Sam Rayburn On Hospital Critical List; Series Of Tests Is Still Incomplete

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — House Speaker Sam Rayburn remained on the "serious" list today at Baylor Hospital. His doctors hope to know Thursday just how serious his condition is.

They declined to comment on a report from one of Rayburn's aides that an exploratory operation may be performed.

A Big One

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union fired a big nuclear explosion today, described by the Atomic Energy Commission as "on the order of several megatons."

A megaton is the equivalent of one million tons of TNT.

This was the 17th atomic explosion by the Soviets since they resumed testing Sept. 1.

The explosions have ranged in several sizes.

One on Sept. 14 was also described by the AEC as of several megatons.

In response to a question, an AEC official said today's shot was not necessarily the largest yet fired by the Russians.

The shot took place in the arctic region in the vicinity of Novaya Zemlya. It was fired in the atmosphere.

Hodges Predicting 10 Per Cent Gain

DETROIT (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said today the economy will grow by more than 10 per cent next year and should be turning out $650 billion a year in goods and services by 1965.

Looking even further ahead, Hodges said output may approach $800 billion by 1970. All these figures relate to the gross national product — the value of all goods and services produced each year.

Despite this glowing optimism, Hodges saw some shortcomings in business. In an address prepared for a conference sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers, he said:

"I believe that, generally speaking, America is not showing the same degree of business initiative and business drive which characterized earlier periods in our economic history."

He said, "This conviction is inescapable when I find that only about 12,000 American manufacturers were engaged in our export activities... when I find an alarming degree of poor salesmanship."

Hodges said, "I cannot help feel that there are too many soft spots, too much self-satisfaction with the status quo."

"I do not find the same daring, the same pioneering characteristics of the years when I started business."

Hodges' first job at the age of 12 was as a $3-a-week mill hand. He became a $75,000-a-year business executive before entering politics.

With or without daring, Hodges said, the gross national product this year will total $320 billion, a record, and exceed $375 billion in 1962.

"To do this," he said, "we must hit a rate of $600 billion in the fourth quarter of next year. This won't be easy... but it's neither impossible nor improbable, if all of us work together."

Hodges said that "if we can keep our economy fully employed, at a rate higher than the average of the postwar period, we'll move to $650 billion in 1964, and could come close to a GNP of $800 billion a year in 1970."

Republicans Argue On Nixon Candidacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Republican senators disagreed today on whether Richard M. Nixon's decision to seek the California governorship eliminates him as a possibility for the GOP presidential nomination in 1964.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., who identifies himself with the liberal element of the GOP, said he is accepting at face value Nixon's statement that he is not a candidate and won't be the next Republican nominee.

"I'm glad he's running for governor and I accepted what he said about 1964," Case said.

But Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., who lines up with conservatives, said in a separate interview he is certain that if Nixon is elected governor of California there will be a movement to draft him for the 1964 presidential nomination.

"I don't think you can count him out of the running at all," Mundt said. "If he is elected governor, he will be a powerful force in the next convention. No California governor is going to be ignored by his party."

Republican leaders who have studied the transcript of Nixon's Sept. 27 announcement at a news conference have noted that he didn't entirely rule out the possibility of a 1964 draft. He limited himself to saying he would not be a candidate for the nomination and didn't expect to get it.

Last weekend, Nixon said in reply to newsmen's questions on whether he could be drafted, "the answer is no."

"With all the talk about drafts, there has never been one in history unless it was stimulated by the candidate, and this I will not do," Nixon said.

Mundt said he thinks Nixon stands to benefit from a hot primary fight in California. Former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, feuding with Nixon over whether Knight was promised a state job to stay out of the primary, has projected a vigorous battle in a contest in which there may be at least two other entrants.

"If Nixon can win a tough primary fight and do it convincingly, it will help him in the general election," Mundt said. "He will be in a much stronger position to challenge his Democratic opponent if he has a good primary victory under his belt."

"Party workers always get stirred up in such primaries and it's easier to get them into action for the general election," Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown is expected to seek re-election.

These sensations became stronger and stronger during the flight, especially when Titov turned his head sharply or was observing swiftly moving objects.

For some time after Titov woke from his nap the sensations decreased, but they did not disappear until he began to feel the spaceship's deceleration on its return into the atmosphere.

"Thus, the sensation of some discomfort accompanied the considerable portion of the flight and resembled seasickness," the paper said.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has disclosed a virtual crop failure in Kazakhstan and the virgin lands. This may have a considerable effect upon both domestic and international policies.

Pravda reports that delegates to a Communist party meeting in the central Asian republic "spoke with great uneasiness about the fact that this year Kazakhstan cannot give the state much grain."

The first secretary of the Communist party in Kazakhstan, D. A. Kunayev, said: "We must report to the Congress (the 22nd Congress of the Communist party, meeting here Oct. 17) that we do not cope with our task in the production of grain. We cope with our tasks completely unsatisfactorily."

Last year Kazakhstan and the virgin lands also had a disastrous harvest. The first secretary, Nikolai Belyaev, was fired from his local job and from his top job on the Moscow Presidium.

The development of the virgin lands is a pet project of Premier Khrushchev, who sees those vast reaches of central Asia as a means of overtaking the United States in food production.

Russians Reveal Nausea Affected Astronaut Titov

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet astronaut Gherman Titov was somewhat seasick during most of his 25 hours in orbit around the earth, Soviet scientists reported today.

They said preliminary indications were that the nausea was the result of extended weightlessness.

In a paper for presentation to the International Astronautic Federation O. G. Gazenko and V. J. Yazdovskiy of the Soviet Academy of Sciences noted that neither U.S. astronaut Alan Shepard, who spent five minutes under conditions of weightlessness, nor Soviet astronaut Yuri Gagarin, who endured zero gravity for more than an hour, noted any comparable disturbances.

One of the medical questions raised by the prospect of space travel has been whether the human system could endure long periods without the familiar effects of gravity.

The paper said Titov retained "a sufficient level of working capacities" at all times and his principal bodily functions were not harmfully affected. However, it continued, he felt during weightlessness unpleasant sensations associated with the ear chamber. Balance is regulated in the inner ear.

These sensations became stronger and stronger during the flight, especially when Titov turned his head sharply or was observing swiftly moving objects.

For some time after Titov woke from his nap the sensations decreased, but they did not disappear until he began to feel the spaceship's deceleration on its return into the atmosphere.

Farmville Planning Board Proposal Is A Step Closer

FARMVILLE — Farmville Tuesday night moved a step closer to replacing its Zoning Board with a wider-reaching and more comprehensive Planning Board as the town's Commissioners handed a proposed ordinance to Farmville's legal advisors for examination.

The ordinance, if adopted by the commissioners, would create a Farmville Planning Board whose primary goal would be to formulate a long-range and city-wide plan, projecting into the future in an attempt to anticipate size and direction of town growth and expansion.

After considerable discussion the commissioners passed the ordinance along to R. D. Rouse Jr., appearing at Tuesday's session in behalf of town attorney John B.

Lewis for examination. It is possible that the proposed ordinance may be ready for presentation again when the commissioners hold a special meeting at 8:15 Thursday morning.

In other action at the commissioners' regular meeting, the board opened bids for a garbage packer and referred them to the town engineer and Oliver Murphrey for further consideration.

Murphrey and Wainwright are expected to report the findings of their consideration and offer a recommendation regarding purchase of the new garbage collection facility at Thursday morning's session.

Commissioner Joseph D. Joyner, chairman of the board's Insurance

Committee, told the board a survey of Farmville's municipal insurance coverage conducted and reported upon by the N. C. League of Municipalities described Farmville's insurance plan as one of the state's finest.

Joyner said the report of the League found the town's insurance program appeared to be "complete and well-rounded." The report stated, Joyner said, that the local insurance program "is more adequate" than programs found in operation in most Tar Heel towns in Farmville's population group.

Joyner's recommendations that extended coverage be added to two of Farmville's town policies; that one policy be converted from a one-year to a five-year term; and that Farmville's motor vehicle policy be re-advertised for bids before the next premium date (in November) were accepted by the board.

Joyner, who is also chairman of the Streets Committee, submitted a report, compiled by T. W. Willis, that included a complete list of various types of street repairs needed for Farmville's system.

The board accepted the report and instructed Town Clerk Harold M. Alford to secure cost estimates from contractors.

The list of needed improvements was compiled from a survey of the town's street system. Repairs listed include need for pavement needed for Farmville's system, and other street work.

In other action, the commissioners: authorized the Water and Lights Department to advertise for bids a water system extension project on S. Main Street that includes installation of 2,400 feet of eight-inch cast iron water main.

appropriated $25 to be used for Farmville's dues in the Highway 258 Association for one year. The association is an organization designed to promote increased traffic along the north-south U.S. highway that passes through Farmville.

designated the first week of November as Clean-Up Week in Farmville. The town will be assisted by Pitt County Health Department Sanitarian E. L. Kilpatrick in planning the week-long cleanliness promotion program.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An advanced A2 model Polaris missile scooped more than 1,500 miles today after a successful shipboard launching that paves the way for initial firings from a submarine.

