

UN Troops Reel Under Swelling Katanga Attacks

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—U.N. troops were reported reeling today under a massive assault by Katanga soldiers and war-painted Baluba tribesmen on Kamina, the main U.N. military center in rebellious Katanga Province.

A radio message from the Kamina control tower received at Usumbura, in the neighboring Belgian trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi, said resistance of the 500 U.N. troops was weakening and "it will be difficult to hold out much longer."

White officers led the massed attacks. A bloody struggle, touched off Wednesday by the U.N. decision to use force to restore Katanga to the rule of the Congo's central government in Leopoldville, persisted also in Elisabethville, the capital, and at the mining town of Jadotville, 60 miles northwest of Elisabethville.

U.N. helicopters ferried food and ammunition to the isolated Irish garrison of Jadotville, besieged by hordes of hostile Katangans in six days of savage fighting.

A Dublin dispatch said the Irish government listed 3 men as missing and presumed dead, 5 wounded and 27 captured from a Jadotville defense force that originally totaled 150.

Sniping continued in the tree-lined streets of Elisabethville. City power lines were reported cut again. A clandestine station calling itself Radio Free Katanga quoted President Moise Tshombe as saying his regime is conducting total war against the United Nations.

Two jet aircraft of Tshombe's tiny air force bombed and strafed U.N. troop positions, which have neither fighter planes nor anti-aircraft batteries.

U.N. headquarters was reported to have asked member governments urgently for jet fighters. Informed sources said Sweden was considering sending in some.

Casualties have been heavy and U.N. sources said Katangans regained control of large sections of Elisabethville.

The bitterest fighting, however, appeared centered at Jadotville and at Kamina, in the north.

Official Belgian sources in Usumbura—taking a much graver view than Dublin or Leopoldville of the Jadotville situation—estimated 66 Irish soldiers had been killed there and said it was "virtually confirmed" that the rest of the contingent surrendered.

The central government's anger at its failure to bring mineral-rich Katanga under its domination was reflected by the arrest of several Belgian civilians in Leopoldville. Belgians developed and still largely control the rich mines, industries and farms of Katanga.

The 150 Irish soldiers at Jadotville were originally sent there to protect the European population. They have been under siege for six days, although the open fighting for Katanga did not begin until early Wednesday.

They were surrounded by 500 well-armed Katanga troops and hundreds of fanatical Beyeka tribesmen. A U.N. relief column was turned back by Katangan roadblocks, reinforced by heavy machine guns.

Conor Cruise O'Brien, an Irishman who is the chief U.N. representative in Katanga, said enough Katanga prisoners had been captured to set up an exchange for the Irish if necessary. Radio Free Katanga, Tshombe's station, declared that 10 U.N. prisoners would be executed for every Katangan killed. About 130 Irish U.N. troops were prisoners when the announcement was made. It followed orders from U.N. officials for the summary execution of any Katangan civilian found carrying weapons.

Ever Closer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Without changing course or intensity, Hurricane Esther spun toward the U.S. mainland today close enough to ruffle the seas around the Leeward Islands and north of Puerto Rico.

Forecasters said residents along the U.S. Atlantic Seaboard should start keeping closer watch on Esther advisories about Sunday night or Monday.

Scout planes located Esther at 5 a.m. near latitude 22.6 north, longitude 60.2 west or 500 miles northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico. Miami is 1,000 miles beyond San Juan. Esther was moving west-northwest at 15 m.p.h. and was expected to maintain until Sunday morning.

Scientists of the hurricane research project stood by in San Juan to embark on a hurricane seeding attempt if conditions warranted.

U.S. Tests Junior-Size Atom Blast

By FRANK CAREY WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States began its underground nuclear test series with an apparently junior-sized blast packing a punch equivalent to 1,000 tons of TNT—possibly less.

President Kennedy announced that Friday's low yield, no-fallout underground explosion took place in a remote, highly guarded section of Nevada. There was no advance announcement and the blast was not audible in the nearest city, Las Vegas, 65 miles away.

In his statement, Kennedy said, "The detonation has produced no fallout. This is in marked contrast to the Soviet nuclear tests in the atmosphere."

He added, "The United States once again reaffirms its readiness to negotiate a controlled test ban agreement of the widest possible scope."

Fifteen days ago, the Soviets junked their three-year moratorium on nuclear testing. They have fired 10 blasts into the atmosphere in their current test series.

Kennedy said the United States was "forced reluctantly" to test again "when the Soviet Union without warning, but after a great deal of preparation, resumed testing in the atmosphere."

There have been reports from an authoritative source that a series of 24 U.S. weapons was ready for testing as soon as Kennedy gave the go-ahead.

The known facts about the force of yesterday's U.S. test are these: 1. The White House described the explosive yield of the blast only as one of "low yield."

2. A University of California seismologist reported that his seismograph had recorded the earthshock from the blast. He said its magnitude on the earthquake scale of reckoning was 4. That would be a moderate earthquake.

Figures made public last year during hearings of the Senate House Atomic Committee gave the equivalent earthshock magnitude of several of the underground nuclear shots at the Nevada test site during 1957-1958.

The first of the underground weapons developmental shots, touched off Sept. 19, 1957, had an explosive yield of 1,700 tons of TNT equivalent. The magnitude of the earthshock from that blast was listed as 4.07.

Another shot packed a punch of 5,000 tons of TNT equivalent. The magnitude of its earthshock was listed as 4.4 (plus or minus 0.4).

Western Policy Makers Shaping Up Counter-Measures To Threats

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western Big Four foreign ministers went into the final session of a three-day strategy conference today reportedly agreed on further counter-measures to deal with Red threats to West Berlin.

The Western policy makers also reached general agreement that U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk would undertake a preliminary sounding out of the Soviets to see if an East-West foreign ministers negotiating conference would be worth while.

Such a gathering would be expected to be held in October or November. Rusk is scheduled to go to New York Sunday for Tuesday's opening of the U.N. General Assembly, and for exploratory talks on Berlin with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Before the foreign ministers meeting, France's Maurice Couve de Murville and West Germany's Heinrich von Brentano went directly to the conference room. But Lord Home, Britain's foreign secretary, had a separate conference with Rusk.

While the delegations assembled in the conference room, some foreign diplomats confirmed to reporters that there is a hardening of the Western position since the conference opened on Thursday.

The tougher attitude of the French government was apparently accepted at least partly by the Allies. The French, a diplomat said, were especially concerned that the Russians might misunderstand further Western hesitance.

Couve de Murville reportedly persuaded his colleagues that Moscow has to be warned repeatedly against such "miscalculations."

The foreign ministers are reported to consider the Rusk-Gromyko probing operations a matter of crucial importance. Britain, and apparently the United States, favors an East-West foreign ministers meeting on Berlin in October and November if Gromyko brings word that Soviet Premier Khrushchev is ready for negotiations on what the Western powers would consider reasonable terms.

On the other hand, information from inside the conference is that the four Western ministers agreed that they will not become involved in any negotiations in which Khrushchev clearly intends to dictate the terms and humiliate the West. If that is the attitude which Gromyko displays to Rusk, the judgment of the Western ministers is reported to be that prospects of a shooting war over Berlin will be very great.

Informants said the Western foreign ministers have considered the possibility of making Berlin an open city or of establishing U.N. agencies in Berlin as a guarantee of its independence.

The Western policy meeting here went into its final day amid a rash of rumors about possible new moves by the Soviet Union and Communist East Germany in the Berlin crisis. The ministers learned Friday that the U.S. government has reported that the East German regime plans "the arrest and mass deportation" of people living on the Communist side of the Berlin and East German boundaries.

This information was made known by an official who declined to be specifically identified. He said the plan was reported to call for the "temporary closing" of the border crossing points in Berlin that are still open.

Indications were that the Western ministers agreed such further steps to seal off the Communist-held areas of Germany and Berlin would require prompt and stiff protests from the United States, Britain and France.

The State Department, meanwhile, heard rumors that Khrushchev was speeding up his plan for signing a separate peace treaty with the East German regime and might take the step as early as Sunday.

One of the major problems before Rusk and the foreign ministers has been what counteraction to take if the Reds undertake new moves. Officials said that plans actually developed must be preserved in official secrecy until put into effect.

From other sources it appeared that military, political and economic steps have been worked out in considerable detail and presumably cover such actions as cracking down on East-West trade and protecting air traffic in the Berlin corridors with Western fighter planes. Two instances of Soviet buzzing of U.S. airliners on Berlin flights were reported by the State Department Thursday.

The conference is also reported to have discussed in detail the approach which Rusk should take in his talks with Gromyko. It is understood that he is to express Western interest in finding a peaceful Berlin solution but at the same time emphasize that the Western powers do not intend, even at the risk of war, to yield their Berlin rights.

President Kennedy in a letter to neutralist leaders with whom he conferred earlier in the week laid down another condition for negotiation. He said, "We do not intend to enter into negotiations under ultimatums or threats."

Greenville Detectives have arrested two Negro men and are searching for a third person connected with the Tuesday robbery of Negro cafes.

The officers reported that Robert Joe Carnie, 23, of Ford St. and Alex Waller, 37 of 1394 Fairfax St. have been charged on two counts of breaking and entering and larceny in connection with the case.

Warrants have been issued for James R. Freeman, 22, also Negro, identified as the third person connected with the thefts.

According to detectives, break-in were reported at the West End Tea Room on West Fifth St., and at the Riverside Inn on Colonial Ave. early Tuesday morning.

At the Colonial Ave. business, the robbers broke open the cigarette machine, took eight packs of cigarettes and caused damage estimated at $5. Entrance to the building was made through the front door, according to the report.

An estimated $33 dollars was taken from the West End Tea Room's cigarette machine and juke box, officers said. Damage was placed at $10. to the rear door, through which the thieves entered.

Officers said Carnie and Waller were taken into custody Wednesday, then charged after confessing the robberies.

RALEIGH (AP)—An all-embracing study of higher education in North Carolina has been assigned to a 24-member commission headed by Irving Carlyle, Winston-Salem attorney.

Gov. Sanford named the group Friday. Its duty will be to identify and define the state's needs in higher education and to recommend means of meeting the needs.

Specifically, the governor requested a study on prospective enrollments, with an optimum growth plan for existing institutions; a study of needs for faculty members and what their salaries should be; and how higher education can best be financed, including the likely cost over the next 15 years of capital improvements and operations.

Sanford explained, however, that he wishes to leave the study field wide open.

He recommended that periodic reports be made with a final report due in by at least Sept. 1, 1962.

The commission, which includes members from all segments of higher education, was dubbed the Governor's Commission on Education Beyond High School.

It is to be financed, Sanford told a news conference, largely and perhaps entirely through private funds.

Commission members include Chairman Dallas Herring of the State Board of Education, chairman L. P. McLendon of the State Board of Higher Education, President William C. Friday of the University of North Carolina, President Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina College, President Bonnie E. Cone of Charlotte College, President Alfonso Elder of North Carolina College, and President Deryl Hart of Duke University.

Art Meeting Is Slated Tuesday

The North Carolina State Art Society and the Associated Artists of North Carolina will hold a joint meeting here Tuesday evening, to be followed by a reception at the Greenville Art Center and the official opening of the North Carolina Printmakers Exhibition.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Eighth Street Christian Church. The reception immediately following will honor State Art Society officials and other distinguished guests. Members of the East Carolina Art Society are hosts for the occasion.

Notices of the meeting have been sent to artists and art groups throughout the northeastern part of the state, and attendance is expected to represent Rich Square, Windsor, Plymouth, Washington, Belhaven, Kinston, Raleigh, Wilson, Winterville, Ayden, Farmville, Fayetteville, Winston-Salem and Goldsboro.

The public is invited to both the program at the Christian Church and to the reception at the art center. A special feature of the reception will be the official opening of the North Carolina Printmakers Exhibition, which is the North Carolina Museum of Art's first traveling show.

The meeting of the State Art Society and Associated Artists will be highlighted by an address by Dr. Justus Bier on "Great Paintings in the North Carolina Museum of Art." Dr. Bier is director of the North Carolina State Museum of Art.

M. K. Blount, president of the East Carolina Art Society, will welcome the guests. Dr. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville will make the program introduction, as president of the State Art Society.

Special guests to be recognized during the program are Owen D. Lewis, president of Associated Artists of North Carolina; William C. Fields, president-elect of Associated Artists; and Dr. Bier.

A State Art Museum staff member will comment on the North Carolina Printmakers Exhibition.

Mrs. Reid Perkins is serving as chairman of the Reception Committee, assisted by Mrs. S. M. Crisp, Mrs. Lee Hannah, Mrs. E. M. Graham Flanagan, Mrs. Tyrus Wagner and Mrs. J. Hampton Thomas.

Guests will be received at the front door by Mayor and Mrs. Charles King and Mr. and Mrs. Tyrus Wagner, and introduced to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Blount, Dr. and Mrs. Humber, Dr. Bier, Lewis, Fields, Dr. and Mrs. K. B. Pace, Mrs. W. Frank Taylor, vice president, State Art Society, and Mr. Taylor, Mrs. Charles Aycock, director, State Art Society, and Mr. Aycock, Dr. Wellington B. Gray, chairman, East Carolina College art department, and Mrs. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Speight, and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Debnam.

Serving punch will be Mrs. S. M. Crisp and Mrs. J. Hampton Thomas, assisted by Mrs. Walter Harrington, Mrs. E. E. Rawl Jr., and Mrs. Walter Reid Perkins Jr.

Representing the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh will be Mrs. Margaret Ehringhaus, secretary, State Art Society; Miss Edith Johnson, director of the museum book shop; Ben Williams, curator; Charles Stanford, curator of education, who will be present in the different galleries to give information about the exhibit.

