TRUTH IN PREFERENCE TO FICTION

'Unsatisfactory'

LONDON (AP)—Radio Moscow asserted today President Kennedy's disarmament proposals to the U.N. General Assembly are unsatisfactory.

In a home service, Russian-language broadcast, the radio declared:

"The U.S. program makes no provision for the abolition of arms and armed forces, for the banning of nuclear and other forms of weapons of mass extermination, or for the liquidation of military bases on other people's territory."

The broadcast said that, as outlined by Kennedy, "the main emphasis is laid on the discontinuance of the production of fissionable materials and on control over the launching of devices into cosmic space."

"As is known," it added, "these measures along are in no way capable of guaranteeing general and complete disarmament."

"Kennedy did not say a word about the attitude of the U.S.A. to such vitally urgent questions as the struggle of the Algerian people for independence, the national liberation struggle of the peoples of Angola or the situation in Southwest Africa."

Kennedy's remarks on the subject of Germany and Berlin were dismissed in a single sentence—"The President devoted considerable attention to the German problem and, in particular, to the question of West Berlin."

U.S. Friends React Warmly To Kennedy United Nations Speech

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Kennedy's speech to the United Nations drew warm praise today from America's friends and allies. First Communist reaction was hostile.

Returns were awaited from the nonaligned nations, who were cast in a vital role by Kennedy. He appealed to them to help save the United Nations by working for a strong secretary-general and to participate in disarmament.

The first significant neutralist comment came from Prince Norodom Sihanouk, chief of state of Cambodia. He visited Kennedy at his New York hotel and told newsmen that Cambodia adopts the same position toward disarmament as Kennedy in his speech.

"With controls," he stressed. Moscow radio and the Soviet news agency Tass reported without comment that the President had addressed the General Assembly and "dwelt on the activity of the United Nations, the question of disarmament, the so-called Berlin crisis, and the question of colonialism."

The East German news agency ADN reported at length on the portions dealing with Germany and Berlin, accusing Kennedy of deliberately distorting the Soviet position. The agency said "he spoke of U.S. willingness to negotiate without submitting any concrete proposals."

Chinese Communist reaction appeared in the Ta Kung Pao of Hong Kong, a Red newspaper which follows Peiping's line. It accused Kennedy of mouthing "empty propaganda phrases."

"He talks about peace, but it is he who prepares for war all over the world. All you have to do is to compare Kennedy's words with his deeds to see that he is nothing but a hypocrite," the Red paper said.

A British Foreign Office statement said the plan "represents a realistic and practicable basis for negotiations."

An official in the Italian Foreign Ministry said: "If Kennedy's disarmament proposals should go down the drain, there would be little hope of survival left for the Western world."

British officials also privately praised Kennedy's statement that "we seek no perfect solution." The British have long felt that U.S. policy tended too much toward absolute solutions that would end the cold war.

Non-Communist Asians reacted warmly and with praise. Newspapers everywhere outside of mainland China gave it top play.

The address was received enthusiastically in Nationalist China where a Foreign Office spokesman said Kennedy's challenge "will provide the best test possible to determine whether the Soviet Union is willing to abandon its aggressive, expansionist policies." The Japanese Foreign Ministry called the speech "a welcome reaffirmation of the United States position on world problems." The Japanese were pleased with Kennedy's proposals for an end to nuclear tests and for general disarmament.

In Canada, Lester B. Pearson, Nobel Peace Prize winner and former U.N. Assembly president, said the speech put the Western world on a peace offensive.

This aspect drew mild criticism from a liberal newspaper in Denmark. The Politiken said the disarmament proposal "reminds one too much of tactics. A nuclear ban is a realistic and important thing. But proposing general nuclear disarmament unrelated to other kinds of disarmament control is either too naive or too smart. Kennedy knows the Soviet Union cannot accept his proposal."

Yet it was Kennedy's disarmament proposals that attracted attention in India, a leader of the nonaligned nations. The Hindustan Times, a supporter of Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party, played up the President's appeal for a nuclear test ban treaty and his step-by-step disarmament plan.

In Sweden, a neutral nation basically friendly to the West, Stockholm's liberal Dagens Nyheter said: "It was a speech written in small letters, a speech free from accusations and threats, a speech which, lacking every tone of aggressiveness, differed as radically as possible from what has been performed by Moscow recently."

In Cairo, the influential morning paper Al Gumbouria said: "Kennedy's speech and Khrushchev's tone in commenting on the recent Belgrade conference of nonaligned nations imply improvement in the international situation."

Cairo's Al Akhbar said: "Kennedy's statement that a solution of the Berlin crisis is not impossible means a lessening in the intensity of the German crisis. The reaction could be a West German loss of confidence in the West."

Western Europe's press generally expressed approval of the speech.

The Laborite Daily Mirror, London's most widely circulated newspaper, hailed it as "the clearest and most forward-looking declaration of Western policy since the cold war began."

Budapest radio complained that he had "mingled in his speech propaganda with anti-Soviet slander."

Vienna's Independent Express, in neutral Austria, interpreted the speech, this way in a headline: "Khrushchev about to win, West concedes in Berlin question."

Other Austrian newspapers did not share that view, however.

Congress Inches To Adjourning

Foreign Aid Money Bill Still Not Ready For Final OK After Deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress inches on today toward adjournment with the foreign aid money bill still not ready for final approval.

House-Senate conferees ended in deadlock Monday night in their effort to resolve differences. One senator reported the conferees were within about $60 million of agreement when the meeting broke up. Originally, the difference between House and Senate bills was more than $500 million.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he would bring up the $1.06 billion supplemental appropriation bill as soon as the Senate met today.

This is the final bill of the session which must pass the Senate and be settled in conference with the House.

Conferees worked out agreement Monday on one of the other two big appropriations bills which have not yet been sent to President Kennedy.

A compromise version of a public works measure carrying nearly $4 billion for rivers and harbors, flood control, reclamation and atomic energy projects is ready for final House and Senate action.

The House slashed more than $1 billion from Kennedy's original requests for foreign aid and appropriated $3,657,500,000. The Senate voted $4,196,600,000 for all forms of military and economic assistance requiring annual appropriation.

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., said the difference had been narrowed to about $60 million when a deadlock developed over how much unused money from last year could be carried over for spending in the present fiscal year.

Another point at issue is whether the $40 million voted by the Senate to finance the Peace Corps should be included in the foreign aid package. The House voted nothing for the Peace Corps, although its Appropriations Committee recommended $20 million, half the total asked by the President.

The House marked time Monday while the Senate disposed of odds and ends.

The Senate ratified two minor treaties on international communications agreements and sent to Kennedy a compromise bill legalizing use of dual freight rate schedules by steamship companies.

Late in the day the Senate turned to the Du Pont tax bill which technically had been a pending business since Saturday.

Sen. John A. Carroll, D-Colo., arguing against passage of the measure at this session, said it would be improper to do so with the matter now pending in a Chicago federal District Court.

This court is to decide how the Du Pont Co. shall carry out a Supreme Court order to get rid of its 63 million shares of General Motors stock.

The pending bill would give tax relief to Du Pont stockholders if the company carries out the divestiture by distributing the GM shares to its stockholders.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., chief sponsor of the bill, insisted that Congress should act now so the Chicago court will know what the tax effect of its final order might be.

N.Y. Is Evicting Relief-Seekers

NEW YORK (AP)—City and state officials are speeding the return to other states and Puerto Rico of families they say come to New York and go on relief but make no attempt to find work.

Peter Kasulis, deputy state welfare commissioner, disclosed Monday that 142 welfare applicants returned — at New York's taxpayers' expense — to their home states and Puerto Rico in the past two months.

Cost Of Living Sees Slight Dip

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of living dipped one-tenth of one per cent in August, the Labor Department announced today, mainly because of plentiful fresh foods at lower cost.

The department said consumer prices have risen one-half of one per cent in the first eight months of this year, "less than during any comparable period since 1955."

This stability was achieved in spite of July's jump of nearly one-half of one per cent which carried the index to a record of 128.1 per cent of the 1947-49 average, used as a base. The downward movement last month brought the level to 128 per cent.

That meant that the typical assortment of goods and services making up the living costs of the average city family cost 28 per cent more in August than in the period immediately after World War II.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the net advance for this year stemmed mainly from steady increases in the cost of used cars and the price of various services including rents, medical care, entertainment costs, and public transportation.

Clague predicted the index will show a rise for September, for two reasons—an increase in used car prices is expected before the arrival of new models on the market, and the introduction of fall clothing lines will boost the apparel index following the late season summer clearance sales.

October's index normally would rise, Clague said, because of new car models selling at or near their list prices. November and December may bring a downward movement as meat prices fall.

Despite the August living costs decline, about 120,000 workers in aircraft and missile plants and small metal-working firms will get cost-of-living pay boosts under wage contracts tied to quarterly changes in the consumer price index. The quarterly index was up .50 per cent.

Some 100,000 employees of North American, Lockheed and Martin aircraft companies will get a cent hourly increase. About 20,000 workers of Republic Aircraft will receive two cents.

The contracts for about 580,000 workers in the steel industry would permit a three-cent increase in hourly pay, but Clague said it is not yet known whether all or part of this increase will go to the workers in cash starting Oct. 1, or will be used up in offsetting the increased costs of insurance for the workers. In December, a three-cent increase was used to cover the insurance rise.

The spendable earnings of factory workers in August were slightly below the record highs of June and July. After deduction of income and Social Security taxes, the average take-home pay of a worker with three dependents was $83.40 a week in August; for a worker with no dependents, $75.79.

Even so, the slight dip in consumer prices brought to factory workers a buying power which was 2½ per cent above a year ago and an August record.

WNCT-TV Directors To Sell Controlling Interest

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer

Directors holding more than 50 per cent of Carolina Broadcasting System, Inc., stock agreed today to sell their shares at $48 each to Roy H. Park Broadcasting, Inc.

