Kennedy Again Urges Soviet To Reconsider; Talk To Nation Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy urged today the Soviet Union to reconsider a course he said threatens to disturb world peace.

Among other things, Kennedy made it plain, though not in so many words, that this country is ready to fight, if need be, to keep West Berlin from Communist engulfment.

as a possible contingency "is a document which speaks of peace but threatens to disturb it."

BOWLES—Kennedy said "Under-secretary of State Chester Bowles 'has my complete confidence' and that he intends to keep Bowles on until the end of his administration."

Second Man-In-Space Shot 'Scrubbed' At Canaveral; Another Try Due Friday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The second U.S. man-in-space shot was "scrubbed" today for the second time because of weather. It was rescheduled for 6 a.m. (EST) Friday.

High cloud cover which moved in over this launching site and prevented necessary visual observation of the shot caused the cancellation at 9 a.m. of today's attempt to hurl astronaut Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom into space.

heating equipment in the vehicle. A freon fuel was fed into the capsule for coolant.

Refugees Jam West Berlin Camp

Crowds of refugees from Communist East Germany jam the door way into the registration room at a West Berlin reception camp. A record flow of some 4,000 came into West Berlin over the weekend, causing a registration rush. Long lines of refugees had to wait in the rain for a chance to register. The decision on taxes and spending, the President said, will be made in the light of what will produce the best economic situation for the United States in the coming months.

MONTEVIDEO — The chief executive said the Inter-American Economic and Social Conference opening Aug. 5 in Uruguay is "the most important international gathering since the beginning of this administration."

FREEDOM RIDERS — "Mr. President," a reporter asked, "will you give us your view of the Freedom Riders movement?"

The rescheduling of the space shot less than 48 hours after today's cancellation caught newsmen by surprise. They had been told by public relations officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at a briefing Monday that in the event of a postponement after the Redstone rocket had been fueled a minimum delay of three days would be necessary.

The announcement said: "The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has postponed at 9 a.m. (EST) an attempt to launch the Mercury-Redstone space craft because of unfavorable weather. Broken and overcast clouds continue in the launch area at 15,000 to 18,000 feet. These would have prevented optical tracking of the vehicle during the critical phase of powered flight."

The launch crew requires at least 48 hours to purge the Redstone of volatile fuels. The rocket also must be dried out, cleaned and checked for contamination.

He told a questioner that the present tax structure would bring in very substantial amounts if the economy "is proceeding at what we hope will be a steady rate of growth."

SCHOOL AID—Kennedy voiced a hope that House members will take steps to force school aid legislation onto the floor for a vote before this session of Congress shuts down. The House Rules Committee all but buried school legislation and erected a tombstone over it Tuesday by a 8-7 vote.

Whether we agree with those who travel and the purpose of their travel, Kennedy said, those rights stand, "providing they are exercised in a peaceful way."

Tunisian Troops Blockade French Base At Bizerte

BIZERTE, Tunisia (AP) — The Tunisian armed forces were ordered today to open fire on any foreign planes attempting to fly over the country without permission. The order obviously was aimed at stopping France from reinforcing the garrison at the big French naval base here.

At the time Grissom entered the capsule, Liberty Bell 7, at 5:38 a.m. the sky was clear over the launch area. As the countdown proceeded, a high, thin layer of cirrus clouds moved into the area and gradually thickened and moved lower.

At 7:28 a.m., the countdown had proceeded to within 10 minutes and 30 seconds of possible firing. At this time NASA officials called a hold to assess the weather.

President Asks Congress To Revive Education Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy called today for congressional action on his aid to education program, describing it as the most important legislation he has requested.

Kennedy said he agrees with those who say that direct aid to parochial schools would be clearly unconstitutional.

Chicago police officials, taking no chances on a sudden widespread outbreak of racial violence, have ordered another 50 patrolmen into the city's violence-ridden Lawndale District.

As Tunisian troops maintained a tight land blockade around the base to support President Habib Bourguiba's demand that the French give up the Bizerte air-naval station, the government radio announced the firing orders.

Another Chief In Grimesland Goes

GRIMESLAND — Grimesland's police chief of five months, Clifton B. Smith, reported to The Daily Reflector today that he had resigned the post effective July 15.

Levi Wilson of near Grimesland, a constable for some years, was hired on July 11 to replace Smith, Hodges noted.

Western Replies To Soviet Draw Routine Comment

LONDON (AP) — The Western notes rejecting Nikita Khrushchev's demands on Berlin brought a routine disapproving comment from Moscow Tuesday night.

the Soviet Union fair warning on the Berlin question.

West European newspapers generally approved the firm tone taken by the United States, Britain and France, but some expressed doubt it would do much to deter Soviet action in Germany.

Rival political parties in West Germany united with the government in supporting the Allies' stand that a German peace treaty be preceded by free elections.

Hope was expressed that the two sides would get together quickly and negotiate the explosive issue.

The independent Times of London said "on Berlin itself, there is, as there must be, the utmost firmness."

The Moscow Radio, in a German-language broadcast, accused the Western Allies of "aiding and abetting the sinister forces which seek to start another war."

The conservative Daily Telegraph said "if firm language and the power of stark, seasoned argument mean anything at all in diplomatic documents, Mr. Khrushchev has surely now been warned."

The Western notes rejected Premier Khrushchev's threat to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany and turn over control of supply routes to West Berlin to the Communist East German regime unless the West joined in a peace treaty with both West and East Germany.

The Laborite Daily Herald thought it wise to get the West's position on the record in blunt terms but said the question of when and how to negotiate was becoming urgent.

The Moscow broadcast charged the West with "violating the most basic international rules which make it mandatory to conclude a peace treaty after a war."

The conservative Paris Figaro commented: "Regardless of the strategy adopted by the west, it is important that public opinion should understand the significance of the crisis. No one knows how far Mr. Khrushchev will go, but his objectives are not mysterious."

The Japanese government also declared its support for the U.S. position.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of Canada said the U.S. note "shows the willingness of the United States and the Western world to do everything possible through negotiation."

East Germany's official ADN news agency lashed out at the stand taken in the notes.

They are double traitors," Neues Deutschland declared, "because it is just at this point that the fight between peace-loving people (the Communists) and the atomic warmongers (the Western powers) is entering a decisive stage."

Officers Teamed Up To Raid Three Liquor Stills

Pitt County ABC officers assisted Federal Alcohol Tax Unit agents and officers of two counties yesterday destroy three stills, one a 1,000 gallon unit.

four gas water pumps, a pitcher pump and one force pump, as well as 16 cases of jars, three 50-gallon doublers, a 200-gallon cooler box with radiator condenser and 150 gallons of oil.

After destroying these stills, the officers went to Jones County where they assisted sheriff W. B. Yates and his deputies in seizing and destroying a 1,000 gallon still, complete with an 800 gallon boiler with blower, thirty-six 220 gallon barrel fermenters and 7,500 gallons of mash.

Officers noted the oil was used to fire the boiler while the pumps were used to pump water from a swamp 200 yards away to the still site.

Red Propaganda Blasts Refugees

BERLIN (AP)—East German refugees streaming to West Berlin were denounced today as traitors by their Communist homeland's official party newspaper, Neues Deutschland.

The youths, all Negroes, were among about 60 members of the Harlem "Lords" gang that invaded the southwest Bronx Monday night armed with knives, baseball bats, iron pipes and clubs.

They are double traitors," Neues Deutschland declared, "because it is just at this point that the fight between peace-loving people (the Communists) and the atomic warmongers (the Western powers) is entering a decisive stage."

Attacks on white persons by Negro gangs began last week after the mysterious slaying of Matthew Tolber, 17, a Negro Harrison High School pupil, who was shot to death on his way home from summer classes at the school.

Over Red police still made no overt moves to blockade escape routes via East Berlin. The normal flow of refugees increased sharply July 8, the beginning of the school vacation in East Germany. The estimated rate now is 2,000 a day. Many of the refugees are fearful that the Communists will seal off the city as an escape hatch to the West.

House spokesmen accepted the $423-million increase voted by the Senate over the $37 billion previously approved by the House.

The Communist propaganda blast coincided with the opening of a German Protestant church rally in Berlin. Major events of the five-day gathering will be held in West Berlin. The Communists have banned everything except regular church services in their sector and declared that East Germans attending the rally would be violating the law.

The revised bill now goes back to the House and then the Senate for expected quick approval.

Officers destroyed the still site were also found at the still site were

The biggest share of the new funds, $1.29 billion would go for research projects.

Chicago Police Bolster Forces In Tense Area

Chicago police officials, taking no chances on a sudden widespread outbreak of racial violence, have ordered another 50 patrolmen into the city's violence-ridden Lawndale District.

An uneasy quiet prevailed Tuesday over the integrated southwest side district where clashes between Negroes and white persons have been occurring for a week. Frequent attacks by gangs of teen-age Negroes have left more than 20 persons injured.

More than 300 policemen have been assigned to the area to maintain law and order around the clock. Police said there have been no reports of trouble in the area since Monday night.

At Montree, La., Cecil Manning, East Carroll Parish (county) registrar of voters, invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to answer questions about the operation of his office. He is under court order to submit to a federal government oral deposition.

At Jackson, Miss., City Judge James Spencer convicted two leaders of the Jackson Nonviolent Movement on one count of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and sentenced both to six months in jail and $500 fine.

The two, Bernard Lafayette, 20, of Tampa, Fla., and James Luther Bevel, 41, of Ita Bena, Miss., were to face similar charges today. They were accused of enticing Luvaghn Brown, 16-year-old Jackson Negro, to sit in at a (Walgreen's) drug store lunch counter July 11.

At Charlotte, N. C., the consolidated Charlotte-Mecklenburg County School Board reassigned 14 Negro students to four white grammar schools. Despite the action, a group of Negroes staged a demonstration because integration of the all-white Harding High School was not ordered.

Argentine Plane Crash Fatal To All 67 Aboard

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—An Argentine Airlines DC6 heading for the oilfields of Patagonia crashed and burned today. Police reported 67 aboard were killed.

The plane came down 45 minutes after taking off from Buenos Aires' Ezeiza Airport on a flight that had been delayed by fog.

Police at Azul, near the crash site, found no signs of life in the burned-out wreckage.

Rural House Is Lost To Flames

GRIMESLAND — A five-room frame house on the Grimesland-Black Jack road burned about 8:15 a.m. today leaving a family of five homeless.

The fire to which three volunteer companies responded completely demolished the residence of Clarence W. Dixon. Nobody was at home when the blaze was discovered.

Answering the call were the Grimesland Volunteer Fire Department, the Simpson Fire Department and the Eastern Pines Fire Company. Three trucks and a water tanker were rushed to the scene, but were unable to save the dwelling or any of its contents.

However, they did manage to save the home of Dixon's sister which was about 150 feet away and several other outbuildings on the property.

Fire Chief L. A. Moore of Grimesland said Mrs. Dixon told him, after the blaze was extinguished, that she had left some meat cooking on the stove while she helped get in tobacco. From the looks of the debris, Moore said it appeared as if the blaze had started in the kitchen area on the back of the one-story house.

Postscript

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, in an annual postscript to his regular news conference, today called on every school in this country to provide 15 minutes of vigorous exercise each day for all students, boys and girls.

Kennedy said he was alarmed over how many U.S. youngsters are not physically fit. And therefore, he said, he wants schools to identify these pupils and to try to give them special work that will make them strong.

And each school, he said, should use valid tests to see how well their youngsters — "both boys and girls"—measure up and how well they are progressing.

After his regular news conference Kennedy returned to the State Department Auditorium to present his views on physical fitness to reporters who remained for the second show.

"This is a matter of importance," the President said. "I want to urge that this be given utmost priority."

Cash Receipts Topped $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Carolina farmer's cash receipts from the sale of crops, fruit, livestock and live stock products climbed over $1 billion in 1960, the U.S. Agriculture Department said today. Receipts for 1959 totaled $988,000,000.

Elks said the board instructed Bunting to forbid minors admittance to the establishment. It was described as a pool room.

Smith, who went to Grimesland "highly recommended" according to the announcement of his hiring, was a policeman for seven years in LaGrange. He served three and a half years with the U.S. Army during the second World War. During part of that time, he was a military policeman.

He is married to the former Lillian Mary York, and has two children by a previous marriage. His future plans are indefinite.

When asked the reason the board had originally asked Smith to resign if he couldn't do a better job, Hodges said there were several different reasons. However, he declined to point out any specific incident, saying only that "As far as being a policeman, he wasn't doing his duty."

He indicated that the Town Board had asked for his resignation at a meeting July 11, though the meeting was reported to The Daily Reflector to be "routine."

Smith said the board's reason was that he was not doing his work.