Members of the Board of Directors of East Carolina Art Society will be receiving throughout "the art center": Mrs. W. I. Wooten, Miss Lilah Gait, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Brown, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Speight, Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Monroe, Claude Taylor, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, Frank Wooten and Mrs. Georgia P. Hearne.

Music for the reception will be furnished by a string quartet, courtesy of the East Carolina College music department.

Report Increased Fighting In Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Anti-Castro fighting in two Cuban provinces appears to be increasing, according to reports reaching here from Havana.

The reports said that at least two separate groups of rebels are presently battling Castro's militia in Pinar del Rio Province in eastern Cuba.

A large band reportedly is operating in Sierra de Los Organos under the leadership of a man known as "Cara Linda" (beautiful face).

Meanwhile, church and diplomatic sources said five priests from Havana's Church of the Charity, including Bishop Eduardo Boza Masvidal, were arrested in the aftermath of the anti-Communist riot in front of the church last Sunday.

Larkins Sworn As New Judge

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—Trenton attorney John D. Larkins Jr. was sworn in Friday as a new judge of North Carolina's Eastern Federal District Court.

Appointed by President Kennedy to the newly created extra judgeship, Larkins joined Judge Algeron Butler, a Republican on the Eastern District bench.

Two Arrested, Police Hunt Third In Robbery

Greenville Detectives have arrested two Negro men and are searching for a third person connected with the Tuesday robbery of Negro cafes.

Project Is Off To Promising Start

BONN, Germany (AP)—A bomb was found today in a package sent to West German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss, the Defense Ministry said. It was detected before delivery and did no harm.

Castro's Firing Squads Execute Four Early Today

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Four persons fell before Fidel Castro's firing squads in three Cuban cities today, Havana radio reported.

The broadcast said two were shot in La Cabana Fortress in Havana for their part in the attempted hijacking of a Cuban airliner last month.

Two others were executed in Santiago de Cuba after being convicted of participating in a plot against the life of Raul Castro, and two more were shot in Pinar del Rio for the deaths of three militiamen, the broadcast reported.

Prison sentences ranging from one to 30 years were handed out for 112 others, all accused of counter-revolutionary activities. One man was acquitted.

Farmville Mart Soars To Record

FARMVILLE — Farmville's tobacco market Friday saw its sales average soar to a new all-time record—a gross figure of $67.50 per hundredweight—as the market closed out the week's activity.

The market sold a total of 900,780 pounds for $608,892.38 to post its highest recorded average. The previous record—set Monday—was $56.86.

Sales supervisor Louis Williams attributed yesterday's new record average to a smaller volume of nondescript tobacco. Leaf grades and cutters, he said, dominated the floors here Friday.

Williams said prices, grade-for-grade, were about the same with "more high-$70 and $80-tobacco than we've seen yet this season."

Through Friday's sale, the Farmville market had sold a total of 13,599,786 for a total of $8,766,837.98 and a sales average of $64.46 during the first 18 selling days of the 1961 season.

Temperatures To Be Below Normal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Weather Bureau said Friday its 30-day outlook for mid-September calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals over most of the nation.

However, temperatures are expected to be above normal over the Northeast and near normal in the Middle Atlantic states, the West Coast states and Florida.

The bureau said the Central Plains are expected to be the area of most unseasonable coolness. Precipitation is expected to exceed normal along the West Coast and Atlantic seaboard, the bureau said, with subnormal rainfall in the North and the Lower Ohio Valley and Tennessee. In the remainder of the nation, about normal amounts are in prospect.

Colorful Paraders Provided The Music

SHRINERS ON PARADE—The leader of the Shriners' Oriental Band from Dunn flashes a gay smile at photographer Stuart Savage during Friday's parade that decorated Greenville for a half-hour. The parade came during the Pitt County Shrine Club's marathon fish fry that served at least 3,000 and raised funds for crippled children's hospitals, pet project of the Shriners of North America. (See story on page 6)

CROWDS SWARMED TO CURB MARKET OPENING held yesterday at the Greenville Art Center. Both the market and craft shop had a successful opening day. The market, featuring fresh and perishable items, will be open each Friday of the season from 4 until 6 p.m. at the Greenville Art Center. The craft shop is open Tuesdays through Saturdays, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. (Reflector Staff Photo)

First Presbyterian Announcements

Continuing in a series of sermons on the theme "Sources of Power for Daily Life," the Rev. Richard R. Gammon has chosen the title "The Power of Prayer" for the message to be delivered Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian Church. Services will be conducted at 9:00 and 11 o'clock. Mrs. Alison H. Moss will sing "The First Psalm" and the anthem will be "But the Lord is Mindful" by Mendelssohn.

Members of this church are reminded of and invited to attend the Area Leadership School which will be conducted each evening at 7:30, Monday through Friday of this coming week, at the First Presbyterian Church in Washington.

Miss Julia Escalona, exchange student at Escalona College, will speak to the Senior High Fellowship Sunday evening on "Communism versus Christianity in South America." The Pioneer Fellowship members will have a play, "A Day to Remember." The General Meeting of the Women of the Church will be held Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock, in the Church Parlor. In addition to the installation of new officers, Mrs. J. S. Jenkins and Mrs. Dink James will give reports on conferences.

Choir practice for the Pioneers and Seniors will be held Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Practice date for the Primary and Junior youths will be announced later.

Sunday, September 24, a special program will be conducted, and a Loyalty Night Supper will be held in the evening at 6 o'clock.

Recently elected officers of the Covenant Class are: Charlie Byrum, president; Walter Spill, vice president; Mrs. Mavis Johnson, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Frances Weathington, social director; Mrs. Sara Winbourne, newspaper editor, and Mrs. Tom Davis, teacher.

The sun is 400,000 times as bright as the full moon.

CAN'T REACH HIM...

They call him a problem child. "Can't reach him," say some. "He won't respond," echo others. Young as he is, he's already been in trouble with the police.

Why? There are lots of words, lots of phrases, to describe youngsters like this. The papers are full of them every day. There are lots of excuses given—for him, and for society. Are they valid?

This boy has parents. Why can't they reach him? Is it, perhaps, because they can't really reach themselves? Because they've never found themselves?

Self-discovery takes courage. It doesn't come easily. It takes help. It demands faith. The starting point for a quest of this kind is in the Church. This boy needs the Church. So do his parents. So, for that matter, do we all!

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

All About Town With Anne Mattox

Honor was bestowed upon a local woman Thursday at a luncheon meeting in Raleigh, of the Art Division, Fine Arts Department, Raleigh Woman's Club.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore of Greenville was honored by the Art Division making a gift of the Club of a framed reproduction of "Weaning the Calf," by American painter Winslow Homer.

The presentation was made in recognition of Mrs. Moore's move several years ago to get the Museum art into the state's schools.

Mrs. Moore, who has given her untiring efforts toward art on both the State and local level, selected the "Weaning of the Calf" from the Museum and had 100 reproductions of it made at her expense. She made them available to the state's women's clubs for distribution to local schools, one of which was presented to Wahl-Coates School in Greenville.

Mrs. Moore, who has been on the board of directors of the North Carolina Art Society for 16 years, and a past State Federation Art Chairman, was the founder of the Greenville Art Center. To Mrs. Moore, we the people of Pitt County owe our thanks for establishing such a fine Art Center as we have here in Greenville.

Also attending the luncheon meeting from Greenville were Mrs. Robert Humber and Mrs. W. E. Debnam.

The Fifth District Dental Society meeting will be held here Sunday and Monday with the Dental Auxiliary meeting in conjunction with them.

On Sunday's agenda for the visiting women will be a cocktail hour and buffet dinner at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, followed by a meeting at the Kenland Motel, at which Dr. James W. Batten will speak to the women's group.

A coffee hour and fashion show will be held for the women Monday morning at the Greenville Art Center, followed by a luncheon at the Country Club. That afternoon plans are for a golf tournament for those interested in the links and bride and canasta will be offered for the 75 women expected to attend the meeting this weekend.

Meeting for the first time in Greenville in several years the meeting has been under the leadership of Mrs. Ledyard Ross, overall chairman of the District gathering.

Greenvilleites attending the McConkey-Lassiter wedding Saturday in Morehead City are Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hannah, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Flanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sugg, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Starkey, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sauve, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Brown, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bost, Mrs. Helen White Hayes, Mrs. John Adams, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles White, Jr. The Lassiters are former Greenville residents now residing in Morehead City.

Judge and Mrs. William J. Bundy left Raleigh today by plane for Denver, Colo., where they will represent the Grand Lodge of North Carolina at their Centennial Celebration of the Grand Lodge of Colorado, which will be held September 16-17.

The United Council of Church Women of Greenville have requested the saving of cancelled stamps from letters and packages, to help feed war orphans over the world. Stamps are to be brought on World Community Day, which will be held on November 3 at the Eighth Street Christian Church. All stamps are acceptable except the four cent Lincoln stamp and the four cent Canadian stamp.

To those of you who didn't have the opportunity to attend the Curb Market yesterday at the Greenville Art Center you really missed the boat so to speak. The food looked delicious and was going like hot cakes. Inside the Center handmade items were on sale. The Curb Market which will be held each Friday had a successful beginning. A little tip to those planning to attend next week, the early bird gets the worms.

Hi-Fi Cabinets, Diet

If you've got a hi-fi fan in the family, you know the problem of trying to fit a bulky, boxy loud-speaker into the decor of a small living room.

In recent years the trend has been to smaller boxes of book-shelf size — but a shelf has limits.

Now there are new thin speakers by at least two makers. One is only 5 inches deep, with plain cloth grille, suitable for table tops.

Another line features a five-speaker system enclosed in a rectangle 25 inches high and 21 inches across, but only 4 inches thick — no wider than a woman's hand. Weight is 18 pounds. It has a decorative wood filigree overlay on one side — and can be hung on walls, used as a room divider or as a floor screen in front of a corner or radiator. The legs are detachable.

Most important for the hi-fi buff: The sound is excellent, thanks to two woofers for bass, two mid-range units, and a super-tweeter for highs.

HOME DECORATING TODAY

By MRS. R. W. DAVENPORT
HOW TO SELECT THE RIGHT BEDSPREAD

Just as bedspreads vary in color and size, they also vary in design and styling. There are heirloom reproductions for Early American or traditional decor. There are varied types for contemporary rooms. There are luxurious types for the elegant period rooms. A basic mood-maker in a room, the bedspread can create a variety of effects: It can make a room look elegant and dramatic; soft and feminine; authentic and traditional; trim and modern.

While the furniture style in the room is important to the choice of an appropriate bed covering, don't overlook the individuality and good looks that can be created by using combinations: an Oriental-type bedspread in a traditional room; a crisp, textured bedspread in a room with maple furniture; an heirloom bedspread combined with repainted cast-off furniture to give charm to a guest room.

The bedroom is one room where it is not necessary to consider the wants and desires of everyone in the family—it can be decorated to suit individual desires. Let it be your very own.

The Home Furniture Store can help you select just the bedspread you will enjoy the most for the longest.—(Adv.)

Phillips-Joyner Marry In Private Ceremony

FARMVILLE—In a private ceremony, with close friends and relatives present, Miss Sandra Earle Phillips became the bride of James Hubert Bryan Joyner Friday afternoon at five o'clock at her home, the Moore House. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William Gilbert Phillips and the late Mr. Phillips. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hubert Joyner.

The wedding scene was placed before the drawing room mantel which was banked with greenery, white gladioli and mums. Potted palms were used on either side of the mantel and floor standards of ferns formed a background for the white satin prie dieu where the couple made their pledges. The Rev. Allen C. Lee officiated.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Edith Allen, pianist.

The ceremony began as the bride descended the entrance hall stairway where she was met by her uncle, Fred Carr Moore, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a gown of rosepoint Alencon lace over white taffeta, fashioned in the Crinoline mode. Her full taffeta skirt was tiered in wide flounces of scalloped lace and dipped into a sweep at the back hemline. Scallop of the lace outlined the ruffled, molded neckline and edged the dainty cap sleeves. She wore white formal gloves and carried a nosegay of red roses snowed with red satin ribbons. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a pearl encrusted crown embellished with rhinestones.

Miss Mary Irene Phillips, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. Her dress of delicate blue silk-tulle was styled with a finely buckled bodice, rounded neckline, cap sleeves and a full short skirt. She wore matching half-hat of velvet leaves, short white gloves and carried a nosegay of pink roses with pink ribbons.

Mrs. Phillips, mother of the bride, was attired in a sheath dress of candlelight beige lace fashioned with a large self-material French rose at her shoulder. She used accessories in matching color.

Best man was William Alexander Allen III and the ushers were Albert Coy Monk III and John Daniel Dixon Jr., all of Farmville.

