Local Gas Prices Dropping Lower

A number of Greenville service stations have dropped the retail price of regular gasoline down to a modern-day low of 17.9 cents per gallon. Only yesterday the low was listed at 18.9. According to a check with several dealers, Greenville retail prices generally range from 17.9 to 20.9 cents per gallon. Many of the dealers have been given a 9.9 cents voluntary variable and are selling at a loss. A few of the dealers have been given a 10.9 cents variable. The gas war has been in effect since the last week in August and none of the distributors in this area are able to foresee the end of this "big headache." The big question for all dealers in the area is "when?" Only the main oil offices will be able to answer that and according to one distributor, "it may be over Monday or it may be 30 days from now."

Compacts Replace Diplomat Limousines

By LEWIS GULICK WASHINGTON (AP) — Block-long limousines may be on the way out for U.S. diplomats abroad. If a State Department experiment works out, the ambassador of the future will ride in a compact limousine that is more economical and with parts more easily obtained in strange corners of the world. There's another advantage, too. He'll be able to get in and out of them without removing his top hat. From the outside, the new-look limousine resembles a cab painted black. It is in fact a medium-sized sedan produced by the Checker

ASCS Committee Re-Elected Again

The 1962 County Committee for the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will be led by chairman J. Lyman Edwards of Grimesland. William F. Tyson of Stokes will serve as vice-chairman and A. Poe Worthington of Winterville will be the regular member of the committee. First and second alternates are Bernie Wilson of Winterville and Charles Quinerly of Farmville.

Farmville Mart Has $67.46 Day

FARMVILLE—Cutters, smoking leaf and lugs dominated the Farmville Tobacco Market yesterday. Sales Supervisor Louis Williams reported. The market averaged $67.46 in selling 829,692 pounds for $559,729.54. For the season the market has sold 17,359,012 for $1,307,092.94 to average $65.14. Williams reported a full sale Friday with grade-for-grade prices remaining about the same as Thursday. He said he expected a good sale Monday.

Kennedy Administration Opens Campaign Aimed At New Allied Policy

EDITOR'S NOTE — Is the U.S. developing a new policy toward the Two Germans? John Hightower, Pulitzer prize-winning AP diplomatic correspondent, gives a penetrating analysis of the thinking in Washington.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER NEW YORK (AP)—In spite of official denials, the Kennedy administration evidently has opened the first phase of a campaign to revise Allied policy on Germany in preparation for possible negotiations with the Soviet Union on a Berlin crisis settlement. Officials said today that U.S. policy on Berlin and the future of Germany was unchanged. But evidence increased that a new, or elastic, approach to Berlin bargaining now is developing. In Berlin itself, high U.S. officials repeated what they had said Friday—that they are advising West German leaders to face up to the existence of Communist East Germany. Such advice, if West Germany accepts it, could lead to limited Western recognition of Red rule and therefore to Western bargaining with Russia over an East German role in control of the supply lines to Berlin. Statements issued by the State Department in this country, including the headquarters here of Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and by the office of the American mission in West Berlin implied denials of the new approach to the West German on the East German problem. But the statements were vague and imprecise and appeared to be mainly designed to cover up the Western bargaining position in any negotiations with the Soviets. The key to the situation seems to lie in the next moves to be made by Soviet Premier Khrushchev. If he indicates to the Western powers that he is ready to agree to a compromise way out of the war-threatening dispute, he seems likely to find the West willing to consider a number of changes. If he tries to dictate the terms of settlement, however, the West position will undoubtedly be hardened.

George King Cutter Freed After 11-Day Murder Trial

By CHARLES L. WEST CHARLOTTE (AP)—At 12:25 a.m. today, millionaire realtor George King Cutter walked free, a charge of murder lifted from his shoulders for the first time since July 4. A jury of four women and eight men acquitted him 10 minutes earlier of a charge of slaying Mrs. Delcie Nycum, a divorcee whom he had dated since 1948. The jury got the case on the 11th day of its trial for first-degree murder and returned its verdict of innocent after four hours and 16 minutes of deliberation. The state had sought the death penalty. Cutter's family clustered around him in joy as applause broke out in the Mecklenburg Superior Court. After the jury was polled, the smiling Cutter walked out of the courtroom, accompanied by one of his sons, for his final trip upstairs to the Mecklenburg County Jail—where he was held without bond, except for two weeks, since his arrest July 4. He picked up his personal belongings and departed. "No, sir," he replied softly when asked if he cared to comment. Cutter's estranged wife, Nancy, two sons, a daughter and his sister remained in the courtroom for a few minutes after he had departed, joy shining from their faces. They had sat with him throughout the trial. Mrs. Nycum's two teen-aged children, Sandra, 16, and Ricky, 15, also were present when the jury brought in its verdict. Their faces reflected seriousness. Cutter testified during a 2 1/2-day stint on the witness stand that Mrs. Nycum, 38, died in the apartment bus he keeps stored at a garage in a remote area. He said he had left her there on the night of July 3 and returned after 3 a.m. July 4 to find her dead on a bunk. He said he took the body to the Nycum home, clothed it in pajamas and burned the dress in which she died. He also admitted enlisting Ricky, who helped carry the body of his mother into the house, to report that he had found her dead in her own bed. Cutter said he did so to avoid a scandal. But the body bore 251 bruises and Cutter was arrested and charged with beating Mrs. Nycum to death over a two-day period, allegedly because she had been absent overnight on July 1. Cutter denied it and no one testified he saw the 6-4, 240-pound realtor strike Mrs. Nycum. The body also showed a blood alcohol content of 42 per cent and a greasy or fatty liver, consistent with alcoholism. The defense contended, and presented medical experts to support the contention, that she drank herself to death. Superior Court W. Jack Hooks handed the case to the jury after a two-hour and 20 minute charge. At 9:10 p.m. the jury asked to see photographs of the area where the bus is housed. Judge Hooks recalled the jury at 10:43 p.m. to inquire what progress was being made. "Your honor, we are 9-3," replied Rondo M. McIntosh, foreman and the first juror seated for the trial. "Do you feel there is any probability that you will reach a verdict tonight?" the judge asked. "We are willing to try," McIntosh answered. At 12:12 a.m. the jury sent in word that it had agreed. Three minutes later, Cutter, standing with his right hand upraised, heard McIntosh speak the words, "Not Guilty."

Greenville Mart Has $66.33 Mark For Week's Sales

Greenville's tobacco market recorded its highest averages of the season this week as the market sold 7.8 million pounds for an average of $66.33. The market paid out during the five days a total of $5,177,147 for the 7,805,206 pounds of tobacco on the warehouse floors. More than a million dollars was paid out on the Greenville market each day of this week with the exception of Wednesday when the threat of hurricane Esther caused a sharp drop in the volume of tobacco on local warehouse floors. Yesterday tobacco sales on the Greenville market totaled 1,711,468 pounds and brought farmers $1,136,864 for an average price of $66.43. "This past week was the best week in the entire 71-year history of the Greenville tobacco market," Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee said today. "This was despite the large amounts of green, immature leaf and nondescript tobaccos that appeared on our warehouse floors. The week saw a steady advance day by day in the prices of many grades over the previous week, many farmers continued to average over $76 for their offerings and company purchases ran as high as $88 per hundred." Whedbee added that tobacco is continuing to flow into the Greenville market from all sections of Eastern Carolina. The week's sales brought Greenville's season totals for the 23 sales days to 38,571,778 pounds sold for $24,726,191 for a season average of $64.10.

Doubt Power Aim By Rightist SAO

By RODNEY ANGOVE ALGIERS (AP)—French officials said today they doubt the new appeal for demonstrations by the right-wing Secret Army Organization will lead to a new attempt to seize power. The horn-honking and pan-banging response by thousands of European settlers Friday night indicated that some of the population would follow orders by the underground leaders. But officials said the French army is now thoroughly loyal to the De Gaulle regime. They believe the campaign is aimed more at keeping up an awareness of the Algerian crisis than at organizing a march on the government headquarters. Armored cars and water cannons blocking the main street moved quickly under government orders to put down demonstra-

UN Session Marks Russian Shoe-Banging Birthday

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Soviet campaign to set up a three-headed U.N. executive mushroomed into crisis for the United Nations with the death of Dag Hammarskjold. Tom Hoge, who has been reporting on U.N. news for a decade, examines the current prospects for its solution.

By TOM HOGE UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Just one year ago today Soviet Premier Khrushchev began a shoe-pounding campaign to bludgeon the United Nations into replacing Dag Hammarskjold with a board of three men. Then fate handed the Communists a tragic opportunity: Hammarskjold's death. Now their campaign is beginning to boom again. They seem to be pounding too hard with that shoe. With the Asians and Africans fearful of the vacuum created by Hammarskjold's death, Moscow apparently had hoped to stampede them into backing its three-headed "troika" plan for a board representing the Communist, Western and neutral nations. But instead of a stampede, the Soviets' latest campaign loosed a tide of resentment among the smaller nations. For many of them the United Nations is their major foreign policy forum and they hesitate to see it destroyed. A number of smaller countries had toyed with the idea of setting up a troika-type board of U.N. undersecretaries to run the far-reaching U.N. organization until a new secretary-general could be chosen. Most now are coming around to the U.S. position that a single chief must be named either on a stop-gap or permanent basis. The shift is reflected in a move by a group of neutrals for the General Assembly to name an interim secretariat chief. More than 30 countries are reported to have lined up behind it. U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk attempted to give the neutrals a push Friday by appealing for the assembly to defy Soviet opposition and choose an outstanding world leader as temporary secretary-general. The neutrals were reported to have decided to wait until after President Kennedy addresses the assembly on Monday to put forward their plan formally. The President is expected to call for strengthening the United Nations, and it would be hard for him to skip the problem of the vacant secretary-general's post. The sponsors still have to settle on a candidate. The United States is known to favor Mongi Slim, this year's assembly president. Another possibility is U Thant of Burma, who has strong Asian and African support. Slim, apparently fearful that a head-on clash with the Soviet bloc might destroy his effectiveness as well as his diplomatic career, is said to have demanded assurances that the Communists vote for him or at least abstain. But there was a growing belief that if overwhelming assembly support can be rounded up, Slim might accept the job even in the face of Soviet opposition. The United States and its allies have stood firm against the troika plan ever since Khrushchev broached it in an assembly speech. They say it is a maneuver to paralyze the world body. The Soviet Union has countered by warning it will challenge any assembly attempt to name an interim head, insisting that there must be a permanent solution on its own terms. Under the charter a secretary-general is appointed by the assembly, but it must be on recommendation from the 11-nation Security Council where the U.S.S.R. and the other big powers can wield the veto. There is no provision for an interim chief.

NEW ADDITIONS . . . Greenville Police Department's Traffic Division now has two new motorcycles. The units arrived this week and have been placed in service, according to Chief of Police Guy C. Langston. Langston noted the Division now has three vehicles, and is to "supervise, control and expedite the movement of traffic" through the city and . . . "enforce all city, state and federal laws governing the operation of motor vehicles." The chief emphasized "the members of the Traffic Department will make an earnest effort to see that all law violators are apprehended . . . and make the city's street safer for the motoring public, bicycle riders and pedestrians." He requested that drivers, pedestrians and bicyclists "give their full cooperation to the department's traffic safety program" . . . pointing out that "without their help, any safety program is useless." Pictured with the Traffic Division's three vehicles are Lt. T. E. Gladson, head of the division; Capt. J. B. Cannon, officer in charge of the Department's Uniformed Patrol; and traffic officers, Sgt. R. E. Joyner and Cpl. M. T. Vernon.

Nancy Carter Speaker At District Convention

All About Town With Anne Mattox

An effort will be made, according to Miss Janice Hardison, at Monday's charter meeting of the Democratic Women of Pitt County to muster enough delegates from the charter membership to make a creditable showing for the county in Goldsboro one week from today.

U. S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. is scheduled to address a Young Democratic Woman's dinner in the Wayne County Seal, State YDC President Samuel Johnson announced the Ervin address last week and Miss Hardison, who headed organization of Democratic Women of Pitt in August, says she'll be trying Monday to recruit a sizeable representation from the Pitt chapter.

In addition to Sen. Ervin's address, the program Saturday, planned entirely by YDC women officers, includes registration at 3 p.m. (Hotel Goldsboro), a "ladies tour" of Seymour Johnson Air Base at 4 p.m., a 5:30 reception and the banquet and Ervin address at 7 o'clock.

Ervin's topic: "Ways in Which Women Can Support the Democratic Party."

The Greenville Music Club extends a welcome to anyone interested to join with them in an adventure of discovering the riches that we have in our own world of music.

