Car Strikes 12-Year-Old

FRONT OF CAR . . . which struck and fatally injured a 12-year-old Falkland girl last night.

Injuries Are Fatal To Falkland Child

A 12-year-old girl died in Pitt Memorial Hospital at 6:50 a.m. today from injuries received last night when she was struck by a car about one mile west of Falkland. The death was the fifth traffic fatality recorded in Pitt County this year.

The child, Ruth Carol Wilkinson of Route 1, Box 129 Fountain, was struck by a car in front of her home on N.C. 43 about 7:30 p.m., according to Highway Patrolman W. L. Whitehead, who investigated the fatal mishap.

Whitehead quoted witnesses as saying the girl was running down the highway on the left side (headed west), and darted across the road into the path of the car which struck her.

The vehicle, which was about traveling west, was being driven by Mathan O'Berry Bass, 29, of 219 Willow St., Rocky Mount.

Whitehead said an estimated $150 damage resulted to the front of the car as a result of the impact. No charges were made.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey said today that his investigation of the death is continuing. He noted that the death was "apparently from head injuries received in the accident."

The girl suffered both head and back injuries in the mishap, officers reported.

Coroner Harvey explained that "an inquest will probably be held" but no date has been set.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Williamson, she would have been in the fifth grade at the Falkland School this fall.

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee today approved a bill to permit the lease and transfer of tobacco acreage allotments.

The measure, introduced by Rep. D. R. Matthews, D-Fla., would limit such leases to a period of one year and require approval of county agriculture officials.

Eastern Belt May Set Opening At Tuesday Meet

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — The date for opening of tobacco auctions on the huge Eastern North Carolina Belt probably will be set at a meeting here Tuesday.

"We are going to try to arrive at what we think will be a practical date," said Julian Fenner, president of the Eastern North Carolina Warehouse Association.

Fenner said the association's Sales Committee will meet with its Board of Directors to discuss the matter.

The belt's 17 markets opened last year on Aug. 23 and two years ago on Aug. 13. However, Fenner declined to speculate on this year's opening date.

The Eastern Belt markets are Ahsoskie, Clinton, Dunn, Farmville, Goldsboro, Greenville, Kinston, Robersonville, Rocky Mount, Smithfield, Tarboro, Wallace, Washington, Wendell, Williamston, Wilson, and Windsor.

OUTLOOK FOR N. C. Temperatures will average near normal Tuesday through Saturday, with quite warm weather through Wednesday, turning somewhat cooler in latter part of period. Rainfall will average around an inch, with daily scattered afternoon and evening showers.

McCloy Bringing Message From Nikita To JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — John J. McCloy will report to President Kennedy tonight on his discussions last week with Soviet Premier Khrushchev on disarmament and the Berlin crisis.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said McCloy, the President's chief adviser on disarmament, would be accompanied to the White House by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

McCloy completed an urgent flight from Moscow to Washington Sunday night in response to a summons from Kennedy. He brought an informal personal message from the Soviet leader to the U.S. chief executive.

In advance of his meeting with Kennedy, McCloy was scheduled to give Rusk a detailed report on his conversations with Khrushchev.

McCloy already has sent a long cable giving Kennedy a preliminary report on his talks with Khrushchev. This report was forwarded to Kennedy over the weekend at his Hyannis Port, Mass., vacation home.

Salinger declined to give any hint of the tenor of Khrushchev's talks with McCloy. But there have been widespread reports that Khrushchev was disturbed by the firm attitude taken by Kennedy last Tuesday night in his report to the nation on the Berlin crisis and his decision to shore up U.S. armed forces.

McCloy went to Moscow two weeks ago to try to work out arrangements with the Soviet government for a new East-West disarmament conference. He failed to reach agreement due, primarily, to Soviet insistence on talking about the substance of disarmament issues instead of the procedures for organizing the conference.

West Berlin Garrisons Hold Practice Alert

BERLIN (AP) — Berlin's U.S. British and French garrisons held another early morning alert today, practicing the defense of the threatened city.

At 4:30 a.m. loudspeaker trucks woke residents of the areas where married troops live. Many members of the 11,000-man Allied garrison in West Berlin have their families with them.

Both soldiers and civilians attached to the Allied missions were ordered to their duty posts where they remained until they got the "all clear."

Allied officials called it a routine exercise of the kind that takes place at irregular intervals.

West Berlin police also held a night training exercise, but headquarters insisted that this was not coordinated with the Allies.

Communist Promises Of Utopia For Russia Met By Skepticism

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Communist party's promise of a golden age ahead for the people of the Soviet Union evoked mixed feelings of skepticism and hope in Western Europe today.

Skepticism at the grandiose ideals outlined in the Communist blueprint for a coming Utopia for the Soviet's millions; hope aroused by the rejection of war and the declaration that to realize this easy life there must be peace on earth.

Belief was expressed in Britain that Premier Khrushchev would not be prepared to gamble away his goals of a Communist paradise by risking war with the West.

Belgian Socialists saw the program as partly a political maneuver. A Swedish conservative newspaper, Svenska Dagbladet, said the promised achievements are "so long-dated that it must be safe for Khrushchev to feel that it can hardly be he who will have to answer if they are not redeemed."

The 20-year plan made public over the weekend declared that by 1970 the Soviet Union would outdistance the United States in per capita production and by 1980 would give the Soviet people the highest standard of living in the world — "everyone will live in easy circumstances."

The Soviet people were promised free housing and public transportation in the 1970s, a gradual shortening of the workweek to six hours a day, and before completion of the program free education, free medical care, free gas and heating and free water.

The 45,000-word manifesto—the first grand Soviet plan since Lenin's in 1919—pledged a policy of coexistence with the West in an apparent slap at the Chinese Communists.

Conspicuously missing from the document was any mention of Stalin, who never issued such a wide-ranging proclamation during his long reign.

Bearing the imprint of Khrushchev himself, the draft plan will be presented to the 22nd party congress in October. Its ratification is a certainty.

London's conservative Daily Telegraph, called the program "pie in the sky" and said: "It is difficult to believe that, having staked his reputation on a long-term program of social and economic reform, Mr. Khrushchev would want to throw everything to the winds in a gamble over Berlin."

The laborite Daily Herald called the program "a system of paying wages partly in kind." The Herald added: "The more prosperous peoples there are in the world the better. And if Mr. K feels strong enough to promise Utopia he cannot really believe that world war is just around the corner, too."

The conservative Daily Sketch said: "Mr. Khrushchev's 'Jan tomorrow' program sounds wonderful (but) in fact, Russia is as far from catching up with the productive capacity of the West as she ever was."

The Sketch went on to say that Khrushchev "is even less likely to realize his ambitions while he cripples his economy with the biggest military establishment in the world."

The Communist Daily Worker said "Russia staggers the world." Le Peuple, organ of the Belgian Socialist party, in expressing suspicion that the plan was partly a political maneuver, said: "Evidently the game is decisive for Khrushchev who, despite his formidable authority, could not any more be an absolute dictator like Stalin and must face various groups inside the regime and party."

Stockholm's liberal Dagens Nyheter said Khrushchev was coaxing the Russians with reforms and social benefits that were already realities in "scuffed-at capitalist welfare nations."

Japanese Foreign Office sources said they detected strong indications the Communist world will intensify its "anti-American and anti-imperialism campaigns" in underdeveloped countries.

Kanjiro Sato, a spokesman for Japan's Socialist party which usually is critical of the United States, called the Soviet plan "undesirable" for world peace.

Bonner Announces He Will Seek Re-Election In 1962

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer

Rep. Herbert C. Bonner told the Daily Reflector today he will again be a candidate for re-election next year.

Bonner, in denying a rumor circulating in his First District that he has been picked to head the Federal Maritime Commission, said: "I will not accept an appointment (to the Maritime Administration) . . . but will serve out the remainder of this term of Congress and will be a candidate for renomination in the May primaries of next year."

The First District congressman added: "I admit that I have been mentioned (for the Maritime Administration job), but I don't intend to accept."

In announcing his intentions to seek re-election to the seat in Congress he has held since 1940, Bonner threw his hat into the First District political ring for the 12th consecutive election. He has won 11 straight and, except for three races, he has been unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

The rumor Bonner squelched said the veteran congressman, who is chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, has been chosen to join the Maritime Administration which is scheduled for reorganization under Plan Seven of the Reorganization Act.

Under Plan Seven, regulatory functions are being placed under a new, independent commission of five members. Nonregulatory functions will continue under direction of Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges.

Bonner said he supported the reorganization plan on its successful trip through the House.

In denying the rumor, Bonner said another rumor got First District circulation during last year's Democratic primary. "In the primary," he said, "it was stated that if I was elected, I would then resign and someone else would be appointed to fill my unexpired term. That was a false statement. 'During the primary I stated that I would, if elected, serve out my full term. I intend to do that,' Bonner said.

In announcing his candidacy next spring, Bonner seeks renomination to a 12th consecutive term on the heels of a primary battle with Walter B. Jones of Farmville in the 1960 Democratic nomination derby.

The veteran congressman, who succeeded fellow-townsmen Lindsay Warren about 21 years ago, outpointed Jones in the 14-county district race for the nomination by approximately 8,000 votes (26,589 to 18,504).

Reserve Forces Being Built Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Strategic Army Reserve Force (STRAP) divisions which are being built up to combat readiness under the new defense program will turn over to other units the training chores they have had up to now.

The STRAP outfits being converted to combat readiness under President Kennedy's plan are the 1st Infantry Division based at Ft. Riley, Kan.; the 2nd Infantry at Ft. Benning, Ga., and the 2nd Armored at Ft. Hood, Tex.

The Army said today the training jobs are being shifted to 10 posts where facilities for the purpose will be expanded.

These bases include Fts. Bliss and Sam Houston, Tex.; Dix, N. J.; Jackson, S.C.; Knox, Ky.; Leonard Wood, Mo.; Sill, Okla.; Ord, Calif.; McClellan, Ala., and Gordon, Ga.

There also is a definite possibility that the Army may decide to use two other large bases now closed or in limited use — Fts. Chaffee, Ark., and Carson, Colo.

Details of expansion or reopening of bases are still to be worked out, fitted to whatever money and authorization programs are finally approved by Congress, a spokesman said.

Bond Denied

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Kenneth Allen Jolly, 18-year-old high school football player of Ayden, waived preliminary hearing here today on a murder charge, and was bound over for grand jury action.

Justice of the Peace Carl Malpass denied bond for the six-foot 250-pounder, and he was returned to the Wayne County jail to await the Aug. 14 term of Superior Court.

Police said Jolly admitted bludgeoning and stabbing Mrs. Billy Waters, 24, at her Goldsboro home last Feb. 23, while her husband was at work.

Jolly was quoted as saying he asked her for money, then killed her for fear she would be able to identify him.

Local Officials Back Jones' Plea

Local officials have sent telegrams to Sen. B. Everett Jordan and Sen. Sam J. Ervin supporting Walter Jones' plan to locate a new Social Security office in Greenville.

The telegrams were sent by Mayor Charles M. King and by Leonard P. Bloxam, chairman of the Pitt Development Commission.

Mayor King told the senators, "Greenville offers every cooperation for new Social Security district office here. Location and facilities assure widest possible service from this point."

Bloxam's message read, "This Congressional District and Greenville in Pitt County seem logical location new Social Security district office. Ask your cooperation to that end."

The telegrams followed a request by Jones, a candidate for congress in 1962, that the office be established in Greenville. The request was made after it was announced that a new Social Security office was being established in Goldsboro to serve Pitt, Greene, Lenoir and Wayne Counties.

Jones pointed out that there will now be two district offices in the Third Congressional District with none in the First District.

Cryptic Statement Of Past Links Stanton And Murder

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A research chemist by chance has come upon a cryptic allegorical statement scribbled in an old journal which points an accusing finger at Edwin M. Stanton, President Abraham Lincoln's secretary of war, as having helped plan Lincoln's assassination.

The accusation was scrawled by Brig. Gen. Lafayette C. Baker who died under mysterious circumstances three years after Lincoln's death.

But whether the coded message will cast a new light on the assassination 96 years ago appears to depend on Baker's flamboyant character.

Handwriting experts have authenticated Baker's message. Similar accusations have been directed at Stanton previously.

The old, English military journal was found by Ray A. Neff, a chemist who investigated the document in detail for a year in conjunction with Civil War Times, published 10 times a year in Gettysburg, Pa.

The message of about 150 words was written on the inside margin of the book and dated Feb. 5, 1863, five months before Baker died. Neff had the late Leonard Foushee, a professional cryptographer from Collingswood, N.J., decipher the code.

"I am constantly being followed. They are professionals. I cannot fool them," the message read.

"In New Rome there walked three men, a Judas, a Brutus and a spy."

Then the message went on to say that the death of Lincoln had been plotted by persons officially close to him.

"As the fallen man lay dying, Judas came and paid respects to one he hated, and when at last he saw him die, he said 'Now the ages have him and the nation now have I,'" it said.

That is a paraphrase of a remark attributed to Stanton at the time of Lincoln's death: "Now he belongs to the ages."

Local Business Firm Is Burned Out In Sunday Fire

A smoldering fire gutted the inside of a downtown Greenville shoe store yesterday, causing damage estimated at over $10,000.

