance Perkins, Mrs. Lynwood Worthington, Mrs. John E. Arnold and Miss Martha Henderson assisted in serving party refreshments.

Inviting guests into the den were Mrs. Harold Forbes and Mrs. J. B. Cummings Sr.

Saying goodbyes was Mrs. Howard Moye.

Throughout the house were arrangements of white gladioli and feverfew, hydrangeas and daisies. The hostesses presented the honorees gifts in their chosen patterns.

Responsibility Now To Educators

Legislation that provided for the far-reaching enrichment of public education in North Carolina has now been written into law. It came about as the suggestion of Governor Sanford and it has been hammered into meaningful legislation by the elected representatives in the General Assembly.

Obviously it has the approval of the vast majority of the citizens of North Carolina, otherwise it would not have survived to become a cornerstone of the action taken by the 1961 legislature.

Now that the enrichment program has been approved and the additional $65.5 million in tax funds earmarked for the program, it is up to the educators of North Carolina to deliver the goods to the people of the state.

The additional funds with which the program is to be financed will come from the tax on food and other new sources of revenue designated by the General Assembly. Penny by penny and dollar by dollar the money will come from the rich and the poor alike throughout North Carolina. It will be funneled into the public school system to be used by the educators to upgrade the quality of education provided all of the young people of this state.

June 24 Target For Legislators

By LYNN NISBET
WIND-UP — It looks very much like the Legislature will not adjourn until next Saturday, June 24, although mid-week adjournment is possible. The target goal of June 17, set by Governor Sanford some time ago, was abandoned early last week. The present goal is Wednesday. There is disposition on part of the rank and file membership not to be stampeded into enactment of bad laws just so they can get home a day or two sooner. Although the salary pay of legislators stopped on June 6 they get the $12 a day expense allowance.

If the session runs until Saturday it will be the same length as the one two years ago. The 1959 Assembly convened on February 4 and adjourned on June 20. This one started four days later, on February 8, and adjournment on the 24th would be the same length — 137 calendar days.

At beginning of the session many leaders predicted it would be shorter than last time, because there seemed to be determination to get the money bills out of the way. Your reporter disagreed and predicted perhaps a longer session — not so much because of money as because of court reform, congressional and legislative redistricting, small loan regulation, and other problems.

Executive proposals for government reorganization, especially increasing the size of nearly all boards and commissions got through with more ease than most people had expected. The compromise court reform bill which was enacted also came nearer to aims of the bar association committee last year than seemed likely at first.

AS PLANNED — When Governor Sanford first presented his "challenging" program calling for $83 million above budget recommendations and proposing a sales tax on food as the major source of the revenue, there was some doubt of its acceptance. It soon became apparent that the program itself and the spending of some $50 million additional for schools was approved by popular sentiment — and that the Governor's tax ideas probably would prevail.

Legislative enactment of the bills could have been obtained much more quickly, but it is doubted that any time actually would have been saved. Action on redistricting and small loan bills would not have been speeded by earlier passage of the money bills, and some feeling might have been hurt by pressure. Governor Sanford has been very smart in the manner and timing of applying pressure — except possibly in one or two points.

He was so anxious to get his "quality education" program that he subjugated everything else to it. He was criticized for lack of interest in redistricting and small loans. When he did move into these areas it was too late to save the day for June 17 adjournment.

The Governor is given major credit for the compromise on the small loan bill. The credit is diminished somewhat by belief expressed in some quarters that he could have accomplished the same thing, and without attendant ill-feeling if he had moved in early May.

After months of wrangling over congressional and senatorial districts, the Governor accepted with enthusiasm the congressional lines and proposed a commission to study senatorial districts. Some of his friends in the Legislature fear that what he has done was too little to late to be effective.

PAY-OFF — The attitude of many veteran members of the Legislature seems about this: The Governor put all the force of his administration behind his money bills — and get just what he expected. Then he gave some attention to other matters that legislators had been interested in all along. But the punch wasn't there. He didn't help us when we really needed him and when help would have been effective, they say, so why should we get excited just so he can go to Hawaii.

There are more freshmen in this Legislature than in a long time, but there are enough old-timers to remember and resent how Governors have tried to force adjournment for their convenience. Two years ago Governor Hodges "just had to go" to Europe with a group of other Governors. Twenty years ago Governor Broughton "just had to" keep a dinner date with Ambassador Joseph Daniels in Mexico City. This time Governor Sanford "just had to go" to Hawaii.

No Governor likes to leave the country, or even the state, for very long at a time when the General Assembly is in session. His presence is not necessary except for his own wishes. Since he does not sign any bills or have the right of veto, he has no official part in the enactment of laws. If the chief executive wants to leave town that's his business, say the oldtimers. If the Supreme Court wants to adjourn it is the prerogative of the judges. Our responsibility for the legislative branch of State government does not — and certainly should not — depend upon the whims of the executive or judicial branches.

If North Carolina is eventually to achieve the calibre of public education it desires, obviously the provisions made by the current General Assembly represent a starting point rather than the ultimate in fulfilling the needs of public education. It must be recognized, however, that the results which are produced from the increased appropriations for the public schools in the next two years may well determine the willingness of the people to continue to inject increasing sums into public education in North Carolina.

The burden therefore now rests upon the school officials and school teachers throughout North Carolina to make the best possible use of these additional funds. They must see that the additional funds are spent in the wisest manner possible, that the greatest possible return is received for each dollar spent, and that that public education in the state is raised to the highest possible level with the funds which are available.

The people of the state have shown their willingness to invest additional millions annually in upgrading the public school education for the young people of North Carolina. They have indicated their confidence in the school officials and teachers throughout the state by providing the means to better working conditions, better teaching facilities and better salaries for the teachers. It is incumbent now upon those at every level of public education to show conclusively that these additional funds will provide better education and a better future for the young people of North Carolina.

Population Yardstick Has Drawbacks, Too

The proposal being considered by the United Nations that its 1,300 jobs be allocated on the basis of the population of member countries would appear to us to have as many shortcomings as the present system under which the jobs are allocated to various nations on the basis of their financial support of the international organization.

Although the designers of the new proposal for assigning U.N. jobs to people of various nationalities assert their proposal will recruit U.N. workers on the broadest possible geographic basis, there is a serious question of whether the new plan will accomplish this any more than the current method of operation.

Certainly the new proposal would mean that the more populous nations — which often are the least developed nations — would have greater representation among the United Nations employees. On the other hand, the great number of small nations within the U.N. probably would have no more representation among the employees of the organization than they do now. At the same time the smaller nations which are in a position economically to contribute more to the financial support of the organization would have fewer representatives among the U.N. employees.

If the goal of the committee studying the problem is to provide both equitable representation from the 99 U.N. members among the employees of the organization, and at the same time gain as broad a geographic representation as possible, it would seem to us that a formula considering both population and financial support of the U.N. would be most practical.

The Honeymoon Definitely Over

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — It was getting too quiet around here, anyway.

For his first five months in office President Kennedy had the usual quiet honeymoon period to catch his breath and get used to his job except for some interruptions like these:

The Cuban invasion disaster, the decision to examine the Central Intelligence Agency, the gradual loss of Laos, the call for an armistice in Laos which never really came, the nuclear test talks which got nowhere, the day-by-day struggle in Congress to get his program through, the steady stream of visitors like British Prime Minister Macmillan, the stunning army takeover in Korea, the visit to Canada, the visit to Europe to see Macmillan, President de Gaulle of France and Premier Khrushchev of Russia, his TV report to the nation on his journey, his news conferences, and now the beginning of his hard-nosed dealings with Khrushchev.

But the honeymoon is over and before the end of 1961 Kennedy probably will look back on his first five months as the good old days.

Over the weekend the Republicans, who've been plotting him for months on domestic matters, began aiming at his conduct of foreign affairs.

And Khrushchev, extraordinarily restrained through most of Kennedy's brief presidency, has now as much as told him: "These next six months are going to be hellus."

Khrushchev was talking about

Berlin. Kennedy's administration fired a shot at Khrushchev, telling him that if he doesn't get with it in the talks in Geneva, he'll agree on banning nuclear tests, the United States will have to start testing.

Monday American and Soviet representatives were supposed to get together to lay plans for talks on disarmament.

But since the Americans and Russians can't even agree on how each can be sure the other won't cheat — if they agree to stop nuclear testing — it's a cinch they won't agree on disarmament. That needs checking, too.

Thus Kennedy's next six months in the White House — besides his continuing struggle with Congress — will be a propaganda carnival on both sides, each blaming the other, for the sake of world opinion, for not agreeing on practically anything.

If the United States goes ahead with nuclear tests, it will first have to try to convince the world it was all brought about by Russian obstinacy. The Russians will be busy doing the same on their side.

None of it may be very enlightening, and all of it will get tiresome, and the only astrophysical looking back that both sides were comparatively quiet so long.

But the Berlin business probably will be tough, ugly and tense. Khrushchev, who began talking back in 1958 about getting allied troops out of West Berlin, can't afford to keep on talking without doing.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THIS ASTOUNDING AGE
The Prophet Jeremiah is usually looked upon as the gloomy prophet of doom. He was a man of great courage and sound judgement who watched the approach of the most appalling crisis the Hebrew people have ever experienced. He saw it coming. He knew why it was coming. He knew how it could be averted. He cried out for men to submit their selfish wills to the will of God. They failed to do so and their nation plunged into ruin.

The day of prophecy is not passed. There are present day prophets. It is no exaggeration to say that the problems confronting the whole world today are more serious than humanity has confronted in its history. People are warning us about many aspects of the present day problem — the military aspect, the scientific, and above all the moral aspect. With the world going forward by leaps and bounds in scientific progress we stand in imminent danger either of being blasted off the planet or of being involved in unprecedented struggles.

