Oddities In News Of The Day

By ANDREW MEISELS Associated Press Staff Writer

An angel of mercy learning to write Japanese. A problem in Washington, The ghost of a stubborn mule haunting the government were among the oddities in the news Tuesday.

Tokyo-on-the-Hudson Sister Mary Carmel, a Roman Catholic nun, has been working at a Catholic mission among the 850,000 Japanese on the island of Okinawa.

She speaks Japanese but can't read or write it, and, Sister Mary explained, the children she helps on Okinawa don't understand "how the angel of mercy can talk to them in their own tongue but at the same time not understand the writing."

So Sister Mary took a 6-month leave from her duties in an outpatient clinic on the American protectorate and enrolled in a course to learn Japanese reading and writing.

Where? At Columbia University in New York City, thousands of miles from the land of the rising sun. The university has one of the best intensive Japanese courses in the world.

School News They have a brand new high school in Boone, Iowa, and they want to keep it looking trim—students and all.

The principal of the school, which opens its doors Sept. 5, has issued an edict forbidding girls to come to school "with radical hair changes—such as half dyed one color and the other half natural."

As for the boys, they are required to keep their hair at a length above the ear and to wear their belts "at the proper place—the waistline."

Point of Order Also concerned with appearances is Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio. He doesn't think tourists should be allowed to roam the halls of congress and sit in visitors' galleries in "semi-nudity."

Criticizing rules that permit visitors in casual dress to sit in the legislative chambers where congressmen wear coats and ties, Young blasted tourists who wear "T-shirts, blue jeans, tight slacks and short-shorts."

What Price Parking? Mrs. David Specht won her battle against the removal of trees from the yard of the West High School for construction of a parking lot—at least temporarily.

She did it by perching on the tread of a bulldozer at the school in Rochester, N.Y., and refusing to budge. The workmen finally gave up and contented themselves with cleaning up some litter.

Old Buck

A mule's unusual ability has cost the federal government $93,346 in a court judgment.

The mule, Old Buck, could open gates. He did it while on work duty with the U.S. Forest Service in 1958 and wandered onto a road.

The mule wouldn't budge, and a car crashed into it, killing Dwight Salvatore. Old Buck also was killed.

The government denied full responsibility for Salvatore's death, saying the mule's owner should have warned of Old Buck's ability to open gates before lending him to the Forest Service.

The government lost. A federal judge ruled it had to pay $78,103 to Salvatore's widow and $15,243 to a passenger in the car who was injured.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average a few degrees above normal and rainfall a half inch or more through Monday. Quite warm, with only small day to day temperature changes and daily scattered afternoon and evening showers throughout.

Farmville Board Backs District Office Move

FARMVILLE—Farmville's Commissioners last night unanimously adopted a resolution endorsing an effort to have the location of a new Social Security district office moved from Goldsboro to Greenville.

The resolution asked U. S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin and B. Everett Jordan to "give full consideration to the request of the City of Greenville as to the location of the new office."

Greenville's Mayor Charles M. King Monday telegraphed the senators asking consideration of Greenville for the headquarters of a proposed new Social Security district including Pitt, Lenoir, Greene and Wayne Counties.

King's telegram and a similar one from Pitt County Development Commission Chairman L. P. Bloxam followed Saturday telegrams from Farmville's Walter B. Jones to the senators asking support for the idea.

First District Rep. Herbert C. Bonner said yesterday he had attempted immediately after the announcement last week that the office would be in Goldsboro to

Sure Way To Beat The Heat

WANT TO BEAT THE HEAT? . . . Pretty Melinda Coleman, 208 Pineview Drive, discovered that giving yourself a shower with a garden hose (while out doors, of course) is a good way to cool off during these hot days. Pictured here, she seems to be enjoying the refreshing "cooling." Debate Begins In Britain On Common Market Entry

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan today declared Britain must abandon its traditional isolation and unite with the European Common Market to face the challenge of communism.

"Our right place is in the vanguard of the movement toward the greater unity of the free world," he told the House of Commons. "We can lead better from within than from outside. I am persuaded we ought to try."

Macmillan's speech marked the opening of a two-day debate on the British decision, announced last Monday, to apply for membership of the six nation Common Market.

Macmillan noted that Britain had long entertained a tradition of isolation and suspicion of foreigners.

"Nevertheless," he went on, "it is worth recalling that in every period when the world has been in danger from a tyrant or aggressor, Britain has abandoned isolationism."

Despite opposition from a number of the ruling Conservatives as well as many Laborites, the trend on both sides of the House was clearly in favor of the principle of British membership in the European Economic Community.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was expected to squeeze out a vote of approval at the end of the two-day wrangle.

The way will then be clear for Macmillan's government to start negotiations with the Common Market members—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. The British will demand tariff concessions for their Commonwealth partners whose economies are dependent on the British market and possibly exemption from the trend toward political unity that is slowly developing within the Continental Six.

Edward Heath, No. 2 man in the British Foreign Office, met in Paris Tuesday with foreign ministers of the six nations and said "all were very enthusiastic and there were no signs of obstacles."

Ships Assigned To West Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Navy disclosed Tuesday that eight ships of the 1st Fleet will depart three West Coast ports Aug. 11 "for extended deployment" in the Western Pacific.

The attack carrier Ranger will sail from Alameda; the heavy cruiser Helena and the guided missile frigate Coontz, from San Diego, and the seamy cruiser Los Angeles and the destroyers Edson Pickens, Pecteler and H. J. Thomas, from Long Beach.

After a brief visit in Pearl Harbor the ships will be joined by the carrier Yorktown and eight vessels of Destroyer Divisions 232 and 253. All then will proceed to the Western Pacific.

He predicted negotiations might start in six to eight weeks. "That is moving fast," he commented.

In his announcement Monday that Britain would seek membership in the EEC, Macmillan stressed he would require guarantees to protect Commonwealth trade and that the other Commonwealth governments would be consulted fully before Britain entered the continental group.

Macmillan's pledge to safeguard Commonwealth trade reportedly brought a number of reluctant Conservatives around to his side. At least 47 Conservative dissidents have put themselves on record against joining the market.

The Labor party's parliamentary caucus instructed its members to abstain on the government motion itself but to vote for a Labor amendment demanding that no firm step into the Common Market be taken before agreement is obtained from a conference of Commonwealth prime ministers and Britain's partners in the seven-nation European Free Trade Association.

CASUALTIES LISBON, Portugal (AP)—The Portuguese government says 22 soldiers were killed in action and six were killed accidentally in operations during July against African rebels in northern Angola.

The number of wounded was not given nor was there any estimate of African casualties.

building, the resolution specified that the Troop Committee and the clerk would utilize the hut for activities of local Troop 25, the Explorer Post and the Cub Scouts. In addition, it allowed use of the hut for "such other community functions that will not interfere with" the activities of the three scout groups.

In other action the board:—called for specifications and cost estimates of the installation of electric lights at the H. B. Sugg High School athletic field. Included in the estimate-specifications order were a regulation-size and a smaller playing field.

—authorized installation of a stop light at the corner of Main Street and Home Avenue to reduce the traffic hazard near the high school "if the installation is agreeable with the State Highway Commission."

—instructed the Water and Lights Department and the Street Department to affect necessary repairs to local fire hydrants listed by Fire Chief Curtis Planagan as not readily accessible in case of emergency.

Western Ministers May Lay Summit Groundwork

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Western foreign ministers meeting which opens in Paris at the end of this week may lay the groundwork for a Western summit conference on the Berlin crisis in the fall.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Tuesday that a meeting of President Kennedy with French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville, Foreign Secretary Lord Home of Britain and Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano of West Germany on diplomatic and military measures for meeting the Soviet challenge to the West over Berlin.

Several reasons for a followup session of Western chiefs of government could emerge from the Paris talks. The ministers may find some problems they cannot solve or some problems which require top level sanction for final agreement. They may also decide that any diplomatic initiative undertaken by the West as the Berlin crisis grows grimmer would be more effectively launched from a Western summit conference.

There has been some speculation that the next round of top-level allied talks might be held on this side of the Atlantic, possibly at Bermuda. Kennedy met with French President Charles de Gaulle in Paris and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in London when he visited Europe two months ago.

There appears to be at least some slight increase in hope in official quarters here that East-West negotiations over the Berlin demands and threats made by Soviet Premier Khrushchev will in the end provide a peaceful way out of the crisis.

Khrushchev is understood to have indicated to U.S. disarmament chief John J. McCloy last week that he was interested in the possibility of negotiations and thought a reasonable settlement should be possible.

As officials here understand Khrushchev's present position, however, he conceives of a reasonable settlement only on Soviet terms which the Western powers consider completely unacceptable.

One of the problems before the Western foreign ministers meeting in Paris will be to try to devise proposals for negotiation which would lead to an end to the crisis without in any way weakening or endangering Western rights in West Berlin.

It is understood that McCloy's talk with Khrushchev covered both the military situation and the diplomatic prospects with respect to Berlin and that Khrushchev threatened to increase Soviet forces in Germany if Kennedy increases U.S. forces under the NATO command in Europe.

Unemployment Has Seasonable Drop For July

WASHINGTON (AP)—Unemployment dropped seasonally by 440,000 in July but the idle rate edged up a bit to 6.9 per cent of the work force.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg reported that the number of unemployed declined to 5,140,000 in July from 5,580,000 in June. This compared with 4 million idle in July 1960.

Employment declined by 205,000 to 68,499,000. The changes in employment and unemployment both were about what was seasonally expected.

Goldberg said the figures showed economic recovery has not affected the nation's hard core unemployment problem. He said it remains a continuing cause of concern to the administration.

The number of workers idle a half year or longer increased by nearly 100,000 in July to 1,026,000. The rate of unemployment to the total work force increased from 6.8 per cent in June to 6.9 per cent in July.

Goldberg spoke of this as virtually unchanged but said it underlines the need for legislation pending in Congress to train idle workers in new skills.

The fact that both employment and unemployment could decline in July was explained by a drop in the civilian labor force by about 645,000 to 73,639,000.

This drop came about because many students seeking summer jobs dropped out of the labor force without getting employment.

Tornado Swoops Down On Swansboro; None Injured

SWANSBORO, N.C. (AP)—A tornado that Police Chief M. T. Maness said "looked just like a big coiling snake going up about 8,000 or 10,000 feet" struck this small Onslow County town Tuesday night.

Maness said estimates placed damages to the coastal town at "between $25,000 and $50,000." He said the funnel cloud swooped down on a bay about 600 yards from the city, whipped across a narrow section of the town and was about a mile beyond the city limits when it seemed to disappear.

Maness said the path of the tornado was very narrow and about a mile long inside Swansboro.

No one was injured and no one made homeless by the storm, Chief Maness reported. He also said most of the damages were confined to business buildings along the town's main street and, therefore, no one was made homeless. One apartment, which housed about 10 families, was "pretty well wrecked," he said.

The storm hit about 6:20 p.m., the officer said. The roof of a service station was completely sheared off, he said, and a cafe damaged.

A lightning storm also struck the Wilmington area Tuesday evening. Fire Chief D. E. Milliner said at least nine alarms were turned in during the storm, including three fires described as rather large. He said it was the largest number of fires in his memory caused by lightning at one time.

Several downtown Wilmington stores reported flooding.

A storm also skipped about the Lake Waccamaw area in Columbus County. Some slight damage was reported in that area.

The Wilmington Weather Bureau said the unusual weather conditions resulted from a southward moving cold front, an unstable air mass and unusually high temperatures. Wilmington reported 97 degrees Tuesday, the hottest day in the port-city since June, 1959 and the hottest Aug. 1 on record.

Air Force Alerts 28,000 Men For Possible Duty Call

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force has alerted 28,000 men in 71 Air National Guard and Air Reserve units for a possible call to active duty as a part of the defense buildup to meet the Berlin crisis.

The announcement Tuesday came after President Kennedy signed legislation authorizing him to call to active duty up to 250,000 reservists and extend active duty tours and enlistments by one year.

It follows Air Force announcement Monday that four Air Force bases, slated to be retired from active base, would remain on active status to provide facilities for continued operation of B47 jet bombers which will be retained in service.

Some 240 bombers and tankers slated to give way to later model aircraft will continue in use instead of being deactivated.

The 64 Air National Guard and 7 Reserve units alerted Tuesday fly tactical fighters, reconnaissance planes and transports.

About 750 aircraft are involved, including about 100 transports.

The units were authorized to bring themselves up to full strength, which means they must recruit about 5,000 men. Present strength is about 28,000.

The alert involved units in 28 states and the District of Columbia. This included National Guard units in 26 states and the District and Air Force ready Reserve units in five states, two of which were not involved in the National Guard alerts.

The message to governors and Continental Air Command headquarters said:

"This is only an advisory notice. Certain Air National Guard units may be ordered to active duty to augment the present active force. The following tactical and standby Air National Guard units of your state and all their support elements have been selected by headquarters, U.S. Air Force, and priority units for possible active federal duty."

Launch Sites Into Space Are Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)—World-wide study of possible launching sites for moon vehicles and even farther ranging spacecraft is being conducted by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in cooperation with the Defense Department.

Among potential sites already inspected are the Gulf Coast near Brownsville, Tex., the White Sands Proving Ground in New Mexico, Christmas Island in the Pacific, and an area in Hawaii.

A spokesman for NASA said the site study team also is making a thorough review of the possible adaptation of present launching installations at Cape Canaveral, Fla., and Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., for the much larger and more powerful rockets for moon and planetary research.

"No decision has been made, and the studies are continuing," he said.

NASA already has briefed 1,200 contractor representatives on technical details of its Apollo project to land men on the moon.

Contractor proposals are to be submitted next month, and NASA plans to award the first Apollo research and development contracts late this year.

The plan is for three-man Apollo teams to orbit the earth perhaps as early as 1964, fly around the moon possibly in 1965, and land on the moon late in 1966 or in 1967.

NASA already has awarded the Martin Co., Baltimore, a contract to study the launch vehicle requirements for a lunar landing, and also for establishment of a permanent 12-man lunar base.

The launching vehicle, with its Apollo craft, would weigh more than 100 tons standing on the pad.

Earth orbital flights of the Apollo craft, or flights around the moon and back, will be launched by Saturn rockets 160 feet tall.

For lunar landings a 22-engine Nova rocket of 12 million pounds thrust will be required.