Compressed air shot the compact solid-fuel missile from a vertical tube in the deck of the USS Observation Island as the ship cruised in the Atlantic Ocean about 40 miles southeast of here.

The success, announced by the Navy, ended a string of three failures for A2 model Polaris launched from the Observation Island. Lockheed aircraft, which makes the missile, found the trouble and the good shot today indicated technicians have solved the problem.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist guerrilla raids into South Viet Nam have exploded into a real war that is killing 1,500 persons a month, the State Department reports.

Joseph W. Reap, State Department press officer, said kidnapping of Lt. Hoang Thuy Nam, South Viet Nam's representative on the International Control Commission, shows more "evidence of Communist reliance on terror as a method of operation."

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Information Minister Mustafa Baroudi announced today the revolutionary army has rounded up saboteurs hired from abroad to infiltrate Syria.

The announcement, broadcast by Radio Damascus, hinted the saboteurs were hired by President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, against which Syria revolted last week.

Broadcast communique reported the lifting of all curfews, the return of the army officers who organized the revolt to their regular military jobs, and the arrest of "suspected persons who had infiltrated the country."

Baroudi then took the microphone to declare "these three communiques announce the crushing of saboteurs, who were hired by those who claim Arabism."

He said they could have come from several groups—the Communist party, the proscribed Greater Syria party or former right-wing organizations. In 1957, before the merger with Egypt, large numbers of Syrians were sentenced in absentia on charges of plotting to overthrow the government.

The new Syrian army commander said Nasser's agents had moved "like an octopus to weaken the Syrian army, suffocate freedom of citizens and fill prisons."

Pres. Kennedy, Gromyko To Talk Berlin Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk will confer Friday on the Berlin situation.

The White House announced the expected appointment time today. Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger declined to go into the nature of subjects to be discussed.

The conference was arranged as a follow-up to those in New York between Gromyko and Secretary of State Dean Rusk seeking to determine whether there are prospects for fruitful East-West negotiations to settle the Berlin dispute.

Salinger said the Kennedy-Gromyko meeting was arranged by the State Department. He declined to say whether the initiative came from the Russian or American side.

Kennedy will give Gromyko a final expression of the U. S. view before the Soviet foreign minister leaves for Moscow.

Further U. S.-Soviet talks seem likely. So far, Gromyko has given Rusk only a limited clarification of the Kremlin's intentions on Germany.

Rusk would still like to know more, precisely what Soviet Premier Khrushchev means for instance, when he talks about guaranteeing Western rights to West Berlin after he signs a peace treaty with Communist East Germany.

Diplomats said firm arrangements obviously would have to await the outcome of the White House meeting. But barring a more rapid advance than has taken place so far, more exploratory talks will be needed before the prospects of an East-West negotiating conference can be gauged.

These sources named the U. S. ambassador to Moscow, Llewellyn Thompson, as one who might carry on continued preliminary discussions for the U. S. side. They noted that U. S.-Soviet ambassadorial level contact is also possible at the United Nations and in Washington.

Kennedy received a report from Gen. Lauris Norstad, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Commander. NATO is building its armed strength in the face of the Berlin threat and a generally tougher Communist stance worldwide.

Joining the White House conference, which lasted about two hours, were Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Norstad's visit was described as one of his frequent trips to Washington for consultation.

Factory Ordered To Provide Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says a blouse factory in South Carolina must provide jobs for its employees in Philadelphia without jobs.

The National Labor Relations Board ruled Tuesday that Sidele Fashions, Inc., must provide jobs for the old employees either in Philadelphia or at the new plant in Ware Shoals, S.C.

It labeled the move South last year an unfair "device to wrest bargaining concessions" from the Garment Workers Union.

The NLRB gave Mac J. Cahn and Sidney L. Schiro, who now operate Personality Sportswear Inc., in Ware Shoals, two choices:

1. Write all employees discharged in the move and offer them substantially the same jobs they had at a reopened Philadelphia plant. The board said Cahn had indicated interest in reopening the plant if he could reach agreement with the union.

2. Offer them similar jobs at the Ware Shoals plant with full seniority and other rights, "dismissing, if necessary, all employees at the Ware Shoals plant, except for those who make an economy line blouse in which the South Carolina plant specializes.

Workers who decide to move to Ware Shoals, the NLRB said, will be paid travel and moving expenses for themselves and their families. Only nine of Sidele's 200 workers have gone to Ware Shoals so far, the board said.

Also, the board said employees should be reimbursed for loss of pay "they may have suffered as a result of the discrimination against them" since the Philadelphia plant was closed in January 1960.

At Ware Shoals, Schiro said the firm would appeal the decision.

Believes Threats Have Halted Integration Case

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A report filed in U.S. Middle District Court at Greensboro quotes a Negro attorney as saying he believes threats have forced a Caswell County family from prosecuting a school integration case.

The report, filed Tuesday, was accompanied by a motion that the court rule in favor of five Caswell County Negroes, who sought reassignment to all-white schools in that county.

Meanwhile, a Negro was assigned to Charlotte's all-white Myers Park High School; the Kings Mountain School Board will meet Monday to consider reassignment of two Negroes to white schools; and the Charlotte-Mecklenburg School Board handled 366 appeals in a dispute growing out of conversion of a formerly white school to a Negro school.

C. O. Pearson of Durham, an attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was quoted in the report filed in Federal Court as saying the family of Charles H. Saunders Sr. was subjected "to threats of other forms of intimidation to induce them to cease prosecution" of the Caswell case.

The report said Pearson based his belief on a letter forwarded him by the Saunders family which purportedly came from the Ku Klux Klan. The letter, the report said, had been given to the FBI.

Pearson said he was not able to contact the Saunders family to discuss the case and had been advised by another party that the Saunders family did not desire to participate further.

Mrs. Mabel Davis, widowed mother of seven Negro children, asked the Kings Mountain board to reassign two of her children to white high schools.

T. H. Wyeche, a Charlotte Negro attorney, represented Mrs. Davis. He said the children "want to be considered as part of the integrated school system."

The children are Leroy Hastin Davis, 15, a 10th grader, and Lela Lene Davis, 17, a 12th grader. The board said it would meet next Monday to consider the request.

Don Alfred Grigg, 11th grade student, appealed himself to the Charlotte-Mecklenburg board, asking reassignment to the Myers Park school. The board approved the transfer unanimously after R. Lacy Ranson, chairman of the Pupils Assignment Committee, said his group could "offer no reasonable opinions to support our doing so, but we would approve his admission to Myers Park High School."

In another case, the Charlotte-Mecklenburg board reassigned 17 Negro pupils from one Negro junior high to another, decried action on three requests and turned down 346 others.

The reassignment requests came from the all-Negro Irwin Avenue Junior High, which last year was all-white Harding High School. The 346 requests came from a student body of 825. The board noted that the 346 applications turned down were received after the deadline set by state law for reassignments.

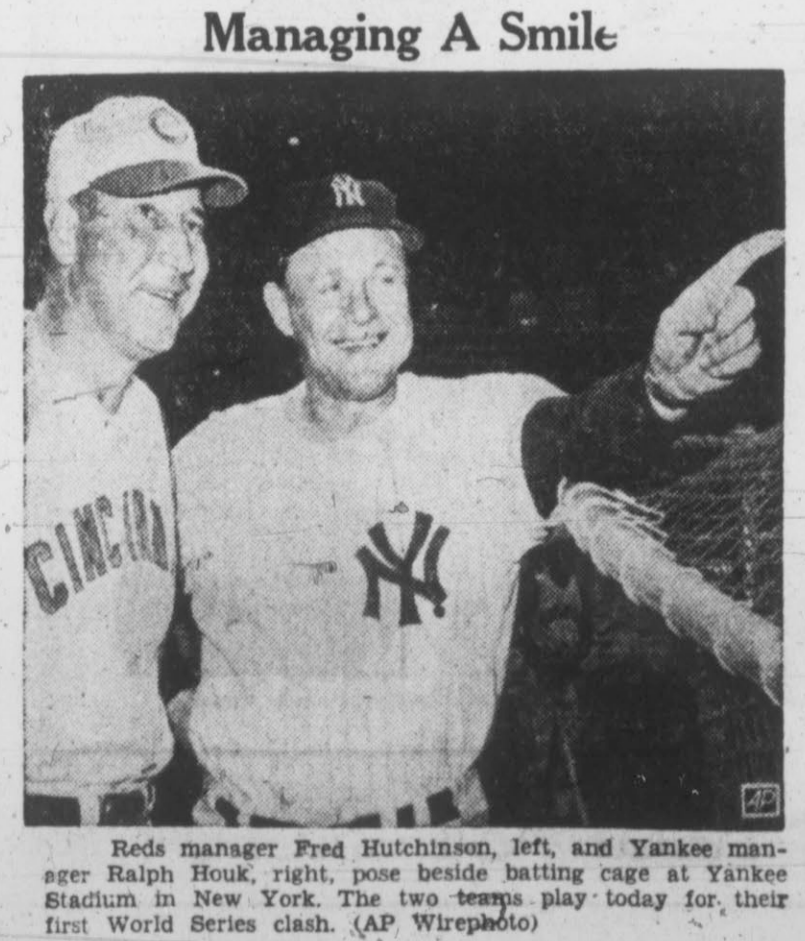

Pitt Secondary Roads Included

Work on about six miles of secondary roads in Pitt County was included in a total of 14 road projects in 11 Tar Heel counties advertised for bid Monday by the State Highway Commission.

