Atlanta Tries Token Integration Of Schools; No First Day Trouble

ATLANTA (AP)—Nine Negro pupils strolled into classes in previously white Atlanta schools today, and watchful police nipped quickly any hint of trouble. Thus the traditional school segregation barriers—in force in Georgia and Atlanta for 100 years—tumbled, reluctantly perhaps, but quietly. Total public school segregation now remains in only three Deep South states—Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina.

peaceful transition, paved the way for the change. School integration was the signal for merchants to desegregate downtown lunch counters under an agreement reached months ago. The Atlanta school system has 69,000 white pupils and 48,000 Negroes. Segregation remained in effect at 13 white high schools, five Negro high schools, 73 white elementary schools and 41 Negro elementary schools. A man who identified himself as Bill Cody of Arlington, Va., was taken into custody at Grady High School 10 minutes after the Negro pupils entered the building. Cody told a police officer, "I want to picket, and I am going to picket."

Officers at Northside High stopped two men for loitering but they turned out to be FBI agents. Last-minute efforts of race extremists to stir up resistance to Georgia's first public school desegregation apparently had little effect and registration proceeded normally Tuesday, said deputy school supt. Paul W. Stephens. Police security measures at Brown, Murphy, Grady and Northside high schools were put into effect after pickets appeared briefly at Atlanta City Hall and one of the schools. An organization calling itself Youth for Educational Segregation joined the attempt to promote resistance, issuing handbills calling for a boycott of the desegregated schools, soliciting funds and urging formation of private schools. Police Chief Herbert Jenkins said a Ku Klux Klan splinter group distributed literature with the names, pictures and telephone numbers of the nine Negro transfer students. Originally 10 Negroes were approved for transfer to white schools, but Damaris Allen, 16, disclosed Monday she had accepted scholarship to Negro Spelman College in Atlanta.

City Schools Open With Great Influx Of New Pupils

BOYS WILL BE BOYS . . . and these were no exception as they "posed" for photographers after being "set free" from a morning of school. (Reflector Photos by Stuart Savage)

Greenville and Pitt County's school children flocked to the doors today for the first day of school, called a teacher-pupil orientation day by school officials. Approximately 300 more students were expected in the Greenville City Schools this year Superintendent J. H. Rose stated today. He said officials have registered more new students this year than ever before in the city's history. "We have the greatest influx of new pupils we have ever had," he said. Some students have moved out of town, as well, but accurate enrollment figures will not be available until after the first day of school for the city. Rose estimated about a 40 per cent increase in registration of new pupils for school, which is one strong indication of enrollment increase. He noted that the enrollment increases about 300 students per year. Superintendent of County Schools D. H. Conley expects no great increase in enrollment for the county's schools. Rather he expects the statistics of pupil enrollment to remain about the same as last year. As for the opening day, both superintendents reported that things were running smoothly. "Everything I see indicates that it is going to run very smooth. There are no trouble spots," Conley said. And there is room for everybody. However, Conley said that county school officials are working on "some extra room at the Pitt County Training School and Robinson Union" where space is a little tight. The extra room will be ready in about 30 to 60 days.

Brazil's Military Leaders Agree To Accept Goulart

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Brazil's three military ministers today agreed to accept Joao Goulart as a figurehead president with a prime minister to be appointed by Congress until 1963, a government source said. The decision by the three top military chiefs was reached here and a government source said it already has been transmitted to Brasilia, the inland capital. If acceptable to Congress and government political leaders in Brasilia, it might end the serious crisis, which has been rocking the country since Janio Quadros resigned as president last Friday. Previously the three military leaders had opposed having Goulart even as a figurehead president.

The formula proposed by the military chiefs considerably differed from the recommendations presented to the national Congress earlier today by a congressional committee. The important difference is that Congress rather than the president would choose the prime minister. The prime minister would have the power to run the country—the same powers previous Brazilian presidents have held. Goulart would hold little more than a decorative job. Under the formula proposed by the military chiefs—War Minister Marshal Odylio Denys, Navy Minister Adm. Silvio Heckel and Air Minister Brig. Grun Moss—Goulart and a prime minister would finish out Quadros' unexpired five-year term. Then in 1963, an election would be held on schedule. Goulart broke off a three-day wait in Paris earlier today and left by air for New York, apparently en route to Brazil. Acting President Raimir Mazilli issued a decree firing the army commander in southern Brazil who had pledged to support Goulart. The decree also sacked the commanders of an infantry division and a cavalry division. The congressional committee openly took issue with the service chiefs who fear that the assuming of the presidency by Goulart would threaten the security of the big subtropical country. War Minister Odylio Denys went into urgent talks with his top officers. Denys returned here from Brasilia Tuesday night following reports that one army commander had thrown his support behind Goulart. Labor party Deputy Doutele Andrade, one of Goulart's chief supporters in Congress, told the Chamber of Deputies of the army split in the south. He said an emissary from the commander, Gen. Jose Machado Lopes, told Denys that Machado Lopes would take orders "only from President Joao Goulart."

Grifton Board To Push Condemnation Action

GRIFTON—Condemnation proceedings will start as soon as possible on acquisition of property off McRae Street for the location of a town water well, members of the Town Board decided last night at a special meeting. Condemnation proceedings were brought on by a technical problem involved in acquiring the property. The owner was reported cooperative and willing to sell. A new water well is part of a water well and sewer bond issue approved by Grifton voters in the May 1 general election this year. One other important item was aired at the special meeting last night: a citizens' group report on progress in securing contributions for a fogging machine for the town of Grifton.

The report, given by Dennis C. Hookway and Daniel H. McLaughlin, stated that the group has so far raised $767.75. The fogging machine they hope to buy and then give to the town costs about $1,050. The group is still accepting donations for the project and another report will be made at the regular Town Board meeting to be held the second Tuesday in September. Need for such a machine to control insects was cited by an interested citizens group. The town budget was not set up to include this particular item for 1961-62. The movement to procure the fogging machine was spurred after approval of the budget was made.

War Minister Odylio Denys went into urgent talks with his top officers. Denys returned here from Brasilia Tuesday night following reports that one army commander had thrown his support behind Goulart. Labor party Deputy Doutele Andrade, one of Goulart's chief supporters in Congress, told the Chamber of Deputies of the army split in the south. He said an emissary from the commander, Gen. Jose Machado Lopes, told Denys that Machado Lopes would take orders "only from President Joao Goulart."

Dr. Connell Garrenton Honored As Leading Citizen Of Bethel

DR. GARRENTON . . . as he received "Outstanding Citizen" plaque from Everett last night.

BETHEL—Dr. Connell G. Garrenton was honored last night as Bethel's outstanding citizen by the Bethel Camp of Woodmen of the World, in a special presentation ceremony at the W.O.W. Camp. Clifton Everett, one of Pitt's representatives to the N. C. General Assembly presented the plaque to Dr. Garrenton on behalf of the W.O.W. Camp. Everett told the gathering . . . Bethel teachers and young baseball players who were being honored by a wiener roast . . . that the award was being made "in appreciation of commendable service to community, state, and nation" by the doctor. Everett cited that Dr. Garrenton after spending his childhood and attending school in Bethel, returned in 1936 to practice medicine. Dr. Garrenton was praised for the service he has given to the community, and the part he played in establishing the Bethel Clinic to provide better medical service for the community—in 1950. Everett told the gathering that a special committee was appointed by the W.O.W. Camp to make the selection, and said the selection was based on the individual's service to the community. Willie A. Dunning, District Manager of the Woodmen of the World indicated that the W.O.W. plan to make the outstanding citizen selection an annual affair.

School Aid Bill Braked By Coalition

WASHINGTON (AP)—A powerful coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats today tried to prevent House consideration of the administration's federal aid to education bill. The move, which came quickly after the House met at noon, apparently ended chances of getting through at this session the principle the administration badly wanted to establish—federal money for the construction of public school facilities. Two other parts of the package, aid to schools overcrowded by children of federal workers, and extension of a student loan program, are likely to be salvaged and passed later. Many members, both Republican and Democratic, favor these programs while bitterly opposing public school construction. The vote against consideration was 242-169. Voting against considering the bill were 82 Democrats and 160 Republicans. Voting to consider it were 163 Democrats and 6 Republicans. Today's defeat for the administration came swiftly after the House began business. The tip came when the coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats passed up a chance to delay the bill for another week. That indicated that they were sure of their strength and wanted to bury the bill. The measure defeated today was only a remnant of the one the Kennedy administration originally wanted. Under the little-used Calendar Wednesday procedure, the roll of House committees was called alphabetically shortly after the House met at noon. Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., chairman of the Education Committee, was allowed to call up the bill when his turn on the list came. The bill's opponents could have delayed things a week by having other bills called up by a Southern Democratic chairman who came before Powell on the list. They didn't.

Farmville Mart Nears $65 Day

FARMVILLE—Farmville's market yesterday shot its sales average to within three cents of $65 per hundredweight as an improvement in quality was noted and prices advanced again. Sales supervisor Louis Williams reported a practical top of $74 for company purchases as growers continued to be "more pleased than ever," according to the supervisor. Leaf grades of good quality, Williams reported, were dominant today's sale. More tips and other leaf and smoking leaf grades appeared today than on Tuesday, he said. A lower quantity of primings was on the floors today, Williams said, but he pointed out the quality of primings and some scattered lugs is still good. "I saw some mighty pretty primings today," he said. Williams predicted a heavier sale today and forecast a full here Thursday. Volume would probably drop slightly Friday he said, because of the upcoming Labor Day weekend. The market here sold a total of 545,422 pounds for a total of $354,348 and the $64.97 sales mark yesterday. Tuesday activity left the market with the following season figures: pounds—3,243,236; receipts—$2,055,005; sales average—$63.36.

Newspaper Says 'Stolen' Money Found In Bank

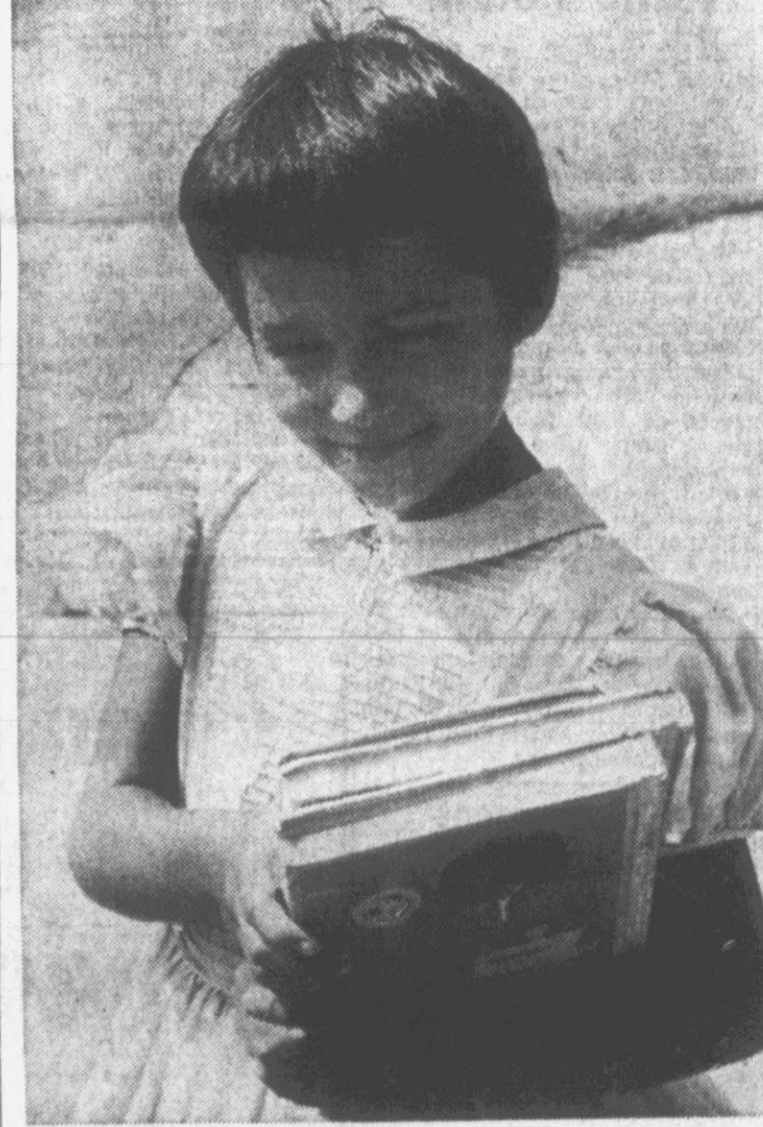

PAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The Fayetteville Observer said today it has learned that $5,000 unaccounted for from the $15,400 robbery of a branch bank at Gibson Aug. 1 has been found in the bank. The newspaper quoted what it called an unimpeachable source as saying the money was found behind a ledger in a corner. It said that Donald M. Roney, FBI special agent in Charlotte, asserted any statement would have to come from officials of the Gibson branch of the Bank of Laurinburg. The paper said J. R. Dairymple, a bank official, declined comment. Doris Faye Chandler, 23, of Rosnoke, Va., and James Everett Smith, 27, of Laurinburg were arrested shortly after the robbery. They were quoted as telling officers they had taken only $9,900. This would leave $500 still unaccounted for.

