Greenville's Preliminary Budget Could See City In The Million-Dollar Bracket

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor. Greenville could become a million dollar city this year if increases come in a straining preliminary budget.

Former City Manager Leonard Bloxam, who prepared this year's budget, last night presented figures to the City Council calling for the expenditure of $4,161,141, which bumps the million dollar mark.

The budget includes $2,500 for Carver Memorial Library equipment. Bloxam warned that several badly needed items had been cut from the Public Works Department capital improvements budget in order to stay within the present tax rate.

The councilmen asked Scheipers to arrange a meeting with the county commissioners to discuss discontinuing the appropriations. Also discussed was a $200 appropriation to the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association.

the present year's budget being $49,699. City debt service calls for $80,461.25 compared with last year's $47,218.75.

Miss Harrington Weds Mr. Stancil

Mrs. George Wiley Stancil

AYDEN—Miss Brownie Harrington of Route 1, Ayden, became the bride of George Wiley Stancil of Route 1, Greenville, in a double-ring ceremony in the Ayden Methodist Church Sunday at four o'clock in the afternoon. Officiating at the ceremony were the Rev. Louis Aitken and the Rev. Garland Tassley.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Zelota Harrington of Ayden and Mr. Edwin Harrington of Pompano Beach, Fla. Mr. Stancil's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Stancil of Greenville.

Miss Marie Burnette of Draper, organist, and Miss Brenda Blake of Greensboro, soloist, presented the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Ira J. McGlohon, the bride wore a gown she designed and fashioned of taffeta and Alencon lace, featuring a heart shape neckline. Her shoulder length veil was attached to a tiara of pearls. She carried a cascade of carnations and lilies-of-the-valley centered with a white orchid.

The bridegroom's sister, Miss Wertie Mae Stancil, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Norma Boyd of Candler and Miss Pat Rudisill of Cherryville. They wore street-length dresses of blue silk and carried fans trimmed with pink roses and chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were Billy Norris, Ted Norris, Freddie McGlohon and Ralph Tripp.

The bride is a graduate of Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. The bridegroom is a rising junior at East Carolina College in Greenville where the couple will reside.

A three-course luncheon was served from the dining table, which was overlaid with a linen cut-work cloth, centered with an arrangement of feverfew, daisies, and gardenias. Guests were seated at auxiliary tables.

The honorees were given corsages of gardenias.

The hostesses' gift to Miss Moye was a silver aspic tray, and to those sharing honors a gift of silver trimmed crystal ash trays.

Bread Pudding Is Honest Dish

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor
Don't spurn bread pudding. It can be a most delicious dessert. But first find a fine-flavored recipe. One of them, we're happy to say, is right here.

Bread pudding has a long and honorable history. Two recipes for it are in the first cookbook of American authorship published in the United States.

From its beginning, this bread pudding was a simple honest dish. It's remained that way. I don't know how the dessert has escaped the well-known American urge to make startling innovations, but thank heaven it has.

Just one modern change we recommend. Use evaporated milk, as the following recipe directs. We're frank to say that we do not cherish the flavor of this milk "as is," but in certain custard-type recipes it combines with other ingredients to give different and delectable taste.

Early recipes for bread pudding called for raisins or currants; we use the former. Our flavoring of nutmeg and grated lemon rind are old-fashioned also; the vanilla is a newer addition, but well worthwhile.

What sauce for bread pudding? Some early recipes do not specify; others recommend wine sauce or melted butter and sugar. Then when Fannie Farmer's cookbook arrived at the end of the last century, she favored Vanilla Sauce. We suggest Vanilla Cream.

RAISIN BREAD PUDDING
1 large can (1 2-3 cups) evaporated milk
1 1-3 cups water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups soft bread crumbs (six 1/2-inch slices with crusts removed)
2 eggs

1-3 cup sugar
Salt
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Grated rind of 1 lemon
3/4 cup raisins (rinsed in hot water and drained)

Scald milk and water; remove from heat and stir in butter until melted. Pour over bread crumbs and let stand. With a fork, beat eggs enough to combine yolks and whites; add sugar, a dash of salt, nutmeg, vanilla and grated lemon rind; at once slowly add hot milk and crumb mixture, stirring constantly and mixing well. Turn into buttered 1 1/2-quart casserole. Scatter 1/2 cup of the raisins over top — they'll sink. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven about 50 minutes or until knife inserted close to center comes out clean. Sprinkle remaining raisins over top for garnish.

Serve warm with 1 cup light cream mixed with 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Makes 6 large servings.

Note: If any of the pudding is leftover it may be reheated in double boiler over a small amount of boiling water.

'Clean-Up' Machines Help Patients

Because good personal appearance is such an important factor in keeping up morale, and high morale is so vital to convalescence, some hospitals have installed coin-operated washing machines and even hair dryers for the convenience of ambulatory patients. When hair is freshly shampooed and sleepwear and robes clean and attractive, any patient just naturally feels and looks better.

Portable Mixer

A battery operated, portable mixer is a handy gadget for dieters who lunch on one of those popular low calorie diet preparations which need to be dissolved in water. This inexpensive mixer, which is only six inches long, fits easily into a handbag or desk drawer.

The mixer should be rinsed immediately when used away from home. However, it must later be washed thoroughly in hot soap or detergent suds and rinsed before being used again.

Wise Step In Deferring Pay Boost

The Senate has killed, and wisely so in our opinion, the proposed constitutional amendments which would have placed in the hands of the legislators matter of setting the salary of members of the General Assembly.

Under the proposal, members of the 1963 General Assembly would have been permitted to set their own salaries for their session. Subsequently each session of the legislature would have set the salary of members serving in the succeeding session.

The matter of remuneration for service in the state legislature has long been a matter of concern in North Carolina. From time to time there have been questions concerning not only the salary of legislators, but also length of time for which they could draw their salary during a session, the amount of daily subsistence allowance they could draw, and the travel allowance to which they were entitled. These questions have been discussed against a backdrop of the matter of the cost to the individual to stay in Raleigh during a term of the legislature, whether he should be reimbursed for actual expenses, or whether the level of pay should be expected to compensate the individual for loss of personal income which he would otherwise have had had he not been in Raleigh for several months serving in the legislature.

So far there has been no conclusion drawn that has gained universal support throughout the state. For the most part, however, the opinion seems to prevail that the compensation of a legislator should be sufficiently high so as not to restrict legislative office only to the well-to-do, and at the same time the compensation should not reach the level that would entice individual to seek membership in the legislature for the compensation in dollars and cents which the job pays. Where the dividing line is between these two is often the subject of considerable discussion.

At present members of the legislature are paid $15 per day for a maximum of 120 days, and if the legislative session extends longer than 120 days, the daily pay stops. In addition each legislator receives $12 per day subsistence allowance plus travel pay for one round-trip weekly from his home to Raleigh. Although the legislature can alter the pay allowance, the pay of lawmakers is fixed by the constitution. It seems to us the wise course to follow in this matter is for a special committee appointed by the Governor to consider the matter of compensation of legislators between now and the next session of the General Assembly, and present at that time recommendations for making whatever adjustments either in salary or allowances that appear necessary.

Sanford Is Full Of Confidence

BY LYNN NISBET CONFIDENT — One of Terry Sanford's main assets from early boyhood until now has been his absolute confidence in himself and in the success of any campaign which he sponsors.

Latest display of such confidence was his decision to keep the schedule on the trip to Hawaii for the National Governors Conference—even though he had failed in his objective to bring about adjournment of the General Assembly before leaving. At his last news conference the Governor told newsmen he was confident the popular verdict of the people of North Carolina would coincide with his own opinion that the 1961 General Assembly had done more for all the people than any since 1900, and that members who supported the school program and the food tax will have nothing to fear from their constituents in the next election.

Early reaction of editorial writers, who generally have pretty accurate understanding of the sentiment in their communities, does not justify the Governor's confidence in the infallibility of his program or the security of its supporters. DISSENT — Numerous dissenting opinions have been voiced. Three have been selected for use here, because they represent the major facets of newspaper influence. The Greensboro Daily News is one of the state's leading morning newspapers, with circulation and influence all over. The Hickory Daily Record is one of the top afternoon newspapers, with circulation in a smaller area—but in the heart of the heavy voting Piedmont. Julian Scheer, who has spent nearly every day with the Legislature, has a sort of personalized editorial column in the Charlotte News.

Let's take a look at comment over the weekend in these media: "GLARING OMISSION" — The lead editorial in Sunday's Greensboro News is titled "Glaring Omission." While commending the Legislature for its approval of "quality education" in principle, it notes that the "State still refuses to have any part in providing mechanics and personnel for enforcement of its longstanding compulsory school attendance act." The editorial praises action in making better provision for the specially talented pupil and for the mentally retarded child. The main point, however, is that regardless of quality, capability of teachers and validity of curriculum, none of these pay dividends unless the children are brought to school. The current General Assembly followed the pattern of its predecessors in doing nothing to enforce the attendance laws.

"MISSES BOAT" — The lead editorial in Saturday's Hickory Daily Record is captioned "Assembly Misses Boat," and a key sentence reads: "There are many who will argue that when the record is toted up, this General Assembly will be placed near the top of the list of those that have ignored the wishes of the people." Principal failures listed are refusal to realign senatorial districts, scuttling most of the traffic safety proposals, and levying a tax on table foods instead of getting the money from other sources.

The Record thinks the congressional redistricting bill was politically unwise and that it will hurt the Democratic party. The "moral" (or immoral) aspects of it are brushed off on the grounds that gerrymandering is accepted practice and what we've got now is no worse than what we've had for years in that respect. "FAILS SAFETY" — Julian Scheer, who thought the court reform bill failed of its main purposes and that congressional and senatorial redistricting bills constituted travesties on equitable representation, opines in his Saturday column that "the biggest failure of the General Assembly has been its failure to enact highway safety legislation."

PERSONAL FAVORITES — These opinions are colored, of course, by personal attitudes of those expressing them. Governor Sanford put everything he had behind the proposal to get some fifty million dollars more for education. He got it. So for him it was a highly successful Legislature. Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt and others who paraded highway safety didn't get much, so they cannot be expected to regard the session successful. Certainly those who regarded equitable apportionment of legislative representation at Raleigh and Washington as important have nothing to be happy about.

And there are ruminations from the ranks of school folks that they are not as happy as they thought they would be over the increased money available to them. Suggestions have come from all quarters, from the Governor's office down to the small country store, that with this extra money the school folks may be required to deliver better service. Whether that better service is provided or not is determined before the accolades for what the General Assembly did for education can be evaluated. The fact is that it is entirely too early to attempt anything like adequate appraisal of the 1961 General Assembly.

Budget-Writers Came Through In Good Style

The two-cent increase in the ad valorem tax rate designated by the Pitt County Commissioners for the coming fiscal year is certain to bring criticism from some sources about the county just as every tax increase does.

