Experts Study Wreck Of Dag's Plane

Expected Strike Early Tomorrow

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP)—A high-ranking U.N. delegation arrived in Ndola today seeking to carry through the Katanga peace talks shattered by U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's death in a plane crash.

The chief U.N. negotiator is Mahmoud Khari, chief of civil operations in the Congo. He flew to Ndola from Leopoldville while U.N. intelligence experts probed riddles of the wreck that killed the secretary-general.

A British government statement said a further task for the delegation will be to help identify the mutilated bodies of some of Hammarskjöld's entourage. The statement said Britain is doing all possible to facilitate contact between the delegation and President Moise Tshombe of Katanga, who pulled out Monday after an overnight stay at this neutral border town. Tshombe returned to Katanga after vainly waiting for 24 hours for Hammarskjöld to arrive for peace talks. Only late Monday did Hammarskjöld and the world know Hammarskjöld was dead in the shattered wreck of his aircraft.

Salvage workers pulled another body from the wreck this morning making a total of 15 dead. There is one survivor. A U.N. check today disclosed there were 16 on board the plane. Two Swedish guards had been omitted from the list which showed 14 aboard. Lt. Col. Ben Matlick, U.S. air attache from Leopoldville, who inspected the wreck today, said he was convinced that speculation that the plane may have been shot down was groundless. The possibility of sabotage or armed attack had drawn banner headlines in Rhodesian newspapers. The lone survivor, Harry Julien, an American U.N. security guard, was quoted as saying a series of explosions shook the four-engine DC-8 before it plunged into a forest reserve north of town and burned. Seasoned pilots who viewed the fire-blackened wreckage agreed with Matlick. They said it looked like typical results of a crash caused in a landing approach by loss of power or faulty instru-

A Ndola hospital spokesman said the survivor is as comfortable as could be expected, adding: "He still is very ill and is under heavy sedation. He has not spoken since he was brought here." Col. Maurice Barber, civil aviation director of the British-run Central African Federation, heads the inquiry into the crash. The U.N. intelligence work is directed by Col. Bjorn Egge, a Norwegian. Owners of the plane, the Swedish Air Co., said in Leopoldville the plane might have been shot down by a jet fighter from rebellious Katanga's tiny air force. Hammarskjöld was on his way to discuss a cease-fire between U.N. and Katanga forces with Katanga President Moise Tshombe when disaster struck.

A U.N. spokesman said neither gunfire nor sabotage could be ruled out. British and Rhodesian authorities launched an investigation. As the bodies of Hammarskjöld and the other victims were brought to the Ndola hospital mortuary, the world's uneasy capitals worried about the effect of his death on the United Nations. Tributes were paid to Hammarskjöld and his ceaseless labors for peace around the world. In many parts of Europe and elsewhere, fears were expressed that his death and Soviet stalling tactics might jeopardize the future of the United Nations. In New York, the U.N. General Assembly was opening one of its

Two Guard Divisions Called Up UN Session Sees Gloomy Start

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two National Guard divisions—the 32nd Infantry of Wisconsin and the 49th Armored of Texas—are being called to active duty. Announcement of this action was expected at an afternoon news conference scheduled by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The two guard divisions, along with two others, were put on notice Sept. 6 that they faced possible call-up. The other two divisions given priority ratings and slated for reassignment to full strength are the 26th Infantry of Massachusetts and the 28th Infantry of Pennsylvania.

Call-up of the Wisconsin and Texas divisions will raise Army strength to 16 divisions. In addition, there are three combat ready Marine divisions. The federalization of the two National Guard units appears to set the stage for possible movement to Germany of two—and perhaps more of a military show-down with Russia became more serious.

On Sept. 9 the Pentagon announced that 40,000 troops were being ordered to Europe to strengthen the 7th Army in Germany and to bring other U.S. forces in Europe to full fighting strength. The Army also has been sending across numbers of armored troop carriers intended to give the three infantry divisions in Germany much greater mobility.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The prospect of an East-West clash over a new U.N. secretary-general to succeed Dag Hammarskjöld cast a shadow over the opening of the U.N. General Assembly today. Already faced with grave cold war issues, the session may be the most crucial in the United Nations' history. Within hours after Hammarskjöld's death in an African plane crash Monday, stunned delegates began casting about for a way to avoid an East-West deadlock that would paralyze the secretariat, the administrative arm of the world organization. There was speculation that the assembly might delegate a board of ranking U.N. officials to make decisions until a new secretary-general can be chosen. Most of those being mentioned as candidates came from the non-aligned nations of Asia and Africa, who now hold almost a majority in the assembly. There was no indication of firm support behind any one of them. A new secretary-general must get past the threat of Soviet veto, which the Soviets could exercise if they decide, as expected, to push their plans for reorganizing the United Nations and curbing the powers of the secretariat developed by Hammarskjöld. A new secretary-general must be nominated by the Security Council with the agreement of all five permanent members—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China. Then the nomination must be approved by the General Assembly. The assembly was confronted by a long agenda of 95 items including such cold war issues as Red China's admission, testing nuclear weapons and disarmament. The Berlin crisis also may come up. In the gloomy atmosphere, many delegates were heartened by the announcement that President Kennedy will address the assembly to reaffirm U.S. support for the organization in its hour of crisis. The White House said Kennedy will appear here this week or next, but Friday was the most likely date. But delegates were most concerned at the moment over the urgent question of choosing a successor for Hammarskjöld, whose term would normally have run to 1963.

Civil Defense, Red Cross And Emergency Crews Set

Local Civil Defense, Red Cross and emergency crews were on a standby basis here today, ready to assemble if hurricane Esther threatens this area. WWOV manager Marty Sullivan said his office had just completed plans to acquire auxiliary power unit and will stay on the air throughout the night, or however long it takes, including tomorrow night. He said if the hurricane becomes dangerous here, the station will broadcast from the transmitter. The downtown office will remain open and staffed. The office can be used if needed for disaster, he stated. Mrs. Taylor said today that she and other executive secretaries over the eastern part of the state have cancelled plans to attend a workshop conference in Chapel Hill today and tomorrow due to the hurricane. James Harris Jr. is disaster chairman for the Pitt County unit, American Red Cross. So far, plans for the joint meeting of the North Carolina

Art Society and Associated Artists of North Carolina were continuing. The joint meeting will begin tonight at 7:30 at Eighth Street Christian Church, followed by a reception at the Greenville Art Center. However, if conditions warrant, it was expected the meeting would be postponed. In addition to buildings for refugees, Civil Defense plans included an organized system of communications, with headquarters in the Greenville City Hall and sub-headquarters at the Pitt County Courthouse. Short wave communications would be established between the two. All telephones in the City Hall would be open to emergency use, as would those at the Greenville Fire Department, Police Department and Pitt County Sheriff's Department if need arises. If telephone service should be knocked out, checkpoints have been established over the county, where automobiles with short wave for sending and receiving will be stationed. These points are Calico, Falkland, Congleton's Store at Stokes, Crawford's Service Station at Ballard's Crossroads. (Continued on page sixteen) had stopped. There was a dead calm. Tides were running two to three feet above normal, and the ocean was rough with heavy swells. The Coast Guard said, however, the swells have existed for two or three days, possibly caused by earlier hurricanes. The Weather Bureau in Norfolk said today tides of 7-8 feet above normal could be expected at Elizabeth City and other areas from 5-6 a.m. Wednesday. Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, when informed Monday that the storm might strike his state's coast, called a meeting with state officials. "While we are very hopeful the hurricane will not strike our coast," Sanford said, "we have taken every conceivable step to save lives and minimize the damage." The South Carolina coast, which appears safe from the storm's full brunt, was visited Monday by

Harry Walker, legal aide to Gov. Ernest Hollings. "We plan to be ready if the hurricane hits," Hollings said. Walker visited Charleston and Beaufort for conferences with Civil Defense, municipal and county officials in those areas. Col. David Lambert, commander of the North Carolina Highway Patrol, alerted patrolmen in coastal areas to be prepared if the storm should strike. Sanford said North Carolina's patrol and Civil Defense would be on a 24-hour alert until the storm crisis passes. Along North Carolina's exposed Outer Banks, which jut into the ocean to a point at Cape Hatteras, some preparations were begun. The highway about 12 miles north of Hatteras was under water for two hours Monday at high tide. The State Highway Department urged tourists or anyone with non-essential business not to drive to the Outer Banks until the storm passes. Service of the coastal ferry to the Outer Banks also was curtailed by the department. State Patrol Authority workers at Wilmington and Morehead City looked just - in - case preparations Monday. Jack Lee of the authority, in ordering ports personnel to action, said if Esther continues her present course "somebody is going to be in for trouble." In the Wrightsville Beach-Carolina Beach-Wilmington area a few preparations were underway Monday. Residents and business operators at Wrightsville and Carolina beaches were battening down in case the storm, or its backlash, should hit there. "We're hoping for the best," said Town Manager Stacy Thomas of Carolina Beach. "But if it comes we'll be better prepared than ever before." The Coast Guard said late Monday night it had sighted the crewless Liberty ship J. Warren Kiefer adrift in the Atlantic Ocean 100 miles east of Wilmington. The Coast Guard said it hoped the weather would ease up so a tug could attach a line, but no attempt would be made to recapture the vessel until conditions improve. The Kiefer went adrift Sunday when a towline snapped as it was being towed from Wilmington to Philadelphia, Pa.

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Katanga's military forces claimed today they had wrested the big U.N. base at Kamina from its Irish and Swedish defenders after a six-day battle. The U.N. chief in Katanga, Con- or Cruise O'Brien, insisted however, that the hard-pressed defenders still held the air strip in that vital base 280 miles northwest of Elisabethville. As O'Brien met with reporters at his headquarters in Elisabethville, capital of secessionist Katanga, a Katanga plane attacked the building. Its bombs fell wide but the headquarters grounds were raked by machinegun fire. There were no casualties. The claim that Kamina had fallen to the attacking Katangans, reportedly led by white officers, was made by Katanga's military radio. A U.N. spokesman in this Congo capital said there was nothing in messages from Kamina to indicate that the garrison had surrendered. Heavy fighting also was reported in Kabalo, 150 miles west of Albertville, where Katanga forces occupied the airfield.

Russia Formally Moves To Seat Red China In UN UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union formally moved today for the seating of Communist China in the United Nations. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko requested that the 99-nation General Assembly place on its agenda a question titled: "Restoration of the lawful rights of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations." The assembly is expected to give the China question a full airing, after 10 years of postponements. But it is unlikely that the problem will be taken up under the controversial title proposed by the Soviet Union. Informed quarters said the United States would not oppose a China seat this year, but would seek to refer the question to a study committee which would report back at the 1962 session of the assembly.

Report Panama Invasion Target PANAMA (AP)—Preparations are being completed for a new invasion of Panama from Cuba, Cuban exiles reported today. The local committee of the Democratic Revolutionary Front of Cuban Exiles said it has been informed by private sources the movement is to be led by Andres Bello, a Panamanian. Bello went to Cuba after the triumph of Fidel Castro and subsequently remained in Czechoslovakia for the invasion of his native country, the exiles said.

Red Cross Workshop In Greenville Sept. 28

The Eastern North Carolina Coordinating Council, American Red Cross, will sponsor a Chapter Chairmen's Workshop here Sept. 28 with Richard H. Bjurberg, active in Red Cross work since 1950, directing the workshop, it was announced today by F. Richard Atkinson of Greenville, council chairman. Bjurberg is assistant to the manager, office of chapter development, Southeastern Area, American National Red Cross. Invited to the meeting, which will be held from 3 until 9 p.m. in Wachovia Bank Building here, are all chapter chairmen, vice chairmen and the person next succeeding the chapter chairman in office for each of the chapters belonging to the council. Atkinson said. Also invited are all executive committee members of the council. Other interested people may attend if they so desire. The agenda for the meeting includes many major topics such as a condensed history of International Red Cross, the organization of Red Cross on the national, area and regional level and its working relationship to the chapters, the Board of Governors and the area advisory council. Use of regional volunteer consultants, aquatic schools, various zone courses, state conferences, disaster preparedness programs, fund raising, base quota and trends in fund raising will also be discussed. Of particular interest will be the discussion regarding chapter chairmen's duties and responsibilities and how they are to carry these out. Atkinson said. Trends in chapter development will also

Hall-Harper Speak Vows Sunday

In a 4 o'clock ceremony Sunday, September 17, in the Chapel of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in Greenville, Miss Lily Long Harper became the bride of Robert Lee Hall, Dr. Edgar Fisher officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Morris Jr. of Battleboro and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George D. Hall of Greenville.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Paul Toll, organist, and Mr. Robert Tilley, soloist.

The bride and groom entered the chapel together. The bride wore a street length dress of white Chantilly lace over bridal satin. Her shoulder length veil was attached to a pearl coronet. She carried a cascade bouquet of bride's roses centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Bobby Tucker of Rocky Mount, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gold tunic dress with shoes and hat to match, and carried a cascade bouquet of gold and bronze pom-poms.

Larry Purser of Greenville served as best man and ushers were Bobby Tucker of Rocky Mount, brother-in-law of the bride, and John Pasciano of Greenville.

The bride's mother wore a beige sheath dress with brown accessories and a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue sheath dress with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Hall is a graduate of North Edgecombe High School and Flora McDonald College. She is an Assistant Home Economics Agent in Pitt County. The bridegroom attended East Carolina College and is employed by the Coca-Cola Bottling Company in Greenville.

For a wedding trip to Western North Carolina, the bride changed to a magenta two-piece dress with black accessories and a magenta pill-box hat. She wore the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

After their wedding trip, the couple will reside in Greenville. The bride's parents entertained at a reception in the Ladies Parlor of the church.

Cake Cutting
A cake cutting honoring the Hall-Harper wedding party was given Saturday evening following rehearsal by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Alford in the Ladies Parlor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The wedding party, out-of-town guests and close friends of the bride couple attended.

Magnolia leaves and candles were arranged on the mantel, and two large white wedding bells tied with satin ribbons hung from the ceiling at each end of the room. The appointed table was covered with a pink satin cloth overlaid with a cloth of white organdy and lace. The center arrangement was of pink asters and pom-poms, flanked by five-branched silver candelabra holding burning pink tapers.

