Airliner Laden With Vacationers Crashes; 78 Killed

CHICAGO (AP) — An airliner laden with vacationers crashed and burned in a cornfield today, killing all 78 persons aboard in the nation's worst single plane disaster. Many of the 73 passengers were family groups. The four-engine TWA Constellation disintegrated when it plowed into the muddy ground 10 miles west of Chicago's Midway Airport minutes after it took off for Los Angeles. It was the third worst U.S. commercial plane accident, but both those with greater life loss were double crashes after collision in the air. Witnesses said that the plane, apparently smashed in an emergency landing attempt. They said there was no explosion in the air. Doctors said the first dead examined bore no evidence of explosion injuries but looked, rather, like auto crash victims. In Washington, the FBI said it had started an investigation of the possibility that a bomb may have caused the crash. Most of the 73 passengers were embarking on Labor Day holiday visits. Seven were members of one Los Angeles family. The crash came shortly after a heavy thunderstorm had raked the area. The plane, TWA Flight 529, left Boston at 7:45 p.m. Thursday. It was en route to Los Angeles and had made stops at New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago. It left Chicago at 2 a.m. and crashed about 10 minutes later. Jerry Broz, a farmer whose house south of Hinsdale is only 150 yards from the wreckage, said he heard the plane roar overhead, then apparently start a turn. The plane was heading almost due north when it struck. "I think he was trying to land," Broz said. "It might have been done successfully—with all the space here. But something was wrong." The thunderous explosion caused residents of the area to look first southwest, toward Argonne National Laboratories, the Atomic Energy Commission installation which is five miles southwest of the crash scene.

The blast spewed burning oil and scorched the side of Broz's house, melting the plastic screens on windows. A big wheel assembly rocketed through the side of a corrugated steel machinery shed. Inside the shed later, portions of three bodies were found. The dead were scattered with debris over an area one-fourth to three-fourths of a mile. Scattered effects included a baby bonnet, a bathrobe, shower clogs, a partly burned dress. There were broken traveling bags and suitcases. As morning came, a hundred or more officials and workers prepared to collect the bodies. A Red Cross emergency disaster unit crisscrossed the field, driving stakes with numbers on them into the soft mud beside each body. Then, came the specialist team—a group of police officials, Civil Aeronautics Authority and FBI men, physicians. The dead were taken to the Cook County Morgue in Chicago. First reports indicating the plane had exploded in the air and crashed in a fiery mass were emphatically challenged by several residents of the area. Charles C. George Jr. said he heard the big ship's engines roar close by, looked from his bedroom window, and saw the plane's black silhouette skimming about 50 feet above a couple of small trees. "There was a tremendous roar from the plane's engines," George said. "The next thing I saw was a huge sheet of flames as the plane hit the ground." George Holub, 46, a photographer who lived nearby, said he first heard the plane's engines and detected some sputter over a straining roar. "There seemed to be engine trouble," he said. "I saw nothing, but heard the crash," he said. Representatives of the Post Office Department—the plane carried the death toll when the plane smashed to earth was the third largest in U.S. commercial airline history. In aviation's worst disaster, 134 lives were lost in a collision over New York City of a TWA Super-Constellation and a United Air Lines DC8 jet on Dec. 16, 1960. Another collision in the air, over Grand Canyon, June 30, 1956, took 128 lives. The planes which crashed were a UAL DC7 and a TWA Super-Constellation. The cause of today's crash was not certain. An FBI spokesman said: "We're not in any position to say anything, one way or the other. We're looking into the matter to determine whether there was any federal law violation." The aftermath included work for mail which was scorched or scattered in the mud. The dead included Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Maloney and their five children of Covina Park, a Los Angeles suburb. The family was returning home after visiting in New York. There were five members of the E. Chamberlain family from Palo Alto, Calif.—mother, father and three children. Another family group of five was Mrs. L. Neil Gillian of Eureka, Calif., and her four youngsters, returning home from a visit with Mrs. Gillian's parents in New Bedford, Mass. Four 20-year-old Concord, N.H., girls were aboard, off together on a new adventure, intending to find jobs in a Los Angeles area hospital. A detachment of National Guard soldiers was brought from a Nike missile site near Argonne National Laboratory to patrol the crash scene to prevent looting.

Inspectors Net Surprise Haul

Bootleg Supplies Turned Up At Weighing Station

FARMVILLE — Highway patrolmen and members of the License and Theft Division of the Motor Vehicles Department got a surprise yesterday while operating a truck weight station on U.S. 264 about one mile west of Farmville. According to officers, a one and one-half ton truck pulled to a stop at the check site, then the driver and passenger, both white men, jumped from the vehicle and ran. The lawmen quickly gave chase, without really knowing why, but were unsuccessful in their attempts to stop the fleeing men. After returning to the vehicle and checking inside, the officers found the answer to the question "why". The truck contained the necessary ingredients for making bootleg whiskey. Bloodhounds were called in then but the trail ended after a four-mile chase. A count at Highway Patrol Troop "A" headquarters here today, where the vehicle is being stored, showed contents of the truck included: twenty 100 pound bags of sugar, 75 sixty-pound bags of sugar—totaling 4,500 pounds, 16 fifty-pound bags of meal, 24 cases of half-gallon jars and one 100-pound bag of Ship Stuff hog feed. Twenty-seven pounds of yeast was also found in the vehicle. Inspector M. H. Bynum said the registration plates on the vehicle were registered to another truck and had been cancelled. He also noted no identifying number was present on the motor of the vehicle. Investigation in the case is continuing, he reported. Officers working the weight station where the incident occurred included Bynum, Patrolman D. L. Minshew of Farmville, G. L. Beddard of the License and Theft Division from Washington, and Weight Station Men James Rouse and Wiley Hill, both of Kinston. Officers noted that members of the Farmville Police Department and Pitt County ABC enforcers assisted in the search for the fleeing men.

Estimated 420 Holiday Road Toll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Millions of persons got ready today for the last long holiday weekend of the summer season. The heaviest motor travel in the nation's history was indicated by safety experts over the three-day Labor Day holiday. An estimated 74 million cars are ready to roll as motorists prepared to head for vacation and recreation spots, for family outings, to cities and to rural areas. "But a grim warning already has been made by the National Safety Council to the millions of motorists who will be on the road: 420 persons may be killed during the 78-hour holiday period from 6 p.m. today to midnight Monday (local time). The council estimated that nearly 8 billion miles of highway travel will be logged—averaging more than 105 million miles an hour during the holiday period. The council also estimated that traffic accidents may injure some 17,000 persons. Trains, planes and buses will add to the huge traveling load. Resorts across the country were reported ready for their biggest weekend of the summer. Law enforcement officials arranged special details to handle traffic and hold the number of highway fatalities to a minimum. In Illinois, Gov. Otto Kerner has urged all motorists to keep headlights burning at all times and to hold speeds to at least five miles below posted limits. The council's estimate of 420 traffic deaths is higher than the traffic toll counted by The Associated Press in a 78-hour non-holiday weekend survey made between 6 p.m. Friday Aug. 18 and midnight Monday, Aug. 21. During the four-day Independence Day holiday weekend this summer, 509 persons were killed in traffic accidents, 59 above the council's pre-holiday estimate. In last year's three-day Labor Day holiday, 415 persons were killed in traffic accidents. Other violent deaths included 83 drownings, 28 in boating accidents and 90 in miscellaneous type mishaps for a total of 616.

'Terrorization Of Humanity' Is Charged Soviet Policy Of Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Arthur H. Dean today charged Russia's plan to resume nuclear tests shows clearly the Soviet Union intends to "rest its future policy on the terrorization of humanity." Dean, after his second meeting of the morning with President Kennedy, read a statement saying: "The Soviet policy is the policy of overkill (sic). "But the Soviet government underestimates the people of the world if it thinks they will capitulate to a strategy of blackmail and terror." Dean, U.S. negotiator in fruitless talks with the Soviets on a nuclear test ban, told newsmen at the White House his statement had been drafted while he conferred with Kennedy. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and John J. McCloy, Kennedy's disarmament advisor, also met with the President in another of the series of conferences Kennedy has been holding with top-ranking officials since Moscow announced Wednesday that it would resume testing nuclear weapons. The Kremlin said it was capable of exploding a 100-megaton bomb—the power of one hundred million tons of TNT. Dean, who returned to this country Thursday night from the stalemate test ban negotiations at Geneva, said a 100-megaton bomb "is not a military weapon." He called such destructive power "a weapon of mass terror" and charged the Russians would be testing it as such. Dean said the next meeting at Geneva is scheduled for Monday and the United States would be represented by his deputy, Charles C. Steele, who would continue to attend future meetings "until further announcement." Dean clearly implied that there has been no decision on when he might return. Neither did he say that he would not go back to Geneva. In his statement, Dean said that in recent weeks Khrushchev has been boasting of a 100-megaton bomb—"a weapon far too large for any military objective." "Two days ago, the Soviet government announced its intention to resume nuclear tests. These events at a time when the world could have had a workable treaty banning nuclear explosions show a determined Soviet purpose to rest its future policy on the terrorization of humanity," he said. In reply to questions, Dean said Great Britain and the United States had "incorporated every reasonable provision that any reasonable person could seek" in a test ban treaty. "The Soviet announcement clearly shows they have no interest in a treaty," Dean said. He said he did not know whether the Soviets intend to continue negotiating at Geneva. He said "a number of events" have aroused suspicion that the Soviet Union has already started testing nuclear explosives but that his understanding was that "up to 10 seconds ago, there was no information which could genuinely be classified as evidence." He added that the Soviets could undertake tests below ground or in outer space without being detected. Dean sidestepped a question as to whether any situation could now be foreseen in which the United States would resume testing. He said that would be up to the President to answer. One of the questions presumably for the high-level discussion was what course McCloy should follow concerning scheduled talks with the Soviets next week. McCloy, who was in New York earlier this week, returned to his Washington office after the announcement of a resumption of Soviet atomic testing. In an area closely related to the McCloy negotiations, Kennedy was reported more anxious than ever for congressional passage of a bill setting up a new U.S. disarmament agency. A Democratic congressional leader who would not permit use of his name said Kennedy feels that action would present the world with a vivid contrast between a U.S. desire for peace and the threatening gestures from Moscow. Under previously announced plans, McCloy has been slated to talk with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin in New York next Wednesday. Zorin is also Soviet ambassador to the United Nations. McCloy and Zorin have been conducting private talks about setting up a multination disarmament conference.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and John J. McCloy, Kennedy's disarmament advisor, also met with the President in another of the series of conferences Kennedy has been holding with top-ranking officials since Moscow announced Wednesday that it would resume testing nuclear weapons. The Kremlin said it was capable of exploding a 100-megaton bomb—the power of one hundred million tons of TNT. Dean, who returned to this country Thursday night from the stalemate test ban negotiations at Geneva, said a 100-megaton bomb "is not a military weapon." He called such destructive power "a weapon of mass terror" and charged the Russians would be testing it as such. Dean said the next meeting at Geneva is scheduled for Monday and the United States would be represented by his deputy, Charles C. Steele, who would continue to attend future meetings "until further announcement." Dean clearly implied that there has been no decision on when he might return. Neither did he say that he would not go back to Geneva. In his statement, Dean said that in recent weeks Khrushchev has been boasting of a 100-megaton bomb—"a weapon far too large for any military objective." "Two days ago, the Soviet government announced its intention to resume nuclear tests. These events at a time when the world could have had a workable treaty banning nuclear explosions show a determined Soviet purpose to rest its future policy on the terrorization of humanity," he said. In reply to questions, Dean said Great Britain and the United States had "incorporated every reasonable provision that any reasonable person could seek" in a test ban treaty. "The Soviet announcement clearly shows they have no interest in a treaty," Dean said. He said he did not know whether the Soviets intend to continue negotiating at Geneva. He said "a number of events" have aroused suspicion that the Soviet Union has already started testing nuclear explosives but that his understanding was that "up to 10 seconds ago, there was no information which could genuinely be classified as evidence." He added that the Soviets could undertake tests below ground or in outer space without being detected. Dean sidestepped a question as to whether any situation could now be foreseen in which the United States would resume testing. He said that would be up to the President to answer. One of the questions presumably for the high-level discussion was what course McCloy should follow concerning scheduled talks with the Soviets next week. McCloy, who was in New York earlier this week, returned to his Washington office after the announcement of a resumption of Soviet atomic testing. In an area closely related to the McCloy negotiations, Kennedy was reported more anxious than ever for congressional passage of a bill setting up a new U.S. disarmament agency. A Democratic congressional leader who would not permit use of his name said Kennedy feels that action would present the world with a vivid contrast between a U.S. desire for peace and the threatening gestures from Moscow. Under previously announced plans, McCloy has been slated to talk with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin in New York next Wednesday. Zorin is also Soviet ambassador to the United Nations. McCloy and Zorin have been conducting private talks about setting up a multination disarmament conference.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Arthur H. Dean today charged Russia's plan to resume nuclear tests shows clearly the Soviet Union intends to "rest its future policy on the terrorization of humanity." Dean, after his second meeting of the morning with President Kennedy, read a statement saying: "The Soviet policy is the policy of overkill (sic). "But the Soviet government underestimates the people of the world if it thinks they will capitulate to a strategy of blackmail and terror." Dean, U.S. negotiator in fruitless talks with the Soviets on a nuclear test ban, told newsmen at the White House his statement had been drafted while he conferred with Kennedy. McCloy, Kennedy's disarmament advisor, also met with the President in another of the series of conferences Kennedy has been holding with top-ranking officials since Moscow announced Wednesday that it would resume testing nuclear weapons. Atlanta School Officials Relax