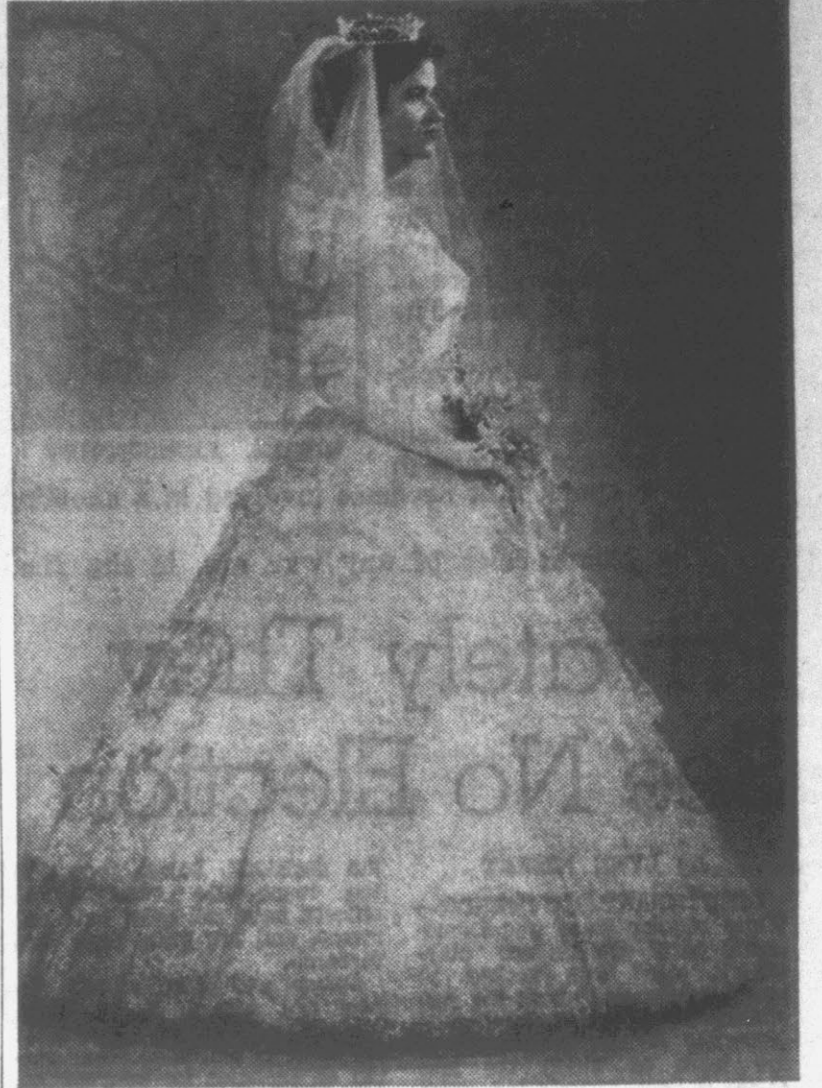

The bride attended Flora McDonald College where she was a member of the Epsilon Chi Society. She will enter East Carolina College during the winter session.

The bridegroom attended Atlantic Christian College and recently returned from a two-year tour of duty with the U.S. Army. He is a member of the Sigma Epsilon social fraternity. He is engaged in farming.

Reception
Immediately following the wedding ceremony, the bride's mother and her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Moore, entertained at a reception in the home.

A color note of pink and white was used in the floral decorations and the table appointments in the dining room which was in suite with the drawing room during the serving of refreshments.

The table was spread with a

white embroidered Madeira cloth. Pink roses centered the table and were flanked by branched silver candelabras holding pink tapers and ornamented with pink tulle.

The tiered wedding cake, topped with bride and groom figurines, was laid in white and trimmed with pink rose decorations. After the traditional bridal cutting, the cake was served by the bride's mother and her aunt, Mrs. Fred Carr Moore. Mrs. William Alexander Allen II presided at the silver punch service. Refreshments consisted of lime fruit punch, salted nuts, wedding mints, cheese straws, ham biscuits and chicken salad puffs. Assisting in the serving were: Noel Darden, Linda Monk,

Abbie Rives, Lou Dixon and Cecily Satterthwaite.

For her wedding trip the bride wore an autumn haze plaid suit styled with a short casual jacket and cowl neckline. Her hat of velvet bands with short starched veiling was in blending color and she used other accessories of brown tones. At her shoulder she wore a corsage of brown cymbidium orchids.

The couple will make their home in Farmville.

Mrs. Brunson Entertains Club

AYDEN—The Odds and Ends Bridge Club met with Mrs. Keith Brunson at her home Friday evening.

The home was decorated with summer flowers, and a dessert course was served as the guests arrived. During play salted nuts and punch were served. After several progressions were played, Mrs. Irma Belle Collins was given decorative candles for high score and Mrs. Lowenburgh Moore received fruit spoons for second high. Mrs. Jack Collins received towels as the consolation prize.

Lights out. FIRE BATONS! This scene occurred last night at the football game's halftime show which featured the majorettes.

Dressed in green uniforms, the majorettes, led by Mary Goodwin, strutted onto the field toward the approaching band led by Marvin Buck, drum major. After filing down a yard line to the Greenville side of the stadium, they performed a twirling routine with regular batons.

Suddenly the lights went out and the majorettes displayed their twirling abilities using fire batons as the band played "Bonds of Unity."

The other majorettes include Ann Hardee Joyner, Ann Carol Guise, Frankie Lamm, and Janet Farmer.

School Year Begins Well
In spite of crowded conditions because of the addition of one hundred forty-one more students, Rose high has settled down once more to another year of work and activities. Eight hundred twenty-eight pupils, a record number, enrolled for classes this year and thirteen new teachers have been added to the faculty. Mrs. Jo Scott has joined the faculty this week as a Spanish teacher.

Commenting on the traffic problem Rose high experienced at the first of the year, O. E. Dowd, principal, stated, "I would like to thank Chief of Police Guy Langston and the members of the force who handled the traffic situation here at the high school. Also, I would like to thank the traffic committees for helping in and around the school."

Rose High Obtains Counselor
For the first time Rose high has a guidance counselor to aid the students in both school and family problems. George S. McRorie, former English instructor, fills this position.

Guiding the students in finding their interests and advising juniors and seniors about colleges are two of Mr. McRorie's jobs. He also helps the students solve teenage problems whether they are scholastic or personal.

Since school began over 70 pupils have visited the office for private interviews and Mr. McRorie encourages others to see him if they need any help on any type of problems.

Mr. Mac, as he is called by the students, attended a Guidance Institute at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill during July and August.

Assertions by two Soviet army marshals that any war between the West and the Soviet Union would end in a nuclear conflict appears a well-timed statement to tie in with the resumption of nuclear tests by the Soviet Union.

Certainly any war between the forces of the East and West might well end in a nuclear conflict, and most of the world has recognized that fact for years. The statements of the Soviet marshals, therefore, must be viewed as another effort to intimidate uncommitted nations of the world and bring them under the Soviet sphere of influence out of fear. The statements might also be interpreted as a thinly veiled threat on the part of Soviet officials that Russia will not hesitate to unleash nuclear weapons if it becomes involved in a shooting war with the West.

Privately They See No Election

By LYNN NISBET

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR—While regular State and Democratic party officials are "playing it safe" with respect to public statements about the possibility of electing a Lieutenant Governor for the remainder of the term to which the late Cloyd Philpott was elected, nearly all of them privately say they see no way such an election can be held under the constitution.

The Attorney General has been asked for an opinion, and almost certainly the Supreme Court Justices also will be asked for an advisory opinion on the subject. Odds are at the ratio of ten to one or higher that all the answers will be negative. There just isn't any procedure for a midterm election of a Governor or Lieutenant Governor set out in the State constitution.

INSTITUTE—This question coming so closely upon the heels of the one about voting on constitutional amendments at the special bond election this fall has brought to the front a new attitude on part of the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill. For many years the Institute has functioned as a fact-finding analytical agent for State and local governments. The Institute also conducted training schools for administrative and law enforcement officers of the State, counties and municipalities.

One of the significant contributions made by the Institute of Government has been the detailed analysis of bills introduced in the General Assembly. State officials, legislators, newspapers and private business executives have learned to rely upon the accuracy and fairness of these analyses.

ADVICE—This year for the first time the members of the staff of the Institute of Government are going beyond the area of impartial analysis and are injecting their opinions and suggestions about judicial decisions.

On the question of whether constitutional amendments could be voted upon at the special bond election, the Institute fellows thought they could be and proffered advice to the Attorney General and the Supreme Court, after giving their opinions to the press. The top legal authorities did not agree, and the amendments cannot be voted this year.

When the question about electing a Lieutenant Governor in mid-term arose, the Institute boys got into action again. They prepared exhaustive memoranda and offered them to the constitutional authorities charged with responsibility for making the decisions. Latest report is the responsible constitutional officers, have not even read the memo, and are doing their own research.

Judges and constitutional officers are sort of funny about things like that. It is not unusual for them to call upon other people or agencies for information. They appreciate assistance given when called for. They do not like the idea of somebody volunteering information, or suggesting that they might need help before it is asked for.

REPUTATION—Ed Kirk, vice president of North Carolina National Bank, has just returned from a three week tour of Europe promoting the Charlotte Trade Fair. He was highly pleased with his reception and the response to the invitation. Although many of the business men pleaded too little time to make preparations for a visit to the United States, several said they expected to attend the fair. Kirk was particularly pleased at the attitude he found among business men over there toward North Carolina. They know about North Carolina, he said, and have a lot of respect for its economic and industrial development and its stable government. "I was very proud to be a North Carolinian," said Kirk.

UNHAPPY—While the Trade Fair promoters appear pleased with progress made in selling the idea—including numerous trips to Europe, to all parts of this country, and the Governor's recent jaunt to Mexico—those responsible for the long established State Fair are not so happy about what the State administration is going all-out in competition. Several agricultural leaders have complained that right at a time when agriculture is facing very acute problems, when education and encouragement are sorely needed, all State departments have virtually ignored the State Fair and are concentrating energy on the Trade Fair. The State Fair was already handicapped by the death of its long time director, Dr. J. S. Dorton. The Trade Fair folks insist that they are not spending tax money, but expenses of the promotion are being paid out of receipts. The State Fair has operated on its own resources ever since 1937.

In both instances the time of State officials and employees has been used in promoting the fairs.

analysis, written by the participants, not agreed to by pre-arranged conditions. It would be folly to assume that the Soviet Union, if it did become involved in a life-and-death shooting war with the West would fail to use its ultimate weapon. If the choice had to be made between losing a war and using an available weapon—regardless of its danger to mankind—there should be no doubt anywhere in the world that the Soviet Union would choose the latter.

By their assertions concerning the use of nuclear weapons, the Soviet marshals have merely reaffirmed what most realistic people have taken for granted for several years.

Something The Next Legislature Should Do

Confusion which has arisen over the post of lieutenant governor in North Carolina since the death of Lt. Gov. Cloyd Philpott point up the need for the next session of the legislature to completely clarify the situation.

Initially concern centered around the matter of the order of succession to the post of chief executive of the state if both the governor and the lieutenant governor were unable to serve. Attention has now shifted to the question of how and when a new lieutenant governor is to be designated.

Elections Board Secretary Raymond Maxwell and gubernatorial aide Hugh Cannon have asked the Attorney General to study the law on succession to the post of lieutenant governor to determine whether a state-wide election next year is required to fill the post.

Immediately following Philpott's death it was assumed that a successor to the post would be named by the Senate when it convenes for the 1963 session. This is being questioned now, however, on the basis that both the law and the constitution are vague on succession to the post of lieutenant governor.

The Attorney General will have to rule on the question for the immediate problem which the state faces, but when the 1963 legislature convenes, it should give attention to clarifying the laws or the constitution—or both—to avoid the kind of confusion which now exists if North Carolina ever again faces a similar problem.

How Much Will 2 Sides Yield?

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The real question between the West and Russia on Berlin is not whether one will yield to the other but how much both are willing to yield.

Both will have to make concessions to avoid an ugly showdown unless Premier Khrushchev's repeated determination to have a final settlement has been bluff from the start.

It can hardly be all bluff. He's stuck his neck out too far to back down altogether. To do so, after all his threats, would be a complete defeat for Russia. So it can be taken for granted he will insist on some victory.

The unknown element in his performance—and it can only be discovered through negotiation performance—and it can only be the West cannot make all the concessions without suffering in turn, in the eyes of the world, a complete defeat. Therefore, for concessions it makes, it will demand concessions from Russia.

—is how much or how little will be conceded at all. It would be nonsense to do so. The Russians would simply use them as concessions already conceded and say: "What concessions are you going to make?"

It would be equally implausible for this country to pretend it will make no concessions. It already did so—even though they were meager—when it negotiated with the Russians in 1959 on Berlin.

At that time the United States, Britain and France offered a plan which included these concessions: Limiting the Allied force in Berlin to 11,000 men; keeping nuclear weapons and rockets out of Berlin; letting East German Communists control the access routes to Berlin on behalf of Russia this was a device to save the West from having to admit the East German Communists, whom the West refuses formally to recognize as the legitimate government of East Germany, have a right of their own to control the routes; a United Nations monitoring service could be set up an effort to control hostile political propaganda in both East and West Berlin.

The Russians; who previously had insisted all Allied troops must get out of Berlin, just as Khrushchev is insisting now, in 1959 suggested it would be all right to keep up to, but no more than 4,000 Allied troops in the city. And the Russians talked of making other concessions.

But in all this they never agreed on much. The meeting broke up. Khrushchev came to the United States. He delayed forcing a showdown. A summit meeting with President Eisenhower was arranged in May 1960. Khrushchev broke that up. And now he's making fresh demands on President Kennedy. This time he sounds more earnest, talks and acts tougher.

Kennedy has said: "We cannot and will not permit the Communists to drive us out of Berlin, either gradually or by force." He said the West will insist on the right of free access to West Berlin which lies 110 miles inside Communist East Germany.

This is where he will demand some concession from Khrushchev. The Russians argue that the West no longer has a right to keep troops in Berlin but he says he's willing to give a guarantee that Berlin can remain a free city.

So here—the contrast between the Kennedy and Khrushchev views—are some of the stumbling points which will have to be resolved in some way. There are others.

