Morehead City Port Fire Threat Now Diminishing

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP)—The fire aboard the burned hulk of the Navy Tanker Potomac was nearly extinguished today and the Morehead City port was reopened to shipping.

The ship has burned since. Only small fires, except for an occasional flareup, were visible aboard the ship today. But black smoke continued to billow skyward from the burning fuel.

The ship staged a last spectacular fireworks display Wednesday night. Flames leaped hundreds of feet into the air and burning gasoline floated from the vessel and tiny fires moved along with the tide. Several Navy landing craft circled the area extinguishing the floating blazes.

U.N. Assembly Urged To 'Pressure' Soviet

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States and Britain called on the U.N. General Assembly today to put pressure on the Soviet Union to resume negotiations for a nuclear weapons test ban, under effective controls, to prevent cheating.

Plan Study Re-Zoning W. 5th St.

Study of re-zoning W. Fifth St. from Pitt to the ACL railroad will be made by the Planning-Zoning Commission.

U.N. Assembly Urged To 'Pressure' Soviet

The Soviet memorandum on nuclear testing ignored this, it repeated Soviet insistence that "under the present conditions its proposal to resolve the question of a nuclear test cessation on the basis of general and complete disarmament is the sole correct and practical suggestion."

The latest Soviet memorandum on colonialism would set up a U.N. committee to supervise and control all colonies and dependent territories.

Candidates under consideration include the assembly president, Mongi Slim of Tunisia, Ambassador U Thant of Burma, Frederick H. Boland of Ireland, past assembly president, and Ambassador Ralph Enckell of Finland.

The move was designed in part to try to get around an Indian proposal calling for return to an unimpeded moratorium. U.S. officials said that after the past three years of uncontrolled test ban they are not interested in another moratorium.

Measures to lessen the danger of a surprise attack. The memorandum said these proposals could be considered separately or together and could be taken up without diverting attention from general disarmament efforts.

They were granting a request from J. J. Perkins, who pointed out that the block is not now being used. It is presently zoned commercial but is surrounded by residential zoned property.

The Soviet Union sought to take the spotlight away from President Kennedy's disarmament appeal with an 8-point program billed as a cure-all for international tensions.

Shortly before the memorandum came out Gromyko and Secretary of State Dean Rusk had a four-hour talk at the Soviet Foreign Minister's headquarters.

Commissioners last night recommended that a block bounded by Chestnut, Boyd, Raleigh and Myrtle streets be designated for use as a trailer park.

The Soviet proposals—mainly a restatement of earlier ones put out by the Kremlin—were submitted to the U.N. Wednesday night with two other memoranda dealing with the nuclear test issue and colonialism.

Rusk was understood to have urged Gromyko to explain that the Soviets mean by "guaranteed access" to West Berlin after they sign a peace treaty with Communist East Germany.

They were granting a request from J. J. Perkins, who pointed out that the block is not now being used. It is presently zoned commercial but is surrounded by residential zoned property.

The eight-point plan, promised by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's policy when he spoke to the General Assembly Tuesday, included such Kremlin favorites as:

Behind-scenes efforts continued, meanwhile, to get assembly action on a stopgap successor for Hammarskjold. Representatives of a 12-nation group met privately on Wednesday night to consider Commissioners accepted the petition and Chairman Frank Little pointed out that the map was intended to be "merely suggestive" to the commission for its future zoning.

—establishment of a five-year installment payment period for property owners in paying to the city assessment for street improvements. James Lee offered this motion that drew unanimous approval.

Each of these men are truly civic leaders and we are confident that they will lead their townships and in turn the Pitt County United Fund to victory.

Mayor Charles M. King called on the commission to investigate the possibilities of set-back lines on the city's streets.

Bethel Township under the leadership of Dave Speir will hold its kick-off meeting this evening, September 29, at 7:30 p.m. at the Rotary Hall in Bethel. Ayden Township plans to start its solicitations at a meeting on Thursday, October 5, at 7:30 p.m. at Lutz and Schramm.

U.S. Will Have 54 ICBMs Set Inside 3 Months

—action on the question of whether property owners who paid for street paving before their property became a part of the city would be now assessed by the city for street renovation.

The other townships are expected to start their solicitations during the first week of October and finish no later than October 24th.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A total of 54 U.S. intercontinental ballistic missiles are due on the firing line within the next three months.

—Mayor King was given interim authority to allow city disbursements during the illness of city manager Louis Scheipers. Ford McGowan moved to authorize the mayor's signature on checks. His motion was approved unanimously.

Each township has been asked to raise a fair share quota of the $91,350 needed. In addition to this each township should raise the necessary funds for community service programs.

California's state government expenditures are the highest in the nation; that law enforcement is "below the national average;" that education has been "short-changed" because of "payoffs for political boondoggling;" that employment lagged behind population growth.

—action on the question of whether property owners who paid for street paving before their property became a part of the city would be now assessed by the city for street renovation.

California needs a new governor," he said. "It needs a new leader."

Nixon said he had reached this conclusion: "That the amiable but bungling man who presently is the governor of this state cannot clean up this mess for which he is partially and in many instances substantially responsible."

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The two main functions of a hedge are shelter and privacy. Hedges are used to divide garden areas, divide lots, or act as a screen to shut off unsightly views. They are used as windbreaks to protect the garden, or to act as a buffer between winds and house areas. But no matter how used, the hedge should consist of proper plants and be planted correctly.

Pre-Planting Work

The area where the hedge is going to be planted should drain well. To correct bad drainage, dig planting ditch 3 feet deep and 2 feet wide. Put 6 inches of coarse gravel in bottom of ditch. If the area drains well, dig ditch 2½ feet deep and 2 feet wide. Use a mixture of peat moss or woods mold and topsoil in planting.

Spacing

The deciduous hedge (3-5 feet plants) should be planted 3 feet apart. The Evergreen hedge of Broad Leaf plants can be spaced the same distance.

An informal hedge of deciduous plants (5-8 feet) should be planted 5 feet apart.

Larger Evergreen such as Chinese Hollies used as informal screens should be planted 5 feet apart.

Plants

The hedge that acts as the garden or lot divider can use the following plants: Abelia, Small Leaf Jap. Holly, Boxwood, Round Leaf Jap. Holly and Barbary Julianne.

All the above plants with the exception of the Barbary have small foliage and trim neatly.

The Barbary has larger leaves and quite thorny. The only cases where this plant should be used is an area where dogs are a bother and people just won't keep from cutting across.

Trimming

Deciduous plants can be cut back hard after planting. This forces strong basal growth and hedge fills out faster.

Among the Evergreens—Abelia can be cut back to within 8 or 10 inches. Others should be sheared lightly across the top.

To rejuvenate old hedges of Abelia, Russian Olive, or Privet, cut back to within 10 inches of the ground.

Trimming Established Hedges

Hedges should be narrower at the top than at the bottom. This keeps upper branches from shading out bottom growth and prevents dead areas in lower part of hedge.

Hedges should be allowed to grow only to the height that is easy for the gardener to trim.

Conclusion

For formal hedges, use plants easy to keep in bounds. For informal hedge, use plants that are a bit more rampant. For windbreaks of informal screens, use plants that grow fast and tall.

Greenville First In District To Organize Garden Club Council

A new civic organization had its inception Wednesday morning when the Greenville Garden Clubs Council held its first meeting at the Arts Center. Federated garden clubs in North Carolina are divided into ten districts, as designated by the state organization. Greenville is in District Ten, which is comprised of 19 Eastern Carolina counties. Such has been the growth and interest in garden club work in this area that Greenville now has the distinction of becoming the first city in its district to organize a council.

The purpose of a garden club council is to co-ordinate the interests of the individual garden clubs, and help to promote projects of mutual interest. Garden Council representatives work closely with other civic leaders in such things as Conservation and Beautification in and around the city. Also they serve as a liaison between local garden clubs and the state and national organizations, endeavoring to bring in calibre speakers and programs which possibly would not be available to individual clubs.

Greenville's Council is composed of the presidents of each of our six garden clubs, Mrs. R. W. Davenport, Bookgreen; Mrs. C. C. Hughes, Dig and Delve; Mrs. Phil Goodson, Jr., Elmhurst; Mrs. W. T. Bilbro, Forest Hills; Mrs. H. P. Milstead, Greenville; and Mrs. W. M. Reading, Lakewood Pines, plus one representative from each club who serve as Council officers. They are as follows: Mrs. Sam Mitchell, Advisor; Mrs. R. P. Heller, Organizing Chairman and President; Mrs. John Greer, President-Elect; Mrs. Billy Jenkins, Secretary; Mrs. Howard Moye, Treasurer; Mrs. O. W. Coefield, Custodian; and Mrs. Billica, Parliamentarian.

Mrs. Heller called the meeting to order and began by leading a discussion of the newly formulated constitution. It was decided that the constitution is adequate, and the only additions were the time of meeting—the fourth Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. of September, November, January, March, and May, and that dues will be payable by November first. Next it was decided to invite Mrs. Joe Simon, of Kinston, to give a program on Christmas Decoration on November 8th. Mrs. Simon is a National Council Accredited Judge, and will give a two and one half hour demonstration and lecture. This meeting will be open to the public, and tickets at $1.00 may be obtained in advance from any garden club member. The exact time and place will be announced in the near future. The next topic discussed was the possibility of the Council sponsoring a Flower Show in the Spring. The motion was carried unanimously to have this show in March.

Several announcements were made after which the meeting was adjourned. Mrs. Heller urged all clubs and as many individual members as possible to order copies of these books: THE HANDBOOK

FOR FLOWER SHOWS and FLOWER SHOW SCHOOL DIRECTIVE, both of which may be obtained from The National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc., 4401 Magnolia Ave., St. Louis, 10, Missouri. She also reminded members of the District 10 meeting to be held in Washington, N.C. October 31. Mrs. Goodson announced that the annual Curb Market held by the Elmhurst Club will be October 20 from one to six at 1702 Elm Street. Mrs. Billica stressed the importance of attending the South-eastern Flower and Garden Show which will be held in Raleigh February 23-27.

News And Notes From Bethel

Mrs. Williamson Club Hostess
The Bethel Home Demonstration Book Club was entertained Tuesday in the home of Mrs. J. C. Williamson Sr. on Nelson Street with 10 members. Visiting guests were Mrs. Herbert Brown and daughter Julie.

Following a business session at which old and new business was discussed, the devotionals and program was given by Mrs. J. P. Harris. For her scripture reading she gave Hebrews 11:1-12. Her program topic was "Needed: A New Kind of Christian." She stated that today's world is a new world. Many methods have become obsolete and many ideas irrelevant. She also said, "Today's world is a very complex world and that it is a morally decadent world," in which moral standards are ignored and moral values are ridiculed. It is a time when persons guilty of dishonesty and adultery and profanity feel no sense of shame; a time when the sellers of beverage alcohol and the promoters of crime pose as respectable citizens, a time when love of money and desire for pleasure are the gods of millions. Yet let it be remembered that today's world is still God's world. He has dominion over it. He loves it with redemptive compassion, and he ordains that righteousness and justice shall ultimately prevail on the earth.

The question was asked, What kind of Christian does today's world need? And the answer: Today's world needs Christians with a sense of reality as to their personal faith in Jesus Christ. Shallow faith leads to instability and infidelity; today's world needs Christians with moral insight, strength and purpose; today's world needs Christians who can think straight about life's values, about human relationships and about divine purposes; today's world needs Christians with a sense of missions. Mrs. Harris stated: "It is a shame that the true Communist seems often to have a greater sense of commitment to philosophy of communism than the average Christian does to the cause of Christ."

Round Table Book Club
Mrs. J. B. Bunting was hostess to the Round Table Book Club when it met in her home Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Carl Barbee presided. After the roll call and the minutes, the rules of the club were read by the secretary. After business was finished, the program chairman, Mrs. J. B. Bunting, presented the speaker, Rev. Wiley Clark, pastor of Bethel Pentecostal Holiness Church, who first rendered two songs, "I Never Walk Alone" and "I Discovered the Way of Happiness," accompanied by Mrs. Wiley Clark, and also sang a duet with him on the second number. Mr. Clark, using the theme "Happiness," gave a most interesting talk on happiness, its meaning and the different kinds, and how true happiness can be obtained. He concluded his program by singing "The Stranger of Galilee."

During the social hour a chicken salad plate with sandwiches, coffee and apple tarts with cream were served.

Congress Enjoyed Fruitful Term

Congress has now adjourned its longest session in a decade and a session in which it authorized federal spending exceeded only by two years during World War II and one year during the Korean War.

It was a session in which the Democrats successfully pushed through legislation that they had unsuccessfully sought during the Eisenhower years; a session in which the Kennedy administration suffered a number of important set-backs on domestic issues; and a session which gave GOP leaders grounds for asserting there is growing conservatism throughout the nation.

The 1961 session of Congress was one which began with the legislative emphasis heavily on domestic issues and ended with emphasis on legislation which affects the role of the United States in international affairs.

Politicians of both major political parties will in the coming months draw many conclusions from the session of Congress which has just ended. There will be many interpretations of the significance of bills passed during this session and the bills rejected.

For it all, however, the session of Congress was fruitful in many fields though it brought disappointments both to those who favored legislation which was ultimately rejected and those who opposed proposals which were eventually written into law.

Speeded Tempo In Senate Race

By LYNN NISBET
CAMPAGNING—Opinion rendered by Attorney General Wade Bruton, and accepted as conclusive by Governor Sanford and the State Board of Elections, that there cannot be a Lieutenant Governor elected next year to fill out the term of the late Cloyd Philpott has speeded up the tempo of the campaign for President of the Senate.

Currently avowed candidates are Lunsford Crew of Halifax and Clarence Stone of Rockingham. The east-west issue has been injected along with others of personal and political attributes. There may be more candidates, but most observers believe the real race will be between Crew and Stone.

There are interesting ramifications. During the session of the 1961 General Assembly and before the death of Lieutenant Governor Philpott, Senator Crew who was President pro tem of the Senate, had been regarded as a certain candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1964. Others almost equally certain to be in that race were Senators Tom White of Lenoir and John Jordan of Wake — along with a number of prospects outside of the senate membership. It was conceded that the next Lieutenant Governor, who would be ex-official president of the senate, should come from the eastern part of the state.

Senator Crew now contends that since the elected president of the senate will in most respects fill the office of Lieutenant Governor, that post should come the east. Senator White issued a statement, in which Senator Jordan informally concurred, saying that the post should remain in the west for the duration of the term to which Philpott was elected. Senator Stone jumped on that springboard to announce his candidacy for president of the senate. And it looks like a real campaign is shaping up.

HISTORY—The students of geography also would read history. There is still possibility that someone will bring mandamus proceedings to force an election for a Lieutenant Governor, to be elected by all the people. Failing that the election of a president of the senate will be by 50 members of that body. And this will be the second time in this century that such an election has been held. The other was in 1955 when Luther Barnhardt was elected President of the Senate after Lieutenant Governor Luther Hodges had moved up to the governor's chair upon the death of Governor William Umstead. Barnhardt was elected gress was made both in the field of domestic legislation and legislation affecting the position of the United States in international affairs. There were successful efforts to broaden the scope of federal legislation in coping with domestic and social problems, and there were successful efforts to block unduly extravagant spending program in spite of the fact that total appropriations during the session were the fourth largest of any year in history.

In spite of the impetus of the New Frontier program of the new administration, the session of Congress brought forth many compromises between the programs advanced by the administration and the viewpoint of more conservative forces in both the Democratic and Republican parties. The Congress did not serve as a rubber stamp for the new administration, but the new administration's influence was apparent in many of the proposals which were written into law.

It was a session of progress, but a session which was not entirely satisfactory to the administration, to opponents of the administration, to the Republicans or to the Democrats, to business or labor as well as other groups within the national society. In overall scope, however, it might well prove to be one of the most constructive sessions of Congress in recent history.

Left Up To Goldwater And Gov. Rockefeller

Announcement by former Vice President Richard Nixon that he will seek the governorship of California in 1962 and will not be a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination in 1964 leaves an open field for Republicans in selecting a presidential candidate.

With Nixon's announcement speculation immediately turned to New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller, a leader of the liberal wing of the Republican party, and Sen. Barry Goldwater, recognized leader of the conservative wing of the GOP.

Nixon's decision to seek the office of governor in California almost automatically eliminates him from further presidential candidate consideration, at least so far as 1964 is concerned. He has declared if he is elected in 1962, he will serve out his term as governor of the state. If, on the other hand, he is unsuccessful in his bid for the governor's office he would have little hope of subsequently receiving a presidential nomination.

An all-out battle between Rockefeller and Goldwater for the GOP nomination in 1964 would emphasize the two extremes of political philosophy within the Republican party, and whatever the outcome, deep scars would be left within the party organization. The period between now and national convention time in 1964 could bring many changes in the field of prospective GOP presidential candidates, but with the removal of Nixon from the race, Sen. Goldwater and Gov. Rockefeller must be regarded as foremost contenders for the nomination.

Experts In The Killing Of Time

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The average American office worker knows at least 101 different ways of killing time on the job. Experts, of course, know a lot more.

The methods of wasting time range all the way from mere paper shuffling to hiding out in the rest rooms or taking a secret nap in the supply room. Over the years each office employe finds his own favorite and successful means of loafing constructively on company time so that, come dusk, he'll have stored up enough strength to enjoy the evening doing as he pleases.

In a class by themselves are those who stare out the office window, but to do so and still give the impression you are busy with company problems is a very difficult art. Those who get away with it are among the elite actors in the office zoo.

Here are some types of window starrers you may be familiar with in your own firm:

Sneaky Sid—The middle-aged bookkeeper pretends he is cleaning his glasses. But actually he is looking through the lenses at a shapely lass crossing the street a block and a half away.

Tricky Tessie—The pretty secretary gives every impression she is paying full attention to dictation. But every time the boss turns his eyes to the ceiling for a helpful phrase, she looks out the window and tries to play peek-a-boo with the handsome young lawyer in the office across the way.

Hungover Harry—He isn't really looking out the window at all. He is only wondering, "Maybe if I opened it and jumped out the pain would go away."

Fly-Specking Phil—Going to each of the 27 office windows in turn, the third vice president rubs a bit of dust off each with his fingers, then announces loudly, "It's about time someone told the building management these windows need cleaning again. Do I have to think of everything around this place?" He has killed half a day once a week with this pet routine for the last 28 years. A real pro, this old boy. Amateur Albert—An eager beaver in the personnel department, he actually does find company problems crowding into his mind whenever he looks out the window. A pitiful case doomed to early ulcers.

Hard-Up Herbert—Shaking his head, and jingling a few coins in his pocket, he strides back and forth by his window. He gives the air of being deep in thought over a way to speed up production. Here's what's really on his mind: "Who can I hit up for lunch money today?"

Nonchalant Ned—The top salesman sits with his feet on his desk and carelessly sails paper airplanes out the window. Everyone admires him because he doesn't have to pretend. He's the only guy bringing fresh money into the firm.

Wastful Wilbur—This is the boss himself. When he looks out the window he has a vague impulse to raise it and cry "Help!" He knows that somewhere in the crowds below must be a few people he could hire and really get some work done around the office. But which? Who? Where? There they are—the window starrers, the elite of the office time-wasters.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS WITH GOD PRESIDING Do miracles still exist?