Let us listen today to our prophets. Let us seek to know the will of God. Let us create ourselves and our wills to the carrying out of His purposes. God has placed on this generation responsibilities too great to be measured. We may well tremble not only for our safety but for the safety of our race.

The Fighting Will Quickly End

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Back To Usual Exercise

Your columnist had virtually given up exercise until recent weeks. When my army days were concluded I decided the extent of my exercise as a civilian would be a walk to the corner drug store.

Recently, however, even the walk to the corner drug store has shown me I am becoming flabby. The result? Exercise.

So a couple of weeks ago I found myself on the opposite side of a badminton net from a friend. I became winded a few times but as the game progressed I decided I wasn't in half as bad a shape as I thought.

There were a number of spectacular leaps for the bird and I was quite proud that I connected. I backpedaled in fine style and rushed forward for the short birds. All-in-all your columnist was quite proud of himself considering the fact that this was the first exercise in many months. On Monday I awoke feeling well. There was no soreness, surprisingly enough.

This would end the story if Tuesday had never come. Sadly enough that day it all caught up with me. I awoke sore from head to foot. What's more it took the rest of the week to get over my infirmities.

The next Sunday I decided to try something a little less strenuous. So I rigged up a recently purchased spinner reel and rod and headed for Morehead.

This became readily known Monday morning. My casting arm was sore. So I'm returning to walking to the corner drug store for exercise.

Reflector photographer Stuart Savage's picture of the sun and a street lamp reflecting in a puddle of water proved controversial.

To some the picture was an artistic piece of work. Others called it a blob. Sadly enough such pictures never show up as well after engraving as they do in the original print. Delicate lines are lost in the engraving process.

Anyway we at the Reflector figured it took an artistic eye such as Stuart possesses to catch the subject. So, for its news value on a rainy day, we ran it on the front page. We'll be happy to hear comments on such things.

About 90 percent of the mail that comes in the Reflector newsroom from sources beyond our circulation area goes into the waste basket.

One company figured a way to make us stop and look, though. They sent their copy in a big, red cardboard firecracker. Printed on its side was "It's Hot! Pull string for the hot news."

The string was a fuse. I pulled it and sure enough there was the handout copy inside. Then I threw it in the waste basket.

Other Editors Saying How South Victimized

(Savannah Morning News)
A famous newspaper editor once said, "When a man bites a dog, that news." Today the old saying might well be changed to read, "When integration trouble occurs in the South, that's news." When such trouble occurs elsewhere it seldom merits much space in the nation's large dailies, in the news magazines or on national television programs.

Case in point: On May 24th, eight members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Congress of Racial Equality were arrested when they tried to integrate a swimming pool in Ohio.

If those arrests had taken place in Mississippi, Alabama or Georgia, the news would have been splashed all over the front pages of newspapers elsewhere in the nation. Outside newspapers and photographers would have poured into the South to report the event. But this took place in Ohio. Scant notice was taken of the fact until a Jackson Miss. newspaper uncovered an account of the matter in an Ohio newspaper.

This double standard of newspaper coverage does not limit itself to reporting of racial troubles. Violence in the South is treated in the same manner. The crime rate in New York and Washington, D.C., is so great that authorities are at a loss to cope with it.

The United States Attorney for the Eastern District of New York has declared that crime is so prevalent in New York that every person who reaches the age of 16 can expect to be the victim of some major crime within their lifetime. In Washington authorities are pleading for extraordinary co-operation from the courts to stem the swelling tide of crime.

Yet racial violence in Alabama receives far more national attention in large cities of the North. The outh is also attacked for the poll taxes and literacy tests for voters which exist in some states. Overlooked is the fact that these same practices exist in other states — and are frequently endorsed by authorities. John F. Kennedy must pay a poll tax when he votes in his home state.

Literacy tests are imposed in states other than in the South. A favorite criticism of the South is that it denies the vote to Negroes. Yet in New York, for example, a large foreign population is denied this right, as Sen. Herman Tamldridge once pointed out in a debate with New York's Sen. Jacob Javits. Sen. Javits, as we recall, had no effective reply to make.

Many of the problems we have mentioned are matters of concern to Southerners. This does not change the fact that many people seem more concerned about the South's problems than their own.

Unfortunately, this double standard does not apply to news coverage alone. It also extends to federal action and outside interference. Why do the so-called freedom riders not try agitating in other sections? Why does the federal government feel that in the South, the need for its intervention is so much greater?

Death Reaches Nations

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I received a letter from a reader in Staten Island which clearly states and diagnoses one of the principal current illnesses of the American people. The illness is apathy and cowardice. I omit the name of my correspondent only because the conversation he discusses is not unusual these days, particularly among young people. The wise guy in many groups establishes himself as a glib and smart talker by just this sort of conversation. However, it is worthy of consideration here because while it is psychological, its political manifestations are deep.

My correspondent had a discussion in the course of which his antagonist said:

"Communism and capitalism can't live peacefully together forever in this world. Eventually, either the communistic or the capitalistic society will prevail over the other."

This statement is, most often, a forerunner of a further one that begins with the phrase, "If Communism wins." In this particular case the antagonist says:

"Let us not ruin our high degree of civilization for our children with foolish patriotic resistance, which might bring reprisals."

The phrase, "foolish patriotic resistance," is sickening. Who is so wise as not to be willing to defend what is dear to him? In a word, if your country is to be conquered by Russians or Red Chinese or the Congolese, if your homes are to be taken from you and your children put into slavery, "patriotic resistance" is foolish. Give up gently and send your wife into a seraglio, make of your daughter a concubine. Anything else is foolish!

In fact, my correspondent reports that his antagonist said: "Let us give in quickly and quietly, for Communism might be the boon to capitalistic societies that capitalism had been to feudalism."

This sentence, peripatetically phrased, seems to have become irate and this conversation took place:

"Finally I said, are you or the Communists? Hell no, we're practical Americans who don't want our heads blown off."

I have heard this discussion a hundred times or more. The so-called "practical American" simply does not want to be killed. The history of human progress is the tale of practical men and women who were not afraid to die for what they believed to be true or worthwhile. In fact, the basis of Western civilization, Christianity, deals with one who was crucified for what he believed to be true. Socrates drank of the cup of hemlock but he did not fail to stand firm in his beliefs.

Every man who has gone into a laboratory to find something new, monk who went with chemists and electricity and electronics has put his life in jeopardy to find something new, something that being explosive might kill him but resulting in a great cure like radium, for mankind. Christopher Columbus crossed an uncharted ocean to find a new world where we live in comfort and happiness. Men believed at that time that to go beyond a certain distance, one would fall off the edge of the Earth.

I have avoided military heroes who are hired to be killed, but in truth, we all take risks, sometime or other, and the greater the rewards, the greater the risk. Every newspaperman who is sent to report a war or a gangster fight or a heroin pusher or even some actors who fancy themselves, risks his life as part of the job and in World War II, the deaths that came to newspapermen in the line of duty has been a record of which this profession is proud, not because we have no heads to be blown off but because our courage and duty remain virtues and cowardice is an abhorrent quality.

And so one turns from this particular practical man as one must with a sense of shame and a hope that all the country is not like that. For if we are willing to give in, no matter why or to whom, there is no hope for (Continued on page five)

Lookaheads As Seen In Trends

By ELMER ROESSNER
Here are more look-aheads in business, seen through the glass of trend analysis:

Personal income will rise during the rest of the year. Escalator clauses and predetermined increases will cause a steady rising of wages; salaries will follow along as usual, and there is nothing on the horizon to cause more than seasonal layoffs.

Mark to talk of price ceilings. The coming rise in defense and propaganda expenditures (such as for shots at the moon) will exert an upward pressure on prices. As this increases, expect men of Cabinet level, followed by President Kennedy, to call for "holding the price line." Upcoming this will be implied threats to impose price ceilings. Later ceiling may be imposed, first on essentials and later, perhaps, on luxuries.

BIG APPAREL SEASON AHEAD
Lush apparel sales are ahead for fall and winter. The tip-off is the crush of buyers in the New York apparel market in recent days. Attendance and sales have been setting new records, a clear indication that hinterland merchants, close to consumer intentions, believe that customers will buy heavily later this year.

Higher commodity prices are ahead. Industrial buyers expect few sharp rises, but they are reconciled to the probability that the slow upward creep in prices in recent weeks will continue through most of the year.

More "Buy American" drives. American manufacturers suffering under competition generated by cheap foreign labor, have been getting only slow aid through tariff reforms. So more are planning "buy American" appeals to the public. Trade associations and corporations are massing talents (and cash) to push this campaign.

SELECTIVE SPECULATION
More real estate investment is expected, but it will be more selective. Buying up potato farms in line of suburbs is losing its interest. The reason is that experts have op-tioned most of the likely land. However, speculators are not interested themselves in developable property near beaches, rivers, etc. Some farm land is being optioned in hopes of establishing new vacation retreats, for fishing, horseback riding and (shh!) summer drinking.

Scented drive: If you can't reform them, make them smell sweeter seems to be the idea behind new campaigns now being readied. These promotions will try to interest teen-agers in scents, on the theory that if undrunk later a liking for new-mown hay, they'll keep buying sweet stuff their whole life long.

Rise in capital expenditures seems certain for the rest of the year. Industrial commitments for the third quarter are already 2 percent above rates earlier this year.

Labor peace: Good management-labor relations seem to be diminishing dangers of destruction strikes later this year. While some important contracts are coming up, both sides appear willing to compromise.

UNDERTAKE UNDER TAKING
From the glint in his eye, it was apparent that the Old Promoter was working on a new project, and he was quick to invite us in on it.

"My private researches show that a high proportion of auto accidents and other causes of death take place near state lines," he began.

"One big cause is that states have different taxes on liquor, smokes and other items tempting residents from across state lines to come and shop. This travel is largely by car and, since one thing leads to another, I conclude that there are more accidents and mishaps along state lines than in other parts of the country. So I am proposing a chain of 'Stain Line Mortuaries,' which ought to be kept fairly busy, especially in summer months. Now if you have some idle funds..."

