Jorgensen-Sullivan Vows Pledged Sunday

Mrs. Larry Green Jorgensen

GOLDSBORO—The wedding of Miss Ella Gray Sullivan, daughter of Mrs. Samuel James Sullivan of 102 N. Herman St. and the late Mr. Sullivan, and Larry Green Jorgensen, son of Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Jorgensen of 505 East Eighth St., Greenville, was solemnized Sunday, July 23, at 4 p. m. in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Elder N. M. Jorgensen, father of the bridegroom, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. Lynn Mackey, organist, and soloists, Miss Rose Lindsay and Mr. Dennis Lane.

The church was decorated with two large baskets of mums and gladiolas with greenery and an arrangement of flowers for the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, wore a floor-length gown of silk organza. The bodice was fashioned with a Sabrina neckline studded with pearls and outlined with Chantilly lace capped sleeves with formal length white gloves. The skirt was very full, having a butterfly bow and rosette accenting the back. Her headpiece, a fingertip veil of French imported silk illusion, was attached to Queen's crown of silk organza and tulle lace. She carried a prayer book topped with stephanotis lilies - of - the - valley centered with a white orchid and showered with white satin streamers.

Miss Kathryn Crumpler of Goldsboro and former college roommate of the bride was her maid of honor. She wore a street-length dress of lavender silk organza over taffeta. The simple bodice was fashioned with a round neckline and cap sleeves. Her full gathered bouffant skirt was accented with a cummerbund and bow. She wore a matching picture hat. Her satin shoes were dyed to match and she carried a cream mum with white and lavender satin streamers. Bridesmaids were Miss Wanda Turner of Dunn, cousin of the bride, and Miss Janis Jorgensen of Greenville, sister of the groom. The bridesmaids' dresses were identical to the maid of honor's and they carried identical bouquets.

Lynn Jorgensen was his brother's best man. Serving as ushers were Layne Jorgensen and Mark Jorgensen of Greenville, brothers of the groom, and Kenneth Kennedy of Mount Olive, cousin of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Sullivan wore a sheath dress of blue lace over taffeta. She wore a matching hat and accessories.

Mrs. Jorgensen, mother of the groom, wore a dress of mauve lace over taffeta with matching hat and accessories. Both mothers wore a white orchid corsage.

Reception

A reception was held in the church parlor, given by the bride's mother. The receiving line included the bridal couple, mothers of the couple, and the bridal party. Mr. and Mrs. Roland Braswell, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Strickland, Miss Martha Best, Mrs. Kenneth Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. George Bodin, Mrs. Neal, and the bride's sorority sisters and roommates assisted and received the guests. The wedding cake, punch, mints, cheese stars and nuts were served.

Immediately after the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to Utah and the western parts of the United States. For the wedding trip the bride changed into a blue embroidered sheath dress with white accessories and white hat. She wore the orchid lifted from her bridal Bible.

Mrs. Jorgensen, a graduate of English from East Carolina College, was a member of the Alpha Phi Sorority. She will teach in the Durham city schools. Mr. Jorgensen attended East Carolina College and will be in Dental School of the University of North Carolina. Upon their return from their wedding trip, they will be at home in Chapel Hill.

Rehearsal Party

Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Jorgensen, parents of the bridegroom, entertained at a rehearsal party following the rehearsal on Saturday. The bridal party, friends, relatives, and out-of-town guests attended.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

Perennials can be propagated by three methods: division, by seed and by cuttings.

If you want to divide old plants (and they should be divided every once in a while) lift plant with spade fork, getting all the roots you can. Pry plants apart and get rid of old center and plant outside growth.

A good rule to follow in dividing plants is to divide fall blooming plants in the spring and spring blooming plants in fall.

Here is a list of perennials and suggested methods of propagation:

Chrysanthemums — propagated by cuttings and division. These plants should be divided every year in either fall or spring.

Hardy Aster — Divided in early spring. This should be done every two years.

Bluebells — Seed in late spring or early summer. Plants may be divided.

Larkspur — Sow seed in August. Divide plants in early spring.

Perennials can be propagated by three methods: division, by seed and by cuttings.

Sweet Violet — Can be started from seed-tip cuttings (3 inches long). Can be rooted in late summer. Plants can be divided.

Evening Primrose — Divide plants in early spring or sow seeds at same time of year.

Gas Plant — Another plant that does not like to be moved. Sow seed in fall. Takes 4 years to reach flowering size.

Perennials can be propagated by three methods: division, by seed and by cuttings.

Gravity Of Situation Dramatized

President Kennedy's statement to the American people and to the world Tuesday evening set forth clearly the fact that this nation will fight if necessary to protect West Berlin and other territory it is committed to protect from communism. And further that the nation will boost its military strength immediately to be in a position to meet force with force if necessary.

The President's call for an additional 217,000 men in the nation's armed forces and an immediate increase of $3.5 billion in military spending brought home sharply to many American citizens the seriousness with which our high officials view the world situation. Furthermore, the American people—and those of other nations as well—should not overlook the fact that the President made it clear that this boost in military preparedness may be just the beginning. Requests for further military build-up, both in terms of manpower and material, may be needed from time to time as the international situation changes.

For those who may think the President painted too dark a picture of the growing crisis between East and West, we would point to the complete lack of dissenting opinion among members of Congress with regard to the President's request. What appears to be complete unity among both Democrats and Republicans that the President's requests must be fulfilled immediately bespeaks the fact that members of the legislative branch of government share the President's viewpoint.

The fact that our major Western Allies have given their approval to the blunt words of the President regarding Berlin, and further have praised his move to bolster American military strength likewise reflects a unity of opinion within the Western World. It indicates the determination of the Allies to stand unified against any Soviet threat in Berlin, or elsewhere.

There can be no question about the President's new program of preparedness affecting the life of the nation, and the lives of its citizens individually. There is no escaping the fact that a war between East and West—which has been precariously avoided for the past decade—looms as a possibility. On the other hand this nation has at last been called upon by the President to face up to the reality that it cannot continue to retreat from its commitments around the globe in the face of threats from communism. The nation is not looking for a fight, but neither will it run away from a fight where principles and rights are involved.

Too many Americans, we believe, have formed the opinion in recent years that one crisis after another would develop in various parts of the world, but that somehow war would be avoided. The President's address should have shaken the people into the realization that war may not be avoided unless we are willing to surrender; and that, the American people are not willing to do.

The graveness of the situation faced by the people of this nation at this moment must not be minimized. Either the United States stands up for what it believes—regardless of the price—or it will sacrifice its beliefs rather than pay the required price.

We have again reached a point in history where the future of the nation—and indeed the future of the world—depends upon the strength of the American people and their determination to stand their ground and risk a fight rather than retreat in the face of another bluff.

Big Range And Scope For C&D

By LYNN NISBET

C&D—The meeting of the board of conservation and development at Wrightsville Beach this weekend inaugurated a new plan for operating the department, but nothing new in the subject matter with which the board will deal. While the administration of a Governor begins on January 1 after his election, actually his program cannot get underway until July 1 when the new appropriations become effective.

Although Governor Sanford as chairman and Hargrove Bowles as director attended the spring meeting of the old board at Sanford, the meeting this week was really the first in their regime. The membership had been increased from 18 to 28 and 24 of them were sitting for the first time. The 28-member board is believed to be the biggest administrative or policy-making board in state history, except for the 100-member board of trustees of the Consolidated University.

Several new members confessed amazement at the range and scope of C&D activities as enumerated by career men who head up the several divisions. These men devoted much more time than usual in presenting their reports. Each man traced the history of his own division's work from beginning of the C&D department—and in several instances for many years before that.

HISTORY—For example, Dr. J. L. Stuckey, State geologist and chief of the mineral resources section, noted that the State was interested in developing mineral resources 100 years before the C&D department was formed. He traced the problem which had plagued his predecessors through the years and came up with conclusion that there is still a lot to be learned about North Carolina minerals—and also great need for publishing some of the information already collected.

"Sheriff" Gehman Holland, head of commercial fisheries, traced his division back to the 1880's and reported it was one of the major components which went into the C&D organization in 1925. His problems, too, are very similar in 1961 to those which confronted his predecessors 75 years ago.

Col. Fred Claridge, reporting for the Forestry division, had more "news" than most of the others. The attitude with respect to trees has greatly changed in the past century. One of the prime functions of his division is control of forest fires. He noted that the earliest forest fire control legislation was designed not to save the trees from burning, but to protect the hogs and other livestock which roamed at large through the woods.

CONTINUITY—These historic reviews designed primarily to inform new members about the job facing them, had the further virtue of proving the continuity of governmental effort in North Carolina. It is a bigger board than ever, more new members than ever, and a modernistic business approach to administrative policies through "channels" of additional executives. But it is not a new challenge. The career staff men who have seen Governors and board members come and go, legislatures suggest different approaches to solution of problems and emphasis switched from time to time among the diverse activities, know and told the story about how there is continuity in basic effort. Nearly all of the plans for this year and next are based on experience gain in meeting very similar problems a century or half a century or ten years ago.

The C&D board, however, is not hamstrung by tradition. The two newest divisions—community planning, about six years old, and the geodetic survey in its second year—evidence willingness to take on new duties to meet conditions.

IMPORTANT—Governor Sanford in his off-cuff remarks to the board and in a prepared speech for the banquet session emphasized the importance of the C&D department in the overall economy of the state. He said he is looking to this board to get the pace and to furnish leadership in every phase of advancement.

BIBLES—It was Sunday night, offices and stores on Wrightsville Beach all closed and communication handicapped, when it suddenly occurred to somebody that there would be need for enough Bibles so that of the 28 C&D board members could touch one when being sworn-in early Monday morning. Hurried conferences and inquiries resulted in putting the bee on John Allen, newly named assistant to the director. The order: Have eight or ten or a dozen Bibles at the Surf Club by 7:30 Monday. The Bibles were 7:30.

Allen appealed to his friend, Police Chief Williamson, for help. The chief called one of his local preacher friends. A little more telephoning and a police car was dispatched to the church to collect the Bibles.

Old timers could not recall another instance when a State government agency appealed to a local police department to temporarily "confiscate" a lot of Bibles. The assortment that showed up on the table Monday morning was interesting. There were copies of old and much-used volumes of the King James version, some with morocco binding, and gold-edged India paper. There were copies of the American Revised and the Standard Revised versions in variety of bindings. But the 27 members of the board who were present each was able to put a left hand on the "Book" and hold up the right hand to take the oath.

Bernard Stein of Fayetteville, only adherent of Judaism ever named to the C&D board, was out of the country and will take his oath later on whatever version of the Bible he prefers.

Eastern Carolina Eyes Georgia Leaf Market

Today marks the beginning of the period when Eastern Carolina tobacco farmers really begin thinking about the prices their leaf is going to bring when markets open in this section a few weeks from now.

Prices paid today on opening sales of the Georgia markets already are a subject of conversation, and they will continue to be for some time. Over the years the opening of tobacco markets in the southern-most belt has been regarded as a sort of barometer that indicates what might be expected in the way of prices on tobacco markets on Eastern Carolina.