The size, power, shattering noise and potential danger of the Saturn and Nova rockets are the reasons for the current search for launching sites providing greater isolation and public safety than is currently available.

Pitt CD Meet Slated Tonight

Pitt County Director of Civil Defense J. H. Rose, State Area Defense Officer Col. David Spivey, mayors of towns in Pitt County and directors of Civil Defense, are scheduled to meet tonight in Rose's office to discuss Civil Defense.

Tonight's meeting will be a "work meeting," Rose said, with the various officials. Later, a public meeting will be held locally for those interested in attending.

Several items have been the main targets of work by local Civil Defense officials, including the completion of a communications system throughout the county by short wave. This will tie in with the state system, which will have a unit at Washington, N.C., Rose has said.

Other projects include making plans for the building of fallout shelters wherever it is possible to get people to build them. Rose said Civil Defense officials want to work with the Red Cross in setting up as many training classes as possible in first aid and home nursing.

Astronauts Are Getting Checkup

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—America's seven astronauts have been ordered to this military medical center. First arrivals were light-tipped as to purpose and how long they were to stay.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington said the hand-picked crew will spend several days undergoing annual physical checkups at Lackland Air Force Base.

Four of the astronauts, Navy Cmdr. Alan Shepard, Marine Lt. Col. John Glenn Jr., Navy Lt. M. S. Carpenter and Navy Cmdr. Walter Schirra Jr., arrived Tuesday afternoon by commercial jet.

Joint Effort To Build $60 Million Gas Pipeline

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Ten Southern producers and shippers of liquefied petroleum gas are reportedly joining a Houston gas transmission company in the construction and operation of a $60 million pipeline.

The 1,000-mile line would serve Southeastern markets.

Representatives of the companies met in Houston Tuesday. Details were not disclosed.

The Houston Post said it learned however, that the line would start at Mont Belvieu, Tex., about 30 miles east of Houston, and go to a point near Sanford, N.C.

The Transcontinental Pipe Line Corp. of Houston has started work on a natural gas trunkline along roughly the same route.

The Post said representatives from Transco, Trans - Southern Pipeline Corp., Continental Oil Co., Atlantic Pipe Line Co., Sinclair Pipe Line Co., the California Co., Texaco, Inc., and Mobil Oil Co. were at the meeting.

Next Chief Of Secret Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gerald A. Behn will be the new chief of the White House Secret Service detail, in charge of protecting President Kennedy and his family.

The White House announced today that Behn will succeed James J. Rowley who, in turn, will become chief of the entire U.S. Secret Service upon the retirement of the present head, U. E. Baughman at the end of this month.

Behn is 45 and a Secret Service veteran. He joined the service in 1939, the same year he got a degree from Michigan State University where he majored in police administration. He was assigned to the White House detail in 1941 and promoted in 1946 to the leadership of one of the three shifts that rotate around the clock in guarding the chief executive.

Engagement Announced

MISS BERCHIE REBECCA TRIPP is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther R. Tripp of Greenville, who announces the engagement of their daughter to Garland M. Bullock Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland M. Bullock, of Winterville. The wedding is planned for August 18.

Miss Seago Is Club Speaker

Miss Clara Seago was the speaker for the monthly meeting of the Credit Women's Breakfast Club held last night.

Miss Seago discussed "Service Industries and Their Special Problems."

She noted, "Industries such as fuel, oil, milk, drugs, utilities (gas, electricity and telephone), and floral shops must have firmly established collection procedures and credit granting policies. Those who partially or entirely have recourse to repossession contracts or chattel mortgage in the type of business, may not always appreciate the special problems of industries which sell services or goods which are immediately consumed."

In fuel businesses, the date at which service is suspended is variable but obviously that is the only recourse that this type of business has. In handling the collection problem, telephone, letters, telegrams and personal contacts are in general use.

"Utilities, too, have their own unique problems. The accounts are classified, reviewed on a monthly basis and are treated for collection according to their credit classification. In general, it appears that they must be even more alert than the average in granting credit. They must be more prompt and consistent in their follow-up," commented Miss Seago.

Wash-Use Buildings Featured In 1960's

Looks like wash-use buildings will develop as extensively in the '60s as wash-wear clothing did during the '50s. One of many new examples is the $50-million Los Angeles International Airport.

The dramatic structure that sets its theme—and houses shops, offices, dining and observation facilities—is made of steel and concrete coated by sprayed-in-place vinyl. This needs no maintenance except periodic washing—plus a refresher coat of vinyl every eight or ten years!

"The cleaner, the cooler" is a good rule for "dog" days.

Shower Given Recent Bride

Mrs. Stanley Purvis, the former Miss Laurel Thigpen of Bethel, was honored Wednesday evening at a floating shower in the Social Hall of the Hassell Christian Church.

The hostesses, Mrs. William Tadlock III, Mrs. Luther Staton, Mrs. Woodrow Purvis and Mrs. Elmer Edmondson, presented her with a corsage of white carnations for the occasion.

The social hall was decorated throughout with pink summer flowers, magnolia leaves, white wedding bells tied with pink satin bows and streamers, and burning pink tapers.

Mrs. Tadlock greeted the guests and introduced them to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Winifred Thigpen, and Mrs. Hannibal Purvis, mother of the bridegroom. Mrs. Ruth Ewell, grandmother of the bridegroom, directed the guests to the bride's table which was covered with a white handmade lace cloth centered with an arrangement of pink gladioli and carnations, flanked by silver candelabras with pink tapers.

Mrs. Louis Roebuck poured punch and the guests served themselves bridal ices, open face and ribbon sandwiches, nuts and mints. Others assisting in serving and receiving were Mrs. Ernest Edmondson, Mrs. Robert House, Mrs. Everette Purvis and Miss Betsy Scarborough. Mrs. Michael Johnson presided at the bride's book and said the goodbyes.

Young Couple Arrested For Bank Hold-Up

GIBSON, N.C. (AP) — A young man and woman have been charged with Monday's robbery of the Gibson branch of the Commercial State Bank of Laurinburg.

An attractive young woman pulled a .38 caliber pistol in the bank at closing time Monday and made off with the money in two sacks.

Police said the car was registered to a Bonnie Stephens of Fayetteville. Officers said the Stephens woman said she had loaned the car to a man she met in a Fayetteville bar.

Smith, a native of Laurinburg, lived in Richmond, Va., with his wife. Mrs. Smith said they had moved to Richmond in February from Greenville, S.C., where Smith had worked in a cotton mill.

While here, Mrs. Smith said, her husband worked at a service station and a restaurant. She said he left town July 22 and did not say where he was going.

New Insurance Requests Heard

RALEIGH (AP) — Insurance Commissioner Charles F. Gold has under advisement a request that automobile liability insurance coverage be boosted 18.7 per cent in North Carolina.

Gold held another hearing on the request Tuesday and also considered other insurance matters involving a "safe driver reward plan" authorized by the 1961 General Assembly.

Robert E. Holcombe of the State Insurance Department testified at the hearing that North Carolina's present liability rates are inadequate.

The 'Plus Factor' In Development

Economic development, so far as a community is concerned, is primarily dependent upon the effort which the community puts forth in its own behalf and the work the community does to make itself attractive and receptive to development.

There are, of course, many factors which influence the economic development of a town or county. Its geographic location, its natural advantages, its suitability for the purposes of a particular business or industry, and the influence upon it by other development which is going on within its immediate area.

For the most part, however, the community which prepares itself for development is the one which usually realizes a greater portion of its potential than those who merely drift along until something happens.

For lack of a better term, this plus factor which some communities have may be termed their "development posture". A community which is on the move and seeking to improve its lot and that of its people is naturally more attractive to a prospective industry than one which is merely biding its time. The community or county which is constantly seeking to make the most of what it already has in the way of natural advantages is more likely to generate interest from outsiders than those which give the impression of indifference to their situation.

It has also been evident in this era of economic development of many communities throughout North Carolina, that those who in advance put themselves in a position to take advantages of opportunities that are presented usually are the ones which have the greatest number of opportunities to enhance their economic position.

The communities of Pitt County, and the county as a whole, should evaluate their "development posture" as it appears to those from other areas who may be interested in casting their lot with a forward-moving area.

Are we moving forward of our own volition, taking advantage of that which we already have and seeking to improve our lot without having to be prodded? Would outsiders looking at our county and communities consider Pitt an area which is interested in its own development, or one which is indifferent and willing to drift with the tide? Have we done sufficient planning and preparatory work to be in a position to take advantage quickly of opportunities as they present themselves?

In short, how is the "development posture" of Pitt County and its communities compared with other counties and communities in North Carolina?

The people of Pitt County should evaluate the position of their communities and their county very critically and carefully in this respect, for we may be sure that those whose job it is to find good locations for economic or industrial projects will do the same.

Elevation Made A New Vacancy

By LYNN NISBET
JUDGES — Governor Sanford has named the four additional special superior court judges authorized by the 1961 General Assembly. Meantime another vacancy has occurred by elevation of Judge Braxton Craven of Morganton to the Federal bench.

Prior to 1955 the special judges were required to be appointed on basis of residence in the judicial divisions. The 1955 Legislature increased the number of divisions from two to four and eliminated the residence requirement for special judges. So far as the statute is concerned all the special judges could come from one county. Justification for that policy rests in the fact that special judges are subject to roving assignments all over the state, and while they have equal authority with regular judges while holding court they have no official status as a resident judge.

In making his original appointments under the 1955 act Governor Hodges bypassed the second division. He named George Fountain of Edgecombe from the first division; Susie Sharp of Rockingham and Leland MacKeithen of Moore from the third, and Braxton Craven of Burke from the fourth. In subsequent appointments the second division had Reid Thompson of Chatham and Jack Hooks of Johnston.

In his original appointments Governor Sanford also bypassed the second division. He named William Copeland of Hertford from the first; Hal Hammer Walker of Randolph and John McConnell of Moore from the third and H. L. Riddle Jr. of Burke from the fourth. The replacement for Judge Craven can legally come from anywhere in the state, but some pressure is being put upon the Governor to name a man from the second division.

GEOGRAPHY—Governor Sanford has given more recognition to geography in his assignments of duty to appointees than most of his predecessors. He has said that in his capacity as chairman of the board of conservation and development he expects to assign each of the 28 members of that board to specific territorial areas for primary responsibility in industrial development. The act setting up the board does not recognize geography, but specifies that members should be selected with a view to the diversified economic interests of the state.

The plan to designate local areas of activity for C&D folks has drawn some editorial criticism, on the ground that this particular agency should maintain a comprehensive statewide viewpoint.

Parentetically, some of the C&D members who were disappointed at committee assignments and at being given two-year instead of four-year terms, have nothing to worry about. It is a favorite device of executives naming members to staggered tenure boards to give best friends the short term. The current four-year terms give the incumbent executive a chance to reap for a total of six years, instead of four.

Of course the overlapping tenure is fictitious. The next Governor can have his first Legislature to terminate all appointive terms and start over, just as Governor Sanford had all continuing terms of C&D, Highway, Wildlife and other board memberships ended this year. There was nothing unusual in that procedure. Governors Scott, Umstead and Hodges did the same thing, and they were following precedent established by their predecessors.

SUB ROSA—Getting back to the judges, and the pressure being put on the Governor in behalf of this or that individual. There is a sort of sub-rosa campaign being quietly waged to have a judicial appointment given to one of Jewish ancestry and faith. It has been a long time—in fact, some researchers are having difficulty finding an instance—since a member of that sect served on the judiciary in North Carolina. There are many eminent lawyers of that faith in North Carolina and their compatriots have contributed substantially to the Federal judiciary, from the Supreme Court down. The "campaign" now underway does not ask for special consideration because a prospective appointee is a Jew. The request is only that such status should not be counted against him.

UNIQUE—One other little item about the judgeship distribution. For the first time in history the three counties which comprise the Roanoke-Chowan area, the little triangle between the Roanoke and Chowan rivers and the Virginia line, each has a superior court judge. Joseph W. Parker, resident regular judge of the sixth district; Hertford county has Judge William Copeland, recently appointed special judge; and Northampton has Judge Summer Burswyn, with the status of emergency judge—but who is as active as any member of the superior court bench.

Notable Achievement By A Notable Group

The impact of active service organizations on a community cannot be measured. We know that the good they do is a great asset; just as we know that stagnation among them reflects the tenor of their community.

Greenville and Pitt County have long been fortunate in the quality of their civic groups. Their accomplishments over the years have been a source of local pride.

Yesterday it was the turn of the Greenville Moose to "shine" with the arrival of a plaque won in international competition in the field of community service. Such an honor as this represents is an accomplishment of no small magnitude.

It is all the more impressive because the Loyal Order of Moose was not founded with a primary goal of community service. This latter facet just grew "like Topsy". Today that spirit is strongest among the strongest lodges of the fraternity . . . a point upon which observers might well find a moral.

The extent of local Moose activities in the community life of Pitt Counties is a matter of record; a matter of pride among the membership; and an example of what can be accomplished by harnessing ideals, ideas and work in a common effort.

Congratulations are certainly in order for the honors won by Lodge 885, together with best wishes for the undertakings that lie before them in the year ahead.

The Force That Can Bring Unity

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — That simple symbol of survival—the almighty buck—may do more to bring the people of Western Europe together than all the philosophers, kings, wars and oratory in history.

The latest example: British Prime Minister Macmillan Monday hemmed and hawed and hesitated but managed to murmur he'd like to take Britain into Europe's Common Market. He wasn't talking out of an impulse toward humanitarianism or nobility. Britain is hurting in the pocketbook. The history behind his wish and the Common Market had its roots in humility and desolation.

For generations the West Europeans lived like tomcats on the prowl for real estate or trade, even if it meant war, which it often did. In the end they fought one war too many, the last one.

It left them broke and second-rate in a new world dominated by the United States and Russia. In their moment of disaster they suddenly showed a common sense which had been unthinkable when they had muscle.

Soon after the war a French economist, Jean Monnet, had an idea. France and West Germany both had coal and iron ore. Why not pool their resources? Besides, it would bridge some of that ancient gulf between them.

It would certainly help, economically. The idea appealed, too, to Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg. So the six nations signed a treaty creating the European Coal and Steel Community (ECSC).