Roads slated for grading base course and surfacing in Pitt include Secondary Road 1218 from SR 1200 southwest to a point on US 264-A approximately 1.4 miles southeast of Farmville and SR 1708 from a point on NC 11 about three miles south of Greenville, northeast to SR 1725 at Bells Fork. Those two projects include about 5.8 miles.

Another quarter-mile project calls for grading, base course, surfacing and curb and gutter on NC 903 in Stokes between NC 33 and the junction with SR 1544.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C. Temperatures through Monday will average 3 to 8 degrees below normal; cool at beginning of period, warmer over the weekend and turning cooler again Monday. Rainfall will be moderate to heavy in the coastal plain and occur mostly about Sunday or Monday.

Knit It Now For Cold Chins

SWEATER WITHOUT A TOP OR BOTTOM
You shape it into chinwarmer or hood for cold days.

AP Newsfeatures

A stiff upper lip in the winter time is not necessarily a sign of bravery. It could be frozen. But a stitch-in-time precaution is an easy-to-make chinwarmer.

Knit on the bias in the shape of a stove pipe. It opens at top and bottom to slip over your head. Although called a chinwarmer, you can actually muzzle your whole face in it, stiff lip, cold nose and all. Doubled over and pouffed outward, the piece takes on a guise of a wide-away turtle neck. Pulled high over the head and low on the bosom, it becomes a hood, protecting hairdos and keeping ears warm.

Chinwarmers make good Christmas gifts for the hot blooded and cold, young and old because one size fits all.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's big producer of fattening carbohydrates is also making money out of reducing clubs.

That's one of the reasons why Lord Rank is known as one of the best business men in the United Kingdom.

Lord Rank's family fortune was made on flour. It's still a money-maker for the Rank Organization whose financial empire includes producing movies, cinemas, bowling alleys and now and new enterprise—the "health club."

A spokesman for the organization says the success of the company's initial two clubs in London has led to a decision to set them up all over the country.

"We have more than 7,000 members paying a minimum of $67.20 a year," says Mrs. Donna Keith, manager of one of the clubs.

"They use the club as often as they like and we can cope with as many as 500 a day."

Referring to the success of health clubs in the United States, Mrs. Keith says:

"American women are keener on enlarging their busts, while in England the biggest need is for slimmer hips and ankles."

More than half the membership in this country are women between the ages of 40 and 60.

IBM Is Not So Perfect

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It used to be that when there was a long distance, person-to-person call the telephone company fussed about it until the parties either connected or dropped dead. Now, the telephone company has an IBM machine and therefore the slips get processed until nobody gets the call. The art of processing must be a very intricate one, known only to virtuosos who are masters of a great skill.

So a fellow by a name I do not know calls me when I am out and I call back. In the first place, my own girl does not ask for a front name. Suppose she has a call from Mr. Smith. Which Smith? There are millions of Smiths. All right, she gives a number. Maybe the number is wrong. Maybe he called from somebody else's number. Suppose anything happened, if I know that he is Montgomery Smith, there is no prospect of a mistake. But if there is no first name, back in the old days, the operator got it for you. She was a smart girl, the old-fashioned operator. Also old-fashioned secretaries had no Phi Beta Kappa keys but they were trained in commercial high schools and therefore knew their business.

So I spend precisely 30 minutes trying to find the party because I do not want to return his call. But the telephone company hired an IBM machine and the slips get processed and nobody can figure out what to do about anything because the IBM machine will not talk. It will not tell anything to anybody except in its own good time and by due process.

When I first came to summer in the woods about Otis, Massachusetts, we had an 1890 telephone. We had to ring the bell manually and we might have a conversation with the operator or his wife about the state of the nation but they knew how to get numbers. One spoke to a human being not to an IBM machine or some other mechanism.

In fact, one Saturday night, a priest came to visit me about a situation. He stayed overnight and he wanted to know where to say Mass on Sunday. I got on the telephone to make inquiries but not being too acquainted with such matters, I hit on a time schedule which was out of line. So the male telephone operator all on his own, said to me:

"If you want to know something about these here parts, ask me."

He thereupon told me all about the churches in the vicinity. He had spent a pleasant half hour listening to my efforts to do things my own way. We never got sore about anything in those days because the world was friendly and peaceful and nobody quite hated anyone else. It was the period between World War I and World War II. After World War II, the whole world seemed shot to blazes.

So the IBM machine could not help but maybe an hour after I had initiated the effort to discover the man who wanted to talk to me, a sweet voice called on the telephone. She had somehow discovered who my man is and when he will talk to me. She sounded lovely until she told me that the slips were not saved because of the IBM machine. They went to the controller's office. She did not say what he did with them.

It is like changing an address for a magazine. It takes so long that after one initiates the change nothing happens until he is ready to change back again. The IBM machine has replaced the human mind and human interest. I do not quarrel with Mr. Watson's company, only with the machines.

I have no enmity to automation. It is obviously a technical improvement or it would not be used. It must save time and money but it does wear one's nerves if he has to talk to the machine instead of to a girl with a pretty voice. Maybe we shall all punch holes in ourselves and fit our holes into the automatic machine.

I once watched these machines work in the FBI. They could get a red-haired safe-breaker with a mole on his nose who spoke with a southern European accent faster than the crook could steal. I watched this show in amazement and wondered at the marvels of automatic machinery. But I learned no more. All I want is to get my telephone number when I want it without fuss, excitement, shouting, yelling, apologies, snide superiority by those who know why the slip is not available. Slip! Snip! Get me the number!

Improvements Desperately Needed

When Tar Heels cast their ballots in the proposed $61,665,000 bond election November 7, they will determine whether North Carolina moves forward with much needed improvements in many fields, or deny many of the state institutions and agencies capital improvements which they must have to effectively meet demands being made upon them.

It is an important bond election for the state, and no less important for the individual citizens who make up North Carolina. It represents an outlay of considerable capital funds by North Carolina which to a large extent must be paid off by tax revenues in years to come. At the same time it represents essential facilities which must be had if North Carolina is to keep pace with its own growth. It represents facilities which North Carolina must have if it is to continue in its growth and progress.

More than half of the money in the proposed bond issue—$31,008,000—is designated for capital improvements at state educational institutions. Without these funds these institutions, already crowded with record enrollments of students, will find themselves without facilities to adequately care for their present needs, to say nothing about the needs that will be brought about by the increasing number of college applicants year after year.

Particularly for the people of Pitt and surrounding counties, the bond issue funds for East Carolina College are of significance. If the bond issue is approved, East Carolina College will receive $3,406,750 which it will use for needed capital improvements. This amount included $905,000 for a classroom building, $800,000 for a new dormitory for 400 women students; $737,750 for a new dormitory for 500 men students; $423,000 for library additions; $274,000 for an addition to Wright building; $217,000 for purchase of land, and $50,000 for improvement of athletic facilities.

Without these new facilities, East Carolina will find itself in an increasingly critical situation so far as having sufficient space to meet the demands of students seeking admission to the college. Even with these new improvements all the needs will not be filled, but at least the College will be in a more realistic position to meet the demands being made upon it.

But the state-wide bond issue includes considerably more than just the needs of educational institutions. $2.8 millions are earmarked for improvement to Capital area buildings; $1.1 million for improvements at state training schools; $1.4 million for community colleges; $2.5 million for Archives and History and State Library building; $7.3 million for state mental institutions; $500,000 for hospital construction; $961,000 for development of state parks; $289,000 for agricultural research stations.

In addition to these items, $13.5 million in revenue bonds are proposed for improvements and additions to the state's deep water ports at Morehead City and Wilmington.

North Carolina needs desperately all the improvements provided in the proposed bond issues. The citizens of the state in their own interest and in the interest of continued progress for North Carolina should lend their support to the bond proposals in the forthcoming referendum.

Your United Fund Gift Divided Among Many

If the Pitt County United Fund is to be successful this year, and if the agencies represented by the United Fund are to realize their budgets, each individual giver must keep in mind that his contribution to the United Fund must be divided among many agencies.

The individual should endeavor to make his contribution his "fair share" of the $91,000 UF goal in a realistic manner.

The Pitt United Fund in its solicitations this year represents seven major agencies and many lesser community agencies in its appeal for funds. Each dollar contributed to the United Fund is divided among these agencies. In one gift, the contributor is not donating to merely one worthwhile organization that plays an important role in the life of this community. He is donating to many agencies through his once-a-year gift to the United Fund.