Police Commissioner Elmore Hodges told The Daily Reflector today that the board asked Smith at a meeting July 3 to resign "if he couldn't do a better job than he had been doing."

At a meeting on July 11, Hodges said "We asked him what he had decided and he said he would resign, that would be better." The resignation was accepted at that meeting, Hodges stated.

Another Chief In Grimesland Goes

GRIMESLAND — Grimesland's police chief of five months, Clifton B. Smith, reported to The Daily Reflector today that he had resigned the post effective July 15.

He is the third police chief to leave the town in a little over 12 months time. Smith replaced Mack Bunting, who was hired July 1, 1960 and who was fired Feb. 4, 1961. Bunting became police chief following the June 1960 resignation of Bill Ennis, who is now police chief in Winterville.

Smith's letter of resignation to the Grimesland Town Board of Aldermen stated that "This is my decision as well as yours. With my previous years of experience and my determination, I will go to another town that will appreciate my work. I have tried in vain to serve you the best to my knowledge, which wasn't satisfactory."

He indicated that the Town Board had asked for his resignation at a meeting July 11, though the meeting was reported to The Daily Reflector to be "routine."

CLIFTON B. SMITH

Bunting and the town officials, with the firing predicted by Mayor Elks.

Later, Elks told The Daily Reflector that differences had been long brewing between the two factions, since the time that Bunting opened a "recreation center" which had been discussed at the January meeting of the board.

Elks said the board instructed Bunting to forbid minors admittance to the establishment. It was described as a pool room.

FREEZING SAVES TIME
Mrs. Bill Thompson, Roper, is prepared for hot days. During the cool days in June, Mrs. Thompson baked six pound cakes and froze them, reports Mrs. Frances Darden, home economics agent in Washington County.

"While butter and eggs were cheap and plentiful, I decided it was a good time to bake the cakes and be prepared for unexpected company," reports Mrs. Thompson.

DIET WISE-DOLLAR WISE
With outdoor cookery being popular in Rutherford County, the Home Demonstration leaders taught a class on different ways to prepare meat for outdoor cookery.

Miss Eugenia Ware, home economics agent, says the leaders made kabobs using beef, onion, pineapple, Weiner and bacon. Many of the groups are planning cookouts in August.

PRESSURE CANNERS CHECKED
"Some of us learn the hard way," reports Mrs. Fannie Hurdie of Durants Neck in Perquimans County, after completing a pressure canner clinic. She has checked 20 pressure canners in her community.

Miss Ila Grey McLean, home economics agent, reports that last year Mrs. Hurdie had a pressure canner to explode due to the pressure gauge not registering accurately. Mrs. Hurdie is encouraging the women in the county to have all their canners checked.

GOOD VEGETABLE DINNER
This year special emphasis is being placed on green and yellow vegetables in Avery County. According to Miss Marie Scott, home economics agent, nine leaders are giving the demonstrations at their local club meetings. Miss Scott says the leaders are stressing the nutritional value of vegetables while preparing a vegetable dish.

CHAIR BOTTOMING WORKSHOPS
Mrs. Frances Baker of Rock Springs community takes advantage of all workshops held in Franklin County.

According to Mrs. Lillie Mae Dean, home economics agent, Mrs. Baker recently learned to bottom chairs with corn shucks. Since then, she has bottomed five while teaching others the techniques involved.

HAS HOME ENTERPRISE
After having been retired from public work for several years, Mrs. Vaude Hartsell, Locust, has devised a method for earning extra money. With the help of her husband, she has converted the back porch area of their home into a green house for growing tomatoes, cabbage and pepper plants for sale.

Mrs. Rebecca Mooney, assistant home economics agent in Stanly County, reports the ingenious enterprise has led into the commercial sale of cabbage plants.

Personals
Charles Thomas Jackson and family of Southern Rhodasia are here visiting his sister, Mrs. Lawrence Howie, and family at their home, 201 Vance St. He arrived Sunday afternoon.

Miss Lottie Ellis and Miss Paye Gaskins left Tuesday morning for Lafayette, Ind., where they will attend the Second Quadrennial Assembly of the Christian Women's Fellowship of the Disciples of Christ, which takes place at Purdue University.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bodkin of 205 S. Warren St. are visiting in Buckingham, West Va., due to the illness of Mr. Bodkin's mother.

Engagement Announced

MISS BETTY LOU MORGAN . . . is the daughter of Mrs. W. H. Morgan of Washington, N. C. and the late Mr. Morgan, who announces her engagement to Mr. Jimmie Edward Hardee, son of Mrs. Walter Hardee and the late Mr. Jimmie E. Hardee of Greenville. The wedding is planned for September.

Beeker-Paramore Speak Vows

Miss Ida Lou Paramore of Winterville became the bride of John Wayne Beeker of Burlington in a double-ring ceremony in Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church Friday night at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Jack Paramore, brother of the bride, officiated.

Miss Paramore is the daughter of Mrs. S. A. Paramore and the late Mr. Paramore of Winterville. Mr. Beeker's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Beeker of Burlington.

The wedding music was presented by Mrs. Elizabeth Bodkin, organist, and Miss Joyce Jackson, soloist. Miss Jackson sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, S. A. Paramore Jr., was wearing a street length dress of white chiffon over taffeta, fashioned with a draped neckline and gathered skirt. Her shoulder length veil of imported French illusion was attached to a crown of chiffon roses. She carried a prayer book topped with an orchid.

Miss Joyce Paramore of Winterville, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a mauve street length dress and matching accessories. She carried a nosegay of white carnations with mauve streamers.

Marvin Beeker, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Darwin and Donald Paramore, brothers of the bride. Following the ceremony the mother of the bride entertained at a reception at the home of the bride.

White bridal arrangements were used throughout the home. Mrs. A. B. Whitley Jr. poured punch, assisted by Miss Alva Ray Taylor, Mrs. Sam Northrop, Miss Mary Bell Beeker and Mrs. Marjorie Phillips.

The mother of the bride was wearing a light blue dress, white accessories and a corsage of rubrum lilies. The bridegroom's mother was wearing a light blue dress, white accessories and a corsage of rubrum lilies.

The bride attended Winterville High School, Meredith College and Greenville School of Commerce. The bridegroom attended Walter Williams High School, Burlington and Navy Radio School.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride was wearing a blue cotton two-piece dress, white accessories and the orchid lifted from her prayer book.

W.O.T.M. Has Dinner Meeting

The officers, committee chairman, escorts and special committee chairmen of the Women of the Moose had a dinner meeting at the Greenville Moose Lodge Tuesday evening.

They had as their guests officers of the Moose Lodge, Deputy Grand Regent Mrs. Louise Carrigan gave the devotion. Senior Regent Mrs. Rachael Hobgood presided over the meeting.

Dr. McAndrews, Governor of the Lodge, and Ed Baldree, secretary, thanked the Women of the Moose for their help during the past year.

After dinner, the men were excused. The women discussed the duties of each and made plans for the coming year.

Leaves For Pilot Club Meet In Denver

Mrs. Robert W. Pennell, president of the Pilot Club, left Sunday from the Raleigh-Durham Airport, at 9 a. m. to attend Pilot International Annual Convention in Denver, Colo.

Two widely-traveled lecturers, Miss Mercedes J. Hurst, International Harvester executive, and Dr. John F. Furbay, world traveler and lecturer, and the highly-regarded United States Army Air Defense Command Choral Group will be featured attractions of the 40th Annual Convention of Pilot Club International in the Denver Hilton Hotel, Denver, Colo., July 16-20, theme of which is "Forward With the Times."

Words Also Require Some Action

Now that the United States, France and Great Britain have firmly rejected in separate notes to the Soviet Union the Soviet demands that they quit their positions in Berlin, the world waits the next development in the growing Berlin crisis.

Perhaps the next step will be another statement from Premier Khrushchev in which he will either reiterate the Soviet intention to press the Berlin issue to the brink of war, or an acceptance of the offer of further negotiation of the German question which was contained in each of the three Allied notes.

The world will likewise be watching to see if the Western powers make any move to bolster their military position in West Germany or in the western sector of Berlin to support the assertions of the notes that the Soviet Union cannot unilaterally deny the rights of the people of West Berlin or the right of the Allies to hold that portion of the city. This, perhaps, will be a key in the developments of the next few weeks. It may well shape not only world opinion as to the intention of the Western powers, but it may well influence the position followed in the future by the Soviet Union.

The tone of the notes from the three powers firmly set forth the intention of the Western nations to protect their rights in West Berlin and the rights of the people therein. In spite of the fact that the notes offered to negotiate further on the questions involved, they plainly said the United States, France and Great Britain did not intend to be dictated to by the Soviet Union on the Berlin question. They also placed the blame for any open conflict over Berlin on the Soviet actions, past and future.

From the text of the notes, one gets the impression that the three Western powers do not intend to remain on the defensive—at least in the propaganda war—over West Berlin. If this impression is correct, we can expect to see an increasing propaganda campaign from the West toward the Soviets over the Berlin question. It might also be assumed that the Western nations may now have decided it is time they take the offensive in the cold war as the best possible defense against a possible hot war over Berlin.

The Western Allies have stated clearly their position and their intentions regarding West Berlin and the threats made by the Soviets. These words must now be implemented by action which will show clearly to the Soviets and to the world that there can be no question about the intention of the United States, France and Great Britain to stand solidly—individually and collectively—behind the words contained in their notes on the Berlin question.

Sanford Showed Much Influence

By LYNN NISBET
LEADERSHIP—A great deal has been said about failure of the Legislature to develop outstanding recognized leadership. There was no lack of ability among the members. The composite intellectual and statesmanship stature of men and women who made up the 1961 House and Senate was as high or above the average. For that reason no one or two individuals loomed above the ranks.

Pilot Mountain, you know, rises as a monolith to a height of some 2000 feet above the surrounding plateau, and is a landmark for 100 miles. Mount Mitchell rises to 6664 feet—two and a half times as high—but is almost indistinguishable among the towering peaks all around it. By all odds the most powerful influence in the Legislature, other than Terry Sanford, was Sen. Lindsay Warren. He exercised that influence by reason of prestige gained years ago, not developed during this session. He must accept major responsibility for failure to reapportion the State senate, for the congressional districts as enacted, and for a large part in the court bill compromise. Tribute must be paid to Rep. Roland Braswell of Wayne and Sen. Jennings King of Scotland for their handling of the small loan legislation, and to Rep. Pat Taylor of Anson for leadership in the court fight.

To one who has watched legislatures perform for half a century one of the most interesting facets of the recent session was the relative impotence and unimportance of committee chairmen. With two or three exceptions, notably Rep. Pat Taylor as head of House courts and judicial districts, and Sen. Cutler Moore, head of Senate roads, the committee chairmen did not actually control their groups. The congressional district bill which was enacted was not originally supported by any of the committee chairmen dealing with it. The small loan legislation was put through without help from the chairmen, and in some instances over their protest. The same is true of the minimum wage extension.

The chairmen of the big money committees are veterans of many sessions with excellent legislative and private business records. Finance chairmen Sen. Tom White of Lenoir and Rep. Shelton Wicker of Lee, appropriations chairmen Sen. Jim Stikeleather of Buncombe and Rep. Tom Woodard of Wilson, worked diligently and successfully on their assignments. But the fact is the tunes for the monetary dance were called by the men downstairs.

The 1961 fiscal schedule is currently known, and most likely will go down in history, as the "Sanford program." The Sanford influence so far overshadowed the whole operation there isn't much chance that future historians will accord any 1961 legislative recognition comparable to that given in other years to men like Rufe Doughton, Tam Bowles, Gregg Cherry, Grady Rankin, Angus Dhu McLean, Ralph McDonald, et al.

DOMINANT—Another interesting development was that Governor Sanford exercised more influence over legislation with less overt effort than any previous chief executive. He was required to make fewer direct promises of patronage and fewer threats of reprisals because he was taking over control not only of the State administration but of the Democratic party organization in North Carolina. To greater degree than ever before the terms are synonymous.

NEW FACES—The New Day has brought many new faces to the front ranks of party organization and State government. Appointments are not directly related to legislative experience, but there is similarity of approach. Just as the Governor used men of his own choosing, rather than committee chairmen named by the Legislature, to carry his program, so he has picked men and women not handicapped by indoctrination of traditional ideas for party and government administration. And activities of these appointees is freely interchangeable between government and party service.

BACK UP—Back to the original premise of appraisal of the 1961 General Assembly. It was one of the hardest-working sessions in three decades—at least. The scarcity of recognized leadership was not due to lack of competence, but to the fact that the average level was so high leaders did not stand out. There were marked differences of opinion and disagreement on issues, but less personal animosity and ill-feeling than usual. The influence of the executive was greater, exercised not so much through coercion of promises and threats as by moral suasion and the fact that Governor "sold" his program to the legislators.