We assured him we had not funds, idle or working, and had compunctions about making profits on human frailties.

Eichmann Swears Ignorance Of Early Nazi Plans For Jews

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann swore under oath today he never realized what the Nazi party intended to do to the Jews when he joined it in 1932.

By the time the extermination plot unfolded, Eichmann said, he was powerless to influence it. The former Gestapo officer accused of a key role in the Nazi extermination of six million Jews during World War II took the stand in his own defense this morning after hearing 10 weeks of prosecution evidence against him.

Eichmann, now 55 and wearing horn-rimmed glasses, snapped to ramrod attention when presiding Judge Moshe Landau announced the start of the defense.

His mouth pinched for lack of teeth, his chin out and his shoulders squared back, Eichmann swore "to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

As he swore "by God," the audience made up mostly of Jewish survivors of the wartime pogrom rumbled in surprise and resentment. Eichmann said he preferred not to swear on the Bible but rather "by the Almighty God."

"I am not bound by any confession, but I do believe in God," he told Landau.

Eichmann's first testimony was a blast at Israel for kidnaping him in Argentina. He said a prosecution statement that he came to Israel voluntarily was false.

The defendant said while Israeli agents held him on the outskirts of Buenos Aires, "I was chained to my bed."

"It was demanded of me to sign a voluntary declaration that I wanted to stand trial in Israel," he continued, speaking in German in a deep baritone. "I said I preferred to be turned over to Argentine police. They said no. Later the fetters were taken off and I was told to sign a document that I wanted to come to Israel to stand trial. Then the fetters were replaced and I was tied to my bed. This cannot be called a voluntary declaration."

Defense counsel Robert Servatius of West Germany told the court he would prove through Eichmann's testimony that the whole Nazi apparatus was responsible for the pogrom and that Eichmann could do nothing about it.

Eichmann said he joined the Nazis in 1932 because their slogan was "War against Versailles." He blamed the Versailles treaty after World War I for "the

Marion Davies Has New Injury

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Former actress Marion Davies, under treatment in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for osteomyelitis of the jaw, slipped and fractured a small bone in her left leg, her physician said Monday.

The doctor, who asked that his name not be used, said the accident happened Sunday when Miss Davies, 61, got out of bed.

Miss Davies was hospitalized early this month with a recurrence of the illness that troubled her earlier this year. Her physician said she is progressing steadily.

tragedy of the German people," the economic distress gripping his country.

At that time, Eichmann said, "the struggle against the Jews was a secondary problem—the main struggle was against the regime in power which was administering the terms of the Versailles treaty."

After Hitler became the supreme power in Germany, Eichmann continued, World War II "was thrust upon Germany," and out of that period came the "senseless measures" that paved the way for the extermination of the Jews.

"I could not anticipate. I could not influence. My status was too modest. I could not anticipate all this when I joined the Nazi party," Eichmann declared.

Eichmann testified that he held his rank of obersturmbannfuhrer (lieutenant colonel) in the SS from 1941 to the end of the war without a promotion and tried during that time to be transferred to the Waffen SS, which were fighting units at the front. His efforts were fruitless, he said.

Eichmann flatly denied responsibility for the mass slaughter and said he "had nothing at all to do with the confiscation of Jewish property" either.

In his first assignment to "Jewish affairs," in Austria, Eichmann claimed he actually helped the Jews considerably. The best evidence of that, he said, was the fact that "two-thirds of the Austrian Jews were enabled to emigrate."

Sandhills Hotels Going On Year 'Round Basis

By LYNN NISBET
RALEIGH — The Hollywood Hotel at Southern Pines, one of the better known wintering places in the Sandhills area, is being converted into a year around home for elderly retired citizens.

The Holly Inn at Pinehurst, another fine hotel that has operated only in winter, is being air conditioned and remodeled for year around occupancy.

These changes not only mean progress for the area and all-year rather than part time use of facilities, they revive memories of the early history (?) of the Sandhills resort development. The parenthetic question mark is used advisedly. Just how much authentic history and how much unfounded rumor might be difficult to determine. And too close check-up on facts might spoil an interesting story. Like this:

In the closing years of the 19th century a New Englander by the name of Tufts, grandfather of the men who now operate Pinehurst, while passing through North Carolina was charmed with the long leaf pines, the white sand, the ozone-laden air of the sandhills section. He thought it would be a fine place for tired people to rest. So he built at Pinehurst a hotel designed primarily to cater to older people. It proved popular from the start. Mr. Tufts and his guests were happy, but he was not entirely satisfied.

Through three generations the Tufts family has pioneered in roadbuilding, reforestation, cattle breeding, and other activities contributing to the economy of the area and the state. And in the process they developed one of the best known winter resorts in America which has acquired the justified title of "Golf Capital of the World."

Soon after the Tufts operations began at Pinehurst a man named Patrick built a hotel at a little town on the railroad six miles to the east which was called Southern Pines. The story is the railroad would not stop trains at Southern Pines, because the company had bought land at Manly, miles to the north, where it wanted to develop a town. Mr. Patrick had to meet trains at Manly with a horse drawn hack and take them to his hotel. Whether it is true that the railroad officials he would have a fine depot at Southern Pines when Manly had dried up — that is exactly what happened.

During the first decade of the 20th century the North Carolina Sandhills gained fame as a winter resort. The Tufts family retained control over Pinehurst, but many new people came into the Southern Pines sector. Among them was J. L. Pottle, who built the Hollywood Hotel in 1913. It has been operated by the Pottle family ever since, sons George and John having taken over some years ago, purely as a winter resort hotel.

John runs the Easeola Lodge at Linville in the summer and George has been spending summer months in other activities.

Pinehurst places have all been closed in the summer, while hotel staffs operated at Roaring Gap and other Tufts enterprises. New plans call for at least part of the Pinehurst operation to go on full-year basis and for the Hollywood to be open all the time.

Czech Spy Case May Go To Special Tribunal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U.S.-Czechoslovak spy case dispute may go to a special arbitration tribunal.

Czechoslovakia Monday rejected a U.S. demand for the expulsion of Miroslav Naclavac, counselor at the Czech mission to the United Nations.

The Communist diplomat had charged that American intelligence agents tried to recruit him as a spy. Washington counter-charged that he had been spying for his Red government and demanded that he leave the country.

The Czech mission to the United Nations protested the espionage charge and requested one of its big hotels into old folks' retirement facilities.

While we're on this business of unconfirmed stories, let's get in the one about the conversation between the president of the Seaboard and Southern railroads. These trunk systems had just been formed out of numerous short lines, when the head men got together at a party and began talking about the future of their companies.

The Southern man is said to have boasted that he envisaged the time when no passenger on his main line trains would be out of sight of a smoke stack. The smoke stack then was the symbol of industry, but has been replaced by the high-voltage electric power line.

The Seaboard president is said to have replied that he wanted his passengers to be happy and he hoped they'd never be far from a play ground or recreation area.

There is industry and recreation along both lines now, and the old distinctions do not apply. However, it is still true that the Southern mainline from Danville to Atlanta is famed for its industrial points like Greensboro, Charlotte, Gastonia and Greenville; while the Seaboard from Richmond south is famed for its resorts at Pinehurst — Southern Pines, Camden, Aiken, and the coastal areas in Georgia and Florida.

It is extremely doubtful that any such conversation ever took place between the railroad presidents; or between Patrick and the railroad folks, or that Pinehurst really started as a rest home. It is provable fact that business and pleasure both contribute to the property of communities along the railroads and highways that modern air-conditioning (which includes cooling, heating and control of humidity) makes year-round use of facilities pleasant and profitable.

FAMILY ACCIDENT
INTERLAKEN, N. Y. (AP) — Theodore Tuttle was charged with leaving the scene of an accident after his automobile sideswiped another vehicle. The driver of the other car was his wife.

tion that since Naclavac is with a mission accredited to the United Nations but not the United States, the U.S. government cannot kick him out.

The Czech stand indicated the dispute may go to an international tribunal provided for by the 1947 U.S.-U.N. agreement giving U.N. headquarters on Manhattan's East Side a special status.

The agreement stipulates that a diplomatic dispute not settled by negotiation will go to an international tribunal of three arbitrators for final decision.

In the past, the United States has successfully demanded the removal of Soviets employed by the United Nations on grounds of espionage. But Naclavac, No. 3 man at the Czech mission, is not a U.N. employe.

Czechoslovakia seized on the Naclavac incident to stress Communist contentions that the U.N. headquarters should be moved out of New York to protect delegates from harassment.

The Czechs charged on Friday that two American agents had tried to get Naclavac to spy against his country.

Six hours later the State Department counter-charged that Naclavac had been trying for a year to get information from a U.S. government worker whose fiancée is in Czechoslovakia.

Hollywood Hostelry Boasts Glittering Guest Lists

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — At what hotel could you find Marilyn Monroe, Liz Taylor and Eddie Fisher, President Sukarno of Indonesia, Shelly Berman, Judy Garland, Henry Ford II, John Huston and Bob Newhart?

The answer is the Beverly Hills Hotel. No hostelry in the world can boast such a guest list at any one time.

I have spent a goodly portion of my life at the Beverly Hills, as has anyone who covers the Hollywood beat. Not only is it the favorite stopping place for famous visitors, it is also the prime spot for having lunch and cocktails, giving parties and making deals.

It has become a status symbol. If you're a success or trying to be one, you stay at the B.H.H. whether you can afford it or not.

It is perfectly located for conducting business here — midway between the far-flung studios, close to the wheelers and dealers of Beverly Hills. It is in the heart of the high-rent district, where the stars and tycoons live. But these are intangibles. I asked Manager Stewart Hathaway for a more concrete explanation.