Another Frenchman, Premier Rene Pleven, got another thought, instead of having separate European armies glaring at

THE CARPENTER OF NAZARETH

Julian, the Apostle, has been one of the foremost villains in the history of the Christian Church. He was a Roman emperor who first embraced Christianity and later forsook and denounced it. The story is told that after he had given up his Christian faith, Julian one day encountered an old man whom he had known in his youth. This old man was a devout Christian. "By the way," said Julian cheerfully, "what has become of that carpenter of Nazareth?" And the old man replied, "The carpenter of Nazareth is very busy these days making a coffin for you and for the Roman Empire. Whether it was the shock of

It Wasn't His Nightmare

Jim Boykin, parole officer in Greenville, tells of the time before his married days when he and a friend took an auto trip.

Their route took them through the mountains and, having limited funds, the two bedded down for the night in the auto.

To make sure the car didn't take off down the steep mountain, however, they carefully set the emergency brake and chocked the wheels with big rocks.

Feeling secure, they soon were off to dream land, one in the front seat and one in the back. It was a peaceful night and Jim recalls he slept peacefully until the wee hours of the morning. Then he awoke with a start.

"We're rolling down the mountain!" his friend was screaming. "We're rolling down the mountain!"

On leaving, dressed in his best suit, he came upon a wreck on the highway. Ronnie says it was raining cats and dogs but he rolled up his pants legs and set out to offer assistance.

Having had some first aid instruction, Ronnie decided to do his best by the injured persons.

He shouted instructions to others at the scene. "Who are you?" one of them asked.

Ronnie explained that he was a pharmacy student and had had first aid training.

"Well, I'm a doctor," replied the man.

Ronnie, a six-footer, shrunk to a few inches. And it wasn't the rain that did it.

Saturday will be the last day of the week for the world. But 16 years ago on Saturday, this whole potentially terrifying era in which we now live was ushered in. It was on Aug. 5, 1945 that the first atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima, Japan, killing 78,000 people.

It climaxed a fantastic scientific hunt for the ultimate weapon and it served its immediate purpose. The bomb ended World War II.

But though the war ended, the bomb is still with us. In fact since, the far more powerful hydrogen bomb has been perfected.

Even today the question is raised: Was it right for the United States to use the bomb?

Only time will tell. Perhaps its terrible power demonstrated to the world that wars must end. Perhaps it set the precedent for future use of the bomb which will eventually destroy the world. At this point, nobody knows.

Other Editors Sayings . . . Soviet's New Principles

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
An important and historic document of vital interest to the West has been announced as Soviet Communist policy by the Soviet Union. Its importance is made all the more clear when it is realized that the document could set the pattern for Communist behavior for years to come. An example of this is found in its main theme: that capitalism is doomed anyway so Communists are urged to support the "Leninist principle of peaceful coexistence."

A conclusion to be immediately drawn is that the Soviet Union has indeed won a key ideological victory over the Chinese Communists. Last December in a meeting of Red leaders from 81 countries Red China's theory that war with capitalism is inevitable lost out to Nikita Khrushchev's line that communism will triumph over the West without resort to war.

Many of the points in the new program have been mentioned by Khrushchev and it appears that he clearly was the guiding spirit behind this new statement of principles. This in turn means he still holds the upper hand in the Marxist struggle for world leadership between himself and Mao Tse-tung.

If that is true it holds great significance for the West. For, while the Soviet Union still poses a threat to the West, the peril is in no wise as immediate as it would be if the Chinese Reds were in the ascendancy. Sudden, ruthless war would be the result of leadership by China. For that we can at least be thankful, if such a negative condition can justify thanks.

Now they are discovering that many of those exempt from the

Personnel Office 'Firecracker'

By ELMER ROESSNER
When President Kennedy drew a line at the Brandenburg Gate in Berlin he also set off a firecracker, if not a small bomb, in the personnel offices of almost all businesses in the United States.

Proposals to increase draft calls and to call up reservists are upsetting many recruiters. The first is of minor consequence. It simply means that those companies recruiting fresh young blood will have fewer to recruit from, and that those available may have physical or mental defects.

But the call-up of reservists is worrying many employers. DRAFT EXEMPT? SURE! Many cagey companies have been asking applicants about their draft status and then hiring only those who said they were draft exempt.

Now they are discovering that many of those exempt from the draft are members of the reserve. They did short hitches and agreed to be on call for six years.

The junior phalanx in many companies consists of young "draft exempt" men who elected the reserve routine from one to seven years ago.

In the intervening time, they have been trained and advanced into positions of responsibility. Many have married and begun families.

Today these companies face the loss of any part of these men through the call up of reservists. Complicating operations further, the law says an employer must rehire any draftee or reservist called to active duty if he applies for reinstatement within 90 days after his release from active service.

FIFTEEN HIRING IN SUSPENSION
The veteran must be restored to his old job or an equal will have a dramatic effect on unemployment. For the last six months both government and private economists have been "conditioning" the public to a long-term high rate of unemployment.

Draining off a million of the most desirable workers can reduce unemployment by even larger numbers. Some will need more than one replacement; some employers will be moved to hoarding people.

T-MEN BECOME SPIFF HUNTERS
The Internal Revenue Service has notified all regional offices to be alert to the fact that "spiffs" are often overlooked in reporting income taxes.

Spiffs, also called "push money" and "pin money," are premiums paid to retail salesmen for selling otherwise slow-moving merchandise.

Cuban Story Retold

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Although it is now settled that the United States will make its stand against Soviet Russia at Berlin and not in Cuba, the Cuban situation will always raise doubts in the American mind. Have we not lost too much by the consistent policy of permitting Castro to get away with it?

In this connection one has Nathaniel Weyl's "Red Star Over Cuba," now revised, brought up-to-date and issued as a paperback.

Nathaniel Weyl is a former Communist who has turned on the Party and has done yeoman service exposing it. Familiar with Communist language and Communist techniques, Weyl is not deluded by Soviet propaganda although as a convert from Communism he is fanatically anti-Communist.

Weyl establishes beyond doubt the Communist nature of the Castro revolution. This may not be necessary for the initiated, although there are still many in the United States who believe that Castro is a noble dictator who leads his people to a better life. They are like the deluded ones who spoke of Mao Tse-tung's Communists as Agrarian Reformers.

Nathaniel Weyl has made as thorough a study as is possible for the layman of the Cuban case. Apparently he had close contact with primary sources. President Kennedy has issued all kinds of ukases limiting communication between government officials and the press. Such an attitude never succeeds. It only gives opportunity to the abler newspapermen to demonstrate their talents. Regarding Cuba many attempts have been made to be secretive; all have failed.

During the campaign, John F. Kennedy used bold words which were not implemented after the inauguration. The President has never explained this change in attitude, which is unfortunate because it leads people to wonder whether his bite is as sharp as his bark.

The case of Richard Nixon is different, Weyl says:

"As early as April 1959, Nixon had held a three-hour conversation with Fidel Castro in Washington. He had reported back to President Eisenhower that he was convinced that Castro was a tool of Communism and had recommended that the United States proceed forthwith to the freeing and arming of Cuban freedom fighters. This recommendation was rejected."

However, during the campaign, Nixon was very mild on the Cuban question, either because he did not wish to embarrass President Eisenhower or attack the CIA. President Kennedy was apparently embarrassed by being a Democrat because some of the leading personalities in his party were opposed to his taking any action against Castro. This was especially true of Adlai Stevenson. Weyl says of Stevenson's attitude:

Adlai E. Stevenson urged 'a categorical promise that American forces would not be used in Cuba.' His interest was in being able to justify U.S. action before the United Nations. He was taking a stand in favor of expediency, not international law."

Weyl attributes much of the President's negative attitude to Adlai Stevenson and has devoted considerable space to an effort to prove the point. The problem, however, was much more complicated. Several of the countries of Latin America were fearful of the reinstatement of the Monroe Doctrine and the employment of Marines to maintain a United States form of government in Central and South America. This would have raised many problems which were not particularly related to Cuba but which might have involved us in many unfortunate situations with some countries.

There was also the possibility that Soviet Russia was playing a not unusual Communist trick, namely it would make trouble in Cuba and Laos, diverting American military strength to those areas and thus throwing the United States off focus while Soviet Russia attacked Berlin.

If this was Soviet strategy, the United States should have kept far away from the Cuban situation at the present time.

On the other hand, if we calculated that that was such a program why did the United States encourage Cuban refugees (Continued on page five)

Hollywood Really Lacks Enough TV Cartoonists

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actors, producers, directors — Hollywood has them in abundance. What this film capital really lacks is enough trained artists to fill the increasing demand for TV cartoon series.

Cartoon series aimed toward the adult TV audience compose one of next season's important trends. Last year there was one trail-blazer, "The Flintstones" on ABC, which built up such imposing ratings that this year it will be joined in prime evening time by four more: "The Bullwinkle Show" (NBC, Sundays, 7-7:30 p.m. EDT); "Calvin and the Colonel" (ABC, Tuesdays, 8-8:30); "Top Cat" (ABC, Wednesdays, 8:30-9); and "The Alvin Show" (CBS, Wednesdays, 7:30-8). "Animation is a very small business," explained Jay Ward, "Bullwinkle's" creator and producer. "I don't suppose there are more than 1,000 persons in the entire business. It takes about five years to learn to be a good animator—they are the ones who make the cartoon characters move—and I don't think we have more than 200 of them."

Ward says that the increasing popularity of cartoon commercials and the four new TV series have created a shortage of several hundred craftsmen.

Some animators—always highly paid—now are working 60 to 80 hours a week. Some are putting in full-time at their regular jobs and free-lancing for other studios nights and weekends.

Women who once painted in backgrounds but retired upon marriage have been persuaded to resume this work at home. Ward, who has been in the cartoon business for a dozen or so years, has managed to reduce his corporate problem by having all his animation work done by his staff of artists in Mexico City.

"We first moved there because the costs were about 15 per cent lower," he explained. "Now we stay there because we have a trained staff there, although we do all the creative work here in Hollywood."

 Outer Seven have only 85 million. Britain began to see itself squeezed out of many of its traditional markets.

So Macmillan finally came around to the idea that if you can't lick 'em, join 'em, and he is starting to talk of taking Britain into the Common Market of the Inner Six. Immediately afterwards the headquarters of Britain's partners in the Outer Seven urged the merger of the seven with the six.

Before it can all happen a lot of difficulties—for instance, Britain's own preferential trade arrangement with the nations in the British Commonwealth—have to be considered.

But if the merger comes, it will be a new era and more civilized era than any Western Europe has ever known. In time it might—but this seems far off now—lead to a United States of Europe.

If it happens thanks must go to the power of the buck and not to man's abilities to settle his affairs intelligently because he wanted to be intelligent.

A Discontented Cow On Rampage

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—This cow just wasn't contented. Police Tuesday were forced to shoot to death a 900-pound heifer after she broke away while being loaded onto a truck. During her wild escapade she tied up traffic on a suburban street, knocked down a man trying to catch her, and chased a police officer over a fence. Police may be in for more of the same. Still missing was another heifer that escaped.

The whole truth requires a CIA account of its activities in connection with the refugees' invasion of Cuba. Perhaps the documentation of that situation will never be made available.

BY JOHN CREASEY A MATTER OF LIFE AND DEATH

CHAPTER 28

The ambulance men had gone, the police surgeon had gone with them, and none had voiced an opinion about Jolly's condition. That was as good as saying that he hadn't much chance. Rollison knew that he hadn't; so did Superintendent Grice of Scotland Yard, who was with him.

The other Yard men had finished searching for clues — finger prints, oddments, anything. They were out in the kitchen; the blood-stains on the floor had been photographed, and might offer the best scope for prints.

It was seven o'clock.

"Rolly," said Grice, quietly, "I think I know what's in your mind. If ever there was a job for you, this is it. I almost agree with you. But don't do anything you'd regret, don't keep anything back that might help us to get the brutes. You can't see this job straight."

Rollison tossed down a whisky and soda.

"No," he said, harshly. "You are quite right. Too many distractions." He felt a sudden easing of uncertainty, and knew exactly what to tell Grice. "I don't think this was Mahoney. I'll tell you more about Mahoney on the way to the East End. Mahoney was at Bill Ebbutt's—then on the run until after one o'clock, and this happened before lunch. But there were red oxide marks downstairs."

He explained exactly what he thought.

"And Agatha Bell was here," he said, flaily. "The answer is probably the simple one; she was taken away, because she might give a lead to her father. From what I've seen of this show, I wouldn't give much for her chances of being unhurt."

"Let's get going," Grice said.

"I'll alert the Thames-side Division, we can have the Silver Queen depot surrounded."

"That's right," said Rollison, and he sounded almost bitter. "That's why I argued with myself about telling you, why I nearly decided not to. Agatha knows these men now, doesn't she? If she's rescued, she can put them all inside, and have them hanged. They probably think that Jolly's dead, and that it's a hanging job. They'll let her be caught alive, won't they?"

"People don't kill cold-bloodedly like that. They—"

"They'll kill," said Rollison bleakly. "Ag's chance is slim enough as it is, she won't have one at all if you surround the depot and then raid it. But they'll expect me. That's probably another reason why they snatched her; she should lure me. Listen, Bill, I think you ought to put a cordon round the place, but stay a long way from the riverside depot. I think you ought to have river police patrols on the alert, ready to move in at the slightest sign of alarm—and I think you ought to let me go to the depot alone."

"There's a word," Grice said. "Suicide."

"There's another," said Rollison. "Murder. I tell you they won't dare let Agatha Bell escape alive. If she's not dead, they'll have to keep her away from the police."

"If they were caught re-handled—"

"They're bound to have a hide-out, bound to have a way of escape!" Rollison poured himself another drink and swung it round in his glass. "If you're nervous, let's use some of Ebbutt's men to be near the depot. I asked Ebbutt to come here—"

"He couldn't," Grice told him. "The local super hauled him in for questioning, he was picked up on his way to your place." So Ebbutt couldn't be blamed; one good thing. "The last I heard, he was about to be released; but he wouldn't have had time to get here."

They moved along in silence, the driver weaving through the traffic. Then, abruptly, Grice went on: "All right, we'll try it your way." He leaned over the back of the front seat for the radio-telephone, and the driver glanced at his hand, then away. He flicked it on, spoke to the Yard, and gave orders: Ebbutt was to be told to meet Rollison at his gymnasium.

Well, they were playing the hand as Rollison wanted.

At a quarter to eight, they reached the gymnasium. Ebbutt was waiting with half a dozen of his cronies.