Draft Board Has Called Up Five

Five Pitt County men were ordered to report for induction into the armed services yesterday, Mrs. Selma Rogers, clerk of the local Selective Service board, said today. The men are Glasco Baker, Theodore R. Gay, Fred Taylor Jr., Irvin T. Little and Tuncil Robbins. Seven men were ordered to report for pre-induction yesterday. Mrs. Rogers reported that the board has a call for Sept. 5 for five for induction and 32 for pre-induction. She said that beginning about October, the local board anticipates an increase in physical examination calls for awhile. The board has been swamped with telephone calls and inquiries recently, Mrs. Rogers said, calling it a "tremendous increase" compared with calls prior to the current Berlin crisis and increase in inductees by the national government.

Gov't Delays Planned Auto Strike Six Days

DETROIT (AP)—United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther, who planned General Motors strike delayed at least six days at government request, returns today to the bargaining table of his No. 1 contract target among the Big Three automakers. Reuther says he expects "to stay with them as long as necessary." This could signal around-the-clock bargaining from which contracts usually emerge in a matter of hours after weeks of preliminary haggling. The negotiations opened in late June. Both the UAW and General Motors agreed Tuesday night to an extension from Thursday midnight until 10 a.m. next Wednesday of their expiring three-year contract. The extension was requested by William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, a few hours before the UAW's International Executive Board met to set GM as the target for a Thursday midnight walkout in support of the union's contract demands. Reuther and UAW aides have insisted that GM sets the price and wage policy of the automobile industry and that the other automakers merely tag along. In agreeing to delay strike action, Reuther said the union was "unwilling to extend the General Motors contract an hour" beyond the new deadline. The UAW chief said he was willing to extend Ford and Chrysler contracts, which also run out Thursday midnight, on a day-to-day basis pending settlement with GM. Both companies also agreed. As he prepared to go to GM for hammer-and-tongs bargaining, Reuther was armed with a new three-year agreement with American Motors Corp., including the auto industry's first profit-sharing plan.

Professionals 'Should' Run ABC Says Terry

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford declared today the State ABC Board should be a professional agency run by professionals—and not a political agency. Sanford said this at a swearing-in ceremony for Highway Patrol Lt. Victor Aldridge as chairman of the ABC board which regulates the beer, wine and liquor industries in the state. "I want a strict, fair enforcement of our ABC laws," Sanford said. "We won't let the regulated industry take over control of the ABC laws. I would like to see the ABC organization as a professional agency, not a political agency." "North Carolina is in the ABC business to control alcohol, not to promote the sale of alcohol," the governor continued. "I personally would like to see the sale of alcohol drop off each year as we teach our young people the evils of using alcohol. "I have talked all these things over with Mr. Aldridge. He has the fairness and the ability to do the job, and I am sure he will do the job well."

Greenville Mart Has $62.64 Day

Prices on the Greenville tobacco market—already riding at a record-high level—advanced again yesterday afternoon and remained at the higher level today, according to sales supervisor W. L. Whedbee today. Whedbee reported, "Row after row is selling for $70 and over. Farmer after farmer is averaging over $71 for their entire offerings." The supervisor added, "Prices are now stronger than they have been in the entire history of our market. More tobacco is being sold for $70 and over than has ever been sold at that price here before." He said growers in Greenville yesterday and this morning saw a practical top for company purchases of $74 per 100 pounds. "Farmers are delighted with the prices they are now receiving," he said. The 10-warehouse market yesterday sold a total of 1,164,510 pounds for a total of $79,467 to post a sales average of $62.64. Yesterday's activity left Greenville with the following season totals: pounds—8,338,686; receipts—$5,236,756; sales average—$62.80. Whedbee said sales today and yesterday consisted mainly of tips and other leaf grades with a scattering of lugs and primings on the floors. Few cutters were seen. The 17-market Eastern Belt yesterday recorded another high sales average—$64.55—according to the Federal-State Marketing News Service in Wilson. The service reported a total volume Tuesday of 11,160,562 pounds that brought Eastern Belt growers $7,204,060. Season figures for the belt through yesterday's activity stood at: pounds—66,896,132; receipts—$42,649,112; sales average—$63.75.

Action Taken To Organize Pitt Demo Women's Club

The skeletal structure of a new county organization — the Pitt County Woman's Democrat Club — was fitted together at an organizational meeting here Tuesday.

Mrs. J. Russell Kirby of Wilson, 10-county cog in a statewide organization machine, met with leading Pitt women Democrats to lay the groundwork for the Pitt organization.

The meeting named two preliminary committees and set Sept. 25 for the new organization's charter meeting. Miss Janice Hardison, Pitt organizer who hosted yesterday's meeting, said further plans for the charter meeting will be announced at a later date.

Appointed at yesterday's session were the Nominating Committee and the Constitution and By-Laws Committee.

The nominating group — composed of Mrs. J. B. Spillman and Mrs. Brooks Beddingfield, both of Greenville, and Mrs. Lela Bell Hoell of Grimesland — was delegated the duty of presenting to the Sept. 25 charter meeting a slate of recommended officers for the new club.

Named to the Constitution and By-Laws group were Mrs. Lala Steelman and Miss Hardison, both of Greenville, and Mrs. Pierce Summerell of Ayden. That committee has as its prime responsibility laying foundations, in coordination with State party policy, for a guide to govern the local organization.

Mrs. Kirby discussed the club's organization at yesterday's session and delivered to local women Democrats suggested procedures for initiating such an organization in Pitt County.

She is a leading North Carolina Democrat, having served as organizer of the Telephone-For-Kennedy campaign during last year's run for the presidency. Mrs. Kirby, recently appointed member of the East Carolina College Board of Trustees, was also active in Gov. Sanford's energetic campaign during 1960's rugged primaries and the November general election.

She said yesterday the move in Pitt County is one of many across the state as a part of a Democratic effort to generally add strength to the party.

In many species of fireflies, a male out for an evening of romance will flash to announce his presence.

AYDEN — New traffic signs warning "Drive slowly, children move fast" will soon be installed at appropriate locations throughout the residential areas of Ayden, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said yesterday.

A Sound Growth Into A Small City

A good many of Greenville's citizens have lived here all their lives and many others have spent a majority of their years in this same community. To these citizens—perhaps more so than to those who have become a part of the community in the past decade or so—the growth of the city is a little short of phenomenal.

It wasn't too many years ago that it seems no trouble to walk anywhere in town, from one end of town to the other, without covering a long distance. It wasn't too long ago either that a good many people felt that they knew almost all of their fellow citizens by their first names, where they worked, how many youngsters they had and so forth.

Having grown into a small city, this is not the case any more. The city limits stretch almost six miles north to south and slightly more than two miles east to west. Included in the area is considerable territory that a relatively few years ago was farm land. Today these areas are residential sections.

In the past 20 years the population of Greenville has almost doubled—from 12,000-plus in 1940 to more than 22,000 in 1960 according to the official census figures. In area, however, the size of Greenville probably has increased even more.

All this means, of course, that Greenville is no longer a little community that can drift along in a sleepy atmosphere. It is by no means a large city, compared with others in North Carolina, but neither can it be realistically considered a village. And when one considers the fact that in each succeeding census for the past four decades the city has shown a growth of approximately one-third in population each decade, there is every indication that Greenville's growth is not something which has come about all at once. It is sound growth that, on the basis of past experience, may be expected to continue at a steady pace in the future.

Such growth, of course, is important to a community which is seeking progress for itself and its people. It is also important that along with this growth that the city keep pace with itself in terms of municipal improvements, meeting the needs of its new citizens as well as those of its long-time residents. It is important that the city's organizations of all kinds adjust themselves to the new conditions they find in a community which has increased in population more than 35 per cent in the past decade, and almost doubled in size in the past two decades.

Above all, perhaps, it is important that the city and its people look to the future and adequately plan to cope with the new problems which inevitably will arise as the city continues to grow both in area and in population.

How well a community meets its changing conditions and copes with its new problems often determines whether it continues to progress and attract new people, or becomes a community that is less attractive to prospective citizens than others around it.

Fresh Reason For Car Safety Starts Today

The opening of schools in Greenville today means that for the next nine months several thousand local youngsters will be going back and forth from their homes to schools daily, creating new traffic hazards for motorists who travel in the vicinity of the city's schools.

Most of the youngsters, fortunately, have been cautioned by their parents to be careful crossing streets and playing in streets on their way to and from schools each day. It is to be expected, however, that occasionally some of the youngsters, in their hurry to get to school or get home, will forget the warnings they have been given and will dash into the street without first looking carefully.

It is the responsibility of the motorists of Greenville to exercise extreme caution when driving in the vicinity of the city's schools, to observe the speed laws and the caution signs which denote school zones. It must be expected also that automotive traffic around the schools when school has not been in session. This increased number of automobiles in the school areas, plus the higher concentration of young pedestrians, demands greater caution by local drivers if accidents are to be avoided.

Bomb Changed Soviet Technique

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Believe it or not the Soviets—while the hydrogen bomb hangs over American-Russian relations like an undertaker's sign—have been less reckless since they developed their bomb than they were before it.

It is one of the freaks of history that the Russians—when they had no atomic weapon at all and the United States had a monopoly on it—pushed their luck the hardest.

Stalin was either wilder than Premier Khrushchev or decided to grab what he could—ready to drop it if the adventure got too dangerous—in the belief the United States, for humanitarian reasons or fear of world opinion, wouldn't use the bomb.

Since both powers now have the hydrogen bomb, and so could eliminate each other if they began, it makes necessary sense for both to be a little more careful about beginning a caper that might begin war.

Even so Khrushchev is more subtle and imaginative than Stalin anyway.

But just because the hydrogen bomb is so broadly fatal it's a neat device for either side to try to build the other—blackmail is a better word—into making concessions through fear that not to do so might mean war.

This is what Khrushchev is being accused of now in sealing off East Berlin and his expressed determination to break the West's grip on West Berlin.

But the way he's trying to do it—so different from Stalin's sudden and brutal attempt to blockade the entire city in 1948—is a good measure of the difference between the two men, and the influential presence of the bomb.

It's not their intentions that are different. It's their technique.