That situation emphasizes that while the Governor of North Carolina is the only chief executive in the United States without the power of veto, the other powers accorded him as director of the budget and for appointments makes the veto unnecessary. And, regard less of constitution and statutes, the fact is there is definite trend toward less real authority of the General Assembly and more actual power vested in the Governor. Whether that is good or bad, it is the way we are headed.

In his eight-year presidency Eisenhower had 192 news conferences. President Truman 324 in a little less than eight, and President Roosevelt 990 in 12 years. At the rate he's going Kennedy won't match any of them. In his first six months Eisenhower had made two nationwide TV broadcasts, one by himself on national security, one with his Cabinet to discuss national problems.

In this same length of time Kennedy has made one direct TV talk to the nation: His report on his Vienna meeting a few days before with Premier Khrushchev. After his successful TV debates with Vice President Richard M. Nixon last year—and particu-

Conferences Could Be Waste Of Needed Time

For almost three years now the United States and the Soviet Union have been negotiating for an agreement to ban the testing of nuclear weapons and for an inspection program which will assure that all parties live up to the agreement.

Some progress, to be sure, has been made during this period of negotiation, but for the most part the conference has only produced material for propaganda. There has been little indication that the Soviet Union is interested in any sort of reasonable inspection program which would divulge violations of any test ban agreement.

When President Kennedy met with Premier Khrushchev at their summit conference, he had hoped that subsequent talks at the Geneva negotiations would reflect a more genuine desire on the part of the Soviets to reach a reasonable agreement. Since the summit conference it has become clear that there has been no change in the Soviet attitude. They are interested in a test ban only on their own terms . . . terms which are wholly unacceptable to the United States and its allies.

The conferences on the ban on nuclear testing program probably will continue although for the moment they appear a waste of valuable time which the negotiators could be spending on other major international problems. And while the Soviets continue to stall on these negotiations, the United States should be giving considerable attention to its program for determining whether the Soviets are living up to their announced intentions not to test nuclear weapons.

Otherwise the United States may some day be surprised to learn that while it has kept its word to voluntarily ban its own tests of nuclear weapons, the Soviets have used testing secretly to develop more modern weapons in the nuclear field.

Kennedy Urged Start Talking

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has kept busy, but not as an explainer. He's being urged to start talking.

After almost six months in office he's made less use of press and TV than President Eisenhower in the same time to get his ideas across to the people.

By this time in his first term Eisenhower had held 13 news conferences. So far Kennedy has had only 12. His 13th comes today. Yet before Kennedy took office his news secretary, Pierre Salinger, said he would be holding news sessions "more often than they have been held in the past eight years."

In his eight-year presidency Eisenhower had 192 news conferences. President Truman 324 in a little less than eight, and President Roosevelt 990 in 12 years. At the rate he's going Kennedy won't match any of them.

In his first six months Eisenhower had made two nationwide TV broadcasts, one by himself on national security, one with his Cabinet to discuss national problems.

In this same length of time Kennedy has made one direct TV talk to the nation: His report on his Vienna meeting a few days before with Premier Khrushchev.

After his successful TV debates with Vice President Richard M. Nixon last year—and particularly after his highly applauded inaugural address, which was shown on TV last January—it was thought Kennedy would make a lot of use of TV.

He has perhaps been seen on TV more often than Eisenhower in his first six White House months. But he has been seen in action—on the White House steps or greeting visitors—not in explanatory talks to the nation.

As trouble increased for him—Laos, Berlin and his trouble with Congress in getting his foreign aid bill through—there were repeated suggestions that he talk directly to the people on TV.

But for some reason which has never been explained he has avoided such a step, preferring to send messages to Congress or otherwise getting his ideas out. Yet last Dec. 31 in defending his plan to have his news conferences televised live, Kennedy said it was part of that trend for greater communication of presidential views to the people "who are very much involved in his decisions."

As the Berlin problem intensified there were many presidential conferences with aides but, except for the talk after Vienna, nothing direct to the country.

Now as the administration considers some mobilization—just in case things get rough around Berlin—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Monday urged Kennedy to give the country a "sober, reflective and thoughtful analysis" of what the count-

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

'ALL'S WELL'

Robert Browning once penned the words: "God's in his heaven, all's well with the world."

Many people in recent years have scoffed at this sentiment. They have called it saccharine sentimentality. Be realistic, they have urged their contemporaries; look round about you and you will see that all is not well with the world. Wickedness is widespread. Moral compromise is normal. Nations are only waiting to spring at the throats of other nations. Confusion rocks every country in the world to its foundation.

Nevertheless Browning asserted—and we think he was right—that God is in his heaven and that all is well with the world. This does not mean that all is pleasant in the world. Every age had its problems. But the power of God above, and the hand of God reached down into the stream of human history to protect and guide faltering humanity, remains to this hour the best hope any of us can have.

Wherever God is, whatever His ultimate nature, we can be sure that it is something which transcends in power and glory anything the human mind can imagine. Just because there is confusion on this planet does not mean that God has lost control of His creation. There have been periods of unrest in the past; there will continue to be such periods in the future.

We need something we can grasp with confidence. Our ultimate hope lies in an all-powerful God who really functions.

Might As Well Get Used to It—

By PATRICIA MOORE

It's Different In Brazil

New people mean new ideas. Another exchange, this one Maria Munsch of Brazil, with the International Farm Youth Exchange, recently visited our county—and we found another set of new ideas and comparisons.

For instance, we eat rice cooked with water and salt—usually, and we don't have it every day. Maria says that's what they might give to sick people where she lives (laughing, of course). In her country, rice is a staple, more on a level with our potatoes, but they prepare it more as a basic dish with fat, onions, tomatoes and other tasty ingredients.

We didn't realize that there were the many German-speaking areas in Brazil, but Maria speaks German fluently, having learned it at home, where her family spoke it. Now she speaks German in some of the totally German communities of Brazil where she works as an extension home economics agent (comparable to the home economics agent here). She also speaks Portuguese fluently, Portuguese being the language usually regarded as characteristic of Brazil.

There aren't as many people owning cars and there aren't the freezers and such in the rural communities of Brazil. Some of the areas are much more rural than our rural areas, away from the bustle of the city life.

Maria, at the age of 21, does not know how to drive—which would be a catastrophe in our part of the world. Instead, she rides in an extension jeep to places where she works.

Despite the fact that her education, like most other girls in Brazil, consisted of five years of a primary school and four years in a secondary school, Maria speaks three modern languages and has been exposed to French and Latin. The modern languages being German, Portuguese and English. French is not as easy for her, Maria says.

The more these foreign exchanges visit Greenville, the more we feel a slight wave of wistfulness at the lack of familiarity Americans have with other languages, despite the fact that many of us have had from two to four years in high school and college.

We found one striking similarity between Maria and some of the foreign exchange students who were here recently. Americans, "I love them." North Carolina, "It is beautiful here." (We were won over at the sincerity of her answers.)

Another similarity between Maria and the exchange students was her vitality and sharp mind, not to speak of her ability to communicate in our language, though it was not fluent.

Other Editors Sayings . . . Dropout: Poor Investment

(Rocky Mount Telegram) One of the school problems that has beset the state of North Carolina—in addition to the state of North Carolina—in addition to the usual ones of inadequate funds, too few teachers and not enough physical facilities—has been that of the high rate of drop-outs from Tar Heel public schools.

It is estimated that all of our efforts combined—including the costly and unpopular food tax program—will go for naught if the drop-out rate continues. Gov. Sanford has taken cognizance of this problem. He has announced a new campaign aimed at curbing this drop-out trend in our schools.

His program is an outgrowth of a proposal made by the Optimist clubs of North Carolina. This civic organization plans to work directly in cooperation with a committee to be created by the governor to work on the problem. At the same time a grass roots campaign by the Optimists will be aimed at contacting drop-outs at the school level and to determine what can be done to return them to the classroom.

The governor noted that some 43,000 students dropped from school during the 1959-60 school year and 45,000 seniors were graduated in 1960. The number of graduates, then, barely topped the number of drop-outs. In this modern era at a time when state is enjoying a fairly prosperous economic situation, such a figure is nothing short of scandalous.

The state has compulsory attendance laws which admittedly are not adequate. The advantage of the Optimist Club approach, however, is that it will get at the root of the problem. Obviously we have to act on this deplorable situation if the state is to continue its hope-for-growth.

If drop-outs continue the state is likely to have a serious employment problem because every phase of the economy is becoming more complex and employers are demanding better qualified workers. Drop-outs obviously won't be qualified for the better jobs that will become available.

Another serious item to be considered is the wasted investment in these drop-outs. The state and local school system may spend time and money on these students right through elementary school on into and perhaps through the 10th or 11th grades. If a student drops out during his senior year he doesn't get a diploma, he finds it difficult to get a good job and he could easily become a burden for society. This represents wasted investment on the part of both community and the parents of the dropouts.

Another Defense Boom Coming

By ELMER ROESSNER

Another defense boom is surely on the way. The agreement of both parties to meet Khrushchev's threat to boost the Communists' striking force makes certain huge expenditures for armaments and a speed up of intercontinental ballistic programs.

Don't be surprised if parts of the space program are slowed down. Now only those ventures that may provide assistance and know-how for intercontinental operations will have priority.

Expansion of the arms program will reduce unemployment to levels thought impossible only a few months ago; it will increase personal income; it will increase profits. It will also increase inflation and taxes. In short, it will accelerate the current trends in the economy.

WHAT TO DO This acceleration will have varied effects on individuals and businesses. Here's a rundown on what can be done to gain advantage and avoid injury by the fast changing situation:

If you are an employer, look to your table of organization now. Soon you will be in tough competition with the government as well as defense industries for skilled and talented workers, especially in the younger age groups.

If you are a manufacturer, once again see what you can make for the government or prime contractors. Unless you're big, subcontracting will be your best bet. Under current pressures, the government will not bother to put contracts in the hands of small business directly; it can only rely on insistence that prime contractors divvy up the work with small business.

If you are a retailer, revise your planning in expectation that eventually, though not immediately, some goods will become scarcer in the future. Also prepare for the fact that demand will increase, and that prices will go up.

NEED A JOB ?

If you are unemployed, keep a close watch on developments. Determine which of your skills can be utilized in a step-up of defense. Get affairs in order so that you can move to areas where labor shortages will develop.

If you are a reservist, revise plans on the probability that you will be called up for more training than in the past.

If you are of draft age, recognize the fact that calls will be larger from now on. Your chances of service will increase.

If you are an investor, you have probably already analyzed the importance of shifting to defense stocks and of hedging against the probability of still more inflation. If not, do so at once.

If you have savings, realize that inflation is a tax upon them. Consider changing to common stocks and in-line-of-growth real estate. But be sure to retain a safe margin of quick-cash assets.

If you are a June grad, consider possibilities of making government (armed or unarmed divisions) a career, or devoting skills in physics, mathematics, engineering, etc., to the developing demands—which may continue through your lifetime.

Natal Days Of Friends

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Up here in the Berkshires, at Tanglewood, in a couple of days, the 80th birthday of Gertrude Smith will be celebrated by the Boston Symphony Orchestra and several thousand people. Gertrude Robinson Smith created Tanglewood, an altogether new concept in musical festivals. Her basic idea was that a musical festival in this country could maintain the highest standard, but he compromising to bring crowds, and at no point reducing it to a bandstand in a park. On the whole, with rare exceptions, Tanglewood has been able to maintain its high quality. There is one night when all hell breaks loose and Arthur Fiedler does a Boston Pops concert but generally there has been no compromise.

Gertrude Robinson Smith will be 80 years old, which is ripe enough for these parts where the aged are numerous. However, there is very little age about Gertrude who has just flipped in from Paris and will undoubtedly spend a very busy summer entertaining and being entertained by the very many who love her and who recognize her devotion to music in its noblest form. Tanglewood will ever be a monument to her organizational talents which age has not lessened.

Unfortunately I shall not be at her birthday party because I have promised to go to another that very night. And this one is for Lewis Rosenstiel who built the Schenley Corporation which sells whiskey and such matters. But he is perhaps more concerned with the economics of the world and the movement of gold and the perils to mankind in fiat money. Often a man's hobbies are more significant than what one does for his daily bread. And this is true of Rosenstiel although he like to give the impression that his major concern is bottles and what goes into them.

The next month in August I shall be celebrating the birthdays of two men whom I have come to love over the years. One is Herbert Hoover who will be 87 on August 10. I have known Herbert Hoover with some degree of intimacy for close to 30 years and during recent years I have lunched with him once a week, gathering from him such knowledge and wisdom as only such an encyclopedic mind and broad experience as his can possess.

