Mercury Capsule Orbits Earth, Brought Down In Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States took a long stride toward manned orbital flight today by rocketing a Mercury space capsule into orbit and recovering it after one sweep around the earth.

Space Administration said the capsule will be returned to Cape Canaveral as soon as possible for study.

The single orbit of the earth had taken one hour and 46 minutes. The capsule was launched from the Cape Canaveral test center at 9:04 a.m. EST.

The capsule is identical to the one a man is expected to ride on a three-turn orbit in a few months.

Reverse rockets were set off as the space traveler sped over the Mexican west coast, to slow it for a descent into the Atlantic east of Bermuda.

The flawless performance of the Atlas and spacecraft were reported by the Mercury control center from the instant of launch.

The shot could start this nation on the long road to overtake the Soviet Union's lead in the space race.

Space Administration said the main goals of today's flight were: 1. To place the capsule in orbit and bring it back to earth in a preplanned area, all automatically.

Solicitor Rouse Is DAR Speaker

FARMVILLE—The Major Benjamin May Chapter, DAR, held its initial fall meeting Saturday at the Chapter House with Mrs. W. Leroy Bass, Mrs. Joseph Batchelor and Mrs. Herbert E. Hart as hostesses.

The regent, Miss Elizabeth Lang, presided and led in the Pledge of Allegiance, the American's Creed and "The Star Spangled Banner." The meditation, given by the chaplain, Mrs. G. Alex Rouse, was based on Psalm 56:3, "Nevertheless, though I am sometimes afraid, yet will I put my trust in Thee," and stressed the fact that today's tensions can promote spiritual growth.

In observance of Constitution Week, the yearbook had a specified subject in the form of a question, "Does the Constitution Really Make Secure Our Rights?" which was developed and answered in a talk by Solicitor R. D. Rouse Jr. As an introduction, the solicitor paid tribute to the Daughters for their purpose in organizing and subsequent efforts to uphold the Constitution. Launching into his subject by describing conditions following the War for Independence, when the governing power, vested in the Articles of Confederation, was deemed inadequate to meet the needs of the new nation, the speaker gave an account of the summons by Congress of the States for the purpose of revising these Articles.

He told of the Constitutional Convention held in Philadelphia May 1787; paid tribute to the able delegates and told of their alterations and contributions to the framework of the Constitution; the famous doctrine of the separation of powers; the division of authority in a Congress which called for an executive and a judicial branch of government—"a framework" which, he pointed out, "was designed to preserve unto the people all possible liberties, and which with its subsequent amendments—the Bill of Rights has, for nearly 200 years, formed the basis for a government of a people presently numbering around two hundred million, and survived the War Between the States and the great World Wars."

In direct answer to the question of whether the Constitution all secures the rights of the people, Solicitor Rouse listed the guaranteed freedoms and amendments, their interpretation and application "to meet the needs of a growing dynamic society of people," and cited liberties being preserved daily, in the courts, and told of the functions of the Supreme Court.

He concluded with the time-honored statement of Franklin, made as the last members of the Convention were signing the instrument, regarding a sun painted

Cinnamon Rolls For Snacktime

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If the snacktime addicts around your house enjoy homebaked cinnamon rolls with their coffee, tea or milk, the chances are they'll go for this new version of the venerable yeast-raisin bun.

The good butter, sugar, cinnamon and raisins in the filling of these new cinnamon rolls have fresh pears added, and the recipe fills two 9-inch layer-cake pans. When we tried the recipe in my kitchen, one batch got eaten speedily. The other batch went into our freezer; it's comforting to know it's there all ready to take out some Sunday when guests are coming to brunch. We like the rolls warm; if you agree, reheat them.

CINNAMON PEAR ROLLS
¾ cup very warm (105 to 115 degrees) water
1 package active dry yeast
¾ cup milk (scalded and cooled to lukewarm)

¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg (slightly beaten)
¾ cup butter or margarine (soft)
¾ cups flour
2 large firm Bartlett pears
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ cup raisins (rinsed in hot water and drained)

In a mixing bowl, stir together water and yeast until yeast is dissolved. Stir in milk; ¾ cup of the sugar, salt, egg, ¼ cup of the butter and about half the flour. Beat vigorously until dough is smooth. Add remaining flour and work with hands to make a firm but not stiff dough. If necessary, add a little more flour. Turn out on floured board and knead until smooth. Place in a bowl; cover with a damp cloth; let rise in a warm (80 to 85 degrees) until double in bulk — about 1½ hours. Roll into an 18 by 12 inch rectangle; spread with the remaining ½ cup butter. Core pears; grate coarsely; mix with remaining ½ cup sugar, cinnamon and raisins; spoon over butter-spread dough; roll up as for a jelly roll. Cut into 18 1-inch slices and arrange in two greased round cake pans (each 9 by 1¼ inches). Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven 25 to 30 minutes or until golden-brown. Turn out and serve warm with butter.

SURPRISE FILLING: Fresh Bartlett pears give delicate, delicious flavor to the butter, sugar and spice mixture used to fill these cinnamon rolls.

Teeth Rings Are Clues To Prenatal Injuries

By ANN LERNER

CHICAGO—(WNS)—Dr. Maury Massler, chief of pedodontics at the University of Illinois College of Dentistry, reports that any disturbance in a child's prenatal development is registered in rings on the enamel of his teeth.

Furthermore, he wrote in the New York State Medical Journal, analysis of rings in baby teeth can date the time of a prenatal injury to within one week.

"This study shows quite clearly that children suffering from spastic disorders had a severe injury at the time of birth," Dr. Massler said.

"However, atretoid children with ketosterus (a jaundice resulting from an Rh incompatibility in the red blood cells which causes them to rupture and liberate products injuring the brain) show a distinct disturbance to the brain at about the fifth month of pregnancy."

The nature of this disturbance is not clear, but the point of its malfunction can be determined and isolated to within one week of the occurrence, Dr. Massler said. The disturbance, he added, is "an acute one."

Microscopic analysis of the enamel formed during pregnancy is now underway in an effort to determine the nature of the disturbance.

If a child's development during pregnancy is normal, the enamel and dentin formed are well-calcified and show no rings. But if the prenatal development is disturbed in some way, a birth ring will be present reflecting each disturbance. The project also suggests that mongolism may have a metabolic basis, beginning at the seventh month of pregnancy, Dr. Massler said. Mongoloid children have no tooth decay, but a brown pigment is deposited in the teeth before birth and on the teeth after birth. The source of his pigment is a medical mystery.

Also, the gums and bone of mongoloid children become prey to disease and infection at about the age of six. The teeth generally become loose and fall out before adolescence.

Dr. Massler now plans to study the teeth of epileptic children "to determine whether there is any evidence of an injury or defect during pregnancy." Associated with Dr. Massler in his study of tooth rings was Dr. Montague A. Young of London, England, research assistant.

Home Ec. Class Has Field Trip

The second year home economics classes of J. H. Rose High School visited two newly constructed homes yesterday as a phase of their study in housing.

Mr. John A. Messick, local realtor, accompanied the students, answering their questions and pointing to the various ideas that might be used in planning and building a home.

The classes taught by Mrs. Mary Alice Hendrix have been studying the basic principles of planning a home for convenience, attractiveness and livability.

This field trip offered an opportunity to observe and evaluate homes using the principles learned in classes.

Collars and Cuffs of Wash-Wear Clothes Need Pre-Treating

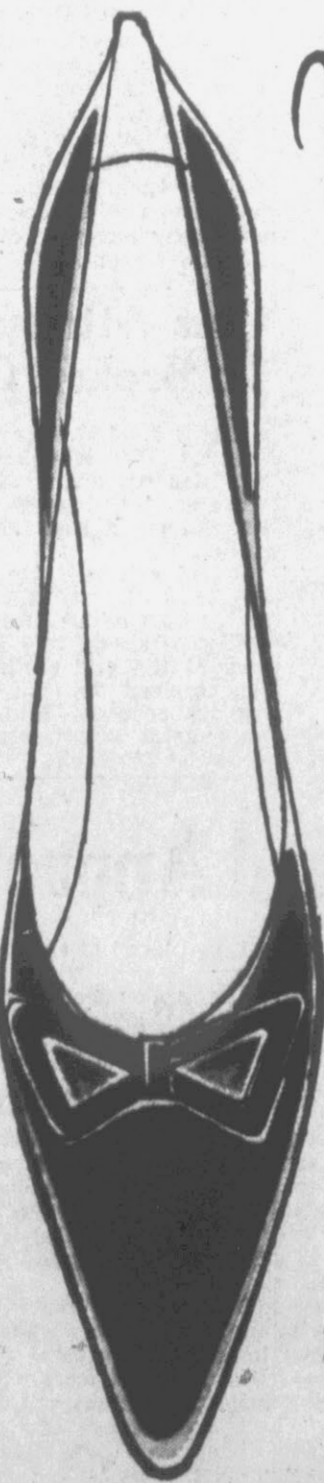

The home economist for a leading producer of synthetic fibers reports that once built up, soil lines are impossible to remove from the collar and cuffs of wash-wear garments.

So pre-treat these areas with dense soap or detergent suds before each laundering. This removes all-tale streaks before soil has a chance to become entrenched in the fabric.

Legs will be in the fashion limelight when knee-length skirts take over on campuses this fall. Can you bare yours? Do your knees, calves and ankles shape up? If they don't measure up to the beauty yardstick, tackle the problem with gusto now. Fat legs can be reduced by general diet and exercise. Skinny legs can be developed through a weight gaining program.

But the most difficult-to-correct legs faults are those caused by the wrong stance. Here are some ways to treat these:

WENDY WADDLER walks with her toes fanning out like 10 minutes past 10. If you walk that way, too, you can correct the situation this way.

Stand barefooted on a hard surfaced floor, keeping feet close together. Then point your toes outward as far as you can without moving your heels. Pull toes of your feet towards each other slowly as you put weight from heels to balls of your feet. Take 10 steps with feet straight ahead, weight forward. Do the exercise 10 times, and work up to 30.

POLLY PIGEON stands as if she were 25 past 7 on the clock. If you do, too, correct it by standing with heels about 6 inches apart. Slowly pull the heels together without raising them, putting as much pull and strain on your feet as possible.

BECKY BOWLEGS worsens the situation by standing with knees pushed back which causes the knees to turn in slightly.

Knees should be kept slightly bent with feet together. If bow-legs are your trouble, flex the

Adjustments To Age Are Never The Same

By HENRIETTE KISH

NEW YORK—(WNS)—How often have you heard someone say deprecatingly, "All older people are like that?"

This implies that after the age of Social Security, everybody takes on the same faults and weaknesses.

But the 65th birthday, or even the 90th, doesn't turn individuals into stereotypes. People remain pretty much what they always have been, or they revert to what they always wanted to be but couldn't.

A woman complained to her doctor that her mother, recently widowed was the cause of sleepless nights and tension-filled days. "Something always comes up to change the status quo for her. The children are getting older and prefer to be with their friends on weekends instead of going to Grandma's for dinner. I can't make her understand this happens in all growing families and that it's unfortunate it comes at a time when she is suddenly alone."

"One of her closest friends moved away recently. Another's husband retired and they went to live with a married child."

"Through nobody's fault, my mother's life is changing. At her age, it may be hard to find substitutes, but she doesn't try. No one else, not even I who am the closest to her, can do that for her."

But I guess all older people are like that," she added.

The doctor smiled. "That's the time-worn cliché about oldsters. You would be surprised how many are not like that. Your mother is an individual who just happens to be one extreme. At the other extreme is a 77-year-old patient of mine I wish she could meet. She fits in and out of the city between trips to Europe, Alaska, Hawaii and the other 48 states.

"When she became a widow eight years ago, she decided she had had enough of the status quo. For 50 years she had kept house, cooked, looked after children and then grandchildren. She quickly sold her house, distributed the furnishings among the family, and started out on her first long trip. On a modest income she has been traveling ever since by planes, boats, trains and buses. She hasn't a permanent room anywhere, or a stick of furniture she can call her own.

"Nothing would appall her more now than to have the family over for Sunday dinner week after week. Or to visit her sons and daugh-

Dog's Lick Has No Antiseptic Powers

A doctor of veterinary medicine advises washing skin thoroughly with plenty of soap after being licked by a dog.

Contrary to popular belief, a dog's tongue does not have antiseptic powers. It simply removes dirt when he cleans himself, but does not kill germs and bacteria which can be hazardous when passed along to people—particularly if the skin is scratched or cut.

Powell Bill Importance Is Growing

During the 11 years since Powell Bill funds have been distributed among municipalities of North Carolina, this source of revenue has become increasingly important in operations of cities and towns.

This year the $132,486 which has been distributed among the nine municipalities of Pitt County represents a new high in their receipts from the funds. It means that the municipalities, as has been the case since the Powell Bill funds became available, will be able to carry out a more comprehensive street improvement and maintenance program than in the past.

This windfall of revenue to the municipalities of the state has in recent years been an important factor in helping cities and towns over the hump of an increasingly difficult financial squeeze in which they have found themselves. In the case of Greenville, for example, the $80,000 it will receive from the state fund this year represents slightly more than 8.5 per cent of the total city operating budget of $940,000.

On the basis of approximately $3,170 in revenue realized by the city for each cent of its tax rate, the $80,000 coming to the city from the Powell Bill distribution is equivalent to the revenue which would be realized from a city tax increase of approximately 25 cents.

Concerned Over Coast Resources

By LYNN NISBET

BONNER—Rep. Herbert Bonner of the first district left Raleigh Saturday afternoon for Washington. "But it's the wrong Washington," said the congressman. "I want to go home to Washington, N.C., but I've gotta get back to that place on the Potomac river. I've got a lot of work to do before the Congress adjourns."

Target date for adjournment is September 23, Saturday of next week. He thinks they can make it—but it will require a lot of night sessions and intense committee activity. Although he is interested in all the general problems before Congress—national defense, foreign aid, aid to education, and all the others—his immediate interest is with matters coming within the purview of his committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries. He has been chairman of that committee for a number of years and he doesn't hesitate to say he is concerned about some of the things that are happening to marine natural resources.