The testimony of the Bible leads us to conclude with considerable assurance that if miracles ever occurred they undoubtedly still continue to occur, and that if they do not occur now, they probably never did occur. Why should Christian believers find it hard to believe in miracles? They are occurring about us all the time. That a male cell piercing a female cell can produce a human being, and that within these cells are all the potentialities which later make up human life, is as great a miracle as any recorded in the Bible. The instinct of animals appears to show divine direction of some kind. The growth of tree, fruit, grass, and grain involve processes of utterly amazing character. But is not miracle something different from all this? Yes, in many ways; yet the natural world, which is the stage upon which miracle of any kind must occur, is part of a vast order some of which is visible, known and physical, and some of which is invisible, unknown, and spiritual. With an all-powerful God presiding over the universe, with "the great, round world in His hand," as the words of the spiritual run, we can indeed believe that all things are possible. Miracles? Of course. They are only the continuation and extension of what is taking place about us and within us all the time.

Oh, Come Now, Nikita—

Treasury Of Odd Items

Comedians and writers with a humorous bent are famous for finding a few good laughs in exploring contents of a lady's handbag.

Not being a handbag-explorer myself, I've found fun in the lampooning by others. . . and probably, so have you. But now it's out of my system.

For no matter how rib-ticking the stories or pantomimes of searching through a handbag, you can't top a man's wallet. It carries everything except money.

That was the lesson learned over a recent weekend when one of North Carolina's highway patrolmen was blocking traffic to check drivers' licenses.

I pulled up with all the assuredness in the world. My insurance was paid up, car registration and licenses most certainly in my wallet, no "wanted" circulars with my picture in the post office. . . in short, my halo was showing.

The patrolman held out his hand. . . I looked in my well-worn . . . leather carryall and eventually produced a license. "That one has expired," said the lawman. I looked, and sure enough, it was dead. So I combed through the miscellaneous file again and found another driver's license. . . but it too was out of date.

"Are you sure you have one?" asked the officer. "Sure. . . oh, sure," I said. But there were some doubts. That piece of paper should have been much easier to find, and there were so many cards, bits of paper and snapshots to go through.

"Better pull over to the side," suggested the officer, "traffic is beginning to pile up."

So we moved out of the way and began to search in earnest. There was a library card, draft notice and classification card (1940 model), a press ID card, blood donor's card, old receipts for insured mail, money order stubs, old bank deposit slips, a ticket on a raffle (months ago), a Legion dues receipt, Lodge membership receipts, a record showing discharge papers were recorded by the Register of Deeds, seven Motor Vehicle Registration cards, some scraps of paper with old addresses, an expired U. S. Naval Reserve ID card. . . notes. . . one could go on and on.

Anyhow, it took the Missus to find the necessary driver's license, and with it clutched in a moist and nervous hand approached the patrolman who gave it only a passing glance. "Okay," he said, "move on." And I got the impression he was accustomed to this sort of routine.

So we hastily repacked the wallet and proceeded homeward. Later, in telling a friend of my surprise at finding so many old treasures in my wallet, he laughed and displayed his own bulging hip-pocket suitcase; and for good measure pulled out a second. He agreed that women's handbags should no longer awe the male.

Whereas they (women) require a big carrying case for everyday use, men rely on the small efficiency pack and display a talent for compressing many essentials and non-essentials into a tiny space.

Of course, I'm hoping no one asks to see my driver's license for another couple of years. It's in the wallet. . . I am sure of that; but finding it could be something of an ordeal.

It is our guess that Mr. Crew is going to be rebuffed in his quest for the senate presidency. Political maneuvering is such that the odds will be against him. Of course, it is entirely possible that one or more additional Western senators might enter the race between now and 1963.

This whole matter is confusing to many people. The 1963 election and the 1964 general election must be kept entirely separate in the minds of the people. In 1964, it is generally assumed that a governor from Western N. C. will be elected while the lieutenant governor will come from Eastern N. C. At the same time in 1965 when the new legislature organizes, it is assumed that the Speaker of the house will come from the West, while the president pro-tem of the senate will come from the West also.

In short in 1965 if tradition is followed, it would mean that the governor, House speaker, and president pro-tem of the senate would be Westerners while the lieutenant governor who is also presiding officer of the Senate would come from the East.

The political currents are running at a strong fast. Suddenly we find the position of president of the senate taking on more than usual importance.

Other Editors Saying . . . Political Maneuvering

(Washington Daily News)

Right now there seem to be three avowed candidates for Lieutenant governor when the general election year of 1964 arrives. They are Lunsford Crew of Halifax county, Tom White of Lenoir county, and John Jordan of Wake county.

It is generally accepted that in 1964 the candidates for governor will come from the Western half of North Carolina, while the candidates for lieutenant governor will come from Eastern North Carolina.

Governor Terry Sanford comes from Fayetteville in Eastern N. C., while Cloyd Philpott, until his death our lieutenant governor, came from the Western half of the state.

Another regular legislative session will be held in 1963. The death of Mr. Philpott removes not only the lieutenant governor but also the presiding officer of the state senate. Mr. Crew served as president pro-tem of the senate in the last session.

Now Mr. Crew wants to be named president of the senate. He is an able man and likeable gentleman. Now it stands to reason that his probable opponents for the position of lieutenant governor next time do not want him to get a big jump in the race itself as a member of the elected president of the senate.

Mr. White and Mr. Jordan have already professed their belief that the presiding officer of the next senate session should come from the West. They reason that if an Easterner is elected, it would mean that in 1963 an Easterner would be governor, an Easterner would be speaker of the house, and an Easterner would be president of the senate.

Such a picture, they contend, is unfair to Western North Carolina. And with the announcement of Clarence Stone, senator from Rockingham county, that he intends to seek the senate presidency, quick support has come to Mr. Stone from at least two Eastern senators—Mr. White and Mr. Jordan.

It is our guess that Mr. Crew is going to be rebuffed in his quest for the senate presidency. Political maneuvering is such that the odds will be against him. Of course, it is entirely possible that one or more additional Western senators might enter the race between now and 1963.

Each To His Choice

By GEORGE E. SKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Intervention has too long been the policy of the State Department. It has been a costly policy for the United States and has won us no friends in the world. In the long-run linguistics of our era intervention is called non-intervention, but nobody is mistaken as to what the process is.

Let me state it this way: the United States believes in certain, specific ideals of government and of human conduct. The Declaration of Independence sets down in the clearest language our philosophy of government; the Constitution, including its numerous amendments, reduces the philosophic statement of government by choice to a workable system which provides us with a representative republic with numerous and specific limitations upon government and with a detailed statement of the rights of man. This form of government we regard as good and we strive to maintain it although sometimes it is very difficult.

Other peoples do not particularly care for our form of government. They find it confusing, almost to the degree of being anarchic. They prefer order; we prefer freedom. They look upon our freedom as disorderly, as lacking in manners and propriety. Some peoples prefer the despotism of dictatorship or the rule of an oligarchy. This, we do not understand. In fact, many of our people do not believe that any people can possibly prefer order to freedom. When we hear of such countries, we wonder what kind of people those are.

The Dominican Republic may be used as an example of what happens when dogmatism is applied to international relations.

The Dominican Republic was well-governed under the dictatorship of a man called himself the benefactor and enriched himself, his family and his friends. But he produced an improved way of life for his people. Compared with other Latin American countries, the Dominican Republic was superior from every standpoint except one. The one exception was that Trujillo was a dictator. The State Department does not tolerate dictators. But which government in Latin America has what we call a democracy?

Therefore the State Department intervened in the affairs of the Dominican Republic. The intervention went so far that we cut off diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic. Trujillo was assassinated and an orderly country was thrown into chaos.

It will be protested that I falsely connect our cutting off diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic and the assassination of Trujillo. I maintain that the two events are connected in the sense that the assassins must have assumed that they were pleasing the United States and would be duly rewarded when they set up a regime of their own. It is to be noted that Trujillo was assassinated after the United States cut off diplomatic relations.

As a result, the orderly, prosperous Dominican Republic has been thrown into chaos. A country that consistently supported American policy is no longer friendly to the United States. Unless our government changes its policy toward the Dominican Republic, the Communists, in a month or two, will take the place without the slightest resistance.

We intervened in Cuba and got rid of the dictator, Batista. We did everything possible to support Castro, Herbert Matthews was on Cuba, intended to be critical of State Department policy because it rejected his ideas, is nevertheless an explanation and defense of the State Department policy of intervention. In Cuba, this policy produced the anti-American regime of Fidel Castro.

The current policy of intervention is based on the assumption that it is possible in Washington to determine for every country in the world which is a good and which is a bad government. The defense against such an arbitrary intervention in the affairs of other countries is for them to become anti-American. This, in varying degrees, is now a universal pattern.

The cure for the almost universal anti-Americanism is for this country to adopt one of two policies. Either we recog-

French Health Girl Offers Swimming Tips

By YVETTE DE LA FONTAINE
Women's News Service
DEAUVILLE, France — (WNS) — Don't be afraid to throw yourself right into the water, swimming coach Francine Mazen declared. "Swimming isn't fattening."

The tiny, grey-haired, 54-year-old Frenchwoman, who is known as the "Health Girl of the Auvergne," gives this advice to students in her "vacation preparation" classes:

1. If possible, learn to swim before you go on summer vacation to the beach.
2. Avoid water that is deeper than you are tall if you cannot swim.
3. The true sportsman is one who goes into the water at least once during her day on the beach.
4. Let the water hit your kidneys first. This is the most healthy approach to swimming.
5. After wetting the kidneys, walk into the water until it reaches your waist. At this point, moisten the forehead and back of the neck with cold water to avoid vertigo.

6. To splash cold water freely on the bosom at this point is also recommended. It is an excellent beautifier and muscle strengthener.
7. Never stand inactive with your bosom submerged in water. It is extremely weakening and induces sagging.
8. If you have taken the precaution to learn how to swim, now is the time to try it out. But 15 minutes is enough. You can try for 20 minutes tomorrow.
9. When you leave the water, walk out calmly and slowly. This will preserve the benefits of the experience and forestall exhaustion.
10. Avoid excitement or too much talking after a swim. The best thing to do is to wrap yourself up in a blanket and hibernate in a semi-cold place before dressing.

To Get Thin, Shut Up, Says Dietician

GENEVA—(WNS)—"If you want to lose weight, stop talking," advised diet expert Gretel Plattner, 39.

Mme. Mazen also recommends polite swimming manners for young ladies who have learned how to maneuver in deep water. "If you are a better swimmer than your male companion, do not lead him so far into the sea that he cannot get back to land with-

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

This is about a fabulous lady and a picture that took 10 years to snap.

Such coaxing, such hope, such frustration! The only consolation was that everyone else was having a tough time, too.

The enchantress I'm talking about lives in a palace called the Louvre, and her name is La Belle Jocoende. Most people know her simply as the Mona Lisa.

But for the amateur photographer on Paris holiday, the priceless portrait poses a greater challenge than just trying to decide why Leonardo da Vinci armed her with that enigmatic smile.

On my first excursion to her shrine in June, 1951, a disappointing omen occurred at the entrance. The gate's guardian, an ancient crone, seized 50 extra francs for a picture-making permit. Then she gruffly warned: "No flash pictures or tripod permitted."

Nothing daunted, I padded through the galleries toward the rendezvous, light meter taking sample exposures busily all the way.

Illumination was not exactly intense, but for Ektachrome's ASA 32 rating a handheld snapshot seemed just barely possible. But when you arrive in front of the dark-toned portrait, disappointment floods over you in wintery blask. Situated at a soft-lit spot in the gallery, the picture calls for an exposure of almost a full second at f 2.8. Too much to expect of the steadiest of hand nerves.

Sadly you turn away, convinced the French slyly put their treasure in this shaded spot to frustrate only you.

But hope springs as the poet says, so again and again you come back to Ogle the temptress—hoping that the management may move her or let in more light.

On return visits in 1954, 1957, 1959 there's always the dusk and that too slow emulsion. Out in the lobby, of course, you can buy a nice little readymade slide.

Abroad once more in 1961, you carry new ammunition. The new Ektachrome, in test roll for your Rollei. With a speed ASA 160. Now we'll see about this!

Once more the corridors, the waiting throng, a quick look—and a brand new complication.

The meter says f 3.5 at about 1-15. A snapshot is possible. But horror of horrors, the lady has developed a shiny nose.

She is, in fact, shiny all over. A piece of highly polished glass covers her charms, shooting back highlights and reflections galore.

It happened while you weren't looking. A visitor, temporarily derailed or on sheer vandalism intent, threw a stone at the painting three years ago, and damaged a small portion of the canvas.

To prevent anything like that happening again, officials have put a three-centimeter thickness of unbreakable glass over the priceless masterpiece.

As reflections keep flitting, you move about from spot to spot in front of the picture. You gesture. People move aside, just a little. The portrait still shoots back shiny images.

The tour groups disperse. You look up hurriedly from the finder. Another group is approaching.

You have five seconds. This has got to be it.

The spot you have chosen is just slightly left of head-on. Using the sports finder for a better angle you shoot, f 3.2 at 1-15. Did your

Represent City At Kinston Meet

KINSTON—Greenville was represented here Tuesday at the first class in Savings and Loan Principles held by the Eastern Carolina Chapter No. 176 of the American Savings and Loan Institute.

E. Milton Foley of Home Savings and Loan, Greenville, is a member of the board of governors, and Robert Messner of First Federal Savings and Loan, Greenville, is vice president.

Approximately 35 Savings and Loan employees from Kinston, New Bern, Greenville, Snow Hill, Ayden, LaGrange and Goldsboro are enrolled in the course which is being taught by J. V. Brittle, executive vice president of Home Federal Savings & Loan, Kinston, and William Whittington, assistant vice president of Home Federal.

The chapter was organized in January, 1961, with 35 members enrolled in a Customer Relations Course. These members received their diplomas at a banquet last May at the Kinston Country Club. There are 57 active members in the chapter at the present time.

Tuesday's meeting was held at the Fairfield Recreation Center.

Taking 'Thumps' Out Of Highway

NEW YORK—A small strip of formed galvanized steel sheet is taking the "thump" out of the ride on the nation's concrete paved super highways.

The Committee of Galvanized Sheet Producers says the little strip of galvanized steel is now being used extensively to form the joints in concrete pavement for highways and airport runways. It is a hollow tube, flat on top and tapering toward the bottom, which is installed in fresh concrete and left in place to provide a mechanical seal.

On return visits in 1954, 1957, 1959 there's always the dusk and that too slow emulsion. Out in the lobby, of course, you can buy a nice little readymade slide.

Georgia Town Hails Negro Couple As 'Good Citizens'

TALLAPOOSA, Ga. (AP)—A humble Negro couple born into slavery will be honored as "shining examples of good citizens" in a citywide ceremony Saturday.

Overwhelmed by "all the fuss," are 100-year-old John Collins and his 108-year-old wife, Elizabeth, who modestly claim they aren't worth all of the attention.

But their friends and neighbors in this northwest Georgia town of 4,000 disagree. They plan to bedeck the couple in new clothes and take them in an open convertible to the town square for a special ceremony. Another service is planned later at the Mount Sinai Baptist church, the community's oldest.

Mrs. Collins was born in 1853 as a slave of the Pittman family in Randolph County, Ala. Her husband was born on a nearby plantation. They were married 80 years ago on the Pittman farm and soon after Collins started farming on his own.

As the years passed, Mr. and Mrs. Collins won the respect of all who knew them.

"They have been excellent citizens," said Dr. C. W. Pope, in charge of the ceremonies. Pop retired recently as executive secretary of the Tennessee Baptist Association and returned to his native Tallapoosa.

Get $500 Worth Of Appreciation

CULLMAN, Ala. (AP)—St. Bernard's Abbey wishes it had more of those valuable pajamas.

A recent weekend visitor to the abbey found he had forgotten his pajamas and was given a pair from the monastery wardrobe.

The mail a short time later brought a check for $500 and a letter expressing appreciation for the pajamas.

Apple Tree Has Salad Material

MAPLE HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP)—An apple tree in the back yard of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Seidel's home bears 26 kinds of apples and four kinds of pears. A yellow plum tree also bears nectarines, apricots and blue plums.

The fruit salad trees are the result of Seidel's grafting. Seidel, a retired butcher, and his wife have fruit throughout the spring, summer and fall, as different varieties ripen.

Remote Launch For Minuteman

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A remote radio launch system will be used to fire Minuteman intercontinental range missiles once they are placed in underground silos starting in 1962. Command signals will be sent from control centers up to 10 miles away.

The communications system will employ antennas buried a few feet underground next to a control central site. Transmitted radio waves will penetrate to the earth's surface where they will bend and travel along the ground to buried receiving antennas at the Minuteman silo.

Colors Indicate Water Pressure

INDEPENDENCE, Kan. (AP)—Even the dogs will be confused here.

City workers have repainted all 235 fire plugs in Independence different colors. Fire Chief Tom Adams explains the bright colors will tell firemen at a glance how many gallons of water per minute the plug will provide in an emergency. Black indicates less than 250 gallons per minute; red, 250 to 400 gallons; yellow 400 to 750, and green, more than 750.

THIS 1962 FALCON, four-door sedan highlights the compact car's new styling. While still "distinctively Falcon" the top-selling Ford compact features a new grill, new front fenders and hood and larger taillights, but still retains the inside-outside dimensions of its predecessors. On the interior, the instrument cluster has been revamped, and there are new fabrics, styles and colors for all models. The new Falcon line, to be introduced by dealers on September 29, will feature a total of 13 models.

Nasser Theme Of 'Arab Unity' Has Meant Advance Of Egyptian Rule

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Arab Unity" was the theme proclaimed by President Gamal Abdel Nasser when Egypt and Syria were joined under his leadership as the United Arab Republic on Feb. 1, 1958.

To most Syrians, the "unity" has appeared more and more a steady advance of Egyptian control in the past 3½ years.

The key geographical fact about Egypt and Syria is that, despite their political ties, they are separate nations and had been for centuries. Lying between the two states are parts of Israel, Jordan, and Lebanon—a distance of about 100 miles.

Political considerations worked toward merger in 1958, when Communists were infiltrating the Syrian government. Led by Syrian President Shukri Kuwaty, a delegation of politicians went to Cairo late in 1957 and sought a union between the two states.

They were alarmed by Syria's growing ties with the Soviet Union. Nasser, willing if not enthusiastic, saw the merger as a step toward his ambition for a united Arab world.

Most of the people in both areas are farmers.

Before World War I Syria was under Turkish domination. But the French, claiming interest in Syria dating back to the Crusades, obtained a League of Nations mandate over the country in 1921.

Most of the Syrians struggled for their own independence, and in 1930 France recognized the country as an independent republic but still subject to mandate.

In World War II Syria was occupied by the British and Free French. The latter agreed to terminate the mandate.

Syria emerged in the postwar years as a truly independent republic—but still with plenty of unrest and unsolved political problems. It had the largest left wing in the Arab world.

The 1962 FORD GALAXIE line features a fresh approach to Ford's classic styling. Shown here is the Galaxie 500 Sunliner convertible, one of twelve models in the Galaxie line. While the Galaxie is slightly shorter and fractionally narrower than the 1961 model, the larger passenger compartment is the same as 1961. Large door openings, coupled with two-position door stops, make entering and leaving the Galaxie an easy and natural movement. The Sunliner top is anchored at each roof bow to prevent "ballooning" when underway. The vinyl-lined top is stowed under a color-keyed boot.