Roy H. Park, president of the purchasing company, offered to purchase all of the Greenville-born corporation's 54,414 stock shares for a total of $2,611,872.

President of Carolina Broadcasting Earl McD. Westbrook of Dunn said Park's offer represents "a good deal for the stockholders." He continued: "We feel fortunate to have a man of Mr. Park's ability to operate WNCT and are sure he will continue the fine operation. I feel like it's going into good hands."

The directors who agreed to sell their interests in the corporation recommended that other stockholders also sell their shares to Park.

Park's purchase of the entire corporation is subject to approval by the Federal Communications Commission as well as the remaining stockholders. The FCC maintains a policy of determining, before allowing transfer of a television franchise, whether the new management is adequate and competent.

The offer by Park, a native Tar Heel, represents a sizable capital gain for stockholders. Original investors in 1949 bought a total of 36,276 shares for $10 each. The corporation Jan. 4, 1961, declared a 50 per cent stock dividend.

The corporation owns Greenville television station WNCT and 30 per cent of Wilmington television station WECT.

A. Hartwell Campbell, general manager of WNCT, said today it has not yet been determined whether he will remain in his present position at the station.

"Mr. Park has asked that I consider staying," Campbell said, "but he has not made a firm proposal nor have I given him any firm answer."

Chas. E. Wilson Dies In Sleep

NORWOOD, La. (AP)—Charles Erwin Wilson, secretary of defense in the Eisenhower administration and former president of General Motors, died at his plantation home near here early today. He was 71.

Tom McKenzie, who manages the 4,000-acre plantation, said the coroner listed the time of death about 2:30 a.m., and attributed death to a coronary thrombosis.

Wilson died peacefully, apparently without any pain, McKenzie said. A butler was unable to wake Wilson and summoned help.

Wilson arrived Sept. 18 at the plantation where he raised beef and dairy cattle. He planned to leave for New York about Oct. 1 on business.

Mrs. Wilson, McKenzie said, did not come to Louisiana and was still in Michigan.

Wilson's son, Edward, accompanied him here, but left for Michigan a few days ago.

Wilson complained of a slight case of indigestion Monday night, McKenzie said, and retired early. He rode around the plantation Monday in a station wagon.

USS N. Carolina Now Under Tow

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The battleship USS North Carolina left Bayonne, N.J., under tow this morning for a permanent berth here.

Hugh Morton, chairman of the commission bringing the famed World War II battleship home as a war memorial, said the Moran Towing Co. advised him that the tow began at 9:30 a.m.

Morton said that despite a one-day delay in the beginning of the trip, it is still possible that the battleship will reach Wilmington Sunday in time for the ceremonies scheduled there.

The local television station went on the air Dec. 22, 1953, after applying for a television franchise during 1952. It is affiliated with CBS and ABC. Carolina Broadcasting purchased Greenville radio station WGTC in 1949 when the corporation was formed. It operated the radio station until 1955.

Park is a member of the Ithaca Rotary Club, the New York Chamber of Commerce, the Farm Bureau, Grange, Phi Kappa Phi and Blue Key. He is president of the Tompkins County (N.Y.) United Fund and is a Presbyterian.

His social affiliations include membership in the New York Athletic Club, Cornell Club of New York, Stater Club of Cornell, Ithaca Yacht Club, the Country Club of Ithaca and the Antique Automobile Club.

Eichelberger Dies Early Today

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, 75, commander of the U.S. 8th Army in the Pacific in World War II and former superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., died here early today.

Eichelberger, who guided the "Amphibious 8th" through the long Philippines campaign and later commanded Allied occupation forces in Japan, was hospitalized last Friday. He underwent surgery Monday.

Eichelberger had served as secretary of the general staff of two chiefs of staff of the U.S. Army—Douglas MacArthur and Malin Craig. He was graduated from West Point in 1909.

Eichelberger was given command of the 8th Army in the Pacific Sept. 7, 1944. The 8th subsequently led the Pacific island fighting from Australia to Tokyo.

The 8th was nicknamed "The Amphibious 8th" after Eichelberger led it on 82 amphibious landings in the Philippine Islands campaign alone.

Because of the record of the 8th, Gen. Douglas MacArthur selected it for the invasion of Japan and Eichelberger commanded occupation forces in Japan from 1945 to 1948.

Pitt UF Unit Raises $10,776 In First 4 Days

Pitt United Fund advance gifts division has raised $10,776.56 to date from Greenville firms, executives and employees, W. M. (Booger) Scales, Jr., chairman of the division announced today.

"We are extremely gratified with the enthusiastic responses that we have received during the first four days of our drive," Scales stated. "With these reports from 12 Greenville firms, we are quite hopeful that the Advance Gifts Division can reach its projected goal of $40,000.00."

Four firms have completed their solicitations. They are College View Cleaners and Laundry, Planters National Bank and Trust Company, State Bank and Trust Company, and Wachovia Bank and Trust Company. College View Cleaners increased their overall gift from last year by $834, for a total of $1,234. Planters National Bank and Trust Company gave a total of $772. State Bank and Trust Company pledged a total of $1,240.50 for an increase of $189.70 from last year. Wachovia Bank and Trust Company pledged $2,218. All of the company totals include the firm gift, executive pledges, and employee payroll deductions.

Scales urged all the volunteer salesmen at the report meeting to request increased gifts over last year since Greenville has to raise eight per cent more to meet its fair share objective for the seven major Pitt County Agencies, Carolinas United, and the Greenville Community Chest must raise $5,841.40.

The next report meeting for the Advance Gifts Division will be on Monday, October 2nd at 4:30 p.m. in the Community Room of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company. Scales urged each salesman to see his prospects during these next few days, so that this phase of the drive could finish on schedule. He added that interim reports would be welcomed by the division vice-chairman, John Farley.

Find Slandering Of Gen. Walker

AUGSBURG, Germany (AP)—Reporter Siegfried Naujocks of "Overseas Weekly" was convicted by a German court today of slandering Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker.

The court ordered a fine of 1,200 marks—$300 or 30 days in jail. After three days of testimony the court ruled that Naujocks, a German citizen, slandered Walker in telling three members of Walker's division last December that the general suffered from a brain tumor and that he had seen a medical report proving it. He never produced such a report in court.

U.S. Army doctors who examined Walker at the time testified no brain tumor was ever found.

Local Gas Price War Is Being Felt In Winterville

Gasoline prices fell another cent today as the local price war spread into Winterville.

Major company distributors reported regular-grade gasoline was on retail sale today for 16.9 cents per gallon—the lowest yet since prices began to tumble in August.

Most companies made the 16.9 rate for regular effective late Monday. Others dropped their price to that level this morning.

While the duration of the low prices was indefinite, distributors had varying opinions.

M. E. Sutton, president of Sutton's Service Center, Greenville distributor for American petroleum products, said today the end to the price war may come at any time. "It wouldn't surprise me any hour," he said.

In addition to American and ESSO, other major company outlets, including Sun, Gulf and Shell, also dropped their regular-grade gasoline price to 16.9 cents per gallon Monday.

Instructors returning to the center are Mrs. Marilyn Gordley, Wesley Crawley and Tom Mims. Others include Robert Schmitz, Forrest Matheson and Mrs. James Picklen and Mrs. Harold Hoke who will teach "creative stitching."

A class of "Self-Help" painters will have no instructor.

Those interested in any of the above classes have been urged to register early to insure development of the class of their choice. Mrs. Bernard Jackson, director, said registration is open on Tuesday between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., or on Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30.

Mrs. Speight will instruct an advanced painting class on Thursday evenings. This class is for the student who has had previous training in drawing or painting.

A prize-winning artist, Mrs. Speight has won two Cresson European Traveling Scholarships and in 1941 won the Mary Smith Annual Exhibition Prize at Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. In 1958 she won the Annual Exhibition Prize at Woodmere Gallery, Chestnut Hill, Pa., and last year she won the first prize and gold medal award in the Professional Artists Class at Pennsylvania National Exhibition at Lionier Valley, Pa.

Mrs. Speight, who paints under her maiden name of Sara Blacklee, is represented in the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa. She has shown many times with her husband, who recently became artist-in-residence at East Carolina College.

The art seminar is a new idea being put into practice at the center and will be conducted Wednesday evenings from 8 until 9 o'clock by Crawley, of the E.C.C. art faculty. The seminar is designed to appeal to all who are interested in art appreciation and will consist of lectures, slides, reading references and group discussions.

Crawley, an accomplished sculptor, studied at the University of Oregon and has taught art appreciation and sculpture. His work has been shown on the West Coast and locally. He prefers to work realistically, rather than abstractly, and therefore has a sympathetic understanding "of those of us who don't quite understand abstract art," Mrs. Jackson said.

Mims, also of the E.C.C. art faculty, will instruct the drawing class scheduled for Thursday evenings. This course is designed primarily for beginners, with emphasis on basic drawing, using the media of charcoal, pencil, ink and pastels. It is a preparatory class for advanced drawing, painting and printmaking.

Mims is a graduate of East Carolina College and has been teaching there for the past two years.

The ceramics class will be offered Thursday evenings, also, with Schmitz as instructor. Schmitz was the recipient of the Scholarship Award made possible by the sale of pottery at the Sidewalk Art Show last May. He used the award to study ceramics this past summer at Pennsylvania State University.

Schmitz plans to do his graduate study next year at the Cleveland Institute of Arts. He has exhibited both locally and in his home state of Pennsylvania. His senior exhibit will be shown in the Kate Lewis Gallery between Oct. 27 and Nov. 9. The class in ceramics is intended to help the beginner use clay and glazes for decorative and utilitarian purposes. Slab and coil methods will be used primarily.