Legislation which he sponsored permitting line ships flying the U.S. flag to divert from schedules in slack season and pick up passengers at offshore ports has helped the cruise business. Special cruises do a lot to build up regular line business for ports like Morehead City and Wilmington. Bonner said he expects to continue efforts in promotion of this type service.

RESOURCE—What disturbs the first district congressman more than anything else is the ruthless and thoughtless exploitation of the natural marine food resources along the coast, especially in Pamlico Sound. "This is the largest body of uncontaminated water along the eastern seaboard," he said. "In too many instances state laws permit the kind of fishing and dragging that can have no result except to destroy a great natural resource."

SEED—Whether you are dealing with trees or corn plants, cattle or hogs, or people—he said, you must save some seed. One of the most severe indictments that could be brought against people in olden times was that they had eaten the seed corn.

Many of the state laws regulating fishing in coastal waters and shooting wildfowl in the area are written to provide the greatest possible immediate satisfaction or profit to operators, without regard to preserving seed stock for the future.

BIG FOLKS—If the anticipated schedules are maintained North Carolina will entertain a lot of "big folks" during the next four or five weeks. First appearance will be Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman at the Fairgrounds Friday, September 15, the occasion being the annual joint meeting of the Farmers Cooperative Exchange and the N.C. Cotton Growers Cooperative Association. It is expected more than 5,000 people will attend this meeting.

Next in line is the anticipated visit of Volt Gilmore, head of the newly established U.S. Travel Service, who will speak at the joint meeting of the Board of Conservation and Development and the Travel Council of North Carolina at Winston-Salem on October 1. President Kennedy has tentatively accepted an invitation to speak at Chapel Hill and Charlotte around October 12. Governor Sanford is presently in Mexico to invite resident Mexicans to come to North Carolina and speak at the State Fair during the week of October 16.

WHAT'S IT WORTH—Dr. John T. Dees of Burgaw, a member of the Board of Conservation and Development, is interested in obtaining as accurate estimate as possible on the economic value of sports fishing along the North Carolina coast. Any figure decided upon will of necessity be an estimate, without possibility of complete verification. Also, any reasonable estimate will run into the multiple millions of dollars.

There are fairly reliable statistics on the value of the commercial fishing operations along the coast, although these figures do not include a great many incidentals of expense—and indirect profit. The profit from sports fishing is largely intangible. It consists of pleasure rather than money. The commercial fishermen invest money and effort in a business with the expectation of profit comparable to what he might expect from manufacturing or merchandising. The sports fishermen invest money and effort with expectation of profits (?) comparable to what he would get from similar investments on a hunting trip or a golf course.

Main point here is that regardless of how the investor takes his "profits" the total spending by the sports fisherman is considerably more than that by the commercial fisherman.

The main difference is that the commercial fisherman operates in a small fixed area. The sports fisherman rambles all over, spends many dollars for travel and lodging and means always looking for that one big catch (like the golfer cherished hope of a hole in one) and so contributes more to the total state economy.

Revenue from Powell Bill funds has enabled cities and towns of the state to put considerably more into their street improvement programs each year than otherwise would be the case. There are few cities indeed which would have been able to increase their local tax rates sufficiently to provide an amount of revenue for street work equal to that they receive from the distribution of these state funds.

The Powell Bill funds have not only become an important part of every municipal budget in North Carolina, they have also become the means for an unprecedented program of street improvement in municipalities throughout the state.

Even To Tar Heels, It Is Hard To Imagine

Even for North Carolinians who have witnessed the wrath of many hurricanes in recent years, it is difficult to imagine the devastation across Texas in the wake of Hurricane Carla. The damage will soar well into the hundreds of millions of dollars as people return to their homes to dig out, pick up the pieces and try to start life over again as it was before Monday.

The evacuation of hundreds of people from low-lying areas along the Gulf Coast in the area of the huge storm must be credited for the extremely low loss of life that accompanied the blow. Had it not been for the diligent work of officials and a well organized civil defense operation the death toll could have been staggering. Just a few years ago the dead were counted in the hundreds as a hurricane slammed into Louisiana coast.

Had it not been for the preparedness taken in the affected areas in the path of Carla, the toll could have been many times higher this week.

Emergencies such as the one brought about by Carla's approach to the Texas coast show the value of effective civil defense organizations. Even in the absence of a nuclear attack—which all hope will never come—there are many instances in which well organized civil defense operations can pay for themselves many times over in preventing loss of life in emergencies brought about by natural causes.

Communities which take their civil defense preparedness seriously will find it stands them in good stead should disaster come.

Khrushchev Has Stalin's Goals

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's an inexpensive, but not brainy, comfort to think that the pudgy man who talks peaceful coexistence is really a good guy being pushed by Kremlin tough guys into talking war and super-bombs.

Nothing in the record bears out that notion which, from time to time, is floated like a dreary balloon to console the sudden and savage switches which occur in Premier Khrushchev.

He didn't become leader of the Communist pack by being a soft touch anytime for anybody. He had to claw his way to the top in a league whose philosophy is based on power and not on persuasion.

The world was shocked when Khrushchev suddenly ended the East-West agreement to forego nuclear tests. It didn't need to be. Khrushchev had carefully laid the groundwork for just such a switch.

The only missing element in his decision was why he did it when he did.

Nor should his toughness on Berlin now be a surprise. He said three years ago he wanted the Allies out of Berlin and it had to be done. He said there would have to be a showdown this year and he's trying to make good on his threat.

Stalin looked tougher than Khrushchev. He was behind the Berlin blockade of 1948, the Communist guerrilla warfare in Greece, the pressure on Turkey, the seizure of Czechoslovakia, and, no doubt, the Korean War. Stalin wasn't tougher, just more reckless. By the time Khrushchev took over, the United States and Russia both had the hydrogen bomb. So he had to be more careful.

But the two men's goal were the same—world domination. The only difference is tactics. A good example of why Khrushchev isn't being pressured by Kreminites more belligerent than himself is in the nuclear test suspensions.

When President Eisenhower in 1958 suspended American nuclear testing, there were some who thought the United States should not stop. You can be sure there was a difference of opinion in Russia when Khrushchev said he was suspending his tests the same year, too.

In January 1960, Khrushchev said Russia would not resume the tests unless the "Western powers resume them." In Khrushchev's mind the Western powers, as it turned out, included France which was then preparing to test.

A little more than a month later—on Feb. 13, 1960—France had its first atomic test in the Sahara. Immediately the Russian news agency, Tass, laid down what was to become the Soviet excuse for resuming its own tests.

"If nuclear explosions should continue, the Soviet government will, naturally, not be able to overlook it and fail to draw the proper conclusions for its own security," Tass said.

The Associated Press reported last May 15 that the American and British representatives, then negotiating with the Russians in Geneva on a permanent test ban, "were not greatly impressed by the threat of resumed Soviet testing."

But Khrushchev meant business, as he proved. Just as some of President Kennedy's advisers thought the United States should resume testing in the atmosphere, it can be taken for granted some of Khrushchev's advisers thought Russia should.

This record doesn't indicate that Kreminites ganged up on Khrushchev to make him change his mind about suspending atmospheric tests. The only question is why did he do it when he did, during the Berlin crisis.

A good guess is that he decided it was good strategy to show the West he meant business on Berlin and, if possible, terrorize the Allies into yielding to him.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THAT PRECIOUS POSSESSION
Jesus said to his disciples on one occasion: "Woe unto you when all men speak well of you, for so did their fathers of the false prophets."

This is a hard saying. All of us like to have people speak well of us. If we know that we are bitterly criticized by some and at least mildly criticized by many, it gives us an uncomfortable feeling. We look at the people around us with personal charm and wonder why we cannot be the same and have the same.

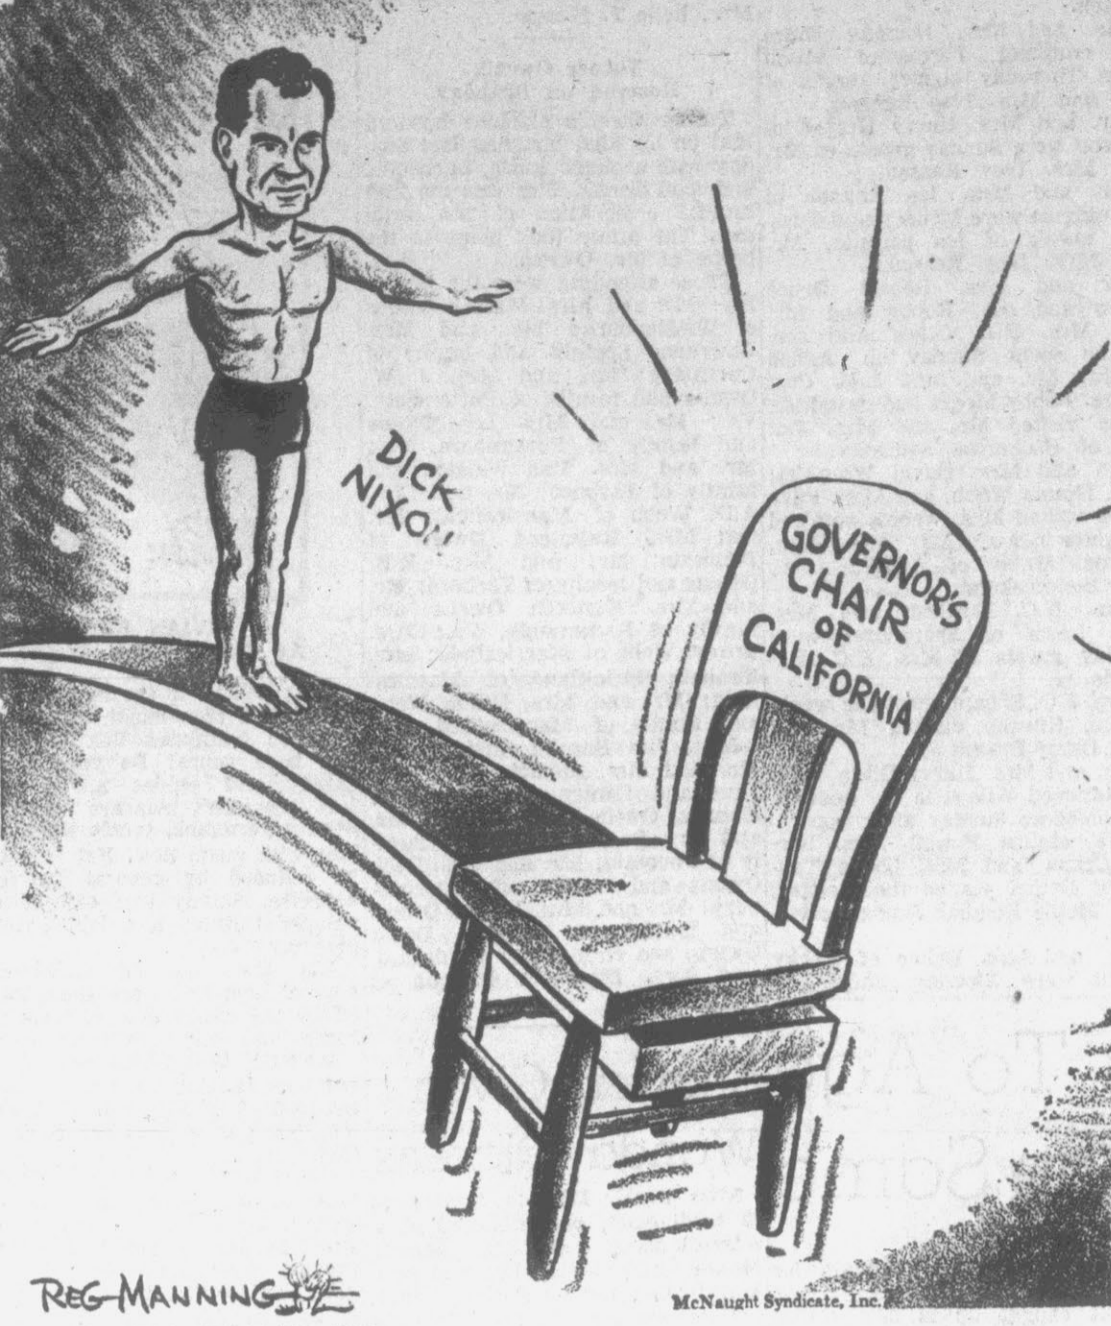

If people are critical of us we should never get the idea into our minds it is simply because we are right and they are wrong, we are wise and they are ignorant. It may be that we really do not deserve popularity. Our selfishness may show through too plainly for people to become enthusiastic about us. We may be conceited. We may be a bit lofty in our manner and look down upon others. If so, people will dislike us with cause.

But there is such a thing as being criticized—perhaps disliked—because one takes a stand for what is right. If the issue becomes as plain as that, do not hesitate where to take your stand. Popularity with men will mean nothing if this means unpopularity with God.

Remember that a clear conscience is the most precious possession you can ever have. If the cost involves taking sides or standing out even as a minority of one—do not hesitate.

Rescue squadmen were called to the college campus the other night. They transported a coed with a wrenched knee to the hospital.

"How'd you do it," the physician treating her asked.
"I was doing the twist," the girl replied.
"Hmmm," said the doc. "I thought that involved the hips."

In south Pitt County North Carolina's tallest structure is slowly pushing toward the skies. It is the 1,523 foot tower which television station WITN is constructing to put its antenna high into the air.

A progress report on the tower, being constructed at the station's transmitter near Grifton, says that foundations have been completed and the tower is now rising—30-foot sections at a time.

The Indians Have Rights

(Henderson Dispatch)
A Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights is headed by Senator Ervin. The committee recently concluded four days of hearings on "the constitutional rights of the American Indian." It is the first time a congressional committee has given such attention to the plight of these original settlers of the United States.

Testimony given produced information from the Bureau of Indian Affairs that 360,000 Indians are living on reservations and 190,000 off reservations, and an assistant secretary in the Interior Department said more adequate measures should be taken to protect civil liberties of these people. That could be rated among the under-statements of the year. Senator Ervin says that "out of the hearings may come a new awakening on the part of Congress and the people on the need for protecting the basic rights and liberties of the Indians. It is certainly long overdue."