"The hotel has a casual, informal air but with a certain formality," he said. "We stress friendliness without familiarity. Our employees call guests by their names—but not their first names."

Famine Is Likely Result Of War

DAVIS, Calif. (AP)—Famine is one definite possible result of any nuclear war, a consultant to the Atomic Energy Commission said Monday night.

To avert the possibility, food should be stockpiled in many more locations across the country than at present, Dr. Albert Bellamy, emeritus professor of biophysics at the University of California's Los Angeles branch, told a symposium here.

Dr. Bellamy proposed storage of enough food at each community to last several months — through the end of the growing season that followed a nuclear attack.

Hedy Ordered To Report To Court

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Judge Bert Trunks has ordered Hedy LaMarr under orders today to report to his court Thursday for a hearing on her former husband's plea for an injunction.

Ollman Howard Lee, divorced from the actress last year, is now married to Gene Tierney, also of the films. He asked for a court order to prevent Miss LaMarr from taking depositions which he said would be illegal "fishing expeditions" into his private affairs.

Lee contended all issues were settled when he obtained an uncontested divorce from Miss LaMarr on April 22, 1960. The actress got a fourth interest in leases and royalties of two of Lee's oil companies plus $400 a month for 125 months.

The Beverly Hills keeps personal files on guests, listing their likes and dislikes. The symbol of the place goes back to the Spanish rancho days. The fireplace in the lobby is lighted in all seasons as a welcome to weary travelers.

The Bev Hills is smallish by Hiltonian standards — 312 rooms. But capacity is an admirable 90 per cent year-round, in summer and winter it's SRO. You can pay $25 for a single, $60 for a suite and up to $150 per day for a three-bedroom bungalow.

The bungalows are the super super status symbol. That's where you'd find people like Liz and Eddie, M.M., the Shah of Iran, Queen Juliana of Holland, etc.

Police Looking Into Hit-And-Run

An estimated $200 damage resulted from a hit-and-run mishap investigated by local officers early yesterday.

Police reported that the damage was done to a vehicle owned by Cordell Randolph, 44, of 1200-B S. Greene St. They quoted Randolph as saying he parked the auto in front of his house about 1 a.m. and the collision occurred between that time and 3 a.m.

The parked vehicle was knocked 36 feet from where it had been parked originally, police noted.

Investigation is continuing in the case.

LEOPOLDVILLE, THE Congo (AP) — Sjoerd Rodermond, a Dutch radio correspondent, was released Sunday after being in the hands of Congolese security police for five days. He said he had been badly beaten during hours of interrogation. His left eye was split and blackened.

Thousands Of Jaycees In Atlanta Open Nat'l Meet

ATLANTA (AP)—Thousands of Jaycees, chock full of four tons of Texas barbecue, today opened their national convention.

The delegates and guests, described as "looking forward to three more days of merrymaking and fun, mixed in with a minimum of business," were to hear a keynote address by Gov. Bert Combs of Kentucky.

Also on the program were an American strategy forum, a round of parties given by various state delegations, and caucuses by states to hear candidates for president and vice president of the National Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In a speech to Jaycee officers Monday, a high official in the U.S. space program issued a strong appeal for public support of President Kennedy's plan to get a man to the moon within 10 years.

Try To Stem Panic-Sale Of White Homes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Panic selling by white persons in an integrated section of the Lakeview community near Hempstead, N. Y., has led to a campaign by Negro residents to keep the area from becoming predominantly Negro.
One of the first Negroes to move into the area, Lincoln Lynch, said the campaign was designed to stop panic selling and to alert Negroes that if they continue to buy in the neighborhood they run the risk of creating a segregated situation.
Lynch said Negroes are being urged not to buy homes in the section so the community can be stabilized at its present ratio of about eight white residents to each Negro.
He said about 40 white families in the community of 150 to 200 residents have offered their homes for sale because of the increase in Negro population. The homes cost from $17,000 to $25,000.

At Louisville, Ky., about 300 white persons cat-calling and throwing rocks greeted Negro anti-segregation demonstrators at a private, segregated park.
Four or five white persons were arrested after the incident at Fontaine Ferry Park. Nearly 30 Negroes were arrested at the amusement park earlier Monday when they blocked an entrance during a demonstration, police said.
In other racial developments: The Interstate Commerce Commission announced plans for considering Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy's request for a ban on racial segregation in interstate bus facilities. The ICC invited written comments to be submitted on Kennedy's proposal by July 20, with oral arguments Aug. 15.

Kennedy was criticized Monday by Alabama's Atty. Gen. MacDonald Gallion who said the federal official should "take his feet off the desk and put them on the ground."
Gallion denied a statement by Kennedy before a U. S. Senate committee that he had talked with Gallion and Alabama Gov. John Patterson about protection for the "Freedom Riders."
"Never before or since the beginning of the freedom rides has Bobby Kennedy or any of his assistants called me concerning this subject and I have never talked with this individual at any time," Gallion said.
The U. S. Supreme Court rejected three more appeals seeking to block public school integration in New Orleans. The high tribunal summarily affirmed a decision by a special three-judge federal panel in New Orleans that ruled unconstitutional the creation of a new school board by the Louisiana Legislature last year.
The Supreme Court also refused to order the setting up of a three-judge federal tribunal to hear a protest against Florida's new pupil assignment law by parents of 14 Negro children in Duval County (Jacksonville), Fla. The county school board defended the law as a constitutional and orderly plan for public school desegregation.
Nine more convicted Freedom Riders were transferred from the county jail at Jackson, Miss., to the State Penitentiary and five others posted bond to gain their freedom from the prison farm. At Chapel Hill, N. C., a white Duke University student was arrested on trespass charges after said the student, Edward Orton, refusing to leave the Negro section of a bus station grill. Police told them he feels segregation is morally wrong.

Last-Hour Pleas Fail Save 2 From Execution

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — Dramatic last-hour pleas failed and two convicted slayers of a highway patrolman died calmly in the electric chair here Monday.
Otis Britt, 25, of Savannah, Ga., and Douglas Westbury, 29, of Summerville, were executed before audiences that included many highway patrolmen and brothers and nephews of the slain officer.
Two sisters of Britt and the mother and sister of Westbury made fruitless personal appeals to Gov. Ernest Hollings, then sought a final hour stay from Federal District Judge G. B. Timmerman.
One of Britt's sisters, Mrs. Vickie Pinto of Savannah, collapsed in hysterics on the prison steps a half hour before her brother was executed. She was taken away after recovering, sobbing inconsolably.
"I'm sorry for my part in this," Britt quietly told the death house audience shortly before his 4 p. m. execution.
"I have committed no crime but a crime has been committed and I must pay for it," Westbury declared some 15 minutes later after he was strapped in the electric chair.
Both men were convicted twice. A third man, Lee Von Tilson of Savannah, is serving life in the case.
The three were accused of shooting down Patrolman Harry Boyd Fay in October 1958, near Santee. A motel had been robbed nearby by three men shortly before the shooting. Ray stopped the car for speeding, unaware a robbery had occurred.
In statements from the two men who died, they said Ray begged for his life after he had been shot several times and was being shot again.
Tilson set hopes of Britt and Westbury alive several weeks ago.

Cold Front For Spring's Finale

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A wide area of the nation received a chilly soaking with heavy rains on this last day of spring, but the downpours in Texas were easing up a bit.
Although summer officially starts Wednesday at 8:30 a. m. EST, a cold front still lingered today and stretched from northern New York State southwest through northern Indiana to the Oklahoma Panhandle and northwestern Colorado and central Wyoming.
The Weather Bureau said torrential rains would end during the day in extreme eastern Texas and Louisiana. Severe thunderstorms doused the Texas Panhandle and extreme southeastern New Mexico.
Thundershowers dropped 1.08 inches of rain on Chicago in little more than an hour and the temperature skidded from 84 to 67. In six hours 1.10 inches fell at Quincy, Ill., 90 at Willow Run Airport in Detroit; 4.05 at Lafayette, La., and 1.58 at the naval air station in New Orleans. Mobile, Ala., measured 1.25 inches in six hours.
Readings in the 40s and 50s were common in the upper Great Lakes, upper Mississippi Valley, the eastern Dakotas, Nebraska and along the Pacific Coast. The 80s prevailed in southern Florida and the central and southern plateau regions.
Needles, Calif., reported 107 white Peliston, Mich., recorded a chilly 39.

Rebels Attack Port In Angola

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — A large rebel force armed with an estimated 20 light machineguns attacked the port of Ambriz in the Portuguese West African territory of Angola Monday, the Lusitania news agency said today.
A report from the agency's correspondent in Luanda, the Angola capital, said the rebels wounded a guard at Ambriz airport, damaged runways and set fire to several buildings before being driven off. The attack lasted four hours. Ambriz is 70 miles north of Luanda.

Wreckers Will End Old Scenic Railway

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (AP)—The ring of wreckers' tools is expected to soon sound the death knell for most of the scenic, 90-year-old Tallulah Falls Railway.
Sidney Smith Jr., U. S. District Court commissioner, said Monday that a group formed to buy the 51 miles of railway from Clarksville, Ga., to Franklin, N. C., had transferred its bid to a salvage firm.
The Gainesville lawyer reported that the Midwest Steel Co. of Charleston, W. Va., had assumed the $266,000 bid of the Rabun Industrial Development Board. Wrecking operations were expected to start at the Franklin end of the line this week and be completed in three months, Smith said.
A spokesman for the Rabun group, J. H. Stockton, said at his home in Franklin that the board lost the railroad because it could not get a firm commitment from the federal government on tax claims totalling $53,000.

