Bids Opened On New ECC Dorm

Bids were opened yesterday by East Carolina College officials on another million-dollar dormitory for men. Initial construction is expected by Aug. 1. F. D. Duncan, ECC business manager and vice president, said the low bids on general construction, plumbing, heating and electrical work totaled $1,103,914. Bids from a total of 32 contracting firms were opened in Duncan's office yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Duncan said college officials expect to award the contracts within a week, pending approval of the Housing and Home Finance Agency and the N. C. State Department of Administration. East Carolina is borrowing half the funds to build the 500-man dorm from HHPA. The other half is put up by the state. A Winston-Salem contractor, Fowler Jones Construction Co. submitted the low bid on general construction of the masonry and steel structure scheduled for completion in time for occupancy in the fall of 1962. The Fowler-Jones bid totaled $909,840. Superior Mechanical Contractors of Durham entered the low bid of $82,837 on plumbing work for the dormitory. A Greensboro contractor, Community Heating and Plumbing Co., submitted the low heating work bid at $65,400. A. D. Blake Electric Co. of Wilmington, with a bid of $45,837, was low for electrical work. Duncan said the contractors will be allowed 380 calendar days for completion of the new dorm, the third 500-man housing unit to be built by ECC on its new South Campus. Projecting from Aug. 1, Duncan set a tentative completion date for Aug. 15, 1962. The new unit, varying in design from Jones Dormitory and an adjacent similar one, will be constructed immediately south of the last large dorm built on the campus. Its design will include outside corridors with outside entrances to four-room suites. Each suite will include a bathroom. Duncan said total cost on the new building "comes within our money." He set the total cost at $1,190,000, including architect fees and funds for equipment and moving. The business manager said the new design will require about the same amount of land area used by the two previous 500-man units. A breakdown of yesterday's bidders showed 11 bid on general construction, seven on plumbing, six on heating and eight on electrical work.

To Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy transferred today to the Pentagon major responsibility "for a greatly accelerated civil defense effort including a nationwide fall-out shelter program." The executive order gave to the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization—which has been responsible for civil defense—the role of "advising and assisting" the President in planning the continuity of government and the mobilization of industry in event of a war emergency.

Commission Will Meet In Grifton, Farmville

Pitt County's Development Commission last night set meeting dates in Grifton and Farmville and proposed that later meetings be held in various sections of the county "to help acquaint the entire county with the work of the commission, and its potentials." The Commissioners accepted an invitation to hold its September meeting (Sept. 20) in Grifton and set its October meeting (Oct. 18) for Farmville. The Farmville meeting will be a joint session with the Farmville Economic Council, Farmville's own industry-hunting and economic development organization. The FEC is supported by various citizens in Farmville. In voting to move its meeting site from place to place, the commissioners also agreed to cancel its regular August meeting. However, it left the way open for a called meeting during next month. The group meets regularly on each month's third Wednesday. In the past, the commission has met regularly in the Board of Directors Room at Wachovia Bank's main office in Greenville. Previous to that, the men gathered in the County Commissioners room in the Pitt Courthouse. In his regular report to the commission, Executive Director Dr. C. Sylvester Green reported a total of 339 industrial firms contacted since he assumed his post in January. A breakdown by months showed this: January—24 prospects; February—19; March—10; April—15; May—129; June—107; and July (to July 17)—35. Dr. Green attributed 213 of these contacts to leads gleaned from publications. Other sources, he said, were local references, railroads, files, plant location specialists, personal and the N. C. Department of Conservation and Development. Of the total, Dr. Green said, five are "select prospects." Twenty-nine more he described as "pending." He said, "I can only venture a guess as to Pitt County's chance with any of the five select prospects. One is a reasonable certainty for late Fall announcement. Another has a better-than-average chance of materializing in 60 days. The three others could 'break' any day, either way." Dr. Green also told the commissioners a new area of interest in developing in Pitt—agri-business. He said "certain local groups" in cooperation with state organizations have been investigating and cultivating ways in which new industries may be developed utilizing current and potential farm products. "Conspicuous among these is the flaking of sweet potatoes," he said.

Arrested Three In Speed Watch

Police today reported three speeders were arrested last night by officers operating the department's speed watch on East 10th St. between 6:30 and 10:30. Officers working the electrical speed checking device reported the speeds of the vehicles stopped as 44, 48 and 52 miles per hour, respectively. The speed limit where the speed watch was operated was 35-miles-per-hour, they added. A fourth motorist was arrested for having improper mufflers, the report added.

NEW AMBASSADOR WASHINGTON (AP)—Edward Drozniak called on President Kennedy Wednesday to present his credentials as the new ambassador of Poland and express a hope that Polish-American relations will keep on improving.

VOA Building Work Shapes Up

Structural steel, the skeleton of the transmitter building at Voice of America site "A" near Leggett's Crossroads, now appears on the skyline. Similar steel construction is also appearing at VOA site "B" near Shelmerdine. Within the 43,000 square feet of floor space in each of the buildings, some of the world's most powerful short wave transmitters with their associated mechanical power and control equipment will be housed. Included in the transmitter buildings will be three 500-kilowatt transmitters, three 250-kilowatt units, three 50-kilowatt transmitters, and two five-kilowatt sets. The exterior walls of the building will be of brick with aluminum wall panels. The tallest portion of the buildings will be used as an observation tower, from which personnel can view the entire tract of land on which the building sits, and assist in maintaining the antenna farms. There are approximately 2,600 cleared acres of land in each of the two transmitter sites. The tower will assist spotting any broken antenna elements which may result from storms by spotting damage with high powered optical equipment. All portions of the building steel are now being bonded and connected together and grounded electrically, including the reinforcing steel in the concrete roof decks, to ground rods 10 feet long inserted deep into the earth every five feet around the outside of the structure, and underneath the building, officials reported. The purpose of grounding the buildings is to protect them from the unusually high RF (radio frequency current) that will result from the five million watts of power. The anchoring devices are all the underground electrical and plumbing conduits and pipes, with portions of the floor being readied for completion so that installation of the equipment can begin. Work in the antenna fields is continuing also, with the placing of antenna tower bases and anchorage devices being installed. To date, approximately 500 such concrete and steel devices have been placed at site "A." The anchoring devices will provide support for the 400 steel towers which will hold a total of 93 antennas aloft. The towers, requiring some 3,000 tons of steel and more than 1,500 guy anchorages, will be arranged in a horseshoe-shaped pattern, and range in height from 50 to 375 feet. They are designed to beam their signals at a specific target area.

Tunisians Claim Bizerte Battle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS TUNIS (AP)—Radio Tunis said the French launched a coordinated attack by land, sea and air today against Tunisian barricades surrounding the French naval base at Bizerte. The broadcast reported the city of Bizerte badly damaged in the attacks and its water and electricity supplies cut. The French were silent on this latest report from the undeclared war aimed at forcing the French out of the big North African base. But President Habib Bourguiba mounted a diplomatic offensive to back up his civilian-military show of force. He took the case to the United Nations and broke diplomatic, but not consular relations with France over the issue, a bone of contention between France and its former protectorate long before violence broke out Wednesday. Tunisian troops and civilian volunteers resisted the French attack "heroically," the radio said, and they suffered numerous dead and wounded.

Arrest Two On Lottery Charges

Almost $400 was confiscated and two persons arrested on lottery charges yesterday following a raid by Greenville police. Officers said Elbert Wilson, 34, and Lillie May Wilson, 28, both of 409 Deck St., were charged with possession of lottery tickets for sale. Officers found "lottery tickets and paraphernalia used in the operation of lottery" after searching their home, the report said. Police also noted that $394 found in the house was confiscated.

Stokes Post Office Known 'Inadequate'

STOKES—The Post Office Department determined early this year that this community of approximately 200 people should have better local postal facilities. It all started back in October of last year when a visiting postal inspector told Postmaster James D. Glisson: "Something has to be done about this." The present building, used for years as the local post office, was deemed inadequate by around 550 square feet when postal authorities announced a new 800-square-foot structure would be built. The old office crowds lobby, office and working space into 256 square feet. Glisson says he heard no more from the authorities after the October visit until January when he received a letter from the regional office in Atlanta. The letter stated the department's intentions to expand the Stokes office. It asked Glisson to determine whether the owner of the present quarters would agree to enlarge and renovate the old office. Glisson says the owner considered it impractical to renovate the old building, built in the early 1900's. On top of that, the owner's space would not allow called-for expansion. As a result, Glisson says, he received a letter in late February from the regional office asking him to advertise at the local post office for bids from the public on new facilities for the mail operation. Three notices were posted at the post office for a 30-day period. The present post office serves a total of 150 adults who get their mail in lock boxes, Glisson says. In addition, mail for a total of 1,932 postal patrons on Stokes' 54-mile rural route goes through the office. A total of 78 lock boxes serve about 90 families. In addition, the office serves about 11 regular general delivery patrons. Glisson, who has been postmaster since Jan. 6, 1954, handles the office chores alone except during the "rush season" when Mrs. George C. Roebuck Sr. serves as postal clerk. Her husband, a veteran of 47 years with the Post Office Department, handles the 240-box rural route.