On a comparative basis, considering quantity and quality of the crop this year with other years, the demand by purchasers, the relative qualities of the crop in Georgia with that in Eastern Carolina, the factors—the experienced tobacco growers—all form a pattern which at least gives some suggestion as to what might be expected when markets up here open.

It is understandable, therefore, that the opening of the tobacco markets in Georgia creates a certain kind of excitement and anticipation in the tobacco area of Eastern Carolina.

Today's opening sales in Georgia cannot be considered a pattern that will be followed through the entire season in that belt, but for the next several days, at least there will be a great deal of interest in this area in what is going on in Georgia.

A Psychological Effect Involved

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was clear in President Kennedy's address to the nation Tuesday night that he sought a psychological effect. But it wasn't clear what practical effect can there be in increasing the arm forces by only 217,000 men.

At least he indicated the United States may have reached a turning point. For years now this country has simply been reacting to Russian actions, dancing when the Russians called the tune. Judging from Kennedy's talk, the United States will now start showing some initiative in dealing with the Soviets.

But his address, tough as it was in warning the Russians they can't take Berlin without a fight, still left the door wide open for a conference with them to settle the dispute peacefully.

At one point Kennedy even indicated the West might be willing to make concessions—but not major ones—to avoid conflict. Just how far he is willing to go with concessions—or being tough—is for the future.

But there could be no doubt he had three targets and three psychological aims:

1. The American people—to prepare them perhaps for rougher things to come by telling them the administration intends to take a firm stand on Berlin, even if it means a military showdown with Russia.

2. The Russians—to let them know, if they think the allies lack the will to fight and that threats can scare and split them, that they have war on their hands if they push too hard.

3. The allies—to stiffen their backbone, by putting the United States firmly beside them, and at the same time needle them, even embarrass them, into doing more for their own defense by increasing their own military preparations.

With all this said, the question remains: Are the Russians going to be impressed by Kennedy's announcement he is adding 217,000 men to the armed forces—particularly when he didn't say he's sending them far to Europe where the Russians far outnumber the allies in ground forces?

If they are impressed it will probably be more by Kennedy's expressed determination not to be pushed out of Berlin, leaving it up to them to guess what kind of force the United States would use to stop them.

In any showdown it is unlikely Kennedy would try to stop the Soviets with ground troops.

Two years ago—which was the last time the Russians threatened Berlin—President Eisenhower rejected arguments of his critics that the United States should make a big ground-force buildup in Europe to chill Russia's blood.

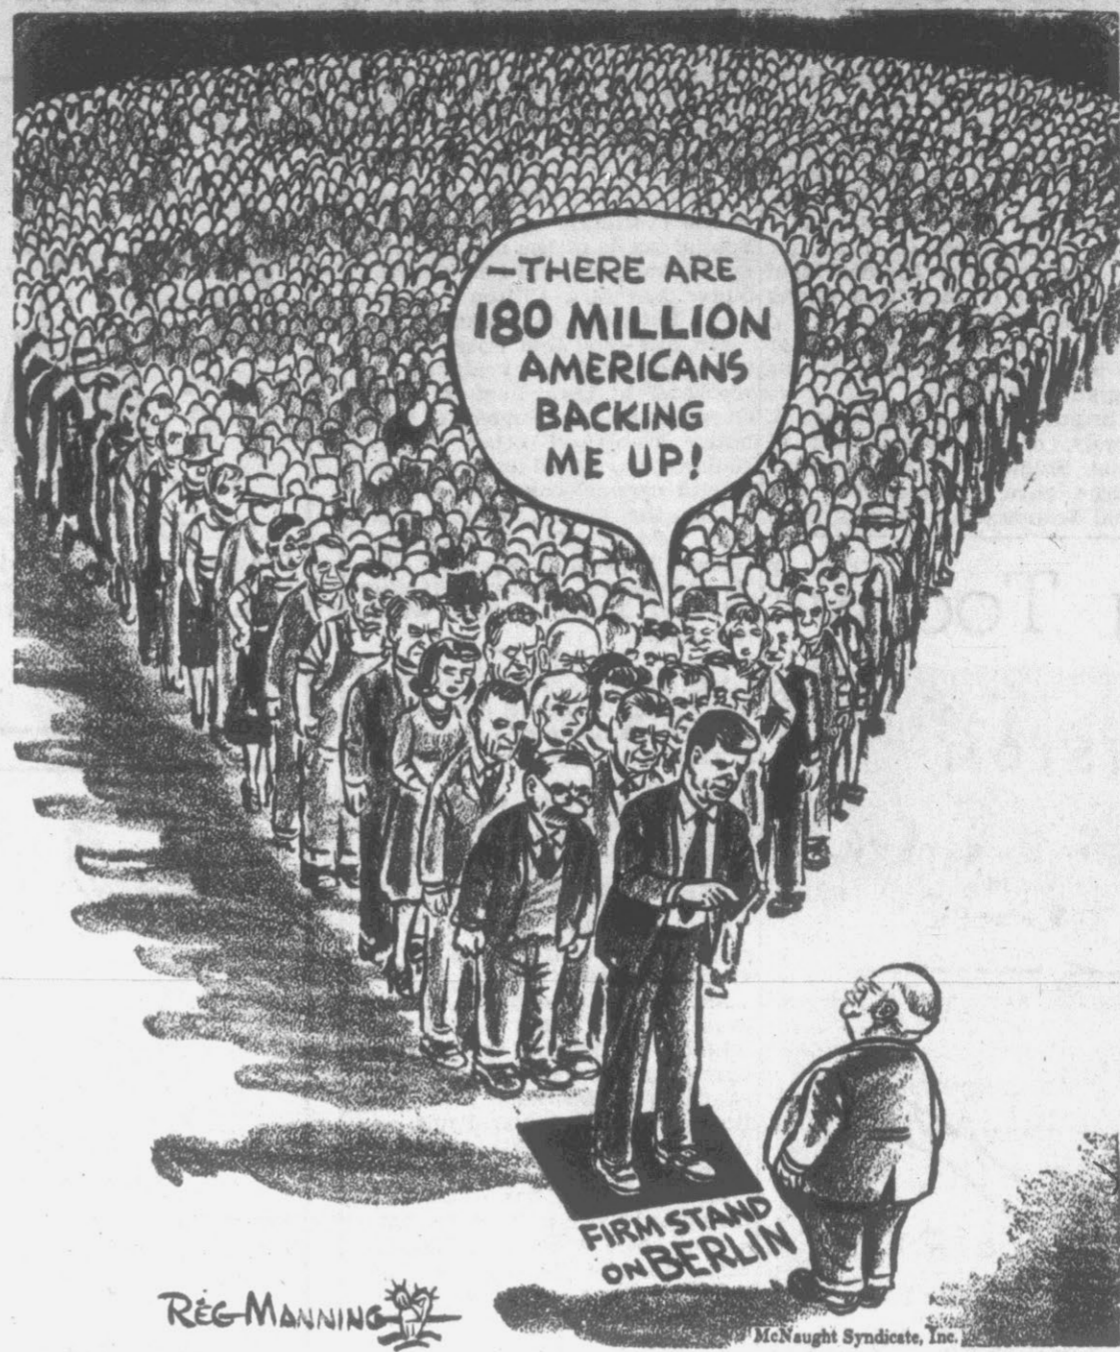

He said March 11, 1959 that such a build-up was unnecessary because "we are certainly not going to fight a ground war in Europe." This could be interpreted as meaning that if war came it would have to be a nuclear one.

Just a few months after that Kennedy—on Dec. 9, 1959, while he was still a senator—was asked if the United States was in a position to fight any kind of war for Berlin except a nuclear one. He said no.

It's possible he has changed his mind, for he said Tuesday night "we intend to have a wider choice than humiliation or all-out nuclear action."

But if he knows how the allies, tremendously outnumbered on the ground, could hope to stop the Russians short of nuclear war he didn't explain that.

When I Take This Position—

By HAL BOYLE

Too Good To Be True

NEW YORK (AP)—Once upon a time there was a man who set out to be popular and well-liked.

His name was Mortimer Witherspoon Thrope.

He went to the public library and read a book on how to become successful.

"The way to be popular is to be normal," the book said. "Just act as a normal, balanced, civilized individual should act and you're bound to be well-liked."

So Thrope faithfully followed the book's advice. He decided to become the most normal individual in his community.

Mortimer married a girl who was neither homely nor pretty—just average.

They had three children, all of whom got medium grades in school.

Mortimer bought a standard-sized house with a standard-sized mortgage in a standard neighborhood.

He drove a medium-sized car—neither too dull nor too flashy—and traded it in on a new one every three years.

He joined the Elks, the PTA, and the American Legion. He was glad to serve on committees but always declined to run for office in any of these organizations.

"Oh, there must be someone else better qualified," he said, modestly.

He subscribed to a book club, but carefully avoided reading any of the selections—unless they hit the best seller list.

Mortimer always—or almost always—got up to give his seat to an old lady on the bus, particularly if anyone from his neighborhood was on the bus, too.

He always arrived on the job punctually at 5:30, and left promptly at 5:30. "I get paid for doing a full day's work—and I like to give it to them," he said.

When the boss told a joke in a conference, Mortimer was the second employe to start chuckling and the next to the last to quit laughing.

At cocktail parties Mortimer got high but never loaded, and never bragged about himself.

"Tell me about yourself—you must have had an interesting life," he urged those he met.

After 15 years of exemplary living, Mortimer suddenly awoke to the fact that instead of being widely popular, he was being avoided, even by old acquaintances. They seemed uneasy in his presence.

So Mortimer hired a public relations man to find out why. This individual made a secret survey of Mortimer's neighborhood and office and came back with his report.

"They think you're too good to be true, Mr. Thrope. They don't trust you. They think you must be hiding something."

Moral: If you want to be popular, be different. Everyone suspects anyone who acts too normal.

Other Editors Sayings .. Every 15 Seconds

Richmond News Leader

The shocking figures in the report from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover provide a stunning commentary on a sickness that pervades America. Look at the ugly record:

Last year lawlessness reached new peaks in the United States. Data from 7,700 police agencies indicate 1,861,000 serious crimes in 1960, fourteen per cent higher than in 1959, and a disarming 98 per cent over such crime in 1959. Last year saw a murder every 33 minutes, a forcible rape every 34 minutes, and an aggravated assault every four minutes.

Every 15 seconds, on the average, a serious crime was committed. Every category of crime is on the rise; and though conditions are worst on the Pacific coast, no section of the country is spared. Virginia had a crime rate last year of 823 offenses per 100,000 population, considerably below the national average of 1,038 offenses, but the record is nothing to be proud of. The crime rate in the Richmond metropolitan area was 1,696 offenses per 100,000 population, considerably worse than crime rates in Philadelphia, New York, and Washington.

The FBI report becomes all the more shocking as one looks beyond the summary figures. Between 1955 and 1960, juvenile population (those under 18) increased by only 25 per cent. Juvenile crime soared by 48 per cent. Children under the age of 15 accounted for nearly 216,000 arrests; nearly 4,000 were for sex offenses.