PATROL CARS IDENTIFIED—State Highway Patrol cars now carry identification on both the front and back. The lettering will make the cars easily identifiable to motorists as they approach the officers vehicles. Here, Pitt County patrolmen look over the "State Patrol" lettering on three Pitt cars. ## S.C. Displaying Original Score 'Fighting McCooks' Played Mighty Role In Civil War

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Staff Writer

A 17-year-old boy, dying on the bloody field of first Bull Run, turned his eyes to an older man and cried: "Father, I will never surrender to a rebel!"

They were the last words of Pvt. Charles M. McCook, 2nd Ohio Regiment, Union Army, a member of the Civil War's fightingest family—the McCooks of Ohio.

When the war was over the McCooks tallied up their score, they found they had contributed to the Union cause: three major generals, four brigadiers, six lesser officers, one private and a surgeon.

Four were killed in action.

The clan McCook stemmed from one George McCook, a Scotch-Irishman with revolutionary tendencies who fled County Antrim in 1780 a few steps ahead of the English constabulary.

Old Irish rebel George died long before the Civil War broke out, but his stalwart sons and grandsons carried on in the fighting tradition.

Son Daniel, who sired the five sons of the "tribe of John," and who was a physician of note before the war, served as a volunteer surgeon in the Union Army.

Edward, eldest of the "tribe of John," was a major general commanding cavalry during Gen. William T. Sherman's Atlanta campaign.

In his most notable exploit, he and 2,100 men slipped through the enemy lines, destroyed Confederate Gen. John B. Hood's entire transport train of 800 wagons and 3,000 animals and fought their way back, swimming the Chattahoochee to rejoin Sherman.

John, "tribe of Dan," served at Perryville, Stone River, Chattanooga, Chickamauga and The Wilderness before he was severely wounded. He was a lieutenant colonel at age 19.

Daniel Jr., "tribe of Dan," was a 28-year-old colonel when he was fatally wounded leading his Ohio infantry regiment in a charge up Kennesaw Mountain. He made brigadier before he died. Alexander, "tribe of Dan," the only West Pointer of the lot, saw action at Perryville, Stone River and Chickamauga as major general commanding the 20th Army Corps.

Anson, "tribe of John," was brevetted a brigadier general for gallant and meritorious service with Sherman during the Atlanta campaign.

Robert, "tribe of Dan," a brigadier general, was wounded at Mill Springs, Ky., in 1862 and killed when Confederate guerrillas fell upon the ambulance that was carrying him from the field.

Of John McCook's other sons, Henry was a lieutenant-chaplain of an Illinois regiment; John J. was a lieutenant in the First Virginia (Union) Volunteers; and Roderick was a naval officer.

Other members of the "tribe of Dan," included: Latimer, a major who died after the war of injuries suffered in the Vicksburg campaign and Sherman's March to the Sea; George, a brigadier general; Edwin, who reached the rank of major general; Charles, the private killed at Bull Run.

When East-West Diplomats Talk, Politeness Rules

EDITOR'S NOTE— When East-West diplomats confer, do they get angry, do they berate each other? AP Staff Writer Saul Pett found out at the latest Rusk-Gromyko luncheon that everyone was well-mannered and polite. His special report—based on what he saw and was told—follows.

By SAUL PETT
NEW YORK (AP)—What is a diplomatic luncheon like in the cold war?
It is four hours long. It is half small talk, half big talk and half of the second half is taken up with translation.
The food is good, the wine chilled to perfection and everyone is well-mannered and polite. The tone of their conversation never reflects the fact that both countries involved have rockets with nuclear warheads aimed at each other.

Nobody at a cold-war diplomatic luncheon loses his temper. Nobody raises his voice. Nobody even implies the other man may be a liar although nobody assumes he isn't.

Nobody takes stenographic notes because these are purely informal exploratory talks between two adversaries, but the moment the party breaks up both sides rush back to their offices to record everything they can remember to report to their governments.

It was that way Wednesday when Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet foreign minister, played host to Dean Rusk, U.S. secretary of state, in their continuing talks on the Berlin crisis. Each man had six aides and an interpreter with him.

The scene was the brick home of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations, on Park Avenue and 68th street, a neighborhood best known for capitalists and psychoanalysts. Across the street stands Hunter College, on the side of which is inscribed in huge block letters this line from Ralph Waldo Emerson: "We are of different opinions at different hours but we always may be said to be at heart on the side of truth."

That's what it says across the street.

At the Soviet mission, Gromyko was the first to arrive, in a black Cadillac limousine. He elbowed his way goodnaturedly through newsmen and entering the vestibule discovered three more reporters. Said Gromyko, smiling: "How do you do? I see you penetrated." They were quickly depenetrated.

Promptly at one, Rusk and the other Americans began to arrive, also in black Cadillacs. Adlai E. Stevenson had some trouble getting in since the Soviet attendants had just slammed the door on photographers and were not immediately convinced this was the U.S. ambassador to the U.N.

Inside, the Americans were led up a broad circular staircase to a reception room, darkly paneled and abounding in overstuffed furniture whose period can be best described as Aunt Martha's hand-me-down—comfortable if not chic. There was time for a not chit-chat, the favorites being orange juice, vodka and cordials, separately.

Clothing for cameramen, Gromyko held up three fingers toward Stevenson, symbolizing the Soviets' troika plan for the U.N. "Three of a kind are only good in a poker game," said Stevenson.

"Then how about three vodkas?" said Gromyko. "I'll take one," said Stevenson. In diplomatic luncheon circles, this is considered bofo humor. Much better than the big chuckle of last week's American lunch for the Soviets wherein it was discovered that Gromyko and Rusk had similar suits.

Gromyko led his guests into a high-ceilinged dining room, where the silverware and china sparkled but the landscape oil paintings on the walls had an inspirational quality usually seen only in chain hotels.

The participants were seated around a round table, places for 14, each including four glasses for water, vodka, white wine, red wine and cognac. For opening the diplomats ate smoked salmon, black caviar, tomatoes and cucumbers.

Thinking of the table as a clock, this was the seating arrangement: Gromyko, the host, at 12 o'clock; Rusk at 11; Charles E. Boyle, special assistant secretary of state, at 1; Valerian A. Zorin, chief Soviet U.N. delegate, at 6; Stevenson at 5; and elsewhere around the table alternating Americans and Soviets, including one interpreter for each side.

No stenographers were present and no recording devices were visible although one could not be sure of the underside of the centerpiece or the backside of the pictures.

The fish course was "yellow pike, Polish style." The meat was chopped steak, tasty but decidedly more proletarian than the Cornish hen served last week to the Soviets by Rusk. Dessert was strawberries and cream, then coffee and liqueurs.

There were boxes of Soviet cigarettes on the table, one of which produced the biggest laugh of the lunch. The brand was labeled "Troika," and the box showed three horses pulling a cart.

Said Gromyko to his guests: "You will notice that the horses are all pulling in the same direction."

The crack did not quite cover President Kennedy's objection to troika. It was the President who pointed out to the U.N. Monday that three horses might provide one direction but would three drivers?

For more than an hour, the diplomats ate, sipped and made small talk about their home towns, their common experiences in Europe, the weather, noncon-troversial aspects of the U.N. and, in one case, professional baseball.

At last week's lunch, Stevenson had invited any interested Soviets to witness a professional football game. S. G. Lapin, minister of foreign affairs for the Russian Federation of Soviet Socialist Republics, said he would be delighted.

Wednesday Stevenson told Lapin he had a pair of tickets for him for Sunday's game between the New York Titans and Boston Patriots, and would send along an American to explain the sport. Lapin thanked him kindly.

The interpreters were not overtraversed during the light lunch dialogue. Gromyko, in his gentle basso, spoke English with Rusk. Most of the others communicated in English or Russian and when that failed got by in German. It sounded like a seminar at Berlitz.

But once the chit-chat ended and they got down to serious business—Berlin—each side reverted to its own language and used interpreters so that their meanings could be precisely understood.

The business end of the meeting began after liqueurs when Gromyko rose and led his guests back to the room with Aunt Martha's sofas. Zorin and Stevenson had to leave for U.N. matters. Others also left and the meeting was now reduced to four on each side: Rusk, Bohlen, Foy D. Kohler, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, and an interpreter, for the United States; for the Soviet Union, Gromyko, Lapin, V. S. Semyonov, deputy foreign minister, and an interpreter.

Rusk and Gromyko did most of the talking. They addressed each other as "Mr. Minister" and "Mr. Secretary." Nobody here used first names.

They talked almost two hours.

half of this taken up by translation. They talked seriously and look no side tracks into idle conversation or humor. It was completely businesslike, according to an American, but not completely grim or without an occasional smile.

At the close, they shook hands perfunctorily. Gromyko saw Rusk to his car. As newsmen closed in on the sidewalk, Gromyko spread his arms and said, "What you want, boys?" as though he were helpless puity in their hands. He wasn't.

Army Stepping Up Its Mechanization

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army hopes to have its foot soldiers in Germany fully equipped in about five months with armored, protected vehicles designed to move them swiftly and safely into battle zones.

Officials estimated today it will take about 2,000 of these vehicles to outfit the 3rd, 8th, and 24th Infantry Divisions.

Shipment of the latest model M113 troop carriers already has begun and the Army has contracted for speeded-up manufacture of more of them.

The Army long has sought to mechanize its infantry in Europe where the terrain is relatively flat and where a fast moving force has an advantage. The Soviets are known to have mechanized many of their divisions.

The Berlin crisis, and its threat of a U.S.-Soviet clash of arms, has given impetus to the Army's plans for mechanization.

Perhaps two-thirds of the 2,000 personnel carriers will be the modern, aluminum armored M113, the rest the heavier and shorter range M59s. Eventually the Army hopes to replace the older models.

In the past, infantrymen have marched to the front or have been carried up in trucks affording little or no protection from shell fragments and small arms fire. Also, trucks have had to stay pretty much on roads.

The new troop carriers are not dependent on highways. Their tractor-like treads permit them to strike out across country and keep up with fast traveling tank elements. With such transportation, ground troops are in better position to exploit breakthroughs in enemy lines.

The M113 and the older M59 are shielded all around—top, side, front and back. Army experts consider the top protection especially important because it prevents heavy casualties from air bursts of high explosive weapons.

These experts say such carriers would be valuable on a nuclear battlefield. As they explain it, the carriers would give troops a measure of safety from contamination in riding through an area poisoned by radiation.

The M113 can move through water. It is light enough to be airlifted—an important factor in these days of quick, long range deployment.

The new carrier has a 200-mile operating range on the ground, as compared with the 120-mile range of the M59. It weighs 10 tons, less than half the weight of the steel armored M59. Both carry a squad of 12 men.

Though designed to move troops these carriers can defend themselves, if need be, with the machine guns they mount.

Pipe Smokers In Annual Contest

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—There's a reason for that smoke-filled room at a downtown hotel today—but it has nothing to do with politics.

It's the scene of the 13th annual world's championship of the International Association of Pipe Smokers Clubs. More than 50 starters are expected.

All week long, fittingly enough in conjunction with Richmond's annual tobacco festival, members have been holding business meetings. They've even crowned their own queen, Caryle Gale Hoffman of Reading, Pa.

The contestants, armed with 3.3 grams of special contest tobacco and two kitchen matches have 60 seconds to get their pipes lit. The winner is the gentleman—or lady—who emits the last puff of smoke.

"That person will be the one who smokes slowly, casually and relaxed," says H. B. Moseman of Lancaster, Pa., contest chairman. "You can't smoke a pipe like a cigarette."

The defending champion is Richard Austin of the Arrowhead Club of Flint, Mich. Last year he kept his 3.3 grams of tobacco burning for one hour, 25 minutes and 10 seconds. That's more than half an hour under the record of 2 hours, 5 minutes, 7 seconds set by the late Max Igree, also of Flint, in 1954.

The top two winners receive prizes in addition to the honor of finishing first and second—pipes and tobacco, what else?

Space Requires Nuclear Energy

PARIS (AP)—Nuclear energy will be an important power source for space ships, a U.S. Atomic Energy Commission official said today.

Lt. Col. Joseph A. Conner Jr., chairman of the commission's new-space nuclear safety board, told the European Congress of aeronautical and space medicine: "Nuclear power will be one of the principal factors that will forge man's capability to bridge vast distances."

Lion In The Hills

By JOHN B. PRESCOTT

WHAT HAS HAPPENED Motherless, lonely young Alec Temple had expected with excitement the company of his father in Alec's first rousing experience after coming West to join the father, a U. S. Forest Ranger officer. Claude with his son in the latter's introduction to hunting down of mountain lions. Instead, Alec is with old Sam Fellows, who has a pack of hounds for trailers. The prey is a lion that has been killing stock in night raids on ranches.

Sam shot a lion after it was treed by the dogs, but disappointment followed; the dead lion was not the male they sought, but a female. The male had purposely mingled his scent with the lioness' to confuse the hounds and escape them. Sam deduced the lioness had nursing cubs and left some behind. The dogs led them on to the lioness' den, which had been found by the male marauder before they got to it. They found one live, though injured, cub among the litter slaughtered by the male. Alec felt a close kinship to the orphaned cub and persuaded Sam to let him take the helpless infant home.

CHAPTER 5

A new moon hung in the sky above the home canyon where Sam Fellows turned off the highway and slowly eased the load downward to the creek crossing. Sitting in the drowsy, warm cab, the cub sleeping in his arms, Alec Temple heard the whine of the gears and saw the headlights bob on the heave and pitch of the engine road as they sought the ford down below.

Once across the water, the concrete apron passed beneath them and the upgrade began.

Now, while the engine labored and sizzled in the climb, the lights fingered out among the bronze trunks of ponderosa pine, and the track, slowly growing more level, went on through undergrowth and mixed timber until all at once the beams were caught in the darkened windows of the two cabins.

Drawing up at the first of these, Sam turned off the engine. The Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

PAR TIME 30 MIN.

Both were now dark, but in the quiet the dogs that had remained in the kennel yard today could be heard baying their welcome.

"Hear that now," Sam said. "I ain't even got there, but they're already asking about it."

"There's Jupiter," Alec said as one voice rose above the others, full and unwavering.

"Always figures it's his business the most. But he sounds hungry, too," Sam glanced through his window at the dark cabin wall.

"I'd say your pa's still out. Might be best to fix some chuck at my place."

Alec almost said yes; but at that moment Jupiter's voice broke into the cub's shield of sleep, and its wailing whimper told him that its care should come first. He felt owing to Sam, too.

"I'll get us supper," he said. "I'd like to, if I canned stew suits you. While it's heating, I can fix this fellow up."

"Well, a hungry man don't argue," Sam said. "Meantime, I'll feed my crowd and turn them out." He started the engine again. "Ten minutes ought to do it."

"I'll have it ready," Alec said, getting out. Holding the cub carefully against his shirt, the soft living warmth made him laugh with good feeling.

With the pickup in motion again along the dim road, Alec crossed over and entered the house. The door was always unlocked, a custom in this country where denial of shelter and food could sometimes mean death to the unlucky traveler.

In the kitchen, he turned on the light and set the cub down on the floor. But he'd hardly slipped out of his jacket before the cub began to wail in a thin, high voice. "Now what's that all about?" he said.

But he knew, of course. It was the unfamiliar feel of smooth hardwood flooring, on which the little animal stood rooted, its injured foot raised. It was the unnatural glare of electric light and the chill damp of the creek lodged in the stone walls of rooms not yet warmed by an evening fire. And, maybe more, it was the all-pervading scent of man and man's doings.

"Well, it's your home now," Alec said. "You'll get use to it. I'll give you a look soon's I get the stew on."

While he spoke to it, the cub stopped crying and raised its head to watch him with its blue eyes, the pink nose and furry, rounded ears working as if to catch everything. But as soon as he fell silent, while he stooped to grope in a cupboard for a can of stew, the wailing began again.

ANPA Decides Oppose Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Newspaper Publishers Association will file objections before the Federal Communications Commission to proposed increased rates for leased wire services.

The ANPA decision was announced Wednesday by Amory H. Bradford, general manager of the New York Times and chairman of the ANPA Press Communications Committee.

The Associated Press will join with the ANPA in presenting its exceptions and objections to the proposed rate raises.

As filed by American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Western Union on open direction of the FCC, news media costs would go up approximately 19 per cent, commercial users would be raised 2.1 per cent, while government users of leased wires would be decreased 7.8 per cent.

Bradford termed the proposed new rate schedule "obviously inequitable in many respects," adding that "it discriminates unfairly against the press, and it is not in the public interest."

Some Counties Dragging Feet On CD, Says Director

EDITORS' NOTE: This is the second of a three-part series on state Civil Defense. Today's story looks at Civil Defense on the state and county level.

By REESE HART
RALEIGH (AP)—Some counties in North Carolina are "dragging their feet" in providing adequate Civil Defense preparedness, State Civil Defense Director Edward F. Griffin said today.

"I'm not singling out any counties by name," Griffin stated, "but the governing bodies of these counties had better wake up to their responsibility. The people of these counties expect the officials to give them necessary guidance and protection to cope with a disaster or enemy attack."

He added, "These counties probably have appointed a director and they have an organization on paper, but they don't have any Civil Defense training—and that's what counts." Of the state's 100 counties, 56 have published plans of what would be done and by whom in event of an enemy attack or natural disaster, Griffin stated.

"These 56 counties are prepared as far as Civil Defense plans," he explained. "But as far as fallout protection, we don't know. I don't think there is a county in the state that is completely prepared to offer protection for all its citizens. Some counties are not even prepared to utilize the fallout protection they do have."

Griffin pointed out that an effective county Civil Defense setup should have ample fallout protection, an emergency operating center with full communications to all parts of the county and to the state Civil Defense office.

"The countywide organization," he said, "should include as many volunteers as possible. We can't be too prepared for any eventuality. We have stressed this in the home preparedness program. Each family ought to have at least one person trained in first aid. In addition, the family should have basic foods, medical supplies and water for at least two weeks in event of a sudden enemy attack."

If North Carolina should be hit by a nuclear bomb where would it likely occur?

In the heavily populated industrial area of Greensboro - High Point, Griffin said. This area is designated as a critical target.

"However, I don't think we have a target in this state that the Russians would hit," he asserted. "The nearest most likely targets are the Oak Ridge Atomic Plant and the Hampton Roads, Va., area where ships are concentrated."

Oak Ridge and Hampton Roads, radiation effects would be felt in North Carolina in varying degrees, depending on the size of the bomb and the flow and direction of air, Griffin explained.

"Some people believe that if we had a nuclear war everybody would be destroyed," the Civil Defense chief said. "This is a fallacy. It is estimated that 95 per cent of the citizens in this country could survive a nuclear war if given adequate protection in fallout shelters."

Six areas in North Carolina are listed as likely targets. They are Raleigh, Charlotte, Wilmington, Durham, Winston-Salem and Asheville.

What about the military camps, such as Fort Bragg, Camp Lejeune, Cherry Point and Seymour Johnson Air Force Base?

"If we should have an attack these camps and bases would be evacuated in quick time," Griffin said.

The state Civil Defense headquarters in Raleigh has 23 employees. In addition, there is a total of nine at the five area offices in Sylva, Statesville, Wilson, Washington and Lumberton.

Griffin said that word of an impending enemy attack could be received and relayed in every section of North Carolina within five minutes after the button was pushed at the national warning center.

He added, "The only blank spots—and there is no logical reason for these to exist—are counties and towns which have neglected to equip some local agency to receive and monitor the Highway Patrol alert warning net."