There still is a remote possibility the railroad may be saved by the Rabun group buying it back from Midwest Steel at a nominal profit for the West Virginia firm. Stockton added. His group had hoped to operate the 51 miles to serve lumber mills and other firms.
The other four miles of the line, between Clarksville and Cornelia, Ga., were bought by the Southern Railway for $36,000. Southern apparently will integrate the stretch into its system.
The Tallulah Falls, which has been in receivership since 1938, winds through 54 miles of Georgia and North Carolina mountain country, spanning some spectacular scenery. It has been the locale for two Hollywood movies.
From Sept. 30, 1777, until June 27, 1778, the capital of colonial America was York, Pa.

Construction Skills In Heavy Demand Overseas

By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK (AP)—It's rarely lumped in with foreign aid to developing countries. And it's an American export that is hard to fit into the statistics. But U.S. firms with engineering and construction skills up for hire on a global scale are chalking up sizable earnings abroad. This, along with the exports to build and equip the plants, helps the United States in its struggle to balance its international payments.

which American firms work. And also, fees collected abroad on nonmilitary work often remain in the hands of foreign subsidiaries of U.S. engineers and builders. Demand for services of these American firms still runs strong—in the already industrialized nations as well as in the more publicized underdeveloped ones. The National Constructors Association, with 28 engineering and building contractors as members, reports they are working on some 200 foreign jobs, ranging from small electric utility substations to multimillion-dollar industrial complexes requiring several years to complete. These projects, it says, employ 500 Americans overseas, as well as 30,000 foreign workers. Example: Stone & Webster Engineering Corp. of Boston says it often has staff engineers working in two-dozen lands in a single year. In 1960 its personnel rolled up 665,000 miles in foreign travel. It says its biggest customers by far are private foreign interests, rather than governments. The Construction Industry International Committee, with some 60 members, estimates 17 leading U.S. contractors completed $2.5 billion in construction jobs abroad in the last five years. It says $1 billion worth of U.S. exports in the form of machinery, construction equipment and other supplies were generated by these projects. The committee says the 22 largest American contractors now have 3,000 Americans on foreign jobs. Unestimated thousands of others are laboring here at home to supply these projects.

Three Letters Bypassed In The Hearings On TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP TV-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP)—TV's critics are complaining about the overabundance of action-adventure programs and the paucity of educational, cultural and high-level dramatic shows. But so far during the current Senate hearings on television programming there has been silence about the reason such programs illuminate—if that's the word—the home screens so much of the time. The reason is usually contained in three letters: CPM, which is broadcasting shorthand for "cost per thousand" (the M, of course, is the Roman numeral for thousand). Television is, first and foremost a commercial medium. Advertisers pay millions of dollars a year to sponsor entertainment programs in exchange for the privilege of broadcasting their sales talk at frequent intervals. The only reason most advertisers invest this money is to reach as many potential buyers as possible. Let us presume that the manufacturer of an inexpensive product used by consumers in all income brackets—soap, a headache remedy or a brand of cigarettes—decides to spend $100,000 on a single program. If that program reaches an audience of 20 million people, it will cost the advertiser $5 to reach every 1,000 people. If on the other hand, the program is tuned in by only half that number, the CPM zooms to an expensive $10. The only way the advertiser can determine the size of the show's audience is from the educated guesses of one or another of the ratings services. That is the reason why a program's ratings are watched so closely. The minute it starts to drop, it means that the sponsor's CPM is going up in proportion. The high incidence of action-fights, gun-play, mayhem and murder on television is largely the result of action's proven ability to attract large audiences. The reason so many of the so-called "good organs"—"Playhouse 90" and other cherished dramatic programs—have quietly dried up and blown away is because they cost so much and the audience size was so small that advertisers were unwilling to pick up the tab. A few geniuses have come along who have been able to produce audience-pulling programs at comparatively low CPM for the sponsor—panel shows and audience participation programs in the days of the "64,000 Question" were among them. But until somebody comes up with a nice, quiet, morally healthy program that attracts the masses, advertisers will continue to be most interested in "The Untouchables," "Rawhide," "Gunsmoke" and the rest of the fast-moving action shows. NBC will try out for Dave Garroway's place on the "Today" show, three more members of its news staff: Edwin Newman, Ray Scherer and Sander Vanocur, one week at a time. Sherman Adams, former assistant to President Eisenhower, will be the guest of the show Wednesday morning—the first time the ex-governor of New Hampshire has been seen or heard by the nation since he resigned in the wake of the Bernard Goldfine affair.

Find Name Of Pontius Pilate

JERUSALEM, Israeli Section (AP)—An Italian archaeologist said Sunday the carved name of Pontius Pilate has been found on a stone on the Mediterranean coast of Israel. Archaeological and biblical scholars said it was the first time archaeological evidence has been found of the Roman procurator of Judea who ordered the crucifixion of Christ. Heretofore his name has only been known through the Gospels and the writings of the Jewish historian, Josephus Flavius. Announcement of the find was made by Prof. Antonio Frova, director of the antiquities department of northern Italy, who said a University of Milan archaeological expedition found it near Caesarea, about 10 miles south of Haifa. Caesarea was the capital of the Romans in Palestine for about 500 years.

Army Planning August Exercise

FORT MCPHERSON, Ga. (AP)—For 14 days in August, approximately 30,000 Army personnel and 400 airplanes will engage in one of the largest peacetime mock battles across areas of North and South Carolina. Exercise Swift Strike will be under the joint command of Lt. Gen. Paul D. Adams, commanding general of the U.S. 3rd Army, Fort McPherson, and Maj. Gen. Maurice A. Preston, commanding general of the Air Force Tactical Air Command, Seymour Johnson AFB, N.C. The exercise will begin Aug. 6 and continue through Aug. 20. The 400 aircraft involved will include fighters and troop carriers. About 15,000 paratroopers will be dropped in the exercise designed to test and train the military force's ability to react to and fight in an emergency situation. Egypt's pleasure-loving ancient peoples decorated their tombs with pictures of parties in the belief that the fun would last forever.

May Hire Security Guards To Save Tackle Prospects

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A few more defections and Southeastern Conference football coaches will be hiring security guards to save what is left of their tackle prospects.

In rapid-fire order, three of the top tackles in the conference succumbed to books or the lure of playing for cash in the past week.

Tulane's No. 1 tackle prospect was a scholastic victim several months ago, and a strapping youngster who played on Mississippi's freshman team last year signed a baseball bonus contract the other day with the Milwaukee Braves.

"I wish we could find a vaccine for this sort of thing," said an assistant coach at one of the SEC schools. "It could get to be an epidemic."

Ken Frost, rated as Tennessee's most valuable lineman in 1960, encountered a scholastic roadblock and announced last Friday he would detour to the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

Frost, 6-foot-4 and 240 pounds, and father of four, was held out one season and was thus eligible for the professionals when felled by classroom shortcomings.

Two days later, Georgia Tech's right side caved in a bit when Ed Nutting, 240-pounder, said he would forego his last year of college eligibility to try his hand with the Cleveland Browns.

Nutting satisfied the professors but he explained, "I have to look at this thing in the light of what will be best for me in the five years."

Florida lost a big one Monday when 260-pound Frank Lasky was denied permission to enter summer school to make up scholastic deficiencies. Lasky, a star on Florida's undefeated 1959 freshman team, failed to make the grades last year but coaches had hoped he would get by this time. He was a first stringer in spring practice.

Ed Reynolds of Tulane, who made the all-SEC sophomore team last year, failed in the winter quarter at the New Orleans school. Reynolds displayed great talent last fall as an offense wrecker. He was a top-grade blocker, too.

Ole Miss wasn't counting heavily on sophomore Dickie Smith, the 210-pound teenager who signed a bonus agreement with Milwaukee for more than $50,000. Smith is a pitcher who obviously feels there's more future in throwing than in tackling.

Huge Bonuses Might Be 'Suicide' For Majors

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — General Manager John Quinn of the Philadelphia Phillies says major league baseball is committing suicide with payments of huge bonuses to youngsters fresh out of high school. As a solution, he suggests a free agent draft.

Quinn indicated the Phillies might sponsor legislation for such a draft when the major leagues hold their annual meetings late this month.

"The whole situation has gotten out of hand," Quinn said Monday. "We thought we had solved the problem with the rule that made any first-year player not brought up to the big league club eligible for the draft after his first season. But that obviously hasn't had any appreciable effect."

"The quicker we get around to adopting a draft such as pro football uses, the better it will be for baseball."

Under the draft system, names of all the outstanding major league prospects graduating from high school would be placed into a hopper and clubs would take turns selecting with the last place club in each league getting first pick. The other clubs would follow in reverse order according to their finish the season before.

The Phillies, who in past years have signed several bonus players, haven't done much this year in handing out huge sums of money.

Asked if this meant an economy move, Quinn said it didn't and explained: "We have been interested in most of the players that have been signed for big money this spring but our scouts didn't think they were worth what the other clubs did."

Orioles Playing A Waiting Game

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Paul Richards and the Baltimore Orioles are playing the waiting game so far as the American League pennant race is concerned.

Richards, who stopped off in Chicago to take in the White Sox Cleveland game eventually postponed Monday night, said all his club needs is a hard hitting outfielder to crash into serious contention.

Asked why he didn't trade for one, Richards said: "Simple, I didn't want to give up Chuck Estrada, Steve Barber or Mill Pappas. Everyone we wanted to deal with wanted one of those young pitchers and I decided I wasn't going to disrupt either my infield or the nucleus of a fine, young pitching staff for an aging outfielder."

The Orioles are languishing in fifth place, 8½ games off the pace but Richards isn't conceding a thing to anyone despite his lack of outfield power.

"The contract was for 162 games," he said, "and we've only played about a third of the season. Actually, nobody quakes when Cleveland or Detroit take the field. And some of that pitching the New York Yankees throw at you isn't exacting frightening."