Perhaps to save face the two sides will agree on some arrangement for United Nations' neutral troops to move into Berlin to make sure it stays free of both Western and Communist domination.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
LIFE A HOLY TRUST
(Suicide)

This is the most disagreeable subject with which this column ever deals. The last time it was discussed, someone wrote a scathing letter saying that is should never even be mentioned in connection with a daily reflection upon the things which enter into everyday experience. But this position would not seem to be sound, for many thousand people every year take their own lives. Suicide is a daily occurrence, a great national problem. It is a mistake of such folly that anyone considering it should be warned, and assured that it will not make matters worse, that it will mean quitting on the part of the person who does it and acute and continued suffering for those who remain behind. The temptation to "end it all" has a fascinating appeal for many people when they confront situations which appear to horrify, sorrowful or burdensome to be endured. But every life has its troubles and it largely is by trial and frustration of these hard experiences that God is preparing us for fellowship with Him in an eternal and cosmic enterprise. Don't spoil it. "Eye hath not seen, neither hath ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him." (I Cor. 2:9).

And remember—you did not create life and you have no right to destroy it. It is God's gift—to be cherished, and to be given to Him again with increase and improvement.

Morale Shattering Effect of Newburgh

By DON SCHLIENZ

They're All Incompetent?

Disillusionment comes hard. My morale has been dragging much of the week because of an article in Tuesday's paper. You didn't read it? Good! I have something to write about.

Mrs. Anne Mattox, the lady who rounds up the woman's page material, pulled a 20-question test for husbands on "Do You Love Your Wife?" out of a portfolio of news service feature stories, and foisted it on the public.

It was a dirty trick.

Other Editors Saying ... Suing For Peace

(Wall Street Journal) When President Kennedy met Premier Khrushchev in June, it could hardly be called a summit conference in the usual sense of a big - power bargaining session. As both men have indicated, it was little more than an attempt to size each other up. From the U. S. viewpoint, the meeting could certainly be justified on that basis.

Now, though, there is increasing talk of, and increasing pressure for, a summit presumably designed to resolve such dangerous questions as Berlin and the nuclear arms race. The leftist-inclined "neutralists" Sukarno of Indonesia and Kefauver of the U. S. should be wary of negotiations at any "level," foreign ministers or summit or whatever. In addition, there is a further important consideration: This incessant talk in the West about negotiation, even about being the first to propose negotiation to the Kremlin, throws the whole picture out of kilter and tends to weaken the appearance of the Allied position.

It is one thing to be prepared to listen to anything Khrushchev may want to say, in the improbable event he should have anything to say worth hearing, and we can certainly do that without a summit; in today's circumstances a summit is about the last kind of conference anyone should be thinking about. But what is needed more than communication is more iron in the Western spine, iron that shows in our whole attitude rather than just displays of increased military power.

We have seen again, in the scared-rabbit reaction of the Belgrade conference of neutralists, how much headway we are making with world opinion. We have seen, over too many dismal years, just how useful it is to negotiate with the Soviets. Khrushchev, after all, is the criminal of the world, not the West. Khrushchev is the potential murderer of peace. Khrushchev and Khrushchev alone hangs the pall of nuclear war over the globe. If the barbarian wants to sue for peace at the bar of civilization, let him do so. It is not befitting the strength of the Western position, it is not befitting the dignity of the defenders of civilization, to appeal to the outlaw to be good.

In an idle five minutes I answered the questionnaire; and according to the author thereof I do not love my wife... maybe even loathe her.

This was a surprise. But of the queries which were supposed to be answered in the affirmative, I could answer most with a "no" or qualified "no."

This ranked no end, because the questions were prepared by a woman who is administrator of Europe's Council on Marital Harmony. (I never heard of it before this week.) So she should know what the score is, or isn't.

Obviously, then, the U. S. should be wary of negotiations at any "level," foreign ministers or summit or whatever. In addition, there is a further important consideration: This incessant talk in the West about negotiation, even about being the first to propose negotiation to the Kremlin, throws the whole picture out of kilter and tends to weaken the appearance of the Allied position.

It is one thing to be prepared to listen to anything Khrushchev may want to say, in the improbable event he should have anything to say worth hearing, and we can certainly do that without a summit; in today's circumstances a summit is about the last kind of conference anyone should be thinking about. It is not befitting the strength of the Western position, it is not befitting the dignity of the defenders of civilization, to appeal to the outlaw to be good.

But does she? Justly or not, I get the impression the good lady leans toward the concept of a wife ranking a bare step above slavery... unqualified to apply her own judgment in homemaking, and even needing advice on clothes, hairstyle and cosmetics. Nor is she to be trusted with sharing responsibility in the family budget... and her sense of security and confidence in the love of her husband is so low she must be told "I love you" so often that she never gets a chance to ask "Do you love me?"

(This last really bugs me, because you can say anything often enough so that it means nothing... like swearing. When the audience is receptive I'll go along with the lady... but there are other things to talk about during a day, like mutual concern over a broken washing machine; is Bertrand Russell really as smart as some people say he is; can we squeeze in a game of bridge next week; who's going to the State Convention... and so on.)

One question above all others seemed to put the lady's philosophy of true love under an Asian light: Do you let her help you on with your coat, light your cigarette, put on your slippers and carry the packages? (The answer is supposed to be in the affirmative; if you love her, that is.)

Well, in Korea and Japan women have traditionally served as packhorses for the man of the house; they do in Africa, and among the peasantry of Latin and South America... but for the life of me I can see no element of affection or chivalry in making a beast of burden out of a treasured wife.

But the whole tone of the article was that if you love your wife she must be treated as a child and servant, and looked upon as a distinctly inferior sort of human being.

Objectively speaking, there presumably are a lot of women in the world who fit the qualifications of Dr. Maria Roelke's ideal of woman's place in the home.

Anyway, I told my Missus I flunked the test, but not to feel too bad about it; and, since I obviously didn't love her... she ought to begin planning for a probable break in our beautiful friendship.

She smiled... "Say in another hundred years?"

And I said, "That ought to be just about right... but don't let's rush it."

I recently wrote about former FBI agents who advertise their relationship to that organization and some of whom give the erroneous impression of extraordinary knowledge about Communism and Left Wing Movements. I have since received a number of letters and telephone calls from former FBI agents and their friends, some of whom have been my friends for years, demanding to know whether I meant them.

In that article, I praised the National Review which is a publication that I favor. So other Right Wing publications complain that I must hate them. On this point I can assure you one and all that I hate nobody and will, from time to time, praise those who are, in my opinion, deserving of praise.

Right Wing groups are extraordinarily sensitive to criticism, particularly when the question is raised as to whether a man should earn his living out of his ideals and principles of life. They ask, don't the Communists get paid? But these Conservatives are not like Communists. They are idealists who have joined a cause because they feel that that is what they should do.

At any rate, if anyone wants to know if a person was Administrative Assistant to J. Edgar Hoover or whether he was a chief of bureau in the FBI, let a letter of inquiry be written to the proper person. It will be found that I am not in error in the general view that if a person worked for the FBI he has no permanent license to advertise himself as very close to the equivalent of J. Edgar Hoover. If a man's work is worthwhile, he does not need such an accolade.

So much for that. The other day, I received what read like a very angry letter from M. Harvey Smedley who protests a statement of mine that the Sixth Avenue Elevated structure was sold to the Japanese prior to World War II. Mr. Smedley says of my comment:

"I agree that the subject matter was most interesting, but I am surprised that after all of these years, you have joined with several other writers in stating that the scrap iron from the Sixth Avenue L. was sold to Japan prior to World War II. There is no doubt but that a large amount of steel and iron scrap was sold by Americans to Japan. Undoubtedly included in this large amount was scrap from various historic or otherwise important structures of one kind or another."

There can be no question but that large amounts of scrap iron and scrap steel were sold to Japan at this time. Smedley's point and anger have to do with the Sixth Avenue Elevated structure. He contends that his client, the Harris Structural Steel Company, did not sell the Sixth Avenue scrap steel to the Japanese. He says:

"However, not a pound of scrap from the Sixth Avenue Railroad reached Japan directly or indirectly. The contract for the demolition of this structure was made between the City of New York and Harris Structural Steel Company, Inc., about 1938. The then mayor of the City of New York, the late Fiorello H. LaGuardia, had the foresight and courage to include in this contract a guarantee that no scrap would be sold except for domestic consumption. Without going into details, a violation of this guarantee involved severe penalties."

The reason that I referred to the generally accepted report that Japanese were getting American scrap metal is that American goods are presently being sent the way to our enemies, Soviet Russia, Cuba and even Red China. M. Harvey Smedley says:

"Therefore, in carrying out the terms of the contract, Harris used a very small amount of scrap in its own operations, and sold the balance of the scrap directly to the Bethlehem Steel Company, where all of it was used by Bethlehem in the production of the new steel at its plants in Pennsylvania."

It would be very hard for a congressional committee to make a thorough study of the data on the sales of American goods to enemy nations or to prospective enemies. Smedley seems absurd. (Continued on Page 6)

Still More Inflation Is Ahead

By ELMER ROESSNER
There is still more inflation ahead.

Despite the fact that the price level has been held fairly level over the past three years, despite President Kennedy's "jaw-bone" attempt to prevent a rise in steel prices and despite official statements that inflation will be "resisted," it is certain that the purchasing power of the dollar will winkle in the next two years.

Here are the reasons for expecting more inflation:

1. A $6 billion Federal deficit is looming. That deficit, since it will be met by borrowing instead of taxes, is absolutely inflationary.
2. The wage level is rising. A pay rise begins in steel in a few days; auto workers are getting higher pay, and other mass unions are preparing to insist on larger hourly rates. Wage increases not offset by higher productivity are inflationary.
3. The price level is about to rise. President Kennedy has urged the 12 leading steel companies to continue present prices although wage reates go up October 1. It is still uncertain what the steel companies will do. But even if they try to hold basic prices at present levels, they will be forced to increase prices on those forms that require large amounts of labor.

The current labor negotiations in the auto industry, with resulting higher scales, make it certain that autos will cost more. The rise may be concealed in the array of new models and variations, but the devil's certainty that the big auto companies cannot pay more for having cars made unless they charge more for horse cars.

COMMODITY PRICES
4. Other products than metals will command higher prices. The Administration has cut back from production so that farm prices will go up. Higher production labor costs will nudge other commodity prices higher. Higher commodity prices will reduce the purchasing power of the dollar and that, kids, is inflation.

5. The increase in defense spending will encourage inventory accumulation. Industrialists to protect themselves against rising prices and short stocks of raw materials. Inventory building tends to be inflationary, just as inventory liquidation has a deflationary effect on the market.

6. War fears will cause many people to stock up their pantries if not hoard. This constitutes inventory accumulation on the consume level, with exactly the same effects as on the industrial level. If war scares spread to durables, with proportionately greater effects.

Countervailing measures could be higher taxes, reduction in government spending, increase in interest rates.

Do you think they are likely? OLD PROMOTER PRAISES CUT IN DUTY EXEMPTION

There was a grin on the Old Promoter's face when he dropped in today. "Don't say anything unpleasant about John Kennedy," he said, "he is making Americans more respected abroad."

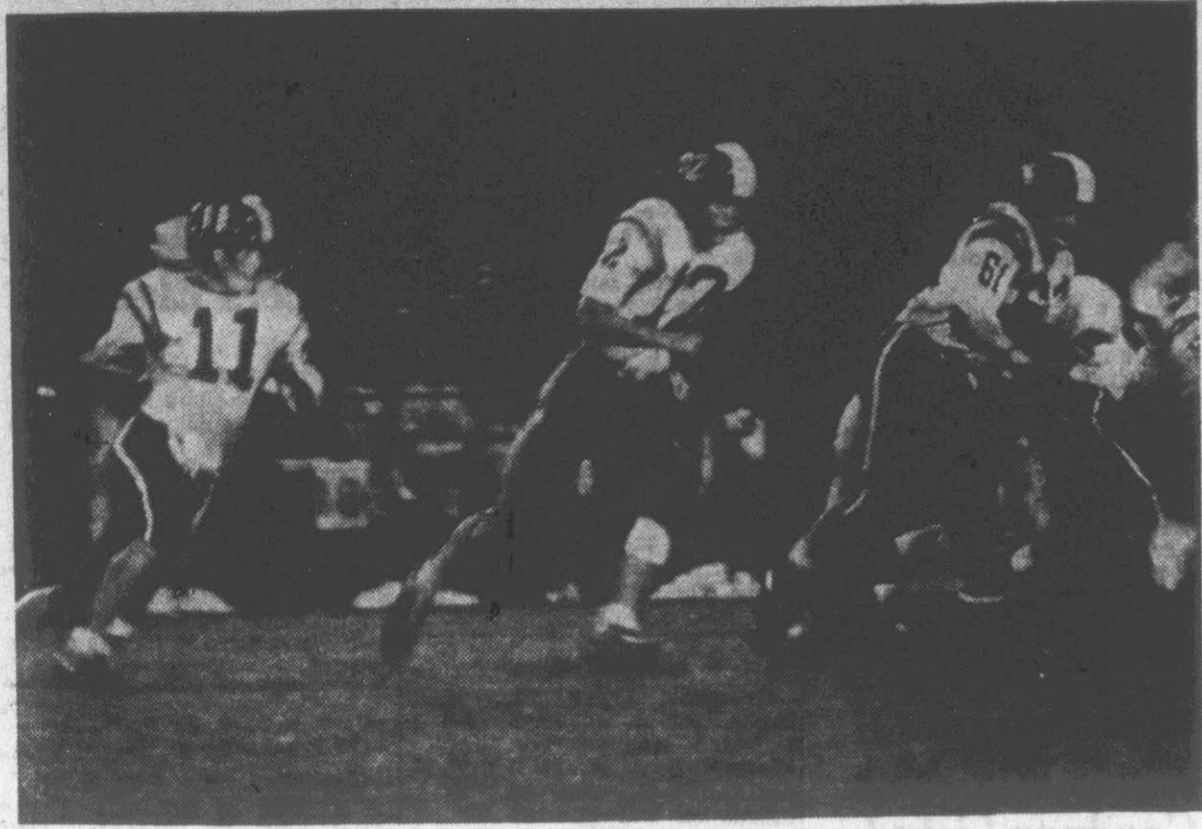

"In the market place," he replied, "Americans were the world's champ champs until a few days ago. Travelers abroad spend money as if it was only money, taking little to Europe's junk, solely because they thought that with a $500 exemption, everything was cheap."