TOMORROW: What would happen if an enemy attack should come?

All P.T.A.'s are urged to send delegates to the conference. Registration will begin at 10 a.m. and lunch will be served at the school for a fee.

W. L. Flowers, principal of New Bern Central Elementary School and second vice president of the state organization, will discuss "Drop-outs—What Can We Do?" Other speakers include John H. Bender Jr., district principal of Jacksonville District Schools; and Joe Stevens, director of education for Craven County Schools.

Suspects Half Are Drinkers

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Donald Soper, ex-president of Britain's Methodist Conference, voiced the suspicion Wednesday that more than half the church members are drinkers.

He said he also has reason to believe that perhaps 30 per cent of Methodist preachers tinkle a bit.

Borge Provided A Happy Blend Of Music, Comedy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Network television Wednesday night held the promise of a solid three and one-half hours of comedy; premiere of Steve Allen's show and the debut of a new animated cartoon series on ABC and a Victor Borge and a Jack Benny special on CBS. Borge, aided by Hermione Gingold, pianist Leonid Hambro and some very witty music and dancing, measured up handsomely. Steve Allen was back in a familiar format but perhaps trying a little too hard.

The animated cartoon, "Top Cat," was disappointing. And the show called "Carnegie Hall salutes Jack Benny" was an hour of fine classical music by great artists with only a few minutes devoted to funny stuff.

Special Program In Sunday School

BETHEL—Sunday September twenty fourth at the Sunday school hour a special program was given in Johnson Memorial Presbyterian Church. On the annual Rally Day—a time when the Sunday School is emphasized in its program of Christian Education; a time when the Sunday School Teachers and officers are dedicated to their service for another year; a time when much effort is made to bring back into the Sunday School those who have fallen behind in their attendance during summer months and a time to seek to add to the Sunday School those who are not associated with any other Church.

Following the eleven o'clock worship service, conducted by the pastor Rev. W. D. Morton, a picnic dinner was spread on tables in the Sunday School Assembly Room. Including a number of visitors, there were approximately one hundred who gathered at this Homecoming.

In an article in the church magazine Methodist Recorder Dr. Soper added: "I respect a minister who openly disagrees with teetotalism, and says so to his congregation. What bothers me is the person who keeps his occasional glass to himself."

Maryland guaranteed religious tolerance to all in 1649.

show seems better organized than the old one and more thoroughly rehearsed. But maybe Steve has not been watching much television during his year and a half away from it. Much of his sketch material was old hat and the subjects have often been explored on other comedy shows.

"Top Cat," by the creators of "Huckleberry Hound," concerns the adventures of a band of alley cats with New York accents who live by their wits. The first show seemed neither witty nor unusual. But perhaps animated cartoon comedies, like olives, are acquired tastes with some viewers.

The Borge show, like his past specials, was a happy blend of good music and broad comedy.

Radioactivity Is Rising In Belgium

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Radioactivity over Belgium was reported Wednesday to have risen sharply as a result of Soviet nuclear explosions.

A spokesman for the Belgian Royal Meteorological Institute said the rise began Sept. 13 when the radioactivity count multiplied 12 times. Six days later the count had jumped to 20 times that of Sept. 13.

FOOD FOR SURVIVAL . . . for one person for 14 days is shown in the above picture. Town Manager Cleveland Paylor of Ayden said the town obtained the kits in conjunction with their Civil Defense program and they will be on display in the town offices. Each kit contains one can of multi-purpose food, 14 cans of water, utility container, mixing can, can opener, measuring spoon and vitamin C tablets. (Reflector staff photo)

President Counting On Taking Boat Ride Today

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Kennedy counted on a fair weather forecast for another boat ride today. He put relaxation, and no work than necessary, on his program.

Kennedy has assigned Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson to discuss East-West problems with U.S. officials in Paris.

Johnson is going to Europe as head of the U.S. delegation at the funeral Friday of Dag Hammarskjöld, United Nations secretary-general, in Stockholm, Sweden.

The vacation White House announced that Kennedy asked Johnson to stop in Paris on the way home.

Kennedy wrote Johnson: "There is much going on in our discussions with our major European Allies, and I shall be glad to have the advantage of your own account of discussions which you might have in Paris with our senior people there."

The senior people are James M. Gavin, U.S. ambassador to France; Thomas K. Finletter, U.S. ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization; and Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander of Allied forces in Europe.

The President took his family for a cruise Wednesday on the presidential yacht Honey Fitz after appointing Republican John A. McCona as director of the Central Intelligence agency, starting in November.

Mrs. Kennedy and the children, Caroline and John Jr., joined the President for the voyage on a perfect afternoon of bright sun and pleasant breeze.

QUEEN IS EXPECTING

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—The wife of King Hussein is expecting a baby next spring, Dr. Shawkat Sait, the royal physician, said Wednesday. Hussein, 25, married Toni Averil Gardiner, 20, daughter of a British engineer with Jordan's army, last May 25.

'Surprise Package' Of Old Newspapers Gift To Ayden

AYDEN — Purchase of some bankrupt furniture stock here recently resulted in a surprise package for Mrs. C. B. Nobles of Ayden.

Among the items were discovered bound volumes of the "Ayden Dispatch," a newspaper published here from 1917 until about three years ago, when the paper was sold and given another name.

The particular papers found in the furniture stock included volumes during the 1920's. Mrs. Nobles since has given 20 volumes of the papers to the town "for historical purposes."

A former town commissioner, R. H. Worthington, happened to see some of the volumes during disposition of the furniture, and, thinking they might have historical value to the town, contacted Library Board Chairman Wilbur Ormond, who in turn contacted Mrs. Nobles.

When she realized the historical value of the papers, Mrs. Nobles gave the volumes—with the exception of a few which had been sold—to the town.

Town officials are now seeking the remaining volumes. Town Manager Cleveland Paylor stated that "town officials feel it would be nice if all the volumes could be put back together so all the people could use them."

A suitable place will be found for them so that they will be available for public inspection permanently.

One of the volumes contained a March 3, 1927 newspaper which told of a 16-inch snow the preceding Tuesday. "Some roofs have fallen in under the load of the heavy snow fall and others were threatened," an excerpt stated. The article said schools and roads were closed "and rural carriers are unable to deliver mail."

den Dispatch" offered deluxe automobiles, brand new, for $495. The most expensive automobile to be found in an ad was for $795. Men's shoes were $3. Ah, the good old days.

Volcano Fears Begin To Ease

PAHOA, Hawaii (AP)—Families driven from their homes on Hawaii island's southeast coast by the threat of erupting Kilauea volcano began returning to their farms today.

More than 300 residents of three small farming villages were told late Tuesday they could go home.

Ceramic-face glass blocks, with color which can't chip or peel, are now available in bright colors for the home.

Supreme Court OKs New Trials

RALEIGH (AP)—Two men, one convicted of raping his step-daughter, the other convicted of manslaughter in the death of a companion, have won new trials as a result of Supreme Court action.

The court said Wednesday that Johnny Payton, sentenced to life for raping 8-year-old Margie Henderson, was convicted on evidence presented in the jury's absence.

The little girl, who testified Payton had been intimate with her several times, was incoherent and cried frequently on the stand in James Superior Court.

Judge Chester Morris then conducted the examination in the jury's absence. The court reporter read the girl's testimony to the jury later.

The Supreme Court said, "Thus the story of the witness went to the jury as hearsay. The defendant was entitled to have the jury hear the story from the witness herself and to observe her demeanor at the time she told it. This was a fundamental right."

The court also granted a new trial to Samuel Hargett, sentenced to 17 to 20 years for manslaughter in the death of Sgt. Pacl Weingardner, a Ft. Bragg soldier, last Jan. 1.

The court said Judge Jack Hooks erred when he charged the jury that it could convict Hargett if it found he "aided and abetted another person who committed an assault and battery upon Sgt. Weingardner."

Weingardner drowned in a small canal near the New Bern city dump after a drinking bout with Hargett and others.

See New Delays On GM Contract

DETROIT (AP)—Prospects of Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers union reaching a complete settlement on a labor contract within the next few days appeared to have diminished today.

Another week may be required. The negotiations are continuing under secrecy wraps.

This was indicated Wednesday when the bargaining teams split up into subcommittees to study contract changes sought by both the company and the union.

Three subcommittees have been assigned to deal with contract language covering pensions, insurance and supplemental unemployment benefits. These are some of the areas in which the union is trying to gain from Ford a better settlement than it made with General Motors.

A fourth subcommittee was set up to work on problems at Ford's steel plant in Dearborn, Mich.

More than two months ago Ford proposed changes in the working agreement affecting steel workers at the company's Rouge Plant. Ford Monday offered the union a three-year contract paralleling the settlement made last week with General Motors. The union said this was not enough.

The GM settlement gives UAW members an increase of more than 12 cents an hour each year in take home pay and provides extra benefits in insurance, pensions and hospital-medical care.

Soviet Says U.S. Involves Atomic Talks In Cold War

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The Soviet Union accused the United States today of carrying the cold war into the International Atomic Energy Agency and attempting to turn it into an instrument of Western military interests.

Vasily Emelyanov, chief Soviet delegate to the agency's general conference here, also charged IAEA was secretly involved in U.S. plans to station five nuclear Polaris submarines in North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries.

In a speech to delegations from the 76 member countries, Emelyanov, a nuclear scientist, said the United States was "doing everything to submit IAEA to its military interests."

"The U.S. State Department is attempting to create a cold war atmosphere in this organization," he asserted. "But the Soviet Union will not accept this."

Emelyanov said a current IAEA project to study the possibilities for berthing nuclear-propulsion ships in the Copenhagen, Denmark, harbor was in fact a military scheme.

"There is only one peaceful ship with nuclear propulsion in the world—the Soviet icebreaker Lenin. But she will never go to Copenhagen," Emelyanov said. "It appears that Copenhagen harbor is being prepared for the transfer of American nuclear submarines to NATO countries—with the help of IAEA."

Jenkins Named To Steering Body

Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of East Carolina College, had been appointed by Governor Sanford to the 32-member Steering Committee to open the drive for approval of the $61,665,000 bond referendum which goes to North Carolina voters Nov. 7.

The Governor noted that the Steering Committee will be aided by a much larger Citizens Committee for a Better North Carolina. Members of the larger committee will be named in the near future.

John W. Umstead Jr. of Chapel Hill, veteran state representative, has been elected chairman of the Steering Committee. Umstead, longtime trustee of the University of North Carolina and chairman of the State Hospitals Board of Control, headed the successful campaign for the bond issues in the fall of 1959.

Both the Steering Committee and the Citizens Committee for a Better North Carolina will hold their organizational meeting at the North Carolina State College Student Union Thursday.

Three Vehicles In Collision Here

Police reported over $300 damage was done yesterday when three vehicles collided on Greene St. between Fourth and Fifth Sts. about 12:12 p.m.

Officers who investigated the collision identified the drivers involved as James L. Evans, 72 of 307 East Ninth St.; Burnest Griffin, 34-year-old Negro of 914 Legion St.; and Willie Grice, 34-year-old Negro of 411 West Third St.

Officers said the Evans truck was pulling from a parking lot into Third St. at the time of the collision. The Griffin truck was traveling South on Greene while the Grice car was headed North on Greene.

Damages were placed by investigators at $175 to the Evans truck; $200 to the Griffin vehicle and $30 to the Grice auto.

Evans was charged with failure to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Police said a passenger in the Griffin vehicle, James Cratt, 31, of Route 6, Greenville, was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for abrasions received in the wreck and released.

Travel Plans To Be Disrupted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The impact of an air defense exercise on Saturday, Oct. 14, may be great on athletes and sports fans.

The college football season will be at a height that day when, for 12 hours, all civilian aircraft and all nonparticipating military planes will be grounded.

The exercise, conducted by the North American Air Defense Command, will involve about 2,000 military planes in a simulated attack on the North American continent.

On that Saturday more than 40 major intersectional games, some of them important homecoming contests and some involving large travel distances, are scheduled. Although most college football teams arrive at least a day before the game, the grounding of planes during Operation Sky Shield II will affect the travel plans of thousands of fans who rely on charter flights.

There will be no commercial or civilian flying from 1 p.m. Oct. 14 until 1 a.m. Oct. 15, EDT. In the other time zones the hours, all on Oct. 14 are: noon to midnight, CDT; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., MST; 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., PST; 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Alaskan Standard.

Although the exercise is expected to ground 1,800 domestic and international airline planes and 70,000 private and business aircraft.

THE HARD WAY
NEW PRESTON, Conn. (AP)—An automobile's brakes failed and the empty vehicle rolled into 20 feet of water from a boat launching ramp. When the car was pulled out a 2 1/2-pound bass was found alive in the back seat.

Wallace N. Hyde, executive secretary of North Carolina's Democratic Executive Committee, Wednesday night pinpointed sources of political party strength as he addressed the East Carolina College Young Democrats Club.

Hyde, special aide to Gov. Sanford during his two Democratic primary battles last year, told the student organization the strength of a political party's strength lies in its ability to constantly recruit new members, to adequately train party leaders and to develop an effective and area-wide precinct organization.

Training of party leaders, Hyde said, should be "based on the premise that the backbone of the party structure is organization on precinct level."

Hyde explained the importance of political parties and the growth of North Carolina Republican Party strength:

"Democracy," he declared, "cannot exist without political parties. And the only way you can be active in government is through a political party."

On GOP growth, Hyde said: "Competition is good if you meet it with competition. I have been very well-pleased with the success of the party here at East Carolina College. The most valuable asset any state can have is a well-rounded educational program."

Hyde announced party plans for a series of workshops aimed at training future party leaders. "We're going to have to educate people to the party," he said.

In reference to his post as salaried executive secretary for N. C. Democrats, Hyde said: "It is hard for an organization as large as the Democratic party in North Carolina to function as it should without a fulltime staff."

He said 42 states currently employ Democratic Party staffs numbering from 10 to 12 members on a full time basis.

Hyde was introduced to the YDC audience by Walter B. Jones of Farmville, 1960 candidate for Congress. The party official spoke to the group in the college library's auditorium.

Guests introduced during the gathering that lasted more than an hour included Charles O'H. Horne of Greenville, leading Pitt County Democrat, and Miss Janice Hardison, president of the Democratic Women of Pitt County and a 1960 delegate to the National Democratic Convention in Los Angeles.

Plans for Hyde's appearance here were made by the ECC YDC chapter's officers and faculty advisor Dr. Kathleen Stokes. Officers include Ann Frances Allen, president; Lloyd Prout, vice president; Sylvia Wallace, secretary; and Jim Kirkland, treasurer.

The Rose High Phantoms, leading the Northeastern Conference so far this season, will meet their big rivals from Washington, the Pam Pack, Friday night at 8 o'clock in the East Carolina College Stadium.

The local club will be seeking their third conference win and the fourth victory of the year when it comes face-to-face with the Washington boys. Under Coach Bud Phillips' leadership, the Phantoms are behind as far as the won-loss record is concerned for the past four years with the Pam Pack.

So far this season the Rose High eleven has downed Ahsokie, Jacksonville and Kinston. The first two games were at home with the Kinston contest being the only away game so far.

Phants In Good Physical Shape

Coach Phillips said that his club will probably be in the best physical shape they have been in so far this season when they meet Washington. He said all of the minor injuries along with the major ones have just about healed up and the boys are in good spirits. Guard George Van-Nortwick, who was out of the first two games with an ankle injury, played some last week and was running at about 3-4 speed during the Thursday practice session. Halfback John Adams was out of the Kinston game with a knee injury, but has been practicing again this week and should be ready for some action according to all reports.

Washington will be seeking revenge when they travel to Greenville this week because of the 34-0 loss to the Phantoms last season. The strong rivalry between the two schools will also add to the spirit of the visitors as well as the home team. Veteran Coach Choppy Wagner said he has a fine group of boys this year. "They try hard and the spirit and morale is extremely high," he added.

Starting Lineup

The starting lineup for the Phantoms will probably be about the same as it was last week with star quarterback Billy James calling the signals for the local boys. He will be backed up by sophomore Dale Gidley who has been doing a good job during the practice sessions lately. The halfbacks will be Krohgie Andersen on the right and Alan McArthur on the left. Andersen had made an excellent showing so far this season and McArthur is living up to his All-Conference and All-Eastern titles of the '60 season. Senior Wayne Sumrell will take care of the fullback spot when the Phants take to the grid Friday.

Greenville Loaded

Coach Wagner said, "Greenville appears to be loaded and could give my boys some trouble. They have an awfully fine backfield. We just hope to make a good showing," he added. The Pam Pack won last week's contest with Elizabeth City by a score of 7-6.

Calling the signals for the visitors Friday will be Gray Winfield at quarterback with Gene Harrington at fullback. The halfbacks are Allen Boyer, on the left who is the only returning player who started against Greenville last season, with Phil Moore on the right.

"Crucial" Contest

The game between Greenville and Washington and the one between New Bern and Jacksonville are considered the two "crucial" contests in the Northeastern Conference this week. While the Phantoms boast the top scoring mark in the conference they will be going against a Pam Pack defensive unit which holds one of the circuit's better defensive marks.

As far as the other "crucial" game in the conference is concerned, New Bern's tailback, Donald Davis, will probably give Jacksonville a tough time along with the rest of the squad. Davis is the leading scorer in the league so far this season with six touchdowns, and the loop's top rusher with 421 yards in 34 carries, which gives him an average of more than 10 yards per carry.

Rushing Yardage

A look at rushing yardage around the conference also puts New Bern on top with 832 yards, followed by Elizabeth City with 618 and Washington which has 581.

From an aerial standpoint in the conference, Kinston's quarterback Billy Taylor takes the lead with 10 completions in 29 tries for 159 yards. None of the other teams have attempted more than six passes. The Red Devils meet Wilson this week. Other games this week are Roanoke Rapids at Elizabeth City and Hertford at Tarboro.

Pre-Season SC Favored Citadel Needs A Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Citadel's Bulldogs were one of the pre-season favorites in the Southern Conference football race, but after just two games they're almost out of the running without ever getting into it.

A 40-0 defeat by Memphis State in the opener didn't hurt the Bulldogs as far as the conference scrap is concerned, but 17-13 setback last week by George Washington was a bitter blow.

Victory is almost a must on Saturday when The Citadel entertains Davidson's improving Wildcats in their second league test.

And, while the Bulldogs have yet to win, the general feeling around Charleston is that "just one good win will do it." The big problem for Coach Eddie Teague and his staff, is getting their "one good win."

Teague professes to have seen signs of improvement in the second half against the Colonials last week. While The Citadel's offense was stalled before intermission, it produced two touchdowns in the second half and had moved to the GW 9 as the game ended.

The Bulldogs outgained the Colonials over-all, got more first downs and ran more plays. The goal now is scoring the most points.

Davidson took a 45-19 conference shellacking from Furman last week after squeezing past Catawba in its opener, and the Wildcats suffered a loss through the injury to sophomore quarterback Benny Coxton. With Coxton out four weeks, another sophomore—Earle Cole—will shoulder the burden.

A thunderstorm sent the Bulldogs indoors for a dummy scrimmage and blackboard work Wednesday.

Davidson worked on pass defense, where it ranks last in the conference. Coach Bill Dole commented that "it's no secret that we'll have to improve in that category if we expect to win."

Pass defense continued to be stressed at George Washington as the Colonials prepared for Saturday night's collision with Furman that will dump the loser out of a four-way tie for first place in the league standings.