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—School officials relaxed security measures slightly today on the third day of integration at four public high schools. Two Negroes attending Murphy High and two assigned to Grady High arrived at the same time as white pupils for the first time. Five other Negroes attending two other high schools came in after white pupils entered the buildings. The nine Negroes had been coming to school by private automobile about 15 minutes after the morning bell and leaving 10 minutes before the final bell. School Supt. John Letson said school officials would move as rapidly as possible to see that the Negroes are treated the same as other pupils. But no change was expected in the extensive police protection until after Labor Day. Then there may be a reassessment, the superintendent said. The nine Negroes—six girls and three boys—spent a quiet second day in the schools at four widely separated locations. Conditions generally were described as more relaxed. At Grady High, Principal Roger Derthick reported a Negro girl sat next to two white girls and a Negro boy between white boys during lunch in the cafeteria. The Negroes ate by themselves in the earth from a floating platform in the Mediterranean within two years. Italy already has test-fired at least five Italian-made space probe rockets this year to heights of up to 600 miles. Plans for the first Italian satellite were announced Thursday night after a cabinet session. The announcement indicated that it would be sent aloft with the aid of an American booster rocket. But the government said Italy expects to have its own booster rocket functioning soon after. Local Gas Price War Sees The Lowest Marks In Years

The gas price war continued in Greenville today at an all-time high. Prices on some brands of gasoline hit their lowest marks in recent years, many distributors said. On the whole, the price war is confined to the Greenville city limits, with the exception of slight reductions in Winterville and Ayden cited by Atlantic Distributor Leon Moore. The lowest reductions are about eight to seven cents per gallon since the decline in prices began last Friday. James E. Sutton of Sutton's Service Center, the Amoco dealer, quoted retail prices at about 23.9 for regular and about 28.9 cents per gallon for the hi-test gasoline. These prices have come down about eight cents per gallon since the decrease in prices began. Sutton, head of the Greenville Oil Distributors Inc., said, "We have had price wars, but this is the lowest I can remember seeing gas in Greenville in recent years." He noted that 11 cents of the gas prices represent taxes—four cents federal and seven cents state. Moore said Atlantic is generally about 7.1 cents off the regular prices. Some service stations are selling this brand at 23.9 cents per gallon for regular gas and about 28.8 cents per gallon for the higher grade of gas. These prices declined most recently on Wednesday. A spokesman for the W. O. Moore Texaco distributorship said that Texaco is about 3.3 cents off the regular price insofar as a discount to dealers was concerned. Some retailers were reported to be meeting competition on their own, while some were not. But there was a good chance the prices would come down any minute. John Clark of the Sinclair Refining Co. said that brand's prices had gone down about 5.3 cents per gallon since last week, dealer's prices, with the latest reduction yesterday afternoon. Clark was unable to furnish service station prices. He noted that competition of this type is unusual for Greenville; prices don't usually get this low here. Gulf and ESSO prices also were down again today. W. L. Allen of the Gulf distributorship said, "We are down to the suggested retail price this morning of 23.9 for regular gas." Yesterday the price was 25.9 per gallon. He too, noted that prices have dropped their lowest in some 10 or 12 years here. Greenville hasn't been bothered too much with gas price wars, he commented, noting that most of that has been located in the Piedmont part of the state. "It is most unusual for prices to disintegrate like this in eastern North Carolina," Allen said. The ESSO prices on regular gas at service stations was about 24.9 cents per gallon and on hi-test, about 26.9 cents per gallon, a spokesman said. The regular brand sells for about 31.9 cents per gallon. A survey by The Daily Reflector indicated the decrease in prices was in full swing yesterday and today, and no one has forecast the end result of the price war. The price descent was said to be a result of introduction by Sunoco of two blends of gasoline in the Greenville area Aug. 18 which were described as "an inferior octane" to regular grade gasoline. District Manager James W. Daniels of Sunoco's Norfolk District told The Daily Reflector that the two sub-regular fuels are designed and marketed for small cars and cars with economy engines. Anyway, the action is continuing in Greenville, and service station operators definitely were not getting the best end of the bargain today. Prices being paid today, he said, held steady at yesterday's high level. Sales yesterday in Greenville posted an average slightly below Wednesday's average, but above the market averages posted for Monday's and Tuesday's sales.

Prices Firm On Greenville Mart

Prices held firm and high on Greenville warehouse floors today on the heels of the largest sales day of the season recorded yesterday on the local market. The Greenville market yesterday paid out $1,298,206.63 as a total of 2,065,532 pounds of tobacco was sold for an average of $62.85. It was the largest day on the Greenville market this season both in terms of the volume of tobacco sold and the amount of money paid to farmers. It was the second day this week

Fish And Bananas For Breakfast

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DON'T LET a new-to-you combination of foods—when it has proper antecedents and credentials—scare you.

We're against such "new" concoctions as sauerkraut and marshmallow salad. (Yes, believe it or not, once we found just that.) But when two foods have been coupled for many years in other cuisines, the chances are that Americans, too, will enjoy them.

So what are we waving the food flag for? Fish and bananas. The combination first interested us about a dozen years ago when we learned it was a favorite dish in Bermuda. The Bermuda Codfish Breakfast is made of boiled salt codfish and potatoes served with whole ripe bananas (and sometimes sliced avocado) plus a hot sauce.

The following dish bears little resemblance to The Bermuda Breakfast—well-liked though the latter is. We don't know our recipe's exact parentage. Probably the cook who dreamed it up was inspired by the Chinese-type dish that contains fish and fruit, and has a sauce that is both sweet and a trifle sour. Here fillets are used for the fish and bananas for the fruit. The sweetness of the sauce comes from orange juice and a little brown sugar; lemon juice adds the underpinning of tartness.

Several tasters around our test-kitchen table gave this dish unstinting praise, so we recommend it to you wholeheartedly. We served it with steamed rice and buttered spinach and found the combination really good. Later I tried the fish and banana dish with curried rice plus spinach and liked that menu even better than the first. Take your choice!

FRIED FISH WITH FRUIT SAUCE

4 large fillets of lemon sole or similar fish
1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
White pepper
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/4 cup peanut oil

1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 teaspoon ginger
2 tablespoons light brown sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
4 green-tipped bananas
Garnish

Wipe fillets with damp cloth; cut in half lengthwise and then crosswise. Coat fish with mixture of flour, salt, a dash of pepper and paprika; brown in hot oil in large skillet. Remove fish to one side of a hot serving dish and keep warm. To drippings in skillet add orange juice, ginger, brown sugar and lemon juice; mix well. Add peeled bananas, sliced into 1/4-inch thick rounds or ovals; simmer about 2 minutes or until other side of serving dish with fish; spoon sauce over both bananas and fish. Garnish with lemon wedges, parsley or toasted slivered almonds—or with all three. Makes 4 servings.

Note: We suggest using green-tipped bananas because they will stay pleasantly firm and have good flavor after their brief cooking.

European Males Conclude U.S. Women Are Feminine

By CATHARINE BREWSTER

NEW YORK — (WNS) — The complaints raised by the visiting European male about American women are all too familiar.

"Aggressive, unfeminine, materialistic" he shrieks, as he flees back to the continent where wife, sweetheart and mother are waiting to soothe and flatter his masculine ego.

But when the European resides here for some length of time, his opinions are likely to change.

"Feminine is a word which means something different in each society," said Miklos Gafni, Hungarian-born opera star. "The American woman's beauty is practical. She would look ridiculous shopping in the supermarket in the kind of coiffure European women usually get."

The cult of youth, often deplored at first by visiting Europeans, has advantages they discover after living here a while.

"America has the best-looking young women in the world," wrote English journalist Robin Miller in a recent article for "Glamour." "For sheer, vital, youthful good looks, the American girl is a world-beater."

Of course, there is a limit to the cult of youth. Even resident Europeans shake their heads sadly over the American middle-aged matron.

They find her depressing, a top-heavy little bundle of mutation mink going in covets to matinees. But a European businessman friend told me, "That's only in the big cities, like New York. Most Europeans don't live in other American cities or towns. In Houston, where I live, mature women look wonderful. They may not be Dresden china duchesses, but why should they be? They ride, they run charity balls, they run half the city activities."

Opera star Gafni, who has traveled widely, feels that American women look as they should for the conditions of their life.

"To a European, this is still a pioneer country. Men can run everything in Europe because distances are so negligible. But here, where a man travels miles to get to his office, women are left to manage practically the whole life of a town. If they stayed all 'ay in beauty salons, as they do in Europe, what would happen to children, neighborhood and community?"

"Beauty for the American woman has to be streamlined," said British film star Laurence Harvey. "The conditions of her life demand it. She must have short cuts, a soap and water approach. There just isn't the time there is in Europe."

Why does the American woman so often become a horror in middle age? Robin Miller thinks it is just because by that time the crises of her youth are past, and she doesn't know what to do with herself. She tries to keep on being young, where—the European woman accepts gracefully the fact of maturity and adapts her beauty to it.

Europeans often complain that American young women are too well arranged. But after they have lived here, they find their impeccable grooming vastly attractive.

"The femininity of the American woman is based more on cleanliness than on sex appeal," commented French star Yves Montand, "but that appeal belongs to the American culture. In the early days, rough conditions of living made feminine daintiness an ideal. At the same time, American women had to be partners of their husbands. They're still carrying on that tradition."

Perhaps Robin Miller summed up the whole European women vs. American controversy when he noted, "How can a comparison be made? Three thousand miles, four hundred years of divergent culture separate the two types of women. Surely, Americans can only be contrasted with Europeans!"

September Bride-Elect Entertained

Miss Frances Clark, bride-elect of September, was entertained on Tuesday at a bride luncheon at the home of Mrs. R. L. Powell.

Hostesses were Mrs. Clay Burnette, Mrs. Carl Pierce and Mrs. Powell.

On arrival, Miss Clark was presented a corsage of chrysanthemums by the hostesses.

Roses, clematis and other summer flowers were used in decorating the Powell home.

Following a two course luncheon, several progressions of bridge were played. Mrs. W. C. Clark Jr. and Miss Ginger Melton were awarded high score prizes. The floating prize was won by Miss Phyllis Moore.

The hostess presented Miss Clark with a gift of a kitchen utility set.

Since bacteria can spell death to cut flowers as well as to people, vases and other containers need to be scrubbed periodically with hot soap or detergent suds—followed by hot water rinsing.

theoretical concern about the present population explosion to some of the immediate problems associated with it.

With an estimated fall enrollment of over 5,000 students, he pointed out, the college is feeling the impact of this national situation and is faced with the challenges which the growth of the student population offers.

"We are embarking this fall," he further explained, "on an expansion program of six and one half million dollars . . . in addition to an annual operating budget of four and one half million dollars.

"With an investment of this type, from a rural, semi-industrialized people, with a relatively low per capita income, we cannot enjoy the luxury of having past but what will be done in the future.

"We shall meet this challenge with success. But in doing this," he continued, "we must avoid falling in to the trap of promising our students and the people of North Carolina more than we can hope to deliver."

He described as unrealistic an expectation that the total picture at East Carolina will be identical with that of a college having an enrollment strictly limited to the most highly endowed intellectually and also operating on a far larger per capita expenditure.

"We shall have," he said, "a program that compares favorably with any college in the nation that operates under conditions similar to ours. We shall continue to welcome and find a place for all students who have the ability to benefit from a college education."

"On the state scene," Dr. Jenkins said, "we have a mandate from the people to take more seriously the challenging concept of 'quality education.' There are many voices in the land stating that colleges that train teachers have failed the republic with a bogus-type education."

As the largest teacher-training institution in North Carolina, he asserted, East Carolina is placed in the position of defending not only what has been done in the

Latins Believe U.S. Is Ready Lift Sanctions

WASHINGTON AP—Many Latin American diplomats here believe the United States is seeking to pave the way for lifting economic sanctions against the Dominican Republic.

Washington Thursday asked a special committee of the Organization of American States to send an investigating group back to the island republic to check on conditions there.

U. S. Ambassador deLesseps Morrison suggested that if the committee reported favorably, the OAS might move to lift its ban on the export of trucks, automobile parts, tires and gasoline to the Caribbean island. He is said to have made no reference to the diplomatic sanctions imposed on the country.

Latin ambassadors said privately they had the impression the United States was hoping for a favorable report as a means to help the government of President Joaquín Balaguer, which has promised to democratize the country and has pledged elections next year.

In a statement to a closed session of the OAS committee on sanctions, Morrison also said the United States is willing to provide food supplies to meet reported Dominican shortages.

This was viewed as an attempt to convey the impression that the economic sanctions had caused food shortages.

Diplomatic sources said a Venezuelan observer at the meeting told Morrison that if there are any shortages in the Dominican Republic they are due to administrative failures and mismanagement of Dominican resources.

The sanctions on the Dominican Republic were imposed last year after the regime of Dictator Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo was found to have been implicated in an attempt to assassinate Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt.

A four-nation OAS group visited the Dominican Republic last June after Trujillo's assassination. On its return, the group said it was premature to recommend a lifting of sanctions.

The committee on sanctions will meet Wednesday to decide whether to dispatch a subcommittee to the island.

Reserve Officer Courses Planned

Army reserve officers interested in a command, general staff or infantry officers career course for reserve officers are asked to meet at the Army Reserve army Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Reserve Lt. Col. J. W. Pou said the courses will involve 24 two-hour periods of instruction to be conducted between Sept. 1 and May 31. A two-week active duty training period with pay will be scheduled during the summer of 1962.

Lt. Col. Pou urged officers who are interested in the courses but unable to attend the meeting to write him at P. O. Box 420, Greenville.

Oahu Considering Beach Expansion

HONOLULU (AP)—Oahu island beaches are pressed for space, according to a survey. And unless there is rapid expansion, Hawaii's tourist trade may be the loser.