"A friend brought me a bottle of famous brand of Canadian whiskey because it cost only $2 at Shannon," he went on. "It was 70 proof, which is so rarely guaranteed, and it was as rough as a voyageur's beard."

"Now, with the $100 duty-free limit, even the richest Americans can't afford to be suckers. Thanks to the Kennedy law, Europeans will begin to respect us."

Hope he's right.

The Rose High Phantoms won their second game of the season last night, 21-13 over Jacksonville with a 55 yard pass by Billy James and an intercepted pass by Rommie Brock accounting for two of the three Greenville touchdowns in the ECC Stadium. Jacksonville received the opening kickoff and ran for a series of downs to no avail. Greenville took over on their own 44 yard line and pushed the visitors down to the 25 yard line when the Phantoms fumbled the ball and Jacksonville recovered. After several first downs by both teams it was Greenville's ball on the visitor's 19 yard line as Greenville recovered a Jacksonville fumble.

Sumrell Makes First TD
John Adams carried around the left end on the next play for a five yard gain. With it second and five to go for a first down Wayne Sumrell carried for about four yards. On the next play Sumrell carried

Sugg High Cops Win Over Hayes
FARMVILLE — H. B. Suggs of Farmville dropped Hayes High School of Williamston last night by a 24-20 score. The winners scored in each quarter.

Sam McKinney climaxed a 60-yard drive in the first quarter with Suggs' first score, after the Farmville team had been trailing by 7-0.

Bobby Jones copped a 30-yard march in the second period with a touchdown run. Wiley Ellis thrilled the Farmville fans in the third quarter when he intercepted a Williamston pass on his own thirty-yard line and returned the ball 70 yards for a score.

Johnny Richardson climaxed a 70-yard drive in the fourth period to give Suggs its game winning margin.

Bulldogs Suffer Worst Defeat
The Eppes High Bulldogs took the worst beating in the school's history last night, a 48-0 shellacking by Jacksonville.

The winners scored 32 points in the first half, capitalizing on interceptions of Eppes passes. The locals were very slow in their movements, and Jacksonville took advantage of Eppes' slowness. Levon Little, Bulldog quarterback, was a little discouraged to see four of his aeriels to end Alton Harris intercepted by the winners. Harris, who was favoring an injured ankle, just couldn't seem to get under Little's passes.

Fumbles also hurt the locals, and Jacksonville took advantage of these miscues also.

Eppes coach, Percy Daniels, in commenting after the loss, said, "Any team with the experience of ours could have made it a better ball game, but we didn't. However," continued Daniels, "no team could have tried any harder than we did."

Eppes' next home game will be one month from now when the Bulldogs will host Elizabeth City.

Foul Ball Struck A Woman Fan

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Mrs. Claire Maleville of Sacramento was injured Friday night during the Chicago Cubs-San Francisco Giants baseball game when she was struck in the eye by a foul ball.

Mrs. Maleville suffered a lacerated eye and eye lid when her glasses shattered from the impact of the ball. The accident occurred in the second inning when Jimmy Davenport of the Giants fouled the ball back behind the home plate screen.

It was unclear whether the ball had hit her on the fly, or on the bounce from the pavement or off the outstretched arms of fellow spectators.

up the middle for the remaining nine yards and went over for the first Greenville touchdown. Andresen's kick was good with one minute to go in the first quarter.

After a series of downs for Jacksonville Greenville received a punt on its own 35 yard line. Two plays later Alan MacArthur carried around the right end for 25 yards and a first down for the home team. Adams made the next first down for the Phantoms. After another first down for Greenville they fumbled and Jacksonville recovered on their own 25 yard line. After a series of downs by both teams Jacksonville recovered another Greenville fumble on the Greenville 35 yard line.

Bill Parrish carried for a seven yard gain with MacArthur and James making the tackle. David Dunaway then carried making it third and one to go. A completed pass by Jimmy Henson to Kelly Lanier gained the first down for the visiting Cardinals. On the next play Henson again completed a pass to Lanier who went over for the touchdown. The extra point try was no good. There was a penalty on Jacksonville, but Greenville refused.

James Injured
On the first play after Jacksonville kicked off to Greenville, quarterback James passed a long 55 yard throw to MacArthur who was over for the second Phantom touchdown. The extra point kick by Kroegie Andresen was good at the end of the first half.

During the early part of the second half a fourth down pass by James was incomplete to Jack Joley. It was Jacksonville's ball on their own 40 yard line. On the third down Jacksonville's Dunaway made a long 60 yard run for the second Cardinal touchdown of the night. The extra point run was good.

Greenville quarterback James was hurt as he was forced out of bounds while returning the Jacksonville kick, but he managed to gain about 20 yards on the play. Reserve quarterback Dale Gidley came in for James and the Phantoms were back at it again. After one first down Andresen punted for Greenville but a penalty was called on Jacksonville for roughing the kicker and it was Greenville's ball on the visitor's 43 yard line.

After several plays without much gain James came back in at quarterback for Greenville. Andresen punted for the home team on a fourth down and Jacksonville received, but was stopped on its own 30 yardline.

Final Phant Touchdown
Both teams then toyed around with the ball until the final few minutes of the game with the score 14-13 in favor of Greenville. The Phantoms had pushed the visitors back to their own 24 yard line when right tackle Brock intercepted a cardinal pass by Henson and ran about 30 yards down the sideline for the third Greenville touchdown of the night. Andresen's extra point try was again good which made the final score 21-13.

Jacksonville had time for about two plays when the final horn sounded and the game was over.

Ayden Topples Vanceboro 55-0 In Last Night's Game

AYDEN — Defending Coastal Conference Champion, Ayden, scored every time it got ball possession last night to skunk a shaky Vanceboro eleven 55-0. The win marks the third of the season for the Tornadoes, who now sport a 2-0 Coastal slate.

Almost every player on the Ayden eleven got in the scoring column against Vanceboro, and if they did not, it was not because they didn't get to see plenty of action. Ayden coach, Stuart Tripp emptied his bench in the last half, but even the Tornadoe subs were too much for the visitors.

EC Touchdown Club Holds 1st Kickoff Meeting

The East Carolina Touchdown Club held its first luncheon meeting Friday to help get the 1961 grid season underway at the college.

The Pirates play their opening game tonight against Indiana Pa. College here in the ECC Stadium at 8 o'clock.

With about 35 members attending the first meeting, Coach Jack Boone gave a quick rundown on the team which he described as a "hard hitting club with good moral and high spirits." Boone added that what happens on the field tonight will surprise him as much as anyone else. This is the first time the two clubs have met.

N. M. Jorgensen, director of athletics at ECC, also told the club about the new athletic facilities at the college and gave a brief summary of the long range program. Jorgensen explained that the increased enrollment has put a great demand on the present facilities and expansion is necessary.

During the business part of the meeting officers were named for the current year. Col. Norman Merritt was named president, Tom Byrd vice-president and Billy Wilford secretary-treasurer. The club also mentioned the possibility of getting a trust fund to help the future. However, the trust fund would be a long range program and it would take a good many years before it could be of much help.

The club will meet again Tuesday night in the Buccaneer Room of the main dining hall on the campus. Films of tonight's game will be shown to members and interested guests at that time. The supper meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Milwaukee pitcher Tony Cline pitched four shutouts for Boise to lead the Pioneer League in that department in 1959.

The winners scored their first touchdown on what was perhaps the most thrilling play of the game. Taking over on their own 40 yard line, the Tornadoes were brought back to the 45 on their first running play. The William Edwards, an All-Conference tailback, took the ball around his right end and dodged his way down to the Vanceboro five, where he was finally caught from behind. But just before he went down, Edwards managed to shove the ball into the arms of tackle Jack Collins who streaked the remaining five yards to scoreland. Emmett passed to end Gibson for the extra point.

The Tornadoes scored twice more before the end of the first period. Joe Harrington plunged three yards to cop a 40 yard drive, but the extra point attempt failed. Rudolph Cannon returned a Vanceboro punt 45 yards for the third TD, and the shifty wing back also added the extra point to give the Tornadoes a 20-0 first quarter lead.

The Tornadoes scored two more times in the second period, the first on a one yard plunge by Tommy Dunn to cop a 50 yard drive, and the second on a 17 yard pass from Dunn to Elbert Buck. Dunn kept the ball for the extra point, giving the winners a 34-0 halftime lead.

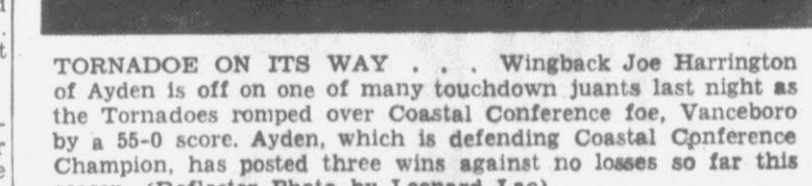

After holding Vanceboro to no gain in the third period, the Tornadoes took over on their own 37. A 20 yard pass from Dunn to Clem McLawhorn carried to the loser's 12 yard line, and McLawhorn swept his left end on the next play for a touchdown. Dunn and McLawhorn teamed up on a pass play for the point after touchdown.

The third period ended with Ayden knocking on the paydirt door at the Vanceboro 25. It wasn't long before the door opened, however, as George Kite plunged over from the two yard stripe. Dunn kept for the extra point.

The Tornadoes climaxed a 40 yard drive for their last score of the evening on a 20 yard run by reserve back Mac Carmichael. Charles Nobles ran for the point after touchdown.

Tripp, who has had many winners at Ayden, commented after the game "You can't call this football. This game tonight and last week's against Green Central (Ayden won 40-0) have been nothing but scrimmages for us." In looking ahead the well-liked coach said, "Things will be tougher from here on in. When we meet Robersonville next week, it will be just like starting the season all over again."

Score by quarters:
Ayden 20 14 7 14-55

TORNADOE ON ITS WAY . . . Wingback Joe Harrington of Ayden is off on one of many touchdown jaunts last night as the Tornadoes romped over Coastal Conference foe, Vanceboro by a 55-0 score. North Duplin Wins 12-7 Over Farmville In Final Minutes

NORTH DUPLIN — The Farmville Red Devils lost a close one last night to North Duplin by a score of 12-7 when Glenn King caught a pass and ran for 55 yards for the second North Duplin touchdown in the final minute of the game.

The Red Devils were victims of 110 yards worth of penalties while the opponents were penalized about 70 yards.

Farmville received the opening kickoff of the game but lost the ball to North Duplin in a fumble on their own 34 yard line. Both teams played around for several series of downs until Rex Hodges of Farmville intercepted a North Duplin pass by Tommy Tucker. A few plays later a pass from Dean Oglesby to Chester Outland carried Farmville to their own 45-yard line. Another Oglesby to Outland pass and a run by Danny Dilda carried Farmville to the North Duplin 35-yard line. On a second down play, a pass from Oglesby to David Quinn was complete and Quinn went over for a touchdown. A pass from Oglesby to Hodges in the end zone was good for the extra point.

After several series of downs by both teams Farmville managed to get down to the North Duplin 20-yard line when the first half ended.

During the second half, North Duplin managed to gain two touchdowns to win the game. After a series of downs by both teams Roger Mazingo of North Duplin intercepted a pass by Dilda and managed to push Farmville back to their own 44-yard line. On the next play Mazingo ran the remaining 44 yards for the touchdown but the extra point run was stopped by a strong Farmville line.

The second North Duplin touchdown which won the game was set up by a fumble by Hodges on the North Duplin 40-yard line. After a 15-yard clipping penalty Glenn King caught a pass from the North Duplin quarterback and went 55 yards for the final touchdown of the night. The extra point run was again no good giving the North Duplin team the win 12-7. Before the final horn sounded, Farmville managed to get down

Machen, DeJohn Rematch Tonight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The return encounter tonight between heavyweights Eddie Machen of Portland, Ore., and hometown hero Mike DeJohn shows signs of being a lively fight.

Machen, the No. 4 heavyweight contender, is rated an 8-5 favorite in the televised 10-rounder at War Memorial Auditorium (ABC, 9 p.m. EST).

The West Coast fighter is expected to take the offensive, as he did in defeating DeJohn in their previous 10-round bout April 10 in San Francisco.

The 6-foot-3 DeJohn, who was slow and overweight at 216½ in that encounter, has worked off more than 10 pounds and will be more aggressive tonight, his backers contend.

Shriners Fish Fry And Parade One Of Largest

The Pitt County Shrine Club's fish fry and parade here Friday—described as "very successful"—was "one of the largest in Eastern North Carolina"—served at least 2,000 persons, according to early estimates today.

Shrine Club President Joe Goodson said today Shriners are "very well pleased" with the project. He estimated, before final tabulations, a gross receipts figure of at least $3,000 of which at least $1,800 will go to the pet Shriners' project—support of crippled children's hospitals.