Ebbutt said: "So you was right, Mr. Ar. Like I told you, it wasn't any use today, every ruddy fing's gone wrong. Even the rozzers had to pull me in, if they hadn't I might have been in time. And the cove I sent after 'Tim lorst 'im."

"You wouldn't have been in time, Bill, it happened hours ago," Rollison interrupted. "Let's cut the cackle—the police are playing it our way. I want some of you to get near the Silver Queen depot—do you know it?"

Ebbutt said: "Can't miss it, dahn at Wilson's Wharf, just near the Crow's Nest. Got quite a big place. What's the idea, Mr. Ar?"

"I'm going in," said Rollison. "I might be glad of a lot of help. No one inside will be surprised to see some of your chaps, who might be dockers—any ship working nearby?"

Ebbutt turned questioning eyes to one of the others.

"Silver Queen 3," one of them said, out of the side of his mouth. "Working on it myself this morning, I was, they've nearly finished loading. Ought to be off on the night tide."

Grice rapped: "What time's that?"

"Ar-past nine," the man said, and his tone implied that anyone who didn't know the times of the river tides was beneath a waterman's contempt.

"Perhaps they aren't on the depot," said Rollison, softly, "perhaps they're on board. Bill"—he was talking to Ebbutt—"find me a rig-out, will you, it's time we were on the move."

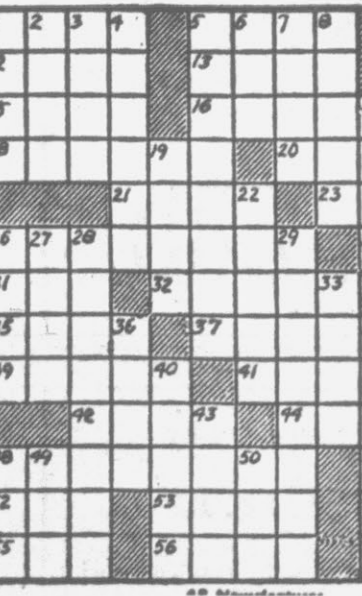

"Fix you up in a couple jiffs," Ebbutt promised, "just come into the office, Mr. Ar."

Good Business In Painting Snakes

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — Mrs. Irene Schatzer called the sheriff's office to report two snakes in her back yard.

The snakes themselves didn't bother her but their colors did. One was bright blue, the other tan.

Deputies found they had been covered with gaudy paint. The only clue was the work "Hale" inscribed on one paint job.

Deputies located 14-year-old Ronald Hale and found he had a booming business going. He was painting snakes and selling them to his friends.

Ronald now is out of the snake painting business.

Crisis Over Berlin Sees No 'Rush'

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Both consumers and business are playing the Berlin crisis cool. The stock market, with its eyes traditionally focused six months ahead, has placed its bets on an expected big rise in business activity. Traders figure the buildup in U.S. defense spending caused by Soviet Premier Khrushchev's threats will give the economy an extra nudge along an uphill path it's already taking.

But businessmen themselves haven't rushed to place new orders. They are still playing it safe on inventories, although the cut-back in stocks which marked the recession has ended and been replaced by a very moderate upturn.

The possibility of price rises later from higher labor costs hasn't affected business ordering plans apparently.

Nor are consumers rushing to buy. Most are sophisticated enough to know that goods are plentiful and, what's more, that the capacity to make more goods is far from filled.

For many the Berlin crisis is just another in a seemingly endless string of crises that the Reds stir up. Much more close at hand is what the new military buildup here might do to plans of individuals and companies if reservists are called up and more youths drafted.

While businessmen are not rushing to place new orders, they are keeping an eye on several developing domestic conditions.

One is the outcome of the wage negotiations in the auto industry. This will affect not only that major industry, but also to some extent the business of the many industries that supply it—and also the individuals and firms that buy autos and trucks.

Another is the current uncertainty in the steel industry. Output is lagging, as it usually does at this time of year because of summer vacations and the change-over hull in the auto industry.

Most observers hold, however, that the present disinclination of consumer and businessman to be swayed by the Berlin crisis or by threats of price and wage increases here doesn't dim the prospects for a general, if orderly, rise in the economy the rest of the year.

The arms buildup with its attendant Treasury deficit will be pouring several more billion dollars into the economic stream. This promises more orders for many industries, both those in defense work and those who furnish the needed materials, as the stock market already has noted. It also means more dollars in circulation as payrolls rise.

Some fear all of this will mean another surge of inflation. But the calmer view is that inflation won't amount to much until present excess capacity for production is absorbed.

N.C. Civitans To Meet On Coast

Approximately 500 Civitans will journey to the coast for the weekend of August 19. The first Council Meeting of the current Civitan year for the North Carolina District of Civitan International is to be held at the Morehead Biltmore Motor Hotel in Morehead City on that Saturday.

The District Governor, Joe H. Leonard of Lexington, will be presiding at the first general meeting of representatives of all the North Carolina Civitan Clubs since he stepped up to the top District office on July 1. Warren Beck, the Immediate Past President of the Morehead City Civitan Club, is to be the general meeting Chairman.

The wives and children of the Civitans will find a full program for their entertainment during the business sessions of the morning and afternoon. A luncheon meeting and a patio buffet in the evening will be enjoyed by all.

Those traveling from the western part of the State and the District Officers will arrive on Friday. The Governor has called a meeting of his Cabinet for Friday evening, preceding the general meeting on Saturday.

CHURCH HEAD—Rev. Dr. Ben Harbater of Norwood, Ohio, was elected president of the newly formed United Church of Christ, a merger of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and Congregational Christian Churches.

Lines Checked By Ayden Crews

AYDEN — Preventive maintenance on electrical outlets, checks of water meters and attention to traffic signs head the list of projects being conducted by town workmen in Ayden this week. Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said yesterday.

He noted that the Utilities Department, with D. C. Moore, superintendent of construction in charge, is checking to prevent outages from occurring in a program that has been going on since the first of the year.

Workmen are also now in the process of checking out all water meters to be sure that they are in proper working order and that every residence in the town of Ayden is properly metered.

Short yellow lines, about 12 inches in length, are being marked on the streets parallel to "yield-the-right-of-way" signs, to call further attention to the signs in all residential sections of town. This is being done as an extra safety precaution, Paylor said.

Tentative Plans For Base On Moon Disclosed By Special Study Group

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Tentative operational plans for stationing men on the moon were disclosed today.

The government-backed study mapped some strange methods for sustaining life in a still stranger environment.

"It's going to be a barren, monotonous place," said John De Nike, program manager for the lunar transport study.

The planning project is being carried out by the Martin Co. under contract with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

A preliminary report said a decade or more may be needed to establish permanent bases on the moon. It outlined some of the techniques and conditions in prospect for the expedition.

Insulated balloons and caves or tunnels are foreseen as moon shelters, protecting against solar radiation and the extreme temperatures ranging from 250 degrees in daylight to 230 below zero in darkness.

Boring machinery for digging tunnels and other equipment for building bases is expected to be operated by remote control by a crew still within the space ship.

Man himself presumably won't be able to do heavy construction work, since a chance break in his space suit could be fatal. It'll be a pushbutton construction job.

Vehicles for traveling about the moon's surface will have to be of special design, perhaps with wire-brush or rolling-sphere wheels, since rubber tires would deteriorate rapidly.

To make the space ship itself maneuverable, so it can be moved about or its position changed, it will probably be supported on stilts that operate mechanically like walking legs.

Likely landing site is on the relatively flat areas within one of the large moon craters. Provisions must be made, however, for possible scattered boulders, jagged rocks or crevices.

Man will find his apparent strength and stride magnified six times, since gravitation on the moon is only a sixth that of earth. A three-foot earthbound step will carry him 18 feet.

The moon-expedition studies are making plans for three basic missions in this sequence: A lunar landing and immediate return for three men, a 30-day stay on the moon for three men and a permanent moon base which would accommodate 10 to 12 men.

For a brief stay, the space ship itself is likely to be the shelter. Roomier, more permanent quarters may be in huge pliable, inflatable balloons set up in clusters with space between walls for insulation, to ward off solar flare tures.

The long, burning moon days and frigid moon nights each equal 14 earth days.

"I WAS LOSING HAIR!" This Amazing Discovery Helped Me, Says Mr. Frank Richards and Mrs. F. J. Harrell, below

For the first time science has found a new miracle substance with an astonishing ability to actually grow more hair, remove dandruff, and promote healthier, better looking hair. You can apply it in the convenience of your own home without expensive office calls. This discovery is available at a fraction of the cost of other known treatments of any value.

In one hair loss case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Falling hair was relieved promptly and, while generally re-growing more hair caused the disappearance of dandruff and malfunctions of the scalp.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in case after case where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers of hair loss, dandruff, and damaged hair were able to make such astonishing statements as "hair growth has increased 100%!" or "dandruff (seborrhea) and damaged hair is completely relieved!" And among these sufferers were a wide variety of hair and scalp conditions, some of 10 to 20 years standing.

All this, without the use of time consuming, embarrassing or expensive treatments. The secret of these new hair and scalp formulas is the discovery of many years of research by a famous institution, and has been widely used by thousands for preventing baldness and achieving beautiful, healthy hair.

These preparations are not sold at drug counters; they can only be obtained through a Consulting Laboratory.

Results are so amazing that you are given a written guarantee that you must achieve 100% noticeable improvement or your money will be refunded.

Tomorrow Is Your Opportunity To Take Care Of Your Hair Problems!

Mr. Thomas, noted hair and scalp authority and consultant, will conduct free of charge and without obligation, private consultations to all hair-worried men and women. He will then determine if your particular hair problems can be helped, and will then suggest to you the correct procedure that should be taken.

These Consultations Will Be Given Free Tomorrow Only between 1:00 and 8:00 p.m. For your free consultation go to the Proctor Hotel and ask for Mr. Thomas' room number, tomorrow, or make special appointment by calling the Proctor Hotel and ask to speak to Mr. Thomas.

Fulbright Suggestion Stirs Storm Over Berlin Travel

BERLIN (AP)—A storm raged in West Berlin today over Sen. J.W. Fulbright's suggestion that the city's role as an escape hatch from East Germany is a point that can be negotiated with the Communists.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, made the suggestion Sunday in a television interview. He was bitterly criticized in West Berlin and praised for his "realistic understanding" by the official Communist daily Neues Deutschland.

Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin said he could not imagine the senator had been quoted correctly.

"We are still of the opinion," Brandt said, "that freedom must include freedom of movement for Germans from one part of the country to the other. We cannot make ourselves accomplices of the inhuman and arbitrary measures of the Communists."

A West German Cabinet minister, Ernest Lemmer, said that he could not agree that any such measure would reduce tension between East and West.

The newspaper Der Kurier accused Fulbright of disavowing the United Nations Declaration on Human Rights.

The refugees still are arriving at the rate of 1,500 a day and the Communists are doing what they can to stop them without actually closing the border between East and West Berlin.

Committees to halt the refugees are being formed in factories and other enterprises in the Communist zone.

Communist newspapers and radios devoted much attention to complaints against people who live under Red rule but hold jobs in West Berlin. There were suggestions that they be made to settle their bills for rent and public utilities in Western currency, which is worth nearly five times as much as Communist money.

Schedule Start On Water Main

AYDEN — Contractors were scheduled to begin work on laying the water main and a sewer line on College Street extension into the new Sunrise Park subdivision today.

Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said the contractors probably would begin Wednesday. The subdivision was recently taken into the city limits of Ayden.

He noted that the town is in the process of extending the power lines to the subdivision itself.

TRADE AGREEMENT

MOSCOW (AP) — Hungary and the Soviet Union signed a four-year trade agreement Tuesday providing for Soviet delivery of machinery, iron ore, petroleum products and other items, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported. Hungary will trade buses, clothing, machinery and canned fruits and vegetables.

Orioles And Giants Make Battles In League Races

Ford Seeks 14th Win In Row Today

Birds In Third And Giants Are Second

NEW YORK (AP) — Whitey Ford, the Yankees' superb left-hander, guns for his 14th straight victory today and admittance to major league baseball's 20-game winning set. An outstanding hurler since he came up to the Yanks in 1950, Whitey never has hit the 20-win marker although he has led the American League in won-lost percentage. His high mark was the 1956 record in the 1956 season. This time he figures to make it easily. He could go as high as 30 if he continues to get the breaks and Luis Arroyo remains fit. The senior will be ready in the bullpen to take over in case Whitey tires around the seventh inning. Manager Ralph Houk, suspended for five days and fined $250 for bumping umpire Ed Hurley last Sunday, won't be around to see Ford pitch one of the two games against the Kansas City Athletics today. Ford's record is 19-2. He has started 25 games and finished nine. He tops the league in strikeouts with 148 and has a 3.17 earned run average. Arroyo, 34, a right-hander whose screwball breaks away from a right-handed batter, has a 7-3 record, an ERA of 1.75, and has saved 21 games. As the Ford specialist he has gone to Whitey's rescue 14 times. He has saved 11 for Ford, got two wins himself and lost one. One reason why Ford never won 20 for the Yanks under Casey Stengel was the way the manager spotted his ace for the top teams. Houk decided to put Ford on a four-day rotation. Houk got the bad news from Joe Cronin, the American League president. "I think it's a very tough penalty for what I did," said Houk. Houk, fuming over a called third strike against Clete Boyer in the ninth inning of the second game of Sunday's doubleheader with Baltimore (the Yanks lost 4-0, 2-1), charged after plate umpire Ed Hurley when the game was over. He bumped Hurley and had to be restrained by some of his players and the other umpires.