Back in such years as 1933 and 1934, Hoover was deeply depressed. He was sensitive to the bitter and unjust attacks on him and perhaps by the fact that so many who owed their careers and perhaps fortunes to him, cut themselves off from him. However, time passed and Herbert Hoover went to work, turning out book after book, studying current conditions, travelling about the world on food problems, heading two commissions for the organization of the Executive branch of government and finally undertaking the massive research in the foreign policy of the United States since 1933—a task that will probably take him another year or two.

Buoyant, gay, full of the zest of life, Herbert Hoover is today a more exciting personality than he was when he was President. He has grown into a philosophic historian whose wisdom is above and beyond party. He is today the prototype of the American, born in poverty, on a farm in Iowa, working his way through college, becoming one of the country's leading engineers, and, having made his fortune and given the recognition and opportunity, devoted the rest of his life to public service.

Everyone says that it is so remarkable that Herbert Hoover has lived long enough to see the day when he is again recognized by his people as a beloved figure. But it does not matter to Herbert Hoover how long he has lived. What concerns him most is that there is so much left to do.

And then a few days later, many will recall kindly the birthday of that amazing personality, Bernard Baruch, who at 91 sits about discussing the affairs of the world in intimate detail. (Continued on page thirteen)

GREENVILLE

Robersonville News And Notes

Miss Bessie Kornegay of Abertson spent last week with her niece, Mrs. Leighton Cochran and family while Lou and Pat Cochran were recuperating from a tonsillectomy performed at Beaufort County Memorial Hospital in Washington.

Mrs. Gene Taylor has accepted a position as bookkeeper at the Ward Clinic.

Jim Adams left Tuesday for Knoxville, Tenn., after a 10-day visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. James. At the same time Alton James went to the Nashville, Ga., tobacco market and Mrs. James left for Nags Head where she was the guest of Mrs. Charlie Gray for one week.

E. B. Whichard attended the Christian Men's Fellowship meeting held in the Hillary Memorial Christian Church in Raleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Taylor of Robersonville, their son, Rudolph, his wife and children Donna and Ricky from Raleigh and their other son Herbert and family of Durham spent last week at Atlantic Beach.

Mrs. Bobby Clark of Everetts, Mrs. Melvin Farmer, Mrs. Paul Harris, Jr., Mrs. John L. Roberson, Mrs. Bobby Mobley and

Miss Harrington Shower Honoree

Miss Jo Ann Harrington, bride-elect of July 22, was complimented at a miscellaneous shower Saturday night at the Mt. Pleasant Community Building.

Upon arrival, the honoree was presented a corsage of a white Garza mum.

The refreshment table, overlaid with a linen cutwork cloth over pink was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and ruffled petunias interspersed with maidenhair fern in a crystal bowl flanked by crystal candelabra holding white tapers.

Mrs. Joe Dell Harrington, mother of the bride, served bridal cakes, and Mrs. Carl Scott presided at the punch bowl.

The hostesses were: Mrs. Clifton Bullock, Mrs. C. B. Spain, Mrs. Howard Forbes, Mrs. William Clifton, Mrs. Howard Bullock and Mrs. Douglas Parker.

their children spent Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at Pamlico Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Starr Busbee and their son Harry from Springfield, S.C., came July 8th. Mr. Busbee returned after the family reunion and Mrs. Busbee and her son remained for a longer visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roberson. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roberson from Newdale, were their guests and they visited his niece, Mrs. William Warren Taylor, Jr., and family.

Mrs. Eloise Pittman of Kinston spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. R.B. Lee, Mr. Lee, Nancy Brooks Lee and Bob.

Mrs. Bill Didawick and her son, Billy, from Raleigh were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Alcroft and her son, James Dees. Mr. and Mrs. Heber Roberson's guests Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Roberson and sons, David and Tommy from San Francisco, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Crech of Smithfield.

Richard Keel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Keel, is serving as a counselor at Camp Sycamore Unstead State Park in Raleigh during his vacation from Atlantic Christian College, Wilson.

Mrs. Delbert Ray James and her son Glenn of Norfolk spent Sunday and Monday with his grandmother, Mrs. John H. James. His sisters, Janet and Connie, accompanied them home after a visit in Robersonville.

Friday the Rev. Mayo Little and James Humphrey went to Nags Head to visit Mrs. I. M. Little. Sunday they attended services at the Episcopal Church in Williams- ton where the minister preached the morning service. They returned to the beach accompanied by Leon Wilson and his brother, Matt to stay until Wednesday when Mr. Humphrey will leave for his home in Ohio and the Rev. Mayo Little will return to Wilmington, N.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Lee Snyder of Martinsville, Va., arrived here Thursday after receiving word of the sudden death of her father, Berry House who died at his mill.

Miss Johnnie Sparks accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. M. Sparks, returned Friday evening after spending her vacation in New Bern where she visited her sister, Mrs. H.B. Jones and Mr.

Jones. Open House Friday evening Mr. John Gray Taylor and Mrs. Lee House entertained at open house honoring their son and grandson Jimmy Lee Taylor and his fiancée, Miss Nan Vanderford whose marriage is planned for August 5th.

The Taylor home on Academy Street featured a pink and white design in the decorations and refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell House welcomed the guests and presented them to the receiving line composed of the honored couple and their mother, Mrs. Howard Vanderford and Mrs. J.G. Taylor.

The bride-elect wore a lace trimmed white pique dress and a pink carnation corsage, a gift from the hostesses.

Mrs. Ernest Purvis presided at the guest register.

Mrs. Lee House poured the punch and Mrs. James Roebuck served the party cakes from a table covered with Madeira cloth over pink. The centerpiece of snapdragons, gladioli and carnations was flanked by candelabra holding lighted pink tapers.

Miss Judy Taylor, Miss Sharon Keel and Mrs. Jesse Taylor assisted in serving mints and nuts. Mrs. Leroy Vanderford said the goodbyes to the 80 callers.

Tea Honors Bride-Elect Mrs. Rufus Taylor, Mrs. Ed Grimes and Mrs. William Etheridge honored Miss Nan Vanderford, bride-elect at a tea Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Taylor.

The home was decorated throughout with white tapers in silver holders and white flowers to emphasize the green and white color scheme.

Everett served the party cakes. The other refreshments were cashew nuts and green and white mints in rose design served in silver bon bon dishes to match the other table accessories. Miss Cinda Bunting, Mrs. J.W. Taylor, Jr., assisted in the dining room.

The guest of honor wore a dress with pink figures on a white background. Her white corsage was a gift from the hostesses. She was remembered with a piece of crystal in her chosen pattern. The goodbyes were said by Mrs. William Etheridge.

Engagement Announced Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Linwood Bunting of Robersonville announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Melva Kathryn Bunting to Robert McDaniel Beach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Daniel Beach of Robersonville. A September wedding is planned.

Honor Sons Mrs. Hilton Carson honored her son, Jeffrey; and Mrs. R.B. Lee honored her son, Bob, Friday afternoon from 4 o'clock until 5:30.

The joint birthday party was held on the lawn adjoining the two homes on Pinetree Drive.

Games were played under the supervision of Mrs. Carson until the 25 guests were invited to the refreshment table. The centerpiece was a long cake decorated with pink roses.

BY JOHN CREASEY A MATTER OF LIFE AND DEATH

CHAPTER 16
 Rollison reached Agatha Bell's flat and went to bed, fully dressed, while Agatha remained in Jolly's care at Rollison's quarters. He did not know how long he had been asleep on Agatha's bed when the sound disturbed him. He was awake and alert on the instant.
 Now, there was a sound. A light went on in the next room.
 Rollison sat up and the bed creaked a little but he did not think that the sound could be heard outside. He got off the bed and stood up, then stepped behind the door.
 He heard the man moving about, with the brisk certainty of someone who knew where to find everything he wanted. He heard a tap running, then a sound which was like gas being lighted. Was the visitor going to make himself some tea?
 Rollison opened the door cautiously.
 The light was on in the larger room, and the door leading to the tiny kitchen was wide open. The light was on there, too, and a shadow moved.
 Rollison went forward, stealthily, and saw a man standing at the kitchen table, spreading butter on bread. He was in the early sixties, with iron grey hair, a fresh complexion, lean and wiry-looking, and with swift, nervous movements. Behind him, the gas hissed under the kettle.
 "Good evening," said Rollison. The man stopped spreading butter, and looked up with his mouth gaping, his eyes aflame with alarm. In that split second his fear showed.
 He gulped, tried to smile, failed, and managed to utter: "You— you scared the wits out of me." His voice was so husky that it was obvious that more than his wits had been scared.

"Too bad," said Rollison, perfunctorily. "What's the matter with your conscience?"
 "What— what do you mean?" The kettle began to sing.
 "You can guess that I mean," said Rollison, brusquely. "What makes you think that Agatha deserves the misery you're giving her?"
 "I don't — I don't understand you."
 "There'd be just one good excuse for letting her think you might be dead," said Rollison, "and that would be if you couldn't help yourself. What's the trouble? Ashamed to let her know that you're living with Griselda Vance?"
 Bell flushed. "That's not true!"
 "Do you deny that you've lived at Vance's house since you've been back from the States?" Rollison asked sharply.
 Bell looked shaken.
 "No, but it wasn't what you think. There's nothing — nothing really wrong between Griselda and me. You must believe that, Rollison."
 Rollison moved, and Adam Bell's gave followed him as he dropped into a chair. Rollison lowered the gas, made some tea, put it on a tray, took two cups and saucers from a small dresser, and fetched a tin of sugar from the larder.
 "I don't believe it for a moment," Rollison said at last. "Was Jimmy Vance living at the house?"
 "No. No, they—they just can't get on together, it's been a mockery of a marriage for years, but don't get the wrong idea. Rolly, Griselda — Griselda and I can't help being fond of each other, and I was in great difficulty and needed a place to rest. She offered it to me."
 "And you reward her by killing Jimmy Vance, setting her free so that you could share the sanctuary good and proper," Rollison gibed.

Adam Bell flashed: "That's not true! I didn't kill Vance."
 Rollison picked up the tea pot. "Milk and sugar?" he asked in a steady voice. "How did you know that Vance was dead?"
 "I was told by telephone," Adam Bell said, and suddenly seemed anxious to talk. "Whoever killed him must have guessed that I was at Heath View. The call came in the afternoon, and I left at once. I thought it would be better if I wasn't discovered staying with Griselda. It would look bad for both of us, but much worse for her. No one knew I'd been there. She— she gave the only living-in-servant notice, and did some of the housework herself; none of the daily helps knew I was there. But I couldn't stay and let trouble come to her, could I?"
 "Who telephoned you?"
 "I don't know."
 "Didn't you recognize the voice?"
 "No," Bell said, "it was husky and faint, as if a man were speaking a long way from the mouth-piece."
 "And you ran out on Griselda Vance because it would look so bad for her when you were accused of her husband's murder? Pardon me, you would be, weren't you?"
 Adam Bell said: "Yes, Rolly. I was. Heaven knows I wanted Vance dead. I hated the sight of him, for more reasons than one. We had a vicious quarrel in New York, just before I left. I could have killed him then. A dozen people saw it, and that kind of thing's certain to reach the police. They were bound to look for me." Rollison was pouring out tea.
 "We're agreed about that, anyhow," he said. "Help yourself to milk and sugar." He pushed the cup across the shiny table. "Where were you last night, Adam?"
 "I went to a hotel near Waterloo," said Bell, "but I knew the police would soon be after me, and that once my photograph appeared in a paper, I'd be finished. This was as good a place to stay as any, and Agatha always had a stock of food in the larder."
 Rollison said quietly: "So you didn't kill Jimmy Vance?"
 "No."
 "You weren't near the river?"
 "No."
 "Then why the hell don't you tell the police when you were?" Rollison was suddenly, angrily aggressive. "Why torment Agatha? Why run away from New York? Who's turned you into a coward?"
 Bell asked slowly: "Why are you so hostile?"
 "I don't like to see a girl living on her nerves the way Agatha is." "I ran out on Agatha because my life is in danger," Bell said. "I had to leave New York, and so I dodged the people who were trying to kill me. I had to decide how much to tell Agatha, and decided it was better to tell her nothing. I knew the mystery would drive her frantic, but she'd have been frantic anyhow. It was better for everyone that no one should know where I was."
 "Rollison flashed: "Except Griselda Vance!"
 "I knew I could trust her."
 "But you couldn't trust Agatha? Your own daughter?"
 Bell was kneading a little piece of bread between his thumb and forefinger, all his latent tension in that ceaseless movement.
 "No," he said, "I dared not trust Agatha completely. She is friends with a lot of people at Silver Queen. She might tell someone without meaning to harm me. She—"
 Rollison flashed: "You mean, she might have told Jameson?"
 There was another long pause, but Adam Bell's fingers didn't cease moving. He looked startled at the mention of Jameson's name, but that was all.