They have during the past six years given over $800 in music scholarships to East Carolina College and assisted in other scholarships elsewhere.

Meetings are held the fourth Monday of each month, September through May. The meetings begin at 8:00 o'clock, followed by a social hour. Most of the meetings will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

You do not need to be a music performer to become a part of this club, all you need is interest.

Programs planned for the year are using the theme "Greenville And A Rich World of Music," taking different faces each meeting such as Our Rich World of Music at the College, Other Lands, Our Neighbors, At Christmas, In Opera, In American Music, In Our Churches, Our Youth, In Ourselves and finally In Epicurean Delight.

New members and pledges of Sororities at East Carolina College are Jane Blue, recently initiated as a sorority sister and Jenny Lynn Thompson, pledge of Beta Chapter, Sigma Sigma Sigma. Nena Duncan and Madge Stancill have pledged Gamma Sigma Chapter of Kappa Delta Sorority of which a Greenville girl, Katherine Raynor, is president.

Attending the triennial regional meeting of Sigma Sigma Sorority at Madison College, Harrisonburg, Va., are Ruth Jordan and Jane Blue along with twenty one of their sorority sisters from ECC. Tri Sigma is the first of the College's sororities to purchase a house for members. Last spring the sorority purchased a residence on East Fifth Street, formerly the home of the late Dr. and Mrs. Louis C. Skinner.

Speaking to the Home Economics Department of the Northeastern District NCEA 39th Annual Convention held in Greenville yesterday was Nancy Carter, a nationally known home economist, editor and TV personality.

In her position as Director of Home Economics for Colonial Stores, she interprets the homemakers viewpoint to her company. Recently she was loaned by the Food Store chain to the U.S. Department of Commerce for a European assignment. Nancy Carter was selected as the home economist for the United States Exhibit at the International Trade Fair in Zagreb, Yugoslavia.

She has been the only food editor to win two top national awards in the home economics journalism field for two consecutive years. She was recently selected for inclusion in the first edition of Who's Who in American Women and the World Who's Who in Commerce and Industry.

Plum Kuchens Star With Coffee

PURPLE PLUMS: Ever served them sliced, sprinkled with brown sugar, over crisp ready-to-eat breakfast cereal? Or put them in a wonderful kuchen with a fluffy cakelike batter and a sugar-and-spice topping?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

THEY USED to be called fresh Italian puses, but nowadays they often appear under the name of purple plums.

No matter. These purple plums make the most wonderful kuchen (coffee cake) that you are likely to come upon.

The kuchen, as you may know, can have several sorts of underpinning: usually yeast or baking-powder dough, or a cakelike batter. The kuchen topping is always a mixture of sugar and spices. Some kuchen, however, offer nuggets of fruit between the dough or batter and the sugar-spice topping, and purple plums are a perfect fruit to find nestling there.

The following kuchen recipe, Purple Plum Tuckaway Cake, has a base so light and fluffy that when it's offered warm from the oven as it should be—it must be served with forks. Some eaters like to slather butter on wedges of this kuchen, but we think it is quite rich enough as it is.

PURPLE PLUM TUCKAWAY CAKE

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 large egg

- 1/4 cup milk
 - 1/2 cup orange juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
 - 10 large purple plums
 - Streusel Topping
- Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in the shortening until pieces are about the size of rice grains. With rotary beater (hand or electric) beat the egg until thick and ivory-colored; beat in milk and orange juice; stir in orange rind. Add to the dry ingredients—shortening mixture; stir just until smooth; do not beat. Turn into a buttered round cake pan (10 by 2 inches); spread evenly. Arrange quartered

- plums, skin side down, over top.
- Sprinkle Streusel Topping over plums and batter. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven 35 to 40 minutes or until cake—tester inserted in center comes out clean. Make sure batter under plums is baked through. Cut into wedges in pan, removing with a wide spatula, and serve hot. Makes 12 servings—wonderful for a kaffeeklatsch.
- Streusel Topping: In a small bowl, mix together with the flat tines of a fork, 1/2 cup sugar, 1-3 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/4 cup soft butter or margarine.

Faculty Duplicate Club Has Session

The Faculty Duplicate Club met in regular session at the Planters National Bank and Trust Company Friday night with eight tables in play.

The game was an open one, and the movement a skip Mitchell. Winners north-south were, first, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Hull; and tied for second with Mrs. S. M. Woolfolk and Mrs. F. S. Willard were Miss Mary Greene and Dr. J. H. Stewart. Winners east-west were, first, Mrs. Frank M. Park and Mrs. F. W. Mills; and tied for second with Mrs. Pat Grukke and Mrs. G. V. Smith were Miss Elvina McGee and Miss Sally Klunneschmidt.

The next meeting of the club will be Oct. 6 at 7:30 p.m.

A single flash of lightning could supply an average home with electric power for 35 years.

News And Notes From Bethel

Bethel Woman's Society Of Christian Service
The September meeting of the Bethel Woman's Society of Christian Service was opened by the president, Miss Camille Staton who gave the points of a good Woman's Society Christian Service Member. A good member, she said, Prays, Serves, and Pays.
Mrs. J. C. Wynne, Jr., opened the devotional with the hymn "Spirit of Life", after which Mrs. Wynne led the group in praying the collect from the Methodist Hymnal, and the Second affirmation.

To compliment the topic, "The Spirit is Lord", the Worship Center displayed a seven-branch candelabra and two pictures painted by Miss Mary Jo Wynne: one depicting the seven lamps, and the other seven doves. These, said Mrs. Wynne, were the three symbols of the Holy Spirit.
The best way to understand the Holy Spirit is to understand how He comes to us, continued Mrs. Wynne. Sometimes He is revealed to us gradually and at other times He comes in a flash. It is then we realize that He has been with us all of the time. The Holy Spirit is like a well of water; as long as there is a spring at the base of that well, the water will flow. So it is with the Holy Spirit. As long as we love the Holy Spirit within us, love flows from us. The Holy Spirit desires love, joy, peace, patience and gentleness for us. God moves our lives from chaos into orderliness, through the Holy Spirit.
When people go to church, they should not go with expectations of entertainment from the pastor. They need to enter into the worship service, giving of their hearts and minds. When hymns are sung, they should be sung with feeling and praise, and in repeating the Affirmation of Faith; this should be done with sincerity, not a mere repetition of words. It is through the Holy Spirit that we accept Jesus Christ. Mrs. Wynne closed her program with the poem "The Touch of the Master's Hand."

The minutes were read by Mrs. R. J. Whitehurst, in the absence of the secretary, and the Circle count was taken.
Mrs. D. T. House, treasurer, gave the treasurer's report, after which Miss Staton called for the Secretaries reports.
Miss Staton announced a change in dates for the observance of the Week of Prayer and Self-Denial. Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst will be in charge of the Quiet Hour on September 27 at 9:30 beginning the Week of Prayer, which extends through Oct. 4.
The meeting was adjourned following the benediction.

Auxiliary Meets
The Women's Auxiliary of the Bethel Pentecostal Holiness Church was entertained in the home of Mrs. R. L. Whitley and her daughter, Mrs. James D. Nicholson was co-hostess.
The meeting opened with "The Woman's Auxiliary Song" and was followed with prayer by Mrs. Whitley.
Mrs. George Abeyounis presented the program using as her topic "The Need For Christian Education". She was assisted by Mrs. Wiley Clark who led in a discussion of their church schools. Mrs. Carl Manning told of the need for better facilities in the school to aid in training Christian Leaders.
Mrs. Ruben gave the devotionals. Her scripture reading was Second Timothy 2:15 and Timothy 3:4-15.
During the business session they discussed getting clothing together for the Mission Field. They also voted to send 15 dollars to the Emmanuel College at Franklin Springs, Ga., and to Holmes College, in Greenville, for the Feast of the Ingathering.
Rev. Wiley Clark had charge of the election of officers in the auxiliary for the new year. They are as follows: President Miss Mary Rollins - Vice President, Mrs. Major James-Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. James D. Nicholson-Assistant Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Athalean Rollins.

The Board Members are: Program Chairman-Mrs. Carl Manning, Mrs. Billy Rollins, Mrs. Nathan Keel and Mrs. Jesse Gardner. Benevolence Committee: Mrs. Major Manning, Mrs. Jesse Gardner, Miss Athalean Rollins and Mrs. Wiley Clark.
The meeting adjourned and at the social hour refreshments consisting of ice cream, cookies, mixed toasted nuts and pickles was enjoyed.

Visiting Mrs. R. L. Whitley and Mr. and Mrs. James D. Nicholson and their daughter, Sandra, during the weekend were, Mr. and Mrs. Z. E. Whitley of Greensboro, who returned to Greensboro Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Ellenburg and son, Bobbi, who came Friday and returned to their home in Burlington Saturday; Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Whitley and children, Barbara, Madge and James of Vanceboro also Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Whitley and grandson, Russ Wilson, were there during Sunday.
Mrs. A. L. Whitley and grandson, Russ, recently spent some time in Rocky Mount with Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Bullard and children. While there they visited Miss Edna Melton who is Mrs. Whitley's sister.
Mrs. H. V. Staton and Miss Eleanor Ward Staton spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hodges, Judy and Sam in Norfolk, Va.
Mrs. D. C. Carson has returned from Grifton where she spent some time with her son, Dr. Carson and family.
Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hardy are now stationed at Fort Gordon, Ga. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wynne, Jr., left for New York Tuesday. They were accompanied by Mary Jo, their daughter who joined friends from Richmond. From New York, Mary Jo and her friends set sail for Europe on September the twentieth.

Auxiliary Will Meet
The American Legion Auxiliary will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Nannie Brown, 805 East Third St. Janice Laughter and Shirley Harrell will speak about the program given at Girls State Convention this year.
To Speak Over WGTC
Sunday morning at 8:30 Dr. John Reynolds of East Carolina College faculty and member of First Presbyterian Church will give an invitation to you and your family to attend the Sabbath school and church of your choice.
Chimpanzees are easy to train for the stage because they seem to enjoy performing.

Rose High News

By SHERBY EVERETT
"I wish we all could join in a covenant of honesty, hard work and physical fitness," stated Junius H. Rose in an assembly Thursday, September 21. He also said, "It will be a long, hard pull to make this world stand up for us and our children, but we can do it."
During his speech, Mr. Rose gave the students a note of hope and challenge to work in high school and college. "This is not an easy time for America," he commented, "if we are destroyed, it will not be by bombs but by the countries that suffer without complaint and work without any fun."
"Goodness is stronger than evil and I know the evil in Rose high is at a low level because we learn from each other," he mentioned.
"In the next twenty-five years, the American ways of life will change. We need to be prepared. Can we measure up to the world?"
Mr. Rose concluded, "If we would group the students according to their desire to learn because the people that desire education are the ones that really hold the world together."
Billy Neal James, president of the S. C. A., presided and Elbert Felton gave the devotional in the assembly.
Juniors Sell Magazines
"So far this week, total magazine sales have reached $1171.05," announced Robert B. Starling, junior class advisor. The junior class is selling magazines under the LOOK school plan to raise money for the Junior-Senior Banquet and Dance.
To promote interest, various prizes are given each day and at the close of the contest for the students who are high salesmen and sell certain magazines. Tuesday, Doris Phillips and Bill Green received fur dogs for selling the highest amount of subscriptions.

Donna Whitley, Allen Van Dyke, Barbara Kings, and Bill Moyer also got similar prizes for high sales on Wednesday and Thursday respectively.
Anna White heads the sales as general chairman and Bill Moyer acts as business manager.
On Monday of this week, the junior class ordered their school rings which they should receive before Christmas.
Organizational meetings, various clubs have chosen officers for this school year.
Mrs. Margaret R. Farley, advisor for the Library Club, announced that William Allen heads the club as president with Tom Arthur as vice president; Joy Morrill, secretary; Ronnie Williams, treasurer; and Susan Laughter, reporter.
In the Monogram club, Billy Neal James is president; Wayne Sumrell, vice president; and Jimmy Jenkins, secretary-treasurer.
Officers of the science club include David Mosier, president; Tom Arthur, vice president; Dennis Egan, secretary; and Jimmy Blythe, treasurer. James D. Nicholson is the advisor of this club.
Shirley Harrell leads the Future Teachers of America as president along with Sara Basnight, vice president, Diana Hodges, secretary; Susan Laughter, treasurer; Joyce Masten, historian; and Mrs. Kemp H. Baldwin, advisor.
Judy Thigpen is president of the Future Nurses club; Lona Presser, vice president; Donna Gammor, secretary; Louise Waters, treasurer; and Mrs. Grace Carraway, the advisor.

