

U.S. Orbits Atomic Battery In Space As Part Of Triple Satellite-Launching

By HOWARD BENEDICT CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States has hurled the first atomic battery into space as part of a spectacular sky-high triple play in which one rocket rammed three satellites into orbit.

Almost immediately, spring devices kicked the payloads apart and they continued to circle the globe on separate paths nearly 600 miles above the earth.

The other satellites were: A 55-pound sphere nicknamed GREB which carried two detectors to measure X-ray radiation from the sun.

But the starring role went to the grapefruit-sized atomic unit whose hot core contained a small amount of plutonium 238, a radioisotope which generated heat up to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

power supply and permit communication with vehicles fired deep into the universe.

Speeches and articles by Soviet scientists report they are pushing development of nuclear units as being necessary for future space exploration.

Planning-Zoning Body Declines Neighborhood Conservation Plan

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission last night declined action on a proposed Neighborhood Conservation Ordinance referred by the City Council for recommendation by the commission.

W. Lee and Dr. M. W. Aldridge—the citizens indicated all were in general agreement that the proposed ordinance was basically sound.

Cobb said that the ordinance would be "binding on the entire city, and Urban Renewal would not."

"The money needed for upgrading of property is available, we just need some incentive and leadership."

Huge Housing Bill Now Only Awaits Signing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The $5.6 billion omnibus housing bill has cleared Congress, carrying easier terms for buyers of FHA-insured homes.

The longer the mortgage, the lower the monthly payment. The down payment on a $15,000 home would be $450.

Commission members and several citizens who attended the meeting discussed the nine-page proposal for more than an hour before the Commission decided to consider a recommendation further at a later meeting.

However, commission members' discussion showed some skepticism about specifications within the ordinance.

To a question of "What is required for them to be eligible (for FHA loans)?" Cobb replied: "The one thing they need to qualify for the loans is for you gentlemen to set up a neighborhood plan."

Godwin presented a trio of charts indicating current land use in the city, blighted areas and other information.

Under the moderate-income family section, a new administration-devised program, homes that cost up to $15,000 can be bought on 35-year mortgages and on up to 40-year mortgages if the buyer's income is too low for the 35-year plan.

Another provision would permit sale of land to developers in urban renewal areas at lower prices so they could build middle-income housing. There have been charges such projects result in homes only for the wealthy and the poor.

HAVANA (AP)—A foreign ministry source said today that President Kennedy's comments on the tractor-for-prisoners issue seem to have closed the door to further negotiations.

Ted's Wife Keeps Up With Kennedys

By WALTER R. MEARS

BOSTON (AP) — Blonde Joan Kennedy, wife of the President's youngest brother, says that the hardest part of being a Kennedy-by-marriage is learning to keep up with the clan.

Now 25 and the mother of a 14-year-old girl, she was married in 1958 to Edward (Ted) Kennedy, Boston's busiest assistant district attorney.

"It's mostly a question of trying to keep up around this family," she says. "I'm learning a lot about politics; they've lived it all their lives."

"We get six newspapers delivered here every day. I try to read half of what he reads."

The young couple—he's 29—spent 10 days in Italy this spring on "a semi-official good will trip." Mrs. Kennedy found "when you go abroad, they ask you very searching questions."

"Just imagine if you didn't know what to say."

They Kennedys live in a vine-covered brick house at the foot of Beacon Hill. It's the first permanent home of their married life.

The dwelling is part of a long, U-shaped block on a private square facing the Charles River. There are three bedrooms, two sitting rooms, a dining room and kitchen, on three floors.

"It's one of these tall, skinny things," says Mrs. Kennedy.

The upstairs sitting room is Mrs. Kennedy's "run-around room" for little Kara. "She's just been walking a few months, and she's zelling into everything." Kara's name came out of a book of old Irish names. "It means 'dear little one,'" says Mrs. Kennedy. "If it had been a boy, he probably would have been 'Junior.'"

Home To Mother

Mrs. Kennedy, the former Joan Bennett, grew up in Bronxville, N. Y., and Kara was born there. "I went home to mother," she says with a smile.

That was in pre-election days when Ted was spending much of his time working to line up Western states' support for his brother for the Democratic presidential nomination. Joan was dividing her time between Hyannis Port and Bronxville.

Ted, as a $1 a year assistant Suffolk County district attorney, is practicing law for the first time. He passed the bar two years ago, "but he's been so busy helping his brother that he hadn't actually practiced," says Mrs. Kennedy.

Although he hasn't announced any political plans, he's on the go all over the state, addressing groups from Boston to Springfield. There are reports Ted will run for Congress in 1962, or seek the Senate seat vacated by the President. But Joan insists his busy schedule these days isn't political.

Seeing Boston

"I don't see much of Ted," she says. "He's usually out of the house about 7:30 in the morning. He walks up to the courthouse. He comes back in the evening, then he's off again for a speaking engagement."

Mrs. Kennedy has a woman to help care for Kara, and she accompanies Ted whenever she can. "In the beginning I used to stay home all the time, but then I decided to see Boston," she says. "There's no piano at the Charles River Square home, but there'll be one at her summer place on Squaw Island, near the Kennedy colony at Hyannis Port. Ted is buying a piano for her birthday this summer."

"I'd like to start practicing and studying again," she says. Joan also has kept busy decorating the Boston home and furnishing the Squaw Island place, on the beach at Nantucket Sound, in colonial style.

When Ted bought the property, there were rumors it was for the President then seeking the office, because the island is more isolated than Kennedy's Hyannis Port house. But Joan says that isn't so. "He bought it for himself," she says.

Sometimes she whips up a meal, but she admits "I'm not that good a cook. I get kidded a lot."

Reflected Taste

A deep, wall-to-wall, gold broadloom rug covers the first floor and stairway of the Kennedy home. Big mirrors decorate one wall of the dining room and outer hallway.

Those delight little Kara. She laughs and shouts while peering at herself. "She's very proud of herself," says Mrs. Kennedy. "She just learned the word 'baby.'"

Joan and Ted met in 1957, while he was at law school and she was at Manhattanville. She was graduated in June, 1958, and they were married in November.

They were on the move from her wedding day until they settled in Boston late last year. They lived at Charlottesville, Va., while Ted completed law school.

How long will the Charles River Square house be home to the young couple? "It all depends on how our family starts growing," says Joan.

Mrs. Kennedy spends many of her evenings at concerts. She studied music at Manhattanville College in New York, and has played the piano since she was 5. There's no piano at the Charles River Square home, but there'll

ON A SUNNY AFTERNOON . . . Mrs. Ted Kennedy and daughter, Kara, 1 1/2, sit in front of their Beacon Hill home.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The portable garden offers much to the gardener who has a patio or terrace. Plants grown in pots and large containers can be used in different designs and combinations.

The portable garden should have a plant or two in large containers. These plants could be the Cleander, the Camellia, the Gardenia, the Banana shrub, and for contrast, the Fig.

Colorful annuals can be used in eight or ten inch flower pots. Petunias offer much when so used. Try "Comanche" and "Firechief" for reds. The red and white "Satellite", dwarf whites and blues, and purples are good subjects.

A good soil mixture for use in pots and nurseries are good subjects. In the portable garden is sandy loam, 3 parts, 2 parts leaf mold, 1 part shredded cow manure and 2 tablespoons of 5-10-10 fertilizer. Mix this well so no part of mixture predominates. Before potting place a piece of broken pot over hole in bottom of pot. Fill pot to within one inch of top. Place plant in pot and water well. Pot grown plants need more water than those growing in ground area. So if you won't be able to put this amount of extra time in caring for your potted plants, don't go in for portable gardens.

Use some cool blue colors like Lobelia and Ageratum which bloom for a long time—Ageratum up to frost time.

Among the perennials, Begonias and Geraniums will give a lot of color. Chrysanthemums will give a lot of bloom and almost any color but blue. Use the small flowered types. They look good as cascades, a pot of these hanging from a tripod makes a pleasing picture.

Redwood tubs or large weathered boxes of wood offers pleasing contrast for container choices. An effective addition to your garden would be a Firethorn in one of these wooden containers. Underplant this with Bugleweed or some ground cover to your liking.

This may be a bit late for considering a portable garden but it has been an unusual season. So it may not be too late to get up a few potted plant favorites and use them on your patio or terrace.

These plants in smaller containers can be brought indoors for occasions when bad weather drives you out of your outdoor living room.

If you decide it is too late for going into this type of gardening this season, think over the prospects for having one next year.

Study Of Agreements Is In Order

The mutual advantage of close cooperation between the County of Pitt and Greenville and other municipalities of the county, is, we think, generally recognized by officials of the various local governments within the county and by the citizens as a whole.

This close cooperation covers not only undertaking specific projects from time to time, but likewise continuing efforts in which the various governments are involved, and for which the various governments earmark a certain portion of their revenues each year.

A case in point is the joint meeting this week between the City Council of Greenville and the Board of County Commissioners to discuss the $10,900 appropriation which the city has been making for several years to the county health department operations. Discussions between the two boards during the meeting covered not only the immediate question of the city's appropriation for the health department, but a wide range of projects and programs of the local governments in which funds from both governments are appropriated for use by the other.

Over a long period of years there have been undertaken from time to time programs in which each shared costs by mutual agreement. Greenville for example, appropriates funds from its annual budget for health department and dog warden budgets of the county. The county, on the other hand, appropriates funds which go into supporting operations of Sheppard Memorial Library. In the matter of tax listing the city depends almost entirely upon the county to gather the information and the city in turn gets from the county the information it needs at a very nominal cost.

These are only a few examples of the many items in the budgets of Greenville and Pitt County which reflect the exchange of funds between the two governments for reciprocal services.

There arises, however, from time to time the natural question of whether one or the other levels of government—or rather their taxpayers—is helping to share an unrealistic portion of the cost of the other. This same question, probably prompted Greenville's City Council to meeting to discuss the city's health department appropriation with the County Commissioners.

In the interest of continued close cooperation in the future, and in the interest of seeing that the fiscal ties between the county and municipal governments remain on an equitable basis, we feel it would be wise for a committee composed of the city manager, the county auditor and perhaps two members from each of the governing boards to be designated to make a detailed analysis of the many fiscal agreements that now exist between the two local governments.

There would be ample time for such a study between now and next spring when the governments will again begin work on their budgets for the following fiscal year. And on the basis of such a study each of the governing boards could evaluate its position in the complex of reciprocal financial agreements which now exist between the two bodies. If changes appear to be in order, they could be made at the beginning of the fiscal year in July 1962.

Advantages In Some Rivalries

By LYNN NISBET

SECTIONALISM — A great deal has been said and written about sectionalism in North Carolina, with implications of an unhealthy jealousy and rivalry among the east and west and central parts of the state. Careful analysis of many of the issues will prove that in most instances there is nothing bad about the situations, and that instead of being jealous, a more appropriate word would be that leaders in each area are zealous for equal opportunities for their people.

Take, for example, the authorization by the recent General Assembly for a school for the deaf in Eastern Carolina, very probably on the campus of the State-owned East Carolina Sanatorium at Wilson. The present one school for deaf at Morganton cannot take care of all the children who apply for special education. If additional space must be provided, it would seem to make sense to provide it nearer the homes of the pupils for their convenience and economy.

A very similar situation developed a few years ago when a training school for mentally retarded children was authorized for the western part of the state. Facilities at Caswell had long been inadequate and a new school was established at Butner for white children. Then a similar school was established at Goldsboro for colored children. When more space was needed the logical thing was to put a new unit in the western part of the state — and it was authorized for Morganton and is now under construction.

Long before that, when the TB sanatorium at McCain could not meet demands for patients, another was built at Wilson and later a third at Black Mountain and finally a research and surgical unit at Chapel Hill.

DISPERSED — And before that the establishment of colleges at Boone and Cullowhee and Greenville; Elizabeth City and Fayetteville and Winston-Salem and Pembroke, sought to serve students who could not be accepted at the big central universities — or who could not finance an educational tour so far from home.

The same thing happened with the correctional schools. First one at Concord justified expanding the idea and there followed units at Rocky Mount, Samarrand, Morrison, Kingston and McCain, and now a sort of classification center for the whole system is getting underway at Moore General Hospital site at Swannanoa.

Most of these institutions were not established because of sectional pride. In fact, the communities did not want some of them. They were located with a view to greatest service to the most people.

It is interesting to note that the Leonard school for Negro boys at McCain is utilizing facilities which the big TB sanatorium there no longer needed; the correctional center at Swannanoa is taking over the army hospital which the State obtained for very little — as it has previously obtained all the Butner property — and the proposed new school for the deaf will utilize facilities no longer required by Eastern TB sanatorium at Wilson.