Were it not for the United Fund, each of the major agencies represented by it, and many of the lesser agencies, would find it necessary to have individual campaigns in communities throughout the county. The individual citizen would be called on many times rather than just one time for contributions.

The agencies represented by the Pitt County United Fund deserve the generous support of all the citizens of Pitt County, for the work of these agencies affect the lives of all the people by making Pitt a better place in which to live.

Peiping Admits Costly Failures

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—Red China admits failures in farm and factory and in the midst of its economic difficulties has turned to a study of the Soviet Union's "experiences in socialist construction."

These disclosures unfolded today from thousands of words of editorials and speeches during the just-concluded Oct. 1 celebration of the 12th anniversary of the Red regime's founding.

While studying Soviet experience in building its economy, Red China has emphasized it will continue the rural communes as- sessed by Soviet Premier Khrushchev as impractical.

Chinese officials report failures in agricultural production had a damaging impact on heavy and light industry and the nation's living standards.

Essentially an agricultural country, Red China always has depended upon agricultural exports to get the machinery needed for industrialization.

The official Peiping People's Daily said: While achieving great successes, we have encountered certain difficulties in the economy in our forward march and there have been certain shortcomings in our work."

Readjustments are going on in the rural communes and in farm production, People's Daily said, with manpower and material being poured into the countryside. As a result this autumn's harvest, it continues, "may be slightly better than last years."

Strength For Today

MATTER OF PRIME IMPORTANCE

"Who do men say that I am?" This was the question which Jesus addressed to his disciples on a certain occasion and which called forth the famous answer of Peter: "Thou art Christ, the son of the living God."

Quote

"America unquestionably has the highest standard of living in the world. Hardly any of us can afford it."—Anonymous.

"He that riseth late must trot all day."—Benjamin Franklin.

"The only drivers being 'trapped' by radar are those who ignore the radar zone warnings and the rules of safe driving—and these deserve to be caught and punished."—The Washington Star.

the fact that he was the supernatural Messiah, and, if they had, then he knew that they had learned the one thing that would make their faith in him vital. The perennial question of importance about Jesus is this: "Who is he?" Not what do we think about his teachings, or what place does he hold in history, or what is his message to modern life. Important as these things are, the only really important question is, who is this Jesus of Nazareth? If he is only a teacher or a great man, then religion cannot be built upon him. Religion can be built only on faith in the supernatural Son of God, for this supernatural Being alone can save men from their sins.

A Welcome Mat For Fall

A chill has filled the air. It has finally made it, and once and for all, Fall is here.

We have been "pulling" for Fall. This year, it had a harder time nosing out Summer, who seemed determined to hang on to the bitter end. Its hotness almost dissipated what little we have in this part of the country of an Indian summer.

But, no matter; Fall is really here today, and now we know Summer won't get another chance until it comes breezing in on the skirts of Spring some months from now.

Fall has always been a little masculine to us, compared to the feminine characteristics of Spring. Fall is like a dapper man, briskly walking down a crowded city street with his top hat and a cane, bowing to all the ladies. Fall is the epitome of fashion.

Winter is more like a white-bearded old man hobbling along; we feel sympathetic toward him. Summer reminds us of an old shrew with a shrill voice and a nasty disposition.

Spring is the season the poets elaborate on, dressing her in flowing garments and singing sweet caressing songs about her. Spring is admittedly the sentimental season, which is "designed" to encourage love. (Then along comes Summer Shrew.)

Well, we'll take fall.

Fall brings many things: first Halloween, a small interlude of fun for the children and then Thanksgiving, a larger holiday interlude; and then, finally, comes Christmas. (We heard "White Christmas" this morning over the radio.)

When the wind starts blowing and the temperatures raise a chill in the air and people walk more briskly and feel a happy sting of vitality, then is the time for fall.

Yes, we'll take fall.

Today was supposed to be a "day of prayer," as officially designated by President Kennedy in a Presidential Proclamation.

The sad part of it is, that nobody seemed to know much about the day. It has not been given national publicity, or passed on to public organs such as ours in an official capacity, in the way that you'd expect a Presidential Proclamation to be.

The proclamation obviously arose due to the conditions of the world today. President Kennedy asked the nation to pray for the spirit of dedication necessary to make "whatever sacrifices that need to be made to neutralize the evil designs of evil men and to work for goals of human betterment that lie beyond our span of years."

Since there aren't large community observances here, the day of prayer will be up to the individual to observe.

Other Editors Saying... Constitutional Gov't

(Wilson Times)

Just about everything comes in the mail to a newspaper office. Friday morning a folder of a new organization "Southwide Association of Municipal Officials" was in the batch of second class mail.

We know nothing about it, other than what is stated in the folder. This follows our philosophy of government, which is that "governmental action should be at the local level where possible, at the state level where the problem is clearly the responsibility of the state and at the national level only where the Constitution clearly provides, and then only in matters which are clearly beyond the resources of local or state government or in matters pertaining to the national security."

In short we should stop running to Washington for what we can do ourselves. The states listed as having organizations are Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. If the organization holds to the broad objectives as outlined we do not see why it is confined to any section of the nation.

We are now leaving the organization to consider the broader side of the question of constitutional government. This vast bureaucratic government is spreading over the country, far beyond the bounds of Washington. More and more you are looking to Washington for what we can and should do ourselves.

It has come to the place that we want we think of government, of the federal government. The growing demands from the people also work in reverse, for the government, in order to give must take from the people. Therefore a government big enough to give us what we want is also big enough to take what it wants.

Government pays no taxes, it taxes, and the government businesses that are in competition with private enterprise pay no taxes. There are 700 large corporations operated now by the government. The government corporations own 40 per cent of the land area and 20 per cent of the industrial capacity of our nation.

There is no place in the constitution that provides for tax free enterprises to compete with business. Working for the 700 federal corporations are a million employees, their salaries are charged to the general government payroll. This totals an estimated four billion dollars a year.

There are the buildings, the equipment and the goods and services that add up to millions more. All of this has been built up because of the demands on government by the people for what they can do themselves, and the political machines big government provides.

The situation is becoming serious for it is about to make full circle. Only when the government gets out of tax free, cost free, interest free, rent free business can you expect taxes to come down.

That is the reason we are interested in any folder that suggests there is an awakening to the dangers of the present trend. Government must come down to its constitutional size before you can expect the national debt to be reduced and taxes lowered.

Airlines Dispute Lowest Rates

By ELMER ROESSNER

"Who's cheapest to Europe?" asked a full-page ad in The New York Times. It went on: "During the last couple of weeks there's (sic) been a flock of ads in the papers announcing that this airline or that is offering reduced fares to Europe. If this has led you to wondering which of the above airlines has the cheapest fares to Europe, we'll tell you which. All of us, 'Or none of us, depending on your point of view.'"

The advertisement then listed the 17-day excursion fare in economy class, showing that jet fares to London and return are $350—and that rates to Paris, Rome and Tel Aviv, and return, are in proportion. The ad was signed by El Al Israeli Airlines. "A CORRECTION"

The next day the British Overseas Airways Corporation printed a seven-column ad headed, "A correction, if you please..." and said, "It's (sic) recently been put forth that $350 is the least expensive fare available across the Atlantic to London. Sorry, this isn't true. B. O. A. C. will fly you for $320 a round trip on a Britannia jet prop aircraft... from October 15." Not a jet but a jet-prop; not October 1, but October 15.

Titles Are Not As Many Think

By LYNN NISBET

TITLES — Contrary to popular belief and common usage Earl Warren is not Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. His correct title is "Chief Justice of the United States." And Hargrove Bowles Jr. is not the director of the Department of Conservation and Development. Maybe it does not sound like much difference. Except it is interesting to note how newspaper, radio and teevie news stories try so hard to cut out extra words to shorten the articles, go so far out of their way to add words to the title of these and other public officials.

CLEAN — The trees and shrubs on Capitol square have just undergone their semi-annual beauty treatment. The barber and manicurists with axes and saws and long-handled pruning knives have been at work for most of the past three weeks cutting out dead timber, balancing up live limbs and otherwise cleaning up the square. The terms barbers and manicurists were used advisedly, although the operators who are highly skilled tree surgeons might resent such designation. Major surgery was not required at this time. But it is really surprising how truck loads of pieces of deadwood 10 to 24 inches in length and how many ill-formed leaf masses of less than one foot in diameter were hauled away.

The casual visitor probably would not have noticed how many things detracted from beauty of the square—until their removal and the cleaning up process made the whole view so much more attractive.

AUDITORIUM — The problem facing the City of Raleigh in connection with renovating its municipal memorial auditorium in degree, but not in kind, from problems facing many other cities in the overall matter of providing public assembly rooms. The basic question, to which satisfactory answer has not been found anywhere, is essentially this: To what extent should the auditorium facility be expected or required to pay its way, and to what degree should it be offered for free use as a community public service.

If the use is by private enterprise for private profit certainly the users should pay for it. If the use is solely for public service to the people who owned and have paid for the facility, there should be no charge. That formula sounds very simple. Unfortunately it isn't at all simple. Because more than 90 percent of the events for which use of the auditorium is requested are borderline cases—some degree of public service and some degree of private profit—and more often than not it is impossible to prorate the private and public benefits.