From the standpoint of holding the tax rate at a reasonable level, and at the same time providing the services necessary for the continued progress of the county, the Commissioners in our estimation have done a commendable job with the new budget. Compared with the budget-making efforts at the state and federal levels of government for the coming fiscal year, the Pitt Commissioners even with the tax increase—have found it necessary to increase the tax burden far less than other levels of government.

The tax rate increase reflects approximately the same amount that is estimated to be necessary to defray the cost of financing the bond issue for the industrial training school that was approved Saturday by voters of the county. The former ad valorem tax rate of $1.23 per $100 valuation plus the county's revenue from other sources is estimated by the Commissioners to be sufficient to meet the needs of the county during the current fiscal year.

The budget of slightly more than $1.7 million represents a new record for the county, and an increase of approximately eight per cent or $130,000 more than the total county budget for the fiscal year ending June 30. At the same time the two-cent increase in the ad valorem tax rate represents a hike of only 1.6 per cent while there has been an increase of just under three per cent in the property valuation within the county for tax purposes.

Certainly the citizens of the county would have preferred—as would have the commissioners—that no increase in the county-wide tax rate was necessary for the fiscal year that begins July 1. On the other hand, citizens of the county, as well as those upon whose shoulders the responsibility for the local government rests, recognize that the county must keep pace with its growth and that necessary services must be maintained and improved if the county is to achieve the pace of progress that it desires.

Can World Ban Nuclear Tests?

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Baruch, representing the United States, made a proposal to the United Nations on June 14, 1946, when this country alone had atomic weapons.

"We are here," he said, "to make a choice between the quick and the dead. . . . The peoples of the world long for peace and security and in that desire the United States shares ardently and hopefully."

The search of science for the atomic weapon has reached fruition in this country. But she stands ready to proscriber and destroy this instrument, to lift its use from death to life, if the world will join in a pact to that end."

Among other things he proposed that any agreement banning the bomb would provide for an inspection system to prevent cheating.

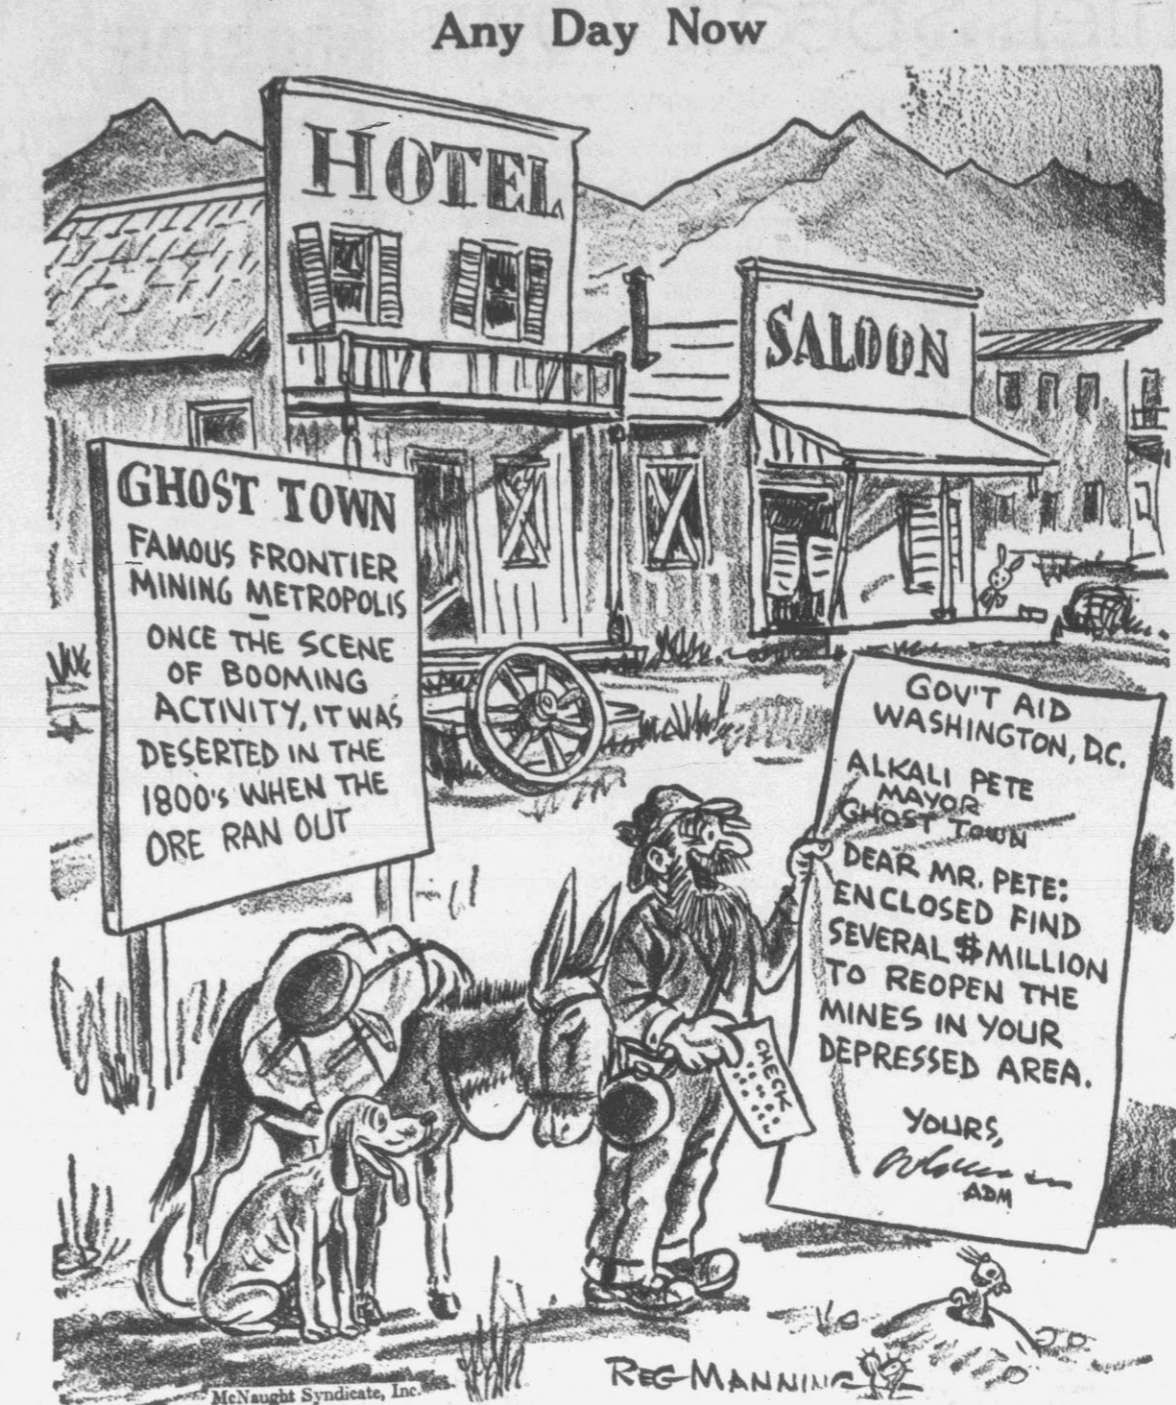

But there was no agreement. Russia went on and developed both the atomic and hydrogen bombs. The United States developed the hydrogen bomb, too. In time Britain developed a bomb. France is working on it. So is Red China.

There was endless talk of outlawing such a weapon. But as the years passed the United States, Russia and in time Britain tested their nuclear devices.

Near the end of 1958 the United States had had 135 nuclear explosions, Russia 55, Britain 21. Scientists began to worry for the future of mankind because of the danger of radiation from fallout.

The world pressured the big powers to cut it out. Then Oct. 31, 1958 became a memorable day not because it was on that day the United States, Britain and Russia met at Geneva to work out agreement to ban tests altogether.

This kind of talk had been going on for years. But it was on Oct. 31, almost three years ago, that the United States voluntarily stopped testing. Four days later, Nov. 3, the Russians, so

It's That Time, Again

The office calendar is taking a liberal beating as vacation-minded people work it over, marking where their vacations begin and end. . . . only to return a few days later for some inexperienced and fresh date-bracketing.

Things have gotten so far out of hand I can barely locate those little reminders denoting pay-days. But this is just another one of the signs of a changing season. As budding leaf herald the coming of spring, so do marred calendars proclaim advent of summer (and vacations).

Even I have posted (on the calendar) intent to vacation; but the old zest is strangely lacking. Perhaps it is attributable to spring's reluctant leaving; and the incentive to be off and away pending arrival of tropic-like days and nights when natural discomfort is multiplied by captivity indoors. At any rate, vacation-anticipation on this first day of summer is still at a low point. The anticipation of new sunburns and unaccustomed exertion that always accompanies summer holidays, is not one to move my flagging spirit.

No gossip of unrestrained fish-catching has yet reached my ears this season. . . . and that, my friend, will make me restless.

There's a month or less before the deadline for whipping up my vacation enthusiasm. Scanning a few brochures of vacation resorts is a good starter; reading a book on "How To Make Reluctant Fish Bite" is helpful; "Have Fun On $3 A Day" is another booklet that has possibilities. The pamphlet "Don't Blister, Just Tan" is for the birds. Redheads, or former red-heads, always get cooked. One within-the-family inspirer of let's-go-on-a-vacation has been singularly nonaggressive this spring. His winking words "no school today" indicate his day is largely sufficient. But only yesterday there was some off-hand discussion of adding to sea-shell collection, acquiring some more coral fishing, a recollection of adventure on a trip to the coast. . . . it adds up; he has something brewing.

The youngest lives from one holiday to the next. Fortunately for her, every day is a holiday. But when she learns (the spirit of vacation is contagious) that something akin to circus day and the county fair and Christmas and Birthdays and going swimming. . . . are all wrapped up into one package and called a "vacation", there will be no resisting.

In past years the writer has pontificated that "nothing restores the juices of life like unto a change from the daily scene, a change from the habit of routine. A vacation should be required, not permitted, of all who labor that they may be filled with a freshness and vigor and alertness that multiplies their value to society."

And since I never say such things without exploring the subject, fully, those past vacations must have been all they're cracked up to be.

Comes the first of July, there will be some straining at the bit. Wanta bet?

Other Editors Saying Cost Of Leaving School

(Oberlin, Ohio, Times) If ever the cards were stacked against the young person without a high school education, they are now and will be in the years ahead. The person who is capable of achieving a high school diploma and fails to do so is drastically handicapping himself for life.

More and more busy employers are weeding through applications by asking the simple question, "Are you a high school graduate?" If the answer is no, the applicant is through before he begins. The head of the Ohio State Employment Service in Cleveland reported this week that he has 1500 to 2000 jobs he can't fill each month, yet he also has 15,000 persons unemployed and wanting work desperately.