At Furman, the Paladins took a look at GW defensive set-ups and also wore on offense.

Coach Ed Merrick said Richmond's Spiders are "in better physical shape than they were before the Army game" last week. The spiders met VMI's defending conference champions Friday night, and a look at VMI's loss to Villanova has convinced Merrick the Keydets "will be real tough."

VMI put its emphasis on defense Wednesday in preparation for its first conference game of the campaign.

Two West Virginia ends, Gene Heeter and Bob Timmerman, were counted out of the Mountaineers' Saturday game with Syracuse. Heeter will be lost for the season with a fracture of the left leg.

Furman Offense Better Than '60

WASHINGTON (AP)—From all indications, Bob King's Furman Paladins may have an offense even better than last year—and that was good enough to lead the Southern Conference.

The first team statistical release of the new season by the Southern Conference News Bureau shows Furman far in front in total offense with an average of 446 yards per game — far better than the 292-yard average which topped the league for the Paladins last year.

The Paladins' new strength apparently is in their balance. They are tops again in the league in rushing, but their passing—third last season — has improved to where it now ranks No. 1. The breakdown shows Furman averaging 297.5 yards per game rushing and 178.5 yards per game passing.

Virginia Tech, tops in total defense, virtually is assured of maintaining that edge for awhile. The Techmen not only will be idle again this week, but their yield of only 195 yards per game is far better than runnerup William and Mary's 242.5.

Furman is tops so far in rushing defense and hunting.

Tresh Is Rookie Of The Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Tom Tresh, son of former Chicago White Sox catcher Mike Tresh and now with the New York Yankees, is the International League's rookie-of-the-year for 1961. Selection of the 23-year-old Richmond shortstop was announced today.

Golf Course Suit Underway

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — Club pro Stan Sherman and various members of the Royster Golf Association were to testify today in a suit brought by a property owner, who claims the municipal golf course that adjoins his property here is a nuisance and hazard to his family.

H. Field Young, a finance company executive, brought the suit. His home is near the eighth tee on the golf course. Young brought 345 golf balls in 10 glass jars to court Wednesday. He testified that he had picked up hundreds of golf balls from various places around his house.

Jack Goode, a gardener and handyman who works in Young's yard, testified that "nine tenths of the time I'm dodging golf balls." He said he had been struck once on the thigh and on the foot by stray golf balls.

Judge J. Frank Huskins is hearing the case in Superior Court. A jury of two housewives and 10 men, all non-golfers, will render judgment. Legal authorities said the case is unique in North Carolina.

Ayden Traveling To Farmville And Robersonville Plays Vanceboro

Coastal Conference action Friday night will see the two Pitt County teams, Ayden and Farmville, come fact-to-face on the Red Devil's field at Farmville at 8 p.m.

In other area conference games, Vanceboro will travel to Robersonville in hopes of gaining its first conference win of the season against the Rams.

All indications are that the Ayden Tornadoes will use about the same lineup as they did last week when they took their fourth win of the season by defeating Robersonville by a score of 18-0.

Dunn at Quarterback

Tornado Coach Stuart Tripp will probably have Tommy Dunn calling the signals from the quarterback spot with William Edwards taking care of the fullback position. The halfback positions will probably be handled by Joe Harrington and Rudolph Cannon.

The line for Ayden will be headed up by Joe Tripp at center with Robert Cannon at right guard and Carroll McLawhorn at right tackle. The right end will probably be Clem McLawhorn. On the left side of the line will be Artie McGlohon at guard, Jackie Collins at tackle and Emmitt Gibson will handle the end position.

Coach Elbert Moyer at Farmville will also use about the same lineup as in the past. Dean Oglesby will call the signals at quarterback with Rex Hodges at fullback. Danny Dilda will handle the left halfback spot with freshman Robin Dilda on the right.

Red Devil Line

Both coaches have been working this week in preparation for this contest. Ayden is in the top position as far as conference standings go with Ayden noise on their heels in second. This contest should prove to be an interesting one as there is a good bit of rivalry between the two Pitt County clubs.

Lineup Changes

Over at Robersonville Coach Bob Lee has been readying his Rams for the contest with Vanceboro. Reports have it that there will be one change made in the line as well as the backfield. These changes were not made public prior to today.

The backfield last week was made up of Billy Craft calling the signals, Joe Bullock, a freshman, taking care of the fullback spot with Charlie Forbes at tailback and Linwood Bunting at wingback.

A Robersonville spokesman said that the boys have been working hard this week on their weak point which has been blocking. They were scheduled to scrimmage Wednesday and today.

Vanceboro Looks Good

Vanceboro Coach Gerald Poplin said that his team is looking good at the present time and that it is free of injuries. He said the teams they have played so far were much stronger than Vanceboro, but he felt the Rams would give them more equal competition. Vanceboro has a 2-2 record with both losses being conference games.

Only four of the boys in the Vanceboro starting lineup tomorrow were not starters on the '60 team. At quarterback will probably be Dewey Tripp with Woodrow Wright at fullback. The fullback. The halfback positions will be filled by Vernon Smith on the left and Charles Ippock on the right.

Three Brothers

Poplin said that fullback and right tackle are brothers. Their older brother is also on the squad, but he is out with a neck injury at the present time according to the coach. Poplin added that the spirit was not quite what it should be, but said that it was picking up each day.

Two Full Units At Army This Season

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's enough football talent at Army this year for two full units, but don't count Dale Hall's blessing just yet. He also has more than enough worries with inexperienced sophomores and injuries.

The Cadets, which last week opened their season with an unimpressive 24-6 victory over Richmond, have 21 sophs on their 50-men squad this year, and seven are in the first two units.

Hall started Chet Kempinski, a 213-pound soph tackle from Wilkes Barre, Pa., against Richmond and had the others on the alternate unit.

"But," he said today, "wouldn't you know it? The second unit scored our three touchdowns, while our No. 1 unit got only the field goal."

"We had to use Kempinski on the first unit," he went on, "it was the only way we had to solve a tackle problem, and while he and the other sophs make mistakes, we can only hope that none will hurt us at crucial times."

However, even with his problems Hall still has a potent attack, built around the running of quarterbacks Dick Eckert and Joe Blackgrove, the latter just off the injury list, and fullback Al Rushatz. He also has a pair of strong ends in Paul Zumida and John Ellerson.

Texas State Saturday, lost end Lynn Morrison and center Dick Kercheville for the year with knee injuries while Notre Dame counted out with injuries soph quarterback Bill Pfeiffer and end Steve Kolski for its nationally televised game against Oklahoma.

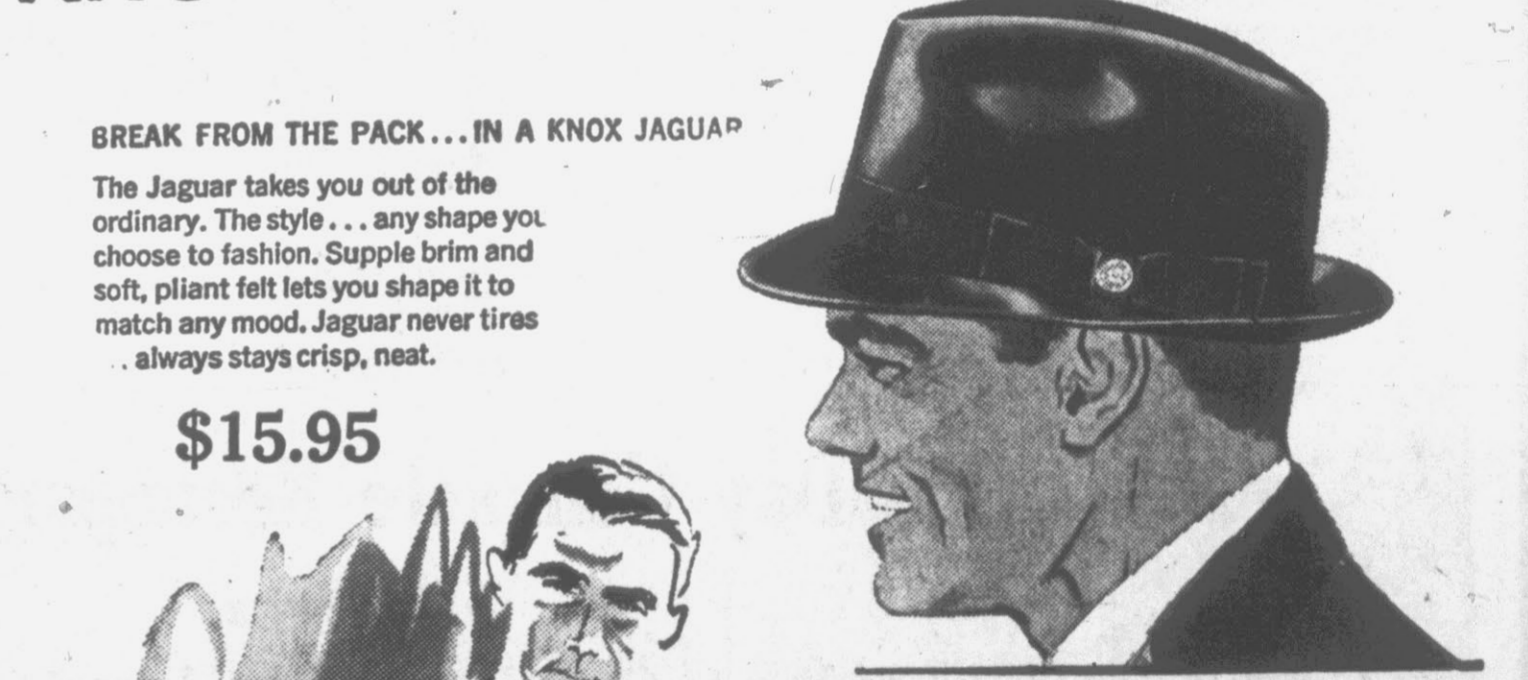

West Virginia, loser of its last 17 games, must face mighty Syracuse Saturday without Gene Heeter, a No. 1 end who is out for the year with a knee injury, and end Bob Timmerman, with a similar injury.

Defense Buildup Affecting NFL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: Three first-year players with the St. Louis Cardinals have been ordered to active duty with reserve units, bringing to five the number of front-line National Football League members affected by the U.S. defense build-up.

Ordered Wednesday to report at Fort Chaffee, Ark., by Oct. 29 were offensive end Taz Anderson, reserve offensive guard Bob Demarco, and offensive tackle Ernie McMillan.

Previously receiving orders were lineman Dick Schafrath of the Cleveland Browns and Lamar McHan veteran quarterback now with the Baltimore Colts.

Schafrath, who is due to report early next month, still is with the Browns. McHan has received a "seasonal" deferment until the first of next year.

If and when the three called Wednesday leave for Army duty, they will be placed on the team's military reserve category and replaced on the active roster. The National Football League has no provisions at the present time to permit teams affected to carry extra players as a cushion against possible losses to the defense build-up.

Unanimous approval of all 14 teams would be required for an extra player provision and it was reported that an informal discussion of the possibility recently showed no unanimous consent between the league members.

Several key players in the rival American Football League also are affected.

Ford-O'Toole Likely Opening Pitchers

Whitey Ford

Jim O'Toole

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Barring a change in plans between now and next Wednesday, the opening game pitchers for the 1961 World Series will be left-handers Whitey Ford (25-4) for the New York Yankees and Jim O'Toole (18-9) for the Cincinnati Reds.

Both managers—Ralph Houk of the Yankees and Fred Hutchinson of the Reds—have indicated they will employ no more than three starters in the series, even if it goes the limit of seven games.

Right-hander Ralph Terry (15-3) will pitch the second game for the Yankees. Joey Jay, another right-hander with a 21-9 record is expected to be Hutchinson's second game choice. The first two games, starting Oct. 4, will be played at Yankee Stadium.

Right-handers Bill Stafford (13-9) of New York and Bob Purkey (16-12) of Cincinnati will be the opposing pitchers in the third game at Cincinnati's Crosley Field on Saturday, Oct. 7. After that, it will be Ford against O'Toole again.

"I see no reason why I can't go with three pitchers," Houk said today. "With the days off after the second and fifth games, it means three pitchers can go every four days. I've been using my pitchers more or less, every fourth day during the season and I see no reason why I should change my method, especially since it has proved successful all year."

"Of course, if a particular pitcher looked bad or if he were forced to pitch extra innings and his arm became stiffer than expected, I probably would be forced to change my thinking. Otherwise, I will go with three pitchers."

Houk plans to pitch Ford, Terry and Stafford, in that order, against Boston in the final series of the year, starting Friday night. None will be allowed to go the distance.

Houk said he probably will use right-handers Jim Coates, Roland Sheldon and left-hander Bud Daley as his "long men" in relief, thus preserving his relief ace, Luis Arroyo, for the final innings. "Long man" is a term baseball people use for relief pitchers who are called upon in the early innings. A "short man" is a bullpener of the type of the Reds' Jim Brosnan and Jim Henry, and also Arroyo, who are not summoned until the seventh, eighth or ninth innings. Such pitchers usually come in to preserve a slim lead or when the score is tied.

Duke Not Taking Any Chances With Virginia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Virginia hasn't won a football game in the Atlantic Coast Conference since 1958, but Duke Coach Bill Murray won't let his guard down for Saturday's game between the teams in Richmond, Va.

"Virginia is a fine looking football team, big and strong," Murray says. "While many consider Virginia's chances almost nil against the big, strong Duke team, I must remember a fateful Saturday three years ago."

It was in 1958 that Virginia won its last game in the ACC—beating Duke in an upset 15-12. The Virginians lost 28 straight football games after that, and did not end the losing string until last Saturday when they beat William and Mary.

All indications from Duke are that the Blue Devils consider Virginia a good football team. Murray put his squad through a goal line defense drill Wednesday and said a light drill was planned today.

Coach Bill Elias sent the Virginia team through a full-speed offensive scrimmage. Halfbacks Carl Kuhn, Bobby Freeman, Tony Uehla and Ted Rzemoluch ran with authority, Elias reported after the workout.

The North Carolina football team which marks its seasonal debut against North Carolina State on Saturday, completed heavy work Wednesday. The Tar Heels worked on offense, defense and punts.

Meanwhile, Coach Earle Edwards at N.C. State announced that sophomore Bill Sullivan had been moved to the No. 1 right guard position and junior Fred Bernhard has been placed at tackle on the first unit.

A hard two-hour workout was held at Clemson. Coach Frank Howard again had his Tigers working on defense in anticipation of the Maryland invasion this weekend.

At Maryland, the Terps completed contact work. Coach Tom Nugent said the drill was a "good, hard hour and a half scrimmage." He called the results "very satisfactory."

South Carolina concentrated on passing as quarterbacks Jim Costen and Dave Sowell hit their receivers regularly during the workout. Coach Marvin Bass also said he had moved Sammy Anderson to second team-halfback, replacing Dean Fowble, who quit the squad to devote full time to his studies.

Wake Forest also worked on offense, and Coach Billy Hildebrand said emphasis was placed on defensive pursuit which caused him considerable worry in last week's loss to Baylor. End Bill Ruby worked out in light equipment Wednesday for the first time since he received a badly bruised chest in the Baylor game.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "Sure the record is nice but I'd rather win," said southpaw Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers Wednesday night after he established a new National League strikeout record for a single season but lost 2-1 to Philadelphia.

Koufax broke the record of 287 set by Christy Mathewson of the New York Giants in 1903, in the sixth inning when he struck out Pancho Herrera, who took a third called strike.

"I'm pleased (with the record) but I wish I'd stopped the two runs," said the 25-year-old Koufax later. "I know when he came up to bat I had a chance at the record but I didn't think about it until the third strike was called."

In all Koufax struck out seven batters to give him a new mark of 269. After getting Herrera, the sixth strikeout of the night, he fanned B.G. Smith in the eighth. The American League mark is 348 set by Bob Feller of Cleveland in 1946.

AAU Champ Be Honored Sunday

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Pete Forgarsay, 1960 breaststroke champion of the Amateur Athletic Union, will be honored at Charlotte Sunday by the Carolinas Association of the AAU.

Forgarsay, a Hungarian refugee who now attends North Carolina State, will receive the L. J. Fisher Award as the regional organization's outstanding athlete.

The announcement was made Wednesday by John R. Brooks Jr., of Columbia, Carolinas AAU president.

Experience Gives Yankees An Edge Over Cincinnati

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Experience gives the New York Yankees the edge in pitching over the Cincinnati Reds.

No one has started more games in World Series history than Whitey Ford, the ace of the American League pennant winners. The brilliant left-hander has started 14, compiled a 7-4 mark and is tied for most victories with Alle Reynolds and Red Ruffing.

Ralph Terry and Bill Stafford, who figure to draw the other starting assignments for New York, worked in last year's series. Terry lost two games, yielding the home run to Bill Mazeroski in the final game that gave Pittsburgh the title. Stafford pitched six innings with no decisions.

Luis Arroyo, Jim Coates and Bob Turley of the Yanks also have seen series action.

On the other hand, none of the 10 Cincinnati pitchers eligible for the 1961 postseason championships starting in Yankee Stadium next Wednesday, has any series experience.

The starting pitchers almost are certain to be Ford (25-4), Terry (15-3) and Stafford (13-9) for New York and Joey Jay (21-9), Jim O'Toole (18-9) and Bob Purkey (16-12) for the Reds.

The fact that all six have impressive won-lost records is a tribute to the teams' excellent relief pitchers — Arroyo (15-5) for the Yankees and Jim Brosnan (10-3) and Bill Henry (2-1) for the Reds. These three will be the late-inning relievers. Coates (11-5) and Bud Daley (12-17) for New York and Ken Johnson (6-2) and Jim Maloney (6-7) of Cincinnati are likely to get the relief calls from the first through the sixth innings.

On a collective basis, the Reds' pitchers have 46 complete games, 12 shutouts, permitted 143 homers and a 3.78 earned run average. Yankee pitchers have totaled 47 complete games, 13 shutouts, 137 home runs off and a 3.51 ERA.

61-Year-Old Decided For Herself— She Returned To Grammar School

By EZRA BRIDGES

Shelby Daily Star Staff Writer
Written for The Associated Press
SHELBY, N.C. (AP)—Distressed because she couldn't pronounce the hard words in the Sunday School lesson, a 61-year-old Negro domestic servant went back to grammar school this fall.

Mrs. Lucy Ann Worthy, who spent about five weeks in class when she was nine years old, has enrolled in the fourth grade at Cleveland School here.

Cisterns Offer Fallout Shelter

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — A retired railroad construction foreman figures this coastal city has a ready-made system of fallout shelters—underground cisterns.
J. C. Copeland has one of his own, which he discovered beneath a house he purchased here.

"Miss Lucy," as her 9-year-old classmates call her, wants to be of greater service to God. Going back to school, she decided, was the only way to do it.
She felt the need for more education when she was called upon to cope with situations arising in her work as church kindergarten teacher, Sunday School assistant, treasurer and treasurer of the stewardess board at Roberts Tabernacle CME Church.

Copeland plans to convert the house into apartments and the cistern into a shelter. His shelter idea has the approval of Charleston's Civil Defense director, Edward J. Dillon.
The cistern's ceiling, five feet high, will be raised one and a half feet and the roof thickened as an added guard against radiation. Copeland will also put 26 inches of masonry and dirt atop the roof. A blower will be installed to provide fresh air.
Dillon inspected the 11-by-8 foot cistern and said he feels it can house 15 people. City Engineer H. B. Good said the cistern is a better fallout shelter than anything being constructed here.