By MURRAY ROSE Associated Press Sports Writer With the two-day All-Star game break out of the way, the surging Baltimore Orioles and San Francisco Giants reopen their bids today to make three-way battles of the major league races. The Giants, third in the National League and eight games back of the leading Dodgers, take the direct and more dangerous route. They face the Dodgers—the hottest club in the majors with eight straight victories—tonight at Los Angeles in the first game of a two-day series. The Giants have won five of their last seven. To make it even tougher for the Giants they run into Johnny Podres (13-2) in the opener. The stocky southpaw has won five straight. He will be opposed by right-hander Juan Marichol (7-7). While the coast clubs are battling away, the Cincinnati Reds entertain their favorite pigeons. They meet the Philadelphia Phillies in a three-game set, starting with a doubleheader tonight. The Reds are 12-0 over the Phillies and thanks to the forlorn cellar-dwellers are only a half game back of the Dodgers. The Reds will send Jim O'Toole (10-8) and Joey Jay (14-6) against Philadelphia's Don Ferrareso (2-7) and Johnny Buzhardt (3-10). In the other National League games Milwaukee pits Bob Buhl (8-8) and Bobby Hendley (3-3) against the Cubs' Glen Hobbie (7-11) and Jack Curtis (7-15) in a day doubleheader at Chicago and Pittsburgh matches Bob Friend (10-13) against the Cards' Larry Jackson (6-8) in a nighter at St. Louis. The Orioles, who swept three out of four from the Yanks before the All-Star halt and seven of their last eight, are 8½ games back of the American league-leading New Yorkers and seven behind the second-place Detroit Tigers. With the doubleheaders coming up, the Orioles have a solid chance to gain ground with their solid, improving young pitching staff. The Orioles will call on Chuck Estrada (6-5) and Dick Hall (5-4) to oppose Minnesota's Pedro Ramos (8-11) and Don Lee (3-2) at Baltimore tonight. The Yanks, minus their suspended manager Ralph Houk, sends Whitey Ford (19-2) and Ralph Terry (6-1) against Kansas City's Jim Archer (7-5) and Bob Shaw (6-9) at the Yankee Stadium. Ford guns for his 14th straight victory and his first 20-win season. His high mark was 19-6 in 1956. Detroit is at home against Washington, Don Mossi (10-2) and Phil Regan (9-6) oppose the Senators' Joe McClain (7-11) and Marty Kutyna (6-2). Cleveland's fourth-place Indians, now 1½ games back of first, pit Jim Perry (8-8) and Jim Grant (9-5) against Ray Herbert (7-9) and Cal McLish (6-10) of Chicago's fifth-place White Sox at Cleveland. Los Angeles and the Red Sox clash in two at Boston with the Angels' Jim Donohue (4-4) and Norm Moeller (4-6) opposing Ike Delock (5-6) and Tracy Stallard (0-0).

East Cagers Win Over West 79-63

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Tommy Mattocks of Kingston came off the bench in the first quarter and sparked the East to a surprising 79-63 win over the West in the 13th renewal of the North Carolina all-star high school basketball clinic here Tuesday night. Ray Repass of Pantego, Pud Hassell of Beaufort and Larry Worsley of Oak City, all over 6-foot-3, helped the East dominate the backboards. Repass scored 10 points while Wilmington's Bill Brogden added 17 for the East. The Westerners, who were after their fourth straight victory in the classic, fell behind 14-9 after the first quarter and never caught up. The East was in command 60-34 moving into the final period. Jim Sessoms of Mount Airy and Bill Smith of Valdese led the West with 12 points each. Paul Briggs of Reidsville added 11 points for the West. The East hit 29 of 68 tries from the floor for a 42.3 shooting percentage while the West made only 16 field goals and hit from the floor on only 24.2 per cent of its tries. A turnout of 3,561 fans—the largest yet for an all-state basketball game—witnessed the contest at Greensboro Coliseum. The state's East and West all-star football teams meet here Friday night to wind up the weeklong festivities. A coaching clinic also is held in conjunction with the games.

When Greensboro beat Burlington, 1-0 in a 1949 Carolina League game, Luis Arroyo turned in a no-hit performance. Arroyo is a Yankee relief pitcher.

Fate Of All-Stars Schedule Looms

BOSTON (AP) — The fate of two All-Star baseball games per season is in the laps of the owners. The players have come out solidly for continuation. The major league player representatives Tuesday agreed to ask Commissioner Ford Frick to appoint a player-owner committee to explore the pros and cons of continuing the two-game system inaugurated in 1959. Pitcher Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates, National League player representative, said the players want two games. He said he hoped that within two weeks a committee meeting with the owners can be arranged though a final decision is not expected prior to the December major league meetings at Miami Beach. "We don't have the owners' approval yet, principally, I think, because of the schedule," Friend said.

Putting Tourney Held Tuesday

In Tuesday night's local 54-hole amateur tournament sponsored by the Greenville Putt-Putt Golf Club, Ben Harrison won the junior division with a 104 and Bill Wiley won the senior division with a 103. The junior division consists of participants 15-years-old and under while the senior division is made up of those 16 and over. In the Junior contest John Horne was second with 110, Bunney Warren was third with 111 and fourth place winner was Jimmie Hale with 112. Par for the 54 holes was 108. In the senior contest, also with a par 108, Bill Greene was second with 105, Marvin Wells came in third with 106 and G. E. Hales finished fourth with 108. First and second prizes in both divisions were putters while third and fourth place winners received free passes to the course. Tuesday night's tourney was the first one in Greenville this season. Another one is planned for later this month.

Game Broadcast

Greenville radio station WGTC will broadcast a play-by-play report of the North State Little League All-Star game which will be played in Charlotte Thursday, Aug. 3.

The direct from Charlotte broadcast will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday and again at the same time Friday if the Greenville team is still in the tournament. Jim Turner will be the announcer for the event.

Raleigh Extends Winning Streak To Six Games

Raleigh extended its winning streak to six straight games Tuesday night and maintained its one-game hold on first place in the Carolina League. Wilson's 4-2 victory over Greensboro, coupled with Burlington's 10-1 triumph over Winston-Salem, gave Wilson undisputed possession of second place, one game behind Raleigh. The Caps topped Durham 7-6. Raleigh gained its victory after choking off a Durham rally in the eighth inning. The Bulls scored four times but fell one run shy of tying the score. Raleigh led 7-2 going into the eighth. Burlington buried Winston-Salem under an 11-hit barrage. It was Winston's sixth straight defeat and came in spite of an 11-hit attack fashioned by the losers. Darwin Snyder's slugging powered Wilson to its triumph. He banged a two-run homer in the fourth and then tripled in the eighth to drive in what proved to be the winning run. Tonight Greensboro is at Durham, Raleigh at Burlington and Wilson at Winston-Salem.

Winner To Play Gastonia Tonight

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—Greenville, Tenn., and Calhoun, Ga., played here today, with the winner moving into the Region 4 Teen-er baseball playoff finals tonight against unbeaten Gastonia. Gastonia won twice Tuesday as the three-state finals opened at Simms Legion Park here. The hometown team, which won the national title last year, trounced Calhoun 14-0 and Greenville 8-2 in the first round. Pete Gregg hurled a no-hitter for Gastonia over Calhoun. The game, however, was shortened to five innings because of the one-sided score. Gastonia must lose twice in the double-elimination tournament to be denied another trip to the Teen-er national finals later this month at Hershey, Pa. Should Gastonia lose tonight, a fifth and final game will be played Thursday.

Babe Ruth League

CHERRY POINT, N.C. (AP)—Asheville meets Statesville and Charlotte plays Havelock-Cherry Point today in the first round of the Babe Ruth League state tournament here. Fort Bragg and Hickory drew byes and will meet Thursday afternoon in second round play. The tourney will end Friday afternoon. The six teams were victorious in district play in the league made up of boys in the 13-15 age bracket. The winner will represent North Carolina in the Southeastern tourney at Atlanta, Aug. 7-11.

College All-Stars Have Good Chance

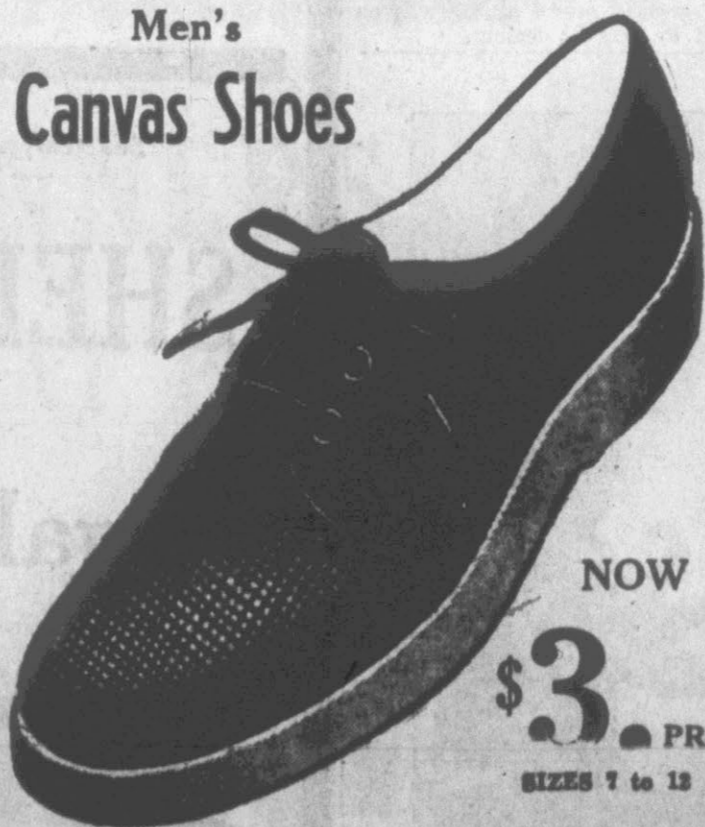

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars, praised as the finest group assembled in at least 11 years, may have an exceedingly good chance to knock off the Philadelphia Eagles Friday night in Soldier Field. The oddsmakers, however, have rated the National Football League champions two-touchdown favorites. It's hard to go against the pros, who have won 17 of the 27 games played in the series. There have been two ties. But it's no secret the Eagles have a quarterback problem without Norm Van Brocklin, who led them to the NFL crown. This, parlayed with what appears to be an exceptional college squad, heightens the chances of head coach Chig Graham's collection of graduated campus heroes. Graham has going for him a game-breaking combination similar to the one he used in beating the Detroit Lions 35-19 in 1958. Then, flat passes by Jim Ninowick to mercurial Bobby Mitchell paid off on touchdown sprints of 84 and 18 yards. Against the Eagles he can alternate three outstanding quarterbacks out of the T and spread formations—Norm Snead of Wake Forest, Bill Kilmer of UCLA and Tom Matie of Ohio State. Among a brigade of receivers is Navy's All-America, Joe Bellino. He is Mitchell-like with flat passes. Other receivers who have brightened the hopes of Graham and his staff are George Fleming of Washington, also a field goal and extra-point expert; Aaron Thomas, Oregon State; Pervis Atkins, New Mexico State; Glynn Gregory, Southern Methodist; Bernie Casey, Bowling Green, and Bob Crespino, Mississippi.

If this isn't enough, toss in such rugged individuals as Mike Ditka of Pittsburgh, Earl Falson of Indiana and Marlin McKeever of Southern California. Although the All-Stars are heading for the air, it doesn't mean the Eagles are going to head for the hills. The pros have a secondary that is one of the best in the NFL—Tom Brookshier, Bob Freeman, Jimmy Carr and Don Burroughs. Devisively, the collegians look as if they have enough left to stop a stampede. They'll need it against such Eagle runners as Clarence Peaks, Ted Dean, Billy Barnes, Tim Brown and Heron Sapp. But the potential is there with Joe Rutgers of Illinois and Mike Zero of VPI, a pair of 250-pounders; 6-9 Ernie Ladd of Grambling (La.), 290 pounds; Ben Davidson, Washington, 265; Carlton Kamferer, University of the Pacific; Dan LaRose, Missouri, and that fearsome linebacker, Emil Holub, of Texas Tech.

Sanders Needs Few Fat Purses

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — A few fat victory purses is all Doug Sanders needs to challenge Arnold Palmer and Gary Player for professional golf's money crown. Player still leads the money winners with $53,694. Palmer is closing in with $52,793. But Sanders is chipping away at their lead and has piled up $40,826 so far this season for a strong third spot. According to figures released by the Professional Golfers Association, Player has 3 victories for 22 tournaments; Palmer five wins for 19 entered; and Sanders three wins for 26 events.

Ragged Line Marks Split Of Berlin Into Two Parts

EDITOR'S NOTE — A wandering line that even splits houses in two is the porous Iron Curtain that separates East from West in the crisis city of Berlin. In this second of a series of articles, AP correspondent Carl Hartman explains the geography of the situation and how it adds to the crisis.

By CARL HARTMAN
BERLIN (AP)—Try to imagine the city of Washington split in two, with the Capitol in Communist hands and the White House held by the West.

Recruiter Lists Many Enlistees

Staff Sgt. Jimmie Skipper, U.S. Air Force Recruiter for this area, announced today that the following young men from this area were enlisted in the U. S. Air Force during the months of June and July 1961, and are now taking their basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

Mississippi River also under a Communist satellite government, but with the West still free. Temporary national capital — Columbia, Mo.

If you can get a situation like that clearly in mind, you've come a long way toward understanding what the situation in Berlin looks like on the ground.

Greater Berlin is actually a good deal bigger than Washington—it includes about five times the area and population of the District of Columbia.

The city is split, not by anything so straight as Pennsylvania Avenue, but by a border that meanders some 25 miles through the middle of town, roughly from northwest to southwest. In some places it goes right down the center of once-busy streets. Elsewhere it leaves sidewalks on one side of the line and house doors on the other. There are a few places where it actually splits houses in half.

One of the oddest things about Berlin's little Iron Curtain is that it is so porous. Anyone can go back and forth by foot, car, subway or elevated train. Citizens of West Germany are supposed to get a special pass, but this is quickly given and Communist police rarely ask to see it.

It's a very different story if you try to leave Berlin and visit the surrounding German countryside. For this, special permission is required by the East German Communist authorities, and it is not so easy to get. That Iron Curtain is not so porous.

In a crisis, the Communists might seal off East Berlin from West Berlin, almost as effectively as they have sealed off Berlin from the rest of Germany. It is their legal right to stay in Berlin and have access to it that the Western powers have chosen to defend.

The main fact about the political situation of West Berlin is that it is plumped right down in the middle of Communist-ruled territory. If it were on the border between East and West Germany, the problem would be a lot simpler, but West Germany is 110 miles away. To get there from West Berlin you have to drive a car, take a train or ride a barge which the Communists could halt at any time. Or you have to fly.

In the 16 years since World War II the Communists have done nothing to halt air traffic. During the Berlin blockade of 1948-49 there were 11 months when supplies were airlifted into Berlin because the Communists had blocked all other ways to get in. In all this time the Soviets never withdrew their officers from the Berlin Air Safety Center. The possibility that the last Russians will walk out of this office in the old Allied Control Council building keeps Western statesmen awake nights.