Daytime classes in drawing and painting will be taught by Mrs. Gordley, with drawing on Wednesday from 2-3 p.m. and painting on Thursdays from 1:30-3:30 p.m.

Mrs. Gordley has studied at Washington University in St. Louis, and received her degree of Masters of Fine Arts from the University of Oklahoma. She has done graduate study toward her doctorate at Ohio State University. Her work has been shown and purchased in North Carolina, Virginia and the Midwest.

Classes will be held for children over eight years of age on Saturdays from 10-11 a.m. with Matheson as instructor. Matheson's major interests are ceramics and sculpture. These areas will be included in this term for children.

A native of Statesville, Va., Matheson is a graduate of Mitchell College and has studied art at East Carolina College for two years. His senior exhibit will be in the Kate Lewis Gallery in December.

Mrs. Picklen and Mrs. Hoke will conduct the class in creative stitching, which will meet Wednesday at 10 a.m.

The "Self-Help" painters will continue to meet on Wednesday mornings at 9 o'clock.

A tuition fee of $8 for the eight-week session will be charged for most classes, with the exception of the children's class which will be $4 and the two-hour painting classes which will be $12. Students will furnish their own materials except for the children's class and the adult ceramics class. A membership card or fee of $1 will be required for each term.

Students will be encouraged to use the facilities of the Greenville Art Center during the hours the center is open to the public, Tuesdays through Saturdays, from

We Should Not Undermine Future

As top United States officials seek diligently for a reasonable basis for negotiations with the Soviets on the questions of Germany and Berlin, they should make sure that their position does not become a basis for capitulation to the Soviets on these important questions.

The obvious signs that the United States and the Soviet Union are both moving toward negotiations on the questions of Berlin and Germany cannot be denied. Khrushchev is said to have dropped the year-end deadline for the signing of a peace treaty between the Soviet Union and East Germany. This removes one of the great obstacles to the negotiations in that it indicates a greater desire by the Soviets not to allow the crisis to come to an abrupt showdown. It likewise affords the Western powers an opportunity to enter negotiations without seeming to submit to the Soviet ultimatum.

On the other hand, reports from Washington and East Germany that American officials have indicated that communist East Germany has become a fact of life that must be recognized—at least for the present—suggests at least a softening if not an abrupt change in the U.S. position on the matter of a divided Germany.

Collectively these and other factors that are coming to light suggest that at least East and West will be able to agree on some basis for negotiating on the German and Berlin questions.

Notwithstanding the great desire on the part of the West to avoid conflict in these pending crises, it is important that we not overlook the fact that the Berlin and German situations represent battles in the cold war . . . not the entire cold war itself. We would be foolish indeed to expect that if this crisis can be settled through negotiation there will not be other crisis in the future. We can ill afford to give in on vital points for the sake of settling a question when such capitulation will only serve to whet the Soviet appetite and prompt additional unreasonable demands in the future.

The United States should make every reasonable effort to settle the crisis through negotiations with the Soviets, but we should not at the same time undermine our own position and that of our allies, and thus place ourselves and the entire free world in greater jeopardy in the future.

There's A Price In Publicizing

By LYNN NISBET

COSTLY—The announcement by President Kennedy that he would not appoint Malcolm Seawell to be a Federal district judge, months after the two Senators from North Carolina had recommended him, emphasizes the "cost" in prestige—and often in business—to persons whose prospects for public office have been widely publicized. It is an open secret that during the past several months several clients who had considered Seawell as an attorney, and some who had used him in minor cases, turned to other places for legal counsel when it appeared that Seawell would go on the bench. The monetary loss probably was not great so far, but the preliminary work must all be gone through again with other clients.

Then when the long-delayed announcement came that Seawell would not be named, and at the same time news stories suggesting that the reason was opposition of organized labor, the effects is bound to be embarrassing to whoever gets the appointment. The natural conclusion will be that the new man is friendly, or at least acceptable, to labor, and that labor leaders might feel they have some claim on him by reason of being indirectly responsible for his appointment.

The long delay in making the announcement perhaps was not intended by the President to be embarrassing either to the man turned down or to the man appointed, or to the two United States Senators whose wishes were ignored. Whatever the intent, the effect is certain to be a degree of embarrassment for all of them—and with no compensating prestige for the executive. TEACHERS—A half dozen or more county school superintendents have been asked during the past week if they had been able to get all the teachers allotted under the "quality" program. In every instance the answer has been yes, but with slight qualification. We have all the teachers to which we are entitled, was the usual answer, but some of them are not certified for the positions they hold. One superintendent elaborated a bit on the qualification, and said he hoped that through attendance at workshop courses and other booster efforts the shortage in certification requirements could be made up.

One superintendent who had not filled all the allotments for his schools said he would not until he could get the "quality" teachers which the new salary schedule contemplated. Dr. Charles Carroll, state superintendent, said that the usual survey would be made at end of the first month of the school term, which is just about now, to ascertain all such facts as enrollment, average daily attendance, teacher-pupil load, classroom congestion, typed of certificates held by each teacher and other pertinent data.

When the survey is tabulated and studied, probably around the first of December, the State Board of Education will be able to determine whether its efforts to meet requirements of the "quality" program have been successful. Admission that many teachers have been employed on assignments for which they are not certificated raises question whether full effort has been given to quality or if the old program of quality is still controlling.

Board Cannot Ignore The Final Authority

The question of policy-making by the State Board of Awards which came up pointedly in the tiff over purchase of 30 "whammies" authorized by the legislature has been smoothed over with the reluctant approval of the purchase by the Board.

Left unresolved, however, is the question of whether on some future occasion that Board of Awards might take it upon itself to decide whether the expressed wishes of the legislature will be carried out in connection with purchases of items for which the legislature appropriated funds.

The Board of Awards twice balked at approving the purchase of the whammies for which the legislature appropriated funds. Apparently the balking did not center around a question of the price at which the instruments were offered, but rather the more fundamental question of whether or not they should be purchased by the state. Gov. Sanford sought to soft-pedal the controversy over the "whammies", apparently with the view of using the soft sell on the board rather than demanding that they purchase the items for which the funds had been appropriated.

One of the primary functions of the Board of Awards is to see that state funds are properly and wisely spent when it comes to purchases, but there should be no question of whether the authority of the board over whether or not an item should be purchased should exceed the authority of the legislature. Properly it is the duty of the Board of Awards to carry out policies set by the legislature; not to thwart the carrying out of policies expressed by legislative action.

More And More Services Today

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Services are the fastest growing portions of the economy and today take about 40 cents of every dollar consumers spend. They have provided the biggest increase in the number of jobs. Also they have accounted for much of the rise in the cost of living.

Indications that consumers will pay more than $140 billion this year for all types of services leave some businessmen far from happy. They are the makers of hard goods, like autos and appliances, and the merchants who sell both hard and soft goods.

Their worry: If the consumer spends more and more on services, there is less of his spendable dollar left to go for goods. But many of the services owe their very being to making and sale of these goods. For example, when you buy a home appliance you please some utility company as well as the merchant and the appliance maker.

You'll be using the services of someone to install the appliance, and in time you're likely to use a repair man. Also you may need the services of a financing company when you buy a car or a major appliance.

There's another side to it, as noted today by the economics department of the Chase Manhattan Bank, New York. When you buy an appliance you may be cutting down on the need of some services. Example: The declining importance of domestic service workers. Or when you buy a car, you may cut further into the need for intercity rail and bus transportation.

Since 1946 consumer prices as a whole have gone up 52 per cent while the average rise in the service component has been 65 per cent. Department of Labor statistics show a wide variance in the rise of service prices in the last 14 years. Electricity rates on average have risen 11 per cent, while the cost of a hospital room has gone up 205 per cent.

Commerce Department figures show Americans spent $19.6 billion last year for household operations, including electricity, phone, gas and water charges, domestic service and miscellaneous expenses.

Another $20.6 billion went for interest paid on nonmortgage debt, life insurance, legal, investment and bank fees.

Medical service accounted for $16.2 billion. Outlays for hospital care went up most, followed by payments for medical insurance.

Transportation took $10.5 billion; recreation $6.4 billion; personal appearance $6.1 billion; religion and welfare $4.7 billion; private education $4.5 billion; and foreign travel $2.6 billion.

In the last 14 years the fastest growing item was interest on nonmortgage debt.

Thus Mr. Seawell joins the ranks of another injustice, Judge John J. Parker, one of the nation's great legal minds. His appointment to the Supreme court was blocked by organized labor. This was a tragedy for the nation. For Judge Parker's judicial judgement was needed on of some services. Example: The declining importance of domestic service workers. Or when you buy a car, you may cut further into the need for intercity rail and bus transportation.

Heads, You Lose—

By HENRY HOWARD

Faced The Issue In '75

President Kennedy's address to the United Nations Monday was, as it should have been, a powerful oratory. Basically, it reflected what should be the attitude of free men around the world; and in particular, Americans.

The tone of his address was both unyielding and conciliatory. He conveyed the agreement of America that all existing freedom of men should be preserved and that all possible, practicable means should be employed, and would be by this country to that end.

The President made it quite clear to the 99 nations that the American ideal would stand as a firm obstacle in the path of ever-rampant Communism. He should attempt to gobble up more human liberty.

In the face of the gravest of crises since it all began, the free man at least every day. It's a perplexity to him, mainly because he feels so insignificant a part of his way of life.

But can he afford to toss the matter aside, throw up his hands and call it a day? Certainly not. He must continue with the usual—and, rather, renewed and intensified—vigil of his daily task. It's a simple matter of observation that his daily task is indeed a vital part of his way of life, and therefore, the American way.

A rather crude but also rather true example: Suppose each molecule, or whatever they are, comprising a powerful drug decided with resignation to relax. How effective could the dosage be?

In focusing attention on the current and most trying crisis yet to face us, President Kennedy read in and between the lines of his address an issue that may well reach, sooner or later, each of us personally.