The situation imposes important obligations on three sectors of the community. First, high school students are obligated to think for themselves—to realize that it is their future lives they are toying with when the temptation to quit school arises.

Secondly, parents must play a part in keeping their children in school for as long as possible. OHS Principal Paul Newell's comments on the school dropout problem, said that some student quit for lack of encouragement or interest at home. On the other hand, parents who continually press their children for a better showing may drive them out of school. Parents have a big responsibility in preventing school dropouts, and it is not an easy obligation to discharge.

The third set of shoulders upon which responsibility must rest heavily is that of the schools themselves (and ultimately, the School Board and all citizens). Teaching the marginal student and guiding (which may involve pushing, pulling, cajoling, threatening, enticing) him through high school requires special techniques and great patience. To try to force a marginal student into a certain academic mold and to abandon him if he doesn't fit is to do the student a great disservice. If we are trying to draw out the best each student has in him, specific programs for slow learners and the manually oriented must be designed. Principal Newell's hope that the future will bring interest of ability in the academic portion of the curriculum and a basis for those without should be made more than a hope.

Two Interpretations To Be Had

By ELMER ROESSNER There is an interesting bit of statistics in the June 15 issue of "The Machinist," published by the International Association of Machinists, and edited by Gordon H. Cole, a distinguished labor journalist.

Mr. Cole, in a page-one spread, states: "Over the past four years, industrial production in the United States has increased by 9 per cent. The Federal Reserve Board index of factory production has risen from 146 to 159 over the four-year period. Over the same period, the Labor Department index of factory payrolls has declined from 162 to 159.2."

"True, average earnings of factory workers have increased from $81.99 to $81.34 over the four years. But the number of production and maintenance workers has declined from 12,949,000 to 11,413,000. And the average factory workweek has shrunk from 39.8 hours to 39.2 hours."

"This means that fewer and fewer American wage earners are producing more and more goods in American factories. It means that productivity has been rising faster than wages."

It surely does. In an editorial, The Machinist comments, "The chart shows that there is no basis in fact for worrying about rising wage rates. On the contrary, with production steadily increasing, there is room this year for a legitimate wage increase. Wages are not pushing prices, they are lagging behind."

Mr. Gordon writes about "legitimate wage increases." It is refreshing to find a labor editor implying there is another kind.

But some others might draw a different conclusion from the same statistics. They seem to indicate that because the average earnings of factory workers have increased from about $82 to more than $91 a week over four years, employers have been forced to greater automation. If a company profited on a wage scale of $82 a week, it would have little incentive to invest capital funds in automation equipment. But as the IMA and other unions pushed wages higher, it had the choice of making less profits, increasing prices, increasing automation, or reducing staffs.

A NEW KIND OF SPIRAL Probably all companies did a little bit of each. But, since the Machinist calculates that production rose 9 per cent while payrolls decreased 2 per cent over the same period, they must have concentrated on the last two alternatives.

A few years ago many commentators were deeply concerned about the "wage-price spiral." From the statistical evidence, it appeared employers were granting wage increases while prices decreased. . . . simply adding the increase to prices of their products. These rises increased the cost of living, causing labor unions to demand high-

How To Go Broke

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Professor Robert Triffin of Yale writes with wisdom on how to go broke. Of course, it is not essential to go broke. This is most often avoidable, but some set out to do it without much thought of the aftermath. There are even those who enjoy going broke, spending their way through life until nothing is left for them but to make a success of it.

So the learned professor does an essay on the subject with apt applications to what has happened and is happening to the American dollar because of the improvident spending of our money. Professor Triffin says: "There are two ways to go broke: a slow one and a fast one. The slow way is to go on. Year after year, spending more money than you earn. But if you are rich to begin with, you won't go broke very fast that way. You will pay for your overspending by depleting your bank balance and other assets and by getting loans from people who trust your capacity to repay them later."

A much faster way to go broke is to finance too much of your overspending by short-term borrowing. Even if you stop overspending, you may then still run into serious trouble if your IOU's are suddenly presented to you for repayment at a time when you have no balance left to cover them. If you still have other, longer-term assets in sufficient amount, you will remain perfectly solvent, but you will be confronted, nevertheless, with what is called a liquidity crisis."

The term, "liquidity crisis" might be translated into the simple word "tight." Many of us have been tight, or to put it another way, short of cash. When a nation gets to be short of cash, it can, of course, print more paper money. It can go on printing money until its money is worthless.

Professor Triffin makes the point: "We have, over the past decade, spent, lent, and given away about $20 billion more than we earned and covered the difference by cash payments in gold ($6 billion) and also by short-term IOU's ($14 billion), which foreign central banks, private banks, and individuals were, until recently, quite glad to invest in, since the dollar was regarded as safer than any other currency, and even, for the time being, as safe as gold itself."

It was, of course, too much to give away; so the dollar depreciated in value. We were not conscious of this in the United States because we did not go hungry here. The country has rich. The poor are well off. We have a high standard of living. Nevertheless, economics walked its harsh way without regard to human enthusiasms and the result was that our gold supply began to disappear. As a short-cut solution some bankers proposed that we withdraw the small gold protection that the American dollar has—a ridiculous proposal which would never have been made by those great men of Wall Street who rejected Populism and free silver and other attempts to cheapen the American dollar.

Those who believe in cheap money suffer from the aberration that the more money you have the richer you are. This is only true if the money has value. If, for instance, a currency stands at, let us say, 288 to the dollar, it means that a fellow who has $100's worth of it has 28,800 of that currency. Looking at it, 28,800 is more than 100 but it is worth more.

I can remember when $25 a week was very good pay for a secretary who could take stenography, spell, and a column of figures. . . . say, "Good Morning," politely. A girl who can do all that today might command $100 or more a week, but is she getting more? The likelihood, adding taxes, social security, and the high cost of living is that she is getting less. The same is true of all wage earners; their nominal wages go up but it is in money that it is worth less.

Money is nothing to fool about and politicians have a way of covering up errors by doing the wrong thing grandiloquently. But it is our money and we need it. (Continued on page five)

Indians Want A Greater Voice

CHICAGO, (AP)—The first national conference of American Indians has called upon the United States to give Indians a greater voice in determining government policy toward them.

Such a change would be a part of a redefinition of the responsibilities of the government in this area called for in a declaration of Indian principles.

The declaration, approved Tuesday, was the product of an eight-day conference of 700 Indians representing 200 tribes from the Bering Sea to the Florida Keys and Canada and Mexico.

The conference was organized by Sol Tax, a University of Chicago anthropologist, and followed a series of regional Indian conferences.

Abandonment of the so-called termination policy of the previous administration was one of the prime recommendations of the declaration.

The policy was adopted by the 83rd Congress and removes the federal government from the administration of Indian affairs, returning the responsibility to the tribes. Chaos sometimes has resulted in the few cases in which this has been brought about, and Indians generally oppose the policy.

Reorganization of the Bureau of Indian Affairs also is among the major recommendations. The declaration calls for abolition of the bureau's area offices with the responsibilities of these offices to be turned over to reservation superintendents.

Tourist Travels In An Iron Lung

CAMARILLO, Calif. (AP)—Marie Thompson, 35, is seeing Southern California reflected in an 18-by-24-inch mirror — on her iron lung.

Mrs. Thompson, confined to the lung day and night for 8½ years, doesn't let this hamper her yen for travel.

Touring is possible because of the specially designed panel truck Mrs. Thompson calls the Blue Angel.

The Blue Angel arrived in Camarillo Tuesday from the Thompson home in San Leandro, in the San Francisco East Bay area.

The truck was driven by nurse Louette Barber. Mrs. Thompson's children, Marie Ruth, 14; Joy, 12, and Gay, 10, were in a car driven by Marion Ray.

Crews Working On Clogged Line

GRIFTON — Utilities crews here have been working on a stopped up sewage line on DuPont Street, Superintendent Luther Lewis reported yesterday.

He said men began work on Monday and will continue today, hoping to open the line. Only a few houses are located on the street, and the effected line has not inconvenienced them.

It will take more than a week to complete the work after the line is cleared, Lewis stated.

Orders Inquiry Into Cuba Cargo

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has received permission to throw away his crutches—probably Thursday and the White House indicates the worst of his back ailment is over.

The word he has been waiting for came from Dr. Janet Travell, the White House physician, and two outside specialists in orthopedics, the branch of medicine concerned with bone and joint injuries.

They checked him over and talked with him for more than a half hour late Tuesday.

Afterward, assistant press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said that in their combined opinion Kennedy's progress is satisfactory.

Hatcher added: "He will be able to conduct his daily schedule without the aid of crutches in two days."

That would mean some time Thursday, although Hatcher declined to be more definite. Kennedy has been walking with them since June 9.

Alford Speaks To Ayden Club On New School

AYDEN — Arthur S. Alford, supervisor of Pitt County schools and assistant to Superintendent D. H. Conley, addressed the Ayden Rotary Club on the industrial training school program for Pitt County at their Friday meeting.

The bonds for establishing such a school were approved by voters in a countywide election on Saturday.

Alford explained the program of the school and told what the facilities would consist of, in addition to how the school will be administered according to preliminary plans. He also mentioned the land requirements, including the initial financial investment.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Thelbert Worthington, who is a member of the Pitt County Board of Education.

Visiting Rotarians were Mayor-elect O. G. Spell of Farmville and Superintendent of the Water and Light Department W. A. McAdams of Farmville.

President Wayland McGlohon presided at the meeting.

Three Leading Teachers Of Business To Assist Event

Three of this country's leading teachers of business will lecture and conduct classes and demonstrations at a regional Gregg Methods Conference for Business Teachers at East Carolina College June 26-30.

Dr. James L. White of the East Carolina School of Business, conference director, has announced that approximately 175 teachers from seventeen states, the District of Columbia, and two foreign countries will participate in the event. Teachers from almost 40 North Carolina towns and cities from Asheville to the coast will attend.

Sponsors of the conference are the School of Business at the college here and the Gregg Publishing Division of McGraw-Hill Book Co.

Dr. Alan C. Lloyd, editor of Gregg Typewriting Publications; Dr. Gilbert Kahn, chairman of the Business Department, East Side High School, Newark, N.J.; and Howard L. Newhouse, staff specialist and educational consultant with Gregg and editor of Business Teacher Magazine will serve on the teaching staff of the conference.

Dr. Lloyd is widely known for his development of timesaving and effort-saving devices in typewriting instruction, many of which have become standard elements in contemporary textbooks. He is the author of more than 100 articles on teaching typewriting and of seven textbooks. More than a million and a half copies of his works have been or are being used in American and Canadian typewriting classrooms.

Dr. Kahn, selected by the National Office Management Association as the 1956 Business Teacher of the year has had 27 years of teaching experience. He has conducted classes at Northwestern University, Catholic University, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, New York University, and elsewhere. He is co-author of six textbooks on business subjects and of numerous articles in professional magazines.