Downpour And Flood Sees 11 Dead In West Virginia

Will Consult On Buildup Planning

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States was expected today to begin immediate consultation with the Allied powers on President Kennedy's decision to reinforcing Allied military power to meet the Soviet threat over Berlin. Kennedy met with his top diplomatic and military advisers in a session of the National Security Council at the White House late Wednesday. Press secretary Pierre Salinger said after the meeting "there were decisions made." He said that the administration now enters into "the phase of consultation with our allies." Kennedy's specific decisions were not disclosed, but it is believed that he made a basic policy determination to increase the size of U.S. armed forces to meet the Berlin crisis. He made clear at his news conference Wednesday he considers the threat to be worldwide. Present U.S. regular Army and Marine Corps ground strength totals about 1,032,000, of which 856,000 is Army. In the reservoir of ground forces are about 399,000 national Guard troops, 300,000 trained Army reserves and 208,000 in the ready reserve of the Marine Corps. Administration officials had been saying privately for several weeks that the developing threats against Berlin by Soviet Premier Khrushchev provide the focal point of danger at present but that the peril to U.S. interest in such distant places as Southeast

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A sudden summer storm stalled over Charleston Wednesday night, turning streams into raging torrents that battered houses, trees and trailers into piles of rubbish. Eleven persons were confirmed dead. The number of missing, 20 at one time, dropped steadily during the forenoon. One of the dead, a boy about 6, was believed to be one of the four missing children of a single family. The others were feared dead. Small creeks that usually dry up in midsummer became roaring rivers that picked up buildings as if they were children's blocks and dashed them against each other. The storm in less than four hours dropped more than five inches of rain on the area. It came so suddenly that some persons still were in their homes as they were swept off their foundations. Mayor John Shanklin asked that the city be called a disaster area. Gov. W. W. Barron, roused from sleep at White Sulphur Springs, quickly conferred with top state officials on the emergency. Virtually all of the dead were drowning victims. One man stepped from his stalled car, was swept underneath it and drowned. Grimy search parties, soaked from head to toe, searched the shambles along the dozens of creeks for the storm's victims through the long night and morning hours. It was a job that would go through the day. Many areas still were not accessible. My God, man, there are houses up there in the middle of the street," yelled one rescue group to another at the height of the rampaging stream. "Don't get caught up there." That street, a few hours before, was a pleasant residential district lined with modest homes. Today it looked as if a sudden tornado had swept down the hollow. Charleston, a city of some 85,000, lies in the narrow valley of the Kanawha River, where it is joined by the Elk River. Its steep hills on every side provide one-sided funnels, as you would fold a piece of paper to pour water into a narrow-mouthed jar. The steepness of the hillsides quickly dumped the rainfall into the narrow troughs. The water built up force and its momentum swept everything in its path. Families by the twos and sixes straggled into hastily prepared shelter areas at the Salvation Army and Union Rescue Mission centers. The smell of hot coffee blended with the odor of wet blankets. A young girl, red-eyed with worry about the rest of her family, held a chubby child belonging to a neighbor on her lap. She was too numbed even to give her name. Her family later was found. No one would attempt to estimate the amount of damage. The storm, once over, moved away quickly. Bright skies greeted the beaten city at dawn, with only a few fluffy clouds overhead.

More Delays?

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A cyclonic disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico and a tropical storm in the Caribbean Sea delivered a one-two punch today to Virgil I. Grisom's hopes for a rocket into space. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration weather team reported today that the Gulf disturbance might ruin plans for a scheduled shot Friday at 6 a.m. And if that happens, tropical storm Anna may mess up Cape Canaveral weather next week and force further delays. It was a gloomy forecast that placed the prospects for a launch at no better than 50-50.