Firemen were called to the fire, at Bloom's "Milady's Shop" on Evans St. at the intersection of Fourth, at 3:30 p.m. when fire alarm box 23, at Five Points, was turned in.

Fire officers said the destructive fire, which was brought under control immediately, apparently was caused by a short circuit in a fluorescent light fixture which was kept burning as a "night light" at the rear of the store.

El Bloom, owner of the shop, estimated the loss of merchandise at "ten or eleven thousand dollars." He added that the loss was only partially insured.

No estimate of damage to the shoe store or merchandise stored over Bloom's shop could be obtained.

Fire officers reported that 550 feet of hose were used in combating the fire.

Bloom's and the shoe store to remove the smoke from the two stores.

The building is owned by Mrs. Anne Washington, Fire Department records show.

Asian-African Bloc Split Over Tunisia Action

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The 46 Asian-African members of the United Nations appeared divided today over whether to press for a special session of the U.N. General Assembly to take up the French-Tunisian impasse over the Bizerte naval base.

A number of countries from Asia and Africa were reported reluctant to support Liberia's call for a special August session. The group called a closed-door meeting this afternoon.

There was considerable doubt the 10 new African nations who belong to the French Community would go along with the proposal.

of the bloc were reported dubious of the advantage of a special assembly unless new violence erupts in Tunisia.

If the bloc unanimously supports the proposal, a special assembly is virtually certain. It requires 50 member signatories to convene the 96-nation body and the 9-nation Soviet bloc is expected to support the move. So are Yugoslavia and Cuba.

Assembly President Frederick H. Boland reportedly received word in Dublin to be ready to return to New York at once if the members decide to place the Tunisian crisis before the assembly.

The council issued a cease-fire call July 22 to stop the fighting between French and Tunisian troops around Bizerte base and in the Sahara south of Tunis. The council also called on all troops to return to positions they held before fighting flared July 19.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld who visited Tunisia last week at President Habib Bourguiba's request, told the council he had evidence France had violated the cease-fire and assumed functions on Tunisian soil "normally reserved to a sovereign state."

Bourguiba's government, bitter over council failure to adopt resolutions calling for complete compliance with the cease-fire and negotiations to deal with Bizerte's future, was reported ready to turn to the Communists.

Western foothold in Africa, was especially disappointed at the middle ground attitude the United States took. Unwilling to offend France during the Berlin crisis, the United States favored neither side but called for negotiations.

A report from Tunis said the Tunisian capital bore little resemblance to a city of crisis. Crowds swarmed to the beaches or strolled through the streets, paying little heed to the loudspeakers playing martial music and blaring appeals for combat readiness against France.

But the movie houses remained closed in mourning for the 670 who died in the fighting at Bizerte, 40 miles away. There the streets were deserted and haggard troops manned sandbagged barricades and machineguns as they faced the French across narrow alleys and over concrete walls.

Miss Crawford Bride Of Mr. Best

The marriage of Miss Nannie Sue Crawford and Mr. Jordan B. Best was solemnized Sunday afternoon, June 30, at four o'clock in the Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Ray Crawford and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Best of Mount Olive.

The Rev. Jerry Rowe, pastor of the bride, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with a background of emerald leaf palms in a variety of heights, large floor baskets of white snapdragons and white mums and seven-branched candelabra with tall cathedral candles. Pews were marked with white satin and bridal greenery.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Bunny Overton, pianist, and Mrs. Ted Lee Bissette of Spring Hope, soloist. Mrs. Bissette sang "Until," Wilfrid Sanderson, "The Prayer Perfect," Ervine J. Stenson, and "You'll Never Walk Alone," Rodgers and Hammerstein. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of Chantilly lace and silk organza. The bodice of Chantilly lace had a Sabrina neckline trimmed with sequins and pearls, and the sleeves ended in calla points over the hand. The skirt of silk organza, having panels of Chantilly lace, formed a chapel train.

Mrs. Jordan B. Best

A fingertip veil of French silk illusion was attached to a queen's crown of lace trimmed with organza petals and pearl roping. She carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly bridal roses and stephanotis, centered with a large white orchid.

The bride was attended by Miss Clara Payne Crawford, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. J. W. Bryan, sister of the groom, of Goldsboro, Mrs. Kenneth Best, sister-in-law of the groom, Mount Olive, Miss Jolinda Brewer and Miss Ruth Jordan of Greenville. The attendants wore full street length dresses made of blue silk organza fashioned with a scoop neckline and bodice attached to a contrasting blue silk organza cummerbund forming bows in the back. With this they were matching headresses and slippers. They carried cascade bouquets of blue carnations and white pom poms, centered with Briercliff roses.

Little Miss Pam Bryan of Goldsboro, niece of the groom, dressed in white, was flower girl. She carried a blue basket trimmed with lilies-of-the-valley holding rose petals.

Serving as honorary bridesmaids were Miss Alice Lee Edwards of Greenville, cousin of the bride, Miss Nancy Kenner of High Point, Miss Anne Evans, Miss Jane Blue and Miss Nesa Ann Page, all of Greenville. They carried a blue carnation.

Kenneth Best of Mount Olive served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Bobby Edwards of Greenville, cousin of the bride, Robert N. Johnson Jr. of Ayden, Tommy Simmons and Grady Austin of Greenville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Crawford chose a street length sheath dress of beige lace. Her hat was of beige and her accessories were of white lustre.

Mrs. Best, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue silk sheath with hat and shoes to match. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

Mrs. Clara Crawford, grandmother of the bride, wore a street length dress of lavender and matching accessories. She wore a purple orchid corsage.

The bride has completed two years at East Carolina College in Greenville and will continue her education in September. She is a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority.

The bridegroom is a graduate of East Carolina College. He was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He will report for duty with the U. S. Army on August 27.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home. For her wedding trip the bride changed to a pink sheath dress with matching hat and accessories. She wore the orchid lifted from her bouquet.

Immediately following the wedding the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home. The decorations in the home were in tones of pale pink, green, and white. The living room mantel was decorated with magnolias, pink candles, and a heart outline of pink net centered with a miniature bride and bridegroom. The dining room table was overlaid with a pink linen cloth with insertions of pink lace and centered with an arrangement of white snapdragons, pink roses, and pink carnations. This was flanked by branched silver candelabra with pink tapers. At the front door Mr. and Mrs. Ely K. Forrest greeted the reception guests. Mrs. Leota Tyson introduced the guests to the wedding party.

Mrs. Elizabeth Crawford invited the guests into the dining area where Mrs. Marjorie Brister presided at the punch bowl. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Holloway presided at the register. Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Clark.

Others assisting throughout the home were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. William Tripp, Mrs. Chester Don Worthington, Mrs. Bernice Causey, Mrs. H. P. Tyson, and Mrs. R. W. Davenport.

After-Rehearsal Party Miss Nannie Sue Crawford and Mr. Jordan B. Best were honored at an after-rehearsal party at the home of Mrs. Marjorie Brister. Mrs. Brister and her mother, Mrs. Bernice Causey, were hostesses.

The table was covered with a pink linen cloth and overlaid with an ecru lace cloth. Serving punch from a silver punch bowl was Mrs. Robert B. Best, mother of the groom, and Mrs. Hubert Ray Crawford, mother of the bride, served the wedding cake. The three-tiered wedding cake was of a pale pink topped with white orchids.

The wedding party, families and out-of-town guests were present. On Sunday at 12:00 noon the Best-Crawford wedding party and

Clean Basket Frames After Each Use

Those basket frames used to carry heat-proof serving dishes from oven to table should be washed after the meal. The method is to scrub the basket with a vegetable brush dipped into thick soap or detergent suds. Then hold it briefly under running water, shake off the excess, and hang it to dry.

Mr. and Mrs. Shinn and Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer greeted guests as they arrived and said the goodbyes, assisted by Miss Keziah and Mr. Mattox.

out-of-town guests were honored at a wedding breakfast at the Cinderella Restaurant. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Manning Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Ely K. Forrest, Mrs. Leota J. Tyson, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Tyson, Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Tyson, and Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Tyson. Upon arrival the honorees were presented a corsage of pink roses. The tables were decorated with summer flowers and pink candies. Bridal place cards, designated seating arrangements.

Couple Feted At Cookout

A cookout honoring August bridal couple Anne Clark Keziah and Fred Mattox was held Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Shinn on Elm Street, with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sawyer and Mr. and Mrs. Shinn as hosts and hostesses.

Upon their arrival guests were ushered into the back yard by the hosts and hostesses, where tall torch lamps provided the lighting and a color scheme of red and white plaid was used in decorating. A red and white plaid cloth covered the appointed table, from which guests served themselves buffet style. Soft drinks were stored in an iced wheelbarrow.

The bride's corsage also carried out the color scheme of the evening, featuring a background of red and white plaid centered with pine cones and greenery.

During the evening, the hosts and hostesses presented a gift to the honorees.

Mr. and Mrs. Shinn and Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer greeted guests as they arrived and said the goodbyes, assisted by Miss Keziah and Mr. Mattox.

Greenville Man Wed In Virginia

NORFOLK, Va.—The marriage of Miss Doris Kay Overton and Mike Gillis Riddick of Hampton, Va., was solemnized Saturday on July 29 at four o'clock in the afternoon in the Coleman Place Presbyterian Church in Norfolk.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Junius F. Overton of Norfolk, Va., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. James Gillis Riddick of Greenville, N. C., and the late Mrs. Riddick.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal wedding gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle fashioned with a scalloped edge Sabrina neckline, re-embroidered with iridescent sequins and seed pearls, a basque bodice and long sleeves of lace. The full bouffant skirt of lace was accented with diamond shaped panels of tulle highlighted with appliques of Chantilly lace, sweeping back into a full chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was arranged from a Queen Anne cap of lace re-embroidered with sequins and seed pearls.

Miss Sylvia Ann Thomas of Sanford, N. C. was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. William E. Alston of Warrenton, N. C., sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Doward H. Brugh and Mrs. Danny W. Garris of Ocracoke, N. C., sisters of the bride.

Mr. Riddick was best man for his son. Ushers were Ike F. Riddick of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom; William A. Alston of Warrenton, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Charles Smith of Greenville.

A reception followed the ceremony in the social hall of the church. The couple left on a wedding trip to western North Carolina. They will make their home at 110 Algonquin Road, Hampton, Va., upon their return.

News From Ayden

Coffee Hour Honors Miss Taylor. Mrs. G. G. Dixon honored Miss Suzanne Taylor, bride-elect, at a coffee hour and with a kitchen shower at her home on Snow Hill Street Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The home was decorated throughout with colorful summer flowers. About 40 guests were invited into the dining room where Mrs. J. R. Taylor, mother of the bride, served frosted coffee. A cut-work cloth was used on the dining table which was centered with an arrangement of pink and white gladioli. Savers of dainty sandwiches, cookies, frosted strawberries, nuts and mints completed the fable appointments.

Later an array of gifts was placed before Miss Taylor. Each guest had enclosed with her gift a favorite recipe which was entered in the cookbook given the bride-elect by the hostess.

The guests included Mrs. Harry W. Scott and Miss Carol Tadlock, both of Greenville, and other friends of the bride-elect from Ayden.

The Schools Can't Do Everything

Public schools, it seems, have come to be regarded as institutions which are supposed to meet all the needs of growing children, whether they be educational, social, physical, environmental or what-have-you.

At the same time they are supposed to graduate budding scholars who can pass the toughest college entrance exams, qualify for the stiffest course of study universities can concoct, and breeze through with flying colors.

That is a big order for any one organization. Within the past few years the public schools of the nation have come under severe criticism because the day of the student was filled with too many things other than the three Rs. Leaders in many fields saw the need for a greater number of scientists and technicians of all kinds in the American society and quickly pointed out the shortcomings of public education for not providing them.

The modern education system, they said, had gone overboard for the frills and fancies. There was too much time taken up by youngsters learning the rudiments of democratic governments through their school elections, the school legislatures and the like. They could learn music appreciation at home and how to play a musical instrument after school hours—provided of course it didn't interfere with the time they were supposed to be devoting to study. Athletics in the public schools had become big-time. The emphasis was too much slanted toward developing football heroes and seven foot basketball players along with a regiment of cheerleaders rather than young men and women who would make the deans list their freshman year in college.

All this and more has been heard, and some of the criticism, to be sure, has been valid. The pendulum began to swing and public schools began to shift their programs to get more time on the books, less on the athletic fields and in other activities.

And now, to cap the stack, President Kennedy has joined the ranks of other experts by asserting that the schools have neglected the physical well being of the youngsters . . . some time should be devoted each day to building the American youngster physically as well as mentally.

Sooner or later teachers and other professional school people are going to take their courage in their hands and point out to the "expts" as well as to the rank and file citizens that there is just so much of a child's development that the schools can be responsible for. At least a small portion of the responsibility must come to rest somewhere besides upon the schools.

They might even go so far as to suggest that the youngster could develop a muscle here and there by walking a few blocks to and from school each day rather than driving his car or being picked up at his doorstep by a school bus. And if this were ever to happen, some of the money it is now necessary to spend building huge parking lots around public schools might be used to add another classroom or two.

Public education, alas, must have more "extra-curricular experts" than any other institution in the American society.