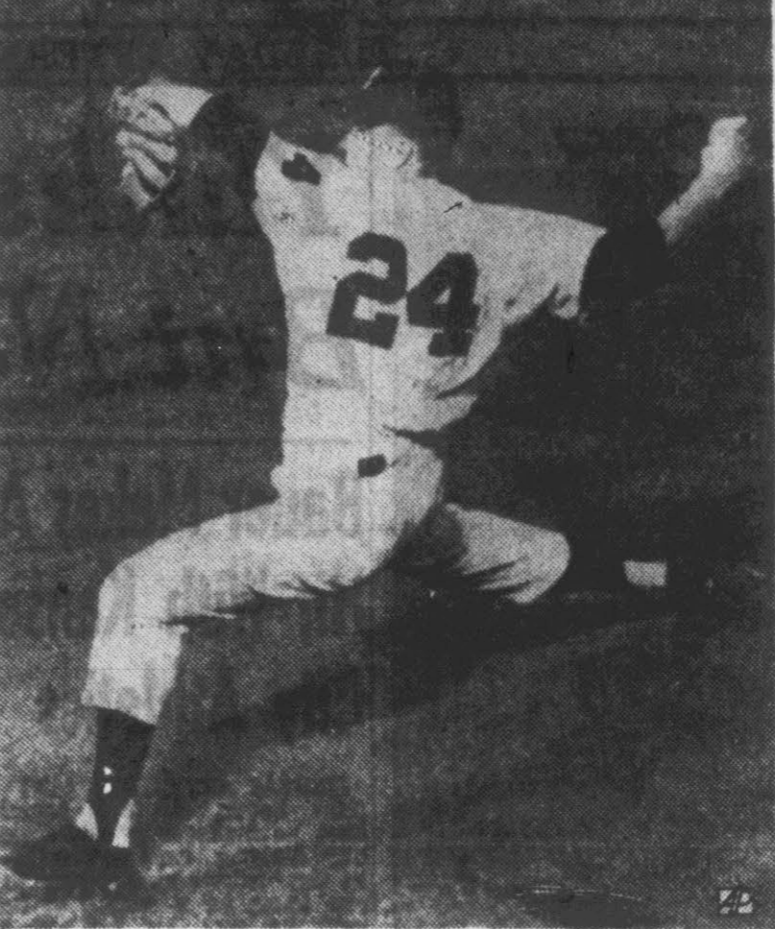

"I still think this is a wide open race."

Post Bond For Appearances

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Two Youngstown, Ohio, men arrested last Saturday while unloading 240 gallons of moonshine whisky at a farm house south of here have posted bond for federal court appearances.

David Peter Paolucci, 39, posted $4,000 bond and Donald Paolucci, 18, posted $1,000 bond. Both are charged with removing, concealing and transporting whisky on which no tax had been paid. Officers confiscated the men's truck.

Attending the meeting were Buzzy Bavasi of Los Angeles, Bing Devine of St. Louis, John McHale of Milwaukee, Chub Feeney of San Francisco and John Quinn of Philadelphia.

Also at the meeting was league President Warren Giles, who said there would be no announcements after the first inning of play.

Stiff Competition For Hedrick In Golf Match

GREENSBORO (AP)—Stiff competition loomed for defending champion Don Hedrick of Lexington today as the first round of the 35th Carolina Junior golf tournament got under way at the Greensboro Country Club with 32 championship flight matches.

Larry Seward, 15-year-old from Laurens, S.C., who last Saturday was runner-up in the Carolina Golf Association Junior tournament at Chapel Hill, won the qualifying medal yesterday with a three-under-par 68.

Seward, a strong young husky carded 35-33 against par of 37-34 to snatch top honors from R. F. Taylor, Greensboro entry, whose 69 last week led local qualifying. With over 400 entries and 362 starters, the area qualifying held their qualifying rounds last week.

end in advance of the out-of-town-ers.

The only other sub par shooters were Stan Kinney of High Point and Jim Belton of Gastonia. Each shot 70.

Hedrick, as defending champion, was exempt.

His first round foe in the day's initial match was Jim Gerring of Union, S.C.

Seward started against John Dacus of Greenville, one of 10 South Carolina players to make the 64-man flight.

Two rounds tomorrow and Thursday will leave the finalists for Friday's 36-hole championship match.

Sub-juniors, 11 and under, begin match play tomorrow for three days. Hank Walter of Florence, S.C., won the medal with a nine-hole score of 41.

A pro-junior warmup yesterday was won by a team headed by Troy pro Danny West on a best-ball, two-man aggregate of 131. He played with Hedrick and two Troy juniors, Johnny Leach and Hal Scott.

Collegian Draws $100,000 Bonus

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wally Wolf, University of Southern California right-handed pitcher, has signed a $100,000 bonus baseball contract with the new Houston club of the National League.

Wolf, 19, is a fast ball specialist who did relief work on the Trojan team that won the NCAA championship last week for the third time. He turned down a $75,000 offer from the Los Angeles Dodgers to sign with Bobby Matlock, Houston scout.

Wolf will report this week to Houston and pitch in the American Association. The Houston club will play in the National League next season.

DONALD BARR CHIDSEY'S New Historical Entertainment THE WICKEDEST PILGRIM

CHAPTER 27 Samoset told the Pilgrims that the surrounding Indians were of many sects—he rattled off names meaningless to those who listened—but all of them were loosely under the suzerainty of Samoset's friend Ousamequin, or Yellow Feathers, more often called Massasoit, the Big Chief of the Wampanoags, who lived to the southwest of New Plymouth on the shores of Narragansett Bay.

Hate white men. "Why?" Samoset went on to explain that the Nauset were the fiercest of the several Cape Cod tribes, also the one least hurt by the plague. They were all generally under the overlordship of Massasoit, but the Nauset could be perversely independent.

They told Samoset about the theft of the tools, and he nodded, unimpressed. Yes, he had known about that, he said. Indeed, it had been the sight of those same tools that caused him to learn that white men were near, and to make inquiries. Would he get them back, please? All right—casually—he'd get them back.

condition, and they brought the tools. They were fed as a matter of form, and they ate ravenously, while the settlers, less well fed, teetered in anxiety, watching each precious morsel disappear.

such splendors, which they were told could kill men by the score. Sal Boyd didn't agree. These were poor pieces. They might be made to carry a couple of hundred yards, or they might burst. To place them on top of a hill was bravado, nothing more.

The ship Mayflower, riding at anchor off New Plymouth, was higher in the water ever day. Passengers and passenger's provisions had been carried ashore. In his aerie on Fort Hill, where he spent most of his time these days, Sal Boyd was surrounded by five additional reasons for the lightening of the Mayflower. These comprised the separatists' artillery. There were two bases, weapons that would throw a half-pound ball, though not far; a falcon, a two-pounder; a three-inch minion that weighed half a ton; and their star, a ten-foot, 1,800-pound saker with a four-inch bore. This last must surely have been the largest weapon ever seen in this part of the world.

The New Plymouthites were inordinately fond of these pieces, and proud of them, and they often used to climb the hill just to look at them. The Indians too—for the settlement was filled with Indians once Samoset had broken the ice—were encouraged to gaze upon

Shell Research scientists reveal how they got 168.47 miles per gallon

One hundred and sixty-eight miles per gallon must be a world record. Like most world records, it took enthusiasm and hard work. The two Shell scientists who hold this record have told us how they managed it. They have also added some tips on how you can increase your car's mileage. Not by using their own outlandish techniques. But by careful driving and today's Super Shell gasoline.

Dave Berry and Fred Schuette, in the rebuilt 1924 coupé which set the world mileage record. Its original frontal area was reduced by about 75 per cent to cut down wind resistance.

SHELL scientists thrive on competition. Some years ago, an argument as to who could get the most miles out of a gallon of gasoline boiled up into a challenge. And Shell's Mileage Marathon was born. Shell scientists have competed in this Marathon for several years. Not as a publicity stunt. But purely as a private contest. They use their own cars, time and money. Not for everyday use. The best mileage recorded so far is a resounding 168 miles per gallon. Many of the things contestants did to achieve this world record are not recommended for use on the public highway. But they do throw some light on what makes a little gasoline go a long way. Record-breaking car cost $35. Shell's record-breaking car was a highly modified 1924 coupé (see cut). It was rescued from a junkyard for $35. The only requirements that had to be met to qualify for the contest were simple. The car had to have four rubber-tired wheels. It had to weigh no less than 2000 pounds. It had to have at least 100 cu. in. piston displacement. And it had to use gasoline that anybody could buy at a Shell service station. After that, no holds were barred. The car that won used a standard carburetor from an old one-cylinder engine. Tire pressures up to 110 pounds. One push and wheels spin for 30 minutes. Since the contest had nothing to do with wear, many liberties were taken with lubrication. On the winning car—the wheel bearings were lubricated with light engine oil to reduce drag. It worked. When the front wheels were jacked up and given an experimental push, they continued to spin for half an hour! Of course, no Shell serviceman would ever approve of such liberties being taken with your own car's lubrication. The champs' "on-and-off" driving. Shell's record was set in two trips over an 11.94 mile course. The run was almost a walk. The winning car was accelerated to 20 miles per hour, at which point the driver cut his engine and coasted in neutral. Only when the "speed" dropped below 5 miles per hour was the engine restarted and the cycle repeated. All acceleration was done in high gear. There was little choice. All other gears were removed prior to the contest. Serious—or scientific fun? You already know the result. But, since "on-and-off" driving is illegal on the public road—and since most marathon modifications are positively dangerous for normal use—you may be wondering if Shell's Mileage Marathon has any point. Is it a serious test? Or is it merely a scientific picnic? The answer is—a bit of both. Knowledge passed on. When Marathon Day rolls around at Shell, there is certainly a picnic atmosphere at the testing grounds. But remember that the Marathon is only a climax to months of serious work. Not everybody sets a record. But every contestant learns a little more about the care and feeding of automobiles. Which, after all, is Shell's main job. Eventually, every bit of this knowledge is passed on to you in the form of better products. Today's Super Shell is a shining example. Thanks to continuous engine studies and mileage tests, Super Shell now contains a special mileage booster called Platformate. Among Platformate's components are benzene, toluene and xylene. These three components alone release 11 per cent more energy per gallon than the finest 100-octane aviation gasoline. The lesson is obvious. The first thing you do to get extra mileage is to put extra energy into your fuel tank, by using today's Super Shell. Then, if you want even more mileage, take these tips. 1. Don't race your engine when stationary. Every revolution is pure waste unless it is taking you somewhere. 2. Avoid jack rabbit starts. They waste gasoline by holding automatic transmissions in low gear too long. 3. Drive at moderate speeds. Your car uses about 40 per cent more gasoline at 60 mph than at 35 mph. 4. Keep an even speed. Ragged driving uses fuel without using the power it generates. 5. Keep tires up to their proper pressures. Soft tires soak up power like a blotter soaks up ink. 6. Get your Shell man to make these checks. Your carburetor should be adjusted periodically. Spark timing should be correct. Fuel filters and air cleaner should be clean. Brakes should be properly adjusted. And your thermostat must be in working order. Use today's Super Shell and follow these suggestions. You may get as much as 30 extra miles per tankful. We can't guarantee this saving. But, unless you're a millionaire, it's worth thinking about.