Goodson said Sudan Temple Recorder Nelson Banks of New Bern told local Shriners the event was one of Eastern Carolina's largest.

Gives Talk On Okinawa Today

An illustrated lecture on modern Okinawa was presented at the weekly meeting of the Exchange Club of Greenville by David Scindivier, administrative officer of the Greenville facility of the Voice of America.

Scindivier was stationed on Okinawa for four years prior to coming to Greenville. He stressed the rapid postwar recovery of the "Bastion of the Pacific" and its strides in becoming westernized.

Scindivier was introduced by Jack Wallace, in charge of the program, who described the total destruction of the island of Okinawa where he served in World War II.

Club President Luther Moore presided at the meeting.

An invitation to the meeting of the State Art Society here Tuesday was extended to Exchangeites by Mrs. J. H. B. Moore.

Funds for the purchase of a portable audiometer were requested by the Pitt County Health Department and were unanimously granted by the club.

Two Drivers In Wreck Charged

Both drivers involved in a collision on North Greene St. about 6:35 p.m. were charged following investigation of the mishap by Greenville Traffic officers.

According to their report of the wreck, John Dudley Murphy, 69 of 404 Library St. was charged with failure to yield the right of way in the mishap. Driver of the second auto, Robert Lee Brantley, 23 of 1705 Smith St. was arrested for having improper equipment.

Damage to the Murphy vehicle was set at $65 and damage to the Brantley auto was placed at $25.

No injuries were reported by officers.

First Church of Christ, Scientist

The nature of God as Spirit, not matter, will be brought out Sunday at Christian Science church services.

Opening the Biblical selections in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Matter" are these verses from Exodus (20): "And God spake all these words saying, . . . Thou shalt have no other gods before me. . . . Ye shall not make with me gods of silver, neither shall ye make unto you gods of gold."

This citation will be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (pp. 199, 200): "When Homer sang of the Grecian gods, Olympus was dark but through his verse the gods became alive in a nation's belief. Pagan worship began with muscularity, but the law of Sinai lifted through into the song of David. Moses advanced a nation to the worship of God in Spirit instead of matter, and illustrated the grand human capacities of being bestowed by immortal Mind."

Janitor Dies In Raleigh Blaze

RALEIGH (AP)—A Negro janitor burned to death early today in a fire which destroyed an old residence converted into apartments.

Around 20 other people living in the 14 apartments were helped to safety by firemen answering the pre-dawn alarm.

The house, just a few blocks from the State Capitol on Hillsboro Street, was blazing when firemen arrived. At least three women had to be taken down ladders by the rescuing firemen.

Lawrence Collins, about 62, the janitor, lived in the basement of the house, where it appeared the fire started. Firemen were unable immediately to pinpoint the cause of the blaze.

Dr. Ivan M. Proctor, who said his family owned the house, said he could not give an estimate of the loss in dollars.

New Edition Of Who's Who Has Gardner Listed

AYDEN — B. Alton Gardner, businessman, farmer and civic leader of Pitt County, has been listed in the latest edition of "Who's Who in the South and Southwestern United States."

Gardner, a resident of "Sunny Lawn," Rt. 2, Ayden, is president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, member of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, Director of the State Association of County Commissioners, National Bank and president of Greenville Production Credit Association. He has business interests in Ayden, Greenville and Chocoma.

He also does extensive farming in Pitt and Craven counties.

Among his fraternal associations are membership in Ruritan, Masonic Order, Shrine Club, J.O.I. R.M., Moose Lodge and Ayden Country Club. He received the Distinguished Service Award from W.O.W. Camp in 1955.

He is married to the former Iva Dixon. They have two children, Ben Alton Jr., 1961 graduate of N. C. State College, and Jeannette, a sophomore at Chocoma High School.

Meetings Mean School Holidays

White teachers of the Greenville city schools will attend a meeting of the Northeastern District of the North Carolina Education Association on Friday, Sept. 22, so their students will have a holiday from school on that date. Superintendent J. H. Rose announced today.

Negro teachers will hold their conference later in the season, and their students will also get a holiday from school, but it will come later.

The Northeastern District of the N. C. E. A. has not met in Greenville for three or four years. This year's meeting will be held at East Carolina College.

Demand Direct Apology By Bonn

BONN, Germany (AP)—Communist East Germany today demanded a direct apology from West Germany for the flight of two of its military planes over East German territory Thursday. The Bonn government promptly refused.

"We have made our apologies to the four powers, who alone were entitled to receive them," a government spokesman said. "There will be no others."

Wooten To Head Falkland Drive

Woodrow W. Wooten, a partner in K. R. Wooten Company, has been appointed the Falkland township chairman for the forthcoming Pitt County United Fund Campaign, George Coffman, general chairman, announced today.

Along with the 13 other township chairmen, Wooten is now in the process of organizing Falkland township for the forthcoming United Fund Campaign. This campaign is expected to start early in October.

He is a member of the Falkland Ruritan Club and former president of this organization. He was also a Pitt County Commissioner (1954-1960), former chairman of the board of this organization, a former president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, and a former member of the Pitt County Memorial Hospital board of trustees.

Each township has been given a fair-share quota to reach as their share of the $91,350 minimum needed to support the major county agencies and Carolinas United.

Two Men Arrested In Theft Of Car

Two men were arrested early this morning by Greenville Police and Pitt ABC officers and charged with the Friday theft of a car. The two were apprehended after they returned the vehicle to the place from which it had been taken, police said.

According to investigators, Bill Pittman, 40, of 106 Martin St., and James Clyde White, 37, of West Fifth St., were charged with the crime.

Investigators said a vehicle owned by Mrs. Frances Whichard Vandike of Stokes was taken from Carr Allen's Service Station on Evans St. about 5:45 p.m.

Greenville police, on duty in the downtown section early this morning reported that at 3:50 a.m. the vehicle was seen passing through Five Points. The officers kept the car under surveillance and saw it turn into the Evans St. service station.

Two city police cars, ABC Officers, and city detectives responded to the call. After seeing two subjects run to a nearby hotel, lawmen rushed to the location and quickly took the men into custody.

Pittman was charged with auto larceny and operating without an operator's license. White is charged with auto larceny.

At noon today, the two were still confined to city jail.

Ayden Country Club Becoming A Reality

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING . . . of the proposed Ayden Golf and Country Club's new Club House which will be presented to the club at the annual meeting Tuesday Sept. 19.

BY GEORGE BRYANT
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — It has been just short of three years since 12 men met to discuss the possibility of a country club in Ayden.

In the short time that has lapsed since that first meeting, the project has become a reality. The first two phases of the country club building program were opened to members at the end of last summer.

These four men have already secured an architect's drawing of a club house which could develop into the one the Ayden folks have been wanting.

Jolly, in commenting that the club has progressed much faster than thought possible in the beginning, said there is a good reason for trying to build the club house as soon as possible.

A board of directors was then set up consisting of Bill Stroud, Frank Peterson, Clay Stroud, Jamie Lang, MacDonald Edwards, Harvey Gwyn, E. F. Johnson, Bill Shelton, Wesley Gooding, Hugh Allen and Brantley Jolly.

were opened at first with three more finished within the next two months.

The country club project took a great deal of preparation and work in the beginning. Jolly said a steering committee was elected to secure information on the approximate cost, possible sites and to more or less explore community interest in the project.

The steering committee reported their findings in Jan., 1959 with favorable results. They had talked to T. C. Lassiter, one of the leaders in building a club, similar to what the Ayden people wanted, in Windsor.

It was decided that the cost of the project must be kept down on a plane equal to that of the residents of the community.

The only land available was a piece of woodland east of the town belonging to Bill Shelton. It was found after surveying the land that it was not adequate in size for the needs.

A board of directors was then set up consisting of Bill Stroud, Frank Peterson, Clay Stroud, Jamie Lang, MacDonald Edwards, Harvey Gwyn, E. F. Johnson, Bill Shelton, Wesley Gooding, Hugh Allen and Brantley Jolly.

The original plan was to build a nine hole golf course, club house and swimming pool in that order. However, the pool was put ahead of schedule because the terms for building at the time were excellent.

The club facilities at the present time require two full time employees. Jolly said many residents from areas outside of Ayden are now using the par 35 golf course.

Jolly said the whole project has moved along very fast. "A lot of sweat and labor has been spent on the facilities by the members, but to good end results," he stated.

Attendance at the new club has been excellent and the income of green fees from non-members has been good. "Everyone seems to be appreciative of the fact that we have a golf course in Ayden."

In other improvements this year the club has added shower houses which they did not have the first year.

The club facilities at the present time require two full time employees. Jolly said many residents from areas outside of Ayden are now using the par 35 golf course.

The club has already made a name for itself among local golfers. They played a tournament with the Griffon Golf and Country Club on both courses and won the two events.

Jolly said the whole project has moved along very fast. "A lot of sweat and labor has been spent on the facilities by the members, but to good end results," he stated.

Attendance at the new club has been excellent and the in-

VIP Visitors Protected By Expert In Judo, Karate

By CLAUDE BURGETT

HONOLULU (AP)—It doesn't seem likely that 260 pounds of muscle can be inconspicuous but Police Sgt. Larry Meheu sometimes is required to go about unnoticed in the company he keeps.

men called when a visiting dignitary comes to town. His job: bodyguard.

His size and muscle don't qualify him for the job. It's his abilities:

He is the sumo (Japanese wrestling) champion of Hawaii, an expert in judo, karate and aikido. The last three are arts of self-defense and the latter two can be deadly.

Mehau can break a man's neck with a single blow; snap an arm with one little twist. He's never done either, but seeing him smash a brick with his bare hands is convincing evidence that he is capable.

While he looks like a bodyguard, Mehau doesn't act like the popular vision of one. He's reserved, has an easy smile and the gentle disposition of his Hawaiian ancestors. He never takes advantage of his size except when forced to. During the years he has served with Honan, Mehau has been guardian over such greats as former President Eisenhower, former Vice President Nixon, Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko of Japan, Madame Chiang Kai-shek, President Sukarno of Indonesia, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of Germany, the King of Nepal, the Shah of Iran, the King and Queen of Thailand, and former Korean President Syngman Rhee.

Mehau has never yet had to apply his convincing arts to any would-be attackers of the famous people he guards. Never has a dignitary been threatened while visiting here.

When he isn't on such special duty, Mehau performs the regular duties of a police sergeant. His presence at a gang fight can calm everyone.

Starting up a stairway, Mehau saw a small woman rushing toward him with the cleaver over her head. He braced himself to do something. He wasn't sure just what.

Reviews And Reflections

By JIM POINDEXTER

This year marks the bicentennial of Pitt County. To celebrate the occasion, according to President Frank Wooten of the Pitt County Historical Society, a special historical exhibit will be held at the Art Center during November and December.

Another welcome cultural note is that ECC novelist Ovid Pierce has signed a contract with his publisher for his third novel. This book, according to Pierce, will be quite different from "The Plantation" and "On A Lonesome Porch," though the scene will again be North Carolina.

Poindexter

If anyone has anything from an ancient newspaper to a coffee grinder which he thinks would be of interest, he should let Mr. Wooten know about it.

There are also other signs that the summer lull in cultural activities is over.

One is news that the ECC Playhouse is planning in the winter to stage the world premiere of a new play by the Prime Minister of Burma. This should be a most interesting occasion, for one reason because Burmese drama is based upon a set of conventions very different from those with which we are familiar.

The reason that the distinction of this play falls upon this town is that Dr. Joe Withey, Director of the Playhouse, is an authority on Burmese drama and has just returned from a year's study in Burma.

New Novel

Another welcome cultural note is that ECC novelist Ovid Pierce has signed a contract with his publisher for his third novel. This book, according to Pierce, will be quite different from "The Plantation" and "On A Lonesome Porch," though the scene will again be North Carolina.

Incidentally, we are still plugging both of the earlier books to newcomers to the community or others who have not yet read them.

"Mila 18"

In the nation as a whole, "The Agony and the Ecstasy" and "To Kill a Mockingbird" are still leading the fiction list. Third is Leon Uris's "Mila 18," which has not been mentioned here before.

Uris, of course, is the author of "Exodus," and his already-established popularity may account in part for the rate at which a work with such an uninformative and awkward title as "Mila 18" is selling.

Actually Mila 18 was the name of the command post organized by the Jews in Warsaw when they staged their desperate revolt against the Germans in 1944. This is the story which Uris tells with great factuality in his book that in many respects is very similar to John Hersey's "The Wall," a treatment of the same historical situation.

In fact, many readers feel that Uris comes off second best in comparison with Hersey. His main weakness seems to be melodramatic effects and superficiality of characterization, pretty constant flaws in historical fiction. His characters have been called "puppets with their strings showing." "Time" has described the "hue" of the novel as that of "stage catchup."

Another bestseller, as was predicted, is Henry Miller's "Tropic of Cancer." This is a very disturbing book, formless in structure and sordid in content, and one is hard pressed to justify the acclaim accorded it by the big guns of criticism. Maybe Miller is to be complimented for being absolutely frank, for seeing through everything to life as it is, and then accepting that.

As the central character of "Tropic" says, "For weeks and months, for years, in fact, all my life I had been looking forward to something happening . . . and now suddenly, inspired by the absolute hopelessness of everything, I felt relieved, felt as though a great burden had been lifted from my shoulders."