Americans—even before they cut the strings whose loose ends tied together the United States—faced the issue. In a document adopted July 6, 1775 in Philadelphia, the Second Continental Congress declared:

... most solemnly, before God and the world, that, exerting the utmost energy of those powers, which our most beneficent Creator hath graciously bestowed upon us, the arms we have been compelled by our enemies to assume, we will in defiance of every hazard, with unabating firmness and perseverance, employ for the preservation of our liberties; being with one mind resolved to dye Freemen rather than to live Slaves."

This document is as new as it is old. It embraces the purpose that has constituted the solid foundation of American liberty. To forsake this purpose would be to forsake American liberty.

The ever-fiercer battle between Democracy and Communism should not bring weakness to the side that champions human freedom. Rather, it should instill renewed determination to prevail. Because although it is man's greatest earthly struggle, it is also his greatest challenge.

It was reported that during Franklin Roosevelt's last campaign, when he was on the way to the West coast something came up as to the selection of his running mate, the Vice-President. And President Roosevelt replied, "Clear it with Walter Reuther."

Has this time arrived in North Carolina? But labor's vengeance is another thing. And having to be "cleared" by any group is carrying political manipulation and expediency too far. There is another powerful group, the fair minded public.

Other Editors Saying Labor Blocked Seawell

(The Wilson Times) An unimpeachable record as attorney general, the endorsement of the two senators from North Carolina, Senator Sam Ervin and Senator Everett Jordan, the support of Secretary of Commerce, Luther Hodges, was not enough to overcome the opposition of organized labor to the appointment of Malcolm E. Seawell to the federal bench.

In other words President Kennedy followed the recommendation of labor, or as the news release said the President bowed to opposition from "powerful labor leaders." It is reliably reported that William Polk, general president of the Textile Workers Union of America, protested the Seawell appointment.

The reason organized labor was so determined in its opposition stems from the cases coming from the Henderson strike. Labor objects to the Seawell "temperament." Regardless of what you call it, temperament or justice, the prosecutions and convictions of some of the labor union members involved in the Henderson strike have never been successfully disproven.

Lynn Nisbet said in his column Friday, "that a check of the records show that Seawell had far less to do with that case than his labor opponents indicate."

Thus Mr. Seawell joins the ranks of another injustice, Judge John J. Parker, one of the nation's great legal minds. His appointment to the Supreme court was blocked by organized labor. This was a tragedy for the nation. For Judge Parker's judicial judgement was needed on

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

TRUE WISDOM—Have you ever come in contact with a highly educated person who hadn't a grain of sense in his head? This often happens, and we never encounter such a situation without being filled with incredulity and wonder. How can it be that people who know so much often turn out to have no real wisdom at all?

Information and wisdom are two entirely different matters. A person may become a walking encyclopedia of knowledge. He may become a computing machine on legs. He may have read all the books in the library twice, yet still know nothing.

Wisdom is more than mere information. Wisdom is the capacity to use information or knowledge. Some of the great leaders in every century have been of meager education. They had few facts at their disposal, but they had a wonderful capacity to put into practical use the information they had. These people were truly, and are truly, wise.

No college diploma ever made anybody wise. The diploma signifies that a person has absorbed certain information. That person will be wise or foolish depending upon the capacity he manifests upon the capacity he manifests and develops to use whatever information he has. He may be surpassed by people who have no diplomas at all. Wisdom is the capacity to use learning.

Let us get as much learning as we can, but in our getting let us make sure that we are developing the capacity to use such learning constitutes wisdom.

Lots Of Fun In Business World

Trials Are A Bother

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

In the record of the General Walker case appears the following paragraph of a statement by the Acting Judge Advocate:

"Although the file does contain an overall indication of Hatch Act and related violations, the detailed evidence in this respect is not developed, and it is noted that many of the witnesses, at the time of the investigation, were already claiming recollection difficulties. It is obvious that any trial for such violations would be a most difficult and prolonged undertaking. It is a trial with intense and emotional publicity, certainly unfavorable to the government, at least in part. A conviction would be by no means a certain result, and even if a conviction were obtained the sentence would probably amount to not more than a reprimand in view of General Walker's brilliant combat record and sincerity of purpose in attempting to fight communism."

This is, indeed, a curious argument. A trial would be costly as all trials are. It would be embarrassing as most trials are. It would develop mass emotions which such trials do. Also there is no guarantee of conviction. Therefore, admonish General Walker; smear him; make him appear to be a madman; but keep him on the job. Apparently then there would be no excitement and no publicity. Surely whoever received this testimony after 922 pages of testimony was taken from 40 witnesses and exhibits were introduced, deserves to be taken out of a position where he can ruin men of valor. How is it possible to maintain the morale of our armed forces if such cases as that of General Billy Mitchell, General Douglas MacArthur, General Walker are examples set before officers?

Senator Harry Byrd thought that the 922 pages of testimony in the General Walker case made public. Senator Byrd said that the public should know about it.

According to Secretary of Defense McNamara:

"There are, to the best of my knowledge, no restrictions other than I think the restriction that any responsible officer of our Military Establishment would recognize a restriction of good judgement and restraint in a period of tension and crisis in the world. But, to the best of my knowledge, there are no specific written instructions."

That is so. How is an officer to know what is permissible and what is verboten? If a general is required to indoctrinate his troops against the enemy, what is he not to say? What is good judgement about Karl Marx, Stalin or even Khrushchev?

Did General Walker exceed his responsibility and authority? It could not be if the testimony of Secretary McNamara, before the Senate Armed Services Committee is correct. The Secretary said:

"The responsibility for the training of the troops is with the local commanders. They are given considerable latitude in developing specific training programs to fit the needs of their personnel and their environment."

"What I have to say will be somewhat more general in character and might respond directly to your question because these programs will vary rather substantially as between commands and as between services."

In other words, General Walker could use his own judgement within the margins of good taste. However, it was brought out that speeches with foreign policy implication go to the State Department for approval. How is it possible for a military man to give his troops an anti-Communist indoctrination course without saying something negative about Soviet Russia or Red China? The censors in the State Department are Phillip H. Burris, Director of the Office of Policy Plans and Guidance, who reports to Assistant Secretary of State Roger Tubby. The theory of this operation is that military men may talk out of turn, might say things which could do harm, particularly during a period of delicate negotiations.

But the question must arise as to who does the censoring. Is the censor a competent person? Is he himself sufficiently informed to censor a man like Admiral Burke, for instance?

This question was brought to a climax when Senator Thurmond asked:

Archibald Richardson Johnston, 49 of 103 Richardson St., Winterville was arrested on charges of hit-and-run driving and operating under the influence of alcohol here last night. The charges, according to officers, stem from a Friday night collision near the intersection of Dickinson Ave. and Center St.

Officers said Johnston's vehicle allegedly struck a car operated by James Blake Smith, 18, of 427 West Fourth St., Friday, causing a total of about $25 damage. The Winterville man was taken into custody about 7:15 p.m. last night at the intersection of Center and Broad Sts. on the charges, by Pitt Deputy Sheriff W. M. Forrest.

Boone Tells Lions Of Football Changes

Jack Boone, head football coach of East Carolina College, says that mobility and speed are the essence of modern-day football. Speaking to members of the Greenville Lions Club, Boone said, "Due to college entrance exams, the type of boys now playing college football are quite different from those of 10 years ago. The players now must be able to move and think."

The coach reviewed some of the highlights of the East Carolina-Guilford game played last Saturday, stating "Our punting game and extra point game were excellent. They enabled us to win the game."

Boone gave a rundown of the roster of East Carolina players pointing out the individual abilities of many of his squad members. He paid special tribute to quarterback Dan Rouse and tackle Clayton Piland as two of his key men. Larry Rudisill, Richard Jackson and Gene Eisenhour, according to Boone, have the finest potential seen in many years.

Accompanying Boone was Odel Welborn, a member of the coaching staff, who reviewed some of the rules governing college football. In referring to the substitution rules, Welborn said, "It is quite a problem and requires a lot of paper work on the sidelines," he said also that many larger schools now are employing

If it is left to each general officer, then he should conclusions different from those of the State Department or Pentagon censors.

Lion In The Hills

By JOHN B. PRESCOTT

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
Motherless, lonely young Alec Temple had expected with excitement the company of his father in Alec's first rousing experience after coming West to join the father, a U. S. Forest Ranger officer. Claude Temple was "too busy" again to go with his son in the latter's introduction to hunting down mountain lions. Instead, Alec is with old Sam Fellows, who has a pack of hounds for trailers. They prey is a lion that has been killing stock in night raids on ranches.

treed by the dogs, but disappointment followed: the dead lion was not the male they sought, but a female. The male had purposely mingled his scent with the lionesses to confuse the hounds and escape them. Sam deduced the lioness had nursing cubs and left some behind.

CHAPTER 2

The trail was slower now. Sam Fellows walked with the dogs, no longer riding. The mule trailed Sandy on a line that Alec Temple held, and Sam led the way, the hounds on their chains and their minds held on the work at hand. Alec wished they'd move faster, but Sam had said that a back trail was a troublesome thing for hounds to deal with.

Sam was doing what he called "right-trailing now": bending stooping, going from side to side to study broken sprigs of brush, looking for snagged fur and the prints of the hounds. Also, now and then he'd find a mark of the lioness—but not too many, for lions, as he pointed out, preferred stepping on stone, when they could, rather than on earth. They seemed to know that earth held their scent longer than stone.

"I've had hounds that wore their noses raw on stone," he said as they crossed a ledge where the dogs moved along like vacuum cleaners.

Then, at a point near the canyon mouth, Sam discovered the prints of all four of the she'llion's feet set in moist ground. "Notice the forepaws," he said, "getting on his hands and knees. Whenever the marks are firm and well shaped, you know the lion is young. An old one leaves a flatter mark, the toes not so rounded."