A private survey warns that when beaches become overcrowded, "visitors begin to go elsewhere to spend their vacations."

One solution, the study suggests, might be establishment of controls on beach use at peak periods, particularly in the Waikiki area.

The survey of Oahu beaches was conducted in conjunction with a proposal to expand beach area at Ala Moana Park on the fringe of Waikiki.

The report notes that suitable beach use allows 150 square feet of space per person. Cutting that by 50 feet creates crowded conditions, it said. The survey shows that Waikiki Beach averages 44 square feet per person.

Seismographs Closely Watched

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seismograph readings Thursday touched off speculation that the Soviet Union had already carried out its threat to resume nuclear weapon tests. But most scientists agreed that their instruments had actually registered an earthquake near Peru.

The shocks were registered about 9 p.m. Wednesday. Prof. Max Bieder of Basel University's astronomical institute in Switzerland, and Dr. Raffaele Bendandi of the geophysical observatory in Faenza, Italy, placed the shocks somewhere in China's Gobi Desert.

Bieder said the shocks were unusual in that the second was stronger than the first and the center was relatively near the surface. Bendandi said they could have been caused by a subterranean explosion. Exploding nuclear bombs underground decreases radioactive fallout.

The shocks were also registered at about the same time on seismographs at Columbia University, California Institute of Technology, the Japan Meteorological Agency, the Riverview College Observatory in Australia and Sweden's Uppsala University.

None of these plotted the shock as having occurred in Asia, and most put it near Peru. A spokesman at Riverview said the earthquakes were about 125 miles below the surface of the earth and not likely to cause any damage.

Prof. Bieder said later it was possible his instruments gave a faulty reading.

Coburn Asked No Funeral Service

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor Charles Coburn's body will be cremated here in a private ceremony, according to his wishes.

A lawyer for the late actor also disclosed Thursday that Coburn specified in his will he did not want his body to repose in a public room nor did he want any funeral services.

Coburn died of heart failure at the age of 84 on Wednesday in Lenox Hill Hospital after undergoing throat surgery.

Will Soon Reveal Scheidt's Future

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Sanford is expected to announce shortly whether he will retain Ed Scheidt as director of the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

Sanford recently said he had not yet made up his mind about keeping Scheidt, who has headed the key state agency for eight years.

At his news conference Thursday, the governor told reporters he would have a statement on the matter in the near future.

Happy Again In American Refuge

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Juan Antonio Ponce, 16-year-old Cuban, and his white spitz, Osito, are together again and happy in the United States.

Twice Juan attempted to outwit Fidel Castro's guards and flee Cuba but each time was turned back in his 17-foot boat.

One day, Juan loaded his mother, three other Cubans and Osito into the boat and set out. The guards apparently thought they were fishing.

They had food and water for two days but storms delayed them and on the fourth day they became lost at sea. Another boat found them and led them to Miami.

Osito was forced to spend five days in quarantine, with a fee of $1 a day for board, $3 for a rabies shot and $2 for a license.

Juan had no money, but the humane society provided that, and took the dog to the pound when the five days were up.

Juan and Osito were united Wednesday.

Record Opening Day Price Average Is Set By N.C. Middle Belt Marts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The highest price average in the North Carolina Middle Belt's history was set Thursday when opening day's sales of tobacco totaled 5,701,281 pounds for an average of $66.08 per 100 pounds.

The Federal-State Market News Service reported this was $6.32 above opening day last year. The Middle Belt is the fourth in a row to break its own mark for opening day this season. Others were the Georgia-Florida, South Carolina-Border North Carolina, and Eastern North Carolina.

The Middle Belt's 1960 opening day set a record high at $59.76 on sales of 4,230,942 pounds.

The Federal-State Market News Service said Thursday all Middle Belt grades were higher in price than on opening day last year, mostly by $1-2 per 100. Fair and good quality primings gained $3-4, low primings $6-11, nondescript $9-16.

The service estimated that 1 to 4 per cent of marketings went to the Flue-Cured Stabilization Corp under government price supports. This was the picture on other belts:

Border—prices Thursday steady to higher, quality down, volume heavy. Sales Wednesday 12,283,876 pounds at $65.39, down 64 cents. South Carolina markets sold 5,987,576 at $64.55, North Carolina $6,296,300 at $66.19. Season sales 220,612,181 pounds at $65.47. Stabilization took 2.4 per cent of Wednesday's sales, has taken 2.7 for the season.

Eastern—Prices Thursday steady to lower, with about half the grades showing losses, mainly $1-3. Quality was about the same, volume heavy on most markets. Wednesday's sales were 12,003,232 pounds at $64.42, down 13 cents, and 2.2 per cent went to stabilization. Season sales 78,946, $9-16.

$14 at $63.86, 2 per cent to Stabilization.

Auction bid averages per 100 pounds on a limited number of grades on the Middle Belt:

Security Agents Aboard Airliner

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A National Airlines plane arrived here from New York early today with two federal security agents aboard after a tip it would be hijacked.

The plane, Flight 81, was delayed in takeoff while its 119 passengers were searched for arms but the flight and arrival were without incident.

Pan American World Airways had notified authorities that an unidentified woman, speaking with a Spanish accent, telephoned the hijack warning to its Miami office.

She reportedly told PAA personnel that Flight 81, leaving Idlewild at 10 p.m. was to be hijacked. PAA has no flight 81 out of New York but National's 81 was due out at that time.

After the plane arrived here it became a Panagra flight to Panama and a PAA flight from Panama to Buenos Aires.

Passengers boarding the plane were asked to submit to a voluntary search as the plane departed at 1:40 a.m. A spokesman for Panagra said as far as he knew no security agents were aboard when the plane left Miami.

12th Child Is 'On The House'

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—The 12th child of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Mayfield is on the house, medically speaking.

Mrs. Mayfield gave birth at Incarnate Word Hospital Wednesday to a boy. Her other children, nine boys and two girls, also were born at the hospital.

Mayfield, 50, an insurance broker, said the hospital staff had teased him for years about having a baby on the house.

This was the first time that 12 children from one family had been born at Incarnate Word, so hospital officials decided to take care of medical costs for mother and baby.

Mayfield recalled that when their first child was born 17 years ago the doctor remarked "If I could have babies like that, I'd have a dozen of them."

The Police Serve All The Citizens

It should be a cause of considerable concern to rank and file citizens—as it is to law enforcement officials throughout the country—that the number of mob attacks on police officers carrying out their duties has increased alarmingly in recent years.

In New York City alone were recorded 1,171 such attacks during the first six months of this year. In most of the other major cities throughout the country there have come reports of a sharp increase in the number of such attacks.

Have a significant portion of the American people reached the point that they are inclined to work against a law enforcement officer in carrying out his duties rather than with him? Is there a growing feeling that police, in seeking to carry out their duties are violating the rights of citizens rather than protecting them?

Police, in carrying out their duties as law enforcement officers are representing the entire citizenship of a community, state or nation. The laws are written by the duly constituted representatives of the people, and with the consent of the citizens. It is the responsibility of the policeman, as a peace officer and as a servant of the people to see that the laws are enforced and likewise to see that those who violate the laws are apprehended and turned over to the courts for trial.

The policeman, in carrying out his duties, is acting in behalf of the citizenry as a whole, seeking to protect society from harm at the hands of those who violate the duly constituted laws which are written for everyone's protection.

Those who interfere with peace officers who are seeking to carry out their duties are in many instances posing a greater threat to law and order than those the officer is seeking to apprehend for some particular offense. Those who participate in mob attacks upon police—the symbol of law enforcement and law and order in our society—are flaunting the laws and the machinery set up for enforcing the laws for their own protection.

Law and order cannot long exist in any society unless the citizenry as a whole is in full support of those people whose duty is to uphold the law. Citizenship in a democratic society carries with it not only the freedoms guaranteed under the laws, but likewise the responsibility to abide by the laws and uphold them. No community of people can expect to enjoy for very long any liberties and protection guaranteed under the laws unless they likewise take seriously their individual responsibility for upholding those laws.

Local School Systems Need Wait No Longer

State and local governments which have been holding back on their school construction plans, waiting to see what assistance was coming from Washington, can now move forward with their own programs backed by their own financing.

The broad aspect of federal aid to education—insofar as funds for buildings are concerned—that was presented by President Kennedy at the outset of his administration, has been soundly rejected in the House of Representatives. Some phases of the program, including construction funds to assist localities which have a large number of military personnel, may still win congressional approval; but the overall program is dead so far as this session of Congress is concerned.

The overwhelming vote by which the House of Representatives rejected the federal aid to education proposals this week represents perhaps the most severe setback President Kennedy has been handed by Congress. Perhaps of greater significance is that it reflects an overwhelming view on the part of the people of the country that the federal government should not move into public education on the scale proposed by the President.

While acknowledging the needs of their schools, most states have stood squarely by their assertions that public education should remain primarily the responsibility of the state and local governments. The individual states should likewise retain control of their systems of public education rather than risking centralized control in the hands of the federal government.

The majority of the House of Representatives, in our opinion, voted wisely in rejecting the proposal that some $2.5 billion be spent for construction and salaries in the public schools of the various states. This is not to say that such an expenditure could not be used wisely in the state school systems throughout the country. Rather, it is to say that this amount of money, if it is needed for the schools, could best be spent by the state and local governments and financed through their own programs.

Red Example Of Terror Tactics

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet decision to resume nuclear testing—which makes no sense at all from the world opinion—is the extreme example of Russian terror tactics based on naked power.

1. It shows contempt for what the rest of mankind thinks.
2. It comes at a time when Premier Khrushchev has created a crisis on Berlin and is like a savage nudge to the West that Russia means business.

3. The announcement that this gives Soviet scientists a chance to test super-bombs—equivalent to 100 million tons of TNT and far greater than any bomb the West possesses—is sheer, brutal, terror technique.

Even the circumstances under which the decision was announced Wednesday—while American and Russian negotiators were meeting in Geneva to discuss a test ban—makes this Russian move contemptuous of world opinion.

Three years ago the United States and Russia stopped testing, began negotiations to put a permanent ban on it. Wednesday the two sides had held their 338th meeting and, as before, with absolutely no progress.

There had been increasing pressure in this country, inside and outside Congress, for President Kennedy to order a resumption of American testing on the grounds that the negotiations for a ban were hopeless.

"Some American leaders urge the United States to resume nuclear weapons tests if the Soviet Union does," said a spokesman. (Continued on Page 6)

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
EXCELLENCE
There is a duty resting upon every one of us to achieve a certain excellence of performance. If we cannot give a thing our best, let us not waste any time doing it at all. The old adage that a thing worth doing is worth doing well continues to be stated because it is infallibly true.

Are you a clerk in an office? I sat beside a man recently who began as a clerk in a railroad office and because he did his work so well ended up as president of the railroad. Are you a C student at school? Don't be discouraged if you have third rate ability, because some of the most useful people in the world have emerged from those brackets. But if you could be an A student and are content to remain a C student, then you need to be awakened by a swift kick either by the parental boot or by the heavy-doll foot of circumstances.

Do whatever you do with diligence and conscience and you will become a marked man or woman upon whom the future smiles happily. Do not feel that because you work in a kitchen that your life is insignificant. Homemakers are the most important people in human society.

You may look at the White House and sigh, or at the boss's big impious. But if you will keep in mind that excellence is the only ideal you need to pursue, then life will have its reward for you—"full measure, pressed down, running over will men pour into your bosom."

One Place They'll Be Working Overtime

—ON THE LABOR DAY WEEKEND!

By ALVIN TAYLOR

'Infuriated' By Red Tag

Greenville policemen are now using a different type traffic ticket. Instead of the old red tag, which Chief Guy Langston says seemed to infuriate violators like a red flag in front of a bull, the new tag is white. At its top is a number and then "Traffic department, City of Greenville."

The following violations are listed: parked outside parking lines, parked on the wrong side of street, parked too near fire hydrant, parked too near sidewalk crossing, parked in no parking zone, parked overtime, double parking, no city tag, parked in loading zone.

The officer checks the appropriate violation and the auto operator is on the way to the police station.

Speaking of traffic, folks who travel Elm St. in front of Rose High School, tell me they see a tremendous difference now that school has begun again.

Since the end of the school year last spring, a modern four-lane drive has been constructed on Elm from 10th to Greenville Blvd.

Only the portion from 10th to 14th St. has been paved but already the wisdom of constructing the divided dual lane street has proven itself.

Workers have been held up in paving from 14th to Greenville Blvd. because of the almost daily rains which have fallen in this area for the past few weeks.

A portion of the curbing around the islands has been installed. There is also a drive leading off in the street into the Rose High property which will make loading and unloading of pupils safer.

The street is a big help in this important educational area of Greenville. In addition to the high school, Elmhurst school is located there, as well as two East Carolina College men's dorms with another under construction and more planned.

Now that Elm St. is adequate, the State Highway Commission should take some action to alleviate the critical traffic problem on Tenth St.

This narrow two lane concrete street, originally constructed as a bypass, is woefully inadequate for the city and college traffic it must now carry.

A year or so ago, the city using state funds widened the street on the north side from Charles to the Winn-Dixie store with plans for later doing the same on the south side.

This helped but not enough. From Charles to Elm Tenth St. is terrible congested. Most of this has developed in the past few years with the construction of dorms on the college property south of Tenth St.

More than 1,000 students must now cross the narrow two lanes of Tenth either on foot or in automobiles several times each day. Another 500 man dorm is under construction and still another is planned.

An adequate Tenth St. is a must in this area.

So-called liberals who fall into the trap of equating defense of freedom with racism, following the Red Line, never raise a voice against the obvious racism engaged in by Communism.