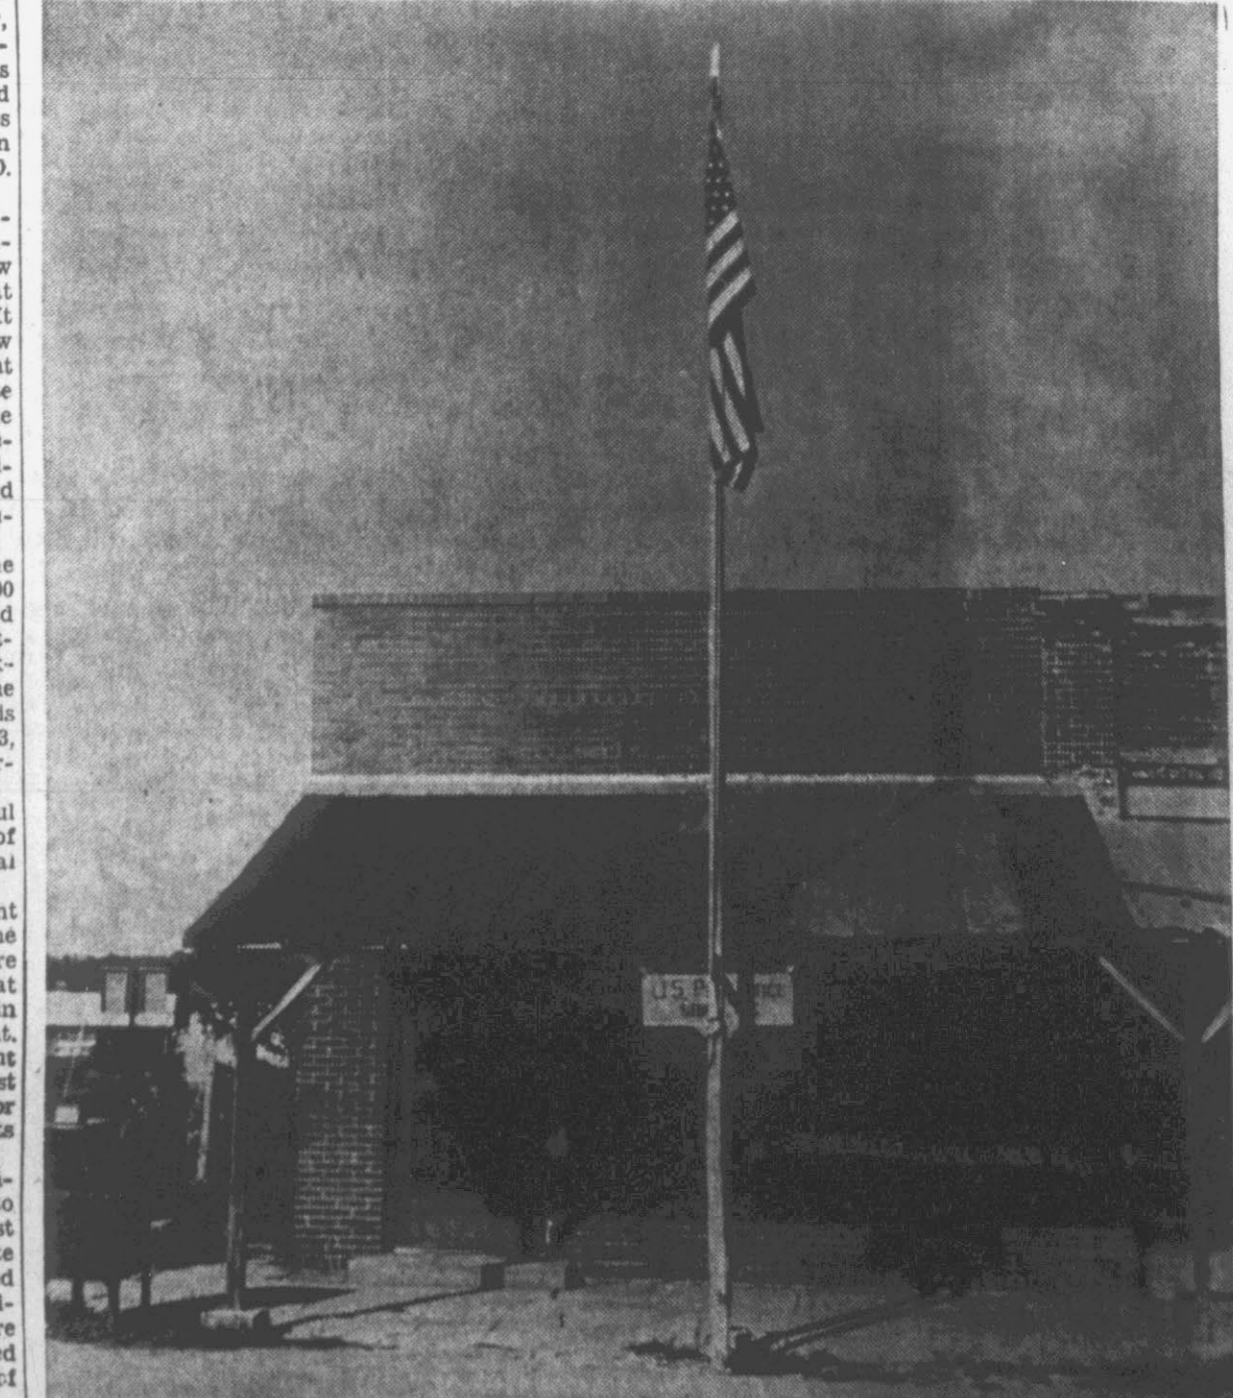

Contract For Stokes Post Office Never Consummated, Says Official

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer The Post Office Department's acting director for the Atlanta Region told the Daily Reflector yesterday that a contract for construction of a new post office at Stokes "never was consummated." J. W. Askew, acting regional director said, "We just decided not to go ahead with it and the contract was not completed." Askew made the statement when questioned about an announcement from the Atlanta office early in May that said a new, 800-square-foot post office would be built. The press release, accompanied by a letter, reported that the successful bidder was W. F. Roebuck of Stokes. The announcement was mailed to Stokes Postmaster James D. Glisson. The cover letter, signed by C. B. Gladden, identified as assistant to the regional director, asked Glisson to release the announcement through various news media immediately. Glisson posted the announcement in the Stokes office. It was also published in two newspapers on May 9 and 10. Announcement Attributed to Postmaster General J. Edward Day, the announcement said plans for a new air conditioned post office at Stokes had been announced. It quoted Day as saying: "The new building will implement President Kennedy's program to stimulate the economy and at the same time carry out the Post Office Department's objective of more efficient postal service and improved working conditions for postal employees." It further stated that the planned facility would occupy 600 square feet of interior space and provide an outside loading platform, and ample space for parking and truck maneuvering. The announcement said: "This site is on North Carolina Highway 963, two blocks east of present quarters." It concluded: "The successful bidder was W. F. Roebuck of Stokes for a five-year rental agreement. According to Roebuck, president of the Board of Directors of the Carolina Township Volunteer Fire Department headquartered at Stokes, the bid was submitted in behalf of the fire department. Roebuck said the fire department intended to incorporate the post office quarters with housing for the fire department and its equipment. Roebuck said it was the intention of the fire department to complete construction of the post office by Sept. 1 and complete the remainder of the planned structure "as money became available." However, he said, the fire department has not been notified by the Post Office Department of formal acceptance of the bid. Reasons For Delay Askew said yesterday there were two reasons why the contract was not completed: 1. He said that he discovered that no postal representative had visited Stokes to inspect the sites prior to the May 8 announcement from his office. "The announcement should not have been released," he said. 2. He said he also discovered that there were "I think at least two people" in Stokes who were "expecting a visit" from a postal representative regarding the submitting of bids. "That's what got me concerned about it," Askew said. The new planned Stokes facility was advertised for bids in late February when Postmaster Glisson received communications from the Atlanta office instructing him to post public notices of advertisement for a 30-day period. Glisson posted three of the notices in the Stokes office for the requested 30-day period that ended in late March. According to Roebuck, three bids were submitted during the 30-day period and then returned by the Post Office Department to the bidders for stipulated adjustments. The fire department bid, he said, was revised as requested and resubmitted. Sources in Stokes say the other two bids were not resubmitted. After the May 8 announcement that the fire department's bid was the successful one, Roebuck said in an interview Tuesday, the department felt assured it would be awarded the contract. "Although we are opposed to any rebidding," Roebuck said, "it is the intention of the fire department to bid again if the Post Office Department readvised for bids." Real Estate Officer However, on May 22, the Daily Reflector reported an interview with Marvin W. Clem, real estate officer for the Post Office Department's Charlotte Region. Clem stated his opinion that bidding on the proposed post office would "start all over." Clem told the Reflector that the announcement of the successful bidder from the Atlanta office was premature. "It's my guess that they will again advertise for bids." The real estate officer said he visited Stokes after the announcement to talk to a group "that felt like they had not had due consideration." He continued: "The matter will be handled by correspondence through the Atlanta office." (Continued on page sixteen)

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

Last week the propagation of plants by using cuttings was discussed. This week another method of propagation will be gone into.

Layering is the technique of rooting shoots while still attached to parent plant. This method is less chancy than the cutting method but you won't be able to root as many plants. This method is also used on hard-to-root cuttings.

It is accomplished by bending the branch of a plant to the ground and covering the portion about five to 10 inches from tip with soil. The area in which the tip will root should be prepared by working some sand and peat moss into soil. Before covering the branch with soil, remove a small ring of bark (1 inch) from the part of stem to be covered. You can do this or just cut into stem about half way through. Either way is all right. Treat wounded or girdled area with Rootone. Hold layer in place with a piece of heavy wire or old fashion clothespin. Then cover with soil. You might plunge a four-inch clay pot in the soil and place layer so that roots will grow in pot. However, some way of holding layer in pot must be devised. Wire or clothespin might be put on either side of pot to hold layer in place. The layer must remain fixed until it roots. Then it is cut away from parent plant.

Plants that could be used in the layering method are those that grow almost horizontal with ground. You might try trailing gardenias, azaleas, magnolias, some types of roses, dogwood, Forsythia, spirea, hydrangeas, and aucuba.

After cutting layer from parent plant it can be potted or planted where you want it to grow. Those that root in clay pot or containers can remain in containers and develop a heavy root system and be planted out the next season which makes for a stronger plant. Magnolias and some other evergreens rooted by this method may have to remain on parent plant several years before cutting off. Air layering is another method along this line that may be employed. Pick a healthy branch about one fourth or one half inches thick—about 8 to 20 inches from tip (according to plant used). Remove all leaves and twigs for a distance of six inches. Either cut about one third of diameter into stem or remove a small ring of bark. Apply root hormones to wounded area. Use a toothpick to do this—a small amount of powder is all you need. Wrap a handful of moist sphagnum moss around wound. Then wrap moist moss with polyethylene film. Edges of film are folded tightly together and ends of ball tied firmly with twine or rubber bands. You can air layer dogwoods, holly, magnolia and camellias—Japonica and Sasanguas. Rubber plant, oleander and dracaena can also be rooted this way. When roots appear, cut off stem below ball and plant in soil.

Best Left Out Of Federal Hands

Although President Kennedy's aid to education bill may not be officially dead until the current session of Congress adjourns, action this week by the House Rules Committee virtually blocks any possibility that the vast school-aid proposals will be written into law.

The action of the Rules Committee, we think, will afford citizens of the various states an opportunity to re-evaluate the question of federal aid to education and to inform their representatives in Congress of their feeling. It will, we trust, provide an opportunity for a more realistic look at the matter of injecting the federal government into the state-operated school programs and also thrusting upon the federal government a large portion of the responsibility for financing state school systems.

There are few people who question the fact that considerably more money could be spent wisely for public education in the United States. The need for more classrooms, more schools, more teachers and a better of public education is generally recognized.

There are many, however, including The Reflector, who seriously question the wisdom of seeking to fill these needs through a gigantic program of federal aid to education. In spite of the obvious needs of our educational program, it has been and continues to be our feeling that the states can in time meet these needs if they will. Over the long run the public education system of the nation will better serve the people and fill the needs of the youngsters if the system remains in the hands and under the control of the state governments.

From the financial point of view it will be no more costly to the people of the nation as a whole to meet their educational needs through additional millions or billions in state or county funds than a similar amount of federal funds pumped into the educational system. There would be less depletion of tax dollars from taxpayer to school buildings under state programs for education than under any federal aid to education program. And after all the taxpayers will pay the bill either way.

Some federal funds already are moving into the school systems of the states in various forms. In spite of this, however, it appears wise to draw the line on such federal aid to education where it is rather than to greatly expand the program. Whatever else is needed should be, as it has in the past, the obligation of the people of the individual states and the state governments themselves. This policy in the long run will produce better school systems throughout the nation, and will produce them on a sounder financial basis than possibly can be achieved through instituting a gigantic federal program for financing public schools.

Little Conflict Over Two Fairs

By LYNN NISBET

services installed by Carolina.

TWO FAIRS — There isn't much conflict and there has been less confusion so far than had been feared between the North Carolina State Fair at Raleigh and the North Carolina Trade Fair at Charlotte.

The State Fair is a permanent institution, an important function of the Agriculture Department for many years. Traditionally it is held on the third week in October, and nearly a year ago the dates for the 1961 fair were fixed for October 16-21.

Some months later the industrial promotion section of the CD department conceived the idea of an "International Trade Fair" at Charlotte, the name of which was later changed to "North Carolina Trade Fair." The dates selected were October 12-21, which means the Trade Fair will be going on throughout the entire period of the State Fair.

President Kennedy has been invited to the Trade Fair. If he accepts the invitation, chances are most State officials and other prominent folk who have attended and helped promote the State Fair will switch interest and attention to Charlotte.

Visitors to the Trade Fair are expected to be mostly business men, many of them from foreign countries. Visitors to the State Fair will be mostly North Carolinians, seeking entertainment and information. For that reason there is no serious direct conflict. There are a few instances where manufacturers of farm and home labor-saving machinery will have to choose which place to exhibit.

With so much going on all the time in North Carolina it is impossible to schedule events without conflict. It is unfortunate that two expositions of such importance should have such similar names and be staged at the same time.

OCRACOKE — Ocraoke not only has moved out of inaccessible isolation, but the island and village are getting nationwide publicity about the fact. Greatly improved ferry service to and from the mainland has made it lots easier to get to Ocraoke. And complete telephone service established several years ago is now being publicized.

Each month for several years the Association of Independent Telephone Companies has underwritten national advertising promoting areas served by the independents. The Carolina Telephone Company with headquarters at Tarboro is one of the biggest of the independents. A full page advertisement in the Saturday Evening Post next week (issue of July 29) features the connection of Ocraoke with the outside world through telephone

Much To Commend In Choice Of Langston

The selection of former Chief of Police Guy Langston to succeed Chief S. G. Gibbs who recently resigned as head of the Greenville Police Department is, we believe, a good choice.

During the period in which he was head of the Police Department of Greenville from 1950 until 1952, Chief Langston operated an efficient and well-run department. His background in law enforcement administration, both as Greenville Chief of Police and in other posts afford him qualifications which should stand him and the city in good stead as he begins his new duties.

The task of heading a police department in a city the size of Greenville is not an easy one, and neither is it easy to find qualified men for such an assignment. Greenville has been fortunate in past years in having an excellent police department, and on the basis of Chief Langston's past record in law enforcement work we feel the local police department under his guidance and direction will continue to serve the community with the highest calibre law enforcement work.

A Lot Of Talk In Weeks Ahead

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — So far it's just some more conversation between two hard-of-hearing people trying to tell each other what they told each other before.

All in a few days the Western Allies, answering Premier Khrushchev's threat to get them out of Berlin, told him he was endangering the peace and a Moscow Radio replied that in doing this they were "abetting forces" trying for war.

No hits, no runs, no errors. If this is confusing to anyone it's only because he forgets he was asked it all once before as the following series of parallel events the last time and now, will show.

On Nov. 25, 1958 Khrushchev demanded the West get out of Berlin. President Eisenhower wouldn't hear of it. And on Dec. 31 the Western Allies sent a Russian note saying so since both sides in this dispute dress themselves in their Sunday clothes to let their best in the eyes of everybody.

There may be critical days ahead—toward the end of the year when Khrushchev's six-months' deadline for a Berlin settlement ends—but meanwhile there should be some bewildering gable-gabble.

The Western foreign ministers agreed this was announced Tuesday to meet to talk the whole thing over.

Since so far everything that has happened is a duplicate of what happened before, it doesn't need much imagination to suggest there will be some more duplicates.

For instance, the Western foreign ministers met with Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko starting May 11, 1959. The West offered a Berlin plan which the Russian rejected and he offered one which the West turned down.

So after meeting from May 11 till August 5 the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and Russia, having gotten nowhere, decided to quit.

Meanwhile there will almost surely be more notes exchanged—and more propaganda—since both sides in this dispute dress themselves in their Sunday clothes to let their best in the eyes of everybody.