In the first few years after the war, when the United States alone had the atomic bomb, Russia under Stalin grabbed and

Back From Florida Trip

We're back. It's the most catastrophic thing we can say, after an absence from this particular type of writing for several weeks, first for a trip to the Women's Desk, and then a little further down the road to Florida.

Really, we can always recommend Florida for the weak and the weary. It's central Florida we sing about, more than the limestone beaches where crowds flock together.

This year we took in the lovely Bok Tower where we observed a black swan hiss at a little boy. That was about the most exciting thing that happened on that excursion (except that it was lovely and we had fun.) And we went to the famous Busch Gardens in Tampa, where there are all sorts of colorful birds as well as other things. If you've heard of it, you know already about the "other" things. And if you haven't, it's worth a trip; but you will never want a parrot of your own.

Of course, the real reason we went was to go home.

One of the most stimulating places to go around this part of Florida is Ybor City (pronounced e-bow) which is a sort of Latin American settlement featuring exotic foods and during the current Cuban uproar it occasionally features some more active excitement. However, we apparently missed this year and returned unscathed.

We can definitely recommend North Carolina's smooth well run highways. Get a little further down the road and you'll agree.

We know some other people who were also on vacation, returning with all sorts of goodies to tell.

One friend down Grifton way returned with some additions to her vocabulary. It goes like this: sprata-lated. Get it? Well, we didn't. The word is to be pronounced hard and fast so that it takes you like an atom bomb.

We were told it means surprised. We were.

Other Editors Saying Crackdown In Tar Heel

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

The investigation last spring of basketball game-fixing and point shaving has touched off the biggest crackdown in this state. Such an investigation was inevitable after the unsavory episode of the basketball scandals. It did not require much deduction to figure out that a highly organized organization or groups were busy collecting over a billion dollars annually in illegal betting.

SBI Chief Water Anderson admits the current drive is a product of the probe into the basketball situation in the Big Four schools of the state. Inquiry has revealed links between North Carolina gamblers and out of the state syndicates. The SBI surveyed Tar Heel gambling in connection with the basketball inquiry and came up with the information that betting in the state totals over a billion dollars a year, more than the state government's budget for two years. This is, needless, to say a fantastic situation.

The resultant decision by law enforcement officers of the state has led to an overall crackdown on hoodlumism in North Carolina comparable in scale to the drive against Communists. Federal and local officers are working together in the campaign; there could be tax prosecutions growing out of the results of the crime drive.

In regard to local gambling activities in various parts of the state, the SBI position was made clear by Anderson. If local officers want help in undercover work, the SBI will provide it, but if they permit such activity in the cities and counties the SBI will move in and take over the drive against the hoodlums.

Here is a breakdown of betting in North Carolina each year: baseball, $360 million; football, $319 million; racing, $237 million; basketball, $187 million; lotteries, $105 million; fights and other sports, $37 million.

How can such a situation be combated? Our present state laws are probably adequate if applied. This is especially true if Congress passes new federal laws and the FBI is made available for help. Bills now before the legislators in Washington would put the screws on interstate transportation of slot machines and other gambling gadgets.

It is difficult to erase gambling, much as the federal government found it was impossible to prevent people from drinking back when it brought an era of prohibition. An example of how diligent the gamblers are is shown in the case where agents found tobacco barns that had been air-conditioned and fitted out as gambling casinos.

But while it is virtually impossible to "legislate human morals" we can at least do something about reducing the opportunities for illegal activity, cut down the odds in favor of syndicates and make it difficult for them to operate in North Carolina.

Ready To Go In Seconds

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It is difficult for the human mind to think politically and historically in terms of minutes and seconds. We are accustomed to think in terms of decades and centuries. When the present war started in 1914, nobody could have believed that it would last until 1961. But it has done just that and all the world is changed. Perhaps we are in another Hundred Years War and somehow we must adjust our minds to that and go about our business expecting short intervals of shooting death.

But nowadays it is necessary to think in seconds and minutes.

For instance, a SAC alert might take two minutes; 10 minutes would be regarded as very dangerous. And there are no minutes to lose because up where radar watches, enemy planes and missiles are to be seen and who knows what orders the enemy planes have?

Call me a war-monger, but I know what I have seen. Our air force, at any rate, is prepared; it is ready and alert. But are we ready and alert?

Every day I receive letters calling me a war-monger, but because I insist upon warning our people of a danger which so hangs over our heads that American planes fly in the air in 24 hours duty. They would not be up there guarding us if it were not essential. It does not matter what politicians and diplomats say; airmen and aircraft are in readiness with no minutes to lose or to spare.

It is a rainy day and the airmen sit about as they must do all the time. The Klaxon blows and out they come in seconds and the big planes are ready to go up into the air immediately.

Is this peace or war? Is this readiness or drills? The politicians will not say and they have the last word, but no one engaged in this preparedness has any doubt as to what his job is. Any minute, he might get the word.

Every day I get letters telling me that "it is better to be a Red than dead." Is life so worthwhile that one could sell himself into slavery just to be alive? Perhaps for some, life is very valuable and they would rather be Red than dead. What a wonderful slogan the Communists have devised. What an appeal such a slogan has to the anarchistic instinct of self-preservation.

But has not civilization brought us to a higher level? Do we not ask what is worthwhile and what is a noble ideal? Perhaps it is so awful to be dead that one would rather be a Red but those who ride the B-52's want to live, too. Only they want to live in freedom.

There I saw them stand in the rain in front of their aircraft, loving their ship as men love a home. Telling me how they have worked together over the years, in war and in what is euphemistically called peace.

Their hours are 24 a day and seven days a week and even when they go to bed they must be ready momentarily to answer the call of the Klaxon. And among them there are really no generals and no privates for up in the air men are in teams and each man must make the team an unbreakable unit. For one weak link can bring them all down—and forever.

I am not saying here I was or what I saw—I only say that I came away with a sense of greater security because the real safety in this war is communications and in that field we excel. We can touch a button and all the world becomes alive in reply. And as one sees and hears, he wonders at those who still believe that the defense of Berlin is unnecessary and that we can ignore the imminence of war.

What we have, they probably have and what we know, they probably know. So it will be a matter of time, of no seconds to lose, of no minutes to throw away. The watchman at the gate may be an electric device but it is also a man, a man with a mind and soul, a man who could find remunerative outlets for his talents but who chooses to serve in this dangerous occupation that his people may be alive and free.

BUT SUBSCRIBERS, THEN FORGET THEM

A survey of 11 magazines shows they pay an average of $4 to obtain each new subscriber and then forget about it. The survey, by the Gallager Report, found that 75 per cent of consumer magazines never acknowledge a new subscription and that the lag between subscribing and receiving the first copy averages 34 days. Consequently, the survey found, less than 50 per cent of the new subscribers renew.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE MEN DEFENDING AMERICA

YOUR NATIONAL GUARD

By ELMER ROESSNER
Supermarkets are revolutionizing the fancy food industry in America. They are, in fact, removing some of the fancies.

As an old food fancier (that's all I ever eat) I have been attending the National Fancy Food and Confectionery Show in New York this time every year. It's scheduled for August to catch retailers just when they are ordering for their Christmas gift-and-nibble season.

In years past I have been fascinated by such fancies as fat-bottom fried ants, roasted grasshoppers, octopi in their own ink and fried (so help me!) worms. These things never bothered me. Like my granddaughter Michaela, I will bite anything that doesn't bite me first.

SWITCH TO SWEETS

But this year, the switch is to sweets. You could find the rartlets, all right, but you had to look. Cresco, one of the biggest distributors, has its Mexican foods on a bottom shelf. Chiperno, another biggie, pushed candy on me where last year it had piled me with pates.

Most of the other exhibitors were featuring candies, cookies, fruitcakes, gift packages and other sweets.

The reason for the swing from proteins and fats to carbohydrates, exhibitors confided, is the dominant power of the supermarket.

Specialty food stores are few and small; shops featuring canned bouillabaisse and tripe de Caen are far apart. So fancy food distributors must depend on supermarkets.

But supermarket customers average young and have bland tastes. Truffles in foie gras interest not the wife of a bookkeeper with three children. But she is interested in imported boxes of cookies and bags of candy even if they cost a little more than domestic kinds.

Some day a fancy-fancy food business, specializing in pickled walrus snouts, chopped camel liver and ruffed micawber slices, may arise. But meanwhile, the fancy food industry is finding it more profitable to be a little less fancy.

BRIEF NOTE FROM WORD FANCIER

This "fan" of fancy foods observes that Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary says that the word "fan" probably derives from "fanatic."

Now it is true that baseball fans are often fanatic, but when I was a lad, a person with a hobby was called a "fancier." The Moore brothers next door raised fantastic varieties of pige-

Judge Says Should Return Hijacked Vessel

NORFOLK Va., (AP)—A federal judge says the hijacked Cuban freighter Bahia de Nipe is protected by the doctrine of sovereign immunity and should be returned to Cuba — but not until claimants against it have exhausted all their avenues of appeal.

The judicial branch of the federal government "should avoid any conflict with the executive in the field of international relations," Dist. Judge Walter E. Hoffman said Tuesday night in supporting the U.S. State Department's decision to return the 3,800-ton vessel to the Castro government.

But he stayed execution of his order to permit anticipated appeals to the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals on Sept. 5.

After that, the case could be taken to the U.S. Supreme Court by the persons and firms which have sought to have the sugar-laden ship sold to satisfy alleged indebtedness of more than $1,272,000.

The judge had said Saturday that, regardless of his decision, the ship must remain in Chesapeake Bay in possession of the Coast Guard while the issues are under appeal.

Ten days ago, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said "the prompt release of the vessel is necessary to secure the observance of the rights and obligations of the United States."

In his 25-page memorandum, Hoffman said "recognition and allowance of the claim" of immunity by the State Department, when accompanied by a certification of its action presented to the court by the attorney general, is final and binding upon the court.

The Bahia de Nipe was bound for a Soviet port when the master and 10 crewmen overpowered and imprisoned 23 U.S. crewmen and sailed her into Chesapeake Bay in search of political asylum.

A day after the ship arrived Aug. 18, two Philadelphia longshoremen with rifles and a nationalized Cuban company which manages the ship sought to have her attached and sold to satisfy their claims.

The list of claimants grew rapidly, including pleas for back wages put in by the 11 defecting crewmen. The Coast Guard, acting on orders from Washington, refused to permit a deputy U.S. marshal to serve attachment papers on the freighter.

Hoffman ordered the Coast Guard to court Aug. 19 to explain why it should prohibit the marshal from boarding the ship.

Last Saturday, Hoffman ruled orally the Coast Guard exceeded its authority when it prevented the deputy marshal from carrying out his job. On Monday, he said President Kennedy exceeded his authority in instructing the Coast Guard to repulse the attachment efforts.

In his memorandum, however, Hoffman said the doctrine of sovereign immunity—which protects a government property from seizure—prevents the claimants from any benefits of attaching the ship. Relying on a previous case, Hoffman said in his memorandum he was forced to dismiss the claimants' arguments that sovereign immunity should not interfere with their claims.

Focus On Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vaccines in the Soviet Union, heart attacks in middle-aged smokers, and calcium in the diet of persons with thinning bones are subjects for focus on health: SOVIET PUSHES VACCINES

The Soviet Union is pushing development of various vaccines against influenza, mumps and respiratory infections, say U.S. doctors after a recent trip to the U.S.S.R.

The Soviet Union is preparing a billion doses of live-virus, oral polio vaccine from seed viruses obtained from Dr. Albert Sabin. Some of these doses are to be offered to other countries, scientists report.

Most other Soviet vaccines reported also involve live viruses as opposed to killed virus vaccines used widely in the United States. Soviet researchers say they have a live-virus mumps vaccine which has been given to 50,000 children by injection with good response. They have also used live-virus influenza vaccine which has some drawbacks, they told U.S. visitors.