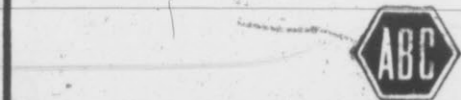

It doesn't contribute to the solution of the problem for Raleigh and Charlotte and Greensboro and other cities with auditorium problems, but it may ease the pain of the responsible authorities to know that the long time record is no municipal auditorium has ever paid its own way in direct revenue, but except in very few instances they have been regarded as profitable because of business attracted to the community.

BEAR TRACKS — The philosophy "if you can't beat 'em join 'em, got a plug from the Michigan highway commission a few days ago. Here's the story as picked up from a trade magazine:

"Construction workers for the Denton construction Co. of Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich., were never more startled than when they returned to work one morning to find that a sizable bear had wandered across their freshly placed concrete. The record of the bear's prowl on new Interstate 75 near Mackinaw City, Mich., was clearly embedded in the hardened concrete. Mindful of the tourists attraction Michigan State Highway Department officials decided to leave the footprints untouched and erect "Bear Crossing" signs at the site. In just, they instructed Leet Denton, president of the construction firm, to prevent a recurrence on future projects by erecting some "bearcades."

Radio Operators Elect Officers

Claude Poyer of Greenville was elected president of the Pitt County citizens band radio operators organization at the group's first meeting since early summer.

In addition to election of officers, the group adopted a new name for itself — Eastern Carolina Citizen Banders. It was formerly called the "11 Meter Heaters."

Other officers elected included Will Jones Jr. of Farmville, senior vice president; Stanley Bowers of Greenville, junior vice president; Marion Tripp of Farmville, secretary-treasurer; and Franklin Brown of Greenville, publicity chairman.

Hilary Phelps of Greenville presided at the meeting until officers had been elected. The group set its next meeting for Oct. 27 at Bonnie's Cafe in Farmville.

Spectacular Homecoming Is Scheduled At East Carolina

Faculty members and students of East Carolina College join together in making final preparations for the traditional Southern hospitality of the welcoming of alumni and friends of the college for the 1961 Homecoming scheduled for Saturday, October 7.

The theme "Dixie Days" for the Homecoming, one of the most spectacular occasions to be held on the college campus, will stress the traditional Southern hospitality among events of the weekend. "Enthusiasm received from people of a wide area in North Carolina indicated that the 1961 Homecoming will attract a large attendance," stated Dr. James W. Butler, chairman of the Homecoming Committee.

Representing the East Carolina Student Government Association, Jayne Chandler of Suffolk, Va., and James H. Speight of Kinston are co-chairmen of student participation. The annual campus parade is scheduled for 10:15 a.m. on Saturday with Merle Summers of Raleigh, chairman, and Ken Trogon of Fayetteville, vice chairman of the Parade Committee.

Faculty members of the college serving with Dr. Butler in helping students co-ordinate events are Carole Cole of the School of Business; Dr. T. J. Haigwood of the industrial arts department; Gay E. Hogan of the physical education department; G. Allan Nelms, director of foundations and alumni affairs; and Vernie Wilder, assistant librarian.

Others serving on committees are: Tommy Mallison, Greenville, Entertainment; and Margaret Honeycutt, Greenville, Parade.

Foundation Director Tells Of High Institution Costs

Principal speaker at a conference on bequests and deferred gifts held at the First Presbyterian Church here on Monday was Dr. John R. Cunningham, executive director of the Presbyterian Foundation in Charlotte, and former president of Davidson College.

The meeting was sponsored by the Synod of North Carolina Committee on Bequests and Deferred Gifts. Attending were leaders from different churches in this area, including attorneys, bankers, trust officers and accountants. The Greenville conference was one of 20 over the state.

Dr. Cunningham generally spoke on the tremendous cost of operating the institutions of the church, such as colleges, seminaries, homes for the children and homes for the aged. He stated the only effective way of financing such operations is through a form of endowment, from which funds supplement that those given by the members of the church.

He cited individual cases in which contributions have been made to the church, and parts of estates which have been left to the church.

Those attending the conference were told of the church's effort to encourage people to put church causes in their wills. Work of the Presbyterian Foundation, which is set up to administer funds and properties that are left to the church, was also explained.

Archie McLean of Rocky Mount, member of Synod's Committee on Bequests and Deferred Gifts, presided at the meeting. Also appearing on the program was Ted Daniel of Raleigh, director of public relations for the Synod of North Carolina, Presbyterian Church, U. S.

Paylor noted that the town may try to send a few more people to the class for the next meeting.

Arrest 43 On Charge Of Plot

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Forty-three men, including leading political opponents of President Kwame Nkrumah, were arrested Tuesday night on charges of plotting to assassinate him.

Among them were Dr. Joseph Danquah, opposition candidate in Ghana's 1960 presidential election; opposition leader Joseph Appiah, son-in-law of the late Sir Stafford Cripps, once chancellor of the British Exchequer, and former Social Welfare Minister Patrick Quaidoo, ousted from Nkrumah's Cabinet last May.

Three members of Parliament and seven women also were arrested, the latter on unspecified charges.

The roundup brought to about 370 the number of persons held under Ghana's preventative detention act, which permits internment "political undesirables" up to five years without trial.

A government statement said the men arrested had been "deliberately engaged in activities calculated to subvert and endanger the security of the state."

It accused them of "acts of violence, secret meetings, taking of secret oaths to assassinate the president and certain members of the government, strikes, sabotage and lockouts."

The security arrests raised new doubts about a scheduled 10-day visit next month by Queen Elizabeth II to this former British colony.

Duncan Sandys, British secretary of commonwealth relations, was in Accra when the arrests were announced. He came here this week for talks with Nkrumah in an attempt to repair recent strained relations between the two countries.

The Great Smokey National Park contains 50 species of lumbering animals, 200 birds and 1,300 types of trees, shrubs and herbs.

Included among the exhibits in the main building will be those erected by: Heart Association, Tuberculosis Association, Cancer Association, Pitt Health Department, Social Security and East Carolina College. Mental Health and Red Cross will also be represented.

The fair office was opened at the fairgrounds Monday and Manager Norman Chambliss, who is serving for the 13th consecutive year, is on hand making final arrangements for next week.

Lion In The Hills

By JOHN B. PRESCOTT

CHAPTER 10

Mildred McMahon had a way that made you feel welcome at once. Alec Temple thought. She was a wispy little thing dressed as many women on small working ranches are, in jeans and old boots and faded cotton shirt.

Her hands and face were browned to smooth leather by the land's weathering, but there was nothing of the land's dreariness about her.

She spoke of her husband. "He's out in the horse pasture now making a gather. Our drive for the Rim begins next week, and he wants the saddle stock in close. He won't be long, though. I hope you'll wait."

Holding his hat, Sam Fellows assumed a courtly stance.

"Well, I couldn't refuse a wish of yours, Mildred," he said.

She laughed. "Sam you're like old wine; you improve with age. But even forty years ago, there was no one about with your gallantry."

"If I'd have known that myself, it might have helped," Sam said. "Oh, you had your chance. But you were too busy yondering." She winked at Alec. "Sam and his hounds. I never felt he needed anything or anyone else."

"A man never knows until it's too late," Sam said.

She laughed again, raising her hands as in defense against Sam's sallies.

"I want to make some lemonade," she said to Alec. "But I think, before we go in, I'll ask you to leave your cub in the truck. Will that be all right?"

"Oh, sure," Alec said. "I hadn't meant to take him in; not that his manners are bad. But he'll be all right in the cab."

Smiling, she touched the rounded ears, a gesture that Rusty seemed not to mind. "I like all living creatures," she said. "But Fred's views on things often differ, and he's inclined to be proud of them."

"That's his whole trouble," Sam said.

"That's as may be," Mildred said. "But a proud man needs tending for in my case. Otherwise, he runs head on into things."

It was a peculiar conversation, Alec thought, as he put Rusty into the cab and set the windows for ventilation.

Alec had never seen such a place; had not imagined, even that one existed. In the main room, where he and Sam now sat while Mildred McMahon was in the kitchen, he had the sensation of age pressing down upon him, in sight, in odor, and in the thick walls' mulling of sound.

For a while he simply looked about him, feeling that even a whisper would be wrong. The room was fairly large, the walls made of timber and stone and at one end, of adobe, as if it had been built first, then added to later. The timbers, no doubt hauled a long way, had a chinking of lime between them, marked now and then with scars and gouges that might have been made by bullets or arrows. The windows, which were small and high, bore the same marks in their cementations.

The floor, he noticed for the first time now, was of rammed earth and, in the way of many such that he had heard of, had been soaked in ox blood to make it hard and smooth.

Next to him, Sam shifted, his chair creaking. It was like the one that Alec sat in, a frame made of pine over which fresh hide had been hung and allowed to dry until now it held the whole together in an embrace of iron.