Edward Hunter reaches this conclusion as to current Communist activities:

"One date should be kept in mind as a starting point of the new phase in 'psywar,' the new Red anti-Communist drive, to differentiate it from the Red manipulated, covert anti-anti-Communism we had heretofore. The former is outright Red-maged, part of a discom policy of Communist hierarchy, and immensely more aggressive. Something new has been added to the old, and it is direct action—demonstrations and riots, unbridled smears in the traditional Red manner, and what in practice amounts to an overt manipulation of no-Communist and even anti-Communist personalities and groups, in and out of government, for a basic Red objective, the disclosure of the growing anti-Communist grassroots movement in the United States."

After the defeat and death of Senator Joe McCarthy, the anti-Communist movement in the United States paled. Men and women were ashamed to be associated with McCarthyism.

Recently, a strong grassroots and anti-Communist movement developed, particularly in the colleges and universities. This movement is a sincere response to political necessity. Such an organization as the Young Americans for Freedom or the Committee for a Responsible National Students Organization represents the best in American life and it is such efforts which the Communists now seek to kill off.

Hunter goes further than the politicians by mentioning names, citing articles and showing a correlation of ideas. If Hunter is wrong, those whom he accuses of being brainwashed should establish his error. As it stands, the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee's report stands as an indictment and it must be answered. It is not an indictment involving turpitude; it does involve soft-headedness. ## Other Editors Saying Deterrent To The Careless

(Kinston Daily Free Press)
As North Carolina motorists face the long Labor Day weekend and contemplate ways and means of saving life and limb on the streets and highways, it appears Insurance Commissioner Charles F. Gold has decreed a liability rate hike which can be a real deterrent to careless driving.

North Carolinians have tried safety crusades, traffic checks and any number of other approaches to the problem of reducing accidents. But from 1957 to 1960 the number of persons killed or injured on North Carolina roads jumped 40.3 per cent. That is why a rate hike of 18.7 per cent, effective on liability insurance starting September 1, has been decreed by Commissioner Gold.

There is a law on the books which grants the safe driver a 10 per cent reduction on his liability rates based on his driving record. That provides a great incentive to safer driving—and for some drivers it may be the most realistic challenge yet.

There must be a conscientious effort on the part of every motorist to reduce the accident rate before anyone can hope for a major reduction in rates. Meanwhile there should be some means advanced to reduce claims to actual damages, with reasonable legal fees. Some states are already contemplating action to reduce such fees and thereby give the motorist a better break on legitimate claims. It is not too soon to look into the possibility in this State also.

The current appeal to take a safe driving pledge and to turn on one's lights during the Labor Day weekend is an excellent way to remind the general motoring public of individual responsibility for accidents. But as he experiences the pain in his "pocket-book nerve" because of higher rates he may find Canada safety is his best investment after all. Because it is the one way the rates can be reduced and none but the foolhardy would deliberately seek to advance these exorbitant rates any higher than they are now.

Canada To Feel Exemption Cut

By ELMER ROESSNER
CUT IN DUTY EXEMPTIONS TO HIT CANADA HARDEST

The cut in tourists' duty exemptions September 9 will hit Canada hardest of all. Many Canadian businessmen are now protesting; some are talking about countermeasures.

American travelers returning after 12 days abroad may now bring in $500 worth of foreign goods duty free. On September 9, the limit will be $100.

The exemption was raised to $500 several years ago to help build up foreign economies by encouraging American spending. The cut was voted this year as part of the program to brake the outflow of gold.

To the Canadians, this seems to be a curious cure. The flow of gold has been from Canada, not to Canada.

TRADE FAVORS STATES

Last year Canada bought $3.7 billion in goods in the United States, but the U.S. bought only $2.9 billion in Canada. This difference of $800 million is the gold Canada poured into the United States.

In tourist spending the story is similar. Preliminary figures for 1960 show Canadian tourists spent $79 million more in the U.S. than American tourists spent in Canada.

Even U.S. Treasury experts concede that the new law will make very little dent in the outflow of gold from the U.S.—no more than $140 million to $175 million.

The countries to whom the gold has been flowing—France, West Germany, Italy, Great Britain, Switzerland and Japan—won't be affected nearly as much as Canada.

HUNTER'S TESTIMONY
There will undoubtedly be a storm over the testimony of Edward Hunter before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. Already Senators Keating and Dodd have protested the publication of Hunter's testimony, although they had a chance to read it.

I have known Edward Hunter during most of his life, much of which was spent in China. His integrity cannot be questioned. He has devoted his years to a study of psychological warfare and has made a specialty of the technique which he calls "brain-washing." This technique is used by the Russians and the Red Chinese as it was used by Hitler to pretermine human responses to propagandistic stimuli. For instance, the current universal slogan, "I'd rather be Red than dead," is a Communist brain-washing tactic. It is repeated in every country and becomes an answer to current political problems.

In his testimony before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, Hunter sought to prove that a powerful anti-Communist movement was being developed. He states his case as follows:

"A quick, Red operation is being attempted, like that of a sleight-of-hand artist, to push this administration, the press, and public into a trap that would eliminate the anti-Communist program in the United States. We should know by now that this is the way Red strategy operates, as it did in the concluding period of World War II."

To prove his case, Edward Hunter has made a study of simultaneous articles and editorials in the non-Communist press which, so far as he is concerned, prove that the Communists have evolved a clever technique in the United States which, as I understand his testimony, seeks to establish that those who are not Communists, spread the Communist line. He cites this as an example:

"One of the most glaring examples of the double standard is the term, racial liberation wars, in the native languages of Asia and Africa, and make no bones about it being a war against the white men, especially the Western white man."

So-called liberals who fall into the trap of equating defense of freedom with racism, following the Red Line, never raise a voice against the obvious racism engaged in by Communism.

Edward Hunter reaches this conclusion as to current Communist activities:

"One date should be kept in mind as a starting point of the new phase in 'psywar,' the new Red anti-Communist drive, to differentiate it from the Red manipulated, covert anti-anti-Communism we had heretofore. Timothy, Guardian of Truth ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Timothy, a Guardian of Truth THE CHARACTER AND WORK OF PAUL'S ADOPTED SON IN THE FAITH—TIMOTHY

Scripture—Acts 16:1-5; 17:14-15; Philippians 2:19-23; I Timothy 1:1-5; II Timothy 1:1-8; 2:1-5, 22.

By N. SPEER JONES WE KNOW practically nothing of the home life of the apostle Paul; there are no references to parents, wife or children. So far as we know, he had no children of his own.

Of Timothy, on the other hand, we know much more than any other New Testament character except the apostles themselves.

Paul had known Timothy's mother and his grandmother. He must have met them a pagan, for he is simply titled "a Greek."

In any event, Timothy's mother and grandmother brought him up in a God-loving home, laying the foundation for his later abilities as a Christian leader.

Paul, returning to Timothy's home town on his second missionary journey, found that the young man's fine qualities had blossomed; moreover, fellow-citizens gave him good reports.

He circumcised him for political reasons, as he realized that the stricter Jews they hoped to convert would have little to do with those who did not adhere to their laws.

Timothy accompanied Paul to Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission.

Missionary Has Eyes On Return To The Arctic

By BRUCE LEVETT URANUM CITY, Saskatchewan (AP)—"Pray me, Father, for I have performed an evil action." The Eskimo knelt in confession and in his own tongue, began the words first set down by the Rev. Jean L'Helgouach.

Father L'Helgouach is an Oblate missionary who has spent three years translating the Roman Catholic Sunday Missal and other prayers and devotions into Eskimo. He used the opening words from the sacrament of confession as an example of the difficulty he faced.

"The English words are 'Bless me, Father, for I have sinned,' but the Eskimo has no word for bless and no word for sin. We used pray for bless and had to combine the Eskimo words for evil and action to denote sin."

The result was 406 pages of hymns and prayers entitled "Angadjujika" which translates literally as "my means of praying." It is used throughout the western Arctic and at many points in the East.

The book was illustrated by the Rev. Jean Coias, another missionary, who framed each picture with the same type crosses and swirls Eskimos use to decorate the hems of their garments.

The Rev. Maurice Metayer, collaborated on the editorial work. "It took two years to put together," Father L'Helgouach said. "It took another year to correct. There were an average of 42 errors to each page and everything had to be done by mail."

The mail came twice a month by boat to Aklavik where most of the work was done. "There was no mail at all for a month each spring and fall," said the priest.

Today, Father L'Helgouach is in charge of the Church of Santa Barbara, named for the patron saints of miners, and for a second time wants to visit the people he knows best and loves.

Father L'Helgouach wants to go home—not to France, but to Paulatuk Mission, Stanton, Tuktoyaktuk and the other places he became a part of inside the Arctic Circle.

"I am still hoping to go back, but as the years go by, the chances are less and less," he says. "They do not usually send an old man up there."

Some of the dunes in Great Sand Dunes National Monument in Colorado rise to 1,000 feet in height. They are the highest and largest in the United States.

Soviet Action Deals Blow To UN Disarmament Hope

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union's decision to resume testing of nuclear weapons has dealt a crippling blow to hopes in the United Nations for East-West progress on disarmament.

But it has given the United States a golden opportunity to win great support among the Asian-African nations — the so-called neutralist group — provided the Americans play it cool. And President Kennedy is giving every indication of doing just that.

That is the consensus among many veteran observers here assessing the impact of the Soviet announcement.

The Asian-African diplomats in general shared the shock and dismay of other diplomats outside the Soviet bloc at the Soviet decision. They have been in the forefront of the long-standing demands for an end to nuclear weapon tests, as well as over-all progress in disarmament. They had hoped along with the others that a test ban treaty would give the world a big push toward a disarmament agreement.

The United States and Britain have already proposed that the U.N. General Assembly opening Sept. 19 take up the urgent need for a treaty to ban nuclear weapons on tests under effective international control.

Last year the assembly approved without a dissent a resolution calling for a test ban treaty and continued suspension of tests. The United States abstained because the resolution did not spell out the significance of effective controls.

The United States now will undoubtedly try to get the assembly to adopt the strongest kind of resolution—one that would criticize the Soviet Union harshly for resuming tests. If the United States can persuade a big number of the Asian-African members to support such a resolution, it would hand the Soviet Union a thumping propaganda blow.

President Kennedy's statement that the United States has sufficient nuclear weapons in its arsenal for defense of the Free World was interpreted here as showing determination not to be stampeded into following the Soviets in resuming tests.

Kennedy's carefully worded message to the Belgrade conference of nonaligned nations was also drawing praise among the neutrals.

The U.S. Congress is now considering administration legislation to set up a permanent U.S. disarmament agency to formulate American disarmament policy and coordinate it with that of America's allies. Congressional approval of the legislation would do a lot to convince the neutrals of U.S. sincerity in pursuing disarmament despite all claims to the contrary from the Soviet Union.

Big Potential Hazard In Strontium Fallout

WASHINGTON (AP)—As the Soviet Union stands poised to resume nuclear testing, the skies are largely clear of radioactive fallout.

But the largest proportion of the fallout's most feared component, radioactive strontium, rests on the earth, still posing a potential hazard to health.

Atomic authorities have the strontium under constant surveillance and report that, so far, there is no evidence that humans have absorbed dangerous quantities.

Here's the present radioactive fallout situation, based on estimates given a reporter by Atomic Energy Commission experts:

Of the 10,000 pounds of radioactive debris loosed in the atmosphere between 1945 and late 1950 more than 95 per cent has by now either been deposited on the earth or decayed while still aloft or on the ground.

Only a relatively small proportion of the material still on the ground is radioactive.

The 10,000 pounds included debris from the two atomic bombs the United States dropped on Japan in 1945 and material loosed in nuclear tests by the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

Experts figure that bombs having explosive power equivalent to about 170 million tons of TNT had been exploded by the end of 1958. At that time the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain announced they were suspending the tests while efforts were made to work out a test ban agreement.

France conducted nuclear tests in the Sahara Desert last year, but the AEC estimates that they contributed only about 0.1 or 0.2 per cent of the total fallout of long-lived fission products.

The debris at any one time in the atmosphere included some 25 different types of fission products. Only two of them, long-lived radioactive strontium-90 and cesium-137, are considered potential hazards to health.

Radioactive strontium has been termed the worst potential hazard because if enough of it gets into the human body, it could cause bone cancer or leukemia.

Automatic Computer For Stock Market Tabulation

NEW YORK (AP)—Complete automation of stock market tabulation to permit greater speed, accuracy and efficiency is planned by The Associated Press.

In place of the present manual operations, the job of collecting and updating quotations from the nation's major financial centers will be done by an electronic computer, tentatively scheduled for installation by December, 1962.

"The computer will operate with more versatility and accuracy than is possible under even the highest standards of present manual operations," said Frank J. Starnel, AP general manager.

"Tabulations of stock changes will be performed as required in microseconds, almost simultaneously with punching tape for transmission. Trading volume many times greater than that of the heaviest days yet experienced can be handled with ease."

The computer was jointly developed by The Associated Press and International Business Machines Corporation.

The computer is the latest step by The Associated Press to apply the newest technological developments to the compilation and transmission of stock tables in a time of expanded newspaper coverage and rising reader interest.

It will be able to "read" information on trading activity in the various exchanges at a 10,000 word a minute pace and permit delivery of end-of-day tables to newspapers almost simultaneously with the close of the ticker.

The development was applauded by Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange and by Edward T. McCormick, president of the American Exchange. The markets they oversee are the nation's largest.

Funston said it was an impressive step toward a "more fully informed investment public," now estimated to include 15 million persons.

McCormick congratulated the AP on a move to better serve its subscribers and their readers.

The Associated Press now serves 97 per cent of the daily newspapers, which, according to New York Stock Exchange surveys, publish complete "big board" tables.