Punch was served from a silver punch bowl by Mrs. George D. Hall, mother of the groom. At the other end of the table was the four-tiered pink wedding cake, served themselves mints and nuts, served by Mrs. John D. Morris Jr. and Mrs. R. O. Tharrington Jr., mother of the bride. Guests presided at the guest register.

Concluding Mrs. Gurganus remarks minutes of previous meeting were read and approved. The roll was called, and love offering received. Motion made to adjourn the group repeated the Aaronic Benediction.

Round Dozes
The Round Dozen Book Club resumed its monthly meeting with a luncheon Wednesday.

Mrs. Robert Joseph Whitehurst was hostess in her home on James Street. Her home was decorated throughout with fall flowers of focal interest on the dining table was an arrangement of ageratum and chrysanthemums.

Mrs. W. C. Latham, the guest speaker, gave an interesting description of her recent trip to Canada and the New England States.

The meeting adjourned after the books were exchanged.

The meeting for October 11 is scheduled to meet with Mrs. James Womack.

Mrs. Brinson Speaks to Club

Mrs. Brinson gave a review of the four volumes of North Carolina history written by the renowned author and Professor of history at the University of North Carolina, Dr. Hugh Lefler.

Bethel Home Demonstration Club Meets
The Bethel Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday with Mrs. Lewis Ayers. The meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. Dennis Hardy.

During the business session, the bazaar which the Pitt County Home Demonstration Club Council was sponsoring was discussed. Mrs. May said aprons, scarves, flowers, all kinds of cakes, cookies, candy preserves and pickles could be sold. Each club was to be responsible for five dollars worth of merchandise. It is tentatively planned for the Thursday before Thanksgiving week in the armory.

The fair was discussed and everyone urged to enter something for exhibit; members were asked to speak to neighbors about entering things for exhibit.

Make up meetings are to be held September twenty-eighth.

Leader reports were heard from Mrs. R. B. Edmondson in the absence of garden leader. She reported now was excellent time for sowing straw, turnips and vegetables, etc. for fall gardens.

Mrs. Sue Max Home Economics Agent gave a demonstration on picture selection and hanging demonstration. She stated that bare walls were better than the wrong picture. Pictures and ornaments should express something of the home owners personality. Pictures are used to make a unit complete, fill a bare wall space and to repeat color.

Mrs. May also gave a demonstration on shoes as related to posture. Mrs. May stated that misfit shoes are the major causes that 90 percent of women, 10 percent of men have foot troubles. The foot isn't fully developed nor are its 26 bones completely hardened until about the 20th year, and this soft undeveloped structure of the youthful foot is easily misshaped by misfit shoes.

New Fabric Types Are Making Debut On The Nation's Counters

By SUE B. MAY
Pitt County Home Economics Agent

This is the time of year when fall wardrobes must be given some thought by the homemaker. Very beautiful shades and weaves are found this fall in yardage as well as in ready-made garments.

Three new fabric types are making their debut on counters throughout the nation. They are stretch fabrics, laminated foams, and a great variety of new pile and furlike materials. These fabrics possess some qualities that make them a delight to own, yet they each require somewhat different sewing procedures from methods usually used. Even though much is still unknown about techniques for handling these fabrics, authorities have made some suggestions which should be of value to the home sewer.

STRETCH FABRICS which are made from textured yarns extend when pulled and snap back to original measurements when released. The home sewer will find a wide variety of qualities available in stretch fabrics. Her prime consideration for selection should be that her purchase has good snap-back or recovery when stretched. A stretch fabric should be pre-shrunk when purchased. If this has not been done, the easiest method will be to steam it with an iron and allow it to dry completely before cutting.

The following steps are suggested for sewing stretch fabrics:

1. Patterns are placed as usual. Pins are inserted perpendicular to the direction of stretch, at least every two inches along the cutting line. The many pins contribute to holding the stretch of the fabric in line while cutting.
2. In cutting it is important, as always, to cut with the grain of the fabric.
3. Marking can be done as usual on these fabrics.
4. For machine-stitching, a very fine needle works best. The preferable thread is nylon, since it will stretch.
5. Pressing should be done with steam.

A LAMINATED FABRIC is any fabric with a backing of synthetic foam. The foam is composed of microporous cells that trap air and thereby insulate. Being light in weight yet warm, the laminates are exceptionally popular for top-coats and sportswear, and because each piece has its own built-in support, interfacing is almost never needed.

Two types of foam-backs are being manufactured—the single laminate and the double laminate. The single laminate has fabric on one side of the synthetic foam. The double has fabric on both sides of the foam and is sometimes referred to as a "Foam sandwich".

The following techniques are suggested for sewing laminated foam fabrics:

1. The pattern selection should be simple in design with as few seams and extra details as possible.
2. When laying fabric and pattern, fabric is folded with foam side out (never foam to foam).
3. Markings can be made with a tracing wheel and sewing carbon.
4. For machine-stitching, a fine to medium needle is used, a medium to large stitch, medium pressure, and a slightly looser tension.
5. For pressing, darts should be slashed and pressed open. Finger pressing or steam-pressing is most effective. A press cloth should be used to prevent the heated iron from touching the foam.

THE DEEP-PILE FABRICS are light in weight, yet have wonderful warmth qualities. The following techniques are suggested for sewing pile fabrics:

When working with this type

Remember that the information on handling these fabric types is not yet complete. Research is still being carried on in this field of home economics education, and the results will be available from time to time.

Fifth District Dental Auxiliary Has Two-Day Session In Greenville

A FASHION SHOW AND COFFEE HOUR . . . was held yesterday morning at the Greenville Art Center for visiting wives of dentists.

Sunday night the Dental Wives of Greenville and Ayden were joint hostesses to the Fifth District Dental Auxiliary.

After a banquet at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, a short business meeting was presided over by Mrs. W. L. Hand, president, of New Bern. Minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Richard Hunt Jr. of Rocky Mount. The ladies approved a motion to provide a scholarship to a deserving girl who desires to be a Dental Hygienist for 1961-62.

Mrs. Ledyard Ross, program chairman for the district meeting, introduced the speaker, Dr. J. W. Batten. Dr. Batten is a distinguished professor from East Carolina College and a recognized authority on celestial navigation and a specialist in earth and space sciences.

Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock the Fifth District Dental Auxiliary was entertained at a coffee hour and a fashion show. The fashion show featured the latest in ladies wearing apparel.

Modeling fashions were Mrs. Milton Williamson, Mrs. A. M. Barrett Jr., Mrs. W. F. Tyson, Mrs. Moulton Massey Jr., Mrs. Leighton Blount Jr., Mrs. Harold Watson, Mrs. Fred Webb, Mrs. Mitchell Saleed, Mrs. Cleveland J. Bradner Jr., Mrs. Clifton Edwards Jr., Mrs. Bill McLawhorn, Mrs. James Harvey Ward Jr., and Mrs. Helen Forehand.

Mrs. Ledyard Ross of Greenville was moderator for the style show. She introduced Mrs. Bernard Jackson, director of the Greenville Art Center, who invited the guests to view the various works of art on display.

Mrs. Cleveland J. Bradner of Greenville rendered several solos, with Mrs. Elizabeth Bodkin accompanist throughout the entire entertainment.

The catering was done by ladies of the Greenville Art Center.

Cooking Is Fun

FAMILY LUNCH

This hearty fresh-fruit dessert satisfied after soup and salad.
Split Pea Soup Buttered Toast
Tomato Salad
Pear 'n Biscuit Beverage

PEAR 'N BISCUIT

2 cups biscuit mix
2 tablespoons shortening and 3 tablespoons butter
2-3 cup (about) milk
6 Bartlett pears
6 teaspoons dark brown sugar
1½ cups granulated sugar

1 cup water
Grated rind of 1 lemon and table-spoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ tea-spoon nutmeg
Cut shortening and 2 tablespoons of the butter into the biscuit mix until particles are fine. Stir in enough milk to make a soft dough. Roll out on prepared pastry cloth into a rectangle that's about 9 by 6 inches; with pastry wheel cut into 6 strips each 1½ inches wide and 6 inches long (long enough to wrap around base of pear). Core unpeeled pears from blossom end but not through stem end. Sprinkle 1 teaspoon brown sugar into each cavity. Wrap a strip of biscuit dough around base (blossom end) of each pear and pinch biscuit ends together. Place in individual baking dishes (2 cup capacity — about 5 inches across the 1½ inches deep). Heat remaining 1 tablespoon butter, granulated sugar, water, lemon rind and juice, cinnamon and nutmeg to boiling; pour over pears. Bake in very hot (450 degrees) oven 20 minutes or until pears are tender and biscuit baked through. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

Dentists Hear Address By Fluoride Developer

Dr. Joseph C. Muhler

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

Neither his youthful appearance nor a conversation with him would reveal immediately that Dr. Joseph C. Muhler has been seasoned with no less than 21 years of diligent and fruitful research into the field of preventive dentistry.

His dark, sharp features and his mild-mannered modesty serve to conceal some of his years: In his 40s, Dr. Muhler is a professor of Biochemistry at Indiana University's School of Medicine.

Foremost among his achievements, perhaps, is the fact that he headed a research team at the Bloomington, Ind., institution that developed a method of using stannous fluoride to curb dental caries.

Since 1955, the chemical, mixed with Procter and Gamble's Crest toothpaste, has been used commercially. However, the use of the chemical has been in the experimental stage, under the direction of Dr. Muhler at Indiana University, since 1942. Its use, perhaps is still not perfected, Dr. Muhler says. "Our job is never done, you know."

The research biochemist, here Monday to speak to the annual meeting of the N. C. Dental Society's Fifth District, described how the stannous fluoride, a tin and fluorine compound, works to reduce cavities: "The tin (in the stannous fluoride) combines chemically with phosphorous in the cavity to form tin phosphate, a strong acid-resistant compound. This, therefore, decreases cavities because it's an accepted thing that acids in the mouth cause cavities."

Asked why Procter and Gamble was the company to benefit from his team's innovation. Dr. Muhler says that company for 11 years supported the university's research program with stannous fluoride.

FIFTH DISTRICT DENTAL OFFICERS—Elected by the two-day annual meeting of the N. C. Dental Society's Fifth District in Greenville were (from left) Robert Gilbert of Kinston, president-elect; W. L. Hand of New Bern, secretary-treasurer; R. B. Barden of Wilson, president; J. L. Cox of Goldsboro, vice president; and J. E. Furr of Wilson, editor of the district journal. The annual session, highlighted by an appearance of nationally-known research biochemist Dr. Joseph C. Muhler, concluded Monday afternoon. Attending the meeting were more than 100 dentists from 32 Eastern North Carolina counties. (Reflector Staff Photo)

"It simply wouldn't have been right to give what we developed to somebody who had not supported the development of it," says Dr. Muhler.

Research, at least to Dr. Muhler, is the eventual answer to dental caries. And the outlook becomes brighter all the time.

In his opening remarks to the group of dentists here Monday, he confessed that five years ago he believed cavities could be stamped out eventually, but only in the far-distant future.

He asserted yesterday that, through continued research, "within our lifetimes, we will probably see an end to dental caries."

But Dr. Muhler's success in the stannous fluoride research program has somewhat limited his actual work in the Indiana University laboratories. His stop here was only one of many he has on schedule.

Fifth District dentists met his plane at 1 a.m. Monday, whisked him to a local motel for a few hours' sleep and then escorted him to Monday's session.

When his presentation was completed, about 3 p.m. Monday, Dr. Muhler was off again, this time to the annual meeting of the Fourth N. C. Dental Society District in Raleigh.

When he returns to Indiana, the chances are he'll have just enough time to spend a few moments with his four sons, kiss his wife, grab a fresh suitcase and board another plane for more professional meetings around the country.

Asked how many appearances he makes, he says maybe 60 or 70. "They're so many they're hard to count," he says, "but there are too many."

Want Exemption From Blue Laws

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two governing areas decided on exemption from the state's blue laws Monday, and a third postponed a decision until Sept. 28.

A North Carolina blue law, which would prohibit the sale of certain items on Sunday, becomes effective Oct. 1 unless local governing units take other action.

The Forsyth County board of commissioners voted to exempt the county from the law. The action, taken Monday, will effect the entire county except for Winston-Salem and Kernersville, which are incorporated towns.

At Durham, city council voted for exemption of the city. However, Durham County's commissioners have not acted as yet.

The New Hanover County board of commissioners have called a meeting for Sept. 28 to discuss whether the county should be exempt. The commissioners first voted the exemption Monday, but retracted when 40 Wilmington merchants appeared urging that the county area not be excluded.

Laboring To Prevent Paralysis Of The UN

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)
—Secretary of State Dean Rusk and ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson worked urgently behind the scenes today to keep the United Nations from being paralyzed by the Soviet Union on appointment of a successor to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Rusk was due to hold his first meeting here with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko this afternoon when the U.N. General Assembly begins its annual session. He wanted to talk with Gromyko about the crisis created by Hammarskjöld's death as well as the Berlin crisis, which they have agreed to discuss.

A few hours after news of Hammarskjöld's death reached here Monday, Khrushchev's deputy foreign minister, Valerian Zorin, gave clear indication that the policy has not changed. At an informal meeting of the Security Council Zorin objected strenuously to a public statement on his death as "secretary-general."

Diplomats familiar with this developing plan said the objective would not be to name an acting secretary-general but rather to set up a caretaker administration under an official empowered to carry out the directives of the Security Council and the assembly until a secretary-general can be named.

BURNWOOD MEN

CHAPTER 33

Pierre LaCroix, Tam Barrie, thought, has aged ten years overnight. He saw the governor shake his head at Cleland Strike.

"Strike," LaCroix said, "I was an ambitious man, for myself, but mostly for my people. As Gabriel says, I dreamed dreams. I saw the goal so plain, so shining, it seemed within my grasp. Though I knew the kind of man you were, I believed your promises because they fitted into my dreams. But Gabriel says no more than truth. To kill, to take our rights by force—we cannot build a nation on that, when the way of the law is still open to us. The whole world would turn its face against us. No, M'sieu! Strike, the Bois Brules have no cause with you. Take your men and go." He stood with eyes averted and lips moving, as if he were praying.

Strike, wild with anger, kneed his horse toward LaCroix. Gabriel Valier raised his arm, his fist closed. The arc of Metis started closing in, to the snick of rifle hammers.

"Strike, for Heaven's sake be careful!" Tam said. "Gabriel, hold the men back—let Strike go. Strike, get your men out before one shot starts a battle."