There may be critical days ahead—toward the end of the year when Khrushchev's six-months' deadline for a Berlin settlement ends—but meanwhile there should be some bewildering gable-gabble.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS RESPONDING TO THE WIND John the Baptist has always been known as the Forerunner of Jesus.

In a statement made at the beginning of his ministry Jesus gave his estimate of this rugged character, John. "What went ye out into the wilderness to see?" he asked. "A reed shaken with the wind?" Verily I say unto you, among them that are born of woman there hath not arisen a greater than John the Baptist." (Matt. 11:7-11).

"A reed shaken with the wind." What a striking figure. John was as immovable as a granite mountain. He took his stand on what he believed to be right and went to his death defending the right.

There has always existed the reed-shaking type of person. He responds tremulously to every passing zephyr. He is tremulous because of fear and also because he wants to adjust himself to every passing fancy and opinion.

Society is stabilized by the John-the-Baptist type of person. No matter what our position in life may be, we are constantly tempted to compromise, to do as our neighbors and associates do, to fulfill the requirements of popularity. Such people are reeds shaken with the wind.

Theodore Roosevelt once wrote about the difficulty of nailing cranberry jelly to the wall. The reed-type of person is an affliction to himself, to his community, and a despised betrayer of the human race. He never knows where he stands, nor does anybody else.

Such a person in every age is a misfortune—especially to himself.

It's Not That We Love Them More—

-BUT IT'S ALWAYS BEEN THE PRODIGALS WHO GET THE FATTED CALF!

By HENRY HOWARD

A Backporch Marauder

It was Tuesday afternoon about five o'clock when we first became aware that a night marauder was plaguing our backyard and porch.

We discovered this while inspecting several ears of green corn that had been left in the shuck from the day before. Our plan on Tuesday afternoon was to shuck the corn and maybe boil it on-the-cob or something for supper.

It was, we thought, a good plan. But to our dismay, those tender, green ears had been pretty badly mutilated by our little night marauder.

Those who enjoy corn-on-the-cob as much as we do during this time of the year can most likely sympathize with the feelings we suddenly experienced upon finding our corn ruined.

The very first thought, then, was to avenge this brazen act . . . or, at least, to prevent a repeat performance.

So we set ourselves to the task. And in a half-hour or so we had decided our corn-eating night visitor most likely would have to be a racoon. With this decision, we quite boldly labeled the prospective villain a coon and began to devise a plan.

Within the hour, the die was cast. Our plan to save any future corn had been perfected and all its details carried out.

We had, through a brief but intensive scouting job, discovered the route followed by the coon from his woods into our backyard and ears of corn. At first we had discussed various means that would serve to bring to an abrupt halt any further such shenanigans by le coon.

What crystallized, though, was much more metallic than crystal. We dug out an old steel trap and placed it strategically in coon's discovered path, baiting the same spot with a nice, fresh ear of corn. Then we were ready for nightfall and the night prowler.

But, as ready as we were, somehow it seemed rather off-beat to us. After all, we said, there probably ain't no coons in the city anyhow. And even if they are a dime a dozen, we ain't trappers and couldn't catch one.

It was in this mood of abandonment of a well-laid plan that we drifted away from the scene for a couple of hours. And during those hours, thoughts of coons and things like that were farthest away.

Still, the idea of suddenly becoming an amateur trapper on the spur of the moment like that was slightly intriguing, so, upon our return, it vaguely occurred to us that we "better check the traps, just in case."

It was near midnight when we dug up the old flashlight and trudged out back to throw a beam down where the trap had been set.

Amazement won't quite describe our feelings when we saw two twitchy coon ears loom into the spot of light. "We caught him," somebody said.

That we did. Catch him, that is. But somehow, it just wasn't any fun then. Granted, ole coon wouldn't be thieving any more corn from the back porch. But he was such a handsome young fellow.

And, anyway, there's always plenty of corn around here this time of year. We had the feeling it would be sorta lonesome for a while without our night prowler.

Opinions In Brief

"Probably the most frightened in the whole Berlin crisis is Mr. Khrushchev himself. His desire for a German settlement is becoming desperate. The Communist regime in East Germany has palpably failed. Every year a quarter of a million refugees leave East Germany seeking material and spiritual freedom in the West." — The Yorkshire (Gr. Britain) Post.

Other Editors Sayings . . . Revolt In Newburgh

(The Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune) Newburgh, N.Y., a town of 30,000 people on the Hudson River between New York City and Albany, has been summoned to the state capitol to defend itself against charges of inhumanity.

Last month Newburgh decreed that women who were drawing relief for the support of one or more illegitimate children would be deprived of aid if they insisted on having still more illegitimate children. The town would also limit all welfare recipients, except the aged, blind and disabled, to three months relief a year, set up work programs for able-bodied men on relief, and limit the handouts to the amount of money earned by the lowest paid city employee with an equal number of dependents.

All this has caused "liberals" in the East to denounce Newburgh for its cruelty. The ban against indefinite subsidy for breeders of fatherless children has been decried as a "crime against innocent babies." Now, of course, discouraging a woman from producing illegitimate children so that she may drink up the aid allowance is no crime against babies. Such a woman is no mother. Of course, the babies shouldn't be punished. They should promptly be put into orphanages or let out to adoption in decent homes. But who really thinks that sweet charity demands that hard-working taxpayers indefinitely support immoral women and their idle lovers?

And what is so evil about a community requiring able-bodied men on the public dole to give some return back by cutting the state capitol to defend itself against charges of inhumanity?

The plain, cold fact is that the welfare state has proceeded to the point in this country where we are beginning to have a class of professional, life-long leeches. They are devoid of ambition or even good intentions. They contribute overmuch to crime. They shirk work and have even arrogantly organized their own lobbies to insure their perpetual care.

To encourage these drones is to recruit for them, to swell their numbers, and to promote irresponsibility. And to increase the production of hapless children from the lowest class of parentage to be brought up under conditions of immorality and filth is not going to add to the happiness of any community, either.

Horror for Newburgh! It has merely had courage to recognize an obvious fact: If you cultivate the weeds they'll choke out the wheat.

more than $8,999 a year and less than $20,000 could theoretically command a vast advertising revenue. That's the "buy" group of America. But while some publications have approached that specialized appeal, such as McCall's, the Journal and Life, there are still many gaps. Some $15,000 families go for boats, some for shoes.

Diversity is a characteristic of this income group. That makes it tough for magazine editors. When they attempt to appeal to every interest in that income bracket, they may find that they are appealing to none. Remember Colliers? The Woman's Home Companion? The American Magazine?

Since no one magazine can monopolize an income bracket, why do a few go up and, as at present, many go down?

Advertising is one factor. Advertisers and their agencies determine the life and death of magazines. This determination is not editorial. No advertiser pulled out of Coronet because he did not like the editorial policy. Few substantial companies will buy ads in "The Birch Beer" because they support the Birch society. Advertising is almost entirely dollars and cents; never dollars and sense. The typical advertiser would advertise in "The Worker" if that sold his diamond tiaras; he would not advertise in "Fortune" if his space wouldn't sell a jewel.

So the reason Coronet will have its head cut out from under it is simply that it did not sell tiaras — or baked beans, cummerbunds, Madras shirts, depilatories or whatever it is that Coronet carries ads for. If advertisements in that charming publication would sell Boysenberry jam, Smithfield hams, Stanley Steamers, AT&T stock, Peugots, dill pickles and eye-patches, it would not be folding today. Advertising, apparently one of the most emotional of the arts, is completely unemotional. If the Hobo News can bring in $1,000,000 worth of auto sales when

Dispute Involves Prayer

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

There has been quite an excitement over the question as to whether children in public school may be required or even permitted to pray. The Board of Regents of the State of New York had worked out a non-sectarian prayer. A group of parents objected to prayers of any kind and brought suit. Their grounds were that by having a prayer sponsoring religion. It made it an offense to advocate religion in a school building but not to advocate party politics.

Mind, the state was not accused of sponsoring a particular religion but any kind of religion. What the parents had in mind was the highly advertised slogan about the separation of church and state. It is presumed that the Constitution of the United States discusses this profound subject. Yet one may search word by word, letter by letter, and he will find not one word in the Constitution about separation of church and state or anything forbidding prayers in school, or the singing of Christmas or Chanuka hymns, or for that matter the reading of a Hindu sutra.

As Associate Judge Charles W. Frossell, who is a top man among Masons, said about calling daily prayers unconstitutional that it is stretching "the so-called separation of church and state doctrine beyond reason."

But then there are many who call themselves rationalists who offer go beyond reason in matters of religion. They fear beyond words that a child may grow up to know God, or Moses or Jesus, or Micah, but they have no fear of Karl Marx or Frederick Engels or even Stalin. Some persons, these days, are so secular that they worry lest their children discover that Man has had a long history and that history did not start in 1933.

Associate Judge Murray R. Dye called the prayer "a form of state-sponsored religious education." How the learned Judge reached this conclusion, it is difficult to understand, particularly as he makes the point that the use of the prayer overstepped "a clearly defined line of demarcation between church and state."

If the line is so clearly demarcated, how come that cases are constantly being brought in the courts on the issue? How is it that there is such a difference of opinion on the subject, so that when a decision is handed down, there is such a division of opinion among the judges? In a word, Judge Dye's "defined line of demarcation" is not yet a defined line. It is very shaky line about which too many lawyers are quarreling. It is an issue which will never be solved because too many emotions are aroused by the very mention of the subject.

In the United States, religious groupings are as intense as nationalistic groupings are in Europe. Furthermore, the competitive nature of American society expresses itself in religious movements as in all else. Public relations methods are used to keep adherents in active membership and there is a constant effort to increase membership by propaganda. All religions and sects engage in this activity, even advertising in newspapers and bringing their quarrels out into the open.

During the Roosevelt regime, the trend in all things became liberal and many liberals moved over into Communism. This was true among the clergy as it was of professors and students in universities, and every once in a while, it was shocking to discover a clergyman supporting and defending a doctrine which is atheistic in its essence, and a party which has made atheism part of its creed. This dichotomy was often explained but it was never understandable.