Big Problems In Prisons System

By LYNN NISBET
EX-PRISONERS—The Economic and social problems involved in operation of the State prison system are tremendous. These problems are more acute in North Carolina than in most states because of our unique system of requiring the State to handle casual misdemeanants with sentences ranging from 30 days upward, as well as felons and long term inmates to which most state systems are limited.

Modern penology imposes burdens upon the prison system which prior generations did not consider. In many instances the accepted obligation of rehabilitation and training of the prisoner takes precedence over the basic idea of punishment for crime. A large part of the tax money allocated for operation of the prison system is devoted to rehabilitation and training of the men and women who have been sentenced.

This new concept includes the judicial function of probation, the objective being to keep some persons convicted of minor crimes from ever going to prison. A much larger item is embodied in the parole system, under which worthy prisoners are released before termination of sentence, and a still larger item is the policy of training prisoners and helping them to find jobs upon release—either under parole or at expiration of sentence.

Governor Sanford expressed the extreme liberal (?) view on this point when he told a conference of State officials the other day, assembled to study the problem of employment for ex-prisoners, that "the highest purpose of our entire system of criminal justice is to return convicted offenders to free society willing and able to meet the responsibilities and to earn the rewards of citizenship in a democracy."

JOB—Many people will not go along with the Governor to that extent, because there persists basic belief that imprisonment is primarily for punishment of criminal offenses committed against the public. Most taxpayers citizens will go along with the Governor's next proposition, that in any rehabilitation or employment placement program the State government "should take the lead in giving fair consideration to job applicants who are ex-prisoners." He added that we can hardly expect private enterprise to employ ex-prisoners "unless we demonstrate the courage of our own declared convictions."

The conference the other day was attended by George Randall, director of State Prisons; Henry E. Kendall, chairman of the Employment Security Commission; Johnson Matthews, chairman of the Paroles Commission, and Dr. Ellen Winston, commissioner of Welfare. None of these officials, whose composite duties embrace all phases of employment, asked for any special consideration for ex-prisoners. Each asked only that job applicants be considered on showing of merit and ability to do the job, and that the prison record per se should not be counted against them.

The most costly part of prison operation are the repeaters, the men who come back after one discharge. Director Randall said that two out of every three repeaters come back because they could not get jobs to earn a living—and slipped into further criminal activities.

The cost of maintaining prisoners is difficult to compute. Present figure is about $1300 a year for food and lodging for the prisoner himself. To that must be added the loss of productive income, and an indeterminate amount for welfare support of his family. Dr. Winston says the ADC (aid to dependent children) welfare costs in North Carolina because of prison related heads of families is about twice the national average.

COME-BACKS—While the rate of repeater prisoners is high, there are shining examples of "come back" into useful citizenship on part of men who have "done time" in prison. It was not mentioned at the conference the other day, but it has been often publicized, that the 1949 session of the General Assembly of North Carolina had three "ex-convicts" in its membership, each of whom contributed substantially to good government in North Carolina.

Rep. Thomas E. Cooper of New Hanover, Ralph Fisher of Transylvania and Junius K. Powell of Columbus had all served sentences in prison for technical violation of banking laws in the desperate depression days of the 30's. Previously Cooper had received a creditable vote for Governor in 1940, and subsequently Powell, who had moved over to the Senate, sponsored the famous "Powell Bill" which gave municipalities their first real break in a share of State gasoline tax receipts for streets.

The list of men who have come out of prison and made high places for themselves in government and business would be long—and would contain some very prominent names. It is doubted, for instance, that the world would have had the wonderful stories by O. Henry if William Sidney Porter had not been sent to jail.

That emphasizes what the folks at the Governor's conference were talking about. Some people are just not suited for some jobs, but the fact of a term in prison should not be counted per se against them when they apply for employment. To the contrary, the way they reacted to situations in and out of prison might demonstrate superior qualifications.

Justified Pride In Production

By RALPH ROBEY
President Kennedy, with obvious pride, announced at his press conference that in the second quarter of this year gross national product was $515 billion. His pride was justified because the previous high was just a year earlier and was $506 billion. In the first three months of 1961 the total was $501 billion.

Gross national product, it will be recalled, is the total monetary value of all goods and services produced in the nation. It is the broadest possible measure of economic activity. The main criticisms directed at it are: it goes up and down with changes in prices (this can be corrected for, using a special price index); it is directly affected by government spending (and this item has increased by several billion during the past twelve months); and there has to be a large proportion of the total which is solely the result of estimates.

The growth from the first to the second three months of this year was $14 billion. During this period there was no appreciable change in prices, so this rise was not caused by even moderate inflation. Spending by government—federal, state and local—did contribute significantly and so did a change from inventory liquidation to inventory accumulation. But even when allowance is made for all this the growth was notable and most encouraging, and it is generally believed that the upswing still is continuing and the third quarter will show another substantial jump.

Another measure of activity which is widely followed is the Index of Production, by the Federal Reserve Board. On the basis of 1957 as 100, the all-time high of this index was 111, which means 11 percent above the average of 1957. The low was 102 in February of this year, and for June it was 110. Included in this index are practically all manufacturing industries and mining and utilities. The basis of the measurement is physical units, so changes in prices do not affect the index.

Private housing starts in June advanced for the second consecutive month and for the first time this year were at an annual rate of 1,370,000. Originally the government estimated that there would be 1,300,000 private starts this year, but a few weeks ago the forecast was reduced to 1,275,000, and some experts think even this lower figure may be a bit high. It is generally conceded that the new housing bill which became law a short time ago will have no important influence this year. This is because the measure is so complicated that it will take many months to prepare the necessary regulations and procedures. This bill, of course, was the most extreme ever passed by the Congress, and many persons are extremely worried as to its ultimate effects on caral construction is running at a record level.

For some reason, however, consumers are not spending as freely as their income would normally suggest. Retail trade as a whole is doing well in most lines, although hard goods are rather sluggish. No one knows just why the consumers are so hesitant, and the nationwide surveys of consumer intentions throw no real light on the issue. But it is clear that the future trend of the recovery—both the speed and the duration—will depend to an unusual degree upon whether the hesitancy continues among consumers.

That we still are faced with some serious problems goes without saying. But with a continuation of the uptrend some of these will at least become less pressing.

Opinions In Brief

"This country wasn't founded nor did it grow to greatness on the basis of leadership that lacked faith in ideals, a willingness to vote for convictions. We doubt that it can long survive if our present lack of faith and conviction continue to spread." —Mound (Minn.) Pilot.

"It would be interesting to have new proposals from the classroom teachers themselves as to what the schools can do to improve instruction and realize the goal of 'quality education.' We have the idea that there are teachers in every system who see ways in which the instructional program could be improved and education made better." —Durham Herald.

"Poverty is perhaps man's biggest enemy. Yet some people seem to think that there is virtue in poverty and being poor somehow makes us the Lord's chosen people. Nothing is farther from the truth. Poverty is a blight and its accompaniment usually is ignorance, superstition, and backwardness and stagnation so far as human progress is concerned." —Laurinburg Exchange.

"Scientists tell us that the human race is growing taller. Even so, they are still up to their necks in trouble." —Elberton (Ga.) Star.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SACRAMENTAL LIVING
A sacrament has sometimes been defined as the external sign of an internal grace. It is a religious act by which we seal and deepen certain relationships between ourselves and God. Different branches of the church have different ideas regarding Christian sacraments. But the general idea of a sacrament as something sacred in character and designed to draw God and man together in closer fellowship—this is believed by almost all Christians.

Certainly it is the duty of all believers to try to make the whole of life become sacramental in nature. We need to learn how to lift up the common things of life until they have divine significance. The rites of the church are very important. The altar upon which the sacrament is performed is holy. But the power and nature of the sacrament—that holy alliances between God and man—goes, if we allow it to do so, into every aspect of our lives. Our daily living can take on sacramental character. Our relationships with friends and loved ones can become sacramental if we allow them to do so. We can be grateful that by divine provision sacraments were instituted. We can be grateful that we can carry the spirit and significance of the sacrament out into the street, into the office, to those centers where people seek relaxation amid wholesome surroundings.

We can make life sacramental in nature. This is one of the principal teachings of sound religion. Our lives can take on sacramental aspects—and should.

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Goldwater's Significance

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Great political leaders are more likely to emerge in the United States Senate than in administrative offices. Few have achieved the distinction of primary leadership that Barry Goldwater has so swiftly and surely earned.

Barry Goldwater ran against the tide, but the tide turned for him. He pronounced himself to be a Conservative when that was a dirty word in politics. Whereas such men as Senator Joe McCarthy never asserted an ideological position, except opposition to Communism, Gold water presents a positive program of conservative thinking. I have heard at least two persons accused of ghost-writing his book. I should imagine that Barry Goldwater did make the mistake of calling upon a friend to correct the punctuation or the paragraphing. It is always wrong to employ ghost-writers, but knowing Goldwater, I can say that he discusses his position more ably than he has written it. He knows what he believes to be true and no one who is said to be his ghost-writer is as able as he is. We can therefore skip such trivia as whether he did or not employ a ghost-writer for his book.

Barry Goldwater is the first conservative politician who has cracked the hard crust of colossate liberalism. He has not only spoken on an extraordinarily large number of campuses but he has established an image for leadership, so that a large number of young people have organized themselves into associations which accept the leadership of Goldwater, politically and sociologically. Even Robert A. Taft did not succeed in this, he not having had the warm personality which appeals to youth.

The significance of Barry Goldwater politically is that he has a program which is a novelty in American politics where the tendency is to expedient. Goldwater avoids the expedient and adheres to principle—his own statement of principle, which is gaining in strength, especially in the South and among students. The election of Senator Tower of Texas represents a victory for Goldwater who supported Tower, but even more because they represent identical points of view.

The weakness of the Republican Party since the defeat of Herbert Hoover in 1932 has been that it has labored hard to win without a program. Alf Landon, Wendell Willkie, Thomas E. Dewey represented in the Republican mind, candidates who could win on personality. The election became something like an Oscar contest in the motion picture business. The real difficulty that these men faced was that American people were seeking it was not a personality that the but a leader, a man of ideas, a person who would be different from Roosevelt or Truman. The one man in the Republican Party who might have presented such an image to the country was Robert A. Taft whom the party refused to nominate for President.

The argument against Taft was not that his ideas and purposes were wrong but that he could not win. In a word, winning at any cost represented the concept of the party leadership and sponsors. They would not risk a debate over principles. And so, ultimately, they elected Dwight D. Eisenhower who did win.

But what did Eisenhower stand for? What was his program? What has he meant historically as President? The answer is that John F. Kennedy realistically succeeded Harry Truman, that there has been an eight year interregnum so far as the Presidency is concerned. During the Eisenhower Administration, Congress took control. When the Executive Branch of government is analyzed such men as Sherman Adams, Richard Nixon and James Hagerly played (Continued on page five)

Other Editors Sayings . . . A Boom Is Probable

(Henderson Dispatch)
A boom in the national economy and a further upward lurch of inflation may be anticipated in the wake of President Kennedy's call for more billions of dollars for defense. Recovery from the slack period late last year and early this year is already well under way in many lines, and the stimulus resulting from the nation going on a partial war footing will touch off a fresh swing to higher levels. This acceleration could continue for many months to come or so long as lavish government outlays may persist. And that's for the foreseeable future, barring some unexpected development favorable to world peace which would be so sure as not to be misinterpreted.

Americans are quite willing to make whatever sacrifice may be necessary to assure their safety. But they may be pardoned for speculating about what is being done with the $43 billion already in the kitty for defense. They wonder if such additional financing as may be required for stepping up defense could be obtained by eliminating waste, duplication and extravagance in what is already in the cards.

Be that as it may, it is something about which very little is likely to be done. There is far less sentiment in the Federal government, from top to bottom, or from bottom to top, as you prefer, in favor of getting a dollar's worth for every dollar spent than there is in laying hands on the money. Congress concerns itself precious little as to what happens to the funds it appropriates, and it will be so in this instance. The country can only tighten its belt, and try as best it may to shrug it off. Protection must be had at all costs.

Flow of these additional billions into the economic channels would result in a $5 billion tax increase is to assume the unassailable: that the ultimate profits on $5 billion of government spending would be almost $10 billion.

Government spending does not generate more income than itself. For example, suppose the government pays a certain group of civil service employees $1 billion a year. Those wages would yield, perhaps, $250 million in taxes. In addition, the spending of the remainder would result in wages, retailer profits, landlord's profits, etc., of perhaps $250 million more, which in turn would yield another $50 million in taxes. And the employees, retailers and landlords would spend the difference with other merchants and suppliers, who would pay a tax on their profits. And the merchants would spend the rest of their gains—

And the employees, retailers and landlords would spend the difference with other merchants and suppliers, who would pay a tax on their profits. And the merchants would spend the rest of their gains—

This could go on through many stages, as any mathematician or economist can tell you, the ultimate tax gain can never equal

the initial government outlay. OTHER FORECASTS
Here are more look-aheads in business:

Auto bargains. But they will take more careful searching. Dealers are eager to get rid of 1961 models because the 1962 affairs are just a flip of the calendar away. But dealer inventories are lower than a year ago so, to get a fat discount on a 1961 model, buyers will have to shop around until they find a dealer with an out-of-line stock.

