Air Show Crowd Watches Crash, Death Of Three

By BRYAN HAILSIP WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—An Air Force cargo plane carrying six daredevil Army parachutists lumbered clear of the runway Sunday, faltered, slewed off to one side and fell to a fiery crash before a shocked air show crowd of some 100,000 persons.

Three servicemen died, 12 others aboard were injured—six seriously. Onlookers gasped as firemen and rescuers rushed to the broken C123 to drag out the injured from the gaping holes in the fuselage.

Three of four helicopters whirred out to the Hanover County airport. One hovered over the burning wreckage, the wash from its rotors beating back flames from two men in the cockpit.

The wife of a Civil Air Patrol officer, watching the CAP "Friendship Day" show on television from her mother's hospital room in Wilmington, dashed down to alert the emergency room and then began contacting blood donors.

By helicopter and ambulance, rescuers brought in the casualties. The dead were Sgt. Robert T. Turner, an Army photographer from Ft. Bragg, N.C., home base of the sky divers; and two Air Force men, Capt. John E. Markel and T. Sgt. John Lesso, both of Nellis (Nev.) Air Force Base.

The injured included the six skydivers—Lt. James P. Pearson, recent winner of the world sky diving championship; M. Sgt. T. Hollis, Sgt. Joe E. Norman, Sgt. Wilfred J. A. Charrette, Spec. 5 Bobby Lebetter and PFC. Robert McDonnell.

Others hurt were John Weston, a free lance photographer; Lt. William F. Maxey, Nellis Air Force Base, Bob Lemoyne, Wilmington Star-News photographer; and three staff members of WECT-TV, photographer John McNeill, art director James Craig and salesman C. D. Martin.

Weston, who suffered a broken back and face injuries, said from his hospital bed: "I knew we were going to crash when the plane about 300 feet up and the plane stalled. The pilot and I were apparently nosed down to pick up the left to get clear of the runway. He leveled off at 100 feet and attempted to pick up speed. The plane was to have climbed to several thousand feet for the descent of the sky divers, members of a crack Army parachute team of about 50 men.

Maj. Kenneth Wooten said he was "utterly amazed by the ordinariness of the crowd," which stayed put and did not hamper rescue operations. Maj. Wooten's wife was at the hospital when the crash was shown on television, and she spread the word to hospital personnel. About 300 people answered an appeal for blood donors and 50 pints were taken.

A surgeon said the action of Capt. Jack Armstrong, who kept his helicopter hovering over the wreckage, probably saved the lives of two men menaced by flames in the cockpit.

Khrushchev Lifts Deadline On East German Treaty, Ready To Try Negotiations

BONN, Germany (AP) — Premier Khrushchev removed the end-of-the-year deadline for a treaty with East Germany in his talks with Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henry Spaak, diplomatic sources reported today.

"Khrushchev reportedly told Spaak that the Soviet Union prefers slow negotiations to a quick war," these sources said.

Spaak reported to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization last Thursday on his five-hour talks with Khrushchev in Moscow on the previous Tuesday.

Khrushchev was said to have told Spaak he never had committed himself to signing a peace treaty with East Germany before the end of this year.

German officials expressed surprise at this. On several occasions Khrushchev had declared that he will sign a treaty with East Germany before the end of the year.

turning over control of access to West Berlin to the East German Communist regime, unless the West agrees to a German pact on his terms.

"As far as we know he has said this a number of times," officials said.

Diplomats said they understood the Spaak report to mean that Khrushchev now proposes to delay signing an East German peace treaty if negotiations are under way by the end of the year.

Khrushchev also was reported to have told Spaak he was ready to discuss with the Western powers other subjects beside Berlin and Germany.

One West German official said Khrushchev's line in talks with Spaak, a former secretary-general of NATO, was "most conciliatory."

West German officials were not optimistic, however, despite Spaak's report. "We heard the message," said one, "but we don't believe it. He has taken on the face of a mild and compromising person for this occasion."

Nursing Courses To Start Oct. 17

Courses on Care of the Sick and Injured, sponsored by the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross in cooperation with Civil Defense, will begin in Greenville on Oct. 17 and 18.

The two courses already are filled. Mrs. Walter F. Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt County Chapter, Red Cross, stated today.

However, a class to be held in November is open for those who are interested.

Instructors for the Oct. 17 class are Dr. Ann Hulzenga and Mrs. Phyllis Martin, home nursing chairman for the Red Cross here.

The Oct. 18 class will be taught by Mrs. Doris Skinner. These two classes will be conducted in the Red Cross home nursing room, located on the second floor of the Greenville City Schools Administration Building on Fifth Street, on alternating nights.

Two courses on Care of the Sick and Injured are already underway in Winterville, where Mrs. Brantley Speilville instructs one class and Mrs. James Keeter is beginning a class tonight.

Mrs. Taylor announced a class will be started in Farmville in the near future.

One of the principal needs for these classes now is instructors. Courses on Care of the Sick and Injured, as well as First Aid instruction, are a primary target of Civil Defense plans for Pitt County at the present time.

Mrs. Taylor said that plans are being worked out for a First Aid class to be taught by Dr. Sam White. Details will be announced later.

West Germans Urged Keep Faith In Allies' Firmness

BERLIN (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's envoy to Berlin, had an hour's talk with West German President Heinrich Lübke today on the situation in divided Berlin and Germany.

A spokesman for Lübke said the meeting was held in a cordial atmosphere at Lübke's official residence in Berlin. No details of the talk were disclosed.

Gen. Clay arrived in Berlin last week. President Lübke, who lives in the West German capital of Bonn, came Saturday to open West Berlin's new Opera House.

He made a speech Sunday telling Germans to have full confidence in the Western Allies.

"We can really have confidence in the firmness of our allies. Their promises have to be taken seriously in every respect. Gen. Clay has not come here to surrender Berlin, but to defend it as he did in 1948," Lübke said.

As President Kennedy's personal envoy to West Berlin, Clay told a private meeting of publishers and reporters last week that U.S. officials are informing West Germany it must face up to the existence of Communist East Germany and let the East Germans have some authority over access to Berlin.

West Berliners generally interpreted Clay's off-the-record remarks as removing all hope for the reunification of Germany in the foreseeable future.

Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin commented bitterly: "We have lost some hopes but also some illusions."

By illusions the mayor meant the ability of many West Berliners to convince themselves that the concrete curtain thrown across the divided city by the Communists Aug. 13 was merely a temporary inconvenience.

British newspapers predicted a dramatic switch in U.S. policy toward Germany is shaping up despite the denials by Clay and Washington.

Congo Urged To Invade Province

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Gen. Victor Lundula, commander of leftist military forces in Stanleyville, put pressure on the Congo central government today to invade Katanga.

Fears grew in Elisabethville, capital of the secessionist province, that fighting is about to break out again. Europeans began fleeing the city. A report said nearly 400 whites, mostly Belgians, had reached there from Katanga.

The campaign for an invasion of Katanga was being whipped up by supporters of the late Patrice Lumumba, who launched such an attack before he was overthrown as premier last September.

The Lumumbists have regained key positions in the central government with the reconciliation of Antoine Gizenga's rebel Stanleyville regime and the central government headed by Premier Cyrille Adoula.

Lundula has accepted Adoula's leadership but has kept command of strong leftist forces in Stanleyville. He sent a deputation of his officers here Sunday to step up the pressure on the premier for an invasion.

Lumumbist newspapers in Leopoldville said Lundula dispatched a telegram to Adoula saying: "I congratulate the chief of the Congolese government for his attitude to the Katanga problem. I place myself at the disposition of the republic and am only waiting for the order to be given me to invade Katanga with my troops."

Police Probing Robbery Report

Greenville Police today said investigation is continuing in a Saturday afternoon robbery case, which occurred in an alley between Clark St. and Atlantic Ave.

Officers reported that a Negro, Eddie May, told investigators he was walking down the alley when someone struck him on the head, from behind, then robbed him of $40-$50.

Detectives noted the blow knocked May down but not out, and added the currency taken was in $5 and $10 bills. The incident occurred about 3:50 p.m.

Abandoned Boat Is Death Trap

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—An abandoned wooden boat, described as rotten by a rescue squad member, became a death trap for three Negro sisters at Kerr Lake.

The bodies of the girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Holloway of Rt. 1, Dumfries, Va., were recovered Sunday by the Vance Rescue Squad with the use of grappling hooks.

The victims were Doris, 13, Mary, 9, and Stella, 7. They drowned Saturday while a 6-year-old sister watched from the bank near the Kimball point area of the lake at the Vance-Warren County line.

Weather Again Delays Voyage

BAYONNE, N.J. (AP)—Plans to move the battleship North Carolina to Wilmington, N.C.—where she will become a state war memorial—were delayed today because of a rain storm in the Atlantic.

The Moran Towing Co. said two tug boats will tow the 35,000 ton battleship to North Carolina. The five-day voyage, at first expected to start today, will get underway Tuesday if weather conditions permit.

Parachute Team Will Carry On

FT. MONROE, Va. (AP)—The colorful U.S. Army Parachute team will continue to operate, despite Sunday's crash at an air show in Wilmington, N.C., which killed three servicemen and injured several others.

"It's conceivable that the team's performances will be temporarily postponed," Col. George Monsarrat, deputy information officer for the headquarters detachment of the Continental Army Command here said today.

"But I don't see any reason to discontinue the team at this stage of the game."