However, since those days, this trend has lessened, as has the trend to bring sects together into co-operative efforts. Today, each religious group makes its strongest appeal to its own kind to keep it distinct, separate, and segregated. The assimilationist is not as popular as he was when Hitler stirred men's consciences. Today, each group prefers to stand alone and brooks no interference. (Continued on page five)

Thirty-Five Special Agents Guarding The President

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Thirty-five men around the President constantly turn their backs on him—and get away with it.

These aren't ordinary men. They watch the people who watch the President. Carefully picked, rigorously trained, they are Secret Service agents responsible for the life and safety of the chief executive and his family.

What is a typical agent like? What tempts him into a job that keeps him away from home a lot, costs him money out of his own pocket for expenses, and expects him to put his own life on the line, if need be, to protect the man in the White House?

U. E. Baughman, chief of the U.S. Secret Service, took a reporter in tow, looked around, spotted Charles Hall as a rather typical agent, and even started the interviewing himself. Since Baughman doesn't want names and pictures of his agents printed widely, the name is fiction but the initials are right.

Hall is a well-knit chap with close-cropped, curly brown hair. He carries 185 pounds on a 5-foot-11 frame—and a 38 revolver on his left hip. He looks as if he could have turned in a pretty fair performance as a halfback in college. But he was an end instead, at Concordia College in western Minnesota.

"How old are you?" the chief asked.

"Twenty-nine."

"Married?"

Yes, and he has a son 4½ and another baby due in October. He rents a semidetached house in the suburbs.

Never while he is on duty is Hall without that gun on his hip. The matter of evening clothes points up a problem. Since Secret Service agents accompany the President and Mrs. Kennedy everywhere they go in public, to all sorts of official and social functions, they need a varied wardrobe. It's a uniform in effect, but they get no clothing allowance.

Hall invested $85 in a tuxedo. When he has to turn out in white and tails, for state dinners or receptions, for example, he rents them for $12.50 an evening—$12.50 of his own money.

When the First Family goes out of town, to Middleburg, Va., New York, Palm Beach, Cape Cod, Hall goes along. But he and the other agents don't live in the style of a president. They can't afford it, not on $22 a day to cover room, food, laundry, odds and ends—everything but transportation.

Hall is in Civil Service Grade 10. That pays $6,995 a year. In October he will have been in the SS three years and should go up to Grade 11 and $7,560. In time he might work up to $14,000 or $15,000 a year.

The job has rewards for Hall even though he must be away from his wife and son frequently. "Partly," he said, "it's the wide experience you get and the type and variety of people you meet.

"You get a lot of satisfaction out of knowing the First Family appreciates the protection you give them. You sense it even when they don't come right out and say so."

What are his orders if somebody tries to attack the President or one of the family?

"I would automatically respond and protect them at all costs, no matter what the cost to myself might be.

"One of the understandings we have is that we'd give our lives if necessary. We aren't told that. It's just one of the things we understand when we get the job."

Regardless of that unwritten requirement, there are men lined up waiting to get into the SS.

"We don't have to go out recruiting," Chief Baughman said. A few agents at the White House have fixed assignments—Most of them are assigned to the with Mrs. Kennedy or with President and are split up into daughter Caroline, for example three eight-hour shifts.

Favor Measure Of New Unity

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Representatives of eight Southern states were on record today endorsing a new movement for unity on racial issues and economic.

They plan another meeting within 60 days in Montgomery, Ala., to formally launch Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett's Safe Southern Action for Economy.

Two Negro pickets were arrested outside the meeting site.

Afterwards, Barnett told newsmen that the program would not compete with the long-established Southern Governors Conference, which meets this fall in Nashville, Tenn.

"The Southern Governors Conference only meets once a year and doesn't take up things that are controversial," said Barnett. "We feel this should be a separate program."

Earlier, Barnett said he did not want any Southern officials who are "timid and lukewarm" to participate in SAFE.

Attending the session were Govs. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina and John Patterson of Alabama. Florida, Georgia, Kentucky and Louisiana sent representatives.

Barnett's proposals were:

1. Expansion of the South's economic position.
2. Expansion of trade with Latin America.
3. Expansion and research.
4. Improvement of the South's position in its battle for the right of self-determination and for preservation of constitutional government.

Began Shooting In City Hospital

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A former mental patient grabbed a policeman's revolver and began shooting at 15 persons in the receiving room of City Hospital No. 2 today.

Two policemen were wounded and the gunman was killed in a running gun fight with another officer.

Police said the dead man, Richard Shackelford, about 26, was identified by a relative as a former mental patient. The relative didn't know why Shackelford was at the hospital.

Cpl. Raymond Oberlin, 45, shot in the groin, was reported in critical condition. Patrolman Virgil Page, 51, was wounded in a leg.

At least four policemen were among the 15 persons in the receiving room of the North St. Louis Hospital when the shooting began at 12:30 a.m.

Patrolman Earl Marshall and Roland Williams, 31, were sitting at desks writing reports on persons they had brought to the hospital.

Police said Shackelford suddenly jumped up from a seat, snatched Marshall's revolver from its holster, ran to the outer door, turned and began firing wildly.

Page and Oberlin were hit and went down.

Shackelford ran outside and Williams pursued him. The officer fired five times with his revolver and Shackelford fell dead.

Hospital attendants said they didn't know why the man apparently went berserk.

The atheist has also been active, fighting for his cause. He is always the spearhead in a battle against such evidences of religion as prayers in schools. He opposes prayers per se as opiates. We shall have to make up our minds: whether our moral sanctions are to be determined by religious creeds or by atheism and rationalism. The atheists may be forcing the issue.

INCORPORATED

BY JOHN CREASEY A MATTER OF LIFE AND DEATH

CHAPTER 17

"Jameson, Jimmy Vance, knew any one of them might be involved," Adam Bell told Rollison. "All I know is that my life's in danger, that I've got to hide. I've been shot at; I've been within inches of death by being pushed into the road. In New York, I was almost pushed in front of a subway train. I've been a—oh, a—oh, terror, Rollison."

Bell stared at him. "You're in danger," he said. "I do mean exactly that, and there was the reflection of terror in his eyes."

"I'll believe it when I know why you're in danger," said Rollison. "You've got to tell me."

"I can't tell you," Bell said. "I don't know. I do know that it began after a quarrel with Paul Vance over Jimmy. Once, I thought that Jimmy was behind it; I've suspected Paul; I've suspected Jameson, for that matter. I've suspected nearly everyone."

"Except Griselda Vance," Rollison said abruptly.

"If you knew her—"

"Listen, Adam," Rollison said more gently. "You say your life's in danger, but you don't know who's responsible. So you can't trust anyone, not even Griselda Vance."

"I think I can."

"It's your risk. Now take the next logical step, though. The police are after you. The killers are after you. You're in danger from both." Rollison paused. "There's an easy way to halve the risk."

Bell stared. "How?"

"Give yourself up to the police. At worst you'd be charged and remanded. The remand could be repeated, we could stall for weeks while the police were looking for the killer, and while I'm keeping my eyes open too."

Bell said slowly, bitterly: "They'd hang me. Can't you see what's happened? Jimmy Vance was killed and I was framed. It's another form of the attack on me. I wouldn't have a chance."

Rollison moved away slowly. It was difficult to feel sure about Bell's mood; about his innocence. If Paul Vance was right, then Bell had a strong motive for Jimmy Vance's murder; and if anything seemed certain, it was Bell's devotion to Griselda Vance.

Rollison said: "The longer you hide from the police, the stronger the circumstantial evidence you realize that?"

"A stubborn mule like you would almost deserve it," Rollison said roughly. "Adam, what game are you playing? What makes it worth being on the run? What are you looking for?"

Bell said: "I want to find out who's gunning for me. I want to catch one of the swine. I want to make him talk."

"I'll do the catching, while you're safe in jail," Rollison urged. "This way you're simply asking for trouble, and—"

He broke off.

Something in his expression made Adam Bell catch his breath. There was a complete change of atmosphere; the tension was no longer between them; they joined forces against a new element, a threat which came from outside.

Rollison looked towards the door and there was a sound, quiet but unmistakable; then, silence. Bell breathing quickened, and his hand dropped to his pocket.

To a gun?

Rollison breathed: "You expected someone to follow you here didn't you?"

"I'll get him," Adam Bell breathed. "I'll find out why —"

He didn't finish.

The door was flung open from outside and Rollison moved, at one and the same time, in the doorway, gun in hand, was a big man. His hat was pulled low over his face and a raincoat collar was turned up.

Rollison leapt at him as he fired at Adam Bell.

Enter Adam Bell, exit Adam Bell. The story reaches a dramatic climax tomorrow. . . .

Busy Contemplating A Meal Served To Mouse

By BOB THOMAS

PARIS (AP)—There they were, Gene Kelly and Jackie Gleason, locked in deep contemplation. They were pondering a scene in "Gigot," in which Kelly is directing Gleason. The set was the hovel of the Parisian hobo, played by the comic. The problem was how to prepare a table to serve another resident of the place, a mouse.

"I think he should take this rag and wrap it around the bottle, like this," Gleason said, gesturing with a flourish.

"Too broad," Kelly commented. "It'll be a smash" Gleason insisted. "Even Mickey Mouse would want to come to a dinner like this."

Kelly suddenly grinned. "Imagine—two grown men trying to figure out how to serve dinner to a mouse!"

That is just one of the inanities concerning this film. The idea was dreamed up by Gleason. If it succeeds, it will be because of an odd wedding of talents—the precise, ballet-minded Kelly and the difficult-to-harness Gleason.

"How are they getting along?" "Just great," said Kelly. "One thing I can't understand: Why is it that every reporter tries to work up a feud between us?"

"Yeah, what's the matter with you guys?" Gleason growled.

"I suppose feuds make news," Kelly said resignedly.