Garden Club Has Meeting

The Dig and Delve Garden Club met Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. Badger Clark. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Bob Messner and Mrs. Herbert Paschal.
The president, Mrs. Craven Hughes, held a short business meeting and welcomed two new members, Mrs. Morris Brody and Mrs. Jack Edwards.
The program consisted of short papers given on "Lawns" by Mrs. Cameron Dudley, "Shrubbery" by Mrs. Bill Hudson, "Bulbs" by Mrs. Badger Clark, and "Birds" by Mrs. Billy Jenkins.

Dr. Winsberg to Speak

Fund Deserves Unified Support

The success of the annual Pitt County United Fund campaign and the future work of the seven major county-wide agencies it represents will depend directly upon the response of all the citizens of Pitt County in the next few weeks.

It is not the responsibility of a relatively few business firms or a relatively few individuals of Pitt County to provide the total financial resources with which the agencies represented by the United Fund will carry out their work during the coming year. It is the responsibility of every business firm and every individual of the county to contribute his fair share to the support of the United Fund and its member organizations.

The major agencies which are represented in the Pitt County United Fund appeal this year touch either directly or indirectly the lives of every family in Pitt County. The work of these agencies, year after year, have helped to make Pitt a better county in which to live; and the work of these agencies in future years will continue to help make life in this county better.

Certainly Pitt would be a much poorer county in many ways without the work of the Red Cross, the Pitt County Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, the Pitt County Mental Health Association, the Pitt County Association for the Blind, the Pitt County Association for Mentally Retarded, the Salvation Army, and the many state-wide agencies which are represented in Carolinas United. The budget of $91,350 being sought by the Pitt County United Fund this year for the support of these agencies is realistic and well within reach of the resources of the people of this county. The work of the several agencies represented in the Pitt United Fund is worth many times that amount every year to the people of this county.

The people of Pitt County have an opportunity to help themselves and their fellow citizens through their support of the United Fund and the agencies which are represented in its appeal for funds. We trust the people of the county, individually and collectively, will respond generously to the United Fund campaign which is now getting underway.

Every citizen of this county benefits from the work being done by the agencies of the United Fund. Every citizen should welcome the opportunity of supporting these important and worthwhile organizations with his one fair-share gift to the Pitt County United Fund.

Reaching Depth In Defense Preparedness

The town of Winterville is setting a pace of Civil Defense preparedness which sets an excellent example for other communities, large and small, in Pitt County.

From all outward signs, the community of Winterville has taken the matter of Civil Defense preparedness more seriously than any of the other communities in Pitt County. The most recent example of this is the announcement that courses in home nursing and first aid are now being offered in Winterville and citizens of the community have responded to fill the classes to capacity.

The response to the home nursing course was sufficient to warrant not one, but two courses of this kind. It is the kind of individual response on the part of citizens which gives community preparedness sufficient depth to cope with emergencies if they should come. In far too many communities the matter of preparedness is left to a relatively few people who are primarily responsible for setting up the organization. In Winterville, however, the preparedness program is permeating the entire community. It is gaining the kind of individual response which makes it most meaningful and most helpful to the community as a whole.

Outlook Dim For Powerful Chief

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the troubles with sending a boy on a man's errand is that he doesn't have long pants.

This may be the trouble in the United Nations in picking a successor to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, killed this week in an African plane crash. If the successor isn't given his full title and full authority, or is chosen in an unauthorized way, he may feel too enfeebled to act when action is needed.

Such a result would be a victory for Premier Khrushchev who has sought to intimidate the secretary-general and even abolish his job. Yet the U.N. members may feel such a condition—a temporary compromise to postpone an American-Russian showdown—is the only alternative to chaos.

Hammarskjold acted so quickly with U.N. forces during last summer's Congo crisis that he frustrated Russia's attempt to get its hooks into the area. Khrushchev's reaction was a fierce and quick.

First, he wanted Hammarskjold fired. Then he wanted to abolish the job of secretary-general and replace it with three secretaries-general.

This had such a gimmick it took gall to propose. Under this plan any one of the three secretaries could veto anything the others wanted to do.

And one of the three would have to represent the Communist bloc. So, in any crisis created by Moscow, the veto would render the United Nations helpless to act.

Hammarskjold not only refused to bow to Russia pressure by quitting but continued to act with speed and determination whenever he thought necessary.

The United States backed Hammarskjold, opposed Khrushchev's plan for three secretaries-general and insisted there should be only one.

Nothing happened. And nothing was expected to happen until April 1963 when Hammarskjold's term would expire and his job would be open. So the showdown was postponed.

Hammarskjold's death with two years of his unexpired term remaining made a showdown immediate. If Russia wanted it that way.

That they want it was indicated Thursday in New York when Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko spent four hours with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

When the meeting broke up reporters were given to understand that Russia intends to press for three U.N. secretaries.

Nothing More Ignored

Nothing is more ignored than a canceled stamp. On a letter the recipient seldom glances at the stamp, unless the letter comes from a foreign land.

Generally he tears into the envelope, disgorges its contents and then discards the envelope, stamp and all.

Or so it would seem. Obviously, though, people look at the front of the envelope more than one might think. At least the meter mail that comes into the Reflector office would indicate this.

Metered mail is the kind that prints the amount of postage right on the envelope. Firms using this method buy a measured amount of postage on a meter pre-set at the post office. When this runs out they go back and buy more.

But along with the postage, the meter folks figured out that they could print an advertising message at the same time with little additional cost. So they sell such plates to meter users as an added benefit.

This all kinds of little messages come through the mails every day. In addition to the obvious use by companies with commercial products for sale, various government agencies and other associations make use of this medium.

Thus the North Carolina Department of Agriculture urges its letter recipients to: "Plan now to attend your North Carolina State Fair, Oct. 16-21 Raleigh."

The Greater Myrtle Beach Chamber of Commerce advertises "World's finest beach, America's finest strand."

The Textile Information Service office in Charlotte points to "U. S. Textiles. Working for a better America."

The Southern States Industrial Council carries the slogan "The voice of the Conservative South."

And while the Department of Agriculture is pushing the State Fair, the State Board of Health carries the slogan "Go North Carolina Trade Fair, Oct. 12-21, Charlotte."

The Baptist State Convention of North Carolina says, "The Biblical Recorder in every Baptist Home."

Mount Olive Junior College points to itself as "A Christian college for men and women."

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States calls for "Progress through voluntary action and freedom."

Petrov makes the point that since 1948, there has been no marked shift from favoring Russia to favoring the United States. Note must be taken of the attitude of Nehru and Nasser at the Belgrade Conference which might indicate a weariness with Khrushchev.

On the other hand many of the countries which we assumed were pro-West—which literally means pro-United States, actually lean toward Russia.

The admission of Red China into the United Nations might be regarded as a test of Communist strength in the United Nations. Petrov says of this:

"...the elevation of Communist China to a role as one of the guardians of international peace and security in the Security Council would automatically increase the dangers to the independence of countries like South Korea, the Philippines, South Vietnam, Laos, Malaya, or Thailand. Their shaky regimes would feel abandoned and might well fall easy prey to pressures emanating from the most powerful nation of the region, even if the Chinese Communists did not resort to overt aggression.

The pro-Western governments of these countries might, for a short time, give place to 'neutralist' governments in the Communist camp. The United Nations, quite clearly, could do nothing to prevent this from happening. In other words, one more group of nations would lose their independence, and Communist China would acquire a belt of satellites in the Soviet fashion."

Obviously, Petrov is correct, for we United States are witnessing this process in Laos and in addition we are witnessing the astonishing effort to turn the Congo into a Communist state. Is this effort associated with the death of Dag Hammarskjold? Was his a political murder or an accident?

There are some who believe that Soviet Russia would be weakened if steps were taken to please Red China. No Communist has quarreled with the Kremlin more violently than Tito, but when it comes to voting in the United Nations, Yugoslavia generally goes along with Soviet Russia on basic questions. The reason is that for a Communist it is important for the dammed-out Marxism must not fall. Intramural quarrels must not be permitted to strengthen

Power Shift Bothers

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

In 1951, the United Nations had 60 members; in 1961, the United Nations has 99 members. This enormous increase in membership shifts the center of power in that body and imperils the United States. Vladimir Petrov, an accepted authority of current Russian and Chinese affairs, has written a book for the "Sage String Press," entitled, "What China Follows."

In this book, he, like the Belgrade Conference, drops the term, "neutral nations," and uses "non-aligned nations." Petrov apparently believes that there are no longer any neutrals, which is sound doctrine. There are no nations which are really not aligned. I hereunto give his list of how nations line up, although this list was composed in the Summer of 1961, there are already some changes, so swift are the shifts in current politics. Herewith Petrov's list:

"West: The NATO group.
"Pro-Western: Spain, Iran, Pakistan, Thailand, South Vietnam, the Philippines, Republic of China, South Korea, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, most of Latin America. (Here grave changes have taken place and are taking place.)
"Pro-Western 'neutrals': Sweden, Switzerland, Austria, most of the former French Africa, Israel, Jordan, Malaya.

"Anti-Communist 'neutrals': Tunisia, Libya, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Union of South Africa, the Congo (Leopoldville), Haiti, Dominican Republic, Cyprus, Vatican, Laos.

"Anti-Western 'neutrals': Ethiopia, most of the former British Africa, Iraq, India, Nepal, Cambodia.

"Communist-oriented 'neutrals': Finland, Morocco, Ghana, Somalia, Yemen, Afghanistan, Burma, Indonesia, Ceylon.

"Communist: The Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, Albania, East Germany, Communist China, Outer Mongolia, North Vietnam, North Korea."

Petrov makes the point that since 1948, there has been no marked shift from favoring Russia to favoring the United States. Note must be taken of the attitude of Nehru and Nasser at the Belgrade Conference which might indicate a weariness with Khrushchev.

On the other hand many of the countries which we assumed were pro-West—which literally means pro-United States, actually lean toward Russia.

The 25 Counties Well-Scattered

By LYNN NISBET

WHERE FROM — Twenty-five counties have furnished all 36 of the Governors of North Carolina who have served since the office was made elective by the constitution of 1835. Wake county credited with four Governors heads the list. Rockingham comes second with three, followed by Alamance, Buncombe, Cleveland, Cumberland, Edgecombe, Mecklenburg and Wayne with two each.

Listed alphabetically the counties furnishing Governors, with names and dates of service, as recorded in the North Carolina Manual follows:

Alamance: Thomas M. Holt 1893-98; W. Kerr Scott 1949-53.
Brunswick: Daniel L. Russell 1897-1901.
Buncombe: Zeb B. Vance 1862-65; Locke Crain 1913-17.
Burke: Tod R. Caldwell 1870-74.

Cleveland: O. Max Gardner 1929-33; Clyde R. Hoey, 1937-41.
Cumberland: Warren Winslow 1834; Terry Sanford 1961.
Durham: William B. Umstead 1953-54.

Edgecombe: Henry T. Clark 1861-62; Elias Carr 1893-97.
Forsyth: Robert B. Glenn 1905-09.
Franklin: Thomas Walter Bickert 1917-21.
Gaston: R. Gregg Cherry 1945-49.

Guilford: John M. Morehead 1841-45.
Mecklenburg: Zeb Vance 1877-79; Cameron Morrison 1921-25. (Vance was first elected from Buncombe, later moved to Charlotte.)
New Hanover: E. B. Dudley 1836-41.

Northampton: Thomas Bragg 1835-39.
Orange: W. A. Graham 1845-49.
Pasquotank: J. C. B. Ehringhaus 1933-37.
Person: W. W. Kilchin 1909-13.

Pitt: Thomas J. Jarvis 1879-1885.
Randolph: Jonathan Worth 1865-68.
Robeson: A. W. McLean 1925-29.

Rockingham: D. S. Reid 1851-54; A. M. Scales 1885-89; Luther E. Hodges 1954-61.
Rowan: John Ellis 1859-61.
Wake: Charles Manly 1849-51; W. W. Holden 1865, 1868-70; D. G. Fowle 1889-91; J. M. Broughton 1941-45.

Wayne: C. H. Brogden 1874-77; Charles B. Aycock 1901-05.
DISTRIBUTION — A quick glance at this list will disclose that while one fourth of the counties furnished all the Governors, they came from pretty well distributed areas of the state. The only sections not represented are the extreme southwest and the far northwest. Another noteworthy fact is that while the big metropolitan counties furnished a few governors, and several of the very small counties are in the list, most of the executives came from middle size counties. A further interesting item is that a substantial number of the governors attained prominence and leadership in adopted counties, rather than in their native ball-wicks.