Rawhide, he thought, as he ran his hand over the seat, where hair still remained. It would be the word to use for this place. For all in sight had been shaped by hand and had that raw, tough look of objects whose material came of the country.

Only the lamps resting on the heavy pine table in the room's center had come from outside. Their tall glass chimneys and brass reservoirs gleamed softly, and as he studied them, they seemed to tell him something.

When he knew what it was, he leaned toward Sam and whispered his astonishment.

"Those are oil lamps," he said. "They don't have electric lights!"

Sam nodded. "Fred don't believe in electric lights." He raised his hand. "Listen."

From the kitchen a strange sound came. Squee-chuff, it seemed to say — squee-chuff, squee-chuff.

"That's Mildred drawing water," Sam said. "By hand, of course, since Fred don't believe in electric pumps, neither." Sam grinned wryly at Alec. "But at least she's got a well now. Coming out here as a bride, she had to get water from catchment basins. A mighty uncertain source."

The thought seemed to set him off. He stood up and paced about the room, pointing at this and that.

"Look at them windows. No more than loopholes. Fred should have knocked them out long since. But he won't, of course."

He waved his arm at the hearth, at the cranks and chains and black, sooty pot.

"She cooked in that thing for half her married life. He finally got her a stove, but you can bet it don't use butane. So now time must be spent hunting wood."

Sam came back to his chair and sat down, but he wasn't through yet.

"In all my years in the wild, one thing I've learned stands out above all else: all things change, and nothing is certain but change. Except for Fred McMahon. He don't change at all. A man, like him is a violation of nature."

He seemed to have got his second wind with that and was preparing to speak at length, but at that moment Mildred McMahon came in with the lemonade. She gave the biggest glass to Alec.

"That'll kill your dry, man; there's nothing like lemonade on a hot day in dusty country. These lemons are still fairly fresh."

Goodwin Knight Stakes His Future On 'Proof' Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Goodwin J. (Goodie) Knight staked his bid for a political comeback on promised proof today that Richard M. Nixon tried to lure him out of the Republican race for governor.

The 64-year-old former governor called an afternoon news conference and said he would disclose the who, what and where to back up his charge.

Knight, who has clashed with Nixon before, alleged that Nixon emissary offered him anything in the state if he wouldn't oppose the former vice president's candidacy for governor.

Nixon denied it. He said he is willing to swear on the Bible that he had nothing to do with any attempt to keep Knight from running for the job he held from 1933 through 1958.

Knight announced his candidacy for re-election in 1959, then withdrew after Nixon and other state party leaders threw their pre-primary support to then Sen. William F. Knowland, who lost to Democrat Edmund G. (Pat) Brown. In 1956, Knight for a time fought Nixon's renomination for vice president.

J. Howard Edgerton, president of a Los Angeles savings and loan association and a former Knight campaign finance chairman, said he wouldn't be surprised if Knight named him as the supposed emissary.

Edgerton told newsmen, however, "I have never been an emissary of Dick Nixon on any matter in my entire life."

Paul Mason, Sacramento attorney who was Knight's legislative secretary and director of motor vehicles, previously said he heard a telephone conversation in which the supposed offer was made when he was visiting Knight in a Sacramento hotel room Sept. 8.

He said he heard the caller offer Knight "any job in the state — chief justice or anything you want — if you won't run against Dick" in the Republican primary next June.

Knight timed his charge for last Thursday, the day after Nixon announced he would seek the governorship in 1962. Nixon promptly termed the statement ridiculous.

"Why would I be sending emissaries to Mr. Knight," he asked, "when I myself had not made a final decision on my candidacy until just the night before I made my announcement?"

Reflecting On SPORTS By George Bryant

It's Really Homecoming

When the East Carolina Pirates meet Elon this Saturday afternoon in a homecoming contest, the word homecoming will really have a meaning.

By this, we mean that Elon Head Coach George Tucker is a graduate of ECC, played football under Coach Jack Boone and coached under him for a short while.

To top it all off, Elon's star quarterback, George Wooten, almost came to East Carolina, but at the last minute went to Elon.

Phants Meet Conference Champs

The Rose High Phantoms travel to Tarboro Friday night to take on the defending Northeastern Conference champions. The Tarboro club has two of its starting players on the injured list with the possibility of another being out.

The Tarboro record so far this season is 2-2, but the conference record is 1-2. They lost to Kinston and Elizabeth City in the first two games and beat Jacksonville and Hertford.

Colonials And Keydets Meet In New Stadium

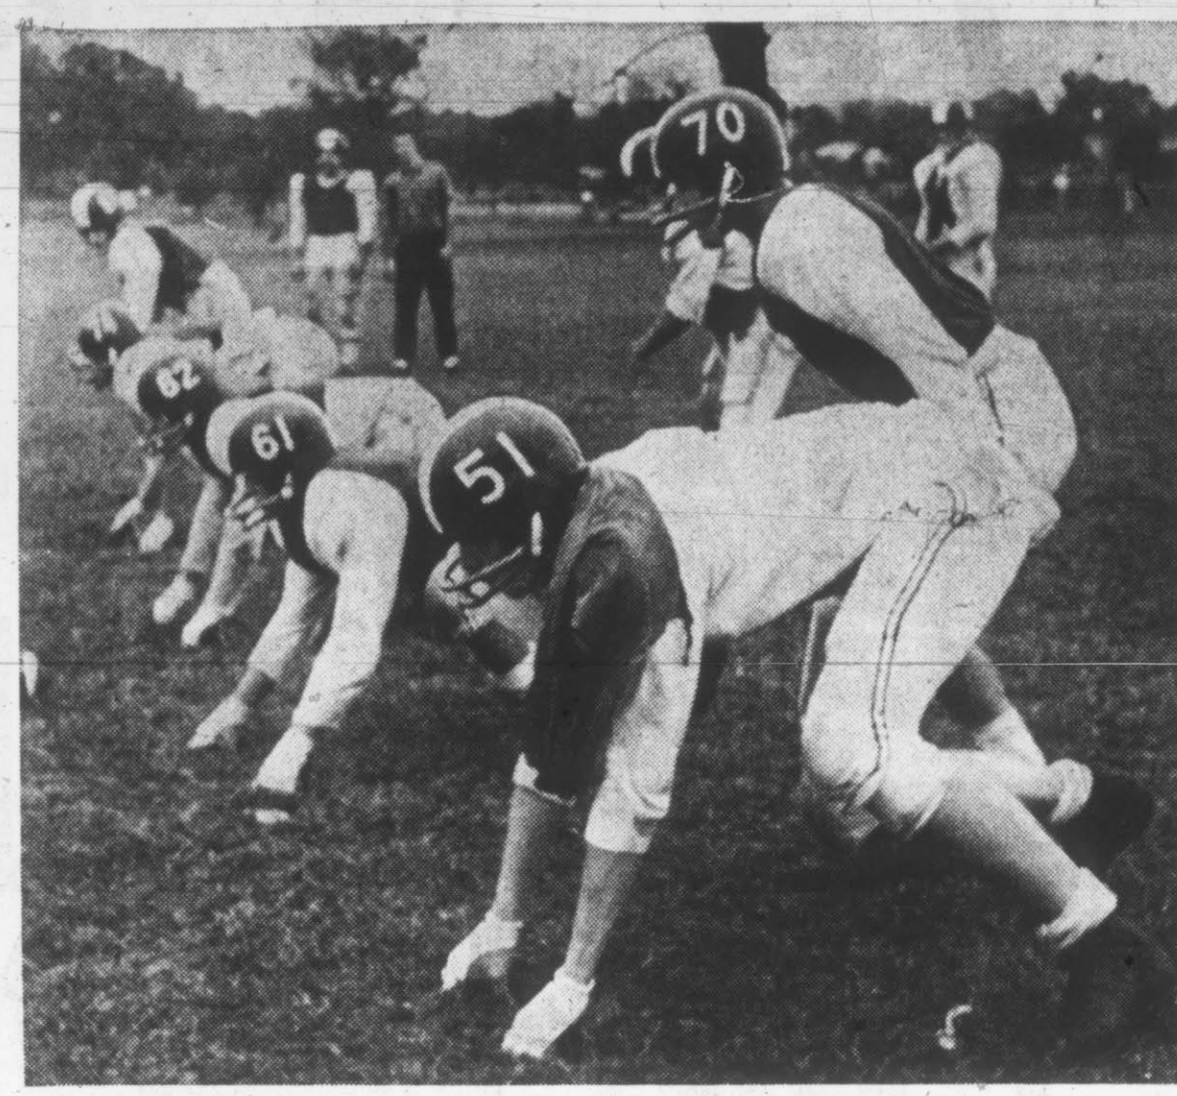

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Jim Camp still insists his George Washington Colonials are contenders for the Southern Conference football title, but they'll have to prove it Saturday to Virginia Military Institute's defending champion Keydets.

The Colonials and Keydets will tangle in the first college game to be played in the District of Columbia's new $22.5 million stadium.