More gold losses. The outward flow of gold has been reversed in recent weeks, but it will resume again. The Kennedy program will force Congress to step up foreign aid, and the Kennedy defense measures will tend to increase the spending of money overseas. These factors will reduce the U.S. balance of payments, resulting in an outflow of gold.

More inflation. We cannot get away from it. The defense program, with a built-in initial deficit, the coming rises in prices, the consequential rise in wage demands, and the eventual rise in taxes write "inflation" on the blackboard of American business.

It's inevitable. As far as possible, hedge.

OLD PROMOTER SCOFFS AT CHURCHLY PROPOSAL
"I see that the Church of England has proposed a new and accessory," said the Old Promoter. "It's a 'thank you' sign that could be lighted at the touch of the button. A driver could show thanks for someone who let him into a line of traffic or waves him past."

"Sounds like a good idea," I said. "For England, maybe," old old one said. "But if we want to make money in the U.S.A., we ought to bring out a sign that says, 'You dope! Who'd ya think you are?' or 'Drow dead!'"

That's another good idea I won't invest in.

Survey Of '61 Business

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — The laymen whom I meet and talk with often express confusion as to the true status of business and financial conditions, having been bombarded with conflicting reports from the optimists and the pessimists. Therefore, I think it would be helpful to readers to have a brief survey of economic developments through mid-year 1961.

SECURITIES MARKETS
The outstanding feature of financial conditions over the first six months of 1961 was the sharp upsurge in stock market activity. The Dow-Jones Industrial Average rose from 616 at the beginning of the year to an all-time high of 706 in the middle of May, before trailing off to 684 mid-year. Although part of the increase in investment interest was in anticipation of some improvement in general business later in the year, inflation psychology and speculative enthusiasm heightened buying impatience.

Bond prices were on the upside until late in this period as easy credit conditions in the banking system sustained demand for them. Tax-exempt bonds proved to be the exception, however, with prices depressed by the huge volume of new offerings.

GENERAL BUSINESS
Industrial production continued to decline during January and February, then in March regained the ground lost in those two months. Thereafter, output from the nation's factories expanded sharply. The breadth and vigor of the business upturn were indications that the fourth economic recession since World War II had run its course. Notwithstanding pump-priming measures initiated by the Government, the business rebound was largely the result of natural curative forces. It has been my experience that overexertion, colds, and indigestion respond best to "rest, treatment," usually without my having to resort to pills. So, too, the recessionary period provided the needed rest for the economy to appear to correct such imbalances as excessive inventories and debt, and unduly high price and cost structures.

The biggest source of disappointment during the first half of 1961 was the lethargic pace of consumer spending for goods. Monthly retail sales figures dawdled along at rates below those for the year-earlier period. This, however, may have been a blessing in disguise, since consumers were building up future buying potential by adding to their savings and paying off their installment debts.

NEW BUILDING AND REAL ESTATE

New construction expenditures continued the generally sideways trend of 1960. Commercial, industrial, and public utility outlays for new construction were at record rates, but these were offset by the low levels of new home building and highway construction. However, housing starts began to edge upward after the beginning of the year, and road building took an upward spurt in the spring.

Real estate prices were generally steady during this period. Suburban property values held firm because of residential, commercial, and industrial developments in outlying areas made accessible by new highways. Urban real estate values, however, remained under the handicap of traffic and parking problems. Farm land prices continued to rise, aided by prospects of increased usage of agricultural products through present foreign-aid programs.

Employment conditions presented mixed pattern. Unemployment rose sharply during the winter, and improved only slightly in the spring. Employment in manufacturing, mining, and construction suffered from the drop in business, and responded only grudgingly to the rebound in activity during the spring. Factory work weeks, however, showed a steady improvement.

Personal incomes edged downward early in the year. Lengthened factory work weeks and wage increases, however, restored the rising trend to personal incomes, which hit a new record level by midyear. The foregoing study indicates to me that, on the whole, the economy weathered the "resting period" quite well, and has emerged on a healthier footing.

A Gradual Process Is Involved

By ELMER ROESSNER
The economic effects of President Kennedy's declaration that the effects will be gradual, and that resulting tax increase will not even be suggested until 1962, will not slow down business consequences. In economics, present realities tend to run ahead of future probabilities.

In this situation, the probabilities are strong indeed. While the expansion of business, under the pressure of arms spending, will be great, it seems impossible that this expansion will generate enough added income to increase taxes sufficiently to avert either a rise in taxes or an increase in the national deficit.

Assume, for instance, that government spending will rise $5 billion in the year starting today—and that's no idle assumption. That will generate a lot of profits, taxable at around 50 percent for corporations and up to 91 percent for individuals. But to expect that such spending will result in a $5 billion tax increase is to assume the unassailable: that the ultimate profits on $5 billion of government spending would be almost $10 billion.

Government spending does not generate more income than itself. For example, suppose the government pays a certain group of civil service employees $1 billion a year. Those wages would yield, perhaps, $250 million in taxes. In addition, the spending of the remainder would result in wages, retailer profits, landlord's profits, etc., of perhaps $250 million more, which in turn would yield another $50 million in taxes. And the employees, retailers and landlords would spend the difference with other merchants and suppliers, who would pay a tax on their profits. And the merchants would spend the rest of their gains—

This could go on through many stages, as any mathematician or economist can tell you, the ultimate tax gain can never equal

the initial government outlay. OTHER FORECASTS
Here are more look-aheads in business:

Auto bargains. But they will take more careful searching. Dealers are eager to get rid of 1961 models because the 1962 affairs are just a flip of the calendar away. But dealer inventories are lower than a year ago so, to get a fat discount on a 1961 model, buyers will have to shop around until they find a dealer with an out-of-line stock.

More gold losses. The outward flow of gold has been reversed in recent weeks, but it will resume again. The Kennedy program will force Congress to step up foreign aid, and the Kennedy defense measures will tend to increase the spending of money overseas. These factors will reduce the U.S. balance of payments, resulting in an outflow of gold.

More inflation. We cannot get away from it. The defense pro-

Mental Health Conference Is Scheduled August 9 At ECC

A one-day conference on problems of mental health has been set at East Carolina College for Wednesday, August 9. Dr. Clinton R. Frewett, chairman of the East Carolina College Department of Psychology, announced today. First session will begin at 9 a.m. The theme of the conference is "Promoting Sound Mental Health: Individual and Community Responsibility." The sessions will be held in McGinnis Auditorium and will feature addresses by two authorities in the field of mental health and smaller discussion groups. Planned for teachers, ministers, students, parents, physicians, and other persons interested in problems arising from mental and emotional difficulties, the conference will focus attention on the role of the church, the school, public and social welfare workers, and psychiatrists in counseling and treatment of the individuals who seek guidance and help to sound health. Dr. Frewett will make the keynote address on the topic: "Guide Lines for Individual Mental Health." The other major address will be made by Dr. Louis D. Cohen of the Department of Psychiatry of the Medical Center of Duke University, Durham. Assisting in the conference will be Dr. Louis Broussard, Mrs. Trudy Neis, the Rev. Preston Parsons, and Prof. Cal Dixon, all members of the East Carolina College Department of Psychology. Members of the advisory committee who will aid in the conference include Dr. P. G. Nelson, director of the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic; Mrs. J. B. Spillman, executive director of the North Carolina Mental Health Association; Dr. Ray Minges, Greenville physician; J. S. Grimes III, director of the Pitt County Department of Public Welfare; and Mrs. Joseph N. LeConte, secretary of the Pitt County Mental Health Association.

Boy Proves Glib Tongue Suffices

NEW YORK (AP)—Dennis Fegal, a fast-talking 6-year-old, was back in his Queens home today after proving that a young man can still make his way in the world on nothing but his wits. Dennis left his home Saturday morning with not a penny in his pockets. Before he was located 14 hours later, Dennis had enjoyed a meal in a restaurant and had traveled all over New York City on the cuff. He had a pocketful of change and a brand new yo-yo. In between, Dennis had led his parents and police a not-so-merry chase through Queens, Brooklyn and Manhattan. The first word of Dennis' whereabouts came from a woman who said she had seen him board a bus. Police tracked down the driver, who told them he had taken Dennis to the Flatbush section of Brooklyn after the boy had conned him into a free ride by saying he was going to visit his grandmother. The trail grew cold after that until late Saturday night, when a man reported to police a boy, apparently alone, was dining sumptuously in a Manhattan automat. Police picked up Dennis and took him to a precinct station until his parents could come for him. "That kid could've sold us the precinct," one policeman said.

Some Small Investors Do Very Well In Mutual Funds

By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK (AP)—Alice Martin is a retired teacher in Salina, Kan. She has spent $3,921.13 on two trips to Europe from a $1,200 investment started during the depression. Another $2,400 investment completed in monthly payments over the past 10 years she now values at $4,012. It pays dividends that "supplement nicely a retirement salary that never reaches far enough." That's how some small stick-to-it investors in mutual funds have fared in recent years. W. W. Walsh, a service station operator in Grand Junction, Colo., also started out during the depression but got behind in his payments and let it drop for years. He started up again in 1949 and finished his $2,400 contractual mutual fund plan in 1956. He forgot about it again until two months ago when his wife told him to look into it on his next trip to Denver. He says his shares are now worth $9,492 and will come in handy when he retires. There would have been more shares if he'd kept on schedule in the 1930s. The director of nurses in a big hospital in a New York suburban county had bigger ideas—both a home of her own and retirement funds to run it. She started a $10,000 Corporate Leaders Trust Fund plan in April 1951 and completed her contractual payments in June 1954. A year ago she withdrew $14,580 from her holdings and bought that retirement home. She values her remaining shares at $11,908.54. The Association of Mutual Fund Plan Sponsors, Inc., with 37 members cites these as typical of the investors to whom the steady payment plan appeals. There are 1.5 million accumulation plans—voluntary and contractual—now in force with a total value of more than $3 billion, according to the National Association of Investment Companies. The plans represent 29.7 per cent of all mutual fund shareholder accounts. The voluntary plan is flexible without set schedule on the part of the investor, beyond his good intentions, as to the total amount to be invested or the time of payments. The contractual plans—such as Miss Martin and Walsh had with Financial Industrial Fund Management Corp.—involve buying mutual fund shares in fixed-dollar amounts on a monthly or quarterly basis for a specified number of years. Under the voluntary plan the investor is charged the regular rate on each purchase of shares. The contractual plan charge is based on the total amount to be invested under the plan, with a large part of it made in the early payments. The sponsors say this has two effects: Salemen's commissions come out of these large initial payments and give them a needed incentive to work hard. The investor builds up a bigger equity quickly and has an impelling incentive for going on with later monthly payments, should early good intentions wane. This heavy loading charge at the start, however, deters some from buying because they say they can't sell out at a profit in the first few years if they want to stop. Investors have other ideas than retirement security. Bernard Cohen and his wife, Tillie, each took out a $10 monthly Diversified Trust plan (predecessor of First Investors Corporation) in March 1931 when he was a bookkeeper with a Newark, N.J. wholesale dealer. Mrs. Cohen's idea was a dowry for their daughter Geraldine. After 120 monthly payments, plus reinvestment of dividends, the wedding gift was $3,155.72. Mr. Cohen finished his $1,200 investment and reinvested the dividends. He says it now comes to 312 shares worth more than $6,500. Retired from his job as a comptroller with a wholesale hardware firm but still working on part-time jobs, he is completing payments on another plan at $100 a month. Another skip-payment instance later salvaged is reported by Federated Investors, Inc., a Downingtown, Pa., steel company buyer started a $10 a month program in 1933. But there were periods when he had to skip payments yet he didn't let the plan lapse. It took 25 years but he finished in 1958. The total value of his investment is put at $3,410 now. William J. Hoffman, maintenance engineer at a public institution in Clinton, N.J., had better luck. He started a $20 a month program in 1934 with Federated Investors and completed his $2,400 investment in 1943. His shares are now valued at $10,725.

Church Wins Its Bout With Navy

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (AP)—A small Methodist church on the outskirts of Gainesville has won its battle with the U. S. Navy. A steeple, removed 17 years ago as a hazard to student pilots, will be replaced at government expense. Cmdr. R. O. Rechsteiner of the Atlanta Naval Air Base presented a check for $3,500 to the Mill Methodist church in a ceremony Sunday. In 1944, the Navy established an air base at the Gainesville airport to train new pilots. Officials said the church steeple was in the way and would have to go. The congregation got the Navy to promise to replace it after the war. The war ended and the Navy moved out of Gainesville. Government officials said they could find no record of having promised to rebuild the steeple. The Rev. Truman Thomas, pastor of the church, wrote letters, banged on desks and pleaded with officials. Finally, a search through the church's minutes for 1944 disclosed that naval personnel had promised to rebuild the steeple. So the Navy paid off.