Strike glanced around him. He saw that his men were backing their horses, facing the Metis, but putting space slowly between them. A burly man who seemed to be Strike's second in command held his ground. Strike said something to him in a low voice. The man rode over to the wagon. Strike faced the crowd, his head high. "We'll go. We have no stomach for cowards and traitors. But there will be an accounting. Remember, Strike and Company expect payment for every last rifle, every cartridge, that I have delivered. Payment in full—in cash!"

Tam gaped at the brassbound nerve of the man. With his world tumbling down around him, with complete disaster eroding all his reckless gamble, he still could flaunt that monstrous ego of his.

Then Strike's lieutenant came riding from behind the wagon, leading a pinto pony. Dove Dearest sat the pony on a clumsy squaw saddle, her skirts dragged high on ivory thighs. Her face was dark with the old bruises, and the flame of some new ones.

"Leave her be, Strike," Tam said. "She wants no part of you any longer."

Strike smiled crookedly. "She's my wife, regardless. Where I go, she goes. What I tell her to do, she does. Right, my dear?"

With cruel force he pulled her chin up. Tears were sliding down her swollen cheeks. Tam saw a dark line of dried blood over one cheekbone. But for just an instant Dove caught Tam's eye. She made the very slightest of negative gestures.

Strike backed his horse away from the wagon. "More than that," he said conversationally, "this woman is my insurance policy. We are riding east. Barrie, if you or the others follow too closely, or if anyone fires at us, the girl dies." He leaned forward, his face dark with rage, taking in all the crowd. "Do you understand that, you half-breeds?"

"Shut up, Strike!" Tam said. "Get out of here, before you say something that blows the lid. And if you harm Dove, I'll find you wherever you are. And I'll kill you."

"You? You handgog little counterjumper!" Strike swung his horse, his hand going toward his pistol.

"No, Strike," Colly Devoe said. "Unless you want to die sudden. My advice is the almighty same as Tam's—git 'em before my friends have time to savor the rottenness of your crookedness. If'n they do, they'll skin you alive and hang what's left of you up in the sun fer the magpies."

Tam could feel the change in the Metis. Hostility toward Strike and his men was glazing high in these simple people, their betrayal biting at them, their pride torn into the dust.

Strike must have sensed it as well. He rasped out a single epithet. Jerking his horse around, he took the reins of Dove's pony.

With supreme contempt, he turned his back on the Metis, ignoring the threat of the ready guns trained upon him. Not a shot was fired. His men closed in around him. They rode east, the soft dust stirred by their passing drifting slowly away in the light breeze.

"That man will kill Dove, Colly," Tam said between clenched teeth.

"He's made a good start of it already, by the look of the poor thing's face," Devoe said. "We'll wait a bit, then we'll folly 'em. Not too close, either, for that devil meant just what he said. 'He'll kill her. And he'd like to suck us in an' put a slug in us, too.'"

They sat their horses by the end of the wagon, watching the Metis gather in small groups, to argue, to mill about, indecisive. Colly said: "I better tip off the lieutenant. He's likely nervous as a cat by this time." He rode off to the south, and Tam saw blue-clad horsemen ride down the slope to meet him.

There was a lengthy conference, then Colly reported. He'll git the captain to keep an eye on our boys, but there ain't nothin' to be afert of now. Tam, you'n me and Gabriel, we busted the back of this leetle war, dang near by our lonesome. I'm proud of it."

"We did have a little help," Tam said drily. "Looks like Valier is going to wind it up."

The grizzled Metis leader waved his hat to secure attention. He spoke in Metis, which Tam managed to follow.

"Men of the Bois Brule, we were foolish listening to lies. Because Strike said what we wanted to believe, we listened. We gambled with death. Now, my brothers, we have come to our senses, just in time. Let us go home to our families and with patience and fortitude work for justice. Surely the good Lord will bring men to the light, and the Bois Brules will gain their heritage at last. For brothers, the old ways are done. We can never bring them back, try as we will, dream as we will. There will be justice, if not for our children or our children's children. Go now, and listen no more to false prophets."

Slowly the Metis began to drift away. Some of the shrewder ones rounded up the teams and hitched them again to the wagon, turning it south. A large group trailed after it, toward the camp they had left that morning. At the last, only four men remained: Tam, Devoe, Valier, and Pierre LaCroix.

The Metis governor sighed, as if coming out of a nightmare. "Will you believe, m'sieu's, that I was trying to do my best for my people? I did not trust Strike, but I was arrogant enough to think that I was stronger than that strong man. But, like all our people, I am dreamer. I dreamed of glory, but I pushed aside the

Pay Raises For Seven On State Payroll OK'd

RALEIGH (AP) — Pay raises for seven men on the state payroll, including the governor's chauffeur, were approved Monday by the Advisory Budget Commission.

Lt. Lloyd Burchette of the State Highway Patrol, the governor's patrol aide and driver, got an increase from $6,024 to $7,536. It's retroactive to July 1, too.

Another pay hike retroactive to July 1 was approved for General Services Administrator George Cherry, who was raised from $10,000 to $11,000.

In other actions, the budget group approved a $2 million dormitory for North Carolina State College. Bonds to be sold to the Federal Housing and Home Finance Administration will be retired with dorm rentals.

The commission took note of a report from the State Board of Education on employment of special teachers for handicapped children and asked the board to look around for additional funds to meet further requests for such teachers.

The other pay raises approved by the budget commission, all effective Oct. 1, were:

Director Christopher C. Crittenden, State Department of Archives and History, $11,000 to $12,000; Executive Secretary Henry Wood, State Blind Commission, $10,000 to $11,000; Executive Secretary William F. Henderson, Medical Care Commission, $11,000 to $11,600; State Budget Officer Charles R. Holloman, $12,000 to $13,200; Director of Correction and Training Elaine Madison, $10,500 to $11,000.

The commission raised the salary of the executive secretary of the State Board of Cosmetic Art Examiners from $4,800 to $5,028; and that of the reviser of statutes in the attorney general's office, $6,500 to $6,825.

Most ECC Students Are Baptists And Methodists

Most East Carolina College students are either members of Baptist or Methodist churches or prefer these denominations to others, according to religious information cards filed in the office of D. D. Gross, director of religious activities at the college.

With twenty-six different faiths or denominations mentioned on the cards, Mr. Gross stated, a wide range of religious interest or affiliation on the part of students is indicated. Only 34 of those filing cards stated no preference, and only one student labeled himself an agnostic.

Of the 3788 students reporting to Mr. Gross, Baptists numbered 1449 and Methodists 1171. The four other denominations for which more than 100 students indicated membership or preference are: Presbyterian, 426; Episcopal, 156; Free Will Baptist, 145; and Roman Catholic, 118.

Groups with twenty or more students showing membership or preference are Lutheran, 62; Pentecostal, 46; Hebrew, 37; Christian (Congregational), 30; Quaker, 23; and Church of Christ, 20. Among fifteen other churches or faiths mentioned by fewer than twenty students are Mormon, Moravian, Christian Scientist, Unitarian, Universalist, and Moslem.

Loudspeakers In War Of Nerves

BERLIN (AP) — The Communists have brought a new weapon into their way of nerves against West Berlin.

All along the concrete and barbed wire barriers of the divided city, they have opened up with a barrage of loudspeakers turned at full strength toward West Berlin.

They blare out propaganda, threats, scorn and flattery—interspersed with American jazz and German waltzes.

Some of the loudspeakers are mounted on trucks. Others are hung in trees overlooking the border or fixed to the boundary fence.

The loudspeakers are guarded by People's Policy and Communist army patrols with submachine guns and hand grenades. The Communists call this free entertainment for West Berliners "Radio August 13."

Aug. 13 was the day the East Germans sealed off West Berlin to stop the flood of refugees fleeing from Walter Ulbricht's Communist rule.

The programs usually open at 5 a. m., startling thousands of West Berliners out of their sleep. At most points, the noise continues throughout the day.

"This is the real voice of the German people," the announcer says.

"We are Germans like you, and soon we will be reunited. But we are soldiers too, and if we are attacked we will not hesitate to shoot, even at Germans."

Non-Communist World Stunned By Death

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The death of Dag Hammarskjöld in an African plane crash left the non-Communist world stunned today. Fear was expressed that his passing put the future of the United Nations in peril.

From every quarter tributes flooded to the memory of the secretary-general who died in the restless search for an ideal—a world peacefully united to prevent war.

Even those who often had challenged his policies hailed him as a dedicated man. In the capitals of the West there was a heavy atmosphere of mourning.

Radio and television news bulletins retold the crash of Hammarskjöld's plane as the U.N. secretary-general was flying on another peace mission—this time to meet Moise Tshombe, president of war-torn Katanga. Sombre headlines dominated newspaper front pages.

President Kennedy said Hammarskjöld's name "will be treasured high among the peace-makers of history." U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said: "I have lost an esteemed friend and the world a great servant."

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain, who had been cool to U.N. action to suppress Tshombe's secessionist regime, called Hammarskjöld "a world servant who has pursued his duty with courage, singlemindedness and devotion."

The French, bitter at what they regard as U.N. interference in Bizerte and Algeria, were shocked. The Foreign Ministry expressed "deepest emotion."

India's Prime Minister Nehru, a leader of the nonaligned nations who hold the balance of power in the U.N. General Assembly, called Hammarskjöld's death a "special tragedy."

The Belgian government sent a message to the United Nations deploring his death and saying his service to the United Nations had gone to "the supreme sacrifice."

Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Central African Federation who had assailed the U.N. action in Katanga, called Hammarskjöld "an indefatigable worker in the cause of world peace."

Moscow and Peking broadcast the news of Hammarskjöld's death without comment. The Soviet press kept the news off the front page.

In France, the Communist newspaper L'Humanite said Hammarskjöld "was the victim of the same people whom he did nothing to prevent from assassinating (former Congolese Premier Patrice) Lumumba last year."

Israel and the United Arab Republic, who had often used his services as mediator in their quarrels, found themselves in rare agreement in expressing a sense of loss.

In Sweden Hammarskjöld's native land, King Gustav VI proclaimed today a day of national mourning. Radio Sweden ran several special broadcasts in memory of Hammarskjöld.

Wallet Found By Sister-In-Law

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Mrs. Ernest Gomez left a wallet containing $55 in a rest room at a Walsenburg filling station, but she got back every penny.

Fifteen minutes after she left the place, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Alfred Vigil of Denver, found the billfold. The two families happened to make holiday trips on the same day in the same southern Colorado area.

Workshop Held For Ministers

WILSON—Ministers from the eastern part of the state gathered here today to attend a workshop on "The Role of the Minister in Emotional Illness" conducted by the Wilson County Mental Health Association.

Dr. Richard K. Young of Winston-Salem, a national leader in the field of pastoral counseling and Director of the Department of Pastoral Counseling at Bowman Gray School of Medicine and North Carolina Baptist Hospitals, was the workshop's principal speaker at a luncheon.

Following the luncheon a family doctor from Kinston, Dr. Paul F. Whitaker, and a psychiatrist from Raleigh, Dr. Robert Harper, joined Dr. Young on a panel for a discussion period with the ministers.

The subject of Dr. Young's luncheon address was "The Healing Team." Dr. Whitaker made a short presentation at the discussion session as did Dr. Harper. Dr. Whitaker addressed the ministers on the "Relationship of the Family Physician to the Minister," and Dr. Harper spoke on the "Relationship of the Psychiatrist To The Minister."