The Indian is entitled to vote and to all other rights and privileges of the American citizen. He is the forgotten man of the twentieth century. It can be hoped that hearings by the Ervin committee will shock Congress and the government as a whole into a realization of the obligation owed to these people. They are fully as competent of citizenship as many who now possess the right, some of whom even abuse it. Congress cannot be in too big a hurry to right the wrong to this small minority of inhabitants whose ancestors populated what is today the United States.

There is no justice in such an attitude on the part of the government. The people of the country do not know all the details of the status of the Indian. They are not concerned and are content to leave everything to the Great White Father in Washington. And he—meaning the perpetuation of authority—takes things for granted. The fact is that Senator Ervin's committee has for the first time on record held hearings as to the status and the rights of this minority of the people.

Eighteen giant cables three and a half miles in length and weighing 130,000 pounds will stabilize the big tower. The four-ton antenna on top cost $30,000 and there is to be a 50 KW transmitter installed.

Station officials have said that space has been provided at the Grifton site so that spectators may park and watch the giant tower go up.

Miss North Carolina's taking of the Miss America title Saturday brought fond recollections of 1958 to practically every citizen of Pitt County and surrounding area.

For it was that year that Betty Lane Evans, Greenville's representative, went on to become one of the five finalists in the Miss America Pageant.

There was hardly a television set in this part of the country which wasn't tuned in to the big pageant from Atlantic City that year. And local folks were thrilled when their favorite was named as one of the top five finalists.

Betty Lane placed fifth when the order of the finalists were announced. But she had done Pitt County proud. The thrill of seeing a home town girl come that close is one that is seldom known to a community.

Nikita Needs A Parley

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The question must arise in the minds of Russians as well as Americans and others: what does Khrushchev think that he is proving? He blows off bombs; we can blow off bombs. What has been accomplished? What difference does it really make?

The guess is probably that Khrushchev needs another meeting with President Kennedy. He needs it not to solve any world problems, but to establish that Kennedy will come to him to plead with him not to explode more bombs. He needs that to strengthen his own position in the Communist world, particularly vis-a-vis Red China which desires war—a war against the United States to be fought not by Red China but by Soviet Russia.

Why should President Kennedy meet with Khrushchev? He met with him at Vienna and it was utterly unsatisfactory. Since the Vienna meeting, Khrushchev has gone out of his way to weaken Kennedy's position in the world and even in the United States if Kennedy accepted the advice of the so-called neutral nations and he met with Khrushchev?

There would not be a single advantage, Kennedy would come out of such a meeting much weaker than when he went into it. The United States would be in a weaker position than it is today. Why do we give in? Why are we the ones to make the concessions? How many more concessions can we afford to make?

President Kennedy has organized his foreign relations staff so that there must be a conflict of view. Already it is obvious that the Secretary of State, Dean Rusk and the United States Secretary, Chester Bowles, do not always agree. Such disagreements should not exist. The responsibility for the formulation of the foreign policy rests with the President of the United States; the responsibility for the conduct of the foreign policy rests with the Secretary of State. When there are half a dozen or so personalities, of considerable public appeal, functioning as advisers to the President, some of them travelling about the world, discussing serious problems with various heads of state, there is the probability of confusion. How can a President protect himself from his associates when he extends to them authority for which only he is responsible?

It is obviously not necessary for Khrushchev to fire bomb after bomb to raise his stock. This is being done to frighten the United States, Great Britain and France. What is there to fear? If Khrushchev wants to make war, then we shall have to fight it out and large numbers of us and of them will be killed. If he thinks that by frightening us, we shall concede whatever he wants us to concede, then all we need to do is to make no concessions. If he believes that the so-called neutrals will become his satellites because he fires more bombs than we do, then when the time comes, the neutrals may discover that we can blow one of them up to prove that anyone can blow anyone up.

Khrushchev's error is that he assumes that we are a demoralized, degenerate people, who are so wedded to luxurious living that we would rather be Red than dead. But suppose it is just the opposite? Suppose it is established that we would really prefer to be dead than Red? Americans are now having such stickers printed which they glue onto the bumpers of their automobiles.

The Khrushchevs, the Japanese and others have made that mistake about Americans. We are not readily frightened, and whereas just before a war, we seem to be a nation of pacifists, fearing shot and shell, the day the fight starts, the entire nation becomes mobilized and submits to whatever hardships are necessary. If Khrushchev wants to test that, all he needs to do is to try it.

From an historic point of view, it would be sound for the Russians to pursue a course directly opposite to what they are doing. Their immediate necessity is peace. It is true that the Chinese Communists are driving them to war, but that is to the advantage of the Chinese not the Russians. Therefore Khrushchev would be smart if he depended upon the United States, Great Britain, France and West Germany to help him consolidate his own country. He will not succeed in doing this by scaring anybody.

How Your Tax Document Falls

By ELMER ROESSNER
Longfellow shot an arrow into the air and it fell to earth he knew not where. But if you shoot a tax document into the mails, you had jolly well better know where it falls, Prentice-Hall warns.

The tax service notes that "the rules on mailing are so diverse and hard to get at that even tax experts seldom keep them in mind. So we've put the most important together all in one place. Keep this basic distinction in mind: some documents are officially 'filed' on the day that the District Director receives them. . . . But other documents are officially 'filed' the day you mail them. . . . assuming they are not lost in the mails."

Here is the list of documents filed when received:
Income, gift, estate, ex-

date you file and the exact date you pay. Among other things, you could invite disaster with an untimely election, owe interest on late payment, run into penalties for late filing, and lose out on a refund or an opportunity for a Tax Court hearing." Prentice-Hall points out.

"Joe Smith's income tax return is due April 15. He mails it on April 14, with a check. In the return, he makes an election and uses the installment method to spread out his profit on a big sale of land. The envelope arrives at the District Director's office on April 18.

"Result? The return is three days late. Joe is liable for interest and could be liable for a five percent "delinquency" penalty. But, surprise, the election is OK and he doesn't lose his right to installment method reporting.

Declarations of estimated tax.
Partnership and corporate returns.
Information returns.
Applications for extension of time to file.
Here are documents filed when mailed:
Tax elections.
Waivers on assessments (form 870).
Claims for refund of taxes (form 843).
Petitions to Tax Court.
Protests following 30-day letter.
But payments, the tax service points out, are paid only when the District Director receives the money or check. When it is put in the mail has nothing to do with it.

WHAT CAN HAPPEN
"So much turns on the exact

For this purpose, the election is treated as filed on April 14, the date of mailing."
When Prentice-Hall didn't dare say so, it looks as if Congress, the director of Internal Revenue and President Kennedy ought to sit down and count toes, if not pull themselves together.

More Responsibility For Youth Safety On Drivers

KIDS ARE NOW ON STREETS AND HIGHWAYS . . . motorists urged to watch for school children.

A greater share of the responsibility for the safety of our youth rests on the shoulders of motorists now that a new school year has begun, according to comments from Greenville Police Chief Guy C. Langston and Capt. S. H. Mitchell, commander of Highway Patrol Troop "A".

Both police and highway patrol authorities, as well as school officials, join in an appeal to all car drivers: "Drive Carefully" is the essence of their request.

According to the law enforcement agency heads the major responsibility for the children's safety falls to the motorist—which includes the drivers of commercial vehicles and trucks, as well as drivers of passenger cars—because of the difference in ages and reasoning power of the adult driver and school child.

Children are impulsive and frequently thoughtless, as compared to grown-ups who have learned self control. This means that no matter how much training a child may have had in safety practices—the proper way to cross a street, "don't play in the street" and the like they may "forget", the officials pointed out.

Children are likely to dart heedlessly from a playground or the side of the road, or from between two parked cars. . . or thoughtlessly attempt to beat a traffic light at an intersection by dashing across the roadway. They may, with false bravado, "dare" an oncoming car or try to retrieve a loose ball. . . without a thought of the danger of oncoming traffic.

These aspects of danger to our youth are surmountable only by the alertness of the driver, according to the officers.

Strict adherence to speed limits in residential areas and in school zones is the first rule a driver should follow. . . and even then he should be "doubly alert". These speed limits in general, are established with the thought of making emergency stops with safety, but this, within itself is

JFK Political Prestige Has Taken Dent

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy took a prestige-denting political licking when the Senate sided with the House in voting to continue two school aid programs until 1963.

For all practical purposes this action, accomplished Tuesday on a 45-40 Senate vote, probably means that Kennedy will not get the full-fledged aid to education program he is certain to propose again next year.

Congress may enact some fringe benefits for colleges in 1962, but the classroom construction and teacher salary assistance he has plugged for seems to have little chance for enactment. The House pigeonholed a measure of this nature after it had been passed by the Senate.

The theory is that these controversial proposals need to be sugar coated with extension of the popular impacted areas and National Defense Education Act programs. The first of these gives federal aid to school districts crowded with children of federal workers. The second provides scholarship grants as well as loans for scientific equipment.

Kennedy showed he was well aware that the extension of these two programs for two years, as the House and Senate now have voted, would make it difficult to get any education legislation thru next year.

He wrote Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana urging a one-year extension so the impacted areas and NDEA programs could be re-examined in 1962. He said such action would "provide the best assurance that re-evaluation of legislation affecting education will take place early next year."

Mansfield read the letter to the Senate shortly before it voted on a proposal by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., for a one-year extension of both measures. But the President's prestige wasn't sufficient in this case and a 45-40 defeat resulted. The Senate then adopted, on a 90-7 roll call vote, a proposal by Sen. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., extending both programs for two years.

Kennedy's political licking was administered by Republican liberals, who saved him from the GOP-Southern Democratic coalition in several touch-and-go Senate tests during the year by producing from 9 to 13 votes for various key administration proposals.

This time only five Republicans sided with him—Sens. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating of New York and Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin.

In the opposition were 24 Republicans and 21 Democrats. All but four of the Democrats were from the South.

The four were the chairman of Hartke of Indiana, and Sens. Carl Hayden of Arizona, and Monroney and Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma.

Rotarians Hear Donald Walston

AYDEN—Commodities was the subject of the Ayden Rotary Club program during a meeting Friday night at the Community Building, with Donald Walston of Farmville, representative of the Wilson office of Merrill, Lynch, Fenner, Beane and Smith as guest speaker.

Alton Rowe was program chairman for the evening.

Walston presented a film entitled "Market Place U. S. A." which contained information about commodities. The commodities included were trades concerning tobacco, cotton, wheat, soy beans and others.

A question and answer period followed the film.

During the evening, Larry Davis reported that the Ayden Rotary Club is just $120 short of becoming a 200 percent club in the Rotary Foundation.

Members unanimously endorsed the Roanoke River bridge proposal.

It was reported that the club had attained 100 percent attendance for the district governor's recent visit to Ayden.

President Gwynn Merritt presided at the meetings.

Nixon Reminds Price Of Taking Over Berlin

DENV5R, Colo. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon, 1960 Republican presidential nominee, says Soviet Premier Khrushchev must ask himself, before taking any action which would precipitate war, "Am I willing to trade Berlin for Moscow?"

In an address to the American Legion's 43rd convention Tuesday night, Nixon predicted there will be no war over Berlin or other places "if Khrushchev and the Communists have to take the initiative" in starting it.

Nixon said Khrushchev is motivated entirely by self-interest. He said the Soviet premier "knows the destructive power of the very weapons he rattles in our faces" and knows he would face retaliatory blows.

Nixon called for the United States to take a firm position when dealing with the Communists' over territory.

Shortly after his arrival, Nixon told newsmen he will announce in the Los Angeles area within "10 days or two weeks" whether he will seek the Republican nomination for governor of California. He also said former Gov. Goodwin Knight did not consult him before announcing as a candidate for the nomination.

Tonight Nixon will address a Colorado Republican rally, which state leaders call the kickoff of their 1962 campaign. The occasion

Water Damage In Ayden Fire

AYDEN — Considerable water damage resulted in a fire here Monday morning at the Garris house on West Avenue, Fire Chief Tillman Chauncey reported yesterday.

Apparently the fire was caused by electrical wiring in the uninhabited upstairs of the frate house, and then spread to parts of the downstairs apartment, occupied by the Damon Pierce family.

Chauncey said that Pierce, his wife and family managed to flee in safety. Members of the Ayden Volunteer Fire Department answered the call about 1:10 a. m. Monday.

Old Sea Captain Stranded In Mud

CAROLINA BEACH, N. C. (AP)—A one-armed, one-eyed 85-year-old sea captain who admitted he can't swim was found stranded on a nearby mud flat early today.

Gutted By Fire, Local Firm To Hold Reopening

Quinn-Miller & Co., gutted by fire last Nov. 6, begins its 10-day formal re-opening Thursday morning at 10 o'clock with Greenville Mayor Charles M. King cutting the ribbon.

The ribbon-cutting ceremony will mark the beginning of the formal opening celebration for the rebuilt and remodeled furniture business.

Features of the new Quinn-Miller furniture house, according to co-owners and co-managers Bob Tunnell and Bob Russ, are a new heating system, new floors, new solid pegboard walls and new lighting fixtures and arrangements throughout the business 12,500 square feet of display space.

Tunnell said today the new appearance of the show rooms will feature arrangement of furniture groups — especially living room, dining room and bedroom groups — to display a correlation of color among the various types of furniture.

During the 10-day re-opening celebration, Tunnell said, all visitors will receive free gifts from Quinn-Miller & Co. In addition to different methods of display, Tunnell said, a major variation in the business tomorrow and before the fire last fall is that the building's 12,500-square-foot area will be used entirely as display space. Prior to the fire, he said, there was less display space available. The added show room area was made available through renovations during the remodeling operation.

C-of-C Approves Bridge Proposal

A proposed bridge across the Roanoke River between Williamson and the Scotland Neck-Rich Square highway received the blessings of the Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

The board of directors approved a resolution calling on the State Highway Commission to construct such a bridge.

The resolution also calls for a primary highway across the new bridge to extend (N.C. 11) north from the general area of Bethel, Hamilton and Oak City to tie into the traffic arteries coming south from the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel at Norfolk.

Also endorsed was a plan offered by R. B. Nelson of Robersonville for widening N.C. 903 from the Martin County line to Stokes.

Board members authorized chamber president J. Ed Waldrop to appoint a five member nominating committee and a three member elections committee for the forthcoming Chamber of Commerce election.

The board was informed that the State Board of Conservation and Development has been invited to hold its spring meeting in Greenville.