Big Film Studios In Seasonal TV Rush

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP TV-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It is mid-summer, vacation time and the lowest point—in number of viewers and new programs—of the television year. But this film community is bustling, cranking out the so-called bread and butter entertainment for next season. Hollywood may be the world capital of motion pictures, but right now, 18 films for theaters are being made here, and 87 filmed TV series are in production. (Production reaches 88 if you count a 15-minute series, "Sur Demande," a condensed translation of our old "You Asked For It" for French TV.) The big movie studios, which only a few seasons back were ignoring the young electronic upstart in hopes it would go away, are bolting ant hills of TV activity. Fifteen series are being shot at Universal; 10 at Warner Brothers; seven at Columbia; six at M-G-M; five each at Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and Republic. This reporter, returning to Hollywood after a year's absence and a month's vacation, finds that nothing has changed much. All new shows to be unveiled during September or October are being heralded as fresh, novel and stimulating, no matter how strong their family resemblance to successes of an earlier season. Actors with steady jobs still complain bitterly about the killing work schedules a weekly show requires. Actors without steady jobs still report they have been offered "several series" but didn't like the formats. High on the list of never-used phrases here is "sex and violence," used repeatedly by critics of television fare during the continuing congressional hearings in Washington. Everyone is using bland synonyms, like "dynamic action," "explosive, dramatic force."

"What About Food Stains On My Party Dress?" —Miss C.R.T. Dear Miss C.R.T.: Food stains on a party frock so often occur on holidays and weekends when it is impossible to contact your drycleaner. To be presentable, you must do something yourself. Treatment depends upon the stain and the fabric and because I do not know either, perhaps it is better to warn you against some common household stain-removal practices. Stains on washable fabrics, of course, may be removed at home more easily than on drycleanable fabrics. Test water or drycleaning fluid on fabric samples before you try to remove the stain. Carbon tetrachloride, non-flammable, is toxic and must be applied in a well-ventilated place. A heavy concentrate of the fumes can cause death. Hydrogen peroxide should not be used to bleach a stain on colored fabrics unless you are certain the fabric is color-fast to it. Do not use soap on silks or wools. Do not use heat applied later may "set" the alkali in the soap. Do not press stained fabrics. Heat of pressing may "set" the stain permanently. Remove all stains as quickly as possible. Application of cool water, quickly, is the best emergency treatment for most stains, but not on silk, satin or taffeta. Food will stain the garments of everyone. You are no exception. Make the best of the situation and carry on. You are more important to your friends than the garment you wear. They will be proud of your poise when stain-remover strikes.—(Adv.)

Book Should Be Safeguarded

OXNARD, Calif. (AP)—John Hamlin has written a book which he'd better lock in a safe. The topic? How to open safes of 95 American safemakers. Hamlin, 65, a locksmith, doesn't expect to publish his 49 years worth of tricks of his trade, though. Too much chance of it getting into the wrong hands. An estimated 400 billion cubic feet of natural gas will be imported from Canada during 1961. The USS Henry B. Wilson was the first guided missile destroyer to join the U.S. Pacific Fleet.

(Continued from page four) as significant roles as the President. When Eisenhower was defeated the Republican Party was left without leadership although there were aspirants to leadership. Richard Nixon was entitled to be the titular head of the party but such a distinction is nominal unless its claimant is a particularly strong personality. Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York claims leadership by virtue of his insistent public relations and his limitless treasury. Somehow he does not click. Barry Goldwater asserts and maintains leadership because he represents ideas for which there is an increasing popularity in the country. That does not mean that Goldwater will be nominated in 1964. The influences that made Wendell Willkie a Republican candidate may be sufficiently strong to choose someone else. But the ideas of the Republican Party are liable to be better organized and clearer to understand. They will be Barry Goldwater's ideas, no matter who is nominated.

Disgrace Added To Their Loss

BOULOGNE-SUR-MER, France (AP)—Helene and Blanche Hingrez, 67 and 77, needed money and tried in vain to sell their home. Sunday the sisters sprinkled gasoline liberally about. Helene struck a match and the two women huddled in the living room, prepared to die with the house. Neighbors rushed in, rescued the sisters and put out the fire. Police said they are considering charging them with arson.

Surprised Over 'Mr. Ugly' Title

PINEROLO, Italy (AP)—Mario Gendarin was none too pleased today after a jury of pretty girls chose him "Mr. Brutto 1961" in an annual competition at the village of Luserana San Giovanni. Brutto means ugly and the contest chooses the town's ugliest man. Gendarin, 36, a carpenter, said "I knew I wasn't handsome, but I didn't think I was that ugly."

Dodgers' Rush Is Stopped For Day

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's a lucky break for the rest of the National League that the Los Angeles Dodgers are required to stop like everyone else for the two-day All-Star game break.

For the Dodgers are rolling in high now like most everyone figured. They walloped the Pirates 7-3 at Pittsburgh Sunday for their eighth straight victory—all on the road—and their third in a row over the fading defending champions.

This put them a half-game in front of the Cincinnati Reds who split two with the Chicago Cubs. The Reds first lost 3-2 and then recouped 5-4. San Francisco's third-place Giants stayed within eight games of the lead by powdering the Phillies 5-2.

Milwaukee and St. Louis also divided a twin bill. The Cards beat Lew Burdette (12-7) in the opener 5-3 but succumbed to Warren Spahn 3-2 in the ten-inning windup as Spahn gained his 298th major league triumph.

In the American League the leading New York Yankees lost a doubleheader to Baltimore, 4-0 and 2-1, and had their lead over Detroit sliced to 1 1/2 games. Minnesota blanked the Tigers 4-0; Los Angeles nipped Cleveland 8-6; and the Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox split two. Chicago winning first 4-2, and then losing 9-8.

The Dodgers clicked for nine hits, including Tommy Davis' 15th homer and two singles, and Duke Snider's two-run double in the sixth, off Joe Gibbon (8-6) and three other hurlers. Don Drysdale (9-6), with help from Ron Perranoski in the ninth, muffed the Bucs with six hits.

Ed Bouchee's two-run homer in the second inning and Billy Williams' run-scoring double helped Don Cardwell (9-7) to his 3-2 edge over the Reds in the opener. The Reds wriggled to victory in the second game on Jerry Lynch's two-run pinch single that climaxed a four-run rally in the seventh inning.

Willie Mays clubbed his 29th homer and a run-scoring single in San Francisco's win over the Phils. Jack Sanford (6-5) went all the way with a seven-hit effort.

Bill White clouted a pair of homers (10 and 11) for St. Louis to beat Burdette and the Braves. Relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel (7-5) got the win. Spahn (10-12) finally recorded No. 298 on Hank Aaron's run-producing single in the tenth inning. The old lefty yielded ten hits.

Am. League Hopes For Victory Today

BOSTON (AP)—Manager Paul Richards, an old hand at strategy, presented a drastically revamped starting lineup as the American League sought to end the National supremacy today in the second 1961 All-Star game.

Richards took advantage of injuries and additions to put in eight right-handed hitters and take dead aim at Fenway Park's beckoning porch in left field.

In contrast to the July 11 game at wind-driven Candlestick Park in San Francisco where he started left-hander Whitey Ford, Richards chose right-hander Jim Bunning of Detroit, to open on the mound for his team.

National League Manager Danny Murtaugh also settled on a right-hander, although he was undecided between Bob Purkey of Cincinnati and Art Mahaffey of Philadelphia. A sell-out crowd of 33,357 was expected for the 31st game starting at 2 p.m. EST, with NBC radio and TV coverage.

Injuries to New York's lefty pitchers Roger Maris and Tony Kubek gave Richards an opportunity to test right-handed theory. He has replaced them with two right-handed hitters, Detroit's Al Kaline in right field and Chicago's Luis Aparicio at shortstop.

"I'm just going with the percentage," he said. "We're going all out to win. We're just getting sick and tired of losing."

The All-Star spectacle, once a beautiful summer's dream, has become a nightmare to the American League. In the last 14, the junior circuit has been able to win but four. The National, once behind 12 games to four, now trails only by a 16-14 margin.

The last time Fenway Park was host to an All-Star game, back in 1946, the American League was a 12-0 victor, mainly because of Ted Williams, who crashed two home runs and added a pair of singles for a perfect day at the plate.

Richards, who vowed he will not disturb his starting lineup if his team jumped in front, had his only southpaw swinging hitter, first baseman Norm Cash, in the leadoff spot in a thoroughly shuffled lineup. Behind Cash were righties Rocky Colavito, Al Kaline, switch-hitting Mickey Mantle, John Romano, Aparicio, Johnny Temple, Brooks Robinson and Bunning.

Murtaugh employed the same lineup that helped in the National's 5-4 triumph two weeks ago.

Maury Wills leads off, followed by Eddie Mathews, Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda, Roberto Clemente, Bill White, Frank Bolling, Smokey Burgess and either Purkey or Mahaffey.

Baltimore Moves Back In Contention In Am. League

By MURRAY ROSE

Baltimore's fine pitching made the Yankees' home run thunder sound as loud as a cat on a rug over the weekend. The Orioles flingers not only damped the New Yorkers' gunpowder but moved Baltimore back into contention in the American League.

Steve Barber and Milt Pappas, the Orioles' 22-year-old hurlers, and reliever Dick Hall, led Baltimore to a 4-0 and 2-1 doubleheader sweep Sunday that left the league-leading Yanks tumbling from their home run kings, Roger Maris (40) and Mickey Mantle (39) fruitless.

The Yanks were lucky that Minnesota's Jack Kralick blitzed runner-up Detroit 4-0 with an eight-hitter that gave the Twins a three-game cleanup over the Tigers.

As the clubs took their two-day All-Star game break, the Yanks were 1 1/2 games in front of Detroit and 8 1/2 ahead of Baltimore. Cleveland's fourth-place Indians dropped 11 1/2 games off the pace on an 8-6 loss to the pesky Los Angeles Angels. Washington's Bennie Daniels whitewashed Kansas City 4-0 and Boston and Chicago split a doubleheader, the White Sox taking the opener 4-2 and then losing 9-3.

In the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers pulled a half-game in front of Cincinnati by walloping Pittsburgh 7-3 while the Reds split a doubleheader with Chicago, losing 3-2 and winning 5-4. San Francisco's Giants beat Philadelphia 5-2. St. Louis and Milwaukee split a doubleheader. The Cards beat Lew Burdette 5-3 and honored to Warren Spahn, 3-2, in the 10-inning closer as Spahn scored his 298th major league victory.

Barber (12-8), a lefty, stopped the Yanks cold in the opener with seven hits as Hank Poiles' two homers drove in three runs. In the nightcap, Pappas (7-6) had a three-hit shutout for seven innings but required Hall's help in the ninth.

The right-handed reliever came in with Baltimore leading 2-1, the bases loaded and none out. He blazed a called third strike past Clete Boyer and got pinchhitter Hector Lopez to hit into a game-ending double play.

Yankee manager Ralph Houk still fuming over the call on Boyer, stormed out of the dugout and jostled plate umpire Ed Hurley. It will cost him a fine and possibly a suspension.

Kralick (10-6) scattered eight Tiger hits in Detroit. He won out on Bob Allison's 23rd homer and Ted Lepcio's 5th. Shortstop Dick McAuliffe suffered a slight nose fracture and outfielder Bubba Morton a sprained left ankle in a crash at first base to add to the wounded Tigers' woes.

Daniels (6-5) pitched his first shutout for Washington in shackling the Athletics at Kansas City with six hits. Gene Green's homer (14th) in the second proved the winner.

The Angels outthomered Cleveland 5-4 but it was a six-inning single by Lee Thomas that poked in the winning run at Los Angeles.

Lefty Frank Baumann (8-8) whipped his old Red Sox mates with a six-hitter and a run-scoring double in the first game. In the second contest, pinchhitter Joe Ginsberg's 10th inning, two-out single gave Boston a split.

Chicago (AP) — Jerry (Incredible) Barber, a mighty, little bantam who didn't know when to quit, and shakens, unbelieving Don January play 18 extra holes to today for the national PGA golf championship at Olympia Fields in the wake of what Barber called "the most amazing finish of my career."

Four strokes behind January, a jittery Texan with a picture swing, with three holes to play Barber sank putts of 30, 40 and 50 feet—two of them for birdies—and forced a 72-hole tie at 277.

The 5-5, 157-pound Barber, 45, and the red-tinted January, 31, will try to settle a duel that carried through 35 pressure-drenched holes Sunday over the 6,722-yard, par 35-35-70 Olympia North Course. It is the first playoff since the PGA became a medal play meet in 1958. The windup will be televised by CBS 4 to 5 p.m. EST.

Each seeks his first major championship. Barber came within an inch of winning in 1957 in a one stroke and two holes of missing this title two years ago at Minneapolis. Leading by one stroke with two holes to go, the League-Leading Falkland yesterday handed Greenville a double loss in Eastern County League action here, by winning the first game 4-0 and the second 7-1.

Haywood Outland pitched the first game for the winners and T. Dunn took over on the mound during the second game.

Doing the pitching for the Greenville nine were S. Cobb who pitched the first inning of the first game, and was replaced by Malcolm Griffith in the second. Griffith then remained on the mound through the fifth inning of the second game and allowed only one hit during the 11 innings he was on the mound.

In the first game Falkland gained one run in the first, two in the second and one in the seventh while Greenville failed to cross the plate for a score.

In the second game Greenville made one run in the sixth frame while the winners gained two in the fourth, four in the fifth and one in the final inning.

Doing the hitting for Greenville during both games were Carl Pollard, Jim Fornes, Dick Hamill, A. C. Evans and Beasley Jones. For Falkland the hitters were Brownie Tripp, Outland, Harvey Strickland, Jerry Little, E. Tripp, Autry Hamill, Dunn and B. Tripp.

Football coaches will hear lectures by Murray Warmath of Minnesota.