Mr. Newhouse has had a wide experience as a teacher on the high school and the college levels and has lectured or conducted workshops for more than 50 colleges, universities, or business organizations in the United States. As a member of the Gregg staff he has, in addition to other duties, editorial and sales promotion responsibilities and is a Gregg short-hand plate writer.

Customs Seizes Diesel Engines

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Customs officials are holding 42 diesel engines they said were shipped from the United States to France as military surplus, then resold to the Cuban government. The engines, built by General Motors to power Sherman tanks, were taken off the freighter El Priorato when it docked here Tuesday, en route to Havana from Le Havre, France. Joseph Fortier, district customs chief, said the shipment was detained pending an investigation as to whether it violates this country's Cuban embargo.

Disarmament Talks Point To Hassle Before Starting

By LEWIS GULICK
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Preliminary U.S.-Soviet disarmament talks headed into their third day amid signs of a hassle even before the two sides get to a formal conference.

John J. McCloy, the U.S. disarmament chief, and Valerian Zorin, representing the Soviets, arranged a midmorning resumption of the talks which have shown no sign of progress since they began Monday.

Meanwhile, the top U.S. delegate at the stalled Geneva nuclear test talks, Arthur H. Dean, was slated to return to Washington late today for consultations with President Kennedy and others.

State Department press officer Lincoln White said it was an "open question" whether Dean would return to the faltering Geneva parley which has been under way since November 1958. White said the United States will continue to seek an effective test ban agreement there.

During Tuesday's 2 1/2-hour McCloy-Zorin meeting, Zorin was reported to have given a lengthy restatement of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's disarmament views. Both McCloy and Zorin declined comment after the closed session.

McCloy is trying to get agreement on a site for general disarmament discussions and on a list of participating countries. Washington and Moscow have agreed the conference should begin around July 31.

But the Soviets want to merge the nuclear test talks with the general disarmament discussions, a move Kennedy opposes. They also want 15 nations at the conference table—five Communist, five Western and five neutral.

Kennedy advisers see the Soviets' 15-nation plan as a form of Khrushchev's troika system—and they fear agreeing to this in arms talks would promote its chances at the United Nations and in international organizations where Khrushchev wants it adopted.

Kennedy already has denounced Khrushchev's demand for troika, or a three-headed, control system to police any ban on atomic testing. Kennedy says it amounts to a Soviet veto over any effective enforcement action.

It was learned that Khrushchev told Kennedy at their Vienna meeting the Soviet Union was willing a year ago to accept a single-executive control system on the A-ban machinery.

But after seeing how U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld handled the Conco crisis, Khrushchev said, the Soviet Union now feels no man can be trusted to be truly neutral and the Soviet Union cannot let him control matters of Soviet national interest and security.

Kennedy was said to have told Khrushchev, among other things, that the U.S. Senate would never accept a treaty with the troika in it. The proposed test ban agreement would be in treaty form.

U.S. strategists now believe the Kremlin is not interested in a nuclear test ban agreement. They advance several lines of speculation as to the reason:

1. Moscow now figures the overall power balance is in its favor, thus is ready to push a several cold war fronts including a resumption of atomic tests which have been under moratorium since the Geneva talks started.

2. The Soviets now believe they can advance their military power faster by resuming atomic tests. U.S. officials believe the West has held an A-weapons lead during the moratorium. They have no solid evidence that the Soviets have conducted any sneak explosions.

3. The Soviets failed to get Red China to agree to abide by a test ban agreement. If one were reached between the Geneva participants — the Soviet Union, the United States and Britain, France has continued testing. Thus the Kremlin sees no value in a Geneva accord.

Washington thinking is that the Soviets will try to get the United States to gather world blame for breaking up the Geneva talks and resuming tests first, then the Soviet Union will resume tests herself. U.S. officials said the American delegation will continue to push for an agreement at Geneva even though accord seems impossible.

Movie Colony Has A Break-Up, Suit, Breakdown To Talk Over

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The movie colony had these tidbits to talk about today:

Natalie Wood and Robert Wagner, who embarked 3 1/2 years ago on a marriage their fans considered perfect, are living apart.

The announcement Tuesday caught the movie colony by surprise. A spokesman said it would be a trial separation; the couple has no immediate plans for divorce.

Wagner, 31, and onetime child star Natalie, now 22, were married Dec. 28, 1957 in Scottsdale, Ariz.

A squabble among lawyers appears to have snarled Lana Turner's offer to settle a $750,000 civil suit for $20,000.

The action stemmed from the 1958 knife death of Johnny Stompanato, Lana's boy friend at the time. Her daughter, Cheryl Crane, now 17, told investigators she stabbed Stompanato to protect Lana.

A coroner's jury ruled the case justifiable homicide.

Attorney Melvin Belli, who prepared the suit in behalf of Stompanato's only child, John Stompanato III, 13, said Tuesday the proposed settlement was off. He said he was annoyed by a statement attributed to Lana's lawyer, Louis G. Blau, that his client was offering the $20,000 settlement only to prevent further publicity.

Bing Crosby's eldest son, Gary, 28, is due in Hollywood today to recuperate from an attack of nervous exhaustion.

"He saw a doctor in Chicago who said he had nervous exhaustion and should quit work immediately," Gary's press agent said Tuesday. "He is to go to bed for a month for a complete rest."

A Hot Springs, Ark., night club where young Crosby was to begin an engagement Thursday, said

Bing's younger brother, Bob, has agreed to fill in for his nephew.

In Chicago, a night club spokesman said Gary's engagement was cancelled because he walked out on the show.

A Los Angeles court has turned down actress Linda Christian's bid for a $200,000 trust fund for her two daughters from the estate of her former husband, actor Tyrone Power, who died in Madrid in 1958.

Noting that the youngsters already have $10,000 yearly potential income from a previously established trust fund, Judge William J. Palmer commented Tuesday: "Only an infinitesimally few of the world's children are so fortunate."

The judge said Miss Christian, 33, has the "professional recognition, youth, attractiveness, ambition and apparent good health" needed to contribute toward the support of her daughters, Romina, 9, and Taryn, 7.

Bumptious playwright Brendan Behan and his wife, Beatrice, are en route by train to New York following a high-spirited drinking party he gave for friends Tuesday.

Though he poured liquor liberally for his friends, Behan took nothing but carbonated water and then coffee.

Of his new play, "Richard's Cork Leg," almost completed, Behan quipped: "It's about sex, politics and religion, in that order—in a ratio of about 60-20-20."

A young actor and his mother are battling over his earnings as a minor in the "Life of Riley" TV series.

Wesley E. Morgan, 21, testified in Los Angeles Tuesday that, as his guardian, his mother took control of $60,000 he earned between 1953 and 1958, except for 15 percent she was ordered to invest in government savings bonds. He wants $40,000 returned to his control.

His mother, Josephine M. Morgan, 56, said in a counter suit that all the money was spent on her son, plus $4,127 of her own money she wants him to return to her.

Asks Leniency For Boyd Payton

RALEIGH (AP)—Spencer Love, president of Burlington Industries, has recommended clemency for textile labor union leader Boyd Payton who is serving a prison term for conspiracy growing out of a Henderson mill strike.

Love confirmed Tuesday night that he wrote a letter to Gov. Sanford about two months ago recommending clemency for Payton.

The Tar Heel industrialist, contacted in New York where he is on a business trip, said "I think he (Payton) has had enough."

Payton, Carolina regional director for the Textile Workers Union of America, and seven other men were convicted in July, 1959 of conspiring to dynamite installations at the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills. One of the men has been paroled.

Sanford, now on his way to Honolulu, Hawaii, to attend the National Governor's Conference, is studying a report of the State Paroles Commission about Payton's case.

Sanford said last week no decision would be made until his return from Hawaii.

Payton, sentenced to 6-10 years, is now working in Central Prison as an instructor with illiterate prisoners.

May Have Made Telephones Safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was told Tuesday that the State Department has virtually perfected a device which may prevent spies from listening in on telephone conversations in U.S. embassies abroad.

William O. Boswell, director of the department's Office of Security, told about it — in general terms — at a hearing before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

Boswell appeared to urge that the Senate put back into the state department appropriation bill funds cut out by the House. Included was $50,000 needed for perfecting the device.

Hammarskjold Caught In Crossfire Of Spy Charges

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold was caught today in a cross-fire from the United States and Communist Czechoslovakia over U.S. spy charges against Czech diplomat Miroslav Nacvalac.

The United States sent Hammarskjold a note charging that Nacvalac, handsome 33-year-old counselor at the Czech U.N. mission, is Prague's chief intelligence agent in America and that he paid an instructor at the U.S. Army Language School in Monterey, Calif., $1,700 for information.

The United States said it had pictures to prove it. The language instructor, a naturalized American citizen born in Czechoslovakia, confirmed the U.S. account.

The U.S. note declared anew that the Czech government should recall Nacvalac at once and denied the demand for his departure violated the agreement between the United States and the United Nations giving special rights to diplomats accredited to the United Nations.

Nacvalac denied all the U.S. charges. His delegation indicated it would press Hammarskjold to rule that U.S. action against the counselor violated both the U.N.

charter and the U.S.-N.N. agreement.

The U.S. note said Nacvalac was known to U.S. authorities as the "chief of Czechoslovak civilian intelligence operations in the United States and has a long background in Czechoslovak intelligence work."

It charged that Nacvalac had six meetings with the Army language instructor, Karel Hlasny, between 1958 and 1961, offered an exit permit from Czechoslovakia for Hlasny's fiancée in exchange for intelligence information, and paid him various sums totaling $1,700.

The United States said Hlasny was cooperating with the U.S. government all the time and the information he passed was worthless. But Hlasny's fiancée got her exit permit in 1959 and they were married in California.

Nacvalac said the U.S. charges were "all lies" and that he had never been in California. But U.S. State Department press officer Lincoln White displayed photographs of Nacvalac and Hlasny he said were taken outside a San Francisco restaurant where they met.

Czechoslovakia's charge that the U.S. demands violated the U.N. headquarters agreement with the United States had aroused speculation that the Czechs would request that the case be referred to an arbitration tribunal. Clayton Fritchey, a spokesman for the U.S. delegation said the arbitration proceedings can take place only when there is disagreement between the United States and the secretary-general, and "we know of no such issue."

Fritchey said he had been assured last week by the Czechoslovak delegation that Nacvalac would be leaving soon. This was denied by Zdenek Cernik, acting Czechoslovak delegation head. He said he had informed the United States that his government rejected the charges against Nacvalac, and that he was awaiting further instructions from Prague.

Fritchey said Nacvalac's last assignment in Prague before coming to the United Nations in 1958 was "director of espionage, intelligence and subversive activities in the Western Hemisphere."

Nacvalac denied that and said he was in charge of the Foreign Ministry department handling U.N. affairs, its specialized agencies and similar organizations.

The story broke last Friday when Nacvalac claimed two U.S. intelligence agents approached him in New York's Gripsholm restaurant and tried to hire him as a spy.