It would be comforting to explain away some of these figures by saying that reporting techniques have improved—that crimes unreported to the FBI in other years are being reported now. One might also rationalize about improved police procedures. These frail speculations cannot affect the picture materially. When a serious crime is reported every 15 seconds, something approaching a national breakdown in morality is close at hand.

What is to blame for this appalling condition? How is it to be set right?

There is plenty of blame to go around. The great communications media can take a part of it, in their constant exaltation of sex and violence. Schools can share in it; what sense of discipline have they inculcated in their pupils? Churches are not blameless; how far have they drifted from effective moral inspiration? Society as a whole, in its easy view of the welfare state, has created an atmosphere in which tax evasion, unearned subsidies, and the acceptance of something for nothing are the order of the day.

The bleak picture Mr. Hoover paints is not to be remedied merely by harsher punishment of offenders, or by the employment of additional police. A remedy has to begin in deeper areas, in a deliberate reeducation to old ideals of discipline, integrity, and honesty. If this can be achieved in the home, it can in time be manifested in government; but the hour is late and Mr. Hoover's implacable clock is ticking on.

Strength For Today

MEASURE OF A MAN

What is man?

The Bible does not answer that question explicitly, but it says that God has made man "a little lower than the angels." That He has crowned him with glory and honor and has set him over the works of creation.

There is about man an infinite nobility and also the capacity for infinite evil. We read every day of crimes which exceed in their evil anything we can imagine. We find good men and women sometimes slipping into a dishonest or corrupting practice. The persons we call criminals are simply people who are suffering from the unrelied disease of evil thought and action.

Yet, on the other hand, we see men and women rising at times until they touch the very hem of angels' garments. They find people in humble position doing things of such noble character that those who lead and rule the world would be proud if they could emulate them. Man seems at all times to be walking a ridge that has only the width of a razor blade. Sometimes he falls over on one side and again on the other.

But he is only a little lower than the angels. The Bible assures us that God has done for him more than He has done for the angels. The angels are messengers of mercy. Man is a being designed to have fellowship with God, and he is fit to do so if he holds fast those values which are eternal.

He is but little lower than the angels.

Union Dues In Politics

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Years ago, when the Taft-Hartley Bill first came up for discussion, one of the arguments was that a union member ought to control the use of his dues for political purposes. For instance, a Republican member of a union ought not to be required to contribute to the Democratic Party by order of the union officials. As a matter of fact, some unions have gained enormous power by the use of union funds for campaign contributions. In effect, this is a form of political peonage and therefore is intolerable in a free society.

So, after all these years, the Supreme Court has come to the rescue of individual opinion and dignity by deciding that a man who is compelled to join a union because he works under closed shop conditions may veto the use of his dues for such political purposes as displease him. He remains master of his money. This is essential in a free political system where each individual possesses freedom of choice to decide his own course of action.

Although as the decision now stands, it is limited to the Railway Labor Act it can and undoubtedly will be applied to other than this industry. If its application is general, it can have a serious influence on our political system.

The central problem is that it costs so much to be elected to public office. In these days of Mark Hanna, a Republican could be sure of getting his contributions from corporations; today, corporate contributions are limited. The income tax has had the effect of putting a ceiling on private expenditures with the result that one has to be very rich indeed, either by inherited wealth or by "free money," that is, money that is hidden and untaxed, to make a sizable contribution to a candidate. The use of "free money" is illegal because no tax has been paid on it. In a word, it is cash money that is paid "under the table," as the expression goes.

A candidate must either be rich like President Kennedy or Governor Rockefeller or he may have some racketeer friends who can get him plenty of "free money," hoping that nobody will ever know about it or he can go to a labor leader and get a sizable donation. It is the latter kind of money which is most practical and therefore smart politicians stand in right with certain labor officials who have large funds for "educational" purposes or to propagate trade unionism or who hand out their largess as an "under the table" contribution.

It is the high cost of campaigning, particularly the cost of television advertising which is so corruptive in our national life. It forces a candidate to compromise his integrity.

In another case the Supreme Court dealt with the same issue in relationship to integrated bar associations. An integrated bar association is a lawyer's society to which all lawyers are required to belong by state law.

The question arises why any bar association should make political contributions. A bar association exists to police the legal professions, to see to it that lawyers are men of character and decency, to pass on the suitability of candidates for judicial office. Why should any bar association make a political contribution?

And yet, there has been such a case before the Supreme (Continued on page five)

They Pay To Know The Dislikes

By ELMER ROESSNER

Paramount Paper Products has spent enough to keep you in bourbon for a year to find out what housewives don't like about supermarkets. It paid for interviews with 12,000 women to learn that most of them want faster and more convenient shopping—more information about products and more personal attention. The fact anyone would spend money to determine the last point shows how much our civilization teeters.

Of those interviewed, 51 per cent said they do not like to shop in supermarkets, and the most frequent reasons were: Checkouts take too long. Employees are not cheerful or helpful. Product labels are uninformative. Prices are too high for self-service. Frozen foods are not frozen. It's tiring to walk through the store; floors are hard. Too wide a variety of products leads to confusion. It takes too long to shop. Manager is not always available. It's like walking around a well-lighted warehouse. Parking facilities are inadequate. Merchandise is too often sold out.

CONFUSION IS COMPOUNDED
That's what 6,120 women (51 per cent of 12,000) said. Paramount could have obtained approximately the same answers by sending my aunt Edna to a single supermarket. In fact, my aunt Edna would probably have added one more complaint: supers do not have change on hand for $1,000 bills, which is what Edna usually takes when she goes shopping.

On the other hand, if Paramount had sent me scouting, I would have come back with quite a different list of reasons why I do not like to shop in supermarkets. They are:

Mrs. Busby always parks her cart across the aisle while she browses in soups and jams, preventing others from passing in either direction.

Mrs. Filldoo and Mrs. Gusteady always stop their carts abreast while they discuss Caroline Kennedy, preventing anyone from passing.

The sign says "Sirloin Steak, 89 cents," but in the meat counter there is only chuck at 98 cents.

A sign says, "Watch your meat being chopped through this window," but the butcher is always using the machine near the other window.

DISPERSION, DISPERSION
The spaghetti is at the southeast corner of the store, the tomato sauces are at the southwest section and the chopped meat section is at the north-north section. And when you get to the south-southwest section, the mushrooms are gone.

You get to like a product, such as a diced corned beef hash, and the market shifts to a sloppy, mashed brand.

Markets charge more for fancy packaging than for the contents. Six ounces of bologna in window packages is offered at 40 cents, or more than $1 a pound. This packaging gimmick (are you reading, Paramount?) often makes domestic cheese more expensive than imported.

Check-out boys rush up to lift packages I can damn well carry myself.

Check-out boys call me "Pop."

Otherwise, supermarkets are a great institution.

"DITCHED" PRODUCTS
A FIELD OF STUDY
Supermarkets are now intensifying studies of "ditched" products. Many shoppers pick up a package and, a few aisles later, shove it back on a shelf. That's why you may find a can of tuna among the breakfast foods.

If markets and packagers, can find out why a shopper will pick a package and later jettison it, they may go a long way in finding out just what governs shoppers' choices.

Sokolsky Col

(Continued from page four) Court, in which the Court upheld compulsory bar association membership, which, in effect, makes the legal profession, a closed shop. Compulsory membership in a bar association reduces the legal profession to a trade, disciplined by union officials.

One might ask whether this country is not becoming over-organized and if this excessive organization will not ultimately lead to a sort of fascism, under which political control rests not with the individual citizen, as a voter, but with powerful pressure organizations which control members of Congress by their ability to contribute satisfactorily to campaign funds.

Sooner or later, this issue will come to the fore as a result of some public scandal because the people will be shocked to discover how much money really goes into campaign funds and how it is contributed. Sooner or later, we shall find a way of protecting the ballot by limiting campaign contributions. Elections can be bought in the sense that candidates are forced to go beyond their consciences to satisfy contributors.

Local Women Are Preparing Dressings For Patients

Members of the Greenville Salvation Army Women's League have for several months taken as their community project, active participation in making dressings for cancer patients in Pitt County. The dressings project is one part of the Service program of the American Cancer Society. Mrs. John Biggs is serving as Service Chairman for the Pitt County unit of the ACS.

Women's League members and other interested people who rallied to the service have been making dressings for three Pitt County cancer patients who have required an estimated 192 dressings in the past ten days.

How Charley Hit Side Of A Train

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Here's how Charley Walker ran head-first into the side of a moving passenger train:

He was riding on a motorcycle operated by another boy when signal lights began flashing at a railroad crossing ahead. The driver of the cycle speeded up and managed to get across safely. But Charley, 15, leaped off. His momentum carried him head-first against the passing Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific train. He was hospitalized with head injuries.

A number of the women work at various jobs during the day and make dressings at night. Other Greenville organizations who have assisted the Pitt County unit of the ACS with the making of dressings, says Mrs. Biggs, are the V.F.W. Auxiliary and the Junior Woman's Club.

There are a number of ways in which individuals may help, says Mrs. Biggs. "Anyone having old, soft sheets, or old baby diapers, may call or take them to the Salvation Army office for Mrs. Hugh Carawan, the Welfare Secretary. Any person who would like to help cut or make dressings is asked to call Mrs. Carawan."

Speaking in behalf of the local unit of the American Cancer Society, Mrs. Biggs says "The assistance that has been rendered in the dressings project is a great service and we are grateful to each and every person who is helping in any way."

BY JOHN CREASEY A MATTER OF LIFE AND DEATH

CHAPTER 23

Jeremiah Edge pressed a button in the box-like contraption on his desk and a girl spoke as if from a long way off. "Yes, Mr. Edge."

"Two things, Ethel. Find out if Mr. Vance is still in his office, and put me through to Mr. Jameson."

"Yes, Mr. Edge."

Edge looked up at Rollison. "Jameson is the factory manager of Silver Queen and chief chemist," he said, and stared out of the window. Griselda Vance was on Rollison's side, and he was aware of the faint perfume, as he was very conscious of her nearness.

A man's voice rang out: "Hallo, Jerry, want me?"

"Excuse me, Mr. Edge," said the girl over the talking box. "Mr. Paul is still in his office."

"Thanks, all right. . . Yes, Reggie, can you come to my office in a hurry, bringing a few boxes of 2YC12 batch with you?"

"Repeat."

Reggie Jameson sounded as if he were in the same room.

"There won't be much of that left, it's nearly three weeks old. Couldn't come and see me could you? I've a couple of spots of bother and ought to be here for half an hour. I'll send for the powder."

"All right, I'll come," said Edge. He pressed the button, and jumped up. "Will you wait here, Griselda? Better if you're not seen in the factory."

"I'll wait," she promised.

"Good." Edge looked at Rollison. "Care to come with me, Mr. Rollison?"

"I'd like to very much."