It must be acknowledged that the United States has suffered from the effort to pooh-pooh anti-Communism. That is one reason why we are now sending more troops into Berlin. Rather than ridicule Hunter, it would be wiser to study his testimony carefully.

Thieves Took Cancelled Checks

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Two big canvass bags stuffed with nearly $2 million in cancelled checks were stolen Thursday from a Federal Reserve station wagon parked outside of a branch bank in Baltimore.

Nearly nine hours later the bags were found stacked against garbage cans in an alley 2 1/2 blocks away. The bags had been sliced open, but the non-negotiable checks were still inside.

A spokesman for the Federal Bureau of Investigation said a glass was broken in the station wagon to gain entry and remove the bags. The station wagon was parked at a branch of the Equitable Trust Co.

The checks had been cancelled but had not been cleared from account records. A bank official estimated recovery of the checks undamaged saved $10,000 worth of work that would have been involved in clearing the various accounts.

Superbomb Data

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

How much punch would a 100-megaton bomb pack?

It would unleash the equivalent force of 100 million tons of TNT. It would be 5,000 times more powerful than the U.S. atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima at the end of World War II.

It would pulverize everything—and kill everybody—within an estimated radius of 12 miles of zero, the point of detonation.

Editors Approve Monroe Measures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The handling of racial disturbances in Monroe by state and local law enforcement agencies generally has been approved editorially by North Carolina's newspapers.

The burden of blame for last Sunday's eruption in the Union County city also generally has been placed on the shoulders of Robert F. Williams, Negro integrationist, and a group of northern "Freedom Riders" who arrived there.

"Tar Heel law enforcement officials are to be commended for the way they have handled a dynamite-laden situation," said the Rocky Mount Telegram. "Williams' tactics are not the tactics recommended by native Tar Heel Negro leaders."

Following Williams' indictment on a kidnap charge, the Charlotte News said, "The perverted genius of a Negro zealot... has come at last to full flower in Monroe and Union."

"Racial disturbance in Monroe over the weekend was all so unnecessary," said the Henderson Daily Dispatch. "If left to themselves, the colored and white people in this part of the country get along together in a spirit of good will and understanding."

Other editorial comment:

Asheville Times: "What happened at Monroe shows how explosive the segregation issue can become. Both the assault on and the defense of segregation must be carried on without resort to disorder and violence."

Greenville Reflector: "Officials (state, county and city) should take the possible step to see that the violence... is not repeated."

Shelby Daily Star: "If oddballs are ignored long enough, they always go away."

Greensboro Record: "North Carolina is fully capable of handling relations between the races without the help of outside 'benefactors.'"

Raleigh Times: "The actual truth is that Monroe officials and North Carolina officials are doing a good job... the core of the trouble in Monroe seems to be Robert F. Williams..."

High Point Enterprise: "The festering sore he (Williams) has made of Monroe has broken out to disgrace a community, a state and nation because of irresponsible individual misused the freedom he enjoyed."

Lumberton Robesonian: "Monroe presumably will get a 'black eye'... (but) it is doubtful that many other communities, anywhere, would have put off violence any longer, under similar provocation."

Fayetteville Observer: "Outbreak of racial violence... followed a descent upon that city by 'army' of 75 Northern 'freedom riders.'"

Winston-Salem Journal: "The unreasoning attitude of Mr. Williams... makes it difficult, if not altogether unwise for white public officials to try to work through him for peaceful adjustment..."

Durham Sun: "The ugliest part of the situation is that behind it is a militant Negro leader, Robert F. Williams, who has been encouraging disorder, counseling violence and presumably collecting arms."

Greensboro News: "Racial trouble in Monroe... leads invariably to the doorsteps of the controversial Robert Williams... suspended by his organization (NAACP) for advocating racial violence."

Durham Morning Herald: To Monroe has "come other desegregation advocates, obviously of like mind to the local leader (Williams) in regard to violence."

Charlotte Observer: "Fortunately, the first rule in situations of this kind — the preservation of law and order — was followed."

Raleigh News and Observer: "Regardless of differences of opinions on any and all racial questions... 'passive resistance' or 'non-violent picketing' is one thing and gun-play and kidnaping constitute another."

Asheville Citizen: "Williams is a trouble-maker... (but) Nor is he wholly responsible for the racial tension... Monroe is arrogantly so, 'a white man's town.'"

Planning Survey Shelter Sites

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—A survey of major buildings in all 50 states—the first step in a government program designed to provide fallout protection for 50 million persons—will get underway next month, officials announced Thursday.

Completion of the survey, for which $93 million has been appropriated, is expected by Dec. 31, 1962.

Representatives of the Defense Department outlined the vast program during a joint meeting here of Army Engineers from the Baltimore area and Civil Defense officials from seven states.

The survey of buildings will be limited to those structures capable of accommodating more than 50 persons. Some of them probably won't need modifications and will be marked with signs visible to the public.

Where alterations may be needed, the survey teams will estimate the cost.

The survey to be administered by the Department of Defense will begin here in an industrial area Sept. 5.

Similar training surveys are scheduled to get underway Sept. 5 in Washington for a rural area and at White Plains, N.Y.—for a suburban area.

Federal, state, local and privately owned buildings, and unclassified military installations will be included in the survey. Personnel from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the U.S. Navy Bureau of Yards and Docks will be used to collect the information.

Belafonte's Interest Is In Human Rights

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I'd gladly give up whatever success I have to be part of the human scheme."

That's Harry Belafonte, the Negro folk singer, telling what the Negro in America wants.

"Individual human rights—the God-given dignity of man. That's all we're fighting for."

He says success is meaningless without those rights. If he were to give up success, the sacrifice would be considerable.

His recent Greek theater session here was a record breaker. The announcement of his name brought a one-day advance order of $250,000.

Belafonte says he wants to capitalize on his appeal by making a movie wherein he would travel the world and film natives singing folk music on the spot.

"It could be something on the order of 'Around the World in 80 Days.' At least I would want its primary message to be entertaining like that. But I think it would help to better understand other peoples."

Belafonte is on the governing board of President Kennedy's Peace Corps the only showbusiness personality so named.

"I think the Peace Corps may be the answer. We tried bombs and guns—and failed. Let's try it with people."

Belafonte lauds the State Department's cultural tours, especially in Africa.

"Of course, it's easy for a Belafonte or a Louis Armstrong to get rapport with the African people. I'd like now to have the Africans meet a Fred Astaire or a Gene Kelly. I think it would help for them to meet some of our great white artists."

viet Union does not accept the Western powers' demands for a test ban. We must warn these gentlemen:

No sooner the United States resumes nuclear explosions than the Soviet Union immediately will start testing its nuclear weapons."

But Wednesday Moscow didn't even make the pretense that this country had resumed testing. Instead, the Soviet announcement said: "It is an open secret that the United States is standing on the threshold of carrying out underground nuclear tests."

The evidence that Khrushchev decided to rely on power—and the threat of power—to make the West yield to him on Berlin came on Aug. 9 when he no longer talked of resuming nuclear tests only after the United States did.

On that date he said if prospects for peace did not improve soon he would order Soviet scientists to build a bomb "equal to 100 million tons of TNT." He said Russia would not change its position on Berlin.

Russia has made a farce of negotiations before but never as bloodily as this time. Last week Kennedy sent Arthur H. Dean, American test ban negotiator, back to Geneva to talk once more with his Soviet counterpart, Semyon K. Tsarapkin, about a ban. The Russian told Dean Monday it was useless to talk of a test ban except on Soviet terms. Nevertheless, the two men met again Wednesday.

And while they were talking, or shortly afterwards, Moscow announced it would resume its nuclear tests.

Army Needs 500 Extra Nurses

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army Medical Service said Thursday it critically needs 500 additional nurses because of the recent buildup of the Army.

The medical service said the Army hopes to meet the immediate requirement through volunteer nurses, mainly young women and men who have not yet served in the armed forces.

Senate Rackets Inquiry Is Recessed By McClellan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan has recessed Senate rackets hearings with this observation: "Race information wire services, operated for the benefit of bookmakers, must be put out of business by federal law."

And, the Arkansas Democrat added Thursday his Senate investigations subcommittee "will recommend a law to bring this about soon."

McClellan ran into persistent pleading of the Fifth Amendment's protection as he sought to quiz race wire operators about their business. He said race wires are "the very life blood" of bookmaking, and that hoodlums who run such enterprises cheat the government out of billions of dollars a year in income and wagering taxes.

McClellan recessed the hearings until Sept. 7, when the investigation will focus on the busness of setting betting odds in horse racing, basketball, football, baseball and other sports. The subcommittee already has heard odds can be rigged—and often are—in favor of bookmakers.

Before declaring a recess, McClellan said it was a shame that federal law does not forbid the interstate transportation of crooked gambling equipment. Marked cards, loaded dice, trick mirrors and tiny radios, he said, are used by professional gamblers to fleece their patrons of vast sums every year.

Jerome S. Adlerman, subcommittee counsel, has declined to say whether the next phase of the inquiry will deal with the bribing of athletes to shave points or to throw games.

Owen (Owney) Madden, the old New York mobster, invoked the Fifth Amendment Thursday when the subcommittee sought to learn if he now operates a race wire service in Hot Springs, Ark. Now 68, Madden said he had given up "criminal activities" and retired, but he refused to tell from what he retired. He said that might incriminate him in some way.

Madden also refused to tell whether he still is in the race wire business, and he got a prompt warning from Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., that this didn't mesh well with his sworn avowal of a break with crime. Mundt mentioned perjury laws.

Carlos Marcello, named in testimony as a "sinister rackets boss," failed to show up for questioning about his Nola news wire service in New Orleans.

His lawyer pleaded that Marcello is ill, and got a stinging warning from McClellan that Marcello will be cited for contempt of Congress if he doesn't either come in for quizzing Sept. 7 or produce a sworn medical statement that he is too ill.

Nikita Insures Greater U.S. Defense Spending

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—If Americaners needed any confirmation of the prospects that an increasing percentage of U.S. national output will be channeled into the defense effort, Soviet Premier Khrushchev has now provided it.

The effects of the Soviet speed-up in the arms race will show up here in the stock market, in orders of individual companies and industries, in the output of the suppliers of these industries, in tax returns, and possibly in time in tax rates.

Although the immediate effect will be a speedier production pace, this doesn't at all mean that the ultimate result will be an increase in our national wealth or well-being.

The defense buildup here already is well under way—in government spending plans, in moves to increase the armed forces, and in some order for military hardware. The stock market has reflected this. So has business planning.

Khrushchev's move to resume openly the testing of nuclear weapons, including a much bigger bomb, can only harden the American defense spending trend and most likely will increase the pace.

How much the United States spends on defense can be calculated from federal budget reports. But pinpointing and timing the effects is harder.

Yet businessmen, stock traders, workers, all are trying to, because at stake are sales, profits, stock prices, jobs.

When a company gets a big defense order, that's a concrete thing. You know it means more output, could mean more jobs, should mean higher profits.

Economists, however, will tell you that defense spending is unproductive for the economy in the final analysis. It doesn't produce goods that people can use in raising their standards of living.

Therefore, increasing the percentage of national output that goes into military hardware or services doesn't increase the real wealth of the nation.

This doesn't detract for a minute from the need of defense spending to meet the Soviet menace.

It simply warns against overestimating the real value to the economy of the increased military spending now more than ever in prospect.

The immediate outlook is for still another boost to business activity. The apparent certainty that government spending is much more likely to increase than decrease in the months, and perhaps years ahead, will have its effect on business psychology.

That already was pretty well jelled into expectations of a steady, if gradual, upturn after Labor Day.

The latest heating up of the cold war could change the timetable but scarcely the direction.

Three Weeks Of Practicing Prior To Openers For ACC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Football filled the air today from Maryland to South Carolina as the eight Atlantic Coast Conference squads began pre-season tuneups.

Seven teams will have three weeks to prepare for their openers Sept. 23. North Carolina's Tar Heels will have an additional week before their initial assignment.

North Carolina State, the only school to break the Clemson-Duke-Maryland monopoly on ACC honors in eight previous campaigns, is listed high among the contenders.

When the State Wolfpack won the 1957 title Roman Gabriel was the star quarterback for New Hanover High School at Wilmington, N.C. Now he's a 6-4, 220-pound State senior and owner of the right arm that may move State to the title and earn him national honors. Coach Earle Edwards lists "major defensive problems" as obstacles that must be overcome if the Wolfpack is to live up to its high rating. And Gabriel must stay healthy, too.

Duke has a bumper crop of talented backs, but coach Bill Murray says his team will be no better than the line replacements. The No. 2 line of last year's championship team moved up almost intact to replace the No. 1 unit, but a new second line must be developed if the Blue Devils are to prosper.

Frank Howard starts his 22nd year at Clemson with most of his top 33 players from last year back. Halfback and quarterback jobs were the source of most concern in spring drills and these problems must be solved before the Tigers prowls in their accustomed style. Another veteran squad reported at North Carolina where Jim Hickey has 15 of his top 22 of a year ago back. He's counting on improved halfbacks and a reduction in mistakes to better last year's 3-7 record.

Maryland, which finished last for a 6-4 record last season after four lean years, may be ready to go all the way. Coach Tom Nugent has 27 lettermen, among them Gary Collins, candidate for national end honors, and what he calls one of the finest collections of inferior linemen he ever has coached.

At Wake Forest, Billy Hildebrand is counting on improving tackling, blocking and running to pick up the slack occasioned by the graduation of Norman Sneed, the passing master.

Marvin Bass, new head coach at South Carolina, looks for a "pretty good team," but he adds that the backfield holds the key to the club's chances. He rates his line as good as any in the conference.