Qualities Of Good Teacher Largely Matter Of Opinion

By G. K. HODENFIELD

AP Education Writer

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) —The qualities of a good teacher, like the ingredients of a dry martini or a cup of coffee, are largely a matter of opinion.

That is why, says Prof. Nicholas Fattu of Indiana University, "there appears to be no such person as the universally effective teacher."

Fattu told an education conference here that teachers are largely what the communities want them to be.

"Some communities value intellectual goals," he said in an address for the National Conference on Teacher Education and Professional Standards. "Others are more concerned with the more visible characteristics, such as sociability. Some are only concerned with carrying on schooling at the lowest possible cost. Teachers in adjoining communities may be rated superior for diametrically opposite reasons."

He said it would be a mistake, however, to assume that teacher effectiveness is only whatever a community chooses to designate it.

Rather, Fattu said, it is for the teaching profession to set guidelines and standards on the basis of the best available research.

To make these guidelines and standards effective, he said, the profession must convince the public that education is a complex thing, that the extended special preparation is indispensable, and that educators are better qualified to handle the job than any other group.

"Almost everyone feels qualified to speak confidently about educational problems because he has been to school," Fattu said. "If the practice of medicine was regarded the same way, every grandmother automatically would be practicing medicine.

"Actually, few medical men get advice on how to perform operations, from either the patients themselves or the parents of patients. But teachers are frequently told how reading should be taught and why Johnny can't spell or read or write."

Fattu said the one big difference between the medical and the teaching professions is that "a pain-in-the-stomach is likely to be much more obvious than a vacuum in the head."

"We Reserve The Right To Limit Quantities"

'New Militants' Implacable To Those Who Disagree

By JULES LOH
Associated Press Staff Writer

It takes one distant step, according to students of America's right wing, to cross the chasm which separates rock-ribbed conservatives like Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, from blood-redeption militants, like Robert Welch of the Birch Society.

Yale sociologist L. M. Lipset says in his view the difference is not so much one of degree as of ideology.

"The extremist," says Lipset, "questions the patriotism of anyone whose actions fall within the scope of what he considers the road toward collectivism."

"The more moderate conservative, on the other hand, may feel just as strongly that a certain act would be a step along the same road, but he takes the view the man who did it simply is in error, or perhaps even foolish or naive—but not a traitor."

In his book, "The Politician," which described former Presidents Eisenhower and Roosevelt plus Gen. George C. Marshall and others as Communists or traitors:

and the activist publication "Right" calls upon its readers to "fearlessly proclaim to the world that liberalism is treason."

Other militants, such as Texas broadcaster and former FBI agent Dan Smoot, often take the less extreme position of labeling persons as "Communist dupes" rather than out and out traitors.

"Practically all influential liberals in America," says Smoot, "want the same kind of society that Communists are after—an assertion practically all influential liberals would reject."

Smoot contends that "under liberal leadership our national effort to resist the spread of communism" is "self contradictory," besides being "aimless and confused."

Part of this confusion results, according to militant rightists, from their opponents' refusal to agree that communism's greatest threat is through internal conspiracy, not external conquests.

Welch laments: "Although our danger remains almost entirely internal, from Communist influences right in our midst and treason right in our government, the American people are being persuaded that our danger is from the outside, from Russian military superiority."

Right-wing activists frequently feel federal programs to fight communism abroad—foreign aid, NATO-type treaties and the like—are a sorry waste of time, effort and tax money.

Or worse. Former ambassador Spruille Braden said in a speech to the American Coalition of Patriotic Societies: "Truly, foreign aid is a treacherous if not a treasonous adventure."

But should the national effort to thwart communism involve attempts to negotiate with the Soviets, whether at Geneva or the United Nations or the summit, some rightists regard the moves not only as foolhardy (as others may also feel) but as downright insane.

Even to suppose we could negotiate with the Reds, says Dr. Frederick Charles Schwarz, director of the Christian Anti-Communist crusade, shows "a failure to understand communism so completely that it approaches mental illness."

Schwarz, an energetic, Australian-born physician, psychiatrist and Baptist lay preacher, travels the country putting on weeklong "anti-communist schools."

The schools use the shock approach in unveiling "right here before your own eyes" the "demonic brutality" of communism and its steady erosion of "the moral fiber of America."

To do this he puts together a smooth presentation of film strips, tape recordings and speeches by himself and members of his faculty, plus such outside recruits as former FBI undercover agent Herbert Philbrick.

Schwarz sounds the keynote for the course: "Communism is a disease that will probably kill more Americans in the next 10 years than cancer, tuberculosis and heart disease."

"We learn that the Communists plan to put to death 50 million people, more or less, in the United States," he said. He himself, he says, is marked for liquidation.

"Anyone who is not startled and profoundly alarmed by these figures," he declares, "is evidently free from the responsibilities of rational comprehension."

Schwarz suggests organizing cells, one of several well-tested Communist methods right-wing militants have borrowed to turn against their foes.

Others, as outlined in the Birch Society's blue book, include front groups, pressure tactics, heckling speakers with "mean and dirty" questions, midnight telephone harassment, letter-writing campaigns, infiltrating the Parent-Teachers Association and other groups, creating a demand for approved authors, commentators, books and magazines.

Except for top leaders, membership rolls are kept secret in the Birch Society (lest Birchers "be subject to persecution and attack").

Although Welch is the sole boss and author of most of the tracts, the society also has a panel of endorsers in various states, and a council whose main function seems to be to pick a successor to the founder "if and when" as he puts it "an accident," suicide or anything sufficiently fatal is arranged for me by the Communists."

The council includes former ambassador Spruille Braden, former Notre Dame law dean Clarence Manion, former Internal Revenue Commission T Coleman Andrews and other conservatives including three former presidents of the National Association of Manufacturers, a Roman Catholic editor-priest and several physicians.

The leadership of many right-wing groups frequently overlaps.

For instance, Welch and at least five other Birch leaders are sponsors of the Manion Forum; Manion is a Birch director; and Schwarz is a Manion Forum contributor.

From one another they gain support in efforts to impeach the chief justice (Welch), pull out of the U.N. (Manion), fight progressive education (Smoot), stop foreign aid (Braden), and oppose the Peace Corps (Daughters of the American Revolution, by a vote of 2,082 to 1).

Anything that isn't fundamentally American—which in the view of some on the outermost tier of the right wing includes abstract art, jazz music and water fluoridation—is suspected of being of Communist origin.

The Small Business Review urges the President: "Do not put anybody in an official position unless his parents were naturalized United States citizens before he was born, and not less than second generation if possible."

Another group, the American Action Council, recommends a law restricting public office to "American-born Christians."

It is difficult to assess how effective the militants are or to measure their influence.

Sociologist Lipset feels "their effect on the body politic as a whole is next to nil." But the tendency of militants to regard anyone who advocates social legislation or any other left of center program as an unwitting (or witting) tool of the Communists does, Lipset believes, have some consequences.

"In a medium-sized town where the typical rightist exercises considerable influence," he said, "any person who advocates what he conceives to be socialist ideas—a teacher, librarian, city councilman—often is subjected to harassment which at times is pretty severe."

Activists also contribute money, ring doorbells and write letters on behalf of conservative political candidates who, though not considered an extremist by the electorate, is deemed at least "safe" by the militant.

Much Television Humor Simply Gets No Laughs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Abe Burrows, a theatrical jack-of-all-trades whose specialty is comedy, recently delivered a rather profound statement: "I think humor is what makes you laugh, no matter what the situation is."

It seems pretty apparent that the trouble with television humor—and the discontented manufacturers of comedy—is that much of it isn't getting laughs. When a comedian is funny, he stays on the air. When he isn't, he doesn't, but most of the retired funnymen have a tendency to blame the medium rather than their own shortage of comic material for their departure.

The most recent noisy defector from the ranks of TV comedians is Mort Sahl who has decided that the medium just isn't right for his type of humor and that the Ed Sullivan Show, his primary showcase over the past couple of seasons, just doesn't give him enough time to work his magic on the audience.

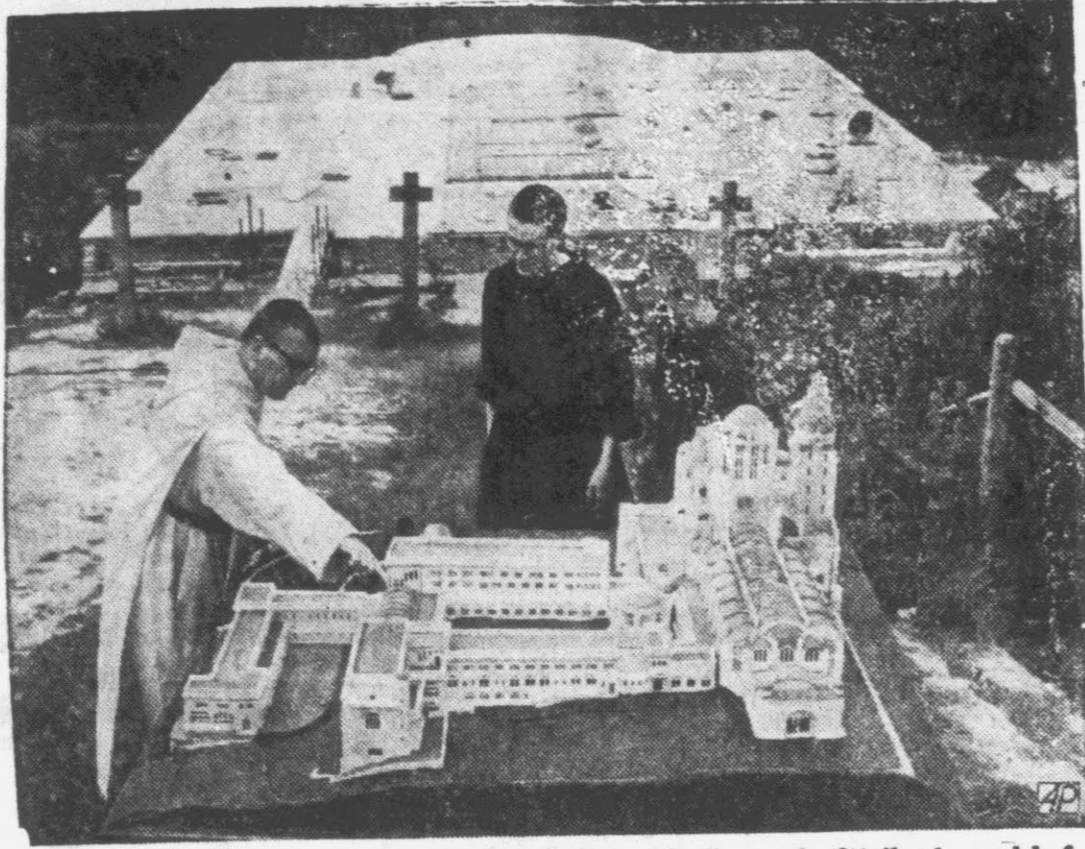

Well, I've watched Sahl a number of times on the Sullivan Show, and one of the interesting things about his performance has been the curious silence which fell over the studio audience while he was on. Last time, a few weeks ago, the lack of response was downright embarrassing, and even Sahl seemed disconcerted. He was "dropping in bitter little asides about 'pockets of resistance' as his topical sallies fell with dull thuds."