"Good," said Edge again. Never had a man lived up to his name so truly; he could not have been more edgy. An irritant in a single box of face powder wasn't likely to have such an effect on him; and questions in Rollison's mind grew louder.

"This way," Edge opened a second door, and led the way along a narrow passage; in a few seconds they were outside.

Edge paused.

"Have you told anyone else about this, Mr. Rollison?"

"No."

"I'll be most grateful if you keep it to yourself. It may be nothing of course, but—well, I know I can be frank with a man of your reputation."

Edge smiled as if he really didn't want to be frank with anyone. "We had some trouble with a lipstick, a few weeks ago. An abrasive had been introduced into it and it scratched the lips. Luckily, it was discovered before substantial stocks left the factory, and we were able to recover all which had gone out. Then again—we had some ridiculous trouble with a nail varnish remover, a constituent with an unpleasant odor had been added. That reached the shops, but didn't get very far. He looked earnestly into Rollison's eyes. "You see why this has shaken me."

"It would shake me too," said Rollison, dryly.

"Yes, well, let's get on," Edge said, and pushed open the door of the building.

They stepped in.

A faint haze, actually of the powder, filled the air of the big room. At the long benches sat the girls, turbaned and smoked, all bending over moving belts which contained boxes.

Edge paused, near the end of one of the benches. By their side was a large bin, almost waist high, and two feet across; it was covered with a film of pinkish powder. Tiny, misty clouds of powder came from it, and from a curious contraption above it. This, also coated with the flesh-colored powder, like the floor and the walls and everything here, looked like an enormous hypodermic syringe.

A snake-like length of rubber tubing ran from the bin to the 'needle' of the syringe. A girl sitting in front of this kept taking empty boxes off a moving conveyor belt, and putting them beneath the 'needle'; powder poured from it, the box was filled, and the girl pushed it back on to the conveyor and put another underneath. In all there were a dozen machines working on the same principle.

Edge picked up an empty box. "See that," he said, and pointed. The telephone cover was already in position, sealed and drum tight—as it would be in any box of powder. He turned it upside down to reveal a hole in the cardboard bottom. "We fill it through there by that vacuum filler, then fit one of these discs"—he stretched out and picked up a disc, fitting it into the hole—"and then paste the label over it. Three different operations, partly done mechanically, of course. These are the only hand operations in the whole process."

He looked up at the 'hypodermic needle'. "That's the filler. Sucks powder out of the bin, and fills the boxes. If that—but come on."

They left the powder room, went through the smaller room next door, where the big, box-like containers were suspended in mid-air, machinery thumped and clattered, big drums were filled with powder, huge paper sacks were filled along the walls. Here, only men were working.

"This way," said Edge.

He led the way into the laboratory. Several men in white coats were busy, and no one took any notice of the newcomers. Jameson sat in a corner office with glass partitions, talking to a younger man in a white smock.

Edge opened the door.

"More trouble," growled Jameson, "one of the range mixers won't pack properly. It never rains but it pours. All right, Jem, put the whole mix aside, clean all the containers, and start over again. We'll test the batch again tomorrow." He nodded up at Edge—and Rollison.

The sight of Rollison shook him. He showed that, for a second, then seemed to recover.

Edge said: "Reggie, this is Mr. Rollison, who's brought us trouble, too."

"Oh," Jameson grunted. "What kind of trouble?"

"Is that 2YC12?" Edge asked, and picked up a familiar looking box of powder.

"Yes," grunted Jameson, and grinned: "I've had one hell of a day, sorry if I show it." He had a good, quick smile, and fine teeth.

Edge was breaking the cellophane of the box. He stuck his forefinger in, and then rubbed it on the back of his other hand. He looked at Jameson, and the now familiar kind of scared look appeared in Jameson's eyes. Slowly, he stretched out his hand, and Edge rubbed a little of the powder in.

"Mr. Rollison discovered that there was an irritant in one of these boxes," Edge said. "A box Agatha Bell says she bought from her local chemist. No doubt about the irritant, I can still feel it." He looked at the first, fading patch; the skin was faintly red.

"What's it supposed to be?" Jameson asked. "This irritant I mean."

"Powdered glass wool," Rollison said.

"No!" Jameson jumped up. "I can't believe—" he swallowed his words.

When a bad penny turns up, Rollison must look the other way. Continue the story here tomorrow.

Ancient waters, death among the mammoths, and bug wars are in the science news:

Old Water

Water in some deep wells in the Saudi Arabian desert appears to range from 20,000 to nearly 25,000 years old, three U.S. Geological Survey scientists report.

They measured the age of water through its content of radioactive carbon-14, which is formed in the atmosphere by cosmic rays, and then drifts to earth or falls in rainwater.

The deep well water may have fallen as rain during the Wisconsin glacial period when there were heavy rains, said Leland Thatcher, Meyer Rubin and Glen F. Brown. They analyzed samples of water collected by the Arabian American Oil Company.

Bug War

To fight insect pests, use bug-eating bugs, urges Carl B. Huffaker of the University of California.

He doesn't think man has done enough to enlist predatory bugs as allies in fighting pests, and thinks they can do a good job.

In a current project Huffaker is trying to find a natural enemy to control scale insects in olive trees, and says a very effective predatory insect has been imported from Persia. A related insect, from Spain, didn't work out too well, he adds.

As successes in bug-to-bug war, Huffaker cites the importation of Australian beetles to control a weed in Northern California rangelands, and the spread of milky white disease among Japanese beetles infesting eastern states.

Demise of the Mammoths

There's a wide belief that glaciers sweeping down from the north suddenly wiped out 50,000 woolly mammoths roaming the Siberian tundras 10,000 to 30,000 years ago.

But William R. Farrand of Columbia University's Lamont Geological Observatory, finds evidence against this theory.

He agrees the mammoths did die suddenly, as evidenced by food found in their teeth and stomachs, but thinks they were probably asphyxiated when they drowned in lakes or bogs, or were trapped by mudflows or cave-ins of river banks.

Only 39 remains of mammoths have been found, and this number is about what could be expected from accidental burial, he says. The fact most of the remains were decayed or mutilated by predators before freezing indicates the mammoths didn't perish suddenly in glaciers.

Moth Defenses

To keep the species alive, Emperor moths of Barro Colorado Island in the Canal Zone have developed camouflage systems and a kind of chemical defense against enemies.

In camouflage, some species when resting resemble dead leaves or bits of bark. Others use eyespot patterns on their wings which make them look bigger than they are, and make them look like enemies of small birds which normally feed on the moths reports Dr. A. D. Blest of University College, London.

Still others have developed a nauseous taste or odor to keep from becoming meals for birds. Some types of moths are actual-

Princess Paola Spilled Into Sea

SAINT-TROPEZ, France (AP)—Princess Paola, wife of Belgium's Prince Albert of Liege, and Princess Josephine Charlotte sister of King Baudouin, were spilled into the sea Wednesday when their sailboat overturned about half a mile from shore.

They spent nearly 30 minutes clinging to their capsized craft before being rescued by their husbands — Prince Albert and Prince Jean of Luxembourg—who set out in a motor canoe after seeing their plight.

The sea was calm and the princesses apparently suffered no harm.

Federal police said Wednesday 30 persons were arrested in Buenos Aires. No charges have been filed against the prisoners. They remain "at the disposition of the executive power," a form of arrest under which charges need not be filed.

Over 400 Students Will Perform In Two Concerts

Two concerts, marking the closing of the 11th annual summer music camp at East Carolina College, will be performed by 421 junior and senior high school students who are in attendance of the two-week music study.

The first concert on Friday evening, July 28, at 6:30 p.m. in the Wright auditorium will be a choral group singing "Laude Sion Salvatorem" by Buxtehude with James M. Hall of the Winston-Salem city schools as conductor. Paul David Fuller of Evansville, Indiana, 16-year-old pianist, will perform in a solo with the music camp orchestra in the performance of "Piano Concerto No. 1 in B-flat Minor" by Tchaikovsky with Donald Hayes of the college music department as conductor.

On Saturday afternoon, July 29, at 1:30 p.m. in the Wright auditorium, the majorettes and drum majors will appear in drills and maneuvers to be followed at 2:30 p.m. by performances of the white band, the red band, the blue band and choral groups.

Following the presentation of camping awards, Earl Beach, chairman of the college department of music and music camp director, will conduct a combined chorus and band in an original composition, "Alleluia," written by Dr. Martin Mailman who will join the East Carolina College faculty this fall.

Helping Hand Now No Longer Symbol But A Reality

By PATRICIA G. MCNEELY
The Columbia Record
Written for The Associated Press
CEDAR MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP)
For 16 crippled children and their families, the Easter Seal helping hand is no longer a symbol, but a reality.

These South Carolina families were among those who attended the recent fourth annual Easter Seal family camp held especially for crippled children at Camp So-cardera near here. The helping hand belongs to a Girl Scout who pushed a wheelchair along a mountain path so that a polio victim could see a fern leaf up close. It belongs to a Boy Scout who lifted a cerebral palsy victim into a mountain lake so that he could swim like other children.

The helping hand belongs to any of more than a million persons who have donated to the Easter Seal Fund, and it belongs most especially to thousands of Easter Seal staff workers who make Easter Seal projects — such as this family camp — a reality.

As the families and staff members arrived at the 4-day camp they were handed booklets which contained the "Beatitudes for the Friends of the Cerebral Palsied."

It read, "Blessed are you who ask our help, for our greatest need is to be needed. Blessed are you who take time to listen to cerebral palsied speech; for you help us to know that if we persevere, we can be understood; and blessed are you who walk with us in public places and ignore the stares of strangers, for in your companionship, we find havens of relaxation."

Parents of crippled children found consolation and understanding in discussions with other parents who were having the same experiences.

The first day the children went swimming. The crippled children had buddies who helped slip braces off and followed them into the water. There the children forgot themselves and their wheelchairs on the beach.

After the swim, the children who had been a little afraid of each other at first, talked together, some slower than others because of speech impediments, but each in his own manner.

Another day they strapped tin buckets to the sides of their wheelchairs and went on a hike through the woods. They left parents and younger brothers and sisters in camp, and they discovered ferns, moss and a little green snake.

After supper that day, the children took part in a wheel chair square dance — with the buddies pushing wheel chairs through dance formations. Afterwards they sang—and no one cared if a child couldn't pronounce the words or didn't know the tune—he still was singing.

The last night, they sat around a campfire by the lake and took part in the "Mystic order of the Easter Seal." The children wore Indian headresses that they made in handicraft classes. The "great chief" passed gold lilies to the children and said "I give you this gold lily because of your loyalty.

Each petal means that you have recognized your responsibility to God, to your family and friends, and to yourself."

The 128 persons who attended the camp are home again, but 16 crippled children throughout South Carolina will remember again and again a black-eyed susan on a mountain path; paddling for a moment in a still mountain lake; and the helping hands of Easter Seal staff members.

The camp, in its fourth year, is especially for crippled children. The U.S. Navy's Second Fleet contains carrier striking power, amphibious capabilities and other modern weapons, all of which are designed to meet any contingency from show of force to nuclear war.