The training schools for mentally deficient pupils established at Dobbs Farm, at Butner, at Goldsboro and at Morganton; the correctional schools at McCain and Swannanoa, and the proposed school for deaf at Wilson, did not require the purchase of land. They all utilized land already owned by the State. Of course, the renovation and adaptation to new uses calls for substantial sums, but not nearly as much as completely new outfits would require.

JEALOUSY — There is more evidence of petty jealousy in the field of highway development. People in the far east charge with apparent sincerity of belief, that they are getting gypped by roadbuilding plans for the central and western parts of the state. The mountain folks just as sincerely believe that too much of their road tax money is being used for building bridges down east and boulevards in the piedmont. Again, thorough analysis of the situation will prove that these opinions are not justified.

There is one area, however, where jealous rivalry is very expensive. That is when bond elections are called for schools, hospitals and historic site developments. The impact of that jealousy is evident in some statewide issues, but is much more potent at local levels.

A number of counties are levying taxes on hospital and school bonds issued for facilities that were not needed, except that the bond election could never have been carried for essentials without inclusion of some of the pet local issues.

Despite the publicity about sectional rivalry among different parts of the state, the most expensive and most obvious "sectionalism" is found in rural-urban jealousy in local bond and tax matters. That also is the area in which there is greatest aggregate waste of public money.

Community and sectional pride can be the prime motivation for progressive development. Carried just a little bit too far it can be the prime inspiration for ermental extravagance and waste. The dividing point is hard to locate — and it is human nature to blame the waste on the other fellow.

In Her Itsy Bitsy Teeny Bikini

By HENRY HOWARD

Eyebrows Were Raised

Sometimes these things just have a way of happening. They're innocent, unintentional little happenings that nobody would think funny until they suddenly materialize.

We took a trip during the weekend to visit a medical specialist in Winston-Salem. As is often the case, a good friend made preliminary arrangements at the hospital. Upon our arrival there everything was in order. All we had to do was patiently await an appointment with the specialist.

At the appointed hour, we made our way to the doctor's office and underwent the routine interview at the receptionist's desk. As usual, she had to have several questions answered. These answers she typed neatly on a little card as we rattled off the information.

It is with most specialists, this doctor included on each patient's card the name of the physician who had referred to him the particular patient.

And, pretty soon, we got to that part. The receptionist asked the name of the doctor who had referred us to the specialist. We told her in the same casual, assured tone of voice.

Automatically, she typed the referring doctor's name — the name of our friend who had made arrangements for us — onto the card.

But suddenly, she looked up from her typewriter with eyebrows raised. "Who did you say?" she asked.

I repeated the good doctor's name again. "Are you serious?" she questioned.

"Sure, I am," I told her. Then I thought for a moment and suddenly it dawned on me. There was that slight feeling of embarrassment when I remembered that our doctor friend was an obstetrician.

L. E. Coggins Jr. of Route 6, Greenville, brought a huge diamond-back rattlesnake by the office yesterday afternoon.

The huge — and dead, thankfully — reptile attracted several passers-by most of whom declared it was the "biggest rattler I've ever seen around here."

Coggins said he killed the 10-rattler snake on a highway near Belvoir.

The subject of rattlesnake steaks came up somehow and it was obvious there would be some choice cuts — if there's such a thing — from Coggins' game.

Every Failure Is Big

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The most complete account of the Cuban fiasco that has yet been published appeared in an article in "The Saturday Evening Post" by Stewart Alsop. He entitled it "The Lessons of the Cuban Disaster." It might more correctly be called, "The American Disaster."

As one reads this account, it becomes obvious that while plotting and planning is a pleasant occupation, the implementation may be unrelated to reality. That inevitably leads to disaster.

First of all, it must be recognized that the attempt to invade Cuba and take over the government was an American enterprise. There is no use denying that. Many Americans would have been proud. It was organized and managed by the CIA; it should have been the task of the Marine Corps. If there was to be any kind of intervention, it should have been open and direct. The American mind does not lend itself to the trickiness employed in the Cuban affair.

The trouble seems to have been that the plan was devised by the CIA during the Eisenhower Administration; that Admiral Arleigh Burke and General Lyman Lemnitzer, of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, endorsed the plan under certain conditions. As one reads Alsop's article, which represents by far, the most complete study of the situation, it becomes evident that President Kennedy has inordinate respect for experts, his assumption being that the professional must know more than the layman or the amateur. This can be extremely costly to him because the expert often becomes a fanatic. Alsop says:

"The men responsible for mounting a major covert operation like the Cuban landings must not also be responsible for judging the operation's chances of success or failure. Those in the must be assessed in-advance — and with a cold and fishy eye — by experts who are in no way involved in the operation, and who have their own independent sources of information."

Alsop attempts a psychological study of why this should be so. Such profundity is unnecessary; experience shows that an outside, disinterested, objective opinion is useful. In business lawyers, outside engineering firms, public relations counsels, management analysis firms are brought in to check on a situation. An outside look often seems necessary. Government officials tend to judge themselves which is never good enough.

According to Stewart Alsop, President Kennedy's "new boys" were less favorably disposed toward the CIA's plan but were unwilling to set themselves up against the pros. He says that Secretary of State Dean Rusk and adviser McGeorge Bundy had misgivings and that Senator Fulbright and Arthur Schlesinger Jr. were sharply opposed. Fulbright saying so outright but Schlesinger being somewhat quiet about it, which is astonishing.

There has been an element of childishness about the entire activity in the assumption that such an enterprise, with men drilling in camps, could be kept secret — the preparation was in the making. Anyone in Miami who knew Cubans knew what was going on. Here in New York, the projected invasion was openly discussed. There even quarrels among the Cuban revolutionary organizations because it was felt that the CIA's judgement as to who should be supported was not correct.

President throughout was opposed to direct American intervention which meant that the correct plan was doomed to failure. It is unfortunate that those who enjoy the President's confidence and who opposed the CIA nonsense did not fight hard for their point of view. There is another side to this which Stewart Alsop states:

"Bobby Kennedy, who hates failure more even than most Kennedys, was present. He remarked, as the sad meeting ended, (about the Cuban debacle) that what worried him most was that no body in the Government would be willing to stick his neck out to take a chance, to plan bold and aggressive action against the Communists."

"Surely the President's brother was essentially right. If the Communists are permitted in-

One Might Assume A Constant Check Made

How close a check have the intelligence agencies of the United States been keeping on possible tests of nuclear weapons in the Soviet Union?

How effective is the present U.S. system of detecting nuclear explosions in various parts of the globe? These are questions which come to mind in view of the announcement that President Kennedy has ordered a special investigation into whether the Soviet Union has been secretly testing nuclear weapons and whether such tests could go undetected.

Prior to the voluntary ban on nuclear tests by the United States and the Soviet Union, there were a number of occasions on which U.S. officials reported nuclear explosions in the Soviet Union prior to the acknowledgement of such tests by Soviet officials. On the basis of these announcements by the American government, it was reasonable to assume that some adequate method of detecting nuclear blasts had been perfected by the United States.

Is it to be assumed from the President's announcement that this detection system may have been outmoded in recent years? Is it to be assumed that high officials in the U.S. government question whether the present system is adequate?

If a special investigation on the order of the President is necessary to determine whether the detection system of the United States is adequate, then certainly such an investigation should be made. On the other hand, one would normally assume that perpetual checks have been made of the system employed by the United States for detecting nuclear explosions, and further that the system has been constantly refined and improved. If such has not been the case, it is obvious that the President needs to do considerably more than order an investigation of the situation.

An Advisor, Or Short-Circuit?

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Still unclear is whether President Kennedy has picked Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor as just one more adviser or whether he brought him into short-circuit some of the others. Kennedy is knee-deep in advisers, of whom McGeorge Bundy, former Harvard dean, is the specialist on security affairs which include defense and intelligence and, perhaps, foreign policy.

Taylor, former Army chief of staff who retired in 1959 in protest against President Eisenhower's defense policies, will be Kennedy's military adviser, working primarily in the military and intelligence fields.

This seems to leave Bundy's position foggy. He was one of those who sat in with the President when the decision was made to let the disavowal of the ban in military goals and strategy; immediate modernization and expansion of the nation's forces for limited war; a long-range missile system that can be moved around instead of being stationary.

In addition; at this moment, when Soviet Premier Khrushchev is building a crisis on Berlin, Taylor is a man who not only had military experience in Berlin but has very positive opinions about defending it. He was American commander in Berlin from 1949 to 1951. He thinks this city, 110 miles inside Communist East Germany and the Western outpost in the Red world, must be defended.

In a Chicago speech 14 months ago he said: "Berlin is defensible through our clear determination to go all out if necessary, in any kind of military operation which might be required by the situation. Berlin can be defended and, in my opinion, must be defended."

Other Editors Saying A Permanent Burden

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Often overheard is the wishful that our national armament burden could somehow be reduced. Such a miraculous and magic event, if possible, certainly would mean tremendous savings for the taxpayers. It would mean funds channeled into other more useful fields.

Unfortunately, such wishful thinking is only a dream. The House Appropriations Committee last week gave the green light to the full program of heavier military spending asked by President Kennedy. And the committee didn't do it eagerly, although it fully recognizes the need for this money to keep up our defenses. Indeed it approved more than was asked, so that the amount is $2.4 billion more than for the present year just ending.

The committee summed up its views on the need for heavier armament this way: "There has been a general worsening of the international situation." That last sentence is the key to the problem. For at no point in the distant future can one foresee a peaceful situation which would warrant a major reduction in our armament.

Consequently we must pay the price and all the attendant problems. Problems such as the "vast bureaucracy" of the Pentagon which the House Appropriations members spoke of. But the committee acknowledges that waste of tax money is not entirely the fault of the Defense Department. Guilty, too, are private businessmen who con-

Nothing Wrong With His Head

By ELMER ROESSNER

We have a guest columnist to-day, A. J. Hunt, of 12 Saybrook Rd., Worcester, Mass., a truck driver on sick leave because, he said, "trouble in his joints."

Mr. Hunt may have trouble with his joints, but not with his idea, and he reflects what a lot of people are thinking these days. He writes:

"It has been said: 'God give me the serenity to accept things I cannot change, the strength to change things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference.' This is all very good, but the more I read, the more confused I get; and to try to change anything else but a dollar bill in this Barnum & Bailey world today, one would be called a crackpot, a nonconformist, a misfit, out of order and disagreeable.

"We believe the auto manufacturers have themselves in a dither by producing so many different models, styles, and changes from year to year, that the average person has decided to keep the old relic in repair as long as possible.

"If the manufacturer hopes that the gullible public will buy them as fast as they make them, then they will have to make them redeemable for a couple books of stamps.

"On Memorial Day, bettors wagged a total of $22,484,803.60 at the leading 12 tracks and this does not count the money bet with bookmakers, nor does it include the admission fee paid to the tracks. These fees were paid by 351,153 persons.

"Our Memorial Day highway death total was an amazing record of stupidity at the wheel — which will probably be exceeded by the number of corpses strewn about during the July 4 weekend."

Good man, this Hunt, NO SECRET: STATE TAXES ON WAX UP
Twenty-three states have increased taxes this year, and 15 state legislatures are still in session, Commerce Clearing House reports.
Major increases have been in increased tax rates, changes in exemptions, changes in assessment and collection rules, and closing tax loopholes.

Time was when an auto tourist and his wife could stay overnight at a neat motel for $4 a night. Today — well, if you don't know you'll find out if you go touring this summer.
The reason, the American Automobile Association reports, is that travelers demand air-conditioning, swimming pools and other conveniences.

This is essentially true. After our failure in Cuba, we lost in Laos and we lost at the disarmament conferences at Geneva. It is impossible to take a small loss in the present big game. Every failure is an enormous failure and will produce bitter fruit.

Next Few Days To Decide Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS How the weather turns out for the next couple of days apparently will determine the severity of farm damage from this week's wind, rain and hail storms.

The forecast calls for a drying out process, with clearing skies and rising temperatures. Farmers hope the return to sunshiny weather won't be too fast.

"If it turns up hot real fast, it'll do damage," explained Mark Goforth, farm agent for Wayne County. "If it continues to rain we're going to run into trouble. We want it to stay cool for a while."

Queries to county agents in the areas hardest hit by Monday's storms Wednesday failed to bring any estimates of damages in dollars and cents. Most felt that how well crops recover is the important factor.

Generally, it appeared that the important tobacco crop, except for areas hardest hit by the hail and wind, is in good condition.