Jack Benny goes on with his comedy show year after year, and you don't hear him assailing TV. Red Skelton will be back again and makes no secret of his affection for TV. Steve Allen, who will be back next season, never teed off on television when the going got sticky for him.

When a situation comedy is well-made, well-written and has good performers, it is likely to stay around for a long time, the way Danny Thomas and "Hennessey" did. When it blossoms for a year and disappears, the reason frequently is that the show is a pale carbon copy of another year's success or that the situations and denouements are so threadbare that they have lost their humor and, more important, the surprise element.

Adress and model Suzy Parker will take Arlene Francis' place on the "What's My Line?" panel next Sunday, and there will be a succession of women guest panelists filling in during Arlene's summer-long leave of absence from the show.

LOOK TO THE FUTURE—Benedictine monks discuss the details of a model of the new Prinknash Abbey they are building in western England. In background is the finished floor base of the crypt. It will take more than a generation to complete the abbey.

Baseball Tonight

Coach Bud Phillips and his Greenville Post 39 American Legion Junior baseball team, cautious about not looking ahead to the 26th of June when they meet league-leading Rocky Mount again, host Asheville tonight at Guy Smith Stadium. Game time is set for 8:45 p.m.

The Phillipsmen, after dropping their league opener to the Rocky Mounters by a slim 3-1 margin, have won five in a row since then, and will go after number six tonight at the expense of Asheville. The locals have met Asheville twice already this season, and have come out on top on both occasions.

Post 39 will meet Roanoke Rapids on Saturday night at Roanoke Rapids before they get a shot at Rocky Mount on the following Monday. The way things have been shaping up so far this season, it appears that the Greenville-Rocky Mount contest may hold the key to the District American Legion title.

Dyrol Burleson figures it will take a 3:55 mile to win the National A. U. mile championship, so by way of warming up for the big test, he reeled off a 3:57.6 effort. That is the fastest an American citizen has run the mile. Herb Elliott of Australia set the world record of 3:54.5 in Dublin in 1958.

Burleson has several reasons for wanting to regain the mile championship he won in 1959 but did not defend last year because he chose to rest for the final Olympic trials. First of all, he hopes to beat little Jim Beatty who has beaten him in three races. Beatty held the American record of 3:58 until Burleson lowered the mark. There is an added incentive of a trip to Russia in July. The University of Oregon junior won the 1,500-meter event in the dual

State Bank Wins Teen-er Contest

State Bank's Teen-er leaguers gained revenge for an early season 13-7 loss to Carolina Dairy by defeating the Dairy boys by a 10-0 score yesterday. Billy Cannon, in going the distance for the win, limited the Carolina Dairy batters to only four hits, all singles in the five-inning affair. The loss was charged to Alvin Gurkins, who was relieved by Ken Brown in the third inning. Brown, who failed to retire a single State Bank batter, was relieved by Bennie Hooks, who finished the game for the losers.

State Bank scored one run in the first frame on a walk, a Carolina Dairy miscue, and a pair of fielders choices. In the third frame, the winners added a seven-run cushion for Cannon to work on. Three free

Olympic Amateur Code Includes Job Requirement

ATHENS (AP)—The International Olympic Committee today tightened the amateur code by requiring that an athlete must have "a normal occupation destined to insure his present and future livelihood."

Approval of volleyball and judo put those sports on an Olympic program for the first time.

The IOC decision was a compromise. The Japanese organizers wanted judo and volleyball while desiring to drop the pentathlon and canoeing. Many European and South American countries wished to keep canoeing and the pentathlon on the program.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Pepsi-Cola won an 11-0 victory over the Exchange Club in Tar Heel Little League action yesterday with Jack Gordon on the Elm Street Park mound for the winners.

The winners brought in eight runs in the second inning including a home run by catcher Jerry Boyd. The final three runs came in the fifth inning of the game when Boyd scored his second run of the night on a sacrifice by Clark. The other two runs by Joyner and Worthington were the result of an error by the Exchange Club.

wanis defeated the Jaycees by an 8-7 score. James Manning's two-run single in the last half of the sixth inning brought home the winning run for the Kiwanis. The Jaycees had already blown a 3-0 lead in the third frame.

The winning pitcher was Jack Cobb in relief of James Manning. The loser was Charles Allen in relief of John Cayton and Cleve Branch.

Mark Lupton led the winners with two doubles in three times at bat. Manning and Cobb also had two hits. Singles for the Jaycees were made by Forbes, Harrington, Allen and Cayton.

Rotary Wins In Ayden League

The Rotary entry in the Ayden-Winterville Tar Heel League pulled their record to two wins against one loss when they defeated the Lions last night by a score of 13-4.

Paul Miller followed his no-hit, no-run victory of last week with a neat one-hit performance. Gregory Stox, with two triples and a single, and Buddy Bulow and Jim Booth with two hits each were the big guns for the winners.

Wayland Briley got the only hit for the losers. The American Legion team tops the list with an undefeated season so far in the Ayden-Winterville Recreation League.

Kaline Didn't Do Badly On Third

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Maybe after they see me play third base for one game," said Al Kaline, "they won't want to see me there any more." But it didn't turn out so badly Tuesday night for the veteran Detroit outfielder as he played in the infield for the first time in his professional career.

Manager Bob Scheffing made the shift because of injuries to third baseman Steve Boros and shortstop Chico Fernandez. Boros is expected to be back in the lineup in a day or two, then Kaline will go back to the outfield. Kaline socked a double and a single, each driving in a run, and scored once as the first place Tigers defeated Washington 5-4. Kaline was not very busy in his first game at third base after eight seasons in the outfield. He had only two chances, retiring Billy Klaus on a pop foul in the third and throwing out Gene Green in the seventh.

Purdue's Nicklaus Wins NCAA Golf

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Ohio State's Jack Nicklaus and Purdue University's team today had ended the University of Houston's dominance of American collegiate golf in recent years—maybe. Nicklaus, 1959 amateur champion, won the NCAA medal Tuesday with a pair of 70s and Purdue closed out Houston's five-year reign as team champion.

Houston's Dick Crawford, national collegiate champion the last two years, put 80 against an opening round 75 and it wasn't good enough to qualify for the 64-man match play beginning today. The Texas school got only one man through the trials, but he is Homero Blancas, Texas Open and All-American Interscholastic champion, and well able to defend his school's prestige all by himself.

Law's Recovery To Help Pirates

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Manager Danny Murtaugh of the Pittsburgh Pirates said today that as soon as sore-shouldered right-hander Vern Law gets well enough to pitch "we'll make our presence known." "Naturally, Law has a tremendous effect when he's able to pitch," Murtaugh said of last year's 20-game winner who helped the Pirates take the National League pennant.

Meanwhile, it appeared that Harvey Haddix and Bobby Shantz may have to carry the pitching load for the world champion Pirates, who are in fourth place, 5 1/2 games from the top. Last year at this time they were four games in first.

Haddix has been pretty good most of the year," Murtaugh said of the little left-hander Tuesday night after he beat Philadelphia 6-2 for his fifth victory against two losses.

The Pirates hitting seems to be as adequate as last year with Don Hoak leading the NL with a .347 average and Roberto Clemente and Dick Stuart up high. But the loss of Law, who hasn't been in regular rotation and who can't work a full game, and Bob Friend's recent slump, have hurt the Pirates.

Jay's Magic Runs Out But Cincinnati Still Has Lead In Race For Pennant

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer
Joey Jay's magic finally ran out, but the Cincinnati Reds still have a 1 1/2-game lead in the three-way tussle for first place in the National League pennant race.
Pal Joey, the young right-hander who had won eight in a row for the Reds, was beaten 6-3 by St. Louis in the second game of a two-night doubleheader at Cincinnati Tuesday night. It was Jay's first defeat since April 29, and it came on the heels of a 4-3, 11-inning Cincinnati victory in the opener that gave the Reds a six-game winning streak.
Despite the split, the Reds retained their first-place margin as Los Angeles replaced San Francisco in second place. Milwaukee spilled the Giants 2-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Warren Spahn, who now is just four shy of his 300th career victory. The Dodgers beat the Chicago Cubs 3-0 in an afternoon game as Sandy Koufax won his 10th with a two-hitter.

Pittsburgh rapped last-place Philadelphia 6-2 in the other NL game.
In the American League, Detroit beat Washington 5-4 and kept a 1 1/2-game lead. The New York Yankees took over second place with a 6-2 victory at Kansas City after Cleveland slipped to third with a 5-3 defeat by the Chicago White Sox. Boston belted the Los Angeles Angels 11-3 and Minnesota beat Baltimore 5-4.

The Cardinals, hanging on to fifth place by mere percentage points over Milwaukee, tagged Jay (8-4) for eight of their 12 hits in the nightcap. Charlie James drove in two runs, bringing in the clincher with a double in a two-run sixth inning. Righthander Bob Gibson (5-3) won his third in a row for the Cards, blanking the Reds on two hits until the ninth and finishing with a five-

Cincinnati blew a 2-0 lead in the opener when Carl Sawatski hit a three-run pinch homer off Jay Hook in the seventh inning. But the Reds bounced back and tied it in the ninth on a pinch single by Jerry Lynch, then beat reliever Bob Miller (1-1) when he forced home a run with a bases-loaded walk in the 11th. Jim Brosnan (3-2) was the winner in relief—his sixth in a row over the Cards since May 1956.
The Braves packed Spahn with homers by Hank Aaron in the sixth inning and Frank Bolling in the eighth in coming from behind against Mike McCormick (7-6). It was Milwaukee's third victory in nine games with the Giants this season and all three were behind Spahn (8-7).

Dick Stuart and Don Hoak belted two-run homers for the Braves, handing right-hander Art Mahaffey (6-7) his fourth straight defeat. Lefty Harvey Haddix (5-2) shut out the Phils on four hits for eight innings, then needed relief help from Elroy Face in the ninth.

Three singles, by John Roseboro, Maury Wills and Charlie Neal, and an error gave the Dodgers all three runs in the seventh and beat Glen Hobbie (4-8). Koufax (10-3), the first pitcher to win 10 in the NL this season, didn't allow a hit until Ernie Banks singled with two out in the seventh. The young lefty walked two and struck out 14.