Bill Elias, the other new ACC headcoach, has 10 of last year's starters back at Virginia where the Cavaliers have suffered through eight successive losing years and are mired in a 28-game losing streak. He hopes that the enthusiasm and confidence evidenced in spring drills carry over to the campaign.

Farmville And Snow Hill Gridders Clash

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Red Devils will play host to Snow Hill in their first game on the '61 Coastal League season here at 8:00 tonight.

According to the coaches, both squads are green and inexperienced as the new season gets underway. Farmville will be without sophomore guard Albert Moseley who suffered some cracked ribs in a scrimmage Tuesday night. Coach Albert Moye said Moseley would probably be out for several weeks.

This is only the second year of football at Snow Hill since 1954, but the school was consolidated into Greene County Central High School this year which gave Coach James Corbin more to choose from for this year's grid squad.

The Farmville skipper said he has only four boys who are really top notch ball players. The Red Devils lost 11 men at graduation. Moye said he figures his team is at least three touchdowns weaker than at this time last year. "I just don't know what to expect—nothing would surprise me," he added.

Coach Moye plans to make only one change on defense. Rennie Turner will play in place of Billy Martin at left guard.

The Snow Hill skipper said his team looks better than last year's squad. "More than half of the boys are new this year and we still have a lot to learn," he added. Corbin said the late crops made it hard for the boys to get out for practice. "We usually had between 14 and 18 at each session," he said.

The Snow Hill team has 11 veterans back this year with tackle Jackie Harrell and end Larry Taylor being the only two returning starters.

Pat Radford who will probably be the other tackle saw a lot of action last year. Guards Chester Harrison and Thomas Mazingo also played some on last year's team. Jimmy Ward is the returning quarterback.

Corbin was not able to give a complete lineup at the time of his conversation with the Reflector. "The Snow Hill skipper said, 'Farmville beat us 39-0 in last year's contest and I hope it will be closer this year.'" He added, "The boys have a lot of spirit and are working hard, but we still can't overcome that need for experience."

FARMVILLE HALFBACK—Danny Dilda will lead the Red Devils in their attack against Snow Hill. The veteran letterman is an excellent passer and punter.

East Carolina

Grid practice at East Carolina College officially got underway at 10 o'clock this morning with about 55 invited candidates reporting for practice.

However, the freshmen prospects will not be able to attend all practice sessions until the required orientation program is complete.

Thursday afternoon the Pirate veterans were on the field in uniform for photographers. All appeared to be in good condition and seemed eager to get started with the pre-season work.

Coach Jack Boone and his staff plan to spend the first few days of practice on conditioning drills to get the boys used to the workouts.

RIGHT-END—Clem McLawhorn will be reaching for the passes tonight as Ayden and Havelock meet.

Ayden Plays Havelock In Opening Grid Game Tonite

AYDEN — The Tornadoes of Ayden High School will face the Havelock eleven tonight as the Coastal Conference begins the 1961 season in a game here at 8:00.

Ayden, the '60 conference champions, appear to be favored over the visitors from down east. Coach Stuart Tripp attributes the favoritism to the fact that they won the conference last season.

"It is hard to say just what will happen. We are thin and not in the best of shape," Tripp said. "The boys have not attended practice as regularly as they should have," he added.

The Tornadoes lost about 12 members of last year's squad at graduation time. However, there are about 11 veterans back on the team this year.

The Ayden skipper said during the early part of pre-season practice that his main weakness would probably be in the line. This appeared even more a reality when letterman Jackie Collins suffered a shoulder injury during practice several weeks ago. However, he has recovered fast and will be at left tackle when the Tornadoes hit the field tonight. The other tackle position will be filled by Carol McLawnhorn. At guard position Tripp plans to play Robert Cannon on the right and Artie McGlohon on the left. Right end will be taken care of by Clem McLawnhorn while Emmitt Gibson will be on the other end. Joe Tripp is slated for the center spot.

Tripp said Tommy Dunn will handle the quarterbacking with Joe Harrington and Rudolph Cannon taking care of the halfback positions. William Edwards will fill the fullback position as things stand now.

The Ayden skipper said he plans to make some changes on defense. At present he hopes to send in Hubert Jolly in place of Robert Cannon, Duane Gwyn in place of Artie McGlohon and Bud McLawnhorn will go in at quarterback for Tommy Dunn.

Coach Hoyt Hayes of Havelock said his team lacks depth in the line, but the backs are experienced. "The line will take several games to get them together," he stated.

Commenting on the Ayden squad, Hoyt said, "They are strong," but he added "They lack the depth they had last season." The Havelock eleven lost eight lettermen at graduation last year, but five have returned to lead the '61 attack.

The starting lineup for the visitors will be veteran Burt Edwards at center, Bud Ervin at right guard, Tommy Metz or Joe Couch who has been injured at right tackle and junior letterman David Pollard on the right end.

The left side of the line will consist of John Kell at guard, Charlie Hill at tackle and Don Rhodes in the end position.

The Havelock skipper plans to put Dave Warmuch who transferred there this year at quarterback, Billy Tuotte and Jimmy Bischoff will take care of the halfback position and the fullback spot will be filled by junior letterman Tommy Melton.

Conditioning Is Important To FB

CLEVELAND (AP) — Football coaches take note: If you want your players to bear up well physically during the season, give them lots of pre-season conditioning.

That, in essence, was the conclusion — from a coach's point of view — of a report given by a Mayo Clinic physician to the American Congress of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at the group's 39th annual scientific and clinical session here.

Dr. Joseph A. Honet, fellow in physical medicine and rehabilitation, Mayo Foundation, Rochester, Minn., compared the performance of two groups of football players at John Marshall High School in Rochester. Eighteen players participated in five one-half hour workouts a week from late July into the regular season. A group of 15 began the same workouts at the beginning of the regular season early in September.

Carolinas Loop Begins Practice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Eight small college football teams, which make up the new Carolinas Conference, begin pre-season drills today.

The former North State Conference expanded with the addition of Newberry College in South Carolina. The Indians join Appalachian, Catawba, East Carolina, Elon, Guilford, Lenoir Rhyne and Western Carolina in North Carolina as members with football teams.

All football members, as usual, begin drills with a worried look toward Lenoir Rhyne's Bears. Coach Clarence Stasavich's single wing-minded team won its sixth consecutive North State crown last fall and went on to take the small-college NAIA national title.

Lenoir Rhyne has 17 lettermen from last year while Appalachian expects 15, Catawba 18, East Carolina 15, Elon 20, Guilford 14, Newberry 17, and Western Carolina 14.

All eight teams open their schedules on Sept. 16.

Weekend Series Could Help Decide American Loop Flag

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The individual exploits of M & M go to the background tonight as the New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers begin the first of two series that could settle the American League pennant.

As many as 65,000 are expected to jam into Yankee Stadium for the opener of a three-game weekend "state one" showdown that marks the first meeting of the two AL contenders since July 4. The Yanks, in case you haven't noticed in all the furor over Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle in their chase of Babe Ruth's home run record, have a meager 1 1/2 game lead over Detroit. Bob Scheffing's Tigers have refused to be shaken off, despite the Yanks' 3-17 pace and the M & M fence bombardment since the teams last slugged it out head to head nearly two months ago.

They'll meet seven more times during the regular season, the last four at Detroit Sept. 14-15-16. And anything but a 4-3 result of the seven games, could put the heavy winner in control of the 1961 race. "Nobody else seems to be beating them much, so I guess it's up to us," New York manager Ralph Houk said Thursday night as the Yanks returned home after a 13-game Western road trip. "It's the same with us," said Scheffing, "although I think the schedule favors us a bit in September. But it won't do us any good if we can't handle them head to head."

The Tigers, who haven't won a pennant since 1945, will face the Yankees' best in tonight's opener—left-hander Whitey Ford, who has beaten Detroit twice without a loss as part of his 22-3 record this season.

Left-hander Don Mossi (14-3) 0-1 against the Yanks this year, will start for Detroit.
Yankee killer Frank Lary (19-7) who has whipped New York 26 times in 35 lifetime decisions, will pitch the Saturday afternoon game against Ralph Terry (11-2) with Jim Bunning of the Tigers (15-10) opposing Bill Stafford (12-7) in Sunday's windup. Yankee officials estimate that given good weather the series could draw 180,000.

The Tigers, with a 6-5 edge over New York in 11 previous meetings, will be bolstered with the return from the disabled list of rookie third baseman Steve Boros and catcher Dick Brown.
Scheffing said Boros, sidelined with a broken collarbone since July 23, may start tonight if he seems to be swinging all right in batting practice. Brown, out since July 15, with a broken finger on his right hand, is not ready to catch but can pinch hit.

The Tigers also got a boost when first baseman Norm Cash, leading the league with a .365 average, got back into the lineup against Chicago Thursday after missing a game with blurred vision. In Cash, who has rapped 32 home runs and driven in 111 runs, and Rocky Colavito, with 39 homers and 122 rbi, Detroit has a

Wilson Moves To 4 1/2 Games Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wilson shot to a 4 1/2 game lead in the Carolina League Thursday night and virtually assured itself of a clean sweep of both ends of the loop's split schedule.
The Tobs defeated Durham 5-3, while Burlington swept a twin bill from Greensboro 7-2 and 5-3. The action left Burlington and Greensboro tied for second. Winston-Salem edged Raleigh 6-5.

Wilson won behind Gary Dotter's four-hit pitching and Chuck Weatherspoon's power hitting. Weatherspoon belted homers No. 29 and 30 to pace Wilson's eight-hit attack. Dotter struck out four and walked two to register his 14th victory against seven defeats.
Weatherspoon was chosen Carolina League player of the year by 15 of the 26 sportswriters, sportscasters and field managers who took part in a poll. The catcher-outfielder, who hit seven grand slam home runs this season, was winner by a big margin over Durham outfielder Gates Brown, with eight votes.
Burlington used big first innings in both games to provide the muscle to sweep the double-header. The Indians scored six runs in the first frame of the opener and tallied four times in the first inning of the second game.
Winston-Salem scored twice in the ninth to come from behind and edge Raleigh.
Wilson opens a series at Greensboro tonight as Winston-Salem moves to Burlington and Durham to Raleigh.

Mantle Hits 48th

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees hit his 48th home run Thursday and stayed one game ahead of the pace set by Babe Ruth when he hit a record 60 home runs in 1927.
Roger Maris, who has hit 51, failed to connect and now is six games ahead of Ruth's pace.
Mantle also had two other hits, both singles, but the Yankees lost to the Minnesota Twins 5-4.

Wilson Moves To 4 1/2 Games Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wilson shot to a 4 1/2 game lead in the Carolina League Thursday night and virtually assured itself of a clean sweep of both ends of the loop's split schedule.

The Tobs defeated Durham 5-3, while Burlington swept a twin bill from Greensboro 7-2 and 5-3. The action left Burlington and Greensboro tied for second. Winston-Salem edged Raleigh 6-5.

Wilson won behind Gary Dotter's four-hit pitching and Chuck Weatherspoon's power hitting. Weatherspoon belted homers No. 29 and 30 to pace Wilson's eight-hit attack. Dotter struck out four and walked two to register his 14th victory against seven defeats.

Weatherspoon was chosen Carolina League player of the year by 15 of the 26 sportswriters, sportscasters and field managers who took part in a poll. The catcher-outfielder, who hit seven grand slam home runs this season, was winner by a big margin over Durham outfielder Gates Brown, with eight votes.

Burlington used big first innings in both games to provide the muscle to sweep the double-header. The Indians scored six runs in the first frame of the opener and tallied four times in the first inning of the second game.

Winston-Salem scored twice in the ninth to come from behind and edge Raleigh.
Wilson opens a series at Greensboro tonight as Winston-Salem moves to Burlington and Durham to Raleigh.

Tigers And Yanks Open Three Game Showdown

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
This is it. This is where the Detroit Tigers do or don't in the American League pennant race. They open a three-game showdown with New York for first place tonight at Yankee Stadium. Second by 1 1/2 games going in, they must sweep the series to be on top coming out.

And even if they win the three games, which figure to draw 180,000 fans or so to the ballyard in the Bronx, the Tigers still face a four-game series with the Yankees in Detroit in two weeks.
With Yank ace Whitey Ford (22-3) facing Don Mossi (14-3), and New York's M & M pair—Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle —pursuing a home run record as well as World Series cash, the series opening crowd should be somewhere around 65,000.

The Tigers, two games down in the decisive "lost" column, closed within 1 1/2 games of New York by chilling the Chicago White Sox 6-2 Thursday while the Yankees lost 5-4 at Minnesota despite Mantle's 48th home run. The Mick's shot left him one game ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace of 1927.

Cleveland sent Washington to a 13th straight defeat, 2-1, and Kansas City took two from Los Angeles, 17-3 and 6-5. Boston and Baltimore were idle.

In the National League, Milwaukee regained third place with a 2-1 decision over Los Angeles that dropped the second place Dodgers three games behind idle Cincinnati. The Chicago Cubs beat San Francisco 6-1 and St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 2-1.

The Twins finished their season series with New York with their fourth victory in the 18 games and they did it with a five-run third inning. Rookie Roland Sheldon (9-4) was the loser, but it was reliever Jim Coates who gave up the deciding hit, a two-run homer by Jim Lemon. Southpaw Jack Kralick (12-9), won it. Bill Skowron and Hector Lopez socked other Yank homers, bettering by two the AL record of 193 set by New York last season.

Billy Bruton and Norm Cash, the AL's batting leader (.365) who had missed a game because of illness, cracked two-run homers as the Tigers ended Chicago's winning streak at six. It was the 11th victory in 24 games for the Tigers, who scored the winning run off Frank Baumann (9-11) in the second on a single by Mike Roarke, a sacrifice by winning right-hander Paul Foytack (10-8) and a double by Jake Wood.