American Treasury by Drexel

The woods of American Treasury are as interesting and varied as the design themes themselves. As in the early furniture, these woods have been combined in every piece, all finished to blend softly with each other. Each has the look of mellow "loving hands" care. There is cherry, rich and patterned—one of the loveliest of woods—found on table tops, end and side panels. Maple clusters, rare burls caused by unnatural growth, unusual in their beauty, highlight many desks and buffets. Fine, one of the woods most beloved by the colonists, forms the drawer fronts of bedroom pieces, and is used as an accent on a few occasional items. Lastly, sturdy pecan, solid as Plymouth Rock, is the framing for all pieces.

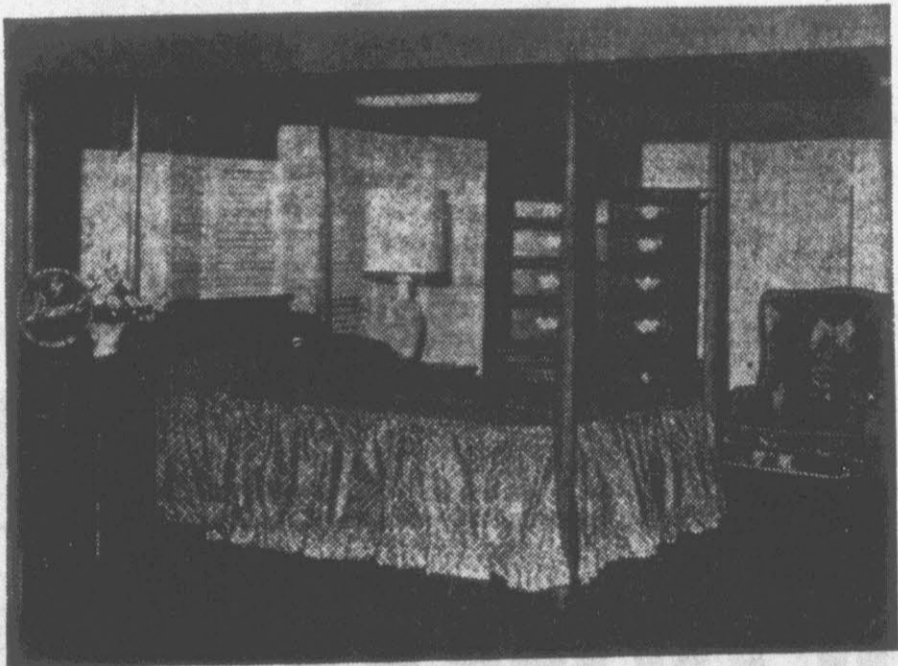

American Treasury is complete, for every room in your home. It will bring you all the warmth and richness of our American heritage, with the pride of ownership which comes from owning truly beautiful furniture.

American Restoration

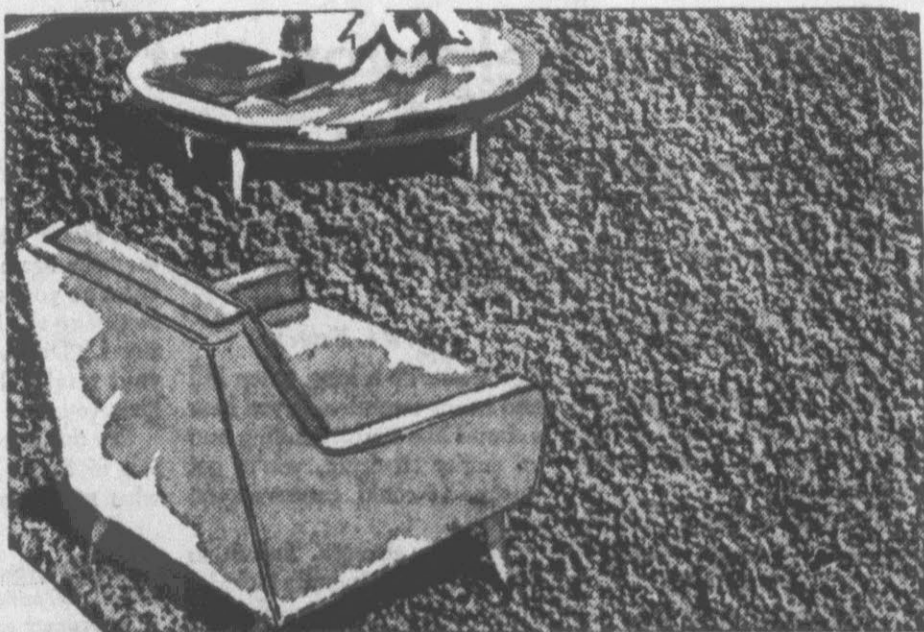

The excellence of these designs reflects the painstaking care of Early American craftsmen. This group, inspired by extensive research and study of original museum pieces and old documents, tells of a quaint and gentle ancestry. You will love these pieces from the AMERICAN RESTORATION group. Each sofa and chair is engineered for comfort and durability, thus assuring a lasting beauty more than cover deep.

The present trend is in the past.

American Treasury by Drexel

Bedrooms were often a part of the living area, so chests and other pieces were frequently designed to function in the living room. Beds took their characteristics from other furniture; the ladderback originally was a style for chairs—the cannon ball bed repeated the turnings on chests. Outstanding is the highboy, which began as two chests, one stacked on top of the other for more living space. Then legs were added to make it higher—thus a highboy. There are pieces of American Treasury for every type of bedroom, from the most feminine to the most masculine. See them all in American Treasury by Drexel.

BURNWOOD MEN

CHAPTER 23

Tam Barrie helped Stephanie Devoe along the trail, the girl with the pistol cocked and ready. Tam moved with caution, having lost all sense of distance. Then, over the rim of the valley, sailed the silver arc of a half-moon. Brush and trees sprang into view in its pale light. They could make out the road.

Stephanie literally stumbled over the man who had fired up at the wagon. He lay at the edge of a clump of bushes, his face a white blur in the moonlight. Tam held a pistol on him, while the girl knelt beside him.

She stood up, shaking her head. "A bright tear on her lashes. 'He's dead. Tam. And I killed him.'"

"He got what he asked for; he tried his best to kill you. All you can do is pray for him, Stevie."

"I will," the girl promised. As they walked down the trail in the moonlight, Tam saw the girl's lips moving silently, the tears glistening unchecked down her face.

Tam pulled Stephanie away from the trail into the brush. Toward them came the clatter of a running horse. Perhaps Stephanie recognized the hoofbeats. The horse sounded a hoot-owl cry. The horse slowed abruptly.

"Stevie! Where are you?" came Colly Devoe's voice.

She stepped out into the trail. "Here, Papa. Tam is with me. We're all right."

Colly swung down from his horse. He hugged his daughter. "Whee! Didn't know if I'd ever see you two again, the way the world blew. Me'n' the country won't never be the same again."

"We jumped just before the wagon went over a cutbank," Tam said. "There must have been dynamite in the load. What of the other wagons? What of Strike and his men?"

"They fought one wagon through the ford, losin' four men doin' it," Colly said. "We downed the horses on the second rig, and it's stalled in midriver. Strike and his men've taken off up the hill. I think they'll be back. That one wagon is mighty precious to him. How that you blew up one of 'em."

"Did we lose anyone?"

"Pinconneault took a slug in the leg, but he ain't hurt bad. We all had some close ones, but a miss is as good as a mile, they say. Here, Stevie, up back of the saddle. Tam, you take holt of a stirrup leather, we'll go back a-flyin'. We got to do what there is to do, and get out, before Strike gets organized."

Devoe swung into the saddle, and urged the horse uptrail. Tam grabbed a stirrup leather and trotted beside the horse. He had no wind for talk no energy. He was footsore and leg-weary by the time they reached the Marias again.

"Girl, you wait here," her father ordered. "Tam, come along. We got to work over that wagon afore Strike comes hellin' back." Stephanie slid down from the horse. "I'll get the ponies," she said to Tam and disappeared into the darkness. Colly tied his horse to a tree.

"Come on, Tam," he said, plunging down the bank. "You ain't s'gar; you won't melt." With some reluctance Tam waded into the current, finding the water cool, almost pleasant. He followed Colly toward the gray blob of the wagon sheet in the moonlight. The water came to his thighs. They reached the end of the wagon.

The dead horses had been cut free. It was a mass of bull work to move the bogged wagon. The men were struggling with poles to turn the wagon downstream. Tam and Colly threw their weight into the effort. Gradually the wagon moved, sucking at the mud under its wheels.

"Here she goes," Colly said, jamming harder. "Now turn her, turn her—more to the right. Now heave. Heave, damn it!"

The downstream wheels sagged. The wagon began to lean. Hastily the men heaved at their levers, thrust their weight at the upper side. The upstream wheels came sucking out of the bottom. The wagon held for an instant, then went over into the river with a mighty splash.

"That'll wet down the powder," Tam panted.

"Do more than that," Colly said. "Watch this, son."

The wagon seemed to be sinking deep into the water. But Tam, knowing the water could not be that deep, suddenly understood of the earlier warning about quicksand. The wagon was half under sand. The men turned and waded toward the west bank. By the time they got there, Tam could see only the upper curve of the wagon on bows.

"She'll be out of sight by mornin'," Colly said with satisfaction. "Here's Stevie with the horses. We better get on our way. You making it all right, Pinconneault?"

"Oui, she hurt, but I'm not stay around here," the Metisse said, chuckling.

"Hope I can laugh if I get a hole shot in me, Tam thought. Valier and his men mounted. The party sat waiting. Soon young Laurier came storming across the ford, the spray flying in sheets.

"Strike, he comes riding," the young Metisse reported. "With maybe ten men, coming this way. They sneak along wit' care, quiet."

"Then let's get out of here," Tam said. He let Valier and Devoe lead the way. He dropped back, then found Stephanie riding beside him.

For several miles the party rode along the riverbank, heading westerly. The country was rough, but in the main they found a trail of sorts. These men knew the terrain like the palms of their hands, having hunted over it many times.

Once Valier turned his horse down the bank, leading the way

Had 4 Wounds In 'Lucky' Shot

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — John Kasner, 35, of Denver, was fishing in the Arapahoe Lake area south of Laramie when he accidentally dropped his .44 caliber revolver.

A single bullet wounded him in four places. The bullet struck the calf of his right leg, grazed his right thigh, nicked his right wrist and struck his upper right arm. He was not seriously hurt.

Boys Bring Out A Rash On Girl

LOUGHTON, England (AP) — Jane Reeve, who breaks out in a rash when she mixes with boys, has won her battle to save her schoolgirl complexion.

She gaily skipped off today to an all-girl school where there'll be no boys to bring out those ugly blemishes.

Jane, 11, is allergic to boys. Boys make her nervous. That brings on the rash.

Finishing at her girls' school, Jane was threatened with a rash of rashes when she was assigned to a coed high school in this town just outside London.

Her father, Leslie Reeve, protested to the local educational authorities. He told them about the rashes.

The authorities turned down his request that Jane be allowed to attend the local girls-only school. That school, they said, is full.

Even a doctor's certificate, pointing out Jane's strange ailment, wouldn't budge them.

Until Tuesday, that is, when the authorities, after thinking things over, decided that in the interests of her health Jane should go to a girls' school.

An education official said: "It is felt that, in view of Jane's extreme nervousness, there is justification for her to be allowed to attend a single-sex school."

He said a place had been found at a girls' school a few miles out of Loughton.

And that's where Jane went today, her schoolbooks under her arm—and not a boy in sight.

Safe Is Opened By Honest Labor

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Honesty succeeded where evildoers apparently failed here recently. Four teenagers found a safe on a creekbank and — thinking it was empty — banged it open. They found $343 inside and turned the money over to police, who said safe had been stolen from a Lexington firm. The thieves apparently couldn't open it.

The bright green color of pickles is fixed by passing the pickles through an aluminum sulphate solution during the pressuring process.

Shell experts test for knock by accelerating up steep grade. In another test, that "fifth wheel" in the back is lowered onto the road to measure mileage precisely.

TOP PERFORMANCE:

Shell test crew reveals five ways to test your car for top performance—and how the 9 ingredients in today's Super Shell can help you get it

Test #1. Quick starting
Count the seconds it takes to start your car. The engine should "snap to" in about two to three seconds. A slow start drains your battery. And it may flood your cylinders, causing performance troubles.

Test #2. Smooth running
Pay close attention to your engine in traffic. Does it vibrate roughly when you stop for a traffic light? Does it seem to "surge" as you pull away, then falter and fade? The problem may be the wrong blend of gasoline.

Test #3. Reserve power
On a turnpike, in light traffic, accelerate suddenly from about thirty miles an hour to the legal limit. Now ask yourself:

1. Did your car accelerate smoothly—with no faltering, no bogging down?
2. Do you have plenty of power to spare?
If you feel you've "run out of engine," it's time to do something about it.

Super Shell may be your answer. It contains TCP,* to help restore power lost to combustion chamber deposits. And another Super Shell ingredient, called Platofamate, contains components that release 11 per cent more energy than even the finest of 100-octane aviation gasolines.

Test #4. Knock
Accelerate up a long, steep hill and listen carefully. If you hear a sound like marbles falling into an empty oil drum, you've got knock. It could cause engine trouble.

Test #5. Miles per gallon
Don't trust your fuel gauge when you measure miles per gallon. Take these three simple steps and be sure:

1. Start your test by filling your tank. Make sure the gasoline comes up to the brim. Write down your mileage reading.

2. Drive in your normal manner for at least three tankfuls—keeping a record of the exact amount you buy.

3. Finally, fill your tank to the brim again. Add up all the gallons you've bought (not counting the initial fill-up in step 1.) Divide this amount into your total miles driven. This gives you your miles per gallon.

Try this test with three tankfuls of Super Shell. You'll see what top performance really is.

Take no chances. Switch to Super Shell. Its formula includes no less than three ingredients to fight the various causes of knock.

ECC School Of Nursing In Second Year Of Operation

East Carolina College's School of Nursing, opening this fall for its second year of operation, now has approximately 50 new students enrolled as freshmen, with registration still incomplete. A total of 26 sophomores are continuing their work, and 3 diploma graduates are scheduled to complete work for a degree during the school year, Dean Eva W. Warren has announced.