No Dating At Beauty Pageant

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Boys, there will be no dating at the Miss North Carolina beauty pageant in progress here. Even if there were, it wouldn't be much fun because chaperones will accompany the girls at all times.
 Those rules were laid down Tuesday for the 75 contestants who arrived here for the judging which will lead to one being chosen Miss North Carolina Saturday night.
 She will represent the state in the Miss America contest in Atlantic City, N.J., in early September.
 On today's schedule was breakfast with the judges, a full day of rehearsals at War Memorial Auditorium, and formal presentations tonight.
 Talent and swim suit eliminations will be held Thursday and Friday nights. Final eliminations and the crowning of the winner will be Saturday night.
 Miss America, Nancy Anne Fleming of Montague, Mich., is to arrive today. She will make appearances each night during the pageant.

Plan Replacing Sunken Vessel

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The Portuguese passenger-cargo ship Save, which sank off Mozambique with a loss of 259 lives last July 8, will be replaced by a new vessel, the owners announced Tuesday.
 Celestino Ramos, director of the Compania Nacional de Navegacao, owners of the ship, made the announcement on his arrival home after an investigation.

President Near Decision On Meeting Red Challenge

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today was reported nearing a decision on military and diplomatic measures the United States may take to meet the Soviet challenge over West Berlin.

The president scheduled a National Security Council meeting for late afternoon. The meeting was expected to deal largely if not entirely with the Berlin crisis and is the third such White House gathering of top policy makers in a period of about three weeks.

Prior to this conference with his top diplomatic and military advisers Kennedy was due to make a news conference a new statement of U.S. determination to protect West Berlin against Communist pressures.

The Kennedy statement was timed to follow by about 24 hours warnings of war danger given to the Soviet government by the United States, Britain and France. The three powers told the Kremlin that the Berlin crisis is solely of the Soviet Union's making and they declared they found it necessary "to warn the Soviet government in all seriousness of the grave dangers" of its course.

If the Soviets undertake, as Premier Khrushchev has warned they will do, to destroy Western international peace and security and "the lives and well-being of millions of people," the U.S. note to Moscow said, U.S., British and French messages on the Berlin situation were delivered in the Soviet capital Monday and made public Tuesday.

The Western powers already are planning to follow in this re-assertion of their Berlin rights with a new round of notes some weeks hence proposing negotiations to find a way out of the crisis short of a military showdown. Secretary of State Rusk, who had a breakfast appointment with Kennedy today, is scheduled to go to Paris next month for meetings with the British and French foreign ministers on future Berlin moves. He also will confer with West German officials.

The Western foreign ministers' talks, beginning Aug. 5, will be concerned both with what the Allies call "contingency planning" and with diplomatic measures looking toward negotiations, officials said.

By "contingency planning" the Western governments mean the plans they are now formulating to deal with any direct challenge to their Berlin rights which may be posed by the Soviet Union and Communist East Germany. In the interest of allied unity when the showdown comes they are trying to decide in advance, for example, how they will react if the Communists turn over control of the Berlin supply lines to officials of East Germany or if the East Germans demand some kind of recognition from the Western powers under threat of cutting the supply lines.

Khrushchev has threatened to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany by the end of this year and claims that this action would establish East German sovereignty over Berlin and access routes. The Western powers do not recognize the East German regime and insist that their Berlin rights cannot be abrogated or modified by any action of the Soviets or East Germans in the absence of Western agreement.

President Kennedy initiated studies in the State and Defense Departments and other government agencies last month looking toward recommendations for strengthening the Western military position in Europe and also measures which might be taken in other fields in event of a mafor emergency over Berlin. Dispatch of one or more additional U.S. divisions to the NATO command in Western Europe — five are regularly stationed in Germany — has been making plans to call up some military reserve units in the United States.

Plans Loom For Missiles Using Warfare Gases

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army apparently is preparing to issue missile warheads that could carry chemical warfare gases deep into an enemy's battle zone.

This was indicated by a new regulation listing supply responsibilities of branches of the Army which included among the items warheads for "guided missile chemical agent."

By Army definition, a chemical agent is a solid, liquid or gas which "produces lethal, injurious or irritant effects."

In production or being perfected is a wide variety of chemical gases. They range from the long-manufactured asphyxiating gases, now in modern form, to the so-called "nerve gases" capable of producing either death by paralysis of the respiratory system or temporary incapacitation by psychological or other effects.

A whole family of missiles is in the Army's arsenal capable of delivering gases. These missiles vary from those with ranges of a few thousand yards for close-in attack on a battle front to the Pershing missile with a reach of more than 200 miles.

The longer-range missiles carrying, for instance, an incapacitating gas obviously would be useful for tactical purposes, including softening up an area behind enemy lines preparatory to a paratroop drop.

Modern arms for ground troops have been given a priority recently under President Kennedy's program aimed at improving the capability of conventional forces — as distinguished from the nuclear striking power of the Air Force and Navy.

This factor was pointed up in recent testimony before a congressional committee by Maj. Gen. Marshall Stubbs, the Army's chief chemical officer.

Stubbs said at one point: "With the increasing possibility that we will be faced with local and limited forms of aggression in which nuclear weapons would not be used, the chemical and biological research and development program gains a new dimension."

At the House Appropriations subcommittee hearing, another witness — W. E. Black of the Army Chemical Corps intelligence agency — said it is believed the Soviet Union has stocks of both regular poison gases "as well as nerve agents."

Nerve gases are generally organic compounds of a form of phosphoric acids. Two types have come into existence during and since World War II, both discovered by the Germans.

Focus On Health

Athlete's foot, the question of new diseases, and drinking in the Soviet Union are in the medical news.

ATHLETE'S FOOT
Bacteria are found to be a cause of athlete's foot affecting the toes and toe webbing, Miami, Fla., physicians report.

The itching, scaling and cracking of skin on the toes long has been blamed on fungus infection only. But Drs. Imrich Sarkany, David Taplan and Harvey Blank isolated rod-shaped bacteria from the skin patches. Antibiotics which strike at germs can help clear up the trouble, they report.

NEW DISEASES?
"New" virus diseases seem to be popping up.

But it is highly improbable they are brand new diseases. More likely, they've always been around, but were just submerged, or not recognized because of more prevalent diseases, say Drs. Ernest H. Watson and George H. Lowrey, University of Michigan pediatricians.

When old killer or serious diseases were conquered, the virus diseases had a better chance of making a mark, became more prevalent or people became more aware of them.

But it is unlikely that our Stone Age ancestors had measles, common colds, or "flu," the physicians said. Hunters and gatherers, those people lived in small groups, and didn't come in contact enough with one another to keep the germs thriving. Civilization and crowding gave infectious diseases a more fertile ground.

SOVIET DRINKERS
The U.S.S.R. has as much alcoholism as any other country, a Soviet psychiatrist told Dr. Morris E. Chafetz of Boston, but he didn't estimate the number. Officially, the Soviet government says very little about it.

Dr. Chafetz investigated alcoholism in the Soviet Union, Poland and Czechoslovakia, and concluded that "the Soviet attitude toward the alcoholic patient tends to be moralistic and punitive, as in the United States."

He was much impressed with Czech programs of anti-alcoholic clinics and other methods of helping the alcoholic to stop or control his drinking.

The Poles are "experiencing massive problems with alcohol excesses," aggravated since the war and they are not dealing effectively with alcoholism, Dr. Chafetz writes in the New England Journal of Medicine.

FEAR OF DISEASE
Illness of relatives or close friends with cancer, heart disease or other serious illness can make some people sick, particularly if they are over 40.

The diseases aren't contagious, but the fear of getting them can be. And that fear can bring on symptoms of illness, remark Drs. Jackson A. Smith and Lester H. Rudy of the Illinois State Psychiatric Institute.

Such persons may become nervous, short of breath, feel their hearts racing, their ears ringing, and get indigestion and other troubles. Cure lies in recognizing and getting rid of the anxiety.

Sanctions Hang Over Trujillo

WASHINGTON (AP)—The diplomatic and economic quarantine sign still hangs over the Dominican Republic today after the Organization of American States was urged to adopt a wait-and-see attitude toward the successors of slain dictator Rafael L. Trujillo.

An OAS committee which spent nine days in the Dominican Republic and a month deliberating in Washington said that it is premature to say whether or not the Dominican government has taken the Democratic road after 31 years of dictatorship.

The committee thus recommended that the nations of the hemisphere maintain the economic and diplomatic sanctions by which they have isolated the Dominican Republic since last year. The sanctions were imposed after the Trujillo dictatorship was found to have been implicated in an attempt to assassinate Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt.

The four-nation committee said it had interviewed many Dominican political prisoners and had received complaints of torture from prisoners' relatives.

The committee composed of representatives from the United States, Panama, Colombia and Uruguay, left the door open for a possible return trip at a future date.

Ethel Waters Is Broke Today, But 'Sitting On The Edge Of Heaven'

Ford Motor Co. Takes Offensive In Negotiations

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has taken the offensive along with General Motors Corp. in attacking the contract bargaining goals of the United Auto Workers as inflationary and dangerous to the nation's economy.

Ford estimated it would cost some $500 million over the next two years to adopt just part of the UAW's proposals.

The strongest company statement since bargaining began in the auto industry three weeks ago came Tuesday night from Ford's vice president for labor relations, Malcolm L. Denise.

Denise accused the union of using a "combination of discredited theory, opportunistic techniques, and extravagant proposals." He said these represented "a clear sign of danger to the economy of the nation." Denise figured the union demands would increase hourly labor costs more than $1.

UAW Vice President Ken Bannan, director of the union's Ford department, replied Denise's talk about inflation and his estimates of labor costs were "utterly ridiculous and false." Bannan accused the company of trying "to hide its responsibilities to its workers and to the economy behind a phony inflationary smoke-screen."

Earlier, General Motors told its 335,000 hourly workers their wages have more than doubled since 1947 and employee benefit plans had skyrocketed to 40 times the cost 13 years ago.

GM declared "the rapid increase in wages and benefit costs experienced in recent years cannot be sustained without inflation and the danger of slowing down the rate of growth of our national economy."

UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock said he agreed with GM "that any settlement arrived at must not cause inflation." But he declared GM's pricing policies were a greater factor in inflation than labor costs.

Will Consider A Second Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special study was proposed in the House Tuesday to determine whether a supplemental capital should be established because of Washington's vulnerability to enemy attack.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., author of the proposal, said: "Many reasons have been advanced for a supplemental capital, or at least a wide dispersal of government agencies to other areas, but the one heard most often is that one well-placed bomb would knock out the entire government."

(Continued from Page 4) try faces in the Berlin crisis. Humphrey said he suggested this to Kennedy—but got no response—in a report he submitted after his recent trip to Europe.

The senator said there is a necessity to let the American people know what alternatives they face in Berlin.

Sokolsky Col.

(Continued from page four) whose colossal memory is always a shock to younger men who remember so little. Bernard Baruch has lived long and he has served his country well.

His father, a Polish Jew, settled in Charleston, South Carolina where, as a physician, he served in the Confederate Army. Bernie's mother came of a family that had been in the United States several centuries. After the Civil War, the family moved to New York City where Dr. Baruch did the best he could to eke out a living for a large family. Bernard went to what is now the City College which made no charges. He has repaid the city a thousand-fold for his education. He became a stock broker, earned a large fortune and when opportunity came in 1917, he entered upon a career of devotion to his country.

Baruch is often called "advisor to Presidents"—a meaningless title. His true greatness is that he has served his countrymen honorably and truthfully and has given the people sound economic advice.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Ethel Waters, who says she is sick, broke and jobless, has this message for friends who worry about her: "I have never been so happy in all my life. The Lord has his arms wrapped around this big, fat sparrow. I'm sitting on the edge of Heaven."

Believes Tension In Kuwait Ended

KUWAIT (AP)—Britain's chief resident diplomat in the Persian Gulf area, Sir William Luce, left here Tuesday saying: "I think the tension and heat is off quite a bit and an attack by Iraq is not likely to happen."

Luce is returning to his headquarters at Bahrain after 10 days in Kuwait following Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's claim that this oil-rich sheikdom is part of Iraq.

Cat Tail Frozen In Refrigerator

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—Elmer A. Powers went to his refrigerator for a midnight snack. He opened the door and there was Boots, the family cat. His tail was standing straight as a flag pole and was frozen stiff. "He wasn't really badly hurt," said Powers' wife, Billie. "Today he is as frisky as ever."

How Boots ever got into the icy predicament remains a mystery.

Except for an occasional television appearance, the 61-year-old, 250-pound singer and actress has been out of work for five years. "If I tried real hard I might be able to rustle up $5," she told an interviewer.

Miss Waters made such pictures as "Cabin in the Sky" and "Member of the Wedding" for which she received an Academy Award nomination. Songs she helped make famous included "Am I Blue?" and "Stormy Weather."