Willie Kirkland's double won it in the third inning for the Indians, who counted their first two runs in the second on Wood's Heid's homer off loser Bennie Daniels (8-9). Jim (Mudcat) Grant (13-8) was the winner.

The A's took the opener behind Jerry Walker (6-11) with 19 hits, four of them homers and one a grand slam by Wayne Causey off loser Ken McBride (11-11) and two relievers. They won the second in the ninth with pinchhitter Joe Nuxhall sending the tying run home with a double and Wayne Causey the deciding tally with a single.

Grid Practice Begins Across Nation Today

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer
The nation's college football teams, almost oblivious to how the Labor Day weekend will be spent elsewhere, buckle down to two-day drills today in preparation for the season which begins in earnest three weeks from now. A number of new coaches are set to roll out their own teams for the first time, from Iowa's Jerry Burns, given the best chance to lead the 1961 national champions, to Virginia's Bill Ellis, who inherits college football's longest losing string of 28 games.

Along with Iowa are Kansas, Louisiana State, UCLA, Penn State, all picked as the teams to beat for the national title.

Burns welcomed 19 lettermen, including eight starters from last year's Big Ten co-champions as he took over for the retired Forest Evashevski.

Minnesota, the defending national champion who shared the 1960 Big Ten title with the Hawkeyes, lost five lettermen, including All-America guard Tom Brown, and is not expected to be the threat this year.

Kansas Coach Jack Mitchell is faced with the loss of halfback Bert Coan, who broke a leg in spring practice, but is more than consoled with all-around quarterback John Hadl, halfback Curtis McCClinton, and a large, mobile line that makes the Jayhawks the team to beat in the Big Eight.

Louisiana State, whose iron-clad defense led the nation in being least scored upon, is loaded with juniors and will give defending Southwestern Conference champion Mississippi a battle for the top spot.

Penn State with 15 lettermen back, tops the East's independent Quarterback Roman Gabriel led North Carolina State's contingent of 17 lettermen picked to oust defending champion Duke in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Rice has 22 lettermen back and is picked to take the Southwest Conference crown from defender Arkansas, which has been hurt defensively.

UCLA, with tailback Bob Smith ready to step in for the graduated Bill Kilmer, also is show off 24 veterans as it battles for the Big Five title.

Ohio State, still strong in the Big Ten with fullback Bob Ferguson and guard Mike Ingram heading 26 lettermen, begins practice sessions Monday.

Robert's Record Still Stands

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP)—Fire ball Roberts' record four-lap qualifying speed of 128,600 miles an hour still stood up today as the mark to beat, with two days of qualifying remaining for the Southern 500-mile stock car race on Labor Day.

Dave Pearson of Spartanburg, winner of two big stock car races already this year, set his sights on a third when he led Thursday's qualifiers with a speed of 127,783 miles per hour. Pearson, who drives a Pontiac, has won the "World 600" at Charlotte, and the Daytona Beach 500-miler.

Banjo Matthews of Asheville, N.C., followed Pearson with a speed of 127,012 m.p.h. He drove a Ford.

Other qualifiers Thursday:
Buck Baker, Charlotte, 126,339 m.p.h.; Chrysler; Bobby Jones, Miami, Fla., 125,938 m.p.h.; Ford; Bunky Blackburn, Fayetteville, N.C., 125,842 m.p.h.; Ford, Junior Johnson, Wilkesboro, N.C., 125,864 m.p.h.; Pontiac; Rex White, Spartanburg, 124,489 m.p.h.; Chevrolet; Buddy Baker, Charlotte, 124,410 m.p.h.; Chrysler.

A wet track and a wreck by Bill Morgan of Alexandria, Va., during a practice spin may have kept drivers from trying to better Roberts' record.

A Western Historical Novel The BURNWOOD MEN

By ROBERT MCCAIG

CHAPTER 18

Tam Barrie's mind wandered groping through a maze of unrelated facts, touching one lightly, then another. It did not try hard, the answers just beyond its grasp.

Now the floating softness coalesced; with the magic of a kaleidoscope the pattern fell into place. He remembered the fight in the dark, the cold waters of the pond, the futile face of the drowned man. Then the circle of lantern light, Colly Devoe's grave face. And beyond the light, Stephanie Devoe. At that memory he squirmed a little, and opened his eyes.

He found the sky gray with dawn. Raising up in his cocoon of blankets, he felt pain bite sharp along his ribs. A soft hand touched his forehead, gently forcing him back.

"Easy, Tam," came Stephanie's voice. "How do you feel?"

"My back hurts," he told her. "Steve, what happened?"

"Two men, Lisbon Frank and Bryce Flinn, trailed us here. They tried to kill you—they were Cleo Strike's men. The Portuguese cut you with a knife. You lost a lot of blood."

"So that's why I fainted," he said.

In the half-light, the girl's face was harsh and beautiful. "That's why," she said. "Tam, you fight wickedly. You drowned the Portuguese."

Tam knew he should have felt shock. Instead, he felt a surge of grim satisfaction. "He had it coming. What happened to the other?"

"He fired at Papa. Papa shot him dead. Though they were pagan devils, Papa is out now giving them Christian burial. It was not easy getting Lisbon Frank out of the pond." She smiled wanly. "Papa swore a blue streak when he had to wade out into that cold water."

Tam looked at her calm face, marveling at her acceptance of violence, of sudden death. He thought back to those moments of swirling action. Nothing like it had ever happened to him before. He felt pride rise in him—he had been taken by surprise, naked and unarmed, yet he had bested his attacker, killed him.

There had been, he knew, a measure of luck in it. But he had played his hand as it had been dealt to him, and won. What more could any man do, even Cleo and Strike?

I know now, he thought, how Colly felt about Dirty Nose lying dead in the street in Benton. This world will be a hell of a lot better without Lisbon Frank and Flinn. My doings, and on my head be it. He dozed a little.

Stephanie stirred and Tam awoke. He heard her say, "Did you take care of—of them?"

Colly said: "They're safe under the prairie. Not six feet under; that would be too much to ask a man in this gumbo soil. But I added a few rocks to weight 'em down, so the coyotes won't be gnawin' their bones for a while. How's Tam?"

Tam raised up on an elbow, this time finding the pain more bearable. Stephanie gave him a cup filled with brown liquid. He drained it. In a minute or two the pain eased.

Colly hunkered down beside the bed. "Feelin' better, son? Stephanie's by way of bein' a medicine woman. She'll have you on your feet in no time." He fumbled in a vest pocket. "Found ye a souvenir, Tam. Kinda the spoils of victory. I found it on the Portuguese before

I planted him."

Tam took the finely made, vicious little pistol and examined it. "What kind of gun is this?" he asked.

"Double Derringer, forty-one caliber," Colly told him. "Favorite with gamblers, a real hideout gun. Keep it, Tam. It might save your life sometime."

"I don't know if I would have the fortitude to shoot a man," Tam said doubtfully.

"Ruther drown 'em eh?" Colly said, with a chuckle.

The long day and night drifted away. The following morning Stephanie examined Tam's wound vetoed traveling for another day. She told her father: "In the heat of the summer it is so easy for blood poisoning to set in, I'd rather wait. One more day won't hurt anything."

"But tarnation, Stevie," Colly said glumly, "the Metis—no tellin' what them dam' fools is lettin' Cleo Strike talk them into. We ought to be riding for the border."

"Then you go ahead," Stephanie said impishly. "I'll stay here on the Marias with Tam until he can ride again."

"What!" Colly exploded. "Why, girl, you wouldn't have no more reputation than a Benton honky-tonk gal. Are you loony?"

"Why, Papa, you know Tam is a perfect gentleman."

Colly grimaced sourly at Tam. "Mebbe. But he's got more'n branch water in his veins. Which means it ain't safe to leave him alone very long with a pretty Metis like you."

"Once upon a time men broke bread or ate another's salt. Now they fire up a quirkly."

Colly Devoe waved a negligent signal. "Joe Bonheur and Henri Fouclet," he said with a flick of ter cure up quick. Because we ride north in the morning, in spite of hell, high water, or Stevie. There's death down the wind, boy, and fire along the border; I kin smell it."

Tam awoke the following morning refreshed and feeling himself again. He let Stephanie bandage his side, finding most of the soreness gone. The girl used strips of torn linen. It embarrassed him a little to have her working on his bared torso, but she had the competent impersonal air of a doctor.

"Told ye she could cure anything," Colly said, pride in his voice.

Stephanie secured the end of the bandage and stepped back. "I studied all of it I could in school," she said. "I know I can be of real help to my people. Most of all I'd like to be a real doctor, but there is little hope of that. But I think I've made you as good as new, Tam, barring some decorations. Here's your shirt."

The bandage served Tam well during the long day. It was late when they angled up a coulee, with the Three Buttes looming huge to the north. Their trail was well marked, the hoofprints of horses shod and unshod, the ruts of wagon tracks, the wide parallel scrape marks of a travois or two. The coulee narrowed, pinching in on the trail.

With the suddenness of a conjuring trick, two men blocked the trail, their Winchester ready. Colly Devoe called a greeting in the patois and rode toward them. The rifles eased off, and the men exchanged a rapid spate of words with Devoe. It was faster than Tam's present fluency in the Metis tongue could follow. Colly Devoe passed over a sack of tobacco.

"That does it," Stephanie said as the sentries began rolling brown-paper cigarettes.

"A modern pipe of peace," Tam said. "Once upon a time men broke bread or ate another's salt. Now they fire up a quirkly."

Colly Devoe waved a negligent signal. "Joe Bonheur and Henri Fouclet," he said with a flick of the thumb toward the two sentries. "They're down from Batoche to join Pierre LaCroix."

The men smiled greeting. They bowed low to Stephanie.

"Jour, mame'selle, m'sieu," they said.

With a wave of the hand they passed the sentries. Tam was happy that the end of the trip was near, for the pain of his wound was now a continual ache, biting into muscle and bone. It was bearable, but he would be glad to find a place to lie down and rest.

The size of the Metis camp surprised him. Along a creek bottom many tents and wickiups and lodges were strung out. Tam made a quick estimate, guessing that there must be five hundred people camped here. And, he thought, almost that many dogs. Dogs that barked and yelped and bayed around them, spooking the horses, just missing being stepped on time and time again.

"To kill men, better weapons we must have," is the demand the Metis have for Cleo and Strike, de-laying his private war. Continue the story here on Monday.

Mental Test For Jet's Hijacker

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Leon Bearden, 38, accused jetliner hijacker, will be confined to William Beaumont General Hospital here next week for a psychiatric examination requiring from 20 to 30 days.

U.S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomas on Thursday signed commitment papers for the examination. Bearden will be examined by government doctors at William Beaumont. After examination and observation there, he will undergo examination by civilian specialists for defense attorneys.

Bearden and his son, Cody, 16, are being held under $100,000 bond each on charges after they unsuccessfully attempted to hijack a Continental Airlines 707 jet on Aug. 3.

Defense attorneys have filed a motion requesting separate trials for the Beardens.

Neutrals Trying Resolve World Problems

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Nasser told the opening session of the conference of nonaligned nations today that the Soviet decision to resume nuclear tests was a shock and would cause the international situation to deteriorate further.

The other two sponsors of the 24-nation conference, Presidents Tito of Yugoslavia and Sukarno of Indonesia, made no mention of the Soviet nuclear decision in their speeches at the conference's first plenary session.

But Nasser, leader of the United Arab Republic, expressed "deep regret" at the Soviet announcement and said it was "a shock to me and to world public opinion."

"Whatever the reasons were for the Soviet government decision," Nasser said, "its most important and clear significance is grave deterioration in the international situation."

Nasser called Berlin and Germany the "problem of problems" and said a meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev is "imperative . . . at the earliest."

The Arab leader said "saber rattling" must end and an "opportunity be left open for calm negotiations on the highest level."

Tito told the 23 other leaders their meeting would assert their right to participate with the big powers in solving world problems.

The Yugoslav president complained that "there still prevails, as in the past, the practice that only the biggest, the most advanced and militarily the most powerful countries attempt to make decisions involving the fate of the world."

This meeting, Tito said, "illustrates, however, that such outdated practices must be discarded, that nonaligned countries can no longer reconcile themselves with the status of observers and voters and that in their opinion, they have the right to participate in the solving of world problems, particularly those which endanger peace."

Indonesian President Sukarno, a sponsor of the meeting along with Tito and Nasser, called for recognition of both West and East Germany and talks between the two to solve the Berlin problem, reorganization of the United Nations, peaceful coexistence between the Western and Soviet blocs and a new effort to achieve disarmament. He did not refer to the Soviet announcement of plans to resume nuclear weapons tests.

"If the Soviet announcement of plans to resume nuclear weapons tests,"

There May Come Time When Treasures Of Past Are 'Junk'

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—They were two women alone in a big old home that held long memories for both.

As they reached the front door, the daughter, a stout comfortable woman so deep in middle age her face bore no resentment of its turned to the other.

"I know it's hard for you to leave, Mama," she said. "But Jim and I just couldn't stand the thought of you living any longer all by yourself in this old house. We'd never be able to forgive ourselves if anything happened to you."

"You'll be happier with us. Truly you will. Jim loves you as much as he did his own mother."

The white-haired old lady smiled. She reached out a frail, blue-veined hand and patted her daughter's forehead.

"I realize it's for the best. Evelyn," she said. "Why don't you go on out and join Jim in the car? I'd like to take one more last look around just to be sure everything is right."

"That is such a nice young couple that's moving in. I wouldn't want them to find anything not in place."

Her daughter sighed and said: "All right, Mama. I understand. But don't be long. We have a long way to drive."