Alec bent over to watch Sam trace the delicate marks with his finger. He was aware of learning something important and valuable; but he was thinking of the cubs, too, wishing that Sam would keep moving.

To Alec's relief, there were no more delays until they reached the canyon mouth. There they stopped to find the tom's sign. Sam was taking no chances now, and he took the dogs off on a careful search for the mouth.

Left waiting with the mounts, Alec grew anxious again, but less than five minutes passed before the dogs, in one voice, exploded into baying. And, a breath later, Sam's shout, sounding beyond a manzanita thicket a hundred yards out, came down to him: "We're on it again! Bring up the mounts, boy! Let's go!"

If Alec had been aware of wildness before he felt its presence here twice over what he'd felt in the open.

There, with space around him, the cliffs lifted distantly; but here they crashed upward beyond a thousand feet on both sides. Seen from below, the remote heights seemed almost joined, with the sky a narrow ribbon of blue that turned and twisted like creek water.

Trapped by the sheer, close-pressing walls, the belling of the dogs seemed to come from everywhere. The was much rougher than it had been earlier. The canyon was choked and strewn with rubble and shattered rock that rain and ice and sun had split away from above and cast down. By the time the morning shadows had slid down the western wall and begun to back off over the floor, they'd gone about three miles, Sam thought. But they couldn't tell much else. From all surrounding, when the dogs had been freed, the baying had turned deceptive. So many turns and twists and changes in elevation lay between them and the trailing riders that the sound was fluky.

Just ahead, the canyon made a hairpin turn. On their left, an elbow of rock came out so high and broad that they could not see beyond it. Here the baying sounded more like something imagined than really heard. But, on rounding this elbow, it broke out in a wild, ringing din, directly in their faces.

Then, as he stared blindly around, he saw the hounds high on the cliff of the west wall. Climbing over the broken spill and torn face of the rock, they made slow, doubtful headway. But their baying was tremendous.

"There they are!" he said. But Sam had seen them, too. He sat easily on Jock, relaxed, as if all that could be done had been done.

"I expect the tom topped out up there," he said. "Looks like the end of the line for us." "The dogs are going up," Alec said. "These mounts ain't dogs." Sam settled himself more comfortably. "They'd hardly get five feet above the floor here."

But Alec didn't want to give up yet. "Couldn't we go aloft?"

"Ain't you got a little respect for age?" Sam said; and then, as Alec tried to measure the glint in his eye, the baying grew still louder, until it beat upon them in waves.

On the face of the cliff the dogs lunged on with fresh spirit. "They're close to something," Alec said. "I'll bet it's the cubs."

"Don't expect too much," Sam said. "If the tom took her backtrail far enough, he's got them by now. Old toms eat the young of their kind."

Nothing on earth just then seemed to matter more to Alec than the fate of the cubs. Dead or not, he must know of them. He touched Sandy's flanks to guide her toward a runty cedar across the canyon. He knew that he could never leave this wild place until he'd found out. He kept moving ahead, and Sam joined him.

Halting at the tree, they dismounted and looped their reins on a branch. The climb turned out easier than it had looked. Rather than sheer, as thought from a distance, the cliff had in some past time broken free and now was sloping, steep yet, but with plenty of footing.

Then, all at once, the cry of the hounds changed. "It's the cubs!" Alec said, and he began to move faster. "Take it easy!" Sam said, moving on, but slowly. "That first step down is close to eight hundred feet!"

To Alec, wondering what had happened ahead, the slow pace grew agonizing. As he came upon a mass, he began to see a broad ledge. And, as he came onto it, the dogs appeared, all four clustered together at a low recess in the wall and belling like mad.

He saw what they'd found that drove them to a frenzy: the tatters of light, spotted hide, the pieces of bone scattered out in the grim drench of blood—all small, of cub size.

Quickly he turned away. Then he ordered his eyes to return. Sam now came up, having taken his time. He still took his time; he'd known what they'd find, hurry or not. But his glance at Alec was appraising.

Then he pulled at his jeans. "I guess we couldn't expect much else," he said. "No," Alec said, and he seemed to speak at a distance. It was all for nothing, he was thinking, after all.

"In the long run," Sam said, "it may be best. It beats starving."

"I suppose so," Alec said; but he was angry all at once with Sam's easy acceptance. But in the next thought he knew he was being unreasonable—that, in Sam's eyes, this was the nature of things.

But the nature of things was wrong then. He took a step toward the hollow, but Sam held him back. He was watching the dogs now, and stepped forward himself. "They're acting like they got a live one in there."

If you were Executive Vice-President... Where would you build your new plant?

Many factors would influence your decision. Supply of labor, whether skilled or unskilled, transportation facilities, closeness to supplies of manufacturing materials, accessibility to your markets, wage scales, land availability and cost, and costs of construction.

One added set of crucial factors would be important. Is this community a place your officers, superintendents and your employees and their wives would like to come to live? How are the schools—is there a modern hospital—are the shopping areas modern—is there a library—a college—an art museum—how is the hunting, fishing, boating, swimming? All these and a multitude of other facilities would be of concern to you.

Then there are other surprising, intangible human personal interests. One executive came here recently wearing a scout emblem on his lapel. He was as much interested in our scouting program as he was plant sites. Another told us one of his men in his plant would be one with a special child. He was impressed to learn of our school for trainable children, these and a multitude of other facilities would be of concern to you.

Two things every single industry representative has asked: (1) Do you have a United Fund? (2) Do you reach your goal? The types of new industry which our county would want all ask these questions.

Support our United Fund. It answers a great need. It helps our community grow.

Coaches Discuss Class A FB At Touchdown Meet

Richmond And VMI Battle Saturday

Two terrific halfbacks will vie in Richmond Friday night in a personal duel whose outcome could go a long way toward determining the complexion of this year's Southern Conference football race.

The backs are Stinson Jones of VMI and All-Southern Earl Stoudt of Richmond, and they will carry heavy responsibilities when VMI opens defense of its conference championship against the dangerous Spiders.

Both Jones and Stoudt are fast runners, both are glue-fingered pass receivers, and both excel, as well, on defense.

Even in defeat, those two are standouts, as witness what happened last Saturday. In a 22-0 de-

By GEORGE BRYANT
Reflector Sports Writer

The two Pitt County football coaches, Albert Moyer of Farmville and Stuart Tripp of Ayden, discussed the trials and tribulations of class A ball last night before the weekly meeting of the Rose High Touchdown Club.

Moyer told the club that his team was made up of four freshmen who play regularly, two juniors, and five seniors, one of which is playing football for the first time. "Thus the other four seniors are the only real 'top notch' players I have and are the nucleus of the team," he added.

One of these four seniors drives a bus, Moyer said, so the practice schedule must be set up around him. The team usually begins practicing about 4:45 or 5 p.m. because it is necessary that the bus driver be there.

The Farmville coach added that mothers of the players give him the most trouble. "I have mothers call and say Junior has a cold or has to mow the grass," Moyer said. Many of the parents in the area do not really understand football and thus support is not what it should be, he added. "Of course when it comes to basketball and baseball everyone is for it."

Another problem which is common in the class A schools, according to the coaches, is getting enough boys on the team. At the present Moyer has 17 or 18 at practice every day which is not enough for a scrimmage. Occasionally Moyer and his assistant, Robert Bruce, have to take part in a scrimmage session. Coach Tripp said he has 15 boys who he can count on to do a good job in a ball game. He added that he does very little scrimmaging because the team can not afford to have a boy hurt during a practice session.

Moyer told the group his team (injured knee) were among the ailing at West Virginia, though they joined the rest of the team in light workouts.

No. 2 fullback Charley Reed was on the shelf with an injured heel at George Washington as the Colonials prepared for Furman with drills emphasizing pass defense and offense.

Quarterback Ben Coxton was counted out for a month with an injured shoulder at Davidson. Another sophomore, Earl Cole, took this place in the No. 1 unit.

finished the '60 season with 15 boys on the squad and three of them had sprained ankles. However, he added that the last game they played last season was the best one played all year.

Tripp said that Ayden was the smallest school in the conference when it came to getting boys for the football team. "We have to scrape the bottom of the barrel to get good players," he added. Of course, he commented that the past couple of seasons have been successful at Ayden.

The Ayden coach told the group that his players must be versatile. One game a boy might play at guard and the next game will see him in the backfield. As to formations, Tripp said he uses which ever seems to go the best at the time. "Some nights the T-formation works well for us and the next game it might be the single wing with an unbalanced line."

Tripp said that to him, the main thing in class A football is speed and desire. "This combination can win games," he added. The veteran Ayden mentor also stated that he has seen football mold a boy into a much better citizen than he would have been otherwise. In one case he said a boy who was more or less a "delinquent" in his sophomore year in school turned out to be one of the finest seniors at the school. "This was due to his interest in football," the coach said.

At the end of the meeting Rose High Coach Bud Phillips told the group that he was pleased with the Friday night performance of his team against the Red Devils of Kingston. "I thought they showed the best team effort so far this year," he added.

In commenting on the coming week's game with the Pam Pack of Washington Phillips said that he understood they practiced Saturday in order to get the jump on the Phantoms. "They are fired up and will be seeking revenge from last year when we met them Friday night," he added.

However, he said that his team should be in the best physical shape this season by Friday. All of the minor injuries should be healed up and John Adams will probably be able to play again, according to the Phantom skipper. Adams has been out the past week with a knee injury.

Before adjourning the meeting, films of the Kingston game were shown to those members who wanted to stay.

NCS Reviews Sat. Loss To Wyoming

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina State, billed as a hot passing team in the Atlantic Coast Conference, reviewed its loss to Wyoming Monday while fans and players shook their heads over the irony that it was a "pass" which led to the 15-14 heartbreaker.