FISH HUNT

You think you got it tough trying to land a three-pound fish dead or alive?

You ought to try getting a 600-pound porpoise into your boat alive—and not kicking too much. Or a shark, a manta ray or saw fish.

That's the game played regularly by Ken Gathe and Warren Cox, who catch specimens for Marine Life, a giant public aquarium on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Their hunting grounds are the fish-rich, warm and shallow waters of the Gulf of Mexico, where they prowl around in a 65-foot converted air-sea rescue craft with an 18-foot skiff bouncing along behind.

Shark, saw fish and manta ray are the main drawing cards among the hundred species they collect, while an occasional porpoise, a mammal, adds a quarter of a ton to the haul. The two hunters claim the area provides the world's finest fishing.

In the hunt for porpoise and larger fish in deeper water a couple of extra hands come along to help handle the net, some 600 feet long, and coordinate the boat in an encircling maneuver as the net is dropped.

But the skiff and a smaller net are the quantity producers.

The fish hunters are pictured here.

NET RESULT. With muscles tensed, Ken Gathe untangles a writhing, fighting shark from the net. His partner, Warren Cox, watches.

Ken Gathe is helped by Warren Cox in removing skindiving gear after untying net from propeller.

Gathe opens mouth of shark to display teeth

The 600-foot-long net is hauled in from stern of boat after unsuccessful drop for porpoise.

The hunters look at a manta ray, part of catch, in well of their large boat.

Huge porpoise, weighing about 600 pounds, is lifted off boat. Generally a captured porpoise makes trip ashore on deck and is covered with wet blanket to keep it alive.

Tiny Whiz Kid Happy With A Library Card

WEST NEW YORK, N.J. (AP)—Florence Jacobs is the proud owner of public library card No. 4536.

The card will enable her to pursue such favorite subjects as rocketry and the geography of outer space. It will bring her an endless supply of the long, tongue-twisting words that she likes to spell.

Florence is 2½ years old. The brown-eyed, 39-pound bundle of answers applied for her card Monday, but it took a little doing to get it. Library regulations are that card holders must be at least seven years old.

But after a meeting with Florence, Mayor John J. Armellino made an exception to the rule. "She's probably the youngest card holder in the country," the surprised mayor said.

Her mother, Marie Jacobs, said Florence already has read some 60 books through the seventh-grade level. She learned the alphabet when she was a year old and now spells more than 300 difficult words. Florence's father, Jerome, is a business consultant. "I tell her that words are

Kinlaw Elected To Ass'n Post

Carl Kinlaw, Greenville life insurance agent, was elected area vice president at the state convention last weekend in Winston-Salem of the North Carolina Association of Life Underwriters.

Kinlaw, a past president of the Pitt County Association of Life Underwriters, attended the Winston-Salem session along with three more PCALU delegates—M. Louis Collier and J. D. Wilson Jr. of Greenville and J. Paul Simpson of Williamston.

The Pitt County delegation reported to the convention an all-time high of 50 members in the local association. A business meeting was held prior to attending the state convention and plans were made for the new year. Wilson, newly-elected president of the PCALU, appointed chairman for the Pitt organization and it was agreed to hold meetings in alternate months.

Other officers elected at the convention included Russ Crowell of Fayetteville, president; Phil G. Sawyer Jr., of Elizabeth City, vice president; and Ray King of Charlotte, secretary-treasurer.

Carlyle Dunaway, general counsel for the National Association of Life Underwriters, was principal speaker at the convention. He outlined laws and legislation affecting the life insurance business.

Skeptical newsmen, attending the special card-granting ceremony, started questioning Florence.

"What happened May 5, 1961?" she was asked.

"Alan Shepard Jr. was the first American to shoot into space. And that was a magnificent achievement," Florence replied.

"What are the hazards in outer space for a spaceman?" "Cosmic rays and ultraviolet radiation," chirped Florence. "and you call a spaceman an astronaut."

To cap her performance, she named the planets and their satellites and ticked off, in alphabetical order, all the 50 states in the United States.

Florence then lettered her on a library card presented by Florence Osinsky, librarian, and strutted out the door, card in hand.

But one newsman had one more question to ask.

"What do you want to be when you grow up?" he shouted.

"A mother," Florence called over her shoulder.

Racial segregation is not one of the announced aims of any of the nation's major political action groups in the conservative wing. Yet the militant white supremacist finds an area of agreement in many pronouncements of, say, the Birch Society. The Birchers, for their part, may find little to argue with some key points.

Among the tensions giving impetus to political militancy today, desegregation is one. Communism's advances in the cold war is another.

On occasion, reactions overlap. Some segregationist action groups freely identify their opponents with the "communist conspiracy."

Militant right-wing groups, while not concerned with integration as such, espouse states rights principles and opposition to federal intervention in that area—tenets also of activist pro-segregation groups.

For example, Birch leader Robert Welch insists his society's efforts to impeach Chief Justice Earl Warren "is based on his attempt to change this (country) from a republic to a democracy, and we particularly stay clear of basing it on the May 17, 1954 segregation decision" of the Supreme Court.

"That's just one of about 20 different decisions," said Welch, "that helped to break down states rights."

By the same token, a tract printed in Greenwood, Miss., by the Association of Citizens Councils said the South has been "unfairly called undemocratic" because it resisted the onward sweep of centralizing governmental trend alien to our federal republic."

A broader base on which both groups stand, however, is their conception of the American way of life, which for many Southerners involves racial segregation in their bailiwicks.

Typical of this tendency is a Citizens Council's pamphlet cartoon which shows a Southerner sleeping while insects labeled "red termites" eat away his home. "By the use of facts and truth," said the caption, "we can appeal to all Southerners for support."

In Birmingham, Ala., recently, a group of "Freedom Riders" was greeted with the cry, "You dirty Communists, why don't you go home to Russia?"

Obviously communism, being cordially detested by most Americans, may serve as a handy term of incentive. But the Rev. Joseph Fitzpatrick, S. J., a Fordham University sociologist, suggests a deeper connection:

"The 1954 Supreme Court decision shook the South violently," he says. "The natural reaction was a desire to return to the old customs, the past."

"Communism's aim is the direct opposite — to wipe out the tranquility of the old ways, the past. So it became both natural and logical to some Southerners to regard integration as a part of a sinister Communist plot."

Throughout the South, there are more than 550 local groups dedicated to fighting integration, a smaller number than existed four or five years ago.

Even in Mississippi there were attempts to put a brake of state financial support extended to Citizens Councils.

The State Sovereignty Commission has funneled funds to the Citizens Councils at the rate of about $5,000 a month since last July. The conservative Jackson State Times has criticized the practice, and State Atty. Gen. Joseph Patterson moved at a recent commission meeting to stop the payments. The motion failed, but it seemed significant that it was made at all.

Distribution of racist literature in the South likewise has diminished considerably—though it has by no means vanished.

A recent tract of the Elmore County (Alabama) White Citizens Council attacks "the ridiculous myth that the modern American Jew is a whiteman."

"The Jew has a colored background," the publication declares. He is a racial mongrel and not a whiteman, and "this fact explains why so-called American Jews are very partial to Asiatic Communist Russia."

The council felt "this basic information should clear up a lot of muddy thinking for a great many American whitemen."

However, the Alabama Association of Citizens Councils has disavowed any connection with the Elmore group and repudiated its anti-Semitic activities.

The Alabama Citizens Councils, perhaps the best organized in the South, are affiliated with the Inter-State Citizens Councils of America which advocate nonviolent resistance to "Communist inspired" integration.

Headquarters of the larger group is in Jackson, Miss. There are no Southwide membership statistics, but the Alabama group claims about 100,000 members, Mississippi about 80,000. Only a small percentage, however, could be regarded as extreme militants.

Another group operating in Alabama is the Alabama Knights of the U. S. Ku Klux Klan Inc., an organization of undisclosed membership led by Robert M. Shelton, 31, of Tuscaloosa.

Besides fighting integration, Grand Wizard Shelton also wars against water fluoridation ("A Communist plot to poison the American people") and mental health programs ("they can perform an operation on you, give you the mentality of a 3-year-old, and teach you to be an integrationist or anything else.")

In the neighboring state of Georgia is another vocal crusader — dedicated to fighting the Communist conspiracy" as manifested in integration efforts.

He is Lester Maddox, a bespectacled, balding cafeteria proprietor who heads a group called Georgians Unwilling to Surrender—GUTS.

Maddox claims a following of about 1,000 and hopes to form a nationwide organization. Atlanta police say about half the GUTS membership turns up at Georgia Klan rallies, though Maddox disclaims any association with the Klan.