"Why should they?" Gleason demanded. "Why couldn't they print: 'Jackie Gleason loves Gene Kelly'?"

"Nobody would believe it," said Kelly. "I've got a great idea. One of these days when a reporter is on the set, we'll stage a real shouting match. That'll give 'em something to write about."

"Great," said Gleason, enthusiastically. "I'll tell them all about you. How you were such a lousy dancer that Rita Hayworth had to make you look good in those old (accent on the old) pictures."

"Thanks, pal, I can say a few things about you, too," Kelly said.

But their enthusiasm waned, and they returned to their original problem.

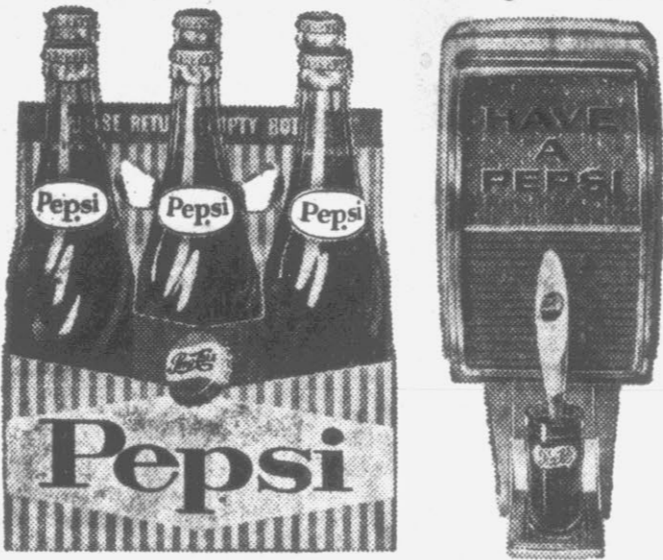

"Now if I could set the napkin here and wait for the mouse to come out," said Gleason.

"Imagine," Kelly sighed. "Two grown men . . ."

Fishing Roundup

MOREHEAD CITY — Mid-Summer fishing ranged from dull to good throughout Carteret last weekend. Offshore here, the summer kings were still plentiful. Capt. George Bedsworth's "Dolphin" brought in 49 kings, Capt. Jack Lewis' Dolphin II had 46; Capt. Willis Bedsworth had 45 on the Gulf Breeze; and Capt. Bobby Ballou's Dolphin IV had a sailfish. Sound fishing was dull, except for sheepshead. Ellis Wetherington and party, of Kingston, caught 25, up to 10 pounds each, at the railroad bridge.

Dodgers Back In Business Today

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer The Los Angeles Dodgers are back in business in that National League race, and all it took was a pair of four-run innings and Johnny Podres' first complete game at Cincinnati in four years. Those two big innings, plus Podres' nine-hit pitching, gave the second-place Dodgers an 8-3 victory in the opener of a two-game showdown series at Cincinnati Wednesday night and shaved the Reds' National League lead to 2 1/2 games with their fourth straight loss.

Tigers Blow Chance To Pass New York'

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer Memo to the Washington Senators: No, no You guys got it wrong. The New York Yankees are supposed to murder YOU! Well, the Senators are 5-5 for the season against New York after making off with an 8-4 and 12-2 sweep Wednesday night that left the Yanks holding first place by only three percentage points. The Detroit Tigers—the only outfit that's done better (6-5) against New York—blew a chance to pass the Yankees, losing 4-2 to the third-place Baltimore Orioles. Cleveland took two from Boston, 4-1 and 9-8; the Chicago White Sox beat Kansas City 6-5, the Los Angeles Angels took eighth place from Minnesota by beating the Twins 2-1 after losing the opener of the two-night doubleheader 6-0.

Indians Leading Carolina League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS An eighth-inning grand slam home run gave Burlington a 12-9 victory over Greensboro Wednesday night, and kept the Indians in the Carolina League lead. The clubs knotted for second, just half a game back, also won. Raleigh whipped Durham 8-4 and Winston-Salem rolled over Wilson 9-3. Wayne Newberry swung the big bat that gave Burlington its triumph. The Tribe was behind, 9-7, in the five-run eighth frame. Three walks in a row by relief pitcher Dale Zeigler set the stage for Newberry's grand sweep homer. Twenty-eight hits filled the air in the Raleigh-Durham contest. The Caps got three quick runs in the first inning, and never fell behind after that. The only homer was Grimm Mason's inside the park drive for Raleigh in the eighth. Pitcher Jim Roland of Wilson, held Winston-Salem to only one hit until the sixth inning. In the seventh, he Roland twisted his knee and ankle rushing in to field a bunt, and had to be taken to the hospital. Reliever Tom Trammel was charged with the loss, as Winston-Salem poured on the late inning scoring. The games tonight: Wilson at Winston-Salem, Raleigh at Durham, Greensboro at Burlington.

U.S. Track Team Goes To London

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—With the hospital list growing by leaps and bounds, the battle-weary United States track team headed for London today and a two-day meet with Britain Friday and Saturday. Coach Jumbo Jim Elliott's squad wound up winners 14-6 in events and 120-91 in points, over West Germany here Wednesday with two additions to the sick bay squad—miler Jim Greile and javelin thrower John Fromm. The U.S. women's team may have lost its ace—Wilma Rudolph, who complained of a pain in her right leg after flashing to a world record of 11.2 seconds in a special 100-meter race during the men's meet Wednesday night. Wilma shares the listed mark of 11.3 with two others. Her injury is a pull in the hamstring muscle but team physician, Dr. Dan Hanley, said he thought she would be able to compete in the remaining two meets. Greile, who was scheduled to run the 1,500 meters against West Germany, had a sore throat, and Fromm complained of a muscle pull. Both were scratched. Paul Drayton, No. 2 sprinter, was kept out of the West German meet because of a muscle pull. Pole vaulter John Uelses is getting over a leg infection. Against the West Germans, it looked as though the upset of the year was in the making, especially when Manfred Gernmar beat Frank Budd in a 20.7 for the 200-meter title.

ATLANTIC BEACH — Breezy weather and choppy seas over the weekend slowed the number of fishermen aboard the headboats Carolina Queen and Danco, but the best snapper fishing in years continued. Also, both headboats were hitting large grouper on their special weekly runs to deep water. Ocean pier fishing was in the grip of July doldrums, with spotted catches of spots, blues, gray trout and flounder reported, mostly in early morning. Anglers were still getting and losing tarpon strikes. Fleming's sound pier still reported good night fishing—W. B. O'Neal, of Wake Forest, landed 108 bluefish. Capt. Jim Talton's party aboard the charter "Dreamo-Liu" boated a 27-pound sail and 25 kings Saturday.

HARKER'S ISLAND — Chapel Hill Jaycees took to the high seas aboard Capt. Jimmy Harker's "Shell Point". Capt. Benny Brooks' "Mal-Ben" and Capt. Bertram Davis' "The Kids" and had a "real good catch of kings, dolphin and amberjack. At Cape Lookout, seas were too choppy for most small boats, but those that dared the seas hit the kings and the Spanish. Dr. Kenzie, of Washington, boated five kings and about 30 Spanish.

MARSHALLBERG — Capt. Neal Jones' "Down Easter" counted 21 kings, along with dolphin and blues. Capt. Myron Harris and Capt. Claude Brown also turned in good catches.

ATLANTIC — Grady Sheets and party caught 150 flounder in three days' surf fishing in the Drum Inlet area. Another party boated a 37- and a 84-pound cobia in Swan Point Channel.

DAVIS — Trout and Whiting catches have slowed some, but weekend fishermen caught "lots of hogfish and croakers".

Rookies Jim Brewer and Jack Curtis started the season on the Chicago Cub pitching staff. Brewer had his jaw broken last season and pitched only 23 innings.

Semi Pro Tourney Held At Roxboro

ROXBORO, N.C. (AP) — Benny Rich was effective in relief but left-hander Ben Baker wasn't, as Leasburg edged White Level 3-2 in the state semi-pro baseball tournament here Wednesday night. Baker, who came on in the 11th, walked in the winning run. Rich, who took over in the third, struck out 17 and walked only two. It was a winner's bracket game in the double-elimination tournament. In the opening loser's bracket game of the night's doubleheader, Walkerton eliminated Gethesmane, 3-2. Games tonight are Mount Tirzah against Reidsville, and Madison against Angier.

Health Director Puts Emphasis On Preventive Steps

DR. JOHN FUTRELL . . . Pitt's new Health Director

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

"Preventing something before it gets started," is the aim of Pitt County Health Director Dr. John M. Futrell.

Dr. Futrell, raised in Guilford County near Greensboro, attended High Point College for one year after graduating from Jamestown High School, then attended State College in Raleigh, majoring in animal husbandry, for three years before entering the army where he served with the Medical Corps of the U.S. Cavalry.

The major portion of his service career was spent in the European Theater of Operations. After being separated from the service as a technical sergeant, Dr. Futrell returned to State College for one year, then entered Bowman Gray School of Medicine, from which he graduated in 1957.

After interning in the Atlantic City Hospital in Atlantic City, N. J., the doctor returned to Guilford County where he maintained a general practice and served with the Guilford County Health Department until coming to Pitt County.

Dr. Futrell commented that he was "motivated" into entering the field of medicine "by influenza while in service."

Public health is a "challenging field . . . which puts you in a position to reach a large number of people," Dr. Futrell explained.

The satisfaction gained from health department work, the doctor said, is best known "when you see what has been accomplished," but many times, he stated, it takes from six months to two years for the results to become apparent. "Prevention and not therapy" is the basis for the county public health service, he noted.

Dr. Futrell added that "if it were analyzed, the greatest accomplishments in medicine are probably found in the preventive field."

Dr. Futrell, who has headed up the local health department since July 1, said it is his hope to have as many or more clinics at the local department as any health organization in the state, in order to better serve the people of Pitt. He added that one of the aims in the immediate future is to try to reduce the TB rate in Pitt, which at present is at the "top of the list," in spite of the testing program carried on by the department.