With the passing arm of quarterback Roman Gabriel drawing so much acclaim, it was a snap from center Oscar Overcash back to would-be punter Dave Houtz for their second victory of the week which helped the Cowboys slip by their second victory of the young season.

Overcash flipped the ball over the head of Houtz into the temporary stands behind the goal post at Laramie, counting as a third quarter safety for Wyoming. Until then State had led 14-6.

Quarterback Gabriel put on a dazzling first half show, guiding State to a 14-6 halftime lead by completing 10 of 22 passes. But because of Wyoming's second half ball control he got few chances after intermission.

Coach Earle Edwards wasn't particularly worried about passing of any kind. His explanation for the loss was simple: "They stopped us on the ground and we didn't stop them."

At Chapel Hill, N.C., North Carolina held a light and short workout, preparing for its opener Saturday with N.C. State.

South Carolina worked out lightly Monday and watched movies of the Duke game it lost Saturday night 7-6. End Conley Taylor, who was operated on for a knee injury, was dismissed from the hospital. He'll be out until near the end of the season.

The Gamecocks meet Wake Forest Saturday night at Winston-Salem, N.C.

Wake's Assistant Coach Dick Hunter warned his team, still weary from its 31-0 defeat at the hands of a hustling Baylor team last Saturday, that they'd see more hustle when they meet South Carolina Saturday.

Duke Coach Bill Murray also listened to reports from scouts who saw the rejuvenated Cavaliers of Virginia beat William and Mary 21-6. Assistant Coach Bob Cox said Virginia has a heavy and experienced line and is capable of winning from any team in the ACC.

At Clemson, Coach Frank Howard took his first two teams through details of defenses that he plans to use Saturday against Maryland. Clemson lost a tough one last Saturday to Florida 21-17.

Meanwhile, at College Park, Md., Coach Tom Nugent, put his Maryland football team through offensive and defensive drills to prepare for the Clemson battle Saturday.

Virginia started practice for their Tobacco Festival game with the Blue Devils of Duke in Richmond Saturday.

Al Lopez Signs One Year Contract With White Sox

CHICAGO (AP)—Al Lopez, the only manager to crack New York Yankee pennant superiority since 1948, will pilot the Chicago White Sox for the sixth consecutive season in 1962.

Lopez, 53, signed a one-year contract Monday after suffering the worst finish of his managerial career. The Sox will wind up fourth this year.

Last year they finished third. Previous to last season, no team managed by Lopez, a former National League catcher, had finished lower than second.

Lopez won pennants with the Cleveland Indians in 1954 and the White Sox in 1959. His one burning ambition is to manage a team to a world championship, something he failed to achieve in 1954 and again in 1959.

In signing Lopez to what is believed to be a $50,000 contract, General Manager Ed Short said, "I am delighted that Al has decided to remain with the White Sox. I consider him the best manager in baseball and I hope he stays with us a long, long time."

The New York Mets and the Baltimore Orioles had been reported interested in Lopez's services as manager. Lopez said neither club had approached him.

Although the Sox are 20 games off the pace in the American League race, Lopez feels his club can be a solid contender in 1962.

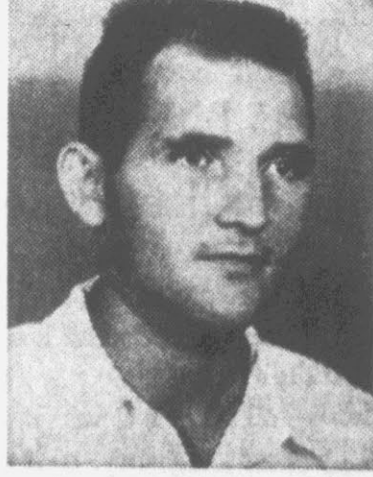

"I was disappointed this season," he said. "I thought we had a much better club. With a little luck and some pitching help, we'll be in fine shape next year."

10 places where homes can waste heat and money. Shell Heating Oil specialists tell you how to avoid this waste and cut winter heat bills.

HOW TO CUT HEAT BILLS:

Shell suggests 10 ways to save on heat bills this winter—and tells how today's Shell Heating Oil can help you do it Right now is the time to start saving on this winter's heat bills. Here are 10 tips from Shell Heating Oil specialists to help you reduce heat loss this year.

SHELL RECENTLY completed a revealing survey of oil-heated homes. It disclosed that the average home was wasting fuel needlessly—oil burners were operating at less than 75 per cent efficiency.

Starting with your oil burner, and moving around the house, here are some tips to help you save on heat bills.

1. Tune up your oil burner. Your burner, like your car, needs periodic attention. To help save on fuel bills you should have your burner cleaned and adjusted regularly. A professional should do the work for you. The cost is nominal and you can save quite a bit in fuel bills.

Your Shell Heating Oil dealer can clean and adjust your burner himself—or recommend someone who can.

2. Use a clean-burning oil. All heating oils are not alike. Today, there are significant differences between heating oils which can affect your fuel and repair bills.

One of the most dramatic differences:

FOA-5X,® an exclusive additive in today's Shell Heating Oil. FOA-5X helps Shell Heating Oil stay remarkably clean and stable. Shell with FOA-5X helps guard against harmful deposits which could distort the flame in your burner and waste heat. Today's Shell Heating Oil burns with a hot, radiant flame like the one on the right, below.

Shell Heating Oil, in an efficient burner, can reduce fuel bills significantly.

Check with your Shell Heating Oil dealer.

3. Check the location of your thermostat. Your thermostat should be located in a place that insures that no room of your house is overheated and none is overheated. There is no hard-and-fast rule about where to install a thermostat. But there are certain places that a thermostat should never be:

- On an outer wall. Cold can seep through the wall from outside and fool your thermostat. This may cause your burner to work overtime.

- In a bathroom, kitchen or hallway. The temperature in these areas is subject to rapid change.
- Near TV, lamps, chimney or other sources of heat.
- In the direct line of sunshine.

• At the foot of a stairway. Air circulation up stairwells makes this location cooler than other areas of the house.

NOTE: Your thermostat shouldn't be less than three feet from the floor, or more than five feet above it.

4. Set your thermostat for savings as well as heat. Proper regulation of your thermostat is one of the key ways to get the most usable heat from your fuel dollar. Here are three points to keep in mind:

- Turn your thermostat down at night. If you will set your thermostat back 10 degrees when you go to bed, you can save up to 10% a year in fuel costs. And you may sleep better too.
- When you go away for 24 hours or more, reduce your thermostat setting. Shell heating specialists recommend an "empty house" temperature of 55 degrees. That's high enough to keep the chill off, but low enough to save you a good deal of money.
- Keep your "at home" temperature around 70 degrees. Indoor temperature is a matter of personal preference. But most people like to keep their homes at about 70 degrees. But if you must raise your thermostat just 5 degrees—from 70 to 75, for example—it will raise your annual heat cost by about 12%.

5. Give your burner air. Consider this surprising fact: it takes about 1400 cubic feet of air at sea level to burn 1 gallon of heating oil. Be sure your burner gets the right amount of air. Proper adjustment of the oil burner for correct air-oil mixture will save you money.

NOTE: Your Shell Heating Oil Dealer can make sure that the air intake on your burner is properly adjusted. And that no superfluous air leaks into your furnace.

Needle-eye openings in burner nozzle calls for a heating oil that is immaculately clean.

6. Close off unused rooms. Don't spend good money to heat rooms that nobody uses—or that are used once in a while. Shut off the radiator or register. And keep the door closed when the room is not in use.

7. Keep furniture away from radiators, hot air registers and cold air return ducts. Don't block off heat with furniture. Or put furniture where it can interfere with air circulation. It can damage the furniture—as well as obstruct the flow of warm air. Leave enough space between furniture, radiators and air ducts for the warm air to circulate easily about the room.

8. A little weather stripping can bring big savings. Even well-fitted windows benefit from weather stripping. On a poorly fitted window, weather stripping can reduce air infiltration as much as 78 per cent. Note: ask your Shell Heating Oil dealer about adding insulation to your home. The cost runs higher than weather stripping, but insulation pays for itself in reduced fuel costs.

9. Stop tiny heat leaks. Before winter's first blast hits your home, check such things as attic ventilators. Make sure they're closed tight.

When fireplaces are not in use, close the dampers. You can lose a lot of heat right up the chimney.

These measures sound small, but they can pay off in substantial savings.

10. Guard against tank rust. As the oil flows from your storage tank to your burner, air is drawn into the tank. This air has moisture in it which can condense on the cool metal walls of the tank. Rust is likely to be the unhappy result.

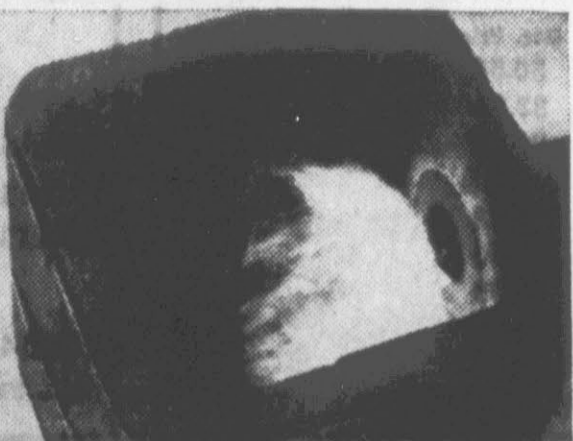

Shell's Sonitor® fights this problem. Proved effective in over 1,000,000 homes, a single application of Sonitor helps guard your tank against rust up to 3 years.

Follow these proved tips and you can look forward to top heating performance at lower cost this winter. And be sure to ask about new Shell Heating Oil. It's made for trouble-free warmth all winter long. Your Shell Heating Oil dealer can deliver your first tankful at your convenience. Why not call him today and take advantage of the offer on the opposite page.