Mexico City Has Bargains In Art

By JACK RUTLEDGE

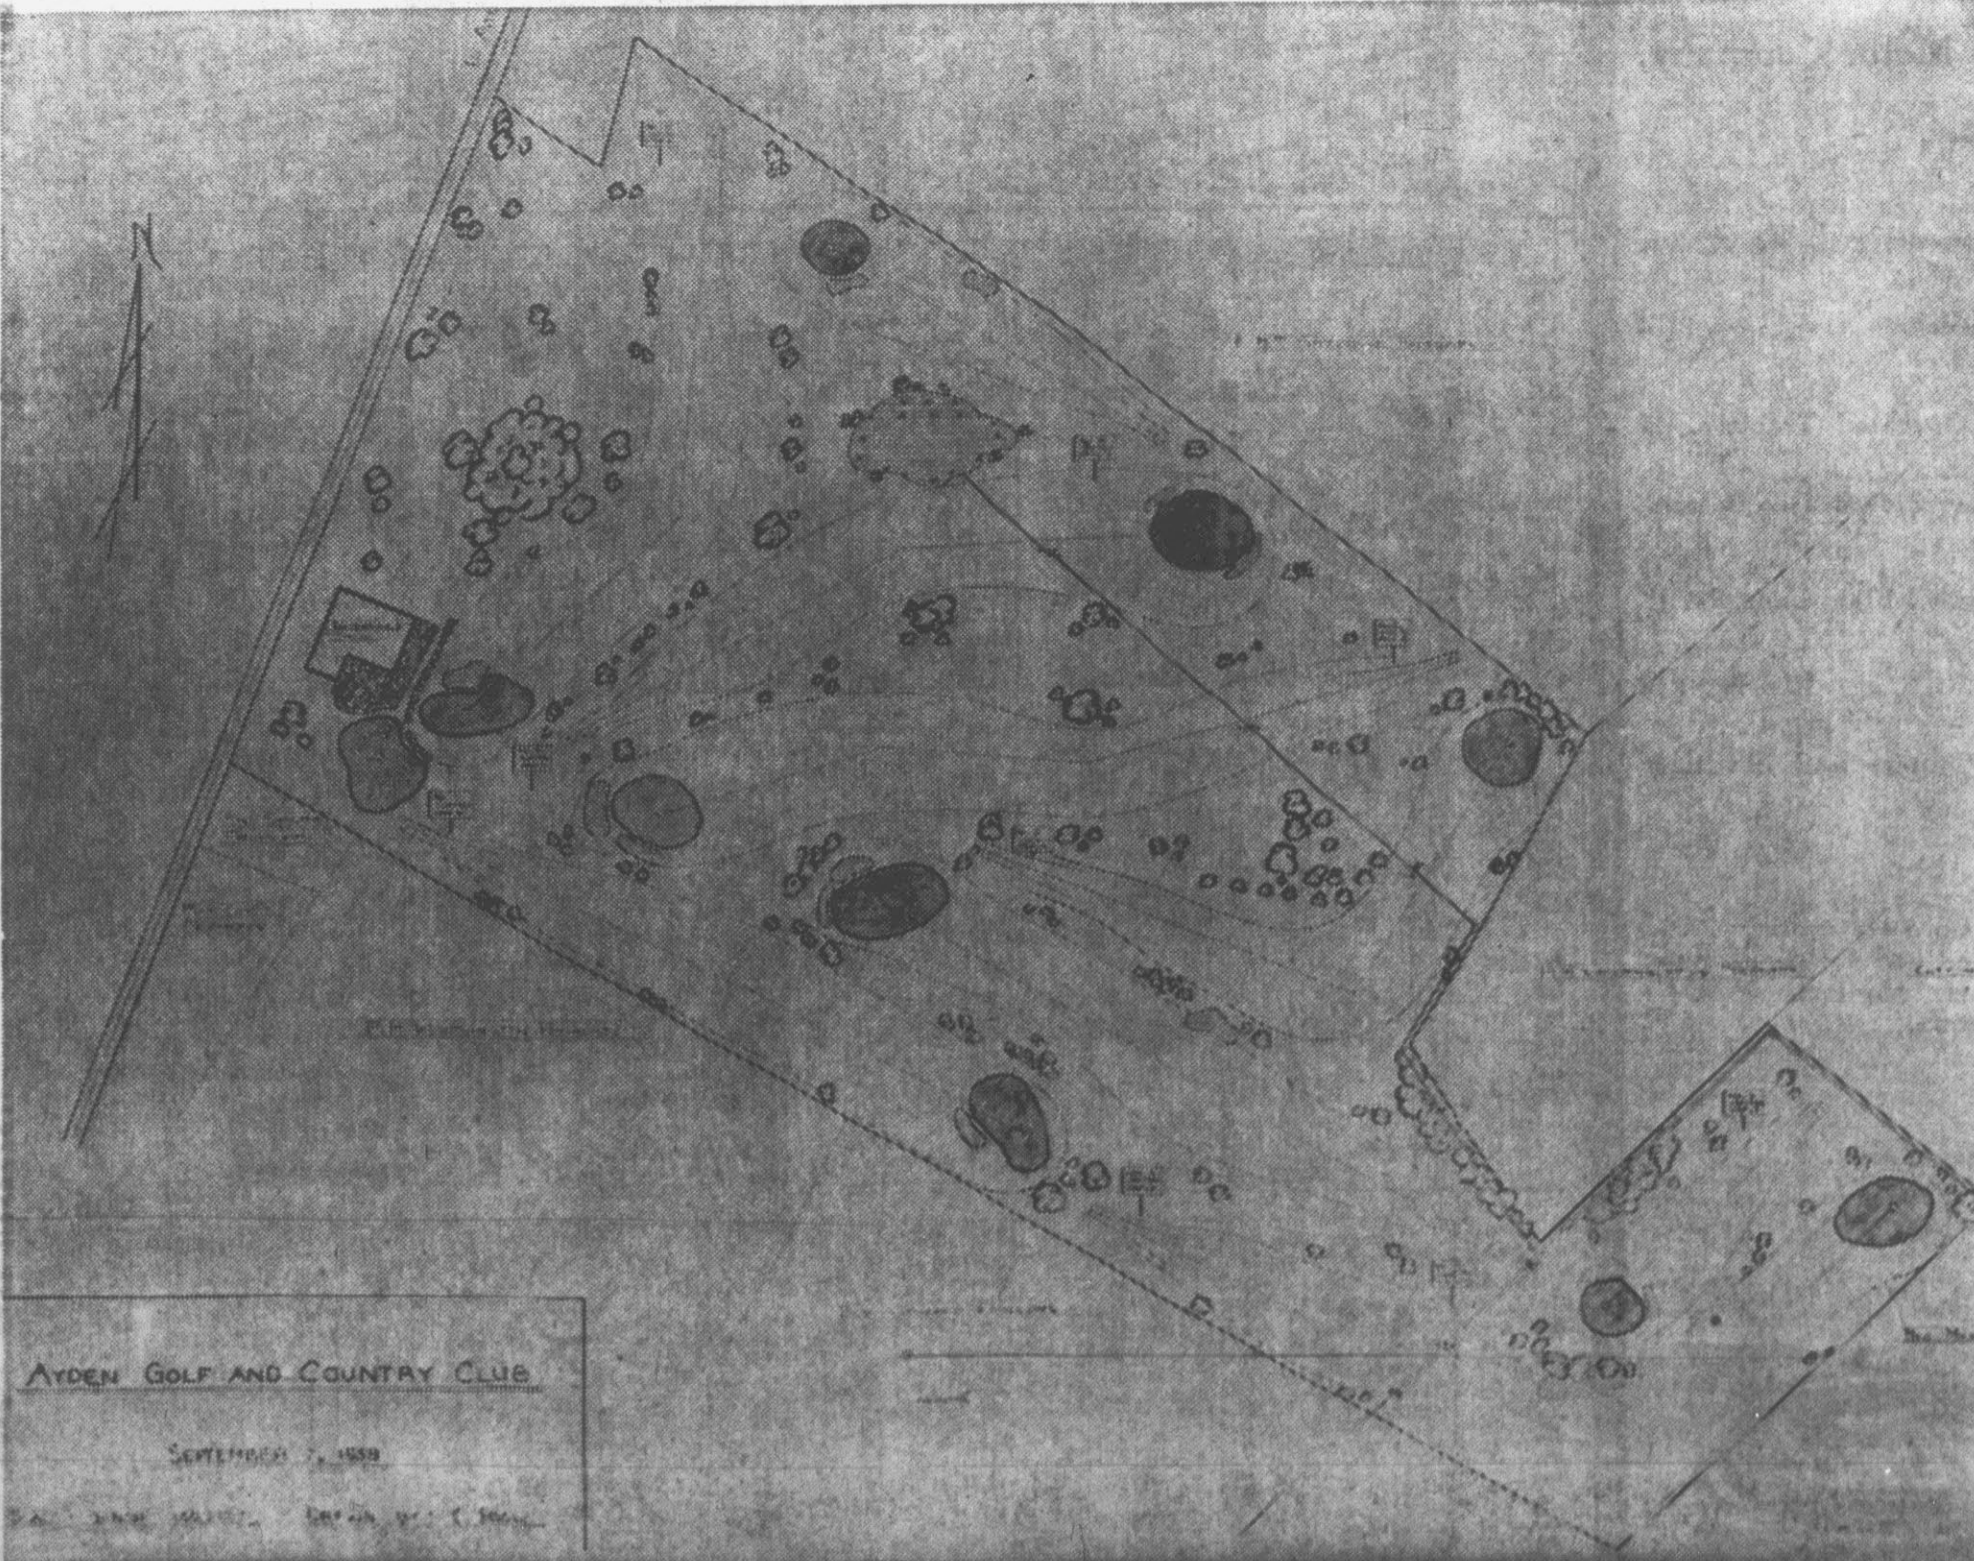

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Each Sunday in a park near the Monument to Motherhood, a group of young painters—possible successors to Rivera, Orozco, Tamayo or Siqueiros—offer their latest works at bargain basement prices.

About 75 artists exhibit 1,000 paintings and sculptures from 8 a.m. to around 2 p.m. Their rates range from 50 pesos ($4) to 3,000 pesos top, although there are few over 500 pesos.

Some are truly excellent, some mediocre, some poor, but some—where among those hundreds of paintings you might—just might pick up one for 200 pesos ($16) that in time would be worth thousands.

Mexican art is internationally recognized, and these young painters are among the nation's upcoming best. They're hand-picked, for one thing. Although the exhibit, called the Jardin de Arte of Garden of Art, is just a stone's throw from major downtown hotels, comparatively few tourists know of it.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Night duty for a policewoman can be hazardous sometimes. Police Matron Albina Jenks was rushed to county emergency hospital for treatment of a dislocated jaw suffered when she yawned at 3:30 a.m.

LOWER LEFT . . . portion of the golf course is the approximate location of the proposed club house. The swimming pool and first tee are already located at that point.

Mental Health Ass'n Booklet Reportedly Well Received Here

"Psychotherapy in a Veterans Hospital" is the title of a four-page booklet, for which the Pitt County Mental Health Association recently sponsored the publication. It is a short, very human story written and experienced by a young man living in eastern North Carolina.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Pitt County Mental Health Association held Thursday evening, the president, Dr. Frank Fuller, reported that following the introduction of this booklet over "Carolina Today," over 75 requests for copies were received.

Dr. Fuller announced that Dr. Louis D. Cohen of the Department of Psychiatry, Medical Center, Duke University will spend a year in Greenville and Pitt County for the purpose of study and research. According to Dr. Fuller, one of the reasons for Dr. Cohen choosing this location while working on a grant is the excellent job that has been done in Mental Health education in this section.

David Whichard, serving in the capacity as a representative of the United Fund organization, met with the group and outlined and explained the program of the agency. It was noted that $9,460.00 has been appropriated for the Pitt County Mental Health Association.

The Memorial Fund was discussed and Dr. Carl Adams was asked to confer with Dr. Clinton R. Prewett and Dr. Phillip Nelson and to report at the next meeting concerning a scholarship for a student interested in entering the field of mental health work.

Another step forward in the progress and growth of the local unit was announced. The services of an Executive Secretary will be obtained in the very near future. A team composed of Ed Parkinson, Charles Cobb and Mrs.

Joseph N. LeConte was appointed to assist in organizing a Mental Health Association unit in Beaufort County.

Dr. Frank Fuller and board members Dr. Carl Adams, Charles Cobb and Miss Rosalind Raulston will attend a Mental Health Leaders' meeting which will be held in Pinehurst on September 27 and 28.

Mrs. J. B. Spillman, State Director, was a guest at the meeting. Board members present were Harold Staton, Dr. Carl Adams, Charles Cobb, Dr. Joseph N. LeConte, L. M. Buchanan, Mrs. M. P. Bailey, Mrs. Ellen Carroll and Mrs. Joseph N. LeConte.

The meeting was held at the Cinderella Restaurant.

Record Sum For Cancer Society

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Cancer Society received a record $36,033,805 in 1961 for cancer research and education. The Society announced Friday that the 1961 fund drive raised $30,691,805, and that an additional $5,342,000 was provided by bequests and legacies.

The 1961 total compared with $33,728,745 received in 1960.

Unitarian Announcements

Sunday evening's program will be based on the theme "Prayer: To Whom and for What." Lay speakers will present various views on this subject, after which everyone will be given a chance to voice his or her opinion. A discussion and coffee hour will follow the formal meeting.

Sunday school will have its first meeting this fall at 10 a.m. in the E.C.C. "Y" Hut. All children are urged to attend, as this is when classes will be assigned and plans for the coming year will be announced.

Suspect Soviets Caused The Fire

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. investigators figure that last Saturday's fire in the bedroom of Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov was caused by the Soviets themselves. But the State Department is remaining diplomatically mum about it, at least for the time being.