CONFLICTS — A good deal has been said about the conflict of dates of the North Carolina State Fair at Raleigh and the North Carolina Trade Fair at Charlotte in mid-October. Football fans are complaining about big college games at Chapel Hill, Durham and Winston-Salem falling on the same Saturdays. But for a real mixed up confusion of meetings of related-interests groups, take a look at the first week in October.

The State Board of Conservation and Development and the Travel Council of North Carolina planned meetings at the same time in Winston-Salem. There is no actual conflict, rather cooperation; yet it will be necessary for some people to miss one meeting in which they are interested because of obligation to attend the other.

The Quality Restaurants Association and the North Carolina Bottlers Association are important segments of the Travel Council—and both these groups have annual meetings scheduled at the same time. Also the Motion Picture association has an important session on October 1-2.

Welcoming ceremonies for the Battleship North Carolina had to be postponed from the original September 18 date on account of hurricanes, tides, ocean currents, et cetera. That event currently is scheduled for October 1, and October 1 is the date Governor Sanford, administrative officials and board members of the C&D department, will have to be in Winston-Salem for their official meeting.

In our complex and fast moving society conflicts are unavoidable. It does look like the first week in October this year offers more than usual number of overlapping dates for groups of people interested mainly in the same basic matters.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE ISSUES OF LIFE
When an intolerable situation arises in almost any aspect of life, the reaction frequently voiced is "We ought to have a law."

Certainly we need laws, and the more complicated life becomes the more laws we need. There are many today who believe that we have too many laws. They may be right or they may be wrong. But one thing is sure, namely, that we have to have more laws as our social and national life becomes more complex.

We should, however, face the fact that necessary laws are never really settle any issue. We are told in the Bible that out of heart proceed the issues of life. Out of the heart proceed life's issues and in the heart life's issues are settled. As a man thinks so he is. The outcome of life is up to us. We cannot pass the responsibility for living over to some law no matter how good that law may be.

Usually when we want to call upon the enactment of law to solve some problem we confront it is because we are not willing to roll up our sleeves, turn the brain up to high speed, and get to work. Nothing can ever be settled for us. If we have no part in the solution of a problem we have no part in the benefits this solution confers. Not by a new law nor by government intervention are we going to arrive at a success, but by our own intelligence and effort.

Other Editors Saying... Taps Becoming Vogue

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

In the not too distant future it may be entirely possible that all telephone conversations originating from or going to federal agencies will be tapped, monitored, recorded, taped or overheard. In fact, such practices are quite common now.

Of course, we recognize such tactics as the kind used for the most part in a police state such as Nazi Germany or Communist Russia. One would not connect such underhanded activity with a popularly-elected government such as our own.

Yet, that is what has been happening, and it's getting worse. What is the reason for this? Well, most government agencies don't bother to give an excuse. Others claim it's done in the name of efficiency, though it is never explained how tapped phone lines increase efficiency.

The House Government Information subcommittee launched a survey of telephone "monitoring" (a polite word for eavesdropping or spying) practices of 37 major government agencies and came up with some surprising—and forboding—in information. About 33 of the 37 agencies tap lines. Most of the skulduggery, it was found, was going on in the Welfare Department.

The report by the subcommittee noted that most agencies rationalize their dirty work as an aid to efficiency. But when monitoring is done secretly—as Hitler's stooges did, and as Khrushchev's stooges now do—it becomes eavesdropping and spying, and the bureaucracy is sacrificing principle on the altar of efficiency. One wonders, however, whether anybody connected with these big-eared agencies really believe telephone espionage is done for the sake of efficiency.

No matter what the excuse there is something mean, sordid, sneaky and unprincipled in a government official's arranging for a secretary, or a recording machine, or eavesdropping on telephone calls. More and more it is noted that such telephone spying is done without the knowledge of the other party.

The disturbing thing here is that obviously the government officials see nothing wrong with this practice. There are indications of a dangerous drift toward a huge bureaucracy peering over the shoulder of the private citizen. More and more there are indications that the era of "Big Brother" government has arrived.

There are other look-aheads in business, based on analyses of current developments:

Big car-ad drive: Because the 1962 market looks better than the 1961, auto makers will step up the advertising battle for sales. The struggle begins this week end in many papers.

New Christmas high: Perk-ing prosperity is causing many retailers to plan for new high in Christmas sales this year. Or-cause more mergers and ad-ers are being stepped up and more flamboyant advertising is on the boards.

Ford acquisition of Philco will stir merger talk among other auto makers. It underscores the importance to diversification. If you can't sell them an auto, sell them a toaster!

CHARGE-IT Mergers: Plans to merge Diner's Club and Hilton credit card operations will also cause more mergers and, more significantly, help speed smaller credit-card operators out of business.

Vendors are tired of the variety of credit cards. A restaurant, after having qualified to accept six different kinds of cards, is often confronted with a smother of which it knows nothing. Small card companies are finding times difficult. Some lay there may be only two or three big card companies.

Costlier money: Industrial expansion, signally be the rise in defense spending, is increasing demand for borrowings, and this will tend to boost interest rates. A rise in the next few months is likely.

Firmer chemical prices: For a variety of reasons, prices of many basic chemicals have sagged. However, the defense step-up is increasing demand and firmer prices are ahead.

Longer shopping hours: The struggle between department stores and discounters and city and suburban retailers is tending to make shopping hours longer, especially since lush holiday shopping is ahead. Night openings will start earlier this year and, where laws permit, there will be more Sunday selling.

NEW YORKERS PAY $19

MILLION FOR $10 MILLION IN ROADS

The Old Promoter came in today, uninvited, and told us about a trip through New York State. "Passed a big highway extension job," he said, "and a sign said that the state was paying only 10 per cent of the cost."

"I imagine those slick New Yorkers think that they are getting a $10 million highway job for only $1 million dollars. Well, the other $9 million must come from someone, so it comes from New Yorkers and others who pay income taxes to Federal government."

"But New Yorkers have a per capita income about twice the people in, says, Arkansas. And since the more the income, the higher the tax rate, it looks as if New Yorkers were paying $1 million in state taxes and about $18 million more in Federal income taxes for that $10 million highway job."

If Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon or Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges have any facts to refute the Old Promoter, I'll be glad to print them.

Phantoms Bring Home Number Three By 19-7 Score

PHANTOM STRIKES . . . Kroghe Andresen, Greenville halfback, cracks through the Kinston forward wall for an 11 yard gain last night in the Grainger High School Stadium, the scene of a 19-7 Phantom victory. The stocky Greenville back carried much of the locals running attack against the Red Devils, which amounted to 225 yards on the ground.

GAME STATISTICS

Greenville	Kinston
12 First Downs	11

KINSTON — Greenville's unbeaten Phantoms rolled up victory number three last night against Grainger High of Kinston. The Rose High gradgers drove over three drives for a 19-7 win over the Red Devils.

Alan MacArthur took the opening kickoff for the Phantoms on his own four yard line and proceeded to race up the middle, then to the sidelines for an 82 yard return to the Kinston 14 yard stripe. The speedy halfback, who has thrilled Northeastern Conference crowds with his fine running ability on more occasions than one, wormed his way through all defenders except the safety man, who finally brought him down.

Wayne Sumrell carried six yards to the Kinston eight, then Phantom quarterback, Billy Neal James took advantage of the keeper play for a first down on the Red Devil four.

MacArthur cracked the middle of the Kinston line for two yards, then Sumrell barreled his way in to the end-zone for the first Greenville score. Kroghe Andresen's try for the point after touchdown was wide.

After holding the Red Devils for very little gain, the Phantoms were on the march again.

MacArthur took Bob Koehler's punt on the Greenville 28 and upended on the 30. From that point, the winners marched 70 yards for their second score of the evening. The Phants moved the ball to the Red Devil 13 yard line, with MacArthur, Sumrell, James, and Andresen each taking turns at the Kinston forward wall with individual success. The first period ended with the Greenville knocking on the touch-down door.

The score-door opened on the fifth play from scrimmage in the second period, with James crashing eight yards into Kinston paydirt land. Andresen's kick for the point after touchdown was wide again.

Once again Kinston failed to crack the Phants strong forward wall, and were forced to punt. This time, however, the Red Devil line decided to dig in, and the Greenville backs were held for less than ten yards in three downs.

Andresen went into punt formation on his own 35, but Bobby Doolittle, a scrappy Kinston guard, smashed his way into the Phantom backfield and blocked the punt, recovering it on the Greenville 30.

Minutes later, Budo Deters, Kinston wingback, cracked through the rugged Greenville line for a one yard plunge into the promised land. Deters also kicked the point after touchdown, and Kinston trailed 12-7 with seconds remaining in the first half.

After a brief intermission in which the Grainger High School Band paid tribute to Greenville, the Phantoms were on the move again. This time it was Andresen who carried most of the running load for the winners. Although the Phants didn't produce a score in the third quarter, they did pick up 59 yards rushing in that period, with Andresen getting 55 of them on six carries. The stocky halfback turned in runs of 18, 12, and 11 yards during the third quarter skirmish.

The third period ended much the same as the first, with the winners threatening another score. It wasn't long before they got it either. The final stanza was less than three minutes old when Sumrell once again carried into the end zone for the Phantoms, this time on a four yard plunge. Andresen's extra point split the uprights for a 19-7 score with a little over nine minutes left in the Northeastern contest.

Following an exchange of punts in the fourth period, the Red Devils took over on their own 14 yard line, and they were faced with a do-or-die situation.

Promptly, the local well against the Greenville line. Five minutes later, the Red Devils found themselves on the Greenville eight yard line with a fourth down and goal to go situation. But the Phantoms cracked down on the Kinston backs, throwing Billy Taylor for a two yard loss to end the Red Devil threat.

Greenville took over on the ten with less than three minutes left on the scoreboard clock. Sumrell, MacArthur, and James moved the ball to the midfield stripe when the game ended.

Phant Coach Bud Phillips, who was no doubt very pleased with the Greenville showing, emphasized that the victory was due to the entire squad. "I would have to say it was our best team effort this season," said the likable Rose High mentor.

Defensively, Phillips singled out the play of Ronnie Brock, who delivered a few bone crushing tackles, Russell Fields, Burney Morris, and Ronnie Williams.

"All our backs ran well," continued Phillips, "and our line looked good in firing out."

Phillips reminded Phantom fans that there will be a meeting of the Greenville Touchdown Club on Monday night at 8:00 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Next week, the Phantoms return to Greenville, where they will host the Pam Pack of Washington at 8:00 p.m. in East Carolina College Stadium.

Blue Devil Backs Face Gamecock Line Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duke's cluster of fine running backs will be matched against South Carolina's line — touted by Gamecock Coach Marvin Bass as equal to any in the Atlantic Coast Conference — in the team's opening game tonight at Columbia, S.C.

That game is the only one matching ACC teams, but five of the other six teams get their feet wet today and tonight in 1961 season openers.

North Carolina State was at Wyoming, Clemson at Florida, Maryland at Southern Methodist and Virginia at home to William and Mary. In the other night game, Wake Forest is at Baylor. North Carolina opens its season next week with N.C. State.

Duke customarily opens its season with South Carolina, and customarily wins. The Blue Devils have a 13-5 edge. But South Carolina has won three in the last five years. Duke is rated among the title favorites. For the Gamecocks, Marvin Bass will be in his debut as head coach.

Wake Forest, hoping it can find a capable substitute for Norman Sneed, who has graduated, is an underdog to Baylor by two or three touchdowns. Chuck Reiley will handle Sneed's passing duties and is expected to mix a little more running. Baylor's standout is fullback Ronnie Bull, whom Texas A&M Coach Jim Myers calls the "finest all-around back in America."

North Carolina State, led by passer Roman Gabriel, and a strong ACC title favorite, opened at Wyoming. In advance, Coach Earle Edwards called it "one of the toughest opening games we've played since I've been at State," which is seven years. Wyoming has several returnees from last season and opened last week by drubbing Montana 29-0.

Clemson's big question is whether the team rated so highly last year can bounce back from a 6-4 season. It's essentially the same squad and is rated a good chance for a conference championship. But Florida, with such stars as quarterback Larry Libertore, was likely to be a tough starting hurdle.

Maryland had high hopes of making SMU its first victim. The Terps have a good all-around squad while the Mustangs were 6-9-1 last season.

Virginia players and fans viewed almost as a certainty that the Cavaliers would break a 28-game losing streak by defeating William and Mary in the team's first game under Coach Bill Elias.

Giants Are Spoiler In NL Pennant Race

By MIKE RATHET, Associated Press Sports Writer

That spoiler role seems to fit the San Francisco Giants. They kayoed the Los Angeles Dodgers two weeks ago and now have temporarily slowed the Cincinnati Reds' drive to their first National League pennant in 21 years.