"How did Berlin get into this odd fix?"

In 1944, when the allies of World War II were advancing toward Germany's borders, they got together in London and decided how they were going to rule the country when they reached it. They divided Germany into occupation zones.

Berlin was to be in the middle of the Soviet occupation zone. But since the allies were to rule the country jointly they devised a special set up for the capital. Each occupying power got an occupation sector within the city itself, but all were to work together. This scheme broke down in the conflicts among the allies after war ended.

West Germany — the British, French and American occupation zones—became the Federal Republic of Germany with its capital at Bonn, a little university town on the Rhine. Western troops stayed on as allies.

East Germany—the Soviet occupation zone—became the "German Democratic Republic," with its capital in East Berlin. The Soviets also continued to maintain their troops.

The Federal Republic and its allies refused to have anything to do with the Soviet satellite, officially. The rest of the world, except for the Communist bloc, followed suit. Nevertheless, East German Communist officials took over more and more authority. They came to control all land and water routes to West Berlin, so far as German traffic was concerned.

The air lanes were all that remained in allied hands. Only small amounts of Western road and rail traffic, most of its military, continued to be checked through to Berlin by the Russians. Even official American trains were drawn by East German locomotives.

But when an official U.S. car drew up to the Iron Curtain border station at Helmstedt, on the way to Berlin, there was still a Soviet soldier on hand — not an East German — to check its papers. That Soviet soldier symbolized Moscow's acceptance of Western rights in Berlin. When he waved the car on to the highway, he was saying in effect: "Go ahead — Moscow is standing by your right to go to Berlin."

The disappearance of this vestige of four-power rule is threatened by the Soviet promise to sign a peace treaty with its East German satellite before end of 1961. Such a treaty would withdraw the Soviet soldiers at Helmstedt and put an East German in their places, representing a government the United States doesn't recognize.

Would Washington let the driver of the official American car show his papers to the East German? Would the East German shoot if he didn't? Would the American shoot back?

Soviet officers might also be withdrawn from the Air Safety Center. The East Germans already have published a decree calling on all planes entering their territory to report to another center run by themselves. Would they fire on a Western plane if it refused?

Residents Upset By Removed Dam

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—An airliner with 95 passengers aboard slipped off a taxiway, and one wheel sagged deep into mud Tuesday night.

For an hour and 45 minutes, a big tractor-truck tugged at the Western Air Lines plane—to no avail.

A burst of horsepower finally freed the turbo-prop plane.

"Another six inches deep and the propellers would have stuck, too," said Capt. John Barchard.

The passengers stayed in the terminal building at Stapleton Airfield until the plane resumed Flight 475 from Minneapolis to Los Angeles.

than in the United States where, since cigarettes are cheaper, there may be less temptation to relight half-smoked "drips" or partially consumed cigarettes, they said.

Safe Sedatives
Barbiturates are estimated to account for 800 to 900 suicides a year.

But now researchers tell of two new sedatives which they claim induce sleep but are safe regardless of over-dosage. One is a synthetic developed in Germany, the other a barbiturate combined with a restorative which takes over if the person takes too many pills, says World Medical News.

Whiplash Injuries
Auto accidents frequently jerk a person's head backward and forward or from side to side, causing what is known as whiplash injury.

And these can produce brain disturbances and abnormalities very comparable to injuries sustained by direct blows on the head, two Minneapolis neurologists find. Both types of injury can produce headaches, nervousness, insomnia, difficulty in concentration, dizziness, and other effects.

Nerve Grafts
Nerve grafts largely averted paralysis of face muscles in 12 of 17 persons who had radical operations for mastoids or for removal of parotid glands, three Mayo Clinic physicians report.

The operations had to cut gaps in the facial nerves. At the time of surgery, small lengths of nerve were taken from the patient's neck and used to bridge the gap. Later, the facial nerve frequently regenerated to overcome or mask much of the paralysis, they said.

They checked on 700 patients in Manchester hospitals. Among persons smoking 10 to 19 cigarettes daily, there were twice as many cases of lung tumors among those who relit cigarettes. The same held true for persons smoking 20 to 29 cigarettes daily, but differences were less clear among those smoking 30 or more. Drs. John Dark, M. Pemberton and Marjorie Russell write in The Lancet.

Relighting is a factor in lung cancer, it might go part way to explain the much greater incidence of the disease in Britain do more.

"I'd like to make two pictures a year," she said. "I must have been so much of my life."

She poured tea and spoke of her long search for identity. Born in Tokyo of a distinguished English family, she was educated in the United States and at 18 was a famous Hollywood star.

"Overnight success can be a dangerous thing," she remarked. "I couldn't cope with the loss of privacy. It was too much for me."

She felt the need for roots, and thought she might find them in England. She said she was impressed by the stately houses where her ancestors lived.

"But the vision of the Sierra Nevadas kept returning to my mind," she said. "I realized if the impression was that strong, it must have meaning for me."

She came home and filed for American citizenship. But even the establishing of roots didn't bring her peace. She raveled under her Warner Brothers contract and sued to get out.

"I didn't really become adjusted to the life of a movie star until the period when I made 'Snake Pit' and 'The Heiress,'" she said.

"Then I started winning awards, and that was something else to cope with."

During this period she had a much-publicized feud with sister Joan Fontaine and an unhappy marriage to novelist Marcus Goodrich. Then came her wedding to Galante and adjustment problems with the French.

She has retained American citizenship for herself as well as son Benjie, 11, and daughter Gisele. Olivia explained: "In France there is a crisis every year. If there is a time when the children and I must leave France, American passports will make that much easier."

Photography Of Stamps Charged

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Secret Service agents, postal inspectors and local police raided a North Side home Monday night and arrested Robert J. Manning, 35. Bail of $10,000 was set for him Tuesday on a charge of making a negative of one-cent postage stamps.

Matthew M. Corry, a U.S. attorney, said Manning had been taking pictures of the stamps which commemorated the 1933 Chicago World's Fair. Manning denied he had intended to sell the negatives.

Serenity Abroad For Olivia DeHavilland

By BOB THOMAS

LONDON (AP)—Olivia DeHavilland's six years of living in France have produced a daughter and the first real serenity she has ever known.

The daughter is Gisele Galante, a 4-year-old charmer who speaks only French.

The book is aptly titled "My War With the French," describing her difficulties in adjusting to the Gallic way of life.

The serenity came from finding the sense of identity that had eluded her most of her life. She seems happy as the wife of Pierre Galante, an editor of Paris Match magazine. She said she has found a balance between her role as wife and mother and as a movie actress.

Olivia was in London to make "Light in the Piazza," her first film in two years. She intends to

Needs A Parking Place, Or Else

CHICAGO (AP)—Donald Bruns, a paraplegic Navy veteran who drives his car about 45 miles daily to the Loop to attend classes at a broadcasting school, may have to quit—unless he can find a place to park his car.

Bruns, who is learning to be a radio announcer, has to find a parking place in the block where the school is located. He can't go to school if he has to park across the street from the school, or one or two blocks away. He can't get over curbs in his wheel chair.

Bruns, who is 26, married and the father of a son and daughter, has been parking his car in a garage in the same block as the school for five weeks.

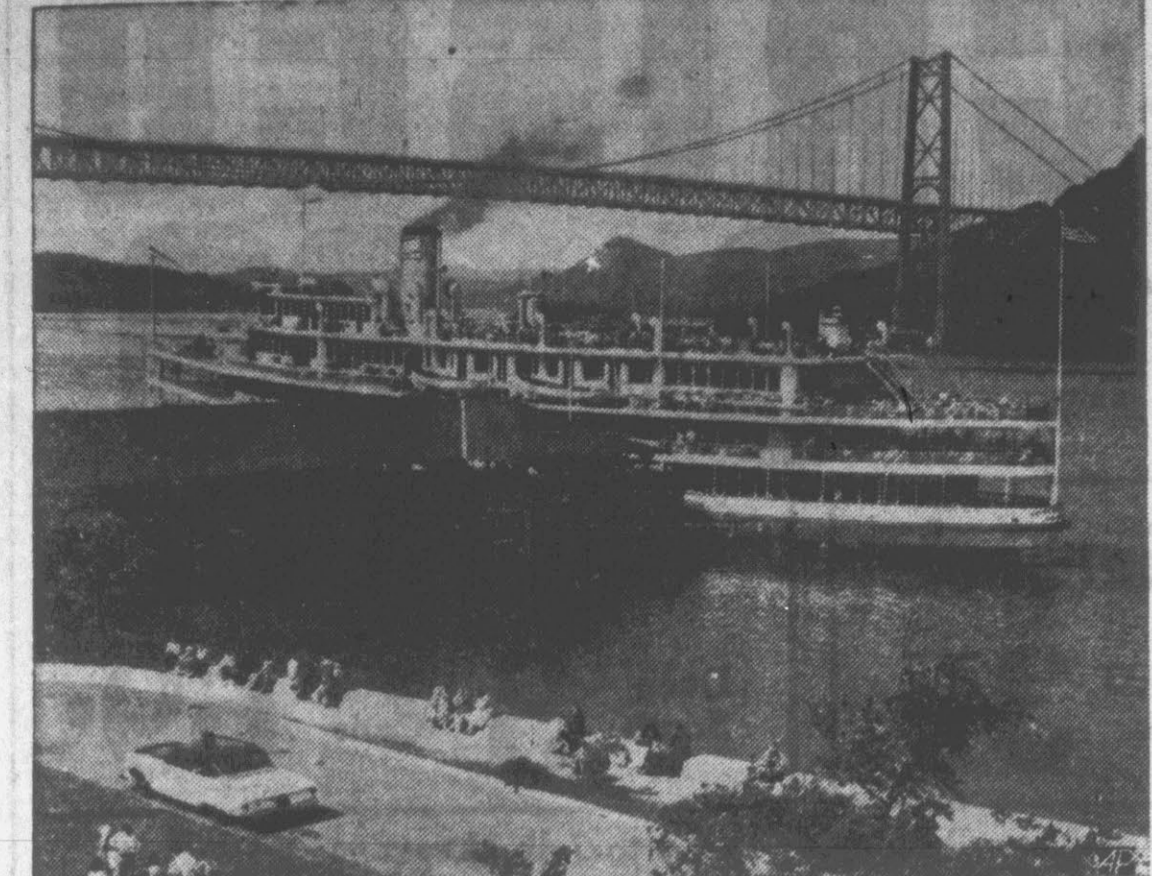

But, he said, the garage manager told him Tuesday he couldn't leave it there any more because the special hand controls for paraplegics constitute a special risk. He was told that a garage attendant might push the wrong knob and smash another car.

"It's not true that hand controls make a car dangerous," Bruns said. "My car operates like any other car, except that it has some extra equipment. My wife drives it all the time."

Bruns has been a paraplegic since 1955 when he was in a truck accident in the Navy. He lives in suburban Cary, where he is assistant director of civil defense and for the last two years was director of the community's Red Cross fund drive.

SPLASHED — Getting to wear the lifeguard's hat didn't distract one-year-old Richard Gordon from loud protest at being splashed with cold water at Boston beach.

EXPOSURE MAGIC, to fool an automatic camera, was necessary to shoot this camera cruise boat at Bear Mountain on the Hudson River. It was snapped by Barbara Desfor, 16, with an automatic Rollei-magic from the heavy shadow of a ramp after the camera's exposure meter said it couldn't be done.

Children Dying A Bit Each Day

HERMOSA, S. D. (AP)—Lyla and Cliff Jenney watch three of their five attractive children die a little each day but they can't believe it's so.

Tammy Kay, 3; Timothy Lee, 14 months, and Teddy James, 2 months, all have cystic fibrosis, one of the world's most relentless killers of children and a disease for which there is no known cure.

Mrs. Jenny, 24, confesses: "You just have to live with it. Your only hope is that they will find a cure."

Cystic fibrosis is a disease which leads to long months or years of disabling lung infection. It slowly suffocates a child in a sea of thickening lung secretions.

Twyla Rae, 4, and Terrence, 2, apparently have escaped the disease which was first detected in Tammy a year ago.

Cystic fibrosis can only be slowed, not stopped. There is only temporizing by employing nourishing, healing foods combined with medication and equipment in skilled, professional hands.

Doctors in Minneapolis told the couple there is no history of a person living past 25 with cystic fibrosis.

Their physician in Rapid City has predicted Tammy will be lucky to get through grade school and Timmy has a chance of making it through high school. More tests are needed to determine the severity in the baby.

Also termed fibrocystic disease of the pancreas or mucoviscidosis, cystic fibrosis is found once in every 600 to 1,000 births.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR

AP Newsfeatures
A battle of know-how vs. the automatic camera has been going on in my household lately. I'll settle for a verdict which maintains the know-how PLUS automatic camera makes the best combination for good pictures.

I was testing the Rollei-magic camera, the only automatic 2 1/4 x 2 1/4 twin-lens reflex. It measures the light in front of the camera and automatically selects the correct combination of shutter speed and lens opening as the release lever is pressed.

As with all automatic cameras, the film speed must be set. Beyond that, the photographer must attend to one other chore to make each snap a picture: he must focus.

I turned the camera over to my wife and 16-year-old daughter, Barbara, who are typical of so many people to whom the principles of correct exposure are a mystery. But they could fathom the idea of focusing and of observing a moving scene. When they saw it, it meant they had enough light to shoot by.

The testing ground was a camera cruise up the Hudson River on which we were accompanied by hundreds of other camera fans.

When black-and-white film was switched to Kodachrome, the film speed was changed and caused nary a moment's hesitation to my women. That saw that needle and clicked away.

Then, later, Barbara called for help. We had docked at Bear Mountain and were walking under a ramp when she stopped to shoot the boat in the river. Under the deep shadow of the ramp, however, the needle didn't show, couldn't she take a picture? she wanted to know.

The situation is one in which an automatic camera goes, its exposure meter tricked by the heavy shadow of the ramp or sometimes a doorway or tunnel. It would also be fooled if the lighting were reversed—that is, if the camera were in bright light and the subject in the shade.

This is where a little know-how came in handy. I moved Barbara down the ramp a bit to an open space. There the needle became visible. I told her to press her finger ever so lightly on the release lever, but not enough to snap a picture.

As she did so, the needle became rigid, locking the proper exposure combination for that light in place. Then she moved back to her pre-selected position, got ready, and pressed the lever all the way down. The picture was made with the proper exposure.