After taking a 34-10 drubbing from the Keydets last year, the Colonials won five straight games inside the conference until they PHANTOM LINE . . . during a hard defensive practice session Tuesday. Going down the line the players are Rodney Knowles (51), Rommie Brock (70), Russell Fields (61), George VanNortwick (62), Ronnie Williams (74), and Jack Foley on the far end.

NEW YORK (AP)—Menaced by threat of rain, the World Series is scheduled to start today with the power-packed New York Yankees reigning solid favorites over the Cincinnati Reds despite Yankee Mickey Mantle's doubtful status.

The Weather Bureau said a soaking rain which fell all Tuesday might taper off by game time—at noon, EST—but there was a possibility the showers would continue until late in the day.

A postponement would push the opener back a day to Thursday and be a big help to Yankee Manager Ralph Houk, who then might be certain of the services of the ailing Mantle.

With, or without Mantle—recovering from surgery on an abscess on his right hip—the Yankees rule a 12-5 choice over the National League champion Reds, who have quiet confidence they can repeat the Pittsburgh Pirates' 1960 series upset of the favored Yankees in seven games.

Yankee Stadium for the opener which will be telecast and broadcast nationally (NBC).

The pitching opponents will be lefties—Yankee Whitey Ford, the majors' top winner with a 25-4 record, versus Cincinnati's Jim O'Toole, who won his last eight decisions for a 19-9 record.

The Reds have been in the big town too days, but most of the news has been about Roger (61-homer) Maris, the lame Mantle and Casey Stengel ex-Yankee manager who now bosses the new New York Mets.

That's the way Cincinnati Manager Fred Hutchinson and his collection of admitted "rejects" like it. The Reds opened the season as 60-1 National League pennant possibilities. They copied the flag by winning while everybody else wondered how they could do it—without a bangup catcher or the hallowed formula of strength through the middle, except Vada Pinson in center.

While Houk went to great lengths to inform sports writers how the Yankees scrutinized scouting reports on the Reds, Hutchinson simply said, "We went over the Yankee lineup, it was just a routine thing you do for a World Series—we know the job we have to do and we'll try to do it."

A great deal of confusion existed over the condition of Mantle, who said he felt improved but was uncertain he could play. Houk listed two starting lineups — one with Mantle, who slammed 54 homers batting cleanup behind Maris, and the other without Mantle, installing catcher Elston Howard as cleanup man, shifting Maris from right to Mantle's centerfield spot and placing Hector Lopez in right.

reil Johnson, who hurt his side in batting practice last Friday, would be his starting catcher. Johnson said he was ready to play. If he can't, Jerry Zimmerman will catch.

Cincinnati's hopes admittedly rest in Frank Robinson, a .323 hitter with 37 home runs, and fleet Pinson, who has a .343 batting mark and was a key man in the Reds' late pennant drive.

The wary Houk, however, commented: "Those two guys didn't win the pennant for Cincinnati alone. There are guys behind the scene who got the job done for them."

Hutchinson is gambling heavily on O'Toole, who pitched 23 innings for Cincinnati and did not allow a single home run over his last 101 innings covering 16 games. Only three left-handed batters hit homers against him all season.

Maris was coy in answering questions about his chances of clouting any homers off O'Toole. "I never battled against him before," said the poker-faced Yankee. "I understand O'Toole is a tough thrower. We'll just have to wait and see what happens."

Practice Briefs East Carolina

Coach Jack Boone said today that he ran the Pirates through a rough workout Tuesday with a great deal of emphasis on offense and especially the passing game.

Physically, the team is in good shape, according to the Buc mentor. The only major injury is James McDiarmid who stepped on his own foot, cracking three bones which will probably keep him out for the rest of the season.

Tuesday also saw the Pirate eleven punting under pressure with some work on field goals. Bob Muldrow was doing most of the kicking on the practice field for the first unit. Toward the end of the practice session, the boys saw some field work and general conditioning drills.

Today will be another rough session with a great deal of time spent on pass protection and pass defense. For Thursday, Boone said he plans to have mostly a review day on both offense and defense and check out the passing game. Also some time will be devoted to kickoffs and kickoff returns.

Rose High

Coach Bud Phillips worked most of Tuesday on defense with the second unit running the offense. The boys looked about as sharp as they have all year during scrimmages.

Both the first string defense and the second string offense were hitting hard and running fast. Linemen who looked especially good yesterday were Jack Foley, Rodney Knowles, William Allen, Russell Fields and Rommie Brock.

Wooten and Gorman also rank one-two among the top passing leaders. Gorman, in that department, has completed 23 of 45 passes for 240 yards and three touchdowns. Wooten has completed 17 of 41 attempts for 223 yards and two touchdowns.

Eppes Going To Kinston Friday

The C. M. Eppes Bulldogs travel to Kinston Friday for an 8 p.m. contest with the Atkins High School eleven.

The Bulldogs lineup will be senior Jesse Holiday and junior Nathan Cromwell handling the tackle spots, junior James Green and sophomore Bobby Brown in the guard positions, and junior Alton Harris will take care of one of the end spots. There is a strong possibility that freshman Alton Daniels will be on the other end, but that is not definite yet.

Atkins High School has a 2-2-1 record so far and the Bulldogs are determined to stop them Friday night. The offensive team has been drilling on new plays this week and today an hour scrimmage session was supposed to take up most of the practice session.

DUKE TEAMS LEAD

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Duke University has the best record for the eight years of league football competition since the Atlantic Coast Conference was formed. Bill Murray's teams show a 31-8-1 record for .788 percent. Clemson has the best all games' mark, 52-27-1 for .656.

Three EC Men Holding Lead

Tom Michel, an East Carolina freshman, is the top scorer in the Carolinas Conference's first compilation of statistics. He has four touchdowns for 24 points to his credit.

As far as punting is concerned, Gene Isenhour, another Pirate frosh, is the No. 1 punter in the conference with an average of 43 yards per kick.

Tommy Matthews, East Carolina halfback, also claims individual leadership as No. 1 rusher. Matthews has picked up 201 yards on the ground. Mike Hughes, Newberry fullback, is second with 175 yards.

The offense leader in the conference is Tom Gorman, Newberry's sophomore quarterback from Plainfield, N. J. He was a leader in Newberry's surprise 18-14 triumph over Lenoir Rhyne last Saturday. Gorman has run and passed for a total of 372 yards, but that is only two yards more than the total of 370 compiled by Elon's George Wooten.

Wooten and Gorman also rank one-two among the top passing leaders. Gorman, in that department, has completed 23 of 45 passes for 240 yards and three touchdowns. Wooten has completed 17 of 41 attempts for 223 yards and two touchdowns.

College Football Picks

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—There will be a full schedule of college football games this weekend despite the World Series. If you get too excited about the baseball, don't worry. Here are your football winners!!!

Last week, 32 right, 15 wrong for '61. Season's average, 74%.

Iowa over Southern California: This will occupy your TV screen after the Series game. Larry Ferguson, Hawkeye speedster, is injured but the Iowans still have too much for the once mighty Trojans.

Mississippi over Florida State: The Mississippians, like the river, just keep rolling along.

Georgia Tech over Louisiana State: a night contest. But the darkness won't hide Stan Gann's cleverness at quarterback for the Engineers.

Texas over Washington State: With ease.

Michigan State over Stanford: Stanford will furnish most of the excitement, but Michigan State provides the heavyweight tackles who will control the scoring.

Syracuse over Maryland: The Orangemen from New York could be in trouble if Ernie Davis hasn't completely recovered from his hurts.

Ohio State over UCLA: The Buckeyes' stingy defense will decide this struggle between the leaders of two powerful conferences.

Michigan over Army: The Cadets have given up their lonely end offense. They'll also give up the decision in this one.

Elsewhere:

Purdue over Notre Dame; Kansas over Colorado; Missouri over California; Texas Christian over Arkansas.

Friday night

Penn State over Boston University, Florida over Tulane, Miami over Navy.

Saturday

East: Holy Cross at Buffalo, Colgate over Bucknell, Columbia over Princeton, Cornell over Harvard, Villanova over Massachusetts, Dartmouth over Pennsylvania, Rutgers over Connecticut, Yale over Brown.

South: Auburn over Kentucky, The Citadel over Richmond, Duke over Wake Forest, George Washington over Virginia Military, Georgia over South Carolina, North Carolina over Clemson, Tennessee over Mississippi State, North Carolina State over Virginia, Virginia Tech over West Virginia.

Midwest: Kansas over Colorado, Northwestern over Illinois, Wisconsin over Indiana, Nebraska over Kansas State, Cincinnati over Xavier, Minnesota over Oregon, Oklahoma State over Tulsa, Oklahoma over Iowa State.