Men, Women And Children Fleeing Katanga

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP)—More than 350 refugees from neighboring Katanga Province have fled into the safety of Northern Rhodesia since Sunday morning as the threat of more bloodshed mounted in the break-away Congolese province.

Northern Rhodesia police said nearly 100 carloads of Belgian men, women and children crossed at frontier points.

Most men appeared to be escorting their families to safety, then heading back to Katanga.

Demand Still Strong On Greenville Leaf Mart

Prices today on Greenville's tobacco market were steady as last week's record-high level, according to sales supervisor W. L. Whedbee.

"Demand today is still very strong on all grades," Whedbee said. Company purchases continued to run as high as $87 per 100 pounds, he reported.

Highlights

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Highlights of President Kennedy's speech to the U.N. General Assembly today:

OUTER SPACE — "We shall urge proposals extending the U.N. charter to the limits of man's exploration in the universe, reserving outer space for peaceful use, prohibiting weapons of mass destruction in space or on celestial bodies, and opening the mysteries and benefits of space to ever nation."

WEST BERLIN — "If there is a dangerous crisis in Berlin — and there is — it is because of threats against the vital interests and the deep commitments of the Western powers, and the freedom of West Berlin. We cannot yield these commitments. The Western powers have calmly resolved to defend, by whatever means are forced upon them, their obligations and their access to the free citizens of West Berlin and the self-determination of those citizens."

U. N. EMERGENCY FORCES — "The United States recommends that all member nations earmark special peace-keeping units in their armed forces — to be on call to the United Nations — to be specially trained and quickly available — and with advance provision for financial and logistic support."

SECRETARY-GENERAL Dag HAMMARSKJÖLD'S DEATH — "His tragedy is deep in our hearts, but the task for which he died is at the top of our agenda. The problem is not the death of one man — the problem is the life of this organization."

SUCCESSOR TO HAMMARSKJÖLD — "Our dedication to that (U. N.) charter must be strengthened by the selection of an outstanding civil servant to carry forward the responsibilities of the Secretary-general — a man endowed with both the wisdom and the power to make meaningful the moral force of the world community."

THE TROIKA — "To install a triumvirate, or any panel or rotating authority, in the U. N. administrative offices would replace order with anarchy, action with paralysis, and confidence with gross confusion. To give this organization three drivers — to permit each great power in effect to decide its own case — would entrench the cold war in the headquarters of peace."

ARMS RACE — "It is therefore our intention to challenge the Soviet Union, not to an arms race, but to a peace race — to advance with us step by step, stage by stage, until general and complete disarmament has actually been achieved."

DISARMAMENT PLAN — "The program to be presented to this assembly — for general and complete disarmament under effective international control — would achieve, under the eye of an international disarmament organization, a steady reduction in forces, both nuclear and conventional, until it has abolished all armies and all weapons except those needed for internal order and a new U.N. peace force. And it starts that process now, today, even as the talks begin."

Established in 1890. Whedbee also noted again today "more and more farmers from points as far distant as 100 miles" selling their tobacco here.

Greenville Moose Add More Honors

Convention Memorial Service Featured Local WOTM

GREENVILLE CHAPTER 1308, "Top Honor Chapter" of the 1961 State Convention, earned praise for participation in the Moose Memorial Service program.

Chapter 1308 Plays Prominent Role At Session

North Carolina Women of the Moose turned out in record numbers for the State Convention in Morehead City over the past week-end. Deputy Grand Regent Louise Carrigan, of Greenville, whose term ended with yesterday's closing session, estimated 250 WOTM were in attendance. Over 30 members of Greenville Chapter 1308 took part in varied phases of convention business.

As Top Honor Chapter, the local women were in charge of the enrollment ceremony, played a major role in the Moose Memorial Service, and enjoyed the distinction of having one of their number being crowned "Queen of Sponsors" in the Hotel Biltmore ballroom Saturday evening.

Seventeen members of the Greenville Chapter took part in the Moose Memorial Service, honoring members of the Fraternity who had died in the intervening year. Nine departed members of the Greenville Lodge were so honored in the 1961 service.

Josephine Dees, of Greenville was the central figure of a coronation ceremony as Queen of Sponsors. Her attendants included Louise Carrigan, Neta Rowland and Bonnie Singleton, all of Chapter 1308.

Other highlights of the week-end program included an address by a former Grand Council member, Billie Bowman of High Point; the naming of Inez Morrison, of Morganton, as new Deputy Grand Regent; and attendance of Graduate Grand Regent Lulu Wolf, of Norfolk.

LET'S INTERFACE IT—What is interfacing? Members of the Oakdale Home Demonstration Club in Edgecombe County plan to answer this question when they stress the use of interfacing in their local fair exhibit.

Mrs. Eleanor Tetterton, assistant home economics agent, says samples of various weight and fabric content materials will be displayed with suitable interfacing for each particular sample. A model of a correctly interfaced suit will be on display.

CURB MARKET PROFITS—Mrs. W. D. Ketter, manager of the Haywood County Curb Market and Craft Shop, has reported that over $1,200 has been paid to Home Demonstration Club members during the first two months of sales.

According to Miss Mary Cornwell, home economics agent, Mrs. Jim Singleton has added an extra feature by giving a craft demonstration at the market for two Fridays. Mrs. Singleton took orders for re-seating 19 chairs in one day.

Mrs. Whichard Gives Program

Mrs. Eric Whichard, clothing leader of Sweet Gum Grove Home Demonstration Club, presented the demonstration on "The Selection of Shoes as Related to Health" at the club's September meeting held in the community building.

Hostesses were Mrs. Darcey Brown and Mrs. W. S. Brown.

At the opening of the meeting, Mrs. J. C. Meeks led by Mrs. W. S. Brown. A new slate of officers was presented by the election committee and was accepted unanimously by the members.

Mrs. Whichard, during her demonstration, discussed "Shoe and Foot Hygiene," "How to Ease Your Aching Feet," and "Mind Your Own Two Feet." Pamphlets were distributed to the members containing information on what to look for when buying shoes.

Refreshments were served following adjournment of the meeting.

Pollockville, Rt. 1, is now making corn shuck bonnets. As the creator and designer of the bonnet, Mrs. Moss has used corn shucks from her own crops and lined the hat with attractive prints and gingham checks.

Mrs. Ann Brock, assistant home economics agent in Jones County, reports Mrs. Moss has enough orders to keep her busy for a long time.

USE OF TIME PLANNED WISELY—Mrs. J. T. Suggs, Ellerbe, reports that for several years she has been freezing grapes and making jelly later during the winter months.

According to Miss Martha Adams, assistant home economics agent, Mrs. Suggs washes the grapes and packs them. When she is ready to make the jelly, she lets them thaw and treats them as fresh grapes.

4-H ELECTRIC PROGRAM—There will be three training schools in Rowan County on the electric program. Miss Carolyn Smith, assistant home economics agent, says the 4-H girls will be trained in meter reading, care and use of small appliances, wiring, lighting, light fixtures, and safety.

The girls will also make lamps and have a short cooking period using the electrical appliances.

GIFTS YOU CAN MAKE—Have you tried making a clothes sprinker from a detergent can? Clothing and crafts leaders in Cabarrus County have been showing the Home Demonstration Club women how to make simple but useful gifts for Christmas.

Mrs. Sara Stewart, home economics agent, says the leaders made mouse traps into note pads, converted blocks of wood into pencil holders, made cobblers' aprons from two towels, made baby bibs and other inexpensive gift items.

Third Street PTA Holds Meet

The Third Street School Parent-Teacher Association held its first meeting of the 1961-62 school term in the school auditorium Thursday night.

Mr. D. B. Shackelford led the devotional and the president, Mrs. Mary Lee Riddle, presided during the business session. The budget for the school year was presented and adopted, and new committee chairmen were recognized. Mrs. Lucille Diener spoke on the "Value of the Kindergarten Class."

Mr. Charles Ross, school principal, was introduced along with the teachers and presented flowers from the P.T.A. Mr. Ross gave a brief talk on what it meant for each child to be present in school, and encouraged each parent to keep their children in school except in a case of illness.

Miss Lela Stancill, outgoing principal, was presented a silver sandwich plate for her years of outstanding service as principal of Third Street School.

Following the business, the parents talked with the principal and teachers, and enjoyed a social after which the meeting was adjourned.

The typical British executive takes a bath every day, and two if he is going out at night. This revealing tidbit was uncovered in a survey conducted by the British Clothing Manufacturers' Association.

WCTU State Convention To Be Held

The State Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of North Carolina will convene at First Methodist Church, Hickory, October 5-6.

Mrs. Roy Jarrett of Richmond, Va., national vice-president, will be the guest speaker.

Mrs. Jarrett, wife of a Methodist minister, is the mother of five children. She served eight years as the State President of Virginia, and for several years was the National recording secretary. She is listed in "Who's Who of American Women" and her most recent honor was to be chosen for "Mother of the Year" by her state of Virginia.

Mrs. J. E. Davis of Charlotte, State WCTU President, announces the Official Board meeting at 11:30 a.m. October 5th; Executive Meeting 1:30-2:30 p.m.; the open session convening at 3:00 p.m.

Mrs. R. E. Faw of Hickory is president of the hostess union.

Judy Garland Still Seeking Her Rainbow

SAN FRANCISCO — (WNS) — In all the years Judy Garland has been singing "Over the Rainbow," she's never quite caught the gold of personal happiness.

But in spite of two broken marriages, a brilliant but bitter Hollywood career and a succession of illness, Judy remains convinced that somewhere, someday she'll find her pot of gold.