I never did finish teaching her that the camera can be switched off automatic operation for flash pictures or time exposures. We're still arguing over who gets credit for a nice boat picture—the old man with the know-how or the chick who clicked the button.

Satisfied With Dulles' Leaving

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said today the resignation of Allen W. Dulles as chief of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency was an admission of bankruptcy of America's positions of strength policy.

"Allen Dulles' stay in office during the first months of President Kennedy's administration discredited the United States in the eyes of the world," the Soviet radio said in a broadcast beamed to North America.

"Allen Dulles and the Central Intelligence Agency he headed have compromised themselves so much that it seems the White House has decided to get rid of such an odious personage."

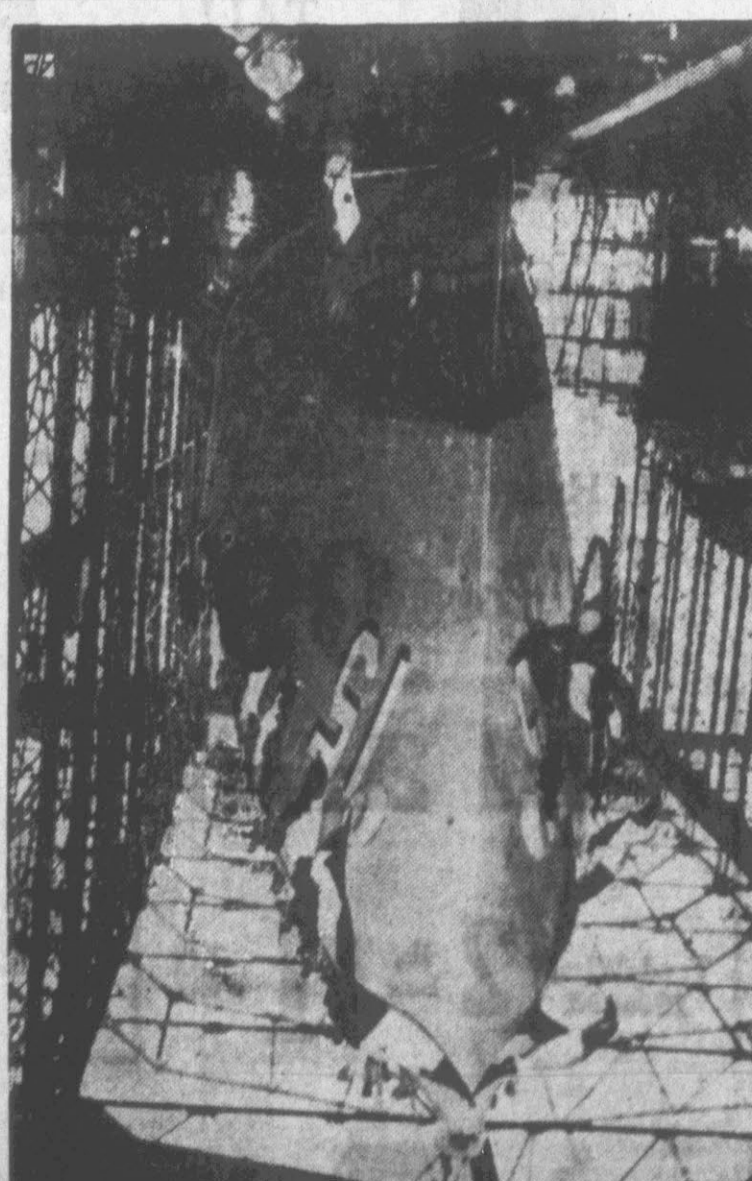

Barn, Tobacco Lost To Flames

A tobacco barn containing 700 sticks of tobacco was destroyed by fire Monday night.

Ed Hemingway, chief of the Station-House Fire Department, reported the barn was located on the Lonnie Stalon farm about two miles from the old Briley Road. Chief Hemingway said the barn used gas type burners. It had been killed out Sunday but was fired up again Monday morning when green stems were found.

Stalon told firemen he checked on the barn at 6 o'clock and found it all right. The fire was discovered around 7:30. Station-House firemen protected nearby barns.

Kennedy Staging One Of Biggest Drives Ever Seen For Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is turning over every political rock on Capitol Hill in the most intensive campaign a president ever put on for a foreign aid bill.

Members of the Senate and House accustomed to being lobbied for their support of legislation say they have never seen anything like the energy Kennedy is investing in his drive to get approval of a long-range development loan program.

In groups and singly the President has had meetings in to make his case in behalf of his $8.8-billion request for development lending over five years to struggling new nations. Of this, $7.3 billion would come in borrowing from the Treasury without year-to-year congressional approval. The rest would come from repayments of postwar loans.

This adds up to a heap of presidential authority to ask from Congress, always jealous of its control of the purse strings.

The Kennedy campaign has been mapped carefully and pursued vigorously. He got a Citizens Committee for International Development to work drumming up popular support. The AFL-CIO chipped in with a letter-writing campaign.

While Senate and House committees were in the process of considering the administration bill, the presidential charm was exercised on all of the members, Republicans as well as Democrats, in White House visits.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon were directed to write all of the senators and representatives urging support for the President's plan.

But from experience in both the House and Senate, Kennedy knows there is no lobbyist like the president himself. So key legislators still are trooping daily to the White House.

So far, Kennedy is described as having played his cards close to his shirtfront. He has offered no compromises while probing his visitors for suggestions on how the bill might be changed to attract more votes.

When he had Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., in for a visit earlier in the week, the President obviously was looking for some means to bring Republican liberals into his camp.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., a leader of this group, has said Kennedy had better come up with a compromise soon or he won't get his long-range program approved. Javits is reported to have told the President he believed 8 to 10

Republicans might vote for the five-year authority if the administration would accept a proposal by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois for supervision of the program by a legislative oversight committee.

But nobody knows how many senators would vote for the Dirksen proposal and then turn around and vote against the Treasury borrowing provision.

It's obvious that Kennedy hasn't won his fight yet. If he doesn't win in the end, however, it won't be because he hasn't given it the old college try.

Peiping Reveals Cholera Outbreak

HONG KONG (AP) — An outbreak of cholera in Toishan, Kwangtung province, hometown of many overseas Chinese in the United States and southeast Asia, was reported today by the newspaper Wah Kiu Man Po.

Quoting an arrival from Red China, the paper said the Communists have cordoned the area to prevent the epidemic spreading.

The report said that due to a shortage of medicines, "numerous persons" have died.

Rotarians Attend Family Cookout

AYDEN — Approximately 85 Rotarians and their wives attended the annual family cookout held Friday at Camp Contentment on the Contentnea Creek south of Ayden.

The cookout consisted of a period of fellowship and socializing, with no planned program. The menu included hamburgers, hot dogs with the trimmings and soft drinks.

Two visitors from the Kinston Rotary Club joined the membership for the outing.

For this Friday, Corey Stokes will be in charge of the program, which will feature a talk by former Ayden resident, Charles Thomas Jackson, now of Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia. He will discuss tobacco.

Gwynn Merritt is president of the club.

Soviet 20-Year Plan Believed By Authorities An Irritant To Peiping

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The proposed Soviet Communist party program just published in Moscow is seen by authorities here as a possible new source of irritation and dispute between the Soviet Union and Red China.

Authorities who have studied the voluminous document say that its emphasis on a need for avoiding war and for Premier Khrushchev's policy of "peaceful coexistence" is sharply at variance with the more aggressive policy of the Communist Chinese leaders.

Furthermore, in the view of Washington authorities, the program sets up 20-year goals for the Soviet Communist system which the Soviets may at least dream of achieving but the Chinese Reds with their more backward and underdeveloped country have no hope of realizing in such a relatively short period.

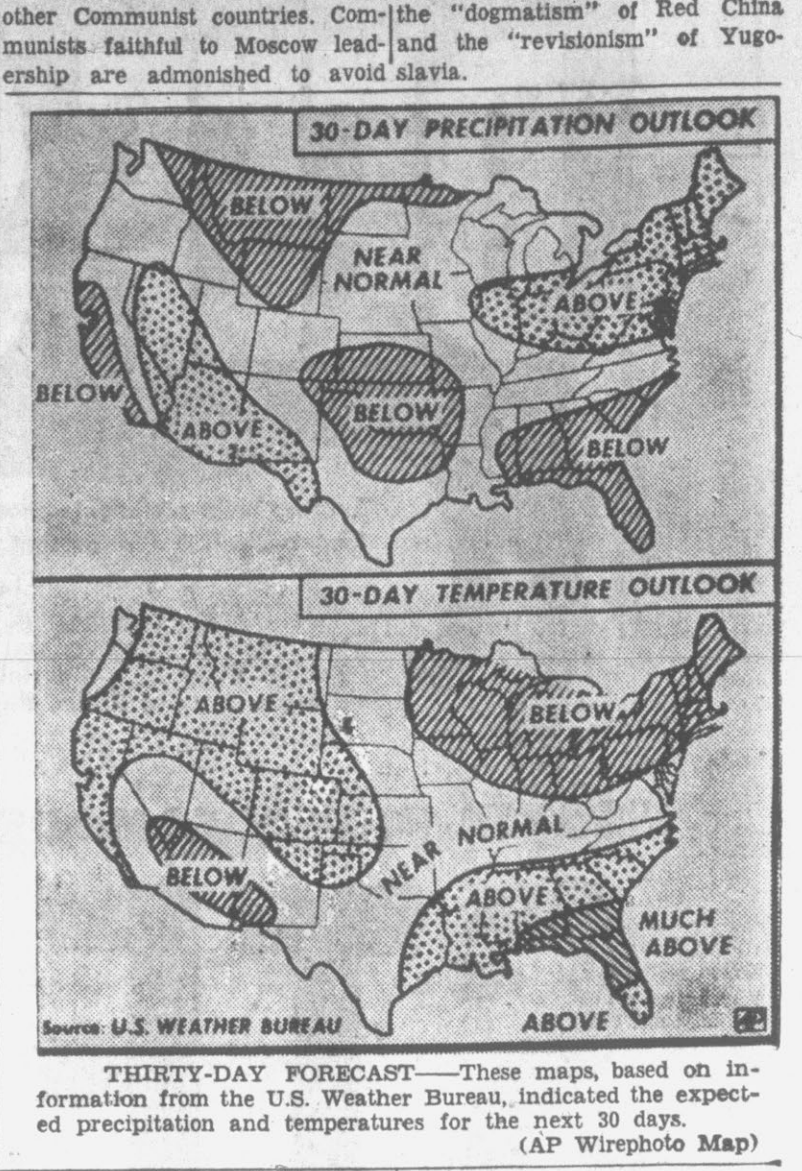

The statement of Soviet Communist aims and doctrine, the first such massive doctrinal work in more than 40 years, was published in Moscow Sunday.

Several conclusions have been reached by some of the best-informed experts:

1. There is nothing fundamentally new or startling in the composition which some experts are beginning to refer to as the "Khrushchev doctrine" and others as a "pie-in-the-sky" statement of future hopes.
2. The main thrust of action insofar as foreign affairs are concerned is toward the underdeveloped countries of the world. The program draft makes "fraternal association" with such nations a cornerstone of Soviet foreign policy.
3. The goals which are set up for Communist achievement 20 years from now—including such things as rent-free housing, free education and child care supplied by the state — can only be achieved if there is no great war which diverts the resources of the Soviet Union on a huge scale to military purposes.
4. The avoidance of a thermonuclear conflict is described in the document as the first necessity of foreign relations and the document seems to reflect some confidence that peace may in fact be preserved.
5. The central policy theme set forth is that of "peaceful coexistence" but this does not mean any lessening of the "ideological struggle." The Communists are instructed to push their cause in every country but by means short of major war.
6. The document appears to reflect confidence that the triumph of communism over the world is inevitable.

Throughout the program the Soviet Union is presented as the leader and ideal model for all

Planning Attend Tarboro Event

Final plans and assignment of speakers and department heads for three-day assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in Tarboro, August 11-13, were announced today by W. R. Nichols, overseer for the Greenville congregation, North Unit.

Nichols announced that Russell I. Weaver, circuit minister supervisor of 15 congregations in eastern Carolina and Phillip Searcy of Rocky Mount, convention manager, have named the following members to convention assignments:

Those named from Greenville include Willis Manning, C. E. Manning, Sr., Douglas Allen, Larry Mazingo, Robert Lawhead and C. E. Manning Jr.

Mr. Manning has been assigned a talk Friday evening on "Global Expansion of Jehovah's Witnesses." C. E. Manning Sr. will be in charge of the checkroom and Larry Mazingo will assist in the cafeteria dining hall that will be set up at the Armory.

Parking and Traffic will be under the direction of Mr. Lawhead and C. E. Manning Jr. will work in the literature department, furnishing literature to visiting delegates.

According to Nichols, other features of the conference will include a baptism ceremony Saturday afternoon for newly-dedicated ministers.

Police Guarding Lenin Portrait

TOKYO (AP)—A special police detail stood guard today to prevent ultrarightists from defacing a 55-foot-high portrait of Lenin at the Soviet Trade Fair opening Aug. 15.

The huge painting was raised Tuesday despite objections of Japanese authorities. A 35-man police squad was ordered to protect it.

British Vessel Sinks In Pacific

PANAMA (AP) — The British banana freighter Marosanna sank in the Pacific Ocean 240 miles southwest of Panama Tuesday night after two tuna boats abandoned attempts to salvage her.

An inch-thick cable snapped as the tuna boats Larry Roe and Mary Barbara tried to tow the 2,076-ton freighter into Panama.

The Marosanna sprang a leak Monday. Her 26-man crew was picked up by other vessels.

Indians are believed to have come to the Mesa Verde region in Colorado about a year after the birth of Christ.

Grand Jury Indicts Big Optical Firms

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A federal grand jury Tuesday filed charges of monopoly and price-fixing against the world's two largest optical equipment manufacturers who issued emphatic denials.

Indicted were American Optical Co. of Southbridge, Mass., and Bausch & Lomb, Inc., of Rochester, N.Y. Also indicted were an executive of each company.

The grand jury said that in 1959 the two firms had combined sales of $152 million, compared with $33 million for their next four competitors.