THE HEAVY SMOKER

Why are death rates from heart attacks among middle-aged men up to 1½ times as high for heavy cigarette smokers as for non-smokers?

The American Heart Association's newsletter says a possible explanation may exist in a study by a Philadelphia research team. The team found that two cigarettes smoked within 10 minutes raised the level of some fats in the blood—and the effect lingered for at least 40 minutes.

Perhaps nicotine from smoking stimulates the nervous system and the adrenal glands to release a form of adrenalin that frees fats from storage areas in the body, researchers suggest.

It could explain why smokers have higher levels of cholesterol in their blood. Cholesterol is a blood fat which is suspected of contributing to heart disease by clogging and narrowing arteries.

BUILDING BONE

A new study indicates that abundant calcium in the diet during adult years may protect the skeleton, especially in persons suffering from a loss of calcium, and a thinning of bone.

Doctors have obtained good results by boosting the calcium in the diets of arthritis patients who are taking cortisone or related hormones. Cortisone apparently worsens calcium loss.

Almost a third of the women past menopause suffer from a thinning of bone, involving a loss of calcium, particularly from the spine. This bone thinning disease is even more common in older women with rheumatoid arthritis.

THIS WEEK, MUMPS

A valid way to protect adults against diseases such as mumps, chicken pox and German measles may be to expose them to these diseases in childhood, says a Scottish doctor.

When these diseases strike older persons they can be severe and spread through the entire system. Vaccination of children may only delay infection, leaving the adult vulnerable, says Dr. Thomas Anderson of the University of Glasgow.

UAR General Is New Commander Of Joint Force

CAIRO (AP)—The foreign ministers of the six Casablanca conference nations Tuesday announced the appointment of Gen. Mohammed Fawzi of the United Arab Republic as commander in chief of a new joint African high command.

Moroccan Idriss el Sellawi was appointed secretary general of a new defense bloc. He is a former Moroccan minister of trade.

Bamako, Mali, was designated as headquarters of the new command.

The so-called Casablanca powers got their name from the place of their summit meeting last January where they took positions on the Congo crisis in favor of the late Soviet-supported Patrice Lumumba.

The six nations represented at Tuesday's conference were the U.A.R., Ghana, Morocco, Mali, Guinea, and Algeria's provisional government in exile.

SELFRIDGE, N.D. (AP) — A farm boy and the horse he was riding to bring in the cows from pasture were killed Tuesday night when struck by a lightning bolt.

The victim's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Yochim, found the body of their son, Melvin, 15, and the carcass of the horse after the sudden electrical storm.

GOP Opposed To Foreign Aid Borrowing By Treasury

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders lined up in top-rank opposition today to Treasury borrowing to finance foreign aid development loans.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the party's 1960 presidential nominee, sent word to former Senate colleagues he favors a long-range program, financed through annual appropriations by Congress.

Nixon's views were made known in advance of a breakfast meeting with a group of GOP senators. He planned to confer with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower later in the day.

This put Nixon in line with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., as opposed to the kind of financing by Treasury borrowing that President Kennedy had sought.

Rockefeller already has said he is confident that Eisenhower, who once favored the borrowing method, now is against it.

A Senate-House conference committee, considering the foreign aid bill, swung to the Republican viewpoint Tuesday night with a compromise on a $7.2-billion five-year program, financed through yearly congressional appropriations. Kennedy originally asked $8.8 billion for a five-year program to be financed through Treasury borrowing.

The compromise still must go before the Senate and House, where demands could be made for further changes.

The top-rank GOP opposition to Treasury borrowing left 10 Republican senators hanging on a political limb on which they had climbed to support the Kennedy program.

The 10 voted against a Senate amendment by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., to set up a five-year program with annual congressional appropriations.

They were Sens. J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware, Prescott Bush of Connecticut, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, John Sherman Cooper and Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating of New York, Winston L. Prouty of Vermont, Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

Five of them were said to wish now they hadn't voted that way.

But Sens. Javits and Case, who often are spokesmen for this view, point, said in separate interviews they would do it again. Both said they think they represented a majority viewpoint in their state when they voted to give a Democratic president the kind of flexibility they believe any chief executive needs in dealing with foreign nations.

Nixon, visiting here briefly, appeared to be keeping his Washington contacts warm in what nearly all Republicans in these parts regard as the natural sort of thing for a man to do who wants to run for president again.

Nixon Belittles Sending Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon Tuesday night called President Kennedy's ordering 1,500 extra troops to Berlin "an empty gesture."

"Any thought that moving a few ground troops into Berlin is going to have any effect on Mr. Khrushchev is a bunch of nonsense," Nixon said on a CBS radio program "The World Tonight."

Nixon said he thought the Soviet premier might interpret the "beefing up" of the U.S. garrison in Berlin as an indication of "weakness rather than strength."

Nixon said, however, that "it would not criticize" Kennedy's general handling of the Berlin situation "except for the fact that I think there has been too much loose talk about it."

This is cheap and comparatively safe adventure for both the Russian and Chinese Communists. If they lose, Russia and Red China can try their luck later.

The only thing Khrushchev has done that could be considered a match for the recklessness of Stalin is his announced determination now to break the West's grip on West Berlin. But he's not talking showdown, he's talking negotiation.

Meanwhile he's trying to spread Russian power and influence—by propaganda and aid to backward countries—in a way which Stalin didn't think of or considered too slow or too worthless.

BURNWOOD MEN

CHAPTER 16

"Sophie" Dove Demarest asked, "are there a great many men in camp? Will it be exciting?"

The woman grinned. "Many men, all right. Plenty excitement in five, six seven days. We march across border. We fight for justice, maybe kill some of Mounties, maybe get some men killed ourselves. They kill us, we kill Canucks same tam, you bet."

"You believe in this raid, Sophie?" Dove asked, worried.

The woman hesitated a long time. Then she said: "My brother, he's friend Pierre LaCroix. He is worried, my brother. Me, I am worried too. I remember Louis Riel. Then I think maybe she is not so good for Bois Brules, this raid."

She touched up the horses, and the buggy reeled on into the silk on night. Dove, huddled in her corner, dove, opening her eyes now and then to stare at the silver carpet of the starlight. She wondered once where Tam might be, Tam under sentence of death.

Remembering Tam, she remembered how she had scratched the surface of Cleland Strike, her husband, and under the civilized veneer found a man of stone and steel. She loved him. But she was wondering if the man she loved was the man she knew, or this stranger in the same flesh. She felt cold and naked as if she were a child who had been forced to grow up all at once.

She shifted her position on the buggy seat, trying to find some posture less painful than another. In misery and discomfort, she sagged to the racking motion, too beaten to rebel. At last her tortured body dropped into a fitful sleep.

With Strike's hounds ranging afar, Colly Devoe and Tam Barrie swung wide around Benton to the north. The way took them along the Teton bottoms, where they sweated in the moist heat and fought clouds of avid mosquitoes. Almost to the confluence of the Teton and the Marias, Colly turned east again. They crossed the steep ridge of the Croco de Nez, the height of land that held the Teton away from the Missouri. They rode into camp without challenge, in the late afternoon.

"The Metis are gone," Stephanie Devoe said in greeting.

"To the north?" Tam asked.

She nodded, worry in her dark eyes. "I don't like it," she said.

Brock rode over and tried to question them. But he got nowhere.

The solid man said: "Some way they got word about midmorning. Such a flurry and scurry you never did see. Took'em only about an hour to pack up, lock, stock, and barrel. They lit out, the kids hollerin', the dogs barkin', the dust as thick as smoke from a prairie fire. They strung out to the north like the Old Nick hisself was after 'em."

"You didn't see the messenger?" Colly asked.

Brock shook his head. "Could'a' been anybody. But he sure brought powerful medicine, whatever it was. You see Clip O'Boyle?"

"We saw him," Colly said grimly.

"He tell you anything?"

"Plenty. And not a minute too soon."

"So they got him, after all." "Right at our backs. And dam' near drilled us too; didn't miss Tam by more'n the skin of his teeth. We taken out, headin south, aimed to tell our troubles to the Army at Fort Shaw. But we stopped overnight with Jim, found out Strike had already been to the fort. Jim seen him bein' real chummy with the colonel in command. So no use of us spillin' our around and come home."

Woe to that man. We turned "Papa, could Clee Strike bribe an Army officer?" Stephanie asked.

Tam answered for him. "He didn't have to, Stevie. All that was necessary was that he be on good terms with the man. No doubt, too, he has done favors for those people. Thus his word would carry much more weight than the word of a mule skinner or a bank clerk. We'd have tipped our hand, but gotten nowhere."

"Still, you might have tried . . ."

"Only time will tell, honey," Colly told her. "But we did learn that this business is comin' to a head soon. And there's nobody honin' to stop it except us."

"We must stop it, or there will be mourning in the homes of the Bois Brules," Stephanie said. "But how, Papa?"

"Well, it's a dead immortal cinch we ain't gonna stop it here in Benton. Stevie, you pack up the panniers with the camp kit and vittles for a week or two. We'll ride north at dawn."

Brock winced a little. "Colly, you know I can't be depended on, after that bresh with the Gros Ventres in '73. I'm like to turn tall. You want me along?"

Colly laughed his great laugh, clapping the solid man on the shoulder. "You're about as scairt as the man that sticks his head in the lion's mouth at the circus. I know what ails ye, Brock. The sight of a scarlet tunic makes you queasy ever since that Cypress Hills business. Dunno as I blame ye. The Queen would still like to stretch a neck or two over that affair. So you might as well stay. Somebody ought to keep an eye on the place."

Brock grinned his relief and rode off to his own small cabin around the bend of the hill. It was cool at dawn, but as they rode down the long morning the heat mounted, pricking the skin. Stephanie rode beside Tam, subdued and withdrawn. Then gradually color came to her cheeks and sparkle to her eyes. The day stirred Tam's blood too; bright and clear, the grass green-yellow along the benches, the willows gray-green in the bottoms. Now a soft sweet breeze sprang up, and the horses picked up their pace.

Tam looked admiringly at the girl. By now he was used to the way she rode astride, her fringed buckskin dress hiked up on her slim lovely legs, as the Indian women rode. She showed no embarrassment, and obviously felt none. He smiled to himself, picturing some of the imperious belles of Philadelphia riding Indian fashion. The comparison was not unfavorable to Stephanie.

Admiring the loveliness of the girl's face and body, he turned the scales and wondered how she would look in a low-cut ball gown of white satin, her midnight hair coiffed stylishly high. He knew she would be sensational. Too bad, he thought, that she has Indian blood. And instantly was ashamed of himself.

With the two pack horses trailing, they splashed through the ford of the Teton at Captain Nelse's ranch. They pulled neckchiefs up around their mouths as they crossed Yeast Powder Flat. Even then the dust stung through, clogging nose and throat. Only when they reached the high ground on the far side could they beat the dust from their clothes, and hawk and spit until they could breathe again.

They took a short nooning at a cold spring. Then they pushed north in the heavy heat of the afternoon, plagued by flies and prickly bear and dust devils. They spoke little, enduring the discomfort in mutual misery, watching the small dramas of the prairie.

Once a small herd of deer erupted from a spring thicket, a gray coyote trotting after them, waiting his chance. Colly reached for his pistol, but the beast slid away like a gray ghost and was gone. A hawk stooped from the blue into the sage, and flapped heavily skyward again, something kicking in his cruel talons.

In the hypnotic discomfort of the ride, Tam found himself lost in far thoughts. He thought of home, cold and precise, with little love within its walls. It surprised him now that of his childhood, the only pleasant days he remembered were the visits to his distant cousin, Dove Demarest, in the great house set amid its spacious lawns.