®U. S. Patent No. 2,901,828

Old-fashioned heating oil may form deposits that can choke the nozzle openings of the burner, producing an unbalanced flame. Heat bills can run high.

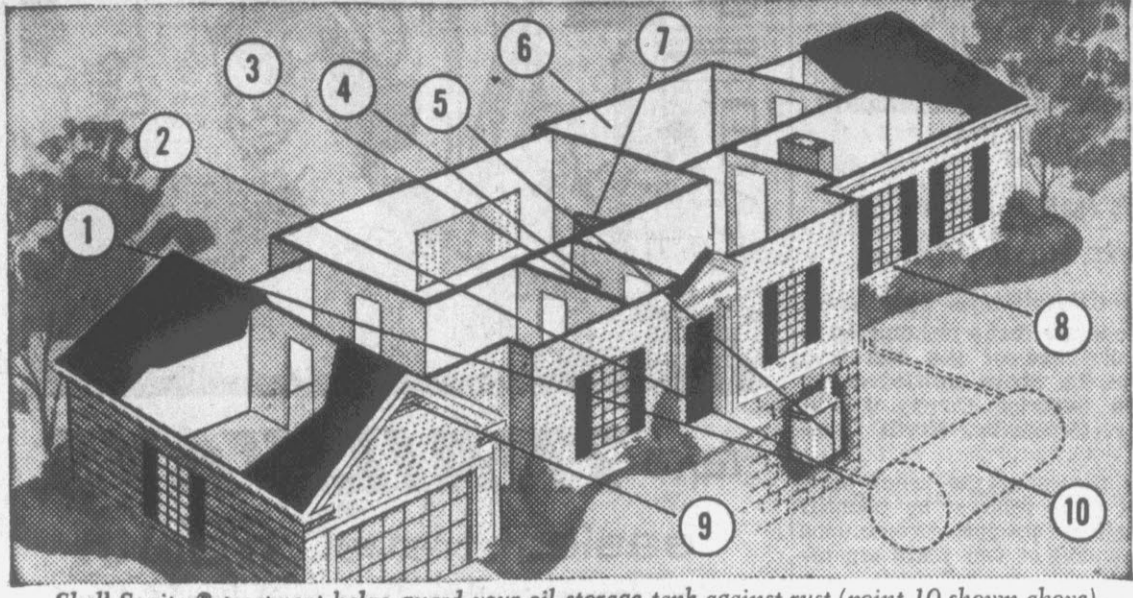

Remarkable cleanliness of new Shell Heating Oil helps guard against clogging. The oil swirls through openings, burns with an even, cone-shaped flame.

and followed with a dramatic series triumph over the Yankees. The Giants' free-swinging assault against the Phils was spearheaded by Orlando Cepeda and rookie catcher John Orsino. Cepeda, on a torrid batting streak, had four hits and drove in four runs, boosting his league-leading RBI total to 140. Orsino homered twice and singled, while Willie Mays and Felipe Alou also contributed three hits each. Left-hander Mike McCormick (13-16) was tagged for 10 hits but won in a breeze. Don Farrarse (5-11), batted out early, was the loser.

The Braves saved their narrow decision over the Cards by cutting down Ken Boyer when he tried to score on an almost-wild pitch by Don McMahon. Ray Washburn (0-1), in his first big league start, gave up a first-inning homer to Hank Aaron and balked across the deciding run in the fourth. Milwaukee starter Carl Willey (6-12) collaborated on a five-hitter with McMahon.

Shaw (12-13) reached the ninth inning before his try for a no-hitter blew up. Dick McAuliffe led off the Tiger ninth and was safe on Dick Hower's wild throw, then Bubba Morton clipped the Kansas City right-hander for a solid single. An infield out, a sacrifice fly, Larry Osborne's homer and a single by Jake Wood followed before Frank House popped up for the last out.

A five-run burst in the eighth brought Detroit from behind in the opening game. Wood, pinch-batters Al Kaline and Vic Wertz, Bill Bruton and Morton knocked in the runs in the Tiger rally.

Iowa "First" In Weekly AP Poll

By ED CORRIGAN
 Associated Press Sports Writer

Iowa, which doesn't open its season until Saturday, was voted the top college football team in the country today in the first regular-season Associated Press weekly poll.

The special national panel of 49 sports writers and sportscasters gave the Hawkeyes, who tangle with California in their opener, 343 points to 332 for second-place Mississippi and 309 for third-place Ohio State, another outfit that doesn't get rolling until Saturday.

The points were based on the formula of 10 for first place, 9 for second and so on.

Iowa, which also led the preseason poll, received 19 first place votes to 12 for Mississippi and 7 for Ohio State. The Buckeyes, second to Iowa in the preseason poll, play Texas Christian in their first game Saturday.

Mississippi's smoothly contrived 16-0 victory over Arkansas in a nationally televised game last week obviously impressed the panel. Ole Miss was placed no better than ninth in the preseason poll with a mere two first-place votes.

Alabama and Syracuse also gained prestige on their opening-day triumphs. The Crimson Tide trounced Georgia 32-6 and Syracuse clubbed Oregon State 19-8. That pushed Alabama up to No. 4, just a shade behind Ohio State, and Syracuse to No. 5.

The top 10 teams—first place votes in parentheses: Iowa (19) 343; Mississippi (12) 332; Ohio State (7) 309; Alabama (6) 307; Syracuse 233; Texas (1) 227; Rice (2) 220; Penn State (2) 192; UCLA 98; Michigan State 80.

Other teams receiving votes: Missouri, Baylor, Georgia Tech, Texas Christian, Purdue, Kansas, Florida, Maryland, Louisiana State, Duke, Minnesota, Oregon, Pitt, Kansas State, Auburn, Notre Dame, Army, Wyoming, Wisconsin, North Carolina State, Colorado, Mississippi State, Tennessee, Utah State, Furman, California.

Lavorante Downs Johnson Monday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Argentine heavyweight Alejandro Lavorante jabbed Alonzo Johnson of Rankin, Pa., half blind, knocked him down twice and scored an unanimous decision before 3,000 dissatisfied fans in Civic Auditorium Monday night.

Lavorante, at 207 pounds, to Johnson's 188, held a big height and reach advantage but still found difficulty coping with his smaller foe. Johnson continually tried to move inside, grabbing and clinching.

Finally in the ninth of 10 scheduled rounds, Lavorante put Johnson down with a left to the head. Johnson was up at four but took a mandatory eight count. Later in the same round a right put Johnson down for a three-count.

The crowd began jeering Johnson's clutch tactics as early as the third round and kept up the booing.

Some Doubt Left After The Eagles Downed Redskins

By LOUIS PANOS
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles may have created some doubt among others Sunday, but they left the Washington Redskins convinced of two things:

With a 5-3 opening game loss to the San Francisco 49ers behind them and the always tough New York Giants coming up next week, the surprising showing of the Redskins was a badly needed tonic.

1. The Eagles are about as good as they were last year, when they won the National Football League championship.

2. The Redskins are good enough to win some games this year.

Philadelphia Coach Nick Skorich said his team suffered a let-down and needed the breaks, including a recovered fumble to set up the winning touchdown, in its 14-7 victory over the Redskins.

But to a man, the Washington coaching staff agreed today the 1961 Eagles are as good as last year's championship team.

"They don't make any mistakes on defense," said head coach Bill McPeak. "Every man is where he should be all the time. They don't do anything wrong on defense and on offense they're faster."

McPeak called flanker-back Tommy McDonald "the best I've ever seen at taking a pass on the dead run." McDonald did just that Sunday, a 23-yard pass for the winning Eagle score.

McPeak and backfield coach Ted Marchbroda also praised Pete Retzlaff, who scored the first Philadelphia TD on a 52-yard hipper-dipper run after taking a Sonny Jurgensen pass near the line of scrimmage.

"And that Jurgensen is as good as any quarterback in the league," added Marchbroda.

McPeak and his staff, as well as owner George Preston Marshall, saved some tribute for the Redskins, especially rookie quarterback Norman Snead and end Fred Dugan, who teamed up on an 80-yard pass play for the team's only score.

"Snead wasn't a bit happy," smiled Marshall. "because we didn't win."

Among major events planned for the enjoyment of alumni on Homecoming Saturday, October 7, will be the annual dinner and fellowship meeting of the Society of Buccaneers, organization of alumni of the college. The social event will take place at 7 p.m. in the South Dining Hall on the campus.

Nuclear Tests In Atmosphere May Soon Be Needed For U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—American nuclear tests in the atmosphere will be necessary shortly if the Soviets fail to accept President Kennedy's new challenge to halt atmospheric shots, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said today.

Jackson, who heads a Senate-House Atomic Weapons subcommittee, said Kennedy was taking a calculated, but relatively minor, risk when he told the United Nations Monday this country and Great Britain are prepared to sign immediately a treaty to ban testing of all kinds. The Soviets have rejected the proposed treaty.

Kennedy noted the West also had proposed to end atmospheric testing, without inspection or control, "in order to save the human race from the poison of radioactive fallout."

The Soviets already have fired 15 atmospheric shots since they broke the three-year moratorium on tests. The United States has set off two underground explosions.

Some fears had been expressed by administration officials that once the Soviets had completed their series of tests they would announce they were ready to ban further atmospheric detonations and thus force the United States to reject their proposal or face the possibility of falling behind in nuclear weaponry.

Jackson said that while it will be a long time before the results of the Soviet explosions can be assessed fully, he does not believe U.S. superiority in the field thus far has been threatened.

"But if the Russians continue these tests, we are going to have to make similar ones," he said. "We cannot check out our weapons systems finally, and this includes the antimissile missile, without firing them into the atmosphere."