Concern for the small grain crop was voiced by Asst. Agriculture Commissioner John L. Reitzel. He pointed out that more than 50 per cent of oats and barley, and 75 per cent of wheat and rye crops are yet to be harvested.

Eleven Boys Of Pitt Attended Summer Camp

Six boys from South Ayden High School and five from Pitt County Training School, Grimesland, were among 160 New Farmers of America from Eastern North Carolina who attended the S. B. Simmons Camp.

Attending from Ayden were Jimmie Brown, Joe Cannon, Kermit Dixon, Kelbert Hardy, James Lowry Jr. and Thomas Reaves. From the Grimesland school were Walter Gatlin, Levi Floyd, Moses Fleming, Oliver Leary and Melvin Smith.

The boys attending received instructions in arts and crafts, electricity and forestry. In recreation they participated in boating, fishing, swimming, basketball, volleyball, soft ball and horseshoe pitching.

Jimmie Brown received a prize for being the best all-round athlete. Kermit Dixon was elected vice president of his group. J. J. Brown and W. A. Cherry were the advisors from the schools.

AFL-CIO Plans New Drive For Wage Increases

UNITY HOUSE, Pa. (AP)—The AFL-CIO today charted a new drive for pay increases despite an administration call for wage restraint.

Federation leaders said in a policy statement that wages have been rising too slowly for the good of the nation's economy. And they said that fears of inflation expressed by some of President Kennedy's aides are untimely and unwise.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, took issue with assertions that the recession is over. He insisted the recession continues so long as there are nearly 5 million unemployed.

"The problem is not inflation," Meany said. "The problem is to put the economy back to work and that means putting unemployed workers back to work."

The AFL-CIO executive council, in adopting its economic policy statement Wednesday, said that Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and Walt Rostow, deputy special assistant to Kennedy, have urged unions in recent talks

DONALD BARR CHIDSEY'S New Historical Entertainment THE WICKEDEST PILGRIM

CHAPTER 35

Robert Cushman was large, florid, forty-odd, canonical in his manner, with white hair that framed the face of a petulant cherub. He had but to clear his throat to make any occasion a portentous one.

He was in the very first boat that came ashore, and he stood in the bow of that boat, arms upraised, like some tritonless sea god who had only just surfaced.

"Praise be to the Lord," he shouted, "I have found you!"

Sal Boyd, down from the fort, regarded this man with a great deal of interest.

Deacon Cushman, he knew would have all the official as well as unofficial news from London. For better or for worse, he had Sal's future in his wallet.

Sal glanced sideways at Priscilla Mullins. She was eager to hear what Robert Cushman had to report, and for the same reason that Sal was.

For here was one of the first separatists, a man who, with the late John Carter, had made all arrangements in London for the financing of this expedition, who had been in charge of the passengers aboard Speedwell until that leaky vessel was forced to put back into Plymouth, and who since then had been the whole representative of the saints among the money-men.

It was Cushman who without authorization from Leyden had accepted a change in the articles of agreement between the saints and the merchant adventurers — a change the saints at Southampton refused to sanction. Now he himself had come to the New World. This could mean that all was well, or it could mean that the merchants repudiated them and would leave them to their own devices. The settlers had done all that they could do, here. Lacking support from London, they would die.

First, of course, they had a long prayer, a series of prayers rather right there on the shore, while the longboat went back for a second load. Everybody said "Amen," many times.

Deacon Cushman wept unabashed when he heard that his beloved colleague, John Carver, was dead. Ceremoniously he handed over to William Bradford, as governor of the colony, a letter addressed to Carver in that capacity.

Deacon Cushman announced that it was from Thomas Weston, leader of the money men and their spokesman. Without breaking the seal, Governor Bradford tucked the letter into his tunic and offered his arm to Cushman; they would go up the slope to Elder Brewster's house. Priscilla, intent upon the preparation of food, after a last swift glance at Sal scuttled off ahead of them.

But Robert Cushman paused a moment, looking around. He whispered something to William Bradford, whose eyes instinctively flicked toward Sal. Then the governor shook an impatient head, and hurried the newcomer along.

By this time the second boatload was being landed. The vessel was Fortune, 55 tons, out of London, and she carried only thirty-five passengers, twelve of them saints, the rest strangers. She carried no supplies of any sort for New Plymouth — only new mouths to feed.

A few of the strangers were women but most of them were callow young men, all unequipped, grumbling about the accommodations aboard of Fortune, and demanding to know where they should sleep and who would assign them bedclothes and when they would be given breakfast.

Every third one, as he splashed ashore, was heard to ask: "Where's the pirate here?" Sal pursed grim lips. His name might not be on the records, but it was well known; the Mayflower mariners had seen no need for silence, and Sawm Matthews' babbling alone would have been enough.

Yet this question embarrassed Sal less than it did some of the others. "Boyd's no pirate," a few growled. "He's a privateer — or he used to be." Sal smiled to himself. He decided to leave all present

First, and before there was a word of explanation, or even introduction, Deacon Cushman had to recite a long tearful prayer over Salathiel, as though Sal had been a fallen woman.

Sal, who a year ago would have snarled, took this meekly standing with his head lowered, his feet together, hands clasped before him; and when it was ended at last he said "Amen" as loudly as the most pious of them.

They took him into their confidence, which pleased him. They read him the whole of Thomas Weston's letter.

It was a long, disagreeable, scolding letter. Weston appeared to be more concerned with his own and his friends' money than he was in the health and well-being of the colonists.

"You didn't call me in here to read letters to me," Sal Boyd said. "What else did this man Weston want? He said — he said it privately. I suppose — he said you must send me back, didn't he?"

"Well, he did," William Bradford said.

"He said, Deacon Cushman took it up, 'that one pirate in a colony would be like one rotten apple in a barrel — it would spoil all the others.'"

"He did, did he?" muttered Sal. "What does he know about pirates? Have I spoiled anybody here?"

"He said that once your presence in New Plymouth became known it would be an invitation to others engaged in the same profession to try to make this their headquarters. Or even if they didn't, he would fear that they would — and they wouldn't invest another penny."

Elder Brewster interposed. "To lose Master Boyd, who has been so kind, would break our hearts, every one of us. If he went to join the Wampanoags couldn't we contend that he was out of our jurisdiction?"

Sal shook a vigorous head. "Live with those illiterates? No, thank you."

"But, Boyd, if you —"

"My masters, no more, pray. I'll go back. I am not accused of murder, I take it? Or piracy? There's no royal warrant out for my arrest?"

Jayne Visiting Hungarian Kin

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Jayne Mansfield is paying her first visit behind the iron curtain — to her in-laws — and the bosomy Hollywood blonde is "just thrilled."

Jayne and her Hungarian-born husband, musician Mickey Hargitay, arrived Wednesday to introduce her to his mother, father and two brothers.

The state-run television organization, which rarely gets such foreign glamor on its screens, fringed its cameras to the airport to record the reunion.

Jayne and Mickey were bustled into the airport lounge to be greeted by Mrs. Hargitay, wearing traditional head-scarf, Hargitay-senior, dressed in the uniform of an inland shipping company, and the brothers.

In hesitant Hungarian she had learned from her husband, Miss Mansfield said:

"I love you both, mama and papa."

Replied papa, with a tear in his eye:

"I could keep this golden little woman here forever."

Mickey said they'd like to stay but they had a Hollywood contract to fulfill.

"Well, Oosterlinck and his men were cleared at Plymouth. But they've not lingered there, of course. How it would be with you alone I don't know."

Sal has a most unexpected visitor in the night. Read the conclusion of "The Wickedest Pilgrim" here tomorrow.

STILL KNOWS HOW — Mrs. Elmer Harper, at her 100th birthday anniversary party in Seattle, shows how she handled a six-shooter on a Montana ranch some 80 years ago. Mrs. Harper, known as Aunt Josie, was a Seattle area deputy sheriff in the early 1900s.

Fear Toll Of 450 On July 4

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council said Wednesday 450 Americans may be killed in traffic accidents during the four-day July 4 holiday period.

But the council also said that its estimate will not be fulfilled if individual drivers will apply courtesy and common sense.

George C. Stewart, executive vice president, said that during the holiday period from 6 p.m. Friday, June 30 to midnight Tuesday, July 4, almost all the nation's 74 million motor vehicles will be in use and will run up a total of 10 billion miles.

During the four-day Memorial Day holiday observance this year 462 traffic fatalities were reported.

Congress passed a law against importation of the Giant African Snail in 1953.

Good Things In Store For You During Year

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—More jobs, higher take-home pay, plentiful bargains, better selections—these are the good things seen in store for you the rest of this year.

Bigger tax bills, costlier services, slightly higher interest rates, and lingering unemployment among the unskilled—these are the bad probabilities.

Both sets are short-term prospects. They are the guesses of the majority of the economic soothsayers, based on indications the economy will enjoy a healthy if quiet summer and move ahead steadily if slowly in the fall.

The experts divide sharply on the longer range outlook. Some see a big upsurge in economic growth, getting under way early next year. The contrary minded fear the current plans to stimulate such growth will bring either a feverish but short-lived boom or a creeping and debilitating inflation.

JOBS—more but still not enough.

Increasing industrial output already means longer work weeks. And after a summer bobble for plant vacations, it should bring more jobs by fall. The service industries should absorb still more workers. But contraction in unskilled job opportunities is likely to continue for some time.

INCOMES—a bit higher for Greenville Civitans last night hosted approximately 30 members of other Eastern North Carolina Civitan Clubs comprising Civitan Zone 14.

Representatives from New Bern, Grifton, Kinston, Havelock, Washington, Goldsboro, Morehead City, Fayetteville and Vanceboro joined with Greenville members in conducting a Cabinet Session.

A steak dinner was followed by a business meeting at which new officers were inducted and program plans for the new year beginning July 1 discussed.

Local President Kenneth Quiggins welcomed the group which included Civitan executives E. McLamb, Goldsboro, lieutenant governor of Zone 14; Colonel Zeb Hopkins, Havelock, lieutenant governor-elect of Zone 14; D. Livingstone Stallings, New Bern, area deputy governor; Bill Martin, Fayetteville, area deputy governor-elect; and Dick Moffatt, Goldsboro, past N. C. District governor.

Local club officers installed included Herbert M. Wilkerson, president; James Rodgers, vice president; J. Norman Hopkins, secretary; Warren Whitehurst, treasurer; and directors Joe Brown, Bill Taylor, Frank Scott and Gene Skinner.

New member Leonard V. Waters was inducted into the Greenville club by Area Deputy Governor-elect Martin.

Beauties Invade The UN Lounge

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Beauty shined diplomatic talk aside when a score of Miss Universe contestants—all in native dress—invaded the main delegates' lounge at the United Nations Wednesday.

The visit was part of New York City's program for the beauties from many lands who will compete for the title of Miss Universe at Miami Beach, Fla., July 15.

Diplomats attached to the United Nations were hosts to contestants from their countries at lunch in the delegates' dining room.

Maryland was named for Queen Henrietta Maria, wife of King Charles I of England.

Drought Browns The Great Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vast reaches of the usually-green Northern Great Plains are turning brown under a hot sun untempered with cooling summer showers.

The rains have not come. Snow was scarce last winter. The result is not yet a dust bowl, reminiscent of the 1930s, but there is no mistake—a drought grips an area stretching from much of Minnesota through North and South Dakota into the prairie provinces of Canada.

The lack of moisture has struck hard at small grain crops, has hit cattle unable to find the usual lush spring pasture grasses and has spawned scores of forest and brush fires in regions noted for their June verdancy.

Mass calls for help have gone to Washington from public officials on behalf of farmers.

In North Dakota all but 2 of the 53 counties have been declared drought disaster areas. Similar designations have been extended to large chunks of South Dakota and northwestern Minnesota.

This means farmers may cut hay and graze cattle on land re-

False Entries Charged Banker

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—A 49-year-old former cashier of the Carolina bank here has been charged with making false entries and embezzling $2,000 from the account of a customer of the bank last March—two months before he retired after 12 years of service.

Roderick M. Innes was arrested by the FBI on embezzlement charges Wednesday and waived hearing before U.S. Commissioner J. A. Lang at Carthage.

Innes was released under $2,000 bond for trial in Middle District Court at Rockingham in September.

Underpasses For Cows Ordered

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—The Vermont State Senate passed bill Wednesday which provides that when a new highway project cuts off cows' routes to pasture—the state will build special underpasses for them.

Farmers with herds larger than 50 cows would have to defray ten per cent of the estimated $10,000 cost of a cowpass.

Sat And Sipped As 5 Elephants Waited Outside

BURLINGTON, N.J. (AP)—William Fanning sat and sipped at the Sit 'n' Sip while five elephants sat and waited.