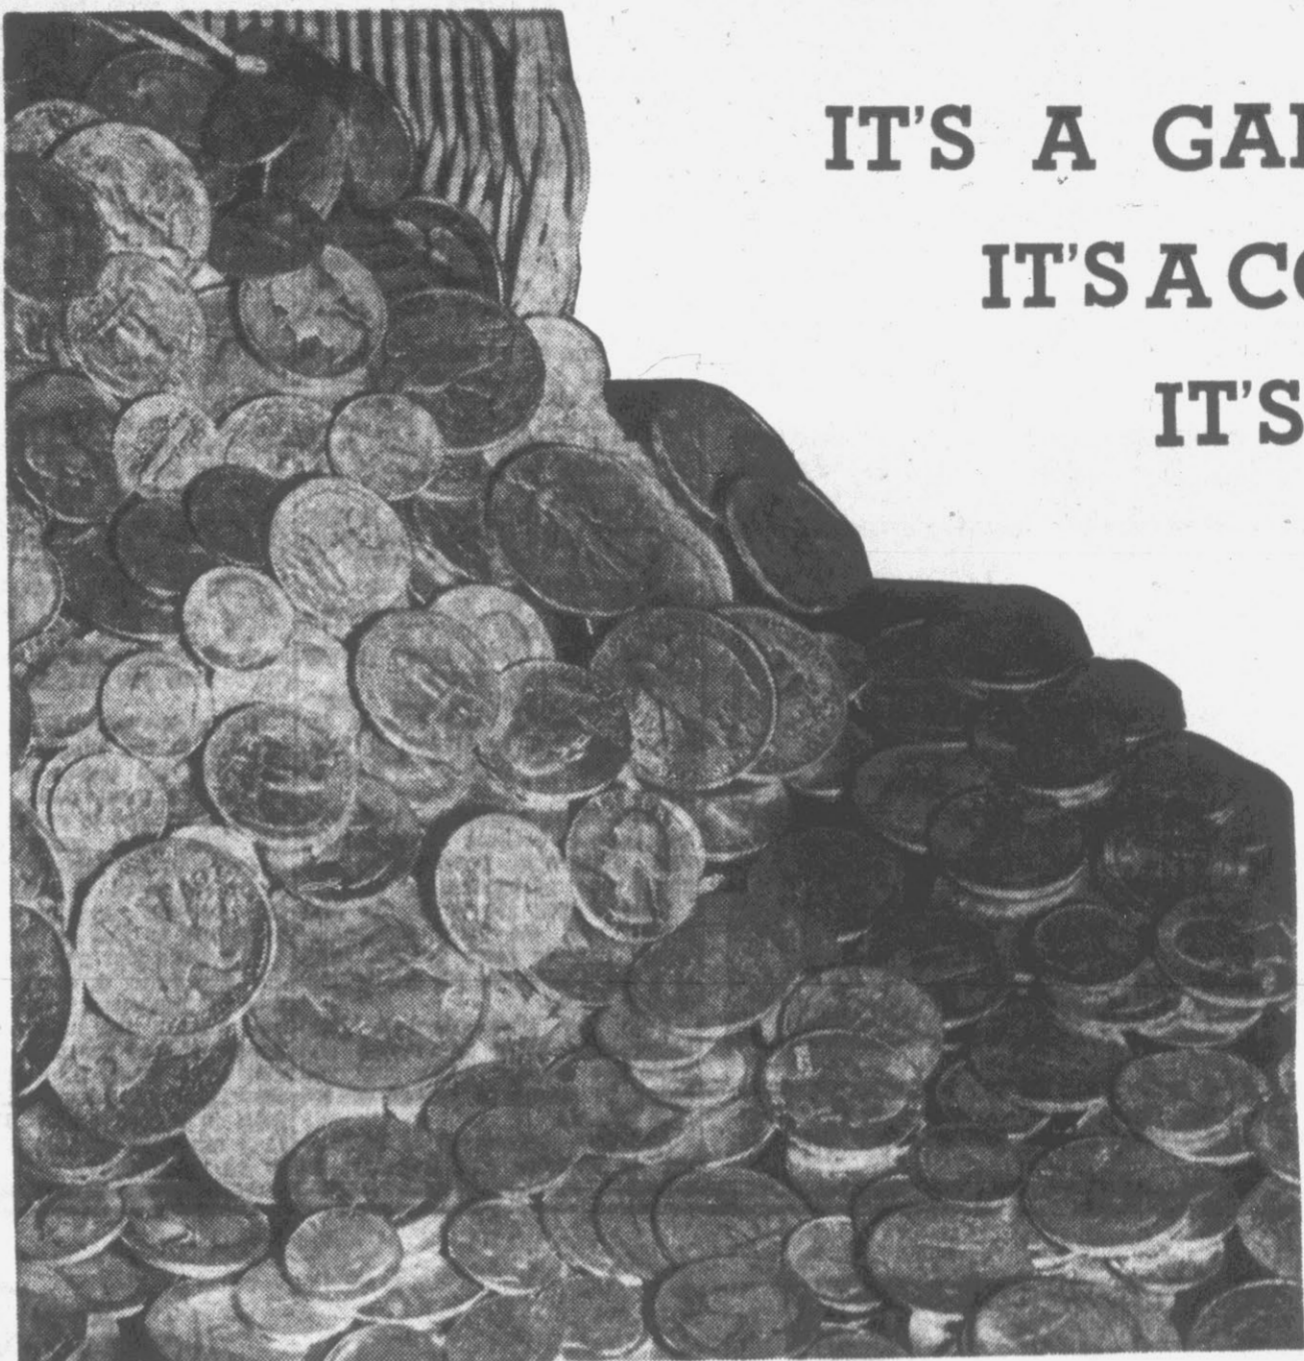

Turkish Cabinet Crisis Is Ended

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — A Cabinet crisis in the wake of weekend executions of ousted Premier Adnan Menderes and two other deposed former ministers was resolved today.

Foreign Minister Selim Sarper withdrew a resignation he tendered Monday night and announced plans to attend the U.N. General Assembly session in New York.

Sarper earlier was reported by highly qualified informants to have been reluctant to attend the General Assembly meeting due to his personal reaction to the executions.

The Malagasy Republic is a big producer of mica and graphite and it proposes to develop resources of gold, quartz and agate.

AND IT'S ALL CASH STATE BANK'S

"Guess How Much Is In The Bottle"?

And Win All The Money It Holds

Here's your chance to venture a guess . . . and profit handsomely for your good judgment by winning a lot of money. Simply guess "how much money is in the bottle?"

This is how it works and all you have to do! STATE BANK has a giant-size bottle on display in the lobby of the main office located at Five Points. Every day an officer of the bank will drop into it U.S. currency (coins of every denomination) starting with a little and adding more every day 'till it's filled up. The smart idea is to keep your eye peeled on it . . . watch it every day and keep figuring just how much is in there. Come into the bank and look it over carefully. On holidays and after hours it will be on exhibit at the front door window.

When it's full right up to the neck of the bottle and sealed, you guess how much it's holding . . . $35 . . . $50 . . . $100 . . . $500? It's your guess, anybody's guess! There's nothing to buy, no slogans to write—you don't even have to be a customer of STATE BANK to enter this fun contest. Everyone in the family is welcome to try. Read the simple rules and regulations, come by one of the 3 convenient STATE BANK offices* for your official entry blank and you're on your way!

* Note: While you are here we hope you will open a savings account or add to your present one and be a winner two ways. Just like the money in the bottle, if you keep adding just a little to your savings regularly, it'll turn into a nice nest egg, especially with STATE BANK's interest every day on every dollar!

Follow These Simple Rules

1. The contest is open to anyone except officers, directors and other STATE BANK employees and their families.
2. Entries must be submitted on an official entry blank, obtainable only at STATE BANK offices. There is nothing to buy . . . no slogans to write; nor do you have to be present to win. Only one entry per person permissible.
3. To be eligible to win, an entry must be turned in either in person or by mail to any STATE BANK office on the official entry blank; and such entry MUST BE RECEIVED at one of the bank offices by 12 o'clock Noon on Monday, October 9th; or entries mailed to STATE BANK must be postmarked by 12 Noon of the same day. Entries postmarked after this time will not be considered in the contest.
4. The winning entry will be the one that comes closest to guessing how much money is contained in the bottle at the time it is finally sealed.
5. In the event of a two-way tie, the prize money (which is exactly what is contained in the bottle) will be divided; in the event of a three-way tie or more, the winner will be decided by lot.
6. The winner will be announced on Radio WGTC and The Daily Reflector on Saturday October 14th, as well as notified by mail. Each contestant upon submitting an entry, authorizes STATE BANK and Trust Company of Greenville to publicize his name through any usual advertising media, if such contestant is judged winner in the contest.
7. The winner must claim his prize in person within ten days following the date on which notice of his winning is mailed to him by STATE BANK and Trust Company of Greenville. If the winner does not claim his prize within the time allotted, an alternate winner will be selected.

Sec. Freeman Has No Doubts On Free Food Program

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Is Uncle Sam's free food program good or bad for the country?
Does it, as some complain, make able-bodied men and women shiftless so that they spurn work as long as the larder is well stocked?
Does it cut down on the grocers' sales?
What about reports that allegedly needy have driven to distribution stations in Cadillacs and carried away free rations?

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has no doubts about the merits of the program.
He says: "We are using America's food abundance. As long as there are hungry people in this country, or as long as families have inadequate diets because they cannot buy the food the farmer produces, we intend to find ways to use the unsurpassed capacity to serve human need."
The program was expanded shortly after President Kennedy took office. Additional foods were added to the direct distribution list, and more needy persons were added to the rolls, both at the President's direction. As a result food distribution is running at about three times the level of a year earlier.
The Agriculture Department estimates that slightly more than 14 million children will participate in the school lunch program this year. It also reports that 6.8 million persons in 46 states, the District of Columbia and the territories participated in the direct distribution program during the 1961 fiscal year ended June 30. This compared with 3.4 million a year earlier.
Additionally, 248,000 persons are participating in a food stamp plan under which the government makes stamps available to needy persons for purchase of foods at regular grocery stores. The stamps are redeemed from grocery stores by the department through the banking system.
Under the direct distribution plan, certain foods acquired by the Agriculture Department under its price support and related surplus disposal programs are donated to the states, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, and to the territories for use in the nonprofit school lunch program and for needy persons in charitable institutions and family units.

With a program so widespread and vast, it was inevitable that complaints of abuses would arise. However, a nationwide survey by The Associated Press uncovered surprisingly few instances of out-and-out chiseling.
For example, John Sanford, supervisor of the commodity unit of the Oklahoma Public Welfare Department, says he doesn't think able-bodied men are turning down work to get the food.
"There isn't enough to justify turning down a job," he observed.
Marvin E. Larson, Kansas Welfare Director, said his office had received a complaint that a woman appeared in a Cadillac and picked up free groceries.
"That checked out to be a volunteer church worker who was picking up an order for someone incapacitated," Larson added.
At Wichita, a Welfare Department official said "There certainly, to our knowledge, has been no one (who turned) down private employment in order to receive public assistance—they could be terminated on assistance if they even refused to take a job washing dishes, for example."
Floyd Quinlisk, Executive Secretary of the Wichita Independent Businessmen's Association, which includes many grocers, commented:
"I've had absolutely no complaints, and our members are in the habit of speaking out at every-thing they don't like. They must feel that these are surplus foods, and it's better to give them to those who need them than let them go to waste."
Donia Girard, Chairman of the Lewiston, Maine, Health and Welfare Board, said "If welfare people weren't receiving free food, they could not buy it at stores. They would have to do without."
Paul D. McClay, General Relief Director for Maine, said: "The town officials would be hot on the track of any who were turning down jobs."

In Connecticut, welfare officials said they had not heard of any abuses nor adverse criticism.
Massachusetts sources said apparently the $5 or so weekly benefits for a family of four has not resulted in any abuses. Nor was there any adverse reaction from grocers.
Thomas D. Sheehan, Administrator of Jackson County, Mo., surplus food distribution, said "Most of these people are very, very grateful and very appreciative of what they get. We have found very few cheaters."
However, Sheehan added, "Grocers in low-income areas are not so happy. One Kansas City grocer said his business was down about 10 per cent."
Robert F. McGonagle, chief of the commodity distribution in the Ohio Department of Public Welfare, said "It's a good program—one of the best. We've received some complaints about people picking up the food in taxicabs or cars, or that the recipients are too healthy looking. But usually the complaints are vague—no names."

C. W. (Jack) Skinner, Director of the Wyoming Welfare Department, remarked, "There has been a minimum of criticism of our program."
He said there probably was not one case in 500 in which a man who could be working was using the surplus foods.
In California, the Education Department, which distributes and stores the food, said it had received no complaints.
Reed Clegg, Fresno County welfare director, said the program is for emergencies and "As soon as work opens up, they stop coming to us for food."
Leonard C. Wood, director of the commodity distribution in New Hampshire, said the reaction of officials, grocers and recipients is good. He said he knew of no abuses.

Morris Huggins, Arizona supervisor of the Federal Surplus Commodity Program, commented: "It's my opinion that people don't apply unless they really need the food. I think the grocers generally feel that people with limited incomes who are receiving this aid are better able to trade at the stores for things we don't distribute."
In Maryland, Baltimore city officials reported two instances in which food recipients had attempted to sell items they had received free. Also, there was one instance of a client turning down an opportunity to work.
William J. Brugger, supervisor of the program for the Maryland Department of Budget and Procurement, said "I believe the grocers have come to realize that the recipients in their communities now have more money to spend on foods not available under the program—such as fancier meats."
Washington State officials said the program has progressed smoothly, public acceptance has been even greater than expected, and abuses have been held to a minimum.
Leonard Hegland, public assistance director of Washington, said it was unlikely that food handouts would discourage able-bodied recipients from going to work.
He added that it would not be "a very pleasant experience" to exist on the amounts allotted for a family—the average ration in July was 20.6 pounds per family.
Only two grocers were reported to have complained, said a Washington official.
William Herndon, director of the think the broadened menu was a good thing "but more and more are concerned with the validity of case loads."

Herndon estimated that less than 10 counties refuse to give aid if there is an employable adult in the family asking help. "How- ever, more and more are thinking in that vein," he added.

commodity distribution division of the Texas Department of Public Welfare, said there was an up-surge in participation soon after the program was broadened but this is now on a decline.
He said most participating counties—70 of Texas' 254 counties—participated in the federal-state-county program in February—

False Pretense Charged To Hero

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Sheriff Arthur Wermuth, who won fame as the "one-man army of Bataan" during World War II, was indicted Monday on charges of embezzlement, conversion of public funds and false pretenses.
Wermuth, 46, a Republican, said, "there are definite political overtones to this entire (Jefferson County) grand jury investigation." He said he wasn't allowed to testify.
Wermuth is charged with illegally obtaining $3,673 in county funds over a two-year period. He posted a $4,000 bond.
Wermuth was credited with killing 100 Japanese soldiers early in World War II. He was captured and spent three years in a Japanese prison.

Fear Of Inflation Is Behind Much Of Talk

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—On all sides today voices are being raised to urge others not to arouse the half-brother of inflation. The growing din warns you that he may soon start to stir.
Everyone is against inflation. And everyone blames the other fellow for it. It's the fault of labor, or business, or government, depending with which side you're aligned.
In simple terms inflation means that your dollar seems to buy a little less all the time. It can take the fun out of getting a pay boost, or higher prices for your goods or services, or the property you sell or rent.
The cost of living—which is what most folk think of when they speak of inflation—took a big spurt after World War II, another one during and after the Korean fracas a more moderate spurt from 1955 to 1958, and then crept slowly higher until this summer.
It takes $128.10 to buy today what you could have bought for $123.70 in 1958, or $114.70 in 1954, or $104.80 in 1948—or $60.30 in 1941.
The sudden raising of voices at this time is because three factors with disturbing possibilities are under way or expected shortly: Steel wages are going up next month and the steel companies would like to raise prices. Steel is a basic material for many consumer items.
Auto pay hikes—often a pace setter—are being negotiated and motorists wonder what that will mean in terms of prices of the new models.
And the government is increasing its spending and therefore its borrowing when business activity is already on an upswing.

So now President Kennedy is warning against steel and autos setting off a wage-price spiral in other parts of the economy. Labor says its demands needn't cause price hikes. Management says it can't promise to hold the price line when costs are rising.
And business and banking experts are asking if the government's pouring more money into the economy than it is taking out in taxes won't pump up the money supply enough to set off an inflationary boom that could get out of hand.
And the public? It should react but probably won't—until the cost of living actually spurts.
For one thing the public at the moment is still in a powerful bargaining position. Because of over capacity to produce and keen competition in many industries the prices of goods have been fairly stable. The cost of services has kept on rising. But in most goods themselves you can shop for bargains.
Rising productivity pops up frequently in the present name-calling over the threat of more inflation. In most cases it means using machines to get more goods for less man hours of labor, whether in the factory, the office, or on the farm. A sizable part of the present unemployment has been laid to this by the unions.
The President has been told by his economic advisers that this rise in productivity can let industry absorb the upcoming wage boosts, if they are moderate, without price rises. The unions hold that labor should get some of the gain in higher wages. It charges that otherwise profits are all set to go up sharply.