Just a few hours after World Series tickets went on sale in Cincinnati Billy O'Dell blanked the Reds 6-0 with an eight-hitter.

The loss trimmed the Reds lead over the second-place Dodgers to four games and kept their magic pennant-clinching number at four.

Los Angeles whipped St. Louis 6-3 to close the gap. Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia by the same score. Chicago at Milwaukee was postponed.

In the American League, Jim Gentile hit his fifth grand slam of the year—matching the major league record—and led Baltimore to an 8-6 victory over Chicago. Detroit beat Los Angeles 6-4 and Kansas City edged Cleveland 4-3.

Barber In 3-Way Knot For Lead

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A veteran and two youngsters were leading the field of 70 professional and 10 amateurs into the third round of the $25,000 Portland Open Golf Tournament today.

Jerry Barber, 45-year-old Los Angeles veteran, was deadlocked after Friday's second 18-hole round with Dave Hill, 24, and Jerry Steelsmith, 25. All had 134 for 36 holes.

Steelsmith slipped to a 69 Friday on the 6,675-yard, par 72 Columbia-Edgewater course, after taking the first-round lead with a 65.

Barber, the PGA champion, had a 70 in the opening round. Hill, who trailed Steelsmith by a single stroke after one round, fired a 68 Friday.

Farmville Settles For 7-7 Tie With Richlands

FARMVILLE—The Red Devils of Farmville High School settled for a tie last night against Richlands in a non-conference game for the two teams. The 7-7 tie was the first for the Red Devils this season.

Farmville struck first, in the opening quarter. Dean Oglesby, Farmville quarterback, intercepted a Richland pass on the Richland 45 to set up the Red Devils' first score. Two plays later, David Danny Dilda passed to David Quinn for the touchdown. The play covered 20 yards. Oglesby passed to Rex Hodges for the extra point, and the Red Devils led 7-0.

In the second period, Oglesby faded back to pass, but Mitchell Williams rushed in to knock the ball from the Red Devil's hands. Williams picked up the loose pigskin, and proceeded to scamper 35 yards into the Farmville end zone. Billy Thomas assed to Chester Heath for the point after touchdown to knot the count at 7-7.

Late in the second quarter, Richlands scored again, but the play was nullified by a clipping penalty. The play was a 38 yard punt by halfback Kenny Brown.

Neither team could muster up a threat in the final half of the game, both defenses refusing to give ground.

The Red Devils picked up nine first downs to only six for Richlands. Farmville 7 0 0 0-7 Richlands 0 7 0 0-7

Waterfield Wary Of Bruin Test

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Bob Waterfield of Los Angeles fears the Rams may run into an aroused bunch of Chicago Bears Saturday night when the two teams clash in the National Football League's only activity. The Rams battle the Bears in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Waterfield said the Bears "May have been asleep last week" when they were thrashed by the Minnesota Vikings 37-13.

Waterfield won't change the Rams' lineup that lost its season's inaugural 27-24 to the Baltimore Colts.

All other NFL teams will be busy Sunday. Making their second appearance will be the Detroit Lions at Baltimore, Minnesota at Dallas, the New York Giants at Pittsburgh, the St. Louis Cardinals at Cleveland, the San Francisco 49ers at Green Bay and the Washington Redskins at Philadelphia.

Eppes Handed Third Loss, 16-0

C. M. Eppes' Bulldogs lost their third straight game yesterday afternoon, a 16-0 drubbing by H. B. Sugg of Farmville.

In the first half, both teams fought at each other with vigor, but Farmville came out on top in the scoring department, scoring all 16 of its points in the first two periods.

The Eppes team, trying to get into the win column, just couldn't seem to get its feet under moving. And when they finally did get their feet to moving, the Bulldogs caught the fumble disease.

The Lions also had their troubles in the fumbling department. Three times they worked their way into Eppes territory only to fumble and have the Bulldogs recover.

The locals were also hurt by penalties, especially in the last half of the contest. On numerous occasions the Bulldogs were penalized for off-side infractions.

The Eppes defense tightened in the second half, not allowing Farmville to penetrate too deeply into Bulldog territory, but Coach Percy Daniels could not get his offensive team clicking.

Next week, the Bulldogs will travel to Washington, where they will meet the Washington eleven in another conference game.

Football Referee Dies On Gridiron

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The referee of a high school football game fell to the ground and died Friday night during a contest between McGill Institute of Mobile and Pensacola, Fla., High.

Fred Holmes, 50, died of a heart attack during the third period. After a short delay the game continued and McGill won 13 to 7.

NEW YORK (AP) — A fan who catches a ball hit into the stands of a major league park is entitled to keep it. There is no big league law covering the situation, just a big league tradition.

A fan raised the question of whether the Baltimore resident who caught Roger Maris' 59th home run drive in Baltimore Wednesday night was entitled to the ball.

"There is no rule covering the subject," said Charles M. Segar, secretary-treasurer of baseball and Commissioner Ford Frick's chief aide. "But for many years the fans have been permitted to keep the balls as souvenirs."

"The only objection baseball has to a fan catching a ball is when the action interferes with play."

Bob Reitz, the 32-year-old fan who caught Maris' 59th homer, has refused to part with the ball.

City One Of Six Workshop Sites

Greenville will be one of six North Carolina cities in which the Hospital Care Association of Durham will conduct a workshop for hospital insurance, cashing and admission personnel.

The Greenville workshop will be conducted October 3 at the SLO Restaurant. All six Blue Cross workshops will be under the supervision of C. B. Sessoms, director, and Parker Morton, assistant director of the Hospital Care Department.

These workshops will include general discussions of basic Hospital Care Certificates, including the new Student Certificate, and detailed discussions of catastrophic illness benefits, such as cancer and dread disease and the extended benefits endorsement.

Also under discussion will be interpretation of the HCA identification card, procedures for filing requests for benefits and interpretation of benefits and interpretation of remittance forms.

Workshops will also be conducted at Asheville, Charlotte, Greensboro, Durham and Fayetteville.

City School Lunch Menus

School lunchroom menus for the coming week, as announced by the supervisor of city school cafeterias, are as follows:

Monday—hamburger steak with brown gravy, steamed rice, pineapple and cheese salad, biscuit and butter, gingerbread, milk.

Tuesday—hot dog with chili and onions, buttered green peas, cabbage and carrot salad, fruit cup, milk.

Wednesday—mock chicken leg, buttered potatoes, mustard greens, pickled relish, corn bread and butter, apple sauce, milk.

Officers Smash 60-Gallon Still

AYDEN—A 60-gallon still, complete with 60-gallon boiler and 100 gallons of mash, was destroyed by officers of the Federal Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit enforcers yesterday in the Hancock's Church section about three miles east of here.

Pitt enforcers reported that James Harris, 64-year-old Negro of Route 2, Ayden, was arrested at the site and charged with possession of the still. He was placed under a $200 bond for appearance in Pitt County Court.

Harris, who was arrested as he was "preparing to make an operation," was quoted by officers as saying he "would have run about 12 gallons" from the still. The lawman said Harris told them the 12 gallons of booze would have cost him about $15 to manufacture but would have sold for about $70 ($35 per case).

Officers noted they had been watching the still site for about a week.

Taking part in the raid and arrest were Pitt officers J. M. Ward, H. B. Lilley and Walter Taylor, and Federal enforcer Don Alphin of New Bern.

Watchman Kept Lonely Vigil

WASHINGTON (AP)—Because the House resorted to the unusual practice of recessing instead of adjourning until 10 a.m. today, a Capitol policeman kept a lonely vigil all night in the House Chamber.

He was guarding the mace, a silver and ebony device that is the official symbol of the authority of the House. It must be displayed in the House chamber except when the House actually is in adjournment. A Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms always sits by to guard it.

Zeake W. Johnson Jr., Sergeant-at-Arms, deputized a member of the night police force to watch over the mace. The guardian was relieved later in the night by one of the early shift patrolmen.

When the House is not in session, the mace is locked in a vault in Johnson's office. It is escorted daily—except during recess periods—to and from the House chamber by a special deputy.

OSLO, Norway (AP)—The Norwegian government organ Arbeidstribunen today insisted that Dag Hammarskjold should be given this year's Nobel Peace Prize despite objections to awarding it to a dead man.

"We do not doubt for a minute that an overwhelming majority of the Norwegian people who elect the Storting (parliament) and through that the peace prize committee) wants the peace prize to be given posthumously to Dag Hammarskjold this time," the Oslo morning paper wrote editorially.

"Just about the whole world would agree," it added.

Spencer Bell Gets Judgeship

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today confirmed President Kennedy's nomination of J. Spencer Bell of Charlotte, N.C., to be a judge of the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The circuit serves Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Bell, 55, is a lawyer and state senator.

In the Legislature, he has been instrumental in trying to push through a statewide court reform program.

Members of the Senate Judiciary subcommittee approved the nomination Friday after a hearing at which Bell was praised highly in personal testimony and by numerous telegrams and letters. There was no opposition voiced.

John Dawson of Kinston, Judge E. McCarrie of Charlotte and Judge Howard Hubbard of Clinton testified for Bell at the hearing.

Sole Survivor Of Crash Dies

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP)—Harold M. Julien, U.N. security guard who was the sole survivor of the crash that killed Dag Hammarskjold, died today, Ndola Hospital announced.

Investigators had hoped Julien would recover sufficiently to give them information that would help determine the cause of the plane crash that killed the U.N. secretary-general.

The death of Julien, an American, brought the toll in Monday's crash to 16.

His Cuban-born wife, Maria, was at the hospital. She arrived here early Friday after a 24-hour flight from the United States. Most of the way she travelled in the flying hearse that will take the crash victims to their home countries.

Julian was found Monday afternoon lying face down beside the wreck of Hammarskjold's burned-out DC-8. He had been there nearly 15 hours.

Ever since, he had been kept under heavy sedation to ease the pains of burns and multiple injuries.

A tape recorder was at his bedside to catch anything he could say that might solve the riddle of the wreck. He had been quoted as saying he heard explosions on the plane just before the crash.

Fall Cold Front Hits Mid-Section

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
An autumn cold front pushed into the nation's mid-section today, sending temperatures skidding into the 30s and touching off violent weather along a line extending from upper Michigan to New Mexico.

Up to two feet of snow blanketed the Colorado Rockies and lesser amounts covered a wide area of Utah and Wyoming. Snow drifts closed the northeast entrance to Yellowstone National Park.

To the east and south of the advancing front sunny skies and mild temperatures prevailed. An exception was the New England coast from Maine to Rhode Island, chilled by low clouds, fog and drizzle.

The line of rough weather touched off severe thunderstorms in Michigan, Illinois and Indiana and spawned at least three tornadoes in Wisconsin. The twisters destroyed farm buildings, flattened crops and killed livestock.

Temperatures in the 30's persisted from western Montana to northern Colorado and as far east as northern Minnesota and the eastern Dakotas. It was 39 in Minneapolis.

Driver Charged After Collision

Ralph J. Radcliff, 16, of 506 East Second St., was charged with following too closely yesterday afternoon at the intersection of Pitt St. and Broad Lane.

Investigation reported that the Radcliff vehicle collided with a car driven by Nathaniel C. Corbett, 34-year-old Negro of 804 B. Bancroft St.

The mishap, which occurred about 7:35 p.m., caused an estimated $200 damage to the Corbett vehicle and about $150 to the Radcliff auto.

OSLO, Norway (AP)—The Norwegian government organ Arbeidstribunen today insisted that Dag Hammarskjold should be given this year's Nobel Peace Prize despite objections to awarding it to a dead man.

"We do not doubt for a minute that an overwhelming majority of the Norwegian people who elect the Storting (parliament) and through that the peace prize committee) wants the peace prize to be given posthumously to Dag Hammarskjold this time," the Oslo morning paper wrote editorially.

"Just about the whole world would agree," it added.

Japanese Detect Another Red Blast

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's Central Meteorological Agency announced today that a minor atmospheric disturbance believed caused by a Soviet nuclear blast was detected in Japan Friday night.

The atmospheric disturbance is believed to have been caused by a nuclear explosion of several megatons—a force equal to several million tons of TNT—the agency said.

It was not clear whether it was a new explosion or reaction from the Soviet Union's 15th test, which was reported in Washington Friday by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

Spencer Bell Gets Judgeship

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today confirmed President Kennedy's nomination of J. Spencer Bell of Charlotte, N.C., to be a judge of the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The circuit serves Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Bell, 55, is a lawyer and state senator.

In the Legislature, he has been instrumental in trying to push through a statewide court reform program.

Members of the Senate Judiciary subcommittee approved the nomination Friday after a hearing at which Bell was praised highly in personal testimony and by numerous telegrams and letters. There was no opposition voiced.