Thirty-nine of the new students beginning their work in the four-year School of Nursing this fall come from twenty-six counties in North Carolina. Two students are from Virginia, one is from the District of Columbia, and one is from Florida.

Now located on the third floor of the Graham building on the East Campus, the school has new quarters and equipment this fall. Accommodations include the office of Dean Warren, office space for the five members of her staff, a nursing laboratory, classroom facilities and a utility room.

The nursing laboratory serves as a center for instruction and provides opportunity for practical work. Equipment includes eight beds, a Stryker turning frame, bedside tables, linens, a sink, a refrigerator, and a stove.

Mrs. Joanna Suggs of Greenville, an employee of the State Board of Health, joined the staff of the School of Nursing this fall as a part-time nutritionist who will teach diet therapy on a project basis.

In addition to Dean Warren, the staff includes also Mrs. Ruth J. Broadhurst, Mrs. Louise C. Bullock, Mrs. Mary S. Steele, and Mrs. Bonnie E. Waldrop.

Freshmen beginning the four-year nursing program at East Carolina are enrolled during the present academic quarter in courses in general education. They will take their first course in nursing during the spring quarter.

Sophomores are continuing their program of general education courses and are enrolled also in a course in Fundamentals of Nursing. Instruction includes three hours of lectures and four hours of laboratory and hospital experience each week.

Students beginning their work in the School of Nursing this fall include Jeanette Frances Groat of Grifton; and Margaret Deeds Bryant, Margaret Dezzie Huneycutt, Jeannette Runquist, Mary Dunn Smith, all of Greenville.

It's Eerie Along Wall That Separates Berlin

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP) — It's eerie at night along the wall between East and West Berlin, even though the tanks and armored cars are out of sight now.

The searchlights have been removed from the main crossing point, the corner of Friedrichsstrasse and Zimmerstrasse. But the light from a big green neon sign makes the scene even more sinister.

It has been a spooky part of town ever since World War II. Once the center of Berlin's newspaper district, it was badly bombed and not much rebuilt. Vacant lots alternate with shabby apartment houses, small shops, a bar or two. Ruins and bomb sites make ugly black shapes at night.

You get some liveliness at the corner itself, at least on the West Berlin side. There are half a dozen American soldiers in battle dress, slightly bored but good humored and ready to chat.

Mother Acts As Spy On Campus

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Food and other services at student dormitories at the Ohio University campus may not be exactly like home, but mothers are having a chance to see just how good they are.

Six mothers of students were invited for a two-day visit. They ate and chatted with students lining in the dorms, and even their own children did not know the true purpose of their visit. Neither did residence hall staff members.

University officials say the mothers' visit provided an unbiased check on university services and will be made an annual event.

New Minister At Robersonville

ROBERSONVILLE — Rev. Cecil J. Brown of Macon, Ga., has been called as minister of the First Christian Church in Robersonville and will begin his ministry here in October.

A former native of Wilmington, the Rev. Mr. Brown graduated from New Hanover High School in Wilmington in 1944 and received an A.B. degree from Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, in 1949. He graduated from the College of Bible, Lexington, Ky., in 1956 with a B.D. degree and continued his graduate work at the University of Kentucky and Duke University.

The Rev. Mr. Brown has served the church in Mt. Olive and Dudley Christian Church near Mt. Olive; Mill Creek Christian Church, Maysville, Ky., and the First Christian Church, Taylorsville, Ky. Since 1957 he has served Woodside Christian Church in Macon, Ga.

Having taken an active part in the cooperative work of the Brotherhood in the state and the nation, he has served as president of the Christian Ministers Fellowship for the state of Georgia, chairman for three years of the Intermediate Youth Work of the Christian Churches of Georgia, director of youth camps and director of State Chi Rho Youth conventions for three years. He was also appointed by the Mayor of Macon as director of the Macon Council for World Affairs.

The Rev. Mr. Brown was born in Wilmington on January 5, 1926 and married the former Patricia Ann Haley of Atlanta, Ga., also a graduate of A.C.O. They have three children, Patricia, age 11; Gene, 9, and Joy, 3.

Rice Shortage Is Nat'l Calamity

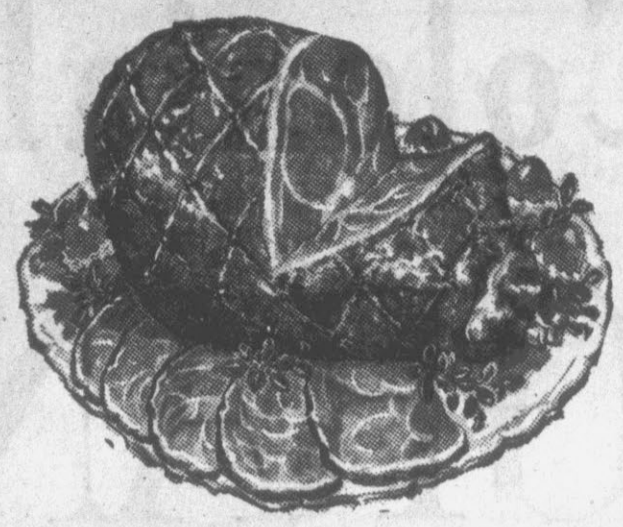

MANILA (AP) — President Carlos P. Garcia declared a nationwide state of public calamity Tuesday because of a shortage of rice, the Philippines' staple food.

The president's proclamation permits seizure of all hoarded rice stocks for public sale and sets ceiling prices. Garcia said the action was needed to avert panic and disorder.

No 'Doomsday' In Nuclear War If Public Is Prepared

EDITOR'S NOTE — By taking the necessary measures now, a world-famous nuclear scientist says, the nation can either avoid atomic war or win it if it comes. Dr. Edward Teller believes 90 per cent of the U.S. population could survive the holocaust. This is the first of three articles on the subject.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The date is some dreadful tomorrow. The holocaust of nuclear war suddenly sweeps the United States.

But 90 per cent of Americans could actually survive, declares Dr. Edward Teller of H-bomb fame.

And in three to four years, they could rebuild desolated industries, cities, schools, homes. Democratic institutions would function again.

Lingering radiation would be a problem, but not insuperable, he says. The human race would not perish. Nor would future generations be destined to be born misshapen monsters.

Dr. Teller is convinced this country and other nations could survive despite the "doomsday" fear which grips and paralyzes millions of people in the face of nuclear war.

Indeed, he regards this attitude and lack of defense as a temptation for a well-prepared nation to launch thermonuclear war.

It is an invitation to panic and wholesale, needless loss of life if bombs ever fall, says the famous physicist of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory of the University of California.

Three steps could create the defense for insurance against war, or for national survival if it comes. Dr. Teller said in an interview.

Air Disturbance Blamed On Tests

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese meteorological agency said today the Soviet Union's seventh nuclear test in its current series caused air disturbances in Japan lasting an hour.

The agency said its observation stations recorded abnormal changes in atmospheric pressure creating shocks coming in four minute cycles.

The ground hog is a heavy-bodied, grizzled, white-nosed species of marmot living in open woodlands and meadows in North America.

challenging many general concepts:

1. Building shelters against fallout and against the blast and fire from nuclear bombs.

2. Stockpiling surplus food, machinery, machine tools, generators, building materials—the essentials to generate power, start factories, build more machines, transport people and goods, and assure communications.

3. Planning organized efforts to carry people through the terrible early days, and the hard, demanding, cooperative labor to rebuild modern civilization.

It would cost billions of dollars, perhaps an average of $4 billion for some years, Dr. Teller says.

"A first step could be simply to distribute our surplus foods to strategic places throughout the country. This could be done in half a year.

"I believe the Russians will be more likely to attack if we are not prepared.

"It is quite clear the Russians are doing more than we are in creating a defense. I have heard they have good shelters for at least a fraction of their population. They are not in fine shape, but they are ahead of us.

"With a system of defense, and organization, we could win a war. By showing we are prepared, we could avoid it," says the Hungarian-born scientist.

Dr. Teller warns the time is short.

Soviet resumption of nuclear testing is frightening, he says. For it could mean the Soviets have been testing new weapons secretly underground in the past two or three years, and have decided to make open tests simply to answer some final questions.

The Soviets knew open testing would force or irritate the United States into more testing, and arouse adverse opinion.

But an edge won through secret testing could mean "they are so far ahead in weaponry they don't care what we do."

Dr. Teller says "If we don't prepare, 100 million Americans could die in the first days of an all-out war. Thirty to forty millions more could die from starvation and disease. The United States would cease to exist."

"But I firmly believe 90 per cent of our population could be saved. It means 20 million would die, and this is terrible to contemplate. But why not try to give 90 per cent a decent chance for survival?"

Nuclear war "would be one of the most horrible things imaginable, and everything should be done to prevent it."

But, he adds, he is dismayed by "those who say that a nuclear war necessarily means the end of everything."

"The fear of radiation is much greater than it deserves to be. It is not true that radiation, even from an all-out war, would destroy all forms of life.

"And it is simply not true that if war came, everything is hopeless."

less. "We can prepare. "One-third of our people would not even be in danger, because they don't live near targets the bombs hit.

"One-third could be protected well enough by fallout shelters. "One-third would be in trouble, but they could have a 70 per cent chance of survival, if given decent shelters."

Arrival Of OAS Team Starts Riot

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Tanks and troops restored order today after rioting by opposition political groups left four dead and more than a score injured.

The violence was sparked by the arrival of a four-man team from the Organization of American States Tuesday. They are investigating the possibility of lifting some of the diplomatic and economic sanctions on the Dominican regime that took over after the assassination of Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo last May. The opposition fears this would entrench Trujillo's heirs in power.

There were conflicting versions of what happened near Duarte Bridge over the Ozama River around noon Tuesday, when a crowd of about 5,000, mostly from a nearby working class neighborhood, gathered to greet the OAS delegates.

Opposition eyewitnesses claimed that a car filled with armed forces and plain clothes police jumped out of their unmarked car and fired pistols and automatic rifles into the crowd.

But Col. Marcos Jorge, chief of the national police, said an air force sergeant, Victoriano Cruz Hernandez, was angered when the crowd stoned his car, emptied his revolver into the demonstrators and then fired his automatic rifle. Cruz Hernandez was turned over to civilian authorities for investigation, Jorge said.

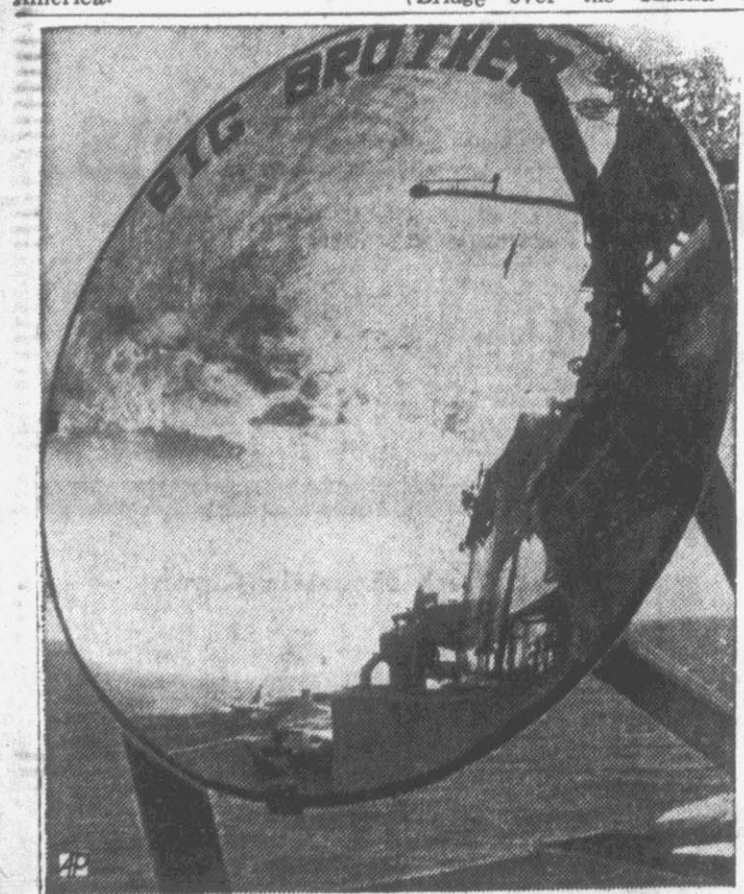

The OAS caravan was chased about a mile toward the city by the crowd. Demonstrators chanted "liberty" and "brutality" and beat on the cars. Some carried placards deriding the U.S. representative, deLesseps Morrison, for accepting a medal from Trujillo. He has said the State Department advised him to accept it.

Jorge said two policemen were wounded in the shooting and six were hospitalized after being stoned. The opposition said about 15 in the crowd were wounded by bullets.

Some of the opposition leaders claim the police have provoked numerous riots—killing more than a dozen demonstrators in past weeks—and are trying to weaken the opposition by branding it as pro-Communist.

The demonstration Tuesday was urged by the Revolutionary and 14th of July parties. The Civic Union, the major opposition group, did not take part. It urged Dominicans to tell the OAS committee, made up of the United States, Ecuador, Colombia and Panama, that the opposition rejects any idea of holding elections as scheduled next May as long as "the family of the dictator (Trujillo) still exercises effective and real control over all national institutions."

While President Joaquin Balaguer is the nominal head of the nation, the real power is generally considered to rest in the hands of Gen. Rafael L. Trujillo Jr., chief of the armed forces and son of the slain dictator.