American Treasury by Drexel

The woods of American Treasury are as interesting and varied as the design themes themselves. As in the early furniture, these woods have been combined in every piece, all finished to blend softly with each other. Each has the look of mellow "loving hands" care. There is cherry, rich and patterned—one of the loveliest of woods—found on table tops, end and side panels. Maple clusters, rare burls caused by unnatural growth, unusual in their beauty, highlight many desks and buffets. Pine, one of the woods most beloved by the colonists, forms the drawer fronts of bedroom pieces, and is used as an accent on a few occasional items. Lastly, sturdy pecan, solid as Plymouth Rock, is the framing for all pieces.

American Treasury is complete, for every room in your home. It will bring you all the warmth and richness of our American heritage, with the pride of ownership which comes from owning truly beautiful furniture.

Here are other famous name brands featured in our showrooms: Victorian by Carlton McLendon, Early American by Marcus of Hickory, Italian Provincial by Dixie of Lexington, American Restoration by Globe, American Treasury by Drexel, Mainline by Hooker, accent pieces by the original Lambert Hitchcock, Solid American Cherry by Link Taylor, Solid Oak by Link Taylor, those heavenly carpets by Lees, lamps and accessories by Marcrest of New York, period tables by Imperial of Grand Rapids, Rual English in solid cherry and maple by Sanford, Casual Oak by Williams, Meeting House Maple by Winchendon of Massachusetts, Springwall Bedding by Southern Cross, Quality Carpets since 1859 by Roxbury Mills, Coquette French Provincial by Drexel, and The Composite Collection by Drexel.

Reflecting On SPORTS By George Bryant

Pirate Eleven

The opening game between East Carolina College and Indiana Pa. College Saturday night gave the public a view of what other Carolinas Conference teams have in store for them when they meet the Pirates this season.

Saturday night's outstanding boys for East Carolina were for the most part unheard of until they showed up on the field.

One of these outstanding boys was Thomas Michel, a 200 pound, 5 foot 11 inch freshman from Arlington, Va.

Another outstanding player was freshman Gene Eisenhour. However, he did not start as did Michel, but for the time he was in the game, he did an excellent job.

Now that some good has been said about Saturday's game, mention of some bad must also be made. The officials had to put two players out of the game, one from each team at different times.

High School Football

In the Rose High game Friday with Jacksonville, the local boys made a good showing with Wayne Sumrell, Alan McArthur and Rommie Brock making the touchdowns for the Phantoms.

Quarterback Billy James did an excellent job for the second game in a row for the Greenville team. He completed a long 55 yard pass to McArthur accounting for one of the local touchdowns.

This week the Phantoms will travel to Kinston for their first away game of the season. They will be seeking their third win of the season and their second conference win.

William Duff, former football star at Rose High, is getting his first dose of college football as he works out with the University of North Carolina freshmen.

The Tar Babies are readying for their first game, at N. C. State on Sept. 29.

Duff, a 6-foot, 170-pound quarterback, was All Conference at Rose High under Coach Bud Phillips. He was also All-Conference in basketball and track.

Freshman coach George Barclay says that Duff looks to be "a good varsity prospect."

Boone Says EC Opener Was Toughest In Years

Pirate Coach Jack Boone told the Rose High Touchdown Club last night that the opening game with Indiana Pa. College was one of the toughest openers he has had.

Boone added that his boys did little the first half, but during the second part of the game they came along well. However, he added that he was thankful for the cool weather of Saturday night.

According to Boone his team made the usual first game mistakes. "We had the worst extra point protection I have seen since coming to East Carolina," the veteran mentor added.

The ECC skipper also commented on Thomas Michel's outstanding performance during the opening game. Michel scored all three of the Pirates' touchdowns and gained a total of 106 yards in six carries.

Boone told the club that the tougher entrance requirements were helping the team and as a result can hold more freshmen out for a year. Previously, due to drop out, the ECC coaches were forced to play first year boys. "We have

Revenge And New Coach To Aid SC Against Duke

Revenge and a new coach are ingredients South Carolina will have when the Gamecocks open the Atlantic Coast Conference season Saturday with Duke.

Duke's coach, Bill Murray, whose team plastered South Carolina 31-0 a year ago, says "It must be remembered that we have opened in Columbia for the last five years, and on three occasions we have come home on the losing end."

However, this game will mark the first meeting between the two teams with Marvin Bass at the helm of South Carolina. "Duke will be a good gauge," Bass says. "If we play a good game... we'll know we can play anybody on our schedule."

Capt. Jack Wilson of the Blue Devils adds this comment, "I certainly don't expect the score at Columbia to be anything like it was last year."

Davidson Much Improved Says Furman Coach

Furman Coach Bob King thinks his football team was "adequate" in its season-opening victory over Presbyterian, but he's sure that something more than adequacy will be required this week against Davidson.

"They're a much improved football team," says King, whose Paladins have set their sights on the Southern Conference title, "and you can be sure they'll be fired up for the game on Saturday."

"The only thing for us too do is to meet the challenge." The game on Furman's home field, Greenville, S.C., is the first of four conference games for the Paladins, all of which they'll probably have to win to retain any hopes for the conference crown.

King characterized last Saturday's 27-6 triumph over Presbyterian as "a hard, tough opener" in which the Furman team "did an adequate job."

Davidson, meantime, was defeating the Catawba Indians 21-15 in its own opener at Charlotte. "Our scouting reports show they have two very fine sophomore quarterbacks," said King. "Benney Coxton is a very fine football player, and Earl Cole seems equally dangerous as a passer."

Both Coxton and Cole threw touchdown passes against Catawba, and Coxton, in addition, scored a touchdown against Presbyterian despite defenses rigged against him.

Coach Bill Dole wasted no time Monday in putting his team to work on defense. Ways to contain Campbell and Furman's passing ace Bill Canty were stressed in practice after the Wildcats looked at films of the Catawba game.

The Citadel, recovering from the shock of last Saturday's 40-0 loss to Memphis State, suffered a more cruel blow. To his dismay, Coach Eddie Teagle learned that halfback Tommy Edwards, who led the Bulldogs in rushing last year, will be out six to eight weeks with a fractured ankle.

Both Coxton and Cole threw touchdown passes against Catawba, and Coxton, in addition, scored a touchdown against Presbyterian despite defenses rigged against him.

Coach Bill Dole wasted no time Monday in putting his team to work on defense. Ways to contain Campbell and Furman's passing ace Bill Canty were stressed in practice after the Wildcats looked at films of the Catawba game.

Dodgers 4 Games Behind Reds In NL Pennant Race

By MIKE RATHER Associated Press Sports Writer

That! The sound you just heard was the Los Angeles Dodgers falling four games behind the front-running Cincinnati Reds, and quite possibly right out of the National League pennant picture.

Unable to put together a sustained drive in an attempt to overtake the Reds, the Dodgers had their latest win string broken at four games Monday night when sixth-inning home runs by former teammates Don Zimmer and George Altman gave the Chicago Cubs a 5-3 victory.

It was a critical loss for the Dodgers, three down in the lost column with only 11 games to play, and reduced the idle Reds' magic number to seven to clinch their first pennant since 1940.

In other games, third-place San Francisco edged Milwaukee 3-2 on Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer in the ninth, and Pittsburgh beat St. Louis by 8-6. The American League took a day off.

In order to rest their pitching staff, worn thin by constant juggling in the chase and depleted by the absence of Johnny Podres at the bedside of his ailing father, the Dodgers started rookie right-hander Phil Ortega.

Ortega, who had given up two homers in two innings in his first stint since his recall from Spokane added three more Monday night before departing after 5-13 innings with his first loss.

The bid to get by with Ortega against the seventh-place Cubs, losers of eight in a row, failed as Chicago starter Don Cardwell checked the Dodgers on four hits over the final eight innings.

Cardwell (14-12) gave up three runs in the first on Maury Wills' single, a walk to Wally Moon, Duke Snider's run-producing double and a two-run single by Norm Larker. Then he shut the door while his teammates scored all their runs on homers.

Ed Bouchee tied it with a three-run clout in the second after Bill Williams singled and Ron Santo walked. In the sixth, Zimmer led off with his 12th homer, and after Ernie Banks struck out, Altman chased Ortega with his 26th home run.

Cepeda's 41st homer, with Felipe Alou on base, gave reliever Stu Miller (13-4) the victory. The Giants won their ninth in 11 tries and Milwaukee lost its seventh in a row. Alou and Cepeda had accounted for the Giants' first run with consecutive singles in the second inning. Alou scoring when Jim Davenport grounded into a doubleplay. Bob Hendley (5-6) was the loser.

Dick Groat accounted for three RBIs with a pair of singles and a double while Dick Stuart smashed a two-run homer his 31st, in the Pirates five-run seventh inning. Rookie Larry Foss, making his major league debut, needed relief help in the eighth from Harvey Haddix and Elroy Face. Bob Gibson (11-12) took the loss.

Mrs. Roger Maris, shown in her Kansas City home with her youngest son, holds up four fingers to show the number of home runs her husband needs to break Babe Ruth's record.

Baltimore Stadium Could Hurt Maris

By MIKE RATHER Associated Press Sports Writer

Roger Maris, held to a pair of singles in 18 official efforts at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium must accomplish an amazing flip-flop and tag two home runs in three games at the Orioles' home park to tie Babe Ruth's home run record.

The Stadium's hard-to-scale walls, a Baltimore pitching staff that has allowed Maris only one home run all season and the distinct possibility of a visit from Hurricane Esther all bar Roger's way to the Bambino's 34-year-old record.

Maris, with 58 home runs and a one-game edge over Ruth's record of 60 home runs in 1954, begins his final "official" assault on the mark in a two-night doubleheader tonight, then winds it up in a night game Wednesday under the 154-decision allotment decreed by Commissioner Ford Frick.

The Orioles' mound corps and the Stadium's distant home run territory have combined to limit opposing sluggers to only 42 homers in 75 games, and have completely contained Maris. His lone homer, off Chuck Estrada, came at Yankee Stadium May 21.

Hurricane Esther, meanwhile, has picked up speed and threatens to jumble the schedule in the final drive for No. 60.

The twi-nighter, in which Maris will face left-hander Steve Barber (16-11) and right-hander Skinny Brown (10-4), plus Wednesday and Thursday night games closes out the New York Yankees' schedule at Baltimore and takes them on to Boston, also in the path of the onrushing hurricane. Barber, with seven shutouts this year, and Brown have allowed only 12 homers each this season. Right-hander Milt Pappas (12-8), slated to start game No. 3 for the Orioles, has permitted only 13 go-puff balls.

Whitely Ford (24-3) and Bud Daley (11-17) will go for New York in the twi-nighter, with the Yankees 10 1/2 games ahead of the second-place Detroit Tigers.

Any combination of two New York victories or Detroit defeats will give the Yankees their 26th pennant.

AAU To Iron Out Feud With NCAA

NEW YORK (AP) — The Amateur Athletic Union will try to iron out its feud with the National Collegiate Athletic Association over the control of amateur basketball on Oct. 2 in Chicago.

AAU President Louis G. Wilke of Bartlesville, Okla., called a meeting Monday of all 12 groups concerned with amateur basketball, including the NCAA.

The dispute revolves around the AAU's holding the U.S. membership in the International Basketball Federation. The NCAA claims the AAU does not represent all amateur basketball in the country.

Championship Or New Coach

PITTSBURGH (AP) — If the Pittsburgh Steelers don't win the Eastern Division championship of the National Football League this year, they may be hunting for a new coach.

Coach Buddy Parker talked of quitting following the Steelers' frustrating last-second 27-24 loss to Dallas in the opening season game Sunday.

"I'm not going back if we don't win this year," Parker said Monday. "I mean it. My contract runs out at the end of the season and if I can't coach a winner, I'm not coming back."

This is Parker's fifth year as head man of the Steelers. He came to the Steelers after coaching the Detroit Lions to three divisional titles and two world championships. But the best he has been able to do here has been third place showings in 1957 and 1958.

Meeting Tonight

The East Carolina Touchdown Club will meet tonight in the Buccaneer room of the main campus dining hall at 6:30 for a supper meeting.

Coach Jack Boone will show films of Saturday's game and give a brief talk on his club.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

10 places where homes can waste heat and money. Shell Heating Oil specialists tell you how to avoid this waste and cut winter heat bills.

HOW TO CUT HEAT BILLS:

Shell suggests 10 ways to save on heat bills this winter—and tells how today's Shell Heating Oil can help you do it Right now is the time to start saving on this winter's heat bills. Here are 10 tips from Shell Heating Oil specialists to help you reduce heat loss this year.

SHELL RECENTLY completed a revealing survey of oil-heated homes. It disclosed that the average home was wasting fuel needlessly—oil burners were operating at less than 75 per cent efficiency.

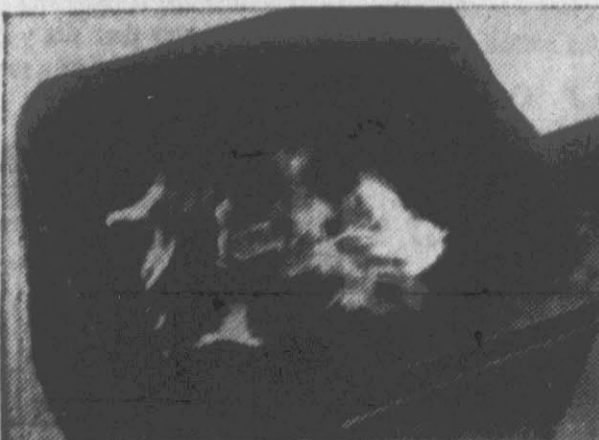

Starting with your oil burner, and moving around the house, here are some tips to help you save on heat bills.

1. Tune up your oil burner. Your burner, like your car, needs periodic attention. To help save on fuel bills you should have your burner cleaned and adjusted regularly. A professional should do the work for you. The cost is nominal and you can save quite a bit in fuel bills.

Your Shell Heating Oil dealer can clean and adjust your burner himself—or recommend someone who can.

2. Use a clean-burning oil. All heating oils are not alike. Today, there are significant differences between heating oils which can affect your fuel and repair bills.

One of the most dramatic differences:

Old-fashioned heating oil may form deposits that can choke the nozzle openings of the burner, producing an unbalanced flame. Heat bills can run high.

FOA-5X,® an exclusive additive in today's Shell Heating Oil. FOA-5X helps Shell Heating Oil stay remarkably clean and stable. Shell with FOA-5X helps guard against harmful deposits which could distort the flame in your burner and waste heat. Today's Shell Heating Oil burns with a hot, radiant flame like the one on the right, below.