John Dawson of Kinston, Judge E. McCarrie of Charlotte and Judge Howard Hubbard of Clinton testified for Bell at the hearing.

Ward Leaves For AHA Convention

Pitt Memorial Hospital Administrator C. D. Ward will leave today for Atlantic City, where he will attend the annual meeting of the American Hospital Association and a meeting of the House of Delegates of the association.

Ward was appointed to serve a three-year term in the House of Delegates, which is the governing body of the association, in July. There are only two delegates from the state of North Carolina.

As well as attending meetings of the national association, Ward will inspect new hospital equipment which will be on display.

Ward has been administrator of Pitt Memorial Hospital for 10 years, and was administrator of the old county hospital nine years prior to

Tuscarora Massacre Struck Divided Settlers

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The settlers of Bath County, plagued by the September heat, and the hosts of gnats and mosquitos, didn't look forward with much hope to the coming winter. For their crops had failed; and yellow fever had cut down on their number. Dissention and strife had divided them into many small groups. As they squabbled among themselves, the Indians watched and waited. Five hundred, well armed Indians, under King Hancock, slipped silently through the woods to prearranged places along the Pamlico and Neuse, along the creeks and streams, in the deep woods to the field edges, and outside the barnyard fences, waiting for the coming of dawn on Sept. 22, 1711.

Bloody Saturday

The last black hour before dawn was melting down into day. Smoke from the chimney of an early riser here and there floated out on the damp air.

But in most of the crude houses, the unsuspecting slept on.

The wild cry of the Indian rang out across the land. And the rifle, knife, and tomahawk began their deadly work. Above the crackling flames of the burning houses, the shrill cry of the butchered ones added to the horror of the morning.

The red men destroyed what was left of the crops, pillaged the houses and then put them to torch, killed and drove off the livestock. The few women and children spared watched, with fearful horror, the killing of their menfolk. And then were swept along with the Indian to the next place to be attacked.

Chocowinity Bay

The first blow fell at John Porter, Jr.'s house at the head of Chocowinity Bay. In some fashion, Porter and Joseph Maulé, who was visiting him, beat off the attack and, getting the women and children in a boat, made their escape. As the boat made its way across the water, they looked back to see their home go up in flames. Above the shrill angry cries of the Indian, cheated of their prey, came the shriller, pitiful sounds of animals being slaughtered. They put to torch the corn and other crops, and the whole world seemed to burn.

Blounts Creek

A Mr. Nevil and his family, who lived on Blounts Creek, were not as fortunate as the Porters. The screaming red men shot Nevil, his wife and son. Not content with killing of this family, they treated the bodies of the slain ones with contempt. They placed the father on the house floor with a clean pillow under his head, and put his wife's clothes on his head. Turning his stockings over his shoes, they covered his body with a piece of clean linen. His wife was placed on her knees, leaning against a chair in the chimney corner. Then pulling her coats over her head, they lifted her arms up to freeze in the rigidity of death, as if praying for the prevention of something already done. They laid his son out in the yard with a clean pillow under his head and a piece of rosemary under his nose. A slave was killed and his right hand cut off.

Nevil's nearest neighbor was killed and the slain man's body placed on his wife's grave.

The sun made its circuit and went down as red as many parts of the land it had traveled over. Night fell and the smell of burnt over woodland and fields hung heavy in the blanket of dew.

and orphans were in a pitiful state. Crowded, unsanitary conditions, the lack of food, and the ever present thought that they would be next, taxed the skill and patience of the residents of the town.

The tragedy had pulled together the remaining people of the county and they fortified places to thwart any new attacks.

Thirst For Revenge

The white people had but one thought, outside of safety, in their minds. It was to give the Indian a dose of their own medicine. Pleas for help were sent to the Albemarle. In mid-October, a force of 150 men arrived at Bath Town. They were to march out from Bath and meet a force of men under Capt. William Brice. These two forces were to join at one of the Indian towns and attack. However, the 150 men from the Albemarle refused to leave Bath Town.

Neuse found themselves alone in Indian Country. Three hundred Indians forced him to withdraw. For two days, he fought a running battle and finally reached his fort on the Trent River. Later on that year, Brice with a few men killed some Bear or Bay River Indians and captured their king. After undergoing torture, the Indian King was roasted to death.

on the charred embers of the houses. The burnt over cornfields, denied a harvest by the torch of the Indian, stretched black and ragged to the skirts of the woods. And in the woods, the colored leaves gave their annual dance, unnoticed.

The lands along the rivers and streams were empty and lonely. They had gone back to the silence of the days before the whitemen came here to live.

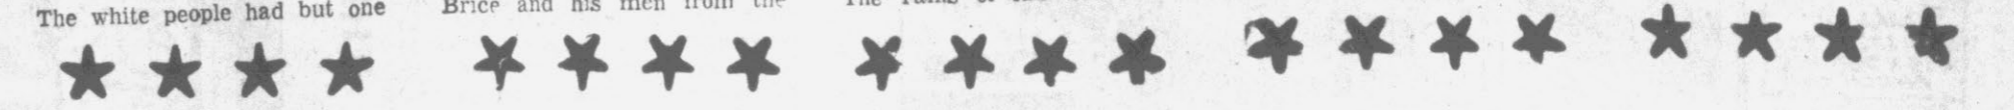

mer and saw would break in once more. The squirrel would freeze against the oak limb, and the wolf slink deeper into the woods. And upon the old, the new would rise again—a house, bare, a fence. The howling of the cow, and the sounds of children at play would be heard.

Somehow, sometime, the settler would come again and get on with the job of building a nation. The future required it. History needed pages to fill its

Student-Florist Utilized Talent To Realize Education Ambition

By SARAH H. KIRKPATRICK East Carolina College News Bureau Staff Writer

A young man's gift for creative arrangement and artistic design of flowers has enabled him to finance his education at East Carolina College.

Michael H. Miller of 608 E. Front Street, New Bern, wanted so much to go to college that he has practiced his talent professionally in Greenville for three years in order to realize his ambition.

"Since my work is making it possible for me to obtain a college degree, I feel that the time and energy involved have been very worth while," he said with a smile.

Now a senior at East Carolina

College, the enthusiastic florist became deeply interested in floral designing as a sophomore in high school. He studied floral literature and after school hours received practical training in design work as an employee of a New Bern firm before coming to Greenville as a student three years ago.

"It is a refreshing sight in this day and time of easy living to see a young man working to secure his college education," stated James B. Mallory, Dean of Men at East Carolina. "Mr. Miller merits praise for his energy and ambition."

In the academic field at the college, Miller is specializing in social studies and welfare and has an above-average scholastic record.

"My favorite subject at East Carolina is history," he said enthusiastically. "When I have time, I also enjoy relaxing by reading a good history book."

Although Miller is carrying a full college course and working after school hours, he manages to find time for participation in the Young Democrats Club at the college, an organization stimulating in students an interest in better government and encouraging more active participation in politics.

When arranging an intricate container of artificial flowers, Miller explained the basic procedure. A florist should know the exact location where the receptacle will be placed, he said.

"It is important to arrange flowers according to the space element. For example, if a receptacle rests upon a small drop-leaf table, there wouldn't be a need for as many flowers as would one on a dining-room table."

He added that the size of the container is important and that one should study the color scheme of the room or wherever the arrangements is to be placed. "It takes me approximately 45 minutes to arrange a vase of artificial flowers," he explained.

Recently Miller appeared as an assistant on a floral panel

m Raleigh featuring "Christmas with Halloween" with florist Henry Ritter of Wilmington acting as moderator. Preparing for meeting, Miller spent two weeks, both day and night, working on floral designs which were on display for the occasion.

Miller commented that he anticipates continuing his work as a florist upon graduation from East Carolina College.

He is the son of Mrs. Harold M. Miller of 608 E. Front St., New Bern. He has one brother, Harold L.

Miller lives at 405 Holly St., Greenville.

Reviews And Reflections

By JIM POINDEXTER

What is Greenville reading these days?

According to Librarian Elizabeth Copeland at Sheppard Memorial, the books in demand locally have been pretty much the same as those on the lists of national bestsellers: "The Agony and the Ecstasy," "To Kill a Mockingbird," "Mila 18," "Exodus," from the fiction shelf; among the non-fiction, Hawaii, "Report of a County Chairman," "The Making of the President," "The New English Bible."

Library Statistics

Another point to note in this connection is that the volume of local reading seems to be increasing tremendously. For June, July, and August, circulation figures at the library hit 40,000, breaking all records for a comparable period.

On the subject of library statistics, here are some more interesting figures from Sheppard Memorial: books in collection, 70,000; number acquired last year, 6,622; annual budget for new materials, $25,000 (the largest amount spent by a public library east of Greensboro). A big operation and one which certainly seems to be paying off in terms of utilization.

Salinger's Appeal

A point of considerable interest is the reception by the critics of J. D. Salinger's "Franny and Zooey." From the sheer bulk of writing about this item, one would think that the latest work of Tolstoy or Flaubert were being released. A good many people who know literature, like Ovid Pierce, are wondering whether Salinger is actually as important as the coverage which he has received in the Atlantic, Time, etc., would lead one to assume.

Perhaps John Updike, writing in last Sunday's Times, gets as close as one can to an explanation of the immense fascination that Salinger's slender output has had for everyone: "We live in a world where the decisive deed may invite the holocaust, and Salinger's conviction that our inner lives greatly matter peculiarly qualified him to sing of an America where, for most of us, there seems little to do but feel. His fiction, in its rather grim bravado, its humor, its morbidity, its wry but persistent helpfulness, matches the shape and tint of present American life."

Women

Another item on the bestseller list is pretty easy to account for, since its title would automatically recommend it to almost half of our population. This is Peck's "Life with Women— and How to Survive It."

It is regrettable to report that this title is misleading. Though Dr. Peck begins bravely enough, he ends up as confused as any other male, and shudders at any practical courses of conduct to solve the enigmas which he presents.

The trouble with the book is that it takes Dr. Peck almost 200 pages to reach his inevitable conclusion, and by this time, for lack of material, he has had to use most of his epigrams and jokes about twice each. For example, George Meredith's statement that "Woman will be last animal that man will domesticate" is a pretty good epigram (even if rather discouraging) but it doesn't especially improve with repetition.

Confidence Man

Another bit of reading for a cool evening is James Johnson's "The Man Who Sold the Eiffel Tower." This work deals with the operations of a famous confidence man who called himself Count Victor Lustig. Here again the title is somewhat misleading, for Lustig's selling of the Eiffel Tower for scrap iron was but one incident in a two-continent career of sucker-catching. He even took Al Capone for five grand, and ended his life's work passing enough excellently counterfeited bills to threaten the country with inflation. Not a bad story, and one filled with pictures of the financial recklessness of the 1920's—upon which the Count thrives, of course.

Art Exhibits

At the Greenville Art Center until Oct. 29 is an exhibit of works by North Carolina printmakers. From the collection of the State Museum, all these prints are interesting, and some are quite beautiful. Especially nice are George Bireline's colored woodcut called "Discovery" and Virginia Ingram's "Arctic—Series B."

Also on display at the Center is a collection of welded statuary by ECC senior George Jolly, whose studies of birds are especially pleasing—and worth purchasing, as are the prints mentioned above.

A reminder: membership in the East Carolina Art Society is only five dollars a year, tax-deductible, and Mrs. Jackson is available at the Center every day to give you a receipt.

Sunday

Sunday brought no respite from the killings. Only this time, some knew it was coming. Word spread quickly through the settlements, carried by those that got away, the tongues of fire, and smell of the wind. The settlers fled by boat, horseback, and foot. Those on the water made it safely but those on horseback and foot were in most cases picked off by the Indian, tortured and killed.

"Women's bodies were laid on the floor of their houses and great stakes driven through them. Pregnant women had their unborn children ripped from their bodies and hung on trees."

The dead laid where they had fallen. No one dared to tarry or venture to bury them. They were left to the wolves and stray dogs. And those that escaped the fangs of these were found by the circling buzzards.

Monday

The third day of the massacre found Bath Town, New Bern and other places that hadn't been attacked filled with refugees. The Indians, glutted with their killings, picked off settlers here and there. Now some of the Indians began their trek back to their villages, loaded with plunder stolen from the many houses they had overrun. And herding 30 prisoners before them, the Tuscarora and their allies went homeward unmolested. In all of the three days of butchering, no organized resistance had stayed them.

The fearful prisoners, all women and children, were carried off into slavery. They had seen their families murdered and mutilated, their homes burned and all the material things they possessed taken by the Indian. As they moved toward King Hancock's Town, many had a glimpse of what had been home and a second sight of burnt out places and their loved ones left lying there.