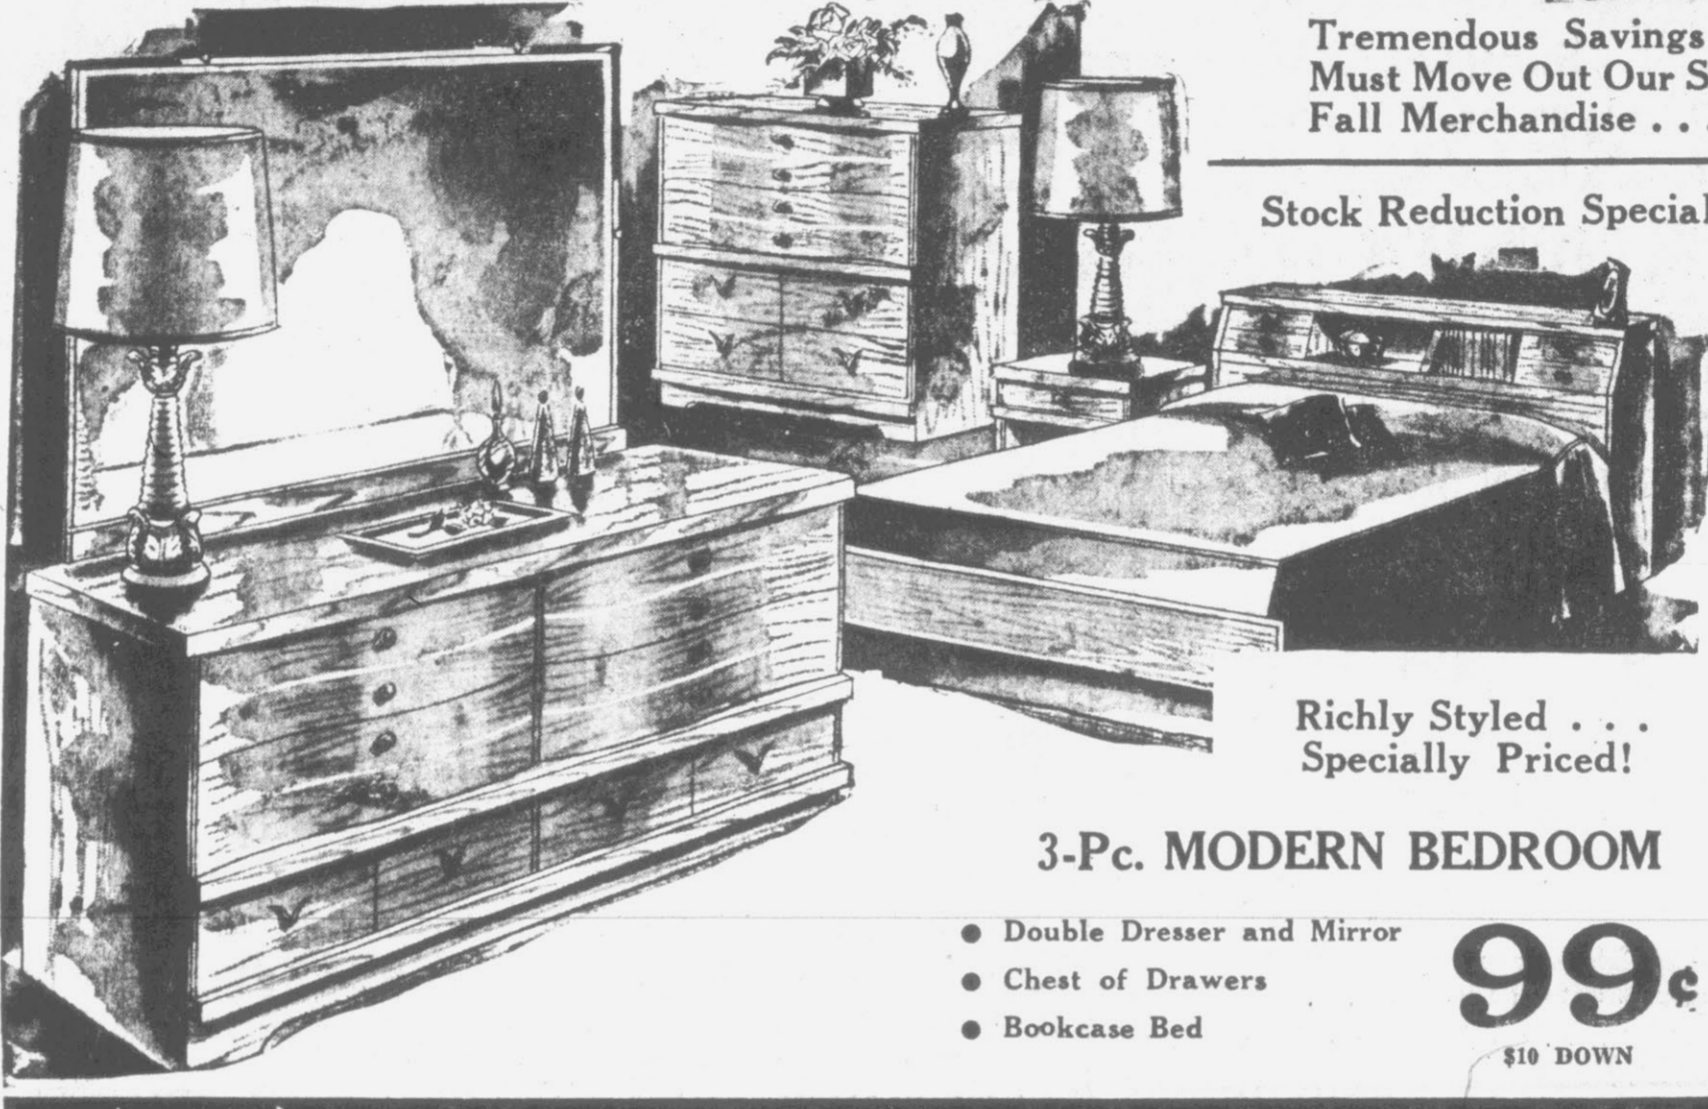

and their families. It is under the direction of Mrs. T. Jackson Lowe of Columbia and is sponsored by the Crippled Children's Society of South Carolina, Inc., which has offices at Columbia.

Staff members consist of volunteers from all over South Carolina, and expenses are taken care of by the Easter Seal Fund, although families that can afford to are asked to pay.

Furniture Firms Plan Pay Hikes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Several thousand North Carolina furniture workers are in for pay boosts.

This was revealed Wednesday as a number of firms in the state's furniture-making areas said they would raise salaries of their employees generally about five cents an hour within the next month.

A spokesman for one of the group said the raises do not mean the industry is enjoying any sort of a boom. The hikes, the spokesman continued, are based on normal increases in fall business.

The spokesman described the condition of the industry as "extremely competitive." Still, the spokesman went on, the pay hikes compare favorably with or are higher than the average for the furniture industry.

At Thomasville, more than 2,000 production workers of Thomasville Furniture Industries will get a 5 cent hourly raise. The increase, effective Monday, will boost the annual payroll of the firm by $250,000.

The Thomasville furniture firm early this month merged with B. F. Huntley Furniture of Winston-Salem. However, 500 employees at Winston-Salem are not covered in the pay increase, an announcement in Thomasville said.

Five furniture factories jointly announced a general five cent hourly raise for 2,500 to 3,000 employees. They are Dixie, Link-Taylor, United, and Philpott of Lexington and Dixie's Asheboro division.

A spokesman for the group said the raises would amount to about $300,000 a year. The spokesman also said every employee at the five plants will be making at least $1.20 an hour when the raises become effective next month. New employees will be paid at least $1.15 an hour.

United and Philpott said they planned to put their wage boosts into effect Aug. 9. The others said they would institute the raises at the beginning of varying pay periods.

Ready To Make A Cutting Deal

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Dale Gasper, 24, needs an upper dental plate and he wants to make a deal with some dentist.

He'll give a dentist two years of barber service in return for the chompers.

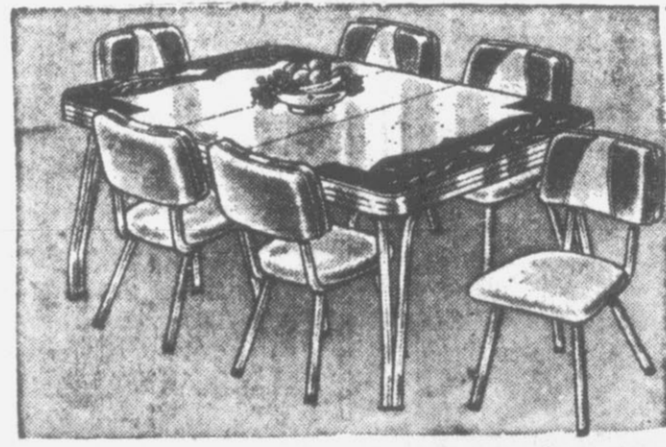

Gasper said a dentist placed the cost of a plate at $250. He figures 52 haircuts, 52 tonic massages and 26 shampoos are worth $171.

"I've got four sons to feed," Gasper said Wednesday. "They're good eaters. The way our food bills run, it wouldn't be easy to scrape up $150. And I need those teeth now."

JUBILANT CHAMPS . . . Gastonia's state Teen-er baseball champs were all smiles, shouts and cheers after their 3-1 conquest of Elizabeth City's all-stars last night. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Gastonia's Teen-er baseballers last night completed their three-game sweep of the State Teen-er baseball tourney at Guy Smith Stadium with a 3-1 win over Elizabeth City.

In winning the double-elimination event, Coach Russ Bergmann's Gastonians look another stride toward successfully defending their national Teen-er crown. Gastonia enters the Area 4 tournament in Gastonia Tuesday and Wednesday against state tourney champs from Tennessee and Georgia.

Candler Bumgardner, Bergmann's starting mound choice last night, blanked Elizabeth City for five innings. He yielded only one hit—a leadoff single by James Pike in the sixth—in going the distance.

Pike scored Elizabeth City's only run when he scampered around to third on an error by the third baseman and came home on a grounder to short. On the play, Charles Hamrick—who raced to second when his grounder to third was errored—advanced to third.

Hamrick represented the tying run for Elizabeth City with nobody out, however, Bumgardner fanned the next two batters and got Gary Hess on a lazy fly to left to end the inning.

Bumgardner, a fireballing right-hander with a sharp-breaking curve, yielded his third walk of the game with two away in the top of the seventh. However, Pike smashed a line drive into the glove of shortstop Bruce Bolick for the game-ending out that sewed up the trophy for Gastonia.

Gastonia scored its decisive runs in the fifth inning when Roddey Edwards opened the inning with a single and advanced to second on a passed ball. Tony Hill's single to center scored Edwards from second base and John Paysour sacrificed Hill into scoring position. Bolick then lined a single to leftfield to score Hill.

The Gastonia fifth broke a scoreless tie and left Bumgardner with a 2-0 advantage. After he had slammed the door on Elizabeth City with only one run in the top of the sixth, he and his mates stretched a base on balls, a fielder's choice and a single into another run for the final 3-1 decision.