Shell Heating Oil, in an efficient burner, can reduce fuel bills significantly.

Check with your Shell Heating Oil dealer.

3. Check the location of your thermostat. Your thermostat should be located in a place that insures that no room of your house is underheated and none is overheated. There is no hard-and-fast rule about where to install a thermostat. But there are certain places that a thermostat should never be:

- On an outer wall. Cold can seep through the wall from outside and fool your thermostat. This may cause your burner to work overtime.

Remarkable cleanliness of new Shell Heating Oil helps guard against clogging. The oil swirls through openings, burns with an even, cone-shaped flame.

- In a bathroom, kitchen or hallway. The temperature in these areas is subject to rapid change.
- Near TV, lamps, chimney or other sources of heat.
- In the direct line of sunshine.

• At the foot of a stairway. Air circulation up stairwells makes this location cooler than other areas of the house.

NOTE: Your thermostat shouldn't be less than three feet from the floor, or more than five feet above it.

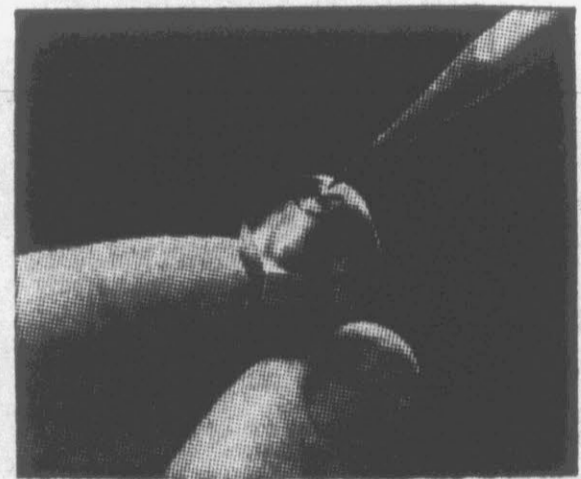

4. Set your thermostat for savings as well as heat. Proper regulation of your thermostat is one of the key ways to get the most usable heat from your fuel dollar. Here are three points to keep in mind:

- Turn your thermostat down at night. If you will set your thermostat back 10 degrees when you go to bed, you can save up to 10% a year in fuel costs. And you may sleep better too.
- When you go away for 24 hours or more, reduce your thermostat setting. Shell heating specialists recommend an "empty house" temperature of 55 degrees. That's high enough to keep the chill off, but low enough to save you a good deal of money.
- Keep your "at home" temperature around 70 degrees. Indoor temperature is a matter of personal preference. But most people like to keep their homes at about 70 degrees. But if you must raise your thermostat just 5 degrees—from 70 to 75, for example—it will raise your annual heat cost by about 12%.

5. Give your burner air. Consider this surprising fact: it takes about 1400 cubic feet of air at sea level to burn 1 gallon of heating oil. Be sure your burner gets the right amount of air. Proper adjustment of the oil burner for correct air-oil mixture will save you money.

NOTE: Your Shell Heating Oil Dealer can make sure that the air intake on your burner is properly adjusted. And that no superfluous air leaks into your furnace.

Needle-eye openings in burner nozzle calls for a heating oil that is immaculately clean.

6. Close off unused rooms. Don't spend good money to heat rooms that nobody uses—or that are used once in a while. Shut off the radiator or register. And keep the door closed when the room is not in use.

7. Keep furniture away from radiators, hot air registers and cold air return ducts. Don't block off heat with furniture. Or put furniture where it can interfere with air circulation. It can damage the furniture—as well as obstruct the flow of warm air. Leave enough space between furniture, radiators and air ducts for the warm air to circulate easily about the room.

8. A little weather stripping can bring big savings. Even well-fitted windows benefit from weather stripping. On a poorly fitted window, weather stripping can reduce air infiltration as much as 78 per cent. Note: ask your Shell Heating Oil dealer about adding insulation to your home. The cost runs higher than weather stripping, but insulation pays for itself in reduced fuel costs.

9. Stop tiny heat leaks. Before winter's first blast hits your home, check such things as attic ventilators. Make sure they're closed tight.

When fireplaces are not in use, close the dampers. You can lose a lot of heat right up the chimney.

These measures sound small, but they can pay off in substantial savings.

10. Guard against tank rust. As the oil flows from your storage tank to your burner, air is drawn into the tank. This air has moisture in it which can condense on the cool metal walls of the tank. Rust is likely to be the unhappy result.

Shell's Sonitor® fights this problem. Proved effective in over 1,000,000 homes, a single application of Sonitor helps guard your tank against rust up to 3 years.

Follow these proved tips and you can look forward to top heating performance at lower cost this winter. And be sure to ask about new Shell Heating Oil. It's made for trouble-free warmth all winter long. Your Shell Heating Oil dealer can deliver your first tankful at your convenience. Why not call him today and take advantage of the offer on the opposite page.

Friends Of Mrs. Nycum Describe A Suicidal Wish 5 Days Before Death

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Two friends of Mrs. Delette Nycum testified today they were summoned to her home five days before her death to revive the dazed and groggy divorcee.

They said she spoke of her wanting "to be with my mother," who was dead.

They testified for the defense in the murder trial of George King Cutter, millionaire realtor who is accused of beating the 38-year-old Mrs. Nycum to death. The defense contends she died of alcoholism and barbiturates.

Mrs. Lucille Somerwerck, Mrs. Effie Boger and Mrs. Vanessa Williams, three friends of Mrs. Nycum, were sworn in together Monday as defense witnesses.

Mrs. Boger testified that Mrs. Nycum had a skin disease, psoriasis, and frequently there were discolorations on her body because of this. Previous testimony indicated there were 251 bruises on Mrs. Nycum's body.

Mrs. Boger and Mrs. Somerwerck both testified they heard Mrs. Nycum's remark about joining her mother. Mrs. Williams, who testified Monday, said Mrs. Nycum described herself as "a walking pillbox."

Judge W. Jack Hooks excused the jury several times during examination of the women in order to hear their testimony and determine whether it was competent. When offering the women as witnesses, the defense said they were to be used to show that Mrs. Nycum had been drinking heavily and was suicide prone.

Cutter stepped down from the witness stand late Monday, visibly unshaken after giving more than nine hours of testimony, spanning three days of his trial for first degree murder. Throughout two days' relentless cross-examination Cutter steadfastly maintained that he was innocent. But he became very confused as to the times of events preceding the death at his apartment-bus and resorted frequently to a stock answer: "I don't recall."

Mrs. Williams testified that Mrs. Nycum was taking pills which the divorcee said she obtained from a veterinarian. "She made the statement that she was a walking pillbox," said Mrs. Williams. Under cross-examination, Mrs. Williams said that she was a part-time employee of Cutter and had visited him in jail.

Mrs. Effie Boger said she and other friends were called to the Nycum home five days before the divorcee's death and that Mrs. Nycum was groggy and dazed. She said they gave her coffee to revive her. "She said she wanted to be with her mother," Mrs. Boger said, adding that the mother had been dead for some time.

Under cross-examination by Allen A. Bailey, a private prosecutor retained by the Nycum family, Cutter admitted that he drove by two hospitals en route from his bus to the Nycum home with his companion's body in the back floorboard of his car. Why didn't you stop? Bailey asked, and Cutter replied, "In my opinion, it was too late."

While quizzing Cutter about a moan which the body emitted when being removed from the car, Bailey asked if he had taken her to either of two hospitals about five or six blocks from the Nycum home.

Cutter said, no. "It wasn't necessary...I felt there was no life," he added, but admitted he did not test her pulse, heart or breathing then, although he said he had done so at the bus.

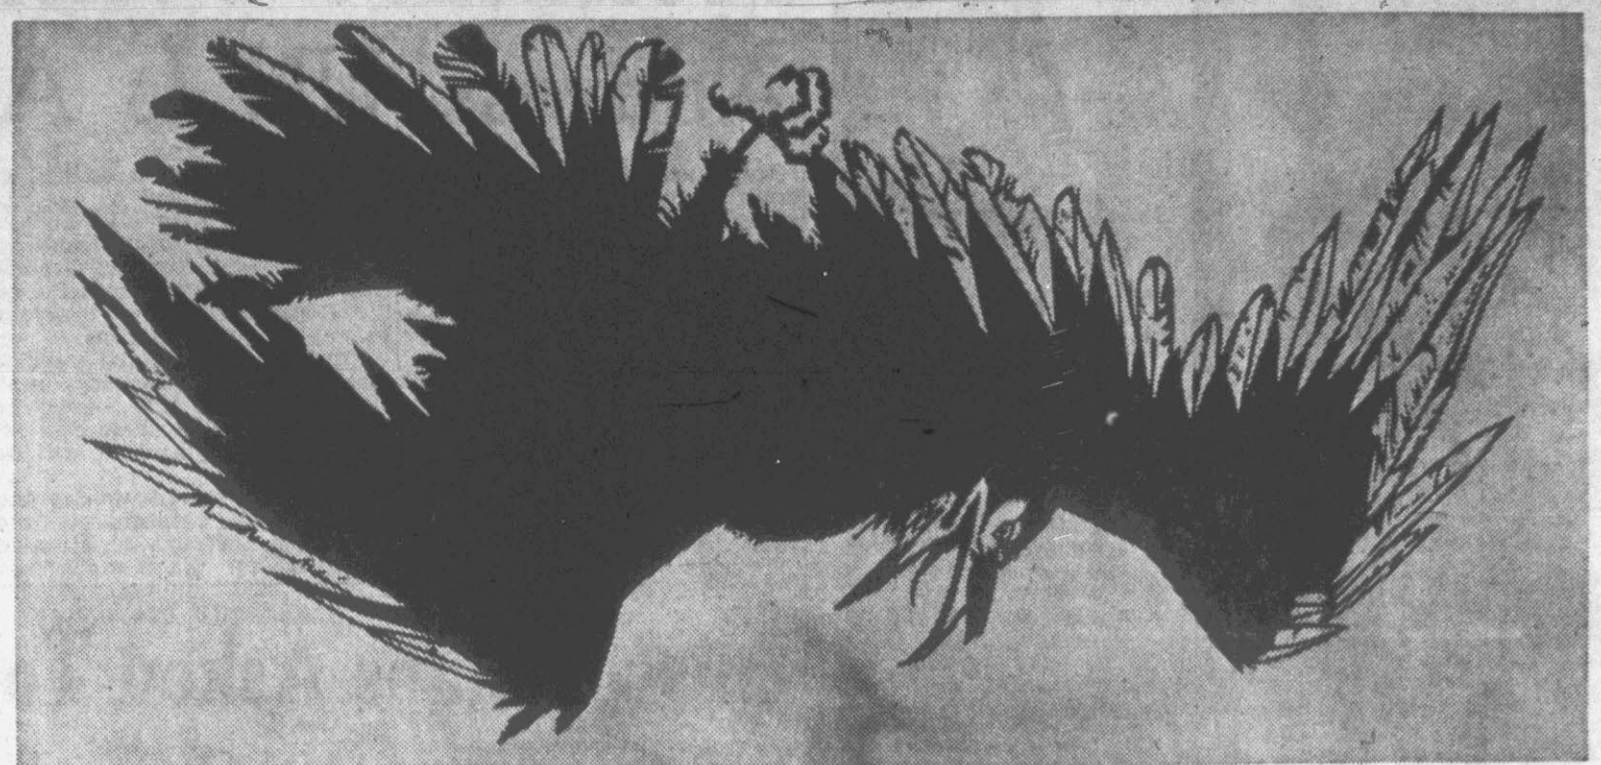

Bailey examined Cutter at length with questions indicating that another couple might have been parked near the remote garage where Cutter housed his bus when the millionaire and his close companion for a decade last visited it. Cutter said he saw no such car or couple and replied in the negative to all of the questions.

Bailey later told a reporter that the prosecution had not located such a couple but had "private information" leading to the possibility that such a couple was present.

By its questions, the prosecution has attempted to show that Cutter beat Mrs. Nycum to death over a two-day period in jealous rage because of her overnight absence on the night of July 1.

Cutter, on re-direct examination, said that Mrs. Nycum frequently dated other men during their association, that he knew of it and "No, I wasn't jealous."

N.C. Museum Of Art Exhibit In City

The North Carolina Museum of Art's first traveling show, "North Carolina Printmakers" will make its debut in Greenville tomorrow at the Greenville Art Center.

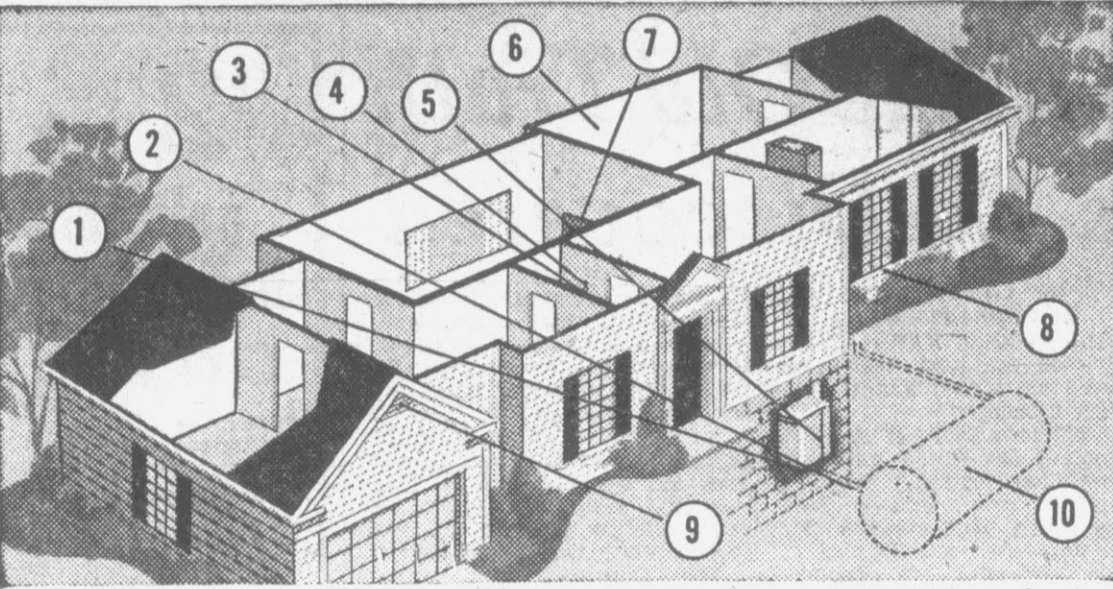

The show is composed of 26 prints by North Carolina artists and shows original work by contemporary North Carolina printmakers, pointing up the different directions in which they are working. It is currently touring galleries, museums and schools of North Carolina on loan from the state art museum. Greenville is the first town to view the exhibit.