"I want to keep my kindergarten class and perform all my church duties, but I was handicapped because I couldn't pronounce the hard words in the lesson to be taught. I didn't know how to keep records, how to write or spell or speak correctly."
"So often I would go to church on Sunday morning and would have in mind telling the superintendent that I would have to give up my work," she said.

Her fourth-grade class is taught by Mrs. Mattie Edwards. Miss Lucy attends school during the first half of the day. Her curriculum is determined by her own interests, and right now, it's the church and its organization. Church experience stories turn into reading and writing lessons. For arithmetic, she figures out the number of persons present for both Sunday School and church, the amounts contributed by classes and the total amounts raised during Sunday's activities.
"I'm proud to be in school," she said, "and no one knows how proud and thankful I am that the principal and teachers have accepted me here."

Miss Lucy was born in Oglethorpe, Ga. Her mother died when she was six months old and she made her home with an aunt.
She entered old Clark Grove School and attended two terms, completing five weeks of schooling in all.

"I never went to school a straight week before in my life," she said.

She was unable to attend school regularly because she had to nurse her aunt's grandchildren. When she became 10 years old, she went to work in the field with the others in the family.

"There was little time for schooling," she said.
Miss Lucy, feeling she was being treated unfairly, left her aunt's home when she was 20 years old and went to live with a brother in Bishop, Ga. Later, both moved to North Carolina.

Since coming to Shelby 38 years ago, she had been able to eke out her scant education by attending adult schools taught under the W. P. A. program.

Miss Lucy married Arthur Joyner in 1926 in the Cleveland County Courthouse. Later she married George Worthy, now deceased. She is the mother of three children—Joe, James and L. J., and of four stepchildren.
She has proven her loyalty, working 28 years with one employer, 11 years with another, and two years with another. She continues to work in the afternoons while attending school.

"I have done the best I could but could have done better if I had had an education," she said. She urges parents to send their children to school regularly.

"It's more than a notion to need an education and not have it," Miss Lucy added. "I'll be here at Cleveland School as long as I do well. But if I get to the place where I worry the teachers, I'll go back to 210 Kendall St. and make myself contented."

Scattered Price Cuts Show Boom Is Slow

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Price cuts here and there, emphasize today that the time hasn't yet come for a general upward sweep just because business has recovered from its one year of decline.

Many are finding comfort in the news that some things that go up can still come down.
The 1960 recession failed to set off any general weakening in prices. In fact, taking in services as well as goods and finished products as well as materials, the price level managed to rise slightly during the slump.

And now the recovery, although impressive in the industrial production sector, isn't guaranteeing that all prices are going to rise—at least not right away.

Some food prices are due to go up now, but others are likely to ease this fall. Some services seem set to become more costly, but others are leveling off.

Detroit is beginning to announce list prices on its new models. Some are up, but a number are down from last year. The reason is more likely to be competition among the various makes than any clipping of cost corners on the assembly line, where wage scales are about to rise.

Steel prices, regarded as pattern setting by the administration, are still a question. Wage scales go up next week. Steel executives feel that rising production costs and squeezed price margins call for higher prices. But competition is high in this case too.
There is competition within the industry, with lots of capacity to turn out steel products, and with customers still shopping actively for bargains. And there is competition from substitutes.
The cut in the price of aluminum will give pause to makers of steel products that compete with aluminum in many fields—construction, automotive and food cans and other containers.
The price of copper also is under some pressure, with weakness reported in sensitive spot markets.
Oil refiners supplying gasoline to Midwest markets have just cut prices for the fifth time in two months, because of oversupply and lots of competition, and the increasing number of smaller cars that use less gas.
One big tire maker has just predicted that prices in that field should hold steady this year, even if rising costs may force hikes in 1962.
The government's consumer price index shows rising prices in used cars, transportation fares, medical fees and home buying costs.
But consumers are assured that in a few more weeks there should be a drop in the price of meats, as the supply increases. If you are a long-time planner, you can be plentiful for Thanksgiving. This year's crop is one fourth larger than last year's. A record supply is waiting in cold storage.

Nixon Decision Brightens Rockefeller Hope

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard M. Nixon's decision to bid for the California governorship brightens the prospects today of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination.

The former vice president's announcement in Los Angeles on Wednesday night that he will seek the GOP nomination for governor does not necessarily eliminate him as a contender for a second presidential try.

Nixon pledged to serve a full four-year term if elected governor. But while declaring himself out of the 1964 presidential race he declined to say he would not respond to a draft. He was asked specifically about a draft and replied: "I shall not seek the presidency in 1964."

Nixon made it clear—several weeks ago that if he ran for governor and was elected, he would not expect to enter any state presidential primaries in 1964.

His chances for the presidential nomination thus would be dependent on the development of a nationwide draft movement in his behalf, with the hefty California convention vote serving as the basis of his strength.

Rockefeller, who already has announced for re-election next year, might find himself in a position in a second term where he could enter such primaries. And Sen. John F. Kennedy proved in 1960 they furnish valuable momentum toward a presidential nomination.

Lily Pons Not On Opera Roster

NEW YORK (AP)—For the first time in 30 years, Lily Pons' name is missing from the roster of the Metropolitan Opera.

The petite, French coloratura last sang at the Met on Dec. 12, 1960, when she closed a gala benefit show by singing "Caro Nome" from "Rigoletto."

The Met's annual roster was announced Wednesday. The lovely singer's 30-year reign is a house record for a soprano, although in recent years she has given but one performance a season. In 1959 she missed even one performance because of illness.

Miss Pons' manager says she'll continue to sing "now and then at something that appeals to her." She will take part in a San Francisco opera gala next week.

Indonesian Rebel Leader Is Killed

been using as titular head of his party on national and international issues. If he is elected, he is likely to have his hands so full with a hostile Democratic legislature there won't be much time for the detailed homework necessary to stay abreast of the ins and outs of national and world problems.

Rockefeller, on the other hand, would be likely to have a Republican legislature and be relatively freer to make out-of-state speeches on major issues and push the organizational work needed to win a nomination. As governor of California and a former national GOP standard bearer, Nixon would have a strong position in the party, where he retains far wider support than Rockefeller has yet been able to assemble.

But Republicans are likely to remember that while Nixon carried California last year, he could not make the grade in New York and didn't win the presidency. If Rockefeller is re-elected by a substantial majority he will have proved that his popularity hasn't waned and that his 1958 victory in New York was no fluke. The New York prize will look big to the convention delegates in 1964.

Nixon—and Rockefeller for that matter—could wait until 1968 to try for the nomination, provided both won in governors' races in 1962 and 1966. But if either appeared to be avoiding a collision with Kennedy in 1964 because the President appeared to be in a strong position for re-election, Republicans might look elsewhere in the next four years.

Nixon obviously faces a more difficult fight to get elected in California than Rockefeller does for re-election in New York. Democrats have a 1.4 million bulge over Republicans in California registrations.

Defeat for either, of course, would wash up their political careers.

Clashed Over Spaghetti Sauce

LONDON (AP)—Problem: Who puts the sauce on the spaghetti—the waiter or the chef?

Spanish waiter Louis Leon's solution landed him in court Wednesday charged with assaulting the chef.

Leon, waiter in a swank Soho Restaurant, thought it was his job, Greek chef Coumis Achileas said it was his. So Leon emptied a plate of spaghetti all over the chef's head, the court was told, and followed up with a swipe with a silver dish. The chef had to have 17 stitches to close the head wound. The court freed Leon on condition he keeps the spaghetti on the plate in the future.

Rock Hudson Is Making His First Big Money

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rock Hudson is making the first big money of his career—but he does not want to talk about it.

Rock hit paydirt with the first film for his own company, "Come September." A sexy, saucy comedy laced with striking Italian scenery, including Gina Lollobrigida, it has been the No. 1 box office film in the United States for four weeks.

The movie has been outdrawing Rock's previous smash, "Pillow Talk"—domestic gross alone: $7.5 million. Because of the foreign angles, including Gina, it is figured to have a greater potential abroad.

I figured Rock would want to talk about his new role as boy toy. Nope. He sent word that he couldn't take credit for "Come September's" success; other guys were responsible.

"Money?" he said. "I haven't seen any of it. And I won't for a long, long time. Besides, it's not till mine."

The reason for the latter is a peculiar line among the film's credits: "A Seven Pictures-Raoul Walsh Enterprises production." Seven Pictures is the name of Rock's firm. But Walsh had nothing to do with the film. So what is he doing in there?

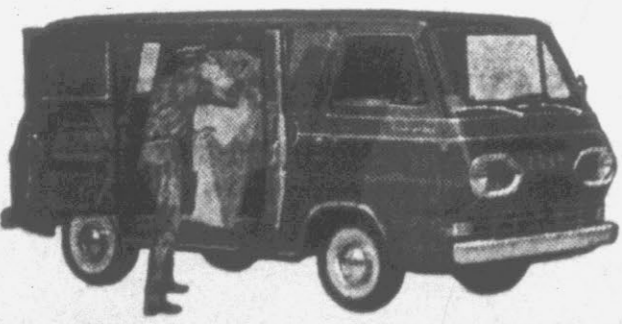

"At the start of my career, Walsh put me in a picture at Warner Brothers called 'Fighter Squadron,'" the actor explained. "Warners wanted no part of me, so Walsh put me under contract. As insurance, he put in a clause that I would do my first independent film with his company."

Fourteen years later, Rock finally made his break—though he still releases through Universal and makes some films there as a salaried actor. When "Rock" announced his own company, Walsh sued for a million. Rather than go to court, Rock cut the veteran director in on "Come September."

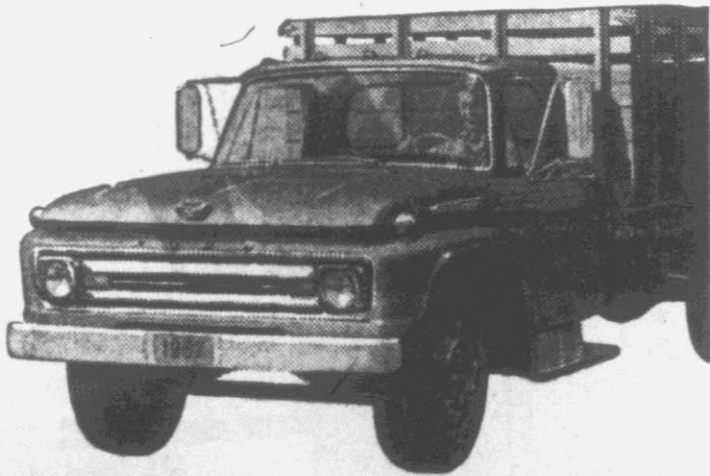

Because Rock has never pushed his weight around, he is not, like some of his contemporaries, a millionaire. But come a few more Septembers, he will be.

Sweden Pays Tribute To Hammarskjold

No Backaches If Past Is Heeded

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Take it from Millicent Lindén, if President Kennedy had boned up on Leonardo da Vinci's writings, he wouldn't have suffered that back strain last spring.

The President would have known how to keep his backbone straight, in a natural sort of way, and wouldn't have put it out of whack, she says.

Miss Lindén, who can do ballet and also sing, has delved into physical principles propounded by Da Vinci, the 15th century artist-engineer, and also the writings of Isaac Newton and the atomic scientists.

As a result, she has written a book entitled: "Why You Should Not Exercise."

Instead you should stretch—as a cat does when awakening from a nap, but of course since you don't walk on all fours, you have to adapt the stretch to the human body.

Five stretches are outlined in the book. To the uninitiated, they might look suspiciously like exercises. Perish the thought, says Miss Lindén. Exercises are contrived boring things, she says, while her stretches are natural movements "completely harmonious and just as smooth as honey."

One is called the "embryo stretch." You curl up like a baby before birth, with your hands wrapped around your toes. Then you extend first one leg and then the other, with your fingers still on your toes.

Another is the "quadruped stretch." You stand squarely on both feet, bend your knees and place the palms of your hands on the floor. Let your head hang down with "quiet abandon." Then straighten your knees very slowly, with your palms still on the floor.

Th a stretch, Miss Lindén says, utilizes Newton's third law of motion—for every action, there is an opposite and equal reaction. Among other results, it improves the complexion.

Miss Lindén says her stretches are aimed primarily "at businessmen of ability, who go popping off like flies because of the tension they're under."

Miss Lindén, demonstrating her stretches to a reporter and photographer, had a bit of difficulty because her leotards were binding. "Confound these things, they won't let me go," she said.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Sweden today honored Dag Hammarskjold with a solemn ceremony unmatched in pomp for any commoner in this nation's long history.

The bodies of the late United Nations secretary-general and nine others who perished with him in a plane crash in the Congo arrived here escorted by eight jet fighters.

Hammarskjold's saddened countrymen received him with honors usually accorded only to a king who has fallen in battle.

More than 300 soldiers paraded. A 43-man army band played the royal death march at Stockholm's Bromma Airport, the airport from which Hammarskjold departed eight years ago to take up his post at the United Nations.

As the band started playing with muffled drums, Hammarskjold's coffin was carried from a hangar and placed on a catafalque in the center of a square formed by soldiers and Red Cross personnel standing at attention.

A chilly breeze fluttered the slugs of five nations—the United States, Sweden, Haiti, Canada and Ireland. Those are the countries of the other victims of the plane crash that took Hammarskjold's life.

Twenty-one Swedish soldiers carrying blue and yellow Swedish flags and the United Nations banner formed the background as the coffins of the other victims were carried to other catafalques wrapped in the flags of their countries.

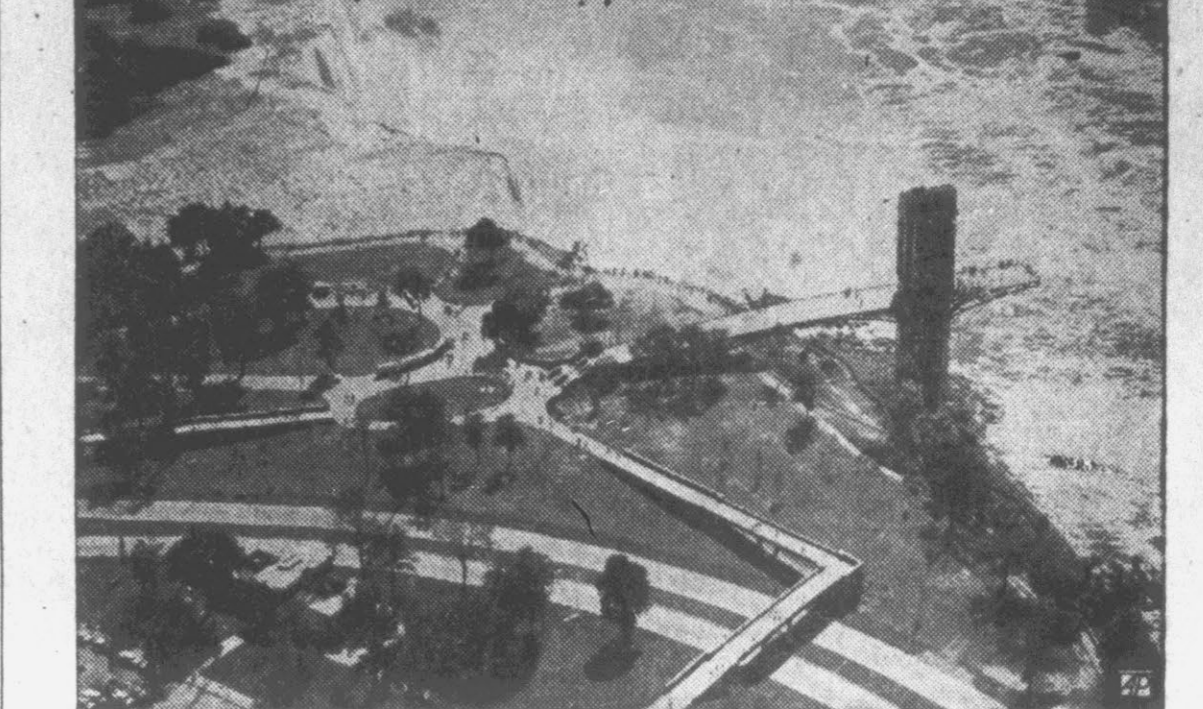

Ambassador Johan Beck-Pris placed on each of the coffins a green wreath with a blue and yellow ribbon—the monogram of the Swedish king. That was a tribute by the royal family to the victims of the Ndola crash, which killed eight other Swedes beside Hammarskjold, three Americans, one Canadian, one Irishman, one Haitian and one Swiss. Five of this century.

Premier Tage Erlander put a large green wreath with white lilies on the coffins of Hammarskjold and the other victims.

A state funeral for Hammarskjold will be held Friday at the ancient university town of Uppsala. The ritual follows that reserved for Swedish royalty and never accorded to a commoner in this century.

Second Chance Seek Damages

RALEIGH (AP) — A Gates County man has been awarded a second chance to seek damages for injuries he received as a result of a collision of his pickup truck and a train.

The State Supreme Court ruled Wednesday William V. Johnson had produced sufficient evidence to warrant sending his case to a jury.

Johnson appealed from Judge Joseph W. Parker's decision in Gates Superior Court dismissing the action after presentation of the plaintiff's evidence.

The suit was brought in December, 1959, against Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, owner of the crossing involved, and Southern Railway, operator of the freight train.

In writing the Supreme Court opinion, Associate Justice Clifton Moore said Johnson produced sufficient evidence of neglect on the part of the railroad to cause the case to be heard by a jury.

Moore said Johnson offered proof that the train gave no warning as it approached the crossing, that the crossing warning light did not operate and that visibility was limited in the direction of the train.

Youngsters Riot Against Police

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Police teams moved into the Fourth Precinct today to maintain the peace they won after battling 600 youngsters.

The riot erupted Wednesday when three policemen tried to break up a fight between several boys near West Kinney Junior High School.

The rioters attacked the precinct police station when patrolmen arrested a 17-year-old nicknamed Abdullah Muhammad. The youth had torn the holster and gun from a policeman and threatened the officer.

The mob finally was dispersed by 50 patrolmen and a fire truck's high-pressure hoses.

Eight other youngsters, including two girls, were arrested and charged with inciting to violence. They range in age from 10 to 17.

Today there were three patrolmen plus plain clothesmen and members of the Police Department's Youth Aid Squad patrolling the neighborhood, Lt. Euplio Dimarco said.

The incident started Wednesday when the officers ordered the youngsters to move along. They were attacked by more than a dozen youths who swore at the officers and called for the others to "jump the cops."

The 17-year-old was taken to the precinct station and minutes later an estimated 600 Negro youngsters gathered around the building.

A dozen patrolmen emerged to fight them back and the rocks began to fly. One window in the police station was broken.

Two patrolmen suffered cuts and bruises and two firemen were struck by stones. The two firemen are Negroes, the patrolmen white.

Lt. John Madaras said he "wouldn't call the business a race riot. It was a bunch of kids who were getting a kick out of throwing stones."

Deck Officers Starting Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Deck officers on vessels in West Coast ports today began a ship-by-ship strike.

They voted the strike Wednesday after prolonged and snarled negotiations.

Affected are some 650 members of the Masters, Mates and Pilots Association, 13 companies represented by the Pacific Maritime Association (PMA).