Junior Golf Meet Narrows To Eight

GREENSBORO (AP)—A double round schedule today will reduce the Carolinas Junior golf tournament field to eight teenagers.
Opening round matches Tuesday produced no major surprises, but competition was especially keen. Seven of the 32 matches over the Greensboro Country Club's course went the full distance—or longer.
Four matches went extra holes. The longest, a 20-holer, was won by Russell Glover of Florence, S.C., over Bo Duncan of Burlington.
The defending champion, Don Hedrick of Lexington, and the medalist, Larry Seward of Laurens, S.C., registered victories in their first tests.
Hedrick turned back dangerous Jim Gerring of Union, S.C., 2 and 1. Seward prevailed over John Dacus of Greenville, 3 and 2.
A ruling helped Hedrick advance. After gerring apparently had birdied the 14th hole to square the match, Hedrick called a penalty against Gerring for illegally testing the putting surface on the 14th green with his hand. The pen-

Braves' Bolling Possible All-Star

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Although overshadowed by such slugging teammates as Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron, second baseman Frank Bolling appears the Milwaukee Braves' best bet for all-star recognition.
A .261 hitter in six years with the Detroit Tigers in the American League, Bolling has become a feared batter in his initial season with the Braves. And he insists the National League has better pitching.
Bolling cracked his 10th homer leading off the eighth inning Tuesday night to enable the Braves and southpaw Warren Spahn to edge the San Francisco Giants 2-1.
Bolling's homer, which cleared the fence close to the left field foul pole, extended his hitting streak to 11 straight games. It also bettered his home run output of nine last season with Detroit.
"I think the National League has better pitching than the American League and I really respect it," Bolling said. "I just can't give any definite reason for my hitting. I don't know what I'm doing different—but I don't want to change now." In 57 games with the Braves, Bolling has collected 73 hits for a .319 batting average. He has scored 44 runs and driven in 31.

Rough Seas Hurt Marlin Fishing

HATTERAS, N.C. (AP)—Marlin fishermen hoped for a break in the weather today for the final three days of the International Blue Marlin tournament.
Because of a typical Hatteras northeaster that has made the seas rough in the Diamond Lightship area, 15 teams registering from the east coast and from Panama to South Africa have boated only three small specimens of the famed game fish.
Jack Christensen of Miami Beach, Fla., boated one of two caught Tuesday, this one a 393-pounder. It gave his Miami Beach Rod and Reel Club 49 1/2 points to lead the tournament thus far. The other marlin boated Tuesday was by Harry Shuey of Morganton, fishing for the New York Athletic Club team. It weighed 336 pounds.

Teens Star In Wimbledon Meet

LONDON (AP) — Stocky Chuck McKinley and teen-ager Karen Hantze, two of America's rising young tennis stars, will lead the U.S. challenge at the Wimbledon championships next week.
That was officially decided Tuesday when McKinley, 20-year-old from St. Louis, and Miss Hantze, 18-year-old from Chula Vista, Calif., were the only American seed for the English tennis classic. Both were placed eighth in their respective divisions.
McKinley, fourth-ranked in the United States, will be trying for the men's title that has eluded American tennis aces since Tony Trabert copped the big prize in 1955.
The top spot in women's singles is held by Sandra Reynolds of South Africa, who drew the No. 1 seed due to the absence of ailing defender Maria Bueno of Brazil.

Scout Ship Couldn't Come Up The River

PARTIALLY OPENED BRIDGE . . . This was the problem which greeted Sea Scouts aboard the "Buccaneer II" as it waited down-river at the Grimesland Bridge yesterday while Highway Department employees attempted to open the mal-functioning draw, and permit the boat to pass.

"THE BUCCANEER II" . . . as it tied up at the Tar River Bridge at Grimesland when the bridge would not open.

Meanwhile, Liberace Is Still Laughing--On Trips To Bank

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Report on Liberace: He's still laughing all the way to the bank, perhaps even more heartily than before. "I'm earning as much money as ever," says the famed apostle of sincerity. "But the difference now is that it comes from a variety of sources—apartments, real estate, oil, as well as entertaining."

In dates. That was when my advisers decided we should invest and diversify, in case anything should happen that I couldn't play the piano any more."
Liberace was resting between trips at his new house, which is even grander than the much-publicized home in Sherman Oaks with the piano-shaped swimming pool. The new one, above the Sunset strip overlooking the full sweep of Los Angeles, has a square pool. But the house is not outwardly, it looks like one of the Circa-1920 Spanish castles that dot the Hollywood hills. But it has the Liberace touch inside. "I decorated it myself," the pianist said. While the other house was in the piano-key motif of black and white, this one is done in gold—and you can read whatever symbolism into that you like. The place was built by Ann Harding, later owned by Rudy Vallee. By actual count there are nine bathrooms and 28 other rooms, slightly less than before because walls have been knocked out. The downstairs contains about an acre of thick white and gold carpet, the threads looped and cut by hand in Japan. Gold is everywhere—on the period sofas, the antique French piano, the pipe organ, which can be played either by Liberace or automatic roll. There is gold leaf in the basin of the powder room, gold on the chandeliers, and—match—the candleabra. Liberace sat down in a gold chair and discussed the white-heat days. He admitted that too much exposure on TV hurt his career—"We had no control over how many times our films would be played." He has since done a lot of traveling—11 months last year. With the new house, he wants to stay home more and do TV and films. He dislikes night clubs. Relations are good with Mama ("it was hard for her to get used to not living with her children") and brother George ("he's married again and very happy").

GRIMESLAND — The "Buccaneer" yesterday ran into trouble here on its attempted so-journ up the Tar River to Greenville. With its cargo of 10 Hampton, Va., Explorer Scouts and five adult leaders the scout expedition ship could advance no farther up the river than Grimesland when the drawbridge here failed to open. The sooner-than-expected termination of the up-river cruise was blamed on mechanical failure of the bridge that has not been opened for a boat in more than a year. Motor cars, however, picked up the scouts and carried them to

Thirty-Three Pitt Scouters At Camp Opening

Thirty-three Pitt District scouters representing five Pitt County troops were among 168 East Carolina Council scouts attending this week's opening session of Camp Charles. The East Carolina Council camp, located near Bailey, reported at the camp this week: Troop 25, Farmville; Troop 33, Greenville; Troop 15, Bethel; Troop 92, Fountain; and Troop 471, Gardenersville. Camp Charles offers campers the opportunity to acquire through practice scouting skills. In addition to second and first class requirements, scouts may earn merit badges in archery, camping, canoeing, forestry, handicraft, lifesaving, nature, rowing swimming and others.

Greenville where they toured East Carolina College and were guests at a cookout, a swimming party and a dance. The scouts, hailing from Sea Scout Ship 321 of Hampton, Va., also toured the Voice of America installation surrounding Greenville. The tour of ECC was conducted for the scouts by Dr. James Butler, staff member of the college. Greenville Explorer Post 340 hosted the scouts at a cookout at Elm St. Park in Greenville and Post 433 entertained them at a swimming party and dance at the Greenville Moose Lodge pool and auditorium. Skipper J. B. Newman of Greenville Ship 1 served as pilot for the ship from Washington to Grimesland. Members of the local

Wants Garbage Cans Concealed

AYDEN—Town Manager Cleveland Paylor has requested, in an effort to beautify the streets of Ayden that residents keep garbage cans in inconspicuous places. The town provides a pickup service which means that collectors will go into residents' back yards to obtain garbage. He said that the men would go and get the garbage from wherever it is in the yard area. Paylor said he hoped people would not place their trash cans in the grass area near the streets. "This is a plea to help make the town look prettier," he commented.

Tax Discount Reminder Issued

AYDEN — Ayden Tax Collector Elwood Nobles has issued a reminder to Ayden tax payers that they will be allowed a two percent discount on all prepaid taxes during the month of June. The reminder was issued yesterday from the Town Office.

Ship escorted the visitors during their Greenville visit. The "Buccaneer" arrived here around noon to discover that the bridge would not open. After the Moose Lodge dance, the Sea Scouts returned to Washington and their ship. Greenville Mayor Charles King accompanied the scouts on the river trip from Washington to Grimesland.

His Own Case Is Public Example

DALTON, Ga. (AP) — Police Chief L. L. Vining urged motorists not to leave keys in their cars, as did the driver whose car was stolen from the driveway of his home. Officers found Vining's patrol car stuck in a ditch Tuesday and charged Dale Walston, 19, with car theft.

Ayden Go-Kart Track To Formally Open Saturday

AYDEN—Ayden's go-kart track, which will be operated under close police supervision, will have its official opening on Saturday. Police Chief W. D. Brooks and Town Manager Cleveland Paylor announced yesterday.

The track was tested on Tuesday, and again today, for safety and safe speeds, Chief Brooks stated. He said there will be rules and regulations for the track, which will be open three days a week, on Tuesday, Thursdays and Saturdays from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. Safe driving rules will be stressed.

Free soft drinks will be given by the Lions Club of Ayden at the opening this Saturday. A concession stand for the sale of soft drinks and candies has been built at the track which is located north of Ayden at the old power plant.

The new track is 210 feet long and 90 feet wide in total width. The track itself is 20 feet wide and has been banked for safety, Chief Brooks commented.

There are some 15 go-karts in Ayden at the present time, and the noise and safety factors had aroused complaint from some of the residents. Chief Brooks pointed out that the go-karts are low and hard to see for moving motorists, and thus constitute a safety hazard on the streets. In addition, the vehicles require a state license plate, liability and a driver's license for the driver to legally operate them on public streets.

In the light of the circumstances, the go-kart track was built. It will be illegal for go-karts to be operated on public streets in Ayden without proper legal requirements, according to law.

A gate leading to the track will be locked except during the open hours on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Those with go-karts are invited to make use of the track, town officials said.

Arrest Man For Hit-Run Count

Charlie Bryant Morgan, 30-year-old Negro of Route 4, Greenville was arrested by Greenville Police yesterday on charges of hit and run and careless and reckless driving, in connection with a Sunday morning collision on South Greene Street.

Morgan was charged in connection with a hit and run collision, involving a parked car, owned by Cordell Randolph, 44-year-old Negro of 1206 B. South Greene St. between one and three o'clock Sunday morning.

Investigators at that time said the Randolph car was struck while parked in front of the Randolph residence. Damage to the car was set at $200.

The parked car was knocked 36 feet by the impact, officers reported at that time.

Police today explained that Morgan apparently was making a turn from 12th St. onto Greene St. when he lost control and struck Randolph's auto.

Damage to the Morgan car was also placed at $200.

Opines U.S. Has To Beat Castro

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP)—The time is near for the United States either to take Cuba away from Castro by force or to abandon it to the Communists, says Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla. Speaking Tuesday to the 13th annual meeting of Florida Citrus Mutual, Smathers declared that our weak efforts to win friendship of Latin American nations is resulting in our losing their respect. He said decisive action in the Cuban situation is the only thing that would win back their respect and friendship.