The Fearful Toll

Between 130 and 140 had been slain. Years of work on homes and the fight to make this land productive had been erased in a few short hours. Bath County had been devastated. Those areas that had suffered most were at the head of the Neuse, and the lands on the south side of the Pamlico.

Greenville Native Is Half Of FSU Research Team In Panama

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — The isthmus of Panama, which formed a land bridge and mixing place for animal populations after emerging from the oceans 1,000,000 years ago, will furnish a laboratory during the next year for two Florida State University biologists.

One of them, doctoral student, Edwin L. Tyson, a Greenville, N. C. native, will study the mammals of this area, trapping everything from mice to jaguars, and the other, Horace Loftin, a doctoral student and faculty member, will get fish.

Royal Fan

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — The Australian-born wife of an American mining expert has made a little theater fan out of the King of Nepal.

Mrs. Gilbert Richardson told about her theatrical conquest during a recent visit with her husband's sisters in Yakima.

Mrs. Richardson organized Nepal's first little theater two years ago after her husband became a minerals adviser to the Nepalese government.

The troupe has put on six productions, including "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew." Actors have included the Richardsons' driver and a member of the Nepalese royal family.

The king, Mahendra Bir Bikram Shah Dev, attends whenever he is in town. The theater is in Katmandu, the capital, where Richardson is assigned by the U. S. International Cooperation Administration.

Performances are in English and the proceeds go to charity.

The two biologist, both students of Dr. Ralph W. Yerger of the FSU Department of Biological Sciences, will study distribution of and describe species in an area never before surveyed for its mammalian and fresh water fish life.

The territory to be surveyed during the year ahead lies for about 300 miles westward from the Canal Zone, to the borders of Costa Rica, and about 200 miles of this interior, much of it in trackless jungle, is virgin territory for the type of studies they will make.

The isthmus is an interesting place for such a study, said the scientists, because North and South American species competed here as South Americans forms moved northward. The area probably has, they say, between 200 and 300 species of mammals, about three times as many as Florida.

Loftin will set out this weekend and at the Canal Zone he'll start teaching biology and English to armed service personnel in FSU's Bootstrap Program in September. His off hours will be used for the fish research. Tyson will go to Panama in about three weeks.

Both have grants for equipment from the Smithsonian Institution. Loftin has a grant from the FSU Research Council and Tyson has additional private support.

Both men will cover an area about 300 miles long and from 50 to 100 miles wide. The research will be conducted from sea level to the peak of Volcan de Chiriqui 11,200 feet above sea level.

"Snakes and sharks will be my greatest worries," said Loftin. Tyson said he'll be adequately armed for any possible encounter with a jaguar.

Real He-Man

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The bull alligator is a regular casanova, with a real he-man technique.

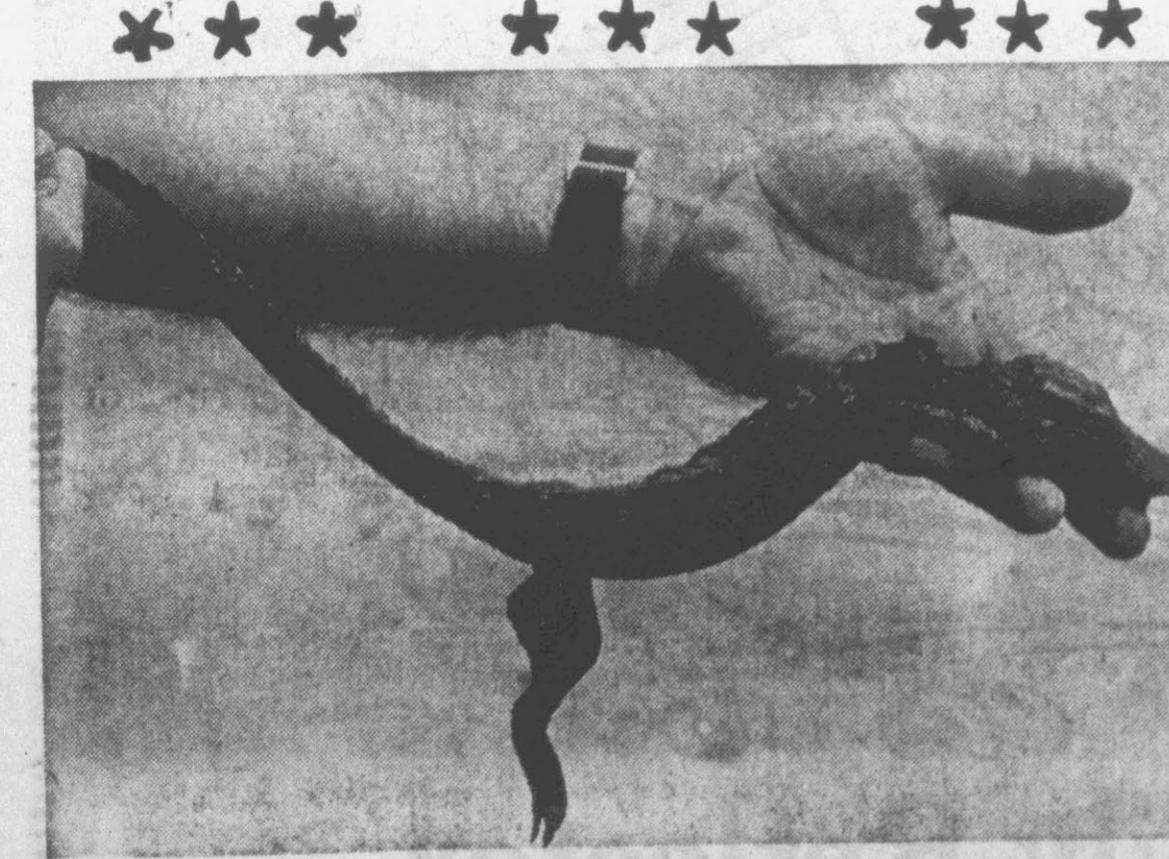

Ernst Christensen, Everglades National Park naturalist, says a male alligator establishes his domain, lets out a frightening roar audible for a mile, and then waits for the girl gators to come running.

"And they've been getting away with it for thousands of years," says Christensen.

Both men will cover an area about 300 miles long and from 50 to 100 miles wide. The research will be conducted from sea level to the peak of Volcan de Chiriqui 11,200 feet above sea level.

"Snakes and sharks will be my greatest worries," said Loftin. Tyson said he'll be adequately armed for any possible encounter with a jaguar.

BABY GATOR — This 19-inch long alligator was found about noon Wednesday on the bank of the Tar River near the Greenville Utilities Plant by workers completing the sewage line leading from the plant to the city's new sewage disposal facility. Anyone care to take a swim in the Tar and hunt for its mother.

ECC's 'Marching Pirates' Ready For 1961-62 Season

East Carolina College's marching Pirates, 110-piece band, has organized for the 1961-1962 term. Under the direction of Herbert L. Carter of the faculty the ensemble began a series of public appearances at the East Carolina-Penn State of Indiana, Pa., football game, opening event of the grid season on the campus here.

Plans for the band this fall, Mr. Carter has announced, include half-time shows at all East Carolina games played here. The group will be featured on Homecoming Day at the college October 7 in the morning parade, an annual attraction which has grown in popularity in recent years and attracts spectators from a wide area in the state.

October 25 will take the band to Cary, N.C., for the Appalachian-East Carolina game there and then to Boone for an over-night visit with the ASTC band.

Janet Wurst of Palmyra, N. J., heads the organization as president. Other officers who direct activities of the band are Reggie Robinson of Mount Holly, vice president; Judy Cox of Georgetown, S. C., secretary; Brett Watson of Darlington Heights, Va., treasurer; and Marcelle Vogel of New Bern, publicity chairman.

James C. Burns, Jr., of Sumter, S. C., is drum major, and Elizabeth Rogers of Greenville, chief majorette. Featured man twirler this year is Clyde E. Putnam, Jr., of Tarboro, freshman.

Other majorettes are LaVerne Blackley of Durham; Gail Walker of Rt. 3, Lexington; Nancy Cooke of Fayetteville; Gwendolyn Harrell of Washington; and Judy M. Wagstaff of Fuquay Springs. Peggy Honeycutt of New Bern are alternates.

Student instrumentalists from Pitt County who play in the Marching Pirates are: Mack J. Worthington of Winterville; Luther R. Finch, Ron Odell Oates, Dale Blackwell, Lennon Glenn Briley, Jan Coward and Wanda Smith, all of Greenville.

ENJOY SOUND AND SMELL OF FAIR—Gene Cole and his wife, both blind, miss the sights but enjoy the sounds and smells of the Tennessee State Fair at Nashville. So did their children, Emerson, 10, and Sueellen, 4, who have partial vision. "We love the fair, the sounds and smells, and especially the crowds," said Col. The Ferris wheel was a family favorite. DICK TRACY

CRIMESTOPPERS TEXTBOOK

FROM HERBERT W. HART, POLICE COMMISSIONER, DETROIT, MICH.

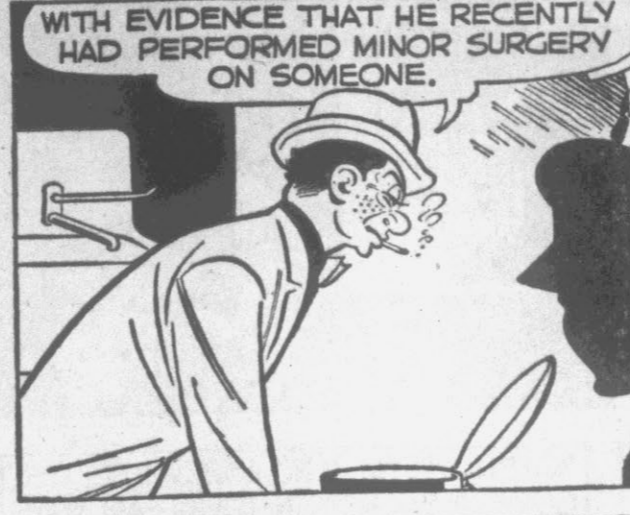

YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN DESIRING A CAREER IN PUBLIC SERVICE SHOULD PLACE A HIGH PRIORITY ON LAW ENFORCEMENT AS A MOST GRATIFYING CAREER.

THAT'S THE WAY WE FOUND HIM. POOR OLD DOC CHOPPIN.

ON HIS OWN OPERATING TABLE? ASPHYXIATED BY HIS OWN ANAESTHETICS.

WITH EVIDENCE THAT HE RECENTLY HAD PERFORMED MINOR SURGERY ON SOMEONE.

WHAT DO YOU MAKE OF IT, SAM? CHIEF, IT APPEARS THAT AFTER DOC CHOPPIN HAD PERFORMED HIS WORK—HIS LIPS WERE SEALED FOREVER.

THE DRAGNET IS OUT FOR "SPREADY" SPENSIVE. IN FACT, TRACY AND A COUPLE OF MEN ARE HEADED FOR HIS APARTMENT NOW.

AND AT THIS VERY MINUTE—

WE'RE DEALING WITH MURDERERS—WATCH IT.

THE PLACE IS EMPTY, TRACY.

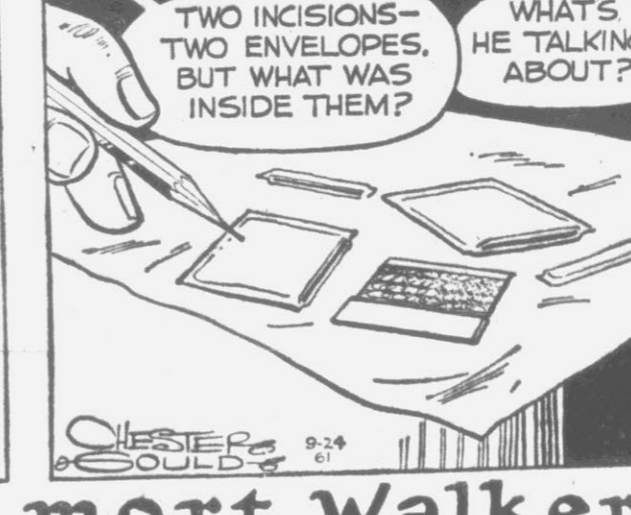

H'M?? WHAT IS IT?

TWO PLASTIC ENVELOPES—LOOKS LIKE—AND A RAZOR BLADE. RAZOR BLADE? PLASTIC?

THE BLADE WAS USED TO SLIT OPEN THE PLASTIC? H'M! CLEAR, VINYL-LIKE MATERIAL. EACH ABOUT THE SIZE OF "SPREADY'S" AND "DUKE'S" SCARS.