Also on the basketball program will be Bob Cousy, back court ace of the Boston Celtics, and former pro basketball great Bob Davies.

Mike McCormick of the Giants pitched a two-hitter and a pair of three-hitters in 1960.

Game To Be Held In Charlotte Dec. 2

Rose High School Football Coach, Richard G. (Bud) Phillips, has been selected as an assistant coach for the 25th Annual Shrine Bowl Football Game to be played in Charlotte on December 2.

Other coaches for North Carolina are: Lee Stone of Asheboro, Head Coach; and Clyde Walker of Raleigh, assistant coach.

The annual event features a game between the North and South Carolina High School football All-Stars.

Phillips, now 36, began his prep coaching career at a Class A high school in the fall of 1949 in his home county, Alamance.

He remained as head coach of three sports, including football, at Haw River High School, near his native Burlington, for four years. As tutor of Haw River's football charges, Phillips posted a four-year won-lost mark of 26-5.

In 1953 Bud was lured to E. M. Holt High, another Class A school in Alamance County, where he remained for two football seasons and guided the Holt eleven to a two-year mark of 19-1-1.

Riding a composite record of 46-8-1 since graduation from Wake Forest College, Phillips moved to Williams High in his home town for a pair of rather dismal seasons. His Burlington squads in 1955 and 1956 faltered to a 3-16 record for two seasons.

Bud's record at Junius H. Rose High School in Greenville, his present position, currently stands at 20-17 and represents something of a "great awakening" for Rose High Football.

In the fall of 1957, Bud's first season in Greenville, the Rose High Phantoms stumbled through a 2-6 season. The 1958 Phillips' Phantoms improved to 3-6. Bud pushed his boys above the 500 mark the following season to a 6-4 mark, posted during a season when a siege of flu took its toll for three games.

In 1960, Phillips fielded an offensive powerhouse and a rugged defense that netted a season 9-1 record. The Phantoms' single defeat came at the hands of Northeastern Conference champs, Tarboro, by 14-7.

Graduation, 1961, took a toll of 10 lettermen and eight starters, but most of Phillips' front-line reserves return to pose the Phantoms as a definite contender for Northeastern 3-A laurels in 1961.

The Rose High griders, in Bud's fifth season, will sport one of the best backfields in Tar Heel prep football.

Phillips is married to the former Amelia Flowers of Burlington and they have one three-year-old daughter, Anne. In addition to his chores as head coach of Rose High football and baseball, he serves as a civics and general mathematics instructor.

Bolt Suspended From PGA Meets

CHICAGO (AP) — Tommy (Thunder) Bolt was in the PGA doghouse again today and trying to bark his way out.

The 43-year-old stormy petrel of golf's tournament circuit Sunday was indefinitely suspended from PGA co-sponsored meets on a charge of using abusive language in the locker room of Olympia Fields Country Club.

It just wasn't Bolt's day. After storming around and declaring himself innocent of the charge, he went to get his auto and found the police had towed it away. It had been parked in an official's section without proper identification on the windshield.

Bolt finally found it near the caddy shack.

As for the suspension, Bolt fumed: "The PGA executive committee didn't give me a chance to defend myself. A meeting was called and action taken without calling me in. It deprives me of making a living."

"They told me an official of the club had turned me in. But they wouldn't tell me who it was. I was deprived of facing my accuser."

"It all seems very unconstitutional to me. If I don't get any satisfaction, I'll get a lawyer and take it to court—to the Supreme Court, if necessary."

The unpredictable Bolt is used to having at least one foot in hot PGA water. In addition to occasional club-breaking and throwing episodes, the 1958 USGA Open champion was placed on probation for 2 1/2 years for various reasons. It was lifted last November.

Bolt's uprising Sunday apparently came after he had played 12 holes of the third round and telephoned the clubhouse to ask if an osteopath were available. He wanted his shoulder massaged on the course so he could continue.

He was told none was available. Bolt bogied the 13th, then walked back to the clubhouse. He was 3-over par at the time for the round and 6-over for the tournament.

Willie Shoemaker won his first race on Schafter V in a race at Golden Gate Fields, April 20, 1949.

Doug Sanders, the punch-swinger from Ojai, Calif., won third money of $3,600 with a 72-68 finish for 280, with Ted Kroll next at 281. Palmer tied with five others — including National Open champion Gene Littler—at 282.

Doing the hitting for Greenville during both games were Carl Pollard, Jim Fornes, Dick Hamill, A. C. Evans and Beasley Jones. For Falkland the hitters were Brownie Tripp, Outland, Harvey Strickland, Jerry Little, E. Tripp, Autry Hamill, Dunn and B. Tripp.

Football coaches will hear lectures by Murray Warmath of Minnesota.

Allen And Smith Win Volunteer 250-Mile Race

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP) — Jack Smith and Johnny Allen drove a 1961 Pontiac to victory in the Volunteer 500 stock car race here Sunday with a team performance that wasn't planned that way at all.

When the 500-lap, 250-mile race over Bristol's new International Speedway began, Smith was driving the Pontiac, Allen a '61 Chevrolet, and neither dreamed they'd end up sharing the $3,240 winner's purse.

The chain of events that made them partners started on the 106th lap, when Allen's car caught fire as he made a pit stop for repairs.

"I sure was scared. It almost got me," said the 25-year-old driver from Atlanta, who never won a major NASCAR race before.

Later, out on the half-mile oval track, Smith began to feel the effects of a blazing sun and the heat from his engine.

The Spartanburg, S.C. driver was in the lead when, he said, "I couldn't stand it. Heat was coming up from the floorboard. My ankle felt like it was going to burn off."

So Smith made a pit stop and, finding Allen idle and eager, gave him the driving chores. Nobody overtook him and Smith said he thought "it wouldn't be fair to Johnny to take over again."

At the finish, Allen in Smith's Pontiac was two full laps in front of Fireball Roberts of Daytona Beach, the runner-up in another '61 Pontiac. Roberts won $1,455 for second place.

The victory officially was credited to Smith and was his first major triumph since he won the Firecracker 250 last year at Daytona Beach.

The winners' average speed for the long haul before a standing-room crowd of 25,000 was 68.37 miles an hour. They did the 250 miles in 3 hours, 39 minutes, 29 seconds.

Ned Jarrett of Newton, N.C., finished third and won $1,125, driving a '61 Chevy. Rounding out the top five were Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C.; in a '61 Plymouth, and Buck Baker of Charlotte, driving a '61 Chrysler in relief of his son, Buddy. Petty won $875, the Bakers an even $800.

The next five to finish, with money winnings, were: Emanuel Zervakis, Richmond, '61 Chevy, $700; Joe Weatherly, Norfolk, '61 Pontiac, $550; Jim Paschal, High Point, N.C., '61 Pontiac, $400; Sherman Utman, Bluff City, Tenn., '61 Ford, $425; and Tiny Lund, Cross, S.C., '61 Pontiac, $375.

In other weekend racing activity, Harold Allman of Kannapolis started in 26th position and won the "Piedmont 100" race for semi-modified cars at Gastonia's Rock Hill Speedway Saturday night.

Allman got the lead in the final lap, after the race was slowed 12 times because of caution flags. Ervin Carpenter of Charlotte broke a gas line and gave way to Allman. Bob Cooper of Gastonia finished second ahead of Carpenter.

Glenn Wood of Stuart, Va., won his sixth Bowman Gray Stadium race of the season at Winston-Salem, finishing three car lengths ahead of Perk Brown of Leaksville in the 40-lap main event for modifieds.

At Hickory, Jimmy Cline outduelled Glenn Killian to win the 40-lap feature before 5,000 Saturday night. Killian spun out on the last lap and Hubert Little of Hickory finished second, Kerby Dellinger third.

Eddie Morgan of Rock Hill won the 30-lap feature at the Rock Hill Speedway Saturday night.

BY JOHN CREASEY A MATTER OF LIFE AND DEATH

CHAPTER 26
Only two nights ago, Paul Vance had tried to choke the life out of his daughter-in-law, Griselda. The bruises made by his hands were hidden by a wispy scarf. Now, he looked as if he would gladly try it again. No face carved out of stone could have looked harder; no eyes could have shown their hatred more.

He said: "Mr. Edge, have this woman removed from the factory premises at once."

Edge didn't speak.

Griselda didn't look at Rollison, her attention was only for Paul Vance. She had the calmness which Rollison had seen at her house that morning; she was seldom likely to lose it. She moved towards the desk, with a kind of serenity.

"Paul," she said, "there is something I must tell you."

He looked at her and spoke to Edge.

"By force, if necessary," he said.

"Paul," Griselda said, "force won't help you any longer. Haven't you the sense to realize that? Whenever a thing has got in your way, you've shifted it by sheer brute strength. Physical brute strength or ruthless strength of will. Either that, or you've blinded yourself to it. You're blinding yourself to the fact that someone is trying to ruin Silver Queen. It's bad enough now. If it gets worse and the news gets into the newspapers—"

"Edge," said Paul Vance, "must I act for myself?"

There was a pause; and it was Griselda who broke it, going on again, with only a slight change in her tone.

"...the value of the shares will start falling. Is that what you want? You own most of them, you'll stand to lose most. Why don't you make yourself wake up, why don't you ask the police to help?"

"Edge," said Paul Vance, "you are no longer in the employ of this company. I will be glad if you will leave at once, and I will arrange for my solicitors to attend to any matter of salary adjustment for broken contract." He didn't look at Edge, and his voice hadn't changed. He pressed a button in the inter-office box, and when a girl answered, he said: "Send Finnigan to my office at once."

"Yes, sir."

Rollison thought: "Who's Finnigan?" and waited, fascinated by a scene that was almost too vivid to be real.

"Paul," said Griselda Vance, with a tightening of her lips and a look in her eyes which showed no responding hatred, only a great compassion, "you're tormenting yourself. If you won't stop it for any other reason, stop it for your own sake. You can't fight this peril on your own, you just can't do it any longer. You've got everything wrong."

There was silence.

"Listen, Mr. Vance," Edge broke it, huskily, "you've fired me and there it is. I know you don't go back on your word. But take Mrs. Vance's advice. Take my advice, too. You can't fight this alone. We may not be able to stop this lot of Peach Bloom being sold. If only a dozen girls dab it on their silly faces and get the itch, it will start a rumor against Silver Queen that will cause irreparable damage. We've been begging you to send for the police for weeks. Do it now. I'll go, and Griselda will come with me, we won't come back again but—call in the police. Do it now, and—"

There was a tap at the door.

"Come in," Vance called.

Edge broke off, looking hopeless.

The door opened, and a man as tall and as powerful-looking as Tim Mahoney came in. He was dressed in a commissionaire's uniform and was obviously in support of the lovelies at the gates and in the office.

"You want me, sir?"

"Yes, Finnigan. Remove Mrs. Vance from the factory premises. Make sure that she is never admitted again. That is an order."

Deeds Probably The Last Road For Bing, Bob

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

LONDON (AP)—Bing Crosby and Bob Hope are hitting the "road" for the seventh time—and perhaps the last.

Their other famous journeys have taken them to Singapore, 1940; Zanzibar, 1941; Morocco, 1942; Utopia, 1945; Rio, 1947; and Bali, 1952. This time they're on the "road to Hong Kong."

Getting them started was a major operation performed by two masters of comedy, Norman Panama and Frank Capra.

"You can't imagine the complexities of setting up a 'road' movie," said Frank, who is producing and writing this one.

"Scheduling a time for it was a major production in itself. We had to coordinate with Bob's movie and TV schedule and check with the timing of the Bing Crosby Golf Tournament," he said.

The project began two years ago. Panama and Frank outlined the story idea to Bing, who nodded and said, "Okay, let's do it." Then they went to Palm Springs to tell their tale to Bob. After a half-hour, he said, "All right, now let's play a round of golf."

"Then armies of lawyers went to work," said Panama, who is directing and writing the film. "We were dealing with two corporations worth $100 million. The paper work was monstrous."

While the legal eagles ground out contracts, the two writers went to work on a script. They had built a previous road, Utopia, "But we had forgotten what hard work they can be," said Frank. "You have to adhere to the formula, carry on a plot and keep the gags coming continuously."

The formula: Bing is the sharpie, Bob the fall guy. Bing's guile gets them into a series of dire scrapes. When not being chased by villains, they chase the girl, formerly Dorothy Lamour, now Joan Collins, whom Bing gets at the end.

"This time they both get her—but we're not revealing how," said Panama.

The film makers decided to shoot here because London figures in the early portions of the film. As in all "roads," the destination comprises a small portion of the movie; the boys also go to an undersea kingdom and the moon in this one.

Besides overseeing all production details, Panama and Frank had to serve as real estate dealers, lining up houses for the Hope-Crosby families and entourages.

Is it worth all the trouble? "Absolutely," said Panama. "The road pictures are a great tradition. Because of their ages and their complex activities, this may well be the last one they make together. We wanted to be a part of it."

Pastor Speaks To Exchangites

A talk on "The Ideal Citizen" was presented to members of the Greenville Exchange Club at their meeting Friday night by Dr. Edgar Fisher, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Dr. Fisher, presented by Ed Parkinson, said that friendliness, perseverance and patience are traits of the ideal citizen. He urged his audience to "endeavor as individuals to persevere in relationships with others was stressed."