In going the distance, Bumgardner struck out nine Elizabeth City batters. The only hit he allowed barely eluded the outstretched glove of second baseman Paysour.

A thundershower at the beginning of the sixth inning threatened to abbreviate the game with Gastonia leading 2-0; however, the rainfall was light enough to allow completion of the remaining inning-and-a-half.

The championship trophy was presented to the Gastonia team immediately following the final out. Elizabeth City received the runner-up trophy.

Gastonia catcher Ray Pike, outstanding at the plate and on defense during the tournament, was awarded the tourney's Outstanding Player award.

Trophies were presented by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, sponsors of the state tourney.

Score by innings:

College Squad Is 'One Of Best'

RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP) — "The college All-Star squad is the best in at least 11 years," says George Halas, whose Chicago Bears are willing to agree with him.

Head Coach Otto Graham brought the collegians to the Bears training site at St. Joseph's College Wednesday in full-game scrimmage and they unveiled a passing attack to battle the Bears to a 14-14 stalemate.

It was the All-Stars main tune-up for their game with the Philadelphia Eagles, 1960 National Football League champions, in Soldier Field Aug. 4.

Defensively, the Collegians — fortified by such players as Emil Holub of Texas Tech, Joe Rutgens of Illinois, Claude Gibson of North Carolina State and Marlin McKeever of Southern California — held the Bears to 77 yards running and 103 passing.

Offensively, quarterback Bill Kilmer of UCLA, Norman Sneed of Wake Forest and Tom Matte of Ohio State blew up quite a storm. After spotting the Bears a 14-0 lead, Kilmer completed eight out of 11 passes in an 80-yard scoring surge. His targets were Aaron Thomas of Oregon State, Mike Ditka of Pittsburgh, Pervis Atkins of New Mexico State and Blynn Gregory of Southern Methodist.

He took turns hitting them, with Pervis catching a 22-yard toss for the touchdown.

The collegians evened it up in the fourth period on a 75-yard drive in 12 plays. Matte started it and led the team to the Bear 35 with a 13-yard flat pass to Navy's Joe Bellino.

Hitting—Frank Robinson, Reds — hit a two-run homer in eighth inning for 3-2 victory over Milwaukee that kept Cincinnati in league lead.

Pitching—Frank Lary, Tigers—won his 14th by beating Los Angeles 5-4 to keep Tigers half game back of leading Yankees.

Blanchard Hits 2 Homers For Line In Record Book

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

Shed a tear for the poor statisticians. They will be wallowing knee deep in obsolete record books if the Yankees keep hitting those home runs.

Johnny Blanchard was the latest to earn a line in the book. He hit two homers in successive turns at bat Wednesday in a 5-2 New York victory over Chicago. Coupled with pinch homers Friday and Saturday in Boston, this gave Blanchard four homers on four consecutive appearances at bat. It was the 12th time it had been done. Ralph Kiner did it twice.

Mickey Mantle hit No. 39, only one behind Roger Maris' total of 40 in their exciting race to break Babe Ruth's record of 60, set in 1927.

Four Yankee homers, including one by Clete Boyer, boosted the total to 31 since the All-Star game July 11 and 155 for the season. The record for the American League is only 190, set by the 1956 Yanks.

Detroit remained right on the heels of the Yanks, trailing by only a half game when the Tigers defeated the Los Angeles Angels behind Frank Lary. Detroit also went to the homer with Rocky Colavito slamming No. 29 and Al Kaline No. 13.

Four Baltimore pitchers held Boston to eight hits in a doubleheader while the Orioles swept the pair 5-1 and 9-2. Billy Hoef, Wes Stock and Hoyt Wilhelm teamed up with a two-hitter in the opener. Jack Fisher went all the way in the second with a six-hitter.

Woody Held and Jimmy Piersall each had four hits in Cleveland's 17-hit attack in a 12-5 victory over Kansas City. Gary Bell was the winner over Norm Bass in relief of Jim Archer.

Minnesota piled up an early lead, added four runs in the sixth and withstood a closing surge by Washington for a 10-9 decision. Ray Moore, fifth Twins' pitcher, finally saved Dagoberto Cueto's first major league victory. Dave Sisler lost in relief.

In the National League, Cincinnati remained one game in front of Los Angeles. The Reds rallied to nip Milwaukee 3-2 and the Dodgers beat Philadelphia 6-1. Pittsburgh broke a five-game losing streak by defeating San Francisco 8-3 and Chicago edged St. Louis 7-6 in 12 innings.

Roland Sheldon pitched a four-hitter for the Yanks, easing along behind all those homers off loser Ray Herbert.

Left-handed Don Moeller was roughed up for four of the five Detroit runs, suffering a sixth defeat.

Hagen Supposed To Give Award And Received It

CHICAGO (AP) — Golf's immortal Walter Hagen, still a bundle of charm and poise at 215 pounds and 68 years young, was in a quandary at Olympia Fields Country Club Wednesday evening.

Hagen received the first Walter Hagen award, to be awarded annually to any person who has made the most distinguished contribution to the furtherance of Anglo-American golf.

"I was supposed to present this trophy to somebody and now I'm stymied," said the Haig.

"How can I present a trophy and be the recipient at the same time? There just isn't any club I can pull out of the bag to get out of this stymie."

The award was presented to Hagen by the Golf Writers Association of America in recognition of his feat in winning at least one major international title for 11 successive years. He won the British Open four times and seven times captained the U.S. Ryder Cup team.

And the presentation was made on the eve of the 43rd National PGA Tourney because Hagen won the PGA title five times — including an unprecedented string of four straight, 1924 through 1927.

Look Who's Top Batter In League

WAYLAND, Mich. (AP) — Gail Hoffman, a freckled eighth grader, leads the Wayland, Mich., Midget League with a whopping .600 batting average.

And this 90-pounder, captain of the team, is a sure-handed second baseman who has made only four errors in 10 games.

Some of the other youngsters are jealous of Gail's success and many of the opposing teams are clamoring to have the league's top hitter thrown out of the league.

You see, Gail is a girl — the only one in the league.

Robinson Rescues Reds In Staving Off Los Angeles

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
Cincinnati came within an eye-lash of slipping out of first place in the National League Wednesday night, but once again Frank Robinson came to the rescue.

Robinson's two-run homer in the eighth, following a pinch homer by Gus Bell provided a 3-2 victory over Milwaukee and staved off the onrushing Los Angeles Dodgers for at least one more day.

Lindy McDaniel with the bases full and two out in the 12th gave the Chicago Cubs a 7-6 decision over St. Louis.

Milwaukee rookie Don Notbart was shutting out the Reds 2-0 when Gus Bell went up to hit for Ken Johnson, Cincinnati's new pitcher from Toronto, in the eighth. Bell's homer into the right field bleachers took care of the shutout. The victory went to Johnson.

Friend got better as the game went along in Pittsburgh. Dick Lemay, victim of Friend's tie-breaking single, was the loser.

The winning spurt of the Cubs against the Cardinals started as Ron Santo singled with one out. He moved to second on an infield out and took third on a wild pitch. McDaniel then walked Ernie Banks and Ed Bouchee intentionally before Will came off the bench to win it for relief man Barney Schultz.

Patterson Plans October Defense

BOSTON (AP)—Barring unforeseen developments, Floyd Patterson will defend his world heavyweight title against unbeaten Tom McNeely in Boston Oct. 23 despite the threat of NBA action against the champion.

Neither Patterson nor McNeely, from suburban Arlington, attended the three-minute meeting, and they have not yet signed the contracts for the fight.

Bolan, 32, however, said the signing is little more than a technicality.

"The contracts are in the hands of lawyers," the promoter said. "They are very complicated things. As soon as the lawyers get them straightened out, Patterson will come to Boston to sign."

Bolan, of New York, said he will set up an office here next week and the champion will sign not long after—"within a two week period from now."

McNeely, a one-time Michigan State football player, owns victories over George Logan, Uli Ritter and Willi Besmanoff in his unbeaten career.

The NBA has criticized him as an unfit opponent for the champion.

Bolan said the fight will be televised, probably home TV rather than closed circuit, but that television arrangements are not yet complete.

The fight, Boston's first heavyweight championship bout since Joe Louis knocked out Al McCoy in six rounds Dec. 16, 1940, will be in the 13,909 capacity Boston Garden with tickets scaled from a $100 top.

Norm Larker's grand slam home run converted Don Drysdale's five-hitter into a 6-1 victory over Philadelphia as the Dodgers won their eighth in the last nine starts. Drysdale was locked in a duel with Frank Sullivan, replacement for the injured Jim Owens, when Larker clouted his first grand slammer.

Pittsburgh snapped a five-game losing streak by downing San Francisco 8-3. Bob Friend, who gave up 12 hits, broke a tie with a two-out bases-loaded single in the sixth inning.

Sao Paulo, Brazil — Eder Jofre, 121, Brazil, knocked out Sadao Yaota, 120, Japan, 10 (non-title).

Dedham, Mass. — Paul Stivilletta, 147, Dedham, outpointed Frankie Madison, 143, New York, 8.

The National Boxing Association has threatened to strip Patterson of his title if he defends against McNeely rather than one of the top-ranked challengers, McNeely, unbeaten in 23 bouts, is not ranked.

A giant step toward making the fight a reality was accomplished Wednesday when the Massachusetts Boxing Commission—not a member of the NBA—granted a promoter's license to Championship Sports Inc., and a matchmaker's license to Al Bolan.

Richards Looks For Moundsmen

BOSTON (AP) — Manager Paul Richards of Baltimore, obviously looking for pitching help, changed four of his hurlers on the American League team for the second 1961 All-Star game in Boston next Monday.

The lineup for the July 31 game was announced by American League President Joe Cronin today.

American League pitchers were thumped for 11 hits in the National League's 5-4, 10-inning victory in San Francisco July 11, the 10th victory in the last 14 games for the National.

Richards, permitted to change any or all of his pitchers for the second game, shifted to relief specialist Luis Arroyo of the New York Yankees, Barry Latman of Cleveland, durable Camilo Pascual of Minnesota and rookie right-hander Don Schwall of the Boston Red Sox.

They replace Mike Fornieles of Boston, Frank Lary of Detroit, Jim Perry of Cleveland and Billy Pierce of Chicago.

Holdover pitchers from the first game are Jim Bunning of Detroit, Dick Donovan of Washington, Whitey Ford of the Yankees, Ken McBride of Los Angeles and Hoyt Wilhelm of Baltimore.

Richards, permitted to add three players to the 25-man team that played the first game, selected first basemen Roy Sievers of Chicago and Bill Skowron of New York and outfielder Tito Francona of Cleveland.

The eight players elected by vote of league managers, coaches and players in June who started in the San Francisco game, also must start the second game.

Wilson Tumbles To Bottom Of Loop Standings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The adage about the first being last was realized in the Carolina League Wednesday night.