Fanning is a truck driver from Baton Rouge, La. The truck he was driving last Monday contained five elephants of the Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus. They were en route to Philadelphia for an appearance after leaving Newington, Conn.

But Fanning stopped at the Sit 'n' Sip tavern on Rt. 130, and sipped past the elephants' feeding time.

The elephants began to trumpet. People who live near the bar called police.

Hunt Brothers Circus, quartered at nearby Florence, responded to a police request and sent over six bales of hay for the animals. The Burlington Fire De-

Predicts Church Return To China

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII said Wednesday Roman Catholic missionaries one day will again spread the gospel in China.

The Pope expressed his conviction in an apostolic letter to Thomas Cardinal Tien-Chensin, exiled archbishop of Peiping who now serves as apostolic administrator of Taipei, and to all Chinese bishops in Formosa.

partment's pumper filled the elephants' water barrels.

Fanning, a Negro, appeared in court Tuesday night and was given a 60-day sentence.

Eichmann Again Denies Responsibility Burden

JERUSALEM, ISRAEL (AP)—Adolf Eichmann, denying for the eighth day on the witness stand all responsibility for the Nazis' mass slaughter of Jews, today repudiated a Red Cross report that called him a powerful man in the vast plot.

"I had no role, I had no authority," testified the former Gestapo lieutenant colonel in charge of "Jewish affairs" in the Third Reich.

This was his reaction to a report made by the International Red Cross after a visit to the Theresienstadt concentration camp north of Prague early in April 1945, a few weeks before the Nazi collapse.

The report told of meeting with Eichmann at the huge Habsburg palace in Prague and described him as a man "who played a first rate part in all these concentration camps—a reich plenipotentiary in the SS."

To this Eichmann said: "no, I had no role whatsoever (in the camps), I had no function, I had no authority."

Defense counsel Robert Servatius led the defendant over a series of prosecution documents linking him with measures against the Jews in France, Belgium and Luxembourg and in each instance Eichmann portrayed his Berlin IV-B-4 headquarters as merely a relay point for instructions and correspondence.

TANGIBLE PROGRESS in civil defense in Charlotte-Mecklenburg County, N. C., can be measured by the moving of its office from the trailer to the house, made possible by a new Federal cost-sharing program for State and local CD personnel and administrative expenses.

NEW LAW AIDS C.D. BUILDUP

New muscle for understaffed State and local civil defense agencies is now resulting from a Federal program to match 50-50 with States or localities the expenses of additional civil defense staff workers.

This new program, authorized by Public Law 85-606, provides $6,000,000 in the current fiscal year for the hiring of additional State and local civil defense personnel and to meet added expenses such as office rental, furniture, necessary equipment and official travel. This is the first time Federal funds have supplemented State or local civil defense salary or administrative expenses. States and localities have requested funds for 3,633 employees under this program.

FRANK B. ELLIS, Director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, who administers the shared-cost program, stresses that the funds must be used to expand State and local civil defense capabilities and that hiring must be on a merit basis. Ellis declares: "We cannot maintain a status quo in civil emergency planning in the face of tensions that now beset the world. Civil defense at the local level must expand to keep pace with our national need to strengthen our resistance to aggression and measure up to the President's expressed demand for maximum effectiveness in civil emergency operations."

A typical example of how Public Law 806 is helping our States is that of North Carolina. Under its director, Major General Edward F. Griffin, the North Carolina Civil Defense Agency has hired 21 professional and clerical people to strengthen the State's readiness for emergency action. Hitherto its staff of 11 persons was hard-pressed to maintain a basic minimum of readiness for emergency preparedness.

THE STATE, which was allocated $113,000 by OCDM, passed on $53,040 of its allotment to local civil defense organizations for the hiring of an additional 39 persons. The bulk of these are clerical workers, whose shortage in the past often has hobbled the executive staff with routine but necessary tasks.

COMMUNICATIONS CENTER at Wadesboro, N. C., combines a round-the-clock civil defense nerve center with a unified radio service for local police, fire and sheriff's departments. Used for this dual purpose, the equipment is kept in top-notch condition at all times to meet emergencies. At the radio is Walde J. Stroud, one of three operators hired by the local CD unit under a program in which Federal and local governments share the costs of new civil defense employees. Raymond H. Norhaut (right), Wadesboro-Anson County CD director, explains his radio setup to Herman J. Slak, Area E director for the North Carolina Civil Defense Agency and one of five area directors hired under the same cost-sharing law to help build up CD at the local level. (OCDM Photo)

New-Born Babe Is Grammie-Rich

FAIRFIELD, Vt. (AP) — Relatives got to figuring after hearing of the birth of Jeanette Francis-Kovich in Canton, Ill., June 23. They figured Jeanette has: two grandmothers, two great-grandmothers and three great-great-grandmothers. And for good-fairy grandmother measure, Jeanette has one step-great-grandmother and one step-great-great-grandmother. Grammie-rich Jeanette is the daughter of the former Dianne Sheltra of Fairfield, now Mrs. Bancel Francis-Kovich.

Panhandler Split His Take With An FBI Agent

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Here is what happened to two FBI agents the other day:

The agents, dressed like bums, were loitering on a Cincinnati street, looking for a certain fugitive.

Along came a panhandler with a tale of woe. He told his story to one agent and asked for a dime.

The agent turned out empty pants' pockets with holes in them and told the panhandler an even sadder story.

The panhandler nodded sympathetically and moved on down the street to where the other agent was stationed. He told his story and asked for 20 cents.

He got it.

Then, according to Ed Mason, special agent in charge of the Cincinnati FBI office, the panhandler went back to the first agent, handed him one of the dimes, and shuffled away.

Playwright And Shirley Booth Offer A Good Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Playwright Tad Mosel and actress Shirley Booth joined forces Wednesday night to turn out an exceptionally effective Steel Hour on CBS.

Mosel's "The Haven" was more a vignette and character study than a drama, the story of a weak but sensitive man's brief revolt from his wife and two children—and his return.

Miss Booth played the type of woman she did so well in "Come Back Little Sheba," a good warm-hearted slob. But Gene Raymond, as her errant husband, was so wooden and withdrawn that all the sympathy stayed on the side of the wife.

The plot wasn't much: Just a couple and their two children returning to their summer cottage where the wife finds evidence her husband had been there with another woman. Miss Booth pulls off convincingly a difficult scene when she changed instantly from hurt and anger at betrayal to warmth and concern for her husband's unhappiness.

NBC's early-bird "Continental Classroom" will return Sept. 25 with two courses for which it expects some 300 colleges and universities to offer full academic credit.

The first half-hour—6 to 6:30 a.m.—will be a repeat of this season's two-semester course on contemporary mathematics. From 6:30 to 7 there will be lectures on American government, a new series.

ABC's vice president in charge of news, Jim Hagerly, had a closed circuit TV meeting with heads of affiliated local stations recently and "talked firmly" words—to them about the necessity for their clearing time for his 11 p.m. network news shows.

The project is close to Hagerly's heart because it is a vital part of his blueprint for upgrading ABC's news and public affairs activities. But the local stations, apparently, have been reluctant to open up the late time period because it is more profitable for them to keep the programs local, with local sponsors.

The number of school children who study musical instruments has quadrupled since 1947.

Peter Johl Is Playing Role In 'Lost Colony'

PETER JOHL as John Borden

MANTEO, N. C. — Peter Johl, a native of New York City, a resident of Groton, Conn., is playing his first season as John Borden in Paul Green's symphonic outdoor drama, THE LOST COLONY, now in its twenty-first season on Roanoke Island. Johl, who received his training in the American Theatre Wing Juilliard School of Music, has had a wide and varied experience.

In musical comedy he has played with the Cape Cod Music Theatre with Music Fair Limited of Torrington, Conn., and the Broadway Fair of North Tonawanda, N. Y. In opera he has sung in the Western Hemisphere Premiere of Richard Strauss' CAPRICCIO and the World Premiere of THE HIRED HAND, and in 1959-60, he toured with the Grass Roots Opera Company. His radio experience was with station WCPR. His theatre experience in Summer Stock at Syracuse, Rochester and Scandaga includes both acting and technical work with acting roles in SOUTH PACIFIC, STU-DENT PRINCE, and KISMET, and technical experience as Stage Manager for KISMET at Rochester and Production Stage Manager for KISMET at Scandaga.

While a student at East Carolina College, Greenville, N. C., he played in THE LADY'S NOT FOR BURNING, MENOTTI'S OPERA, OLD MAID AND THIEP, the lead in SOUTH PACIFIC, and was tenor soloist for Handel's MESSIAH. His military service includes West Point, the U. S. Army, and the U. S. Marine Corps.

THE LOST COLONY, oldest of all the outdoor dramas, has run continuously since July 4, 1937, and with the exception of the war years, 1942-45, this production has played every summer since that time.

Street Opened Up; Car Fell In

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Salesman Frank J. Watson, 60, was driving through downtown Seattle Wednesday when a crater opened in the street ahead and his car dropped 10 feet to the bottom. He suffered only a rip in his pants. Two policemen hauled him out.

"I just hung onto the wheel and hoped the car wouldn't turn over," Watson said. "I was waiting for the worst."

A power shovel operator also was trapped in his partly buried rig. Fellow workers pulled him out unhurt.

The 100-foot cave-in occurred above an area being excavated for a parking lot. The Constitution of the United States begins, "We, the people of the United States..." The charter of the United Nations begins, "We the peoples of the United Nations..."

Key Is Returned 53 Years Later

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—When Julius B. Carnes, then 32, of Canton, Ohio, was on his honeymoon in 1908, he absent-mindedly trod off with the key to room 849 of the St. Francis Hotel. What was before the throw-it-away-mail box system began, and he kept telling himself he'd return it next time he was in San Francisco. Wednesday, 53 years later, Carnes, now 85 and long a widower, walked in and presented the key to an astonished desk clerk. Just for kicks, they tried it on 849, but it didn't work. Carnes is a retired real estate man and harness horse breeder.

Khrushchev Appears Ready To Offer Allies A 'Deal'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Perhaps concluding it is too risky to assume the United States is bluffing on the Berlin issue, Nikita Khrushchev appears to be seeking a face-saving way out of an uncomfortable situation—and trying to salvage some profit from it.

The Soviet premier seems to be offering President Kennedy and the Western allies a deal: Just an innocent-looking concession or two in exchange for postponing Khrushchev's year-end deadline for a perilous showdown on Berlin.

But from President Kennedy the Soviet leader has nothing more tangible than a statement that the United States is ready to discuss any proposals that protect the rights of the people in West Berlin, isolated 110 miles inside Communist East Germany. The President has a little more from Khrushchev: An implication that there is something to negotiate and a statement denying any plans for a new Berlin blockade.

What is behind this guarded Khrushchev bid?

Khrushchev's maneuvers must be viewed against his plans and problems. His plans include convening late in October the 22nd congress of the Soviet Communist Party. There the Kremlin expects to lay down a 20-year program—a model for the whole Red bloc—for the development of Soviet and world communism. Moscow is asserting undisputed leadership in this respect. The October congress will attempt to present Soviet-brand communism to the world as the inexorable wave of the future.

To demonstrate the Communist movement's growing economic, political and military might, the U.S.S.R. seems to have been using Laos, on one side of the world, and Berlin, on the other, like two chess pieces in a payoff game. Each situation was a test of the West: In Southeast Asia of its ability to stick together in the face of what seemed a fairly hopeless situation; in Germany its nerve in approaching a showdown which could signal nuclear war.

Laos remains a difficult situation for the West, but it has shown signs of sticking stubbornly together. Berlin represents an even more menacing prospect, but on the basic principle of the Western allies' rights in Berlin—the Americans, British and French have remained inflexible. This means Khrushchev is approaching his all-important October meeting with his prestige laid on the line. He has vowed to drive the Western allies out of Berlin by signing a one-sided peace treaty with East Germany and assigning authority over access to Berlin to East Germany. In this he could travel to the brink of World War III—at the risk of stumbling over the line—or he could retreat. Either prospect would be unpleasant.

Khrushchev's words Wednesday—even railed with tough remarks—had the ring of an appeal to Kennedy to recognize his dilemma. With his prestige at stake, he would like to deliver at least one token result from his repeated Berlin threats. Perhaps it could be as little as Western recognition of official East German stamps on bills of lading for supplies to the allied garrisons in West Berlin. But to some in the West that would be the first step toward full recognition of the East German regime and the first Communist success in their long-range drive to choke off West Berlin.