Such representational prints as "Jon" by Durham artist Earl Mueller are included in the collection, along with such abstract prints as "Discovery" by George Bireline of Raleigh. Impressionistic and purist works are also represented.

Printmaking, or "graphic" art, has been an occupation of most of the great artists of the world since the 15th century discovery of mechanical ways to make impressions. Various media have been utilized to produce the prints, with effects achieved in black and white, single color and multi-color.

Oldest of the graphic media is wood, which requires a relief printing technique. Some of the areas to be printed are left standing and inked. Linoleum and plastic are other media identified with the relief process.

In contrast to relief printing is the technique called "intaglio."

NROTC Exams Planned Dec. 9

Vice Admiral W. R. Smedbert III, chief of Naval personnel, has announced that the 18th annual national competitive examination for the Regular Naval Officer Training Corps will be given to eligible high school seniors and graduates Dec. 9.

Application forms for the examination are now available and must be mailed by Nov. 17.

Designed to supplement the officer output of the Naval Academy, the NROTC program makes it possible for young men to earn a regular commission while studying at civilian colleges with NROTC units.

All tuition, fees and books are furnished by the Navy and the student receives an annual retainer of $600 for not more than four years. During the summers of his college education, the student participates in training cruises as a midshipman.

After completing the usual four-year college course, he is commissioned in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty as a prospective career officer with one of the Navy's fleets.

High school seniors and graduates who will have reached their 17th birthday and will not have reached their 21st by July 1, 1962, may apply for the NROTC aptitude test. Those who make a qualifying score will be given a rigid physical exam early next year. From the number of qualified men remaining in competition, at least 1,600 will be selected to begin their Naval careers next September.

The NROTC college training program is also open to enlisted men on active duty with the Navy and Marines. A separate quota is established for applicants within these services.

Application forms are available at high schools, Navy recruiting stations or from the Chief of Naval Personnel, Department of the Navy, Washington 25, D.C.

Outbreak Of Accidents In City Reported Yesterday

Greenville Police reported today that over $2,000 damage was caused yesterday in an outbreak of traffic mishaps in the city.

Investigators said heaviest damage was done when three cars collided on 10th St. near the intersection of Cotanche St. about 5:48 p.m.

Drivers of the cars were identified as John Watson Shannonhouse, 51, of 2712 East 10th St.; Milton Kenneth Robinson, 19, of 212 Pine St.; and Peggy Williams Denton, 1403 East Wright Road.

According to police, the Denton vehicle struck the Robinson car in the rear, causing it to collide with the rear of the Shannonhouse auto.

Damage was set at $40 to the Shannonhouse car; $300 to the Denton vehicle and $400 to the Robinson car.

Mrs. Denton, and her nine-year-old son, Thomas, were treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for minor injuries and released, according to officers.

William E. Tripp, 47, of Route 5, Greenville, was charged with failing to yield the right of way in a second collision.

The Tripp vehicle collided with a vehicle driven by Clinton Harris, 39, of Route 1, Grifton, at the intersection of Pitt St. and Mumford Road about 10:50 a.m.

Damage to the Harris truck was placed at $250 while officers placed damage to the Tripp car at $400.

An estimated $200 damage was reported to a vehicle driven by Willis Arthur Tripp, 52, of Greenville following a collision with a parked vehicle near the intersection of Third and Pitt Sts. about 5:40 p.m., police reported.

According to the report, the Tripp car struck a car belonging to Hubert Andrew Creech, 21, of Route 2, Smithfield. The Creech car, police said, was parked on West Third St. Damage to the auto was placed at $100.

Tripp was charged with driving too fast for conditions present at that time.

Gerald K. Morris, 18, of Route 2, Vanceboro, was charged with failure to yield the right of way after his truck collided with a vehicle, driven by Charlie Cox, 52, of 112 North Liberty St.

Damage to the Cox vehicle was estimated to be about $250.

The collision occurred about 3:42 p.m. at the intersection of Chestnut St. and Raleigh Ave.

A collision at 1:46 a.m. on Dickinson Ave. caused an estimated $125 damage to a car driven by John E. Mack, 37-year-old Negro of Route 1, Tarboro, and saw the driver charged with improper passing.

The Mack car collided with a vehicle operated by Winfield S. Tucker, 55, of Simpson, and caused an estimated $25 damage to the auto, according to officers.

Attorney Joins Gaylord's Office

A. Louis Singleton, East Carolina College graduate and former Greenville resident, has joined the Greenville law offices of Louis W. Gaylord Jr.

Singleton, 31-year-old Beaufort County native whose family moved to Plymouth when he was a child, became an associate in Gaylord's legal practice this month after completing the N. C. Bar Examination in August.

He was graduated from the University of North Carolina School of Law last June.

Singleton, a 1955 graduate of East Carolina College, was a resident here from the time of his graduation until 1957 when he moved to Charlotte. In Greenville and in Charlotte, he was affiliated with GE Credit Corp. He remained with that firm until 1958 when he entered UNC's law school.

Singleton's wife, Nancy Kesler Singleton, Fuquay-Varina native, is a member of the Junius H. Rose High School faculty. During their former residence here, Mrs. Singleton, also a graduate of ECC, taught at Ayden High School.

The young attorney, son of Mrs. A. L. Singleton of Plymouth and the late Mr. Singleton, was graduated at Plymouth High School in 1949. He entered ECC that fall and remained a student here until he entered the U. S. Army in 1951.

Singleton was stationed in Japan for 18 months during the Korean Conflict. Upon his discharge in 1953, he returned to Greenville and enrolled again at ECC.

As a student here, Singleton was vice president of the student body during his senior year. At UNC's law school, he was a member of Phi Alpha Delta, legal fraternity, and president of the Law Students Association.

Currently, he is a member of the Army Reserve. He attends St. James Methodist Church where he is a member. He is not yet affiliated with any civic club.

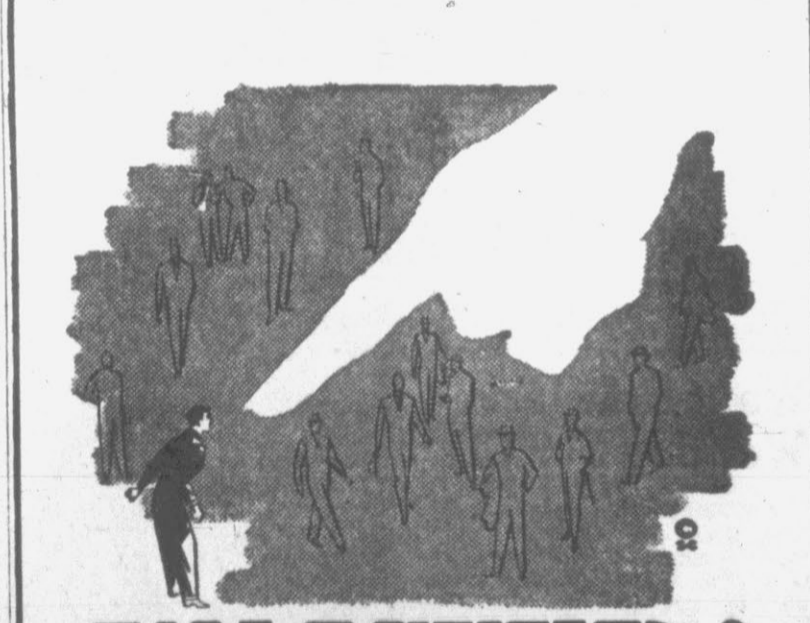

The Singletons have one daughter, Sally, 5, and one son, three-year-old Ben. They reside at 116

Comedian Alan King Tries Going It Alone

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Alan King made friends and influenced ratings last season on "The Gary Moore Show." This inspired the Moore production staff to develop a separate "Alan King Show." After all, the system worked with "Candid Camera," once a Moore feature.

So Monday night, with most of this season's new shows still to make their debuts, CBS presented Alan King in a one-shot, half-hour special with the announced idea that if the public liked it it might turn up as a regular feature later this year in the event of some program casualties, or next season.

King is a pretty funny stand-up comedy monologist and his specialty is a wry assault on the joys of suburban family life. As the show turned out, King proved to be funnier just telling about his problems than trying to act them out in a situation comedy.

Speaking of situation comedy, the "Pete and Gladys" people are certainly crazy about "I Love Lucy." The CBS show returned Monday night with Cara Williams looking and acting even more like Lucille Ball than ever. The Pete Porters have even acquired a couple-who-live-next-door and the plot certainly reminded one of the good old Lucy-Desi days. Unhappily, it lacks the spirit and verve of the original.

In a last-minute switch, CBS has moved its Tuesday night "Red Skelton Show" into a 9-9:30 p.m. spot, and will follow it with its new "Ichabod and Me" comedy series when the shows make their season debuts next week.

"Ichabod and Me," incidentally, comes to weekly television after two try-outs of the characters in the old "Robert Montgomery Presents" anthology series.

The first, in 1956, was called "Good-Bye, Gray Flannel," and

Calls For Probe Of Dag's Death

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — Joshua Nkomo, leader of Southern Rhodesia's African National Democratic party, said Monday night an international commission should investigate the air crash that killed U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

He said the inquiry should seek to determine why Hammarskjold's plane did not land at Ndola as planned and who proposed that the meeting between Katanga President Moise Tshombe and Hammarskjold should take place at Ndola.

President's Decision To Address UN Is Applauded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic and Republican congressional leaders applauded today President Kennedy's decision to address the United Nations.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, predicted Kennedy will place before the United Nations a new disarmament plan and call for fresh negotiations to end nuclear testing.

Kennedy's decision to fly to New York to address the new session of the U.N. General Assembly was announced Monday by the White House.

Kennedy probably will speak Friday or Monday, depending on the schedule adopted by the assembly.

A White House official said the death of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold strengthened the President's desire to appear before the United Nations.

Kennedy believes, the spokesman said, that "now, at a time of crisis for the U.N., would be a good time to go there and affirm support of the U.N. and its principles."

Kennedy expressed Monday the hope that U.N. members will "try to build the U.N. into the effective instrument for peace which was Dag Hammarskjold's great ambition."

The Senate and House passed a resolution expressing deep regret over Hammarskjold's death in a plane crash.

Humphrey said he thinks it is vital in the light of Hammarskjold's death for Kennedy to rally the West's forces.

"I predict the President will lay down a total U.S. program for disarmament and review the efforts this country had made to get an agreement on the cessation of nuclear weapons testing and proclaim our willingness to negotiate such an agreement whenever the Soviets evidence a willingness to conduct serious negotiations," Humphrey said.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in a separate interview he thinks Kennedy will be able to "invigorate the thinking" of U.N. members and "give them assurances of the steadfastness and firmness with which we stand behind the world organization."

Dirksen, who criticized U.N. policies in the Congo in a statement Monday said later that Hammarskjold's death had "shocked the world" and brought a crisis in international affairs.

The Republican leader said he disagreed with Hammarskjold's undertakings in the Congo because he felt "everything the United States is supposed to stand for" was being flouted in the United Nations fight against the anti-Communist Moise Tshombe regime.

Influential Congress members generally were apprehensive that Hammarskjold's death will mean a bitter fight which could threaten the effectiveness of the world organization.

Episcopalians Asked To Leave Church Council

By TOM SHAWVER
DETROIT (AP) — A move to pull the Episcopal Church out of the National Council of Churches developed at the Episcopal General Convention today. It appeared to have only scattered support but the issue may stir up one of the liveliest hassles at the church's triennial meeting.

Delegates representing 3½ million Episcopalians across the country, agreed Monday to bring it into the open for debate.

"This issue needs more light and less heat," said a lay delegate at the opening session of the House of Deputies, representative branch of the church's two-chamber governing body.

The council is formed by 33 Protestant denominations with nearly 40 million adherents. Some Episcopalians are disturbed by its pronouncements on controversial political issues.

The diocese of Southwestern Virginia submitted a resolution adopted by Pulaaki, Va. Episcopalians calling on the church to resign from the council.

Dorothy Fisher of Grosse Pointe, Mich., a leader in the Episcopal Education and Information Council of Michigan, an unofficial organization, said Episcopal groups in at least a dozen cities support withdrawal.

Less militant, the Long Island, N.Y., diocese urged the convention to ask the council to refrain from taking stands on political, social, economic and theological issues.

Strong support for both the National Council and the World Council of Churches came from the dioceses of New York and Massachusetts.

Controversy also was mounting over a move to unite Episcopalians with other Christian denominations.

Certain to trigger sharp debate is a far-reaching proposal by Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, Presbyterian clergyman, for a merger of his church with the Episcopalians, the Methodists and the United Church of Christ.

Former Official In Laos Gov't At N.C. College

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — A young man who at the age of only 24 had a top job in the government of Laos has given it up to study at Catawba College here, so he can help his people even more.

He is Khampouth Phanthavong, former chief of the Foreign Affairs Section of the Laos Ministry of National Education. Catawba College has given him a scholarship in education, and the U.S. State Department arranged his transportation by air.

Khampouth speaks English and French well. He has studied public administration and English in England for nine months, and has continued his education at home in Vientiane. But he wants a college education to help build the educational system of his struggling nation.

Call it luck or an accident that brought Khampouth, one of eight children of an elementary school teacher, to Catawba, where he enrolled last week.

The college, and the U.S. Information Service in Laos, were looking for a pre-medical student, but couldn't find one who would qualify.

Prof. Peter P. Cooper, chairman of Catawba's department of social and political science, had suggested to his friend, Dr. Tom Dooley, famed medical pioneer in Laos, that the doctor send a young man to the States for medical training. Perhaps such a young man from Laos could carry on the work of Dr. Dooley, who was in the United States for a cancer operation.

"It is one of my most fervent prayers that such a thing will come to pass," Cooper remembers Dooley as saying.