Dove had been, then as now, headstrong, impulsive, and lovely. Ah, but she had queneed it over him. Dove Strike, she was called now. For who would tell her of a copper-skinned girl child named Maria Easty Walker? Not Tam Barrie.

Death threatens Tam when he is naked, without weapons. Continue the story tomorrow.

Statistics Cut Small Loan Risk

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—You walk into the small-loan office and the man asks you some questions and looks you over quizzically. He decides if you're a good risk or a bad risk. How?

What must you have to be classified with the good guys? Well, under one theory, it could be such things as a pycne, a spouse, a yen for a home of your own, or a fairly lengthy stay at your present address and in your present job.

The old-time credit manager, however, doesn't buy this necessarily. He will tell you that beyond such obvious things as your credit record, he really has to rely to a great extent on instinct.

A lot of persons who needed some quick cash have found this ordeal by instinct tough enough. But now you are more and more likely to run up against a new obstacle: statistics. And this means that a lot of those who would have passed the test if the credit manager stuck to his instinct alone will be turned down today if he consults his charts.

Proponents of this law of probabilities or averages say the new method of grading applicants is proving that a high percentage of those that the credit manager in the loan office would have passed are actually bad risks.

Many credit managers don't believe this, anymore than you will if you flunk the test. But converts to the slide rule approach to credit say it has proved itself by the one thing the small-loan business appreciates most—a drop in the number of total losses and also in accounts that cost too much to collect.

Donald L. Barnes Jr., executive vice president of the American Investment Co., St. Louis, Mo., predicts the new credit scoring system should cut its losses by 25 per cent. Last year it made $413 million in loans and had to write off $7 million as bad debts. He hopes the new system will cut this loss by $2 million a year.

Barnes says the system is based on a study of 14,000 accounts. And if you want to rate yourself as a good risk or a bad risk, here's what the averages revealed:

A phone was found in the residence of 31 per cent more of the good accounts than in the bad ones. Now the company definitely takes the possession of a phone into account when deciding whether to make a loan.

A married applicant was found to be a much better risk than an unmarried person. This confirmed previous lending experience, but to a greater degree perhaps than formerly believed.

And a significantly higher percentage of good accounts owned their own home or were buying one on a forever-and-forever basis. The percentage of bad accounts among home owners was far lower.

This may seem grossly unfair to a bachelor or spinster who prefers to, or has to, live in rented quarters and for any number of reasons cannot have, or doesn't want to have, a telephone.

But Barnes insists that figures don't lie.

British 'Respect' Soviet Waters

LONDON (AP)—The British Foreign Office said Tuesday no British submarines have entered the Soviet Union's territorial waters.

A spokesman said Britain never has recognized the Soviet claim of 12 miles of territorial waters, "but without prejudice to that position, we have respected and continue to respect for matters of convenience the views of other states in this question of submarines."

Parents Refuse Send Money To Stowaway Girl Now In Holland

NEW YORK (AP)—"Mom, I'm going out. Keep supper warm. I'll be right back."
With these words, Marion Swaab, 19, left her comfortable home here Aug. 16.
Marion did not get back in time for supper.
—She is in Holland, having stowed away on the Holland-America liner Rotterdam.
"She did it again," said Marion's mother, "and this is it."
Marion, a dark-haired, pretty girl who studied in Europe and can talk fast in several languages "did it" the first time last year.
On July 14, 1960, she bought a 50-cent visitor's pass and went aboard the French liner Liberté. She didn't get off again until the ship had reached Le Havre.
Last time, Marion sent her parents a cable from France asking them to pay her passage. Her father, importer Henry Swaab, did

This time Marion sent her parents a cable from the vessel reading: "I'm aboard the Rotterdam. Please deposit money with the steamship company. Please wire spending money."
"Not this time," said Mrs. Swaab today. "She needs a lesson. If we pay her way again, next time maybe she'll go to Japan."
The decision was not an easy one for the Swaabs. The family, which came here from Holland 10 years ago, is a close-knit one. Marion is the only child.
"It's harder for us than for her," said Mrs. Swaab. "But she has to learn. There's nothing the matter with her. Last time we had her examined by all sorts of doctors and psychiatrists. She's perfectly healthy."
"It's just that Marion is thoroughly irresponsible," said Mrs. Swaab. "She lives in a little dream world. Everything has come easy for her—good clothes, nice friends, a good job. People like her.

She's pretty," the mother added.
"She has a pleasant personality, and she can talk you into anything, anything at all."
What about the Holland-America Line? What does it plan to do with the pretty young stowaway?
"I haven't the faintest idea," said a line spokesman.

Soldiers In Berlin Take Duty Calmly

By THOMAS A. REEDY
BERLIN (AP)—Six hundred American GI face the East German Communist troops along about 16 miles of the concrete curtain separating East and West Berlin.
Some are in tanks, some in jeeps. Some sit in bombed-out buildings handling short-wave radio communications.
This has been going on for two weeks.
At noon and at 6 p.m. chow is served. The men have steak, potatoes, corn, ice cream and coffee. For breakfast, they whip up eggs and bacon. They eat off the tailgates of vehicles, the hoods of jeeps, the slanting side of a Patton tank.
Every few days, the front-line outfit is relieved by another group and returns to its headquarters deeper in the American sector of Berlin. This is a front line where shooting can happen any minute, and the frequent rotation reduces the possibility of anyone getting trigger happy.
Across the barricade are the Communist People's Police and troops, seemingly armed only with pistols. But the American soldiers know that behind the buildings are cannons and machineguns. This is a standoff for the moment, but it is war of a kind and everything is on a war-time basis.
The American soldiers have been told they are there to protect the borders of West Berlin. Their sergeants and officers are carrying grenades. They look like any soldiers on the Korean front or the western front in World War II. Around them are the ruins of that war.
How do the American soldiers feel about it?
They feel like American soldiers usually do. A bit more sleep would help. Something to break the monotony of what now has become in fact sentry duty. They are not scared. They are more bored than anything else.
Some of the troops are old hands in Germany.
Sgt. John Collins, of Blue Point, Long Island, N. Y., has been in the Army nine years, four of them in Berlin. How does he see this present tension and crisis?
"It happens every year," he said as he lounged at the Friedrichstrasse border point chosen by the Communists as the only crossing for all Allied and foreign traffic into East Berlin.
Also on duty at Friedrichstrasse was Pvt. William Penton Jr. of Panama City, Fla., who has been in the Army just short of 10 months.
"I don't think any of us are nervous about this job," said Penton. "but we could use a little more sleep."
A short distance away, two military policemen were in constant radio communication with headquarters.
Said Pvt. Joe Jacobs from Norton, Kan.: "I've been here a year. I am regular army. Sure, on this one you lose a little sleep but we don't worry about that."
Pvt. James Sims, born in Yuma, Ariz., but now claiming Porterville, Cal., as home, has been in the Berlin scene 25 months.
"I am due to get out and I want to go to college," said Sims.
Just over their heads, sitting on a floor in a bombed-out house, a relic of World War II, were four GIs with communications equipment and small arms at the ready.
One of them shouted down: "What time's chow?"
That was what the American soldier thought about on the border, like most soldiers since time immemorial.

Evangelist Says American Nation Is Deteriorating

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Billy Graham says "we as a nation are deteriorating" and the "greatest sin in America today is idolatry."
Dr. Graham told an overflow crowd estimated at 17,500 persons Tuesday night that America faces a "judgment on a scale never before known" unless it turns to God.
"I have never seen such gloom, such pessimism, as today," the evangelist said. "We are like the people of Noah's day—laughing, drinking and making merry. The flood is about to descend."
Dr. Graham said Americans are both overfed and "oversexed, even in marriage."
He said a "wasteful America" is throwing away enough food daily to feed India's starving millions.
About 3,600 Cubans work at Guantanamo United States Naval Base in Cuba.

Dynamo Roz Russell Has Solution; Get Up Earlier

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Feeling hurried, harried and harassed? Dr. Rosalind Russell has the solution.
It's astonishingly simple: get up a half-hour early in the morning.
This prescription came out as I was trying to plumb the dynamo that is Russell. At an age when many women are content to rattle knitting needles, she maintains a bone-crushing schedule.
This year she is hurtling through three diverse and difficult film roles: in "Majority of One," "Five Finger Exercise" and "Gypsy." She plays a Jewish matron, a five-letter female and a voracious stage mother, respectively, and she'll have to dance and belt songs as the latter.
She still manages to maintain civic work, a writing career and a serene household for husband

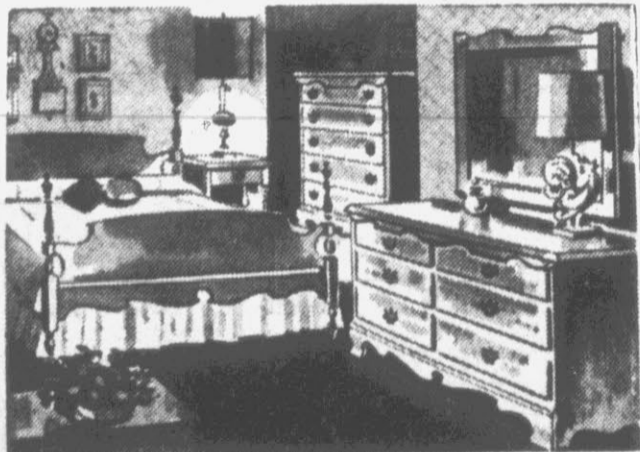

Freddie Brisson and their son Lance, 18.
How does she do it?
"By rising a half-hour before I normally would," she explained. "You'd be surprised what a difference that makes. The morning is a peaceful time, and you have a chance to think over your whole day. You can have a relaxed and sizable breakfast, which is very important for getting you through the day."
"You don't miss that extra half-hour of sleep. Sleep is highly overrated. I used to worry because I would lie awake at night. I told my doctor and he said, 'Several million other people are lying awake at the same time.' He told me to get up and sort the linen or straighten out a drawer or do some other useful but dull task, then go back to bed. I tried it, and it works."
Roz has another regimen to keep life in the proper proportion.

That's a quiet hour at the end of the day. She and Freddie sit down for cocktails and conversation. There are no interruptions and no shop talk, even though he is her producer on her current "Five Finger Exercise."
"We don't talk movie business unless it is something funny," she said. "Mostly we talk about people."

Reds Take Tenth '61 Shutout Win

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer There was no pennant fever among the Cincinnati Reds or their fans in early season, but things weren't so black that Manager Fred Hutchinson was without hope.

That will give you some idea of just how much of a surprise team the Reds are in that National League race. Not only are they second in run totals—610 to San Francisco's 627—but the pitching staff leads the league in shutouts.

With southpaw Jim O'Toole and reliever Jim Maloney combining for Cincinnati's 10th white-wash job of the season, the Reds knocked off Pittsburgh 3-0 Tuesday night and retained a 3 1/2-game lead over second-place Los Angeles. The Dodgers stayed close with a 2-1 victory at Chicago as Sandy Koufax limited the Cubs to a pair of singles.

Milwaukee replaced San Francisco in third place, seven games behind, by beating the Giants 7-6 in 13 innings on Ed Mathews' home run. St. Louis made it eight in a row with a 5-4 victory at Philadelphia in the opener of a two-night air, but the Phils took the nightcap 4-3.

In the American League, New York was shut out on four singles by Camilo Pascual and lost 4-0 at Minnesota, but the Yankees retained a 1 1/2-game edge when the Chicago White Sox beat second-place Detroit 4-3. Los Angeles swept a two-night doubleheader from Baltimore by 6-5 scores, with the second game going 11 innings. Cleveland defeated Washington 6-4 and Boston beat Kansas City 8-4.