Press Officer Joseph W. Reap declined again Friday, as he has every day this week, to comment on the Soviet Embassy charge that unknown criminals set off the blaze in Menshikov's third-floor bedroom.

The Soviets quickly snuffed out the fire themselves, then protested to the State Department and issued a statement. Later, they followed Washington police and fire inspectors and State Department agents to look at the damage.

Friday, Menshikov, just returned from a vacation in Russia, complained to newsmen about what he called these "bandit raids" and "fascist raids."

The U.S. investigators, whose reports are now under study at the State Department, found no likely way an outsider could have entered the normally well guarded embassy, lit a fire on the third floor, and left undetected.

Other evidence, such as the arrangement of papers and other items burned or broken and the slight damage from the fire, also indicated it was not the work of any determined arsonist.

Reap said the state department might have something to say about the fire later. But he didn't say when.

Lutheran Church Announcements

The first of four classes planned to be of special interest to parents and Sunday school teachers will begin Monday evening at 8:00 at the Parish House of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, 109 Pennsylvania Avenue.

Description and dates of the four sessions are as follows:

September 18—"Teaching Children Through Art" (Introduction), (taught by Professor Raymond Minnis of the ECC art faculty).

September 25—"Teaching Children Through Art" (Specific problems), taught by Mr. Minnis.

October 16—"The Use of the Bible" (Content and background), taught by Mrs. Terry Agner.

October 23—"The Use of the Bible" (Methods of teaching), taught by Mrs. Agner.

These classes will be of special interest to all parents interested in the Christian education of their children. Other persons of the community, as well as members of Our Redeemer Church, are invited to attend one or all of the sessions.

'Dixie Days' Theme For ECC Homecoming Program Oct. 7

"Dixie Days" will be the theme of 1961 Homecoming at East Carolina College Saturday, October 7. It was announced today by Dr. James W. Butler, chairman of the Homecoming Committee. Traditional Southern hospitality will be stressed in events of the week-end.

Representing the East Carolina Student Government Association, Jayne Chandler of Suffolk, Va., and James H. Speight of Kinston are co-chairmen of student participation.

A coffee hour and open house at 9 a.m. Saturday in the Alumni-Faculty Building will begin Homecoming Day events. The annual campus parade is scheduled for 10:15 a.m., alumni luncheon at 12 Noon, and pre-game festivities in the college stadium at 1:15 p.m., followed by the traditional Homecoming football game between the East Carolina College Pirates and the Fighting Christians of Elon College.

Several student organizations, fraternities, and sororities will have open house affairs following the football game.

The Society of Buccaneers will hold its fall dinner at 7 p.m. in the New South Cafeteria on the campus. Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, East Carolina president, will address the Bucs and their guests.

Chief Buc James L. Whitfield of Raleigh will preside. He has announced that members of the Society will be privileged to bring wives and dates to the dinner on Homecoming Day, a break from the "all-male" dinners usually held by the Bucs.

The Homecoming Dance in the Wright Auditorium will feature the Music of Maynard Ferguson and His Band, Jimmie Burns and His Orchestra will play from 8 to 9 p.m. and during the Ferguson band intermission.

216 Freshmen In AFROTC Course

East Carolina College's detachment of the Air Force ROTC has an enrollment this fall of 216 freshmen, Lt. Col. Norman P. Merritt, Jr., has announced. This figure shows an increase of 76 freshman cadets over the total of 140 enrolled at the beginning of the fall quarter last year.

In addition, 30 sophomores, 19 juniors, and 14 seniors are participating in the college AFROTC program this year. With 270 cadets registered for work, enrollment for the detachment shows an increase of 47 over that for the same period last year, according to Lt. Col. Merritt.

The staff this fall includes three instructors and three members of the administrative staff.

Newcomer in the group is Capt. Donald G. Simpson of New Jersey, who comes to the college after a tour of duty in the Philippines. He replaces Capt. Vance Lockwood.

Class instruction in the AFROTC has already begun. Drill and rifle teams, a drum and bugle corps, and other groups are now being organized. Air Force Flight, co-educational auxiliary of the Arnold Air Society, AFROTC, is also beginning its program for the school year.

Awards Given In Dairy Show And Banquet Event

Twenty blue, red and white ribbons and other awards this week went to participants in the Junior Dairy Show of Pitt County's Negro 4-H Clubs and New Farmers of America clubs.

The dairy show and banquet program was held in Greenville and at the South Ayden High School cafeteria Tuesday.

Judging of the dairy cattle was conducted by R. R. Rich, N. C. State College extension dairy specialist of Raleigh; R. L. Wynn, North Carolina A. & T. College extension specialist of Greensboro; Dr. W. L. Kennedy, A. & T. College head of dairy husbandry; and Dr. J. W. Pou, vice president of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. of Greenville.

Blue ribbon winners in the show received cash awards of $9 each. Red and white ribbon recipients were presented cash awards of $7 and $5 each, respectively.

Walter Council of Bethel's 4-H Club, took first place in the "Best Fitted" judging. Thomas Council, also of the Bethel club, placed second.

Frank Ingram, "Showmanship" rated first in the "Showmanship" contest while Walter Council was second.

Ingram also displayed the adjudged Grand Champion and Walter Council received the Reserve Champion award.

The dairy show began with a panel discussion on "Improved Milk Production and Consumption" Mrs. Willie Hawkins of the Grimesland Home Demonstration Club served as moderator for the panel that included Diane Hawkins and Miles Wilson of the Grimesland 4-H Club, Annie Hall of the Bethel 4-H Club and Linwood Wilson of the Ayden NFA chapter.

Blue ribbon winners were: Walter Council, Bethel; James Hooks, Bethel; Thomas Council, Bethel; A. T. Mills, Grimesland; Tyrone Hopkins of Grimesland; Oliver Leary of Grimesland; William Pritchard of Grimesland and Frank Ingram of Ayden.

Red ribbons went to: Thomas Council of Bethel; Flint Smith, Bethel; Oliver Leary, Grimesland; Stettinius Hemby, Grimesland; Milton Hawkins, Grimesland; Edward Ingram, Ayden; Roger Ingram, Ayden, and William Smith, Bethel.

Receiving white ribbons were Linwood Wilson of Ayden; A. T. Mills, Grimesland; Walter Ingram of Grifton, and Flint Smith, Bethel.

The show was sponsored by the Pitt County Farm Bureau and the Pitt County Board of Commissioners. It was supervised by the county extension agents and vocational agriculture teachers of the county.

Participants in the show, and their parents, attended the Ayden banquet Tuesday night. The banquet program began with a brief devotional by Tyrone Hopkins, J. J. Brown, South Ayden Vo-ag teacher, presided.

South Ayden Principal J. W. Ormond extended the official welcome to guests. Following were remarks by Pitt Schools Supt. D. H. Conley, Grimesland 4-H Clubber Stettinius Hemby, Grimesland NFA member Oliver Leary and Pitt County auditor H. K. Gray.

Tyrone Hopkins of Grimesland and Robert Brown, John Brown, Charles Becton and Eddie McCarter of South Ayden High School quartet—presented the program.

County extension agent W. G. Barnes introduced the evening's featured speaker, Sherrill Bryant of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. in Greenville, Bryant discussed Wachovia's "Agribusiness" tours and showed a filmstrip: "N. C. Caravan to Texas to Explore Agribusiness Opportunities."

J. J. Brown presented awards to winners in the dairy show. Mrs. Willie Hawkins of Grimesland introduced special guests.

BURNTWOOD MEN

CHAPTER 21
 Quarters to the left, the group saw the drifting dust cloud that marked the progress of many horsemen. They were riding north in column, the sun glinting from polished brass and blued steel. Tam Barrie felt his heart lift at the sight.

Not the fault of these men that they were immobilized by conflicting orders, the victims of confused policy and poor Department planning. These were fighting men who knew their business. And they looked it.

An officer, riding near the head of the column, swung out to meet them. Four troopers dropped in behind him. Tam saw then that it was Chance Flagg.

"Who are you, and where are you going?" Flagg demanded, standing clear of the line of fire of his men.

Tam looked at the single bar of a first lieutenant that graced "Major" Flagg's uniform. He looked at the ready carbines of the four troopers. He raised an open palm.

"We are friends, Flagg. I'm Tam Barrie. This is Colly Devoe, and Gabriel Valier, a leader of the Metis."

"How did you know my name?" Flagg asked sharply.

"A few days ago, I was the herb woman's brother. I made the travois to take Dove Demarest away from Hay Lake," Tam said.

"The hell you were! Dove — where is she? Is she all right?" Tam shook his head. "We ambushed Strike's supply wagons last night. We got two of them, but he took the third one to the Metis camp and passed out the rifles. He and his handful of men, with nearly a hundred Metis fighters, are riding for the border. And with him, from the Metis camp, he took Dove Demarest."

"The devil, the rotten devil!" Flagg said. "And my men can't stop him short of the border."

"The Mounted Police were told what is going on?" Tam asked.

"Two days ago, when we were massing our troops quietly ready to gather in Mr. Strike and all his men. But Major Kingston can muster only a handful of men. If Strike has fired up the Metis, Kingston and his troopers will die."

"Well, settin' here palaverin' ain't doin' no good," Colly Devoe said. "Let's get crackin'."

"Right," Flagg said. He gave an arm signal, and the column broke into a trot. With the four troopers riding behind, the three rods with Flagg to the north. The long snake of the column strung out, the dust drifting down the breeze. Flagg scribbled a note and handed it to a trooper. The man rode off.

"You think the Metis might hold up at the border?" Flagg asked.

"There's a possibility," Tam said. "Pierre LaCroix is an inspired leader, but he has no idea how to handle a mass of men. And I think he knows it. And he does not like Cleo Strike."

"And I don't suppose he delivered all the arms he promised," Flagg said. "Not if you men destroyed two of his wagons. Good work, that."

"It was tough and go for a while," Tam said. "But I think you're right about the result. Those who stayed in the Metis camp say they were not happy about the shortage of rifles and the lack of two cannon. Strike had promised them. They love the little cannon; they think of them as a talisman of sure victory. But Flagg, how did you change sides so easily—and so quickly?"

The lieutenant laughed. "Always the same side, Barrie," he said. "Civilians seem to think that the Army is sound asleep. Sir, the Army knows there is dynamite in this country, and on a short fuse. My superiors have many sources of information, good ones. They had wind of Strike's mad plan before it was a month old. So orders went to the southwest. Flagg fitted him with a faded set of credentials as a cashed-off hellion, and palmed him off on Cleo Strike. For five months I sat on that powder keg, sweating every time a new contingent of drifters came into the Hay Lake camp. Man! Am I pleased that phase of it's over."

"Don't blame you," Colly said. "But ye sure as all hell waited long enough to spring your little trap."

Flagg frowned. "Don't think I'm happy about it," he said. "We missed Strike, and there'll be hell to pay if he and the Metis break across the border. We had the infantry from Fort Assiniboine in position, but there was a lash-up in orders to the cavalry from Fort Ellis. Telegraph wire down, I think."

Tam shook his head. "Some good men may die because of this delay," he said. "But at least you immobilized Strike's army. How did they act when you moved into Hay Lake?"

"How do mercenaries ever act?" Flagg asked with the scorn of the professional soldier. "The enthusiasm leaked out of them in a hurry. I doubt if they ever had much enthusiasm for Strike's empire building, and I wonder just how many would have crossed the border with him in any case, with the shadow of the noose beckoning to the north."

"What will happen to them?"

"Not much. The quieter this thing is kept, the better, my superiors think. We'll let these men seep through our loose guard if they wish, and make themselves scarce. Which they'll be glad to do."

"The Army brass a bit tetchy about this thing?" Colly asked.

"Plenty. The last thing they want is a national scandal. Our relations with Canada and Britain are already strained by this affair of Sitting Bull. Imagine what an armed insurrection mounted from American soil would do to international friendships. I tell you, if the Metis have crossed the border, one Chance Flagg, late lieutenant U. S. A., will be emigrating to Australia."

From the rear of the column came a rider, galloping hard. Flagg rode back to meet him. They held a short discussion as they rode. Flagg and the hard-faced man with the two bars of a captain on his shoulder tabs. Finally the captain turned off to the head of the column. Flagg returned to the group.

"The captain says we must hold the Metis from crossing the border," Flagg said.

"If they ain't already long gone," Colly said.

"M'sieu Flagg, these men of yours—if we come upon my people will you order your men to fire upon them?" Gabriel Valier asked.

"They are American citizens, most of them," Flagg said. "They have the right to ride where they please, and to bear arms. Only if they try to cross the line, to attack Major Kingston's men, will we be forced to fire on them. As for Strike, I'll hate him into custody like the common thief and murderer he is."

"My people, they might get excited," when they see the soldiers," Valier said, frowning. "Some hothead might fire the rifle. Many people could get hurt. Let us ride ahead. I still have influence in the council. If I tell them they are alone, that Strike's army is gone, they may heed my words."

The column moved northeast as the lieutenant considered Valier's proposal. Finally Flagg rode off to confer with the captain. He was gone for some time. When he came back he said: "Captain Flores says it's worth trying. He doesn't want anyone killed if it can be helped. I'm to escort you within sight of the Metis, if they are still there. Then it's up to you."

Romance Rumors Sweep Britain

LONDON (AP) — Britain was swept by rumors today that Princess Alexandra, a cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, would soon become engaged.

The man was said to be Lord O'Neill, 28, of the old landed gentry and modern industry. He owns estates in Ireland and England, runs a chain of garages and was a founder of commercial TV in northern Ireland.

She and Lord O'Neill are holidaying on an isolated island off Scotland as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrison and efforts to confirm the rumors failed.