The director's main duties include the supervision and coordination of the public health nursing division, and the sanitation division, with the overall program of clinics activities of the health department, including control and supervision of midwives, and the rabies control program.

Running a health department is "quite a challenge," Dr. Futrell said, explaining that he is "interested in things that are fair for the public as a whole" and not those which will serve the interest of a select group. "Cooperation of the general public and related agencies" is necessary to carry out the program, he asserted.

He noted that he would like to have a health educator as a member of the department's staff, saying that a trained person in the capacity of educator would be of great help in informing the people of the role of the department, and contribute greatly to the control of TB, venereal disease, proper sewage disposal, and many other problems. He noted that the local health organization now needs a qualified nursing supervisor to work in the county, and aid in the East Carolina College nursing school program.

He said that many people have the "tendency to take public health services for granted . . . and don't realize how important it is," not only for the persons now living in an area, but for prospective newcomers. In the same vein of pointing out the service given by the department, Dr. Futrell listed some of the activities of the department. Among others, they included: speech and hearing clinics, rheumatic fever clinics, orthopedic and mental health clinics, sanitary inspections of restaurants, dairies, slaughterhouses, sewage disposal, and others.

EXAMINING HEALTH . . . cards of people attending clinic.

He noted that as an added service, and one which might save the county much money each year, a plan is being considered whereby a group of three doctors will "examine patients applying for welfare assistance to find if they are really entitled to the help."

The doctor, who played baseball while in school, lists all sports, including baseball and golf, among his hobbies. Dancing also ranks high on his list of "likes," he noted.

There is some question as to who is the "boss" around the house, he jokingly said, while explaining how he met his wife, the former Lois Hohan of near Greensboro.

RELAXING IN OFFICE . . . one of few opportunities.

Dr. Futrell said that the two met for the first time when she "won a debate over me when I was a senior in high school."

The Futrells have four children: three girls, ages 11, eight and seven, and a boy, three.

Dr. Futrell was a member of the Board of Stewards of the Christ Methodist Church in Greensboro, and a member of the Greensboro Lions Club.

The Futrells will make their home at 1733 Beaumont Drive.

Futrell will give his yearly report Saturday morning, as will J. D. Fitz of the Morganton News-Herald, secretary; E. A. Peiping - Moscow Quarrel Can Be Trouble For West

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Soviet and Chinese Communists have been and probably still are quarreling bitterly. But, as Secretary of State Rusk has pointed out, there is little consolation in that for the West and no basis in it for new Western policy making.

In fact, the quarrel may have increased the dangers now besetting the West from the gathering storm over the future of West Berlin and Germany.

In the Moscow-Peiping quarrel, Khrushchev at this moment seems to have the upper hand. But he has paid a price, too. The Red Chinese have, by implication, accused Khrushchev of being soft on capitalism. Probably as a result of the quarrel, he seems not so soft on it now as he appeared some time ago.

The evidence at hand indicates the Red Chinese have knuckled under to the Kremlin on this point: Moscow is the boss of world communism and its program. But the recent contemptuous treatment by the Russians of the Chinese party's 40th anniversary celebration hints the Chinese are not yet entirely convinced of the Kremlin's wisdom in all matters.

Bluntly Moscow has told the Chinese, "The basic criterion for true internationalism is one's attitude toward the Soviet Union," and there can be no Communist success without Soviet cooperation. Clearly this was a warning.

The current quarrel has been going on for several years, ever since Khrushchev's relaxations led to the Hungarian revolution and threw a scare into the Communist world.

The argument reached its height in mid-1960 at a Communist meeting in Bucharest, Rumania. It continued at a conference of 81 world Communist parties in Moscow.

Khrushchev accused the Chinese of "left sectarianism," apparently meaning they were advocating reckless policies in their insistence that war was fatally inevitable between East and West according to Leninist scriptures. A top-ranking Red Chinese delegation at Moscow was told things had changed since Lenin's time. Now there are nuclear weapons, and recklessness could lead to nuclear disaster for all.

Anyway, argued Khrushchev, the Communists now rule a quarter of the globe and a third of humanity and in 10 years economic competition could be the decisive cold war factor.

"All this," snapped the authoritative Soviet journal Kommunist, "constitutes the prerequisite for correct solutions of all questions, including the question of war and peace, the possibility of a new war and the possibility of excluding war."

From the meeting came the Moscow declaration of 1960, drawn up after almost two months of sharp debate. This cloudy document hinted a compromise.

Judging from the welter of words emanating from the two capitals, this seems to be the situation regarding the Moscow-Peiping quarrel at present.

Khrushchev has wrung from the Red Chinese an admission that Moscow is the supreme authority with regard to world Communist diplomacy and strategy. Red China, heavily dependent on the U.S.S.R. for its needs, is at Moscow's mercy. While it can resent and argue, Peiping cannot rid itself of Kremlin influence. It can hope at best to bring some influential Russians over to the Chinese way of thinking.

In essence, the goals of Moscow and Peiping are the same: World rule by communism. Neither can afford the appearance of a deep split. There had to be concessions and compromise.

The Red Chinese stress now that they accept "the principle of proletarian internationalism," meaning the rule that Moscow is boss of the world movement. They apparently concede a free hand for Moscow's diplomacy, including a free hand in such Asian situations as the Indochina crises over Laos and Viet Nam. Khrushchev may, if he chooses, use those situations as pawns in his intricate chess game over West Berlin and Germany.

Red China agrees that the balance of world forces is, as the Russians say, swinging in favor of the Communists — "The east wind is prevailing over the west wind." But China's No. 2 communist Liu Shao-chi, sharply reminded Moscow, in a recent party anniversary speech, that if this is the case, the Chinese revolution was primarily responsible. He insisted, too, that the Chinese party was a "correct Marxist-Leninist political party." And he added that the Chinese linked patriotism with "proletarian internationalism."

Liu conceded China was a long way from achieving socialism — the stage of development the U.S.S.R. claims — and a much longer way from communism. By implication he was conceding there were no real shortcuts to these goals. Chinese suggestions that there could be shortcuts show one of a number of points of ideological friction.

Now that the Kremlin has these concessions, it may be coming through with its own side of the bargain.

Khrushchev's announcement of a stepup in Soviet armament, his threats against the West over Berlin, his saber-rattling in general in recent days sounded beligerent enough to satisfy even the impatient Red Chinese.

Khrushchev may want a victory to show the Communist world and Peiping he is right. If the West backs down and permits it, Khrushchev will have won his point cheaply, and there will likely be pressure for new Communist thrusts, with all the related dangers.

If the West calls Khrushchev's hand, what does the Kremlin do next? Therein lie the dangers of a Communist family argument.

Scar Removed From Actress

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor is reported in good condition after plastic surgery to remove a one-inch-long scar on her throat.

The operation was performed Wednesday and a spokesman said the actress is expected to leave Cedars of Lebanon Hospital in about four days.

The scar was a souvenir of Miss Taylor's near-fatal bout with pneumonia in London earlier this year. Surgeons performed a tracheotomy to ease her breathing.

Singer Eddie Fisher, Miss Taylor's husband, was at her bedside

One Man Armament Race With People Of Monroe

MONROE, N.C. (AP)—A Monroe, N.C., Negro leader says he is collecting rifles for two reasons—to form a rifle club for sport and for an "armament race with the white people of Monroe." Robert F. Williams, an avowed admirer of Cuban Dictator Fidel Castro, declined to say how many members he has in his rifle club, but he said the group has about 100 weapons, mostly foreign rifles. "I keep an armed guard on my house at night," he said Wednesday. "If anyone attacks my house, the city of Monroe is going to see a blood bath."

Williams, president of the Union County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has been in trouble with the national group because of his various militant statements.

Williams, who has made two trips to Cuba since Castro seized control, often flies the Cuban flag in his backyard. Newsmen who have visited his home have reported seeing firearms.

At East Lansing, Mich., four Negro officials from Tanganyika and Kenya have complained to Michigan State University authorities of discrimination because they said they were allowed only one drink each in two Lansing area bars.

MSU President John A. Hannah expressed regrets over the incident. He is chairman of the President's Civil Rights Commission. The Negroes, who spent several days at the university on a tour of the United States, made the complaint in a letter to MSU officials.

Five "Freedom Riders" arrived at Memphis, Tenn., after an eventful bus trip from Chattanooga, Tenn., via Nashville, at a bus terminal restaurant, and commented, "We don't know where we're going next."

At Annapolis, Md., five Negroes who conducted a carousel sit-in at an amusement park near Washington planned to ask the Supreme Court to review their trespassing convictions, upheld by the Maryland court of appeals.

City Judge James Spencer convicted two Negro leaders at Jackson, Miss., for contributing to the delinquency of minors who were arrested on breach of peace charges in desegregation attempts.

The two leaders were James Luther Bevel, 24, of Itta Bena, Miss., field secretary for the Congress of Racial Equality, and Bernard Lafayette, 20, of Tampa, Fla., field secretary for the Jackson Non-violent Movement. Bevel was convicted on three counts and Lafayette on two. They were sentenced to $500 fine and six months in jail on each count.

In Washington, the Pentagon said it views "with the utmost caution in these perilous times" a proposal that federal funds be withheld from all National Guard units that do not integrate racially.

The Defense Department's manpower chief, Assistant Secretary Carlisle P. Runge, said it might reduce drastically the effectiveness of the Guard. He made the views known in a reply to Murray Gross, national chairman of the American Veterans Committee, who made the withholding proposal in a letter last month.

The color ban at the municipal swimming pool in Maplewood, Mo., a St. Louis suburb, has been lifted. The pool was closed Tuesday when about 40 Negroes tried to buy admission tickets, but Wednesday the city council voted unanimously to open the pool to all residents of Maplewood, regardless of race.

Welcomed After 40-Year Absence

BALTIMORE (AP)—For Mr. and Mrs. H.A. Williams of Baltimore, it was their first visit to Milwaukee since they had lived in the Wisconsin city 40 years ago.