The Reds won their third in a row with a sixth-inning run at Pittsburgh on singles by Vada Pinson, Jerry Lynch and Gordy Coleman off right-hander Bob Friend (12-17).

Maloney nailed it for O'Toole (14-9), who gave up all of the Bucs' six hits, by striking out pinch-hitter Rocky Nelson with the bases loaded in the ninth.

Koufax (15-9), who leads NL pitchers in low-hit games with a pair of two-hitters and a couple of three-hit performances, held the Cubs hitless for 6 2/3 innings for the second time this season. Sandy struck out 12 for a season total of 212, tops in the majors.

The Dodgers scored the winning run in the top of the seventh on a walk, sacrifice and Frank Howard's single off Don Cardwell (11-12).

Mathews' 26th home run came with one out in the bottom of the 13th for the Braves—their only hit against loser Dick LeMay (2-5) in his five innings of relief. Don Nottebart (5-6) won it, blanking the Giants on one hit after Willie McCovey's two-run homer off Milwaukee starter Lew Burdette had tied it with one out in the ninth.

An error and Bill White's triple won the opener for St. Louis and Curt Simmons in the ninth as the Cards tied their longest winning streak of the year. Chris Short (5-10) then shut them out on two hits in 7 2/3 innings of relief in the nightcap.

The mascot of the Washington State football team is a cougar named "Butch V."

Carry Back To Race Saturday

NEW YORK (AP) — Carry Back, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, has been assigned top weight of 128 pounds for the $50,000 added Jerome Handicap at Belmont Park Saturday.

The mile race will be the first major test for the 3-year-old son of Saggy since he hurt his leg in the Belmont Stakes in June.

Carry Back started a successful comeback at Atlantic City last Saturday by winning a 7-furlong allowance race.

Beau Price was weighted behind Carry Back with 126 pounds.

George Pickett, now freshman coach, has been promoted to assistant coach in the staff shuffle.

The 23-year-old Pucillo, 5-9 Philadelphia, said he "sincerely regretted" withdrawing from the Greensboro job. He added, "I am awfully fortunate to be able to come back to North Carolina State."

Pucillo was released from a head coaching contract at Greensboro's Page High School to join Everett Case and the Wolfpack staff here.

He was named Tuesday to fill a vacancy created when assistant coach Lee Terrill announced he was leaving to work for Eastman Chemical Products Co. of Kingsport, Tenn.

Pucillo was named in 1959 to The Associated Press' All-America second team. He also was picked as Atlantic Coast Conference Athlete of the Year and Basketball Player of the Year in 1959.

Case has described him as "one of the greatest players I've ever coached."

Terrill had been on the Wolfpack staff for seven years. He was named freshman coach in 1955 and was promoted to assistant coach two years ago. He was graduated in 1953.

Case said, "We regret losing Terrill. He has done a terrific job for us and has been a great coach in fundamentals." Case said getting Pucillo "was a stroke of good fortune."

Rocky Marciano began his pro boxing career in 1947 and knocked out his first 16 opponents.

NBA Title Retained By Split Decision

By HAROLD CLAASSEN Associated Press Sports Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — Harold Johnson, still the world lightweight-weight boxing champion after 15 bruising rounds against Eddie Cotton, started a two-month vacation today by visiting the naval base where he fought his first pro fight in 1943 while a United States sailor.

Johnson, the Philadelphia boxing master, retained his NBA title Tuesday night by a split decision over Cotton, a Seattle tool and die faker whose long reach troubled the champion throughout the bout.

It was Johnson's second successful defense of the crown he won earlier this year by knocking out Jess Bowdry. It was his fourth fight in seven months and it brought him the greatest purse, a check for $20,000, in his 18 years of boxing.

That combination decided Johnson, who weighed 173 to the challenger's 170, to take a vacation. He started his ring career at nearby Bremerton, Wash., early in World War II.

Johnson's right brought an egg-sized lump over Cotton's left eye in the eighth round and a cut in the lid of his right eye during the ninth. By the time the thirteenth came round, Cotton's left eye was closed but his sticking left jab kept him out of real danger.

There were no knockdowns in the bout that received neither radio nor television treatment and Pacific Coast League baseball fans. Receipts were estimated at $32,000.

"He's one of the smartest boxers I've ever met," said Johnson of Cotton, who was rated No. 4 among the contenders after whipping Johnny Halafini and Mike Holt in New Zealand after 13 years of obscurity in the Seattle area.

"I'd like to meet Johnson again," murmured Cotton as his handlers held ice packs to his eyes in the dressing room. "It would be another good fight."

At the end, Judge Norman Kunder and referee James Rondeau had it 147-145 for Johnson, while Judge Sam Heller voted for Cotton, 148-144. The AP card favored Johnson, 148-143.

Pucillo Will Return To NCS As Freshman Coach

RALEIGH (AP) — Lou Pucillo, pint-sized former backcourt whiz at North Carolina State, will return to coach his alma mater's freshman basketball team this season.

Pucillo was released from a head coaching contract at Greensboro's Page High School to join Everett Case and the Wolfpack staff here.

He was named Tuesday to fill a vacancy created when assistant coach Lee Terrill announced he was leaving to work for Eastman Chemical Products Co. of Kingsport, Tenn.

Pucillo was named in 1959 to The Associated Press' All-America second team. He also was picked as Atlantic Coast Conference Athlete of the Year and Basketball Player of the Year in 1959.

Case has described him as "one of the greatest players I've ever coached."

Terrill had been on the Wolfpack staff for seven years. He was named freshman coach in 1955 and was promoted to assistant coach two years ago. He was graduated in 1953.

Case said, "We regret losing Terrill. He has done a terrific job for us and has been a great coach in fundamentals." Case said getting Pucillo "was a stroke of good fortune."

Rocky Marciano began his pro boxing career in 1947 and knocked out his first 16 opponents.

ECC Gridders To Arrive Thursday For Practice

By George Bryant Reflector Sports Writer

Fifty-five East Carolina football players are expected to arrive Thursday ready for a rough pre-season practice which begins Friday for college gridders across the state.

Coach Jack Boone, the Pirate skipper, says the first few days will be spent on conditioning drills and more or less getting in shape.

In addition to the 55 boys who have been invited to attend the grid camp, the coach expects quite a few more to show up. He said the freshman players will not be able to attend practice until the college orientation program is over, as this is required of all new students entering ECC.

The prospective players are to report in at 2 p.m. on the 31st to get room assignments, pay fees and pick up their equipment. The veteran varsity boys will be available Thursday afternoon for a picture taking session in uniform. At 7 o'clock all players will be given physical examinations with the first meeting of the new season beginning at 9 o'clock.

Friday Sept. 1, the first day of practice, the prospective gridders will meet at 8:15 a.m. and will be on the field for the first workout at 10 o'clock. The afternoon will consist of a meeting at 2:30 with another practice session beginning at four. Boone said this would be the schedule for the next six days. When school begins the team will switch to one-day sessions beginning at 3:15.

A few early birds have already arrived for the '61 grid camp. Coach Boone said Tri-captain Charlie Gordon came in Monday. He is a center who has every possibility of making all-state this year and possibly could go farther according to the Pirate skipper.

Boone said Dan Rouse, a junior quarterback who did an outstanding job as a sophomore, and Clayton Piland, a tackle and tri-captain, will be leading the candidates back to work. Piland also is good All-State material according to the ECC mentor. The other tri-captain is senior fullback, Nick Hilgert.

Prior to opening grid wars, Boone said he feels the club will be strong at quarterback, center and fullback. "We don't have any experience at halfback and lack depth at the guard position," he added. The Pirates lost three starting guards during the '61 graduation exercises. They were Bob Gregson, Dempsey Williams and Wayne Davis.

Smith Brothers Have Qualified

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Dave and Charlie Smith of Gastonia will compete next month in the U.S. Amateur golf tournament at Pebble Beach, Calif.

Charlie, a member of the U.S. Walker Cup team, did not have to qualify for the national tournament.

Dave qualified here Tuesday, shooting a 71-71-142 to take the medal. Five Carolinas players qualified over the par 71 Alimance Country Club.

Wright Garrett, Danville, Va.; Dale Morey, Morganton, and Sam Marsh, Greenville, S.C., tied for the runner-up spot with 143 scores for the 36-holes.

Billy Joe Patton of Morganton won the fifth spot in a playoff with Randy Glover of Florence, S.C., and Bob Galloway of Winston-Salem. All three finished with 144s.

Patton parred the first extra hole to win the spot. Glover then beat out Galloway for first alternate.

WCL Playoffs To Start Tonight

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Shelby and Lexington play here tonight in the first game of the Western Carolina League's playoff championship series.

Shelby blasted five Salisbury pitchers for 13 hits and a 13-1 conquest of the Braves Tuesday night to sweep the semifinal series in two straight games.

Meanwhile, Lexington whipped Statesville 5-3 to take that portion of the playoffs also in two straight games.

Monte Montgomery and Benny Von Cannon unloaded homers for Shelby, and Tom Hall pitched a five-hitter for the victory.

Bob Worthington knocked out two singles to lead Lexington past Statesville. Two runs in the fourth inning were the margin of victory.

Durham plays at Wilson, Burlington at Greensboro and Raleigh at Winston-Salem in tonight's card.

Tobs Take 10-4 Win Off Indians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Wilson retained its three-game lead in the Carolina League Tuesday night and threatened to sweep both ends of the Class B loop's split season.

The Tobs defeated Burlington 10-4 while second-place Greensboro whipped Raleigh 5-2. Greensboro, however, lost an important day as the schedule went into its final full week.

In other action, Durham piled up a seven-run lead and beat Winston-Salem 7-4.

Jimmy Roland went all the way for Wilson, allowing seven hits and fanning nine. He was backed by a 10-hit attack which was featured by a four-run rally in the fifth inning.

Greensboro scored four runs in three separate innings without hitting a ball out of the infield. Both Ron Retton and Ron Solomini stole home in the game at Raleigh. Chuck Loyd was the winning pitcher.

Durham plays at Wilson, Burlington at Greensboro and Raleigh at Winston-Salem in tonight's card.

Minnesota Downs Yanks 3-0 With Pascual On Mound

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer It's been a pretty tough season for the Minnesota Twins, but for Camilo Pascual, their right-handed ace, things have been good and tough, you might say.

The curve-balling Cuban has a 12-13 record with the eighth-place Twins, and he's been good in every one of those dozen victories although most of them have been tough to nail. In six of the 12, Pascual has pitched shutouts. Three of the other six have been by one run, another by two runs.

Pascual hung up that 12th victory and sixth shutout by knocking off the New York Yankees 3-0 Tuesday night, checking the slugging American League leader on four hits, all singles.

It was only the third victory over New York in 16 games for the Twins—and all three have been shutouts, two by Pascual. He tied Baltimore's Steve Barber, the major league shutout leader by fanning nine, three times taking a called third strike past Mickey Mantle.

Despite the defeat, the Yanks retained a 1 1/2-game edge over Detroit as the Chicago White Sox ended the second place Tigers' winning streak at five, 4-3. The Los Angeles Angels swept a pair of 6-5 decisions from Baltimore, taking the second in 11 innings. Cleveland defeated Washington 6-4 and Boston beat Kansas City 8-4.

In the National League, Cincinnati won 3-0 at Pittsburgh and stayed 3 1/2 games ahead of the second place Los Angeles Dodgers, who won 2-1 at Chicago. Milwaukee beat San Francisco 7-6 in 13 innings. St. Louis won 5-4 in

In the National League, Cincinnati won 3-0 at Pittsburgh and stayed 3 1/2 games ahead of the second place Los Angeles Dodgers, who won 2-1 at Chicago. Milwaukee beat San Francisco 7-6 in 13 innings. St. Louis won 5-4 in the first game at Philadelphia, then lost the night cap 4-3. Pascual, who became a first-time poppa earlier in the day, put away his fifth career shutout over the Yanks with a flourish. He struck out Bobby Richardson and Tony Kubek in the ninth, but Roger Maris was safe on a two-base error. Pascual then fanned Mantle for the final out. That extended his shutout streak through 20 innings and gave him 179 strikeouts.