A spokesman for American Optical said in Southbridge that the charges "are not justified. The allegation of conspiracy between American Optical Co. and Bausch & Lomb are not true. The American Optical Co. vigorously denies that it or any of its officers in any way violated the antitrust laws. Its business has been conducted independently and without collusion with any competitor."

Aton K. Marsters, vice president of Bausch & Lomb, said, "we categorically deny having engaged in either such activity."

The true bill was returned in U.S. District Court for eastern Wisconsin by a grand jury which has been taking testimony since January.

Also named in the indictment was a subsidiary corporation wholly owned by American Optical and with the same name.

The parent voluntary organization is a non-profit unit organized under the laws of Massachusetts and governed by a board of trustees. The true bill said the corporation was set up to operate in states where legality of the parent voluntary organization might be in doubt.

Officials indicted were Marsters and Victor D. Kniss, executive vice president of the American Optical Manufacturing Corporation and a trustee of the parent association. Judge Robert E. Tehan set Sept. 11 for arraignment of the defendants.

Seasons are more extreme below the equator.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—A number of small losers turned up in lively stock market trading early this afternoon, taking some of the zing out of the market's latest upturn. Although popular averages were higher at noon, gains were under their best levels of the day and some evaporated completely.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 0.40 at 250.10 with industrials up 0.50, rails up 0.10 and utilities up 0.30.

Analysts said the market appeared to be pausing for breath after Tuesday's record closing high on the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials.

Aircraft-missile issues were mostly higher. Electronics, metals and utilities also worked their way ahead. Other groups showed a ragged pattern.

Martin managed a small advance on news of a $40 million contract for work on the Pershing missile.

Motors retreated, reflecting July auto production at the lowest level for the month since 1958.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up 1.85 at 715.79 at noon.

Chemicals remained one of the best acting groups as Eastman Kodak and Union Carbide held gains of around a point. Du Pont trimmed most of a previous 2-point decline.

Goodyear continued to respond to a good earnings report, rising a major fraction, and U.S. Rubber was up nearly a point.

Also moving higher were International Telephone, Westinghouse Electric and Merck. Lower were Texaco, Kennecott and Republic Steel.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange held to a slightly higher tendency.

Corporate bonds were mixed and U.S. government issues mostly unchanged.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices mostly 25 lower. Tops of 18.25-19.25 Nahutta. 17.75-19 Wilson; 18.25-18.75 Rocky Mount; 17.75-18.25 Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove; 17.75-18.25 Pembroke, Spring Hope; 17.25-18.25 Smithfield, Dunn; 18.50 Clinton, Fayetteville, Elizabethtown; 18.25 Bethel, Murfreesboro, Tarboro, Rich Square, Enfield, Scotland Neck, Goldsboro, Greensboro; 18 Alberson, Siler City, Castle Hayne; 17.75 Lillington.

Wilson ash cattle prices steady; steers and heifers, choice 21-23.50; good 20-22, standards 17-19; beef cows 14-16, heavy cutters 13-14; light bulls 13-15, heavy bulls 16-18.

The following bid and asked prices are obtained from the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc., and other sources but are unofficial. They do not represent actual transactions; they are intended as a guide to the approximate range within which these securities could have been sold (indicated by the "Bid") or bought (indicated by the "Ask") at the time of compilation.

ASCS Revises Election Of Committee Members

A manifest lack of voter interest has spurred authorities of the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service to revamp the system of election for county and community ASCS committees.

The changes, effective in the September 11 annual election have been affected as a move to stimulate a higher degree of individual interest by tying more importance to community committees.

Pitt County ASCS office manager Livingston Roberts has called a special meeting for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. to explain the changes to the county committee, the community committees and "any interested farmer in Pitt County." The meeting will be held at the Pitt ASCS office on Johnston Street in Greenville.

Roberts reviewed the changes that will affect the 1961 election of county and community ASCS officials.

This year each of Pitt's 22 community committees will serve as election boards to nominate candidates for the 1962 community committees. A year ago, the heads of Pitt agricultural agencies (ASCS, SCS, FHA and Extension Service) selected nominees for the local groups.

Under last year's system, individuals and groups could nominate additional candidates for a 10 day period after the county election board had listed its choices.

Under the new system, anyone will have the opportunity to nominate a candidate between August 11-21 by submitting a petition signed by at least 10 eligible voters.

Vote-counting, also, has been revised. In prior years, as soon as the polls were closed, poll holders counted the votes and reported the three top vote-getters to the county office.

This year, all ballot boxes, still sealed, will be carried to the county ASCS office where they will be counted at a joint meeting of the existing county committee and the 22 community committees.

As in the past, the top vote-getter in each community committee election will be named chairman of the community committee and will be the local group's representative to the county convention that elects the county-wide ASCS committee.

Only procedure has been changed in the county convention. Instead of the ASCS county office manager presiding at the convention, chairman of the existing county committee J. Lyman Edwards will conduct the convention.

Driver Charged In Car Accident

Sam Tyson of 1011 Colonial Ave., Greenville, was charged with hit and run driving and reckless driving by Highway Patrolmen yesterday following a collision about three miles south of Greenville on N.C. 11.

Patrolman H. R. Winslow reported that Tyson was charged in connection with a collision involving a second car, operated by Thomas B. Evans of 109 South Summit St. about 12:20 p.m.

Pt. Winslow explained that the Evans vehicle was traveling south on N.C. 11 and was forced to run off the road and into a ditch in an effort to avoid a head-on collision with the Tyson car which was going north. The officer added that the Tyson vehicle was in the process of passing a car at the time.

The Tyson vehicle struck the side of the Evans car, causing an estimated $100 damage to the Evans vehicle. Damage to the Tyson car was placed at $50.

The patrolman reported Tyson was taken into custody about 2:15 p.m. at his residence.

Bethel Fire Chief Is Re-Elected

BETHEL—George Aboynous was re-elected chief of the Bethel Fire Department, it was announced today by Mayor Joe Butterworth.

Aboynous was elected by ballot by members of the volunteer fire department. The Town Board officially opened and counted the votes last night at their regular monthly meeting. Aboynous has been fire chief in Bethel for about six years.

In other business, the board approved a request from two citizens that their water be put on a six-inch main. Butterworth said the reason for their request was pressure trouble. The work will be started "right away" Butterworth said.

Another request, made by A. M. McWhorter, to drain land adjacent to the town dump which is a part of the McWhorter estate, is being considered by the board.

Town bills also were paid at the meeting, which was attended by all the commissioners.

More Than 2,000 At CD Meeting

WACO, Tex. (AP)—When local civil defense leaders set a series of meetings here this month to educate the public on atomic warfare, they arranged to seat about 500 persons per meeting.

Increased world tension, they reasoned, would more than double last year's crowds of about 200.

Tuesday night, more than 2,000 persons showed up for 1961's first meeting and Ray Barnes, deputy director, said, "We're totally surprised."

Ayden Postmaster Marks 20th Anniversary On Job

AYDEN—A former mayor and theater operator in Ayden, Wilbur C. Ormond, yesterday marked his 20th anniversary as postmaster of the local post office.

When he first became associated with the post office on Aug. 1, 1941, he was postmaster of a third class office. Through the years he has remained in the head position as postmaster, but the office has advanced to second class rating and has expanded in personnel.

In the near future, it will expand even more, moving into a new office in a new location.

Ormond is a native of Greene County, the son of Herbert C. Ormond and Ada Hardee Ormond, both of Greene County. His father was town clerk of Ayden about the year 1907, and also was a member of the local school board.

Having lived in Ayden as a young boy, Ormond returned in 1932 to open a theater. He continued in the theater business until 1940.

His occupations have been varied, including teaching school in addition to the above. During his teaching career of eight to ten years, he was located in several North Carolina communities, including near Wheat Swamp and Hookerton, as well as Whitakers and in Wake County.

It was while he was teaching that he met and married the former Margaret Jones of Charlotte. They have three children, including one daughter and two sons. The family home is in Ayden.

He served as mayor of Ayden for two years from 1939 until 1941 and is presently a member of the Ayden Rotary Club, the Masonic Lodge and is chairman of the Zoning Board of Adjustment and chairman of the Library Commission. He is also member of the Pitt County Safety Council.

Ormond also has previously served on the Official Board of the Ayden Methodist Church and now teaches a Sunday school class. Having an interest in music, he plays the piano and accordion, having been a member of the Sudan Temple band for many years.

He graduated from Trinity College in Durham, now Duke University, with the A. B. degree and later did graduate work at the University of Chicago. He went on to complete his graduate requirements at North Carolina State College in Raleigh, where he received the Master of Science degree in education. He is a veteran of World War I.

Since joining the Ayden Post Office 20 years ago, Ormond has seen receipts jump from $7,300 for the entire year to $30,000 for last year. The Post Office became second class as of 1944, with city-wide delivery service into effect by 1948. At the time Ormond first became postmaster, there were two clerks and two letter carriers, with a special delivery boy. Now there are three clerks, two rural carriers, two city carriers and two substitutes for each one.

Proceeding Despite Opposition Of U. S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Despite U.S. opposition to General Assembly debate on the Tunisian crisis, Asian-African leaders expressed confidence today they could line up enough support to call an emergency session.

Tunisia's allies said they had 32 of the 50 signatures needed to request a session on the deadlocked French-Tunisian dispute over the Bizerte naval base. They were certain of support from Cuba and the nine-nation Soviet bloc which meant they were only eight votes short of their goal.

Chief U.S. delegate Adlai E. Stevenson, back from Paris where he discussed the crisis with President Charles de Gaulle, expressed belief the French-Tunisian differences would be settled by direct negotiation.

"No meeting of the General Assembly is necessary or desirable," Stevenson said.

Stevenson told reporters both governments should be able to agree on the pullback to their prebattle positions requested by the Security Council in its July 22 cease-fire resolution. Concerning French evacuation of the naval base, the U.S. envoy declared that the French "don't intend to stay in the base forever" but want to settle the matter "promptly and harmoniously."

Stevenson scheduled a conference with Tunisian Ambassador Mongi Slim today before going to Washington to report to President Kennedy on his talks with De Gaulle and other West European leaders.

Tunisian Defense Minister Bahi Ladgham arrived in Washington Tuesday night to confer with Kennedy.

President Habib Bourguiba, hitherto a staunch ally of the West, is bitter over U.S. failure to support his attempts to oust the French from Bizerte base. The United States, unwilling to offend France with the Berlin crisis brewing, favored neither side but called for negotiations.

Bourguiba dispatched emissaries to the Soviet Union, Latin America, Asia and Africa to seek support for his campaign against the French.

Red Police Put Tighter Control At Berlin Gates

BERLIN (AP)—Tightened Communist police controls at rail points entering Berlin were reported by West Berlin officials today amid new threats from Red East Germany.

"Some day we will lead all Germany, even if you do not understand that today," wrote Gerhard Eisler, top East German propagandist, in the Berliner Zeitung.

West Berlin officials said they had eyewitness reports of increased Communist police control over railways in areas of East Germany surrounding the city. Many commuters from East to West Berlin also were reported arrested in the campaign to force East Berliners who work in West Berlin to give up their jobs and work for the Communists.

About 800 East Berliners have yielded to such pressure and quit during the past month, Western officials reported. About 52,000 East Germans or East Berliners are registered as working in the city's Western sector, but the actual number is believed closer to 80,000.

A political storm was raging meanwhile over Sen. J. William Fulbright's suggestion that the city's role as an escape hatch from East Germany is a point that can be negotiated with the communists.

Rained Out

The start of the U.S. Golf Association Junior Championship tournament was rained out today and has been rescheduled to begin Thursday morning.

Local golfer, Bobby Thomas, will play Tom Elkins from Colorado in the opening round of the 14th annual tournament.

Thomas, in a telephone conversation with his father today, said he was "chipping and putting better than ever." In a practice round Tuesday Thomas was playing with George Pulver of Saratoga Spring, N. Y., who made a hole-in-one on the 12th hole of the Cornell University course at Ithaca, N. Y.

The tournament will consist of two rounds a day through Saturday with the finals being played on Sunday.

Hit-Run Charge Facing Youth

A 19-year-old Ayden youth was arrested on charges of hit and run driving yesterday. The charges stemmed from a Monday night collision at 552 Evans Street in Greenville.

Greenville police reported that Jessie Glenn McLawhorn of 204 Blount Street, Ayden, was charged with hit and run driving after admitting to Ayden Police that he struck a parked car here about 9:10 p.m. Monday.

Investigating officers said the McLawhorn vehicle struck a parked car owned by Haywood Earl Whitchard, 25, of Route 2, Greenville, and did an estimated $90 damage to the parked vehicle.

Damage to the McLawhorn car was placed at $200, police reported.

In addition to the arrest of the hit-and-run driver, Greenville Police reported that an 11-year-old boy was injured in a bicycle-car mishap Monday at the intersection of 14th and Charles Sts.

Investigators said that Marvin H. Turner of 1003 West Overlook Drive received a bruised leg when his bicycle and a car collided at the intersection about 12 noon.

Police said the child's father reported the accident after having the child checked by a local doctor.

No damage was listed, and officers said investigation is continuing.

'Space Platform' Launch Put Off

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The oft-postponed attempt to orbit a satellite "space platform" has encountered more trouble and probably will not be tried again for two weeks.

Scientists had hoped to launch the Atlas-Arena booster rocket today, the final day of an optimum eight-day period which was determined best for placing the payload, Ranger I, on the desired course.

The effort was called off Tuesday night because of technical problems. The next favorable period starts in about two weeks.

The experiment will attempt to place a satellite in orbit and from it launch the Ranger spacecraft deep into space to test techniques for sending future vehicles to the moon and beyond.

Tobacco Barn Lost To Fire

BETHEL—Fire near here last night destroyed a tobacco barn and 100 sticks of tobacco inside, it was reported today.

The barn was located on a farm located southwest of Bethel owned by Mrs. Mattie Mayo of Bethel. Nathan Keel is tenant on the farm.

The Bethel Volunteer Fire Department, answering the alarm, was able to save an adjoining shelter. The fire occurred about 11:30 last night.

More Than 2,000 At CD Meeting

WACO, Tex. (AP)—When local civil defense leaders set a series of meetings here this month to educate the public on atomic warfare, they arranged to seat about 500 persons per meeting.

Increased world tension, they reasoned, would more than double last year's crowds of about 200.

Tuesday night, more than 2,000 persons showed up for 1961's first meeting and Ray Barnes, deputy director, said, "We're totally surprised."