He told members that they would not be in such an organization as the Exchange Club if they did not wish to become ideal citizens. An ideal citizen, he says, is one who has a goal, a purpose in life and who wants to have a character above reproach.

He reminded club members that attendance at church services was another requisite of the ideal citizen, as was the realization of the necessity of prayer in life and ammoning with God.

Dr. Fisher illustrated his points with stories of famous men and anecdotes.

During the meeting, birthday greetings were sung to Leon Moore, President Luther Moore presided and urged as many members as possible to attend that state convention of the North Carolina Exchange Clubs in Durham on Aug. 4-5.

Sale Of Savings Bonds Increases

Pitt County Savings Bonds sales for June were $24,213, it was announced this week by R. W. Howard, volunteer county chairman for the Savings Bonds Program.

For the six month period ending June 30, sales totaled $208,490. This is 25.4 per cent of the county's quota for 1961.

Sale of U.S. Savings Bonds in North Carolina as a whole showed a substantial increase over the comparable month of last year, for the third successive month.

Total bond sales for the first half of this year amounted to $23,915,387, which is over 46 per cent of the state's 1961 quota of $51,600,000.

Pre-Registered In UNC Program

CHAPEL HILL—Michael Glover Martin Jr. and Junius Boyette Surles, both of Greenville, have pre-registered in the General College pre-registration program at the University of North Carolina.

Martin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Martin of 611 Oak St., and Surles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Surles of 1603 Elm St.

The purpose of the pre-registration program is to enable students entering the university to take required placement tests in advance, to select his subjects for the fall and to have the opportunity to consult officials of the university.

Entomologists estimate that insects ruin at least one tenth of man's crops and destroy more timber each year than forest fires and fungus rots.

Someone is trying to kill you, and that Adam didn't kill your son," Vance said. "I know what I know. You may do as you wish. I shall deal with my own affairs."

He meant exactly what he said.

Rollison is faced with the worst blow of his career. The story continues tomorrow.

Selected For Training Program

DETROIT, Mich. — David J. Payne of 201 Lewis St. is one of seven June college and university graduates selected to participate in a special Chevrolet Engineering program for training college graduates, it was announced today.

He graduated from N. S. State College and began work with the company in June.

He has begun work on assignments which will expose him to all phases of automotive engineering during a two-year course. Most of the work will be performed at the nationally famous General Motors Technical Center in Warren, Mich., a Detroit suburb.

Wachovia Resources at Work

The citizens of North Carolina have authorized the State to issue $17,600,000 in bonds for capital improvements. Most of these funds are allocated to educational and mental institutions.

Wachovia Bank and Trust Company and its associates have purchased this entire bond issue to make possible these important improvements.

underwriting $17,600,000 for progress

... in the State of North Carolina

Interest rates on the bonds were determined by competitive bidding—a procedure required by law. The lower the rate, the more savings to you as a taxpayer. By entering the lowest bid, Wachovia has the opportunity of rendering this service to North Carolina and its citizens.

Wachovia believes in putting money to work for progress. The underwriting of State and municipal bonds is one of the many ways in which Wachovia works actively for the progress of North Carolina, its communities, and its people.

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

During the past few years brown spot, a tobacco leaf disease, has become a serious problem to the tobacco farmer. Brown spot is a widespread and well established disease that occurs to some extent every year.

Damage caused by this disease is unpredictable because its severity is controlled by weather conditions, soil type, and certain cultural practices. Severe attacks of brown spot often destroy a high percentage of leaf area causing poor quality cured leaf. A heavy infestation can greatly reduce the value of the crop.

Fungus
Brown spot is caused by a fungus. The brown spot fungus produces enormous numbers of tiny spores or seeds that are easily spread by both wind and water. When temperature and moisture conditions are favorable, the spores germinate soon after coming in contact with the tobacco plant. Infection occurs most readily when the leaves are wet. Tobacco leaf tissue invaded by the fungus is killed causing brown spots to form. Spores are produced in abundance on the surface of the brown spot lesions. Those formed late in the growing season live over winter in the tobacco crop refuse and cause the disease again the following year.

A study made in 1959 on the effect of variety on the development of brown spot revealed that there was no variety available that was resistant to the disease. However, there is some difference in varieties with regard to damage caused by the brown spot fungus.

It has also been observed that when heavy rates of nitrogen were used in producing the crop the occurrence of brown spot was much more severe than when normal rates of nitrogen were used. Generally brown spot appears to be more severe in fields where nematodes are causing damage, and in fields where water has caused a semi-drowned condition of the plant.

Wrecked, Hurt, Cars Passed By

BOONEVILLE, Mo. (AP) — James Twitchell, 22, of Glasgow, Mo., lay severely injured in a soybean field beside U.S. 40 all day Sunday while motorists streamed past his overturned pickup truck.

The accident finally was reported to the highway patrol about 6 p.m. Trooper J. R. Phillips said it occurred early in the morning but passersby apparently thought it already had been reported.

Twitchell was reported in critical condition at the Booneville hospital.

Bethel Rotary Hears Speaker

BETHEL—Robert Burton Nelson of Robersonville was guest speaker at the Bethel Rotary Club meeting this week.

He discussed at length highways and plans for future north-south routes, illustrating his points with marked maps. A question and answer period was conducted at the end of the main address.

He was introduced by program chairman Ronald Riddick.

Linwood Briley, the new president, presided at the meeting. The club members were informed that the new secretary, Dave Speir, had returned from Duke Hospital and would soon be back into activity with the club.

C. W. Everett gave the invocation.

Expert Proposes Dirigibles Fish Out Astronauts

WASHINGTON (AP) — An expert on dirigibles proposed today they be used instead of helicopters to fish Mercury astronauts and their capsules from the water.

Vice Adm. T. G. W. Settle (Ret.), former head of naval airship training and experimentation, said that had a blimp been used in Virgil I. Grissom's space flight the capsule and its valuable films and other data could have been recovered safely.

Also, Settle said, Grissom would have been spared the harrowing fight against wave action of helicopter prop wash.

Two years ago, Settle said in an interview, the Defense Department suggested that Navy blimps be considered as recovery vehicles for the Mercury astronauts.

He said the fleet turned down the idea on the ground no airship could be spared from operational assignments.

In June, however, the Navy announced the end of its lighter than air program and the planned deflation and storage of its fleet of about 15 blimps.

The former Navy officer said that Mercury Redstone shots are fairly straightforward, with landing areas accurately predictable.

However, the landing of an orbital Mercury vehicle off Puerto Rico will be much more complicated, involving a large possible landing area. This may involve costly and extensive surface and air search and recovery operations.

Settle said the assignment of two or more of the larger blimps would greatly simplify the search and recovery problem and would provide these special advantages:

1. The airships would be able to hoist the recovered capsule directly to the gondola and bring it aboard.
2. The blimp's roominess would provide a flying hospital for immediate examination or treatment of the astronaut.
3. The airship's ability to remain aloft two days without refueling, and to stay on station for long periods with refueling from surface vessels in the area, would provide search facilities for extended periods.

The airship could carry a small powered, specially equipped boat that could be lowered to the surface to give immediate assistance on the spot if the astronaut needed it.

Riots Killed Off Jazz Festivals

BEAULEU, England (AP) — Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, the heppiest noble in the realm, sadly announced today he is abandoning his annual jazz festivals in the crumbling ruins of the local abbey.

He is afraid the village of Beaulieu, population 1,000, will end up in ruins, too.

Montagu made his decision after surveying the splintered windows and trampled flower beds left in the wake of this year's festival.

About 4,000 jazz-lovers—traditional, modern and mainstream—jammed into this quiet corner of Hampshire Saturday for the two-day blow. About 5,000 gatecrashers with no entrance money moved into the town also and nearly wrecked the joint.

They trod on cottage gardens, smashed windows, clashed with paying patrons, got drunk and sprawled with their girls on the roadways.

"It was sickening," Montagu declared.

There were riots last year, too. "It has become increasingly apparent," said Montagu, "that there is a large crowd of irresponsible persons who come to Beaulieu with no other intention than to cause trouble."

It wasn't the fault of the genuine jazz fans, he said.

Montagu hired a special corps of tough cops from the local constabulary to help keep order. Boys from a local boxing club and ju-jitsu exponents from Cambridge University also stood guard to throw out gate crashers.

Montagu said he wasn't giving up the idea of holding a festival in some other place. But not in Beaulieu. He owns the place.

The Farm Scene

By S. C. WINCHESTER

National Farm Safety Week, has just ended and all farmers have been reminded how important it is to be careful in their work and otherwise. The need is not so much to become aware of the need for safety this one week, but to have a continuous awareness of potential danger the full 52 weeks of every year.

The farm and highway vehicles are a wonderful aid to progress on the farm and elsewhere, but these vehicles and the vast array of farming equipment all have the potential ability to maim and to kill if handled improperly.

Regrettable Waste

One of the most regrettable features of the waste resulting from accidents is the injury and loss of life among children. The saddest part of this tragedy is that most accidents involving children could have been prevented if they had had adequate safety training at an early age. Possibly of even sadder experience is the youth that have been maimed for life because someone failed his responsibility.

God holds the parents responsible for the welfare and protection of young children. What a wonderful opportunity for parents and Sunday school teachers to work cooperatively to put into practice the spiritual and moral precepts learned through religious education. Genesis 4 offers the perfect text: "Am I my brother's keeper?"

There are many other applications of the religious precepts to safety, including The Golden Rule, the story of the Good Samaritan, and the injunction to love thy neighbor. Training needs to include the practical application of these precepts, especially when they will help to reduce injury and loss of life.

Last Rites Set For Ruth C. Wilkinson

Ruth Carol Wilkinson, 12 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Wilkinson of near Falkland, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday morning at seven o'clock. She was struck by a car about 7:30 Sunday night while walking on the highway near the home. Funeral services will be conducted at the Falkland Presbyterian Church Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. Jesse Parks. Burial will be in the Fountain Cemetery. The body will be taken to the church one hour prior to the time of service.

Ruth Carol spent all her life in the Falkland Community and attended the Falkland School and the Falkland Presbyterian Sunday School and Church.

Surviving are her parents; four brothers, Charles Wilkinson of Newport News, Va., Wilbur, Glenn and Lester Wilkinson of the home; and a sister, Mrs. James Max Morris of Jackson, Ky.

Farmers put about 400 man-hours into producing an acre of tobacco—more than for any other field crop.

OFF FOR HONG KONG — Planes and ship's company are lined up on flight deck as British carrier HMS Victorious sails from Singapore for Hong Kong.

Families Leave Bizerte Scene

PARIS (AP) — The French liner President de Cazalet left Bizerte Sunday with 1,300 relatives of French servicemen stationed at the military base near the battle-scarred Tunisian city.

Despite the cease-fire between Tunisian and French forces in Bizerte, officials said the base area is not considered safe enough for the servicemen's families.

Responsibility

Does your moral responsibility show? We, as parents, have an obligation to rear our children in a safe environment. Actually, our responsibility extends far beyond this. We are morally responsible to drive a farm vehicle safely on the highway, to perform our farm work safely and to keep our home and farm buildings free of hazards.

Are you morally responsible? Do you take unnecessary chances while driving, or performing farm work? Are your children ever left alone in the farm house. Are you courteous to other drivers and pedestrians?

Have your home and other farm buildings been inspected for hazards within the last six months? Have the hazards been corrected?