Khrushchev has his own problems. He has just about managed to ram his views on world Communist development down the throats of Red China's leaders. In return for additional Soviet economic and technical aid, the Red Chinese appear to accept his free-wheeling diplomatic tactics on the world stage. This would indicate freedom of maneuver for Khrushchev on the question of Laos in Southeast Asia, should he choose to use it for bargaining purposes in what he considers the much more important question of Berlin.

Khrushchev has described prosperous West Berlin—an open show window to the eyes of the drab, Communist-ruled East—as a bone that sticks in the Communist throat. It provides a glaring contradiction to the boast he will present to the October congress in Moscow that capitalism is in the final stage of decline. West Berlin also provides a haven for an endless flow of refugees from communism streaming in from the East.

Political surgeon Khrushchev wants to get that bone out of communism's throat. But apparently he is fully aware it is a dangerous operation.

Laos remains a difficult situation for the West, but it has shown signs of sticking stubbornly together. Berlin represents an even more menacing prospect, but on the basic principle of the Western allies' rights in Berlin—

Barefoot Terry Raises Question In Island State

HONOLULU (AP)—"Barefoot" Terry Sanford, governor of North Carolina, has raised a couple of knotty questions in this island state where just about anything in the way of dress goes.

When are sandals acceptable and when are they not? And, when is a person barefoot?

Sanford, here for the 53rd Governors' Conference, was refused admission to "Don the Beachcomber" in Waikiki because he was wearing "go-aheads"—shower-shoe-like slippers, and no socks.

Just about everyone wears them in Hawaii. But, not in his place, says Don Beach, owner of the night spot.

Sanford was admitted after an aide convinced the doorman the governor wasn't going to dance barefoot.

The Goldsboro, N.C., News-Argus telegraphed Gov. William F. Quinn Wednesday asking, tongue-in-cheek that Hawaii, "temporarily suspend the ban on bare feet in public places." The paper said it was alarming Sanford a pair of brogans.

Nothing doing, said Beach. Beach answers both the questions — as far as he's concerned — with a single answer: A person is barefoot when wearing sandals and no socks.

Walking shorts and knee-length socks — with shoes, of course — are acceptable in his cabaret — short pants and slippers — no. Beach admits that he's somewhat particular — except when his place has a luau—Hawaiian feast.

"Then you can come barefoot with two yards of cloth wrapped around your middle and get in," he said.

Quinn received the telegram this morning. "I tried to reach Terry Sanford for a special presentation," he said, "but we missed connections." Quinn said he would call a special Terry Sanford Day next week.

The bureau said advance data from the 1960 census indicates there were 7,945,306 widows in the country last year—an increase of 17.7 per cent over 1950. The number of widowers declined by 2.4 per cent during the decade to 2,219,355. These figures do not include widowed persons who had remarried.

Marilyn Again Is Hospitalized

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress Marilyn Monroe has been hospitalized for the fourth time in five months.

The blonde beauty was taken by ambulance Wednesday from her Manhattan apartment to Polyclinic Hospital, suffering from what a spokesman described as a mild intestinal disorder.

Accompanying her on the ride to the hospital was her second husband, former baseball star Joe DiMaggio, whom she divorced to marry playwright Arthur Miller. She later divorced Miller.

An attendant on the ambulance which took Miss Monroe to Polyclinic said she appeared to suffer abdominal pains "here and there" during the cross-town trip.

Wednesday night a hospital spokesman said Miss Monroe was "resting comfortably" and the pain is under control. Doctors there said she would be fed intravenously and will be under observation for several days.

Last February, Marilyn signed herself into the Payne Whitney Clinic of New York Hospital for what was described as "emotional and physical exhaustion."

She then transferred to the Neurological Institute of Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center for a 23-day "rest and checkup." When she was released from Columbia-Presbyterian she told a group of fans waiting outside that she was feeling fine.

Subsequently, she went to Hollywood where, in May, she entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. There she underwent "minor surgery" by a gynecologist.

DiMaggio was with her on the coast and accompanied her back to New York. He has been at her side since the first of her ailments.

Encountered In An Unusual Way

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Vacationing Norbert F. Mott bumped into a fellow Cincinnati in a most unusual way.

Mott started to back his car out of a space at a miniature golf course. Instead, the car shot forward, tore up 90 feet of the golf course, and crashed into a car owned by John E. Groh, also of Cincinnati.

Damage was estimated at $500. Mott was charged with driving without due caution.

More 'Widows Than Widowers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau said Wednesday widows outnumber widowers by more than three to one.

The bureau said advance data from the 1960 census indicates there were 7,945,306 widows in the country last year—an increase of 17.7 per cent over 1950.

The number of widowers declined by 2.4 per cent during the decade to 2,219,355. These figures do not include widowed persons who had remarried.

Reindeer Team For Floridians

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Shipping a team of reindeer from Alaska to Florida is much the same as taking a bathing suit to the North Pole.

However, that's exactly what a committee of Lakeland businessmen plan to do.

The committee, headed by John Warren, voted to spend $16,000 for the team of nine reindeer, a Santa Clause suit, a sleigh mounted on rubber wheels, costumes for elves, and other items for Christmas decorations next December.

Ironically, all of this planning took place during a 90-degree heat wave in Lakeland.

Smith, one of four amateur partners Worrell played with, shot an approximate 68, four under par for the 6,400-yard course that played long because of considerable rain this week.

Worrell won $125 of the $600 jackpot. Paired with him and Smith in the field of 229 were amateurs Worth Springs of Charlotte and H. F. Barnes and Dave Oettinger, both of Wilson. Due to the record field, play was in five-omes.

Dodgers Might Be On Top If Drysdale Was Up To Par

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer If you think the Los Angeles Dodgers are sitting pretty, just off the pace in that National League race, figure where they'd be if Don Drysdale was winning the way he was expected to win.

Big Don has been the big flop while the Dodgers have hung close to the top. The lanky right-hander, who never has come up with the 20 victories expected of him each spring, is no better than 5-5 at the moment—and he hasn't beaten a first division club in seven tries.

The young veteran missed again Wednesday night, falling to last three innings at Pittsburgh as the fourth place Pirates whipped Los Angeles 9-3. That kept the second place Dodgers from picking up more than a half-game on Cincinnati and the Reds came off with a 2 1/2-game lead despite dropping a doubleheader to the Chicago Cubs 16-5 and 7-2.

Third place San Francisco four times blew leads and wound up with a 7-7, 15-inning tie at Philadelphia in the longest night game (5 hours, 11 minutes) in major league history.

Memorial Day by slugging St. Louis 8-3. In the American League, Detroit ended Chicago's winning streak at 12 games, beating the White Sox 12-5, and gained a 1 1/2 game lead over New York. The Yankees lost 5-3 at Los Angeles. Cleveland split a two-night pair with Washington, winning 3-2 before dropping the nightcap 5-2. Baltimore defeated Kansas City, 5-4, and Boston defeated Minnesota 4-2.

Southpaw Joe Gibbon (6-3) beat the Dodgers for the third time in three decisions. He struck out seven, walked but one and allowed six hits, two of them solo homers by Frank Howard and Daryl Spencer.

The Cubs collected 25 hits, 12 for extra bases including five home runs, while beating Bob Purkey (0-4) and Jim O'Toole (6-7). Ron Santo, after going hitless in 14 trips, drove in seven runs, five with two homers, in the first game behind winning right-hander Glen Hobbie (5-9).

Southpaw rookie Jack Curtis (4-2) then held the Reds to four hits in the nightcap as the Cubs made it seven out of 11 against Cincinnati this season. The Phils and Giants each got three runs in the 15th (last inning under the 12:50 a.m. curfew rule), with the Phils getting the tying run on a freak error. Tony Gonzalez, who had singled home one run in the inning, scampered in from third when catcher Hobie Landrith got off a high peg on a routine, return toss to pitcher Mike McCormick.

Durham Leading Carolina League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Durham bounded to the head of the Carolina League pack for the second half of the season by blanking Greensboro for the second night in a row Wednesday night.

Harry Stigleman pitched three-hit ball for the Bulls' 5-0 decision over Greensboro. It followed the 16-inning, 3-0 win of Tuesday night. In the other games, results were a reversal of the previous night. Raleigh defeated Winston-Salem, 8-3, and Burlington dumped Wilson, 6-3. The Caps and the Indians came out on the short end of the scores Tuesday night.

Giants Sign Two ECC Baseballers

Jimmy Martin and Wally Cockrell, both members of East Carolina's National Baseball Championship team, have signed professional baseball contracts with the San Francisco Giant organization.

Martin, a native of Collinsville, Va., played four years at the first base position for the Pirates. His senior year he carried a .358 batting average and was named to the All-North State Conference team. Martin was known throughout conference circles as a long ball hitter, with the majority of his hits going for extra bases. He hit two grand slam home runs during the regular season, and batted higher than .300 during the NAIA playoffs at Sioux City, Iowa earlier this month.

The Pirate duo are both listed on the roster with Salem, Va. of the Rookie League. Martin broke into the Salem lineup with a triple and a pair of singles on his first day at the plate. Cockrell injured his back slightly in a practice game and was not in the Salem lineup for Saturday's opener, but he is expected to be in playing condition soon. Jim Murchison, San Francisco scout, who said the Giants had agreed to supply players for the Belmont team in the Class D Western Carolina League, signed both Martin and Cockrell on June 19th.

This runs the total number of East Carolina players who have signed professional baseball contracts to five since the Pirates won National acclaim weeks ago in Iowa. Players who had signed earlier were Floyd Wicker and Larry Crayton with the St. Louis Cardinals, and Lawrence "Cotton" Clayton with the Baltimore Orioles. Martin and Cockrell were the only seniors to sign the dotted lines. Wicker, a native of Show Camp, was a freshman, Crayton of Greensboro a junior, and Clayton of Zeb Vance a sophomore. Wicker and Clayton were also starters on Coach Earl Smith's Pirate basketball team.

At first glance, the "thing" on the Baltimore bench appeared to be the gigantic catcher's glove Al Schecht had once used in his comedy routine on the diamond. Closer inspection, however, revealed it to be the leather bushel basket used by Clint Courtney to catch Hoyt Wilhelm's erratic knuckleball. It's perfectly legal since there are no limitations on the size of a catcher's mitt.

There is, however, a legal limit on the size of the gloves used by fielders and first basemen—not more than 12 inches from top to bottom; not more than eight inches from the base of the thumb to the outer edge; not more than four inches here, etc. All gloves are as big as the law allows—if not bigger. No one seems to question the legality of these ball traps. But it makes one wonder how a small infielder manages to carry one for nine innings without becoming arm-weary. They are a far cry from the small, flat shapeless gloves used by big leaguers in earlier days. It is difficult to imagine the great Hal Chase ever making an error with one of these modern day bushel-baskets used by first basemen.

With the improved glove, there has been a steady rise in fielding averages. In 1901, the American League fielded .937. The average was .957 in 1908; .964 in 1918; .968 in 1928; .971 in 1938; .977 in 1948, and .979 in 1958. Improved playing fields and more liberal-minded scorers may have helped boost the averages but the improvement in the manufacture of gloves in the last half-century is largely responsible for the change. There must be a limit on just how much a glove can be improved unless they start installing suction cups or something similar to draw the ball into a glove.

Lavagetto Reads Box Score First

ORINDA, Calif. (AP)—The first thing Cookie Lavagetto does when he opens a newspaper is turn to the sports pages for a look at the baseball box scores. "Just call me Gus Fan," says Cookie. "I'm still as interested in baseball as anybody."

Lavagetto, back at his home near Oakland, says he isn't bitter after being fired by the Minnesota Twins. "Why hold a grudge?" he asks with a shrug. "I'm sure I'll be back in baseball before very long."