"I just believe it's there," the singer said firmly. "Over the rainbow" is my philosophy—it means hope to me, and looking forward to a better day.

Judy, now 39, unashamedly plump and proud of having a 15-year-old daughter, described her days now as "sunny."

"But I always hope things will be even better tomorrow," she said. "I guess I'm an optimist."

Miss Garland, currently on a national concert tour, is breaking box office records wherever she goes. Thousands of fans seem eager to pay $7 or more for a ticket to hear the songs of the grown-up woman who once was the highest-paid teen-age star in Hollywood.

Judy doesn't mind discussing those Hollywood days—but makes it clear she hated them.

"I was always hungry then," she recalled. "They made me eat pills instead of food so I'd be skinny enough for the cameras. I don't diet now. I don't care whether I'm skinny or fat."

"It's odd but when I see those old pictures I can't quite connect myself with them. I've seen 'The Wizard of Oz' a couple of times recently on TV. I think it was a very good picture, but I don't think I was good. I think I was boring. I played that part so many times—acting so darn happy!"

Now, says Judy, movie-making is "more enjoyable and more interesting for me." She's just completed a dramatic part in "Judgment at Nuremberg," her first movie since "A Star is Born," and her performance has received such advance raves that Hollywood producers are chasing her with juicy offers.

Judy, who says bluntly she left Hollywood the first time "because I was fired," has some plans for picture-making. But she intends to concentrate mainly on her singing appearances.

"I don't like to be away from my home in Scarsdale, N.Y., too long," she explained. "My kids miss me."

Real happiness comes into Miss Garland's voice and face only when she's talking about her children: Liza, 15, Lorna, 8, and Joe, 6. "Liza's very talented," said her proud mother. "She just finished her first season of summer stock—and now she's back in school. She's a marvelous dancer and a wonderful actress."

Does Liza sing, too?
"I'd say she sings very well," Judy replied, laughing.

In spite of her own memories, Judy will let her daughter be a performer if she wants to.

"Right now it's fun for her, and that's good. If it ever turns into pressure, I wouldn't want her to continue."

The younger children also show signs of talent, their mother said. "Lorna's going to be another Lynn Fontanne—and Joe's very interested in music."

"But right now the big thing in both their lives is losing teeth, and each tooth proves how the years have gone by. When I was a little girl and put a tooth under a pillow to get a penny in return, but each time my children lose teeth, it costs me a dollar."

Judy plans to call Scarsdale home for "another two or three years." After that, she may return to London, a city she picked as her permanent home a few years ago.

"I'm very fond of England because people are nice to one another there, and the tempo is slower, with a certain graciousness."

"That's what I love—that's what I want: to surround myself with as much peace as possible and to live from day to day, always believing tomorrow will be better."

Opera Star's Wife Stays Chic On Road

By CATHARINE BREWSTER
NEW YORK — (WNS) — "Most women think they have enough problems being beautiful in their home towns. I've had to cope with customs and services from Australia to Moscow!" said brunette beauty Jeannette Gafni.

Husband Miklos, international opera and concert star, shrugged his shoulders, a task in itself, since they are as wide as half a football field, and smiled indulgently.

"I say to her, be yourself, you are beautiful enough as you are. But that never satisfies any woman. Immediately she asks, what's wrong with me?"

Many singers and their wives explore the work travel which concerts and opera require. Not Miklos Gafni and his wife.

"As a boy I spent three years in a concentration camp. I had all I wanted of staying put. So if using my voice means leading a gypsy's life, that's just fine with us."

Jeannette, whom he met while both were being coached in acting by Erwin Piscator, agreed cheerfully.

"But I'm sometimes not so sure when I'm trying to pack hats, or wondering where to get my hair done in Sydney, Australia."

I asked whether Mr. Gafni, like most European husbands, had had a controlling interest in her fashion and beauty choices.

"I trust my wife's judgment," he answered promptly. "I have no desire to make over anybody. The first time I saw Jeannette I said to myself that I would marry that girl. So I liked her as she was."

"Only in Europe does he start fussing," Jeannette added. "There is a way the wife of an opera star must look there. The look included a sleeked-back, sophisticated hardo. At our luncheon, Jeannette was wearing a short, fluffy style that made her look much younger. She also wears brighter colors here than in Europe.

"It's fascinating how beauty in each country depends more on surface aids," Jeannette spread eloquent hands. "A country like Ceylon, for instance, The perfectly simple, exquisitely controlled look of the women."

Both she and her husband agreed that sometimes less choice may mean better beauty results. In countries where fashions are standardized, as in the Far East, women cultivate graces which give a fine edge to their beauty.

"Here we have so much variety, yet often we seem to look alike, to be not very interesting in our appearance."

Nobody could accuse Jeannette of this fault. She takes the opportunity of foreign travel to play up to various international styles of beauty. Since she is American, she takes special pleasure in overcoming the mistaken image many other countries have of Americans.

"I love clothes, but I don't follow fashions in either dress or beauty. I aim for simplicity, use color and accessories, like hair, to attain chic."

She has had to learn to do her own hair well, since the couple's travels often find her without professional help at hand.

"I've found that as long as I have an excellent cut, I can always keep my hair well-groomed."

Miklos Gafni's fall schedule calls for appearances in London, Italy and his native Hungary.

"Of all the Iron Curtain countries, only Hungary manages still to have beautiful women. Budapest is still a chic city."

Jeannette agreed, adding seriously, "From all our travels I've learned that no matter what the surface differences, women are much the same beneath. Talking clothes and hair styles together, I've become friends with women all over the world."

The garnering of new honors by Greenville Lodge 885, Loyal Order of Moose, dominated the award-giving phase of the State Moose Convention held over the past weekend in Morehead City.

Homecoming Set For October 6

FARMVILLE—Farmville High School's annual Homecoming, highlighted this fall by the gridiron clash between Farmville's Red Devils and Robersonville's Rams, is scheduled for Oct. 6.

Observed each fall by the FHS student body, selection of a Homecoming king and queen is another feature of the annual event.

Candidates for king and queen honors are elected each fall by each of Farmville's high school classes.

Representing their respective classes Oct. 6 will be Seniors Kay Belle and Danny Dilda, Juniors Jancy Drake and Tommy Joyner, Sophomores Nancy Winstead and John King and Freshmen Charlene Edwards and Steve Letchworth.

Working coordinately, the Student Government Association, the newspaper staff and the Future Business Leaders of America will be in charge of a parade Friday afternoon and a dance in the gym following the football game.

Plants Flowers Along Thruway

NEW YORK (AP)—Every year since 1959 roofer Ted Fastje has been planting morning glories, marigolds, petunias, crocuses, daffodils and portulaca along the New York Thruway, Park Avenue in Manhattan and Central Park Avenue in the Bronx.

"I just like beauty," explains the 61-year-old Yonkers man.

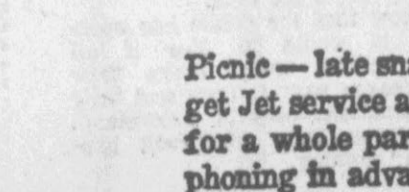

"My wife," Fastje relates, "thinks I'm nuts, but she's really glad I have this hobby."

"Once some cops asked me what I was doing. I told them I was planting flowers because I wanted things to look prettier. They said it was a good idea and went away."

plaque for Civic Affairs activities, a Certificate of Merit for Community Service, another first-place plaque for news coverage, then capped it all with a first-place trophy in drill team competition.

This was the first appearance of the local drill team in state competition, and they scored 198 points of a possible 200.

The Greenville degree team placed fourth in the field which saw a narrow point-spread among the five top-ranked teams. The big prize in this event again went to the Burlington lodge, one-time national champions; Winston-Salem and Kinston placed second and third respectively.

The Fellowship Degree, second highest in the Order, was bestowed on James A. Harris and Max Pollard, both of Greenville.

Other convention highlights included selection of High Point for site of the Midyear Conference and Hickory for the next state convention.

Marvin Fordham, of Kinston, was elected new president of the State Moose Association; and A. A. Carrigan, of Greenville, was

Will Mark Anniversary Of National Forest Law

ASHEVILLE—(AP)—National and state officials will join in commemorating Tuesday and Wednesday the 50th anniversary of the law which made possible the establishment of national forests.

Asheville was chosen for the observance because Western North Carolina played a major role in the law's background and because it is near the first tract of land (in McDowell County) purchased by the federal government under the Weeks Law.

Among the officials who will participate in the program at the Biltmore Estate are Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Gov. Terry Sanford, Dr. Richard E. McArdle, chief of the U.S. Forest Service, and Volt Gilmore, director of the U.S. Travel Service.

The Weeks Law enabled the federal government to purchase private land for use as public preserves. Since its passage in 1911, about 20 million acres have been obtained as national forests.

"The national forests have become an American heritage," said James K. Vessey, federal regional forester in Atlanta, Ga.

"Because of the Weeks Law lands, people of the Eastern United States now have access to several hundred recreation areas, millions of acres of hunting grounds and some of the finest trout fishing waters in the country."

North Carolinians played major roles in the background of the passage of the law. The Rev. C. D. Smith of Franklin first suggested establishment of a national preserve in the Southern Appalachians; Dr. Chase P. Ambler of Asheville became the principal advocate of such a preserve; Prof. Joseph A. Holmes, state geologist, aroused interest and support in other Southern states; and Sen. Jeter C. Pritchard first initiated action in Congress.