Gamecock Coach Has New Motto, "Football For Fun"

By DEL BOOTH

COLUMBIA (AP) — "Football for fun" is the motto of Marvin Bass, new head football coach at the University of South Carolina. The biggest halfback with any experience is Billy Gambrell, a speedster with tricky running ability. If Gambrell comes through South Carolina could prove troublesome to teams that are favored. Gambrell is 5-10 and weighs 175 pounds. The starting left half is slippery little Jack Morris, a 155-pounder and a senior. A pass-catching sophomore, Sam Anderson, will believe Morris. Henry Crosby, a 110-pound senior, runs behind Gambrell. Slender Dave Sowell, and a 140-pound mite, Tommy Pilcher, will spell Costen. Most of South Carolina's first two lines are juniors and seniors. Outstanding are the ends, Ken Lester and John Caskey, and tackles Joel Goodrich and Jim Moss. The Jones boys, unrelated, man the first string guard spots. John Taylor is a junior from Farmville, Va., and Harold is from York, a senior. Dick Lomas and Clark Waring will alternate at center. Sam Humphreys and Conley Taylor are second unit ends, with a big sophomore from Rock Hill, Billy Nies, pushing for a better assignment than third string. Dwayne Godfrey and Frank Staley, both experienced players, are the second unit tackles, and Dave Adam and Charlie Overstreet are the relief guards. Bass calls his depth "shallow" compared with other teams South Carolina plays in this schedule: Sept. 23 Duke (N), 30 at Wake Forest (N); Oct. 7 at Georgia, 14 Louisiana State, 21 North Carolina, 28 Maryland; Nov. 4 at Virginia, 11 Clemson, 18 at N.C. State, 25 at Vanderbilt.

Practice Briefs

Rose High

Coch Bud Phillips continued to put his Phantom players through a hard workout yesterday in preparation for their second home game in the ECC Stadium Friday night at 8 o'clock. The Rose High boys concentrated on defense with some offensive work on plays which might be helpful against the Jacksonville eleven. During the later part of the practice, a scrimmage was held with most of the team making a good showing. The Rose High JV, coached by Bo Farley, will travel to Jacksonville tomorrow for their first contest of the new season. Fullback Tommy Smith, halfback David Mosier and quarterback Lee Whitehurst showed up well on the practice field again yesterday. They are expected to be the key players for the opening game. Today Farley will conduct a light practice, making final preparations for tomorrow's contest.

Robersonville

Over in Robersonville, Coach David Lee has been concentrating on his offensive passing this week. Bad passing was probably one of the main reasons for their loss to Williamson last Friday. The Rams have also seen some rough scrimmaging during practice sessions this week. However, when the Robersonville boys take to the field this week against Contentnea they will be minus two of last week's starters. Senior end Wayne Britton will probably be out for the rest of the season because of shoulder injuries received last week. Fullback Billy Smith will have to leave the Rams, as his family is moving to Virginia.

Farmville

The Farmville Red Devils conducted a scrimmage under the lights Tuesday as they prepared for their third game of the season. The team travels to North Duplin Friday. Coach Elbert Moye told the Reflector yesterday that the North Duplin team is one of the hardest games his boys will play this season. They finished second last

Davidson Hard Hit By Injuries

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP)—Davidson College football coach Bill Dole's enthusiasm over his prospects was tempered somewhat by a rash of injuries to important personnel over the weekend, but Dole looks for major improvement over last year. Half a dozen linemen came up with assorted hurts in a two-day span last week, forcing Dole to call a halt to rough work, with the opener coming up Saturday night at Charlotte against Catawba.

With the possible exception of senior end Lou Zirkle, who injured a thigh muscle, the wounded should be ready for duty. Davidson's traditional "thin red line" shapes up as a firmer, more formidable obstacle as Dole starts his 10th year in the Southern Conference.

He's in the unusual position of counting 23 lettermen, about 10 more than in most years, on his squad of 43. The experience they gained last season will enable him to make lineup changes without a drastic drop in abilities. Dole is especially enthusiastic over what he calls "the best quarterback and the best pair of ends I've ever had at Davidson."

He refers to Ben Coxton, 185-pound sophomore quarterback from Garden, Va., and senior flankers Jennings Snider and Booker Clark, both 6-1 and 195 pounds.

Although Coxton is a rookie in a starting cast stressing experienced hands, Dole has confidence that the youngster will do the job and stand up under pressure of game conditions in the same manner he has on the practice field. In addition, another soph, Earl Cole of Wilmington, N.C., has done a fine job back of Coxton and should provide ample insurance at the position.

Junior Alex Gibbs and four-year service veteran Joe Jones give Dole what he calls two "hard rock, hard running" halfbacks. Bob McAllister, a strong runner, and Lynwood Mallard, a bit quicker, give the fullback spot senior strength. Senior Duncan Morton and juniors Kent Tucker and Bob Cordle will work in the defensive backfield.

The interior line has such defensive stalwarts as tackles Bill Salzer and Eddie Crutchfield, guards Bill Pinkhead and Dick Voorhees and linebackers Joe Ansley and Carl Hunt, all seasoned hands. Newcomers who'll see line duty on offense include Dole's son Bill at tackle; guard Russ Walls and tackle Dick Fulp.

Bruce-Usher, the field goal kicking center, has been equipped with contact lenses which are aimed at improving his accuracy. "He's been booting field goals consistently from the 30 in practice," reports Dole. He made two major personnel switches from last year's lineup. Jerry Sheffield was sent from halfback to end and husky Mike Owen from end to tackle in a move calculated to strengthen both positions.

The schedule: Sept. 16—Catawba at Charlotte (N); 23—at Furman; 30—at the Citadel. Oct. 7—open; 14—Presbyterian; 21—Virginia Military; 28—at Richmond. Nov. 4—at William and Mary; 11—Wofford.

Maryland To Practice Behind Closed Doors

When the Maryland football team scrimmages Saturday, it will be behind closed doors—the first secret practice since Tom Nugent took over as coach of the Terps in 1959. "We'll inspect the trees (for spies) before practice starts," Nugent said Tuesday. Maryland plays Southern Methodist in its first game a week from Saturday.

In announcing the plan at College Park, Md., Nugent told of a recent visitor to practice who took a photograph every time the Terps lined up on defense. "You can't tell me anyone could be that concerned to get pictures for his play room," Nugent said. "But after we spotted him, we did a lot of strange things out there (and) if he does send those pictures to someone they won't believe a team could learn that many defenses."

Maryland, along with most other Atlantic Coast Conference teams, felt the heat Tuesday. The Terps cut short a heavy practice and the team discarded pads and wore shorts in the afternoon.

Marvin Bass, South Carolina's new coach, said the Gamecocks would hold a drill tonight and it would be closed to the public. The scrimmage will be in Carolina Stadium at Columbia, S.C., and will be the first session this fall not open to the public. And at Duke, Coach Bill Murray held the first public drill of the pre-season training Tuesday. The squad held two rugged drills as the fourth annual "Meet the Blue Devils" observance was held on the Duke campus.

At Virginia, Coach Bill Elias worked on the team's kicking game in the afternoon Tuesday after a hard scrimmage in the morning. Stan Fischer, Walker Roll, Gary Cuzzo and Alfred Kluck were praised for their passing.

Touring sportswriters were at North Carolina on Tuesday. Coach Jim Hickey showed off his first three units and told the newsmen the personnel this year is "as good as its been for the past few years." Clemson battled the heat in the morning, then called off the afternoon drill so the team could register for fall classes. After a morning scrimmage, Coach Frank Howard told his charges, "You were giving up too much ground because your initial contact, tackling and pursuit was not what it should have been."

Wake Forest, whose opener is at Baylor in Waco, Tex., a week from Saturday, began concentrating on defense. "We have lots of work to do in getting ready for Baylor's excellent offense," Coach Bill Hildebrand said. Afternoon workouts are planned from today forward at North Carolina State. The Wolfpack, in an effort to beat the heat, has been drilling at night. Jim D'Antonio, power running fullback, featured Tuesday night's drill.

Not that it would be overly helpful, but some other Southern conference coaches will be happy to tell Camp one thing he can certainly expect: The Seminoles will be tough. In recent seasons, Florida State has been playing Southern Conference teams almost often enough to become a certified long member, with results that must have caused much glee down Tallahassee way. Not since the early autumn of 1959, when William and Mary ambushed the Seminoles 9-0, has anybody in the SC taken Florida State into camp. In six subsequent games, the closest FSU has come to defeat was a scoreless tie with The Citadel last fall.

Elsewhere around the Southern Conference, Furman had the roughest practice — a 45-minute scrimmage in which the Paladins prepped for their opener with Presbyterian. Virginia Tech pleased Coach Jerry Claiborne with its zip in a workout in shorts. VMI Coach John McKenna also was pleased with the spirit of his squad as the Keydets hustled through a dummy scrimmage in shorts and T-shirts. Five players who had been out with injuries rejoined the Davidson squad but only one, guard Russ Wall, was ready for full duty. The others were end Lou Zirkle, center Tom Day, and tackles Ed Crutchfield and Tom Owen. The Citadel labored on running and kicking, with Clyde Marsh showing good form in the punting department. Halfback Dave Lybrand returned to practice, bringing the squad to full strength. West Virginia had a distinguished visitor, the governor of the state, W. W. Barron. He told the Mountaineers, "We want you to win as many games as you can" though, he said, "We don't expect you to win them all." Barron said he figured WVU had "the spirit, the horses and the staff to do well this season."

Maris Claims Poor Calling

By MIKE RATHET ... Associated Press Sports Writer
There's been a claim of foul in that home run race that's heading into the homestretch with Roger Maris holding a three-length lead over fast-closing Babe Ruth and Mickey Mantle losing ground.

Maris, the leader with 56 home runs, angrily criticized plate umpire Hank Soar last night after the New York Yankees edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in a rain-shortened contest that cost Maris and Mantle at least one at-bat apiece. Reduced to a three-game edge over Ruth's record 60 homer pace of 1927, Maris cited Soar for what he called poor balls and strikes calls. "I didn't get too many strikes," complained the Yankee slugger, "yet they were being called strikes. I was swinging in self-defense."

Both Maris, who now needs four homers in the next nine decisions to tie Ruth's mark in the allotted time, and Mantle were held homerless by Billy Pierce and Frank Baumann. But each had a single before the game was called in the last of the ninth. The triumph kept the Yankees leading Kansas City 3-1 for Frank Lary's 28th victory. And Washington whipped Boston 5-1 on Pete Burnside's three-hitter. Los Angeles-Minnesota was postponed. Baltimore and Cleveland were not scheduled.

Eppes Prepares For 1st Home Game Friday Night

The C. M. Eppes Bulldogs will face another night of struggling Friday night at 8 o'clock on the home field when they meet Jacksonville in hopes of making up for last week's defeat of 6-0 by Oxford.

Coach Percy L. Daniels has been working his boys hard and a little overtime this week to gain extra strength for the first home game of the season, Daniels said. "The players are showing great progress." The starting lineup will probably be Fulton Clark, a freshman, and Alton Harris, a sophomore in the end positions. Junior James Greene and sophomore Bobby Brown will take care of the guard spots. Senior Jesse Holliday and sophomore Raymond Tucker will start in the tackle positions. The starting center is undecided according to the coach.

In the backfield sophomore Levon Little will be calling the signals at quarterback with senior Marvin Anderson handling the fullback position. Halfbacks are sophomore Willie Blount and senior Johnny Pyson. Eppes this week is welcoming back to the squad Johnny and Nathan Cromwell who are both sophomores. Johnny is a halfback and Nathan a tackle. The Cromwells brothers have proven to be very important in adding depth to the squad.

The Bulldogs are hoping to improve last season's record of 7-2. The first five games were shutouts. The team gained a total of 110 points for the entire season and gave away only 31. In discussing the coming contest with Jacksonville, the coaches said they are expecting a great deal of improvement. Part of this improvement is due to the fact that the Cromwell brothers have returned. They were not on the squad for the opener last week against Oxford.

Tackle Parlays For Terp Mates

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Even college football teams have player representatives. But when tackle Roger Shoals of the University of Maryland goes to see Coach Tom Nugent, they don't discuss pension plans. They talk over such matters as length of workouts, time of the preschool bed checks, and other player-coach problems. "The other day," Nugent said, "they even asked if we could hold longer practice sessions."

Suits Against NASCAR Filed

DELAND, Fla. (AP)—A Tampa attorney says that stock car drivers Curtis Turner and Tim Flock will seek a temporary injunction against NASCAR at a hearing Sept. 22.

Te attorney, Frank Hamilton, also said Tuesday that Turner and Flock had filed suit seeking $200,000 punitive damages, of restitution for loss of earnings against NASCAR and its president, Bill France.

Flock, of Atlanta, and Turner, of Winston-Salem, N.C., were banned by France from all NASCAR races after they tried to get fellow drivers to join the Federation of Professional Athletes, a Teamsters Union affiliate. The Sept. 22 hearing would be before Circuit Judge Robert Wingfield.

In the suit, Turner seeks damages of $4,000 at the date of filing plus $2,000 each month he is banned from stock car tracks operated by NASCAR. Flock asks $3,000 plus $1,000 a month. Hamilton, a labor attorney who said he was hired personally by the drivers, said the suit would be based on Florida right-to-work amendment to the state constitution and related legislation. In Daytona Beach, where France lives and NASCAR maintains headquarters, France would not comment on the suit. Turner and Flock were banned from NASCAR tracks Aug. 10.

UNC BB Team Has Big Setback

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — North Carolina's basketball team, still with four months to go before beginning the 1961-62 season, already has suffered a staggering setback. Coach Dean Smith, recently picked to succeed Frank McGuire, disclosed that Ken McComb and Yogi Polet, two lettermen slated to be first stringers were lost through scholastic deficiency.

Smith said Polet, a senior backcourt man from Hendersonville, plans to take correspondence courses in hopes of getting back for the spring semester. McComb, 6-6 junior from Ardsley, N.Y., was being counted on heavily for his rebounding and shooting ability. Smith said original rulings were appealed but the appeals were turned down.

The Jones boys, unrelated, man the first string guard spots. John Taylor is a junior from Farmville, Va., and Harold is from York, a senior. Dick Lomas and Clark Waring will alternate at center. Sam Humphreys and Conley Taylor are second unit ends, with a big sophomore from Rock Hill, Billy Nies, pushing for a better assignment than third string. CHICAGO (AP) — Roger Maris really put on the blast Tuesday night.
But it didn't add to his season's home run total which remained at 58 when the best he could do was collect a single in four times at bat in New York's 4-3 victory over Chicago.