Except for four years during World War II when he was in the Navy, this is the first summer since 1932 that Lavagetto hasn't been in professional baseball. As a kid of 18, he joined Oakland in the old Pacific Coast League, quickly became a regular and hit .312. The next year he was a major leaguer, with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

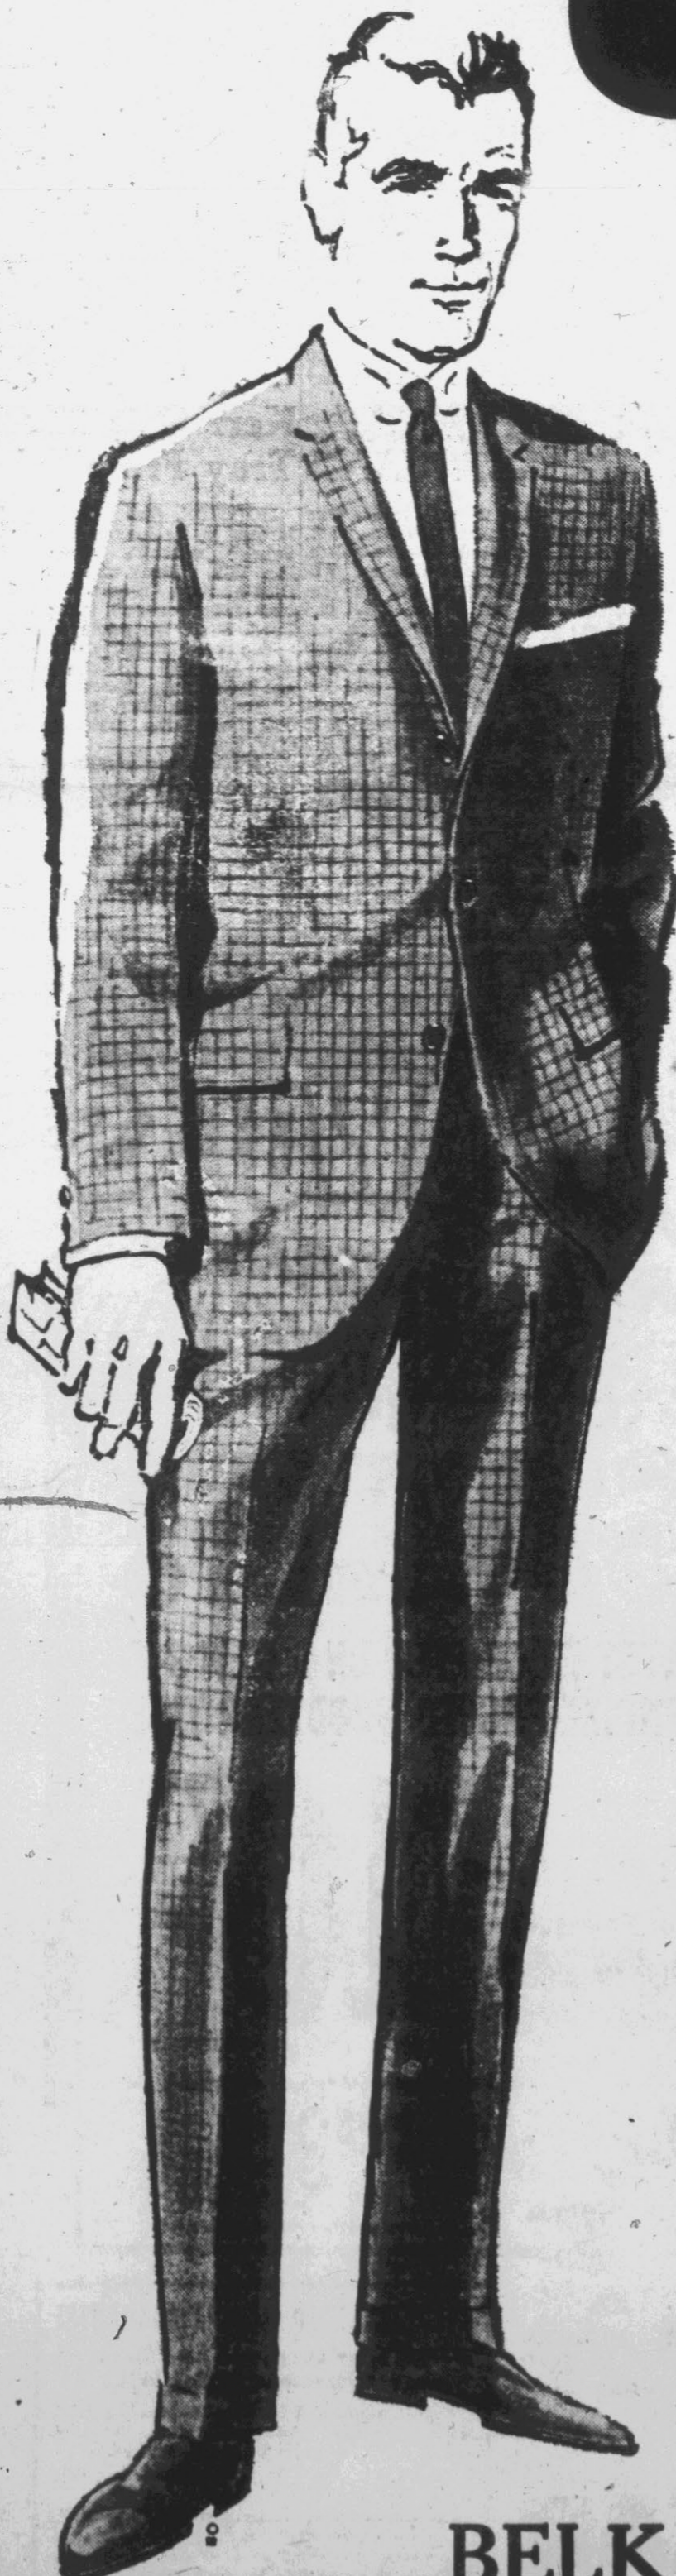

Now 46, he's enjoying a summer with his wife and children for the first time in his life. "I've been promising to take the kids fishing for so long it's not funny. We're finally able to do it," says Lavagetto. As for the American League, Cookie figures on a four-team race with the New York Yankees winning the pennant. "Detroit, Cleveland and the White Sox will all be battling and in the first division," Lavagetto says, "but unless the Yankees run into injuries—especially to Mickey Mantle and Tony Kubek—I feel they're the team to beat."

Driver Hospitalized In Wreck

INJURED MAN . . . in a three-car wreck on U.S. 264 west of Greenville last night was listed as the driver of this vehicle.

A 22-year-old, Route 1, Greenville man was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital last night for observation following a three-car wreck at the intersection of U. S. 264 and the Bell Arthur Road, west of Greenville.

Patrolman D. L. Minshew, who investigated the mishap, said the injured man, Jimmy Dawson Moore, was the driver of one of the vehicles involved.

Moore received a cut over his left eye, and contusions, it was reported. Investigation of the wreck is continuing, Ptl. Minshew explained. The collision occurred about 8:45 p.m.

Thieves Too 3 Meters, Posts

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Muscular thieves were thorough today in pilfering three parking meters in South Dallas. "These thieves not only removed the whole meters, but they took the posts—digging them out of the concrete," said Police Traffic Engineer W. H. Garsten. "And that's mighty hard work for only $1.50 to $2.50 in each meter."

One Juror Plays A Double Role

The Moore vehicle slammed into the rear of the Corbett car, knocking it into the side of a west-bound car, operated by Gene Austin Hardee, 20, of Route 2, Greenville. Damage to the Moore car was placed at $400 while damage to the Hardee vehicle was set at $300. Estimated damage to the Corbett auto, a 1952 model, was placed at $200.

Threats Shrugged Off; Normalcy In Kuwait

KUWAIT (AP)—The city of Kuwait shrugged off the threat from Iraq and returned to normal today.

Officials generally believe Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem will quietly shelve his claim to the oil-rich sheikhdom—at least for a while — because of the marked lack of support from other Arab governments.

With the temperature already in the 90's an hour after dawn, Kuwait turned its back on patriotic demonstrations of the past two days and returned to work. Crowds bustled in the fish market along the steaming waters of the Persian Gulf. Hundreds of flashy American and European cars, symbols of Kuwait's oil wealth, ferried between the city and the airport. At every corner, groups of workmen waited for trucks to take them to the oil fields 30 miles inland or to the oil port north of the capital.

But the man in the desert was still excited. Lines of white-robed Bedouins in from the hinterland lined up outside the single-story post office in downtown Kuwait to hand in telegrams pledging support for their rulers, Sheikh Sir Abdullah As-Salim As-Sabah.

In Beirut, Kuwait's deputy ruler, Saqib Abdullah Mubarak, dismissed Iraq's claim on his little country as "shouts and talk."

Iraqi leaders kept up a radio drumfire demanding the "peaceful return" of the neighboring sheikhdom on the Persian Gulf and hinted they would claim other oil areas on the west coast of the Gulf. But the usual throngs filling Baghdad's streets exhibited only calm interest, and Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's campaign so far appeared to be largely in the propaganda stage. Sheik Mubarak, 43, heir-apparent to the Kuwait throne and head of its tiny 2,400-man army, interrupted a holiday in his mountain palace in Lebanon to rush home Tuesday after Kassem threatened to take over the tiny but fabulously rich sheikhdom.

Studies Will Be Aimed At Future Flood Damages

RALEIGH (AP)—The Institute of Government and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will work on studies aimed at helping avoid flood damage for North Carolina in the future.

Director Harry Brown of the State Water Resources Department said Wednesday the separate studies will aid the state in its water resources planning.

Milton Heath will do the institute study, which will require about a year. The Tennessee Valley Authority will pay for the fo05involved in the engineers' study, which will be financed by federal funds. Tar Heel towns which have requested studies include: Raleigh, Chadbourn, Farmville, Goldsboro, Jacksonville, Kinston, Laurinburg, Louisburg, Lumberton, New Bern, Tarboro, Greensboro, Lexington, Salisbury, Statesville and Winston-Salem.

dom is attacked. President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic has moved cautiously but one of his government ministers expressed disapproval of the Iraqi claim as a menace to Arab unity.

Secretary-General Abdel Khalek Hassouna of the 10-nation Arab League, whose other members were thrown into consternation by Kassem's abrupt expansionist threat.

Radio Baghdad added to this concern by declaring Kassem was being urged by the Iraqis to "save" other oil-bearing territories on the Persian Gulf's sun-baked west coast.

Among these are Qatif and Abqaiq in Saudi Arabia, concession areas of the U.S.-owned Arabian American Oil Co., and the British-protected sheikhdoms of Qatar, Bahrain and Abu Dhabi.

Sources in the Lebanese foreign ministry said the Arab League is studying the possibility of sending a delegation to Iraq and Kuwait to mediate.

Arab diplomats in Cairo have been conferring continuously since the crisis broke. So far Saudi Arabia is the only Arab state to pledge military support to Kuwait if the little sheik-

Military And Diplomatic Moves On Berlin Studied

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
 EDITOR'S NOTE — What actions on the Berlin crisis are under study within the government? John M. Hightower, veteran AP State Department newsmen, in the following story discusses both the military and diplomatic moves being considered.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy meets with the National Security Council today to discuss possible military, diplomatic and civilian defense measures which he may take to deal with the growing crisis between the Soviet Union and the Western powers over Berlin.

The range and actions under study within the government is reported to include partial mobilization, increasing NATO strength in Europe, a new round of East-West negotiations on Berlin and a stepped up civilian defense program.

The National Security Council, embracing the President's top military and diplomatic advisers, was summoned to meet at the White House this afternoon. Kennedy announced Wednesday that proposals for dealing with the Berlin situation will be discussed.

Proposals for action are going to the President from the State and Defense departments and other government agencies. At Kennedy's request they are being pulled together in a report being prepared by former Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Highly placed officials indicate that Kennedy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other administration leaders are thinking of acting on two fronts as the Berlin crisis develops during the next few months:

1. Military — They intend to take steps that would get the United States and its allies ready for a Berlin showdown if Soviet Premier Khrushchev presses his Berlin demands to that point. At the same time they hope the steps will impress upon Khrushchev the determination of the United States to back up its commitments to protect West Berlin against Communist pressures.

2. Diplomatic — They seriously are considering proposing a new round of East-West negotiations on Berlin within the framework of the over-all problem of divided Germany. Such a proposal, if finally decided on, probably will be made in the next few weeks.

Kennedy expects to send a note on the Berlin situation to Khrushchev in a week or 10 days. But as presently planned, this note primarily will be a reply to a memorandum Khrushchev gave Kennedy in Vienna June 3-4.

The reply is expected to tell Khrushchev formally that his proposed peace treaty with Communist East Germany cannot wipe out Allied rights to maintain forces in West Berlin and to supply them by surface and air routes across East Germany.

Washington officials reported a new East German regulation decreed Wednesday would be ignored. The regulation states that radio-equipped planes of nations not having air agreements with East Germany must receive special permission after Aug. 1 to cross East Germany. Western rights for air access to West Berlin are in no way dependent upon approval or disapproval of the East German Communists.

Kennedy spoke at his news conference Wednesday of the possibility of negotiations with the Soviet Union on the Berlin problem. He said the United States was ready "to discuss any proposals" which would increase West Berlin's security and independence.

About the same time Khrushchev also said in a speech at the Kremlin that he was prepared to "negotiate honestly."

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had mentioned the possibility of negotiations in a statement in Parliament on Tuesday.

U.S. officials said they probably would be some advantage to the Western powers in taking the initiative now in formally proposing negotiations. By that means they might be able to decide at least in part the subject matter of such negotiations.