Her autobiography, "His Eye Is on the Sparrow," was a best seller 10 years ago.

Now white-haired, Miss Waters has a room in the house of a Pasadena family. She says she suffers from high blood pressure, diabetes and heart trouble. In May, 1960, she suffered a heart attack which hospitalized her for months, and has limited her activities every since.

"When I go to bed at night I never know if I'm going to hear the birds singing in the morning again," she said. "But I'm not afraid to die. In fact, I'm kinda looking forward to it. I know that the Lord has his arms wrapped around me."

Miss Waters says her religious beliefs forced her out of show business.

"I got good offers from famous men," she said. "They wanted to give me thousands of dollars to be in their plays—but the plays were dirty, and blasphemous, and old Ethel told them that they weren't fit to be seen by decent people."

"Sweet child, they were mad. They don't like it when you tell the truth about them, so they stopped sending scripts to me and then the agents stopped trying to get work for me. They'll tell you that I 'retired,' but any retiring that was done wasn't voluntary."

Miss Waters says she made several fortunes during her many years on the stage and screen.

"Darlin', I lived good for a long time," she said. "I had a nice home, and big cars, and everything that money could buy. But, Lord, was I lonely. I used that money wrong. I tried to buy friends."

Miss Waters also had troubles with the Internal Revenue Service, and the memory of them brings on gales of laughter.

"I sold everything I owned to pay off that bill," she said. "I sold my house, my car, and everything else. But I paid 'em. I don't owe a cent to anyone." And she broke into another booming laugh, when she said: "Oh, precious, if half of the people that owed me money would pay it back, I'd be a rich woman again."

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
 The New York Yankees are back on top in the American League pennant race, thanks to that battle of home runs between Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris—and Babe Ruth.

Mantle, unchallenged as the Yankees' present-day Ruth until Maris joined the club last season, tied Maris for the major league lead with 35 by walloping a pair Tuesday night as New York beat Washington 5-3 and regained first place by a half-game over Detroit.

The Tigers slipped to second on Jim Gentile's "second chance" home run that gave Baltimore an 8-7 victory in 10 innings at Detroit.

Mantle caught Maris, who was 0-for-4, with a two-run homer in the first inning and a solo shot that cracked a 3-3 tie in the eighth.

The Mick now has crashed six home runs in seven games since last week's All-Star game break. Maris has hit only two in that time. Both lost one when Monday night's game at Baltimore was called off because of rain in the fifth inning.

Mantle and Maris now are 17 games ahead of Ruth's record-60 pace with the 1927 Yankees.

Boston belted Cleveland 9-2, the Chicago White Sox beat Kansas City 4-3 and the Los Angeles Angels defeated Minnesota 4-1 in the other AL games.

In the National League, Milwaukee whipped Cincinnati 12-8, trimming the Reds' lead over the idle, second place Los Angeles to 3½ games. St. Louis swept a two-night pair from the Chicago Cubs 8-3 and 7-5 in the only other games scheduled.

Mantle batted in three runs with his two homers, both off loser Joe McClain (7-9). Yank relief ace Luis Arroyo (5-3) was the winner.

Gentile's home run came on a 3-2 pitch by losing reliever Bill Fischer (2-2)—after the Orioles' slugging first baseman had been called out on a tap by the plate. He got his extra swing when third base umpire John Flaherty reversed plate umpire Bill Kinamon's call and ruled the tap a foul ball.

The Orioles had come from behind with six runs in the seventh inning. They chased Tiger ace Frank Lary in the rally, which included a two-run homer by Hank Foiles and a three-run homer by Jackie Brandt. Al Kaline and Rocky Colavito hit home runs for Detroit. Hoyt Wilhelm (7-4) was the winner in relief.

A pair of two-run homers by Gary Geiger gave the Red Sox a 4-1 lead in three innings at Cleveland and beat Mudcat Grant (8-4). Rookie Don Schwall (9-2) went all the way for the victory.

Nellie Fox put the White Sox in the lead with a two-run triple in the seventh inning. That hung the loss on reliever Jerry Walker (3-6). Juan Pizarro (6-3) was the winner.

The Angels grabbed eighth place from the Twins as Lee and George Thomas, the unrelated rookies, hit home runs behind the seven-hit pitching of Ken McBride (9-5). Pedro Ramos (6-11) was the loser.

'New Approach' Gains Him Win

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—Looking back on his 6 and 5 Carolina Golf Association amateur tournament finals victory over Greensboro's Buddy Watkins, Billy Joe Patton noted:

"After those first five or six holes in the morning I decided I had better do something. It looked like I was trying to give it away."

That was when he said he decided to concentrate on playing the golf course Tuesday, the 6,800-yard Gaston Country Club layout, and let Watkins try to keep pace.

"It was that 'new approach' he credited with his victory in the Southern Amateur a month ago.

Two months ago, discouraged because he was "shooting too many 80s", he decided to pass up the qualifying rounds for the U.S. Open.

He's been in contention most events since then.

He finished second in the Carolinas Open at Boone early in June. The 39-year-old Morgantown lumberman tied the CGA record with his third title.

Patton still hasn't decided whether he'll enter the U.S. Amateur at Pebble Beach, Calif., in September.

Ty Cobb Funeral To Be Held Today

CORNELIA, Ga. (AP)—Legendary Ty Cobb, whose flashing spikes and thundering bat placed his name many times in baseball's record books, will be buried today.

Private funeral services for the man called baseball's greatest player by many persons will be held at 3 p.m. in the chapel of McGahee Funeral Home here. Burial will be in the family mausoleum at Royston, 28 miles away, his birthplace.

Cobb died Monday at 74 in Emory University Hospital where he had been confined for several weeks. He had been in the hospital many times for treatment of cancer, diabetes, heart trouble and arthritis.

Cobb's close friends will be active pallbearers at the funeral. They include Harrison Gailey, Cliff Kimzey Jr., Jimmy Freeman and J. Rex Teeslink, all of Cornelia; Dr. Stewart Brown and Bob Greer, both of Royston, and Dr. Prentiss Miller and Clark O'Neill, both of Atlanta.

Honorary pallbearers will include members of the Cobb Educational Foundation, an organization founded by the Georgia Peach, and staff of Cobb Memorial Hospital, which he endowed.

Cobb built the family tomb several years ago after the deaths of his mother and father. A sister also is buried there.

He is survived by a son, James; two daughters, Mrs. Thomas D. McLaren and Mrs. Richard D. Beckworth, all of California, and a brother, John Paul Cobb of Sarasota, Fla.

All except the brother, who suffered a paralytic stroke several years ago and will be unable to attend the funeral, were with Cobb when he died. His first wife, the former Charlie Marion Lombard of Augusta, Ga., from whom he was divorced in 1947, also was present.

Cobb returned to Georgia in 1958 from Atherton, Calif., where he had spent most of his retirement since ending his baseball career in 1928.

Typical of the tributes to the Georgia Peach were new signs erected in Cobb's honor in Royston, proclaiming the little town as the home of baseball's greatest player.

Cobb, who had been living in a small apartment here, left his hospital bed in Atlanta two weeks ago to visit Royston.

"He came down to have his picture made with friends and to see our new signs," said Mayor F. Burt Barnes. "The signs have a picture of Mr. Cobb in his Detroit uniform, coming around third base on his way home."

Ty Cobb Record Is Tied By White

ST. LOUIS (AP)—First baseman Bill White of the St. Louis Cardinals, with only 45 minutes sleep between four games—two two-night doubleheaders—banged out 14 hits in the four games to tie a record set 49 years ago by the late Ty Cobb.

While White's performance in consecutive doubleheaders tied Cobb's record, it was a record for the National League. The old mark in the senior loop was 12, held by several players.

White had no sleep at all after Monday night's twin bill. He sat up with an ailing child and Tuesday had to attend a baseball clinic. He grabbed about 45 minutes of rest in the dressing room just prior to Tuesday night's doubleheader.

White's feat was accomplished in two successive days while Cobb set the record with Detroit in two doubleheaders—July 17 and 19, 1912—that were broken up by a day of rest.

White, who told newsmen Tuesday night he doesn't take records too seriously, hit a double and seven singles Monday night and bashed out a homer, two triples, a double and two singles Tuesday night.

Two-Game Series Begins Tonight

CINCINNATI (AP)—This is a big one—the ball game tonight between the hard-pushing Los Angeles Dodgers and the wavering Cincinnati Reds, whose hold on the National League lead is in jeopardy.

Cincinnati opens a two-game series against the Dodgers with only a 3½-game lead. Only last Sunday, the Reds were six games ahead of Los Angeles.

Six Reds' pitchers were unable to stop Milwaukee Tuesday night and the Braves won 12-8. The Reds now have lost three in a row.

Manager Fred Hutchinson is hard put for pitchers for the two games, but he has his two best ones—Bob Purkey (11-4) and Joey Jay (13-4)—for them. If either founders, it will be bad for the leaders.

The pitching has been going downward recently. Jimmy O'Toole, who started Tuesday night's game, holds only an 8-8 record for the season. Jay Hook has been unimpressive, and Howie Nunn and Jim Maloney have ailing arms. Jim Brosnan has been cold in several recent relief chores.

Team play, too, has fallen down. The boys have been missing some easy double play setups.

Hiring 400 More Prison Guards

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Prisons Department will hire more than 400 additional guards during the next four months in a move to reduce working hours of custodial personnel, prisons director George W. Randall said today.

The department will recruit 300 guards to supplement the regular 1,200-member force and 100 men to fill existing vacancies, Randall stated.

The 1961 legislature appropriated funds to carry out the program. Randall said that with additional guards at the 90 prison units throughout the state, the department can reschedule working hours from 60 to 48 hours a week.

Salaries for prison guards begin at $3,132 and advance to a maximum of $4,200 annually. Applications will be taken at local employment security offices.

Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke Dies In Small Plane Crash

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke, descendant of Spanish aristocracy and wife of the State Department's chief of protocol died with two other socially prominent women and a pilot Tuesday in the flaming crash of a light plane in a Queens residential area.

The Beechcraft Bonanza, with one of its doors apparently swinging open, plunged almost straight down into a flower garden only blocks from LaGuardia Field. It exploded upon impact, spewing flames and wreckage over a house it had narrowly missed.

The two other women killed were Mrs. Arthur Altschul, 29, wife of a Wall Street broker, and Mrs. Stanley Warren Metcalf, wife of an Auburn, N.Y., business executive. The pilot was Paul Duke, 29, a Marine Corps Korean veteran and father of two children.

No one on the ground was injured.

The death of the beautiful Mrs. Duke, born 39 years ago in Spain, brought expressions of shock from throughout the world, including a message to her husband from President Kennedy. Its contents were personal, and were not made public.

Only hours before the crash, Mrs. Duke had joined her husband at Idlewild Airport in bidding farewell to President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan. Duke had gone to Washington, but he flew back after word of the crash.

He was met by his mother, Mrs. T. Markoe Robertson at Queens General Hospital where the bodies had been taken. Mother and son wept as they identified personal belongings of Mrs. Duke.

Mrs. Duke had boarded the air taxi for a 40-minute ride to her Long Island estate at Southampton for the seventh birthday party of her daughter, Maria Luisa. Moments after it took off from LaGuardia Field at 2:10 p.m., the pilot radioed back to the control tower that a door of the plane was open and he was returning for an emergency landing.

Eyewitnesses said the plane faltered and plunged almost straight down, turning into a ball of flames when it smashed into a yard. It narrowly missed a school playground teeming with children.

Mrs. Duke, the former Maria Luisa de Arna de Madrid, was the granddaughter of a Spanish grande. She met her husband when he was special assistant to Stanton Griffis, U.S. ambassador to Spain. They were married in Mexico City in 1952.

She and Duke, an heir to part of the Duke tobacco fortune, had one other child—Drexel Dario, 4.

Mrs. Metcalf and Mrs. Altschul, who was expecting her third child in October, were en route to their summer homes at East Hampton when the crash occurred.

A Cavern Under Abe Lincoln's Big Memorial

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the surprise of almost everyone, there is a place to hide in case of an atomic attack on Washington.

It's a man-made cave, directly under the Abraham Lincoln Memorial, a cavern so big it's busy creating its own stalactites and stalagmites.

But if Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa, has his way, it will be more than a vast hideaway. It will be turned into an underground museum in which the 2.5 million memorial visitors each year can learn more of their, and Schwengel's favorite hero.

Schwengel and Randle Truett, chief historian for the National Capital Parks, took a couple of reporters on a conducted tour of the cave.

"This," Schwengel said, as we climbed the steps to where Lincoln sits pondering, "is the most visited memorial in the whole world."

To Schwengel, this is as it should be.