Mantle was 1-for-4 and his 46-home run total leaves him just one game ahead of Babe Ruth's record 60 pace in 1927. Maris, 0-for-3, is eight games ahead of Ruth with his 51.

Ralph Terry (11-2) was the loser, after winning six in a row. An unearned run in the third, on Lenny Green's single, and error and Billy Martin's sacrifice fly, ended Terry's shutout string at 24 1-3 innings. Earl Battey's two-run double wrapped it up in the sixth before a crowd of 40,118 that put the Twins over the million mark in their inaugural season.

The Tigers, who had won 10 of 11, blew a 2-0 lead and then booted away the game behind Frank Lary (19-7) when the White Sox broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh on a single by winning right-hander Ray Herbert (9-12) and two errors. The telling error was by Chico Fernandez, who had batted in two Detroit runs. Rocky Colavito of the Tigers went without an RBI for the first time in 10 games, falling one shy of the AL record.

Jim Gentile belted his 41st and 42nd home runs for the Orioles in the opener, but the Angels took it on a squeeze bunt by winner Ryne Duren (6-11) in the sixth and Steve Bilko then brought the Angels from behind in the 11th inning of the second game and gave the victory to Eli Grba (8-11) in relief, barber (15-10) and Billy Hoelt (4-4) were the losing pitchers.

The Indians came from behind at Washington with six runs in the seventh, five unearned. Bob Allen (3-0) was the winner and Mike Garcia (6-1) the loser, both in relief.

The Red Sox also won with a six-run rally, over-hauling the A's and beating Ed Rakow (2-6) on Frank Malzone's two-out, two-run single in the ninth. Chet Nichols (3-2) was the winner in relief.

Wilson retained its three-game lead in the Carolina League Tuesday night and threatened to sweep both ends of the Class B loop's split season.

East German Swims Canal, Gains Freedom, Under Hail Of Red Bullets

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD
BERLIN (AP)—An East German swimmer to freedom today across the Teufel Canal under a hail of bullets from Communist border guards. He climbed out on the west bank of the canal unhurt. West Berlin police said they heard bullets whipping into the canal, whose center marks the sector border, about 6:45 a.m. Five minutes later the dripping man clambered up the west bank to freedom. He was not immediately identified.

During the past week, Communist troops have killed two men trying to swim the 60 yards across the canal, which forms part of the border in the divided city. Berliners now call it the "Death Canal."

Police reported that Communist guards elsewhere on the border lunged tear gas grenades and fired water cannon Tuesday night at about 60 persons gathered at Alex. and Kreuzberg in the American sector. Shortly after midnight the Communists opened up again when a group of Western youths started catcalling.

About 5 a.m., a Communist water cannon at Treptowerstrasse suddenly let fly at a police patrol car on the Western side.

President Heinrich Lübke of West Germany was in the city today for a look at the situation. He arrived unexpectedly after breaking off his vacation. After talking with Mayor Willy Brandt, Lübke planned to visit the refugee reception center at Marienfelde and take a look at the barbed wire and concrete barriers erected by the Reds along the border.

Lübke's visit was attacked by the East German official news agency ADN as "provocative activity." The commentary said West Berlin was "not within the competence of Bonn politicians."

In a radio speech Tuesday night, Brandt rejected Soviet Premier Khrushchev's suggestion that Soviet troops join the U.S., British and French forces in a token garrisoning of the city. Brandt said the idea is unacceptable to the people of Berlin and the Western powers.

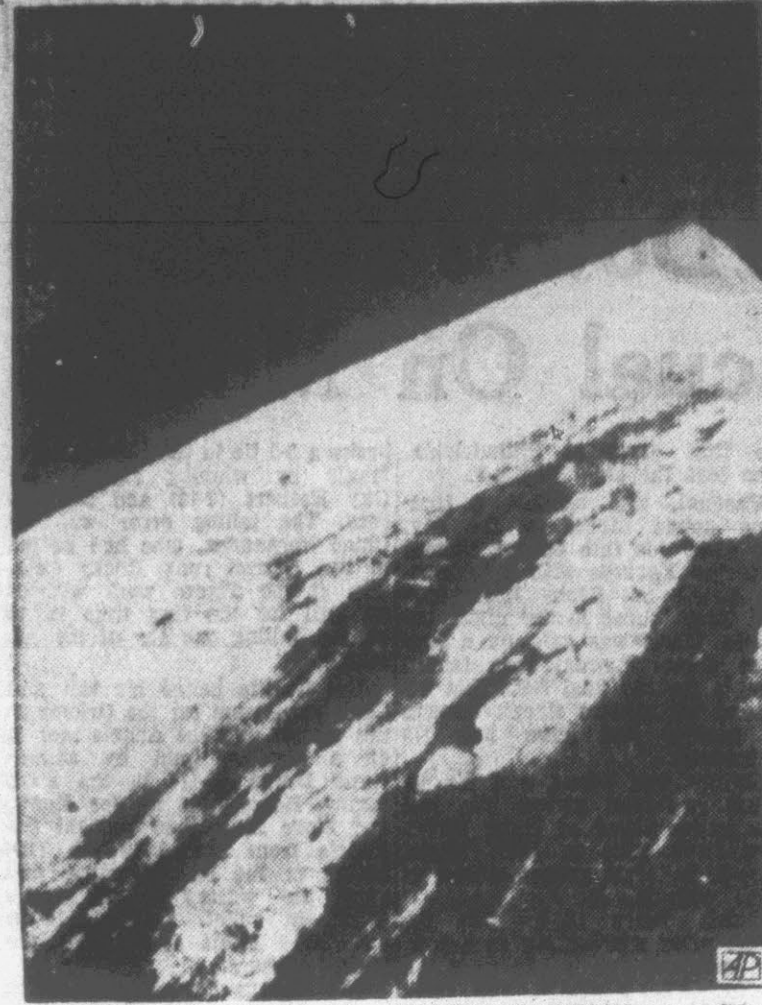

Brandt also tangled with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in election debate on Berlin. Adenauer charged in a campaign speech that the Berlin crisis was created by the Soviet Union to help Brandt, candidate of the Social Democratic party.

Adenauer's charge drew boos in Hagen and Gelsenkirchen. When he made it at Recklinghausen, he added that "it is absolutely out of the question" that Brandt's party shared any responsibility for the crisis.

Brandt, speaking at Erlangen, commented: "The old gentleman doesn't quite grasp the situation any more."

The East Germans still held an American soldier seized at the West German border early Tuesday near the Bavarian town of Neustadt. A U.S. Army spokesman said Spec. 4 C. Bobby E. Scott, 20, of Edgerton, Mo., was arrested by Communist police while on regular patrol with his unit.

The Army said a request for Scott's release was sent to the Soviet forces in East Germany, since the United States does not recognize the East German regime.

Officials Apologize For Punch Dealt U.S. Visitor

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Officials of the Rhodesian Federation and Northern Rhodesia apologized today for the punch in the face a white settler gave U.S. Assistant Secretary of State G. Mennen Williams at Lusaka airport.

Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Rhodesian Federation, asked U.S. Consul John Emmerson to convey his "deep personal regret for this deplorable incident to Mr. Williams."

Similar regret was expressed to U.S. consular authorities in Lusaka, the capital of Northern Rhodesia, by Sir Evelyn Hone, the territorial governor, who witnessed the assault and helped subdue the assailant.

Lusaka Mayor Richard Sampson, who also witnessed the incident Monday night, termed it "disgraceful and the most shameful thing that could have happened in our city."

Sampson said the assailant was a "well known Lusaka resident and definitely seemed to be under the influence of drink."

The mayor gave this account:

"While I was standing with Mr. Williams and his party on the airport apron, the man came up to us, went straight to Mr. Williams, grabbed his lapel with one hand and shouting an offensive remark hit him straight on the jaw."

"The man was tackled by Sir Evelyn Hone and his aide de camp who were standing next to Mr. Williams. The man was then handed over to the police."

Another witness said the husky, 6-foot American "recalled after the punch but stood his ground." (Williams, who had been making an African tour, arrived in Frankfurt, Germany, today en route to Washington and brushed off the attack as "an incident hardly worth mentioning." He showed no sign of any injury.)

Authorities in Lusaka said they were still investigating the incident, refused to give the attacker's name and did not indicate whether he would be prosecuted.

WENT TOO FAR

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP)—Farmer John Montgomery, 77, decided he really didn't need the tractor parts, the wheelbarrow, the dinner bell and the 20 laying hens that somebody stole from him. But he called the police when somebody filched his mail box.

Merritt explained that the Friday visit is an official one for Ralph.

He asked those who have not turned in committee reports to do so at once. He also complimented the club on the number of committee reports already turned in.

Poll Shows Majority Of Tar Heels Don't Expect War

(Editor's Note: First of three-part series based on interviews with North Carolinians about the likelihood of war — and what would happen if war came.)

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A sampling of opinion indicates that most North Carolinians do not believe war with Russia is likely or imminent.

They are aware of the Berlin crisis. In personal interviews from Asheville to "Little Washington" and from Wilmington to Hickory, most hinged their replies on Berlin.

But few are ready to believe the time has come.

Fifteen daily newspapers and several Associated Press correspondents took part in the survey.

Each was asked to get the opinion of a representative group of five persons. Some talked to more than five.

The question: "Do you feel war with Russia is likely or imminent?"

Forty - five said no. Eighteen said yes. Many answers could not be classified. Edwin Burge, 65-year-old Asheville retail shoe merchant, for example, said there is a 50-50 chance of war with Russia.

Ralph El Rami, 35-year-old Wilson theater manager, doesn't expect war.

"Both sides are aware of the consequences and the devastation that a nuclear war would have on both sides," said El Rami.

That theme—that the Russians will avoid war because the holocaust would envelop them—colors much thinking.

"They're as scared as we are," is the way J. M. Darlington, 62, Winston - Salem drug company manager, put it. Kathryn Leach, High Point housewife and Red Cross staff member, put it succinctly: "war . . . defies common sense."

Many expect "local" or restricted wars but still cling to the belief the awful consequence will prevent full atomic war. "Russia is bluffing to a certain degree," said Mrs. Cleo Harris, Burlington office worker.

"I don't think a world-wide war is imminent," explained Jerry Woodruff, Charlotte decorator. "It's likely there will be an isolated war." Perry Kores, Wilson restaurant owner, said: "We will continue to have local warfare but I don't think either side would risk a nuclear war."

A Goldsboro farmer, 45-year-old Oland Peele, reflected a popular belief in saying that if war comes it will be an accident resulting "because somebody got trigger happy."

A dread fatality marks the thinking of many of those who believe war with Russia is likely or imminent.

"When you are making plans and preparations for something, they are not for naught," explained Tommy Carawan, 43, Greenville oil distributor. "It seems to me that war is inevitable."

"It's coming sooner or later," said Raleigh Policeman L. B. Council. "Khrushchev keeps pushing us."

A Hickory housewife, Mrs. Elizabeth Mackie, 38, had this to say: "I don't see how we can get out of another war. I don't see why we didn't settle it at the end of World War II; we knew then this would have to come."

"I hate to be a pessimist," said O. N. Brown Jr., 38-year-old Greensboro salesman, but "I sure do think war with Russia is likely."

Tomorrow, North Carolinians say whether they feel there is a real chance their country would lose such a war.