Wilson, first half-season champion, went down to the cellar after losing to Greensboro, 7-6. The Tobs displaced the Yanks as the bottom club.

Winston-Salem got a strong performance from hurler Frank Kreuzer, in a 4-3 win over Durham. The other game of the night, Burlington at Raleigh, was rained out.

Three runs in the eighth inning brought Greensboro its victory over Wilson. Ike Futch's double into the left field corner pushed over the winning run. Gene Domaiski had a two-run homer for the Yanks in the first inning.

Kewutzer also helped win his ninth game of the season by scoring two of his team's four runs.

Games tonight: Greensboro at Winston-Salem, Burlington at Durham, and Raleigh at Wilson.

Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers hurled a two-hitter and a three-hitter last season.

United Fund Priority Goes To Meeting Agency Needs

United Fund has adopted a policy of meeting the needs of participating agencies before townships and communities are eligible for money to support their community services from the United Fund.

The policy change was announced today by Walter B. Jones, president of the United Fund. It will apply to the distribution of funds raised in the forthcoming 1961-62 campaign.

"After very serious consideration of the United Fund purpose, that is, complete support of the major health, welfare, and recreation agencies that serve all of Pitt County, this policy has been undertaken," Jones said. "If we can adequately support these agencies, we feel that the United Fund will accomplish its overall purpose."

These agencies are: The American Red Cross, The Mental Health Association, The Salvation Army, The Association for Retarded Children, The Boy Scouts of America, The Girl Scouts of America, The Association for the Blind, and the member agencies of Carolinas United; The United Service Organization, The North Carolina Association for Mental Health, The United Medical Research Foundation of North Carolina, The American Social Health Association, The American Hearing Association, The Florence Crittenton Home, The Children's Home Society, The International Social Service, The Travelers Aid Societies, The National Recreation Association, The National Council on Crime and Delinquency and The National Welfare Assembly.

Jones stated the policy that has been adopted is "The needs of the above mentioned agencies should be met before any township or community is eligible for any money to support its Community Services from the United Fund."

To accomplish this each Township in the county will be asked to meet a Fair-Share amount before any funds may be given back to the Township for its Community Services.

Each township community service and the member agencies will share all money raised over the Township Fair-Share amount and the Township Community Service needs with a ratio of 75 per cent to the Community Services and 25 per cent to the member agencies.

The Pitt County United Fund, Inc. will help each township organize and raise the necessary Fair-Share amount during its September and October, 1961-1962 United Fund Campaign and handle the billing of all pledges through its office. It will also be responsible for distributing all funds to the agencies and community services based on the payments received.

Jones went on to state "A committee is now working on the establishment of Fair-Share amounts for each community and we will resolve these objectives in the near future."

"We earnestly hope that everyone will accept this policy and give all of their support to it, so that this year's United Fund can be the most outstanding ever and that each agency and community service organization can achieve enough funds to meet their pressing needs," Jones stated.

Young Ballplayers, Parents Are Guests At Dinner

Little Leaguers of the Moose Lodge team, their parents, lodge committee chairmen and officers Tuesday night attended an awards dinner given for the young ballplayers.

Civic Affairs committee chairman Sam Brooks told the gathering "we are happy and proud to have you with us tonight, and proud of the parents who have helped the Little League program with their interest and support."

Brooks recalled that sponsorship of a Little League team is "lots of fun," but more than "it helps prepare the boys for the future and they learn to meet on the playing field all of the problems they will meet as adults."

Symbolic of the appreciation

voiced by Moose officials for the youngsters' role on the baseball team, small trophies were presented each player.

Lodge Governor Charles McAndrew introduced coach Dick Jones and paid tribute to his service during the past season.

Jones, in turn, said that aside from enjoying the work, "parents could be proud of the boys. All conducted themselves exceptionally well in both winning and losing, on the field and off the field."

Two Executed For Speculating

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio said Wednesday night two Soviets have been executed by a firing squad for speculating with Soviet money.

The victims—named as Y. T. Rokotov and V. P. Faybishensko—were the first to die under recently announced Soviet laws providing the death sentence for profiteering in currency.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITION
DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—One Des Moines church choir has an original composition it sings at the yearly picnic, or at other off-schedule occasions. The name of the tune is "Church Choir Boogie."

'New Frontier' Program Put In Jeopardy By Defense Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy apparently has put in jeopardy part of his New Frontier program by his call for additional defense spending.

Spurred by the popular support Kennedy aroused in taking his case to the nation Tuesday night, Congress is in the process of giving him the $3,454,000,000 he asked—plus a year's authority to boost military manpower—as speedily as its ponderous machinery can operate.

But the enthusiasm with which members of both parties are backing the chief executive in the buildup of arms strength in connection with the Berlin crisis is matched by the misgivings with many view the fiscal future.

Republicans have taken the lead in demanding domestic economies aimed at pruning what they say otherwise may be a deficit in excess of $5 billion for the fiscal year ending next June 30. Conservative Democrats are talking in the same terms.

The Republican Congressional Committee said in a statement Wednesday night that "the President can't have it both ways" and "must shelve unnecessary civilian spending for the duration of the international emergency."

"We cannot afford the fat of social experimentation at this time if we are to develop the sinews of survival," the statement said.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., called on Kennedy to turn his attention immediately to "curtailment of all non-defense expenditures . . . which may be desirable but not absolutely necessary." Kennedy has established a fairly good batting average in combating the traditional Republican-Southern Democratic coalition and getting Congress' approval of legislation dealing with distressed areas, housing, minimum wage, Social Security and unemployment compensation.

But the increased military outlays have injected a new element in this contest—the prospect of a whopping budget deficit or increased taxes in 1962, when all House seats and one-third of those in the Senate are up for grabs in the election. Kennedy has left the tax question open but said he wants a strictly balanced budget next year.

Kennedy owes passage of some of his New Frontier proposals to liberal Republicans who have supplied the necessary margin of votes. These Republicans want social legislation passed. But they are just as wary as their conservative colleagues of being tagged as budget busters or having to vote for tax increases in an election year.

So where the Kennedy measures call for increased treasury outlays—and most of them do—the President is likely to find a strengthened coalition opposing him.

No Ticket, But Volunteers Pay

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—A woman motorist walked into police headquarters and asked do you pay a fine for going through a red light?

Hughes asked for her traffic ticket.

"I don't have one," said Helen Keitley. "No one saw me go through the light."

The officer didn't accept the fine.

CORVAIR WINS AGAIN

LADIES' PRIZE-4,200-MILE TRANS-CANADA RALLY!

CORVAIR BY CHEVROLET

The smiling lady you see at left is Denise McCluggage. With navigator Starr Hammen, she's just driven over 4,200 miles in seven days. One reason Denise is wearing the smile is that she and Starr won the coveted Coupe des Dames in this rugged Trans-Canada Rally, topping every other women's team entered. Another reason is that they beat some 90% of all the men's teams entered. In a rally, of course, you're given specific speeds (within legal limits) at which to complete each portion of the route. A minute early, a minute late—and you're penalized. Total penalties for Denise and Starr (remember, this event was 4,200 miles long): four minutes. Four.

Their car was a rally-equipped Corvair Monza Four-Door. This Trans-Canada Rally, competitors told us, was one of the most searing tests of car and crew in the world. They fought snow and dust, mountains and lonely plains, all the way from Montreal to Vancouver, British Columbia.

The Corvairs won the respect of everybody. And "everybody" includes some of Europe's finest rallyists, not to mention a goodly portion of Canada's population. But then, winning respect is an old habit of Corvair's. If you don't believe it, try a drive in one at your Chevrolet dealer's. You'll soon be a true believer.

Attention Today Is On Draft Boards And Recruiters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Hundreds of thousands of small cards today were taken from desk drawers and the hidden recesses of wallets where they had lain unnoticed for months—even years.

President Kennedy Wednesday asked for more personnel in the armed forces, and overnight the most closely scrutinized card in the nation became the "notice of classification" issued by the Selective Service System.

Telephone calls in some instances two score more than the normal number, began to flood the switchboards of draft boards in every state, county, city and hamlet.

The American male wanted to know just where he stood in the President's plans to beef up the armed forces.

Thousands of others, apparently resigned to their 1-A classification, sought out the armed forces recruiting centers. They wanted to know what was being offered to the enlistee.

Civil Defense headquarters across the country were deluged with calls from citizens wanting to know what precautions they could take to avert the devastation of an enemy air attack.

Even the newest state, Hawaii, reported queries on Selective Service status had tripled in 24 hours. Officials there described the volume of telephone calls and personal visits to the offices as

"just tremendous."
 Though the armed forces recruiting centers did a hand-office business—in some cases judged equal to activities during the Korean War—many reported "plenty of questions but few enlistments."

Boston reported an exceptionally high number of calls to its draft headquarters from mothers and wives seeking to determine how the President's request will affect their sons and husbands.

By noon Wednesday, 25 men had applied for enlistment; the normal run is 3 or 4 a day.

Omaha, Neb., draft board officials said they received "scores of calls asking, 'Where do I stand?'"

Arizona Selective Service personnel said "the phones are ringing as fast as we hang them up."

Memphis, Tenn., reported draft board offices were the "busiest since the Korean War—but there was no recruiting spurt in the area."

The Selective Service office in Washington, D.C., received 2,000 calls compared with the normal 200 requesting information on draft status.

Depression-Era Debt Is Squared

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A depression-era debt of $51.58 written off as uncollectable 30 years ago, has been squared.

A check for the amount arrived at the office of D. V. Johnson, owner of the Tennessee Grain and Flour Co. Johnson said the check was sent by a Vienna, Ga. man—a former storekeeper — to pay a flour bill. He declined to name the man.

"The man wrote about two weeks ago and said he was 71 years old, and finally had the money to pay," Johnson said.

"He wanted to know if we would charge him interest, and we wrote back and said we wouldn't."
 "A few days later we got his check. It's had time enough to bounce back so I'm figuring it's good."

No Joking, She Had Four Birdies

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Auto mechanic Ange Marsh learned Wednesday to take women at their word.

Clare A. Goetz of Greentree took her car to Marsh's garage and said, "I have a couple birdies in the front end. Would you please remove them."

Marsh figured she jokingly had meant there were squeaks in the car.
 But she wasn't joking. Marsh opened the hood and found four baby wrens in a nest on a bracket behind the grillwork.

Recruiting offices for all the branches of the armed forces at San Diego, Calif., reported a flood of inquiries. "It has been a madhouse," said a Marine recruiter. Most recruiting offices there said not all the inquirers were ready to sign up.

Probably one of the most common reasons for the calls to draft boards was requests to correct existing records of individuals.

Many called to remind Selective Service officials that they had become fathers one or more times since their latest visit to the draft board.

Others wanted the board officials to know that their mother or father, or an aged aunt or uncle had in recent months become a dependent.

Col. Frank J. Graf, deputy director of the Pennsylvania Selective Service System, said, "generally over the state people came in correcting records."