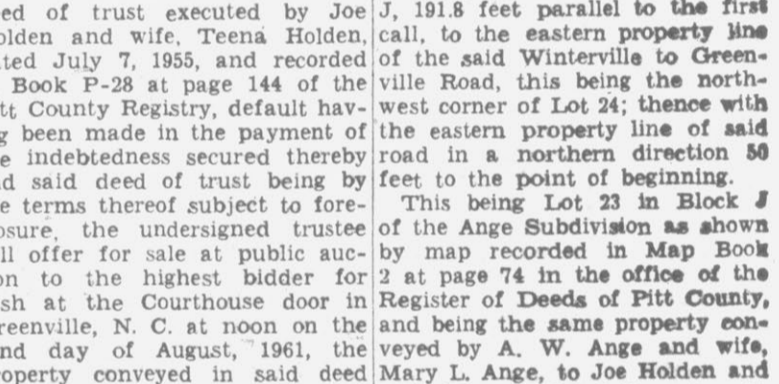

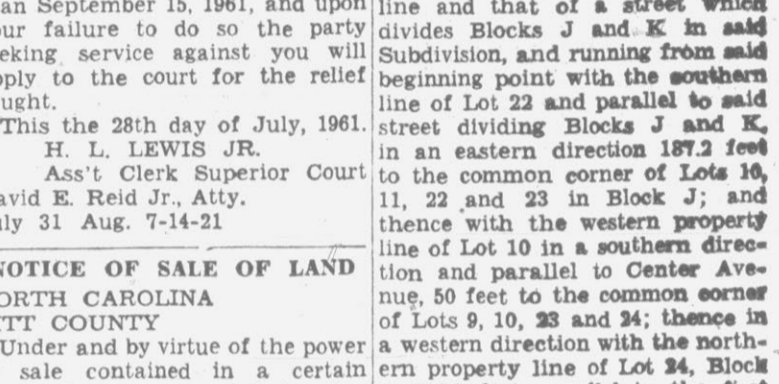

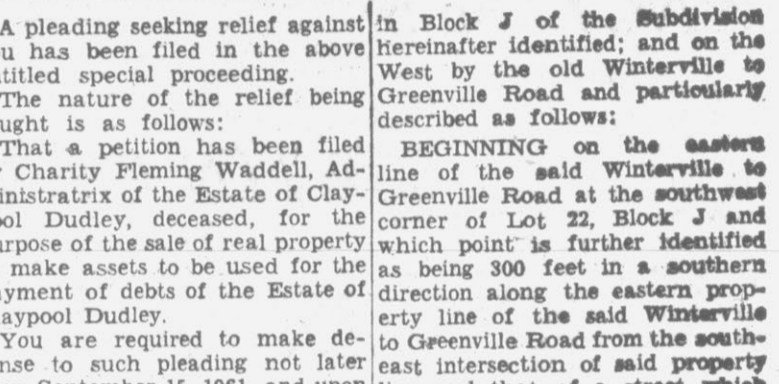

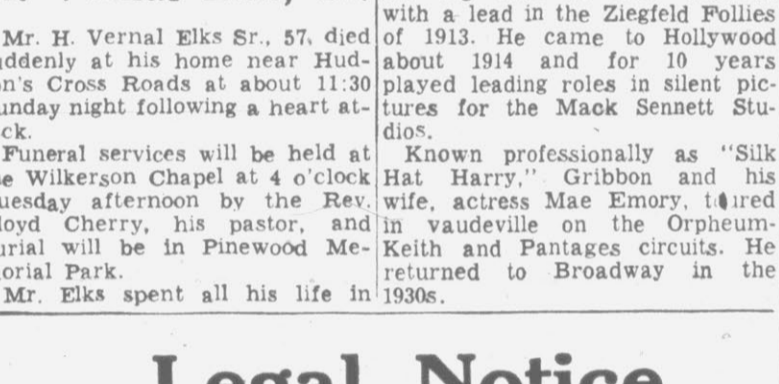

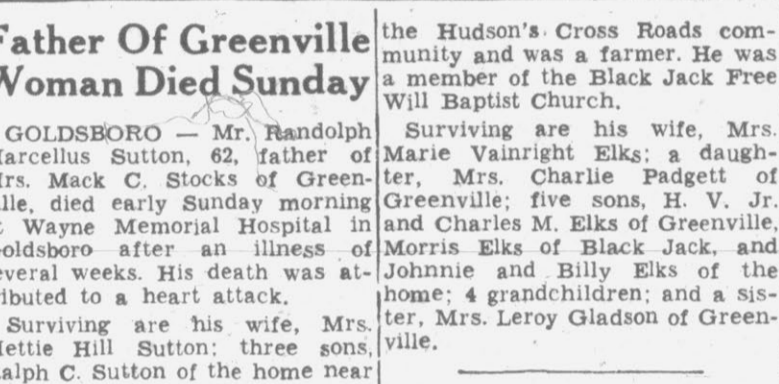

Do you, as a parent, know and understand what steps should be taken if your child should eat poison? Do you feel you can drive as well or better after a mouth-to-mouth method of resuscitation? Does the Commandment "Thou Shalt Not Kill" and other religious injunctions, apply to driving a farm vehicle on a heavily-travelled highway?

A tractor travelling 12-15 mph on a heavily travelled highway is a dangerous hazard. Keep on the shoulder of the road if this is possible.

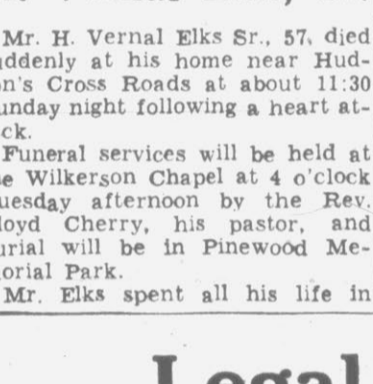

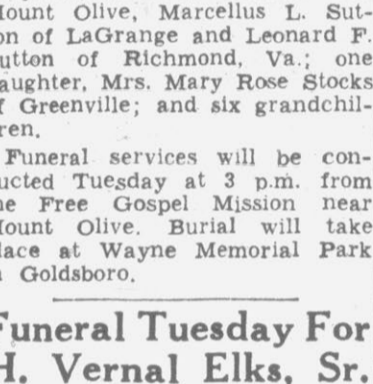

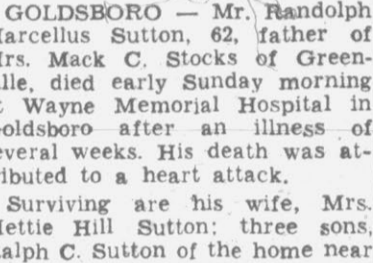

Are driveways and intersections near your farm clear from obstructions for the safety of passing motorists? Do you concentrate totally on the task at hand?

Applications may now be made for nine seedlings, and other seedlings available from the state nurseries. Red Cedar seedlings will be available this year. Call or visit your County Agent's Office for further information.

Father Of Greenville Woman Died Sunday

GOLDSBORO — Mr. Randolph Marcellus Sutton, 62, father of Mrs. Mack C. Stocks of Greenville, died early Sunday morning at Wayne Memorial Hospital in Goldsboro after an illness of several weeks. His death was attributed to a heart attack.

Onetime Follies Star Dies Friday

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Harry Gribbon, 75, a onetime star of the Ziegfeld Follies and veteran song and dance man, died Friday after a long illness.

He had retired about eight years ago and was at the motion picture country home when he died.

Born in New York, Gribbon hit the big time in show business with a lead in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1913. He came to Hollywood about 1914 and for 10 years played leading roles in silent pictures for the Mack Sennett Studios.

Known professionally as "Silk Hat Harry," Gribbon and his wife, actress Mae Emory, toured in vaudeville on the Orpheum, Keith and Pantages circuits. He returned to Broadway in the 1930s.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices mostly steady. Tops of 18.75-19.50 at Wilson; 18.25-19.25 Nahant; 18.50-19 Rocky Mount; 18-19 Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove; 17.75-18.75 Smithfield, Dunn; 18-18.50 Pembroke, Spring Hope; 19 Clinton, Fayetteville, Elizabethtown; 18.75 Castle Hayne, Bethel, Murfreesboro, Rich Square; 18.50 Tarboro, Enfield, Scotland Neck, Greensboro, Goldsboro; 18.25 Siler City, Albion; 18 Lillington.

Wilson cash cattle prices steady; steers and heifers, choice 21-23.50, good 20-22, standards 17-19; beef cows 14-16, heavy cutters 13-14, light bulls 13-15, heavy bulls 16-18.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: fryers and broilers steady, farm price 12-13, mostly 12.

NEW YORK (AP)—Irregular price trends and fractional changes made for a mixed stock market early this afternoon. The Associated Press 60-stock average was unchanged at 248.70 at noon with industrials unchanged, rails down 0.30 and utilities up 0.20.

Trading was quiet, in contrast to last week's hurly-burly, as an early upside edge evaporated. If anything, the over-all trend appeared headed slightly lower.

Prices were mostly higher as more talk of possible price increases popped up, but motors were mixed as the industry labor picture remained uncertain. Gains were more numerous among aircraft-missile issues, but electronics, rails and oils weakened a bit.

At noon the Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.24 at 704.89.

Chrysler, up nearly 2 points to a new 1961 high, paced the motor group in active trading. Ford also was strong, but General Motors was still on the downside.

Bethlehem Steel lagged behind its industry counterparts as U.S. Steel and Republic forged fractional gains.

Houston Light & Power starred in the utility group, holding a gain of around 2 points while American Telephone traded about unchanged after wavering a bit earlier.

Chemicals were pretty well mixed as Eastman Kodak continued to lose ground. Du Pont was off more than a point.

Airlines generally clung to small advances, although Pan American was unchanged.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange had a slight upside edge in moderate trading.

Long-range U.S. government bonds eased, but other treasury issues held steady. Corporates were irregularly lower.

Guthrie Assumes New SHP Post

Highway Patrol Lt. Ernest Guthrie assumed his duties as executive officer of Highway Patrol Troop "A" here today, replacing Lt. C. Frank Kinnerly who retired last month. Troop Commander, Capt. S. H. Mitchell said.

The new troop executive officer was promoted from sergeant July 20. He was formerly in charge of District VI, which included Craven, Carteret and Pamlico Counties, with headquarters in New Bern.

Capt. Mitchell also announced that R. H. Nutt, former corporal at Salisbury, was promoted to sergeant and replaced Lt. Guthrie in New Bern.

LT. ERNEST GUTHRIE

Island, was stationed in Farmville for four years in the early 1950's, and has been assigned to stations in Hertford, Jackson, Salisbury and Jacksonville, also. He has been a member of the Patrol since 1939.

Missile Ship Is Launched At New Jersey Yard

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—The USS Berkeley, one of the Navy's newest guided missile destroyers, was launched at the New York Shipbuilding Co., under a driving rain and tight security restrictions on Saturday.

The $16 million craft was built under a Navy contract which calls for a total of six ships, all the same class. Two remain to be built in the Camden yard.

Guest speaker, Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., departed from his prepared text to give shipyard workers a vote of confidence. Rivers is on the House Armed Services Committee which is to start hearings Tuesday in Washington regarding the potentialities of the nation's private shipyards.

The Camden yard is under fire from the Navy for alleged shortcomings in the construction of the $250 million supercarrier Kitty Hawk.

Heat Wave Takes Lives In Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Thirty-seven persons were reported drowned and another 25 missing Sunday as an estimated 1.2 million people stormed the beaches near Tokyo to escape the heat. Some 1,400 were treated for injuries at first-aid stations.

The mercury hit 93 degrees in the Tokyo area.

Arrest Mother In Theft Series

BOURGES, France (AP)—The arrest Sunday of a mother of five has solved a two-year wave of burglaries, police said.

Police said Denise Sernuguet, 39, stole 20,000 francs—about $4,000—in 30 house burglaries. She was released to take care of her five children while awaiting trial.

Charge Driver In Traffic Mishap

A Route 5, Greenville, Negro was charged with having improper brakes, no operator's license, and failure to see his intended movement could be made in safety while turning, after he allegedly struck a Greenville Police department motorcycle Saturday.

Highway Patrolman Luther B. Long of Bethel, who investigated the mishap, identified the man as Roosevelt Howard, 51.

According to the officer, the Howard car struck the side of a Police Department motorcycle being operated by Sgt. R. E. Joyner, 30, of 2204 Edwards St., about 3:10 p.m. on North Greene Street, near the intersection of Mumford Road.

According to investigators, the police vehicle was traveling north on Greene St. at the time it was struck by the south-bound Howard car.

Damage to the motorcycle was set at $50, and Ptl. Long reported that Sgt. Joyner suffered a minor injury to his knee. No damage was done to the car, the officer noted.

Ptl. Long explained that the Howard vehicle was attempting to make a left turn into a business parking lot at the time.

In a second wreck investigated Saturday, John Andrew Wells, 64-year-old Negro of 1598 West Sixth St., was charged with having improper brakes.

Officers said the Wells vehicle collided with a vehicle being operated by Charles McRae Stokes, 23, of Route 1, Winterville, about 9:55 a.m. near the intersection of 10th St. and Dickinson Ave.

Damage to the Stokes vehicle was set at $70 while no damage was listed to the Wells auto.

No injuries were reported.

Belhaven Chief's Wife Attacked

BELHAVEN, N.C. (AP)—The State Bureau of Investigation has been asked to help find the two men who beat up the wife of police Chief Sam Boger and ransacked her home.

Boger said Sunday his wife, in her late 20s and expecting her second child, was recovering nicely in Pungo District Hospital at Belhaven.

Searchers found the woman's wallet about five blocks from the house with $17 missing.

Asked whether he thought the attack was the result of a grudge, Boger said, "I don't know of anyone at all who has a grudge against me."

Boger came here about 3 1/2 months ago from Catawba County.

He was on duty Saturday night when the attack occurred. A young daughter, in bed at the time, was unharmed.

Mrs. Boger, who summoned aid through an incoherent telephone call, was unable to provide a clear description of her assailants.

She said the men "talked like Yankees."

She was attacked in her home shortly after returning from a visit to relatives. After putting her daughter to bed, she was running water for a bath. Then the lights in the house went off and she was grabbed.

Mrs. Boger told police she heard one of the men say, "This is the damned police chief's house."

After recovering consciousness about a half hour later, she said, the men were gone and she made her way to the telephone and tried to call her husband. The operator, sensing trouble, rang the fire department.

100-Degree Day

Another hot Sunday raised temperatures to the 100-degree mark in Greenville yesterday, kept Glisson of the Greenville Utilities Plant reported.

It was Sunday a week ago that the record high temperature for this year was recorded at 104 degrees. Though the temperature didn't get quite as high yesterday, it was still hot.

Today brings more of the same. The weatherman has predicted continued "quite warm" through Tuesday, with possibility of widely scattered thunderstorms.

Monday's temperatures ranged from 82 at midnight to a low of 79 degrees about 4 a.m. The 8 o'clock temperature today was 83 degrees.

The Tar River level has risen slightly to about 3.9 feet, Glisson said. No rain has been recorded in the past 24 hours.