The Biltmore Estate was the site of the nation's first forestry school and the first application of forest management to American woodlands, accomplished by Gifford Pinchot, the first chief of the U. S. Forest Service, and Dr. Carl A. Schenck, a German forester.

The first tract of forest land set aside under the Weeks Law, near Marion, will be formally dedicated during the commemorative program.

Among the officials who will participate in the program at the Biltmore Estate are Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Gov. Terry Sanford, Dr. Richard E. McArdle, chief of the U.S. Forest Service, and Volt Gilmore, director of the U.S. Travel Service.

selected vice president of the N. C. Eastern District.

Attendance of the State Convention was generally estimated at "between 600 and 800"; and another 250 members of the Women of the Moose were also gathered, holding their annual state session in conjunction with the Moose Association.

The Biltmore Hotel served as convention headquarters, which formally opened Saturday morning . . . though a series of preliminary events were held on the preceding day. The Presidents Banquet and Ball highlighted the lighter side of the gathering on Saturday night; though most of the day was taken up with meetings, panels and workshops.

Sunday's final session was largely comprised of a memorial service, elections and reports.

Five new members were added to rolls of the Greenville lodge in the convention enrollment ceremony which consisted of a class of 87 candidates. The new Greenville Moose are: Garland Lancaster, Carlton B. Taylor, Robert R. Carpenter, Ralph C. Paul and Johnny M. Taylor.

S. C. Governor Protests Probes

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Gov. Ernest F. Hollings has told U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy that probes by FBI agents of voter registration in South Carolina should be stopped at once.

Such investigations, said the governor in a telegram to Kennedy Saturday, are "an insult to law abiding South Carolina."

In an accompanying statement, Hollings accused Kennedy of playing "pure politics" by sending the agents to Clarendon, Dorchester and Williamsburg counties.

"To send 10 or more FBI agents on a fishing expedition of this kind is deplorable," he said. "The attorney general could better use FBI agents against organized crime than intimidating decent citizens."

The governor said Kennedy's office notified the office of State Atty. Gen. Daniel R. McLeod on Sept. 8 that the Justice Department was proceeding to investigate voter registration in Dorchester and Williamsburg counties.

On the same day Hollings said he received a report from the South Carolina Advisory Committee on Civil Rights. It reported that "no cases alleging the denial of the right to vote had been brought before the committee," said Hollings.

The governor said he sent Kennedy the civil rights committee's report and asked the attorney general what had brought on the investigation.

"He has not replied," said Hollings, "but instead has unleashed a flock of agents to intimidate our citizenry."

Watery Grazing May Be Answer

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP)—The city of Charleston is considering putting "sea cows" out to pasture to kill off pig grass at the municipal water works.

Pig grass, which can't be poisoned and is almost impossible to keep out, has become a problem at the city's reservoirs. Scientists have been commissioned to look into the possibility of importing manatees or "sea cows" to solve the problem.

Three Arrested On Liquor Counts

Three Negro men, all 60 years of age or older, were arrested by Pitt County law enforcement officers over the weekend for possessing non-tax-paid whiskey.

Officers identified the three as William Baker, 65, of Pactus; Willie Bell, 60, of Route 1, Theboro; and Lee Boyd, 65, of Route 5, Greenville.

According to the lawmen, Baker was charged with possessing non-taxed whiskey for sale when three and one-half pints of the liquor were found in his home.

He was placed under a $200 bond on the charges.

Making the arrest were ABC officers J. M. Ward, H. B. Lilley and Walter Taylor, and Carolina Township constable William Crandle.

The second arrest involved Bell, who was charged with illegal possession of non-taxed whiskey for the purpose of sale when a half-gallon of booze was found buried in his yard and a small amount found in his home.

He was arrested by ABC enforcers Ward, Lilley and Taylor and Pitt Deputy Sheriff Brooks Oakley and placed under a $200 bond for the October 3 term of County Court.

The ABC officers and Constable Crandle charged the third man, Boyd, with possessing non-taxed booze for sale after finding three gallons of non-taxed whiskey in a burlap bag he was carrying over his shoulder. Boyd was walking down a dirt road near St. Peters Church in the Pactulus area at the time, they reported.

He was released under a $200 bond and is scheduled to be tried on the charges in County Court October 3.

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. WELLS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

As the 1961 tobacco crop is being sold it is not too early to begin considering ways and means to produce the highest net return from your 1962 crop. There are many production practices to consider as you formulate your tobacco production program. The first and one of the most important steps in a good tobacco production program is the plant bed.

Experimental results have shown that a good supply of quality plants at transplanting time will increase the net profits from the tobacco crop. In order to have a good supply of strong, healthy plants, ready early in the transplanting season, a well planned plant bed program based on sound and proven production practices must be followed.

Careful attention should be given to the location of the plant bed site. Select a deep fertile loamy soil that warms up quickly. The soil should be well drained, but not one that dries too quickly. Avoid using soil that bakes or crusts easily. It is a good idea to locate the bed near a dependable source of water, whenever possible, such as a pond or stream. Having plenty of water handy in dry weather may determine whether you have plants ready for an early setting.

Cold and drying winds can cause very serious damage to stands and earliness of plants. Therefore, it is a good idea for all beds to have some type of windbreak on the north, northwest, and northeast sides, especially on the north side. Woods, hedgerows, buildings, and fences covered with vines, make good windbreaks. Avoid locating beds in shaded areas.

If you have a permanent plant bed site established and have a cover crop growing it should be disced in immediately. By discing the cover crop in now the organic matter will be decayed in time to treat the soil for weed and nematode control in the fall or early winter.

It is very important that you start planning your plant bed program for the 1961 tobacco crop now by selecting your plant bed site, and beginning proper soil management.

Leon L. Kittrell Funeral Today

Leon L. Kittrell, 66, died at his home in Ayden Sunday morning after an illness of several months.

Mr. Kittrell was born and raised in Winterville and was the son of the late Stella Hardee Kittrell and Leon Lewis Kittrell.

Funeral services were held from the First Christian Church in Ayden at 3 p.m. today, conducted by his pastor, Rev. John L. Goff.

Mr. Kittrell was a member of the First Christian Church in Ayden and he served as an elder and chairman of the board. He attended the University of North Carolina and was affiliated with the J. B. Kittrell & Co. for 40 years. For the past five years he had served as judge of Ayden Recorder's Court.

He was a 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner. He was past master of Ayden Masonic Lodge No. 498 where he served as chairman of the Oxford Orphanage Fund for 12 years and excelled in his efforts for that cause. He was active in the Ayden Rotary Club for several years. Members of Loyal Men's Class of the Christian Church and the Ayden Rotary Club served as honorary pallbearers.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Blanche Allen Kittrell; two sons, L. L. Kittrell Jr. of Dunn and Todd Kittrell of Ayden; two granddaughters; three brothers, Oia S. and J. B. Kittrell of Greenville, Linwood G. Kittrell of Los Angeles, Calif.; and two sisters, Mrs. Roy T. Cox of Winterville and Mrs. A. R. Cannon of Burlington. The family had requested that flowers be omitted and that contributions be made to the Oxford Orphanage, Oxford, N. C.

Solons Move To Protect Bourbon

WASHINGTON (AP)—There are those who think an American product known as bourbon whisky is entitled to as much protection of its name as other potables, like Scotch, Canadian and Cognac. The House Ways and Means Committee agreed Thursday.

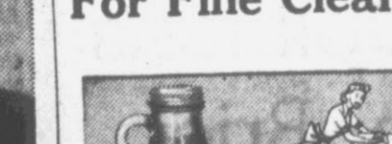

The committee approved a resolution that would declare it the sense of Congress that appropriate federal agencies should take action to deter and prevent persons outside the United States from designating whisky as "bourbon whisky" and to prohibit the importation into the United States of whisky designated as "bourbon whisky."

The resolution, which now goes to the House, was introduced by Rep. John C. Watts, a Democrat of—where else?—Kentucky.

Brings Thanks To Exchange Club

The Exchange Club heard a program presented by the Rev. J. W. Everton, superintendent of the Children's Home in Middlesex, at their Friday meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Everton, introduced by the Rev. R. V. Crawford of the Free Will Baptist Church, extended the home's thanks for a set of encyclopedias recently presented by the local club. An inspirational message on service to mankind was presented, based on the story of Christ's healing of the palsied man who was let down through the roof.

Vice President Bob Lee presided at the meeting. Roy Alcott and Tommy Morris received certificates for perfect attendance last quarter.

During the meeting, Dr. W. H. Pitt suggested plans for the annual summer picnic on the Pamlico River.

R. G. Burnett was the guest of Exchangeite Jimmy Wells for the meeting.

Tiny Isolated West Berlin Enclave Is Well Outside Allies' Perimeter

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
BERLIN (AP)—"No, sir," said the West Berlin policeman. "You can't go through to Steinstuecken. They'll arrest you if you try."
He stood at the corner of Machnowstrasse and Koenigsweeg in the wooded parkland on the western edge of Berlin.
Behind him, on the other side of a double fence of barbed wire, stood two Vopos (Communist people's police) in their Soviet-style uniforms.
"They always patrol in pairs," the West Berliner said. "They have to watch each other. They never talk to us. Anyone who did would immediately become suspect."
Through a gap in the fence, a narrow road led up into the woods of Communist territory. A battery of signs in four languages warned anyone against crossing over without a permit. A hundred yards away in the woods, Communist flags flew over a check point on the road.