Khampouth is going to try to make it come to pass. After his studies at Catawba—his superiors in Laos have permitted him to go for a year, subject to extension—he will return to help build an educational system that will produce pre-medical candidates. They will carry on the work of Dr. Dooley, who died a few months ago, of cancer.

Buyers' Group May Go Coed

OTTAWA, Canada (AP)—Beryl Plumptre, a tall, silver-haired woman, is the national president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, a 30,000-member woman's organization whose aim is to protect, educate and represent today's buyers.

She's the wife of Wynne Plumptre, Canada's assistant deputy minister of finance, and the mother of two teen-agers.

"I am vitally interested in welfare work and things affecting the way of life of Canadian women," she said.

At next fall's annual meeting she will ask delegates to open association membership to men "because basically consumer problems are common to men and women who make the decisions jointly."

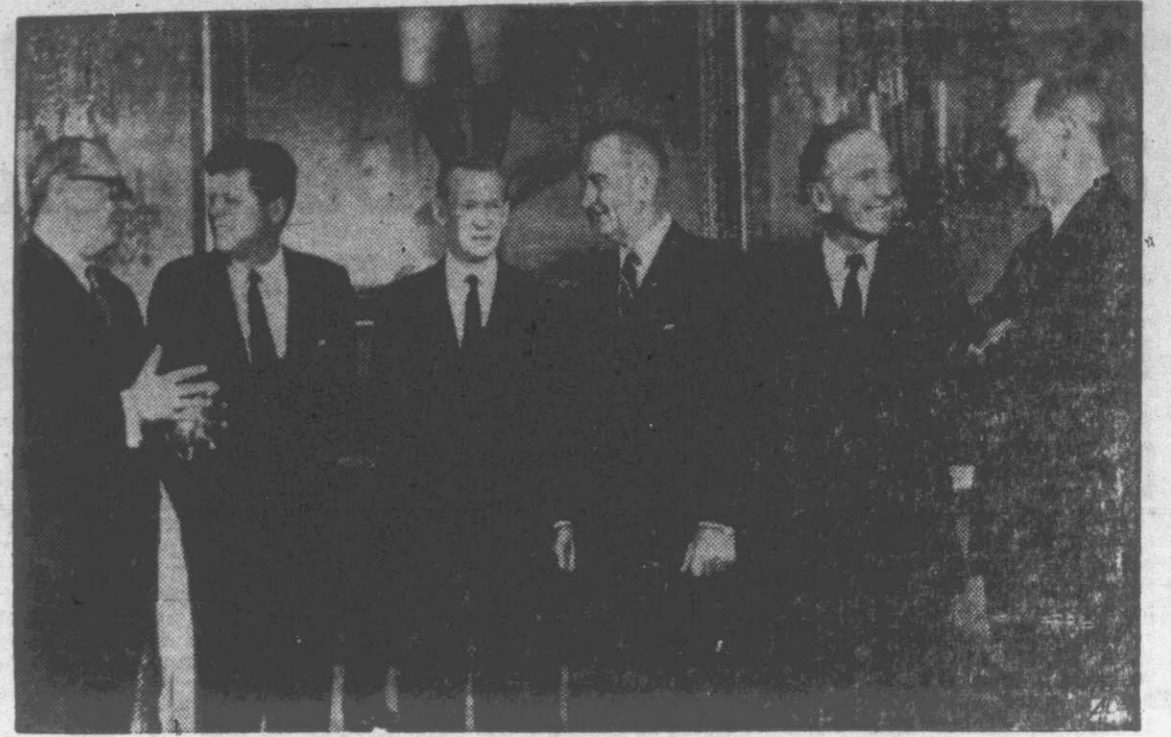

Mrs. Plumptre will back proposals to solicit support and more recruits from groups other than those in the middle-income bracket and to initiate a department to test consumer products to inform the buying public better.

The association also would like to see a cabinet minister handling a consumer's department in the federal government.

An Age Old Truth Is Re-Discovered

By BOB THOMAS—
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Some Hollywood operators have re-discovered an age-old truth: there's money in nudes.

More than a score of shoeing promoters have been putting together films featuring girls bare enough to make Brigitte Bardot seem like a clothes horse. Some promoters are getting rich.

"The Immoral Mr. Teas" is billed with some justice as "the big daddy of them all." A plotless procession of nudes, it started the first big splash of the nude wave.

It was filmed around Hollywood for about $25,000. It has run in Los Angeles and San Francisco for three years and holds the long-run record in Seattle, beating "Ben-Hur" and "Cinerama." Its makers estimate a return of a million dollars.

"Not Tonight, Henry" was put together for $75,000. A 20-week run in Hollywood brought a record $112,126, aided by a police raid and court acquittal. Its eventual profit in this country alone is estimated as high as $600,000.

"Teas" was directed by Russ Meyers, a magazine photographer, and produced by Peter DeCenzies, who has operated burlesque and road shows. "Henry" was the work of Ted Parmore, who ran a film mail order business. Nearly all the nude-film makers are first-time producers.

They film their bare epics in apartments and offices, at secluded lakes and beaches, seldom in a studio. Nudes are recruited from the ranks of professional models, strippers and prostitutes.

What is the market for the nudies?

"That might surprise you," says Frank Seltzer, co-owner of the Monica Theater, and himself a film producer. "In the first week or two, the films draw the fringe crowd—perverts, etc. After that we get the carriage trade, the same kind of people who go to Las Vegas."

Seltzer indicated that the nude trend is already on the wane.

"It's just a temporary fad," he said. "The men who make them don't know scripts or picture making. They just get a bunch of dames and shoot them nude from the waist up. Experienced producers won't make these films because they don't want the taint of the peep show."

Veteran Actor Fredric March Regards World As A Workshop

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—“The best way to stay young,” said Fredric March, “is to regard the world as a workshop.”

At 64 March, still physically trim and one of the handsomest men in show business, has no desire to sit in a front porch rocking waiting for Uncle Sam to send him his Social Security check.

Neither he nor his wife, Florence Eldridge—for a generation they've been one of the nation's best known theatrical couples—plans retirement, or regards it as a rainbow blessing.

“Maybe the youngsters have time to daydream about retiring,” said March. “But not us.”

“We're tapering off a little, but we both feel that if we don't keep growing by trying new things we'll vegetate—and that is no existence.”

“I feel sorry for business men who are retired automatically. To have to close your desk on your 65th birthday, when you are really the same you were the day before—that is tragic.”

“It is better to taper off, to let go gradually.”

It is hard to see where March is tapering off. Winner of two Academy Awards, he recently completed his 65th film, “The Young Doctors.” He is now rehearsing for a role in the new Broadway play, “Gideon,” which may be his 81st or 101st stage vehicle.

“I'm not sure which it is,” he said. “I never kept track of them.”

March switched to acting after he found a youthful career as an embryo bank executive stultifying. An attack of appendicitis gave him the leisure, while recuperating, to decide to gamble on a life in the theater.

It proved a rewarding choice in more ways than one. As a film matinee idol March played against most of the top feminine stars of his time, ranging from Clara Bow to Tallulah Bankhead, Greta Garbo and Kim Novak.

As long ago as 1937 the U.S. Treasury listed him as the fifth top-salaried man in the nation. He got $484,687 that year.

His 40-plus years in the entertainment field have given March some theories on survival.

“To last you have to keep healthy in body and mentally alive,” he observed. “You have to keep interested in other people, and to remember that you are no bigger an actor than you are a person.”

“I think it's unwise if you become too involved in just the amusement world. You warp yourself as a person if you do. That is a pitfall to avoid.”

“The more interested you become in others the better you become in your own job.”

The boredom and ennui that afflict some actors hasn't touched March, and he doubts that it ever will. He added:

“Acting can be a very healthy life. Many actors live to be quite old, and as for actresses—well, they seem to last forever.”

Day Of Decision For GMC And Union Parleys

By A. F. MAHAN

DETROIT (AP)—This is decision day for General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union.

Do they reach agreement on a new three-year, three-package contract or do a rash of crippling local-level strikes erupt into a nationwide walkout?

GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton said “It looks like a long day.” Both he and UAW President Walter P. Reuther said progress was being made as they recessed bargaining shortly after Monday midnight.

Today is decision day because the UAW's 290-member General Motors Council has been summoned to meet at 2 p.m. Wednesday to approve or reject a new contract. The council is made up of local union presidents and shop committeemen from across the country.

Effects of local-level walkouts have spilled over into Canada. General Motors of Canada announced Monday it was furloughing 6,000 today at its Oshawa plants which normally depend on U.S. factories for parts.

There was no hope of getting the world's No. 1 auto maker back into full production at all its 129 U.S. plants before next week. GM of Canada said there was no chance, even if all strikes ended today, of its avoiding the 6,000-worker layoff.

The GM Council could cut off all local negotiations on new at-the-plant agreements and return things to status quo. Or it could authorize continuance of local strikes, or order a company-wide walkout in support of unresolved national non-economic issues.

GM and the UAW reached agreement on Sept. 6 on a new national economic package, which the union estimates is worth more than 12 cents an hour in take-home pay. It also increases pensions and supplemental unemployment benefits and guarantees partial pay for any hours fewer than 40 in a workweek.

About 80 working agreements had been reached between local unions and plant managers, but as of Monday workers at only 40 plants had returned to their jobs.

At 15 plants where settlements had been reached the company shut down operations because supply lines from key parts factories had dried up. Some others were only in partial operation. Forty-odd plants still were strike-bound.

Getting Rid Of That Chicken Fat Has Been Put To Music

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP)—If President Kennedy's youth fitness exercises have their way, the nation's school children will soon be working off “chicken fat” to a tune composed by Meredith Willson, author of “The Music Man.”

Until recently, about the most strenuous exercise Willson ever took was blowing the flute. But he has suddenly become a physical fitness fiend and has composed words and music to go with a set of calisthenics.

A sample of the ballad: “Touch down ev'ry morning, Not just now and then. Give that chicken fat back to the chicken. And don't be chicken again. No, don't be chicken again. “Touch down” in the song signifies touching one's toes. As the song progresses the victims also must do push-ups and other exercises. The whole thing lasts 6½ minutes and anybody who can finish without puffing is in good shape.

The government hasn't any money to put the recordings in the nation's schools. But it figures that if some civic group or other angel will come forward with $30,000 the job can be done. Willson isn't charging a nickel for his labors.

It all came about when Bill Whitman, publicity man working gratis for the Physical Fitness Council, approached Willson with the idea that he compose a song. Filled with patriotic zeal, Willson practically had the thing finished before he got back to the office.

But there were some bugs. For example, the first version called for 40 quick pushups, which might kill anybody except a professional strong man.

So Willson got together with Ted Forbes of the Physical Fitness Council. For a solid 10 hours Willson polished up the music, and lyric, while Forbes did the exercises. At the end Forbes was so beat his hands shook and he couldn't eat dinner.

Willson then took to doing the exercises himself, and is reported to be slimmer than he was.

He and Charles B. (Bud) Wilkinson, University of Oklahoma football coach and President Kennedy's chief adviser on youth fitness, have become fast friends, though they never have met. Willson, while in the throes of creation, kept calling Wilkinson long distance from Los Angeles and playing the opus to him.

POSSIBLE ADENAUER SUCCESSOR—West German economic minister Ludwig Erhard, shown casting his ballot in Bonn, has been mentioned as possible successor to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. John Lynn To Speak At Farm Bureau Meeting

John Lynn, legislative director of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is scheduled as the main speaker Thursday at the Pitt County Farm Bureau kick off its annual membership drive.

The national Farm Bureau figure in the program to speak to membership solicitors and other agricultural leaders who will head the Pitt Bureau's campaign for renewed and additional members.

Scheduled for 7 p.m., the dinner meeting will be held at Respass Brothers Barbecue in Greenville.

Commenting on the Federation officer's visit here, Pitt Farm Bureau President B. Alton Gardner of Ayden said today: “We are indeed happy to have a man of John Lynn's caliber come to discuss Farm Bureau's legislative program and the role of farm organizations in agriculture.”

He continued: “Mr. Lynn has had much experience in working with agricultural policies, including our tobacco program.”

Before joining the Federation, the world's largest farm organization, in 1948, Lynn was assigned an active role in developing food and agricultural policies in West Germany as assistant director of Anglo-American Food, Agriculture and Forestry Division.

NATIONWIDE OFFERS

ONE FOR ALL

—a single, low premium policy that covers your entire family...plus a special income provision for Mom and the kids!

IMAGINE...a single life insurance policy to cover everyone in your family. Father gets the most protection...up to $15,000 now, with liberal retirement benefits later. Mother and children are covered by term insurance, with a guaranteed right to convert to permanent plans in the future. New additions to the family are covered after 15 days...with no premium increase. What could be more sensible than one low-cost life insurance plan for the entire family?

and you can add this for income:

You can now add to the above package of family protection our popular Family Income Plan. It provides valuable income dollars for Mom and the kids during the “growing up” years. Example: On a $10,000, 20-year plan, your family would receive benefits totalling $35,200 should death occur in the first year. And you pay for no unnecessary coverage because protection tapers off as the kids grow up. No separate policy either. This plan becomes an integral part of your Family Policy. Tells Stories Of Unsolved Crimes

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A twice-convicted murderer has begun a series of statements on at least 30 unsolved crimes in nine states.

Charles P. (Rocky) Rothschild, one of whose murder confessions saved an innocent man from electrocution at the 11th hour, is relating the details of the unsolved crimes to State Law Enforcement Division officials.

Chief J. P. Strom of SLED said the list of crimes, most involving armed robbery, may rise to as many as 60.

He declined to give any details until the statements Rothschild is making have been checked out conclusively by officers in the various states concerned.

Rothschild, a former Cairo, Ill., policeman, is due for release soon from the South Carolina Penitentiary where he is serving a 5-year term for robbery conspiracy. He is due out early on time off for good behavior, officials said, and will be released later this month.

His release will be to Georgia to start a life term there for the murder in which his confession saved James Foster, Greer house painter, just a few days before Foster had exhausted all appeals from an electrocution sentence.

The slaying was the 1955 killing in a robbery of a Jefferson, Ga., merchant.

He also faces a life sentence in North Carolina for a robbery slaying at Marshall, N.C.

The Daily Newspaper Is the Safer, Surer Advertising Investment

Two questions influence the choice of an advertising medium. First, what does it cost to reach a person with a sales message? Second, how many of those you reach will buy? A typical advertiser can reach a person through newspapers at least as economically as through other media.