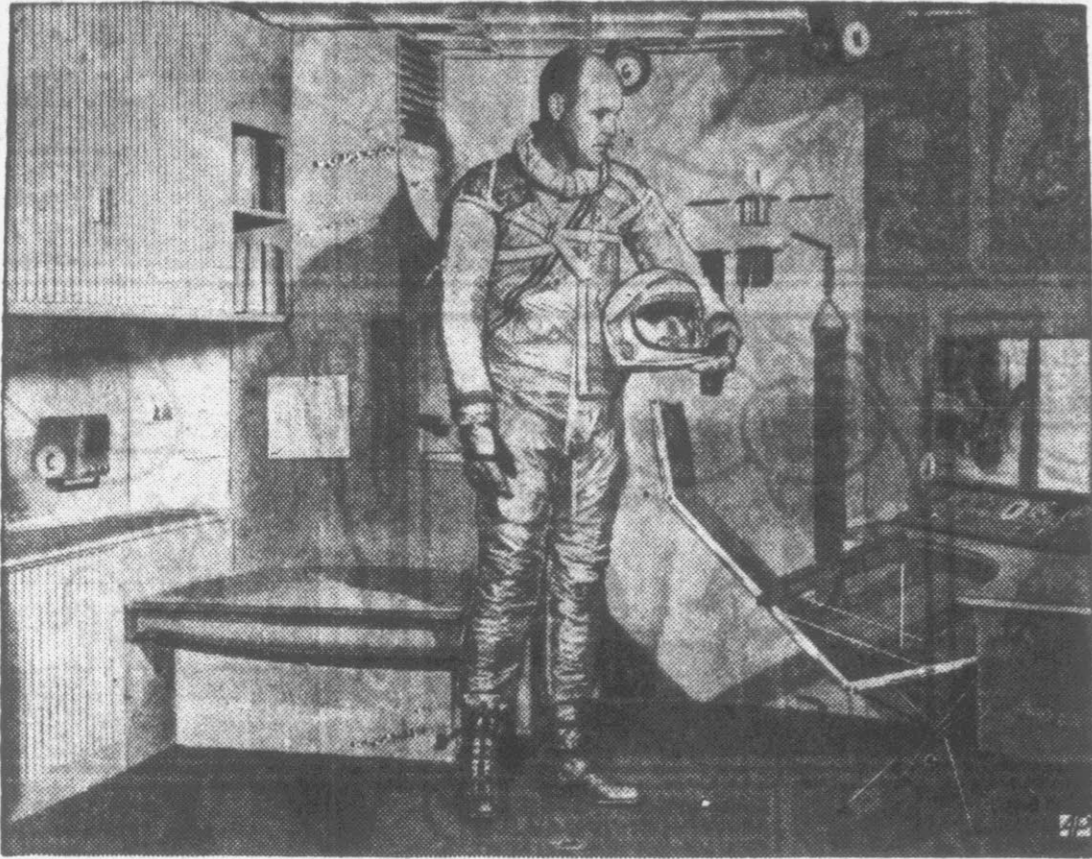

"Many men suddenly realized they had better bring their records up to date," he said. "Many queries were from married men with children, wanting to know if they will be called."

Here are some comments taken at random from Selective Service officials in various parts of the nation:
 Chattanooga, Tenn. — "Hundreds of calls. A lot of them wanted to know if their children had been recorded. Many requests for fall-out shelter information."
 Charlotte, N.C. — One day's calls equal in volume to an average month's load.
 Connecticut — About eight times more than normal number of calls at recruiting booths.
 Cook County, (Chicago), Ill. — "Swamped with hundreds of men inquiring about their draft status."

St. Louis, Mo. — "Telephones loaded all day."
 San Francisco — "A big increase in the number of queries of draft status."
 Baltimore — Recruiting centers "a little busier than usual but they are not standing in line."
 Southern Florida — "Flooded with calls from draft-age people asking what is their status."
 Little Rock, Ark. — "Many calls asking clarification of addresses and marital status."
 Los Angeles — "The telephones were going all day at the draft boards."
 Kansas City, Kan. — "Quite an increase in the telephone queries."
 Utah — Three-to-one boost in the normal number of inquiries.
 Portland, Maine — "We were absolutely swamped with phone calls from the time we opened up until the time we left. It was the same as when the Lebanon crisis broke out."
 Dallas, Tex. — Civil Defense and Disaster Commission reported

"the telephones have been ringing off the wall."
 At Albany, N.Y., military recruiting offices in the area received numerous inquiries, but few actual enlistments.

Other Protective Measures Prepared By OCDM

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Civil defense authorities, concerned about the slow acceptance to the home shelter idea and misconceptions about such factors as evacuation, are working on protective devices for the average citizen.

Too many Americans still conceive of shelter as a costly blast-proof structure with three-foot walls.

Census Bureau Sends Regrets

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—The U.S. Bureau of the Census expressed regrets Wednesday to the community of Fenton in St. Louis County for an error in the 1960 census—it missed four-fifths of Fenton's residents.

The new, corrected count for Fenton is 1,059. The total originally reported by the census bureau was 207.

A recheck was made on the complaint of Fenton Mayor Garrett Hitzert.

Such shelters still are recommended, but the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization says that in a great many cases an ordinary basement would do if it were provided with a wind-baffle entrance to block contaminated dust.

Current civil defense thinking accepts the idea that millions would be in the wrong place if catastrophe came. These would be killed.

The big idea now is to save those who, having escaped the blasts, are still vulnerable to radioactive fallout. The aim is to provide the survivors with shelter from the particles that are sucked up in nuclear explosions, carried on high, strong winds, and deposited on cities and countryside perhaps hundreds of miles away.

President Kennedy tried to straighten out this misconception in his message to Congress in May.

"Civil defense," he said, "cannot give an assurance of blast protection. And it cannot deter a nuclear attack. But civil defense can be readily justifiable as insurance for the civilian population in case of an enemy miscalculation."

"There is no point in delaying the initiation of a nationwide long range program. There also are misconceptions about evacuation, officials believe with good reason that an 11th hour mass exodus in private cars would end quickly in a hopeless jam.

Actually, evacuation is not conceived of as a final, panicky flight while missiles streak toward their targets. It is now viewed chiefly as an advance precaution, taken in particularly vulnerable areas if deteriorating international conditions make it seem advisable.

Assuming the cooperation of Congress, authorities have further plans for the average citizen. OCDM research people are working on these items, for instance: An "air raid siren in every home."

This is the small buzzer box, already under test in Michigan, which can be wired to the electrical system of the dwelling for $7.50 or a little more.

A "civilian mask"—a compact and lightweight relative of the gas mask, this device is designed in children and adult sizes to filter out poisons of radiological, chemical or biological origin. OCDM hopes it could be mass-produced and sold at low cost.

A do-it-yourself radiation kit. A simple detection kit has been developed but costs $20. OCDM hopes the cost can be cut.

Until last week's White House order giving the Pentagon major responsibility for civil defense, there was behind-scenes conflict here over whether the military establishment should take over the warning, communications and research and development programs as well as the management of the shelter drive.

The Governors' Conference and the United States Conference of Mayors—evidently believing that civilians would come off second best if military establishment men were making the decisions—issued strong statements favoring continued civilian control under the OCDM.

Instructors Quit; Plan Own School

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Four hundred professors and instructors resigned from the medical school of San Marcos University Wednesday in a dispute with students. The professors then voted to set up a private medical college.

San Marcos is supported by the government and students have a voice in the administration of its various schools with the exception of the medical school.

Student agitation to get a voice in administration of the medical school was followed by a resolution by the national Chamber of Deputies to provide a "co-government" by students and faculty members. The Senate voted to refer the matter to a special commission for study.

Add Program To Train Teachers Of The Retarded

A new program leading to certification of teachers preparing to teach the mentally handicapped is being added to the curriculum of the Department of Education of East Carolina College, President Leo W. Jenkins announced Thursday.

The program, effective with the beginning of the Fall quarter of the 1961-62 college year, is designed to meet the demand of teachers desiring professional preparation in this area.

The new program to prepare teachers of the mentally handicapped adds to the curriculum offerings in speech correction presently offered at East Carolina.

Basic course requirements will include studies of exceptional children, tests and measurements in special education, psychology of the exceptional child and mental hygiene.

The program of certification for the mentally handicapped child, according to Dr. Robert L. Holt, dean of instruction, and Dr. Douglas R. Jones, chairman of the Department of Education, offers courses in the problems, materials and methods in teaching mentally retarded children, mental deficiency, arts and crafts, social treatment of the feeble-minded, and clinical or abnormal psychology.

In announcing the addition of this program in the Department of Education, Dr. Jenkins pointed out that East Carolina College is desirous of aiding in this new approach to the needs of large numbers of children for whom there has been a shortage of prepared teachers.

Hammarskjold Ends His Probe Of Bizerte Crisis

TUNIS (AP)—U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold left for New York today after a three-day on-the-spot study of the explosive Bizerte crisis. He did not hide his bitterness at a French snub.

Sources close to Hammarskjold said he was particularly annoyed by the refusal of Vice Adm. Maurice Amman, French commander of the Bizerte base, to see him. Amman said he acted on orders from Paris. The French government earlier accused the secretary-general of showing favoritism toward Tunisia.

Hammarskjold told newsmen he was concerned by what he described as French refusal to withdraw to the base after a ceasefire.

"You know my reaction," he said. "I believe that now I have a complete picture of the situation."

"Are you optimistic?" a newsmen asked.

"I am," Hammarskjold replied. "In this world you have to be an optimist."

Hammarskjold left aboard a special plane for Rome where he is to take a commercial airliner for New York.

Pursuing his customary policy of uncommunicativeness to newsmen, the U.N. secretary-general said nothing about any recommendations he might be taking back to the Security Council. The council is expected to meet soon after his return for further discussion of the crisis between France and Tunisia.

Hammarskjold was rebuffed in an attempt to see the French commander in Tunisia, and the French foreign office said it would be useless for him to visit Paris. The French attitude marked a further deterioration in relations between France and the world organization, of which President Charles de Gaulle has grown increasingly contemptuous.

Hammarskjold, who came here at the invitation of Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba, said he hoped "common sense and human wisdom" would prevent any further fighting around the French naval and air base at Bizerte.

De Gaulle's government, pointedly ignoring the U.S. said in a statement Wednesday night it wanted peace talks soon "between French and Tunisian authorities."

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of any of these men is asked to contact the local board.

Play Will Close College Series

Kaleidoscope, a touring theatrical group, will present "Under Milkwood," a dramatic masterpiece by the late Dylan Thomas, as the final number in the series.

The play is a moving and hilarious account of a Spring day in a small Welsh coast town which the playwright, Thomas completed just before his tragic death in 1953.

Kaleidoscope is a comparatively new theatrical group touring a variety of seldom-produced plays by leading writers. Bill Fegan is producer; Allen Bales is director; and Gene Wilson is scenic designer for the group.

Drama critics have called it a masterpiece written by Thomas, and from many reviews "Under Milkwood" has been described as "a dazzling combination of poetic fireworks and music-hall humor."

Admission will be free to the public. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.