"Lincoln is the most American of our American presidents," he said. "He had the spirit of our forefathers."

Schwengel leads the Lincoln bloc in Congress. When he was a boy, he bought his first Lincoln book, for 10 cents. It now is worth about $10 and has been joined by 599 other books and 54 pictures of Lincoln.

And Schwengel climbed down the ladder into the dimly cave below with the enthusiasm of a collector on the trail of an original copy of Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

It's a huge hole, all right. About 165 x 60 x 60 feet.

Apparently the builders had to clear away a lot of dirt in order to drive pilings heavy enough to support the weight of the Memorial. On the pilings they erected huge concrete pillars.

When they finished, they didn't bother to fill the huge cavity.

Schwengel has written Conrad Wirth, National Park Service director, for a preliminary estimate of what it would cost to turn the cave into a museum. And he has even figured out how, at a dime or a quarter a throw, it could start paying for itself.

Well, things don't happen fast in Washington. In 1967 Congress decided a memorial should be built to Lincoln. In 1911 it created a commission to do the job. On May 30, 1922, with 50,000 looking on, the magnificent monument was finally dedicated.

Still, one has to start somewhere. And Schwengel, a onetime teacher, is eager to begin.

"We could all be better citizens," he said, "if we could understand American history and American traditions."

2 Cave Explorers Are Found Dead

ORLEANS, Ind. (AP) — Two young cave explorers were found drowned early today, lying side by side in an uncharted dead-end passage where a flash flood trapped them Sunday.

Ralph S. Moreland Jr., 25, Knox, Ind., and Tom Arnold, 25, Peru, Ind., had apparently crawled 150 feet up the two-foot high side passage when the first of three cloudbursts swamped the cave.

The two Indiana University graduate students evidently had been dead hours before the underground stream receded enough to allow rescue attempts to be started Monday.

"The first heavy rain got them," said Robert Armstrong, 26, Indianapolis, leader of the party which found the bodies.

Armstrong said debris marks showed the water had reached the ceiling of the low cavern cell.

The bodies were two-thirds of a mile inside the twisting limestone cave, located eight miles west of this southern Indiana town and 30 miles north of the Ohio River. It took four hours to bring the bodies out.

Moreland and Arnold were trapped inside Sunday evening when a flash flood swamped the passage and left the mouth of the cave under 16 feet of water at one point during the night.

Had To Learn A New Spelling

LEXINGTON, Okla. (AP) — A young woman walked into a gas company office to make a deposit for a connection and was asked how her name was spelled.

"Just a minute," she replied and dashed outside.

She returned in a moment with the correct spelling, explaining, "I just got married."

Farmers Trying Air Cooled Hogs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An increasing number of farmers are taking steps to keep their hogs cool in summer, the Ohio State University extension service says.

By keeping hogs relatively confined, farm specialists say, they gain weight more efficiently and under more sanitary conditions. But they also can't cool off under a tree or in a mudhole.

So, the university's researchers say, farmers are using overhead shades with fog spray nozzles, shades over feed-watering-rest areas, ventilation systems, insulation and paved areas to protect hogs in hot weather.

Got 'Message' With Protest

MANFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Township trustees got the message when Gene Geary got fed up with dust on unpaved Topaz Avenue. He placed barricades across the street to halt traffic.

When sheriff's deputies arrived, Geary asserted that the trustees promised to pave the street but never got around to it. The deputies asked him to check again. Trustees informed Geary that a contract for the work had been signed.

The barricades came down.

Nothing Wrong But Dusty Jail

MIDDLEPORT, N. Y. (AP) — Apparently there's nothing wrong with the jail here that a little business wouldn't cure.

Police have received a report on an inspection the State Commission of Correction made during the spring. It says: "The cells and cell room were clean but somewhat dusty from disuse on the date of inspection."

There were no detentions in 1960 or in the date of inspection.

Sutton's Service Center Ready For A Grand Opening

Sutton's Service Center, recently moved into a new and modern plant, is staging its Grand Opening tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

The brand new plant on Dickinson Avenue represents a doubling of the floor space occupied by the Sutton firm that will mark its 25th birthday Sept. 1.

Boasting a total of 20,639 square feet, the concrete, masonry and steel structure is, according to its builder, M. E. Sutton, "one of the finest of its kind in the country." He says, "There's nothing in this state east of Raleigh like it." The building is "as fireproof as we could make it," Sutton says. In the planning stages for two years, the plant required nine months to build. Sutton, owner of the business, handled the contractor's job himself after General Tire and Rubber Co. and American Oil Co. jointly designed the structure. The Sutton firm holds area distributorships for both companies.

Officials Expected
Sutton said Monday he was expecting officials from General and from American to view the new plant Thursday.

The new building allowed the Sutton business to expand its operation. In addition to tire recapping, wheel alignment and general car service, the business now includes muffler and brake replacement and repair.

Sutton's new structure includes a special tire recapping section that houses a total of 50 molds for passenger car tires and 20 for truck tires. The recapping section's equipment is the very latest, Sutton says. The new plant's car service area includes seven stalls, with hydraulic lifts and glazed tile walls. Pull-down doors in each stall provide a large service area that can be comfortably heated. "All our service work can be done indoors," Sutton says.

30 Employees
Sutton's new plant houses a 30-man force engaged in book-keeping, merchandising, tire recapping and general auto service. The building's front office and sales area, floored with terrazzo, is completely air conditioned. The service section includes the work area, the tire recapping plant and spacious storage facilities.

The front service area is equipped with eight fuel pumps and underground tank storage totaling 20,000 gallons. The building's front area is topped with a huge sign proclaiming: "Sutton's Service Center."

History
Born on Sept. 1, 1936, the Sutton business set up shop at Evans and 10th Streets where it now maintains one of its nine retail outlets in Greenville, Ayden, Farmville and Winterville.

Currently, Sutton and his son, James E. Sutton, head the firm that started with M. E. Sutton as president, the late J. S. Ficklen as secretary-treasurer, and the late R. M. Garrett as vice president.

Following the deaths of Garrett and Ficklen several years ago, the business became entirely a Sutton enterprise. In 1939, the business moved into

Planning Attend East Carolina College Night At 'Lost Colony' Set Aug. 5

Jehovah's Witnesses of the south unit congregation here on Brown Street are making preliminary plans to attend a three-day training program August 11-13 in Durham, according to Francis N. Richardson, local presiding minister.

Richardson stated, "The recent phenomenal growth of the worldwide organization of Jehovah's Witnesses, especially in the United States, has made necessary the adding of seven new districts and the creation of 52 new circuits in this country to properly care for the increase." "The local congregation," he said, "is a member of one of the newly formed circuits, circuit no. 36, which will meet in Durham next month."

This Durham meeting will be held at the Central Civic Center Building, corner Foster and Morgan Streets. Between 400-500 witnesses from the 16 congregations that make up the new circuit are expected to attend.

After discussing the oncoming assembly at one of the regular weekly meetings Mr. Richardson told his audience, "The various forms of selfishness, including blasphemous communism, has divided mankind. Christians must be united and keep clear of this Satanic division," he said, "and love is the only force that will help them do this."

When Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, East Carolina College president, steps onto the stage of the Waterside Theatre on Roanoke Island as a guest performer in "The Lost Colony" on Saturday, August 5, he will make the 12th member of the cast or staff of this symphonic drama appearing in the 1961 production.

August 5 is the date for East Carolina College night at "The Lost Colony" and a large delegation of students, faculty and

Slot Machines In Mausoleum

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Police say illegal gambling is dead in Miami, and turned up five slot machines entombed in a mausoleum.

Coffins had been removed years ago from the marble burial vault on the Brickell estate, a Miami landmark, and when a groundskeeper saw a canvas draped over one of the tiered shelves Tuesday he called police.

The Greek-columned mausoleum, standing in downtown Miami is owned by Elks Lodge No. 948. Elks officials expressed surprise that the machines were found on their property.

The slot machines were turned over to the city property bureau.

alumni are expected to be in attendance for the event. The delegation will be recognized in a short program at the intermission. It is expected that Alumni President Fodie H. Hodges of Kingston and Student Government Association President Otis Strother, III, of Wrightsville Beach, will join President Jenkins in the intermission feature.

Appearing in roles or staff positions this season are these East Carolina College people: Peter Johl, playing John Borden,

Castro, Cabinet Discuss Policies

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro and his cabinet met for seven hours Tuesday night hammering out details of new policies the prime minister is expected to announce at the July 26 celebration of his revolution.

Reports have circulated that Castro may announce creation of a single all-powerful proletarian party when he addresses a mammoth rally marking the eighth anniversary of his revolt against dictator Fulgencio Batista.

(Associated Press news analyst William L. Ryan predicted Tuesday that the Communists would be invited to participate in the new party and would rule it in fact if not in name.)

The presidential palace announced that the cabinet during its marathon meeting adopted new decrees:

1. Appropriating more than $6 million to operate Cuba's nationalized private schools.
2. Creating the "National Order of Playa Giron" (site of one of the landings in the abortive April invasion). The decoration will be awarded to "Cubans and foreigners to have fought against imperialism."

Give Up Painting Of Sam Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Houston City Council is giving up a painting of Gen. Sam Houston that has adorned the council chamber since 1941.

The council decided to return the portrait to its painter, Boris B. Gordon of Washington, D.C., who says he has never been paid for his work.

Gordon recently sought return of the painting, saying the Navy may want it for a new nuclear submarine being named for the Texas hero.

In parallel action, the Houston City Council accepted an offer of another painter to do a portrait of city's namesake for free.

the male lead; Tom Hull, playing Annanias Dare; Nan Brown, lady-in-waiting; Edward Pilkington, in the role of Father Martin; Adrian E. Brown, Jr., playing a colonist man; Marilyn Singleton, Danny Barbour, and Bob Tilley, members of "The Lost Colony" choir.

Larry Jones is a stage technician and Mabel Basnight is in her 21st season as box office manager. Clifton Britton, East Carolina alumnus and director of dramatics in the Goldsboro high school, who has been with "The Lost Colony" production for 14 seasons, is now in his eighth year as director.

A fish fry in Manteo at the Masonic Temple from 5 to 7 p.m. will be a gathering point for alumni, faculty and students, as well as friends of the college.

The Alumni Office on the campus is central point for information about reservations for seats in the Waterside Theater and the charter bus which is expected to leave the campus at 1:30 p.m. for the special events at Roanoke Island and Manteo.

Plastic Surgery For Liz Today

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor is slated for plastic surgery today to remove a throat scar resulting from her near-fatal bout with pneumonia earlier this year.

The actress entered Cedars of Lebanon hospital Tuesday night, only a few hours after she and her husband, singer Eddie Fisher returned to Los Angeles after visiting the Moscow Film Festival.

She expects to remain in the hospital for or five days. Miss Taylor said she was glad to be home although she enjoyed the Moscow visit. Her scar — a red mark about an inch long — showed up just above the lace trim of her blue summer dress. Surgeons made the incision so she could breathe while she was in critical condition in London.

Beer On-Rocks After Collision

JOLET, Ill. (AP) — Two trucks collided at an intersection in a residential area Tuesday. The result—beer-on-the-rocks.

Police said a city dump truck loaded with eight tons of rock for a street project collided with a brewing company truck loaded with bottled beer.

The dump truck lost part of its load. The beer truck overturned, smashing most of its bottled contents.

James A. Chully, 52, driver of the city owned truck, and Joe Sealy, 48, Chicago, a helper on the beer truck were slightly injured.

Ex-Undercover Agent To Go On Trial For Shooting

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Harold Elmie Aaron, an undercover man for the North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation during a bitter textile strike, goes on trial in Henry County Circuit Court today on a malicious wounding charge brought in the shooting of a friend.

Aaron, 33, of Leaksville, N.C., is charged in the shooting of John Layton Pulliam, 35, a Danville insurance salesman, in a motel here April 8. Pulliam, shot in the groin, has since recovered.

Officers quoted Aaron as saying the gun discharged accidentally when he tried to push Pulliam from his motel room.

Investigating officers said Aaron wounded Pulliam during an argument over Trudy Miller, a 17-year-old Martinsville girl, who was in the motel room with Aaron.

Aaron was employed by the North Carolina SBI during the long and bitter Harriet-Henderson cotton mill strike. He was the state's chief witness against eight union leaders, including Boyd Payton of Charlotte, head of the Textile Workers Union of America in the Carolinas, who were jailed on charges of conspiring to dynamite installations of the mills.

During a preliminary hearing on the wounding charge here May 15, a statement was read in which Aaron said the girl had called him "so she wouldn't have to go out with Pulliam."

At that time Aaron testified he carried the gun because he and his family "had been threatened constantly for the last two years" because of his testimony against the union men.