Scientists Help Make Cube Egg

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—So you never heard of eggs shaped like ice cubes?

Neither had poultry scientists at North Carolina State College until they set out to assist in promoting North Carolina as "the good egg state."

At a breakfast here Friday, Gov. Terry Sanford will be presented with a supply of the eggs —shaped like a child's building blocks. At the breakfast, the governor will designate North Carolina officially as "the good egg state."

Dr. Henry W. Garen of the college's poultry science department told how the cube-shaped eggs are produced. First, a cube-shaped template — or form — of calcium was prepared and the egg, minus its regular shell, was placed inside.

The template was then inserted in the oviduct of a hen who, obligingly, deposited egg shell around it.

"She'll put a shell around anything," explained Dr. Garen. Then the scientists have to remove the cube-shaped egg "because the hen can't lay it properly."

Dr. Garen doesn't believe square eggs will replace the standard variety any time soon. Although more convenient for packing and storing, they aren't nearly as strong as the regular eggs—and they're rather uncomfortable for the hens.

Alpine Sightseers Rescued After Cold Night In Open

CHAMONIX, France (AP)—The slow, inch-by-inch rescue of more than three score sightseers trapped in aerial cable cars hundreds of feet above an Alpine glacier was completed today.

Numbered by a night of sub-freezing cold on the slopes of Mont Blanc, most of the rescued scattered as soon as they were brought down at various points on the cable line. Rescue officials said they could give no precise count of how many persons were aboard the string of cars when a low-flying French air force jet sliced the tow cable Tuesday afternoon.

The cutting of the tow cable sent three cars spinning down the steep incline of one section of the support cable. At a way station at the foot of the incline the three cars jumped the cable and plunged 700 feet to the glacier below, killing a German family of four in one car and an Italian father and son in another. The third car was empty.

More than 25 other cable cars were left hanging high above the Alps. A winch was hurried into place and Alpine rescuers inched their way out on the support cable to attach cables to pull the cars to safety. Through the night the cars were slowly pulled to the line's terminals or to points from which Alpinists could lower the occupants by ropes to the glacier.

The pilot of the plane, a Capt. Ziegler of a French experimental jet squadron, landed his damaged P84F jet at his base at Luxeuil, in central France. It was impounded by civil investigators.

The plane zipped over the valley at well above the speed of sound. No one reported actually seeing it cut the traction cable, but one sightseer, Francis Blanchard, a Frenchman with the International Labor Organization at Geneva, said he saw the plane performing acrobatics just before.

Officials were thankful for one circumstance in the bizarre accident. After the three cabins derailed, the loose end of the tow cable entangled in the rollers of the way station tower. This kept several other tourist-loaded cars from being cut loose to roll backward on the downhill side of the tower.

The cable line is strung between two peaks of 15,781-foot Mont Blanc and stretches three miles du the 20,500-foot Aiguille du Midi on the French side of the chasm and the Torino, slightly lower, on the Italian side. It makes a sharp dip at the halfway mark, a rocky outcrop known as the Gros Rognon (Big Kidney).

Tourists normally do the ride in half an hour, dangling at times 1,000 feet above the glacier. At eight points along the way there are stopping points where they can get out.

On this trip some of the tourists spent 20 hours in the tiny cabins. Most were dressed in summer clothes. One passenger, an Indian woman from London, had on a thin sari and gold slippers. Someone loaned her a pair of wool socks to negotiate the glacier after she was lowered from her stranded car.

Most of the sightseers were French, Italian or British, but there were a few Americans. Hugh Futnam, 20, of Milton, Mass., and his cousin, Katherine Blodgett, 19, of Grand Rapids, Mich., were stranded for 11 hours. They got down via a rope and took their ordeal cheerfully. "I was terrified at first," said Miss Blodgett, "but then I quickly relaxed. We had an American newspaper with us and spent part of the time doing the crossword puzzle. I must confess that when darkness fell the puzzle was still incomplete."

It was a beautiful moonlit night on the mountain and the trapped passengers had a spectacular view of the summit of Mont Blanc the Alp's highest mountain, and the glacier below.

TV-Show Makers Rarely Watch TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Authors read books; movie stars usually are movie fans; stage actors go to the theater. But most of the people who make television shows rarely or never watch TV.

This curious and sad situation may account for the quality of some programs.

Over a four-week period, this reporter has talked to scores of actors, writers, producers and directors. None has confessed freely to spending time in front of the set; some actually have boasted they never even look at their own shows.

They make it sound like a chore and excuse themselves by saying there really isn't time. But there does seem to be time for them to attend movies, follow their favorite baseball club and toast their skins beside pools that TV paid for.

The creator-writer-producer of a forthcoming TV series was describing his show in the usual precision terms: "fresh, vigorous, realistic, dynamic—"

At my suggestion that theme and format seemed dreadfully reminiscent, he waved a condescending hand. "That's the real problem," he said, wrinkling his brows dramatically. "Very few of us who are producing and creating new shows are what you'd call avid TV viewers. Most of us, in fact, would be classified in that tiny egghead group that enjoys the really cultural type of program and supports educational television. It's quite hard to guess what the public likes."

Another young man whose substantial income is derived entirely from commercial television confessed with a proud chuckle that the one TV set in his three-car, heated-pool home blew the picture tube five months ago and he has no plans to have it repaired.

"We haven't even missed it," he said. "Not even the children." The star of an enormously successful series has never owned a television set—and has never seen his show except to watch the unfinished, rough programs at the studio. Or so he alleges.

One of the fall season's little ironies is the discovery by Richard Boone that he will be competing occasionally against himself this fall. CBS' "Have Gun, Will Travel" will run against NBC's Saturday night movie feature—and Boone has found that he was an actor in three of the first nine vintage movies to be shown.

"I hope the audience will find I'm a better actor today than I was 10 years ago," said Paladin.

Hollywood's Revue Studios, with 15 TV series in production plus a couple of movies, is the busiest place in filmland.

NEW YORK (AP) - Relieved by postponement of the auto strike deadline, motor shares rebounded, pacing a stock market advance in quiet trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .90 to 254.00 with industrials up .50, rails up 1.00 and utilities up .20.

Gains of fractions to a point or more outnumbered losers among pivotal issues.

Industrials were supported by rails which were sparked by an Interstate Commerce Commission recommendation of direct federal subsidies for the carriers.

Ford was up about 2 points while General Motors—picked as the strike target by the union, if a strike is called—Chrysler recovered around a point each.

American Motors and Studebaker-Packard showed slight change.

New York Central, up more than a point, was the outstanding gainer among leading rails. Pennsylvania Railroad was up nearly a point.

Safety Starts, rebounding from a loss, advanced more than 2 points. First National Stores, a 3-point gainer Tuesday traded about unchanged.

Xerox spun more than 3 in a continued rise to new highs.

Du Pont and Zenith rose more than a point each.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.86 at 716.01.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mostly higher in moderate trading.

Corporate bonds declined. U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

N.C. Fourth In Business Growth

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) - Only three states—Florida, California and Texas—gained more new business firms during the past decade than North Carolina.

Joel B. New, manager of the Department of Commerce's field office here, said Tuesday that between 1950 and 1960, 11,124 new firms opened in the Tar Heel state. The 20.6 per cent increase for North Carolina placed the state 14th in the nation industrially, up from 15th in 1950.

North Carolina, which had a total of 65,137 firms in 1960, gained 1,541 concerns in 1959 and 1960 alone, the report said.

The South as a whole gained 89,828 firms in 1959-1960, the largest increase of any section of the country. Sixteen states and the District of Columbia are in the area.

Kremlin Orders Retention Of Servicemen In Red Army

MOSCOW (AP) - Again blaming the United States and its allies for the current world tension, the Soviet government says it has stopped returning servicemen to civilian life and warned that aggressors will be wiped out "once and for all" if war starts.

A statement issued Tuesday night by the Communist party Central Committee and the Soviet Cabinet said Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, the Soviet defense minister, had been ordered to hold up demobilization of military personnel whose service would normally end this year "until the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany."

The number of men involved was not announced, but Soviet Premier Khrushchev said July 8 that a military cutback of 1.2 million men which began last year was being halted because of the Western attitude on Berlin. How far the cutback had gone was never announced.

ern access routes to West Berlin. President Kennedy responded to the Soviet diplomatic offensive by offering to negotiate but stressing the West's intention to fight for Berlin if necessary. He called for the biggest U.S. troop buildup since the Korean war, including the right to hold military men in service.

The latest Soviet statement accused Kennedy of making threats reinforcing them with an arms buildup by the United States and its North Atlantic allies and presenting "something like an ultimatum, demanding essentially that we withdraw in general the question of the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany."

"If the imperialists," said the statement, "in connection with the signing of a peace treaty with Germany, again seek to draw us into the abyss of war, we are fully resolved to put an end once and for all to the forces engineering aggression."

Infant Killed By Whooping Cough

A two-week-old Negro baby was listed as a whooping cough victim Monday, the Pitt County Health Department reported today.

The infant, Diedra Lynn Hardy, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hardy of 603 Howell St. here, according to health department records.

Dr. John M. Futrell, Pitt health director, said the infant was too young to resist the disease that was apparently contracted from other members of the family.

The director said the baby's mother and "several other members of the family" were ill with whooping cough.

He pointed out the victim was too young for immunization against whooping cough. However, he said, the disease is preventable. Other members of the family, Dr. Futrell said, could have been immunized against the disease.

According to latest authoritative recommendations, Dr. Futrell said, initial whooping cough immunizations are administered to children between the ages of six weeks and three months.

Three doses of the vaccine, he said, are recommended at one-month intervals for maximum protection against whooping cough.

Hampshire Sale Prices Are High

The N. C. Hampshire Breeders Association Monday marked one of the best averages ever at its annual fall state-wide sale conducted here.

Pitt County livestock specialist C. J. Goodman reported today a total of 60 bred and open gilts and boars brought a total of $6,481.50, a per-animal average of $109.63.

Twenty-two bred gilts sold for a total $3,489 and an average per-head price of $158.59.

An average of $95.17 was posted as 15 open gilts brought a total of $1,427.

Thirteen boars averaged $120.39 each as they sold for a total of $1,565.

Douglas Edgerton of Pikeville bought the champion bred gilt, raised by J. G. Pierce of Clinton, for $170.

The champion open gilt, raised by Carl S. Venters of Grimesland, was sold to L. B. Outlaw of the Frosty Morn Packing Co. in Kinston. The champion boar, offered for sale by F. E. White Jr. of Oxford, went to Bruce Davis of Kinston for $240.

W. C. Hollowell, Bethel resident and Greenville pharmacist, donated a pure bred boar as the prize for the winner of a swine-judging contest held in conjunction with the show and sale.

The contest was open to members of 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America chapters. Winning the contest and the boar was Richard McLawhorn of Ayden.

Kinston Girl Is Being Sought In Stokes Robbery

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of a 17-year-old Kinston girl in connection with the attempted safe robbery of a Stokes supermarket more than a year ago.

Solicitor Robert D. Rouse Jr. indicated today that the girl, Linda Hardison, reportedly now living in Jones County, will probably face grand jury action on a charge of having a part in the crime for which three men were sentenced here yesterday.

Rouse said he understood that the girl was riding with the three men—Arthur Goff, Bruce Clark and Kenneth Gray—the night of the robbery attempt in which Goff seriously wounded Carolina Township Constable William H. Crandall.

He said it appeared that the girl's only assignment in the attempted robbery was to start the motor of the getaway car when she heard the shots fired that felled the constable.

The Hardison girl was subpoenaed as a witness and court officials said she was present during the term of Superior Court that was adjourned today.

The Pitt grand jury will convene again Oct. 9 as another Superior Court criminal term is scheduled to begin.