So they were more than a little surprised when they found this handwritten note under the windshield wiper of their car:

"It's good to have you back again in Milwaukee." The mystery was solved later. They found out that Rudolph Laub, a Milwaukee relative who knew their car from his Baltimore visits, spotted it as he drove past and planted the note.

Van Fleet Critical Of Opposition To Coup

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Retired Gen. James A. Van Fleet today criticized American officials here for trying to block the South Korean military from seizing power.

Terminating the May coup "the finest thing that has happened to Korea in 1,000 years," the former commander of U.S. and U.N. forces in Korea said if the army had not taken over the government, the United States would have been forced to step in.

"The military witnessed a lot of inefficiency and corruption and the American colony witnessed the same thing," said Van Fleet in an interview. "We criticized this, but we did not correct it." Van Fleet, who commanded the 8th Army in Korea from 1951 to 1953, is often called the "father" of the South Korean army, which he had a major hand in training.

He said the U.S.-U.N. commander at the time of the coup, Lt. Gen. Carter B. Magruder, and U.S. Charge d'Affairs Marshall Green "guessed wrong" in supporting the elected government of Premier John M. Chang against the military rebels.

Van Fleet said Magruder, since retired, "illegally ordered" top South Korean army officers to remain neutral at the time of the coup. He declared that Magruder himself "should have stayed neutral unless there was chaos and violence."

Van Fleet, emphasizing he was speaking as "an individual out here on my own," said it was "all right to talk about representative government, but such a system, except in great nations like the United States and Great Britain, lets elements get into the government and destroy it."

"You cannot make a mistake in undeveloped countries where the enemy is lurking," he said. A U.S. Embassy spokesman, informed of Van Fleet's criticism,

Reason For Concern Over Physical Fitness

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, alarmed lest this turn into a nation of weaklings, will soon send a message to every school administrator saying why it's urgent that each student be physically fit.

The softening process of our civilization continues to carry on its persistent erosion.

How much it has softened was ticked off today by Kennedy's special consultant on youth fitness, Charles B. (Bud) Wilkinson, coach of the University of Oklahoma football team.

Several studies show that American youth do worse on simple tests than youngsters of other nations.

As Wilkinson sees it, the main job is to get people interested enough to do something about it.

over their favorite football game — say the Oklahoma-Texas game — we've got this problem licked.

School Official In Narcotics Net

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Narcotics agents disclosed Wednesday that the assistant registrar of Hastings College of Law was arrested and charged with forging narcotics prescriptions.

Tim O'Connor, supervising state narcotics agent, said Richard P. Timm, 35, of nearby Belmont, had students pick up prescriptions for pain killers and habit-forming sleeping pills.

Rare Occasion Occurs Again

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)

Tropical storm Brenda dumped more than 12 inches of rain on Florida the last time the St. Petersburg Independent gave away its "sunshine" edition of the paper.

That was July 29, 1960. The Independent gave another edition, the 212th, away, Wednesday when the sun failed to shine on the Independent building for 24 hours.

The paper started the practice in 1910 to promote St. Petersburg as the "Sunshine City."

And on seven different tests given to boys and girls in the 10-17 age bracket, British girls ran ahead of American girls 7-0, while British boys won by 6-1.

The U.S. boys were superior only in "arm power."

Not only are today's youngsters behind foreigners, they're not so sturdy as their fathers were. Springfield College has been giving tests periodically since the 1920s. Recently not one school measured up to the national average established in previous tests.

Studies show that 72 per cent of the nation's schools have inadequate physical education programs.

As Wilkinson sees it, the main job is to get people interested enough to do something about it.

Fresh Sources Of Iron Ore Continually Opened

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—American steel companies continue to open up new sources of foreign iron ore, even as they wait in the slow days of July for the expected pickup in production in August or September.

At the same time, ore production dwindles in the once dominant American iron mines.

U.S. Steel has just shipped its first trial cargo of Quebec ore for the Fairless Works near Philadelphia. It is testing out its harbor loading machinery at Port Carter, Quebec, designed to handle 6,000 tons an hour.

If the tests prove out, the harbor on the St. Lawrence will be completed to handle the largest ore carriers now afloat. It will be 50 feet deep, 2,500 feet long and 450 feet wide. Ore will be stockpiled there in the summer for loading when the rail line may be snowbound.

Ore also is coming in from Labrador mines developed in recent years as the rich ores of the Lake Superior district began to run out.

The Canadian ore helps feed the hungry steel mills of the Midwest as well as those along the West Coast.

In the last three years the greatest volume of foreign ore has come from Venezuela where a mountain of almost solid iron ore is being mined. Much of this ore goes to East Coast steel mills, but some is sent to the mills around Birmingham, Ala.

The American Iron Steel Institute reports the United States imported 38,774,625 net tons in 1960. This compared with 1.3 million tons in 1945.

In 1960 Venezuela sent 16.3 million tons here, Canada 11.8 million tons, Chile 4.4 million, Peru 3 million, Brazil 1.6 million, Liberia 1 million, along with smaller amounts from Mexico, British West Africa and Sweden.

Libya is stepping up iron ore production fast, with an eye on the growing Western European market as well as the U.S. one.

In the fabled American iron country at the head of the Great Lakes, the story is different. High grade ores there are petering out.

In 1948 shipments from the Mesabi Iron Range were 89 million tons. In 1959 shipments were cut to 36 million tons, partly because of a strike. In 1960 the figure rose to 55 million tons, largely because the steel mills were working at capacity the first part of the year in anticipation of a strike.

Shipments now include 11 million tons or more of taconite, processed at considerable cost from low grade ore.

Six Cars Were Rolled Downhill

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—At least six unoccupied cars were rolled down streets of a hilly residential area during the pre-dawn hours Wednesday.

Damage to the vehicles, lawns, shrubs, trees, garages and other cars was estimated at $7,500.

Police said it looked like the work of thrill-seekers.

Ray Nolan, state lands and minerals director for Minnesota, explains that "because the blast furnace operators are demanding a much higher grade of iron ore, it is necessary now for us to concentrate iron ore which we used to ship as mined."

Among other American steel companies investing in and developing iron ore sources in Canada are Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, National Armco, Wheeling, Inland Steel and Hanna Ore Mining Co.

The St. Lawrence Seaway has made Midwest American markets more accessible to Canadian ore. But while imports have been on the rise, American iron companies haven't been idle.

Upgrading their ores by processes called Beneficiation, present day concentrate are higher in iron content than the regular ore shipped for years from the rich Mesabi range.

Steelmen say these blue ribbon concentrates allow five blast furnaces to produce now as much as six and a half used to turn out. Thus, even if they hadn't built a single new blast furnace, steelmakers could have increased their annual capacity by more than 25 million tons a year through Beneficiation.

And, taking the risks of foreign turmoil into account, the Lake Superior district doubtless will remain the most important single source of iron ore for the American steel industry.

Careful Course On Civil Rights Taken

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — With an eye on his legislative program President Kennedy appears to be treading a careful course in matters affecting civil rights.

Kennedy left a lot of folks wondering just where he personally stands on the issue with news conference comments Wednesday on the "Freedom Riders" who have encountered arrests and some violence in the South.

The President gave comfort to civil rights advocates by saying flatly that everybody who travels "for whatever reason they travel" has the right to full constitutional protection of the law.

On the other hand, he seemed to suggest some sympathy for the viewpoint of Southerners who have protested that the mixed racial bus riders are merely trying to stir up trouble when he added:

"Those rights, whether we agree with those who travel, whether we agree on the purpose for which they travel, those rights stand, provided they are exercised in a peaceful way."

Supplementing this, he said: "We may not like what people print in a paper but there is no question about their constitutional right to print it."

None of this added up to any

Until 1959, paleontologists believed mankind to be 500,000 years old.

ADVISES RETENTION
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Dag Hammarskjold said on Wednesday the 5,300-man U.N. army in the Gaza Strip should be maintained through 1962 to insure peace between Israel and its Middle East neighbors, despite an estimated $336,000 boost in costs.

Unaffected by wind, rain, oxidation, vegetation, or eruption, some features on the moon probably have stood unchanged for perhaps four billion years.

Tobacco Barn Fire Controlled

An early morning tobacco barn fire north of Greenville today resulted in smoke damage to approximately 550 sticks of curing tobacco. The barn itself was not damaged.

The Station-House Volunteer Fire Department reported it answered a call to the farm of Milton R. Spain about 6 a. m. today to find the oil-burn fire under control. Spain's farm is near the intersection of N.C. Highways 903 and 11.

Ed Hemingway, chief of the department, said Spain had controlled the blaze when firemen arrived at the scene. The fire started, Hemingway reported, when one of the barn's oil burning curers flared up and set two more ablaze.

This morning's call represented the first tobacco barn fire for the Station-House volunteers.

Hemingway urged curers to use caution with their oil burners. "In the event a fire starts from an oil burner," he said, "a farmer should, by all means, avoid throwing water on the fire. That'll just spread it."

He said a barrel of wet burlap bags should be placed near a barn while curing is underway. "If a burner flares up," Hemingway advised, "all you have to do is throw one or two of those bags over the flaming burner. That'll smother out the fire."

The patrol also announced the promotion of William Turner Felton, 36, from private to corporal. Felton, who joined the patrol in 1947, will transfer from Taylorsville to Shelby. He too is a Fayetteville native.

AYDEN—Louis Bryan, Jaycee state vice president in charge of the 11th district, visited the Jaycees at their meeting Monday night.

He outlined several projects for the coming year and urged that Ayden and all other Jaycees cooperate to effect desired results. In his talk, he challenged all clubs to create interest and possibly establish new clubs in neighboring communities which do not have Jaycee organizations. He also urged that clubs increase their membership, so that Jayceeing might progress to the fullest extent.

Bryan congratulated the Ayden club for spearheading the Little League ball park project. Other organizations in Ayden have cooperated with the club in the project.

During the meeting, it was reported that the Ayden club will send at least 10 delegates to the District Jaycee meeting in Greenville on July 26.