Jackson said scientific developments have made it possible to test component parts of weapons systems with underground low-yield firings. He said the information thus gained can be used to calculate the effectiveness of larger-yield explosions which can only be set in the atmosphere or in space.

But in the end, he said there

Here tomorrow—a great new exclusive from Buick

ADVANCED THRUST

Moves power forward for arrow-straight going

It puts the engine ahead like the tip of an arrow • It tames "wind wander" and road sway • It sweeps you forward in a hush of luxury • It turns the floor hump into foot space.

WHAT IT IS—Buick's big new move: It positions the great new Wildcat V-8 and Turbine Drive way up front over Buick's front wheels.

WHAT IT DOES—As the engine went forward, the floor hump went DOWN. And, the forward weight makes wheel response far quicker, cornering far surer, ride far smoother.

WHY YOU'LL LOVE IT—It's the closest you can come to sports car handling in a passenger car. Distances shrink before its 1/4-G thrust. Hills disappear. Lean on curves is gone because the frame's gone wider. Winds don't make you wander. It's going at its Buick best!

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rebounded smartly early this afternoon from Monday's sharp decline. Trading was quite active.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 90 at 249.20 with industrials up 1.50, rails up .30 and utilities up .30.

Gains of key stocks ran mostly from fractions to about a point while some of the "growth" stocks, which have taken severe losses recently, recouped several points.

Brokers saw it as a technical recovery.

The recovery was fairly unanimous except for aluminum and steel, both affected by price situations in their industries—aluminum by a further price cut and steel by administration hostility to an advance in steel prices.

The trend was higher among motors, chemicals, electrical equipments, drugs, utilities, tobacco, rubbers, farm implements and electronics.

Coppers, steady at the start, turned mixed as news spread of a cut in the price of copper scrap.

Chemicals put on quite a sturdy performance. Du Pont, Union Carbide and Allied Chemical were all up a point or so.

Oil's showed little or no change as the session went on.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .56 at 695.42.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mostly higher in fairly active trading.

Top Average On Greenville Mart

Greenville Tobacco Market saw its peak average of the season yesterday as the market sold 1,864,348 pounds of tobacco for $1,248,706.48 at average $66.98 per hundredweight.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee said this morning that today's prices continued firm and high at yesterday's all time peak.

"More tobacco is now being sold in the high $70 and $80 price ranges than has ever been sold here before," Whedbee declared.

Company purchases have ranged as high as $87 with many farmers averaging over $76 for their entire offerings, he continued.

Many customers from 100 to 150 miles away are selling on the warehouse floors daily, according to Whedbee.

Today's offerings were about the same as yesterday's except for a little more nondescript and more immature tobacco being on the floors.

Adenauer Says Planning Retire

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced on British television Monday night that he plans to retire. But his statement made no impression on his political opponents today because he failed to say when.

The 85-year-old West German leader told a British television audience he had no intention of remaining chancellor for another four years.

"I've had enough," he said. "This is nothing new. He told his Christian Democratic party recently he would relinquish his office 'after a certain time' so that his successor could get used to his job before the next elections in 1965.

Government officials said Adenauer's remarks, recorded last Saturday for the program.

Chiefs Of Staff United On Nuclear Arms Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pentagon sources said today the Joint Chiefs of Staff are united in a belief that nuclear weapons should be used if such a step becomes necessary in any military clash with the Soviet Union over Berlin.

These sources said the unified chiefs of the Army, Navy and Air Force long have been agreed with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara on this.

The White House, unlike the Kremlin, has not been rattling by clear weapons during the Berlin crisis. Premier Khrushchev set off outcries of "nuclear blackmail" and "terror tactics" when he talked recently of having the ability to develop a superbomb and bragged that he had the missile power to deliver it to any point on the globe.

But in commenting on the Berlin crisis during his United Nations address Monday, President Kennedy declared every nation should know "the United States has both the will and the weapons to join free men in standing up to their responsibilities."

On the point of willingness to use the U.S. weapons stockpile, the President in effect was replying to criticism in a Senate speech last week by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine. She said the Kennedy administration, in building up U.S. conventional forces, has practically told the Russians "we do not have the will to use nuclear power against them."

In the wake of that speech and in advance of the President's U.N. address, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said "there is no question" that the President is prepared to resort to atomic weapons if such action becomes imperative to defend the West's position in Berlin.

McNamara was quoted as calling Sen. Smith's contention nonsense, and saying the United States will respond with whatever weapons and in whatever quantity it considers necessary to protect its freedom and vital interests.

McNamara said in congressional testimony two months ago that although current emphasis was on strengthening conventional forces "we will utilize our nuclear power. We have stated categorically on several occasions that we will use nuclear power when necessary to face Soviet aggression in Western Europe."

The Pentagon sources expressed puzzlement that there should be any doubt on where the United States stands on the question of using its nuclear punch if necessary.

The symbol of the 1964 World's Fair in New York's Flushing Meadows is to be a huge open-work globe of stainless steel, called a Unisphere.

An Open Letter To People Who Want To Know "How To Save Money"
(One Of A Series Of Letters That May Be Helpful To You)

THE PLANTERS NATIONAL BANK & TRUST COMPANY
SEPTEMBER 26, 1961

Anybody with an income can save part of it if he can resist the temptation to spend all of it.

Think about that.

Very, very few of us want everything we want and still find a part of our income left over. "The more you have, the more you want." Even millionaires know this is true.

To save money, the first thing you have to do is decide whether you really want to save it. If you want to save money more than you want to spend it, the rest is easy.

Activation, Not Acclamation

This is not merely a matter of deciding whether the idea of saving is a good one. Even the man who is spending all he makes, or more, will ac- claim saving as "a good idea." Saving money is somewhat like religion. Almost everybody knows it's good for them, but too often they just don't get around to it. To save money you have "to get around to it." What's required is activation, not acclamation.

Are You One In A Million?

Deciding whether you really want to save some money is a matter of facing up to the fact that you will be one in a million if there isn't something in your future that will require all or a part of the money you can save now. To save money, you have to realize this deep down inside. You have to believe—because it's true—that It Can Happen To You.

What Is This "It"

That Can Happen To You?

Time has honored the concept of saving "for a rainy day" because it makes sense. But too few of us realize saving for a sunny day makes sense, too. It's true that today there are people in hos- pitals who just yesterday had no idea they'd be there. It's true that today there are people with regular incomes who, within a painfully short time, will find their incomes reduced, suspended or stopped.

But it's just as true that there are people today who, because they have savings to use, with- in the next 24 hours may be able to take advantage of a wonderful opportunity they don't even dream of at the moment.

It can happen to you? What can happen to you? Either emergency or opportunity of a thou- sand different kinds—and in every case, savings will help.

If you have no savings, don't you have an uneasy feeling? Think about it.

How To Save Money And Like It!

There is a formula for saving money which will work for you no matter who you are or what your income is. At Planters National we have seen it work, almost unflinchingly.

First, decide that you want to save some of your income more than you want to spend it. Don't attempt to save unless you can come to this decision.

But in thinking it out, understand that you are not surrendering a part of your income when you save. Understand that you are not beginning to live for saving, but rather to save for living.

Next, decide how much you can save. Don't be too ambitious. Sharpen your pencil, and study your income with relation to your necessities and luxuries. Remember that there are "luxurious necessities" just as there are "necessary luxuries."

If your figures show you need 95% of your net or "take-home" income for living expenses, ob- viously you can't save more than 5%. If you need 99% for living expenses, then you can save only 1%.

The Mistake Millions Make!

Don't be discouraged if the amount you can depend on saving regularly looks pitifully small! That's the mistake millions make.

Believe that little acorns do make big oaks. Bank people believe it. We know that just $5 saved every week will be $1000 in less than four years.

And never forget this—the less you have left over to save, the more you need to save it!

Stubborn Does It!

Next, open your savings account at a bank. It's good business to do business with banks where all of your financial transactions may be taken care of under one roof. Banks are good citizens, strong, reliable, friendly, appreciative, eager to help.

And then, get stubborn with yourself. Every pay day . . . every time you receive income . . . deposit the sum you know you can afford to save. Do it regularly, religiously, stubbornly. And get set for a new adventure.

Breaking the habit of spending all you make, as you make it, takes will power. But as your savings grow, little by little it becomes easier and easier. In fact, it becomes a pleasure. There will be a very genuine thrill—and I do not use the word loosely—at seeing your deposit entries gradually fill your deposit book. As your savings earn interest, there'll be an extra satisfaction.

You will gain in every way.

You will have greater peace of mind, because you'll be more secure. You'll have a new respect for yourself. You'll find that your entire living pattern becomes better organized. You help strengthen the economy of your community, your state and your nation. A community whose people spend all their income is no more secure than one individual who does the same.

Think About It!

Cordially Yours,

Archie W. McLean

Wilmington Port Rush Cited As Point For Bonds

WILMINGTON (AP) — Chairman John Reeves of the State Ports Authority pointed to busy docks here Monday as an argu- ment for approval of $13.5 million in bonds to enlarge state port fa- cilities.

The five berths at the state docks here were full Monday, and three other cargo ships were ex- pected. Eight ships arrived Mon- day.

Reeves said estimates point to paying off the entire $13.5 million in 25 years. "Borrowing this money through general obligation bonds with the state's low interest rate and the prospects for self- liquidation just makes it a good business proposition," he declared.

Morehead City port facilities have been busy with the state's annual, year, Reeves went on, and business is in sight to fill up the two additional warehouses pro- posed there.

Family Swims To Freedom In West

WITZENHAUSEN, Germany (AP)—A 62-year-old East German farmer and his wife, son and daughter-in-law swam to freedom across a closely guarded Commu- nist border river near here Mon- day.

West German police reported the four crossed the 100-foot-wide River Werra in full daylight and then asked for asylum in West Germany.

They told police conditions in the collective farm near the bor- der where they had been working had become unbearable.