How The Reds' White Collar Girl Fares

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Lydia Busek, secretary of Publisher John A. Kennedy of the Sioux Falls, S. D. Argus-Leader, accompanied her boss and his wife to Moscow in May. Here is a description of how Russian secretaries live, copyrighted by the Argus-Leader for distribution by The Associated Press.)

LYDIA BUSEK

By LYDIA BUSEK
For The Associated Press
 Stenographers and secretaries in Russia must first learn how to repair their typewriters before they can get a job.
 But so far as I could discover, talking with school experts from this and other countries who have made a study of Soviet education, there isn't a typewriter repair course available.
 It is an example of a sort of do-it-yourself theory that applies to many things in Russia.
 Being an American secretary, I decided to try to find out about girls who do the type of work I do.
 When I first tried to make arrangements to visit a secretarial school, Intourist guides and information people—generally friendly and willing to lend a hand—met my pleas with stony stares. They didn't know of any such school.

Their Daddy Was Alert That Day

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—When they're older, the daughters of Richard Curtis and Lambert West will be able to say that daddy really was alert the morning they were born.
 Lt. Curtis is co-pilot of a Strategic Air Command aerial refueling plane and Airman West is fuel transfer operator on the same aircraft. Both were on "immediate takeoff" alert duty at Lockbourne Air Force Base when word was relayed of the birth—about six hours apart.

The Jewish population in the United States totals 5,370,000, according to the Jewish Statistical Bureau.

She Finds School
 But because I could speak and read a little Russian, a newly-found friend in one of the embassies provided an address at 14 Stolenshnikov Street as that of a stenography-secretarial school.
 When I arrived I could understand why the Intourist people were discouraging. It is in the basement of a rundown building. By jumping mud puddles in an alley, I got to No. 14. The outside door didn't fit the jamb. In fact, it couldn't have looked less like a school.
 I walked down dark steps to a tiny hallway and spoke to three girls comparing notes, although I wondered how they could compare one shorthand outline from another, it was that dark.
 I asked for the teacher, and one of the girls quickly ran to tell her an Amerikanskaya was here.

What School Teaches
 The schoolmistress, Mrs. Demshikov, invited me in and seemed delighted and proud of her school. Certainly she wasn't embarrassed by the unattractive surroundings. Sixteen girls and women were typing on very old machines.
 I learned that the shorthand, typing and business practice course takes two years. Classes can be tailored to personal needs, full day, half-day or evening. Secretarial schools offer, in addition to typing and shorthand, refresher classes in Russian language, Russian history, cataloging and general office practice.
 Mrs. Demshikov said a stenographer's starting salary is 45 rubles a month ($49.50) and the maximum for secretaries, unless they become experienced in specialized fields, is 70 rubles a month ($77). A ruble is worth $1.10.

At the U.S. embassy, which requires top grade, bilingual secretaries and typists, the pay can run from 80 to 120 rubles a month.
 For all this, a secretary can buy some interesting contrasts.
 Rent is very low, as low as $5 a month. A dozen eggs, depending on size and season, can cost from $1.25 to $2.50 a dozen. A gas bill can be as low as 55 cents for a four-room apartment, plus kitchen, bath and entrance hall. But a single orange can cost 70 cents. Electricity is more expensive than gas, but not too costly by American standards. It costs about $4.50 a month for electricity in the same apartment, including limited lighting, a sewing machine, small refrigerator, vacuum cleaner, toaster, radio and television.
 Potatoes are 6 cents a pound, but carrots are 40. Chickens are 60 cents a pound, apples $1.20.
No Coffee Breaks Allowed
 Clothing is expensive, too: shoes $19 to $31, capron hose (a synthetic, I could find no nylon) $2.30; wool suits $82.50; wool blouses $27.50; lightweight suits $33; winter coat with Persian lamb trim $99; summer silk print dress $33; hats starting at $5.50.
 And secretaries in Russia get no coffee breaks. But they get vacations of two to four weeks, qualify for a pension, get free medical care, maternity leave, nursery attention for babies and—if they're ill for an extended period—may even qualify for rest in a sanatorium in the Crimea or another vacation and health area.
 But I'll still take my job, and my boss is still going to have to keep up his service contract to keep my typewriter in good working order.

Young Boy Finds A Banner Stone

RICHMOND, Va., (AP)—David Norwood, 9, had never seen a stone like the one he found in some dirt pushed up on the grounds of Union Theological Seminary here.
 His friend, Freddie Morgan, thought his dad might know.
 And Frederick H. Morgan, a past president of the Archaeological Society of Virginia, saw it was something he had been looking for all his life—a banner stone used by Indians as a counterbalance for a throwing stick before the days of bows and arrows.

Attorneys Near Resting Case In Cobb Libel Suit

MARSHALL, N.C. (AP) — Attorneys for three Madison County election officials suing State Republican Chairman William E. Cobb for $300,000 each in a libel case stemming from a state bond election indicate that they may rest their case this afternoon.

Cobb, of Morganton, publicly challenged the validity of the vote count in the county after a 1959 election concerning state armories and historical sites bond issues. They lost by a narrow margin and were overwhelmingly beaten in Madison County.

Zeno Ponder, registrar of the Marshall Precinct and precinct judges Oren Rice and Frank Runion filed returns indicating that more than 900 persons voted in the precinct.

Cobb, in a letter to then Gov. Luther Hodges, said he was sure that less than a fourth of that number actually visited the polls. His letter and a similar one to the State Board of Elections were made public. The elections board later investigated the Madison vote and found nothing irregular.

Ponder testified Wednesday that he did not keep a poll book listing all persons who voted. Instead, he testified, he used a card file system for the special election.

Each registered voter in the precinct is listed on a separate card, Ponder said. When that person has voted his card is pulled, turned face backwards and put in the back of the file drawer. He conceded that when the cards have been returned to alphabetical order after the vote there is no way to determine who has voted.

Newspaper officials also testified yesterday. They identified copies of Cobb's letters as the basis for their news reports.

Cobb has subpoenaed each of the precinct's 2,300 registered voters. His lawyers plan to call each as a witness beginning Friday to ask whether they voted in the election in an effort to prove that fewer persons voted than the records show.

Ponder, in his testimony, said Cobb's charges set off the Mars Hill school crisis which has resulted in the resignation of about 30 of the school's 35 teachers.

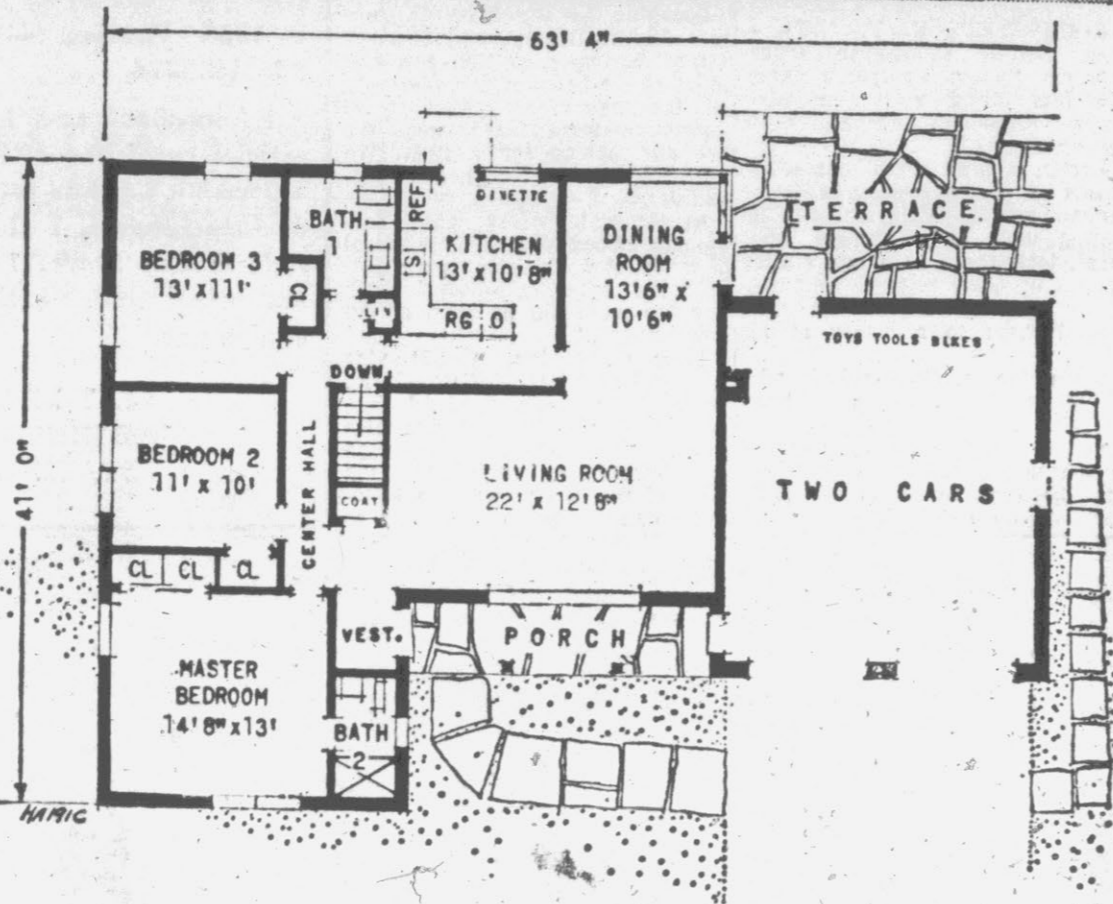

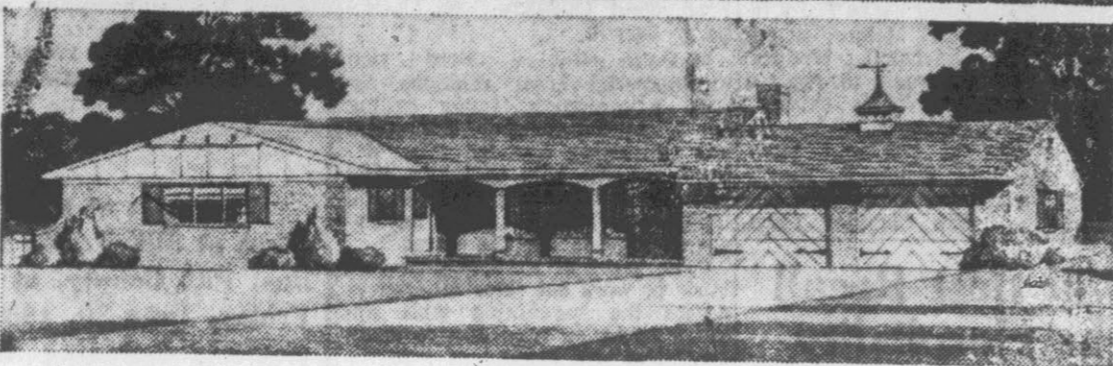

Sun Makes Skin Appear Older

NEW YORK (AP)— Does your skin look older? It may be due largely to the long term effects of sunlight, a dermatologist reported Wednesday.

The sun tends to make the skin look dry, coarse, leathery and wrinkled, besides causing changes in color. Dr. John M. Knox of Baylor University reported.

About 75 per cent of all forest fires in the northern Rocky Mountains are caused by lightning.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

GOOD CIRCULATION to all areas is a feature of this striking ranch-type home. It also has a 22-foot long living room, a real dining room and a big family kitchen. The architect is Lester Cohen, Room 75, 117 West 48th St. New York 36, N.Y. and the plan is HA191C.

Iowa Will Have Germ-Laden Lab

AMES, Iowa (AP) — A 318-acre tract of quiet Iowa countryside will soon become one of the most germ-laden spots on earth.

It's the new Federal Animal Disease Laboratory, dedicated to finding the cause and cure of hundreds of ailments affecting food and fiber producing animals. It opens in July.

Dr. William A. Hagan, its 68-year-old director, says the lab will be the only one of its kind working solely with domestic animal diseases. It will cost the government about $17 million.

But that's nothing compared to the two billion dollar animal loss in diseased animals, says Dr. Hagan, former dean of the New York State Veterinary College at Cornell University.

The government decided to build the new laboratory after it was found that facilities at the previous center of animal disease research at Beltsville, Md., were inadequate.

When fully staffed, the lab will employ nearly 500 persons, most including some 125 scientists, most of them transfers from Beltsville.

Special precautions to be instituted to protect personnel include:

Everyone working in the individual "modules" or small, self-contained laboratories, will be required to wear special clothing and take at least two showers daily, one on entering and another on leaving.