A young girl came down the road on a bicycle. She greeted the two Vopos cheerfully, gave another greeting to the Western policeman, and rode on, without stopping, into the American sector of Berlin.
She is one of the 200 inhabitants of Steinstuecken, an isolated enclave of West Berlin territory a mile beyond the Allied perimeter.

The road to Steinstuecken is closed to all except those who live there. The tiny community itself is entirely surrounded by the Communist barbed wire but, for the moment, its inhabitants are left in peace and are allowed unrestricted access to West Berlin.
Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's special representative in Berlin, regards Steinstuecken as a symbol of Western rights in the city. One of his first acts after arriving here last week was to visit the enclave by helicopter.
Friday, three U.S. soldiers were flown in to set up what looks like a permanent Army post in the community. A helicopter airlift is keeping them supplied.
Theoretically, Western forces in Berlin have the right to drive up the road to Steinstuecken. But no Western troops have gone to the enclave in years, except by helicopter. Any attempt to force the road past the Communist check point could create an ugly incident.
"I hope the Americans never try it," the Western policeman said. "It would only stir up trouble and give them a pretext over there for closing the road altogether."
At the side of the road, scores of bicycles were lined up in a shelter. A cream-colored West Berlin double-decker bus stopped at the crossroads.

"Steinstuecken," the conductor called out. It was the end of the line.
Several of the passengers fetched their bicycles from the shelter and rode off toward the enclave. Others walked. They all knew the guards on both sides, and greeted them. Most Steinstuecken inhabitants seem to feel it's best to keep up friendly relations all round.
An East German truck with loudspeakers mounted on the roof drove up to the border from the Communist side.
"The program of the West German militarists is bankrupt and doomed," the announcer yelled. "Even President Kennedy is turning away from them. The West Berlin problem will soon be solved."
"It goes on for hours every afternoon," the Western guard said. "It's part of the war of nerves." The din drives even the Vopos crazy. A week ago one of them suddenly couldn't stand it any more, and just came walking in over the line, machinegun and all.
He interrupted himself and put out his hand.
"Excuse me, sir," he said. "You have one foot over the line. You have to be very careful, you know."
"We don't want to create any

Back Behind Bars After 3 Jailbreaks, Crime Wave

RUTHERFORDTON, N.C. (AP)—A 17-year-old Army private accused of three jailbreaks, 12 vehicle thefts, an assault with a deadly weapon and armed robbery—all allegedly committed in a period of little more than one month—is back behind bars.

David E. Kirkland of Rockwood, Tenn., was arrested in the vicinity of nearby Forest City Saturday night. Two officers flushed him out of the woods and charged him with robbing a cafe-service station of some $60 at gunpoint.

He will be given a hearing in Recorder's Court here Oct. 2 on charges of robbery and auto larceny.

Kirkland's first escape was Aug. 21, from Ft. Gordon, Ga., where he had been convicted that same day of car theft and of impersonating an officer. He was arrested Aug. 29 at Forest City after allegedly committing a half dozen other car thefts at Augusta, Ga., and in North Carolina and South Carolina.

The youth was being questioned by an Army officer at the jail in Shelby, N.C., Sept. 12 when he jumped up and fled, taking a state-owned pickup truck and ordering a policeman out of the way with a threat of running him down.

FBI agents who questioned him Sunday said Kirkland related that after fleeing the jail at Shelby he stole a car at Bowling Springs, N.C., and drove it to Chesapeake, S.C., where he hitchhiked to Gaffney, S.C. and stole another car, picked up a hitchhiker he called "Hannah" and drove to Boston, Mass.

There, the FBI quoted him as saying, the Boston police arrested the girl and the Shore Patrol arrested Kirkland. They turned him over to Army authorities at Ft. Devens, Mass., but he escaped again, stole another car and drove back to North Carolina.

After allegedly robbing the cafe-service station near Forest City Saturday night, Kirkland stole the car of the proprietor, James J. Conner, police said. Conner pursued him in a borrowed car and the robber abandoned the stolen vehicle to flee into the woods, where he was captured.

Congress Goes Back To Work, With Tuesday Adjournment Target Date

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress goes back to work today, hoping for adjournment by Tuesday night at the latest. The leaders were keeping their fingers crossed.

Still to be disposed of were three appropriations bills. If all goes smoothly, there is a chance Congress members still in town may be on their way home or starting jaunts as early as tonight.

Saturday was to have been the windup of the present session. Apparently, much of the House took the hope seriously and House leaders were wondering today if a quorum would show up.

There are three major items remaining:

1. The foreign aid bill—it has passed both branches, but awaits a final settlement in a Senate-House conference. The Senate voted $4,196,600,000 — $539 million more than the House. Reports persist that a behind-the-scenes agreement has been reached.

7. A public works measure carrying funds for rivers and harbors, flood control, reclamation also has cleared both branches, the Senate voting $3,940,926,880 and the House $3,662,701,380. Conferees may meet today.

3. A final supplemental, catch-all measure — the House voted $573,040,923, the Senate Appropriations Committee upped this to $1,060,894,578.

Plans to close down the 1961 session Saturday night collapsed when Republicans blocked Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's plan to bring up the supplemental bill.

This measure had been approved Friday and under Senate rules had to lay over until Tuesday unless unanimous consent were given. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Sen. Winston L. Prouty R-Vt., had notified him objection would be made.

Prouty was not on hand to give his reasons. However, some Democratic senators fighting the Du Pont Co. tax bill thought it was involved.

This controversial measure was called up for Senate debate Saturday but had no chance of final passage unless Congress was forced into this week. It cleared the House last Tuesday.

The measure would ease the tax burden on Du Pont stockholders who might receive General Motors stock in an antitrust divestiture case. Under present law, stockholders who got GM stock would have to pay about $1 billion in income tax. The bill seeks to cut the payment to about $359 million.

This legislation pended as the Senate met today. Mansfield said he would put it aside from time to time for Senate-House conferences reports and other business including the supplemental money bill, the key to adjournment.

He did not rule out trying to bring up this appropriations measure today if he could gain consent to do so, but said Tuesday was more likely.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., leading the fight against the Du Pont measure, told a reporter he still was confident it would be forced over to next session.

Gore and Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., had planned to leave for Europe Sunday on trips for their Senate committees, but postponed them to continue a fight on the Du Pont bill.

Dirksen said the Senate may stay in session long enough to act on this legislation.

A few important measures were disposed of Saturday. Sent to President Kennedy were bills he asked establishing a new disarmament agency and creating 760 supergrade and creating scientific posts in the government.

The Senate cleared for the President a disputed bill extending the Mexican farm labor program two years.

TV Fight For Saturday Night Audiences Started

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The big television battle of the season — CBS-NBC fight for the Saturday night audiences—has started.

CBS still has its hopes pinned on the two quick-draw heroes of the glamorous Old West, Marshal Dillon and Paladin, the ratings champs of the past five or six seasons.

On Saturday night, underdog NBC moved its most important but untied weapon into the late evening lineup, the first of a series of full-length feature movies with big star names. The first two-hour film was a 1953 comedy, "How to Succeed in a Millionaire," and the most important thing about the show was that Marilyn Monroe was in it.

Next weekend the earlier part of NBC's evening will be revised, with the new, expanded hour-long "Tales of Wells Fargo" opening the evening, followed by another Western, "The Tall Man." The idea, obviously, is to give the Western fans their chance to fill up on gunplay early and then settle down to a nice long movie on NBC.

CBS is trying to strengthen its lineup by making some changes—a rather dangerous procedure when things have been working out so well. It will still kick off Saturday night with "Perry Mason," but now it is followed by the new "Defenders." Then comes the ever popular "Have Gun, Will Travel," and new hour-long "Gunsmoke." A lot of money is involved in this two-way situation with the third network, ABC, more or less on the sidelines. As one viewer who can take Westerns or leave them alone — and slightly prefers the latter course—I hope that some of the coming NBC movies show a little more class and substance than "How to Marry a Millionaire," which shows Miss Monroe in a song number during which she looked exactly like Edie Adams imitating Marilyn Monroe.

"The Bullwinkle Show" had its debut on NBC Sunday. It was followed immediately by the premiere of Walt Disney's "Wonderful World of Color," the new name for the Disney hour which for many seasons had been a weekly feature on ABC.

"The Bullwinkle Show," an animated cartoon feature, is pretty much like any other animated cartoon featuring humanized animals. The comedy is elementary, the dialogue obvious and the children are much more likely to become "Bullwinkle" fans than adults.

Disney was playing to an even more specialized audience than children—the 700,000 or so homes in the country equipped with color television. For those of us lucky enough to have color sets, it was an eye-filling hour. For the rest, there was a new Disney character, a drake that sounded like a combination of Victor Borge and Sid Caesar in his German professor routines, and a fancied-up lecturer on mathematics. This show, too, appealed primarily to the younger members of the audience.

The first 30 minutes of the show seemed one long commercial for color TV. Disney himself was selling color so hard he didn't even find time to drop any incidental plugs for a certain amusement park in Southern California, his habit on the ABC show.

ABC's "Maverick" returned for another season, and at an earlier hour. The hour show seems to have lost all its old bounce. Jack Kelly, the last surviving Maverick brother, is trying to be a droll, amusing fellow, but it is all very forced.

Private Rites For Actress

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Private funeral services will be held Tuesday for actress Marion Davies, who died of cancer Friday night.