The blast was directed at plate umpire Hank Soar. Maris accused the arbiter of making at least three bad calls against him.
Soar, who has been an American League umpire for 15 years, blasted right back.
"Those pitchers didn't throw me too many strikes tonight," complained Maris, "yet they were being called strikes. I had to swing in self defense."
Soar shot back:
"He's so tight he can't breathe. You can't call a strike on him without getting an argument."
Maris' three instances when he believed Soar erred in his judgment of balls and strikes. The first time was in the second inning when, with runners on second and third, Roger bluffed a bunt but did not swing. Soar called it a strike.
"The pitch was high—up here," Maris said, raising his arm above his shoulder.
"I didn't swing," he asserted. "My body moved but my bat didn't."
"What am I supposed to be a mind reader?" asked Soar. "When he swings, he swings."
In the sixth inning, Maris disagreed with a strike call, an infield pitch. Roger raised a high foul caught, outside the base on the pitcher's next delivery.
"They are pitching him inside," said Soar, "and he's letting them go by."
Said Maris: "I realize an umpire can have a bad day just as a player can have one. But I don't like it when it happens every time I come to bat. I'm not looking for any favors. All I want is a fair shake."

Fifty Million Go Fishing, Hunting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifty million Americans hunted or fished in 1960, 30 million of them in more than an occasional way, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall reported today.
Udall said the 1960 national survey of fishing and hunting showed 30,455,000 persons 12 years or older devoted all or part of 658 million days to fishing and hunting and spent $3,852,000,000 while enjoying this kind of recreation.
He explained that the over-all 50 million hunters-fishermen figure was derived from a special separate survey conducted for the Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission. This survey added the occasional hunters and fishermen to those who pursued their sport more than a day or two or purchase a license or spent money.
"more than $5—criteria used in the basic 1960 survey."
Tim Davis, a sophomore place kicker on the 1961 Alabama football squad, is the son of former Alabama star fullback "Pig" Davis.

JOLTING JOE..... by Pap

In his first clubhouse speech after succeeding Solly Hemus as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, Johnny Keane announced that Joe Cunningham would have to play more. It was all Cunningham could do to keep from jumping to his feet and seconding the motion. Joe doesn't care where he plays, in the outfield or infield, just so long as he gets his regular turns at bat.
Cunningham's career with the Cardinals has followed the pattern of a roller-coaster. His career has been marked by ups and downs that seem inconsistent with the hustling type of ball player Cunningham has been since he made his bow as a Cardinal in the summer of 1954. Joe has always been a clutch hitter and he practically guarantees at least one tumbling, diving catch per game. For a long time, Joe was called "Frank Merriwell" by his teammates because of his ability to come through with clutch hits. Joe made his big league debut in sensational fashion when he had three home runs and nine runs-batted-in in his first two games. Incidentally, two of those home runs were off Warren Spahn's lefthanded offerings.
Cunningham hit his peak as a Cardinal in 1959 when he batted 345 to press Hank Aaron for the National League batting championship. He dropped to 280 in 1960 when he changed his batting style and started going for the fences. Joe is a slashing type of hitter, but not a slugger. He gave the matter a lot of thought during the winter lay-off and decided to go back to his 1959 style of batting. Cunningham started the current season like a house afire and then went into a tailspin. He got hot again in July and has been riding high ever since.

CHECKING HIS MEN — Cincinnati Reds manager Fred Hutchinson keeps a close watch on his team's batting practice in Forbes Field. The Reds, who finished sixth last year, are rated a strong possibility to take the 1961 National League pennant.

Nat'l Loop Leading Reds Down Chicago Cubs By 7-2 Tuesday

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
It had been a dreary season for Darrell Johnson, who started out as a coach for the St. Louis Cardinals, was fired with Manager Solly Hemus, hooked on with the woeful Philadelphia Phils, then was unceremoniously sold to Cincinnati.
But now Johnson is a hero for the National League-leading Reds, who beat the Chicago Cubs 7-2 Tuesday night as the reserve catcher drove in three runs with a pair of doubles in a victory that boosted the Reds edge over second-place Los Angeles to 4 1/2 games.

Johnson, 34, with a .235 major league batting average, has been hitting at a .275 clip since he was purchased by the Reds but his exploits had to share top billing with Don Demeter's.
Demeter made the woeful Phils anything but as he crashed three homers and a single, driving in seven runs in a 19-10 rout of the pennant-chasing Dodgers. Joe Gibbon's three-hitter for Pittsburgh blanked San Francisco 3-0 and a five-hitter by St. Louis' Bob Gibson checked Milwaukee 4-1.
In the American League, Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle went homerless as the league-leading New York Yankees beat Chicago's White Sox 4-3 in a game called in the last of the sixth due to rain. Second-place Detroit defeated Kansas City 3-1 for Frank Lary's 20th win, and Washington whipped Boston 5-1. Los Angeles and Minnesota were rained out. Baltimore and Cleveland were idle.

Johnson and Wally Post formed a formidable 1-2 punch for the Reds against starter Dick Ellisworth (8-11) and his successors as Cincinnati beat its No. 1 nemesis for only the ninth time in 21 meetings.
Post hit his 19th homer in the fourth and drove in the clincher for Jim O'Toole (15-9) with a sixth inning single that scored Elio Chacon.

In a game that had nine homers—five by the Phils—29 hits and the most runs scored against the Dodgers since they moved to Los Angeles in 1958, Demeter's performance was easily the standout. The former Dodger hit a two-run homer in the first, drove in a run with a single in a nine-run second, homered with two on in the seventh and hit a solo shot in the ninth.
That nine-run second inning won it for the Phils, who chased starter Sandy Koufax (15-11).

Clay Dalrymple stroked two singles and batted in three runs as Philadelphia broke the game open on six hits, three walks, an error and a hit batsman.
Dick Stuart homered twice, driving in all Pittsburgh's runs off Mike McCormick (12-15) as Gibbon (11-10) snapped the Giants' four-game winning streak.
Run-producing singles by Charlie James and Don Tausig and an error on a throw home won it for Gibbon (11-11) as the Cardinals chased Milwaukee starter Bob Hendley with three runs in the seventh.

Grand Jury Indicts 6 Men On NCS Bribery Charges

RALEIGH (AP) — Six New Yorkers are to be tried here on charges of bribing North Carolina State college basketball players to throw games or shave points.
District Solicitor (prosecutor) Lester V. Chalmers said the cases would be scheduled in Wake Superior Court "just as soon as is humanly possible."
The Wake County Grand Jury deliberated all day Tuesday and formally indicted the six men. They face between 30 and 50 years in prison if convicted on all counts.
Star witnesses before the grand jury were Stan Niewierowski, N. C. State team captain during the 1960-61 season, and Terry Litchfield of Louisville, Ky., another former player. Both have been charged in the scandal.
One of the indictments charged Joseph Green, a gambler now in jail in New York City, with six counts of offering bribes and four counts of actual bribery. If convicted, he could face a maximum of 50 years in prison.
In the other bill of indictment, the grand jury charged Charles Tucker, an attorney, David Budin, Michael Siegel, Lou Barsbak and Bob Kraw.

They each face maximum terms of 30 years if convicted on all counts.
In addition to Niewierowski, a Brooklyn native, and Litchfield, former State players named in connection with the scandal were Anton Muehlbauer of Brooklyn and Don Gallagher of Binghamton, N.Y.
Gallagher's name was mentioned for the first time Tuesday in the indictment against Green. The bill accuses Green of bribing Gallagher $1,250 in the N.C. State-Maryland game of Feb. 13, 1960.
Charges are pending against Niewierowski, Muehlbauer and Litchfield. Chalmers said no charges have been leveled at Gallagher, but he was studying the possibility.
Gallagher, a campus leader while at State, now is a lieutenant in an Army Ranger unit stationed in Germany.
The name of four of the men indicted — Tucker, Budin, Siegel and Kraw — were linked to the North Carolina scandal for the first time. Green and Barsbak had been charged previously.
The solicitor did say that the whereabouts of all the men except Kraw was known.
He is to prepare warrants to be sent to New York and then initiate extradition proceedings.
Green was charged on 10 counts: offering to bribe and bribing Niewierowski $2,000 and Muehlbauer $1,250 in the State-Duke game at Durham last Jan. 7; offering to bribe and bribing Niewierowski and Gallagher each $1,250 in the State-Maryland game of Feb. 13, 1960; and offering to bribe Niewierowski and Muehlbauer $1,250 each in the State-North Carolina game of Feb. 15, 1961.

Of the four games involved, three had been publicized previously as being tainted. Tuesday's action brought mention for the first time of the State-Maryland game.
State defeated Maryland in the contest played here 48-46.
Asked if any more charges would be brought in connection with the scandal, Chalmers said, "I'm studying that end of it right now."

WHEN THE SUPER MARKET STARTED GIVING PREMIUM STAMPS, HECKLAETTA CLAIMED IT WAS NOTHING BUT A BIG HOLDUP—

U.S. Luxury Market Booming And Widening

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The luxury market is both booming and widening.

It is booming today because people have more money to spend than a few years back and a greater knowledge of and taste for quality goods. It is widening because what once was bought by the high-income class as a luxury is now being bought by the middle-income group, the fastest growing in the nation in recent years.

And the luxury market is booming and widening because more producers are promoting wares in this field, which they once considered too small to enter.

Sales of products regarded as luxuries are growing at a much faster rate than the population. And sellers report demand is now coming from the blue collar group rather than being confined as it once was to the well-to-do.

Prices of luxuries are rising fast, too. A striking example is in the field of art—pictures so valuable now as to attract a wave of thefts—and in the rising price tags on antique furniture.

Yesterday's luxury tends to become today's commonplace. But here are a few examples of how sales of such items have grown.

In 1954 the number of home swimming pools was estimated at 15,000, and today there are about 170,000—still regarded as luxuries by most of those who don't have them.

In 1951 power lawn mowers were vaunted as luxuries by some 1,241,000 owners. Today nearly four million are in use—and still called a status symbol. In 1956 there were 86 Rolls-

Royces on American streets and now nearly 500; and 2,157 Mercedes-Benzes then against 14,500 now. There were 5,000 owners of a MG then, compared with 12,800 now; and 3,000 Jaguar jockeys against at least 5,000 today.

Where has the money for these things come from? Well, the number of families with annual incomes of $25,000 and over has doubled since 1950. And today some 10 million families have incomes of $10,000 or more, almost twice as many as five years ago.

All this has created the market for high quality luxury products, in the view of Albin O. Holder, board chairman of Bronzini, men's and women's accessories shops where the prices definitely aren't bargain basement.

In his belief that the market is ripe for still better and costlier products, Holder's other enterprise, Cosmetic Chemicals Corp., is bringing out a new perfume

Hurricane Help By West Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—West Berliners were called on today to show gratitude to the United States by raising money to help victims of Hurricane Carla.

The newspaper Morgenpost began the drive with an appeal under a banner headline reading: "Berliners—at this hour we want to show our thanks to America."

In large-lettered text beneath, the newspaper said: "American soldiers are ready to give their lives for the freedom of Berlin. Let us help those who have helped us."

Balked

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A Dayton man planned to build a nuclear blast shelter.

The original design was produced for testing at the Nevada proving grounds. Nuclear engineers claimed it would withstand five times the pressure of an atomic blast and keep out gamma rays and fallout.

Its estimated cost was above $2,500.

The resident hired a contractor. An engineer approved the plans. A 17-foot pit was dug in his backyard.

Then he applied to Montgomery County officials for a building permit.

His application was denied. County engineers questioned whether the shelter would hold up the six-foot of earth the man planned to pile on top of it.

Merit Exams In CD Field Slated

RALEIGH: Merit examinations for a number of positions in local Civil Defense Agencies in North Carolina will be held October 7, according to an announcement from the Merit System Council.

Claude Caldwell, Supervisor of the Merit System, said that applications for these examinations must be in his office by September 25.

Examinations for the following positions will be included: Assistant Director of Civil Defense; Administrative Officer; Food Supply Officer; Civil Defense Officer; Welfare; Women's Activities Officer; Training Officer; Public Information Officer; Administrative Assistant; and Radio Operator.

Some vacancies in these positions now exist and others are expected as Civil Defense services expand.

Applications and information about salary ranges and nature of work for each position can be obtained from the Merit System Office and State Personnel Department in Raleigh, or from your local Employment Security Commission.

Mr. Caldwell said the examinations will consist of written tests and will be conducted in Raleigh plus other designated cities where there are sufficient applications to warrant it.

Answer 52 Calls To Fire, Rescue

Fifty-two calls were answered by Greenville Fire and Rescue units during the month of August, according to the monthly report of the Fire Department's activities by Chief George W. Gardner.

Chief Gardner said fourbox alarms were responded to during the 31-day period, while 14 telephone calls to fires were received. Rescue calls totaled 34, he noted.

A break-down of the fire calls included five to dwellings, three autos, two factories, one false and seven service calls.

Total official fire losses for the calendar year, according to the chief, total $54,000.47.

There were 188 buildings inspected during the month, the report showed, including 170 firms within the fire district, 18 outside the district, nine warehouses, two theaters and two churches.

Sixty-five homes were inspected during the month while an additional 51 were visited but not inspected because no one was at home.

The chief also noted the department's new 1,000 gallon-per-minute American La France pumper has been received, and placed in service.

Volunteer payroll for the month totaled $122.25 while the total for the fiscal year totals $234.75.

All fire and rescue personnel are continuing their regular weekly practices and classes, Chief Gardner concluded.

Focus On Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The danger of flu outbreaks this fall, a poisonous bean on a garden plant, and a look at seasickness are subjects for Focus on Health:

GET FLU SHOTS

Health authorities warn that there is likely to be an upswing in influenza outbreaks this fall and winter—and they urge vaccination now.

Because various flu outbreaks come in definite cycles, the U.S. Public Health Service predicts the nation is due for some Asian flu and overdue for T. B. flu this year. Both types have been prevalent elsewhere in the world this past season.

Persons over 65, pregnant women and persons suffering from heart disease, diabetes or other chronic illnesses are urged to get flu shots now.

The National Tuberculosis Association warns that persons with respiratory ailments like TB, and emphysema are in especial danger.

Insurance statisticians explain that death rates climb under the influence of influenza and resulting pneumonia. These diseases strike most severely those persons least capable of resisting them.

BEWARE THE CASTOR BEAN

If you have small children roaming your yard, beware of the castor oil plant and its fruit, the castor bean.

Many gardeners grow these plants because of their decorative appearance and large leaves. They often substitute as a quick-growing shrub about new homes. But if any unwary child should chew the castor bean, fatal poisoning can result, says a University of Michigan pediatrician, Dr. George H. Lowrey.