Atlantic and Gulf shipping was not affected.

The West Coast local of the union approved the strike after union negotiators rejected a final offer of a four-year contract proposing an increase of about 11 per cent in wage and fringe benefits.

The Mates and four other maritime unions struck June 16. The strike ended under a Taft-Hartley law injunction and negotiations with the various unions continued.

The Mates and PMA continued to bargain after expiration of the Taft-Hartley injunction ended. The strike could eventually tie up 134 ships operated by members of the PMA.

Speaker Sam Is Planning Return

BONHAM, Tex. (AP)— Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn says his back is improving and he will be back in Washington by the time Congress reconvenes in January.

Rayburn, 79, canceled a scheduled appearance at the Texas-Oklahoma fair at Iowa Park, Tex., where he was to have been an honor guest Wednesday.

"My doctors felt I should not make the trip since I am making such good progress with my back," Rayburn told newsmen.

The House speaker has been suffering from lumbago. He returned to Bonham from Washington Aug. 31 for a rest.

Letter-Writing Week Oct. 1-7

The 24th annual Letter Writing Week will be celebrated here Oct. 1-7. Postmaster J. Knott Proctor announced today.

The slogan of this year's event, which will be indicated on more than 200,000 banners, is "Letters are links to friendship."

Postmaster Proctor noted that a letter "is the most economical and personal way to extend greetings, communicate social news and exchange ideas." He suggested that during Letter Writing Week, each person write at least two letters, including one to a friend or relative from whom you have not heard in a long time, and the second as a reply to a friend or relative who recently wrote to you.

He also urged correspondence to people in other countries as a means of promoting greater understanding among people of different nations.

Display materials concerning Letter Writing Week will appear on post office bulletin boards and rural carriers vehicles, as well as in various schools and libraries.

INCREASED HUNDREDFOLD

ROME (AP) — A government agency says radioactivity over parts of Italy has increased 10 to 100 times since Soviet resumption of nuclear tests. But the agency says the increases are still too small to be dangerous.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
A man with "very personal feeling for the operation of Greenville Utilities, . . . and a high respect for the organization" is Charles Horne, Chairman of the Greenville Utilities Commission.

Horne, a native of Greenville and an Electrical Engineering graduate of State College is now in his fourth year as a member of the commission and has, for over two years, served as its head.

Horne entered the Army Air Force following his graduation from State College in 1943, and served in the Far East—New Guinea, Australia, Okinawa, Japan and the Philippines—with the Signal Corps working with radar.

His state-side duty stations included among others, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.; Robbins Field, Ga.; and five months at the General Electric Plant school in Schenectady, N. Y.

While in Japan, Horne, for about eight months, served as base power officer for a military facility and Japanese city about 70 miles north of Nagasaki.

Local Students At Mars Hill

MARS HILL — Two students from Greenville are enrolled in Mars Hill College for the fall semester.

They are Susan Arista Franklin, daughter of Mrs. Georgia Smith Franklin of 403 E. Ninth St., and Don Laws Melton Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Laws Melton of 1208 E. Third St.

Mars Hill College has a fall enrollment of 1,054 students.

After his discharge as captain, Horne returned to Greenville and after working with another electrical firm for about nine months, opened his own electrical business.

In 1958 the City Council appointed Horne to the Utilities Commission and a year later, in July of 1959, he was made chairman of the five-member group.

Responsibilities
As chairman, Horne's main responsibility is to see that "other members are informed of the operation of the Utilities as efficiently as possible. . . see what is given to us is what we need to have and know."

Horne explained by pointing out the main purpose of the Commission is to make policy for the operation of the utilities, and "in order to carry out that function, the members need the proper information on which to base their actions."

"Bloxam (Utilities Superintendent Leonard P. Bloxam) in the real sense operates the utilities", according to Horne, "while we (the commission) are just informed of the problems and make the policy" to be followed in their solution.

"Planning intrigues me the most. Planning for the growth of Greenville. . . anticipating the future needs is our main concern. I enjoy this the most," Horne explained.

"I have a very personal feeling for the operation of the utilities and a high respect for the organization."

Members Keenly Interested
Horne noted "All the members of the Commission are keenly interested in their work and have shown an interest and sincere desire to help the city grow residentially as well as commercially. "Basically", he emphasized, "the problem is one of planning" for the growth. "Cooperation" was emphasized by the Commission chairman who noted that there is and has been a "strong wanting and desire to cooperate with the city council in every move we (Utilities Commission) make."

"We keenly feel—personally feel—the Utilities Commission is definitely part of the city and not separated by having a separate charter. . . it is obligated to the city. We work with the council striving for what ever is best for the city. . . planning current and future needs of Greenville."

weakness", Horne explained, "and treat it as a hobby also." The commission chairman is a member of the Lions Club, the local Moose Lodge; the East Carolina Engineering Society and Saint Paul's Episcopal church. He is also a former member and past president of the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Horne married the former Dorothy Pearsall of Wallace and they have two daughters.

House Leadership Is Brushing Aside Senate Outcries Over Stormy Close

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders have taken a "let 'em holler" attitude toward stormy Senate complaints about the wind-up of the congressional session.

The 1961 session came to a whirlwind—and angry—close early Wednesday morning. The House adjourned at 11:30 p. m., leaving the Senate to go along with every detail in a big money measure. Any change would have killed the bill and forced President Kennedy to call a special session to get the needed funds for several government agencies.

House leaders disclaimed any intention of denying the Senate a chance to alter the bill if it wanted to.

But they said they had been assured at a conference attended by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and nine members of the Senate Appropriations Committee that the compromise would be acceptable and would be passed by the Senate in short order. Mansfield later called the House adjournment outrageous.

"Mansfield knew all about it. We understood that the Senate would go along with the bill. They knew we were going to quit as soon as we passed it."

"It's unfortunate," commented Rep. Albert Thomas, D-Tex., the House floor manager of the bill.

"All their members on the committee that worked out the compromise were unanimous."

A top House spokesman who didn't want to be identified because of "the comity" between the two branches, said he suspected the cries of anguish from the Senate were the result of "offended dignity more than anything else."

"For years they have called the House an adjournment," he said. "They have let the House sit around for hours with nothing to do while senators made longwinded speeches before adopting a final adjournment resolution so they could go home. This year we the jump on them and it apparently has hurt their feeling of superiority."

Off-the-record comment of some House leaders threw another light on the situation, which threatens to make less friendly future relations between the two branches.

They suspected that some senators didn't like the compromise and planned to try to reject it and force another Senate-House conference, which could have kept Congress in session days more.

Three items in the compromise were particularly objectionable to some senators.

One made it clear that House members could send free mail to constituents without addressing it to specific individuals. The Senate knocked the item out of the bill originally but it was restored in the compromise agreement.

Another item eliminated more money the senators had voted for their own clerical hire.

The third retained in the bill House language prohibiting Treasury advances, known as back-door pending, to finance the depressed areas program and some housing programs.

Focus On Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Danger at home for unwatched children, marrying cousins in Japan, and the great American sick call are subjects for focus on health.

DANGER AT HOME
Mother, if you're holding down a job and have young children at home, beware!

A study shows that children of working mothers are more likely to become accidentally poisoned by swallowing drugs, cosmetics, insecticides or other dangerous household chemicals. In over 400 cases, 90 per cent involved children of working mothers.

Other findings: peak age of danger was 29 months. Boys were more often the victims than girls. Aspirin and other drugs were the poison agents in two-thirds of the cases. Peak danger hours were between 10 a.m. and noon, between 3 and 5 p.m. Danger areas were the kitchen, bedroom and the bathroom.

KISSING COUSINS
Is there danger for offspring of marriages between first or second cousins?

University of Michigan geneticists have made a study of such blood line marriages in Japan. They say, "While we are not recommending that you marry your cousin, in Japan, at least, the results are not as bad as people thought." The study, growing out of earlier work with atomic bomb victims in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, traced the death rates of children from blood line marriages.

SICK CALL
The average American lost 15 days from work or other usual activity due to illness or injury in the year ended June 30, 1960. Six of those days were spent in bed. The U.S. Public Health Service reports. Geographically, the lowest number of lost days were reported in the north central United States, the most in the South. Women lost more time than men. The higher income groups lost less time than the low income groups.

Sanford Aiming At 'New South'

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina told a community meeting on education on Wednesday night that quality education must be the foundation of what he termed the new policy in the new South.

"I want to announce my conviction," the governor said, "in coming on, public health experts advise you to have your heating units checked to minimize the danger of leaking carbon monoxide."

Carbon monoxide, which smothered from within by taking the place of needed oxygen in your blood is also produced by automobile engines or any fuel-burning device.

For safety, the Connecticut State Department of Health warns: Always keep a car window open if your engine is running. Don't run your auto engine in the garage with the garage door closed. Have the exhaust system checked for leaks.

positive terms that the South will hear the voice of progress and will take action worthy of its heritage.

"Already the South has led the nation in mobilizing all of the educational resources of the region through the outstanding accomplishments of the Southern Regional Education Board."

In pushing the opportunities of the new South, Sanford urged Southerners not to "get back on the defensive," but to join hands in "political action to bring about an evinal and extension of learning in this section as an example to the remainder of the nation."

He called for quality education at all levels. This will cost money, he said, but the South cannot afford not to have such education.

Sanford spoke here after attending the Southern Governors Conference in Nashville. The meeting here, attended by some 800, was sponsored by the Chattanooga Adult Education Council, the Citizens Committee for Better Schools and the Chattanooga and Hamilton County PTA councils.

John Rolfe, the man who married Pocahontas, has a better claim to fame. In 1612 he planted and harvested this country's first commercially successful tobacco crop.

HUNZA: LAND of LONGEVITY

Visitors entering Hunza ride in a box 300 feet above the Hunza River. A flood destroyed a bridge here 20 years ago.

Hunza men are tall and fair-skinned. These two are leaving a religious gathering. It's not uncommon for Hunza men to sire children in their 80s and then live to see the children grow up.

Hidden away in the recesses of the Himalayas in northernmost Pakistan is one of the least-visited, most inaccessible states in the world—the "lost" kingdom of Hunza.

To enter Hunza, a visitor must go in by box. The box hangs from a cable 300 feet above the Hunza River. A towline pulls it across the river which divides Hunza from the rest of Pakistan. It is the highlight of a journey that helps explain why the state has registered only 483 visitors since a guest book was opened in Baltit, the capital, in 1914.

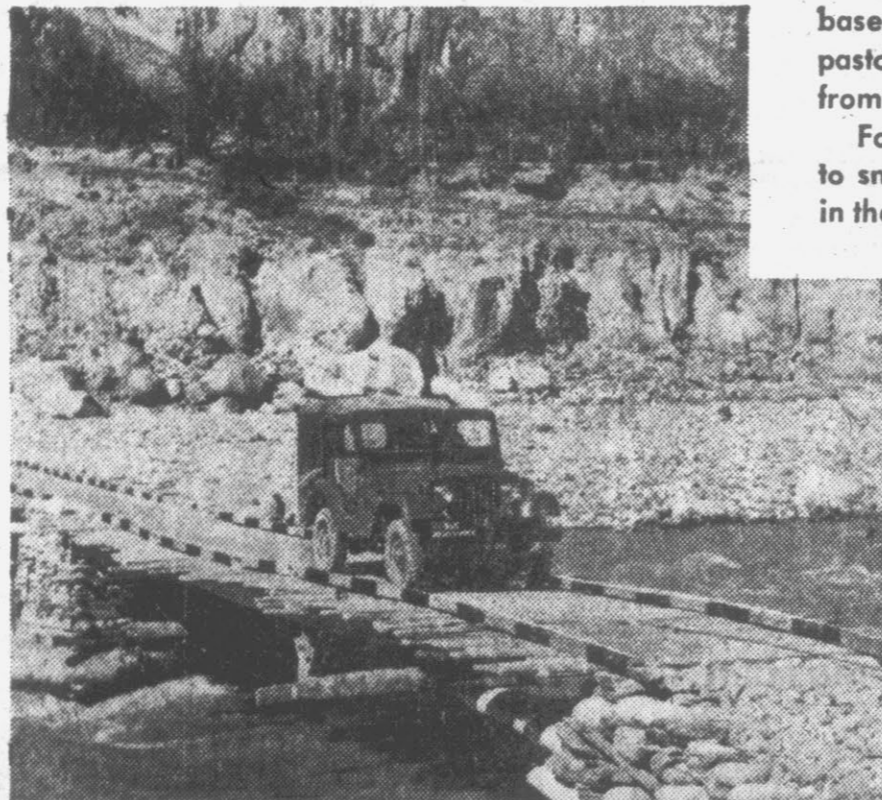

The feature that most impresses Hunza's infrequent visitors is the remarkable longevity of her men, many of whom live past 100. Hunza men keep siring children into their 80s. Mir Muhammad Jamal Khan, ruler of the semi-autonomous state at the back door of Russia and China, admits that his own family is a case in point. "My grandfather lived past 90," says the Mir. "He had a daughter when he was 74 and there was nothing extraordinary about it."

Walking in the mountain air may help explain the extreme longevity. The only wheeled vehicles are two jeeps owned by the Mir. Another factor may be Hunza's diet, which is based on raw fruit and boiled vegetables. Still another may be the unhurried nature of a pastoral existence that has remained the same since the land was first settled by deserters from Alexander's army in the 4th Century, B. C.

For the 32,000 Hunzans who live in the 8,000-square-mile area, and devote their time to small farming and crafts, a new era may be opening up. A hydrogenerator project is in the works—and that will mean light bulbs, power switches and new industries.

Beautiful Baltit Valley, 8,000 feet above sea level, lies nestled between peaks which tower up to 26,000 feet.

A jeep, one of two in all Hunza, crosses narrow wooden bridge in Baltit Valley during tough trip to Baltit, the capital.

Religious gathering near the Mir's old palace. Worshippers are devout Moslems.

The Mir Muhammad Jamal Khan, ruler of Hunza, whose family has held supreme power in state for more than 600 years.

This old man, who posed in Baltit, told photographer he was 105 years old. It's not uncommon for Hunza men to live past 100.

Five of the Mir's six daughters at religious gathering. He also has three sons.

This Week's PICTURE SHOW by AP Staff Photographer Watson Sims

The 1962 IMPERIAL line emphasizes styling continuity, reliability and passenger comfort. It retains its traditionally popular 129-inch wheelbase to provide full-size luxury and comfort in motoring. Improvements in the Imperial include more passenger room in the front compartment, a new more compact and more rugged automatic transmission, new power brakes, sealed front-end lubrication and a variety of rich interior fabrics and tasteful color schemes. Six models are offered in three series, Custom, Crown and LeBaron.

Experts Delve Into Story Of 'Big Limpy', Giant Of The Past

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP)—Scientific detectives have solved the case of the Limping Mammoth. What stumped them at first was not who killed Big Limpy but, how did the killers catch him?

Evidence was scarce. After all, the killing took place 12,500 years ago. The site was amid the sagebrush 35 miles southwest of Rawlins. A drag line operator was clearing out a spring for use by an oil drilling crew when his scoop unearthed a large bone.

That was a signal for archeologists, anthropologists and geologists to move in. The initial University of Wyoming team was quickly joined by an 11-man field crew from Harvard.

The bones proved to be those of a young mammoth.

Dr. Brainerd Mears of the University of Wyoming soon found what appeared to have been the lethal weapon. It was a fluted spear point buried about 10 feet from the animal's skull.

From a scientist's point of view, this in itself was an important find. It associated the animal with early man. Dr. Mears says there are not more than six sites in North America where the remains of mammoths and spear points have been found together.

This picture began to emerge: Big Limpy was young but in some way incapacitated. He hobbled along as best he could but he could not keep up with the herd. When he stopped for a drink at the spring he was an easy

Power Knocked Out; Birds Fried

SPRINGFIELD, Ore. (AP)—Two woodpeckers knocked out electric power for seven minutes in Springfield recently.

A power line superintendent said that one bird apparently rested on a metal transformer case while the other sat on a nearby insulating line. When the birds brushed against each other, they caused a direct short.

The top of the transformer was scorched. The birds were fried.

mark for hunters. Big Limpy's bones were sent to the University of Wyoming for cleaning, chemical preservative treatment and eventual assembly.

There scientists discovered the clue to the mammoth's trouble: he was a victim of arthritis. "We have found arthritic bumps on some of the bones—a bit unusual since this is a young mammoth," explains Dr. George Agostino, University of Wyoming anthropology professor. "Apparently he went lame because of his arthritic condition."

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

One of the most annoying jobs of the home handyman is that of fastening objects to masonry or plaster. Very often a person who is adept at woodworking or general do-it-yourself activity will come a cropper when he has to make an attachment to a concrete or plaster wall.

Sometimes, the difficulty is caused by lack of familiarity with the many types of fasteners on the market rather than by lack of skill. There are literally dozens of types of fasteners available but most of them fit into one of the categories we will discuss here.

For concrete, an excellent fastener is a masonry shield or a masonry anchor. Similar in appearance, these are hollow receptacles which are inserted into holes in concrete. The holes are drilled into the concrete, either with a power drill with a carbide-tipped bit or with a star drill. When a screw or special bolt is inserted into the shield or anchor, the receptacle expands, firmly gripping itself inside the concrete. In making the hole in the concrete, it is important that it be slightly smaller—one-sixteenth of an inch—than the shield or anchor. If you have done the job right, the shield or anchor will fit very snugly.

There is a plastic anchor which operates on the same principle as the metal anchor, but which usually is intended for lighter installations. Masonry nails also can be used. These are hammered into the concrete and sometimes require plenty of sheer power. The nails are inclined to bend under the hammering unless they first are inserted into the object being fastened, such as a piece of 2 by 4 studding.

For masonry, there also is something called an anchor nail, which does away with the job of making a hole in the concrete. The nail is attached to a little square of perforated metal. The square is cemented to the wall with a special adhesive. The nail on the metal square sticks out horizontally. Furring strips or studding are then hammered onto a series of these nails.

In plaster, ordinary nails or screws usually will not hold very well, although they sometimes can be used when very light objects are being attached to the wall. A picture nail will hold well. But it is driven into the wall at an angle and thus, while practical for a picture, is not ideal for an installation which must rest flush against the wall.

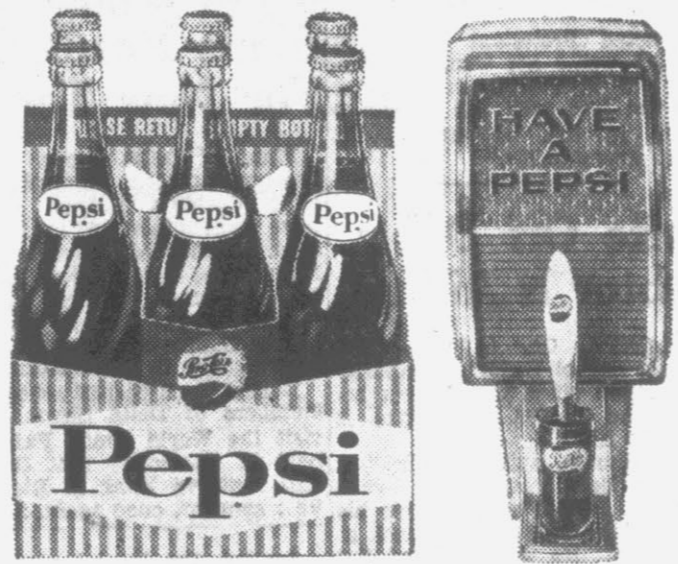

Most plaster walls have opening in back of them and call for the use of a toggle bolt. This bolt has a wing-like attachment on it. As the bolt is driven into the wall, the wings open up the moment the bolt reaches the inner side of the wall. The bolt thus is held firmly in place.