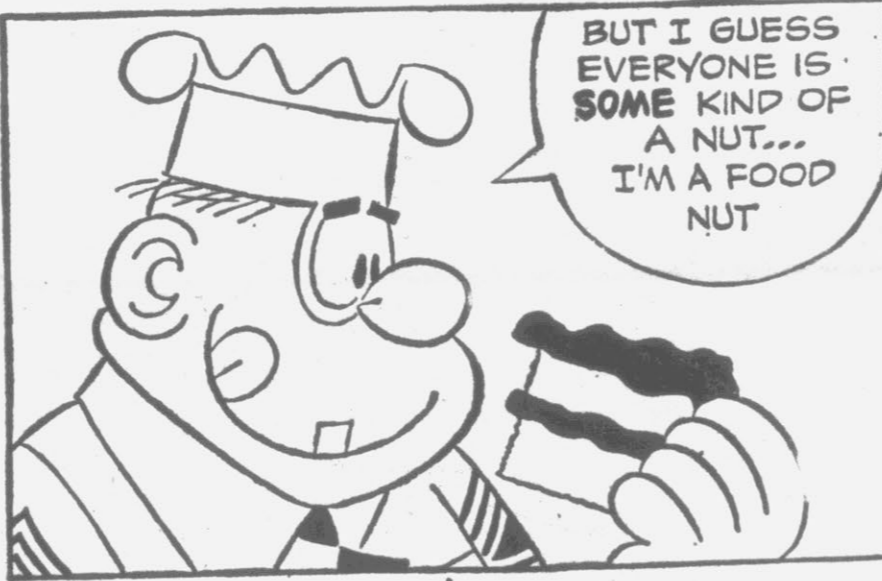

TWO INCISIONS—TWO ENVELOPES. BUT WHAT WAS INSIDE THEM? WHAT'S HE TALKING ABOUT?

NOTICE OF SERVICE OF PROCESS BY PUBLICATION NORTH CAROLINA HITT COUNTY
In the Superior Court Before the Clerk
Ida T. Grimes vs.
Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, Administrator c.t.a. of the estate of Richard Grimes, Home Savings and Loan Association, W. W. Lee, Trustee, Joe Eddie Grimes and wife, Romaine Ennis Grimes, William Herman Grimes and wife, Florence I. Grimes, and Ernest Grimes and wife, Adline D. Grimes

To: Joe Eddie Grimes and wife, Romaine Ennis Grimes; William Herman Grimes and wife, Florence I. Grimes; and Ernest Grimes and wife, Adline D. Grimes
Take notice that a pleading seeking relief against you has been filed in the above entitled special proceeding. The nature of the relief sought is as follows: To have a life estate allotted to the petitioner, Ida T. Grimes, widow of Richard Grimes, as her intestate share in the real estate described in the petition herein filed in lieu of her share provided under G. S. 29-14 pursuant to the provisions of G. S. 29-30 and, in addition thereto, a fee simple title to the household furnishings of her late husband, Richard Grimes, deceased.

You are required to make defense of such pleading not later than the 2nd day of November, 1961, and upon your failure to do so the party seeking service against you will apply to the Court for the relief sought.
This the 20th day of September, 1961.

Lion In The Hills

By JOHN B. PRESCOTT

At dawn a filmy tatter of gray cloud hung over the Mogolion Rim—the sheer rise of cliff that lay northerly of the riders below in the basin. But it soon raveled off, and by the time they'd worked their way up into the saddle in the line of red hills, the April morning had turned off as clear and bright as you'd want.

"Not that we don't need rain," Sam Fellows said as he urged his mule up the last of the grade. "But there wasn't any hope in that skimpy thing. Can't look for much before July, anyway."

They halted there now beside a pine tree that bore the budding fruit of the early season; the old man named Sam Fellows on the white mule and Alec Temple, who was fifteen and rode the steady bay mare.

They sat there a spell, resting the mounts and listening and listening for the hounds. Having climbed from the swale below the saddle—a pocket that trapped sound—they should hear them now, Alec thought.

But, even on this height, the early quiet still held. Nothing much sounded but the rub of leather, the breathing of their animals and the secret rustle of small creatures in nearby trees. All else was silent.

He sat as still as he could and stared off over the pitch and fall of red hills, the wooden ridges and pallid, dry grass. Beyond him, Sam leaned forward, listening, while the sun glistened in the wreath of white beard. Just before him, the long ears of Jock, the mule, turned and swiveled in their sockets as if he, too, listened.

Greenville F. W. B. Announcements

This Lord's day at 9:45 a.m. the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church congregation will meet to study the scriptures on the subject "Commitment to Christ's Work." Great spiritual benefits are enjoyed by those who attend this service. At the 11 a.m. worship service the Senior Choir, under the direction of Mr. William Lloyd and with Mrs. Bill Taylor, organist, will sing the anthem "Jesus Saves," Lillenas. The pastor's sermon topic will be "A Losing Game of Sin" (James 1:15). The Lilly Smith Circle of the Woman's Auxiliary will conduct a service at the County Home at 3 p.m.

The Leagues will meet at 8:30 p.m. under the direction of Miss Alice Walters. The worship service will be held at 7:30 p.m. The Senior Choir will sing the hymn, "When Did He Do?" "Owen." The sermon topic will be "Union With Christ" (Romans 6:5). The Ordinance of Baptism will be observed at this service.

Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. the church people will meet for visitation evangelism. The deacons of the church will meet also at 7:30 p.m. at the church.

Wednesday at 10 a.m. the Woman's Auxiliary Convention of the Central Conference will meet with Friendship Free Will Baptist Church, Greenville County. Mrs. Bill Taylor is the convention president.

Wednesday 7:30 p.m. there will be prayer services, and at 7:45 p.m. there will be a church business conference. All church members are urged to be present.

Thursday at 8 p.m. the Senior Choir will meet for a rehearsal. Mrs. Joseph Humbles and Mrs. Floyd Nobles will be in charge of the nursery at the 11 a.m. worship.

Sheppard Library Readers Get Glimpse Of Red China

One of the most controversial nations today, Red China, is brought closer to local readers in the addition of new reading matter at Sheppard Memorial Library.

Among the new non-fiction books are "Awakened China: The Country Americans Don't Know" by Felix Greene, an eye-witness report on Communist China; and "Embers in Cathay" by Stanley Ghosh, a reflective inquiry into the story of the minority nationalities of the Red Chinese realm—their homelands and social origins, their cultural mainstays and political destinies.

Several other books bring other less volcanic lands to the shelves: "It's the Irish" by Bob Cousins, the fascinating story of our Irish ancestors, their coming to America and what they have done here up to today; "The Virgins: Magic Islands" by Jeanne P. Harman, a story of the islands, a growing community of opportunity with a rich past and a bright future.

Travel in an unusual form is found in "Alone Across the Atlantic" by Francis Clibchester, a daily record of a 40-day voyage across the Atlantic; "The Roof of the Wind" by Nelson Hayes, the gripping story of how Nelson Hayes and his wife battle a storm at sea.

"The Sands of Dunkirk" by Richard Collier is the gripping story of history as it was lived. An unusual book, both in subject and author, is "The Desperate and the Damned" by Bernice F. Davis, a woman reporter and her experiences as she covered San Quentin, California's most famous state prison.

Several books of biographical and autobiographical nature are among the newer additions. These are "A Girl and Five Brave Horses" by Sonora Carver, the fascinating story of how Sonora learned to jump the horses she loved so well; "Bishop's Wife—But Still Myself" by Cicely Williams, wife of the Bishop of Leicester, who tells in this lively, caustic, who-let-it-be-like-a-bishop's-wife; "Lafcadio Hearns" by Elizabeth Stevenson, a remarkable portrait of the sensitive, unhappy and restless man who served as Japan's discoverer for most of the Western world; "Sing As We Go" by Grace Fields, an autobiography. Biography in a different form is found in "The Old-Time Cowhand" by Ramon F. Adams, a vast and encyclopedic account of the American cowboy.

Religious subjects will be found in "Adam to Daniel" edited by Gaalyahu Cornfeld, an illustrated guide to the "Old Testament" and its background; "One Great Ground of Hope" by Henry P. Van Dusen, Christian Missions and Christian Unity; "The Spirit of Protestantism" by Robert McAfee Brown, its origins, history and meaning.

Miscellaneous topics will be found in the following books: "United States 1960 Olympic Book," a quadrennial report of the United States Olympic Committee; "Woman" by Dr. Joyce Brothers, a book for women and their problems; "The Conquest of Pain" by Ronald Woolmer, achievements of modern anaesthesia; "Your Child's Speech Problems" by Charles Van Riper, provides the essential information needed in understanding the nature and causes of the speech problem; "Recipes from the Old South" by Martha Meade, mouth-watering dishes to suit every mood and every occasion.

"How to Play Better Chess" by Fred Reinfeld, a must for the average chess player; "One for a Man, Two for a Horse" by Gerald Carson, a pictorial history, grave and comic, of patent medicines; "The Art of Decision-Making" by Joseph D. Cooper, a practical guide for making more effective and successful decisions; "Men, Women and Cats" by Dorothy Van Doren, a book of huthory; "The National League Story" by Lee Allen, the official history; "Plant Pruning in Pictures" by Montague Free, how, when and where to prune, and with what tools.

Fiction books recently added to the shelves include the following: "Twelve Short Novels" by Thomas Costain; "An Innocent abroad" by Ronald Kirkbride; "Miranda" by Jan Hilliard; "My Love, My Country" by Jan C. Speas; "Mountains Ahead" by Martha F. McKeown; "Rites of Summer" by Robert P. Hansen; "The Big Smoke" by D'Arch Yale; "Memed My Hawk" by Yashave Kemel; "The House at Old Vine" by Norah Lifts; "Case of the Bigamous Spouse" by Erle D. Fitzgerald; "Adam" by David D. Fitzgerald; "Further Confessions" of a Story Writer" by Paul Gallico; "The Tiger Was Silver" by Michael Novak; "All Good Men" by Thomas J. Fleming; "The Beautiful Greed" by David Madden;

First Church of Christ, Scientist

A substantial foundation for assured thought and action will be pointed out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon on "Reality" is the Golden Text from the Bible (Phil. 4): "Whatever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

A correlative citation from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 275): "All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God. These are His attributes, the eternal, unchangeable, infinite, divine Principles of the infinite, wise, true, no love is lovely, no life is Life but the divine; no good is, but the good God bestows."

The Cathedral of Liverpool, England, not yet completed after 57 years of building, was designed by architect Sir Giles Gilbert Scott when he was only 22 years old.

Memorial Baptist Announcements

The Torchbearer's Sunday School Class will meet Monday evening at 8:00 in the church parlor. Hostesses will be Mrs. John Marr Jr. and Misses Marietta and Rachel Moore. Mrs. Harvey Tripp will have charge of the installation service for new officers.

The Junior G. A.'s will meet Tuesday afternoon at 4:00 with Barri Jones, 2705 Dickinson Ave. Midweek worship service will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30. A cordial invitation for you to join in this service is extended to all.

The Church Choir will practice Thursday evening at 7:30.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Marion Davies, whose philanthropic 1897, the daughter of a New York judge. She left school to join the Folies and to model for such noted illustrators as Howard Chandler Christy and Harrison Fisher.

She was only 19 when she appeared in her first movie, "Runaway Romany."

In the early '20s, Hearst guided her rise to movieland's peak through his International Films Co. She became his confidante for 32 years until his death in 1951.

Hearst said she saved him from financial ruin with a $1-million loan during the depression. He called her "my loyal friend" in his will.

As the millions poured in, Miss Davies decided in 1926 to build a Santa Monica beach home. It became the "Versailles of Hollywood"—a cluster of colonial buildings with 55 bathrooms, 37 fireplaces and a staff of 32.

She lived there for 15 years, serving "intimate dinners" for 50, extravagant cocktail parties and court-style banquets for the cream of Hollywood society.

Miss Davies appeared in 42 movies, after "Runaway Romany" was in "When Knighthood was in Flower," "Beverly of Graustark," "The Floradora Girl," "Blondie of the Folies," "Fagin, Miss Glory" and "Bachelor Father" were among her credits.

At the peak of her career, an orchestra played mood music on location. Luncheon breaks were champagne breaks, and often lasted three hours.

She did not marry until Oct. 31, 1951, when she eloped to Las Vegas, Nev., with Brown, now 62, a former merchant marine skipper. She sued him for divorce twice, but withdrew both actions.

On July 18, 1956, she suffered a slight cerebral stroke, but made a good recovery.