Symptoms appear in one to two days. They include vomiting, drowsiness, stupor and stomach ache, with death occurring within 12 days.

SAILING, SAILING

Who's most likely to get seasick?

A study of U.S. soldiers riding troopships back and forth across the Atlantic indicated these findings:

More seasickness for those under 25 years of age, than those above.

Those in the forward and after sections of the ship were more often seasick than those amidships.

Heavier persons were more susceptible than lighter individuals.

Those making their first ocean crossing were more susceptible than more experienced hands.

The most effective seasickness pills contained the drug mescizline.

STORMY WEATHER

Electrical storms seem to affect the number of patients admitted to mental hospitals, a scientist says. The more storms, and the more intense they are, the more patients.

Dr. Robert O. Becker said early work indicates that an electrical charge in human beings may affect their mental and general well-being.

Magnetic fields around us, and our electrical interaction with those fields may influence our behavior, said Dr. Becker of the State University of New York Upstate Medical Center.

Outside electrical influences may interfere with electrical transmission in human nerve fibers, he suggested. He said a direct current of electrical flow has been discovered in human nerves and it is closely related to sleep and anesthesia and hypnosis. It fluctuates in normal humans, but has greater variations in the mental-ly ill.

Producer Refused Million Dollars To Drop His Film

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What would you do if someone offered you a million dollars to quit what you were doing?

The chance came to film producer Samuel Bronston. He said, "No!"

Bronston had just begun shooting his picture, "King of Kings," when the representatives of another company which wished to make a film of the life of Christ—20th Century-Fox—approached him.

"They offered to pay all my expenses—and give me a cool million dollars besides if I'd abandon my project," recalled Bronston. "And this was only the beginning—they'd have gone higher. But I told them I couldn't quit."

"It seemed inhuman to me to give up. I had dreamed of making the life of Christ ever since I helped photograph art and reli-

199 Arrests In August Reported

Police Chief Guy C. Langston reported that 82.9 per cent of the 234 cases known to police during his first full month as head of the department were cleared by arrests.

Langston gave the figures in his August report of the Department's activities to the City Council.

According to the report, in addition to the 199 arrests made by Greenville officers, 13 arrests were recorded for other authorities with 13 cases being recorded also.

A total of 395 complaints were made to police during the 31-day period.

Included in the 199 arrests, the report showed, were 98 traffic violations, 34 drunkenness charges and 10 assault cases.

A breakdown of the traffic analysis show 22 drivers were charged with nonobservance of lights or signs; 18 arrested for speeding; 12 charged with having improper brakes or lights, and eight arrested for reckless driving.

Included in the arrests were 81 white males, 91 negro males, 15 white females and 12 negro females.

Department vehicles traveled a total of 19,288 miles in their regular patrol duties within the city during August.

gious treasures for the Vatican a dozen years ago.

"You're not always working just for money. Money is the consequence of deeds. You merely trade money for time to achieve your goals."

Bronston, one of nine children of a Bessarabian farmer, is a small, shy-voiced man with big ideas. He was graduated from the Sorbonne with a degree in political science, played the flute in the Paris Symphony Orchestra, and became one of Europe's top film salesman before turning to producing.

He poured $9 million into "King of Kings," spent another $9 million on "El Cid," both of which will be released this fall. He also has plans under way for three more epic productions totaling $18 million. His headquarters is in Madrid, where he has taken over most of Spain's two largest studios.

"I'm not equipped for small pictures," he said. "I am interested in big productions with international appeal."

"I like to play against an open ceiling—where the sky's the limit. There is a great market for big stories that are clean and moral and beautiful. That is what the people of all countries really want."

"And I want to cater to families—not to maniacs."

Two incidents show Bronston's unusual attitude toward budget costs.

He spent $180,000 building a 100-foot tall granite temple of Judea for "King of Kings." A hurricane destroyed it overnight. Strolling about the ruins in his pajamas, Bronston said only two words: "Rebuild it."

A film company wanting to make another Biblical picture offered him $300,000 for his City of Jerusalem set.

"No, that wouldn't be right—there's too much of us in it," said Bronston. "If we have no other use for it, it's better to tear it down."

Mental Health Workshop Set September 27

A select group of 40 local community leaders from across North Carolina will go to Pinehurst September 27th to take part in a special workshop on "Leadership Development of Lay Mental Health Workers".

The two-day workshop is being sponsored by the North Carolina Mental Health Association, the Mental Health Section of the North Carolina State Board of Health and the National Institute of Mental Health.

The workshop will have its headquarters at the Holly Inn, in Pinehurst, and several national and state leaders will serve as speakers for the workshop sessions.

Among the speakers scheduled to take part in the workshop program are Miss Mary B. Roberts, Washington, D. C., Psychiatric Social Work Consultant for the National Institute of Mental Health; Harry Bryan of Columbia, S. C., Executive Director of the South Carolina Mental Health Association; Harry Mill of New York, Director of Public Relations for the National Association for Mental Health; Mrs. Vera Bruhn of Birmingham, Alabama, Executive Director of the Jefferson County Association for Mental Health in Alabama.

Several North Carolina leaders will join the out-of-state group as speakers at the special workshop.

Film Available On Agribusiness

"Agribusiness Unlimited", a 16 mm color and sound movie, is available for showing to civic groups and other organizations. Dr. Joe Fou, Wachovia's agricultural manager, has announced.

The film may be obtained through any Wachovia office from the N.C. State College Agricultural Extension Service.

The film depicts the North Carolina Agribusiness Caravan which is sponsored jointly by Wachovia, N.C. State College and the N.C. Department of Agriculture.

The 1961 North Carolina Agribusiness Caravan visited Mississippi, Texas and Louisiana.

Previous caravans have toured farming areas of California, Iowa, Canada, Maine, New York, Florida, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, New Jersey and other South Atlantic States.

Over the years, the caravans have studied innovations in tobacco production and marketing, ways to improve livestock production, methods to increase the quantity and quality of fruit and truck crops, new processing and marketing techniques as well as the benefits of industrial development and improved transportation facilities.

Wandering Book Found Way Home

MIAMI (AP)—In 1946, Inez Haigler was a Red Cross hospital recreation worker in Italy. Before she left the country, she gave the hospital some books with her name on the flyleaves.

The other day, her next door neighbor brought a book at a store in a Miami suburb. It was one Mrs. Haigler had left in Italy 15 years earlier. No one knows how it got to Florida.

Giant Cards Are Artistic Hobby

KEYPORT, N.J. (AP)—Harry J. La Douceur, 74, is composing mosaic pictures from old Christmas cards. He calls his creations "giant Christmas cards."

La Douceur says he used pieces of 336 Christmas cards to make one big card, three by five feet. Says La Douceur: "I'm not doing this for profit. It's just a pastime."

Basis is the world's leading sugar beet producer.

Pistol Pete Will Get Last Wish

STUART, Fla. (AP) — Pistol Pete Butler will get his last wish today—to be buried on the range where he rode as a top cowhand for so many years.

The wiry little Negro—his real name was Will Butler but he was better known as Pistol Pete—was struck by an automobile on U.S. 1 two miles south of Stuart early Saturday and died later in a West Palm Beach hospital.

Nobody knew his real age, but rancher William J. Matheson estimates Pistol Pete was over 80. He was drafted in World War I but was discharged because he was over age, said Matheson. That was 44 years ago.

Pistol Pete came from Texas, where he acquired his love of horses and the life of a cowboy. "He was a good hand," said Matheson. "For the 20 years he rode herd on our cattle he was close to the family."

Like most cowhands, Pistol Pete made a regular weekend sortie to the county seat.

"He would leave the ranch every Friday evening and come back early Saturday morning," Matheson said. "That's the only time he left the ranch."

The Matheson family and the ranch hands are giving Pistol Pete the kind of funeral any cowboy would want. The body will be brought to the ranch from a funeral home in Fort Pierce.

It will be in state in the Matheson living room from 1 to 2 p.m. Then six pallbearers—three white and three Negro—will take the body to the grave out in the pasture, in the shade of a clump of pines, where Pistol Pete often said he wanted to be buried.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market had to struggle to maintain a morning advance as profit-taking clipped back gains early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up 0.40 at 256.20 with industrials up 0.50, rails up 0.10 and utilities up 0.10.

Ford and Chrysler were up nearly a point. General Motors, American Motors and Studebaker-Packard were slightly higher.

Steels, most rubber shares, aircrafts, most metals and tobaccos also were higher. Oils weakened and rails failed to follow through on their strength of Tuesday.

The advance among auto shares came despite the uncertainties hanging over the General Motors strike. Although some plants were working, prospects dimmed for a general, over-all settlement before Friday.

Key issues rose fractionally, with here and there an occasional issue climbing a couple of points or so.

General Dynamics climbed nearly 2. General Electric also spurted around 2, touching a new 1961 high.

U.S. Rubber ran ahead more than a point and Goodrich also moved slightly higher, but Good-year eased. United Aircraft was up almost a point and Boeing a major fraction, while Lorillard led the tobacco group with a gain of nearly one.

Jersey Standard was firm, but Terao was about unchanged and Indiana Standard fell back a bit.

Chemicals were mixed with Du Pont off around one and Eastman Kodak lower, offsetting small gains by Union Carbide and Air Reduction.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.13 at 723.74 at noon, nothing like the advance of 8.25 over Tuesday's entire ses-

Prices on the American Stock Exchange held to a higher pattern.

Corporate bonds were mixed and U.S. government bonds quiet.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices mostly steady to 50 higher. Tops of 18.75-19.75 Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove; 18.50-19.50 Wilson, Nahant; 18.75-19.25 Spring Hope; 18.50-19.50 Smithfield, Dunn, Rocky Mount; 18.25-18.75 Pembroke; 19 Clinton, Fayetteville, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Tarboro, Enfield, Scotland Neck, Goldsboro, Bethel, Murfreesboro, Albemarle; 18.75 Rich Square, Greensboro, Lillington; 18.50 Siler City, Castle Hayne, Keno, Burgaw.

Wilson cash cattle prices steady; steers and heifers, choice 22.50-24.50, good 21-23, standards 17-20; beef cows 13.50-16.50, heavy cutters 13.50-15; light bulls 13-15, heavy bulls 16.50-18.50.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady to slightly weaker. Supplies short, demand good. Prices paid producers for clean, unsorted eggs, delivered nearby grading stations on a grade-yield basis, cases exchanged: Grade A large, whites 41½-42½; medium, whites 30-31; small, whites 17-19, mostly 17-8.

Grimesland Sets Price For Water System Tie-Ins

GRIMESLAND—The Grimesland Town Board last night agreed to charge $5 per customer for those connecting to the water system as of now, Town Clerk Lela Bell Hoell said today.

Also, members decided that the 15th of each month would be the "cut-off" date for those who have not paid their water bills. The cut-off date has been the 25th of each month. The service charge for re-connection to the line will be $1, the board decided.

Mrs. Hoell said that delinquent taxes for the year 1960 and previous years will be advertised soon for those who had not paid their taxes within the next 30 days.

A cleanup campaign is currently being conducted here, with crews scrubbing sidewalks, cleaning vacant lots and cleaning curbs and gutters.

Ruritan Club Elects Officer

WINTERVILLE — Charles Runkle was elected vice president of the Winterville Ruritan Club at a meeting here last night to replace Boyce Barwick who has become president of the club.

Barwick, former vice president, assumed the presidency when Henry Melvin, former pastor of the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church moved to New Bern.

Estate Planning Council Meets Here

The Eastern Carolina Estate Planning Council—a newly-chartered organization of attorneys, certified public accountants, life insurance underwriter, and Ralph P. Hardee (of Ayden), Wachovia Bank trust officer.

The organization, chartered under the National Estate Planning Council, is designed to provide an opportunity for members of the four professions it embraces to study the details of the four phases involved in planning an estate.

Officers of the Council, in addition to Epps, include Thomas M. Moore, first vice president; J. D. Hammond, second vice president; and J. Charles Anthony, secretary-treasurer. All the officers are Wilson residents.

Membership in the council comes from six Eastern N. C. cities—Greenville, Kinston, Tarboro, Rocky Mount, Wilson and Goldsboro.

Powell Bland, Goldsboro attorney, presented the proposal, later adopted by the membership, for

Two ordinances were approved, one concerning burning of trash and the other, ice boxes and refrigerators.

The first stated that "No person or corporation shall burn or allow to be burned on his or its premises or on streets, parkways or sidewalks adjoining same, any leaves, trash, debris, or other material unless the same is enclosed in a solid or perforated container."

Another section of the ordinance stated that the ordinance does not apply to situations when the individual or corporation has obtained a special permit granting right to burn trash, leaves, debris or other materials on a certain day at a certain place and at a given hour from Fire Chief Tillman Chauncey.

The second ordinance concerning regulation of leaving, abandoning and discarding of ice boxes, refrigerators, freezers and other airtight cabinets. It was decided that state laws covering the situations above mentioned are conclusive and will be rigidly enforced by the town of Ayden, Paylor said.

Grifton Board Accepts Fogging Machine Sum

GRIFTON—The Grifton Town Board last night accepted $900 from a group of citizens for the purchase of a fogging machine.

The machine will cost $1,050, leaving a balance of $150 needed to complete the purchase. The board voted to pay the remainder of the sum. The town already has a fogging machine.

Other business was routine. The board endorsed a resolution proposing the erection of a bridge across the Roanoke River between Williamston and Scotland Neck.

Mayor Wiley Gaskins designated the week of Sept. 17 as "General Clean Up Week."

The Police Department report showed 25 arrests for August, with 23 found guilty in the courts, one not guilty and one case continued. The men worked a total of 923 hours, investigated two accidents, attended to three funerals and two fires.

The Recorder's Court report showed a balance of $819.16. The Library report revealed 655 books were issued during the month of August.

Talks On United Fund To PTA

FALKLAND — W. W. Wooten spoke to the Falkland School P. T. A. Monday night at their first meeting on the advantages of the United Fund.

The Rev. Jesse Parks, pastor of Falkland Church, spoke following Wooten.

Charles W. Moye, principal, then discussed a tobacco drive. He said that a committee had decided to sponsor a tobacco drive instead of a supper, to support the P. T. A.

Refreshments were served in the library, after which parents visited classrooms.