Requiem Mass will be celebrated in Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic church at 16 a.m. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today in the Chapel of Pierce Bros. Beverly Hills. Burial will be in Hollywood Memorial Park.

Ransom Was $70 And Typewriter

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Two Australian aid officials kidnaped by Communist guerrillas were free today after payment of the equivalent of $70 in cash and a typewriter as ransom.

Wilfred Arthur, a dairy expert, and Lawrence Crozier, attached to the Australian Embassy, said they were subjected to endless hours of a rather mild brainwashing but otherwise the Communists treated them well and gave them beer and cigarettes.

UN Control Now Working Well

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Gen. George H. Decker, U.S. Army chief of staff, said today the operational control of the U.N. command over South Korean forces, disrupted by the military coup last May, now is working well.

Decker said Gen. Guy S. Meloy, who heads the U.N. Command reported the arrangement is working satisfactorily since it was confirmed by agreement of the South Korean junta and the U.N. Command 10 days after the May 16 coup.

Debate Over Nat'l Council Of Churches Is Nearing Climax

DETROIT (AP)—A clash over the conduct of the National Council of Churches moved toward a showdown today at the Episcopal general convention.

Up for consideration in the House of Deputies, the lay-clerical chamber of the bicameral church congress, were several resolutions aimed at curbing the council, or severing ties with it. The council, an interdenominational cooperative body made up of representatives of 33 denominations with nearly 40-million members, includes most of the nation's major Protestant, Orthodox and non-Roman Catholic bodies.

Trapper Sent To Curb Beaver Dams

CHESTER, Calif. (AP)—In this northern California community, the beavers dam the ditches and the people, uh, darn the beavers.

For many years, residents of Chester have watered gardens and lawns from two small diversion ditches branching from the north fork of the Feather River. The river flows through the center of town.

The people say they own the ditch. The beavers, who recently built dams in it, obviously think they own the ditch.

After the dams were built, the ditches overflowed and streams and basements were flooded. The people began trapping the beavers but fish and game authorities stopped them, pointing out that trapping was illegal at this time of the year.

Finally, the county supervisors asked the state for help. The state responded by sending a trapper, who will start work soon.

It has been under running fire from various individuals and groups in the country, some of whom accuse it of being too easy on communism, although the council has repeatedly denounced communism.

One of the regular accusers, The Rev. Carl McIntire, Collinswood, N.J., "Bible Presbyterian," showed up here, distributing an "Episcopalian packet" denouncing the council.

The packet also contained articles condemning church reunion moves, and charging some episcopal leaders with heretical teachings.

The approximately 900 voting delegates to the convention also have been bombarded with similar literature from sources in a dozen cities in Arizona, Louisiana, Texas, Ohio, California and elsewhere.

Mailings of such material were received by all delegates before they came here. Some of it also contained racial segregationist leaflets.

HAND TWISTED — Mrs. Charles Cronrath demonstrates the Pennsylvania Dutch technique of the old-fashioned "pretzel bender" at festival held in Lancaster, Pa.

J. Irwin Miller, the Columbus, Ind., diesel engine manufacturer who is president of the council, flew into town last week, and hit back at some of the charges being circulated.

"There are no Communists in the National Council of Churches any more than there are in the American Bankers Association. I am a member of both and they're not there, and they're not in Rotary or other groups. Why do people pick on one and not the other?" he said.

The campaign against the council has produced tensions in several denominational conventions recently, including demands for withdrawal.

However, in each case where the issue boiled to the floor, the Methodist Church, the United Presbyterian Church, the American Baptist Church, and others have stuck with the council, and commended it.

Issues Involve Nude Sunbather

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—Is taking a nude sunbath in one's backyard a private or public affair? And are neighbors who object public spirited citizens or Peeping Toms?

Those are issues before a Municipal Court jury in the indecent exposure trial of Kay Ellis, 58, arrested on neighbors' complaints that she frequently appeared in the altogether beside her backyard pool.

Mrs. Ellis claimed she has a perfect right to take sunbaths in the nude in her own backyard. Her attorney told the jury Thursday the complaints against her are based on stories by Peeping Toms.

Among witnesses who testified for the prosecution was Burlingame Police Chief Carl Lollin, who said he saw Mrs. Ellis "from top to toe—in the nude" when he responded to a neighbor's call. He said he warned her but she continued her sunbaths.

Airliner Skids Into Harbor, All Are Saved

BOSTON (AP) — A four-engine Astrojet 707 carrying 71 persons skidded off a runway Sunday and dropped into shallow water in the harbor.

No one aboard the American Airlines plane was killed. Small boats rescued those aboard within six minutes, an airline official said. Two passengers and a stewardess were treated at hospitals for minor injuries and released.

Airline officials said seat belts helped avert more serious injuries. One man died of a heart attack rescuing passengers in a small boat.

The big plane slid into the water a few feet from the spot where an Eastern Air Lines Electra crashed into the harbor on take off almost a year ago with a loss of 62 lives.

The 707 — American Airline's

Flight 44 from San Francisco and Chicago — was making an instrument landing in the murk and overshot the 10,000-foot runway, an air line spokesman said.

The Astrojet's pilot, Capt. Ted Johnson of San Francisco, said: "I was making a normal approach. There was some fog. I landed on the runway a little farther up than I would have liked to and we skidded off the end."

"I realized we were going to crash when the plane overshot the runway," said Norman Bagley, 47, a Saco, Maine, supermarket operator. "I thought the wheels touched and then went up again. I knew we were going to pile up somewhere and I prayed for it to be in water."

Stewardess Connie Forbes said some of the passengers were shaken up but there was no panic. The $5-million plane, its No. 1 and 2 engines torn off and its nose damaged, stopped in five or six feet of water. Four stewardesses led the passengers out on the wings.

Taken to the hospitals were Charles Ivaco, 38, Kenosha, Wis.; Lillian Rochelleau, 51, Westboro, Mass., and a stewardess, Sheila Homan of Lowell, Mass., and Burlingame, Calif.

In addition to the 63 passengers and crew of 8, the plane also carried the body of William F. Richardson Jr. of San Francisco, being shipped to Northampton, Mass., for burial.

Most of the rescued were brought to the Orient Heights Yacht Club. It was during one such boat trip that Jack Luti, about 50, of Beachmont, suffered his fatal heart attack.

Instant Meals, Low-Priced Helicopters, All In Future

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—A complete meal instantly prepared by the housewife as easily as a cup of coffee—thanks to the Army. Perishable food preserved without refrigeration—thanks to the Army.

A low-cost helicopter for businessmen, a pill to swallow that will make mosquitoes fly away from you, a quality radio the size of a future pen for tomorrow's teen-agers.

All these future goodies and more are promised to consumers—presumably taxpayers—all as an extra dividend for the money being poured into research programs primarily aimed at military defense of the nation from its enemies.

Six generals and two colonels have presented these wonders at a meeting of the Aviation-Space Writers' Association as a reminder to taxpayers that civilians also frequently benefit from the research tied to the defense program, now in the process of being expanded.

A classic example is the aerosol bomb, originally developed to spray insecticides during World War II in the South Pacific, and now used for a long list of civilian goods from shaving soap to whipped cream.

Another is the millions of dollars poured into the development of military jet transports which made economically feasible the jet airliners civilians use today.

Civilian benefits still to come include many other wonders.

New plastic tubing developed by the Army Medical Corps can replace torn arteries in arms and legs. Heretofore it has been used only in the trunk of the body.

OA MEETING
Leroy Hight, East Carolina Council advisor to Order of the Arrow chapters, is scheduled to present a program on Indian dancing and costume-making at tomorrow night's meeting of the Pitt District OA chapter. The meeting is scheduled for St. James Methodist Church's scout building in Greenville.

DISTRICT MEET
The Pitt Scout District Committee will hold its regular September meeting at 7:45 p.m. today at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in Greenville. District Chairman M. E. Cavendish has urged all district committeemen to attend.

Military scientists also are working on an oral drug to combat malaria and nitrogen-mustard treatment of cancer.

Brig. Gen. Clifton F. von Kann, director of Army aviation, says that because the Army will need more than 3,500 turbine-powered, four-passenger helicopters, the mass production methods should mean that by 1964 civilians can get one for less than $25,000. Businessmen can use them, or they can be used as air taxis, commuter transports or for farm chores.

Maj. Gen. William D. Hamlin of the Army Signal Training Command, says he has seen research models of high quality radio receivers as small as fountain pens. Small TV and radio sets may come from use of tiny electronic micromodules one-tenth the size of present day miniaturized circuits.

A complete dehydrated meal, ready to eat after being mixed with hot water, is being developed by the Army's Quartermaster Corps. And Brig. Gen. Merrill L. Tribe of the QM Research and Engineering Command, says they are studying a method of preserving perishable food without refrigeration.

The oral insect repellent under development by the Medical Corps is guaranteed to offend only mosquitoes and such and to go unnoticed by other humans—this on the word of Col. Colin Vorder Bruegge of the Army Medical and Research Command.

Don't get the idea all those millions of tax dollars are being voted with just civilian comfort in mind. They're being spent for military research into electronics, chemistry, medicine, aviation, meteorology and transportation.

But you never know when some of the research will come up with things that civilians can use, too—like that wartime aerosol device now used to spray hair set on the blondes and redheads and brunettes you know.

Border-Crossers Issued Warning

JERUSALEM, Israel Sector (AP) — The government warned Sunday that persons crossing the Israeli border illegally do so at the risk of their lives.