Smithy Figures Future Is Secure; Horses Necessary

SMITHY FRAZEL
'They'll Never Replace Horses'

By DAVE TAYLOR
DALLAS (AP) — The village blacksmith of old used to set up shop in town and ranchers and farmers for miles around would bring their horses to him to be shod.

The modern smithy takes his shop to the horses. One such modern-day blacksmith is Billy Frazel, who makes his home not far from the busy Dallas - Fort Worth Turnpike where automobiles go whizzing by.

Billy's shop is a pickup truck which carries his forge, anvil, tools, shoes, nails and other equipment around the countryside. Now 33, he has been shoeing horses since he was a teenager.

The traveling smithy's day starts at sunset and lasts until dusk. He travels about 150 to 200 miles a day, shoeing 10 or 12 horses, depending upon the nature of the job.

Most blacksmiths — there are three or four in the Dallas-Fort Worth area — have regular customers on whom they call every six or eight weeks to reset shoes or change them.

Billy does work for several ranches; he also shoes thoroughbred race horses trained in the area and handles most of the stock at the National Rodeo Finals in Dallas and the Fort Worth Fat Livestock Show Rodeo.

Billy takes the optimistic view that the blacksmith's trade will continue as long as man has a love for horses.

"One time a fellow asked me why I didn't get a job in one of those airplane factories over in Fort Worth," he says.

"Gave it some serious thought, too, but decided to stay with blacksmithing and do you know what happened?"

"That fellow and a couple more he got jobs are making weekly trips to collect their unemployment money."

"Guess that proves they'll never replace horses."

But Four Governors At Mississippi Meeting

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Four governors and representatives of three others meet here today with the announced purpose of discussing cooperative economic development for the South.

But states rights and segregation, not on the agenda for the session, were expected to be in the limelight.

The one-day session was called by Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett, who sounded out colleagues on the idea during the recent governor's conference in Honolulu.

He invited 12 governors to participate. Three took him up on the invitation — Orval Faubus of Arkansas, John Patterson of Alabama and Ernest P. Hollings of South Carolina.

The governors of Louisiana, Florida and Georgia sent representatives.

Gov. Price Daniel of Texas, chairman of the Southern Governors' Conference — which doesn't meet until autumn — said he would be unable to attend.

Barnett's call for the meeting had only an indirect reference to racial strife.

He charged "outside influences" that do not have the interests of our section or our people at heart seek to create turmoil and strife.

Mississippi was relatively free of integration efforts until Jackson became the target of segregation-defying "Freedom Riders" in May. Since then 247 riders have been jailed, Negroes have staged demonstrations seeking an end to city transit segregation and a suit has been filed to desegregate the all-white University of Mississippi.

Representing Louisiana will be Lt. Gov. C. C. Aycock. Florida's representative will be Asst. State Atty. Gen. Ralph Odum and Georgia's delegate will be State Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook.

All In Readiness For 'Confederate' Unit's Leaving

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — All is in readiness for the Sixth North Carolina Regiment, CSA, to take off Thursday for Manassas, Va., and the re-enactment of the first big battle of the Civil War.

The reactivated regiment, composed of some 150 volunteers from Alamance, Rowan and Wake Counties, is under command of Col. W. Cliff Elder. The troops leave by special train Thursday morning.

The Tar Heels will bivouac on the battlefield of Manassas during the Saturday and Sunday observance, then return home Sunday night.

Gov. Terry Sanford will review the troops Saturday morning, and observe the re-creation of the battle that afternoon.

Col. Elder, a Burlington industrialist, and his troops will be outfitted in Confederate uniforms and armed with weapons of the kind used 100 years ago.

NAME DIDN'T FIT
SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Traffic officers here asked the name of a motorist they had halted for speeding.

Said the driver: "Safety First." Then he produced a driver's license issued to Safety First, 67, of 1427 Camden Dr.

LEFT: Billy Frazel uses clippers to trim a horse's hoof. CENTER: The bottom of the hoof is smoothed down before shoe is applied. RIGHT: The shoe is hammered into place.

DEAD DRY—A farmer in Burleigh County, N. D., (name unavailable) had only this stubble to show for his barley crop after a high-temperature, low-rainfall squeeze in the northern Great Plains. Rains last week helped some fields, but came too late for this one and many others in a six-state drought area. (AP Wirephoto)

20-FOOT FALL
TOKYO (AP)—A Soviet acrobat performing on a trapeze suspended from a spinning Sputnik slipped and fell 20 feet to the concrete floor Tuesday night. M. Zapashny, 23, a performer in the touring Soviet Bolshoi Circus, was hospitalized with bruises on his right shoulder.

Wilson cash cattle prices steady: steers and heifers, choice 21.50-23.50, good 20-22, standards 16.75-19.75; beef cows 14.50-17, heavy cutters 13.50-15.50; light bulls 13-15, heavy bulls 16-18.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market sagged moderately early this afternoon as trading slowed. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon declined .70 to 241.10 with industrials off 1.20, rails off .70 and utilities unchanged.

Losses of key stocks were mostly fractional, none going to a point or so.

Coppers, rails, steels, tobaccos, oils and drugs were among the losers. Other groups were spotty.

The decline put the Dow Jones Industrial average at noon at 678.35, off .95.

A drop of about 2 points by DuPont and a loss of more than a point by Westinghouse Electric dampened the averages.

Some of the aircraft-missile stocks resisted the downturn. Martin Co. advanced a point to 24 3/4 on 1,800 shares.

International Telephone was off about a point while American Cable & Radio gained a fraction.

Polaroid gained about 5 points as it reported earnings.

Ford picked up 3/4 at 84 on 1,000 shares as other auto shares showed little, if any, change.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange in moderate trading.

Corporate bonds declined. U.S. government bonds were slightly higher.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)— North Carolina egg markets steady. Supplies short, demand good. Prices paid producers for clean, unsized eggs, delivered nearby grading stations on a grade-yield basis, cases exchanging Grade A large, whites 36-37; medium, whites 32 1/2-33 1/2; small, whites 21-25, mostly 21 1/2-22 1/2.

High Wind

Winds measured at 35 to 50 miles per hour struck suddenly in this area around 9 o'clock last night.

The windstorm, accompanied by some rain, came on a turbulent night. There were no reports of major damage, however.

The rainfall for the 24-hour period ending at midnight last night was 0.26 inches.

Buck Flye of Greenville Utilities reported the high yesterday was 94 degrees with a low of 72 degrees at midnight. At 4 o'clock this morning it was 70 degrees and at 8 a.m. the thermometer stood at 75 degrees. At noon today the temperature was 90 degrees and the skies were partly cloudy.

Tar River stood at 3.2 feet today.

Driver Convicted On Four Counts

AYDEN — A 35-year-old man was found guilty in Recorder's Court here this week of driving under the influence, driving on the wrong side of the road and with assaulting an officer of the law and causing bodily damage to him.

The man was identified as Burke Parker of Rt. 1, Box 202, Tarboro, whose occupation was listed as carpenter. Officer Paul Hill of the Ayden Police Department said Parker was arrested on July 15 on N. C. 102 east of Ayden by Patrolman W. K. Chapman and Corporal J. T. Jenkins of the Highway Patrol and charged with driving under the influence and on the wrong side of the road.

Later the same day, Officer Hill was placing another man in a cell with Parker and Parker got out of the cell, Hill reported. When Hill tried to get Parker back into the cell, Parker threw himself at Hill.

Hill then called Patrolman Chapman to assist in getting Parker back into the cell. Hill suffered minor injuries to his arms and back.

Parker was found guilty of the assault and fined $10 and cost with a 30-day suspended sentence. On the driving charges, he was given a 90-day suspended sentence upon payment of $110 and costs and his license was revoked for 12 months.

Five Impromptu Talks Given At Rotary Meet

AYDEN—Five members of the Ayden Rotary Club presented impromptu speeches at the Friday meeting, held at the Community Building, with Wes Gooding in charge of the program.

Also during the meeting, it was announced that the family night will be held July 28 at Harry Stilman's site at Camp Contentment on Contentnea Creek. Harry Mumford, Joe Sumrell and Warren Kinlaw were named to the committee for the cookout.

Talks during the evening included one by Stancil Sumrell on "Conquer Fear of Worry in Work." He talked in humorous fashion about World War II. Bill Stroud spoke on "How to Stop Worrying and Start Living." Mac Edwards, changing the subject, discussed the Ayden Golf and Country Club as "The Biggest Bargain in Ayden." Gooding

City Police Car In Traffic Crash

An estimated $550 damage resulted from a collision at the intersection of 13th and Forbes Sts., in which a Greenville Police Department car was involved.

Investigators reported that Sgt. M. E. Buck, 30, of 1402 Chestnut St. was the driver of the police vehicle. Operator of the second car was listed as William Earl Walston, 18, of Falkland.

Police said the patrol car was traveling west on 13th St. while the Walston vehicle was headed north on Forbes St. at the time of the mishap.

Damage to the city auto was estimated to be about $250 while an estimated $300 damage was done to the private vehicle.

Investigators charged Buck with failure to yield the right of way in the collision.

The mishap occurred at 1:25 p.m.

William B. Tucker, 59, of 1043 Rock Springs Drive, was charged with improper turning following a 8:11 a.m. collision yesterday on Washington Street, between 12th and 13th.

Officers, reporting an estimated $150 damage was done to the Tucker vehicle, identified the operator of the second vehicle as William Nathan Lovitt, 47-year-old Negro of 1700 South Pitt St. Damage to the Lovitt car was set at $200.

Eichmann Threatens Stop Answering Prosecutors

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) — Adolf Eichmann today accused the Israeli prosecution of trying to "fry" him until he gives the answers the prosecution wants.

The former Gestapo officer charged with major complicity in the mass slaughter of the Jews threatened to stop replying to questions about his 1957 interview with a Dutch journalist, Presiding Judge Moshe Landau roundly rebuked him.

Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner tried repeatedly to draw from Eichmann an acknowledgment that the interviews he gave in Argentina to Wilhelm Sassen were accurate.

In the interviews, once intended as the basis for a book on the Jewish holocaust, Eichmann allegedly expressed regret that the extermination of Europe's Jews was not completed.

The defendant parried question after question from Hausner, admitted handwritten corrections in Sassen's manuscript were his own, but insisted they were not final and that he repudiated the whole thing.

"I stopped correcting," said

Eichmann, "and gave up the entire project because there were too many errors and it was not worth it."

When Hausner refused to accept this, Eichmann boomed: "I will no longer answer to any questions about this document because it is completely false."

Judge Landau cut in quickly: "You will continue to answer questions until I tell you that you are free to stop down."

"Yes, sir, Mr. President," Eichmann said. "But I have the feeling I am being fried here until the rump steak is well done, until they elicit from me the answer they want."

The altercation faded away as the court took its regular mid-morning recess.

Earlier, the prosecutor blazed away at Eichmann as the real key figure in the secret police setup in Nazi Berlin but got back the steady reply that his rank of lieutenant colonel was a low rank, on the level of taking orders not giving them.

Firemen Respond To False Alarm

Greenville firemen responded to a false alarm last night at the Greenville Tobacco Company on 10th St. officers reported today.

Fire officials said the alarm, from box 15, was received at 7:30 p.m.

Officials said a leak in a sprinkler system pipe caused the alarm, which is activated by the building's sprinkler system.

Farmville Movie Theater Plans Reopen Friday

FARMVILLE—Farmville's theater is scheduled to reopen Friday after a two-month shutdown.

To be operated by Gus H. Carroll of Richmond, Va., and his wife, the theater "anticipates a much better program of pictures than at any time in recent years," according to Louis Williams, executive secretary of the Farmville Chamber of Commerce.

Carroll, affiliated with the Hygrade Packing Co. of Richmond for a year, was formerly associated with a Warrenton theater. Williams said Carroll is returning to the movie theater business "because of a yearning to get back into the business."

Williams reported Carroll, his wife and three children plan to move to Farmville immediately where they will reside at Dupree's Apartments on the corner of Walnut and Pine Streets here.

The Chamber secretary said, "He is getting very good cooperation from the local merchants."

Carroll, whose children are aged two, three and four years, is a member of the Baptist Church.

Ayden Bicycle Owners Asked To Use Bike Racks

AYDEN—Bicycle owners in Ayden have been asked to place their bicycles in the bike rack when parking them in downtown Ayden, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said yesterday.

Bicycles left on sidewalks constitute a pedestrian hazard, it was pointed out, and there have been complaints recently of the bicycles left on downtown sidewalks in a haphazard manner.

He also said that the town is going to arrange to park bicycles near the theater against the theater wall on Pitt Street. The town will then regulate the area to see that the bicycles are protected.

If bikes are left on the sidewalks downtown, members of the police department will have to pick them up and take them to the Police Department, where they may be claimed.