At another point on the militant spectrum appears a second type of segregationist group—the black supremacists.

Best organized among this group, and the only one of much significance, is the well-disciplined racial-religious sect known as the Black Muslims. It preaches hatred of the white man, and adherence to the Moslem religion.

(True Moslems disassociate themselves from the sect, and point to a centuries old stand against racial discrimination as taught in the Koran.)

Leader of the Black Muslims is an ascetic, 64-year-old, Georgia born Negro named Elijah Poole. One day, said Poole, he met a man named Fard Muhammad who revealed himself as "Allah on Earth," and from that time on Poole dropped his "slavemaster name" and became Elijah Muhammad.

His group is based in Chicago and is reported to have more than 100,000 followers. The Muslims have a membership goal of one million by the end of this year, five million by 1964. Muhammad tells his followers and more black men (they do not use the term Negro) realize efforts to integrate are a sham by "blue-eyed devils" (whites) conspiring with "so-called Negroes" of the NAACP whose real aim is "to subjugate the black man."

He urges Muslims to "fight like hell with those who fight like hell against you, and the world of mankind will respect us as equals and white rule in the United States will be overthrown by 1970."

For all their inflammatory speeches and publications, the Muslims have been strictly law abiding and insist on a rigid moral code for their members. For example: No smoking or drinking, modest dress, prayer five times a day.

HEAVY HEADPIECE—A Nigerian juju (black magic) dancer supports a four-foot-long bamboo tree trunk decorated with a variety of his apparatus. Two handles are fixed to the bottom of the log so he can carry the weight of the leopard skin-draped headgear.

READY!

Newspaper Advertising Readers Are Ready To Buy!

Newspaper readers are attracted to your advertising because it interests them. They are more apt to be live, "ready-to-buy" prospects than is the case with readers and viewers of other advertising media.

Live prospects are easier to sell. They actually shop the newspaper ads—they want to be sold, and are looking for information to help make a buying decision. Take housewives, for example—research* proves that 75% of them check the ads in the daily newspaper before making their main shopping trips of the week.

It's that kind of readiness on the part of newspaper readers that can mean ready sales for you!

Conservation Of Vital Top Soil Now Necessary

By ELMER BLAND
Soil Conservation Aide
 Soil erosion has taken its toll of top soil since early settlers cleared the first plot of ground in Pitt County.

Those pioneers found a rich top soil averaging nine inches in thickness. Today, on many Pitt County fields, some or even all of the top soil is gone.

Where did it go? Most of it has been carried to the creeks, streams, Tar River and Pamlico Sound.

Bald red hillsides and blowing dust storms are clear signs of erosion. The productive power of the soil has been lowered. But much of the damage caused by erosion is attributed to drainage ditches and our natural drainage channels.

Every farmer who has shoveled sediment out of a drainage ditch knows where that soil came from. He also knows how much it costs to clean out ditches.

Generally, the cost of having eroded top soil thrown out from a ditch bottom runs about 10 cents a running yard or about 50 cents a cubic yard. So erosion hurts the land it came from and again it has to be cleaned from drainage ditches.

Most Pitt Countians depend on the remaining thin layer of top soil for three meals a day. So we must keep the topsoil in place. That is why Soil Conservation Districts blanket the Nation.

Each district has a conservation program to fit its local problems. Each district uses a combination of local, state, and federal services to put its own program into effect on individual farms.

Pitt County is part of the Coastal Plain Soil Conservation District, organized in 1942 under North Carolina law. The people organized it to control and prevent erosion, control floods, preserve wildlife, and protect the tax base.

Arch J. Flanagan, Chairman; W. C. House; and J. B. Speight are members of the Pitt County Supervisor Board. They govern the District.

The Coastal Plain Soil Conservation District has prepared a district program. This document describes the conditions, and the problems affecting land-resources conservation in Pitt County. It states the district's soil and water conservation goals and tells what the district proposes to do to meet them.

Landowners working with district supervisors make conservation plans for their farms. They receive help through the district from professional conservationists of the United States Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service.

These conservationists are assigned to assist the district and district cooperators through a signed agreement between USDA and the Soil Conservation District called a "Memorandum of Understanding."

Soil Conservation Service technicians help district cooperators to plan for the correct use of each acre of farm land within its capabilities and the treatment of each acre of farm land in accordance with its needs for protection and improvement.

SCS technicians also help district cooperators carry out conservation practices which require skill beyond the experience of the individual farmer. They help on such practices as conservation crop rotations, cover cropping, crop residue use, strip cropping, contour farming and terracing. They also help on grassed waterways and field borders.

District cooperators know erosion goes on night and day during heavy rains and every wind storm. They plan to control erosion on every acre of land during all 12 months of the year. This is soil conservation at its best.

ANOTHER BIG REASON BEHIND THE BIG BOOM IN FORD SALES:

Galaxie styling is inspiring more admiration (and imitation) than any other car on the road!

This is the look that started with Thunderbird—sired the Galaxie—and quickly became the styling success of the Sixties.

Many cars have tried to copy it. No car has succeeded. Incomparably beautiful, the 1961 Galaxie maintains its distinction—as originals always do.

Styling is only part of Galaxie's distinction: this is the car that's beautifully built to take care of itself. The '61 Ford goes 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications . . . 4,000 miles between oil changes. Brakes adjust automatically. The muffler is built to last three times as long as ordinary ones. The body is specially treated to resist rust and corrosion. The finish never needs waxing.

Wouldn't it make sense to STOP spending money on an old car that can never do for you what a new Ford can do?

SWAP right now while your Ford Dealer's sales are booming—and the swapping is easier than it's ever been before.

SAVE with the Ford that makes saving fun!

Higher Prices For Furniture

CHICAGO (AP)—There is bad news for the consumer at the International Home Furnishings Market—prices are going up.

Wholesale buyers looking over the new fall lines at the week-long market are being told to expect a 3 to 5 per cent price jump within the next month or six weeks.

Leaders in the home furnishing field attribute the price increase to the rising cost of raw materials. At a news conference Monday on the Home Furnishings Market prospects for 1961, G. Maurice Hill, president of Drexel Furniture Co., Drexel, N.C., said:

"Sharp increases in lumber prices and the cost of other necessary raw materials is causing manufacturers to boost the price of furniture and other hard goods."

T. W. Tisdall, president of the Shaw Manufacturing Co., Charlotte, N.C., said new wage standards also are a contributing factor to the predicted price rise.

The two men agreed that the rest of 1961 should see some improvement in sales but shied away from predicting a boom.

"It's been a strange spring," said Hill. "There has been more optimism and less order-placing by buyers than at any previous time. Nevertheless, it should be a good but not a record business year."

Adlai Moves On To His Last Stop

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson moves on today to Bogota, last stop on his South American tour, for talks with Colombian President Alberto Lleras Camargo on hemisphere defense against communism and other anti-Democratic movements.

President Kennedy's touring representative has been concentrating so far on preparation for next month's economic and social conference in Uruguay, but Lleras is understood to have a plan for political action which he has already broached to the United States and other countries.

In the nine countries he has already visited, Stevenson found government leaders all cool toward any joint action against Fidel Castro's Cuban regime. Most of them insisted that all hemisphere political problems should be deferred until after the economic conference, scheduled for July 15 at Punta del Este.

The Colombian plan is said to look to the future rather than to seek punishment of Cuba or other countries for past actions.

In Quito government leaders outlined for Stevenson a comprehensive plan to improve Ecuador's living conditions and indicated they need immediate foreign credits of more than $180 million.

Maxwell Taylor Considered For Kennedy Staff

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy is seriously considering the appointment of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor as White House military adviser, the New York Times said today, and announcement of the appointment is expected this week.

A Washington dispatch to the newspaper said the appointment would, in effect, revive the post of personal chief of staff to the commander in chief. This post was originally held by Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy under Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

Taylor, 59, was called to Washington after the unsuccessful Cuban invasion to conduct an inquiry for Kennedy into the nation's intelligence activities. He is on leave as president of the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts in New York City. Taylor was Army chief of staff from 1955 to 1959.

President Skips Press Club Party

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy stayed home to nurse his back injury Monday night while Mrs. Kennedy filled in for him at a banquet-date with women reporters.

The back strain that caused Kennedy to miss the annual banquet of the Women's National Press Club also contributed to cancelling his scheduled flight to Hawaii next week.

Both dates were called off Monday. The White House said Kennedy's recuperation had advanced to a stage where he did not want to risk aggravating the condition.

The same explanation was given a week ago when Kennedy skipped a speaking engagement before the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Every day since then, White House physician Dr. Janet Travell has been described as satisfied with Kennedy's progress.

At Monday night's banquet, Mrs. Kennedy took all the song and satire, including digs at herself and her husband, with apparent good humor. At the end of the evening, she gave a little talk, voicing regrets on behalf of her husband that he couldn't be there.

Kennedy had said he would attend the Governors' Conference in Honolulu and deliver a speech next Tuesday unless prevented by other business. White House news secretary Pierre Salinger said only that "it was felt he should not make a trip at this time."

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will substitute for Kennedy at the Governors' Conference.

House Applauds Work Toward Small Loan Bill

RALEIGH (AP)—The House broke into applause Monday night after a legislator praised Wayne Rep. Roland Braswell for his work in behalf of small loan legislation which was enacted Friday.

Rep. W. C. Harris of Wake, who favored lower small loan rates than Braswell said, "If it were not for him, we might not have a small loans bill."

Sen. Jennings King of Scotland led the Senate fight for rates than those proposed in Braswell's bill. The lower rates were enacted.

Harris said Braswell had done intensive work in gathering information on the small loan issue. He added, "Information is what we all need before we make up our minds to vote. If we take the information he gives and arrive at a different conclusion, that is not a criticism of him."

"The House," he said, "ought to appreciate the contribution he made."