The warning was issued after the Cabinet heard a report on two Gaza border incidents last week and subsequent antigovernment demonstrations.

A communique said the government is satisfied that three Arabs shot dead by security forces near the Gaza border last Sunday night and two others killed Monday night were trying to sneak into territory of the United Arab Republic.

Nasser Steps Up Socialization

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Cairo newspapers published Sunday details of a new presidential decree requiring personnel of nationalized industries to declare publicly the wealth of themselves, their wives and children over the past 10 years.

The decree is directed at Egyptian managerial and white collar classes.

It is a further step in socialization plans that have now effectively nationalized all industry. The maximum income allowed from all sources is now limited to $28,000 and salaries above $4,200 must be approved by special presidential decree.

Lion In The Hills

By JOHN B. PRESCOTT

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
Motherless, lonely young Alec Temple had expected with excitement the company of his father in Alec's first rousing experience after coming West to join the father, a U. S. Forest Ranger officer. Claude Temple was "too busy" again to go with his son in the latter's introduction to hunting down of mountain lions. Instead, Alec is with old Sam Fellows, who has a pack of hounds for trailers. The prey is a lion that has been killing stock in night raids on ranches.

CHAPTER 7
It was nearly ten o'clock, as Alec Temple guessed it, before the cry of the hounds changed to a new meaning even he could understand. At the same time, Sam Fellows swerved around on the mule to shout back: "He's up! Beyond that little thump there! They're crying tread!" Alec saw the thump—a tumble of red stone. Beyond away, a pinyon tree rose, broad and green at the lofty top, but placed so that the trunk was hidden by the thump. Once past that, he saw ahead to where the tree lifted out of the rough talus slope. Around the thick, warted trunk, the dogs had gathered in a writhing knot and were howling and baying. Though searching hard, Alec couldn't see the lion right away. It wasn't until they'd put the mounts on picket and come closer that all at once, he saw the flattened shape of the serpent head, the ears laid back, the pink nose, the tawny fur marked with shades of light and dark. He saw the great yellow eyes, baleful and chill in their stare, and the furred lips curved back from honed ivory knives.

"Lordy!" He breathed it out while his heart turned over in a slow thump. He saw the cold eyes full upon him. He felt drawn and frightened both, but could not tell which was stronger in him; and, like a hunted creature held in deadly embrace by the message of those eyes and raw blades, he could only stare. From his side a metal sound came; Sam had levered a cartridge into his saddle carbine. He brought his glance around to Alec, with something in his faded blue eyes that Alec couldn't grasp. He felt it, however. They were kindly, still they bore at him, as if searching him. Sam's voice was soft, like the kindly part of his glance. "You know why we're here, Alec. Generally, it ends this way." Alec felt his head moving in a slow nod. The race was at an end, the time for killing come. Sam took a step; he slipped the safety catch. "Best stand back a little, boy."

Alec moved, and when he looked again, he saw the carbine up and Sam's eye bearing like a gimlet as he sighted along the blue barrel. At the same time that he looked, the sound crashed out to stam and bound and echo on the stone cliffs. And then, so swiftly that it seemed a second had been lost, the lion launched out from the tree in a great spring that now revealed the white underbody, the black tip on the lashing tail, the shearing, bared claws extended. The curving body fell among the hounds to go from sight beneath their wild lunge.

Sam sat on a rock and lit his pipe. The hounds were on their chains under the tree, nosing the air for the lion, now tied behind the mule's saddle. Sitting near Sam, Alec let his glance rest on the lion. He was marveling at the manner in which things had changed, for the lion, now tied behind the mule's saddle. Sitting near Sam, Alec let his glance rest on the lion. He was marveling at the manner in which things had changed, for the lion, now tied behind the mule's saddle. trail. They ain't done workin' yet." He pitched another pebble, one that Molly, a black-and-tan, tried to catch but missed. "Putting yourself in the hands of a pack of fool pups is just asking for trouble," he went on. "Had I known ahead of what the day held, I'd bring Jupiter, even if he needed riding with me." Alec watched the hounds under the tree. He was wondering how the tom had mingled his scent with that of another lion so as to make the hounds all send them on the new trail. He felt it to be wrong, even unjust. He'd known there'd be killing; the tom had built a record of livestock slaughter in the basin country and had earned its destruction. But the death of another in its place was something else. "I guess we should have had Jupiter," he said. "These don't seem to know much better." A puff of smoke, more like a snort, came out of Sam's pipe. "They just didn't have their minds on business," he said. "Still, as they ain't been afield lately, it's partly my fault, too." He gave his beard a wrench here, as if in penance for letting the dogs fall into idle habits, and Alec stole a glance at him. In the eye of his mind he saw Sam as an old man who lived alone in a cabin on the same stretch of creek where Alec and Claude had found a place. In younger days he'd been a predator hunter for the government, and he liked to tell strange and wild tales of famous lions and bears met and fought. Nowadays, Sam was more or less retired. Yet, if he no longer made a living in his old way, he was still ready to be called by local ranchers whose herds of beef or saddle stock had been raided by lion or bear gone renegade. It helped him keep his hand in, he'd say. Kept him young. And gave him also a reason to keep some hounds about him and to raise up and train some pups, too, from time to time. Not that Alec believed that Sam needed a reason. Sam belonged to hounds, just as they belonged to him. But now it was these pups that had bayed a lion other than the one whose trail they'd started. "Not to underrate that tom," Sam said. "Time they get too old to take deer and start killing stock, they make up in wits for what they lack elsewhere." "Where do you think he is now?" Alec asked. Sam used his beard to point above, like a finger. "Likely on top. Should be by now; he's had the time." He turned now, squinting back along the way they'd come. "Back there some lies a draw we crossed. Somehow, I had a feeling at the time. Ah, before that, the cry changed, and I felt something had happened. But it squared away so quick, I didn't think much of it." Likely, Alec thought, it had happened there. Running through the draw, the tom had crossed the female's sign and, seizing the chance, had schemed to throw the dogs off his own scent and break clear. For all that it was hard to see how an animal could have such brains, Sam's tales made it clear that lions were crafty and knowing. Sam had said it was a nursing she, a fact that made the wrongness seem bigger. There might be cubs somewhere about. "Do you think she left cubs?" He was wondering how they'd live, with their mother not coming back. No longer having a mother herself, his feelings went out to those who'd suffered the same loss. Even to young lions. "She might have," Sam said. "They're up there somewhere, up that draw, maybe, that canyon, if she did." Now, all at once, the cubs became important to Alec. He felt the need to know how they fared, whether they were dead or

Passenger Train Hit By Freight

BAY, Ark. (AP) — A freight train derailed and slammed into a passenger train parked on a siding Sunday night, injuring at least 20 persons. There were no deaths reported, but attendants at a Jonesboro, Ark., hospital where the injured were taken said at least five of them were critical. Thurman Adam, a porter, said a hotbox caused a wheel to fly off one of the freight cars as the freight rumbled by the motionless passenger train. Adam said in the chain reaction that followed about 20 of the freight's 88 cars left the tracks. Some piled atop the overturned passenger train. The engine of the passenger train was knocked into a nearby cotton field. Frisco officials said the passenger train had been switched to a siding to allow the freight to pass. They said the freight had slowed to about 15 miles an hour. Passengers said they saw some of the freight cars start to move sideways on the track as the freight train "just started coming apart."

Says Russians Full Of War

BRITFORD, Ont. (AP) — Dr. Jacob Zhidkov, 76, president of the Russian Baptist Union, says the fear of a third world war is as great in the Soviet Union as it is in the West. Most Russians do not want another war and "ferverently hope there won't be one," Zhidkov said in an interview Sunday. Zhidkov is in Canada as a guest of the Baptist Federation of Canada.

Mau-Mau Leader Drops Violence

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Jomo Kenyatta, who was imprisoned for nine years for leading the Mau Mau anti-white terrorists, says he has forewarned violence. "There is no real freedom when there is violence," he told a rally of 120,000 followers Sunday at Nyeri. "We want unity and freedom. We don't want to steal land or farms from the Europeans."

"Can My Foam Rubber-Lined Car Coat Be Dry-Cleaned?"
—Mrs. U. N. V.

Dear Mrs. U. N. V.:

Yes, it can be drycleaned. However, it does require special care. Textile manufacturers, to please you and provide a warm interlining for car coats, raincoats, skiwear and jackets for all the family, have either laminated or fused a sheet of foam to knitted fabrics or quilted it to the fabric in the same manner as a fiber bat to make a lining. This gives you warmth with less weight and bulk.

These foam interlinings have other advantages, too. The foam will not permit bacteria and fungi to grow in it. It has no odor and does not retain an odor to which it is exposed. It won't bunch or mat or shrink or stretch; is perspiration-proof, non-allergic and non-toxic.

With all these advantages foam interlinings are certain to grow in popularity and you'll find them in many more garments as time goes on.

Sometimes the foam lining is hidden, sometimes it is exposed. It is well to know that the foam lining is there, however, and to instruct your drycleaner when he cleans your garment. Quilted foam linings dryclean satisfactorily, but when the foam is laminated to the fabric it is necessary to use extra care in cleaning.

Your professional drycleaner has special skills in handling combinations of fabrics and synthetic agents. Trust your garments to his care.—(Adv.)

THE PHANTOM

The Farm Scene

By S. C. WINCHESTER

Defoliating cotton leaves is now considered essential to cotton production because of the many advantages it offers. With the advent of new chemicals, mechanical harvesters, and a changing labor situation, it will be well for all cotton farmers to consider defoliation as a stepping stone to easier and higher quality cotton production.