HOLLYWOOD BACHELOR GIRL

1. Vicki does all of her own housework. Here she irons some of her things.

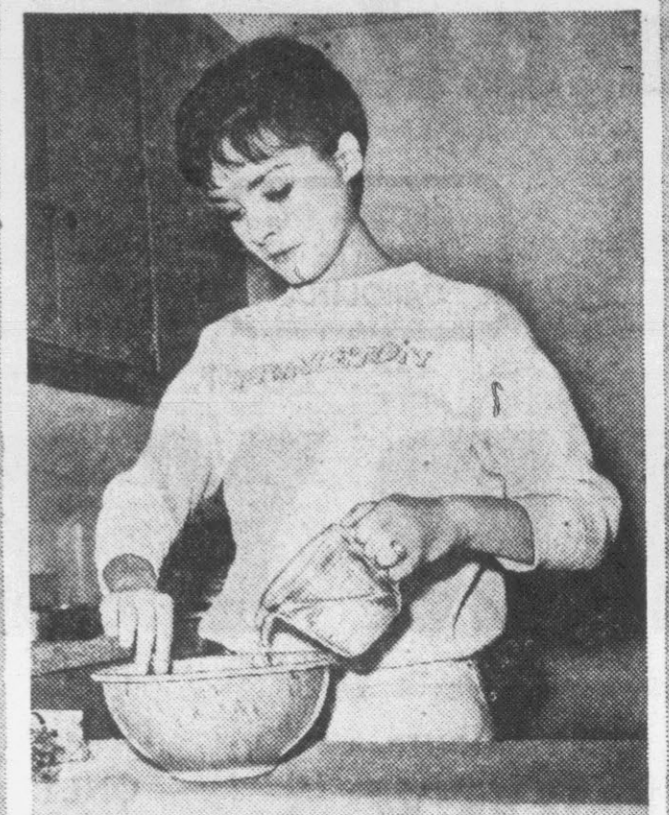

It's an exciting life—that of a bachelor girl in Hollywood. There's the thrill of working in a movie with big film stars by day and the glamor of dates in swank clubs by night. Above all, there's the freedom of living alone.

Such a girl is Vicki Trickett, 20 years old, one of Hollywood's prettiest and liveliest bachelor girls, who's still in the starlet stage of her acting career.

She lives in a small apartment in the heart of Hollywood where she does her own cooking, laundering, ironing and sewing. Her time is her own, except when she's due at the studio to take dramatic lessons or to work at whatever movie parts she's given. So far these have included a role in "Pepe" and another larger one in "Gidget Goes Hawaiian."

Vicki was born in Kansas City, Kan., but moved with her parents later to Omaha, Neb. Several years ago, she visited California. At a Del Mar horse show, she was spotted in the audience by actor Tab Hunter, who was exhibiting horses. He made her acquaintance and persuaded his agent to bring her to Hollywood. An interview with a talent executive led to a long term contract.

Vicki is a serious, hard working actress. She's determined to reach the top. That means marriage is out until she establishes herself as an actress. She doesn't date anyone seriously.

2. Baking is another one of Vicki's accomplishments. She whips up a cake in no time at all.

3. Dressed appropriately for the job, Vicki likes to wash her own sports car. She's a good driver.

4. A careful shopper, she watches closely while clerk packages vegetables for her at Farmers Market.

5. Vicki exchanges greetings with gateman as she arrives at studio lot to start day's work.

STEPPING LIVELY. Vicki loves to dance while playing her records at home.

6. Drama coach Les Mohoney, right, watches Vicki and actor Mike Callan go through scene at film studio.

7. Makeup artist Ben Lane puts finishing touches on Vicki before she reports to set for work.

8. HER NEWEST PICTURE. Vicki tells her parents, played by Eddie Foy, Jr., and Peggy Cass, she's off to beach in scene from "Gidget Goes Hawaiian."

9. Nighttime is fun. After dining out, Vicki goes dancing with one of her dates, Bob Bennett.

Focus On Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
New pills for diarrhea, brain radios, and ant buttons figure in the medical news:
Friendly Germs
Pills containing billions of dried but still-living bacteria look promising for treating diarrhea caused by virus infections or by antibiotics.
The pills supply new colonies of Lactobacillus acidophilus, a friendly germ normally existing in the human intestine. Through competition, they help keep down the numbers of other germs which cause diarrhea knock down the population of Lactobacilli. The pills are designed to restore the balance, two Chicago physicians report.
Brain Radios
A tiny radio transmitter is successfully broadcasting the brain waves of a cat to a recorder 100 feet away.
Placed under the skin of the animal's head, the thumb-nail-sized radio permits free, normal movements, with no interference or stress from electrodes planted in the head with their wires dangling off to the recorder.
Tulane University researchers who developed the device hope it will prove useful in studying reactions of human mental patients.

And, they said, the transmitter could be designed to send electrical impulses into the brain to burp out selected nerve centers and thus kill severe pain of cancer or other diseases.
It could also be used to record brain waves of birds, swimming mammals, and tree-climbing animals.
Sugar and Pimples
Sugar and sweets apparently have no effect in treating acne or outbreaks of pimples, two Chicago dermatologists report.
Treating 52 patients with antibiotics for acne, they allowed 26 to have as much sugar as they wanted, but sharply restricted the other 26 to only two teaspoonsful of sugar a day in coffee or tea, and banned soft drinks with sugar candy and cake. There was no difference in results. Drs. Theodore Cornbleet and Irma Gigli write in the Journal of the American Medical Association.
Ant Buttons
Ants are attracted by the sweet taste of poisons distributed about in the form of buttons, or cups. But so are young children, and pets. Connecticut's Poison Information Center tells of five babies and young children poisoned by them in a single month, and urges parents to take precautions.

ECC Student Pianist Wins Festival Auditions

Tasker Polk of Warrenton, piano student at East Carolina College, won a $150.00 first prize in the recent Second International Bach Festival Auditions in Washington, D. C.
A student of Dr. Robert Carter of the East Carolina department of music, the nineteen-year-old pianist was among twenty finalists who took part in the auditions.
All contestants played the same three-part F Minor Invention and a prelude and fugue of his own choice from Bach's Well-Tempered Clavier.
The Washington Post describing Polk's performance said "Young Polk's playing was a model. In tone and touch, and in a genuinely moving reading of both the required invention, and of the E Major Prelude and Fugue from Book Two, he showed the highest degree of present attainment and future promise."

As winner of the auditions, Polk will appear in a solo recital in Washington, D. C. at the John Wesley Powell Auditorium November 24 at 8 p.m.
In addition to his work with Dr. Carter, Polk has studied in summer sessions with the noted musician and teacher Dr. Rudolph Ganz in Chicago. For the past several years the young pianist has won outstanding honors in competitions sponsored by the N. C. Federation of Music Clubs. At the college he has appeared as soloist with the East Carolina College Orchestra and in solo recitals.

Weekend Fishing Trip Took A Lot Of Pleading

WASHINGTON (AP)—It took a lot of pleading and a little "crying" in the House Tuesday for Rep. Clare E. Hoffman, R-Mich., 85, to get an okay for a weekend fishing trip.
The No. 1 congressional fisherman directed his entreaties to Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, who had objected to a request by the leaders to start debate today on a housing bill. The request required unanimous consent. Without its approval, the House faced the dire prospect of a Saturday session.

Gross and Hoffman, who almost always vote together and have a reputation for upsetting the well-laid plans of the Democratic and Republican leaders, call themselves "the only members of our party."
"We are the party of good government and economy," they explained.
Hoffman asked Gross not to object to the housing bill request. He said he is "an old man" and "It's a question of health; I want to conserve my energy."
"You ought to have a little consideration for me. How about it?" Hoffman begged.
Gross wanted to know the reason behind Hoffman's plea.
Well, Hoffman said, Gross is a leading champion of economy and could save some money by not forcing a weekend session and its accompanying Congressional Record printing costs.
"Does the gentleman want to go fishing?" Gross inquired.
"Yes, I want to go fishing," Hoffman conceded.
"Has it been wet enough for the night crawlers (fishing worms) to come to the surface?" Gross asked.
Hoffman keeps a supply of night crawlers in his office.
Gross finally gave in and withdrew his objection "in view of the impassioned plea made by the gentleman from Michigan."

Administration School Bill Requires Uphill Fight

By JOHN BECKLER
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration forces begin an uphill struggle today to rescue President Kennedy's school bill from the sea of controversy that has all but swamped it in the House. Democratic leaders in the House looked to the President to do some personal pushing on the $2.5-billion measure.

The success of the Rules Committee in blocking action illustrated, in capsule form, the potent forces allied against the administration bill. The measure calls for a three-year program of grants to the states for either public school construction or teachers' salaries, as the states desire.

The nine-man majority was composed of five Republicans, two Southern Democrats and two Northern Democrats—both Roman Catholics representing heavily Catholic districts. Republicans in the House are nearly unanimously opposed to any school bill. The opposition of the conservative Southern Democrats is heightened by their concern that a federal education program would hasten integration in public schools. Many Catholic congressmen are under pressure from their constituents to withhold support from public school aid until they are assured parochial schools also will get some form of aid.

In addition, the bill faces heavy attack once it gets to the floor from members who oppose the provisions for teachers' salaries but favor the construction program, and those who object to the formula under which poorer states will receive a greater proportion of funds than richer states. Such formidable opposition has kept the House from ever giving final approval to a general aid to education bill. Supporters of the current measure are now agreed that only vigorous action by the administration can change that pattern.

House and Senate Democratic leaders met at the White House Tuesday for talks that focused on the school bill. Rep. Adam C. Powell, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Education Committee, who Monday called for the administration to step up its backing, told a news conference he saw a change in the atmosphere shortly after the White House meeting.

Powell said Majority Leader John W. McCormack, D-Mass., who had shared the view of the Catholics on the Rules Committee that the parochial school issue should be acted on first, has now agreed to let the public school bill be called up first—after both have won Rules Committee approval. Powell said he hopes to speed up action by his committee on the defense education act and get it to the Rules Committee next week. What happens when the bill hits the floor, however, is anybody's guess.

Gen. Eisenhower Is Honored Guest

YORK, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was guest of honor at a stag dinner of some 300 industrial leaders of York County Tuesday night. Although Eisenhower had accepted the invitation to attend with the provision there would be no speechmaking, he did urge the industrialists to take an active interest in politics. He told the group they must "put business sense into the business of politics or we are going to wake up some day and be sorry."

Children who meet the requirements will receive certificates at the conclusion of the program for reading 15 books. Those who read more receive a gold seal on the certificate. In order to obtain the certificate, each child is required to read a variety of books on his own level. Children are encouraged to read all they want, but must comply with the program to get the certificate.

Suggests College Budget By Synod

The Rev. Archie G. McKee, chairman of the Executive Committee on Campus Christian Life for the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina, last week recommended that the Synod set up a budget of $79,776 to operate programs at colleges across the state. East Carolina College is one of the non-Presbyterian schools cooperating with the program. McKee also requested that each Presbytery in the Synod appoint a Permanent Committee on Campus Christian Life for the purpose of carrying the program to the churches.