Far West: Utah over Arizona State, Brigham Young over Montana, Texas Western over New Mexico, Oregon State over Idaho, Washington over Pittsburgh, Wyoming over Utah State.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR AP Newsfeatures

The experience of adding a new dimension—direct sound—to 8mm home movies is one that I tried recently and the results are quite credible. The actual voices of my family and my mother, in addition to their likenesses, can only prove more valuable as time goes by and changes take place. Although it is more than a year since its introduction, the Fairchild Cinephonic Eight is still the only 8mm movie camera containing a built-in sound system enabling it to record both sight and sound simultaneously. It makes possible an exciting new home movie library of children's birthday parties, baby's first words, family gatherings, weddings, confirmations, graduations and Christmas celebrations in which the participants are heard as well as seen.

slip-in, slip-out cord very quickly. During rehearsals, forgetting that earphones were clamped on my head, I'd dart over to adjust the mike or position a subject. If the wire weren't made to come apart easily, I'd have pulled the camera over. By pressing a button on the camera, the photographer hears the sound and regulates the volume with a thumb-control knob until the level is just right. Then he presses the shooting button for the sound film take. I found it takes quite a few rehearsals for people to get over mike fright and to talk without giggles or sudden lapses or memory. By assuring them it was only a dry run, they were apt to relax and be more natural. Often, I actually shot during a rehearsal.

Plan for Sound I found that the addition of sound requires a bit more planning and work than shooting movies alone. It also helps if an assistant is available to take care of the microphone and to relay signals from the photographer or to act as an announcer for certain scenes.

Shoot During Rehearsal I found it takes quite a few rehearsals for people to get over mike fright and to talk without giggles or sudden lapses or memory. By assuring them it was only a dry run, they were apt to relax and be more natural. Often, I actually shot during a rehearsal.

The camera, which weighs about 4 1/2 pounds, can be hand-held but since all movies are steadier when the camera is firmly anchored and since it gives the hands more freedom to manipulate the volume control, I put it on a tripod. The microphone, with a 15-foot-wire radius, plugs into the camera and is quite sensitive.

The photographer monitors all sound by wearing earphones which also plug into the camera through a two-foot, easily-detachable cord. I discovered the reason for the for I found that subjects tightened up when I announced: "This is the take."

To make editing easier later, it is helpful to shoot a couple of feet of film both before and after the sound begins and ends. That's because the sound is recorded about 52 frames away from the picture itself.

The camera's nickel cadmium battery should be charged the night before a shooting session is scheduled. This is merely a matter of plugging the charger, which comes with the camera outfit, into an electric outlet. The camera should be checked, with the cover off, to make sure the rewind mechanism is operating and that the proper turret lens is in position over the shutter.

The 50-foot roll of soundstriped color film must be carefully loaded, in subdued light, according to directions to provide good sound and to prevent jam-ups. When it is turned over and run through again, it gives 100 feet of audible as well as visual memories.

Seven New Teachers For Chicod School

By LINDA EVANS

CHICOD—Chicod High School has opened its 1961-62 school term with a total of seven new teachers, two of them in permanent positions here.

Linda Evans and Graham Mills; most talented — Mary Smith and Jacky Dixon; most studious — Carolyn Stokes and Graham Mills.

Mrs. Annie M. Bunch has joined the Chicod staff as librarian. Miss Jean Toier has assumed her duties here as third grade teacher.

Quietest—Maxine Mills and Gerald McGowan; best looking — Betsy Smith and Billy Elks; best personality — Jackie Dixon and Ephraigm Smith; friendliest — Marty Dixon and Ephraigm Smith; most courteous — Carolyn Buck and Lavern Mills; and most popular — Mary Smith and Ephraigm Smith.

Five of the new teacher faces at Chicod are student teachers assigned here from East Carolina College in Greenville.

Class mascots for the Seniors were also elected at the same class meeting. Chosen by mascot were Charles Ray Harris, son of Mrs. Mary Ellen Harris. The girl chosen was Donna Lynn Bunch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bunch of Goldsboro.

Included are Mrs. Alice Oglesby of Winterville and Miss Elizabeth Wilson of Mt. Olive in the home economics department, under the supervision of Mrs. Betty Turner.

Library Club Chicod High has revived its Library Club under the supervision of the school's new librarian, Mrs. Annie M. Bunch.

Members of the club have met and elected for the 1961-62 school term the following officers: Patricia Evans, president; Marty Dixon, vice president; Jeannette Gardner, secretary-treasurer; and Dorothy Purser, reporter.

Chicod Seniors have been the center of bustling activity, typical of the Senior year.

Prior to the beginning of the term, the class of '62 made an educational tour of Washington, D. C. and New York.

Pictures have been made and ordered; diplomas, caps and gowns have been ordered and reserved; and the arrival of Chicod High School class rings is anticipated.

FHA Chicod's chapter of the Future Homemakers of America has completed plans to initiate its new members next week.

Plans include requirements for the initiates to perform special duties during the week, climaxed by the individual initiation program, Friday.

Following the individual initiation, FHA officers will conduct an official initiation ceremony. Following the ceremony, the new FHA members will be treated to a dinner and recreation.

Sometimes They Will Bite Lures

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—The channel catfish, prized for the table if not admired for his looks, will eat almost anything.

The bewhiskered fish have been caught in Florida on white laundry soap, sliced-up frankfurters, coagulated blood, aged cheese, marshmallows, kernels of corn, chicken entrails, chunks of beef heart and balls of cornbread sweetened with molasses. They'll bite the usual worms, minnows and artificial lures, too.

Nuclear Engine Slated For Flight In 5 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States aims to have a rocket with a nuclear engine ready for flight testing in about five years, a U.S. space official said today.

Nuclear propulsion, he said, is "necessary for manned interplanetary flights."

The official, Harold B. Finger, assistant director for nuclear applications for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, made his remarks in a paper prepared for delivery before the International Astronautical Congress.

He said NASA and the Atomic Energy Commission have been investigating flight-testing methods in a program known as RIFT for "reactor in flight test."

"Some time after the beginning of 1962, an industrial contractor will begin development activities on a RIFT-vehicle to meet the objectives of achieving flight testing in the 1966-67 time period," Finger said.

Plans call for launching the nuclear rocket on a short-range ballistic flight from Cape Canaveral, Fla. It would be lifted by a Saturn-type first stage.

After the initial RIFT flights, said Finger, other tests will be made involving:

1. Missions in which the vehicle will attain sufficient speed to leave the earth's gravitational field and go into orbit around the sun.

2. Flights in which the reactor is started up after it is in orbit around the earth.

Finger said present rocket engines, which produce thrust from energy liberated in a combustion process, are inadequate for extensive manned space missions.

If only chemical propulsion were used, he said, it would be necessary to place a spacecraft weighing 9 million pounds in orbit around the earth in order to conduct a manned flight to Mars.

Hot Problem For Destroyer Crew

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The U. S. destroyer Jonas Ingram had a hot problem to handle when it touched the Seychelles Islands near Madagascar on a good will tour.

Hundreds of barefoot natives came aboard as guests—and the steel decks were scorching hot from the sun. The Navy solved the problem by having the visitors dash from one shaded spot to another.

Lost One, At The Earlier Stop

MIAMI (AP)—The teller at a Miami bank's drive-in window offered a woman customer four lollipops for her children, but the woman said she needed five. "I see only four," replied the teller. The woman quickly counted noses. "Oh, my golly. I must have left one of them at the swimming pool," she exclaimed.

NEW YORK (AP)—Rails paced a stock market rally in fairly active trading early this afternoon. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.80 at 254.30 with industrials up 2.00, falls up 2.00 and utilities up .60. Gains of fractions to a point or so among key stocks far outnumbered losers. The carriers topped their August peak in the Dow Jones fall average. Motors cleared up early spottiness based on the nationwide strike against Ford and these issues moved ahead unananimously. Tobacco, chemicals, electrical equipments, utilities and retailers also advanced, the latter helped by Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges' prediction of a substantial pickup in retail sales. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon rose 5.38 to 704.04.

Despite Obstacles, Club To Push 'Stay-In-School'

Greenville Optimists Monday heard some disappointing news about the latest youth improvement project—local support for a program designed to curb high school drop-outs, endorsed by President Kennedy, Gov. Sanford and Optimist International.

E. R. (Pete) Carraway, co-chairman of the local club's Boys Work Committee, reported to the club that the latest local Optimist project—support of the nationwide "Stay-In-School" program—has met with unforeseen obstacles. He assured the Optimists, however, the committee's efforts will continue and it will further investigate the arisen problems in more detail.

Greenville Optimists have adopted the "Stay-In-School" program along with other Optimist clubs throughout the state and nation in an effort to trim a high-percentage figure of high school drop-outs before graduation. Figures for North Carolina indicate that only half of this year's Tar Heel first graders will receive high school diplomas 12 years from now.

Five members of the Greenville Optimist Club were scheduled to visit Wilson's club tonight along with members of other Optimist clubs throughout Zone Nine.

Plans for tonight's Wilson trip were made at Monday's meeting that also heard a report from another local five-member delegation that visited Rocky Mount's Optimist Club last week.

Rudolph Alexander, an Optimist and Pitt County District executive, in an address to the membership urged Optimists to consider carefully the local move to establish a YMCA in Greenville.

He discussed the youth opportunities already existent in Pitt County and in Greenville, through Greenville's Recreation Department and the Pitt District Scout program.

He urged adequate support for existing youth development facilities before undertaking support of a new one.