Also practical for plaster walls are small fiber and plastic plugs into which screws are inserted. Still another way to get results is to make a hole in the plaster and thoroughly hard, it serves as a base for an ordinary wood screw. And when something extra heavy must be hung on a plaster wall, it often is necessary to use long screws that go through the wall into the studding.

SPIDERWEB?—Perhaps a first glance would convey the impression of an elaborate spiderweb, suspended between two planks of an old barn, covered by early morning dew. Behind this photograph, however, is a story not so picturesque. The near-symmetrical pattern pictured above was created in the windshield of an automobile when a traffic accident victim crashed headlong into it in Pitt County last weekend. Opines A Moral Right To Defend Family Shelter

NEW YORK (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest believes that man has a moral right to use violence to keep his unprepared neighbors from entering the family fallout shelter after a nuclear attack.

Writing in this week's issue of the Jesuit magazine "America," the Rev. L. C. McHugh, an associate editor of the periodical, said in an atomic bombing that possession of a fallout shelter is likely to be equivalent to life itself.

So, he said, if a neighbor deprived a family of its shelter, or forced his way in to use up food and facilities sufficient for the family alone, it would mean that some members of the family might have to die.

"Nowhere in traditional Catholic morality," Father McHugh wrote, "does one read that Christ, in counseling nonresistance to evil, rescinded the right of self-defense which is granted by nature and recognized in the legal systems of all nations."

A Jewish biblical scholar said Judaic law would permit a man to defend the lives of his family, but he asserted that any preparations for an atomic war—including fallout shelters—were immoral.

Rabbi Herbert Brichio, professor of Bible at the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, commenting on the article, said he did not think any creed, except pacifism, would deny a man the right to protect himself and his family.

"But my own approach," he said, "is that preparation for an atomic war, such as building fallout shelters, is immoral. The moral thing is not to prepare for the survival of a fraction of the human race, but to put all our efforts into avoiding such a catastrophe."

A noted Protestant theologian said he would not want to contribute to attribution on the idea until he had seen the magazine article in full, but added, "It seems wrong to me."

Write Off Debt; Debtor Is Ailing

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The Georgia School Building Authority has written off a $157,69 debt because the debtor, a Negro, is seriously ill.

John Simms, authority director, said the debt was created when the man, Sells France, drove his car into the side of a school at West Point. He was arrested but released when he promised the court that he would pay the $183.69 repair bill.

Simms said France had managed to pay $26 but now is seriously ill.

Class Elections And Organization Staged

By SANDRA ALLEN

FARMVILLE — Class officer elections, Student Government Council organization for the term and beginnings of other annual activities have marked the opening weeks of Farmville High School's 1961-62 school year.

In addition to the usual new faces among FHS students, the school's faculty this fall has new members.

In the English department is Lewis Lawrence, member of Belton-Falkland High School's faculty last year. Lawrence, teaching English I and III, is advisor for Farmville High's student newspaper, "News 'N' Views."

A 1958 East Carolina graduate, S. O. Worthington Jr., has joined the history faculty. Worthington is a native of Greenville.

Coming to Farmville this fall from the Hockley Consolidated School was Mrs. James Moore. Mrs. Moore assumed the position on the mathematics staff left vacant by Miss Elizabeth Edwards.

Mrs. Wade Ward, native of Shalotte and 1961 ECC graduate, has joined the business department's faculty.

Cheerleaders
Four new cheerleaders have been added to the nine-member group headed this year by Senior Frankie Sue Drake. New cheerleaders are Senior Dean Willouby, Junior Brenda Moye and Sophomores Judy Joyner and Nancy Winstead.

Selected for her second consecutive and Freshman classes, respectively. The Seniors chose, in addition to Owens as president, Jimmy Everette, vice president; Dean Willouby, secretary; and Buddy Wainwright, treasurer.

Elected along with Dilda in the Junior Class were Julia Rives, vice president; Sondra Windom, secretary; and Bobby Fiser, treasurer.

Other officers elected by the Sophomores included James Taylor, vice president; Carl Blackley, secretary; and Dal Harris, treasurer.

In addition to Brown, the Freshmen named Ivey Smith, vice president; Connie Killebrew, secretary; and Janet Wainwright, treasurer.

Student Government
Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores have elected their respective representatives to Farmville High's Student Government Council. Since representatives are required to acquire a "C" average, the Freshman must delay election of their delegates until grades for the first six weeks grading period are determined.

In the Sophomore Class, the Bruce homeroom elected Charles Phillips and James Taylor. The Wheelless homeroom chose Ruth Jefferson and Carol Blackley.

From the Junior ranks, delegates elected include Anne Letchworth and Bobby Fiser from the Moore homeroom, Nancy Thomas and Ray Massey from the Ward homeroom and Rachel Case and Bobby Bass from the Aycock homeroom.

From the Senior Rollins homeroom, delegates elected were Sandra Bass and Annette Moseley. Seniors Chester Outland and Rex Hodges were elected from the Joyner homeroom.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Selective improvement gave the stock market an upside edge in moderate trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .70 at 251.60 with industrials up .60, rails up .40 and utilities up .70. Gains of fractions to about a point among key stocks outnumbered losers.

In the absence of any major news development it appeared as a resumption of the technical recovery of the past two days but as the session continued the rally lost steam.

Aircraft, rails, utilities, chemicals, electronics and airlines were on the upside. The trend was lower among steels and motors while drugs and nonferrous metals were spotty.

In a second day reaction to news of their proposed merger, Montgomery Ward was down about a point and Interstate Department Stores lost around 2. Du Pont was down a couple of points.

General Motors eased. Ford erased most of a 1-point loss, as labor negotiations proceeded. Chrysler was up a fraction.

Douglas and some other aircrafts were fractional gainers.

Beckman Instruments and Argo Oil were up 3 points or so. International Business Machines gained about 6. Texas Instruments, Brunswick and Litton Industries advanced more than a point each.

Kennecott and consolidated natural gas were ahead about a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 44 at 701.57. Prices on the American Stock Exchange advanced in moderately active trading.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds declined in slow dealings.

Nasser Faces Revolt Of Syrian Officers

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Army officers in Syria rebelled today in an apparent attempt to break out of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic.

Late this afternoon they called off a negotiated truce and declared they were continuing their fight against tyranny.

Damascus radio, which announced the before-dawn mutiny, said Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, Egyptian commander in chief of U.A.R. forces and chief overseer of the Syrian region, had "broken his promise" to meet the rebel demands.

The broadcast said a previous communique, which indicated a negotiated settlement was being worked out, therefore was canceled.

Trips By Rusk, Home Cancelled

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home both canceled travel plans today to keep in close touch with each other on the developing crisis in Soviet-Western relations over Berlin and the United Nations.

A spokesman for Rusk reported that he had decided against a scheduled trip to Washington early today; it would have kept him away from New York until Friday morning.

A British spokesman said Home had decided to delay his return to Britain. He had planned to go Friday morning. He now expects to stay here until Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Rusk and Home had breakfast together. They may meet again tonight. On Saturday morning, Rusk is due to hold the third of his series of exploratory talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on the Berlin crisis.

The talks started seven days ago. The second session was held Wednesday. Rusk still does not know whether the Soviet government has any intention of negotiating a compromise settlement of the war-threatening Berlin dispute.

But he still hopes to find out and will make another attempt. Home evidently wants to know the outcome of that probing operation. Both Rusk and Home are also deeply interested in behind-the-scenes efforts at the U.N. General Assembly to install a temporary successor to the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld in the face of Soviet opposition.

The revolt broke out only two days after Abdul Hamid Serraj, a former Syrian intelligence chief with Nasser and returned to Damascus from Cairo, where he had been a vice president in the U.A.R. government.

His resignation left but one Syrian in a high post in the U.A.R. government, emphasizing Egyptian predominance in the union of the two countries proclaimed in February 1958.

Serraj was reported to have resented being "kicked upstairs" to the vice presidency last month, because it involved a loss of power in Syria and a corresponding increase in authority for his rival, Amer.

It was not yet clear what role, if any, Serraj played in the revolt. In what was called a "United Arab Republic broadcast," Damascus radio said the situation returned to normal "because of the wisdom" of Amer and Gen. Gamal Faisal, the Syrian army commander.

The radio said Amer was allowed to leave Syria and return by plane to Cairo.

A curfew was ordered in the Syrian capital.

Nasser in Cairo called the revolt more serious than the British-French-Suez invasion of 1956 and ordered the 15,000 Egyptians in the army in Syria to crush the uprising.

Radio reports hard in Beirut indicated Syria was divided—with the northern half remaining loyal to Nasser.

Telephone service to Damascus was cut and reporters attempting to cross the border were turned back.

One telephone call from Damascus and a few travelers reaching the border before the clampdown, reported fighting in Damascus. They supplied no details.

Tonight the Damascus radio issued a call for all military personnel to leave to report to their units immediately.

It also announced that bakers' trucks were exempted from the 7 p.m. to 8 a.m. curfew.

An earlier communique from Damascus said the revolutionary command met with Amer and that an understanding had been worked out. It said the situation had returned to normal, but did not explain what this meant.

Cairo newscasts ignored the communique, however, leaving in doubt whether anyone had yet gained a victory.

Fighting was reported to have taken place in Damascus streets. Telephone communication with Damascus was cut immediately after the revolt broke out. Gates changed shut at the Lebanese-Syrian border.

The revolt broke out only two days after Abdul Hamid Serraj, a former Syrian intelligence chief with Nasser and returned to Damascus from Cairo, where he had been a vice president in the U.A.R. government.

His resignation left but one Syrian in a high post in the U.A.R. government, emphasizing Egyptian predominance in the union of the two countries proclaimed in February 1958.

Serraj was reported to have resented being "kicked upstairs" to the vice presidency last month, because it involved a loss of power in Syria and a corresponding increase in authority for his rival, Amer.

With his prestige and authority seriously challenged, President Nasser ordered the 15,000 Egyptian soldiers in Syria to crush the uprising.

Grieving that "Arab blood will be shed by Arabs," he said in a broadcast from Cairo: "It is impossible that I could join the enemies of nationalism and announce the dissolution of the United Arab Republic."

At one point, the Damascus radio claimed that Amer, Nasser's chief reliance in crushing the revolt, had been arrested in the pre-dawn uprising.

It also declared all ports and airfields had been closed to prevent reinforcement of the Egyptians—and that the rebels were "fully in control of the situation" in all parts of Syria.

The revolutionaries also claimed the support of the U.A.R. air force commanders in western and southern Syria. Northern tribesmen around Aleppo were reported backing Nasser, however.

Then Damascus radio announced that the revolutionary command had met with Amer and worked out an understanding.

Greenville Mart Tobacco Prices Riding A 'Crest'

Greenville's tobacco market today continued to ride a record-high price crest. Sales supervisor W. L. Whedbee reported prices on some grades advanced today to a new high for this week.

Wednesday the market sold a total of 1,082,972 pounds for a total of $722,049.48 and a gross sales average of $66.67.

Whedbee reported today's sale is "almost full." A similar volume was expected for Friday, he said.

"The whole tone of the market," Whedbee reported, "seems stronger today than at any time during this week."

He noted, however, the gradual increased volume of immature and nondescript tobacco.

He reported a practical top for company purchases today of $87 per hundredweight. Many farmers, he said, are still averaging above $76 for their entire offerings.

Whedbee attributed the market's maintaining high gross sales marks on a daily basis to the fact that "more tobacco is selling in the high $70s and $80s than ever before on the Greenville market."

Over An Inch Of Rainfall In City

Over an inch of rain fell here between midnight Tuesday and midnight Wednesday, it was reported today by Joe Stoneham of the Greenville Utilities Commission.

The exact amount of rainfall was 1.20 inches, he said.

The weather picture for Greenville will be changing tonight, as temperatures turn cooler over most of the state. Friday will see the entire state cooler, the weatherman predicted.

Wednesday's low was 68 degrees, with a high of 90, Stoneham said.

Last Rites Held For David LeRoy Latham

David LeRoy Latham, 67, of 402 E. Eighth St., Greenville, died at 2:30 Tuesday morning in Frederick Memorial Hospital, Frederick, Md., following a critical illness of one week.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Paul Funeral Home in Washington, N. C., with Dr. Glenn Hane of Greenville officiating. Burial followed in Pamlico Memorial Gardens, also in Washington.

Mr. Latham was a native of Bath, son of the late John F. and Rhoda Oden Latham. He organized the White Post Ball Club and was active in it before moving from the county.

A former county agent of Onslow County, Mr. Latham represented the Naco Fertilizer Company before becoming district representative for the M. J. Grove Lime Co.

He was a member of Eighth Street Christian Church here. Surviving are his wife, the former Annie Gray Hodges, whom he married in March 1950; two daughters, Mrs. Robert Day and Mrs. Tom Smith, both of Richmond, Va.; one stepson, Carl E. Brite Jr. of the U.S. Air Force in Bloxi, Miss.; one stepdaughter, Dennis H. Latham of Springfield, Tenn.; one sister, Mrs. Hilton Hill; nine grandchildren; one Bowen of Rt. 1, Bath.

Noted Author Of Children's Books Died Yesterday

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — A well-known author of children's books, James Cloyd Bowman, died of a heart attack here Wednesday at the age of 81.

His body is to be cremated and burial services are to be arranged by the Masonic Lodge in Marquette, Mich.

Bowman was retired from the English faculty at Michigan Northern State Teachers College at Marquette at the time he came to Chapel Hill.

He died in his room at the Carolina Inn here where he had lived for two years.

Though in semi-retirement at the time of his death, he was working on a children's book based on the legend of Johnny Appleseed.

He wrote "Adventures of Paul Buryan" and "Pecos Bill, the Greatest Cowboy of All Time," plus other books of children's stories.

He leaves no survivors.

Farmville Market Has $67.38 Day

FARMVILLE—Farmville's tobacco market today anticipated pushing its season volume total above 20 million as more than 600,000 pounds appeared on local warehouse floors.

The market Wednesday posted a sales average of $67.38 per hundredweight from the sale of 556,472 pounds for $374,331.42.

Yesterday's activity pushed season totals here to: pounds—19,389,732; receipts—$12,676,160; sales average—$65.38.

Sales supervisor Louis Williams reported offerings Wednesday and today consisted mainly of lugs and smoking leaf with some cutters and nondescript tobacco.

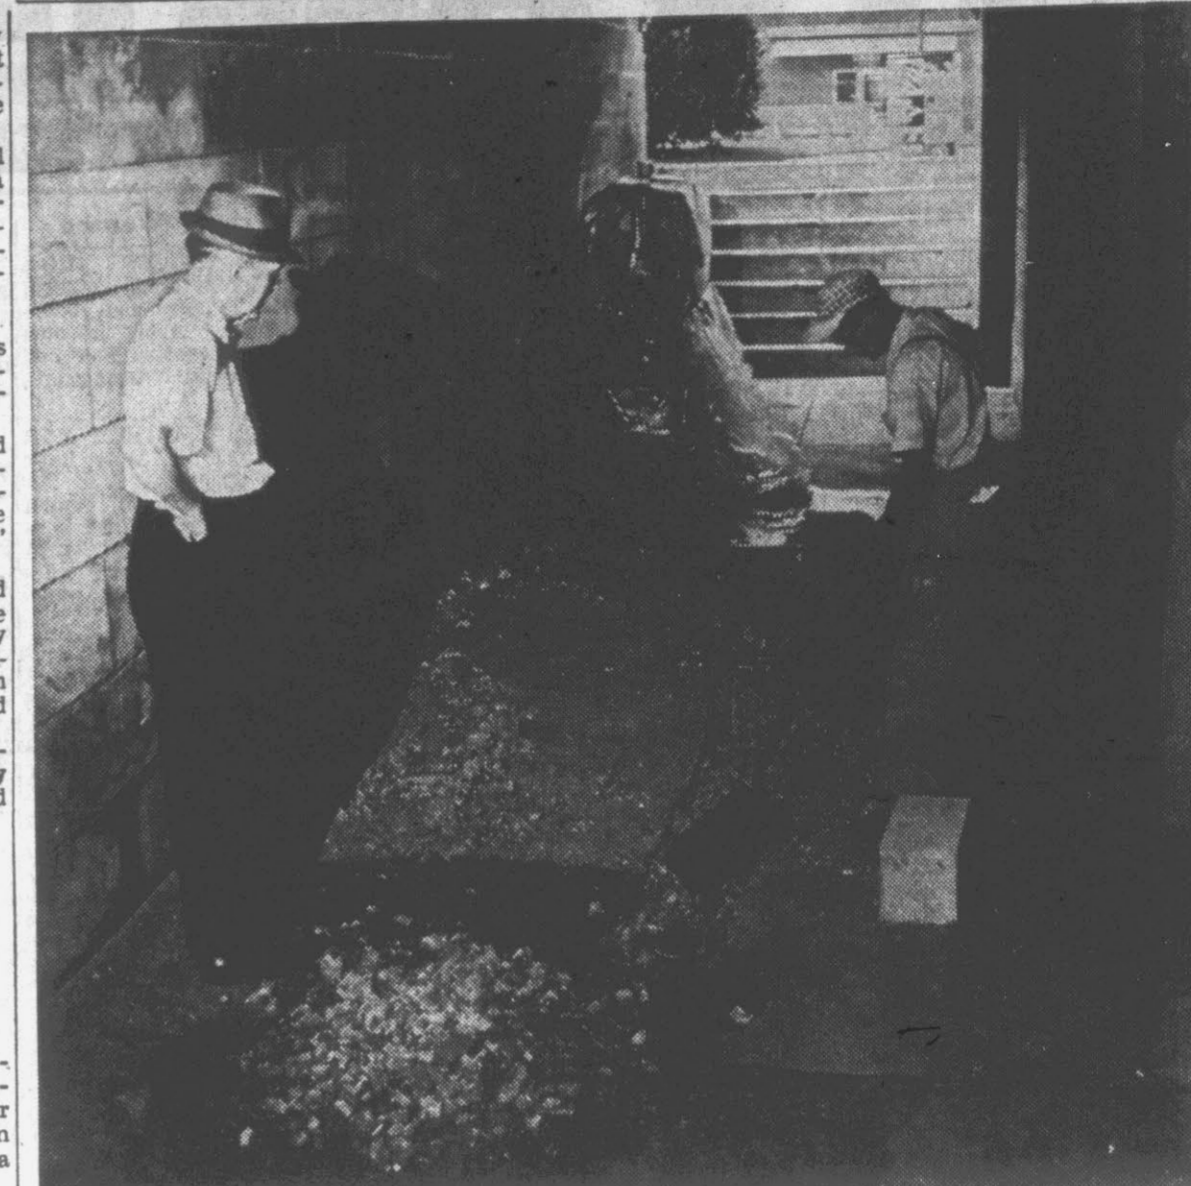

Williams said warehousemen are expecting full sales Friday and Monday.

He reported a practical top for company purchases of $81 per hundred as prices apparently were steady, grade-for-grade. Williams predicted a similar sales average for today's sale as the $67-plus posted Wednesday.

One spruce tree of about 225 pounds will make 180 newspapers of 38 pages.