Filtered air will be provided for the modules. Sewage will be "cooked," or heated in giant vats for decontamination, before entering the Ames sewer system. (Even paper reports will be sterilized (by gas) before entering or leaving the laboratory.)

"Not only do we have to protect our own people but the animals as well," says Dr. Hagan.

Four Wounds By A Single Bullet

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — John Kastner, 35, was wounded four times by a single bullet.

He was fishing with friends Tuesday when he dropped a 44-caliber side arm. The pistol struck a rock at Kastner's feet and discharged. The bullet struck the calf of his right leg, grazed his right thigh, nicked his right wrist and struck his upper right arm.

Kastner, hospitalized here, was reported in satisfactory condition.

Congress Speeds Work Before Long Weekend

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress is speeding action on several legislative fronts in advance of the long July 4th holiday weekend.

It took only about an hour Wednesday night for President Kennedy's omnibus housing bill to clear the House after Senate passage. One of Kennedy's "big five" domestic proposals for this session, it's now ready for his signature.

Also on Kennedy's desk today—and also in much the form he wanted—is the perennial bill raising the national debt ceiling on a temporary basis for another year.

Added reason for quick action here: This year's temporary ceiling of $293 billion expires at midnight Friday, the end of the fiscal year.

Kennedy asked and got from the Senate Wednesday night by voice vote a temporary ceiling of $298 billion. Only about a dozen senators were on hand.

Again, only a scattering of senators was present Wednesday night to pass unanimously authorization for Kennedy's expanded multibillion dollar space program. There was only brief debate on the bill authorizing $1,784,300,000 civilian space programs during the next 12 months. One goal: Landing a manned space craft on the moon within a decade.

The bill returns to the House for consideration of increases of more than $42 million.

A House vote is expected today on Kennedy's Social Security bill permitting men to retire at 62 and raising minimum monthly payments. Senate-House conferees Wednesday reconciled minor differences in versions passed by the two chambers in clearing the bill for final congressional action.

The House Wednesday gave Kennedy $6.24 million short of what he asked for in voting $42.71 billion to provide the men, machines and missiles for his stepped up defense program. The bill, to finance the military es-

Ford Motor Co. Adds Note Of Warning On Pay Hikes

DETROIT (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. today joined General Motors Corp. in telling the United Auto Workers union that new wage contracts must be non-inflationary.

As he did at GM and Ford, UAW President Walter P. Reuther will lead union bargainers into conferences with Chrysler Corp. Friday and with American Motors Corp. July 6.

Malcolm Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations, issued a statement today calling for a non-inflationary settlement and expressing concern with "detractors" who hold that "the only way to avoid costly strikes and inflationary settlements is for the government to set the terms."

"The right of management and labor to work out their differences across the bargaining table appears to be on trial in this country," Denise's statement said.

Speaking for the UAW at General Motors Wednesday, Reuther said: "We hope to find a settlement at the bargaining table without the need of assistance or intervention from Washington. We are not looking for a fight. We are looking for economic justice."

At General Motors today bargainers turned to a union proposal of reducing work time via a shorter work week or shorter work day "to meet the problem of unemployment."

Louis G. Seaton, a GM vice president and its chief negotiator, voiced hope for a peaceful bargaining-table settlement, but also said that "an excessive increase in labor costs, whether in the form of wages or in fringe benefits, can only contribute to unsound wage and price movement. "It must be clearly recognized" that any settlement "should not contribute to such inflationary pressures."

Exhibiting Books Today, Friday

An exhibition of books at all grade levels from the primary grades through high school is now being shown in the College Union at East Carolina College. Teachers, prospective teachers, parents, young readers, and others who are interested are invited to visit the exhibition today or tomorrow.

The display of books is sponsored by the North Carolina Bookman's Association. It is presented as a special feature of the Summer Reading Institute and Reading Clinic now in progress at the college.

Works being shown represent the output of twenty publishing companies. A wide range of subject matter is included, among them being science, music, art,

Famed Piano Is Still In Storage

EAST ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—An ornate upright piano, believed to be the one used in Ford's Theater in Washington the night Lincoln was shot, is stored in a corner of the Aeolian-American Piano Corp. factory here. It was owned by Miss Laura Keane, for whom a benefit performance was being held on the fateful night. Miss Keane had loaned the piano to the theater.

Will Best Recall His Hospitality

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Four visiting Cambodian educators say "when we return home, the first thing we'll remember about American hospitality is Harold Ferris."

Ferris, a high school custodian, struck up a conversation with the Cambodians in a restaurant. He waited until they finished their meal, took them to a bus station to pick up their baggage and then drove them to a hotel. He even invited them to a dinner at his home.

When the visitors asked why he offered them so much help, he said:

"When there is so much unrest in the world and when a fellow has the opportunity to help, he ought to do everything he can."

Scales Requests Another Delay

GREENSBORO (AP) — Counsel for Junius Irving Scales, former Communist party chairman in North Carolina and South Carolina, has requested a delay in his imprisonment.

Scales' conviction under the "membership clause" of the Smith Act was upheld recently by the U.S. Supreme Court. The clause makes it a crime to belong to the Communist party knowing it advocates violent overthrow of the government.

A mandate for Scales' commitment to prison is due to arrive in district court about Friday.

His attorneys have asked that an appeal hearing to reduce or suspend the sentence be set about Aug. 1, dependant upon the courts convenience.

In a motion filed here Wednesday, Scales' counsel stated that Scales recently successfully underwent minor surgery. However, it was learned that he has gall stones which must be removed. Hospitalization and confinement will require about four weeks, counsel said.

Indicted For Killing 2 Hounds

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Frank Borchardt, 55, was under indictment today for killing two beagle hounds.

The charge was malicious destruction of property worth more than $50.

Officers said Borchardt found the registered dogs and their masters, Daniel Allen, 13, and his brother, William, 8, and two other boys in his barn at nearby Mesquite three weeks ago.

The indictment Wednesday alleged that the man had shot the dogs and then beaten the four boys with a halter rope because he was angered over the recent deaths of a number of chickens.

The airport for the Scottish island of Barra in the Outer Hebrides is a beach covered with cockle shells. Planes land at low tide.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Indecision and inaction prevailed in the stock market early this afternoon.

The mixture of small changes was reflected in The Associated Press 60-stock average, which was up .10 at 243.0. Industrials were down .30, but rails rose .30 and utilities were up .10.

Steels and rails were steady, while rubber and aircraft shares were higher on balance. Oils joined chemicals and metals on the downside, but other groups were a jumble of fractional gains and losses.

U.S. Freight rose more than 2 and Fruehauf Trailer held most of an early gain.

Carrier gainers included New York Central, Southern Pacific, Illinois Central and Santa Fe. U.S. Steel pushed ahead nearly a point with other steels trailing along.

Goodrich rose around 2 points, but U.S. Rubber eased. Profit-taking clipped 2 points or so from Zenith's advance Wednesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off .47 at 684.12.

Bonds were irregular.

Molina Is Given 20-Year Term

NEW YORK (AP)—Francisco (the Hook) Molina, a former soldier in Fidel Castro's Cuban army, was sentenced to 20 years to life today in the death of a girl caught in gunfire between Cuban factions. Castro has sought to trade a leader of the recent invasion for Molina.

Molina was convicted of second-degree murder in the killing of Magdalena Urdaneta, 9, a Venezuelan girl who was vacationing here with her parents.

The family was sitting in a West Side restaurant when gunfire broke out between pro- and anti-Castro groups. This occurred last year while Castro was in New York.

Molina, 28, got his nickname of "the Hook" because he has an artificial hand, which replaces a member lost in an industrial accident.

Castro has maintained that Molina's trial was of a political nature. He offered to exchange Capt. Manuel Artime of the Cuban invasion forces for Molina.

Molina's lawyer asked a suspended sentence for Molina and that he be deported to his native Cuba. He said that if Molina were returned "it would put the Tractors for Freedom movement in a better light."

FIVE-FOOT-TWO—This one was at least that but its eyes? Not blue but beady and black. L. E. Coggins said he ran over the huge snake with his car on a highway in the Belvoir area. The huge snake weighed about nine pounds and was equipped with 10 rattlers and a "button."

Permanent Disarmament Agency Plans Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy proposed today the establishment of a permanent U.S. disarmament agency. If passed, the agency would have sweeping powers to draw up disarmament plans, negotiate and handle enforcement if any international arms-control agreement is reached.

Administration aides contend the new U.S. agency—first of its kind in the world—would underscore the importance the United States attaches to the disarmament problem.

Kennedy sent his proposal to Congress in the form of a bill to set up a "United States disarmament agency for world peace and security."

The new, autonomous federal bureau would replace the "U.S. Disarmament Administration," which now operates in the State Department under John J. McCloy, Kennedy's special adviser on disarmament.

The basic idea is to create a long-term agency to deal with a long-term cold-war problem: how to check the spiraling arms race.

A White House statement said Kennedy's plan would carry out a 1960 Democratic platform promise. The statement said the bill also included elements of a bill for an arms-control research institute Kennedy proposed as a senator.

The new agency would expand on the disarmament administration that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower set up last October.

Kennedy wants the new agency to be headed by a $22,500-a-year, sub-cabinet-level director, who would be the president's disarmament adviser and would report both to the president and to the secretary of state.

William C. Foster, who has held important disarmament, foreign affairs and defense jobs under the past two administrations and is assisting McCloy now, has been mentioned for the top post. McCloy intends to retire.

Preliminary plans call for stepping up the 30-man disarmament staff to some 200 the first year, raising its budget from $800,000 to $6 or 7 million.

As a starter, the disarmament agency would take on more experts from the State and Defense Departments and other agencies, such as the Atomic Energy Commission.

Greenville Is Chosen As Stop-Over Point For Foreign Students On Tour

Greenville has been selected as a three-day stopover point for 35 foreign exchange students who have spent this year living in American homes and studying in U. S. schools, it was announced today.

The students will arrive Monday at the Greenville bus station, as part of the American Field Service bus tour, and will experience a program of activities planned by various Greenville civic and church groups and East Carolina College.

The students are a part of the same exchange program which brought Svend Erik Plum to Greenville, where he attended and graduated this year from Junius Rose High School. He made his home with the Wendell Smiley's. Plum himself is a member of a bus tour which is taking him to places beyond this community.

The students arriving here Monday will represent 20 foreign countries.

Mrs. H. H. Bryant, president of the Greenville chapter of the American Field Service, said the students will probably be housed in local homes during their visit. She asked that those willing to house exchange students contact her at PL 2-5838, or Mrs. R. E. Laughter at PL 2-6801. Hosts will be asked only to provide housing and breakfast, since other meals have been arranged.

The primary purpose of the bus trips is to give the students an opportunity to visit communities other than the ones in which they have lived all year. The purpose of the trips, and the exchange program itself, is to promote understanding and good will.

Since each of the students has lived with one family in the United States for approximately 11 months, he or she will be proficient in English. The bus trip will conclude the visit to the United States and will last five to six weeks.

Mrs. Bryant said that it is important that communities acting as hosts realize the necessity for cheerful and willing hospitality.

Changes Announced For Local Staff Of SHP

Two changes in the local Highway Patrol staff were made known today by officials — the retirement of Lt. C. Frank Kinnerly, executive officer of Highway Patrol Troop "A", and the transfer of Ptl. J. B. Surles, presently assigned to Pitt County.

Lt. Kinnerly announced his retirement after 27 years' service with the state traffic enforcement organization, effective June 30.

Lt. Kinnerly said, "It has been wonderful," in referring to the "experience, service and fellowship, with an organization that has grown from a small beginning to its present standing as one of the top organizations in the nation."

The patrol official said, "After careful deliberation I have decided to retire... while still young enough to enter some other vocation which will allow me to spend more time with my family."

"We plan to return to Lenoir," he said, "where through the years we have developed many ties, friendships and roots, to make our home."

Capt. S. H. Mitchell, commanding officer of Troop "A", said Lt. Kinnerly "has been an excellent man since he has been stationed here, and has an excellent record with the Department of Motor Vehicles). I hate to see him retire."

Basil The Owl Paroled Today After 27 Years

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Basil (the Owl) Banghart, once a formidable gangster but now a white-haired old man, walked out of Stateville Penitentiary today a free man.

Banghart, 61, stepped out on parole after 27 years behind bars.

He served time for his part in the 1933 kidnaping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor. He and his pal, Roger Touhy, had claimed that the abduction was a hoax.

But today Banghart had little say.

"The conditions of my parole," he stated, "prohibit me from being involved in any publicity of any kind. I know nothing about my future plans and, if I did, I would not say anything about them."

The warden gave Banghart $25 in state money.