After she had left, the old lady turned to say goodby alone and in her own way to the home she had entered as a bride nearly 60 years before.

A hint of dusk darkened the soft summer air outdoors. But the old lady made no move to switch on the lights. The feeling of gathering twilight suited her mood.

The old lady wanted to go one by one through every room, but she felt it would be unfair to keep her daughter and son-in-law waiting. But there were three rooms she had to say farewell to.

She paused briefly in the huge, high-ceilinged living room where the family had been warmed by hundreds of long winter evening fires.

Then she went out to the kitchen, where she had as a bride learned to cook on a wood-burning stove, and later bathed the children in bathtubs on the floor.

Still dry-eyed, she rested a moment with one hand on the worn walnut staircase before mounting to her bedroom. She stood silently by a great brightly gleaming brass bedstead, the center of her life.

Here all her six children had been delivered. Here her first-born son, his eyes wide in wonder, had been strangled by diphtheria. Here she had brought her husband his last glass of water and he had died, still holding her hand.

The remembering tears came then into the old lady's eyes. She bent and patted pillows. Then she suddenly knelt and kissed the bedspread.

"Goodby," she whispered.

Outside Jim honked the car horn—not too impatiently.

"You know we were lucky to find a young couple willing to rent a museum like your old home," he told his wife. "But they're fond of antiques and they liked all the pieces except one."

"What was that?" asked Evelyn.

"That old brass bedstead," said Jim.

"What do they plan to do with it?"

"Junk it," said Jim.

The old lady came out the door, carefully locked it, then walked down the front steps like a soldier smiling at a firing squad.

"I'm ready at last," she said. "Let's be on our way. Maybe we can still get home before it's too dark."

Stand-Up Drinks For Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed a bill Thursday that would permit stand-up drinking at Washington bars. But not by serious stand-up drinkers, just by prospective sit-down eaters.

For years, hard-liquor drinks have been served at only tables in Capital eating places. Bars are reserved for beer-and-wine trade and even these customers have to be seated.

The bill would allow customers to down a quick one in a vertical position—but only if the bar is screened from the restaurant's eating area. And the stand-up tippler would not be able to get a good foothold for any serious drinking. Because a sponsor explained: "This bill permits service without prior seating only to waiting customers who are to be seated within a short period of time."

The measure still must be acted on by the Senate.

Women Seeking Air Raid Siren

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Champaign County has no air raid warning siren and a group of housewives don't like that. About 150 of them started a campaign Thursday to collect $20,000 toward a siren.

They blanketed this area, asking $1 donations from other housewives on shopping tours. They understand that if they get the $20,000 the federal government will supply the other half of the cost.

Mrs. Jack Geisler, directing the campaign, said it sprang from President Kennedy's speech urging greater preparedness in the face of international tension.

End Surveillance After 24 Years

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Young Marshal, Chang Hsueh-liang, who kidnaped President Chiang Kai-shek in 1936 and held him prisoner for 12 days, has been freed from 24 years of relentless surveillance.

The Formosa garrison command today confirmed long-standing rumors the Young Marshal, now 62 and gray, had been given his freedom.

The former warlord, who in his heyday ruled Manchuria and north China, now lives at Peitou, a hot springs resort eight miles from Taipei.

UN Is Breaking With Katanga

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, Congo (AP)—The United Nations announced today it is breaking all relations with the Katanga government.

The U.N. representative, Conor Cruise O'Brien, said in a letter to President Moise Tshombe "the United Nations cannot maintain relations with a government which included a minister against whom the most serious charges are pending."

O'Brien referred to latest developments in Katanga as "flagrant breaches of the charter and declaration of human rights."

The United Nations Thursday asked Tshombe to fire Godefroid Munongo, minister of the interior, on the grounds he was under "grave suspicion" of plotting the murder of U.N. personnel and atrocities against Baluba tribesmen. Munongo denied the charges and won the president's support.

The charges came from Andre Cremer, a Belgian, who said he had served in Katanga's gendarmerie and had been given a special mission to kill Michel Tomberlin, a known criminal wanted on theft and forgery charges.

Resistance to U.N. operations has stiffened here in recent days as it became more and more apparent the world body was striving to bring this secessionist province back under the wing of the central government in Leopoldville.

'Salad Days' A Good Season In California

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—These are salad days, at which time it's good to be in California.

This is not mere local pride, but honest realism. I hate to be a continent-dropper (that's a lie: I love it). But having been to the Orient and Europe this year, I can report I still haven't found salads to match California's.

Nor are there comparable salads in eastern America. New York is a limp-lettuce town. I'll duel any New Yorker who challenges that. Watercress at five paces.

The difference is not merely in the fresh-picked lettuce you get in California. The basic element of a salad is the care with which it is made. There is nothing more repugnant to the sensitive saladman than a handful of warm lettuce topped with a mucilage of thousand island.

Lettuce must be cold and crisp. My cook, who makes such a good salad that I married her, has an unpatented method for assuring this. She tears and sprinkles the lettuce an hour early, then chills it in the refrigerator with a paper towel lining the bowl to absorb the water. The dressing, of course is added just before eating.

In California you can get salads in abundant variety. Even a fried salad. This sounds like a misnomer but it's a fact—shredded lettuce, cheese, tomato sauce and Mexican sausage wrapped in a deep-fried tortilla.

Hollywood's restaurants offer a wide assortment of salads. You won't find a better chef's salad than the one at Musso-Frank's, oldest eatery on the boulevard

(est. 1919) and the best.

Musso's combines—romaine, plain lettuce and watercress with thin slices of chicken ham and tomato, chopped egg, shoestring beets and finely chopped parsley. It's served with a special pink French dressing, with or without garlic according to your courage.

The Brown Derby's special is the Cobb salad, named after bossman Bob Cobb. It's great for people too tired to chew, because it's all chopped fine as confetti.

Here are the items that go on the chopping block: 1/4 head lettuce, 1/4 bunch watercress, small bunch chickory, 1/2 head romaine, two medium peeled tomatoes, two boiled breasts of chicken, six strips crisp bacon, an avocado, three hard-boiled eggs, two tablespoons chiev, 1/2 cup grated Roquefort cheese.

Put it all together with an old-fashioned French dressing and you've got a fabulous salad for four.

This column has made me so hungry I'm going out for a salad. Back in two weeks.

SKETER FLY? — The flying ability of mosquitoes became the subject of an argument between the State Housing Division and the Municipal Housing Authority. The state agency said the insects do not fly above the fourth floor, and screens should be placed only on those floors and city housing projects. The same argument arose once before and the city won, screening all the windows in the project.

Disarmament Agency Still Pres. Kennedy's Big Hope

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is reported more anxious than ever for congressional passage of a bill setting up a new U.S. disarmament agency.

Kennedy is said to feel the bill offers a contrast between a U.S. desire for peace and the invitation to an accelerated arms race posed by the Soviet Union's announced plans to resume nuclear weapons tests.

The President's views were reported by a Democratic congressional leader who would not permit use of his name.

While the Senate Foreign Relations Committee arranged another meeting today on the proposed agency, Kennedy scheduled another round of top-level conferences. Secretary of State Dean Rusk was to see the President and while the White House did not list a discussion topic, it was assumed the Berlin and nuclear tests questions would be prominent.

Kennedy also awaited a report from Arthur H. Dean, returning from Geneva where he headed U.S. negotiators at nuclear weapons test ban talks with the Soviet Union and Britain. Kennedy recalled Dean when the Soviets announced plans to test again.

The Democratic leader who reported Kennedy's views also said the Soviet announcement dimmed prospects for disarmament legislation in the waning congressional session.

Some committee members are said to believe approval of the proposed agency, which would coordinate U.S. disarmament policy would be interpreted as a sign of weakness in the face of the new Soviet threat.

A demand for resumption of U.S. testing is on the rise in Congress. A resolution to this effect has been signed by 13 senators and referred to the Senate Armed Services Committee.

There, Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said action would be delayed until next week, when the administration's views will be sought.

In a White House statement Thursday nothing was said about any plans the United States may have to resume testing. Kennedy accused the Kremlin of "atomic blackmail." He also said the United States has a supply of nuclear weapons sufficient for its own and its Allies' defense.

The government, meanwhile, is going ahead with talks with Moscow aimed at setting up a multilateral disarmament conference.

A State Department spokesman said John J. McCloy, Kennedy's disarmament adviser, would meet in New York next Wednesday with Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister.

The spokesman said he knew of no change in the purpose of the talks. Similar sessions between McCloy and Zorin were held this summer both in Washington and Moscow.

Scout Roundup Time Underway

The 1961 Fall Roundup for the Pitt Scout District is underway as the organization seeks new members for Cub packs, Scout troops and Explorer posts.

Definite per-unit goals have been set in the district with awards and recognitions to be made at the close of the membership drive.

Cub, Scout and Explorer leaders have been urged by district and East Carolina Council leaders to promote the fall enrollment campaign.

The awards program includes a neckerchief slide for each Cub, Scout or Explorer who enrolls a recruit. A theater party has been scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 9, for each Cub pack that lists eight recruits by Dec. 1. Scout troops and Explorer posts who pick up eight new members by Nov. 15 will be treated to the East Carolina College-Wofford College football game in Greenville on Saturday night, Nov. 18.

Honor unit Fall Roundup Banners will go to each pack, troop and post that shows by Dec. 1 at least two more members that appeared on their respective rolls last Dec. 31. Leaders of these designated honor units will be presented a brief case.

The district has planned for each scouting unit to conduct its own meeting with the chairman and the institutional representative to lay plans for the Fall Roundup on a unit basis.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—An African tribesman went berserk with a bow and arrows and seriously wounded a European woman and her young daughter.

The African, a member of the Nandi tribe, shot an arrow into the back of Julia Butler, 10, on Thursday night as she picked flowers in the garden of her home at Kapsabet in Western Kenya.

Anne Butler, wife of a Kenya government livestock officer, ran to her daughter and was struck down by an arrow in the stomach. Hospital officials reported both are off the danger list.

Calls Attention To Life Saver

Mrs. Roy R. Smith of Greenville has written a letter to Congressman Herbert C. Bonner requesting recognition for a young Navy man who risked his life to save her husband from drowning at Surf City near Topsail Beach last weekend.

The incident occurred on a private part of the beach where there were no life guards on duty. Smith had apparently been caught in a strong undertow and was swept several hundred feet from shore and was unable to swim back.

He tread water for 10 to 15 minutes before James E. Knopka, stationed at the U.S. Naval Hospital at Camp Lejeune, heard the commotion from a nearby motel. The young Navy man ran 150 feet to the water's edge and swam in his undershorts to Smith's rescue.

Mrs. Smith told the Reflector that there was a crowd of 15 or 20 persons standing around her when she heard her husband yell for help. She said several young men who appeared to be Marines would not help and she started into the water herself just as Knopka arrived.

In her letter to Bonner, Mrs. Smith said she described the young man's heroic act and requested that the congressman try to obtain an award or some kind of recognition for the brave deed. She also stated that "With quick-thinking, clear-headed, courageous men like this (Knopka who is from Illinois) in our armed services, we Americans need not ever feel anxiety."

Mrs. Smith said the incident taught her one thing and that is she would never swim at an unguarded area of the beach again.

Japan To Offer Strong Protest

Sec. Freeman Squeezes The Water Out Of Smoked Hams

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a howl to the consumer, the government today squeezed the water out of smoked hams.

An order by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman applies to smoked pork products that are marketed under federal inspection. The ruling reverses one by Freeman's predecessor, Ezra Taft Benson.

Last December, Benson, secretary of agriculture in the Eisenhower administration, permitted the addition of moisture of up to 10 per cent in these pork products.

Processors who are not under federal inspection already had made the moisture addition under their curing process. Benson said his ruling was designed to put federally inspected processors on a par with the others.

Consumer groups protested and Freeman ordered a series of public hearings throughout the country to measure consumer reaction.

These hearings, Freeman said in today's statement, showed preponderant consumer opposition to the Benson regulation.

Federally inspected processors had urged the regulation be amended to permit addition of moisture provided the products were so labeled. But Freeman said his department didn't have the power to enforce such labeling at retail levels.

The processors who come under federal meat inspection are those who ship from one state to another. Those processors who do business wholly within a state do not come under federal regulation.

Sen. Maurine B. Neuberger, D-Ore., termed Freeman's ruling "a significant victory for the consumer."

An estimated $400 damage resulted to the Broussard vehicle in the Fourth and Elm St. intersection mishap, while damage to the Moore truck was placed at $150.

No charges were made when vehicle operated by Elmo G. Dupree, 46, of 600 Maple St., and Hettie Everett Pollard of 1213 North Pitt Street collided at the intersection of Martin and Pitt Sts. about 4:35 p.m.

Damage to the Dupree auto was set at $85 while damage to the Pollard car was set at $10.

"Ill fares the land to hastening ills a prey; Where wealth accumulates and Men decay."

Whether or not men decay when wealth accumulates is a question. One thing is certain, however, men do decay when debts accumulate. You see them crossing the street to avoid their creditors, they duck down back alleys to keep from facing them. And a friend who becomes an unexpected creditor turns into a stranger.

Mr. Goldsmith, of course, was talking about something else. He worried over the immorality and slothfulness which sometimes accompany wealth piling up.

Most folks don't have that problem. The typical problem today is the result of going into debt out beyond the breakers. At that point, it becomes difficult to swim to shore.

One way to avoid getting into this predicament is to save regularly. Just a little wealth accumulating quietly can prevent decay better than any other method.

You can earn while you save, now. Every day you save adds a day's interest to your savings. You can withdraw your principal and your interest at any time. And any amount you deposit on the 10th of any month earns free interest from the 1st.