- A. Why Defoliate: 1. Mechanical harvesters do a better job of picking. Leaves don't clog spindles. Lint stain kept to a minimum. Less trash added to picked cotton. 2. Dew dries quicker allowing picking to begin earlier in the day. 3. Hand pickers can increase speed and efficiency. 4. Boll rot, fiber and seed deterioration is retarded due to exposure of line to sun and air movement. 5. Lowers insect population to decrease weevil, aphid, lice, red spider and bollworm damages.

SAFE! The Daily Newspaper Is the Safer, Surer Advertising Investment

Two questions influence the choice of an advertising medium. First, what does it cost to reach a person with a sales message? Second, how many of those you reach will buy? A typical advertiser can reach a person through newspapers at least as economically as through other media.

but erased the gain. Chrysler fell about a point. American Motors and Studebaker-Packard dropped fractions.

Price cuts by Alcoa and Reynolds Metals followed reductions to American customers last week by Aluminum Ltd. Reynolds and Metals dropped more than 2 and Alcoa about 3 while Aluminum lost a fraction. The aluminum price cut increased pressure on steel companies not to raise prices when wages go up Sunday, observers noted.

U.S. Steel eased and Bethlehem dropped a fraction.

The aircraft-missile stocks were mostly lower.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.84 at 697.73.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregular.

Corporate bonds were firm. U.S. government were unchanged in new transactions.

Funeral Tuesday For Mrs. J. W. Taylor

Mrs. Maggie Godley Taylor, 81, widow of James W. Taylor, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Sunday night at eight o'clock. She had been in failing health for two months.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock by the Rev. Louis Gibbs, Methodist minister of Vanceboro. Burial will be in the Riverside Christian Church cemetery near Gardner's Crossroads.

Mrs. Taylor spent most of her life in Pitt County and had recently lived with her son, Leonard Taylor, in Stokes.

Surviving are five sons: Jesse A. and Earl Taylor of Greenville, Santos and Thomas Taylor of Ayden, and Leonard Taylor of Stokes; a daughter, Mrs. T. C. Adams of Greenville; 20 grandchildren; 16 great grandchildren; and three great great grandchildren.

James B. Edwards Funeral Set Tuesday

Mr. James Boyce Edwards, 51, died at his home, 205 Cotanche Street, Sunday morning.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock by the Rev. C. F. Hirsch, pastor of St. James Methodist Church. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mr. Edwards, son of the late John Mitchell and Carrie Boyce Edwards, was a native of Lewiston and came to Greenville at a small child. He attended the Greenville City Schools and was graduated from Greenville High School. He served in the U. S. Army during World War II and was a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and the Pitt County Post of American Legion.

Surviving are a son, John Reynolds Edwards of Warwick, Va.; two brothers, John M. Edwards Jr. of Greenville and Henry Edwards Steele of Norfolk, Va.; and two sisters, Mrs. L. F. Johnson of Greenville and Mrs. Joseph W. Padgett of Smithfield.

Last Rites Tuesday For Roy E. Wilson

Mr. Roy E. Wilson, 70, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday morning at 2:30. He had been in failing health for several years and critically ill for the past two weeks.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 by his pastor, the Rev. R. B. Crawford. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. Members of the Greenville Lodge No. 885, Loyal Order of the Moose, will have charge of the services at the grave.

Mr. Wilson, son of the late John Allen and Bettie Cox Wilson, spent all his life in Pitt County and had operated Wilson's Grocery for many years. He was a member of the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church and the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Cora Marriner Wilson; two sons, Harry T. and Johnny E. Wilson of Greenville; two daughters, Mrs. Mildred W. Merrill and Mrs. R. Firemen Called As Grease Burns

Greenville Firemen were called to 207 Elm St. Saturday about 6 p.m. when grease on a kitchen stove at the address caught fire.

Officers noted heavy smoke damage resulted to the kitchen while lesser smoke damage resulted to the remainder of the dwelling.

Box 36 at the intersection of Third and Meade Sts. was turned in for the blaze, which was reported out when fire units arrived on the scene.

Will Be Charged With Assault

Sheriff's deputies are to charge a Rt. 1, Greenville man with assaulting his father as the result of a Friday night fracas.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said Sidney Harrell who lives on the Pataclus Highway will face the charge.

He is accused of striking his father, Claude Harrell, 51, Rt. 1, Box 267, Greenville. The elder Harrell was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for a cut over the eye and a possible fractured jaw.

Sidney is 150 miles from Bizerte; Rome is 350 miles distant.

Summer Welles Died Yesterday

BERNARDSVILLE, N. J. (AP)—Summer Welles, 68, undersecretary of state for six years during the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, is dead.

Welles died early Sunday at the home of his wife's family after an illness of three weeks. He had suffered a heart attack some years ago.

A specialist in Latin American affairs, Welles was credited with coining the phrase, "good neighbor policy," and of persuading President Roosevelt to pursue such a policy.

Welles served briefly as ambassador to Cuba and later was in charge of the State Department's division of Latin American affairs.

He was one of the principal American diplomats assigned by Roosevelt to work on the formulation and organization of the United Nations.

Welles was named assistant secretary of state in 1933 after Roosevelt's inauguration. He was promoted to undersecretary, the No. 2 position in the State Department four years later.

His resignation in the summer of 1943 was believed to have resulted from a clash of personalities with Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Hull was said to have resented Welles' habit of going directly to the White House with problems and advice.

Series Of Weekend Auto Mishaps Here Reported

John W. Bunch, 61, of 1906 Forbes St., was charged with following too closely after his vehicle collided with a car driven by Mary E. Page of Route 3, Greenville, Saturday, police reported today.

Officers said damage to the Bunch auto was about $150 while damage to the Page vehicle was estimated to be about $100.

The mishap occurred at the intersection of Eighth and Evans Sts. about 9:30 a.m.

A collision at Third and Evans Sts. about 10:25 a.m. Saturday saw Clarence W. Sprouse, 44, of 110 Cotanche St. charged with falling to stop for a red light, police reported.

The Sprouse vehicle collided with a car driven by Dorothy D. Sullivan of 1206 East Wright Road.

Damage to the Sullivan vehicle was placed at $125 while an estimated $50 damage was done to the Sprouse auto.

Investigators said a 33-year-old truck driver, Willard Thomas Davis of 1109 Fairfax Ave. was charged with improper parking following a 11:20 a.m. Friday mishap, in which an eight-year-old Negro girl was injured.

Traffic officers noted the girl, Carolyn Ann Jenkins of 1306 Mills St. received bruises to her left leg after being struck by a truck driven by Henry Hubert Smith, 26, of Route 5, Greenville.

Boys Arrested For Shoplifting

Two small boys, ages 11 and 12, were arrested on juvenile warrants charging shoplifting and damage to personal property following an outing Saturday afternoon.

Greenville police reported that the two boys were taken into custody at Jenkins Motor Company—the last stop in their afternoon tour.

The investigators said the value of the loot from their shoplifting totaled about $8 while damage caused by them totaled about $60.

The stolen property included two sets of car keys from Brown-Wood motor company at the intersection of Boyd and Dickinson Ave.; two pairs of gloves from Rose's Dime Store; one toy pistol from Home and Auto Supply Co.; a toy pistol, belt and bullets from Gammon Supply Co.; and a pair of underwear goggles and two sets of keys from Jenkins Motor Company at Fourth and Cotanche Sts.

The youths also damaged a 1962 auto and a 1961 car at Jenkins', the investigators reported.

The two were taken into custody about 3:30 p.m. Saturday.

Funeral Today For Mrs. D. K. Stallings

Mrs. Julia Buck Stallings, 70, widow of Dancy K. Stallings, died at Duplin County Hospital at Kenansville Saturday morning at eight o'clock. She had been in failing health for several years and critically ill for the past week.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Wilkerson Chapel and burial at the Ayden Cemetery. The Rev. Robert Crawford, Free Will Baptist minister of Greenville, conducted the service.

Mrs. Stallings spent most of her life near Ayden and for the past three years had made her home with two of her daughters, Mrs. Virgil Sutton and Mrs. James Vernon, near Seven Springs. She was a member of Rose Hill Free Will Baptist Church. Her husband died in 1967.

Surviving are five daughters: Mrs. Gray K. Witherington of Fountain, Mrs. Walter A. Gabel of Jacksonville, Mrs. D. Virgil Sutton of Seven Springs, Mrs. James Vernon of Abertson, and Mrs. J. Odell McLawhorn of Ayden; four sons: W. Harvey Stallings of Grifton, Leo E. Stallings of Greenville, and S-Sgt. Milton R. Stallings of the U.S. Air Force, now stationed at Omaha, Neb.; 24 grandchildren; five sisters: Mrs. Raymond Hardee of Grimesland, Mrs. Cora Wilson and Miss Minnie Buck of Ayden, Mrs. Dicy McGowan of Williamsburg, Va., and Mrs. Don G. Morris of Bethel; and a brother, Willie F. Buck of near Ayden.

Man Wounded By Pistol Bullet

Pauline Everette, 23-year-old Negro of Rt. 3, Greenville, was shot in the thigh with a .32 calibre pistol Saturday night.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said Solicitor Spell, Jr., 24-year-old Negro of Rt. 3, Greenville, told deputies he was checking the pistol when it accidentally discharged.

The shooting occurred near Black Jack and investigation is continuing.
